The SDN Column

Keeping up with our neighbors:

Miss Delila Baird of Rotan, who is Regent of the Anne Pettus Shelburne Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, contributed some items straight out of a "receipt book" of colonial days in a recent issue of the Rotan Advance and Roby Star Record.

This one should cause present-day pharmacists to sit up and take notice: "FOR A COUGH OR CONSUMPTION—Take 30 garden snails and 30 Earth worms of middling size, bruise ye snails and wash them and ye worms in fair water, cut ye worms in pieces. Boil these in a quart of spring water to a pint. Pour it boiling hot on two ounces of candied eringo root sliced thin. When it is cold, strain it through a flannel bag. Take a quarter of a pint of it warm, with an equal quantity of cow's milk. Continue this course till well."

How do you suppose that would grab Ralph Nader?

Jim Cornish, in his Postings column in the Post Dispatch, tells of a neighborhood in the Garza County Capital which takes pride in its landscape. "That's why," reported Cornish, "When Coach and Mrs. John Alexander and family returned Monday from a weekend visit out of town they found this sign posted in their unmowed lawn: 'Condemned. 11th Street Association.' But that didn't daunt them—not a whit," said Cornish. "They got busy and mowed the lawn and made their own sign which they immediately put up on completion of their labors. It read: 'Superior Lawn, Good Housekeeping Award.'

A lot of cities and towns would like to see more of this type of competition. Of course there are some who over-do these things and keep you continually on the run trying to keep your yard from looking like a disaster area next to their's.

Jay Harris in the Lubbock Avalanche Journal said he was looking through some old papers the other day (trying to get his mind off the Watergate) and came across an interesting comic strip.

"It showed this buxom lady walking into a store and saying:

'I'd like some shaving cream, deodorant, hair spray, skin cleanser, footpowder, cologne, tooth paste, nail polish, razor blades, mud pack, lipstick, eye shadow, hair dye, a nail file, curlers, face powder, powder puffs, eyebrow pencil, a compact, shampoo, cold cream and a comb and brush.'"

She undoubtedly was going to carry them in her purse.—WACIL McNAIR.

Walters Says Nixon Had Early Warning On Staff

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Central Intelligence Agency official testified today that President Nixon was warned less than three weeks after the Watergate raid that something was amiss on the White House staff.

Army Lt. Gen. Vernon A. Walters, deputy director of the CIA, told the Senate Watergate committee that he, CIA Director Richard Helms, and former acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III resisted pressure from the White House staff to involve their agencies in covering up the political wiretapping.

Walters said Gray finally spoke to Nixon July 6, 1972, and said the Watergate case could not be covered up, that the FBI's investigation would lead quite high, and that Nixon should get rid of the people involved.

Walters, recounting the conversation secondhand, said Nixon then asked Gray, "Then I should get rid of whoever is involved no matter how high?" Gray said yes, Walters said, and Nixon then told Gray to proceed with the investigation.

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., asked Walters if that meant Nixon was told "that there was something going on wrong in the White House staff and he ought to correct it?"

"That would be my conclusion," Walters said.

Walters said he received different kinds of contacts from White House aides H. R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and John W. Dean III.

He said Dean, then the President's official lawyer, inquired about the possibility of using CIA money to pay bail and salaries for the Watergate burglars, which Walters saw as improper. Walters said he adamantly refused to go along, threatened to resign, and would have asked to see Nixon personally about it if Dean had asked him to proceed.

By contrast, he said he thought at the time that Haldeman may have had some justification for telling him on June 23, 1972, to deflect the FBI's Watergate investigations in Mexico.

He said Haldeman asserted some CIA assets there might be uncovered by the FBI's investigation. Although that turned out to be incorrect, Walters said he believed at the time that Haldeman might know something he didn't.

Kent State Case To Be Re-Opened

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson today ordered a new Justice Department investigation of the deaths of four Kent State University students shot by National Guardsmen in 1970.

Richardson said his decision was based on "the need to exhaust every potential for acquiring facts related to this tragedy."

He gave no indication whether a federal grand jury would be convened to assist in the probe.

Richardson reopened the Kent State investigation after studying the findings of Pottinger's preliminary review of existing files.

However, he said he has found "some areas where an additional inquiry is desirable."

Helms Rites Here Today

Funeral for Carrol Ray Helms, 52, of Snyder was to be held at 4 p.m. today at Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel with Sam Kitching, minister of the East Side Church of Christ, officiating. Burial was to follow in Snyder Cemetery under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Helms was killed in a two-car collision one mile east of Lenorah in Martin County at 3 p.m. Wednesday. His wife, Wilma Helms, and two Hobbs, New Mexico men were seriously injured in the same mishap.

Helms was born June 27, 1927 in Cisco. He was a member of the Church of Christ and a veteran of World War II.

Other survivors include his parents, Dr. and Mrs. C.E. Helms of Snyder.

Nixon Wants No Ceiling On Savings Rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today proposed major changes in the country's financial system, including phasing out interest rate ceilings on savings and other bank deposits over a 5½-year period.

The recommendations include inducements to banks and financial institutions to lend more money for home mortgages by providing a tax credit on the amount of mortgage loans.

In addition, savings and loan associations would be able to offer checking account services and the so-called NOW accounts would be authorized for both commercial banks and savings and loan associations. NOW stands for Negotiable Order of Withdrawal and provides for negotiated rates of interests on checking accounts.

There were seven major changes in the financial package released at the White House. They followed a study of the country's financial institutions initiated by the President in 1971.

Deputy Secretary of the Treasury William E. Simon said in explaining the proposed changes that the timing is right because "we are in a period that could be classified this moment as an interest rate crunch."

Simon said he hopes the proposed changes can be ready for presentation to Congress in September and that hearings can be held beginning in October.

He described the proposed changes as "the first major restructuring of our financial system since 1865 without a crisis being present."

He emphasized at a news briefing that a major goal of the changes is to maintain a flow of deposit money into banks and savings and loan institutions by lifting the interest rate ceilings.

TEC Office Here Closing

John Bruce, District Director of the Texas Employment Commission from Fort Worth, has notified Mrs. Etta Wilson, manager of the Snyder office of the TEC, that the local office will be closed due to "economy measures taken in Washington, D.C."

Mrs. Wilson said that she will operate the local office until Aug. 15 when it will be closed permanently.

"I will be glad to help people find jobs until Aug. 15 or help employers find employes," she said.

Last month, the Snyder office of the TEC placed 48 persons in jobs. Half of these jobs were non-agriculture jobs.

State Rep. Renal Rosson of Snyder has circulated a petition for the re-opening of the local office. The petition, with about 140 signatures, was sent to the commissioners of the Texas Employment Commission in Austin Wednesday afternoon.

There also were reports that several telegrams will be sent to persons who might have some influence in re-opening the office.

Mrs. Wilson completed five years with the local TEC office last March 13.

Jobless Rolls Drop Slightly

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment in the United States declined slightly to 4.7 per cent of the labor force in July, although the jobless rate for blacks went up sharply, the Labor Department reported today.

Total employment was listed as 84.6 million in July, about the same as in June, while unemployment dropped from 4.3 million in June to 4.2 million in July on a seasonally adjusted basis.

The country's unemployment rate dropped below the 5 per cent level in June for the first time in more than three years. The June unemployment figure was 4.8 per cent.

The Labor Department said unemployment for white workers declined to 4.1 per cent in July from 4.3 per cent in June, but the jobless rate for blacks and other races rose sharply to 9.3 per cent in July from 8.5 per cent in June. The May jobless rate of blacks and other races was 9.4 per cent.

The administration's goal this year is for a 4.5 per cent total unemployment rate by the end of the year.

The Labor Department said employment was up sharply during July for manufacturing workers, especially workers in durable goods industries where the jobless rate of 3.3 per cent compared with 3.7 per cent in June and was the lowest figure since late 1969.

There were shifts in job status during the month by age category. The unemployment rate for youths 16 to 19 years jumped to 14.4 per cent in July from June's 13.3 per cent rate and unemployment among persons aged 20 to 24 increased from 7.7 per cent to 8 per cent.

But unemployment for persons 25 to 54 years dropped from 3.3 per cent to 3 per cent.

The unemployment rate for the heads of households declined from 2.9 per cent to 2.7 per cent, the lowest since April 1970. The rate for adult men and married men also declined slightly.

The jobless rate for adult women was unchanged at 4.9 per cent.

The Labor Department said nonfarm payroll employment was unchanged at 75.5 million in July after rising steadily in previous months.

The average work week in manufacturing was up three tenths of an hour in July to 40.9 hours, while actual hourly earnings in private nonfarm payrolls rose 2 cents to an average of $3.89 in July.

Average weekly earnings rose $1.52 to $146.65.

Total manufacturing unemployment was 3.8 per cent in July, down from 4.4 per cent in June, but this was partially offset by increases in the jobless rate for workers in construction and trade where unemployment rose to 9.6 per cent from 7.9 per cent in June.

Plane Seizure Is A Problem

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. Atty. Robert A. Morse, ordered by a judge to seize a commercial jetliner, says he needs some advice from Washington.

U.S. District Court Judge Jack B. Weinstein ordered Morse on Thursday to seize a Braniff DC8 on which three convicted narcotics smugglers flew here from South America last spring.

Weinstein contended that Braniff had not been vigilant enough against drug traffickers and said the "action to forfeit the plane worth several million dollars will, in my opinion, bring the airlines around very quickly."

The Air Transport Association called the court order unprecedented and a perplexed Morse said he was referring the directive to the Department of Justice in Washington.

A Braniff spokesman said it was not up to the airline to police its passengers.

The judge issued the order as he sentenced three Colombians to four-year prison terms each for smuggling cocaine.

RESCUE ROCKET READIED

Business-As-Usual For Astronauts On Skylab 2

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — It was business as usual for the Skylab 2 astronauts today while launch crews at Cape Kennedy worked around the clock to prepare a rocket for a possible emergency rescue.

Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma, still hopeful of completing a full 59-day mission despite a problem with their Apollo ferry ship, planned a day of medical, science and earth resources experiments on what originally had been scheduled as a day off.

The first attempt to rescue a crew in space might have to be made if there is more deterioration in the Apollo craft which is to be their taxi back to earth on Sept. 25. Officials said they hoped the rescue try would not be necessary.

The astronauts decided to forego the free day, which would have included their first shower in space, so they could make up for time lost in the first six days of the mission because of motion sickness and problem trouble shooting.

Mission Control passed up a lengthy list of flight plan changes on the Skylab teleprinter, prompting Lousma to remark jokingly: "The teleprinter message this morning is longer than the fireman's pole."

The "fireman's pole" is a strap-like handhold that runs the length of the 48-foot workshop section of the orbiting station.

Controllers also told them an oft-delayed space walk by Garriott and Lousma would be done on Monday.

The Apollo ship lost half its steering power Thursday and officials at first considered bringing the three astronauts home today in the crippled craft, which is docked to one end of the space station.

But they decided the crew could remain aboard after detailed analysis showed the Apollo should retain its capability to bring them home safely at the scheduled end of the mission.

But as a precaution, launch crews at Cape Kennedy were directed to prepare the Skylab 3 rocket and Apollo spaceship for a possible rescue mission if further trouble developed.

"It's no panic situation. But we do think it prudent to keep a rescue operation capability," said Skylab project manager William Schneider.

In Florida, Kennedy Space Center director Walter Kapryan reported more than 1,000 men had immediately swung into a 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week operation to get the vehicles ready in case the rescue mission is necessary.

"We are very confident we can do this thing and be ready to launch by Sept. 5 if needed," Kapryan said. That would be more than two months before the planned Nov. 9 launch of the Skylab 3 crew.

Divorcee took his pillow talk seriously

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a married woman who has been deeply involved with a married man for four years. He has children and so have I.

I divorced my husband thinking he would divorce his wife and marry me. I can't honestly say that he promised to divorce his wife, but he said so many things like: "If we were both free, I would marry you in a minute," and: "I have never loved anyone the way I love you." I took it to mean he would divorce his wife and marry me. I was wrong.

My husband never suspected a thing until I made a full confession. Now that he knows the truth he will have nothing to do with me. Was I foolish? VIRGO

DEAR VIRGO: You were. Your mistake was taking pillow talk seriously. Actually, it's nothing more than a lot of horsefeathers.

DEAR ABBY: I am so angry I want to scream. I'm expecting my first baby after wanting one for five years. I am only six weeks along, so naturally we haven't told anyone yet. Not even our parents.

Yesterday I attended a church luncheon. Afterwards, the chairman stood up and said, "The floral centerpiece is for one of our members who is expecting her first baby after wanting one for so long!" Then she looked right at me.

Abby, I must have turned the color of a tomato. Then all the buzzing and chattering started. My mother and mother in law were both there looking surprised and hurt. I was so upset I wanted to run.

Neither my husband nor I told a soul, but yesterday he did bring home a used crib, and somebody must have seen him carry it into the house.

Why do people have to be so nosy? Now it's going to seem like such a long pregnancy. I can just hear them asking me the last two months, "Are YOU still walking around?"

At the bottom of your column it says, "You'll feel better if you get it off your chest." Thanks for listening. BURNING IN DETROIT

DEAR BURNING: And you'll feel better when you get it off. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: I love my inlaws, but they are my problem. My husband and I have two children, 6 and 3. They are the only grandchildren my inlaws have (which is probably why they spoil them the way they do).

My husband travels a lot, and I like to go with him for a few days every few months. This keeps our marriage healthy.

My inlaws beg to keep our children when we're gone, but after the children have been with their grandparents it takes me a week to get them to mind.

My inlaws let the kiddies stay up as late as they want to, and they feed them candy and soft drinks between meals. Also, when I say something, my word is law, and I don't put up with any back-talk. The grandparents never discipline them, and when the kids talk back, they laugh and think it's cute.

I don't want to seem ungrateful, Abby, but I resent my inlaws spoiling all the work I've put into training my children. I have stressed my rules several times, but they don't pay any attention to them.

How can I drive my point home without getting them angry with me? If I hired a sitter my inlaws would be terribly hurt. TOO SOFT

DEAR TOO: Your signature sums up the reason for your problem. Toughen up, and tell your inlaws that either they must follow your rules, or you'll not leave your children with them.

'Plentiful' Foods Are Phased Out

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-eight years of Plentiful Foods are over in the United States.

The Agriculture Department phased out this week its Plentiful Foods program, under which it listed monthly food in larger-than-usual supply.

The program was thought of as an aid to consumers with tight grocery budgets but an Agricultural Marketing Service spokesman said it spotlighted foods in need of marketing assistance and was an aid to producers.

The spokesman said the department was expecting "fewer surpluses for quite a long while." As a result, he said, the department announced June 6 that the program would end in its present form, the staff would be dispersed and the last list would be July's.

That July list pushed Navy and pinto beans, rolled oats, corn meal, grits and Maine sardines. It ended, "supplies of other major foods are somewhat lower than usual."

Food prices are at their highest levels in two decades, and many government officials attribute this development to decreased supplies caused by poor weather and increased demand by more affluent consumers.

The idea of the Plentiful Foods program was to help farmers and other producers when high supplies brought prices below costs.

The service was not designed specifically to help consumers, although the consumer-oriented activities within the department did draw on the list for their mass-distributed advice, adding in "the nutrition factors not built into our list."

Now the Plentiful Foods promotions will be handled through the normal information and commodity divisions.

Texas Firm Gets Navy Contract

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Tracer, Inc., has received a $4.9 million contract to continue engineering, installation and logistics support to the sonar systems on Navy missile—carrying submarines.

About 150 Tracer employes will be involved in the two-year contract, the Austin-based scientific research and manufacturing firm said.

New Effort To Block Line Fails

By DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmentalists were defeated in another major effort to block the Alaska oil pipeline as the House followed the Senate's lead and approved building the 789-mile system.

The House Thursday voted 356 to 60 for the facility, despite the concern expressed on the floor in nearly 10 hours of debate over oil spills—both on land and in coastal waters.

But, principal backers of the pipeline say major disagreements between both houses still stand in the way of final passage.

"I don't look for a long drawn out conference, but there are important differences," Rep. John Melcher, D-Mont., said after the House vote.

"The broad range of the Senate bill, affecting all types of rights of way on public lands, flies in the face of the House bill," Melcher said.

Melcher, chairman of the Interior subcommittee which put the bill together, led the fight for it on the floor. He probably will be a member of the House-Senate conference committee which will begin meetings after Congress returns from its August recess.

The bill permits the secretary of the interior to grant rights of way in some circumstances in excess of the 50-foot maximum provided by the Mineral Leasing Act of 1920.

It limits this authority to oil and gas pipelines, unlike the Senate version, which sets up new procedures for granting rights of way across federal lands for all transportation and transmission purposes.

The $3.5-billion pipeline, expected to start moving oil in 1978 if finally approved, would stretch from the rich oil fields of the Prudhoe Bay area on Alaska's north slope to the ice-free port of Valdez.

Environmentalists have expressed fears of damaging oil spills on the overland route or the course along which tankers will transport the oil from Valdez to refineries on Puget sound in Washington state.

They attempted by offering two amendments to clear the way for further environmental suits against the project or to delay it pending a study of an alternate route through Canada.

Both amendments were defeated.

Joint Fly Plan To Fight Screwworm

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mexico is ready to build a special plant to help wipe out screwworm flies in a joint program with this country, the Agriculture Department reported Thursday.

The objective is to subject millions of such insects to involuntary birth control measures.

A spokesman for the department said the Mexican government has acquired a 170-acre site near Tustla Gutierrez, in Southern Mexico, for the plant to produce sterile screwworm flies.

Dr. Norwn L. Meyer said the plant will produce about 300 million sterile screwworm flies a week for the Mexican airways. Female screworm flies mate only once; if they meet up with one of Meyer's winged agents, their eggs will not hatch.

Meyer is a co-director of the U.S. Commission for Screwworm Eradication, created under an August 1972 agreement between the countries to expand the department's program into Mexico and eliminate the livestock pest on both sides of the border.

Meyer and Dr. Marco Antonio Villasenor, for Mexico, have set up offices in Mexico City to direct the jointly funded $1.8—million-a-year program. It calls for a sterile buffer zone across the isthumus of Tehuantetec in Southern Mexico to thwart fertile Central American screwworm flies from propagating in the north.

The screwworms are the larvae of the fly of the same name. They infest untreated wounds in warm-blooded animals and eat the flesh, frequently killing the animals.

Losses of Southwestern livestock producers were estimated at more than $100 million a year, officials said, before the U.S. program started 11 years ago.

But such birth control methods as the sterile-fly plan to be operating by November 1974, are not enough, officials said.

Ranchers must be on the watch for worms and treat them, spray their herds and send larvae samples to official laboratories.

Eradication efforts currently are concentrated along the 2,000—mile U.S.—Mexico border, with 200 million sterile flies a week being dispatched from Mission, Tex.

County Court Pleas Heard

Several pleas were entered in county court yesterday, and probation of Ernest James was revoked due to a driving while intoxicated offense. He will have to serve a 30 day jail term.

He received a 2-year probated term. The offense occurred June 20.

Two Vandalism Suspects Nabbed

City Police apprehended two vandal suspects about 1 o'clock Wednesday morning at Snyder Motor Company.

Police said officers Nick Martinez and Dan Barnett heard a loud noise while they were at the parking lot Wednesday morning. They investigated and determined that a radio antennae had been broken off a 1967 Model Caprice station wagon. They discovered the two suspects on the parking lot and said that charges will be filed against them.

40 Dead In Hotel Fire

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man (AP) — A fired roared through a crowded seven-story hotel and entertainment center on the Douglas seafront Thursday night, killing at least 40 men, women and children and injuring 80.

Police Chief Frank Weedon said the death toll would probably go higher as workers searched the upper floors of the Summerland, a multi-million-dollar "Coney Island under one roof" of bars, dance halls and hotel rooms.

Floor manager L. Shaffer said it was believed the inferno was set off by a child playing with matches on a balcony. Within minutes the flames engulfed the building, which was crowded with more than 2,000 people.

Firemen reached the scene almost immediately and began pumping water from the sea, but it was two hours before the fire was brought under control.

Thirty of the injured were in critical condition.

It was the worst tragedy in memory to hit this holiday island midway between England and Northern Ireland. Telephone lines from Britain and Ireland were jammed throughout the night with calls from anxious relatives of vacationers.

Panel To Get Data On Spying

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lowell R. Weicker Jr. has turned over to three Senate committees documentary evidence that U.S. Army intelligence units in West Germany spied on supporters of Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern and other American civilians, Senate sources said today.

The sources said that an investigator on Weicker's staff, during a trip to West Germany in June, collected evidence of wiretapping, photographic surveillance, infiltration and the opening of mail carried out by U.S. Army intelligence units.

One target of the military surveillance operation was a group in Berlin called Concerned Americans, a 1972 McGovern campaign organization, the sources said.

Weicker's investigator also learned the surveillance against that group was part of a widespread intelligence operation aimed at American civilians, particularly those who had contacts with German nationals, the sources said.

In a related development, the West German government announced Thursday it has bugged private citizens at the request of its American, British and French allies.

But a government spokesman said an official investigation turned up no evidence that the U.S. Army's counterespionage service carried out illegal wiretapping.

The statement followed newspaper reports that the U.S. Army used illegal phone taps in efforts to identify Germans who reportedly encouraged desertions among 200,000 American troops stationed in West Germany.

Weicker, a Connecticut Republican and member of the Senate Watergate committee, has turned over the investigator's findings to the Senate Armed Services Committee, the Watergate committee investigating 1972 campaign practices and the Senate constitutional rights subcommittee.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., who also is chairman of the Watergate panel, issued a report this week of widespread military spying conducted by U.S. armed forces intelligence groups.

More Bases May Be Cut

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials reported the possibility of a new round of base closings amid a growing feud with Congress over severe defense cuts.

This could be a Pentagon signal that congressmen might feel the effects of their actions in the loss of military installations, and civilian jobs back home.

Sources indicated consideration of possible new shutdowns is in its early stages and involves examination of lists of bases that are of marginal value to the armed services.

Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger, in office only about a month, opened fire on congressional budget trimmers Wednesday. He accused them of "follies" in voting drastic cutbacks in military manpower, arms aid to South Vietnam and Laos, and other programs.

Thursday, Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., returned Schlesinger's fire in a speech advising the new Pentagon chief "to extract his foot from his mouth."

McIntyre, a veteran member of the Senate Armed Service Committee, spoke of "Pentagon follies" as primarily responsible for the diminishing support for the defense effort. He accused the Pentagon of advancing "ill-conceived ... extravagant ... redundant programs."

The defense budget has been under its heaviest attack in years in both the House and Senate, with many key weapons projects feeling the bite.

The most immediate cause of concern to top Pentagon civilian and military officials is the Senate Armed Services vote to hack 156,000 men from the armed services over the coming year. This would bring the total down to 2,076,800 men, smallest in nearly a quarter of a century.

If this cut is sustained, Pentagon officials say the combat readiness of the forces will be seriously endangered.

In one private conference this week, Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt, chief of Naval operations, reportedly said that the projected 9 per cent cut in the size of the Navy might mean laying up 45 ships and shutting down possibly eight major installations, including one shipyard.

Some Army officials suggested that a comparable 9 per cent reduction in its manpower might lead to elimination of one of the Army's 13 combat divisions and supporting elements.

Air Force authorities said a 6 per cent slash, as voted by the Senate committee, might translate into a reduction of 25 bomber, fighter and airlift squadrons or 10 major installations.

Of all the services, only the Marines would escape relatively unscathed, with a one per cent reduction in its manpower.

Hair Styles Match Hats

HAIRDOS FOR HATS—Coordination of new hairdos and hats for spring has created a do-it-yourself trend that sends fashion right to the top of your head. Choosing the right hat silhouette for yourself and your hairdo and use a setting lotion to create a new you. The close cropped shag cut, top left, is carefree for spring, good for all occasions and is especially chic when coupled with a giant brim natural straw with a tipple that takes a flirtatious dip at front, top right. For a mood of nostalgia, the side-part, off-the-face page boy style is matched with a floppy brim cotton hat turned up in front, center, to give a face framing accent. A constant fashion favorite, bottom left, is the softly cascading center part comb out. The unstudied look of loose curls at the shoulder gain added charm with the romantic wide brim straw hat touched with flowers, bottom right. All hats are from the Betmar young group. Hairstyles are from Ogilvie.

Seamstresses Help Polish Women Follow Style

By GEORGE BRODSKI ...
Associated Press Writer ...

WARSAW (AP) — Looking at colorful dresses in Warsaw streets one is apt to forget that it's a Communist capital.

Sticking to fashion from Paris or London, Polish women have a reputation among the Western community here for being smart dressers.

Most Polish girls give the credit to their "fairy godmothers" — private seamstresses who run small shops throughout the country.

State clothing industry, because of bureaucratic methods, lags several years behind world trends.

"I have a school friend who makes dresses. I bring her patterns from Vogue or Petra (an American and a West German magazine) and she makes me what I need," said an elegantly-turned-out young lady in Warsaw.

"The only trouble is to buy interesting fabric, but if you look in cloth shops often enough, you can always find something."

Under the new government of Communist party leader Edward Gierek Warsaw's new "Centrum" department stores have been given a free hand in imports and they now display wares from Austria, West Germany, France and England, though not yet in sufficient quantities.

"Still, with what we get in 'Centrum,' at the Rag Market, from the West plus what we have privately done, we manage to keep trendy," said the woman.

At "Centrum" a modish frock is about $25, about five days' wage of an average Polish worker.

In the Rag Market prices are lower, but most clothes are secondhand. A home-made dress comes to about the same price, but it's original and made to measure.

A few state fashion houses like "Moda Polska" also make women's clothes according to latest French fashions, but prices are exorbitant. The tag on a simple suit would be about 3,000 zlotys — an average monthly wage in Poland.

Meanwhile state industry is turning out clothes that become a burden to retail shops. Complained a shop manager: "Our customers seek new, fashionable things while we're saddled with crude clothing."

Most private seamstresses in Poland use Western fashion magazines to keep abreast on latest styles. They cost plenty for a Pole — about half a day's pay.

New state regulations which permit Poles to make more trips to the West have taken the pressure off state-run commission shops. They sell Western clothes and goods which come into Poland in parcels from relatives abroad.

You might not find your exact shoe size or desired color of pullover — it's a matter of luck sorting through the wares. There are 60 such shops in Warsaw and 400 throughout the country.

Once the source of elegance, they have become less and less frequented because of high prices and opportunities to find good wares elsewhere.

Real Specials Hard To Find

COLLEGE STATION — Meat prices hover at ceiling prices, and "real specials" are hard to find, Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt reported this week.

The consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, listed beef-department best values as chuck cuts, round steaks and ground beef.

"A substitute hamburger is available in some stores," she said.

"This is ground beef with a soy protein added. Its price is substantially lower than regular ground beef; however, this may increase some as the price of soy beans continues to rise. Its protein is about the same as regular ground beef — and fat is lower."

In pork, Mrs. Clyatt recommended Boston butt roasts, quarter-loin sliced and rib-end roasts.

"Fryer chicken and egg prices remain about the same as a week ago with large-size eggs in best supply, while turkeys have increased a bit.

"Fryer chickens are still good buys in most markets even though prices have advanced considerably in the past few months.

"For economy and good eating, invite friends over for backyard barbecued ckicken.

"Cheese products also are at high levels."

Mrs. Clyatt cited supply-demand factors as one reason for rising prices, noting "this is true not only in this country, but throughout the world — most of these products aren't in large enough supply to keep pace with consumer demand."

She suggested dry beans as "a summertime must," served hot to accompany chilled salad plates boasting seasonally available fresh fruits and vegetables.

"Many vegetables are behind schedule due to the wet weather earlier, but quality is generally good," she said.

Playing Not Necessary

By ANN CURLEY

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — "It's not necessary to be a musician to manage a symphony orchestra," says Catherine French, "but it is necessary to know musicians and understand them."

Miss French should know. She's the newly appointed manager of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra, a rare position for a woman.She assumed the behind-the-scenes operation of the orchestra in January and says she is "still learning so much."

But the 26-year-old orchestra manager considers the work of the 93 musicians and music director Henry Lewis "really fantastic."

A 15-member administrative staff headed by Miss French handles such details as engaging musicians and soloists, scheduling concerts, hiring halls, arranging for promotion and transporting equipment to concert sites.

"Every area of staff work is aimed at enabling the orchestra to give its best performance," declares the New Jersey native, who commutes from her home town of Bergenfield to the orchestra's headquarters in Newark's Symphony Hall.

With 103 concerts scheduled during the 1972-73 season, including appearances throughout the country, it's like being on tour all the time, she says.

A student of piano and organ as a youngster, the new orchestra manager admits she disliked practicing and had "no desire to ever be a performer." Her interest in music, however, led to a degree in music history at Manhattanville College in Purchase, N.Y.

She discovered the administrative side of the field as business manager and treasurer of the college glee club and through part-time work for the music department. After graduating in 1968, she became assistant to the manager of Leopold Stokowski's American Symphony Orchestra in New York City.

When Miss French was appointed executive director and manager of that orchestra in 1970 at the age of 23, she was the youngest person to hold such a post with a major American symphony. Her work there continued until the orchestra ceased operations last year.

"What all of us want," she says of her work with the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra, "is to serve the state of New Jersey — all areas and all the people."

She points out that the current 50th anniversary season includes family concerts and performances for young people, as well as regular adult concerts.

"The time is quickly passing when a single city has an orchestra and expects people to come to it," Miss French believes, citing the 31 communities in which the musicians must appear this season. "If society supports the artist, the artist must serve society. You have to go where people are if you have something to offer that you want to share with them."

Although a classical music lover with special admiration for Beethoven, she feels that "all symphonies have come to the point where they realize how important it is to serve American composers and do contemporary music — and we do that here.

"Our aim from a business standpoint," she adds, "is to increase earned income. People have to be convinced that it (the orchestra) is worth giving to."

Ticket sales, contributions and government grants are the sources of income for the orchestra, the manager notes.

Having started her new job at a "pretty hectic" time on the symphony calendar, Miss French finds few occasions for some of her favorite nonmusical pursuits like playing backgammon and reading mystery stories. Hours not filled by office work, concerts or rehearsals often are spent at Carnegie Hall hearing other orchestras and artists.

But she likes seeing all the details of orchestra management tie together to produce a successful performance.

"I like the total work," she comments. "I really enjoy seeing the end result. If things go right we have an enthusiastic orchestra and an enthusiastic audience."

Archdiocese To Celebrate Mass

BOSTON (AP) — Humberto Cardinal Medeiros, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, will celebrate mass Aug. 19 in the Azores island village where he was born 56 years ago.

The archdiocese said Friday that the celebration will be held in the church of Our Lady of Health in Arrifes on the island of Sao Miguel. It is where the cardinal was baptized and received his first communion and is part of a nine-day trip being sponsored by a group of Portugese-Americans in Fall River, Mass.

Born in Arrifes in 1916, the cardinal came to Fall River in 1931 and was ordained a priest in the Fall River diocese in 1946.

Royalties To Areas

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Record producer Charles Greene has announced that all profits due his record company, Greene Mountain Records, from its current release of the Little Richard record, "In the Middle of the Night," plus all royalties due the artist and publisher, would be donated to tornado victims.

The money is to go to public service agencies in 12 states recently ravaged by tornados — Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Virginia, Kansas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Michigan, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Texas.

Two More Husband Pleasin' Recipes

By Aline Parks

Mr. and Mrs. Ulmer Vernon of Hermleigh were both winners in the baking contest sponsored by Snyder's Ranch Headquarters Association recently.

Mr. Vernon, who has made a hobby of baking bread, won honorable mention for his entry of Sweet Rye Bread. Mrs. Vernon, who says she enjoys baking also, won second prize in the cake division with a Potato Cake.

Mrs. Vernon's cake recipe has been in her family for many tears, and she likes to serve it on special occasions. Here is the recipe:

POTATO CAKE

4 eggs
¾ cup butter or margarine
2 cups sugar
2-3 cup milk
1 cup mashed sweet potatoes or pumpkin
2 cups flour
1 cup pecans or other nuts
½ cup cocoa
2 cups raisins
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Mrs. Vernon's recipe is so old it does not include mixing or baking directions. She mixes the ingredients in the order given and bakes it either in three layers or in a 10-inch tube pan. To bake in layers, she suggests baking 25 to 30 minutes at 350 degrees. To bake in a tube pan, she suggests 55 minutes at 275 degrees.

FUDGE ICING

4 cups sugar
1 cup milk
½ cup Karo
1 heaping tablespoons cocoa
1 stick butter or margarine
2 teaspoons vanilla

Bring to a boil and cook 3 to 4 minutes, or until the mixture spins a thread. Cooking time may need to be lengthened on humid days. This makes filling and frosting for a three-layer cake.

Mr. Vernon's recipe for Sweet Rye Bread came from a 1916 edition of Capper's Farmer magazine. The recipe has been simplified to allow the use of an electric mixer.

SWEET RYE BREAD

1 cup scalded milk
1 teaspoon caraway seed
½ cup dark molasses
½ cup brown sugar firmly packed
1 tablespoon salt
1 packages active dry yeart
1 cup warm water (110 to 115 degrees)
2 tablespoons soft butter
3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
3 cups sifted rye flour
Have ready cornmeal, 1 egg white, 1 tablespoon water

Combine hot milk, caraway seed, molasses, brown sugar and salt. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Cool to lukewarm.

Soften yeast in warm water, then add to cooled milk mixture. Stir in butter and white flour. Beat at medium speed on mixer for 2 minutes. Blend in rye flour to make stiff dough. Turn out on floured board, cover, and let rest 10 minutes. Knead lightly for 8 to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, grease top, cover and let rise in warm place (80 to 85 degrees) until doubled in size, about 1½ hours.

Divide dough in half. Shape in two round or two long loaves. Place on greased baking sheet sprinkled with cornmeal. Slash tops of round loaves from center to edge with sharp knife. Slash long loaves diagonally. Brush with slightly beaten egg white diluted with 1 tablespoon water. Sprinkle with few additional caraway seeds if desired.

Cover and let rise until almost doubled in size, about 45 minutes. Bake in moderate over (375 degrees) for 45 to 50 minutes. Cool on racks.

Watch for a fascinating new fabric with musical sounds photographed and printed on it, says Marilyn Brown, consumer education clothing and textiles specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Judge Due To Rule On Meat Freeze Removal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A federal judge in San Francisco says he will rule shortly on a suit asking for removal of the beef price freeze the meat industry claims is damming supplies and picking off its operations.

More meat packing plants announced shutdowns Thursday, in Pennsylvania, California, Texas and Nebraska.

"We haven't closed this plant in 25 years," said William Hughes, president of King Meat Packing Co. in Vernon, Calif., one of six packing plants there that announced they were closing.

U.S. District Court Judge Robert F. Peckham said he would rule today or Monday on the Pacific Meat Jobbers Association's request for a preliminary injunction to stop the Cost of Living Council from enforcing the price freeze.

The suit claims that the price ceiling on beef, effective under Phase 4 guidelines until Sept. 12, discriminates against beef slaughterers and wholesalers who are unable to pass along the higher costs of cattle.

The freeze on other food prices was lifted by President Nixon on July 18.

Dr. Willard Williams, a Texas Tech University economist specializing in livestock and meat, said cattle prices have increased because of higher feed grain costs and that growers are withholding cattle in anticipation of even higher prices when the ceiling is lifted.

Williams said the slaughter of cattle is down 30 per cent and the amount of cattle going to feeder lots is down 11 per cent.

On Thursday, the Senate voted 84 to 5 on a measure to remove the freeze on beef prices. The measure goes now to the House.

The amendment, sponsored by Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., would allow retailers to pass on to the consumer any increases in the raw-agricultural-product costs of beef incurred since June 8.

A spokesman for the Western States Meat Packers Association said "by next week, meat packing plants will be operating at only 60 per cent of normal, which means production will be down one third from this week."

The cost and shortage of beef has led to a rise in the number of complaints about cattle rustling. Cattlemen from northern Idaho to southern Utah and from the Plains to Nevada are claiming that the Phase 4 price ceiling has touched off a rash of rustling.

"Believe me, it's bad," said Mrs. David Probst, wife of a Wasatch County, Utah, rancher. "We've been hit several times in the past couple of weeks and I'm afraid we'll probably be hit again." The family has lost 15 head of cattle since January.

Similar complaints are being heard from farmers in rural West Virginia and southeastern Ohio, where cattle owners in two counties have formed an antirustling protective association.

The group, which boasts 400 members, offers a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest of rustlers.

Payments Always Lag In Sluggish Economy

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — When the economy slows down, so also will payments. Pinched mortgagors delay by a few days their payment to the bank. Borrowers on installment loans sometimes overlook a monthly payment.

The slowdown doesn't involve individuals only. Businessmen will tell you that when their customers are slow to pay there is a tendency on their part to be slow payers also. Even Uncle Sam has been known to play the game.

To varying degrees this behavior is tolerated before a reminder is dispatched, which may then escalate into the demand, the threat and eventually to action should the money not be forthcoming.

The process might be drawn out for months as each side tests the other. But, says the Management Letter, a publication of Prentice-Hall, the tedious process of collection might be unwittingly drawn out by the dunner himself.

"It's bad enough when payments are slow coming in," the letter comments, "but it's even worse when your own efforts actually slow them down further."

After surveying collection letter procedures the editors proved that nobody is perfect. Said they: "Long, dull and wordy collections letters have the effect of slowing down payments."

These are some of the commonest redundancies found in the survey:

—"According to our records," instead of "We find."

—"At an early date," when "Right away" would do.

—"In the amount of" rather than "For."

—"In the event that" instead of "If."

—"It is our opinion that" for "We believe."

—"Reflects a balance of" instead of "Shows."

—"To the attention of the writer" rather than "To me."

—"Under date of" instead of "On."

—"Finalized our decision" when "Decided" would suffice.

Since a downturn in the economy is a very real possibility, more of you will be receiving collection letters in coming months, taxing your ability to come up with new and effective techniques for delaying further.

Here, therefore, is an effective new technique. You can edit the collection letter and return it with your comments, asking that the writer be less wordy and blaming him for the delay in payment.

Junior Editors' Quiz on PAGODAS

QUESTION: What is a pagoda?

ANSWER: A pagoda is a many storied tower-like building found in the Far East. Pagodas are numerous in India, China, Thailand, Burma, Japan and other Oriental countries

This form of architecture originated in India and then was adopted by the Chinese. The Japanese adopted it from China with the introduction of Buddhism. Pagodas are associated with Buddhism since many were built as shrines or as part of a monastic complex, devoted to this religion. In India, a pagoda is usually connected with a Buddhist religious center. In China the pagoda is often a memorial building.

The pagoda in India is a pyramidal structure of masonry, tapering to a point and adorned with carving and statuary. The Chinese style of pagoda is less ornate. The usual Chinese pagoda is octagonal in shape and has many stories. Each story has a roof, projecting upward. Brick is usually used, also glazed tile or porcelain. Ivory, bone and stone work are used for decoration. Japanese pagodas are usually square in design, about five stories high, each with a roof projection. Wood is the material used in Japan.

2 Lawyers In Strange Re-Union

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — But for Watergate, both of them seemed certain of promising, unruffled careers.

Both were young, Republican, well-educated, well-spoken, well-dressed. Both belonged to Princeton's Ivy Club. One went on to Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service, the other to Georgetown's School of Law. Both married bright, attractive women. Both were offered jobs with President Nixon's re-election committee.

Hugh W. Sloan Jr. accepted. Searle Field didn't.

Sloan, 32, the committee's former treasurer, eventually found himself in the witness chair on one side of the table covered with green felt that dominates the Senate Watergate hearings. Field, 29, a Watergate investigator for Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. R-Conn., was on the other.

It made all the difference.

Sloan testified about the money flow from Nixon campaign funds that financed the Watergate break-in.

Then he went back to Princeton, N.J., disillusioned with politics and ready for a new start, this time as an executive with a business firm.

Field is one of a dozen young attorneys working on or with the Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities that is investigating the Watergate scandal.

And Watergate is having a dramatic effect on their personal and professional lives.

Some have trouble sleeping. One attorney has a recurring nightmare that he is a pallbearer at the funeral of one of the principal Watergate witnesses.

A few are on ego trips, confusing the hundreds of hours of free television time with success. An attorney called his hometown newspaper to suggest that a reporter be sent to Washington to interview him. One was.

But most of them said in interviews that the whole Watergate drama has made them painfully aware of the pitfalls a professional can encounter.

"It's definitely affected my life," said Field of Brooklyn, Conn. "I've learned a tremendous amount about life, about some of the dangers of professional conduct.

"You have to be careful of compromise, careful of your principles, aware that even things done quietly in the back room can be as dangerous as so-called street crime."

Garcia Must Go To Psychiatrist

MOUNT HOLLY, N.J. (AP) — Jerry Garcia, lead guitarist of the Grateful Dead rock group, will have to report to a psychiatrist every two months for a year as part of conditional probation terms.

Garcia, 30, of Marin County, Calif., drew a one-year conditional probation term Monday on charges of possession of narcotics.

Judge Herman Belopolsky said he would entertain a motion for dismissal of the charges at the end of the one-year period if probation terms were followed.

Garcia was arrested March 27 on a speeding charge. Police said they found marijuana and cocaine in his car. He pleaded innocent to the possession charge.

Bentsen Votes For Wage Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen Jr., D-Tex., voted with the majority Thursday as the Senate approved 62-28 the compromise version of a bill raising the minimum wage to $2.20 per hour.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., voted against the measure.

Staubach Guides Cowboys Tonight

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Hadl, having moved 125 miles, tries to move the football for appreciable yardage tonight when his Los Angeles Rams battle the Dallas Cowboys.

It marks the first National Football League game for Hadl in anything except San Diego livery, but the Chargers traded him to the Rams last summer and he now operates the offense for Chuck Knox, new Rams' head coach.

A year ago, the Rams went 1-5 in the pre-season warmup games and Coach Tommy Prothro wasn't too perturbed. But at the end of a 6-7-1 regular season, Prothro was fired and Knox hired.

The former assistant at New York (Jets) and Detroit declared he wants to win the preseason affairs to give his Rams a winning outlook over-all.

The kickoff is set for 8 p.m., PDT, with more than 70,000 expected to watch this 1973 inaugural of the revamped Rams and the Cowboys who want to shake off lingering doubts of dissension in their ranks.

Center Dave Manders retired and both quarterback Craig Morton and defensive tackle Bob Lilly quit the club, the latter pair returning amid statements of sweetness and light.

Over the past seven years, the Cowboys have made the playoffs annually and won Super Bowl VI in 1972.

Hadl will have veteran Ram wide receiver Jack Snow on one side and former Chicago star Dick Gordon on the other. In addition, the club added the NFL's leading pass catcher of the 1972, Harold Jackson.

Jackson came from Philadelphia in the deal sending disgruntled quarterback Roman Gabriel to the Eagles.

Seven new starters will be on the Ram opening sets and the quarterback crew is virtually all new—James Harris up from the taxi squad and rookies Ron Jaworski, a second-round draft choice from Youngstown State and Sonny Sixkiller, a free agent from Washington.

The Rams traded such regulars from 1972 as defensive end Coy Bacon, running backs Willie Ellison and Bob Thomas and defender Clancy Williams. Wide receiver Lance Rentzel was placed on suspension by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle following a plea of guilty to a marijuana possession charge.

A year ago, Roger Staubach started at quarterback for the then-defending Super Bowl champions but suffered a shoulder separation when hit by Marlin McKeever in Dallas' 27-13 victory.

Staubach, who missed most of last season, is back directing the Cowboy offense and Morton again is relegated to a back-up role.

John Fitzgerald starts at center in place of the retired Dave Manders and the starting running backs will be Calvin Hill and Walt Garrison.

Sparky's Wife Is Manager

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson and his wife Carol have been married 20 peaceful years. But there will be no holds barred Sunday when a ball team made up of players' wives go against the Reds, she said.

She will manage the Reds wives in the exhibition.

The game will precede the game between Cincinnati and Houston.

Kouns Fires No-Hitter

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Bill Kouns, Pawtucket's 6-foot-1 right-hander, hurled a no-hitter in the second game of an International League doubleheader Thursday night.

It was the second no-hitter of the season in the league.

Kouns walked two batters as his Red Sox defeated Richmond 1-0. He also hit one batter and struck out one.

Pawtucket also won the first game, 9-4. Both were seven-inning contests.

Twins Knock A's Into 2nd

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Have the Oakland A's become the Oakland Avises?

"I guess we're like Avis; we'll have to try harder," Manager Dick Williams said after the world champion A's lost to Minnesota 6-3 Thursday night and became No. 2 in the American League's West Division, one game behind the Kansas City Royals, who beat Chicago 3-1.

Larry Hisle collected a double and two singles, scored two runs and drove in another to spark the Twins while Bobby Darwin drilled his 14th homer.

Kansas City's victory behind the nine-hit pitching of Dick Drago and Gene Garber was the Royals' fifth in a row. Coupled with Oakland's loss, it moved the Royals one game ahead of the A's and put them 14 games over .500 for the first time in the club's five-year history.

Elsewhere, the New York Yankees took a 10-0 drubbing by the Boston Red Sox, the Cleveland Indians blanked the Baltimore Orioles 6-0, the Milwaukee Brewers cooled off the Detroit Tigers 6-3 and the California Angels edged the Texas Rangers 3-2.

Red Sox 10, Yankees 0

The Red Sox exploded for five runs in the first inning on home runs by Orlando Cepeda and Carlton Fisk.

Steve Kline, making his first start since he went on the disabled list with arm trouble June 24, retired the first two batters but Reggie Smith beat out an infield hit, Carl Yastrzemski walked and Cepeda homered. Kline left after walking Rico Petrocelli and Fisk greeted Doc Medich with his 20th home run.

Indians 6, Orioles 0

Gaylord Perry, the 1972 Cy Young Award winner, fired a five-hitter and struck out the 2,000th batter of his career to lead the Indians over the Orioles. He is the 24th pitcher to reach that plateau.

Chris Chambliss cracked a run-scoring double in the first inning and Ron Lolich's double made it 2-0 in the second. The Indians kayoed Don Hood with four more runs in the third.

Brewers 6, Tigers 3

Darrell Porter's three-run homer capped a four-run sixth inning that enabled the Brewers to snap the Tigers' eight-game winning streak.

Bob Coluccio also homered for the Brewers.

Angels 3, Rangers 2

Fireballing Nolan Ryan scattered eight hits and struck out 11 in hurling the Angels past the Rangers. It was his first victory since he pitched a no-hitter against Detroit July 15.

California scored twice in the bottom of the third on a sacrifice fly by Sandy Alomar and an RBI single by Alan Gallagher. Newcomer Billy Parker delivered what proved to be the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the sixth.

National League scores: Los Angeles 4, Houston 2 in 11 innings; Cincinnati 17, Atlanta 2; Montreal 2, St. Louis 0; Philadelphia 4, Chicago 1; New York 5, Pittsburgh 1.

Dodgers Flail S'water 23-2

COLORADO CITY — The Snyder Dodgers flailed Sweetwater 23-2 in the second round of the Region V Teenage League Baseball Tournament here last night.

The game was forfeited after four innings. Ricky Beard twirled a two-hitter for the Dodgers.

Everyone except three boys got hits for the Dodgers. Mike Clifton and Gary Greenlee led the attack with three hits in four trips to the plate each. Barry Blalock, Randy Gressett and Roy Villanueva each went two for four. John Hopkins slammed a double with the bases loaded to drive in three runs.

Sweetwater protested the game twice in the first inning.

Colorado City meets Sweetwater tonight at 6:30, and the winner will take on the Snyder Dodgers at 8:30 p.m. If the Dodgers lose, then they will get to play another game at 10:30 p.m. in the double elimination tournament.

The winner of the Region V tournament will compete in the state tournament at Brownwood.

Golf Queen Watches Diet

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "I'll have a hamburger and no bun please," Laura Baugh told the waitress.

"I've gained a few pounds," explained the newest glamour queen of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, breaking into a dimpled smile.

The 18-year-old blonde, who normally caries 115 to 120 pounds, admitted she was up to 122 pounds for the $35,000 LPGA Classic which began today.

The former U.S. Women's Amateur champion, an LPGA tourist for just five weeks, relishes her role as a pro queen, though.

"I don't dye my hair. I'm a natural blonde," the Florida native now living in Long Beach, Calif., said proudly.

The daughter of Florida lawyer Hale Baugh, a 1968 Olympian, has a golf game to match her looks. She's finished in the top ten twice and was 25th in the Open in her first five weeks as a pro.

Her dad, who competed in the Olympic pentathlon, is a crack golfer himself. He was a University of Florida teammate of Doug Sanders, Dan Sikes and Tommie Aaron.

Despite a balky putter, the mature teen-ager carried a confident outlook into the 54-hole Classic over the 6,544yard, par 72 Riviera Country Club course.

A field of 70 teed off today in the first of three 18-hole rounds over the relatively flat, well-manicured layout.

Marilynn Smith, the 1972 champion, and leading money winner Judy Rankin were among the field.

North All-Stars End 4-Game Streak, 11-7

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The biggest smile among the Southwest Conference coaching fraternity Thursday night after the Texas high school all-star football game had to belong to Baylor's Grant Teaff.

Two schoolboy blue chippers who will report to his camp later this month were instrumental in the North's 11-7 victory over the South in the 39th annual Texas High School Coaches Association all-star game in Texas Stadium. It broke a four-game South winning streak in the series.

Fleet Alcy Jackson of Dallas South Oak Cliff, a 6-foot-3, 180-pound do-it-all, was voted the outstanding back on the field. He intercepted two passes on defense and snared three passes on offense good for 56 yards. One reception was an acrobatic leap for 28 yards.

Tim Black of Amarillo Palo Duro recovered a fumble that led to the North's only touchdown—a one-yard run by Rucker Lewis of Plano.

The North's other points came on a 30-yard field goal by Larry Isaac of Lubbock Estacado and a safety when Gainesville's George Lewis forced South quarterback Tommy Kramer of San Antonio Lee to ground the ball in the end zone.

The South struck for its only touchdown in the first period when Kramer nailed fleet Jeff Bergeron of Port Neches-Groves with a 41-yard pass.

The game was supposed to feature high-powered offenses but it quickly boiled down into a duel of muscle in the trenches. The North gained only 51 yards rushing and the South 78 steps.

The hard-pressed South passers completed only three of 18 passes.

Tackle Wilson Whitley of Brenham, the bellcow of the South defense, was named the outstanding lineman in the game, which saw the North run its alltime series edge to 22-14-3.

The South fumbled eight times in a game which was marked by a weird 84-yard play which didn't yield a point. North quarterback David Shipman hit Mike Floyd of Spearman with a long pass and Floyd toted it to the South 3, where he fumbled amid a tangle of South players and back judge Ken Dowd. The South got the ball.

A crowd of only 19,992 witnessed the contest in Texas Stadium

The victory gained sweet revenge for the North, which was humiliated 65-0 in the contest two years ago.

North Coach John Clark of Plano said, "We shut their running game down and were waiting for them to throw. It was that simple. Alcy just played a fantastic game. Besides the interceptions, he made some fantastic tackles and caught the ball well."

Jackson said, "I was just trying to redeem myself. I let Bergron get loose on the first touchdown. He was my responsibility. It's four years since the North has won this game. It's about time."

Tom Gorman Tries Casual Approach

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Tom Gorman of Seattle is trying the casual approach to the Davis Cup.

"I didn't play too well against Mexico earlier this year," Gorman said. "I thought too much about it and caused too much pressure."

Gorman will open the American Zone Davis Cup finals against Jaimie Fillol, Chile's No. 1 player, this afternoon.

In the other singles, Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., will play Pat Cornejo.

The United States, which whipped Chile 5-0 last year in Santiago, is a heavy favorite to repeat.

"Everybody might think we're big favorites to win, but we can lose," Gorman said. "We've lost to Ecuador and we've lost to Brazil in the past, two countries people have barely heard about as far as tennis is concerned."

Dennis Ralston, nonplaying captain of the U.S. team, attempted to explain the unique pressure of the Davis Cup.

"Davis Cup is the most tense competition in this game—maybe any game—and funny things happen," he said. "You're playing for your country, and that changes everything, triples the pressures and makes you feel like you're carrying millions of fellow citizens instead of playing just for yourself, like you do the rest of the year in tournaments."

Smith, the world's top player, was conceded one of the spots in the singles competition. Gorman was selected by Ralston after several days of practice on the artificial surface at the Burns Park Tennis Center.

Gorman says he has played Fillol 10 times, winning six. Gorman won the last meeting in Caracas in March.

Fillol and Cornejo took Smith and Erik van Dillen five sets before losing last year in the doubles in Santiago. Ralston said Smith and van Dillen would represent the U.S. in the doubles Saturday. Luis Ayala, coach of the Chilean team, said he had not decided who would play doubles for Chile.

Smith has been almost unbeatable in the final round of Davis Cup competition, winning all six of his singles matches and four of five doubles matches. The U.S. team has won the Cup all five years Smith has been on the team.

In Sunday's singles, Gorman will play Cornejo and Smith meets Fillol.

King-Riggs Match On TV

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'm going to let my racquet speak for itself" is how Wimbledon champion Billie Jean King summarizes her chances in "the tennis battle of all time"...but one of the conditions of the match may also work in her favor.

The $100,000, winner-take-all duel between Mrs. King, who calls herself the old lady of women's tennis, and 55-year-old Bobby Riggs, tennis hustler supreme, was agreed to in July.

But at a closed circuit television news conference Thursday, Roone Arledge, president of ABC Sports, and Jerry Perenchio, head of Tandem Productions, promoter of the event, announced it will be staged Sept. 20 in Houston's Astrodome—and aired on prime time television.

ABC has sold all of the commercial time available for the match.

Wittie Signs With WTC

Steven Dale Wittie, son of Mr. and Mrs. E.D. Wittie of 3703 Galveston, has been awarded a scholarship and will play tennis for Western Texas College.

Wittie, a 1973 graduate, was a member of the Snyder High School tennis team and teamed with Bob Christian, also signed to play for WTC, to win the double championship in the annual Independence Day Tennis Tournament in Snyder last month.

A "B" student, Wittie was a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and an officer in the Industrial Arts Club at SHS.

A native of Kermit, he moved here with his parents in 1962. He is a member of the Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

Congress May Ban Blackouts

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Torbert H. Macdonald, chairman of the House subcommittee on communications, says he's convinced Congress will ban televised blackouts of home professional football games which have been sold out.

Macdonald, a Massachusetts Democrat, said Thursday he also intends to write his legislation to make the ban permanent and not a one-year experiment as proposed in a bill sponsored by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I. "We'll have it in time for the upcoming season," said Macdonald after three days of hearings.

The hearings will be reconvened after the congressional recess which begins today and will run through Labor Day.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League is expected to be the primary witness when the hearings resume, along with Bowie Kuhn, commissioner of baseball.

Contrasting arguments were heard on the final day from Walter Kennedy, National Basketball Association commissioner, and representatives of the broadcasting industry, including Carl Lindemann Jr., vice president in charge of sports at the National Broadcasting Co.

Kennedy said enactment of the legislation would be serious miscarriage of justice.

"To take away the home territory blackout authority which went with the authorization to sell a league package, either by repealing it or by imposing onerous conditions, would seriously injure the ability of professional sports to continue extensive telecasting and of sharing revenues with the poorer teams," he said.

On the other hand, Lindemann said NBC supports the legislation because "we oppose restrictions on the ability of free over-the-air television to present sports events to the viewing public."

Lindemann disagreed with some previous network representatives who testified that they believed that moving sports events especially pro football, to pay television, loomed on the horizon.

Peacekeepers Pile Up Debts

BY LY PHUC THAI
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (A) — The international peacekeeping commission in Vietnam is piling up debts because the four signers of the cease-fire agreement have not approved its $43 million budget.

"That's too much for about a thousand guys," said one American diplomat of the financial blueprint for a year's operations that the International Commission of Control and Supervision submitted in mid-June to the United States, South Vietnam, the Viet Cong and North Vietnam.

A spokesman for the U.S. State Department said on Tuesday that Washington has reached no decision on the budget. There also has been no response from the other three nations, commission sources said.

Under the Jan. 27 peace agreement, the four chief adversaries in the Vietnam war are to each pay 23 per cent of the costs of the peacekeeping group and the four nations on the commission will supply the remaining 8 per cent by paying the salaries of the personnel they have sent to Vietnam.

The commission sources said the four signers of the agreement have advanced $7 million to the peacekeepers. They reported the group has about $500,000 left and its overdue bills total millions.

The chief creditor is Air America, the charter airline that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency sponsored in Laos to support the CIA's secret war there. Air America has a contract to transport the commission's teams around South Vietnam, and the commission reportedly owes it more than a million dollars.

Air transport costs the commission about $800,000 a month. The sources said the group is thinking about reducing the number of helicopters it uses from 22 to 16 as an economy measure.

The commission is reported in debt also to contractors supplying it with food, communications, security and general services.

The commission started out with four 290-man delegations from Canada, Indonesia, Hungary and Poland. The Canadians quit this week because of the inability of the group to operate effectively. Iran has agreed to replace Canada, but North Vietnam and the Viet Cong have not approved this yet.

Armour Plants To Lay Off 2,500

DALLAS (AP) — About 2,500 workers will be laid off Monday at Armour & Co. plants in Hereford, Tex. and Omaha, Neb., company officials said.

Spokesmen for Swift & Co. and Missouri Packing Co. said they would decide today whether their Southwestern plants would cut back production.

Armour spokesmen said Thursday the company will reduce its national beef production by 60 per cent next week because it is unable to buy live cattle at prices it can afford.

Ed Spear of Armour said canned meat production—mostly canned stew and chili—will be cut 85 per cent.

Discoveries Are Logged By Drillers

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas drillers logged 13 oil and 17 gas discoveries during the last two weeks of July, the railroad commission reported Thursday.

The activity brought the year's gas discoveries to 202, compared with 156 during the first seven months of 1972.

Oil discoveries this year total 125, compared with 132 a year ago.

Four oil finds were in the Kilgore No. 6 district, three in the Houston district, two each in the Corpus Christi and San Antonio No. 2 districts and one each in the San Antonio No. 1 and Abilene districts.

Four gas discoveries were in the Corpus Christi district, three each in the San Antonio No. 1 and No. 2 districts, two each in the Houston and San Angelo districts and one in the Kilgore No. 6 districts.

Wildcatters also reported 82 dry holes.

The commission said 190 oil wells were completed during the July 16-31 period, for a total this year of 2,514, compared with 2,979 by this time last year. Gas well completions totaled 119, with 1,351 wells drilled this year, a marked increase over the 1,071 brought in during the comparable period of 1972.

Getty Kidnapers Want $17 Million

ROME (AP) — Kidnapers are demanding a $17 million ransom for J. Paul Getty III, 16-year-old grandson of the American oil billionaire, a family lawyer disclosed today.

But he said the youth's parents can't pay that much, his grandfather won't, and the kidnapers have rejected a counter-offer.

"His mother is desperate," said the lawyer, Giovanni Iacovoni. "The grandfather doesn't want to pay a penny and she must depend only on her own money and that of her ex-husband, which is limited."

The 80-year-old oil magnate, who lives in Britain, said last week that if he ransomed one of his 15 grandchildren, he'd end up having to ransom the other 14.

There was no comment from the boy's father, who lives in London.

Iacovoni declined to say how the contact with the parents was made and refused to reveal the counter-offer. But the Italian press, quoting friends of the family, said it was about $430,000 and the kidnapers dismissed this as "paltry."

The lawyer's statement was the first official report of a ransom figure since young Getty, called the "golden hippie" by the Italian press, disappeared in Rome more than three weeks ago.

Police said they had halted their search for the youth at the request of the family, a general practice in Italy to protect the lives of kidnap victims.

The youth disappeared in the early hours of July 10 in Piazza Navona, a nighttime hippie haunt in central Rome. Two days later, Mrs. Getty told police she received a mysterious telephone call telling her the youth had been kidnaped. During a second conversation, the same caller threatened to cut off one of her son's fingers and send it to her as proof he had been abducted.

A letter signed Paul, which Mrs. Getty said was in her son's handwriting, also was received and said, "I have fallen into the hands of kidnapers. You must not take this as a joke."

Joe Reaves, also a professor at WTC, will talk Monday night about the religious aspect of the book. The other three nights, Rev. Henry J. Hartman will lead the class in discussions concerning how to tell the news and share the love.

African Missionaries To Be Assigned In U. S.

By RUSS PULLIAM
Associated Press Writer

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — An American agency that customarily has sent missionaries to Africa is taking steps to bring African missionaries to black urban areas in the United States.

"Urban America's needs are as great or greater than most of the underdeveloped countries of the world," explains Tom Hopler, who is directing the urban ministry of the African Inland Mission AIM.

"I think the other missions ought to wake up to the inner-city mission field," the Rev. Grover Wilcox adds. He is pastor of Newark's Calvary Gospel Church, which is cooperating with Hopler on the AIM urban project.

Like other missions to Africa and other nonindustrial parts of the world, the 75-year-old African Inland Mission traditionally has sent white Americans out as missionaries.

But as churches in Africa have developed their own leadership and strength, African Christian leaders have rebelled against Western cultural domination by foreign missionaries.

So many missions have searched for new directions—such as providing technical assistance and turning over the leadership and control of churches to Africans.

African churches also have developed their own missionary programs, although most of their efforts are limited to other African countries.

AIM's own search for new directions has led to a unique attempt to set up an inner city ministry in America for Africans. Recognizing the distrust that blacks in urban areas often have toward whites, the AIM project assumes that Africans will have more credibility with blacks.

"Many black Americans believe that Christianity is a white man's religion," explains Bill Chavis, a black law student who is working in the AIM project at Calvary. "But black Africans can show Christianity's universality and show that blacks have played a role in the growth of Christianity."

For example, "Africa has always had a large part in the history of Christianity, especially northern Africa. This is something we need to tell American blacks about Christianity," Chavis says.

An offshoot of the AIM project is Today's Africa to America, started by Simon Kahunya, a student at Gordon Conwell Seminary in Massachusetts from Kenya in East Africa.

His project is an effort to encourage other African Christians to come to the United States as missionries. He developed the idea from his own experience as AIM's first missionary from Africa, working in the Calvary Gospel church.

"I found that American blacks are seeking the African identity, culturally, economically, religiously," he says. "We find that American missionaries who have been in Africa have not been able to project the truth of the African culture to the American people."

African Inland Mission is also actively recruiting American blacks as missionaries to Africa. "We're basically a white American organization," Hopler says. "We have not had blacks as missionaries because simply we did not want them."

Wounds Are Contagious

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Five-year-old Billy Barnard fell from a playground slide and broke his right leg Thursday. Common enough.

Mrs. Jack Barnard waited in the emergency room while doctors worked on him. She looked up and saw her husband bringing in son Jimmy, 10, with a swollen hand.

He had fallen on it a couple of days earlier.

Doctors said it was broken.

The casts were drying on the boys when Barnard returned with daughter Deanna, 4.

She had been staying at her grandmother's house, fell, and hit her head on cement stairs. She suffered a bad puncture wound.

"All of this happened within the space of two hours. I asked the doctors if something like this happened often and they shook their heads slowly."

No Error In Odessa Case

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals modified its recent ruling regarding two Texas men—but left standing its opinion that their plea for new trial was based on "a hypertechnical web of ingenious arguments ..."

The modification dealt with an appeal filed by Kenneth L. Musgrave and Marshall Womack, convicted of trying to defraud the Home Savings Association of Odessa, Tex.

Among other points raised in the appeal, the defense said the U.S. district judge made a reversible error when, in reading the indictment to the jury, he changed a line.

Instead of reading, "Kenneth L. Musgrave, Marshall Womack, Jack Bryant and Homer E. Koon Jr., defendants herein," he read: Kenneth L. Musgrave and Marshall Womack, defendants herein, and Jack Bryant and Homer E. Koon, Jr."

"We find no reversible error," the 5th Circuit said.

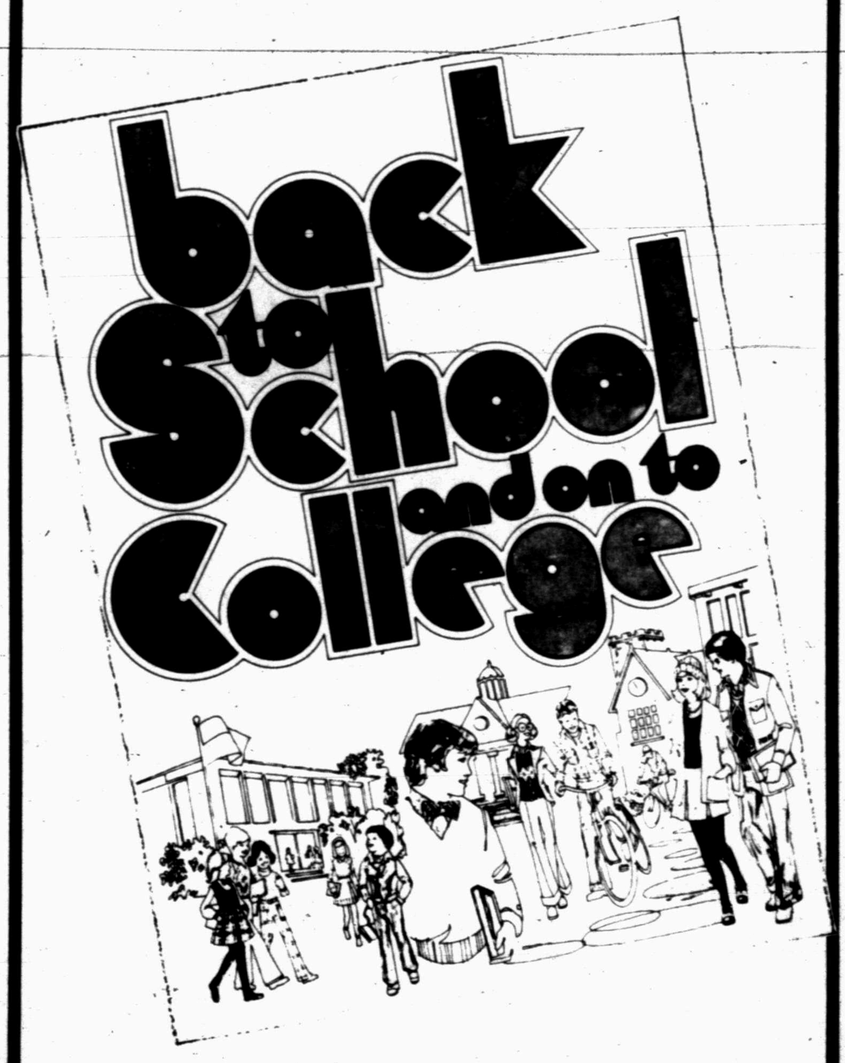

Musgrave drew a five-year prison sentence with Womack sentenced to three years.

They were convicted of misleading the association into "making two extraordinarily large loans secured by grossly inadequate collateral."

And The Angel

...of Revelations said: "Gather the clusters of the vine of the earth, for her grapes are fully ripe." How beautiful! How far-reaching is this challenge! It is up to us. Throughout the Bible the grape and the vine hold great spiritual meaning. They emphasize the close union between Christ and His church. We judge the vine from the fruit it bears. St. John warned us in the first place, that the branch cannot bear fruit, except it abide in the Lord. In a spiritual sense, man makes his own harvest. His reaping is strictly in accordance with how well he has taken care of the vineyard, how thoroughly he has supported the charities of the Lord, and how genuinely he has served God.
