Pollution Deadlines May Be Eliminated

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major report ordered by Congress recommends that deadlines for achieving anti-pollution standards be dropped from the nation's clean air law and that restrictions on industrial development in pollution-free areas be loosened considerably.

The National Commission on Air Qualilty formally submitted its report to Congress today, opening what promises to be a long, hard-fought battle over amending the Clean Air Act.

The commission recommended retaining most air-quality standards but removing 1982 and 1987 deadlines for meeting them. The deadlines were ineffective and in some cases unrealistically harsh, the report said.

Chairmen of key congressional committees that will deal with the revisions — Sen. Robert Stafford, R-Vt., and Reps. John Dingell, D-Mich., and Henry Waxman, D-Calif. — have said they hope the process will not be as difficult as that over the 1977 clean air amendments.

But industry has made clear it will not back off its demand that the law be relaxed to foster development, particularly of energy resources in the West, while environmental lobbyists have stressed they will fiercely resist dropping the deadlines and protections for clean-air areas.

"If the other side attempts to gut the Clean Air Act, there will be a bloody fight," said David Hawkins, a lawyer with the Natural Resources Defense Council.

Divisions over the act are evident even within the commission, which includes representatives of industry, labor and environmental groups. Several members reportedly plan to file dissenting opinions.

The mandated review of the law comes amid national concern over rising energy prices and possible shortages, which will play an important part in Congress' deliberations.

The recommendation that 1982 and 1987 deadlines for achieving anti-pollution standards be dropped was severely criticized by Merilyn Reeves, an environmental specialist with the League of Women Voters.

"The deadlines provide the spur, the impetus to make sure that state governments act," she said, adding that the federal government must ensure that no state gains an economic advantage by not adhering to strict standards.

"It's meat-ax surgery to throw out the deadlines when only fine-tuning is needed," she said.

The changes for areas meeting clean air standards would occur in the Prevention of Significant Deterioration section of the law, which puts such areas into three classifications.

Reagan Says Special Interests Threaten To Wreck Recovery

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan told urban officials today that his economic program is running "a political gauntlet of interest groups" whose selfish concerns threaten the nation's economic recovery.

He appealed for the backing of local officials, who support his goals but worry about how he wants to achieve them.

In a speech prepared for the National League of Cities, Reagan condemned the "federal Goliath (that) brought us to the economic brink now confronting this nation."

"For a time it appeared that Congress had more solutions than the country had problems," Reagan said. "Or, put another way, cures were invented for which there are no known diseases. Just conceiving of a program that might help someone, somewhere, was itself reason enough to pass a law and appropriate money."

Working together and exercising "will power," the new administration and its allies can bring the economic crisis under control by implementing his proposed budget and tax cuts, regulatory overhauls and monetary controls, Reagan said.

"However, this program now faces a political gauntlet of interest groups; and I'm finding it increasingly difficult not to call some of them 'selfish interest groups,'" the president said. "Unless something is done to turn the economy around, local governments will suffer right along with many other respected American institutions"

Reagan noted there has been some congressional opposition to his call for a three-year, 30-percent tax cut.

"Nevertheless," he said, "the real threat to recovery comes from those who will oppose only a small part of the overall program. Needless to say, the small portion these parochial groups oppose always deals with cuts that affect them directly. Those cuts they oppose.

"They favor cutting everybody else's subsidy as an important step in ending inflation and getting the country moving again. The accumulative effect of this shortsightedness can be damaging.

"We are all in the same boat, and we have to get the engines started before the ship goes over the falls."

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — State police are gearing up for a rolling blockade aimed at making speeders shift down to the speed limit on Louisiana interstates.

Murder Charge Among Those Up Before Jury

A murder charge was one of several cases going before a Scurry County grand jury this morning.

Tina Stanette Woods, now of Breckenridge but formerly of 1913 Coleman St., is charged with murder in the stabbing death of her husband, Tommy Woods. The incident occurred Feb. 7.

Another case going before the grand jury involved Johnny Hermosillo, 1002 Ave. V, who is charged with failure to stop and render aid.

Hermosillo is accused of being the driver of a vehicle that struck 11-year-old Ricardo Puente Friday night. The boy sustained a fractured leg. Police located Hermosillo with only a Buick emblem left behind at the scene of the accident as a clue.

Two cases going before the grand jury involve assaults. Carl A. Martin, 2215 40th St. is charged with assault for allegedly pulling a gun on Ricky Mason. Randy Wayne Badger, Del Norte Courts, is charged with striking police officer Buddy Kinney.

Robert A. Moffat and Thomas M. Blackerby, both of 1914 Coleman St., are charged with burglary for allegedly breaking into Clark Lumber Co.

Four burglary charges have been filed against Johnny Souther, Snyder East Motel. He is charged with two break-ins of Key Brothers Implement Co., one on Feb. 12 and one on Feb. 8, a Feb. 8 break-in of Clark Lumber Co., and a Feb. 8 break-in of Town & Country Meat Market.

Also going before the grand jury was a drunken driving case against Oscar R. Tavarez, 1801 Ave. T.

Wins Subscription To SDN For Year

Emma Huffman, 3741 Sunset, is the February winner of a one-year subscription to the Snyder Daily News.

Mrs. Huffman's name was drawn from those who subscribed or renewed for six months or more during the month of February.

Another drawing will be held at the end of March for those persons who subscribe or renew during the month.

Gas Rates On Council Agenda

The Snyder City Council is scheduled to take up Lone Star Gas Company's rate request again and consider bids on water lines and street seal-coating materials at its regular meeting tonight.

The meeting is set for 6:30 p. m. in the council room at city hall.

The gas company request was delayed at the February meeting after it was determined that the city could take 120 days to act on the proposal and by waiting another month it would mean that any increase would not go into effect until the May billing.

Lone Star submitted a request in November for an increase in rates to provide a six percent hike in its revenues.

The council authorized bids at its February meeting for 20,055 feet of water replacement, 2,700 tons of street seal-coat gravel and 61 tons of asphalt cement.

Also at tonight's meeting, the 1979-80 city audit is scheduled to be presented by Anderson and Anderson, Certified Public Accountants, and a request for funds from the hotel-motel tax account will be presented by Historic Scurry County, Inc. HSC is seeking financing to move the Dodson House, a local Medallion Home, to a new location.

An endorsement of the Colorado River Municipal Water District's proposal to amend and update its original legislative act adopted in 1949 will be presented, as will a proclamation designating March 28 as Dog Vaccination and Registration Day.

Open House At Schools Set Tonight

Public School Week observance was underway today in local schools, with major events set for tonight in all elementary school buildings.

Parents of kindergarten pupils were lunch-time visitors today on the schedule mapped earlier for parents and other relatives to have lunch with pupils.

East Elementary School is scheduled to announce winners of a PTA-sponsored student art show in connection with open house set for 7 p. m. Stanfield Elementary PTA has a special program set on food additives, and musical programs are scheduled at North, West, Central and Northeast Elementary Schools beginning ay 7 p. m.

Lunch-time visits Tuesday are for second and fifth grades, while first and fourth grades are set for Wednesday and third and sixth grades for Thursday.

Protests Aid To Quitters

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas is in a minority among the states in giving unemployment compensation to people who quit their jobs, says management's representative on the Texas Employment Commission.

Ken Clapp favors a bill disqualifying such persons from jobless benefits until they have found new jobs, worked in them for six weeks and lost them through no fault of their own.

In addition, the bill also imposes a "return-to-work" requirement on people who are fired for misconduct or refuse to accept "suitable work" while collecting benefits.

Willy Brandt To Mediate

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Heavy fighting was reported at two towns in eastern El Salvador as the international socialist organization asked Nobel Peace Prize winner Willy Brandt to mediate between the guerrillas and the government and the United States suspended aid to Nicaragua for allegedly funneling communist arms to the rebels.

Government troops and jet fighters repelled weekend attacks by leftist guerrillas on the towns of San Lorenzo and Santo Domingo, according to peasants streaming into this capital city to escape the fighting in the eastern province of San Vicente.

Grocery Prices Plunge First Time Since '76

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Grocery bills have more than doubled in the past eight years, but February brought good news to shoppers in the form of the biggest monthly drop since late in 1976, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

The AP drew up a random list of food and non-food products and priced the items at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973. Prices have been rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. The list originally included 15 items, but chocolate chip cookies were dropped when the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

The latest price check showed:

—The average market-basket total was 109 percent higher at the start of this March than it was when the survey began in March 1973.

—The marketbasket bill dropped during February at the checklist store in 10 cities, down an average of 3 percent, and rose in three cities, up an average of 3.4 percent. Overall, the average marketbasket bill went down 1½ percent last month. The drop was the biggest since a 1.8 percent decline in October 1976.

—February's decreases were due mainly to drops in the price of sugar and eggs. Sugar went down at the checklist store in nine cities and eggs in 10 cities. Sugar prices have been rising since early last year because demand for sugar is expected to exceed production in the current crop year. Recent declines in consumption have caused drops in the price of raw sugar on the world market and the decreases were reflected at the supermarket last month.

The outlook for egg prices is less clear. Production was cut by the drought which killed more than 7 million chickens last year and continued low supplies could boost prices again.

—Orange juice prices went up at the checklist store in eight of the cities surveyed by the AP. The increases reflect rises in wholesale prices which followed the January cold snap that damaged the citrus crop in Florida which provides almost all the nation's orange juice.

—February's drop in marketbasket bills followed an increase of only two-tenths of a percent in January, meaning that grocery prices today are lower than they were at the start of the year. The situation is expected to change, however. The U.S. Department of Agriculture is predicting that food prices alone will rise 10 percent to 15 percent this year.

The AP did not weigh survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's grocery outlay each item represents.

Gasoline Went Up More In '80

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Although gasoline price increases were steep during the first two months of 1981, the rise in the same period last year — when oil price controls still were in effect — was even greater, an oil industry newsletter reports.

Barbecued Armadillo Anyone?...

Wild Game Main Fare At Methodists' Feast

Heaping platters of venison, elk, barbados ram, pheasant, barbecued armadillo, fried fish, quail, dove, quail eggs, frog legs, squirrel, and fried rattlesnake were served to persons going to a wild game dinner Saturday night at Trinity Methodist Church.

The idea for an exotic meats dinner was first thought up by members of Trinity Methodist's Gold Band Sunday school class.

Max von Roeder, a lay leader in the church, said, "It all started when some of the men in the class wanted to justify their hunting trips."

That was last November, and the men began saving up their kills. Von Roeder contributed rattlesnake, armadillo, pheasant, fish, and venison to the repast. The rattlesnake was so fresh, he said, it had to be cut up in little pieces to keep it from crawling out of the frying pan.

Besides von Roeder, others who helped put on the meal were Bill Dryden, Howard Harrington, and Lynn McLarty. Approximately 230 persons were served.

Von Roeder said the meal justified the men's hunting trips, but jokingly added, "We really don't need any encouragement on that anyway."

Von Roeder added that everything featured in the meal, with the exception of the elk, came from Texas. The elk came from Colorado.

FINGER LICKING GOOD - Neil and Carolyn Jackson are shown as they finished their wild game dinner Saturday night at Trinity United Methodist Church. A variety of exotic meats, ranging from boiled quail eggs to elk and including barbecued armadillo and fried rattlesnake, were served to 230 persons. Everything except the elk meat came from Texas. dealing with arson Invariably, fires increase in intensity and destructiveness during the winter months. Fire plays no favorites. It will envelope a senior citizens' home in the middle of the night when the temperature is plunging or sweep through a school house while classes are going on.

Fires can be caused by so many things — faulty wiring, lightning, cooking grease or as the result of children playing with matches

Fire is classified as a criminal act when it is set by arsonists and, from all accounts, that kind of crime is increasing at an alarming rate. Professional torchmen often make tidy livings by starting fires for people who stand to gain financially if their building, residence or personal property burns.

The pyromaniac who sets a blaze just for the thrill he experiences at the sight of it or to promote disorder or the death of someone he doesn't like is one of the most dispicable of all criminals. Sad to say, his numbers are on the increase.

Any number of suspicious fires are diliberately set every day — someone said recently that arsonists set an average of 400 fires daily across the country. It didn't take authorities in Las Vegas long to determine that the recent Hilton Hotel fire there was started by an arsonist.

Fires which hit public facilities like the Hilton, the Las Vegas MGM and Stouffer's Inn in Harrison, N.Y., in recent months serve to point up the vulnerability of such buildings and the people who use them.

An arsonist finds it very easy to infiltrate the crowded hotels and business buildings, commit his act and flee long before a fire attains its full intensity.

The people who pay for and build the big hotels and business buildings do not do much about neutralizing the problem when they fail to install or upgrade their safety devices like sprinkling systems.

Perhaps cities everywhere need to check into their fire codes and see that regular inspections of buildings are conducted, then sit down hard on those who are in violation of such regulations.

Granted the owners of hotels and public buildings might save a lot of money by ignoring safety regulations but what money they save could easily turn into fool's gold, if their property is later destroyed by fire.

Smoke inhalation, of course, causes a lot of deaths. The flames in the MGM Hotel fire in Las Vegas never went above the second floor but 84 people died, most of them from smoke inhalation. Another contributing factor to the high death toll in multi-story buildings is the fact that modern fire-fighting equipment includes ladders that will not reach above the eighth floor.

Persons convicted of the crime of arson, especially in cases where the loss of human life has resulted, should be dealt with harshly by the law. After all, those who prey on their fellow citizens in such a manner deserve no more consideration than does a callous killer with a gun.

If a person frequents a strange building and plans to be there for any length of time, he would be doing himself a service by acquainting himself with the exits, locating the fire alarm systems and the fire-fighting equipment and staying alert at all times. And, by all means, he should keep his wits about him. Panic, after all, is the hand-maiden of disaster.

"Marvin, have you seen my reserve ammo clip? I've got to go down to the market."

donald f. graff

The chief justice of the United States certainly knows how to turn a timely phrase.

"Why do we show such indignation over alien terrorists and such tolerance for the domestic variety?" Warren E. Burger asked in his annual state of the judiciary address, delivered this time around to the American Bar Association assembled in Houston. "Are we not hostages within the borders of our own self-styled enlightened, civilized country?"

His subject was rampant crime, ineffective punishment and a criminal-justice system indicted for tilting too far toward safeguarding the rights of those acused of crime at the expense of those who are its victims.

He not only questioned but proposed answers, including prison reform, heavy expenditures on modern facilities and more police, stiffer bail procedures, speedier trials and limitations on rights of appeal with exceptions for "miscarriages of justice."

There is more, much more, and it has struck responsive chords not only in the public at large and the law-enforcement community — the Reagan administration's Justice Department is already developing a package of new crime-fighting measures — but also among such stalwarts of the liberal establishment as the New York Times and Washington Post.

Some reservations are, however, being heard. The bail and appeal proposals in particular may be breaking questionable ground. The first because refusal of bail to some suspects at the discretion of judges might be construed as preventive detention and a violation of the principle that an individual is innocent until proven guilty. The second because, in the words of one critic, "One person's technical error is another person's miscarriage of justice." Judicial review of appeals is how the difference is determined.

There is also some question as to what extent the perceived crime wave may be a product of a wave of crime reporting. Media attention and more compreshensive statistics on crime have heightened awareness of a situation that is not new and may not be changing all that much. There is some evidence to that effect in the statistics of the Justice Department's own Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, which may be closed out in the Reagan administration's bureaucratic houseclean-ing.

But even granting a rising crime rate, some authorities question whether Burger has the proper focus on the problem. The chief justice barely acknowledged its economic aspect, observing only that violent crime would not disappear "if we but abolish poverty."

Milton Rector, president of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, a private research organization, on the contrary sees economic considerations as fundamental. During four decades since the Depression, he observes, there has been a consistent statistical correlation between unemployment and crime. With every 1 percent increase in the unemployment rate, armed robberies go up 5 percent and homicides 6 percent. And the prison population gains 4 percent.

This is already one of the most prison-intensive societies in the industrial world, with an incarceration rate topped only by the Soviet Union and South Africa. Out of every 100,000 Americans, 215 are behind bars. By comparison, the figure for Canada, next in line, is 95 per 100,000. The United States also leads the democracies in the length of the average jail term.

If prisons aren't an answer in themselves, neither is expenditure of more money on criminal justice, which for national, state and local levels combined in the period 1967-1980 has risen from $4.5 billion to $25 billion annually. For a long-term solution to the problem of violent crime, Rector would worry less about expanding the criminal-justice system and more about integrating into the economic mainstream millions of young blacks and Hispanics.

A point underscored by author-researcher Charles E. Silberman in his highly praised study "Criminal Violence, Criminal Justice," touching an aspect of the problem totally ignored by Burger. America, he argues, has always been a violent society, but what makes the difference today is that individuals of all races are frightened by the relatively recent phenomenon of black crime: "In the end, there is no escaping the question of race and crime."

There is more, much more, to the dissenting arguments, although they may not sway the chief justice in his convictions or change any minds now in agreement with him.

But they do suggest that in the continuing debate on crime and punishments, turning a phrase is not the same as having the last word.

fire for hire

Whether or not arson was involved in the fire at the Las Vegas MGM Grand, that hotel is having to buy $170 million worth of liability insurance.

And whether or not that relates to this—"arson for profit" is our country's fastest-growing crime.

Arson in general is leapfrogging at the rate of 25 to 30 percent per year—almost 200,000 cases last year.

The Alliance of American Insurers believes that 15 percent of all arson fires are "for profit".

All larceny plus all burglary in our nation costs not more than $3 billion a year. Arson fires are costing $15 billion!

Purposeful arson is usually to defraud insurance companies or to get rid of inventories.

The underworld uses "fire for hire" to enforce payment of debts or to get rid of unprofitable investments.

The underworld fences often set up discount sales of merchandise falsely claimed to have been destroyed in fires.

The FBI has 26 arson task forces around the United States, has educated more than 7,000 police and fire department officials in arson investigation and detection.

A confessed murderer and arsonist, Gary Bowdach, told a Senate subcommittee that he and a partner burned down a wholesale florist warehouse in Tampa, Fla., at the request of a reputed Mafia overlord.

He says the owners of the building gave him the keys and told him where flammable liquid was planted on the premises.

He was also instructed to spray slogans on the walls which would make it appear to have been the work of neighborhood blacks objecting to a white-owned business.

Fred Winship has researched "fire for hire"; finds underworld "fire brokers" who solicit business—who seek out financially troubled businesses or real estate investors—offering for a fee to provide arson specialists.

The guy with the torch may get as little as $500 for his work but the underworld broker will get a hefty percentage of the insurance settlement.

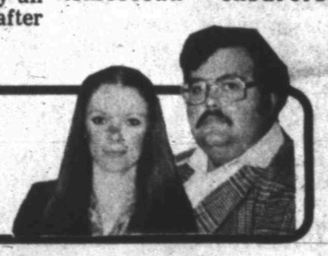

Because arson is the one crime which usually destroys its own evidence—though a thousand Americans die each year in suspicious fires—there is almost never a murder conviction.

Though 75 percent of all school and college fires, 51 percent of church fires and 13 percent of nursing home fires are "suspicious," the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration computes that for every hundred fires there are only nine arrests; only two convictions.

young drivers would benefit from proposal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Betty Denton, D-Waco, has filed a bill she said would give young drivers a fairer shake in automobile insurance rates.

"The present structure of motor vehicle insurance rates in the state of Texas is extremely unfair," Mrs. Denton said Friday. "My bill would prohibit the Board of Insurance commissioners from considering a person's age or sex in setting rates."

She said men under age 25 pay higher rates even if they have good driving records.

1 in four parolees go back

WASHINGTON (AP) — One in four inmates released on parole was returned to prison before the parole expired, according to a Justice Department study on 64,000 American parolees.

The study of people paroled from 1974 to 1975 reinforces "the traditional view that three-fourths of persons paroled are classifiable as successes," said the department's Bureau of Justice Standards.

At the end of 1979, about 196,500 people were on parole from federal, state and local prisons or jails in the United States, the report said.

john cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — If Americans can't put a roof over their heads there may be little point in devising grand plans for improving productivity, reducing inflation or otherwise seeking to tame the savage economy.

But there are problems in roofing America. It takes lots of money to build and buy houses, and the so-called thrift industry pipeline that funneled money to the housing market is plugged up like an old sink.

The reason is inflation and high interest rates, and it works like this:

—With the cost of living outpacing wage increases, many people are unable to save as much as they once did.

—What money they do save often goes to large commercial banks that can offer high-interest certificates rather than small, local savings institutions, such as savings and loan associations or mutual banks.

—Commercial banks aren't as dedicated to making mortgages as are thrift institutions. Seeking a greater return for their dollar, they invest in more profitable and less regulated ventures than housing.

—Thrift institutions have been sinking deep into the hole, one reason being that they hold on their books old home mortgage loans on which they collect only 7 percent or even less. They lose money on them.

—Traditional home mortgage lenders are resolved not to be caught in such a bind again. They are wary of granting long-term fixed-term mortgages. Instead, they want flexibility, which generally means they seek to give mortgages whose terms vary with changing conditions.

—Such mortgages now exist, but after 50 years of expecting and getting the traditional mortgage, some young homebuyers are reluctant to test the new mortgages. Some critics say they are wise to resist.

—The argument of the critics is that flexibile rates mean either of two things: That the monthly payments might rise beyond the earning power of the homeowner; that, as an alternative, the homebuyer would need more years than he or she has remaining to retire the mortgage.

—The critics of the critics concede the new mortgages aren't as desirable as the old ones. But, they argue, we must be realistic. If you want a house, this is the only way you or your family will get it.

There are other elements also. The typical single-family house now requires as much down as the median-income family earns before taxes in an entire year. That's hard to come up with when inflation exceeds wage increases, when taxes are rising, and when saved money erodes in value.

Moreover, housing really doesn't have top priority, as you might think it would. No matter that about 40 million people will reach age 30, or homebuying age, in this decade. The goal of those who would rebuild America is to channel funds into manufacturing plant and equipment, and in that way reduce inflation by lowering the cost of making goods.

Somehow, though, it would seem the housing situation has to be worked out before that can happen. The situation isn't being ignored, as the many innovations in housing design and financing attest.

But progress comes slowly on all fronts: In slowing the rise in prices and bringing down interest rates, in rebuilding savings accounts, in obtaining regulatory approval for new-style mortgages, and in gaining acceptance for them.

It takes time, but time is relentless. All those babies born in the boom of the late 1950s and early 1960s, and who aré relied upon to get the economy moving, are getting older by the second. They want houses.

Daughters Of American Colonists To Attend Abilene State Assembly

Members of George Cogdell Chapter of Daughters of American Colonists will be attending the State Assembly of the Texas Society which convenes in Abilene March 3 at the Kiva Inn on Highway 80, west of the city.

Mrs. John Carl Foster Jr., National President of the Society, will be a special guest at the Texas State Assembly.

The official business of the Texas Society will begin with the dedication of a marker commemorating the founding of "The Eagle Colony," which was the first attempted establishment of a permanent settlement in North Taylor County.

MRS. JOHN FOSTER JR.

The Eagle Colonizing Association was chartered in Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 18, 1877 and had as its objective the establishment of a colony. About a dozen families and a half dozen single men departed on Feb. 15 1878, journeying to Fort Worth, Texas.

After several weeks, a newly formed wagon train was guided to their new settlement. The ill fated colonists were forced to abandon the efforts to make a permanent home in an alien environment when a foreclosure sale was held by the Taylor County Sheriffs Nov. 18, 1878.

The marker is being placed by the Texas Society, DAC, and is the project of the State Regent, Mrs. P.M. McKee of Abilene.

On Monday evening, March 2, a dinner honoring the National President is being hosted by Mrs. Kenneth Whisenant, Regent of George Cogdell Chapter. All members of the local chapter are invited.

Official business of the Texas State Assembly will be conducted on Wednesday and Thursday. In addition to elected delegates, George Cogdell Chapter will be represented by Miss Josie Baird, Texas state registrar, who will assist with the memorial service; Mrs. Whisenant, chapter regent and the state public relations chairman; Miss Delila Baird, state chairman of colonial and genealogical records; and Mrs. Vera Morrow, a Teller for the assembly.

Alan: "The optimist wins the first heart in dummy to lead a diamond and finesse his ten. West takes his queen and clears the heart suit. The optimist ducks the second heart, wins the third, leads a second diamond and is down one when West produces the ace and two more hearts."

Oswald: "We don't want any readers explaining that South can start on diamonds and still make the hand if he plays West for all the missing high cards. That is the sort of play that is only made when all four hands are seen. Let's see the safest way to play for three no trump.

Alan: "Duck the first heart. Win the second and take an immediate club finesse. West clears the hearts. Now South cashes four spades and the ace and king of clubs. Dummy's fourth club is good and South has his ninth trick."

Oswald: "If clubs don't break, South will still come to nine tricks if East holds the diamond ace."

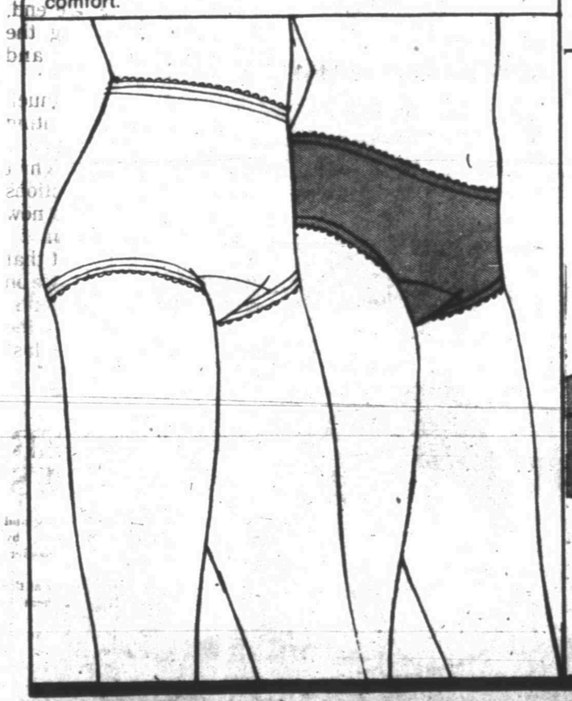

Oswald: "North and South have 29 high-card points between them with two stoppers in every suit, but only a man who plays with utmost safety will bring three notrump home."

Losing 51¼ lbs. & 65"
at Pat Walker's

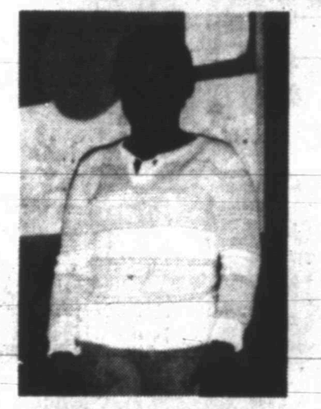

Dear Pat Walker:

I started the Pat Walker program hoping I could lose my weight by Christmas. In just 6 months I lost 51¼ pounds and 65 inches. I now weigh 110 pounds thanks to your wonderful counselors and their support.

My favorite past-time is dancing. Before Pat Walker's I watched a lot — now I dance every dance. Thank you, Pat Walker, for my thin figure. It will be wonderful to wear pretty clothes at Christmas this year.

Fewer Coming To Own Bigger Pieces Of Land

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation has led to increased concentration of land and resources among wealthy and high-income groups, a new Agriculture Department report says.

"Those people with assets and related income who are not dependent on the income generated by the land being purchased can bid more successfully" than others, the report says.

In other words, a wealthy farmer can bid up the price of a farm, knowing he does not have to rely on earnings from the additional land to pay for it. That can crowd out of the market a less-endowed farmer who wants to expand a marginal holding.

The report, released last week, is being circulated among members of Congress, lobbying groups and others involved in designing general economic and farm legislation this year.

The report noted that inflation also has increased the wealth of those who own land and other farm assets because land price changes have kept pace with both inflation and increases in real farm earnings.

At the same time, though, the report said inflation and efforts to deal with it may be feeding off each other.

For example, the report said inflation has stimulated purchases of such things as large, more complex farm machinery. That drives up production costs, which in turn increases pressures for higher commodity supports.

"Operators may buy larger equipment and buildings sooner if they expect price increases," the report said.

"Inflation often leads to conflicts," the report said. "For instance, legislators often try to assist clientele groups in coping with inflation on the one hand and try to stop inflation on the other.

Dear Abby

Forgiving Wife Has Second Thoughts

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Last New Year's Eve my husband got drunk and told me he was in love with another woman. The next day, after he sobered up, he said he loved only me and to forget what he said about his being in love with another woman. He said this woman was just a friend who needed someone to talk to, so he had been meeting her to help her sort out her problems, but there was nothing between them. He said he had kissed her a few times to cheer her up, but all he ever gave her was a T-shirt with "One Fantastic Woman" printed on it.

Abby, I love him regardless, and there is no way I am going to get into a fight with him and lose him to somebody else. We have three small children who worship him. I told him that I forgave him totally, and now he is knocking himself out trying to make it up to me. Do you think I was too easy on him?

MARYANN

DEAR MARYANN: No! But I think he gave the T-shirt to the wrong woman.

DEAR ABBY: So PLOTZING IN PLATTSBURGH, N.Y., complained because she got a lot of useless gifts for Christmas? Last Thanksgiving my youngest son's darling wife got together with the family and had them all put in an envelope what they were planning to spend on a gift for me.

The week before Christmas this daughter-in-law came to my house with a housecleaning crew, and in four hours, two husky men and two spry little ladies cleaned my five-room house from top to bottom. My windows were washed, the oven was clean as new, and all I did was sit and watch! When they left, there was $14.80 left over for me.

On Christmas Day the whole family came back with a picnic-like supper and useful presents such as new dish cloths, dish towels, a pot scrubber, rubber scraper, etc. And when they left I felt like the best-loved grandma, mother and mother-in-law in town! Cleaning is tiresome and sometimes impossible for us senior citizens. Wouldn't it be wonderful if everybody gave such practical gifts?

HAPPY GRANNY IN COLUMBUS, OHIO

DEAR GRANNY: Wonderful, indeed. Readers, jot this down on your Christmas gift list. There are only 298 days until Christmas.

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letters in your column supporting the theory that wearing jockey shorts has contributed to the infertility of the American male. I submit the following as evidence to refute that theory.

In India, where I was born and raised, it was customary for men to wear a "langoti" under their loose-fitting garments. (A langoti is a triangular cloth truss, similar to an athletic supporter.) Some wear it because they believe it will prevent their body magnetism from flowing off their extremities. Some say it has religious significance. In any case, wearing the langoti is an ancient Indian custom, passed down from father to son. The point I make is that the majority of men wear the langoti very tight!

Abby, the population of India is over 600 million, so obviously they have no fertility problem. I wore a langoti — a tight one — and I have nine kids. My father had 10, and my grandfather had 12, not including those he had while sowing his wild oats.

D.M. COGDELL MEMORIAL HOSPITAL
SNYDER RADIOLOGIST INCORPORATION

ARE ANNOUNCING SEPARATE BILLING

EFFECTIVE FROM APRIL 1st, 1981

WHY THE RADIOLOGIST'S BILL
IS SEPARATE FROM THE HOSPITAL BILL

The radiologist is a private physician specializing in the use of x-rays and radioactive substances used in medial diagnosis and therapy. Your physician requested the services of the radiologist in interpreting the results of your recent examination in the X-ray Department.

With some examinations, the radiologist was personally involved in the examination. If you had only films made, your personal contact may have been solely with the technologist. Once the films were made and checked, they were presented to the radiologist for his interpretation, as well as his written and oral consultation with your physician.

The hospital bill will include a charge for x-ray to cover the use of its equipment, the films, supplies, and technical personnel. The bill from the radiologist is for his professional consultative services.

Tournament Action Picks Up Today

BROWNWOOD — With two down and seven more to go, the Region V Women's Junior College Basketball Tournament gets underway in earnest here today.

In yesterday's elimination rounds, Clarendon College crushed Cooke County, 87-60, and Howard College drilled Ranger JC, 74-48. That set up a full slate for today, which began at 2 p.m. with Odessa College and McLennan Community College (Waco) taking the floor.

Western Texas College, 24-6, was to meet 18-13 Cisco Junior College in the other afternoon game at 4. This evening, WJCAC champion Amarillo College faces Clarendon College at 6, and NJCAC winner Weatherford challenges Howard College at 8. Semi-finals will be held at 6 and 8 Tuesday. Finals - the winner slated to go to the NJCAA National Tournament in Overland, Kan. - will be at 7:30 Wednesday.

Tickets for the tournament, held at Brownwood Coliseum, are $3 for adults and $2 for students per session. A $15 tournament pass may be purchased and is apparently valid for the women's tournament and the men's tournament, which begins here Wednesday.

The men's tournament will crown a new champion this year as defending title holders Western Texas College Westerners did not qualify for a berth.

Wednesday, Cisco meets New Mexico Junior College at 2 and South Plains College takes on Weatherford in elimination rounds. The action heats up Thursday when McLennan and previously ranked Frank Phillips go head-to-head at 2. Howard College and Ranger compete the afternoon's session at 4.

At 6, No. 8 ranked Midland College, the WJCAC champion, challenges the winner of Wednesday's Cisco-NMJC tilt. And at 8, one-time ranked Cooke County tries the victor of the previous day's South Plains-Weatherford matchup.

Semi-finals will be at 6 and 8 Friday. Finals will be held at 7:30 Saturday, with the winner earning a berth to the NJCAA Men's National Tournament in Hutchinson, Kan.

Dusters Make Bid At 4 p.m. Today

By BILL MCCLELLAN

BROWNWOOD — Shari Teal and Linda Holubec, standout sophomores for Western Texas College, believe depth and togetherness are two vital ingredients that were missing from last year's team but will be with them this afternoon when they meet Cisco Junior College in round-one of the Region V Women's Basketball Tournament.

Earlier today, at 2, Odessa College and McLennan Community College took the floor. Western and Cisco battle at 4, followed by Amarillo College and Clarendon College at 6 and Weatherford College and Howard County at 8.

"Last year we depended on six people and when one starter had a bad game everybody had a bad game," said Holubec who has missed the past six contests with a severe knee injury. The sophomore, who is WTC's leading outside threat, is not expected to play in the tournament, but confided, "I may see if I can go a little. It's awfully hard just sitting on the bench."

But she has no doubts the team can win without her.

"Oh, I know they can. They've already won (five of six since her injury). It's harder for someone to come in and take over when they haven't been most of the season, though," she added. "It takes away a lot of our outside threat," confirmed Teal, a 6-0 sophomore from New Deal who is the team's leading scorer and who rewrote the WTC record book last year. "We're a good team without her, but with her in there, we're just that much stronger. She's got experience, too, and that means a lot."

Without her, the Dusters' bench suffers somewhat, but both girls agree that depth is a plus, even without the "Snyder Spider," as Holubec has been dubbed.

Snyder lost in overtime to Weatherford, 97-89, in the first round of the regional tournament last year. That game had 80 fouls called and saw seven Dusters foul out, leaving only four on the floor with 13 seconds left.

"Some of the girls last year had hardly played so it hurt a lot when that (foul trouble) happened," said Teal, whose sophomore status makes her realize the importance of today's game. "Last year I couldn't understand why all the sophomores were crying. Now I know. This year it really means something to me and I wish we could tell the freshman just how much. Everybody has played a lot more this year and that should make a difference."

Both agree that the team is more together, too.

"We like each other better," said Holubec, 5-10 from Paint Rock. "Everybody believes in everybody else more."

And finally, are the Dusters really ready to play Cisco?

"Last year I think I was just thinking ahead," recalled Teal. "We had beaten Weatherford three times earlier in the season and I didn't even think about beating them again. I guess I was thinking about the next game, or something."

WTC has beaten Cisco three times this year, also, and Holubec was quick to point out, "Look what Clarendon did to Odessa (a 21-point upset last week). We can't look past them (Cisco). It's just like Howard. We beat them twice too, but we know what kind of team they have. Maybe in high school it might make a difference, but we know it doesn't matter here."

Takes Class A Crown Nazareth Nips Coyotes;

LEVELLAND -- Nazareth got a turnover and two late freethrows to pass up Borden County in the semi-finals here Saturday, then thrashed Follett in the championship game, 58-47, to win the Region I, Class A Tournament.

With Nazareth ahead 39-38, Coyote standout Jana Edwards blocked a Lori Gerber shot to give Borden County possession with 12 seconds on the clock. But the Coyotes lost control on the bring down and Roxanne Birkenfeld picked it up. She was fouled with four seconds remaining and calmly stuckup both ends of a one-and-one situation to give the defending champs a 41-38 semi-final victory.

Teresa Wimberly, starting in place of injured Talley Griffin, canned 12 points to lead the Coyotes. Edwards and Gena Faught were held to only 4 points apiece. Griffin came on to add 6. Nazareth was led by Sharon Gerber's 13 and Birkenfeld's 11.

Nazareth went on to stop Follett, a 54-41 victor over Robert Lee, as Lori Gerber and Birkenfeld each canned 16 points.

In Lubbock Saturday, New Deal and Abernathy won class 2A and 3A Region I tournaments. New Deal, in defeating Forsan 42-40, got 18 points and 8 rebounds from 5-10 Melissa Mayo, who was not expected to play after reinjuring her right ankle on Friday. Vickie Teal added 12.

Forsan was led by Christy Adams' 15 points. Teal, Mayo, Adams, Lavonne Brumley of Forsan and Lori Barnes of Sanford-Fritech, were named All-Region.

In class 3A, Romana Irlbeck cashed in 24 points to lead Abernathy past Coahoma, 66-50. Kari Robinson and Andi Fowler scored 14 and 10 for the Bulldogs.

Irlbeck, teammate Lori Oswalt, Fowler and Robinson, and Dimmitt's Becky Andrews were named All Region from class 3A.

Canyon Stops Ramettes In OT

Terri Baughman and Theresa Stone each canned two freethrows in overtime as Canyon's Eaglettes outlasted Mineral Wells here Saturday, 46-44, to win the class 4A regionals and a berth to the state tournament in Austin.

Canyon, behind by 24-21 at the half, took advantage of a Ramettes cool spell to go in front 32-31 at the end of the third quarter.

The Eaglettes fashioned a 42-40 lead late in the game, but Mineral Wells' Regina Kimbrough sent it into overtime with a pair of freethrows at the 17-second mark.

Canyon went ahead early on a pair of Stone charity shots, 44-42, then kicked the lead out to 46-42 with 43 seconds left when Baughman added two more.

The Ramettes had several chances to tie it up, and finally cut it to two; 46-44 when Tece Holliman cashed in on a short jumper with 30 ticks left. A heads-up play by Ramette Michele Blanton led to a jump ball on the inbounds pass, but Baughman came down with the tip to give Canyon control.

Mineral Wells then waited until the four-second mark before fouling Baughman in an effort to regain possession. The 5-5 senior's charity shot bounded from the rim and the Ramettes took over, calling time out with three seconds left. Mineral Wells inbounded and raced down court, but never got off a shot before the buzzer sounded.

Stone's 14 points led the Eaglettes, while Baughman - hitting well from outside - added 12. Another outside shooter, 5-5 Penny Christopher, added 11 points.

Mineral Wells was paced by Kimbrough's 17. Holliman had 12, but neither girl scored well late in the game - due in part to a strong Canyon defense. Merlea Simonton, 6-3, scored 8 for the Ramettes and junior Dana Allen added 6.

Thinclads Garner Sixth; Shipp Happy With Start

FORT STOCKTON -- Snyder High School came away with 39 points to take sixth place in the 37th annual running of the Comanche Relays, and it left Coach Winfred Shipp smiling.

"I was real pleased," said the coach, who had lost two of his best prospects to grades and another to an academic mixup prior to the season's start. "At one time it looked as if we had a chance at a possible 60 points which would have put us in the top three. Our little bunch of 15 competitors did a real fine job. The kids were real excited about their performance. We're going to be all right," he added.

Snyder lost out on a chance to get more points when its leading point getter, sophomore Glenn Parham, pulled up limping in the long jump.

"I think he just strained a muscle or something," said Shipp, who added he did not believe the injury was serious. "He may miss a week, but he'll be back soon."

Parham, who had taken third in the high jump with a 6-0 effort on Friday, won the long jump with a mark of 19-7. He had qualified in the 800 meters and in the intermediate hurdles with the second fastests times, but was unable to run either after suffering the injury.

Matt Davis showed promising speed in the sprints as he took third in the 100 meters with an 11.70 time and fifth in the 200 with a 24.32.

"Matt's capable of running faster than that," said Shipp. "He only worked out with us several days. He's going to be a real asset to us before the season's over."

The biggest surprise for Snyder was David Hines' fourth place finish in the 3,200 meters, a new event this year. The senior trackster went the distance in 10:54.41.

"That was really a pleasant surprise," Shipp noted. "He really wanted to run it to warm up for the mile. I think when he realized he might be able to get a medal (first-third places), he starting trying harder. He's really enthused about it and so am I. We didn't think we'd have anyone who could run in that event."

The only other place turned in was a fifth in the high hurdles by Tim Wilson, a senior transfer from Monahans, who will probably be able to trim down his time of 16.32 considerably later in the season.

The Tigers are slated to participate in the Lake View Relays in San Angelo's Bobcat Stadium this Saturday.

Bean Wins At Bay Hill

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Andy Bean cruised to a seven-stroke victory over Tom Watson in the 300,000 Bay Hill Golf Classic.

HARD TO STOP -- Mineral Wells' 6-1 Regina Kimbrough is tough to stop inside as Canyon's Cindy Beck discovers above. Better overall shooting and solid defense made a difference in the long run however, as Canyon defeated the Ramettes 46-44 in overtime here Saturday to win the Region I, Class 4A title and a trip to Austin. Game Switched Here; First Of 1981 Season

Snyder High School was to start its 1981 baseball season here today, taking on Midland High at 4 p.m. The Tigers and Bulldogs were to play in Midland, but a soggy playing surface forced the change. Snyder's second game will be here tomorrow against Levelland, also at 4.

Coach Albert Lewis, who took his Tigers to the state semi-finals last year, released a tentative starting lineup for today's game, in batting order.

Mike Roemisch, one of only two returning starters, was to bat first and play shortstop. He was to be followed by Perry Echols at left field, Jesse Hernandez at centerfield, and the other returning starter, Tony Degrate, at pitcher.

Barry Davis, who saw limited action last season, is to be at first base, and Neil Evans is to be behind the plate. Jay Cumbie or Gerald Don Hicks will be designated hitter, batting in place of second baseman Jeff Stewart. Brent Roemisch, third baseman, was to bat in the eighth spot, followed by right fielder Casey Peterson.

Snyder has eight regular games and two tournaments before opening District 2-AAAA play March 27 against Fort Stockton at Moffett Field.

Quarterback Dave Wilson of Illinois took part in 76 passing or running plays in a game against Ohio State in 1980.

Tulsa Ties For Second; Begins Tournament Play

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — In what might be called the second season, the Missouri Valley Conference basketball race begins anew Tuesday night with the first round of the league's post-season tournament.

Pairings decided Saturday night give league champion Wichita State, Tulsa, Creighton and Drake the advantage of the home court in the opening game.

With wins Tuesday, Wichita State and Creighton can guarantee they will play before friendly home crowds again Thursday. The finals are Saturday on the court of the higher-seeded team.

The winner of the tourney gets an automatic bid to the NCAA tournament.

Wichita State hosts Southern Illinois and Bradley is at Drake in the upper bracket. New Mexico State is at Tulsa and Indiana State is at Creighton in the lower bracket.

Tulsa ended its regular season 20-6 overall with an 81-70 nonconference win over Oral Roberts Saturday. It is the Hurricane's second 20-victory season in history and the first in 26 years.

"That's a milestone. I just love it," said first-year Tulsa Coach Nolan Richardson. "I just hope we can win a few more."

One Injured In Truck Accident

One person received minor injuries in a truck-car collision early Saturday afternoon.

The wreck occurred about 12:05 p.m., approximately 17.3 miles northwest of Snyder at the intersection of Farm to Market Road 1269 and a paved county road, reported troopers of the Department of Public Safety.

Injured was Erma Weems Lenoir of Snyder. She was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital, treated and released. Her vehicle, a 1979 Chevrolet, was in collision with a 1963 International truck and trailer driven by Johnnie Lee Turner Jr. of Snyder.

The truck, reported DPS troopers, was going west on the county road and the Lenoir vehicle was going north on the farm to market road. Light damage was reported to the truck and heavy damages were reported to the pickup.

Barber Has No Extra Trimmings

GREENPORT, N.Y. (AP) — Clayton Harrell, 81, doesn't believe in frills.

The sign in his window only reads "Barber Shop." When he arrived 48 years ago, there were nine barber shops here; now there are three.

Many barber shops have gone out of business, replaced by stylists and beauticians, the Department of State says.

Harrell has been cutting hair since 1914.

He has no hanging plants and no disco music. He just keeps cutting, under a sign that reads, "If you believe in credit, loan me $5."

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Feast & famine won't work

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you send me a sensible diet, perhaps one I can use for life? I'm a 23-year-old female, 5-feet-5 and my weight fluctuates between 135 and 145. It fluctuates because I'm always dieting. I just can't seem to lose any more.

Although I have an office job, I'm very active. I bowl, play tennis and softball. Last spring I dropped 25 pounds in three months with a diet of under 1,000 calories a day but I was literally starving. When I started eating three sensible meals a day I gained back about 10 pounds. I have cut out bread and potatoes and on occasion have eaten hardly anything, so why can't I drop 15 or 20 pounds without having to starve for life? Just once I'd like to be able to go out to dinner with my boyfriend and order a juicy steak, fries or pizza without worryng about getting into my designer jeans the next day.

DEAR READER — What makes you think you should weigh less than 120? You are not a short woman, and women naturally have more fat tissue than men. If they are too skinny it affects their hormone balance and may even cause them to stop menstruating. That fat tissue has a role in forming hormones — maybe nature is trying to protect you from yourself.

Your feast or famine approach is one problem. I am glad you recognize you need a lifetime program. You need to find the right balance of calories for your level of activity to maintain a healthy weight level. A lot of your sudden weight shifts are from losing normal body water and regaining it — water in, water out — but it doesn't do a thing for fat deposits.

You can use the basic diet plan in The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, which I am sending you. Others who want this 1,200 calorie diet can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. You may need to add low calorie foods to it to bring up your total calorie level for weight maintenance when you have reached your goal.

While bread and potatoes with added fat in preparation can be a problem, fats and concentrated sweets are the major sources of calories. Fat is hidden everywhere in food and learning to eliminate it is often what you need to do for a lifetime of good eating without getting fat.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please give me some information about heart blocks. My husband is 38 years old and jogs seven or eight miles a day. He was recently told he has a mild heart block contributing to fainting.

DEAR READER — There are right and left bundle branch blocks that are blocks in the conduction system to the right and left side of the heart. A block between the upper and lower chambers of the heart is called an AV block and is the type that may be associated with fainting. That occurs because the heart beats too slowly to provide adequate blood flow to the brain.

Anyone who has fainting episodes from heart block should be evaluated by a heart specialist. Regardless of age, that may be an indication for a heart pacemaker.

Now, there are many causes for fainting, and your husband may just have a slow heart rate because he is a distance runner, so don't come to premature conclusions. But it is worth an evaluation by a specialist.

OBITUARIES

John Drake

John Glen Drake, 39, former Snyder resident and senior vice president of Briarcroft Savings & Loan at Lubbock, died unexpectedly at 11:20 a. m. Saturday in Methodist Hospital.

Funeral service has been set for 2 p. m. Tuesday in the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel, with the Rev. Clarence Minton to officiate. Burial will be in Hillside Memorial Gardens, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home

He was a graduate of Snyder High School and of Texas Tech University. He received his Certified Public Accountant's license in 1970 and was associated with Dallas Savings and Loan in 1973 and Security Savings and Loan in Dallas in 1974. He had been with Briarcroft Savings and Loan since 1976.

Surviving are his wife, the former Marie Clark; two daughters, Andrea Drake and Christi Drake of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Drake of Snyder; and a brother Kenneth Drake of Richardson.

JOHN DRAKE

Mrs. Hollis

Funeral service was set for 3 p. m. today at the First Assembly of God Church for Mary Alice Hollis, 77, who died at noon Saturday in St. Mary's Hospital at Lubbock.

The Rev. James Jackson was to officiate, and burial was to be in Hillside Memorial Gardens, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

She is survived by her husband, Tom Fred Hollis of the home at 209 37th St.; a daughter, Jewell Andrews of Corpus Christi; two sons, Eugene Hollis of Robert Lee and Floyd Hollis of Snyder; two sisters, Irene Wells and Dilly Mann, both of Bronte; three brothers, Calvin Davis of Fort Smith, Ark., Frank Davis of Lone Grove, Okla., and Nathan Davis of Dayline, La.; nine grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Austin

Virginia Ophelia Austin, 63, Route 2, Snyder, died at 5 p. m. Saturday at the family home.

Funeral service has been set for 2 p. m. Tuesday at East Side Church of Christ, with Doug Allee, minister, to officiate. Burial will be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A native of Taylor County, she was married on June 18, 1935, at Sweetwater to Garth Austin and had lived here since 1935.

Surviving are her husband; three daughters, Marissa Austin of the home, Becky Campbell of Fort Worth and Ginger Haigwood of San Antonio; a son, Terrell Austin of Alice; her father, Homer Franklin of Hobbs, N. M.; three sisters, Juanita Halsted of El Paso, Betty Couch of El Cajon, Calif. and Mary Frances Hooper of Big Spring; and a brother, R. E. Franklin of New Mexico.

Found Guilty On 2 Liquor Charges

Anderson Davis, 1106 30th St., was found guilty of two liquor charges in a non-jury trial Friday afternoon.

Davis, charged with selling and transporting liquor in a dry area, received a $1,000 fine and a 90-day jail term on each case.

The cases date back to Nov. 4.

Baptists Plan C-City Meet

The Mitchell-Scurry Baptist Association will meet Tuesday evening at First Baptist church in Colorado City.

The evening meal will be served by the host church at 6 p. m. and the executive board and WMU will meet at 6:45 p. m.

The general meeting will begin at 7:15 p. m. with congregational singing.

Speaker will be Jim Tuell, executive director of Bible Walk Seminar in Arlington.

Short Trips Hard On Car Too

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Nearly 50 percent of U.S. drivers believe that driving less to conserve fuel also means less maintenance is required, according to a 1,000-driver survey by an auto-products manufacturer.

"Many people have been conserving fuel by driving less or traveling shorter distances," says Dave Bowman of Fram Corp., which conducted the survey. "However, this type of driving can sometimes increase wear and tear on engines. Owners' manuals define short stop-and-go trips as 'severe driving.'"

Severe driving is also described as extensive idling, towing heavy loads or driving in dusty or hilly areas.

"Severe drivers should pay more attention to their cars with tune-ups each year, and oil and oil filter changes every 3,000 miles or two months, whichever comes first," says Bowman.

A colony of scavenger ants will strip the corpse of a locust of all its edible parts in just minutes, and these tiny scavengers of the forests dispose of the dead almost as quickly as they fall. When one ant makes a discovery of a carcass, it sends a signal by rapidly rubbing together two abdominal segments, producing a sound that can be heard by ants but is too high-pitched for the human ear.
