SNYDER SPOTLIGHT

By WACIL McNAIR

If any doubt existed, the approach of Christmas has been confirmed——official notice has been received that the Texas Cowboys' Christmas Ball will be held Dec. 21-23 in Anson. This annual event was inspired by Larry Chittenden's ballad by the same name. Chittenden, a poet-rancher, composed the ballad about 1890.

Over in Anson, they still hold to the 1890 ways when the big ball is held each year. The notice of this year's event emphasizes that participants must wear costumes of the 80's and 90's, to wit: long, full skirts, ruffles, hoops, polonaise, overskirts, basques, etc. Women and girls must not wear blue jeans, it says, and women dressed in trousers or slacks will be barred from the floor.

The men will wear old-time cowboy regalia, with red bandanas, plaid shirts and the like. A final notation on costume regulations may surprise some people—boots are considered optional.

Yes sir. The "cowboy" boots worn these days by movie stars, rodeo performers and many others, were not in widespread use back in the early ranching days of the Southwest.

* * *

The high-heeled cowboy boot situation sort of parallels the six-gun story. There was a piece in the paper the other day about a man who did a lot of research on firearms used by old-time cowboys. He turned up evidence showing that few cowboys were good marksmen with pistols. Indeed, many of them did not even carry sidearms while they worked or when they went to town. It appears that the old west, like everything else, has acquired some frills and glitter over the years.

* * *

There's a lot of talk about this glitter business, especially in its relation to Christmas. However, most of us probably are like the cartoon character that appeared on the editorial page the other day——the one who called attention to the fact that a man couldn't walk down the street during Christmas shopping season without getting jostled by throngs hunting gifts and poked in the ribs by numerous odd-shaped packages. He concluded by confessing that he liked it, though.

* * *

With all its frills, however, Christmas even today is not complete in our opinion without those "goodies" (candy, etc.) that are traditionally "cooked up" in the home. They may upset the weight charts, but they perform numerous pleasantries for the taste buds in the process. We follow the practice, as time permits, at our house, and moreover we are fortunate enough to have some neighbors who know a thing or two about "cooking up" some delectable candies. Such people as Mrs. Robert Hargrove and Mrs. John F. Conley Jr. have demonstrated considerable dexterity in the art of creating confections. (So you think that's an "apple-polishing" effort, huh? You're so right.)

Income Tax Cut Studied

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP) — Sen. George (D-Ga) predicted today the Democratic - controlled House will move immediately toward a reduction in individual income taxes when Congress reconvenes next month. But he said it may be some time before the Senate gets around to considering the issue.

George, a veteran member of the Senate Finance Committee, said in a telephone interview from Vienna, Ga., that he feels sentiment for tax cuts will be so strong among returning legislators that the House Ways and Means Committee will act quickly. That is where all tax bills must originate.

While there have been indications that President Eisenhower might point the way to a future tax cut in his January State of the Union message Administration officials generaly have indicated they want to hold off on any specific recommendations until there are clearer indications that the budget will be balanced.

George, who has said budget balancing is at hand, indicated that he expects the Democrats to get the jump on the administration in tax cutting.

"I am under the impression there will be an immediate move in the House and that action will be taken there rather promptly," George said. He added he thinks the move will have the full approval of House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas.

Because of the time lag involved in hearings and House floor action, George said the Senate may not get around to considering the tax issue for some time. He said this lapse of time will provide more information on whether the budget is going to be balanced.

"I hope we can increase the individual income tax exemption from $600 to at least $700," George said. "That will benefit the low income group most but it will help everybody. Also, I think there should be some adjustment in the rates on middle income brackets."

The middle brackets generally are regarded as those ranging from $6,000 up to about $50,000 a year. It has been George's contention that many small businessmen in this bracket have been hard hit and need tax relief.

George has opposed any reduction in over-all corporation rates, which now range to a maximum of 52 per cent. His proposed $100 increase in personal exemptions has been estimated by Treasury officials to cost about 2½ billion dollars in revenue.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey has predicted the budget will be balanced this spring, despite previous Budget Bureau estimates of a $1,700,000,000 deficit on June 30, 1956.

Humphrey has indicated he may favor a tax cut. He said he expects Eisenhower to speak out on the question in his State of the Union message.

Kiwanis Christmas Plans Made Here

The Kiwanis Club of Snyder is now compiling lists for its Christmas program to aid under-privileged families, Ford Kenner, president of the club, has announced.

Kenner said the Kiwanis Club is asking churches, other service and civic organizations and individuals to submit names of families to be remembered by Kiwanlians when they distribute food and toys. Kiwanis officials hope to have the list completed as soon as possible so that checks can be made to assure that the Kiwanis Club activity will not duplicate efforts of other organizations.

In submitting names of families for the list, the following information is desired: Address, number in family, number of children, and sex and ages of children. The latter information is needed so that proper distribution of toys can be made to the children, Kenner explained.

The Kiwanis Club already has carried on several projects to prepare for the Christmas activity, and at least two more major events are on the schedule. The club will sponsor the appearance of Rubinoff in the Snyder High School auditorium here Tuesday, and a special motion picture, to be shown in cooperation with the management of the threaters, is scheduled for next Saturday at the Palace and Ritz theaters.

Children will be admitted to the motion picture showings by presenting a toy or a can of food at the box office. The items collected will be used when food packages and toys are prepared for distribution to under-privilieged families.

A collection of used toys under direction of the Kiwanis Boys and Girls committee, headed by Jay Tate, has been in progress at the central fire station for the past two weeks. These toys will be repaired by shop students at the Snyder High School before distribution by the Kiwanis Club.

Iowa Students Select Negro

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Dec. 10 (AP)—A pretty 17-year-old Negro girl from Houston, Tex., was selected by men students at the State University of Iowa as "Miss SUI of 1955."

Dora Lee Martin, a freshman in the College of Liberal Arts, was to be crowned tonight at the university's annual winter "Fire and Ice" formal dance.

She was selected from among 29 candidates—all the others white girls. It was the first time a Negro girl has been selected "Miss SUI." In this capacity Miss Martin will reign throughout the school year as campus queen.

Miss Martin's "court," composed of the girls who placed highest in the voting behind Miss Martin, included Barbara Potts of Des Moines, Marsha Koch, Wheaton, Ill., Dixie Davenport, Anamosa, Iowa and Jan Barnes, Iowa City.

Foreman Of Ranch Shot

MERIDIAN, Tex., Dec. 10 (AP)—Clarence Bethke, 28, foreman of the Hamilton ranch near here, was found shot to death today in the ranch kitchen. A search for one of the owners, Dallas attorney Norman Hamilton, was called off after he was found at Hillsboro.

Officers here feared Hamilton had been kidnapped. Instead, he was involved in an automobile accident at Whitney and was brought to Hillsboro, where he was placed in a hospital by orders of Dr. Hendley McDonald, County physician.

Constable Tom Gillaspie of Meridian told reporters at Hillsboro that a .38 revolver was found on a table in the ranchouse kitchen, and that the kitchen showed definite signs of a struggle. Dishes were broken and furniture overturned.

Gillespie said that from the position of the revolver, it appeared impossible for it to have been suicide.

The ranch is between Meridian and Lake Whitney.

The constable and Bosque County Deputy Sheriff Dave Montgomery went to Hillsboro to return Hamilton to Meridian in an ambulance.

However, Dr. McDonald refused to allow Hamilton to be transferred to a Meridian hospital with a physician in attendance during the trip, and at a late hour, Hamilton remained in a Hillsboro hospital.

Snyder Music Students Get Top Awards

ABILENE, Dec. 10 — Thirteen Snyder band and choir students were chosen here today among top high school music students in this region.

Of the 13, one was chosen to the all-state band, four as alternates to the all-state band, two as all-state band candidates, one to the all-region band, four to the all-state choir and one as an all-state choir alternate.

The students were accompanied here by Melvin Montgomery, director of instumental music for the Snyder schools, and Bob Clinton, director of choral music for the schools.

Eight band students were chosen to the all-region band, out of nine band students who made the trip for tryouts, and they were among the 104 sutdents who palyed a concert last night at the McMurry College auditorium. The tryouts were held at McMurry.

There was no all-region choir chosen. The all-state band and choir will gather in Dallas next February for four days during the annual convention of the Texas Music Educators Association. They will rehearse under top band and choral directors from various parts of the U.S., and on the night of the fourth day will be presented in concert at Fair Park Auditorium.

Chosen to the all-state choir were Tommy Gary, senior bass; Doug Smith, senior tenor; Jimmy Pior, junior tenor; and Harilyn Ward, senior soprano. Gary and Smith were both members of the all-state choir last year.

Chosen as alternate on the all-state choir was Charles Roe, senior bass.

Those who were made candidates to the all-state band, to be used if needed, were Royce Scrivner, senior bass violinist and Margie Norton, a junior who plays oboe. Karen Crooks, a junior who plays piccolo and flute, was chosen to the all-region band for her second year.

Regime May Ask Cut For Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Administration officials have decided that next year's request for foreign aid funds should be slightly less than the $2,703,000,000 voted this year. Some Congress members have been demanding an end to all foreign aid appropriations.

The figure decided on by the Budget Bureau, it was learned today, is $2,670,000,000 which foreign aid officials describe as a "bare bones" version.

President Eisenhower still could change the figure before sending it to Congress, but it already has been thoroughly threshed out with interested agencies.

Of the final total approved by the budget Bureau, $1,600,000,000 would go for economic, defense support and technical aid, leaving about $1,070,000,000 for arms shipments.

With 40 countries participating, this would seem to rule out any stepped-up program for the Middle East, where the Communists have been active.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga), chairman of the Armed Services Committee, told an interviewer he will vote for "a reasonable amount of military aid, where it can be shown that it is needed, but I will vote to cut out all economic aid."

Russell is among the congressional leaders of both parties scheduled to attend a White House briefing next Tuesday when President Eisenhower and his aides will explain the administration's proposed defense and foreign aid programs. The Commerce Department reported on Nov. 18 that the United States has provided more than 51 billion dollions in foreign aid since 1945.

Work Proves Heavy Load

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP) — President Eisenhower's doctor called tonight for a "slowdown" in his activities and said he thought Eisenhower should withhold a decision on whether to run again until at least mid-February.

Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, the President's personal physician, told a news conference that the President's recovery is continuing at a normal pace for the "acute" heart attack he suffered. But Snyde added that there have been many occasions of "fatigue" after long conferences or other unusual exertion.

Snyder, Col. Thomas W. Mattingly, Walter Reed Hospital heart specialist; and Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the hospital's commanding officer, agreed on a medical bulletin asserting:

"Executive responsibilities have imposed a heavier tax upon the President than an ideal convalescence program would incorporate.

"Then, too, the weather (at Gettysburg) has not always been the best.

"Participation in office and farm activities has been carefully supervised so that no harm has resulted.

"The President's condition, when examined today, was good."

The press conference came after the President underwent complete medical checkup at Walter Reed Hospital lasting a little more than an hour and a half. The President returned earlier in the day from his Gettysburg farm.

The medical bulletin referred to the 65-year-old President's Sept. 24 coronary thrombosis as "acute" for the first time, but the doctors said that referred to the suddenness of the attack which previously as been described as "moderate."

Gen. Snyder told the newsmen that "we expect his work to be lightened" when the President goes back to Gettysburg Tuesday after conferences here with congressional leaders.

Snyder said that if he were in the President's position he wouldn't feel that he would be able to make "a satisfactory decision" on whether he would be able to run again for "another two months."

He said that the President's activities for the next several weeks will be carefully controlled with emphasis on keeping the middle of the day—from noon until 2:30 p.m.—free of any activity. That period, he said, will be set aside for lunch and rest.

Snyder prefaced the reading of the medical bulletin by saying, "The news continues to be good."

The bulletin asserted the President has "felt well and looked well." It said he "sleeps well, rests well and relaxes easily during the day" and that he has used a very mild sedative only once since he left the hospital in Denver Nov. 11.

The bulletin went on:

"His general circulation is excellent, including the circulation in his legs and feet. Although there was an area of soreness in the President's chest during the first 48 hours of his illness, his breathing has been entirely comfortable during his entire illness.

"The blood clotting time has remained at a controlled level. The blood sedimentation rate has steadily declined and is now in the upper normal range for this altitude. The white blood count has remained at a normal figure since the early days following the acute attack. The serum chloesterol varies slightly but continues within the normal range."

The bulletin went on to say that the electrocardiograms "show residual abnormalities as a result of the scar in the heart muscle" and added:

"These abnormalities remain stable as is expected at this stage in the healing process. This stability is a desirable finding. The scar in the heart muscle wall appears to be firm and of moderate size. Fluoroscopic examination indicates that the heart beat is good and that the muscle action is satisfactory. . . .

"The heart shadow, compared with films that were made in prior years and with those that have been made since the acute attack developed, shows no significant evidence of enlargement."

The chief executive had arrived in midafternoon for the physical checkup, the first complete one he has had in a month.

Soviet Leader Says Kashmir India's Land

SRINAGAR, Kashmir, Dec. 10 (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev declared today that Kashmir is part of India. The Kashmir question "has already been settled by the people and their word is the final say in the matter," the Soviet Communist party boss added.

Pakistan and India claim Kashmir as their own territory. It is temporarily divided along a ceasefire line pending a plebiscite. Speaking at an official reception to honor him and Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, Khrushchev delivered a slashing attack on Pakistan and its membership in the Baghdad defense pact.

He said Pakistan had asked him and Bulganin through the Soviet Embassy in Karachi and the Pakistan Embassy in New Delhi not to visit Kashmir and Afghanistan.

"This is an unprecedented interference in internal affairs," he declared. "I wonder how Pakistan can dictate where we should go and with whom we should make friends."

(His statement confirmed an announcement by a Foreign Office spokesman in Pakistan, where official circles condemned the Bulganin-Khrushchev visit to Kashmir as an "unfriendly act.")

Appeal Is Due For Washburn

WACO, Dec. 10 (AP)—Attorneys for Harry L. Washburn gave quick notice today the life sentence assessed the Houston businessman last night would be taken to higher courts.

"We definitely will appeal and the verdict definitely will be reversed," Defense Attorney C. S. Farmer told the Associated Press today. "It is self evident there was doubt about the guilt of the defendant in the minds of the jury or they would have given him the limit."

Washburn was convicted of the auto bomb slaying of his former mother-in-law, Mrs. Helen Harris Weaver, last Jan. 19 in San Anggelo. Ten sticks of dynamite blasted her to death when she tried to start a family car.

Sale Of Savings Bonds In Scurry County Good

Although sales have been good here in comparison to some other areas, Scurry County still needs to account for $190,925 in U. S. Savings Bonds sales to reach its quota for the year, tabulations compiled late last week showed.

Scurry County's quota is $610,000 while sales at the last tabulation in November totalled $419,074.50.

Scurry County is in the Fort Worth area for the Savings Bond sales campaign. The area ranked at the top in the state according to the last tabulation. Sales totalled $29,144,655, or 93.1 per cent of the quota.

Lyle Deffebach is Scurry County's Savings Bond campaign chairman.

Snyder Decoration Contest Is Planned

The Snyder Junior Chamber of Commerce has announced rules and prize lists for the organization's annual Christmas decoration contest for, Snyder area homes.

The Jaycees are offering prizes in four separate divisions this year, and entries are now being accepted at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Prizes in the division for exterior decorations will be a $25 savings bond for first place and $10 cash for second place.

Similar prizes will be awarded in the divisions for interior (window scenes) decorations, while a prize of $10 in cash will be given for the best front door decoration and a $30 cash prize for the best exterior decoration in multiple-family units, such as apartment houses and oil camps.

A person may enter only one division, and front doors will be considered only if the entry is in that division. That means that front doors will not be considered by judges as a part of an exterior decoration.

Persons submitting entries should give their name, address and the division they wish to enter. All entires must be in by 5 p.m. Dec. 19.

Judging by out-of-town judges is scheduled to begin on Dec. 20 and continue through Christmas Day. Persons who submit entries will be asked to keep their displays lighted from sunset to 11 p.m. each day during the judging period.

Judging will be based on originality, workmanship and overall appearance.

Benson Orders Study Of What Happens To Consumers Dollar

By RICHARD P. POWERS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson today ordered a stepped-up study to determine whether middlemen are taking an excessive bite out of the consumer's dollar before it reaches the farmer.

Benson said he had discussed "this vital problem" with President Eisenhower and both were agreed it must be determined "whether or not prices paid by consumers contain improper or excessive marketing charges and profits."

Benson ordered his department experts to push the study.

"We know that some margins are too great and not justified," Benson said, "although we recognize that in some instances processors and distributors have increasing costs which they must pay."

While farmers, prices for food products have been declining, Benson said, average retail prices of food have actually risen slightly.

"The failure of retail food prices as a whole to reflect the decline in farm food prices during the past year is recognized by the department as a real obstacle to a solution of the farm surplus problem," he said.

He said farmers are entitled to receive "the very maximum" for their products through efficient marketing service.

The department recently estimated that civilian consumers in this country paid a total of 46¼ billion dollars for farm food products in 1955. The farmers received 18 billions of this, it estimated, and 28 billions went for marketing costs.

This marketing cost was described by the department as 44 per cent higher than the 1947-49 average.

The department said, for instance, that prices received by farmers for food products in the third quarter of 1955 averaged 7 per cent less than in the same period in 1954.

But, because of the increase in marketing charges, less than half of this decline was passed on to consumers.

The increase in marketing charges while farm prices were falling has reduced the farmer's share of the consumer's food dollar, the department said. This share was estimated at 41 cents for 1955 compared with 43 cents in 1954. And, the department added, in the year ahead the farmer's share may average about 40 cents.

The department said the marketing bill has increased substantially in recent years as a result of rising costs and expansion in the volume of products marketed.

CSC Orders Dozer Back

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Civil Service Commission today ordered Donald M. Dozer, ousted State Department historian, returned to his job.

A commission letter to Dozer which he made public without comment said the State Department had failed to be specific enough in all its charges against him. Also the letter found Dozer never had been told the reasons for his dismissal last Oct. 5.

Dozer said in October he was fired from his $11,000-a-year job because of clashes with holdover Democrats in the department. He said these clashes occurred over publishing records of secret World War II meetings such as those of Yalta, Cairo and Tehran.

Dozer, 50, said the letter he received today from the commission indicated the State Department has seven days in which to appeal from the commission's ruling.

He said he intends to show up for work at the department on Monday morning.

Waco Citizens Believe Trial On Television Is Educational

By JIM BOWMAN

WACO, Tex., Dec. 10 (AP)—The day laborer in a honky-tonk bar twirled his beer glass and thought about the televised murder trial.

"I don't know about kids seeing it, but it's mighty good schoolin' for adults," he said.

That part about the schooling seemed to pretty well sum up reaction of the average Waco citizen to the first direct televised murder trial in American history, just completed yesterday.

The case involved Harry L. Washburn, 39, Houston businessman, who was convicted of planting a dynamite bomb in an automobile and causing the death of his wealthy mother-in-law, Mrs. Helen Harris Weaver. A jury gave him a life prison term last night.

Another side to the story was the tremendous interest aroused in the trial by the use of TV.

Almost everywhere downtown, people stopped in little clusters where there was a TV set. It brought some people to the courtroom to see the trial. Others viewed proceedings on their home sets.

Other trials have been filmed and the proceedings shown later on TV. But KWTX-TV here was the first to provide a live television broadcast from the courtroom.

There were some dissentions, mainly from member of the legal profession.

A veteran Texas lawyer visiting the courtroom briefly was mildly worried over the TV prospects.

"A witness is nervous enough when he sits down in the stand," he said. "Then he looks up there and sees that TV camera looming down at him—"

A neatly dressed spectator wandered into the courtroom and took a back seat. "I've been watching this thing on TV and just had to come down for a while," he said. "This thing gets you."

This "thing" was a week-long drama of a man on trial for his life.

Many in the vicinity of this central Texas city spent hours daily watching the proceedings edge on at a snail's pace over TV.

For many—young and old—it was their initial introduction to the courtroom routine.

Much of the time microphones picked up little but mumblings in the background. But the picture was clear.

"They (the principals to the trial) all look so natural," a woman wrote to the TV station.

More interesting than the principals were faces of the courtroom audience — front row courthouse hangers-on, college kids, friends of somebody or just plain people.

How did the cast stack up? Not so hot by TV mystery standards. Lines were fumbled and cues were missed, like in any trial.

But still the TV viewers watched and slowly the plot began to shape up.

What did an automobile fender-bender in Houston have to do with an explosion in San Angelo two months later? The housewife in front of her set began to realize that a criminal trial is a long recitation of minor events.

Stories told by most of the 60 witnesses were dull individually. Very few were even mildly sensational.

But throughout this city of 110,000 crowds clustered around TV sets. Business was at a standstill in some shops.

Groups formed around sets in hotel lobbies and school children looked on in government classes. Students at Baylor University law school saw the courtroom action from their lounge.

Daily, crowds in the small courtroom grew larger. At the end of testimony, even standing room was no longer available.

"We just had to come and see it," many said.

They had seen the defendant through the camera. He was an average looking man — nicely dressed and outwardly at ease.

"You know we've had TV here," veteran defense attorney Cliff Tupper told the jury while concluding his statement of the case.

"TV hasn't been objectionable to me in any way—I've been oblivious to it," he said.

A few minutes later Waco TV viewers saw the jury file out to decide a man's fate. Save for a verdict, the program was over for the time being.

"How did it go" a reporter asked 59-year-old Judge D. W. Bartlett.

"I don't believe anyone was conscious of the TV camera," the judge said. "In fact, I think it did a lot to uphold the dignity of the court. The attorneys cut out a lot of their horseplay."

The camera was on a balcony.

Does the judge think a trend has been established?

"Yes, I think in six months or a year there will be TV in courts all over the country."

Will it take the place of newspapers

"No. It's like a football game. People have to have someone to explain to them what happened."

Mail flooded the judge and also the office of Waco station KWTX-TV. The response was overwhelmingly complimentary, according to KWTX-TV news director Bill Stinson.

Total Of Big Farms Double In 30 Years

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The number of big farms — 1,000 acres and over—has doubled in the past 30 years, the Census Bureau reported today.

In the same period the proportion of very small farms, having less than 10 acres, also has increased markedly because of the trend toward part-time farming by city folk who like country life and farmers who want city jobs.

There has been a striking decrease in the number of medium sized farms of 10 to 100 acres. There also has been a decline in the total number of farms.

The bureau, in one of a series of reports on the 1954 census of agriculture, disclosed there were 130,463 farms of 1,000-plus acres in that year as against 63,328 in 1925.

As the mechanization of farming has increased, operators have found themselves able to handle more land, the bureau said. The trend toward mergers of farms has permitted operators to use modern power equipment more fully and efficiently.

The very small farms represent 10.1 per cent of all farms in the country, as contrasted with less than 6 per cent in 1925.

The bureau explained:

"Automobiles, better roads and other facilities like electricity and telephones in rural areas have encouraged farmers and others to live in the country and drive to jobs in nearby towns or to nearby factories."

From 1950 to 1954 the number of farms in the medium-sized category — 10 to 100 acres — dropped 449,000, or 17.8 per cent. The bureau said:

"The pull of jobs in cities and in industry has been responsible for a considerable part of this change. Farm operators have either left their farms or have discontinued their agricultural operations in order to work at nonfarm jobs."

New Health Plan Ready

By ROBERT E. GEIGER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration was reported about ready today with "improved" plans for expanding health insurance to cover more Americans and more major illnesses.

Sources close to Marion Folsom, secretary of health, education and welfare, said it is "pretty obvious" the new program will be sent to Congress within 60 days or so after it meets in January.

These sources said the reinsurance program that has been before Congress for two years may be dropped for lack of enough encouragement from insurance companies and because it has been before Congress for so long.

If this program is tossed overboard, a spokesman said, another plan to accomplish the same goal, of expanding health insurance, will be offered. Folsom has said the reinsurance plan is getting a working over, at least to ase some of the objections against it.

The administration program will emphasize a need for more insurance to:

1. Cover the major "catastrophic" illnesses, requiring long hospitalization or expensive medical treatments that may run up to $7,500 or $10,000.

2. Cover people in rural areas or in small bueinesses not now eligible for "group" insurance.

3. More and cheaper health insurance for people over 60 years of age.

Pope's Vision Is Explained

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 10 (AP) — L'Osservatore Romano today quoted an intimate visitor as saying Pope Pius XII exclaimed on Dec. 2, 1954: "This morning I saw the Lord."

The Vatican City newspaper, breaking its silence on the report of the pontiff's vision of Christ during his serious illness last winter, said the 79-year-old Pius was "displeased" that his experience had been revealed to the world.

"It is well to make clear that the Holy Father demonstrated himself to be displeased by the indiscretion, even though, doubtless, it was done with good intentions," said L'Osservatore.

The report of the Pope's vision was first published by the Milan weekly, Aggi, last month. The Vatican press office on Nov. 21 said the account was true. But the Vatican City newspaper had kept silent.

Today, the paper said that because of "uncertainities and inexact suppositions" it was printing "the precise exposition of the truth as we have received it from one of the very few devoted collaborators, who in that December, daily approached the pontiff."

Underground Plant Under Consideration

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—American Machine and Foundry Co. said today it is considering building an underground industrial plant at Green Mountain, near Huntsville, Ala.

The company, a diversified manufacturing firm with plants throughout the country, did not say what it might produce inside the mountain.

The Chattanooga Times reported however, that there were indications the AMF facility might have some connection with the guided missile program of the Redstone arsenal at Huntsville.

Bond Issue At San Diego May Be Called

SAN DIEGO, Tex., Dec. 10 (AP) — Trustees of the Benavides School District are expected Monday night to order an election on a $1,200,000 bond issue.

The bond issue has been a point of controversy between the Freedom Party, opposing political boss George Parr, and the Parr faction. Freedom Party members claim $1,200,000 is more than is necessary for needed construction and repairs.

The Texas Education Agency, when it placed the Benavides district on probation last spring, demanded some new construction and repairs.

Cancer Report On Babe Given

GALVESTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Dr. H. W. Paley said today exhaustive checks "show no extension of the cancer process" in famous athlete Babe Didrickson Zaharias.

Earlier the Galveston Tribune quoted a spokesman for John Sealy Hospital where Mrs. Zaharias is being treated had said a recurrence of cancer had been discovered.

"That is not correct," said Paley, of the hospital's department of internal medicine.

Dr. Paley said "I feel the Babe will be out of the hospital after a reasonably short time after that."

when asked about the woman golfer's prospects for eventual, full recovery.

The doctor said Mrs. Zaharias' interest in the Babe Zaharias Cancer Fund has been so intense doctors have had to restrain her. She announced establishment of the fund recently to raise money to study cancer.

"She's been working like the devil on it; writing letters, and wants to go on television and make radio recordings," said Dr. Paley. "The doctors won't let her so she's had to call on friends throughout the country to help her."

He said Mrs. Zaharias is in good spirits but that it has been necessary to hang a "No Visitors" sign on her hospital room door because of the number of people who want to see her.

Resignation Of CAA Chief Is Accepted

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP) — President Eisenhower today accepted the resignation of Frederick B. Lee as administrator of the Civil Aeronautics Administration. He named Charles J. Lowen Jr. of Denver, Colo., now deputy administrator, to succeed Lee.

The President acted before leaving Gettysburg, Pa., for a medical checkup here. An exchange of letters relative to the resignation was made public later at the White House. The resignation is effective at once.

Earlier today Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash) had called for an investigation of reports that a move was under way to pressure Lee into stepping out.

Premeasurement Is Offered For 1956

Cotton premeasurements will be offered again in 1956 by the county Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation committee, according to Henry Burchett, officer manager for the ASC.

Cost of the premeasurement has not yet been determined, but any cotton producer desiring premeasurement of his cotton acreage may do so by written request and payment of the required fee. Application forms are available at the ASC office.

Burchett said there were 594 overplanted farms out of about 1,100 cotton farms measured in the county this year. He added that it is felt this number can be reduced by premeasurement, giving the farmers a saving.

Christmas Spending Adds Fire To Boom

By WALTER BREEDE Jr.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—An unprecedented burst of Christmas spending put new life in the business boom this week.

Everybody, it seemed, was in the chips.

Personal income, at latest count, was at an annual rate of 309½ billion dollars. That's a gain of more than 21 billions in just one year.

Jobs were plentiful. Despite seasonal layoffs in farming and construction, nearly 65 million Americans had steady work. Many of them put in longer hours. And factory wage rates were at an all-time high.

Stockholders had cause for cheers. Cash dividends at latest report were running 9½ per cent ahead of last year. Dividends paid out by publicly reporting corporations in the first 10 months came to nearly 7 billion dollars.

Business was in a free-spending mood, too. Government experts said spending by business firms would show a thumping gain next year. In the first three months of 1956, said the U.S. Commerce Department, companies will be shelling out money for new plant and equipment at the rate of 31½ billions a year. This year's spending came to around 28 billions.

Output of electric power touched a never-before-equalled peak of 11,359,000,000 kilowatt hours as booming America turned on the Christmas lights.

Most striking evidence of the pre-Christmas surge was at the retail level. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce said record Christmas spending in department stores and specialty shops would boost the nation's 1955 retail trade to a new high of 185 billion dollars. A sharp rise in gift buying this week was reported by Dun & Bradstreet. The gain was so large that it more than offset a decline in sales of home appliances and television sets.

In steel, it was the same old story: Production—current scheduled at 98.8 per cent of capacity—failing behind demand, consumers scrambling for scarce supplies. At Chicago, the price of steel scrap jumped $3 a ton. The trade weekly Iron Age said price boosts on all major steel products are "just a matter of time."

Want to buy a new car? They're starting to pile up in dealers' lots, say Detroit sources. The auto industry has just wound up the second biggest production week in its history. Sales reports indicate that cars are being manufactured faster than they're being sold. Best guess is that retailers will have an inventory of around 750,000 unsold new cars on their hands by New Year's.

Lagging sales of new cars were among the few dark spots this week on the brightly gleaming economic horizon; another was the prospect of a dip next year in "on-the-cuff" buying on consumer goods. Much of this year's boom has been financed by installment purchases. Some economists say installment buyers are carrying just about as much debt as they can stand.

A 14 per cent gain in sales was reported by Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey). General Motors offered its 17,000 auto dealers a new kind of franchise that will run for five years.

Ray Gun Sets Off Atomic Energy Show

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

CLEVELAND, Dec. 10 (AP)—Two school boy descendants of Paul Revere, using an atomic energy "ray gun," today touched off the opening of "America's first major atomic exposition.

They used the gun and a Geiger counter to trigger the lighting of a 75,000-watt "world's largest light bulb" and thereby signalized the beginning of a big commercial and scientific exhibit devoted to showing present and potential applications of atomic energy in the service of man.

Their illutrious, horse - back riding forebear's interest was in the lantern flash from Boston's old North Church, entirely of a warlike nature.

The two boys are brothers—Revere Little 11, and Sam Little, 13, who live in a Cleveland suburb. The younger boy aimed a special "pistol" equipped with a radioactive material at a Geiger counter held by his brother.

Rays similar to X-rays, coming from the gun, activated the counter in such a way that it in turn touched off relays that lit the huge lamp developed by General Electric.

This was the kickoff of two concurrent events whose sponsors declare will represent the nation's "first full-scale look at atomic energy in industry, government, education, medicine and agriculture."

The first, which opened today, is a gigantic floor show in the Cleveland Public Auditorium devoted to exhibits of devices and methods of putting atomic energy to work.

The second, which will open Monday, will be a "nuclear engineering and science congress" devoted to technical reports on the latest developments in peacetime applications of the atom.

The exposition is being sponsored by the American Institute of Chemical Engineers while the "congress" will be jointly sponsored by 26 of the nation's leading engineering and scientific societies—with the joint event being coordinated by the Engineers Joint Council.

In Light Of History

In Burma, Nikita Khrushchev took a swing at Sir Winston Churchill for what he called the "notorious directive" the latter gave Field Marshall Montgomery near the end of WW II to stack captured German arms for reissue to German prisoners in case the Russians persisted in pushing their way across the face of Europe.

In one of his most expansive moments last year Churchill himself disclosed this order, saying he could see no advantage in freeing Europe from one kind of totalitarianism "if we allowed so much of Europe to fall into the grip of another totalitarian regime from the East."

It was not generally understood at the time, since it would have been of aid and comfort to the common enemy, but the alliance of the East and the West against Nazi Germany was an exceedingly delicate affair, dogged by suspicion on both sides.

Stalin feared the West, at the psychological moment, would embrace Hitler and combine against Russia. The West, on the other hand, with much more reason, feared Stalin and Hitler would re-embrace each other and leave Hitler free to overpower the West. That actually happened when the Bulshevicks came to power in 1917.

This mutual distrust and suspicion is the basic explanation of the "unconditional surrender" policy. It also explains some of the extraordinary arrangements the West agreed to at Yalta.

Churchill and others have disclosed that Stalin was furious when certain anti-Hitler plotters approached Allied representatives in Switzerland suggesting a negotiated surrender. Although Stalin was notified as soon as possible of this development, he was still furious—obviously a product of his suspicion of the West. His harsh criticism of his Western "associates" was no way for an ally to talk to another.

Churchill's directive to "Monty" was a wise one under the circumstances, but his disclosure of same is inexplicable.

The very delicate relations between East and West at that time may also be a partial explanation of General Eisenhower's decision not to rush into Berlin. It might have touched off the powder-keg of Allied-Russian relations.

Who's An Expert, Pa?

An expert is where you find him. The television show with a top prize of $64,000 has proved the correctness of this dictum with a vengence.

Only two contestants so far have gone all the way to win the top prize. The first was a rugged Marine Corps captain whose specialty was, of all things, the gentle art of cookery. The second, it turned out Tuesday, was a 28-year-old lady doctor named Joyce Brothers, who answered a series of questions relating to the ungentle art of boxing. Contestants who shoot the moon were allowed an expert by their side to help out in the clutches, and Dr. Brothers' expert was Eddie Eagan, ex-Olympic boxing champion, and former chairman of the New York Boxing Commissian. But the little lady knew all the answers, and only checked a time or two with Eagan to make sure.

What will she do with what's left when the income tax man gets through with it? Well, she'll help her student-doctor husband equip his office when he starts practice, finance a vacation or two maybe, and buy herself a new dress.

Among other winners who stopped short of the top was a Georgia woman who knew all about baseball, and a Pennsylvania lady who knew all about the Bible.

You never can tell about experts. Mary Johnson, a little old maid who was born in Virginia five years after the War Between the States came to an end, wrote the best battle description of that conflict ever penned by man or woman, so realistic and vivid that hardened veterans wept.

And need we mention that most famous dressmakers and cooks are men? So it wasn't too surprising that a tough Marine knocked off the cookery prize, after all. But lady baseball experts and a lady doctor who can reel off the answers to boxing questions that would send most sports editors to the record book in hot haste!

Rebuttal To Foes Offered In Drive For Naming Dandelion As America's Flower

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — When I nominated the dandelion as America's national flower about a year ago, there was some ruckus.

The proposal seemed to step on a lot of green thumbs. It was almost as if I'd done something indecent, such as suggesting selling kindergarten children into slavery.

Gardeners all over the land wrote in to denounce me as an idiot and the dandelion as a pest. Most of them agreed that if America picked a national flower it ought to be the rose.

Well, that seemed like a copy cat idea if I'd ever heard of one. Too many countries already have the rose. But I shut up on the subject, since what I don't know about flowers would fill a mighty big vase.

Today, however, I'd like to present a rebuttal to all the thorny rose lovers in the form of a letter written by Win Haynes of Greenville, Pa.

Here is what reader Haynes wrote:

"I have been in the nursery business for a number of years and for the life of me, I can't see why anyone would have anything to do with a rose. If you get near a rosebush it goes at you like a wildcat. If you approach it wearing rawhide gloves, thereby avoiding bloodshed, not to say poisoning, it will do its best to give you rose fever or shake off some of its loving insects on you.

"In spite of all the praises sung for it, it is evident that the rose has no use for man. It even refuses to grow for him except on its own terms.

"You can't just stick it in the ground and forget about it. It has to be planted just so. Let it get 'wet feet' and it curls up and dies. If you want it to bloom, you have to feed it like a horse, and it is finicky about its food.

It has almost as many diseases and enemies as the human race. If you are fortunate enough to start with a rosebush that doesn't already have black spot, you can bet it will rush right out and get some kind of fungus.

"If, through constant dusting and spraying with the whole catalog of fungicides, contact sprays and poison sprays you get your plant to live long enough to produce a bud, let three drops of rain fall and the next day there is a cluster of aphids all over the bud.

"Again, let it survive that hazard and the thrip may prevent the bud from opening. Once a bud opens into a flower, a myriad of rose chaffers, Japanese beetles and other bugs stand poised like vultures to devour it. Roses? Pfah and Pfutt!

"But take the dandelion. Brother, there is a flower! You not only don't have to plant them, you have to be a genius not to have them if you possess a square foot of soil. They will be with you pronto even if they have to make the journey by air.

"The dandelion has but one enemy—man. It is thought they furnished the first green food that Adam ate after being banished from Eden. Man has been eating them ever since, but they have continued to multiply and cover the earth.

"There is no race suicide in the dandelion family. Hardy? Man, there just ain't no hardier form of life. Poison 'em. Dig 'em out and burn 'em. Do anything you like if you don't like 'em. But next spring when the snow melts, look out your window and it's dollars to doughnuts a friendly li'l dandelion blossom will be right there smilin' at you.

"Besides brightening your soul with its sunny bloom, the dandelion furnishes a virtual pharmacopoeia all by itself. The old family doctor book says it is a laxative, diaphoretic, diuretic, expectorant tonic, alterative and aperient, used for liver complaint, constipation, jaundice, dyspepsia (hold it a moment while I go get me a dandelion please), dropsy and blood purifier.

"If you had told your audience half of that, the dandelion would have been named national flower by acclamation!"

Well, now I have told you. The defense rests.

Ike Probably Would Face Big Handicap In Campaign

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even if President Eisenhower's doctors tell him he can run for a second term, they may tell him at the same time he can't make the usual campaign for the presidency.

There's a difference between running for the White House and spending four years in it.

As president for another four years Eisenhower would have to expect occasional strain, if only in making big decisions, but by careful planning he might be able to avoid both fatigue and unusual exertion.

But if he put on the traditional presidential campaign, he could hardly avoid them.

The traditional campaign calls for train trips or plane trips, talking to crowds at whistle-stops or in auditoriums. There would be exertion, if only in trying to make himself heard, in climbing steps, and in shaking numerous hands.

While going through all that, Eisenhower would have this additional burden, one his opponent wouldn't share; he'd still be president and have to carry on his duties of that job at the same time.

If the doctors tell Eisenhower, perhaps in February, that he can seek re-election, it will be because they have found his heart attack—which came from a diseased artery which closed—did not damage the heart itself to the point where he couldn't undertake the daily job of the presidency.

And even though one artery was diseased to the point of closing, it doesn't necessarily follow his other arteries are in the same bad shape or close to if. He might never have another attack. Doctors still don't know much about the progress of disease in other arteries in a case like this.

But the chief consultant among Eisenhower's physicians—Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston, one of the world's top heart specialists—was asked this question at a news conference Oct. 22: Were Eisenhower's chances for a second attack greater than for the first?

White said the question was hard to answer but added, "I think that might be true."

It is routine when heart doctors have seen a heart attack victim through to the point of full recovery to tell him he can resume a normal life if he slows down a bit and does not try to overdo it.

In the early days of Eisenhower's attack, Dr. White consulted with Dr. Eugene Lepeschkin, University of Vermont authority on cardiograms, who later said Eisenhower could run again if he wanted to provided he avoided "any emotional or physical strain and meantime watched his health."

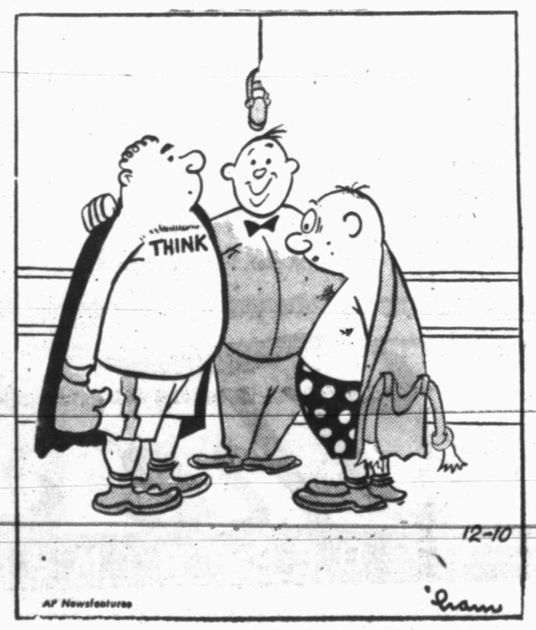
BUCKLEY



Former Crewman On Hitler's Ship Serving Michigan Power Plant As Diesel Engineer

By EDWARD J. MARKAITY

LOWELL, Mich., Dec. 10 (AP) — It's a long way from the shell-raked decks of the pocket battleship Graf Spee to chief diesel engineer of the municipal power plant in Lowell. But Rudi Mittag, 36, has made it.

In the process, he fled an Argentine internment camp, dodged snakes in the jungle, met and married an American girl and is about to apply for U. S. citienship. His saga would make the plot of an adventure movie.

So far as he knows, Mittag is the only member of the suicide German warship to reach this country.

He was a machinist's mate aboard the fast, heavilygunned Graf Spee when World War II broke out as she cruised the South Pacific. Her mission was against Allied shipping, but three cruisers of the British navy — the Ajax, Exeter and New Zealand's Achilles—caught her Dec. 13, 1939, near the mount of the River Plate, off Montevideo.

Their clash was the first great naval battle of the war. The Graf Spee disabled the Exeter, but she was wounded herself. Harried by the other cruisers, she sought safety in Uruguay's neutrality.

International law allowed refuge of only 72 hours, and just before the time was up Hitler's orders came to destroy her.

"Most of the crew was transferred to a German merchant marine vessel," says Mittag, "and a skeleton force took our ship about four miles out into the harbor, where explosives destroyed her."

The crew was interned in Argentina and he and 80 others were sent to the little town of Santa Fe, where he found work as a diesel maintenance man on road-building projects. In January 1946, the men learned of Germany's partition, and were told they would be returned to Germany.

Mittag's native Saxony still is behind the Iron Curtain. Rather than return to live under Russian control, he and 15 others headed north to settlements 700 miles away, where they had the names of former German nationals.

For 18 months he lived in obscurity. Then police picked him up and sent him to military prison in Buenos Aires. Expecting to be sent home, they were released instead by government decree in three months.

Back he went to Posadas, to work in diesel maintenance shops for the highway department.

Meanwhile, Virginia Hoover of Byron, Mich., had gone to Buenos Aires as a missionary of the United Lutheran Church. After a year studying Spanish, she left for Posadas to assist in founding a mission. There she met Mittag, and in 1949 they were married. They planned to stay, and their two daughters, Erika, now 5, and Ruth, 4, were born in Argentina.

"But my parents asked us to come home," says Mrs. Mittag. "We sold our furniture to pay for air passage." Their son, Gerhardt, 3, was born in Michigan.

Mittag's English, still halting but accurate, is the result of brief schooling in Owosso, Mich., and a short stay with his in-laws at nearby Byron.

"This is a very nice country," he says. "I like it and want to stay. I will try to get my citizenship if I can."

His ability as a diesel engineer, his determined quest for more knowledge and his will to work have brought swift promotion. His post as chief diesel engineer at the Powell municipal power plant was attained in less than six months on the job.

Kitchen Still The Best Place To Prepare A Meal

BY INEZ ROBB

Before it is too late, I want an appeal to the better nature of any loved ones who are planning to buck the Christmas rush any day now and by little, oh me a present.

I want these loved ones to do me a favor and not buy me any mad synthetic mink coats for $125. You know what this man-made mink looks like? Well six it looks like $125, and you didn't fool mink or minx at 100 paces.

However, that is not really what is uppermost in my mind. The number of persons who squander $125 on me can be counted on the finger of one hand. What is really giving me a nervous twitch at the moment is the fear that some of my loved ones, knowing my pleasure in cooking, will rush out and buy me some of these electrical contraptions that enable the harried housewife to cook at the dining-room table.

At the moment the advertisements are full of such electrical booby traps as little ovens that bake biscuits at the table; big ovens that roast half an ox at the table; rotisseries that broil chickens, bake potatoes, cream onions, polish off crepe suzettes and play "America, the Beautiful" at the table; frying pans that frizzle chickens, steaks, chops and fingers at the table; deep-fat fryers for dining-room doughnuts; not to mention coffee pots, toasters, waffle irons, plate warmers, chafting dishes and hot trays, all destined for the dining room.

What it all boils down to—and not at the dining-room table—is that I have developed a sensational new theory that the kitchen is the place to cook and the dining room is the place to eat, and never the twain shall meet. I do not want the components of a stove scattered all over the house, from hell to breakfast.

And that is exactly what has happened under the shrewd aegis of electrical engineers who are always bucking for more of the consumer dollar. These boys have simply taken apart the big, economy-size kitchen stove and made it into a mess of small, sample-size separate elements.

Instead of one tidy, compact instrument with three to six burners and one to three ovens, rooted in a spot where you could always find it, the stove is now in bits and pieces.

I crave—and I have—a kitchen where I cook undisturbed by the rest of the world. Cooking is a high art and needs much lonely communion with the soul, as well as the stomach, to reach triumphant heights. No one would expect Michelangelo to sculpt in the midst of Grand Central Station at the rush hour, or Shakespeare to turn out a sonnet in Macy's window.

The dedicated cook also lives on a lofty plane and doesn't want an audience underfoot, dipping its fingers in the mixing bowls or sampling the sauces. Mark my words, cooking in the dining room before a jabbering audience of either family or friends will set the culinary arts back 500 years!

Cooking is strictly for the kitchen. It separates the men from the boys or the women from the girls who cook at the dining-room table. All I want for Christmas is a sampler, worked in big bold letters, to hang on the swinging door twixt kitchen and dining room. And I want it to read: "KEEP OUT." This Means You. Woman at Work."

Mrs. Harold Stassen Wins In Art Exhibit

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Mrs. Harold Stassen, wife of President Eisenhower's special adviser on disarmanent, won first prize in a local art exhibit for a seascape she painted on a visit to Nova Scotia.

Other artist featured in the showing included such prominent official wives as Mrs. Sherman Adams, whose husband is special assistant to President Eisenhower, and Mrs. de Castro, wife of the El Salvador ambassador, who won second prize for her view of a courtyard of the Cathedral of Mexico.

Mrs. Alice K. Leopold, director of the U. S. Women's Bureau, says today's woman is expected to be almost letter perfect in the many roles she plays. "She's expected to be a good cook," she elaborated, "an expert housekeeper, a gay helpful but thrifty wife, a useful member of the community and well-informed on current affairs. And she must be a wise, conscientious and loving mother."

Mrs. Leopold, who has two sons, says the last role, in her opinion, is any woman's most important role.

Dr. Louise M. Young, author and lecturer in the English department at American University here, says women could play a much more important role in politics today if they took advantage of all their opportunities. She says too many women wait for someone to tell them what to do and, because of this, they're still letting the men outline the role they play in politics.

Miss Yayoi Shima, daughter of the Japanese Minister, says that when young Japanese ladies want to dress up for late afternoon functions, like cocktail parties and teas, they just put on a fancier kimona with longer sleeves. Sleeves that almost touch the floor are the most chic for party-time she says.

Mrs. De Kauffmann, wife of the Danish ambassador, likes to remind Washington's young service set that she herself was once a "Navy junior." She lived in Admiral's House on Observatory circle, just off Massachusetts avenue here, when her father, Rear Adm. William MacDouglas, was superintendent of the Naval Observatory.

REPORT RADIO-TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—If anybody wants to know what a television producer actually does, just ask Lou Breslow, producer of "Damon Runyon Theater" (CBS-TV), a swift-paced and amusing comedy series filmed in Hollywood.

There was a time, the story goes, when a movie producer was somebody plucked from a drug store who walked on a movie lot and tried to tell skilled craftsmen their business. Nobody paid any attention to him. If the movie was a success, the producer was famous. If it flopped, he went back to the drug store and wailed, "they crossed me up."

"But in television," says Breslow, "a producer is fully responsible for both the good and the bad ones."

A quick-moving and agile-minded man who came to New York for his first vacation in a couple of years, Breslow is a far cry from a drug store producer.

In the next two decades he received writing credits for more than 100 films, wrote radio and stage material for some of the country's top comedians, and served as director and producer of numerous films.

Suddenly we find Breslow producing a few live TV shows. ("I took benzedrine for the first time in my life. I couldn't go to sleep, but I couldn't get up either.")

It's film for Breslow in television now. Filming one show a week is hectic enough. For example:

He chooses and buys the story himself. His writers do the first draft, and if it doesn't suit him he rewrites it himself.

He casts and rehearses the actors himself—because he's been a director. He selects the cameramen—because he's been a cameraman. He studies the set and makes suggestions to the director — you know why. Finally, he's been known to sit down on the set and rewrite an entire scene during filming—because he's a writer.

GUIDEPOST LITERARY

OFF THE BOOK BEAT—The death toll in the year now closing among creative workers in literature, and music and art, too, has been as great and sobering as in any other 12-month since the war.

Novel prize winner Thomas Mann was perhaps the most widely mourned loss to letters. As the climax to a notable list of novels, Mann's newest and evidently last unpublished writing, "Confessions of Felix Krull, Confidence Man," was about to appear here when he died midsummer in Switzerland. Pulitzer and two-time National Book Award winner Wallace Stevens, whose successes in the insurance world of Hartford were far outdistanced by his achievements in poetry, also died this year.

Robert Sherwood, novelist and dramatist, holder of a fistful of Pulitzer prizes; and Bernard De Voto, historian, essayist and literary critic and also a Pulitzer winner, died within a month. Among other authors were:

Jose Ortega y Gasset, Spanish philosopher; Frances Gaither, novelist; Joseph Henry Jackson, critic of the San Francisco Chronicle, who had written several books; Nicholas Wreden who besides translations from the Russian, was editor for years at Dutton's and, at the time of his death, Little, Brown's.

Art, too suffered seriously. Fernand Leger and Maurice Utrillo, unconventional and conventional painters but both markedly successful, died in France; Yves Tanguy died in Connecticut; Carl Milles died shortly before the Metropolitan Museum placed a big fountain group of his in the museum restaurant.

In music the two most significant losses were Olin Downes, music critic of the New York Times, and Marion Bauer, teacher, author, composer.

Ex-Smokers To Get Checks From Texans

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Dec. 10 (AP)—Pay-off time came tonight for a Wichita Falls oil man and rancher who offered his employes $50 each to quit smoking.

J. S. Bridwell made the offer last March to the 255 employes of the Bridwell Oil Co.

Thirty-two were ready with signed statements for presentation—and exchange for a total of $1,600—at a company Christmas party tonight.

In addition to the $50 checks for those who quit, Bridwell had a surprise for about 40 employes who couldn't cash in on the contest because they had quit before Bridwell's offer was made. The surprise: $20 checks.

Bridwell is a former smoker but quit for love instead of money, he indicated. He said as a youth he smoked a cigar or two a day but quit when he became engaged to marry in 1919.

The stub of the checks carried this message:

"A partial reward to you for a sensible decision to quit smoking. Your real reward will come in better health, fewer accidents, better spirits, greater savings and in the satisfaction that you are an example for others who may be shortening their lives with this oppressive habit."

The Christmas party program also included viewing of a movie distributed by the American Cancer Society and a talk on lung cancer research by Dr. Kenneth Babb, Wichita Falls surgeon who is also a former Bridwell employe.

Bridwell's offer last spring brought mail from almost every state and several foreign countries. Most of the letters offered congratulations, some were critical, and a large number asked money. A Chinese wrote from Penang, Malaya, asking that Bridwell "give me six of your pedigree cows and two oxen, plus a loan of $5,000 (U.S. only; payable when able." He added, "Should I ever succeed in this life, I shall repay every penny."

The Texas oil man is proudest of a letter from Dr. Alton Ochsner, eminent New Orleans surgeon, who called the offer a "splendid thing."

"I am disturbed because of what might happen to our population if people continue to smoke as they have in the past," Dr. Ochsner wrote.

Bridwell says he is not "trying to reform the world."

"I am chiefly interested in the well-being of my employes," he said. "I am convinced that the smoking habit is detrimental to their health and general welfare, so if I can encourage them to drop it, I will do so."

He added he won't fire those who continue to smoke.

Adlai Charge Against GOP Draws Blast

By The Associated Press

Adlai E. Stevenson's charge that certain Republicans are "playing ugly politics of group conflict and hatred" drew angry rebuttals from GOP quarters today.

Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee who wants to head the party ticket again next year, delivered his accusation Thursday in a New York speech to the AFL-CIO convention.

Today Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall and Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) blasted Stevenson for his remarks, which were directed against Secretary of Interior McKay, Secretary of Agriculture Benson, Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz), Cleveland industrialist Frederick C. Crawford and Wisconsin GOP State Chairman Philip Kuehn.

Hall declared it was "sheer bunk" to charge, as he said Stevenson had done, that Republicans are engaged in an antilabor plot.

Stevenson "tells an untruth and he knows it to be absolutely untrue," the GOP chairman said, because "Mr. Stevenson knows that for 25 years the New Deal and Fair Deal spokesman have waged a class conflict.

"They have attempted to pit class against class, to stir up hatred among Americans, and to lay off one group of our citizens against another. The Democrat (sic) strategy has been, and remains to this day, to divide the American people into separate groups."

Bender hit a similar theme in a separate statement which termed Stevenson's charges "a shocking effort on the part of the Democrats to revive the smear techniques which they used during the 1930s in their efforts to win political power."

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) reported FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has turned down a proposal that he run for the GOP nomination next year.

Jenner quoted Hoover as saying "he didn't want to jeopardize the position he has built up for the FBI by getting into politics." Jenner said Hoover would be "highly acceptable" to many in Indiana. Sen. Mundt (R-SD) also has spoken favorably of Hoover.

New Method Proposed For Sea Drilling

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10 (AP)—A method of drilling oil wells on the bottom of the sea with rigs enclosed in a watertight cone and manned by underwater crews is being studied.

The system was proposed by Charles Martin Jr., of Kreg Martin Associates of Los Angeles, an underseas engineering research group. Martin terms the seabottom drilling plan an attempt to eliminate certain problems in offshore drilling from platforms, man-made islands and submersible barges.

Martin says platforms and barges are vulnerable to hurricanes or storms, collisions with surface vessels and fires. They are unusable on certain types of ocean bottoms. Blow-outs or breaks in casings are hard to handle, and some beach cities consider the platforms or islands unsightly, he said.

In drilling directly on the sea bottom storm damage would be small because wave forces diminish as water gets deeper. To the extent that structures are below keel depth, collision dangers would be avoided, and fires would be controlled quickly by flooding air spaces, said Martin.

Martin's structure, a truncated cone with the top cut off, would be watertight and pressure-resistant. It could be used at water depths of 200 to 300 feet, within the normal limits of deep sea diver, or even at 600 feet maximum. Buoyancy of the structure would be maintained through use of water ballast tanks and lead and steel ballast.

Personnel would enter the cone by diving, or going down in a submersible craft, and entering through air locks or by being lowered in a diving chamber into a hatch.

A submarine drilling rig would be operated with a drilling tender. Engines on the tender would drive generators to provide electric power to motors in the structure. Mud and cement would be mixed and supplied from the tender. Fresh air would be supplied from the surface.

The big problem, Martin says, is providing an easy and fast method of getting pipe and other equipment into and out of the structure.

Martin said a structure built for 300-foot depth and equipped to sink a casing 15,000 feet below the ocean floor would cost less than platforms or islands. The latter, he estimated, cost a million dollars or more each.

Several engineers whose firms operate offshore drilling rigs mounted on islands or platforms said that sea bottom drilling "looks very feasible from an engineering viewpoint."

Abilene, Tyler, Garland, Port Neches Gain Finals

Stamford Upends Buckie Express

By The Associated Press

Abilene walloped Dallas Sunset 33-6 and Tyler raced over Baytown 20-0 Saturday to smash into the finals of the Class AAAA division of Texas schoolboy football.

Thus two undefeated, untied teams will clash for the championship.

Garland smashed Texarkana 44-18 and Port Neches beat Alice 14-7 to reach the finals of the Class AAA division. Garland rolled on undefeated and untied. Alice was tumbling from the unbeaten class.

Stamford remained undefeated and untied and knocked over powerful Breckenridge 13-7 Saturday to reach the semi-finals of Class AA. The Indians will meet New London, 28-21 victor over Olney, next week.

Hillsboro beat Lockhart 41-12 Friday night to reach the lower bracket semi-finals and will play the winner of Saturday night's Nederland-Weslaco game.

It will be Stinnett vs. Chillicothe and Luling vs. Deer Park in the Class A semi-finals.

Stinnett beat Ranger 27-19 Saturday to complete the semi-final racket in this class. Chillicothe slammed Leverett's Chapel 48-28, Luling whipped Crosby 20-6 and Deer Park shut out Hebbronville 20-0 Friday night.

Texarkana Is Easy For Owls

GARLAND, Dec. 10 (AP)—Bobby Boyd scored three touchdowns and passed for another today as Garland roared into the finals of Class AAA schoolboy football with a 44-18 triumph over Texarkana.

The great halfback of the Owls counted on runs of 1, 19 and 63 yards and pitched a 13-yard pass to Lowell Baker for another touchdown.

J. R. Wynne made two touchdowns, one on a 22-yard run and the other on a 9-yard smash. Charles Bailey got the other Garland score with a 17-yard dash.

A crowd of 8,500 saw Garland dominate the game.

Garland will meet Port Neches for the championship next week.

Neches Wins By 14-7 Score

ALICE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Port Neches entered the Class AAA schoolboy football finals for the third straight year today as it beat Alice 14-7, scoring in the last two minutes.

Alice was leading on penetrations 4 to 3 with the score tied 7-7 when Port Neches guard Norval Dorsey took a direct pass from center, sneaked through his guard position and romped 59 yards down the sideline without a hand being laid upon him. He had become eligible to receive the ball when the Indians lined up for a wing T to the left and the left wingback was on the line of scrimmage.

Unbeaten Stinnett Edges Ranger, 27-19

CHILDRESS, Dec. 10 (AP)— Stinnett won a wild 27-19 victory over Ranger today to advance to the semi-finals of the Class A schoolboy football race.

Stinnett, undefeated but once tied, plays undefeated, untied Chillicothe next week.

Ralph Hicks, Stinnett halfback, scored three touchdowns. He got the first one from the Ranger four after the Bulldogs fumbled on their 25.

A few minutes later, Hicks scampered 79 yards for another touchdown.

Milstead Leads Tyler Past Baytown, 20-0

BAYTOWN, Tex., Dec. 10 (AP)—The Tyler Lions overpowered the stubborn Ganders of Baytown 20-0 this afternoon to go into the Class AAAA State schoolboy football finals.

Tyler's all - state quarterback, Charles Milstead, scored two touchdowns, one on a 70-yard return of an intercepted pass. Milstead also kicked two extra points.

Tyler, Abilene Game Site To Be Set Today

'We'll Carry On As Usual,' Says Texas Tech President

LUBBOCK, Dec. 10 (AP)— "The doors of Texas Tech will open Monday morning and classes will be conducted for its 7,156 students as usual," Dr. E. N. Jones, Tech president, said today when asked for comment on the school's rejection again for membership in the Southwest Conference.

The Tech president's brief statement came at the conclusion of a meeting of the college board of directors, which among other matters considered tentative plans for housing and campus buildings to provide for anticipated increasing enrollment.

No member of the board of directors would comment on the Southwest Conference faculty committee action.

"Any comment on the situation would be useless," Chairman Chas. C. Thompson of Colorado City said.

However, it was apparent that every member of the board was highly disappointed over the conference committee decision.

Announcement of the conference's rejection eliminated completely plans for a gigantic celebration on the campus and in downtown Lubbock by Tech students.

Signal for the celebration was to have been the ringing of the traditional victory bells in the towers of the administration building.

But tonight the silence of the bells was deafening.

Stamford Nips Buckies, 13-7

BRECKENRIDGE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Stamford's Indians rolled on undefeated and untied and into the semi-finals of the Class AA schoolboy football race today with a 13-7 victory over Breckenridge.

Breckenridge, defending Class AAA state champions but in Class AA this season, couldn't score until the final period but narrowly missed tying up the game or winning it when halted on the Stamford 8-yard line, with minutes to go, by a fumble.

A crowd of 8,000 saw the game in which Stamford dominated the statistics with 249 yards on the ground and 33 passing to 147 rushing and 57 passing for Breckenridge.

Abilene Rips Sunset, 33-6

ABILENE, Dec. 10 (AP)— James Welch scored four touchdowns today in leading Abilene's undefeated, untied Eagles into the Class AAAA schoolboy football finals with a 33-6 victory over Dallas Sunset.

The Eagles, defending state champions, ran up a 33-0 score before Sunset could count.

Welch, the game's leading ground gainer with 101 yards, made his touchdowns on plunges of five, one and one yards and a run of 15.

Glynn Gregory got the other Abilene touchdown, taking a pass from quarterback David Bourland for 33 yards and running 50 more for the score.

Port Neches, Garland Officials In Meeting

AUSTIN, Dec. 10 (AP)—Officials of Port Neches and Garland high schools will meet here tomorrow afternoon to decide the site and date of their Class AAA state schoolboy football championship game.

Turkey Shoot Here Dec. 18

The Canyon Gun Club of Snyder will sponsor its 4th annual Turkey Shoot next Sunday, Dec. 18.

Firing will commence at 1 p.m. at the Canyon Gun Club range located seven miles southwest of Snyder.

All types of shooting contests will be held. Rifles and shot guns will be used in the shoot.

Prizes will include turkeys and hams.

A free barbeque will be served after the shoot.

Cabin Leases At Lake Due Soon

Notices have been mailed to 134 West Texans reminding them that annual leases on Lake J. B. Thomas cabin sites will be due by Dec. 31.

These, of course, apply only to the lots leased by the Colorado River Municipal Water District. There are others on private property and those arrangements are made with individual owners.

E. V. Spence, manager for the CRMWD, said that early response to the lease notices was better than ever before and he anticipated a near perfect response. While the new leases are coming in, the District is constantly leasing new sites, he said.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Dec. 10 (AP)—Michael D. Rakov, 20, captain-elect of the Williams College football team, was killed early today when his automobile left the road a half-mile south of the Vermont line, ripped down six guard posts and overturned.

EX-SNYDERITE HONORED—Hershel Allen, a member of the Midland basketball team, is being presented a trophy symbolic of being named on the All-High School Division team of the Canyon Reef Invitational Tournament concluded Friday at Tiger Gym. Allen formerly lived in Snyder. Clyde Godwin of the Snyder school board is making the presentation. Others making the team, from left to right, are Dan Eddleman and Bobby Sumner of Lubbock; and Donnie Benham of Andrews. Alan Snead of Snyder, who rounded out the all-tourney team, wasn't present for the presentation ceremonies. (Lee Watson photograph)

Tigers Among 16 Teams In HPC Tourney

BROWNWOOD — Sixteen top notch high school teams are entered in the annual Howard Payne Invitational basketball tournament December 29, 30, 31.

Ranking high on the list is Coach Chambers Burkett crew. Burkett is an annual entry in the tournament and the little school usually comes up with a good team.

Three class B schools are entered this year and all will have good teams. Burkett, Lipan, and Brookesmith each won its district last year and have practically the same team this season.

Three 3-A, three 4-A, and seven 2-A schools will complete the tournament entries.

From 2-A are Angelton, Lampasas, Stamford, Ballinger, Coleman, Comanche, and Brady. Coleman is expected to be the strongest of this group.

Making up the 3-A entries will be Snyder, Big Spring, and Brownwood and all are teams which could go to the finals.

Port Arthur, Longview, and Carter Riverside of Fort Worth from 4-A will be in the battle for the trophy.

Port Arthur and Angleton will start the three day warfare off when they clash Thursday morning at 9:30 a.m.

Jr. Hi Quints Win 2 Of 5

Next action for the local Junior High lads is Tuesday night when both the 8th and 7th grade teams host Lamesa at the Junior High Gyn. The 7th grade game will start at 4 p.m. with the 8th grade tilt to follow immediately.

Ace Amos is the Snyder 8th grade coach while Jim Stewart tutors the 7th graders.

Sugar Ray Flooded With Congrat Wires

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 (AP)—It was, after noontime and Sugar Ray Robinson still lay languidly in bed.

"What a glorious feeling," Robinson yawned. "You wake up one morning still fretting in your mind whether you really are a has-been.

"Then you wake up the next morning and you're middleweight champion of the world again."

Entirely unmarked after his surprising second-round knockout of Bobo Olson at the Chicago Stadium last night, Robinson waved at a nearby bed-stand.

"Look at those telegrams. There must be more'n 200. A lot of people in there I haven't heard from in a long time.

"One gave me a real charge. It was from Jake LaMotta. He said 'I told all these so-and-sos you would knock this guy silly.'"

Jake was the man Robinson first won the middleweight title from, also at the Chicago Stadium, Feb. 14, 1951. Jake also was knocked silly by Sugar Ray, but it took 13 rounds and LaMotta still was on his feet at the end.

Robinson didn't mention it, but Uncle Sam remembered his purse last night with a writ attaching Sugar Ray's $46,439 share of the $110,757 net gate. Only Robinson already had been advanced $30,000, it was learned, and the government got its hands only on some $16,000.

Olson, who flew back to San Francisco soon after his quick dethroning, collected $65,014 according to revised figures.

Bobo's Handler Blames Loss On Wife Trouble

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Dec. 10 (AP)—Bobo Olson, side-tracked to Sacramento today in an airplane because of fog in the San Francisco area, said "It is too early to tell whether I will have a reconciliation with my wife."

But his manager, Sid Flaherty, told reporters as they left the plane to continue by automobile: "He will fight no more until he does get things patched up."

"He didn't have his mind on his work last night. Family troubles are not conducive to putting forth your best effort."

"I sure will try to get that crown back and quick," Bobo said.

He was knocked out in the second round last night to lose the middleweight championship to Sugar Ray Robinson.

In Hilsborough, Olson's estranged wife, Dolores, said "There is no chance for a reconciliation, not right now . . . maybe we can work something out." Then the mother of his four children expressed hope the knockout "will put some sense into his head and he'll stop being a playboy." She sued for divorce Nov. 17, saying "Bobo walked out on me."

Quail Hunting Banned Here

Quail hunting is banned on the property surrounding Lake J. B. Thomas.

This is in keeping with a recent amendment to the District's rules and regulations which limits the use of firearms on the premises to hunting for water fowl with shotguns.

While this restriction was passed as a safety measure because of traffic around the lake, its effect may produce another added result of a game sanctuary on District property. There are still a number of antelope in the area from the herd which Louis Conrad had on his ranch.

Denver Defeats Dallas In Pee Wee Bowl 20-0

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 10 (AP)—Denver's Presentation Parochial School Panthers threw up a stonewall defense here today as they defeated Dallas Oak Cliff Ponies, 18-0, the annual Milk Bowl played by youngsters 10 to 14 years of age.

The Panther defense limited the Dallas club to minus five yards rushing.

Minor Changes In Grid Rules Made

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

For the past two years, since it took the radical step of abolishing the platoon system, the National Football Rules Committee has made only a few minor changes in the playing code of college football. Most of them couldn't even be noticed by the fans.

When it meets next month, the committee apparently won't have much more work to do according to indications in the annual Associated Press post-season survey. By a count of about 3-1, the sports writers and broadcasters participating indicated that there's no marked desire for a change in the 1955 rules.

Out of 149 experts replying to the AP questionnaire, 95 said there was no marked agitation for changes. Twenty gave flat affirmative answers and 14 detected some minor moves for changes. The 20 who left the space blank presumably can be added to the "no" total.

Proposals Made

Given a chance to make suggestions of their own or to relay the ideas of others, the writers and broadcasters came up with a few proposals which may or may not be considered by the rules committee.

No. 1 on the list was a return to the platoon system. Fourteen listed that proposal—some merely as a reflection of coaches' ideas. Others advocated it strongly as providing the fans with a better brand of technical football and giving more players opportunity for action. Six more suggested liberalizing the substitution rule in various ways and two favored tightening it.

One Michigan writer noted: "The small colleges want a return to two-platoon but the rules committee pays no attention to small colleges." Another proposed unlimited substitution, coupled with a limit on the number of players allowed to dress for a game, as an aid to small squads.

Sideline Coaching Proposes

On the other hand, one writer called the present rules "the best ever."

Two or three writers backed the suggestion of allowing sideline coaching along the lines proposed by Minnesota's Murray Warmath and Boston University's Buff Donelli. They would allow coaches to talk to their players at the sidelines during time outs as coaches of other sports do.

There were a couple of calls for the elimination of the "sucker shift"—which the committee found itself unable to do last year—and faked injuries. A concrete suggestion on the latter was to stop the clock after each play during the final minute of each half.

Midwestern, Lubbock Are Champs; Tigers 3rd Place

BY BUCK FRANCIS
Snyder News Sports Editor

Midwestern University of Wichita Falls and the Lubbock Westerners captured titles in the 3rd annual Canyon Reef Invitational Basket ball tournament concluded Friday night at Tiger Gym.

Midwestern turned on the steam in the second half to outduel the Wayland Pioneers of Plainview, 89-75, in the collegiate finals while Lubbock led all the way in turning back the Midland Bulldogs, 60-51, in the schoolboy finals.

The Snyder Tigers won the consolation crown in the High School Division with a 54-44 victory over Andrews' Mustangs while McMurry's Indians bested Trinity, 65-59, for the college consolation crown.

Midwestern succeeds Texas Tech as the Canyon Reef king. Tech, who wasn't around to defend her title this time, had walked off with the title in the first two tournaments.

Lubbock became the first schoolboy champ in the tourney here as this marked the first year the tournament included a High School Division.

Two all-tournament teams were selected, one in each division. Midwestern and Wayland led the college all-tournament balloting with two players each with the fifth coming from McMurry.

Lubbock landed two on the all-high school tournament team with one each coming from Snyder, Midland and Andrews.

The all-tournament teams are as follows:

COLLEGE

O'Neal Weaver, Midwestern.
Max Newman, Wayland.
Don Taylor, McMurry.
Cotton Fitzsimmons, Midwestern.
Roy Young, Wayland.

HIGH SCHOOL

Don Eddleman, Lubbock.
Alan Snead, Snyder.
Bobby Sumner, Lubbock.
Donnie Benham, Andrews.
Hershel Allen, Midland.

Following is a run down of final tournament action Friday:

College Finals
Midwestern 89, Wayland 75

Wayland took charge early and led throughtout the first half, leading by 10 and 12 points much of the time and finally going to rest at the half owning an 8-point advantage, 43-35.

But Midwestern came roaring back in the second half to get back in the ball game and tied the score up at 45-45 four minutes after the inter-mission.

For the next 10 minutes, the two teams engaged in a razzle-dazzle contest with the lead changing hands 14 times and tied on eight other occasions.

Midwestern finally moved ahead for good with six mintues to go, 66-64, and stretched its lead the remaining few minutes. Wayland's bid for victory was virtually ruined when its star center, 6-8 Max Newman, fouled out with 4:58 minutes remaining. Newman left with his mates trailing 70-68 and from then on Midwestern controlled the backboards and breezed to victory.

O'Neal Weaver sparked the Midwestern second half rally, getting 21 of his 29 points in the game after the rest period. Cotton Fitzsimmons, 5-7 guard, also played a big role in the Midwestern comeback by pouring in 16 of his 25 points in the final half.

Roy Young led Wayland's attack with 22 points.

High School Finals
Lubbock 60, Midland 51

Lubbock led all the way in turning back Midland, 60-51, for the schoolboy title.

The Westerners, led by Don Eddleman, sparked the winners to a 31-23 halftime lead. Eddleman scored 13 points in the first half and wound up with 17 for scoring honors for the Westerners.

Lubbock led at the end of each quarter by 17-8, 31-23, 50-33 and 60-51.

Gary Roberson of Midland grabbed scoring honors for the game with 18 points.

The victory evened the score for the season between Lubbock and Midland. In an earlier game this season, Midland defeated Lubbock, 52-47.

CONSOLATION FINALS
College
McMurry 65, Trinity 59

McMurry's Indians overcame a last half rally by the Trinity Tigers to defeat the San Antonians, 65-59, for third place in the college ranks.

The Indians led through most of the game but Trinity fought back in the last half to take the lead, 57-54, with less than three minutes remaining. Then Bill Easterling tied things up for McMurry with a drive-in two-pointer and was fouled in the process. He dropped in the free toss to knot the score at 57-57.

Carl Anderson put McMurry back in the lead, 59-57, with a field goal and the Indians held on to the finish.

The Indians led 31-26 at halftime and led 41-20 in the early moments of the second half before Trinity made its final bid for victory.

Easterling with 21 points led McMurry while Roger Tatsch led Trinity with 15 tallies. Easterling hit 11 of 14 free shot attempts.

High School
Snyder 54, Andrews 44

The host Snyder Tigers, still lacking polish due to a belated start in the cage sport, had enough at the finish to down the Andrews Mustangs, 54-44, for the schoolboy consolation prize.

Andrews led 14-12 at the first quarter mark and after the Tigers rallied to take a 30-27 halftime lead, the Mustangs regained the lead at the end of three periods, 41-38.

But the Tigers roared back to retake the lead, 43-41, with 2:15 minutes gone in the final quarter on two free tosses by Milton Ham. Ham had also tied the score earlier at 41-41 on a field goal and free shot.

The Tigers led rest of the way following Ham's go ahead points.

Ham led the Tiger attack with 16 points, followed by Jerry Taylor with 11 points, Alan Snead and Robert Dabbs with 10 each.

T-Tech, For 'Umpteenth Time, Rejected By SWC

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Dec. 10 (AP)—Texas Tech, an applicant for 28 years, failed in another bid for membership in the Southwest Conference today but lacked only one vote of making it.

It was the most support the big West Texas college ever has obtained in its efforts to crack the tight 7-school barrier.

Texas, TCU, Baylor and A&M cast votes for Tech. This was one more vote than ever received before, with A&M added to the Tech band wagon. A&M voted against Tech the last time.

The University of Houston also was submitted for a vote but the motion by Baylor failed for lack of a second.

DeWitt Weaver, athletic director of Texas Tech, said the vote this time indicated his school was making progress and that he had high hopes it would get into the conference soon.

The vote on Tech was among the last business transacted by the faculty committee, governing body of the conference. Among other things the lifting of a post-season ban on Texas A&M sports other than football was voted down.

Texas A&M is on probation for violating recruiting rules and is forbidden to play post-season games. The proposal was that the ban be taken off of all sports except football since football was the sport in which the violations occurred.

Howard Grubbs, executive secretary, said it was felt that since the probation would be reviewed at the May meeting with the idea of probably lifting it, action was not taken now. The only sport involved between now and May is basketball.

The vote on Tech came as a substitution motion. There was a motion on the table, placed there at the May, 1954, meeting, to invite Tech into the conference. Tech got only three votes then, and the motion never got off the table. Four votes were provided to take if off the table but when it came off there was a substitute motion to invite Tech to make application for membership.

This was done because of the integration involved in Tech coming into the conference — it would have to work out schedules and determine what sports would be carried, and a "breathing' space would be necessary. The substitution motion failed to get the necessary five votes.

Baylor, TCU, Texas and A&M faculty representatives said they had voted for Tech. The other three schools — Arkansas, Rice and SMU — would not give their vote but it was obvious that they went against Tech.

The faculty committee said the motion was made that Texas Tech be invited to submit an application for membership and this failed to receive the two-thirds majority vote necessary.

The question of expansion was taken up by submission of a motion to take a motion made in 1954, and which had been tabled, off of the table. This carried and then a substitute motion was made that Tech be invited and this failed to pass.

Thus the conference will continue with seven members as has been the case since 1925. Members of the conference are Texas, Texas A&M, Rice, SMU, Baylor, Arkansas, and TCU.

Tech first made an application in 1927, two years after the college was founded. Since then it has been voted upon numerous times but never before obtained more than three votes.

The vote this time was not announced.

The vote does not mean Tech can't be brought up again. General opinion was that Tech was in better shape now than before. It is off the table and ready for a fresh vote.

Weaver said he was disappointed in not getting the Arkansas vote because he understood it would be forthcoming. He was not disconsolate. He said he thought prospects were better now than ever before.

Tech, a school with 7,000 enrollment, was founded in 1925. It is a member of the Border Conference and its perennial football champion.

Indicating that all still is not well along the recruiting front, the conference said it was hiring a firm of private investigators to look into rules infractions. It is the General Research Co. of Houston and Dallas.

Grubbs said he had been using individual private eyes the past two years but now the conference had put the company on a retainer. This means, he said, the scope of investigation is to be enlarged. Grubbs said there were some reports on rules violations at the meeting today but no action was taken.

The committee passed a motion that there be no set penalties but that each violation be considered on its merits. It was decided that not less than 20 days notice must be provided any school that it has violated the rules. This is to give the accused school time to prepare evidence.

There will be no set standard of penalities from now on. The committee will decide the degree of guilt and the penalty warranted.

Meeting Of Water Study Group Set

BIG SPRING Dec. 10 — E. V. Spence, general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, has convoked a meeting of a committee to explore means of financing extensive evaporation control studies.

Spence is to confer in Fort Worth Sunday with Howard R. Drew, Fort Worth, of Texas Electric Service; Henry Graeser, Dallas, superintendent of the Dallas water department; Austin P. Hancock, Abilene city manager; C. R. Marks, Houston, vice president of Ambursen Engineering Corp.; and Euel Stephens, director of the Fort Worth Water department. His group was appointed at a recent session of the Southwest Research Institute at San Antonio to see if means of underwriting a $20,000 program of study can be found.

In a report to the San Antonio meeting, Dr. Louis Koenig, vice president of the Institute, pointed out that 83 reservoirs in Texas with capacity of 1,000 acre feet or more together have a capacity of 12 million acre feet. Records estimate that evaporation accounts for loss of 4 million acre feet per annum, while actual useage is 8 million acre feet. It was the sense of the meeting that a major conservation of water would be possible if evaporation could be retarded.

Under ideal conditions, Columbia University experiments shows that fatty alcohols formed a film that reduced evaportaion to one tenthousandth of normal. Experiments in Australia, while not conclusive by any means, have projected conjecture that under practical conditions up to 45 per cent of normal evaporative loss could be prevented. Some studies have pointed to compounds which would do the job at the cost of 50 cents or less per annum per acre foot of water saved.

Importance of the evaporation factor is reflected in figures on Lake J. B. Thomas.

The lake started with approximately 76,000 acre feet of water and had an inflow of an additional 127,000 acre feet, or a gross supply of 202,660 acre feet for the year. Consumption from the lake will be slightly over 12,000 acre feet by the end of the year, when there will be something like 173,000 acre feet on hand. That means that one and a half times as much water was lost through evaporation as will be put to beneficial uses.

If, ultimately, 40 per cent of that loss could be prevented, it would represent more than the demands of the City of Big Spring for a year.

Preliminary studies have not indicated that plant or fish life is effected by the experimental compounds, but this would be one of the objectives of the studies. Plans are to carry on experiments in the labratory with certain fatty alcohols as well as to research into other materials (such as waxes on some desert plants). Most promising of these would be put to controlled trials in small ponds and pools (for information on effect of wave action, dust, rain, freezing, etc.). Dr. Koenig estimated that bulk of this work could be accomplished within 18 months at a cost of approximately $20,000.

Were this series of study and experiments successful, then another phase of testing would be started by using larger bodies of water.

The committee's job at Fort Worth, however, will be to see if there are enough businesses and agencies interested in the project to back up the first phase.

Shepperd To Push For Trial Of Parr

AUSTIN, Dec. 10 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Shepperd said today a strenuous effort would be made to bring South Texas politican George Parr to trial in January on one or more indictments alleging conspiracy to misapply funds and making false entries in bank records.

Shepperd and Dist. Atty. Sam Burris of Alice said this in a joint statement. They were talking about plans to bring Parr to trial.

They said they would confer with a number of county and district attorneys soon in an effort to obtain settings of Duval County indictments in January or February.

Letter Threats Sent Negroes

ORANGEBURG, S.C., Dec .10 (AP)—Threatening letters are being received by Negroes here in a tussle between white merchants and Negro customers arising out of the school integration ruling, an NAACP official said today.

Mrs. H. F. Pierce, widowed housewife and vice president of the Orangeburg branch of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, said she has turned a threatening letter over to local police.

"This wasn't the only one," she said officers told her, "received by Negroes here. The Federal Bureau of Investigation has it, and they told me they have others and are comparing them."

Mrs. Pierce said a boycott of Orangeburg white merchants by Negroes is "widespread." The boycott started when the Orangeburg Citizens Council announced a drive for economic pressure on Negroes seeking integration of white and Negro school pupils on the basis of a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that segregation is unconstitutional.

She said the boycott is being carried on by many Negroes who are not NAACP members.

Employment Records Set

AUSTIN, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Texas Employment Commission reported to Gov. Shivers today a number of records had been set during the year.

Non-farm employment hit a new high in December, 1954, another in June, 1955, and has been steadily climbing.

Farm employment ran high—309,000 at the cotton harvest peak.

Unemployment reports sank to a new low of 107,100 in August, 15,000 below a year earlier.

The number of employers subject to the unemployment compensation act—and consequently the number of workers covered—increased 5.1 per cent.

Weekly earnings of production workers averaged $75.42, a gain of $3.21 over 1954.

Odd Mishaps Dot Calender For Past Year

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 (AP) — Three dogs, a rabbit and a fish all played roles in some of 1955's oddest accidents.

Each year the National Safety Council rounds up some of the most unusual mishaps that emphasize the old saying that "Anything can happen." For instance:

Two canines that ended up in the doghouse after having tried their hands, or paws, at driving their masters' automobiles were a Boer in Black River Falls, Wis., and a Doberman Pinscher in Fort Wayne, Ind. Both crashed into obstacles.

In New Liberty, Iowa, 12-year-old David Dahl placed his rifle against a ladder in the barn and started to climb to the loft. His dog, Terry, jumped on the ladder and struck the rifle trigger with his paw. The young master was shot, according to the Council, "just below the hayloft."

Last June a jackrabbit made news near Grand Forks, N. D. when it leaped high into the air directly into the path of a crop-dusting plane being flown close to the ground by Leo Mondry. A badly damaged propeller forced the plane to land.

A fish story that figured prominently was the freshly caught catfish which flopped around in the bottom of Bobby Bright's boat, struck the trigger of his rifle and shot him in the arm. That happened near Gonzales, Tex.

Mrs. Dorothy Gazzeny of Detroit, broke into the papers when she brushed her teeth so vigorously that she swallowed the toothbrush.

The man who got shot by the door of his automobile is Gene Scott who was getting out of the car when the wind blew the door shut on his coat pocket. In the pocket was a rifle cartridge and "bang." Scott got shot.

A green traffic light in Atlanta, Ga., played a strange trick on motorist E. T. Drake Jr. As he dutifully obeyed the overhead signal that flashed him a green go-ahead the light fell on top of his car and sent him to the hospital.

The Sapp brothers — Stanton and Daniel — ran into each other on the street in their home town of Mount Vernon, Ohio. That would have been all right except that each of the brothers was driving a car. Neither was injured but the mishap proved the need for a safety slogan such as "Be your brother's keeper—stop accidents."

The ballet, "Streetcar Named Desire" came up with a knockout finish at one performance when tiny ballerina Nora Kaye whirled in the middle of a pirouette and caught her husky partner, Igor Youskevitch smack in the mouth with her elbow.

Youskevitch went down for a full count.

Finally, in Los Angeles, Lewis Jackson Jr. spotted a sign over a used car salesroom that read "We need your car—drive in."

Jackson did just that—with his throttle stuck.

The car crashed through a heavy wooden door, sideswiped two glistening cars on the showroom floor, ran head-on into a costly convertible and bounced the convertible into another car.

The boss took down the sign.

Cheatham Gets Boost For Job From Towery

KERRVILLE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Pulitzer Prize winner Kenneth Towery said today he had urged Gov. Shivers to name Wiley Cheatham 24th District Attorney.

He told reporters at the Kerrville Veteran's Hospital he believed the choice was a good one and that Shivers "would have been open to a great deal more criticism if he had not appointed him."

Shivers' appointment of Cheatham prompted the resignation of the state Democratic executive committeeman from Victoria, Gene Houchins, a longtime Shivers supporter.

Houchins said the governor disregarded the wishes of his staunchest and most loyal friends in naming Cheatham.

Shivers said he named Cheatham to help him pursue his work in bringing to light wrongdoing in the veterans land program.

Cheatham was the county attorney credited with breaking the veterans land scandals. Towery won a Pulitzer Prize for his work in bringing early instances of wrongdoing to light in the newspaper for which he worked at Cuero. He subsequently became ill and has been in the hospital here.

Victoria critics of the governor said they had no objection to Cheatham personally, but that the governor had disregarded the wishes of state Sen. William Fly who had recommended the Victoria city attorney for the place.

The usual procedure in such appointments is to clear them with the state senator of the district. Such appointments are subject to confirmation of the Senate.

Houston Body Found

HOUSTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The body of an unidentified man was found floating face down in Buffalo Bayou in downtown Houston today.

THERE'S STILL TIME TO BUILD CHRISTMAS TOYS

By BILL BAKER

Christmas is getting close!

But there is still time — if you act fast — to add a few special items to your Christmas-giving list.

I want to tell you about a new trio of toys that you'll be able to build at home in a few hours. And, I'm sure you'll agree, they will be ideal for those special children on your list.

The first toy that you'll be building with my pattern package number 135 — it is the Toy Trio Number Two — is an unusual circus wagon with a giraffe neatly placed inside.

The circus wagon, a sturdy rolling toy, will especially place the youngster. As the toy moves along the giraffe nods his head up and down in a steady manner.

Second toy in the package is an elephant, also mounted on a circus wagon. Because it includes a special coupling, your youngster will be able to attach it to the giraffe wagon and make a circus train.

A beautiful rabbit cut-out is the third toy in the package. Designed as a wall plaque, actually the rabbit can be used in many play activities.

Here's how your project will go after you receive your pattern package:

With a full material list that is included in the package you'll be able to make a one-trip visit to your lumberyard. And you'll purchase only those materials which you'll actually use. There won't be any waste of material with this project, which will help your budget.

In your workshop, then, you'll read the easy-to-understand instruction sheet. No double-talk here. You'll easily obtain a full picture of the easy and fun-filled job that is ahead for you.

Then you'll discover that each section of each of the three toys is duplicated, in your pattern package, in an exact-size pattern. Much like a dress pattern, these pattern pieces are tacked to the wood, traced and then cut.

You won't have to use a lot of elaborate equipment for building the toys. A coping saw, hammer, screw driver and sand paper will actually see you through.

The last job will be painting the toys. Suggestions for this phase of the project are also included in the pattern package.

And then comes the best part of all — the joy you'll see when you present the toys to your children.

Here's how you can get Toy Trio Number Two: send your name and address (clearly printed), together with only fifty cents ($.50) in coin, check or money order, to Bill Baker, Snyder Daily News, P. O. Box 1111, Los Angeles 53, California. Be sure to ask for pattern number 135.

And there is still time to get Toy Trio Number One — a horse head for tricycle, a rolling duck and a sturdy circus wagon. Trio 130, is also 50 cents.

But get your order in today.

Thieves Work Overtime In North Texas Town

BURKBURNETT, Dec. 10 (AP) — Burglars worked overtime while this North Texas town of 7,000 slept last night.

Proprietors discovered today eight business houses were burglarized. Safes were "peeled" in six places, more than $500 cash taken, a new sedan was stolen but discovered a few blocks away, abandoned and its engine still running.

Probe Slated For Beaumont

BEAUMONT, Dec. 10 (AP)—A grand jury investigation of local gambling has been ordered as a result of complaints filed by a newspaper reporter who had been told nothing could be done unless complaints were filed.

Judge Owen Lord ordered the Jefferson County grand jury into session yesterday and instructed it to "redouble its efforts" in investigating gambling.

The Beaumont Journal has carried news stories about gambling but said Dist. Atty. Ramie Griffin declared formal complaints were necessary before an investigation could be made.

Allan Wegemer, Journal reporter who produced the gambling accounts, filed two complaints. He acted after being called before the grand jury.

Lord directed that the grand jury "call peace officers from all over the county." If the jury finds that gambling has got out of hand and we can't handle it locally," the judge said, "outside help" will be called in.

Rangers are sometimes assigned by the governor to make raids on gambling establishments.

Christmas Preparations Underway

Christmas parties, and preparing for the parties, is a big part of the Christmas season and preparing for the visit of St. Nick. THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS

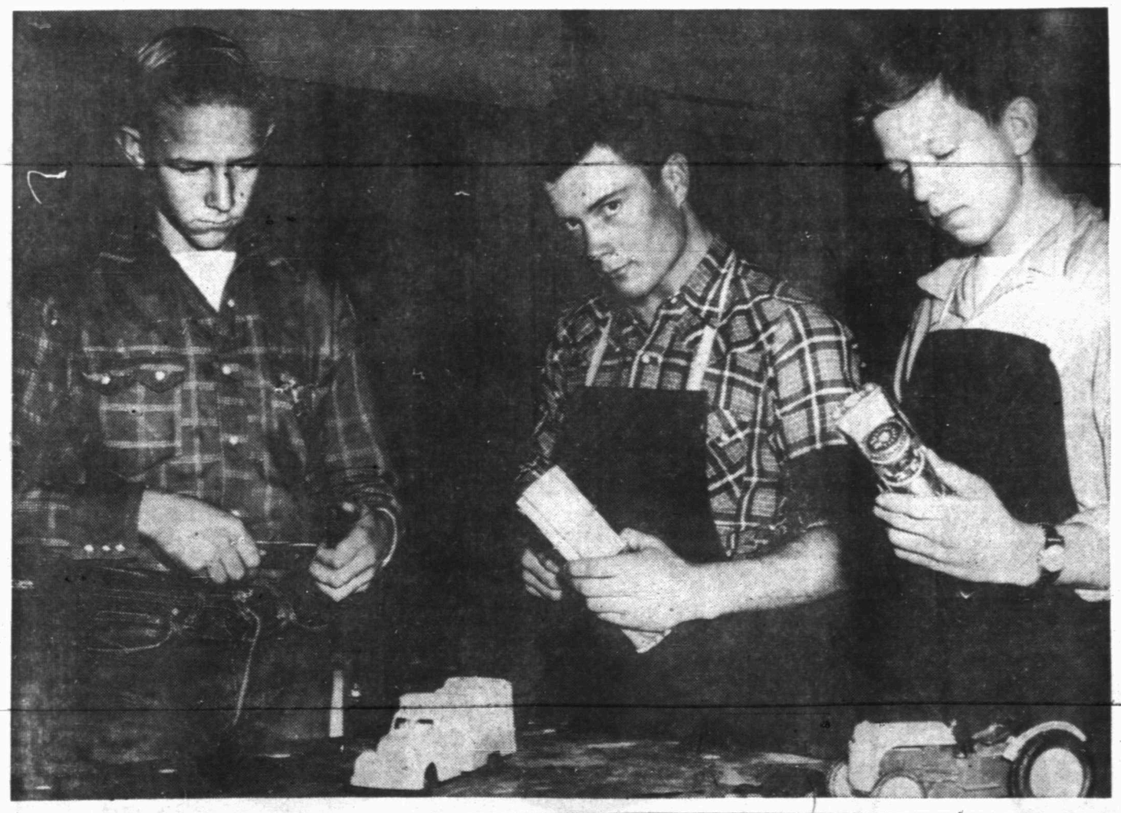
VOL. 6, No. 193 SNYDER, TEXAS, SUNDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1955 SECTION B

Christmas is the one season of the year in which the children become the most important members of the family. Parties are held to entertain them, and for them to exchange gifts. One such party held this week was the Halliburton Co. Christmas party, where the above picture was made. Santa Claus was drawn into the party room on his sled pulled by girls dressed in red shorts, white blouses, and with Mesquite tree branches, painted silver, in their hair to form reindeer antlers. More than 70 persons attended the party.



Repairing toys in the Snyder High School shop classes will be one of the big preparations for Christmas made in Snyder. Toys being turned into the central fire station now will be renovated in the shop classes for distribution to children who might otherwise not receive a toy for Christmas. The Kiwanis Club will distribute the toys. The boys from left are: Billy Gohlke, Dwayne Overman, and Skipper Moore.

Preparation for Christmas, of course, includes several trips to toy stores and gift counters, with the children along to decide—and redecide many times—what they want most for Christmas. The children above of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Williams, 203 Thirty-fourth Street, appear to have made up their minds about what they wish to find in their socks on Christmas morning. They are, from left: Jimmy, Patsy, and Tommie Sue Williams.

MRS. CLYDE COLVIN, JR.—Melba Joy Eubank, daughter of Mrs. Fay Eubank, 2910 Avenue C, and Wayne Eubank, Ira, became the bride of SP-3 Clyde Colvin, Jr., son of Mrs. J. D. Wilson, 2405 Avenue I, in a double ring ceremony at Ft. MacAuthur, Los Angeles, Calif., on Dec. 7.

MISCELLANY

By LOUISE BLANCHARD

Gifts for the home are no problem if the members of your family are in accord on matters of taste, interior decor, and such. In fact there need be no agreement on such matters with the children, especially those under four, so long as husband and wife are of one mind. For instance, there was a certain Tad and Madge Treadwell, who were longing to find a wrought iron deer "to finish off the front lawn" as they put it. No doubt, then, if either of these enthusiasts had stumbled across such an animal before December 25th, there would have been no need for hesitation in saying, "Put a bow on it, this is going to be a gift for the home."

Not all couples, however, are so completely of one mind on the subject of wrought iron deer, or of any other objects which could be generally classified as gifts for the home. A man never goes far wrong dragging home a Cadillac, or even a washing machine, for those are items which it is hoped will be used directly or indirectly by all members of the family. Of course, there are other items which could be enjoyed by all the family, but will they be? For instance, we have known women who were demi-tasse collectors, and who had husbands who looked on drinking coffee out of one of those about the way he would look on taking his milk from an eye dropper. Now such a woman would be making a serious error in the object of her preposition if she said, "This exquisite afterdinner cup and saucer will make a perfect gift for the home", because that sentence should end "for me." In other words, make sure when you are giving a gift for the home, you aren't finding a way to sneak a certain coveted object into the house without looking too selfish about it!

May we suggest that a new gift category be started, be limited to one gift for each member of the family and that it be called "a gift for me".

On the matter of gifts from children, we decided to consult a wise mother of six (children), and here is what she said. "We don't have a large income, with this many children I certainly can't give them all money to get me Christmas presents, and any money they make themselves I would rather see spent on presents for their friends. So, for years my husband and I have encouraged our children to make their presents for us. Some of them are awfully funny—for instance, I think every one of my girls has at one time or another made a pin cushion for me, so lumpy that it would take a hammer to get a pin into it. Then in my collection I also have pen wipers, needle holders, bags made out of scraps for shoes, mirrors, hankies, and such. There are embroidered tea towels, and Oh, yes, one year my youngest daughter handed me a handsome looking package, and you'll never guess what was inside, — one sweet potato! I gasped when I saw it, it was so unexpected, 'Don't you like it mother, it's to grow a sweet potatoe vine! Since then nothing they come up with surprises me." She paused as if searching for the exact words she wanted, "What I want to say is that these funny, unimportant little gifts mean more to me than diamonds or rubies. For they are a personal expression of my children's affection, much more so than something they simply bought."

At last the list of women' sorganizations is finished. We are reminded at this point of what Samuel Johnson said when some lady pointed out a mistake he had made in his dictionary and wanted to know why, "ignorance, madam, pure ignorance," was his reply. And so it may be with this list. If, however, you see some point you think should be corrected, please let us know, then next year's list will be that much improved.

Stop And Pop

Sure as frost on the pumpkin, chill Fall evenings call for bowls and bowls of pop corn. Pop corn stays fresh, at the peak of popping perfection, when it's freezer-stored. And here's a recommended variation: Combine 1 cup sugar, ½ cup white corn syrup, 3 tablespoons butter and 3 squares of chocolate. Cook to hard ball stage, (approximately 254 degrees F.)

Pour over 4 quarts freshly popped corn and mix quickly. Butter hands and shape pop corn into delicious chocolate covered balls.

MR. AND MRS. DON MARVIN DRUM

Gillum-Drum Double Ring Wedding Vows Exchanged

Before a mantle decorated with autumn leaves and white candles with tall baskets filled with white mums on each side of the fireplace, Shirley Elaine Gillum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Gillum, Hermleigh, became the bride of Don Marvin Drum, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Drum, Fluvanna, in a double ring ceremony at 2:30 p.m. Dec. 4 in the bride's home. Ted Norton, minister of the Twenty - fifth Street Church of Christ officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original model dress of white imported chantilly lace and nylon tulle, over net and satin, designed with a high neckline, framed with an up-standing collar held with lace appliques and outlined with seed pearls and rhinestones. The fitted lace bodice had a sheer yoke outlined with scolloped lace, long sleeves ending in points over the hands, lined with seed pearls and rhinestones and terminated with a deep point at the center front waist line. From this, stemmed a waltz length skirt, fashioned with alternating panels of lace and tulle, fully shirred; the fullness of lace tulle and satin was emphasized by crinolin worn underneath. She wore a veil of silk illusion joined to a cornet of rhinestones and seed pearls ,and carried a bouquet of gardinias with streamers of nosegay.

Linda Alls of Lubbock, cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor. Robert Lynn Drum, brother of the groom, was the best man.

Pianist, Mrs. M. M. O'Rear, played traditional music and Mrs. Wade Davis and Mrs. Alfred Lieb sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "Tell Me Why."

The reception was in the bride's home with Lynn Warren, Lubbock and Jan Wellborn, Snyder, both cousins of the bride, presiding. The table was covered with a white nylon lace cloth and the centerpiece was the brides bouquet with silver candelabra and white candles. The cake was three tiered, solid white. Mrs. Robert Lynn Drum presided at the guest book.

The bride is a graduate of Snyder High School and attended Texas Tech. The groom graduated from Fluvanna High School and also attended Texas Tech. He is self employed.

For her traveling costume the bride chose a brown wool suit with scattered rhinestone pins on the collar and beige accessories. After a short trip to Florida the couple will be at home at 2311 Forty-first Street.

Out of town guests included Mrs. W. B. Warren, Lynn Ann Warren, Mrs. Bess Alls, James B. Alls, Miss Linda Alls, Miss Nancy Hays, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Boyd, all of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Reeder of Fluvanna; Miss Barbara Reeder and Mr. and Mrs. Sid Reeder of Gail. About 75 friends and relatives attended.

War Brides Shocked By 'Ignorance'

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

War brides from Australia, Europe and the Orient are shocked at the ignorance of the average American about other countries, says Nina Pulliam, confirmed globe-trotter, author and publishing executive.

Blonde, petite Mrs. Pulliam is the author of "I Traveled a Lonely Land" (Bobbs Merrill), a lively account of her four-month trip by plane, truck and horseback through the vast and little chronicled land of Australia. She traveled with typewriter and camera, and fell in love with the koala bears, the kangaroos and all the flora and fauna of the land Down Under.

Wife of Eugene C. Pulliam, publisher of the Indianapolis Star and News, Mrs. Pulliam has visited 77 countries thus far, usually accompanied by her husband, and she customarily sends back dispatches to the News and six other papers in Indiana and Phoenix, Ariz. Says she:

"There are a few places I haven't seen yet, but I intend to cover them all before I stop—and revisit the ones I liked best."

This alert and vivacious travel fan has built a career of excitement, adventure and solid success on her early interest in journalism. She wrote for a farm journal while still in college, joined it staff on graduation and joined the Pulliam organization when the editor of the farm magazine was asked by Pulliam to "send us your best man."

The "best man" turned out to be a blue-eyed, golden-haired slip of a girl, who helped the publisher reorganize a number of newspapers in Oklahoma before she became Mrs. Pulliam. Despite her strictly feminine appearance, Mrs. Pulliam has a keen business mind, is an officer of the publishing company, and has specialized in the business end of publishing almost from the start.

american designer pattern

Ceil Chapman creates some of the best-selling designs in America because she is constantly creating dresses that do something for a woman. Whatever that "something" is, this Chapman model with its yoked bosom, beautiful skirt, and one of the most flattering necklines in the world is sure to do it. Intricately designed but easy to handle, it consists of a bias fold that frames the neck and shoulders, crosses in front to end in nothingness on the bias-cut yoke. The princess lines of the body itself hug the midriff area and then are released into deep inverted pleats at the side seams both front and back. Make it in gleaming satin, whispery taffeta, rich brocade for wear right now. Later on, you'll love it in printed silk or taffeta and novelty cottons. This pattern is cut to Designer Measurements, not Standard Pattern Measurements. Size 12 requires 7⅛ yards of 39-inch material for dress and ⅞ yard of 39-inch material for lining. To order Pattern No. 1240, address Spadea Syndicate, Inc., P. O. Box 535, G.P.O., Dept. S-13, New York 1, N.Y. State size. Send $1.00. Airmail handling 25c extra. New 144 page Pattern Booklet XII available for 50c. If paying by check, make it payable to Spadea Syndicate, Inc., and add 4c for handling.

Mellon Stamp Issue

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Ceremonies will be held in the National Gallery of Art here Dec. 20 to inaugurate the first day issue of a 3-cent stamp bearing the portrait of Andrew W. Mellon.

This is the centennial year of the birth of Mellon, a Pittsburgh banker who was secretary of the Treasury from 1921 to 1932 and then ambassador to Great Britain. He donated the building for the National Gallery.

There are about 1,500 species of palms.

FOR GOOD EATING

This is a no-cook recipe for fruit cake, requested recently by A. L. P. It has been tested and found to be successful.

ICEBOX FRUIT CAKE

1 lb. graham crackers
1 8 oz. jar of cherries
1 lb. package of marshmellows
½ pint of whipping cream
1-2 cups pecans
1 lb. dates

Chop all above ingredients and roll crackers into fine crumbs, mixing well, use cherry juice and cream. Pack into loaf pan, cover with wax paper, chill and serve. Will keep a month or more.

Add a little finely diced celery to those canned salmon croquettes for good flavor and texture contrast.

Broadway Can't Handle All Of Year's Best Dramatic Shows

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—Broadway, now at the midway mark in a season of record success, is finding prosperity pleasing—and perplexing.

The big delight: box office grosses nearing an all-time mark of a million dollars per week.

The big poser: how to find room for other shows.

Main reason for such a strange dilemma is the exceptional series of remarkable dramatic offerings which have arrived on the Great White Way since September.

Take a comparison with last season alone:

Through mid-December of last year, 24 shows arrived, including a couple for limited engagements only; 10 quickly flopped. Through mid-December this year, 25—including 4 limited engagements—have come to town; only 7 have had to quit. Further, the quality of the winners has been exceptional.

Add to the current crop 11 hildover shows from previous seasons and it is easy to see why every available auditorium is booked while an envious swarm of other plays have to delay production or remain out on tour in the hinterlands.

It's this that has a lot of Broadway's wisest heads wondering.

"When the Lunts have to stay out of town for weeks and weeks—and then take only an interim booking, the theater jam is bad indeed," one veteran said.

He referred to the Lindsay-Crouse comedy "The Great Sebastians," which stars Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne. The show comes into the ANTA Jan. 5 amid hopes that some other theater will become available before its 4½-week lease expires. Another show is already booked to move into the ANTA then.

Second Looks at First Nights: The highly successful mood of the season continued with the arrival of Thornton Wilder's "The Matchmaker." A farce which stars veteran Ruth Gordon, it discards Wilder's usual symbolism and emerges as boisterous fun.

Another theatrical surprise has been the first U. S. appearance of Her Britannic Majesty's Scots Guards band, highland pipers and dancers. On tour, it was booked for a single New York appearance and has had to play three extra performances in vast Madison Square Garden this week to satisfy capacity throngs cheering the smart precision skirling and prancing.

A slightly less enthusiastic note greeted the arrival of the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical "Pipe Dream" a few evenings earlier. Actually, it is a pleasant, leisurely evening and has a number of pleasing R & H songs.

Real Ham Stands In For Actor In Film

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Real knockout blows don't sound real on the screen. So Columbia sound man Lambert Day came up with a unique gimmick for the numerous fight sequences in "The Harder They Fall," the picture that stars Humphrey Bogart and ex-heavyweight champions Max Baer and Jersey Joe Walcott.

Day solved the punching problem with a side of ham and a pair of boxing gloves. He hung the ham next to a sensitive mike and had Walcott and Baer bang away at it with a series of explosive blows. The sound then will be synchorized with the ring action.

Comments Bogart: "Probably the first time in Hollywood history that a real ham stood in for a ham actor."

Jack Webb Is Nudged Out Of Top 10

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I'll give those rascals a run for their money."

This, translated into family-paper English, was the vow of Jack Webb. The sleek sleuth of Dragnet has declared war on CBS' Climax, which has nudged him out of the top 10 shows for the first time in his TV history.

Webb, who fought his way to the top of the show business heap, isn't going to take this sitting down. No. 1 in his plan of attack is to move his who from the 9 p.m. to the 8:30 slot.

"We've always had to fight for our audience," he explained. "We never had a strong show before or after us. I don't mean they weren't good shows; I mean we didn't inherit any audience from them.

"Now at 8:30 we'll follow Groucho, and that ought to do us a lot of good. After all, they put Climax on at 8:30 and they always managed to have a cliff-hanger at five minutes before nine. Pretty sneaky. I don't blame people for not wanting to turn the dial to see us.

"But I don't think our only problem is in time slotting. Perhaps we can do a better job than what we have been doing. Now we're putting more money into the shows and we've got some new gimmicks."

One of the new gimmicks is a real romance for Joe Friday. He has had a gal in the past, but it was done as an experiment to test public reaction. The reaction was good.

Webb added that he has a new setting to work with. He has done a lot of filming at Los Angeles' modern police headquarters. His first show at the 8:30 time—Jan. 5—will feature a tour through the building.

OFFICERS of the McMurry Indian Band, which will be presented in a concert here Wednesday morning during a tour of nine West Texas cities, include Billy Temple of Lamesa, Stella Bergen of Phillips, and Bob Newman of Tuscola.

McMurry College Band Slates Snyder Concert Wednesday

ABILENE (Spl.) — The McMurry College Indian Band will be es , symphonic selections, solos, presented in a concert of marchand specialty numbers at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Snyder High School auditorium.

The McMurry Band's concert in Snyder, under direction of Raymond T. Bynum, will be one of nine which it will give on a four-day winter tour of West Texas cities.

Bynum said that some of the numbers to be played by the band are the same as those used last spring on its 16-day concert and sight-seeing tour of five European capital cities.

The concert will get underway with a brassy fanfare by the band's six herald trumpets. After this, the musicial program will open with the march "Emblem of Unity," and the overture "The Beautiful Galatea."

Several instrumental soloists will be featured on the band's winter tour, including Bob Newman, cornetist; Stella Bergen, alto saxophone; Don Davis, trombone; Audrey Carver, marimba; and Peggy Campbell, vibraharp.

Additional variety is supplied by a cornet trio playing "The Three Modernaires," a piccolo-bassoon duet on "The cricket and the Bullfrog; and numerous sambas, mambos, and other Latin-American rhythms.

Dorothy King, soprano, a featured vocalist on the band's European tour, will sing "Sweethearts," from the operatta Maytime.

Holiday flavor of the Christmas season will be added to the program by a vocal trio rendition of "Winter Wonderland" by th Campbell sisters, band members from Lamesa.

The 54-piece concert band will make the winter tour in the two Flexible buses owned by McMurry College. Other cities and communities in which they will perform are Hamlin, Spur, Lockney, Abernathy, Littlefield, Levelland, Lamesa and Matador.

Brynum has been a professor of instrumental music and director of the band at McMurry College since 1946. Prior to that he served 20 years in the Abilene Public School system, directing the Abilene High School Eagle Band, all-girls' band, orchestra, and conducting the instrumental music program of the city's entire school system.

During that period, some 2,000 different pupils received musical training under his baton.

Since coming to McMurry, Bynum has built a college band which is well-known and well-received throughout Texas and the southwest. In ever - increasing numbers, his student bandsmen are going out to jobs as band directors in public schools.

Bynum is one of about 150 members in the highly selective American Bandmasters Association. He also holds membership in the Masons, Texas Music Educators Association, and the Texas Bandmasters Association. He is listed in Who's Who in Music and Who's Who in the South and Southwest.

Critics Get Berle's Goat

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOCD, Dec. 10 (AP)—Do critics bother stars?

A close friend of Milton Berle discloses that the television star's recent collapse was not, as reported, due to physical exhaustion.

"Milton," the friend reveals, "is emotionally sick because of unjust criticism from some New York critics."

Pressed as to why the New York critics—if such is the case—are out after Berle, the friend answered: "Milton always got an honest shake until he decided to move his show from New York to Hollywood. Let's face it, all television is coming to Hollywood and the New York boys are fighting it for the sake of their jobs and prestige."

Berle, before his collapse, told me that for the first time in his 40 years of show business he is at a loss to know what the public wants from him.

"I used to read in the columns that the public was tiring of the 'old Berle' so I changed to a 'new Berle.' It wasn't long until I read that the public preferred 'the old Berle' so I changed back.

The Snyder Story...

THE MANHATTAN COFFEE SHOP STORY

The story of the Manhattan Coffee Shop, under the ownership and management of Mrs. Alfred (Leona) Weathers, is one of success based on the simple premise of serving its customers what they want to eat in "letting them satisfy their own apetites."

That is true because the main feature of the Manhattan Coffee Shop is its family - style meals served at noon and at night everyday.

"We always serve the customer a choice of three meats, at least four vegetables, and from one to three salads, and just let the customer eat until his apetite is completely satisfied," Mrs. Weathers said.

Mrs. Weathers has operated the Manhattan Coffee Shop for a total of five years, having operated it during the year of 1949, during the height of the oil boom here, and since March of 1952.

Although the Manhattan specializes in family-style meals, it also serves a complete menu of a la carte orders, breakfasts, steaks, and short orders.

One of the things Mrs. Weathers is proud of is the assistance she has in operating the business from her five employes. They are Mrs. Mary Hatter, who worked with her in 1949, and since June of this year; Mrs. Sylvia Goodwin, another waitress; Mrs. Alice Hazel, morning cook; Mrs. Addie Morton, evening cook at the Manhattan for the past two years; Mrs. Opal Tatum, a cooks helper who has been with the Manhattan staff for the past year. Frank Ortiz is dishwasher for the Manhattan.

Another specialty of the Manhattan Coffee Shop is catering to banquets and parties, and a modern banquet room which seats comfortably 40 persons has already been booked for many parties for the Christmas season, but is still available for more.

The Manhattan also prepares foods for parties held in private homes, or where cooking facilities are not available.

"One of our mainstays during and since the boom has been preparation of lunches to take out," Mrs. Weathers said.

The Manhattan Coffee Shop is open from 5:30 o'clock each morning until 8 o'clock at night, except Sunday nights when it closes at 7 o'clock.

THE LINE & LINE OIL CO. STORY

The story of Line and Line Oil Co., Standard Oil Co. products wholesale distributors for Snyder and Scurry County, is one of progress not only in the community they serve, but in the products they sell.

The firm has been operating in Snyder since 1949, but became Line & Line Oil Co. in 1951, when Mrs. Carrie Line, one of the present owners, purchased the interests of a former partner in the business. The firm is now owned by Mrs. Line and her son, Bill Line.

Mrs. Line purchased the interest of Fred Davis in the firm, after she had worked as bookkeeper for the firm for some time. Davis is Mrs. Line's brother, and the entire business has been "sort of a family affair all the time," Mrs. Line says.

From an humble start the business has constantly grown to where it now serves five retail outlets in Snyder, as well as Standard Oil Co. stations in Hermleigh, Midway and Ira.

To provide complete service to their retail service station outlets, Line & Line Oil Co. provides 50,000-gallon gasoline storage facilities, and a large warehouse for other Standard Oil Co. products.

In addition to the storage and warehousing facilities the firm provides a large transport truck to haul large orders of liquid fuels from the refinery to the storage warehouse, two delivery tank trucks, and a pickup truck for local deliveries.

The Standard distributors here serve these retail service stations. Henderson & Sharp Standard Station on the Lamesa highway in west Snyder; the W. R. Burns Standard Station on the Clairemont Road; J. H. Martin, Jr., Standard Station, on Twenty-fifth Street in East Snyder; H. G. Bynum Standard Station on Twenty-fifth Street in East Snyder; and the Joe Eades Standard Station on the East Highway. Other retail outlets in Scurry County are the John Vernon Standard Station in Hermleigh; the Odis Firestone Standard Station at Midway on the Roby highway; and the A. H. Kruse Standard Station at Ira.

All the retail Standard stations in the county except the Eades, Firestone and Burns stations offer all modern service station services to motorists and truckers.

Just as the local firm has constantly improved its services here by the expansion and improvement of its facilities, the Standard Oil Co. has made constant, and industry-leading improvements in its products.

One of the recent major improvements was the increase in the octane rating of the gasolines made about a year ago, Bill Line said.

Octane ratings of the Standard gasolines are now as high, or higher, than the gasolines of any major oil company, with the Standard regular gasoline having an octane rating of 87 ,and the Ethyl gasoline an octane rating of 95 plus, actually usually about 97 octane.

Another industry leading advance made by Standard Oil Co. in its products was the introduction more than two years ago of its new 10-30 Special, and 20-40 Special motor oils. These oils have the quality of being thin and easy flowing at cold temperatures, and become heavier as the temperature of an engine rises.

"These qualities insure not only more even lubrication of the engine under the different driving conditions, but offer it complete lubrication protection when the engine gets hot on the long, hard run,' 'Line said.

The thinner quality of the oil when it is cold makes the car engine easier to start on cold mornings, also.

In addition to the owners of the business, it employes Sig Line, another son of Mrs. Carrie Line, and F. J. Chapman, Jr., driver of the transport and delivery trucks.

HITLER'S PRIVATE LIFE

Goebbels Has His Children Poisoned

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in the series on the private life of Adolf Hitler as told by his personal valet.)

BY HEIN LINGE
Hitler's Personal Valet
(World Copyright 1955)

BERLIN — Of the men around Hitler — men who played a grim part in the misery which their master spread over Europe — I think Goebbels was closest of all to the Fuehrer.

The dapper little doctor liked a gay time. Wine, women and song was a recipe he strongly favored for a happy life and he used his post as Minister of Propaganda to cloak a number of affairs with actresses.

It always seemed odd to me, therefore, that in the early days just after Hitler came to power, it was Goebbels who was chosen to clean up the activities of some of the party leaders. That was when it had come to Hitler's ears that many of these men were using their power to engage in drinking orgies in their Berlin offices and that the girls employed there were more remarkable for beauty than for efficiency at their work.

I would like to say straight away that Goebbels was never just another yes man. Many times I have heard him disagree with Hitler in the days before the war when he used to lunch with the Fuehrer every day.

It was Goebbels who, as Gauleiter, conquered Red Berlin for the party. And he had the ear of Hitler on many other matters.

For example, he persuaded Hitler to admit Prince August Wilhelm into the Nazi party.

There had been a "power fight" between Goebbels and Strasser, another original member of the party, which ended in complete victory for Goebbels, and in 1934 Strasser was shot by the Gestapo.

I have searched my memory and I can recall only one occasion when I saw Hitler really angry with Goebbels.

It was when, on Goebbels' suggestion, a conference was called to discuss the progress of the war. Ribbentrop, Goering, Bormann, Himmler, Keitel, and Jodl were there and Goebbels, I think, was the chairman. When Hitler arrived at the conference expecting to hear some positive results of their deliberations, he came to the conclusion that they had done very little, and he blamed Goebbels for it.

Goebbels was a man of spirit who liked gay times. He had a great deal to do with film stars, and his affair with Lida Barova, which he carried on in his villa at Schwanenwerder, was an open secret. Hitler finally intervened to stop it.

All the same, over the years they remained close allies, and when the Hitler story came to that grim ending in the bunker below the ruined Chancellery, Goebbels was there, too, the central figure in a dark drama of his own.

After Hitler and Eva Braun committed suicide Goebbels assumed command in accordance with Hitler's declared desire. He had with him in the bunker his wife and their five children.

Day after day during the last weeks of the siege of Berlin the children, aged between three and 12, had played happily around the bunker during lulls in the bombing and shelling.

There had been many offers to get them away from Berlin. Several women promised to bring the children up as their own if Goebbels and his wife were killed or captured.

Steadfastly Goebbels refused their offers.

Then the time came when he took a terrible decision. He had sent General Krebs under a flag of truce to the Russians with instructions that he was willing to surrender Berlin if the German army was allowed to retreat toward the Western allies. The Russians, of course, refused to negotiate, but even as the parley was going on a grim scene was being enacted in the bunker. At a few minutes to five, when the Goebbels children normally had their afternoon coffee, they were visited by Dr. Stumpfegger, who was attached to the headquarters. They knew him well. They liked him and trusted him.

Frau Goebbels, who had been with the children a minute or two earlier, walked slowly out of the room, leaving the doctor and the children alone. What happened then I can conjecture because of what I learned and saw some minutes later.

The doctor must have gone to the children, patting each one on the head as he always used to do. Then, telling them to drink up their coffee, he would have told them: "I've a nice bon-bon for each of you."

Eagerly the children must have grabbed the sweets.

And each sweet contained a lethal dose of poison!

The doctor, who showed no sign of distress when he came out of the bunker, must have seen the children eat the bon-bons and watched them die.

I was outside the entrance at the time. I saw the doctor come out and nod his head in wordless indication to Frau Goebbels that the task he had been ordered to do had been carried out. Noiselessly Frau Goebbels slumped in a faint.

Earlier Goebbels had sworn he would insist on this terrible execution.

"I cannot allow my children to leave me," he said. "They would have my name and their future would be terrible if they fell into the hands of the Russians. It would be too awful for them".

Now he did not go to see his children. And a little while later he and his wife shot themselves.

An unpopular man with us at headquarters was Ribbentrop.

He was arrogant yet he tried to copy Hitler's every gesture, a habit which amused us very much. Behind the Fuehrer's back he would adopt an air of cynical disdain. For example, more than once he was called suddenly to Hitler's headquarters when he was in the middle of shaving.

"What should I do if the Fuehrer wants me?" Ribbentop would shout. "Should I stop shaving? Should I run with the soap on my face just because the Fuehrer wants to see me now?"

But despite all that talk he would arrive very quickly and always spick and span.

Ribbentrop was, of course, an Obergruppenfuehrer — a general —and usually wore the uniform of the S.S.

Behind his arrogant air he was always slightly nervous in entering Hitler's presence. He always asked me what mood Hitler was in before he went in. I always answered, even when I knew otherwise — because frankly I did not like Ribbentrop — "Hitler is in an excellent mood."

He was very touchy about his position. I remember when he complained because Von Neurath and not he stood next to the Fuehrer at Hitler's 50th birthday military parade. Hitler rebuked him saying, "Neurath is the head of a state, (Reich Protector of Czechoslovakia) and as such is entitled to stand next to me."

Ribbentrop and Goebbels were never on very good terms and on one occasion Goebbels found that Ribbentrop was to have the hotel room adjoining his own. Goebbels had all the furniture in Ribbentrop's room removed and piled outside in the corridor.

Perhaps it was Goebbels who drew Hitler's attention to Ribbentrop's growing personal staff, which included his own press and publicity department. Eventually Hitler asked for comparative figures showing the size of Ribbentrop's staff prewar and currently. Goebbels won that round, too. After recalling that Ribbentrop's only major mission after the outbreak of war was a project for Turkey which led to nothing, Hitler gave a direct order to Ribbentrop to reduce his staff.

But while Ribbentrop played little part in the conduct of the war his friendship with Hitler continued throughout the years. I think Hitler regarded him as the one man capable of negotiating the eventual surrender of England.

Ribbentrop was not one to be described as an "old party man" despite his long association with Hitler. He was more interested in being considered the great Ambassador of Germany.

Another party member close to Hitler was Albert Speer, an architect who became Minister for Munitions.

In the early days Hitler employed him as a building inspector in Berlin. An expert in art and architecture, Hitler turned to Speer for advice in his grandiose plans for the modernization of Germany. When Minister for Munitions Todt was killed in 1942, Hitler turned to Speer, who had impressed him as an organizer.

I don't know what explanation the Western world has of Todt's death, but we were told at Rastenburg he was killed when his plane exploded between 60 and 90 feet in the air after taking off from a nearby airfield.

Hitler said the British secret service had succeeded in introducing a bomb into the aircraft.

Later, with other members of the staff, I was shown a tube from the plane's oxygen breathing apparatus. We were told that the British secreted the explosive in one of the tubes to go off at a fixed height.

It is a victory for the British secret service," said Hitler. "They have killed one of my best men."

From the beginning of the war, Hitler's own plane was always guarded night and day. From the time of Todt's death onward, every plane likely to be used by any senior official was put under guard and every mechanism inspected carefully before takeoff.

Speer refused to accept any rank when Hitler made him minister. "I don't want to have to report to you through any Field Marshal," he told the Fuehrer.

Hitler declined to make use of Speer's last organizational efforts. When the end was near, Speer telephoned from Hamburg to say he could organize Hitler's rescue from the Berlin bunker, but the Fuehrer refused.

Agriculture Workers Set Council Meeting

About 50 persons are expected to attend the first meeting at 7 a.m. Tuesday of a four - county Agriculture Workers Council, which will be held in the Peacock Room of Sweetwater's Bluebonnet Hotel.

J. C. Porter and J. S. Bridwell, both Wichita Falls agriculture leaders, will be at the meeting to aid the group in kickoff of its organization. The two participated in organization of the first Agriculture Workers Council in Texas. There are only four of the organizations in the state now.

An agriculture workers council is a group made up of agriculture workers and persons interested in agriculture who will meet once monthly to discuss agricultural problems.

This particular council will be made up of persons from Scurry, Nolan, Mitchell, and Fisher Counties, and meetings will rotate among those counties.

Purpose of such a council is to enable all agriculture workers to have a general knowledge of all phases of agriculture, and to enable them to meet and discuss a specific problem of farmers and ranchers and to arrive at a common solution. This will, then, enable farmers and ranchers to get the same answer to the problem regardless of which agriculture worker they contact.

AMONG THOSE helping to organize an agriculture workers council for the Scurry-Nolan-Mitchell-Fisher County area is J. C. Porter, agriculture representative of a Wichita Falls bank and well-known Texas agricultural leader.

Meetings are scheduled for morning at the present time. Morning meetings are considered better because conflicts which usually arise at night can be avoided. The 7 a.m. meetings will last one hour, so workers can get back to their offices by 8:30 or 9 a.m.

Arrangements for the first meeting were made by managers and agriculture committees of Chamber of Commerce organizations in this area, including the local ag committee, headed by Max West, and the local manager, Grady Elder, who has participated in one ag workers council previously.

Programs at the meetings, primarily, will be kept within the membership except when problems arise which need outsiders, such as representatives of experiment stations. Programs will be designed to cover problems of farmers and ranchers as they arise, such as insect control, soil conservation, planting, and fertilising.

There will be no constitution or by-laws for the organization, and anyone in the agriculture field may become a member by telling the secretary to put his name on the roll. Officers will be elected at Tuesday's meeting. They will include a president, first and second vice - presidents, secretary, and program chairman.

The Agriculture Workers Council will not enter into politics in any manner as an organization. Such a council, workers said, is not a duplication of effort, since there is no other means whereby all agricultural workers can meet and discuss farm and ranch problems.

The council will not be a function of the Chamber of Commerce, Chamber organizations are only helping form the council.

REFERENDUM SET TUESDAY

Cotton producers will vote between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. Tuesday in the annual cotton referendum to determine whether marketing quotas will be in effect during 1956.

There will be nine polling places in the county for the referendum, according to Henry Burchett, Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office manager. They will be at the ASC office, Hermleigh, China Grove, Dunn, Ira, Union, Knapp, Camp Springs, and Fluvanna.

The ASC office last week mailed out cotton allotment figures to farmers in Scurry County so they would know their allotments before voting in the referendum.

If more than one-third of those voting cast their ballots against marketing quotas, there will be no penalties on overplanting allotments and the support price will be 50 per cent of parity for those who plant within their allotted acreages. If the referendum carries, the price support rate will be set at 75 per cent of parity or more.

A person must have had an interest in a cotton crop this crop year to vote in the referendum.

Soil, Water Improvement Are Talked In Field Clinic Here

A clinic-type meeting of employes and committeemen of various agricultural agencies and banking institutions was held Friday on the farm of L. V. Prince, two and one-half miles north of Hermleigh. About 20 persons attended.

The meeting, an outgrowth of interest of farmers here in soil building through soil and water conservation, was arranged by Joe E. Box, county supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration, and Guy Moore, work unit conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service.

Prince is a co-operator of the Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District, with a number of practices planned but not completed. Box, Moore, and others discussed capabilities of the land and estimated the amount of increased production Prince could gain by carrying out several conservation practices.

The Farmers Home Administration, Box explained to the group, is authorized to make loans to farmers for soil and water improvement practices. These practices must be in line with SCS and extension service recommendations, Box explained. Henry Burchett, county office manager for the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation service, explained that a part of the cost of facilities, improvements, and practices planned may be earned by the farmer through participation in the ACP program.

Soil and water conservation loans were made possible by legislation passed by the 83rd Congress. Loans may be made for such purposes as building terraces, developing and sodding waterways and digging ponds in connection with handling water runoff.

Box said farmers are becoming more conscious of the value of water and controlling it on the ground. In some areas, sub-soiling is necessary in order to enable better water penetration of the soil. Loans are being made for this purpose. Loans may also be used for brush removal, the establishment and improvement of permanent pastures, well drilling, land levelling, and purchase of pumps and irrigation equipment.

Loans are made by the FHA, primarily out of funds advanced by private lending institutions. The government insures the repayment of the loan. Repayment period on loans to individuals can be up to 20 years and can be secured by liens on chattels or real estate, depending on amount and length of the loan. Up to $25,000 can be loaned at four and one-half per cent interest to individuals.

Box explained that FHA loans can be made only when the farmer cannot secure any more credit from banks, credit associations, or other private lending agencies and that FHA is in no way in competition with these agencies.

Prince farms 240 acres.

On the Prince farm, Moore spaded into the soil to the moisture. He explained to the group that the soil at that point was classed as soil unit II. He pointed out that six inches under the surface there was a blocky structure of soil. Water will not penetrate the blocks but must run through cracks between the blocks. This is one of a number of restrictive characteristics of various soils here. Such blocky soil needs organic matter, such as a high-residue producing crop every third year.

The soil at that point, Moore explained, is slowly-permeable and will blow. To hold water long enough for it to soak into such soil, the land needs terraces, Moore said. He pointed out that terracing would help Prince to put back into use a 16-acre low place which now forms a "lake" and is not in cultivation.

A soil-improving crop, such as a deep-rooted legume, should be planted on Prince's farm, Moore said he recommended 61 acres of such a crop. He added that blue panic grass could be turned into an income crop for Prince through harvest and sale of seed. Wheat and oats should be rotated with cotton on the farm. Also discussed was possible grubbing of 25 acres of mesquite on pasture land on Prince's farm and putting it into cultivation. Cotton on the farm should be planted two rows in, four out, Moore said, for maximum productivity.

Bill Fuller, agricultural engineer for the Soil Conservation Service, discussed possibility of irrigation on the Prince farm. He said that with a 200-gallon per minute well and a reservoir, Prince could, with a regular irrigation program, well handle 22 to 30 acres of land. He could, however, in the late fall and early spring, give about 80 acres of land its "winter moisture." Cost of the well, pump, and electric motor would be $4,000 to $4,500, Stinson said, if a five or six-inch pump were used on a well of about 275-foot depth and 250-60-foot pump setting and a 20-horse motor.

It was brought out that discussion of a 200-gallon well is not entirely unreasonable, since neighboring farms on either side of Prince have had wells drilled, one of them getting an average of 45 gallons from wells and the other getting a 330-gallon well.

Henry Burchett, county ASC office manager, told the group what points of the agriculture conservation program could benefit Prince. If he built seven miles of terrace, the government could possibly pay about $661 of the $945 cost. On 26 acres of blue panic grass, the governemt would pay about $39 and the planting would cost Prince $75. On 61 acres of vetch, the government could pay about $67 of the $140 cost. The government could pay some of cost on brush eradication if Prince grubbed out mesquite.

Maximum ACP payment to any one person, Burchett said, is $1,500. If Prince were to go into irrigation, the ACP plan could not pay any of the initial cost, but it could help him on re-organization of irrigation or improvement of it after he had been irrigating one year.

Milton Stinson, area FHA supervisor, who also helped with the day's program, quizzed the representatives of the various agencies on how much Prince could increase his income on the farm by carrying out these practices discussed. Estimates were up to doubling his gross.

Indiangrass Is Successful On WT Farm

The use of Indiangrass as a soil improvement and cash crop has proved successful on the Max Bowers farm in Morton, where 12,400 pounds of seed have been harvested from 14 acres.

The grass was planted in May, 1954, with a regular cotton planter in normal width rows. At the rate of three pounds per acre. Due to dry weather it was necessary to irrigate two times in 1954 and three times in 1955.

This year the grass averaged seven feet tall over the entire field producing a total of 19,320 pounds of air dry forage per acre. In addition to the organic material produced above the ground, the plant has an extensive root system that will open up the plow pans and add organic matter. It is a perennial, tall, native grass. Indian grass is adapted to a large portion of the central United States where it was found in the original vegetation.

The Soil Conservation Service gave the seed to Bowers, who is a member of the Cochran Soil Conservation District board of supervisors, to be planted on trial basis and seed multiplication. The grass was cut with a broadcast binder and shocked to allow all of the seed to dry and mature. Then a regular combine with a Wader attachment was used to thresh the seed. Bowers will run the straw through the combine again and believes that he can obtain another 1,000 pounds of seed. 11,720 pounds of seed was sold to one seed company for 72.5 cents per pound. The remainder of the seed are being held for local use and the enlargement of the field of grass.

Electric Co-ops To Sponsor Irrigation Meeting Wednesday

Farmers of this area who are now irrigating, contemplating going into irrigation, or interested in irrigation, along with any other persons interested have been invited to attend a meeting at Loraine Wednesday.

The meeting will open at the Lorex Theater there at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. It will be sponsored by two rural electrification co-operatives, the Midwest Electric Co-operative of the Scurry County area, and the Lone Wolf Electric Co-operative of Mitchell County.

Included on the program are some Scurry County men, as well as those from surrounding counties. Also on the program will be several men specializing in work related to irrigation.

Raymond Perdue, manager of the Lone Wolf Co-op, will be in charge of the Wednesday morning program. He will open the program with a discussion on surface and ground water uses, legislative work relative to this, and other points.

At 9:45 a.m. W. R. Sundstrom district geologist for the U. S. Geological Survey, ground water branch, will make a short talk, followed at 10:05 a.m. by a discussion by John Shanklin, Rural Electrification Administration irrigation specialist on well construction, fitting the pump to the job, and efficiency in operation.

At 10:35 a.m., Martin Vavca, agricultural engineer for the Soil Conservation Service, will talk on designing the irrigation system. His talk will cover gravity irrigation, including the levelling of land and sprinkler irrigation, including use of reservoirs. Milton Stinson, Farmers Home Administration area supervisor, will discuss financing of irrigation systems at 11 a.m. and at 11:15 a.m., Henry Burchett of Snyder, Scurry County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office manager, will discuss agricultural conservation program incentive payments.

At 11:30 a.m., the group will have lunch as guests of the two co-ops. The lunch will be served by the Booster Band Mothers Club of Loraine.

Johnny Ammons, manager of the Midwest Co-op, will be in charge of the afternoon program, which will open at 1 p.m. Ralph Jones, representative of Gifford Hill Western, will lead a discussion covering water holding capacity of different soils, how much to irrigate, rooting zones of different crops, and when to irrigate, including off-season irrigation.

Talks on "Irrigation Or Dry Farming" will be made by Nolan von Roeder of Snyder and Willie Taylor of Mitchell County.

A question-and-answer panel will follow at 1:50 p.m.

Soil-Water Show Is Set For January

Farmer and rancher soil conservation district supervisors from all over Texas will gather in Lubbock Jan. 18-20 to review 1955 progress in soil and water conservation, discuss needs, and map plans for 1956.

Occasion will be the 15th annual meeting of Texas' soil conservation district supervisors and their annual soil and water show. Both will be held in Lubbock's Fair Park Coliseum.

This year's soil and water show - largest yet for the supervisors' organization - will bring together a comprehensive display of irrigation, brush control, and other farm equipment designed to make conservation easier. Some 65 exhibit booths have been reserve by business, manufacturing, and distributing concerns. Exhibits will be indoors and admission is free.

AGRICULTURE

Cotton Production Is Nearing 22,000

The cotton harvest season is practically complete in Scurry County, and the county is finishing with considerably more production than it contemplated for 1955, which was another dry year.

Nine gins in the county yesterday reported a total ginning of 21,816 bales of cotton, or about one-third more than was estimated by most observers in September.

The crop, however, was still a small one in comparison with what the county would have had with one more good rain in late August.

Ginners' reports indicated that probably somewhere between 500 and 1,000 bales are still out, most of which will be ginned by Christmas.

Already, this year's production has exceeded that of last year by some 4,700 bales. Last year's total was 17,082, while those of previous years were 13,974 for 1953, 1,200 for 1952, 12,000 for 1951, 39,245 for 1950 and 41,185 for 1949.

By communities, ginning figures are 9,840 for Snyder, 1,500 for Dunn, 1,405 for Ira, 2,489 for Hermleigh, 1,925 for China Grove 3,057 for Inadale, and about 1,600 for Fluvanna.

Bank Holds Mortgage On Texas Stagecoach

LA MARQUE, Tex. (AP)—The La Marque State Bank is probably the only bank in the nation with a mortgage on a stagecoach.

Navarro Interest Is High In Livestock

By SAM WHITLOW
Texas Editor, Farmer-Stockman
Written for The Associated Press

Corsicana, Dec. 10 (AP)—Cotton is still the big money crop in Navarro County, but acreage restrictions have spurred interest in livestock and feed crops.

Cotton made comparatively good yields last season, though insects caused much damage.

Hay and silage crops have been given added emphasis. A wide variety of hay included sorghum, johnson grass, madrid clover, alfalfa and some bermuda grass hay.

Silage crops consisted mostly of sorghums, but oats and vetch silage was also produced for the first time.

John Burleson, Navarro County agent, said the corn crop was above average, with "more acres and bigger yields."

Grain sorghums have also gained in acreage, due in part to cotton allotments. Sorghum yields were good.

In livestock feeding, pastures of bur clover, rescue grass and ryegrass are important, especially to cattlemen. For winter grazing, oats have been the most important crop. Burleson said good moisture conditions are essential to the success of this crop.

Farmers are showing increasing interest in soil building programs, and last fall and spring large acreages of legume crops were produced. This type of soil building program fits well with the production of hay and grazing crops for livestock in the county, Burleson said.

Sesame has been planted on limited acreages, and yields were up last season.

Dedication Of Trinity Methodist Church Set

The Trinity Methodist Church, which is dedicating its new building today, is among the newest churches in Snyder as well as one of the most rapid in progress.

Methodists had expressed the need for another church in Snyder for many months before the Trinity congregation organized July 19, 1953, according to Mrs. Dale Clemmer, one of the first members.

During March of that year, at the regular meeting of the official board of the First Methodist Church, Guy Glenn, chairman of the commission of missions, made a recommendation for a new Methodist church here. In April, the Rev. Bill Lews, then of Fort Worth met with the commission on missions of that church to make further plans, and in May Rev. Lewis and his family moved here to begin organizational work.

Using his home as an office, Rev. Lewis began a canvass of the town. He then had no church building and no member for the new church. During his canvass, he secured commitments for membership in the new congregation.

With the cooperation and aid of members of the First Methodist Church, along with $500 operating expense to begin with, the new congregation began to take shape and, by the end of June, 1953, more than 200 house calls had been made and 69 definite commitments secured.

On Sunday, July 17, the formal organization of the Trinity Methodist Church was held in the junior high school building. Dr. Owen W. Carter delivered the organizational sermon. There were 15 baptisms and 71 transfers. On Aug. 17, charter membership closed with 36 additions that day, making a total of 151 charter members.

The name, Trinity, was given to the church by the congregation on July 26.

A fully-organized church school was formed, with Dale Clemmer as Sunday school superintendent and Jeff Brown as assistant. The church school met in a school building, and that presented many problems. Supplies and equipment had to be set up for each service and removed afterward, and many precautions were taken to avoid disturbance of school supplies and materials.

Neil Faulkner was named chairman of the commission on education. Mrs. Vada Burleson superintendent of the children's division of the church school, a position in which she still serves.

The official board was organized on Oct. 7, 1953, with C. M. Patton as chairman. Ford Kenner was named chairman of the board of trustees. A $4,700 budget was adopted for the remainder of the church year, with the congregation assuming full responsibility for missions and conference benevolences. Pete Pitner was named church treasurer and still holds the post. Marvin Foree headed the commission on missions. Floyd Boston directed the choir, and Jellette Anderson was pianist.

The church's Methodist Youth Fellowship was organized under leadership of Edith Blakey and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Boston, and Clifton Robbins served as its first president.

In August, a Women's Society for Christian Service was organized under leadership of Helen Clemmer, who also served as its first president.

Later, a Methodist Men's organization was organized by Jack Cole, and Bill Starnes was its first president.

On Nov. 10, 1953, D. M. Cogdell, Sr., made a large donation and gave land for a new church building. A $250,000 church building was planned. Work began soon, and it has just been completed as one of the most modern structures here.

In December, 1953, the church's first revival meeting was held, with Quay Parmer, Fort Worth evangelist, as speaker and Earl Ward as song leader.

Because of heating difficulties in the junior high auditorium, the Trinity church moved its temporary location to the Central Elementary School building in January, 1954.

The sanctuary had not yet been built when the congregation began on Jan. 2 this year to meet in the almost-completed educational building, having worship services in the fellowship hall until completion of the auditorium.

In September, a Moller organ was installed in the sanctuary, a gift of Mrs. D. M. Cogdell, Sr.

Rev. and Mrs. Jack Riley came to the Trinity church in June this year. On the staff with the pastor is Ray Farrell, church school superintendent; Ford Kenner, chairman of the official board; Jimmie Billingsley, chairman of the board of trustees; Earl Stacy, custodian; Mrs. Harold Hunt, church secretary; Mrs. Lucille Kubala, organist; Mrs. Dick Mitchell and Mrs. J. F. Galyean, nursery attendants; Joe Luther, president of the Methodist Men; Mrs. W. N. Starnes, president of the WSCS; Mrs. Jack Riley, choir director; Mrs. Troy Stephenson, chairman of the commission on missions; Gordon McMeen, chairman of the commission on finance; Jimmie Billingsley, head of the evangelism commission; and Mrs. J. W. Burleson, head of the commission on education.

Auditorium To Seat About 600 Persons

Close to 600 persons can be seated in the new auditorium which will be dedicated in services this afternoon at the Trinity Methodist Church.

Recently completed as the second phase of the church's building program, the auditorium carries out the church plant's contemporary design. Architects were Brasher & Associates of Lubbock.

Until now, members of the church have been having services in the fellowship hall of the church's education building.

The new auditorium, and the rest of the building, is of red brick with cedar shakes shingles.

The steeple at the front of the auditorium, which faces west, has a grillwork of copper louvers as well as a copper cross at the top.

Inside the auditorium are oak pews, alter, paneling, and doors. Windows are of glass brick. On the aisles and around the pulpit-choir area is green carpeting of seafoam wool. The altar has velvet kneeling pads. Included in light fixtures, hanging from gold chains. The altar has a removable section for weddings.

The walls are of plaster and of off-white color. The auditorium has a white beam ceiling. The building has central heating and air conditioning.

The pipe organ of the church, which cost $18,000, is the only pipe organ in Snyder.

At the front of the building and to one side of the pulpit area is the pastor's study.

The rear of the adultorium opens into the followship hall. In the deucation building are 15 classrooms, one nursery reception room, and a well-equipped kitchen.

Back Talk Encouraged

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Back talk from the pupils is being encouraged in Richmond's public schools. The pupils' speech is tape recorded and played back as a means of ironing out defects in diction and grammar. Said Mrs. Elizabeth Collier, a fifth grade teacher: "It is noticeable almost immediately that they try to improve their speech and tones."

Board For Trinity Is Governing Body

The governing body of the Trinity Methodist Church, like other Methodist churches, is its official board.

The board is made up of chairmen of the church's various commissions, its trustees, and elective members, as well as such ex-officio members as the pastor, president of the Women's Society for Christian Service, and president of the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

The majority vote carries in business before the board. The board also cooperates with special committees of the church, such as those dealing with building.

The board handles all church activities, finances, and other business, while the board of trustees handles all legal matters, real estate, notes at banks, and insurance.

The first official board of the Trinity Methodist Church met Oct. 14, 1953. Clifton Patton was chairman, Floyd Boston vice-chairman; and Jeff Brown secretary. Other members were Jack Bowden, Jack Burleson, Ben Costin, Ford Kenner, and Walter Wells, who, along with Patton, were trustees; Jimmie Black, W. S. Dow, Neil Faulkner, Carl Foree, James McDonald, Dale Clemmer, Helen Clemmer, Charles Duran, Marvin Foree, J. P. Pitner, Jr., and Clifton Robbins.

Ford Kenner, a trustee, is chairman of the present board. William Starnes is vice-chairman and Ray Farrell secretary. Other board members include Dale Clemmer, Jack Bowden, Gene Dulaney, Jack Burleson, J. P. Billingsley, Sr., Raymond House, Kenneth Babcock, and Mrs. Ora Wells, all trustees; J. P Pitner, Jr., Arvel Hall, J. H. Anderson, C. B. Morrow, Carl Herod, Carl Foree, Earl Stacey, Gordon McMeen, Sharon Babcock, Kathryn Stephenson, Harold Hunt, Mrs. William Starnes, H. C. Twenty Men Harvest From Lord's Acre

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Twenty men swarmed into the Lord's Acre — a 30-acre cornfield — for the harvest.

The harvesting crew was from the Lockbourne Methodist Church, but the project on which they were working was only typical of a movement which has spread throughout the Midwest in recent summers.

The Lockbourne Methodists, working with donated seed corn and gasoline for their tractors, planted the 30 acres last spring. The harvest meant money to pay for church repairs and redecoration.

Next year it'll be 70 acres.

KITCHEN IN TRINITY METHODIST CHURCH—The modern kitchen in the new Trinity Methodist Church is pictured above. It is completely equipped, and features the newly popular built-in double range and Duch oven. The kitchen has already been put to use several times, and was recently used for the preparation of pancakes for a church pancake supper. (Lee Watson photograph)

Kitchen Regarded Important Part Of Educational Building

Many church members in Snyder will bear out the statement that a kitchen is a very important part of church facilities.

With a kitchen, a church can prepare coffee or other refreshments for meetings, or prepare meals for larger and more important meetings.

And members of the Trinity Methodist Church, when making plans for its new building, considered the kitchen an important part of the educational building.

Securing fixtures and furnishings for the kitchen was the duty of the Women's Society for Christian Service. The women spent months of planning and work in acquiring these fixtures through bake sales, bazaars, rummage sales, silver teas, selling of cook books and other items.

The WSCS women, headed at the time by Mrs. Dale Clemmer, raised $1,350 toward furnishing the kitchen. A kitchen committee, made up of Mrs. E. B. Boone, Jack Bowden, Charles Duran, and Loyd Weathers, spearheaded plans and action of the group of the project.

Cabinetwork was built in all around the kitchen with a modern rubbed finish on the exterior, accented by black wrought iron hardware. Part of the materials were donated by Kenner Lumber Co.

A steel sink unit was installed with a garbage disposal donated by Mrs. Jack Bowden. Two large four-unit built-in electric ranges were built into the cabinet work, with a large oven on one side. Asphalt tile was donated and installed on the floor by Pittman of Sweetwater.

Walls in the kitchen were painted pink, carrying out the pink-and-black color scheme, and pink and black unbreakable dishes were purchased, with many members of the church buying enough for their own families's use.

Through sale of vanilla and shampoo, the women earned two large coffee urns, one 60-cup and one 48-cup, as well as stainless steel silverware service for 60 place settings and a set of aluminum cooking utensils.

Miscellaneous kitchen showers were given by women in the church, and a variety of kitchen needs were secured, including dish towels, hand towels, aprons, glasses, knives, strainers, spatulas, and other items. Some cooking utensils were bought by the group, and others were donated.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Billingsley donated a mixer, while Mr. and Mrs. Carl Herod gave a nine-foot refrigerator. Mrs. M. C. Head donated $100, and numerous other gifts were made to complete the kitchen.

Many Helped In Finishing Church Work

As the Trinity Methodist Church begins use of its complete church plant, it expresses pride in its lay work.

Men and women of the church, faced with much unfinished work always prevalent in a new building, accepted the task of completing the work, one lay leader said.

The men painted the church school rooms, laid tile flooring, built and painted cabinets for each church school room to contain literature and material, purchased hauled and leveled dirt around the building in preparation for landscaping.

The women had bazaars, rummage sales, teas, and book reviews to raise money to build cabinets and furnish the kitchen, in addition to purchasing movie equipment for the church and furnishing blackboards for church school rooms.

On Lay Day, Mrs. Helen Clemmer talked to the church on Methodism, while Carl Herod spoke on Christian relations and Methodist fellowship. Later, in the absence of the pastor, Ray Farrell directed the order of service and Jack Cole gave a talk on faith.

Laymen from out of town have on occasions come here to talk to members of the church. Among them were J. F. Moody and R. L. McMillon, Jr., both of Abilene.

MRS. D. M. COGDELL, SR., shown here watering a pot plant at the Trinity Methodist Church for today's dedication program, is, with her husband, one of the church's chief benefactors. The Cogdells included among their donations to the church the building site and the $18,000 pipe organ. (Lee Watson photograph)

It Takes Truck Five Hours To Overturn

WACO, Tex. (AP)—Most traffic accidents happen fast. But it took five hours for L. O. Wilson's big trailer truck to overturn.

Wilson had a blowout and pulled onto the road shoulder to change the tire. But one side of the trailer began sinking into the soft dirt.

Wilson sat back and watched as the big trailer, over a five-hour period, settled on its side "as gently as if you had laid it down with your hands."

An average of a ship every 19 minutes goes through the locks at Sault Ste. Marie on the Great Lakes.

Members Of Choir Wearing New Robes

New full-length robes will be worn today in services at the Trinity Methodist Church by members of the choir.

The robes were purchased by various memoers of the choir and the congregation.

The church's choir has grown considerably since it was organized in 1953. Floyd L. Boston was the first choir director and J. H. Anderson pianist. First president of the choir was Marvin Foree.

At the time the choir was begun services were being held by the church in the junior high building. There was in the choir a variety of soloists and duets, as well as a women's quartet. Cokesbury hymnals were donated to the church for choir and congregation use.

By Dec. 1, 1953, choir members had made capes and a choir rail. Sectionalization training began in choir practice. The choir was assisted by the Rev. B. W. Lewis, then pastor of the church, in enlisting new choir members. A youth choir was begun to sing at evening services.

In addition, a sunbeam choir was organized, consisting of boys and girls from three years old to early teenage. About 30 started that choir, led by Novella Faulkner.

When the church moved its services to the Central Primary School building, the Jenkins Music Co. of Lubbock donated use of an organ to Trinity. Mrs. Lucille Kubala became organist. Mrs. Esta Black was elected choir president in June 1954.

New choral arrangements and anthems were gradually acquired by the choir. In June, 1955, Ruth Ellen Riley became choir director, and recently the choir has acquired services of Roy Beight of Loraine a voice instructor, as choir rehearsal instructor.

Those who have served as substitute organists and pianists for the church included Mrs. Dell Kenner, Mrs. Woodie Worthington, Betty Hunt, and Linda Stephenson.

MRS. DALE CLEMMER, above is the chairman of spiritual life in the Trinity Methodist Church. She was the first president of the WSCS.

School Teachers Get Lessons On Speeding

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Five sheepish school teachers were among more than 40 motorists arrested in a single day here in a police crackdown on speeding in school zones.

Police Judge James McWhorter let the teachers off with three months probation but warned them: "The next time, the lesson will be different."

Nervous Hunting

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mary Ellen Kay brought her cat and her canary to an animal hospital last week. The findings: they were suffering from nervous exhaustion. Said the doc: "Too much game."

Indian Juke Box

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP)—It sounded as if the Navajos were staging a ceremony inside their cafe here. But investigation showed the drums and chants were coming from a juke box. Plenty of other tribal tunes were on tap too, competing successfully with the usual assortment of platters.

Quartet Open Mouths But Not For A Song

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The Hoffmann brothers — Hank 6, Joe 5, Greg, 4 and Gary, 3, looked like a quartet ready to burst into song.

Each, in turn, opened his mouth. But not to sing. The boys opened up for a surgeon to remove their tonsils.

Defense Of Formosa Causes Building Boom

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—There is a great building boom in and around Taipei and property values are rising steadily.

The reason is a popular belief that the Communists never will be able to seize Formosa and that the Reds will not dare bomb with the U.S. 7th Fleet guarding it.

Despite the frenzy of building, the housing shortage remains acute in Taipei. It has a population of 700,000 compared with 200,000 at the time the Nationalists took over from Japan in 1945.

Santa Claus Banned

HENDERSON, Nev. (AP) — Santa Claus has been banned from the annual city-sponsored Christmas parade Dec. 24. Jolly old St. Nick won't be riding on one of the floats because several Henderson religious leaders objected to him as "a pagan symbol," Recreation Director Dr. Earl Gould said yesterday. Gould said several religious leaders threatened to withdraw floats depicting biblical scenes if Santa Claus was included in the parade.

James Madison, 5 feet 4 inches tall, was the shortest President of the United States.

Arrested Man Arrests Ticket Writing Officer

EL CAJON, Calif. (AP)—When L. H. Harris of San Diego was given a citation for speeding on his motorcycle he made a citizen's arrest of the officer who wrote out the ticket.

Harris and a friend, Leslie Moore of El Cajon, contend that the officer, Ralph B. Pressing, threw the carbon sheets from his citation book on the highway. They filed a complaint alleging littering. Pressing pleaded innocent and his trial was set for Dec. 27.

But Harris and Moore paid fines of $11 each for speeding.

Women's Society For Christian Service Here Over 2 Years Old

One of the busiest organizations in the Trinity Methodist Chruch is its Women's Society for Christian Service, which is not much more than two years old but has carried on a large number of projects.

The WSCS, now headed by Mrs. Bill Starnes, was organized Aug. 17, 1953, by Mrs. Dale Clemmer. A month later, charter membership was closed with 41 members when a membership tea was held. First officers were Mrs. Clemmer, president; Mrs. Earl Stacy, vice-president; Mrs. C. J. Killgo, recording secretary; and Mrs. Charles Duran, secretary.

The group divided into circles last June. Organized were the Helen Clemmer Circle with Mrs. Ford Kenner as leader and Rebecca Circle with Mrs. Charles Duran.

The organization's first project was cleaning and remodeling an old farm building at the junior high school for a meeting place. Windows were replaced, curtains hung, and some furniture added to make the building more attractive. It also served as the pastor's study for some time.

Early projects also included purchase of offering plates and a communion set, remodeling of a bedroom for a needy family, painting and erecting a sign at the African Evangelical Methodist Church, and furnishing the church kitchen at a miscellaneous shower, including two built-in electric ranges, cabinets, sink unit and garbage disposal, 37 place settings of plastic dishes, 60 place settings of stainless steel, and two electric coffee urns. Donated through the WSCS was refrigeration by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Herod and mixer by Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Billingsley, Sr.

The organization has conducted fund-raising projects to finance purchase of many of these things. The projects included a bazaar, bake sales, and sales of such as vanilla, shampoo, dolly closets, and other items. Other projects included a silver tea book review. Since June, the organization's projects have included furnishing supply shelves for all rooms in the children's department, at a cost of $100; financing of landscaping of the front of the church property, at $150; and a bazaar held last week.

Present officers of the church's WSCS other than Mrs. Starnes are Mrs. Jack Riley, vice-president; Mrs. Francis Pitner, recording secretary, Mrs. Earl Stacy, treasurer; Mrs. Ray Atkinson, secretary of promotion; Mrs. C. J. Killgo, secretary of Christian social relations and local church activity; Mrs. Searcy Orr, secretary of student work; Mrs. Kenneth Babcock, secretary of youth work; Mrs. Carl Herod, secretary of children's work; Mrs. Dale Clemmer, secretary of spiritual life; Mrs. Carl Foree, secretary of literature and publications; Mrs. Gordon McMeen, secretary of supply work; Mrs. C. J. Killgo, secretary of status of women; Mrs. Orval Hall, secretary of publicity. Mrs. W. S. Dow now heads the Rebecca circle and Mrs. Killgo chairman of the Helen Clemmer Circle.

WSCS PRESIDENT—Mrs. Rosa Starnes, above, is president of the Women's Society for Christian Service of the Trinity Methodist Church.

WSCS OFFICERS—Some of the officers of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Trinity Methodist Church are pictured above at the entrance to the church's new building. Air Force Looking For Gull Protection

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Got any sure-fire ideas for keeping seagulls away from airport runways? If you have, the Air Force would be glad to listen.

A primary case of a recent accident at Logan Airport, Boston, the Air Force has decided, was an airplane - seagull collision.

Finding that the Royal Air Force of Great Britain uses mothballs scattered on runways to drive off the pesky gulls, the U. S. Air Force is considering adopting the same method.

But surely, the Air Force says, there must be a better way.

Police Receive Demand For Immediate Action

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — When the frantic call came into police headquarters to "send the police right away," desk Patrolman George Katchur asked what was wrong.

"Somebody just took my modeling clay," came the reply in a high-pitched voice. The complainant's age was listed as 7.

ORGANIST—Mrs. Lucille Kubala, organist for the Trinity Methodist Church, is shown at the keyboard of the organ which was specially built for the church by M. P. Moller, Inc. Construction of the organ required 13 months time, and cost $18,000. It was completely assembled at the factory before being disassembled for shipment to Snyder. (Lee Watson photograph)

Men's Group Is Active In Church Work

A number of projects are planned for the 1955-56 church year of the Methodist Men organization at the Trinity Methodist Church.

The organization, now headed by H. C. (Joe) Luther, has Dale Clemmer as vice-president and Kenneth Babcock as secretary-treasurer. Luther was elected president after president Jeff Brown, elected in June, moved to Big Spring.

Listed as some of the projects planned before the end of the church year are building a sidewalk on the east side of the church, paying for dirt used to beautify the church grounds, sponsorship of a Little League baseball team, assistance in grounds beautification, and encouraging all men of the church to become members of the Methodist Men. The organization meets each last Wednesday.

Organized in July, 1954, the Methodist men had as their first officers W. M. Stars, president; Billy E. Byington, vice-president; and J. P. Billingsley, Jr., secretary-treasurer. The official charter of the organization was received under authority of the general board of lay activity Feb. 11, 1955.

During the first year of organization, the Methodist Men sponsored a Little League team, laid tile and painted church school rooms at the new building, cleaned church windowns, sponsored speakers throughout the year, and sponsored appearance of Stamps-Baxter quartet here.

Chapter members were Jack Cole, F. S. Floyd, Jeff Brown, J. P. Billingsley, Jr., Arvel Hall, Floyd Boston, Charlie Morrow, Raymond House, Ray Farrell, Billy Byington, Jack Bowden, George McCune, Marvin Foree, Kenneth Babcock, W. M. Starnes, Ford Kenner, Dale Clemmer, and H. C. Luther.

JOE LUTHER, above, is president of the Methodist Men of the Trinity Methodist Church.

PASTOR—Jack Riley, above, is pastor of the Trinity Methodist Church. "Preparing for the opening of a new church building has been a big job, but one made easy by the complete cooperation of everyone who has had a hand in it," Riley said.

Riley Pastor Of Methodist Church Here

The Rev. Jack Riley, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Church, came here last June as the second pastor the church has had since its organization two years earlier.

He succeeded the Rev. B. W. (Bill) Lewis, now of Abilene, who was organizer of the congregation.

Born and reared in Wheeler County, Rev. Riley graduated from high school in 1943 and entered the military service, serving in Europe during that time.

The pastor graduated from McMurry College with a bachelor degree in 1949. While at McMurry he participated in the ministerial forum and McMurry Chanters. He later attended Southern Methodist Unitersity's Perkins School of Theology, starting in 1951 and graduating with a bachelor of divinity degree in 1954.

Rev. Riley served pastorates at the Hamlin mission in 1948-49, at the Harold Elliot and Rock Crossing Circuit in the Vernon District, and at Wesley Chapel in the Locket community of the Childress District.

Rev. Lewis, a native of Brownfield, attended Texas Wesleyan College, Texas Christian University, and seminary. He served in the Navy.

Parking Meter Fees Reduced By 25 Cents

WOODRUFF, S.C. (AP) The city council has shown a tender feeling for parking meter ordinance violators:

The violation fee has been reduced from 50 to 25 cents and parking tickets have been replaced with yellow envelopes in which violators may conveniently pay fines by dropping them in one of several boxes around town.

A stern aspect still remains, however. Someone looks you up if you fall down on a violation fee after a period of 36 hours.

Double Duty

SAYRE, Pa. (AP)—Mrs. Orlando Alexander and her sister, Mrs. Michael Annetti, gave birth to sons just two days apart and shared the same hospital room.

Dog Sitter Provided

DETROIT (AP) — Because he can't keep his mouth shut when he's alone, Stubby is going to have a sitter — by court order. Stubby is a 10-year-old mongrel dog. Neighbors complained that for seven years Stubby had set up persistent barking whenever left alone by his owner, Miss Nollie J. Conner. One neighbor, Arnold Benes, suggested a dog sitter whenever Miss Conner left home. The judge agreed. So did Miss Conner.

Small Girl Has Big Language Problems

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—She's only 6 years old and she was born in this English and Spanish-speaking city, but little Anita Diaz is having to learn her native languages for the first time.

She speaks only German.

The pretty, dark-haired girl is the daughter of S.Sgt. and Mrs. Trinidad Diaz, just back from a 6-year tour of duty at Kaiserslautern, Germany. They went overseas shortly after her birth here.
