Write-In Of Tom Hunter's Name Fanned

Third Man In Democratic Primary Speaks For Party Ticket

WACO—Tom F. Hunter of Wichita Falls expressed surprise when told some of his supporters in the first democratic primary planned a write-in campaign for him if the general election ballots carried the name of no democratic gubernatorial nominee.

At the present time I can make no comment, Hunter said. I haven't given this thing any thought. Being human, I of course appreciate any manifestation in my favor by my friends. In the event there is on the ballot the name of a democratic nominee, I shall feel bound by my pledges to support him or her, whoever it is. I have never scratched the ticket yet and feel that it is no time to start.

WACO—Tom F. Hunter, a democratic leader of Texas, believes President Herbert Hoover has forfeited his claim to leadership and that his administration has favored the rich to the detriment of the poor.

"No man can lead the people unless that man can be a leader," Hunter stated in a speech at a democratic rally here last night. "Hoover has been forsaken as a leader because the privates of his army of supporters believe themselves smarter than he."

Write-In Campaign For Mrs. Ferguson Urged By Hughes

AUSTIN.—The supreme court heard arguments on the motion of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson for leave to ask a mandamus forcing Secretary of State Jane Y. McCallum to certify her to county clerks as the democratic gubernatorial nominee on the general election ballot. Decision of the motion was postponed until Monday.

The supreme court questioned lawyers as to the nature of an emergency existing. Ferguson attorneys said it would be impossible to try the district court contest before the November 8 election.

AUSTIN.—A stirring appeal for a "write in" campaign in behalf of Mrs. Ferguson was made Saturday by Maury Hughes, chairman of the state democratic executive committee.

At a special meeting of the committee Hughes stated that should any court prevent Mrs. Ferguson's name being placed on the ballot in the general election, it would be the duty of every democrat to write in her name where it "rightly belonged."

He expressed the belief that Mrs. Ferguson's name would be on the ballot. If not, he said she was still the party's nominee and entitled to the support of all loyal democrats.

Prior to the state session, the Travis county deputy sheriff served committee members with citations issued by District Judge W. F. Robertson, restraining them from taking any action until Governor Sterling's election suit is decided.

AUSTIN.—Faced with the possibility that there might not be a democratic nominee for governor on the ballot in the general election, Texas democrats were looking to move Saturday to bring some semblance of order out of the chaotic political situation.

Mrs. Ferguson was nominated for governor by the democratic convention after a caucus of August 27 primary election gave her a lead of approximately 4,000 votes over Governor R. S. Sterling.

Mrs. Ferguson also sought to enjoin Mrs. McCallum from making a partial certification of the nominees, which would completely tie up the election machinery and prevent her from certifying even the presidential electors.

Certification of all nominees has been withheld pending the supreme court's action.

Should the court refuse Mrs. Ferguson's petition, it would mean that no nominee could be certified for governor until after trial of the suit, unless Judge Robertson modifies his restraining order, or unless some other action was taken.

It was recalled that when Mrs. Ferguson was in the ballot as the democratic nominee in 1924 she defeated Dr. Geo. C. Butte, republican.

Home Town Talk

No matter what any individual may think of the wisdom, justice or expediency of declaring Ney (Red) Sherridan, the Sweetwater, high school football star, ineligible for further competition, we cannot get around the fact that action on the district committee will materially injure relationship between Big Spring and Sweetwater, which here before has been pleasant.

At one time or another our Sweetwater neighbors have been in a tuss with most all of their other neighbor towns but until now, insofar as we know, no breach had occurred with Big Spring.

The fact is that Big Spring, or her school officials, cannot be justly charged with engineering the move which led to having Sheridan declared ineligible.

The impression has gone out everywhere that the Sheridan case was a fight between Big Spring and Sweetwater. It is in one sense, in another it was not.

It was Mr. McLain of Sweetwater (CONTINUED ON PAGE 8)

Down Goes La Follette
BY A STRANGE quirk of fate
the rising tide of democratic sentiment has restored Wisconsin
to the control of old guard republicanism.

It happened in this wise: Young Philip La Follette, son of "Fighting Bob" and brother of young Bob was a candidate to succeed himself as governor. Always heretofore the La Follettes, in crucial moments
had support of many thousands of democrats, who stayed out of their own primary and entered the republican primary.

This year, however, the tide of democracy is running high, and these thousands who had been supporting the La Follette progressive's stayed away from the republican primary and registered as democrats.

That fact broke the back of La Folletteism in the recent primary, and young Philip went down to defeat at the hands of former Governor Kohler, the air-minded plumbing fixtures manufacturer.

Furthermore, just to make the route of progressive complete, John E. Chapple, a young newspaperman, defeated John J. Blaine for the nomination for United States senator.

Democratic leaders in Wisconsin
see hope for a revival of their party in that state. Many of the progressive are expected to turn their backs upon Kohler and support

UNIVERSAL PICTURE

Will Would Grin At The Little Things

Vivacious Dorothy Jordan, who plays the role of Will Rogers' son's best girl in "Down To Earth," at the Ritz theatre today, Monday and Tuesday, is shown above with Rogers, who becomes her father-in-law about the time the picture ends. Dorothy finally pulls Will's son out of a fire that he made for himself by his extravagance. It is Will's son who tells him he bought a $15,000 Rolls-Royce for $8,000 and so, saved $7,000. Will says "If you can do that you're a millionaire."

Rogers Is Unpretentious
By Nature And It Fits Him
Admirably For Role At Ritz

"Down To Earth," His Newest, Billed Here
Three Days

Serenity's bustle, and most democratic celebrity is Will Rogers.

Rogers prefers to be, and is big enough to be himself. He likes to talk and to his fellow players about the Fox studio he will expound his views by the hour. But to professional interviewers he proves discommergingly elusive.

He will appear in "Down To Earth" at the R & R Ritz Theatre today, Monday and Tuesday.

Few Hollywooders really understand him. They assume his utter disregard for dress, his customary avoidance of premieres, his draw-ling speech and Oklahoma man-nerism are a pose. On the contrary, they are very real and form a part of a personality that is virtually opposed to sham and affection of any kind.

Consequently, although he will fight shy of meeting regular studio visitors or of appearing in public, he delights in getting a group of players and extras around him on the set to swap stories, or in joining a gang of youngsters on some innocent let and teaching them to spin a rope.

Keaton Loosens His
"Frozen Asset"

Buster Keaton's "frozen asset"
may have been his face throughout many of his comedies, but his newest role as the college professor in "Speak Easily" is the nearest thing to an exact character portrayal he has ever attempted.

Throughout the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer farce coming Tuesday and Wednesday to the Ritz Theatre
his part demands an absolute set and indifferent reaction to any occurrence no matter how startling or tame of vice, which gives Keaton an admirable opportunity for his hilarious brand of comedy.

He is supported by Jimmy
"Schnozzle" Durante in the role of a small-time piano player. Other inmate cast are: Ruth Selwyn, Thelma Todd, Hedda Hopper and Henry Armetta. Edward Sedgwick directed.

Jimmy "Schnozzle" Durante is suffering from "right club mismanagement" (which happens, incidentally, to be the title of his latest picture) and not in striving for
pomp and show.

Receives Noted Visitors

There Rogers, his charming wife and, when they are home from school, his three children entertain distinguished guests from all over the world. He does his best to avoid advertising the fact, and many a noted visitor has come and gone without newspapers or public being any the wiser.

But with his mode of life he manages to be happy—more so,
probably, than any of the other screen great. Perhaps the secret lies in living simply "down to earth" (which happens, incidentally,
to be the title of his latest picture) and not in striving for
pomp and show.

Unpretentious is perhaps the best word to describe him. His favorite attire because it is the most comfortable, consists of blue trousers, cowboy style, and a leather jacket over a blue shirt. His secretary attends to entry all his business affairs in a modest little office in Beverly Hills. His daily and weekly newspaper and magazine articles he types himself, herulously and with two fingers. A parable match he carries around in his car.

Shuns Being Photographed

A motion picture star who hates
to be photographed seems a contradiction in terms, yet Rogers consistently avoids a portrait gal-ery.

So far the Fox officials have been unable to get him into their own camera studio.

"Nobody wants to look at my democratic national ticket in November."

The La Follette still have a chance in belated returns, but it isn't much of a chance to overcome the Kohlers.

Goldwyn Mayer's "Speak Easily"
claims that he is never able to go to sleep before two o'clock in the morning no matter how early he goes to bed.

"I have to go out in front of the house and watch a few milk trucks
go by, so I'll know it's late," says Jimmy, who spent more than twenty years in New York clubs.

Garbo Wears Old-Timey
Carb In "Romance"

"Romance," which will be shown
Thursday and Friday at the Ritz Theatre, is Greth Garbo's second talking picture adaptation of the famous stage play in which Doris Keane starred for six years.
Clarence Brown directed it for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer from the script by Bess Meredith and Edwin Justus Mayer. Lewis Stone and Gavin Gordon head the supporting cast which includes Florence
Lake, Mathilde Comont, Henry Armetta, Clara Blandick, Elliot Nugent and Conquesa de Liguro.

Laurel and Hardy In Feature Picture

"Pack Up Your Troubles," the latest Laurel and Hardy feature-length comedy, which comes to the Ritz Theatre to be shown Saturday of this week marks the second, full-length attraction starring the popular laugh team.

More than a year ago they were starred in "Fanny's Story" when time they have been diligently searching for a new idea for their second feature. Few were they been successful in bringing to the screen one of the most numerous offerings of the season will be revealed when "Pack Up Your Troubles" is shown.

The title will undoubtedly bring to the minds of many people the refrain of one of the popular songs sung during the world war. Pack up your troubles in your old kit bag and smile, stogie, smile. Laurel and Hardy have tried to carry the meaning of the song, though the story has no connection with the melody.

A flash of the humor of the world war is said to furnish one of the many hilarious moments in the comedy. The team, as a couple of amiable doughboys, wander aimlessly through fire and shell and come back with many prize pristages of humor.

Prominent members of the supporting cast include Mary Carr, Donald Dillaway, Jacque Lyn,
little three-year-old "Our Gang"
member, Muriel Evans, Gray
Sutton, Richard Tucker and James Finlayson.

Better than a review of this number, we consider a reprint of an editorial inside the front cover about the museum building which J. Marvin Hunter, of Bandera, editor, is preparing to erect. Mr. Hunter is doing a unique work in Texas and deserves every assistance possible.

He says: "I have a wonderful collection of relics of the frontier—such things usually found in a museum. I own a beautifully located lot in the heart of Bandera on what is known as Delightful Hill where I plan to erect a museum building for this collection. Here we have all kinds of beautiful building stone, quarried less than a mile away, which will be used in its construction.

"In addition I expect to use in the walls and for landscape work many freaks of nature, petrified wood, stalactite and stalagmites from caves in this region, fossils of various kinds, flint arrowheads, metates—and perhaps a dinosaur track in solid rock.

"I have received encouraging letters from quite a number of people who say they will help me carry out these plans. Some have already sent in their subscriptions to the Frontier Times and the book, 'The Authentic History of Sam Bass and His Gang,' which we are now printing. I give value for every dollar sent in toward erecting my building.

"If you send me five dollars you will receive a copy of the Authentic History of Sam Bass and His Gang. If you send me three dollars you will receive a copy of Frontier Times one year and a copy of the book. If you send one dollar you will receive a copy of the book only.

"The money thus obtained is to be used in erecting the stone building 20x49 feet in size. A bronze tablet, probably 3x6 feet will be placed on the front of this building. On it will be engraved the name of each person who contributed to the building's erection."

ABILENE, TEXAS September 10, 1932.

Fulwiler Motor Company,

Attention Mr. Beasley:

Dear Sir:

I today drove the new Ford V-8 in a series of gas mileage tests. These tests were made with the aid of a Zenith mileage tester.

First Test:
Through city traffic stopping eight times for traffic lights we obtained 15 miles to the gallon of gasoline. This test was conducted on Pine, Chestnut and North Second streets in the city of Abilene, Texas.

Second Test:
Driving out Pine Street to the Anson Road, we held the car between 30 and 35 miles per hour and recorded 23 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

Third Test:
On the Anson Road, going north, I held the speedometer at exactly 50 miles per hour and the car made a fraction over 20 miles to the gallon. This test was made with the wind. Returning, we made the same test against the wind and made 19 and a fraction miles per gallon.

Fourth Test:
The concluding test was made at 60 to 61 miles per hour going north on the Anson Road and the car made 18 miles to the gallon. There were three passengers in the car averaging in weight 180 pounds each.

The car was a V-8 Tudor Sedan.

Very truly yours,
W. R. Sibley

Big Spring And Lamesa Gridsters Play Scoreless Tie In Mud

Steers Block Tornado Drive Or 1-Yd. Line

Ragged Exhibition At Lamesa Opens Season For Both Teams

BY CURTIS BISHOP

The Big Spring High Steers and the Lamesa High Tornadoes battled each other to a scoreless tie Friday afternoon on a soggy Lamesa field to draw up the curtain upon the 1932 gridiron season.

Standing ankle-deep in mud and with the Steers railed in the shadows of their own goal posts in the second quarter to take the ball on downs on their own 40-yard line, then came back in the last half to outplay the yellow-jackets.

The Lamesa eleven completed five first downs to four for the locals, and led in yards gained from scrimmage 78 to 52, but this advantage was overcome by the punting of Koberg and Hartnett, who determined the play-by-play account of the Big Spring-Lamesa game on Page 7.

downside of the Steers, with in their own twenty yard line.

Standing out in the Big Spring line were Elmer Dyer, Carl Crockett and Coats, who are expected to be the Sweetwater representatives for Lamesa.

First Quarter

The Steers more than held their own in the first quarter. Moran finished the kickoff and was downed on his own 22 yard line. An exchange of punts netted the Steers the possession of the ball on the Lamesa 42 yard line. Vane dropped a pass from Koberg, to end the Steers' offensive, and a blocked punt cost the locals another eight yards. Schwartzbach returned one of Cox's punts to the Lamesa 48 yard stripe as the quarter ended.

The Lamesa team made its strongest bid for victory in the second quarter. Koberg's punt went only to the Tornado 32 yard line, and Cox's kick bounced over. Schwarzenbach's head and rolled to the Steer 24 yard stripe. A pass to Correll netted the locals 13 yards and the initial first down of the game but Cox intercepted a second pass and returned to the Steer 50 yard mark. Koberg fumbled a punt and Nonnester covered for Lamesa on the Steer 49 yard line. The line plays netted the Steers a first down on the 8 yard stripe. Three running plays brought the pilsener to three yards closer, and Cox and Van fell a yard short of a touchdown. Koberg punted on the 33 yard line, and Cox returned on the 21 yard stripe. Three running plays advanced the ball on by seven yards, and an incomplete pass gave the ball to the Steers on their own 33 yard line. Correll and Lamesa covered Koberg's fumble on the Steer 14 yard line, but a pass was incomplete over the goal line to end the touchdown threat.

Second Half

Townsend's fumble early in the third quarter gave Lamesa possession of the ball on the 34 yard line, and a pass to Cox gave the Tornadoes first down on the 22 yard line. Again the Steer defense rallied, and the ball went over on the 14 yard stripe. In four exchanges of punts Harris brought the ball back to midfield. A pass, Harris to Correll, netted the Steers 24 yards and a first down on the 43 yard line. Harris kicked to Cox, who returned to the Steer 47 yard line as the quarter ended.

Schwartzbach returned a punt to the Steer 49 yard line and a pass to Harris through the base of the Steer line for the longest run of the game to advance the ball to the Steer 40 yard line. Here, Koberg's punting drove the Steer 40 yard line, and Schwartzbach's head and rolled to the Steer 24 yard stripe. A pass to Correll netted the locals 13 yards and the initial first down of the game but Cox intercepted a second pass and returned to the Steer 50 yard mark. Ney Sheridan Mustang Ace, Is Declared Ineligible By District Three Committee

Action Taken On Interpretation Of Four-Year Participation Rule Applied To 1928-29 Sweetwater "Roosters"

Disqualified

Ney (Red) Sheridan, Sweetwater High backfield ace, was declared ineligible for further competition by a unanimous vote of the district eligibility committee at a regular meeting of that body here Saturday.

After a stormy three hour session the District 3 committee arrived at the conclusion that Sheridan's two years of participation in the Sweetwater "Roosters" in 1928 and 1929 should count as two years of participation in the Sweetwater High Mustangs in 1930 and 1931 ended his four years of participation under the state participation rule.

Sheridan Friday afternoon was the outstanding star of a thrilling 20 to 0 victory over the Abilene Eagles.

The committee's decision was occasioned by a special interpretation of the four year participation rule passed by District 3 officials last winter. Sweetwater and Big Spring representatives on the committee, who had been named to represent the Sheridan case did not vote on the case.

The verdict definitely spells disqualification for Sheridan from all-district back in 1931 and one of the outstanding high school players in Texas. Article 6 of the constitution and laws of Interscholastic League definitely says that there can be no appeal from any decision rendered by the district eligibility committee. In addition, Roy B. Henderson, director of the interscholastic league bureau, was quoted in a letter to L. P. Barry, Midland coach, as follows:

"No Appeal

"The state committee will not consider an appeal from Sweetwater's decision. The committee in its report upholds the rule that participation in the 'Roosters' shall count as participation under the four year rule."

Henderson laid predicate for action of the district executive committee here Saturday.

It is difficult to set down in black and white all of the factors that should be considered in determining whether or not a team is an independent team or a school team," he said in a letter. "In my opinion if a team has any connection whatsoever with a school it should be considered a school team in order to eliminate the temptation to evade the rule. It is clear to me that a team has no connection at all with a school, such as an El Paso Club team, for example, participation on that team should not count against a contestant who might happen to be a student in high school. In case of doubt of this point, I think it would be well to consider the team a school team."

No Influence

The interscholastic league head expressed the opinion that the "text and past" phases of the famous "Rooster" rule would have no influence with the state committee, even if it were possible to appeal the case.

The committee decision dealt a severe blow to championship hopes held by the Sweetwater Mustangs, title repeat, and favorites to ace fifth last year's team, Sam Baugh, least present out of the lineup with an injured hip and may be of little service to the Mustangs this fall.

Attending the meeting were H. H. McLean and E. E. Neimast, superintendent and principal of Sweetwater High School, W. W. Lasker, H. B. Singer, and L. K. Barry, superintendent, principal and coach respectively of Midland High School, C. H. Kopp, principal of San Angelo High School, and a Commission representative of McAllen High School, J. E. Winters and C. A. Wilkins, superintendent and principal of Colorado High School, and O. H. Barksdale, superintendent, principal and coach of Big Spring High School.

Gentry Tells His Relation To Red's Case

Big Spring Man Reviews Factor, Cautions In Saturday Action

George Gentry, principal of the Big Spring high school, who represents the school on the executive committee of District 3 of the Interscholastic League, in an interview last night detailed his relation to the case of Ney Sheridan, who was declared ineligible under the participation rule.

Gentry, in an effort to have players of other teams declared ineligible and that be presented evidence to the district committee in the Sheridan case because he was appointed with Superintendent H. H. McLean of the Sweetwater schools, to present that evidence.

Gentry's interview follows:

"Ney Sheridan was not declared ineligible under a special rule passed by the district committee. He was found ineligible under an interpretation of the league's participation rule. The motion upon which the committee voted that declared him ineligible was that any boy who played on the Sweetwater 'Roosters' in 1928 and 1929 and who was then in high school, football participation, counted against him. It was shown Sheridan had played two years with the 'Roosters' and two years with the Mustangs of this school team."

Daniels Here

"Ben Daniels, who had coached the Steers, came to me several times last winter about coaching a team of youngsters. Supp. McLean of Sweetwater had warned me that the team Daniels coached was an outlaw team and that I was not to have anything to do with it. I allowed the boys to go on and we played its coaching or watching its games or anything of that nature. I supposed it would be the same sort of team as the Roosters had been."

"On last Thanksgiving Day when San Angelo high school came here to play the Steers the San Angelo coach allowed me to see the team. I was thrown for a loss by a district eligibility committee Saturday morning. The session

SPORTS ON PARADE

BY CURTIS BISHOP

Ney (Red) Sheridan, Sweetwater's stellar backfield ace, closed his high school career in a blaze of glory Friday afternoon by leading the red-shirted Mustangs to a 20 to 0 victory over the Abilene Eagles.

The results of the game started the popularity from Texarkana to El Paso and from Amarillo to Brownsville, and is even said to have caused a football fan in Keosauqua, Iowa, to drop dead. It was the worst kicking administered to an Eagle White since '26, well it's been a long time anyhow.

Sheridan, unchecked by the Abilene state authorities, was thrown for a loss by a district eligibility committee Saturday morning. The session

CALL of the WEST

By R. G. MONTGOMERY

CHAPTER

Pass Creek canyon led down on the south side of Folly Mountain. A rugged rim divided the creek country from the timber lands of the Delo Timber company. None of the pine or spruce had been cut in the canyon and the trail was narrow, twisting in and around great trees and close under frowning walls. Dona pushed the big roan as fast as he could travel with safety.

With reckless disregard for her own safety she skirted the edge of the back of her mind lurked the idea that this man, Ball of Blind River, would not attack her unless she discovered him or his hiding place which she was sure would be high up among the towering rocks, possibly in a cave with a view of the valley.

The canyon widened into a meadow and she could see a mile ahead. The roan lifted his head and snorted. Dona scanned the trail with alert eyes. Close to the edge of the open meadow Dona touched the roan with her spurs. The rider was her father. Her mount leaped ahead but before she could enter the open Asper had vanished into the timber at the far side of the meadow. Dona studied across the open grass land eager to catch up with him.

As she rode she caught now and then a glimpse of a hawk soaring and his powerful wings struck out like flashing streaks of light as he dodged around grass hummocks and spring spots. Dona swayed with him in perfect rhythm. Her eyes were fixed on her brown hair flowed back from her forehead. They entered the timber at the far side of the meadow and she could see her father faintly as he hid from a clump of aspens to the cover of a berry bush. He vanished from sight around a jutting shoulder of rock but she was sure she would overtake him when she rounded the turn.

Suddenly the roan leaped sideways and tossed up his head. Dona cast a fleeting glance at the ridge above. She fancied she saw a flash of black in the higher timber parallel to her course. It made cold chills run up her spine and she bent to pull the carbine from beneath her stirrup flap. With the rifle across the saddle and ready for instant action she plunged on. Beyond the shoulder of rock she caught a second glimpse of black. This time she was sure it was a black horse galloping along the rim above. Its rider seemed to be scrouching low over the neck of his mount and urging the horse on in the brief moment that she saw him Dona was sure of his horse and his cowboy attire but he was too high above her for her to recognize him.

Panic gripped her. It was plain that the man above was not concerned with her at that instant. He was pushing his horse to head off her father. Dona strained her eyes to catch a glimpse of Asper but the dense growth held him in its green fastness. She sank her spurs into the roan's flanks and he responded with his last ounce of speed. Branches lashed at her face and rocks flew from beneath the hoofs of the horse. She bent low, with the rifle bouncing against the saddle horn as they plunged into the wall of brush ahead. The trail was but dimly marked yet the roan seemed to know it.

Crashing through the brush Dona pulled her horse up with cruel sharpness. She could see her father ahead in the open. Facing him was a cowboy on a black horse. Both men had swung broadswords and were pulling their rifles free. It was plain that they intended to shoot it out. The man on the black horse had all the advantage for he had ridden out prepared to shoot while Asper Delo had been taken by surprise.

As she rode she caught now and then a glimpse of a hawk soaring and his powerful wings struck out like flashing streaks of light as he dodged around grass hummocks and spring spots. Dona swayed with him in perfect rhythm. Her eyes were fixed on her brown hair flowed back from her forehead. Beyond the shoulder of rock she caught a second glimpse of black. This time she was sure it was a shock in addition to the bullet wound. Dona held his head in her lap and began to take stock of the situation.

Ball would be lurking near. He was a man who would take an unfair advantage, that was plain and it made her position more dangerous. Dona got up and laid Asper's head in a hammock of grass. Her own body was racked so that she could scarcely walk but she struck out in search of her carbine. At every step she expected to hear a snuff voice commanding her to halt but only the scolding of a squirrel broke the silence.

She landed sitting up and opened her dazed eyes to find herself gripping two fistfuls of grass. With an effort she staggered to her feet and looked ahead for her father. She saw a still form lying in the tall grass 100 yards down the hill. Limping painfully, she ran toward the spot.

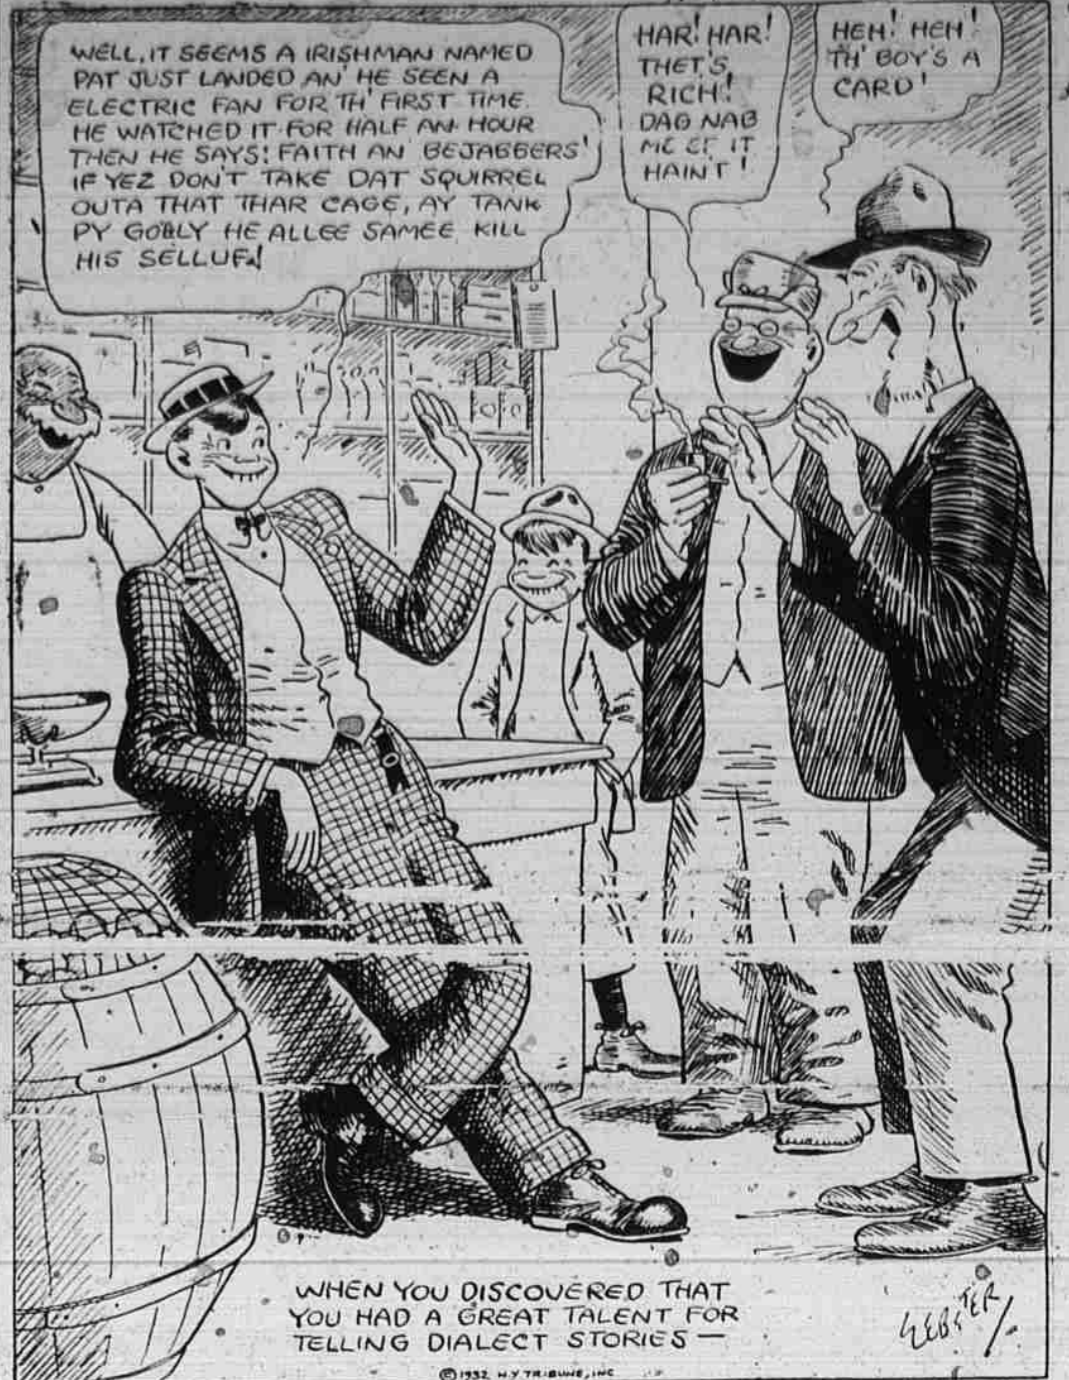

Bending over her father, she sobbed and choked. Asper had fallen on his face and had not moved. With shaking hands she turned him over. His face was white and his lips parted in a blue line. When she moved him he groaned and tried to move but his eyes did not open. Dona tore at his jacket and pulled it open. A red stain met her gaze and she began to rip away his shirt. She found a ragged wound high in the shoulder. It was bleeding profusely and would have to be bandaged at once.

Suddenly she became calm and her white face took on a look of grim determination. She would save her father. She would not let him settle down to be cold dead. She made a bandage from the torn shirt and tied it tight with the laces of the roan's saddle.

"Dad, Dad! It's p!" she spoke huskily. They were the first words she had uttered since bending over him.

The timber king continued to groan but he did not open his eyes. Dona began examining him for bruises and found one at the back of his head. Asper had landed in a bad way and had suffered a severe

Not a single match did her search reveal and Dona came to the despairing realization that he had packed his match box with his cigar case in a saddle pocket.

With night coming on and a cold chill settling on the high country she sat there helpless beside the form of her father. Big tears welled in her eyes and she felt her courage deserting her.

HOME TOWN

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) who first brought up the question of whether boys on the Big Spring were in high school. The boys who were in high school should be charged a profit of high school competition. The Black Devils were coached by the same man who had coached the Sweetwater Roosters. It was, insofar as local school officials knew, operated on the same basis as the Roosters had been.

Mr. McLain did not write to Big Spring for a list of Black Devil players. He could have obtained such a list here without any delay. But he wrote to the San Angelo principal for a list of Devils who played against the Junior high team there.

The principal here then felt that Mr. McLain believed Black Devils should have a year of participation counted against them. He also figured and naturally that Mr. McLain must believe Rooster players should come under the same classification. When asked two weeks ago whether he believed Red Sheridan ineligible under this interpretation of the four-year participation rule, he said "no." No formal protest of Sheridan was filed by Big Spring. The nearest thing to it was a motion by Mr. Gentry two weeks ago that players on the Rooster team of 1931 be declared ineligible under this interpretation. He made the motion to get the question before the house, knowing that the committee could not act upon it if he said that it wished to discuss it. No one had any evidence to present on the case. The committee called McLain and Gentry to gather evidence for presentation here yesterday. It was presented. The committee was unanimous in its action against Sheridan.

One can easily understand Sweetwater feels badly about the case. But this time that Sheridan is disqualified solely because of Big Spring's actions is not correct. If Mr. McLain had never raised the question of Black Devils being subject to the four-year rule for playing on that team no question as to the Roosters would have been raised.

Reports from Sweetwater are that they will be out here forthwith. The Big Spring team was ineligible. If there are any eligible here we're sure our school officials would like to know it. They may have missed some evidence themselves, for they keep a pretty close eye on their own side. If Sweetwater is not wanted under the rules in Big Spring, Big Spring wishes for next month.

Ben McLain just threw a curve ball and had it knocked for a home run. That's the whole story.

But we repeat, with all sincerity that we wish the matter had never come up. Nine of ten Big Spring fans will tell you the same thing.

The fans are not and should not be bosses in the matter, though the district committee is the boss, duly authorized, and rightly so.

Calls Trial Futile
Luther Nickels, one of Mrs. Ferguson's attorneys, said he believed the election contest suit would be moot before it could be tried. Nick would be under way before November 8, the date of the election and it would be futile to try it then, he said.

The statement was made by Nickels at a conference of opposing counsel called by Judge Robertson to outline a procedure for the trial.

Nickels stated that under the procedure outlined by C. S. Bradley, Governor Sterling's attorney, it would be impossible for Mrs. Ferguson and her husband, ex-Governor James E. Ferguson, to defend the suit because it would involve the expenditure of between $20,000 and $75,000. It had been suggested that the court appoint as many special commissioners as necessary to check the ballots and take testimony in counties where irregularities were suspected.

Stringing One Chance
He said the Ferguson's did not have a "war chest" with which to make their defense or to employ lawyers to follow "these perambulating satraps" through the state to take the testimony. Approximately 100 counties were involved in the illegal voting charges.

Governor Sterling's chance to be declared the nominee depended on the trial being concluded before the general election, since filing of the suit had made it incumbent on the trial judge to certify the nominee only after final adjudication.

No action was taken on the proposed procedure by Judge Robertson, who stated the decision of the supreme court in the mandamus action might "settle the matter as far as the court is concerned."

Judge Robertson said if the supreme court ordered Mrs. Ferguson's name printed on the ballot it "probably would of late times" for the supreme court Monday and postponed consideration of procedure in the contest trial until then.

Sophomore End Scores Only Touchdown of Night Game

LUCKOCK—Malcom Martin, sophomore end, scored the only touchdown of the Tech-S. M. U. game here Saturday night to defeat the Mustangs 6-0.

The score came in the third quarter after a bad punt by a Pony back gave Tech the ball on the S. M. U. forty yard line. Lester Solla, another sophomore, carried the ball to the twenty-two yard line on three plays, and Martin caught the Pony end completely napping on an end around play.

What was termed the largest crowd to witness a game in this section and the struggle played in a slow rain. Approximately 5,500 saw the game.

S. M. U. registered eight first downs to five for Tech. The Mustangs picked up 114 yards from scrimmage to 104 for the Matadors.

League To Appeal From Cisco Ruling

AUSTIN—Roy B. Henderson, athletic director for the University of Texas Interscholastic League, said Friday an appeal was planned from the decision of District Judge George L. Davenport reinstating Cisco High school in the league's athletic affairs.

Henderson said he had not been officially notified of the court's action, but that an appeal would be taken when the order was entered. Two types of appeal may be entered. Two types of appeal may be made, supersedeas appeal or the routine appeal to the Court of Civil Appeals. Should a supersedeas appeal be filed, the decision of the District Court would be set aside pending its determination. If a routine appeal is filed, Cisco would be allowed to participate in football activities of District No. 2. The district committee has urged that a supersedeas appeal be filed, Henderson said.
