Stock In Hotel Totals $356,900

Stock sales in the current campaign to sell stock in a proposed community owned hotel for Pampa now total $356,900 with the reporting of an additional $11,700 at the report meeting of the executive committee and general sales force in the Palm Room yesterday.

The workers only had yesterday morning in which to sell this amount as the previous report meeting was held Wednesday night.

For the first time in the campaign the Men's Section of the general sales force reported a larger amount of sales than the Women's Section. The Men's Section reported $6,800 in stock sales and the Women's Section reported a total of $4,900.

The campaign goat, awarded to the group that reports the largest amount of sales each day, was awarded to a group in the Men's Section for the first time yesterday. The group to report the largest amount of sales was Group 2, managed by Louie P. Clarke.

The American Flag, awarded to the division that reported the largest amount of sales each day, also left the Women's Section for the first time. Division A, which is managed by Don Cain, was the first division to take the flag from Division D, managed by Miss Jean Chisholm, which has had the flag since the beginning of the campaign.

The salesman and saleswoman reporting the largest amount of sales at the meeting today at noon in the Palm Room will receive the following prizes: the high man will receive a four - piece snack set and the high woman will receive a turkey.

The saleswoman reporting the largest number of sales will receive a $1.50 gift certificate and the salesman reporting the largest number of sales will receive a case of king - size Coca Cola, campaign directors announced at the meeting yesterday.

The summary of sales by each of the six divisions in the general sales force and of the executive committee through the meeting yesterday is as follows: Division A, $10,000; Division B, $10,900; Division C, $11,600; Division D, $19,400; Division E, $9,300; Division F, $9,100; for a total of $85,400 in stock sales by the general sales force since last Saturday.

The executive committee has either subscribed to personally or has sold a total of $280,515 to make the total of $356,900 reported by the two groups through yesterday.

The two groups plan to sell a total of $800,000 in stock and debentures in a community owned hotel for Pampa by Nov. 28. The esti-

British And French Power Diminished, Say Egyptians

By DANIEL F. GILMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON —UP— The Allied commander in Egypt announced today he would withdraw one battalion of British troops "almost immediately," but Egypt hinted it considered Britain and France finished as major powers in the Middle East.

The Egyptian government newspaper Al Gomhouriya said today in Cairo it would guarantee freedom of navigation through the Suez Canal to all nations except Britain and France. However, it did not threaten to bar them from the waterway.

"Anglo-French aggression has put an end to the Suez Canal problem as far as the two nations are concerned," it said, "but Egypt is prepared to give all guarantees to the rest of the world regarding freedom and navigation" of the canal.

Flies to Port Said

"Egypt from today will never recognize Britain and France as two major powers," the paper said.

Gen. Sir Charles Keightley, former British commander in the Suez Canal zone and now commander-in-chief of the Anglo-French invasion force, flew to Port Said from his headquarters on Cyprus and announced the withdrawal of the British battalion.

He said one battalion would be withdrawn "almost immediately" in keeping with the pledge made to the United Nations by British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd. He promised to withdraw other forces "as fast as U.N. troops arrive."

Rejects Gradual Withdrawal

Egypt already has rejected Anglo-French plans for a gradual withdrawal, and said if they did not get out at once they faced the possibility of provoking a third world war. Egypt was backed by an Afro-Asian resolution in the United Nations calling for immediate withdrawal.

Informed sources said Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd would press the United Nations for "full implementation" of the General Assembly's withdrawal resolution which also called for [illegible] the

Flames Damage Church

A fire, believed to have started from the heating ducts, gutted the interior of the classroom building of the Hobart Street Baptist Church, 1100 W. Crawford, about mid-night last night.

The fire was reported to the local fire department at 12:05 a.m. today and Ernest Winborne, fire chief, reported that the fire had been burning for some time before the fire trucks arrived.

Winborne stated that when the firemen arrived at the fire the flames were coming out a vent on the northeast corner of the u-shaped building. The fire was burning in about two - thirds of the roof he reported.

The fire apparently started near the furnace located in the center of the building, near the dining room. Evidence indicated that the fire followed the heating duct in the ceiling into the wing on the north side.

The roof on the central part of the building and on the north wing was severely damaged, Winborne reported, and he stated that the entire roof would have to be replaced on these two sections.

The interior of the building was damaged by the intense heat and smoke. In some of the rooms the furniture was burned and in others the furniture was only scorched.

Insurance adjusters were on the scene this morning but the amount of loss had not been determined. Winborne, however, estimated that the loss would be approximately $25,000.

Leaders of the church announced this morning that all church services would be held as usual. The adult classes will meet together in the auditorium on Sunday. The nursery, beginners, primary and juniors will meet in the usual classrooms, which were not damaged by the fire.

The single young people's class will meet in the pastor's residence at 1044 S. Sumner.

The leaders also reported that the classroom building would be rebuilt as soon as possible and that work on the new auditorium building would continue.

Top O' Texas Breeders Plan '57 Show-Sale

The directors of the Top o' Texas Hereford Breeders Association met in the Chamber of Commerce office yesterday afternoon at which time they worked out details for the 1957 show and sale. Jake Hess of McLean, president of the association, presided over the meeting.

According to a preliminary survey, the association expects to have a minimum of 35 head of cattle for its annual sale, including several pens of two and three.

Bob Brandenburg of Amarillo was elected as judge to place the sale order. Wayne Maddox, Miami, was appointed superintendent of the show and sale and he is to be assisted by J. P. Calliham of Conway.

Ralph Thomas was selected chairman of the catalogue committee with Maddox and Hess assist-

Nagy, Others Vanish After Leaving Embassy

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

VIENNA, (UP) — Yugoslavia charged today that deposed Premier Imre Nagy and 42 other Hungarians vanished after they left asylum in its Budapest Embassy with a safe conduct guarantee from the Hungarian regime.

The Hungarians had not reached their homes today despite an agreement between Belgrade and the Moscow - backed Hungarian government that they would not be arrested, a Yugoslav spokesman said.

Foreign Undersecretary Dobrivje Vidic warned the Hungarian charge d'affaires in Belgrade that any interference with the missing Hungarians would be regarded as a grave violation of international law.

Fled Nov 4

Nagy, who became premier one month ago today, and several members of his short-lived anti-Russian government fled to asylum in the Yugoslav embassy on Nov. 4 when Russian troops invaded Budapest.

Yugoslavia negotiated a safe conduct for them Wednesday with the puppet successor government of Soviet-sponsored Premier Janos Kadar.

The 43 Hungarians—who included former ministers of state Geza Losonsi and Ferenc Donat, as as well as 15 women and 17 children—were last seen Thursday when they boarded a bus provided by Kadar's minister of public security, Ferenc Muennich.

The bus was to deliver them to their homes, but Yugoslav protests delivered today in Belgrade and Budapest said they never got there.

Firmly Worded Protest

The Yugoslav protest was firmly worded. It warned that if the leaders are not permitted to go freely to their homes, Belgrade will consider it a "very grave violation" both of international law and of friendly relations between the neighboring countries.

No such language had been used at any time since Yugoslav

Injunction To Halt Dock Strike Sought

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower prepared today to seek a Taft-Hartley injunction to halt the crippling Atlantic and Gulf Coast dock strike.

The President interrupted Thanksgiving to invoke the national emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act and set up a fact-finding board to investigate the eight-day old tieup.

Board Chairman Thomas W. Holland said he hoped to have a report at the White House by late this afternoon, clearing the way for the government to seek a strike-halting injunction.

Court Move Readied

Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. was ready to seek the injunction in Federal Court in New York upon receipt of orders from the White House.

The injunction would halt the strike for 80 days while the International Longshoremen's Union and the shipowners try to settle the dispute.

ILA counsel Louis Waldman said in New York that the union would comply with any action taken by the government under the Taft-Hartley Act.

Invocation of Taft-Hartley machinery also appeared to have made doubtful that Harry Bridges' West Coast longshoremen would join the walkout. The West Coast union scheduled a meeting with Pacific Coast shipowners today at San Francisco in renewed wage negotiations.

President Attends Church

The President signed the order setting up the fact-finding board shortly before attending Thanksgiving church services. Then he ate Thanksgiving Day dinner at the home of his son, Maj. John Eisenhower, at nearby Ft. Belvoir, Va.

Mr. Eisenhower said a continuation of the strike would imperil the national health and safety.

High Death Toll In Holiday

CHICAGO (UP) — A holiday death toll in excess of National Safety Council predictions grimly closed Thanksgiving Day festivities.

The council had hoped the death toll between 6 p.m. Wednesday and midnight Thursday would fall below the 110 traffic deaths for a non-holiday Thursday at this time of year.

The United Press count for that period showed at least 126 persons were killed in traffic accidents. Ten persons died in fires, two in a plane crash and 20 from miscellaneous causes for an overall holiday death toll of 158.

Michigan and Pennsylvania led the highway slaughter, with 13 traffic deaths each. Illinois reported 11 auto deaths, New York 10, Ohio 9, California 8, and Georgia 7.

The worst single accident occurred on U.S. 36 west of Springfield, Ill., where five members of one family died in a head-on collision.

Four Burglaries Are Reported Here

Four burglaries, which occurred in Pampa during the night, were reported to the local police department this morning.

The burglaries were reported by Haley's Music Studio, 109½ N. Frost; Whitten's Office Supply, 119 N. Frost; De Luxe Dry Cleaners, 115 W. Kingsmill; and Kennedy Distributing Co., 409 W. Foster.

Jim Conner, chief of police, reported that the entry at Whitten's Office Supply was made through a window in the rear of the store. He reported that the back door was damaged but that evidence indicated that the person or persons responsible had been unable to enter through the door and had gained access to the building through the window.

The cash register at Whitten's was taken to the rear of the building and broken into but the register was empty, Conner reported. The safe, which was unlocked, contained $60 in cash which was taken. Conner reported that apparently nothing else was taken from the firm.

The burglars did not take any items from Haley's Music Studio in the entry to that building. Again the entry was made through the back of the building.

At the De Luxe Cleaners entry was obtained by crawling through a window. Conner reported that a pane of glass had been missing from the window and this allowed the burglars to unlock the window and crawl in.

A gum machine was broken open and the pennies were taken. The soft drink machine was opened with a key and the money also taken from it. Conner reported that the preliminary check showed that no other items were taken from the cleaning firm.

Evidence at the Kennedy Distributing Co. indicated that entry to the building had been attempted by breaking a glass in the back door but apparently the burglars were scared off, Conner stated, because no signs of entry into the building were discovered.

Local officers were continuing the investigation of these burglaries late this morning in an effort to discover additional evidence, Conner reported.

Conner concluded by stating that the police department would continue the investigation until the person or persons responsible were apprehended.

Daniel Challenges Shivers To State Election Desires

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Price Daniel today challenged Gov. Allan Shivers to "state publicly whether you have ever desired" to let Texas voters pick Daniel's successor in a special election before Congress meets Jan. 3.

The Texas Senator again accused Shivers of trying to force Daniel, the governor-elect, to resign so Shivers could appoint a new senator. Daniel said Shivers apparently wants to name a senator who would vote with the Republicans on organizing the Senate and swing control from the Democrats to the GOP.

Daniel wkas elected governor in the Nov. 6 general election. His resignation, claimed by Daniel to be under a Texas statute known as the "Garner law," is dated Jan. 15—the date of his inauguration—or at such earlier date as his successor is elected and qualified.

Asks Change of Date

Shivers has demanded that Daniel change the resignation to become effective immediately so that a vacancy will exist and he can call a special election under another statute.

Daniel said Shivers waited to make the request until it was impossible to allow the legally-required 60 days to transpire before the election and have a successor elected before Jan. 3.

"Therefore, I ask your reconsideration and urge you to call the election promptly," Daniel said. He said he is sticking to his decision not to resign before Jan. 15 unless a successor has been elected.

Loot Goes To United Fund

Two men, recently caught in the act of selling what they admitted was stolen scrap iron, unwittingly contributed $15 to the local United Fund Drive.

When all their take had been counted by police, it was too varied to locate the rightful owners. Authorities, confronted with the problem of disposing of the stolen contraband decided to sell it and give the money to the United Fund. The dealer to whom they sold it, upon seeing that the scrap was only worth eleven dollars decided to contribute four dollars of his own, thus making a total of fifteen dollars which was in turn given over to the Fund drive.

The two who were apprehended, however, were rather modest about the whole thing, and did not want their names added to the honor roll of donors.

Hungarian Refugees Pour Into US

CAMP KILMER, N. J. (UP) — Refugees from Hungary streamed through this gateway to freedom today at a quickening pace that was expected to bring some 500 to America by the weekend.

Swift processing at this converted Army camp sent most of Wednesday's first planeload on their way to new homes before the second and third groups totaling 148 men, women and children arrived today.

Only 18 of the first 60 remained at Kilmer, dubbed "Camp Mercy," Thursday night. With 16 other refugees from Communist terror they ate their first Thanksgiving dinner Thursday, complete with turkey and all the trimmings.

Two planeloads of Hungarians were scheduled to reach nearby McGuire Air Force Base this morning.

First One Arrives

The first, bringing 35 men, 25 women, 11 children and four infants, landed at 3 a.m.

Some of the tired travelers faced another 2,500-mile trip to the Pacific Coast on top of their 4,500 mile journey from Hungary. Others had less than 45 miles more to go. Ferencz Szuecs, 20, and Steven Kapocsi, 27, both found new homes at New Brunswick, N.J., scarcely an hour's bus ride from Camp Kilmer.

Refugees who had never heard of Thanksgiving bowed their heads and gave thanks for their escape to freedom before eating traditional Army-style turkey dinners Thursday.

The meal was completed from tomato juice cocktail to candy and nuts. It began with a blessing by the Rev. Imre Gabos, former pastor of a Budapest Baptist church, who fled with his wife and two of his three children.

Mimeographed menus written in Hungarian were given to each of the 34 refugees seated in a former Army messhall. In them the Hungarians read, most of them for the first time, an explanation of the American holiday. A New Brunswick Hungarian language newspaper sent copies of an issue describing the celebration that has been observed since 1620.

"We thank our friends for the blessings that are here bestowed upon us, and for everything that you have done for us since we have been here," the Rev. Gabos intoned in Hungarian.

Then the group, many still wearing the ragged clothing they wore when they fled from Hungary, ate turkey, stuffing, cranberries, mashed potatoes, sweet potatoes, corn, string beans, rolls with butter, pickles, olives, carrots, celery, candy, fruit cake, nuts and pumpkin pie.

UN Assembly Expected To Okay Request

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press Staff Correspondent

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP) —The General Assembly will vote overwhelming approval of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's request for broad powers to keep the U.N. Emergency Force in Egypt, diplomatic sources predicted today.

But whether the vote could be taken at today's meeting appeared to depend largely on the outcome of other issues.

Some sources feared the entire question of the United Nations participation in the Middle East would become bogged down in a debate on an Afro-Asian resolution calling for the withdrawal of British, French and Israeli forces "forthwith" from Egypt.

The U.N. Mideast debate thus far has been fairly peaceful, but observers feared recriminations from all sides once the Afro-Asian group formally introduces its resolution in behalf of Egypt.

Hammarskjold's report to the General Assembly Wednesday said the presence of British, French and Israeli troops in Egypt prevented the emergency "police" force from fully taking over the tasks assigned to it by the assembly.

The United States was preparing a resolution which would be an "enabling act" for Hammarskjold to continue the negotiations which resulted in Egypt's acceptance of the U.N. Emergency Force (UNEF) that now has reached a strength of some 4,500 men.

Refugees From Hungary Are Pouring Into Austrian Camps

VIENNA (UP)—Hungarians fleeing Soviet terror and the threat of Siberian concentration camps poured into Austria in ever increasing numbers today and the Austrian government appealed to the world for help.

From 6,000 to 8,000 refugees were crossing the border each night, taking the facilities of the refugees - packed nation to feed and house them in near zero weather. There was no sign the flow would end.

The Russians were doing everything possible to stop them, but the Hungarians were braving Soviet bullets and freezing weather in their break for freedom. Many slumped to the ground suffering from cold and frostbite, their faces pinched with hunger.

Some had splashed through the icy border canals and their clothes had to be chopped from them. An 18-year-old girl walked all the way from Budapest on frostbitten feet, each step toward freedom bringing excruciating pain. Many were drowned, some were frozen to death.

Great airlifts were flying refugees to friendly countries throughout the world, but the need was for trains to take the thousands to nations better prepared to handle their needs.

Bruno Kreisky, undersecretary in the Austrian foreign office, told a news conference Thursday, "We call on all democratic nations to speed up help without setting any conditions." He said the flow of refugees was creating an "alarming situation."

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) said before leaving for Washington he would bring pressure on the United States government to take in as many refugees as possible by the end of the year. He urged again that up to 17,000 be given new homes and lives in America.

Walter spent four days in Vienna studying the refugees emergency at first hand.

Six Senators Plan Civil Rights Drive

WASHINGTON (UP)—Six Senate Democrats mapping an opening-day civil rights drive in the new Congress are quietly soliciting Republican support, informed sources disclosed today.

So far, a handful of GOP senators have been approached. Each has been asked to rally civil rights advocates for the drive, these sources reported.

The same sources confirmed reports that the Democrats will try when the Senate convenes Jan. 3 to spike the long-accepted idea that the Senate is a continuing body with continuing rules. That would clear the way for a substitute filibuster rule.

Such a substitute rule would, in turn, remove the major roadblock to civil rights legislation in Congress—the threat of a Senate filibuster.

The six Democrats announced Thursday that they will press for a new filibuster rule on opening day. The announcement was part of a 16-point domestic legislative program they made public as a guide for "liberal" action by their party.

Besides setting the stage for a civil rights row, their program served as a rebuff to Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.). He recently said the Democrats would offer no program of their own but wait to study President Eisenhower's legislative proposals.

UF Contributions Total $46,333

The Pampa-Lefors United Fund campaign has reached virtually 90 per cent of its goal in contributions, Clinton Evans, drive chairman, reported this morning.

The total now stands at $46,333 with the goal $51,500

Collections have been coming in real good so far and we still have a pretty good little bit out in the way of cards not yet turned in," Evans said. "So we stand a mighty good chance of making our goal in the near future," he added.

J. R. Sparkman of Lefors has turned in $411 from that town and the goal there is $500.

Russian Attitude Toward Hungary, Poland Vague

Editors note: Kenneth Brodney is a former United Press manager in Moscow. The following dispatch, based on his own first-hand observation of the new collective leadership in Russia, analyzes the apparent contradictions between Russian treatment of Poland and ruthless way in which it crushed the revolt in Hungary.

By KENNETH BRODNEY
Written For United Press

The baffling spectacle of the Russians giving in tamely to Polish demands for more freedom while continuing their savage crack-down on Hungary continues — and will continue to confuse the East.

It illustrates the key factor in Soviet policy - making: Necessity.

The Soviets gave in to the Poles because they thought they had to — as the only way to prevent another Hungarian revolt.

But they also smashed the Hungarian revolt because they thought they had to—as the only way of saving their sacred line of buffer states from the West, which they still fear with their old obsessive fear.

And necessity will also prevent any wholesale return to complete Stalinism inside Russia; to the terrorization of the entire population by the secret police and the mass purges of the old dictator.

Drop Old Tactics

The team that took over when Stalin died dropped these tactics because they were forced to by popular pressure, not because of any mystic conversion inside the Kremlin to the side of the angels.

Popular pressure in Russia can't express itself politically, but it can in a hundred other ways, grinding like massive millstones.

People grumble publicly, they argue bitterly with the beaucrats, they get drunk, they steal and embezzle and bribe, and they speculate on the black market.

But most important — for the government — they work less. And they work less efficiently. The effects are felt in the production figures, in factories, on farms.

The Kremlin's hand was finally forced by another factor. The Soviet economy was growing out of the early stage of making any machine that was better than a hoe or a horse-plow. Now they were making jet planes, atom bombs, electronic brains.

Can't Force Thinking

It may have been possible to force a man to run a tractor or turn a single part on a lathe by keeping a cop standing over him.

But guns can't force a man to think, even in Russia. And the number of Russians who must think—on the job—keeps rising. They keep pouring out of the universities and technical schools.

The Russians, with 39 years of rigid Communist discipline behind them (and memories of centuries of the same medicine under the czars), took their government's sharp warnings. They slowed down.

The Poles, under veteran Communist Gomulka, took the same ominous hint, and have just been given their half-a-loaf reward.

The Hungarians weren't so lucky, and the full weight of the Kremlin's fury fell on their heads like thunder and lightning.

But the flashing resistence of the Hungarians, the more restrained but still stubborn demands of the Poles, and the slowly grinding millstones of the Russian people's pressure have all taught the Kremlin new lessons.

Turn for Worse

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP)—An illegal left turn was only a warmup for Gene Gool.

Before a pursuing police officer caught up and arrested him, Gool, 25, had zipped through red lights, struck a fire plug and a police cruiser, and after being stopped once, knocked down a police officer with his car and sped off.

Same Question Asked Wherever U. S. Reporter Travels In Budapest

(EDITORS NOTE: United Press staff correspondent Russell Jones is the only U. S. newsman still in Budapest.)

By RUSSELL JONES
United Press Staff Correspondent

BUDAPEST (UP)—They ask the same whispered questions in the hurried conversations that spring up wherever the only American reporter travels in search of news in Budapest.

"How do I get out?"

"What are the borders like?"

"How many times do the Russians check you before the borders?"

The news has come to this battle-torn city that President Eisenhower will allow 5,000 Hungarian refugees to enter the United States.

They Want to Know How

Hungarians want to know how to get out and the reporter is a busy man. Already the U. S. legation has been besieged by dozens of Hungarians seeking visas under the "Eisenhower plan."

While the fighting was going on, many a newspaperman received tearful pleas for help, for moral support from the freedom fighters, both men and women.

Now there are the whispers—and the notes. Dozens and dozens of times, in three weeks in Budapest, you have found the notes.

You come back to your car and find a note stuck under the windshield wiper. You find them under your plate at lunch. They are slipped into your hand as you pass by.

Sometimes they want you to get word to relatives in America. Or perhaps it's just a message to everybody in the United States

At the Cspel Island steelworks south of Budapest Tuesday, a hand reached out of the crowd and passed a dirty scrap of paper into my hand

TELEPHONE COMPANY LOCAL TAXES IN PAMPA ARE ENOUGH TO EDUCATE 127 YOUNGSTERS A YEAR

What the telephone company means to Pampa

EMPLOYER . . . provides good jobs for 100 of your neighbors who earn $336,966 a year — and spend most of it here in Pampa.

TAXPAYER . . . pays $31,507 a year in local taxes alone — enough to cover the cost of educating 127 Texas grade school children for a year.

BUYER . . . buys thousands of dollars worth of supplies and services from Pampa firms.

Today you can call 10,045 telephones in Pampa homes and businesses — more than twice as many as just ten years ago.

G. H. NEWBERRY, Manager

Few people but the tax collector would care that last year the telephone company paid $31,507 in local taxes alone here in Pampa.

But when you realize that this was enough to pay the cost of educating 127 Texas grade school children for a year, the importance of telephone taxes to everyone in the community becomes clear.

Pampa benefits from telephone company activity in other ways, too . . . from the $336,966 payroll which helps keep business rolling in Pampa . . . the many thousands of dollars' worth of goods and services the company buys from local people every year . . . the active interest that our 100 telephone people here take in community, church, and neighborhood affairs.

Most important of all, Pampa can depend on good telephone service. We've put 5,389 more telephones in Pampa homes and businesses within reach of your telephone in the last ten years – and added 23,096 miles of wire to tie us all closer together.

These are good examples of the way we can improve the value of your service and contribute more as good citizens when we can have faith that company profits will be fair and reasonable.

MRS. DWAIN JOHNSON
... dies in Abilene

Infantile Paralysis Claims Life Of Former Pampan

Funeral services for Mrs. Dwain Johnson, 21, of Abilene were to be held at 3:30 p.m. today in Abilene. Mrs. Johnson, the former Shirley Smith of Pampa, died Wednesday in Abilene of infantile paralysis.

She is the niece of Mrs. Elmer Prescott, 509 Short. She attended Pampa High School and was graduated from White Deer High School.

Survivors include her husband; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Smith of Claude, former Pampans; and one son, Michael, 6 months old.

Telephone Firm Employees Honored

A party honoring two Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. employees who received service pins was held recently in the Pampa Hotel.

Receiving pins from office manager George Newberry were Mrs. Colene Neal, who got a 10-year button; and Mrs. Elizabeth Marshall, the recipient of a 20-year button.

STOCK

mated cost of a modern hotel for Pampa which will have 100 rooms and other necessary facilities has been set at $1,300,000.

The charter of the Community Hotel Company of Pampa limits the amount that can be secured by mortgage to 40 per cent so it will be necessary to raise the $800,000 if the hotel planned for Pampa is to be built, campaign directors pointed out today.

The stock in the hotel is being sold in units of $100. This includes $50 share of stock and a $50 debenture which will bear 4 per cent interest per year. The debentures will be purchased from the owners within a period of 30 years, according to plans set forth in the charter.

The type of structure to be built and the location of the hotel structure have not been determined and will not be determined until after a meeting of all stockholders in the community owned hotel, the executive committee has reported. The only item the present group of directors are interested in is raising of the necessary sum to assure a hotel in Pampa, they report.

Those in charge at this time will turn all decisions about the construction and operation of the hotel over to a board of directors that will be elected by the stockholders.

NAGY

President Tito resumed relations with Russian and the other eastern European Communist nations in 1955.

The bitter protest coincided with a new attack on Tito by the Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda. It accused him of trying to supplant Russia as leader of the Communist world.

Hungary was still paralyzed by a two-day "total strike" and workers called for a one-hour period of mourning for the patriots who gave their lives in the nation's fight for freedom. The situation was so tense anything could happen.

A Communist radio Budapest broadcast asserted the Budapest workers council had "changed its mind" about the strike and appealed to workers to return to their jobs. There was no indication whether the report was actually sanctioned by the workers council or "inspired" by the Communist regime.

Talks Go On

Nagy, deposed by the Soviet armed forces even as he negotiated for their removal from Hungary, took refuge in the Yugoslav Embassy Nov. 4. An announcement in Belgrade said he left this temporary safety Thursday night to dare possible Soviet reprisals in his efforts to restore order.

The restoration of Nagy to the premiership has been one of the major demands of the Hungarian workers. Soviet-puppet Premier Janos Kadar, in his desperate attempts to appease the workers, has promised to negotiate with Nagy only after he left the embassy.

Communique Reports Return

A communique issued by the foreign minister in Belgrade said Nagy and 48 other Hungarian refugees returned to their homes under a written guarantee of safety from the Kadar regime.

But there apparently was no guarantee of safety from the Soviet military forces.

Reliable sources said the Russians have told Kadar they will not accept Nagy as the head of any new coalition government but only as a member. Kadar has been negotiating with leaders of other political parties but there is no indication that any agreement on such a government has been reached.

The Red-controlled Budapest radio asserted that a "real" coalition government is necessary if the nation would attain independence.

In its noon (5 a.m. cst) broadcast, Radio Budapest claimed that 60 per cent of the workers had returned to their jobs in the iron and steel mills on Budapest's suburban Csepel Island. Similar radio claims in the past have been proved inaccurate.

The radio also said 4,500 miners were back on the job in the Borsod coal mines of Eastern Hungary.

In a disclosure that indicated possible sabotage, the radio said fire was raging in one of the Borsod mines at Alberttelep. The radio said miners from all over the region were fighting the blaze.

BRITISH

The British government itself was torn by dissension over the Suez crisis, and a major fight was shaping up in the United Nations where an Afro-Asian bloc was prepared to demand that Britain, France and Israel leave Egypt "forthwith."

Egypt Warns Of War

Egypt also warned that failure of the three nations to withdraw might touch off a third world war. Egypt was backed by Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov who said as long as the three nations remain "there is no guarantee that the war may not break out again."

The Israeli foreign office announced its forces in the Sinai Desert had withdrawn "up to 50 kilometers" (about 31 miles), apparently from their forward positions only ten miles from the canal. Britain announced withdrawal of a token force of one battalion and France said it had pulled out one-third of its troops and two-thirds of its navy.

But both Britain and France were reported to fear their withdrawal now would delay for many months the reopening of the Suez Canal whose blocking by sunken ships already has produced an oil shortage in Europe and cut into the economy of many nations.

British Tension Builds

The situation was especially difficult for the British government. A revolt within the Conservative Party threatened to oust Sir Anthony Eden as prime minister if Britain withdraws its troops. The crisis was postponed until Lloyd returns from New York.

The harshest language came from Egypt where Wing Commander Aly Sabri, political adviser to Nasser, said Egypt rejected the Anglo-French condition that they would withdraw only after the United Nations Emergency Force becomes effective.

Sabri, in an interview over Cairo Radio, said Egypt had decided to admit the U.N. police force in an effort to enforce the peaceful withdrawal of the invaders.

Fred Sloan Is AEP President

Fred Sloan, Skelly Oil Co., has been elected as the new president of the Adult Education Program of Pampa. Sloan has been leader of the American Heritage Group for the past three years. John Bradley, former president, an employee of Cabot, has been transferred.

The Group on Heritage of West Texas will meet in Lovett Memorial Library on Tuesday afternoon, December 4. Mrs. Cliff Vincent, Lefors, is chairman of the group.

Formation of a new group on Foreign Policies and World Affairs was discussed. It is hoped this group will be organized by the first of January. Interested persons are asked to contact the library.

Borger Attorney Found Dead

Eugene Piper, a Borger attorney, was found dead this morning approximately three miles west and two miles north of Skellytown on Farm-to-Market Road 252.

The Carson County sheriff, John Nunn, was notified at 10:15 this morning of the discovery of Piper's body but did not make any statements as to the cause of death.

He was a partner in the law firm of Piper, Gassaway and Allen in Borger where he had lived since 1937. He moved to Borger from Manzanola, Colo., and worked in Borger for several years before returning to school and obtaining his law degree.

The body was taken to Minton's Funeral Home in Borger where funeral arrangements are pending.

Police Seek Death Cause

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (UP)—Police sought today to learn whether a mysterious illness that killed a fruit picker and at least two of his 10 children was arsenic poisoning.

The fruit picker's wife—the only member of the family not dead or ill — was taken into custody Thursday night for questioning.

Police said the mysterious illness struck only 12 days ago at William Kidwell's house at nearby Kearneysville, W. Va. Police described the house as broken down and filth-strewn.

Two Kidwell children—one-year old Thomas and two-year old Charles — died early this week. A 10-week old Kidwell child died earlier this month. Kidwell died Thursday.

The seven other children are hospitalized at Washington County General Hospital in Hagerstown. One child was reported in critical condition.

Police said traces of arsenic were found in the bodies of Thomas and Charles.

Senior Citizens Have Program On Christmas Gifts

Mrs. H. H. Hicks presented a program on making Christmas gifts Thursday afternoon in the Lovett Library at the meeting of the Senior Citizens Center, which is sponsored by the Pampa Altrusa Club.

Altrusa members serving as hostesses were Mmes. W.A. York, V.L. Hobbs, Mark Heath; and Miss J. Flanagan. They were assisted by Mrs. Mary Jean Davis.

Team of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Norris won the attendance count. About 20 persons were present. Guests from Miami were Mrs. E. A. Shackleton and Mrs. Bill Lard.

The Center, open to any senior citizen who is interested, meets each Thursday at 2:30 p.m. in the Lovett Library. Transportation to and from the meeting is provided by Altrusa members or Red Cross Grey Ladies.

Infant Dies During Night

The family had moved to Pampa about two days ago.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home.

Make-up which is improperly applied and gives the face a rosy or oily look will make the wearer appear hot and bothered, even in an air-conditioned room.

Mrs. S. Miller Rites Set

Funeral services for Mrs. Sally Malinda Miller, who died at 10:15 a.m. yesterday in Highland General Hospital, will be conducted at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Duenkel-Carmichael Chapel with Rev. Woodrow Adcock, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiating.

Mrs. Miller moved to Pampa about ten years ago from Spring Creek, Pa., where she had lived all of her life, and made her home with a daughter, Mrs. Bert Robinson, 421 E. Browning.

She was a member of the First Methodist Church and of the Rebekah Lodge.

She is survived by one other daughter, Miss Alice Miller, 415 Yeager.

Pallbearers will be: D. E. Roundtree, J. B. Massa, O. E. Chenoweth, R. F. Marlar and Elders Jackson and Harmon, of the Mormon Church.

Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery under the direction of Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home.

Addiction

Dope addiction, alcoholism and government dependence are three maladies which probably spring from a common root. Where any one of them manifest, the individual has lost his self-reliance. Instead of standing on his own feet he is leaning on some thing or some one.

In the case of both dope addiction and alcoholism, which are only minor indications of a personal inferiority complex, the person who is harmed most is the addict himself. Of course there are extensions of the harm to a few others. But in the main, the spineless unfortunate who succumbs to addiction is himself the largest recipient of evil.

Unfortunately, where government dependence looms, the one who grows sheep-like and docile under bureaucratic massage, inflicts injury on the rest of the public in large doses. The more he leans, the more the government compels others to make up for his lack of self-sufficiency.

And most unfortunate of all, while there is a national problem related to dope, drugs and liquor, compared to the size of the dependency problem it is a minor irritation. Today we are simply inundated with individuals who don't want to or refuse to be personally independent and responsible.

And this is a serious condition indeed, reflected as it is by the monstrous growth of bureaucracy within even these last ten years.

In 1945 the total cost of the socialist welfare program in this country came to $7.9 billions. But in 1955, following this same trend toward sublimentotion to the will of the politicians, we spent a total of $32.4 billions, nearly the precise amount of money collected by means of the individual income tax.

The Institute of Life Insurance has furnished us with the following table showing the growth of governmental dependency in the socialist welfare category:

(All figures in billions)	1945	1955
Education	$3.4	$10.9
Social Security	1.4	9.9
OASI	0.3	4.4
All other	1.1	5.5
Veterans Programs	0.9	4.4
Health and Medical Service	1.0	3.3
Public Aid	1.0	3.0
Totals	$7.9	$32.4

We can readily see that our national dependence upon Uncle Sam's tax collector has now reached the size of a major problem. To defend the country and to pay for all wars, past and probable, comes to something close to $50 billion at the moment. But only a few years ago it was less than the amount we are now spending in our wild orgy of dependency upon the force and violence of government.

The cure for alcoholism is painful and difficult. But any member of A. A. will tell you that the beginning of the cure is found in the will of the addict to discipline himself. Without that will, outside assistance is of small avail.

The curing of the drug addict is even more slow and painful. But the will of the individual to be cured is still the paramount factor. If the victim of this habit actually doesn't want to be cured, all the pain and effort of the experts can be wasted on him.

Curing ourselves of the national habit of depending on the government requires the same type of will. We, as individuals, must WANT to stand on our own feet. If we don't want to, then whatever happens, we will resist all efforts made to cure us.

And right now, like the juvenile devotee of marijuana, the effort of being able to lean upon the government is so pleasant that most of those addicted have no desire to break off the habit.

They are so far gone in the pleasures of getting something for nothing, saddling the rest of the economy with their own wants and needs, and living on credit, personal or national, that they go along drifting on the pink cloud of illusion.

The question of our time is related to the individual will of our citizens, more than to the propensity of our politicians to dish out the loot.

The professionals will always be glad to furnish us with dope, liquor or dependence. Our job as Americans, is to learn how to say NO.

THE NATION'S PRESS

WHY TAKE ON MORE TITOS?
(N. Y. Daily News)

We hope earnestly that the current upheavals in Poland and Hungary mean the Red Slave Empire is cracking at the edges, and that the cracks may eventually reach to the Kremlin in Moscow.

However, a cagy friend of ours remarks: "Well, Russia can't keep the Poles from starving, so it's pulling a fast play to give us another country to feed, just like Yugoslavia."

Call that a cynical crack if you wish. But the fact remains that up to now Poland and Hungary have only traded Kremlin - Red rulers for nationalist Red rulers. Commies still run both countries—or did when we went to press—and restored Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy has called in Russian tanks, troops and planes to keep him in control.

So why should we rush to offer U. S. economic aid to Poland and Hungary?

If such aid would increase Polish and Hungarian resistance to Communism, fine. But it would seem much more likely to shore up the new Red-thug cliques which have taken over from the old.

Why add a couple more Titos to our relief rolls? The original Tito, Red czar of Yugoslavia, is still a highly dubious friend of ours, after a billion worth of U. S. aid. If he is a friend at all.

CONTROL, TYRANNY, DICTATORSHIP
(Christian Economics)

If a citizen wishes to have a part in the ownership of constructive enterprise and purchases through his bank or broker the stock of a corporation, the government forces him to pay at least 70 per cent of the purchase price of the securities in cash. If a citizen whishes to buy a home he may do so by paying down as little as 5, 2, or sometimes 0 per cent of the purchase price.

No government credit is involved when the citizen buys the stock of the corporation, but when he buys a home with a government guaranteed mortgage, a contingent liability rests upon all of us to make possible the extension of the unsound credit.

In other words, government has assumed the right to control the individual in the expenditure of his own funds. He is discouraged and handicapped if he wishes to invest in industry but he is subsidized at the expense of all of us if he wishes to buy a home. Home ownership is desirable but so is ownership of a constructive business enterprise.

Free government has no function in thus determining what the individual may do with his own money. Such control goes beyond tyranny into the realm of dictatorship.

Competition

V.

In the last issue Frederic Bastiat in his essay on "Competition" explained how labor in England, when it was regulated by the government, received higher wages in mining coal than labor in in other lines of work. Then Bastiat goes on to explain in this manner:

"But this state of things cannot last; for a great natural and social law is opposed to it — Competition. For the very reason that this species of labour is largely remunerated in England, it will be in great demand there, for men are always in quest of high remuneration. The number of miners will increase, both in consequence of the sons of miners devoting themselves to their fathers' trade, and in consequence of men transferring their industry to mining from other departments. They will offer to work for a smaller recompense, and their remuneration will go on dminishing until it reaches the normal rate, or the rate generally given in the country for analogous work.

"This means that the price of English coal will fall in France; that a given amount of French labour will procure a greater and greater quantity of English coal, or rather of English labour incorporated and worked up in coal; and, finally (and this is what I pray you to remark), that the gift which nature would appear to have bestowed upon England has in reality been conferred on the whole human race. The coal of Newcastle is brought within the reach of all men gratuitously, as far as the mere material is concerned.

"This is neither a paradox nor an exaggeration, — it is brought within their reach like the water of the brook, on the single condition of going to fetch it, or remunerating those who undertake that labour for us. When we purchase coal, it is not the coal that we pay for, but the labour necessary to extract it and transport it. All that we do is to give a corresponding amount of labour which we have worked up or incorporated in wine or in silk. So true is it that the liberality of nature has been extended to France, that the labour which we refund is not greater than that which it would have been necessary to undergo had the deposit of coal been in France. Competiton has established equality between the two nations as far as coal is concerned, except as regards the inevitable and inconsiderable difference resulting from distance and carriage.

"I have given two examples, and, to render the phenomenon more striking, I have selected international transactions, which are effective on a great scale. I fear I may thus have diverted the reader's attention from the same phenomena acting incessantly around us in our every-day transactions. Let him take in his hand the most familiar objects, a glass a nail, a loaf, a piece of cloth, a book. Let him meditate on such ordinary products, and reflect how great an amount of gratuitous utility would never but for competition have become common for humanity at large, although remaining gratuitous for the producer. He will find that, thanks to competition, in purchasing his loaf he pays nothing for the action of the sun, nothing for the rain, nothing for the frost, nothing for the laws of vegetable physiology, nothing even for the powers of the soil, despite all that has been said on that subject; nothing for the law of gravitation set to work by the miller; nothing for the law of combustion set to work by the baker; nothing for the horsepower set to work by the carrier; — that he pays only for the services rendered, the pains taken, by human agents; and let him reflect that, but for competition, he must have paid, over and above, a tax for the intervention of all these natural agents; that that tax would have had no other limit than the difficulty which he might himself have experienced in procuring the loaf by his own efforts, and that consequently a whole life would not have been sufficient to supply the remuneration which would have been demanded of him.

"Let him think farther, that he does not make use of a single commodity which might not give rise to the same reflections, and that these reflections apply not to him only, but to all mankind, and he will then comprehend the radical error of those socialist theories which, looking only at the surface of things, the epidermis of society, have been set up with so much levity against competition, in other words, against human Liberty. He will then regard competition, which preserves to the gifts of nature, unequally distributed, their common and gratuitous character, as the principle of of a just and natural equalization; he will admire it as the force which holds in check the egotism of individual interest, with which at the same time it is so artistically combined as to serve both as a curb to avarice and a spur to exertion; and he will bless it as a most striking manifestation of God's impartial solicitude for the good of all his creatures.

"From what has been said, we may deduce the solution of one of the problems which have been most keenly controverted, namely, that of free trade as between nation and nation. If it be true, as seems to be incontestable, that competition leads the various countries of the globe to exchange with one another nothing else than labour, exertion more and more equalized, and to transfer at the same time reciprocally, and into the bargain, the natural advantages that each possesses; how blind and absurd must those men be who exclude foreign products by legislative measures, under the pretext that they are cheap, and have little value in proportion to their aggregate utility; that is to say, precisely because they include a large proportion of gratuitous utility!

"I have said, and I repeat it, that I have confidence in a theory when I find it in accordance with universal practice. Now it is certain that countries would effect many exchanges with each other were they not interdicted by force. It requires the bayonet to prevent them; and for that reason it is wrong to prevent them."

Orange Juice To Fill Hollywood's Swimming Pools

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

TAMPA Fla. — The process of reducing the juice of the orange and grapefruit to frozen concentrate was developed late in the war by three scientists working for the Florida Citrus Commission. They are Drs. L. G. MacDowell, stationed at Lakeland as director of research for the Commission, and Edwin L. Moore and C. D. Atkins, of the Lake Alfred Station, both in the citrus belt. The consumption of frozen Florida concentrate has increased from 226,000 gallons in 1945-46 to 70,400,000 in 1955-56, and there is still a low ceiling on this phase of the industry imposed by the shortage of refrigeration in ocrner stores and homes.

Relatively few of the potential "outlets" have such cold - boxes and only a small minority of homes can store more than three or four cans, if any. The high cost of home "units" including usurious "financing" charges taken by loan sharks, rising to 40 per cent, are a brake on the home market for concentrated juice. There is only a small foreign market for obvious reasons. The freezer is almost exclusively a luxury of American homes and of only a minority of our homes, at that.

Doctor MacDowell, among others, was working toward an equivalent of the loathsome powdered eggs of evil memory to soldiers and Marines when the war ended and the Pentagon abruptly cancelled tentative orders amounting to millions of dollars. There had been a hazy intention of evaporating everything out of the fruit down to a powder which could become orange juice or grapefruit juice again with the addition of water. Birdseye and others with a big stake in the game were up against a situation which seemed desperate. Then MacDowell and his colleagues decided to halt the evaporation when only 25 per cent of the juice and pulp remained.

The oils and other by - products already are gone when the residue is reached, but much of the absent component has been recaptured in the flues. It is used in paint, perfume, soap and flavoring. The rinds are rinsed, squozen and ground into alcohol, a strange kind of molasses suitable for Kine, and a flaky product which is not of first importance as food for meat animals but does augment their other diet. The evaporation is done in an upended tank which looks like a boiler but isn't. It has five sets of graduated tubes through which the juice is drained down and lifted back as vapor, over and over. The fifth run ends the process. The concentrate then flows out the bottom into pipes which presently squirt it into cans of various sizes from the "institutional" half - gallon down to the familiar little household can.

I took my novitiate at the Snow Crop factory of the Minute Maid Company and a few miles out of Lakeland. It is typical and a little bigger and a little smaller than others. An enormous lot of work is done by very little manpower in this factory, and for that matter, in the field, too. The groves are so many and so vast that the managers of the canneries at the height of the season use radio to direct their trucks far away in the groves to this or that plant to avoid congestion, waiting and spoilage and, of course, idleness and loss of production at plants which have run out of raw material. This use of the radio has evoked complaints from the cops and taxi-drivers against interference with their communications.

I wish I could think of a way to depict even to myself the amount of original juice represented by last year's concentrate. The 70,400,000 gallons of concentrate were originally roughly four times that much natural juice. We could easily say that this would fill all the swimming pools in Hollywood, but that means nothing. It would fill most of the swimming pools in the United States if you ask me in a hurry, plus all the bathtubs in Manhattan, the Bronx and Vermont.

The producers have been nagging themselves with futile longings for pipeline distribtuion which would save freight, but the corruptibility of this substance once it is taken out of freeze has frustrated all such thoughts thus far. Inevitably, some learned doctor will spy a bug which, being bred to a thing, will devour a factor which at present causes the concentrate to swell up, turn morose and vindictive and even, in hot sun, to explode a sealed can. That will be the time to think of pipelines for orange juice and grapefruit juice across the vasty plains and through the city streets up into faucets in the beautiful American home.

Doctors MacDowell, Moore and Atkins, at first glimpse, seem to me to be either saintly persons out of this world, and much too good and not long for it, or feeble-minded double - domes. Because I have it in a letter from Robert C. Evans, the general manager of the State Citrus Commission, that after they invented this process and a patent was granted in 1948 on an application made in 1945, they "assigned" it to the U.S. Department of

Reds Have Shown UN To Be A Debating Society

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Washington's official complacency in the face of new Communist conquests appalls Congressional and diplomatic groups which have access to private information from overseas. But they recoil helplessly from the only action that would check the Soviet's advance on all world fronts — namely a war agannst Russia.

Although a counteroffensive before it is too late dominates discussion at the Capital, but not on the official agenda, the fact is that the Western Allies are not strong enough today to wage such a conflict. Our European defense establishment, NATO, has been stripped of its main French and British units for service in the Middle East and North Africa. Germany has not rearmed.

The United States has neither the forces nor equipment for a "brush fire" affair. And an atomic war would be conducted only on an immediate threat to our national security in a dire sense.

Some members of the Baghdad Pact and SEATO — organizations that were supposed to contain Russian in the Levant and Southeast Asia — sympathize with Russia and Egypt in the Suez Canal and Israeli crises. In fact, Red military forces have leapfrogged the Turkish - Iran - Pakistan defense line by flying troops and arms into Egypt, Lebanon, Jordan and Syria.

The failure of the Anglo-French punitive expedition against Egypt, with Nasser's resounding success, demonstrates vividly the weakness of Allied arms without American reinforcement. And that, President Eisenhower has promised not to send, nor would Congress back him up, if he did.

Moscow, on the other hand, halted the British and French invaders in their tracks by Bulganin's mere threat to send "rockets."

While staging this coup, Russia has made other impressive gains at the expense of the West. She has shattered the unity of the Western "Big Three," and aroused distrust of our friends. She has revealed the United Nations to be only a debating society, whose warnings she flouts and ignores.

Moscow has strengthened her position in Middle Europe. She has handled the Polish disagreement with a political reshuffling, and she has launched a mongolian massacre of the Hungarian people. Her troops are mobilized along her side of the "Iron Curtain." The West cheered the rebels, but did nothing to aid them.

The American attitude as been noble and humanitarian, but ineffective, in the minds of friends and neutrals. It has cost us prestige from Korea to Gibraltar, throughout the European, Asian and African Continents. In a world ablaze, so they think, spectators standing aloof on the sidewalks do not make effective fire-fighters.

Even this grim toll does not begin to measure the greatest extent and gravity of the Russian sweep. Through her active support of the Arab peoples, and their new hatred of the West, Moscow may yet deprive Western Europe of oil vitally essential for a war machine or peacetime industry.

In short, the "Iron Curtain," which now crosses Europe from the Baltic to the Black Sea, may be extended permanently as far as the Indian Ocean, The Suez Canal, the oil fields and the pipelines would become Communist property. If so, all India would fall into Moscow's grip. And the Soviet has accomplished these historic and strategic aims without undue strain on her military or peacetime economy.

Only a "massive and preventive" war can force the Communists to retire behind pre-Suez lines. However they avoid such a prospect, or even public mention of it, Washington officials and diplomats concede pessimistically that there is no other remedy. Yet nobody dares to precipitate a nuclear holocaust.

Rhine Navigation Is Of Great Importance To Dutch.

By HENRY McLEMORE

AFLOAT ON THE RHINE — I discovered another similarity between life on the Mississippi in Mark Twain's time and barge life on the Rhine today in the person of Jopp Spykers.

There he was, this sixteen-year-old apprentice, perched on a high stool in the wheelhouse, chin cupped in hands, drinking in the words of the captain, who was at the helm.

Like his father, who was a Rhine barge skipper up until his death a few years ago, Jopp wants to command a vessel that makes the run up and down the broad water highway between Rotterdam and Basel in Switzerland.

He has been aboard the barge Merwesteyn (the one on which Mary and I are travelling with U.S. Army cargo from Rotterdam to Mannheim) for three months. He came to the Merwesteyn after passing physical and intelligence tests given by an organization with the formidable name of Koninlyk Onderwysfonds Voor De Scheepyaart. Broken down into English this means, roughly, The Royal Teaching Fund for Navigation — or something very close to that.

Jopp will serve on the Merwesteyn as an apprentice for three years, and after that he must stay in the employ of the barge's owners for three more.

The company pays him a nominal salary, plus room and board, while he is training, and the State organization pays for his lessons. Once he signed on the Merwesteyn, Jopp became the responsibility of the skipper, Capt. Theodore Starrenburg, and there is a strong father - son relationship.

The skipper must fill out a daily form for the State, stating Jopp's progress and deportment. Captain Starrenburg is responsible for just about everything — Jopp's health, moral upbringing, recreation and even girl friends. Jopp must be in his bunk by nine every night, and this is just about the Captain's hardest job. When Jopp won't go to bed, the skipper or one of the mates tosses him in.

The apprentice does light work about the ship, but most of the time he is observing and listening. The wheelhouse is his favorite spot and he spends hours there, listening to the captain explain the ever-changing channel of the Rhine, the safe spots, the dangerous ones, and the landmarks. Jopp is a fanatic on the subject of radar, and spends most of the evenings with his eyes fastened on the scope.

Next to getting him to bed on time, the skipper has the hardest time getting Jopp to stay in his cabin and study the required two hours a day. Often the skipper checks on him up forward, and finds him busying himself with deck work instead of books. Before Jopp came on board, the State organization, through social workers, had given him a full briefing on the boy's background and home life. If a boy needs guidance along a certain path he gets it, and if he needs correction he gets that too.

The captain explained that a lot, a whole lot, depended on the boy. Barge life is a world of its own — demanding hard work, long hours. To advance in his profession he must work hard, and to educate himself culturally he must be willing to spend most of his few spare hours, not at play, but poring over books, strolling through museums, and buying cheap seats to concerts.

Rhine navigation is of tremendous importance to the Dutch economy. Skippers, mates and crewmen are sorely needed, and enough youngsters aren't turning to the big river — hence the State organization, and the cooperation of the shipping companies.

Pampa News Women's Editor

IT TOOK A MAN'S MAGAZINE to set a bomb underneath one of the oldest and most steadfastly observed of all of the wives' tales concerning food preparation. In a recent issue of "Playboy," Thomas Mario, food and drink editor, debunks the time-honored wooden salad bowl, long the pride of the sophisticate's kitchen. In an article describing numerous esoteric ways to make artistic salads, Mario suggests that culinery experts should toss out the wooden salad bowl along with their potato peelings, egg shells and peach pits. They may look appetizing, Mario suggests, but they spoil more salads than they help.

"YOU WERE told," the article asserts to all salad makers, male or female, "that if you use the bowl often enough, the garlic, pepper and other seasonings would become impregnated into the wood. In time these flavors would be transferred to any salad mixed in the bowl. You were told not to wash the bowl but merely wipe it clean after each use. Wood is porous and therefore absorbent. When you rub it with garlic often enough, it may eventually acquire a built-in garlic odor. But it also absorbs the oil of the salad dressing. Oil in time turns rancid. No legerdemain will remove the unclean, off-flavor of many of these wooden bowls."

As though that were not enough of a blockbuster for one article, Mario drops this earthshaker in the same article:

"Playboy would like to puncture one more old wives' tale. . .the theory that salad greens should never be cut with a knife but should only be torn with the fingers. According to old cook books, the rusty color of the knife would stain the tender greens and spill their natural appearance. The answer to this dictum," Mario concludes, "is not to use a rusty knife."

DIETITIANS urge that we serve more strength - giving and healthful foods. With school children and people in trades and business eating hurriedly at noon, it is important that breakfast consist of energy foods.

Honey has limited quantities of all the important constituents of the vitamin B complex, vitamin C, some hormones, and amino acids. Honey is a safe food since bacteria which cause diseases in human beings cannot grow in it. Even infants may have honey in their foods; it aids in retaining calcium and it has minerals necessary for growth.

Cereals, fruits, pancakes, waffles and toast are all improved by an addition of honey. Honey is easy to keep and use and should not be refrigerated. The breakfast drink, whether it be milk, cocoa, tea, or coffee, is made more delicious and nutritious if honey is added.

A spoonful in the cavity of baked apples, or in cored grapefruit takes only a second. Honey placed on other fruits or added as an ingredient to muffins, French toast, fired cornmeal mush are only a few suggestions for the creative homemaker who likes to experiment with new taste tempters for her family.

Super markets and independent grocers all have honey to sell. It is easy to obtain, to keep, to use, and helps start the day right. A good breakfast helps win the day's battle at school or work.

Vada Waldron GA Present Program

The Vada Waldron Junior Girls' Auxiliary of the First Baptist Church presented a pantomime, "We've A Story To Tell To The Nations," for the district 10 meeting of the Women's Missionary Union in Amarillo.

Readers were Misses Jan Adams and Franceine Forrester. Miss Jud Pemberton was cross bearer, while Misses Joan McCracken and Jean Franklin were flag bearers. Representing the various nations were Miss Ronnie Roach, Europe; Miss Jerlyn Carter, South America; Miss Kathy Flynn North America; Miss Synora Kendrix, Africa; and DeAnne Tarr, Asia.

The girls were accompanied to Amarillo on the bus by their counselor, Mrs. W. B. Franklin; their sponsors, Mmes. L. L. Harkins, Weldon Trice and E. B. Pemberton; and W. B. Franklin.

Enroute, Miss Francine Forrester, program chairman, led a program "Thanksgiving Time is Here." Miss Joan McCracken led the prayer for a missionary, and the meeting was colsed with prayer by Miss Jan Adams.

Bridge Club Plays Howell Movement

The Howell movement was played by the 32 persons attending the meeting of the Pampa Duplicate Bridge Club in the Episcopal Parish House.

It was announced the next session will be masterpoint night, during which members may earn more points than usual toward a master point.

Winners were Mrs. Ham Luna and Mrs. Haskell Maguire and Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Williams, tied for first; Mr. and Mrs. Greely Warner, third; Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Rowe, fourth; and Mrs. Frank Roach and Mrs. A. T. Parton, fifth.

Report On Meeting Given By Delegates

Mrs. John Holt Jr. and four other delegates from Pampa who attended the three-day regional Girl Scout conference in Oklahoma City, Okla., has reported a record number of persons attended from three states.

Other Pampa delegates were Mmes. Marian Osborne and Bob Andis and Misses Sylvia Grider and Sandra Sullins.

The conference, Mrs. Holt said, was attended by a total of 694 Girl Scout adults and Senior Scouts from Region IX, which includes Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico. Attendance by states totalled 297 from Texas, 25 from New Mexico and 372 from Oklahoma.

Theme of the conference was "Believe, Belong, Build." Believe with conviction, belong with pride and build with courage was the basis for discussion and emphasis, Mrs. Holt stated. Special emphasis upon extending Scouting to more girls through more effective council coverage.

Election of officers was held during the conference, with Mrs. J. D. Giddings of Baytown being elected chairman.

Work Session Held By Pampa Art Club

On display were hand - painted china and embroidery work made by members as Christmas gifts. Members brought their current project to work on during the meeting. Center of attention was a mobile being constructed from tiny Christmas angels by Mrs. Loyal Davies and Mrs. Harvey Nenstiel.

Mrs. Davies and Mrs. Nenstiel were given special recognition by the club for the outstanding program they presented at the last meeting on dried plant and driftwood arrangements. They had prepared 19 arrangements for the program.

Mrs. James McCune was invited to join the club. It was announced the next meeting will be a Christmas party at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 4, in the home of Mrs. W. L. Heskew, 1120 N. Somerville.

Attending were Mmes. O. W. Appleby, J. T. Cornutt, A. C. Cox, Loyal Davies, A. D. Hills, A. C. Houchin, W. Purviance, C. P. Pursley, Ervin Pursley, C. G. Shirley, R. H. Nenstiel, James McCune and Buck Hines. Mrs. Euna Lee Moores was a guest.

Addiction

Dope addiction, alcoholism and government dependence are three maladies which probably spring from a common root. Where any one of them manifest, the individual has lost his self-reliance. Instead of standing on his own feet he is leaning on some thing or some one.

In the case of both dope addiction and alcoholism, which are only minor indications of a personal inferiority complex, the person who is harmed most is the addict himself. Of course there are extensions of the harm to a few others. But in the main, the spineless unfortunate who succumbs to addiction is himself the largest recipient of evil.

Unfortunately, where government dependence looms, the one who grows sheep-like and docile under bureaucratic massage, inflicts injury on the rest of the public in large doses. The more he leans, the more the government compels others to make up for his lack of self-sufficiency.

And most unfortunate of all, while there is a national problem related to dope, drugs and liquor, compared to the size of the dependency problem it is a minor irritation. Today we are simply inundated with individuals who don't want to or refuse to be personally independent and responsible.

And this is a serious condition indeed, reflected as it is by the monstrous growth of bureaucracy within even these last ten years.

In 1945 the total cost of the socialist welfare program in this country came to $7.9 billions. But in 1955, following this same trend toward sublimentotion to the will of the politicians, we spent a total of $32.4 billions, nearly the precise amount of money collected by means of the individual income tax.

The Institute of Life Insurance has furnished us with the following table showing the growth of governmental dependency in the socialist welfare category:

(All figures in billions)	1945	1955
Education	$3.4	$10.9
Social Security	1.4	9.9
OASI	0.3	4.4
All other	1.1	5.5
Veterans Programs	0.9	4.4
Health and Medical Service	1.0	3.3
Public Aid	1.0	3.0
Totals	$7.9	$32.4

We can readily see that our national dependence upon Uncle Sam's tax collector has now reached the size of a major problem. To defend the country and to pay for all wars, past and probable, comes to something close to $50 billion at the moment. But only a few years ago it was less than the amount we are now spending in our wild orgy of dependency upon the force and violence of government.

The cure for alcoholism is painful and difficult. But any member of A. A. will tell you that the beginning of the cure is found in the will of the addict to discipline himself. Without that will, outside assistance is of small avail.

The curing of the drug addict is even more slow and painful. But the will of the individual to be cured is still the paramount factor. If the victim of this habit actually doesn't want to be cured, all the pain and effort of the experts can be wasted on him.

Curing ourselves of the national habit of depending on the government requires the same type of will. We, as individuals, must WANT to stand on our own feet. If we don't want to, then whatever happens, we will resist all efforts made to cure us.

And right now, like the juvenile devotee of marijuana, the effort of being able to lean upon the government is so pleasant that most of those addicted have no desire to break off the habit.

They are so far gone in the pleasures of getting something for nothing, saddling the rest of the economy with their own wants and needs, and living on credit, personal or national, that they go along drifting on the pink cloud of illusion.

The question of our time is related to the individual will of our citizens, more than to the propensity of our politicians to dish out the loot.

The professionals will always be glad to furnish us with dope, liquor or dependence. Our job as Americans, is to learn how to say NO.

THE NATION'S PRESS

WHY TAKE ON MORE TITOS?
(N Y. Daily News)

We hope earnestly that the current upheavals in Poland and Hungary mean the Red Slave Empire is cracking at the edges, and that the cracks may eventually reach to the Kremlin in Moscow.

However, a cagy friend of ours remarks: "Well, Russia can't keep the Poles from starving, so it's pulling a fast play to give us another country to feed, just like Yugoslavia."

Call that a cynical crack if you wish. But the fact remains that up to now Poland and Hungary have only traded Kremlin - Red rulers for nationalist Red rulers Commies still run both countries—or did when we went to press—and restored Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy has called in Russian tanks, troops and planes to keep him in control.

So why should we rush to offer U. S. economic aid to Poland and Hungary?

If such aid would increase Polish and Hungarian resistance to Communism, fine. But it would seem much more likely to shore up the new Red-thug cliques which have taken over from the old.

Why add a couple more Titos to our relief roles? The original Tito, Red czar of Yugoslavia, is still a highly dubious friend of ours, after a billion worth of U. S aid, if he is a friend at all.

CONTROL, TYRANNY, DICTATORSHIP
(Christian Economics)

If a citizen wishes to have a part in the ownership of constructive enterprise and purchases through his bank or broker the stock of a corporation, the government forces him to pay at least 70 per cent of the purchase price of the securities in cash. If a citizen whishes to buy a home he may do so by paying down as little as 5, 2, or sometimes 0 per cent of the purchase price.

No government credit is involved when the citizen buys the stock of the corporation, but when he buys a home with a government guaranteed mortgage, a contingent liability rests upon all of us to make possible the extension of the unsound credit.

In other words, government has assumed the right to control the individual in the expenditure of his own funds. He is discouraged and handicapped if he wishes to invest in industry but he is subsidized at the expense of all of us if he wishes to buy a home. Home ownership is desirable but so is ownership of a constructive business enterprise.

Free government has no function in thus determining what the individual may do with his own money. Such control goes beyond tyranny into the realm of dictatorship.

Competition

V.

In the last issue Frederic Bastiat in his essay on "Competition" explained how labor in England, when it was regulated by the government, received higher wages in mining coal than labor in in other lines of work. Then Bastiat goes on to explain in this manner:

"But this state ot things cannot last; for a great natural and social law is opposed to it — Competition. For the very reason that this species of labour is largely remunerated in England, it will be in great demand there, for men are always in quest of high remuneration. The number of miners will increase, both in consequence of the sons of miners devoting themselves to their fathers' trade, and in consequence of men transferring their industry to mining from other departments. They will offer to work for a smaller recompense, and their remuneration will go on dminishing until it reaches the normal rate, or the rate generally given in the country for analogous work.

"This means that the price of English coal will fall in France; that a given amount of French labour will procure a greater and greater quantity of English coal, or rather of English labour incorporated and worked up in coal; and, finally (and this is what I pray you to remark), that the gift which nature would appear to have bestowed upon England has in reality been conferred on the whole human race. The coal of Newcastle is brought within the reach of all men gratuitously, as far as the mere material is concerned.

"This is neither a paradox nor an exaggeration, — it is brought within their reach like the water of the brook, on the single condition of going to fetch it, or remunerating those who undertake that labour for us. When we purchase coal, it is not the coal that we pay for, but the labour necessary to extract it and transport it. All that we do is to give a corresponding amount of labour which we have worked up or incorporated in wine or in silk. So true is it that the liberality of nature has been extended to France, that the labour which we refund is not greater than that which it would have been necessary to undergo had the deposit of coal been in France. Competiton has established equality between the two nations as far as coal is concerned, except as regards the inevitable and inconsiderable difference resulting from distance and carriage.

"I have given two examples, and, to render the phenomenon more striking, I have selected international transactions, which are effective on a great scale. I fear I may thus have diverted the reader's attention from the same phenomena acting incessantly around us in our every-day transactions. Let him take in his hand the most familiar objects, a glass a nail, a loaf, a piece of cloth, a book. Let him meditate on such ordinary products, and reflect how great an amount of gratuitous utility would never but for competition have become common for humanity at large, although remaining gratuitous for the producer. He will find that, thanks to competition, in purchasing his loaf he pays nothing for the action of the sun, nothing for the rain, nothing for the frost, nothing for the laws of vegetable physiology, nothing even for the powers of the soil, despite all that has been said on that subject; nothing for the law of gravitation set to work by the miller; nothing for the law of combustion set to work by the baker; nothing for the horsepower set to work by the carrier; — that he pays only for the services rendered, the pains taken, by human agents; and let him reflect that, but for competition, he must have paid, over and above, a tax for the intervention of all these natural agents; that that tax would have had no other limit than the difficulty which he might himself have experienced in procuring the loaf by his own efforts, and that consequenty a whole life would not have been sufficient to supply the remuneration which would have been demanded of him.

"Let him think farther, that he does not make use of a single commodity which might not give rise to the same reflections, and that these reflections apply not to him only, but to all mankind, and he will then comprehend the radical error of those socialist theories which, looking only at the surface of things, the epidermis of society, have been set up with so much levity against competition, in other words, against human Liberty. He will then regard competition, which preserves to the gifts of nature, unequally distributed, their common and gratuitous character, as the principle of of a just and natural equalization; he will admire it as the force which holds in check the egotism of individual interest, with which at the same time it is so artistically combined as to serve both as a curb to avarice and a spur to exertion; and he will bless it as a most striking manifestation of God's impartial solicitude for the good of all his creatures.

"From what has been said, we may deduce the solution of one of the problems which have been most keenly controverted, namely, that of free trade as between nation and nation. If it be true, as seems to be incontestable, that competition leads the various countries of the globe to exchange with one another nothing else than labour, exertion more and more equalized, and to transfer at the same time reciprocally, and into the bargain, the natural advantages that each possesses; how blind and absurd must those men be who exclude foreign products by legislative measures, under the pretext that they are cheap, and have little value in proportion to their aggregate utility; that is to say, precisely because they include a large proportion of gratuitous utility!

"I have said, and I repeat it, that I have confidence in a theory when I find it in accordance with universal practice. Now it is certain that countries would effect many exchanges with each other were they not interdicted by force. It requires the bayonet to prevent them; and for that reason it is wrong to prevent them."

Orange Juice To Fill Hollywood's Swimming Pools

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

TAMPA Fla. — The process of reducing the juice of the orange and grapefruit to frozen concentrate was developed late in the war by three scientists working for the Florida Citrus Commission. They are Drs. L. G. MacDowell, stationed at Lakeland as director of research for the Commission, and Edwin L. Moore and C. D. Atkins, of the Lake Alfred Station, both in the citrus belt. The consumption of frozen Florida concentrate has increased from 226,000 gallons in 1945-46 to 70,400,000 in 1955-56, and there is still a low ceiling on this phase of the industry imposed by the shortage of refrigeration in ocrner stores and homes.

Relatively few of the potential "outlets" have such cold - boxes and only a small minority of homes can store more than three or four cans, if any. The high cost of home "units" including usurious "financing" charges taken by loan sharks, rising to 40 per cent, are a brake on the home market for concentrated juice. There is only a small foreign market for obvious reasons. The freezer is almost exclusively a luxury of American homes and of only a minority of our homes, at that.

Doctor MacDowell, among others, was working toward an equivalent of the loathsome powdered eggs of evil memory to soldiers and Marines when the war ended and the Pentagon abruptly cancelled tentative orders amounting to millions of dollars. There had been a hazy intention of evaporating everything out of the fruit down to a powder which could become orange juice or grapefruit juice again with the addition of water. Birdseye and others with a big stake in the game were up against a situation which seemed desperate. Then MacDowell and his colleagues decided to halt the evaporation when only 25 per cent of the juice and pulp remained.

The oils and other by - products already are gone when the residue is reached, but much of the absent component has been recaptured in the flues. It is used in paint, perfume, soap and flavoring. The rinds are rinsed, squozen and ground into alcohol, a strange kind of molasses suitable for Kine, and a flaky product which is not of first importance as food for meat animals but does augment their other diet. The evaporation is done in an upended tank which looks like a boiler but isn't. It has five sets of graduated tubes through which the juice is drained down and lifted back as vapor, over and over. The fifth run ends the process. The concentrate then flows out the bottom into pipes which presently squirt it into cans of various sizes from the "institutional" half - gallon down to the familiar little household can.

I took my novitiate at the Snow Crop factory of the Minute Maid Company and a few miles out of Lakeland. It is typical and a little bigger and a little smaller than others. An enormous lot of work is done by very little manpower in this factory, and for that matter, in the field, too. The groves are so many and so vast that the managers of the canneries at the height of the season use radio to direct their trucks far away in the groves to this or that plant to avoid congestion, waiting and spoilage and, of course, idleness and loss of production at plants which have run out of raw material. This use of the radio has evoked complaints from the cops and taxi-drivers against interference with their communications.

I wish I could think of a way to depict even to myself the amount of original juice represented by last year's concentrate. The 70,400,000 gallons of concentrate were originally roughly four times that much natural juice. We could easily say that this would fill all the swimming pools in Hollywood, but that means nothing. It would fill most of the swimming pools in the United States if you ask me in a hurry, plus all the bathtubs in Manhattan, the Bronx and Vermont.

The producers have been nagging themselves with futile longings for pipeline distribtuion which would save freight, but the corruptibility of this substance once it is taken out of freeze has frustrated all such thoughts thus far. Inevitably, some learned doctor will spy a bug which, being bred to a thing, will devour a factor which at present causes the concentrate to swell up, turn morose and vindictive and even, in hot sun, to explode a sealed can. That will be the time to think of pipelines for orange juice and grapefruit juice across the vasty plains and through the city streets up into faucets in the beautiful American home.

Doctors MacDowell, Moore and Atkins, at first glimpse, seem to me to be either saintly persons out of this world, and much too good and not long for it, or feeble-minded double - domes. Because I have it in a letter from Robert C. Evans, the general manager of the State Citrus Commission, that after they invented this process and a patent was granted in 1948 on an application made in 1945, they "assigned" it to the U.S. Department of

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Washington's official complacency in the face of new Communist conquests appalls Congressional and diplomatic groups which have access to private information from overseas. But they recoil helplessly from the only action that would check the Soviet's advance on all world fronts — namely a war agannst Russia.

Although a counteroffensive before it is too late dominates discussion at the Capital, but not on the official agenda, the fact is that the Western Allies are not strong enough today to wage such a conflict. Our European defense establishment, NATO, has been stripped of its main French and British units for service in the Middle East and North Africa. Germany has not rearmed.

The United States has neither the forces nor equipment for a "brush fire" affair. And an atomic war would be conducted only on an immediate threat to our national security in a dire sense.

Some members of the Baghdad Pact and SEATO — organizations that were supposed to contain Russian in the Levant and Southeast Asia — sympathize with Russia and Egypt in the Suez Canal and Israeli crises. In fact, Red military forces have leapfrogged the Turkish - Iran - Pakistan defense line by flying troops and arms into Egypt, Lebanon, Jordan and Syria.

The failure of the Anglo-French punitive expedition against Egypt, with Nasser's resounding success, demonstrates vividly the weakness of Allied arms without American reinforcement. And that, President Eisenhower has promised not to send, nor would Congress back him up, if he did.

Moscow, on the other hand, halted the British and French invaders in their tracks by Bulganin's mere threat to send "rockets."

While staging this coup, Russia has made other impressive gains at the expense of the West. She has shattered the unity of the Western "Big Three," and aroused distrust of our friends. She has revealed the United Nations to be only a debating society, whose warnings she flouts and ignores.

Moscow has strengthened her position in Middle Europe. She has handled the Polish disagreement with a political reshuffling, and she has launched a mongolian massacre of the Hungarian people. Her troops are mobilized along her side of the "Iron Curtain." The West cheered the rebels, but did nothing to aid them.

The American attitude as been noble and humanitarian, but ineffective, in the minds of friends and neutrals. It has cost us prestige from Korea to Gibraltar, throughout the European, Asian and African Continents. In a world ablaze, so they think, spectators standing aloof on the sidewalks do not make effective fire-fighters.

Even this grim toll does not begin to measure the greatest extent and gravity of the Russian sweep. Through her active support of the Arab peoples, and their new hatred of the West, Moscow may yet deprive Western Europe of oil vitally essential for a war machine or peacetime industry.

In short, the "Iron Curtain," which now crosses Europe from the Baltic to the Black Sea, may be extended permanently as far as the Indian Ocean. The Suez Canal, the oil fields and the pipelines would become Communist property. If so, all India would fall into Moscow's grip. And the Soviet has accomplished these historic and strategic aims without undue strain on her military or peacetime economy.

Only a "massive and preventive" war can force the Communists to retire behind pre-Suez lines. However they avoid such a prospect, or even public mention of it, Washington officials and diplomats concede pessimistically that there is no other remedy. Yet nobody dares to precipitate a nuclear holocaust.

Rhine Navigation Is Of Great Importance To Dutch.

By HENRY McLEMORE

AFLOAT ON THE RHINE — I discovered another similarity between life on the Mississippi in Mark Twain's time and barge life on the Rhine today in the person of Jopp Spykers.

There he was, this sixteen-year-old apprentice, perched on a high stool in the wheelhouse, chin cupped in hands, drinking in the words of the captain, who was at the helm.

Like his father, who was a Rhine barge skipper up until his death a few years ago, Jopp wants to command a vessel that makes the run up and down the broad water highway between Rotterdam and Basel in Switzerland.

He has been aboard the barge Merwesteyn (the one on which Mary and I are travelling with U.S. Army cargo from Rotterdam to Mannheim) for three months. He came to the Merwesteyn after passing physical and intelligence tests given by an organization with the formidable name of Koninlyk Onderwysfonds Voor De Scheepyaart. Broken down into English this means, roughly, The Royal Teaching Fund for Navigation — or something very close to that.

Jopp will serve on the Merwesteyn as an apprentice for three years, and after that he must stay in the employ of the barge's owners for three more.

The company pays him a nominal salary, plus room and board, while he is training, and the State organization pays for his lessons. Once he signed on the Merwesteyn, Jopp became the responsibility of the skipper, Capt. Theodore Starrenburg, and there is a strong father - son relationship.

The skipper must fill out a daily form for the State, stating Jopp's progress and deportment. Captain Starrenburg is responsible for just about everything — Jopp's health, moral upbringing, recreation and even girl friends. Jopp must be in his bunk by nine every night, and this is just about the Captain's hardest job. When Jopp won't go to bed, the skipper or one of the mates tosses him in.

The apprentice does light work about the ship, but most of the time he is observing and listening. The wheelhouse is his favorite spot and he spends hours there, listening to the captain explain the ever-changing channel of the Rhine, the safe spots, the dangerous ones, and the landmarks. Jopp is a fanatic on the subject of radar, and spends most of the evenings with his eyes fastened on the scope.

Next to getting him to bed on time, the skipper has the hardest time getting Jopp to stay in his cabin and study the required two hours a day. Often the skipper checks on him up forward, and finds him busying himself with deck work instead of books. Before Jopp came on board, the State organization, through social workers, had given him a full briefing on the boy's background and home life. If a boy needs guidance along a certain path he gets it, and if he needs correction he gets that too.

The captain explained that a lot, a whole lot, depended on the boy. Barge life is a world of its own — demanding hard work, long hours. To advance in his profession he must work hard, and to educate himself culturally he must be willing to spend most of his few spare hours, not at play, but poring over books, strolling through museums, and buying cheap seats to concerts.

Rhine navigation is of tremendous importance to the Dutch economy. Skippers, mates and crewmen are sorely needed, and enough youngsters aren't turning to the big river — hence the State organization, and the cooperation of the shipping companies.

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO

Pampa News Women's Editor

IT TOOK A MAN'S MAGAZINE to set a bomb underneath one of the oldest and most steadfastly observed of all of the wives' tales concerning food preparation. In a recent issue of "Playboy," Thomas Mario, food and drink editor, debunks the time-honored wooden salad bowl, long the pride of the sophisticate's kitchen. In an article describing numerous esoteric ways to make artistic salads, Mario suggests that culinery experts should toss out the wooden salad bowl along with their potato peelings, egg shells and peach pits. They may look appetizing, Mario suggests, but they spoil more salads than they help.

"YOU WERE told," the article asserts to all salad makers, male or female, "that if you use the bowl often enough, the garlic, pepper and other seasonings would become impregnated into the wood. In time these flavors would be transferred to any salad mixed in the bowl. You were told not to wash the bowl but merely wipe it clean after each use. Wood is porous and therefore absorbent. When you rub it with garlic often enough, it may eventually acquire a built-in garlic odor. But it also absorbs the oil of the salad dressing. Oil in time turns rancid. No legerdemain will remove the unclean, off-flavor of many of these wooden bowls."

As though that were not enough of a blockbuster for one article, Mario drops this earthshaker in the same article:

"Playboy would like to puncture one more old wives' tale. . .the theory that salad greens should never be cut with a knife but should only be torn with the fingers. According to old cook books, the rusty color of the knife would stain the tender greens and spill their natural appearance. The answer to this dictum," Mario concludes, "is not to use a rusty knife."

DIETITIANS urge that we serve more strength - giving and healthful foods. With school children and people in trades and business eating hurriedly at noon, it is important that breakfast consist of energy foods.

Honey has limited quantities of all the important constituents of the vitamin B complex, vitamin C, some hormones, and amino acids. Honey is a safe food since bacteria which cause diseases in human beings cannot grow in it. Even infants may have honey in their foods; it aids in retaining calcium and it has minerals necessary for growth.

Cereals, fruits, pancakes, waffles and toast are all improved by an addition of honey. Honey is easy to keep and use and should not be refrigerated. The breakfast drink, whether it be milk, cocoa, tea, or coffee, is made more delicious and nutritious if honey is added.

A spoonful in the cavity of baked apples, or in cored grapefruit takes only a second. Honey placed on other fruits or added as an ingredient to muffins, French toast, fired cornmeal mush are only a few suggestions for the creative homemaker who likes to experiment with new taste tempters for her family.

Super markets and independent grocers all have honey to sell. It is easy to obtain, to keep, to use, and helps start the day right. A good breakfast helps win the day's battle at school or work.

The Vada Waldron Junior Girls' Auxiliary of the First Baptist Church presented a pantomime, "We've A Story To Tell To The Nations," for the district 10 meeting of the Women's Missionary Union in Amarillo.

Readers were Misses Jan Adams and Franceine Forrester. Miss Jud Pemberton was cross bearer, while Misses Joan McCracken and Jean Franklin were flag bearers. Representing the various nations were Miss Ronnie Roach, Europe; Miss Jerlyn Carter, South America; Miss Kathy Flynn North America; Miss Synora Kendrix, Africa; and DeAnne Tarr, Asia.

The girls were accompanied to Amarillo on the bus by their counselor, Mrs. W. B. Franklin; their sponsors, Mmes. L. L. Harkins, Weldon Trice and E. B. Pemberton; and W. B. Franklin.

Enroute, Miss Francine Forrester, program chairman, led a program "Thanksgiving Time is Here." Miss Joan McCracken led the prayer for a missionary, and the meeting was colsed with prayer by Miss Jan Adams.

Bridge Club Plays Howell Movement

The Howell movement was played by the 32 persons attending the meeting of the Pampa Duplicate Bridge Club in the Episcopal Parish House.

It was announced the next session will be masterpoint night, during which members may earn more points than usual toward a master point.

Winners were Mrs. Ham Luna and Mrs. Haskell Maguire and Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Williams, tied for first; Mr. and Mrs. Greely Warner, third; Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Rowe, fourth; and Mrs. Frank Roach and Mrs. A. T. Parton, fifth.

Report On Meeting Given By Delegates

Mrs. John Holt Jr. and four other delegates from Pampa who attended the three-day regional Girl Scout conference in Oklahoma City, Okla., has reported a record number of persons attended from three states.

Other Pampa delegates were Mmes. Marian Osborne and Bob Andis and Misses Sylvia Grider and Sandra Sullins.

The conference, Mrs. Holt said, was attended by a total of 694 Girl Scout adults and Senior Scouts from Region IX, which includes Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico. Attendance by states totalled 297 from Texas, 25 from New Mexico and 372 from Oklahoma.

Theme of the conference was "Believe, Belong, Build." Believe with conviction, belong with pride and build with courage was the basis for discussion and emphasis, Mrs. Holt stated. Special emphasis upon extending Scouting to more girls through more effective council coverage.

Election of officers was held during the conference, with Mrs. J. D. Giddings of Baytown being elected chairman.

Work Session Held By Pampa Art Club

On display were hand - painted china and embroidery work made by members as Christmas gifts. Members brought their current project to work on during the meeting. Center of attention was a mobile being constructed from tiny Christmas angels by Mrs. Loyal Davies and Mrs. Harvey Nenstiel.

Mrs. Davies and Mrs. Nenstiel were given special recognition by the club for the outstanding program they presented at the last meeting on dried plant and driftwood arrangements. They had prepared 19 arrangements for the program.

Mrs. James McCune was invited to join the club. It was announced the next meeting will be a Christmas party at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 4, in the home of Mrs. W. L. Heskew, 1120 N. Somerville.

Attending were Mmes. O. W. Appleby, J. T. Cornutt, A. C. Cox, Loyal Davies, A. D. Hills, A. C. Houchin, W. Purviance, C. P. Pursley, Ervin Pursley, C. G. Shirley, R. H. Nenstiel, James McCune and Buck Hines. Mrs. Euna Lee Moores was a guest.

Giving Thanks By Giving

During the Thanksgiving Season the overseas relief organizations of our religious faiths are placing special emphasis on their programs of assistance to the hungry, homeless and destitute overseas, seeking funds and supplies to carry on their world-wide ministries of relief.

Thousands of Protestant churches, in special community and individual Thanksgiving services, are highlighting the Share Our Surplus Program, sponsored by Church World Service to finance free distribution of U.S. surplus food commodities of hungry men, women and children in scores of distress areas.

Catholic churches, throughout the Thanksgiving Week, will stress The Bishops' Thanksgiving Clothing Collection of Catholic Relief Services, seeking 10,000,000 lbs. of clothing for refugees and other victims of need.

And as the instrument of American Jews, the United Jewish Appeal is currently asking aid for reconstruction and rehabilitation programs for nearly a half a million recent refugees and other needy people abroad through the United Jewish Appeal Special Survival Fund.

The day - by - day program sof brotherhood and compassion that these appeals support account for more than 80 per cent of our country's voluntary overseas relief to victims of war, famine, disaster and displacement.

They reach to virtually ever corner of the free world, feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, ministering to the ill, the widowed and the orphaned.

Through them — as each, through his own faith, keeps faith with the tradition and heritage of America — our people emphasize the spiritual brotherhood that unites them with human beings everywhere.

And, through them, we bring the spirit of Thanksgiving into the lives of scores of millions less blessed of peace and plenty than ourselves.

Christian Science Service

The inability of evil to withstand spiritual understanding of the Christ, Truth, will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural selections in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" will include the following (Philippians 2:5, 13): "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus. . .For it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be read the following (287:27): "The five material senses testify to truth and error as united in a mind both good and evil. Their false evidence will finally yield to Truth — to the recognition of Spirit and of the spiritual creation."

The Golden Text is from III John (1:11): "Beloved, follow not that which is evil, but that which is good."

Guest Preacher At First Baptist

Dr. Willis J. Ray, executive secretary of the Colorado Baptist Convention, will be the guest preacher at the First Baptist Church Sunday morning and evening. Dr. Ray is a graduate of Wayland Baptist College and Hardin-Simmons University. He has served as pastor of several churches in Texas, and as district missionary in Districts 6 and 8. For eleven years he served as executive secretary of the Arizona Baptist Convention before going to his present position. Recently, Wayland Baptist College presented him with a "Citation for Achievement," because of the outstanding work he has done among Southern Baptists.

Dr. and Mrs. Ray are former residents of White Deer. He is speaking in the absence of Dr. E. Douglas Carver, who is participating in a revival meeting with the University Hills Baptist Church in Denver, Colo.

Monday the Y.W.A. and Intermediat G.A. will meet at the Church at 4 p.m.; Tuesday the Junior G.A. will meet at 4 p.m.; and Wednesday the Teachers and Officers' Meeting will be held at 7 p.m. Dr. Carver wil conduct the Mid-Week Service at 7:45. Thursday about 20 young people and adults will leave to attend the Texas Training Union Convention in Wichita Falls. Plans have been completed for Victory Day, Dec. 2, when the church will subscribe its 1957 budget.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

The wide use of deaconesses in the work of the Polish Lutheran Church (Evangelical Church of the Augsburgian Confession) was of interest to the Rev. Mogens Zeuthen, Lutheran World Federation World Service secretary for Minority Lutheran Churches, during his recent visit to Poland. In Eastern European countries, deaconess work is more curtailed or not in existence, he said. In Poland, although the number of deaconesses is down from 200 before the war to between 50 and 60 at present, they ar active in caring for two orphanages, two homes for the aged, nursing in a state hospital, and as parish sisters. In Cieszyn is a "motherhouse"where the girls are trained for their work. Fifteen sisters work in a state - operated hospital. There are 220,000 members in the Polish Lutheran Church.

Since 1877, the Alma Mathews House, in New York City, has been maintained by the Methodist Church as "a Christian home for young women in Manhattan." First it was a welcome mission to immigrant girls, its representatives meeting all ships from Europe. During the "depression years" one of its reports noted: "Twenty young women (are) living on small wages, housed in one building, participating in such activities as keeping their rooms clean, preparing the food, cleaning the kitchen, making decisions for running the house, pooling the wisdom they have in living on a very little and planning activities for leisure time." The young women prepared their own breakfast and the evening meal was cooperative, keeping its cost at a minimum. Depending on the food served, the cost per dinner varied between 25 and 30 cents. At that time, no girl earning more than $20 a week was expected to remain at Alma Mathews House. Today the Methodist Church has 27 such homes; they are located in: Shreveport, La.; Ogden, Utah; Salt Lake City, Utah; Cincinnati, Ohio; Toledo, Ohio; San Francisco, Calif.; Des Moines, Iowa; Columbia, S.C.; Columbus, Ohio; Newport News, Va.; Richmond, Va.; Houston, Texas; Baltimore, Md.; Chicago, Ill.; Wichita, Kan.; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Indianapolis, Indiana; Birmingham, Ala.; Buffalo, N.Y.; St. Paul, Minn.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Sioux City, Iowa.

VIENNA —Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa), co-author of the McCarran - Walter Immigration Act, on the Hungarian refugees being rushed to the United States:

"I am rather security conscious, but I would say we are not going to get a significant number of undesirables under this emergency scheme. Whate better evidence of anti-Communism can you have than bullet holes in a man's body?"

NEW YORK —British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd on why his country resorted to war against Egypt:

"There comes a time when men and government have to decide to act and not to talk. We acted."

LONDON —Lady Eden, wife of the British prime minister, to a Conservative Party rally:

"During the past few weeks I have felt sometimes that the Suez Canal was flowing through my drawing room."

ROMEO, Mich. — Mrs. Alice Phernetton on the rejection by a second high school of her son, Robert, 16, who refuses to give up his Elvis Presley haircut:

"Robert has agreed to get his hair cut if we ask him to, but I refuse to give in. This isn't just a haircut at stake here, it's potential dictatorship."

VIENNA — Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.), co-author of the McCarran - Walter Immigration Act, on the shooting of an Hungarian refugee at the Austrian border.

"We were standing on the bank of the canal when a man came running down the towpath. A shot rang out and he fell. He was about 100 yards away."

LONDON — Former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill on the United Nation's rebuke of Britain's military action in Egypt:

"I am a patron of the U. N. Association in this country, but I cannot help but agree that their rebuke of this (Britain's) government was neither wise nor helpful."

Layman Of The Week

Ex Officio Of Six Commissions

This week's layman of the week is Joe Tooley. He has been named by Rev. Woodrow Adcock of the First Methodist Church as one of the persons who have done much in the way of activities for the church.

Joe is chairman of the Official Board of the First Methodist Church. He is regular in church attendance both Sunday mornings and evenings. He is active in the Methodist Men's Club and the Fishermen's Club.

Aside from all these other time-consuming activities, Joe is currently serving on the Sanctuary Redecoration Committee and is an ex-officio member of the six commissions of the church which are responsible for the promotion of the overall program of the church.

1st Methodist Activities For Week

Thanksgiving will be the theme of all services at the First Methodist Church Sunday. The pastor, Woodrow Adcock, will use as his subject for the two morning worship services at 8:30 and 10:55, "The Joy of A Grateful Heart". Sunday night at 7:30 his subject will be, "Thank God For Difficulties."

The early morning worship services will be broadcast over radio station KPDN from 8:30 to 9:30. The Methodist Men's Hour may be heard over KPDN every Sunday night at 9. The choirs of First Methodist Church will furnish special Thanksgiving music and singing under the direction of Roy Johnson with Mrs. Johnson at the Organ.

The 20-30 class of the church will sponsor a rummage sale tomorrow, Nov. 24, from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. at 506 S. Cuyler.

Thanksgiving Day Service To Be Held

The annual Community - Wide Thanksgiving Service will be held next Thursday, November 29, at 8 a.m. in the sanctuary of the First Methodist Church. The Pampa High School Choir under the direction of Bill Hunt will furnish the special music and Rev. Ronald Hubbard of the First Presbyterian Church will bring the sermon.

Many of the Pampa ministers will have part in the service which is sponsored annually by the Pampa Ministerial Alliance. The Thanksgiving offering will be used for overseas relief through Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP). For each dollar contributed in the offering the U.S. Government will send $22 worth of surplus goods to needy people overseas.

Adventists To Launch Annual Drive

The 53rd Annual World Missions Appeal, sponsored by the Pampa Seventh - Day Adventist Church, will be launched Monday night, Nov. 26, as members of the church begin their Thanksgiving until Christmas, house - to - house calls to the accompaniment of Christmas Carols, as they go to invite neighbors and friends to share with them in their local and world-wide uplift work, through contributions of clothing, food and funds.

Church members volunteering their time, and the use of their cars without remuneration, during the four - week city - wide drive will be directed by Mrs. Roy Cotten, church home mission leader.

Members participating will carry official credentials of the organization and will be identified by a lapel ribbon stating that they are "authorized" by the Seventh-Day Adventist Mission Board, and will present every householder with a tract giving a brief summary of the denomination's humanitarian work at home and in 182 other lands.

The goal of the local group is to raise $23.11 per member, which is the cost of sustaining the church's world program of educational, evangelical, medical and welfare activities for one minute.

Seventh-Day Adventist members themselves contributed more than $62,000,000 last year toward the support of their world church program, in addition to welfare activities.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

LAMAR CHRISTAIN CHURCH
WILLIAM J. CLOUD, Pastor
Pampa, Texas

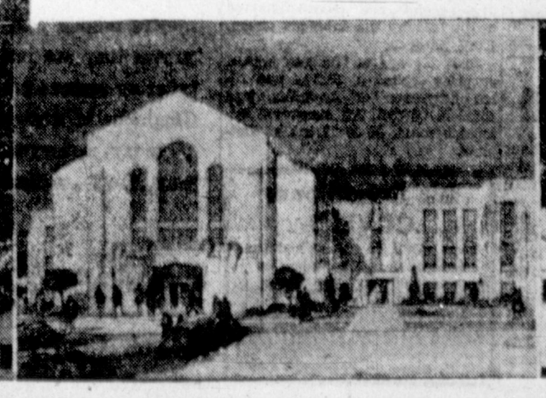
A Prayer: "Eternal God, we, who have seen, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, the very elements dissolve in fervent heat, and life perish in atomic blast; we, who have learned afresh that in the material world there is no security, turn now to Thee in whom alone our souls can find salvation! We put all our trust in Thee, who wast and art and evermore shalt be.

"Most Merciful God, we confess that we have sought knowldege and power more than virtue and love, and so are unfit to use rightly the mastery we have won over nature. O God, in Thy Compassion, grant us yet time to repent. Avert from us the consequences of folly, forbid that we should have to eat all the fruits of pride and greed and hate. Teach us how in brotherhood with all men we may make our new knowledge a blessing.

O God, whose righteousness is like the great mountains in this world, give us patience and humility to endure wrong without avenging ourselves; and courage to use our strength to bring help to the helpless; and vision to discern the right way. And as we pray, each for himself, so we pray for nations, that we may be kept in paths of honor, and maintain justice and freedom and peace.

"May we ever give Thanks to Thee for that which we have and envy not that which Thou has not given to us."

Amen.



Pampa Hosts Championship Grid Games This Week

Collins Corner

By DICK COLLINS

Pampa News Sports Editor

WHEELER'S MUSTANGS will have two good reasons for winning their bi-district game with the Groom Tigers tonight in McLean. The District 2-B champion Mustangs, coached by J. D. Atwell and George Doughtery, are fighting mad over certain developments this year and they will be trying to take it out on Doc Bates' Tigers tonight.

It all started two years ago when Wheeler won the district title and was disqualified because an ineligible player was on the team. It was the first time in 18 years the Mustangs had won a championship. The team members felt the disqualification was unjust.

Since that time the Mustangs have been building up inside and they let go this year by winning eight of ten games, losing only to powerful Stinnett of Class A and tying Silverton. The Mustangs cinched the district title by beating Matador, last year's champion and regional titlist.

There second reason for trying so hard was because of some of the area newspapers classifying their victories as upsets. The Mustangs felt they had the team to win this year and none of the victories were surprises to them.

That does not mean the Mustangs will beat the Tigers tonight. Groom has a powerful team that has won nine games and tied one this year. The Tigers tied White Deer in the opener and came back to win nine straight. That combination of Gerald Hermesmeyer to Leon Anglin will be hard to beat. Should Wheeler win tonight we will not call it an upset, merely a mild surprise.

HERE GOES THE GUESSING game again. After looking over last week's percentages I'm convinced that's just what it is — a guessing game. I missed seven and tied one for a .750 average. Here are this week's picks:

The area:

Pampa 28, Borger 26. The Harvesters have been looking good the past two weeks and are getting better. Borger may not have survived the 47-7 shock handed them last week by Amarillo.

Stinnett 41, Clarendon 20. The Rattlers roll on to last year's heights behind the assistance of quarterback Larry Dawson. The Rattlers have already stopped the Bronchos once this year.

Mobeetie 57, Bula 42. The Hornets have improved from last year and appear to have a better team than the Bulldogs who beat them in bi-district in 1955. The score may be higher.

Groom 27, Wheeler 21. This could go either way. Wheeler is gunning for this one but may run out of bullets.

Amarillo 34, Palo Duro 20. Sandies rate better all around except on hustle and desire which is the foundation of the Dons' success.

Over the nation:

TCU 33, Rice 20.

Baylor 20, SMU 19.

Arkansas 21, LSU 7.

Oklahoma 54, Nebraska, 13.

Houston 27, Texas Tech 20.

Hardin-Simmons 34, New Mexico A&M 13.

Also : Ohio State over Michigan. Yale over Harvard, Pittsburgh to topple Penn State, Tennessee to beat Kentucky, Georgia Tech to run over Florida, Miami to edge West Virginia, Duke to ease by North Carolina, Purdue to win over Indiana, Michigan State over Kansas State, Iowa over Notre Dame and Minnesota over Wisconsin.

Clarendon, Stinnett In Battle Here

Twenty - five years has been a long time for the championship-hungry Clarendon Bronchos who once again will bring title aspirations with them when they take on Stinnett's Rattlers tonight at Harvester Stadium.

It was 25 years ago when the Bronchos won their last district championship, went on to defeat Dalhart in bi-district and then lost to the famous Masonic Home Mighty Mites of Fort Worth in regional play.

Clarendon is expected to have a rougher time of it tonight against the highly - favored Rattlers than it did on that fall night in 1931 in Dalhart. The Rattlers of District 1-A come into tonight's contest with a 10-game victory streak and thoughts of that 7-0 defeat by Deer Park in last year's Class A state finals.

The Bronchos of coaches Tommy Jinks and Ken Clapp have a season mark of 6-4 but they won the games that really counted — four District 2-A contests. The Bronchos lost to Stinnett in the first game of the campaign, 37-7, came back to beat White Deer 31-7 and Shamrock 31-0. Then Perryton beat them 45-7, Welington took a 25-13 victory and Panhandle won by a 26-13 margin.

Stinnett, coached by Don Seymour, beat Clarendon, Hollis, Friona, McLean, Lefors, Sunray, White Deer, Gruver, Wheeler and Panhandle. The Rattlers have amassed 391 points and allowed 88 in 10 games. Clarendon has made 238 points to opposition's 174. Stinnett is outweighed slightly, both in the line and backfield. Clarendon's line averages 164 and the backfield 162.5 while Stinnett's line averages 161 and the backfield 162.

Stinnett will serve as the home team tonight with their fans occupying the west stands. Tickets for the game will go on sale at 6 p.m. Admission is $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for children. There will be no reserved seat section. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Tonight's winner will meet the Farwell — Hale Center victor in regional play next week.

Clarendon's probably starters:

Ends — Eddie Baten, 150; Don Mills, 150.

Tackles — Chester Mann, 190; Keith Pittman, 205.

Guards — Claude DeBord, 150; Keith Hudson, 150.

Center — John Richerson, 155.

Quarterback — John Payne, 165.

Halfback — Jimmy Philley, 145; Robert Mills, 150.

Fullback — Jerry Behrens, 190.

Stinnett's probably starters:

Ends — Fred Hedgecoke, 150; Bozo Thompson, 148.

Tackles — John Young, 175; John Nelson, 155.

Guards — Roy Reger, 150; Larry Wilson, 155.

Center — Boyd Patterson, 154.

Quarterback — Larry Dawson, 185.

Halfbacks — Ralph Hicks, 153; Sammy Roberts, 146.

Fullback — Dale Keadle, 166.

The Mobeetie Hornets, shown above, will meet Bula's Bulldogs in Harvester Stadium Saturday night in a bi-district six-man game. (News photo)

Wheeler Vies With Groom In Class B Event

The bi - district championship of districts 1-B and 2-B will be placed on the line at McLean tonight when Wheeler's Mustangs take on the Groom Tigers.

Game Time is 7:30 p.m. Admission is $1.25 and 75 cents. Tickets will be on sale at the McLean stadium.

Both teams boast fine season records. The Mustangs, coached by J. D. Atwell and George Doughtery, have one loss and a tie to maran otherwise fine season. Their only loss has been to Stinnett and they tied Silverton.

Coach Doc Bates, Tigers have won nine of ten games this season. A tie to White Deer in the opening game ruined the Tigers' perfect record. The Tigers won the District 1-B crown last week by beating Sunray. Wheeler of 2-B beat defending champion Matador to gain the title.

Wheeler won its first outright championship this season in 20 years. Two years ago the Mustangs won the district championship but were disqualified because of an ineligible player. The Mustangs rely mostly on a running game paced by fullback Jim Porter and Harold Crossland as well as Jojo Jaco and Gerald Satterfield. Biggest man on the line is 245 - pound Bill McCormack. The Mustangs have four seniors on the starting eleven.

Harvesters Close 1956 Season With Game At Borger Saturday

The 1956 football season draws to a close for the Pampa Harvesters Saturday afternon when they take on the rival Borger Bulldogs in Borger.

The District 3-AAAA game, which always gives viewers a closely-fought contest because of the long-standing rivalry, will be played in Bulldog Stadium at 2 p.m.

Pampa fans wishing to buy advance tickets for the game may do so at the school business office. Tickets will also be available at the stadium Saturday.

The Harvesters will be trying for their fourth victory of the year and their second district win. Pampa has lost five games this season and tied one. The tie was against Lubbock High last week in 3-AAAA play.

Borger goes into the game with five wins in nine games and a district record of 3-2. Borger last week lost to the league-leading Amarillo Sandies 47-7. The loss dropped them out of the title picture.

Amarillo and Palo Duro meet Saturday afternoon to decide the championship with the winner to meet Paschal of Fort Worth in bi-district.

The Harvesters spent part of the week working on their passing defense which is already the second best in the district. Pampa has allowed only 36 yards per game in district play. Borger is expeceted to go to the airlanes against the Harvesters with quarterback Bob Page doing the tossing.

Page, the district's second best in total offense according to latest figures, is the sparkplug of the Borger team. He has gained 603 total yards in five games to rank just behind Lubbock's Charley Moore. The 168-pound quarterback has gained 268 yards rushing and 335 passing, completing 26 of 39 aerials. He has carried the ball 90 times for the 268 yards. Teammate Bennie Hill has been his top receiver. Hill, a 148-pound halfback, ranks sixth in the district in pass receiving with 85 yards on five completions. Gail Gastineau and Charles Henson each have gained 73 yards on eight and six pass completions, respectively, for the Bulldogs.

Quarterback Dickie Mauldin and fullback Robert Langford are Pampa's top ground gainers with 301 yards each. The two rank sixth in the district in rushing. The Harvesters have relied on a ground attack throughout most of the year.

Thirteen seniors will be playing their final game for the Green and Gold of Jack Lockett. Nine of those will be starting. Senors include James Weathered, Glen Howell, Don Jonas, Bill Kirbie, Jerry Bonsal, Gene Devers, Dickie Mauldin, Jesse Ring, Bobby Dehls, Harry Ward, Gary Pinson, Gary Dearen and James Goodnight.

Lockett expects the Bulldogs to run with the ball a good part of the time unless and when they get behind. Then they will open up with plenty of passing.

The probable Pampa offensive starters:

Ends — Glen Howell, 173, and James Weathered, 153.

Tackles — Bill Kirbie, 198, and Don Jonas, 177.

Guards — Gene Devers, 163, and Gary Peterson, 162.

Center — Jerry Bonsal, 163.

Quarterback — Dickie Mauldin, 157.

Halfbacks — Don Bigham, 145, and Bobby Dehls, 145.

Fullback — Jesse Ring, 155.

The probable Pampa defensive starters:

The probable Borger offensive starters:

Ends — Mickey Miller, 161; Don Rouse, 165.

Tackles — Harold Smith, 181; Andy Hutchins, 182.

Guards — Clarence Smith, 181; James Archambo, 178.

Center — Earl Ernest, 193.

Halfbacks — Herman Cherry, 147; Bennie Hill, 148.

Fullback — Don Lake, 156.

The probable Borger defensive starters:

Mobeetie, Bula Meet Here Saturday Night

Mobeetie and Bula, two teams well known to each other after previous playoff games, tangle here Saturday night in Harvester Stadium for the six-man football championship of Districts 1 and 2.

A large crowd is expected for the unique grid contest. Few people have seen six-man games but those who watch tonight's contest will probably see a wide - open, wild - scoring match between the six-man champions of the Panhandle and the South Plains.

The game gets underway at 7:30 p.m. Tickets will go on sale at the stadium at 6 p.m. Admission is $1.50 and 75 cents. All seats are general admission. Mobeetie will serve as the home team and sit in the west stands.

Six-man football is designed for the smaller schools which have smaller enrollments and not enough players for regular 11-man teams. Three backs and three linemen are on the team. Most six-man teams forsake defense and concentrate on offense, trying to hold onto the ball as much as possible. Thus the punting is limited and the passing is increased. The offensive team scores almost every time before giving up possession of the ball.

Most of the rules are the same as regulation 11-man football except that the field is shorter and narrower. A team must make 15 yards for a first down and the quarters are 10 minutes of duration. Before the ball may cross the line of scrimmage it must either be passed or pitched out to another player. All six men are eligible for pass receiving.

The two teams each hold one victory over the other. Mobeetie's Hornets beat Bula in 1953 for the bi-district crown and went on to defeat Paint Creek in regional play. Last year Bula's Bulldogs won the game. The championship game between the two has never before been played in the Panhandle. Saturday's winner meets Paint Creek for the regional title.

Mobeetie's probably starters:

Ends — Jay Godwin, 155; Archie Scribner, 180.

Center — Dan Hathaway, 190.

Quarterback — Ferrell Baird, 145.

Halfback — Clinton Simpson, 125.

Fullback — Geoffrey Caldwell, 150.

Bula's probable starters:

Ends — Dusty Bogard, 155; Wendy Jones, 147.

Center — Arvin troud, 155.

Quarterback — Junior Austin, 1

Halfback — Burly Roberts, 145.

Fullback — Norvell Roberts, 140.

Perryton, Stamford Vie Today

The defending Class AA state champion Stamford Bulldogs were to meet Perryton's Rangers in a bi-district football game this afternoon in Childress.

Stamford went into the game with a string of 27 victories. Perryton, the District 3-AA winner, holds a season record of seven victories in 10 games. The Rangers, who won their first district title in nine years, went through district play undefeated.

Sun Bowl Group Eyeing 3 Teams

EL PASO, (UP)— Bowling Green, George Washington and Tulsa were under consideration today as the visiting team which will meet Texas Western in the 22nd annual Sun Bowl game here.

Selection committee chairman Bob Kollinger said all three schools had indicated they were receptive to advance feelers.

Texas Western has not been formally invited, but it is considered a certainty it will be the host team. Texas Western has won eight of its nine games and is undefeated in Border Conference play.

U. S. Sweeps Up Olympic Gold Medals

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor

MELBOURNE (UP) —Inspired American athletes swept up two of the first four gold medals in the 1953 Olympic games today when slender Charley Dumas of Los Angeles soared to a record victory in the high jump and mighty little Chuck Vinci of York, Pa., outlifted the world's best bantamweight strong men.

In a record-shattering day indicating the XVI Olympiad may well produce the greatest number of new marks in history, all four gold medal winners and the second and third-place performers in each of those events surpassed Olympic records set in 1952.

Sprinters Ira Murchison of Chicago and Bobby Morrow of San Benito, Tex., tied the Olympic 100-meter dash record of 10.3 seconds as they qualified for the semi-finals along with Thane Baker of Elkhart, Kan.

In addition, all three U. S. 400-meter hurdlers won qualifying heats, all three 800-meter runners qualified for the semi-finals, American crews won heats in seven different rowing classes, and George Lambert of Sioux City, Iowa, shot into a surprise lead in the modern pentathlon by winning the cross country riding phase.

Glenn Davis of Clinton, Ohio, Eddie Southern of Dallas, Tex., and Josh Culbreath of Norristown, Pa., each won his heat in the 400-meter hurdles to qualify for the semifinals in that event. Davis and Southern both won in :51.3 and Culbreath in :50.9.

Dumas, a 19-year-old student at Compton Junior College and the only man in the world who has cleared seven feet, had to make 14 leaps to sweep the high jump crown from Chilla Porter of Australia. Porter finished second at six feet, 10 1-2 inches and Igor Kachkarov of Russia was third at six feet, 9 7-8 inches—also better than the old Olympic mark.

With the pressure mounting in the darkness, Dumas cleared six feet, 11 1-4 inches on his third try of the last round. He later made one crack at seven feet, hoping for an even better Olympic record, but after one failure, he gave it up.

Kuts gave Russia its first track victory ever in Olympic competition as he came flying down the red cinder track and bettered by 31.4 seconds the record chalked up in 1952 by the fabulous Czech, Emil Zatopek:

Josef Kovacs of Hungary was a surprise second in 28:52.4 and Allen Lawrence of Australia was third in 28:53.6. All surpassed Zatopek's mark of 29:17 set at Helsinki.

American Cagers Rip Japan

MELBOURNE (UP)— All-America Bill Russell, in action only 13 minutes, led the United States to a 98-40 victory over Japan tonight in its first game in defense of the Olympic basketball title.

For a few minutes early in the game, the U.S. team gave its supporters some anxious moments when it fell behind 13-17 against the undersized Japanese.

But the six-foot-10 Russell's entry into the game turned the tide almost immediately. The brilliant former University of San Francisco star came off the bench with five minutes and 15 seconds remaining in the first half and promptly dropped in two field goals that tied the score at 17-17.

Then Russell and his All-America team mate at San Francisco, K. C. Jones, took charge of the game and led the Americans to a 33-20 halftime advantage. The Yanks never were pressed thereafter.

Pampa Fighters To Host Area Boxers Saturday

Pampa's first big boxing event of the season is scheduled for Saturday night at the Gray County community building and sponsored by the Optimist Club.

Pampa's fine boxing team will host Guymon and Amarillo in the matches. Approximately 10 to 12 bouts are slated and fans are promised a full evening's entertainment. The matches begin at 8 p. m.

Among the outstanding bouts will be a battle between Pampa's Gary Wilhelm and Bobby Fister of Amarillo, Charles Snyder of Pampa against Darrell Bledsoe of Guymon and Bill Bledsoe of Guymon against Pampa's Rabbit Ramirez. Sammy Gafney, remembered by Pampans for his fine boxing here three years ago, will also fight.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (UP) —What happened Wednesday to a marine helicopter pilot, steeped in the corps' "no retreat" tradition, was enough to make him want to join the infantry.

While the rotors of Capt. Max Schumacher's helicopter whirred fast enough to drive him forward at 55 miles per hour, the wind near a 10,000-acre brush fire he was spotting drove him that fast backward.

Wave Does Double Duty

ABERDEEN, Scotland (UP) A huge wave washed deckhand John Craig overboard from the trawler Dorileen Tuesday and the thought flashed through his mind: "Cheerio, I've had it."

But shortly afterwards another equally large wave washed him back on board while skipper John Watson was out in a lifeboat looking for him.

Housing Market Slump May Ease

(Real Estate Column)
By ROBERT F. MORISON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (UP)—There are growing indications that the housing market will begin to snap out of its slump sometime next year.

The various barometers of future activity in homebuilding as yet have shown no inclination to rise. This is generally blamed on the old bogey "tight money."

But some slowing down next year is generally expected in some of the expanding segments of the economy. This, it is believed, will somewhat reduce the number of attractive investments and make home mortgages more inviting to such permanent investors as insurance companies.

Early estimates put new housing next year at between 1 million and 1,150,000 units. Builders generally are on the low side of this outlook and lenders in the middle.

One nationally prominent builder feels 1957 "will be slow starting for the home building industry," but "somewhere along the way" it will pick up.

Norman Strunk, Chicago, executive vice president of the United States Savings and Loan League said in a recent speech, the near record 1.3 million new homes in 1955 was a result of "souped up" sales based on "an unsustainable volume of bank credit." A slowdown in homebuilding this year — as in automobiles — was needed for "catching our breath," he added.

Strunk said he expects savings to improve next year and demand from business and government for investment funds to slacken, thus easing the strain on the mortgage money market. He forecast a pickup next spring.

Whether interest rates go up or remain the same, and whether mortgage financing become easier or continues hard to arrange, one thing seems certain — next year's house will cost more. It also probably will be somewhat larger and have more refinements.

Top administration leaders have repeatedly indicated their concern with the housing market. The problem is to stimulate it without upsetting the current anti-inflationary policies of the fiscal agencies, principally the Federal Reserve system.

Several steps have already been taken this year, including restoration of the maximum 30 year terms on FHA and VA - backed mortgages and reducing down payment requirements on new FHA-insured homes. The government's mortgage buying agency—the Federal National Mortgage Association, which will buy good VA and FHA mortgages when permanent investors can't be found — has been allowed to expand its activities.

Still, homebuilding has not responded.

Nothing very startling takes place in today's hand, but the average player might well study several of the plays. All are a matter of the routine technique that experts take for granted.

West opened the nine of clubs, dummy put up the king, and East played the six. East had to guess whether his partner had led a singleton or the top of a doubleton. He though that the doubleton was more likely, since it didn't seem probable that South had a six-card holding in clubs.

South saw what was going on and promptly drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king. He then led another club to force out the ace. A less careful declarer might have taken a finesse in trumps, allowing West to make the queen of spades and a club ruff in addition.

East took the ace of clubs and led a third club for West to ruff with the queen. West now led a low heart, putting South to the guess.

South would eventually have to tackle the suit for himself. The only hope was that West held the ace of hearts and declarer therefore made his contract by putting up the king of hearts from the dummy.

Draft Of 17,000 Set For January

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Defense Department has announced a draft call of 17,000 men for January. All the draftees will go to the Army.

The draft call is the same set for the preceding three months. It will bring to 2,152,430 the number of men drafted since the outbreak of the Korean war.

OSLO—Policeman battles youths trying to stone Soviet embassy. More than 10,000 Norwegians demonstrated in sympathy for Hungary.

NEW YORK (UP)—Tim Mara, owner of the New York football Giants expects to run up quite a Thanksgiving Day bill today when he treats his goliaths to their turkey day meal at a New York hotel.

the one and only mellow-mash
Yellowstone

100 PROOF
STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKEY
BOTTLED IN BOND

NOW 6 YEARS OLD!

Always one step mellower! The reason? Yellowstone's exclusive mellow-mash process draws off only the lightest, most desirable whiskey vapors in the still—leaves the "heavy" parts behind. That's why Yellowstone is even finer than sweet-mash bourbon—even smoother than sour-mash bourbon.

Yes . . . mellow-mash Yellowstone takes more grain, more time, more money—but it gives you full bourbon flavor with truly light body.

Try this old Kentucky favorite. Once you taste it, you'll know why Yellowstone is called "the greatest American whiskey"!
