Soviets Trap 3 Nazi Divisions

Mighty Force Poised For Drive Into East Prussia

By TOM YARBROUGH
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 19. — Russian troops yesterday overwhelmed the west bank Vistula river stronghold of Sandomierz in central Poland after a bitter three-day street battle, and trapped three German divisions of 30,000 men, while another powerful Soviet army massed on the German East Prussian frontier threatened momentarily to spill onto German soil for the first time.

Schirwindt, East Prussian border town, and other villages inside Germany's imperilled province were reported by Soviet naval fliers to be in flames, and Berlin said the Russians had hurled more than 150,000 men into the battle on an 80-mile front from Augustow in northern Poland and the Niemen river in western Lithuania.

Great Events Imminent

Both Moscow and Berlin dispatches suggested great events were imminent, and Axis broadcasts said Soviet troops on the long-dormant Romanian front had attempted to cross the lower Dnestr river—suggesting the emergence soon of another offensive directed toward the Ploesti oil fields, last big German fuel reservoir.

The Russian daily communique said Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's First White Russian Army also had gone over to the offensive in some sectors just east of Praga, east bank suburb of Warsaw, after absorbing the impact of savage German counter-attacks. The Russians last were fighting within seven miles of the city.

Inside Warsaw the Poles reported their guerrilla forces were holding their own in furious street fighting. From rooftops the Poles hurled gasoline-filled bottles down on German tanks, and from cellar gunslits they picked off German troops.

Moscow Remains Silent

Moscow was silent about the East Prussian front, but Berlin said heavy fighting was going on with the "center of gravity" at Virbalis, western Lithuanian town three miles from the border on the Kaunas-Konigsberg highway.

The capture of Sandomierz gave the Russians another important river crossing with which to pour men and material into the Polish plains leading to highly industrialized German Silesia, last reported only 75 miles beyond Soviet spearheads.

The Russians already hold Lagow, 3 miles northwest of Sandomierz and only 20 miles from Kielce, German communications center linking the Krjkow-Warsaw front, and the bridgehead area has been expanded to approximately 1,60 square miles. Its lower end is at Goryslawice, 53 miles southwest of Sandomierz,

Nazis Caught In New Trap

By WES GALLAGHER
Aassociated Press Staff Writer

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 18. (AP) — Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third U. S. Army, riding relentless herd on the harried German Seventh Army, has all but corraled it in a new encirclement south of the Seine River.

Patton's drive, one of the fastest in military history and aimed toward Paris and the Seine, virtually cut the Germans off from the French capital when it crossed the Eure river north of Dreux.

Thus his hard-riding forces drove Field Marshal Gen. Guenther von Kluge's Army directly north toward the virtually bridgeless Seine.

Situation Like a Piston

The situation is like that of a piston. Patton established a wall of the cylinder 70 miles in from the sea, which forms the other.

The piston squeezing the Germans is composed of the U. S. First Army, the British Second and the Canadian First, and is driving east and north all the way from a point east of Falaise to the sea.

Harassed by Allied air forces, it is difficult to see how the Seventh Army, already battered and reeling from its narrow escape from the Falaise-Argentan pocket, is going to get any equipment across the Seine over the one narrow bridge remaining, which itself may already be cut by bombs.

The air forces are certain to make use of barges, pontoon bridges and ferry boats a haphazard, dangerous process.

That the Germans believe the route to Paris is lost to them is seen in the report that the direction of their retreat has turned north toward Rouen.

Allied troops put on the pressure, breaking the stagnated coastal front with drives of four to six miles. The object is to run over the German rearguards and give them no rest nor any time to cross the Seine.

Patton's brilliant French campaign is almost a duplicate of the lightning offensive he led in Sicily. In Sciliy he was given only the objective of driving along the south and west coast to take Palermo. Patton achieved it so rapidly that when Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's forces became stalled at Catania, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower turned Patton north and he drove the Americans into Messina ahead of the British.

This time Patton swept through Brittany, then turned north toward Paris and not only "surrounded" Montgomery again, but included the American First, the British Second, the Canadian First, and for good measure the German Seventh Army.

Ban Is Set On Food Dumping

DALLAS, Aug. 18. (AP)—There will be no food dumping at the close of World war II, Lee Marshall, national far foods administration distribution director, declared here today.

Speaking before the Dallas Agriculture club and food representatives, he said "it is more than a promise; it is a plan already placed in operation which should relieve the fears of those who witnessed the unbalanced food market following the last war."

Marshal pointed out measures which presently are being taken to prevent a recurrence of the years after 1918. WFA is buying no more food than is actually necessary to meet foreseeable requirements; stocks which must be maintained are being kept "clean," and certain food surpluses already are being disposed of in a "clean, orderly manner, he said.

Last War Cited

Indiscriminate disposal of food after the last war was only one factor which infected agriculture, however, Marshall asserted, more influence of its long illness was the sudden drop in demand for American grown food and a "generally high level of employment is the only real answer to the problem," he said.

Dewey's Adviser To Join Peace Parley

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18. — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today proposed and Secretary of State Hull accepted direct participation by Dewey's foreign relations adviser in American preparations for organizing postwar world security.

This dramatic turn of political events in the background of big four security talks beginning here next week was immediately interpreted in diplomatic quarters as strengthening the United States' position in relation to the other conferees — Russia, Britain and China.

Dulles To Get Call

Dewey had wired Hull earlier today suggesting that John Foster Dulles, who probably would be his secretary of state if Dewey is elected president, confer with Hull on postwar foreign policy.

The Republican nominee's move followed a Hull news conference statement yesterday that he would be glad to meet with Dewey or anyone else who came in a mood of cooperation rather than one of political partisanship.

After receiving Dewey's telegram today, Hull responded with this message:

"I am in receipt of your telegram of August 18 in which you say 'I am happy to accept your proposal for consultation made at your press conference yesterday and to designate Mr. John Foster Dulles as my representative.'

"I am immensely gratified to receive your assurance of bi-partisan cooperation in the effort to establish latsing peace.

"I shall be delighted to see Mr. Dulles and to confer with him on any date or dates convenient to him."

Hull previously had put a Republican leader, former Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher, one-time chairman of the Republican national committee on the American delegation to the four-power meetings, of which Underscretary Edward R. Stettinius, jr., is chairman.

Fletcher, however, while he brought a Republican point of view to the delegation, did not necessarily represent the Republican leadership of this year's political campaigns. Dulles, on the other hand, is a recognized part of that leadership, and while there is no evident intention of making him a part of the delegation, Hull's and Dewey's decision to count him in on current developments evidently strengthened their mutual pledges of bi-partisan cooperation.

Dulles Well Versed

In his telegram, Dewey said Dulles was well known to Hull and President Roosevelt and had given "a lifetime of study and constructive action in the field of foreign affairs."

The Republican nominee called Dulles, senior member of a Wall Street law firm, "one of the very ablest of American authorities on international relations." Dulles is chairman of the commission on a just and durable peace, of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

New Tank Monster In Use By Germans

(By The Associated Press)

Germans have thrown a huge new, heavily armored tank into action on both the Russian and northern French fronts in an effort to stem the Allied advances but first reports denied it was a "super weapon."

One of the new monsters weighing over 65 tons and with six-inch armor plate—an inch and a half thicker than anything the enemy yet has put into action—was taken by the British on the Orne river front.

The tank was a victim of a mechanical breakdown and never had fired a shot in battle.

Christened the pantiger" by its captors, the tank combines the best features of the Nazi Tiger and Panther tanks, which weigh 45 tons each.

The Pantiger, 23 feet long and over 11 feet wide, has an extra wheel on each side of its tracks and a huge, clumsy-looking turret.

Post-War Youth Training Urged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today public opinion should be gradually formed on the idea of offering a year's postwar training — both military and civil—to 1,000,000 or 1,250,000 youths between 17 and 23.

He told a news conference that excellently built service camps in the United States, Alaska, the Aleutians and elsewhere—capable of housing 5,000,000 men—could be utilized for the purpose.

He said it would not constitute compulsory military training, but some military and some civilian training, including vocational and stenagrophic cources to prepare young men for civilian jobs, some of them in the government service.

Physical and Mental

Benefits would be both physical and mental, he said, citing improvements in the makeup of thousands of youth who trained in the Civilian Conservation corps. Muscle building resulting from ditch-digging is a good thing for some, he declared.

Saying he personally has studied the matter and that it warrants public study, the chief executive said such training would teach youths the special art of living together in groups, and also teach them cleanliness and discipline. He remarked parenthetically that discipline is rather a good thing for the nation, that it is not to be sneezed at.

Such a program also might make for an improvement in law and order, he added, saying we are not such a law-abiding people though we are not so bad on order.

The President's remarks were prompted by a question whether study was being given to compulsory military training in peacetime.

Emphasizing that the study was not wholly along military lines, he replied that the nation would have a postwar problem in deciding what to do with all the housing put up to train service men. He said these houses had 5,000,000 beds and, unlike first World war housing which had to be scrapped a few years after the war, probably would last 25 years.

Heavy Blows Continue In Pacific Area

By RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

MAINTENANCE of the pace of America's powerful and relentless aerial offensive against widely separated Japanese Pacific island strongholds was officially reported yesterday by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz.

U. S. airmen struck Wednesday against the Volcano islands, 750 miles south of Tokyo, while others hit in the Marianas and the Carolines.

Jap Reinforcements

Meanwhile the Japanese rushed heavy reinforcements into China's bloody Hunan province where the prize is the strategic Hankow-Canton railway. They also stiffened their resistance on the Salween river front near the Burma border but continued to lose ground in northeast India and northern Burma.

On the Pacific front, Yank airmen blasted Iwo Jima, in the Volcano islands. Army Liberators bombed buildings, storage facilities and installations near the airfield. Several Japanese fighter planes were in the air but did not intercept. No American planes were lost.

Rota and Pagan islands, in the Marianas, were bombed and strafed. Warehouse areas at Dublon, in the Truk atoll, were the targets of other Liberators. Large fires and explosions were observed there. One of six interceptors was shot down.

Naura, Mili Pounded

Navy planes bombed the phosphate island of Nauru while Marine fighters and dive-bombers attacked Mili atoll in the Marshalls.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's heavy bombers plastered Japanese held islands south of neutralized Halmahera. Attacking "in force," they rained explosives on Ceram, Amboina and Boeroe airdromes, destroying some parked planes and sinking a surfaced seaplane. Escorting fighters shot nine Japanese interceptors out of the air. Two American fighters were lost.

Southwest Pacific night air patrols again attacked the Davao area, southern Philippines, registering three hits on a Japanese merchanman.

Yanks Land On Biak

Yank troops landed on the west coast of Biak island, in the Schoutens off north Dutch New Guinea, to aid in cleaning out isolated Japanese remnants.

In China, heavy fighting raged in the Hengyang sector of Hunan. The Japanese rushed in two new divisions in an attempt to fight off a Chinese threat from the southwest.

A Chinese Army spokesman found indications that the Japanese, 210,000 strong in the Changsha area north of Hengyang, intend to push toward Kweilin, provincial capital. He estimated Japanese casualties at 30,000 in Hunan up to Aug. 8, the day the Nipponese took Hengyang. He added 14,078 of the 16,000 Chinese defenders of Hengyang were killed or wounded in the furious battling there up to Aug. 7.

Raiders Destroy 86 Nazi Planes Friday

LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 19. (AP)—Great fleets of Allied planes blasted air fields in northern France yesterday, rained death and destruction on the retreating Germans, shot from the skies 35 enemy fighters of a temporary resurgent German air force and were out again early today for more blows at the enemy.

In addition to the 35 planes downed, the Allied airmen destroyed at least 51 on the ground. Allied losses for the day in which 6,000 planes flew from the West and south in eight attacks over four European countries, totaled 21 fighters and two bombers.

American Marauders escorted by RAF Spitfires got in the day's final blow yesterday, bombing rail lines northeast of Paris, and returned without loss despite heavy flak.

Indicative of the damage inflicted, the Eighth Air force fighters alone reported destroying or damaging 739 railroad cars, 38 locomotives and 215 motor vehicles.

Bulk Of German 15th Army Also In Trap

Debacle Involves Troops Moved In From Rocket Area

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Saturday, Aug. 19—The bulk of the German 15th Army guarding the north French rocket coast has been thrown into an eleventh hour attempt to avert a Normandy debacle and has gone down to a defeat that may spell an Allied victory in the battle for France, it was disclosed officially last night.

Mighty Allied forces were driving the beaten 15th and Seventh armies toward the all but bridgeless Seine, and Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's tanks smashing to the vicinity of Paris — only 12 miles away by German accounts—had blocked off their retreat toward the French capital.

MUST GIVE UP FRANCE

LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 19 (AP)—A Berlin bradcast quoted a German war ministry official statement today as saying "we must be prepared for a German withdrawal from France."

"We must expect the loss of places with world-famous names," the statement said with a scarcely-veiled reference to Paris.

The broadcast, by the German news agency Transocean, was recorded by the ministry of information.

The same agency quoted a military spokesman in Berlin as saying "no fresh German divisions can be sent to France. The troops in battle have been warned of this and have been ordered to fight to the last man."

Allied Conference

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower summoned his field commanders to an urgent conference which soon may be reflected in new and overwhelming blows to break the German grip on the whole of France.

The surging lines were developing a great enveloping movement west of Paris, where a senior British officer disclosed the Germans had rashly committed roughly half their crack 15th Army.

This was the first intimation that Field Marshal Gen. Guenther von Kluge had brought across the Seine important elements of his Army guarding the channel coast and the rocket roosts to try to extricate the already battered Seventh from the pifalls of Nor-

Mad Colonel At St. Malo Quits

LONDON, Aug. 18. (AP) — The mad Col. Andrews von Aulock has surrendered the citadel of St. Malo after holding out 11 days under heavy American fire.

The German high command announced today that "the garrison of St. Malo succumbed to enemy superiority."

A wounded veteran of the Caucasus fighting who pledged to turn the battle of the Breton port into "another Stalingrad," Aulock was reported in a DNB broadcast to have messaged the fuehrer: "Further resistance had to cease as a result of lack of food. The fight is over. Heil Hitler."

Earlier the colonel had reported: "One fortification after another is being reduced to rubble under very heavy fire. If we perish it will be only after a fight to the end."

St. Malo was cut off and placed under attack Aug. 7 during the lightning jab of Lt. Gen George S. Patton's U. S. Third Army across the Brittainy peninsula.

The Berlin radio announced that Hitler had conferred the Oak Leaves to the Knight's Cross of the Iron Cross upon Aulock for his fight. He had won the Knight's Cross for his work on the eastern front.

Allied headquarters confirmed that the St. Malo citadel had fallen, but gave no indication whether Aulock was captured.

GREENVILLE, Tex., Aug. 18. (AP) — Two Majors Field fliers, an instructor and his student, were killed today when their plane crashed near Commerce.

The instructor was Lt. Manley T. Olson, 23, Willmar, Minn. His student was Robert G. Green, 22, Pontiac, Mich.

Wholesale Flight By Nazis Is Indicated

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Nazi propaganda agencies began preparing the German people for the shock of wholesale flight—on the eastern front pattern—from large sections of France today and announced that Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's armored spearheads had already reached within 12 miles of Paris.

The early removal of the puppet French government to some place safer than Vichy was hinted at by the German foreign office.

The German agency Transocean said Patton's main thrust was along the "high road leading to Versailles," a western suburb of Paris.

War Of Movement

"The war of movement in the greater area neighboring Paris has led to a series of heavy battles during the last 24 hours," it reported.

Hitler's personal newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter frankly said the German Army would pull out whatever necessary to "maintain operational freedom" and to keep the forces in being until miracle weapons could "change the whole aspect of the war."

The paper said, "this final goal is more important than holding French towns and departments."

Nazi Defense Strategy

The Transocean military commentator Ludwig Sertorius said "the strategy of German defense will be changed or already has been changed" as a result of rapid Allied advances between the middle Seine and middle Loire.

"As during the various phases of the eastern campaign, elastic defense in deep space now seems also applicable in the west," he said. "Mobility of the enemy will be counteracted by mobility of defense.

In this defense there will be no striving rapidly to use available reserves, but rather to keep them back and concentrate them for counter blows when the opportune moment arrives."

Big Scale Withdrawals

This comparison with the collapse of the eastern front suggested that the Germans were preparing withdrawals on a much vaster scale than retreats thus far.

A German foreign office spokesman, meanwhile, hinted that Vichy chief of government Pierre Laval would soon join Benito Mussolini as Hitler's guest inside Germany.

The spokesman said the removal of the Vichy government to some safer place was being considered and "it is possible that an announcement will be made tomorrow."

Yanks Lunge Behind Toulon

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

ROME, Aug. 18. — American Seventh Army troops smashed 20 miles inland behind the great naval base of Toulon today, threatening a wide outflanking movement along a main highway leading to the Rhone valley, while behind them a great striking force was being built up on the French Riviera.

Toulon also was threatened by a coastal drive which smashed into the vicinity of Oilles-Pont, only six miles northeast of the stronghold.

TOULON TO FALL SOON

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—The British radio, in a broadcast recorded by U. S. government monitors, quoted one of its correspondents tonight as saying that "Toulon is going to fall, and fall very soon" to the enveloping attacks of the U. S. Seventh Army.

"The Germans have thrown up a hastily built screen of mobile guns and infantry to give protection to the rest of their men as they pulled out of the city," said the correspondent, Vaughn Thomas. "They were blowing up bridges and mining the roads, but not on a scale big enough to check our advance."

Headquarters announced the known American assault casualties for the southern French invasion were only 300, an almost incredibly low figure, and said 7,000 German prisoners had been taken in a count still far from complete.

Enroute To Rhone Valley

Battle-hardened veterans of Africa, Italy and Sicily under Maj-Gen. Alexander M. Patch, hero of Guadalcanal, punched inland to the vicinity of Brignoles, 20 miles due north of Toulon. The city is on the main highway leading to Marseille and Aix-En Provence, and ultimately to the wide Rhone valley leading to northern France.

American planes struck behind the German lines in the Rhone valley, intent on choking lines of retreat or reinforcement, and other American bombers smashed the French battleship Strasbourg in Toulon harbor, where it was being used by the Nazis as a coastal fortress.

Parisians Await Uprising Signal

By ALEX SINGLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 18—A mysterious voice broke in on the long-silent wavelength of the Axis-controlled Paris radio today and shouted in German, "they're coming," as strong French underground warriors awaited the signal for an uprising timed with the entry of American tank columns now probing the French capital's environs.

Paris, anticipating deliverance, has the biggest and most well-knit force of all the resistance groups in France, Col. Jean Drumont, a blond 33-year-old French underground leader, told a press conference here today.

Plans Not Revealed

For security reasons Drumont did not say what Paris' shadow Army was going to do when the Americans reach Paris. The name Drumont is an assumed one because this highest ranking resistance officer yet to reach London still has a wife and two daughters in France.

But he said Paris' patriots were the largest group of a total force stronger than the pre-war French standing Army of 50,000 men.

The Swiss radio quoted a Vatican report that the pope might intervene in an effort to spare destruction of Paris.

Frenchmen here were grimly expectant that the Germans would both put up a fight and try to damage the city as much as possible, in retaliation for the bombings of Berlin.

In Vichy, the "city of shame," French collaborators apparently had their bags packed for flight if they had not already gone to Germany.

Texas Pros React Violently To Germany Patronage Plan

AUSTIN, Aug. 18. (AP) — Pro-Roosevelt Democrats today assailed a proposal that Democratic electors of Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi pledge themselves to a common program.

What drew their fire was a suggestion by E. B. Germany of Dallas, nominee for elector-at-large in Texas, that elector nominees in the other states might, by uniting in a single program, "spell the difference between the Democratic and Republican control of patronage in the next four years."

Texas' Democratic national committeeman, Myron G. Blalock of Marshall asserted in an interview in Austin:

"It's a fine come off when we Texas Democrats have to find out from Mississippi what are the secret plans of Texas Democratic electors. We have at last learned that at least some of them plan to sabotage the Democratic party."

"Mr. Germany has at last revealed unwittingly that he and others purporting to run as Democratic presidential electors, if elected, hope to embezzle enough electoral votes from the Democrats of Texas that they can control patronage," declared Herman Jones of Austin, a leader among Pro-Roosevelt Texas forces.

In Dallas, Germany in an interview given the Dallas News asserted the Texas electors named by the regular state convention were not interested in controlling any patronage of any kind.

"None of the regular Texas

Patriot Mobs In Chartres Go Wild As City Is Freed

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHARTRES, Aug. 16. (Delayed) —French mobs, celebrating the end of four years of Nazi rule, ran mad with freedom today.

Townsfolk beat up collaborationists, shaved the heads of 30 women who consorted with German troops and clashed in bloody street battles with enemy snipers.

Some 150 resistance leaders seized arms and began attacking Germans inside the city at 7 a. m. yesterday as American troops assaulted the town's defense perimiter with antitank guns.

Five resistance patriots were killed in running street fights with the last hundred Germans in Chartres but their uprising forced the enemy to abandon his delaying stand. At 7 p. m. today Chartres was free.

All day gendarmes were busy restraining men, women and children of this city of 25,000. They surged around the gates of the iron-barred perfecture. Each new German prisoner marched into the enclosure was greeted with jeers, catcalls and derisive "heil Hitlers."

These prisoners, looking dazed like punchdrunk boxers, showed fear of the crowd and walked silently through the storm of outcries. Periodically the French broke into "a Marseillaise," singing with fierce revolutionary fervor of Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities" characters.

One small courtyard was covered with the hair of sheared women callaborators. Each new sus-

Aug. 18, 1944

DEAR:—

Happenings of late seem to present a potpourri of news and we hope you don't think we are complaining when we tell you about certain things. There is the matter of shortages for instance:

Lubbockites, with other Texans, are facing an acute ready-rolled cigarette shortage, with no relief in sight. Even those who have switched to rolling their own are confronted with an increasing shortage of tobacco for that purpose. We haven't checked into the snuff situation yet.

The supply of ice in Lubbock still is somewhat short of demand with no immediate relief and those who work have reported that the milk supply isn't what it used to be by the time they get to the stores. Paper sacks are scarce. Another paper salvage drive has been set here for Aug. 27, to help meet a shortage evidenced in manufacturing concerns.

We are not complaining (of course you call it something else in the service) but we thought you might like to know that shortages that have been felt in other sections for months at last are making themselves known in Lubbock.

Dendy-McLeroy Vows Are Read

Miss Wanetah Clydell McLeroy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. McLeroy of Brownfield and Cpl. Louie Burton Dendy, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Dendy of Plainview were married June 4 at a chapel of Fort Jackson, S. C.

Palms, baskets of white gladioli, white carnations, ferns, bridal wreath and candles decorated the altar and chapel. "Indian Love Call," "I Love You Truly," and "Because" were played.

The bride wore navy blue with white accessories, a shoulder length veil, a corsage of white gladioli and a hat of white flowers.

Mrs. W. W. Wilson, Somerville, Tenn., matron of honor, wore an aqua dress with white accessories and a carnation and babies' breath corsage. Cpl. Dendy was attended by Sgt. Elmer Butterworth of Baxter Springs, Kan.

The recessional was under an arch of crossed rifles with fixed bayonets held by 12 honor guards.

A wedding dinner was served at the Wade Hampton hotel in Columbia, S. C.

The bride graduated from Brownfield High school and Wayland and Howard Payne colleges. She taught in the Draw-Redwine schools near Tahoka the past year.

Truman Accepts Party's Nomination

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18. (U.P.)—Sen. Harry S. Truman, D., Mo., democratic vice presidential nominee, today accepted the vice presidential nomination of the Liberal party of New York.

Notification of the endorsement was given Truman by a Liberal party committee composed of Dean Alfange, Alex Rose, chairman, and Harold Baer, secretary.

"It makes me confident that all the liberal elements of the country are behind the Democratic ticket," Truman said in response to Rose's statement that "election of the Roosevelt-Truman ticket is now the hope of the progressive forces of our nation and the best guarantee for successful termination of the war and an enduring peace."

The Liberal party in New York state "will poll 400,000 votes and assure New York's 47 electoral votes for Roosevelt and Truman," Rose said.

Human bones about 10,000 years old were found in California in 1943.

Littlefield High FFA Camp To Close Today

Fourteen Future Farmers of America members from upperclassmen of Littlefield High school will break camp this morning at Panhandle-South Plains fairground, after having spent two days there, cooking, boxing, swimming and, in general, having what they called a "swell time."

They will return to school, which will be convened Aug. 28, and a vocational agriculture department that probably will number 40 freshmen students, 20 upperclassmen—an "unprecedented agriculture class" for the Littlefield schools.

In charge of the group was Elwin Matthews, newly-employed vocational agriculture teacher and the class' FFA adviser. Matthews, graduated in 1942 from the agricultural division of Texas Technological college, taught vocational agriculture the last two years at Lakeview, Hall county.

Boys in the encampment were Kenneth Bales, FF9 chapter reporter, Lewis Fields, Robert Kloiber, Cuttis Kloiber, Dal Brandon, Vernon Wright, Jack Pritchard, R. L. Brewster, Bob Solesby, Leslie Lichte, J. L. Harris, Billy Ross, Lexi Coble, and Gerald Rountree.

Lichte and Bales this year were awarded the Lone Star Farmer degree, an honorary award in recognition of FFA contributions and associated club projects.

Postwar Problems To Be Before Convention

AUSTIN, Aug. 18. (AP)—Liberal consideration for postwar problems of the returning soldier and of civilian should be given in framing a state party platform at the Democratic convention in Dallas Sept. 12, Governor Coke R. Stevenson declared today.

At a press conference the governor, answering a question, said he had not reached a decision on recommending a keynote speaker for the meet.

National Committeeman Myron G. Blalock of Marshall was in Austin and scheduled a conference with the governor. Interviewed before he met the govrnor Blalock said he was making no plans for the Sept. 12 convention.

"I am still campaigning for harmony, you might say," Blalock declared.

Hitler's Paper Hints Abandonment Of Paris

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 18 (U.P.) — The Berlin Voelkischer Beobachter, Adolf Hitler's own newspaper, hinted strongly today that the Germans may be forced to abandon Paris, the German-controlled Scandinavia telegraphe reported.

The newspaper said editorially that the high command may be forced to give up important places and "cities" in the battle area of France.

"The German war aim now is to give the war a new face through the total mobilization of the home front," the newspaper was quoted as saying. "This aim is more important than districts, even cities of worldwide reputation."

The Right Spirit, Anyway

WHILE Congress is due criticism for the kind of law it passed designed to keep political propaganda out of the hands of men and women in the Armed Forces, it is entitled to credit for prompt recognition of its mistake and for immediate steps to correct it.

Even in its original form, there was nothing wrong with the purpose of the anti-propaganda bill. It sought, simply, to insure that no one side or another could hold or seize an advantage of access to the men and women in uniform in political matters. It attempted to erect safeguards against the sort of officials who might favor their own ideas and candidates in the "literature" which reached members of the Armed Forces.

Congress attempted to provide this protection because it was needed. Something had to be done to curb the politically-minded within the shrewd New Deal-Labor administration who attempted to color the political news supplied the Armed Forces according to their own ideas. It was a condition which demanded correction.

But, in attempting to correct it, Congress simply went to far. The law, and the manner of its enforcement, went to absurd extremes. Under the law as enacted, the Bible might have been banned without conflict with strict and literal interpretations of the measure. The effect was not to insure that people in the Armed Forces were supplied with all the information and arguments pertinent to political questions. The effect was to try to keep from them everything and anything which, by any stretch of the imagination, might suggest a political flavor.

Congress, of course, was to blame for having passed a measure susceptible of such ridiculous interpretation and enforcement. Perhaps, also, the judgment of those who went beyond the intent of the law in their enforcement of it is open to critical question. Possibly if discretion had been applied to the enforcement, the law might have been satisfactory in its original form.

But the fact remains that is was enforced "to the letter." It also seems to be a conceded fact that those who did the enforcing stuck strictly to the law. It is a further fact that, under this plan, it operated as a gag which discriminated against people in the Armed Forces.

Under the circumstances, the only thing to do was to take corrective steps. This Congress apparently has tried to do. While it would have been better to have done the job right in the beginning, corrective measures were the next best course—the only course to follow under the conditions that existed.

Uncle Sam'l Pays And Pays

WHILE it may not be anything to criticise, some figures anent taxation which were reported a few days ago by Rep. Robert L. Doughton, chairman of the House Ways and Means committee, were interesting and illuminating.

With the comment that, "the American people now bear the heaviest tax load in the world," Mr. Doughton reported that the per capita tax paid in the United States during 1943-44 was $357, compared with $291 in the British Isles and $261 in Canada.

The explanation and justification for this condition might be, of course, that Americans are better able to pay higher taxes, and have more left after they are paid, than either the British or Canadians. Whether such a condition actually does exist, we do not pretend to know, and Mr. Doughton did not say.

Of somewhat similar implication to these figures was the recent report in London that Great Britain's national debt at the end of the war is expected to be 75 billion dollars. Uncle Sam's already is nearly 210 billions, by next July 1 it is expected to be 260 billions, and when victory is won, 300 billions or more.

As remarked, criticsm of these facts might be inappropriate. But they certainly emphasize that Uncle Sam is carrying his full share of the financial burdens—as well as the real sacrifices—of the global war.

"Women in the services are being taught how to camouflage themselves." Don't compare this with teaching a duck to swim. This kind of camouflage is different—it is to enable them to fool their enemies, rather than their friends.

"To keep a snake from biting you, croon to it," advises a herpetologist. There are some things we wouldn't stop to doing, even to keep a snake from biting us. Crooning is one of them.

"What do you think of modern jive music?" some one asks. Well, we think it compares favorably with an outboard motor running wide open, to the accompaniment of a community catfight.

The One Minute Sermon

Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.

Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls.

For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light. St. Matthew 11: 28-30.

AIR RAID

XIX

The stretcher-bearer who brought a seriously wounded man from the dressing station asked urgently at the reception desk to talk to me. Caroline was on duty and of course Caroline, using her best spinister manner, told the bearer that his request was unusual and therefore out of the question. But he insisted and hurried into the ward to search for me. We met in the mess hall and he handed me a little note bearing the inscription: Personal, important. It came from Mali.

Dear Charlotte:

Do what you can to keep Elizabeth out of the operating room if by chance she should attend this case. It is Captain Peters, Elizabeth's captain, remember? And he is in bad condition. I recognized him at once when I gave him a transfusion—though he has changed a lot. I hope to see you at Christmas if the enemy permits it.

Love,

Mali.

I hurried back with the stretcher-bearer and helped him to the operating room. Fredda was on duty as usual with two other nurses, not from the Foreign Legion. I tried to tell her about Captain Peters while she shouted at the sterilizing nurse. "Have you got creeping paralysis or are you just naturally slow?"

"Did you hear me, Fredda?" I said. "Will you promise to send Elizabeth away if she happens to come in?"

Using long-handled forceps just out of lyson solution to carefully lay all the pladgets she would need on a sterile towel, she sneered, "How wonderful it must be to have such a kind heart!"

"You promise?" I insisted.

"Yes, sugar, I do."

She looked marvelously beautiful and cool. Her fichu would have done credit to a Chinese laundry and her cap topped her brown hair like a piece of French pastry.

The two nurses were cutting Captain Peters' clothes off, and seeing this bloodless gray-green mass of flesh dozing in comfortingmorphine unconscienciousness I thought about his last words at the airport; "I claim you as my bodyguard, Elizabeth, when I enter the Brandenburger Tor in Berlin."

I searched for Elizabeth and asked her to assist me in dressing some patients, feigning a headache that prevented me from doing the work alone. She agreed at once and so I had her under observation for the next couple of hours.

Only after Captain Peters was taken to his bed did I tell Elizabeth the truth and went over to him with her.

"Poor man," she whispered on seeing the immobile face that seemed to be made only of hollows and bones. But she kept her control as always and nothing indicated that she once may have had deeper emotions.

The Captain suffered from enormous flesh wounds in the upper part of his right thigh which had made him lose too much blood, and from an erring bullet that was still wandering through his body when he came in.

"If he pulls through," Dr. Merrill said after the operation, "he might be partly paralyzed."

"Legs?" Elizabeth asked succinctly.

"No, upper part; but it is as doubtful as the whole case."

AT NIGHT, in bed when you close your eyes and still have the strength left for a little thinking, and you, of course, think about the hospital, you cannot help but feel good about it. There is something great in its spirit. There is so much honesty and sincerity. Soldiers say there are no atheists in a foxhole; well, there are no evil men in a hospital. You learn to believe in life in a field hospital, despite pain and death, and you believe in America, too. You know America will win, regardless of the wounds the enemy sends into your house.

LAST night, Dr. Merrill planned a contribution of his own to Dr. Levin's evening concert. He intended to tell the story of our three German prisoners and the consequent discovery of a first-class fifth column nest in Sidi Bel Gavar, in the house of Sheik Mustapha Abdel Kur. What was once a spy center and pickup depot for escaped German prisoners had now been satisfactorily fumigated by the Americans. Dr. Merrill got an honorable citation for the detective work we had done and intended to read this letter and to re-enact the little scene I had staged with the Jerries. But we were due for a surprise. An unwelcomed surprise in the middle of a masterly played Bach fugue. We had all heard the noise of a bomber overhead but, not being trained to differentiate between the sound of a Jerry plane and one of our own, didn't pay particular attention to it until a tremendous explosion somewhere in the village shook the whole building.

"Stay in!" ordered Dr. Merrill to the flock of nurses who wanted to follow him out. Dr. Levin, his big ears red with anger, threw his violin into Miss Fryberg's arms and shouted. "The dirty swine are aiming at a hospital!" He was out in two leaps.

We stayed rooted to the spot. Knowing the German predilection for bombing hospitals, the barracks did not have the Red Cross insignia painted on their roofs. The village, completely blacked out, could not be spotted from the sky. Then how come? Was this just one of those Easter parades when planes lay their eggs at random, or did the Heinies actually know the position of our hospital and bomb it on purpose?

Texas' Lamb Crop Is Larger Than In 1943

AUSTIN, Aug. 18. (AP)—Texas' 1944 lamb crop is estimated at 4,589,000 head, approximately 2.5 per cent larger than the 1943 crop, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reported today.

This year's savings of lambs is considerably larger than the average for the 10-year period (1933-42) of 3,865,000 head but is smaller than the 1941 and 1942 crops.

Ewes on hand last Jan. 1 were estimated at 6,464,000 head, the lowest number for that date since 1940.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

MY hat is off to the Long Island judge who has just handed down a decision that a school principal has the right to spank a recalcitrant pupil.

A father had his 10-year-old boy's prinicpal arrested for applying the rod to his offspring's posterior, after said offspring had been warned several times for mistreating other pupils.

The judge held that a principal has the same legal status as a parent who takes a mischevious youngster to the woodshed, providing that the punishment is not unreasonable in manner or immoderate in degree.

Somehow this decision took be back to my own youth.

My most beloved teacher was a very stern and very old man—he must have been all of 40, and you know how old that is to a youngster of 12!

Whenever we did something wrong he made us come up to his desk with our own ruler.

"Hold out your hand," he would say, "palm up."

And then, according to the severity of our misdemeanor, he would spank us soundly with our own ruler—sometimes five, sometimes 10, sometimes 20 times.

For extraordinary occasions he used his long bamboo stick —not on the hand, however.

"Lean over," he would say, and lean over we did.

OF all my teachers, although he was the strictest, I liked him best, and when I read of his death the other day, I felt that one of the fondest memories of my early life had died.

We had respect for our teachers in those days, and we had respect for our parents.

I can't imagine a teacher or a father being arrested for spanking his pupil or his son.

And as I look around me I see that those spanking fathers and teachers reared a pretty strong and useful generation.

I guess, maybe, you and I who still believe in old-time religion and old-time discipline and authority are just a bunch of old fogies.

Maybe when our folks spanked us, we should have run to the nearest police station.

But, as I write this, I am looking at my father's picture which is hanging on the wall.

He's gone a long time now—and somehow I don't think I could have ever turned him over to the cops.

And he spanked me plenty.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

TRADE unionists recently staged a show before Price Administration officials that attracted little notice, although it introduced an economic innovation that may bring about startling changes in the relations between labor and management.

Representatives of the Tobacco Workers' International union joined with a group of cigarette manufacturers to petition for an increase in the retail price of their product. The inspiration for this novel move came from the employes, not the employers.

The AFL-ers pointed out that six smaller firms had gone out of business in the last eight months, and that about 40 face liquidation unless Washington provides a remedy in a hurry.

OPA's failure to maintain a proper balance between ram material costs and the market value of the "smokes" was blamed for the companies' troubles and the unions' intervention.

CIGARETTES: Leaf tobacco prices have jumped from 17 cents in 1940 to 45 at the present time, with growers demanding an even higher return. Some planters have refused to sell their crops in an effort to force OPA approval of another boost.

Meanwhile, the lid has been kept down on the retail charges for fags. As a result the processors have been "squeezed" into bankruptcy. AFL spokesmen rushed into the breach because the corporations in jeopardy have always been "friends of labor," and their disappearance would create unemployment. They also warned that present conditions would lead to "monopoly" and "undemocratic control" of the industry.

The petitioners did not ask relief for the "big four." They argued that makers of the popular brands were reaping profits from volume production and the sale of their wares to the Army and Navy. They also hinted that the present shortage of cigarettes will grow more acute unless their requests are granted.

NOMINEES: Tom Dewey's repeated reference to the "tired and quarrelsome old men in Washington" has prompted the suggestion that he may seek to reinforce his chances by giving an advance hint of his cabinet. It has led many people to ask why both candidates do not unveil their choices, especially in view of their heavy responsibilities in the post-war era.

American history might have been changed on several occasions if presidential candidates had tipped the voters off to their personnel plans as they do regarding their policies. It is quite probable that millions would not have voted for FDR if they had been forewarned of the appointment of Harold L. Ickes and "Miss" Frances Perkins.

The New York governor has given no sign of his preferences, but his aides have handed out a few pointers. There has been speculation about John Foster Dulles for State, Winthrop W. Aldrich of the Chase National bank for Treasury, Gen. Douglas MacArthur for War, and Eric A. Johnston, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, for the post of that name.

Mr. Roosevelt does not like to hurt his associates' feelings, but his friends intimate that he will make some changes if re-elected. Secretaries Cordell Hull, Henry Stimson and Jesse Jones may retire by reason of age, although they are the strong men of the official family. "Miss" Perkins may be eased out. Henry Wallace may return to Agriculture if he does not get a diplomatic assignment.

INFLATION: Confidential dispatches from Germany reflect a state of civilian worry and unrest which may have more important implications than the abortive revolt of the Junker generals. They suggest that the home front has begun to crack as it did in 1918.

Hitler's people are paying off their mortgages instead of investing in Reich bonds. Strange as it may seem, Der Fuehrer has allowed the home-loving Germans considerable latitude in the handling of their savings after taxes and extraordinary levies on their incomes.

Several reasons are advanced for the flow of funds into real estate liquidation. The Herrenvolk have apparently lost all hope of victory, and doubt the future value of Nazi securities. They recall the 1918-1929 inflation, and are putting their cash into land. The return on governments is much lower than the interest savings from reduction or retirement of their mortgages.

This news caused more rejoicing in high places here than word of the military putsch.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

WIDELY different fortunes have fallen lately to the two weapons—submarine and robot bomb —on which Hitler counted to win the war.

We did not bag the wolf packs that had been slinking in Brittany harbors but we stamped out their dens. Until recently, 75 per cent of the U-boats that still prey occasionally on Atlantic convoys were based in Brest, St. Nabaire and Lorient.

The only southern hideouts now available to Admiral Karl Doenitz are at Bordeaux and La Pallice on the Bay of Biscay, and these ports may soon be denied the enemy. But the ships in this area can no longer be supplied by sea. It is now too risky an undertaking to run the gantlet past Brittany, and Normandy and through the closely guarded English Channel to home repair yards.

COLLAPSE: Knowledge that they are hemmed in everywhere will do much to break the spirit of the sailors.

In the first World war, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin Roosevelt overruled conservative naval opinion and allowed Admiral Frederick R. Harris to string the famous mine barrage from Scotland to Norway. (Of course in those days the Kaisers underwater craft could only operate from German harbors.)

Post war investigation of Berlin official records revealed that when the U-boat crews realized that they would almost certainly be blown up if they attempted to slip out through the Channel or the North Sea, their morale was shattered. The chain of mines, more than all other factors, prompted the navy mutiny that ushered in the collapse of Germany.

The Nazis are now in the same plight. Today's North Sea cordon is a fleet of watchful craft and airplanes and the whole coast of France has become a perilous shore.

DAMAGED: Hitler's navy no longer is of much consequence except to bother the Russians in the Baltic Sea and perhaps protect evacuations from Finland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, and East Prussia. His surface armada consists of one disabled battleship—the Tirpitz partially wrecked by the British —one injured battle cruiser, two pocket battleships, two heavy cruisers, two light cruisers, less than 25 destroyers, two French battleships—reflected after they were scuttled at Toulon—and two Italian capital ships.

The French and Italian vessels are still unfit for combat. All of the men-of-war-except the damaged Tirpitz are bottled up in the Baltic.

WARNINGS: Hitler is more successful for the moment with his robot bomb. It is believed that he hopes to wear down the British population with this deadly contraption and thus force Downing Street to favor a negotiated peace.

American military men say that this terror weapon illustrates the perennial German weakness—amounting almost to a craze—for side issues. Although expert in orthorox tactics, they chase after trick instruments and then fail to use the inventions soon enough or in sufficient quantity to effect favorable decisions. Their Paris long-range gun and use of gas in the last war, and the huge armored subs launched in this, are a few examples.

Censors permit publications of the severe punishment London is taking. The silence of "The Things" keeps peoples' nerves on edge day and night. Writing of insurance policies is booming. But less news is released of what is happening in the farm belt of "Southern England."

"Ducks Unlimited" Getting Job Done For Sportsmen

By BRACK CURRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

THOUGH "Ducks Unlimited in Texas" sportsmen at this southern terminus of the nation's two greatest flyways are backing the wildfowl conservation program which in five short years has more than trebled the wild duck population of North America.

About a dozen Texas cities already have contributed amounts ranging from $100 to $10,000 for a "Texas Lakes Duck Factory" in the nesting grounds of south central Alberta, Canada.

When the $35,000 "Duck Factory" is completed it will contain seven lakes named for the seven Texas cities whose sportsmen contribute the most to support of Ducks Unlimited by Feb. 28, 1945.

Water To Be Protected

On the proposed location are a series of shallow lakes and marshes fed by a small stream which cannot supply sufficient water to last through the dry season. In early spring ducks flock to this area, build their nests and raise their broods until the water dries up.

Drouth, fire and predators then destroy the young ducklings before they can take wing. Through "Ducks Unlimited," the water supply to the lakes will be augmented by turning a small nearby creek into the area and by building dikes and dams.

Near Pemukan, a station on the Canadian Pacific railway, a banding station and cabin will be built on the project which lies in one of the most promising of all Canada's nesting areas.

IN 1938 over 4,000 American duck hunters subscribed $100,000 to start the "Ducks Unlimited" program in Canada. Canada gave full cooperation, including free grants and easements on all lands required. Over 3,000 Canadians volunteered to work without compensation with "Ducks Unlimited's" field staff of engineers and naturalists.

From 1938 to 1943 North America's duck population soared from 40,000,000 to 125,000,000 in spite of the fact that during those five years hunting restrictions were steadily liberalized. Up to and including 1938, although hunting restrictions were made more and more stringent, the duck census was fast approaching the level from which a vanishing point would be visible.

"Ducks Unlimited" undertook the restoration and management of the last remaining important duck breeding grounds on the continent in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Field studies revealed that 70 per cent of the annual duck crop was being destroyed in these areas before the American hunter fired a shot.

Of 100,000,000 prospective ducks, drouth killed 20 per cent (20,000,000), crows and magpies 15 per cent, fire 12 per cent, pike eight per cent, other predators seven per cent, farming operations, disease, Indians and other factors 11½ per cent.

After six years of practical restoration work, "Ducks Unlimited" in this country has grown to an organization of over 25,000 sportsmen and conservationists. They have contributed $700,000 to increase duck production in the breeding grounds.

THIS money has been used to establish over 1,100,000 areas of safe refuges, construct over 100 permanent dams, exvacate over 90 emergency reservoirs, fight waterfowl diseases, reduce nest destruction by farming operations, organize destruction of 1,700,000 crows and magpies, and build 350 miles of fences and fire guards.

Results have been phenomenal. Millions more ducks have been produced—at an estimated cost of only three cents a duck!

Until 1943 Texas had been laggard in its financial support of "Ducks Unlimited" although this state receives by far the greatest benefit from the work being done. Texas contributions had approximatly $5,000 a year.

"Sporting Proposition" Made

In the spring of 1943, Tom Main, general manager of "Ducks Unlimited" (Canada) made his annual trip to this part of the nation showing his moving picture and lecturing on Ducks Unlimited work in various Texas cities.

While in Houston he made a sporting proposition to John R. Suman, D. U. Chairman for Texas and vice president of the Humble Oil and Refining company. Main said he would build a "Texas Duck Factory" in Canada if Texas would assume its proper share in contributing to the work in the Canadian nesting grounds.

SUMAN accepted Main's proposition and the first year's work resulted in about 400 per cent increase in contributions from Texas, moving the state from near the bottom to third place in the list of contributors. Main was so pleased with the results of this limited solicitation that he immediately had a preliminary survey made in Alberta for the ambitious "Texas Lakes Duck Factory" project.

NET PROFIT REPORTED

DETROIT, Aug. 18. (AP) — Graham-Paige Motors corp. today reported net profit of $814,161 for the six months ended June 30, 1944, after reserves of $893,000 for federal taxes and contingencies.

New York State is said by some to have been discovered by Verrazano, a Florentine in the Frech service, in 1524—and rediscovered by Henry Hudson in 1609.

SELECTED STOCKS RISE

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—Selective progress continued in today's stock market but the move was restricted by some cashing in on the recent upswing and a little evening up by customers in preparation for the lengthy week-end.

Bullishness over the Allied sweep in Europe and the likely fall of the Nazis in the near future again was reflected in issues with a peace rating.

While there were scattered strong spots from the start in fairly lively dealings, extreme advances generally were reduced and there was an assortment of losers at the close.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .1 of a point at 55.7, its third successive advance. It was a broad market, 921 issues appearing. Of these, 474 were up against 447 down or unchanged transfers totalled 1,151,520 shares compared with 1,238,225 yesterday.

Cotton . .

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 25 to 45 cents a bale higher today in active trading partly stimulated by belief that official announcement of higher print cloth textile ceiling prices by the Office of Price administration might be imminent.

Values fell off 40 cents a bale in early trading under profit-taking but the market rallied sharply on a resumption of mill and commission house buying.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 18 (AP) — Cotton, after early declines, advanced here today on buying which was induced by reports that the OPA had raised ceiling prices on many types of cotton textiles. Closing prices were very steady 10 to 35 cents a bale higher.

and only 35 miles from Krakow, last big German position before Silesia.

Drive In Estonia

In Estonia, units of Gen. Ivan Maslennikov's Third Baltic Army yesterday crossed the narrow channel linking Lakes Pskov and Peipus, seized a six-mile-wide strip of territory on the west side and drove nine miles inland in a push toward Tartu, Estonia's second city with a population of 60,000.

In Latvia, another Soviet Army captured 30 localities, including Rami, 5 miles southwest of the rail junction of Madona and nearby Marciena, 73 miles east of Riga.

West of the Lithuanian town of Siauliai the Russians admitted that German forces "at the cost of enormous losses" had driven a slight wedge into Russian lines. This is the area where Gen. Ivan Bagramian's First Baltic Army poises a threat on the northeastern side of East Prussia.

"Schirwindt is burning," one Soviet flier reported. "Let them burn it. Now they are burning their own, not ours."

Not Yet Across Frontier

Russian artillery poured shells into German territory, and Soviet planes pounded the enemy inside East Prussia, but there was no specific information that even Russian patrols had yet crossed the frontier under Premier-Marshall Joseph Stalin's instructions to "finish the crippled beast in his lair."

Moscow military men did not necessarily expect an immediate Russian crossing into East Prussia, which is threatened on the northeast in the area of Schirwindt, 43 miles southeast of the rail city of Tilsit, and also in the southeast near the Biebrza river.

They said this reaching of the frontier might be a Russian dramatic screen for something even bigger in another sector—perhaps northeast of besieged Warsaw in Poland or west of the Vistula river below Warsaw.

Patriots Go Wild

pect was dragged in and sat in a chair. Her head was shaved by a barber. "He makes no charge," laughed a pretty French girl onlooker.

They looked sadly funny, these stolid, ugly women with knobby legs, ungainly bodies and heads like newborn pelicans. Most went through the ordeal in silence but one 18-year-old girl afterward ran behind a door and sobbed, "I have no mother, no father. I am alone. I have not been with Germans."

"She lies," said a woman with a rifle slung over her shoulder. Men forcibly led the girl through the streets so all could see her shame.

Inquisitive Women Find Out, All Right

HOUSTON, Aug. 18. (AP) — Curiosity paid off in reverse today for nine inquisitive women shoppers.

Noting that a cruising police car had stopped a woman in the middle of a downtown street, the women hastened across the thoroughfare to ask what was going on.

They found out. A patrolman was writing a jay walking ticket and obligingly doled out nine additional tickets for them.

Democrats' Scrap

electors are on any government payroll" Germany was quoted, "nor do they expect to be. National Committeeman Myron G. Blalock has always controlled the Texas patronage.

"We figure that the Democratic administration and those now in control of the party, rather than lose patronage to the Republicans, which they might do if the election were thrown into the house by united action of southern electors not willing to vote for the nominees, would give the South recognition of the demands as presented in resolutions from the Texas delegation."

The demands were for restoration of states' rights, restoration of the two-thirds rule, abatement of an alleged effort to break down segreation laws and the rights of the states to control their own party affairs.

Germany's proposal was revealed by Judge Rich C. Russell, a Mississippi presidential elector nominee who announced he had received a letter from Germany suggesting the program might enable the South to "remedy some of the evils that were perpetrated at the national convention."

Blalock has been canvassing Texas elector nominees to determine how many of them will, if elected, support the Roosevelt-Truman ticket. These nominees, named at the state convention here May 23—from which pro-Roosevelt forces split—were not bound to support the party's nominees unless the national convention met certain conditions.

Woman's Long Search For Brother Success

BIG SPRING, Aug. 18 (AP)—Mrs. Frank Graf last saw her brother, Earl Dorman, a bootmaker, in Wichita, Kans., 22 years ago. She had made a practice of inquiring for him at all bootshops. She found him here this week. Both of them had been living in Big Spring about nine months.

ward elements of the Seventh Army drove against only slight opposition three miles west and southwest of captured Draguignan, the road center 16 miles west-northwest of Frejus.

Another General Taken

Headquarters announced the drives inland had brought capture of a second Nazi general in two days, and said this general professed amazement at the news of the Normandy and Brittany campaigns in the north and the German reverses near East Prussia.

German defenses crumbled in many sectors, and as yet the Nazis had mustered no big-scale resistance. There was no indication of what the hard-pressed Nazi command might be able to do to reinforce its battered troops.

The total losses of 300 in killed, wounded and missing for the three veteran American divisons and other units forming the initial assault force also appeared to be an unchallenged record of the war.

Unhampered on the beaches, the Allies were building up their forces and supplies with surprising speed.

Geared For Speed

"We are pouring in troops and materiel at a faster rate probably than any other amphibious operation. This campaign is geared for speed and tremendous power although it had to begin on exceedingly narrow beachheads," Allied headquarters said.

Headquarters was silent on the exact present size of the beachhead. The latest official report was that it extended 50 miles air line from east to west, and front dispatches placed Allied units more than 30 miles inland.

French and American units had driven to four miles from Cannes on the east, where they captured La Napoule, a coastal village. Allied headquarters made no comment on a German report that the invaders had driven into Cannes.

War In Pacific

Ichang region of Hupeh province was marked by fighting in the Kingmen sector, 55 miles northeast of Ichang.

American bombing planes were attacking the Japanese throughout China's battle areas.

The Japanese were resisting bitterly in western Yunnan province where the Chinese, seeking to reopen the old Burma road, have been smashing against three major objectives — Tengchung, Lungling and Mangshin.

The defeated Japanese retreating from northeast India were leaving the Tiddim road strewn with dead and war materials.

Allied planes blasted Japanese installations along the Chindwin river in Burma and sank or damaged 50 water craft. They also attacked Nippon positions in north Burma.

Doctor Wants Jeep For Mountain Roads

PRESTONBURG, Ky., Aug. 18 (AP)—Dr. J. G. Archer has asked the Smaller War Plants corporation to aid him in getting a jeep.

The physician, who rides horseback over slippery mountain roads in the winter to doctor the families of 300 coal miners, wrote:

"It is my hope that I someday will have a jeep so that I might get to these people without going horseback or walking."

RED GLARE NO FIRE

HOUSTON, Aug. 18. (AP) — Mrs. Lilly Cochran spotted a bright red glare in her home today and hurriedly reported a fire. Five fire companies arrived to discover the glare to be a reflection of the sun in a pan of water.

Rugby, as it was originally played, called for from 40 to 100 players.

Nazi 15th Army Also Is Trapped

mandy.

Americans, British, Canadians, Poles, Dutch and Belgians—the last two disclosed for the first time to be in action—were in hot pursuit of the estimated 40,000 to 100,000 enemy troops who had squeezed form the Normandy pocket with the bulk of their tanks and were heading toward Rouen.

The staff officer declared their offensive power was spent, that from here on these German forces were capable only of rearguard action, and that in winning the battle of Normandy the Allies will have won the battle of France.

Both the Seventh and 15th—the only striking force the Germans had along the Atlantic wall—were estimated to have had up to 25 divisions at D-day.

Half of the 15th Army, it is estimated, was thrown into the lost battle of Normandy in the last two weeks and has been badly mauled. Refreshments brought in to guard the channel are believed to be low grade and spread all the way through the Low Countries.

400,000 Out of Action

(The United Nations radio at Algiers said 400,000 Germans had been put out of action in northern France and 60,000 more were surrounded in the ports of Brittany.)

The hesitant German command, not knowing where Allied blows were coming from, sent these important elements of the 15th into the cauldron of battle "in pieces and too late," the British officer said.

The German command was forced to this hard decision, he asserted, by Patton's drive to the Orleans gap south of Paris, through which the Germans were reinforcing their Normandy positions.

Supreme headquarters, lapsing into silence to mask possible new lightning blows, found occasion to announce officially that it was "unable to confirm" earlier reports that American forces were near Versailles.

Drive Across River

It did report, however, that American forces had widened their bridgehead over the Eure river both northeast and southeast of Dreux, only 20 miles from the Seine, a drive which apparently prompted the Germans to check their rush toward Paris and veer north toward Rouen.

Supreme headquarters said the Falaise - Argentan gap now had been narrowed to two miles—a frontline broadcast said it had snapped shut entirely around Trun, southeast of Falaise — and that Allied advances from the north threaten to split up what remained of the pocket into three parts.

Already those that could get through the gap had to straggle out southeast from Argentan, then move northeast toward the Seine, and before them was a position fraught with peril.

Nazis In Bottleneck

The sea was on the north, American armored might was on the south, the British and Canadians with their Allies were plunging in from the west, and the Seine, with all but one bridge blasted, was ahead.

Allied air fleets were out in great strength pounding the enemy on both sides of the Seine today.

The Germans were backing into a "Dunkerque" of their own at the Seine and, like the British in those black days of 1940, were summoning a motley fleet to try to get their forces away to fight again.

But it was difficult to see how the Germans could get much of their armor, on which they must rely for the show-down battle for France, across the river, which around Rouen is tidal, wide and deep.

Allied air might was loose under fair skies, and at least 23 of the 500 or more barges waiting to ferry the Germans across were destroyed within 24 hours along with 33 armored and 612 other vehicles trying to get them there.

Associated Press correspondent Edward D. Ball declared Patton's forces, blocking off this harried Army on the south, were "driving forward on the last lap toward Paris" from Chartres and were "rapidly shaping a wall of steel" on the outer approaches from Orleans to Dreux.

"Following the occupation of Chartres," he said, "our drive slackened somewhat to consolidate and let supplies catch up with forces whose spectacular gains Hitler's blitzkrieg look like horse cavalry."

American patrols ranged through the vicinity of Paris, where aerial reconnaissance had disclosed forces of German armor deployed west and northwest of Chartres, he reported.

The long-dormant German air force came to life and attempted to strike with its old fury against this menance around Dreux, and 50 enemy fighters were knocked down.

Heavy Shower Falls Here Late Friday

A heavy shower about 6 o'clock Friday night amounted to .51 of an inch at central fire station.

The shower, apparently limited to Lubbock and immediate areas, was heavy in some places, light in others.

The cloud swung south and southeast of Lubbock, leaving a streak of light moisture extending to Slaton. Precipitation moved north only to South Plains Army Air field. At Wolfforth, southwest of Lubbock, there was only a sprinkle.

The Santa Fe railway dispatcher at Slaton said that for the 24-hour period ending last night only Texico among the South Plains towns on its lines had reported rain, and that was a shower.

The temperature at 10 o'clock last night was 71 degrees, against a high of 88 at 3 p. m., West Texas Gas Co. reported.

Agreement General On Unified Command

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP) — President Roosevelt said today there is general agreement on the need for postwar merger of the Army and Navy into a single department under unified command.

But nothing will be done about it, he said at a news conference, until after the war.

The president's remarks were made while commenting on a magazine article in which his vice presidential running mate, Senator Harry S. Truman, urged unification of the services.

The president did not elaborate, but his comment indicated that opposition to the idea, largely within the Navy, has been overruled at the top command level.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18. (AP)—Lou Gignan, 52, charged with illegal soliciting, told magistrate's court today the only institution he was trying to promote was marriage.

A note he handed a woman, he said, was designed to promote romance between her and a mutual friend, a widower. "I was trying to get her married," he declared.

As they were walking home arm in arm, the friend without warning pulled a knife out of his pocket and stabbed Harris in the back.

FDR Says He Plans Talk With Churchill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18. (AP) — President Roosevelt told reporters today he expected to have another conference with Prime Minister Churchill soon, but would not become more specific as to the date.

At a news conference the president elaborated somewhat on his recent remark that Germany and Japan would be occupied regardless of whether they surrender before being over-run by Allied troops.

He said there was a rather general understanding with Russia and Britain on the question of occupying Germany, although all of the details cannot be planned in advance; and added in response to question that it would be just as easy to reach an understanding with China for occupation of Japan.

TOO MUCH MAN

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18. (AP) — William Percy, 22, who stands six feet eight without stilts, was seldom thrown for a loss as a star fullback for the Connellsville, Pa., High school eleven.

But he was thrown for a loss today — by the induction board. They turned him down because "he's just too big" to fit either in an Army bunk or a Navy hammock and besides as one examining officer said:

"He'd make too good a target."

McSpaden Upset By Bob Hamilton

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 18 (AP) Harold "Jug" McSpadden of Philadelphia, leading money winner of the year in golf, was bounced out of the National P. G. A. tournament today by Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind., 2 and 1.

It was Hamilton's first bid for the P. G. A. crown, but he had all the cool concentration of the veteran campaigner as he moved into the lead on the third nine and was never headed.

Tournament favorite Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., moved into the semi-finals with a 4 and 3 win over Willie Goggin, White Plains, N. Y., in the 36-hole quarter-finals today.

It was a runaway for Nelson, bidding for his second P. G. A. crown, and he breezed through 33 holes in seven under par figures for the Manito course.

The tournament's "giant killer," Charles Congdon, Tacoma, Wash., continued to hand out surprises by defeating veteran campaigner, Ed Dudley, Colorado Springs, 6 and 5. As a result the Tacoman will compare shots tomorrow with Nelson.

Ann Curtis Upsets Helser In 100 Meter

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 18. (AP)—Ann Curtis, phenomenal record breaker from San Francisco, upset Brenda Helser, defending titlist in the 100 meter free style race openings the A.A.U. National championship here tonight. Her time was 1:09.5.

In a rousing finish, so close the winner was in doubt for several minutes, the smiling blonde sensation from the Crystal Plunge club came from behind to win in her last few strokes.

Her triumph puts her on the road toward winning all four free style events, which she aspires to do.

Brenda Helser, Portland, Ore., Multnomah club, splashed to easy wins in both her preliminary and semi-final heats. She was twice clocked in 1:08.6, only .6 of a second off the championship mark set by Elizabeth Ryan, New York, in 1937.

Marie Corridon, New York women's Swimming Association, touched out Ann Curtis, San Francisco's record-breaking star, in the other semi-final of the century in a blanket finish. Her time was 1:09.8.

HOUSTON, Aug. 18 (AP) — A couple of no-hit performances featured the second round of the state A.S.A. softball tournament here today.

Andy Andrus, pitching for Ellington 55th, hurled hitless ball to eliminate Camp Normoyle, 1-0, in one of the feature games of the tourney. Seals and Eddie Cornitius collaborated in a no-hitter as Houston Coca Cola ousted Orange Naval, 4-0.

Houston Lindale Park was forced to go eight innings to gain a 1-0 decision over Biggs Field.

Junior Nines Play Friday Games Today

Two crucial American League junior baseball league games, scheduled for Friday afternoon, will be played this afternoon after Friday's rain caused the postponement of the games which would have closed the regular league schedule.

The league leading Optimist club will square off with the Junior Chamber of Commerce nine this afternoon at Chapman field, while at Tech field, the runner-ups, the Rotary club, tangle with the Lions club nine. This is the same schedule as was lined up for Friday.

Because of the large number of postponements that have been piled up during the last half race, another full schedule for the league will be played next week with all teams in the league still having at least one game to be played off with the Rotary club having three games next week and the Optimists billed for two.

The complete schedule for next week will be announced Sunday morning.

It was also announced Friday that the American Legion junior nine would tangle Sunday afternoon with the Army team from Lubbock Army Air Field. The two teams played two weeks ago with the Army nosing out a 5-4 victory.

EHMKE IS UPSET

HOUSTON, Aug. 18. (AP)—Top seeded Bernard Clinton of Dallas was upset by Merrill Ehmke of San Antonio, 6-3, 8-6, in the men's singles as the Texas Amateur Athletic Federation tennis tournament opened here today.
