Robinson Heads Nixon Campaign

Mitchell County Texans for Nixon-Lodge organized here this week, opened downtown campaign headquarters and went to work for their presidential ticket.

Chairman for the countywide campaign is Glenn R. (Bob) Robinson, independent oil drilling contractor and the city's mayor.

He and other leaders for the Nixon-Lodge county organization were elected at a meeting Sunday afternoon.

Robinson's initial statement for the organization was to disclaim political party ties.

"This organization is not emphasizing any political party," the chairman stated. "We're not calling ourselves Republican or Democratic."

"Instead we are Texans for Nixon because these are the type men we want to lead our nation."

Downtown headquarters for the Nixon-Lodge supporters is in the 100 block of Walnut in the Earnest Estate building, south of Colorado Federal Savings & Loan.

From there campaign activities will be directed by an organization headed by Robinson and an executive committee composed of Bennie Franks, Ed Owen and Joe Earnest.

Chairman of the finance committee is Ross Daniels. Co-chairmen for the telephone committee are Mrs. Bennie Franks and Mrs. Glenn R. (Bob) Robinson.

Participating in the organizational meeting Sunday in the Robinson home were Mr. and Mrs. Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Wallace, R. B. Aycock, Mr. and Mrs. Frank, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Carver, Mrs. John Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Jack Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Latimer, Owen and Earnest.

Robinson said the group is planning a countywide Nixon-Lodge rally here as their campaign picks up momentum.

Women volunteers of the organization began telephone contacts this week.

Plane Crash Victim Rites In Snyder

Funeral rites for Mrs. Weldon Wiley, 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvis Sellers, were conducted Wednesday in Snyder.

Mrs. Wiley was victim of an air crash in Guam when she was returning to Colorado City from the Philippine Islands, where her husband was serving in the United States Air Force.

Survivors include her husband, parents and one brother and sister, Shirley and James, of the home.

JOE CARPENTER WINS

Grid Guess Prize To Out-of-Towner

An out-of-towner, Joe Carpenter of Newman, won first place in The Record Football Fun guessing contest last week.

His prize is 2 tickets to the Texas Tech-Wyoming game, Nov. 12 at 2 p. m. in Lubbock. Carpenter was tops among the predictors with 9 wins and 2 misses. He was wrong in selecting Big Spring to whip Lamasa and, as all the others, he missed the Graham-Stanford tie.

For the key game, Carpenter named Colorado City correctly as the winner and tabbed the score at 19 to 13. Not bad at all when you check the actual score of 18 to 6.

Trailing Carpenter in the No. 2 spot among the grid guessers was Mrs. A. L. (Buck) Geer, 316 E. 15th St. In a year when housewives have been picking the winners just about as well as the men, Mrs. Geer missed only 2 games — the same as Carpenter.

Harvey Joins Chevrolet Sales Staff

John D. Harvey, former Colorado City auto dealer, is returning to Colorado City to join the staff at Jay Adams Chevrolet Company.

Harvey, who entered business in Stamford and Snyder after selling his interest in the Colorado City Chevrolet firm several years ago, will be a sales representative at Jay Adams.

Also joining the Jay Adams staff as sales representative is J. T. Carr of Coahoma, who also is experienced in the auto business.

Jay Adams, owner of the agency, said he was proud to announce the addition of both Harvey and Carr to his staff. "John Harvey has many friends here and I am sure they are all happy for his and Mrs. Harvey's return to our city."

Harvey has been living in Roswell, N. M.

Blaze Rages Through New Residence

Fire of undetermined origin late Wednesday night gutted a new brick residence being completed at corner of Vine and Hickory.

The blaze had spread throughout the new cedar shake roof before firemen reached the scene.

Alarm was received at City Hall at 11:58—2 minutes before midnight—and the fire was brought under control almost an hour later, and was extinguished at 1:20 a. m.

Firemen estimated that damage would spiral above the $20,000 mark. Fire Chief Eual Henderson said the fire apparently began in the roof area in the center of the house.

Neighbors said the entire roof over the L-shape rambling house, which includes carport and garage apartment, was ablaze before fire trucks arrived. Smoke awoke persons in their homes 5 blocks north.

WOLVES TRAVEL

Colorado High Wolves, in their final tilt before District 3-AAA championship play, journey to Littlefield Friday for an 8 p. m. encounter with Littlefield High.

City dropped Winters, 16 to 6, last week and Littlefield lost to powerful Andrews, 14 to 0, week before last.

Sonic Trail?

Sam L. Majors Sr. points to a crack in the wall of Sam L. Majors Jewels which appeared late Monday afternoon following a loud sonic boom heard in the Colorado City area. Sam L. (Buzz) Majors Jr. said he believed the boom—resulting when supersonic aircraft break the sound barrier—caused the wall break—inside and outside the store—and knocked loose on electric conduit seen in the photo.

IN JAYCEE PROJECT

Repaired Toys to Bring Yule Cheer

The assist is starting right now with the cooperation of shop students at Colorado City High.

The 2 groups — Jaycees and shop students—will work together to repair and mend toys in time for Christmas gifts to underprivileged. Jaycees, under the direction of the Junior Chamber's youth activities committee chairman by Winn Talley, will pick up and deliver toys for repair.

In addition, they will provide materials for the toy mending.

Doing the actual repairs will be the shop students, according to Talley.

Main chore right now, as the Christmas project starts, is obtaining toys for repairing. See PROJECTS Pg. 7

County Ginning Total Up to 8,239 Bales

Mitchell County cotton ginning passed the 8,000 bale mark Thursday.

The count was from 10 gins in Colorado City, Lorraine, Westbrook, Buford and China Grove.

Actual total from all 10 gins was 8,239 bales at noon Thursday.

This is ahead of the 1959 ginning schedule. On Oct. 15 last year—2 days later than today, by comparison—the same 10 gins reported 7,945 bales.

Colorado City and Lorraine gins are ahead of the 1959 ginning schedule. Four gins in Colorado City reported 2,676 bales today compared to 2,628 2 days later a year ago. In Lorraine, 3 gins had turned out 3,592 bales today. Two days later last year, the total was more than 400 less—3,592.

Here are Thursday's totals at the gins:

Producers in Colorado City—1,402 bales.

Brief Illness Fatal to A. C. Johnson

A. C. Johnson, age 77, who had been a resident of Colorado City for 20 years, died in the Baylor Hospital in Dallas Monday morning after a brief illness.

Funeral services were conducted in the Oak Street Baptist Church Wednesday by the pastor, Rev. E. V. Brooks, officiating.

Johnson was born in Marion, Ind., July 14, 1883. He moved to Colorado City where he was a pumper in the oil fields.

He was a member of the Oak Street Baptist Church. Grandsons were pallbearers and burial was in the Colorado City Cemetery under direction of Kiker and Son Funeral Home.

He is survived by his wife of Colorado City, 2 sons, John E. Johnson of Dallas; R. L. Johnson of Norwalk, Calif.; 4 daughters, Mrs. L. G. Huber, Mrs. T. D. Ashburn and Mrs. Gene Brown, all of Dallas, Mrs. Ed Power of Austin, 15 grandchildren and 4 great grandchildren.

Guitar in Colorado City—572 bales.

Swift & Company in Colorado City—402 bales.

Yoakum in Colorado City—300 bales.

Guitar in Lorraine—998 bales.

Cooperative in Lorraine—2,120 bales.

Producers in Lorraine—474 bales.

Buford Co-op at Buford—850 bales.

China Grove—601 bales.

Planters in Westbrook—520 bales.

For a more accurate account of Mitchell County cotton, it should be noted that only approximately half of the China Grove ginning total is credited to Mitchell. The rest is from out of county crops.

Westbrook's current total of 520 bales is under the 651 reported on Oct. 15 last year. And Buford's 850 is down from the 1,001 reported Oct. 15, 1959.

NEW GROCERY OPENS

Residential Area Gains Superette

A new retail business, E-Z Way Superette, opens Friday in Colorado City in a new steel structure at corner of Hickory and W. 17th St.

The store, which combines drive-in appeal with supermarket type facilities, was built by its owner, B. H. Gary Jr.

Manager for the business will be Gary's father, B. H. Gary Sr., who has been in the grocery business here for 15 years.

The father-son team owns and operate the Day-N-Nite grocery at E. Second and Hickory St.

The new store, E-Z Way, is a 3,000 square foot grocery completed and stocked this week. It is surrounded on 3 sides—east front, south and west—with spacious, paved parking areas. A canopy extends from the store over an area of the south parking area to allow customers a covered route from car to store in bad weather.

Business hours for E-Z Way will be from 7 a. m. until 9 p. m. 7 days a week. And a unique feature will be free coffee at all times the store is open.

Interior of the building is completely air conditioned, equipped with latest facilities, strikingly decorated. Tile floor adds to the interior appeal.

The store's glass double entry is on the southeast corner facing Hickory.

Checking stand and 3 of the latest type self-service islands are in the center of the store. Self-service cases from a perimeter around the walls of the grocery.

Drugs and sundries are on the east wall, most refrigerated vegetable and fruit cases are on the west wall. Outside parking area.

Here is the E-Z Way Superette, which opens Friday at corner of Hickory and W. 17th St. Owned by B. H. Gary Jr. and managed by his father, B. H. Gary Sr.

The modern shopping facility has 3,000 square feet of interior space, newest grocery equipment and paved outside parking area.

Clair Engle To Speak Oct. 22

U. S. Senator Clair Engle of California will come to Colorado City Saturday, Oct. 22, for a Democratic Party rally for Kennedy-Johnson.

The Senator, who was assistant Democratic whip while a U. S. Representative, will appear at a $5 a plate Kennedy-Johnson banquet in Civic House, then speak at a public rally in Colorado High School Auditorium.

Plans for Engle's visit to Colorado City was announced Thursday by District Attorney Eldon Mahon, Mitchell County chairman of the Democratic Party's Kennedy-Johnson campaign.

At the same time, Mahon said a Democratic Party campaign meeting is scheduled Friday night at 7 o'clock in Civic House. And all Demo supporters are urged to attend, he said, to plan for the Oct. 22 rally and other projects.

The Civic House dinner here Oct. 22 at 6:30 p. m. will be a Demo campaign fund-raising event. However, the Engle speech following at 8 p. m. will be free to the public.

Senator Engle is a 49-year-old Methodist and Mahon who began his political career in 1934 when elected district attorney in Tehama County, Calif. Prior to his entry into politics he received degrees from Chico State College and the University of California's Hastings College of Law.

After winning re-election as district attorney, Engle then served as special deputy attorney general of California under Earl Warren, present U. S. Supreme Court Justice and then California attorney general.

In 1942 he became a State Senator, then moved up to U. S. Congress in a special election in 1943.

Engle won re-election to the 79th, 80th, 82nd, 83rd, 84th and 85th Congresses, serving as assistant Democratic Whip for 4 terms.

He was chairman of the House Committee on War Crimes in the 79th Congress, chairman of the Sub-Committee on Public Lands in the 81st Congress, chairman of Sub-Committee on Irrigation and Reclamation in 82nd Congress, chairman of the full Committee on Interior & Insular Affairs in the 84th and 85th Congresses.

Engle's elevation to the U. S. Senate came Nov. 5, 1958, and his record as a freshman Senator has won praise from Democratic leaders.

Wage findings for Mitchell County cotton pulling has been lowered back to $1.50 per hundred weight.

The lower rate was effective Wednesday, Oct. 12, according to Texas Employment Commission.

TEC raised the rate for first pulling dry land to $1.50 per hundred Sept. 28. And the action brought an immediate protest from Mitchell County Farm Bureau in vigorous manner.

The bureau immediately began a check of gins and producers to back up its contention that the wage finding was in error.

The new finding returns the first pulling dry land rate to $1.50—the same as first pulling irrigated.

"Windy" might be the name for this young fellow. Caught by the camera at Hutchinson Elementary School, it seems to be quite a struggle for such a small boy to get a sound out of the biggest horn in the band. He is James Harrison, sixth grade student.

"Thanks to the past president, I feel it is a honor and a privilege to serve as president of the 1921 Club. I'm fully aware of the fact that a president's success depends on her attitude and the attitudes of her officers and committees. And as your president, I think I am fortunate to have all of you to help. However, I feel that each club member will be responsible for our interest on 1960-61—all working together for the good of this club," Mrs. Dorn began.

Mrs. Garlan Green Presents 1949 Study Club Program

"You The Voter" was title of the program presented by Mrs. Garlan Green at the meeting of 1949 Study Club at the home of Mrs. Willie Landau Oct. 6.

Some important points of Mrs. Green's speech were:

The challenge of the Constitution to each new generation is to seek and earn its privileges anew by living up to the responsibilities of free citizens. Our American heritage is that document and in the ideals and experience of those who have gone before is rich in resources. But, our destiny lies in our response to that heritage and to the moral challenge of our time . . . a challenge which requires that we draw on our deepest sources of courage and responsibility.

The opportunity is ours to create and continue to cultivate an informed citizenry . . . to be clear in our own minds about what makes a good candidate, what the major issues facing the public are, how legislation is introduced and how our own local, state and national governments are run.

This year the election takes on special significance with participation for the first time of voters in two new states. The national electorate is increased by over a quarter of a million voters in Alaska and Hawaii. This far-flung and important outposts of the nation will also be represented in the national legislature next year by men who have received, or will, in the 1960 election, receive the voting confidence of their constituents.

Mrs. Green named these important points to be considered when voting in the election:

Be sure that one can meet the requirements of the local precinct and make an honest effort to prepare to vote as conscience dictates. One can vote on the basis of his own judgement of candidates, party, issues or any combination of these.

In closing, Mrs. Green quoted a paragraph from the Declaration of Independence.

Taking office at the meeting were Mrs. Max Caddell, president; Mrs. Green, vice president; Mrs. Bill Holbert, recording secretary; Mrs. Bill Hudson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ben Sparks, treasurer; Mrs. Jack Jordan Jr., parliamentarian and Mrs. Bill Carter, historian-librarian.

You Owe It to Yourself ... to shop home area stores first

We often accept some common fallacy as a fact . . . without bothering to look for proof. One of these you've often heard . . . and possibly uttered . . . is that prices are lower in city stores.

Yet every day . . . people bring home bargains from the city and later find they could have bought the same thing for less money in their home stores.

You owe it to yourself . . . to your family . . . to your neighbors . . . and to your own future . . . to shop your home area stores first. More often than not, their prices are lowest; always their values are best . . . when you count service, convenience and the better reward for your labor that comes with more trade volume where you make your living . . .

IN MASONIC HALL

Miss Ricka Guitar Installed Rainbow Worthy Advisor

Miss Ricka Guitar was installed Worthy Advisor of Colorado City Assembly No. 174, Order of the Rainbow for Girls, in installation ceremonies Saturday night in the Masonic Hall.

Miss Guitar is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Guitar, 529 East 13th St. She has been a member of the Order since March, 1958. She is active in the All Saints' Episcopal Church and a member of the Honor Society, Wolves and Spanish Club in Colorado High School, where she is a sophomore student.

Program opened with a drill by the retiring officers. Invocation was given by J. W. Wiggins. Visitors were welcomed by Carolyn Owens, outgoing Worthy Advisor, who also introduced Grand officers and special guests and gave a tribute to the incoming Worthy Advisor. The outgoing officers retired.

Installing officers were presented in the East and introduced by Mother Advisor, Mrs. Charles Godwin.

Installing officers were as follows:

Marilyn Godwin, Junior member of the Grand Executive Committee, Grand Assembly of Texas — Installing Officer; Carolyn Owens, Marshall; Joanne Webb, chaplain; Gavie Williams, Recorder; Orinea Feaster, Musician. All girls are Past Worthy Advisors of Colorado City Assembly No. 174.

Officers entered wearing corsages of gold and violet.

Elective officers were:

Miss Guitar, Worthy Advisor; Ann Seller, Worthy Associate Advisor; Marilyn Russell, Charity; Charlotte Nuckolls, Hope; Faye Coker, Faith.

Appointive officers installed were Billie Jean Johnston, Chaplain; Roberta Craddock, Drill Leader; Mary Smoot, Love; Lee Ann Moore, Religion; Sue Costin, Nature; Dana Deregibus, Patriotism; Judy Rodgers, Service; Sandra Coffman, Outer Observer; Patti Harrison, Musician; Cathy Hill, Choir Director.

New choir members are Arla Jo Payne, Myrna Feaster, Mary Smith, Betty Jean Worrell, Danna Hamman, Martha Ann Putman, Janie Riddle, Jeanie Gundrum, Jan Williams, Jeannie Wood, Gloria Merket, Judy Andrews, Susan Hock, Connie Dearen, Sharon Nuckolls, Karen Nuckolls, Ann Palmer and Diana Brannon.

A rainbow colored carnation arm bouquet was presented to Miss Guitar by Miss Owens.

Miss Guitar presented her parents and sisters, Peggy and Sara Beth, in the East and presented her mother with a corsage. Miss Guitar's father presented her with a gavel tied with rainbow colored ribbons.

"Give of Golden Service" was the theme of Miss Guitar's speech. Her scripture was Matthew 5:5 and her colors were gold and violet. "Service in Little Things" was title of address presented by Mrs. Eula McClure.

Merit awards were presented by Wiggins, chairman of the Advisory Board. Receiving awards were Myrna Feaster, Faye Coker and Patti Harrison. Miss Feaster was awarded her four-year wreath.

A Rainbow Bible was presented to Miss Owens by Mrs. Godwin. Miss Owens recognized seven girls who had not missed a meeting during her term by presenting them with officer's pins.

Receiving pins were Miss Guitar, Miss Charlotte Nuckolls, Miss Orinea Feaster, Miss Myrna Feaster, Miss Smith, Miss Hammans and Miss Craddock.

Mrs. A. B. Owens presented her daughter with a Past Worthy Advisor's pin.

Choir sang a special, "Others," accompanied by Miss Orinea Feaster.

Rev. Alan B. Conley, Vicar of the All Saints' Episcopal Church spoke the benediction. Meeting closed with drill by new officers and a song, "My Rainbow," by the assembly.

Colors of gold and violet were carried out in decorations. A large pot of gold and the letters: "Give of Golden Service" in gold on violet accented the East under a rainbow arch. A small rainbow decorated the registration table. Refreshment table was covered with white net over a violet cloth. A large rainbow-decorated cake and punch were served. Centerpiece was rainbow carnations.

Parents of the girls and guest from Colorado City and Big Spring attended the ceremony.

LIBRARY BOOK REVIEW

Author Finds Essence of America

This is another in a series of book reviews prepared especially for Colorado City Record by Rev. John Brand for books on the shelves of Mitchell County Federation Library. Today's review is R. L. Bruckberger's "Image of America."

By JOHN BRAND
Record Book Reviewer

This book, available to readers through the Federation Library, is being recommended for the following reasons:

1. in reading it, we, as Americans, should find what America means, as well as what it means to be an American;
2. we are given the opportunity to learn what is to be learned from one European, a Dominican priest by name of Bruckberger; and,

3. in learning about America and Americanism from him, we learn also about Europe, and, more, the world and its problematic situation.

It is for Americans, a relief today to be praised from some quarter of the world. While the praise herein is perhaps overdone in spots, what is said is not flattery, as it is grounded in what the author sees as the truth of America and

As a knowledgeable participant in the affairs of today, he, too, faces the all-but-hopeful dilemma, but not without hope. Instead, he speaks of America to both Europe and America for the express purpose of reawakening in Americans not only the sense but the meaning of her national destiny, which is for her to be the hope of the world.

Throughout his book, Father Bruckberger is asking the following question: What must I, what must a European know to understand America? His answer is, according to Drucker, as follows:

"The answer, the essence of America... is the primacy of the person, the live, real, three-dimensional man."

This theme is followed throughout the work, as included in his two major sections, "The Political Revolution" and "The Social and Industrial Revolution." As Father Bruckberger discusses the only Puritan settlements, the establishment of the frontier, the Declaration of Independence and the Revolutionary War, the industrial revolution headed by Henry Ford and its social equivalent headed by Samuel Gompers, he persistently reminds us that what was then and is now at stake is not America, but Americans; not government, but people; not industry and the economic order, but the consumer and the worker; and, finally, not the social order itself, but those individuals making up that order.

In short, he insists that the American way consists in marshalling all human and natural resources, to the end that Man himself is to be aided.

He is particularly keen in regard to the Declaration of Independence. Summed up, the Declaration holds that God created nature, and, "in that nature, man." Because all men are created equal, certain rights and obligations are derived. The rights are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

The obligations are "to God, to Whom, as Creator, we pay religious homage; Who, as Judge, rewards good and punishes evil and, as Providence, directs the whole natural order He created, mankind included, and each individual in that natural order," to a just end.

There are also men's obligations to their fellow men, to whom they pay "a decent respect." Taking these truths as prime and as natural, it becomes necessary and certainly crucial, for Americans to insist that any political, economic or social organization that takes precedence over God and then over man is not only invalid, but is capable of doing inestimable harm.

He adds, "Therefore, when of preserving it, there is a sacred right, there is even a religious duty, to alter and to abolish this system."

The emphasis upon the sanctity ("naturalness") of human rights is reaffirmed by the author, who says that: "In order that these rights may be better exercised, the whole political order is created by men, for men, to serve men." Man is above the political order, as God is above the natural order. Man may delegate the right to govern, but it is first and foremost to men that governments have obligations; it is to men that governments are accountable.

Father Bruckberger makes a very helpful and valid distinction between the "ways" offered to the world by communism and by American democracy. Like the French Revolution before, the Russian Revolution merely toppled one mode of tyranny in favor of another.

In a typical malformation of its revolutionary role, the Russian revolutionaries, in the name of the people, sacrificed these same people to the State.

It is through the Utopian realization of the State (Marx's dictatorship of the proletariat) that the people are to be helped, their burdens relieved. Hence that sacred end justified.

WHILE MOTHER GRAVELY ILL

Simmons' Comeback Sparks Rice

The following sports feature points out the fine play of Colorado City's Billy Simmons which sparked Rice Owls in standout victories over Tulane, Oct. 1, and Florida—last weekend. It was written by Bob Rule, Houston sports writer, just before the Florida victory.

The world of sport offers no more heart-warming story than the guy who came back, and Rice's Owls probably owe their first football victory of 1960 to one who did.

Billy Simmons has had an escalator career since he came to the South Main school from Colorado City 450 miles out in West Texas, up and down and then up again. Fortunately for the 1960 Owls, this is his "up" year.

After missing his sophomore season because of an injury, Simmons was a solid substitute behind Gene Jones in 1958, and so bright were his prospects that the coaching staff didn't even worry too much about Jones' graduation.

Simmons also won the solid respect of his teammates, who voted him a share of the captaincy despite the fact that he was listed as a junior in the Rice program.

But in 1959 he was a different football player. He had married during the off season, and at no time during the long, losing year did he resemble the Billy Simmons of the year before.

He dropped to the second team and stayed there throughout the year.

When practice started this fall, Simmons found a red shirt in his locker, and the red shirt at Rice generally always indicates that the player doesn't figure in the coach's plans.

Simmons quietly went to work, and it soon became obvious this was the Billy Simmons of 1958, not 1959.

By the time the season opened, he was up to the No. 2 team, seriously pressing the brilliant young sophomore, Gene Raetz, for the starting job.

And when Tulane directed their brutal power sweeps at Raetz' end to take full advantage of a sophomore's inexperience, Simmons was rushed into the breach.

"I don't believe we could have won the ball game without him," Jess Neely told the Downtown Quarterback Club Monday.

In Red Bale's 5-point grading system, Billy graded an extremely high 4.2 for his work on both offense and defense against the Green Wave.

His defensive grade was even higher, showing an almost flawless performance when the Greenies had the ball.

It was Billy's hard-hitting work at right flank, plus strong support from halfback Max Webb and the linebackers, that, finally contained the Tulane sweeps.

But there's still another story behind Billy Simmons' terrific performance against Tulane last week—he almost missed the ball game entirely, and he played it on three hours' sleep and gravely concerned over his seriously ill mother.

Just before practice started Friday, the 64, 205-pound senior got a call from his home at Colorado City. His mother was being taken to the hos-

Voice Needed Against Courthouse Litter

Courthouse and community dignity continues to be knocked to its knees by the "hawking" of second hand clothes on the Courthouse lawn.

Last Saturday more than 9 separate groups and individuals ringed the seat of county government with old clothes.

Worn shoes were scattered over the lawn, dresses and suits hung from trees, other items were piled in heaps or stacked in cardboard boxes. Some hung from the sides of pickup trucks at the curb.

The appearance of this unorthodox second hand mart is far from pleasing. Infact, it borders upon the disgusting.

Naturally, there are those among the second-hand sellers at the Courthouse square who represent bonafide and deserving organizations. Some, too, are individuals who are trying to make their own dollar in the cheapest way possible.

No organizational credentials, however, should provide the excuse for defacing our local government facility—the very heart of our democratic law and justice—with this sidewalk litter. The fact of the matter is that this unchallenged Courthouse lawn second-hand business is unsightly to homeowners and visitors alike.

It abuses the citizens of this community, not only with its shabby appearance, but because of the fact that city ordinances seek to eliminate sidewalk storage and displays elsewhere in the city for the safety and general welfare of all citizens.

It places the County Government in the awkward position of aiding unfair competition to local retail firms who pay taxes on the basis of their properties and facilities. Those who do their business on the Courthouse lawn pay nothing, are out no expense of the usual type of business.

This practice of letting second-hand "hawking" deface our town and government has been criticized before. However, there has been no apparent action by county officials to put a stop to the sorry spectacle.

Therefore, it appears that those citizens who believe in government with dignity, fairness to retail businesses, and decent appearance for their community must howl loud if action is ever taken.

Those organizations which are bonafide and deserving can usually find cooperating property owners who can lend them use of vacant buildings for properly conducted rummage sales. And for that matter, they can conduct them on their own premises with their own individual initiative.

Fire Prevention: A Constant Need

A costly midnight blaze has marked Fire Prevention Week for Colorado City.

The property loss re-emphasizes the aim of the week's nationwide observance—public awareness and education to the needs for fire safety.

At the same time, the blaze points up an important statistic: almost 7 out of 10 fires happen in homes.

Firemen have difficulty in determining the cause of the fire here Wednesday night that gutted the upper structure of the new residence just before it was ready for occupancy.

However, the National Board of Fire Underwriters reports that 3 out of 4 fires within our nation are needless. Care could have avoided them.

In the next 12 months, approximately one-fourth of all fires will be caused by matches and smoking. Another one-fifth will be the result of misuse of electrical equipment, the board tells us.

Although, fire losses in smaller communities like these are not so large as in metropolitan areas, the toll climbs weekly in property losses to business, residence, farm and ranch.

Across the nation last year, fire took 11,300 lives and caused property damage exceeding one billion dollars.

SHINNERY PHILOSOPHER

Here's Puzzle to Jolt Candidates

Editor's note: The Shinnery Flats Philosopher or his Johnson grass farm or Bone Hollow Creek covers a wide range of ideas this week, his letter indicates.

Dear editor:

The way it looks to me, the United Nations is an organization of disunited leaders, but what I started out to say was I was sitting around with a bunch of people out here the other afternoon discussing politics.

I tell you, after a week or so of reading how much Khrushchev and Castro love each other and hate the United States, a general discussion of American politics is as refreshing as finding out you've got more money in the bank than you thought.

At any rate, the question came up—which man can handle the world situation, Nixon or Kennedy?

One of the men, who has four kids, eight installment payments a month, and a 10-year-old tractor, said:

"I don't know, both of 'em I guess, at least both of 'em claim they can, each one better than the other, but even if either of them can handle the world situation, I don't believe either one of them is equal to the job of handling my situation."

The trouble is, he went on, his budget is in worse shape than Washington's, without near the resources.

"All it takes to raise the debt ceiling for Washington is an act of Congress," he said, "but it takes an act of a banker to raise mine, and bankers don't have to run for re-election."

Kennedy or Nixon might talk Congress into voting more money, but they wouldn't have much luck with my banker.

"Maybe Nixon or Kennedy can solve the education problem for the country as a whole, but I'm still gonna be faced with the bills for my boy in college. Maybe they can bring our defenses up to date, but I don't believe they could do much with my 10-year-old tractor."

I tried to explain to him that there are some things he's supposed to do himself, but he had me there. "Where does it say so in the platform?" he asked.

I couldn't answer him, so I took the natural step a man takes when he's cornered. I asked him what he thought we ought to do about Castro.

The only thing he could suggest was that if we kept on firing off test missiles, maybe doubled up on them, maybe one of them would go in the wrong direction and the problem of Castro would be eliminated. I don't think this is a good idea.

WITH STATE LEGISLATORS

Citizens Seek More Influence With Population's Big Shift

By VERN SANFORD, Texas Press Association. City officials of Texas are serving notice on the next Legislature that "something's got to give."

"Three-fourths of the people live in cities, and they should have three-fourths of the vote," said Deer Park Mayor Jimmy Walker after being elected president of the Texas Municipal League Mayors, Councilmen and Commissioners Association.

Walker referred to votes in the Legislature, due for re-districting since the 1960 census. In the past 10 years Texas has had a sharp population shift from rural to urban which is not reflected in the make-up of the present Legislature.

Given representation according to their populations, the city officials believe they can "cure many inequities."

One of the first things they would like to have is broader taxing powers. State law now restricts cities to the property tax.

Many city officials believe that the pyramiding growth and expenses of urban areas make new revenue sources necessary.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH—State Supreme Court has reaffirmed its own earlier ruling of "accidental death" in the case of a man who died from a blood clot on his brain after watching his office records burn.

This means two insurance companies must pay double for policies on the man's life, which provided for double indemnity in case of accidental death.

Decision was 5 to 4 by the court. Majority opinion said that the "viewing of the fire produced a wholly unexpected, unusual and unforeseen catastrophe."

Dissenting opinion said that the case would bring up all sorts of confusion, such as whether a heart attack caused by excitement from watching a football game or TV show was "accidental death."

ANOTHER CHANCE—Supreme Court ruled that the City of San Antonio has the right to make another try in court for water from the Canyon Dam Reservoir.

San Antonio's effort to get some water from the dam being built by the Guadalupe-Blanco River Authority has been going on for years. State Water Board turned down the city's request which is vigorously opposed by GBRA. San Antonio appealed the Water Board decision to district court which rejected the appeal, saying, in effect, that it was too late since construction of the dam already had begun.

Supreme Court held that San Antonio was entitled to a trial of the case on its merits in district court. If the district court should decide that the city should get some of the Canyon Dam Water, the case will go back to the Water Board to decide how much it should get.

"SALOON CLUBS"—State Liquor Control Board has set a hearing Oct. 24 on proposed new regulations for private clubs selling liquor by the drink.

Bona-fide private, non-profit clubs are not the target of the proposed new rules, said Liquor Board Administrator Coke Stevenson Jr.

It's aimed, he said, at "fly-by-night operators" who give away membership cards or have only the flimsiest sort of organizational set-up as an excuse for selling liquor by the drink.

New rule would require all clubs to have a private club registration permit, to be renewed annually. To get the permit, the club would have to have dues or fees, exclusive of liquor charges, sufficient to pay rental, insurance, taxes, repairs, etc., on its premises.

Liquor dealers would be forbidden to deliver liquor to any club without a permit.

Stevenson said there are probably more than 1,000 clubs providing liquor by the drink in Texas.

TEXTBOOKS CHALLENGED—"As the twig is bent, the tree's inclined"—which led a group of citizens from over the state to come to Austin to challenge proposed public school textbooks they felt might incline youngsters the wrong way.

J. Everts Haley of Canyon headed the group called the Texans' Committee for Education which appeared before the State Textbook Committee. Haley, an anti-conservative, ran for governor in 1956.

Haley's committee objected to references in the proposed texts to persons they regarded as "subversive" and to what they called "left-wing comment." Some books, recommended for state adoption.

TEXAS-ALASKA—Texas and Alaska, the big two of the United States, have worked out a "visiting privileges" agreement for motorists from the two states.

Texas vehicles can operate in Alaska up to 90 days without additional registration charges, and Alaskan cars, trucks and buses may do the same in Texas.

WASHINGTON REPORT

Signs Appear in China-Russia Rift

By CLINTON DAVIDSON, Special Correspondent

Washington, diplomatic and military circles recently have been buzzing with reports of rising tension between Communist China and the Soviet Union.

The reports, if true, could be the best cold war news in years. Differences between the two giant communist nations are said to be over whether to keep the cold war cold or make it hot.

Communist China leaders Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai are said to believe that World War III against western nations is inevitable and to be desired by the communists. They are reported impatient with Premier Khrushchev's policy of co-existence.

The reports would appear to support warnings made repeatedly in recent years by General Albert C. Wedemeyer (ret.) who probably knows China and the Chinese leaders better than any other American military man. He has warned of the ruthless and aggressive intentions of the Chinese leaders.

U. S. State Department officials are convinced that Khrushchev does not want a war with the West and that he would start a war only if he became convinced communists could not eventually destroy democracy by other means.

Communist China is reported, on the other hand, to be pressuring Khrushchev for direct military action. This, diplomatic officials are careful to emphasize, does not mean Russia and China are about to end their military alliance.

The State Department late last summer briefed the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on the Russia-China situation at a closed-door session. Later Senator Hubert Humphrey, a member of that Committee, gave the Senate a report without mentioning the source of his information.

"It would be wishful thinking," Sen. Humphrey said, "to conclude that the two Communist giants are going to split any day. Nevertheless, it would also be foolish to ignore the fact that tensions do exist and that they seem to be increasing rather than diminishing."

"The Communist empire used to have one center—Moscow," Sen. Humphrey said. "Now, it clearly has two centers—Moscow and Peking. Moscow cannot be happy that its former unquestioned direction of the Communist movement has been challenged."

"China has begun operating its own foreign propaganda and economic aid program in competition with the USSR. China has made a dramatic propaganda bid in Latin America and Africa, as well as Asia."

"The violence at hand indicates Red China would like to make Cuba to the U. S. what Formosa is to Communist China. She would like to make the island of Cuba as embarrassing to us as possible, both in a propaganda and a military sense," Sen. Humphrey said.

One diplomat with Far Eastern experience, who asked that he not be quoted directly, summed up the Chinese situation this way:

The Communist Chinese are rapidly anti-foreign and anti-Western. Russia is foreign and Western. If Mao and Chou decide to conquer Southeast Asia by force, against Russian advice, there is a fair chance Russia would, if not an active ally of the West, at least stay out of a Far Eastern war.

LOCAL BUSINESS

How Well Do They Know Your Store?

By MADGE BELL, Record Staff Writer

No matter how small a town is, a retailer can not assume that his potential customers know "all about his store."

A good test for any retailer would be for him to ask himself just what he knows about the store next door. He may have been in the store hundreds or thousands of times, he may have had coffee with the manager every day. But what does he know about what that store has to offer, its prices, or the brand names of merchandise?

Most retailers will agree that the answer is practically nothing. For very few people pay attention to what is in any store until they become potential consumers of the store.

Often potential consumers do not become customers because they do not realize a product is available.

There is a very good reason why no one knows all about a local retail unit. For if the store is worthy of its existence, it is in a constant state of change. The only way that the nature of that essential change can be made public is through advertising — consistent advertising which keeps up with the changes.

Consider Sears Roebuck & Company. Everyone knows about this great mail-order house. The Company could put out only one catalog a year to cover all seasons. Yet the company spends millions of dollars on additional seasonal and special sales catalogs.

It is an expensive way for the mail-order company to keep its customers informed with news on its prices and products. And in late years the company has expanded steadily in a huge program of retail stores with additional millions in newspaper advertising to meet the trend and demands of the changing times.

The local retailer has a similar problem. But his job is more simple and less expensive, because of the local newspaper. His newspaper can do the job of relating shopping news to the consumer.

The local newspaper is superior to the catalog not only because it is less expensive, but also because it brings news of change immediately — right now — and with regularity.

BIBLE COMMENT

Jesus Was More Than Son of God

Whether one be Orthodox, Unitarian, Humanist, or of skeptical opinion concerning Jesus of Nazareth, there is no doubt about the plain statement of the New Testament.

Many passages make it clear that in the belief of those who knew and heard Him, He was not just a Son of God in the sense that we are all children of God. The belief was clear that He was unique in His life and mission.

It was pronounced in the words of Peter: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." (Matthew 16:16) And his most definite exposition is the pronouncement in the Gospel of John (John 1:1-14).

There Jesus is identified with the eternal, creative Word. "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God." Just all that mystical, philosophical statement means few would dare to say.

It leads us into all the mystery of what God is and the meaning of divinity. In the main, men have been far more willing to speculate concerning the nature of God, and to assert almost violently their own dogmas, than to depend upon and trust the simple words of Jesus about God as "the Father." His appeal to his hearers to find God through what is best in human fatherhood (Matthew 23:9).

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

By VERN SANFORD
No angler likes to admit that he didn't catch fish on any of his fish hunting expeditions. In fact, no person likes to admit that he didn't do anything he set out to do, or that he should have done, or that he even wanted to do. Sorta reminds me of the minister, who announced that his sermon for the morning would be about liars. He asked how many had read the 69th chapter of Matthew. A great number of hands went up.

"You're the ones I want to especially direct this sermon to," he said. "There is no 69th chapter of Matthew!" Studies made by Heddon's research experts reveal that no angler likes to admit that he was skunked, blanked, or whitewashed. Yet it happens not once but often.

In fact, Heddon's surveys show that top-notch fishermen catch fish two-plus trips out of five. The other two-plus trips they get nothing but the enjoyment of being outdoors and "away from it all."

Of course, that's worthwhile in itself. But every fisherman goes fishing to catch fish. And to varying degrees he is disappointed when he catches none.

Snake Bonnet

Julie Stokes displays the newest thing in wrap-around hats—a five-foot indigo snake at Miami, Fla.

Actually the only man who never gets skunked is the one who never fishes. And if he does fish and says that he's never come home empty-handed, chances are he is one of those who swears he read the 69th chapter of Matthew.

Fortunately for mankind—a fellow remembers pleasures and successes more than he does unhappiness and defeat. Most every fisherman recalls the times when he makes the big catches and promptly forgets the trips when he draws the blanks.

Who was it who said — "Hope springs eternally..." Well, spring or fall, the fishermen's hopes never dim. He's a determined cuss. More power to him!

Hotter than hot is the way Bill describes them. And he sure has the figures to prove it.

Sportsman's Products makes the soft Plastic "Catch-Em-Quick" lures. They are called bloodworms, golly-whompers, tadpoles, and what have you.

Latest product, however, is their blue, floating plastic worm. It doesn't have a hook in it. To use it, Bill suggests that you mount a 2/0 weedless hook in the head of the worm. Then add a No. 7 split shot about 24 inches up the line.

Fish up and down the slopes, deep cliffs, and both sides of points... as well as the top of the ridge when you're fishing a point.

Now that he has told you where to do it — here's how to do it.

Drag the weight along the bottom so that the floating worm is suspended a foot or two above the bottom. Fish it slow. As the weight bounces along the bottom, or among the rocks or other underwater objects, it disturbs the sand or silt, thus attracting the fish.

For best results reel in three or four times slowly, then twist or bounce the weight lightly, just enough to attract attention. Repeat that procedure until retrieved. Allow two and one half minutes to retrieve 60 feet. Then cast out again.

MORRIS REPORTS

City Has Hand in Record Mail Job

Postmaster A. M. Morris figures Colorado City had a hand in setting the nation's new record mail volume for the last fiscal year.

The national volume climbed to nearly 64 billion pieces of mail, including a billion pieces of parcel post, for an all-time high.

This was for the fiscal year ending last June 30, according to Morris.

These figures, based on advance information from the annual report of the Post Office Department, represent an increase of 25 per cent over the 1953 volume which totaled 50.9 billion pieces, Morris said.

During this same period, it was pointed out, the revenue of the Department also has shown an impressive gain with an increase from $2,091,714,000 to $3,276,800,000.

Here in Colorado City, receipts of the post office climbed from $58,196 in 1953 to $73,786 last year.

There is not much we can do about how much mail we have to handle from day to day or how many people are making use of the Postal Service, Morris stated, "but the whole department keeps busy in devising ways and means for doing the job not only more efficiently but more economically."

"We can't deny that we still make mistakes and that the human element still plays a vital part in daily operations, but the statistics in the department's annual report offer positive proof that we are making progress on a nationwide basis.

"As an example," Morris said, "while the mail volume showed an increase of 16 billion pieces handled annually, the employment increase during this same period amounted to only 11 per cent."

"By way of explanation, it should be mentioned that the employment figures — based on thousands of man-years — are first worked out under 2 separate headings, city carriers and 'all other,' and then combined for the overall percentage figures just mentioned for fiscal 1960."

Recruits Aid Record in Marksmanship

Army Recruits Eldon D. Love, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Love, 770 E. Fifth St., and Clyde E. Parnell, whose wife, Danella, lives at 1021 Hickory, have qualified as expert in firing the M-1 Rifle while in basic training with the First Division's 13th Infantry at Fort Riley, Kan.

Both are members of the 13th Infantry's Company E, which set a post marksmanship record with 123 of the company's 200 men qualified as expert with the M-1.

Love, 22, entered the Army last August. He is a 1956 graduate of Colorado High School and was employed by the Texas Highway Department, Colorado City, before entering the Army.

Parnell entered the Army last August.

The 22-year-old soldier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil H. Parnell, Route 2, Loraine, is a 1957 graduate of Loraine High School and was employed by the Texas Highway Department here also before entering the Army.

pital for a major emergency operation, and with his father in South America, Billy was needed immediately.

He and his younger brother, Kenny, who is a sophomore guard for the Owls, jumped into a car and hurriedly headed home, 450 miles away.

"Billy tried to sleep some as we drove," Kenny said yesterday, "but at the very most he didn't get more than three hours' sleep during the night."

With kickoff time approaching Saturday afternoon Simmons was still 450 miles from Rice Stadium with no chance to make the long, tiring drive back from Colorado City in time to play.

Jess Neely called on a friend of the Owls, Buster Becker of Atlas Pipe, who flew his private plane to West Texas to bring the senior flankman back.

Billy arrived at the field house 75 minutes before the kickoff, dressed hurriedly, and immediately stepped into a hero's role.

Sunday he rushed back to Colorado City, and was still there late yesterday afternoon awaiting the report from the doctors after the operation.

They haven't been able to contact his father in South America, since he was en route from one assignment to another.

But there was hope for improvement in his mother's condition, and there was a possibility he'd be able to

BOOK REVIEW—

fies whatever means is called for in the process towards earthly fulfillment.

For this reason, the State is justified in refusing those making up the State, the people. This should not happen in America, we are told, as the way offered to the world by America is that of a government that was formed and supposedly operates to benefit the people, without first stripping them of their essential values.

Again, in the economic order America occupies a unique position, that being between the Marxism of Soviet Russia and the traditional capitalism of the West. While Marxist economics elevates the proletariat at the expense of the bourgeois, capitalistic economics elevates the bourgeois at the expense of the proletariat.

American economic theory and practice stand between these two (and, we are told, it is because of our failure to use another term besides "capitalism" in describing the economic structure of America that we continue to lose the battle over men's minds; for, in confronting the hungry world with the capitalistic image, we immediately bring with us the image of misuse and exploitation).

In America (and the author naturally acknowledges some obvious flaws both in the makeup of management and of labor), neither the employer nor the employee are exalted at the expense of the other. In theory, and in remarkable instances of practice, a suitable mean has been reached, that being the aid of the people.

It is interesting that, in discussing this, he uses Henry Ford as a very concrete example of his thesis.

He closes by a very appealing, encouraging, yet disheartening "chapter, 'A Letter to Americans'." It is all too odd to hear from the lips of any one the thought that "America has given me a hope for man's future that I did not have before."

He knows our faults, perhaps the greatest of which is
"the inability—an inability of which you may even be proud —to make yourselves known for what you are."

It is disconcerting and alarming to hear the solemn warning ("in regard to the leadership offered now by the Russians and Chinese), "You Americans neglected the noble role you could have played, and now you have been robbed of it."

The book is not without flaw, one of which may be a touch of over enthusiasm concerning America and its Messianic role. And how strikingly accurate he is when he adds: "Americans, you know how to defend yourselves in war. Why are you so inept in peace?"

The value of the book, however, is to be found in its essential position, that America is by nature and by origin the hope of the world. What is needed today is not a "new America," but rather the rediscovery of the real America.

If the real America confronts the free and enslaved peoples of the world, then the current revolution will be won, and decisively, by peaceful means.

But, "What ill luck, how great a misfortune it is for us all, that it should be the ideology of the Communist Manifesto, and not that of your Declaration of Independence, which is now conquering so large a part of the world and firing the imagination of the colored races."

County Agent Jack Burkhalter called attention Thursday to the field day and open house Tuesday, Oct. 18, at the Texas Experimental Ranch, located on U. S. Highways 183 and 283 between Throckmorton and Seymour.

The agent plans to attend the open house program, which begins at 9 a. m. and 3:30 p. m., and interested persons are urged to contact his office.

Burkhalter said he believed local ranchers and farmers would benefit from the visit and program.

The experimental ranch is a product of the combined efforts of ranchers, businessmen and Texas Agricultural Experimental Station.

It was established for purpose of investigating methods of improving the efficiency of cow-calf operations on native grassland.

1. Determine methods for improving the efficiency of production of feeder calves and yearlings on native grassland through a study of grazing rates, systems and management; brush control, soil and water conservation, range reseeding, and parasite control.

2. Determine the influence of winter maintenance at different levels of feeding and comparison of feeds, protein supplements, minerals, vitamins and other activities on the health and vigor of the brood cows, percentage of calf crop, and weight of calves at weaning time.

3. Determine the influence of grazing practices, range improvement measures, and winter maintenance practices, on the economy and efficiency of feeder calf production.
