Gold Demand Is Below Panic Level

LONDON (AP) — Heavier than average demand for gold continued in European markets today, but the buying was down from last week's rush and well below the panic wave that followed devaluation of the pound.

In London, dealers said demand today was down about 25 per cent from Friday's level, when some 40 tons of gold reportedly changed hands, and far below the postdevaluation peak of some 100 tons a day. Demand today, however, was well above the average turnover of five tons a day.

Gold markets in Paris, Brussels, Zurich and Frankfurt reported a drop in demand from Friday's rush, but still heavier than average buying in some cases.

The pound, weakened by last week's rush of gold buying, among other factors, dipped below its official parity rate of $2.40 for the first time since devaluation Nov. 18.

The pound hit $2.3992, then recovered to the $2.40 parity level by midday. The Bank of England was believed to be supporting the rate.

The improved position of Britain's gold reserves, up $21.6 million in February, according to a Treasury announcement, also helped steady the pound.

Attackers Are Held

SAIGON (AP) — American security officials trying to learn if there are s .l Viet Cong on the U.S. Embassy payroll are being thwarted by the South Vietnamese police, informed sources said today.

The sources said the National Police had refused to let the Americans talk at length with two of the Viet Cong who participated in the attack on the embassy last Jan. 31 and with eight other Viet Cong arrested in Saigon who might have had some connection with the attack.

The fact that any of the squad that attacked the embassy survived has been a closely guarded secret for more than a month. After the attack, it was announced officially that all were killed.

U. S. security officials did talk briefly with Nguyen Van Sau, the leader of the Viet Cong squad which invaded the embassy compound, and that talk led police to a house where the Viet Cong had assembled for the attack.

At the house, police arrested a woman who said 15 armed Viet Cong had stayed there the night before the attack. Viet Cong documents found in the garage of the house identified the place as the hiding place of the embassy attack squad.

Booked In Slaying

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Police booked two men and a woman as fugitives in the slaying of a North Carolina man whose bullet-riddled body was found early Sunday alongside a highway near here.

The three were arrested late Sunday after a French Quarter manhunt.

Booked were Clarence Strong, 27, Frank Glode, 35, and Marilyn Glode, 23, all French Quarter residents.

Strong and Glode were wanted for the murder of James Tyler, 31, of Raleigh. Mrs. Glode was charged as an accessory.

Tyler's body was found on a road south of New Orleans. Police said he had been shot six times in the back and once in the head.

Police said today the arrests cleared up a string of holdups pulled in New Orleans during the past month. They said Tyler was part of the holdup gang and theorized the motive for the murder to silence him.

Police said Strong and Tyler were wanted by Raleigh authorities in connection with armed robbery and a murder there.

The men were armed with two revolvers and an automatic pistol.

Thai Reds Growing

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The ranks of the Thai Communist terrorist army have swelled to an estimated 2,300 full time guerrillas, Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn said today.

He told a news conference an estimated 1,000 terrorists were operating in northeast Thailand, 800 in two northern provinces and about 500 in the south.

The figure of 2,300 is the highest so far reported by the Thai government, almost 1,000 more than estimated by the government six months ago.

Thanom said the terrorists were equipped with modern weapons, including light machine guns made in the Soviet Union and Communist China and are being supplied from a base in Laos.

The government has estimated the terrorists have the support of at least 10,000 Thai farmers in northeast Thailand.

Senate Cuts Off Debate On Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate clamped a cut-off today on further debate on a compromise civil rights protection and open housing bill.

The vote was 65 to 32, a bare two-thirds majority.

The vote appeared to assure Senate passage of the administration-backed measure. It had been hovering on the brink of defeat after the failure of three earlier debate-limiting cloture moves.

LIMITED

From now on each senator will be limited to one hour's speaking time on the compromise bill and the scores of proposed amendments.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield indicated to newsmen before the vote that if cloture failed he felt it would be futile to continue debate on this bill.

But he said that "if something unusual comes up, I'd give it consideration." However, he said he knows of no further compromise moves.

A weekend report by the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, calling for passage of legislation banning discrimination in the sale or rental of any U.S. housing, lent added significance to the Senate action.

KEPT ALIVE

Despite Mansfield's warning he might move to put the legislation aside if cloture once more is rejected, backers of the civil rights measure expressed hope it might be kept alive.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., floor manager of the bill, said: "If we continue to pick up strength, I'd hope the Senate would not be asked to put aside a bill of such critical importance."

The Senate voted 59 to 35 Friday for cutting off the debate, leaving the bill's supporters four votes short of the margin necessary to force action.

A first cloture vote failed by seven votes and a second by six.

But it was Friday's vote that was a jolting upset. It came after Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen dropped his opposition and offered the compromise bill worked out with a bipartisan civil rights bloc.

FAILED

Dirksen's sponsorship of the compromise, introduced last Wednesday, failed to pick up as many Republican votes for cloture as he and others had expected.

The original open-housing proposal, offered by Sens. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., would have banned discrimination in the sale or rental of an estimated 97 per cent of the nation's housing.

DRUGGIST, AUTHOR, PHILOSOPHER

Shine Philips, 79, Dies

SHINE PHILIPS
Author of book about Big Spring

Best Known For His Unique Role

Shine Philips, 79, druggist, author, philosopher and foremost citizen of Big Spring, died here Monday morning.

Services will be held at the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday with burial in the Trinity Memorial Park. The Rev. John Payne, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, will officiate, assisted by the Rev. Leo K. Gee, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

The family requested that those wishing to make memorials give to favorite charities.

Mr. Philips died shortly after 9:30 a.m. at Bennett House, which he had inspired and where he became the first guest when it opened Aug. 1, 1963.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Nan Philips; two daughters, Mrs. Garth (Nancy) Jones, Austin, and Miss Champe Philips, who is doing graduate work at Texas Women's University in Denton; and two granddaughters, Bronwyn and Tiffany Jones of Austin.

He also leaves a brother, Dr. Dan Philips, Mount Pleasant, Tenn., and a sister, Mrs. Bonnie Boswell, El Paso.

Community Leader

Until a series of strokes disabled him, Mr. Philips was one of the community's top leaders. He had served as president of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce in 1929 when the city was in the throes of trebling its population in the wake of an oil boom. He also had been extremely active in pharmaceutical professional fields, but it was in his role as homespun philosopher, humorist, writer, confidant, and neighbor that he was best known and most beloved.

Perhaps he was most famous for his book, "Big Spring, The Casual Biography of a Prairie Town," a flavorful story of his hometown which went through several printings. The plates were brought out of storage for another run three years ago.

This book inspired a convict in the Tennessee state prison to write a cantata, which had its premiere here with its composer on furlough for the occasion.

Only As 'Shine'

Shine Philips was born Earl Grover Cleveland Philips, Feb. 7, 1889, but he later dropped the Grover. So far as the public was concerned the other was dropped, too, for he was known for more than half a century only as Shine.

Oddly, he likely came by the name as a result of his activities as a shine boy after he came here in 1898, and it stuck when he became prematurely and completely bald. When he peddled the Dallas Morning News, he bore the nickname of Whistlin' Rufus. He gave up this career to bottle castor oil at Dr. D. W. McIntyre's drug store, the forerunner of the concern which he and an associate purchased in 1919.

EARNED LICENSE

In the meantime, he had earned his pharmacy license at the University of Texas School of Pharmacy in Galveston and had a 10-months fling as a druggist in the hectic Ranger-Eastland oil boom. When he returned, he and the late C. W. Cunningham formed a partnership and bought out B. Reagan, his former schoolmaster and employer, to form Cunningham & Philips, a store still operating under that name.

Mr. Phillips had been a member of the State Board of Pharmacy for 15 years and in 1956 finished his second term as president of the board. He was a former president of both the Texas Druggists Association and the West Texas Druggists Association. Once he was named national president of the States Association of Pharmaceutical Boards.

MARRIED

He was married Feb. 10, 1915, to Miss Nan Bell in Baird, and their many friends chartered two coaches on the Texas & Pacific railroad to make the wedding trip. When they celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary here three years ago, they had a panoramic picture of the wedding party beside the coaches.

During the busy 1920's here, he was busy in the old Wednesday Luncheon Club, later the Rotary Club of which he was once president, and in the Chamber of Commerce. He never let up, even when he lost his partner and plunged into his book as a surcease for sorrow, or during the crush of World War II, when the Bombardier School was established. The Philips' home was made literally into a home for military men—principally those of foreign extraction. Until his health failed, he continued to take a personal interest in foreign students stationed here. Military people by the hundreds acquired and read his book, thus his delightful version of early-day Big Spring was circulated around the world.

SELDOM

Shine described himself as a "paying Methodist," but he seldom attended services at the First Methodist Church where he was a member. Usually he spent Sunday mornings touring the city's hospitals, visiting patients, passing out goodies. Often times he chartered a bus to take patients of the Big Spring State Hospital for a ride.

He was head of the Red Cross chapter here for more than 25 years. There were years, he confessed, when some of the largest contributions came anony-

Red Forces Send Heavy Barrages In New Series

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces sent hundreds of rockets and mortars slamming into allied air bases, command posts and other installations today and seized a hospital run by an American woman doctor. The shellings were the heaviest series in more than two weeks.

U.S. officers at Kontum said Viet Cong troops blew up the operating and X-ray rooms of the hospital and fired "indiscriminately" into some of the wards. One Montagnard tribesmen patient was killed and four wounded.

The U.S. officers said the doctor, Patricia Smith of Seattle, Wash., was safe in a secure area of Kontum City. One German nurse, however, was said to have been abducted. The hospital is on the outskirts of Kontum, a central highlands city 275 miles north of Saigon.

The U.S. Command reported new action along the eastern end of the demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnams. It said U.S. Marines and air cavalrymen killed nearly 300 Communist troops in a series of battles Sunday east of the Marine combat base at Khe Sanh. The enemy kept up its daily shelling of Khe Sanh.

But just nine miles north of Saigon, 200 Communist ambushers killed 48 American soldiers and wounded another 28, most of them in the first eight minutes of a machine-gun attack Saturday. The U.S. Command disclosed the attack Sunday.

U.S. pilots flew 68 missions against North Vietnam Sunday, many of them radar guided because of the overcasts of the continuing northeast monsoons. The major strike was an attack by Navy A6 Intruders from the carrier Enterprise on an 11-acre cargo transfer and storage complex on the Red River 1.8 miles southeast of the center of Hanoi. It was the second attack on that target in three days.

The major targets of the Communist shellings included six allied air bases, a U.S. Navy base, the base camps of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division and the 45th Infantry Division, the country's biggest oil tank farm just outside Saigon, a big Marine supply base and two Green Beret Special Forces camps.

In the shelling of the district town of Duc Duc just below Da Nang, Viet Cong mortars left 150 houses burned to the ground, 20 civilians dead and another 80 wounded, South Vietnamese headquarters said.

The attacks were the heaviest series of coordinated shellings since Feb. 19 when Communist forces hit with rockets and mortar shells in Saigon.

Storm Freezes Up Big Bend Country

By The Associated Press

A March storm slid through West Texas with eight-inch snow falls, sleet and rain today and channeled its bite of cold air into the northern climes of Mexico.

The burly Arctic cold front left up to eight inches of snow in the Alpine area of the Big Bend Country and touched off sleet as far to the east as Del Rio during the night.

DEATHS

The snow and ice was a factor in three traffic deaths. Eight cars piled up on ice-coated US 90 near Marathon in Brewster County, killing three persons and injuring five others.

Temperatures hovered around the 20-degree mark in the Panhandle during the early-morning hours.

Two inches of snow was on the ground in Winkler County west of Odessa Sunday but the cover gave way to a pounding rain that measured one inch.

Highways across a huge portion of West Texas were slippery with the packed ice and snow during the night, but a cloud cover moving in from the El Paso area kept temperatures above freezing during the night and road conditions did not become as bad as had been expected.

Marfa, Fort Dix and Marathon all had more than two inches of snow Sunday while heavier amounts piled up in the Trans-Pecos area of the Guadalupe Mountains.

Intermittent light rain continued to fall in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and lower coastal area today while gusty winds from the cold front caused the Weather Bureau to hoist small craft warnings for the entire Texas Coast.

FORECASTS

Forecasts called for temperatures to slide to the 20s in the Panhandle tonight after a daytime warming trend. All sections of the state were due another warmup through Tuesday, the Weather Bureau said, with some light rain likely across all but the country west of the Pecos in South Texas.

The snowfall began before dawn Sunday.

Sunday's high temperatures ranged from 66 at Brownsville to a chilly 28 at Alpine in the snow belt.

Four Nations' Embassies Bombed In 3 Countries

LONDON (AP) — Police are investigating explosions in London, the Netherlands and Italy which damaged two American installations, two Spanish embassies, a Greek embassy and a Portuguese embassy over the weekend.

Nine minor injuries were reported, to police and firemen at the Spanish Embassy in the Hague, the Dutch capital.

A blast Sunday shattered four windows and wrecked a door at a U.S. officers' club in London. An Army spokesman said most of the 125 people in the building, mainly Army officers and their families, slept through it.

A mile away an explosive device shattered a garden door at the Spanish Embassy and caused minor damage to the West German Embassy next door.

The U.S. consulate in Turin, Italy, was rocked by an explosion Saturday night which shattered windows and caused other damage. U.S. Consul-General Givon Parsons also theorized that leftist extremists were responsible.

The Hague had three explosions Sunday. They shattered windows in the Greek and Spanish Embassies and damaged an outer wall of the Portuguese Embassy.

LETTER TO LBJ URGES REPATRIATION

Pueblo Crew 'Admits' Spying

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea said today the crew of the USS Pueblo had signed an open letter calling on President Johnson to "frankly admit" they were spying in North Korean territorial waters "and sincerely apologize."

The Korean Central News Agency said the letter was signed by Capt. Lloyd M. Bucher, the skipper of the U.S. Navy intelligence-gathering ship, and the 81 surviving members of his crew. One other crewman was reported killed when North Korean navy boats captured the Pueblo off the east coast of North Korea on Jan. 23.

The North Koreans claimed the Pueblo was in their territorial waters. The United States said the ship was in international waters.

The Communist agency said the ship's crew wrote the President "to request your assistance in our repatriation."

It said the letter listed five points at which the Pueblo trespassed in North Korean waters "in order to obtain electronic and visual intelligence."

The letter, according to the North Koreans, said:

"We do not mean to imply that your concern for us is or has been negligent.

"On the contrary, our earnest desire is that you, our commander in chief, have the complete facts as we and the government of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea know them.

"We were captured while committing hostile acts 7.6 miles from Yo Do in the vicinity of Wonsan in the territorial waters of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea on 23 January, 1968.

"Immediately following the capture we attempted to deny the real purpose of our operation and intrusion into the territorial waters, hoping to safeguard national security and our national honor. However, we could not long deny the facts since the Korean People's Army had in their possession our documents which revealed the real purpose of our operation and the ship's position logs and charts which proved our intrusions into the territorial waters of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea. . .

"In the light of this damning evidence and our later honest conviction that we had gravely wronged the Korean people we sincerely and openly confessed everything.

Former Cowboy Notes Big Changes In Colorado City

COLORADO CITY (SC)—Sidney William Bryan, 84, of Munday, visited in Colorado City last week and found things vastly changed from the days when he was a cowhand for Jake McCall and the J up and J down ranch.

McCall was a Colorado City grocer who came to Mitchell County in the late 1800's with a dollar and a half in his pocket and parlayed it into a going business in Colorado City and a ranching empire in Fisher County, according to Bryan. The J up and J down was McCall's brand.

SIDNEY W. BRYAN

'SHACK CITY'

Bryan came to Texas in 1886, when he was three years old. His father had filed on a section of land in Fisher County and the family got off the train at Sweetwater.

"Not much town there, then," Bryan said. "Colorado City (then simply Colorado) was our trading point. It was a shack city built mostly of old lumber."

WAGON YARD

"We'd go 33 miles to Colorado," Bryan said, "and we'd stay at the wagon yard west of Old Man Lee's grocery store. We'd go straight through from our place — there weren't many fences then."

Bryan went to school at Claytonville, and then went to work for McCall. He worked as a roustabout, cowhand and hauled cottonseed from Roby for three years and then went to work for the old "18" Ranch. He worked there 25 years and bought a ranch in New Mexico in 1932. He bought land in Seagraves and moved away from New Mexico 12 years later. After four years in Seagraves, he bought an Arkansas ranch and later traded the ranch for a locker plant in Munday.

He disposed of his interest in the locker plant and now travels, selling tools.

"But Colorado sure don't look like it used to," he said, smiling and shaking his head.

Cold Numbs New England

By The Associated Press

Frigid cold continued to numb northern New England today as generally clear skies prevailed across the nation from California to the Atlantic Coast.

The threat of locally heavy snows ended early today in Southwest Texas but not before three persons were killed and four injured in an eight-car pileup Sunday night on an icy highway near Marathon.

Elsewhere, precipitation was light and widely separated. Light rain sprinkled the Pacific Northwest, light scattered snow dotted areas from New York to Maine and light rain continued to dampen areas in extreme South Texas.

The Arctic cold knifed northward into New England Sunday from southern Georgia and the Carolinas.

Sunday's high in Montpelier, Vt., was a four above zero reading.

Early morning temperatures ranged from one below at Burlington, Vt., to 66 at San Diego, Calif.

AT LEAST 24 PERSONS DIE VIOLENTLY IN TEXAS

Eight-Car Pileup Kills Three

By The Associated Press

At least 24 persons died violently in Texas over the weekend, with traffic accidents claiming 15 of the dead.

An eight-car pileup on ice-covered roads in Southwest Texas killed three persons and injured five Sunday.

An Associated Press survey of weekend violence began at 6 p.m. Friday and ran through midnight Sunday. Most of the non-traffic victims died in shootings.

VICTIMS LISTED

Two cars smashed up at the intersection of State Highways 155 and 49 near Avinger in East Texas Sunday evening, fatally injuring three persons and seriously injuring an equal number. Sallie Marie Bolton, 19, of Daingerfield and Tilmon Humprey, 21, Atlanta, Tex., were killed outright in the wreck. Raymond Menefee, 47, Naples, died early today of injuries.

Theron H. Latimer, 25, a sophomore at the University of Texas at El Paso, was killed Sunday 13 miles east of El Paso on US 62 when his automobile left the highway and turned over five times.

An eight-car pile-up on icy US 90 near Marathon Sunday night killed three persons and injured five Sunday.

The dead included Edith Zahlen, 65, Long Beach, Calif.; Cruz Esquival Silva, 57, Healdsberg, Calif.; Guadalupe Ramon Barrera, four months, Redwood City, Calif.

ASSAILANT ESCAPES

Paul Wylie Norris, 45, of Galveston was shot to death Sunday night in a Houston inn. Police said he was shot four times and charged Robert J. Argo, 42, with murder in the shooting.

Adolphus Carroll, 66, of Dallas was shot and killed Sunday night as he entered his automobile in the Fair Park area of Dallas. Witnesses told police Carroll's assailant sped away after the shooting.

David C. Howard, 18, of Houston was fatally injured and a companion critically hurt in a two-car accident north of Houston Sunday night. Police said the accident occurred as one car attempted a left turn.

HIT-AND-RUN

Arturo Coronado, 19, of Zapata was killed Sunday when two cars collided head-on on a US 82 bridge about a mile south of Zapata. Two other persons were injured.

A hit-and-run driver killed Morgan Pearson, 18, of Dallas, early Sunday as he was changing a tire on a city freeway. Police arrested the driver.

Mrs. James Parker, about 50, was killed early Sunday when flames swept through her Dallas apartment. Her husband was hospitalized.

Mrs. Annie Mae Henry, 41, a mother of three, was found fatally shot Saturday night in her North Houston home. Police sought a man for questioning.

Doctors blamed a fractured skull for the death Saturday night of Charles W. Marshall, 41, of Arlington, Tex., about four hours after he was found lying in a parked car outside a Houston lounge.

Doroteo Perez, 27; an unemployed welder and father of five, died after being beaten, kicked and shot, police reported, in a parking lot at a South San Antonio lounge. A man, about 34, was sought.

Many Yanks Hurry Visits To Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many Americans apparently are ignoring President Johnson's appeal that they help ease the dollar drain by postponing travel outside the Western Hemisphere.

Officials handling a record volume of passport applications said they lack absolute proof but secondary evidence indicates many citizens decided to hurry visits to Europe ahead of a government tax on most overseas travel.

PASSPORTS UP

President Johnson announced on New Year's Day a broad program to stem a $3.5 billion balance-of-payments deficit. He appealed to "the American people to defer for the next two years all non-essential travel outside the Western Hemisphere."

Johnson said this could chop $500 million off the $2 billion deficit.

The administration later asked Congress for a tax of up to 30 per cent on U.S. tourists' spending outside the Western Hemisphere. That legislation still is pending.

Passport Office figures show applications for U.S. passports rose to 131,602 in January, a 26 percent increase over January a year ago.

3,000 DAILY

The Immigration and Naturalization Service, which keeps tabs on the number of people actually leaving the country, said its statistics show travelers tend to depart about two months after receiving passports.

From the combined figures, officials have forecast 95,000 departures to Europe in March—about 3,000 a day. An estimated 65,000 traveled to Europe in February.

January's 26 per cent passport rise ran more than double the increase rate of recent months.

In past years, passport issuances climbed about 16 per cent a year. But the rate had dropped off to 10 per cent by last December and officials said they had expected the decline to continue.

Preliminary reports for February indicate a slacking off from the January jump, although passport applications for the month were still running some 16 per cent above February, 1967.

Viet Land Reforms Pressure Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee says the Viet Cong are gaining a grip on the loyalties of rural South Vietnamese by bringing about land reforms the Saigon government is unwilling to institute.

The House Government Operations Subcommittee said U.S. pressure is necessary to bring about meaningful land reform.

Without such reform, said the committee, it's questionable whether American support for the war should continue.

SHARP DISSENT

The report, formulated last October but released only Sunday, included a sharp dissent from two committee members.

Reps. John D. Monagan, D-Conn., and L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., said the panel's majority "fails entirely to place its findings and recommendations in the proper context of a South Vietnam shattered and buffeted by war."

The dissenting members said land reform is not the burning issue pictured by the report.

Rep. Porter W. Hardy Jr., D-Va., also objected to the report and challenged the panel's authority to issue it. He argued such policy matters are within the jurisdiction of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The delay in publishing the report was caused by a jurisdictional dispute between the two committees.

CROPS SEIZED

Rep. Ogden R. Reid of New York, ranking Republican on the operations panel headed by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., said the United States must pressure the Saigon government to institute sweeping social and economic reforms.

"Unless this is recognized at the highest levels in Washington and Saigon," said Reid, "a viable South Vietnamese government, enjoying support from the countryside, will become an extremely remote possibility, and our efforts and sacrifices in that country increasingly futile."

The report said most South Vietnamese farmers have an enduring interest in owning land, but instead are forced to give over as much as 50 per cent of their crop in rents.

That percentage of the crop is taken in rent despite a law setting rent ceilings at 25 per cent, said the report.

Bag Contains Baby

SEATTLE (AP) — Mrs. James G. Kirk was curious when she saw a shopping bag near her front door upon returning home from church Sunday.

"When I saw it move," she said, "I called my husband."

Inside they found a baby boy.

The baby was reported doing well at King County Hospital Sunday night.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Neither side vulnerable. As South you hold:
♠K 6 ♡AJ 8 7 2 ◇KQ 8 5 ♣6 3
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
4 ♡	Pass	Pass	4 ♠

What do you bid now?

A.—Double. A pass by you would serve as a slight inducement to partner to go on to five hearts. Since you have a near minimum with a value in the adverse suit, the double would be better strategy.

Q. 2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A 9 2 ♡AK 9 6 2 ◇10 6 3 ♣KQ
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
2 ♡	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—That the partnership possesses sufficient trick taking power to produce a slam there can be little doubt. The only deterrent to making the bid is the possibility that the opposition can cash two diamond tricks. Blackwood will not be of use in this respect if partner shows up with one ace, for you will have obtained no helpful information. Bid five clubs and, if partner has second round control of diamonds, he should bid six hearts.

Q. 3 — Both sides vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK 2 ♡AK 10 8 3 ◇7 5 ♣9 6 3
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ◇	1 ♠	2 ♡	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 NT	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Since partner has overridden your three no trump bid, he is either interested in a slam or is seeking a safer contract. In either case a four spade by you will best serve the purpose. He will then have sufficient information upon which to base a final decision. A big demerit if you went on in no trump.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AJ 6 4 ♡AJ 10 7 3 ◇5 ♣KQ 2
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 ◇	Double	1 ♠
Double	Pass	Pass	2 ◇
Pass	3 ◇	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. West has obviously made a bluff bid in spades. North was of the opinion he could defeat a contract of one spade, and East was willing to play such a contract, so West could not have more than two of this suit. Spades are your partnership's best trump so showing the hearts is not recommended.

Q. 5—East-West vulnerable, and as South you hold:
♠A 9 3 ♡J 4 ◇AJ 9 8 6 ♣AJ 5
Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with three clubs. What action do you take?

A.—Three diamonds. If you double, an awkward situation will develop if partner responds three hearts. And this hand is not strong enough to justify an overcall of three no trump.

Q. 6—Neither side vulnerable. As South you hold:
♠J 10 4 3 ♡K 10 6 2 ◇K ♣AKQ 8
Partner opens with one heart; what is your response?

A.—Three clubs. The big bid should be made at once, and partner permitted to carry on from there. If you respond with three hearts and partner goes to four, you will have failed to make a proper slam effort. If you bid two clubs, you will have no satisfactory call over a rebid of two hearts.

Q. 7—Both sides vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠10 6 4 3 ♡Q 10 5 ◇10 9 6 4 ♣7 5
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ◇	Double	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	3 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four hearts. True, you haven't very much, but partner's bidding has indicated that he can probably take close to nine tricks in his own hand. The queen of trumps is a sure winner and the doubleton club should produce a trick for him.

Q. 8—You are South, both vulnerable, and you hold:
♠10 5 ♡6 4 ◇Q 6 5 3 2 ♣J 9 4 2
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Double
Pass	2 ◇	Pass	2 ♡
2 ♠	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—This cannot be construed as a second take-out double by partner. You have already bid. Therefore, the double is for penalties, and in this sequence is not in any way cooperative. Partner is saying, "I can beat two spades, regardless of your holding." You should pass.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Children More Precious Than Time Says Writer

Dear Folks:

I'm pushing 50 real hard and have been sewing many years. I finally figured out something that has bothered me all this time.

You know all the dust and lint that accumulates around the bobbin in a sewing machine and clogs it up? Well, the best way I've found to remove it is when you change the color of thread on your bobbin, just BLOW, BLOW, BLOW . . . while it's out!

So instead of letting this stuff collect and clog your machine, blow it out each time. It's sure much easier than cleaning it out with tweezers or brush and besides, you might save a repair bill. . . Heloise

• • •

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise:

HELOISE

We are raising our "second" family and I am learning more than when the older children were home.

Several times a day our four-year-old will come in from play and announce, "It's time for some lovin'." Whatever I'm doing is set aside while we visit.

He tells me what he's been doing or sometimes we talk about "When I grow up, Mom . . ." It's such a delightful time and since it's at his suggestion, it is even MORE precious.

Our small ones grow up and away from us so soon — especially after they start to school — and boys soon reach that stage where it's "sissy" to be loved by adults.

When the older children used to come to me for loving, I was usually too busy with my chores to stop. But as we grow older we realize that our children are more important than that waxed floor!

Forgive my amateur attempt at child psychology. . . "Tex"

• • •

Forgive you? Never! We all love you. . . Heloise

• • •

Dear Heloise:

As we especially like mashed potato salad and I was caught without anything but instant potatoes, I decided to give them a try. Just cooked according to directions. The potatoes were done and cool by the time the eggs had finished cooking.

Not even an expert could have told this instant potato salad from "the kind mother used to make." . . . Mrs. J. Swaim

• • •

Dear Heloise:

My husband discovered an easier way to wash the car.

He uses an insecticide sprayer, the kind that attaches to any ordinary garden hose and has a little hole in the top of the attachment. When insecticide is wanted, you put a finger on the hole and it has a tube which siphons the insecticide up to the hose and mixes with the water and sprays it. If you don't want insecticide, remove your finger and it sprays just clear water.

My husband put a mild detergent mixed with some water in the sprayer jar. This gave him soapy water to wash with and clear water from the attached hose to rinse with. All right there in one hand.

The sprayer will hold enough soapy mix to do an average size car. Just be sure to dilute the detergent a bit so it won't be too thick for the siphon tube. . . . Ann De Land

• • •

For years I've washed windows and screens this way. And who but you would have ever thought to use it on a car? You're great. Much thanks. . . Heloise

• • •

Dear Heloise:

My neighbor made a cute toy for her dog by tying an old tennis ball in one of the strong mesh bags the onions come in.

Her dog has a "ball" with his bouncing bag. . . Sue C.

• • •

Dear Folks:

Now don't laugh at this. You might be surprised how much your kids love it.

You know those packages of powdered drink mixes you buy which come in grape, orange, strawberry, etc.?

Well, instead of plain old cinnamon toast for breakfast, try using some of this. It's absolutely the greatest. . . Heloise

FOR LONG, HOT SUMMER

Cool Colors Are Hottest News In Spring Fashion

By LEONORA DODSWORTH
AP Fashion Writer

ROME (AP) — Cool colors—that is the hottest news from the Italian spring-summer fashion collections.

Designer after designer is driving the point home. Frosty white and pastels appear to have been bleached even paler with chalk. This, rather than any drastic change in line, is the headline hitter.

As always in the Italian collections, fabrics are big scene stealers.

Intricate intarsia work impressed buyers at Mila Schon. Inserts and appliques in flower shapes, circles, chevrons and undulating stripes had the fashion crowd gasping at their intricacy and impeccable workmanship. These motifs were used with beautiful discretion on suits and unlined coats in cream-smooth wools.

Colors were pale and melting—powdery gray, ice-cold blue and, of course, white.

Funnel necklines, yokes and short capes kept the eye up high on suits. Hip-length jackets were softly tailored and sometimes slackly belted.

As at Fashion House Forquet earlier in the day, two-tone dresses were popular with white collars, sleeves and yokes in contrast with another color.

Slubbed silks were in keeping with the Italian trend for non-shiny surfaces.

Antonelli's discotheque dresses rattled like bead curtains with flying hula skirts made from sequinned fringe. Harpo Marx wigs were teased into frizzy bushes that screamed out for strokes of the brush.

Relatives Visit In Cone Home

Mrs. L. B. Gifford of Houston has been visiting here in the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Cone, and will be in Midland this week as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Gifford.

Other guests in the Cone home have been their daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Cone, and her mother, Mrs. Roy Page, of Corpus Christi, who have also visited Mrs. Clyde Lowry. The younger Mrs. Cone will reside in Corpus Christi while her husband is serving overseas with the Navy.

She received her BS degree from North Texas State University.

A LOVELIER YOU

Shampoo Product Is Aid To Ailing Scalp

By MARY SUE MILLER

New shampoos that help to manage scalp problems are always welcome news. Shampooing with clear medicated gel has now proven effective in the removal of scales and the control of itching—symptoms associated with so many scalp ailments from psoriasis to dandruff.

Application is easy and pleasant because of a foaming gel base dispensed from a handy tube. The action is both antibacterial and anti-seborrheic, owing to a combination of five per cent coal-tar extract and one per cent hexachlorophene. Parenthetically, there is no lasting odor of tar, and that is a great improvement over older, tar-formulated treatment shampoos.

In the instance of a chronic skin ailment such as psoriasis, a shampoo however good must be considered only as a supplementary measure. Psoriasis needs to be treated with respect.

It has a long history in our civilization. It was called "Alphos" by Greeks of old. Its cause is not known. It is thought to run in families. It is not contagious. A doctor's care is an absolute necessity. He alone can administer therapeutic measures that offer adequate relief.

We are luckier than our predecessors in having so many health and beauty aids to draw on. But there is no substitute for medical advice.

Hyperions Probe ESP

"There is a definite frequency that goes out from the minds of men — and that is 'Thought!'" said Mrs. Toots Mansfield at the Saturday meeting of the 1930 Hyperion Club. "It is received in time and according to its creative potency it remains in time."

Mrs. Mansfield was introducing and defining the program on "Extra Sensory Perception, Para-Psychology." The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. J. M. Woodall, 808 W. 14th, and Mrs. Arch Carson was cohostess.

Mrs. W. J. Currie told about ESP, and Mrs. C. M. Phelan discussed some apparent actual happenings and the awareness of ESP in some people. Mrs. Mansfield gave the members a test to determine where and what kind of people possessed ESP.

Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper presided, and refreshments were served.

T. Sgt. R. Pritz Honored At Party

T. Sgt. Robert Pritz was honored with a farewell party and progressive dinner Saturday evening by members of the Mu Kappa Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha. Sgt. Pritz is leaving for Thailand this week, and Mrs. Pritz is president of the chapter.

The hospitality hour was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loy Carroll, 2718 Larry. The table was laid with a white cloth, and a crystal punch service was used. Mrs. J. W. Dickens was cohostess.

Dinner was served in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Egan, 2710 Rebecca. Club members were cohostesses. The buffet was centered with an arrangement of spring flowers, and quartet tables were laid with white cloths and china and silver appointments.

Counselor To Talk

I. J. Motal, Runnels Junior High School counselor, will bring the program during Texas Education Week at the Tuesday meeting of the Runnels Parent-Teacher Association at 3:45 p.m. in Room 109 at the school.

Compromise Ends Impeachment Bid

PANAMA (AP) — The government and the opposition reached a compromise today, ending a threat to impeach President Marco A. Robles on charges of illegal political activity, informed sources reported.

VIOLENCE FEARS

The agreement was hammered out by the two sides at National Guard headquarters, where Robles moved Sunday as the political situation threatened to bring on violence.

Under the agreement, the opposition will reject the petition for impeachment which charged Robles with illegal political activity. In return, Robles will reorganize his Cabinet on a non-political basis, expedite changes in the electoral law and shake up the electoral tribunal.

A high opposition source said the National Union of Opposition had enough votes to carry the Robles impeachment if necessary in the 42-vote National Assembly. Had impeachment been carried through, Vice President Max Delvalle, an opposition leader, would have become chief executive.

DANGER

One of the negotiators of the compromise said the National Assembly will refer the complaint against the president to a committee which is expected within 24 hours to recommend that the charges be dropped.

Rival demonstrations called by the government and the opposition at the Legislative Plaza, set for this afternoon, will be held as scheduled. The negotiators felt it would be dangerous to call them off after the two sides had whipped up their followers.

Six Ejected From Ft. Hood

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP)—Six persons were ejected from this Army installation Sunday for passing out anti-war literature.

They had been passing out pamphlets around noon at two chapels and a service club.

Ft. Hood officials said the pamphlets advertised a "pray-in for peace."

Military sources said they were read a letter which officially barred them from returning to the post in accordance with Army regulations and then were escorted to the main gate.

The Army did not know who the persons were, where they were from or where the "pray-in" was to be held, a Ft. Hood official said.

A county law enforcement officer said he understood the military police were expecting some kind of demonstration and had prepared for it.

4-Hers Going To Angelo Show

Howard County 4-H Club members wind up the 1967-68 stock show trips this week.

Five steers, one lamb, and a pig will be shown at the San Angelo Fat Stock show which opens Tuesday. James Shelton, assistant county agent, said that he will leave Tuesday for San Angelo with Dolores Lankford, Steve and Linda Foster, who are showing steers, and Sherry Jackson, entering a crossbred lamb and James Blair, who is to show a Duroc pig.

The exhibitors, when this show is over, will compete in the Howard County Stock Show which opens March 13. This will officially end the show season.

Boll Weevils Pose Threat

Cotton growers in Howard County are concerned over the potential threat posed by the invasion of boll weevils into local fields in 1967.

More than a score turned out early today for a conference at the offices of the county agent on the problem. The cotton growers were instructed how to gather samples from their fields which they are to bring to the office on Tuesday.

Lyndon Almand, extension entomologist, will take the samples and run them through a special machine which will determine the number of boll weevils which have survived the winter.

These checks will be at the Howard County Stock Show barn Tuesday morning.

The number of weevils which have made it through the cold weather will determine the danger the pest offers to the 1968 crop, Almand said.

Methods of coping with the weevils in the fields where the number is shown to be large enough to pose a problem will be outlined by Almand. All other farmers who did not attend the Monday meeting are welcome to be at the barn to watch the demonstration, County Agent Paul Gross said.

Luncheon Set By Gay Hillers

GAY HILL — Gay Hill 4-H Club will serve a luncheon March 9 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Jackson. Darla Buchanan will prepare the salad; Sherry Jackson, the dessert; and Brenda Jackson will fix the meat.

Plans for the luncheon were made at a meeting of the foods group of the club. This meeting was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Buchanan, where Debra Buchanan demonstrated the preparation of a banana pudding.

Plans were also reviewed for the Howard County Foods show which is to be March 16 in the Fellowship Hall of First Methodist Church.

Fat Stock Show Panel To Meet

Sales committee for the 32nd Annual Howard County FFA and 4-H Fat Stock show meets tonight at the Vocational Agriculture building at the Big Spring High school. It will draft plans for the auction which will climax this year's show.

The meeting is at 7 p.m.

All 4-H club parents and leaders are urged to be on hand for this conference. In addition to consideration of plans for the auction, plans for the show in general will be reviewed.

Bow Section Of Halved Tanker

Sightseers stand on top of El Morro Castle in San Juan, Puerto Rico, yesterday to view the bow section of the Liberian oil tanker Ocean Engle, which broke in two and spilled its cargo of six million gallons of oil into the adjacent sea. The bow section, apparently aground, blocked the harbor entrance. An oil slick four miles long and one mile wide threatened to wash ashore on the white sand beaches of Puerto Rico.

Liberian Tanker Splits, Giant Oil Slick Spreads

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — High waves left patches of oil as far as 30 yards inside the beaches at some of San Juan's luxury hotels today, but tourists went out determined to get their sunshine.

Some of the six-million gallon cargo of Venezuelan crude oil spilled from the tanker Ocean Eagle Sunday and an oil slick four miles long and a mile wide became an immediate threat to the beaches of the hotels.

CREW RESCUED

The Liberian-registered ship split in two as she approached the entrance to San Juan Bay in front of El Morro Castle. The crew was rescued.

President Johnson, resting for the weekend at Ramey Air Force Base in western Puerto Rico, ordered a group of conservation specialists to San Juan to give assistance to local authorities and Coast Guard crews fighting the oil slick.

Tourists staying at the Puerto Rico Sheraton went out on the beach early this morning for sunning under in 80-degree temperatures. Some ventured a few feet into the water, keeping an eye on the oil patches. Many followed warnings by hotel officials to stay out of the water.

HOTELS JAMMED

Puerto Rican hotels are almost full in the middle of the tourist season.

At the Caribe Hilton, workers were sweeping the beaches clean as fast as the oil could accumulate.

It was the second such mishap to a Liberian-flag tanker within a year. Last March 18, the 61,263-ton American-owned Torrey Canyon, five times as big as the Ocean Eagle, broke up on a reef off Britain's southwest coast and spilled millions of gallons of oil onto the beaches of southern England and France. The British government is suing the owners for $8,156,000 to pay for the cleaning operation.

TOUGH TASK

The U.S. Coast Guard sprayed emulsifying chemicals on oil from the Ocean Eagle drifting into San Juan harbor and reported "encouraging results." U.S. Navy tugs brought more chemicals for the oil threatening the tourist beaches three miles away, but officials said trying to cover the entire slick would be a tremendous task.

"I don't think anybody will be swimming," said Carlos Santiago, assistant manager of the Caribe Hilton.

Oil still poured from the two halves of the 12,065-ton tanker and the front half was blocking the harbor entrance. Tugs attempted to pull it out to sea where it could be sunk without endangering traffic but had to give up because "apparently it is hard aground," a spokesman said.

Book About City Brought Him Fame

International fame came to Shine Philips as the author of "Big Spring — The Casual Biography of a Prairie Town," a book that was published quite by accident.

One critic said he had all the pungent flavor of the aroma of bacon cooking over a range campfire. The Baltimore Sun observed that "Shine Philips is like Mark Twain; he just can't write anything but America . . ."

For years Mr. Philips had pecked out little quips on his portable typewriter in his prescription department. He wrote managerial advice for trade publications, short stories on pioneer lore, and was a columnist for Southwestern Pharmaceutical Journal under "Post Card Philosophy." Had not he become seriously ill, however, he might never have pulled his tales together for a book.

His little tome on "My Operation" got a lot of laughs, and he began putting down the early-day stories he heard. With time on his hands during a long convalescence, he roughed out a manuscript. He did nothing with it except to let hospitalized friends read it to cheer their days. The copy fell into the hands of a Prentice Hall representative who saw possibilities in it. To Shine's great surprise, he was offered a contract.

He couldn't get going on it, however, until he turned to writing to bridge his grief after his partner, Charlie Cunningham, died suddenly in 1941.

He liked to tell about a letter from a war veteran saying the book was carried on the Bataan death march. Another veteran said he clung to a copy of the book for four days while on a raft after his ship was torpedoed.

A long-time friend, Margaret Cousins, agreed to revise his original manuscript, and when the book made its debut Sept. 13, 1942, it was a quick success.

Shortly after the Philips book was published, he began corresponding with Frank Grandstaff, a life termer in the Tennessee state prison as an habitual criminal. Grandstaff, who once taught music and sold pianos in Texas, composed a cantata in his cell, based on the book about Big Spring. When Big Spring celebrated its centennial in 1949, Mr. Philips was instrumental in arranging a furlough so Grandstaff could hear the premiere performance of the cantata by the Texas & Pacific male chorus. Later Grandstaff was granted a full pardon, which, alas, didn't change the prisoner's penchant for trouble.

Shine always looked back on the episode philosophically.

PHILIPS

mously from Texas bootleggers.

"There's some good in everybody," he often said.

He was a life member in Staked Plains Masonic Lodge 598, of Big Spring Chapter of Royal Arch Masons 178, Big Spring Council 117, Big Spring Commandery of Knights Templar 31, and of the Suez Temple of the Shrine.

HONORED

On Nov. 27, 1954, Shine Philips was honored during the half-time ceremonies at a homecoming football game when he was presented a diploma from Big Spring High School. This was 46 years after he had been expelled from school for refusing to apologize for a schoolboy prank he said he didn't do. His is the only diploma awarded to a non-graduate.

"They always blamed me for everything that happened, and they usually were right, but not this time," he said.

When the Centennial of the "discovery" of the big spring was observed in 1949, Mr. Philips became the president of the Centennial commission and one of its moving forces. After operating this drug store in the 200 block of Main Street for nearly 40 years, he "retired" in 1953 to the present location at 905 Johnson.

Put out of action in June, 1955, by a stroke, he was soon back at work in his prescription department, his glasses shoved up on his forehead and his battered portable typewriter serving to peck out prescriptions and common sense philosophy. The following year he was felled by a massive stroke which almost claimed his life and from which he never fully recovered. Fifteen weeks later, in October, he returned home, alert and in excellent spirits. Later he went to San Angelo to The West Texas Geriatrics Hospital, which had facilities better to serve him.

VISITING

Visiting him there one day, James Bruce Frazier, who had worked in the C&P drug store, determined to have a similar facility so that Shine could be near his friends. Thus Bennett House was born, and Shine became its first and most famous guest when it opened Aug. 1, 1963. Until his unexpected death, he still made the rounds in his wheel chair, his sparkle and smile undimmed and untarnished.

Snow flurries are forecast Monday night from northern New England through the lower Great Lakes region. Showers are expected in southern Texas and rain is forecast for the Pacific northwest and northern California.

Strike By Teachers In Texas Unlikely

AUSTIN (AP) — The state Board of Education approved today increased local costs under the minimum foundation school program for 74 of Texas' counties.

Decreased local costs were approved for 157 counties, and 23 counties will remain the same.

INDEX KEY

The action was taken in approving county economic indexes which are used in deciding how much of the share of basic school programs local school districts will bear in the 1968-69 school year.

The total local fund assignments for that year will be $159.6 million.

Estimated total cost—state and local—of the foundation school program during the current school year is $739.1 million. A county's economic index is computed by a formula that takes into account the number of public school pupils, tax valuations and income from manufacturing and a variety of other economic activities.

Two board members briefly discussed the possibility of a teacher strike in Texas and agreed that no such walkout was likely.

DR. KEARNEY QUITS

The matter came up when board member Herbert Willborn of Amarillo mentioned that teacher strikes were discussed during the recent Western District meeting of the National Association of School Boards, which Willborn attended.

"You're talking about teachers going on strike in Texas—they're not going to strike," said Jack Binion, Houston.

"I agree with you. I think Texas is in a much more fortunate position," said Willborn, referring to Florida, Utah, New Mexico and other states that have had teacher strikes.

Public employes in Texas are forbidden by law to go on strike.

The board received a report that its director of teacher education, Dr. Milo Kearney, has resigned effective June 1 to become head of the Education Department at Trinity University in San Antonio.

Bomber Hunt To Continue

TEXAS CITY, Tex. (AP) — The search for a missing Air Force B52 bomber was to be continued today.

The Coast Guard was expected to locate and identify a large uncharted, underwater object in the Gulf of Mexico. The object was spotted by the survey ship Georgia on Saturday.

The Coast Guard was not able to send divers down to the object Sunday because of rough weather. A team of para-rescue divers is standing by.

The huge bomber disappeared from the radar screen of an Air Force tracking station late Wednesday night. It was on a practice bombing run at a radar range on the tip of Matagorda Island. The range tracks the aircraft and makes a determination as to how accurate the pass was. The plane carried no bombs.

Residents of the Galveston Bay area reported a ball of fire and loud aircraft noises about the time the supersonic bomber disappeared.

The plane was assigned to the 7th Bomb wing at Carswell Air Force Base, Fort Worth, Tex. The crew members had life rafts and survival equipment with them. As of yet there has been no sign of the crew or the airplane. Not even any debris has been sighted.

Drawing Held For Ballot List

The name of A. A. Porter will head the list of nine candidates on the ballot for the city commission election April 2.

According to Charles Smith, city secretary, places on the ballot were drawn early today, so that the ballots could be completed in time for absentee voting, which begins March 13 and ends March 29.

Others on the ballot, in order, are E. A. (Slim) Fiveash, Mrs. Mary Thomas, Arnold Marshall, M. M. (Blackie) Hines, Walter Stroup, Jimmy Morehead, Eddie Acri and W. A. Fitzgerald.

FFA Members To Attend Show

COAHOMA (SC) — Coahoma FFA members will leave Tuesday to attend the San Angelo Junior Livestock Show, which runs through Sunday.

Lamb exhibitors will be Roy Mansfield, Dicky Weaver, Andy Wilson, Dean Richters, Ricky Evans, Mike Duke, Pete Wisener, Gary Roberts, Gayla Roberts, Earnest Lowe, Randy Lowe and Don Richters.

Exhibiting barrows will be Mike Cathey, Kenny Clanton, Toby Green, Gaylon Harding, Noel Harvell, Ricky Womack, Charles Hall and Andy Wilson.

Wylie Oliver is the lone steer exhibitor.

Col. Smith At Indiana School

Lt. Col. Charles A. Smith, formerly information officer at Webb AFB, has recently been assigned to the radio-television department, Defense Information School, at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, Ind.

After leaving Webb, Col. Smith was assigned to helicopter duty in Vietnam, and there was seriously wounded. He spent many months in the USAF Hospital at Lackland AFB, San Antonio, and was released in January, although he still has trouble with an arm affected by the wounds, and is serving under a partial state of disability.

The Smiths' address is 900A Lawton Road, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind. 46216.

Welfare Agency Gains Office

Howard County Commissioners Court today allocated the office space which has been occupied by the Driver License Examiner to the State Welfare Department. The department asked for the additional room. The offices are at the foot of the stairs in the basement of the courthouse.

The commissioners suggested the state welfare department redecorate the office but no final decision was made on this proposal.

The license examiner has moved his quarters to 2000 Birdwell Lane and was set up at that point to conduct business today.

DEATHS

Joseph Marcus Burleson, Brother Of Congressman

Funeral services were to be at 4 p.m. today in the First Methodist Church at Meadow, Tex., for Joseph Marcus Burleson, brother of U.S. Rep. Omar Burleson.

Mr. Burleson, 74, died early Sunday in the Methodist Hospital in Lubbock. He had been in serious condition since undergoing brain surgery Feb. 5.

Burial will be in the Meadow Cemetery under direction of Brownfield Funeral Home following rites conducted by the Rev. Raymond Riley, pastor of the Meadow Methodist Church, assisted by Dr. Jordan Grooms, district superintendent of the Methodist Church.

Mr. Burleson was born in Comanche County, but moved with his family as a baby to Jones County and attended schools there. Prior to moving to Meadow, where he had lived for some 40 years, he operated a grocery store at Stamford and worked for the old Anson State Bank. In Meadow he operated a cotton gin and grain elevator until retiring six years ago.

Survivors are the widow, the former Lucille Miller of Snyder; a daughter, Mrs. Newell (Marcus) Reed of Brownfield; one son, Joe, superintendent of schools at Meadow; one grandchild; two brothers, Omar Burleson of Anson and Washington, D.C., and Elmer Burleson of Lockney; a half-brother, T. M. Burleson of Eastland.

Mrs. Redding, 80, Services Tuesday

Mrs. P. T. (Lydia) A. Redding, 80, died Sunday evening in Odessa.

Services will be held Tuesday at 4 p.m. at the Nalley - Pickle Rosewood Chapel, with the Rev. Claude Craven, pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

She was born Sept. 26, 1887, in Arkansas and came to Texas from there as a girl. She married Peter Thomas Redding, April 18, 1908, at Baird. The family moved to Big Spring from Baird in 1930.

Preceding her in death were her husband, on Jan. 4, 1957; a son, Morris Redding, and a daughter, Mrs. Noble Harris.

Survivors include two sons, Grady Redding, Big Spring, and C. R. Redding, Odessa; one daughter, Catherine Redding, Odessa; one brother, A. V. Shaw, Tow; also four grandchildren and three great - grandchildren.

George Meyer, Rites Pending

George Meyer, Rochester, N. Y., father of Mrs. Richard Schilling, 410 W. 6th, died unexpectedly Sunday at his home.

Services are pending in Rochester. Sgt. and Mrs. Schilling left early today to attend the funeral.

Walter E. Smith, Former Minister

Walter E. Smith, 81, of 806 E. 14th, died at 10:10 p.m. Sunday in a local rest home. He had been ill since November, 1967.

Services were to be held today at 4:30 p.m. at the River-Welch Chapel, with Rev. Bill Arnett officiating. Burial was to be in the City Cemetery.

He was born in Tyerly, Ga., Oct. 6, 1886, and came to Howard County just before the turn of the century. He and his wife were married in Big Spring July 30, 1908. Mr. Smith, a retired farmer, had farmed in the Knott community, and was a former minister. He had pastored several area churches in the early 1900's. He was a member of the East Fourth Street Baptist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Minnie Mae Smith; three daughters, Mrs. Thelma Ayers and Mrs. Jessie Berner, both of Odessa, and Mrs. Merle Sheppard, Connecticut; two sons, Edmon Smith, Rock Island, Ill., and David Smith, Big Spring; four sisters, Mrs. Emma Scott and Mrs. Daisy Caffey, both of Stanton, and Mrs. Lucille Samples and Mrs. Annie Smith, both of Big Spring; also 12 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Nephews will be pallbearers.

Travis T. Tuck, Services Today

Graveside services for Travis T. Tuck, 42, who died Friday, were to be held today at the Fort Sam Houston National Cemetery. River-Welch Funeral Home handled arrangements.

Survivors include three sons, two daughters, two brothers, his mother and one grandson.

Sweetwater Snake Roundup Draws 4,000 Spectators

SWEETWATER, Tex. (AP)—The annual rattlesnake roundup in Sweetwater ended Sunday with the honors for the biggest snake, 64-inches, and the most caught, 300 pounds, going to the same man.

Tilbert Willman of Imadale, Tex., was paid a dollar an inch for his largest catch.

FOUR-WAY TIE

About 200 hunters from nine states registered for the tenth renewal of the roundup. Roundup officials said that about 2,062 pounds of snakes were caught.

The hunters received 30 cents per pound for their snakes on the first day, 20 cents on the second and 10 cents on the final day.

There was a four-way tie for the smallest snake caught. Bill O'Donald of Abilene and George R. Boley, Mike Terry and W B. Carson, all of Sweetwater, all caught a 14-inch snake. They also received a dollar an inch for their prize winners.

NEW SNAKE CHARMER

More than 4,000 spectators watched the daring hunters flush their dangerous quarry from their dens. Some hunters used gasoline to chase the snakes into the open. Then, the agile hunters captured the snakes, stowed them in gunny sacks and took them in for weighing.

Venom was milked from the snakes for anti-snakebite scrum. Some rattles are sold. Some of the snakes were butchered for rattlesnake steaks.

In side events connected with the roundup, Miss Karen Costin of Sweetwater was named Miss Snake Charmer, and Woody Fritsch of Sweetwater won the contest for the longest, bushiest beard.

Horoscope Forecast

FOR TOMORROW

—CARROLL RICHTER

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Get those practical affairs completed in the morning and then delve right into finest personal aims. But be practical along such lines, also. Don't get bogged down with work; find some new and more productive system.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Realize that others are in a strange sort of mood in a.m. but later you can gain your finest aims easily. Talk over your ambitions with partners. Then confer with some expert in business matters.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan just what you want to do in a.m. and later bring your ambitions to the attention of those who can be helpful to you. Be diplomatic with an associate who is up in arms over something and then you gain favor.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Taking advice from a pal who understands your problem in a.m. is wise; then you can gain your ambitions. State precisely what your aims are. Assist those who are in need later in the day.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You get some fine idea in a.m. that helps you to advance quickly. However, be sure to follow all rules that apply to you in p.m. Morning missive arrives that is helpful. Don't take any adverse chances later.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are inspired how to take care of some obligations wisely in a.m. Then you can consult with higher-up just how to get ahead faster. State your aims clearly early. Then accept help.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) There is much potential in some project you have started with a backer, so show gratitude now. Then put new ideas to work also. You can clearly see what is best system to get plans working efficiently.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) During a.m. you can reach a fine agreement with a new associate, but don't try to be forceful with co-workers later. Be lenient where small matters are concerned. Benefits accrue in a.m. Be sure to keep promises made.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Taking time to complete duties in a.m. will leave you time for getting together with a good friend for needed recreation. Clear up that problem with a co-worker early in the day. Avoid worrying later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Ideal morning for recreation or planning for future amusements. Be sure you extend some compliment to one who counts in your life and you get backing you need. Fine for health treatments in the latter part of the day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be heerful in doing what kin expect of you in a.m. so that later you have time to ply some special talent you possess. Get future planned cleverly in a.m. Out to recreation you like tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Ideal morning to get in touch with others and tell them what you desire from them and gain their favors. Then make improvements to regular systems. Be happy at own fire hearth in p.m. and chase kin.

Negro Leader Evers Missed By Gunner

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Police said someone in a passing car fired a shotgun blast toward the home of Negro leader Charles Evers Sunday night—and guards outside the house fired back.

The house has been under night guard by armed volunteers since Evers entered the race for a vacated congressional seat. His brother, civil rights leader Medgar Evers, was killed by a sniper in 1963.

TEEN JAILED

H. B. Harrell, a police major, said a 16-year-old boy was arrested about an hour after the 11 p.m. shooting and held for questioning. A shotgun was confiscated.

Evers said the guards were "just fellows who see after me—volunteers. I've gotten quite a few threats since Tuesday."

TOP MAN

In the primary election Tuesday, Evers led the field in the race for the 12-county 3rd Congressional District seat vacated when John B. Williams resigned to take over as governor. That put Evers into the runoff campaign, to be decided March 12.

His opponent is Charles Griffin of Utica, who was on Williams' congressional staff. Griffin was the top man among the six whites in the race, which eliminated all but the two top candidates.

They Fired Back

Two of Mississippi congressional candidate Charles Evers' volunteer guards examine a shotgun they used to return fire following a nightrider attack on the Negro leader's home. There were no injuries, but several shots were fired.

PRESIDENT NASSER

Nasser Vows To Regain Lost Soil

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli officials said today President Gamal Abdel Nasser's speech vowing to regain every inch of soil occupied by Israel as a result of the June war was a "serious setback to peace."

"We can only hope there is a difference between this sort of demagogy and actual policy making in Egypt," said Foreign Ministry spokesman David Rivlin.

Nasser, a three-time loser in war with Israel, told a rally near Cairo Sunday that Israel's announcement last week that it no longer considers the west bank of the Jordan River "enemy territory" would "cost her dearly."

"We will be a solidly united front against our common enemy to liberate the occupied areas," Nasser said.

Rivlin commented: "When the whole world is looking to Israel and the Arabs to take the big step and talk peace, Nasser's speech was very disappointing and confusing."

Officials said there had been signs of moderation in Cairo in the last few weeks but the "warlike" speech dashed hopes that Egypt and Jordan are willing to meet Israel in direct negotiations.

However, some informed sources believed Nasser made his fiery declarations to placate critics in Egypt and bolster his prestige in the Arab world rather than to torpedo the possibility of peace talks.

Israel announced last week it was willing to meet the Arabs under U.N. auspices and hinted that contacts with Cairo and Amman indicated the Arabs would probably sit down at the conference table.

Socks Afire Saves Four Adrift In Sea

ABERDEEN, Scotland (AP) — Four men were adrift in a rowboat in the North Sea Sunday. One of them soaked his socks in gasoline and set fire to them. The crew of the Aberdeen lifeboat spotted the blaze and rescued the men.

Red Rocket Might Make Round Trip

MOSCOW (AP) — A new Soviet rocket hurtled through space today amid speculation that it might be trying to make the first round trip orbiting the moon before it returns to the earth.

The Soviet government said the probing rocket was on a course to "outlying regions of near-earth space." The phrase "near-earth space" has been used in past announcements to mean the region of the moon.

The new rocket was launched Saturday and, if it is heading for the moon, should arrive there Tuesday or Wednesday. The trip usually takes 3½ days.

A brief Soviet announcement Sunday said the Zond 4—zond means probe—rocket ship was an "automatic station" and part of its mission was to "improve new systems and units aboard the station" It did not say what the systems and units were, nor did it give the size or weight of the craft.

A reference to the ship's being put on a flight path "from the parking orbit of an artificial satellite" suggested powerful rockets were used, and that part of the original craft remained behind, possibly still orbiting earth.

Soviet cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky said in Budapest a week ago that Russia was likely to send a number of rockets around the moon and bring them back to earth before sending men to the moon.

'Praying Mantis' Will Study Sun

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A research satellite that looks like a giant praying mantis today rocketed into orbit with a record number of experiments to make the most comprehensive study yet of how the sun influences the earth.

A 12-story-tall Atlas-Agena rocket blasted away from Cape Kennedy right on schedule at 8:06 a.m. EST, to propel OGO 5, the fifth Orbiting Geophysical Observatory, into space.

METAL MONSTER

Eight minutes later the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported the metal monster, still attached to the Agena second stage, was in an initial transfer orbit more than 100 miles above the earth.

After nearly an hour coasting on this course, the Agena engines were to restart to push the payload into a great elliptical orbit ranging from about 175 to 92,000 miles high.

The satellite carries 25 scientific experiments, four more than on any previous U.S. satellite. They are intended to provide scientists with the best look yet at how thermonuclear flare eruptions on the sun affect our atmosphere, weather and communications.

DANGEROUS FLARES

Officials at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center, which manages the project, are hopeful the OGO findings will help develop a foolproof means of predicting when large, dangerous flares will explode on the sun, spilling streams of radiation into the solar system.

Such a forecasting system would permit scheduling of man-in-space flights around particularly hazardous periods and would lead to improved communications and weather prediction systems.

With its booms, solar panels, appendages and antennae, OGO 5 resembles a huge flying insect. It weighs 1,347 pounds, is 57 feet long and has a wingspan of 20 feet. It has scores of sensor "eyes" to peer deep into space to observe such things as radiation, magnetic fields, cosmic rays, electric fields—and even puzzling radio noises coming from the vicinity of the planet Jupiter.

Teachers Slate More Walkouts

By The Associated Press

San Francisco teachers return to their classes today after a one-day walkout, but the strike by some 20,000 Florida teachers enters its third week with negotiations stalemated.

A third of Pittsburgh's 3,000 teachers who struck last Friday planned large-scale picketing, while classrooms remained vacant for the third straight day in the Wellston, Mo., school district.

Thousands of other Pennsylvania teachers headed for Harrisburg in a one-day "professional holiday" to dramatize their demands for higher salaries.

MORE MONEY

The San Francisco strike of about 1,100 of the city's 3,400 teachers, in their demand for more money, shut down schools at noon Friday. Most junior and senior high schools were closed, with students at one high school going on a window-smashing rampage.

Sunday night, after 22 hours of talks between strikers and a special city two-man panel, San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto announced that the walkout was over and there would be no reprisals against those who struck.

In Pittsburgh, Albert Fondy, president of the Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers, said "the biggest picket line in the history of Pittsburgh" would be thrown around the Board of Education building.

COMPROMISE

In Florida, State School Supt. Floyd Christian scrapped a compromise proposal to end the strike when opposition mounted to what he had termed an "honorable solution."

Gov. Claude Kirk has until Thursday to act on a $329 million education bill, which was passed by a special session of the legislature. The governor can sign it, let it become law without his signature or veto it. After the bill was passed, the Florida Education Association said it was inadequate and called the strike.

The FEA, which represents about a third of Florida's 60,000 teachers, said it has obtained newspaper and billboard space across the country and has contracted for national television time to give its side of the issues.

TAX DEFEAT

NEA President Braulio Alonso of Tampa said in Washington that the national organization will supply $2 million to be used for legal fees and other support of strikers.

The 94 teachers in Wellston, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis, left their classrooms last Thursday protesting the defeat of a new school tax rate which would have raised their salaries. The school district will remain closed at least through Tuesday. A teachers' spokesman said regular classes will resume Wednesday if the Board of Education agrees to resubmit the tax levy proposal.

At least 20,000 of the state's 82,000-member Pennsylvania State Education Association were expected in Harrisburg to call for enactment of two bills before the state legislative, one raising starting salaries and the other increasing state aid to schools.

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, along with several legislative leaders, was to meet the teachers on the Capitol steps.

In Oklahoma, more than 600,000 school children will get a holiday Wednesday when some 15,000 teachers meet in Oklahoma City to gather more information on a cigarette-liquor tax boost that would have financed raises for teachers but which was vetoed by Gov. Dewey F. Bartlett.

A Devotional For The Day

The high priest then questioned Jesus about his disciples and his teaching. (John 18:19, RSV)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, many times we have sinned by omission. Many times we have failed to do the work entrusted to us, and kept quiet when he should have spoken, and run away when we should have been present. Help us, Lord in our weakness. Give us divine courage, through Christ our Lord. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Most Important Business

On the occasion of Texas Public School Week, we hope that hundreds and hundreds of our parents will respond to the invitation to visit in their schools.

In the proclamation by the governor and the invitation by the superintendent, the point is made that no longer do people debate the issue of the necessity of education. The illiterate and the under-educated are being caught in the backwash of a fast-moving and highly complex contemporary society.

The developments of the past decade clearly tell us that this condition will not subside; on the contrary the ability to function as a contributing citizen will depend more and more upon better, more responsive education.

People will flock by the thousands to open house of a new institution or a new business which offers bargains. How much more important it is that they turn out to see their schools in action, for trite as it may sound, schools are dealing with our most precious asset and our only hope for tomorrow.

Won't you take time out this week to see your schools?

A Better Name

Since its appearance, the monthly news publication for the employes of the Big Spring State Hospital has carried the masthead "The Dust Bowl."

While this was certainly descriptive of blustery spring days when surrounding fields were denuded and before new crops were on their way, this never struck us as a good title. For one thing, it sounded pretty depressing which is exactly what the hospital is trying not to be; for another, it didn't exactly create a favorable public image for this area and this community.

The current issue of the publication appears under the title of "The Oasis," noting that the Webster definition of the word is "something providing relief from the usual." An item in the issue noted that "we are now in the process of establishing a 500-acre park with trees, wildlife, grass, picnic areas, and athletic fields, creating landscape more conducive to tranquility."

For what it's worth, we think this sounds much better.

Favorite Theft Targets—Unlocked Cars

One thing and another:

People who leave things of value in their automobiles, while they run errands or pay social calls, are asking to be victimized by thugs.

Some businessmen who have withdrawn money from banks, then left the cash in the front seat while they stopped for coffee, have returned to find the money gone.

Police strongly advise that if valuables are left in a parked vehicle, they should be locked in a trunk where they can't be seen.

Thieves just breaking into the game who, in time, hope to become more sophisticated criminals get their early training by pillaging from the unsuspecting. Their favorite targets are unlocked cars.

Everybody Gets Stuck Some Time

NEW YORK (AP) — Things seem to be fitting together again in the financial community here.

JUST A COUPLE of months ago everything was in a conglomerated mess, with brokers, telephone lines, operators, conversations, lunches, forcasts, pars, work, working hours and prices collapsed in a tangle.

The paper jam is now said to be down to manageable size. Prices are merely jigging up-down now instead of flaring in volatile figure eights. Volume seems to have settled a bit and so apparently has the hysteria.

WORKING HOURS therefore are coming back to normal, meaning people don't have to eat on the fly. Brokers have installed some new equipment. And the telephone company claims it has caught up with its own log-jam.

In fact, New York Telephone ripped a 13-foot hole in its ninth-floor wall on Broad Street and hoisted in truckloads of new equipment designed to insure against busy signals, dead lines and misconnections a la last December.

THE BLIZZARD of work that hit Wall Street then, we are told will never be repeated, but like a weatherman's explanation of things, even this estimate must be suspect. Why?

Because the whole mess that caused the stock market community to work overtime, to shorten trading hours, to remain open on holidays resulted from massive misestimates:

—The New York Stock Exchange prevailed on American people to own shares in American industry, but failed to estimate the enormous public interest their promotional campaign would generate.

—BROKERS TOLD millions of people about the opportunities in owning shares in growth industries but apparently failed to realize that theirs was a growth situation, and so did not automate or build larger permanent staffs.

—The stock market community failed to foresee the effects of the sudden volume and trading power created by the big institutions — the mutual and pension funds, the insurance companies and trusts — that it invited on to major exchanges.

—The telephone company, perhaps excusably, had been figuring on a three to five per cent annual growth rate in telephone business for the area, but suddenly found itself handling in December 30 per cent more calls than a year earlier.

THE MISFORTUNES of the phone company and its customers have not been revealed nearly as completely as those of the brokers. But it, too, failed badly in the storm.

The results were somewhat chaotic, with one little blessing included: the fact that volume would have been even higher if many callers hadn't given up trying.

What Others Say

The young upstart of the New World is growing up—up the population scale at least. The large clock in the lobby of the Department of Commerce Building, which ticks off a new American every 14½ seconds, (struck) 200 million on Nov. 20, making the United States the fourth country in history to reach a population of that amount.

The count could reach 300 million by 1990, according to the most optimistic projection by the United States Census Bureau. The benefits of numbers and increased wealth must be matched against overcrowded cities and polluted natural resources.

At the current rate the number of Americans continues to increase by more than two million each year.

The problem does not have the immediacy of the crisis which faces the developing nations: land and food are still plentiful and national wealth is growing faster than population. It is more the "quality of American life" which is jeopardized. Young men (and women) are still going west in phenomenal numbers; since 1950 the rate of increase in the west has been twice that of the country as a whole and California has just superseded New York as the most populous state. Another major exodus has been from the rural south towards the cities of the north and the east coast.

The land remains 90 per cent rural, but the urban tenth contains about 70 per cent of the population. The shift from farm to city may be slowing down, but the fat concentric suburbs which ring the decaying cores of cities are beginning to merge together into giant megalopolises. By the year 2000 one morbid prediction has the majority of Americans living in three giant conglomerations: "Boswash," stretching along the east coast from Boston to Washington; "Chipitts" from Chicago to Pittsburgh; and "Sansan," swinging from San Francisco to San Diego. It is conceivable that Chipitts "might merge one day with Boswash to form Chiboswash."

Billy Graham

How can the sins of many, today and in Christ's time, be paid for through His crucifixion?

B. C. P.

The grace of God is beyond human comprehension. That is why Paul said that the preaching of the cross is foolishness to them that perish.

Though we can't understand the power of the cross, we know that it works. Down through the centuries people's lives have been transformed by the preaching of God's love and Christ's death. John Wesley, the founder of the Methodist Church, said, when he caught a glimpse of the cross, "An assurance was given me that He had taken away my sins, even mine, and had saved me from the law of sin and death."

Today, we enjoy benefits which were handed down to us by men who suffered greatly to bring them to pass. For example, every time you have surgery, you must thank Sir James Simpson, the British scientist who discovered the anesthetic properties of chloroform. Through experiments upon his own body, he became an addict and died. But he gave us modern anesthesia.

Every time we breathe the fresh air of freedom, we must be grateful to the young men who have died to guarantee us our liberty. Every day we enjoy blessings that were purchased by the sacrifices of others who lived before us.

We must say with Paul, "I live by the faith of the Son of God who loved me and gave himself for me."

Sooners Install 'Kissing Lane'

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The biggest Leap Year problem the girls face isn't the reluctance of men to marry but the fact there simply aren't enough to go round. For every 100 marriageable young women, the Institute of Life Insurance estimates, there are only 91 marriageable young men.

ISN'T THIS romantic? In Oklahoma City, the telephone company installed a "kissing lane" in front of its building. It's a parking space where employes can bid fond farewell to their spouses without tying up morning traffic.

Modern college graduates find it a bit difficult to settle down into a business routine. A survey found that two out of three change jobs within five years after leaving the campus.

How safe is your automobile? A nationwide safety check disclosed that 14 per cent of cars and trucks inspected had defective equipment that could lead to accidents. The most common defects involved rear lights, headlights, stop lights, turn signals, brakes and tires.

DIABETES may be a penalty you face if you overeat regularly. A Swiss scientist found that when the formerly meager diet of tribes in India were replaced with abundant food the number of diabetes cases rose markedly.

Quotable notables: "One of the first duties of the physician is to educate the masses not to take medicine."—Sir William Osler.

The French are probably the world's greatest consumers of mineral water. Last year they quaffed two billion bottles, an average of 32 quarts each. They believe it tones up the action of the liver and kidneys.

PIPE THIS: A Minneapolis plumber gives trading stamps to customers who pay their bills within 30 days.

The old order changeth: Ohio once had more than 2,000 covered bridges. Only 212½ remain. The half-bridge is so counted because the other half is in Indiana.

Underground profits: Lester B. Dill, operator of the Meramec Caverns in Missouri, makes a living out of holes in the ground. During his career he has bought and sold 100 caves.

Having termite trouble at your house? Why not import a giant anteater from South America? One of these creatures can lick up 3,000 ants or termites a day—and they don't charge extra for overtime.

Job Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The report of the Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders with its grim picture of a racially divided nation throws a harsh spotlight on the Senate maneuvering over civil rights legislation.

In view of the massive effort urged by the commission to stave off threatened disaster, the Senate haggling over what percentage of houses in white suburbia should be opened to Negroes takes on a note of unreality.

INDEED, the conditions described in the report provide a sad commentary on the whole body of civil rights legislation enacted over the past few years. Men of good will worked hard and courageously to pass those laws and thought they were ushering in a new era in U.S. race relations.

But the commission calls past efforts largely inadequate and warns that if new and effective steps are not taken at once riots worse than any so far may erupt.

The effectiveness of laws, of course, depends on the way they are enforced. The Negro's right to vote has been enormously strengthened in the South by strong enforcement of the law.

BUT IN other areas of discrimination, particularly where the law applies nationally and not just in the South, enforcement has been spotty. In probably no field is the record worse than in employment.

On the same day the summary of the commission's report was released, Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., released a report of his own on job discrimination against Negroes.

He pointed out that the right to employment on an equal basis is protected by specific federal and state laws and commissions and by a string of presidential orders. Yet Negro unemployment in the cities is three or four times the rate for whites, and those who find work are concentrated in the lowest-paid jobs.

That discrimination—not lack of training—is the reason, he said, is proved by a study showing that 8 of 10 Negroes with an eighth-grade education or less are in unskilled jobs, as against 3 of 10 whites.

MANCHESTER, N. H.—"If Romney had got off the ground, I wouldn't be here," explained a don't-quote-me officer of the Write-in-for-Rocky committee. "I was a Henry Cabot Lodge delegate in '64, and I was for Romney as long as he and I could stand it.

"Everybody up here reads Dick Nixon to be a sort of Charlie Brown—you know the sympathetic little character in the comic strip who always loses out. And yet the way things are going, Nixon's getting ready to cop this primary, and win the nomination in August, and get himself creamed by Johnson in November.

"THE ONLY WAY to prevent this happening is to get a write-in going for Rocky. We've got money, and we've got professional workers, so don't let anybody tell you otherwise. Here's a poll I'm not supposed to have myself, let alone show to a newspaperman. But 5,200 persons in the state were questioned, before we came out with our list of delegates for Rocky, and 51 per cent were for Nixon, all right. But 22 per cent were for Rockefeller and only 17 per cent for Romney. You can see there was a 39 per cent anti-Nixon vote before we even started.

"I WILL TELL YOU another finding in our poll. We asked these people if they preferred to support Rockefeller in person rather than support his agent, George Romney, and 91 per cent said they wanted a chance to vote for or against Rocky in person, and that's what this write-in is for. You ask me for the motives behind it. Well, motives are complicated, but the main thing we're after is simple—to elect a Republican president.

"GOOD LORD, Mr. Alexander, when I see what's happening to this country under Johnson, I'm ashamed that the Republican party didn't pull itself together in 1964 and get him out of office. I was still young enough four years ago to stand in awe of the big Republican names. But I went out there to San Francisco, and I was in a room with Gen. Eisenhower and Gov. Scranton and all those leaders, and, my God, I found out they didn't know anything more about how to nominate a winner than we dumb delegates did.

"ARE WE GOING right ahead in 1968 and nominate another patsy for Lyndon Johnson to clobber? It makes me sick to read about those riots in the big cities, and to hear that it's going to be even worse this summer.

"I wish you'd tell me why a democracy like ours doesn't put its best men into the top offices. Who — Lord Bryce? Yes, I guess I read about him in school. The people mistrust superior men? Is that why we have so many bum Presidents? Well, I'll tell you this, I would support any Republican who has a chance to beat Johnson, and that includes Ronald Reagan. I'm a pretty liberal Republican, but I'd even take Reagan over Nixon. He's more electable than Nixon.

"NO, YOU'D HAVE to talk to the committee chairman if you want any predictions. If the primary were held today, there would be about 22,000 write-in votes for Rockefeller, and we're just getting started. Heard enough? So long."

Not a word in this outpouring by a Rockefeller backer was in praise of that relucant Republican. All of it went to desperation at the thought of another term by LBJ, and to disappointment in Romney's performance, and to the dread that Nixon would again be defeated.

Of such are the ingredients of the Rockefeller boom, all of them negative and yet impassioned.

Interfering With Conduct Of War

WASHINGTON—Lots of people who have read the Constitution and are familiar with its provisions must wonder where Chairman J. William Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee gets the right to call for an examination of "the decision-making process" of the commander of the armed services of the United States.

THE CONSTITUTION states specifically that the President "shall be commander in chief of the Army and Navy of the United States." Congress is given the power to declare war. But the responsibility for taking this action is its own. Once a resolution authorizing the use of the armed forces has been adopted the President has full power to conduct the war according to his own best judgment and the advice of the military chiefs.

What is more germane at this time is an inquiry into the right of a congressional committee to seek in the middle of a war to give the impression that the President of the United States, as commander in chief, did not know what he was doing when he asked Congress for a resolution that has since been called "the functional equivalent to a declaration of war."

THE SENATE has two committees which deal, directly and indirectly, with military affairs. One is the Foreign Relations Committee, and the other is the Armed Services Committee. Usually all military matters are referred to the Armed Services Committee, of which Senator Richard Russell of Georgia is chairman. If any question in this field arises, it is this committee which usually looks into the matter. In fact, it handles all appropriations in the military category.

The Foreign Relations Committee, on the other hand, is concerned with the ratification or rejection of treaties negotiated by the President with foreign governments.

THE RIGHT of a President to take measures to defend the American people is implied in the Constitution when he is designated as commander in chief of the armed forces. There are occasions when a chief executive may decide, as President Truman did, that a declaration of war is not necessary. This happened when this country was asked by the United Nations to participate in the collective defense of South Korea.

IN THE CASE of the Vietnam war, however, a resolution was requested by President Johnson immediately after the incidents in the Gulf of Tonkin in August 1964. The President was to be given authority to "take all necessary measures to repel any armed attack against the forces of the United States and to prevent further aggression." The resolution was adopted a few days later by an almost unanimous vote of both houses of Congress.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee discussion indicates that some members believe they have the right now to pass judgment upon the "decision-making process," and that it was wrong to take steps to retaliate when American vessels were attacked.

THE "GULF OF TONKIN" resolution, passed in August 1964, specifically provides that the authorization may be terminated at any time "by concurrent resolution of the Congress." No such proposal has emanated from any committee of the House or the Senate.

What is really needed is not an examination of "the decision - making process" of the President as commander in chief, but an examination of the manner in which congressional committees can interfere with the conduct of a war once Congress has authorized military operations.

THE IMPRESSION being given to the adversaries of the United States is that an insurgency has arisen in its own national legislative body and that sooner or later the United States will retreat and withdraw from the war. This encourages the Communists not only to continue their aggressions in Vietnam and take over the country, but to plan to apply the same hostile policies later against other free nations in Asia as well as in Europe.

How A Cold Can Impair The Hearing

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes people to lose their hearing when they get a cold? Our grandchild had his tonsils and adenoids removed, thinking that was the reason for his trouble, but he still gets an ear ache and sore throat and can't hear. —Mrs. E. G.

Removal of adenoids and tonsils in such a case usually is helpful but — as you now know — there can be other considerations.

The interference with hearing can be caused by inflammation and congestion of the opening of the eustachian tube. This is a very small tube which extends from the inner ear to the throat.

Its purpose is to equalize the pressure inside and outside the ear drum. The tube is so small that pressure does not adjust instantly — descending rapidly in an elevator, or in an airplane which is not pressurized can build up pressure outside the ear drum faster than the flow of air through the eustachian tube can compensate. Hence you cannot hear well temporarily.

The reason you cannot hear well is that the ear drum, with too much pressure on it, cannot vibrate easily, and it is the vibration of the ear drum which transmits sound.

In your grandson's case, it is quite possible that a cold or other infection causes enough congestion to prevent air from passing through the eustachian tube. Instead of being able to clear it by swallowing a couple of times, as you might do after a long descent in an elevator, he still finds the tube blocked by the infection and swelling. One would guess that perhaps he is more than usually vulnerable to this type of trouble.

Another possibility is that the cold virus may attack the inner ear proper, a condition known as "serous otitis." In this there is accumulation of fluid, and pain and bulging of the ear drum. And again, since the ear drum cannot move or vibrate freely, hearing is impaired.

When this condition occurs it is possible to lance a tiny hole in the ear drum to let the fluid escape, relieve the pain, and take the pressure off the ear drum. The tiny cut in the ear drum heals readily.

If the youngster in this case has the trouble frequently, I would make sure that he has regular medical attention, preferably by an ear specialist.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible to become pregnant while I am still nursing my child? — Mrs. J. F.

Contrary to popular superstition, it IS possible to become pregnant while nursing.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: We need help desperately. With six children, I am afraid that another would mean a ruined marriage. For good reasons the pill and other contraceptives are not for me, but these weeks of abstinence are causing great pressure.

I read a magazine article about a plastic spiral that could be inserted to prevent pregnancy but could be removed when pregnancy was desired. I understand it is in use in India and is called a loop. Is it available here? — Mrs. F. R.

Yes, it is in use in this country, and also called an I.U.D., or "intra-uterine device." It may cause irritation in some women; also it must be checked periodically to make sure it has not slipped out of place. Hence it is not considered as reliable as some other methods.

If you could use this device, I don't quite understand why you couldn't use some other one, a diaphragm, for example. You'd best discuss the whole matter with a gynecologist to select the method that best suits you and your situation.

UNDER FIRE

Rangers Live Up To Legend

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press Writer

Texas colonists were battling for their lives against Indians, Mexican bandits and a brutal, uncompromising land when the first Texas Ranger took up his badge and gun.

He was selected to roam the wilderness to fight and kill to keep Texas from being killed. He was the law where there was none. He was violent and brutal because the enemy and the era were violent and brutal.

LEGEND

Texas matured to the sound of his blazing guns and the Rangers became a legend.

Sixty-two men today inherit that proud legend. They wear the circled silver star of the Texas Rangers and are revered by many in the afterglow of the past.

But the fabric of Texas has changed. The brand of justice practiced in a past yet within the memory of many is abhorrent now to the law. And the Rangers, who symbolize that past, are being bitterly attacked.

Powerful groups want them abolished. A state senator is determined to have them investigated. And the two most powerful church organizations are asking a federal court to restrain the Rangers in some of their free-wheeling activities.

The newest criticism sprang from the bitter farm labor unionization movement in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Union leaders trying to organize stoop laborers on the fruit and vegetable farms there staged picketing and other demonstrations. The Rangers were called. Arrests were made. Some people got hurt. And charges of Ranger brutality and partiality bloomed.

INVESTIGATED

Civil rights groups, unions, clergymen and state senators investigated. Militant Mexican-Americans, who regard the farm labor movement as a symbol of the awakening South Texas Spanish - speaking populace, lashed at the state's leaders.

The controversy has dropped from the front pages, but it will be revived and recalled. Farm labor leaders say they are planning more demonstrations around the valley farms next spring. The Texas Rangers may again be sent in.

Reaction toward hte Rangers' activities last summer was mixed across the state. Many supported the lawmen in letters to newspapers and in public statements. The Ranger force is regarded by many as a popular and cherished institution and today's Rangers are a mixture of their legend of glory and of the present. Their weapons and skills are as modern as can be found in most state police forces, but their western hats, boots and reputation are based on the legend.

EXPERT

"People have come to expect the Rangers to live up to the legend, and this belief has affected the men who joined the force, and has shaped their acts and their attitudes when they were part of it," said historian Walter Prescott Webb in his account of the Rangers. "The Texas Rangers are what they are because their enemies have been what they were."

Stephen F. Austin, principal Anglo colonizer of Texas, named 10 men in 1823 to protect the Texas frontier. They became known as Rangers because they "ranged" widely on horseback, and were formally organized in 1836 after Texas shook free of Mexico and became a nation. The Rangers faced strong and savage enemies.

To the west were Comanche and Apache Indians. Rangers fought them until 1881.

Along the border were Mexican bandits. The Rangers fought them for more than 80 years.

And all over the state were outlaws. Rangers are fighting them yet.

GOLDEN ERA

The golden era for the Rangers started in about 1836, was interrupted by the Civil War and Reconstruction, and then continued until about 1919. The legislature created a frontier battalion to fight the Indian wars and a special force to fight the bandits in 1874. Most of the Ranger legend came from between 1874 and 1919—the most violent period the state has known.

Books are filled with the exploits of famous Ranger troops during this era. Most of them were gallant and dashing deeds. And some of the deeds, judged necessary at the time, were, by today's standards, unjust and cruel.

Long distances, the lack of jails, judges and juries and, not infrequently, the demand for revenge led often to summary executions. Webb, J. Frank Dobie and other historians recorded numerous such incidents, but point out that these also were the tactics used by the enemies facing the Rangers.

The historians also tell of Rangers swooping down on Indian villages, shooting at anything that moved. Ranger reports showing the number killed included categories for men, women and children.

SKILL

Rangers also used skill and courage in settling feuds and range wars and in tracking down killers and gangs. A Ranger working alone captured the gunfighter John Wesley Hardin and four of his men on a train in Florida in 1877. The next year Sam Bass and his gang were cut down while preparing for a bank robbery at Round Rock.

The golden era was interrupted in 1901 when the attorney general ruled the frontier battalion had no law enforcement authority.

The battalion was abolished and the Rangers cut from about 1,000 men to 80.

Revolution tore Mexico in 1910, turning that country into chaos and giving birth to bands of raiders which swooped into Texas to kill ranchers, hold up trains and steal livestock.

To defend the state against such attacks, more Rangers were appointed and slowly the force built back up to a peak of about 900.

Five years of violence along the border created a powder keg of tension. Discovery of the so-called "plan of San Diego" was the firecracker that set off an explosion.

PLAN

A deputy arrested a Mexican in McAllen in 1915. The man had papers on him telling of a plan in which an army of Mexicans, Germans and Japanese were to revolt and take Texas and the rest of the Southwest from the United States. The territory was to be split between the Mexicans and the Negroes to set up two buffer states.

The war was to be waged without mercy with all males 16 and over to be killed.

When the plan was published and became known many living along the border fled, leaving behind their belongings and livestock. Anglos fled north from the alleged army. Peaceful, innocent Mexicans fled south to avoid the expected violence.

Webb, in his book on the Texas Rangers, wrote that "Texans, supported in some instances by the Rangers, inaugurated a sort of reign of terror among the Mexican population. Many excesses were committed, and there is no doubt that innocent Mexicans were killed . . . There is no doubt that the Texas Rangers and with them the citizens killed innocent Mexicans during these times."

BACK

In 1919, the legislature investigated. Legislators said on the floor of the Texas House that Rangers had killed prisoners and committed other offenses. A bill to abolish the force was introduced, but was diluted with amendments. The final action cut the Ranger force back to 60 men.

Enforcement of prohibition and gambling laws eroded Ranger popularity in the 1920s and 1930s. Oil discoveries spawned boom towns during the same era and Rangers went in to control the vile bloom of vice and lawlessness created in Kilgore, Mexica, Ranger, Burkburnet, Borger and other towns.

In 1935, the legislature, spurred in part by complaints from sheriffs that the Rangers were infringing on the authority of local law enforcement, passed a law creating the Texas Department of Public Safety. It combined the Rangers and the Texas Highway Patrol, formerly part of the Texas Highway Department.

POWERS

The Rangers were "clothed with all the powers of peace officers" and were given full police powers anywhere in the state.

The state issues an impressive arsenal to the Ranger and his company. Each Ranger receives a .357 magnum pistol, a rifle, a riot gun, a camera, an identification kit and an unmarked, radio-equipped pursuit car. Each of the six Ranger companies has tear gas, gas masks, grenades, machine guns and an M-8 light armored car.

The Ranger is also armed with the legend. Fourteen decades of using without hesitation the force needed in any situation has created what historian Webb called an "austere" reputation.

SCARED

A Corpus Christi lawyer, who declined use of his name called the reputation "a quieting influence." A South Texas lawman said that it alone has sometimes "scared" fugitives into submission.

The legend is fed by true stories of bravery in the "one mob, one Ranger" tradition of outstanding Rangers down through the decades.

Such a man was Capt. Frank Hamer, who came out of retirement to arrange the fatal ambush of Southwest desperadoes Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker.

In 1930, while still a Ranger, Hamer blocked a mob intent upon lynching a Negro prisoner held in the Sherman courthouse for assault on a white woman.

"Come on up if you feel lucky," Hamer called to the mob from the courthouse steps. "But if you try it there'll be a lot of funerals in Sherman tonight."

No one felt lucky.

UNARMED

In 1955, Capt. Bob Crowder walked unarmed into a violent riot at a state mental hospital and talked the riot leader, a giant crazed Negro, into ending the disturbance and releasing hostages.

Webb tells the classic story of a town being terrorized by a mob and sending for the Rangers. The mayor met the noon train and a lone Ranger swung down.

"Where are your men?" the mayor asked.

"I am the only one."

"What! Only one Ranger. Why, man, we've got a job! We need a company of Rangers."

"You've only got one mob, haven't you?" the Ranger said calmly.

The yarn, Webb says, is a fabrication. But, he notes, "stories such as this have become true because people have come to believe them to be true." And it's such stories that feed the legend.

LIBERAL ELEMENT STIRRED UP BY SOUTH TEXAS INCIDENTS

Labor Leaders Pushing Charge Against Rangers

By The Associated Press

Strolling the streets of a South Texas town wearing a big hat, boots and a .45 revolver, the Texas Ranger is a romantic symbol to many of the state's rugged past.

The footfall of his boots seems to echo from an era of simplicity, a time when issues were plainly drawn and the bad guys and good guys easily identified.

Despite his colorful reputation and typical dress, a Ranger's routine work today is not much different from that of a police detective or a district attorney's investigator. It's usually the hard, basic drudgery of investigation and arrest.

IMAGE

But the Ranger's image, projected through popular literature on 144 years of legend, is that of a folk hero, a dime novel protagonist who lives yet while all the other are gone forever. When this legendary good guy was showered with criticism last spring and summer, it jolted many who still think of the Rangers in terms of the legend. Suddenly, it seemed, someone was throwing mud at the white hats.

The criticism came after Texas Rangers made scores of arrests in Starr County during demonstrations there by farm union leaders seeking to organize stoop laborers on Rio Grande Valley fruit and vegetable farms.

Charges of brutality exploded into headlines. They were followed by investigations by civil rights groups, U.S. Senators, state legislators and the FBI.

SUIT

The Texas Council of Churches filed suit for an injunction against the Rangers after one of the council's minister- employes and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. Ed Krueger, were arrested and allegedly roughed up by the Rangers. The Texas Catholic Conference immediately announced its support of the suit.

The suit alleges the Rangers infringed upon the rights of observers in arresting the Kruegers. It alleges the Rangers "threatened, assaulted, falsely arrested and incarcerated persons . . . simply for being at the site of arrests, union activity and intended union activity." It asks the federal court to enjoin the Rangers from such activities in the future.

A hearing on the suit is expected next spring.

The Ranger activities in the valley were condemned by the Texas Advisory Council to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission and by a group of state senators.

PASO

The Political Association of Spanish-Speaking Organizations (PASO) demanded that the Rangers be abolished. A resolution passed at PASO's convention in Austin last summer contended the Rangers "have shown that they lack the necessary intelligence required in dealing with human beings, thereby causing undue social conflict which could possibly result in rioting."

The Texas AFL-CIO convention labeled the Rangers "archaic" and called for their abolishment.

AFL-CIO secretary-treasurer Roy Evans said the Ranger force has "lived out its usefulness. It's just used now to break strikes and to take away people's rights."

The Rangers and the Department of Public Safety did little to answer the specific accusations. But the Rangers were quickly defended by other law enforcement officers and by citizens.

Newspapers publishing editorials on the controversy received scores of letters supporting the Rangers.

FLOODED

A San Antonio columnist was flooded with indignant mail when he suggested blandly that the Rangers may be obsolete.

Capt. A. Y. Allee, head of the Rangers who went to the Valley, said he received hundreds of letters of support and sympathy from all over the country.

Such support and adoration for the Rangers, said one lawman, makes criticism of them much like criticism of God, Motherhood and the Flag. It will never be politically popular, he said.

The Ranger legend, some believe, has become a shield for the Rangers.

Historian Walter Prescott Webb, who studied Ranger history, implied this in his "Handbook of Texas":

"Tradition," wrote Webb, "has become strong and probably no legislature would be bold enough to abolish the force, the oldest of its kind in the world."

TEST

State Sen. Joe Bernal of San Antonio plans to test that statement. "If things go the way they're going now," he said, "I don't think I'll have any choice but to offer a bill to have them taken in by the DPS. I'm not going to yank them out onto the street. I'll just have them absorbed."

The Rangers themselves, he said, wouldn't be out of jobs. They could be taken into other DPS departments. But the force as it is now would be dissolved.

"I personally feel they've gone out of style since the turn of the century," said Bernal. "There's just not a place for them, especially with the tactics they use."

Bernal was one of four state senators who went to Starr County during the height of the Ranger arrests there. He came away saying the Rangers were on the side of the growers. Later, in a separate report, the other three legislators, State Sens. Don Kennard, Fort Worth; Oscar Mauzy, Dallas, and A. R. Schwartz, Galveston, said "the Rangers gave every appearance of being on the side of the employers."

DENIED

Captain Allee denied it.

"We're not on the side of anybody," he said. "We're just law enforcement officers. The union is trying to get it before the public that we're with the growers. I'm not against organized labor. I'm against hoodlums and somebody trying to sabotage someone else's property."

He said gasoline engines at La Casita Farms, principal target of the organizers, had been ruined with sugar in the gas tanks and that tires of farm vehicles had been slashed.

There have been no charges filed in connection with such activity, however.

U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., one of a group of U.S. Senators who went to the Valley, called the Rangers "Connally's strikebreakers." Gov. John Connally denied that he was responsible for the Rangers being in the Valley.

"They are there to enforce the law," said the governor. "They are not there for any other purpose."

PICKETS

On May 26, Rangers arrested 20 pickets along the railroad tracks at Mission and Harlingen. Newsmen reported photographers were threatened with jail and broken cameras if they photographed the arrests.

"Keep your g-----n camera off me," a newsman quoted Allee as saying. At the time, the photographer was attempting to photograph the arrest of the Rev. Mr. Krueger. A newsman said the minister's arm was twisted behind his back and he was being searched.

When asked if these reports were true, Allee would say only "I've never tried to keep anything from any nwsmen when they were fair."

In early June, Rangers arrested Magdaleno Dimas, one of the union organizers, at a house where he was staying.

CONCUSSION

The next day, a doctor said Dimas suffered a concussion during the arrest. Later, another doctor denied that this was true.

The first doctor quoted Dimas as saying he had been beaten and kicked by the Rangers.

Captain Allee said that Dimas had been hit only once, on the head with the barrel of a riot gun. He said Dimas was seated at a table as the Rangers, with a warrant, came in and Dimas ignored an order to put his hands in view.

"I kicked the table against him and hit him with the barrel of my riot gun," Allee said. "I had to act fast. I didn't know if he had a gun under the table or not. He'd had a gun earlier."

Allee later displayed a DPS report on Dimas' police record. It included a murder conviction. This background, said the Ranger, was one reason for the measures taken in making the arrest.

CONVICTED

Dimas was recently convicted in Mexico of a crime "against public health" in connection with marijuana allegedly found in his possession. Union members have voted him out of their organization.

The union and many newsmen reported other incidents in which the Rangers allegedly threatened or mistreated persons arrested during the picketing.

Captain Allee denied that he or any of his men used unnecessary force.

The FBI made two investigations of the Ranger's activities in the Valley, but no charges have been filed.

The farm labor movement has become a symbol for many Mexican-Americans of the rising political strength and awareness of the Spanish-speaking minority. When Gov. Connally made no announced move to change or soften what many Mexican-Americans regarded as strike-breaking tactics by the Rangers, it lost for the governor much support among the Spanish-speaking.

INACTION

Bernal said in October that the Governor's inaction was one factor in his disaffection with Connally. PASO coupled its opposition to the Rangers with opposition to Gov. Connally. Although Gov. Connally is not running for a fourth term, this opposition could rub off on those seeking office who are closely allied to the governor.

Mexican-Americans are sure to watch closely if the farm labor dispute in the Valley comes alive again this spring.

And union leaders say it probably will.

Gilbert Padilla, vice president of the United Farm Workers, said a new push for recognition is planned by the union in May and June. This will mean more demonstrations, and the Rangers could again be called in.

RIFE

Long before the farm labor dispute, South Texas lore was rife with stories of how the Rangers operated in arrests and questioning. But these stories are difficult to confirm. Few people will talk about them for publication.

Warren Burnett, an Odessa attorney who has defended clients arrested by the Rangers and who is a former district attorney, said the Rangers "pick their victims very carefully. People who have had unfortunate contact with them won't come forward."

"Those people are afraid to talk because something else bad is liable to happen to them," said another defense lawyer, Marvin Foster of Corpus Christi.

"There is no doubt that throughout South Texas one could find many times that Rangers were guilty of brutality and over-reaching tactics," Foster said. "Maybe the times called for them, but...their (the Rangers') day is gone."

Foster was an attorney for three burglary suspects who he said in 1964 were taken to a ranch, stripped nude and strung up by their ankles from a mesquite tree. Foster said his clients told him the Rangers then beat them with ropes and burned the "delicate portions of their bodies" with a high-voltage shocker designed for use on cattle.

MEDICAL

While the men were still in custody, Foster said, he arranged medical treatment for them and had a photographer take color pictures of their injuries.

Foster filed a civil suit for his clients in U.S. District Court in Corpus Christi. It was dropped later, he said, when the state agreed to light, four-year sentences for the trio in exchange for pleas of guilty and an end to the civil suit.

Captain Allee denied that the incident ever happened. So did J. L. Rogers, an inspector for the criminal investigation division of the Department of Public Safety.

A lawman said some Rangers routinely react with violence disproportionate with situations.

He said Allee once hit a highway patrolman with his pistol when the man made a jesting remark about the Rangers. The officer refused to discuss the alleged incident, but a patrolman who was there confirmed that it happened.

FANTASTIC

Asked about the incident, Allee said only, "It gets fantastic to me who makes up all these things."

The Captain admitted in 1954 from a federal court stand that he once slugged Duval County politician George Parr without provocation.

Asked about it recently, Allee shrugged it off. "I didn't kill him," he said. "I could have killed him a hell of a lot easier than hit him."

Ranger Johnny Klevenhagen, since retired, and Harris County Sheriff C. V. (Buster) Kern, attacked defense attorney Percy Foreman and beat the famous Houston lawyer to the floor in a San Angelo courtroom just after a heated 1950 murder trial. The officers were fined $5 each for assault.

Discipline from DPS Director Homer Garrison Jr. for such incidents is apparently rare. Allee said nobody in his company, including himself, has ever been disciplined for use of unnecessary force. Not even, he said, after the George Parr incident.

REFUSED

Allee and other Rangers refused to testify this summer in a series of hearings on the farm worker situation held by a U.S. Senate sub-committee and the civil rights advisory group. Garrison said Allee was instructed not to testify because of pending court cases.

Former State Rep. John Alaniz of San Antonio said the Rangers are a symbol of the "prevailing power structure" and the "poor farm worker is just intimidated by having them around."

"It's hard to fight them because their past is sort of glorified," he said. "They had their place in the 'old' days. There's no place for them today."

A lawman who asked not to be named said the Rangers depend heavily on local sheriff's departments in their work and consequently are mired in local politics.

"Rangers won't move without telling the local sheriff's office," he said. "The Rangers are strictly politics. As long as it (Ranger force) is controlled by the big politicians it's going to be a farce."

DISAGREE

But sheriffs and district attorneys, particularly in South Texas, disagree. They say the Rangers perform an invaluable service in investigations and in their statutory ability to cross county lines and retain their law enforcement status.

Capt. Allee Has Long Service With Rangers

CARRIZO SPRINGS, Tex. (AP) — "There's been somebody raising hell about the Rangers for as long as I can remember," said Capt. Alfred Young Allee, "and they've never hurt 'em yet."

And he should know.

Allee, chief of Ranger Company D and called by Department of Public Safety Director Homer Garrison Jr. "truly one of the all time great Rangers," has worn his badge for 35 years and has lived in the shadow of the Ranger legend all his life.

His father and grandfather were both Rangers. And before them, the Captain's great-grandfather, also, A. Y. Allee, fought in a Texas battle with Mexico.

Now the captain's son, A.Y. Alee Jr., has taken up the badge and gun of the Rangers. He's a Ranger private in Company E in West Texas.

SERVED

"Five generations of my family have protected law and order for Texas," the captain says. "I have served this great State of Texas well . . . and I am proud of my record both as a man and a Texas Ranger."

Allee, who started as a Ranger after five years with the Bee County (Beeville) Sheriff's office, has "handled most every kind of law violation there is."

He helped tame a half dozen Texas boom towns that burst into frenzies of crime and violence after discovery of oil nearby in the 1930s.

One of these, Kilgore, in the early 1930s, he remembers as "tough as hell."

"We used a Baptist Church for a jail and chained 'em up in there 'til we could get 'em to a jail. Those oil strikes brought in every class of people you can think of — gamblers, pimps, prostitutes, killers and thieves. It took us a good while to restore law and order."

CASES

Allee said he has broken cattle thief rings, solved murders, rapes, swindles, embezzlings and moonshine cases. During prohibition, he once confiscated enough smuggled liquor to stack his office full. He's been sued, cursed and threatened.

The Captain, like most Rangers, wears cowboy boots and a western hat. And, yes, he feels "undressed" without his six shooter, an engraved, silver-colored .45-caliber revolver that once almost killed him.

Allee never drinks, he says, and never smokes, although he wears a cigar in his jaws almost constantly, allowing it to dissolve to a one-inch nub.

The Captain is tough. He's had to be to stand up to the pace of 35 years as a Ranger and to beat the scorched land of mesquite and cactus stretching in brutal distances of emptiness across the 39 counties that compose his district.

PICTURES

Allee's office, down the street from the courthouse, is furnished sparsely, its walls covered with pictures of Rangers.

He's had three heart attacks and suffered a broken neck, he says, but he's still ready to swing into the saddle and ride all day if necessary.

At 60, Allee is only nine years past the "middle age" of the Ranger force. The average age of the Rangers is 51. Eight of the 62-men force are 65 or over, 14 are 60 or over and 22 are 50 or over.

Allee commands eight men in Company D, six in small South Texas towns and one each in Corpus Christi and San Antonio.

Each of the Company D Rangers has his own horse, Allee says, and "we use them more than most people think."

Frequently, he said, "the Rangers will round up a rancher's herd of cattle to check out a rustling complaint."

Rangers also sometimes ride a patrol along the Rio Grande, he said, when low water would permit disease-bearing Mexican cattle to wander over to the Texas side.

"I don't think they'll ever abolish the Rangers," he said. "I think they're as strong today as ever. The Rangers are greater now than they ever have been."

"But," said Allee, "Rangers use only the force necessary. They stand on the ground they cover is all."

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier, Emile Griffith and the Madison Square Garden box office remained the favorites today in a championship boxing doubleheader that could set financial records. The fights are tonight.

A crowd of 16,000 was expected to see Frazier, an Olympic champion four years ago, battle Buster Mathis for a share of the heavyweight championship after Griffith puts his middleweight crown on the line against Italy's Nino Benvenuti.

Frazier was a 2-1 favorite over Mathis and Griffith ruled as an 8-5 choice over Benvenuti.

The Garden has guaranteed the four fighters $505,000 and with tickets scaled from $10 to $100, a sellout would gross about $750,000.

The gross receipts record for an indoor fight is $511,000 for the third Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight bout in Miami Beach's Convention Hall March 13, 1961.

Frazier and Mathis, oldtime foes, battle for the New York and Massachusetts versions of the heavyweight crown. They've fought twice before, both times in amateur bouts, with Mathis winning both.

Mathis broke his hand in the second bout and Frazier replaced him in the 1964 Olympics. The Philadelphia slugger went on to win the Olympic heavyweight crown.

Both Mathis and Frazier are undefeated as pros. Frazier has 17 knockouts and 19 straight victories while Mathis, the big boy from Grand Rapids, Mich., is 23-0 with 17 knockouts.

SECOND SCRAP

The Griffith-Benvenuti scrap is the third meeting between these two. Benvenuti took the middleweight crown from Emile the first time and then Griffith reclaimed it at Shea Stadium last September.

Each bout is scheduled for 15 rounds with scoring by rounds.

The Garden, which is paying Frazier and Griffith $175,000 each, Benvenuti $80,000 and Mathis $75,000, announced last week that a total of almost 12,000 seats from $10 to $50 were sold out. Also gone was a good chunk of the 7,000 seats priced at $75 and $100.

Harry Markson, director of boxing for the Garden, estimated a gross of between $600,000 and $700,000.

Southwest Teams To Be In Action

Weather permitting, all Southwest Conference baseball teams except Texas Tech will be at it hot and heavy in championship play this week.

Only one game was gotten in last week due to the weather and Texas A&M won it to take the lead. The Aggies beat Texas 1-0.

The Aggies go to Waco Tuesday to clash with Baylor while Rice will tackle Southern Methodist at Dallas and Texas Christian meets Texas at Austin.

Saturday Texas A&M is at Rice, Baylor at Texas Christian and Texas at Southern Methodist.

Only One Champ Entered In State Tournament

By The Associated Press

The only 1967 state schoolboy basketball champion trying to repeat this year will play one of the first games when the state tournament starts Thursday in Austin.

Kennard, the Class B titlist with a current 41-2 record, meets Perry Valley of Nocona with a 32-6 record.

In Class A the first game will pit West Sabine of Pineland, twice the state champion, against Aspermont.

The first AA game Thursday afternoon has San Antoni oCole, which was a tourney participant last year, meeting Kirbyville, while the initial AAA game pits Conroe against Richardson Lake Highlands.

Unbeaten Houston Wheatley with a 34-0 record opens AAAA play Friday afternoon against Odessa Permian with 23-11.

The pairings announced Monday by the Interscholastic League:

Thursday—8:45 a.m. Conference B, Bronte vs. Friendswood; 10:10 A.M., B, Kennard vs. Prairie Valley of Nocona; 11:35 a.m. A, Italy vs. Louise; 1:45 pm. Friday—9 a.m., B, Darrouzett vs. winner of Bronte-Friendswood; 10:25 a.m., B, Leuders-Avoca vs. Kennard-Prairie Valley winner; 2:30 p.m., AAAA, Houston Wheatley vs. Odessa Permian; 7:15 p.m., AAAA Dallas Jefferson vs. San Antonio Brackenridge.

Wise Exchange Pleases Jacobs

By The Associated Press

The stewards at Hialeah made a wise exchange, indeed, as far as Hirsch Jacobs is concerned.

Wise Exchange, trained by Jacobs, followed Iron Ruler across the finish line Saturday in the $137,000, 1⅛-mile Flamingo Stakes for three-year-olds.

But the stewards moved Iron Ruler to second and put Wise Exchange first, giving Jacobs a second straight Flamingo winner. Jacobs saddled Reflected Glory for his wife, Ethel, last year. Isidor Bieber owns Wise Exchange.

Iron Ruler was disqualified for interfering with Wise Exchange a quarter of a mile from the finish and again at the three-sixteenths pole.

Tilts To Decide Regional Roster

Three area basketball games Tuesday will decide part of the field for the Region VI-B girls' basketball tournament scheduled next weekend in the HCJC Gymnasium in Big Spring.

Forsan of District 67-B opposes Mertzon of 68-B in Bronte. Trent, 69-B, tangles with Westbrook, 70-B, at Westbrook. Eden, 65-B, and Talpa - Centennial, 66-B, square off at Winters.

Philadelphia Beats Hex, On Way To Third Title

BOSTON (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers breathed a little easier today en route to a third straight Eastern Division championship in their National Basketball Association rivalry with the Boston Celtics.

The 76ers beat a Boston psych and a Garden hex while defeating the Celtics 133-127 and taking a big stride toward the title Sunday.

In other NBA action Sunday, Cincinnati topped Seattle 138-128, Detroit drubbed Chicago 134-123, Los Angeles took Baltimore 121-114 and St. Louis edged San Diego 106-104.

New York trounced Detroit 133-107, Los Angeles outlasted Seattle 127-121 and San Francisco beat Baltimore 117-109 Saturday.

"Barring injuries, we're in fine shape now," Philadelphia Coach Alex Hannum said after the foul-filled duel with the Celtics. "This had to. We've been rising to the occasion."

With Hal Greer hitting for 43 points, the 76ers built a 21-point lead midway through the fourth period and then checked a desperation rally by the Celtics.

With both teams aiming for a showdown in the Eastern playoff finals, the 76ers proved they can win in Boston, where they managed just four victories in 20 previous regular season visits.

Referees Norm Drucker and Don Murphy called 70 fouls, including three technicals, in the rugged game before a national television audience and a Garden crowd of 14,692, the largest pro basketball turnout in Boston history. The Garden recently added seats, doing away with the familiar 13,909 capacity.

Cincinnati's victory kept the fourth-place Royals 1½ games ahead of Detroit, who replaced Baltimore in fifth place in the Eastern Division.

Connie Dierking's 41 points, a pro-career high, sparked the Royals' victory.

Detroit rolled to its victory behind the double-figure scoring of six players. Dave Bing led the parade with 34 points, followed by Eddie Miles, 27, Len Chappell, 22. McCoy McLemore paced Chicago with 23.

Los Angeles overcame a nine-point deficit in the third quarter and moved to their seventh straight victory and 22nd in the last 27 games behind the shooting of Elgin Baylor and Archie Clark.

A foul shot and basket by Bill Bridges broke a 102-102 tie and clinched the victory for Western Division-leading St. Louis. Don Ohl scored 27 points for St. Louis and Henry Finkel got 24 for San Diego.

Coahoma To Face Wylie

COAHOMA — Coach Bernie Hagins takes his Coahoma High School girls to Sweetwater this evening for a 7:30 o'clock bi-district game with Wylie.

Coahoma is the 5-A titlist while Wylie is the 6-A winner. The survivor advances to the Regional finals scheduled next weekend.

Coahoma beat Wylie in last year's bi-district play.

Linda Pherigo leads the Bulldogs in scoring with a 22-point average. Sandra Gross has a 21.5 norm while Ann Stout is averaging 11 points a game.

Pherigo plays the post position for Coahoma and her coach has called her one of the best in the country at doing her job.

Wylie's chief scoring threat is Zandra Phillips, who is averaging 23 points a game.

Third Place Prize

A proud coach Buddy Travis of Howard County Junior College stands between two of his star players, Terry Fields (left) and Hiron Hubert, who hold the third place award in the Region V Junior College Basketball tournament concluded here Saturday night. The Hawks knocked off Clarendon College, 67-62, for the honor.

Win Streaks May Be Losing Battles

By The Associated Press

Denver and Minnesota, each with four game winning streaks, appear to be fighting losing battles in a bid to overcome the American Basketball Association leaders.

The Rockets exploded in the second half to gain a 115-95 victory over Oakland while Minnesota held off a New Jersey bid for a 123-115 decision in Sunday's action.

Denver remained 3½ games behind Western Division leader New Orleans, which knocked off Houston 103-89. In the East, Minnesota remained three games off the pace of the Pittsburgh Pipers, who rolled to their 10th straight victory, 110-99 over Kentucky. In the other game, Dallas tripped Anaheim 126-114.

Reserve Dick Clark tossed in 19 points to lead the Muskies over New Jersey. Minnesota led all the way but the Americans narrowed the gap to 102-99 in the last period. Clark then dropped in a basket and added two more with 2:12 to play to send the Muskies comfortably ahead at 120-108.

New Orleans trailed 46-40 at halftime after shooting a horrendous 4-for-23 in the second quarter but settled down in the last 24 minutes. A 15-point streak in the last four minutes, putting the Bucs ahead 103-85, sewed it up.

Connie Hawkins 40 points sparked the Pipers over Kentucky.

Cincy Powell and Charles Beasley helped snap Dallas' three-game losing string, pouring in 31 and 27 points, respectively. Bob Bedell was high man for the Amigos with 21.

Louisville Due To Draw Houston

By The Associated Press

The potent Missouri Valley Conference, anxious for a good showing in national tournaments after two straight years of bad luck, could have as many as four of its nine teams in the two big meets.

Champion Louisville is bound for the NCAA Midwest Regional at Wichita, where unbeaten, No. 1 ranked Houston likely will be its first foe. The Cardinals, ranked No. 9, will go after their 12th victory in a row and 20th of the season tonight against Bel armine at Louisville.

The Valley seems certain to land runner-up Bradley, 19-8, and third-place Cincinnati, 18-7, in the 16-team NIT at New York.

Former Mate To Face Longhorns

When the Big Spring Steers return to the baseball diamond at 4 p.m. here Tuesday, they will be trying to hit the pitching slants of a former teammate, big Jerry Ryan.

The Longhorns, now 2-0 on the season, will entertain the Andrews Mustangs.

Big Spring beat Andrews, 4-1, last Saturday in Andrews after earlier knocking off Lubbock High School, 11-2.

Quite likely, Junior Mendoza will pitch for coach Oakey Hagood's Big Springers.

Week Of Scrambling To Fill Last NCAA Berths

By The Associated Press

There'll be big doings in Ames, Iowa, tonight as the college basketball season starts its last week of the regular season.

Iowa State, with a chance for its first Big Eight Conference title in 23 years, entertains first-place Kansas State. Iowa State is tied for second with Kansas, one game behind, but followers of the Cyclones are confident they will tie for the lead tonight, then win the title outright by beating Kansas on Saturday.

K-State defeated Colorado 67-56 Saturday while Iowa State hasn't played since its 93-92 overtime road victory over Nebraska last Friday.

The Iowa Hawkeyes, close to their first Big Ten Conference championship in 12 years, play at Minnesota and the unbeaten, top-ranked Houston Cougars are at West Texas in an effort to complete a 28-0 regular season.

Ohio State, one game back of Iowa, plays at Illinois and Kansas is at Oklahoma in other important games tonight.

NCAA TOURNEY

The results of the Big Eight and Big Ten scrambles will fill two of the remaining six spots in the NCAA postseason tourney for the national championship which opens on Saturday with seven first-round games.

Two other NCAA berths will be decided Tuesday night. Columbia and Princeton play off for the Ivy League crown on St. John's neutral court in New York. Murray and East Tennessee meet in a similar playoff for the Ohio Valley Conference crown on Eastern Kentucky's neutral court in Richmond, Ky.

Princeton gained its tie with Columbia by ending the Lions' 16-game winning streak Saturday night 68-57. East Tennessee tied Murray by defeating Tennessee Tech 85-82.

The Atlantic Coast Conference championship tourney, opening at Charlotte with four games Thursday, and the winner of the West Coast Atheletic Conference in which Santa Clara leads Los Angeles Loyola by one game, will determine the last two NCAA berths.

QUALIFIES

UCLA, the defending national champ, Davidson, LaSalle, Texas Christian and Weber State qualified for the NCAA over the weekend.

They joined Houston, St. Bonaventure, St. John's, Florida State, Marquette, Chicago Loyola, New Mexico State, Boston College, Louisville, Bowling Green, Kentucky and New Mexico in the 23-team field.

UCLA qualified by routing California 115-71 for the Pacific-8 title. Davidson beat West Virginia 87-70 in the final of the Southern Conference championship tourney, and LaSalle romped over Temple 87-69 in the final of the Middle Atlantic Conference playoffs.

Ump Balks At Spit Ball Rule

By The Associated Press

The first spitball of the baseball season still is more than a month away, but the first controversy over the touchy subject is in the record books.

Going on record Sunday against the new rule that umpires will have to enforce against the spitter was none other than Cal Hubbard, the American League's umpire in chief.

The rule prohibits a pitcher from putting his hands to his mouth and says that after one warning a pitcher who makes any suspicious moves will be thrown out.

"One thing I can guarantee," said Hubbard, "is that the umpires don't want the rule the way it is now. I can't understand why the general managers and managers were so insistent for his change. They were the ones who really pushed it through."

Hubbard, who presides over a meeting of league umpires in Tampa, Fla., Tuesday, said he thought the new rule might go the way of the balk rule controversy of several years back.

So many balks were called that a ruling was issued in midseason going back to the old interpretation.

"I just don't think umpires are going to be putting a pitcher out of a game because he goes to his mouth."

SOFTBALL MEET SET

An important meeting for all persons interested in a summer softball league has been called for 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Bill Read Insurance Agency office, 3rd and Johnson.

Robert Doe, commissioner, said the meeting is open to any individual or groups in Howard County. He hopes that plans can be firmed for organization of a league.

Park Places

FORSAN — Steve Park of Forsan placed second in the 440-yard run in the McCamey Relays held here Saturday with a 53.1 clocking. Crane's Bax beat Park to the wire in the time of 52.8. Crane won the team title in Division I with a total of 112 points. Forsan finished with eight points.

Border Olympics Signs 931 From 66 Schools

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — The Border Olympics, sagging somewhat before getting a big shot in the arm with the entry of Jim Hines, world's fastest human from Texas Southern, will have 931 athletes from seven universities, 11 colleges, 16 junior colleges and 32 high schools.

The track and field carnival goes on here Friday with defending champions back in all classes—Rice in the university class, Texas Southern in the college division, Odessa in the junior college division and San Antonio Highlands for the schoolboys.

The annual golf meet opens Thursday with University of Houston defending its championship in the university - college class brought to 10 teams with entries of Baylor, Texas A&M, Texas and Trinity.

HINES BACK

Meet director Luis Novoa said he was confident that Hines would be here although the athlete had previously lost his scholarship at Texas Southern. But his affairs are being straightened out and he will again be in school when the Border Olympics open, Novoa said.

If so, his duel in the sprints with Clyde Glosson of Trinity will headline the meet. Hines has done 9.1 in the 100, Glosson 9.2.

Texas, Texas Christian, Texas Tech, Houston, Rice, Texas A&M and Lamar Tech make up the university division of the meet.

Frogs Beat Strongest In Stretch Contests

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Texas Christian had the knack of arising to the occasion and that's why the Horned Frogs are Southwest Conference basketball champions and taking a three-day rest before priming for the NCAA playoffs.

Texas Christian won the title Saturday night with a 72-65 victory over Baylor while Texas was throwing away its chances of tying for the championship in a 74-73 defeat from Arkansas.

The Frogs did it with a three-game winning streak in the stretch during which they beat their strongest rivals — Texas, Texas A&M and Baylor, all of whom wound up tied for second.

That they arose to the occasion is best attested by the fact that each time they captured a crucial struggle; it was to win over the team that at the time was one game ahead of them. This applied to Baylor, Arkansas, Texas A&M and Texas.

NEW COACH WINS

It also was one of the few times in the conference's 54-year history that a freshman coach won the championship. Johnny Swaim was the man who won the title in his first year as head coach.

A couple of sophomores and a junior college transfer did the most to give TCU the edge down the stretch. They were Bill Swanson and Rick Wittenbraker and Tom Swift of Buena Park, Calif., the junior college transfer.

Swaim is going to the State schoolboy basketball tournament at Austin. He hopes to pick up some boys who could turn out like Mickey McCarty and James Cash, the heart of this year's team.

McCarty had to play with a pulled groin muscle against Texas and then he injured his knee in the game with Baylor Saturday. But the big fellow still wound up second in conference scoring with 464 points. Billy Arnold of Texas won the scoring championship with 477 points.

Arnold, McCarty, Gary Overbeck of Texas, Tommy Bowman of Baylor, Ronnie Peret of Texas A&M and Lynn Phillips of Southern Methodist made the All-Southwest Conference team.

Texas Christian wound up with a 9-5 record in the conference, the first team in the history of the league to win the championship despite five losses. TCU also had a 14-10 season record.

The NCAA tournament at Wichita will match champions of the Southwest, Big Eight and Missouri Valley conferences and the winner of a Saturday playoff at Salt Lake City involving Houston, Loyola of Chicago, New Mexico State and Weber State.

Steers 10th In Relays

Big Spring High School scored six points in the Canyon Reef Relays at Snyder Saturday, good for a tenth place finish.

Lubbock Dunbar won the team title, scoring 100 points to 93 for Odessa Permian and 77 for third place Abilene High.

Steve Russell of the Steers was sixth in the discus throw with a heave of 141-10. Joey Baker, Big Spring, placed sixth in the 120-yard high hurdles in the time of 15.7.

In the sprint relay, Big Spring's combination of Roy Lee Warren, Rick Ray Thomas, Gary Kelly and Snake Tucker picked up a fourth place with a 44.4 clocking.

In the 880-yard relay, Big Spring did not get a point but placed seventh in the time of 1:32.5, a tenth of a second off Midland's sixth place finish.

Kyle Rosene, Thomas, Kelly and Tucker were on the Big Spring team.

In the mile relay, Big Spring also placed seventh with a 3:28.3 clocking.

Big Spring was handicapped in that the two events in which Big Spring is the strongest, the intermediate hurdles and the open quarter, were not staged.

Coach Jack Tayrien has tentatively entered his team in the Tall City Relays this week but could carry them elsewhere.

Woman Hurt In Car Flip; 10 Mishaps

Two major accidents and eight minor ones were reported to police during the weekend. Mary Marquez, 700 NW 7th, was treated at Cowper Hospital and released. She was a passenger in a car driven by Richard Marquez that turned-over after leaving the south service road of IS 20 near the Western Seed Delinter Building at 1:21 a.m. Sunday.

Jack Lipscombe, 2404 Allendale, was treated at Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital and released according to hospital attendants. He was a passenger in an automobile driven by Elizabeth J. Lipscombe that collided with a parked car belonging to John M. Turner, 2714 Ann Drive at 7:44 p.m. Sunday.

Rufus Calvin Rogers, Garden City Route, and Charles Kimble, 604 Circle Drive, were in collision at Gregg and Edwards Blvd. At Third and Birdwell Lane, Ima J. Fuglaar, 1008 E. 12th, and Alvin Fenton Best, Coahoma, were involved in an accident. Walter C. Robinson, 407 W. 4th, and William L. Schumann, 1513½ Scurry, were in an accident at Third and State. Gwendolyn G. Faulkner, Luther, and Francis M. Mathews, 1507 W. 2nd, were in collision at Second and Austin.

In Highland Shopping Center, Robert F. Penner, 2610 Carol, collided with the parked car belonging to C. A. Tonn, 1712 E. 15th. At the Jet Drive-In Theatre, Ronnie Gene Nevers, Knott, and Jackie Tibbets, 2401 Scurry, were in collision. Mike Castillo, Route One, collided with a barricade at FM 700 and Goliad. Clayton G. Henderson, Big Lake, and Nora Sue Puga, 1205 W. 6th, were in collision at North Lancaster and US 87.

'Hot' Checkers Are Sentenced

, Carol Ann Scaggs, indicted for forging the name of O. T. Mitchell to a check for $120 which she cashed at the First National Bank, pleaded guilty in 118th District Court today.

Judge Ralph Caton accepted the recommendation of Wayne Burns, district attorney, and sentenced the woman to five years, probated. She was also ordered to repay the bank for the $120 and given six months to pay back the money.

W. C. Hendricks, charged with writing a worthless check pleaded guilty to the charge against him and was given a two year probated sentence. He allegedly gave George T. Thomas a check for $100 on the Coahoma State Bank. The check was returned marked insufficient funds.

Case of John Lewis Christmas, which was slated to go on trial, was continued when Christmas failed to show up. He is under indictment for burglary. The court ordered his bond forfeited and a warrant issued for his arrest.

The judge said that none of the other cases on the week's docket will be ready for trial and he dismissed a jury panel which had been called. He instructed the jurors they need not report again this week.

Officers Probe Three Burglaries

Three burglaries were reported to police Sunday.

Arvil James Henry, 1423 E. 6th, told officers a stereo tape recorder and 22 tapes valued at $200 were taken from his locked car which was parked in front of his residence.

Robert Russell McEwen, 809 W. 14th, reported the theft of a stereo and 10 tapes valued at $140 taken from his car, which was parked in the carport of his home.

Thieves pilfered two credit cards, a shaving kit, an electric razor and a jacket from Fred L. Alexander of Beaumont, who was staying at the Howard House Hotel.

City Building Permits Drop

Eighteen building permits for $40,588 were issued during February, a drop of over $60,000 in 18 permits from January, and down 15 permits from February a year ago.

There were seven permits issued for new additions in the amount of $10,163 and one for a new residence, $27,000.

Electrical permits issued totaled 33. There were 19 gas permits and six plumbing permits issued, for total combined fees of $238.80.

There were also six sewer taps totaling $255 and one water tap fee issued for $150.

LEGAL NOTICE

THE STATE OF TEXAS
To: ROY LEE WILLIAMS, Defendant (s), Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to appear by filing a written answer to the Plaintiff (s) Petition at or before ten o'clock a.m. of the first Monday after the expiration of forty-two days from the date of the issuance of this citation, same being Monday the 13th day of February, 1968, at or before ten o'clock a.m. before the Honorable District Court of Howard County, Texas, at the Court House of said County in Big Spring, Texas.

Said Plaintiff (s) Petition was filed in said court, on the 1st day of November, A.D. 1967, in this cause numbered 17,273 on the docket of said court, and styled, PAULINE MARIE BECK WILLIAMS, Plaintiff (s), vs. ROY LEE WILLIAMS, Defendant (s).

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to-wit: Plaintiff seeks a divorce from Defendant and restoration of her former name and Plaintiff further alleges legal marriage between Plaintiff and Defendant, six (6) months residence in Howard County, Texas, and twelve (12) months residence in the State of Texas. Grounds: cruel treatment. No children; no property; Plaintiff prays for divorce and restoration of former name, as is more fully shown by Plaintiff (s) Petition on file in this suit.

If this citation is not served within ninety days after the date of its issuance, it shall be returned unserved.

The officer executing this process shall promptly execute the same according to law, and make due return as the law directs.

Issued and given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Big Spring, Texas, this the 13th day of February A.D. 1968.

Attest:
M. FERN COX, Clerk,
District Court, Howard County, Tex

LBJ Asks $15.6 Billion For 'Health In America'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson proposed a $15.6 billion "Health in America" program to Congress today that would more than double federal outlays for birth control programs, boost efforts to slash infant deaths and provide new incentives for the training of more doctors.

NEW GOALS

In a special message, Johnson outlined "five major new goals" —to curb infant mortality, provide more health personnel, combat soaring medical costs, lower the accidental death rate, and seek volunteer efforts by doctors, hospitals and others to provide better health for all Americans.

The $15.6 billion price tag for the fiscal year beginning July 1 would boost the current annual outlay $8 billion.

Johnson asked Congress to increase funds for birth control activities to $61 million from $25 million. He said this would make family planning information and birth control devices or drugs available to an additional three million women "if they so desire."

He also announced plans to create a center for population studies and human reproduction, primarily to direct family planning research, and asked for an initial appropriation of $12 million to support it.

MATERNAL MONEY

The chief executive said infant mortality is "inexcusably high" although it has dropped from 25.2 deaths per 1,000 children under the age of one in 1963, to 22.1 last year.

Noting that the United States ranks only 15th in infant mortality, Johnson said the nation "should lead the world in saving its young."

He asked Congress to provide an additional $58 million next year for maternal and child health care programs. He said the goal should be to eliminate all problems in this area by 1973.

He also asked for another $215 million or a total of $1.4 billion, for child health services.

Proposing a new Health Manpower Act, Johnson said this measure would consolidate and continue programs now being carried out under laws that expire in June, 1969.

One major feature of the administration bill would give bigger subsidies to medical schools, increasing their enrollment, and provide federal grants to cover all costs of major changes—including the building of dormitories—needed to hike enrollments.

Growth Cities Confab Slates Shivers' Talk

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Former Texas Gov. Allan Shivers, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, is to give the keynote address today at a meeting of 200 representatives from growing cities in the nation.

Jenkin Lloyd Jones, publisher of the Tulsa Tribune and chairman of the Growth Cities Seminar, told an opening gathering Sunday night that "the bulldozer is not the entire answer to human uplift."

He told the representatives they had been invited to the seminar because a computer says their cities will be large.

"The computer says nothing about whether they will be good cities," he said. "It only forecasts bigness."

Jones said the problem was one of "permitting our communities to become big without becoming physically unlivable."

"Anonymity is a sort of death", Jones said. "If we cannot rebuild whole cities, we can do something about personalizing neighborhoods."

By afternoon, the representatives from 50 cities across the nation will begin tackling specific problems of modern urban living. A panel discussion will cover human resources development, solving local governmental problems, physical development of the city and livability.

Major speakers will be Robert Moses, consultant to New York's Metropolitan Transportation Authority; Donald Hummel, assistant secretary for renewal and housing assistance of the Department of Housing and Urban Development and Whitney M. Young Jr., executive director of the National Urban League.

Dope Drama Packs Punch

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "A Hatful of Rain," a play written more than 10 years ago, still packed a powerful punch in its Sunday night adaptation on ABC. The two-hour drama was primarily an exposure of the horrors of narcotic addiction, complete with graphic demonstrations of withdrawal symptoms.

The overriding theme diminished the impact and importance of the human relationships among all the disturbed, unhappy people concerned.

$40 A DAY

Michael Parks and Peter Falk, as brothers, had the two meaty parts. Parks, as Johnny, was the addict, originally hooked as a hospital patient, who needed $40 a day to support his habit. Falk, as his older brother Polo, protected him, gave him money and helped conceal his condition from his pregnant wife.

Sandy Dennis had the somewhat thankless part of the bewildered, young wife who rather incomprehensibly did not suspect anything was wrong with her husband. But because of her husband's inattention, she was powerfully attracted to the older brother. Then, if this were not complicated enough, there was Herschel Bernardi playing the boorish, selfish father of the two men.

There were many emotion-charged scenes, particularly between Falk and Bernardi, but the most chilling moments belonged to Parks as he writhed, sweated and shook in the agony of withdrawal.

At times the story moved into soap opera territory—the wife on the verge of a miscarriage, a long reluctant scene between the older brother and the girl when he spoke of his love for her.

NO REAL END

There was no real end of the play—the climax came when the man admitted to being a junkie. There was some vague suggestion that he would try, with medical help, to shake the habit, but that was all.

Earlier Sunday afternoon NBC's "Experiment in Television," had a romantic and poignant vignette, "Passport to Prague." The film, shot mostly in Czechoslovakia, told of an interlude in the life of a young American woman, happily married, who was in Prague briefly on business. Although she spoke no Czech, she became involved with a man there who spoke almost no English. Then, her business over, she returned to her husband.

The story was told without any translation in two languages. Altogether it was unusual, and was done with delicacy and subtlety.

REP. GEORGE BUSH

Congressman To Talk Here

Rep. George Bush, Houston Republican, will be the featured speaker at a $100 a couple dinner here March 16.

The dinner will be held at 8 p.m. at the Cosden Country Club, preceded by a 7 p.m. reception. R. L. Tollett is chairman of the event. Tickets are available at KBST.

Bush, a first term congressman, is a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, which draws up all tax legislation. He is the third freshman congressman to win a place on this committee in this century.

A former oil executive, Bush lived in Midland for many years, where he was one of the founders of the Zapata Petroleum Corporation. He is a former director of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

The Houston lawmaker, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Yale University, led the Republican ticket statewide in 1964 in an unsuccessful race for the U.S. Senate. He won his seat in the U.S. House of Representatives by a 15,000 vote margin in 1966.

C-City Players Stage 'Li'l Abner'

COLORADO CITY (SC)—The Colorado City Playhouse will present "Li'l Abner," in the Colorado High School Auditorium, March 8, 9, and 15-16 at 8 p.m. Don Richards, Loraine, and Mrs. Marilyn Hicks, Colorado City, will play the lead roles of Li'l Abner and Daisy Mae.

Curtis Baker and George Womack are directing the play, Mrs. James E. Payne is choreographer, the staging and special effects are by Porter Richardson, Mrs. Bob Northcutt is in charge of makeup, and costuming is by Mrs. Don Delaney.

Almost 80 are involved in the play, according to Tandy Curlee, playhouse president, including a pit orchestra of 16.

Texan Escapes From Fed Pen

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) —Gregoria Moreno, 50, of Waco has been identified by prison officials as one of three men who escaped from the federal prison here early Sunday.

He was serving a sentence of four years and nine months for possession of stolen mail.

Prison officials said the men escaped from an honor camp.

They said they may have been aided by a car from the outside.

TURNING YOURSELF ON

Many Points Of Worry Never Quite Turn Out

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Big Spring Herald is sponsoring a Dale Carnegie Course as a means of retraining and developing leaders in the community. This article is one in a series written by Warren Quinlan, director of the Dale Carnegie Training Programs in West Texas.)

Lloyd's of London has earned millions of dollars by "betting" people that the disasters they worry about will never happen. As an insurance company, Lloyd's doesn't call this betting, however. The label is insurance and the principle is based on the law of averages.

If you've ever built up an imaginary monster, and carried a Texas-sized load of worry when you shouldn't have, you'll be interested how a friend, named John, cashed in on some worry-insurance.

Three untimely events knocked John off stride into the beaten path of worry. His flight was grounded and he missed a scheduled meeting with a prospective client. Two pieces of luggage and papers were misrouted. Finally, his wife became ill and was hospitalized.

After John couldn't contact either his wife or his prospect, he became impatient and irritable. Fear thoughts flooded his mind, and he imagined the worst about his wife's illness, and the loss of a potential account.

John didn't start turning himself on until he glanced at the five word inscription on his watch. When he looked at the familiar words, "This too shall pass away," he was reminded that the law of averages works against 90 per cent worry - problems becoming a reality. As he settled down the phone rang in his motel room, and he was told that his luggage was located. Within an hour, his daughter called and assured him that his wife was doing well. At 10 the next morning, John met with and presented his program to a 'new' customer.

The beaten path is for only beaten men who aren't applying this important law of averages. Like John, we might do well to remember that our worries "too will pass away" and that everytime we think we're on the bottom of the world, the world turns upside down every 14 hours.

Dear Abby

Time To Act Is Now

DEAR ABBY: My husband passed away about four months ago and left me with two children, both in high school. His best friend (a bachelor) consoled me in my grief. I really don't know what I would have done without him. We lost our heads and now I am pregnant. I was told after my last child was born that I couldn't have any more, so I can't imagine how this happened.

Anyway, this friend says he loves me, but he doesn't think it would look good if we got married so soon after my husband's death. If I wait a full year, that will take me into next NOVEMBER, and the baby is due in SEPTEMBER, so what should I do! Please don't give me a moral lecture. I KNOW how wrong this whole thing was, but it's too late now. Help me!

WIDOW IN TROUBLE

DEAR WIDOW: If this friend intends to marry you, the sooner, the better. It won't look "good" no matter what you do, but the longer you wait, the worse it will look.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have a very dear friend who lives in a distant city. We've been close friends since our school days together.

Recently she wrote saying she would love to visit me. I would love to have her, but, Abby, I saw her briefly about four months ago and she had her five-year-old son along who was a holy terror. Either she cannot — or will not — control him. Worse yet, she won't let anyone else correct him.

If I tell her that she is welcome but to please leave her son at home, I'm afraid it would end our friendship. On the other hand, I just cannot see myself putting up with that child. What would be the best way to handle this!

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: I'm afraid you will have to put this friendship on ice until the five-year-old terror either outgrows his obnoxiousness or his mother can leave him home.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a respectable widow with many friends, married and single.

Being alone, I try to lead a busy, well - balanced life to break the monotony of being only with women, women, women.

Occasionally I have a lovely dinner party and invite my married friends. They always seem eager to accept and I am told I am a gracious hostess.

These people also entertain at evening parties which would be such a treat for me. But I am not invited. Instead I am invited to their afternoon luncheons with women only as a way of reciprocating.

Please print this. Perhaps these wives will recognize themselves and do something about it.
