Reds Place Nazi Summer Losses At Million Men

Noose Tightens On Kharkov And Other Areas Threatened

By JUDSON O'QUINN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sunday, Aug. 22. — The Germans have lost 1,000,000 men killed and wounded in the third summer of fighting in Russia, a special Soviet bulletin announced last night. This is a third of their estimated effectives along the 1,500-mile Russian front.

On the basis of previous Russian announcements this brought the losses of Germany and her Allies to 7,400,000 men killed, wounded and captured since Adolf Hitler first plunged to the east on June 22, 1941.

A special Soviet communique marking the second anniversary of the war last June 22 said that 6,400,000 German and satellite troops had been killed or made prisoner, turning Russia into a graveyard for German hopes of world empire.

Noose Tightens On Kharkov

Even as these staggering losses were announced, the Moscow radio said that more than 4,000 other Nazis lost their lives yesterday as the Red Army drew its noose tighter about vital Kharkov and hammered at stubborn German forces near Bryansk and Spas-Demensk.

The midnight communique supplement, recorded by the Soviet monitor from a Moscow broadcast, said that 1,000 Germans were killed as a Russian column fighting northwest of the city overran several more villages.

The embattled Germans threw fresh reserves into the battle raging west of Kharkov, and the Moscow bulletin said that Russian forces cut down 1,200 of them as they counterattacked strongly. Forty Nazi tanks were knocked out in this action, the Russians said.

Counterblow Repulsed

Nazi forces counterattacked near Bryansk in the central sector of the active front, the midnight communique said, but were repulsed with losses. An enemy strongpoint was captured in that sector by Russian cavalrymen, the Russians said.

The Germans also sought to stem Russian forces driving westward in the Spas-Demensk area, but lost 2,000 men as they launched a series of fierce attacks, the communique stated.

In announcing the heavy German summer casualties, the Russians said that the Nazis, whose offensive in the Kursk area petered out July 12 when the Soviet Army struck back, lost more than 300,000 officers and men killed up to last Friday. Figuring the wounded at the normal ratio of two and one-half times more than the dead, the communique estimated the Germans had suffered the million-man loss.

Seven Weeks' Losses

These casualty figures were the most impressive yet announced by Moscow for any comparable period in the Russian-German conflict. Moscow said they were inflicted in less than seven weeks during the grueling campaign that has resulted in Russian capture of Orel, Belgorod, Karachev and other strongholds leading to the now threatened prize bastions of Bryansk and Kharkov.

Navy Joins In Hunt For Woman's Slayer

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21 (AP) —Navy shore patrol units were assigned to work with city police on a 24-hour basis as the Navy took a hand today in the search for an unidentified man in a sailor's uniform who struck and killed a night club dancer he tried to "pick up" early yesterday.

The dancer, Nadezda Lawrence, 25, died almost immediately from a blow which broke her neck. The attack occurred in the midtown theatrical district just off Market street.

Two other young women, Helen Baird and Glorida Schrewsberg, said they had been accosted by the man a minute or two before. He wore the blue uniform of a Navy enlisted man, they said.

"The sailor told us he had just come off a ship," Miss Baird told police. "We ignored him. At Ellis street he crossed over and stopped this other woman.

"She said something to him. It looked like she was telling him to leave her alone. Then suddenly he swung on her, struck her once on the jaw, and ran. She fell to the ground and we ran over."

India Asks American Shipment Of Foods

CALCUTTA, Aug. 21—(AP)— In view of famine conditions prevailing in India's province of Bengal, the Calcutta municipal corporation decided today to cable President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, appealing for "the immediate shipment of cereals and other foodstuffs, including milk powder, from the Americas, Australia and Africa."

Three More Home-Town Boys Who Have Made Good Against Axis!

From Ends Of Earth, Lubbock Fighters Hold Reunion Here

Capt. Jack Brown Recounts Battles In European Area

After six months in a sturdy, highly maneuverable, P-38, fighter, during which he crossed the Mediterranean sea nearly 100 times and completed 50 missions of destruction against Axis military objectives in Italy and other southern Europe areas; Capt. Jack R. Brown, 2221 Twenty-seventh street, is home for a 30-day visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Brown.

Brown enlisted as a flying cadet here in 1941, trained at Williams field, Phoenix, Ariz., where he was graduated a 2nd lieutenant in the U. S. Army Air force. Sent to England last year, he waited there several months with his contingent for a supply of fighter planes, was promoted to 1st lieutenant, and sent to North Africa with a plane shortly after the invasion. It was in North Africa he was made a captain. His decorations include the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Flying Medal, and a nine oak leaf cluster. Each leaf represents five missions, each of not less than two and a half hours over enemy territory.

BROWN

Mission Over Rome

Capt. Jack, his friends here call him now, was clerking in Hemphill-Wells' store only a few months ago. A few days ago he was in his little fighter plane above Rome, in broad daylight, fending the force of big bombers his flight was assigned to protect while destruction rained down on the city of seven hills.

"I'd rather not talk much about that mission," he said. It was one of the last sorties Capt. Jack made during July. It also was the first time, he said, he brought home his ship with bullets holes. Until then he had returned to his North African base every time without a scratch on his plane, and uninjured. He was flight leader for his squadron, and always too busy to observe what the explosives were "turning up" several miles below. "We let the boys in the big bombers observe that," he said, "while we kept the enemy away."

High Praise For P-38

Brown loves his ship, he is optimistic over the prospects for victory, and he wants to stay in the Army air fories. "I'd rather fly a P-38 than do anything else I ever

Russia Replaces Maxim Litvinoff

LONDON, Sunday, Aug. 22 (AP) The Soviet government in a surprise move relieved its second important Allied ambassador of his post tonight by replacing Maxim Litvinoff, Russian ambassador to the United States, with Andrei A. Gromyko, now counselor of the Soviet embassy in Washington.

LITVINOFF

A curt communique broadcast by Moscow radio and recorded by the Soviet monitor gave no explanation for the move.

Litvinoff returned to Russia for consultation last May although the British-born Mrs. Litvinoff, the former Ivy Low, remained in Washington.

Only last month Ivan Maisky, ambassador to London was replaced after years in England.

Second Front Calls

Litvinoff's dismissal followed Russian press calls for the Allies to open "a second front" in western Europe and thus drain off the huge German forces battling in Russia. It came too, as President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill were holding their vital

Liquor Making For Brief Time Mapped

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)— The chemical division of the War Production board (WLB) was disclosed tonight to have laid before WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson a "whiskey recess" plan under which distillers could go back to liquor making for at least a brief time.

This was reported by an official who said it probably would be taken up with the War Food administration (WFA) to determine whether the nation's grain supplies are sufficient for a period of whiskey making, possibly this fall.

PRICE HIKE GRANTED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)— The Office of Price administration (OPA) granted today a price increase of $6 per 1,000 board feet on nearly all standard grades and items of southern hardwood board lumber.

Yep, It Sure Is A Small World

It was Sept. 27, 1941.

Jack R. Brown and Bill Kennedy, who had worked together in the men's department at Hemphill-Wells Co., had grinned and mumbled a casual, "See you around some place" and "Yeah, the world isn't so big nowadays." And Brown and Alva Barber ran across each other in the Federal building and shook hands. They were leaving by different trains for the west coast. War clouds were heavy.

They did not see each other again until Saturday, when they met in, of all places, Lubbock. In the Avalanche-Journal office.

The meeting brought them from the corners of the world, as accompanying stories show.

Kennedy Sees Two Years Of Tough Battle

Bill Kennedy, gunner's mate in Uncle Sam's Navy, is home for a visit with his mother, Mrs. J. W. Kennedy of 902 Avenue L, after 13 months in the Southwest Pacific, six months of which he spent in the naval operating base for the Guadalcanal scrap.

Kennedy left the States in July of last year, full of the youthful drama and romance every sailor carried aboard ship. In the jungles Bill later got malaria, dengue fever, and was blasted out of camp one night by Japanese bombs. "One had my name," Bill said, "but I am here because it was mis-spelled."

Time Of Marine Landings

That was when the Navy was landing Marines, ferrying them supplies, sounding harbors, combing beaches, and otherwise seeing to it the land forces didn't disappear into the jungle and stay there forever. He recounted how Leathernecks went ashore prepared for a three-day scrap and stayed from Aug. 7 until mid-October before they emerged after being relieved.

Bill wants to go back. He thinks he will. He has orders to report in Corpus Christi Sept. 12. His furlough is up on the 10th. "I liked the way of life in Lubbock, but I also wanted to have a part in the war," he said. "I'm glad I joined the Navy, and regardless of three trips to the hospital, first because of malaria, then from dengue, and last because of the shell shock and injury to my hearing, I'm still happy that I've had the experience."

Two More Tough Years

Bill thinks the boys in the Pacific have two more years of hard work and hard fighting, and he looks forward to re-joining his mates with all the pleasure, but minus the drama and romance he first had, to finish the job. He said every last one of the boys are optimistic and self-confident. "It isn't conceit," he said, "it's just that we are Americans, and we know we are fighting a bunch of savages. We know we will win,

Maritime Building Program Is Approved

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)— The combined chiefs of staff have given final approval to a United States merchant ship construction program calling for more than 20,000,000 deadweight tons of shipping in 1944.

Although no public announcement was made, informed officials said today the chiefs of staff put the seal of approval on the maritime commission's new program last week.

How much higher than 20,000,000 tons the 1944 program was set has not been disclosed. The program for this year was 18,890,000 tons, although indications are this will be exceeded considerably. Based on present average tonnages, next year's schedule would produce around 2,000 vessels.

As disclosed by the commission, the long-disputed 1944 schedule calls for delivery of 319 of the speedy, new-type "victory" cargo ships and about 200 of the superior fast merchantmen of the C-type. Most of the other vessels will be the familiar mass-built Liberty ships.

Child Dies Of Burns From Boiling Coffee

BEAUMONT, Aug. 21. (AP) — Ella Fay Ard, 9-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Ard of Fred, Tyler county, died in a hospital here today of burns received when a handle pulled off a coffee pot from which her mother was pouring the boiling liquid.

Mrs. Ard also was burned seriously but her condition was improved.

The accident occurred at the Ard home Wednesday night.

Alva Barber Says Jap Evacuation Of Kiska No Surprise

Without doubt, the Jap evacuation of Kiska was a surprise to everybody—but it perhaps was less a surprise to fellows like First Lt. Alva (Stump) Barber.

Lt. Barber, here a few days to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barber of 2006 Ninth street, is a Billy Mitchell pilot who approximately 50 times has bombed and strafed the "little yellow monkeys" and their installations on Kiska and who was accredited with the most sudacious and wildest raid ever organized and executed against that fortress isle.

BARBER

Thousands of Bombs

In those operational missions, sometimes flown within 25 feet of the ground and sometimes in the flak path at 4,000 to 5,000 feet, the B-25 pilots and their crews dumped thousands of tons of 100- to 1,000-pound bombs on revetment, camp, dispersal and harbor areas, and shot up trucks and planes, as well as surface units in the harbor. They pulverized radio installations, including radar, and they sent yellow men running with such urgency that, when they fell, "they'd skid."

They didn't let Kiska's defenders rest by day or by night. Sometimes the williwaw (that terrible vertical wind that sometimes attains a velocity of 100 miles an hour and capriciously is apt to reverse itself at any second) and the opaqueness of flight conditions would ground aircraft several days and give the Nips a chance to take out their carts and trucks and picks and shovels and repair runways pitted by the last raiders—but about the time they'd complete it along would come the B-25 boys again with strings of more bombs.

Mitchells Always Returned

The Japs would throw everything they had at the Mitchells—machinegun fire, 20 and 37 mm, and heavier stuff. They'd knock an engine out of the Mitchells, disrupt a hydraulic system, shoot off aileron or flaps, but the Mitchells would be back next day.

P-38 interceptor-fighters accompanying them would have so much fun with the Zero float-type ships sent up by the Nips on occasion that they would roll and zoom all over the skies. More frequently, the P-38 pilots would have to con-

Big Three Join In Ship Design

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP) — Disclosure that the government has adopted a merchant ship building program for 1944 well above this year's schedule was coupled today with formal announcement of a combined American-British-Canadian shipbuilding committee to standardize ship designs.

A Maritime commission spokesman confirmed that the combined chiefs of staff had approved a 1944 program "in excess of 20,000,000" deadweight, or carrying capacity, tonnage including 500 fast vessels, but he would not say how much more than 20,000,000 tons was being called for.

No Sudden End Of War

Another year's emphasis on mass ship construction, it was felt in some official quarters, evidenced that the chiefs of staff were by no means anticipating a sudden cessation of European hostilities.

The production planned for 1944 would be about twice as great as the entire U. S. merchant marine on Jan. 1, 1941. It will mean that 50,000,000 tons — or 5,000 ships—will have been built since the modest start of the ship expansion program in 1938. This mass of shipping is equal to the five largest fleets in the world in January, 1941 — those of Great Britain, U. S., Japan, Germany and Norway.

Airmen Smash 67 More Planes In Wewak Raid

Liberators Batter Jap Mining Center On Dutch Celebes

By WILLIAM F. BONI
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sunday, Aug. 22. — Thirty-three Japanese planes were shot out of the sky and 34 left in flames on the ground at Wewak, New Guinea, Saturday by American Mitchell bombers and Lightning fighters to increase enemy losses there since Tuesday to more than 300.

Attacking air reenforcements which the persistent Japanese moved into replace a fleet virtually wiped out earlier in the week, the Mitchells went after the grounded planes while the P-38s battled two-to-one numerical odds in the air.

Mining Center Lashed

Augmenting this new air blow, big Liberators flew a roundtrip of more than 2,000 miles to heavily hit enemy's nickel mining center at Pomelaa on the east shore of the Gulf of Bone, Dutch Celebes. Other American planes attacked enemy bases in the Solomons.

A loading plant, warehouses and mills were targets smashed and an enemy transport plane was shot down.

In the fourth raid within five days on Wewak, 350 miles up the New Guinea coast from the tottering Japanese air base garrison at Salamaua, it was impossible to determine how many of the 34 burning plaes were craft which had been hit before, but it appears the Japanese losses may total at least 306. In the first two raids 215 planes definitely were destroyed, in the third 24 planes, and in yesterday's attack at least 67.

New Bomber Targets

The Celebes raid marked a new target for the Australian-based bombers. In recent months, other attacks on Celebes have been directed at Kendari and Maccassar.

Today's communique also reported that Japanese planes raided Darwin, Australia, and American-seized Munda airfield in the central Solomons but caused no damage.

The Celebes raiders, although flying too far to have a fighter escort, made the Pomelaa raid in daylight.

The 27 tons were "discharged in a congested target area," the communique said.

A loading plant was set on fire. Warehouses and mills were damaged.

A freighter in the harbor was bombed. Small surface vessels were strafed and destroyed.

An enemy air transport was shot down.

Two Fighters Bagged

On the way back, the bombers were set upon by Japanese fighters, bagging two for certain and probably getting three others without loss.

The safe return of all the Liberators was all the more remarkable because they had to fly each way over enemy island bases.

The determination of the Japanese to reenforce their Wewak area airdromes, despite the disasters suffered there last Tuesday and Wednesday, was clearly in-

Bombers Foil Japs Burma Exploitation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)— The crippling effect of bombing attacks by the 10th United States Airforce has prevented Japanese exploitation of Bura or its use as an invasion base against India, Capt. Clark E. Johnson reported today.

Just back after 14 months with the 10th Airforce in India, Johnston, whose home is at Irving, Texas, said that North American B25 Mitchell bombers are used to attack trains, warehouses and other Japanese military targets from altitudes as low as five feet.

"Bombs are skipped into warehouses, under bridges, into trains and ammunition dumps," he said. "Flying so low makes it hard for the Japanese to detect you until you have roared into them, done your bombing and strafing, and gone."

Yanks Retake Kiska And No Japs Found

RING TIGHTENS AROUND JAPAN — Driven out of Kiska in the Aleutians by heavy naval and aerial bombardment, the Japanese Saturday found the ring of steel in the Pacific tightening closer about their homeland. Kiska's recovery by the Yanks places other Jap holdings open for attacks from the air and by sea. A recent 1200-mile air raid on Paramushuri, northermost Jap island in the Pacific, and the continual aerial pounding of Rabaul, Bougainville and New Georgia bases give rise to well-founded Jap fears that their main Pacific naval base at Truk is due for an all-out assault in the near future. Raids have also been made by Allid forces on the Gilbert and Marshall islands in the Pacific.

Admiral Says Recapture Of Kiska Changes Picture And Completes Road Into Japan

By ENGENE BURNS
Associated Press Staff Writer

ADAK, Aleutian Islands, Aug. 19. (Delayed)—"Our recapture of Kiska without opposition means that we have completed our northern road to Japan," Vice Admiral Thomas G. Kinkaid, commander of the North Pacific, said today.

He added: "Our completed chain of air and naval bases also will protect our surface vessels and our shipping units two-thirds of the way to Tokyo."

The Kiska battle, Admiral Kinkaid declared, was actually fought on Attu.

"By the recapture of Attu, we obtained the means of preventing supplies from reaching Kiska island and the means of bombing Kiska by the 11th Air force from bases to the westward, thereby insuring the fall of Kiska itself," he explained.

Disappointed At Escape

"That we couldn't kill more Japs," Admiral Kinkaid added, "was disappointing to everyone. However, had the Japs chosen to stay and fight from their entrenched strongholds and foxholes, our casualties would have been heavy."

Army estimates of potential casualties in taking Kiska by force ran to 7,000 wounded and killed.

Admiral Kinkaid said the bloodless victory of Kiska changed the whole Pacific picture.

"The northern route—the shortest route to Japan—is now cleared and from Attu we are only 630 miles from Paramushiro, Japan's northernmost naval air and Army base," he declared.

Admiral Kinkaid said the Japanese infestation of the Rat and near island bases last June served the United States well.

Served As Warning

"It made us aware of our danger and as a result we rushed to completion a chain of air and sea bases to defend our western approaches," he continued. "Now, when the time comes we will be ready to use them for a gigantic offensive which will break Japan's back."

The Kiska campaign, the admiral added, was not without drawing Japanese blood.

'A goodly number of the estimated 8,500 Kiska Japs were killed—how many is difficult to estimate—by the relentless pounding of the 11th Air force under the command of Maj. Gen. William O. Butler and by our heavy surface bombardments.

"We have sunk many of their ships and submarines in this Aleutian theater."

Many Jap Ships Sunk

An unofficial estimate has placed the number of ships sunk at over 20 and the number of submarines at over eight, and there were many "possible sinkings."

Admiral Kinkaid said it was believed United States surface craft sank some of the ships evacuating

Soong To Join Strategy Talks

QUEBEC, Aug. 21. (AP)—T. V. Soong, Chinese foreign minister, is expected to join the Quebec war conference within the next 48 hours for discussions with President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill on China's role in forthcoming offensive operations against Japan.

Word of Soong's expected arrival was the day's second development focusing attention on plans for powerful new smashes at the enemy in the Pacific. The first was the simultaneous disclosure here and in Washington and Ottawa that a combined American-Canadian force had occupied Kiska island, the enemy's last bastion in the north central Pacific, without resistance.

Bloodless Victory Hailed

Mr. Roosevelt and Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada in a joint statement acclaimed this bloodless reconquest of the Aleutian island as a victory which "frees the last vestige of North American territory of Japanese forces."

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said that Soong was expected. Early also said that Secretary of War Stimson, who recently returned from a tour of the North African theater, would get in tomorrow and that Maj. Gen. William J. Donovan, chief of the office of strategic services already is here.

Merciless Raids Drive Japs Out

Actions Hint New Policy In Pacific

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. — American and Canadian forces, their enemy fled without offering final battle, stood undisputed masters of Kiska tonight and the once ambitious Japanese invasion of North America lay a bombed and bombarded failure.

the Japanese preceded the landings, the Navy disclosed in lifting the silence that has cloaked North Pacific actions for three weeks. It explained this silence was prompted by a belief the Japanese radio equipment had been smashed and the Navy wished to supply Tokyo with no news.

14-Day Incessant Raids

In 14 days—August 1 to 14—heavy and light bombers, dive bombers, fighter planes, cannon carrying planes roared down on Kiska 106 times. They dumped tons and tons of bombs on the enemy positions, knocking out gun emplacements, tearing up the Japanese airfield, blowing up or setting afire buildings and supplies.

Naval surface units were equally busy. On 15 occasions they steamed in to the choppy waters off Kiska and sent their big shells shrieking onto the island. Once heavy naval units — certainly cruisers, possibly battleships — stood off shore and poured 2,300 shells onto the Japanese positions. They were unopposed.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada hailed the occupation in a joint statement at Quebec where Allied leaders are plotting new troubles for the Axis. They said:

By RELMAN MORIN

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 21—The air battle for southern Italy is going full tilt four days after the fall of Sicily.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder's flying Buzzsaw—which forced the surrender of Pantelleria and cut Sicily's communications to pieces even before the invasion—is ripping at long range into the vital connecting links between northern and southern Italy around Naples.

Close at hand round-the-clock patrols are maintaining a cannonade and bombardment of vulnerable points of the railway and highway network.

The waves of fire from the sky are being supplemented by naval forces which move with impunity along the Italian coast, pouring broadsides into targets which can be reached from the sea.

American warships shelled Gioia Tauro, 20 miles northeast of Messina, and set fires raging among fortified points and railway objectives yesterday in the latest of these naval attacks. Allied headquarters announced today. British sea forces sank seven landing craft off Scalea farther north in another close-range encounter the preceding night.

County Quota In Third War Loan Drive Is $4,618,900

A QUOTA of $4,618,900 has been set for Lubbock county in the Third War Loan drive Sept. 9-30, according to announcement Saturday by Neil H. Wright, county bond drive chairman.

Organization for the forthcoming drive now is being formed, according to the announcement.

The breakdown of quotas for the different bonds during the drive follows:

For individual purchasers:

Series E, $1,455,500. These are the bonds that most people buy, ranging in maturity denominations from $25 to $1,000. They can be redeemed 60 days after issue date. They pay 2.9 per cent interest annually.

Series F and G, $231,300. Series F bonds are issued in denominations ranging from $25 to $10,000. They are bought at 74 per cent of matuirty value, paying 2.53 per cent interest. Series G bonds are bought at face value and pay 2 1-2 per cent interest. Both mature in 12 years, but are redeemable after six months upon notice.

All other issues, $778,200. These include Treasury savings notes, treasury 2 1-2 per cent bonds of 1964-69, treasury 2 per cent bonds of 1951-53, and treasury certificates of indebtedness of Series E, 1944, paying seven-eighths of one per cent interest.

The quota for corporations is $2,153,900. This does not include banks. Corporations will be eligi-

Allies Advance On All World Fronts

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press War Analyst

This was another successful week for Allied arms on both sides of the world.

The conquest of Sicily was completed and Italy itself was subjected to intensive bombardment by air, sea and land, preliminary to occupation either by invasion or capitulation.

The Russian summer offensive rolled on, with the prospect of forcing a major German withdrawal on the southern front by battering down the final Nazi effort to halt it in the pivotal area of Kharkov.

The Allied air war on Germany and occupied western Europe reached its most intensive phase, designed to blast Germany out of the skies and out of the war under the might of the invading armies to follow.

Japs Are Driven Back

In the Pacific, Allied planes dealt Japanes air strength in New Guinea a crippling blow in devastating blows at the Wewak airdrome, following it up by driving the Japanese back from the heights for a final defense of Salamaua.

At Quebec, President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and their highest political and military advisers perfected plans for the final defeat of Germany, to be followed by or even be made simultaneous with the full British-American assault on Japan.

Developments of the week included:

On Sunday, British and American forces closed rapidly in on Messina from the north, west and south, the Americans advancing 14 miles on the north coast. Allied planes blasted at the retreating enemy, as well as communication and escape points on the mainland. Milan in northern Italy staggered under the third heavy air bombing in three nights. The Russians gained on both the Bryansk and Kharkov fronts, capturing many points, including Karachev in the Bryansk area. In the Solomons, Allied fliers shot down 48 Japanese planes in scattered air fighting.

End of Sicilian Campaign

On Monday, Allied artillery began shelling Messina in the final stage of the Sicilian campaign while the remnants of the enemy desperately tried to escape across the narrow strait to Italy. Allied bombers ranged again over northern Italy, where Milan was reported almost entirely in ruins. American and British planes concentrated with deadly effect on Nazi airfields in northern France. The Russians made further advances in the Bryansk area and stood off massive German counter-attacks around Kharkov. In the Solomons, the Americans took the island of Vella Lavella with almost no opposition, capturing 350 Japanese.

On Tuesday, Messina fell to the Allies and the conquest of Sicily was completed after 38 days. Allied artillery began blasting at the mainland from Messinia, while the Navy and Air Forces pounded at ports and airfields. Allied planes from Africa also struck at airfields near Marseille in southern France. American planes from Britain bombed Schweinfurt and Regensburg in southern Germany and the attacks on western Europe continued without a letup. The Russians repulsed another massed German counter-attack on Kharkov. In a raid on Wewak, New Guinea, Allied fliers destroyed or damaged 170 Japanese planes and killed 1,500 enemy airmen. President Roosevelt arrived in Quebec.

People Warned of Invasion

On Wednesday, Allied planes rained bombs widely over Germany in the most concentrated sustained attack of the war, in which the British lost 41 bombers and the Americans 36. Germany's secret experimental station on the Baltic was a target, as was Berlin. Radio Algiers warned the people of Europe to prepare for invasion. The Russians, having stopped German counter-attacks at their peak, began moving forward again around Kharkov. Southern Italy continued under heavy bombardment as the Allies mopped up in Sicily. Allied planes visited Wewak in New Guinea again to complete their work, leaving intact only 10 of the 225 planes originally there.

On Thursday, the spectacular assault on German airfields in northwestern Europe went on unabated. It was hailed in London as one of the most important developments of this stage of the war. Southern Italy was receiving a similar pounding by sea as well as by air, with American warships playing a prominent part. The Russians made notable advances towards Kharkov and continued their gains in the Bryansk area. It was announced in Quebec that the Allies intended to "bomb and ruthlessly destroy" the Axis powers.

On Friday and Saturday, American and British naval and air forces relentlessly pounded communications and other objectives in southern Italy, while naval forces occupied the islands of Lipari and Stromboli northeast of Sicily. The Russians rolled ahead and closed in on Kharkov, whose capture appeared in prospect. The air war on western Europe continued, although the heavy bombers were inactive Friday night. In the Pacific, the Japanese defending Salamaua, now without air support, were driven back to the inner defenses of the city and its airport. An enemy attempt to reinforce Wewak was broken up with the loss of 28 more planes.

News Stand Operator Faces Police Parlay

HOUSTON, Aug. 21. (U.P.)—Marvin Drake, 42-year-old operator of a news stand, faced a police parlay today.

Drake was charged with:

1. Booking a horse race bet—bond, $500.

2. Contributing to the delinquency of a minor because the bettor was only 16 years old—bond, $200.

Santa Fe Trains In Collision At Gallup

GALLUP, N. M., Aug. 21 (AP)—A Santa Fe railway passenger train crashed into the rear of a mail train in the yards here last night causing injuries which necessitated hospitalization of eleven persons and emergenay treatment for at least a score more.

W. E. Phelps, railroad special officer, reported most of the injured were in a dining car where the passengers and employes were sent spinning by the impact.

Attending physicians expected all of the injured to recover.

Officials said damage to the equipment consisted of derailment of the last coach on the mail train, which detached the car and continued its westbound run after an hour, and smashing in of the front of the passenger train locomotive.

Radio Reports Death Of Two Nazi Generals

LONDON, Aug. 21 (AP) — The Berlin radio in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press last night reported the deaths of two high-ranking German generals — Colonel-General Hans Jesschonnek, 44-year-old air force chief of staff, and Major-General Chamier-Glisezenski, described as the inventor of many war weapons.

General Jesschonnek died at the headquarters of Reichs-Marshal Hermann Goering following a "serious illness," the broadcast said.

General Chamier-Glisezenski was identified as the director of the Peenemunde research laboratory which was bombed by the RAF on Aug. 17.

Price Of Winter Wheat Mystery

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP) — Unless War Food Administrator Marvin Jones acts soon, farmers will have to decide how much land to seed to winter wheat without any assurance as to the price they may expect at harvest time next year.

Winter wheat, which makes up the bulk of the domestic bread grain crop, is planted in September and early October, harvested the following June and July.

WFA Drafting Plans

The War Food administration is drafting plans for a 1944 farm production program designed to provide a record output of food, including an expansion in wheat from 54,000,000 acres planted for harvest this year to 68,000,000 acres next year.

The program will carry a schedule of farm price supports or minimum price guarantees for the various commodities. Those price guarantees are designed to assure farmers a market for all they produce and a "fair" return.

Congress To Hear Plan

Aides of Jones have indicated, however, that the program will not be announced until after he has had an opportunity to lay it before Congress. The lawmakers are scheduled to return September 14 from a summer recess. It is quite possible that the program, which would require upwards of a billion dollars to finance, may not clear Congress until long after the winter-wheat planting season has passed.

Farmers are assured about 92 per cent of the parity price for this year's wheat crop. A government loan program has put a floor under the market at about 85 per cent of parity. Government benefit payments of about 8.2 cents a bushel bring the guaranteed return to 92 per cent of parity.

Congress has eliminated benefit payments for 1944.

Escaped Filipino Says Japs Made Slaves Of His People

BY CHARLES ARNOT
United Press Staff Writer

HONOLULU, Aug. 21—A Filipino who recently escaped from his occupied homeland said today that the Japanese have forced the Philippines population into slave labor at starvation wages after stealing all the food and money they could find.

"Everyone has to work, even the small children, to earn a few mouthfuls of their own food that was stolen," he said. "It is work or starve."

Withholds Real Name

The Filipino called himself Jose de la Cruz, withholding his correct name to prevent enemy retaliation on his family. One of the few who have managed to flee the islands since they were conquered, he and a party were picked up by an American vessel from the fishing boat in which they left Manila bay 32 days before. He hinted that the boat had been under Japanese command and then refused to say any more which suggested that the Filipinos aboard had disposed of the Japanese at sea.

De la Cruz, whose English is faltering but whose sincerity is obvious, said thousands of Filipinos are living for the day when American troops appear on the beaches to drive out the invader.

Expressing the hope that day was not far off, he said "we'll fight with you again as we did at Bataan and Corregidor."

"You who have never lived under Japanase rule don't know how thankful you should be," he added.

"My countrymen are working only because they have to eat but their hearts are not in the work since they know it's for the benefit of the hated Japs.

"Everytime the Jap bosses turn their backs, many of them quit. It is one way they have of helping the United States win the war."

Fights broke out in the first days of the occupation, he said, but later violence ceased.

"We were powerless to resist any longer," he said, "so we settled down to wait until help could come from America. We knew America wouldn't fail us."

He said the Japanese were running the schools with their own system and trying to run the churches to suit themselves.

Judges Not Implicated In Grand Jury Report

DALLAS, Aug. 21 (U.P.)—After rumors had circulated for the past three weeks that two district judges were arrested in a gambling raid July 31, the Dallas county grand jury had made its report on the case today, and it did not mention any judges.

The only persons named in the jury's indictment were Johnny Andrews and Jerry Rosenberg, who were charged with keeping a place where people gambled.

Thirty-five persons were arrested at the time of the raid, which took place in a downtown hotel. According to the rumors—never verified—the two judges allegedly involved paid $10 fines under assumed names.

Jeffers' Letter States Tire Stocks Dwindling

Copy of a letter from Rubber Director William M. Jeffers to gasoline and tire dealers, in which he discussed the tire outlook, has been received by Lubbock county war price and rationing board.

Jeffers said, 'Despite all statements and rumors to the contrary, the nation's stockpile of new and usable tires is dwindling rapidly and the lowest point in history is going to develop between now and the end of September.

"The very few experimental synthetic tires now being made and scheduled to be made during the next few months are just a drop in the bucket compared with the need. I see no immediate relief."

He referred to other phases of the rubber situation and stated the solution lies in conserving tires on cars. "This can be done by careful driving, by obeying speed limits, by exercising sensible tire care, and by recapping when necessary." He asked cooperation of dealers in encouraging recapping.

Sergeant Entitled To Wear Gunner's Wings

MISSION, Aug. 21. (AP)—Technical Sergeant Fred Missildine was awarded aerial gunner's wings when he won first place in an Army-Navy skeet shooting tournament last year.

Therefore he's the only enlisted man on Moore field wearing wings.

He was transferred to another squadron and his new commanding officer, being unfamiliar with the facts, asked sternly:

"Who in blazes gave you permission to wear wings?"

"General Arnold, sir," replied the sergeant.

Rationing Relaxed On Some Rubber Footwear

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP) — Rationing regulations on certain type of rubber boots and footwear were relaxed today by the Office of Price administration.

Under the new rules employers can obtain rubber footwear for their employes, and consumers desiring below-the-knee rubber boots are eligible for ration certificates needed to obtain them. Also, assorted types of rubber boots and shoes needed by farmers are released from rationing, provided the dealer involved files an inventory of such stock with his OPA office.

CONSTIPATION

We find that any part of the human body becoming inactive over a period of time becomes atrophied (wasted away). This is what becomes of the colon after a person has been constipated over a few years time. When this happens, laxatives must be employed continuously. The quickest solution to a problem of this kind is internal baths-colon therapy given by technicians qualified for this particular work. This treatment exercises the colon, and at the same time cleaning and removing any kinks that would interfere with its normal movement.

Danes Warned To Cease Nazi Fight

By JOHN COLBURN
Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 21.—The Danish government significantly asked Danes today to halt a wave of sabotage against the German overlords, warning that its continuation would have "a devastating result on Danish life" with the Nazis cutting off food and coal supplies.

"The government will do everything to create more stable conditions in Denmark," declared a proclamation signed by Premier Erik De Scavenius with the approval of King Christian X. It marked a modest diplomatic victory for the Danes.

Thus the government, apparently successfully resisting German demands that prosecution of saboteurs be given over to the Nazis, sought to stem the tide of open resistance to save Denmark from severe reprisals.

Menacing Events

"Lately there have occurred events of a very menacing character," the appeal said. "There have been increased sabotage and demonstrations. Attempts have been made to cripple railways and factories" with Germans and Danes killed. It added:

"If the people are going to continue these tactics, they will have a devastating result on Danish life. The import of food and fuel will be stopped, upsetting all production in Denmark.

"If the government shall succeed in saving Denmark from war, it is necessary for the people to work for the same purpose.

"In this critical situation for the Danish government, we are asking the Danish people to keep from being led into unlawful actions. Everyone has to be loyal to his own country."

The proclamation acknowledged that during the German occupation, now in its fourth years, "it has been inevitable that certain friction has arisen. Any occupation produces greater susceptibility to supposed offenses and causes increased irrigation among the people."

General Transport Strike

(A general strike of transport workers in Copenhagen was reported by the Swiss radio, which said reprisals were threatened unless the men returned to work.)

Today's appeal, similar to one by King Christian last spring, was viewed in Stockholm as a successful compromise won by the Danish government.

It was reported, however, that the Danish policy, while fitting moderation to the occupation tactics of German Minister Werner Best, failed to satisfy German military groups in Denmark, who insisted on drastic punishment of saboteurs under German law.

But Best is faced with the problem of accepting the Danish promise to halt the disturbances, or take over administration of the country with some type of military control which the Nazis are not equipped to handle at this time.

Extraordinary Session

Today's action came after an extraordinary session of Danish political parties, which considered as premature public demands for a change in the Scavenius government.

The appeal dove-tailed with reliable reports that the king and the government would make some move to satisfy the German demand while at the same time avoiding any step conflicting with the new mood of the Danes, who believe that now is the time to strike against the occupation powers.

Meanwhile pressure for a separate peace with Russia was reported increasing in Finland, with informal discussion of another cabinet shakeup.

Groups urging peace are said to favor Juho Paasikivi, 75, former minister to Moscow, to succeed Prime Minister Edwin Linkomies.

Schools Open Monday At Patton Springs

PATTON SPRINGS, Aug. 21—(Special) — Patton Springs schools will be opened Monday for the new scholastic term, with a complete faculty.

Schools were opened a week earlier this year so that more time may be given to cotton harvesting this fall.

One of the teacherages has been equipped for unmarried women teachers, and extensive repairs have been made to buildings, including the home economics cottage. All school buses have been repaired.

The faculty: J. W. Adams, superintendent; Roy Thurston, social sciences in high school and coach; Herbert Lindsey, band and high school mathematics, and grade school principal; Mrs. Thruston, English and speech; Edward White, vocational agriculture; Velma Dean Spear, homemaking; Adams, commercial; and in the grade school: Ruby Lee Slayden, music and girls physical education; Mrs. Robert Parker, language arts; Mrs. Sally Jackson, mathematics and science; Lois Gillentine, recreative arts; Mrs. Adams, fourth grade; Jack Powell, third grade; Mrs. Lindsey, second grade; Mrs. Varnell, first grade.

King Urges Denmark People To Be Calm

LONDON, Aug. 21 (AP) — The Danish radio broadcast a proclamation by King Christian X today urging the people of Denmark to maintain calm and order, Reuters reported.

The proclamation was said to have been issued after the state council received the support of the government and the coalition parties.

It was reported yesterday from Stockholm that Danish political leaders were to meet to decide whether they would openly resist Nazi attempts to take further control of the judicial system.

Bang's Disease Found In Some Cows Of Area

A small inkling of what dairymen will find in their search for Bang's disease infection comes from the first tests run this week on 18 small herds near Lubbock, according to Henry Elder, vocational agriculture teacher in Lubbock Senior and Junior high schools.

Of 60 milk cows in the 18 herds, five were found as positive reactors and three others suspicious. It was said that four of the five reactors were found in a herd of five of one owner in the district. While the percentage is not quite as large as was looked for, it was said the number of cows tested for the disease was so small the tests do not stand as a reliable indicator.

Dr. F. G. Harbaugh did the testing. The tests this week were the forerunner of others which it is hoped, Elder said, may extend throughout the Lubbock independent school district.

The campaign is necessarily a volunteer effort, since there is no state law requiring dairymen to protect the public from undulant fever, the disease which medical authorities say is as deadly and as difficult to cure as tuberculosis. The same authorities say that undulant fever is transmitted to humans who drink raw milk from cows infected with Bang's disease.

No check has been made here to learn the number of undulant fever cases in the county, but it is estimated the number might approximate 500.

Legislator Has New War Financing Plan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—A double-barreled war financing program based on "induced" savings and higher individual and corporate income taxes was advanced today by an influential lawmaker who estimated it would bring in about $40,000,000,000 a year.

He declared that if the plan were adopted, and at the same time economies were affected to cut government spending by $6,000,000,000 to $8,000,000,000 a year, "we ought to come pretty close to bringing into the treasury just about as much money as we are paying out for the war and for civilian government."

Although for personal reasons the legislator was not ready to permit the use of his name in connection with the proposal, he indicated he would bring it out into the open before Congress returns Sept. 14 from its summer recess.

No Answer Received To Groce's Letter

It is getting to be an old story with F. W. Groce to be asked what has happened in connection with a letter he addressed recently to Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower commission, and J. Watt Page, selective service director for Texas.

The answer, he said Saturday, is "nothing."

Groce, a member of Lubbock county draft board No. 1, took vigorous exception in his letter to McNutt's recent order directing that the drafting of "pre-Pearl harbor" fathers be started after Oct. 1. He offered his resignation as a draft board member if he is to be called upon to help carry out the McNutt order — and, he commented Saturday, "I haven't changed my mind."

But he still is waiting for answers to his letters.

Finland Wants Separate Peace

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 21 (U.P.)—A delegation representing a number of political groups called on President Risto Ryti of Finland yesterday and demanded that the government take definite steps to investigate the possibility of a separate peace with Russia, a Helsinki dispatch said today.

The demands were incorporated in a letter signed by 50 prominent Finns and delivered to Ryti by the delegation, the dispatch, published in the newspaper Dagens Nyheter, reported.

Change In Government

The letter also suggested that a separate peace could be facilitated by a change of government with J. K. Paasikivi succeeding Prof. Edwin Linkomies as premier. Paasikivi, a former premier, is president of the Finnish section of the international chamber of commerce and chairman of the Finnish export association.

The delivery of the letter to Ryti coincided with conferences among Finnish officials and military leaders on Finland's status in the war and renewed speculation that the government was seeking a formula that would permit peace.

Would Welcome Suggestions

Informed sources in Stockholm believed that Finland would welcome any peace initiative from the outside, including any suggestions directly from Moscow, but it was doubtful that she was prepared to make the move herself.

Finland also has made a special effort to improve its relations with the United States, including the formation of a Finnish-American society. The Swedish press published a report that Finland is contemplating an invitation to American newspapermen in Stockholm to visit Finland.

Fisherman Hero In Patrol Bomber Crash

CORPUS CHRISTI, Aug. 21 (U.P.)—Two men were killed, another was injured, and a fourth—a civilian fisherman—was a hero when a patrol bomber crashed into the Gulf of Mexico on Wednesday, Navy men said today.

Those killed were Second Lt F. Suggs, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Suggs, Hollywood, Cal., and Aviation Machinists' Mate (second class) John McCormick Lindsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Lindsley, Nashua, Iowa.

The hero was Harold Edginton, skipper of a fishing boat, who saw the bomber explode and burst into flames after it hit the water.

Disregarding the danger, Edginton took his boat through flaming oil that surrounded the wrecked plane and rescued Aviation Cadet Arthur G. Moore, who was injured but was clinging to the tail assembly of the plane.

Mrs. Keet Dunn Will Be In Ralls Schools

RALLS, Aug. 21 (Special)—Mrs. Keet Dunn of Post has been employed as director of elementary education for the Ralls school system.

She has had 21 years experience as a teacher, in such places as Post, Longview, Houston and San Angelo, and has attended Sam Houston State Teachers college, Texas State College for Women, Texas Technological college, Northwestern university, University of Southern California and Art institute.

Mrs. Dunn said Lt. Martin Mayer of South Plains Army Air field had consented to assist in instruction of military science-Army callisthenics for the physical education classes of the schools.

South Carolina, with less than 5,000, has fewer foreign-born residents than any other state in the Union.

— The CHIROPRACTOR—and You —

No. 13 of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of Chiropractic.

CASE HISTORY No. 827. A 13-year-old girl who had suffered with psoriasis for eight years. Face, ears, neck and almost every part of the body, was covered with scaly lesions. Hospitalization, serum injections external applications of many kinds had been tried, but the condition persisted. When she first visited a Chiropractor the child was a pitiable sight. The spine was X-rayed and a nerve blockage causing metabolic disfunction (chemical imbalance) was revealed. Adjustments were begun to release the nerves, and within a short time the lesions began to peel off and disappear. On her thirteenth birthday all trace of psoriasis had left the child's skin with the exception of a few spots above the knees, and these last traces disappeared within a few days.

CASE HISTORY No. 542. A young man barely 18 years old who had been advised that his condition of epilepsy was incurable. Epileptic fits had grown in frequency since he was nine years old, and all efforts had failed to restore normal health. He visited a Chiropractor as "a last chance," and on April 7th the first spinal adjustments were begun. He has not had a single epileptic seizure since and has improved remarkably in health and outlook.

CASE HISTORY No. 38. A nine-year-old boy with a lengthy record of sickness. At age three his tonsils and adenoids had been removed. When three and a half he had kidney trouble. At the age of six he was suffering from rheumatismal edema and rheumatic fever. At seven he developed chorea, or St. Vitus Dance, which continued for a year and forced his removal from school. His mother was persuaded to take the boy to a Chiropractor. A spinal analysis revealed severe nerve pressure, apparently the result of an instrument birth, and adjustments were commenced. After several adjustments the boy was able to return to school with an appreciable gain in weight, and has been well ever since.

WHAT IS CHIROPRACTIC? Chiropractic is based on the fact that the brain is the human power house. It creates vital energy. Without brain energy no organ or part of the body can function. Brain energy is transmitted over the body's network of nerves. These nerves radiate from the spine, and it is in the spine that the nerves can be "pinched" by vertebrae, and the flow of energy over them impeded or lut off. When, in this way, the connection is broken between brain and one or more parts of the body, disease is the inevitable result. By skillful analysis and precise spinal adjustments, the Chiropractor is able to locate and release impinged nerves, and restore an uninterrupted flow of brain energy to the part affected. Health follows naturally.

LAAF Graduate Back In U.S. After Distinguished Service With Air Forces In England

Home on leave after distinguishing himself in combat service abroad, Lt. Fred P. Sherman, graduate of Lubbock Army Air field and husband of a Lubbock county girl, is completing the honeymoon which was interrupted by his transfer overseas.

Lt. Sherman

Lt. Sherman arrived in Lubbock last Sunday and spent several days here before leaving with his wife, the former Miss Addie Jo Furgeson, for Chicago to visit his parents and spend a few days at the family cabin near Lake Michigan.

Information concerning his exploits as a pilot operating from "somewhere in England" preceded him home in the form of a news dispatch, giving relatives and friends information concerning experiences about which the pilot himself was reluctant to talk during his visit here.

Holder Of Decoration

Lt. Sherman is holder of the Air Medal and Distinguished Flying Cross for brilliant action overseas. A news account sent to Chicago by a correspondent in England reported that, "During his required number of missions, Sherman never lost a man nor had to turn the plane back."

Among narrow escapes was one in which he and his crew brought their Flying Fortress home with 300 bullet holes in her. "The cannon burst right over my head and five machine-gun bullets went through my cap," Lt. Sherman said following the mission.

Carved Wife's Initials

On the side of the plane, known as "Une Petite Peu" (The Little One), Sherman carved the initials of his wife. Initials of wives of six other married members of the crew also were placed on the ship, forming the word "Jeravad."

Lt. Sherman is "probaby the only pilot in this theater who usually flies with a crew of 11," the news account stated. "The 11th member is 'Mister', a dog who wears an oxygen mask and rides in the tailgun compartment.

"Mister" Had Parachute

"'Mister'", the account continued, " is famous. He has been on six missions over Norway, Bremen and the Ruhr." At the time the account was written, a parachute was being constructed for the dog.

"Mister" is owned by Staff Sgt. H. E. Rogers, former Hollywood stuntman.

During his visit here, Lt. Sherman just wanted "to be with the family"—not to talk about war experiences. He and his wife enjoyed gatherings and visits. They were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. McCarty, Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Hardwick, Mr. and Mrs. Royal Furgeson, Mr. and Mrs. W. M Jones, whose son was bombardier on the plane Sherman piloted, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Goodpasture, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Furgeson and family. Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Furgeson are the parents, Royal Furgeson is a brother, and Mrs. Goodpasture, a sister of Mrs. Sherman.

Lt. Sherman made the trip home by plane. While in England he spent a seven-day leave for rest time with his wife's sister, Mrs. Fred Vessey, and Mrs. Vessey's two sons. Several Texas boys who are friends of the Furgeson family have visited in the Vessey home.

Lt. Sherman received his commission as second lieutenant at Lubbock Army Air field July 3, 1942. He was married Aug. 2, 1942. He received his promotion to first lieutenant while overseas.

He is to receive orders in Chicago for further service.

LAAF Ladies' Club To Be LSO Hostess

The Ladies' club of Lubbock Army Air field is to supply hostesses, music and refreshments for the party for soldiers whose birthdays occur during August at Lubbock Soldier's center, 1211 Thirteenth street from 2 until 6 o'clock this afternoon, according to Miss Leona Gelin, supervisor.

Mrs. Ralph E. Holmes is president of the club. Hostesses are to be Mesdames Walter Clark, George W. Shackelford, James McIlyer, James M. Potter, Luther Helms, Clifford B. Turner, Peter H. Waid, Roland F. Orr, George C. Stout, Harper McFarlane and Andre B. Walker.

Mrs. J. C. Allensworth, chairman of the LSO birthday parties committee for federated clubs, said that a hostess organization is needed for the September party on the last Sunday of that month. Any group wishing to volunteer is requested to call Mrs. Allensworth.

The monthly party for negroes also is scheduled this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Booker T. Washington park. Their center, at 2101 East Avenue C, is being remodeled.

Miss Gelin announced that Texas Technological college tennis courts have been made available for an outdoor dance for service men next Saturday night. Hubettes will be partners.

Another announcement Saturday was that a group of Hub-ettes has been organized to sponsor weekly Saturday night parties for convalescents in the post hospital at South Plains Army Air field. Ambulances are to be used in transporting the girls to and from the field.

Divorce Is Sought; Hubby Snores, Snorts

CHICAGO, Aug. 21. (U.P.)—Mrs. Reggie Swiecz sought a divorce today on grounds her husband mixed snores with snorts.

Mrs. Swiecz told Judge Joseph Sabath that her husband set an alarm clock for 1 a. m. before retiring every night. When the alarm sounded, she said, he would reach under the pillow for a bottle and take a drink, set the alarm for 3 a. m., go back to sleep, awaken, take another drink, etc. She said it disturbed her sleep.

U. S. Government To Purchase Cuban Sugar

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—The United States has negotiated an agreement for the purchase of a minimum of 4,000,000 short tons of sugar from the 1944 Cuban crop at a price of $2.65 per 100 pounds, fob Cuban ports.

The agreement was announced jointly today by the State department, the Cuban ambassador to the United States and the Commodity Credit corporation (CCC).

The purchase agreement, which was negotiated by a Cuban commission and officials of the CCC, is subject to final approval of the Cuban government. Such approval was expected here as the Cuban ambassador joined in making the announcement.

Loses One Shoe But Feels She Is Lucky

BURBANK, Calif., Aug. 21. (AP) Elizabeth St. Marie, attractive 26-year-old defense worker, lost her shoe today, but she isn't worrying much. She figures she's pretty lucky, anyway.

She was on her way to work at an aircraft plant when she stepped onto the Southern Pacific tracks just as a freight train roared into the crossing. The cowcatcher caught one high heel and ripped off her slipper, depositing it under the wheels. But Miss St. Marie was unscathed, reported Policemen Warren Ryan and James Boyington.

Man Refuses Offer Of Release From Prison

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 21. (AP)—Frank Maher, serving an eight-year burglary sentence, refused to leave Missouri state prison today although his record as a model prisoner for five years brought a parole board recommendation for his release.

Maher told the board of penal commissioners he wanted to stand on his "constitutional rights" and remain in prison until a brother, Earl, serving a similar term for the same burglary, is eligible for release.

'Tricycle Kid' Back In Detention Home

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 21. (U.P.)—The eight-year-old "tricycle kid," this town's pint-sized crime wave, was back at the boys' detention home today, but he muttered "this joint will never hold me."

The small, freckle-faced lad, who has fashioned a record which for his age rivals that of a prohibition Era Gangster, was sent back to the home because his youth precludes federal attention.

District Attorney Thomas Morrisey of Denver sent him back with the advice that "all that boy needs is a good spanking."

But the junior public enemy warned wary officials that he already has escaped the home on one occasion. And on another, he recalled, he was discharged because he was "too tough' to handle.

His career of crime features such extra-legal enterprises as breaking into federal mailboxes, "casing" the town on a "hot tricycle, passing a stolen Navy allotment check and slashing with a knife the officer who finally apprehended him.

'Retreat' Of Japs Significant News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

QUEBEC, Aug. 21.—The Japanese retreat from Kiska, a stealthy, fog-shrouded flight from inevitable annihilation by American and Canadian troops, appeared a minor military incident in a war week bursting everywhere with bigger news except for its potential psychological significance, yet to be tested elsewhere in the Pacific on a larger scale.

SIMPSON

The outstanding fact about that enemy evacuation of his last tiny, impotent foothold in the Aleutians was that it was a retreat, the first Japanese retreat of this war. Nipponese forces have heretofore mostly died where they stood on Guadalcanal, in New Guinea, on Munda, on Attu, wherever the tightening coils of Allied counter offensives have gripped them. The Tokyo war lords left them to emulate the motto of Napoleon's old guard that it could die but never surrender or retreat.

Audacious Attempt Ends

This time, and on Tokyo orders, the Japanese fled through the fog and the Nipponese futile but audacious attempt to threaten the western hemisphere with invasion or air attack was at an end. That makes Kiska regained the symbol of the ebbing Axis tide in the Pacific as conquered Sicily symbolizes its backward flow in the Mediterranean, as Stalingrad marked the crest of German attack in Russia and tottering Kharkov its accelerating recession.

The core of war interest for the week, however, continued to be the war council of the Allied highest command. Not even the Russian offensive nor hints from London that a continental invasion by British-American forces was close at hand diverted either Allied or Axis attention from the meeting here of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill to put their seal upon new strategic directievs of global scope prepared by their military staffs.

What can be said to inform Allied publics of what has been planned and still retain the essential element of surprise when the contemplated new attacks are delivered in Europe, the Pacific or in eastern Asia, the two leaders will make known from here next week.

Williams Bros. Take Over Lamesa Reporter

LAMESA, Aug. 21. (Special)—The Lamesa Reporter, Dawson county's oldest newspaper, is now under new management—the Williams brothers, Virgil and Earl L., veteran newspapermen and printers. They have leased the plant from Sgt. Connally Baldwin and his wife, Midge.

Virgil Williams, the past ten years mechanical superintendent of the Wood Printing company in Lubbock, has 23 years experience in the weekly, daily and commercial field. He and his wife and daughter, Bettye, are moving to Lamesa Monday.

Earl L. Williams, the other member of the firm, has 33 years experience in the weekly and commercial field, is also a photographer and photo-engraver. He was formerly at Munday and Loraine and has been at Eastland the past 12 years. He and his wife and five children, Martha Jo, Earl Ann, Paula Dee, Burton and Ben Bob, moved to Lamesa Aug. 13.

Wholesalers May Buy Mixed Canned Fruit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (U.P.)—Wholesalers may buy fruit cocktail and mixed canned fruit from processors under agreements that prices will be readjusted when maximum prices are set for brine cherries and grapes, the Office of Price administration announced today.

This action was taken, the OPA said, to start the mixed fruits moving from crowded warehouses. The fruits have been pending price action, which are the OPA said will be taken soon.

MEETING DATES CHANGED

AUSTIN, Aug. 21. (AP)—C. C. Crutchfield, field representative of the League of Texas Municipalities, said today the dates for the league's conference in San Antonio had been changed from Oct. 13-15 to Oct. 20-22.

Promotions And New Assignments Given

Officer promotions and duty assignments were announced at South Plains Army Air Field Saturday afternoon.

Capt. D. D. Wall of San Angelo, chief of the obstetrics service in the post hospital at SPAAF, has returned to the field after attending the Aviation School of Medicine at Randolph Field in San Antonio, the past few weeks. He is now on duty at clinics for wives of the men in service, a service rendered by the government for dependents.

Capt. Bernard P. Williams of Denison, is now acting as sub depot supply officer. He succeeds Capt. Albert T. Lunsford of Dayton, Ohio. Capt. Lunsford has assumed new duties elsewhere.

Lt. Trent C. Root, of 2629 Twenty-second Street, is now attending the Intelligence school at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Lieut. Root is an instructor in the ground school at SPAAF.

Six flight officers at the field have been promoted to the rank of second lieutenants, it has been announced.

The six promotions included Lt. Darwood B. Billings of Northfield, Vermont, Lieut. Howard B. Neuman of Donny Brook, North Dakota, Lieut. George W. Pratt of Redlands, California, Lieut. Downing E. Webb of Wisconsin Rapids, Wisconsin, Lieut. Roland B. Minot of Merced Falls, California, and Lieut. Albright E. Ferrell of Pampa.

Goering Scores Men For Losing Spirit

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 21. (U.P.)—Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, commander-in-chief of the German air force, has informed his men that he is 'ashamed" of them because they no longer "love battles," it was revealed today.

Allied troops captured in Sicily an order signed by Goering and bearing a July date. He took his men to task, lamenting that their "aggressive spirit" was disappearing.

Labor-Industry Accord Urged

DALLAS, Aug. 21 (U.P.)—Neither labor nor industry has the right to profit at the expense of the other, according to Bishop A. Frank Smith of Houston.

Smith, a member of the eighth regional war labor board, told public panel members at the closing meeting of their conference yesterday that the enormous powers given the War Labor board would, if exercised in constructive and judicial manner, lay the groundwork for all future industrial relations in America.

Improper interpretations and applications would create resentment in both labor and industry, he said.

Emergency Measure

He described the WLB as a war emergency measure designed to curb inflation and to create a relationship between industry and labor that will enable the industrial front to deliver its full strength toward the winning of the war.

"And after this war labor and industry will be more dependent upon one another than ever before, with millions of servicemen returning to civilian pursuits," he said.

Bishop Smith was one of 11 speakers on the program to acquaint panel members from Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma with operations of the labor disputes act.

Shriners Plan Bond Rally And Picnic

Shriners of Lubbock and the South Plains will hold a bond rally and picnic at Mackenzie park here on the evening of Sept. 8. At the same time, the regular stated meeting of Khiva Temple will be held. It will be a basket picnic with guests bringing food for their parties. All shriners and master masons and their families are invited.

Members of the Divan of Khiva Temple, headed by T. W. Gilstrap, illustrious potentate, will be present. Several short talks and other entertainment features are being arranged by Fred Higby, general chairman of the rally.

Arrangements are being made to take applications and checks for war bonds. All bond sales will be counted in Lubbock county's quota in the third war loan drive, which will start the following day.

Final plans for the rally were made Friday at a meeting in the Hilton hotel, which was attended by Nobles John Denman, E. J. Parsons, Bob Chipley, Burl Hamm, Hugh J. McLellan, O. J. Sexton, Neil Wright, Rayford Hills, George Benson, Fred Ellison, Fred Higbe, Howard Hunt, Fred Galle and DeWitt Landis. Galle is recorder of Khiva Temple.

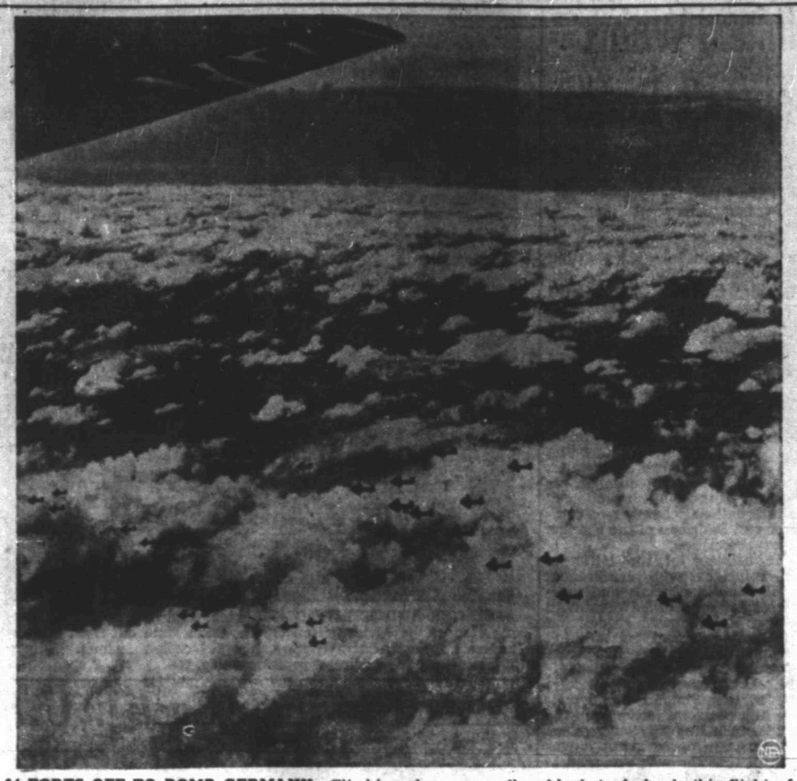

Roosevelt FFA Class Back From Mountains

Twenty-one Future Farmers and members of the class in agriculture of Roosevelt rural high school returned Friday, with their instructor and adviser, R. L. Stone, after five days spent in the tall pines of Lincoln National forest, near Ruidosa, N. M.

The trip was made by truck. Moonlight horseback rides, mountain climbing, bowling, skating, and camping around open fires, made up some of the recreation that was crowded into the brief excursion. The Roosevelt chapter boys have been making the trip annually. Stone said the boys this year particularly deserved the vacation, following a year of wartime production on farms where they all did men's work.

Stone said the trip was arranged so that the boys could return in time for school opening at Roosevelt, which will be on next Thursday, Aug. 26.

Gasoline Dealers At Slaton Meet Monday

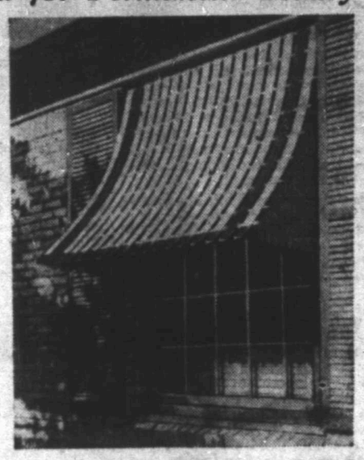

Wholesale and retail gasoline and oil dealers of the Slaton ration board jurisdiction have been asked to meet Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Slaton ration board office for an informational meeting concerning issuance of new B and C ration books, Briggs Robertson, ration board manager announced Saturday.

It is urgent that all dealers attend, Robertson said, since the old B and C books will be voided Aug. 31, and new books must be in the hands of users to obtain gasoline on and after Sept. 1, under a new ruling.

Civilian Motorists Face More Curbs

By BRACK CURRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

A forecast of more restrictions on civilian driving and a warning that a definite gasoline shortage threatens along the Gulf coast to-faced Texas motorists as the state prepared to produce more crude oil per day in September than ever before in its history.

From an emergency conference in Oklahoma City of representatives of 26 oil producing associations came the grim prediction that civilian gasoline consumption probably will be reduced again unless crude prices are increased to encourage new drilling.

Called by the independent petroleum association of America, the conference voted to ask Congress to override the Office of Price administration on the long debated crude price issue.

Resolution Adopted

The conference adopted a resolution attributing gasoline rationing to inadequate crude oil supplies and stating that the reported oil shortage "is the result of price policy now in effect."

Asserting that OPA consistently has rejected recommendations for higher crude prices, the resolution declared that soaring costs keep producers from drilling for new oil supplies at current prices.

As the Railroad commission ordered an increase of 93,000 barrels a day in Texas' September oil flow, an official of the Petroleum Administration for War asserted in Houston that "despite the huge concentration of oil fields, tank farms and refineries along the Texas-Louisiana Gulf coast, a definite gasoline shortage threatens."

More Products Made

This official, who declined to permit use of his name, said in an interview:

"While it is true that crude runs are greater now than formerly, so many other products are made from petroleum that the portion available for motorcar gasoline is less.

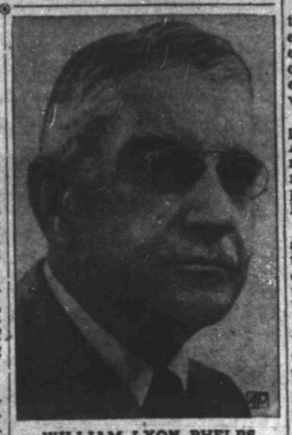

"Refineries are operating at full capacity and now have nothing but talk bottoms to draw from. Other factors diminishing the gasoline supply for motorcars in this area are improved transportation facilities. The submarine menace is not as great and the Big Inch oil line now is in operation. This makes more gasoline available in the East, but reduces the volume available in the Southwest."

Texas To Furnish Increase

The Railroad commission placed Texas' daily oil quota for next month at 1,940,000 barrels while PAW pinpointed Texas as the nation's sole oil producing area capable of greater production. The new allowable, said the commission, is the highest in the state's history.

Scheduling September oil production for the nation at 127,500 barrels a day above August, Deputy Petroleum Administrator Ralph K. Davies said that every state except Texas will produce at or above its maximum efficiency.

Even in Texas, he said, all areas except West Texas will flow at or near capacity rates.

WILLIAM LYON PHELPS

William Lyon Phelps, Author, Lecturer Dies

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 21. (AP)—Dr. William Lyon Phelps, 78, professor-emeritus of English at Yale unievrsity, author, lecturer and man of letters, died early today at his home after a long illness.

In ill health since June 21 when he suffered a stroke, Phelps had appeared to be on the road to recovery but early in the week suffered a relapse which yesterday caused physicians to despair of hope for his recovery.

Known as Yale's unofficial "ambassador-at-large" and recognized as perennial "most popular" member of the faculty, Phelps retired in 1933 at the age of 68.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2:30 p. m. in Yale's Battell hall, with the Rev. Sidney Lovett, university chaplain, officiating. Burial will be in Grove Street cemetery, close by several university buildings.

Youths Confused By Elders, Worry About Family Car, Morals

AUSTIN, Aug. 21 (U.P.)—American youth regards the family car as an essential mode of transportation, wonders about morals and is confused by elder persons, two University of Texas professors discovered in a nation-wide survey of what ticks in youthful heads.

The investigation was made by Dr. A. L. Chapman and H. Wilson Little of the staff of the university. Dr. Little now is assistant superintendent of El Paso schools.

Each of 3,707 boys and girls in 39 schools over the country were asked to list five out-of-school problems that worried them most.

Answers In 11 Groups

The investigatiors say the answers fell into 11 major groups but getting along with their fellows seemed to be their major concern. Several phases of family relations bother the young people. They worry about their own personalities. Other classified problems were finance, Part-time employment, future occupation, wise use of time, transportation, health, the dismal side of life and morals.

The survey indicated that national and international happenings affect the moral of youth as well as local happenings, the answers indicated to the professors.

On morals, an analysis of the survey reports: "young people sometimes wonder about morals. No doubt their elders confuse them. Youth reveals they generally know the correct thing to do, but they seem to lack a solid foundation upon which to predict behavior which is satisfying to them."

Cotton Interests To Meet Here Monday

Representatives of the varied cotton interests—oil mill processors, compress operators, buyers, growers, ginners, truckers—are to meet in Lubbock hotel at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon for a conference with Office of Defense Transportation representatives.

Purpose of the meeting is to discuss conservation of transportation, in view of the shortages of tires, repair parts, and other essentials entering into operation of trucks and other means of hauling.

The ODT insists the situation is critical and liable to become more so as the harvest season advances, and is asking a representative crowd.

Share-The-Steel Plan Urged For Civilians

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—The War Production board urged consumers today to continue voluntarily a share-the-steel campaign in the hope of making up a 4,000,000-ton shortage in the available supply for essential industries.

Under the plan, steel not needed by manufacturers is diverted to war-vital plants. WPB said the drive increased the essential steel supply by more than 1,000,000 tons for the third and fourth quarter of this year.

BOND CAMPAIGN SET

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(AP)— A campaign to sell $38,000,000 in war bonds to finance the reconditioning and maintenance of the former French liner Normandie has been started in the Bronx with the approval of the Treasury department, W. Randolph Burgess, New York war bond committee chairman, announced today.

Deadline Set On Prisoners' Mail

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21 (U.P.)—With the sailing date of the diplomatic exchange ship Gripsholm scheduled earlier, Red Cross chapters today sought to contact all who are eligible to send packages on the vessel, it was announced today.

Since sailing date now is expected about Sept. 1, parcels for Americans held by the Japanese now must reach New York by midnight August 27. Sept. 15 previously was the parcel deadline.

Next of kin of prisoners of war and civilian internees are eligible to send parcels if they have received labels from the office of the provost marshal general in Washington.

Prisoners of war relief cargo value at $1,565,000 will be loaded on the Gripsholm by the American Red Cross.

Fifty-five per cent of 1,400 tons of supplies are marked for the Philippine islands for the use of prisoners taken on Bataan and Corregidor, the Red Cross announced. The remainder will be taken to Java, Shanghai and Japan.

Supplies are for American military and civilian prisoners held by the enemy in all camps in the Far East. Preference in cargo will be given prisoners of war food and medical supplies. Forty-eight hundred units of dried blood plasma are included in the cargo.

Relief supplies are paid for by Army and Navy, American Red Cross, the federal government and from funds collected by several organizations of next of kin prisoners held in the Philippines.

Letter mail to prisoners in the Far East which is received at the New York postoffice prior to August 28 will be loaded on the Gripsholm if the Japanese agree to carry the mail from the exchange point to the Far East. "Mail via Gripsholm" should be written on the envelopes, the Red Cross said.

Athenaeum Yearbook Dedication Date To Be Set For Honor Roll

Date for dedication of the "Roll of Honor" sign listing names of Lubbock county men in service is to be set at a meeting of the South Plains Navy Mothers club this afternoon, it was announced Saturday.

The club is to meet at 3 o'clock in the Hilton hotel ballroom.

Appreciation was expressed Saturday by Mrs. A. C. Sanders, chairman of the sign committee, for help of business men and others in providing funds for completion of the sign.

Construction of wings to the original sign was necessary because of the large number of men from the county who are in the armed forces. Painting of names on the wings remains to be completed before the dedication.

The sign is located south of the courthouse.

Mrs. B. H. Miller Is Claimed By Death

Message has been received here of the death of Mrs. B. H. Miller, 70, former resident of Lubbock approximately 20 years and a pioneer of the plains.

Mrs. Miller died at 10 o'clock Friday morning in San Antonio, where she had been making her home with her youngest son, Eugene Wilson, and his wife. She had been ill only a short time.

The body is to be brought to Lubbock and burial will be in Lubbock cemetery beside the body of her husband, who was in the cotton business before his death about nine years ago. Funeral rites will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at a place not yet announced.

It was recalled here that Mrs. Miller and her first husband, J. E. Wilson, came to the plains from Parker county in 1892, driving 700 cattle. They established their home 18 miles east of Tulia and Wilson was in the ranching and cattle business until his death, after which his widow moved to Lubbock.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Eppie Hamblen of Yuma, Ariz.; three sons, Ernest Wilson of Lakeview, Calif., Edward Wilson of Happy and Eugene Wilson, and one sister, Mrs. J. P. McMahon of 2310 Nineteenth street.

Much-Traveled Local Flier Blasts 'Romantic East' Idea

By R. C. HANKINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

You can chunk all the storied effusions of the Arabian Nights into a barrel and scatter quicklime over them, so far as S/Sgt. A. C. Jones is concerned.

To him, the East "built up" by Marco Polo and Kipling and those others "stinks."

South America? Well—"what's the difference in getting dysentery every time you land in India, or malaria every time you set down in the Amazon delta?"

Mother Lives Here

Sgt. Jones, a son of Mrs. Joe Jones of 2101 Avenue L and a brother of First Lt. 'Chief' Jones, former Texas Tech grid star now with the Marines at Oceanside, Calif., and Cpl. Joe K. Jones, jr., who has been in New Guinea 18 months with an Air Corps fighter control squadron, has been around enough to have his own ideas about those fellows who wove romance of the East into literature.

"You get a whiff of some of their open sewers and their unwashed hides and you cross the fingers of the hand you are not using to hold your nose," he said.

Sgt. Jones is a radio operator with the air transport command.

Don't Use Radio Beam

"Mister, you don't fly a radio beam in that part of the world," Sgt. Jones said.

He's been places where ships had to take off diagonally on fields so as to have room for getting their tremendous loads into the air. He's been places where he'd rather have been somewhere else—such as the time when the pilot and co-pilot had to dive the big ship and pull it up in a teeth-and-spine-jarring climb so as to shake out the landing gear after the hydraulic system declined to function—then land her without brakes or flaps. To anyone who has faced that prospect on a strip cluttered already with other planes, the thought, at best, is frightening. You have a winged bullet on your hands, shooting along a narrow runway, ships to right and left of you, and only your rudders and engines to rely on for steering—and the end of the runway too short sometimes even with brakes.

Perilous Moment

It's even a more perilous moment than when you are yawing about in a monsoon, torrents of water blacking out visions of the nearest motor, updrafts, downdrafts and other drafts howling their dispute of which shall crack your ship's ribs.

All that, and more, has been the life of Sgt. Jones and those others in the air transport command.

Small wonder that air transport personnel, wondrously trained to surmount almost insuperable odds, nevertheless will be glad when this business of killing is over; or that, batting along from South American to the nearest African bulge, they can look forward to nothing but work over the African wastes to Cairo, thence across the Holy Land, the Trans Jordan, Iraq, Iran, sometimes Afghanistan and into India with their precious ship and freight of candies, ammunition, plasma, essential parts and whatnot.

Birdseye View Of Geography

"We get a birdseye view of what used to be hard in geography," Sgt. Jones said. "But I'm a home-loving guy; what the—does it matter to me if, for instance, the Arab kingdom of Iraq no longer is the Mesopotamia we used to study, or that it, as we have learned, resulted from joining three former Turkish vilayets (provinces) after the other war, or that Baghdad, its capital, has kept its name more than 4,000 years there on the Tigris and that the Euphrates flows only 25 miles from it? Or that Baghdad has covered bazaars and a few mosques in spite of the so-called westernization influences?

"It Still Stinks"

"It still stinks to me. I've got a job to do, and if some of that job is over the meeting place of land routes to southwest Asia or is peopled with Sunni Mohammedans, Shi'ah Mohammedans, Jews and a few Christians, I'll just do the job the best I can—but that don't make me like the country, see? The same goes for all those other places the graybeards wrote about. You can give me the U. S., It's good enough for me, even without all the smells of carpets, wool, gum, hides and dates."

Air travel—he's been to Scotland too—is not without its broadening influences, however. You can squat on a desert rock one day, in a lava-carpeted valley the next, by a stinking seaport the next and so on—and you can talk with American and British and Dutch and Free French about their slants on what ship for what purpose is showing up best in this man's war. Sgt. Jones is hep to the answers. After all, he's flown in B-17, A-20, B-24, B-25, B-26, A-30, DC-54, DC-47 and DC-49 models, and he's seen Lightnings and Spits and Warhawks and Beauforts and Thunderbolts and Aircobras and Macchis and Messerschmitts and a dozen or so other fighters—not to mention to stuff he's looked down on, like torpedo bombers, super-speed dive bombers, et al.

He will be here only through today or Monday. He must go out to California, then report back to his northeast U. S. base.

"'Base' is a misnomer," he said. "I've been there only four weeks in the last eight months. We get around."

Sicilians Given More Freedom

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 21. (AP)—The Allied military government announced today that important steps had been taken to free Sicilians from Fascist financial levies and to restore legal rights of which the islanders had been deprived for years.

'Amgot" public safety officers are maintaining law and order since the power of the notorious Ovra—the principal agency of the Fascist secret police — has been smashed.

In addition, the Allies have abolished star chamber proceedings which in the past sent thousands of anti-Fascist Italians to prison, and fair court trials have been restored.

Spofford Sets Up Plan

The machinery for freeing Sicilians from Fascist abuses has been set up largely by Lt. Col. Charles M. Spofford, 40-year-old chief of staff of the Allied military government and former New York attorney, and Brig. Gen. Julius C. Holmes, chief of the military government section of Allied headquarters.

After the Casablance conference, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower assigned them the task of drafting a carefully-planned government for occupied territory, and British officers added to the planning board made further contributions from their wide experience.

Longfellow Named To I Bomber Group

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 21. (AP)—Brig. Gen. Newton Longfellow has been named commanding general of the I bomber command with headquarters at Biggs Field, El Paso, Maj. Gen. Davenport Johnson, commanding general of the Second Air force, announced today.

General Longfellow succeeded Brig. Gen. Robert Travis, who has been given an unannounced assignment.

General Longfellow, a native of Illinois, recently returned from combat duty overseas. He is a command pilot and command observer and saw service during the first World war.

Personals

Charles L. Bomar, a pre-flight student at Texas A. and M. college, is spending a short leave with his mother, Mrs. Ruby J. Bomer, 1623 Eighteenth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Davis will leave Lubbock Wednesday to make their home in Henderson where Mr. Davis is to manage the recently purchased Dunlap department store.

Dr. Julien Paul Blitz, head of the department of music at Texas Technological college, has announced that Mrs. Cecile Meskimen has been appointed as teacher of piano on the applied music staff and that Mrs. C. E. Hereford is to be teacher of organ.

Hats To Be Smaller With Less Trimming

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP) — There will be 20 per cent more hats for women this fall than last, the War Production board said today, but they will be smaller and have less trimming.

As a result the use of materials by hatmakers this year is "substantially" below that of last year. WPB said public acceptance of "the smaller styled millinery has been good."

Boom In Sight For Post-War Aviation

By BUS HAM
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. — A letter to an airman overseas—

Dear Bill:

Just thought you would like to know that you fellows who have been manning the big Forts and the fighters won't have to worry about finding something to do when you come home.

You should be able to go right on in aviation, and that goes for mechanics, meteorologists and others as well as pilots.

Everybody, it seems, back here wants to have a hand in post-war commercial aviation. And you know how that'll pan out; the more the merrier, meaning that many more jobs for you boys.

283 New Routes Sought

Over at the Civil Aeronautics board (CAB) the other day, a few things came to light which you might like to know and pass along.

CAB now has on file 283 applications for new lines . . . get that, "new" routes . . . there are only 17 domestic lines in the country today, you know.

Helicopters will be all the rage. . . . Used on the short hops, 10 to 100 miles, so if you get a chance to fly one of those strange bugs, jump at it.

CAB hopes the change from a war-time aviation nation to peace-time commercial flying can begin almost the minute the last gun is fired.

Hearings on applications will begin in September and CAB believes some certificates of operation can be granted for new lines by the turn of the year.

Industry To Attend

The entire industry — CAB, Postoffice department, which helps pay the way through mail contracts, state aviation groups, domestic carriers, all applicants for certificates, manufacturers, trade associations, airport managers—will attend the hearings.

There are a lot of rough spots to be smoothed out, of course, between here and the inauguration of these post-war routes. . . . Traffic control, avoiding the duplication of lines, determining who is entitled to a certificate and who isn't.

The development that everybody is talking about over here is the "feeder" line, so keep it in mind.

It's the short helicopter hop for passengers or mail or express without to heavy a load, dropping in every 10 or 15 miles.

Frequency should sell this service to the public, like today's street cars and buses. Can't you see a "feeder" taking off every 15 minutes, carrying 10 persons to homes in the suburbs?

Some Of Probabilities

Just to show you how all parts of the country are planning, let's skip around a bit.

Take a couple of big cities like New York and Boston. Only one domestic line runs into Boston today, and it's from New York, but eight applications are on file for new lines. This wouldn't be a "feeder" run, but it gives you an idea of how enthusiastic everybody is.

Down in the southwest, a network of feeder lines would cover Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico on eight separate routes.

Applications aggregate 350,900 miles of airway routes, as compared with the country's 260,000 miles of railroads.

So you can see, Bill, things really are beginning to happen to make that job ready for you.

Former Callers To LSO Send Letters

BY MARY SMITH
Of The Woman's Staff

Even though he has seen a number of the seven wonders of the world, M/Sgt. George L. Baker who was with a troop carrier group here, writes back to the LSO that none of them suit him. Sgt. Baker who is now in North Africa says sections of that country are surprisingly like the states. At the time he wrote the letter he was listening to a good orchestra broadcasting from London, the radio being their chief morale builder.

Lt. Billy Stephenson, nephew of Miss Leona Gelin, hostess at the recreation center, who has visited here tells of his promotion to 1st Lt. and the winning of his third Oak Leaf Cluster. Lt. Stephenson is now in North Africa.

SAILOR IS VISITOR

Mingling with all the army men at LSO the other evening was one sailor, Neal B. Ball of Dallas who has been on overseas duty for the last 18 months and has just received his first leave. On his uniform he wore a star designating his participation in a Naval battle, in his case, the battle of Midway. The Navy finally let the Army win a point when he said the morale of the sailors hit a new low when they are on board ship for 6 of 7 weeks without being able to receive mail from home.

Two former hostesses of the LSO who are now on vacations wrote back to the center telling of harrowing experiences encountered on the Gulf coast at Galveston during the recent hurricane and the after effects of a 25 mile hike. Mrs. Mayme Wiley would welcome the peace of LSO again after weathering a Gulf gale and Mrs. Mary Strout, who is with her husband, Dr. Alan Strout, in the mountains of New Mexico writes, "With no background, I rented a horse and rode 22 miles. We will not discuss background further. But I'm going again tomorrow." Dr. Marshall Harvey, member of the LSO council, writes from Carlsbad, Texas, that he will be back in the fall.

"Typical of the hospitality of Texans is that shown by Mrs. V. C. Bessent, who has invited three soldiers having birthdays on the days August 18, 20, and 22, the days on which her brother and two sons in the service celebrate their birthdays, to be her guests at a dinner Sunday. She has a cake baked and a gift for each soldier. LSO chose three soldiers from their register to attend.

Pfc. Lowell Johnson of Daniel Field, Augusta, Ga., formerly stationed at Lubbock writes back that he misses Lubbock, the LSO and especially two very attractive girls he left behind.

Sgt. Dave Silverman, of New York City, who is home on furlought writes he misses the LSO. Sgt. Silverman is said to be center's "best customer and severest critic."

Houston Plans Appeal Of Court Decision

HOUSTON, Aug. 21. (U.P.)—Assistant City Attorney Lester Setegast announced today Houston would appeal a court decision that construction of a $100,000 parish house and administration building for Christ Episcopal church can be construed as a "civic enterprise."

The ruling was made yesterday by District Judge W. W. Moore.

If the motion for appeal is overruled, it will pave the way for executors of the estates of Lucy Latham Boyles and Lennie Groesbeck Latham to contribute $50,000 from the estate of each sister to the church.

Wills of the sisters stipulated the money should be used for a civic enterprise. The proposed action by the executors has been contested by the city on the grounds construction of a parish house does not meet the intention of the wills.

Medal Designed For Women's Army Corps

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—A Women's Army corps service medal has been authorized for all members of the Women's Army Auxiliary corps (WAAC) who remain in the organization when it becomes the WAC, the War department announced today.

The medals will not be manufactured until after the war, but the ribbon can be worn as soon as a member of the WAAC transfers to the WAC. The ribbon has a moss green center with bands of gold at each end, and will be available when the WAAC officially becomes the WAC Sept. 1.

More Cocoa Products For Civilians Seen

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—Civilians should now be getting a somewhat larger supply of chocolate candy and other cocoa products, officials of the War Food administration said today.

An improved shipping situation has made possible, they said, more shipping space for the importation of cocoa beans from South America.

EDITOR DIES

CLEARWATER, Fla., Aug. 21. (AP)—Abraham Merritt, 59, editor of the American Weekly, widely published Sunday magazine section, died today at Indian Rocks Beach.

Veterinarians To Help Draft Bill

DALLAS, Aug. 21. (AP)—Nine veterinarians will work with a Texas House committee to draft a bill controling slaughter of cattle in Texas.

Appointed at request of the committee holding hearings here to investigate sale of diseased meat and poultry, the veterinarians' group includes:

Dr. H. V. Cardona, chief milk inspector of Fort Worth; Dr. E. A. Grist, Fort Worth; Dr. R. T. Dickinson, Dr. W. G. Brock, and Dr. R. A. Seif, all of Dallas; Dr. Herbert Shull, Texarkana city meat and milk inspector; Dr. L. G. Cloud, Fort Worth, assistant state veterinaran; Dr. J. M. Farrell, Fort Worth meat inspector; and Dr. Dan Roberts, Wichita Falls, president of the Texas veterinarians' medical association.

Tentative Plans Set

Tentative plans were laid here late yesterday for the House committee and the veterinarians to draft separate regulations for joint consideration within the next few weeks.

Dr. Cardona declared before the committee, headed by Rep. Roger Q. Evans of Denison, that veterinarians are 100 per cent for any legislation controling sale of diseased meat or poultry.

He advocated a law copying a federal act covering slaughter and sale of meat, adding that the law must be strong enough to set up adequate control, giving inspectors backing and assure conviction of violators.

Other veterinarians and food officials testified at the committee hearing that sale of diseased meat and poultry is dangerous to health and that impure processing and marketing conditions exist in many Texas communities.

Church Dedication At Snyder Is Set Today

SNYDER, Aug. 21. (Special) — Ties of kinship and love for Baptists of this area will be renewed Sunday at Snyder's First Baptist church, where day-long dedication services will be held.

The First Baptist church has served Snyder and adjacent communities for 21 years, and Dr. W. T. Rouse of Denton, professor of Bible at Texas State College College for Women, and pastor when the Snyder church was built, will bring the principal sermon Sunday morning.

Rev. Vernon F. Shaw, Temple, a former pastor, will give Scripture reading Sunday morning, Rev. Roy Shahan, host pastor, states, and Rev. Ira Harrison of Seymour, another former pastor, will offer opening prayer of the services.

Mrs. H. L. Wren will give the church history, A. C. Alexander will report on payment of the church debt and burning of the note, and N. M. Harpole, veteran Snyder Baptist and civic leader, will bring the prayer of dedication.

Dedicatory services will be held on the first day of the church's summer revival, and Sunday afternoon special music and solo by M. H. Roe will be followed by a message from Rev. W. F. Ferguson of Slaton, another former pastor. Jeff Davis of Hallsville, will bring Sunday evening's sermon, and Rev. Lawrence Hays of San Angelo, another former pastor, will preach Monday morning at 10:00 o'clock.

Tighter Enforcement Of OPA Rules Planned

CHICAGO, Aug. 21. (AP)—Frank E. Marsh, assistant general manager of the Office of Price administration, said today there would be a "more vigorous" enforcement of OPA regulations under an augmented staff of investigators.

"It's very possible," Marsh said, "that we will get a man of the J. Edgar Hoover type to head the enforcement staff. The present legal type of enforcement will be abandoned in favor of a more business-like approach."

Hoover is the head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

PRISONERS ESCAPE

HOUSTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—Eleven city prison farm inmates knocked a hole in the wall of the building last night and escaped, George Mitchell, farm manager, reported today.

Seven were recaptured and four still are at large.

Progress Made By Wildcats Holds Top Interest Of Oil Men Of Area In Past Week

Progress being made by numerous important exploratory wildcat oil operations held most of the interest in the North Permian Basin area during the week.

Magnolia Petroleum company and Atlantic Refining company No. 1-45 Havemyer & Jenny, northwest Gaines county operation attempting to find production in the Clear Fork series of the lower Permian has taken three drillstem tests and shows of oil and gas have been reported from each of them.

First Test Earlier

The first test was taken the first of the week from 7,430-7,531 feet and 150 feet of heavily oil and gas cut mud was recovered during a 50-minute period on a ¾-inch choke. Another test from 7,528-7,625 had slightly less amounts of oil and gas in the 150 feet of mud recovered during one hour.

Last test reported undertaken was from a section bottomed at 7,721 feet.

The No. 1-459 Havemyer & Jenny is 1,980 feet from the north line and 660 feet from the west line of section 459, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey and one-half mile south of the No. 1 D. N. Leaverton completed by Shell Oil Co., Inc., early in the year to open the Russell field as a productive district from the Clear Fork lime. The Leaverton reported saturated sections at various levels between 7,480-7,772 feet and was completed for a 24-hour potential of 213 barrels of oil.

To Test Pay Horizon

Continental Oil company No. 1-A Dr. E. H. Jones, four miles south of the No. 1-459 "H. & J." and located 2,310 feet from the north and 1,650 feet from the east lines of section 22, block-A-7, psl survey, and scheduled to drill to a total depth of 11,000 feet, is due to test the Leaverton pay horizon in a few days. It is drilling in lime below 7,343 feet.

Amerada Petroleum corporation No. 6 R. W. Robertson, Ordovician test in the east part of the Seminole area, and 1,980 feet from the south and 1,990 feet from the east line of section 196, block G, WTRR survey is drilling below 9,242 feet.

Drilling Below 4,716

Humble Oil & Refining company No. 1 R. A. Cox, 1,980 feet from the north and east lines of section 14, block A-11, psl survey, a 9,000-foot wildcat to test the Ordovician in southwest Gaines county, is drilling below 4,716 feet in lime.

Stanolind Oil & Gas company No. 15 American Warehouse company, 1,650 feet from the south and east lines of section 5, block H, D&W survey, and due to drill to 12,000 feet, is shutdown for machinery repairs at 11,051 feet in unreported formation.

New Test Announced

A new test is to be drilled to the regular Seminole pay, on the southwest side of the area by C. U. Bay as No. 1 Humble-Emma J. Austin. Location is 662 feet from the east and 60 feet from the south linesh of the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 190, block G, WTRR survey.

In northeast Dawson county, Gulf Oil corporation No. 1 Mrs. Carrie Slaughter Dean, at the center of the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 30, block 1, Poitevent survey, T-6-N, and eleven miles northeast of Lamesa, is drilling below 6,433 feet. This operation is due to drill to 9,500 feet unless it finds oil production above that level.

Drilling In Lime

Darby Petroleum corporation No. 1 Mrs. Annie A. Harris, in southwest Dawson county, 440 feet from the south and west lines of labor 16, league 268, Moore county school land survey, and a scheduled 5,500-foot wildcat, is drilling in lime below 4,650 feet.

E. M. Wahlenmaier and George Callihan No. 1 Guy Price, 660 feet from the south and east lines of section 1,116, block D-15, TTRR survey, north Garza county wildcat test ticketed to 4,200 feet is drilling anhydrite below 2,070 feet.

Rhodes Brothers Drilling company No. 1 Belding, 660 feet from the north line and 1,980 feet from the east line of section 4, block 1, WCRR survey in southern Crosby county, is rigged up and waiting to locate a sufficient supply of water for drilling before starting drilling.

Down 7,425 In Shale

In southern Hale county, Amerada Petroleum corporation No. 1 W. W. Kurfee, 660 feet from the north and west lines of section 6, block N, H&OB survey, 12 miles southeast of Plainview, is drilling below 7,425 feet in shale. This operation is to drill to 10,000 feet to explore the Ordovician formation.

Stanolind Oil & Gas company No. 1 A. J. Jarrell, 1,965 feet west and 660 feet south of the northeast corner of section 19, block 8, Capital Land survey, Parmer county wildcat is drilling below 2,543 feet.

Sunray Oil company No. 1 Union Supply company, semi-wildcat operation in Cochran county and in the vicinity of the Slaughter field, 660 feet from the north and east lines of labor 10, league 59, Martin county school land survey, is drilling below 4,240 feet in lime.

Lime Bleeding Oil

Superior Oil company No. 21 Dean, on the northwest side of the Slaughter field and in Cochran county, 660 feet from the south and west lines of labor 22, league 60, Martin county school land survey, half mile north of the nearest production, cored from 4,882-87 feet and recovered five feet of lime bleeding oil; cored from 4,887-96 feet and recovered nine feet of lime with pinpoint porosity and bleeding oil. The operation has started another core to a total depth of 4,900 feet.

Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1-C Dean, 660 feet from the north and west lines of lot 36, league 92, Lipscomb county school land survey, west of production in the Dean sector on the northwest side of the Slaughter field, and in Cochran county, has drilled below 4,030 feet in lime and is going ahead making hole.

Producer Is Completed

Stanolind Oil & Gas company No. 5-A Dean, 660 feet from the south and west lines of labor 24, league 92, Lipscomb county school land survey, and on the outside of production one location at the far west end of the Slaughter field Cochran county sector has been completed as a producer with an official Railroad commission potential for 24 hours of 240.12 barrels of oil. Top pay was 4,972 feet and total depth was 5,048 feet. The pay section was acidized with 12,000 gallons.

Another outside producer for the Slaughter field has been completed by AAA Oil corporation and Andrew A. Bradford in their No. 2 Byrd, in league 53, Oldham county school land survey. It has potentialled for 162.44 barrels of 30 gravity oil for 24 hours from pay topped at 5,012 feet and drilled to 5,055 feet. The potential test was taken after an average acid treatment.

Other Completions Made

Other completions in the Slaughter field all on the outside edges of the area, include:

T. F. Marrow, No. 45-A Mallett, labor 8, league 48, Edwards county school land survey, treated 12,000 gallons acid. Potential for 24 hours, 862.68 barrels, top of pay 4,919 feet, total depth 4,970 feet.

T. F. Morrow, No. 37-A Mallett, labor 10, league 48 ECSL survey, treated 6,000 gallons acid. Potential for 24 hours 885.96 barrels, top of pay 4,890 feet, total depth 4,930 feet.

T. F. Morrow No. 32-A Mallett, labor 12, league 48, ECSL survey, treated 12,000 gallons acid. Potential for 24 hours 407.20 barrels, top of pay 4,925 feet, total depth 4,965 feet.

Flows 1,055.52 Barrels

Continental Oil company No. 15-58 Dean, league 58, Martin county school land survey, treated with 12,000 gallons acid; potential for 24 hours 1,055.52 barrels, top of pay 4,940 feet, total depth 4,970 feet.

Continental No. 3-91 Dean, league 91 Lipscomb county school land survey, treated with 10,000 gallons acid. Potential for 24 hours 140.32 barrels, top of pay 5,020 feet, total depth 5,064 feet.

Yoakum Test Completed

In the Wasson field of Yoakum county, Tidewater Associated Oil company No. 1 Waple-Platter, in the southeast quarter of section 615, block D, John H. Gibson survey, was completed for a 24 hour potential of 118.80 barrels after a 10,500 gallon acid treatment. Top of pay was 5,250 feet and total depth drilled was 5,317 feet.

Shell Oil company No. 1 Owen, 660 feet from the north and 1,980 feet from the east lines of section 502, block D, John H. Gibson survey, in Eastern Yoakum county and northeast of the Wasson field has set 4½ inch casing at 5,579 feet with 350 sacks of cement. As soon as the cement sets the hole will be drilled to 5,600 feet in search of a saturation.

Swabs 10 Barrels An Hour

Shell No. 2 Waples-Platter, in section 616, block D, John H. Gibson survey, also northeast of the Wasson area has swabbed an average of 10 barrels of oil per hour for 24 hours, cut 3 per cent basic sediment and acid water, and the fluid stands 4,300 feet from the top of the 5,303 foot hole. Each time the swab is pulled the well blows gas.

The Texas company No. 1 J. B. Miller, 660 feet out of the northwest corner of section 198, block D, John H. Gibson survey, a wildcat test in northeast Yoakum county, is drilling below 4,884 feet in lime.

In southeast Yoakum county, Hugh W. Stoddard No. 1 Kendrick, 330 feet from the south and east lines of section 748 John H. Gibson survey, wildcat scheduled to drill to 8,000 feet, is drilling below 3,324 feet in salt, shale and anhydrite.

Globe Oil & Refining company is still waiting on a rig for No. 1 W. L. Ellwood, 6,200-foot wildcat in southeast Hockley county, 580 feet from the north an east lines of labor 8, league 6, Wilbarger county school land survey.

Woodley Petroleum company No. 1 J. H. Howard, northeast Hockley county wildcat, 660 feet from the north and each lines of section 65, block A, R. M. Thompson, five miles south of Anton, has recovered a bad fishing job which came at 5,55 feet and the operation is now drilling ahead below 6,009 feet in hard dolomite.

Test Down In Hurry

Woodley No. 1 L. A. Harless, 660 feet from the north and west lines of section 21, block A, R. M. Thompson survey, and five miles south of the No. 1 Howard, in eastern Hockley county is still a location.

In northwest Terry county, Texas Pacific Coal & Oil company No. 1 J. D. McCullough, 5,600-foot wildcat test is going down in a hurry. It has drilled below 3,540 feet and is in salt and going on down.

Union Oil company No. 1 J. S. Biles, northwest Andrews county wildcat, four and three quarter miles northeast of the Fullerton field has opened a new area for production by flowing 240 barrels of clean oil natural from ten feet of saturation from 7,431-41 feet. The well has several other sections which showed for production and those will be tested as spon as the pipe can be perforated and an acid treatment pumped in.

Humble Oil & Refining company, No. 1 Crews & Mast, northeast Andrews county wildcat, near the south line of Gaines county, has resumed drilling below 8,564 feet after a lot of mechanical trouble.

Appeal Is Sounded For 3B Type Blood

SNYDER, Aug. 21. (Special)—With the life of her husband, T. J. McDonnell, at stake in a Roscoe hospital, Mrs. T. J. McDonnell, well known wife of the county rancher, this week issued an appeal to Scurry county people for blood donors of 3B type blood—found only in 10 out of every 100 persons. McDonnell has been critically ill the past two months.

Narcotics Taken In Drug Store Burglary

HOUSTON, Aug. 21. (U.P.)—A burglar who escaped from the Avalon Drug Co., store with an assortment of narcotics was sought by police today.

The loot included one ounce of codeine, two pints of elixir of morphine, eight ounces of tincture of opium and 4,000 hypodermic tablets.

Paper currency was used in China in the thirteenth century.

New Tax Proposal Boosts War Bonds

By JOHN L. CUTTER
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. — A new tax plan by one of the leading congressional tax experts—designed to increase federal revenue and build individual and business reserves against a post-war depression—was expected today to get early consideration by Congress.

The author, an influential member of one of the congressional tax committees, declined use of his name.

He estimated that his proposed revision of federal taxes would yield the treasury $40,000,000,000 a year compared with the anticipated $38,500,000,000 for this year. On that basis it still would fall far short of the $12,000,000,000 additional taxes, savings, or both, already being asked by the treasury for 1944.

Bond Purchase Plan

The proposal would replace the the present voluntary war bond purchases with an "inducted savings" plan tied up with slight revision of individual and corporate income tax rates.

The five major steps would be:

1. Substitute for war bonds a new type of non-negotiable, interest-bearing government bands, redeemable after the war.

2. Permit tax "credits" for purchase of such bonds, up to 15 per cent of taxable net income, to induce their purchase.

3. Increase from six to 'eight or even 10 per cent" the "normal" individual income tax rate. Leave the individual surtax rate unchanged.

4. Increase the corporate and surtax rate from 40 to 45 per cent.

5. Increase the excess profits tax rate from 90 to 95 per cent, but increase the post-war credit from 10 to 15 per cent. The 80 per cent unrecoverable would remain unchanged.

Post-War Reserves

The whole point of the program, its author said, is to permit both corporations and individuals to build adequate post-war reserves while financing a large share of the war costs on a current basis.

Purchase of the new type bonds, through payroll deductions or otherwise, would be unlimited. Tax "credits" would be allowed, however, only for 15 per cent of the individual's net taxable income—total income minus personal exemptions and such deductions.

Thus, an individual with a net taxable income of $1,000 would have to buy, during the taxable year, $150 worth of the bonds in order to qualify for the maximum tax credit. The credit would be allowed, however, only for the purpose of putting such a savings into additional bonds. The effect would be to create an even greater post-war financial reserve.

Percentage Credit

A person who invested less than 11 per cent of net taxable income in bonds would get only the corresponding percentage in credits. Those who purchased more than 13 per cent still would be limited to that maximum in figuring credits.

The accent on such bonds would be to get them into the hands of individuals instead of banks and investment houses. The bonds would bear the same interest rate as the present war bonds and would be redeemable over a period of years starting from six months to a year after the war.

Russian Envoy Due In Africa

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 20. (Delayed) (AP)—Allied spokesmen said today that a representative of the Russian government is now en route to Algiers from Moscow via London to contact the French committee of national liberation.

In authoritative quarters it was stated that if the envoy's arrival in Algiers has been delayed, as charged by the Russian labor magazine, "War and the Working Classes," it is the result of opposition outside the North African theater of war.

"War and the Working Classes" said that the Russian envoy was unable to go to Algiers because he "met objections from Anglo-American authorities for supposedly military reasons."

Discussions Were Held

Allied quarters here said that because Russia has not yet recognized the liberation committee, a six week's discussion of the envoy's status had taken place before arrangements for his visit were completed.

There has been no opposition here to the envoy's arrival on military or any other grounds, it was stated, and it was understood that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander-in-chief, had endorsed that position when notified of the proposed visit.

Two other Soviet government representatives have been in North Africa for some time in connection with the status of Russian political and military prisoners and other matters of interest to Moscow, but they never attempted to contact the French committee as official diplomatic envoys, it was stated.

Airline Applies For Tokyo Route

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—(U.P.)—Northwest airlines today applied to the Civil Aeronautics board for authority to fly commercially to Tokyo.

The first domestic air carrier to apply for a route to Japan, Northwest said, "the vital needs of commerce between the United States, Alaska and the Orient will require inauguration as soon as possible of commercial air transportation over routes proposed in this application."

The four routes applied for are from Anchorage, Alaska, to Manila, via Dutch Harbor, Kiska, Attu, Paramushiru, Kurile islands, Tokyo and Shanghai; from Anchorage to Calcutta, India, via the Aleutians, Takyo, Peiping and Chungking; from Seattle to Manila, via Anchorage, the Aleutians, Tokyo and Shanghai; from Seattle to Calcutta, via Anchorage and the Aleutians, Tokyo, Darien, Peiping and Chungking.

CAB Defers Applications

CAB's present policy is to defer applications for international routes until after the war.

Nu-Planes Flyaway service filed an application with the CAB asking for authority to fly planes from the factory to distributors and consumers.

The firm's application said it did not aspire to be an air carrier but only "to flyaway with its own pilots new or reconditioned planes from all points where they are produced to all destinations in the United States, Canada, Mexico or wherever delivered."

New Type of Service

The applicant said it knew of no other carrier now operating or applying for this type of service. Lester Lishon, Sr., president of Nu-Planes, is president of University Overland Express Inc., Somerville, Mass. He is also president of Nu-Car Carriers, Chester, Pa.

Daniel O. Thomas, who now operates a flying school, applied to the CAB to extend his operations into feeder air service from Farmington, N. M., to Albuquerque and to Salt Lake City.

Braniff Airways, Dallas, sought authority to extend its route from Chicago to Detroit, via Michigan City and Elkhart, Ind., and Adrian, Mich.

French Women Face Hardships In Camps

ALGIERS, Aug. 21 (AP)—French women deported to Germany have been forced to work in salt mines and are dying at the rate of 300 a month in some camps, the newspaper Echo D'Alger said today on the basis of information from persons arriving from France.

The newspaper said the women are made to work 14 hours a day.

It declared that death by a firing squad is the punishment for even minor infractions of the rules.

ASSETS INCREASE

AUSTIN, Aug. 21. (AP)—Assets of state chartered building and loan associations increased $3,744,885 to $52,484,555 in the year ended June 30, the state banking department announced today.

Test Seen For Anti-Strike Act

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—The possibility of a court test on the constitutionality of the Smith-Connally act was seen today on the attack on the labor disputes law by Montgomery Ward & company, Inc., rejected by the War Labor board.

The board, rejecting a company contention that the act went beyond what the constitution permits, ordered union security, voluntary dues check-off and arbitration of grievances at Montgomery Wards New York, Detroit and Denver retail stores.

Constitutionality of the law was attacked by the company on the ground that it delegated legislative powers to the board "without sufficient standards," was "indefinite and ambiguous," and impaired freedom of contract by establishing "compulsory arbitration."

Constitutionality Upheld

Wayne L. Morse, public member, wrote the board's opinion upholding the constitutionality of the act, asserting that an employer attitude of "take it or leave it" in bargaining with unions "is fast becoming passe."

The order affects about 800 workers represented by the United Mail Order, Warehouse and Retail Employes union (CIO).

Company counsel did not comment immediately on the order, but the legal questions raised were such as would enter into any effort to upset the act by court action.

Morse took account of the possibility of a legal test in his statement that the board "has accepted and will continue to accept the war labor disputes act as constitutional" unless the courts order otherwise.

BUILDING IS STARTED

WESLACO, Aug. 21—(AP)—Construction of a $50,000 warehouse for the Rio Grande valley citrus exchange has been started in Weslaco, exchange officials said. The building, 125 feet by 210, is one of the largest non-military structures to be approved in the valley in the past two years.

Dealers Cite Need For Repair Shop Personnel

DETROIT, Aug. 21. (AP)—The National Automobile Dealers' association asserts in its current monthly bulletin that "an immediate increase of 49 per cent in repair shop personnel is necessary if America's essential automobile transportation is to be kept in working condition."

The assertion was based upon report from 1,325 dealers in approximately 50 of the nation's leading cities. These reports showed that there were 12 mechanics per dealer January 1, 1942, 7 per dealer January 1, 1943, and 6 per dealer July 1, 1943.

Rookie Ray Hamrick Leads Phils To Win Over Cards

Nashville Import Is Versatile In 3 To 2 Triumph

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21. (AP)—Ray Hamrick, the Phillies' $25,000 rookie shortstop from Nashville, came through with his first and second major league hits today to lead Freddie Fitzsimmons' team to a 3-2 triumph over the world champion St. Louis Cardinals.

Also performing brilliantly defensively as the Phillies copped the rubber game of the Cards' five-game final appearance of the season in Shibe park, young Hamrick singled in the first inning and romped home when Buster Adams clouted one of Harry Brecheen's offerings for a home run against the left field stands.

Rowe Wins Again

This 2-0 lead held until the Cards tied the count in the sixth on Walker Cooper's homer into the left field pavilion in the wake of a double by Stan Musial, who collected three hits in four times at bat to boost his league-leading batting mark from .348 to .355.

Schoolboy Rowe was lifted into the win column for the 12th time, thereby winning another $100 bonus from the Phillies, when Hamrick singled sharply to left in the eighth inning to send Merrill May winging home with the deciding run.

LAAF Colored Nine's Ace In Hospital; May Play Today, Though

Hopes of Lubbock Army Air field's negro nine avenging their loss to Hobbs Army Air base, 13-11, recently were dimmed Friday, when heat exhaustion during an athletic test required for every soldier, put their ace pitcher, Pfc. "Big Slim" Hendrix, in the hospital.

But both the lanky right-hander and Major James B. French, the post surgeon, promise Hendrix will be back on his size 12 feet before 3 p. m., today, game time in Hubber park. If not, Lt. John E. Johns and his colored player-manager, Pvt. Bland Bedford, have chosen Pvt. Moses Richardson, last week's victor over SPAAF, to strt on the mound for LAAF. Pvt. Moses Moore, another good relief pitcher, could be brought in to the mound from his left-field berth.

The New Mexico air base's manager and ace speed ball hurler, "Shorty" Birchett, is expected to start the game for Hobbs with Jack Little, who was barely nosed out of victory over LAAF in a previous game at Hobbs, standing by.

Admission to today's game will be 25 cents for officers and civilians with enlisted men admitted free.

Stan Musial Retains His Lead In Batting

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (U.P.)—Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, retained the major league batting lead for the fifth straight week with a mark of .349 for 112 games, official averages showed today.

Luke Appling, veteran Chicago White Sox shortstop, stayed at the top of the American league with a .335 average over an 111-game period.

The club hitting and fielding leaders all remained the same, the Cards hitting a .278 to lead the senior circuit while Detroit paced the American league with a .262 clubbing mark. Cincinnati's .981 fielding average led the National league with the Yanks, Cleveland and Athletics still tied for the junior circuit defensive lead at .975.

Rip Sewell of the Pirates, with his balloon pitch, held the National league mound lead with an 18 and 4 record, while Spud Chandler continued to lead the American league with a 15 and three mark.

Longhorns Card Out-Of-State Tilt

AUSTIN, Aug. 21—(U.P.)— The University of Texas Longhorns arranged for their only out-of-state football trip today when Athletic Director D. X. Bible closed a contract with the Naval Air Technical Training center for a night game at Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 6.

This contract fills the cancelled Baylor date.

Lt. Dennis E. Myers, who was coach of the powerful Boston College Eagles when he went into naval service, will coach the Memphis team.

To Be Night Game

The Memphis Football Association, Inc. an organization of Memphis sponsor, will be co-sponsor of the game, which will be played at Crump stadium. It will be the only night game on Texas' schedule this year, and the Longhorns' first night game since the L. S. U. game in 1937.

Coach Bible greeted candidates for the team yesterday, and found 149 huskies—the largest number on opening day in Texas history.

Some Stars in Group

Sure, there were plenty of ROTC and V-12 men, fellows made available through the college training program in line with the war effort, but there were more than 50 youngsters who have no military connection and would be out for the Texas team anyway.

Forty-two of the boys had not played football before, but among the candidates were some of the brightest stars of last fall's schoolboy campaign—and Texas high school football always has been grade A.

Darkest part of the picture — only three lettermen were in the squad—Joe Maglioli and Ralph Park, backs, and Joe Parker, end.

Entries In Softball Meet Boosted To 10

HOUSTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—Entries in the men's division of the Texas Amateur Softball association championship tournaments here Sept. 3-4-5 were boosted to 10 teams today.

The girls tourney will be played concurrently with the mens.

Three more service teams joined the list: Ellington field station hospital, Camp Hulen of Palacios and Dodd field squadron 18-C of the Corpus Christi Naval Air station.

Houston Shipbuilders joined the civilian team list. Leingston shipbuilders of Orange and Hughes Tool of Houston were the first civilian entries.

Early service entries were Blackland Army Air field of Waco, McCloskey General hospital of Temple; Randolph field Ramblers of San Antonio and Camp Wolters Reception center of Mineral Wells.

The entry list will close August 30. Entries should be mailed to John F. Reilly, city hall, Houston. No entry fee is charged service teams. Men and girls civilian teams are charged an entry fee of $15.

Yanks Win 11th Straight Series

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21. (AP) — Circuit blows by Bill Dickey and Charlie Keller led the way today as the New York Yankees whipped Cleveland 8 to 3, to capture their eleventh straight series.

The Yanks, with Hank Borowy effective in all but one stanza, sandwiched a five-run sixth inning between those drives over league park's high but close right field fence to make it three in a row after dropping the first two games of the series.

Keller's drive came with bases empty in the second. Jeff Heath matched it in the fourth with Roy Cullenbine on base, and the Tribe scored another on Buddy Rosar's single, a walk, sacrifice, and Ray Mack's fly. It was Jeff's fourth round tripper of the series and his sixth of the year against the Yanks, though his 1943 total is only 13.

The decisive fireworks came in the sixth as Pitcher Jim Bagby was chased to cover. Dickey's triple, doubles by Joe Gordon and Keller, and singles by Nick Etten and Frank Crosetti and two walks did the business. With Ray Poat pitching in the next stanza and Nick Etten standing on first, Dickey made certain of the outcome by clubbing the 200th four-bagger of his long career, and his fourth of the season.

Razorback Grid Squad To Reach 50 Monday

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Aug. 21 (AP)—The University of Arkansas returns to the football practice grind Monday with the squad due to be increased to 50.

Thirty-six reported yesterday for the start of fall training among which was only one letterman, Ben Jones, jr., an end.

Also on hand were back Buddy Davis and tackle J. P. Carpenter of last fall's freshman team along with Jim Young, former Arkansas Tech tackle, and Lamar Dingler, former Murray, Okla., Aggies end.

The majority of candidates for the team either were not yet 18 years old or had been rejected for military service.

Novikoff Might Be Termed 'The Sad Russian' Nowadays

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—Baseball's [illegible]

Grey Clarke, slugging third baseman of the Milwaukee Brewers, may be the third consecutive Brewer to win the American association batting championship. He leads the circuit with .345. Ed Stanky, now with the Cubs, won it last season; Lou Novikoff in '41.

Incidentally, Novikoff — now spending most of his time on the Cubs' bench—may be called the "Sad Russian" instead of the "Mad Russian."

Cronin May Set Mark

Joe Cronin, Red Sox pilot, has pinch-hit five home runs already this season—just one short of the major league record of six pinch-homers established by John M. Frederick, with Brooklyn, in 1932 . . . Eddie Miller of the Reds threatens to break his own all-time major league record of .963 for shortstop fielding. Eddie, with only 10 errors, now has a mark of about .987.

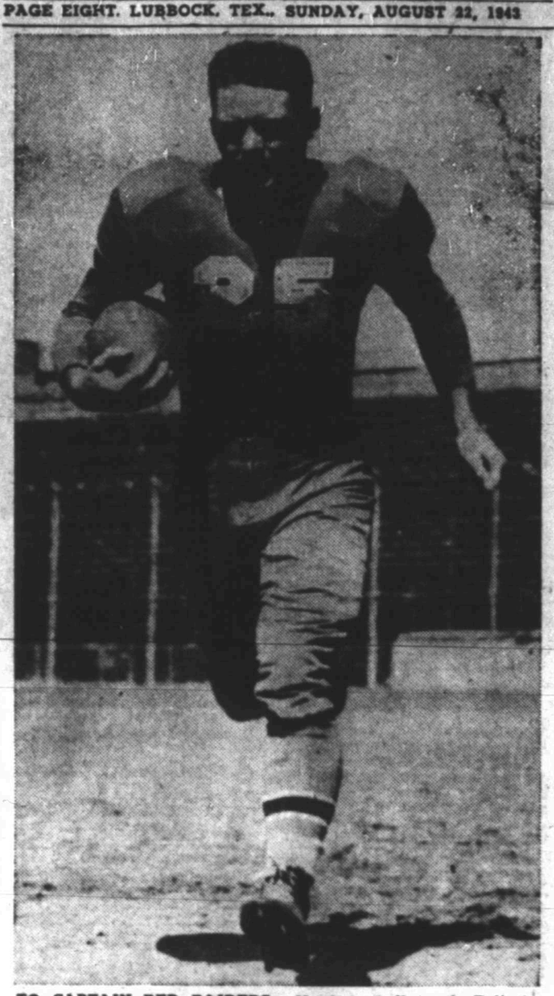

Rudy York, Tiger first baseman, has blasted out 11 homers this month. He needs only seven more before Sept. 1 to tie his own all-time one-month mark of 18, set in '37 . . . Rightfielders Stan Musial of the Cardinals and Dick Wakefield of the Tigers lead their respective leagues in several batting departments: Musial with a .348 and 159 hits, 31 doubles and 250 total bases; Wakefield, with .332 and 154 hits, 30 of them doubles, and 208 total bases. (Wakefield's .332 ties Luke Appling of the White Sox for the American circuit lead.)

Yeah, He's a Yankee

Charley Haag of Binghampton, N. Y., in the Eastern league, pitched a two-hitter to win a 14-inning game on Aug. 18, following a no-hitter against Albany on Aug. 14. He fanned 24 men in the two games. Yes—he's a Yankee farm hand.

Nick Etten, the Phillies' first-base "Christmas present" to the Yankees, is being hailed as the Yanks' best first-sacker since the hey dey of Gehrig, after that splurge in which he collected 14 consecutive extra-base hits. He broke the string on Aug. 18, contenting himself with a single against Cleveland.

Mel Jones, the Dodgers' popular secretary, has received his commission as a lieutenant (J. G.) in the Navy and will report soon to the aviation intelligence school at Quonset Point, R. I.

TO CAPTAIN RED RAIDERS — Head football coach Delicate Dell Morgan announced Saturday that James Ross Callahan would serve as captain of the 1943 Red Raiders. Callahan will be playing his last year for the Techans. Before he enrolled at Texas Tech three years ago, Callahan was a sensational left halfback for the Wink High school team that won district championships each year. Many football critics rank Callahan as the best triple-threat left halfback in major football. Callahan carried the ball 106 times last year and gained 348-yards. He threw 38-passes and completed 12 aerials for 189-yards, three of the passes being caught for touchdowns. Callahan will succeed Captain Will Allbright and Captain Kenneth Robbins of the 1942 Red Raiders. Allbright and Robbins are both in the armed service. Morgan said the future Red Raiders would have only one captain instead of two as in the past seasons. Callahan is working this summer in the oil fields near Hobbs, N. M.

Just Fifteen More Days And Red Raiders Start Practice For Toughest Grid Season

Just fifteen more days and the Texas Tech Red Raiders will don their scarlet and black uniforms and start practicing for the toughest football schedule in Texas Tech's gridiron history. The fall workouts will start Monday afternoon, September 6. Head Coach Delicate Dell Morgan and Assistant Coach Polk Robison will command the 1943 Red Raiders in their ten games.

Dell Morgan will leave Lubbock Tuesday morning for Wichita Falls where he will coach the high school All-West team for the annual Wichita Falls Oil Bowl game. The Oil Bowl game will be played Sept. 1st and Morgan will return immediately to Lubbock after the game to complete arrangements for the Raiders fall workouts.

Morgan said Saturday he did not know yet whether the Raiders would work once or twice a day. It probably will be a single workout per day in the first part of the training period.

Athletic Director Morley Jennings announced Saturday that the Red Raiders would definitely open their 1943 campaign on Sept. 18th against the Lubbock Army Air Field juggernaut. The opening game will start at 8:15 in the Texas Tech stadium.

Jennings said that reserved seats for the inaugural game will be sold for $1.10. Box seats are priced at $1.65. Soldiers and their wives will be admitted for 50 cents each. If soldiers desire reserved seats that will have to pay the regular admission of $1.10. Preflight boys and government engineering students at Texas Tech will be admitted to the game for 50 cents.

Following their inaugural game here September 18th, the Red Raiders will hit the road for three away-from-home games. They will take on the stout Oklahoma A. and M. Aggies Saturday night, September 24 at Taft field in Oklahoma. On October 2 the Techsans will journey to San Antonio to battle the Texas A. and M. Aggies of the Southwest conference. This game is expected to draw a crowd of more than 20,000 people. It will be played in the giant municipal stadium which seats 30,000 people.

Two years ago the Red Raiders battled Tulsa university and lost a 6 to 0 game in the El Paso Sun Bowl. On October 9 the Raiders will play their third straight road game by invading Tulsa for another whack against the powerful Hurricane eleven.

From these three road games, the Raiders will return and play their second home game on October 16 against the South Plains Army Air field. This will be a night game. After the South Plains game, the scarlet and black unit will battle the University of New Mexico here October 23. Tech defeated New Mexico last year at Albuquerque, 20 to 0. Following the New Mexico game the Raiders will play the following games in order: Rice at Houston, Texas Christian university at Fort Worth, Arizona university at Lubbock and Southern Methodist at Dallas.

Roundup Of Sports

Pinch-Hitting for Hugh Fullerton

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. (AP) — Lightweight Champ Bob Montgomery sent his manager, Frankie Thomas, up from Philly last night to tell Mike Jacobs that unless Beau Jack signs a return match agreement, there'll be no title bout between the two Sept. 10. . . . So the Beau is flying up from St. Petersburg this morning to make with the John Hancock. . . . Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke probably will make her tennis "comeback" in the nationals next month.

Oil Bowl Teams To Start Drills

Morgan And Curtis To Coach The West

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

WICHITA FALLS, Aug. 21—A collection of stellar football players from the 1942 high school interscholastic campaigns will renew the annual Oil Bowl classic in Wichita Falls' Coyote stadium September 1, under the direction of two Texas college coaches.

Homer Norton of Texas A. & M., assisted by Ted Jeffers of the Wichita Falls high school, will direct the North Texas squad. Dell Morgan of Texas Tech, with Eck Curtis of Breckenridge as assistant, will teach the West Texas squad.

Start Practice Wednesday

Coaching staffs will meet their charges in Wichita Falls August 25 for a week of intense practice before the game.

The two squads will gather some of the outstanding players in Texas, including a generous sprinkling of all-state men, and many all-district winners.

North Texas and District 2-AA are well represented in the selections made by Jefferies and Norton for the all star aggregation. Zohn Milam, Graham end, 187 pounds; Kenneth Eschman, Wichita Falls back, 175 pounds; Donald Orr, Graham end, 175 pounds; and Maxey Bell, Vernin back, 165 pounds, fought each other over the title in this district last year. In the Oil Bowl contest, they will join forces to stave off the invasion from West Texas.

All-Staters Included

The North squad includes some of the state's outstanding football players. The whole team is made up of boys who made all district teams and many who were advanced to all-state or mentioned for all-state honors.

The team gathers its talent from wide areas, all the way from Vernon and Wichita Falls to Uvalde and Conroe. From Uvalde comes Dardus Elrod, tailback, a one-man team, who was considered by many the best player in Texas. In spite of the fact he weighs 190 pounds, he ran the 100-yard dash in 9.9 seconds last year.

The Conroe representative is Harry Neville, mentioned for all-state last year.

The Westerners have a powerful and rugged squad for the classic. Among the best known in this vicinity is Big Jack Ray, the powerhouse, 200-pound back with the Breckenridge team last year. Ray exhibited plenty of smashing power and know-how during the season. From the same team Bugs Fambro promises to make the West a stellar end.

The full squad of the two aggregations are as follows:

WEST TEXAS SQUAD

Fall Release Slated For Shotgun Shells

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—A War Production board official said tonight the agency hoped to release shotgun shells for farmers and hunters some time this fall.

The ammunition, which farmers say they need to control rabbits and other field pests, will have to come from present stocks, he said, since none is being manufactured now.

A tentative plan for the distribution probably will be announced next week. No figures on the amount of ammunition available for individual states was obtainable tonight but indications were that state quotas will be fixed on a percentage of wholesale and retail sales during 1940 and 1941.

Flatbush Faithful Forgets Wounds As Youthful Players Sparkle Afield And At Bat

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. (AP) — When Branch Rickey started to turn the Brooklyn Dodgers inside out about a month ago the fanatic Flatbush fans were wounded to the quick. But their wounds have been quick to heal through the spectacular play of the youngsters who were brought in during the housecleaning.

The customers who carried signs ridiculing Rickey and threatening to boycott Ebbets field after Bobo Newsom, Joe Medwick, Dolph Camilli and other familiar stars had been shuttled off the scene now are turning out in bigger numbers than before.

Schultz Shows Up Well

The players who are responsible for this about-face are Luis Rodriguez Olmo, a Puerto Rican outfielder brought up from the Dodgers' Montreal farm club; Eugene Hermanski, another outfielder who came up from Durham in the Pieldmont league, and Howard Schultz, a first baseman purchased from St. Paul.

Although it was announced only a week ago, the deal for Schultz already was on the fire when the Dodgers traded Camilli. The rookie first sacker, who is 6 feet 6½ inches tall, made a double and a single and handled 15 fielding chances flawlessly when he joined the club last Monday.

Hermanski Is Slugger

Word of the great new first baseman the Dodgers had obtained spread like wildfire through Brooklyn that night and the next day more than 12,000 paying customers were in the stands. They still are talking about him.

Hermanski, 22, has become a regular and his slugging has been a feature of virtually every game in which he has played.

And Olmo simply is leading the National league in batting during his short stay. His average is .367.

Southern Loop Cuts Eligibility Bounds

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 21. (AP)—The Southern conference, seeking a boost tottering football over the war hurdle, voted today to suspend all of its eligibility rules so that the sixteen member schools can use any available athletes, including service men, in intercollegiate athletics.

The measure was attacked in brisk debate before it was approved by an 8 to 5 margin and immediately afterwards Coach D. S. McAlister of The Citadel shouted that the action, 'in effect, abolishes the Southern conference."

Athletic Director R. A. Getzer, University of North Carolina, argued that other major conferences already had taken similar steps and Athletic Director Eddie Cameron, Duke, asked 'why put a ring around the neck of members who play teams in the Southeastern and other conferences?"

State Tourney To Open On Monday

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The youngest field and one of the smallest will tee off Monday for the start of the 17th annual state golf championship at Brackenridge golf course here. Indications were that the field would include around 100 players. All are under 21 years of age, the limit, and only a handful are 18 or older, service calls from Uncle Sam having taken away most of the older players.

Both James McNair of Brownsville, who would have been defending champion, and Stanley Callahan of San Antonio, the 1941 titlist, are in the service, leaving the 1943 event a wide-open affair. Qualifying rounds starts Monday to be followed by match play the following four days.

Entries Outstanding

Outstanding entries include Claude Wild Jr., the 20-year-old former Austin City champion and captain of the University of Texas golf team last spring; Charlie Tims of Arlington, 15, medalist in the Denton, Midland and Glen Garden (Fort Worth) invitation tournaments; Herbert Reid, Lockhart southpaw; Nat Johnson, Houston's present junior champion, and Roy Moore, 1942 Houston junior winner; Dick Lehms of Midland; Robert Lowe and Porter Vaughn of Fort Worth, and Carl Gustafson, jr., Austin's 1942 municipal golf champion.

Jack Kibbe of Fort Worth, who beat Tims in the junior tourney finals at Fort Worth, is listed as a possibly entry here.

As was the case last year, all prizes will be in war bonds and stamps.

Princequillo 'Shuts Out' Faded Shut Out

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. (AP) — A colt off the bargain counter brought his stretch-running zip to the transplanted Saratoga-at-Belmont race meeting today and all but chased the badly-faded Shut Out right out of the park.

Princequillo is the gee-gee, and after letting Mrs. Payne Whitney's once-mighty derby winner lead for a mile of the mile and a quarter, he won the 41st Saratoga handicap by six lengths, as Shut Out wobbled in last in a field of three, before a crowd of 29,706, who bet $2,073,563.

Hubbers To Play At Lamesa Again Today

Lubbock's Black Hubbers will return to Lamesa today to meet a Lamesa nine at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Last Sunday the Hubbers were victorious 8 to 1.

"Pluto" Hood is due to start on the mound for the Hubbers, with Artis Brown catching, according to Manager James Roy Lewis.

The Hubbers have won six games this season and lost only one, that to Lubbock Army Air field negro nine.

Two All-Star Major League Teams May Play Overseas

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—Two all-star major league baseball teams may be sent to the Mediterranean theater of war after the World series to play for service men, it was learned today.

A detailed proposal for such an expedition, sanctioned by major league executives, was sent to the War department some time ago. One of the executives, who refused use of his name, said: "I understand the proposal is receiving favorable consideration in Washington."

Rickey Submits Proposal

Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis in Chicago, said: "I have no comment to make at this time."

It was learned that Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, submitted the proposal to Washington. Today Rickey said only "I have no official information on it. That's all."

Bill Stern, NBC sports announcer, reported in a broadcast that Rickey had received a favorable response. He added that Army officials in Washington had cabled Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean theater, and had received the following reply:

League Officials Boil

"I not only want those teams, but I insist that they stay over here for 30 days."

Major league officials, though declining to have their names used, boiled with indignation over the "leak." They feared the premature disclosure of negotiations might prevent their completion.

The proposal suggested that teams representing the National and American leagues be flown by Army transport to the Mediterranean area as soon as possible after the World series.

Babe May Be Invited

Outstanding players of both circuits—including some participants in the series—will make up the squads. The procedure of picking the all-stars has not been decided upon yet. But the men selected will be asked to volunteer for the trip as a patriotic duty. Managers of the teams competing in the World series — probably Billy Southworth of the Cardinals and Joe McCarthy of the Yankees —are expected to head the squads.

Babe Ruth, retired all-time home run king, may be invited to accompany the teams.

Glider Field Boasts Brand Of Material Coaches Dream About

As the football season approaches at South Plains Army Air field, Capt. Nathan B. Eubank, athletic officer, has some 300 former high school, college and university stars who would give any college coach in the nation something to shout about.

Of course, all of the prospects can't be used. But the handful that will be available have backgrounds which promise to uphold Capt. Eubank's forecast that the Commandos will field a strong grid team this season.

All-Americans and athletes who won honorable mention and regional honors are quite common at SPAAF.

McCloud Is Cage Ace

For instance, there is Cpl. Leason "Pete" McCloud, basketball ace, who starred on the hardwood for Colorado in 1139-40 and 1941. He set a new scoring record in Madison Square garden. He is new helping in the athletic program at SPAAF.

Another former star who won All-American honorable mention on the grid is Capt. Paul H. Snow, all-conference football star at the University of Utah for two years. He also won letters in basketball and track.

Texas Well Represented

Texas is represented by both football and baseball standouts.

First Sgt. Charles E. "Tex" Lawrence of Dawson is a three-year letterman, winning his football spurs at Howard Payne and Hillsboro Junior college in 1935 through 1940, playing the last year at Brownwood. He was captain of his football and baseball teams and is now a star at third base for the SPAAF baseball team.

Also upholding Texas' colors at SPAAF is Lieut. Huber E. Allen of Comoton, Cal., who played football at the University of Texas, and who made all-southern California Junior college quarterback while playing for Santa Monica Junior college in California.

Lieut. Persons, a three letter man of Hugo, Okla., is another Southwest athlete, who set himself an enviable record in college. He played football, basketball and was on the track team at Oklahoma City university. He was captain of the basketball team.

Ex-Big Timers At Field

Capt. Rowland Mosher of Vernon, N. Y., was a high school sensation on the court, later becoming a pro star for three years with the Alemadians, upstate New York team.

Ohio State contributed two outstanding stars in the so-called less exciting sports. Major David L. Schurger of Cleveland, is a former Ohio State star, winning his awards in wrestling and track. Capt. John W. Kline of Zanesville, Ohio, was a basketball and golf standout for the Buckeyes.

Voelz Ex-Northwestern Star

From the big time comes a big time performer in Staff Sgt. William Frank Voelz, Jr., of Milwaukee, who starred at Northwestern in 1941-42, as a running mate to the famed Bill DeCorrevont.

Staff Sgt. Donald Fletcher Jackson of Nayberth, Pa., won three track awards and three football letters and captained his team while getting his education at the University of North Carolina from 1931 through 1935. After his college play he joined the pro Philadelphia [illegible].

Staff Sgt. Harold H. Menzel of Stevens Point, Wis., also played in the big time. Staff Sgt. Menzel was co-captain of the football team at Wisconsin during the 1941 campaign, also a standout in basketball.

FIDDLER'S BIT WINS

DETROIT, Aug. 21. (AP)—A 13-1 field horse, Mrs. F. H. Augustus' Fiddler's Bit, ran off with the $10,000 Gen. Eisenhower handicap before 13,427 fans at the state fairgrounds today and paid $33.40 straight.

Troubles Of Paper Trade Diagnosed

QUEBEC, Aug. 21. (AP) — Five American congressmen completing inspection of newsprint mills of Quebec province, turned today to the dominion's capital at Ottawa for a solution to the manpower shortage that threatens sharper curtailment of paper supplies.

From visits to paper-producing areas the Americans, members of a House subcommittee appointed to investigate newsprint, learned that the only obstacle to meeting paper requirements of American newspapers is lack of wood at mills.

Paper mill executives said the other necessities of paper making were ready — plants, machines, power, chemicals. But wood piles were low, so low that the supply of newsprint—already curtailed—is in doubt for the final quarter of the year.

Wood Cutters Needed

Much of their findings in Canada have paralleled facts brought out at informal conferences with American Paper and Pulp Manufacturing and Publishing company representatives that more men were needed to cut pulpwood for the paper process, that paper restrictions were hampering the free flow of information to the American public required for an efficient war effort.

From discussions with supervisors of "timber limits"—the tracts of forest land leased for pulpwood cutting—the congressmen obtained several specific recommendations.

Lumbermen suggested pulpwood cutting should be declared essential since it is a necessary part of prodoction of pulpwood for eventual war purposes and the manufacture of newsprint paper for equally essential consumption. U. S. pulpwood cutters now are classed with other essential workers.

20,000 Men Needed

Also to be laid before Ottawa defective service and war agency officials Monday was a suggestion that skilled woodsmen now in other jobs be returned to the timberlands.

Twenty thousand men are needed. As a further step toward fulfilling that goal, the industry has offered to use prisoners of war and interned aliens. It feels that with 20,000 additional men, the paper shortage plaguing American publishers, forcing readers to go without papers and denying advertising space, would be eliminated.

After inspecting mills in this area and in Gatineau valley the committee will meet in Ottawa Monday with American and Canadian officials to discuss the paper question, which must be answered quickly in order that season's cutting may start on time within six weeks.

Woodward Will Upheld By Court

HOUSTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—Wills of Emerson F. Woodward and Mrs. Bessie A. Woodward, leaving $10,000,000 to a grandson, Robert, 15, were admitted to probate today by Judge Roy Hofheinz.

Contestants of the wills, two brothers and a sister of Woodward, were dismissed, the court holding that they did not have a legal interest in the estate.

Notice of appeal to district court was given by attorneys for the contestants, William Z. Woodward of Houston, Oran N. Woodward of Syracuse, N. Y., and Mrs. Cora M. Noe of New Jersey.

Trustees Named

The wills of the couple who lost their lives in an auto-train accident May 22 named W. B. Barnhill, secretary and business manager of Woodward, John F. Dillard, attorney, and J. A. Phillips, public accountant, as trustees of the estate until Robert reaches the age of 30.

Contestants contended that two subsequent wills were executed which could not be produced in court and testimony purporting to show why this could not be done was introduced last Monday.

After Judge Hofheinz ruled in the E. F. Woodward cases, attorneys for the contestants submitted identical testimony in the will of Mrs. Woodward.

News Briefs

Dr. Walter J. Howard, former Lubbock dentist, who is stationed at Camp Callan, San Diego, Cal., has recently been promoted to the rank of a captain, friends have been advised.

N. W. Harris, priorities specialist from the El Paso district office of the War Production board, will be in Lubbock Monday through Wednesday for interviews with persons wishing priorities for construction or for remodeling existing structures. His headquarters will be room 206 of the Lubbock National building.

Condition of Ed D. Allen, Lubbock county clerk, was considered satisfactory Saturday in Lubbock General hospital, where he underwent surgery Tuesday.

Mrs. J. C. Edwards, mother of Mrs. A. N. Gamble, 2402 Twentieth street, is reported to be critically ill at the Mercy hospital in Slaton. Her sons and daughters are at her bedside. Mrs. Edwards was admitted to the hospital last Sunday and Saturday developed pneumonia.

Bond of $1,000 was set Saturday afternoon for G. W. Bush, 34, charged for the second time since May with aggravated assault on Ruby Bush. Mrs. Bush, his former wife, suffered a broken jaw and other injuries recently when Bush attacked her with his hands, state claims. In the first charge, state contended, he threatened her with a razor. He was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 60 days in jail on that charge.

Police and other officials late Saturday sought the driver of a truck that picked up a rocking chair that fell out of a car driven by W. V. Jones of route 2 Brownfield. Jones followed the truck driver six miles, but lost sight of the truck at Nineteenth street and College avenue. Jones had just bought the chair.

Duroc Sale Handles 71 Bred Sows, Gilts

Seventy-one registered Duroc hogs, all bred sows and gilts, were sold at auction here Saturday, bringing several thousand dollars to owners scattered throughout West Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico.

The sale was by the West Texas Duroc Breeders association, and was staged under most adverse conditions from every standpoint, counting the excessively hot weather, feed shortages, and other war time conditions which cast doubt on almost every angle of hog management, authorities said.

Kenneth Bozeman, president of the association, handled the sale. He described it as a success. The top gilt brought $125, and was consigned by T. H. Duval of Roaring Springs. Any number of animals brought $75 and $80. W. A. King of the Texas Tech agricultural department, clerked the sale, assisted by Prentiss Allen, and Coleman Cowan, secretary of the association.

Ceilings On Coal May Be Raised

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—(AP)—Props are being prepared to bolster the price ceilings over bituminous coal against the withdrawal Monday midnight of the price floor provided for the last two years by Interior Secretary Ickes' bituminous coal division.

The Office of Price Administration, an official disclosed today, soon will amend its regulations to make sure that the soft coal price structure will not be upset by expiration of the Guffey act, under which the division has functioned. The changes are deemed necessary because:

1. Some OPA ceiling prices are set on the basis of a certain amount above the floor prices fixed by the division, hence might be shaked by removal of the foundation for the differential.

Some Price Variation

2. In some cases, the division's minimum prices actually are higher than OPA's maximum prices because the former included cost of transporting coal from some areas to distant markets.

In these cases, the higher minimum prices have been allowed sellers and OPA's amendments will preserve that arrangement.

The division is going out of existence Monday because Congress refused recently, despite pleas from President Roosevelt and Ickes, to extend the act which gave it life.

However, Senator Guffey (D-Pa), author of the act, has said that after Congress reconvenes Sept. 14 he will press for action on a bill which, in general, would reconstitute the system as a conservation measure.

Dr. Pugh Visiting Allied War Fronts

LONDON, Aug. 21—(AP)— Dr. William Barrow Pugh, chairman of the General Protestant commission on U. S. Army and Navy chaplains, arrived in London by plane from the north today on a tour of Allied fighting theaters.

The plane carrying Dr. Pugh, who is completing at the request of President Roosevelt a mission begun by the late Bishop Adna Wright Leonard, also brought a number of Axis prisoners. Bishop Leonard was killed in an airplane crash in Iceland May 3.

He came from Iceland and Greenland where he said the chaplains are carrying on cheerfully despite difficult conditions. One in Iceland holds 14 services each Sunday, he said, and another in Greenland has an 800-mile circuit.

He expects to go from England to North Africa, the Middle East, India, China and central Africa and thence to headquarters of the south Atlantic fleet.

Dr. Pugh, a Presbyterian, served as a chaplain major in the last war.

SHIP LAUNCHED

HOUSTON, Aug. 21—(AP)— The S. S. George Bellows, 81st merchant ship built at Houston shipbuilding corporation yards, was launched today.

Operations Officer Calls The Plays That 'Keep 'Em Flying'

MAJOR JACK PAYNE

For most people, time is divided into two periods, day and night, work and rest.

For the operations officers of Army air fields scattered round the world, time is just something which there isn't enough of in which a thousand jobs have to be done—the safest way, the most efficient way, the quickest way, but above all, the safest way. The operations officer is the "quarterback" who calls the plays which "keep 'em flying." His is a 24-hour job.

Such are the duties of Major Jack Payne, formerly of Pecos, operations officer at South Plains Army Air field.

Duties Are Clear Cut

Major Payne with a brush of his hand wipes away any "glamor" connected with his job. In short, his duties are clear cut.

"Normally, the operations officer is in charge of all flying functions of the field outside actual student training," is the way in which he sums up his numerous duties.

That may not sound so hard. But it means that Major Payne must be responsible for the maintenance of the airdrome, the field lights, control tower, flying safety of the field, maintenance of pilots' flying time records, dispatching of aircraft, care of transient aircraft, seeing that rated personnel maintains its standard of efficiency, issuing all orders on flights other than those connected with student training, maintenance of up-to-date information regarding his own and other airdromes as regards service facilities, status of planes at SPAAF must be forwarded to higher officials, investigation of mishaps on the field, and checking all flights and pilots out and in, seeing that they reach their destination safely.

Flight Records Kept

Records must be kept on flights to the exact minute.

Transient or "visiting" aircraft must be serviced and okayed for continuance of their trip. Fuel and oil supplies must be available. Runway lights and other fields lights must be operating. And above all, the plane must be cleared.

Major Payne has personal supervision over the pilots. He gives the men personal check outs in various aircraft in which they work to see that their "standard of efficiency" is maintained.

All of which adds up to an intensely interesting job.

Entered As Enlisted Man

Major Payne "got the urge" to fly when he saw his first plane when only 14 years old. He tinkered around with the idea four years after graduating from Pecos High school, then returned to Schreiner Institute at Kerrville, to get the necessary college education. He played on two state college football championship teams and helped spark Schreiner's basketball team.

He entered the service as an enlisted man. He graduated from Kelly field in July, 1934, has been flying off and on since.

As operations officer he acts as advisor to some of the less experienced and younger officers.

"One of the biggest jobs is to supervise the young, recently graduated pilot . . ."Major Payne says. "That means stressing safety above all . . . It seems that after a pilot has the necessary experience to do intricate things with a plane he is old enough to know better. Teaching that job is paying big dividends," Major Payne adds.

Major Payne, his wife and small son, Jimmy, reside at 2101 Twenty-ninth street.

REPORT DENIED

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 21—(AP)— The foreign ministry has formally denied reports that 300 Mexican field workers had been poisoned by food in Oregon. It said that only five of the workers were affected and that they were being treated in a hospital.

TEXAN IS KILLED

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 21—(U.P.) — Donald Gifford, 19, son of Mrs. N. W. Sweeney of Galveston, died late yesterday of injuries suffered when his head was crushed between an elevator and the second floor in a refrigerator plant where he was employed.

From 1932 to 1941, malaria caused the death of 30,000 persons in the United States.

Local Man Aboard Raider At Wewak

By Vern Haugland

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Aug. 20. (Delayed)—At least 24 more Japanese planes were destroyed—19 of them in air combat—in another raid upon Wewak, New Guinea, and its adjoining airstrips today.

B-24's which bombed Wewak and Boram airdromes shot down six enemy fighters, probably downed four more, damaged three in the air and destroyed at least five on the ground.

P-38's escorting the Liberators downed 13, and possibly destroyed two more.

Zero Collides With B-24

One B-24 collided with a Zero and crashed upon the Boram strip. A P-38 also is missing.

(The Saturday communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur said Liberators, with a Lightning escort, made the third raid in a week on Wewak, destroying 24 planes for certain, probably destroying six others and damaging three, at a cost of two planes.)

A large number of fires were started on the ground. Possibly fuel dumps were hit.

Among the top scores in the P-38 formation was that of Capt. George Welch of Wilmington, Del., who destroyed three and another probable, and Maj. Thomas Lynch of Catasauqua, Pa., who shot down two twin-engined fighters. Lynch now has 13 enemy planes to his credit, and Welch, 12.

Welch said he believed the pilot parachuted from one plane he destroyed. He saw a dark object narrowly miss his cockpit.

Scene Of Crew Parachute

Welch hit a Zero which started smoking and crashed into a Liberator's tail, exploding. The B-24 caught fire and other pilots saw six or seven parachtues open, one of them on fire. The Liberator survivors probably landed right on the Boram airstrip.

Among Liberator gunners claiming one enemy fighter each, were: Tech Sgt. Walter Dorian, Port Arthus, Tex.; and Pvt. Bernard Schafer, Riverdale, N. J., Schafer's pilot was 1st Lt. Vernon Ekstrand of Lyons, Neb., Dorian's pilot was Capt. William Gentry of Dalton, Ill.

Ekstrand's navigator was 2nd Lt. Dean Hiatt of Lubbock, Tex., Ekstrand said he saw five burning planes on the Boram strip.

Italy Battered

of a "Hell's Triangle," roughly bounded by Naples, Reggio Calabria and Foggia, which Allied airmen have mapped out with exploding bomb and gunfire.

Along the northern side of the triangle waves of Mitchell, Marauder and Wellington bombers, with their Lightning escorts, spread a creeping paralysis of Italy's rail system.

From Foggia To Naples

Leaving Foggia, one of the four chief railway bottlenecks in Italy, to smoulder in its ruin from the biggest air assault of the Mediterranean war two days ago, the air forces switched yesterday to the Naples area and blasted repeatedly at Aversa, Benevento and Villa Literno.

The Germans threw strong forces of fighters into battle to stop the destruction, 40 or 50 rising at Aversa alone to turn aside the attack.

But the Allied air fleets knocked down 14 of the enemy, while losing 10 of their own, and from the clouds of smoke that rose from criss-crossing lines of bombs Allied airmen noted these results:

Main Railway Broken

At Aversa, 20 miles north of Naples — tumbled tracks, cars bursting into flames, violent explosions shaking large buildings to pieces, incendiary bombs turning military warehouses into torches, hits on the gas works and utilities. The airmen said there was no doubt the main railway running north from Naples to Rome was broken at least temporarily.

At Benevento, 40 miles northeast of Naples—a railway overpass blown up, cutting a subsidiary line running across the peninsula from Naples; repair shops, main junction and a large number of tank cars torn up and trails of explosions and fires.

At Villa Literno, just north of Naples—Wellingtons which made this attack at night saw hits on the railroad station and tracks.

Warhawks also swept over Sardinia and bombed the vicinity of Monserrato airdrome in the southeastern part of the island. They met no opposition.

Fighters Unchanged

Other fighter-bombers and fighters, keeping the Italian toe in a constant state of jitters, roamed almost unchallenged and found their targets steadily diminishing. They found few boats to shoot at, but bombed two trains near Locri on the bottom of the toe.

Nevertheless they pecked away at vulnerable junctions, bridges and mountainsides where a bomb might start a landslide onto tracks and roads.

Today's naval communique said the American expedition which occupied the Lipari penal island off the north coast of Sicily four days ago found the place had been used by the Germans for unspecified military purposes, but said the German forces had left a few days before the surrender.

The Lubbock county quota in the drive last April was $3,700,000, of which $1,926,000 was for individual and corporate purchasers and the remainder was for banks. Individuals and corporate interests bought $3,448,000, nearly doubling their quotas. Banks bought all the securities they were allowed to have, totaling approximately $2,000,000.

Litvinoff Replaced

war conference at Quebec with British, American and Canadian war leaders.

Lack of Russian representation at Quebec has caused widespread comment in both Allied and Axis capitals, the enemy taking the line that there were serious divisions wtihin the United Nations camp. A recent Moscow announcement declared Russia had not been invited to the meeting.

Litvinoff, now 67 years old, has been a spectacular figure in Soviet foreign affairs, whose political rise and fall has coincided with important changes in foreign policy.

He has long been the most prominent Soviet advocate of collective security and close relations with Britain and the United States.

Commissar For Decade

He was people's commissar for foreign affairs for a decade until he resigned just before Europe went to war.

He had been in the midst of negotiations with Britain and France for a general mutual assistance pact when he was replaced by Vyacheslaff Holotov. The mystery of that move was solved when the Kremlin reversed its entire policy and signed a nonaggression pact with Germany in August, 1939. The German-British-French conflict began the following month and Litvinoff retired to virtual seclusion.

When Germany violated her Russian non-aggression pact and invaded that country in June, 1941, Litvinoff came back strong in the political structure of his country. Britain and the United States promptly extended material aid to Russia, and Britain later signed an alliance with the Soviets.

The so-called "second front" issue has been a delicate political point between Russia and her western Allies.

POSSIBLE SOVIET POLICY CHANGE IS INDICATED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Moscow broadcast announcing that the presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. had relieved Maxim Litfinoff of his post as ambassador to the United States and named Andrei Gromyko to succeed him did not come entirely as a surprise to officials and diplomats here.

It set off speculation in diplomatic circles, however, that the move might herald a change in Soviet policy and may possibly be an expression of Marshal Joseph Stalin's displeasure over the failure of the Allies to meet the oft-expressed Soviet appeal for a second front in Europe.

It had been rumored ever since Litvinoff was called to Moscow last May, ostensibly for a routine report to his government, that there was more to his departure than met the eye and that he would not return.

Almost at the same time Joseph E. Davis, former U. S. ambassador to Russia, flew to Moscow bearing a letter from President Roosevelt to Stalin. The contents of the letter never were disclosed, but the Davies' journey was deemed of such importance it was generally referred to as his "second mission to Moscow."

Strategy Parley

and Mr. Churchill canvassed the war shipping situation at a luncheon conference.

Kiska was being spoken of among the military and naval observers here as a symbol of a new period in Japanese military policy—a period in which the embattled Nipponese no longer can afford to squander human lives in face-saving defense of doomed territory. It was evaluated, too, as a starting point for new offensive action aimed at seizing an Allied base on the Japanese side of the Pacific, in the Kuriles islands.

Senate Showdown On Draft Plan Sought

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Amid indications that the Senate—soon after resuming sessions—will be asked to call for a show down on the issue of drafting fathers, Chairman Reynolds (D-NC) of its military committee declared today that "conflicting" statements on manpower requirements had created country-wide confusion.

He said that there was a strong possibility that the committee will summon Manpower Chief Paul V. McNutt and draft Director Lewis B. Hershef and high ranking Army men in an effort to get a "definite, one-time statement" on the requirements if the armed forces.

MEXICAN CADET KILLED

CORSICANA, Aug. 21—(AP)— A board of Army officers today investigated the crash of a primary training plane yesterday in which Aviation Cadet Jesus Gomez Montero, 21-year-old Mexican, was killed instantly near Eureka, five miles east of Corsicana field.

Two Injured In Auto Mishaps

Two persons were injured in as many automobile accidents Saturday afternoon in the Lubbock area, and charges will be filed Monday in connection with each of the mishaps, state highway patrolmen indicated.

George Lee Bullock, 16, of Lorenzo star route, was in West Texas hospital with a possible head injury.

According to Patrolman Tom Laws, Bullock, accompanied by two soldiers, was driving east about three miles west of Idalou when a car driven by a Mexican turned left into an intersection road ahead of them. The Bullock vehicle hit the Mexican's car and turned "over a time or two."

Mexican May Face Charge

The Mexican, 30, of Idalou route 1, probably will face a complaint charging violation of a highway rule.

A drunk driving charge is due to be filed against a 36-year-old man as the aftermath of smash-up just east of the Tahoka highway a mile south of Lubbock which occurred about 6:30 o'clock Saturday night. Johnnie Lee Roberson, 33, 1408 Avenue C, suffered a possible fracture of the left ankle, Lubbock General hospital reported.

An automobile in which Mr. and Mrs. George F. Kenyon, 1526 Thirtieth street, were the only occupants was hit and turned over at an intersection. Kenyon was reported to have suffered shock. Mrs. Kenyon was said unhurt.

Capt. Jack Brown

did," he said. Brown thinks the P-38 is the best ship the Army ever has given the boys to fly. It is a fighter, a fast ship. "We have to wait on the bombers," Brown said, "and that gets tiresome on a long mission." By waiting he said the fighters criss-cross the path, sometimes circle, and always maneuver so as to remain in the vicinity of the bomber formation. All his flying, he said was done in daytime and always in formation.

The escort work is entirely defensive. However, during the invasion of Sicily Brown said his squadron did some strafing and offensive work which the boys very much enjoyed. "We felt like we were doing something," Brown said, and his description of results evidenced they did just that with the enemy on the retreat. He described casualties as being "surprisingly light" for American forces, especially in the Sicilian offensive.

Don't Worry About Boys

"You needn't worry at all about the American boys; they certainly will take care of themselves and give proper account," he said. Brown hopes he can go back and help finish up the job in Europe. He thinks he will be assigned to a training job over here for a few months and be able to accompany the men across. He described the Axis planes as good ones, and the men are good fliers. The only time other than in Sicily his outfit ever had a chance to go in the offensive, he said, was when the enemy came across to raid them in North Africa.

Brown also was a member of the Ninety-fourth flying squadron and has a sterling silver "Hat in the Ring" emblem, conferred on him and 29 other fliers in North Africa at a ceremony by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker. He does not wear this decoration, "because I do not now belong to the 94th," he said, but he indicated he was prouder of it than any of the other "trophies."

The longest mission Brown made, he said, was about 500 miles distant from his base, making 1,000 miles round-trip. He said he never had flown over Germany, but there was plenty of action in the Mediterranean sector.

Losses In Russia

mans staggered under material losses at a time when their homeland factories are being bombed to rubble by American and British airmen based in Britain.

The Soviet bulletin said the Red Army since July 5 had captured 875 tanks, 1,274 guns, 3,429 machineguns and 4,230 trucks. In addition, the Russians destroyed 4,600 Axis planes, 6,400 tanks, 3,800 guns and more than 20,000 trucks in vicious battles flaming along a 500-mile front.

The fighting on the Russian front has been called by the Germans "the battle of attrition" and they claimed Friday in a DNB dispatch broadcast by Berlin that the Russians had lost 1,250,000 men, 12,500 tanks and 500 cannon.

Curtin Holds Lead In Australian Voting

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 22. (Sunday) (AP)—The return to power of a strengthened labor-party government appeared in prospect for Australia today on the basis of preliminary returns from the first general election since 1940.

There were indications, as the count on yesterday's balloting progressed, that Prime Minister John Curtin's Laborites would win a clear working majority in the House.

Rule May Be Waived To Get Ration Book

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—The Office of Price administration today authorized local war price and rationing boards to waive prescribed waiting periods in handling applications for replacements of lost or stolen food ration books in cases of "extreme hardship."

If further investigation is desired, the board may issue certificates by which the applicant may obtain the rationed goods temporarily.

Barber's Missions

tent themselves by shooting up the Zeros as the Jap ships rode at anchor "in a nice line" off the beach of the camp area.

"The Japs didn't mix it often with the P-38's," Lt. Barber said. Give 'em credit: they learn fast. Those who were fortunate enough to escape after a tangle with a P-38 must have told the rest of the slant-eyes. They'd keep away—unless they were in sight of their ground forces. They'd bore in then, but the P-38's have everything, and those P-38 pilots can fly!"

Respect Mitchells Also

Lt. Barber said the Zeros learned respect for the Mitchells, too. "I only had three brushes with Zeros all the 15 months I was in the Alaskan-Aleutian theater," he said. "They try to get under us, but we dive almost to the water and they keep their distance then." (He saw his indicated airspeed needle run up to 450 miles an hour once in such a screaming dive and pullout that "put several G's—measure of gravity — on the Mitchell's wings, and the staunch medium took it.)

His sojourn in the embattled Aleutians sector has meant 450 combat hours, one hop of 1,500 statute miles, a patrol flight that lasted eight hours, numerous "close spots."

He has seen Zero pilots—to give you an idea how well the Japs can fly—do a slow roll with their guns belching—and the tracer stream held to its target.

Ships Hit Number of Times

At various times he has gone in for landing with 30 holes in his ship or with a gas tank shot out, an aileron and flap blasted off (and when his ship was in a bank!)

And he has flown close enough to the harbor to drop delayed action bombs on what must have been a 9,000-ton transport. (He and Maj. Pickard, a former West Point man, were accredited with having sunk the ship, which was burning fiercely when last observed.)

It was March 30, however, when the supreme thrill came International publicity—a story with pictures in the Saturday Evening Post, a salute of the Camel Caravan, stories released by all the wire services—resulted from that raid.

Lt. Barber was ringleader of the mission. He and other Mitchell medium pilots planned something "very informal and ominous, the wildest raid on Kiska yet seen in the Aleutian war."

Idea Sold to Superiors

All raids on Kiska had been planned by higher officers but this was to be a novelty— two young lieutenants selling their burning idea to the general himself, organizing the attack and accepting only volunteers, as William Gilman wrote in the Saturday Evening Post June 19.

"It promised to be the wildest mission yet seen there, a sort of Commando raid from the air in which six Mitchell medium bombers without bomber escort planned to surprise the Japs at twilight, swooping in at deck-level altitude to demolish their most secret and vital installations."

Barber plotted and another airman drew sketches of what they had seen over Kiska, then they obtained permission to make a sneak raid on Kiska, approaching from an unorthodox direction and employing to the limit the element of surprise—even to flying far past the island as if en route to raid Attu, which since has fallen. Japs would pick up on their listening devices sounds of the planes, and would relax. So Lt. Barber hoped.

Targets Are Split Up

"Then midway between the two islands, they'd swing back, low over the water. They would burst in over the cliff in three flights of two planes each. A flight, curving to the left, would take the new gun battery, the runway and North Head. B flight would go through center, taking the detection buildings, camp and hangar, and C flight would curve to the right, smashing the sub base, then cross the harbor to the tip of North Head, getting the radio station(which turned out to be radar instalations)."

There was to be a feint, then a swoop over a cliff and a blasting searing buzzing at 300 miles an hour 25 feet above the ground, machineguns blazing as 300- and 500-pound bombs were toggled away on those below.

Lt. W. B. Jackson, son of Mrs. J. S. Jackson of route 1, Carbon, and a former pre-medical student two years in Texas Technological college, led Flight A.

"The wind will be with us, Downhill will be with us—I hope luck will be with us," Lt. Barber told his three flights—and off they roared.

Things Begin To Pop

And it was—all of it. Down went bombs, and up went military installations and smoke and flame. Ground fire, to be sure, burst into the hurtling ships, and the crew of one plane, which wouldn't release its bombs, was forced to crawl back without chutes and, hanging over nothing, put pins in the bombs, unscrew the fuses and kick the bombs out into the sea. Another plane had its hydraulic gear rendered unusable, and its throttles wouldn't work. It meant a belly landing, and a belly landing it was—with the ship scurrying up the runway 1,000 years straight as an arrow, then yawing off the runway.

So heroic was the work of the youngsters that Gilman wrote, "This business of kicking live bombs out of a plane racing over a bleak sea with darkness setting in should help those folks trying to define what courage is."

Awards For Airmen

There were awards for the young airmen. Lt. Barber wears the DFC, the Air Medal and the Silver Star. He has a rainbow of three campaign ribbons: the Asiatic-Pacific and the American theaters and the pre-Pearl Harbor insignia.

With him here is his pretty wife, his sweetheart when he was in Tech, the former Drucilla Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Smith of 2401 Fourteenth street. She has been employed in Texarkana while he was fighting.

It was Sept. 2, 1941, when Barber left for Cal Aero, Calif., for his basic training. He did his advanced at Luke Field, Ariz. All the 15 months he was based in the Alaskan theater, he was on one or another of the Aleutians chain, when Japs and Americans alike might sink any minute to their waists in the uncertain footing of the tundra.

Reports in Ten Days

He will report to one of the coasts in 10 days, probably for transitional instruction in B-25's. After that? He shrugs.

Just a final word about the surprise occasioned to all by disclosure the Japs had hauled out of Kiska. Lt. Barber was asked if he had heard the news. "No, but I can imagine why," he said.

"I made my first flight over Kiska Dec. 30, the last July 9. Judging from what I know happened and adding to it those 106 bombings since Aug. 1, the surprise is that the defenders stayed as long as they did. The Japs fought us off with everything they had, reaching a peak of frenzy Aug. 4, when the burst of 90 mm and lesser anti-aircraft shells almost blotted out vision. Then the opposition declined. Today we know why."

U. S. Unopposed In Taking Kiska

Last Opposition August 13

Days after the bombardment from the sea the last enemy opposition was reported on August 13. Then it was only light anti-aircraft fire against bombers and fighters.

Sometime shortly thereafter the Japanese escaped, for two days later when American and Canadian troops made their landings no enemy forces were found on Kiska. Fogs presumably aided the Japanese in evacuating the remnants of their garrison, once estimated at 10,000 men. But the Navy, in offering that supposition, was careful to qualify, saying:

"It is not known how the Japanese got away, but it is possible that enemy surface ships were able to reach Kiska under cover of the heavy fogs that have been prevalent."

Where the Japanese might have fled is a mystery. However it is possible that surface units slipping through the fog to carry out the evacuation might have crept back to bases in the northern Kurlies, possibly at Uaramushiro, enemy naval base which already has been bombed three times by American forces reaching ever closer to the enemy's homeland.

Measure Of Surprise

The lack of opposition on Kiska—despite the heavy air and sea bombardments—was in a way a surprise. Never before in this war have the Japanese withdrawn from a base without waging a suicidal fight. On neighboring Attu, defeated Japanese troops armed even with bayonets tied on sticks, raided American camps in a final futile battle last My. Then survivors hugged grenades to their chests and died on the island they had sought vainly to retain. The difference at Kiska could represent a change in enemy policy.

More than a year of attacks—attacks that now can be turned westward toward enemy bases closer to Tokyo—were carried out in the Aleutians campaign which began in June, 1942, with the abortive attempt of the Japanese to capture Dutch Harbor. Defeated in that effort they established bases on Attu, Kiska and Agattu. Subsequently they abandoned Agattu in favor of concentrating their strength on Attu, whence they were driven three months ago, and on larger Kiska.

Jap Base May Be Next

Capture of Kiska—elimination of the Japanese in the Aleutians—opens the way now for renewed assaults on Paramushiro, principal Japanese naval base at the northern end of the Kurile island chain of which Japan itself is a part, as well as other bases.

It means also that a new and important submarine and naval base can be established, for Kiska, a former coaling station of the United States Navy, has a good harbor in which large surface vessels could safely be serviced while battling the Japanese in the northern Pacific waters. It means the Japanese have lost a good Pacific observation post.

The capture closes the last gap in the northern route to the Kuriles. Distances there are important. Kiska is only about 1,800 miles from Tokyo itself. Attu is 172 miles closer.

With those two bases for plane and surface craft a long step has been taken in the ultimate assault upon the Japanese homeland.

Southwest Pacific

dicated by the raids Friday and Saturday. For in the first two raids, all but 10 enemy planes were destroyed out of a fleet of 225.

Yet Friday's raiders found more planes moved in, and Saturday's still more.

Efforts Nullified

"The enemy continues to fly in air reenforcements from his adjacent supporting bases to the Wewak system of 'dromes," today's communique said.

"This effort to restore his air strength in New Guinea is being nullified by our continuous assault of his bases and the Wewak area again has become the scene of fierce combat."

Three of our fighters are missing. This raised the total cost of the Allied airforce for the four raids to 11.

The communique made no reference to any change in the situation at Salamaua, where the Japanese have fallen back upon their inner defenses of that air base after being routed from ridge positions below it.

and we are all willing to do what it takes." He said the folks back home need have no apprehension about the fighting forces. If they will keep on, as we expect to, he said the job will be finished up in fine shape.

Bill said jungle fighting is so different from any other kind of war, he has difficulty making his friends understand when he explains. He said Japanese prisoners are treacherous, savage, and uncontrollable. If they are prodded along they turn and spit in the American's face. If treated humanely and given the chance to "behave," they likely will explode a hand grenade or other weapon, killing themselves and their guard, "and for that reason it is a fight to the death, with few prisoners."

"If you want to realize what a job there is to do in the Pacific, just get your map down and look at the rich, fortified country yet to be wrested from the 'sons of the rising run,'" he said, in explaining why he thought a long time yet will be required to finish the job.

Japanese troops from Kiska.

"We believe that we sank some of their ships during a heavy fog, and at night, but this cannot be confirmed," he said.

Admiral Kinkaid described the apparent contact with the retreating Japanese in this manner:

American warships made contact with some "objects" at night and in the fog by similar instruments to those used in the battle in which two modern battleships sunk Japanese ships in the south seas during the night of November 14. Salvos were fired at these "objects" and they disappeared.

Costly To Japanese

The Aleutian campaign was costly to the Japanese. They lost equipment in the holds of sunken cargo ships, transports and warships and they lost all of their equipment on Attu and what they could not take with them from Kiska.

Some estimates place their loss in men at 10,000 on sunken ships, the bombings of Kiska and the Attu fighting.

"Kiska proved that the Japs know when they are whipped," Admiral Kinkaid said. "With enough weapons we can drive them from one island to another. It will not be easy, but Kiska demonstrates that it is possible."

German Agrees That Allies On Offensive

LONDON, Aug. 21 (AP) — Rear Admiral Richard Gadow, German military expert, said in a Berlin broadcast recorded by the Associated Press today:

"It can be presumed that it is part of enemy plans to pass over to the attack in the eastern Mediterranean.

"This is indicated by the treatment of Turkey, armies of millions in the near east, the strong fortification of Cyprus and the air raid on Ploesti."

Ex-Private Held As "Undercover" Agent

A 21-year-old former Army private Saturday night presented himself as an "undercover government agent" at a dance place in 700-block on Thirteenth street and began examination of currency taken at the box-office in what he said was a search for counterfeit money, so officers were told.

Arrested by City Patrolman A. H. Sharp and questioned by Texas Rangers, the ex-soldier was held in county jail for FBI investigation.

Asked about his credentials, he said it was "part of my job as an undercover man not to carry any."

Officials said his discharge papers showed he had been released from the Army last July 8 and had served as a hospital orderly at Camp Swift.

Guadalcanal Mistake For Catalina By Japs

HUTCHINSON, Kas., Aug. 21. (AP)—Some of the Japs who battled the U. S. Marines for Guadalcanal actually thought they had invaded Catalina island, off the coast of California.

That's the report brought back by several of Guadalcanal veterans, including A. A. Vaughn, chief aviation machinist's mate, now stationed at the Hutchinson Naval Air station.

"I personally talked to Jap prisoners who admitted they had originally believed they were on Catalina island," he said.

N. W. Ohlsson, chief aviation machinist's mate who recently arrived at the Hutchinson base from the South Pacific, said he had talked to a lot of the men who saw action in Guadalacnal and that they told him many prisoners thought they were in Catalina and about to invade California.

Red Cross Roundup

News of Lubbock County Chapter

GLOVE KNITTERS WANTED

THE knitting department of the Lubbock County Red Cross chapter's production rooms, in the annex of the old Christian church, Sixteenth and Avenue J, Saturday issued a call for glove knitters. There are sixty pairs of gloves that should be on their way to men in service in the next few weeks, it was said. Lubbock county women have never failed to respond to an emergency and leaders were hopeful they wouldn't fail them this time.

Yarn for 14 garments was issued the past week. Finished garments were received from the following: Army sleeveless sweaters. Mesdames J. H. Murdough, Carl Kelley, J. A. Ross and L. R. Sanders; Army gloves, Mrs. W. S. Allen; Army scarfs, Mesdames M. L. Caviness, Ben V. Smith, Geo. Markel and A. G. Odom; war relief, Mrs. M. B. Craig; turtle neck sweaters, Mrs. J. N. Gains, two; Navy scarfs, Mesdames A. L. King, J. P. Mills, John W. and Goodwin.

The August knitting shipment will be made Aug. 30, Mrs. M. C. Overton, chairman, announced. She said she hoped to send out Lubbock county's largest shipment at that time and urged the cooperation of every knitter in the county.

For the convenience of women who find it impossible to come to the knitting room mornings, the room will be opened by appointment by calling Mrs. Overton or Mrs. C. P. Carlock.

TYPEWRITERS OFFERED

Mrs. W. J. Harris and Fred Parham offered typewriters in answer to an appeal issued by the chapter last Sunday. The workers at the production room expressed gratification at their response.

DRESSINGS NOT HERE

The surgical dressings shipment hasn't yet arrived and until they do, the surgical dressing rooms will remain closed, Mrs. I. C. Enochs, production chairman, said. Announcement will be made of reopening of the rooms as soon as the materials arrive, Mrs. Enochs said.

JEWELRY STILL WANTED

That old piece of costume jewelry you have lying around isn't doing you much good and it could be used to a great advantage by a soldier, sailor, coast guardsman or marine serving somewhere in the Pacific. They use jewelry to bargain with the natives for food, guide services and other facilities. Bring your old junk jewelry to the production rooms for the chapter's next shipment to the League for Service Men. Jewelry may be brought to the production rooms any morning from 9 to 12 o'clock except Saturdays.

HOLLAND STRIP CLOTHS

The Navy Mothers club has taken the responsibility of salvaging Holland cloth from tire recaps for surgical dressings and hospital items. The cloth, some of it linen and some cotton, comes in strips five to 18 inches wide and 30 to 40 inches long and its torn from the rubber for recaps. The starch and flour used to give the cloth a glaze is easily removed by washing with hot water and soap. Mrs. H. G. Lawson, the Navy Mothers club president, is chairman of this work and tire dealers of Lubbock cooperating in the work include: Brown's Tire shop, Shook Tire Co., Sanders Tire Co., Hub Lee Tire Co., Woody Tire Co., and Holt-Gamble Tire Co. Other names will be added. The club will be responsible for collecting the material and delivering it to the production rooms where it will be washed and made ready for cutting and sewing. Laundrying of the material will be done through courtesy of the Hub Laundry.

QUILT BATS MADE

Waste cotton from surgical dressings has been made into quilt bats through the courtesy of the Blackwell Mattress company. Anyone wishing to quilt or tack Red Cross covers this fall may call by the production rooms for the cotton any morning between 9 and 12 o'clock except on Saturday.

NEW CANTEEN CHAIRMAN

Mrs. Walker Chalk has been elected co-chairman of the chapter's canteen corps, it was announced Saturday. The canteen has been doing an excellent service serving refreshments to outgoing draftees.

MARKET SHOWS LOSSES

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—Further light selling gave the stock market another jolt today and leaders finished a generally unsatisfactory week with losses of fractions to 2 or more points.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .4 of a point at 49.4 and on the week showed a net loss of .6. Of 684 individual issues traded, 438 were down, 71 up and 145 unchanged. Transfers totalled 328,450 shares against 200,800 last Saturday.

Prominent on the retreat were Chrysler, General Motors, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Du Pont, Dow Chemical, Pan-American Airways, American Airlines, United Aircraft, J. I. Case, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Paramount Pictures and American Can.

Steels, coppers, utilities, oil sand golds generally held to a narrow range. Minor advances were retained by American Telephone, Standard Oil (NJ), Anaconda and Sperry.

Buying of stocks in the peace category, in addition to rails, gave the market a mildly rising tinge Tuesday and Wednesday. The backslide got underway Thursday without touching off any real liquidation. Volume failed to reach the 600,000-level in any session. Dividends and earnings statements aided some favorites. The forthcoming tax program, the big bond drive and the reassembling of Congress next month served to instill considerable caution in boardrooms.

Bonds declined with stocks.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 21 (AP) — The average price of middling 15-16 inch cotton today at ten designated southern spot markets was 20 cents a bale lower at 20-15 cents a pound; average for the past 30 market days 20.63; middling ⅞ inch average 19.17.

Grain . .

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Aug. 21 (AP) — An easier undertone prevailed in all grains today following trade reports the War Food administration might renew its guarantee to farmers to pay any advance between now and Oct. 31 in corn ceilings in an effort to get more of the grain into terminal markets.

Rye suffered the worst setback, dropping about a cent at times, but trade generally was on a small scale. Activity was restricted by uncertainty over what measures would be involved in the government's program to roll back food prices to the levels of September 15, 1942.

At the close wheat was ¼ to ⅝ lower, September $1.3⅞, December $1.45⅝, oats were up ⅛ to ⅜, September 71, and rye was down ¼ to ⅝, September 97¼@97¾.

Flier Undaunted By Loss Of Legs

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 21. (AP)—Col. Graham West said two months ago when both his legs were blown off that he would fly again, and today an official statement confirmed his prediction.

Now in England, West has received a special pair of artificial legs which will enable him to ride the sky lanes again. He is expected back in North Africa soon.

West commanded a Spitfire group. A native of Portland, Oregon, he was—and is—one of the most popular officers in North Africa, according to the men who ought to know.

Big Bomb Explodes

Axis resistance in Tunisia was gasping its last on Cap Bon when West, 31, rushed onto a flying field to help his men fight a grass fire around a captured German plane. The plane held a big bomb wired as a booby trap. The fire touched it off.

When West regained consciousness, his first words were:

"I'll fly again. All I want to do is fly."

In the base hospital West talked most of the time about flying again, legs or no legs. Lieut. Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander-in-chief of the northwest African air force, called on West after his recovery was certain. Gripping the general's arm, West exclaimed:

"I can fly again."

Gets Artificial Legs

He talked of the famous Royal Air Force pilot, Douglas Bader, who lost both legs and was fitted by an English surgeon with a new pair, enabling him to return to combat. West wanted the same man.

"A man with as much nerve as that ought to have his wish," Spaatz said. "Let's see if he can't get fixed up with artificial legs by that surgeon. It will be quicker than flying him back to the United States. Then he can fly again."

West was flown to England as soon as his condition permitted. Today an Allied headquarters announcement said:

'Colonel West is returning to this theater, and he will fly."

YOU ARE UNFORTUNATE ENOUGH TO LOSE ONE OF YOUR RATIONING COUPON BOOKS

If You Lose Your Rationing Coupons—

Board Outlines Procedure In Getting Duplicate Book

Persons who lose their ration books henceforth will be required to advertise their loss three times in the press, before they can obtain new books.

This requirement was announced Wednesday following a conference of Lubbock county rationing board officials, and applies to gasoline and sugar-coffee rationing books and to other rationing books which may be issued in the future.

They explained the procedure as follows: When a book is lost, the first thing the owner should do is to insert a newspaper advertisement. After the ad has run three times, the newspaper supplies the owner with an affidavit attesting to proof of publication. He should take this with a clipping of the ad to the rationing board office, 1218 Texas Avenue, where he must make application and a sworn statement that the book has been lost.

Officials emphasized that it will be needless to go first to the rationing board, that the initial act should be the insertion of the newspaper advertisement.

The plan is designed, they said, to aid the holder in locating his book and to protect him from use of the book by some unauthorized person.

INSERT A "3 DAY AD" IN THE LOST & FOUND COLUMN

A Small INEXPENSIVE "10 Word Ad" in the Lost and Found Column of the Avalanche-Journal, published for three days, will comply with the ruling now in force. Here is all it will cost to place such an ad in the Avalanche-Journal—

10 WORD AD PUBLISHED FOR— 3 Days WILL COST YOU ONLY— 80¢

IF Within THREE DAYS your RATION BOOK is not returned, the Avalanche-Journal will furnish you with an "Affidavit of Publication" This signed and notorized statement contains a copy of the ad, and certifies that you have complied with the Rationing Board's advertising regulation. Just attach it to your application for replacement.

The Woman's Angle

SCATTERINGS

MARCELENE COX says fools rush on while wise men save their tread . . . Someone recently said "when you can't get what you love you must love what you can get." . . . Nomination for an attractive mother and son, Mrs. R. J. Carter and aviation cadet Jack Bates Lloyd . . . Moss Hart's air force show will be a story of six fliers from the time they enter the service until they go into combat . . . Wish we could be set straight on whether it's Army air corps or Army air force . . . Capt Ted Lawson, author of, "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo," which so many Lubbockites are reading at present, dedicated his thrilling book to "the boys who didn't get back" which included Lt. Bob Hite of Earth, near Littlefield.

IDLE THOUGHT: Wonder if OPA officials ever eat frozen custard . . . Why isn't there a stop sign on the south side of the crossing at Thirteenth street and Avenue K to correspond with the sign on the north side? . . . We confuse Victoria, where Foster field is located, and Victorville Army Air field which is in California. And it seems to us that Miami university at Oxford, Ohio should have something to do with Florida or England.

PRESIDENT Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill always seem in such "complete agreement" at their meetings, which, if we are to believe reports are even tempered and suave as you please, which is a far cry from those hysterical and table pounding scenes between Hitler and the fallen Mussolini . . . We read the other day that Jim Farley chews five packages of gum a day. We are not so interested in the report that he chews that much gum as we are curious as to where he buys it . . . Hattilu White, Amarillo club and civic worker well known in Lubbock circles, recently enrolled for officers candidate school for WACs and her friends wonder if she won't miss those fresh corsages she wore daily . . . We think if a woman had rather not give away a recipe she should say so rather than leave out an ingredient as has been done here on several occasions.

ALTHOUGH Lubbock county has gone over the top in the two War Loan drives, we think it would be a nice gesture if some of the movie and radio stars who are going around the country to promote the third drive would come our way. It would be something new to look at Greer Garson or Walter Pidgeon or to hear Kay Kyser and his band and it would give our citizens who usually run the drives a chance to observe while the drive went over the top again . . . Dr. Morris Fishbein of Chicago, spokesman for the American Medical association and editor of the A.M.A. Journal, collects odd and amusing birth announcements. Parents who sent out "stork calling cards" usually include their obstetricians who in turn forward their favorites to Dr. Fishbein . . . A Lubbock woman who sends packages abroad regularly telephones to inform us that an average shoe box is acceptable size for overseas parcels . . . Allied military successes have done a good job of clearing the Atlantic shipping lanes, so it appears it won't be too long before we get more bananas from Middle America which grows most of the world's supply.

Lapel buttons of gold-plated plastic will be awarded to all men and women who receive honorable discharges from the United States Army during the present war. The design is an eagle within a circle, the wings extending beyond the edges . . . We've never known a man who could make a hit by continually shooting off his mouth . . . How is the time element at your house? Our electric clock is twenty-five minutes slow, the alarm clock runs spasmodically and we broke our own and a borrowed wrist watch . . . One way to keep cool these days (so we've been told) is to get snowed under with work.

A new competitor to spinach, tampala will be introduced to the public in seed form next spring. In China it is known as a white, salty vegetable . . . We hope the Army does not decide to take over the responsibility of naming the bombers in which the crews in England, Sicily and China fly to drop bombs. The boys have too much pleasure in naming the ships and anyway an Army named plane wouldn't have the interest for the boys that is evidenced when they do their own christening. Consider such names as Peg of My Heart, Battle Queen, The Swoose, Memphis Belle, Lady Luck, Linda Lou, Pair-o-Dice, Pistol Ball, Old Bill, Alcohol Annie and the Ruptured Duck. Perhaps the names are not elegant, but they are adequate . . . During the recent coal strike, the North African edition of Stars and Stripes featured blistering letters on John L. Lewis and the strikers. In the middle of page 1 was a large drawing of the bushy browed labor leader with the single caption, "This Is The Guy."

Parties Held In Honor Of Bride-Elect

SLATON, Aug. 21 (Special) — Miss Elizabeth Ann Stokes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Stokes, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Lt. W. H. Mudgett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry M. Mudgett, was announced last Saturday at a twilight tea given by her mother, is being honored with a series of parties.

Last Tuesday night eight women gave a garden party and shower at the home of Mrs. H. R. McKee. Hostesses were Mesdames McKee, R. G. Loveless, O. O. Crow, H. T. Swanner, Fred England, L. B. Wootton, R. D. Hickman and Kirby Scudder.

The table, which was centered with a profusion of garden flowers, bore a punch bowl. The gifts were displayed on tables inside the house.

Breakfast Is Courtesy

A breakfast was given Monday on the lawn at the home of Mrs. R. L. Smith. The table was laid with a bright cloth and set with colored pottery. Kitchen utensils held place cards and extending from them to the honoree's plate were yellow ribbons.

Guests were Mrs. P. G. Stokes of Abilene, grandmother of the bride-elect, Mesdames Mudgett, George Harlan, Joe Miles, H. G. Stokes, England, Misses Marita Shelby, Mary Frances Landreth, Donna Sanner and Juanita Elliott.

The announcement tea was given at the home of the bride-elect's parents.

In Receiving Line

Mesdames Wootton and Loveless greeted guests and presented them to a line made up of Mrs. H. G. Stokes, the honoree, Mrs. Mudgett, Mrs. J. W. McDonald of Lamesa, Mrs. P. G. Stokes, Mrs. Jim Sargent, Miss Marie McDonald and Mrs. M. C. Lindsey of Lamesa.

Misses Marita Shelby and Peggy Sargent presided at the bride's book where over 100 guests registered.

Miss June Scott and Mrs. Weldon Lindsey of Lamesa gave piano and vocal numbers throughout the evening.

An all white scheme was carried out in the dining room. The table, covered with an Italian cutwork cloth, was centered with a large reflector with the date, Sept. 1, in sky writing from a white airplane. White asters encircled the reflector. Cocktail napkins bearing the names of the betrothed couple were on the table where Mesdames England and Crow presided, assisted in serving by Mesdames McKee, Swanner and Hickman.

White candles burned in silver holders on the buffet and asters, gladioli and carnations were used throughout the entertaining rooms.

Houston Girl To Wed Cadet Chas. D. Reed

Mrs. George V. Marsh of Houston has announced the approaching marriage of her daughter, Ruth Avery, to Aviation Cadet Charles Donald Reed, son of Mrs. Ralph W. Morgan of that city, which is to take place here Aug. 30 in the chapel at Lubbock Army Air field where Cadet Reed is stationed.

Miss Marsh attended Nazareth college at Bardstown, Ky., and the University of Houston. Cadet Reed is a graduate of Reagan High school and a former student at John Tarleton college, Stephenville.

Proper Ironing Topic For H-D Club Talk

East Side Home Demonstration club met in the home of Mrs. C. R. Rogers Friday afternoon where Miss Clara Pratt gave instructions on the proper way to iron clothes.

Mrs. Warren Henry led group singing, accompanied by Mrs. C. T. Kendrick at the piano. Also on program wre Mesdames A. J. Huckabee and Horace Gearhart. Other members present were: Mesdames A. H. Gearhart, S. W. McGaw, J. B. Forbes, and Ola Nordyke. The next meeting on Sept. 3 will be in the home of Mrs. A. H. Gearhart.

Juvenile Officer To Address Auxiliary

Members of the First Presbyterian Woman's Auxiliary will meet at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon at Fellowship hall to hear Mrs. Dick Green, juvenile officer, speak on the "Juvenile Problem of Lubbock."

Mrs. W. B. Price will act as program chairman and Mrs. H. A. Davidson will bring the devotional.

VISIT IN EAST

Sgt. and Mrs. Amos P. Bond have returned from a visit to New York City and Sgt. Bond's home in Clarksboro, N. J. He is stationed at Lubbock Army Air field where he plays in the post band. Mrs. Bond was Miss Eleanor Mitchell before her marriage here early this summer.

CIRCLE TO MEET

Blanche Groves Circle for Service Men's Wives will meet Monday afternoon from 3 until 4:15 o'clock at the home of Mrs. R. B. Carnes, 2017 Tenth street.

Pfc. Sarah Rutherford of 2724 First street has taken the oath of reenlistment in the WAC. She is stationed at Mather field, Calif., as a supply clerk.

MRS. LLOYD PENDLEY

Couple Is Wed At Residence

The marriage of Miss Bennie Dora Johnson, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Ben D. Johnson, 2406 Thirtieth street, to Rev. Lloyd R. Pendley, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Pendley, 1510 Ninth street, took place Friday night at 8 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents with her father officiating, with double ring ceremony.

The couple stood in front of a mantel decorated with ferns and a combination of pink and orchid flowers.

Miss Martha Mae Majors of Greenville was maid of honor.

C. O. Pendley was best man.

The bride wore a navy suit with navy and white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Lubbock High school and Mr. Pendley has been attending school in Fort Worth the past year.

Family members were guests. A three-tiered wedding cake was served with punch at a reception after the service.

The couple will be at home in Fort Worth where Mr. Pendley is to continue his studies in Baptist Bible institute from where he is to be graduated next spring.

Mrs. Byrd To Review The Days Of Ofelia

Mrs. O. L. Byrd will review "The Days of Ofelia" (Diamant) at a meeting of the First Methodist Wesleyan Service guild Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock at the church. All business and professional women of the church are invited to attend.

Miss Irma Pryor is program chairman and Mrs. Ruby Stewart hostess for the guest night.

AUGUST BRIDE—Mrs. Rhea Mitchell, above, was Miss Francis Beth Hampton of Plainview before her marriage read last Saturday night in Plainview. She is a graduate of Texas Technological college where she was active in campus organizations. Mr. Mitchell, also a former Tech student, is a flight instructor at the Lamesa Flying school. Wedding Read In Pasadena

S/Sgt. and Mrs. Arthur A. Strehle are on a wedding trip at Santa Barbara, Calif., following their recent marriage at the Community Bible Center in Pasadena, Calif.

The bride is the former Dorothy McCrummen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin McCrummen of route 2, and a graduate of Frenship high school. Sgt. Strehle is the son of Al Strehle of Beverly Hills and Mrs. Marie Strehle of Pasadena. He is a graduate of Pasadena Junior college and recently returned from 18 months duty in Puerto Rico with the Army Air corps.

Rev. Ronald Meredith, pastor of the Monterrey Park Community church, read the ceremony before an improvised altar and arch of flowers flanked by baskets of dahlias.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with inserts of lace at the shoulder and a flowing train. Her veil of tulle was edged with lace and caught to a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a cascade of orchids and bouvardia. Mrs. Merrill Baker, a cousin of the bride was matron of honor and chose a pink net for the ceremony.

Backyard Equipment Contest To Be Sponsored By P-TAs

IN order to provide children with more wholesome recreation than ever before and to encourage parents to promote recreation in their own backyards, parent teacher groups of the city are sponsoring a backyard equipment contest beginning at once and to close September 30th.

Anyone with backyard equipment is eligible to enter the contest and prizes will be given the winners. The yards will be grouped according to the cost of equipping them. The first group will be those with equipment costing up to $10., and second group will include those persons who have spent more than the $10 allotment on equipment.

There are no rules regarding the type or nature of equipment to be used since the primary motive in promoting such an enterprise is to make the home attractive and a happy place in which the child may live. Mrs. W. E. Hamilton, a winner last year, has made her home a social center for all the young boys of the neighborhood.

Suggestions Are Offered

Here are some suggestions as to the types of equipment that may be used: Box hockey, clock golf, obstacle golf, jar ring toss, bean bag board, shuffle board, tether ball, fire places, barbecue pits,

Couple To Be At Home In New York

THE marriage of Miss Cora Jean Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Watson of 3003 Nineteenth street, to Lt. Vernon R. Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Turner of Levelland, will be solemnized at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents with Rev. A. H. Carleton of St. John's Methodist church reading a single ring ceremony.

Mrs. Amos P. Bond will play "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" as a piano solo preceding the ceremony, will accompany Miss Joyce Watson as she sings 'Because," and will play the traditional wedding march.

The couple will stand before the mantel which will be decorated with white gladioli and white asters and greenery and white tapers in crystal candelabra.

To Observe Traditions

Miss Watson will wear a light blue woolen suit with white frilly jabot, brown and white accessories and an orchid corsage. She will wear, Lt. Turner's grandmother's wedding band for "something old" and "something borrowed" will be a diamond cross belonging to Mrs. Raymond Nunn which has been worn in a number of weddings of brides to Army officers.

Mrs. Melba Moore, who is serving her sister as matron of honor, has chosen a green suit with brown and white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Wilson W. Turner will be best man for his brother.

A reception will be held after the ceremony and a tiered wedding cake topped with an officer and bride will be cut by Mrs. Moore and served with coffee by Misses Joyce and Jo Rae Watson, also sisters of the bride. The cake will be placed on a mirror flanked with red roses. Miniature airplanes and insignia of the Army air corps will be placed at intervals on the table.

To Live In New York

The couple is leaving late this afternoon for a trip to New Orleans and will visit in New York City and at West Point before going to Hempstead, N. Y., where the bridegroom is to be stationed at Mitchel field.

Miss Watson is a former student at Texas Technological college where she was a member of Sans Souci club and of Alpha Psi Omega fraternity.

Lt. Turner is a graduate of United States Military academy and a member of the first class of air corps pilots to be graduated from that institution.

Study Of United Nations Will Be Made By Athenaeum Club

A committee made up of Mesdames A. W. Young, chairman, J. F. Hankins and S. T. Hodges prepared the year book for the approaching club season for the Athenaeum club.

The subject of the year's study is "The United Nations," a list of which is printed in the beginning of the book and members will answer roll call each time by a current event concerning a development in one of the nations mentioned.

The first nation to be studied is the "United States of America," the first club session being on Sept. 28. On that day Mrs. A. W. Young will present "United States, the Storehouse of the World" and Mrs. D. A. Childress will talk on "How Important is Alaska?"

"The British Commonwealth of Nations," with a subtitle, "Great Britain, Canada and Ireland" will be the program for October 12. "Political Organization" by Mrs. J. F. Hankins, "Educational Program and Its Influences on Their Social Status" by Mrs. O. T. Williams will highlight the program.

On October 26 Mrs. B. E. Needles will talk on "Foreign Policy" and Mrs. J. W. Atmar on "Economic System." Continuing under the heading of the British Commonwealth, members will hear a discussion on "Australia and New Zealand" on Nov. 9 with Mrs. D. M. Davis speaking on "Resources and Expansion" and Mrs. Bryan McDonald presenting "Importance in War Effort." Finishing the discussion of British Commonwealth on Nov. 23, Mrs. Dewey George and Mrs. Eula Draper will tell the club of "Political Organization" and "Superstititions and Religion" concerning "The Indian Empire and Burma."

"The Scandinavian Countries" will be discussed at the Dec. 14 meeting where Mrs. T. C. Delaney is to give "Their Economic System" and Mrs. E. R. Heineman will talk on "Christmas Customs and Traditions." Of interest to all members will be the Jan. 11 meeting which will feature a program on the "Federation." Mrs. T. A. Rhodes and Mrs. L. P. Gilbert will talk to the club on "Women's Place in the Present Day World" and "Meeting Today's Problems through Federation."

A study of "Union of Soviet Socialist Republics" will get under way Jan. 25, 1944. "Peoples and the Education System of the U. S. S. R." by Mrs. S. T. Hodges and "Collective Farms Feed the Nation and Great Industries Supply the Red Army" by Mrs. Albert Barnett will be featured. On Feb. 8, Mrs. O. C. Southall will talk on "One Thousand Years of Russia." and Mrs. F. E. Hangs on "The So-

Wives Of Officers And Soldiers At SPAAF Are Busy With Wartime Activities

LUBBOCK has its own "women war workers."

They don't make the headlines, ships or bombers, but the jobs they do are playing a vital role in the war effort however small it seems at the moment.

They are the wives of officers and enlisted men at South Plains Army Air field, a group of women who have banded together to do what they can to add to the comforts of the men in service.

Organized into several groups, each with a definite job on the field, the women have received commendation for their efforts from laymen and officials alike.

From the 10-acre "Victory Farm," which is producing fresh vegetables for the soldiers and their families to the shining halls of the hospital, where they cheer patients, the women keep busy.

Mrs. Norman B. Olsen, wife of the commanding officer, is chairman of the group. Under her direction the main organization known as the Army Wives club is divided into eight groups.

There is the Activities and Spotters club, an organization which contacts all newcomers to the field and city in order to help them get situated. This group also finds talent for various volunteer jobs, finds people to care for children of other army wives, finds homes and other such details.

When a man in service faces an emergency he often contacts the Army Emergency relief, an organization which may help in any number of ways, including financial aid. The women help in this work as typists, file clerks, chaplains' aides, receptionists, home service, helping soldiers families who have not received allotments on time, in fact, aiding military personnel in any way they can in emergencies.

Perhaps one of the best known groups on the South Plains is the Llano Estacado council, the camp and hospital unit which also includes women in surrounding towns of the area. This branch of the Red Cross is now furnishing dayrooms, hospital rooms and various areas on the field with radios, furniture, games, curtains and other items which help in a beautification program now under way at SPAAF. Already several groups from surrounding towns have contributed enough furniture to furnish dayrooms.

The "Victory Farmers" includes all wives of officers and enlisted men, a community project which has gained praise from farm workers and food experts. Only this week, the Texas Extensioner, official magazine of the 4-H clubs in Texas, published at College Station, praised the women and the field for the part they are playing in the "Food for Freedom" program in the nation. The magazine featured a story and pictures of the 4-H club boys visit at SPAAF emphasizing that "the arts of peace left the most lasting impression" on the visitors. "This was the 10-acre Victory Farm at

LT. AND MRS. K. ONSTOTT

Miss Stewart And Lt. Onstott Wed

Word has been received of the marriage of Miss Hazel C. Stewart; former Lubbock resident, and Lt. Kendall Onstott, son of I. Onstott of Vernon, which took place in a chapel at an undisclosed field July 27 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The bridegroom has been called for overseas duty and after Sept. 1 the bride will be at home in Hobbs with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Criner. She has been serving in the WACS, stationed at Stuttgart, Ark., and formerly worked in the Ratisseau-Mason Ins. Claim service offices in Lubbock.

The candle-lighted chapel was decorated with flowers and greenery for the doube ring service which was read by Rev. Johnston Calhoun, a Presbyterian minister.

The bride who wore a printed crepe dress with jacket and an orchid, was attended by Mrs. J. P. Hunnicutt.

Lt. Hunnicutt was best man.

The bride is a graduate of Searcy, Ark., High school. Lt Onstott is a graduate of Mineral Wells High school and holds a bachelor of science degree in textile engineering from Texas Technological college with the class of 1938. He was a member of the Engineering society, Phi Psi fraternity and Los Camaradas club.

Bernice Hyde Weds Cpl. Joe Snead

Miss Bernice Hyde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hyde of Earth, and Cpl. Joe Snead of Camp Barkeley, son of Mrs. Mattie Snead of Fort Sumner, N. M., took their wedding vows Aug. 17 at the home of Rev. W. C. Hinds, pastor of Asbury Methodist church.

The bride wore a light blue dress and hat and black accessories. She wore white crochet gloves, a gift from her grandmother.

The bridegroom was a farmer before going into the Army.

Mrs. Snead is a graduate of Springlake High school and a former student at Texas Technological college.

The left shortly after the ceremony for Abilene where the bride will visit for a time.

War Wives Active

SPAAF," the Extensioner said.

But the women's work doesn't stop with a days work on the farm.

There are the Gray Ladies, an organization which visits the hospital, reads and writes for the men there and helps in any other way possible.

In the Red Cross production room at SPAAF, the women roll bandages and otherwise contribute their services in cooperation with the local unit of the Red Cross.

The Chapel guild has as its duties the decorating of buildings for various activities, furnishing flowers for the chapel, planning for post parties for children of men in service and other such entertainment functions.

Of course, there must be some relaxation along with this work. The women have organized a bridge club which also has as its functions the collecting of donations for deserving organizations, furnishing flowers for the chapel during the winter and entertainment.

The job may appear small and lost in news from the battlefronts, but it is these little things which are building the morale of the soldier over here and over there.

From Lou To Louella

DEAR LOUELLA: Posted in a conspicuous place on the Tech campus this week was the fatal notice that Ted Ray, Los Cams member, solemnly swore to refrain from having anything to do with women from that day forward. Hard luck for Betty Koerting. . . . What is to become of Jeff Lewis when Velda Ruth Stimson leaves for school in Virginia, and vice versa? . . . That long face Margie Gerber is wearing is occasioned by Bobby "Taffy" Roberts reporting to the Navy this week. Cheer up Margie, Elmer Hargrove will double. . . . While on the subject of Navy blues, James Venable leaves Monday to add his name to the growing list of Lubbock and Tech sailors. . . . Earl 'Skeet" Clark, ex-Wrangler Techsan, who is on the staff of a Naval hospital in Oakland, Cal., writes there is no shortage of girls there. . . . Most popular question on Tech campus these days is "Will Tommy Dorsey really be in town in September?" . . . Evelyn Jones, popular Tech co-ed, has finally smoothed out all the wrinkles in her affair with A/C Hal Saunders, of San Marcos. Hal dated Betty Shook last six weeks . . . Nothing like a little variety. . . . Congratulations to Major and Mrs. Henry Wray of Lubbock Army Air field who are celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary today. . . . We imagine the postal service is working overtime with all of Tech's girls social clubs secretaries writing prospective fall pledges . . . Robert Lewis, ex-Kemas Techsan, stationed at San Diego, has learned in his first few Navy days that sailors call each other "Mac". . . . Elizabeth Goffinett has returned from a visit with Lt. Chris P. Hodgson of Oklahoma City who is now stationed in Florida.

Mostly Air Corps

Lt. F. S. "Pep" Porter, LAAF graduate of December, is now stationed at Clovis ready to give the girls a break back at Tech. . . . Temple Joyce McAfee seems to favor Julian Fairley these days. . . . Back on the campus to receive the sheepskin this week are Faye Ruth Harding, Jeann Etta Dodge and Helen Duff. "Duffy" is now slinging printers ink for the Abilene Reporter-News where Clark Schooley, ex-professor of journalism at Tech, is rendering his services. . . . Strange things go through the flight room at LAAF after "kaydets" have made cross country flights to El Paso, one of the strangest being two Scotty dogs that now hold a seat of honor in a certain barracks despite their destructiveness. . . . Glenn Batson, ex-Techsan who is now with the Navy, returned on leave last week end from active duty on the high seas to see his best girl friend, Evelyn Griffin of Littlefield and Tech. . . . Marijo Turner, Tech's Lana Turner, received a most exciting long distance telephone call Thursday.

G. M. MIDDLETON, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Middleton of Slaton has returned to his home on a 10-day leave from Davisville, R. I., where he is a Navy yeoman third class. . . . Katherine Browning, Dean Wright's finance, was visiting on the campus this weekend. . . . The eternal triangle has sprung up between Sarah Scroggins, Jeff Jeffries and Raymond Swafford. . . . Business boomed for local florists Tuesday when Burl Hubbard, in the Army in Mississippi, made possible a delightful setting for Miss Anne Birkman's voice recital. . . . Two weeks have passed since Buddy Keen, Kemas, ate in the girls dormitory, as a personal message from 100 girls or more of the same opinion, the welcome sign is still out. . . . Scoop of the week is the news that Evelyn Cooper is to go to Dallas today to make arrangements for entering the WAVEs. Lots of luck to the personality girl! . . . Speaking of girls in uniform, Georgia Lee Powers, Tech journalism graduate, is standing by for call into the Marines. . . In a recent chat with Perrene Verner, ex-Techsan, Who's Who and outstanding student, we learn that she is going to work for an oil company in Abilene. . . . Jimmy Donaghey is seen often now with the attractive Maurine Hunt. . . . John Joe Kurkoff, the original woman hater, parks his car often at the girl's dormitory. What could be the attraction? . . . In an excursion to Buffalo Lake Thursday, Panze Butler revealed her ignorance of the modern novel. Ask Panze for details. . . . Sad news to all who hear that Gladys Ruth McNamara, Tech beauty, is to attend University of Texas next year, and sister, Faith? . . . Marguerite Nobles, favorite of "Tooter" Clark, visited on the campus last week. . . . Do you remember Ann Alexander and Frank Chaney, popular ex-Techsans? They have been married for some time we hear. . . . Mrs. Britt S. May, the former Mary Anne Stephenson, is to return to Lubbock for a short vacation this week. So long for awhile.

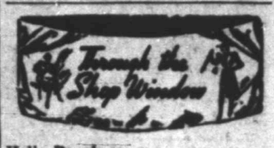

Love,

Lou.

Just keeping supplied with young men to play the part of Henry Aldrich on the air is quite a headache for the sponsor. A third has to be dug up before the series is continued in the fall, two having been called to serve Uncle Sam.

Hello Peoples,

Didn't find many folks at home this week when I dropped by Decorators Studio. Fredda has gone again, this time to Floydada taking Jean with her. You can bet that someone's house in Floydada will really be looking pretty right away, now.

And speaknig of pretty — you should see that table set with that beautiful red Franciscan china, red crystal and turquoise and gold salad plates from Austria on a yellow organdy and linen cloth. For decoration there's an arrangement of golden-glow in turquoise china vases, besides odd pieces of silver and harmonizing china. Above the table there's a pair of Black-amoor lamps on bleached Mahogany wall brackets hung on either side of a large mirror.

Have you seen that tricky little Mexican hand-painted bar in the window at the Lubbock National Bank? It's a folding kind with a tin tray. Sure would come in handy for serving those drinks inside or out.

So long for now,

Nosey III.

P.S. Someone seems to have gotten the idea that the Studio is closed and that is a big mistake for it's very muchly open for business on all days except Saturdays and Sundays through the month of August.

Bombing Halts Nazi Movement To Vienna

BERN, Switzerland, Aug. 21. (AP)—The Gazette de Lausanne said today that transfer of Nazi government bureaus to Vienna had ceased after the bombing of the nearby city of Wiener Neustadt Aug. 13 and that the principal ministries were now installed in Plauen, Saxony, 150 miles southwest of Berlin.

The German ministries of foreign affairs, economy and interior, as well as the administrative organizations of major industries were reported moved to Plauen. Members of the diplomatic corps were said to have taken quarters in the suburbs.

In a dispatch datelined "at the German frontier," the newspaper quoted eyewitnesses as saying the Wiener Neustadt attack (by U. S. Liberator bombers of the Middle East command) caused consternation among the people of the Danubian city 27 miles to the north.

Fires and smoke were reported still rising the following morning.

Mr. and Mrs. George Green, 2015 Broadway, have as their guests this week Mrs. Don Kinnebrew, and niece Mrs. John Harllee and her son, John, jr., from San Francisco, Calif. Mrs. Harllee is the wife of Commander John Harllee who is in active duty in the eastern theater of war.

Mr. and Mrs. Cap Moore, 804 Avenue R, have as their guest their son, Pfc. Dewitt Moore, who is stationed at Bowman field, near Louisville, Ky. He has been in the service for six months, serving first at Sheppard field, Wichita Falls.

Judges Association To Meet In Austin

FLOYDADA, Aug. 21 (Special)—Formal announcement was made today by Alton B. Chapman, president of the District and Appellate Judges association of Texas, of the annual meeting of the organization to be held in Austin Sept. 24-25. Judge James P. Alexander, chief justice of the Supreme court of Texas will preside at discussions.

A half-day will be devoted to study of the Supreme court rule changes effective Jan. 1. Other subjects vital to an efficient functioning of the judiciary in Texas will be discussed, and it is hoped that the different committees now studying the question of judicial redistricting will have reports to make to the conference.

One feature of the program that will be especially attractive to those who have heard him on other occasions will be the address of Jeff Williams, humorist of Chickasha, Okla. His subject will be "Judges After the War."

Despite discomforts of travel, it is expected the meeting will be almost unanimously attended, Judge Chapman said.

PREACHING AT TOKIO—Rev. Albert F. Laing, above, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene began a revival in the Church of the Nazarene at Tokio, Wednesday. The meeting will close August 29. In the absence of Rev. Laing, his pulpit will be occupied today by Rev. A. W. Hall, a Methodist minister of Lubbock, and August 29 by Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Widmeyer of Pasadena, Calif.

CONDUCTING REVIVAL—Rev. Guy Shields, above, is conducting a "camp meeting" revival at Sixth street and Avenue L, which opened Friday and continues through next Sunday. He preaches each night at 8 o'clock. Elder William Kitchen is conducting daily morning services. John Q. Adams, 17-year-old evangelist, and others are to speak at afternoon meetings. Zeke Fullerton's gospel musicians are providing the music.

TO PREACH HERE—Rev. Woodie W. Smith, above, Baptist evangelist of Fort Worth, will speak at both morning and evening services of the Park View Baptist church today. Having been in the ministry for thirty-two years, he has been visiting Lubbock since 1902.

VISITING PASTOR—R. Joseph Evans, above, graduate of the Moody Bible institute of Chicago, is serving as visiting pastor of the Grace Gospel church at Sixteenth street and Avenue N during August. He preached in revival services at the church the past week.

Wives To Be Guests At Legion Meeting

Wives of members will be the guests of honor and watermelon will be served at the semi-monthly meeting of Allen Bros. of the American Legion Monday night at 8:45 o'clock in the home, 910 Texas avenue, according to announcement Saturday by F. W. Groce, new commander.

The program will include selections by Sgt. and Mrs. Ben Lewkowitz on the violin and cello, and a talk by Capt. John L. Schroeder of the student operations' division at Lubbock Army Air field. Sgt. Lewkowitz is stationed at South Plains Army Air field. Tim Miller will play their piano accompaniment.

The new commander extended an invitation to service men and their wives to attend the meeting.

Church Notes

Dr. J. O. Haymes, pastor of St. Paul Methodist church, Abilene, will be the guest minister at the First Methodist church for both morning and evening services today. Dr. Haymes has served several years as district superintendent of this conference, and he is president of the conference Board of Christian education. He was pastor of the First Methodist church here from 1930 to 1934 and a review of the records for those years show that the church was most outstanding in its programs.

Musical special for the First Presbyterian church this morning will be a violin and cello duet, played by M/Sgt. and Mrs. Ben Lewkowitz. They will play "Romance" by Wieniawski, and Tim Miller will accompany on piano. Lewkowitz and his wife have inspired many Lubbock audiences during their stay here.

Revival Meeting of the Levelland Methodist church will begin this morning at 10 o'clock and continue through next week. Rev. W. E. Peterson, pastor, and Rev. H. H. Hollowell of the O'Donnell Methodist church, will be in charge of the services which are to be held at 10 a. m. and 9 p. m. daily.

Children's Daily Vacation Bible school and singing school will be conducted at the Central Baptist church, 1311 Eighteenth street, all this week, Rev. Jeff D. Welch, pastor, announced Saturday. Sessions will be from 9 to 10:30 a. m. every day, Rev. Welch said all children, regardless of ages, are urged to attend.

Back to the Bible Hour radio program of old-fashioned gospel conducted every Sunday morning at 9 o'clock over KFYO by M. H. Duncan this morning will have for its subject, "The Time is Later Than You Think," a message on the signs of the times and the coming of the Lord.

Borneo apes build platforms in trees on which they often sleep for several nights.

TO PREACH IN REVIVAL—Rev. Jack A. Welch, above, of Texarkana, twin brother of Rev. Jeff D. Welch, pastor of the Central Baptist church, 1311 Eighteenth street, is to preach in revival services opening at the church today and continuing ten days. Rev. Welch's first sermon will be preached Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Services will be conducted at 10:30 a. m. and 8:30 p. m. daily. This is Rev. Welch's eleventh revival meeting here.

Nylon Is Released For Civilian Goods

DALLAS, Aug. 21 (AP)—Nearly half a million yards of silk and nylon parachute cloth, rejected by the Army for parachutes, has been released by the War Production board for manufacture of women's underwear, including brassieres, and baby pants, George L. Noble, jr., WPB regional director, said today.

"While the total is small it is in line with WPB policy to provide for essential civilian needs and one of many similar actions taken in the last two weeks," he said.

CRIME AND JUVENILE DELINQUENCY TO BE DISCUSSED TODAY!

According to the F.B.I. there has been an alarming increase in crime and juvenile delinquency in recent months. What do these facts portend? What results will follow the lowering of moral standards in this country? Do professing Christians generally live better lives now than in the past, or is the converse true? What popular sins of the day must be shunned by those desiring to please the Lord? What is worldliness? How may children of God determine whether they may participate in any given act, or not? You are cordially invited to hear Guy N. Woods, minister of the Southside Church of Christ, 23rd and N, answer these questions and others of similar nature today. Morning services 10:45, evening, 8:30.

City Plans For Power Needs

Members of the city commission are looking ahead to the future electrical power needs of Lubbock.

They disclosed that they have directed Marlin R. Smith, jr., city manager, and John Graham, city electrical plant superintendent, to attempt to arrange their duties so that they can inspect power generating engines of improved designs now on display in the Fairbanks-Morse factory in Beloit, Wis., and the Nordberg plant in Milwaukee.

The last several engines for the electrical plant have been bought from Nordberg, the last in 1940. It was one of the last engines to be manufactured for civilian use in that plant. Both Nordberg and Fairbanks-Morse have been producing exclusively for the Navy since 1941.

Plenty Electricity For Present

As it happens, members of the city commission reported, prospects are that Lubbock users will have all the electricity they may require for the duration, due largely to the fact that the new engine was bought just before this type of production was frozen.

But the expectation is that a new engine will be needed just as soon as it can be obtained, which probably won't be until after victory. Officials believe that more electricity will be needed in Lubbock by, if not before, the time an engine can be obtained to generate it.

Local officials have been advised by the manufacturers that the engines, when obtainable, will be far superior to anything that has been available in the past. The specific natures of the improvements are closely guarded military secrets.

Smith and Graham are planning tentatively to make their inspections at about the time of a national city manager's meeting in Chicago next month.

German Army Urged To Avoid Collapse

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. (AP)—A member of the national free German committee, recently organized by German prisoners of war and exiles in Russia, appealed over the Moscow radio today to the German army to "avoid the collapse of 1918 on a far larger scale" by organizing to "overthrow the Hitler clique."

The broadcast, which was recorded by the U. S. foreign broadcast intelligence service, urged German officers and soldiers "to lead the armed forces back to the borders of the Reich intact."

"If the war is carried on to the last," the speaker warned in the appeal which was beamed to Germany, "there is danger the armed forces might simply break up and that would be the end of any chance of an orderly march back."

The speaker was described as a Lt. Frankenfeld, former battalion commander of the 11th armored grenadier regiment of the Ninth German armored division.

Post-War Road Plans To Emphasize Safety

AUSTIN, Aug. 21. (AP)—Plans for $100,000,000 worth of post-war highway construction in Texas include very possible safe driving improvement, State Highway Engineer Dewitt C. Greer today told the administrative committee of the Texas Safety association meeting here.

Greer said the current slow down in road building has given technicians an opportunity to plan the roads of the future in minute detail.

Charles A. Miller of Houston, personnel director for the Texas company, urged that the association promote the appointment of a safety supervisor attached to the school system in order to teach safety early.

R. B. Roaper of Houston, president of the association, said safety emphasis will be placed on off-the-job accidents.

C. Of C. Asks Return To Standard Time

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 21. (AP)—The San Antonio Chamber of Commerce board of directors addressed a resolution to President Roosevelt today, asking the return of the nation to standard sun time November 1. The board said business men here believed generally that no advantage has been derived from the use of war time.

Prompt Reporting Of Dysentery Cases Urged

AUSTIN, Aug. 21. (AP)—Prompt reporting of dysentery cases and the elimination of unsanitary conditions where it is found was urged today by the State Department of Health.

The week of Aug. 14 reflected a continued high incidence of the disease, with 47 cases. Of these, 29 were amebic dysentery. The seven year median for the week is 96 cases.

Other high incidence diseases were: (median figure last) influenza 201 and 96; pneumonia 118 and 43; typhus 55 and 23; whooping cough 191 and 153.

U. S. Group Formed To Salvage Monuments

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—Establishment of an American commission for the protection and salvage of artistic and historic monuments in Europe, under the chairmanship of Justice Owen J. Roberts, was announced today by the State department. Recovery of art objects from Axis leaders who have appropriated them also is among the functions of the commission.

The commission will function in conjunction with similar groups in other countries the announcement said.

FROM PRIVATE TO CAPTAIN

TAHOKA — Capt. Joy Edwin Brown, 24, Tahoka native, son of Mrs. Pearl Brown, has held practically every rating in the U. S. Army from buck private to captain in two and a half years' service. He entered Fort Bliss, El Paso, in November, 1940, a private, rose to sergeant, and was recommended for Officers' Candidate school. He graduated from Fort Benning, Ga., OCS June 9, 1942, received his commission as second lieutenant, and was sent to Camp Carson, Colo., where he is stationed now. After six months there, he was promoted to first lieutenant, and on July 23 received his commission as captain. Capt. Brown was born and reared in Tahoka, graduated from the local high school, where he was a star athlete in football, played in the band, and edited the school paper. His mother and his father, Charlie Brown, who died about 18 years ago, were pioneer citizens of Lynn county. Brown was married Feb. 18, 1942, to Miss Dolly Clements of Snyder.

Promotion to first lieutenant has been announced for George Walton, former Lubbock resident, who is stationed at Camp Beale, Calif. Mrs. Walton is making her home at Marysville, near the post.

Two service stars hang in a window at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Anderson of Shallowater. Rex B. Anderson, 18, is enrolled at Cincinnati (Ohio) university, for course of instruction lasting approximately five months prior to his appointment as an aviation cadet in the Army Air Forces Training command. During this period he will take numerous academic course, as well as elementary flying training.

Rex B.

Sgt. J. R. Anderson is stationed with the Army Air field at Frederick, Okla., where he is post technical inspector. Sgt. Anderson, who volunteered for the service last September, served at Lubbock Army Air field until February when he was transferred to the Frederick post.

OVERBY IS PROMOTED

MAJORS FIELD—Promoted to the rank of first lieutenant was Lt. Cecil T. Overby, Lubbock, this week here at this basic flying school at Greenville. Lt. Overby is instrument trainer officer here on the post. Formerly Lt. Overby attended Texas Tech. Lt. Overby served as an enlisted man at the Lubbock Army Flying school for seven months.

Lt. (j.g.) George L. Musick, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Musick, 2317 Eighth street, who is serving with the Naval air corps, is somewhere in the South Pacific, having received sailing orders in July soon after completing a training course at Oak Harbor, Wash. Lt. Musick was commissioned at the Corpus Christi Naval Air Training center in July, 1942 and spent a few days here before reporting to San Diego for eight weeks training. He left last September for service in the Aleutians where he was in action until January and after a short leave, spent in Lubbock with his parents, he reported to Oak Harbor. The flier is a former Tech student where he was a major in journalism.

Pfc. Teddy George Waldrip has been transferred from Sheppard field, Wichita Falls, to an Army pre-flight training school in Oshkosh, Wis., according to report Saturday by his mother, Mrs. Gladys Waldrip, 1907 Firteenth street. Entering service last October, Waldrip was stationed at Lubbock Army Air field until February, when he was transferred to an instrument training field at Bryan. He was assigned to the Wichita Falls replacement center about six weeks ago.

Cpl. J. B. Moore, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Moore, ten miles west of Ropesville, is home on a 30-day furlough after having seen service in the south Pacific with the United States Marines. He was on Guadalcanal about four months and other south Pacific islands. He fought on Guadalcanal throughout the preliminary battle for the island. Cpl. More has been in the Marines about three years. He graduated from Lubbock High school and engaged in farming prior to his enlistment. Following completion of his furlough, Cpl. Moore will report back to San Diego for further orders.

Platoon Sgt. M. N. Davidson, jr., U. S. Marines, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Davidson of Lubbock, is in command of guards at a naval base on an island off the northwest coast of Washington state, according to information received by his parents. Sgt. Davidson, who visited in Lubbock recently after taking part in the fight for Guadalcanal, was transferred to the island following a brief assignment at Bremerton, Wash.

Visit To Pyramids Related By Lubbock Man In Letter

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hord, 2424 Twenty-ninth street, received a telegram this week from Lt. Gen. T. Holcomb of the U. S. Marine corps at Arlington, Va., containing an official declaration of death in the case of their son, Sgt. Major Joplin C. Hord, 42, of the U. S. Marines. Sgt. Hord had been a member of the Marines 24 years. He had been reported missing since last Aug. 8 when the battleship Astoria was sunk in the battle of the Solomons. Sgt. Hord attended school at Valley Mills in Bosque county, enlisting in the Marines in 1928 when he was 18 years old. He received his training at Quantico, Va., and had served in all of the major posts of the Marines throughout the world. He was at Pearl Harbor when the Japs bombed it. He visited here about 1928 with his parents. The Hords also have another son, Cpl. Andrew Frank Hord, who is in North Africa. He was recently identified in a newsphoto guarding a group of prisoners in an African prison camp. A third son, Cpl. J. B. Hord, jr., is in the armored force stationed at Fort Knox, Ky.

BLOOM IS PROMOTED

Charles G. Bloom of Lubbock, pilot of a four-motored transport called the "Tech Co-Ed," was promoted to rank of captain July 7, it has been learned here. Captain Bloom has been in overseas service in the Air Transport command since July 21. He is the son of Mrs. C. G. Bloom and brother of Mrs. Wilmot Eaton of 3302 Twenty-first street. A former instructor in the RAF school at Terrell, he entered the Ferry command as a civilian instructor in January of 1942. He was commissioned first lieutenant in June of 1942, after the Ferry command became an official Army unit, the Air Transport command.

James F. Chaney, graduate and former football player in Levelland High school, is not completing "boot camp" training in San Diego, Calif., following his enlistment in the Navy about two months ago, according to word received by his mother, Mrs. Jim Nail, 526 Cliff Drive, Lubbock.

Chaney enlisted June 17 within a few weeks after reaching his 18th birthday anniversary. Born in Abilene, he resided in Paducah for two years before the family moved to Levelland several years ago.

Promoted to the rank of first lieutenant recently at the San Antonio Aviation Cadet center was Lt. Weldon M. Bishop, 27, of 2322 Seventh street. Originally commissioned on October 17, 1942, Lt. Bishop has been assigned as mess officer at the station hospital at San Antonio.

Cpl. Walter L. Simpson, who formerly lived in Lubbock, is serving with the U. S. Army Air Forces in New Guinea. Cpl. Simpson enlisted in the Army in August, 1942 and received his basic training at Sheppard field, near Wichita Falls and also his airplane mechanics course there. He later trained at Chanute field, Ill., and at Kearns field, near Salt Lake, Utah.

BLEDSOE AT WILL ROGERS

WILL ROGERS FIELD, Okla., Second Lt. Willis H. Bledsoe, son of Mrs. Emma K. Bledsoe, 1812 Broadway, Lubbock, Texas, reported to this army air force bombardment base August 8. He was commissioned at Lowry Field, Colorado, October 10, 1942 after completing a photography course. Lt. Bledsoe is a graduate of Lubbock High school, had ROTC training while attending Texas Military Institute and Virginia Military Institute, and received his B. A. degree after completing Texas Tech and Texas university.

COMPLETES TRAINING

CHANUTE FIELD, Ill. — Corp. George W. Brown of 602 Averue L, Lubbock, has completed training and graduated from the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command school here. While stationed here, he received instruction in the airplane electrical specialist course.

In a recent letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Halsell, 2708 Twentieth street, in which he enclosed an outline to illustrate his description, 1st Lt. Oscar E. Halsell of the U. S. Air corps told of a trip he and companions made to the pyramids. The airmen went inside of the tomb of Cheops which is the largest of them all and is just back of the Spinx.

"Words do fail me, literally, when I try to say how large this thing is," Lt. Halsell wrote. "The stones of solid granite are as large as an ordinary bathroom and it fills one with awe to think of the years and countless men who labored to construct this mountain of rock by hand. You can get a bit of an idea when I tell you it took us 30 minutes to walk from the outside to the King's chamber and this was not round and round but was generally in a straight line.

Like Blast Furnace

"I spent two days on the Mediterranean and then went inland and saw all the things the Bible talks about: Jerusalem, Jericho, Bethlehem, the Dead Sea, etc. I might add in passing that this is one of the (if not the hottest) places in the world. We stepped out of the plane at one place and the weather office had just recorded 118 degrees in the shade. A few days before they had registered 123 degrees and that is what the lads over here are living in. It strikes you like the blast of a furnace and you can't touch anything during the day without a glove or handkerchief. I had to use two hankies to get in and out of the nose of the medium bomber that we were in and during the time that I mounted and we got into the air, I was like an egg yolk in a shell. I would be as wet as if you had tossed a bucket of warm salt water on me and then when we did get into the air and dashed up several thousand feet we would proceed to freeze to death.

"This section is supposed to be where the world had its beginning, that is between the Tigris and Euphrates rivers and if that is true it had a sadder beginning than it had become, because this is a sad group of land. About all that happened that was eventful was that I paid a dollar to get an egg to eat and I bought a pup which I have named Lockinvar. He has not yet lost his milk teeth, yet he has 2,400 miles of air travel to his credit and he had about half the camp to look after him."

Other Son In Sicily.

Lt. Halsell, a navigator, said he toured the road to Jericho "about 100 times faster than the creatures used to tour it. They went 3 mph and we at 300 mph."

Capt. Harry H. Halsell, with an armored field artillery battalion, writes his parents, that "a lot of the men in my battery are from Texas. My driver is from Borger, one is from Amherst and one from Odessa, another from Tahoka and all the towns around Lubbock."

He landed in Sicily with the first troops. He writes that "the country here is rather rugged. There are fruit trees, almond trees and vegetables. The standard of living is pretty low, nearly as bad as in Africa."

He asked for the family to send him a cigaret lighter if possible, since "matches are hard to get."

Pvt. Jean D. Smith, 20, of the U. S. Marine corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Smith of Ralls, has successfully completed basic training at boot camp in San Diego and was one of the ten selected to attend Sea school at San Diego. He was elected honor man of his platoon while in boot camp. He is now on guard duty at Mare Island Navy yards, near San Francisco, Calif. He enlisted in the Marine corps on February 24, 1943. He is a graduate of Ralls High school and has attended John Tarleton Agricultural college at Stephenville and North Texas Agricultural college at Arlington.

DOUGLAS IS PROMOTED

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. — Harold J. Douglas, U. S. Marine, son of Mrs. Hattie L. Douglas of Lubbock, Tex., has been promoted from sergeant to platoon sergeant at this Marine Corps base. Platoon Sergeant Douglas, 22, has been a Marine three years.

MADDOX IS PROMOTED

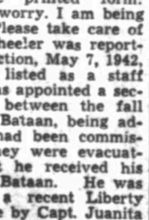

RANDOLPH FIELD — Second Lt. Frank M. Maddox, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Maddox, sr., 1645 Main, Lubbock, has been promoted to the rank of first lieutenant. Lt. and Mrs. Maddox, permanent residents of 1908 18th street, Waco, are temporarily living in San Antonio. He is serving as adjutant for the fifth statistical unit at Headquarters, Army Air Forces Gulf Coast Training Center. His army schooling included two-months spent at officer's candidate school in Miami Beach, Fla., and a further month at the Army Air Forces Statistical school, unit of Harvard university. He was commissioned Dec. 5, 1942. Lt. Maddox received his BA degree in history and anthropology from Texas Technological college, located in Lubbock, in 1935. He was a member of the College club. He is a member of the Waco Junior Board of Commerce. Prior to entering into service with the U. S. Army, he was employed by the Texas Power and Light company.

TRAINING AT SCOTT FIELD

SCOTT FIELD, Ill.—To fit him for duty as a member of a fighting bomber crew, Pfc. Kenneth R. Renner, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Renner of 2912 Twentieth street, will receive here an intensive course in radio operating and mechanics.

Mrs. Myrtle Wheeler Willingham of Seagraves has received a prisoner form card from her son, Lt. Tony J. Wheeler, who is a prisoner of the Japs in a Philippine prison camp. The card, bearing the mark of the Imperial Japanese Army, stated that he was being detained in Philippine Islands camp No. 7 and that his health was excellent and he was uninjured. "Please see that Tony Wheeler 2nd (his four-year-old nephey who is named for him) is taken care of." Typed on the card was this message, other than the words underscored in the printed form: "Mother, don't worry. I am being treated swell. Please take care of yourself. Lt. Wheeler was reported missing in action, May 7, 1942, and was then listed as a staff sergeant. He was appointed a second lieutenant between the fall of Manila and Bataan, being advised that he had been commissioned when they were evacuating Manila but he received his commission on Bataan. He was mentioned in a recent Liberty magazine article by Capt. Juanita Redman as driving one of the trucks that evacuated some of the nurses from that area.

WOMEN IN SERVICE

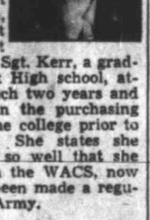

Staff Sgt. C. R. Thompson, 32, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Thompson, 2423 Seventh street, is stationed somewhere in England with the U. S. Army Air Forces. He was formerly stationed at Lubbock Army Air Field and later at Pueblo, Colo. He went overseas about three months ago. He is an airplane mechanic with a bomber repair crew. He enlisted in the air corps in February, 1942. His wife, the former Naomi Robnett, who has been a teacher in Lubbock Public schools the past several years, is residing here in the absence of her husband. Sgt. Thompson is a graduate of Lubbock High school and was in the laundry business prior to his enlistment.

Ralph Balfanz, who has been employed as petroleum engineer at Monahans for two years, entered the Navy as an ensign Monday and reported for a training period at the University of Arizona, Tucson. Mrs. Balfanz is the former Jo Marie Carmack of Clovis, N. M., and they are parents of a year-old son. Ensign Balfanz was graduated in 1932 from Abilene High school, where he played on the state championship team of 1931 and later attended Chicago university and Texas Technological college, receiving his degree from the latter institution in 1936.

Sgt. Juanita Kerr, daughter of S. T. Kerr of Fort Worth and sister of Emmett and Lewis Kerr of Lubbock, is now stationed at Tacoma, Wash., doing recruiting work in the Women's Army corps. Sgt. Kerr received her basic training at Daytona Beach, Fla., and recruit training at Fort Des Moines, Ia. Sgt. Kerr, a graduate of Lubbock High school, attended Texas Tech two years and was employed in the purchasing department at the college prior to her enlistment. She states she likes the Army so well that she is re-enlisting in the WACS, now that they have been made a regular unit of the Army.

Martha Joyce Russell, 3/C petty officer, is home on leave and visiting her mother, Mrs. Essie Russell, 1709 Fifth street. Miss Russell enlisted in the WAVES last March and recently was graduated from the radio school at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. She has been assigned to duty in Hutchinson, Kas.

Pfc. James C. Daniel of the U. S. Marines, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Daniel, 413 Avenue L, visited his parents last week on a furlough from his duties in the combat intelligence division of the Marines stationed at Camp Elliott, Calif. Pfc. Daniel is a graduate of Lubbock High school and enlisted in the Marines soon after receiving his diploma.

MEDLOCK AN INSTRUCTOR

GULFPORT FIELD, Miss. — Sgt. Alfred A. Medlock, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Medlock, route 3 Lubbock, is working as an instructor here in this school of airplane mechanics. He teaches future airplane mechanics in the hydraulic branch. Sgt. Medlock received his instruction as a qualified airplane mechanic at Keesler Field, Miss.

David A. Montgomery, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Montgomery, route one, Lubbock, is spending a 30-day leave with his parents after serving in the Alaskan area about a year. He has been in the Navy three years and aviation radioman second class. He is a graduate of Roosevelt High school and was a student in Texas Tech prior to his enlistment. He received his boot camp training at San Diego and served at various West coast posts before going to Alaska where he served on patrol planes.

RECEIVES DECORATION

MATADOR—Tech. Sgt. G. W. Fulfer has been presented the Order of the Purple Heart, it has been learned here by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Fulfer. The medal that was presented just 24 hours after the Rumanian raid on Sunday, August 1, made the seventh medal Tech. Sgt. Fulfer has received while on duty in the Middle Eastern theater of war. The others are the Air Medal, received five times, and the Distinguished Flying Cross. Report of the presentation came on the United Press with a Cairo, Egypt date line.

Promotion of Bruce Collier to grade of technician fifth grade at Camp Fannin was announced this week. Collier, former member of the staff of KFYO, was formerly stationed in the West Texas Recruiting and Induction center here. He is assigned to the office of camp publications at Camp Fannin. Mrs. Collier and their young son are residing at their home, 2117 Twenty-ninth street.

MARFA, — Elwin A. Hudson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Hudson, Sanderson, received his wings when he graduated as a second lieutenant from the Marfa, Texas AAF Advanced Flying school, it was announced by Col. Gerald Hoyle, commanding officer. Lt. Hudson was commissioned upon completion of his course in training in twin-engine planes. He was assigned here from Gardner field, Taft, Calif. Lt. Hudson is a former graduate of Whitharral High school.

BERRY IS PROMOTED

BIG SPRING. — Flight Officer Milford A. Berry, pilot at the Big Spring Bombardier school, has been promoted to second lieutenant. Lt. Berry, son of Windfield S. Berry of 1602 Avenue O, Lubbock, attended Frenship High school and Cooper High school. He has had more than 400 hours flying experience and has been previously stationed at Lubbock and Midland fields.

Cecil C. Hill, 24, former employe of the Bell Ice Cream company here, is now a petty officer, second class, in the Navy SeaBees and is stationed on one of the Hawaiian islands. He enlisted in the SeaBees last October and received his boot camp training at Camp Bradford. He went overseas last February. A graduate of Lamesa High school, Hill attended Texas Tech one year. His father, R. C. Hill, resides in Lamesa. His wife is residing at 1618 Seventh street.

Promotion of Bruce Collier to grade of technician fifth grade at Camp Fannin was announced this week. Collier, former member of the staff of KFYO, was formerly stationed in the West Texas Recruiting and Induction center here. He is assigned to the office of camp publications at Camp Fannin. Mrs. Collier and their young son are residing at their home, 2117 Twenty-ninth street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Hudnall, 1502 Avenue E, have received a prisoner form postal card from their son, Sgt. Weldon S. Hudnall, 22, reporting he was a prisoner in Philippine Military Camp No. 1 of the Japanese government. The card is similar to those being received by other parents here in the past several days. Lines underscored on the card said he was uninjured and his health was good. "Hope that all are well and hope to see you all soon, please give my best regards to my relatives and friends" was typed on the card which bore no date. Sgt. Hudnall saw service on Bataan and Corregidor and the last word from him came March 12, 1942, several weeks before the fall of Corregidor. The card bore Sgt. Hudnall's signature. He was in the quartermaster's department of the Army. He enlisted in the Army, Nov. 8, 1939, withdrawing from the Lubbock public schools. He sailed for the Philippines, June 25, 1940. The card was sent to the Hudnalls at 1707 Avenue G, their address about a year ago.

TRAINING AS MECHANIC

GULFPORT, Miss—Cpl. F. Arlon Naler, son of F. E. Naler of 1916 Seventh street, has reported here for training as an airplane mechanic. Before entering service, he was employed by the Santa Fe railroad.

Edward E. Fort, 25, petty officer second class of the Navy SeaBees, is now on active duty with the SeaBees on Guadalcanal. Prior to his enlistment last October, he was employed by the Southwestern Bell Telephone company here. He received his boot camp training at Camp Endicott, R. I., and sailed from the West coast for the south Pacific early in February. A resident of Lubbock several years, he made his home at 1320 Seventh street, where his wife still resides. Fort is a graduate of Palestine High school. His mother, Mrs. R. C. Fort, resides in Palestine.

Pvt. James R. Morris, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Morris, 1320 Twenty-eighth street, recently was permitted to send a prisoner form post card from an unknown camp by the Japanese government. Pvt. Morris was a member of the 131st Field artillery, the now famed "Lost Battalion," which was in Java when the Japs invaded that country early in 1942. "As a prisoner of War, I am unwounded and healthy. Hope you are well," the card, which bore no date, said. The last word Mr. and Mrs. Morris had from their son was in February, 1942.

ENROLLED AS CADET

MAXWELL FIELD, Ala.—Enrolled as an aviation cadet in the Army Air Forces Pre-Flight school here, Davis C. May, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. May of Amherst, will receive nine weeks of military, physical and academic training preparatory to beginning his flight instruction.

REYNOLDS PROMOTED

MAJORS FIELD—Promoted to the rank of captain was Capt. Ewell E. Reynolds, formerly of Lubbock, this week here at this basic flying school at Greenville. Capt. Reynolds is assistant statistical officer here on the post. Formerly he worked for the Soil Conservation service at Lubbock.

FINISHES REFRESHER COURSE

GREAT LAKES, Illinois—Completing his first step towards becoming a radio specialist in the U. S. Navy, William T. Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wood, 1928 Nineteenth street, Lubbock, has finished a month's refresher course at the Navy's Pre-Radio school at the Naval Armory, Chicago, Ill. He now will be transferred to a primary materiel school for further training.

NUGENT AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Aviation Cadet James W. Nugent, son of Oscar J. Nugent, Denver City, Tex., has entered the Army Air Forces technical school at Yale university. Here he will train toward becoming a technical officer in aircraft maintenance engineering with the rank of second lieutenant.

Invasion Of France Is Moot Question

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Just before I sat down to write this column a New York banker stopped me in Rockefeller plaza and asked this question:

"Do you believe the western Allies will be able to get ahead with the big job—the invasion of France—this year?" he said.

I took that jump cautiously, for it's one of those spots where you can have a nasty spill.

"The indications are that it's possible," was my reply. "One might make it a bit stronger and say it's even probable, but there's nobody outside the Allied high command who can give a definite answer to that right now."

Will Have Warning

And that's precisely the way this momentous issue stands. We must wait and see, but I believe we shall get fair advance warning of any invasion of western Europe.

That will be in a terrific bombardment of the invasion coast from the air, and perhaps from the sea as well. The German coastal defenses will have to be paralyzed before we can drive the noses of our barges up on the beaches—unless we are prepared to see the tawny sands turned crimson.

When that moment arrives we are likely to get a solution of the mystery of where the Nazi bomber force—if any—has been hiding out these many moons. Many observers incline to the idea that Hitler has been holding his badly depleted fleet in reserve for just this great emergency upon which hang the immediate fortunes of Germany.

Nazis On Defensive

That strikes me as a logical assumption. While we don't know the exact condition of the Nazi air navy, we do know that some time ago the Nazis cut their bomber production down to a skeleton in order to permit the manufacture of more fighter planes. This means, of course, that the Nazis have gone on the defensive, since fighters are a defensive weapon.

Pending the time of invasion, the Anglo-American Allies are going ahead with their job of softening up Germany by bombing of an intensity and destructive power never before seen. We thought the Hitlerian blitz over England in 1940-41 was terrible—and it was—but it was mild as compared with what the boche are getting now.

The amount of destruction accomplished by a mission of several hundred bombers is colossal. The British figure on devastating about half an acre per bomber on every raid. Each formation of 84 American bombers can be expected to account for sixteen acres.

Kaiser Steel Plant Goes Into Operation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—The first new complete steel plant to be built in the United States since Pearl Harbor began its first full day of operations today, the War Production board announced.

The plant is the Kaiser company steel plate mill at Fontana, Calif., which builds steel ship plates.

Gulf Coast Dairymen To Ask Price Hikes

HOUSTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—A committee of Gulf coast dairy farmers today decided to ask Congress for a price of $4.90 a hundredweight on milk with a retail price of 17 cents a quart.

The committee will ask that the new prices be uniform from Laredo to Orange and from Galveston to Fort Worth. To replace the present five or six cent differential for each butter fat point above four per cent, they will ask for a uniform seven cents.

Present price in Harris county is $4 a hundredweight. The retail level is 15 cents a quart. About the same retail price prevails throughout this area, but the producers price varies.

The committee was named at a meeting of dairy farmers held here Aug. 4 under the auspices of the South Texas Producers' association. Representatives from Harris, Galveston, Wharton, San Patricio, Jim Wells and Nueces counties attended the first meeting.

Scatter Chatter About Home Town Of Film Industry

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 21. — Pat O'Brien checked into a busy San Diego hotel the other night after a camp show. Next morning the clerk telephoned and said he'd have to be out of the room in 15 minutes. A paper hanger was there to redecorate and wouldn't wait. O'Brien asked for enough time to shave and shower. The clerk conferred, returned to the phone, chuckled and said: "The paper hanger is hard of hearing. He didn't catch your name and says who the hell do you think you are, a movie star?"

FILM FOR NAZIS

"WATCH on the Rhine" will be the first picture to be dubbed in German for Nazi prisoners in this country. Object is to show insidious workings of Nazi leaders against their own people . . . Lana Turner is already consulting Hollywood beauty specialist Gloria Bristol on regaining her figure now that she has greeted the stork . . . Scene in which Ingrid Bergman goes insane in Metro's "Gaslight" will be one of the most simple but effective ever put on the screen. Director George Cukor will use only screen filling closeups of La Bergman's eyes.

SUCCESS STORY

HERE'S one of those Hollywood stories that tugs at the heart-strings and has an old-fashioned happy ending. When Producer Tim Whelan was casting his new RKO filmusical, "Higher and Higher," he met an old-time star at the Hollywood Red Cross blood bank. The chance meeting led to a contract for the actor and a nice role in Whelan's picture. The actor confessed later: "I was about to quit pictures and take a job as a doorman at a downtown store." The actor's name? No—he's once more able to put up that old "front" again, for a while at least, so we're going to spare his pride.

Alan Ladd And Loretta Young Are Starred In "China," Week's Headliner At Lindsey

ALAN Ladd, the tough guy, does a job on the Japs in "China," exciting film of love and war due today at the Lindsey. Ladd's co-star is Loretta Young.

Set near Shanghai in the days just before that fateful Dec. 7, the film introduces Ladd as an oil man who has no compunction about selling to the Japanese. His pal is William Bendix, of "Wake Island" fame, and Miss Young is an American teacher in a Chinese university.

Help Chinese Guerillas

Ladd and Bendix, while on their their way to Shanghai to close a deal with purchasing agents for the Nipponese invaders, team up with Miss Young in attempting to evacuate a group of Chinese girl students to a town far back in the hills, beyond reach of Japan's soldiery. They brave bombs and machine gun fire and then, with the dust of Nippin's advancing army in sight, they help Chinese guerillas stage a commando raid.

"Five Graves to Cairo," pictorial history of what took place on the African desert a few months ago, shows today and through Tuesday at the Tower. Its principals are Erich von Stroheim, as Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, Franchot Tone and Anne Baxter.

Behind Rommel's Lines

The story takes place behind the lines of Rommel's then victorious Africa corps and has to do with a British tank soldier accidentally stumbling into Rommel's staff headquarters and gaining his confidence along with some precious secrets.

The authentic story of how the United States came to possess and develop the Norden bomb sight, and how thousands of students are taught its operations in the nation's bombardier schools, is revealed for the first time in "Bombardier" which will show today through Tuesday at the Broadway.

The Lyric presents "Casablanca," starring Humphrey Bogart and Ingrid Bergman, today through Tuesday. Portrayed is the hazardous existence of refugees stranded in that north African city. The supporting cast is headed by Claude Rains, Conrad Veidt, Sydney Greenstreet and Peter Lorre.

Loretta Young and Alan Ladd are teamed in "China," gripping drama of the invasion of that country by the Japs, showing today through Wednesday at the Lindsey.

Anne Baxter and Franchot Tone are stars of "Five Graves to Cairo," with Erich von Stroheim as Field Marshal Rommel, showing today through Tuesday at the Tower.

Pat O'Brien is one of the stars of "Bombardier," showing at the Broadway today through Tuesday. Randolph Scott and Anne Shirley are other stars if the film.

Darryl Zanuck Plans Film On Woodrow Wilson's Life

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 21—Back to to the movie front after a year and a half in the army, Darryl Zanuck is cooking up a cinemat' biography in "Wilson" which undoubtedly will put him on the firing line of a different kind of battle.

"I am going to film," says Zanuck, "the story o Woodrow Wilson who gave his life for the ideal of world peace. It will obviously be a controversial motion picture. It's the greatest gamble I've ever taken. I don't know whether it will make money, but it's high time the film industry grew up and did something significant."

Zanuck

STICKS HIS NECK OUT

IN historical perspective says Zanuck, "the picture will be a record of a great and gallant failure — a colossal tragedy in statecraft which, millions of our citizens now believe, led inevitably to the conflict engulfing the world again today."

And that, brother, is where Darryl Zanuck sticks out his neck.

Hollywood has always been overcautious in its approach to disputed social and political questions. But when Zanuck brings into sharp focus the 1919 senate controversy over the League of Nations and Wilson's tour of the country to present the case directly to the people, he's going to step on a number of important toes.

OPEN TO OFFENSE

THE Republicans won't like it at all. Wilson's widow and many important figures of the Wilson administrations are still alive. Hates and prejudices undoubtedly remain. And the grandson of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge one of Wilson's foremost political foes, now sits in Congress. I wonder what he will think about the way Hollywood characterizes his grandpappy on the screen.

President Wilson, whose eight years in the White House were linked with stupendous changes in domestic and international history, was, to some, a cold, unbending man, a pacifist and impractical idealist to those out of sympathy with his methods and policies. As conceived by Zanuck and by Lamar Trotti, who is writing the screen play, the film "Wilson" will rank him with the greatest of our presidents, show his ability to stir the masses with his remarkable state papers and present him, for the first time, as a man with a great sense of humor.

"In research for the picture," says Scenarist Trotti, "I found Wilson the most amazing character I've ever come across. But even more than that, the picture will be a human interest story of the American scene during the 10 most crucial years of its history.

Many auto generators must be stepped up because the 35-mile-per-hour speed limit is not sufficient speed to keep the generators building up a charge in the batteries.

"Buy A War Bond TODAY"

A rich, human cavalcade of America."

Working with Dr. Ray Stannard Baker, who went to Paris with Wilson, and talking to men like Barney Baruch, Vance McCormick and Josephus Daniels, Scenarist Trotti has uncovered, he says, many warm, human facts about Wilson. Many of them, like his fondness for mystery stories, his interest in football, the theater, charades, his love of telling Negro and Scotch stories in dialect and the almost worship-like devotion of his associates will be in the picture.

In addition, Dr. Baker has placed at Trotti's disposal his unpublished day-by-day diary while he and Wilson were in Paris during the peace negotiations.

IT'S A FACT

FACTUAL and semi-documentary in its approach, "Wilson" will use almost a full reel of old newsreel film and will depict 45 real characters.

"The casting problem," says Zanuck, "is fantastic. I'd like to have good but comparatively unknown actors playing the great political figures of the day."

At this writing, only two characters have been cast—Sir Cedric Hardwicke as Wilson's enemy, Senator Lodge, and Thomas Mitchell as Joseph P. Tumulty, his secretary and confidant. Alfred Lunt has been mentioned as a possible Wilson.

"What's Buzzin' Cousin?" With Ann Miller, John Hubbard, Rochester, On At Palace

BOASTING Freddy Martin and his orchestra, Ann Miller and Rochester, "What's Buzzing' Cousin?" a comedy-musical, blows in at the Palace today for a three-day visit.

The male lead is taken By John Hubbard.

Miss Miller plays the role of an heiress who inherits a ghost town. In company with her three girl friends, Leslie Brooks, Jeff Donnell and Carol Hughes, who helped her pay off the debt on the "property" she inherited, Ann goes to claim the land. The girls are particularly interested in running the Palace hotel, which is part of the inheritance.

Town Is Deserted

When they get to the town they are thrown into despair at the desolate sight. The long-deserted Palace hotel, however, has a few guests. Freddy Martin and his orchestra, along with their handy man, Rochester, had run out of

"Stand By For Action," Featuring Taylor, Laughton And Donlevy, Is On At The Tech

BATTLE and high adventure on the high seas is the theme of "Stand By for Action" which opens today at the Tech. The picture presents Robert Taylor, Charles Laughton and Brian Donlevy.

Taylor plays a young lieutenant assigned with an older officer, played by Donlevy, to a recommissioned destroyer. They are assigned to guard a convoy, and amid hazardous adventures, including the rescue of 20 babies in drifting lifeboats, bring their charge safely into port.

Laughton plays an American admiral, and his address to the men on the destroyer, with its tribute to John Paul Jones, is an inspiring moment.

Walter Brennan injects comedy as a veteran yeoman, Chill Wills provides more laughs, and Richard Quine, Douglas Fowley, Marta Linden, Marilyn Maxwell and Inez Cooper are other principals.

Yanks Want Pencils, Pens, Smokes, Candy, ---Especially Candy

WITH THE U. S. SEVENTH ARMY IN SICILY, Aug. 21 (AP)—The invariable answer of the American soldier when asked what he'd like for Christmas is:

"A trip home."

A dozen doughboys were asked that question today. In every case the reply was the same.

But the boys know they can't get home for Christmas dinner with their families—so then they begin to think up gifts they would enjoy.

A poll among many troops shows they want: cigaret lighters, wrist watches, smokes, fountain pens, pencils and choices of food they can't get in the Army, and, particularly, good chocolate.

Loves Chocolate Candy

The Yank soldier loves chocolate candy, but for some reason good quality chocolate rarely reaches the troops in the field. The chocolate provided in field rations is full of nourishment and complete with vitamins, but lacks that rich taste that comes in the old-fashioned nickel bar back home.

The soldiers do not want:

Toilet articles, shaving kits, clothing (unless they can get special garments they ask for), or knicknacks which add to the weight of their packs without being useful in the business of war.

The Army provides virtually everything a soldier really needs. What he likes are these luxuries which he can use on the job he's doing—and doing so splendidly.

Figures Given On War Projects In Southwest

DALLAS, Aug. 21 (AP) — War projects built and major war supply contracts awarded in the Dallas-Fort Worth area from June, 1940, through April this year amounted to $1,390,000,000, according to figures received today from Washington by George L. Noble, jr., regional director of the War Production board.

Of an overall total of $7,040,718,000 of projects and major supply contracts placed in the Southwest WPB region, $4,448,705,000 worth have come to Texas with $1,444,510,000 for Oklahoma and $1,150,503,000 for Louisiana, Noble said. The figures include only projects and contracts of $50,000 or more and do not included hundreds of smaller ones that run into millions of dollars.

Army Classification Offices Disprove Hitler's Theory Of 2 Years To Train Soldier For Job

Hitler says it takes two years to train a soldier to fill his job but the classification office at South Plains Army Air field, like all other Army camps in the nation, is proving him wrong.

For the department, under direction of Lt. Robert W. Gilmore, of San Francisco, has made a determined effort in recent weeks to place every man at the field in the type of work he is qualified for and enjoys doing, thereby reducing the training period considerably.

Records are kept on each man showing fully his civilian occupations and military training of all men. These records—known to the Army as "form 20"—are constantly being checked by members of the department to make sure he is doing the right job.

Helps Locate Specialists

The records also provide a quick source of information to locate specialists of all types when a call comes through from another field.

Recently the office at SPAAF received a request from another field for pigeon raisers and trainers—an occupation not used here.

A quick check of the files showed that several men had either raised them commercially and trained them or else had raised them as a hobby. All of the men were sent to the field that had made the request.

Linquists Sought Frequently

Requests come through frequently for men who can read and write various foreign languages or who have some technical training, Lt. Gilmore said.

Often men who feel that they have been misclassified and could do better in another job come into the office and request a transfer. His record is then checked and if his training justifies the change and he is not needed too urgently where he is the correction is made.

Another duty of the department is to give examinations to men who have applied for cadet training, officer candidate school or any of the Army specialized training program schools throughout the nations.

Entire Personnel Checked

Recently the department with the aid of a team of interviewers from San Antonio, questioned every man on the field as to his present duty, training and civilian experience in an effort to get every person where he belonged. A large number of men who were misclassified as well as those who had one classification but were working at another job were moved around until they were in the correct spots.

Arrangements were also made for men who have good educations but were doing unspecialized duties to be transferred to other fields if an assignment is open for which they have been educated.

A typical example of finding a qualified man who was needed came when the victory garden was started last spring at SPAAF. Someone with training and experience in farming was needed to advise the workers. A check of the files showed that Sgt. Robert H. Gibson, former Lubbock county AAA agent was at the field. He was assigned to the garden.

Twin Features, "This Above All"; Niagara Falls" Are Offered At Arcadia Theater

THE film version of "This Above All," former best-selling novel by Eric Knight, and "Niagara Falls," will show today and Monday at the Arcadia.

Co-starring Tyrone Power and Joan Fontaine, "This Above All" tells the story of two young lovers caught in the turmoil of war in Britain. It takes the two principals through a great emotional crisis, which is faced by many people today.

Featured in the cast are Thomas Mitchell, Henry Stephenson, Nigel Bruce, Gladys Cooper, Philip Merivale and Sara Allgood.

Tom Brown, Majorie Woodworth, Zasu Pitts and Slim Summerville are in "Niagara Falls," which is a story of newlyweds who arrive at the famous lovers' retreat and experience various misunderstandings and mistakes which interrupt their honeymoon. Summerville as a groom too busy attending to other people's matings to consummate his own and Zasu Pitts as his frustrated bride dominate the goings-on. Brown and Miss Woodworth portray a pair of unweds believed newlyweds.

"My Son, My Son," With Madeline Carroll And Brian Aherne, Is Feature At Midway

HOWARD Spring's best-selling novel, "My Son, My Son," story of a coddled son's malevolent influence upon the life of the father who has sought to give him all the benefits of wealth and culture denied in his own youth is by no means typical screen material. It is the screen offering today through Tuesday at the Midway theater.

Madeline Carroll, Brian Aherne, Louis Hayward, Loraine Day and Henry Hull carry the principal roles.

Aherne Role Is Sincere

The unfamiliar scene of the story is Manchester, England, later London. Lenore Coffee's finely proportioned screen play takes the hero from the despair of slum poverty to the deeper despair of self-won luxury minus filial loyalty. The principal character, played with impressive sincerity by Aherne, devotes his life to supplying his only son with advantages he has lacked. The son learns early that he can obtain any end by imposing upon his father's affection, and finally becomes his rival in love. When the woman of the triangle chooses the father instead, the boy achieves vengeance by betraying the daughter of his father's best friend, who kills herself. The father disowns the boy, and death in a Flanders field brings an ending more satisfactory to picture audiences than the grimmer one told in the novel.

Hayward's performance as the vicious son is a finer character portrayal than any he has achieved in heroic roles. Madeline Carroll is splendid as the young woman both men desire, the father honorably and the boy otherwise. Laraine Day gives a memorable delineation as the actress wronged by the son, and Henry Hull is capital as her father.

The production is doubtlessly Edward Small's finest work.

Brian Aherne and Madeline Carroll have featured roles along with Louis Hayward, Loraine Day and Henry Hull in "My Son, My Son," showing at the Midway today through Tuesday.

Congress, If It Dares To Use It, Has "Whip Hand" In Post-War Commitments

Executive Power Limited

We Still Have A Constitution

THE part of Congress in shaping and carrying out policies affecting the post-war world is becoming, increasingly, a topic of speculation. It is a subject of which a great deal more will be heard.

No one can predict the position that Congress finally will occupy. But the statement of fact can be made that if Congress permits itself to be ignored, or accepts a subordinant position, it will have itself to blame. Congress has the whip hand if it cares—and dares—to use it.

Two broad possibilities are being suggested in connection with post-war planning. One is that the plans be in the form of treaties. These, under our Constitution, would require approval by two-thirds of the membership of the U. S. Senate. The other is that the United States be bound to definite courses of action through "executive agreements" entered into by the President. It is the President's contention that an "executive agreement" would not require consultation with or approval by the Senate.

If this interpretation should be accepted, it would mean that the President could bind the United States to feed, clothe, police, educate and assume any other responsibilities toward the rest of the world through his own "executive agreement" wholly without consulting anyone else. In this connection, the President's record does not permit contradiction of the statement that he will ignore or by-pass Congress just as much as he can.

Even so, the final power is in the hands of Congress, if it chooses to use it. Congress will be in the position, first of all, to repudiate any agreement Mr. Roosevelt attempts to make on behalf of the United States. This could be done in a number of ways. One of them lies in the fact that the carrying out of any "executive agreement" would require financing—billions of dollars of financing. That money would have to come through Congress. It might be — it is encouragingly possible — that Congress might refuse to give the President and his advisers a blank check, drawn against the taxpayers of the United States, to finance the world schemes they may hatch.

It must embarrass many members of Congress that some of their colleagues would virtually beg the President to let them have a part in the post-war planning. Their subservience gives the impression of acknowledging that any part allowed them will be through the benevolent grace of the Great White Father in the White House. Actually they beg for something that is theirs by every right of the Constitution of the United States.

A better approach seemingly would be the blunt reminder that any agreements made without consultation with Congress may expect whatever fate that Congress may decide for it. This would be the reminder that, although the President might start things affecting the post-war world, Congress is the agency which can finish them according to its choosing.

What Upped Air Losses Mean

WORDS cannot ease sorrows resulting from recent increases in Allied air losses over Europe. They have been heavy in the number of planes lost, but not in proportion to the number of planes engaged.

But alibis are not needed and have not been offered for the losses. They were inevitable. Repeated warnings have been given that they had to come.

Still, they are further proof of the growing fury of the aerial war. The Nazis have more targets to shoot at. Naturally they are hitting more. But if we are suffering more, so certainly are they. And they can't replace their losses. The sooner they are compelled to exhaust their defensive materials, the sooner the war will be over. The sooner we will reach that day when there will be no losses at all.

One heartening supposition is that our leaders may feel that they have cornered the Nazi rat at last and now are proceeding with the kill with all the energy at their command. If this is their feeling, then all of us know that we cannot escape unscarred. But our trophy for scars of sacrifice and honor will be a dead and further harmless rat.

OUR PLEDGE

WE pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States, and to the Republic for which it stands; One Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

Don't Look Now, But---

Maybe It's Just Another Case Of "Democracy In Action!"

Today's World . . . . By S. Burton Heath

JOHN Bovingdon, the alleged ballet dancer and Office of Economic Warefare expert, has gone, and is now in the process of being forgotten. But the impression lingers that his dismissal is another example of our wartime government's remarkable ability to shut its eyes, fire a gun in the air, and have a bird fall at its feet.

HEATH

This time it was Congressman Martin Dies who pulled the trigger when he charged Mr. Bovingdon with two odious departures from the American norm. Without shouldering too much of the burden of proof, the Hawkshaw of un-Americanism accused Mr. Bovingdon of being a former premier danseur and a man of communistic tendencies.

But the alleged ballet dancer didn't get the hook because of Congressman Dies' charges. What seems to have cost Mr. Bovingdon his $6500-a-year job was that part of his life history revealed in his answer to these charges. It appeared that some of this history was as new to Civil Service and OEW as it was to the public. It also appeared that these agencies had investigated him no farther than his own recommendation of himself before hiring him.

What Mr. Bovingdon told Civil Service and OEW was true, all right. He did have a degree in economics, summa cum laude, and a Phi Beta Kappa key from Harvard. He had taught economics at Keio university in Tokyo, and had traveled extensively and knew several languages, including Japanese and Russian. And it was true that he had been economic adviser to a woolen firm.

BUT it took the Dies accusations to reveal that this Japanese economic expert hadn't been in Japan for 23 years; that his business experience consisted of something less than two years with this woolen company, between 1920 and 1922; that he conceived of lectures on economics as something to be illustrated by rhythmic bodily movements while clad in a modest G-string; that he had belonged to a band "groping toward intuitive communication"; that, at age 50, he entered Columbia University Teachers college to "tie up his equipment into a something he could sell and then become a part of modern organized life."

THAT was in 1940, and three years later Mr. Bovingdon sold this bundle of equipment to OEW at considerably more than the price of hay.

Next time OEW will probably be more careful before it fills such an important and essentially practical job. But it had to learn its lesson as many other government agencies have, through fumbling and stumbling and hair-pulling.

Yet the amazing thing is that Washington must be given some credit for the fact that we seem to be on the way to winning the war. No one will claim that the way to fight incompetence and promote efficiency is through minor scandals, rows among the bigwigs and presidential rebukes. But maybe they all add up to "democracy in action."

And darned if they don't seem to get results.

NOTABLE VICTORY

THE Premier Smuts of pro-war party in South Africa has won a smashing victory, which all Americans join Secretary of State Cordell Hull in hailing. The South Africans, none too enthusiastic about going to war at first, demonstrated two to one that they are eager now to go down the line against totalitarianism.

This should be of interest to Herr Hitler and to his stooge Joe Goebbels, who tried to intervene in the South African election on behalf of the anti-war party. Their interference resulted in bringing out an unusually heavy vote, which changed the United Party's plurality of 72 to a majority of 89, MORE MORE

PACIFIC OPERATIONS

THE new offensive in the Pacific shows that General MacArthur must have received strong reinforcements in armament, particularly in air strength, so that he could begin the return to Bataan that he promised when he left there.

It is to be hoped that, equally quietly, powerful reinforcements are being sent to China, to make it possible to prepare there the base for an all-out one-step invasion of the Japanese archipelago. There are strategic reasons for a certain amount of island hopping, but that is not the way to Tokyo. Time is too short, and human lives are too precious.

CORRECT, SENATOR

SENATOR Bone of Washington (Democrat) writes this editorial about the suspension of prison sentences on Anaconda Wire & Cable Company officials who did not deny furnishing defective wire to the government,

"The cold, hard fact remains that the crime for which an American boy would be shot to death, if committed in a war zone, has . . . been considered so trifling that it should be punishable by a pitifully small fine.

"If the greed of men goes to such length that they are willing to endanger the lives of soldiers to enrich themselves they will find some day, when this terrible war comes to an end, the people of America will write an iconoclastic thesis against such inequities in a fierce whirlwind of retribution."

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

A READER writes:

"You have written several times about hate. You have told us to hate Hitler and Mussolini and the Japs.

"You shouldn't preach hate. Hate is a sin. You may disapprove of what he does, but you should love even thine enemy!"

I didn't pay an awful lot of attention to the letter, but since then I have heard several lectures and read a number of articles condemning hatred and exhorting us to love.

So I decided I'd stop hating and find the good in my enemy, in order to do my share in helping to lick him, but love him at the same time.

I did pretty well with Mussolini. He quit, so I love him for that, as I long as he stays in hiding and keeps his chin and his nose out of Italy's business.

Then I proceeded to try to fall in love with Hitler.

I studied everything about him. I tried to find one tiny little lovable quality in his character.

Could I love him for those awful paintings he did when he was a miserable failure as an artist?

Could I love him for this paperhanging?

No, not love. But at least I didn't hate him for that. So I was making progress.

Then he came to power. He lied. He killed. He did every single vile and brutal thing which from my earliest childhood my mother and father, my teacher, and my ministers had taught me to shun and hate and despise.

But I wanted to learn to love him. The more I tried, the more I hated him.

I WENT to the zoo. I watched the lions and the tigers and the hyenas, and the snakes and the foxes and the wolves.

About every one of them I found something that one might love—the beautiful mane, the gorgeous hide, the grace of movement, the care they took of their young.

If they were cruel, at least they were beasts — and beasts don't think or plan or reason. When they kill they do so because it's in the breed.

But Hitler — wantonly, deliberately, fiendishly, murdering, destroying, poisoning everything he touches.

Maybe I am a sinner — but I still hate every fiber, every breath and every touch of his befouling fingers.

And as for the Japs — next week I'm going to the zoo again to watch the rats. Maybe I'll learn to love them.

New Deal Experiment Flops

"Communal Farm" Project Fails

BY S. B. HEATH
NEA Service Correspondent

PINE BLUFF, ARK., Aug. 20.—Lake Dick, across the Arkansas river from here, is the latest place where human nature—the love of a farmer for 40 acres and a mule that he can call his very own—has made Marxism look very, very silly.

Five years ago Rexford Guy Tugwell, then head of the Rural Resettlement administration, founded Lake Dick as an experimental and demonstration project to bring happiness to the under-privileged through socialization.

Today the experiment has failed, the demonstration has boomeranged, and the communal Utopia of Lake Dick has changed so that nobody could recognize it.

Of all the multitudinous approaches to rural resettlement in this country Lake Dick was the most unorthodox, the closest to the Communistic. For that reason it has been attacked bitterly by those who favor private ownership.

Owned Personal Effects

BUT it is not a victim of reactionary persecution. It failed because the American farmer, however poor he may be, never loses his hope that some day he may hold title to his own little acreage, his own cow and mule and brood sow and chickens and a few working tools.

The peculiarity of Lake Dick was that it never even pretended that its co-operators would have the privilege of owning their own homes, livestock, implements. It was completely and permanently to be communistic.

Uncle Sam owned, and proposed to continue to own, everything in Lake Dick except the cooperators' furniture and such personal possessions as clothing, toilet articles and bric-a-brac.

The farmers lived in a government-owned village of some 70 houses, built in a semi-circle on the shore of Lake Dick. They were not buying the homes. They just lived there. They had running water, bath rooms, electricity, washing machines, and for a time electric refrigerators which later were removed.

Worked Together

DAILY they went out to work on the communal farm. Each worker was not assigned to a personal patch which he could think of as his own, but all worked together in communal fields as though for an absentee landlord.

They worked with community mules, community implements. They drank milk from a community dairy and ate pork from community pigs. They made repairs in a community shop. They ginned cotton, cured potatoes and meat, canned vegetables in community plants. They bought food from a community store, attended a community church, sent their children first to a community nursery and later to a community school, got medical service through a community association.

It was called cooperative. But this was not the voluntary cooperation of independent souls working together for mutual benefit. It was completely communal.

For their work in the fields the tenants were paid 10 cents an hour, raised last year to 15 cents. Skilled workers on some jobs drew two and a half cents more. At the end of the year communal profit, after government charges was split up on a payroll basis.

Got Subsistence Wage

WAGES plus divided profits just about kept most families going. Their savings consisted of an undivided interest in the commune, which could be realized only when and if the experiment should some day be liquidated.

Well, it has been liquidated now. The original tenants, who were very carefully selected to get the cream of the underprivileged crop, drifted away. They could get more money income in war work, so some went there. They could have a chance to own their houses, lands, livestock and implements in other resettlement projects—so some went there.

Last winter the whole idea was dropped, the last 54 families moved out and accumulated equities were distributed. The few who had been there from the beginning received more than $2500 each, a goodly amount as compared with anything they ever had possessed before.

It cannot be contended that Lake Dick was a flat financial failure. But it was a failure sociologically because it did not give the underprivileged, whom it was supposed to help, anything that they considered worth holding onto. They accepted its material benefits until something better came along and then gave them up without a second thought.

Why Idea Failed

MOREOVER, it was a failure because it could not, with all the backing of the wealthiest government in the world, get away from share-cropping any more than can the Southern landowners who would like to find some other practical system.

When the last white tenants moved along, the FSA, which had inherited Lake Dick from Mr. Tugwell, brought in 54 negro families. But no attempt was made to continue the communal experiment. The negroes were urged to bring their own personal possessions; they were assigned individual land plots, and—

They were put onto the much damned share-cropping system—half to the farmer, half to the landlord! To be sure, the landlord is the FSA, and the farmers will divide the landlord's profits each year. But that is not the significant feature.

What does matter is that in Lake Dick a government agency, committed to finding an alternative for share-cropping, has felt itself obliged to return to sharecropping after five years of experimentation.

Give Wives A "Break," Too!

By RUTH MILLETT

"NEW YORK'S hospitality to visiting servicemen has been extended to their wives as well," says a recent news item.

The story goes on to explain that the YMCA in N. Y. has opened a club aimed at making life more comfortable for the wives who join their soldier and sailor husbands in the city, not only by planning entertainment for them but also by helping to solve their employment and housing problems.

Every other town filled with servicemen ought to have an organization of this sort. For it is the duty of civilians to see that servicemen are well treated when they are away from camp, it also is their duty to treat wives of those men with courtesy, consideration, and a helping hand.

Have Housing Problem

MOST wives make as great a sacrifice as do their husbands when the men go off to war. Life seldom is easy for them if they follow their husbands, and it is lonely for them if they don't.

If there are children, they become the wife's sole responsibility—and if she tries to follow her husband there is certain to be a housing problem, since so many landlords turn thumbs down on children, even the children of men in uniform.

But the main reason why civilians owe service wives so much is because the wives of men in uniform face the possibility of having to go through life alone. They stand a chance to lose their husbands, and their children to lose their fathers out of this war.

Yet for the most part, little has been done for the wives. All too often they are looked on as a nuisance by a community because they add to crowded conditions, help to use up scarce supplies, and are here today and gone tomorrow.

We're quick to try to make the lot of the servicemen better, for there is a glamor attached to his uniform. But we have been pitifully slow to recognize that the service man's wife should be well treated too, even thought she wears no uniform.

Our Curious World---By William Ferguson

"Four Freedoms" In Revolutionary Era, Too

"Origins of the American Revolution" Is Complete Writing

THE four freedoms may not have been called that in Revolutionary War days, but Americans were fighting for them just as truly then as they are today. You are re-impressed with that truth after reading "Origins of the American Revolution" by John C. Miller, an August Book-of-the-Month club choice.

John C. Miller

John C. Miller is a professor at Bryn Mawr college, who looks so young that his publishers hesitated to release his picture because they figured that no one would believe he could have written such a scholarly and important book. Much material hitherto unpublished in book form appears in "Origins of the American Revolution." To gather his data Miller spent several years absorbing great collections of letters files of all influential newspapers during these eventful years of our history and records from Parliament.

Despite the youth of the author this Book-of-the-Month club selection has been appraised by competent scholars as "the best book on the American Revolution that has yet been written."

Wanted Commonwealth

One interesting point not commonly known which Miller makes is that almost up to 1776 comparatively few colonists thought in terms of complete independence. The preponderant opinion as to the best way to settle the differences between the home country and the colonies was by the formation of a British Commonwealth of nations. One of the warmest advocates of this radical notion on this side of the Atlantic was Benjamin Franklin. It was contemptuously refused by the then governing group in England, though favored by many liberal Englishmen, conscpicuously by the great economist Adam Smith. The British finally adopted it — 150 years too late, when it became the new plan upon which the British Empire was reorganized, after World war I.

Probably the most unpopular colonists in pre-Revolutionary days were the "stamp masters"—men assigned by Parliament to collect taxes. One stamp master, a Colonel Mercer of Virginia, journeyed from London to Virginia to find himself hanging in effigy there. Mercer's resignation was demanded as soon as he arrived. He begged for time, took a look at the mob, and then announced that he would not carry out his duties as stamp master. "Instantly," writes Miller, "he became a hero. He was raised upon the shoulders of the people and carried around town to the music of French horns."

Women, too, played their part in originating the Revolution. They refused, for instance, to buy London finery and fashions. When tea taxes were imposed, they also refused to drink tea. Up to this time, most Americans were confirmed tea drinkers. One traveler reported that there was "hardly a farmer's wife or poor woman who does not drink tea in the morning." After the tax was imposed, when tea was found in the possession of on man in Bedford, Massachusetts, he was given the alternative of either surrendering his tea or being turned over to the women of the town for punishment. He chose to give up tea.

A New Age Will Dawn After Victory! From America's Factories Will Roll the Most Wonderful Consumer Goods the World Has Ever Seen - - - AIDS TO LIVING WHICH YOU WANT TO OWN

See Your FUTURE in the War Bonds You Buy TODAY

EACH time you exchange your dollars for a United States War Bond, you get far more than a handsome and important looking piece of paper in return, YOU GET ANOTHER UNIT OF YOUR OWN AND YOUR FAMILY'S FUTURE WAY OF LIFE.

Not only in terms of the Four Freedoms those War Bonds will perpetuate, by equipping our fighting men for Victory: but in terms of the very tangible things which will be available to you for happier, more efficient, more interesting day-to-day living.

Isn't it thrilling to remember that all the things you've done without during the war YOU'LL HAVE THE CASH TO BUY after the war, when they're again made available to you! Isn't it exciting to know that the radio . . . the appliances . . . the furniture . . . the run-down house . . . the noisy car . . . you've been hanging on to; and repairing and repairing to the best of your ability—to make them last until the war is won—you will be able to replace with more marvelous, beautiful and serviceable things than were ever in your reach before—and YOU'LL HAVE THE CASH to refurnish . . . to replace . . . to build that new home for your family to share in peace and security: cash you'll realize from your War Bonds, when the time comes to redeem them.

As you look to your future, plan for it. Read the daily news of things to come. Keep a scrapbook of pictures, ideas; of rooms that are models of beauty and efficiency; of household aids that are even greater time and work savers than those we knew before the war. Talk over the things you'll want to do with the plumber and building contractor; with your appliances, furniture and auto retailers. They can't supply you now—but when they do have the post-war merchandise you'll build a better life around, they'll know exactly how best to serve you, if they too have shared in your planning.

This is no idle crystal gazing—this looking to the future age of plastics and prefabricated houses: of helicopters and complete meals bought frozen and ready to serve piping-hot in mere seconds! These are YOUR FUTURE: the thing you can see FOR YOURSELF and for your children in the War Bonds you buy today . . . and every day until Victory is won! It' doubly important that you help win the war, and help your family to happiness after it is won!

Experts Doubt Currency Plan

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP) — A number of important monetary experts in New York's financial district said today they doubted the new money-stabilization plan proposed by the U. S. Treasury yesterday could be made to work under post-war conditions.

The plan, the Treasury's second tentative blue-print for an international money and foreign trade system after the war, followed similar proposals by both British and Canadian authorities.

Some of Wall Street's leading authorities on international monetary transactions have long been skeptical of the probable success of a comprehensive, over-all "super-bank" of the type called for in the first and the current treasury proposals and the Keynes plan advanced by Great Britain.

Flexible Plan Favored

Many commercial bankers who would have to deal with an international money authority would rather see some less formal and more flexible approach to the problem of creating an international money mechanism.

"Neither this nor the earlier British and American proposals is likely to get anywhere as long as they call for super-national authority which can bring strong—perhaps decisive—pressure on the course of prices and business in the United States or other participating countries," one banker said.

"I think the farmers in the United States, particularly, would revolt at the idea of any body which had the actual or potential ability to control their prices and were not subject to their political pressure.

Political Complications Seen

"Furthermore, it might subject the United States to all kinds of international political complications, whether or not we had a veto power over the actions of any international authority."

The new treasury proposal is generally seen as weaking the veto power of this country over the "superbank" as compared with the original American plan.

"If we used such a veto power," tthis banker continued, "at a time when our interests conflicted with those of a number of other members of the international credit union, they'd be sure to howl that we wouldn't play marbles.

"If we didn't use the veto at a time like that, we'd probably get a kick-back at home that would wreck the scheme."

Another banker suggested that an initial informal arrangement between the federal reserve banks and the Bank of England, with the adherence of British and commercial banks seemed the best way to start an international currency stabilization plan.

South Plains News Notes

FIRST BALE SOLD

SNYDER—Scurry's first bale, two days earlier than 1942, was brought in by Clyde South, and sold Friday. The county's cotton loan rate is 19.89. A milk crisis is seen for Scurry county, if relief is not had from OPA regulations, dairymen say. Snyder schools are to open Sept. 6, after most of the county schools will have begun. The Baptist church will be dedicated Sunday.

BUS NOTICE POSTED

LITTLEFIELD — The school board has posted notice that children must walk to designated places on trunk lines of buses, in the interest of conserving rubber and mileage. C. O. Stone is chairman of the third war loan drive for the county, with a quota of $700,000, starting Sept. 9. Highest temperature last week was 105. Local schools have eight new teachers, with five vacancies yet; opening date is Monday. June and July war bond sales are 5 per cent shy of quotas.

OLD SETTLERS TO MEET

SPUR — Motley-Dickens county old settlers will meet in annual reunion at Roaring Springs Aug. 26. Dickens farmers met Saturday in Spur to jointly establish a fair price for cotton picking. Jack Christian will coach football here again next winter. The American Legion post has been reorganized with J. B. Morrow as commander. New textbooks have arrived for several rural schools. Depletion of soil fertility is considered number one problem of agriculture by many in Dickens county.

SCHOOL OPENING SET

ABERNATHY — Supt. W. V. Swinburn said Abernathy schools will open Aug. 30. Construction has begun on Abernathy's new co-op gin. Dewey Price has bought the Lamar McKenzie home. Henry Vineyard is building a new farm dwelling. The school at New Deal will begin next Monday, Aug. 23. The cotton loan rate here will be 19.84, ginners have announced.

Wartime restictions on gasoline have rolled back the death toll of motor vehicles accidents back to what it was two decades ago.

Nazis Are Flying Captured "Forts"

U. S EIGHTH AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS IN BRITAIN, Aug. 21 (AP)—German airmen are flying captured American Flying Fortresses alongside our formations over France and Germany, but thus far have made no attempt to interfere with our operations, it was disclosed here today.

What the enemy's plan is has not emerged—perhaps the hope is to sneak one or more ships into the raiding squadrons and open the guns against all those about.

The American system of identifying fortresses among each other is being changed at irregular intervals, however, and the formations fly so closely together that there is little opportunity for a successful effort to sneak into them.

Keep At Distance

So far the German-flown captives have been kept a good distance away.

The .50 caliber ammunition of the type used by the Fortresses is not manufactured in Germany and if the enemy attempted to change the guns and mounts in the captured ships it would be a costly and doubtful business.

The use of one Fortress to attack another also is not very feasible because the four-engined bomber is not designed for that work.

450 Fortresses Lost

The Americans lost about 450 Fortresses in one year of operations and of this number probably 50 per cent got down in fairly good condition.

Of that 50 per cent, perhaps 20 per cent could be put into operation again without too much difficulty.

Reconnaissance photographs have shown Flying Fortresses on the ground at German experimental air fields.

The figure of 20 per cent as conceivably capable of being put into use again is admittedly general and perhaps high. It does not take into account that the Fortresses have their own system of self destruction and of course it is not known here in how many instances this has been used effectively.

Patriots May Smash Planes

There also is the possibility that Fortresses landing in an occupied area will be smashed by local patriots in cases where our airmen are unable to destroy them.

Then there would be the Nazis' tremendous maintenance problem in undertaking to use Fortresses in any considerable number. It was estimated that the Germans would require for the servicing of six Fortresses a force comparable to what we would require for 50 of them.

A Fortress has 22 mechanical, electrical and Allied systems to look after and one expert declared that it probably would actually be more nearly feasible for the Germans to throw out the Fortress engines and try to power the planes with their own engines—itself a highly impracticable experiment.

Barrel Bottom Scraped, So They Take Barrel

FORT THOMAS, Ky., Aug. 21. (AP)—By Edward Pritchard's own statement, they rolled the barrel into this Army induction center today.

The "barrel," Prichard sail, "is me."

The 200-pound plus former aide to Fred M. Vinson, U. S. economic stabilizer, and one-time clerk to Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, had this to say of his entry into the Army:

"I guess they scraped the bottom of the manpower barrel and now they have taken the barrel."

Pritchard's home is in Paris, Ky.

Invasion Just A Romp, But Leave Got Him

KANE, Pa., Aug. 21. (AP)—The Sicilian campaign was just a romp, compared to what happened after he came home on leave, Seaman Fred M. Jeffords, 19, opined from a hospital bed here today.

The young sailor, who aided in the invasion of Sicily, was making ash trays from German shells. A 20-MM shell exploded while he was removing the detonator. Three fingers were ripped off and his right eye was lacerated.

Rationing No Worry Until Shoes Needed

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Aug. 21. (AP)—Rationing didn't trouble 55-year-old Bill Stadler until his shoes wore thin . . . for years he's lived on a diet of raw eggs, nuts and bread.

While Stadler sought a shoe ration stamp, police arrested him, booked him for failure to register for the draft and planned a vagrancy charge against him until they discovered he had $3,300 in the bank.

Fighting Engineers Keep Facilities Operating For Doughboys At Home And On Battlefields

The "fighting engineers" they're called, and there's not a doughboy, a tank expert or a truck driver who doesn't sing their praises in battle.

These men who face shells and bombs to build the bridges and repair the roads lead the way and make it possible for Allied armies to advance. Theirs is a man's job.

They must be able to handle a bulldozer on a bombed air field or man an anti-aircraft gun to protect their work. They must handle a pick and shovel and a pistol and machinegun with the same ease.

Many Skilled Personnel

Possibly employing as many skilled personnel as any civilian unit, most of whom are Lubbock residents, the post engineers at South Plains Army Air field, under the command of Capt. Robert L. Houston, of Tucson, Ariz., post engineer, are the men who see that there's hot water for shaves and showers, that there are lights for reading and writing letters, that there is water to drink, that sewage disposal is functioning, that the camp is in order from a physical viewpoint.

When an Army occupies enemy territory, the engineers must have prepared in alvance the needed facilities. At SPAAF, the job is keeping facilities in operation continuously.

The job of the engineers isn't easy. Faucets rust, light burn out, lines develop trouble, many little things go wrong. This doesn't mean that Army facilities aren't constructed to take it but the wear and tear is terrific.

Two Rows Of Buildings

At SPAAF, there are two long rows of buildings housing employees and materials. As various jobs have to be done, skilled workers such as plumbers, carpenters, and electricians grab their equipment and get on the job.

It isn't easy to get the needed materials. Substitutes and shortages have hit the engineers like everyone else. Plastics often come in handy in plumbing repairs, wooden buckets are now used, even the big water tower being made of wood.

Lt. Amos C. Smith of Florence, Alabama, is assistant to Capt. Houston at SPAAF.

SCHOOLS OPEN AUG. 23

MORTON—Schools in Cochran county will open Aug. 23, except in Whiteface, where the opening date is set for Aug. 30. Supt. J. B. Nicewarmer said 31 teachers have been employed for the Morton schools. C. B. Markham has asked members of the Lions club to help advise all motorists that tires are scarcer and harder to obtain. Harve Andrews has bought the C. E. Moore farm. Twenty persons are waiting for every tire the ration board releases. Most crops are suffering from the heat. Crops are late. A light rain fell in parts of the county during the week. There are 270 subscriptions to the proposal to build a local cold storge locker plant.

SCHOOLS OPEN SEPT. 6

LEVELLAND — Schools are ready to open Sept. 6. Lloyd Conatser, who has been living in Mineral Wells for two years, has returned to Levelland, leased Mrs. Hugh Green's place, and will operate a dairy. The names of 1,211 Hockley county men in service will be listed on a memorial board the Lions club is planning to erect here. The heat wave seems to be broken, but without rain having done it.

If you are not driving your car regularly, take it occasionally from the garage and drive it a few blocks so the lubricants will circulate and prevent rusting.
