

Herd Stampedes to 40-29 Victory Over El Paso

Don't Fence Me In!

Carlee Graves [44] struggles through the El Paso line enroute to another big gain in Friday night's game here against the Mustangs. Brian Edwards [63] and Barry Acton [70] lead the way for Graves.

Hereford roared to a 32-7 advantage in the game and coasted to a 40-29 victory in the last non-district contest. The Herd opens 4-4A play here Friday against Plainview.

By SPEEDY NIEMAN

Carlee Graves rushed for 149 yards and quarterbacks Mike Dudding and Kelly Kitchens accounted for two scores each as the Hereford Whitefaces rolled to a 40-29 victory over the El Paso Burges Mustangs here Friday night.

It was only the second win of the season for the Herd, winding up non-district play with a 2-4 mark. Hereford will host Plainview in its first 4-4A game next Friday at Homecoming festivities.

Stung by the return of the opening kickoff 95 yards for a quick score, Hereford came roaring back and grabbed a 14-7 lead in just eight offensive plays in the first quarter. The Herd defense controlled the Mustangs, giving up only two first downs to the visitors in the first half.

Quarterback Mike Dudding hit Archie Crim on a 39-yard scoring play and, just minutes later, Dudding burst up the middle on a 6-yard touchdown run. The Herd had the lead with 10:10 left in the first period. Terry Brady crashed over from two yards out later in the first period, and the score remained at 20-7 through the second quarter.

In the third quarter, quarterback Kelly Kitchens connected with Dennis Artho on a 13-yard touchdown pass. The fourth quarter opened with Kitchens diving over from the 2-yard line as Hereford upped the margin to 32-7.

The visitors then tallied two quick scores to cut the margin to 32-21, but Graves broke on a 33-yard touchdown run with 1:26 left to clinch the win. El Paso battled back to score with just 19 seconds left.

It was by far the best offensive showing of the season for the Herd. The Whitefaces recorded 320 yards rushing and 104 passing for a total of 424 yards. El Paso wound up with 109 rushing but hit for 154 in the air.

Graves, showing great second effort during the night, racked up 149 yards on 19 carries. Brady added 67 yards in 20 trips, and Dudding had 49 yards in 9 rushes. Graves had an 18-yard run erased by a penalty.

Hereford may have lost the services of Vance Hennington, the outstanding linebacker who led the team in tackles for the season. He sustained a knee injury early in the fourth quarter, and Coach Fred Upshaw said Saturday morning that Hennington may require surgery Monday.

Several other gridders left the field in the bruising contest but Upshaw said most of them were bruises or "hard knocks", and he expects them to be ready for the next game. The Herd's other fine linebacker, Dennis Evans, missed the game but is expected to return next Friday.

Upshaw said he thought the team played a good defensive game, overall. El Paso had only 31 yards the first half, and the score was 26-7 before the Mustangs chalked up their third first down. "We knew they were an explosive team on offense, and we contained them well for three quarters," pointed out Upshaw. The Herd mentor substituted freely in the final period.

The Mustangs showed their explosive quality on the opening kickoff when Anthony Thomas returned the kick 95 yards for a score. It took Hereford just two offensive plays to retaliate, however. Dave Charest returned the ensuing kickoff 55 yards to the El Paso 42. Dudding, who started at quarterback, lost two on the first day, then El Paso drew a 5-yard penalty. Dudding then hit Archie Crim with a quick strike over the middle and he went 39 yards for a score.

El Paso ran just three plays, then punted to the Herd 46 on the next series. Dudding picked up 14, then Brady carried four straight times for a total of 34 yards. Dudding then sliced up the middle from six yards out for the second score with 6:56 still left in the first period.

After the next kickoff, the two teams exchanged five fumbles in a matter of a few minutes. Charest fumbled a punt but Luis Marquez pounced on a Mustang bobble on the next play. Graves couldn't handle a pitchout a couple plays later and El Paso recovered. On El Paso's next play, however, Brian Edwards claimed the loose ball again for Hereford.

Three plays later, Mike Foster punted for Hereford and El Paso's Willie Wright lost the ball, with Brad Clark grabbing it for the Herd on the Mustang 20. Dudding was trapped for a loss of five, then Kitchens came in and hit Charest for a pass that went for no gain. Kitchens then hit Martinez on a 23-yard gainer to the El Paso 2. Brady lunged over from there two plays later. Artho's kick was blocked, and it was 20-7 with 20 seconds left in the first quarter.

El Paso was unable to move after the kickoff, and Hereford got in the hole when a wild pitchout lost 17 yards. After a Herd punt, the Mustangs recorded two first downs—their first of the night, then had to punt to the Hereford 12.

The Whitefaces had a long drive just before the half, but time foiled the touchdown bid. Brady Martinez and Graves accounted for most of the yardage as the Herd moved to the El Paso 3-yard line in 16 plays. Brady was trapped for a loss of 6 and, with time running out, Artho tried a field goal from about the 16. It missed, but both sides had penalties. Hereford lined up for the kick again, but an illegal substitution wiped out the play before it got started.

Hereford took the second-half kickoff and drove 66 yards for another touchdown. Facing fourth and five at the El Paso 13, and "Faces lined up for a field goal try. It was a fake play, however, and holder Kitchens raised up and fired a 13-yard touchdown strike to Dennis Artho. A pass for conversion points was no good.

El Paso then cranked up its first sustained drive of the night. The Mustangs, with three key pass completions, moved to the Whiteface 8. An illegal procedure penalty cost the

Property Reappraisal Approved

By BOBBY TEMPLETON
Brand News Editor

The Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court decided unanimously Friday morning to move swiftly on reappraising all county property provided the Hereford School Board of Trustees and City Commission agree to participate. The historic action came during a called, emergency meeting of the county commissioners.

The commissioners had considered at a meeting last week, but postponed action until they could consult with city and school district officials. The meetings Friday included discussions with representatives from both the school board and the city commissioner.

JIM MCMORRIES, A TAX consultant for all three governing bodies, presented information on the need for a reappraisal and explained the procedure for conducting the project.

After receiving tentative okays from Jim Conkright, school board president, and Jim Sears, mayor the county commissioners agreed to go ahead with the reappraisal with McMorries providing the work. The contract calls for a nine-month reappraisal program in which every parcel of county, school district and city property will be given a new value in preparation for the 1976 tax season.

The school board meets at 4 p.m. Tuesday to consider the matter and the city is scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m.

Monday, Oct. 20, to act on it. Both are expected to pass motions for the project as indicated by the agreements made Friday.

McMorries said, "I must start work by Nov. 1 on the reappraisal or you will have to get someone else. I've already got enough work to keep me busy." This was in response to the need for quick action since local tax offices need the information by a certain time if they are to use it in next year.

Advisors, Students Enthused About School Farm's Prospects

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Writer

With a grain drive currently under way to aid in gathering funds for the facility, Hereford High School's vocational agriculture advisors and students are already looking forward to the day when they can put the school's recently acquired farm to use.

A FOUR-ACRE tract of land on the northern edge of the city, near the Rowland Stables was selected by the schoolboard as the site for the school farm when the purchase was made recently, and advisors and students are already making plans for the manner in which they will utilize the farm.

"Right now we are in the process of shredding fencerows and building fence at the site," reported Marcus Phillips, vocational agriculture instructor at HHS. "We're just trying to get things in shape for the time when we're given the go-ahead on construction of facilities at the site," he added.

According to Phillips, plans for the school farm call for construction of separate facilities of lambs, barrows and steers, with the barrows on concrete and the lambs and steers on dirt.

"Eventually, we plan to take up the best part of the area for feeding facilities, and we'll probably turn out some sheep in the remainder of the area to keep, it grazed down," said Phillips.

ALTHOUGH THE site will probably not be ready for use this fall, temporary facilities will be moved in as soon as possible, according to Phillips.

"The school farm is certainly located in an ideal area, it's close to the school and

Senior Citizens Given Discount

A senior-citizen discount card, good for a 10 per cent discount one day a week in some downtown stores, was formally announced at Thursday's Noon Kiwanis luncheon.

Bearers of the card, persons who are 65-years-old or older, will be given the 10 per cent markdown on items purchased in participating downtown stores on Tuesday. Kiwanis president Ed Coplen announced the first Senior Citizen Discount Day as being Tuesday, Oct. 14. The weekly affair will continue year round, Coplen said, and he hopes other Hereford merchants will begin the discount for the aging.

Conception of the idea ties in with one of the Kiwanis major emphasis points, "The Golden Years." Coplen, a downtown merchant, presented the idea of a discount club for senior citizens before the downtown merchants association. Tuesday was chosen as the day to give the discount to coincide with a program by local study clubs to provide Kings Manor citizens with transportation downtown on Tuesday's.

The discount will be available only in participating merchants stores. Signs will be displayed in windows of those taking part in the program. The discount will also be available only to card-holders. The only requirement to be a cardholder is to be at least 65-years-old. Cards will be distributed free of charge at Hereford State Bank, First National Bank, at King's Manor and through the two local senior citizens organizations.

Mr. and Mrs. W.F. Frank Ball were the recipients of the first discount cards as part of a ceremony honoring them as Kiwanis Senior Citizens of the Month for September. Ball was given the award during the Kiwanis luncheon, which happened to fall on his 83rd birthday.

Ball came to Hereford as a youngster in a covered wagon, lived in the city different times during his professional life and then retired here with wife, in 1963. Besides a certificate honoring the couple, Mrs. Ball was presented with a potted plant by Kiwanis Sweetheart Melinda Watts.

Barry Arnwine was installed as a new member of the club by Eldon Koch. Arnwine was sponsored by Dean Herring. He is head basketball coach at Hereford High School. Ernie Lombard, owner of Ernie's Paint and Body Shop, attended his first meeting as a Kiwanian after being installed last week.

Dub Boyd was given a Perfect Attendance pin for eight years and Wayne Phillips was honored for 21 years of perfect attendance.

Coplen's announcement of the Senior Citizen Discount Day came during a program in which he outlined goals set for the Kiwanis club during the upcoming year. Coplen became Kiwanis president Oct. 1.

JP Court Reports

520 Traffic Cases

A total of 520 traffic misdemeanors were filed in Justice of the Peace Court during September, according to Glen Nelson, Hereford Justice of the Peace.

Of these, there were 494 settlements and no trials or hearings.

Nelson's monthly report shows that there were 33 non-traffic misdemeanors filed, of which 22 were settled. There were 42 cases filed relating to civil suits or small claims, of which 40 were settled.

There was one trial or hearing resulting from a civil suit or small claim.

There were 12 felony complaints accepted, 15 statutory warnings given, two peace bond hearings held, and two inquests performed.

The total revenue received from fines, fees and state costs during the month was $9,814.50.

Cleaning Up

Marcus Phillips, HHS vocational agriculture instructor goes over the grounds of the new four-acre school farm with members of one of his classes as the students work to clear away wire and other debris from the site. Fencing operations at the farm will begin in the near future, and in time, students will keep project animals at the site.

THE GOALS for Progress (GoPro) steering committee met again this week to review the work of the entire committee and to select what appears to be the top 10 goals. The report will be submitted to the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce board next Thursday morning.

The public announcement of the goals compiled with the 40-man advisory group didn't seem to have much impact in the community. There really weren't any totally new ideas suggested. In retrospect, maybe we shouldn't be too surprised.

This is not to say the GoPro committee didn't accomplish what it set out to do. What we're suggesting is that the leadership of the community was already aware of the needs, and most of them have been discussed at one time or another.

GoPro has put them in black and white. Now it's time for priorities to be determined and the C of C board to lead the way in motivating citizens to accomplish these goals.

Livestock Projects Rewarding For HHS Ag Students

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Writer

It's a long and expensive road from the feed pen to the show ring, but a lot of enthusiastic Hereford High School FFA members who participate in livestock projects are currently in the process of traveling or preparing to travel that road.

ACCORDING TO MARCUS PHILLIPS, HHS vocational agriculture instructor, approximately 75-80 agriculture students are participating in livestock projects this year involving approximately 125-130 barrows, 18 steers and 40 lambs.

Inflation has had a telling effect on club animal projects, just as it has on every undertaking, and according to Phillips, local youngsters are facing considerably higher costs as they conduct this year's projects.

Speaking on barrows and lambs, Phillips pointed out, "The size feeder pig we buy for the Hereford show would run roughly $70-$80, and 'show pigs' would run a buyer even more. Last week at a special show pig sale in Canyon 270 pigs averaged $135. Last year prices would have averaged around $85, but the price is so much more this year because the market is much higher. Lamb prices run anywhere from $45-$150, depending on the quality of the animal."

Both barrows and lambs for the club projects are purchased at area sales, for the most part, because local agriculture advisors have an opportunity to select from quality animals without tying up a lot of time and travel expense.

"MOST OF THE TIME the boys will tell us how many and what kind of animals they want and how much they're going to be able to pay for them. We, as advisors, then try to buy the best animal we can for the money," Phillips explained.

Once show animals are purchased, livestock project participants must feed the animals to the proper finish, and this is another area where expenses mount.

"It will cost a boy $45-$60 per head to feed a barrow during the course of a project while expenses for feeding lambs are about $20-$30 per head, said Phillips. Project participants may feed a barrow for only a few months, but nine or ten months of feeding time may be invested in a lamb project, according to Phillips.

THE MAJORITY OF THE LAMBS and barrows fed by local FFA members are shown at Amarillo or in the Hereford show, although a few outstanding animals may be taken to the Houston Livestock Show.

Although lamb and barrow projects tend to draw the largest number of participants in the local chapter, a few FFA members elect to participate in the more expensive steer projects.

Bob Ward, HHS vocational agriculture instructor and advisor for steer projects explains that the original purchase price of a calf is one of the major investments in a steer project.

"Purchase prices can vary from $130-$500 for a calf, and the feeding period gets pretty expensive too," said Ward.

"A YOUNGSTER MAY BUY a calf in March or April and feed him until the show in January, so there is a lot of money tied up for a long period of time. Feeding a steer costs a youngster $350-$400.

According to Ward, the majority of the steers fed by Hereford FFA members will be exhibited in the Amarillo and Hereford stock shows. Again, outstanding animals might be exhibited at Houston.

Ward pointed out that the majority of the steers fed in projects come from the local area, and are often selected from wheat pastures or feedlot pens.

"You can go almost anywhere locally and come up with a calf or two suitable for a feeding project," Ward explained.

BOTH PHILLIPS AND WARD agreed that few FFA members enter into livestock projects simply in hopes of financial reward.

"Finances are one consideration, but there are things a lot more important than money involved, such as pride of ownership, responsibility and competition," said Phillips.

"People see only a very small portion of what goes into a livestock project when the kids have their animals in the show ring. There are plenty of sacrifices and disappointments that go unnoticed by anyone except those who take part, but there's also plenty of reward in knowing you've done a good job and raised a fine animal when you go into that ring. I guess that reward is what keeps our FFA members coming back for the experiences that come only with such projects," he concluded.

Polls To Open Earlier Nov. 4

Voter turnout in the Nov. 4 state constitutional election may or may not be more than in previous contests, but there will be no excuse for voters who claim there was not enough time.

B.F. Cain, county clerk, said this week that the polls in the coming election will be open one hour longer—from 7 a.m.-7 p.m. Polls in earlier elections had been open from 8 a.m. to the same closing time, but state law recently enacted requires the earlier opening time.

The last legislature amended the section of the law which specified dealing with the opening and closing of polls. It states that all county polls in Texas shall be open from 7 a.m.-7 p.m. provided that in any county having a population of one million persons or more, the polls may be opened at 6 a.m. by order of the commissioners court of that county.

This follows along other recent regulations pertaining to absentee voting, and Spanish speaking voters.

ABSENTEE VOTING, which takes place from Wednesday Oct. 15 to Friday Oct. 31, is basically the same as before except those voters who will not be here the day of voting for certain specified reasons not previously authorized may cast a vote by complying with the absentee voting procedure provided by law. Persons 65-years-old or older may absentee vote as well as those who are sick, physically disabled, confined to jail, or are forbidden by religious belief to appear on the election day.

This too was an amendment to present laws as enacted by the 64th legislature which met this year.

Cain said all polls are affected by these rulings, but emphasized the new opening times as the most significant change for registered voters. Those qualified to vote Nov. 4 will be those who registered at the county clerk's office no later than Oct. 3.

Another area wide controversy is the rulings by the state to furnish Spanish speaking voters with ballots printed in Spanish and to have Spanish speaking interpreters available at polls to explain procedures to these voters. It is required that any county where as much as five per cent of the population is principally Spanish speaking, interpreters and ballots printed in Spanish must be provided. This stems from federal rulings requiring the interpreters and ballots in any county with 250 or more Spanish speaking residents.

This will affect most of the city polling places, although Cain said he wouldn't know until a few days before the election on how the rural polling locations would be affected. "It will entail all (voting) boxes in town," he said.

ADDITIONAL COSTS aren't expected to be as high since some present polling officials might be replaced with those who can speak Spanish, although this isn't definite. "Some more might have to be hired at $2 an hour," he said.

The new ruling greatly affects the state, which was required to print up Spanish versions of the English tabloid copies of the proposed Constitution that were sent to all Texas voters. These were sent out this week to all county officials by Mark White, Texas secretary of state.

He requested that copies of it be placed in county offices so they could be accessible to those needing them.

"I am requesting that the County Clerk place four copies of the English language tabloid, and four copies of the Spanish language tabloid in the election supplies which are furnished to each precinct," White stated in his memorandum to all counties.

He required this in all counties no matter the percentage of persons of Spanish origin and descent, "to obtain the widest possible dissemination of this information to persons of voting age in Texas."

"Thanks very much for sending me a copy of the article about cars and grain, manufacturers and farmers," responded Rep. Mahon. "It is a clever story, but far from funny. It is just too true!"

Said Rep. Hightower: "I really enjoyed the article you were kind enough to send me. It makes the circumstances of the whole wheat issue painfully clear. If farmers are going to produce at the level which they are capable, they must be assured of an adequate price and market for their goods. It is obvious that the administration and Mr. Meany do not completely understand the basic tenet of economics."

FRIDAY NIGHT'S game against El Paso was a great one for the spectators, as the teams opened up with four touchdowns in the opening minutes and closed with five touchdowns being scored in the final quarter. It was the most points the Herd had scored this season, and also the most that an opponent had tallied. Upshaw was not concerned about the defensive effort, despite the 29 points scored.

Bicentennial Town Meet Planned Monday Night

Emphasis was placed on plans for the general town meeting, scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the high school auditorium, during a Bicentennial conference Thursday morning in the Chamber of Commerce office.

The public is urged to attend the Columbus Day assembly to air suggestions for Hereford's observance of the national Bicentennial celebration. New ideas will be added to plans already set in motion by the Hereford and Deaf Smith County Bicentennial Committee, directed jointly by Mrs. Joe Reinauer Sr. and Mrs. Clint Formby.

Progress reports will be heard from these chairmen: Mrs. Henry Sears, Heritage '76 division; Bill Johnson, Festival '76 category and Sue James, Horizon '76 committee. Also, Jeff Carlile will make a statement concerning the sale of Bicentennial coins which are available at both banks and the Chamber office.

During the forum, a slate of nominees will be submitted for election to the Bicentennial board of directors.

Mrs. Formby explained, "It is essential to the success of the local celebration that Hereford residents attend the Columbus Day meeting. The nation is planning to stage a huge celebration in observance of the 200th

El Paso managed to move the ball only one time before the final quarter got underway, and Upshaw got all his players into the game in the last period. Vance Henggen played another great game before being felled by a knee injury, and the Herd will miss his services. Tackles Luis Marquez and Able Trevizo were also defensive standouts. The offensive line turned in a great job opening the holes for the backs, too. Greg Yosten, Brian Edwards, Barry Acton, Brad Clark and Kenneth Henson were among the stalwarts.

Hereford's Whiteface Band turned in another great halftime show before a good turnout of home fans. There were very few fans from El Paso, which is not too surprising because of the distance.

can be reached in a short time," said Phillips.

"A facility such as this will have many number of advantages, but I think one of the most important ones will be the fact that it will allow a lot of city youngsters to participate in our high school agriculture program. We've got about 100 youngsters enrolled in agriculture this year and we'd probably have a lot more if some of the students who live in town could just find a place to keep their animals. In the past, lots of city kids have indicated an interest in enrolling in agriculture classes and they've expressed a desire to raise livestock, but the problem of finding a place to raise animals has kept a lot of youngsters from participating in our program. We hope that the availability of this new school farm will encourage city youngsters to go ahead and enroll for agriculture courses," commented Phillips.

The grain drive to benefit the HHS farm is being sponsored by the Easter Lions Club, and other local clubs are also participating in the project.

Local farmers who desire to donate grain to the project should contact Clarence Behrends, president of the Easter Lions Club, Ken McLain of the Hereford Evening Lions, Weldon Dickson of the Hereford Noon Lions, or A.L. Lee of the Dawn Lions.

Plans Amarillo Talk

The Plains states of the Midwest have a history of producing men of vision, men who do things, who have developed a philosophy of living, a sense of humor, and a penetrating way of saying or writing things to which a nation often attunes its ear and mind.

Will Rogers of Oklahoma was one of them; so was William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska; and Governor Henry J. Allen, and William Allen White, journalists from Kansas.

In Wichita, Kansas, known as the "Air Capital" of the world, citizens will tell you there is another one of these men in the making—a man who is making a reputation with words. He is Robert Gadberry, who presently is Vice-President and Trust officer of the Fourth National Bank.

Gadberry will be the guest of honor when the Amarillo Knife & Fork club meets for dinner Saturday Oct. 18, 1975 at 7:00 P.M. at the Amarillo Country Club.

Missouri born—in Carthage where he attended public school—Gadberry went to Kansas State College in Pittsburg and received his A.B. Degree in 1940. Even before graduation he established something of a speaking reputation as sports announcer for the city's radio station KOAM. This not only provided college student Gadberry with early speaking experience, it also helped him make his way through college.

After college Gadberry saw service in World War II with the Air Force and Armed Radio Service. He was stationed in the Panama Canal Zone for two years, in charge of the news and special events services of the Armed Forces Radio Service.

Following discharge from service he returned to broadcasting and for a number of years was the regular commentator on Wichita stations KFJH and KFBI.

Since then he took further studies in the financial field and graduated from the Financial Public Relations School, Northwestern University, in 1955. In 1959 he attended the Kennedy Sinclair Trust School.

While a favorite in the midwest area to which he has confined his platform activities because of business pressures, Gadberry did accept assignment in 1961 to be a member of the Radio European Inspection team which visited the Iron Curtain and divided Berlin. He again went to Europe for a month during the summer of 1964.

At home he is an active member of no less than a dozen civic groups including Red Cross, Wesley Hospital, United Fund, March of Dimes, Legal Aid Society and Kansas Society of Radio Free Europe.

Work Stoppages Decline In August

all other major measures of strike activity decreased as well, with the number of new strikes declining for the second consecutive month.

Idleness in the first 8 months was 0.21 per cent of total estimated working time, compared with 0.26 for the same period in 1974. In 1972 and 1973, when wage and price controls were in effect, idleness for the same period was 0.17 and 0.13 per cent, respectively.

—The number of stoppages declined for the first time since December of 1974: 913 stoppages were in effect in August, compared with 1,039 in July and 1,057 in August of 1974.

—Approximately 415,000 workers were involved in these stoppages in August, well below the levels recorded both in the previous month and in the comparable period in 1974.

—An average of 455 workers per strike set August levels well below those of both July (544 workers per strike) and August of 1974 (551 workers per strike).

—The average duration of strikes (as measured by days of idleness per worker involved) was approximately 10.7 days this month, slightly higher than the 10.3 days recorded in July and the 10.1 days recorded in August 1974.

—Large strikes—those involving 5,000 workers or more—accounted for 37 per cent of all workers and 34 per cent of all days idle in August.

—The number of stoppages beginning in the month declined for the second consecutive month to 455 in August from 626 in July. The August level remains well below that of August 1974, when there were 509 new stoppages.

—Approximately 183,000 workers participated in new strikes this August, a decrease of 37 per cent and 27 per cent from the previous month and August 1974, respectively.

—Two large stoppages in the bituminous coal industry accounted for almost 42 per cent of all workers participating in strikes beginning in August.

Highway Robbery?

Driving 55 mph in this flat, wide-open area is sometimes tiresome and, at times, even dangerous. On a recent out-of-town football trip, I drove exactly 55 mph and didn't pass a single vehicle.

But, I don't mind driving the lower speed limit if it helps our nation conserve fuel during an energy crisis, or if it helps us receive federal highway funds. As I recall, Uncle Sam threatened to cut off highway funds if the state did not pass a law on the 55 mph speed limit.

Now we hear that federal funds have been trimmed, anyway, and that the Texas Highway Department is reducing its work force. Planned construction projects have been cancelled, and citizens in some areas are already complaining because the highway department does not have the manpower even to keep weeds cut along the highways.

It seems Uncle Sam told the state to comply with the lower speed limit or lose funds, but we complied and lost the funds anyway. The situation leaves us bewildered and wondering. When will we have leadership that tells it like it is, or will they continue to promise one thing and do another?

—Lynn Brisendine

Meet the Needs

The first year after I came to Hereford, I was with a group of men who were discussing our city. The men were quite critical of almost everything that was going on at that time.

One thing they were most critical of was the fact that our town rarely reached its goal for United Way. The attitude of the men was that this was a hick town full of selfish people.

The attitude made me mad. I had not found this town to be either "hick" or "selfish". I have not found this town to be either of these since that time. If we do not reach our United Way goal, then there must be other reasons why we do not. I am just not ready to believe that the people here do not care.

It may be that we have not done a good enough job selling the program. It may be that we have not shown the need in graphic enough terms. It may be that our approach has been too much duty and too little joy. It may be that some of the agencies included in the program are not popular.

As we approach the program this year, we shall be looking for reasons, not just fixing the blame. Our hope is that we can sell the idea of what your money can do in our community in the year ahead. There are some real needs being met by this program, and we need to figure out how to support these needs.

No guilt. No pressure. No duty. Just some real needs. Let's meet them. Thanks to you, let's make it work, here!

Talk of Texas

By Jack Maguire

ROCKETS' RED GLARE—If Shiner, Lavaca County, decides to boom out a salute to America's Bicentennial, it can do it. It has its cannon back.

For years, Shiner's pride was a small cannon that graced the entrance to the City Hall. But when World War II came along, the town agreed to melt down its cannon as its contribution to the nation's scrap metal drive. Since 1943, the concrete slab on which the cannon was mounted has been bare.

Then Mrs. Don Kaspar, who heads Shiner's Bicentennial Celebration, decided to get another cannon for the town. She wrote the Army, both Texas senators and just about everybody else in the U.S. government. Finally she talked the Army's Armament Command at Rockford, Ill., into parting with one.

This one is quite a gun. It's an 8-inch howitzer, weighs 32,000 pounds and is 32 feet long. It's much too big for the slab in front of the Shiner City Hall. It has been mounted in Welhausen Park—an appropriate site since the park was a gift of Mrs. Kaspar's parents.

Shiner's cannon is the biggest thing in town.

LAST LANDING—More than a dozen airliners, once proud birds that moved their tails for millions of travelers, now are rusting away their final days at the Montgomery County Airport near Conroe.

Oldest of the retired planes are three DC-3's, the airliner that first made inter-city air travel fast, convenient and safe 40 years ago. Most of the others are Convairs, the aircraft that helped to make the DC-3 obsolete for short trips.

All of the airplanes are propeller-driven. When the speedier jet-powered planes were developed, these old, smaller planes lost out to progress. Now time and weather are slowly sending them to the scrap heap.

CONVICT CONVERTS—In Dallas when a prisoner in the County Jail gets religion, he can request baptism by the chaplain in a convenient bathtub.

Be a Saturday hero.

A hero isn't just somebody who can wow a crowd. A hero is somebody who makes a difference. And it isn't really as hard as it sounds. All you have to do is give a little of your time each week and you can be a hero to a fatherless boy. A boy needs someone to look up to. Someone to show him he can grow up to be the man he'd like to be. You can be that someone any day of the week. Call your local Big Brothers today. Be a hero.

Presidential Press Conference Boredom

While I usually tend to fall asleep in the middle of President Ford's speeches, especially on TV, I was awakened momentarily last Thursday when our President's expressionless face broke away from the norm in a fit of unmistakable anger.

At Whom?

No less than our unloved Congress for their lack of cooperation in passing a much needed program on the economy. In this case, it was a combination tax cut and federal spending limitation package—much sought after by Ford.

His appearance on nation wide television showed that he does exhibit emotion now and then, even if it wasn't on his son Jack's use of marijuana. However, he only praised his son for his honesty but qualified it by saying that he personally did not condone its use.

The use of televised press conferences by presidents is a valuable method of communication as the American people get a closer look at their chief executive and some idea of what he's like. In the Thursday episode, I must congratulate the reporters more than the president on pulling out some of his inner emotion.

Of course the Eastern press establishment as usual displayed a general lack of concern for the public and the president by asking too many insignificant questions on Ford's personal campaign and political ethics. One reporter even admitted he never used "dirty tricks" in his 27 years of public service and Ford is not clever enough to get away with anything anyway.

But the questions presented at least varied on more subjects than those asked during the Nixon era when all we heard about was Watergate and the battles against the administration by an unfair press.

I think Ford has been given a fair length of time to perform in office and so far it just seems that his leadership has been filled with boring talk and a bunch of vetoes—the education bill to name a recent one.

Ford said the Congress ought to look back to 1968 when the legislators were able to get together on what he called a tax cut and government spending limitation bill. He further stated that it was hard to believe that the Congress couldn't use any more imagination than to come up with such a bill for him to sign.

"If they can't, then there ought to be some changes on Capital Hill," he exclaimed.

I've got to agree at least in part that our elected officials up there seem to care more about getting re-elected to their present positions or being elected to the presidency. They've sat on their fat rears and tried to be loudest on what they think is best for the nation on energy and the economy.

In the meantime, we sit out here to shiver another winter, walk instead of ride due to high gas prices and eat scraps because food and other essentials are priced out of sight.

Ford doesn't get off the hook as he too ought to get his so called experts together and sign a few bills into law. After all, do we want action or just a dull conversationalist?

If Ford can start acting, I might consider voting for him for the first time.

But now I'm looking at the kettle of fish trying for the presidential nominations and I'm not very impressed. There's still time and I'll make my preferences known at the proper time.

A presidential year is an exciting time and I plan to keep as involved in it as I can. And I look at the man, not the party.

—BT—

Well, the Aggies have finally invaded the Panhandle much to the frustration of Texas Tech alumni and students. I certainly have made known my preference in the past even though I'm not an official Aggie as I never attended the university (not U. of T.). I only lived in the area known as Aggie land, which definitely encompassed Bryan, College Station's neighbor to the North.

Of course, the results will be known by the time this column is read, but I hope it is a close Aggie win as I do sympathize with Tech supporters. I better since I live in their territory. At least, I said "hope" in referring to Tech's chances.

So far, the bets are going the Aggies' way as some are giving Tech and 20 points for betting on the Aggies. There's nothing like the Aggie spirit, which I call the fever, for giving them a slight emotional advantage, especially in a winning year.

Even a northern sports writer referred to this year's Aggie offense as awesome as a Saturday night in Amarillo, referring supposedly to the crime rate there and I'm sure the city's unusual name. But it was an awesome night in Lubbock last night, not Amarillo.

Hopefully, it wasn't a rout, Tech. And Aggies, hope you enjoyed the flight back to CS.

Next year, it just might be year of the Red Raiders. And if A&M gets this year's championship, I'll gladly support you even if my brother-in-law, a Tech graduate, beats me over the head this year.

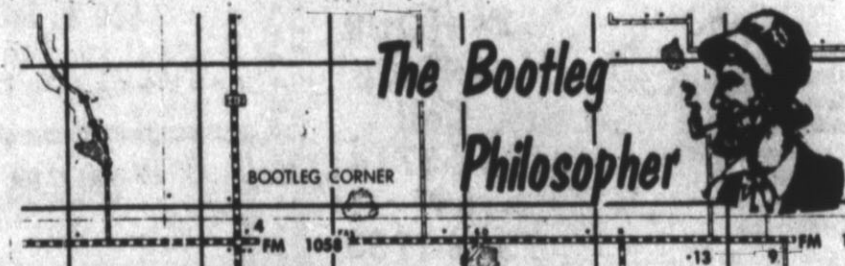

—BT—

We learned that the First National Bank of Hereford is celebrating its 75th anniversary this month and I commend them for their extended service to this town. They've gone through some thick and thin times.

A bank, like a newspaper, is rich with the history of a community and I plan to trace a bit of it in a coming article. It is enjoyable to do such articles and often they are very informative.

Banks may not always be able to lend us the money we want, but without them, we wouldn't be able to get some of the things we have. And they are usually always right there when it comes to community service.

With their help, Hereford ought to progress as well in the future as it has done in the past 75 years.

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on this Deaf Smith grass farm on Bootleg Corner takes a look at the CIA this week, but we aren't sure what he sees.

—O—

Dear editor:

Since I don't even know what's going on in Hereford I couldn't be expected to know what's going on in Portugal, but an item in the paper about that country caught my attention the other day.

According to it, the CIA, after denying it, reluctantly admitted the U.S. contributed about 10 million dollars to Portugal in its struggle against Communism. The CIA said it was against national security to reveal this secret and did so only because Congress demanded to know. At the same time, it said it was justified in contributing the money because Russia had given about as much to the Communist side in Portugal.

I don't know anything about the CIA, but I figure if it knew what Russia was giving, Russia probably knew what the U.S. was giving, and the only group in the dark about the matter was you and me. As the Watergate gang learned, it's hard to undetectably transfer money from one country to another, say from Mexico to Washington.

I may be wrong about this, but it seems to me in a situation like Portugal or some other countries we've taken a hand in, our furnishing money and arms to the government to keep it from going one way, and Russia's furnishing money and arms to get it to go the other way, is like a basketball team taking money from one side to throw the game its way, and then taking money from another side to throw it the other way.

This is confusing to everybody, especially to the basketball players, unless they get a cut of the bribe money and don't really care who wins.

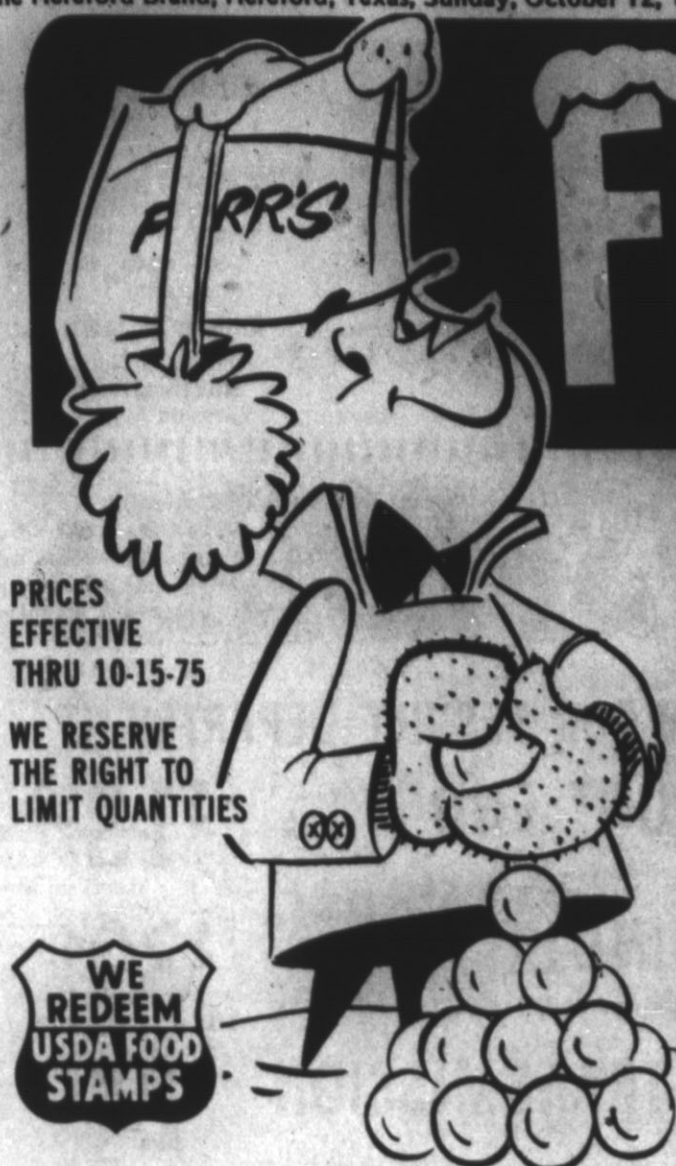

Actually, in this day and time, when trying to keep the secret of something like the atom bomb is like trying to keep the secret of bicycle or the motor-scooter, nations might be just as well off trying to take care of their own business right out in public.

As for the CIA, I'm sure we need it, but its men seem to be trained for just a few things. For example, it would have been handy to know, and not hard to find out, that Russia had a short grain crop two years ago and again this year, but the CIA simply has nobody in its outfit trained to look out the window and see if Russia needs a rain.

Your faithfully,
J.A.

Football Teams Get Mixed Results

Hereford's Junior Varsity defeated the Borger JV in a taut defensive struggle in Borger Thursday night. Final score was 8-6.

Coach Carol Tucker reported that the winning score developed when Victor Pacheco blocked a punt, and Mitch Guinn picked up the ball on the play and ran it in for a touchdown.

Besides Guinn and Pacheco, other outstanding defensive efforts were given by Charley Reyna and Gregg Albright, according to Coach Tucker.

The Hereford sophomore unit continued to be beset by hard luck Thursday as Plainview defeated the sophomores, 26-0.

In ninth grade action, LaPlata was defeated by Dimmitt 24-12 but Stanton's ninth grade unit beat Plainview Blue 18-12 in a thriller.

Also Thursday night, in eighth grade action the two local teams lost, as Canyon beat LaPlata 34-14 and Plainview Coronado beat Stanton's ninth grade unit 30-14.

Results Given For PP&K

Hereford winners in the annual Punt, Pass & Kick Contest were in Amarillo Saturday to compete in the zone competition against other Panhandle winners in the six divisions.

Orval Watson Ford, local sponsor, announced the Hereford winners this week. The 13-year-old winners: Curt Beard, first; Felix Soliz, second; Mike Hale, third. The 12-year-olds: 1. Aubrey Richburg, 2. Curt McNaney, 3. Billy Simon.

The 11-year-old winners: 1.

Steven George, 2. Don DeLozier, 3. Duane McNaney; 10-years—1. Rick McCracken, 2. Steven Welch, 3. Rodney Simon; 9-year-olds—1. Jeff Shelton, 2. Ronny Collier, 3. Stacey Evans; 8-year-olds—1. Hunt Foster, 2. Randal Dement, 3. Scott Calkins.

The PP&K contest has been sponsored by the Ford Dealers of America in cooperation with the National Football League for the past 15 years. More than 11.5 million youngsters have participated in that span of years.

Comment On Sports

BOXING

By Pete Fritchle

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Joe Frazier didn't do as badly as the world had been convinced he would at Manila. In fact, on the two New York Times scorecards, Joe had won eight rounds when the end came between rounds 14 and 15. That means he would have won the fight in the eyes of some and on a round-by-round tally, had he decided to tie up the champion, Muhammad Ali, after the 11th round. He could have clinched, backed away and ducked and weaved—and survived.

But that isn't Joe Frazier's way. He was out to win and he came close, trying for the kill. He would probably have won had the fight—like his second with Ali—been limited to twelve rounds.

Comings And Goings At King's Manor

By FAY GAUGEL

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hudson and Mrs. Alma Cross recently attended the 98th birthday celebration of Clyde's and Alma's aunt, who lives in the Bivins Memorial Nursing Home in Amarillo.

Remember Mr. Devers, how close we are here to you. Do come again.

Wayne Evans and son David of Fort Worth spent the weekend with the Joe Evans here. Evans is business manager of the Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

Our Artist Guild's artist of the month is Mrs. Ray Cowser. Her oil is gorgeous in King's Manor dining room. It is spring scene of a country home, perhaps in some European country side. We love it, Mrs. Cowser.

LUNCHEON GUESTS

On October 1, fifteen guests from St. Johns Methodist Church, Lubbock had lunch with us.

Then, on October 2, twelve guests from Lubbock's Forest Heights Church ate with Manor folk.

Both groups were shown the entire King's Manor complex.

DEVERS' EAGER BEAVERS AGAIN

And why are they eager? Because Bill has a way with all youngsters whether they be musical or not. How we'd love to call back 60 years and sit under his tutelage and enjoy singing as his youngsters do. We'd be eager too.

Devers directs choirs at La Plata Junior High School. Friday morning, his groups sang in Lamar Memorial Hall.

The seventh graders, having been in school only six weeks, began by singing rounds, which is the logical beginning or preparation for harmony music or singing in parts.

Rounds were:

1. "This is the Day the Lord hath made"
2. "Heigho! Nobody Home!"
3. "You're not sick; you're in Love"
4. "I Love the Mountains"

Boom to boom etc, etc. Replete with final snappy "Shave and a Hair cut - Six bits!"

5. "The Inch Worm Song." Boys arched their notes in long strokes as girls sang normally. Devers had made a fine art of having solo voice tete tete with the group or with one or more singers, between numbers. But most of the time he is effective with hand, baton, sign language, or facial expression.

The second group to perform were 8th and 9th graders. Here the difference gave an insight into what tremendous improvements take place in a short time.

This group sang

1. "Singin' a Happy Song"
2. Negro Spiritual "Where Shall I go when the Trumpet Sounds." Congratulations to soloist Lana Porter.
3. "The Yellow Rose of Texas" in parts with girls executing a thrilling descant.
4. "Sing to His Name; He is Gracious"

The group here rose to a crescendo of excellency at the climax. To provincial people of our vintage, it was refreshing to observe that discipline has not given the way of all flesh. The youngsters conducted themselves in an exemplary manner.

KESTER'S JEWELRY
ACROSS FROM THE POST OFFICE
IN DOWNTOWN HEREFORD

A gala reception took place Sunday afternoon at King's Manor in honor of two new staff members at our home. They are Mrs. Zona Smith, hostess, and assistant, Mrs. Jane Bickley.

Mrs. Smith taught school in Lubbock for several years and Mrs. Bickley is the wife of the late Dr. C.A. Bickley who served Northwest Texas Conference for years. The occasion was hosted by the United Methodist Women.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Margaret Ann Durham, president of the King's Manor Auxiliary, the honorees Mrs. Virginia Harrell, assistant administrator and Dr. Dewitt Seago, chaplain.

The beautiful serving table was elegantly appointed by Mrs. Ansel McDowell with her cut work tablecloth centered with yellow mums. Punch was poured from a silver bowl by Mrs. Grant Hanna, leader of the Alice Ward Circle of Methodist Church. Dainty cookies were arranged on silver trays.

Guests were residents of King's Manor and Westgate, officials connected with the Manor, Methodist groups and, in general, just friends and towns people or who ever wished to come.

Our two new ladies have already endeared themselves to us and all portends good for us because of their coming.

USDA Suggests Checking Before Move To Country

People planning to move back to a rural community from a city, or those considering changing from an urban to a rural life style, should check first on the availability and adequacy of jobs, housing, and services, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) suggests.

By learning in advance whether they can be accommodated adequately, such people can avoid disappointment and frustration, according to USDA's Rural Development Service (RDS). While many growing communities in rural America welcome new residents, others remain limited in economic opportunities and facilities. For facts to help in selecting a rural community that is compatible with their needs and interests, prospective residents should write the mayor or local Chamber of Commerce. Or they can visit the community to talk to local people and see for themselves whether there is reasonable promise of fulfilling their expectations.

Nationwide, at least 350,000 persons are believed to be moving each year from urban to rural communities, in contrast to a net loss of about 300,000 a year during the 1960's. During 1970-73, nonmetro population increased 4.2 per cent while metro growth was only 2.9 per cent.

RDS, the agency designated to coordinate the federal rural development effort, offers the following for individuals and communities to consider before commitments are made regarding moving:

—Is satisfactory employment available for wage earners, either locally or within reasonable commuting distance; and are the jobs varied enough in type to enable a desired employment balance in the community?

—Is there enough sound, permanent housing available for newcomers and is it convenient to employment, shopping, AFYON, TURKEY--The Turkish government, confident it has succeeded in preventing Turkish opium poppies from finding their way into illicit heroin markets, plans to license 100,000 farmers to grow poppies again this year for medicinal uses.

recreation, cultural, and service centers?

—Are transportation facilities suitable for people to get efficiently to and from work and where they must go to conduct personal business, visit cultural centers, and obtain recreation?

—Are dental and medical facilities nearby and are they capable of providing all services necessary to maintain good health?

—Is there enough variety in local shopping centers, or is it feasible to visit metro shopping centers nearby?

—Are educational facilities (including elementary, intermediate, secondary, and vocational schools and colleges) satisfactory and in desired locations?

—Are local government services (especially police, fire, and ambulance) set up to function for the convenience of safety of the citizens, and is the tax system equitable?

—Are municipal services such as sewer and water systems available?

—Are churches of desired denomination in the area?

—Is land available for an individual who desires to purchase acreage for personal use?

—Finally, what are local development trends—is the long-term outlook one of continuing attraction?

CowBelles Tell Hereford Rotarians 'Buy More Beef'

The Hereford Rotary club listened to representatives of the Hereford CowBelles at a weekly noon luncheon Monday concerning the need of consumers to buy and eat more beef.

To dramatize the price squeeze put on beef producers, the organization showed Rotarians a slide show entitled, "The Cattleman," which has been circulated nation wide by the CowBelles. The organization was formed by wives and supporters of cattlemen in 1942 to work for the betterment of the industry and distribute information concerning it. The local unit is only three years old, but has since sponsored a wide range of projects.

The slides, accompanied by a recording, reviewed the drastic situation in 1973 when the price received by cattlemen for their finished product fell way below the cost of production causing some to lose up to $150 a head. Even though the situation has improved slightly, the slides presented timely information concerning the high cost of farm and ranching equipment and supplies and how the meat prices fluctuate so much.

Sarah Lawson of the CowBelles said another prime reason for buying beef is its nutritional value. "You men don't think about nutrition; you just want a good piece of meat and meal. But beef provides a healthy portion of nutrition."

Among the projects sponsored by the Hereford CowBelles are Beef for Girlstown, coordinated by Marn Tyler; National Agriculture Day, held earlier this year at Sugarland Mall; and Beef for Father's Day, which encouraged beef buying for that day's meal.

The CowBelles also continuously provide beef gift certificates and are now in the process of printing new souvenir napkins showing the brands of area ranches. The next activity is set for Nov. 21-27 when the organization will observe National Farm Week.

The club welcomed Charlie Beavers, an agricultural financial consultant with the First National Bank of Hereford, as the newest members. Mike Patrick, membership chairman presented him with his lapel pin, a set of Rotary books, a wall plaque, and desk plaque showing the four-way test of the club.

Roland Saul, secretary, introduced the October Officer of the Month. He is Frankie Scott, a member of the Texas Department of Public Safety highway patrol.

Travis McPherson, Deaf Smith County sheriff, was honored at last week's meeting as the September Officer of the Month. He was presented an engraved plaque.

Rotarians will be sponsoring a barbeque at 5 p.m. Friday at the Hereford High School cafeteria right before the Whiteface-El Paso Burgess football game. Tickets cost $2 each and the proceeds will benefit Les Combs, a Hereford Rotarian who has undergone extensive treatment at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Tickets and contributions may be handled through any Rotary Club member.

The Department of Commerce and Labor was created by an act of Congress (Act of Feb. 14, 1903, 32 Stat. 825), and its Secretary was made a member of the Cabinet, according to "Important Events in American Labor History," a publication of the U.S. Labor Department.

In 1912, Massachusetts adopted the first minimum wage act for women and minors, according to "Important Events in American Labor History," a publication of the U.S. Labor Department.

By The Garden Gate With Glad

By Gladys Manjeot

When the silver habit of the clouds comes down upon the autumn sun and, with a sobered gladness, the old growing season of the year takes up his bright gathering of the golden fruit, bringing in the vegetables which are ready to be stored or canned. There is really pomp and pageant in the air around, as the garden chores begin to come to an end.

THE MONTH OF October is usually thought of as the month for cleaning up and making plans to plant the bulbs for Spring flowering.

We often speak of spring housecleaning, well in the fall of the year. We clean the flower beds, condition the lawn and check trees for broken branches or damage from insects. Many of the leaves and other debris should be burned.

First, collect them carefully, then pile and burn or destroy. Materials that are in good shape should be added to a compost pile or a new one started. Another thing we can do is to check what did well and make suggestive plans for another season's planting. It would be wise to make a sketch, one that can be enlarged, for another year's planting.

Groom the plants which are still in bloom and feed the chrysanthemums, so that they will yield well-grown blossoms. Some pinching will be necessary, especially with the larger mums and those we wish to develop larger. Spray types need to be groomed and some of the buds in the sprays pinched. (The center one of the clusters and after feeding them all, soak them slowly with water.) The last few days there has been much color added to my garden, by the flowering of the chrysanthemums and I have been busy pinching, watering and cultivating them.

At the flower show in Dimmitt where Mmes. O.G. Hill, R.L. Ethridge, and I judged the artistic arrangements, we saw many beautiful grown flowers. Also good quality of foliage materials, and the arranging as well done; many of the arrangements were winners of blue ribbons.

Was a great pleasure to be in the Bruegel, Sr., home. So many, many antiques, and beauty created throughout the home and the grounds. Not only were there thrills in seeing the pretties, it was exciting to see the farmers busy getting in the fall harvest of beets and corn, and to be with old friends and make new ones!

Just before we know it, there will be a killing frost and the vegetables and flowers from which we want cuttings will be damaged. There are many excellent geraniums.

There are several ways by which they can be saved for planting another year. One is to take cuttings from the best stock. Prepare a wooden box and fill with clean, sharp sand. Dampen lightly. Then take the cuttings and push them down into the sand until the box is filled. Set aside where there is sifted light. Water during the winter, when needed, not too heavy but enough to keep the cutting alive. As spring approaches, place where there is more sunlight, water more generously when warm weather arrives, then plant outside.

Another method by which they can be kept is to pull the plant up, shake off some of the surplus soil. Place the root end into a plastic bag, leaving the top of plant outside. Tie bag securely to the trunk of plant and hang either in the basement or in a storage room, where it will not freeze. It will be necessary to remove some of the heavier foliage and to sprinkle with warm water the tops and soil of the hanging plant.

When ready to plant, take down, prune carefully and then re-plant in your favorite location. Cuttings can also be taken from the plant now, rooted and then planted in pot for winter. These will need sunshine and attention, but they will be ready to transplant outside when spring time comes and give winter pleasure.

All vegetables which have matured should be pulled or gotten ready for storage in bins in the basement or a place which has been provided for them. Green tomatoes, cabbage, cauliflower, onions, turnips, carrots, kohlrabi, parsnips, artichokes, peppers, celery, pumpkins, squash and sweet potatoes, all can be stored. Some for longer periods than others. Study your magazines and you will find aids to preserving vegetables. On page 40 and 41 in the September Horticulture Magazine, are many helpful suggestions.

I have been enjoying making tomatoe juice and preparing fresh turnips. Peanuts as well as squash. This year I planted ornamental squash and it has been a thrill to harvest. Am eager to make arrangements using them or to place them with other fall guards in a wooden container. Some of the ornamental ones are striped, two-tone, rough, smooth, tall, short, and of other various shapes and forms. Pretty and fun to work with.

Friends have called and complained about the slow ripening of their tomatoes. Cool nights and cool mornings causes tomatoes to ripen slowly on the vine. Pick them when color starts to change or a bit of pink shows.

They will ripen in a few days and flavor will not be harmed. Green tomatoes, picked before frost, can be enjoyed at Thanksgiving if cleaned and properly stored. Do not wash with water; clean with a soft damp cloth and wrap the sound, unblemished fruit in a brown paper or newspaper (clean).

Place them in shallow trays. Ripening temperature is between 55 and 70 degrees; store at 50 degree temperature. Warmer temperature causes them to ripen faster, therefore they will rot if left to get over-ripe.

Remember, delicious foods can be made from green tomatoes. Many other vegetables and fruits can be combined with them also. Green tomato mincemeat is a delightful dessert, either in fried pies or pie slices.

For the garden club members this is ideal weather to collect and prepare materials to be dried and placed in keeping for arranging. The blossoms of the carrots make delightful dried material, as does marigolds in their various sizes and colors.

Do not fail to water the roses, they do like to have attention and need water to produce good blossoms. Also if gladiolas are reaching a good height, it would be good to stake them and tie to the stake, so that the spike will reach its true fruition, and the florets will develop much better.

Am going to have fun at my house roasting and eating the nice fresh peanuts brought to me by friends who were visiting in Portales.

I am just a nutty person, because I do enjoy a tart apple with toasted peanut pecans or walnuts. I even toast the pecans and walnuts (slightly) when they have been shelled. It gives a much better flavor, especially for nuts you are going to use in cooking. The flavor is excellent in a fruit cake, apple-sauce cake or pecan pie. Try it, you'll like it.

On Wall Street

By BOB HILL

One of the great blessings that comes from living in West Texas is the clear, clean air we enjoy. That blessing would be hard to damage, since we enjoy wide open spaces and a low population density in the Panhandle.

But, in eight U.S. metropolitan areas air pollution is so awful that now the Environmental Protection Agency will soon begin requiring service stations in those eight metropolises to recover not less than 90 per cent of the gas fumes and vapors escaping from the gasoline hose when a motorist fills his tank with gasoline. Those gasoline vapors are a major contributor to air pollution and they become even more significant as the hydrocarbon emissions of cars drop.

The EPA has proposed rules requiring every service station in those eight areas pumping more than 30,000 gallons per month to install expensive vacuum systems to recover escaping vapors. The vacuum system uses pumps to suck the vapors back into storage tanks and has been effective up to 90 per cent of the time.

The major oil companies are pushing for a "balance" system which operates on the pressure of the gasoline flowing from the hose into the automobile gas tank. This pressure forces the fumes back into the storage tanks through a completely separate line attached to or incorporated as part of the gasoline pump hose.

The "balance" system recovers 83 per cent of the fumes at best and does not meet the EPA requirements of 90 per cent effectiveness. So, service stations will have to go for the more expensive vacuum system not later than May 31, 1977.

Narrow Escape

David Watts, 22, of Hereford escaped injury Thursday afternoon when the semi truck he was driving was struck by a train at a Santa Fe railroad crossing at the Dawn community. Watts had just dumped a load of corn at Dawn Co-Op and was northbound when the trailer was hit by the train. A second truck-train collision only a short time later also resulted in no injuries when a truck driven by Terry Mickeler, 19, of Hereford was struck by a train at the intersection of Lee Street and the Santa Fe tracks.

Christmas Seal Campaign Begins

Mrs. Jewel Smith of Hereford has announced the opening of the 1975 Christmas Seal Campaign, with mailing of Seals on October 13 throughout the Panhandle area.

She said the Campaign, which supports health programs in prevention and control of asthma, emphysema, TB, and other lung diseases, is badly needed.

"Emphysema is the fastest-rising cause of death in the United States today," she said, "and our work to achieve better treatment, medication, surgical technique and prevention for the control of these diseases has a bearing on the lung patient in all communities everywhere."

Mrs. Smith said last week's area symposium for parents of asthmatic children and health professionals engaged in the care of lung patients of this area is an example of Christmas Seal work and its bearing upon the patient. She urged county residents to answer their Christmas Seal appeal as generously as possible.

Mrs. Smith serves on the Lung Association board with Mrs. June Rudd, R.N., Mrs. Joyce Seigler, R.N., and Dr. Clyde Rush.

BB-BS To Sponsor 'Bring A Friend' Night

The Big Brother-Big Sisters of Hereford Inc. will be sponsoring a "Bring A Friend Night" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Medallion Room of the Deaf Smith Rural Electric cooperative building on Highway 60 East.

A special attraction of the evening is a speech by Tom Visentine, a national representative of the Big Brother-Big Sisters of America and international organizations.

JoAn Dwyer, executive director of the Hereford agency, said that everyone interested is welcome to attend and to bring along a friend. "The purpose of the meeting is to inform the people of Hereford of the Big Brother-Big Sister program and what it is doing locally," she said.

While the program here is small, she explained. "We are providing a necessary service to the kids of our area from single parent homes."

The program was organized here about 1 1/2 years ago with a local board supervising its operation. It includes matched pairs of volunteer adults and kids from homes without a father, mother, older brother, or older sister.

Mrs. Dwyer said volunteers are needed all the time and that applications from adults may be taken at the BB-BS office in the Hereford Civic Center.

More than 11 1/2 million youngsters have participated in that 15 years. This year, national participation is expected to top 1.2 million. Participants compete only with youngsters their own age. Scoring is based on distance and accuracy in punting, passing and kicking. First place winners in each group participated in zone competition held in Amarillo Saturday October 11. Twelve national finalists will compete during halftime at the Super Bowl Game in Miami January 18, 1976. Winners will have their names permanently inscribed in the National Football League Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio. Winning trophies will be presented by Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Pushing Hard

Hereford Jaycees Jerry Johnson [seated in wheelbarrow], Donnie Rhine [left], and Dale Smith call attention to a membership recruitment drive currently engaged in by the Jaycees. The drive will continue until November 6. Jaycees have been divided into teams, and at 3 p.m. November 6 the losing team will push the winning team down Main Street from Thriftway to the Wishing Well. During the push the losing team will sell tissue paper for a penny a sheet. All Jaycees are concentrating on getting many new members for the local chapter, so that their team won't be the one which has to do the pushing. The Jaycees conduct many community service programs, including a Child Abuse program, holiday rest stops, Little Dribblers' Basketball, and internal programs aimed at individual self-improvement.

Charles Skigner Jewelry and Where to Wear It

The sultans of Zanzibar wore gems on her chopines. Being a sultana, she could put her jewels where she chose...but on her chopines? Her tiny feet were usually seen on these raised slippers which were plated with silver and gold and often set with precious gems.

The inches-thick clodhoppers adorning the feet of many young people today are relatives of the sultana's chopines, though cork, straw and leather have replaced the silver, gold and jewels.

The maharajas and maharanis, the royalty of India, knew a thing or two about wearing jewelry. The ladies were frequently seen in toe rings. Often of silver, there would be a large ring around the big toe and a small one on the little toe. A precious span of mesh or ringlets joined the two across the instep.

And moving right along—the foot bone being connected to the ankle bone—what ever happened to ankle jewelry? I've seen identification anklets (usually with bobby socks and saddle shoes) in my day. Today, an ankle chain, would not be considered outrageous.

Before there were belts, there were girdles, worn on the outside and, on persons of importance, usually gem set. Often several inches broad, bejeweled girdles were known in many cultures. In America, the Navajo, Hopi and Zuni Indians were especially fond of jewelry. Their girdles were beaten out of silver and were set with turquoise, coral and other stones.

History has seen everything from navel jewelry to breast-plates. Cowan's doesn't stock nose rings, but our treasury of trinkets for more conventional wear will delight you.

Highway Personnel Reduction Planned

A reduction in personnel and consolidation of some offices have been announced by A.L. "Al" McKee, Amarillo District Engineer of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

McKee said 34 employees on the Amarillo District payroll of 542 persons have been asked to find other employment by Dec. 31, 1975.

The three Amarillo resident engineer offices will be consolidated immediately into one Amarillo office under the supervision of George J. Cannon.

As soon as existing road projects terminate the Perryton and Canyon offices will be phased out. The Perryton and Canyon offices will be combined and headquartered at Canyon under the supervision of Lewis R. "Tim" Loyd. The Canyon and Borger residences will be combined with that office located in Borger under the supervision of Jay L. Hawley Jr.

The District Engineer also said the resident offices at Dalhart and Pampa will remain in operation with some restructuring of personnel.

A 90-day study was conducted statewide by all of the department's 25 districts and Houston Urban Office to assess workloads. The object of the study was to determine the number of people of pertinent skills needed to implement and carry out responsibilities in all phases and facets of the department.

In 1974, for the first time in history the department experienced an actual decrease in revenues. The shortage of funds and the fact that construction costs have doubled since 1967 naturally has resulted in a shortage of work.

"This necessitated a reduction in forces and in some cases a reduction in grade of some of those persons involved," McKee said. "Also some reductions had to be made in maintenance, design and administrative personnel," he said.

"All the people who are being laid off have been notified and they are being given reasonable time to find other employment. We will assist these people in any way possible to secure other employment or unemployment benefits for which they may be eligible," McKee said.

McKee added that he does not anticipate further reductions in the near future.

The department had been practicing a reduced hiring policy, hoping that attrition would reduce personnel to the desired level. Beginning the new fiscal year Sept. 1, 1975, division and district budgets were cut back to bare minimums for personnel, services and facilities.

The August letting of contracts for road repair and reconstruction was not held because of a lack of funds.

The Amarillo encompasses 17 counties of the Texas Panhandle, including a highway network of some 3,700 miles.

Band Member

After beginning the year, the 104 freshmen of the West Texas State University Marching Band have settled into band routine. Among the freshman members of the band is Kenneth Lang, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.A. Lang, Jr. of 113 Elm in Hereford. The freshmen began rehearsals one week before school started. Band members are currently involved in marching during the half-time shows at Buffalo home football games.

Local Problems Topic Of Four Area Workshops

Problems facing area local governments will be topics for four fall workshops to be conducted by the Division of Continuing Education and the Center for Public Service at Texas Tech University.

The workshops, to be held in Lubbock, Canyon, Abilene and Midland, will be conducted in cooperation with area colleges and universities, regional planning commissions and councils of governments.

"Last year, Texas Tech organized a series of 21 workshops for local governments in the South Plains area," said Dr. James Clotfelter, director of the Center of Public Service and coordinator of the workshops. "This year's workshops are reaching out to serve more people throughout West Texas. The series will draw on university and government specialists in many fields. They will offer government officials and employees an opportunity to test their ideas and experiences against the experience of others."

Workshop topics are varied, depending on the needs expressed by government officials in each area," Clotfelter said. "But all are focused on problems characteristic of the cities and rural areas of West Texas."

The first of the fall series will be Oct. 21 and 22 in Lubbock. Its topic will be "Public Personnel Administration."

Registration for the workshop will be Oct. 21 at 1 p.m. in Building X-15 on the Texas Tech campus. Workshop sessions begin at 1:30 p.m.

Speakers include Dr. N. Joseph Cayer, visiting associate professor of Political Science at Texas Tech, on "Preparing for Collective Bargaining;" Dr. Darold T. Barnum, assistant professor of management, on "When and How to use Mediation;" and Dr. Louis Ponthieu, associate professor of management, on "The Fair Labor Standards Act."

Oct. 22 sessions will begin at 9 a.m. Speakers include: Dr. James Eisinger, associate professor of law, "The Civil Rights Act of 1964 and Public Employees;" Oberlin Esparza and Melba Best, volunteer program officer's, Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, Dallas Regional Office, "Affirmative Action and Equal Employment Opportunity... What is it?" and Joe Minkley, director of personnel, City of Lubbock. "Setting up a Municipal Affirmative Action Program."

Other fall workshops include "Treatment and Disposition of Juvenile Offenders," Oct. 30, West Texas State University, Canyon; "Budgeting and Revenue Sources," Nov. 5, Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene; "Human Resources Development," Nov. 12 and 13, Midland College, Midland. Additional workshops are planned for winter and spring.

Registration may be made in advance through the Division of Continuing Education, Texas Tech University, Lubbock 79409. Pre-registration fees are $20 for day-and-one-half workshops, $15 for one day workshops. Fees are $25 and $20, respectively for those who do not pre-register.

The workshops are supported by a Title I, Higher Education Act grant through the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System.

COMPARE Case 2670

When you start to look for a four wheel drive tractor, compare the others with Case. The 2670 delivers 256* gross engine horsepower, 221 at the pto. The turbocharged, intercooled engine has 504 cubic inches of Case high-torque diesel power.

Put this to work with a power shift transmission that offers three on-the-go speed selections in each of four ranges.

Rigid frame construction with 4-way, 4-wheel steering means the 2670 performs as well on hillsides and in row crops as on level land. A 15'6" turning radius makes this one of the tightest turning 4-wheel-drives available.

Add a three point hitch and independent pto for power and versatility to keep that tractor working year 'round. Get the facts on other 4-wheel-drives, then stop in and we'll show you why the Case 2670 is the one best for you.

Couple At Home After Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest "Ernie" Paul Gilliland are at home in Somerset, Ky. after their marriage in late August in Pine Hill Baptist Church, Somerset, followed by an old-fashioned Shivarce. Performing the ceremony was the bridegroom's grandfather, the Rev. Lloyd Sewell.

The informal post-nuptial reception was given in the home of Rev. and Mrs. Lloyd Sewell, where Betty Bingham and Phyllis Whitis, both of Somerset, served refreshments. Joyce Mink of Somerset registered guests.

The recent bride is a May graduate of Hereford High School, where she was a member of band, forensics and thespians. Gilliland served in the U.S. Army after graduation from Pulaski County High School. He is currently attending Somerset Community College.

Local residents who traveled to the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Wayne Bridges and Valerie.

Hobby Day Is Wednesday.

Needlepoint, toile painting, cake decorating and other various art forms will be illustrated at Deaf Smith County Library from 10:30 a.m.-4 p.m. Wednesday during a Craft and Hobby Day.

Local artisans will be present to explain techniques of their individual displays, stated

Gwen London, librarian. The public is invited to view the art projects; there will be no admission charge. If the response is successful, the Craft Day will be an annual event, Mrs. London said.

Also on tap at the library this week is a family film, to be presented at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Heritage Room. Based on the story of a famous horse in American history, the movie is comparable to a Walt Disney production. It is free to the public, also.

Couple Wed In Late Afternoon Ceremony

St. Anthony's Catholic Church was the setting Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Miss Patsy Paetzold and Lt. Scott Douglass, USMC of Camp Lejeune, N.C. The Rev. Bernard McGorry, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward (Bud) Paetzold of Route 3 and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Douglass of Fort Worth.

Two bouquets of white gladiolus and light blue chrysanthemums decorated the main altar of the church and side altars were ornamented with bouquets of white daisies.

Miss Kathleen Cogas, Amarillo served the bride as maid of honor and Stuart Douglass of Fort Worth, the bridegroom's brother, was best man.

Miss Melinda Householder of Guthrie, was bridesmaid and Gary Anderson of Canyon was groomsmen. The bride's brothers, Larry and Joe Paetzold, and Michael Pfisterer of Nacogdoches, the bridegroom's cousin, escorted guests to their seats.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Paetzold's daughter, Debra, and Kevin Paetzold, son of Mr. and James Paetzold, cousins of the bride, served as flower girl and ring bearer.

"There Is Love," "The Lord's Prayer" and "Follow Me" were wedding selections presented by organist Miss Patricia Herr of Amarillo and vocalist Larry Kuper.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a slipper-length gown of white satin designed with a fitted bodice.

The round neckline was of Chantilly floral-patterned lace traced by iridescent seed pearls. The bishop sleeves were gathered at deep cuffs and matching lace appliques were scattered on the A-line gown.

The hem of the skirt was trimmed in lace and cascaded to a full chapel train. The floor-length veil of tiered bridal illusion, borrowed from the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Joe Paetzold, was edged in alencon floral design lace and was attached to a caplet of iridescent seed pearls.

She carried a cascade of white sweetheart roses, daisies, carnations and babybreath.

As a good luck piece, the bride wore a silver cross necklace with a diamond setting which was a gift from the bridegroom. She also carried a handkerchief belonging to her grandmother.

Bridal attendants wore peacock blue polyester crepe gowns fashioned with cameo necklines, short bouffant sleeves, empire waists and gored skirts. White and blue inserted ribbon bands trimmed the waists and sleeves.

They carried bouquets of white daisies and pompons with babybreath.

Observing military tradition, the bridegroom was attired in dress blue Marine Corps uniform and the wedding cake was cut with the bridegroom's military sword.

Miss Margie Paetzold, the bride's cousin, and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Shelly Douglass, invited guests to sign the registry book at the reception dinner-dance held in Knights of Columbus Hall.

The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Larry Paetzold and Mrs. Joe Paetzold, and the bridegroom's sisters, Miss Sandra Douglass and Miss Sharon Douglass, served the wedding cake.

The four-tiered cake, surrounded by four separate heart-shaped cakes, was decorated with orchids and topped with a wedding cross.

The refreshment table, with a lace overlay.

Leaving for a wedding trip to North Carolina, the bride wore a sleeveless A-line street-length dress. The checkered skirt of rust and white coordinated with the solid rust colored bodice and matching jacket.

The couple will be at home after Oct. 18 in Camp Lejeune, North Carolina.

The bride was employed by St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo as a registered nurse before her marriage. She is a 1975 graduate of West Texas State University where she received a degree in nursing, was dormitory advisor and in 1975 was assistant dormitory director. She graduated from Hereford High School in 1971.

The bridegroom is a 1974 graduate of WTSU where he received a degree in political science. While attending the university he was a member of Alpha Kappa Psi business fraternity and was a dormitory advisor. He received training and commission as 2nd lieutenant in USMC at Quantico, Va.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. F.E. Pfisterer of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Fitzek of Arlington; Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Williams of White Deer; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bednorz and Mrs. Sophie Snoga, all of Canyon; Mr. and Mrs. George Paetzold of Snyder; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Paetzold of Amarillo.

Last year's local Secretary of the Year, Mildred Sheffy, PLS, is the current TALS winner.

Mrs. Wheat, in addition to holding the chapter's highest office, is editor of the monthly bulletin, Legalites. She is serving as chairman of the TALS resolutions committee. She obtained her Professional Legal Secretary rating in the fall of 1974. She is the mother of two children and is a member of Order of the Eastern Star and the Christian Church.

Also during the recent meeting of Legal Secretaries, Mrs. Sheffy, who is legal education chairman, presented the program. She gave a summary of the proposed 1976 Texas Constitution and distributed material comparing the amended document with the present Constitution.

Attending from Hereford were Mrs. Pagett, Mrs. Sheffy, Ruth Wynne, Barbara Lomenick and Mildred Fuhrmann.

AAUW Provides Tourist Maps

Heritage maps marking historical landmarks in Hereford and Deaf Smith County are now available at several local locations through courtesy of American Association of University Women.

Designated for visitors to this community, the maps were drawn and printed at the expense of AAUW and will be given away to tourists. Two thousand maps will be distributed with particular significance given to the Bicentennial of the nation.

Each of the visitor service directories includes a map of Hereford on one side and a sketch of the county on the back. Important dates are inscribed on the maps, which include established sites, such as Deaf Smith County Historical Museum.

The maps, printed at the request of the Bicentennial Heritage Committee, were formally presented to local Bicentennial officials Thursday morning at the Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Colby Conkwright was chairman of the AAUW task force who are responsible for the maps. In this committee were Mmes. Richard Barnard, Jack Gilliland and Reuben McGilvary.

This is the season when many sleeveless dresses can get a new look by sewing in long sleeves of a different fabric or color. The layer look of the past season has made this a good style.

A pair of plaid sleeves and a collar of the same will give a new look to that solid color dress.

"This salt-and-pepper tweed suit adds just the right seasoning to a fall wardrobe. It looks like the fine suitings woven from Cheviot sheeps-wool. But it's part polyester so it won't wrinkle easily. And it has the soft touch of wool. Feels great. Looks great."

4-H Parents Plan Banquet

The annual 4-H awards banquet was planned by members of 4-H Parent Leader Association Tuesday evening when they met in Community Center.

It was decided that the 4-H Friendship award will be given to an individual who has contributed to the success of the county 4-H program during the banquet. The dinner is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. Nov. 7 in the Bull Barn.

Parent Leader officers this year include Mrs. Bill West, president; Mrs. Bobby Kendrick, vice president; Mrs. Lynn Jones, reporter; Mrs. Robert Strain, secretary-treasurer. Serving as district delegates are Mrs. West and Mrs. Gene Duren.

Fourteen members were present at the recent meeting.

Quilted Materials 'Wrap Up' Fashion

Quilted fabrics will make fashionable cold weather clothing this year, Mrs. Becky Culp, a clothing specialist reports.

Quilted vests and jackets, garment details such as yokes, pockets, collars or cuffs, and accessories such as hats and bags are in the limelight, she noted.

Mrs. Culp is an area specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"In buying quilted fabrics by the yard, consider weight, thickness and texture most suitable for the garment's design."

"Also, the inside batting should be an even thickness throughout. The stitch length of the quilting threads should be short enough to avoid catching or snagging while wearing or cleaning. When stretched diagonally, quilting threads should give with the fabric without breaking," she pointed out.

Doing your own quilting can give custom or unique detail effect. Sandwich a lightweight batting, such as polyester fleece, between the fashion fabric and the backing of lightweight material, such as muslin. Baste layers together so they won't shift during quilting.

"Quilt by hand or machine, outlining designs in the fashion fabric or create an original design with matching or contrasting thread. A quilting foot on the machine is a useful and time-saving guide for stitching straight designs such as diagonal squares. Designs also can be marked or drawn on the backing fabric," the specialist said.

Other sewing hints especially helpful with quilted fabrics include:

—Experiment with machine pressure, tension and stitch length adjustments to achieve the most satisfactory stitch.

—Always finish quilting before laying and cutting out the pattern since quilting reduces the size of the fabric.

Scribbles and Scratches

POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCE do not always govern the bride, as evidenced by a wedding story which appears in this issue. In the Bridges-Gilliland wedding at Somerset, Ky., the couple were "honored" after the ceremony at a shivaree.

It was my impression that this sort of tradition had died a timely death, but such is not the case. According to the report from the recent bride, she was carried through the house in a bucket of ice water while her new husband was conveyed on a cedar log dotted with 5-8 inch spikes. After this heart-throbbing journey, the couple were met at the last corner with a bucket of water in their faces. So you won't get a horrified image of ruined bridal satin, she was appropriately clad in cut-off Levi's and her bridegroom's old shirt.

REMEMBER THE TOWN meeting will be held tomorrow night to cement plans for the local Bicentennial celebration. Bicentennial officials want some fresh ideas from "the public" and that means you.

In connection with this issue, the Chamber of Commerce is looking for the latest issue of "The Smithsonian" because it contains a pictorial feature on fireplugs. The hydrants have been revamped to depict historical characters, such as Benjamin Franklin and Johnny Appleseed.

As has already been publicized, such a project is planned here and it would certainly be a help if some of these illustrations could be saved for future reference. If you have the needed article, you might just clip it out and deposit it at the Chamber.

While most homeseers cite "economic advantage" as the reason for making their own clothes, other "persuaders" add fashion "sense" to the dollars saved.

Today's homeseer can be as fashionable as her couture-purchasing counterpart. Pattern styles change as frequently as current fashion trends. In fact, many well-known European and American designers create patterns especially for the major companies.

Also, over-the-counter fashion fabrics and inner fabrics offer homeseers the same quality and type of fabric available to ready-to-wear manufacturers.

Today's woman can sew faster and easier than ever by using clever, quick, and easy techniques, along with new notions, tools and sewing aids—such as fusible products—which eliminate many steps toward garment completion.

Turning again to the "economics" of homesewing, making garments at home can save 60-70 per cent or more, when compared to purchasing ready made. Also fabric quality and workmanship are better and lower priced than similar quality ready to wear.

Other frequently-mentioned motivations for sewing are better fit, a creative expression, individuality in coordinating style, fabric, and trim or designing ones own garment, and productive use of leisure time.

CHOOSING THE correct pattern type can help homeseers solve many of their own fitting problems.

But since several categories are available, choosing the right pattern type requires some personal analysis.

Pattern type relates to the figure type—not age. All major pattern companies base their pattern types and sizes on the same body measurements approved by the Measurement Standard Committee of the Pattern Fashion Industry.

To identify the correct pattern type for you, analyze your body build and compare it to the description for the pattern types in the back of pattern catalogs. If you have an average, well proportioned and developed figure (5'5"-5'6") choose 'Misses' patterns. If you find that 'Misses' patterns are almost right for you but too long waisted, choose 'Miss Petite', designed for the shorter figure (5'2"-5'4").

'Junior' patterns are designed for well proportioned but somewhat shorter (5'4"-5'5") and generally more slender figures than the 'Misses'. For the petite junior figure (5'1"-5'2"), select 'Junior Petite' patterns.

'Half Size' patterns are specifically designed for fully-developed but shorter waisted figures (5'2"-5'3"). For larger, more fully mature figures (5'5"-5'6") 'Women's' patterns are best.

'Young Junior Teen' is especially designed for the developing preteen and teen figure. These patterns, regardless of size, do not allow for much bust development. But if bust allowance is needed, larger sizes in this category should not be substituted for pattern sizes unavailable in other pattern categories.

Once you have identified your pattern type, select pattern numbers from that category in the size closest to your measurements. A few alterations may be needed to allow for figure irregularities, but fewer changes to obtain a perfect fit will be needed within the correct pattern category.

SILKY-LOOK WARP knits and interlock top fabric choices for men's sportshirts this fall. And patterns will be neat "engineered prints" on dark or dusky backgrounds.

Solid color leisure shirts in heavier weight knits are getting 'perfect' forecasts for fall's cooler weather.

The newest fabric for jeans in plain-weave calico. And traditional jeans now come in "pre-washed" fabrics such as faded denims and corduroy or with brushed surfaces.

Frontrunners for the outerwear will be wool with brightly colored blanket plaids and olive green army fatigues or in glazed fake leather looks.

Brink Describes Trip To Israel

The Rev. Eugene Brink, pastor of First Christian Church, presented a synopsis of his recent trip to Israel for members of Calliopian Study Club Thursday in the home of Mrs. Zella Mae Crump.

"Finding Holy Ground" was the title of Rev. Brink's address, which dwelt on the religious history of the Middle East and the current situation in the region. A discussion period involving club members followed and the guest speaker described Israeli communal farms. Introducing the program was Mrs. Alton Fraser.

A guest for the program was the hostess' father, S.L. Walser. Mrs. Virginia Holmes directed the business meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. Trow Mims. Correspondence included a letter from King's Manor Auxiliary seeking support of that organization, a suggestion from Deaf Smith County Library to initiate a volunteer program and a reminder from the Bicentennial committee about a town meeting in Hereford High School Monday evening.

Calendar conflicts forced members to change meetings on Oct. 23 and Nov. 13 to Oct. 20 and Nov. 6, respectively.

Refreshments were served to Mmes. Irving Alexander, Clyde Cave, Emil Dettmann, Fraser, Mary Gibson, John Gilliland, Wesley Gulley, Holmes, Sue James, Ansel McDowell, Emmett Millburn, Millard Nobles, Kathlee Palmer, Keith Simmer and Jack Wilcox.

National VFW Program Offers Scholarships

The Voice of Democracy program sponsored by the VFW and its Women's Auxiliary is conducted annually in the nation's secondary schools during the fall term.

It is a national broadcast scriptwriting program which provides an annual opportunity for 10th, 11th and 12th grade students in public, private and parochial schools to think, write and speak up for freedom, democracy and citizenship.

"What Our Bicentennial Heritage Means To Me," theme of the VFW's 29th annual Voice of Democracy scholarship program, focuses the attention of youth on the ideals on which the nation was founded—ideals that have endured for 200 years and calls for a personal evaluation of the meaning today in maintaining democracy as a way of life in our Republic.

Participating students prepare and transcribe on magnetic tape a three to five minute broadcast script addressing their remarks to the theme. At each level of judging—school, community, district, state and national—winners are selected from the evaluation of the judges using three basic criteria. These criteria and the maximum point value assigned each are: content, 45 per cent, originality, 35 per cent and delivery, 20 per cent.

Upwards of 500,000 students from over 8,000 schools participated in the 28th annual contest last year.

Each state winner will receive an all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C., March 5-10, 1976, and compete for one of five national scholarship awards provided by the VFW. The first place winner will receive $10,000 scholarship to the school of his or her choice; second place, $5,000; third place, $3,500; fourth place, $2,500; and 5th place, $1,500. In addition, it is estimated that the monetary value of scholarships and awards presented by the VFW and Auxiliary to winners at the post, county, district and department levels will be in excess of $500,000 this year.

The Voice of Democracy program was originated 29 years ago by the broadcasting industry and the United States Offices of Education. For over a quarter of a century, it has had the continuing support of the National and State Associations of Broadcasters and Secondary School Principals. Broadcasters and educators alike have been enthusiastic in their endorsement of the Voice of Democracy and have contributed their time and expertise in the program's development.

JoAnn Wagner Is Revue Finalist

JoAnn Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wagner of 244 Centre, was among statewide finalists in the 1975 State 4-H Dress Revue recently held in conjunction with the State Fair of Texas.

Dress Revue, in which 50 4-H'ers from throughout the state compete for top honors each year, was sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, with an honor luncheon hosted by McCall's Pattern Company.

Miss Wagner was the Deaf Smith County representative at State Dress Revue after winning top place in county and district competition.

The Hereford High School junior made a princess-line coat of 100 per cent wool over a vest and slacks set. The rust-colored coat featured two large pockets and top stitching. Vest and slacks were of brown and beige herringbone tweed, accented with a beige blouse of polyester crepe.

Dress Revue winners were Carolyn Lehmann of La Grange, statewide and wool division winner, Minette Geeslin of Jayton, statewide runner-up.

About the only time you expect to see a Zimmatic broken down is when it leaves one of Lindsay's plants. Once assembled in your field, it seldom causes a problem. Those big, sure-footed towers power their way around the field, carrying water to crops.

Hour after hour, day after day. Until you decide to shut down. That kind of performance doesn't just happen. It's the result of constant testing — both in the plant and in the field. Lindsay puts these rigs through the most punishing conditions — loads on more stress in a week, usually, than they're likely to see in a lifetime of normal use.

But we know that no system is 100% perfect all the time. That's why we're ready to help with an extensive parts inventory and factory trained servicemen if you ever have a problem. Before you buy any center pivot irrigation system, be sure to let us tell you about all the advantages of owning a Lindsay Zimmatic.

Age Important When Planning Party

A child's age should be one major guide in planning celebrations—especially birthdays. Dorothy Taylor, a family life education specialist, says, "Younger people, those under 4 years of age, don't understand the significance of a birthday and are often frustrated by the loud noises, the large crowd and the importance of gifts which they cannot easily unwrap," she said.

Miss Taylor is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M university System.

"Celebrating the birthday of a child 1 to 3 should be a small family affair with parents probably helping the child unwrap his gifts. Small children are not socially developed enough to respond well to too many people and too much noise. Also, most don't know how to exhibit the enthusiasm that many family members expect over gifts."

Progress doesn't flow from excuses.

Chaloupka Urges Keeping Safeguards In Research Act

Texas Farm Bureau President Carol Chaloupka has written both Texas Senators urging them to support the preservation of "safeguards for a valid referendum" in the Beef Research and Consumer Information Act approved recently by the U.S. House of Representatives.

The measure, passed in the House as H.R. 7656, provides for a checkoff for research and promotion programs for beef.

The House-passed bill includes provisions for notifying "all known cattle producers" of the referendum and the time and place of balloting to permit qualified producers to register with the Agriculture Stabilization Service in person or by mail to vote in the referendum "during a period ending not less than ten days prior to the date of the referendum." It also provides that in order for the program to be implemented, at least 50 per cent of the registered voters must vote and that it must be approved by not less than two-thirds of the producers voting in the referendum.

Chaloupka pointed out that without such safeguards, "a very small minority of cattlemen could saddle the entire cattle industry with a check-off program which a majority of producers may or may not want."

He said efforts are expected to be made in the Senate, both in Committee and during floor debate, to remove these provisions.

"As passed by the House of Representatives, H.R. 7656 is a good bill. We deeply appreciate your efforts in the Senate to keep it a good bill," Chaloupka told Senators Jim Tower and Lloyd Bentsen.

Beneficial Herbicides

Recent tests in Colorado show some herbicides not only control weeds on rangelands, but also increase the protein content of range grasses and protect them from drought.

At Seattle Conference

Irrigated Wheat Discussed

"The Future of Irrigated Wheat in the United States" was discussed by Dr. K.B. Porter, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Wheat Breeder from Bushland, at the Ninth Annual Conference on Wheat Utilization Research in Seattle, Washington October 8 through 10.

According to Dr. Porter, most of the irrigated wheat in the United States is produced in the Southern High Plains and in the west. In 1974, 1.6 million acres of irrigated wheat were harvested on the High Plains of Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, and New Mexico. Yields were low, averaging 27 bushels per acre. Total production was 42.7 million bushels. This was 7.4 per cent of the wheat produced in the five states. Normally, irrigated wheat in the southern plains produces 38 bushels per acre.

In addition to grain production, over one million head of feeder cattle worth from 100 to 200 million dollars graze irrigated wheat in the High Plains. Dr. Porter cited grazing studies by Dr. John Shipley, Economist at Texas A&M's Research Field at Etter.

Adequately irrigated and fertilized wheat sown about September 1, produced 2.5 tons of high protein forage by March 20. Grazing must be stopped by March 20 if a grain crop is produced. At a stocking rate of 1.5 head per acre and gains of 1.5 pounds per day, this forage produced 293 pounds of beef.

When wheat was grazed to May 20 and not harvested, average daily gain increased 1.8 pounds and 550 pounds of beef were produced. This forage and beef production cost another 100 pounds of nitrogen per acre and an extra irrigation compared to wheat for grain. This practice was very profitable under market conditions of high beef and low wheat prices prevailing in the early 1970's. "When the opposite situation exists, as in winter of 1975, irrigating wheat for grazing may not have been profitable," Dr. Porter said.

Idaho, California, Washington, Arizona, Oregon, and Utah irrigated 1.7 million acres of wheat in 1974. Average yield was 66 bushels per acre and total production was 112 million bushels. Cattle are not usually grazed on wheat in the west.

Total production of irrigated wheat was 11 per cent of all wheat produced in the United States.

"We have looked at the extent, location, and production of irrigated wheat; now let's look at profit," Dr. Porter continued. A 1975 study at Texas A&M University showed that a 37 bushel irrigated wheat crop lost 31 dollars per acre and a 50 bushel irrigated wheat crop made 11 dollars profit per acre above fixed and variable costs.

With a 37 bushel crop, farmers realized 42 dollars per acre above variable costs for farming operations, irrigation and fertilizer. With a 50 bushel crop, this increased to 85 dollars per acre. This income is used along with income from summer crops to figure total profit above fixed and variable costs.

"In the west where yields are higher, the profit picture is better," Porter stated. In Idaho, net return for a furrow irrigated 80 bushel wheat crop was 62 dollars per acre, at $4.00 a bushel. In Arizona, $3.25 a bushel was considered the break even point for wheat yielding 70 bushels per acre. Irrigated wheat is not the preferred crop in the West because profit is low compared to other crops. Scientists in Washington State projected dollar net returns per acre of 855 for apples, 1414 for sugar beets, 1146 for potatoes but only 288 for wheat.

Dr. Porter continued by posing the question, "Why do farmers grow irrigated wheat?" The best answer seems to be that wheat is the only crop that can utilize irrigation water in the fall, winter, or early spring when more profitable crops cannot be grown. In addition, farmers usually have more land than they can irrigate in the summer. "More than likely," Dr. Porter stated, "if income from irrigated wheat exceeds variable costs, farmers will grow it." "On the other hand, if variable costs, which include natural gas for pumping water, fertilizer, and farming operations, increase faster than the price of wheat, irrigated production will decline."

Irrigation water supply and efficiency of production will determine where irrigated wheat is grown in the future. At the present time, the western states have the advantage. California is in the process of increasing irrigation water supply by transporting water from northern mountains to farming areas in the south. Other western states have cheap irrigation water from rivers.

Irrigation water for the southern high plains is pumped from the Ogallala formation. The 45 counties in the Texas High Plains have a reserve of 340 million acre feet of water. At the present pumping rate, this reserve will be 66 per cent utilized by the year 2020. If a practical water import plan is not developed before that time, only the most profitable crops will be irrigated. Water use efficiency of irrigated winter wheat is 2.4 bushels per acre inch of water applied in the southern high plains. In the Western United States, yields are higher and water use efficiency is usually 3 bushels per acre inch of water.

"Based on the circumstances that exist today, one might predict that irrigated wheat acreage would decline in the southern high plains," Dr. Porter continued, "but we have a few tricks up our sleeve." In 1975, experimental wheat varieties yielded 100 bushels per acre.

Research underway at the USDA Research Center at Bushland by Jack Musick, USDA Irrigation Engineer, shows that if applied at the fruiting stage, limited irrigation water can be used very efficiently by wheat. Growing wheat on 60-inch beds requires less water and yields the same as wheat grown on 40-inch beds.

Mr. Farmer:

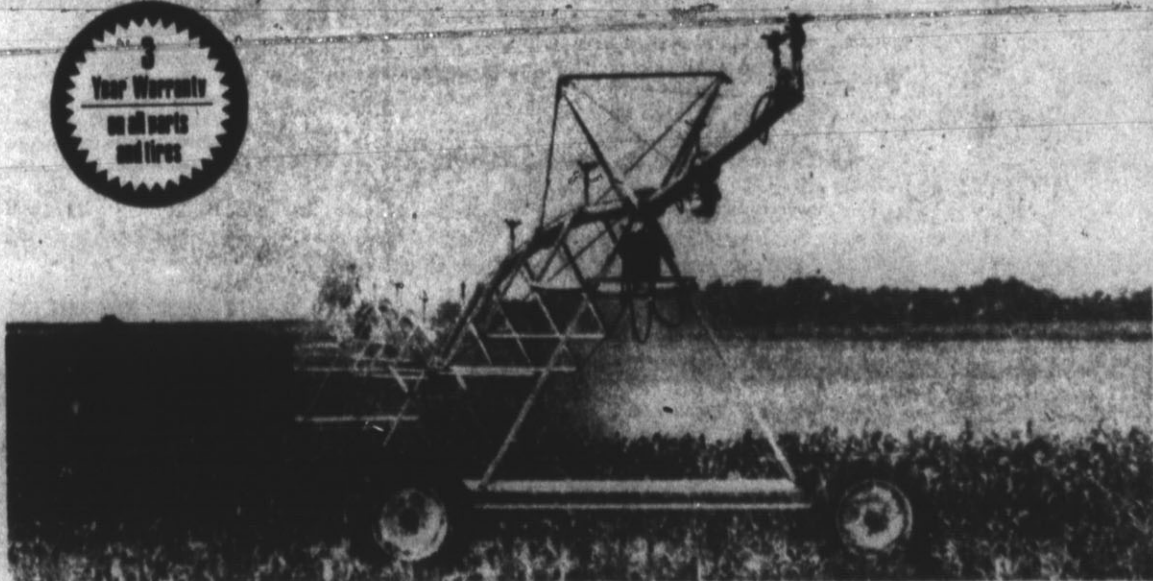

When buying or selling farm and ranch lands, your selection of a realtor is of supreme importance. Why not choose a fellow farmer who is also a realtor to help you? If your realtor does not understand well logs, underground line sizes and types, water tables, investment credit, repair costs, fuel costs, irrigation horsepower requirements, friction loss, soil maps, insurance rates, tax matters, and detailed production cost figures, then you may have the wrong realtor. Let us serve you. We understand farmers and farming.

Group To Back Proposition 5

Using the phrase "Save Agriculture" as their theme, a large group of Texas farm and ranch land owners have formed a political committee to push for the adoption of Proposition Five in the Constitutional election on November 4th.

Dripping Springs rancher Laverne Odell is campaign chairman of the Committee to Support Proposition Five. The Committee is now seeking the support of all Texas landowners concerned with rising property taxes and of all citizens concerned with saving Texas agriculture.

Proposition Five is the proposed Finance Article of the Texas Constitution. If adopted by the voters on November 4, Proposition Five and the implementing Act, House Bill 1535, would require that Texas farm and ranch land be taxed according to how much income it would produce. Under the new law, there would not be restrictions to prevent farmers and ranchers from qualifying as under the existing constitution. According to Odell, if agricultural land continues to be taxed at its speculative value, as most such land is under the present Constitution, most farmers and ranchers will be forced to sell their land to real estate developers who will remove the land from agricultural use. As a result, Odell fears that "One of these days we'll wake up and not have anything to eat." Thus, he says, all Texans have something at stake in Proposition Five.

A 1966 amendment to Texas present constitution was intended to provide some tax relief to Texas landowners but, states Odell, has failed to do so because of the difficulties involved in qualifying under this amendment and because the present constitution does not spell out how qualified land is to be appraised.

Letuce Arrived Early
Letuce, one of the oldest vegetable crops, was introduced into America from Europe soon after the first colonies were established.

It's A Family Affair
Farm operators and their families supply most of the labor on about 95 percent of American farms. And two-thirds of the nation's agricultural production comes from family farms.

Viewing Facilities

George Warner, far right, visits with guests during a tour of facilities at the George Warner Seed Co. Inc. here Wednesday morning. The plan tour preceded a dealer meeting and a tour of the firm's breeding and development nursery. Approximately 50 guests participated in the tour.

650 Register For TCF Convention Oct. 19-21

"More than 650 persons—all interested in the future of cattle feeding—have registered for this year's Texas Cattle Feeders Annual Convention, October 19-21. The Convention, billed as one of the best in the organization's history, is to be held at the Sheraton-Fort Worth Hotel," says Glenn Deen, TCF president.

Thirteen newsmakers from government, business, agriculture and the consumer movement will address conventioners during the three general sessions.

Ross Perot, chairman, Electronic Data Systems, will kick off the Monday morning general session speaking on "Individual Freedom—Individual Responsibility." Perot will be followed by T. Louis Austin, chairman, Texas Utilities Co., on "Decisions that Motivate People." Bill Clayton, Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, will wrap up the morning session with the topic, "Political Decisions Facing Texans."

Jerry Clower, a lay preacher and a salesman who can tickle your funnybone, will start Tuesday's activities with a prayer breakfast. The general session on Tuesday morning will focus on one group that is all-important to cattlemen—consumers. Ellen Zewel, president of the National Consumer Congress, will lead off with "It's Time Cattlemen Listen to Consumers."

George Schott, manager of public relations, Merck Chemical Division, will discuss cattlemen's press relations under the topic, "The Tug-of-War for Ink." While on the subject of public relations, Draper Daniels of Draper Daniels, Inc. will discuss "Advertising Decisions that Help Sell Beef." Daniels is best known as the creator of "Elsie the Borden Cow" and the "Marlboro Man."

The Tuesday afternoon session will feature C. Jackson Grayson, Jr., dean, School of Business, Southern Methodist University, who will speak on "Economic Decisions Facing Americans." A panel of cattlemen will tie it all together on the convention theme, "Decision Time for Cattle Feeders." The panel will be composed of Bill Fleming, BEEF Magazine, moderator; Bill Brown, Atmore, Alabama; Jack Carrothers, Friona, Texas;

Dick McDougal, Lovelock, Nevada; and Jim Mullins, Corwith, Iowa.

This year's Convention will be filled with entertainment too. Sunday afternoon, cattle feeders and guests will attend the Dallas Cowboys-Green Bay Packers football game. The Cattle Feeders Golf and Tennis Tournaments will be held Monday afternoon at Ridglea Country Club.

Other entertainment will include the annual Cattle Feeders Get-Together Monday evening and a dinner-dance Tuesday evening.

Registration information can be obtained by writing the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, 2915 S. Georgia, Amarillo, Texas 79109.

Heritage Program Qualifiers To Be Honored at State Fair

AUSTIN—Some 383 families have qualified to participate in the Family Land Heritage Program award activities at the State Fair October 14. Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has announced.

This year's qualifiers will receive Certificates of Honor from Commissioner White in two special ceremonies to be held at the Hall of State on the fairgrounds.

In addition to the special ceremonies and Certificates of Honor, the honorees will have descriptions and histories of their land published in the 1975 Texas Family Land Heritage Registry.

The Family Land Heritage Program, established by the Texas Department of Agriculture, honors those farmers and ranchers whose families have worked the same land for 100 years or more.

White reminded families who missed this year's deadline or whose land will not be eligible for a year or two that Family Land Heritage is an ongoing project.

On The Turnrow

By Jim Stelert

The Easter Lions Club has launched a project which is worthy of the support of local agriculturalists. It's a grain drive which will help Hereford High School's vocational agriculture department establish facilities at a four-acre school farm recently purchased by the school board.

VOCATIONAL agriculture students will have a much better opportunity to gain first-hand experience with livestock projects with the availability of this new farm, and the farm also opens up agriculture classes to youngsters who have expressed a desire to participate but weren't able to in the past, due to the lack of a place to keep their project animals.

Of course, there's a lot to be done at the school farm site before the agriculture students can actually begin keeping their animals there. Facilities for the animals must be constructed, and I'm sure everyone is aware of how expensive it is to build anything these days.

Well, that's where the grain donations come in. Proceeds from the donations will help finance a facility which the high school agriculture department and the community can be proud of; a place where the students can enjoy some excellent learning experiences.

SO, IF YOU want to give the HHS agriculture department a helping hand with this project, contact Clarence Behrends, president of the Easter Lions Club, Ken McLain of the Hereford Evening Lions, Weldon Dickson of the Hereford Noon Lions, or A.L. Lee of the Dawn Lions.

million, and this takes into account only the cost of seed and replanting.

"It's not hard to figure out that a ban nationwide would really cost this country's farmers a bundle, and the resultant lowered production wouldn't help to lower food costs much either."

THIS IS ANOTHER classic case of an attempt to deprive the farmer of the tools which he needs to perform his important job, and if the EPA is successful in banning these chemicals, it will cost everyone in the long run.

Hearings on the matter are still in progress, and an announcement concerning the issue is expected toward the end of this month. There's still time for letters to congressmen to let them know the farm viewpoint on banning these vital farm chemicals, and the time necessary to write such letters would be well spent in protecting an important interest.

—TURN—

Beautiful weather is really helping the local harvest along; and these warm days with light winds are drying the crops and getting them ready to go in a hurry.

THERE ARE few times of the year that can compare with these great Indian Summer days, when the combines are rolling, gathering the fruits of a year's efforts.

Freshly-harvested fields have something special about them, a sweet odor of crisp stalks that speaks of the accomplishment of a major task. That sweet odor brings a good feeling, because when a farmer smells it, he knows the crops are in.

Hysinger SWCD Chairman

The Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District elected new officers in its regular meeting last week.

Jim Hysinger, who farms west of Milo Center, was elected chairman. He has served on the Board of Directors for the past four years.

Hysinger is active in conservation farming and is applying conservation to his farm through the Great Plains Conservation Program.

Other officers elected for the year include Johnny Jesko, vice chairman, Carl Straffuss, secretary, Clarence Betzen and Clint Homefeld, members.

These board members serve five year terms and are elected from the five sub-divisions of the district.

CORNER CATCHER

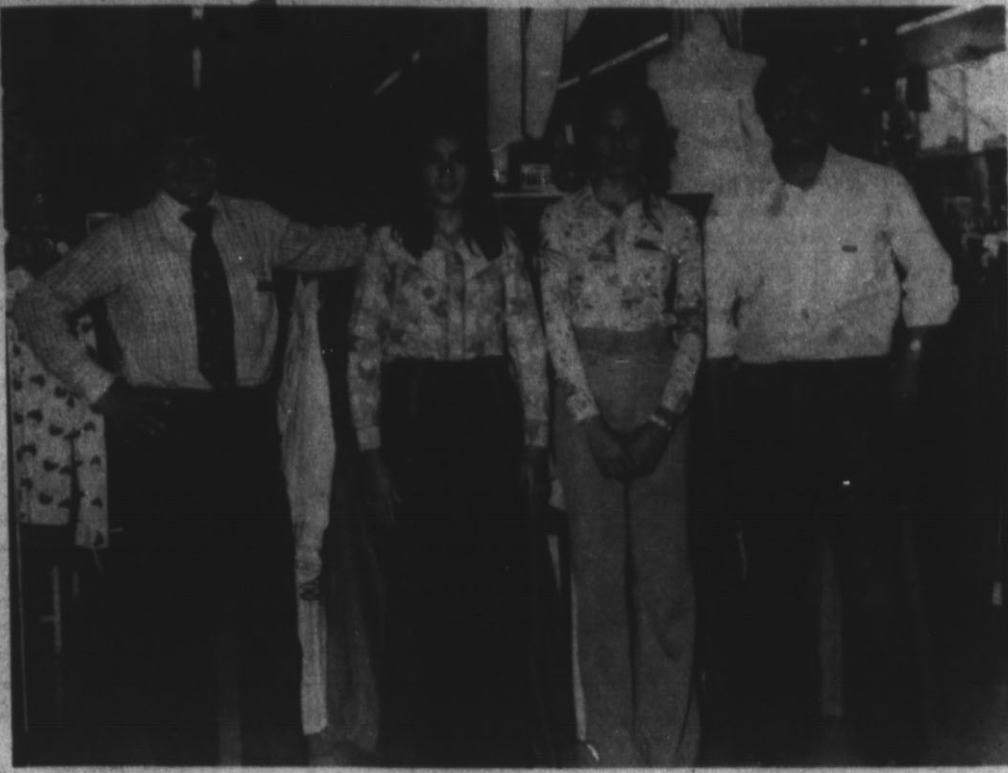

The only center pivot in the world that hits the corners.

In a typical quarter section where a regular center pivot is irrigating 132 acres, you can now do about 150 acres. But the new Valley Corner System isn't limited to squares. Irrigate both ends of a rectangle. Irrigate odd shaped pieces of land too. It's the answer to getting valuable productive land that's been wasted, back under center pivot irrigation.

For flood irrigators, it's also the answer to automatic water and labor saving center pivot, without wasting valuable acres. No monitoring, no labor problems, no night work. But you have all the advantages of precise irrigation and fertilizer application through the system, that produces higher yields than ever before. It's a simple concept, precise in operation and engineered with quality of all Valley-built Center Pivots. VALLEY

Amendment Affects Pork Food Formula

Formulas—but not labels—may undergo changes for certain cooked sausages and similar products with pork and beef, due to a temporary amendment to federal meat inspection regulations by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

These include frankfurters, knockwurst and bologna, according to Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt.

Pork shortages precipitated the change, which attempts "to insure an uninterrupted supply" of those products, Mrs. Clyatt reported of the amendment that allows meat processors more flexibility in adjusting formulas, which must substitute beef for any pork eliminated.

Also, with the current pork shortage, pork prices are "considerably higher than a year ago—in general, look for best pork values on hams, picnics and shoulder roasts," she advised.

Beef prices are about the same, with best values on arm and blade pot roasts, chuck and round steaks, ground beef, calf and beef liver.

Best vegetable buys include yellow zucchini and acorn squash, carrots, cabbage and green peppers along with cucumbers, turnips and greens, rutabagas, collards, mustard, sweet potatoes and red potatoes.

Mrs. Clyatt is a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

At poultry counters, she reports adequate supplies but higher prices than last year at this time.

Cure Diets Ineffective For Arthritis Patients

Trying "arthritis cure diets" won't help the arthritis sufferer feel any better, Mrs. Mary K. Sweeten, a foods and nutrition specialist, says.

No special diet or specific food will cure arthritis because no food causes it, she said.

Mrs. Sweeten is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Arthritis is a chronic inflammatory process of unknown origin which causes discomfort and pain of the joints.

"And extensive research has failed to show that the absence or presence of any food or vitamin will either cause or cure any form of arthritis," she explained.

Trying to alleviate the pain, many arthritis fall victim to food faddists or self-appointed "arthritis experts" who advocate bizarre diet plans for quick, miraculous cures, she said.

"And even though medical authorities say these diets are ineffective, one survey revealed that almost 2.5 million people have tried some special diet or miracle food to relieve their pain.

"Estimates show that Americans spend over $250 million each year on quick remedies for arthritis."

Mentioning specific so-called "arthritis cures," Mrs. Sweeten said that one claim has been "you can eat your way into arthritis and then eat your way out again." She said this is as absurd as saying that by eating oysters a person can increase his sexual potency.

Other claims advocated using cod liver oil with orange juice and honey with vinegar.

"Careful examination of people claiming arthritis cures by fad diet reveals that they were only self-diagnosed arthritics who never had the disease to cure," the specialist said.

An arthritis sufferer can save himself much disappointment and frustration if he will accept the basic nutritional fact that no special diet or vitamin will cure arthritis.

"It is true that patients with arthritis, particularly the rheumatoid type, often do have decreased plasma levels of vitamins—as do patients with many other chronic diseases. And vitamin supplements will correct this deficiency.

THE HOME GAME BY VIRGINIA TRUAX

JACK-O-LANTERN CAKE — Whether it's a party or a family dinner, celebrate Halloween with a cake decorated for the occasion. Frost with a creamy, orange-tinted icing, reserving one cup of frosting to tint green for eyes, nose and mouth. Put a smile on your cake with candy-corn teeth. Hot apple cider makes a great accompaniment. Pop a cinnamon stick in the cup.

EGG MAGIC — If your butter cake recipe calls for more eggs than you have on hand, add 1/2 teaspoon baking powder for each egg omitted. Be sure to use at least 2 real eggs for the right flavor.

LESS MESS — For an easy, no-mess dinner, try barbecued chicken done in your electric skillet. To make it even easier, cook the individual pieces in foil. Season chicken, cover with barbecue sauce and seal each piece in its own sheet of foil. Bake at 125 degrees for one hour. Delish dish!

FIREFIGHTING — We can't be reminded too often NOT to use water on a fire involving an electrical appliance! And NEVER use anything on a grease fire but a smothering lid, salt, or baking soda!

Spring is a virgin, Summer a mother, Autumn a widow, and Winter a step-mother.
