'Forties' photo series to open

A reception is scheduled from 1 until 4 p.m.

The collection was derived from more than 6,000 photographs made between 1943-50 by Standard Oil of New Jersey. This was done in a public relations program designed to combat the negative image the company felt it was acquiring.

The photos were mostly made in small towns and in the country and they record every aspect of the community — the school, church, work and lesiure,

Book signing at museum also

Local historian Charles Anderson will be on hand Sunday to sign copies of his newest book "Deep Creek Merchant" at the opening reception for a new photo exhibit at the Scurry County Museum.

The book signing will be from 1 until 4 p.m. and is sponsored by the Scurry County Historical Commission. Also due to attend is Lu Bright, whose original drawings illustrate the book.

The reception and book signing will be in conjunction with the museum's "Out of the Forties" photo display.

In addition, The Diamond M Museum will be staging a reception Sunday from 1 until 4 p.m. also. It marks the opening of its new exhibit, "Texas West of the Pecos." This series features color photographs of the Big Bend region.

Texas' Big Bend area will be the attraction Sunday at the Diamond M Museum as a new photo exhibit officially opens.

A museum reception is planned Sunday from 1 until 4 p.m.

Jim Bones, whose photographs of the Trans-Pecos region will be featured in the exhibition, has said he finds more than a means of livlihood in his work.

"Landscape photography has to a large extent provided the medium I sought to express my feelings about the earth, its life and our relations with it," Bones said.

"In the fundamental patterns of wild nature, we perceive the relative health of the world around us."

For his work, Bones used a large 4X5 camera.

Bones lives in Santa Fe, N.M. and pursues his landscape photography full time, working primarily in Texas and New Mexico. His current exhibit, "Texas West of the Pecos," grew out of a series of trips to the Big Bend region. He depicts vistas which include the color of regional vegetation, the rush of streams and rivers winding through canyons and the delicate beauty of seasonal changes in the Big Bend area.

"Texas West of the Pecos" is circulated by the Amon Carter Museum in Fort Worth.

First 6 months equal building at $5.2 million

Building permit totals equaled more than three-quarters of a million dollars during March here — new construction estimates which continue to improve the gap noted this year as compared to last.

The March figure also marked the first six months of the 1983-84 fiscal year. If construction during the second six months keeps pace with the first half of the year, Snyder could experience a $10 million-plus building year.

By the end of March, this figure stood at $5.2 million, according to figures released by Jim Haynes, building inspector for the city.

For March last year, building estimates were at some $2.1 million.

The month's total equaled almost $786,000. The exact figure is $785,950.

Approximately one-half of this was generated by a single project — a townhouse development now planned by the partnership of Dalton Walton and Mike Graves.

These will be built in south Snyder between Cogdell Memorial Hospital and the WTC golf course. The address is 1701 Firestone.

Current plans are to build three of the 2,000 sq. ft.-plus townhouses with sufficient area purchased to expand this to 12. The structures will be located on a 1 ¾ acre tract of land.

Contractor for the job is Two G's Inc. of Lubbock. The portion of the project now under construction is estimated at a $350,000 cost.

March permits included also five applications to construct new homes in Snyder plus eight applications to move-in mobile homes.

The new home permits were obtained by representatives of Frontier Homes to build a residence at 317 32nd St.;

Altercation sends one to hospital

An altercation between two Snyder men sent one to Cogdell Memorial Hospital Friday around 1 p.m.

Snyder police and units of Aid Ambulance-Snyder were called to the Richard Allen Vansickle residence at 309 36th St. after gun shots were reported at 12:48 p.m.

According to police investigators, a fight apparently broke out between Vansickle and 25-year-old Joseph Scott Hendricks in the front yard of the residence.

Officers say shots were fired after Vansickle produced a .44 magnum revolver and fired at Hendricks.

Hendricks reportedly reentered the house and Vansickle sustained the head injuries while the two were fighting inside.

Vansickle was taken from the scene to Cogdell Memorial Hospital for treatment of head injuries suffered in the altercation.

As of 10 a.m. Saturday, no arrests had been made in connection with the case. Investigators reported late Friday afternoon that the case would be presented to the district attorney's office for possible charges.

ELECTION TURNOUT — Dora White and Ruby Anderson (seated) were busy at 9 a.m. Saturday as a good turnout of Scurry County voters lined up at city hall to cast their ballots. Voting in three local elections has been combined at the site. These include races for the Western Texas College board of trustees, city council and Snyder school board. (SDN Staff Photo)

Project begins for townhouses

Work has begun here on a new townhouse project being constructed in southeast Snyder between Cogdell Memorial Hospital and the WTC golf course.

Current plans are to build three of the 2,000 sq. ft.-plus townhouses with sufficient area purchased to expand this to 12.

The first three structures will front to the south and will be located on a 1 ¾ acre tract of land. If all 12 are built, another three will be constructed facing south with six more built on the opposite side of the site facing north.

The entire 1 ¾ acre area will be encircled with a 7 ft. fence and a center courtyard will be built to serve all of the units.

The project is being built by a partnership comprised of Dalton Walton and Mike Graves of Snyder. Contractor for the job is Two G's Inc. of Lubbock.

The portion of the project under construction is estimated at a $350,000 cost. This includes the three townhouses plus the curb and guttering and sidewalk for the entire acreage.

TOWNHOUSE PROJECT — This drawing illustrates one of three townhouses to be built here. The residences will feature 2,000 sq. ft. of living space to include a two-car garage, three bedrooms and 2 ½ baths. (Architect's Drawing)

Project sponsors note the floor plan for the first three units is already set, but that future townhouses can be built to the specificiation of the buyer.

Features of the first three include a two-car garage with each. They will also include a three bedroom, 2 ½ bath design.

The exterior of the townhouses will be brick and they will feature a wooden "shake shingle" roof.

Dirt work is now underway at the project site.

SCOOP week will include fund raisers

This week has been declared SCOOP-Friendship Home Week in Snyder with activities planned to raise funds for the Friendship Home project.

If established, it will provide a home for teenage girls who have suffered parental abuse or neglect. SCOOP (Scurry County Options and Opportunities for People) is a non-profit organization formed to establish this home.

Events planned include an adult game day at the Teen Center Wednesday; a walk-a-thon next Saturday beginning at 2:30 p.m. at the Trinity United Methodist Church parking lot; and a Fifties "sock hop" at the Teen Center next Saturday from 8 p.m. until midnight.

At both the walk-a-thon and the sock hop, prizes

The feller on Deep Creek says, "An apology is a good way to have the last word."

Last week Snyder public schools held registration for kindergarten-age children who will start to school next year. Lots of funny stories come out of parent-teacher relationships--and some of them can't be repeated.

J.D. Smith, music teacher at Central Elementary, grew up with teachers as both his mother and dad toiled in the classroom.

J.D. tells the story about his mother registering a first grader on the first day of school one September. As Mrs. Smith was filling out the registration cards for the new student, she asked the mother the name of the pupil.

"His name is Gooey," the mother announced proudly.

"Gooey?" Mrs. Smith questioned thinking she might not have understood correctly.

"Yes, Gooey," the mother repeated.

"Can you spell that for me?" Mrs. Smith asked.

"Sure," the mother responded. "It's spelled G-U-Y. I read a book years ago that had a boy named Gooey in it and I chose it for my son?"

Here's some food for thought as we approach the April 15 tax deadline.

A federal agency has paid $1 million rent for an office building near the U.S. Capitol and has invested another $700,000 renovating it. Still the building remains empty and ile--largely because it's in a high-crime area and employees don't want to work there.

Empty space is indeed a problem, particularly when it's between the ears of bureucrats.

Ask Us

Q. — When is the city going to complete the street emulsion work?

A. — City officials say that crews had to be taken off the emulsion project because of work required at the Snyder landfill. Workers are to begin spraying emulsion again within the next two weeks. The public will be informed through the newspaper and radio where crews will be working and the city asks that individals attempt to not drive over these streets until the emulsion has dried.

In Brief

Close in on disabled craft

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Challenger's astronauts, hauling a bus-sized package of experiments to be parked in space, moved closer today to a crippled satellite they hope to recapture and repair.

At midday, astronaut Terry Hart planned to grab the 11-ton experiment package with the ship's 50-foot robot arm and deposit it overboard, where it will stay in orbit until a shuttle crew brings it back to Earth next February.

Meanwhile, Commander Robert Crippen and pilot Dick Scobee scheduled three more gap-closing engine firings for Saturday.

Funnel cloud reported

The Abilene office of the National Weather Service issued a tornado warning for the eastern sections of Scurry County Saturday around 10:45 a.m.

According to reports, Abilene radar confirmed a Department of Public Safety sighting of a funnel cloud north of I-20. The funnel was reported seen in the Inadale-Wastella-Pyron area, moving northeast at 20 miles per hour.

By 11 a.m., however, county deputies reported the storm had moved out of the county.

March meetings this week

The March meeting for several public entities in Snyder is scheduled this week.

The board of trustees for Western Texas College will meet Monday at the administration building beginning at 5:45 p.m.

The Snyder city council will meet Monday also, a meeting scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. at city hall.

Snyder school board members will gather for their monthly meeting Tuesday. This session will be in the school administration building beginning at 7:30 p.m.

In addition Monday, Scurry County commissioners will have their weekly meeting. It begins at 10 a.m. at the courthouse.

SCOOP session Sunday

SCOOP (Scurry County Options and Opportunites for People) will meet Sunday at 2 p.m. at the First Christian Church.

The public is invited to attend and a nursery will be provided. Cost of the nursery will be 50 cents per hour.

Judge recesses Lucas' trial

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — A psychologist testified that Henry Lee Lucas, being tried on a capital murder charge, has suffered from schizophrenia most of his adult life and "ought to be institutionalized."

State District Judge John Carter called a recess Friday at the request of defense attorneys after Lucas, 47, broke down and cried when Dr. Tom Kubiszyn described the convicted murderer's childhood.

Kubiszyn said Lucas suffered repeated "physical abuse from his natural mother" and "harbors deep-seated resentment towards females and authorities."

Lucas is being tried in the death of an unidentified woman whose nude body was found near Georgetown on Halloween 1979. The trial was moved to San Angelo because of extensive publicity about the case in Georgetown.

Earlier in the week, prosecutors showed the jury videotapes of Lucas confessing to the killing, but Lucas' attorneys contend he was in Florida at the time of the slaying and confessed because he is mentally ill.

Kubiszyn, an Austin psychologist, testified for the defense.

Lucas, who has claimed responsibility for about 150 killings across the country, has been convicted in two Texas murders and received prison sentences of 75 years and life. The Georgetown case is the first to come to trial in which Lucas faces the death penalty.

Lucas started crying and wiping his eyes with a handkerchief as Kubiszyn, who interviewed Lucas for more than six hours in February, testified that Lucas' youth was one without emotional support or guidance.

Legislator claims state agencies waste money

AUSTIN (AP) — Some state agency officials lied about how much money they needed and then misspent what they got, a member of the House Appropriations Committee has charged.

Rep. Steve Wolens, D-Dallas, called Friday for a special investigation of state spending, with an eye toward cutting out money not needed for the second year of the 1984-85 budget.

"We could save the state a lot of money," he said at a Friday committee meeting.

"There is a clear indication of waste. We should try to wring out the budget," Wolens said.

Recent reports indicate spending improprieties in the Texas Department of Corrections and other agencies. Wolens said there has been "clear abuse." Pointing at the lectern where agency heads make their budget requests to the appropriations committee, he declared, "There's been perjury committed at that rostrum there."

Committee Chairman Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, refused Wolens' request for the budget scrutiny. But the chairman encouraged committee members to look for ways to save state money.

The committee met Friday in preparation for a special session Gov. Mark White is expected to call this summer. Lawmakers will be asked to come up with money for a teacher pay raise, White has said.

Wolens said the biggest budget problems is that "there is no incentive for any of the agencies to save money. They have every incentive to spend."

Ira to register five-year-olds

The annual registration of children who will be entering Ira Public School kindergarten next year (1984-85 school year) is scheduled Monday.

Children are eligible for kindergarten if they have reached five years of age on or before Sept. 1, 1984. Registration will be conducted in the principal's office between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. A valid birth cirtificate and immunization record will be required at this time.

All children should have previously completed or should be in the process of completing their required immunizations. According to Texas law, the children must be immunized for polio, DPT, rubella, mumps, and measles (rubeola) before they can enter school in the fall. A doctor's written verification of the child having measles or mumps will be acceptable in lieu of a vaccination.

HOW TO GET "TURNED-ON"

We are living through an age of experimentation in terms of getting the most out of our senses. It seems that people, especially youngsters, are looking for new and different ways to get "turned-on".

This has led to mind-expanding drug experimentation, sensitivity sessions of various varieties, even sexual experimentation among single and married groups.

What is interesting to note is that in spite of all the potions and philosophies, the greatest "turn-on" is a natural turn-on. It is one that has been around since the beginning of time. It's called "good health." There is nothing that will give greater physical, mental or psychological pleasure.

Good health will give you more energy than a pep pill. It'll make you happier than a hallucinatory agent. It'll make you think deeper than a Swami. It'll make you see, feel and hear it like it "really is." Good health gives you the ability to live life to its fullest.

The common problem is that many people take their health for granted. Then if they are not feeling up to par, they think they can overcome their problem by some gimmick method. They look for a quick and easy cure when the only answer is natural health.

Interestingly enough, there is a big swing to health and physical fitness. And spurring the movement are many of those individuals who have tried other devices and learned the hard way that there is no substitute for health. Because they have come to recognize the hazards of artificial methods, many have selected chiropractic, which is a healing profession devoted to the maintenance of good health through natural methods only. No surgery, no pills.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Heart palpitations

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I hope you can help me with a problem I've had for more than a year. I'm a 25-year-old woman in fairly good physical shape.

It all started when I was taking caffeine tablets and amphetamines to help me stay awake when I worked nights. I became hooked on these and took them for several months. When I stopped taking them I began having palpitations and irregular heartbeats.

My doctor put me on Inderal, which I'm still taking. The first few months the irregular beats were almost unbearable, but I've improved and I've cut the Inderal by half.

But sometimes my heart beats funny. I feel shaky inside and when I'm walking or standing a long time — say an hour or so — and I feel lightheaded and weak. Recently I had little pains and aching in my left shoulder and back.

Will I ever get back to normal? Could I have a heart attack?

DEAR READER — I'm glad you're seeing a doctor. I can't be sure your problem is related to caffeine tablets or amphetamines, since the problem began after you quit taking these. But these medicines do increase the heart's irregular beats. In sensitive people they can cause dangerous irregularities of the heart.

Your doctor should be able to tell you if he found anything in your heart to contribute to the problem. Some people have a floppy heart valve (prolapse of the mitral valve), associated with heart irregularities.

If you don't have a heart murmur or something similar, you're probably experiencing a certain amount of anxiety. The Inderal promotes those anxious feelings and heart irregularities. Eliminate coffee, tea, cigarettes and do some regular exercise.

Meanwhile, I'm sending you the Health Letter 6-12, Heart Irregularities; Skipped Beats and Tachycardias, for more details. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a woman, 5 feet 1 inch tall and weigh 114 pounds.

I'd like to know if there are any special exercises I can do to put some shape into my legs. My knees are bony and the calves are shapeless. I'm embarrassed to wear a dress, let alone be seen in shorts in the summertime. I can't afford a health club, but I ride a bike and walk a lot.

DEAR READER — The two muscles that make up the calf muscle are used to stand on your toes, lifting the heels off the floor. You may need more than walking and bike riding. You need to work those muscles against resistance. Stand flat-footed, balance yourself with your hand against the wall or some other object and raise yourself up on your toes. Contract your calf muscle as much as you can, then let yourself back down to the floor. This works the muscles so they'll grow. Do about 10 of these, rest, and then do 10 more. Do these exercises every other day, three days a week.

Later you can raise up on one foot at a time. Never work your leg muscles so much that they becomes sore or stiff. In the course of a few months you may notice some improvement. If you want to look nice next summer, begin now.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 57 and concerned about my health as I age. I read in your column that lack of calcium in small women could lead to osteoporosis. Since I don't like milk, as a preventive step I bought some calcium with vitamin D and take one capsule a day. They contain 89 milligrams of calcium, 58 milligrams of phosphorous and 333 IU of vitamin D. I also take a multivitamin containing 125 milligrams of calcium.

Are these items safe? Can there be any adverse effects?

DEAR READER — The adverse effect can be that you aren't getting nearly enough calcium if you don't drink milk.

Middle-aged or older women probably need an excess of 1,000 milligrams of elemental calcium a day. This means that if you take calcium lactate, the weight of the tablet is not what counts, but how much pure calcium is contained in the compound.

Women who have signs of osteoporosis may need 1.5 grams of elemental calcium a day. To help you choose preparations, you need to know the amount of calcium they contain. Here are the values for common preparations: Calcium gluconate, 40 milligrams per 500-milligram tablet; calcium lactate, 80 milligrams per 600-milligram tablet; calcium carbonate, 400 milligrams per 1-gram (1,000 milligrams) tablet; and calcium citrate, 40 milligrams per 300-milligram tablet. Many preparations that can be bought without a prescription, such as Os-Cal, are calcium carbonate from oyster shell. Os-Cal 500 tablets provide 500 milligrams of elemental calcium in each tablet.

Doctors often prescribe larger doses of vitamin D than you're taking. I don't advocate anyone doing this without a doctor's recommendation.

While inadequate calcium intake or absorption may contribute to developing osteoporosis, that's not the sole cause. That's why vitamin D (a good source is the sun), estrogen or hormonal supplements when needed, and even small doses of fluoride, are also used in these preparations.

The more complete program used for osteoporosis is included in the Health Letter 6-10, Osteoporosis, Bone Softening, which I'm sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — In a recent novel about the Italian castrated singers of 17th and 18th centuries, the males were portrayed as having normal sexual desires and being able to perform sexual activities except for ejaculation of sperm.

This conflicts with what happens to neutered animals and it seems strange that sultans in ancient times would have left eunuchs in charge of their harems if this were so. The author also claimed that the castrati boys grew up lanky and delicate. I was under the impression that eunuchs were usually fat.

DEAR READER — These singers — known as the castrati singers — were castrated at boyhood to preserve the soprano range of their voices. However, if a male is castrated from puberty, his genitalia will remain juvenile and he won't develop libido or sexual potency. His voice will remain high-pitched. He grows slowly because he doesn't get the pubescent growth spurt associated with testosterone. Eventually he will be relatively tall, with long extremities.

He won't develop the heavy skeleton or musculature of the normal male and he may have some increased fat around the shoulders or hips, but he isn't necessarily fat, as your letter would imply.

Brakeman killed in collision

GOLDTHWAITE, Texas (AP) — A 25-year-old brakeman, the only member of the crew who didn't jump to safety, was killed when two Santa Fe freight trains collided head-on.

The accident took place about 6 a.m. Friday, seven miles south of this West Central Texas town, on a straight section of track, officials said.

"Everyone was able to jump clear of the locomotives with the exception of the deceased man," Santa Fe trainmaster M.H. Lynn said.

The dead man was identified as Adolpho Cruz Jr. of Waco.

Injured slightly were Harris P. Roberts, 33, of Rogers, and Montie R. Sims, 36, of Temple. They were treated at a Goldthwaite hospital for cuts and bruises and then released.

Mills County Sheriff Ron Wetterman said it was four hours after the accident before Cruz's body could be pulled out of the engine. He was in one of three engines that burst into flames upon impact and burned for several hours.

Nine locomotives and three freight cars derailed, said Santa Fe Railroad spokesman Loren Simmons of Dallas.

Simmons said the cause of the collision remains under investigation.

Lynn said at the scene he hadn't yet determined the speeds of the trains. The section of track had a posted speed limit of 30 mph.

The Texas Department of Public Safety at first reported that a freight car containing liquid petroleum gas, or propane, was burning, but later reported that the burning car was a boxcar that did not contain propane gas.

No toxic materials were involved, officials said.

Simmons said one train originated in Somerville and was bound for Amarillo with six loads of general merchandise and 83 empty cars. The three engines on the train were destroyed as diesel fuel burned out of control, and three cars derailed, he said.

The second train originated in Clovis, N.M., and was headed for Houston with 65 loads of potash and grain, Simmons said. All six of that train's engines derailed but remained upright, he said.

Dispatcher confused?

HOUSTON (AP) — A woman who was abducted and left in her trunk for 10 hours blames confusion for a police dispatcher's refusal to send help.

Arlynea Shittli, 40, said she was not angry with the dispatcher.

"I don't think they understood," she said.

"The dispatcher who answered said they (police) only get kids out of trunks," said Vicki Campbell, a bartender who called police after hearing Ms. Shittli's plea for help.

An internal affairs investigation of the refusal to send help was dropped Friday, department spokesman Raul Correa said. He would give no reason for that action.

The dispatcher said Ms. Shittli could free herself by releasing a latch inside the trunk, Ms. Campbell said. But Ms. Shittli said later that the car had no such latch.

Ms. Shittli, who was freed later by a friend who arrived with an extra key, was unharmed except for a few bruises.

Capt. Charles Bullock, head of the dispatch division, was not in his office Friday and could not be reached for comment.

Ms. Shittli said she stopped her Lincoln automobile at a west Houston intersection on Wednesday night and was bumped by a vehicle from behind.

She looked back and saw a woman driving the other car, accompanied by two men, she said.

Ms. Shittli said she opened her door and one of the men grabbed her neck and pushed her down on the car seat. He ordered her to lie still and be quiet, she said.

The kidnapper began to drive her car off, with his accomplices following in the other car. Ms. Shittli said she offered money but when she lifted her head, he pulled a knife and ordered her not to move.

Her abductors later took $1,130 in cash and checks from her briefcase, tied her up and left her in the trunk.

Receipt suggests Geter may have been in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — A recently discovered receipt from 1982 suggests Lenell Geter was in Dallas on the day of a robbery in suburban Balch Springs that resulted in his life prison sentence, the Dallas Times Herald reported today.

Dallas County prosecutors, who found the receipt at a north Dallas stereo store, said the evidence casts doubt on Geter's testimony that he never left his job at E-Systems in Greenville on the day of the robbery.

But other evidence discovered during the investigation convinced several prosecutors that Geter was innocent, the Times Herald quoted informed sources as saying.

Geter, who is free after following the dismissal of all charges against him last month, said he believes the receipt is erroneous. The receipt is dated Monday, Aug. 23, 1982, the same day a fried chicken restaurant was robbed in Balch Springs.

Based on the testimony of five eyewitnesses, Geter was convicted and sentenced to life in prison. Following widespread publicity about the case, prosecutors agreed last December to give Geter a new trial.

The case was dropped last month after prosecutors said they believed a ex-convict from Houston had committed the $615 robbery.

In a telephone interview with the Times Herald, Geter said he had been in the store to make layaway payments on a stereo, but added, "I would not think it was on a Monday. If I was to go to Dallas, it would be on a weekend."

If Geter had driven to Dallas that day, it could help explain several inconsistencies in the case, the newspaper quoted its sources as saying. For example, the reason Geter failed a May 1983 polygraph exam may be that he was being deceptive about his whereabouts, not about the robbery, the sources said.

A trip to Dallas also could explain why several of Geter's co-workers at E-Systems were unsure about his whereabouts during the early afternoon hours of Aug. 23, 1982, the sources said.

The receipt indicated that $5 was "paid on layaway" in Geter's name and is dated Aug. 23.

Ben Holloway, a store employee who initialed the receipt, said his records indicate the payment was made either with cash or a money order, but not with a personal check. Holloway said he did not recall who make the payment and added that it was possible that someone else paid the money for Geter or that a money order was sent by mail.

However, prosecutors believed it was unlikely that someone else would have made a $5 payment for Geter or that Geter would have mailed in a $5 money order because bank records showed he had about $2,400 in his checking account at the time, the Times Herald reported.

Holloway also said the chances of his writing the wrong date on the receipt were "slim to none" since he made a habit of checking the date before writing a ticket.

Prosecutors learned of the stereo receipt early this year by visiting the store after seeing Geter had written a check as a down payment for the stereo in July 1982, the newspaper reported.

An examination of Geter's bank records also showed he wrote three checks for less than $20 each in Greenville only a few hours after the robbery, the sources said. Some prosecutors contended that Geter would not have bothered writing small checks if he had $615 in cash, the Times Herald reported.

The sources said prosecutors kept the receipt secret in case they needed it to contradict Geter's anticipated alibi that he was at work the day of the robbery.

Picture of pigs out of display

DALLAS (AP) — A Southern Methodist University dean has ordered a picture of two pigs mating removed from a student art exhibit, but the chairman of the art department says the picture should have stayed.

The charcoal drawing, called "Two Magicians," was rendered by senior art major Kathy Windrow Galloway.

Eugene Bonelli, dean of the Meadows School of the Arts, ordered the picture removed after the opening night of the exhibit March 30.

Mrs. Galloway, 31, said Bonelli told her he became concerned when a student said some parents attending the exhibit might be offended by the subject matter.

"I don't really feel angry," Ms. Galloway said. "I'm just amazed. It's not the sort of thing you would expect to happen in a university in the 20th century."

Local's art is on display

Watercolors by Myrtle Joiner of Snyder are being exhibited by the Lubbock Art Association in the mezzanine gallery of Hemphill-Wells downtown store.

Thirteen of Mrs. Joiner's paintings are in the exhibit along with oil paintings by Leola Anderson of Colorado City and Janet Dybel of Levelland. The exhibit will remain in place through May.

Mrs. Joiner has had seven one-woman shows and in 1983 she won the best in show award at the Spur Homecoming Show. Other prizes include three additional best of show awards, 17 first places including one of the 1978 Snyder Palette Club's annual exhibition which attracted entries from five states, 18 second places, 19 third places, 32 honorable mentions and 15 purchase awards.

Mrs. Joiner is a member of the Snyder Palette Club, the Texas Fine Arts Association, the Big Country Art Association, the West Texas Watercolor Society, the Lubbock Art Association and the Watercolor West Society.

Opponents say front runners ducking debates

By The Associated Press

Democrat Bob Krueger says he can't think of any "front-runner" who has accepted more joint appearances with his opponents than he has, and Republican Phil Gramm says he has simply been too busy to debate other seekers of the U.S. Senate seat.

But opponents complain that the two are refusing to participate in televised debates.

Houston oilman Rob Mosbacher, seeking the Republican nomination, says of opponent Gramm, a congressman, "Very simply, his strategy is that he is the front-runner, and all that he does is dignify his opposition ... ing with them (his opponents)."

But U.S. Rep. Ron Paul, also of Houston, says, "It's pure arrogance. I think it's an insult to the people. Even incumbent presidents have been quite willing to debate the issues."

Gramm said he has been too busy fulfilling his duties in Congress and campaigning to accept debate invitations.

"I'm scheduled tight as a drum. I'm not going to rearrange my schedule to suit them (his opponents)," Gramm said.

Spokesmen for 10 Texas television stations say Gramm, Krueger or both have declined to accept some debate invitations in advance of the May 5 primary election.

Gramm has declined eight of nine invitations for station-sponsored debates, while Krueger has accepted six of 12 invitations, station officials said.

The challengers see televised debates as a good way to reach thousands of potential voters over a 30- or 60-minute period.

While a 30-second, prime-time television commercial ... a candidate $6,000 in the Houston market, debates cost the candidates nothing and provide more time to discuss issues.

Gramm's opponents all have accepted debate invitations. Krueger's top two opponents in the May 5 Democratic primary — state Sen. Lloyd Doggett and U.S. Rep Kent Hance — haven't declined any, the stations said.

Although Krueger joined Doggett and Hance in a televised debate arranged by public TV station KLRU in Austin this ... his challengers said he is trying to avoid as many such appearances as possible.

"I think he (Krueger) is trying to avoid debates.

Center sets Dunn Day

"Welcome Dunn Day" will be observed in the Senior Citizens Center Monday when residents of the Dunn Community are invited to be special guests. A hoola hoop contest starting at 11:30 a.m. will provide a highlight of the day.

On Tuesday, students from West Elementary will entertain visitors to the center with a program starting at 11:30 a.m. in the dining room. The center's Kitchen Band will be performing for residents of Snyder Oaks Care Center at 2:30 that afternoon and the Sunshine Choir will sing at Snyder Nursing Center at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Thursday night will be game night in the center. Under a newly adopted schedule, the second and fourth Thursdays of each month will be devoted to games. A light meal will be served at 6 p.m. with games to follow. Senior citizens who would lile transportation to the building on Thursday nights are to notify the office by 3 o'clock on Thursday afternoons.

Reservations are due by Friday for a special tour of the Diamond M Museum especially for senior citizens. The tour is scheduled for 1 p.m. on April 17. The museum will be featuring an exhibit of color photographs of West Texas landscapes titled "Texas West of the Pecos" along with its outstanding art collection. Persons wishing to tour with the group are asked to contact Virginia Whitson at the center.

Tickets for the barbecue meal on May 19 as part of May Day will go on sale April 16. Tickets will be $5 each and tickets sales will be limited to 1,000. Persons wishing to reserve tickets can call the office at 674-5035 but must pay for them in advance of May 19. May Day is the major fund raising activity of the center each year.

Calligraphy class slated

Bob Phillips, an instructor at the Carrizo Art School in Ruidoso, N. M., will direct a calligraphy workshop at Western Texas College on April 28.

Phillips has studied with some of the nation's finest calligraphers including Paul Freeman, Thomas Ingmire, Dick Beasley, Anne Lane and Alice Girand and with England's David Howell. He is a member of the Roswell, N. M. Opulent Order of Practicing Scribed (OOPS), Albuquerque Escribente, and the Western American Scoiety for Italic Handwriting.

His commercial calligraphy is frequently commissioned, and his work has been shown in Los Corrales Gallery in Corrales, N. M., as well as in exhibitions.

The workshop at WTC will give participants a sampling of calligraphic experiences including basic techniques of layout and design, use of Gouache watercolor and alaphabet refinement. Participants are to bring paper, pens, inks and Gouache brushes for the two work sessions planned.

Fees for the workshop will be $20 per person and enrollment will be limited fo 25 persons. Reservations are due April 25 and are to be made by sending the $20 fee to the Continuing Education Department at Western Texas College, Snyder, Tex. 79549.

Man arrested for slaying

DALLAS (AP) — An ex-convict found huddled in a vacant house was arrested Friday in connection with the slaying of a handicapped restaurant manager shot in the head during a robbery.

Dallas Police spokesman Ed Spencer said Ozzie Ellsworth Montgomery, 29, was arrested by officers about 9 a.m. in a vacant house in south Dallas.

"He was hiding in a bathroom," Spencer said. "He offered no resistance and he was not armed."

A capital murder warrant for Montgomery's arrest was issued late Wednesday by Municipal Judge Nina Lambeth.

Bobby Toles, a 34-year old polio victim, was shot once in the head with a .25-caliber automatic pistol during a Monday robbery of a Pizza Inn restaurant in North Dallas. Police said the robber escaped with $400.

Atheist wants primers distributed to pupils

HOUSTON (AP) — An atheist leader has threatened to sue four Houston-area school districts for allowing a Bible distributor to hand out New Testaments to fifth-graders.

Scott A. Kerns, director of the Houston Chapter of American Atheists, says he wants the districts to either bar the distribution of Bibles or to let him hand out "atheist primers."

"I hope Scott Kerns goes right ahead and sues," Mrs. O'Hair said.

Bail revoked for defendants as new allegations emerge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After learning of 397 new allegations of child molestation, druggings and the burial of a boy up to his chest, a judge revoked bail for five of seven nursery-school teachers charged with a decade of abuse against pupils as young as 2.

"If there's any case where there is to be no bail in a non-capital case, this is that case," Superior Court Judge Ronald M. George said Friday.

The transcript from the grand jury that indicted the five and two others quoted children as young as 2 who described being raped and sodomized, then silenced with threats at the Virginia McMartin Preschool in Manhattan Beach, George said.

George said the threats included bombing their families' homes, shooting their parents and putting sharp objects into girls' vaginas.

One child told of being buried in sand to his chest and left to dig himself out, the judge said. Others said they were given drugs that made them sleepy.

The children also said turtles, rabbits and other small animals were mutiliated and left to bleed to death in front of them in another form of threat, George said.

Authorities fear that as many as 100 children may have been victimized.

Deputy District Attorney Lael Rubin, who presented the 397 new allegations on a chart, said the claims came from students who were interviewed as recently as March 26, four days after the grand jury returned its 115-count indictment.

The defendants are Virginia McMartin, 76, the wheelchair-bound founder of the school, her daughter, grandson and granddaughter and three teachers unrelated to the family.

George allowed only Mrs. McMartin and teacher Mary Ann Jackson, 56, to remain free on bond they already had posted.

Teachers Betty Raidor, 64, and Babette Spitler, 36, pleaded innocent Friday, but George allowed the others to postpone entering pleas until April 20 to give Mrs. McMartin and her family members time to find separate attorneys.

In urging the bail revocation, Ms. Rubin said the community's "psychological trauma" would increase unless Peggy McMartin Buckey, 57, her son, Raymond Buckey, 25, her daughter, Peggy Ann Buckey, 28, Ms. Raidor and Ms. Spitler were behind bars.

Mrs. Jackson, who is named in five counts involving two chidren and who talked voluntarily with authorities before and after her arrest, proclaimed her innocence on Wednesday, her 37th wedding anniversary.

"I just know this is such a lie," she told The Daily Breeze in Torrance. "We do have a justice system and I have to say I trust that justice system. I think it's the best in the world. I have the love of my family and friends and I trust God."

Jordan's estimated 250,000 Bedouins make up less than 3 percent of the nation's population. They have largely folded their tents and abandoned their desert migrations. Many now live in settlements created by the government.

Advanced lifesaving class set

Advanced lifesaving will be taught in a Continuing Education course starting April 16 at Western Texas College.

Lee Burke, director of Health-Physical Education at WTC, will be instructor for the 21-hour course. Fees will be $50 per person and this includes the required textbook.

Students who successfully complete the course will be eligible for lifeguard certification by the American Red Cross. Enrollment will be limited to 15 students.

The initial class meeting is set for 6 p.m. on April 16. Other class times will be planned at that meeting.

To enroll, students must have passed their 15th birthday and be in good physical condition. They must also be able to perform a standing front dive in reasonably good form and dive from the surface to a minimum depth of eight feet. They must be able to swim 20 feet underwater and tread water one minute. They must be able to swim 500 yards continuously, using the front crawl stroke, a side stroke, a stroke done on the back using an inverted scissors or a breastroke kick and breaststroke.

To reserve space in the class, students are to call the Continuing Education office at 573-8511, ext. 240, in advance of the starting date.

HEALTH TIP from DEAN

APPLE-A-DAY

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away" - merely superstition? Apples are rich in vitamin C, which protects against virus infections - also B-complex vitamins, which soothe nervous disorders. Apples contain iron, copper, and manganese to form red blood cells. Apples contain calcium and phosphorus to maintain bone and muscle health - also sodium and potassium in a balance vital for cell and tissue health. Refresh with a health-giving apple.

FOR YOUR CONSIDERATION

My most fundamental belief about public education is that the school system should be run by the people of the district, through the Board of Trustees which they have elected. What the tax-payers want the school to be is what the board members should work hard to produce. The Board of Trustees should always be sensitive to the concerns of the tax-payers. Administrators and teachers should be hired only if we're sure that they are committed to our children, and to our policies of public education.

There can be no compromise in the area of discipline, control of the students in the classroom, or mastery of basic skills. I'm "old fashioned" in this respect. But I've lived in Snyder for 33 years, and I've been through the school system. I think I know what you, the tax-payers want for your tax dollars.

I have never had the slightest intention of trying to introduce sweeping changes in the Snyder schools--we have a good system, as a result of the efforts of many dedicated trustees, administrators, and teachers in years past, as well as at present...and as a result of the wisdom of the voters in electing trustees who have had the experiene and common sense necessary to do the job well.

During my two terms on the Snyder City Council I did not try to "change the city of Snyder". I only tried to improve whatever the people and the city manager said needed to be improved. As a school board member, I will do the same thing. I will work to improve whatever you, the people, and the administration would like to see changed.

We have a lot to be proud of and I would like to help keep it that way.

I've been involved in the educational process virtually all of my life. I believe I have the experience and other qualifications necessary to represent you well as a trustee of the Snyder Independent School District.

I ask for your support. My name is listed on the ballot as JOE R. REAVES (place 6).

Thank you.

Daughters of Republic of Texas...

Mark ancestors graves

Members of three West Texas chapters of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas honored two pioneer Scurry County women in ceremonies Thursday.

Markers honoring the citizens of the era of the Republic of Texas were placed on the graves of Eliza Jane Warren Boase Arnett and her daughter Mary Ellen Boase Scrivner, both buried in the Brookout cemetery near Dermott.

According to biographical information provided by the DRT, Eliza Jane Warren Boase Arnett was born in Mississippi April 6, 1821 and moved to the Republic of Texas after marrying Andrew J. Boase in February 1837.

Mary Ellen Boase was born in Texas June 4, 1838, shortly after the family moved to the republic. No one is certain what type of fate befell to her father, Andrew J. Boase, but it is thought that he was killed by Indians and Eliza Jane, her mother, married James B. Arnett in Texas on August 4, 1841.

The Arnett family returned to Mississippi around 1852 and stayed there for about 10 years before returning to Texas and settling in Burnet County in 1862.

While in Mississippi, Mary Ellen married Isaiah James Scrivner in December 1856 and they returned to Texas, settling in Smith County, early in 1860.

The Scrivners lived in Smith County about 7 years before beginning a move to Hill County. Scrivner was murdered with poison during the move and Mary Ellen stayed with her in-laws, eventually living in [illegible] and Mills counties.

Some of Mary Ellen's married children moved to Scurry County in 1891 and she followed them here in 1893. She obtained a land grant in block 97 of Scurry County and tax records show that she eventually paid taxes on 1440 acres of land.

Eliza Jane followed her son David Collee Arnett and daughter Melissa Jane Arnett from Smith County to Scurry County in 1901 where she lived until her death December 17, 1913.

Mary Ellen preceded her mother in death, passing away in Scurry County July 7, 1904.

The markers placed on the women's graves Thursday are part of an ongoing sesquicentennial project of the DRT to honor the citizens of the Republic of Texas.

The small stone markers have three dates, 1836 signifying the year of the founding of the republic, 1845 signifying the year Texas became a state, and 1891 signifying the year of the founding of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas.

Members of the Snyder, Lubbock and Odessa chapters of the DRT as well as surviving descendants of the two women participated in the event.

Mrs. Rex L. (Wanda) Arnold, President General of the DRT and a direct descendant of the honored women presented biographical sketches of their lives for the group.

Strike pitting unions against resorts

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — In this city where half the households derive an income from tourism or gaming, the resort workers' strike that has dimmed the glittery Strip is a critical showdown between Nevada's most powerful union and an industry rebounding from recession.

As the strike threat loomed larger before the Culinary Union's contract expired April 1, the 21-member Nevada Resort Association vowed it would not see a repeat of March 1976, when a walkout closed 11 hotels for 15 days and cost the city $131 million.

By Tuesday, a day after 17,100 kitchen workers, porters, cashiers, musicians, bartenders, stagehands and other hotel-casino employees walked out, the Las Vegas Hilton reported it had hired 400 substitutes and other resorts were following suit.

The same day, the city's Convention and Visitors Authority put into effect a special, $158,000 advertising campaign featuring a chef saying, "Las Vegas, we're open and cooking."

Work rules are the key issue both for the resort association, which has tied the rules to wage provisions, and for the strikers, who include 15,000 members of the 26,000-member Culinary Union — Nevada's largest — and about 2,100 others from the bartenders, musicians and stagehands unions.

Gambling has continued, since most casino floor workers are not unionized.

Dear Abby

Sluggish Couple Needs To Shift Out of Park

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Our 18-year-old son got married without our permission. He didn't have a job and neither did the girl he married. She's 19 and very lazy.

They lay around our house for a couple of weeks, eating, listening to music and watching television. Neither one of them went out to look for work.

My husband finally told them they would have to get out because they were getting on our nerves, so our son went down and joined the Marines. He was ordered to go to boot camp, so I asked him where his wife was going to stay and he said, "With you, Ma."

I couldn't kick her out and she couldn't go to her own mother's because they had kicked her out for marrying our son. We put up with her for three weeks, then our son was sent back from the Marines. They said he wasn't Marine material, whatever that means.

Now we have the two of them lying around eating, listening to music and watching television all day. My husband is fed up and so am I. What should we do? I hate to be cruel.

BALTIMORE MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If you continue to give them bread and board, they will not be motivated to earn their own. Sometimes we have to be cruel to be kind. Let them paddle their own canoe.

DEAR ABBY: You told a reader that in America one summons a waiter by first catching his eye, then raising his hand with one finger pointing heavenward, and if necessary calling, "Waiter."

Abby, please specify which finger. I used the wrong finger once and got a lap full of lasagna—hot!

CHARLIE SCHWARTZ

DEAR CHARLIE: The index finger.

RODEO ACTION -- Western Texas College cowboy Todd Whatley is shown competing in the Howard County College Rodeo, which is being held this weekend in Big Spring. Western Texas will host its own rodeo from April 12 to the 15th at Scurry County Coliseum. (SDN Staff Photo by Bill McClellan)

WTC looking sharp for final peformance

BIG SPRING -- Western Texas College rodeo participants continued to show well in the Howard County NIRA Rodeo here Friday.

The three-day rodeo concludes with performances at 7:30 Saturday evening.

The event preceeds the Western Texas College Rodeo, which will be held April 12-15 at Scurry County Coliseum in Snyder.

In action here Friday, WTC's Shane Smith scored a 68 in the bareback and is tied for second place with three other performers. John Hedrick rode a 68 in the saddlebronc and is in third place.

Dale Gideon is tied for fourth place with Greg Rhodes of WTC in the bullriding with a score of 69.

Judy Cox is winning second in the break-away with a time of 3.8 seconds. Kellie Kyle is third with a 4.1.

Kyle is also first in the barrel race with a 17.89.

"We're setting in pretty good shape right now, especially in the girls' side," said Western's Coach Bob Doty. "Judy and Kellie are both placing and we still have Canita (Cass) in the barrel race, goat tying and break-away. We've still got several team members to go in the mens' side too."

Others from WTC to compete Saturday were Sheila Fifer, Jana Terry, Van Hale, Rowdy Rasberry, James Wallace, Randy Bomar, Donnie Yorks and Craig Murdock.

Despite wind...

Bean leads at Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) - Andy Bean battled biting cold and blustery winds for a five-under-par 67 - including a 31 on the back nine - and a one-stroke lead Friday in the second round of the $400,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

"On the back, everything went in," said Bean, who dropped two putts from about 20 feet, another from 30 and one from 40.

"I was trying to birdie every hole on the back, and when I got 'em on 10, 11 and 12, I was beginning to think I was going to."

Bean, a non-winner for the past two years, completed 36 holes over the 6,984-yard Forest Oaks Country Club course in 138, six under par.

Jack Renner, a winner in the winds of Hawaii two months ago, also compiled a bogey-free 67 in the extremely difficult playing conditions and was at 139 at the tournament's halfway point.

"When I saw the way the wind was blowing, I was concerned with making the cut (qualifying for the final two rounds), so I just went out with the idea of making a lot of pars," Renner said.

"I think the conservative approach paid off. If I'd been trying to shoot 67 in winds like this, I'd probably have had a 77."

Nick Faldo of England and Dave Peoples were at 141. Faldo had a 70 in the temperature that ranged from the 40s into the low 50s and Peoples shot a 71.

Andy North, the former U.S. Open champion who had shared the first-round lead, played in the worst of the weather and had to work hard to salvage a 74.

"It was a struggle," said North, who was tied at 142 with Buddy Gardner, Mac O'Grady and Canadian Jim Nelford. Gardner had a second-round 73, O'Grady a 72 and Nelford a 71.

Rookie Willie Wood, tied with North for the 18-hole lead, went to a 76 and was at par 144.

Bean ran off nine consecutive pars before dropping a 10-foot birdie putt on the 10th and, he said, "It was like somebody took the lid off."

He holed 20-footers on the next two holes, played 13 in par, then holed out from 40 feet on the 14th. His final birdie came on the 16th, from about 30 feet.

Rangers edge Yanks

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Pete O'Brien scored on shortstop Bobby Meacham's eighth-inning throwing error and the Texas Rangers nipped the New York Yankees 7-6 Friday night.

O'Brien led off the bottom of the eighth with a double off reliever Dale Murray after the Yankees had scored three runs to tie the game 6-6 in the top of the inning on Roy Smalley's bases-loaded double.

After O'Brien doubled, Mickey Rivers sacrificed him to third base and Ned Yost struck out.

Curtis Wilkerson grounded to Meacham, who bobbled the ball, then threw low to first base, allowing O'Brien to score.

Dave Tobik picked up the victory in relief although he permitted Smalley's damaging eighth-inning hit.

Murray took the loss after coming on in the seventh inning in relief of starter John Montefusco, who lasted 6 2-3 innings and allowed the Rangers six runs.

Rangers starter Frank Tanana also lasted 6 2-3 innings before being relieved by Tom Henke.

Dave Winfield hit his second homer of the year in the sixth inning off Tanana.

Mets rip Astros, 8-1

HOUSTON (AP) - George Foster drove home four runs with a three-run home run and Walt Terrell limited Houston to three hits as the Mets routed the Astros 8-1 Friday night.

Foster's first home run of the season highlighted a six-run third inning off loser Mike Scott, who also yielded a two-run single to Junior Ortiz in the inning.

The Mets took a 1-0 lead in the first when Wally Backman singled to deep shortstop, went to third on Jose Oquendo's single and scored on Keith Hernandez' grounder to first baseman Ray Knight.

Backman and Oquendo singled to open the third, then Foster cracked his first home run of the season. Then Darryl Strawberry singled, Hubie Brooks walked, Danny Heep drove Strawberry home with a double to left field and Ortiz singled home Brooks and Heep.

Terrell, 1-0, went all the way for the Mets, walking two and striking out three.

Jose Cruz got the second Astros hit to open the fifth inning, went to second on Jerry Mumphrey's walk, took third on Knight's fly to center and scored on Denny Walling's sacrifice fly.

Foster, who had four hits, added an RBI double in the sixth.

Budd gains citizenship

LONDON (AP) - Now registered as a British citizen, Zola Budd, South Africa's record-breaking distance runner, has pledged to run her heart out for her newly adopted country.

Government officials said Friday they speeded up the 17-year-old runner's application for citizenship to give her the chance to compete for a place on the British team that will participate in the Los Angeles Olympics in July.

District golf...

Tigers climb a notch

Snyder's Tigers shaved 36 strokes off of their previous district outing to move from 12th to 11th place in the 2-4A boy's district golf standings here Friday.

The Tigers, who shot a 373 on the Western Texas College course, have a 782 total.

Andrews moved into the standings lead with a fine 313. The Mustangs, in second after the first tournament last week, have a total 665. Pecos is in second with a 654. The Eagles shot a 324 here.

Sweetwater, which led the standings a week ago, shot a 342 to drop to third overall with a 691. Andrews B team carded a 340 and moved from seventh to fourth with a total of 710 strokes.

Medalist at the single-day tournament was Pecos' Michael Harrison, who shot a 75. Andrews' Scott Jones turned in a 77. Jones leads the medalist race with a 161 while Harrison has a 162 for two tournaments.

Snyder was paced by Lance Leatherwood's 88. Todd Turner and Chad Sellars carded 93's while Mike McKinney shot a 99 and Shane Gann a 104.

The local B-squad shot a 436 for the tournament. Playing for the Tigers were David Holley with a 98, Virgil Feinsod with a 107, Billy Newton with a 111 and Mark Murphy with a 120.

CHARLES BOLLINGER
homer help gain WP honors

Tigers turn back Tors to win sixth straight

LAMESA -- Coach Albert Lewis wasn't particularly impressed with Snyder's 6-3 win over Lamesa here Friday but he's not going to turn it down.

"We played like we were sleepwalking out there today but we'll take it," said Lewis, who was speaking of, among other things, three Tiger errors. "We got a lot of base hits but we couldn't get the one we needed to break their backs. Lamesa has a good team. We expected them to be tough at home."

Snyder got one-hit pitching from Charles Bollinger, who came into the game in the second inning when starter Jimmy Cain began having control problems. He was backed by some good defense, despite the errors.

"Charlie showed some spark. He did a fine job," said Lewis.

Bollinger had started Tuesday's game against Pecos but was pulled in the second inning when he gave up five straight hits. Friday's showing was different.

"I felt good today. The main difference between today and the game with Pecos was I was throwing curve balls today. Pecos hit my fastball," the junior righthander commented. He was quick to praise his teammates. "We've got a good defense. William Cotton (short stop) made some good plays."

Bollinger also aided his own cause, rapping a one-run homer in the third inning to give Snyder a 3-2 advantage.

The Tigers had taken a 2-0 lead in the second inning on Justin Webb's bases loaded single. Chris Sanders had walked and Norman Malone and Eddie McClure had singled to set up the two-RBI shot.

Lamesa tied the game in the bottom half of the inning. Prentis Smith walked, rounded the bases on an overthrow at second base and scored on a passed ball delivered by Cain. Joe John Hernandez also walked and scored on a single from Danny Gonzales. Coach Lewis brought Bollinger in and he got a second out on a pop-up and a third on a strikeout.

The Tigers took the lead for good in the third when Bollinger slammed his third home run of the season - this one over the centerfield fence.

Good fielding and steady pitching kept Lamesa from scoring again until the fifth inning. Meanwhile, Snyder added some insurance runs.

McClure and Webb both singled in the fourth inning and took an extra base on a passed ball. Willie Greathouse drove McClure across with a sacrifice fly to right field and Chad Peterson singled to drive in Webb. Peterson then stole second and came in on a base hit from Bobby Velasquez, making the scored 6-2.

Lamesa's final run came with help from an error. Kenneth Williams walked to get on, then raced to third on an errant pickoff attempt by Bollinger. He scored on a fielder's choice.

Snyder missed an opportunity to add more points in the fifth when Bollinger, Sanders and Malone all singled to stack the bags. Lamesa pitcher Johnny Gonzales quelled the action by getting the next three Tigers batters out.

Gonzales, 3-4, took the loss. He gave up 13 hits, struck out four and walked two. Bollinger, 4-2, and Cain allowed only two hits - one apiece - while striking out six and walking three.

Six Tigers came away with two hits apiece. They were Bollinger, Sanders, Malone, McClure, Webb and Peterson.

The Tigers, now 11-5 for the season and 3-0 in district play, will travel to Andrews for their next 2-4A game, 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Lamesa, 9-10 and 1-2, hosts Pecos at 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Tigers place 4th at Pecos

PECOS -- Snyder got another first place in the discus from Ricky Vaughn and added points in other events to finish fourth in the West of the Pecos Relays here Friday.

Vaughn hurled the discus 150-feet, 10¾-inches. Kyle Freeman took third in the discus with a throw of 137-11. He was also fifth in the shot with a heave of 48-10.

Monahans won the single-day meet with 153 points. Andrews took second with 140, followed by Fort Stockton with 73 and Snyder with 61. Others competing were Levelland with 40, Pecos with 34, Lake View with 19 and Alpine with 6.

Snyder is idle this coming weekend.

The Tigers' only second place medal came in the pole vault where Robert Patterson cleared 11-6. Reggie Price also vaulted 11-6, but took fourth place due to a series of misses earlier.

In addition to Freeman's third place win in the shot, Marcus McGlouthin also placed third in the high jump with a leap of 6-0. Snyder polled 11 points in the event as Sonny Cobb also cleared 6-0 for fourth and Chris Garrett went 5-10 for sixth.

"We showed good improvement in the high jump this week," said Coach Robert Crawford. "We also did well in several other areas."

One of those was the 400 meter relay were Darren Greenway, Tommy Holladay, Kyle Freeman and Sunny Cobb ran a 44.6 for fourth place.

"This was pretty good. We'll have Chad (Peterson) running the anchor for our district meet and we'll be a full second faster, I think," said the coach.

Andrews won the 400 relay with a 43.40.

Peterson, alone with Norman Malone and Willie Greathouse, were taking part in Snyder's 6-3 baseball victory over Lamesa on Friday and did not attend the track meet.

Snyder's 1600 meter relay also finished fourth. The team of Tim Mitchell, Greenway, Joe Boudreau and Holladay ("Tommy did a great job on the 1600") ran a 3:35.1.

Holladay also took fifth by running a 52.92 in the 400 dash and Boudreau ran a 43.75 to place fifth in the 300 intermediate hurdles.

SHS fails to qualify netters to regionals

MIDLAND -- Snyder had high expectations but they failed to come about as the Tigers were unable to qualify anyone to regionals at the District 2-4A Tennis Tournament.

The two-day tournament concluded Saturday.

Shana Hart and Shanda Wiman took third place Saturday when they defeated Warren and Gordon of Lake View, 7-5 and 6-2. They will serve as alternates to the regional meet.

Chris Wiman lost in his bid to secure a second straight regional berth when he was defeated by Mike Hinson of Fort Stockton, 6-1 and 7-5. Wiman, the top seed in boy's doubles, later took fourth place when he lost to Pecos' Gary Peters, 7-6 and 6-3.

"Chris has come a long way and has matured a lot. He just had a disappointing match. He didn't play up to his capabilities," said Coach Charlie Chrane of the senior. "The same was true of Shana Hart and Shanda Wiman. They came in seeded No. 2 in girls doubles. They were hoping to get into the finals, too. They were within a game of winning their match but it didn't happen," the coach added, speaking of their loss Friday to Monica Castelo and Valerie Mooney of Fort Stockton, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5.

"We had a good year as a team. We just didn't particularly play well in this tournament," noted Chrane.

In the only other action involving Snyder on Saturday, Mike McWilliams and Michael Risenhoover lost to Eric Hargrove and Danny Aguilar of Sweetwater, 2-6, 6-2 and 7-5 to take fourth place in boy's doubles.

Sterling Abbott of Lake View won boy's singles, defeating Hinson of Fort Stockton, 6-3, 6-0. Girl's singles champ was Lake View's Mary Warren, who beat Bernadette Portillio of Pecos in the finals, 6-2, 6-4.

Urias and Hinsley of Fort Stockton defeated Chris Dupler and Robert Barrera of Andrews 6-2, 6-1 to win boy's doubles and Shanna Gilliam and Martha Barrera of Andrews defeated Castelo and Mooney of Fort Stockton, 6-3, 6-1, to win girl's doubles.

Champions and runner-sup will advance to regional play.

Trio to appear here

The Johnny Gomez Trio, recording artists and song writers, will be presenting a gospel music program at 10:30 a.m. Sunday at the First Assembly of God Church.

This trio has appeared throughout the United States and in many foreign counries and have been featured in many U. S. military bases throughout the world, on television, in concert halls, auditoriums, conventions and churches.

The program includes back-up sound track music from their various albums. Their repertoire includes a wide range of traditional, contemporary and country gospel songs, many of which are their original compositions.

Candidates to appear briefly before caucus

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — After a flurry of presidential campaigning, Wisconsin Democrats are holding caucuses today to begin choosing the state's 89 convention delegates.

Walter F. Mondale, Gary Hart and the Rev. Jesse Jackson made quick appearances in the state Friday and then returned to Pennsylvania which holds its primary on Tuesday.

The Wisconsin caucuses are being held only four days after Hart won a non-binding presidential preference vote.

Hart received 46 percent of the vote last Tuesday, compared with 43 percent for Mondale and 10 percent for Jackson.

At a rally in front of the state Capitol, Hart urged supporters to attend the caucuses and "convert that preference poll into real delegates."

He also promised that if elected president he would support allowing the Democrats to hold a binding open primary.

For 75 years the Wisconsin primary was a fixture of presidential nominating campaigns in both parties. But the Democratic National Committee objected to the fact that anyone — Republican, Independent or Democrat — could vote in the Democratic primary.

The national party adopted rules forbidding so-called open primaries and the U.S. Supreme Court upheld its right to enforce such rules.

will be given out. These have been donated by local merchants.

In addition, student council members from Snyder High School will be soliciting donations from drivers on the square Saturday.

All during the week, volunteers from the Senior Citizens Center will be in local banks and savings and loan institutions collecting donations.

Peggy Kennedy, president of SCOOP, says, "It is hoped that citizens who have not already donated to SCOOP will do so this week. The support of the community is essential to the success of this project."

representaives of Perrell Homes to build a residence at 3202 Irving; Howard Stensland to build a home at 5509 Cedar Creek Drive; Charles McDorman to build a home at 2206 O'Neal; and Glenn Coy to building a home at 400 Ave. O.

The combined new construction estimate for the five single family residences totaled more than $252,000.

Mobile home move-ins were applied for by Joyce Wellborn, 2513 27th St.; James Powell, 1608 8th St.; David Miller, 500 N. Ave. T; Terral Taylor, 1111 34th St.; Jerry Pace, 2211 Gilmore; Ronnie Powell, 1511 9th St.; Keith Wallace, 1012 32nd St.; and Saturnino Martinez, 405 28th St.

The mobile home applications totaled almost $151,000 of the building estimate for March.

New Home wins dairy judging

New Home FFA walked off with the first place trophy at the third annual Stansell Dairy Judging contest held in Fluvanna last Saturday.

Twenty-nine schools sent a total of 129 students to test their skills at ranking four separate groups of registered dairy cows. Dairymen present also competed, and Mike Hinders, a Miles dairyman, captured that trophy.

High individual was Brandon Shields of Lubbock County 4-H. Second high was Marty Hammonds of Tahoka High FFA, and Pansey McCain, Midland High, took the third place trophy.

The third place team was Anson FFA. Team members are Dickey McAnally, Lee Ann Beaucamp and Matt Wilson.

James Keiler of Carlton was judge for the contest held on the Bill Stansell Farm east of the Fluvanna community.

Assault reported Friday

City police detectives are currently investigating a possible aggravated assault and attempted rape incident reported in far north Snyder late Friday night.

According to reports, a 17-year-old Snyder woman called police at 10:06 p.m. and told officers she had been assaulted by a man who attempted to rape her earlier in the evening.

Investigators reported Saturday morning that a suspect in the case had been identified Friday night but no arrest had been made as yet.

The case is to be presented to the district attorney's office for possible prosecution.

Arrests noted

In police action Friday, officers arrested one local man on a city warrant for failure to skirt a mobile home, two suspects for DWI and six individuals for public intoxication.

Local Beltone reps attend hearing confab

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Six, local Beltone hearing aid representatives, have just returned from a hearing aid technical seminar in Ft. Worth.

At this seminar, the Sixes received instruction on the latest developments of hearing aids and the technical skills in testing and fitting the heard of hearing.

Further instruction was given regarding the hearing aid consultant's role in the physical and mental health of a community. Hands on instruction was acquired in the latest equipment used in testing hearing.

Mr. and Mrs. Six said, "the seminar will be most beneficial in helping us to improve our services."

They are planning to attend the Beltone national meeting in Chicago in June.

Obituaries

April 11 & 12

"The Strength of a Nation Lies in the Homes of Its People."

These words, attributed to Abraham Lincoln, still confirm a basic American freedom – the right to own, use and transfer property.

REALTORS®, real estate professionals who are members of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS®, invite you to observe Private Property Week, April 8-14. This weeklong observance reaffirms the rights that come with owning property. For most of us this means a home of our own.

Home ownership ensures a stronger democracy because it disperses decision-making to the individual household. Homeowners tend to put down roots, to become involved in local government processes and to care about what takes place in their community and neighborhood.

The rights that attend home ownership are precious and must never be taken for granted. Rather, they must be protected and preserved for future generations.

Please join us in this year's observance of Private Property Week.

family and social life.

The exhibit, circulated by the Amon Carter Museum of Fort Worth, is subtitled "A Portrait of Texas."

Museum officials note the photos seem older than they really are. The pictures capture the moment when the state was passing from rural to urban and from agriculture to industrial.

By the Census Bureau's count, 1950 was the first year when the majority of Texans lived in towns with a population of more than 2,500. Today the state is overwhelmingly urban.

Up to the mid-forties, the value of farm and ranch production was greater than the value of crude oil. In 1947, oil moved ahead and it has dominated the economic life of the state since.

The museum will have brochures available for visitors at the Sunday opening.

Texas Monthly Press has published a book of photographs from the Standard Oil collection and this book is available at the museum's gift shop.

"Out of the Forties" will remain on display here through May 20.

Bandleader hospitalized

NEW YORK (AP) — Jazz bandleader Count Basie, who has suffered two heart attacks in recent years, is being hospitalized for treatment of a "rather severe" ulcer, a spokesman says.

Wayne Hutchison, a spokesman for Willard Alexander Inc. in New York City, Basie's booking agent, said Thursday that the 79-year-old pianist was in a Florida hospital.

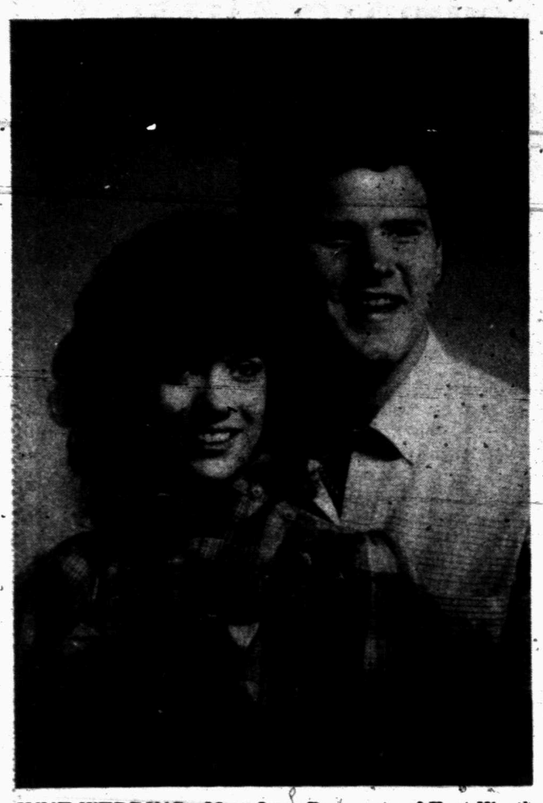
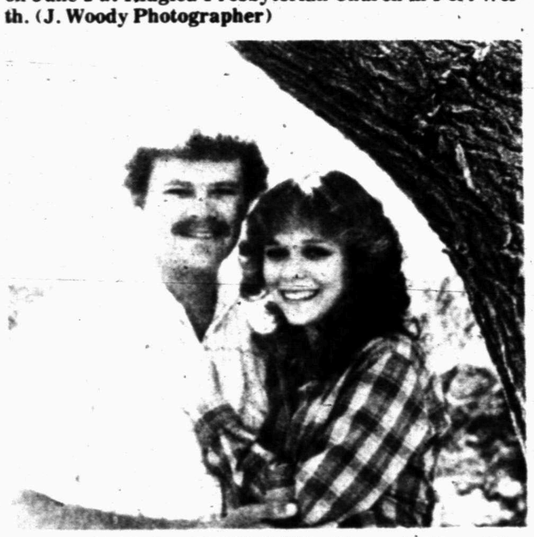
SECTION B, SUN., APRIL 8, 1984



JUNE WEDDING—Mrs. Jean Baumann of Fort Worth announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Melinda, to Kris Seale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Seale of Snyder. The wedding will be at 2 p.m. on June 2 at Ridglea Presbyterian Church in Fort Worth. (J. Woody Photographer)



ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED—Mr. and Mrs. Allan R. Daves and Mr. and Mrs. Roy G. Harlan, all of Snyder, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their children, Allana Anne and Kevin Alan. The couple will exchange vows at First Christian Church on July 28.

In teen pageant...

Shelly Morrow reaches finals

ABILENE—Shelly Kay Morrow, 15-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jim Bill Morrow of Abilene and formerly of Snyder, has been selected as a finalist in the 1984 Miss West Texas National Teen-Ager Pageant to be held at Centre Holiday Inn Holidome in Odessa April 27-29. This is the official pageant to the 13th Annual Miss Texas National Teen-Ager Pageant to be held at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth June 1-3.

The pageant winner will receive a $1,000 cash scholarship, a full four-year modeling scholarship to Barbizon of Dallas, a $2,400 scholarship from Wayland Baptist University, numerous other awards, and an all-expense paid trip to compete in the Miss Texas National Teen-Ager Pageant.

Sabrina Lynch of Plano, the reigning 1983 Miss Texas National Teen-Ager, will crown the new queen. Contestants from all over West Texas will compete for the title. The reigning Miss National Teen-Ager is Susan Mitchell of Michigan. The 1984 Miss Texas National Teen-Ager will compete for over $75,000 in cash, scholarships and prizes.

Miss Morrow is sponsored by First National Bank of Abilene, John Speer Cadillac; Jimmy Partin Insurance and Real Estate, and Bankers Life Insurance.

Face facts

To make sure your skin doesn't age prematurely, watch out for these bad habits: raising your eyebrows; frowning, clenching your teeth; squinting; wrinkling your nose or forehead; pursing your lips; exaggerating your facial expressions. Here's a tip for breaking some of these anti-beauty habits: every time you feel your lips tightening or your teeth clenching, just open your mouth and smile, talk, or yawn.

POUND CAKE TORTE

Easy to make because you can buy the cake.

10¾-ounce frozen all-butter pound cake
½ cup confectioners' sugar
¼ cup cocoa
1 cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons coffee liqueur

Slice pound cake, while still frozen, into 4 lengthwise layers of even thickness. In a medium-size deep bowl stir together sugar and cocoa. Add cream and beat until almost stiff; add liqueur and beat until stiff. Spread bottom layer of cake with some of the cream mixture; stack with remaining layers and spread each with cream mixture; cover top and sides with remaining cream mixture. Chill.

Here is another David Bird hand. This time the witch doctor is sitting South. He puts in a sporting three-spade overcall of East's three-heart opening. His partner, Brother Tobias, a missionary, raises him to four. South wins the heart lead with his ace, enters dummy with the king of clubs and leads a spade to his king. The queen drops from West, and the witch doctor is faced with the loss of two trumps and at least two diamonds.

Is there any hope? There always is for the witch doctor. If East started with exactly three spades, seven hearts, one diamond and two clubs, the contract can be brought home.

The witch doctor offers a prayer to whatever gods may be available, cashes his ace of clubs and ace of diamonds, and throws East in with a trump. East takes his last trump and leads the queen of hearts. The witch doctor chucks a diamond. The defense now has three tricks, but they don't get a fourth. East has to lead another heart. South's last two diamonds go on dummy's king and nine of hearts.

"Well," said Brother Tobias, "I don't approve of your religion, but I must say you play the dummy as well as possible."

HYPERTENSION: A MAJOR HEALTH CONCERN

High blood pressure, or hypertension, is a major health problem in the United States and is also a contributor to heart attacks and strokes.

High blood pressure often has no clear signs or symptoms so a person can have it without knowing it. That's why it's so important to get your blood pressure checked regularly and, if it's high, to follow the treatment your doctor prescribes.

Leaders of an industry-funded symposium on nutrition and blood pressure control recently outlined the following guidelines concerning hypertension.

If you are overweight or have diabetes or a family history of disease, then your risk of having high blood pressure is relatively high. However, all persons should have their blood pressure checked regularly. If it's found to be slightly high, begin a moderate program of exercise, first checking with your doctor to arrange a physical. Those over forty in particular should take a stress test before beginning any exercise program.

Also, it is advisable to stop smoking and to cut down on alcohol intake. Diet is another important factor in regulating hypertension. Your doctor may advise you to reduce your salt intake.

But don't drastically alter your diet by cutting out all fats and all salt-containing foods, or by following only a high-fiber diet. If you cut out dairy products because they contain salt, you will also lose calcium, which is essential to blood pressure regulation.

If you are sodium-sensitive, be sure to follow a prescribed medical diet. Your doctor is the best judge. Start a medication program only under his recommendation.

It's better to regulate blood pressure through diet and exercise than with chemicals.

"Many waters cannot quench love, neither can the floods drown it," says a Biblical quotation.

At Wednesday luncheon...

Mrs. Kothman to be CWC speaker

Have you ever wondered how to paint pictures on purses, jugs, jars, skirts, etc.? Sherry Hodnett will demonstrate the art of tole painting at the Snyder Christian Women's Club on Wednesday, April 11, at the Snyder Country Club.

The luncheon will begin at 11:15 a.m. and the cost is $5.50 for the lunch or $1 for a beverage only. Reservations need to be made by calling Anne von Roeder at 573-7485 or 573-3341, Judy McLarty at 573-7485, or Linda Warnock at 573-4458 before the day of the luncheon.

Along with tole painting the program will include Carla Thompson's colorful tones in music. The program will be completed by a very special speaker from San Angelo, Marsha Kothman.

Marsha is the mother of three boys and her husband is the manager of Luby's Cafeteria. She is active in the activities of her children and they attend and participate in many stock shows. She is a Bible Study guide and active in her church.

A free nursery is available for children to five years of age. Reservations need to be made for your children by calling Lora Jones at 573-9022 or any of the above numbers.

Christian Women's Club is an interdenominational organization and is a club in name only. There are no dues and everyone in the Scurry County area is invited to attend the monthly luncheons.

For further information regarding Christian Women's Club call any of the numbers above.

What's in a name?

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Ever wonder why a drink is called a cocktail?

One legend traces the origin of the word to the Revolutionary War and a New England tavern run by Betsy Flanagan, where American officers gathered and complained to her about a prosperous Tory who lived nearby.

One night, according to Heublein Inc., she served the officers a drink of rum and fruit juice — each cup decorated with a tail feather plucked from the Tory's prize rooster. When she told where the feathers came from, the Americans shouted their praise of the drink, as did a French volunteer who said, "Vive le coq's tail."

Pete & Nellie Snyder at home in Colorado City

The home of Pete and Nellie Snyder is still standing at 332 Chestnut in Colorado City, Texas. Pete and Nellie lived here until their deaths. Nellie Snyder died on June 7, 1913 and Pete Snyder died on Oct. 4, 1916.

In this picture, Pete and Nellie are shown sitting in their back yard with Mrs. Snyder's sister, Sarah (Sadie) Williams who is on the far right. The house had been remodeled and is now occupied by Earl Webber and his daughter, Mrs. Earline Selliers. The present occupants knew nothing about the history of their home until recently. They had photos, however, of the house before they undertook the project of remodeling.

The Snyder house was a peaceful setting just across the street from the Methodist Church. The Snyders often visited the minister of the Methodist Church and donated money for two stained glass windows which are still there today in their memory.

The three people pictured all died within five years and the property and land became a center of controversy for the relatives. Mrs. Snyder was in poor health when her sister, Sarah Williams, came from New York to care for her. When Mrs. Snyder died, Mrs. Williams stayed on to help care for Mr. Snyder as his health was also failing.

According to documents, Mr. Snyder changed his will after the death of Mrs. Snyder and deeded the property to Mrs. Williams. The heirs of Mr. Snyder claimed that the will was invalid as he was in poor health and did not realize what he was doing.

The judge finally ruled that Mrs. Williams and other heirs of Mrs. Snyder could have one half the property and the heirs of Mr. Snyder could have half. Before the will was probated on Thursday, May 3, 1917 and the land divided, Mrs. Williams died.

After the land was finally settled in court and divided equally among the heirs of both Pete and Nellie Snyder, many of the heirs lost their land because of bad investments.

This picture of the Snyders was taken in their back yard just a short time before their deaths. The original picture now belongs to Surry Gillum of Hermleigh. The Gillum family knew the Pete Snyders well as Claud Gillum, Surry Gillum's uncle, worked for Pete Snyder. Other members of the Gillum family were close personal friends to the Snyders and often visited in their homes.

Pete and Nellie Snyder were well known and respected in Colorado City. When she died on June 7, 1913, many people came to her home the following Sunday afternoon for the funeral.

They stood on the porch and in the yard, because the house would not hold everyone for the services.

Pete Snyder continued living in the house for three more years before his death in 1916. Because of his poor health, Mrs. Williams stayed to take care of him. Mrs. Williams died in 1917 shortly before the judge made the final ruling on the Snyder estate.

The peaceful setting, shown in this picture, had seen three deaths within five years. This house, along with a large amount of land near Dunn and Colorado City, soon fell into the hands of heirs of Pete and Nellie Snyder.

Archeologist's finds may alter theories of origin of Swahili

MOMBASA, Kenya (AP) — A young British archeologist has carried out excavations that some scholars believe could radically alter thinking about the origins of Swahili society on the East African coast.

Mark Horton, 28, of Cambridge University, says he has found artifacts proving that indigenous African communities existed there at least from the eighth century.

That would predate by some 300 years what is widely believed to be the arrival of Moslem settlers, generally credited with building the first urban communities north and south of this centuries-old port city.

The findings at Shanga, on Pate Island north of here, are seen as significant, some area specialists say, because they contradict the view held by generations of colonial-era historians that Arabs, Persians and other outsiders — but not Africans — constructed the first towns along the Indian Ocean.

"Much of African history has been 'decolonialized,'" says Kenyan-born historian James de Vere Allen, "but not the history of the east coast.

"The Persian and Arab theory of Swahili town society development has been under fire for some time. But until now, with Horton's diggings, there has been no hard archeological evidence with which to shoot it down," Allen told a reporter.

"It's a pretty earth-shaking discovery."

Not all scholars agree.

Archeologist Neville Chittick, former director of the British Institute in East Africa, says his recent excavations on Manda Island near Lamu provide evidence that early settlements might have been colonies of a Persian Gulf state known as Siraf.

One Kenyan social scientist, who declined to be identified, saying he wished to avoid conflict with colleagues, cautions that Horton's theories, like those of his colonial predecessors, fit too conveniently into prevailing academic and political fashions.

Horton maintains the Arabs who came before the 1100s were traders, not settlers, who would spend a month on the coast until the monsoon changed and then would sail back to southern Arabia or Persia.

The material proof, Horton says, is coarse earthen pottery, carbon-dated to the eighth century and of the same type and age found inland as well as in Madagascar and up the coast to Mogadishu, Somalia.

Horton argues that on grounds where mosques were erected following the introduction of Islam in 1100 A.D. stood walled communal squares built around a well. Each Swahili clan had a "mlango," or "gate," opening on the square, giving the towns a spatial organization that was continued after the Arabs' arrival, he says.

"The old models of Arabs bringing civilization do not explain this, just as many people had denied that the mysterious ruins of Zimbabwe were constructed by Africans, assuming instead that they were built by some lost white tribe," the archeologist says.

Business leaders examined

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — They are typically taller and heavier than the average, don't smoke, and are paying more and more attention to fitness and diet.

Karl Stoedefalke calls them "fast-trackers" — the movers and shakers of the business world. He's making a study of their physical fitness.

In a laboratory tucked into the rolling Pennsylvania State University campus, Stoedefalke, a physical education professor, is running the business leaders on treadmills and wiring them to silent machines.

After tests on more than 800 corporate decision-makers over six years, some preliminary conclusions have been drawn. The top-level executives share physical traits different from the general population, and they are increasingly concerned about staying healthy.

"Executives today seem to be much more concerned about health. They have few dreams of immortality and are aware that decision-making and deadlines are risky," Stoedefalke says.

The business leaders are being tested under the Executive Health Maintenance Program, an adjunct to Penn State's executive management program.

"They have few dreams of immortality and are aware that decision-making and deadlines are risky," Stoedefalke says.

The business leaders are being tested under the Executive Health Maintenance Program, an adjunct to Penn State's executive management program.

Their pulmonary function, heart rate and blood pressure are measured while they negotiate a treadmill at various inclines. Their body fat is calculated and they are queried about diet, work habits and exercise, helping the researchers prescribe a personal fitness plan at the end of the session.

All the information is electronically filed away until the 1,000th executive has been tested, sometime later this year.

SDN Opinion Page

Editorials-Columns-Cartoons-Kidstuff-Look Back-Letters

At the end of the Snyder High School one-act production "The Crucible" — which by the way is a real rouser — its central character John Proctor moves toward a decision that will cost him his life.

His accusers attempt to have him sign a document admitting to wrongs he knows he never committed.

As Proctor tells his wife, he is "no hero," and after a long period of imprisonment he indicates to her he will comply. To refuse again means he will hang.

His jailers enter and Proctor says the things they want him to say — a confession they write down. Then they tell him to sign the document so that it can be posted for the public to see.

Proctor refuses, and in a dramatic confrontation with his accusers, explains why he prefers death, "It is my name," he says.

To someone whose everyday business involves names, that line produced a twitch or two. And it got us to considering all over again the newspaper's concept of using names.

On the heels of this, we ran across this news item. Of 80 recent lawsuits involving libel, damage sums awarded by juries averaged some $2.2 million.

Defaming a man's good name apparently carries a higher price tag than such cases as product liability and medical malpractice.

Now, the SDN may have reported that fender-bender you were involved in last February, but hold up a minute before you call your lawyer.

Libel means something was printed which damaged your reputation. Most folks probably don't feel complimented if the newspaper notes they crashed into some nice old lady's vintage Model A, but that of course isn't libel.

But, for example, if the newspaper says Attorney So-and-So is a crook and a shyster who bleeds his clients for every nickle he can gouge from them, it may be in trouble.

Unless, of course, it's the truth and there are facts to back it up. And there is a current reason to report these facts.

To win a libel suit against a newspaper, you have to prove a little do-hickey called "actual malice," which more or less means one of two things. The paper either knew the information was wrong but printed it anyway or the scoop was printed with what they call "reckless disregard."

Reckless disregard means the facts weren't sufficiently checked out. Keep in mind, the description "reckless" means just that.

And libel implies some pretty strong facts were reported, so if the paper mistakenly says your afternoon accident occurred at 1 a.m. rather than p.m., don't call the lawyer yet either.

Your neighbors may wonder what you were doing driving around at 1 a.m in the morning, but you haven't been libeled.

Libel also doesn't cover news stories which both traditionally and legally come under public record. And the reason something gets moved into the "public record" limelight is because some action you've taken is suddenly affecting someone other than your private self.

If you call the cops because someone stole your Charlie Daniels tape and the tape recorder it was plugged into, you've sought the assistance of a public entity paid for by public taxes.

And the courts have determined that the records maintained by public entities are open to the people who pay for them — and that means taxpayers.

People who have had their names in the newspaper can probably think of a million instances which, in their opinion, it was nobody's durn business.

In answer to this, readers should know that nothing is printed that is not established public record — and these guidelines are pretty well defined under the law.

And to offer a slightly more human explanation, we approach this work "as business, not personal."

John Dunnam

For a single guy the four most dreaded words in the English language are, "Let's just be friends." For a newspaper carrier, there are three: "Stop my paper."

I've grown accustomed to the first four, I just can't accept the second three. Sorry.

Sometimes a young lady has a valid reason for not wanting to get involved. For instance, her boy friend might be coming back from the Marines. I can respect that. But I've searched my soul and can think of no good reason for stopping a newpaper carrier from doing what he was born to do. It's just not right.

Let me tell you something. This is a tough racket. I should know, I've been doing it for over a week now. Rain, shine, snow, nuclear holocaust and even in high winds we are out there on the street, driving like crazy and chunking away at blurry targets. Daily, we deliver the latest on Mideast crises, local crime and political races and garage sales. And for what? I'll tell you for what. Money! Do you think we're a bunch of fools?

When you stop a paper it cost us money and our loved ones starve. Can you live with that? I think a new policy is in order here. Once you subscribe, you can never quit.

Besides the principle of the thing, there are technical considerations that make the no-stop rule desirable. Once a route is learned, and I hope to learn mine eventually, a "stop paper" notice forces the carrier to rearrange and thus relearn part of the route. Hey, I'm getting paid throwing wages, not thinking wages. I think its big of me to allow "new starts."

During the past week I've had bozos move, go on vacation, and even die without asking me first. I've even heard nasty rumors that people sometimes cancel their subscriptions because they are dissatisfied with the paper, or heaven forbid, their carrier. Upon close inspection I think you will agree that none of these excuses hold water:

Moving - No excuse. Simply go to your old address every day and pick up your paper.

Vacation - You go on vacation, while I stay here and work? No way!

Dying - Okay, I will allow an exception in the case of death to demonstrate my good intentions. But only with two weeks notice submitted in writing and signed by a reputable doctor and two witnesses whose handwriting is legible.

Now, in regards to those who become disenchanted with our lofty style of journalism - What did you expect for 17.27 cents a day? The National Geographic? It's peanuts, man. In fact you can't buy a bag of peanuts for that, and the paper is less fattening.

There is no law that says you have to read it. This thing fits nicely in bird cages; use it to wrap fish; or, mulch your garden with it. There is a certain aura of respectability surrounding yards with newspapers laying in them ... or near them, as the case often is.

Finally, let us look at these so called carrier complaints. I can only speak for myself, and I'll tell you right up front that I sometimes miss. My arm isn't what it used to be. And sometimes I forget. It's nothing personal, usually. And I apologize to all the people whom I force to jump for their lives while I try to drive and roll papers at the same time. As the bumper sticker says: "If you don't like the way I drive, stay off the sidewalk." In summary, nobody is perfect, so get off my back.

You will also be happy to know that I've almost given up chunking papers at dogs, cats, kids, and elderly people tending their gardens. This decision came about after I missed what I mistook to be an old lady and hit her fullback son; and, after I beaned a little girl and she threw it back at 90 mph. Fortunately for me, her aim was low, but my transmission is still giving me trouble. Dogs and cats think it's a game and follow me home.

One more thing before I go back out into that jungle. I hate to bring this up, but some of you people - you know who you are - are a little behind in your payments. Don't be surprised if you find a little something extra rolled in this afternoon's edition. Specifically, a brick ... aimed at your window, car, or you, if you happen to be mowing the lawn, and by golly, some of them need mowing.

If your payment is already in the mail, please disregard this brick.

Germany and Italy formed the Rome-Berlin Axis in 1936.

The Russian Revolution began in 1917.

The Battle of Balaclava was fought in 1854 during the Crimean War. During the battle, the British Light Brigade launched a spectacular but futile cavalry attack which cost 247 lives.

This week's sixth graders were interviewed at North Elementary.

Question: If you won a trip to Fantasy Island what fantasy would you ask Mr. Roark for?

JENNIFER PATE
Age 11
"I'd want to stay on an island all by myself and have a swimming pool there."

EDDIE YOUNG
Age 13
"I'd want to meet someone in my family I've never seen yet."

RANDY GROSS
Age 13
"I'd want to be a professional Dallas Cowboy football player."

ROBERT MCCLEAF
Age 13
"I'd want to see Mark Hamil, my favorite movie star."

SDN Week in Review

SUNDAY
April 1

A major renovation of the Texas National Guard Armory in Towle Park is planned this summer, it was announced Sunday.

Some $314,000 is said budgeted for the project. Building renovation costs are estimated at approximately $260,000.

MONDAY
April 2

Representatives of the Scurry County Museum told county commissioners Monday that record keeping procedures at the museum are now substantially backlogged — a problem they say dates back to 1980.

Eunice Irwin, museum director since the fall of 1982, said the record keeping for museum exhibits had been essentially overlooked for the years 1980 through her arrival.

TUESDAY
April 3

A rise in unemployment figures for Scurry County in January — characterized at the time as "seasonal" — corrected itself during the month in February with a sizable drop, it was reported Tuesday.

The latest figures released by Texas Employment Commission personnel reflect 3.1 percent unemployment for Scurry County — as low an estimate as reported for all of 1983.

In actual figures, TEC staffers estimate a county civilian labor force of 10,426 individuals. Of this number, 10,103 are listed as employed, leaving 323 out of work.

A reorganized approach to United Way campaigning in Scurry County was discussed Tuesday morning at the first organizational meeting of the 1984 effort.

While no definite changes were approved, current President Rex Robinson appointed a four-man committee to discuss possible changes.

Members of the committee include Larry Lane, named as the new United Way President, L.E. (Doc) Griffin, Roy McQueen and Mike Reed.

A heavier than normal turnout was reported as balloting ended Tuesday for absentee voting in three local governmental elections scheduled Saturday.

The absentee total was: Western Texas College board of trustees, 71; Snyder school board, 71; and Snyder city council, 51.

WEDNESDAY
April 4

Negotiations with a Borden County land owner continue to be on hold and the possibility of acquiring land in Garza County is "totally preliminary, nothing concrete."

This was the assessment Wednesday from representatives of the Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority. They added the search for a site is now proving more promising in South and far West Texas.

THURSDAY
April 5

It was reported Thursday that deposits in Scurry County financial institutions again set a new record based on figures released at the end of the first quarter of 1984 — March 31.

Deposits in three banks and two reporting savings and loans were $238.8 million — an increase of $20.5 million over the same time last year. In just three months, total deposits grew by $2.5 million.

Snyder High School students will soon be given a chance to learn directly from personnel at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) Space Center in Houston.

School officials report Thursday the series of special programs on space and science — called "Plug Into NASA" — will begin at the school April 30.

Snyder and Scurry County residents and out-of-town guests turned out in force Thursday night to hear a humorous talk by Oklahoma's Governor George Nigh.

The highlight of the 1984 Snyder Chamber of Commerce Banquet was the bestowing of four awards to Snyder citizens.

Those honored were John Jarrell, receiving the the Vestal Award; E.D. Walton, the McLaughlin Award; Donald Tate, the Winston Award; and Jack McGlaun, the newly named Paul Sizemore Award.

FRIDAY
April 6

Snyder Lions Club Sweetheart Tracy Delynn Fortune was among the district queen contestants Friday at the District 2-T2 Silver Anniversary Convention in Lubbock.

The winner was to be revealed Saturday.

FIVE YEARS AGO

Snyder gymnast Tonya Holladay scored a 8.65 in the vault to claim the first place medal in the event at the State Gymnastic Meet in Houston over the weekend. Overall, she placed fifth in Division I competition.

--

Incumbents fared well in city council voting Saturday — April 7 — while a run-off situation developed in the race for place 1 on the Snyder school board. Returned to their city council seats were Joe Reaves, John Best and David Holt while Bill Seale won a two man race to retain his seat on the Snyder school board. Incumbent place 1 school trustee Vera McSpadden polled more votes than any other single candidate in her race but votes cast for her three opponents will force a run-off election between her and write-in candidate Lillie Sullivan.

--

Nine SHS tracksters qualified for regional competition Saturday in San Angelo as the Tigers tallied points in every event of the district meet to capture the 3-3A District Championship. Regional qualifiers included, Lloyd Benson, Thomas Selmon, Ronnie Collins, Dale Jenkins, Tommy Tullis, Miguel Ortegon, Rudy Garza, Brad Richardson and Richard Crayton.

10 YEARS AGO

ASCS officials today — April 2 — announced the appointment of Erwin Pavlik of Columbus, Tx. to the post of district conservationist for the Snyder Field Office, assisting the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District.

--

Colorado River Municipal Water District officials today — April 8 — anounced that plans have been finalized for an annual weather modification program designed to increase rainfall on the J.B. Thomas and E.V. Spence watersheds. Extensive cloud seeding operations in the area are to begin April 15.

15 YEARS AGO

David McGinnis and Pam Black were crowned Mr. and Miss SHS at coronation ceremonies last night in the school auditorium — April 1.

--

Only 344 persons cast ballots in city council elections Tuesday — April 1. John Thomas was re-elected to council place 1 while John H. Boren was elected to succeed R.C. Patton, who did not run for re-election.

--

Planners of the All-American City Banquet set for Friday announced today — April 7 — that two "All-Texas" entertainers would be featured on the banquet program. Set to appear on the program were folk humorist Hondo Crouch along with "Cow Pokes" cartoonist Ace Reid.

20 YEARS AGO

Over 200 individuals attended the opening of the Diamond M Foundation Art Gallery here Saturday — April 4.

Letter to the Editor

(Editor's note: this letter was sent to city officials and a copy provided for the SDN in the hopes that some individual in Snyder will be able to assist.)

Dear Sirs,

I am writing on behalf of an elderly lady born in Snyder, Mrs. Jean Klein, youngest daughter of Jim Chinn.

The Chinn family left Snyder around 1922 to ranch in New Mexico and Mrs. Klein, a child at the time, remembers nothing of Snyder and little of her father's life there.

Mrs. Klein now feels a strong need to know more about her "roots," a brief history of the early years of the City of Snyder and confirmation of her beliefs that her father Jim Chinn was city marshall. Also that he was deputy and sheriff of Scurry County for many years.

We hope your city records will give us this informaton, if not can you give us another source to contact, an historical society, museum or old established local newspaper.

Without wishing to put you to a lot of trouble, any information would be most appreciated.

Patents are in demand

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — If anyone can, Gerald J. Mossinghoff can scan an America of smokeless smokestacks from sea to shining sea, of fruited plains crawling with German luxury sedans, of purple mountains ringing to the echo of Japanese stereos, yet proclaim nonetheless:

America, the inventive!

"The challenge from Western Europe and Japan is bringing out the best in us," says he.

Mossinghoff, a tall 48-year-old with the incipient jowls of an optimistic basset hound, is the midwife between necessity, the mother, and her offspring, invention. He is the U.S. Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks, the issuer of birth certificates.

Last year his office next to Washington's National Airport granted 59,715 patents. That 40 percent of them belong to foreigners fazes him not at all. Americans received 30 percent of patents issued in Europe.

"We don't have to close our borders to foreign ideas," says Lawrence Udell, president of the National Council of Inventor Organizations, a California-based group encouraged by the U.S. Department of Commerce to encourage and educate inventors.

"We can out-invent the rest of the world because we've already proved it.

"We estimate there are 2.5 million Americans out there working on their own inventions. Not just in high-tech labs but in garages or down the basement looking for a better hairpin or wrench. There are 10,000 new products every year in this country, most of them individual inventions."

"Invention is the source of business in America. Everything else is service," says Cal McCracken, whose inventions in heat transfer range from the ballpark rotary hot dog broiler to a radical new way to air-condition office buildings as well as planes cooking in the sun at airport gates.

The Mecca for McCracken and the 2,499,999 other inventors is the Patent Office, where their dreams and schemes flood in at 5,000 pieces of mail daily. What they seek is the patent, a 17-year monopoly to make their inventions and, if they can, a killing.

"Invention is the last place where the individual can still make a fortune with his own idea,"

Study of bears to help humans?

MADISONVILLE, Pa. (AP) — "Ursanus Americanus" — better known as the North American black bear and considered Pennsylvania's top trophy game animal — has mystified man for centuries.

Without a doubt, the black bear is one of the wiliest and most adaptable creatures in nature's kingdom. Legends, in fact, have grown out of this noble creature.

But "Ol' Moccasin Joe," as many veteran hunters dub him, has been the subject of intensive study and research over the past several years.

And while the research had previously been aimed at helping the bears themselves, the overall picture has been changing. Now the interest in the black bear is centering on how some of its physiological feats can be used to help humankind.

Gary L. Alt, a Pennsylvania Game Commission biologist, has been researching the state's bear population since 1974. Perhaps better known as "the bear man from Madisonville," Alt, along with his studies on the black bear, has become nationally recognized.

And one day recently, his home literally became a research base for scientists and various other experts from a number of institutions when word spread that a female bear he'd trapped and had in a denning chamber in a barn on his property had given birth to three cubs.

They were tiny fluffs of fuzz, just one day old, when the various researchers arrived, seeking the rare chance to carry out their tests on cubs that young.

The nose of Abraham Lincoln on Mount Rushmore National Monument in South Dakota is longer than the entire face of Egypt's Sphinx, according to National Geographic. George Washington's head would fit a statue 465 feet tall.

Your Birthday

April 8, 1984

The year ahead will offer you opportunities to make investments or salt away something extra for your future security. Don't be tempted to blow your cash reserve on extravagant whims.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Try not to put too many restrictions on those in your charge today. If you're too demanding, they may break the rules you laid down merely to spite you. The Matchmaker wheel reveals your compatibility to all signs as well as showing you to which signs you are best suited romantically. Get yours by mailing $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In a matter personally important to you, someone may be deliberately withholding vital information. Make it a point to probe for facts.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You mustn't be a dreamer in financial matters today. Before writing any checks, be sure there is cash in your account to cover them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You won't be in the mood to have anyone bully, badger or run roughshod over you today, yet you may unwittingly try to use these tactics on others.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your ideas are apt to be grandiose and imaginative today, but you may not soar to the heights to match them. Don't dream big, then act lethargically.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Try to asociate with companions today who are equally as generous as yourself. Avoid those who have extravagant whims and stingy wallets.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In situations where decisiveness is required, act accordingly today. Wishy-washy behavior could negatively affect all concerned.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your words will have little impact today if you tell others to do one thing and then you do another. To make your point, set the proper example.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you're in charge of a social happening today, check with everyone concerned before making expenditures. They may refuse to pay too big a bill.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be willing to make compromises if it will maintain harmony on the home front today. It's better to give in than to grouch it out.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Persons to whom you did not have time to be helpful in the past might not be available to you if you need them today. Chalk it up to experience.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Speculative ventures could glitter with more appeal than usual today, yet they may lack substance. Don't let their glow blind your judgment.

April 9, 1984

This coming year you will benefit from several situations established by other persons rather than yourself. Don't let your independence deprive you of participation.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Joint ventures could be complicated today. You and those with whom you're involved could be pulling in different directions. Seek common objectives. Major changes are in store for Aries in the coming year. Send for your year-ahead predictions today. Mail $1 and your zodiac sign to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Domestic disagreements should not be aired in front of in-laws or outsiders today. Instead of helping to resolve matters, they might only muddy the waters.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you have a difficult task to perform today, be very selective regarding your choice of assistants. Incompetent aides could cause snarls.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your judgment in financial matters today could run to extremes. In some instances you'll be wise and prudent; others you may be too wasteful.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't let it be said of you today that you'll only cozy up to persons you feel can help you, while ignoring those who don't fit into your present plans.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Keep your expectations within reasonable limits today, or no matter what others do to help you, you may still think they are not doing enough.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A bit of budget trimming is in order today on projects which have proven unprofitable. Let your check stubs identify the culprits.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you are too pushy or aggressive today, you could end up defeating your own purposes. Use bouquets instead of bulldozers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Undue deliberation could deprive you of success today, especially if you mull your ideas over to where you anticipate only negative results.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Go along with the will of the majority in your involvements with friends today. If you try to introduce last-minute changes, it might spoil everyone's fun.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) An important, ambitious objective could be thwarted today if you fail to offer to share what you hope to gain for yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Overall conditions are reasonably favorable for you today. You may not get everything you want, but you'll still come out on the plus side of the ledger.

Bandleader hospitalized

NEW YORK (AP) — Jazz bandleader Count Basie, who has suffered two heart attacks in recent years, is being hospitalized for treatment of a "rather severe" ulcer, a spokesman says.

Wayne Hutchison, a spokesman for Willard Alexander Inc. in New York City, Basie's booking agent, said Thursday that the 79-year-old pianist was in a Florida hospital, but he declined to disclose exactly where.

Hutchison said Basie's doctor told him not to reveal the bandleader's whereabouts.

"He's been trying to get well enough," said Hutchison, who added that Basie missed a concert recently in Los Angeles and will miss a concert tonight in Huntington, W.Va.

He said trombonist Urbie Green will lead the Basie band at Marshall University in Huntington.

Sir Walter Raleigh was executed in 1618 on charges of treason against King James I. The execution took place in London.

The public has some misconceptions about cancer. Many Americans consider cancer inevitable, but, in fact, two out of three Americans will never get cancer, and of those who do, 50 percent will be cured. A U.S. Department of Health and Human Services survey found that people also had false ideas about what causes cancer

Japanese women form own network

TOKYO (AP) — Unable to find a job when she got back to Japan after ten years of college and graduate school in the United States, Mariko Fujiwara went to a placement agency for help. The man she talked to offered neither a job nor very much encouragement.

"He said it was a curse for a Japanese woman to have a sound academic background and advised me to take secretarial courses," she recalls.

"He said I'd be placed at the top of a company (as an executive secretary) and when there was an opening in a section, I could talk the president into letting me apply."

The advice was not uncommon. Secretarial school is one place that aspiring Japanese career women often find themselves. And, beginning a year ago, that is where they began to discover each other.

"Graduates always came back to me for career advice," said Kaoru Furukawa, founder and director of the Women's Institute for New Studies (WINS) where Ms. Fujiwara went to train for a position as a bilingual secretary.

"But until I was in a bookstore in New York and came across a book called 'Networking,' I didn't realize that that's just what I'd been doing," Ms. Furukawa said in an interview. "After I saw the book, I decided to formalize a network for working women in Japan."

The network — now 200 formal members and a few thousand WINS alumnae seen by Ms. Furukawa as potential members — doesn't run like a traditional men's "old boy network" of school chums and business cronies, mainly because few Japanese women have such connections to exploit.

Rather, its monthly discussions and gatherings function as a meeting ground for women with careers and women who want careers.

At the first meeting in December 1982, Ms. Furukawa brought together some friends with alumnae of her program to discuss women and careers. One panelist was Ms. Fujiwara, who had found a job as a research director at Japan's second largest advertising agency, Hakuhodo.

"I want to encourage women to continue their career by presenting them with role models," Ms. Furukawa said. "I say to them: you're not outsiders."

But network women, if not outsiders in Japanese society, are exceptions.

In 1982, women made up 5.5 percent of all managers and officials, according to Japan's Labor Ministry. Five years ago, women held 24.6 percent of all managerial and administrative posts in the United States, according to a report at a Tokyo conference last year by Matina Horner, president of Radcliffe College in Cambridge, Mass.

The ambitions and expectations of Japanese women may explain some reasons for the small numbers of them involved in business.

A 1983 survey by the Japan Recruitment Center showed that of about 4,400 two- and four-year college students, about 25 percent said they wanted to keep working while getting married and raising families.

"Japanese women are passive," said Ryo Ochiai, a Sony Corporation employee and network member. "They're not brought up to take initiative."

But for women such as Ms. Ochiai, whose parents were both doctors, and who grew up thinking it natural for women to work and take initiatives, the biggest career obstacle is the Japanese employment system.

In Japan, white collar workers almost invariably are hired out of college and commit themselves to one company for their entire careers. It is widely assumed that women will work only briefly, then quit to marry and raise children. Most do, but some don't.

"Some women are willing to take the same attitude toward life and their jobs as men. The companies, however, cannot distinguish those girls," wrote Hiroshi Takeuchi, chief economist of the Long-Term Credit Bank of Japan Ltd., in a 1982 article in the magazine Japan Quarterly.

Takeuchi said female university graduates were expected to work an average of three years and "it is more profitable to make them serve tea ... than take the trouble to train them" for other jobs.

Ms. Furukawa advises her students to avoid tilting at windmills with Japanese firms and take their skills instead to foreign companies where such attitudes may not prevail. But Ms. Ochiai, who established a support group for women workers several years ago at Sony, disagrees.

"My advice to someone starting out would be for her to keep quiet for the first few years in a company and observe what goes on and then to start to challenge the system," Ms. Ochiai said.

Many network members see themselves as part of a growing trend of women in Japan who expect to work throughout their lives.

Ms. Ochiai predicted the "Network for Working Women" will come to resemble the traditional male system as Japanese women gain power and influence — perhaps as early as the year 2000.

Town votes mayor in

FOUNTAIN CITY, Wis. (AP) — No one campaigned and no names were on the ballot, but that didn't stop voters in Fountain City from choosing a mayor and two city council members.

Write-in candidates had a field day Tuesday as voters swept Mayor James R. Scholmeier back into office, despite the fact he wanted to retire after serving for 14 years.

Scholmeier made the mistake of telling City Clerk Carol Skroch before the election: "If I get written in, I guess I'll have to take it again."

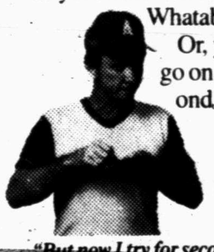
The Whataburger® Home Run Challenge. Will you play it safe or will you go for it all?

"Here I go. I'm headin' to first base... and I win a free Coca-Cola."

It's easy to play the Whataburger® Home Run Challenge. Just come to any participating Whataburger restaurant and pick up a game card. Then you're ready to play ball. And win great food or cash prizes.

To get the game going all you do is head to first base. Scratch off the box and if you're not out, you'll win a free Coca-Cola or another great prize.

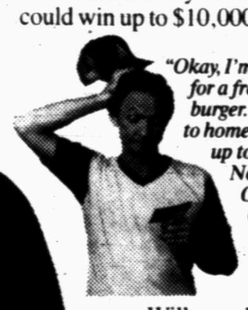
And here's where the fun really starts. You can play it safe and redeem your prize on your next visit to Whataburger. Or, you can go on to second base.



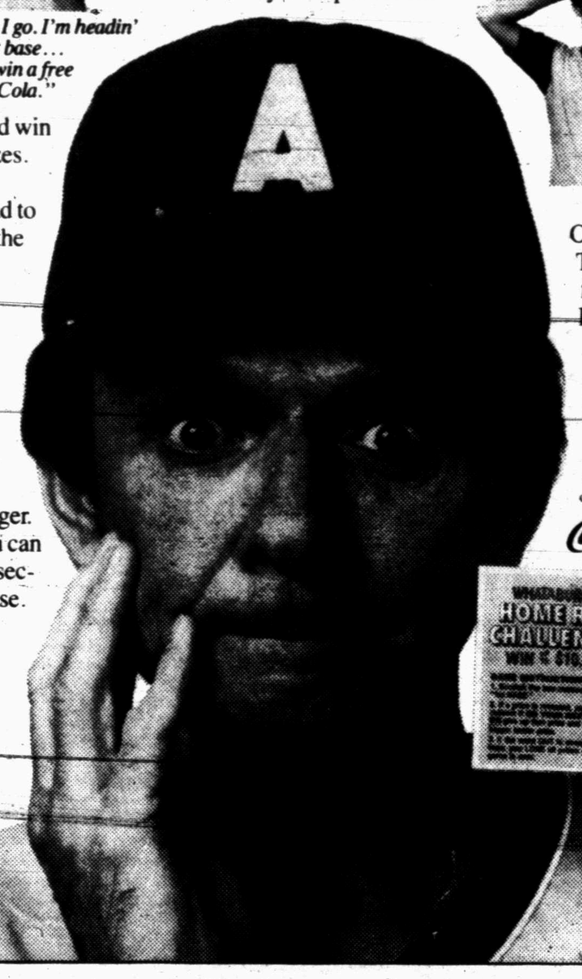
"But now I try for second. If I'm not out, I win a bigger prize."

If you're out, you lose the prize on first base. But if you make it, you win a bigger, better prize like a hot, juicy Whataburger or a tasty Taquito with cheese. Maybe even cash.

Now, do you stop at second or try for third? The further you go, the more you can win. And if you make it all the way to home, you could win up to $10,000!



"Okay, I'm safe at third for a free Whataburger. If I make it to home, I could win up to $10,000. Now, do I go? Or do I stay? Or do I go? Or do I stay..?



Will you play it safe? Or will you go for it all? There's only one way to find out. Come play the Home Run Challenge. Only at Whataburger.

It's not just a hamburger, it's a WHATABURGER®

Whataburger's Home Run Challenge ends April 30. No purchase necessary. While supplies last. You must be 16 or older to play. Void where prohibited.

Singer says jazz is changing

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (AP) — There are new sounds and new economics infiltrating the world of jazz, and scatsinger Betty Carter is concerned.

"I wouldn't know what to tell my kid if he wanted to become a jazz musician today," the 52-year-old vocalist said in a interview before a recent sell-out performance at Wesleyan University.

The traditional acoustical sound that developed around the country is being replaced by commercial, electronic music, she said.

Some of Miss Carter's early experiences revolved around Detroit's Chapel Hill Baptist Church, where her father was choir director, "and that's where a lot of the singers started from," she said.

But her first associations with music came from high school in Detroit.

"During assemblies, I was the student that the teachers would call on to cool the kids out before the big speeches came, to play the piano or sing," she said.

In the 1940s, jazz was popularized in Detroit by the likes of Dizzy Gillespie, Max Roach and Charlie Parker. Her favorite musician, Gillespie, did not like to employ women in his band, so she worked — tumultuously, at times — for Lionel Hampton.

Fame, which she says is not a measure of a jazz artist's worth, came late to Betty Carter, due partly to the fact that jazz "was born in the street more than anything else."

"Individualism was the most important thing," she said. "Why should I make money copying you? As far as blacks in show business was concerned, we would applaud because it was good, but you would never make any money singing like Sarah Vaughan."

The same is true for good young jazz musicians today, she said, but there's the rub.

"It wasn't necessary in those days 25 years ago for me to have a hot record in order to get a job. I could get a job around the corner to practice," she said.

"Now, a young musician has to have a hit record."

Miss Carter believes that recording companies prefer to promote other types of music because jazz is not a massmarket success.

Stacy Keach arrested on drug charge

LONDON (AP) — Actor Stacy Keach, who plays a private eye in the television series "Mickey Spillane's Mike Hammer," has been released on bail after spending a night in a London jail on a charge of importing cocaine, authorities say.

Keach, 42, arrested at Heathrow Airport on Tuesday, was released Wednesday after paying a cash bail of $100,100.

The actor, filming a television mini-series in Provence, France, based on Judith Krantz's book "Mistral's Daughter," had flown to London for one day to rework soundtracks for the Mike Hammer series, according to his London agents, Rogers and Cowan.

Snyder Story Told

Deep Creek Merchant: The Story of William Henry "Pete" Snyder 1836-1916 (Charles G. Anderson, $22.50 special edition, $16.25 regular edition, Snyder PUblishing Co. 240 pp., illustrated).

A Pennsylvania Dutchman, Kansas homesteader, Colorado miner, Union Army private and a Texas frontier merchant — "Pete" Snyder's varied career led him to the post-Civil War Lone Star State where he named the Scurry County seat then left town bitter and disillusioned.

A product of the emerging, industrial northeast, Snyder grew up in a time and place where young men were expected to seek careers in the coal mines, in banking or in railroading. But if wasn't for the restless 21-year-old who felt his future lay westward in the rugged land beyond the Mississippi River.

He just barely settled onto a quarter section of land in Manhattan, Kansas when the lure of gold in Colorado beckoned him to the "rip-roaring town of Central City in 1859 where he gained success as the operator of several good gold mines.

When the Civil War clouds rolled over the nation. Private Snyder and the rest of Company "D" Colorado Cavalry Volunteers moved into Kansas where they faced Quantrill's Raiders.

His post-war plans took him back to Colorado where he discovered unscrupulous companies had taken over his mines leaving him no legal recourse.

The trail of the wild buffalo eventually brought him to northern Scurry County in 1876 where he set up a trading post. When his prosperity faltered as the buffalo herds were slaughtered or driven back north, he bought "Tuck" Cornelius' trading post on Deep Creek. To keep his post stocked he often traveled to Fort Worth or Dallas by way of Ft. Phantom or Buffalo Gap where he picked up mail for the Scurry County pioneers — a trip that took two to three months in his ox-drawn wagon.

Snyder sold his trading post and moved to Colorado City in 1881 where he felt the railroad could bring his merchandise faster and cheaper. But the vision of a community on Deep Creek stayed with him and in 1883 he surveyed the land for the town that grew up at "Snyder's Place," so-called by the 30 families living nearby.

After losing a bitter land claim battle that went to the Texas Supreme Court, Snyder returned to Colorado City leaving behind the town that bore his name.

Author Anderson, principal of Snyder's Central Elementary School, also wrote In Search of the Buffalo: The Story of J. Wright Mooar and the legenardy white buffalo of Scurry County.

In Deep Creek Merchant Anderson has done an outstanding job of telling the story not only of "Uncle Pete" Snyder, but has drawn in many highlights and sidelights of the people and events that made the city and county the viable area it is today.

The book is profusely illustrated with photographs, maps, and documents, plus more than 50 sketches by well-known Scurry County artist Lu Bright.

Danger cited in over use of natural resources

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The failure of the advanced, prehistoric Indian civilizations in the Southwest carries a warning for the present "because in many ways we're making the same mistakes today," says Robert H. Lister, former chief archeologist for the National Park Service.

"The message seems quite clear — don't overutilize your resources in an arid environment," he said in an interview based on a just-published book, "Those Who Came Before," written with his wife, Florence, a research associate with the Arizona State Museum.

He said the book capped a half-century of study of the rise and fall of the Hohokam, Anasazi, Mogollon and splinter groups. They left behind no written records. However, their extensive ruins — including cliff dwellings and multistory buildings — can be seen in 26 national parks, national monuments and recreation areas in Arizona, Colorado, Utah and New Mexico that the Listers detail in depth.

"Archeology uncovered the story of these old Indians," Lister said by telephone from his home in Prescott. "They didn't do it right. They faced many of the problems people living here today are facing — depletion of natural resources, trying to control water depletion, an increasing population in an arid land.

"They over-utilized the resources of a marginal land to the point where living was difficult. Are we doing it right? We certainly seem to be reaching the point of danger to the environment."

For years, one of the intriguing questions of the Southwest has been what happened to the Hohokam, who abandoned their desert civilization about 40 years before Columbus discovered America.

They left behind multistory buildings like Casa Grande that Spanish explorers called as large as any in Mexico. Some of modern-day Phoenix's water system follows the engineering of their canal system, parts of which were in service for 1,500 years.

"No one thing triggered their leaving, and I think their tradition continued on a watereddown basis in the Pima Indian tribe," Lister said. "There were several key factors, none critical by itself, and all interrelated to the fact that water is so important to the Southwest and has been for almost 3,000 years."

Perhaps most important, said Lister, the Hohokam economy was dependent on agriculture, and because of intensive irrigation, the salinity content of the land built up to the point where yields declined and declined.

This decline came at a time the population was increasing.

Declining crop yields because of increasing salinity of irrigated land is common in desert agriculture today, and a growing problem. Even homeowners face it trying to grow plants in landscaping.

In general, what was true for the Hohokam also was true for the other prehistoric Indians of the Southwest.

'Jane Doe' relates her story of child abuse

(Editor's note: This is fourth in a series of articles to inform the community about child abuse. Interested citizens may make donations toward a projected girls' home in Scurry County by contacting a SCOOP member.)

After agreeing to this interview, it came to me that the thing I needed to share was what years of abuse did to me.

I've carried a terrible burden of guilt. I'm 43, and I've cried gallons of tears, been in and out of serious depression, battled illness--some real, some psychomatic.

Nearly my whole adult life has been spent in bitterness. I built a wall between myself and others. People who have never experienced the things of my childhood have no idea why some wear outer shells.

The abuse began when I was 6. It continued for almost 10 years. When I was little, my father was like a god to me. I admired him, he was the whole world, and I believed everything he told me.

After a while, it began to trouble me. In about the 4th grade I wondered why if this is the way it is suppose to be, does he warn me not to tell anyone?

In my early years, my father didn't want me to do anything or go anywhere. It was a twisted mind that cautioned me what might happen in the world. It is ironic. He was sick, and his sickness nearly cost me my life and my sanity.

I feel that I've failed in many areas. Problems have followed me. My teachers and church leaders were very encouraging when I was young. Several people talked to me about my potential. But you see, my self-concept was poor. I never realized any potential. I was convinced that I was to blame for the way my life was.

In high school, I couldn't bring myself to associate with other kids. I didn't participate in anything, keeping my feelings all bottled up. Every other feeling I also kept secret. I did this for years, until I got into therapy.

I was a walking time bomb, or at least a mess of emotions. I'll never get back the lost years, and I blame it on my father. Sure, he was sick. He was a good appearing man, and whenever he was home, he went to church with us. No one would have believed what I am telling you.

The family lived with my grandmother. My father traveled part-time. Grandmother and I were so close. She was the only mother I ever knew. If it hadn't been for her, I couldn't have survived. But she was old, her health was bad, and I didn't dare tell her what was happening.

Through the years I have lived in fear, even though the source of my fear and the events controlling me were in my past. I was the victim, but I was made to feel responsible. Then the guilt built and it's like a giant mass in the pit of my stomach.

I felt responsible because I was told that if I opened my mouth, it would be my fault if the family broke up. I feared that in some way I might even become reponsible for my grandmother's death.

I was torn between telling on my father and the results of what might happen if I did. I had no one to help me sort out what was right or wrong.

When I was old enough to understand, my feelings for my father turned to hate. Because I was raised to believe you don't hate your parents, I was in a situation where I could not chose between situations and crime.

Finaly I got into therapy. That and my faith in God has finally turned my life around.

I want people to know the mental anguish caused by incidents like this. I am a survivor, and my present family has stood by me. After therpy, I found a job and began to get out. I may take some community courses and pick up some hobbies. I am beginning to find, through love, that life can be good.

You asked me what to tell a child between six and 15 who is abused. I would tell them to get away. The main thing is getting children out of these situations and then dealing with offenders.

People need to begin thinking about the child first. Save the children, then prosecute or help the sick adult. The abused child is torn between loyalty to the parent and safety for himself. Fear enters in and the child is not capable of decision.

A child doesn't know where to go for help, and to overtly challenge the authority in the home. Riddled with guilt and the misplaced feeling of responsibility, most children are not mature enough to get help. Had I known what I know now, I would have left at all costs.

Some say kids are better off at home even in an abused home. I don't go along with that. We know that abused chilren often grow up to be abusive parents. No matter the result to the adults involved, when there is child abuse, the cycle must be broken and the child given a chance at stability.

A girls home, had it been available, might have made a difference for me. Perhaps I would have made a move, and it might have saved me and many wasted years.

A. Hoffman talks to kids

DEERFIELD, Mass. (AP) — The radical '60s met the conservative '80s when Abbie Hoffman spoke to an audience of prep-school students and summed up his theory for saving democracy: Don't trust authority.

"Disrespect for authority, not respect for authority, ensures that democracy will be around for years and years to come," said Hoffman, 48, in an address to 250 students at Deerfield Academy.

"Get involved," Hoffman urged the students Tuesday night. "If you turn away once you know what's right, then you're already dead."

SNYDER CONSOLIDATED INDEPENDENT
SCHOOL DISTRICT—PLACE 6

My adult life has been dedicated to promoting excellence in education. I support the right of the tax-payer to run their school district, and I will not compromise on issues involving the learning of basic skills, discipline in the schools, teacher control of students in the classroom, and adequate rewards for excellence in teaching and loyalty to the policies of the Snyder Independent School District.

Our school system will only be as good as the people we elect to the board and hire as administrators, teachers, and support personnel.

If elected to Place 6 on the Board of Trustees, I will represent you as best my experience and knowledge will allow.
