Vacation Time—
On To Portland—
System Is Wrong—
Manager Plan—

A. E. FROST, veteran station master, gets his second vacation in 16 years, a gap entirely too long in the opinion of the majority accustomed to an annual release for a week, two weeks or month from the daily task.

It probably doesn't appear such a bad deal to Mr. Frost, who is doubtless getting several years worth of pleasure during his leave of absence. Most of us so live during the year that we approach vacation time greatly in need of rest and recuperation and then devote the period to a frenzied pursuit of one pleasure or another.

A great many employers will tell you that the real period of relaxation comes immediately after the vacation.

HOW MUCH does a trip to Portland, Oregon, cost?

In exact figures, that does not seem to have entered the discussion in the city council as to the advisability of sending Commissioner Roy Carter to the convention of firemen in that city, along with Chief J. L. McClure.

It appears logical that a trip to Portland would cost more than one to St. Louis or Denver, just as a journey to Texarkana would be more expensive than one to Dallas or Fort Worth. From this viewpoint at least, it is fortunate that the fire convention was not held in Europe or Alaska as long as a majority of the council felt that it was customary and fitting that the fire and police commissioner should attend the convention along with the fire chief.

COMMISSIONER CARTER'S contention was that the council had followed the policy of sending other commissioners with departmental heads to various conventions to study conditions in other cities and there was no reason for making an exception to the rule.

Mayor Shepherd opposed the plan on the ground that for the expense involved, it would be proportionately more beneficial to send only departmental heads who are actively engaged in the work of their departments, and who are reasonably expected to remain in the city's service for some time.

AS THE RECORD NEWS sees it, both the commissioner and the mayor are correct in their contentions.

It is interesting to note, however, that under the city manager plan of government, the city manager would be sent to such conventions as the council believed necessary and not such as were traditional. He would accompany departmental heads if the council so ordered, and such benefits as should accrue to the city from his study of conditions of other cities would be preserved over a period of time, considering the fact that the manager himself is only a departmental executive, and would reasonably be retained in the city's service as long as his work continued efficient and satisfactory.

THE error of sending commissioners on expensive trips to better qualify themselves to fulfill their obligations and discharge their duties, lies not with the council, or with its members who appear eager to give their best abilities and talents to the city.

It is chargeable to the system of government which trains and develops men at the taxpayer's expense, only to have the benefit of this training lost at the end of one or two terms through a shift in the political fortunes of the individual concerned.

AMID RICH AND POOR STILLMAN WEDS CANADIAN

Catholic Ceremony Unites Millionaire And Poor Girl

MRS. STILLMAN HAPPY

Bride's Mother Weeps While Daughter Is Being Married

By HERBERT MAYER
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

LA TUQUE, Que., July 26.—"Whither thou goest I shall go, and thy people shall be my people."—Ruth to Naomi.

Lena Wilson made the age old pledge of woman today at Grande Anse when she was given in marriage to James A. (Bud) Stillman Jr.

The waters of the St. Maurice river heard the pledge, the sun smiled over the mountains as if in omen, and the ceremony was begun.

The bride, beautiful, fair of hair and blue of eyes, despite her Indian blood, a simple girl of the woodland, went through the ceremony without faltering, with all the nonchalance of a society belle.

Young Stillman, scion of wealth and family, was distinctly nervous.

Her simplicity and the ease and grace with which she carried herself caused those who saw the ceremony to believe that the new Mrs. Stillman will fit well into her new life.

Once the ceremony had been concluded she was kissed by both Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stillman, and this welcome as a member of the family was strengthened by the greetings of Fowler McCormick, himself a millionaire, and young Henry P. Davidson, son of a deceased partner of J. P. Morgan and Co., who is the husband of the former Anne Stillman.

But as the kissing and congratulating which followed the ceremony went on there was one woman who wept. This was the little black clad mother of the bride, who had been led into a place of honor on the arm of Mrs. Stillman, for whom she worked for years.

To Mrs. Wilson it was apparent that her daughter was going far, far, far, oh, so far, from those huts and that sparkling river by which she had raised her daughter. This was the touch of pathos which completed the dramatic effect of the ceremony.

As 3 o'clock came the band of the royal Canadian Highlanders, 35 strong, hefty men of scarlet coats and pipes and kilties, they moved to the lawn and began to play.

Then there was movement from inside the white and green manor house. Mrs. Stillman, wearing a pink and black dress and a graceful wide-brimmed hat, appeared leading the little woman in black, the mother of the bride.

A few moments after 3 o'clock, Young Davidson, Thomas Hatch and John Schenck, Princeton chums of the groom, appeared. They wore rough gray shirts with red neckties, heavy corduroy pants tucked into heavy boots.

Young Stillman and his bride knelt at the altar after the bridal procession, during which the Scotch band played "Here Comes the Bride." The ceremony was brief and performed in French.

Investigating Death Of Singer's Sister

By Universal Service.

BORGER, July 26.—A shroud of silence tonight surrounds the investigation of police and Texas rangers into the death of Marie Murray, said to be the sister of Billy Murray, noted singer, who was found in an unconscious condition today in the negro section of Borger.

What meagre information the police would release indicated that the dead girl disappeared from her home in Denver, July 4, and since that time had been an object of a nationwide search.

An autopsy will be made sometime tonight, officers said.

Miss Murray died two hours after being taken to a local hospital. She never regained consciousness.

Charges Against Andrews Dismissed By State

Electra Farmer Voluntarily Drops Complaint; Evidence Not Sufficient, Fruechte Says

On request of the complainant, Dan Nengwasser, a farmer living near Electra, a charge of embezzlement filed Saturday against W. R. Andrews, former manager of the Farmers Elevator company, of Electra, was dismissed Tuesday by E. P. Freuchte, assistant district attorney.

Sureties on a $2000 bond filed by Andrews for his release from custody pending the action of the grand jury were also ordered released from liability by Mr. Fruechte.

Mr. Nengwasser told Mr. Fruechte that he had filed the charge while under the impression that Andrews had fled from Electra and was attempting to evade arrest.

However, as Andrews returned to Electra, and although ill, is endeavoring to straighten out the financial affairs of the elevator company, Mr. Nengwasser said that he desired to withdraw the charge.

Mr. Fruechte also ventured the opinion that the evidence that had been presented against Andrews was not sufficient to obtain a conviction if he was brought to trial.

Four Months Old Collie Joins Presidents Kennels

RAPID CITY, S. D., July 26. Diana of Wildwood, a playful four-months old white collie, joined the White House kennels today.

Diana was brought here from Detroit in an airplane piloted by Alger Granger, who flew with Wilkins in the search for unknown land in the Polar region.

She was given to Mrs. Coolidge to take the place of Prudence Prim, the collie who died, by Mary Ann and Robert Scripps, children of William E. Scripps, the publisher.

Diana stood the air trip splendidly and immediately struck up a friendly acquaintance with President Coolidge. She barked playfully at him and followed him around the executive offices until he picked her up in his arms and deposited her in his limousine for the 32 mile ride to the summer White House.

GOTHAM STRIKE CALLED OFF

Mayor Walker Settles Differences Between Men

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, July 26.—There will be no subway strike in New York. Continued efforts of Mayor Walker to avert a tie-up of practically all New York transit lines resulted in victory late today when both the Interborough and Amalgamated officials made concessions that resulted in union leaders calling off the proposed strike, which was to have begun at midnight.

Amalgamated officers did agree not to discriminate against employes belonging to "company unions," but insisted that Interborough's promise not to discharge employes in sympathy with or belonging to Amalgamated constituted recognition of Amalgamated in that it opened the door to the men joining the International without fear of losing their jobs.

The dramatic climax to a week of strike negotiations came at a moment when likelihood of a tie-up being averted was deemed remote. Amalgamated officials were not loath to give all credit to Mayor Walker for halting the strike.

Then came the meeting in the mayors' office, which labor leaders and counsel attended. Then came the announcement that there would be no strike.

Mayor Walker said that Mr. Quackenbush, speaking for the I. R. T., had agreed that the company would take back the 11 men discharged today for insubordination and attending last Friday's Amalgamated meeting. He said further that it had been agreed that the company would not discriminate against men in sympathy with or belonging to Amalgamated.

Aimee "In Bad" With "Four Square" Man

By Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, July 26.—Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist, now "Rear Admiral" of the new four square gospel lighthouse fleet, is enjoying plenty of fighting in home waters.

No sooner had the evangelist straightened out a mutiny in Angelus temple than she was fired on by a rebel craft in the person of Nichols, her former band leader.

Nichols, now pastor of the church of Philadelphia, which meets in a tent, said he and his flock want Mrs. McPherson and her mother to clear up the story of the evangelist's disappearance and asserted kidnaping.

"Aimee Semple McPherson and her mother both have a confession to make to the world. I feel they ought to make it and get it off their conscience," said Nichols.

"My conscience is clear. Every word I have spoken about my kidnaping is true," replied the evangelist.

She called Nichols a publicity-seeker.

Gas Company to Build Temple-Austin Line

AUSTIN, July 26. (AP)—The Lone Star Gas company of North Texas will build its lines from Temple toward Austin, regardless of whether that company contracts to supply Austin with natural gas, F. L. Chase, vice president of the Lone Star Gas company indicated in a conference here today with the citizens natural gas committee. "We contemplate building lines to Georgetown and Taylor at the present time, subject to the action of the board of directors," Mr. Chase was quoted as having told the committee.

He told the committee about the supply of gas that the Lone Star Gas company has available and cautioned the committee to ascertain whether other companies have a supply sufficient for Austin in formulating any contract.

Navasota Sponsors Building of Dam

AUSTIN, July 26. (AP)—Application for permit to impound 5250 acre feet of water from the Brazos river near Navasota for irigation, power generation and to form an amusement lake was filed today with the state board of water engineers by the Brazos Valley Irrigation company.

A large dam would be built, pumps and turbines would be installed. Fifty thousand acre feet of water would be used in one year.

The application, signed by W. T. Eldridge, Sugarland, president of the company, and Charles Boedeker, Houston, secretary, was set for hearing August 29.

Girl Shoots Stepfather When He Attacks Her Mother

By Universal Service.

FORT WORTH, July 26.—"I don't know how many times I fired or where I hit him.

"He had mother by the throat with one hand and was beating her face with his free fist.

"I was afraid he might kill her with a knife which he always carried. That's why I did it."

And Ruth Hogan, 15-year-old high school, in these few simple words, had told police why she shot and killed W. M. Mason, 40, her stepfather, in front of the Hogan home here today.

Mason, according to the girl, separated from his wife May 28 and had been living in their former home. This morning, the girl said, he drove to their present home and called mother out to the curb.

"He began abusing her and asking her why she shouldn't talk to him over the telephone. Finally he grabbed her by the throat and began to beat her with his free fist," said the school girl.

"It was terrible. I was afraid mother was going to be killed. I went into the house, grabbed a pistol and fired at him from the porch," she said.

In her petition for a divorce, which was denied on July 18 by Judge Hal Lattimore, Mrs. Mason declared that her husband "had an ungovernable temper and condemned the church and religion of his wife."

HOLE CUT IN VAULT DOOR BY BURGLARS

Books and Stationery Found Burning When Bank Is Opened

OFFICERS HUNT YEGGS

Abernathy Bank Also Entered; Amount of Loss Small

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, July 6.—Yeggmen attempted to burglarize the Farmers State bank at Newlin 11 miles east of Memphis Monday night.

The burglars used an acetylene torch to cut a hole through the vault door about 18 inches square but no indications of them using it on the safe.

Some books and stationery was set on fire in the vault and were still burning when the bank was opened Tuesday morning.

The building was entered by prying a side door open. The burglars left a cotton blanket hanging over the vault door which was used to shut the light off to the outside. They also left the drum by the side of the door entered.

Officers were called to the scene but no clue has been found. The work apparently had been done by experienced men. It is thought they were frightened away about 4 o'clock when a truck driver came into town for ice.

ABERNATHY ROBBERS FAIL TO OPEN VAULT

ABERNATHY, July 26. (AP)—Robbers last night entered the First State bank here between midnight and dawn, broke into the outer vault, littered private lock boxes over the floor, battered the money vault but failed to get it open, and escaped leaving practically no trace. The loot was estimated by N. C. Nix, cashier of the bank, at between $75 and $100, including a sack of pennies totaling about $50.

Entrance was gained through the transom over the rear door and the door pried open from the inside. A hole was battered through the stucco and tile vault wall, and the steel vault door opened from the inside. Finger print experts from Lubbock and Plainview are on the job. The number in the party is unknown.

Navy Flier Fails To Break Record

WASHINGTON, July 26. (AP)—While it first was thought Lieut. Carlton C. Champion, navy flier, might have set a new altitude mark in his recent sensational flight over the capital, officials of the bureau of standards said today it could be definitely stated no official world record had been established.

Officials said Champion's altitude would not exceed 39,000 feet, instead of 47,000 as first thought. The recognized world altitude record is held by a French aviator, Callizo, who about a year ago climbed to 40,820 feet.

Wichita Irrigated Valley Potential 'Second California,' Kemp Declares

Those citizens of Wichita Falls and vicinity who made the tour of inspection through the farming and poultry section of California are now fully aware that the Wichita Irrigated Valley is potentially a second California, said J. A. Kemp who conducted the party on the tour.

The Texans were accorded wonderful hospitality at every stop, Mr. Kemp stated. Every assistance was given to insure a thorough inspection of the places visited, he said.

"It was the opinion of those making the trip that the Wichita Valley can equal the wonderful farming areas near Los Angeles and San Francisco," Mr. Kemp said. He favors another such tour next fall.

The party, composed of 24 citizens of Wichita Falls and vicinity, left Wichita Falls on July 16. A week later it disbanded, some of the members extending their trip to other western states and others taking various routes on the return trip. Mr. and Mrs. Kemp arrived in Wichita Falls Tuesday morning.

THREE ON TRIAL FOR SLAYING

Louisiana Doctor Arraigned On His Birthday

FRANKLIN, La., July 26. (AP)—Dr. Thomas E. Dreher, prominent Morgan City physician, spent his 55th birthday in a courtroom here today watching the selection of a jury to try himself and two others on charges of murder.

His wife sat beside him and in adjoining chairs were the other two defendants, one of them the widow of the slain man, Mrs. Ada Lebouef, whose alleged affair with the physician forms the basis of the charges against the trio. In another chair sat James Beadle, trapper, whom the state contends killed James J. Lebouef, utilities company official.

Veniremen after veniremen passed in review before the physician as his birthday dragged away, but the late afternoon had found many called but few chosen. Only three jurors had proved acceptable to James H. Parkerson, chief of defense counsel, and Emile Vuillemot, prosecuting attorney.

Enemies of Progress In Solid Opposition to Amendments; Moody

AUSTIN, July 26. (AP)—Not all those opposing the proposed judiciary amendment to the state constitution "are enemies of progress, but certainly the enemies of progress are in solid opposition to the amendment," Governor Dan Moody said today in a lengthy appeal to Texas voters to adopt it at the polls August 7.

The governor answered several opposition arguments including some advanced in former Governor Miriam A. Ferguson's attack on the amendment some weeks ago, although he named no one. He made a detailed analysis of the benefits claimed for the amendments and reminded the voting public of the "considerable agitation over the state for improvement in judicial procedure and elimination of delays in litigation."

"Laymen, lawyers, the courts and the press have been insistent," Governor Moody said, "that some relief be given from the tedious delays of the law, which in part are caused by the fact that Texas has grown faster than our system of courts has been advanced to meet new conditions. This popular demand induced the legislature to submit the proposed amendment."

He reviewed his points made in various recent speeches that the amendment would eliminate duplication of work in the supreme court by making a full nine member body of it, instead of three judges who now must pass on the work of their six commission assistants; that work would be speeded up; that opinions of all nine judges would be authoritative instead only three as now; that civil appeals courts would be limited to 12, which they are not now; that creation of new district courts would be made unnecessary by authorizing the supreme court to transfer judges temporarily from idle benches to busy benches, and that the enforced three months vacation of the supreme court would be eliminated and the court kept open the year around.

D. D. SPARGER TO RECOVER FROM WOUND

Mrs. Maud Brown Held In Wounding of Owner Of Confectionary

WOMAN TELLS STORY

Man Entered Store And Tried to Rob Sparger, She Declares

David D. Sparger, 59, proprietor of the Ninth Street Confectionery at 1601 Ninth street, was shot and seriously injured while in his store about 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, A bullet splintered Mr. Sparger's jaw bone.

Mrs. Maud Brown, about 30, is being held in the county jail in connection with the shooting. She was arrested by police in front of the confectionery a few minutes after Mr. Sparger was shot.

Cast Around Jaw.

Physicians at the Wichita General hospital, where the injured man was rushed immediately after the shooting, stated that he will recover. The bullet entered almost at the point of his chin and ranged through his right jaw, splintering the bone.

A cast was placed around Mr. Sparger's jaw, and without complications the wound will heal rapidly, physicians said. He suffered very little from the loss of blood.

Mrs. Brown, a pretty brunette, while in the city jail stated that she had entered the confectionery to get a drink of water. She was at the rear of the building, she said, when a man entered and tried to rob Mr. Sparger. She heard one shot fired, the woman declared, as a man ran from the store.

Woman Makes Statement.

Mrs. Brown could not say whether the assailant was white or black. She said that she was acquainted with Mr. Sparger, having traded at the store previous to Tuesday.

Officers found a .38 caliber pistol with blood on it and with an exploded shell in the magazine lying in a cigar box on a counter in the store. Occupants of nearby houses stated they heard one shot fired.

Mrs. Brown in a brief statement to Sam Spence, assistant district attorney, declared that she did not know who shot Mr. Sparger. She was removed from the city jail to the county jail.

Mr. Sparger, who was said to have talked under intense pain from moving his injured jaw, was quoted by officers as saying that he knew nothing that Mrs. Brown could hold against him.

Mrs. Brown stated that she was out of employment at the present time. She said that she rooms alone at the Lone Star hotel.

Mr. Sparger was said to be unmarried. He has a sister living in Denison and a brother in San Antonio, according to information given the hospital.

OIL WAR MAY BREAK OUT

Standard President Goes To Europe For Peace

NEW YORK, July 26. (AP)—Reports of threatened warfare among several of the world's largest oil companies over trade relations with soviet Russia were intensified today by a statement of Sir Henri Deterding, managing director of the Royal Dutch Shell group, attacking the policy of the Standard Oil company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company, which have contracts under which they purchase oil from Russia.

Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, which last week announced that his company and the Royal Dutch Shell group had agreed upon a joint policy of no dealing with Russia until owners of the oil are compensated, is said by the New York Times to be on his way to London on a peace mission.

The Times says he hopes to prevent the Royal Dutch Shell from precipitating a struggle in which his company eventually may have to cast in its lot with the Standard of New York and the Vacuum company, thus destroying the friendly affiliation it now has with the Royal Dutch Shell.

Sir Henri, in his statement issued through his New York representative, charges the purchase of Russian oil by the American companies not only runs counter to the best interests of humanity and trade honesty, but are bound to replace American oil, of which there is at present a large over production.

The Royal Dutch Shell, aroused because the Standard of New York and the Vacuum company openly flouted its anti-soviet policies, says the Times is preparing to invade the territory of the two latter companies in Europe, the far east and even the United States.

The article adds that the Standard of New York is prepared if necessary to extend its operations to Central Europe and other territories in which the Royal Dutch-Shell is interested.

The Rockefellers are expected to use their influence to prevent any widening of the breach among the three companies.

Cause of Disastrous Fire In Stables On Waggoner Estate Remains Mystery

ELECTRA, July 26.—Investigation of employes and officials Tuesday failed to reveal the cause of the disastrous fire which early Tuesday morning swept the W. T. Waggoner Racing association stables near Electra, resulting in a loss variously estimated at between $100,000 and $300,000.

The fire destroyed barns Nos. 2a and 3, and burned to death six thoroughbred mares and their colts, and one yearling colt. The fine horses killed in the fire included "Aqua Viva," brought here from France last year at a cost of about $50,000, and others valued at from $30,000 to $50,000.

The barns contained abo. 4000 bales of hay, considerable feed stuff and equipment, and were insured for approximately $3000 each.

At the time of the fire, shortly after 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, William Harper and Thomas Stikes, employes were asleep in the barn. They succeeded in saving 12 horses in barn No. 2, while others in barn No. 3 perished.

Plans for rebuilding the barns were being discussed Tuesday afternoon.

BRISCOE CROPS IN FAIR SHAPE

Farmers Turn Attention To "Cow, Sow and Hen"

QUITAQUE, July 26.—Crop conditions in Briscoe county are on an average 75 per cent of normal.

The south, east and north portions of the county have excellent crops. The farmers say that the cotton is loaded with forms and some fields are blooming and are in a fine state of cultivation. The greater portion of the feed crop is either headed out or about ready to head, and is promising a fine yield. The farmers are of the opinion that they will make enough feet, with the amount left over from last year, to tide them over next year. The grass in this portion of Briscoe county is fine and cattle are doing extra well, a number of beef cattle are ready for the market.

The west part of the county from Quitaque is about 50 per cent normal after topping the caprock and up to the caprock it is about 75 per cent normal. Many of the farmers on top of the caprock have not had enough rain to plant, while others planted and got a poor stand. It is too late now with ever so much rain for cotton to make but very little.

More farmers in this country are turning their attention to the cow, sow and hen than ever before in the history of Briscoe county, and are learning to raise what they consume at home, instead of going to the store for everything.

Britain Prepares To Accept Ship Conference As Failure

By Universal Service.

LONDON, July 26.—In official circles, Great Britain is today preparing to accept the tri-partite naval disarmament conference at Geneva as a failure and pin the blame on the United States.

An official British protest has been forwarded to Washington, alleging that the American government misrepresented the British policy. The British officials believe that the American press has treated them unfairly and are angry at the attitude of the American delegates to the conference. Admiral Hilary Jones, America's technical expert at Geneva, particularly is censored by the British.

The official protest is considered here as ignoring the American delegates and going over their heads to the president.

The British admiralty is reported to have demanded seventy cruisers. If the British cabinet sanctions this, the conference is doomed, according to observers. It is believed, however, that the British government will do all in its power to avert the collapse of the conference.

One of the London newspapers declares that Great Britain does not require more than fifty cruisers and might well accept the American proposal of 400,000 tons of cruisers, retaining the twelve 10,000 ton cruisers now being built and constructing forty new ships of 7000 tons each.

The paper charges the United States with "obstructing settlement" by refusing to accept any reduction in the size and fighting power of cruisers.

Fort Worth Stealing Dallas "Air Stuff"

FORT WORTH, July 26. (AP)—Evidence that the efforts of Fort Worth interests to have Fort Worth rather than Dallas designated as the North Texas terminal of the new air routes to South Texas was contained in an announcement here today that $57,000 in stock and equipment had been pledged toward the financing of the Texas Airways corporation, capitalization of which will be for $150,000.

Organization of the corporation has been vigorously pushed in the last few days in the hope that Washington authorities will be influenced to award the government air mail contracts from North to South Texas to Seth Barwise, who, it was recently announced, submitted the low bid for the proposed routes.

Barwise, a Fort Worth business man, has announced that if his bid is accepted he will do everything in his power to make Fort Worth the terminal although Dallas will have that designation under present government plans.

EL PASO, July 26.(AP)—Robert E. Griffin, private, first class, troop E, seventh cavalry, was instantly killed today when a low flying plane struck him as he rode his horse in the maneuvers near Fort Bliss.

His head was cut entirely from his body when some part of the plane's landing gears struck him above the shoulders. Private Griffin was galloping his horse over the mesa three miles east of the wireless tower, when he was struck.

The plane was piloted by Cadet E. P. Rose. Cadet Rose said he was flying low when he ran into some bumpy air and the plane dropped lower. He did not know he had struck the man and flew on as the headless torso fell from the horse. He did not learn of the accident until he had landed after the maneuvers. The accident occurred shortly before 10 a. m.

VENUE CHANGE FOR ANDERSON

Alleged Floggers For Trial In Different Counties

By Universal Service.

MARSHALL, July 26.—Cain Anderson and DeWitt Osborne, charged with violation of the state anti-mask law in connection with the flogging of three white persons near here June 8, won their fight for a change of venue today.

Anderson will be tried in Smith county and Osborne in Upshur county, Judge P. O. Beard granted the change of venue after the defense had placed a score of witnesses on the stand to testify that in their opinion neither Anderson or Osborne could obtain a fair trial in Harrison county.

And in making known his decision Judge Beard said, "Harrison county has already tried and convicted the two men."

A defense motion to send the cases to Panola county was overruled. Monday the defense consumed the entire day in supporting its claim that it would be impossible to obtain an unbiased jury in Harrison county, but the state used only a few hours and only a few witnesses to support its assertion that 12 good and true men could be found within the limits of the county.

of the two defendants?" asked R. S. Young of defense counsel.

"Well, after hearing the evidence I wouldn't have voted for their indictments if I hadn't thought they they were guilty," Bell replied.

Bell was a member of the special grand jury that investigated the floggings. Nathan Levy, another member of the special grand jury, practically repeated Bell's words.

Hot Weather Dries Out Your Kidneys, Liver and Bowels

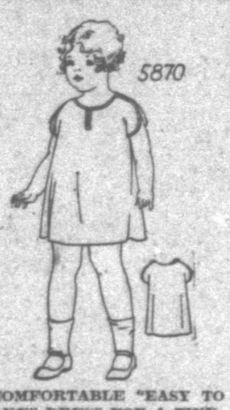

Perspiration carries off body moisture and the liver and bowels become dry and constipated. Then —biliousness, headaches, sour stomach; the heat makes you drowsy and lazy, and your skin breaks out with pimples and boils.

Don't take calomel. That's wrong—calomel is mercury—a dangerous drug. It jars the liver and cleans the bowels, that's true. But the damage it does to them, ugh! It crashes into your system like a charge of dynamite and makes it numb. It stifles the muscles of the stomach and bowels, takes YOU a day to recuperate and no telling how long for your bowels.

All you need is Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful at night and you wake up feeling great. It doesn't upset you, but cleans you out good. You don't lose a day from your work and you can eat anything you want.

Get the big bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone from your nearest store. They all have it. Keep it in the house so you will have it handy to take nights before going to bed.—Adv.

"50-50" MOTTO OF NEW WIFE

She Gives and Demands Fair Play

The New-Style Wife Won't Be 100 Per Cent Faithful to a Man Who Is Only One-half of 1 Per Cent Loyal to Her—He must go Fifty-fifty in Keeping the Home Fires Burning, or She'll Philander, Too.

A young man said to me the other day:

"I am engaged to a girl who is pretty, and well educated, and who holds as good a job as I do. She has a sweet disposition, is very unselfish and companionable, and loves children and home. She is not one of the sort of girls who meets you with her hat on when you call of an evening, and who isn't satisfied unless she is running around to some place of amusement.

"So far, so good. Ideal. But when I fail to play exactly fair with her she can beat me every time at doing what I'm doing to her. It's fifty-fifty with her either way I choose to play the game, and she will not stand for neglect. What do you make of that type of girl?"

Why, son, I think you are being vouchsafed a prophetic vision of the woman of the future. I think you are getting a close up of the 1937 model wife, and that ten years from now the kind of wives that you have been accustomed to seeing around you all your life will be just as much outmoded as an old stem-winding automobile.

Men may not like the new style wife who gives her husband tit for tat. Husbands may sigh for the good old days when a woman never dreamed of such a thing as getting a square deal in matrimony. Undoubtedly the new order of things will be provocative of family ructions, and probably for a while there will be an enormous increase in divorce.

But having taken her stand on a fifty-fifty matrimonial platform, the modern woman isn't going to recede from it, and a man can either marry her on it, or leave her alone.

Moreover, when the smoke of the conflict over equal rights in marriage has rolled away, and the woman who wouldn't-be-bossed and the man who thought that marriage-made-him-a-slave - driver have gotten their divorces, it will be found that for the first time marriage has really been stabilized, because it has been put upon a sound, fair, working basis. Then the divorce rate will drop to zero.

Marriage has been a failure because no partnership can be a success in which both parties put in the same amount of capital, yet in which one arrogates to himself the right to all the authority, and the perquisites, and the profits. The average wife works just as hard as her husband does and for longer hours. She scrimps and saves more than he does. She is just as care-burdened and as anxious for the success of the firm as he is, yet only too often she does not receive as a return for her labor a dollar of the money she has earned. She gets her food and clothes, but she has to wheedle and cajole a few pennies of spending money out of her husband.

No man in the future will dare to offer a woman a proposition like that, and if he did, she would turn it down with scorn. The modern girl is too sophisticated to take seriously the vow a man makes at the altar when he says that "with all my worldly good I thee endow."

She knows that deals with glittering generalities, and before she signs on the dotted line of the marriage contract the prospective bridegroom will have to come down to brass tacks and make a binding agreement to make a fair divide with her of the family income.

In the past we have had what we have euphoniously called the double code of morals for men and women. Husbands have not felt it incumbent upon them to give the loyalty to their wives that they expected from them. It was all right for them to philander, but their wives must be like Caesar's, above reproach.

Therefore, innumerable woman have sat at home, forlorn and forsaken, lonely and desolate, weeping their eyes out while they waited for wandering husbands to weary of their flirtations and come back and be forgiven.

Not so the wife of the future. She does not see why she should be a hundred per cent faithful to a man who is only half of a per cent loyal to her. He must give her a better trade than that. He must go fifty-fifty with her in keeping the home fires burning, and she serves due notice on him to that effect.

Otherwise she will take a hand in the same little game that he is playing. She isn't going to break her heart lamenting over a husband who is tired of her. She is going to hunt up some man who finds her interesting and who tells her how beautiful and wonderful she is. There are plenty of play boys as well as play girls in this wicked world.

This may be very shocking to our ethical sense. It may be very wrong and deplorable. It may be a great lowering of the standards by which women have heretofore lived, but it's a fact that husbands had as well face. Wives are done with overlooking their husbands' infidelities and forgiving them. In the future they are going to demand the fidelity they give, and men are going to toe the mark because they will be afraid not to.

For when it comes to double-crossing, women are just naturally born knowing how to do it.

That man is a dull observer, son, who doesn't see that women have changed, and that the girl of today is no more like her grandmother in her demands and her outlook on life than if she had come from another planet. Economic independence has not only given women new standards by which to gauge their own conduct and that of men, but the power to enforce them.

Grandma had to edure any sort of treatment from grandpa. She had to put up with abuse, with parsimony, with infidelity, because he was her meal ticket and she and her children would have starved without him. But practically every girl nowadays is trained to some gainful occupation. She can support herself and her children, if need be, and so her husband has to mind his p's and q's if he keeps her.

Therefore, son, don't get married unless you have made up your mind to give your wife a square deal and go fifty-fifty with her. She will meet you half way, but she won't go the whole way as women used to. Patient Griselda is dead.

DOROTHY DIX.

don't fool yourself

It ruins romance

Do you ever come face to face with a real case of Halitosis (unpleasant breath)? Can you imagine yourself married to a person offending this way? Halitosis is the unforgivable social offence, and don't fool yourself by thinking you never have it.

The insidious thing about it is that you yourself never can tell. The one way to avoid such offence is to rinse the mouth with Listerine, the safe antiseptic.

Immediately it removes every unpleasant odor—even a powerful one like that of the onion.

CREEDS AND MARRIAGE

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Congeniality May Overbalance Racial Difference

By Beatrice Fairfax

JUST what I said in some answer to a correspondent which has brought down on my head the ire of "Constant Reader," I do not know. Certainly, I did not make the statement Constant Reader thinks I made. There is a misunderstanding. Anyway, Constant Reader is sincere and dauntless in her opinion on the subject and she is entitled to a hearing. So I'm printing her letter, omitting only a paragraph devoted to a bitter attack on a certain religion with which she disagrees.

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"You say creed is a barrier to love. Well, you must be of a very orthodox creed. In fact, you are not modern. Science must not mean anything to you.

"If people love a creed to such an extent as to give up human love for it, they must be consumed with self-love. I don't believe in any church, but I do believe in God. And I believe that many who run to church do not live up to their church's teachings.

"My mother belonged to one religion, my father to another. I was brought up in my mother's church. But now I see the superstition and fear that enthralled her.

"Please, religion is only man-made, but humanity is God-made. Please do not hurt people that way, by telling them that religion means so much.

"Two good people should marry. Surely you don't believe God would separate them on account of their religion."

"A CONSTANT READER."

In the first place, dear Constant Reader, I am sure I never said that creed is necessarily a bar to love. For I don't believe any such thing. Two persons may differ radically about religion, belong to different churches, yet make a perfect success of their marriage. What I probably did say is that in some cases difference in creeds may prove a serious bar to the success of marriage.

All depends on the creeds and the tenacity and devoutness with which the man and woman concerned cling to their creeds. You can't expect all the world to agree with you, my dear, on the subject of religion. Any such idea would be intolerant—bigoted.

There are many hundreds of thousands of good men and women who are thoroughly convinced that their religion is divinely inspired. You could not convince them to the contrary. Now suppose a man and woman belong to different religions and that his religion and hers each holds to the tenet that you may not wed outside that particular religion. Suppose each is devoutly religious. Can you not see that they might be unhappy, married to each other despite their mutual love? Each would feel guilty of violating a loved religion by the marriage. Neither would find peace. They would have radically different ideas regarding all the customs and conventions, ideas and ideals touched on by their respective creeds, such as birth, baptism, marriage and death.

Difference in religion does not prevent two from loving each other. But it may make a marriage between those two so unsuitable as to be uncongenial and unhappy.

True, members of the most orthodox creeds sometimes break the tenets of their respective creeds by marrying each other. But in most cases both parties to the marriage were only lukewarm in their religious devoutness, hence felt few twinges of conscience. Such persons, while nominally of different religions, practically agree in not being of any particular church or creed. Such a marriage often proves very congenial.

So, after all, the problem of difference of religion is one that each couple, each individual must settle according to conscience and individual conviction. Neither you nor I can settle the matter once and for all, for the entire world, can we.

Love will find a way, runs the old proverb. But when a marriage is obviously unsuitable, because of wide divergence of intense religious convictions, even love may well hesitate and agree to the parting of the ways rather than risk a union destined to constant clashes and utter diversity of viewpoint.

As for you, my dear, I hope you will marry some one as broad-minded and sincere as yourself, and that both you and he will be so sweetly tolerant of differing opinions that quarrels will never arise on any subject—most especially on that subject so near and dear to the very purposes and motives of life—religion.

TWO OF SLIGHTLY DIFFERING CREED MAY MARRY HAPPILY

THINK TWICE IF YOUR RELI GION FORBIDS THE MARRIAGE

A Child's Speech Best Indication of Breeding

By L. Lamar Matthews

MARJORIE and her mother have just come back from the hills of North Carolina, where they spent a few weeks in the mother's girlhood home. They had looked forward to that visit for a long time, and they went with the intention of remaining all Summer in the little cottage where the mother spent Summers in her younger days. But they only stayed a month and then returned home.

L. LAMAR MATTHEWS

The reason why is that Marjorie was unhappy in that old-fashioned village. Not because it was old-fashioned, for she loved the quaint-looking houses, the rose-covered fences, the hills and the trees, the quietness of it all, and she loved the gentle folks who were her mother's friends. But the daughters of those gentle folk stopped playing with Marjorie and that made both her and her mother unhappy.

You see Marjorie has always gone to school in a big city where boys and girls are not so careful about their speech. They say "damn" and "hell" without giving it a thought, and they take the name of the Lord in vain upon the slightest provocation or in the course of the most ordinary conversation.

Marjorie not only heard these expressions at school and on the streets but she heard them at home. So naturally she fell into the habit of using them. And the first time she used one of them in the presence of those old-fashioned children down in the hills of North Carolina, they gave her a startled glance. The second time, they gave her a troubled glance, and the third time, they gave her the cold shoulder.

Some of them went home and said "Marjorie curses." Of course, that distressed their mothers and after that they were not allowed to play with her.

It was a long time before Marjorie's mother discovered the reason for her young daughter's loneliness. Then she blamed herself for the carelessness that had brought this slight upon her little girl.

It is really astounding to hear the language used by boys and girls in ordinary walks of life. To pass them on the street and hear profanity roll from their pretty mouths is a common occurence. This swearing isn't confined to street urchins, either. From their manner, their dress, their general appearance, it is quite evident that these profane young things come from the homes of "the average citizen."

Aside from the sin of it, the use of profanity stamps a child as low-bred and ill-trained. No matter who his parents are, he bears the insignia of the slums if his every-day vocabulary includes oaths.

If you have permitted your child to drift into the habit of swearing, what are you going to do about it?

New Recipes for Berries

By Hannah Wing

THE berry season is fleeting at best and it's a long time before it comes again. While it's here and the fruit is at its best is the time to make one's favorite berry dishes; not forgetting, of course, the shortcake or the pie.

Blueberry Tea Cake.

Five tablespoons shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 2-3 cup milk, 1¾ cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1½ cups blueberries.

Cream shortening; add sugar, beaten eggs and milk; sift flour and baking powder and add, mixing well. Stir in blueberries, which have been rolled in sugar and flour. Bake in shallow greased and floured pan in moderate oven at 375 degrees Fahrenheit about twenty-five minutes. Break in small pieces and serve hot with butter.

Makes one sheet cake 12 inches x 8 inches x 1 inch.

Blueberry Muffins.

Two cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 4 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 4 tablespoons shortening, 1 cup blueberries.

Wash and drain blueberries well; sprinkle with three tablespoons of the measured sugar and a little sifted flour. Sift together remaining dry ingredients; add eggs, milk, melted and cooled shortening to make a stiff batter. Mix in the blueberries. Half fill greased muffin tins and bake in moderate oven at 375 degrees Fahrenheit for thirty minutes. Bake in small, greased muffin rings for nice variety. Makes twenty-four small muffins.

Strawberry Puffs.

One cup boiling water, ¼ cup shortening, 1 cup flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Heat water and shortening in saucepan until it boils up well; add all at once flour sifted with salt, and stir vigorously. Remove from fire as soon as mixed; cool and mix in unbeaten eggs, one at a time; add baking powder; mix and drop by spoonfuls 1½ inches apart on greased tin; shape into circular form with wet spoon. Bake in hot oven at 450 degrees F., and after ten minutes reduce the heat to about 400 degrees F., baking twenty-five minutes or until puffs are light brown and thoroughly cooked. Cut with sharp knife near base to admit following filling.

Strawberry Pie.

For glazed crust, brush edges after baking with boiling hot syrup (two tablespoons sugar and one tablespoon water) and return to oven for one or two minutes until syrup hardens. Fill baked crust with fresh selected strawberries. Serve either hot or cold.

Bring to a boil one-half cup sugar, one-half cup strawberries and two cups boiling water; strain; add one tablespoon corn-starch which has been mixed with a little cold water. Cook over a hot fire a minute or two, stirring constantly; remove from fire and beat hard; return to slow fire and cook very gently until thick. Pour while hot over strawberries. Serve either hot or cold.

Fresh Strawberry Icing.

Crush ten strawberries with a little sugar and few drops lemon juice and let stand until juicy; mix in gradually three cups of confectioner's sugar. Spread between layers and on top of cake.

How to Rid the House of Flies

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

WIRE balloon fly-traps, carefully baited with sugar, jam or syrup, catch large numbers of flies, which can be killed by placing the trap in an oven or boiling water for a minute. A good bait is an equal mixture of milk curd, brown sugar and water that has been allowed to stand for twenty-four hours.

CHARLES A.L. REED, M.D.

The efficiency of most fly-traps depends on the fact that flies discover openings in a concave surface and miss them in a convex surface.

Giant fly-traps of wire-gauze or muslin with a similar entrance to that of a balloon trap are very successful, especially out of doors. They contain a small receptacle with formaldehyde solution, or arsenite, or soda syrup, to kill the flies. Arsenical poison is best placed in a covered tin with wicks protruding through its lid.

Fly sprays are: Crude kerosene, flash-point 125 degrees, and solution of formaldehyde, eight ounces to one gallon of water. A very effective solution is the mixture of one pint of A. to one gallon of B.—A is soft-soap, one pound; paraffin oil, eighteen pints, water, four and a half pints; B is formaldehyde, four ounces; water, one gallon.

The best way to fight flies is to fight them before they are born. This simply means that all conditions that favor their breeding must be abolished.

To protect the windows of buildings which have to be entered frequently is a mistake, when the rooms are permitted to become huge fly-traps. It is more effective to protect all food with muslin, or keep it in cupboards with gauze doors and to allow a free circulation of air in the room.

Latrine buckets should never be allowed to remain open when not in use, and should be coated with paraffin oil daily.

Manure heaps may be treated with a 5 per cent solution of borax crystals, by means of watering cans. The fresh manure should be thoroughly saturated. This measure is effective and does not impair the fertilizing properties of the manure.

Borax, sprinkled on garbage, refuse, damp floors and crevices and stables, etc., will prevent fly eggs from hatching, and in house refuse bins and heaps two ounces of borax will effectively prevent breeding.

The borax should be sifted around the outer edges of a pile of manure, for it is there that the fly maggots congregate. The manure should then be sprinkled immediately with two or three gallons of water to every eight bushels. A little of the borax should be sprinkled on the fresh manure as it is added daily to the pile.

Crude tar oil will protect manure from fly breeding if one gallon is used to every hundred square feet of surface. Close packing of manure to produce a rise in temperature over 114° F., which is easily obtained, will kill all maggots in it. The manure should be turned over every day for the first three days, to insure that all parts are subjected to heat. Manure heaps and the tracks leading to them can be sprayed with a 5 per cent solution of liquor cresoli saponatus fortis. Useful larvae traps can be made by filling tins with dry chaff, cutting slits in them and sinking them in the manure at selected spots.

All refuse in the house should be covered or immediately removed, and meat blocks and kitchen utensils should be kept clean and dry. All food should be kept screened, except when in use.

Tomorrow: Flashes of Light Before the Eyes.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Water spoils the flavor of most fruits, especially strawberries. Do not run water over these unless it seems very necessary. When they are firm and ripe you need only satisfy yourself that there are no crushed or over-ripe berries among them. Other fruits, too, should be wiped rather than washed if you wish to retain their full flavor.

Well-flavored cheese, finely shredded, makes an excellent addition to ordinary green salad. The cheese should just be dropped into the salad before it is served.

When starch has adhered to an iron rub on salt spread on a sheet of newspaper.

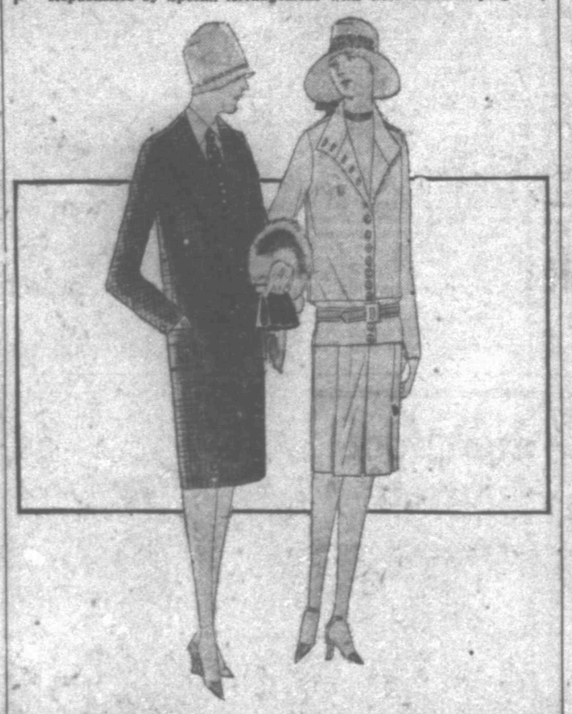

When making jellies in warm weather it is as well to use a little less than the specified quantity of hot water. The jelly will then set somewhat more quickly and firmly.

To clean and polish an ebony piano place a few drops of good olive oil on a piece of warm flannel and rub over gently with this. Finish with a clean soft chamois leather.

A grease mark on velveteen can be removed by dropping some turpentine on the spot and rubbing it quite dry with a piece of clean flannel. Brush well afterward.

Youthful Tailored Outfits

Republished by Special Arrangement with Good Housekeeping—

THE two costumes illustrated above are ideal for the young college or office girl. Surely no girl between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five could resist the smart tailored tweed suit with a wrap-around skirt and a coat lined in crepe de Chine.

The two-piece wool crepe dress has a lizard belt and a buttoned blouse. The skirt, which is on a bodice, is plaited in front. The frock would be most attractive in brown, navy or green.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

Totally illiterate people have been taught to read and write in ten lessons of two hours each by a French lady, whose new system has been taken up by the French Minister of War?

Among Britain's oldest families are twenty who have direct descent from before the Norman Conquest in 1066, while thirty-five families go back to ancestors who came over with William the Conqueror?

As things are going now in the employment world it is estimated that in 1932 there will be a serious shortage of boys, due to the lower birthrate in the war years, 1915 to 1919?

Correct MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

"Tackling" Olives.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: (1) When one is eating olives, is it proper to convey the olive to the dish with the fingers?

(2) When the olive is conveyed to the mouth from the plate with one's fingers or a fork and if with a fork—is it picked up with the prongs up or down? Also, how does one get rid of the olive pit, please?

A READER.

USUALLY on the olive dish is an olive fork or an olive spoon—a perforated spoon with the bowl a bit larger than an olive—and you use that to convey the olive from the serving-dish to one's own plate. If no serving-piece is provided, (although one always should be), use your fingers.

(2) You use your fingers when you convey the olive from your plate to your mouth. And you do not put the pit into your mouth. That is, you take the olive in your fingers, nibble it, still holding it in your fingers, and then, when you are finished, place the pit on the edge of your plate, or on the bread-and-butter-plate, if one is placed.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

WHAT is your part as the swift moments fly, gladly or sadly, oh, friend, do you go? Do you leave courage and hope flaming high, do you plant visions of rapture or woe? Little you think of the role that you play, careless, perhaps, of the people you meet, yet you are living your part day by day, making earth dreary or making it sweet. Yours and yours only the labor can be; not for another to hinder or aid, yours to enlighten man, make him more free, fit him for facing what comes, unafraid. Yours to bring happiness if you but choose, yours to plant seeds bearing cheer and delight; this is the power you only can use, making the way for your brothers more bright.

Folly's Daughter

A Thrilling New Mystery of New York Night Life

By Ann Lisle

Jill Meets Mrs. Kerby

"THE little hussy!" said Mrs. Sam Kerby, as she studied the last line of the letter that was worded to sound anonymous. "She writes as if she were somebody else tattling on her naughty self. But in the end she gives herself away. I wonder what she did that for. Can it be blackmail?"

ANN LISLE

Mrs Kerby screwed her eyes up tight and thought about that. She continued to think about it on the Bar Harbor express which hurried her to New York. When she got in she telephoned Folly's hotel and got Jill on the wire. The girl's even, well-bred and strangely ardent voice impressed her. And when Jill said that Mrs. Duane was at rehearsal, the angry woman couldn't resist asking:

"Is it one of Mr. Kerby's plays?"

"Yes," Jill said innocently: "The new one——"

"Tell her Mrs. Kerby called. Tell her I'm on my way down to Atlantic City to see if a Mrs. Dana is registered at the T—— Hotel. And then add that when I get back I'll have a little more typing for her to do."

"The woman's crazy," was Folly's verdict when Jill gave her the message. "Typing—what's that got to do with me? Next time she phones—if there is a next time—you see her, will you, Jilly-flower. I'd like to know why Mrs. Kerby is interested in me."

"Don't you know?"

"Silly, of course not. I'm in a man's production. I go about with him and his friends a bit. But that doesn't explain why a wife who had practically deserted him and spends all her time up at a shack in Maine should come snooping around and discuss me with you. Still, I'd like to know what she has to say."

"So should I." Jill answered gravely.

The girl's unhappiness was growing daily and hourly more bitter.

After her misadventure with the ugly beast into whose car she stepped that blistering Saturday evening when she felt that she was too lonely to endure her misery any longer, Jill had lost all taste for adventure. She had filled her days with sewing, roaming about the park and trying for positions during the mid-Summer slack period when even the best trained workers know that finding a new job is a heart-breaking thing. And because Jill was alone too much and had nothing to do but think she began to delve below surfaces and to figure things out for herself. She was beginning to understand Folly and to despise her. She was beginning to despise herself for her suspicions of Folly. The more she revolted against Folly the more she scorned herself for ingratitude and disloyalty.

Between her helpless desire to get away from Folly out of the air she breathed, out of the bed they shared—and her judgment of herself and her lack of appreciation of all Folly had done for her, Jill was almost sick.

And when Mrs. Samuel Hollister Kerby came to call of a Summer afternoon when Folly was off on one of her Friday to Monday week-ends she was astonished by the beauty and poise and young dignity of the girl who came to greet her in the shabby waiting-room of the hotel where she had gone to look for Folly Duane.

"Are you Mrs. Duane?" she asked almost breathlessly.

"I am Jill Hathaway," the girl answered quietly. "Mrs. Duane is my guardian."

"Not a young woman then?" asked the older woman with a sudden sense of relief that her rival wasn't this gorgeous young thing who so competely overshadowed her hard, semi-masculine good looks.

"Your age," Jill said carelessly.

"Don't be impertinent."

"I'm not. You asked me and I answered. Is there something else you want to ask me? Have you some message for Mrs. Duane?"

"Yes. Tell her to let my husband alone. I won't divorce him and name her if that's what she wants. I thought of that at first. But when I got to this shabby hotel and thought of the sort she must be to live here, I decided I'd be a great fool to drag my own name into the mud where I find hers."

"Why do you think Mrs. Duane is interested in your husband?" Jill found herself asking suddenly.

"Why should she be?"

"She told me so herself!"

"She never did. She doesn't know ou."

Jill's heart almost stopped beating. She felt desperately frightened and responsible for her weak little guardian. Jill had a sudden passionate sense that she had to pay her debt now, here at once. She had to protect Folly.

"She sent me a typewritten letter. Here it is. See for yourself," said Mrs. Kerby.

She held out the note. Jill read it. And now there was no longer any room for doubt. She knew the truth about Folly Duane.

Creager and the Ambassadorship

RENE B. CREAGER has been interviewed. He is one of the easiest men to interview in the political world. He speaks easily when the topics discussed are of the general nature. He is as silent as a clam when he is pushed up against the wall and asked something personal. Washington correspondents wired the story to their newspapers that Creager had been offered the Mexican ambassadorship; that he had been selected as the successor of Sheffield who resigned.

Now Sheffield resigned because he had grown weary of his job. He is for the protection of the American life and American property under the Aztec flag. He had gone to the mat many times with the Calles government. Secretary of State Kellogg had backed him to a finish. President Coolidge has the last word. He was for peace with honor. At least that is what his friends say.

Boss Creager modestly admitted that he had been tendered the ambassadorship three years ago and declined it. Then Sheffield was named and accepted. Creager had his reasons for turning it down. First it cost a lot of money to be a minister or ambassador. Second, Creager had large business interests on the Mexican as well as the Texas side of the line. Business is business. There are times when business and politics do not mix.

Creager refused to give up his business connections. He is a national committeeman of his party. He is the boss of his party in Texas. He has pledged the Texas delegates to Calvin Coolidge in 1928. He promises that the republicans will put a complete ticket in the field in Texas. Furthermore, if the democrats nominate Al Smith, Creager is telling his followers that the republicans will be able to put up a great and perhaps a winning fight in the solid south.

As for Mexico it is his candid opinion that conditions in that country are too chaotic at the present time to expect great things to be accomplished. He predicts Obregon will be elected to succeed Calles. He predicts conditions will continue to improve in Mexico. He predicts that it is going to take years, possibly generations, for Mexico to establish a secure political and economic status.

Boss Creager knows the political game. He knows the business game. He is bridging the Rio Grande river at Brownsville. He has many irons in the fire in Mexico. He is keeping his eye on Congressman Wurzbach. He knows that Wurzbach is a trouble maker. He would like to see the democrats name former State Senator F. C. Weinert or Senator A. J. Wirtz as their congressional standard bearer in the San Antonio district.

He did not say this in his latest confiab or conference with press reporters, but the mind readers of the district and the state know just how the Boss feels about it. He would prefer a democrat from the San Antonio district any time to a republican of the Wurzbach temperament.

Senator Weinert declined to accept the democratic nomination two years ago and Senator Wirtz has no ambition to make the race as the standard bearer of the democrats with Harry M. Wurzbach on the republican ticket. Wurzbach and his friends may make a fight for district delegates wherever they have strength in the state, but the Creager organization is functioning all the time. It has a well organized and well oiled state machine and has the backing of the federal office holders. Creager wouldn't accept the Mexican mission on a golden platter. It would take him away from Texas and it is in Texas that he shines as a political strategist and a political boss.

Cabbage a Dividend Maker

ACCORDING to the Orange Leader cabbage rail shipments out of Orange county for the first half of this year, including the first crop, will run around 80 cars of from 12 to 15 tons each, according to records available. The Leader says the cabbage crop sold as high as $55 per ton in car load shipments. On a basis of $50 a ton the total shipments are estimated at $50,000. And this does not include the large quantities consumed locally where prices realized were a great deal higher than the rail shipments.

Nor this figure does not include the amount of cabbage trucked to Beaumont, Port Arthur and other points where consumption was heavy. It is estimated that $75,000 came into the Orange section for cabbage alone during the first half of the year. As for the fig crop in Orange county, as well as fall crops of all kinds, the Leader predicts that they will be larger than ever before, and many carloads will be shipped out of the state of beans, okra and cucumbers.

Fig growers estimate a crop of 25,000 bushels, which will turn out an average of a case of canned fig preserves to the bushel, or a total of 25,000 cases of canned figs. In addition to this, the Leader says the farmers of the section are already preparing their land and looking ahead for seed for the biggest fall crop of cabbage and other products ever planted in the Orange section. All the farmers of Texas are not living up to the one-crop idea. Magic Valleys are springing up everywhere in Texas. There are winter gardens of fruits and vegetables to be found everywhere in Texas. They could not be found in Texas in the not remote past. Now the tillers of the soil are looking for dividend makers and the Orange Leader tells the story of how they are making dividends in Orange and adjacent counties.

More Cotton On Fewer Acres

A CORRESPONDENT in the Nueces river country writes that the estimated yield of cotton on 230,000 to 250,000 acres in Nueces county is one-fourth to one-third bale per acre. If he has the spirit of prophecy then the advocates of more cotton on fewer acres should send their evangelists to the Nueces river country to drag the cotton growers out of their trance. There is work for Professor John A. Todd, the noted English cotton economist, in the Robstown section of Texas.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

NEW YORK, July 26. (EFS)—One of the most ludicrous sights of the week in New York is the current number of the Capitol theater, a palazzio of the hopping pictures that cost I don't know how many millions of dollars, and which has for its patrons a hospital, rest room, shower baths, an art gallery, radios with earphones connections, a smoking room, a promenade, cushioned seats, ice-cooled ventilation, free ice water, and uniformed attendants who are obliged by the rules to say, "Yes, sir, thank you, sir" even if you call them the nastiest names you can think of.

In these splendid surroundings there is given a suite of four selections from "The Vagabond King." A tall, melancholy baritone, dressed in evening clothes sings Villon's part. A chubby little soprano in a pink dancing frock sings the role of Katherine.

The stage is set in silk hangings and gold pillars and is decorated with gilt, overstuffed furniture, as though the act had something to do with the opera "Tosca." At the right is a grand piano, played by a wan fellow in a tuxedo. The ensemble consists of four plump ladies of middle age in evening dresses, and four queer-looking little men in informal evening dress. The whole thing has the appearance of an amateur performance of some church endeavor society in some remote hamlet.

The songs, mind you, are those of the gallow's-bird poet, Villon, and his ribald crew of medieval cut-throats.

With Manhattan the tight little island that it is, infested with over 2,000,000 people who live on the island and over 6,000,000 who work there, visitors are often puzzled as to how the city disposes of its sewage and garbage. Of the sewage disposal it is best not to speak. The garbage is carried out 20 miles and dumped into the ocean. But the tides being what they are, much of this waste matter is brought back to shore. The beaches near New York are often swamped with grape-fruit rinds, potato peelings, banana skins and other things that are hastily thrown into covered pails.

I drove down to the Battery the other night with a young lady from out of town who wanted to see New York. It was about 8 o'clock and still very light. At that time of the evening lower Manhattan is somnolent and the cops pace their beats with boredom and indifference. I parked the car and pointed out the interesting sights of the harbor. Presently two urchins showed up within 20 feet of the car, one fully dressed and the other stark naked. The latter had apparently been swimming off the docks nearby.

The unclothed lad calmly extracted a bundle of clothing from under a bush and proceeded to dress himself, much to the young lady's embarrassment, and my own. It would have been an excess of modesty for me to start the car and drive off, so while the young lady pretended not to notice the youngsters, I observed them out of the corner of my eye.

The undressed lad seemed to have some trouble disentangling the bundle. He pulled it one way and then another, now and again looking up and grinning as though it were a good joke on both him and me. Finally he extracted a suit of underwear that was about the filthiest-looking garment I ever saw. He put it on and the smaller chap at his side held his other clothes and handed them to him like a valet. The latter assisted him to dress and even tied up his shoes

Sally's Shoulders

"Say, you couldn't slip me a fiver, could you?"

READ THIS FIRST:

SALLY JEROME, 20 and clever and pretty, is the prop and mainstay of her family, in the absence of her father who has been separated from her mother for nine years.

The family consists of MRS. JEROME; the twins, BEAU and MILLIE; and Sally, herself. Mrs. Jerome is a semi-invalid, so Sally does the housework mornings and works for MR. PEEVEY downtown afternoons.

In the flat below the Jerome flat lives young TED SLOAN, who's in love with Sally. Mrs. Jerome is dreadfully afraid that Sally will marry him and leave her, but Sally has nothing but friendship for Ted. The only man she's interested in is JOHN NYE, who's office is across the hall from Mr. Peevey's in the Nye-Naylor building.

On a Monday in August Millie drops into Sally's office with the news that she's had to quit her job because her employer tried to make love to her. This is always Millie's excuse when she gives up a position, but Beau's girl, MABEL WILMOT, says the real reason is that Millie won't stay in an office unless there's somebody there with whom she's in love.

Millie catches a glimpse of John Nye and "falls for him" on the spot. Late that afternoon Nye meets Sally in the hall of the building and asks her if she happens to know of a stenographer to take the place of his own, who has just got married. Sally tells him about Millie, but when Millie goes down to see him the next day he has just been called out of town because of the illness of his mother at a neighboring summer resort. Millie decides to rest until he returns and then apply for the job.

That night Mabel Wilmot gives a party at the Jerome flat. Sally provides the refreshments, thinking, of course, that Mabel will pay for them. But when Mabel leaves at midnight she airily remarks that Beau will pay for them. But Sally knows that Beau never pays for anything, and she's frantic.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII.

It was Sally's habit to get up at six o'clock every morning of the year, winter and summer. It gave her a full hour to herself before it was time to put the coffee on to boil and to cut the bread for breakfast.

That hour was the pleasant time of the whole day for her. She took a leisurely bath, did her "upsetting" exercises, manicured her nails, brushed her hair until it shone like blue-black satin, and set her room to rights.

It belonged to her—that hushed hour before the rest of the family was up and stirring. Before the day with its endless jobs for Mrs. Jerome and the twins, for Mr. Peevey, engulfed her.

But on the morning after Mabel's party Sally woke up long before six o'clock. The dawn was still pearly-white outside the windows and a cool breeze shook the ruffled curtains of the room.

She woke with the memory of a dream still hazy in her mind—a dream about John Nye.

"Now, why under the sun should I be dreaming about him?" Sally asked herself as the dream came back to her, bit by bit, like the parts of a puzzle-picture.

She had dreamt that she was in a restaurant, all alone at a little table. Next to her were two other people, a man and a woman. In her dream she had turned her head stealthily to see who they were, and had seen John Nye and Millie, holding hands across the little table where they sat. As she watched them they had leaned toward each other, and John Nye had kissed Millie squarely on the mouth.

After that point, Sally could remember nothing more of the dream. But there was a very real feeling of jealousy in her heart as she lay there in the dawn-coolness, thinking about it.

It seemed to her that she still could see John Nye's dark, good-looking face as he had leaned towards Millie in the dream. And it came to her, in a blinding flash, that the reason she was jealous was because she was in love with John Nye.—It had taken the dream to show her the truth that she had been hiding from herself for two days; that she had fallen in love with him suddenly, blindly and foolishly—the way a woman falls in love just once in her life, no matter how many little love affairs she may have before and after that once.

Dreams are queer and mysterious things. We try to explain them in all sorts of ways. The dream-books that can be bought in drug stores and five and ten cent stores try to explain them and tell us what they mean. The learned doctors of Vienna and Paris and London and New York try to explain them, too. But nobody knows what they really are, or why we have them. Nobody.

Be that as it may, Sally's dream about John Nye had settled one question for her for all time. She knew she was in love with him.

While she lay there in her bed with her thoughts far away, she became aware of noises in the house—the sound of a door opening and of softly-shod feet walking around the rooms.

Presently Beau's voice came from the bathroom:

"Say, Sally, where in Tophet is the baking soda?—I'm sick as a hound-dog and I want some."

"S-s-sh" hissed Sally, tumbling out of bed and into her kimono. "It's in the kitchen cupboard, of course."

She got it, and mixed him a strong dose of it. His face was pale gray, and his eyes had puffs beneath them.

He shuddered as he emptied the glass. "I sure am at low-pressure this a. m.,' he groaned, with one hand pressed to his stomach.

"I hate to say 'I told you so,' but you know you can't drink, Beau." Sally said to him with her motherly little air, "And if you must put gin in the punch at those parties why dont you have them on Saturday nights instead of in the middle of the week. Now, you'll never be able to go to work today."

"Sure I will. I'll go if it kills me," answered Beau, and shuffled back to bed.

True to his word, he went to work that morning.

He appeared at the door of Sallys room at seven, fully dressed and looking the picture of misery.

"What on earth are you doing up at this time?" Sally gasped when she saw him. Usually Beau had to be literally dragged from his bed in the morning.

"I'm going to walk part of the way to the bank," he moaned, "I thought the fresh air and the exercise might se me up—I sure am sick."

He stood there, gazing intently at her for a minute more. Then he asked a question: "Say, Sal, you couldn't slip me a fiver, could you? I'm flat busted."

Sally's blue eyes widened. "Why, it's only Wednesday morning Bau" she exclaimed, "And you got your pay on Saturday. Surely it isnt all gone.'

He nodded his blond head. "Yes it is," he said, and made no explanation. Beau paid the gas bill or the light bill every two or three months and considered that he had done his duty by his family. He paid no board at all.

"Why, what have you done with it?" Sally was beginning, and then all at once it came to her that he had spent it all on liquor for Mabel's party.

She shook her head. "I'm sorry, Beau," she told him, "But I was just going to ask you for some money. You see, I went ahead and bought all the food for Mabel's party, think ing that she would pay me the money I spent. I asked her about it last night, and she said you would give it to me—"

"She did!" Beau broke in. "Well she didn't have any right to say a thing like that! It was her party—I got the liquor and the smokes, didn't I? The least she could do was to pay for the eats. She makes almost as much as I do—Well, I'll see that you get your money."

But Sally knew that he never would see to it. She knew him and loved him in spite of her knowledge of him and his weakness. He was her only brother, after all.

"If I had five dollars, I'd give it to you," she said, "You know I would, don't you, Beau? But I haven't got it—I paid the rent on Saturday, and I was three weeks late with it, at that. Here!

She opened a little brown silk purse that hung beside her toilet mirror, and handed him a limp dollar bill from it.

"That's all I can let you have," she finished unhappily.

Beau took it and went.

"What were you two gassing about?" Millie asked sleepily, turning and stretching luxuriously in her bed on the far side of the room. Her blue eyes were wide and dewy as a child's under the tousled mass of yellow hair.

Sally did not answer her. She was thinking about the dream again—the dream about Millie and John Nye. And, for one fleeting second, she almost hated Millie as she looked at her lying there. Then she was herself again.

"Thank heaven I don't have to get up this morning!' Millie sighed, clasping her soft little hands behind her head. "That Nye man can stay away for a month as far as I'm concerned—I hate the thought of a job in this kind of weather."

Here was a new problem.

For with Millie not working, and Beau spending practically every nickel he earned on the demanding and jazzy Mabel, the whole load of keeping the house going fell on Sally.

Her face was thoughtful as she went out to the cool dim kitchen and measured coffee into the white-enamel pot. She didn't put in as much as usual this morning . . . Coffee, the only brand the family would drink, cost 45 cents a pound.

"I'll have to go out to Aunt Emily's tonight, and see if I can borrow a little money from her," she decided as she began to cut paper-thin slices of bread from the one loaf that remained in the tin box on the table.

There had been two loaves there when Sally had gone to bed the night before. But evidently Mabel had made a few extra sandwiches for her party . . . All the butter had been used too. The empty crock was in the sink, full of water.

"Gee whiz!" Sally said aloud, but she could have cried, "Well, we'll have to have extra oranges this morning. That's all."

She opened the door of the little fruit closet under the sink. The large brown-paper bag that had held a dozen oranages the night before was empty, too. Mabel must have made some extra punch for the gin drinkers.

"Ye gods!" cried Sally under her breath. "Ye gods!' 'was the phrase that she used when she was in the state of mind where a man would have sworn under his breath.

She made hot-cakes for breakfast, that morning and it was a hot job!

MODISH MITZI — Mitzi Spurns the Wilderness — By JAY V. JAY

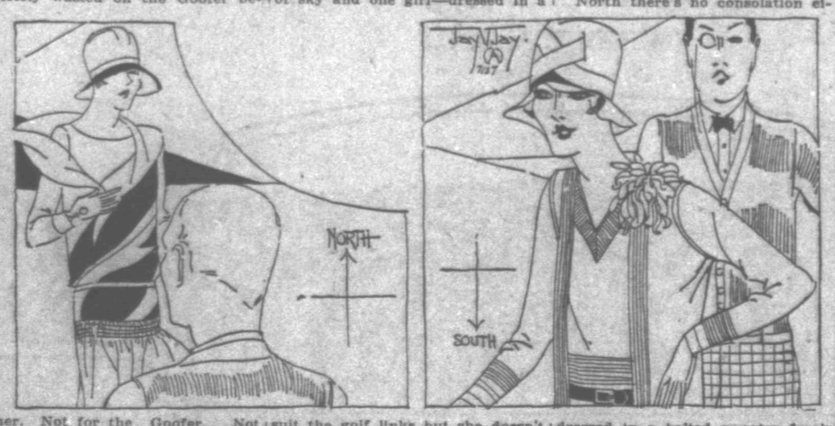

The Goofer looks east but the view is not inspiring. Anyone else would enjoy the golfing costume of royal blue with its plain jacket and plaid culotte skirt. It's completely wasted on the Goofer because the costume doesn't enclose Mitzi. Notice the cloche with the crinkled brim.

The view to the west is equally uninteresting. It includes a lot of sky and one girl—dressed in a white crepe skirt, a yellow bouclette sweater and and a white felt hat. The Goofer has uncharitable feelings towards her—she doesn't look as though she might be Mitzi.

North there's no consolation either. Not for the Goofer. Not though the lady wears a joyfully moderistic frock of white linen printed in vivid colors. Not though her hat is white with a colored brim to match her frock. She may suit the golf links but she doesn't suit the Goofer.

And Mitzi is only passing by. She's only crosing the golf course because it's the quickest way to get to her appointment. Mitzi is dressed in a belted sweater frock with a cardigan jacket—sleeveless—and she is so mysteriously busy that the Goofer isn't even allowed to tag along.

CHILDREN'S SUMMER COMPLAINTS

Children are especially susceptible to intestinal disorders during the summertime. The most serious cases usually occur about the second year; hence the dread of the "second summer." Mothers of large families are always afraid of their children developing summer diarrhea, and the cause is usually thought to be from cow's milk. This may have been true a few years ago, before pasteurization was universally practiced or before the advent of certified milk.

I am sure the main cause of diarrhea with babies is because mothers do not understand how to start combining regular foods with milk. Children after two years of age can get along without milk if the proper food substitutes are used, but in case it seems advisable to use some milk it is well to know that milk is such a nourishing food that it cannot be used with many other foods of high caloric value. Babies who have been weaned away from the breast or the nursing bottle should use milk as a meal by itself or in combination with some kind of fruit, or with one or more of the non-starchy vegetables. No bread, starches, or meat should be used with milk by either the child or adult. Improper combinations of milk, meat and potatoes may start a diarrhea that will turn into dysentery and perhaps prove fatal.

There is no question but what the use of fruit plays an important part in the summer disorders of children. This is because unripe fruit is used, or such fruits as peaches, apricots, plums, etc., are used with bread and butter, or between meals when the stomach is full of starchy foods. These fruits are a combination of water, acid, sugar and starch, with a small amount of protein and organic salts. If taken by themselves, and the fruit is ripe, there is no reason why the child's stomach and intestines should not digest any one kind of fruit at a time, but if peaches are taken with plums, trouble is bound to result from the mixture of the different kinds of acids found in these two fruits.

Cherries are a wholesome fruit, and will agree with children in the summertime if used by themselves or in combination with only good milk. The danger lies in using bread or cookies at the same time, and this makes a very dangerous combintion.

Teach your children to be careful in the use of fruit, but show them how they can safely use plenty of it by avoiding bad mixtures.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QQUESTION: G. R. asks: "With the diet that you recommend could I drink water from roasted barley that I used as a substitute for coffee."

ANSWER: The only drink I recommend with meals is plain water, but the water from roasted barley would be quite harmless if you do not use sugar and cream in it.

QUESTION: Mrs. Farmer asks: "Could a dead tooth cause neuritis or rheumatism if the tooth shows no pus-bag in the X-ray picture?"

ANSWER: It is possible to develop neuritis or rheumatism from abscessed teeth. X-ray cannot be depended upon as a positive diagnosis of pus pockets at the roots of the teeth. X-rays are a very valuable aid to diagnosis, however, and I advise patients to have their teeth X-rayed about every six months.

QUESTION: Anxious writes: "I have been going by your instructions for nearly a month and have been successful in reducing my weight 15 pounds. I do not know my normal weight and wish you would let me know through the columns. I am 25 years old, and my height is 5 feet, 8 1-4 inches."

ANSWER: A proper estimate of normal weight must depend not alone on the age and height, but upon temperament and type. You do not say whether you are a man or a woman, but your writing has a feminine look, and I would say your weight should not be under 120 or over 140 pounds. That is the best guess I can make without knowing more about you. Send me a snapshot of yourself in a bathing suit, and perhaps I can make a better guess of what your normal weight should be.

Editor of Newspaper Feature Firm Shot

BALTIMORE, July 26. (AP)—Howard E. Miller, 49 years old, president and treasurer of the International Syndicate, a newspaper feature service with offices here, was found fatally shot in his home last night with indications pointing to suicide. He died before a doctor could reach him.

Mr. Miller had been in ill health, members of his family told police.

Arkansas Minister Faces Assault Charge

LONOKE, Ark., July 26.(AP)—Rev T. H. Owens, Pentecostal minister of Lonoke, today faced a charge of whipping his 16-year-old daughter, Joyce, who was married last Friday.

The Rev. Owens, according to the girl, declared that she had "back slidden" and he ordered her to petition God to save her. She refused and he then took her, she said, into the woods and whipped her with a razor strap. The girl had stripes on her arms and legs when she came to the prosecuting attorney yesterday and reported the beating.

A preliminary hearing will be given Rev. Owens Tuesday.

Damaging Evidence Given By Papers Found In Klan Dragon's Black Box

By Universal Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 26—Prosecutor William H. Remy and his aids, John W. Holtzman and Emsley W. Johnson, today began a close scrutiny of a mass of documentary evidence obtained from L. G. Jullan, former partner of D. C. Stephenson, which is said to contain incriminating evidence.

Arising from a sick bed to which he has been confined for more than a week Remy plunged into the contents of the "black boxes" which have been sought for more than eight months.

"I do not as yet know what we will be able to do with the material placed at our disposal," Remy said, "but I am certain that it will strengthen cases we now have filed and will probably help us make new ones."

Attorney James P. Noel today refused to confirm or deny a copyright story printed here which stated that D. C. Stephenson had offered former Governor Warren T. McCray through him, $10,000 and promise that he would not be convicted. The offer was hinged on McCray's appointing James McDonald as prosecuting attorney instead of William H. Remy. Over the long distance telephone Warden John W. Snook of the federal prison at Atlanta refused to permit McCray to be interviewed but declared that McCray had been seen at the prison late last week regarding the story. Snook said that McCray had refused to confirm or deny the story at that time.

The Marion county grand jury will be instructed to investigate all phases of alleged political fraud and corruption tomorrow. Judge James A. Collins made this announcement to the grand jury when it made its first partial report today. He announced that he would have special instructions as to the probe prepared for Tuesday.

Livermore. He will be sentenced Thursday and under the Baumes law life imprisonment is compulsory.

IT WAS A MORAL VICTORY, ANYWAY. HERB COBB GOT ANOTHER BASE HIT.

* * *

Unusual in sports: That Dallas half of the tenth frame. Spudder throwers were strong enough to retire the Steers on three strike-outs, but they sandwiched in between with a pair of runs to tie the count. Cobb whiffed Billings and then Conley. Estell relieved and fanned the redoubtable Hack Miller.

* * *

You might score another moral win, this time seriously. Frank Tobin appears to be getting back to his stride. The burly backstop blammed three hits on the nose yesterday.

* * *

The biggest bust about that Sharkey-Dempsey matter is they didn't rebearse the judges. They disagreed with each other and the referee on every round. They scored like some of our most eminent grandstand managers do.

* * *

It's been a tough year for the second guessers in this little old burg, hasn't it? But listen to them sing next summer if we don't repeat!

* * *

THERE'S PSYCHOLOGY THERE.

Other Texas league teams might follow the Spudder lead and quit trying to win the rag in the hot stove loop. If you'll allow the repitition, 1927 goes down in Texas league annals as the first year in which Wichita Falls did not tell itself it already had copped the flag a full four weeks or more before the season opened.

* * *

Certainly took a heavy bit of experting, didn't it, for those experts yesterday to concede the Yanks the American flag as she stands.

* * *

Fort Worth will bear watching again next summer. Paul LaGrave is building up right along. Somewhere, Atz and company appear on the verge of hitting the happy combination that wins.

CATS BUY INFIELDER

FORT WORTH, July 26. (AP)—F. Lewis, infielder, has been obtained by the Fort Worth baseball club from Minneapolis of the American association, it was announced today by Paul LaGrave business manager of the Panthers. The return of Jimmy McAuley, shortstop to the Millers also was announced.

Lewis has been with the St. Paul club of the American association this season but he was the property of Minneapolis.

Sharkey Not Much Worse For Wear

NEWTON, Mass., July 26. (AP)—Although Jack Sharkey has suffered from internal bleeding since his battle with Jack Dempsey in New York, Dr. Martin S. Spellman said today he had felt so well that he has declined to follow his physician's suggesting of a period of hospital observation.

Under the simple prescription of rest the condition has much improved since it was first noticed last Saturday, although a slight trace was still found today. While Dr. Spellman still believes a few days in a hospital would be the wiser course, Jack is planning to leave for a camp in New Hampshire before the end of the week.

SPUDDERS SLIP DOWN IN FIRST

Dallas Cops 12-Inning Go By 5-4 Score

DALLAS, July 26. (AP)—Turkey Gross' Dallas Steers fought a great battle and came from behind twice this afternoon in extra innings to trim the league-leading Wichita Falls Spudders in 12 innings, 5 to 4.

Herbert Cobb, young righthander, and Dick Shuman, lefthander, staged a brilliant pitching duel for nine innings. The score was tied at 1-1 when the teams went into the tenth. Both clubs scored two runs in the tenth. Then each scored a run in the eleventh but the Spudders failed to come up with a tally in the twelfth whereas Dallas scored one.

Dallas broke the ice with a run in the third inning off Cobb. Shuman opened with a base on balls and was forced at second by Mulvey who attempted to sacrifice. Bauman followed with a single by first base and Mulvey went to third. Bagwell forced Bauman at second and Mulvey scored. Miller struck out.

Tied in Seventh.

Wichita Falls tied the score in the seventh. Benton started the inning with a walk. Swenson bunted to the box, a sacrifice advancing Benton to second. Tobin singled to center and Benton scored. Cobb forced Tobin at second and LaFayette forced Cobb.

Jenkins probably saved a score in the ninth when he caught Bauman's lead-off line drive to left on the run and turned a complete flip, but retained the ball.

Cobb opened the tenth with a single to right. LaFayette bunted and was safe at first base when Shuman threw poorly to the bag. Cobb went to second. Turgeon bunted and Tate threw late to second trying to force LaFayetee. The bases were filled and nobody out. Griffin flied out to center and Cobb scored after the catch. Lamb flied out to left. Jenkins followed with a single to center, scoring LaFayette and sending Turgeon to third base. Jenkins was thrown out trying to steal second.

Slim Love went to the plate for Gross at the start of the Dallas' half of the tenth. Love drew a base on balls. Ruel Love ran for Slim. Billings struck out. Conley batted for Shuman and struck out. Mulvey singled past short, sending Love to second. Cobb hurled a wild pitch and the runners advanced a base. Bauman walked, filling the bases. Bagwell singled to right, scoring Love and Mulvey. Estell went to the box for Wichita Falls and struck out Miller. The score was tied at 3 and 3.

LaFayette Doubles.

Owens went to the hill for Dallas at the beginning of the 11th. Benton flied out to left and Swenson grounded out to third. Tobin followed with a single to right. Estell singled by third base, sending Tobin to second. LaFayette doubled to left, scoring Tobin and sending Estell to third. Turgeon popped out to short.

Riley and Tate grounded out in the Dallas half of the 11th and then Morse beat out an infield hit. Billings singled down the third base line, Morse going to second. Berry batted for Owens and singled by third, Morse scoring. Mulvey forced Berry at second.

McColl pitched the 12th inning for Dallas and stopped the Spudders in order. Singles by Bauman and Morse along with bases on balls to Miller and Tate scored the winning Dallas run. The bases were full and there were two out when Morse singled for the winning run.

The Panhandle Longhorns stretched their lead over the rest of the contenders Tuesday afternoon to one full game when they handed the Jackson Tire team a 10 to 2 drubbing. Skipper Bill Hohen experimented with his pitching strength with Connally working the first three innings, Jimmy Parker the next three and Joe Randolph the seventh round.

McMahon, Roberts and Hinds led the attack with two hits while Thorn poled out a pair of hits for the Tiremen. The game was very loosely played on both sides and lagged along.

Skipper Willie Lawson of the Tiremen was parked in the fourth when he protested long and loud over a balk called on Pitcher Al Pince which allowed Maddox to score from third base and sent Riley Rawls to third.

Al Prince started off wild, but after gaining control he was little better off for he was bumped hard in the clinches. Nine of the Panhandle hits being bunched on him in the third, fourth and fifth innings.

Jimmy Parker, while on the hill with the Panhandle Refinery looked like the Jimmy of old with his curve ball breaking well. He had a little trouble working off the hill at Katy park, but after settling down he went about his work with deadly intent. He fanned four men in three innings and issued three passes. Joe Randolph fanned two of the three men that faced him in the seventh inning.

Speck Roberts, outstanding base thief in the loop, broke loose in the game and stole three more sacks.

The feature catch of the game was pulled in the first inning when Dun Melear raced far over into the foul territory past right field and snared Shorty Ross' long foul.

The hit and run combination of the Panhandle nine composed of McMahon and Roberts proved to be very effective. McMahon scored from first base on a poke past first by Roberts. The play worked perfectly twice.

TEX WOULD TAX RADIO

NEW YORK, July 26. (AP)—Tex Rickard is quoted in the Evening World today as saying that radio is driving away the purchasers of the cheaper seats at boxing shows and that if fights are to show a fair profit radio fans will have to submit to some sort of voluntary tax.

"Fifty million persons, it is estimated, got a word picture of the Dempsey-Sharkey fight," he said, "just as quickly as those seated in Yankee stadium and got something for nothing that the onlookers had to pay well for.

Nick Altrock's Work Harder Than That Of A Ball Player

By ROY GROVE.

Nick Altrock, veteran pitcher of the Washington baseball club, is perhaps, the only ball player in the world paid to make a fool of himself. And this Nick does with perfect good grace and remarkable facility. He is a comedian, known from coast to coast in baseball circles for his clowning ability. As a foil for his acts he has a fellow comedian in his teammate, Al Schacht.

Altrock and Schacht, as the couple is known wherever the Washington team plays, put on "stunts" inclined to make the gods weep—"stunts" that play no inconsiderable part at times in bringing out the fans.

But despite the fact that their role is that of funsters it is no fun, according to Altrock—or "Uncle Nick" as he is affectionately known, to get up an act. This entails hard work—about as hard as a baseball player encounters in pre-season training. The act has to be clever as a good stage vaudeville stunt—short and snappy with enough body to make it stand up. And it must be worked up to perfect delivery. Else it would crack and the career of the two clowns go glimmering down the bush path.

* * *

"Uncle Nick" has been in the clowning game for the past 15 years—a regular business with him ever since his left arm lost its cunning to fool the batter at the plate. Previous to his hook-up with Schacht he was paired at different times with "Germany" Schaffer and Carl Sawyer.

No small amount of his success at "making 'em laugh" has been due to lucky breaks, says Altrock, although he is a born comedian. Take the St. Petersburg fans, for instance. No fan in St. Petersburg could be persuaded that Altrock is not a great horseshoe pitcher—one of the greatest in the country. And if there is one thing that the fans of St. Petersburg know it's a good horseshoe pitcher when they see one, for the city is the center of the horseshoe pitching industry of the world. But the story of Altrock—here it is: Before an exhibition game with the Boston Braves some four years ago the champion horseshoe tosser of America "strutted his stuff," so to speak. It was a great show, the tosser calling his points before the shoes left his hand—and making them. When the end came and the audience sat spell-bound and awestruck at the marvelousness of the pitching they had seen, Altrock stepped upon the field and challenged all comers. To give them an idea as to what they might expect from him in case they accepted the challenge, he tossed a horseshoe in the general direction of the peg in front of him. To his surprise it was a "ringer." Altrock immediately gaged the psychology of the lucky stroke upon the crowd. He retired to the bench while the crowd mystified, looked on. And to this day he is looked upon by the fans there as a great horseshoe flinger, while to tell the truth he never pitched a game of horseshoes in his life.

* * *

In Richmond, Ind., Altrock is looked upon as a wizard of the basketball basket. It came as the result of a "break." He was telling a bunch of fans there how easy it was to play the game and to demonstrate it, reached for the ball and made a free toss from the center of the floor to one of the hoops. The ball fell through without even touching the metal. Again he stopped the exhibition and the laurel remains on his brow to this day.

These two incidents are the luckiest in his years of pranks, others but these two stand out in bold relief like mountains on a plain.

At St. Augustine three years ago while playing first base, he snared a liner with his gloved hand while sitting on the sack. At Battle Creek, Mich., two years ago he announced that he would single to right field. He did so. At Massillon, Ohio, last season, he lay down between first and second, fielded a slow roller from this position and made an out with the pitcher covering the base.

An amusing instance of his clown luck turned up in Washington this season where sauntering along the sidelines close to the negro bleachers he announced, "Here is how I get my meat," and hurled a small stone at a bunch of sparrows in the offing. One fell and the colored congregation opened its eyes. A lady sitting by her husband in a box on this occasion said, "Look at that big brute killing those harmless little sparrows," impressed, evidently, by Altrock's ability to hit birds on the wing.

In Tampa, however, last spring, one of his favorite stogies, "towacco," as he calls them in imitation of the Latins there, exploded on him. He has a practice of going through the crowd collecting them and this one—well this one he lighted at a banquet in honor of the Nats the last night there. But Nick was not surprised—at least not until he got with some friends after the banquet was over.

Presidents, cabinet officers, senators, congressmen and foreigners high in the service of their country have all bowed down and laughed at "Uncle Nick" and his pal, Al Schacht. They are better than the ball game—sometimes.

FORT WORTH, July 26.(AP)—The Fort Worth Panthers hit a couple of Sport hurlers in the pinches to take an 8-4 victory from Shreveport Tuesday. Denny Burns held the enemy pretty well, specializing in strike-outs in the pinches. Joe Bonowitz, Cat left fielder, and Manager Phelan of Shreveport enlivened the contest with a fist encounter at the start of the 6th inning and both were chased. Score:

DOEG WINS PAIR

NEW YORK, July 26.(AP)—Starting play in the metropolitan turf court tennis championship only 24 hours after he won the Brookline invitation tournament, John Doeg, 18-year-old Santa Monica, Calif., star, won his first and second round matches in a campaign for another title.

Doeg found some difficulty in downing his first opponent, Derry Grant of Atlanta, Ga., 6-4, 2-6, 7-5, but he swept through E. E. Jenkins Jr., of Forest Hills, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3. Tomorrow he meets Bryan Grant, also of Atlanta.

Francis T. Hunter, partner of W. T. Tilden as Wimbleton, eliminated Jerry Lang of New York, 7-5, 6-3.

After an erratic start the Davis cup veteran, Watson Washburn, won his third round match from F. Onda of Japan, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3.

SPORTING NEWS — THE RECORD NEWS — FIRST ACCURATE COMPLETE

Did You Know That—

By BLONDY CROSS

THAT'S NICE.

Dallas won the pennant in 1926 with a final standing of .574. Your Spudder percentage this morning after losing that road opener yesterday is .650.

The Spudders last year poked 139 home runs all told. With the 1927 race almost two-thirds gone the have driven hardly half that many homers, 58 to be exact. They've hit the ball hard but kept it in the park. Cuts down expenses.

DON'T THEY?

They say they don't repeat two years in succession, these Texas league leading hitters. Tom Jenkins of Wichita Falls topped the loop last season with a .374 mark. He will have to work fast if he overtakes the Waco trio of Moore, Pratt and Edington. It's possible albeit not probable.

For the time he will have been in the league, front July 12 on, Pug Griffin may show the way. The Spud center fielder is pounding the pill over the .400 mark.

Dode Criss is the only man who ever has lead the loop twice. He was out front in front in 1906 with Cleburne and again in 1915 with Houston.

Leading hitters of the Texas league from 1903 through 1926 follow:

1903—Curtis, Dallas	.347
1903—H. Clark, Dallas	.347
1904—Longley, Corsicana	.372
1905—Cavender, Fort Worth	.330
1906—Criss, Cleburne	.390
1907—McIver, Temple	.323
1908—Edmondson, Galveston	.391
1909—Downey, Oklahoma City	.346
1910—Gewdy, Dallas	.312
1911—Yohe, Oklahoma City	.338
1912—Metz, San Antonio	.323
1913—Willis, Beaumont	.323
1914—Clements, Waco	.327
1915—Criss, Houston	.338
1916—Bittle, Waco	.333
1917—Sharman, Galv'n, Ft. Worth	.341
1918—Nokes, Dallas	.312
1919—Nixon, Beaumont	.362
1920—Josefson, Wichita Falls	.345
1921—Kraft, Fort Worth	.362
1922—Summa, Wichita Falls	.362
1923—Boone, San Antonio	.402
1924—Weis, Wichita Falls	.377
1925—D. Clark, San Antonio	.393
1926—Tom Jenkins, Wichita Falls	.374

Since joining the league, Wichita Falls has produced the leading hitter every other year. Maybe the Spudders have that alternating habit and this season just naturally isn't our turn to come up with the top bludgeoner.

Helen and Molla Continue To Win

MANCHESTER, Mass., July 26. (AP)—Miss Helen Wills, the new British women's singles tennis champion, and Mrs. Molla Mallory, American titleholder, continued today to dominate play in the Essex Country club's third annual invitation tournament as play moved forward.

Miss Wills polished off two opponents with the loss of but eight games, the losers being 14-year-old Sarah Palfrey, Massachusetts girl's champion, and Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va., eighth ranking woman star on the United States list, who last week defeated Miss Helen Jacobs at Maidstone.

Mrs. Mallory continued to mow down the opposition with machine-like efficiency, defeating Polly Pelfrey, second member of the famous tennis family, by scores of 6-0, 6-0. The American titleholder has yet to lose a game in the singles tournament here.

GOTHAM AFTER TUNNEY MATCH

Farley Expects Heavy Title Bout in New York

NEW YORK, July 26. (AP)—The New York state athletic commission "expects" the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight title bout to be fought in New York in September, in spite of generally accepted reports that it will go to Chicago, James A. Farley, chairman of the boxing board, declared today.

Farley refused to amplify his statement or give any reason for his belief that the way will be cleared for holding the next heavyweight title bout here in spite of the fact that New York has no arena to compare in seating capacity with those available in Philadelphia as well as Chicago.

The general impression is that any move to bring the fight here would be based on lifting the ticket price barriers. The present "top" price is $27.50 but Tex Rickard figures to charge $40 or $50 for the Dempsey-Tunney fight whereever it is held.

Tex Not Certain.

Rickard said that although he had made no definite decision as yet, it began to look as though the Dempsey - Tunney championship fight would have to be out of New York because of the financial situation.

"I would like to bring the match to New York for various reasons," he said, "and while I have tried to scheme how it can be brought about, it begins to look as though the conditions will make such a move impossible.

"It has come to pass where it is impossible to stage a heavyweight contest at an expenditure of less than slightly over $1,000,000. Even with a $50 top I could not go better than $1,250,000 so that the return even under the most favorable conditions would not promise a profit that would make such a heavy investment advisable."

The promoter said that he hoped to see one of the major league stadiums improved as a fight arena. If this proves impossible he hoped that ball fields would be banned for fights and a great stadium specifically constructed for boxing might be built by the Madison Square Garden corporation.

"Where you have to carry your ringside seats more than 35 or 40 rows back on the flat you can not give patrons a fair return for their money."

Rickard said that he had not yet given up hope of acquiring the Polo Grounds.

Judges Disagree.

The two judges of the Dempsey-Sharkey fight disagreed as radically as any groups of fight fans or critics over the disputed seventh round events of last Thursday's battle, their reports to the commission disclosed Tuesday.

Charley F. Mathison, one of the judges, declared he saw "three foul blows" struck by Dempsey and that in his belief these weakened Sharkey to such an extent that the Boston sailor was easy prey for Dempsey's left to the jaw. Tom Flynn, the other judge, reported he saw only two "low" blows struck and that in his opinion neither did much damage nor gave ground for disqualifying Dempsey.

The judges also differed sharply with the referee, Jack O'Sullivan, in scoring the fight by rounds. The judges themselves did not agree on a single round, while in only a single round did one of them agree with O'Sullivan's scoring. Here's how the three officials tallied the six rounds of the fighting preceding the knockout:

O'Sullivan: Even, even, Dempsey, Dempsey, Sharkey, even.

Mathison: Sharkey, Dempsey, Dempsey, even, Sharkey, Dempsey.

Flynn: Even, Sharkey, Sharkey, Sharkey, Dempsey, Sharkey.

If a Name Means Anything—

HOLLIS, Okla., July 26.—Frank Wilson, a barber of Hollis, and who has a new arrival at his house about six weeks old, has just received an autographed baseball from the New York Yankees, autographed by Wiley Moore, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig. Mr. Wilson is a real ball fan, and an ardent worshipper of the three above mentioned mainstays of the Yanks, and is trying to get his wife's consent to name his son Wiley Ruth Gehrig Wilson, who is not altogether pleased with her son becoming a professional baseball player, and has suggested the names of Charles Spurgeon Wilson, or John Wesley Wilson." However, it is pointed out by Mr. Wilson that a former baseball player of much note became one of our greatest evangelists, "Billy" Sunday by name.

Wiley Moore, whom Babe Ruth called the greatest relief pitcher in the baseball world, has lived in Hollis practically all his life, and when he heard Mr. Wilson was planning to name his son after him, sent him the autographed baseball.

SOMEBODY GYPPED?

PHILADELPHIA, July 26. (AP)—The Philadelphia National league club is awaiting a decision from Commissioner Landis in the case of Pitcher Tony Kaufmann who, the local club is reported to have charged, was not in the good condition represented by the Chicago club when he and Shortstop Jimmie Cooney were traded to the Phillies for Pitcher Harold Carlson.

William F. Baker, president of the Philadelphia club, it is said, wants the deal reopened.

Kaufmann reported to the Phillies with a sore pitching arm. Since joining the local club Kaufmann has not won a game in five starts and has been suspended for unsatisfactory work.

SEMINOLE OPERATORS AGREE ON PRO-RATING OF PRODUCTION

GROUP NAMED TO DRAW PLAN

Commission to Pass On New Program

TULSA, Okla., July 26. (AP)—Operators of the Seminole field reached an agreement today on a shutdown order in the field and agreed to consider a plan of prorating production, Ray Collins, umpire of the field, announced.

A meeting of the operators and Collins was held in the Midcontinent Oil and Gas association's offices to draft an acceptable plan for the curtailing of production which last week passed the half million a day mark.

Twenty-seven oil producers and companies were present. Thirty-six producers had been asked to attend.

27 Operators Attend.

After considerable discussion a plan to appoint a committee to draft a report on a proposed prorating production in the field was adopted unanimously by the 27 producers, Collins said.

The committe consists of Jack Conry, Carter Oil company; N. H. Cole, vice-president of the Pure Oil company; R. F. McArthur, Barnsdale company; Joe Sidwell, Prairie Oil & Gas company, and Edward H. Moore, Independent Oil and Gas company.

It was instructed to prepare a detailed report on a plan to prorate production and to submit it to a meeting of the producers Friday.

Collins said after the meeting today he considered a plan for prorating production the only possible solution for over production and that any other plan would not work unless it had the co-operation of all producers in the area.

Collins Special Officer.

Collins said that if the plan of prorating submitted by the committee was satisfactory and could be agreed upon by the producers it would be submitted to the corporation commission at its hearing August 5 and he would ask for an order to cover the report.

The order would also appoint Collins as special officer for the commission to enforce the order.

The operators appeared in favor of the plan and pledged their support to such order, Collins said.

The Bowlegs pool produced 202,443 barrels Saturday, and 199,018 barrels Sunday; Earlsboro made 178,679 barrels Saturday, and soared to 193,129 barrels Sunday, this field being responsive for the big gain in the field's total; Seminole City made 88,886 barrels Saturday, and dropped off 20 barrels, to 88,866 barrels Sunday, and Searight made 31,887 barrels Saturday, and 31,634 barrels Sunday.

CRANE WELLS PINCHED IN

Pipeline Runs Pro-Rated On Heavy Production

SAN ANGELO, July 26.—with many Crane county wells being pinched in for storage due to prorating of pipe line runs, necessitated by heavy production, and the shut down in the lime of tests in Winkler county believed complete, Pecos county early in the week loomed again as a possible new over-production menace. The California company drilled out a plug at 1000 feet, where 6-inch pipe was cemented in its No. 1 Yates, and was thought to be on top of the pay. So confident were the operators of production—shared in by the oil fraternity generally—that officials and most of the West Texas staff of the California were at the well and a barbecue was planned to celebrate the event.

Producer Assured

The location is in section 34, block 1, I. G. N. Ry. Co. survey, about three-quarters of a mile northwest of Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental's No. 2B Yates, nearest producer. A showing of oil drilled through from 570-75 feet in McMan-Marland No. 1 Yates was believed responsible for a report from McCamey that "Mid-Kansas No. 1 Smith is being drilled in a producer at 550 feet, the shallowest in the field." There is no well by this designation. McMan-Marland No. 1 Yates is in section 34 1-2, a narrow strip extending east and west north of the California's lease, and is 330 feet west and north of the northwest corner of section 35, block 1, I. G. N. Ry. Co. survey. It was fishing for a bailer at 590 feet.

On the heels of the California, Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental No. 5A Yates, eastern offset to No. 1 Smith-Taylor, was expected to be the next producer. It was drilling at 1150 feet, after striking 3,000,000 cubic feet of gas higher up. No. 7A Yates, north of No. 1 Smith-Taylor, was drilling at 440 feet, and a road was being built to the location for No. 8A Yates. The cellar was being dug for No. 2 Smith-Taylor, eastern offset to Gulf's No. 1 Smith. It is insection 33, 250 feet from the west line and approximately 1600 feet from the north line. Gulf's No. 1 Smith is located 990 feet from the north line and 250 feet from the east line of section 28, block 194, G. C. & S. F. Ry. Co. survey. Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental No. 3B Yates, west and north of Allsman & Bell's first producer in the Pecos river bed, was drilling at 210 feet.

River Bed Test

Allsman & Bell's second river bed test, two miles upstream from their initial producer, was making hole at 230 feet. Marland No. 1A Yates, western offset, was rigging up to resume drilling at 604 feet in lime, after setting 8 1-4 inch pipe. Mazda Oil Co. No. 1 Smith had a hole full of water at 565 feet. Simms No. 1 Devlin, in the center of the northeast quarter of section 12, block 105, G. C. & S. F. Ry. Co. survey, was drilling at 1810 feet in brown lime. Moutray Oil Co., No. 1 Robertson, in section 28, block 10, H. & G. N. Ry Co. survey, was trying to straighten the hole at 1060 feet. Transcontinental was moving materials to the location on the Gray ranch of Blackstone & Slaughter and J. M. Lackey, in section 29, block 129, T. & St. L. Ry. Co. survey.

The report shutting down at 2613 feet of Texon Oil and Land Co. of Texas' No. 1 Hendricks has averted a feared blow up of the curtailed production in Winkler county. Frank Pickrell, Texon vice-president and general manager, announced July 14 that the well would be shut down after drilling had indicated the probable amount of production and storage requirements could be estimated. Reports in other quarters were that the Texon No. 1 Hendricks was still drilling at 2616 feet. It has been gassing heavily for two weeks from below 2500 feet and has reached 8,000,000 cubic feet daily.

San Angelo Refinery To Rebuild Its Plant

SAN ANGELO, July 26.—Damage done the San Angelo Refinery company by fire last Friday has been estimated at between $30,000 and $75,000, instead of $20,000, as was first announced. This was given out early this week by R. P. Humes, vice-president.

The refinery will rebuild that equipment wrecked by the fire, at the same time installing such of a larger capacity to make 3000 barrels a day. Part of the fire loss was covered by insurance.

Mr. Humes said the refinery expects to have repaired and placed in operation by Aug. 1 its pipe still that has double the capacity of the two shell stills that were ruined.

General Motors and U. S. Steel Stocks Lead Market Advance; Cotton Continues To Show Strength

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, July 26.—The stock market was a buoyant affair today under leadership of General Motors and U. S. Steel. Railroad stocks were more prominent in the advance under leadership of Atchison which sold into new high territory. Buying of General Motors was impressive and strength continued up to the close. Traders are just beginning to realize the enormous profits in the vast expenditures going on for the last four days.

Cotton sold near the high prices for the season. It is making good the prediction in this column a month ago that because of weevil damage, the price should go higher. It is now up more than two cents a pound since conditions in the growing states was pointed out to readers of this column. Bulls on cotton continue their slogan, "watch the weevil and buy cotton." Complaints are coming from all sections of weevil damage. With exports running in excess of 11,000,000 bales, all records have been broken, while domestic consumption promises to be more than 7,000,000 bales.

Wheat was higher; foreign exchange quiet. Money loaned at 3 3-4 per cent.

Chrysler, Studebaker, Nash, Hudson and White were strong. The old group were reported back in the saddle in Nash and Chrysler. The rumor that General Motors would take over Chrysler has no basis in fact. The stocks are going up on the second quarter earnings which in a majority of cases are favorable. Bethlehem steel responded to the reports that earnings for the first six months were in the neighborhood of $5 a share.

While the majority of roads reported earnings for June slightly lower than for the same month last year, there was excellent buying in the standard rails such as Atchison, Chespeake & Ohio, Rock Island, Katy and Erie.

Specialties were featured by a sharp rise in Mallinson Silk preferred which is being bought because of its yield. Plans are also understood to be under way for retirement of this issue at 115 a share. Silk companies have turned the corner and from now on earnings should show steady improvement.

Earnings of some of the companies are running in excess of the first six months of 1926.

A big campaign in the tobacco stocks is about to be launched. People connected with the Union-United and New Union Tobacco executives, long in the tobacco business, are about to put over one of the biggest deals in the last sixteen years. Not since 1910 has there been organized a tobacco company of the magnitude of the Union-United which will cover all branches of the business including cigars, smoking tobacco and plug. Union-United shares yesterday sold at the highest price since the company was formed. The union Tobacco expects to start marketing its products September 1.

Buying developed in Bush Terminal. For the first five months earnings after all charges and taxes jumped 18 per cent ahead of the same period last year. This result includes only three months operation of the Bush House, London.

Chain stores shares were firm. Because of the success of the Kresge five-cent-to-a-dollar store, Woolworth, because of the small purchasing value of a dime and the high wages in this country, will sell articles in some of its stores ranging from five to 25 cents.

Buying is taking place in Utilities Power & Light. The Utilities Power, Insull, Mellon and the Du-Pont interests are going in on a large scale for development in Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska of a by-product coke proposition and the acquisition of gas and electric properties. The company recently acquired the LaClede Gas Light company of St. Louis and the St. Louis Coke & Gas.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, July 26. (AP)—Reports of unusually rapid progress of black rust in South Dakota and of high temperatures in Canada brought about a rush of wheat buying today. Sharp upturns of prices followed and the wheat market closed unsettled, 1⅛ to 2⅝c net higher, with corn unchanged to ¼c advance, oats unchanged to @⅝c gain ad provisions varying from 15c decline to a rise of 5 cents.

Corn was less active, but on the bulges there was free selling, notwithstanding complaints that rains are needed and despite predictions of hot weather minus moisture. Oats sympathized with wheat rather than with corn.

For the most part provisions showed but little change.

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, July 26. (AP)—A further advance in the cotton market early today met a good deal of realizing and after making new high records for the season, with December contracts selling up to 19.39, prices reacted. December sold off to 19.10, closing at that figure, the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 14 to 16 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 1 to 3 points. There was some selling on the relatively easy ruling of the earlier Liverpool cables, but Liverpool firmed up just as the local market opened, while there was buying on reports of further showers in the eastern belt and parts of Texas.

Initial offerings were soon absorbed and prices sold up quite sharply in early trading on a continuation of the recent buying movement which was supposed to include some trade and investment demand, as well as some covering by recent sellers. October sold up to 19.15 and January to 19.47, net advances of about 12 to 15 points on active months, but as the market approached the 19½-cent level for January, realizing became more active.

Prospects for improving weather increased the disposition to take profit on long cotton at the new high prices, and there was probably some local selling for a reaction. Offerings were well enough absorbed by scale down buying or covering to check the decline around 19.12 for December and there were rallies of 12 or 15 points from the lowest on reports of increasing boll weevil activity in various parts of the south, but the market weakened again later. The better weather outlook combined with the extent of recent advances appeared to have created a good deal of reactionary sentiment, and there were rumors of some southern selling presumably against stocks of old crop cotton or prospective receipts.

The lowest prices of the day were reached in late trading, October selling at 18.86 and January at 19.18 with the close at about these figures.

Port receipts today 7840 bales. U. S. port stocks 949,321 bales. Exports 19,034, making 11,159,119 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, July 26. (AP)—Steady declines followed sharp advances in today's cotton market and although at one time prices made new highs for the movement selling induced by the better weather prospects brought the price level down 22 to 23 points below the highs. October crossed the 19-cent line to 19.04, but the later selling caused it to drop to 18.80, where the option closed. The general market closed steady at net declines for the day of 11 to 16 points.

Liverpool cables were lower than due at the opening here and first trades showed losses of 3 points. Unofficial reports by government agents stating that boll weevils have caused heavy damage to the crop in Texas and North Carolina turned the market sharply upward and all months soared to new highs. October crossing the 19-cent line for the first time this season. At the high points October traded at 19.04 and December 19.28 to 21 points above the previous close.

The market then turned easier on liquidation by longs due probably to the high price for the October option and to selling based on the weather map and forecast showing fair weather in most sections of the belt. The decline carried October down to 18.8 and December to 19.05, 22 to 23 points under the highs.

After a rally of 8 to 9 points near midsession the market turned easier again and continued on the downgrade during most of the afternoon, making new lows right at the end with October at 18.80 and December 19.03, 24 to 25 points under the highs. The close was at the lowest.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, July 26. (AP)—Heavy buying of General Motors, which advanced 5⅝ points to 225, making the eighth consecutive day in which a new high price has been established, overshadowed all other developments in today's changes in personnel of the corporation and special dividends were in circulation in Wall street during the day, the buying was influenced largely by reports of record-breaking earnings, which were announced after the market closed as $129,250,207, equivalent to $14.25 a share on the common stock now outstanding, or well above earlier estimates.

Most of the other stocks advanced in sympathy, Chrysler moving up more than two points to a new peak at 54⅝. Mack Trucks, Hudson, Nash, Studebaker, and Willys-Overland common advanced 1 to nearly 2½ points. Pierce Arrow preferred broke neadly 5 points to a new low at 52¼ in reflection of a relatively poor quarterly report. Increased car sales through the introduction of new models and the reported delay in the introduction of the new Ford car, have helped to create bullish enthusiasm for the motors, several which are under pressure a month or more ago on reports of price cutting and increasing competition.

U. S. Steel common moved within a range of 1 point, closing ¼ higher, at 128⅝. Total earnings of $46,040,460 in the second quarter, compared with $45,584,725 in the preceding quarter, and $47,814,165 in the second quarter of 1926 and were about in line with expectations. Bethlehem and Gulf States Steels each closed about a point higher, but Inland fell back 2 points. Call money renewed at 4 per cent, and again dropped to 3¾.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged, but bankers acceptance rates were easier, all maturities up to 90 days being quoted at 3⅝ bid and 3⅜ asked.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet, with few important changes in rates. Japanese cables dropped 12 points to tors, several of which were under pressure 46.91 cents and Spanish pesetas advanced nearly 5 points to 17.07½ cents. Demand sterling and French francs held firm around $4.85⅛ and 3.91⅛ cents, respectively.

SOAP MAKERS SEEK FACTORY

Panhandle Men May Locate Plant Here

E. A. Hohn and J. W. Wilkerson of Panhandle, Texas, arrived in Wichita Falls Tuesday to consider possible locations here for a plant manufacturing soap powders.

The two Panhandle men now operate a small factory in the Texas city, but hope to make arrangements for a transfer of the plant, and possible production on a large scale, they said. They expect to remain in Wichita Falls for several days.

Mr. Hohn and Mr. Wilkerson have inspected several sites in other Texas towns, but have been most favorably impressed with Wichita Falls, they said. They are registered at the Holt hotel.

Hunter Raps Fictitious Values Given in Deeds

The use of fictitious values in warranty deeds by vendors of real estate was condemned Tuesday by H. L. Hunter, manager of the Wichita Clearing house, in an address delivered before the Real Estate board.

New committees of the board, appointed Tuesday, follow: Appraisal, J. N. Protho, chairman; J. M. Baber, Roscoe Staton. Publicity and program, A. M. McPherson, chairman; Mrs. P. A. Welty and J. P. Friberg. Municipal ordinance and legislative, W. S. Curlee, chairman; Otto Stehlik and J. M. Bland. Arbitration, A. L. Huey, chairman; John Monroe and A. W. King. Taxation and city planning, F. S. Lightning Sets Oil Tank On Fire

BEAUMONT, July 26. (AP)—Lightning which struck an underground storage tank of the Gulf Refining company in Sour Lake, 25 miles from here, set fire to 150,000 barrels of oil shortly after noon today. No one was injured and it is believed that the fire will not spread.

Pumps were set to work at once to draw as much oil as possible from the tank before the fire burns out. It is estimated that the loss will be at least $75,000. Smoke from the burning oil could be seen from downtown office buildings in Beaumont.

Americans Held In High Esteem In Europe, Cline Says In Talk

Wichita Falls Man Finds People Courteous and Fair To Tourists, He Tells Advertising Club

"Americans are held in high esteem by people in all parts of Europe," declared Walter D. Cline, who recently returned from the international convention of Rotarians at Ostend and a tour of Europe with Mrs. Cline, at the Advertising club luncheon Tuesday.

"Through the acts of some fanatics in Europe, Americans are led to believe that we are disliked on the continent," said Mr. Cline.

Ovation by Club

The speaker was given a standing ovation by the club after his introduction. He spoke on "Advertising in Europe."

There is at present an interesting contest being waged among newspapers of London with one puolication drawing away from the traditional English method of presenting advertising on the first page and the news on the inside pages as an innovation in English journalism, Mr. Cline stated.

The paper adopting the American style is the Daily Telegraph which is gaining in circulation. Its owner has declared that he will try to break the established custom of locating news and advertising in the newspapers.

Europeans do not believe in bill board advertising in which Mr. Cline declared he heartily agreed with them. No large signs are on the highways to obstruct the views from along the roads, some of which, particularly in England, are the most beautiful in the world, he stated.

Digressing from the topic of advertising, Mr. Cline declared that it is the duty of every American who goes to Europe to visit the British Isles. Many of our living customs as well as industrial methods came from the Anglo-Saxons of the British Isles, he declared.

The English newspapers carried detailed accounts of the Mississippi flood and expressions of sympathy were heard on every hand. The English people followed the flood news with intense interest, Mr. Cline stated.

Praises Courtesy

Citizens in all parts of the continent were found to be very courteous and considerate, not only in the shops but in the rural districts along the roads where men often quit their work in the fields to act as traffic officers while a car turned around in the road, Mr. Cline said.

Window display advertising has not been developed in any sense in the manner in which it is exploited in America, the speaker stated. In nearly all points of the continent the shop windows are equipped with steel blinds which are closed during the hours the shops are closed, he said.

Mr. Cline stated that the most advertised thing he found in Europe was the expression, "English Spoken." A small placard with those words is to be found in front of nearly every business. This is not actuated by the mere desire to get the American's money, Mr. Cline said, but by a pride taken in being courteous to Americans.

It is realized of course that America is a rich country but there is no more over-charging to tourists than will be found in American cities, he said.

Smashes Traditions

"Contrary to an idea quite prevalent in this country, Americans are not in bad favor in European countries," Mr. Cline declared.

"Wandering off alone, when I was unknown and not recognized as a Rotary representative, I learned to my own satisfaction that Americans are held in high esteem among Europeans. I have never yet found anything but a smile for Americans," he said.

Mr. Cline attributes the present unrest in Austria to the fact that the cities still have all of the manufacturing facilities and practically the same population for supplying nations of 25 to 30 millions in population as before the war with products whereas the nations have been greatly diminished in size since the war. Thus many factories have been cut off from a majority of their markets.

That there was unrest in Vienna at the time Mr. Cline was there was discernible to him in the atmosphere of the streets. An American friend there declared that there was bound to be an outbreak of feeling before long, Mr. Cline said.

City Expenses Exceed Revenues By $8000

Expenditures for the city of Wichita Falls for the first quarter of the fiscal year, which started April 1, totaled $222,197.20 according to a report issued Tuesday by W. E. McBroom, city clerk.

The revenues for the first quarter were $213,775.06. The deficit between expenditures and revenues will be made up by the collection of delinquent taxes and the increase in valuations in the city, Mr. McBroom said.

Revenue of the water department during the first quarter amounted to $73,081.97 and expenditures $34,190.50, according to the report.

Tom Green Crops In Good Shape, Says Agent

SAN ANGELO, July 26.—"Crops, both feed and cotton, are in excellent condition," according to Dor who added that crops are as good Brown, Tom Green county agent, as he has ever seen them in this section.

"Rains last week will mean much to the farmers and ranchmen," he said, pointing out that the moisture will put more fruit on the cotton and also will help hold the fruit already on.

He said the rain also would put the stubble land in shape for breaking, will mature the grain-sorghum crop of older planting and will give the later planting a good heavy crop.

STUDEBAKER CUTS PRICES

Reduction On Cars Ranges Up to $260

SOUTH BEND, July 26.—Sweeping price reductions ranging up to $260 were announced today by the Studebaker corporation of America on the most beautiful, powerful an ddurable line of Studebakers yet produced.

The new prices, which go into effect immediately, are the result of years of preparation and are possible becaus ethe Studebaker corporation has consistently re-invested millions of earnings in economic expansion. Coupled with the production accomplishment, brilliant engineering has played an important part in the development of what are properly considered the finest Studebaker cars ever offered to the motoring public.

Sharp Reduction

The radical reductions announced today affect every car in the line and bring it to a new level of value. t was emphasized particularly that in establishing these new low prices there has been no curtailment in the accessories which are standard on Studebaker production. The Studebaker policy is to sell its cars ready for the road with more than $100 worth of extras out extra cost.

The most generous reduction of all affects the President Sedan, which has acquired marked favor with American executives in whose honor it was named. This 7-passenger sedan model is reduced from $2245 to $1985, while the prices of the President Tourer and President Limousine wer elowered to $1795 and $2250 respectively.

New Schedule

In the Popular Commander line, reductions ranging from $20 to $90 are in effect. The 4 door sedan, leader in this group, drops from $1585 to $1495; the Sedan Regal from $1710 to $1625, the Victoria (4-passenger) from $1575 to $1495; Coupe from $1545 to $1625; coupe Regal from $1645 to $1625 and roadster (4-passenger) from $1675 to $1595.

Value is more than ever the keynote of the ne wDictator line where the 4-door Dictator Sedan (plush upholstery) is reduced from $1245 to $1195; the Sedan (mohair upholstery) from $1235 to $1295; Victoria from $1325 to $1295; coupe (2-passenger) from $1245 to $1195; coupe (4-passenger) from $1345 to $1295; and 4-passenger roadster from $1295 to $1245.
