Two Crew Members and Reputed Owner are Aboard; Tale Of Drowning Of Vessel's Skipper Told

(By Associated Press)
CAPE MAY, N. J., Apr. 4.—The auxiliary schooner yacht, Nomad, found drifting off Cape May with two crew members and the reputed owner aboard, was in the hands of customs and internal revenue officers tonight while coast guardsmen investigated the reported drowning of the vessel's captain. The skipper was John C. Schofield, Cape May.

The craft, flying the pennant of the New York Yacht club, was said to have been manned by men who had been drinking.

Customs officials said Leland H. Ross, New York, the owner, was found below a short time after the two members of the crew were locked up in the brig here.

The crew men gave their names as Richard J. French Steward, and Henry G. Bush, of New York. They declared Captain Schofield was drowned during heavy seas Saturday. No explanation could be given for the absence of the ship's log.

Coast guardsmen said they found the crew in a stupor in the saloon with forty bottles of liquor about them.

Lubbock's Advantages As Market Told In Hearing

Santa Fe Witnesses
Testify Thursday
In Rail Plea

MOTOR car service between Lubbock and Lovington, N. M., within two years after completion of the Santa Fe's proposed extension, from Seagraves, if traffic anticipated will warrant, was pictured yesterday afternoon by J. A. Gillies, superintendent of the Slaton division of the Santa Fe, when testifying before Examiner H. C. Davis, of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The distance between Lubbock and Lovington, over the proposed extension, Gillies related, would be 110 miles. From the Lovington junction, located about 12 miles east of that city, the distance down to the end of the route, at Henry, would be 43.5 miles.

Exhibits Are Voluminous
A voluminous amount of rates on various commodities, with data as to train schedules, freight schedules, into and out of Lovington, in connection with existing routes at Lubbock, Sweetwater and all other points of connection, were presented as exhibits by Gillies.

The day was principally a Santa Fe day, its officials giving the feature testimony, although intervenors from Amarillo, Lubbock, Seagraves and Brownfield, entered pleas in behalf of the Santa Fe extension, outside of one of them, not to be noted about the Santa Fe officials' testimony was the thoroughness in which they had evidently gone into preparing for the hearing.

Rainstorms Visit South Plains Area

The South Plains section was visited by another general downpour last night and early this morning, according to telephone advice received by the Morning Avalanche from various points over the area.

An unusual amount of electrical disturbances accompanied the rain, local telephone operators reporting wires "out of order" on several circuits.

Lamesa, Tahoka and Brownfield all reported rains lasting for approximately two hours. Plainview, to the north had a good fall while Floydada territory also had a fair rain. Rails and Crosbytown each were included in the path of the light storm.

(By Associated Press)
BATON ROUGE, La., April 4.—The Louisiana house of representatives, sitting in impeachment judgment on Governor Huey P. Long, sought by sharp quizzing today to learn what became of $6,000 drawn from the state treasury by the young executive for entertainment of the governors conference in New Orleans last November.

Long's accusers charged in the impeachment resolution that he diverted part of this fund for private use, and never had made an accounting.

Interested In Automobile

Automobile salesman testified that the day after he drew the money from the bank he became interested in a new automobile and a few days later paid the garage $1,300 in twenty dollar bills and turned in his used car for a new machine.

While the impeachment hearing was in progress cohorts of the governor summoned to Baton Rouge for an all day rally, swarmed about the capitol and the streets, cheered listened to oratorical orators and cheered the appearance of the governor tonight at a mass meeting. He defended his record in a hot address.

Loses One Supporter

The governor lost a supporter when Representative W. H. Bennett on a point of personal privilege declared he had been convinced that Long had made the statement "that he had bought and paid for me as he would a sack of potatoes," and for that reason he (Bennett) was severing all relations with the governor, resigning from his office as chief enforcement officer of the highway commission.

Several witnesses yesterday testified they had heard the governor

Armistice Declared Last Night As Rail Officials Gather Around Banquet Table; Lubbock Is Praised

An armistice was declared. Hard-fighting fighters of the battle of rates, differentials, tonnage and what have you, ceased their trade of bomb-throwing into opposing camps; uncovered their helmeted heads and embraced the dove of peace in the form of this broadsword and delft for a spell, in neighborhoods of the banquet table, at the Lubbock Hotel last evening, in the self-same chamber which has been the scene of combat since Monday morning.

So "flushed" were the more than 70 who partook of the Lubbock chamber of commerce's invitation to the banquet, that they were embued with the spirit of Lubbock and testified from all sides involved that they would be exceedingly desirous for some sort of a hearing or railroad applications for permits to extend numerous branches to be held in this city at least once every year.

Call Of Stream Affects Hoover

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The call of the trout streams is becoming clear to President Hoover these spring days.

Like many anglers, Hoover is devoting odd minutes to inspections of his tackle and preparations for the season's first fishing foray. Pull on his boots and come to conclusions with his wary prey.

In the meanwhile, the chief executive is deciding which of his two fishing preserves he will visit, the one on the Rapidan river in Virginia, or the other in Maryland, near Frederick.

Steps were taken at the White House today to see that there is no repetition of the lengthy reception line that shook hands with the President yesterday. The line numbered 1,775 persons, consumed more than 40 minutes and left the muscles of Hoover's hand so sore that he could not write comfortably for several hours.

The East Texas delegation will ask the committee for funds to assist in preserving East Texas forests and to combat fires in that section of the state.

Favoritism Being Shown
To Large Interests In Water Matters In State

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, April 4.—Declaring he is "tired of favoritism being shown to the big power companies," Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman, today said that he wished John A. Norris, chairman of the state board of water engineers, would "quit bowing to the large interests and show some interest in the farmers and ordinary citizens."

Asked what he would do about a suggestion that Norris resign, made by Woodward at San Angelo recently, the Senator said he would wait to see what the Governor did.

To Bring Bills Again
Woodward had a conference with Governor Moody today. He said he would reintroduce his bills fixing priority water rights in the special session provided the Governor submitted the subject.

Washington Astir Over Dispute In Mrs. Gann's Rank

Sister's Position At Social Functions

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 4.—Perplexed society matrons were unhappy arbiters tonight in the dispute between Vice President Curtis and his sister, Mrs. Gann, as to where the state department was to be held.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, shall sit at official dinners.

The vice president and Mrs. Gann are going ahead with their engagements while the new secretary of state, Henry L. Stimson, prepares the answer to the protest of Curtis Kellogg that Mrs. Gann rank behind the wives of the foreign diplomats at official dinners.

Abide by Decisions

The vice president intends meanwhile to abide by the decisions of his hosts at any dinner he attends. But the hosts are wondering whether to heed Mr. Curtis's strong protest against the Kellogg ruling or to abide by the decision now in the state records.

While society tongues wagged over the dilemma arising from the GORDON, Neb., April 4.—The body of Melvin Reeves, 6, lost in a snow storm near here three weeks ago, was found tonight by a neighbor four miles south of the Reeves ranch.

Earlier in the day a party of high school pupils had organized a posse to look for the boy.

On March 12, the boy had gone to a pasture in search of a lost mitten. He never returned. Hundreds of men, including 200 Indians from the Pine Ridge reservation, had searched days for the boy. Snow ten feet deep filled ravines and canyons on the day the child was lost.

Secretary Wilbur Presents Oil View

President's Policy Contemplates Disallowance Of Unapproved Permits; Economic Demand Cited

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 4.—Secretary Wilbur in answering a committee of attorneys representing a group of oil companies said today that the president's oil conservation policy contemplates the disallowance of unapproved permits for drilling on the public domain.

The attorneys had placed before the interior department a request for the annulment of the secretary's orders putting in effect President Hoover's oil conservation policy. They questioned the justice of disallowing all pending applications without first investigating the circumstances of each.

Long Charges

make the statement but Bennett read a signed denial from him. Bennett said he was moved to act by the refusal of the governor to issue a sworn statement.

Theodore Kaufman, assistant cashier of the Union Bank and Trust Company of Baton Rouge, testified he had paid Miss A. J. Grojean, secretary to Governor Long, $5,000 in twenty dollar bills as a check from the state board of liquidation made out to, and endorsed by Governor Long. The check he said, was dated November 27 and marked "for entertainment of Governors."

Discussed Car's Purchase
Jack Whitaker of a Baton Rouge automobile agency said the governor called him November 23 and discussed the purchase of a machine.

"On November 30," he said, "the governor came to the garage and bought a car and told us to come by tomorrow and get a check. Our agent went to the governor's office and was given sixty five twenty dollar bills and $43.13 in change."

"The governor had them put a sign on the car saying 'executive department, not state property,' Whitaker said.

The cashier declined to testify as to whether the governor had a safety deposit box in his bank or kept cash in it.

Representative Leonard Sayes, struck with a pair of brass knuckles during a fist fight in the house last week, testified that last July 4, the day after the legislature had eliminated ten thousand dollars from an appropriation for the purchase of a car for the governor, Governor Long told him he would get it any way.

"The conversation took place in Shreveport, while we were having a little beer," the representative said. "The governor said: 'you damned suckers would not give me $10,000 for a car but I will get the car just the same.'"

Revolution

Federal cavalry came up after a long chase.

Leaders Abandon Troops
Abandoned by their leaders, the insurgents made a desperate stand against the federal cavalry under General Anacleto Lopez, forming a line at right angles to the railroad and firing from the rear shelter of the stalled train.

Federal cavalry charged in to the very windows of the cars, where some of their dead later were found, and firing machine guns, rifles and automatics, moved down the rebels. Every window of General Escobar's staff car was smashed.

Rebel casualties were nearly all in the infantry, the cavalry having escaped.

About 3,000 Left
Insurgent forces left between La Reforma and Chihuahua City were estimated at about 3,000.

Reports from rebel headquarters at Santa Rosalia and Juarez conflicted with dispatches from La Reforma. They described a rebel counter attack at Jimenez but this was thought to refer to events which happened several days earlier.

General Almazan gave the main body of his troops a rest at La Reforma, while his cavalry pursued rebel cavalry northwards in an effort to force another battle.

"Extermination" To Continue
Federal Generalissimo Calles declared that his campaign of "extermination" would continue.

The federalists were so sure that danger in the north was over that 5,000 soldiers were diverted to combat so-called religious insurgents in the states of Jalisco and Guanajuato.

General Cardenas, on the west coast, reported to Mexico City that his infantry was enroute to La Cruz to meet up to Quila, nearer Chihuahua. His cavalry already has advanced, and the rebel army was reported in retreat.

At Naco, Sonora, a federal airplane was brought down by rebels and the aviators killed. An attack on the beleaguered federal garrison did not materialize.

Dr. Frisbie Is Given Acquittal

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., April 4. (AP)—District Judge Miller Helmick tonight instructed a jury to return a verdict of acquittal in favor of Dr. Evelyn Frisbie, but ruled that Miss Bertha Lips, former superintendent of the New Mexico Blind Welfare Home, would have to stand trial for the death of Helen Hawkey, 18, inmate of the home.

Dr. Frisbie was medical adviser at the home, and the two women were charged jointly with second degree murder and manslaughter for the death of Miss Hawkey last January. The state charges that the girl died from a lack of food and water and injections of "twilight sleep."

Lubbock And Amarillo Hold Logical Market Centers Of Disputed Section

The Amarillo branch of this company was the largest of its kind in West Texas, and that its sales for four years, at least, had exceeded that of any other branch of the I. H. C. in the United States. Last year's volume was $5,500,000.

Amarillo Men Testifying
S. J. Cole, traffic manager of the Amarillo chamber of commerce, exhibited much data showing that city's claim as a wholesale and jobbing center, serving eastern New Mexico for many years and located strategically to continue this service.

R. L. Thompson, wholesale druggist, testified in much the same vein. Other Santa Fe officials to be heard yesterday morning were M. C. Blanchard, chief engineer, and J. W. Stewart, chief locating engineer. It was their testimony that revealed the fact that the line from Seagraves to Lovington would be the main line, with that running from the Lovington junction down to the oil area as the branch line. The first Lubbock witness to testify was Harry E. Blocker, cotton man, who evidenced familiarity with cotton markets of the southwest and with movements of cotton produced on the Plains and vicinity from the field to market.

He said the route of the Santa Fe extension was adaptable and suitable to cotton production and that, as the railroad would enter the center of that part of Lea county in which the land is most suitable for agriculture, the Santa Fe would be far the best to serve that section.

Tells of Possibilities
Blocker told of the possibilities of greatly increasing the cotton production on the extension. "As the ultimate market for cotton is Europe," he said, "it is necessary that rail transportation be available at or near the point of production, in order to reach those markets."

The section to be traversed by the proposed extension of the Texas and New Mexico railway, he testified, was mostly not adaptable to cotton production, except that within the immediate vicinity of Lovington, Lea county, in 1923, produced 392 bales of cotton.

Lubbock, offering the best cotton market west of Fort Worth, with two compresses that possess ample storage and warehouse facilities, Blocker gave as the big reason favoring the Santa Fe.

Has Good Rate
Lubbock enjoys the lowest insurance rate of any interior cotton center, excepting Dallas, in the southwest. Blocker related, and compared this city's exceedingly fine facilities with those not nearly so well equipped along the line of the Texas and Pacific, between Fort Worth and El Paso, as another important reason why cotton produced in southeastern New Mexico would naturally move through Lubbock.

There are 72 bidders for cotton here and this city has the only full time cotton exchange of the entire Plains section. With the permit granted the T. and N. M. and denial the Santa Fe, it would not be possible to handle the cotton produced in Lea county to a satisfactory degree, nor would the T. and N. M. aid materially in developing cotton production in Lea county.

Fred DeCoets, of Amarillo, district manager for the manufacture of oil field storage tanks, testified the Santa Fe would serve his road and the area to be traversed better than the other line. Tonnage his firm would originate, with production of any considerable extent in Lea county, he said, would be 10 tons per well, and aggregate around 200 carloads a year.

Seagraves Man Testifies
C. M. Armstrong, banker and ranchman, of Seagraves, was the second Santa Fe witness for the afternoon, stating that all commodities in and out of Lea county came from Seagraves. In 1923 there were 1,049,400 pounds of all character of shipment received at Seagraves on local freight shipments and 60 per cent of this was destined for Lea county. Sixty-six per cent of that going into the county originated at Lubbock and other Plains country market centers.

In 1923, Armstrong testified, out of 711 carloads of cattle shipped from Seagraves, 97 per cent of it went north and east, only 27 cars going to Fort Worth. "To this statement," he said, "the Texas and New Mexico offered stiff arguments to try and show that the Fort Worth market was discriminated against by Santa Fe point buyers."

Cut Cattle Talk Short
The cattle talk part of yesterday afternoon's session evidently bored Examiner Davis, because of its being repetition of arguments prevailing earlier in the hearing, that he asked it be cut short.

Other witnesses for the Santa Fe offered evidence to show that various oil field supplies, moving from manufacturer to distributor, naturally originate north and east and is better hauled via Lubbock.

J. E. Shelton, secretary of the Brownfield chamber of commerce, declared that before Lovington had a bank, 80 per cent of the banking of Lea county obtained at Seagraves and Brownfield. He said the county generally traded normally with Lubbock and points between it and Lovington.

Explains Crop Decrease
"I want to correct an impression left here by Mr. Blocker's testimony about why Terry county cotton crop was less the last two years," Shelton said. "In 1927 it was the cotton worm, and in 1928 too much rain and the boll worms eat it up. Mr. Blocker said he thought it was the drought. We haven't had any. And, also, I want to say that we claim to be the largest corn-raising country in all West Texas."

J. C. Sartin, of Seagraves, having a 12-section ranch in Lea county, northeast of Lovington, testified the Seagraves station logically shipping point for the cotton under his supervision. He introduced voluminous data on rates and schedules, which were not cross-examined, as the close of the afternoon's session came before he completed giving all of them to the examiner as evidence in the case.

Along evidence he offered were a plan of operation of the extension over the first five years; the motor car to be operated between Lubbock and Lovington; schedules between Lovington and Texas points, via Santa Fe, and from Sweetwater and T. P. points, on the T. and N. M. and the T. P. lines combinations; the time used in interchange of shipments at Sweetwater, from the T. P. to the Santa Fe, and vice versa; merchandise schedules from Dallas and Fort Worth to Lovington via T. P. to Sweetwater and T. P. and S. F. to Lovington; merchandise schedules from Galveston, Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth, to Lovington via Santa Fe lines; Santa Fe schedules from Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis, to Lovington; from Amarillo to Lovington via Santa Fe, and vice versa; livestock shipments from Seagraves received there by the Santa Fe; movements of milk and cream from Seagraves by baggage car, on alternate months of 1923.

Today's sessions will undoubtedly hear much of Lubbock and its claims in intervention for the Santa Fe extension. It was hinted by H. C. Pipkin, Santa Fe attorney, yesterday afternoon, that a number of witnesses from Lovington and Lea county would testify in behalf of the Santa Fe. All Lea county witnesses, so far, have leaned toward the Texas and New Mexico railway's application. Although they have insisted they want and need both extensions, they uttered preferences for the T. and N. M.

The hearing will no doubt not be concluded before late Saturday.

criminated against for years and years, but these have been eliminated to some extent. The great Santa Fe system has come to us and aided us. We welcome them and glory in their achievements. We want more Santa Fe railroad miles. And we want the Texas and Pacific and every other railroad we can get to come and assist us.

"We want you to come and spend your summers with us in the Switzerland of America. We have 120,000 square miles of territory. Our population in 1910, when we became a state, was 250,000. Now it is grown to more than 400,000. There is more coal in San Juan county, than in the whole state of Pennsylvania, and only one railroad to serve it. We then utilized the hospitality of the New Mexico populace and urged that the great empire of West Texas and New Mexico be developed through individual efforts of all present."

Gets Lubbock Habit
I. C. C. Examiner H. C. Davis admitted that he was getting the Lubbock habit and said he had many fond recollections of the good time experienced here when in this city last year. "I would be glad to make this an annual affair. If the people over the country don't know about Lubbock, they're going to find out about it."

Hubert L. Allen, president of the Lubbock Board of City Development and Chamber of Commerce, presided at the banquet as toastmaster. There were present many officials of the Texas and Pacific, Texas and New Mexico, the Santa Fe, as well as intervenors in behalf of both applicants for the extension into southeastern New Mexico, attorneys and others interested in the hearing.

Mayor Woods Talks
Mayor Harley D. Woods, first to address the gathering, expressed gratification from this city of Lubbock to have the visitors and to have been honored with their presence here this week. City Commissioners J. H. Hankins and A. V. Weaver were introduced to the crowd, as was City Manager G. W. McCreary.

"The growth and development of Lubbock," Mayor Woods said, "is due to the plan of its citizens. We believe and practice the theory that cities do not grow—they are built. Cooperation of our citizenship is responsible for this city you see today having evolved from an inland village. We want you to forget about your arguments and figures and to spend a little time looking over our city before you leave."

B. Sherrod, former president of the B. C. D. reminded the visitors not to forget the aim of all concerned in building a great empire in West Texas and southeastern New Mexico. "We are interested in the development of all this great territory."

T. A. N. M. Man Has Praises
A. G. Wagner, engineer for the T. and N. M., introduced the Texas and Pacific aggregation, declaring that, as a speech maker, I am a complete washout. It's really a big pleasure and a mighty surprise to me to see this wonderful city in this country. It is an indication of what West Texas and all Texas and New Mexico is doing and is going to do."

H. C. Pipkin, Santa Fe attorney of Amarillo, introduced the Santa Fe men present, Lee F. English, general counsel of the road, from Chicago, stating, "I am experienced with Lubbock's hospitality and I suggest that each spring we hold just such a hearing as this one in this city, with Examiner Davis, Hugh Williams and the same principals, Pipkin and Bateman, and all of the present."

Pipkin said he felt at home in Lubbock always and complimented the wonderful spirit, as he said, that has ever been shown by this city's men. "From the time they started building a city out of an inland village, they have always worked together either for or against something. They have never been divided. At times they have worked adversely to Santa Fe interests, we have thought, but we appreciate their sincerity and know they appreciate ours, as we do those appearing on all sides in this hearing."

Luke Roberts, newspaper publisher, of Lovington, introduced those from his city and stated they were proud to number "our friends in Lubbock as among our very dear friends. The eyes of this section has long been on Lubbock. This city is the pride of this whole area, and we feel that you are our neighbors. We are proud of the publicity that Lea county is getting as a result of this hearing, and we want both railroads."

Other talks were made by W. M. Snyder, and Judge B. S. Eaves, of Lovington; I. C. Tilles, of Roswell; S. J. Cole, Amarillo; E. R. Tanner, El Paso; E. Moore, Oklahoma City; Wm. N. Baker, Amarillo; C. G. Staley, New Mexico state geologist—Byron C. Utecht, Fort Worth Star Telegram; Al Hill, Garnett, Reeves, Lubbock.

Modern Jason Sails With Crew Of Argonauts To Hunt For Golden Fleece; 25,000 Wild Sheep To Be Sheared

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The Avantache

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 4.—Harry Chenoweth, a modern Jason, has set forth in quest of the golden fleece.

With his band of Argonauts he sailed from here recently for Socorro island, 1,200 miles south in the Pacific, where 25,000 wild sheep await only the herdsman's shears to return a fleecy fortune.

There can be little doubt that the sheep are there. Other expeditions have seen them. The sheep, however, have eluded capture in the overgrowth that covers the island. Chenoweth and Captain Adolpho Sebastiao, of the Juan B. believe they have solved that problem, however. They have carried with them 15 miles of wire fence. With this will be built a corral, into which the sheep as they will want to be driven.

So simple. In fact, so simple that Chenoweth expects to return in late April with 25 tons of wool to throw on the American market. Other shipments will follow on the Juan B. and her sister ship the Betty B.

The Juan B. and Betty B. are old trading schooners. The Juan B. had an especially interesting career since the advent of prohibition.

Existence of sheep on Socorro has been an open secret for a long time. Years ago, George Bernier, local shipping man, sent an expedition there to investigate suitable possibilities of the old crater on the island, and incidentally to look over the sheep situation.

This expedition reported that the island is covered with thorny hard-wood brush which make pursuit of sheep very difficult. Chenoweth has been burned off, and he expects to drive sheep into the giant corral he will build.

Socorro is one of the six islands constituting the archipelago of Revillagigedo. The archipelago is 50 miles wide and 250 miles long. It lies 250 miles west of Manzanilla and 250 miles south of the tip of Lower California.

Thirty-eight men have accompanied Chenoweth on his journey and all hope to add materially to their present wealth by shearing fortunes from the backs of wild sheep.

SARGON BROUGHT HEALTH; GAINS 14 POUNDS, HE SAYS

"I gained fourteen pounds on three bottles of Sargon. It masterfully cured my ailments and kept me on the job. I never felt better in my life than 'go now,' said

S. U. BLAKELY, well known resident of 1123 Laurel St., Beaumont, recently.

"Before I started on Sargon I was so weak and rundown that many days I had to stay at home and let my work go. I had a bad case of chronic indigestion and after eating I suffered so much from gas pains, dizziness, heart palpitation and smothering spells that I dreaded to see mealtime come. I lost weight rapidly and felt exhausted from under-nourishment.

"Biliousness and constipation added to my suffering and my kidneys were so badly disordered that there was a hard pain across the small of my back and I had to get up several times every night. This broke into my sleep and brought on extreme nervousness.

"The medicine I took didn't help me, and I heard so many of my neighbors praising Sargon I decided to try it. Now, I too, want to help spread the good news to other sufferers. Sargon helped me from the first. I began to eat big, wholesome meals without a bit of trouble afterward. The pain in my back disappeared and I never have to get up at night now. Sargon Soft Mass Pills ended every trace of constipation and biliousness. My nerves are steady, I have gained weight, and I feel as well as I can to realize I was ever in the bad shape I was. Sargon deserves all the praise I can give it."

Sargon may be obtained in Lubbock from City Drug Stores; and in station from the City Drug Store.

Nationalists Win In Chinese Battle

First Serious Clash Between Forces Results In Victory For Government; Martial Law In Hankow

(By Associated Press) HANKOW, China, April 4.—The nationalist government was victorious today in its first serious clash with rebel forces in the province. Wuhan army, led by the chiefs of the Kwangsi military group, collapsed before they had even begun to defend Hankow and were retreating all along the line. Martial law was declared in the city.

This result seemed inevitable when General Feng Yu-shiang, who held the balance of power between the rival armies, remained "on the fence" and Hupeh generals declared their neutrality in the quarrel between the Nanking government and the Kwangsi party.

Mrs. Hugh Logan Protests Charge On Rep. Morgan

LOGANS FERRY, Pa., April 4.—Charges that Representative William M. Morgan, republican, of Ohio, brought four bottles of liquor into the United States from Panama were termed a "frameup" today by Mrs. Hugh Logan, Logan's Ferry, Congressman Morgan's mother-in-law.

"There's not a word of truth in it," she said. "My husband never touched a drop of liquor and Mr. Morgan wouldn't bring in any for him if he did," she asserted.

"We don't use liquor in any form here. Why, we don't even have home-made wine, and we have just lots and lots of grapes here."

"It's all a frame-up. Why, I know all about it. They wouldn't take some of the passengers' word for it when they said there wasn't any liquor in some of the boxes they brought from Panama. They opened some of the boxes, but they didn't touch any of Mr. Morgan's baggage."

Pierson's Death Natural, Verdict

PALM BEACH, Fla., April 4.—A. Romeyne Pierson, wealthy Glen Ridge, N. J., clubman, came to his death from "natural causes," a coroner's jury decided here today after a two day investigation.

Pierson died at his winter home here early Tuesday under mysterious circumstances. Shortly before the verdict was announced, Dr. D. M. Jared, bacteriologist who performed the autopsy at the inquest, submitted a formal report to the jury stating that an examination showed that the immediate cause of the clubman's death was alcoholic poisoning.

Dr. Jared declared he found alcoholic poison in quantities sufficient to cause the death of "any human being."

"Big Poison" To Be In Uniform At Ft. Worth Today

National League Star Is "Perfectly Satisfied" With Salary; Refuse To Announce Terms

PORT WORTH, April 4. (AP)—Paul Waner, "Big Poison," of the Pittsburgh Pirates, will be in uniform for the first time this year tomorrow when the Pirates meet the Detroit Tigers here in the second game of a three game exhibition series. Waner signed a contract here this afternoon after a conference with Barney Drefuss, the president of the Pittsburgh club. Waner said he was ready to play and would be in uniform tomorrow. Immediately after he had signed his contract, Waner left for his home in Oklahoma City to wind up his business affairs. He will return to Fort Worth Friday morning, and will be, he said, ready for another "big season."

Neither Waner nor Drefuss would announce the terms of the contract. The National League star declared, however, that he was "perfectly satisfied" with the salary stipulation. Both Paul and Lloyd Waner were holdouts for most of the spring training season but Lloyd came to terms with the Pirate management about two weeks ago.

Paul Waner has been holding out for a salary of $12,000 while his brother signed for $10,000. Paul Waner slipped into Fort Worth for his conference with Drefuss without knowledge of newspaper men and the announcement that he had reached an agreement came less than an hour after his presence here became generally known.

Captain McRae's Ineligibility To Hurt Razorbacks

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., April 4. (AP)—Arkansas University's chances of winning a Southwest conference crack title this year were dimmed today with announcement that Captain Phil McRae, star hurdler, was ineligible. It was said the Razorback captain failed to make up class work last when he was out of school on account of illness. McRae won the high hurdles in last year's conference meet. Its other representative Morton, suburban title-holder, having lost yesterday.

Hendricks Optimistic Over Reds' Outlook

The Cincinnati Reds expect to prove a contender in the national League race this summer. Jack Hendricks, the boss, seems confident, and three of the reason why he expects his club to prove tough to beat are Hugh Critz, captain and second baseman, and Estell Crabtree and Kenneth Ash, rookies. Hendricks says he wouldn't trade Critz for any second baseman in the majors because he is the best. And he says Ash is a young pitcher and Crabtree a young outfielder of much promise. The latter two hit home runs in a recent exhibition game.

Ryder Cup Team Sails Wednesday

American Professional Golfers Think Of Everything But Golf Prior To Tilt With British Team

By BRIAN BELL.
Associated Press Sports Writer.
NEW YORK, Apr. 4. (AP)—As members of the Ryder Cup team prepare to sail for England Wednesday to engage British professionals in two days of international play April 26-27 they seem to be thinking of everything but golf. Most of the ten members have reached New York and the others will arrive over the week-end. They are playing little golf, reserving their fire for the big competition. Horton Smith, sensation of the winter season, reached here yesterday and may have a practice round before he sails but probably no more. Walter Hagen, captain, has turned business man instead of golfer and is in Detroit. Johnny Farrell, open champion, is working at a gymnasium trying to put on some weight. Leo Diegel, P. G. A. and Canadian champion, is threatening to charge out to some convenient golf course at any minute. Speculation among golf fans as the team prepares to sail hinges on who will play at Leeds and in what order. The players maintain a discreet silence and Captain Hagen will not announce the lineup and order of the players until he hands the names to Captain George Duncan, probably the night of April 25.

Bracey will attempt to duplicate or better his performance in the Southern Methodist University relays when he ran the 100 yards in 14 seconds, one-tenth of a second better than the world's record. The mark was not allowed because the former Olympic sprinter was aided by a wind.

Westerners Will Enter Invitation Track Meet Today

High School Thinly Clads Leave Early Today For Plainview To Compete In Sectional Affair

Coach E. J. Lowrey will leave at an early hour this morning with twenty-five Westerner thinly-clad for Plainview where today they will compete in the Panhandle-South Plains invitation track and field meet. The locals will be represented in all events, the high school mentor announced last night. The local squad will leave here at 7:30 in order to arrive in the Hale County Capital in time for the preliminaries which begin at 10 o'clock. Preliminaries in the 100 and 200-yard dashes and both hurdles will be run off before noon, according to advance plans on the meet.

Those who will make the trip are: Price, Scuyler, Carroll, Watkins, Wilson, Williams, Creighton, Welch, Powers, McLaughlin, Kittrell, Ritchie, Tipton, Thornton, Castleberry, Frizzell, Pierce, Crawford, Regan, Hicks, Green, Meyers, Lemons, and Hopper.

Irish Down Hill Billies, 8 To 2

BROWNWOOD, April 4. (AP)—By hammering out an 8 to 2 decision over the Daniel Baker College Hill Billies here today, Notre Dame made it two straight over the local school and added to its string of baseball victories since invading Texas diamonds. The Micks are expected to get a hard test when they tackle Southern Methodist University tomorrow at Dallas.

W. H. (Bill) McCord, of Post & McCord, steel contractors for New York's tallest skyscrapers, holds cigarette test with 94 workers.

Friend, you're smoking a certain cigarette today because you feel it's the best brand for you. And maybe you're right. But have you ever really checked up? Ever said to Old Man Habit, "Now you step out of the room. I'm going to smoke the four leading brands with brand names forgotten and just let my taste say which one is best."

The other day one of these tests was made among the huskiest fellows in New York... those two-fisted chaps who work with steel girders, sky-high above the city streets. Their own boss, Mr. W. H. McCord, was referee and score keeper. Each cigarette was "masked" and numbered. All Mr. McCord said was, "Tell me which one you like the best."

The result speaks for itself! 69 out of 94 men voted for OLD GOLD!

OLD GOLD wins time after time in these public tests, because smokers find them smoother and better... with not a cough in a carload.

NEW YORK, April 4. — Sufficient returns already are in hand to make these points clear, so far as the advance verdict of the baseball experts is concerned:

1.—The Yankees will be favored to win their fourth straight flag by a landslide vote.
2.—The Cubs and Giants will be neck and neck for the position of National League favorite, with the chances that the McGraw entry will be named by a slight plurality when the full returns are in.

Joe Williams, New England amateur heavyweight champion, used to sell magazines. He made it a rule not to accept checks. Once he refused to accept the check of Henry Ford. That young man should go a long way in boxing with an open mind like that.

Burt Shotton says his Phils seem to be improved. Anybody with faith in the ultimate goodness of things cannot fail to believe that—besides, you know the Yanks finished seventh in 1928 and 1929.

Mr. McGraw's Giants took an airplane ride down in San Antonio the other day. It's still a couple of months early for Mr. McGraw to go up in the air himself.

Andy Payne, inner of Pyle's cross country trot tournament last year, is going along this year as a riding spectator. That reminds O'Goofy of the soldier who hired a bugler to play reveille every morning so he could turn over and enjoy his sleep.

Pyle's runners are all in good condition, according to early reports. Haven't heard anything from the sheriffs and constables as yet.

Reports from the Senators' training camp say Garland Braxton's screw ball is working again this year. A couple of years ago the boys got to nailing it pretty regularly.

AIRPORTS

Airports we believe will in the next few years be one of the most essential things to the progress and development of any city. Lubbock just at this time is studying the matter of airports. Many do not know just what advantages the town will gain by having a port. Within the next few years the transportation by planes will be one of the biggest things going. Big companies will be organized to operate air lines. They will own many planes and they will operate them for passenger, mail and express service and possibly freighters will be added, who can tell the advantages of having a well equipped airport will mean that these big concerns will arrange for the refueling of their planes and will have express offices, passenger offices, mail depots, and will keep a number of extra planes for relaying or relief. It will mean that the town will be listed among the number of towns that have these stations and it will be made the distributing point for much of their tonnage and not only will these big companies have plants here but many hundreds of individual planes will land here and the occupants will stop over for many days sometimes. The benefits can hardly be estimated.

Capt. L. M. Woolson, aeronautical engineer, woke up some "grouped transportation" people the other day by making pointed comparisons with air transportation.

If as much money were spent on air routes this year as is being spent on roads, he said airports costing $5,000,000 apiece could be established in the largest 200 cities in the United States.

Of course it won't happen this year or any other year. Air transportation is not so important as land transportation. And if it ever should be, the development of facilities to handle it would come gradually. But there is no question of the benefit which may be expected by any city which is strategically located for air development and takes advantage of its opportunity early in the game.

"Take Wichita for example," says Captain Woolson. "But a few years ago this town was merely a trading center for the Indian. Today it is a prosperous center of aircraft production with six important factories producing approximately 25 per cent of all the planes made in this country."

Also, let it not be forgotten, a town full of flyers, coming, going and resident, needing many things and spending much money.

POLITICAL BILL GETS VETO

Governor Moody has done the thing that we expected that he would—vetoed the Wertz political bill which was designed specially for the purpose of barring those voters of Texas who chose to vote against the Democratic nominee for President last November from participating in the Democratic primaries in the future or from becoming candidates on the Democratic ticket in the state at the wish of the Democratic state chairman, etc. This was a proposed law that was passed by the last session of the Texas legislature and would have resulted in the disfranchisement of the party in Texas had the governor allowed it to become a law either by signing it or allowing it to remain untouched.

It was a question that no doubt bothered the governor considerably, as there were strong supporters and advocates on both sides but he seemed to have taken the sensible view of the matter and disapproved the bill, which puts an end to that unless it is passed over his veto or a new bill is presented.

The governor also disapproved the Sunday moving picture law which would have given the local city commission authority to permit Sunday picture shows if they so desired. He vetoed this bill because he thought it invalid. There were varied opinions regarding this bill and it had many supporters as well as many who opposed it. To any one who seemed fair as it would have made the provision more of a local affair and would have left the operation of theatres on Sunday up to the wishes of the people through their city council.

THE DAIRY SHOW

The Panhandle-Plains show at Plainview is fully demonstrating the increasing interest in the dairy industry of this section of the state. With more than ten thousand people attending the show Wednesday and with the large number of dairy cattle on display there the promoters of the show are greatly encouraged and everyone connected with the exposition is feeling good over the great success of the undertaking. This has developed into one of the biggest expositions of its kind in the state and the people of this section of the country are becoming more and more interested in the development of dairying and what they might as the returns from the dairy products in this section have been very liberal and satisfactory. All of the important South Plains towns have had delegations at the show at some time. Several towns have furnished bands and everything goes to show that the people are greatly interested.

The Glendon News, Sam Braswell's paper, got all kind over this Dairy Show and got out an extra edition on pink paper. The dairy industry is something to be very seriously considered and every progressive citizen, and every sturdy farmer is taking hold of the dairy cow proposition in a business-like manner.

The Earth, Santa Fe publication for April says: "The new city directory for Lubbock records more than 10,000 names. The publishers of the directory estimate the population as in excess of 10,000. Lubbock is no longer a 'back street town' on an open prairie. Today Lubbock has streets of paved streets and many several stories business blocks; a city-wide water and sewage system with other modern conveniences."

When the Santa Fe Railway built its line into Lubbock in 1909 a large and fertile district was opened to development and an era of progress then began that placed Lubbock and other thriving cities and towns on the map of the South Plains.

DRY LAW MAY YET LEAD TO WAR, WARNS CONGRESSMAN BRITTON

BY CHARLES F. STEWART
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Prohibition may yet lead to war, at the present rate, warns Congressman Fred A. Britton, of Illinois, chairman of the house of representatives committee on naval affairs.

"The sinking of a foreign ship, with attendant loss of life," he said, "is but another incident which will lead to the modification of the silly Volstead law, and unless the government places strict limitations upon the sinking of foreign vessels by gunfire, the United States coast guard will assume the military peace time control of the seas and will soon be running big ships capable of carrying six-inch guns."

"The next step will be the enrollment of the American navy for the capture or destruction of prospective run runners, which in turn will bring about the end of several nations which insist upon protection of their own lawful commerce."

"It would appear," continues the Chicago congressman, "that there is but one law on the statute books, to which all others must be subservient."

"Fanatical prohibitionists are prodding the government in every direction and no one can foresee the dire results which may ensue from the attempted enforcement of an unpopular law which is costing the federal treasury, in actual expenditure and loss of taxation, not less than $600,000,000 a year."

"So long as human beings have tastes and appetites, just so long will this costly government failure be violated in every section of the United States."

Yet it is not with prohibition, as a domestic issue, that Representative Britton concerns himself just now; but rather with what he conceives to be the threat of its development into a source of foreign complications.

The congressman already is identified, with leading members of the British parliament, in an unofficial movement in the direction of Anglo-American armament reduction. He repeats the coast guard's recent destruction of the Canadian schooner I'm Alone as a particularly unfortunate augury for the pending program.

"If Great Britain follows her traditional policy of protection to peaceful commerce under her flag," he observes, "I can see a very delicate international situation arising out of the sinking of the I'm Alone by gunfire from a United States ship."

That the I'm Alone was outside American territorial waters when coast guard guns sent her to the bottom is admitted at the guard's headquarters in Washington.

Warrant for this is claimed under international law, however, on the ground that the schooner originally was overhauled within the 12-mile limit, and was "hotly pursued" to the spot on the high seas where the guard sank her.

The navy chairman is unimpressed by this argument.

"If the United States coast guard is justified in the Gulf of Mexico," he says, "then we could with equal authority, chase a British or French ship through the English channel into the North sea, and sink her almost at the gates of London—provided, of course, she carried some stimulating beverages which our gallant gunmen presumed would ultimately find their way into the United States."

Sometimes other stones than those developed in the human body are used for these magical purposes, including, for instance, stones associated with great natural monuments such as the Giant's Causeway or volcanoes.

Hydrophobia is caused by infection transmitted through the bite of animals. This infection attacks particularly the nervous system of the body, and one of the chief symptoms is difficulty in swallowing.

The ancients mistook the fear of swallowing for the fear of the water itself and so called the disease hydrophobia or fear of water. The modern name of the disease is rabies.

The famous scientist Pasteur discovered a method of developing resistance in the body against hydrophobia to which the name Pasteur treatment has been given. Since the development of the Pasteur treatment in 1882 hydrophobia has been brought under control.

Only One Treatment
Rabies is spread principally by the homeless stray dog. When a person is bitten by a rabid animal he should have the Pasteur treatment. The disease is controlled in any community by strict enforcement of the muzzling ordinance and destruction of stray dogs.

The person who depends on a madstone when bitten by a rabid animal is likely to terminate his existence with hydrophobia.

SO THINK WE

We think the school kids of this day and time miss a great deal of the real pleasures of school life when they refrain from shutting the teacher out until he will promise a treat of striped stick candy. Then we say that the boys and girls of this day and time are worse than they used to be.

We think the present school board has been faithful to the trust and they have worked hard and faithfully to keep the schools of Lubbock up to a high standard of efficiency, and equipment, and while it seems too bad to work the same men year after year on a thank you job or sometimes thankless job, we believe the entire board should be re-elected, in order that they may handle the work that is now under way toward building a new high school.

We think there is not much need for golf for exercise just now. If all of the back yard garden spots are taken care of as they should be, it takes quite a bit of that office feeling out of a fellow, to dig up a few square feet of ground for the garden.

We think that firm in London that puts on a program of stringing up the back of the dog and the obvious attempt on the part of an unknown chicken to put things on the bite that would draw out the point. Since the development of stones in the body of man or of animals was not understandable to these ancients, a magical influence was attached to the stone.

We think the city police department has been very fair with the owners of chickens in Lubbock, and still want to shoot straight with the owners of chickens, but with so many complaints coming in they cannot afford to use their time telling the owners of chickens to keep 'em up. It is the city law, and when you allow your chickens to run loose you are violating the law just the same as a bootlegger, hawker or any other kind of a criminal, and we are quite sure you do not want to do that. Better keep the chickens up, or you may get a warrant served on you.

We think that Utah is starting a very good move, by putting a ban on billboard advertising of tobacco. We see some other advertising on billboards that are just as bad. Why pick on tobacco.

We think that O'Donnell is putting on real city airs. It has been announced that the fire siren will sound each day at 12 o'clock in order that the natives will know when to go to lunch.

We think that if men would tell the truth and be real men while they are awake, they would not need to dread talking in their sleep.

We think that the women of twenty-five to thirty years ago were as wise as they are now, there would possibly have been a great many more bachelors of the age of fifty and sixty years.

We think that some people's neighbors will borrow everything they have even their troubles. However our neighbors are not that way they won't borrow anything and hence we cannot borrow even their lawn mower or spade and shovels.

We think the trouble with some folks in picking their friends they pick them too much, and that is the reason that some of them get sore.

We think we will be rid of that gas bill after this month, but we noticed the ice man driving up and down the street in front of our house the other day, and looked like

ADAPTS WORK TO LUPUS NEEDS

The method makes possible the observation of the well-known educational law of the individual differences of children. In the old-time recitation children are treated as if they were alike. However, it is well known that they are not alike. No two children are exactly alike in any respect. They are not alike in some environment, in previous training in mental ability, nor in their attitude towards their work, and we fail miserably if we try to teach them as if they were alike. Under the group and study method, the children in a class or room are divided into homogeneous groups, by which we mean that they are divided into groups of about the same ability and previous training, and can progress in their work at about the same rate. We do not want to embarrass the slow pupil by placing him in a group with the more mentally alert, nor do we hold him back by placing him in a group of children who do not grasp things as readily as he does.

EDUCATION SECRETARY

FIRST

If there is to be a new member in the cabinet, our best suggestion is that he be a secretary of education. It would take a wise man, and one who is not too busy to fill this position completely. For who knows what education is? And who knows what it ought to be? We know fairly well what sort of teaching and training are to be had in the schools, and we know what passes for education. But education is something over and beyond the average type of schooling.

To give boys and girls the right attitude toward the life they are leading, and to give them discipline and the sense of moral responsibility—these are the great tasks of education.

RESPONSIVE

Speaking of cabinets, one notices that cabinet members speak now and then over the radio. That is a perfectly good idea. In England the members of the cabinet are more responsive to the people. Cabinets rise and fall more frequently at the people's will. We contemplate no change for the purpose of modeling our government after that of Great Britain, but we should indeed welcome all the means which will bring these in authority in our government into closer and more frequent contact with the people.

THE RACKETEER

The racketeer is the man who proposes to live without legitimate work. He proposes to prey on others who do work. Nothing is beneath him. He has no ethics and no scruples. He proceeds on the unspoken theory of the beast of prey—"to get his." The racketeer is simply a barbarian. He is a modern man who has reverted to savagery. There is no recognition on his part that civilization has come to the world. He is living in the past. Having done no good thinking and no good living, he has made no adjustment to the new world.

The racketeer is a "throw-back" to pre-historic times.

he was just fishing to begin drawing pay as soon as the gas man quits.

We think here is one thing that a person does not have to nurse to make grow and that is a grouse.

We think if you do not want to have a warrant served on you for your chickens scratching the garden or your neighbor digging up the flower beds you had better put the chickens up, and there are no chickens bothering wife's garden either.

We think that reckless drivers should be made to pay heavy fines and the privilege of driving a car taken away from them. Some people who drive on Broadway seem to think it is a race track.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
RUTH LESTER, secretary, finds the body of her employer, HANDBY, some morning sprawled beneath the airshaft window of his private office. He was shot some time between one and four Saturday afternoon.

McMann, detective sergeant, questions the following suspects: Ruth, MRS. BORDEN, Borden's estranged wife and mother of his two children, who admits calling on him Saturday afternoon; RITA DUBOIS, night club dancer, who says she called on Borden Saturday afternoon to get the torn half of a $500 bill he promised her; JACK HAYWARD, Ruth's fiancé, whose office is across the narrow airshaft from Borden's.

Hayward says he returned to the seventh floor Saturday afternoon to get his and Ruth's matinee tickets left on his desk. McMann's belief in Jack's guilt is strengthened by the testimony of MICKY MOAN and OTTO PFLEGER, elevator boys, and BILLY COWAN, Jack's friend, who tells of having heard Jack threaten Borden's life.

A detective is sent for CLEO GILMAN, Borden's discarded mistress. BENNY SMITH, Borden's office boy, says he returned to the office Saturday afternoon to get Ruth's gun for target practice but it was already gone. ASHE, Borden's manservant, tells McMann of a woman with a beautiful contralto voice of whom Borden lived in fear.

Detectives are sent out to bring in Cleo Gilman, Borden's discarded mistress, and Jack Borden's bodyguard. McMann questions Benny Smith, Borden's office boy. Ashe, his manservant; Minnie Cassidy, scrubwoman, who cleans the Borden suite, and Letty Miller, who cleans Jack's office.

McMann shows Ruth a flattened bullet found on a strip of cement seven flights below. He also points to a new-made scar in the brick he says is the bullet Borden fired too late in self-defense at his murderer, who stood in Jack Hayward's office.

That evening at Ruth's apartment, she and Jack try to fit into the sordid puzzle. Ashe and Minnie's testimony about some strange woman who was not at Borden's legitimate son, and makes a joking promise to Jack to take charge of the investigation herself on Tuesday.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER
Perhaps it was because she was so tired and suddenly so sleepy that the prayer for help which Ruth Lester addressed with childlike faith to her Heavenly Father, ended in an extremely unorthodox manner, designed to confound and understand her more than the One in which she believed.

For her last words, before sleep settled upon her like a smothering, sideward comfort, were: "Please come back to me, daddy. I'm not clever enough to save Jack without your help. I'm not strong enough to do you always loved. You could make all the pieces of the puzzle fit. Come back and laugh at me for being so stupid—so stupid."

And with miraculous suddenness, part of that drowsy, naive prayer was answered. Subconsciously, Ruth Lester knew that she was dreaming that her actual body—aching with fatigue—was lying on her couch bed in her tiny bachelor apartment, that her adored father, Colby Lester, always referred to as the famous criminal lawyer, was here, sitting at her bedside, and that it was only a dream. But she mustn't wake up too soon.

The dream was a kindly one, not fantastic or absurd. She was back again in her father's library, watching with fascinated blue eyes as his long, slim fingers arranged and rearranged bits of a jig-saw puzzle spread out on the desk before him.

"What is that big, square-shaped piece, daddy?" she heard her own voice inquiring, as those expert fingers made a quick rearrangement of the pieces of the jig-saw puzzle.

"That, infant?" She distinctly heard his beloved, familiar chuckle. "Why, that's the orchid-tinted letter of course."

Perhaps, Ruth mused later, if she had not cried out so sharply at that she would not have awakened, would have seen the complete solving of that jig-saw puzzle under the expert manipulation of Colby Lester's fingers. But she did wake up, with her own exclamation of self-disgust and her father's last words ringing in her ears.

With the sharp clarity of mind and memory which comes in the small hours of the night, Ruth recalled every detail of a scene which she had forgotten throughout the dreadful first day of the police investigation into the murder of Henry P. Borden.

She saw again the large, square, orchid-tinted envelope, with its distinctive, angular handwriting in violet ink, saw herself seated at her desk in the outer office of Borden's suite, sorting Saturday morning's mail, laying aside unopened the exotic missive marked "Personal." She saw the gesture of repulsion and anger with which Henry Borden flicked the unwelcome letter across his desk, then heard again the muttered oath with which he picked it up, and thrust it, unopened into the breast pocket of his vest.

In her excitement, Ruth sat straight up in bed, her hands clasped to her wildly beating heart. Where was that letter now? She had seen Detective Sergeant McMann go through the murdered man's letters, and she knew that now every item he had taken from them, and no orchid-tinted letter had been among them!

Had Borden, some time between his receipt of the letter and his death, taken it out of his vest pocket, read it, torn it across and tossed it away? Or had he kept it? Certainly he had not done so before she herself left the office at 30 minutes after one, for her last act of service to the man who had been murdered had been to help him clear his desk of accumulated papers. But if it had been taken away by other promoters on stock as dubious as his own, she had tossed the worthless papers into the empty wastebasket which stood beside his desk.

Perhaps he had read the letter and thrown it away after he had left, but if it was the first of the orchid-tinted letters, of which he had received several during the four months she had worked for him, to find its way into his office wastebasket, and thence possibly into the possession of a curious reader, it was a very curious coincidence. But it was not the basket and been taken out with the rest of the papers by Minnie Cassidy, where was it now? "If as McMann seemed to believe, Rita Dubois had robbed his dead body, why should she also have robbed Borden's wastebasket of another woman's? There was no possibility that Rita herself was the writer. The orchid-tinted envelopes marked "Personal" had been coming to Borden's office long before he had ever met and fallen in love with the dancer.

If Mrs. Borden had killed her husband before Rita's arrival and robbing of the body, she could not have known of the existence of the letter, could have had no motive for taking it if she had known for the letter had not been written by Borden. Ruth knew that the discarded wife's handwriting very well, had seen her small, delicate, precise signature each month as an endorsement of Borden's check for separation allowance.

Suddenly the obvious course of action occurred to Ruth. There was no use in puzzling and worrying over the letter now, but tomorrow morning—She lay back on her pillows, welcomed the waves of sleep which immediately began to dull her brain, for maybe Colby Lester, her father, would come to her again.

Colby Lester did not come again that night, but the next morning his daughter woke, feeling strangely happy and comforted, quite equal to performing the two errands she had promised to do. She had the sanction—and then, as she had impulsively expressed it to Jack Hayward the night before, to taking charge of the investigation into the murder of Henry P. Borden!

While she was dressing, a sudden thought occurred to Ruth, and she ran to the front window of her tiny apartment. As she had expected, she saw a man standing leisurely up and down the sidewalk across the street from her apartment house, his head turning now and then to glance casually toward

SIEGE OF YORKTOWN
Sixty-seven years ago today General McClellan and about 6,000 Union troops began the siege of Yorktown.

It was the second siege against this historic Virginia town in a little more than 100 years. The first, in 1781, resulted in the surrender of Cornwallis and brought the Revolutionary War to a victorious close. The second, in 1862, was an important phase of the Civil War.

McClellan moved against the town on April 5, 1862, in a campaign which did not have the full support of President Lincoln. After the attack began, McClellan, according to his memoirs, received a telegram dated April 4, which took several corps from his command and reduced his fighting force from 135,000 to 68,000. This resulted in making a long drawn out siege of what was intended to be a quick assault.

Later McClellan was joined by reinforcements which brought the number of Federals up to about 93,000, and General Magruder, defending Yorktown, was reinforced by General Johnston, and his army of 40,000. General Johnston took command and seized an opportunity to retreat secretly. He was pursued by part of the Federal army and was forced on May 5 to fight the spirited battle of Williamsburg.

THE BOOK OF THE WORLD

Of this fair volume which we World do name,
If we the sheets and leaves could turn with care,
Of him who it corrects, and did it frame.

We clear might read the art and wisdom rare,
Find out his power which wildness powers doth tame,
His providence extending everywhere.

His justice which proud rebels doth not spare,
In every page, no period of the same,
But stilly we, like foolish children, rest.

Well pleased with colored vellum leaves of gold,
Fair dangle ribbons, leaving what is best,
On the great Writer's sense we're taking hold;

Or, if by chance we stay our minds on aught,
It is some picture on the margin wrought.

the cheaply pretentious entrance.

Ruth blew a finger-tip kiss to the unconscious watcher, laughed exultingly, then whirled back to her dressing-table. "I'm going to lead you an awful chase, dear, obvious old shadow!" she promised him. And she kept her promise. Twice as the detective's taxi drew almost abreast of hers, the girl thought she was going to be stopped and questioned, but undoubtedly the man had his orders not to jerk on the leash.

The first was not a long trip. Ruth's taxi drew up before an old but dignified apartment house in one of those side streets which offer their residents an impeccable address—the kind of address which makes department store saleswomen look at the owner with interest and respect.

"Please wait, I shall be long," Ruth directed her driver. "Mrs. Borden is not seeing anyone, miss," the uniformed doorman told her, when she asked to be announced over the house telephone.

"Please get Mrs. Borden on the phone, and tell her that Miss Ruth Lester wants to see her on a matter of vital importance," Ruth directed crisply.

Three minutes later Borden's widow and his secretary confronted each other in the large foyer of Mrs. Borden's apartment. Deep shadows from a sleeping, grieving night lay like black moth wings beneath the widow's eyes, and accentuated the ghastly pallor of her face.

Before Mrs. Borden could frame her dignified protest at the intrusion, Ruth put the question she had come to ask: "Mrs. Borden, won't you please tell me what you know about Martha Manning?"

At that name, color flooded her pale face and her eyes flashed angry fire. Ruth was almost sorry she had come.

"Her name?" Mrs. Borden gasped, her hand at her throat, as if the words were choking her. Then, by a visible effort, she regained a measure of control: "I don't know whom you mean, or why you ask, Miss Lester! If Mr. McMann has any further questions to ask me—"

"Oh, please, dear Mrs. Borden!" Ruth pleaded. "I know you want to protect your husband's past from the newspapers, but—be it dear and it is your duty to tell anything you know which might help—"

"I have nothing to say to you, Miss Lester," Mrs. Borden interrupted coldly. "I'm sorry to have troubled you, Mrs. Borden," Ruth said gently, and it was your duty to tell anything you know which might help—"

"I'm sorry to have troubled you, Mrs. Borden," Ruth said gently, and it was your duty to tell anything you know which might help—"

"I'm sorry to have troubled you, Mrs. Borden," Ruth said gently, and it was your duty to tell anything you know which might help—"

It was a saddened, subdued girl who gave the next address to the taxi driver.

"That spy cab's following us, with a dick inside," the driver told her, out of the corner of his mouth as she climbed into her taxi.

"I know," Ruth smiled at him reassuringly. "The 'dick' is only doing his duty. There won't be any trouble."

The driver shook his head, hesitated about starting his motor. "I don't want to get mixed up in nothing, miss—"

"Very well," Ruth agreed cheerfully, preparing to disembark. "If you don't want to drive me, I'll get the 'dick' to take me in his cab. I'll give taxi fare."

"Guess it's all right," her driver concluded, grinning at her impudence.

This time the trip was a long one, so long that Ruth cast more than one anxious glance at the meter, but at last she reached her destination—the suburban grocery store over which Minnie Cassidy lived in two cheerless rooms. Ruth had made the trip once before—on Christmas Day—to visit the old scrubwoman, temporarily bedridden with rheumatism.

Entrance was through the mean, dirty little rear, inefficiently run by Minnie's son-in-law, with the help of the girl, Rose.

"Hello, Rose," Ruth greeted the pretty untidy girl behind the counter. "I want to see your mother."

"She's upstairs, Miss Lester. But here, and I'm alone in the store. Would you mind going up alone?"

Ruth found Minnie Cassidy putting about a disordered kitchen. "Good land, child! What brings you here?"

"Here take the weight off your pretty feet! Phut! Don't bother. That's only the cat's saucer and it's cracked anyway. Now, what's Tommy McMann been up to? Has he arrested your young man, and do you thing old Minnie can help ye out?"

"I do think you can help me out, Minnie," Ruth smiled, "but Mr. McMann has not arrested Mr. Hayward—yet. Listen, Minnie, and try hard to remember: when you were emptying Mr. Borden's wastebasket Saturday, did you notice an orchid or lavender-colored letter?"

It may have been torn up, of course, but I thought you might have noticed the unusual color—"

"There! I knowed I'd forget something—what with Tommy McMann putting the lift off of me with his fool questions!" Minnie Cassidy interrupted, slapping her fat old thigh with a triumphant hand. "I saw the very letter ye mean, child, but not in the wastebasket. A-reading of it, the poor man was his face as black as a thundercloud, and his fist pounding up and down on the drawer as if he wished it was the poor lady's face he was poundin'. not a drawer without feelin'—"

"Drawer?" Ruth repeated blankly. McMann had gone through every drawer in Borden's desk. (To Be Continued.)

Streets Of Jimenez Are Littered With Bodies Of Men and Animals Following Victory Of Mexico Government Troops

By H. MARTIN GLENN

Associated Press Staff Writer
JIMENEZ, Chihuahua, Mexico, April 3. (P)—(Delayed)—Hard on the heels of the retreating rebels, the loyal federal troops under General Juan Andres Almazan marched into Jimenez today over streets littered with the bodies of men and animals.

The rebel loss was not officially estimated but otherwise was expected to run nearly to 1,000, with the federal casualties considerably lighter.

Burial Squads Work
Burial squads immediately were put to work, but it was expected it would be several days before all the bodies were found since the fighting took place over a wide territory.

Despite heavy bombing from the air and shelling from artillery, Jimenez itself was but little damaged. The fact that the federal fire was remarkably accurate and concentrated chiefly on the outskirts saved most of the better buildings in Jimenez. Many adobe buildings were knocked down.

Jimenez residents said Gen. J. G. Escobar the rebel commander, did not escape until yesterday, apparently leaving by automobile as his machine is missing and it was impossible for him to flee by rail. Gen. Urbalejo is supposed to have escaped with Escobar.

Rebel General Caught
Gen. Federico Barrera was captured.

tured with a number of officers and ninety men last night when federal cavalry caught the train upon which he was fleeing when its passage was blocked by a burned bridge. Gen. Serrano's men had fired the span.

Gen. Barrera probably will face court martial tomorrow.

Gen. Almazan planned to rest his tired army here a day or two before resuming pursuit of the rebels fleeing towards Chihuahua City. The brilliant assault upon Jimenez was carried out despite an exhausting eight-day trek over a trackless, sun-blasted desert. The first venture seen for more than a week was in an irrigated field at the edge of Jimenez, where the bodies of the first slain were found.

Federal aviators continued to strike the retreating rebels and probably will be operating against Chihuahua City before long. Attacks from the air against Jimenez lasted from March 20 until yesterday.

ANNOUNCES SUMMER TERM

(Special to the Avalanche)
PORT WORTH, April 4.—Texas Christian University has announced its regular summer session for the nine weeks' period from June to Aug. 7, according to E. R. Tucker, registrar of the school.

Scientists say that men have a keener sense of smell than women. But their wives are probably not members of the W. C. T. U.

Red-Heads Lead Have Good Fighting Spirit Also

(Special to the Avalanche.)

PORT WORTH, April 4.—Red haired girls are more athletically inclined than their sister blondes and brunettes. At least this is the experience of Mrs.

Helen Walker Murphy, director of physical training for girls at Texas Christian University here. "I cannot think of a single instance in which a red-haired girl is not an all around good sport, and loves to play at games as hard as she can," Mrs. Murphy says. "They usually have a pretty good fighting spirit too."

Mopping up the weeds is all right, but the courts should see to it that the mop is kept wrung out so it can continue to mop up.

FIRE TRUCK HAS FIRE, Port Arthur Fireman Answer Call On Own Truck

PORT ARTHUR, April 4. (P)—When firemen from the central fire station here answered a call recently they found "one of their own trucks" in flames. J. M. Woods, electrician for the department was on his way to do an electrical repair job when a cigarette ignited some sacks on the vehicle.

HAD YOU TAKEN NOTICE

Of the very important fact that things are looking up in Lubbock real estate? Work is proceeding rapidly on the Broadway underpass this to be immediately followed by the Avenue H underpass, right away now work will begin on the two big hotel propositions. We are getting ready to vote the airport bonds and place our city among the leaders in that regard, this to be followed by the highway building proposition. Lubbock has continued to go forward, and the reason is that her people are progressive and stay in the lead on needed developments and that is why she is going to make a real city. Do not wait too long now to make that real estate investment you have intended making.

The very best medium priced piece of realty in Lubbock today is the property at 804 Avenue Q, and the buyer is sure of a splendid profit on it. It is worth every dollar of $4,300.

Will buy it yet? The lot is unusually large, 56 by 148, facing east on paved street, pavement paid, and $1,000 will handle it. It is absolutely the very best chance in Lubbock today to pick up about $2,000 profit in a short time. See us.

Price Of Cotton Works Higher On New York Market

NEW YORK, April 4. (P)—Early declines in response to a favorable weather map, and relatively easy Liverpool cables, were followed by advances in cotton today on trade buying and covering. Apprehensions that unsettled weather was developing in the Southwest seemed a factor to the advance, which carried July up from 19.66 to 19.87, or 12 points net higher. The delivery closed at 19.88. The general market closed steady at net advances of 9 to 11 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 5 to 9 points and sold about 8 to 14 points net lower in the early trading under renewed liquidation and some local and southern selling. Apparently this was promoted by a favorable view of the early weather map and relatively easy showing of the Liverpool cables.

Offerings were not particularly heavy after the liquidation of the previous day, however, and there seemed enough trade buying of the old crop months on the decline to steady prices. There also was covering in the new crop positions. Strength of help to steady the general list and the market showed increasing firmness during the afternoon.

Talk of a better time in the stock market may have been reflected by some Wall Street buying on the advance, which carried the active months 9 to 13 points net higher. May sold up from 29.26 to 29.43 and December from 19.66 to 19.87. Closing prices were within a point or two of the best.

Liverpool came in 4 to 7 points lower than due and the map showed generally favorable weather. First trades were 7 to 9 points down and the market continued to ease off in the early trading, the decline being helped by the Carolina mill strike. May traded down to 19.36, July to 19.82 and October to 19.43 or 8 to 13 points below the previous close.

Later in the morning prices rallied on good trade and speculative buying and despite occasional reaction gradually advanced during the rest of the day. May ultimately advanced to 19.78, July to 19.84 and October to 19.83 or 20 to 22 points above the lows.

The close was a little under the best with May at 19.74, July at 19.81 and October at 19.82 or 11 to 18 and 8 points respectively net higher for the day.

Cotton Prices Go Up Despite Talk Of Crop Troubles

NEW ORLEANS, April 4. (P)—Despite good weather in the belt talk of larger acreage, poor cables and serious labor troubles among the Carolina mills cotton prices showed an upward trend today. The improvement was attributed to the firmer technical position and good general trade outside buying. After easing off 8 to 13 points the market rallied later July selling up from 19.82 to 19.84. The option closed at 19.81 or 10 points net higher for the day. The general market closed steady at net gains of 5 to 11 points.

Local Contractor Says Results Have Been Wonderful

"I Was In Wretched Health Sick For 15 Years And Orgasone Has Restored My Health," He Says

M. R. Grisone, of 2224 1-2 Seventeenth Street, Lubbock, Texas, told another Lubbock AVALANCHE reader that he was glad he was induced to try Orgasone. Mr. Grisone, a prominent, well known contractor and has been a resident here for years. In discussing the Master Medicine which has been beneficial to him, he said:

"Orgasone is building me up fine and is the only thing I have been able to get to give me any relief. I just got to where I didn't have any energy or strength at all. I have had a severe chronic case of stomach trouble for fifteen years, and I had a hard lump in my stomach, which would pain me severely at times, and would be awful sore. I didn't have any caused gas to form, and I would feel so puffed up that I could hardly get around. All of my food soured on my stomach, and wouldn't give me the proper nourishment. I was extremely nervous and just felt badly all the time and would hardly keep going. My sleep seemed to do me very little good and I would get up in the mornings just as tired as on going to bed at night. I could hardly do my work at all. I was so badly run-down and weak."

"Seeing Orgasone recommended so highly I decided to try it and now I can say it is just wonderful. I have taken two bottles now and am feeling stronger and better in every way. I don't have that tired, worn-out feeling any more and my appetite is just splendid. All of the pains have left me, that bothered me, and the soreness out of my stomach is all gone. In fact, all of my stomach disorders and worries are gone, and I honestly feel like a new man. I shall continue and take the full treatment and then I know I will be in perfect health again. I don't believe Orgasone can be equalled and I have recommended it to many of my friends and neighbors, and since it has done so much for me I can understand why so many others are praising it. I can never say too much for the good Orgasone has done me."

Genuine Orgasone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile preparation containing no alcohol or other stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Brown's Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Orgasone representative. Out of town customers are being supplied by mail upon receipt of price $1.25 for one bottle or $4.25 for six bottles.

Issues Are Bid Up On Stock Mart But Sales Fall Short

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 4. (P)—With convincing evidence that the credit crisis incident to the turn of the quarter is definitely past, operations for the advance were resumed on the stock market today, rather cautiously, but along a broad front. Scores of issues, in which steels and rails were prominent, were bid up to nearly 12 points.

All money renewed at 10 per cent, but dropped to 8 soon after midday, and in the last hour to 6. By today the quarterly interest and dividend checks had been cleared at the banks and the month-end shifting of balances completed. Funds came into the market in considerable volume and selling of loans was negligible.

Easier call money conditions appeared to be an ephemeral development, however, as time money command a flat 9 per cent for all maturities, a rate unsurpassed for the longer maturities even during the chaotic days of early 1928.

The federal reserve brokers' loan completion for the week ended yesterday showed a decline of $87,000,000 of which $50,000,000 was withdrawn by New York banks, $23,000,000 by out-of-town banks and $14,000,000 by others. The total as of April 3 stood at $3,562,000,000, in contrast to the record of $5,793,000,000 reported two weeks ago.

A bright spot in the day's rather meagre industrial news was a report by S. W. Straus & Co. that building permitted in 330 cities during March increased 10 per cent over a year ago. Officials of the

Oil Notes

GUTHRIE, Okla., April 4. (P)—Flowing by heads from lime at 6-642 feet the number 2 Gragg section 29-18-4W, the crescent area shattered geology of the Logan county field and extended the deep production area into a heretofore shallow sand sector today.

The well made its first flow late yesterday, making 100 barrels. It made two other flows today, swelling the total production of the well to about 200 barrels. The oil is said to be of 45 gravity.

The Gragg is the deepest producer in Oklahoma.

OKLAHOMA CITY.—Purchase of an 80 acre lease on which there are three wells averaging 50 barrels a day has been announced by Eli D. Bernstein, independent operator of Oklahoma City. Location of the tract is in section 8-18-7 East, Cushing district.

AUSTIN, April 4. (P)—Al Rowden, convicted in Stephens county of the murder of his wife, Pauline Rowden, and given 99 years in the penitentiary today, filed an appeal in the court of criminal appeals. The homicide took place on December 12, 1928.

American Petroleum Institute appeared optimistic over the curtailment program in spite of the attorney general's ominous opinion. With the continued uncertainties of the credit situation, "bulls" were unable to get a public following despite Secretary Mellon's reassuring statement at the reserve meeting and total sales fell off to 3,330,000 shares, the smallest turnover since March 13.

Texas Livestock Trading Is Active

FORT WORTH, April 4. (P)—A light supply with mixed loads and stocker cattle making up the bulk of the receipts trading was fairly active for prices on the live stock exchange here today.

Three cars of steers made up the lighter steer supplies they sold fully steady with the strength of the week's trade. Sales at 10.50 to 13.00. Light bulls sold around 7.00 and better heavy bulls around 8.00.

The supply of cows very scarce, package lots making up the day's supply. All classes sold fully steady with the better fat cows around 9.50 and butchers around 7.75, while very few canners fell under 5.50 and cutters up to 6.75.

Slaughter yearlings sold fully steady, quality considered. Sales at 12.25 for fair kind of heavy heifers up to 13.25.

The supply of calves was light. Two lots sold at 12.00, 3 loads fairly good veal calves at 12.50. Bulk of calves sold at 8.00 and 9.00.

Three loads of 2 year old steers sold at 12.00, one car at 10.00.

Hogs added to their decline of yesterday by selling a quarter lower today. Best rail butchers sold early at 10.75, some of the best hogs unsold. Truck top was 10.15.

A few fat shorn wethers sold at 10.00 and feeder lambs and yearlings at 11.00.

Mexico Plans For Land Reclamation

SAN BENITO, April 4. (AP)—The Mexican government plans to re-claim thousands of acres of land during the next few years. Mario R. Gomez, Mexican secretary of agriculture, said during a tour of the Rio Grande Valley recently.

A party of Mexican officials made a study of the agricultural and irrigation systems now being used in the valley. They were accompanied on their tour by R. B. Cramer of Brownsville, republican national committeeman from Texas.

Five hundred Mexican families, now in the cotton and truck fields of Texas, will be taken back to Mexico to colonize the San Martin project of 150,000 acres. Secretary Gomez said. Others later will be asked to colonize a number of other proposed reclamation areas, the secretary added.

Lynn County Has Good Outlook For Crops This Season

(Special To The Avalanche)
TAHOKEA, April 4.—Farmers from various sections of Lynn county report that prospects for a good crop year have never been more favorable so early in the season. Ground is in excellent shape with good sub-seeding and top-seeding. The rains during the last week of March were unusual in this section they being the heaviest that have fallen in that month since the year 1900. Old timers declare. Late rains causing late planting has been the principal drawback to the crop the past three years, and farmers are elated over the early season that has been put in the ground this year. Already a number of farmers are planting, and within a few days planters will be at work in practically every field. Between eighty and ninety per cent of the cultivated land in Lynn county has been seeded and is ready for the seed. Much new land has been broken this year and there will be an increase, however, farmers are planning on putting much of their land in maize, millet, sorghum, corn, sunflower, and other feed crops this year due to the profit they realized from last year's surplus grain and to the fact that most of them have more dairy cows, chickens and turkeys to feed than ever before.

WIND DOES DAMAGE

A slight wind-storm arising suddenly Wednesday night resulted in slight damage to buildings on the campus. A window was blown out of the Chemistry building and a piece of stone architecture was blown off of the top of the east tower of the Administration building. When the knob fell it carried with it a small piece of tile.

RECEIVE INTERESTING BOOK

A very interesting volume was received by Tech library yesterday, the "Life of Stephen F. Austin," by Eugene C. Baker, professor of American History at the University of Texas. Dr. Baker has spent practically all of his professional life working on this edition.

The point of interest in the presentation is that the book is a special edition form having been given by the children of Guy M. Bryan. They are Mrs. Edwin Parker, of Philadelphia, Mrs. Halbe Bryan Perry and Guy M. Bryan, Jr., of
