County education district is formed

An organizational meeting of the Mitchell County Education District was held Monday evening at which officers were elected, an election was called for August 10, 1991, statutory responsibilities reviewed, and requests for tax rolls made.

Members of the County Education District (CED) discussed but took no immediate action on tax collections and distributions, depository contracts, and liability responsibility of CED members.

Dwayne Harris representing Colorado Independent School District was elected Chairman of the CED, Warren Zant representing Westbrook Independent School District was elected Vice-Chairman, and Robert Finley representing Loraine Independent School District was elected Secretary.

The CED board called for an election pending the approval by individual School Boards to be held on August 10 in conjunction with the State Constitutional election.

Joan Beach, County Clerk, met with the board to explain election operation if the CED wished to contract to have the county conduct the election.

CED members approved the joint election as presented to them for the purpose of 'optional' tax exemptions.

Statutory responsibilities of the CED were explained by Carroll Tatum, Education Service Center representative of Region XIV, Abilene.

Tatum told members that "the CED is a new political division which has governmental powers and a defined jurisdiction over territory with the ability to levy taxes."

Waste legislation discussed

Senator Steve Carriker, David Swick, director of Clean Water Action, and George Ellis, representing Land Commissioner Gary Mauro met with area residents at the Civic Center Saturday to discuss the recently approved hazardous waste legislation.

"We must have safe hazardous waste disposal," Carriker said.

"The alternative to regulated treatment of waste is illegal backlot dumping," Carriker noted that "Senate Bill 1099 (SB 1099) is designed to provide for the safe hazardous waste disposal management."

"Groups concerned about the safety of the environment scored victories in the last legislative session," Carriker noted.

"These victories were not won because of the amount of money spent or because the groups were clever in their approach, but rather because dedicated citizens interested and concerned in the quality of life and about future generations have banded together and are being listened to in Austin."

"The environmental bill would not have been possible without that support," Carriker said.

"SB 1099 is a good one that we can build on and I envision it being used as a model by other states."

"It is not intended to prohibit any type of application," Carriker said. "SB 1099 is intended to stop loopholes and balance the process so that opponents and proponents have and equal chance to represent their views and are able to make sure that concerns are addressed."

Carriker described SB 1099 as being 70-80 pages long. "There are 10-12 pages of new information, but 85 percent of the bill is a restatement of existing regulations."

"SB 1099 does clarify vague areas and stop loopholes that have been used to balance the application process and ensure that concerns are addressed."

SB 1099 requires that:

- A needs assessment, indicating a capacity requirement for a proposed facility, be provided to the permitting commission during the application process of a hazardous waste facility.

- That public meetings and a public hearing be held before a waste facility makes application to locate in a county.

- A notice requirement, allowing parties affected enough time to gather evidence.

- Applicants of hazardous waste facilities to post a bond which will ensure intervenors are awarded their costs for preparing and bringing knowledge useful to the permitting agencies.

- The 'bad actor' provision which gives the commission's the right to deny, suspend, or revoke a permit on the basis of a companies prior track record of waste violations and ensures a petitioner is current on all state fees.

- Extra financial information on an applicant of a hazardous waste disposal facility.

- New guidelines for companies

Patrick Toombs has taken over as acting Sheriff for Mitchell County.

"The main goal I have as Sheriff is to make sure that the department works with the people of Mitchell County," Toombs said. "Everything will be run pretty well the same."

"Our job is to enforce State of Texas laws in a fair and impartial manner," he said.

"If a problem or complaint arises," Toombs said, "we can be reached twenty-four hours a day."

Toombs has been with the Mitchell County Sheriffs department since October 1989. He was promoted to Chief Deputy in April 1991.

"In the twenty months I have worked in Mitchell County, I have met a lot of nice people in Colorado City, Westbrook, and Loraine," Toombs said. "I enjoy living in the community."

DAVID MONTGOMERY

Montgomery begins job as police chief

David Montgomery reported to work Monday, July 1, as the new Police Chief of Colorado City.

"I am committed to making the Police Department community oriented," Montgomery said. "My philosophy is that the Police Department should serve the community."

"The first priority towards reaching that goal is ensuring communication between the Police Department and the community."

Montgomery has been involved in law enforcement the past twenty years.

He comes to Colorado City from Farmersville, where he served as Police Chief for the past five years.

Prior to that Montgomery served as Police Chief at Whitewright, in Grayson County, for five years, and as a patrolman with the Dallas PD for 10 years.

Montgomery is currently involved in the Law Enforcement Management Instruction program where he has completed the first of three phases. He expects to graduate from this course in April of 92.

"You should proceed with the expectation that it will operate," Carroll said referring to the pending court hearing.

"The CED has limited powers, which include: the ability to levy, access, and collect tax; the power to sue or be sued, acquire real property, and hire personnel."

"The CED may contract to have taxes collected," Tatum explained. "Under the CED guidelines you will be forced to set a tax rate of at least 72 cents in order to reach the fund assignment ordered by the state."

The CED made requests for appraisal rolls from the Central Appraisal District and for tax collections data from component districts of the CED.

In discussion items, Mike Burt, Tax Collector, presented estimated costs to the board if the Appraisal District should be contracted with to collect taxes for the CED.

"A tax bill could be sent which would have two statements on one sheet of paper," Burt said. "One unit could collect for all districts or they can choose to collect separately."

"If the CED wishes to have a central collection agency," Burt said, "the CED can enter into an intergovernmental contract with the Appraisal District."

Burt gave expected expenses of establishing and operating a central collection office to the board.

Board members were advised that bids must be sought for a bank depository to use for CED money. The Board decided to wait until a decision is made as to how the money is going to be collected before sending out bids to financial institutions.

CED board members also heard discussion concerning insurance for the CED body. "I feel that it is important for us to have insurance," Chairman Harris said, "but at this time with CED's being so new, insurance rates have yet to be established."

In final action the CED set the next meeting for 7:30 p.m. Monday, August 5, in the Administrative Curriculum Board Room of the Colorado Independent School District.

"SB 1099 is a monumental effort," Swizk said, "and Steve Carriker is a champion for the environmental effort. He was first out of the gate during the recent session of the legislature."

"We got the best we could get from the legislature," Swizk said, "however, there were some disappointments."

Swizk said that "ambitious but necessary grassroot goals" had been sought.

Grassroot groups all over the state were important in preparing the current climate in the legislature," Swizk said. "The issues were brought to the nominees in the last political races."

"Important tools for environmentalists came from the last session of the legislature," Swizk said.

He cited recent changes in ethics legislation which will put "an end to the revolving door, where a state employee would leave an agency to work for private industry at an exorbitant salary, then return to the agency, and sit on the companies permit application."

"Other important tools the legislature provided include the citizen cost recovery provision, the 'bad actor' provision," and Swizk credited SB 1099 for "tightening the permitting process."

Swizk admitted disappointment that "lobbyists had been able to weaken the legislation."

Carriker, Swizk, and Ellis each spoke in favor of establishing a Department of Natural Resources.

The provision which was part of the Senate Bill failed to be approved by the House.

"I am hoping that we will have another chance to create the Department during the upcoming special session," Carriker said.

"It is important that we have a single agency that citizens and applicants alike can go to for answers to environmental problems."

Swizk supports the one-stop environmental agency, adding that the grassroot platform urges the legislature "to provide for the election of environmental agency heads."

"It would put everyone on a more level plane," Ellis said, "to have the Air Control Board and Water Commission working together as the Department of Natural Resources."

Carriker noted that Texas is a waste export state, sending more hazardous waste out-of-state than is being sent in.

CHIEF LONE WOLF

As we prepare to celebrate our nation's independence, we also remember those who gave their lives for our freedoms. When America was dragged into World War II on December 7, 1941, the first known casualty from Mitchell County was a young man who grew up in the Spade community. He was Sgt. Everett A. Pond, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Pond.

Sgt. Pond, a bombardier in the 30th Bombardment Squadron of the U.S. Army Air Corps, was "killed in defense of the Philippines," according to a War Department announcement.

The Mitchell County War Memorial also lists the name of a woman, Rebecca A. Britton, as a casualty of the war. She died at Pearl Harbor, but not because of enemy hostilities. Family members say Ms. Britton failed to survive surgery.

Also listed on the War Memorial is Wilson Wyatt, brother of Mrs. Elmer (Billie) Martin. He was aboard the U.S.S. Pecos when it was destroyed near Guam. The local V.F.W. Post 9178 carries his name as a tribute to young Wyatt who left Colorado City in 1939 to join the U.S. Navy.

Some years back, the V.F.W. published a service book which identifies men and women who have served in the armed forces, from Mitchell County.

See if you recognize any of the following names: Warren Anderson, U.S. Army, 28 months overseas; Gus Armstrong, Army Air Force, 13 months overseas; James O. Bradbury, U.S. Army, served in Korea; Gus D. Chesney, U.S. Air Force, two years service; Woody Crabtree, U.S. Navy, served aboard rescue craft on West coast; J.S. Craddock, Jr., U.S. Army, 7 months overseas; J.S. Craddock, Jr., U.S. Navy, 1944-1946; Garvice L. Craghead, Army Air Corps, military police; Kenneth Cranfill, U.S. Navy, 1945-46; Roland R. Dossey, U.S. Army, 20 months overseas; D.C. Fowler, Jr., U.S. Navy Pacific Theatre; Sherman Hart, Army Air Corp, 29 months overseas; James O. Hill, U.S. Army, European Theatre of Operations; Paul Hunter, U.S. Army, European Theatre of Operations; John David Iglehart, U.S. Army, 31 months overseas; Milton F. Kidd, U.S. Army, 30 months overseas, Purple Heart/Cluster; A.K. McCarley, Jr., U.S. Navy, Pacific Theatre; Eldon Mahon, Army Air Corps, 12 months overseas; Catarino G. Martinez, Jr., saw action in Viet Nam; Hollis C. Mize, U.S. Army, 16 months overseas; Johnny M. Moore, U.S. Army, 30 months overseas; Arlene M. Morris, U.S. Navy, 22 months overseas.

Wilford F. Oyler, U.S. Army, European Theatre of Operations; Newby Pratt, U.S. Navy, 1942-45; Porter Richardson, Army Air Corps, 18 months overseas; Andrew Rivera, U.S. Army, Germany, Japan, Panama Canal, France; Pete River, U.S. Army, 1970-73; Edward B. Roach, Army Air Corps, 1942-45; Louis O. Schaffer, U.S. Army, 27 months overseas; Darrell C. Shurtliff, Navy Seabees, 22 months overseas; D.M. Smith, U.S. Army, 27 months overseas; Loyd Smith, U.S. Army, 15 months overseas; Gwan C. Strange, Army Air Force, 12 months overseas; Paris W. Yarbrough, U.S. Army, 1944.

These are just a few of the names from the V.F.W. service book. It in no way represents an attempt to identify all men and women from Mitchell County who have served in the U.S. Armed Forces. Hopefully, you have found one or more names of your friends, who you previously did not realize the contribution they have made to our country's freedom. County Agriculture Notes

By BRYAN LIMMER, County Extension Agent-Ag

Fall webworms are the larval stage of moths and cause unsightly webs in the branches of almost all shade, fruit, nut and ornamental trees and shrubs except conifers. Their feeding preferences vary from one part of the state to another, preferring mulberry, poplar and willow in the west, to oak, hickory and pecan in east Texas. They are widely distributed in the state and have been confused with other tent-making caterpillars, such as the eastern tent and the mimosa webworm.

DESCRIPTION

The fall webworm moth is rather nondescript. It is mostly white with dark spots on the wings. The larva are about 1 inch when full grown and pale yellow or green. There is a broad dusky stripe running down with the back, bordered on each side by a yellow stripe. These caterpillars are covered with tufts of long whitish hairs.

BIOLOGY AND HABITS

There are from two to four generations per year depending upon the locality in the state. The first occurs on mulberry as early as April in south Texas, and as late as June around Lubbock and Amarillo, attacking pecan, willow and poplar-trees. Fall webworms overwinter as pupae in silken cocoons under ground trash or on rough tree bark. Moths emerge to disperse and deposit eggs in hair-covered masses on the underside of leaves. The newly hatched larvae begin feeding and spin a web over the foliage in which they feed. Sometimes, whole branches are covered with these webs. In extreme infestations, the entire tree may be covered with several webs. Larvae eat the tender parts of the leaf, leaving the larger veins and mid-rib. The last generation, which occurs in the fall, is usually the most damaging and gives this insect its name.

Several defoliation may occur, weakening and sometimes killing trees. In fruit or nut orchards the insect usually is controlled with multiple applications of insecticides for other insect pests.

CONTROL

Fall webworms may be controlled without using insecticides by thoroughly inspecting trees that have a history of webworm-infestations. In small trees where the upper parts are easily reached, egg masses on leaves may be located and destroyed. In larger trees webs can be pruned out and destroyed.

Many parasites and predators attack fall webworms, paper wasps that search the webs and carry webworms to their nests to feed the developing wasps are an important natural control. Nests of paper wasps that pose no threat to humans should be protected.

If webs are too numerous or out of reach for pruning, insecticides may be needed to prevent damage. A high pressure sprayer is necessary to reach the top of tall trees and to penetrate the sometimes dense webs. Breaking the webs with a long pole helps the insecticide applications to contact the larvae. The most efficient control is achieved when applications are made after eggs hatch and before larvae develop large, dense webs. Use products containing acephate (Orthene R), Bacillus thuringiensis (Dipel R, Thuricide R, Bactur R), carbaryl (Sevin R), diazinon, malathion, chlorpyrifos (Dursban R), methoxychlor or trichlorfon (Dylox R). Since complete coverage is needed for good control, a commercial tree spraying service may be necessary for large trees or heavy infestations.

The pesticide USER is always responsible for the effects of pesticides on his own plants or household goods as well as problems caused by drift from his property to other properties or plants. Always read and follow carefully the instructions on the container label.

Reference to commercial products or trade names is made with the understanding that no discrimination is intended and no endorsement by the Cooperative Extension Service is implied.

Students attend seminar

SAN ANGELO--Attending the Texas Farm Bureau's 29th annual Citizenship Seminar here June 10-14 were Krista Moore, Caasi Smith, both of Colorado City, and Bridget Woolverton of Roscoe.

Sponsored by the Mitchell County Farm Bureau, they were among approximately 400 high school junior and senior students from 162 counties across the state.

The purpose of the seminar is to provide the students with a better understanding of their American heritage and the capitalistic free enterprise system, said David Stubblefield of Mitchell County, Farm Bureau president.

Speakers at this year's seminar and their subjects are as follows: Jack Jackson of Fort Worth, president of Jackson Associates, "Price of Free Enterprise;" Ambassador Sam Zakhem, of Littlewood, Colorado, recent assignment in Bahrain, "The Middle East;" and Robert H. Rowland of Oklahoma City, "Free Enterprise."

Also, Steve Pratt of American Fork, Utah, a constitutional expert, "Freedom in the Nineties," Basilio Bachor, a Polish immigrant now living in Corpus Christi, "Living the American Dream," and Michael Borome of Charlotte, N.C., "You and America - Two great Champions."

S.M. True, Jr. of Plainview, TFB President, also addressed the students.

FIVE STAR status to Beta Epsilon

Marian Craddock, Ethelyn Lancaster and Janet Mayo, members of The Delta Kappa Gamma Society International attended the 62nd Alpha State (Texas) Convention held June 19-23 in Fort Worth.

Craddock, president of the Beta Epsilon, the local chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, advised that FIVE STAR status was awarded to the local club for its accomplishments with Beta Bits.

The two-page newsletter is written by Craddock and Sonja Hanks and is sent to members 7 times each year.

Mayo was appointed Area Coordinator for Area XII at the convention.

Dr. Aleene Van de Grift of Dallas, Alpha State President, presided over the meeting of outstanding women educators.

Almost 1000 members from 300 Texas chapters attended the convention.

Business meetings as well as special interest workshops constituted the daytime convention activities.

One of the highlights was an address by the 1989 Teacher of the Year, Mary Bicouvaris.

Bicouvaris is currently an international relations and applied economics teacher in Hampton, Virginia.

Among her accomplishments are the founding of the award-winning Model United Nations and her appointment as a White House Presidential Scholars commissioner by President Bush.

The Delta Kappa Gamma Society International was founded in 1929 in Austin by Dr. Annie Webb Blanton and eleven other leading women educators. The Society now has 169,000 members and chapters in every state, Canada, Mexico, Latin America, and Europe.

Cotton crop pays weather's toll

LUBBOCK--If it isn't one thing, it's another. That might well be the motto of Texas High Plains cotton farmers, who have seen recent rains, high winds and hail inflict serious damage on young cotton plants.

Heavy thundershowers the first week of June, accompanied by winds as high as 70 miles an hour, blowing sand and hail have producers assessing their fields to see if they must replant. In Gaines County, the state's top producer of cotton, hail severely damaged 15,000 to 20,000 acres.

"We started with a relatively dry season that precluded planting of most of the dryland acreage," said Dr. James Supak, Texas Agricultural Extension Service cotton agronomist.

The counties around Lubbock that he serves, dubbed "the world's biggest cotton patch," this year were slated to plant some 3.7 million acres of cotton, about 40 percent of it irrigated. The area annually produces half the state's crop and about 20 to 25 percent of the nation's cotton.

The dryland crop should be planted by May 20 for best results, Supak said. But at the end of May almost a million acres were either unplanted or being planted without adequate soil moisture, in hope of showers to germinate the seed.

"Most of our irrigated acreage got planted in a timely fashion and got off to a pretty good start," Supak said. Then came several days of cool weather that slowed development and in some cases caused problems with seedling disease.

Going into June, without a general rain across the area, "the crop was beginning to make good progress," the cotton specialist said.

Then came the rains, "generally sufficient to allow germination of dryland cotton," Supak said. But for already emerged young plants, the accompanying winds, sand and hail took their toll. The moisture and cooler, cloudy conditions stimulated a resurgence of seedling disease.

"Right now we have a lot of fields that just a few days ago looked pretty good and now are showing the effects of windburn, wet weather blight, some seedling disease damage, and a lot of plants are dying," the agronomist said.

The heaviest wind and sand damage is on the younger cotton.

"These young seedlings are just more vulnerable to that kind of damage," he said, adding that they also are the plants showing the most seedling disease problems.

Older cotton, up for about six weeks, is getting into "that woody stage that resists seedling disease damage," Supak said. "But it's still susceptible to the kind of wind and hail damage we had last week."

Sunshine and warm weather are needed to dry the land and allow farmers to do some tillage to aerate the plants and stabilize the fields to prevent further wind and sand damage, the specialist said.

Farmers have to carefully assess their fields, Supak said.

"They're going to have to make that tough decision whether there's enough stand left out there to keep, or whether the crop should be replanted."

J. W. King and his wife and a granddaughter visited with T.J. Green Jr. and wife, Dorothy, and others in and about the store recently. I really don't know how many others they saw or called on.

The Melvin King family were here at the same time, visiting several people including Mrs. Ida Baird, who worked for their father, Editor King, as he was lovingly called. He was editor of the Loraine newspaper for years, did his own printing and everything. Mrs. Baird did this little job that I try to do except she was much better.

Mrs. Baird said she had a very nice visit with Kings and they discussed the past very thoroughly. It's nice to look back on pleasant things of the past.

I was also told the Kings went to Roscoe to visit their relatives there. I believe the King boys' mother was a Roscoe product.

Saw Jenessa Lee with her father, James Lee, in church Sunday morning. She is probably still here. She looks real good and we sure hope she stays that way. Jenessa lives in Wilson with her mom. I am sure she is also visiting her grandparents George and Estelle Lee and the George Jrs. & Clayton. It was real good to see you, Jenessa, looking so well.

George and Estelle Lee recently visited with her mother & other relatives in Oklahoma. This is the first time in four years she has been able to ride that far and we are happy for her. I am real sure she was very tired when it was all over.

We had three young men visiting Sunday morning and we were glad to have them. They are from Bro. James at Tye, I believe.

Bob & Wanga had company with them Sunday. She is their granddaughter, Jennifer Graham from Colorado City. She is the one who had the kidney transplant a few months ago. She is doing nicely.

I understand that Edith McLeod has had part of her skin grafting done and maybe she is finishing up this week. I sure hope she will soon be well again. She is our Pastor, James McLeod's mother.

Jim & Sharon Clifton & sons visited in the Shirley & Jennifer Clifton home over the weekend. They are from Canyon Lake, Texas.

Young Adonna Sanders, daughter of Phillip and Evon Sanders is recovering from a very delicate surgery and will need more later I am told. They need your prayers badly that she will recover and be strong and healthy. She is the granddaughter of Glenn and Shirlene Sanders.

My sister, Jean Haggerton, her daughter Helen Jeans & grandson of Snyder visited us Sunday afternoon. He is the little boy who received the T Ball Golden Glove award.

Jean (Mrs. Roy Johnson) visited with her mother Beatrice Lee and Olen Lee over the weekend. Also visiting were Randy and Teresa of Littlefield.

Also Jean and her mother went to Caldwell, Texas to visit a sister and daughter, Bobbie Knox on Monday.

Larry, Sherry & their daughter received a very nice shower for Hannah Saturday afternoon at the Danny Butler home.

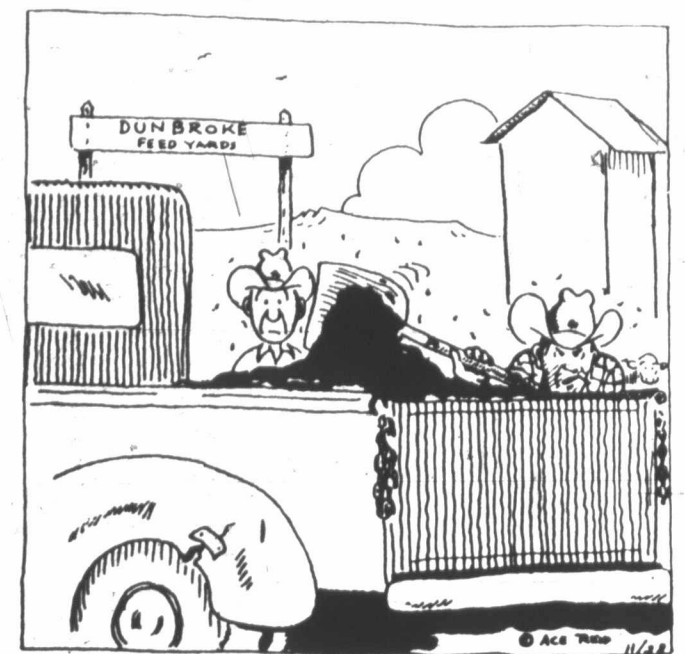

Hostesses were Debbie Finley, Penny Mitchell, Sally Compton, Billie Ruth Abernathy, Doris Henderson, Nina Meadows, Elnora Mitchell, Lisa Mitchell, Faye Lee, Doris Graham and Sandra Phillips.

Several of Cindy McLeod's family were here for the weekend but I'll have to tell you another time, I don't remember their names.

Mary Love Walker came to Loraine and took her mother, Syble Walker, home with her for a few days visit. Then Jack and Mary Love brought her home on Friday, so they could attend the McCarley reunion. Kay McCarley Jr. is president of this affair and will be again next year according to Syble

Texas Cowboy Reunion set this weekend in Stamford

Sixty-one years ago, 1930, the Texas Cowboy Reunion held in the West Texas town of Stamford (45 miles north of Abilene on Hwy. 277) came into being as a community project designed to preserve the traditions of the western cattle ranching country and to honor the men and women who laid the foundations many years ago.

Held annually during the July 4th weekend, the Reunion still remains a tradition of tribute on top of hosting four days full of fun, and exciting events for the entire family.

Known far and wide as the world's largest amateur rodeo, this year's Texas Cowboy Reunion will begin on Wednesday, July 3 and conclude on Saturday, July 6.

Festivities will kick off at 9 a.m. in the main arena with the popular event of Team Roping. At 4 p.m., downtown Stamford will be the place to be as the Grand Parade will roll through town. Following the parade, as well as each evening at 6 p.m., Joe Allen of Abilene will serve up his mouthwatering bar-b-que to visitors.

Then it is off to the rodeo each evening at 8 p.m., with Texas Governor Ann Richards who will be a special guest at the Wednesday performance.

Each performance includes all of the favorites: Calf Roping, Barrel Racing, Bull Riding and Bronc Riding. Additional unique events such as Wild Cow Milking, Ranch Bronc Riding and the Wild Mare Race are always exciting to watch.

Following the rodeo each night at 9:30 will be a dance at the Pavilion. Performing this year will be Robert Joe Vandygriff and the S.O.C. Band on Wednesday and Thursday night and Jody Nix and the Texas Cowboy Band on Friday and Saturday night.

It will be a July 4 to remember as the Chuckwagon teams from all over the state have rounded up their top hands to exhibit their cooking skills as well as show a little authenticity in the Chuckwagon Cookoff Competition.

Beginning on the 4th, the Oldtimers Association will have coffee and a fellowship in the old bunkhouse to reminisce about the good old days. They also have a barbecue each day at noon which is open to the public.

Beginning Friday morning at 8:30 am will be the Bit, Spur and Western Collectible Show held in the Tri-Area Barns across from the Reunion grounds. This will continue on into Saturday and will be an interesting display of "Cowboy Memorabilia."

The final day and the busiest day, Saturday will include many special activities.

Always a favorite, the Oldtimers will hold its annual Fiddler's Contest at the Roundup Hall at 9:30 am.

At 10 am in the main arena, cowgirl sponsors from all over the area will compete in the slack portion of the Sponsors Barrel Race.

At 1 pm some of the famous Cowboy Poets will recite their impression of life in the "old west" at a Cowboy Poetry Gathering in the Pavilion.

Also open during the entirety of the Reunion, will be the Western art Show and Sale at the John Selmon Memorial Pavilion Building.

The remainder of the day will go just as the previous one, with a rodeo performance and the dance each evening being a little different than the last one. So, it might be a good idea to attend each day of the Texas Cowboy Reunion.

If experiencing the "Old West" is for you, then travel to Stamford for the 1991 version of the Texas Cowboy Reunion. If you do, you will be promised a wonderful and memorable time. For more information, please contact the Stamford Chamber of Commerce at (915)773-2441.

"Our overhead lines are powerful and you could get hurt."

Clement Adams
Lineman

I'm Clement Adams and I'm a lineman with TU Electric. I work with overhead power lines that bring electrical service to our homes. But unfortunately, every year some people come into contact with these high wires and are seriously injured or even killed. Often they may be simply trimming their own trees, installing a TV antenna or just cleaning a pool with a long handled pole.

Electrical safety is a priority.

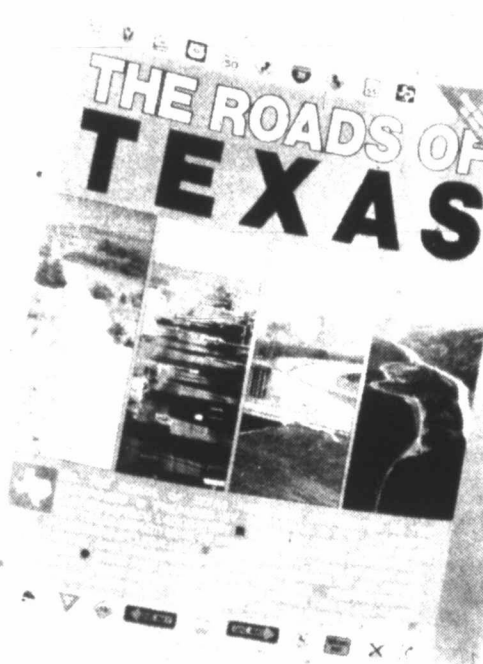

These types of accidents can be easily avoided. If people would just look up. Keep all objects away from overhead power lines. At TU Electric, we care about your safety. So give yourself a little distance.

We care about your safety.

Dear Family and Friends,
Many of you have inquired about Sagan's well being. She is scheduled for open heart surgery to repair an ASD (Atrial Septal Defect, which is a hole between the two upper chambers of her heart). Surgery is scheduled for Monday, July 8th in San Antonio.

We are grateful for your prayers in our behalf, and for your phone calls offering to help in many ways. We appreciate those of you who have so willingly given donor directed blood donations, which will go directly to her, if she needs it.

You have supported us and expressed your love and concern in so many ways: feeding livestock, babysitting, cleaning our home, running numerous errands, offering the use of your automobiles for our trips to San Antonio, and sending along "care packages," complete with all kinds of good things to snack on.

We couldn't get through this alone.

Sincerely,
Bill and Toni Everett

Cotton promotion day is successful

Recognizing the fact that cotton is one of Mitchell County's largest source of income, Buford Extension Homemakers undertook the task of putting together a day of activities that would promote the purchase and use of cotton and cotton products. Local businesses donated items for door prizes, supplied clothing for the fashion show and set up displays all in promotion of cotton in the field and in the home.

The attendance was overwhelming, over 200 were present throughout the day. People from not only Mitchell County but Garden City, Midland, Snyder and Big Spring turned out to see just what was taking place.

The "American Grown and Made" fashion show proved a hit with 37 models waltzing across the Fort Wood Pavilion floor in their American made cotton garments. Onlookers inquired "where can I buy that?" Where else, but right here in Colorado City at Free's Fashions, Rowe's, The Cotton Patch, Anthony's and Wood's.

If you missed the day then you missed something special, but don't worry this won't be a one time event!

Models for Cotton Promotion Fashion Show were Elroy Boedecker, Bryan Limmer, Cody Loving, Chad Ritchey, Josh

Ritchey, Jan Blassingame, Muriel Thurman, Terryn Aurtry, Jeanine Bodine, Angela Chaney, Debbie Massengill, Fern Thompson, Bettina Bridgford, Mica Merrell, Betsy Myers, Adam Myers, Angie Harris, Kristin Ritchey, Jennifer Ritchey, Anjanette Morgan, Crystal Costabile, Amanda Costabile, Megan Merrell, Jessica Chaney, Hayley Smith, Billie Dannheim, Velma Hester, all of Colorado City. Bryan Kelly and Jennifer Kelly of Horatio, Arkansas; Myrtle Stewart and Rudy Thomas of Maryneal; Margaret Brame, Wanza Graham, Eva Wells, Nina Meadows, and Dawn Butler, all of Loraine; and Mary Alice of Snyder.

PERSONALS

and I know she is right.

A cousin, Willie Williams, of Wichita Falls was present and the oldest one there at 100 years of age and another relative was 95 years old. He is Pete McCarley of Happy Texas. I also hear that Juanice Butler is not 95 or a 100 but she was Minnie Pearl. I know she did her job well. They all left full, tired, and happy and plan to be back next year.

Recently, Mildred Free, Billie Ruth Abernathy, Christy Dockrey, Sally Smith and Chrystene Hall returned from a London, Berlin, Paris tour. The English Channel was the roughest that we have ever experienced. The ferry embarked at Dunkirk. Another new experience was an overnight train ride from Amsterdam to East Berlin. The group slept on straight boards with six including the luggage in a 6x8 space. Many experiences on the trip will never be forgotten.
