HYDE CHALLENGED TO INTERPRET RELIEF BILL

World To Hear Voice Of Pope In Historic Radio Message Today

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Representatives from seven Northwest Texas cities will meet in Quanah next week to protest the high January gas bills which it is claimed gas users in the seven cities are being called upon to pay. Doubtless not only the January bills but gas rates in general will be protested.

The next few years are likely to see a great deal of agitation against utility companies and their rates. Indeed there seems to be the beginning of such a movement in Wichita Falls.

Nearly all utility rates have been raised in the past 10 or 15 years and there has been a great expansion and perfection of utility service such as light and power, gas, telephone and transportation. Most of the rates were raised during a period when the purchasing power of the dollar was high or increasing. Now the purchasing power of the dollar has fallen and is continuing to decrease and contrasted with their comparatively hard position when the dollar was increasing in value and rates were low the utility companies are in much better position. Conversely the consumers are finding their utility bills harder to pay.

The same thing is true with those who borrowed money during the period when the dollar was comparatively cheap and who now have to repay their loans in dollars that are worth more and which are more difficult to obtain.

The whole situation makes for dissatisfaction and unrest and we are certain to have a great deal of political agitation over this condition; that is, unless the dollar rises in purchasing power again. Certain it is that where utility franchises expire the consumers will fight for lower rates in their renewal.

The legislature of Texas pauses to do honor to Col. Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, editorial writer for several Marsh-Fentress papers in Texas. A portrait of Colonel Fitzgerald is hung among the portraits of the great and loved of Texas in the capitol building at Austin. It is an honor worthily bestowed. Colonel Fitzgerald is one of the most lovable of men and has fought with his pen for the welfare of the people and the glory of Texas. "Flowers for the living" has been one of his mottoes, and now the legislature in the name of the people of Texas has honored him as no other newspaper man of Texas has been honored while living. Colonel Fitzgerald was for a period publisher of The Record News.

Wichita Falls automobile dealers will hold an automobile show here Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. Wichita Falls is an important center in the sale of automobiles. Not only are millions of dollars worth of automobiles sold here annually but it is also a center for the distribution of cars to local dealers throughout a wide area. It is expected that 75 or 80 automobiles of the 1931 model will be on exhibit. There isn't anybody who can or will want to stay away from this exhibit.

The opponents of the water bond issue have used good strategy in attempting to connect the water bond election with utility rates, election of council men, high cost of living, high taxes and opposition to city officials and to the city manager plan of government. There is hardly anybody in Wichita Falls or anywhere else who is not dissatisfied about something and if all those who are dissatisfied could be consolidated into one group that group would be in an overwhelming majority.

Of course improvement in the water supply and service has no connection with gas bills and the water bond election is entirely separate and apart from the city election in April but there will be folks who will try to make themselves

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 11.—For the first time in the history of the world the words of the head of the Roman Catholic church will be audible over the entire earth Thursday when Pope Pius XI, from radio station HVJ, delivers the first pontificial radio message from Vatican City.

The largest number of stations ever to be joined in a single broadcast will participate, and the event will mark the goal of years of effort on the part of the Hearst radio service, Hearst newspapers, distinguished church personalities and broadcasting officials to allow listeners-in to hear the voice of Pope Pius.

Unique Occasion

The importance of the occasion can not be over-emphasized when it is realized that, within two years of the ending of the 60-year confinement in the vatican, a pontiff will speak directly to his flock by means of one of man's greatest modern discoveries.

Pope Pius XI, recognized today as one of the most vigorous and progressive heads the Roman Catholic church has ever had, hereafter will be a historic figure not only because of his settlement of the Roman-Vatican question but also because he will occupy a unique niche as the pontiff whose words went directly through the air to every point throughout the globe.

Joint ceremonies marking the observance of the second anniversary of the signing of the Lateran pact today, and the ninth anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XI tomorrow, were chosen for the historic event. Special services were held in the Basilica of St. John lateran today, and the radio broadcasting will be the impressive event of the second day.

Will Top Message

Not only will the pontiff utilize the most advanced means of modern communication to deliver a message to the world, but he will also honor the American founder of modern telegraphy, Samuel Finley Breese Morse, by tapping with his own hand on an operator's key the first announcement from station HVJ—the letters of which may be translated "Holy See—Vatican—Jesus."

At about 10:30 a. m., eastern standard time tomorrow, (11:30 a. m. Wichita Falls time) the coming of Pope Pius to the new Vatican City station will be announced by a fanfare of trumpets, the first signals the National Broadcasting company of America expects to pick up. During the next five minutes, HVJ will be silent while the pontiff presses buttons formally placing the vatican station on the air.

The first sounds which American listeners may hear after the trumpets will be Morse code signals, most likely (. . . .- -. -.-) "HVJ," tapped out by Pope Pius himself, at approximately 10:32 a. m. Following this will be other Morse messages, transmitted slowly on an automatic sender. These may be translated by NBC engineers in New York.

Marconi to Speak

Senator Guglielmo Marconi, renowned Italian wireless inventor and donor of the new Vatican City station, will be first to speak, when

Livestock Industry Held Impossible for Indians

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Feb. 11. (AP)—J. T. Montgomery, national livestock director of the Indian service, said today that livestock promotion among the restricted Indians of the five civilized tribes is impossible now because "there are no cattle and any issued free during the present food scarcity would promptly be eaten."

Montgomery, with Adrian M. Landman, superintendent of the five civilized tribes, just has completed a survey of Adair, Delaware, Mayes, Cherokee and Sequoyah counties where, he said, he found cattle raising at "zero point."

WORK OF RING DETECTED IN NEW MENACE

Jacksonville Capitalist Ordered to Pay $14,000

TEXAS CASES LINKED

Officials See Connection Between Series Of Episodes

JACKSONVILLE, Texas, Feb. 11. (UP)—Police guarded the home of A. G. Adams, president of the First National bank tonight, and a letter threatening to bomb the banker's house if he did not pay $14,000 to the "scar face gang" was in the hands of the grand jury at Rusk.

The letter was postmarked Jacksonville. However, detectives attempted to link the threat with an extortion ring that has been operating out of Dallas and has threatened four Northeast Texas bankers in the past few weeks.

Adams was instructed to take the $14,000 to a point nine miles west of town. Another letter will follow later in the week and the money is to be paid not later than Monday, the note read. Failure to comply with the demand will lead to the placing of bombs under his home, according to the threat. It was signed "the Scar Face Gang."

The banker said he was inclined to treat the threat lightly but officers considered it more seriously. E. T. Page, president of the Wedwater State bank, received a death threat and a demand that he pay $5,000 last week. Page's threat was mailed out of Dallas. R. W. Hanks, cashier of the bank and son-in-law of Page, was kidnaped and shot last Dec. 2, presumably by the same gang. The threat mailed to Page referred to the kidnaping of Hanks and said "the wrong man had been taken."

Robert Cerf, son of Isaac Cerf, millionaire Corsicana banker, was kidnaped and brought to Dallas in December. He was released when his father paid $15,000 ransom.

Bulls Bog Down Due To Caution

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. (AP)—The bull market in stocks boiled over and dampened speculative enthusiasm today.

The list surged up vigorously for a time, reaching new high levels for 1931 for the fourth successive trading session, but the very violence of the advance inspired caution. Many traders with profits decided to take them in advance of tomorrow's market holiday—Lincoln's birthday—and selling in the last hour wiped out most of the day's advance.

Trading was at a feverish pace as bulls cracked the whip over their favorite issues in an effort to keep them plugging upgrade, but the market was less active when it began to lose ground, and total transfers of 4,700,000 shares were 100,000 less than yesterday's.

The statement of under-Secretary of the Treasury Mills, that developments in the next 48 hours in the soldier bonus controversy may not be as pleasing to Wall street as it had been led to expect, appeared on financial news tickers at mid-afternoon, and presumably contributed to the late selling.

MASS MEETING SET TUESDAY

Bonds, Utility Rates And Council Under Fire

Opposition to the proposed improvements in the Wichita Falls water system, to the present membership of the city council and to gas and other utility rates charged in Wichita Falls was declared in a statement issued here Wednesday by a group of Wichita Falls residents.

Call for a mass meeting to discuss these and other questions was issued by W. E. George, former city attorney and chairman of the committee. The meeting was set for Tuesday night in the 89th district courtroom. The statement promised to reveal "who is behind" the proposed improvments in the water system and to "give the facts" about the $1,000,000 bond issue which will be voted on March 14.

The statement follows:

"To the citizens and taxpayers of Wichita Falls:

"The time has come for all the people of the city to know the whole truth and all the facts connected with recent proposed $1,000,000 water bond election, who is behind the movement and who is urging its burden upon the people of this city. The time is also here to strike against the unjust and unreasonable gas and other utility rates being collected off the people of Wichita Falls. It seems that almost every city in this section of Texas and Oklahoma has on its fight-

Iowa Park Youth, Struck by Auto, Near Death Here

Billy Blanton, 13, of Iowa Park was at the Wichita General hospital here Wednesday night with two fractures of the skull and a fractured leg as a result of being struck by an automobile at Iowa Park. Attendants at the hospital said the boy's condition was critical.

The youth was walking on the Iowa Park-Electra highway just inside the city limits of Iowa Park when the automobile struck him. Several cars were on the highway at the time and a passing motorist carried the injured boy to a physician in Iowa Park after the car which had struck the youth sped on. A Tanner ambulance brought the boy to the hospital here. Herbert Pogue and Earle Brooks, motorcycle officers, escorted the ambulance from Iowa Park to Wichita Falls.

Police of Iowa Park were seeking the driver of the automobile Wednesday night. The youth is the adopted son of Mrs. M. A. Palley of Iowa Park.

Marrs Defends Adoption Of Character Series

AUSTIN, Feb. 11. (UP)—State Superintendent S. M. N. Marrs today answered criticism of adoption of the "Hope of a Nation Series" of character charts in Texas rural aid schools. Representative Charles McCombs said yesterday that Marrs ought to be impeached for their adoption.

Marrs asserted that the price agreed upon, and to which legislators object, was lower than that in any other state. The charts are for use only in rural schools, as an aid to inexperienced teachers in combating the nation-wide tendency to lawlessness, he said. They were adopted under the same conditions as other charts and equipment adopted and sold to the schools of the state, Marrs said.

Murray Prays for a New Lincoln At Tomb of Martyred President

Oklahoma Governor Pleads for National Leadership in Commemoration Ceremonies

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 11. (UP)—Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma, came to the tomb of Abraham Lincoln tonight to utter a prayer for another Lincoln to take the nation's helm.

Governor Murray, like Lincoln, of humble origin, was one of the principal speakers at an exercise commemorating the 122nd anniversary of the birth of the martyred president.

In a debate with Stephen Douglas in 1858, Governor Murray recalled, Lincoln spoke of "the eternal struggle between two principles—right and wrong—throughout the world."

Leader Needed

"The same struggle is made manifest now as of yore," said Governor Murray, a tall, gray-haired man, with handle-bar moustache, a man proud of his rural career, proud of his sobriquet, "Alfalfa Bill."

"On this anniversary of the birth of our martyr," the governor continued, "greater is the necessity for return to his ideas. Just as a nation could not live half free and half slave, so this republic cannot continue by the intrigues of corrupt politicians, the brutality and heartlessness of combined wealth and capital, overlooking the rights of humanity.

"Freedom of the individual by Lincoln was made sure; the happiness and prosperity of the home is now a counterpart, and urgent requirement.

Flag Threatened

"The flag threatened in Lincoln's day by selfishness and brutal slavery is now threatened with cowardly cabinets, with political leadership degenerating into a mercenary appeal to block groups of voters; with statesmanship seeking a remedy through intrigue and barter; with the laws unequally enforced and government too strong for the weak and too weak for the strong. That is the menace which now confronts the banner of the republic.

"Let us no longer divide over party or creed, but unite under Lincoln's call to the spirit of the dead—of the broken lines of Gettysburg's defense braving Pickett's heroic charge, that this 'nation under God,' a 'government of the people, for the people and by the people shall not perish from the earth.'

"O Father of all mercies,

"Send us another Lincoln."

Other speakers included Govs. L. L. Emerson of Illinois, Wiber M. Brucker of Michigan, and Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi of Japan.

MINORITY ASKS OIL CONCLAVE

Franklin Group Proposes Joint Meet

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 11. (AP)—The minority report of Gov. William H. Murray's oil legislation committee, made public today, suggests a conference of Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico and Kansas representatives with a view to meeting the overproduction problem of the Midcontinent oil area.

The report, signed by Wirt Franklin, Roy M. Johnson, W. N. Davis and E. B. Reeser, characterizes the majority report, which advocated replacement of present conservation laws and said proration was price fixing, as "hasty, ill-considered and clearly biased."

Governor Murray rejected the minority report as containing no useful legislative suggestions.

Import Cut Urged

Murray appointed the committee of nine to suggest legislation to put the oil industry on a more satisfactory basis.

The minority members also recommend:

Limitation of imports of crude oil and refined products into the country.

Retention of ratable taking principles of the state conservation act, "as sustained by our supreme court and by a federal court."

Consideration of acreage as well as production factors in determining potentials of wells. The report cites alleged inequitable takings by owners of single wells on town lots, by draining neighboring tracts.

Appointments Asked

It is suggested that Murray ask the governors of the other Midcontinent states to appoint qualified representatives to the proposed con-

SENATE ASKS STATEMENT ON FOOD LOANS

Borah's Resolution Seeking Explanation of Plan Carries Solidly

COMPACT ASSAILED

Caraway Terms Compromise Measure an 'Abject Surrender'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. (AP)—The senate tonight called on Secretary Hyde to say whether the pending drouth relief measure would permit use of the $20,000,000 loan fund for purchase of food, clothing and medicine by the farmer borrowers.

The resolution calling for an interpretation by the administration was offered by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, and unanimously adopted at the end of a day of fierce debate over the proposal.

Senators Robinson and Caraway, Democrats, Arkansas, who defended the loan agreement against an uprising of Democrats and Republican independents, agreed to the resolution as an answer to their insistence that the farmers could buy food and clothing with their loans.

Conference Hurried

Administration leaders hurried into conferences tonight with President Hoover to seek a prompt answer from the secretary of agriculture to the Borah resolution.

President Hoover and the Republican house have stood against any federal appropriation for food purchases.

Opponents of the compromise were joined during the day by Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, who characterized the compromise as an "abject surrender."

The compromise had been accepted by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, as a substitute for the bitterly disputed $25,000,000 Red Cross appropriation originally sponsored by the coalition.

Couch Attacked

During the debate Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, suggested a lobby committee investigation of the activities of Harvey Couch, Arkansas Red Cross relief director, in behalf of the compromise.

Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, immediately took the floor in defense of the agreement. He said Couch had helped to negotiate it.

Caraway became the center of a circle of determined interrogators as he stood in the center aisle defending the compromise and insisted that under it a farmer could use the money for purchase of food.

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, demanded that Secretary Hyde be called upon to state whether he would permit loans under the measure if they were to be used for food.

"No Use Fooling"

This also was advocated by Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee.

Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, announced he would support the compromise but said under a strict legal interpretation there was "no need fooling ourselves and the

'Language To Spare'

Being the Poem "Begging for Bread", Read in Senate By George Norris, the Firebrand From Nebraska's Prairies

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. (UP)—Senator George Norris, Nebraska, in opposing the relief compromise and appealing for more funds, read to the senate a verse entitled "Begging for Bread." It was written by Robert Whitecar of California, and follows:

Begging for bread—in a plentiful land;
Begging for bread—with a trade in his hand,
Sound as a dollar in heart and in head,
Ready for work, and yet begging for bread.

Begging for bread—but no longer begging alone;
Now they are swollen to numbers unknown.
Who weary the highways with heart-breaking tread,
And swarm through city streets—begging for bread.

Begging for bread with such stores on our hands
We could feed the unfed of all habited lands;
Food rotted to order—starvation widespread—
Organized waste—millions begging for bread.

Chief of the nation today on the air,
And all the big talkers with language to spare,
Urging the half-poor, already well bled,
To save our prosperity—begging for bread.

JACKSON GETS SCHOOL FUNDS

Rural Districts to Receive $40,760

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Feb. 11.—Nineteen school districts of Jackson county will receive $40,760 aid from the state department of education, according to announcement by W. H. Dunsworth, county superintendent of schools.

Mr. Dunsworth received notice of this amount to be apportioned to Jackson county from John Vaughan, president of the state board of education.

Funds are expected to be available for the districts about March 1.

Fund Grows

This fund shows a small increase over the apportionment received in the first aid which was given to schools in this county last year. The amount received in the first apportionment last year was $40,525. No information is available as yet as to whether or not this will be the total amount received by the county this year, or if an additional apportionment will be made available later.

School districts receiving aid and the amount to be received by each show that Duke with a fund of $4,250 will receive more than any one other district of the county. The funds run from that large sum to $100 to be received by the Elk View school.

Schools Listed

Other schools to be assisted by the state aid for weak schools include Lincoln, $1,200; Humphreys, $3,270; Midway, $1,100; Warren, $3,750; Friendship, $4,000; Ozark, $3,000; Pleasant Point, $2,300; Hess, $1,195.

Martha, $2,000; Victory, $2,000; Harmony, $4,000; Prairie Hill, $2,500; Eldorado, $2,500; Twin Elm, $870; Blair, $1,250; Glen Dale, $375, and Olustee, $1,600.

The 15 mill tax levy must be voted by the school district tax payers and approved by the excise board of Jackson county before such aid is received.

Unemployed Demands Given to Legislators

AUSTIN, Feb. 11. (INS)—Governor Sterling today had laid on all legislators' desks copies of demands made to him yesterday by a delegation from the unemployed.

Governor Sterling received the delegation following an unemployment demonstration in front of the capitol, in which approximately 1,000 whites, negroes and Mexicans participated.

Stopping of discrimination in distribution of relief on account of creed, race or color, free text books, lunches and clothes for children of workers and poor farmers.

Electrical Genius Loses Life In Quest of Solving Mystery

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 11. (AP)—The passion for delving into the mysteries of electricity which brought him the credit of developing the first practical alternating current radio tube, has cost William J. Kimmel, 25-year-old Westinghouse research expert, his life.

He was buried today. While testing a power transformer in the laboratories of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company here Monday, he came in contact with a wire carrying 4,000 volts, and fell dead.

Kimmel was an infant when the first practical radio tube was developed by Dr. Lee De Forest in 1906. A score of years later Kimmel, then 21, devised the first alternating current tube to overcome the obstacles of quickly fluctuating voltages. This tube was known as the U. X. 26.

Handsome Cop Starts Looking For Rich Widow, Missing With Money

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. (INS)—A wealthy and attractive 36-year-old widow who was reported missing from her home here for more than a week today was the subject of a search by city police, who feared she may have been kidnaped.

Mrs. Myrtle Stella, widow of a real estate operator who left her a large estate, is the missing woman. When she was last seen she was wearing a $2,500 fur coat and was thought to have had a large amount of cash in her handbag.

The wealthy woman's disappearance was reported to police last night by Patrolman George Wandling, known as the "Adonis of the police department." Wandling said he was a close friend of Mrs. Stella's and revealed that he had been made heir to her fortune.

Suspected Pair

Wandling said he met Mrs. Stella during the course of his police duties. In visits to her apartment, he said, he met a young woman living with the widow and a man known as "Sammy," both of whom were frequent visitors at the apartment. He said he became suspicious of the pair.

"My idea was borne out," he said. "Sammy, after beating around the bush told me Mrs. Stella had $30,000 worth of jewels and that he'd like to 'clip' her for them.

"He said Betty was 'all right' and that she was a friend of Jack 'Legs' Diamond and knew how to keep her mouth shut. I told him that if he ever made another crack about the jewels I'd turn him over to the police.

Warned Woman

"Then I told Mrs. Stella I believed they were people she should not associate with. Soon after that Betty left."

Wandling has been married twice. His marriage to Claire Sugs, Buffalo heiress, was annulled because of irregularity in his divorce from Francis Ingram, opera star, his first wife.

The patrolman said Mrs. Stella wanted to set him up in a garage business but that he refused. Then, he said, she told him that she had changed her will to make him heir.

Frederick Asks Lower Gas Rate

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Feb. 11.—A petition bearing the names of 400 Frederick citizens asking for a lower gas rate for the city was mailed Wednesday night to the corporation commission at Oklahoma City.

Frederick pays 75 cents for 1,000 cubic feet to the Community Natural Gas company with headquarters at Dallas, Texas. The movement for a lower rate was inaugurated here last fall, but met with no success. Other Oklahoma cities are presenting similar pleas to the commission and a hearing is expected within the week.

Officials here expected that a gas expert would probably be sent to investigate costs of the fuel from Amarillo, the source of the Frederick supply.

LAWTON VOTE INTEREST HIGH

City Election to Bring Warm Contests

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Feb. 11.—With the date of the city primary only five weeks distant, politics is "warming up" in Lawton, although but few official announcements of candidacies have been as yet made through the press. Contests on mayor, chief of police, city clerk, street commissioner and councilman seats promise to be unusually warm due to the recent controversies over plans adopted for waterworks improvements.

Raymond Fields, one of the heaviest taxpayers in the city and former city councilman was first to announce for mayor. He was "runner-up" at the mayoralty primary two years ago, and will be a strong contender this year. Present Mayor Fred Larrance will make the race to succeed himself and it is expected at least four other candidates will shortly announce.

Indications are there will be six or seven candidates for chief of police with the present incumbent, D. Moncrief Jr., who has served two terms, having already announced his candidacy to succeed himself.

Councilmen races are expected to be interesting. One councilman is to be elected from each of the five wards of the city, with most of the present incumbents expected to be candidates to succeed themselves. Proposed installation of water meters is expected to be an important issue.

Here's Quick Way To Break Up a Cold

Makes You Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

The thing to do with a cold is to break it up in a hurry—with something you know does the job; not to trifle with a lot of trick ideas and remedies. Colds are too dangerous to experiment with.

Get a box of Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon that miserable, aching feeling begins to go. The cold breaks up. The poisons are moved from your system. The world looks like an altogether different place.

Those results come because Hill's goes back to first principles by going to the seat of the trouble. It's not a new-fangled fancy idea but a tried and proved way that's made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy.

Hill's costs only a few cents. Use it for quick relief after everything else you've tried has failed.

Hardeman to Plant High Grade Cotton

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Feb. 11.—Hardeman county farmers will plant high class Mebane pure cottonseed to be furnished from one of the leading cotton breeding farms in Texas, it has been announced by County Agent L. T. Hunter and Tom B. Simmons, following their return from a tour of inspection of these cotton breeding seed farms.

From six to eight carloads will be shipped to Quanah for distribution and the seed will be one year removed from certification. The staple is full one inch.

The first car of seed has been ordered shipped, and will arrive in a few days. Farmers will secure the seed direct from the car which will be located on tracks near Quanah Cotton Oil Mill. Seed is shipped in three-bushel sacks, and will cost $1 per bushel delivered.

Orders are being taken by County Agent Hunter, local gins, Farmers Cooperative society, local banks and Quanah Chamber of Commerce.

It is believed planting the uniform grade of seed and staple will result in better markets for the crop this fall.

A church on wheels, fitted with an altar table, rails, reading desk and pulpit, and folding chairs is being used on the Egyptian railways by Dr. L. H. Gwynne, bishop of England and the Sudan.

QUANAH, Texas, Feb. 11.—Machinery to handle the paving of highway No. 51 north from Quanah to Red river is being unloaded, and it is expected actual construction work will start within a few days.

Crushers for handling rock on adjacent lands are being set up, and native stone and gravel will be used as far as possible.

Requirement is made of the contractor that only local labor be employed, with the possible exception of a few machine operators.

J. W. Zempter & Co. of Amarillo are the contractors.

Grading and drainage structures on this highway have been completed for many months. The road connects with the new free Red river bridge now partially completed, and with highway No. 7 on the Oklahoma side of the river. This route is also named and marked Carlsbad Cavern highway, expected to be a link in international highway No. 1 which will eventually connect Canada and Old Mexico via the famous Carlsbad cavern.

Nowadays it's important to stop your cold quick before it weakens your resistance to more serious trouble.

Begin when you feel a cold coming. Take a tablespoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water, morning, noon, and night, the first day. Do same the second day. Then only at night. Colds reduce the alkaline balance of your system. That makes you feel achy, feverish, weak. Phillips Milk of Magnesia relieves this, and restores the alkaline balance.

EUGENE MEYER GAINS SUPPORT

Banking Committee Votes Confirmation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. (INS)—The senate banking and currency sub-committee today favorably reported the nomination of Eugene Meyer, of New York, as governor of the federal reserve board. The vote was three in favor of the appointee and two against him.

Meyer now holds office under a recess appointment given him last year by President Hoover but Representative McFadden, Republican of Pennsylvania, and Senator Brookhart, Republican, of Iowa, protested against his nomination because of his previous banking connections. The committee held public hearings to decide Meyer's qualifications.

Poor Housekeeping Frequent Cause Of Unhappy Marriages

Dear Miss Dix—Among my friends are three men whose marriages have ended unhappily and all three men tell me that the reason their marriages went on the rocks was because their wives were slovenly housekeepers. They would come home at night to find the beds unmade, the floors cluttered, their wives slopping around in untidy dresses and a dinner to eat that was first aid to the coroner.

I don't think these are exceptional cases. I think that the beginning of many an estrangement between a husband and wife that ends in a divorce is the result of a bride's untidiness and that many a young married couple's troubles could have been averted with plain soap and water.

Poverty does kill love frequently, but it is dirty poverty, not clean poverty. It is the grubby, sordid little things that start a young couple to bickering, and I wish you would warn brides in the interests of marital bliss that it is just as important to keep a cottage shining from top to bottom as it is to keep a palace clean. —F. M. S.

Answer—I hope every bride who reads this letter will take its warning to heart, for of all faults that a wife can have the worst from her husband's point of view is for her to be a slovenly housekeeper, and I have often wondered why, when men framed the divorce laws, they didn't include it as the first and foremost reason that would entitle a man to return his wife to the bargain counter and get back his freedom.

At any rate, without doubt an untidy home has sent more men to roaming and driven more men to drink than all other causes combined, for no man can take any pleasure in looking at a wife who looks as if she needed to be run through the steam laundry, nor can he yearn to come back at night to a home that looks as if it had just been struck by a cyclone. To keep a man sitting by his own hearth and make him a fireside companion you have to make it attractive.

There are two things that every wife should bear in mind. One is, how ordered is her husband's life away from home. In the factory every machine is clean and oiled, every tool polished and shining. In the office every book must be balanced, every letter that is sent out immaculate. In the store every pile of goods must be neat and symmetrical, every floor spotless.

Think, then, how a home gets on the nerves of a man trained to orderliness when the floors are scattered with papers, when clothes are hung up on chairs instead of hangers, when the sink is piled full of dirty dishes, when everything is helter-skelter, with no order, no system anywhere.

And the other thing the wife should remember is that when the average man comes home at night he is dead tired, spent with the strain of the day, nerve-wracked. He longs for nothing so much as peace and rest, and it is impossible to rest in a house of confusion, a house where there are a thousand things crying out to be done. There is no rest for either body or mind in an untidy house where nothing has been done to make it comfortable.

A slovenly kept house is no home. It is a place from which husband and children flee as fast as they can go. A real home, the kind of home in which there is love and harmony and in which children grow up to be fine men and women, is always one in which there is cleanliness and order and good cooking.

Certainly cleanliness is next to godliness in marriage. Soap and water will do more to hold a husband's love than French perfume, and the best weapon that a woman can use in defending her home is the broomstick. As long as she keeps busy with that she can keep the other woman out. —DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am married to a widower with one son, a boy of 10, who is very fond of me. Now here is my trouble. People are always saying to me: "Don't you object to your husband talking about his first wife? Doesn't it make you jealous?" The only way he ever mentions her is incidentally in telling me of some little incident that happened. He never throws her up to me. Another thing my friends say is that my little stepson should call me mother. I think that since he remembers his real mother, what he calls me is up to him, don't you? Do you think my friends are right in what they say? —MRS. G. C.

Answer—No. I think your friends are a fine bunch of meddlers and mischief makers, and that the less you listen to them the better for your peace of mind and happiness.

Why shouldn't your husband mention his first wife to you? Why should he avoid her name in conversation as if it was offering you an insult for him even to refer to her? You knew that he had been married and that many years of his past life had been associated with her. His marriage to you did not eliminate anything that had happened from his memory, and you would be a perfect idiot if you resented his talking of the things that had taken place during this time.

Certainly a widow and a widower are guilty of extremely bad taste if they are continually calling their second wife's or husband's attention to the virtues of their first maters and instituting invidious comparsions between them. Naturally any woman would resent her husband telling her how much better bread his first wife made than she did, or that his dear dead Maria ran the house on air and never had but one hat a season.

Nor would any second husband enjoy having his wife fling her first husband in his teeth and reproach him for not making as much money as darling John did or forbid his smoking because John never smoked.

But for a husband or wife to get jealous because their spouses tell about the time that they went up the Nile with Mary or John, or recount what Mary or John said or did on some particular occasion, is silly and unreasonable.

It is the live rivals who are still on the job of husband and wife snatching the second wives and husbands have to fear. Not those who are tucked away under a ton of granite in the cemetery.

Nor is there any reason for you to resent the little boy not calling you mother. Plenty of children call their mothers and fathers by their first names, or by some nickname, so it is no sign of lack of affection or respect for you. Let him call you what he will. The only thing that is important is that there should be love in his voice, and there will be if you are tactful with him and kind to him. —DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have a fair trade in my beauty shop and live very nicely on my own money, but I am very much in love with a young man who has asked me to marry him as soon as he is earning a fair living. I have set the mark for $145 per month, but his prospects are poor for reaching that figure. Would you suggest that we get married and I keep on with my work? My job is monotonous and I have sworn that I would never do it after I married. Do you think I would be satisfied to live on the little he now makes? —HELEN.

Answer—I should certainly advise you to stick to your beauty shop after you are married if your prospective husband is making so little. It is easy to accustom ourselves to luxuries, but hard to learn to do without them, and after you have been used to pretty clothes and dainty belongings and good food you will find it very disillusioning to have to come down to shabbiness and doing without all the things that you enjoy.

As for your work being dull and monotonous, so is all other work by which we earn a living and, believe me, you won't find it any more thrilling to scrub pots and pans than you do shampooing heads, nor is there anything more exciting in polishing a cook stove than there is in polishing fingernails. And there is a lot more money and less labor in one than in the other.

Girls who marry poor men because they are tired of working are fit inmates for a lunatic asylum. —DOROTHY DIX.

Why You Should Never Cut a Corn

If you are troubled with corns or callouses, do not run the risk of blood poison by paring them. Statistics show that many deaths have occurred from this seemingly innocent practice of paring corns.

Simply go to your druggist and get a few cents worth of Ice-Mint, rub a little on any painful corn or callous. Immediately the pain will disappear and in a short time the corn or callous will loosen and lift off easily with the fingers—root and all—leaving the surrounding skin in a healthy normal condition.

This, together with the fact that Ice-Mint overcomes such affections as sore, tired, aching, puffed or burning feet and makes them cool, easy and comfortable, is probably responsible for the hearty endorsement given it by druggists.

To rid one's feet of every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes or painful callouses in such a pleasant and safe way, makes it seem the height of folly for anyone to pare a corn and people are warned to stop it.—Adv.

A favorable committee report was given a bill creating a state real estate board commission and another measure providing for the payment of a bounty on crows.

The engrossed senate bill providing for an assistant to each supreme court justice at an annual salary of $5,000 was reported favorably out of the committee.

COURT UPHOLDS STERILIZATION

Nebraska Law Declared To Be Constitutional

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 11. (AP)—Sterilization of feeble-minded persons was upheld by Nebraska supreme court today. A law enacted in 1929 requires that feeble-minded persons must be sterilized before they are released from state institutions.

The validity of the act was challenged on behalf of Frank Clayton, 22, an inmate of the feeble-minded institution at Beatrice, after he had been instructed by the state board of examiners to undergo an operation.

Clayton's attorneys contended that the act was in violation of the constitution.

Those present were Mesdames R. W. Wilde, McBee, Holcomb, G. J. Gilles, Miller, Moore, Allen, Brownlee, Kelly, Brown, Williams, and the hostess.

A social will be held by the circle next Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. W. Moore.

'Fifty Per Cent Al' Meets Apparent Defeat

BELVIDERE, Ill., Feb. 11. (INS)—Albert W. Benham, who sought to prevent the business depression in Belvidere by paying high interest on money loaned to him, has "gone away for a rest," his friends announced this afternoon.

Benham, sometimes called "Fifty Per Cent Al," left his home here after admitting that he is "broke."

His failure involves the savings of factory workers, farmers, small shopkeepers and others to an extent estimated at from $50,000 to $400,000.

Investors with Benham, who regarded him as a financial wizard, have not lost faith, however, it is reported. No complaint has been filed against him.

Inter-County Federation Organized At County Meet

Mrs. Myers of Henrietta announced that Jack county had approved the program. Mrs. Newton Maer, president of the Woman's Forum, expressed approval of the program and declared the Forum clubhouse of Wichita Falls would be open at all times to the federation as a convenient conference place.

Mrs. W. W. Cook, Wichita county, Mrs. A. S. Hodges, Clay county, and Miss Robbie Castleberry, Wilbarger county, were named on a committee to select officers. A telegram to Mrs. Oneal at Austin brought her acceptance of the leadership and other officers were subsequently unanimously elected.

Mrs. L. E. Brooks, secretary, called the roll of federated clubs in Wichita county, stating there were now 19 and two new clubs were named by Mrs. Frank Fisher of Electra, as wishing to affiliate, a total of 21 in the county.

Mrs. John Brownlee, Electra gave a beautiful devotional, stressing the thought of service, stating it must be voluntary and that one must to make it outstanding, serve with gladness. Mrs. Ben Tipton of Electra, gave the opening prayer.

Mrs. W. R. Hall, chairman of a committee to select the Wichita county federation motto, flower and color, made a report which was unanimously accepted.

In her brief address to the conference group, Mrs. Barbour stated the objectives of her office. "One cannot do things alone," she said; "Each has her own niche. But working together we can accomplish much." She called attention to that first meeting of 12 club women when the Sorosis club organized more than 50 years ago and remarked on the contrast in that small band and over six million clubwomen who lend their efforts now to woman's work. Certificates of birth, so that every child might have his birthright, organization of a county library, special home demonstration work were mentioned as particular objectives.

Announcement was made that Mrs. W. W. Cook had been elected program chairman in the county federation; that Mrs. M. W. Majors of Burkburnett was maker and keeper of the county federation scrap book and that Mrs. Grover C. Johnson had arranged prizes for the home demonstration exhibits on display in the clubroom.

Miss Webb Talks

Miss Ethel Louise Webb, county demonstration agent, made a short but intensely interesting talk to the members, stating that the 4-H club was outstanding in work to meet the situation of the past year. The problems of adversity had gloriously rich help in the industrial work done by women interested in demonstration work. Miss Webb stated that meat canning had been tremendous over Texas for two reasons; farmers could not sell stock and they could not feed and water them, so thousands of club women took advantage of the demonstration of pressure cookers and tin cans and had meat saved ready for use.

"In times like these," Miss Webb said, "women make brains and hands stand for money. Improvement work means doing the best with what one has." She remarked on the greatness of home industry among Texas women, especially among farm women and on the standardization of home products resulting from their work, mentioning orange marmalade, jellies, preserves, chicken salad, whole wheat grain, sweet pickles, beans, puddings and fruit cakes as products that had been standardized and put on the market at a reasonable price.

"And last," Miss Webb said, "I would say that cooperation is the biggest thing the year has brought forth. If it takes hard times to bring about such cooperation, then something good has come of the lean years."

Following a clever report of the Houston conference of T. F. W. C. given by Mrs. St. Andrew Myers, secretary of first district, county federations brought greetings and told something of the work they were doing. Mrs. W. H. Taylor, Archer county president announced the goal of that body as the collection and preservation of cowboy lore and the stressing of woman's work; Mrs. A. S. Hodges, Clay county told of the girl they were sending through college and other special features and Miss Robbie Castleberry of Wilbarger county announced that the Wilbarger county federation was furnishing a clubhouse kitchen in Vernon, was having programs as outlined by the state federation and that were following the suggestion of a writer who said "inspiration is the base of information" and striving always for fresh inspiration.

Home Demonstrations Exhibits

On long tables in the Forum clubhouse auditorium where the county conference was held, were exhibits of fruits and vegetables canned by the Bowie, Hardin, Valley View and Pleasant Valley home demonstration clubs. Mesdames Arch Dawson, N. H. Downing and Walter Hugh Caldwell acted as a committee to select winning exhibits and named Pleasant Valley first, Bowie, second and Valley View third. Mrs. Grover C. Johnson who secured the prizes given by local merchants announced these: Bailey Moline Hardware company presented a 12 quart Wear-ever aluminum steam cooker as first prize to Pleasant Valley; Noble Little Hardware company gave the eight quart Wear-Ever aluminum steam cooker won by the Bowie club and Wichita Hardware company gave a rotary peeler won by Valley View.

The Westmoreland Home Demonstration club, which will be affiliated with the county federation after the meeting of Wednesday, have as their work for the coming year, hooked and punch work. An unusually attractive exhibit of work done by Mrs. J. W. Albertson was on display in a rug designed by her and a picture in lovely colors which was a piece of her original work showing the Swan creek of the Ozark mountains just above its junction with the White river. This spot is where the Missouri Historical association has stated Evangeline landed on her long pilgrimage. An interesting display of leather work by Mrs. C. C. Burrows was also shown.

Delegates Elected

Mrs. John Barbour, president of the Wichita County federation was elected delegate to the first district conference to take place in Graham in April, with liberty to appoint her alternate if she is unable to go.

Motion was made to adjourn the conference half an hour before the luncheon hour so that all present could see the exhibits. This motion was carried after announcement that Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner of Claude, Texas, nationally known speaker would address the conference on "Service, the Key That Unlocks Our Hearts."

Mrs. Warner Speaks

Luncheon was served in the dining room and auditorium where sprigs of yellow forsythia and flowering honeysuckle made the daintiest of spring decorations. The three large tables had enormous bowls of calenduala in two shades of yellow and yellow tapers rested in green holders.

Mrs. Barbour, president, introduced the county presidents seated at the speakers table, Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner, who made the address of the day and J. L. Jackson Jr., representing the chamber of commerce. Mr. Jackson stated the pleasure of his body in being hosts to any gathering of representative women and spoke of the specially fine work, home demonstration clubs did in the Wichita valley farm work. Stating that women would help in solving the marketing of products by canning, he announced his appointment of Miss Ethel Louise Webb on the marketing committee.

Directly after the luncheon, Mrs. Stanley Raub, with Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., accompanying, gave several lovely songs and Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner of Claude was introduced by Mrs. Barbour.

Mrs. Warner's talk was on the theme of service. "Folks don't care a thing about you unless you give service," she said. "Service is the key that unlocks hearts and selfishness the key that locks the heart tight." Service between towns and country was stressed with organization and federation the manner in which women of cities and country may unite. Federation, she said, was the thing that made women realize they could think. She told of one club in China in which 40 nationalities were represented and stressed cooperation as the greatest thing that can exist to help all women. With the work of women's federated clubs, educational standards have been raised, she said; college is open to town and country. Special tribute was paid to an Alabama club that made a great sum of money by taking care of their specialty and selling pine needle products. Mrs. Warner stressed the idea of each club and each community working with that thing which was its specialty. The gifted speaker held the intense interest of her large audience.

Luncheon guests from different towns included the speaker, Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner, Claude, Texas; Mesdames John Martin, Miss Marion Gunn, Dallas; Mrs. Henry C. Fuleher, Dr. Maud Lilley; Mesdames S. D. PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We set high value on our electric pad. We use it when we have an ache or pain and insist on offering it to our friends if they get "cricks" in their necks. But mind is greater than electricity. Just the other day we heard the story of a family where the electric pad was something of a joke.

The man of the house came home to lunch with pain in his neck and back. His wife tucked him up comfortably on the couch, attaching her electric pad and putting it over the partifularly painful spots. Then he went to sleep.

When he waked, he greeted her with a smile. "I really believe that pad has cured me," he said. "My pain is entirely gone." Then he went away with a smile.

And when his wife put away her afghan and started to deatch the electric pad, she found the heat had never been turned on. Which proves the innocent faith of man.

We have found an intense delight in reading a book of Cicero's letters. We sat up until the wee small hours the other night because we could not put them down until we had finished. The volume showed a wonderful man. Cicero had the ultimate object of better life for his fellowmen in all he did.

He thought upon the men of his time and was at no time so full of his own theories that he could not hear the other man. But he stuck to his ideals and finally lost his life.

The name Cicero has always been associated in our minds with a dim and distant past. Cicero and Brutus, Caesar and Antony—these were the great names associated. These Romans, who lived in a crisis in the history of their land, were thinkers. Cicero's name has come down as an expounder of law and as one of the greatest of Latin writers. But reading of his letters gives one a delightfully intimate acquaintance with the man and a knowledge that slang as it is spoken today, was not unknown B. C.

It was 60 B. C. we find Cicero saying, "Girls are made up best when they are not made up at all." And to one who believes slang a part of the American 20th century development, there's a familiar ring in "O ye gods, how I laid it on thick," as Cicero declared after a speech for Pompey's gratification.

Cicero said that Cato "called Piso down in fine fashion," and one of his favorite expletives was "Great guns!" And the "hot time" song was not coined in the time of the Rough Riders; it was B. C. that Cicero wrote his friend Atticus, "I hear you are having a warm time out there."

Cicero was so perfectly human. He believed in signs and it is a light on Cleopatra to know that one of the great men of Caesar's day did not approve her. While sojourning at his country home he wrote to Atticus at Rome "I fear rainy weather too, for the frogs are declaiming," and one of his later letters, speaking of Cleopatra, said, "The queen is an awful bore. The idea of her spreading around 'shady' stories about some presents she promised me."

Men were men B. C. just as men are men in 1931. We can't see that the ages have changed them much.

Mother of Four Babies

"Although I am only 22 years old, I have four babies to care for. Before my first baby was born my mother urged me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was so terribly weak. I had to lie down four or five times a day. After three bottles I could feel a great improvement. I still take the Vegetable Compound whenever I need it for it gives me strength to be a good mother to my family."—Mrs. Vera L. Dennings, 510 Johnson Street, Saginaw, Michigan.

Mrs. Dobie Gives Favorite Shrubs For Home Gardens

By BERTHE McKEE DOBIE

"Go down to Kew in lilac-time, in lilac-time, in lilac-time."

So sings an English poet. For the glorious climax of lilac time or rose time or crape myrtle time or some other time many people would gladly exchange the remaining year. In their gardens they prefer a dazzle of loveliness that comes and is gone to a more level beauty sustained from month to month. Much is to be said for climax but something also for color and fragrance that continue from spring to summer and on to fall and even into winter. Every gardener must choose between a great deal of one thing or a little of many things; and whichever his choice, he is certain to cast one lingering look behind.

If he decides upon bloom the year around, he can, if he wishes, almost carry out his plan with shrubs alone. Shrubs have one tremendous advantage over bulbs and annuals: their lovelienss increases, and with little attention.

Assurances of Spring

The real assurances of spring are kites in the sky and the cardinal's richer song. But its intimations have come long before with sprays of yellow jasmine. This early jasmine is not evergreen like its relatime Jasminum floridum, and it blooms only once a year; but flowers in January and February are precious. Pussy willow catkins come very early and may be had atill earlier by forcing; that is, by breaking off branches and putting them in water in the house. Camellias, flowers for those who are "fussy about form" bloom from December to March; but the coastal strip is the only part of Texas where they thrive. Deciduous viburnums require a colder climate than ours, but two evergreen species having white flowers in mid-winter, V. laurustinus, grown in gardens for three centuries, and V. Odorantissima do well from the southern to the norther limits of Texas. Viburnums need deep loamy soil and ful exposure to the sun. Another shrub often blooming in January is Lonicera fragrantissima, a honeysuckle which has the delightful folk name "sweet-breath-of-spring;" both the botanical and the common names bespeak its perfume.

February brings brighter flowers. The native aganta, an evergreen barberry, good in the drier parts of Texas and splendid in New Mexico, has fragrant yellow blossoms. Forsythia, which should be grown in Texas more than it is, is described by its common name golden bells. Three varieties are recommended: the moderately tall upright fortunei and viridissima and the drooping suspensa. The forsythia bloom on in March. Of all February flowering shrubs the gayest is Cydonia japonica, or Japanese flower quince. People who cherish common names call it burning bush. Not all the flowering quinces are red, however. There are several varieties, deepening in tone from palest pink. If two plants of different varieties are placed together, both will fruit; and the fruit, though inconsiderable in size as compared to the orchard quince, is delicious baked or made into jelly. The most delicately lovely of February and March shrub blossoms is the flowering almond, both pink and white. It grows only two or three feet high.

Coming a little later, in March and April, are the two other lovely "flowering" fruits—the peach and the plum. No shrub or tree has more beautiful flowers than the large double blossoms of the flowering peach. This should be planted where it will have room to develop into a small shapely tree. Some gardeners say that the white thrives better in Texas than the pink or red; certainly it is marvelously lovely. It grows in any well-drained soil. The "flowering" plum is a shrub, not exceeding 10 feet. The double flowers, of a delicate pink shade, are produced in great profusion along slender branches.

Shrubs for March

The native redbud, growing into a small tree, is one of the finest March shrubs. It combines in East Texas with the lovely dogwood. It takes the English, who can't have dogwood, to appreciate it. The late Mr. E. H. Wilson records in "More Aristocrats of the Garden" a remark made by an English lover and student of plants, Sir Herbert Maxwell, at the conclusion of a walk through the Arnold Arboretum: "Said Sir Herbert with a sigh . . ., 'Give me your dogwood, the rest you may keep.'"

Azalea is another privilege of East Texas; but with care as to soil, shade, and mosture, it may be grown in other parts of the state. Azaleas native to America are delicate in color; those brought from Japan are mostly bright cerise, flame, and light purple.

Philadelphus is called mock orange in reference to its fragrance. It is sometimes called sweet syringa, but that name is better left to the lilacs. A quite lovely species is native to Central and Western Texas, but some species grown in gardens have much larger flowers. An old, old species, beloved of the Greeks and Romans and brought from England to the earliest gardens of the new world, is P. coronarius. Both it and P. grandiflore will grow like weeds in Texas. The great French hydridist, Lemoine, who has bred beautiful lilacs and hydrangeas, has introduced to gardens many fine hybrids of Philadelphus. The best known of these is P. virginal, having very large, white, semi-double flowers of exquisite fragrance. It is not so easily grown as the other species, but is far more beautiful. This shrub likes a deep loamy soil and is not average to lime. It tolerates shade.

A lovely relative of Philadelphus is coming to be grown in Texas—Deutzia. The flowers of this shrub are not fragrant, but are very abundant and gracefully borne. The

The girl who lets periodic pains interfere with her activities has not heard of Midol. These wonderful little tablets act quite harmlessly, directly on the organs affected. They do not interfere with nature, but they do remove every particle of that unatural, unnecessary pain. Midol will end the most severe monthly pain in five to seven minutes.

Midol is a marvelous discovery made by specialists. It is not a narcotic, yet it ends all that needless pain. And if you anticipate the time, the expected pain will not appear at all. Tiny tablets in convenient little metal case obtainable at every drug store. Isn't it folly to suffer month after month? Many have found Midol the quickest relief for headaches, neuralgia, neuritis and other pains.—Adv.

TRUE TO THE COLORS

CAREFUL housewives say it's a shame the way gingham and cotton prints are often washed in scalding water. No wonder colors and freshness fade! . . . But perhaps you think you can't get things clean any other way.

Then change to White King! Made from fine vegetable and nut oils. White King Granulated Soap will form quick, creamy suds, will cleanse thoroughly, and will swiftly rinse away in the lukewarm water that preserves the life and color of delicate fabrics. White King is pure. That's the reason. And the same purity makes it effective for dishes and heavy washing too.

White King is economical. You'll only need a teaspoonful in the wash basin, a cupful in the washing machine, even in hard water. Try it—today. Recommended by your grocer.

Texas Mother's Lucky Find

WHEN we find that some slight adjustment makes a marvelous improvement in a child we wonder why we hadn't thought before to give the child this help.

A good example is the experience of Mrs. T. N. Atchley, 2204 N. Pearl St., Dallas. She says: "My little girl was doing fairly well but I noticed she didn't eat like she should and didn't seem to have much energy.

"I wanted to do something for her, and I heard a lot about California Fig Syrup, so I gave Imogene some. She improved so much I wonder why I didn't do something for her stomach and bowels before. It relieved her sluggishness, gave her a good appetite and plenty of energy."

To point up a child's appetite, increase energy and strength, assist digestion and assimilation, there's nothing more effective than pure vegetable California Fig Syrup. Doctors advise its use to open the bowels during colds and children's diseases, or whenever bad breath, coated tongue, headaches, listlessness, etc., warn of constipation.

The genuine always bears the name California. So look for that when buying. At all drugstores.

MELLON BARS SOVIET LUMBER

Convict-Made Products Are To Be Kept Out

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. (INS)—All lumber and woodpulp made in Northern Russia by convicts or forced labor, were barred from the shores of the United States today by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's order against such importations.

Mellon issued his embargo after his department received additional information that indicated these products are produced in Russia's Archangel district by convicts and compulsory labor.

American lumber men were rejoicing at the treasury's action for they had been trying for more than a year to have such an embargo declared. They testified here at hearings that they were positive convicts are used in the lumber and woodpulp industries in Russia. The treasury was unable to verify this because of his inability to send agents there to investigate. The United States does not recognize Soviet Russia.

The lumber men told the government that Russia was undermining their industry because it used cheap and convict labor and could afford to sell its product at prices drastically lower than they.

Lumber and pulpwood will be admitted to the country from Russia on the sole condition that the importers must prove that the individual products they handle were not produced by convicts or forced labor. Should some of the importers protest to the federal courts, however, the burden of furnishing this proof would be diverted from them to the treasury department, it was explained.

Meanwhile the ways and means committee in the house approved a bill that would strengthen the treasury's regulations over such imports. An amendment was added to the bill that would outlaw all goods which were ever handled in a minor way by convicts or forced labor.

Mangum 'Bosses' Hear Their Faults

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., Feb. 11.—A rare treat was afforded Mangum "bosses" when they attended the annual Employers'-Employes' banquet given by the Business and Professional Women's club at the Hotel Franklin.

Members of the club introduced their guests with clever "Do's and Don't's for Bosses." The welcoming address was given by Mrs. Hazel Hollingsworth, with the response by Fred W. Miller. Four representatives of the club, Mrs. Virginia Boyle, Mrs. Nell Stultz, Miss Leta Mae Smith and Miss Ella Cox, dressed as hobos, put on a "Bum Stunt" around an imitation camp fire, and they showed no mercy in their take-off on those present.

A group of "bosses," composed of Henry D. Miller, Paul Porter, Gene Greer, Zearl Lowe and Wade H. Shumate, gave an original "Alibi" stunt, which was followed by a burlesque on advertising.

Excellent music was furnished by the orchestra from the state reformatory at Granite, and ballet and tap dances were given by a quartet of young ladies of Miss Rachel Gansel's dancing school.

Valentine motifs decorated the tables where covers were laid for 125.

AUSTIN, Feb. 11. (AP)—A bill to license dealers in tobacco and to place an excise tax on tobacco products was introduced today by Representatives Farmer of Fort Worth and Onnell of Hillsboro. WAS EXHAUSTED FROM PAIN

Lady's Mother Gave Her Cardui and She Says 'It Helped Wonderfully'

Georgetown, Ky.—Mrs. R. H. True, of this place, tells how Cardui benefited her and her daughters. She says:

"I have used Cardui every few years, for twenty-five years, and think it is splendid.

"Before I was married, I was sick in bed, and my mother got Cardui for me. I took it and it helped me wonderfully.

"I had pains in my back, and would have such severe headaches I would be exhausted from the pain, and would be in bed for a week or more. My mother got three more bottles of Cardui for me. After I had taken them, I was so much better, I was able to get up and stay up."

Mrs. True says she took Cardui again, after her marriage, when weak and run-down, with the same good results.

"I gave Cardui to my two daughters," she adds, "and they looked and felt so much better after taking it. I can always say a good word for Cardui."

Now Try Nature's Most Unique Coffees

(FOLGER PHOTO)

Looking down a street in the famous Central American coffee city Antigua. (Right)—Native coffee merchant.

Grown Only In The Rich Volcanic Soil of Central America

DOWN along the West Coast of Central America, Nature has performed another miracle. Produced coffees with a rare tang and superlative richness that, experts concede, are utterly unlike any other coffee you have ever tasted. Nature leaves the "rough" offensive oils out of these coffees. You taste only pure, invigorating flavor—never "flat," or thin, or bitter.

We don't want to tell you how good it is. We want you to try it, as thousands have, and see how it literally spoils your taste for ordinary kinds.

Introduced by Folger

Years ago Central American coffee was first served in the famous Bohemian restaurants of San Francisco where it was brought by Folger. Travelers tasting it there were captivated by its unusual flavor. Flavor produced by a peculiar combination of rich volcanic soil, altitude, sun's rays and tropic rainfall—that is found nowhere else in the world.

The Folger Test

Would you like to see for yourself just how different these coffees are—in richness and in flavor? Here's a test that is as simple as it is fair.

Tomorrow morning drink Folger's. The next morning drink the coffee you have been using. The third morning drink Folger's again. In a morning or two you will decidedly favor one or the other; the best coffee wins. That's fair, isn't it? 103

Understanding Einstein
Time Clock Morality
Galli-Curci's Lament
Peace Pack Jokes

By EMILE GAUVREAU

What is revealed to us, but what we are not sufficiently equipped to grasp, we owe at least the courtesy of respect. Criticising Einstein because we do not understand him is like putting the fingers to our nose at spiritism, because we do not believe in it. In both instances, men who have devoted their lives to scientific research, men honored by the world for their knowledge and vision, accord reverence where the average man shows disrespect.

A reader asks, "Can Einstein stand the test of an explanation that will satisfy the average intelligence?" The majority are inclined to believe that he is fooling the public." Which is of a piece with the country bumpkin who, when he beheld a zebra for the first time, turned his back on it, and said: "There ain't no such animal."

The mysteries of life and the universe are too much for man. But those stalwart minds who cope with these mysteries, constantly evolving new and perhaps contradictory theories, should be given the benefit of our doubt. This is faith, if faith has any meaning.

Mayor Walker describes it intelligently when he says that "putting a time clock on a night club is not going to make it moral." The 1 a. m. curfew proposal has therefore been dropped, although the licensing power over New York night clubs and dance halls is likely to be transferred from the department of licenses to the police department, which has been instructed to make short shift of "bad spots" where criminals and racketeers foregather.

One rotten apple will spoil a barrel. But one does not throw the barrel overboard. One takes out the rotten apple as soon as possible and preserves the others.

Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci, no longer with the Metropolitan opera, seeks every opportunity to vent her wrath on the art by characterizing opera as "an animated poster." Among other statements made by her in public is this spiteful one: "Opera cannot long survive except as a social event. I shall never appear in it again. I shall devote all of my time to concerts."

There are boring operas. Some people who are lovers of music find it impossible to sit through some of the Wagnerian operas. Tristan and Isolde, played by second rate artists, is tedious. So might the Flying Dutchman be. On the other hand, La Boheme, Tosca, Tannhauser, Madame Butterfly, Die Meistersinger, Rigoletto, Boccaccio, La Traviata, Pagliacci, Carmen entertain, grip and thrill.

The music drama, with its preludes and interludes, its ballets, its choruses, its marshalling of immortal voices, will never die. Poor opera dies, like bad plays or mediocre compositions. But opera itself, a supreme art, is as enduring as the pyramids.

On the heels of the signing of the naval pact by England, the United States and Japan, comes the news of a spirited rivalry in naval building by France and Italy. The program, as well as the activity, is so great that England becomes sufficiently alarmed to consider seriously increased construction on her own part.

The United States and Japan now face the pleasant alternative of either renouncing the treaty or likewise expanding their navies, keeping lively pace with Britain.

H. G. Wells' prophesy of war in seven years appears less fantastic. Von Ludendorff predicted war in a year. He might be nearer the truth.

Rubber growers of Ceylon and the Straits settlements have signified almost unanimous approval of the plan for restricting rubber productions.

Hambone's Meditations

An anthropologist claims that Adam was a Chinaman. Perhaps this explains why his descendants are so prone to war with one another.

The champion ash can roller of Massachusetts asked the New York Athletic commission for permission to roll an ash can up Broadway. He'll make his own great white way.

A speakeasy, acutely observes the office sage, is only as strong as its weakest drink.

Merely a Matter of Viewpoint

On Tuesday, at New Delhi, India, there was a great celebration. It was staged by the English. Natives of India are not celebrating anything much right now except traditions of a far-reaching past.

The occasion for this celebration was the dedication of a new imperial capital, of architecture typifying the entire history of India, and representing "a monument to the ideal and fact of British rule in India."

Certain significant facts may project themselves harshly from accounts of the affair, however, save to British eyes. For instance, this magnificent structure in which British rule is now housed cost a mild $100,000,000. Consideration of that outlay might not be so disturbing to the Indian mind if the capital were the seat of an Indian government. The native of India also might contemplate those figures with more complacency were his eyes not filled with the spectacle of emaciated bodies, and were his ears not ringing with cries of hungry fellow-countrymen.

It is noticeable that pains were taken to surround with British protection the English officials who directed the dedication of this monument "to the ideal and fact" of British rule. Obviously, these administrative benefactors suspect the Indian heart of seeing more of the fact than of the ideal in that phrase. He is suspected of lacking that appreciation so fitting to a beneficiary. The Indian's sense of historic sequence may, in fact, be rudely jarred by the reflection of this architectural survey of Indian history crowned by a thoroughly un-Indian government. It is probable, however, that out of a discriminating sense of the deference due native antiquity, the beneficient English allowed Indian money to pay for this city of palaces.

It is probable also that English accounts of the dedication prove again how easy it is for the human mind to regard as an established fact a theory whose only reality is its frequent pronouncement by its own creators.

Two Americans and Two Verdicts

BISHOP JAMES CANNON JR., broken and old and ill, has been given a clean bill by the court of bishops who heard the charges and the evidence submitted. They dismissed the case and declared it a closed incident.

Gen. Smedley Butler will not be court martialed. He has been given a severe reprimand by Secretary Adams and admonished to go and talk no more. General Butler is a gallant soldier. He wears the decorations of gallantry in service and heroic valor in the smoke of battle. In future it is to be hoped that he will think before he talks.

There are army regulations. There are naval regulations. If a soldier who is required to be an officer and a gentleman cannot accept the regulations he should resign and retire to private life. In private life he is permitted to talk until he is black in the face and unless he runs afoul of the courts of justice he escapes without a reprimand from any source.

Take a close-up of Will Rogers, the American laugh-maker. He writes a lot. He talks a lot. He travels a lot at home and abroad. He has said in his time many witty as well as cutting things. He tells the truth many times in his homely style but he tells in in a way that even the victims laugh and admire the man. He covered Texas and raised a large sum of money to be used to feed the hungry and the down and outers through no fault of their own. He covered Oklahoma and more than $90,000 in cash rewarded his humane efforts and his direct appeal for aid for those who are in need of aid. "Laugh and the world laughs with you. Weep and you weep alone." One Will Rogers laugh-maker is worth a million human hornets who are forever hurling brickbats at their fellows and are the apostles of strife and sorrow.

The Road Hog's Record

THE "road hog" has been a nuisance ever since automobiles became common. We never quite realized what a real menace he is, however, until we saw an analysis of traffic accidents recently issued by the Travelers Insurance company.

Of more than 560,000 traffic accidents in 1930, the insurance officials found, 68 per cent were caused by drivers who were guilty of one of these three faults—refusing to give the right of way to the car that should have had it, exceeding the speed limit, or driving on the wrong side of the road.

Those are the three cardinal sins of the road hog. Last year they caused more than 384,000 accidents, in which nearly 16,000 lives were lost.

No more damning evidence of the high price we pay for boorishness on the highway could possibly be presented.

His Bag of Gold

WILL ROGERS made his humanity tour of Texas. He larieted $82,000 to feed hungry men and women and children while the government is doing nobly in its work of feeding the hogs in the same section of the Southwest. Humorist Rogers would have made a remarkable evangelist. If he had taken that route he would have been able to fill the plate every time he appealed to an audience. He has a palatial home in Beverly Hills, but when he dies he has asked for a burial place in Oklahoma. Claremore will be his cemetery habitation. Claremore is the "peaceful valley" of all Oklahoma villages. Even the bees are too lazy to buzz in the good old summer time.

Night Club

The lights go dim and in the yellow spot,
A girl begins to croon a wistful song;
The whispers die among the jaded throng,
And time turns back for butterfly and sot;
All suddenly they see the sorry plot
That gives the play called Life its hollow ring,
And they seem glad that banal words can bring
A brief respite from boredom and from rot.

The song is done and silence steals away,
The spell is broken and the glamour gone;
A ribald, jazzy band begins to play
Two hours to go before the break of dawn;
(The girl whose voice stirred something fine and clean, Sits down beside an ancient libertine.)

A Form of Criticism?

Alfred Friedman's contrib for today deals with the small-timers who had been playing the vaude theaters in the sticks. They came to Broadway looking for renown. After the audition for the booking agents, the agents told the lads that they couldn't be engaged because their act was too much like Amos 'n' Andy's.

"Amos 'n' Andy?" queried one of the hams, "it couldn't be! They never saw our act!!!"

One of the theatrical journals

tells about the vaudeville team of Doyle and Donnelly, who had spent most of the day waiting for "next week" in their agent's office. They went up to see the fire that wrecked the Lincoln Square theater. After viewing the roaring furnace for an hour Doyle mumbled: "Those eggs we laid up here last week ought to be fried by now."

Poke

And Hy Goldstein forwards the crisp crack from a critical cuss who said of an actor: "One thing is certain. He will never get a nosebleed from taking too many bows."

How Embarrassing

At a party in New York before he left for Florida, Eddie Cantor was in a gay mood. "My, my," ejaculated a silly woman, "but you certainly are a witty fellow. You ought to be on the stage."

"My dear," replied the startled star, "my name is Eddie Cantor!"

"Oh," she answered, "I wouldn't let that worry me if I were you. You can use a stage name!"

It is alleged that a schoolboy in Kansas wrote the following entitled 'An Editor" to a newspaper.

"I don't know how newspapers and magazines got into the world, and I don't think God does, for He ain't got nothing to say about these in the Bible. I think the editor is the missing link we read of, and that he stayed in the business until after the flood, came out and wrote the thing up, and has been kept busy ever since. If the editor makes a mistake, folks say he ought to be hung; but if the doctor makes mistakes, he buries them and people don't say nothing because they can't read Latin. When the editor makes mistakes, there is a big lawsuit and swearing, and a big fuss; but if the doctor makes one, there is a funeral with flowers and perfect silence. A doctor can use a word a yard long without him or anyone else knowing what it means; but if the editor uses one, he has to spell it. If the doctor goes to see another man's wife, he charges for the visit; but if the editor goes, he gets a charge of buckshot. Any college can make doctors to order, but editors have to be born."

Observation

Broadway, it appears isn't the only playground in the New York sector. Not since the Abbeysmess which brought the police ax down with a thud, at any rate.

Broadway hasn't the whoopee-spirit that makes one part of Brooklyn the most popular area in the five boroughs.

An "asylum" in Brooklyn features a 19-foot bar on the first floor of a building which is playing to capacity every day and night. On the second floor of the same building there is a cabaret, which is crowded at all times and on the third floor there is another large bar hugged incessantly by nose-paint-fiends. One man owns the three hot-spots.

He hasn't had any police or federal interference since he opened. He is getting rich so quickly he has vowed to retire as soon as he gathers his first quarter of a million smackers. This he expects to have by July 4.

THE LOVELY LIAR : BY ROB EDEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Poppy Prior, deserted by Ted Allison on the eve of their elopement, runs away to New York because her mother believes she is married, and Poppy dares, not face her disapproval. Arrested for stealing a bracelet which belongs to Celia Nixson and which Poppy had found on the train, Poppy lies when questioned, fearful that her mother may hear of the arrest. Kevin Wallace, friend of Celia, offers to help Poppy because he believes she is innocent. Escaping from the detention home, to which she is committed, Poppy appeals to Wallace. He sends her to Jane Rochester, an art student, who insists that Poppy share her apartment. As Jane's cousin, Poppy Rochester. Poppy gets a job as model in the department store where Jane works. A chance meeting with Ted leads to his proposal of marriage. Poppy loves Wallace, but sees Ted's proposal as a solution of her tangled affairs. Upon hearing of her mother's accident, she goes home, wearing a borrowed wedding ring. She returns to New York and tells Ted she will marry him. Jane, incredulous, tries unsuccessfully to dissuade her.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XXVI

Sunday morning Kevin Wallace called, and asked both the girls to go for a ride. Jane excused herself, saying that she had some work to do, so Poppy went out alone to meet him at the curb. She knew that Jane had no special work to do, and that the only reason the older girl had refused to go, was that she wanted Poppy to be with Kevin.

Poppy was very happy as she stepped into the car and smiled glowingly at Kevin. A ride with him! Such a long time since she had seen him. And this would be the last time—because she was going to marry Ted. The last time she would see Kevin. That sobered her spirits for a while. Tuesday evening when she married Ted would she be thinking of Kevin? Wondering what he was doing, wishing she were marrying him? Last night when she and Ted had been talking, Kevin had been in her thoughts constantly.

"Jane said you'd been away," he said as the car turned the corner. Poppy snuggled down in the heavy coat Jane had lent her. She had no suitable coat for a long ride, and the top was down on the roadster.

Kevin glanced at her to see if she was dressed warmly enough, and thought that she was prettier than ever. Her sheeks bright red, her lips scarlet, and her eyes dark and shining. A lock of her hair had crept out from under her hat and was blowing in the wind.

"Sure you're warm enough? I thought we'd take a ride into the country, and stop some place for dinner. Is that all right?"

Poppy said it was fine. She had not thought Kevin was taking her to dinner. Over the telephone he had said a ride, nothing more. Whether the ride would last a half hour or two hours, she didn't know.

The day held a hint of early fall. A crisp wind blowing, a clear too-blue sky. As they left the city behind, Poppy saw the trees lining the wide road were turning. A pale yellow here. A faint glow of red there.

At four Kevin pulled up before an inn on the Boston Post road. Their table faced a log fire, buring brightly.

The dinner was excellent and the proprietor hovered around Kevin who told Poppy that he came often here.

"With Celia Nixson, I suppose," she bit her tongue after the words had slipped out. She hadn't meant to say them . . .

Kevin looked at her quizzically. "I brought Celia here once, but she did not like the place. She prefers—well, cabarets, and places much more splendid than this."

"Has she said anything lately about—me? Does she still have the detectives searching?"

"I'm afraid she has. She's still bitter about the two rings she hasn't found. The detectives thought last week they had located you in Washington. Rogers made a hurried trip down there. Perhaps Jane was right after all about your staying here in New York. I thought she was wrong at first, but she held to her point. And you've been safe so far."

When he left Poppy at the door of the apartment house, he merely mumbled a good-night, and started back to the car immediately.

"So far," Poppy echoed. She'd been so safe lately that she'd almost forgotten that any day she might be sent to the Minnie Bascum home again. The mere suggestion of it made her shiver. Because she didn't want to think about the home, she changed the subject.

"Do you see Celia Nixson a lot?"

"Oh, some," Kevin lighted a cigar, and leaned back into his chair looking at the fire.

Poppy wanted to know what "some" meant. Whether it meant every night, or a couple of times a week. She didn't dare to ask. That would be too inquisitive. But Celia Nixson was very interesting to her. The fact that Kevin saw her, liked her—

"Do you like her awfully well?" she asked softly. For a moment she thought he hadn't heard her, for he made no move to answer. Just kept staring at the fire.

"Celia? Let's don't talk about her, Poppy. You don't like her, I know, and I don't blame you. Celia—to me, is interesting. I don't know whether I like her or not. Sometimes I think I do, and then I think I don't."

Poppy was happy after that answer. Kevin didn't know whether he liked her or not. He couldn't love her—if he didn't know whether he liked her. That was certain. You knew when you loved someone. Just as she knew she loved Kevin, and didn't love Ted.

"I want you to be charitable to Celia, Poppy. I know it's going to be hard for you to do, but I'd like you to do it. For me?"

"Yes, I will." She'd do anything for Kevin. The same as Jane. Anything.

"Thanks. You're awfully sweet, Poppy." Poppy's heart sang with the compliment. Tuesday she was marrying Ted, but today she was with Kevin. Why did she keep thinking of Tuesday? Dreading Tuesday. Hating it. Now that she was with Kevin, she should be thinking of nothing but him, but here she was worrying about Tuesday, and Ted, and what she was going to do. What would Kevin say about marrying without love? The same as Jane?

"I want to ask you something, Kevin." There was always a thrill when she said his name. "Something frightfully important."

Kevin smiled as he moved his chair closer to hers. The red was still in her cheeks, dyeing them, and her lips were smooth as silk. Pretty lips she had, he thought. Too pretty. He looked away quickly, back to the fire.

"What is this important thing?"

"Would you—would you marry someone you didn't love? Someone you knew you never could love? Marry—" she was about to say "Marry when you knew you loved someone else?" She caught herself in time. That would give her away too completely. Kevin might guess she loved him.

"Are you thinking of being married, Poppy? I hope not."

"Why?"

"Oh, you're so young—and then if you were married I could not see you any more, could I?"

Was he saying this for fun? Pooling? Poppy caught the table to steady herself. Surely he couldn't mean—

"You haven't had your fling yet, Poppy. Always have your fling before you think of getting married."

Kevin's Answer

He hadn't meant anything at all, she told herself weakly. He was only kidding. He didn't care.

"Well, go on, Poppy," he continued in a bantering tone. But she couldn't continue yet. The hopes he had raised were tumbling down, and she was afraid she'd give herself away if she went on. Because

Q.—Will the Washington cathedral have a chime or carillon of bells?—C. W.

A.—When completed, the Cathedral will have a carillon.

Q.—What states use whipping posts or straps for moralizing criminals?—J. G. H.

A.—The National Society of Penal Information says: "Delaware is the only state in the union where the whipping post is used for moralizing criminals. It is the belief of those who have come in direct contact with this form of punishment that it is exceedingly ineffective. Warden Leach of the New Castle county workhouse of Wilmington, Dela., whose duty it is to apply the lash, is firmly convinced that it should be abolished. He has stated on numerous occasions, both publicly and privately, that he has on several occasions been compelled to whip a man a number of times. In the states of Virginia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee and Arkansas the strap is used as a means of punishment for violation of the rules while serving sentence. This method of punishment is gradually coming into disuse. In the states where this punishment has been barred in recent years, such as Florida and North Carolina, officials have stated that it has resulted in better discipline."

Q.—What can be done for chickens that pick at one another?—K. G. K.

A.—The trait whereby chickens are constantly picking at one another is called cannibalism. Once they have the taste of blood, it is almost impossible to stop them. About the only solution in treatment of this condition is to put them out on range.

Q.—How long is the nation-wide celebration of the anniversary of the birth year of George Washington to last?—W. V.

A.—It is planned to have it begin on his birthday, Feb. 22, 1932, and close on the following Thanksgiving day.

Q.—When were newspapers first printed in America?—E. B.

A.—The history of the printing of newspapers in America, properly begins on Sept. 25, 1690, for it was upon that date that Richard Pierce issued the first number of what was to have been a periodical publication. There was however but one issue of "Public Occurrences, Both Foreign and Domestic." The first newspaper which continued publication was the Boston News Letter, first issued on April 24, 1704.

Q.—What color is easiest on the eyes?—L. W.

A.—The American investigators, Ferree and Rand, have found that there was less fatigue of the eye for yellow light than for red, blue and green. They also found that visual acuity and speed of vision, and, in fact, all the visual functions were at their best under yellow light. Ruffer, a German investigator, has recently found the same thing. He found that visual acuity and speed of vision are greater for yellow light than for green, red, white or blue. He is of the opinion that blue and red lights are the colors most fatiguing to the eye. Other German investigators have obtained the same results.

Q.—What is the origin of the expression, baseball fan?—P. B.

A.—The expression, fan, is an abbreviation for fanatic. It now means an enthusiast over any sport or entertainment.

Q.—What does et ux mean; also et al?—E. E.

A.—These are legal abbreviations. Et ux means "and wife" while et al means "and others concerned."

Q.—What is the Hexateuch?—G. W.

A.—This is the name given to the first six books of the Bible which covered the period historically from the creation to the conquest of Palestine.

Q.—Who owns Mount Vernon, the home of George Washington?—M. P. V.

A.—Mount Vernon is the property of the Mount Vernon Ladies association.

Q.—How did Black Watch start?—C. R. N.

A.—The origin of the Black Watch dates from 1729 when a number of loyal Highlanders were embodied forming six independent companies and constituted a part of the regular army. They wore the dress of their country, a tartan of dark color, which gained for them the Gaelic appellation of Freicudan Du, that is, Black Watch, in contradistinction to regular troops who wore scarlet coats and were called Seidaran Dearag or Red soldiers.

George Washington, although known as the father of his country, was childless. John Tyler, who enjoyed but a tithe of Washington's fame, had two wives and 14 children. One president was the father of another and was the grandfather of one of his successors. Seven presidents served eight full years; one served only one month. TULSA HEIRESS WEDS COUNT

Oklahoma Girl to Live In Berlin

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 11. (UP)—A romance that began three years ago when Miss Katherine Silva Cornell, heiress of a $3,000,000 fortune, was a 14-year-old school girl, came to a climax here today in her marriage to Count Jan Drohojowski of Poznan, Poland, Rome and Berlin.

The ceremony was solemnized by Monsignor Sevens at Christ King church. The bride's mother was not present because of illness.

The 17-year-old heiress became acquainted with the count during his residence at New York. Last year she renewed friendship at the home of the count's mother, Mrs. Mary Drohojowski, at Rome.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman D. Cornell of Tulsa.

On New Year's day, 1928, her uncle, Robert Oglesby, died in New York. Included in his will was a bequest of the remainder of his estate, valued at $3,042,197.91, to be held in trust for his grand-niece until she became 30 years old.

The count and the countess were to leave late today for Chicago and thence to Baltimore to visit the bride's mother who is ill in that city. They will sail for Berlin soon, where the count is political correspondent for the Kurjer Ponzanski of Poznan. Count Drohojowski formerly was in the Polish diplomatic service.

Oklahoma to Get Gift of Fruit Cars

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. (UP)—Distribution of five carloads of surplus oranges and lemons in drouth stricken regions will be made by the Red Cross.

The California Fruit Growers exchange, Los Angeles, advised Representative McClintic, Democrat, Oklahoma, that it had given five carloads of surplus oranges and lemons to the Red Cross for distribution in southwestern Oklahoma. The gift was in response to McClintic's suggestion to give the surplus fruit to the needy instead of destroying it.

U. S. Gives Franking Rights to Aid Jobless

CHICAGO, Feb. 11. (UP)—The federal government has entered Chicago's drive to aid the unemployed, it was announced today, by the unprecedented action of granting franking privileges for the mailing of appeals to 1,125,000 residents.

Never before, it was pointed out, has the privilege of free mailing been extended for any effort of this kind.

Breckenridge Succeeds In Boy Scout Drive

Special to The Record News.

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Feb. 11.—The Boy Scout campaign drive started here this week to raise $1,400 for the local Boy Scout troops and for the Oil Belt Scout council is meeting with much success, according to a report made Tuesday by Russell B. Creosote Bush, Known as Greasewood, Points Way to Make Deserts Bloom

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

TUSCON, Ariz., Feb. 11.—The creosote bush—a plant that practices birth control—has supplanted the cactus as the hardy growth best qualified to show science how to make the desert bloom.

Birth control is just one of several qualities of the creosote bush that long escaped official attention.

Seeds Poisoned

The bush sows the ground about with a profusion of seed, but few of them germinate. Investigating why, the desert laboratory of the Carnegie institution of Washington, situated here, learned the plant puts a poison on the seeds which retards development. When this poison wears off, most seeds still are prevented from germinating by a similar poison carried in the falling leaves.

This perhaps is the creosote bush's method of keeping down population, especially near its own roots, in a land where there is not enough water for large plant colonies.

This kind of land, which goes by the name of desert in the American Southwest, covers about one-third of the world's continental surface, presenting a problem of unused opportunity on which the desert laboratory is working.

Cactus Is Barnum

"The cactus," says Dr. Forest Shreve, head of the laboratory, "because it is a Barnum among plants, misled us at first. But now in the more drab creosote bush, often miscalled the greasewood, we see an amazing mechanism that may help us to understand better how to put the desert to man's use."

Cactus and creosote grow side by side, but they are opposite as the poles in their methods of beating drouth. The cactus, with shallow roots, absorbs water rapidly in wet seasons, storing it cistern-like. The cactus, says Dr. Shreve, dodges the drouth problem. But the creosote bush meets it squarely, demanding its daily drink like most other plants.

It gets this water by roots penetrating from six to 15 feet. All over the Southwest there are creosote bushes more than 100 years old, showing the plant survives the worst the desert can show in a century. Its wide spread shows it is not too choosey about soil.

Dr. Shreve calls it the most resourceful of desert plants. By studying its history to learn how it has developed hardiness, there is hope of finding methods for cultivating food plants in those portions of the desert out of reach of irrigation. Such areas comprise most of the desert.

Norris Resolution Given Preferred Status

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. (INS)—The Norris resolution to abolish "lame duck" sessions of congress, such as the present session, was given a preferred status on the house calendar by the rules committee today, thus assuring a vote at this session.

Other measures given preferred status include: Bills for additional federal judges, Wickersham commission bill permitting service of notice by publication in "padlocking" cases, and printing of books for the blind.

No action was taken on the Johnson, immigration or Britten $30,000,000 battleship modernization bills.

AUSTIN, Feb. 11. (AP)—Senator Cunningham of Abilene today proposed a constitutional amendment to provide for the creation of rural electric light, power and gas districts.

The resolution called attention to the fact that subdivisions of the state and county were not allowed in the present statutes to lend credit in forming corporations or associations.

Under provisions of the proposed amendment the districts would be authorized to build and operate such utilities.

College Appropriations Pass Committees

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 11. (UP)—Appropriations for Oklahoma A. & M. college and the Oklahoma College for Women were approved by the house and senate appropriations committees today.

Only minor changes were made in each.

The totals previously had been set by the committees to the lowest figures.

Dr. H. G. Bennett, A. & M. president, requested and received a $12,500 appropriation for a small home economic cottage. This was the only building allowed at either institution.

The A. & M. appropriation was $1,265,300 for 1931 and $1,283,000 for 1932. This is almost identical with the appropriation for last year.

The A. & M. athletic department was not reduced. Tuesday the committees cut the University of Oklahoma athletic department from six to three instructors.

The Oklahoma College for Women will receive $205,025 annually under the appropriations. This several thousand dollars lower than last year's appropriation but the school can get by on this total, President M. A. Nash told the committee.

The committees will continue discussions on appropriations for other institutions Thursday.

The New Way Doctors Use For Fat
A Simple Gland Food

Modern doctors no longer advise starvation diet to the over-fat. Nor drugs to attack the fat. Science has found that a great cause of excess fat lies in a weakened gland. Thus comes a scant supply of a secretion which largely controls nutrition. Too much food goes to fat, too little to fuel and energy.

Doctors the world over now supply that lack, with the very factor long employed in Marmola prescription tablets.

Marmola is prepared by a famous medical laboratory, to supply the right factors at a low cost so all may have the benefit. People have used it for 24 years—millions of boxes of it. Users have told others the results, and multitudes have thus attained the normal figures all desire.

No secrets about it. A book in each box gives the formula and tells you how and why it acts. As the pounds go, there comes new joy in living. Just because the body gets a factor that it needs.

Marmola costs only $1 a box at your drug store. Go get it and watch the results. Do that in justice to yourself. Do it because so many folks around you have benefited by it. Then tell others who need this help. Go start today.

Actor Weds Woman For Whom He Faced Long Prison Term

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. (AP)—An actor who was convicted of causing the death or another in a fist fight and the actress they fought over were man and wife today.

Paul Kelly and Dorothy Mackaye, both of whom served time in San Quentin prison for the killing in 1927 of Ray Raymond, her husband, were married yesterday in a friend's apartment. Each gave his age as 31.

He was paroled in August, 1929, after serving two years of a one-to-ten year sentence for manslaughter. She served 10 months of a one-to-three year term for concealing the facts of her husband's death.

Kelly will take the leading role in the play "Hobo," opening tonight. His wife has not been seen on the stage recently.

Louisiana Road Bonds Purchased

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 11. (AP)—New Orleans and Shreveport banks today purchased $15,000,000 in highway bonds, the first large group of bonds issued by the Louisiana highway commission to carry out its 1931 road program.

The bonds sold at a premium of $16,500, plus accrued interest amounting to $105,000. The price was considered exceptionally good.

Rudolph S. Hecht, president of the Hibernia Bank and Trust company of New Orleans, representing a syndicate of Louisiana financial institutions, submitted immediately after the sale, a check to the highway commission for the sum of $15,121,500.

The check was said to be one of the largest ever written in Louisiana.

WORLD HEARS POPE TODAY

Radio to Broadcast First Pontifical Message

he announces the presence of His Holiness Pope Pius in the broadcasting room. Senator Marconi will speak first in Italian, then in English.

Pope Pius will immediately follow Senator Marconi at the microphone, delivering a dedicatory address in Latin. The pontiff's speech will signalize the first direct audible communication of the head of the church to Vatican City ambassadors and the Roman Catholic flock, and the entry of the vatican into the most modern means of propagating the faith.

Translations will follow, by students of the Gregorian university, in German, Italian, French, Spanish, Polish, and English.

As the program stands at the moment, first arrangements for the translation of the Pontiff's talk in Latin have been rearranged, so that the broadcast goes from the vatican station to the Pontificial Academy of Science, where a description of the ceremony of investiture of Senator Marconi will be broadcast.

While the description of the ceremony is being given, Pope Pius will hurry to the academy by automobile.

Pope's Message

The Rev. Father Professor P. G. Gianfranceschi, president of the academy, will then speak briefly in Italian. Senator Marconi will then speak again, both in Italian and English.

His Holiness the Pope will then deliver his long-awaited message in Italian, at approximately 11:20 a. m., eastern standard time, according to the schedule now arranged. The translation into English of the pontiff's address will be made by Senator Marconi:

In the afternoon, (eastern standard time) there will be a second broadcast, this to include translation of the pontificial addresses into German, French, Italian, Polish, Spanish and English. The vatican choir may sing a hymn to the accompaniment of the papal band. This may also be rebroadcast by American stations, if conditions are favorable.

Arrangements for this unique broadcast are most detailed, involving much preparation not only in Vatican City and New York, but in every European country. Chief Italian government-controlled stations will be connected with HVJ by telephone lines, while the broadcast to New York will be by two-way short-wave relay.

Two-Year Plans

America has been favored, according to radio engineers, in the arrangement to do the vatican broadcasting on a wave length of 19.84 meters, which is particularly suitable to American reception. As things stand now, only magnetic disturbances in ocean areas can interfere with plans, which, in negotiation and detail, have taken two years to lay.

The pontiff was first approached on this subject by the late Cardinal Gaspari, vatican secretary of state. Because of questions of papal dignity, the request was then disapproved. Great interest of the hierarchy and important members of the laity, however, finally induced the pope to consent. This definite possibility appeared in February, 1930.

The donation of the powerful radio station to Vatican City by Senator Marconi was a direct step in outlining the way by which Pope Pius could speak to the utmost corner of the earth. After long negotiations, the pontiff finally consented to make his initial radio address at the time of the official opening of the new station.

Since then, communication between Vatican City and National Broadcasting company short-wave stations has been going on, and with the completion of the arrangements today, everything was in readiness for the entry of Vatican City on the air.

PROGRAM OF PAPAL BROADCAST

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. (US)—The official program of the first papal radio broadcast from Vatican City radio station HVJ tomorrow, as arranged in final detail from American rebroadcasting, follows:

(All times are eastern standard, one hour faster than Wichita Falls time.)

10:00 a. m.—Program by National orchestra, Walter Damrosch directing, and special choir, conducted by George Dilworth.

10:30—Sixty-second fanfare by Silver Trumpeters of the vatican guard, heralding pope's arrival.

10:31—Pope pulls switch establishing circuit.

10:32—Pope taps "HVJ" in Morse code signals as first announcement.

10:33—Automatic sender follows with other code messages, possibly translated by N. B. C. engineers in New York.

10:36—Brief talk in Italian and English by Senator Marconi, announcing pontiff's presence.

10:45—Dedicatory address by Pope Pius XI in Latin.

11:00—From Pontificial Academy of Science, description of ceremony of Senator Marconi's investiture as member.

11:15—President Guiseppe Gianfranceschi, of academy, pays homage to pope.

11:18—Senator Marconi again introduces Pope Pius.

11:20—Speech by Pope Pius XI in Italian.

11:30—Translations into English by Senator Marconi of the two papal addresses for the benefit of American listeners.

Childress County School Head Charged With Misapplying Funds

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, Feb. 10.—B. S. Ainsworth, Childress county school superintendent, was arrested Wednesday morning on a charge of misapplication of school funds. Bank and school officials reported between $500 and $600 missing.

The superintendent at once offered his resignation and made bond to await the action of the June grand jury.

Ainsworth is specifically charged with making out vouchers to fictitious names and cashing them through the use of the names of school trustees.

The school head, a teacher in Childress county for several years, was nominated for the superintendent's post in the July primaries. Miss Mable Hare, who had served in the position for 10 years, at once resigned and Ainsworth was appointed to fill her unexpired term. He had been in office as an elected official only one month and 10 days at the time of his arrest.

The county commissioners will appoint his successor in a meeting Friday.

HOME-TOWN TALK

By B. D. D.

believe they are one and the same thing. Of course it reveals the weakness of the position of the opponents of the bond issue that they are depending upon other and unrelated issues to divert the voters from the real question.

The call of the water improvement opponents for a mass meeting declares: "The time has come for all the people of the city to know the whole truth and all the facts connected with the recent proposed $1,000,000 bond election, who is behind the movement and who is urging it upon the pepole of this city."

Gentlemen, the facts and the truth are what the people want and if there is anything under cover about this proposal let us have it and as quickly as possible. Let's get in the daylight with all the rumors and charges, or facts and truths and see what they look like. That's the way to conduct a campaign either for or against the bonds.

And wouldn't it be better to settle this water improvement bond issue upon its merits and take up whatever other issues may be raised in the city election in April? It seems to this Talker that plan would be more in the spirit of truth and fairness.

John Collier Hanged In Effigy by Protestants

SANTA FE, N. M., Feb. 11. (UP)—John Collier, secretary of the American Indian Defense association, was hanged in effigy in front of the museum here today, as part of a welcome extended H. J. Hagerman, former governor of New Mexico, on his return from a hearing before the senate in Washington.

All of Santa Fe's artist colony, members of the Writers club, and other sympathizers met the commissioner to the Navajo Indians at Lam junction and escorted him to Santa Fe.

An attempt was made during the past two weeks to oust Hagerman from his position.

Hagerman sympathizers blamed the secretary of the Indian Defense association for the former governor's difficulties.

Girl Awaits Hearing On Patricide Charge

The girl admitted to officers that she killed the parent when he grabbed her little brother, Jack, by the hair of the head and threatened to cut off her mother's head with a butcher knife he held in his hand.

The father, J. M. Gibby, farmer, had been despondent recently because of a crop failure, neighbors said. Police had been called to the home several times lately to quell disturbances, it was reported.

country—food could not be purchased."

However, he concluded that under a liberal interpretation of the act food could be bought by the borrowing farmers.

Leaders continued confident they would obtain a substantial majority for the proposal which Caraway and Robinson insisted will permit the banishment of starvation and want in the drouth area.

Senator Glass said he was "utterly opposed" to an extra session of congress to which the Democrats pledged themselves unless their original relief demands were met. However, he objected vigorously to the agricultural rehabilitation loan fund provided by the compromise.

Senator Conally, Texas, and Heflin, Alabama, both Democrats, and Brookhart, Iowa, joined in the attack on the compromise which they condemned as a surrender by the senate coalition in the controversy with President Hoover to extend federal money for sufferers.

Irrigation Boom Seen In Dalhart Water Well

DALHART, Texas, Feb. 11. (UP)—One thousand gallons of water a minute was made today by a test well being drilled on a 100,000 acre tract in Northwest Dallam county.

The water was struck at 94 feet, the fourth of five stratas of water encountered in drilling 148 feet. Drillers said the water was soft and had little alkali content, being almost ideal for irrigation purposes. The discovery was expected to boom land prices in this section. Numerous inquiries are being received concerning the project and enthusiasm mounted among the farmers of the section.

ference, which already had been given Murray's attention. It asks that the conference meet the problem on a basis fair to all states and along workable and legal lines.

The report says flush production conditions in all the states need adjustment, and points out the necessity of preserving small wells.

STERLING ASKED IN CONFERENCE

AUSTIN, Feb. 11. (AP)—Gov. Ross S. Sterling said today he had been asked by Governor Murray of Oklahoma to join with him in formulating some kind of a plan for the relief of the oil industry, and that in all probability he would take the matter under advisement tomorrow.

Governor Sterling today did not commit himself on the proposal. Both houses of the legislature have passed a resolution memoralizing congress to place a tariff on oil and oil products. Governor Sterling has taken no stand thus far on the legislature's action.

HOUSE STUDIES IMPORTS TODAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. (AP)—Independent oil producers and farm and labor representatives were called today to testify before the house ways and means committee on legislation to restrict crude petroleum imports to 16,000,000 barrels annually for three years.

The committee will begin hearings tomorrow on the Capper-Gesber restriction proposal which also would bar all refined products for the period.

Representative Garber, Republican, Oklahoma, sponsored the measure jointly with Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas.

John Simpson, president of the National Farmers Union, will be among the first witnesses.

Prospects for enactment of the legislation this session are considered slight on account of the short time left.

American Federation of Labor representatives will endorse the measure, Garber said, along with independent oil operators.

Post was charged with slaying Mecklenburg and wounding Mrs. Post in the latter's bedroom on the night of Dec. 5, 1930. Defense attorneys based their case on justifiable homicide.

Liquor Runner and Cargo Seized

He Claimed the Wrong Home Town

If Noah Daves, county highway patrolman, had not once been a resident of Glen Rose, Texas, a man with a cargo of 84 half-gallons of liquor in his automobile possibly would have made his destination Wednesday afternoon.

Daves and another county highway officer, C. L. Bradford, were patrolling the Iowa Park road and noticed a passenger automobile that seemed to be too close to the road for the weight of its single passenger.

"That isn't right, Brad," Daves said, and the two officers halted the car.

"Where you from," the driver was asked, to which he replied, "Glen Rose."

"That isn't right, Brad," Daves said again, and the car was searched, revealing 84 half-gallons of cased Bourbon and white whisky.

The whisky and automobile were seized and the man placed in jail. Charges are to be filed Thursday.

Edison Jovial On His 84th Birthday

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 11. (AP)—Thomas A. Edison, 84 years old today, told reporters business has started a three-year trend upward regaining the level of activity that prevailed before the depression.

The answer was to a question asking how long it will take the country to make the ascent.

Human endeavor can never control cycles of business depression and prosperity, the inventor added, however. "It lies in the very nature of man," he said. "We will always have them."

As to the unemployment problem, Mr. Edison felt he was unable to prescribe a remedy. After studying the question, he wrote:

"This question is several sizes too large for me."

Another query, inquiring as to the proper course for an honest, hard working man who could not obtain a job, although his family was in privation, puzzled the inventor.

"That's a sticker," he remarked. Then he wrote: "Turn him over to the Red Cross which represents us all."

The interview was the first public event of the celebration of Mr. Edison's birthday. In jovial humor and with a broad smile lighting his face under his thatch of snow white hair, he wrote answers to written questions submitted previously by newspaper men.

A search of a residence on Lucile street late Tuesday night resulted in the seizure of 25 gallons of liquor by city police, who said that the owner had been in jail several days.

Mass Meeting Called Today

ing clothes and is demanding relief from the exorbitant gas rates, but Wichita Falls has done nothing and proposes to do nothing insofar as the city council and city administration are concerned. Within the next year and under the control of the next city administration, following the April city election, will again come before the people the gas franchise. Something must be done to protect the interest of the gas users. The people must have a city council that has courage and the interest and welfare of the people at heart if we are to get a fair deal on the gas question.

"Are you satisfied with the record of the city administration on the gas and utility question? The gas company and other city utilities are well pleased. In fact they have already met and endorsed their ticket for the April election. What will the public say about this matter? Is the time ripe to place in the field a ticket for the people? There is no relief except the ballot box. The people will respond to this plea in Wichita Falls as they have in Fort Worth and other cities, and in order to give them an opportunity to join in a movement for the reduction of the cost of living in our city, and to organize to fight all kinds of increased taxes, bonds and high salaried city officials, we are calling a public mass meeting for Tuesday night, Feb. 17, at the 89th district courtroom, Wichita Falls, Texas.

"This is your, meeting and your home and personal interest is vitally concerned. Come out and get the facts."

The call was signed by W. E. George, chairman; Fred L. Cone, vice chairman; R. O. Grant, secretary; T. E. Hill, treasurer; Judge John C. Kay, Mack Thomas, W. R. Little, J. M. Childers, J. O. House Wrecked, Woman Hurt as Plane Crashes

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 11 (US)—One wrecked plane, one badly damaged house, one sprained ankle belonging to a woman who tried to get out of the way and a pilot unhurt except for a thorough shaking up.

This was the result of Leslie M. Earl's failure to see some high tension wires when he attempted to land on Lindbergh field today.

After striking the wires, the plane careened into a house belonging to Kenneth Stolz, bounced off and landed right side up in the Stolz yard. Mrs. Thelma Haverkamp sprained her ankle when she tried to get out of the path of the crashing ship.

Earl, a 22-year-old civilian pilot, climbed out of the cockpit after the wreck, uninjured.

Health and Diet Advice

Purpura and Hemophilia

In a number of disorders blood may seep out of the smaller blood vessels and be deposited in patches under the skin. This is called purpura, and is a term used to cover many conditions where there is a hemorrhagic tendency. These hemorrhages usually occur just under the surface of the skin or mucous membranes, but they may occur eveh in the interior of the vital organs.

The most severe hemorrhages usually occur in the nose, the bowels or the kidneys. The spots may vary in size from small spots called petechiae to large areas called ecchymoses. At first the spots are a bright red, later becoming darker, and finally may become brown stains. The spots do not fade upon pressure.

Purpura seems to be caused by virulent toxins in the system, for it is often induced by such poisons as snake venom, copaiba, belladonna, etc., as well as in such diseases as scurvy, rheumatism, Hodgkin's disease, smallpox, typhus fever, cirrhosis of the liver, Bright's disease, etc.

Purpura is most often met within young delicate persons, especially girls. It seems most likely that when purpura is not related to scurvy, and therefore not caused by deficiency of vitamin C, it is brought on by excessive toxins in the system. The cleansing diet regimen will produce very favorable results in the majority of cases of this trouble.

Hemophilia is a disease which in some respects resembles purpura but occurs in the male sex only. It seems to be caused by a deficiency in the walls of the blood vessels and a lack of a fibrin ferment which is usually secreted when the wall of the blood vessel is injured.

This disease is usually serious, and most of its victims die during childhood; only about one-eighth of the cases grow up to manhood. The disease is hereditary and is transmitted by females. Consequently, the women of a family where there has been a history of hemophilia should not bear children. The males even though suffering from this disease, may freely marry, as it seems to be transmitted only by women.

The principal treatment must be in the line of preventing injuries. The patient must also avoid operations and avoid active games and use unusual precautions against accidents. Contrary to popular opinion, needle punctures do not as a rule bleed. Sometimes a hemorrhage may occur without injury, especially from the nose and mucous membranes, although slight bruises in other cases will cause hemorrhages into the tissues, especially the joints and synovial membranes. The blood escapes from the very small blood vessels but often in such large quantities as to cause death quickly.

When bleeding occurs the hemorrhages should be stopped by the applications of styptics, pressure, and cold. Superarenal extract and the use of calcium salts also seems to be helpful. The treatment dietetically is to place the patient on a fruit fast of one to two weeks, followed by a balanced diet rich in proteins and calcium foods with also large quantities of gelatin.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

"Charley Horse"

Question—T. F. writes: "I have been troubled for some time with what is sometimes called a "Charley Horse." The pain is in the muscle of my right thigh and I am only affected when I take part in any activities where running or jumping is involved. Is there any remedy or treatment to get rid of this pain?"

Answer—The only remedy is for you to take more exercise and keep in training at all times. If you wish to run and jump you must keep in training by doing these exercises every day so that the muscles are accustomed to such strain, otherwise you will have sore muscles each time you try it. A hot bath or a good massage is probably the best remedy to take for such temporary strain.

Nausea From Butter Odor

Question—C. S. asks: "Why is it that some bilious people cannot stand the sight or taste of butter, yet they can eat lard in place of butter without any such bad effects? I know of several cases."

Answer—Bilious people are often made sick by the odors of certain foods. Where lard is tolerated and not butter, it is probably the odor of the butter which causes the unpleasant sensations. Bilious people do not readily tolerate fats, especially those with a pronounced odor.

Healthful Canoeing

Question—B. V. asks: "What muscles of the body does canoeing develop mostly? How does it affect the health?"

Answer—Canoeing develops the muscles of the arms, chest and back. Canoeing is a beneficial exercise to improve the circulation, breathing and endurance.

Pillsbury Bares Big Power Grab

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. (INS)—A "power trust grab of $5,00,000" is hidden in the treaty between the United States and Canada for beautification of Niagara Falls, the senate foreign relations committee was told today by Brig. Gen. George B. Pillsbury, assistant chief of army engineers.

American power interests, Pillsbury said, would realize this sum through additional water diversion at the falls provided for in the treaty during its seven years of existence.

Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, chairman of the committee declared the committee will investigate the benefits the power interests would enjoy from the pact and said witnesses will be called, to determine this point.

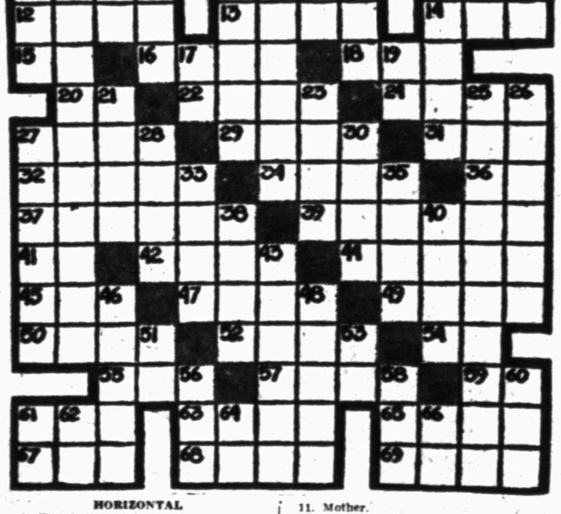

The treaty provides for an additional water diversion of 20,000-second-feet during six months in the year to be equally distributed between the United States and Canada. The American beneficiary would be the Niagara Falls Power company.

COUNTY CAGE CHAMPIONSHIP PLAY GETS UNDER WAY FRIDAY

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

The fungo hitting and fly shagging will be in evidence at Spudder park early this year, despite the fact that spring training doesn't open until more than a month hence. Pete Turgeon, second baseman for the Milwaukee Brewers and former Spudder, will get in a little early training here, and was due to start in this week. New dirt has been spread over the outfield and the infield is being worked into the proper condition, so Pete will have everything he could desire down at the old lot.

Pete has obtained as his official trainer one Smoke Lupher, a semi-pro star who was the terror of the sandlot leagues here last year, and many seasons before that. Smoke is a pitcher, and one of the best in the semi-pro category. His friends often wonder why he doesn't dash up to a professional club's manager and demand a chance in the real game.

Smoke says he prefers the stability of business life to the financial ups and downs of a baseball career; in baseball, he reasons, you can clean up for a few months and then starve all winter.

Well, it sounds kinda funny to hear somebody talk of "stability in business life." But maybe that's because the red ink columns in my personal ledgers have been increased by an operation. The red ink business, indeed, should be quite stable, if not rock-ribbed.

Speaking of debts, or more specifically, of their collection by harrassed creditors, consider the case of the hospital, an institution that people run to in haste when ill and shun avidly when chesty. They tell me the hospitals catch it in the neck when it comes to collections, for the customers put them off until the last thing.

Mr. Fuller, business manager of the Clinic here, was telling me a story which illustrates this. A man came in, a former patient, now rosy-cheeked and healthy, and said: "Well, Mr. Fuller, I've finished paying for the radio, cleared off the mortgage on the house, bought a new car, installed new plumbing in the house, paid out this year's insurance, purchased a dog for the wife, bought a new pipe, bought a set of detective stories, got me a new-fangled refrigerator, invested a coupla hundred thousand in Longview Oil, Inc., and having got all these things off my mind I thought I'd drop in and pay you a five-dollar installment on my bill here."

The Rambler was so impressed with this story that he dug up a dollar and gave it to Mr. Fuller, and promised the other $249 real soon. I want my doctors well housed and well fed, so they'll be at my beck and call in case I develop another appendix.

But to get back to the subject, baseball players make enough kale in the summer to live quite comfortably the following winter without having to work at all, if they invest their savings. Look at Hal Wiltse. He lived the ideal life here all winter, fishing, hunting, playing golf. Incidentally, friends tell me the blond has left us, bound for Philadelphia. Soon he will be in the Phillies' training camp, limbering up that portside paw of his. Then the season will open, and we'll scan the box scores carefully to see how many hits the big boys are getting off the one ace of the mound the Spudders have possessed in the last two years.

I noticed in Al Parker's column the other day that Joe Hassler, our new shortstop candidate, is, like yours truly, recovering from the surgical loss of his appendix. If he expects to start the hard training grind here the middle of next month, he'll have to exhibit some strong recuperative powers. It was three weeks yesterday that they knifed me, and I'm not spry enough yet to be on the job, and am still operating a portable typewriter at home. I've made a golf date for next April 1, and am quite concerned over my ability to keep it.

Well, since Mr. Mytinger and myself left the Clinic things must be rather dull up on the old third floor. But I understand Guy Airey will be a customer there soon, and he may be esconced on the third floor to liven things up a little. To hear the doctors talk you would think there is something terrible the matter with Guy, for they call his a "tonsilektummy" case; but really there is nothing wrong with his tummy, he's just going to have his tonsils eliminatad.

Electra Quintet Defeats Wichita Falls Churches

Going into the game with many of their first string men but of the lineup, the First Methodist cagers dropped a close game to the Electra Independents on the Floral Heights Presbyterian court Wednesday night by the count of 21-20 The Methodist cagers are the leaders of the Sunday School basket ball race.

The home team jumped off to a good start and maintained a fast pace to lead at the half 15-8. The victors found the hoop in the second half and forged ahead in the final minutes to capture the game by the closest of margins. Rawls led the attack for the losers with seven points, while Preston was high for the winners with the same number.

A return game will be played on the Electra court next Friday, and the Methodists hope to even the count with their first five back in the lineup.

SEVEN TEAMS ENTER TOURNEY

Clara Favorite to Capture Second Title in 2 Years

CLARA, Texas, Feb. 11.—Favorites in the county elimination basket ball tournament have already been picked, Clara, Cashion and Valley View holding the favored rank. The tourney will open Friday morning in the Iowa Park gym and will extend through Saturday night when the finals will be played.

Clara looms as the probable winner of the race as the result of winning the round robin schedule. But in the event that the Greyhounds should be defeated in the eliminations they will hold a chance to win the county title by winning from the winner of Friday's tournament in a play-off. The county champion is decided by the winners of the round robin playing the winner of the eliminations. Valley View defeated Clara in a practice game a few days ago, but the Greyhounds still reign as favorites. Should Clara win the tourney they will be county champs for the second straight year.

The first game will open Friday morning with Clara meeting Iowa Park, Cashion tangles with Alfendale, and Valley View will battle with Burkburnett in the second and third games of the day. The winner of the first game will play Fairview in the fourth game. The winner of the second and third games will play in the fifth game to determine the opponents of the fourth game winner in the finals for the tournament championship. The sixth game will be played Friday night.

Finals in the girl's volley ball tournament will be played Friday night, Clara and Weeth fighting it out for the crown of the eliminations. Clara has already won the round robin play and should they win the game with Weeth they will be declared county champs. But if the Greyhound lassies fail to register a victory, Weeth will win the eliminations tourney and play Clara in the play-off for the championship of the county.

Saturday night the senior boys will play for the championship of the county. If Clara wins the tournament on Friday the play-off game will not be necessary. All day Saturday the junior girl volley ball tournament will take place. All contests will be played in the high school gymnasium at Iowa Park.

Frogs Well Fortified at Guard Positions

Texas Christian's Horned Frogs go in strong for efficient guarding this season. Pictured here are the Frogs' aggregation of guards, headed by Captain Atkins and Green, usual starters, and Brannon and Vaught, sophomore reserves. In the upper right is Ad "Too Tall" Dietzel, elongated pivot man for the Frogs and just now at least high-point man in the conference.

AGGIE NINE TO NEED SLABMEN

Battery Material Lacking As Training Opens

Special to The Record News.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Feb. 11—Marked shortage in veteran battery material is probably the knottiest problem Coach Roswell Higginbotham of the Texas Aggie diamond squad has on his hands just at this time in building up a Maroon and White baseball nine for the coming season. Training jugglers of the old horsehide for the schedule ahead is being pushed with intensity at Aggieland, however, and Higginbotham is watching with well-known eagle eye the diamond antics of his squad of 35. Only five lettermen are on the list of available candidates this season.

With the pitching staff already hard hit by the graduation of Pete Wendt, Tommie Mills and Eddie Gorman last year, the Aggie nine took another setback at the opening of training when it was announced Horace Dansby, veteran catcher from Bryan, would be ineligible for the coming season. First base, where the shoes of Lefty Martin, slugging southpaw who won the most valuable player award of the 1930 team, will have to be filled, and shortstop, left vacant by Gill Johns, are the other positions where veterans will be missing.

Hawes Only Veteran

Ab Hawes, Dallas boy who came to the front in a relief role last year, is the only available veteran for the mound and it is likely that a large portion of the twirling burden this year will fall to him. He is a right-hander and will probably be remembered for his speed and control by conference batsmen who faced him last spring. C. M. Lagow, Dallas, a squadman last season; Cecil Hoke, Shiro; Bob Scheer, Marshall; and Charlie Malone, Dallas, are the other prospective hurlers. Shaw and Lagow are the only ones in the group with pitching experience at A. & M. both being numeral men.

With Danaby ineligible, Higginbotham is also facing a problem in finding a capable catcher. Andrew Golasinski, squadman from Houston; Bob Garvey, freshman numeral man from Livingston; and George Lord, Jourdanton, are the most likely prospects. Lord has not played baseball since entering A. & M. having devoted all of his time last spring to early football training. Golasinski worked behind the bat in a reserve capacity last year, Garvey was regular backstop of the freshman nine.

Two lettermen, V. C. Pampell, heavy-hitting third baseman from Fort Worth, and W. E. Davis, second baseman also from Fort Worth, are available in the infield. To replace Martin on first, Higginbotham will likely choose between J. P. Miller, Princeton, freshman numeral man last year; Paul McFadden, grid star from Cleburne; and Shiro Hoke, who will make his bid as a first baseman as well as a twirler.

Second Base Rivalry

At second base Davis is competing with J. H. Brown, Houston, and W. B. Young, Fort Worth, both freshmen numeral men, and possession of the berth at shortstop is being contested by George Carpenter, squadman from Houston, and W. W. Mitchell, freshman numeral man from Longview.

In the outfield, the team seems to be most strongly fortified with Capt. Beau Bell of Greenville and Lester Veltman, San Antonio, both heavy hitters and all-conference players, leading the race. Pete Crozier, squadman from Fort Worth; V. C. Andrews, Fort Worth, and C. W. Manler, Waco, are among the other contestants for berths in the outer garden.

Extra Point and Other Moot Grid Matters Due for Definite Decision

By L. S. CAMERON
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The point after touchdown, the revised fumble rule and other regulations governing collegiate football will be passed on formally late this week when the national football rules committee meets at Absecon, N. J.

The meeting, as usual, will be secret, with the press and other outsiders barred. E. K. Hall, veteran chairman of the rules body, will confer with the nine members of his committee and with two advisory committees composed of three games officials.

Report Next Week

Sometime next week, probably Monday, a report will be announced by W. S. Langford, secretary of the committee. No matter what recommendations are put forth, it is the belief of football writers that the committee will vote to retain the present code.

There is a good indication for such a prediction contained in the report made by Hall to the recent National Collegiate Athletic association here. At that time, Hall reported his committee as believing "the period of real changes in the rules—and by that I mean changes that affect the style or nature of the play—is, for the time being at least, at an end."

In the week-end meeting, however, it is virtually certain some consideration will be given to the many suggestions and requests for new rules legislation.

Chief among the changes sought in some quarters is in the point-after-touchdown, long a bugaboo of rules makers. Many coaches dislike the point, often a season is ruined (and thus a coach's career is damaged) by the difference of a single point, possibly because they like to gamble that their teams will be lucky.

Two other rules may be discussed. The one governs the procedure after fumbles and provides that a fumbled ball is dead when recovered by a member of the defending team.

The other has to do with fouls which occur while making a try for a point after touchdown. The present rule provides that a foul by the attacking side nullifies the point attempt, and one by the defending side automatically awards the point. It has been suggested that yardage penalties with a fresh try for point be provided.

COYOTE TEAM ON ROAD TRIP

Pack Meets Quanah And Childress Today

A squad of some dozen Coyote cagers will leave by bus today for Quanah where the Pack will battle the Indians at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon and the move on to Childress to complete a day's work by taking on the Bobcats Thursday night. Both trips will be punitive expeditions as the Pack lost practice games to the teams in earlier games.

Coach Barry Holton sent his charges through a stiff drill Wednesday afternoon and pronounced his charges in shape to play the double-header today.

The Coyote mentor has just returned from Dallas where he spent a pleasant day with Knute Rockne, Notre Dame coach and former coach of the local athletic director. Rockne is accompanying a representative of the Studebaker company on a tour of the Southern states. "The father of football" will go from Dallas to El Paso and then to California. After leaving the Sunny state he plans to take a long uninterrupted rest.

Wichita Falls Five Beats Iowa Park

IOWA PARK, Feb. 11.—The First Christian cagers invade the Iowa Park Independent den Wednesday night and carried off a hard fought 28-24 victory. The game was rough from start to finish, but the visitors displayed superior teamwork to win.

Starting in the lead and holding it all the way the Wichita Falls team was never caught by the losers. Although the victors were never behind, the score was always close; and they were forced to maintain their terrific pace all the way. Brashear and Hills led the scoring for the winners while Cheeves shone brilliantly for the Iowa Park five.

Jean's Two Quintets Win Over Holliday

JEAN, Texas, Feb. 11.—Jean's two basket ball teams made a 150-mile drive Monday night to take a double header ball game from the Holliday teams on the latter's court.

In the first game the high school Pirates handed the Holliday High school cagers another defeat this time 17 to 16 in one of the hardest games of the season. Pratt, Pirate center was high point man again. This is the second win the Pirates have over the Holliday quintet in two starts.

The Bulldogs, independent team, won from the Holliday independents in the hottest cage game this year 20 to 16 in an extra period play off, the score being tied at 16 all at the end of the regular playing period. In the extra 3 minutes the Bullodgs scored four counters while holding the Holliday aggregation scoreless.

MIDDLEWEIGHT FIGHT ON TAP

English Boxer Due to Win 'Appointment'

By DIXON STEWART

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. (UP)—What with the current craze for producing boxing champions by appointment and the use of titles as a pork barrel commodity for fostering political patronage, Len Harvey of England, appears slated to become world champion in the middleweight division.

Harvey is scheduled to meet Vince Dundee of Baltimore, in Friday's 12-round feature at Madison Square garden. If the Briton can surmount this difficult hurdle, the cards appear to be stacked for his "appointment" as successor to Mickey Walker as ruler of the 160-pounders.

Walker, recognized generally as the best of present day ringmen, is in bad with both the New York commission and the National Boxing association. Although there is little question Walker can whip all of the fighters in the middleweight and light heavyweight classes and most of the heavies as well, the New Jersey Irishman has been legislated out of his title by the various organizations now controlling boxing.

Harvey came to America hoping to win Walker's title. He received a disheartening setback when he was defeated in his debut by Dundee, but still believes he can fight his way into a bout with Walker. The sportsman-like Briton has had no hand in the negotiations to make him a "gift" champion.

Checks Urged for Taxes

FOND DU LAC, Wis.—A "safety first" collection of tax payments in the form of checks instead of currency was urged by John N. Fox, treasurer of the town of Empire. "These are dangerous days," Fox said. "Hold-up men and burglars are looking about for even small sums of money, but they spurn checks and will make no attempts against persons or officials whose funds are known to be in that form."

13-Year-Old Duck Dead

MT. CARMEL, Pa.—A duck that reached the age of 13 years before death lived at Mowery, near here. It was an Indian runner breed, owned by N. H. Lanker, blacksmith. Until it was 10 days of age, the duck laid eggs regularly.

BENNY CLICKS

Coach Owens Acquiesces To Drastic Cut In O. U. Funds

NORMAN, Okla., Feb. 11 (UP)—Ben G. Owens, director of physical education at the University of Oklahoma, announced his plan today to meet the $9,900 reduction in athletic appropriations made by a house and senate committee.

"If the governor feels that way about it, we will click with him and President W. B. Bizzell and meet conditions of the $9,900 reduction.

"The coach staff will remain intact until July 1 after which it will be reduced," Owens said. He declined to say what members may be discharged.

Owens said curtailment of spring sports would begin immediately and that no games would be scheduled with other than Big Six opponents and that reduced squads would make road trips in autos.

Six Church Teams In Action Tonight

Swinging into the next to last games on the schedule, the Church basket ball race will continue tonight with three red hot games on the Floral Heights Presbyterian floor, starting at 7 o'clock. Jewish Temple vs. Grant Street Methodists, First Southern Presbyterian vs. Floral Heights Presbyterian, and East Side Presbyterians vs. Highland Heights Christian are the games carded for tonight.

The First Southern Presbyterians lead the race with three victories in as many starts and are heavy favorites to cop the championship of the second half of the church chase. The continued high grade of basketball exhibited in the league has attracted many ardent fans, and the gym at Avenue I and Buchanan will probably house one of the biggest crowds of the season tonight.

WINDY CITY STARS ADVANCE

Miss Vilas and Mrs. Zech Lead at Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 11. (AP)—Two Chicago golfing stars advanced to the semi-finals of the Miami women's golf tournament today, along with one from Cleveland and one from Buffalo.

Miss Ariel Vilas, young Chicago ace, who won medal honors in the event, had no difficulty in disposing of Mrs. Joyce Bushel, New York, 7 and 5, in their quarter final round. Miss Vilas took an early lead and maintained it to the end.

Mrs. Lillian Zech, Chicago, likewise experienced little difficulty in her match, winning from Mrs. R. S. Fenn, New Haven, Conn., city champion, 3 and 2.

Miss Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, winner of the Miami Beach women's title last week, continued her triumphant march over Miami courses by turning back Mrs. Eddie Williams, Cleveland, 4 and 3. Mrs. C. R. Harbaugh, Cleveland, defeated Mrs. Marian Hockheimer, Clearview, N. Y., by the same score.

Miss Vilas will meet Mrs. Zech in the semi-finals tomorrow and Miss Wattles will play Mrs. Harbaugh.

Frank Watt Signs To Perform With Phils

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11. (AP)—Frank H. Watt, right-hander, has been added to the Phillies pitching staff, having been signed as a free agent by the club, and will receive a trial in spring training. He worked out with the Phils here last summer.

Watt was regarded as a good pitching prospect in 1925 and 1926, when with San Antonio, in the Texas league.

He was purchased by Detroit, but developed arm trouble and was sent to Fort Worth in 1927. The next two years his arm continued to trouble him and he did little work.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. (AP)—A further advance at the opening in cotton here today was promoted by relatively firm Liverpool cables, but met increased offerings which included some southern selling as well as pre-holiday realizing. May contracts sold off from 11.19 to 11.08, but offerings were well taken and there were rallies later. May closed at 11.17 or within 2 points of the best price for the day and movement, with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 9@12 points.

The opening was steady 9@14 points higher, with March selling up to 10.94 and October to 11.72 on a continuation of the recent buying movement which appeared to be promoted by firmness in Liverpool, an advance in bar silver, and reports of an increased business in print cloths in the local goods market yesterday. The initial demand was supplied by some southern selling, which was coupled with pre-holiday realizing and probably some selling for a reaction.

The New York cotton exchange service estimated domestic consumption for January at 456,000 bales, or at the rate of 19,000 bales per working day compared with 17,700 in December and 23,500 in January last year. Liverpool cables reported continental and Bombay buying supplied by realizing at the advance in that market and reported fair cloth sales for the British home trade and shipment to South America.

Exports today 26,390 making 4,712,336 so far this season. Port receipts 16,309. U. S. port stocks 4,023,399.

Futures closed very steady, 9 to 12 points higher. Spot steady; middling 11.00.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 11. (AP)—The most active trading the cotton market has experienced in some time developed today. After a strong opening due to good Liverpool cables, the market continued to advance on heavy local and foreign buying and active short covering helped by firm stocks and a bullish private estimate of domestic consumption during January of 456,000 bales. Prices advanced to levels 13 to 14 points above the close of yesterday before the demand was satisfied. Late in the morning and during the early afternoon prices reacted 10 to 12 points from the highs on realizing and on the weakened technical position due to the heavy covering by shorts. The market was rather erratic in the late afternoon and eased off at one time on reports of financial trouble in China but later rallied some, the general market closing steady at net advances for the day of 7 to 11 points.

The closing of the exchange here tomorrow for Lincoln's birthday probably was responsible for some liquidation during the afternoon.

Liverpool came in 7 to 8 penny points better than due and private cables said the continent and Bombay bought. Manchester reported a fair cloth trade to the home trade and South America. First trades here were 10 to 12 points up and the market continued to advance until at the end of the first hour May traded as high as 11.2 and October at 11.70 or 10 to 14 points above the previous close.

The market was rather erratic in the late trading, fluctuating within the previous range declining several points at one time on reports of financial troubles in China and rallying later, finally closing at 11.16 for May and 11.70 for October, 8 and 1 points below the best, the former showing a net gain for the day of 8 points and the latter 11 points net up.

Port receipts, 8,991; for week, 60,268; for season, 7,701,966; last season, 7,639,174; exports 22,390; for week, 59,177; for season, 4,572,431; last season, 5,036,928. Port stocks, 4,167,694; last year, 2,361,493. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston, 80,935; last year 112,787. Spot sales at Southern markets 15,397; last year, 13,887.

Pre-Holiday Profit-Taking Strikes Blow at Stock Market Advances

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. (US)—The stock market today had to absorb heavy profit-taking but not until the entire list had attained new high ground for the present recovery. The public utility group closed in new high territory, as did also the industrials, while the Rails were reactionary and closed lower. Highest prices were reached in the early part of the day, but attempt was made to maintain the advance through utilizing the utilities. Numerous issues in this group witnessed hurried short covering.

The holiday of course influenced traders to take profits accumulated during the period of strength. The weekly Steel Trade Review reported some gain in operations, which now average 50 per cent, compared with 48 per cent last week, and also a slight improvement in demand. Silver rallied almost a full cent, in response to Washington reports concerning plans to stabilize the price of this important metal.

In General Motors, profit-taking was on particularly large scale although the stock maintained its price within a fraction of the previous day. Steel common, on the other hand, went to a new high although reacting later with the general list.

The shorts in Case Threshing were given no resting spell, the stock being marked up five points net. Buying of this issue, however, is so obviously speculative and aimed against the bears primarily, that its advance has attracted little following.

Strength in the Public Utility stocks was a quite natural sequence to the achievement of a new high by the industrial averages, then by the railroads. With utilities at a new high, the entire list closed virtually at the top of the current upward movement. Many shorts among the utilities had been content to maintain their positions even while the remainder of the list was booming, so that the sudden drive by bullish interests caught the utility bears more or less unawares. Even the utilities, however, were unable to retain all of their early advances.

The most disturbing developments during the day were the announcement by Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company that its plants will shortly be placed on a five-day-a-week basis, and the remarks of Under-Secretary of the Treasury Mills regarding the soldiers' bonus legislation.

The treasury official warned that "dangers" in the bonus proposals have not been entirely eliminated. The bond market, which had been strong up to Mills speech, turned soft, and the stock market, already faced with profit-taking attracted by the sharp advance, likewise started downward.

Although it was universally conceded that profit-taking constituted the greatest part of the afternoon offerings, there was also some evidence of renewed selling by interests who have been out of sympathy with the market's present recovery.

Copper shares were helped by an advance in price of the metal to 10 cents, which followed an earlier advance in the export quotation. It was evident, however, that the copper shares were not aggressively bought. Softness in the railroad department reflected growing opinion that their recovery had been sufficient to discount nearby conditions of the industry.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 11. (AP)—Confronted by evidence that Russia's reported revolution had been altogether a myth, grain markets lost their effervescence today. Despite rallies prices showed a general downward trend, and wheat dropped much of the 7 cent gain scored over last week's bottom level. Increased pressure to dispose of wheat from all export countries outside of North America acted as a weight on values.

Wheat closed nervous, unchanged to 2⅜c lower; corn, 1⅜@2c down; oats, ⅜@⅞ off, and provisions varying from 32 cent decline to 10c advance.

Reversal of wheat market advances came as soon as trading began. Considerable buying developed at times owing to official announcement that the domestic winter wheat belt continued in urgent need of rain from Missouri eastward. There also were reports that high winds southwest appeared likely to cause soil deterioration.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat weakness, and also were bearishly influenced by talk of a probably larger movement of corn soon from the interior.

Provisions averaged lower, responsive to action of hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, May (bids), 82⅞c; July, 68½c, 72½@72⅝; September, 68@68¼c, 72½c. Corn, March (bids), 64c; May 66@66¼c, 68⅜@68⅜c; July 67⅛@67¼c, 69¾c; September (offers), 69½c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Feb. 11. (US)—Grain traders will turn their attention to Winnipeg tomorrow as the barometer of world wheat conditions while the local market is closed for Lincoln's birthday. Purchases by seaboard and milling interests and direct export sales were strengthening influences in that market at the close today.

Sentiment has again grown extremely bearish toward corn as prices have rallied in sympathy with wheat. Eastern demand continues very slow and each fresh advance works substantial quantities from other markets and from the country. However, bearish sentiment is tempered by the strength in wheat and the persistent firmness in stocks.

Broomhall says that chartering in Argentina is more active now and space to England is quoted at $4.85 per ton.

The weekly weather crop report said that while there were beneficial rains over much of the winter wheat belt, amounts were not sufficient to saturate soil much below the top foot or so and more rains are still urgently needed to replenish the subsoil particularly from Missouri eastward.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 11. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Cattle trade today was marked by a fair demand for better grades of weighty steers at mostly steady prices while lighter weights ruled steady to slightly easier. The well, which in its present condition rated between 350 to 370 barrels from six showings in sands and saturated limes, will continue to the contract depth of 5500 feet unless oil is found in paying quantities, and with the continuation of these formations interesting happenings are looked for at any time.

The commodity was raised from 16 to 17 cents the gallon and the oil editor is more than pleased to make this correction.

EAST TEXAS OIL BRINGS 4 BITS

Flat Price Established By Purchasers

LONGVIEW, Texas, Feb. 11.—The potential production of the East Texas pools at this time is placed at approximately 40,000 barrels of 38 to 40 gravity oil daily. The actual production in the last week was 12,000 barrels, while shut-in wells and wildcats awaiting transportation facilities, it was estimated would easily raise the production to 40,000.

Indications are that the major purchasing agencies will establish a flat price of 50 cents a barrel for this oil, while independent brokers are said to be booking their requirements at a lower level. Tank car shipments already assure a wide distribution of East Texas crude.

The Gregg-Rusk fields are yielding a sweet crude with a high gasoline recovery by skimming plant procedure. This will assure the coming to various sections of the district of numerous skimming plants. In West Texas some 20 refineries were attracted under similar conditions by a sour crude.

An analysis of the oil from the Lathrop discovery well here shows 40.1 A. P. I. gravity and by Hempel distillation yields 33 to 37 per cent sweet gasoline, 10 to 15 per cent kerosene and a large yield of gas oil.

Auction Bridge

Actual Play In Auction . . .

Lesson No. 9

Each player must follow suit, that is, play a card of the same suit as the one which is led, if he has one in his hand, but if he doesn't he may play such card as he chooses.

Tricks are won by the player who plays the highest card of the suit led or the highest trump in case trumps have been played. The player winning the trick gathers the four cards neatly and places them face down in a neat packet, then leads to the next trick. The play continues until all 13 tricks have been played.

The Lovely Liar

she had to do something with her hands, she opened her purse and took out her vanity case, and began powdering her nose. When she looked at him a moment later, she was smiling, a forced smile, but he wouldn't know the difference. He didn't care. Yes, he liked her, liked her and pitied her probably, but he didn't care . . .

"I'm serious. Would you marry anyone you didn't love?" Her voice was quite steady now.

"What's marriage for if there's no love, Poppy? I write about marriage without love so much that I'm sick of worrying over it. Seek out unhappily married couples the reactions of my characters working normally. Try to see situations the way they saw them. Seew out unhappily married couples and see why they were unhappy. Now I know all the formulae, know them by heart. No, Poppy, I'd say most emphatically, don't ever marry without love. I've had enough trouble with my unhappily married characters, much less trying to do it myself. When I marry, I'm going to be so in love that I'm never going to get over it. I'm going to adore the girl I marry. Want her so terribly that nothing else will make any difference—" he paused. "I've met a lot of girls, but I never was sure I loved them enough. Maybe I'll never marry. I don't know. I know, thought, that I'll never marry anyone I don't love."

Then he didn't love Celia! Didn't love anyone. It wasn't so bad, now that she knew. Knew that he didn't love anyone. Always before there had been the fear that he might love someone else.

"What's this nonsense of yours? You thinking of marrying someone you don't love? Don't be silly about marriage and love, Poppy. You're too young, and you've your life ahead of you. If I really thought you were planning to marry someone you didn't love, I'd begin worrying about you."

Poppy decided she had better not tell him she had made up her mind to marry Ted Allison, and that she didn't love Ted. She was in no mood for argument, and Kevin would try to persuade her not to marry Ted. Hard enough, yesterday combating Jane's views.

"Have I answered your question?"

"Yes."

"The way you wanted it answered?"

Poppy shook her head. He hadn't answered it the way she wanted it answered. He had answered it the same way Jane had. The wrong way. If somebody would only reassure her. Tell her she was doing the right thing. But Jane and Kevin, although she hadn't told him all, thought she was making a mistake.

Well, she'd see. If she'd made a mistake, she'd find out soon enough.

Kevin was looking at her intently. "Why did they call you Poppy, child? Because they knew your cheeks would be so red, your lips so crimson, your eyes so black? You don't belong here. You belong in the sun, in the heat, and Poppy, there should be flowers in your hair." He leaned over and touched his fingers to her warm hand. Then he laughed. "I'm getting maudlin. Let's go."

And the spell was broken. Kevin spoke only in monosyllables on the long ride home. When he left Poppy at the door of the apartment house, he merely mumbled a good night, and started back to the car immediately.

Poppy went slowly up the stairs. For a minute at the inn, she had thought he was going to kiss her. His fingers burned on her hand, and their faces were so close. Something in his eyes she had never seen before. Something that—she liked. The tense way he looked at her, the quick way he spoke. Then it was gone, and he laughed.

The resolution stated there was not a "statue, or a monument to the father of our country in the broad domain of Texas."

Bench Warmers Bolder

HARTFORD, Conn.—Bech warmers in Hartford parks are getting bolder and more impolite, according to police reports. Numerous complaints were made that men refused to allow girls to sit on benches to put on their skates. An officer asked a vagrant to surrender his place to a girl and the "loafer" struck the patrolman on the chin.

British-Zionist Letters To Be Made Public

LONDON, Feb. 11. (INS)—The letters exchanged between the British cabinet committee and Dr. Chaim Weizemann, former Zionist head, regarding interpretation of certain passages in the government's Palestine White Paper will be published shortly, Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald announced in the house of commons today.

The cabinet committee and Zionist leaders have been "exchanging views" on the Palestine controversy, the premier said.

The letters point out, it is understood, that the British government fully appreciates the increasing efforts of Jews to establish Palestine as a national home, and are expected to relax the strict limitation of Jewish emigration to Palestine imposed by the Hassfield report.

Six firemen were injured in fighting the flames which broke out on the top floor of the structure occupied by the Reliable Trunk and Baggage company and the Specialty Furniture company.

MRS. DOBIE LISTS SHRUBS

Flowers Can Be Had In Nearly Every Months

plant is subject to no disease or insects. It needs space and requires sunshine and good drainage. The best known variety, Pride of Rochester, has double white flowers tinged with pink, and is upright in habit. D. gracilis is a fountain of bloom.

The spirea familiarly known as bridal wreath comes into bloom in March. The species having double white flowers, S. reevesiana, blooms a little later and remains in bloom a longer time. No list of mid-spring flowering shrubs would be complete without mention of mountain laurel, which much prefers Central and West Texas to East Texas.

Photinia is so handsome an evergreen that it needs no flowers to justify a place in the garden. But a well-grown photinia covered with white clusters in April is a beautiful thing. Rose acacia, or moss locust (Robinia hispida), is a low shrub with rose or lavender blooms that hang in clusters like wisteria. It flowers in April and at intervals throughout the summer. Another species of robinia is native to mountain canyons of West Texas.

May has been called by a modern poet "the month for which the whole year dies." In Texas roses and wild flowers give April that special place, but May is a fine month for shrubs. In South Texas May is cape jessamine and oleander time. Lilacs are best in late April and early May. In North Texas the fine French hybrids do well, but from Central Texas down only the old-fashioned southern lilac should be attempted. It often blooms again very freely in the fall. Hydrangeas do well if they are given special attention; they need a loamy soil containing plenty of humus, a partially shaded position and daily watering when they bloom. Many shrubs that bloom at intervals throughout the summer flower first in May; the lovely native cenzia, with its soft contrast of lavender flowers and gray leaves; salt cedar, or tamarix; lantana, of which there are white, pink and red sorts as well as the better known orange-red; hypericum, or gold flower, a low shrub with rather large single flowers; plumbago, both the common azure-flowered and a very dwarf kind (plumbago larpentae) with deep blue flowers; the evergreen abelia, which, planted beneath south windows will perfume the house all summer long, and poinciana, or bird-of-paradise.

Pomegranate

Summer brings the pomegranate, which strangers consider our most striking shrub. The evergreen pomegranate, growing only a foot and a half high, has a place of its own. Crape myrtle is the pre-eminent shrub of midsummer. Those who have found the pink a little insipid and the watermelon pink (really a dark cerise) a little harsh, will delight in a new clear rose shade. Vitex, or chaste tree and buddleia, or butterfly bush, are the best summer bluea. Althea is the most dependable of shrubs through August; the white and purple are usually planted, but there are some handsome reds. For the far south hibiscus is particularly beautiful. Red hibiscus against white walls in Corpus Christi is as memorable as the hollyhocks blooming against adobe walls in Taos, N. M. Those who dwell to the north can get the effect of giant hibiscus blooms with the rather new mallow marvels, which are really not shrubs but herbaceous perennials, the tops dying in winter. Yellow senna and flowering willow can be relied upon through the heat, and purple bush clover (Iespedeza formosa) flowers late.

Many of these shrubs bloom on at intervals until frost. At least one good shrub does not bloom until fall—eupatorium, white-flowered, beloved of butterflies.

Expect in the southernmost part of the state, shrubs seldom bloom in December. December is the ruby clasp that, with poinsettias and various berries, closes the necklace of the flowering months.

The shrubs named in this article are all known to do well in Texas. The list is by no means exhaustive. A few good ones for the experimental-minded to try are Daphne cneorum, a low evergreen with clusters of fragrant pink flowers; yellow and white kerria; calycanthus, or sweet shrub, the flowers of which smell to me like ripe wild persimmons, though strawberry bush is one common name; blue spirea, Korean spirea (Spirea trichocarpa); Klokwitzia amabilis, or beauty bush, and Chinese tea.

Man Faces Charge Of 'Burglarizing' Churches

Today — At the Theaters

By ELEANOR FLEMING

MAJESTIC: "Rich People" with Constance Bennett and Regis Toomey. Chimpanzee comedy, Strid and Maxine in accordion act and sound news.

STRAND: Richard Dix in "Cimarron." Micky Mouse comedy and sound news.

STATE: "See America Thirst" with Slim Summerville, Harry Langdon and Bessie Love. Short subjects and sound news.

GEM: Victor McLaglen in "On the Level." Comedy.

Strid and Maxine are two charming youngsters who really seem to know how to handle accordions—that is, from the viewpoint of an amateur who only hears them over the radio usually. Their part on the Majestic program is at least a refreshing note in the midst of a lot of ordinary stuff.

"Rich People" could have been a beautiful show, but every time it gets to the point of being poignant, someone tries to be funny. Regis Toomey, the adorable curly-haired one, manages to get in the only real acting when he leaves the rich girl who has gone after him in every imaginable way.

The scenes in Jeff's little house, which should have been the best in the show, are ruined by a musical-comedy type of humor which would never have occurred in real life and should never have been included in reel life.

After Robert Ames' excellence in "Holiday" it is disappointing to find him in a part where his only means of expression is raising his cultured eyebrows. Maybe this picture was made before "Holiday"; either that or Constance Bennett wears strangely quaint styles of garments for a beautiful American heiress.

Those who like the chimpanzee comedies will enjoy "The Little Big House," a travesty on prison pictures which is made up of a lot of monkey business.

Abercrombie Case To Go to Jury Thursday

Arguments of counsel in the case of Ralph Abercrombie, on trial before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property over $50, will be heard by the jury at 9 o'clock Thursday morning.

Introduction of evidence in the case and preparation of the court's charge were completed about 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The defendant is alleged to have offered for sale to a local automobile concern a car stolen from the streets of Graham about 45 days previously. He is being defended by Wayne Somerville, former county attorney.

Mack Moore, pleading guilty on two charges of chicken theft, was sentenced to 25 days in jail on each charge, the two to run concurrently at the request of the jury which heard the plea. A similar action against C. E. Moore, a brother, was dismissed upon the declaration of Mack Moore that the brother had no connection with the alleged offense.

A. L. Scott, found guilty by a jury Wednesday morning of driving while intoxicated, was sentenced to pay a fine of $75 and court costs.

GASOLINE PRICE GIVEN BOOST

Tank Wagon and Retail Rates Up One Cent

Tank-wagon and net retail prices on commercial gasoline were given a general advance of one cent per gallon by major companies operating in this city, according to information given The Record News Wednesday, the delivered price now being 17 cents.

According to statements by local refineries and dealers, the tank wagon price is now 15 cents, including the 4-cent gasoline tax. Prices posted in retail filling stations are 10 cents less a commercial "discount" of two cents which is now common to all sales, it was said. Gasoline treated to produce "anti-knock" qualities, it was stated, still is listed at a premium of one and two cents per gallon by various companies.

The younger Reid, the petition sets out, was employed in a store at Iowa Park by the defendant company, and in pursuance of his duties fell from a height of about 10 feet above the floor when a four-legged ladder fell from under him.

Forty and Eight Plans Tremendous 'Wreck' Honoring National Heads

25 'Poor Goofs' to Learn Mysteries of Order When Veterans Meet at Memorial Auditorium

A tremendous, soul-stirring "wreck", one that will make the boys think they are in France or somewhere, is being planned by Wichita voiture No. 939, Forty and Eight, in honor of the visit here Saturday, Feb. 14, of Charles E. Perry, chef de chemin de fer, and C. W. Ardery, national correspondent, of the Forty and Eight. The celebration will be held at the Memorial auditorium club rooms of the organization.

Announcement of the plans for the "wreck" in honor of the two national officers was made Wednesday by local leaders. The Forty and Eight is a branch of the American Legion, and members of the order from many towns in Texas and Oklahoma are expected to attend. A delegation of 25 "poor goofs" has been promised for initiation into the mysteries of the order. The national officers of the organization will visit only three towns in Texas, Pampa, Amarillo and Wichita Falls.

Mr. Perry, chef de chemin de fer of La Societe des 40 hommes et 8 Chevaux, has been serving Uncle Sam for 37 years. At present he is running the postoffice at his home town of Kittery Point, Me., but for 22½ years he served in the United States navy.

Mr. Perry has a record of government service equalled by few voyageurs. After graduating from the Kittery high school he entered the employ of the government in 1894, serving as a civilian nurse and taking up the study of pharmacy. In 1897 he enlisted in the navy as an apothecary. He served through the Spanish war and continued on the active list of the navy through the world war. In 1917 he was placed in the naval reserve corps with duty at the U. S. naval prison at Portsmouth, N. H.

Relieved from active duty at the end of the war, he was appointed postmaster at Kittery Point, to which office he has been twice reappointed.

Mr. Perry was one of the organizers of Henry Wallingford post No. 89 at Kittery and was the first commander of the post. After the expiration of his term as commander, he was elected post finance officer and has served continuously in this office since.

CHARLES E. PERRY

Mr. Perry's first important office in the Forty and Eight was chef de gare of voiture locale 374, of York county, Maine. After his successful administration of the voiture's affairs he was elected grand chef de train of the grand voiture of Maine and later grand chef de gare of Maine.

In 1928, Perry served as chemin-not national from Maine, and in 1928 at San Antonio, Texas, was elected sous chef de chemin de fer. He was unanimously elected chef de chemin de fer at Boston to serve for the term 1930-1931.

C.-C. to Renew Membership Drive With Goal of 1,000 for 1931

Preparations for a membership drive to supplement the original drive of the chamber of commerce several weeks ago, were made by members of the committee at the meeting held Wednesday, according to announcement of A. E. Kelly, chairman. The second drive is to be made in an effort to sign up 1930 members who have not subscribed for the present year, due to their absence from the city during the first solicitation.

The committee is to meet again Thursday morning at 9 o'clock in the directors room of the chamber of commerce.

The meeting Wednesday was marked by an optimistic outlook to increasing the present membership to over 1,000. John Boswell, manager, reported that 650 members were on the rolls of the organization, and commended the material with which the 1931 membership is composed. Mr. Boswell expressed the belief that fewer delinquincies would be had in the payment of 1931 subscriptions.

C-C Military Affairs Group Plans Work

Approximately $100,000 is spent in Wichita Falls by the three units of the national guard here, members of the military affairs committee of the chamber of commerce were told Wednesday afternoon when the group held its initial 1931 meeting. A fourth unit of the national guard probably will be located here within a short time and a regimental headquarters established, it was added.

Its duties are to maintain friendly relations between Wichita Falls and military organizations, and to take charge of parades in the city. The group will work with other committees on parallel matters and especially with the highway committee on military roads.

Horrace Robbins, chairman, is to visit the commanding officer of Fort Sill soon to extend the courtesies of Wichita Falls to the fort and to invite members of the military post to make this city a point of frequent visit. It was pointed out to the committee that the artillery school at Fort Sill is the largest school of fire in the United States.

Emphasis at the meeting was placed on cooperation with the national guard and the American Legion here.

The committee is to welcome and entertain all military officers who visit Wichita Falls. To be at all times in contact with military affairs, the group voted to hold meetings twice monthly, on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month at noon. J. F. Friberg was elected secretary of the committee.
