Price Foresees Era Of Farm Prosperity

Congressman Bob Price, speaking at a town hall meeting here Monday, August 20, called the new farm bill "excellent" and foresaw a period of renewed prosperity for the farming and livestock industry. This, he believes, is especially true for small towns like Wellington.

The farm program was one part of his speech that covered military preparedness, political pressure groups, and briefly, Watergate.

The congressman approved of target prices for major farm products.

"I think we are entering one of our finest agricultural eras," he declared.

"For the first time, the farmer is getting something for his labor," he added a few minutes later.

One factor is the sale of vast amounts of wheat to Russia. But other nations are capable of paying for American food products. They like it, and they want to better their own diets. The devalued dollar has made these purchases more attractive.

Agriculture is the only way to keep the United States in a favorable balance of trade, he pointed out.

There are parts of the farm program Mr. Price opposes. One is food stamps for strikers—with a cost of living escalator clause.

In view of this, Congressman Price introduced and got included in the farm bill, an escalator clause to help equalize agricultural prices. It will be effective two years from now. "In the meantime we can sell all the products we have," he added.

What all this will mean to Wellington is that farmers will spend more money in the community.

"It will be good for every rural community in the country. It will entice for the first time young people to come back in the country because they can make a living."

Congressman Price briefly explained the investigation of the Russian wheat sales, in which companies handling the sales are accused of falsifying their records to the Department of Agriculture.

He called Watergate "an obsession" encouraged by certain of the eastern press and TV and said it is a matter to be settled in the courts.

The congressman opened his talk with a review of the military capabilities of the United States and Russia.

"We are developing new types of aircraft carriers, missiles and a lot of other things, but so is Russia," he said.

Mr. Price spoke of the political power wielded by groups dependent on the government, who must be considered every two years when a congressman comes home to campaign for office—30 million on social security, 24 million on welfare, 12 million who will receive food stamps. "If you think that isn't a potential political bloc," he commented.

He spoke out against bureaucracies — little governments within the government, and of costly overlapping programs, all of which need to be weeded out of government.

Long Illness Takes Life of Larry Wright

Larry Lynn Wright, 16, died at the family home Thursday, August 16, at 3:00 a.m. after being ill two years with leukemia.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Wright, he would have been a junior in Wellington High School this year.

He was born in Wellington May 11, 1957, and had spent his entire life here.

During much of his illness, he received treatment at the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston. It was in these periods that Larry participated with doctors of the hospital in a number of experiments being carried out in the search for a cure for leukemia. In this work, his doctors had nothing but praise for the young man's courage and co-operation in all that they asked him to do.

Both while he was at home and while he was hospitalized, he continued his high school studies. He was an enthusiastic sportsman, and with his doctor's permission was a member of the Skyrocket B football team in 1972 until he broke his hand during a game.

In recognition of Larry's courage, he was honored with Larry Wright Day on April 20. A reception was given by the 1954 Study Club for his young friends and friends of the family. City officials escorted him and his family to this event, and afterwards Larry was the guest of honor at the Kiwanis Club Luncheon.

As a surprise to him, Dr. Jean Hester, Larry's doctor in M.D. Anderson Hospital, flew to Wellington to participate in part of the day's events.

Larry was a member of First Baptist Church.

Funeral services were conducted at First Baptist Church, Saturday, August 18, at 10:00 a.m. with Rev. Ted Savage of

JUDGE ZOOK THOMAS

Thomas at Institute On Juvenile Courts

AMARILLO, -- Judge Zook Thomas, Collingsworth County, is one of a group of Texas district and county court jurists who have been attending a three-week Judges' Institute, Juveniles and the Courts, at West Texas State University.

The institute is sponsored by the Texas Center for the Judiciary, Austin, and ends Aug. 17.

"Primary thrust of the institute," said Dr. Brent Lynch, director of the institute and associate professor of government at WTSU, "was to review in depth the new family code as it relates to juveniles and to inform the judges about who and what is available to them as juvenile judges."

Lynch added that the institute study was concerned also with the responsibilities of the counties as to facilities required by the code.

This study was made necessary by the passage of the juvenile section of the new family code which goes into effect Sept. 1, after being passed by the 63rd Legislature.

The new code contains major changes in the juvenile court system. The procedural and substantive law related to handling of juveniles will be substantially different following Sept. 1, according to the consensus of the judges attending the institute.

A major change in this area is the requirement that all judges who try juvenile cases must be licensed attorneys.

Non-lawyer judges will continue to be responsible for detention hearings and other aspects of juvenile handling in most counties according to the new code.

Requirements contained in the new code state that only qualified probation officers be employed and that certain standards for juvenile facilities and services be met by all counties.

Throughout the three weeks, the judges have been studying the procedural, psychological and psychiatric aspects of handling juveniles, and the role of the police, caseworker, probation officer, psychologist, psychiatrist, clergy, therapist, and judge in juvenile matters.

During the last week of the institute, the judges visited the Psychiatric Pavilion, Kilgore Children's Psychiatric Center and Hospital, Boys' Ranch, Amarillo State Center for Human Development, Texas State Technological Institute, and other agencies in the Canyon-Amarillo area.

A banquet honoring the judges was held the last night of the institute at the Green Room of the East Dining Hall on campus. Certificates of graduation were presented to each of the judges on completion of classes at the institute.

Council Holds Short Meeting Monday Night

The City Council moved to make available immediately its share of the funds to subsidize the Collingsworth Volunteer Ambulance Service during a regular meeting Monday night, August 20.

This action was agreed on earlier in the summer after the volunteer service need for a new ambulance arose.

The Monday night meeting was short but covered a variety of business.

Mayor Bill Hatch told the group that in addition to tax revenue loss from homestead exemptions for persons 65 years or over, there will be additional revenue loss from veterans with disability of 10 per cent or more, who may be exempt from ad valorem taxes. He said this was called to his attention by James R. Bowen, county veterans service officer, who has the complete information available for veterans who may wish it.

The county water farm north of town was rented to Mack Shields for the coming year on a third and fourth basis, after consulting the city's legal advisor, Paul Spillman. Mr. Shields now has the land leased and has a year's option on continuing the lease.

City Manager Lyman Daniel was authorized to buy 12 new fire hydrants, to replace those becoming worn out. Mr. Daniel said that where possible, the present hydrants will be rebuilt.

The city manager also said he has received the materials available for seal coating and this work will be done shortly.

Robert Owens, who has bought lots south of 15th Street in the 1200 block met with the council to work out an agreement on opening a street southward to connect with one in the Bratten Addition, and a change in alley location to conform with other blocks was agreed to.

Carl Amerson, Dozier Farmer, Dies Friday

Carl T. Amerson, prominent Dozier farmers, died at 10:01 a.m. Friday, August 17, in the Bivins Rehabilitation Center, Amarillo, after a critical illness of about two weeks. He was transferred there the preceding Monday.

Mr. Amerson was 67.

He had lived in the Dozier area since 1923 and farmed all of his adult life. He was born January 28, 1906, at Jacksboro, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William J. Amerson.

On February 12, 1932, he was married to Miss Vera Breeding, also of the Dozier area.

Mr. Amerson was a member of the Church of Christ and through the years was active in many community enterprises.

The family home is three miles north of Dozier.

Funeral services were conducted at the Dozier Church of Christ Sunday at 4:00 p.m. with Minister Joe Dukes of Allison officiating. Burial was in the Shamrock Cemetery under the direction of Richardson Funeral Home in Shamrock.

Pallbearers were Jimmy Breeding, Rudie Tate and Leon Myers of Dozier; Joe Amerson and Clide Amerson of Amarillo; W. A. Bentley of McLean; Paul Bell of Wellington; and Carl Knoll of Shamrock.

Survivors include his wife,

Absentee Voting Starts On City Sales Tax Issue

Absentee balloting is now under way in the City Sales Tax election to be held September 8.

Voters who will not be in town on that date may vote absentee in the City Hall, between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. Mrs. Lorene Jenkins, city secretary reminded.

The office is open during the noon hour, she added.

The closing date for voting absentee is Tuesday, September 5, at 5:00 p.m.

This election is to determine the levying of a one per cent sales and use tax within the city.

At the same time, the City Council proposes to lower the property tax rate from $1.30 to $1.05 per $100 valuation.

The council believes that this move will broaden Wellington's tax base and give relief to property owners who have carried the burden of taxes through the years.

Wellington is the only Texas town in this immediate area that does not have a sales tax.

If the proposition carries, collection of the sales tax will begin January 1, 1974, and revenue from it will be returned to the city from the state treasury about June 1974 and thereafter on a quarterly basis.

According to information secured by City Manager Lyman Daniel, Memphis, with a population of 3,227, receives approximately $36,000 from its sales tax; Shamrock, population 2.644, drieves about $35,200; Clarendon, having a population of 1,974, received $28,829 in 1972 and is anticipating $31,000 revenue in 1973; and Childress, with a population of 5,408, collects around $79,000 annually.

County Resident Seventy Years Dies August 15

A resident of the county for 70 years, Mrs. Bertie Hartman, died in Hall County Memorial Hospital, Memphis, Wednesday, August 15. She was 83 years of age.

Her home was 1301 Childress Street, although recently she had been a patient in the nursing home.

Born in Tennessee, she was the daughter of the late Isaac and Emma Lee Bounds, who brought her here when she was a young girl.

Mrs. Hartman was an active member of First United Methodist Church.

Funeral services were conducted at First Methodist Church at 4:00 p.m. Thursday, with the

Rotarians to Hear District Governor

Rotary District Governor Marshall Formby of Plainview will make his annual visit to the Wellington Rotary Club Monday and Tuesday, August 27 and 28, President Sandy Parsons has announced.

He will meet with officers and directors for a dinner meeting, and with the general membership for the regular Tuesday luncheon.

Wives of the Rotarians will be present at each meeting, and Mrs. Formby is due to accompany her husband here. Mrs. Parsons will be her hostess.

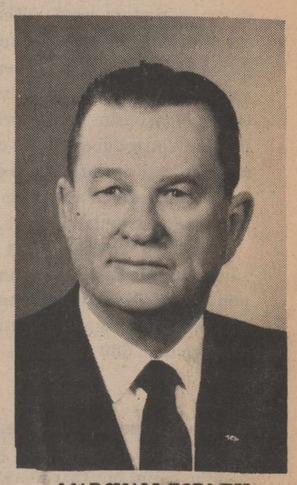

Both meetings will be at Cherokee Inn Dining Room.

Mr. Formby will discuss the program of the 47 Rotary Clubs in this district for the coming year. The 1973 theme is "It's Time Now for Action" and the district governor will talk along these lines at the noon luncheon.

Governor Formby is a former chairman of the State Highway Commission, and during his term of office spoke at the dedication of the Lillie FM road.

A widely known West Texan, he has been a county judge for Dickens County, state senator, a member of the Texas Tech Board of Regents and now a member of the College and University Coordinating Board of Texas. He and his partner, Clint Formby, own radio stations at Hereford, Levelland and Temple. He currently practices law in Plainview and is also a farmer and cattle feeder. He is married and the father of two teen-age children, Frances and Davis.

He became governor of the 573rd Rotary District, which includes 62 counties, on July 1.

Fifty Rockets Seek Berths on Varsity

Approximately 50 boys are out for football, and after a week and a day of practice, they are looking good.

This assessment was given Tuesday morning, August 21, by James Williams, head coach and athletic director.

Two-a-day workouts without pads started August 13 and continued through last week. The boys put on pads Monday, August 20.

"They had real good enthusiasms," declared their coach. "The kids have good attitude and reported in real good condition for football."

Some of the boys did conditioning work on their own through the summer.

There are approximately 12 returning lettermen among the 50 working out and Coach Williams said a few more days of practice will give him and his assistants, Carroll Nunnelley, Phil Bailey and Robert Hicks, a better idea of the 1973 Rocket capabilities.

"As a team, we are going to be small and do not have a great deal of speed," said Coach Williams. "We will try to offset this with

Florida Scramble Draws Ninety-two Area Golfers

Ninty-two area golfers will play in the first Florida Scramble held at Green Acres course, Saturday and Sunday, August 25 and 26. The tournament is sponsored by Wellington Lions Club.

Eleven teams, each made up of four players, will be on the course Saturday and 12 different teams will be competing Sunday. And under the Florida Scramble rules, all 44 of Saturday's players will be playing at the same time! The same will apply to the 48 who play Sunday. The time is 1:30 p.m. Saturday, and 1:45 p.m. Sunday.

Both men and women are participating, and most teams include three men and a woman.

Noel Overton, tournament chairman, explained the start.

"There will be a shotgun start, and we ask players to see the schedule at the golf course to know which Tee box your team will start from.

"When the gun sounds at 1:30 Saturday, and 1:45 Sunday, everyone will tee off and the tournament will be on."

Handsome prizes will be awarded the winners, according to Jack Neeley, Lions president. The four members of the winning team will receive golf bags; the second place team, putters; third place team, one dozen golf balls; and fourth place team, either one-half dozen golf balls or three wood head covers.

There will be a circle around No. 1 hole, and players may attempt to put a ball in this circle off the tee. Those who do will each receive a golf ball. There is a small fee for this event.

Rocket Boosters Organize Aug. 28

The Rocket Booster Club, an over-all sports organization to support Wellington High School athletics, is slated for the community this year.

An organizational meeting will be held Tuesday, August 28, at 8:00 p.m. in the Heritage Room, Athletic Director James Williams has announced.

Plans were begun after men of the community contacted the coach and together they reviewed the need for a booster organization and what its function will be.

The proposed club will support all Skyrocket athletics through the year, rather than concentrating on football as in the past.

"All who are interested, either men or women, are urged to be present at the organizational meeting Tuesday night," said Coach Williams.

Plymouth Cemetery Asks Donations

Donations are needed by the Plymouth Cemetery Association to keep the plot in good condition, Mrs. Lillie McClain, secretary, said this week.

All funds will go toward keeping the grounds mowed and the cemetery in repair, she explained.

President of the Association is C.W. Loring, and donations may be made to him or Mrs. McClain.

She said the Plymouth Cemetery Association also has a memorial program, whereby donations may be made and will be acknowledged.

Three Burglaries Net Cutting Torches

Three burglaries in which a cutting torch, hose and guages were taken at each place, have been reported by Sherriff John Rainey. These entries follow the pattern of five others earlier in the month. In each of the three most recent, the cutting torches were taken from locked rooms or buildings.

Mr. Rainey said that cutting torches, and other equipment of this type, can be disposed of easily, and those taken in burglaries are not necessarily planned for local use.

First of the entries was at the county barn, east of town on State Highway 203. The burglars went over the high chain link fence and pried a lock off the door, Sheriff Rainey said. County road supervisor, Chester White, discovered the loss.

Cliff Hartman's hanger at Marian Airpark was burglarized, apparently Saturday night, the sheriff continued. The lock was pried off, in the same pattern as the earlier entries.

The third burglary was at the Jim Woods farm east of Wellington where the padlock was knocked off the door to gain entry.

Sheriff Rainey said there is also more than the usual amount of taking vegetables from gardens this summer, and he has a report of meat taken from a deep freeze.

Exotics Find Place On Texas Ranches

AUSTIN -- Although biologists still do not know the effects of importing exotic animals for Texas ranches, the numbers of these species from such faraway places as India, Africa and Corsica are growing.

In some cases the importation of exotics, especially African exotics, may be one way of saving them. Changing land-use in Africa is threatening some species. Where once they roamed free, there are now crops and fences.

Some of these animals pay their own way since hunters pay a good price to bag them. Others are maintained for the novelty of a private zoo.

Oryx -- The oryxes are three species of intermediately sized antelope (four-to six-feet high at the shoulders) which inhabit scrubby brush, savannah or desert areas of Africa. These are hardy antelope which have adapted to their dry environments. They obtain moisture from the vegetation on which they feed. Population is 38.

Zebra -- Typically horselike grazers, zebras occupy the plains of their native Africa where they move about in large herds on grassy pasture areas. Several species of zebra may range together along with many other animals of the savannah for mutual defense against predators. In Texas, introduced zebras can range in the same area as do domestic horses, which are of the same genus. Population is 25.

Aoudad -- A release of 44 animals in the Palo Duro Canyon area of Texas in 1957 has resulted in a present population of more than 600 aoudad in that area. These sheep are free-ranging and are quite popular with hunters from Texas and from outside the state. Aoudads are relatively large sheep with mature rams standing as tall as 44 inches at the shoulder and weighing in excess of 300 pounds. A native of no thern Africa, these sheep have done well in the semi-arid, rugged conditions of the canyon. Population is 3,217 statewide.

Barbados - Mouflan Sheep -- Barbados sheep, domestic sheep from West Africa with reddish brown hair and black markings, are included in the exotics because they readily crossbreed with the mouflan sheep. Offspring from crosses between these two sheep have characteristics of both breeds. Most Texas exotic sheep are crossbred animals, but this does not necessarily detract from their sporting value. Population is 16,169 mouflon-Barbados crossbreeds.

Fallow Deer -- These deer are the species most often kept in captivity because of their hardiness. They prefer plains or slightly hilly country with dense grasses and patches of light woods or brush. Fallow deer, originally found in the Mediterranean region of southern Europe and Asia Minor, have many color variations ranging from solid brown to brown with white spots or even solid white. They are a medium sized deer with mature bucks weighing up to 175 pounds and standing about three feet tall at the shoulders. Population is 2,617.

Blackbuck Antelope -- The blackbuck antelope is one of the few antelope in w ich the coloration differs in the male and the female of the species. Bucks are dark brown, stand less than 33 inches at the shoulders and weigh less than 100 pounds. The yellowish, fawn-colored does are only a slightly smaller and hornless. The blackbuck, which is primarily distributed throughout India, is an animal of open, terrain. These antelope are native to what is now West Pakistan along the foot of the Himalayas to East Pakistan (Bangladesh) and throughout India. Population is 5,470.

Sika Deer -- Several races of sika deer have been described, and it is difficult to make positive identification on introduced sika in Texas because the mixing of races is probable. These deer generally stand about three feet at the shoulders and weigh up to 200 pounds. Native to eastern Asia, sika are one of the more popular introductions into Texas. Population is 2,036.

Axis Deer -- Axis deer have been introduced into Texas from India in numbers second only to the mouflon-Barbados sheep. They are medium-sized deer usually standing about three feet at the shoulders and weighing between 120 and 200 pounds These deer characteristically need water and shade, avoid high, rugged terrain and prefer grass as forage.

A CARRY-OUT MEAL, after a fashion, but watch out that it doesn't fight back! Superlobster weighing 19.7 pounds caught by Clifford Earl, left, on the New Jersey shore was turned over to Chef William Hastings of a Basking Ridge, N.J., restaurant. No need to worry about a meat shortage for awhile.

The sage hen is the largest of the North American grouse.

Edwards Plateau Deer Look Good

WACO -- Hill Country deer hunters will be taking bigger and better deer this season, according to Parks and Wildlife Department biologist H.L. Robinett, project leader in the Edwards Plateau area.

"Good rains in the Hill Country have produced above-average range conditions which are ideal for fawn production," said Robinett.

"These conditions also stimulate antler growth."

Last year was an outstanding year for antler production and this spring and summer seem to be just as productive.

The deer hunter is not the only one who should be all smiles this fall; the abundance of low vegetation has provided ideal nesting conditions for turkey and quail with the hatch of these birds still in progress.

Powell Hurt in Swather Mishap

Neil Powell of Tulia is hospitalized there for injuries he received in an accident Tuesday, August 14, while unloading a swather.

The accident occurred at his farm. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Powell, 1407 East Avenue, were visiting their son when he was injured.

He was still hospitalized Monday, and additional x-rays and tests were to be made.

Guard Battery Ends Two Weeks Training

Members of the Combat Support Company 2d Bn 142 Infantry (Mech) of the 72nd Infantry Brigade recently completed their two weeks of annual training at Fort Hood, Texas.

The Wellington Guardsmen are part of over 5,700 Texas Army National Guardsmen from the North Texas area participating in their '73 Summer Camp.

The Combat Support Company of the 142 Mechanized Infantry of the 72nd Brigade was tested for combat readiness with both day and night exercises during their two weeks of field training.

The men are now back to their civilian jobs and will complete their training year with monthly drills at the Wellington Armory.

Men in Service

Ft. Benning, Ga. (AHTNC) July 11 -- West Point Cadet Philip R. Range, son of Dr. and Mrs. E.B. Range, of Shamrock, Texas, received a Parachutist Badge upon completion of the three-week airborne course at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Ft. Benning, Ga.

During the first week of training, he underwent a rigorous physical training program and received instruction in the theory of parachuting. The second week tested his ability through jumps from the 34-foot and 250-foot towers. The final week he was required to perform five static line parachute jumps.

State Fair Sets 'World Gateways' October 6-21

The world of transportation, the world of tomorrow and the world of imagination will be superimposed over an outline of Fair Park when the State Fair of Texas presents "World Gateways Exposition" from October 6-21 in Dallas.

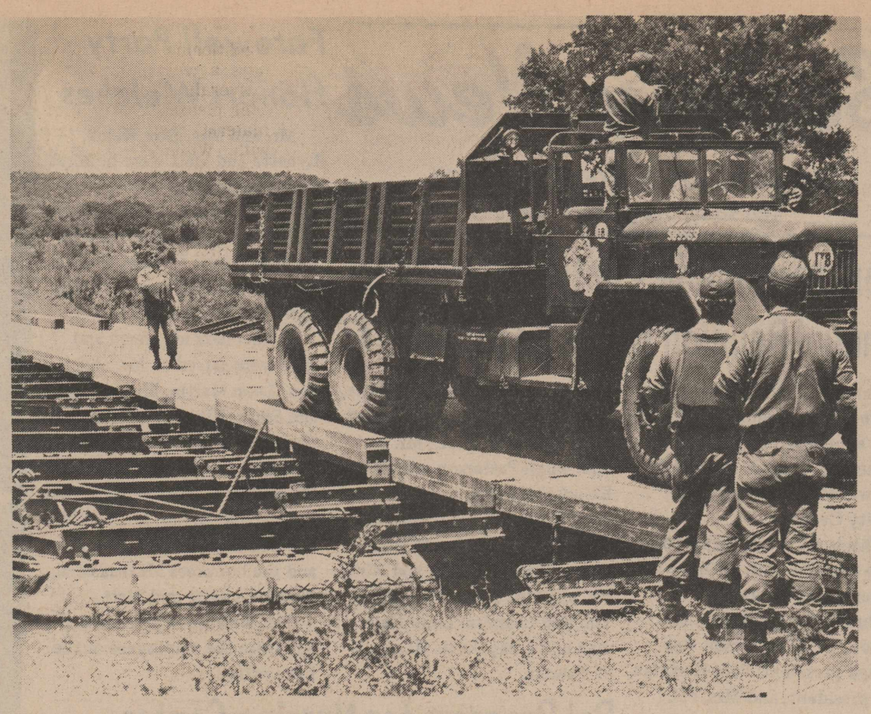

Sparkling international exhibits, reflecting worldwide progress and products, will highlight this salute to Texas as an emerging commercial center in the global community. Japan, Romania, Denmark, Mexico, South Africa and the Phillipines are among the countries to be represented in the spacious World Exhibits Center.

A continental flavor will characterize the State Fair Musical production of Sigmund Romberg's ever-popular "The Student Prince." Old Heidelberg will come alive in the New Music Hall for 20 performances.

Musical groups from the earth's four corners, including the acclaimed Trinidad Cavaliers Steel Orchestra and Variety Show, will provide daily entertainment throughout the park. Each of the 16 fair dates will also feature multiple circus performances and a colorful parade of theme-designed floats, bands and marching units.

The Pan-American Livestock Exposition October 6-14, spotlights a National Hereford Show along with judging of champion beef and dairy cattle, breeding swine, sheep and goats. The State Fair of Texas Horse Shows will present winners from the national show circuit against a background of music in the modern, air-conditioned Coliseum.

The lure of the 1974 models will attract many of the three million fair visitors to the Automobile Show for a panoramic preview of next year's cars. Fashion shows, food demonstrations, and displays of winning articles in more than 900 competitive classes will be presented in the Women's Building. Corny dogs, carny barkers and a collection of amusement rides unsurpassed in variety and thrills make up the mile-long Midway.

ONE MORE RIVER CROSSED

This Engineering Support company preceeds the infantry and wheeled vehicles to establish a bridge across an impassable obstacle stacle during training exercises for Texas National Guardsmen. The two-weeks training period ended recently at Fort Hood.

OLD-NEW THINGS TO DO ON VACATION

When two San Antonio youngsters spent their vacation in Wellington recently, it meant learning to do some things their forefathers did. They were Drake Beauchamp, 9, and his brother, John Stuart Beauchamp, 5, children of Dr. and Mrs. John R. Beauchamp. The activities were made possible by their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Drake. No. 1: Drake, left, and John Stuart learned to churn butter in an old-fashioned daisy churn. The cream came from the Horace Small farm. No. 2: a real haystack in the back yard provided hours of play and pretending. John Stuart is left, Drake right. No. 3: Drake chopped wood for the camp fire when they camped overnight on Salt Fork River. Crickets kept the boys awake. No. 4: John Stuart, left, and Drake, built this straw man. He will be kept over for Halloween and possibly Thanksgiving. The boys also took turns sleeping outside at night with their grandfather.

Pal Program for Nursing Center Residents Now Open to All Women

In July one of the projects of the United Methodist Women was to do something to help at the two local Nursing Centers. After the president, Mrs. J.B. King, spoke with both administrators of the Nursing Centers, a list of the residents and their birthdates was worked up. This list is revised once a month.

Members of the United Methodist Women each drew a name from a box to use as a "Pal" for the rest of the year. The idea behind this project is to visit the resident, send birthday cards and other types of cards and letters, to take flowers or small gifts.

"The main thing is to show rememberance and love for these residents and their families," said Mrs. King. "There are State Laws and Nursing Center rules to be acquainted with before taking part in this project. There are approximately 70 residents in the two Nursing Centers in town, and so far there are 30 women involved in this U.M.W. project. It has been a blessing to those who participate as well as to the residents.

"Now the project is open to anyone else who might be interested in taking part. A person does not have to be a member of the sponsoring organization. By taking a person's name to be responsible for in any way will assure that all the residents are remembered."

If anyone is interested, she may contact Mrs. J.B. King, phone 447-2068, for a name to be a "Pal" to for a few months.

Air-fern Used For Decoration

Just what is the so-called "air-fern" that many people use for decorative purposes?

It is making one of its cyclic appearances in the decorative trade, notes Everett E. Janne, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Actually, the "air-fern" is the skeletal remains of a tiny sea animal. – and is being promoted by some people as the perfect answer for an attractive foliage plant that needs no care, Janne cautions. In fact, some promoters claim it will grow in air alone.

The material sold as "air-ferns" consists of the skeleton of a small hydroid animal called Sertularia. It is a distant relative of the coral which it resembles, Janne explains.

"The skeletal remains of this small animal are dredged up from the sea, usually along coastal areas in the estuaries of streams and rivers. The skeletons are cleaned, dyed green, treated with chemicals to keep them soft and pliable, and sold as air plants, air ferns or sea moss," he adds.

Since it is already dead and cured, it will not deteriorate rapidly. The bright green dye makes it attractive, and it is easily arranged for long lasting interior decorative pieces, the horticulturist says.

When first unpacked, the material often has a strong odor. This soon disappears, but until it does Janne advises not to use it in a closed room or office where you have to live in close proximity to it.

Do not water the "air-fern" as moisture will remove the dye and conditioning material, leaving the stems bleached, dry and matted together. If handled properly the material can serve as an attractive indoor decoration much more effectively than many of the frequently used plastic plants.

Fix-It Tip

Continuing from last week, the propane torch is a handy item to have around the home. Propane torches are sold with a regular blowtorch head that delivers a relatively large flame for heavy work. A pencil burner is also available to provide narrower flame for fine work.

There are accessories to make the torch more versatile. One is a flame spreader that goes over the standard head. This provides a wide flame for such work as burning off paint and antiquing furniture.

Soldering tips fit over the burner so that the flame is enclosed in the tip. This provides a constantly heated iron. A cutting tip goes on like the soldering tip, makes the torch useful for cutting tile, woodburning and removing putty.

Nutty Days — They're Good!

Pecans offer easy-to-prepare tasty treats. Whether salted, sugared or spiced -- they are excellent for family fun or youth get-togethers.

For salted pecans, first melt two tablespoons of butter, margarine or salad oil in a heavy skillet over low heat. Then add one cup shelled pecans and stir until hot.

The specialist warned against overcooking -- pecans darken after being removed from the fat. Drain them on absorbent paper, and sprinkle lightly with salt while still warm.

To prepare sugared pecans, boil one cup sugar, one-fourth cup water and one teaspoon light corn syrup together until the long thread stage is reached. A candy thermometer will register 230-234 degrees F. at this stage.

Next, add one teaspoon of vanilla and cool until lukewarm. Then beat the mixture until it becomes creamy. Add 1½ cups pecan halves and stir until they are well coated. Pour the mixture onto waxed paper and separate the pecans. Store in tightly covered containers.

"Spiced pecans are a really special treat," Miss Grubbs added.

For these, boil two cups sugar, one cup water and two tablespoons corn syrup together until it reaches the soft ball stage, or 238 degrees F.

Remove pan from fire and place in a pan of cold water until the mixture is lukewarm. Beat until mixture becomes creamy. Add one teaspoon each of allspice, cloves and ginger, plus two teaspoons of cinnamon.

Heat in a double boiler until the right consistency to coat pecans. Using a hat pin, sharp wire or tooth pick, dip each pecan separately and place on a buttered tin.

Questions People Ask About the Catholic Church

Q. Is there prejudice in the churches today?

A. Unfortunately yes. Especially in some of the smaller denominations in the South, where many people who are not white are refused membership. Most small towns in this country have very tight little church groups, who won't admit to their prejudice and racism. They preach and rant about it from the pulpit, but practice it faithfully in their day-to-day lives. Jesus told us to love one another, and He didn't make any exceptions. Don't forget that Jesus Himself was not a white man.

Q. What does an unmarried priest know about abortion and marriage?

A. You might just as well ask about what does a doctor who doesn't have cancer know about curing it; or what does a person who has never been to China know about geography. Sometimes married people are the ones who know the least about marriage, and that's why we have to have priests, ministers, and marriage-counselors.

Home Management

By Mrs. Arla Felts

One word that could be used to describe the American diet is "disaster." In a country in which food is generally plentious, one would think that the diets of the people would be nutritionally sound. We have parts of our country in which people are dying of hunger and malnutrition. Throughout the United States and in this county we have people who are nutritionally starving their bodies. I don't refer to the "poor or underpriviledged," the undernourished are from every income level. An individual may even eat enough food to gain weight and still not receive the food value he needs from his diet. Too many of us get "empty" calories by drinking carbonated beverages, coffee or tea and drinking far too few nutritious beverages such as fruit juices or milk.

We tend to ignore any advice given us to improve the quality of our diets. We teach our children that "empty" calories are fun by offering these foods as treats.

We frantically read and sometimes try even the most bizarre reducing diets without considering what it can do to our health. Each new diet is supported by a number of "testimonials" by users, all of which we believe with little difficulty. What is not generally considered is the real danger of such diets. We can aggrivate present health problems or create new ones. We can hurt ourselves psychologically by the strain if adhering to some diets. Our skin can become dry and leatherlike. Our eye sight can weaken or night blindness can result. Generally speaking, all individuals should consult their doctors before beginning on fad diets.

One safe way to reduce is to cut down on calorie intake and increase calorie use(exercise). Each person must decide for himself whether or not it is worth the effort. Only through improving our eating habits can we lose those extra pounds and keep them off. Our health is more important than our looks but when we feel better we look better.

Everyone we see has his own idea about how to lose weight. Every person must use the idea that works for him. One must first be honest with himself. He must admit that he really does eat enough to keep his weight at the present level.

If you are like most people, you can resist a slice of cake faster than you can a cookie, or should I say cookies. It is so easy to eat one, then another and another. We think we are saving calories with the cookie, but are we? In other words, if it is easy for you to resist cake, bake the cake.

One simple suggestion this summer is to learn to stop with one sandwich, or if you only eat one now, try an open-face sandwich. Use diet breads instead of regular bread.

You can train your taste buds to like foods that are less sweet and have more food value. Some suggestions for low calorie foods and a food chart may be obtained free of charge from the County Extension Office.

SEE DRAKE PLAY WTSU

West Texas State University football secretaries, Mrs. Rhon Stewart, Canyon, left, and Lynda Looney, Canyon, are ready to aid in the WTSU-Affiliated Foods promotion to fill Frank Kimbrough Stadium for the Sept. 8 season opener against Drake. Owens & Scott Thriftway is participating in the sale of the tickets in Wellington, which offers a ticket to the game for only $1 with coupon.

Tickets for WTSU-Drake Game On Sale for Only $1

CANYON, Tex. -- Affiliated Foods, Inc., has combined with West Texas State University in a campaign to fill Frank Kimbrough Memorial Stadium for the 1973 home football opening game Sept. 8, against Drake.

Through the athletic department of West Texas State, participating Affiliated Foods stores will offer regular $5 reserved seats for that game at $1 for each $3 worth of groceries purchased.

The food customers will be presented with coupons at each of the 55 participating stores in the Panhandle area and they are redeemable at any ticket booth at the stadium on the night of the game for a $5 reserved seat. The West Texas State-Drake game starts at 7:30 p.m.

Each customer will have the opportunity to buy a $1 coupon for each $3 worth of groceries purchased.

Among the participating stores are 17 Toot'n Totum stores in Amarillo.

Stores in Miami, Tulia, Phillips, Spearman, Dumas, Sunray, Dimmitt, Pampa, Childress, Borger, Hereford, Panhandle, Wellington, Dalhart, Lockney, Wheeler, Memphis, Shamrock, Quitaque, Hart, Vega, Gruver, Sundown and Farwell are also taking part in the campaign to fill the stadium.

In Wellington, Owens & Scott Thriftway is taking part in the coupon night, which is co-sponsored by Affiliated Foods, Inc., and West Texas State University.

The idea of the coupon night to fill the stadium for the opening game came about because of the large number of Panhandle area athletes on the Buffalo squad for 1972.

Among the Buffalo varsity from the immediate Panhandle area are Ben Bentley, Panhandle; Clois Burgess, Mike Crawford, Aaron Gilbreath, David Herber and Bobby Nowak, Amarillo; Scott Doores and Steve Gobin, Perryton, Dracy Dickson and Mike Diedrich, Lockney; David Diedrich and Kurt Kisinger, Liberal, Kan.; Johnny Darden, Cole Fraley and Scott Hindman, Borger; Robert Edwards, Sundown; Tony Gorman and Mike Wartes, Hereford; Jim Hart, Walter Hibbler and David Moody Lubbock; Johnny Jackson, Kress; Merel Kilpatrick, Memphis; Robert Edwards, Sundown, Allen Mullins and Steve Rogers Sunray; Tibby Rogers, Pampa; and Larry Wiens, Turpin, Okla.

Members of the 1972 Buffalo Freshman team from the immediate area are Darrell Blades and Mike Sutterfield, Hooker, Okla.; Jim Bob Brown, Stratford; Tony Edwards, Tulia; Danny Harris and Winston Short, Hereford; Larry Johnson, Childress; Roy Markham, Canoh; Mike McVay Beaver, Okla.; Randy Morris, Lubbock; Jeff Nunn, Tucumcari N.M.; Keith Oxley, Amarillo; and Gary Trosper, Dumas.

The Buffalo-Drake game is a key one in Missouri Valley Conference competition. Those two teams, along with Louisville, tied for the MVC title last fall with 4-1 records. Drake handed West Texas State a 40-12 defeat in the Buffs' opening game of the season at Des Moines, Iowa.

Coach Gene Mayfield expects his Buffaloes to be a highly improved team. There are nine offensive and nine defensive starters returning from a team which had a 5-5 season mark in 1972.

YOU Will Vote Saturday, September 8 on Wellington's 1% Municipal Sales Tax

Here Are Answers to Some of the Most Often Asked Questions:

Q. What items are subject to the 1% Municipal sales tax?
A. The 1% sales tax is applicable only to those sales now taxed under the State Sales & Use Tax Act.

Q. There is a 4% state tax on automobiles. Would the city sales tax also apply to automobile sales?
A. No. The 4% state tax on automobiles is an extra tax: the municipal sales tax would not apply to automobile sales.

Q. Does the city sales tax apply to wholesale sales?
A. No, only to retail sales. Goods sold for resale are not taxable.

Q. Does a person residing outside of the city limits pay the 1% municipal sales tax?
A. Yes, when he makes a purchase of personal property subject to the tax in the city which has adopted the local sales tax. In return, he enjoys the city's street facilities, police protection and other advantages of the city for which city residents pay the major share.

Q. Is the local sales tax regressive—that is, will it cause a particular hardship for lower income families?
A. A sales tax has more elements of equity than any other type of tax, and this is particularly true in Texas, since so many essential items are exempt from the sales tax.

Q. Why should a city dweller who rents his residence favor the local sales tax?
A. For one matter, the person who rents enjoys the same services available to the property owner. For another, if it is necessary for the city to raise taxes, the increased cost of this tax will be passed along in the form of higher rent charges.

Q. Are city tax payments deductible from our Federal income tax reports?
A. Yes.

Q. Who can vote on the 1% local sales tax?
A. Any registered voter in the city. A simple majority is required to put the sales tax into effect.

Q. Will the merchant be required to file any additional reports to the state comptroller?
A. No, merchants will collect 5% instead of the current 4% and will report the total sales tax to the state comptroller. The comptroller will in turn send the city's share to the city.

Fruit Growing Offers Another Income Source for This Area

The county's few apple orchards are now yielding an excellent crop, reminding of how well adapted our land is to commercial fruit growing.

Here is opportunity for the man who has the temperament for this kind of agriculture. Certainly today's orchards would not be operated as the small sideline enterprises of other years, but rather on the cost-profit basis as any other crop. New methods of culture and varieties adapted to our frequent late-spring freezes are in our favor.

We mention this now because the time to plan an orchard is this season of the year.

Growing populations, more land being taken out of cultivation, and continued movement of our farm people to cities make fruit production a bright spot in the farm economy of an area adapted to it. We could be such an area.

World Sets Prices

A fundamental error in the effort to regulate food prices is that commodity values are now set on the world market rather than on the domestic market.

The wheat crop this year is moving overseas at a fantastic rate, estimated by some to be 85 per cent of the 1973 crop. It is the world appetite for more food that has boosted prices on the local market.

Only a small proportion of beef animals are exported and this is partially offset by imports of low grade beef. But as the income of other countries such as Japan and Germany rise, and their mark and yen is worth more in terms of dollars, they are willing to pay for American food, including beef and wheat.

Soybeans are in much demand in other countries and this demand, backed by hard cash with which to buy soybeans, has run the price up from $2.60 a bushel a year ago to something around $12 a bushel.

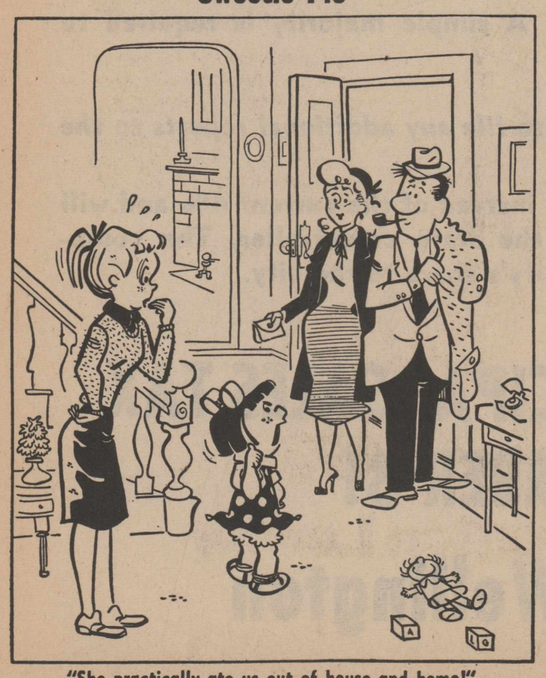

Few countries are capable of producing the abundance of protein foods that they need and other countries do not have the tools and knowledge of the American Farmer. Yet these countries are proficient in manufacturing, and since our labor costs have exported more and more jobs out of this country and resulted in ever increasing importing of manufactured goods, the foreign countries have dollars with which to buy.

About all that we really have to sell them is food.

Foreign customers are the outlet for over-production that has assured American consumers abundant food supplies at low prices. The low prices may be a thing of the past, and if the foreign market should be curtailed, it would result in a lot of things, including a further imbalance in foreign trade and the erosion of the value of the dollar. It appears that foreign markets are here to stay and we may as well get used to the idea of other countries setting food prices here.

State Capital NEWS

By Bill Boykin

AUSTIN, TEX. -- The biggest oil and gas lease sale on Texas public lands in a quarter century is scheduled October 2.

Land Commissioner Robert L. Armstrong said 1,348,610 acres in 1,712 tracts will be offered for lease consideration.

Most of the state tracts are submerged acreage in the Gulf of Mexico. Nine hundred and 40 Gulf tracts totalling 998,610 acres have been nominated, plus 563 tracts in Texas bays and inlets including 267,678 acres.

Oil and gas firms and individual bidders offer bonus payments via sealed bids on leasing of the state-owned tracts for a period of five years to explore and develop minerals. Armstrong said a record high interest is indicated in potential oil and gas production on state lands.

"This will be the largest sale in more than 25 years," said Armstrong.

A sale involving nearly one million acres of land in 1965 brought more than $39 million in bonus payments to the permanent school fund.

Armstrong said the current sale is doubly significant because leases will enable the state to take its one-sixth royalty payment in gas or oil instead of cash.

A court case is now pending to determine if this can be done on existing leases. The "in kind" provision, specifically allowing the state to take oil and gas as well as cash, will be written into the October bid propositions.

Armstrong said this will permit the state to offer cities the option of buying some of their natural gas directly from the state at fair market value.

DESEGREGATION GRANTS APPROVED -- More than $13.1 million in federal grants have been approved to aid 54 Texas school districts support special programs to advance classroom desegregation this school year.

Texas grants will go to 31 basic education projects, 18 bilingual programs, nine compensatory programs, three special reading projects and two metropolitan area programs to help reduce minority isolation in large cities which have more than one school district.

AG OPINIONS -- A county commissioners court may employ experts to re-evaluate property in the county for tax purposes, but a tax assessor has no such power, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

Board chairman Joe Christie, meanwhile, announced eight cease and desist orders issued against firms or individuals in San Antonio, Dallas, Fort Worth, Abilene, Austin, Denton and Atlanta, Ga. for misleading advertisements or sales presentations.

The Board also announced plans to hire a consultant to examine its operations and help make them more effective and efficient. It plans to issue guidelines next month on establishment of Health Maintenance Organizations which provide medical service coverage at fixed fees.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where a National Advisory Commission recommends that all handguns owned by private citizens should be confiscated by 1983.

But a cognizant Congress may decide that this timetable for citizen disarmament is too slow and that they had better get on with it sooner.

After all, when your inflation-spawning spending spree is putting a mounting squeeze on 200 million people, ten years could be too long to wait to take their guns away from them.

Commissioners Set Safe Hunt Policy

AUSTIN -- Hunter safety training for the state's youngsters is becoming of increasing importance and Parks and Wildlife Department Executive Director Clayton Garrison announces the adoption of a new commission policy on the hunter safety training program.

Hunter Safety Coordinator T.D. Carroll has released some of the major contents and guidelines of the policy.

"We are embarking on a program," said Carroll, "which utilizes the expertise of the department's Information-Education division, law enforcement personnel and the some 1,000 volunteer hunter safety instructors across the state."

The department's law enforcement administrators have actively sought a larger role in the program.

"After instructional materials are distributed to district Parks and Wildlife Department offices," said Carroll, "district law enforcement supervisors and game wardens will assume a more responsible and active role.

"Each warden will see that at least one hunter safety training class is held each month in his county."

Also, the supervisors will schedule training sessions for the wardens and local volunteers to keep the instructors up-to-date, standardize and upgrade the quality of instruction and stimulate inactive instructors to participate in the program.

"Of the 1,000 volunteer instructors in Texas," said Carroll, "only 22 percent of them have been responsible for the 3,552 students certified as safe hunters.

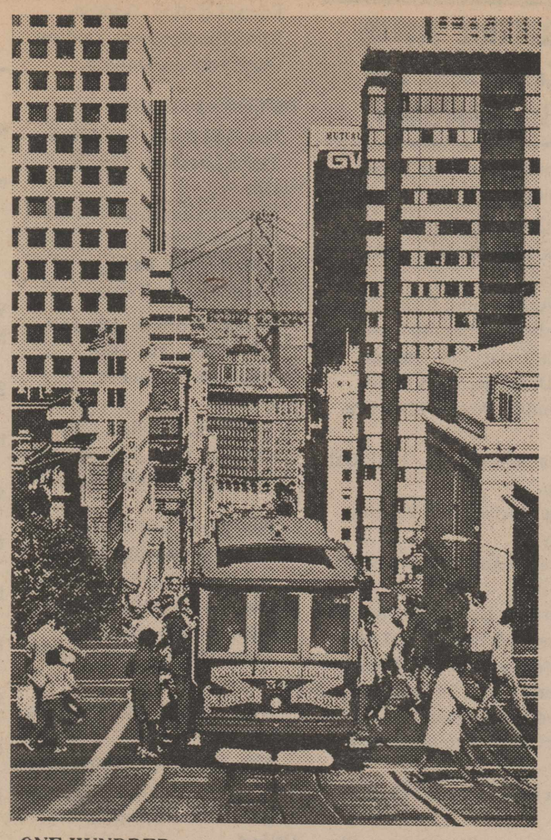

"We hope that our new program will prompt them all to join in the effort of getting as many youngsters as possible into hunter safety training."

Carroll pointed out that the volunteer instructor is the backbone of the program and the key to its success.

The Texas Hunter Safety program is open to all youngsters 12 years of age or older.

District law enforcement offices maintain lists of instructors in local areas.

A one-dollar registration fee is charged for each student enrolled.

Reeves Attends Beef Producers Meet at A&M

County Agent Don Reeves was among the extension service personnel and beef cattle producers to receive a package of information on more profitable beef cattle production through pastures and forages at Texas A&M University Monday and Tuesday, August 20 and 21.

The occasion was the 23rd annual Beef Cattle Short Course and the 8th annual Pasture and Forage Short Course, held together this year for the first time.

Special emphasis was given forage since it is the most economical source of nutrients for cattle, according to Reeves. Discussions highlighted both effective production and efficient utilization in year-round forage programs.

Grazing systems and improved forages were discussed by ranchers who have found them successful under commercial conditions.

Among the discussions were "Influence of Improved Forages of Overall Ranch Management" by Wayne Hamilton; "Forages, Fertilization and Water to Feed Three Cows Per Acre Per Year" by Dick Hoverson; "High Intensity-Low Frequency Grazing Systems - Will They Work?" by Bill Tullos, Percy Turner and Bob Steiger.

"Protein Supplementation, Why, When and With What?" by W. C. Ellis; "Minerals-What's Needed and How Can You Supply Them?" by Dennis Herd; "Winter Pasture for Cows, Stockers and Finishing Cattle," by W. C. McCormick; "Grass Tetany, Pulmonary Emphysema and Other Forage Related Disease Problems," John Reagor; Combining Forages for 365 Day Cow Feeding," George Alston and "Other Forages Now and In the Future," E. C. Holt.

Mr. Reeves will pass information gained in this tour on to Collingsworth beef cattle producers.

VA Home Loans Easier

The Veterans Administration has initiated new measures making it easier for married veterans to qualify for guaranteed home loans.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson said VA regional offices have been told of the July 18 changes.

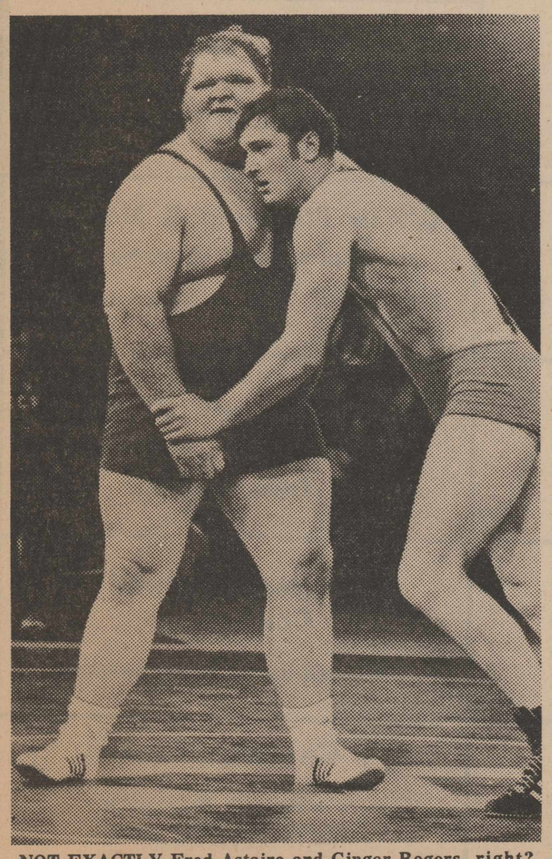

"In consideration of current social and economic patterns, VA will hereafter recognize in full the income and expenses of both the veteran and spouse in determining ability to repay a loan obligation," Johnson explained.

He noted VA is required by law to determine if the contemplated terms of repayment bear a proper relation to the veteran's anticipated income and expenses before approving a loan.

The spouse's income has always been considered for this purpose, but in the past, local rules which had the effect of discounting the young wife's income were often imposed. Under the new policy, no such local rules will be imposed and the wife's income will be given full consideration.

VA guarantees 60 percent of home loans (maximum $12.500) private lenders make to servicemen, veterans and eligible widows of World War II, Korean and Post-Korean conflicts and the Vietnam era.

GARAGE SALE!

Garage Sales as a way of disposing of unwanted items around the house are growing in popularity because they are a fun way of turning property into cash while making new friends. Here are a few ways of helping to insure that your garage sale produces the type of results you want.

Plan ahead. Look around your home for unwanted items.

Make a list of the items you want to sell.

Price each item realistically. Items can be priced easily by using short lengths of masking tape on which you write the price. Make the figures as large and legible as possible to avoid questions during the sale. Put sizes of clothing on teh price stickers. If you are selling a lot of books, records or other like items you may want to group them on a table with a sign that offers "Any item on this table 50¢."

Prepare the garage or other area where the sale is to be held.

Everything should be clean and displayed as neatly as possible.

During the hours of the sale be sure garage doors are open and someone is in attendance.

Be sure to have a small amount of money on hand so that you can make change for your customers.

Advertise your sale.

Duo Sees "Trail of Tears," Tsa-La-Gi

Two Wellington women, Mrs. Lowell Wells and Mrs. John Holton, recently attended the historical drama, "Trail of Tears," in the village of Tsa-La-Gi near Tahlequah, Oklahoma. The drama is presented in the world's only artificially cooled outdoor theatre.

Joining them were Mrs. Holton's daughter and grandson, Mrs. Richard Mauldin and Jeffrey of Oklahoma City.

"Trail of Tears" tells the story of the fall and winter of 1838-39, when the Cherokee Indians were driven from their homes in Florida and pushed along a dreary march westward to what was to become Oklahoma.

Of the sixteen thousand who started, four thousand died along the way from disease, hunger and exposure.

The march lasted nearly a year, and forever afterward was known to the Cherokees as The Trail Where they Cried.

Famed playwright Kermit Hunter has, in the "Trail of Tears" woven a tapestry of words, action and music to tell the story of this march, and of the Cherokees triumph in their new home.

Many of the actors and dancers are trial members, some of whom have studied drama on the west coast and in the east. The choreographer for the ballet-type dancing is a Cherokee, and danced the Phoenix role, which many consider a high point of the production, Mrs. Wells said.

"Adding to the visual experience during the production, a unique system of backlighted translucent screens come alive as a backdrop creating unforgettable moods to be experienced as one sits under the stars and watches and listens to the history of the Cherokees, on the very spot where much of that history was made," she continued.

The two visitors, both familiar with "Texas," found many points of similarity, yet vast differences in their comparison of the two outdoor dramas.

At the village of Tsa-La-Gi, southeast of Tahlequah, descendants of the Cherokees who came over the Trail of Tears have recreated an ancient Cherokee village, authentic in every possible detail, Mrs. Wells explained.

Those Indians taking part live in the area. They present the stage in Cherokee history before the advent of the white man when the Cherokees had achieved a remarkably high level of social and cultural development.

Feeders Need Pollution Permit

COLLEGE STATION – Livestock and poultry feeders with more than 1,000 animal units must now comply with water pollution control regulations established by the Environmental Protection Agency.

The new regulations became effective July 5 and set up a water pollution control permit program for agriculture, explains Dr. John Sweeten, agricultural engineer in animal waste management for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

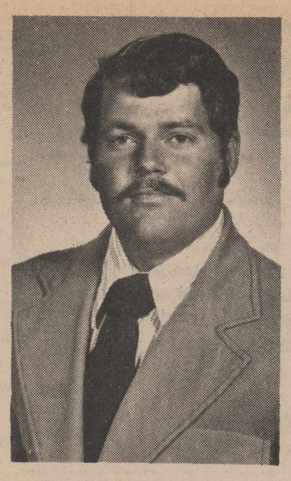

Those concerned feeders in Texas can apply for a permit through the EPA regional office in Dallas located at 1600 Patterson Ave., Suite 1100.

Although the 1,000 animal units are used as a general guideline for the permit program, smaller operations can also be regulated if they are believed to present a pollution problem, the Texas A&M University System specialist points out. Multiple permits may be required for agricultural operations separated by distance but under common ownership.

Regarding specific animal numbers, permits are required for the following feeding operations holding the listed number of animal units for more than 30 days: slaughter and feeder cattle – 1,000; mature dairy cattle – 700; swine weighing more than 55 pounds – 2,500; sheep – 10,000; turkeys – 55,000; laying hens and broilers where unlimited continuous overflow watering systems exist – 30,000; and ducks – 5,000.

According to Sweeten, individuals or organizations who discharge irrigation return flow from 3,000 or more acres through a conveyance such as a ditch or culvert, and certain fish production operations, must also obtain a permit.

New facilities must apply for a permit six months before operation begins. An opportunity for public hearings will be provided on each permit application. Facilities built since Oct. 18, 1972 which meet all standards of the regulations will not be subject to more stringent standards for 10 years after the completion date.

Second Folklife Festival Slated At San Antonio

All of Texas' 26 major ethnic groups will be represented in the state's biggest party, the Texas Folklife Festival in San Antonio, September 6-9.

Seven cultures will join in the fun this year for the first time at the University of Texas Institute of Texan Cultures.

The newcomers -- French Alsatians, Danish, English, Swedish, Swiss, Yugoslav and Dutch -- will join last year's festival participants to complete the line-up of ethnic groups which have given Texas a fascinating cultural heritage.

Two thousand participants from over 100 Texas cities will converge on the Alamo City to demonstrate how Texans of all races and national origins have fun.

Describing the festival as "Texas' Biggest Block Party," festival manager O.T. Baker said, "This is a fun thing. Texans from 26 ethnic groups come here to identify themselves. It's sort of an informal statewide family reunion."

Festival visitors can sample the foods of 23 different nations, enjoy the music and dances of over a dozen ethnic groups try their skills at horseshoe pitching and Belgian bowling, or join in the fun of an "East Texas Style Singing Convention" held nightly under a Pioneer Brush Arbor.

On the grassy slopes of the Institute grounds, visitors can relax and be entertained by a variety of performers – Negro and Wendish choirs, old-time fiddlers and country-western bands, foot-stompin' Cajun music makers and flamenco guitarists.

Baker said 17 festivals from throughout the state will participate, from the Albany Fandangle to the New Braunfels Wurstfest.

The 15-acre site will be covered with many exhibits ranging from Texas Longhorns to Irish artifacts. All the fun and games of Texas will be there, including zany events such as watermelon seed spitting contests, Cajun crawfish races, domino tournaments, cow calling demonstrations, Scottish caber tossing and Indian stick ball games.

For nostalgia, the festival will recall a spectrum of pioneer life with such activities as corn shuckin' and shelling, log rolling log house raising, rail splitting, quilting bees and many other by-gone experiences.

It's easy to move families out of a community...

...and one effective method is to spend local trade dollars somewhere else

The obvious fault of this system is that it isn't properly selective. The people it moves out may be those we'd like to keep around—those most useful to us or most loved by us.

But, other than the one or two families that each of us might think of as dispensable, we lose, socially and financially, every time a family moves away. We can keep more families here, maybe even including our own, by checking first at home when we go trading.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—by Deskins Wells

WHEAT went to a new high on the Chicago market Tuesday of this week. That means little here for few of our farmers have maize to sell in quantity in a few weeks and it is high in price also.

* * *

BUT the man who farms the land is walking around with his fingers crossed. Too many things can happen. In addition to the ordinary risks of dry weather, insects, and hail, there is the threat of government intervention.

* * *

WHEN WHEAT started going up there was an outcry from the millers and bakers. Put an embargo on the export of wheat and soybeans, they urged. In spite of the fact that the export of agricultural products is the main hope of supporting the precarious position of the dollar, the greedy bakers want to stop that. Even at the present high price of wheat, the wheat in a 40¢ loaf of bread is still only 4 1/2¢

* * *

MY NEIGHBOR, Mrs. Doshia Dix, says she does not care how high farm products go. She says she has sold chickens and eggs for nearly nothing for too many years and tried to sell vegetables not to feel strongly about the matter. She says this is the first time she can remember when the farmer was getting something like he should have.

* * *

THE FREEZES were put on due to consumer hysteria and the pressure these same groups exerted on the politicians. And conditions were made worse by the meddling. Prices would have been leveling off by now if there had been no controls.

* * *

IT IS HARD to convince the city dweller that agriculture must be kept healthy or the nation will suffer. In terms of hours spent working to earn the money, Americans are spending about one third the amount for food that the European pays. It takes over half of what they make just to eat.

* * *

THERE ARE some questions about the 1¢ municipal sales tax that are being asked that I am glad to try to answer. How many towns around us have a sales tax? The answer to that is --- all of them do. Shamrock, Mangum, Hollis, Childress, Memphis, Clarendon and McLean all have the 1¢ municipal sales tax.

* * *

ANOTHER question concerns food. The city tax will cover the same items as the state tax. All essential foods are not covered by the state tax and they will not be included in the 1¢ municipal sales tax.

* * *

OLEAN LEGGITT, the incomparable teacher of Latin, History and other subjects, wants to know how I spell Halley's Comet. The typewriter left out one letter in the middle. I did not do it. This ommission of one letter might make it sound like J. Evetts Haley. The dictionary says pronounce it (hal'e) if that means anything to you.

* * *

CAN you imagine! Our first football game is only two weeks away. There will not be a game in Wellington until September 21.

LETTERS from the People

Dear Editor:

This letter is in regard to the item you published in Deck's Didactics on Feb. 8 of this year. In this I was quoted as saying that I gathered 165 bales of cotton and left 165 bales on the ground.

The quotation was correct: but I meant no reflection on the man who stripped the cotton for he did as good a job as possible considering the conditions. I consider his work excellent.

Pvt. Howard Frank Breece, Jr., was graduated July 25, from the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, and he has been here visiting his father, Howard Breece. He received the rifle marksman medal.

At the end of his leave, he is reporting to Camp Pendleton, Calif., for an additional 20 days training, and for his next assignment.

Breece said with a grin that he was a member of a special platoon that tallied a weight loss of 1,560 pounds during the training period, a record for a special platoon.

A former Wellington High School student, he enlisted under the Combat Arms Bonus Program, and after the school at Camp Pendleton, he will be assigned to an infantry related field.

Before coming to Wellington, Breece lived in Missouri.

Drip Irrigation Tried In South Plains Fields

LUBBOCK -- In an effort to conserve irrigation water on the South Plains researchers are looking to a relatively new method called drip irrigation.

The system, used mostly in greenhouses, gardens and orchards, is being viewed for use on major crops as well, but with modification.

Dr. Otto Wilke, agricultural engineer with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, is heading the study.

Two techniques may make drip irrigation practical for some field crops, says Wilke.

One idea is the use of plastic drip irrigation trail lines, instead of sprinklers, attached to a pivot sprinkler system.

In studies being conducted at Lubbock, three such plastic lines were attached to a pivot system made available through the cooperation of Gifford-Hill & Western and Lubbock Christian College, explains Wilke.

"Early results with these 100-foot long lines are promising," he adds. "Advantages of using drip trail lines instead of sprinklers are that the water is applied only behind the drive wheels, lower operating pressures are needed, less water is lost to evaporation, and salty water does not contact plant leaves."

However, the plastic pipe can be damaged by grazing cattle, the researcher points out. And in sandy soils it may be difficult to germinate seeds because the drip system may not wet the surface soil uniformly.

The second technique involves the development of a tractor-mounted rig to move drip irrigation pipes in cotton.

Explains Wilke, one drip line can be used to apply a single irrigation to 40 rows of cotton during the fruiting period. Two funnels with belled entrances are attached to the tractor and are used to pick up the pipes and move it laterally two rows to water alternate furrows. Pipes are moved once or twice daily and can be moved without stopping the well pump.

Research for the study is being conducted at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock, and is supported in part with funds from the TAES, Texas Water resources Institute, the Office of Water Resources Research and the Plains Cotton Growers.

Continue to Check Insects

Insects still are not hurting cotton or grain sorghum in this area, but County Agent Don Reeves again warned growers to keep close check on their fields.

False chinch bugs are appearing in milo that is heading out, and there is some midge in the sorghum.

A few growers have sprayed for insects, Mr. Reeves said, but for the most part it is a matter of checking on fields regularly.
