North Koreans Claim Spy Plane Downed One Killed, 3 Hurt In Wreck, Fire

Crew Of 31 Believed On Board Lost EC121

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A U. S. Navy spy plane with a crew of 31 was lost over the sea of Japan today and North Korea jubilantly claimed to have shot it down. President Nixon was awakened early to hear the bad news.

A broadcast by the North Korean Communist radio said the plane was downed at 1:50 p.m. Korean time, after "infiltrating deep into the airspace of the republic." The Pentagon said the plane was missing and a massive search was under way.

The plane was identified by the Defense Department as an EC121. It is a four-engine, propeller driven craft built for sophisticated intelligence gathering. It carries six tons of electronic equipment and requires a big crew to operate it.

The North Korean broadcast monitored in Tokyo, said the plane was downed "with a single shot at high altitude." There was initial speculation that a missile was used, but a Pentagon spokesman later said the craft was 90 miles out to sea when last heard from. That is out of range of ground-to-air missiles.

While the Communists did not explain the "single shot" claim, they have Soviet-built MIG21 jets carrying 30-millimeter cannons.

The MIG21s have two cannons each, firing shells more than an inch in diameter. One shot-or burst—from a single plane's cannon could have brought down the U.S. plane.

The Pentagon said a large group of planes and ships were concentrating a search for the plane and its crew in an area 90 miles southeast of Ch'ongjin, a North Korean seaport not far from the borders of Red China and Russia.

The U.S. Embassy in Moscow passed on a request to the Soviets to help search for the plane. Vladivostok, the old Russian seaport, is about 250 miles north of the area where the search was under way.

President Nixon was awakened early by his National Security adviser, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, to hear the news. The White House said Nixon was keeping in close touch with the situation.

Ch'ongjin is only about 75 miles across the northeast North Korean panhandle to Red China in one direction, and about 70 miles from the Soviet border in the other direction.

The Pentagon said the pilot of the missing plane was under orders not to come closer than 50 miles of the North Korean coast during its reconnaissance flight.

The U.S. spy ship Pueblo was said to have operated in that same general area in the Sea of Japan before heading south along the North Korean coast prior to being captured by Communist gunboats in January, 1953.

The North Korean broadcast said the plane "was reconnoitering after intruding deep into the territorial air of the northern half of the republic" when it was shot down.

The broadcast did not reveal whether any of the crew survived or where the plane went down. The Pentagon said a list of members of the crew was being withheld pending notification of next of kin.

AUTO TRAGEDY — An Odessa man was killed and three other men injured when a pickup and a station wagon collided this morning west of Pampa near Celan.

Two of the men injured were from Odessa and one Pampa man, Bob Rassmussen, was taken to Amarillo's Northwest Texas Hospital.

Odessa Man Killed When Pickup Burns

BY RON CROSS

A 29-year-old Odessa man was burned to death, two of his co-workers injured and a Pampa man was listed in serious condition in an Amarillo hospital as the result of a pickup car crash about 6:55 this morning on U.S. 60.

Investigating Texas Highway Patrolman Jim Powell identified the dead man as Adam Hadley Jones, Jr., 29, Odessa.

Injured and taken to Highland General Hospital by Carmichael-Whitely ambulance was Eusebio Joe Hernandez, 24, Odessa and Tommy Lloyd Johnson, 23, also of Odessa.

Believed to be the driver of the station wagon was Robert W. Rassmussen, 2241 Charles, who was taken to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

Rassmussen was listed in serious condition in Northwest Texas and was admitted to the intensive care unit there. A hospital spokesman said Rassmussen suffered lacerations of the head and body.

Johnson was admitted to Highland General and was listed in satisfactory condition with cuts and bruises and a burned arm.

Hernandez was treated and released from the hospital with cuts and bruises.

The accident occurred about seven miles west of Pampa on U.S. 60 where a farm-to-market road intersects with the highway and turns off to Celanese.

Patrolman Powell said apparently Rassmussen was traveling west on the highway and had just made a left hand turn going onto the Celanese road.

The three men in the pickup were traveling east and the station wagon and pickup (See WRECK, Page 3)

Chamber Hears Industry Talk, Directors Meet

Technicians and skilled craftsmen are vital to the development of industry, which at this point is in critical need of such aid.

So said Paul England, counselor for the post-secondary, year-around vocational program at Oklahoma State Technological School, Okmulgee.

"In the school's program," said England, "which is aimed toward preparing men and women for the future demands of industry and of life are combined four hours each day in shops provided with the latest equipment, and two hours in general education subjects related to the occupations they have chosen."

Plenty of space, modern equipment and a complete staff of trained and experienced instructors are the basis of the school's success, England notes. Enrollment is open in 35 courses from plumbing to printing, from electronics to diesel mechanics. High school graduates and non-graduates make up the larger part of the enrollment.

The school looking toward the individual's complete development, also provides a social program, England noted, preparing him for a full life of work and recreation.

The speaker showed slides of such activities. England spoke at Monday's membership luncheon of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce at Coronado Inn. A total of 125 attended. He was introduced by (See CHAMBER, Page 3)

Marine Veteran Wounded After Shooting Spree

CHICAGO (UPI)—A disabled Marine veteran killed two policemen questioning him about a department store bombing and then held hundreds of police off for six hours with guns, grenades and home-made bombs before surrendering.

Frank Kulak, 41 today, admitted to police after surrendering Monday he planted the bomb among military toys in a Goldblatt Brothers Department Store April 7 "to show how awful war is." The bomb killed a woman clerk and injured eight other persons.

At one point in the six-hour battle, Kulak's brother, Harold, shouted up to him on the third-floor apartment: "Frank, this isn't a combat zone. The war is over." Frank, a lot of these men out here are servicemen. Frank Kulak came to the window and bared his chest. Policemen near the building scurried for cover, fearing he would throw another bomb or grenade. Police marksmen held their fire, although they could have killed him.

Then Harold Kulak, a sister, Mrs. Katherine Potts, who lived in the apartment with her husband and brother; and Deputy Police Supt. James Rochford entered the building, went upstairs and spoke to Kulak, who held a .45-caliber pistol.

"There shouldn't be any more bloodshed," Rochford told him. Kulak surrendered.

Shot During Siege

Shot during the siege were Policeman William J. Johnson, 26, who suffered a scalp wound, and Anthony Wasley, 20, a passerby who was wounded in the left leg and McInerney. Also injured were Policeman Arthur Chiechangowski, 30, who suffered a chest injury when falling debris struck him. Policeman Donald Malkowski, 36, who was injured when a bomb exploded when he was in the basement of the building, and Police Sgt. Anthony Norka, who suffered an ear injury when a gun was fired too close to his head.

Nixon Budget Cuts Come From Welfare, Defense

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today made public his revised budget featuring $4 billion in cuts, more than half of them in welfare outlays and defense programs.

The new budget totals $192.9 billion as against the $196.9 billion estimated budget left behind by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The $4 billion in cuts is aimed at producing a $5.8 billion budget surplus—the largest since 1951.

In order to reduce the spending, the Nixon administration cut social security program increases from the 10 per cent planned by the Johnson administration to 7 per cent.

Defense programs are slated for a $1.1 billion cut. The remaining $1.9 billion in cuts are in a wide range of domestic programs, administration spokesmen said.

Budget Bureau Director Robert P. Mayo listed the following cuts for domestic programs:

About $185 million in international lending programs through the Export-Import Bank.

Nearly $345 million in agricultural and natural resources conservation programs.

A $420 million cut in post office and transportation program spending.

A $245 million cut in sales of Veterans' loans.

A $140 million combined cut for Atomic Energy Commission and space program spending.

In advance of the budget disclosure, Nixon briefed the Democratic chairmen and ranking Republicans on the Senate and House Appropriation committees, the Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee at the White House Monday night.

Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., ranking GOP member on the Senate Appropriations Committee, said Nixon planned a considerable reduction in reclamation projects. He said the President also emphasized the importance of anti-inflationary measures.

There was widespread agreement on Capitol Hill that about all Nixon had done was send Congress a general outline of specific proposals he will make later in fields of welfare, taxes, crime and employment.

Youth Center To Receive New Addition

Ground breaking ceremonies were held this morning for the construction of a new health club type addition to the Pampa Youth and Community Center, 1005 W. Harvester.

The new facility, which will comprise some 3360-square feet of floor space, will be located directly east of the swimming pool area.

The 42-ft. by 80-ft. building will house two handball courts, a large exercise room, a sauna room, dressing room and showers with individual stalls, as well as a separate office.

According to Youth Center professional director George Smith, the handball courts will be regulation size, 20-ft. by 40-ft., with a picture window over each door so that spectators may observe play.

The exercise area will contain all the latest equipment including the jungle pulley machine, vibrators, bikes, weights, abdominal boards, treadmills (See YOUTH, Page 3)

'Oliver' Cops Most Of 'Oscar's' Awards

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A wholesome family musical is the best picture of 1968, a year that brought more nudity, sex and perversion to the screen than any other.

"Oliver!" was a popular win with Motion Picture Academy members who were still buzzing over the stunning tie between Katharine Hepburn and Barbara Streisand for best actress of the year.

The largest ovation of the night was reserved for the song-studded British-made film based on Charles Dickens' "Oliver Twist."

Unlike some of the other nominated pictures and many recent films, "Oliver" was made for the entire family and is still-filling theaters across the country.

Its director, Sir Carol Reed, was voted an Oscar for his contribution to the film. Ron Moody and Jack Wilde of its cast nominated respectively for best actor and best supporting actor, lost out.

Both were in the audience and joined the cheers for the captivating antics of Fagin and the Artful Dodger.

"Oliver!" also won an Oscar for the best score of a musical picture and the Hank Mancini band struck up its popular "Consider Yourself at Home" each time the film won an award—seven in all.

Miss Hepburn won her first award ten years before the 26-year-old singer was born.

Miss Streisand won an unprecedented third time for Eleanor of Aquitaine in "The Lion in Winter." Miss Streisand was voted the Oscar in her first movie, "Funny Girl."

Cliff Robertson, playing an imbecile who momentarily is restored to mental normality, was voted best actor of the year for "Charly."

"Oliver!" a musical adaptation of Dickens' "Oliver Twist," triumphed as the best picture of 1968, and won six lesser awards to top all other films in the annual competition.

Best supporting actor and actress laurels went to a pair of oldtimers, Jack Albertson for "The Subject Was Roses" and Ruth Gordon for "Rosemary's Baby."

Dear Abbyby Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm an Irish-Catholic, and my father does not allow me to date fellows who aren't of my faith. Well, I'm going with a very good-looking Jewish guy. He has blue eyes and dark curly hair and he could pass for Irish. His name is "Feinberg" but I introduced him to my father as "Finnegan."

They only got to say hello and good-by, but pretty soon I'm afraid they'll get into a conservation and my father will find out the boy's not Irish, and then what will I do? I don't want to be the first teen-ager to land on the moon.

IRISH EYES

DEAR EYES: Tell your father the truth before he finds out himself. You may be the first teen-ager to land on the moon, but you'll get there with a clear conscience.

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorcee with an extremely bright 6-year-old child, I'll call Debbie. Debbie's father lives near us with a woman who is not his wife. This woman is expecting a baby any day.

Debbie's father visits us often, and we go to visit him. (Whatever differences he and I may have had, I must say he was a good father.)

The problem: Debbie assumes her father and this woman are married, but they do not even bother to put up a respectable front, and I'm scared to death one of these days the child will find out they aren't married.

I don't want my daughter to think that living together without marriage is right. What would you do? Try to keep Debbie away from her father? (That doesn't seem fair.) Tell Debbie the truth myself? Trust to luck?

DEBBIE'S MOM: I'd trust to luck. Maybe they'll get married before Debbie gets wise.

DEAR ABBY: Never before have I written to a newspaper column, or sent an unsigned letter, but that letter from the 41-year-old virgin who was still waiting, came so close to home, I had to tell my story:

In 50 years of marriage I never once saw my wife naked. She is a closet disrober and wears long, heavy nightgowns. Some years back I bought her a lovely, fairly sheer nightgown, and she took it back to the store and exchanged it for one exactly like those she's always worn.

She's been a wonderful mother to our children, and has many fine qualities, but she's a "touch-me-not." Hands are not for patting or caressing, and should be kept to one's self.

I know my wife will never change, so I have learned to live with things as they are, and have kept myself busy with outside activities.

If women like "waiting" (and my wife is one of them) could have learned early in life to shake loose from their Pollyanna ways, their lives would be so much richer.

YOUR BIRTHDAY Wednesday: — Wherever you happen to be at the moment you may find that you are required to get heavily involved in a completely new start in life without having a reasonable opportunity to clear off the unfinished business of situations that you are about to put behind you — most of them for keeps. Improvement is within your reach. Wednesday's natives are noted for intellectual curiosity. Many have been inventors, explorers, writers, detectives.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): — It would be ever so pleasant to talk about a nice, quiet, easy day; but it wouldn't be. There simply is a high-pressure atmosphere. (It is a passing phase.)

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): — It is better not to look back over your experience. Privacy, inventions are benefited. Those who work in tight security positions or technical institutions are apt to hit on a fundamental discovery Wednesday — and not quite know what to make of it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): — Your view of your prospects learned how to give love or accept it, miss the best part of life.

I assure you there isn't a normal man living who does not want a warm, responsive, uninhibited wife. God bless you, Abby.

MRS. EDNA PACE

Mrs. Edna Ann Pace, 62, born May 21, 1906, in Chanute, Kan., died at 1:35 a.m. today in Worley Hospital. A Skellytown resident, she moved to Pampa in January 1961, from Woolco, Okla.

Three years ago she moved to Skellytown from Pampa. She was a member of the First Methodist Church here.

Survivors are her husband, Eugene W. Pace, Skellytown; one son, Thomas E. Pace, Amarillo; one brother, Thomas E. Woods, Tulsa, Okla.; one sister, Mrs. Georgia Moore, Houston; one granddaughter. Funeral services are pending with Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Home Directors.

Chamber

Two exchange students at Pampa High School, Helen Hill of South Africa, and Nobuharu Ichiru, Japan, were special guests. Mayor Milo Carlson presented Top of Texas certificates to both, the awards entitling the recipients to "sit on the top rail."

Directors of the Chamber met Monday at Coronado Inn immediately prior to the membership luncheon at noon, planning attendance at several out of town events. First of these will be the Governor's Industrial Conference May 7, which George B. Cree Jr., chamber president, and E. O. Wedgeworth, manager, will attend.

The chamber also will be represented at the Panhandle Legislators barbecue sponsored by the Chambers of Commerce of West Texas, the event to take place at Austin. At this session members of the state legislature will be guests of the combined chamber groups.

The Pampa report will be made by Bill Atkinson and John Fritsch.

Another event planned for the Monday session was representation at the annual meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Brownwood April 21.

The board nominated Harold Barrett to fill the unexpired term of William Power, on its roster. Power is being transferred to Brownsville, Tex., as general manager of the Brownsville Herald. He now holds the position of general manager of The News.

The board went on record as opposing legislation now before the legislature which would impose a special tax upon companies dealing in chemicals. The board pointed out the discriminatory nature of such a bill in that it singles out one industry to be penalized. The bill now is in committee.

A telegram of protest was sent to Malouf Abraham, Pampa representative, and another to State Senator Grady Hazlewood.

The forthcoming membership drive of the chamber, of which Jim Morris, finance director is chairman, will be May 12-23. Theme this year is The Circus. Slogan will be "The Greatest Show on Earth."

Youth

Smith said that the sauna room will be made of redwood and will be of the dry heat variety. This type heat will not harm hair-do's and is reported to be the most popular.

The new health club addition will be operated in conjunction with the Center's current activities, but will require a separate membership. The facilities will be available for use by both men and women.

Youth Center president Fred Neslage said, "The completion of this fine new addition will culminate some eighteen months of planning by our board of directors. It follows our continuing program of providing increased recreational and health facilities for the citizens of Pampa."

The Center's last major building project was the construction of a gymnasium four years ago.

Bell Telephone Pioneer Day Held Monday

Pioneer Recognition Day, April 14, was observed in Pampa Monday with an afternoon tea at the telephone building, sponsored by the Top of Texas Pioneer Club. Displays of projects sponsored by the club were in evidence.

Mayor Milo Carlson issued a proclamation setting aside the day for recognizing these activities, which have ranged from sponsoring a retarded child at a summer camp, a telephone installed for the Community Day Nursery, aid to deaf and other endeavors for the betterment of the area which the company serves.

Charlie Word, Fort Worth, president of the Lone Star North chapter of Telephone Pioneers of America, noted that, "Being the senior employees of the telephone industry and having a strong organization, the Pioneers work for the betterment of each of our communities. Only through organization can such tasks be accomplished as we are assuming for the general good."

Members of The Pioneers are employees who have worked for the industry 21 or more years, according to G. H. Newberry, manager of Southwestern Bell.

Wreck

The pickup rolled onto its side and caught fire, apparently when the gas tank ruptured. Both Hernandez and Johnson were thrown from the pickup but Jones was trapped when his left leg was pinned under the cab.

He burned to death when efforts to free him failed. It was about 8:15 a.m. before members of the Pampa Fire Department, who were called out to put out the fire in the pickup, were able to cut Jones from underneath the cab.

Debris from the pickup and station wagon were scattered over a 300-yard radius. Rasmussen works for Celanese.

Services for Jones are pending at Carmichael-Whitley. The three Odessa men were believed to be employed by Marklyn Contract and Supply Co. of Odessa and were staying in Pampa while on a job for Cities Service Co.

The board went on record as opposing legislation now before the legislature which would impose a special tax upon companies dealing in chemicals. The board pointed out the discriminatory nature of such a bill in that it singles out one industry to be penalized. The bill now is in committee.

A telegram of protest was sent to Malouf Abraham, Pampa representative, and another to State Senator Grady Hazlewood.

Duggan Elected President Of Pampa High

John Duggan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don C. Duggan, 1601 Hamilton, was elected Pampa High School student body president in run-off elections Monday between Duggan, Randy Marsh and Jackie Gindorf.

Other officers named are Jackie Gindorf, son of Mrs. Henry C. Gindorf, 2530 Aspen, vice president and Brenda Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Duncan, 2322 Duncan, secretary.

Cameron Marsh, PHS principal, will install new officers in an assembly at 9:45 a.m. April 22. John Karr, current student body president will give his farewell address, according to Jim Hulett, counselor and Student Council advisor.

At the last Student Council meeting this year, and the annual parents' dinner, five other officers, parliamentary, chaplain, historian, treasurer and corresponding secretary will be elected. This election is set for 7 p.m. May 13 at PHS cafeteria.

Student Council members will decide in a called meeting at 7:45 a.m. Friday which of three nominees will represent PHS as president of the Texas High School Association of Student Councils. Pampa High School was elected as state president recently in Amarillo, and must name one student to represent the school and attend district and state meetings, Hulett said.

Nominees selected for consideration by the PHS Student Council are Moss Hampton, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Hampton; Robert Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy B. Davis, and Tim Duke, son of Rev. and Mrs. J.W. Duke.

Pampa Boy Admits Glue Sniffing

Glue sniffing, stolen stereo tapes and a man knocked off his feet by a motor vehicle were the sum of police blotter reports for Monday afternoon and Tuesday.

A high school student, aged 17, was reported to have "passed out" on a porch. The woman who called police thought him to be "either drunk or sick."

Police investigating learned that the boy and his mother live alone, that his father is dead, and his mother works all day. The boy said he had sniffed glue on many occasions, buying the glue at a local market. The school assistant principal Weldon Trice said the student often missed classes.

Ralph Barnett, 2416 Charles, reported Tuesday that his locked car had been broken into and stereo tapes removed from a cardboard box. He listed the tapes which included popular songs and combo music.

Jimmy Cornslik of the 600 block of Robert was making a hand turn on to Snyder from Foster Tuesday evening, he said, when his car struck a pedestrian, male, aged 40 to 45. The pedestrian was carrying a bottle of alcoholic beverage.

The pedestrian tried to blame the driver, Cornslik said, but when the latter suggested calling police, the man said everything was "ok" and went his way.

Police could not find the pedestrian.

White Deer Lions Play Host to Farmers

WHITE DEER — White Deer Lions Club hosted the farmers and ranchers on their annual farm and ranch night recently.

Foster Whaley, Gray County agricultural agent, talked on cattle feeding and marketing. Mr. Whaley is a farmer and land owner.

The supper night meeting was held in the school cafeteria. W.J. Stubbelfield was program chairman for the event.

SIO Rejects Idea For Tannery Here

Feasibility studies of a tannery idea were: the proposed tannery in Pampa sponsored by Southwest Indian Organization and aimed at creating fuller employment for the Indian population of the area has resulted in a rejection of the plan at least for the present. This was the consensus at which all aspects of the project were considered.

The association recommended, however, that other types of industry be sought which could guarantee full employment for Indians and that the present feasibility study be expanded for that purpose.

Tony C. Gives Fans Winning Hit

By United Press International

Tony C. wanted to give all the fans a kiss Tuesday—but they were happy to settle for the winning hit.

Playing for the first time at Fenway Park in Boston since Aug. 18, 1967 when he was beaned and almost lost his vision, Conigliaro was given a thunderous ovation in the pre-game introductions at the Red Sox home opener—and then wound up driving in the winning run as Boston edged Baltimore, 5-3.

"I waved my hat because I wanted to do something to let the fans know I appreciate them," Conigliaro said, "what else could I do? I felt like blowing them all a kiss but I couldn't very well do that."

Goose Pimples
"I got goose pimples when I heard the applause and then I felt like crying. I wanted to cry so much I had to fight to hold it in because it's tough to cry and play at the same time."

"I told my father last night this would be the greatest day of my life...and it was because the fans made it the greatest. I just can't thank them enough."

A three-run homer by Ellie Hendricks in the fourth accounted for the only Oriole scoring off Ray Culp and reliever Sparky Lyle.

In the other two American League games, Chicago edged California, 4-3, and Kansas City topped St. Louis, 2-1.

Rally in Eighth
The White Sox rallied for four runs in the eighth inning, with Pete Ward's double the key blow, to top California. Jim McLothlin had a one-hitter and a 3-0 lead until the eighth when grounder to snap a 1-1 tie in the produce a run. Reliever Hoyt Wilhelm then got Duane Josephson on strikes but Carlos May doubled in a run to narrow the deficit to 3-2. Ward's double drove in the final two runs and decided the game.

An error gave Kansas City the deciding run in its victory over Seattle as the Royals boosted their record to 5-2. Joe Foy singled, went to second on a walk and scored when John Kennedy booted Jerry Adair's grounder to snap a 1-1 tie in the eighth. Roger Nelson lasted until the ninth when he walked three batters. With an 0-1 count on Mike Hegan, Manager Joe Gordon called on Dave Wickham and he got Hegan to foul out to end the game.

National League Roundup

Expos Wins for 29,184 Fans

By United Press International

Opening-game fans in Montreal and Philadelphia shared a common experience Monday: They couldn't believe their eyes.

The 29,184 fans who turned out in Montreal for the league baseball's first international game saw their Expos blow a six-run lead and then beat the National League champion St. Louis Cardinals, 6-7. Mack Jones drove in five early runs for the Expos with a homer and a triple but it was a single by relief pitcher Dan McGinn which drove in the decisive run.

Philadelphia fans, whose team acquired an NL franchise in 1983, had—or at least thought they had—an even more unlikely experience when Richie Allen seemed to tip his cap in recognition of their applause for a 500-foot homer which helped the Phillies beat the New York

Mets, 5-1.
Ken Holtzman pitched a seven-hitter to give the Chicago Cubs a 4-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates and Doug Rader knocked in three runs for the second straight game as the Houston Astros defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers, 11-5, in the other National League games.

McGinn allowed five hits but no runs in 5 1-3 innings to receive credit for the Montreal victory while Gary Waslewski suffered the loss.

Allen's homer snapped a 1-1 tie and rookie sensation Don Money singled in two more runs for the Phillies in the sixth inning as the Mets suffered their fourth straight defeat.

Allen's first homer of the season soared 20 feet over an advertising sign on top of the left-field roof and brought the fans, who had booed Allen at the start of the game, to their feet in an ovation. When Allen went to first base at the start of the inning he tipped his cap, winning another ovation, but he denied later that he had been caught in the act of humility.

Holtzman walked five batters but struck out eight in his seven-hitter to win his second straight game behind a diversified Cub attack which included two hits each by Randy Hundley and Don Young. Bob Veale was blasted for four runs in 1 1-3 innings to suffer the loss.

John Edwards and Jim Wyna supported Rader's three-RBI night with two runs batted in each for the Astros, who routed Don Sutton in 2 1-3 innings.

Larry Dierker went eight innings for the victory although Fred Gladding finished up when the Dodgers rallied for three runs in the ninth.

A-Giants Lose First

By United Press International

The El Paso Sun Kings made up a game on the Texas League's western division leader Monday night, dumping the Albuquerque Dodgers 10-9 in a wild scoring match without homers.

The win, although it left Albuquerque still atop the pile this young season, narrowed the competition to a two-game spread — with El Paso still on the bottom.

Dallas-Fort Worth doubled the Amarillo Giants 6-3, rounding out the action in the western half of the loop.

It was a night of double headers in the other part of the league, with San Antonio splitting two games with the Shreveport Braves. Shreveport took the first meeting 6-5 but the Missions struck back in the second 8-3.

Memphis walloped Arkansas, a narrow eastern division leader, 9-3 in the first game but were shut out 1-0 in the final game.

The sites change tonight with only single games scheduled. Albuquerque is at Dallas-Fort Worth, Amarillo visits El Paso.

Optimist Club Baseball Tryouts Start Today

All youngsters, between the ages of 10 and 12, who want to play baseball this summer in the Pampa Optimist Club sponsored baseball program take notice.

Sorkouts for boys nine and 10 years old will be held today and Thursday.

Boys age 11 and 12 will workout Wednesday and Friday.

All workouts will begin at 5 p.m. and boys who live west of Russell St. will workout on the American League diamond and boys who live east of Russell will workout in the National League park.

Any boy who will attain the age of nine before August 1 and who will not attain the age of 13 before August 1 is eligible.

All boys must bring $3 for insurance and all boys who are already on a youth league are asked not to come to the tryouts. Boys must bring a ball glove.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

That Nuclear Treaty

From all appearances the United States is prepared to improve another treaty with Russia. This time it's the nuclear non-proliferation treaty negotiated by President Johnson, but stalled in the closing days of the Senate, as reaction to the Russians crushing Czechoslovakia.

Richard Nixon, before he took office, was opposed to the treaty "at this time." But now he has decided it is time for Senate ratification. It's expected that on his forthcoming junket to Europe he will endeavor to get West Germany to sign the treaty also. West Germany has taken the attitude that if it signs such a treaty that it will not have nuclear defensive weapons, there should be something in return.

Specifically West Germany wants the Soviet Union to give up its authority guaranteed by treaty, to intervene in the affairs of West Germany. Presumably the United States also would abandon the privilege of intervening in East Germany. We think West Germany has a point, although we're not sure the agreement would have much value.

The Allen-Goldsmith "Inside Washington" reports says indications are that the treaty will be ratified in the Senate, although there is expected to be some protracted debate. Among the opponents is Sen. Strom Thurmond. In his current report to his constituents, he discusses the reasons for his objections. He says in part:

"Consideration of the nuclear non-proliferation treaty is the first step in the development of a new foreign policy towards the Soviet Union. It's important, therefore, that such consideration be approached with caution and careful analysis. The initial enthusiasm of a new period should not entice us into an action which will tie our hands later on."

"It would be a mistake to look upon the treaty as unfinished business left over from the old administration. The Soviets view this treaty as an integral part of a long-range strategic plan. The chief benefit to the Soviets is that the treaty will prevent the effective modernization of armament in the Western European countries thereby removing a counterforce to Soviet designs. Already our allies have labeled the treaty a Soviet-American Friendship Pact which disregards legitimate European interests."

"Now that the Soviets have achieved parity in intercontinental missile delivery vehicles, they are anxious to freeze further development of that kind of weapon system by the United States. But the effective disarmament of Europe must come before negotiations on disarmament with the United States, in the Soviet view. For this reason the Soviets see ratification of the Non-Proliferation Treaty as an essential preliminary.

"Naturally, the Europeans are nervous about any agreement that takes the ultimate defense of their territories out of their own hands. The invasion of Czechoslovakia by the Soviet Union forcefully reminded them that the Soviets will violate the territorial sovereignty of a nation whenever it suits their interests. Even though many of the Soviet troops have been withdrawn, the Europeans understand that the Soviets still cultivate the desire for domination, and that they have both the will and the capacity for such action. The Soviet violation of the sovereignty of Czechoslovakia is a violation of the intent of the treaty and of its express wording. The Europeans, therefore, are not anxious to trust their security to a treaty that is violated even before the major signatories have ratified it."

"Another issue that is detrimental to our future interests is the question of safeguard. The treaty itself does not provide for safeguards. It merely provides that each non-nuclear nation will negotiate a separate agreement on safeguards within six to eighteen months after the treaty goes into effect. The broad standard for these safeguards is the statute of the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA), a United Nations agency. However the technical standards are a matter of individual negotiation. There is no way to tell what the ultimate safeguards will be or whether they might not be changed from time to time."

"The effect of this treaty would be to drive a wedge between the United States and our allies. West Germany and other European nations would not be able to modernize their armies against a threat of Soviet invasion or pressure. The United States would lose important defensive options for the future. On all counts the Soviets would reap advantages and go on to other steps calculated to reverse the balance of power."

Sen. Thurmond did not mention that Russia has a record of disregarding treaties it has signed when it feels it is in Russia's interest to do so. He did point out that some of the most advanced nations, including Germany, Japan, Israel and India have refused to sign, apparently being unwilling to tie their own hands while such nations as France and Red China have nuclear weapons, and also have refused to go along with the treaty. It seems to us, the non-signers have more logic on their side than has the United States with its eagerness to give Soviet Russia anything the Soviets want.

Threats of Reprisal

Rumor-mongering is a special art. Any GI alive can regale you with accounts of the expertise of a rumor-monger he watched operate during his training days, no matter which branch of service. It was really part of the fun and games of being in uniform—sometimes, it seemed, the only fun.

It's possible to wonder if all the skilled rumor-mongers who were recognized in uniform have not been recruited by the Federal Government for one or another agency. More rumors cross paths in the District of Columbia in a single day than circulated any military post in a year. For one thing, the communications are better. There are several million telephones in Washington and communication is more or less instantaneous. After all, in GI camps, some guys are in communication for several hours at a time and hush-talk took longer.

But Washington newsmen are conditioned to the rumor-mongering and it is surprising, really, how little of it gets into public print. A veteran can shrug off a rumor with the same expertise that got the man who floated it his job in the first place. Inexperienced newsmen don't report the juicy rumors for fear of derision. They wait until the old timers take the bait and accept the version as having some validity.

One such rumor that is beginning to be reported by the veteran Washington reporters has it that Senator Henry M. Jackson, Democrat, of the State of Washington, turned down the Nixon-offered appointment as Secretary of Defense because he was warned by Democrats, including Teddy Kennedy, that he would be the object of particular reprisal by the Democratic Party.

Now Senator Jackson is a big man in the senate. He would be a big man if he

The Manion Forum

Who's Segregating Whom?

It finally happened. The Civil Rights movement gained so great a momentum that it turned in on itself. For the latest casualty of government-forced integration was not a southern school district, or a lily-white suburban classroom. No, the victim is Black—Black Studies, to be exact.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has announced that Black facilities—facilities from which whites are excluded—are against federal law. HEW went even further and dictated that it is illegal for a university to specify that only a Black teacher can teach a certain course—such as, say, Black Studies.

When HEW speaks, academia had better listen. Because when a school does not toe the government's line, it will lose federal aid. (The situation should put many a college president in a quandary. If he meets the Black students' demands, the Federal Government will cut off his life-sustaining funds. If he obeys the government's order, the militants will imprison him in his office and toss bombs around inside campus buildings.)

Of course, the colleges can attempt to resolve the dilemma by making Black Studies open to white students. But what if few (token integration) or no whites apply? Would that not be de facto segregation? The Civil Rights office of HEW recently scored the state colleges in five states because the institutions were not integrated. It does not matter, said Civil Rights, if the colleges had non-discriminatory admission policies, open to blacks and whites alike. What does matter is—de facto. What will this line of thinking do to Black Studies?

The universities could admit white students to Black dormitories, which would amount to a "freedom-of-choice" plan. But the Supreme Court has said that "freedom-of-choice" arrangements in southern school districts are not in accordance with the law. Clearly, the only way to be in accordance with the law is to mix black and white together. What will the campus militants—who fought for and obtained Black dormitories—think of that?

And as for insisting upon a white professor's right to teach Black Studies—one shudders at the thought of how campus rioters will react. Maybe they will all go to Washington and imprison HEW Secretary Robert Finch in his office, and throw bombs around the buildings in the Capital. Then at least the rest of the kids on our beleaguered campuses could go to school in peace.

It takes nothing away from Secretary Laird to report that Senator Jackson was, by all odds, the most popular choice of the most Members of Congress for the top job at the Pentagon. Noody thinks that he was intimidated by the threats of reprisal.

Senator Jackson thought that there should be spokesmen of stature for the loyal opposition as well as for the petty opposition.

What Makes Objectors Conscientious?
—Supreme Court Test Sought

ROBERT ALLEN

JOHN GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The Selective Service System is asking an immediate Supreme Court test of a district court ruling that the military draft law's religious definition of conscientious objectors is unconstitutional.

In that decision Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr. struck down the law's requirement that conscientious objection to military service must be based on "religious training and belief." The judge found that the requirement violates the constitutional guarantee of free exercise of religion.

The Wyzanski decision was a blow to Selective Service officials. If upheld, it could open the way to broader claims of conscience, including claims based on pacifism or on opposition to a particular war, specifically the war in Vietnam.

Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, the draft director, has requested directly to the Supreme Court that the Boston case be taken directly to the Supreme Court for review. The Justice Department is reported to have agreed to that rather unusual course of action.

Wyzanski said, in effect, that the 1967 draft law discriminates against young men who base a claim for C.O. status on deeply held moral beliefs which are not a part of formal religion. He suggested that John Heffron Sisson Jr., the draftee involved, was motivated by a moral and ethical "table of ultimate values."

"This court, therefore, concludes that in granting to the religious conscientious objector, but not to Sisson, a special status, the (draft) act violates the provision of the first amendment that 'Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion,'" the judge declared.

His decision is effective only in the Massachusetts judicial district. But since the decision would invalidate a part of the federal law, the case can be appealed directly to the Supreme Court without action by the Circuit Court of Appeals.

CONGRESS TO BLAME? — Congress may have put itself in a hole with the 1967 language on conscientious objectors. It had evidence at hand that the Supreme Court has misgivings about claims of conscience rooted solely in religious training.

In the 1948 version of the draft law Congress had eliminated the "religious training" phrase in favor of a requirement that conscientious objectors believe in a "Supreme Being." Even that requirement fell afoul of the Supreme Court, however.

In a 1965 case, the court ruled that a draftee could qualify as a conscientious objector without believing in a Supreme Being if his refusal to serve was based in a sincere and deeply held belief that paralleled a belief in God.

Local draft boards were able to live with that 1965 decision, but Congress decided not to live with it. In 1967, with anti-draft sentiment on the rise as a result of the Vietnam war, the House and Senate disregarded constitutional warnings and returned to the earlier requirement that conscientious objection must be based on "religious training and belief."

In the light of the earlier Supreme Court finding with respect to religion as the only appropriate source of conscience, legal scholars here will not be surprised if the Supreme Court goes along with Wyzanski in opening up other ethical grounds.

VIETNAM REFLECTIONS — Sisson, a 22-year-old Harvard graduate had refused military induction in April 1968. Judge Wyzanski's order — technically an arrest of judgment — overturned an earlier conviction.

Wyzanski stated carefully that he was not attempting to pass judgment on the legality of the war in Vietnam — an issue which the war's critics would like to put squarely before the Supreme Court. Also the judge said he was not passing on the "methods" of the war.

He stated, however, that his reasoning had been affected by the limited nature of the Vietnam conflict. He said his decision might have been different if Sisson had been called to the colors to fight in "a defense of the homeland."

Those reflections by the judge would appear to give comfort to draft critics who contend that a young man should have the right to claim a conscientious objection to any given war and to refuse to serve in that specific conflict. Congress has been cool to that rationale.

The Supreme Court may not want to go along with it either, but that would not mean the court would have to uphold the law as now written. The court has, over the years, been able to narrow its findings to reflect a cautious middle way when it has wished to do so.

In any case, the court's review of Wyzanski's decision will itself be reviewed by Congress when, and if, the Pentagon proposes changes in the draft law. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has indicated that such proposals will be forthcoming.

While presiding over the opening of New York's World Fair on April 30, 1959, Franklin D. Roosevelt became the first president to appear on television. The world Almanac says, from a platform overlooking the Court of Peace, Roosevelt dedicated the fair to international amity and said America's wagon was hitched to the Star of Peace.

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANSTADT
Lumps In Breasts
Not Always Cancer

Q—I am a boy, 16, and my biggest worry is enlarged breasts. Would you advise an operation?

A—Although it is natural to expect breast enlargement in girls during puberty, many persons do not realize that, on a smaller scale, this also takes place in boys and for the same reason. Both boys and girls produce male and female hormones but in boys the male hormone predominates. In some otherwise normal boys estrogen production is a little above average and the normal breast development is accentuated.

Obesity sometimes aggravates the problem and, in a few boys, a disorder of the pituitary (Froelich's syndrome) is the cause. In most boys, however, the breast enlargement, often associated with local soreness, subsides. This may occur after a few weeks or it may take three or four years.

Q—For about five years I have had hard masses in my breasts. Is there any danger of cancer developing? I have been taking male hormone which helps me but only as long as I keep on taking it. Will this hormone hurt me?

A—The fact that the lumps have lasted five years is an indication that they are not cancer. If they are felt with the finger tips but not with the flat of your hand they are normal nodules of breast tissue. Male hormone will not hurt you if the dosage is regulated through regular medical checkups, including an examination for breast cancer which can develop in anyone.

Q—Twice in six years I have had a benign cyst removed from my right breast. Now another one has formed. Is it necessary to have it removed?

A—Removal of benign cysts in the breast is advised only if they are painful or the diagnosis is in doubt.

Q—Around my nipples I have a ring of small pimples. They are not sore. Is this normal?

A—Perfectly normal. They are oil glands and are known as areolar glands.

Q—What can be done about the hairs that grow around the nipples?

A—These hairs are as normal as those on your head. No treatment is required but, if you want to trim them from time to time, please feel free to do so.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

Remember Pearl Harbor

By PAUL HARVEY
It's different when you are the President.

Take the ABM. It is easy for you and me to say that the antiballistic missile, intended to intercept enemy missiles, is already obsolete, is too expensive, is not needed.

And we pray it is not. But a President has to give us spelled U.S.—the benefit of any doubt.

History has retailed that lesson many times, sometimes painfully.

Angel and I were in Hawaii when it looked like the travel folders, prior to the Big War.

I remember seeing our Pacific fleet ships stationed at staggered intervals outside Pearl Harbor as a routine precaution.

It was mostly Navy wives, wanting their husbands more convenient to shore for social activities of an evening, who pressed the admiral.

"A foolish precaution," they insisted. "Nobody is going to dare attack Pearl Harbor."

The admiral who refused to budge was replaced. When Adm. Husband E. Kimmel took over, he brought the ships of our fleet into the harbor where they were lined up, side by side, when the Japanese warplanes attacked that unforgettable Dec. 7.

In several subsequent investigations attempting to affix the responsibility for our unpreparedness, Adm. Kimmel was roasted over an open fire.

The cost to us of being unprepared at Pearl Harbor was devastating. In a nuclear war, it could be decisive.

Our NIE and CIA and DIA and our State Department are unconvinced that the Russians have any plans to strike first. Our intelligence concerning Soviet intentions, however, does not have a very impressive track record. Our military intelligence was grossly inadequate in Korea, in Cuba and in Vietnam.

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird has testified, "With their large tonnage warheads, the Russians are going for a first-strike capability, there is no question about that."

If the Russians are really coming after us, his critics insist, then the ABM is not nearly enough preparedness. We should be going all-out with a "thick" missile defense, beefing up our offensive forces, digging air-raid shelters.

Again, expensive and expensive recommendations are easy for the critics to make, but it's different when you are the President and have to balance a deficit budget against a calculated risk.

Understand, Secretary Laird has never said the Russians have any first-strike "intentions"; he says they are developing a first-strike "capability"; there's an important difference.

Similarly, we are not going to buy maximum protection for $7.2 billion worth of Safeguard missiles to protect our Minuteman silos. But that much can insure our second-strike "capability." It is with this kind of capability that we have kept the Red bear tread through a succession of sometimes irresponsible Soviet dictators.

Maybe war is now a lesser menace. You and I are eager to forget Pearl Harbor. But our President, when he gambles with our lives, dares not.

WASHINGTON:

South Korea Has Success In Curbing Student Riots

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent
SEOUL, KOREA (NEA) —

The paradox is bewildering. Here we have a country where student rioters in 1960 were so successful they ousted the nation's president.

To understand the magnitude of this achievement, it must be recalled that President Syngman Rhee was to Korea what De Gaulle is to France. He had led the nationalist underground against Japan, unified the new nation.

In the demonstrations, 77 students were killed, several thousands wounded.

(South Korean students historically haven't been intimidated by force; witness the outbreaks under the Japanese occupation in the 1930s.)

The 1960 riots were followed by others of great strength in the four years that followed.

Yet today, when the campuses of Japan, France, the United States and a flock of other countries are in on-again, off-again turmoil, South Korea's students seemingly go quietly about their studies.

To find out how the change took place, this reporter spent considerable time interviewing some of 40 days' South Korean student leaders, professors and university officials, and one prominent former student leader from the 1960-64 period, who spent a term in prison for his activities.

First, the old timer. They had gone at the riots with great hopes of changing things. But they had no program of what to do when they were successful. Then they won. But it seemed to them that even after the old was destroyed, it came back again in the new. There was no real change. So what had they gained?

Second, the university officials. They're required to account personally to the government for disturbances on their campuses. They must report regularly on the current situation, what they're doing to prevent trouble, and any signs of trouble. One president of a college said a government official had threatened him with removal some time back unless he became more effective in keeping student unrest from showing itself at his school.

Third, the professors. The last major demonstrations brought police to the campuses. They acted strongly. They did not go easy because these were students. "I think we all learned a lesson," said one.

At the same time, South Korea is now growing so rapidly that students see good jobs waiting for them on graduation. They're not so well off as in the United States where, that may not mean anything. Most students have had little; they see a chance to be something.

Fourth, today's student leaders. University officials are accessible. "They listen to what we want to bring up. That makes demonstrations unnecessary." But there are political matters that would arouse the students as vigorously as in the past. "There's talk of changing the national constitution so the president can hold three terms instead of two. That would agitate the students. You'd see demonstrations countrywide. They would not be light or mild. The students would mean business, as in 1936, 1960 and 1964."

Though a number of reasons for today's quiet came through in these talks, there's the underlying feeling that student riots, like revolutions, run their course and fade away. That isn't to say, of course, that a major stimulus would not set off a new round in a new generation of students.

The next big attraction in the world of sporting events is going to be the "Crab Olympics." It is going to be held in San Francisco in mid-May.

It all started when Baltimore labeled San Francisco an upstart city, with delusions of culinary grandeur, when they was invited to a crab cooking contest. The mayor of San Francisco said his city had the biggest crabs in the country. Baltimore mayor said his crabs were supreme in the universe. It will be a crabby situation.

The two mayors decided to leave no shell unturned in an effort to have a successful crab-off. They also invited 24 other cities to submit their best crabs.

Of course, there are crabs and then there are crabs. Some crabs can be roasted and some can't. And those that get roasted get more crabby than ever. I have seen some dilly crabs in my day, but never one that was worth his salt in a pinch.

So whether a crab comes from Frisco, or the Rock Bound coast of Maine, a crab to see, is a crab to be, regardless of who's to blame.

The "Timothy Titcomb" letters were written by Josiah Gilbert Holland, American editor and novelist.
