

Ag Barn Problem Plagues Loraine

Loraine's Vocational Agriculture Barn and the problems involving the use of it, highlighted the regular monthly meeting of the Mitchell County Commissioner's Court Monday.

"I am continually getting complaints from persons about the way the ag barn is run," Commissioner Billy Preston said.

"The main problems seem to revolve around the inequity of the fee charged. Another reason for the differences of opinion seems to stem from resentment over having to ask permission from the Senior Citizens to use a building which does not belong to them," Preston stated.

Preston related to the court several incidents involving persons interested in utilizing the barn and explained, "there are three groups of people who normally use the barn, school groups, senior citizens and towns people, like co-ops and gins."

"A representative from the senior citizens currently has the key and gives permission for groups or persons to use the facilities," Preston indicated.

"They are charging a $15 fee to everyone for use of the main building, except funerals, there's no fee for that," Preston explained.

"An additional $10 fee is charged if they want to use the kitchen," Preston commented.

"The senior citizens use the building three days a week regularly plus special events without paying a fee," he noted.

When the building was originally built by the county it was designated for 4-H and FFA use, Judge Bill Carter explained. Then the citizens of Loraine met with the commissioners to ask permission to use part of the building for the senior citizens when the ag groups were not using it.

"The key was hung at Preston's Dry Goods Store and anyone wishing to use the key signed the book and that was all there was to it," Commissioner Paul Hunter said.

Hunter noted the county at that time was paying for all utilities but had decided a new program was needed whereby each group using a county building would pay for the utilities they used. He indicated the county continued to pay the minimum charge.

During a meeting with Loraine citizens, the commissioners requested a person be designated to be in charge.

Teachers Address The School Board

Presentations from six staff members at Kelley Elementary School highlighted the regular meeting of the Colorado School Board Tuesday night.

They appeared as a part of a policy instituted by the board several months ago in which various staff members appear at each meeting to discuss their specific area, what their goals are for their students and what their needs are.

Bridgford Celebrates 50 Years

Dr. and Mrs. R.D. Bridgford will be honored at a reception to be held in the home of his son, Dr. Billy Bruce Bridgford, Sunday.

Dr. Bridgford first set up practice in Colorado City in October 1929. He had just graduated from Dental School at Washington University in St. Louis, Mo.

"It was just too cold for him up there, he said he came down here to get warm," his son Dr. Billy Bruce Bridgford said.

"He had two uncles down here and they told him about Colorado City. He came in and brought the practice of Dr. Browning," Dr. Billy Bruce Bridgford commented.

Dr. Bridgford met and married Emily Arledge from Roscoe in November of 1930. They had two sons, Billy Bruce, and See 50 Page 12

Module Builder Sets Giant Loaf Of Cotton

About 51 per cent of the expenses of producing a cotton crop are labor expenses which means that farmers, like all businessmen, are always looking for ways to save in this vital area of their pocket-book.

BuFord Co-op Gin Manager Johnny Hillhouse is enthusiastic about one of the latest and most innovative labor saving farm devices now on the market.

Its called a cotton module builder and at first it appears to be only a gigantic box.

First appearances are deceiving, however, for it is a sophisticated piece of machinery that can not only cut labor cost but can also possibly cut in half the time required to get the crop out.

One of the main hold-ups in harvesting a crop is having enough trailers to keep the process in motion.

Once a farmer has all of his trailers full and in the gin yard there isn't very much he can do except wait until they are emptied which, according to Hillhouse, might take from a week to ten days at the peak of the ginning season.

What the cotton module builder does is eliminate the need for the trailers to a great extent. It can do the work of 10 trailers.

The cotton is emptied into the device which is about 32 feet long, seven feet wide and nine feet high.

As the cotton goes into the module, it is pressed down under a great deal of pressure until, according to Hillhouse, "it looks like a giant loaf of bread."

Once this giant loaf of cotton is taken care of, it can be left in the field until it can be picked up by a special truck equipped with a device which can move under it, pick it up and carry it away to the gin very quickly.

Besides the elimination of the trailers, other benefits of the device are obvious.

It eliminates the need for any help in tromping the cotton down in the trailer.

Probably the most important benefit, however, according to Hillhouse is that it assures the farmer that his crop will be off the stalk much quicker.

No matter how great a crop may look, as long as it is still in the field it is vulnerable to any number of disasters and the farmer can lose it all overnight and wind up with virtually nothing to show for his year's work.

nated to oversee the key to the building, Hunter explained.

Through federal and county funding the senior citizens built a kitchen in the barn and purchased equipment, Preston said.

"They requested 20 feet across the west end of the building for the kitchen. We agreed to 20 feet across the south end because of the traffic pattern," Carter said.

"Because the senior citizens used the building more than anyone else, a representative was chosen to keep the key and collect a fee set by them to cover the utilities," Hunter noted.

"I've gone over the bills and they are much less than $15," Preston stated. "Some of the groups using the building don't use anything but lights and are still charged the same."

"The County Agent has the key to the ag barn in Colorado City perhaps we need to appoint a custodian of the building in Loraine in order to settle the dispute," Commissioner Mark Vest said.

"Would you want to be responsible for the key?" Carter asked Preston.

"NO! Who would want to hold that wasp's nest in his hand all the time," Preston stated.

"What we need is to have representatives from the groups meet with the court at the same time so we can come to an agreement," Preston suggested.

Commissioners were presented with five other unexpected problems when representatives from several organizations appeared to request financial assistance from the revenue sharing funds.

First to appear was Mac McKinnon, representing the Chamber of Commerce. He stated the chamber had considered completely "overhauling" the rodeo arena.

"We would like to restructure the whole thing by next July with all metal chutes and new stands," McKinnon said.

There is currently a problem with spectators endangered by stock because of the location of the existing stands and pens, McKinnon explained.

McKinnon "put on another hat" and spoke to commissioners as President of the Colorado City Playhouse Inc.

"We have purchased a new light board and would appreciate any assistance you can give," McKinnon said.

Ann Gregory, representing the Mitchell County Day care Center, appeared before commissioners to request $3,000 in assistance for the underprivileged children at the center. She explained there were 50 children from low income families and 25 regular children currently cared for by the center.

"We operate under a matching funds contract from the government. We borrow money on a note and the government reimburses us monthly. The government pays 70 per cent of our operating costs and we must supply the other 30 cents on a dollar," Mrs. Gregory told commissioners.

"The county and city have assisted us at different times and the balance of the funds we have been able to raise through fund raising projects, bake sales, wrestling matches and the like," Mrs. Gregory explained.

Susan Morgan, area representative, noted the cost of caring for one child per day is $7.68 and the cost to parents is prorated according to income.

"You have done a fabulous job," Carter said.

"We will consider your request and do the best we can to help you with the understanding it is on a one year basis," Commissioner Mark Vest commented.

City Manager Ray Mason met with commissioners to request additional funds for the County's use of the city trash dump. He indicated the cost of relocating the dump was his main objective in requesting the increase from $1,200 to $2,000 a year.

"I wonder if enough county people carry trash to the dump to even justify the $1,200," Hunter questioned.

"I can't give you figures but a lot of county people do use it," Mason said.

"The last hole we dug cost $4,800 and lasted less than one year. This new one is going to cost a lot more than that," Mason commented.

Commissioners indicated they would consider Mason's request.

Preston presented a request for a cot and stand to be used in the Loraine ambulance. He stated he had checked the ones available from the supplier in Lakewood and they were no where near adequate. He said he had checked several places for prices and $500 was close to the cost.

Woodland School made a request for assistance in paying their utilities. The grant under which they operate will end December 1, according to Board Chairman Elmer Martin. They are relocating the school to a donated building on Austin St. so they will no longer need to pay rent and if the county would contribute toward the cost of the utilities they can continue to operate with the states assistance in supplying the teacher, Martin said.

Commissioners voted to set October 29 at 9 a.m. as the date to meet with the Texas Department of Health Officials about pollution problems at Lake Colorado City and for setting the budget.

The last item of the day was to vote to accept bids on one, 12 yard and three, six yard dump truck beds. Bids will be opened at the regular monthly meeting November 12.

October Is Texas Poetry Society Month

The Legislature of Texas has set aside October 15 as Texas Poetry Society Day. It is a time to commemorate the poem and poet.

From the local group is the current Texas Poet Laureate, the Rev. Weems Dykes. He has published two volumes of poems during the past seven years.

The late Alton Robertson of Midland published one book of verse and had another ready to go to press at his demise.

Mrs. W.C. Fargason is the author of "Japanese Haiku," delicate and inspiring.

Mrs. R.H. Ratliff published a book of poems several years before the local group organized.

Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Gerald Gordon have completed their poems, but they lack editing, but they lack editing.

When Mrs. Elliott was asked about her thoughts on poetry, she said, "To me, poetry is a frame of mind, a visual depth, keenness in hearing. It is surely personal and definitely individual, even more so than other forms of writing, unless the novel, if it is based on truth."

"Poetry is also a point of view, a scent in the air; it's a response to an event, situation, memo-

Chamber of Commerce

By LARRY WINDERS

When a person is born there is an automatic death sentence that comes with each birth. For some of us it is a longer life, but for all of us it is what we make of it.

In our country, we are born with the right to succeed or fail, to find happiness or despair, to be honest or dishonest and to become respected or despised. We can become working, contributing citizens or human parasites and live off the efforts of others. But the final event is death and we must all face that alone.

Some of us are born "homers" and others are "wanderers." Very early in life I decided to be a wanderer. Whether this was a conscious decision or whether certain events caused it has never concerned me.

However, there is always another highway, river, mountain or town full of good people that would be interesting to see and, at least temporarily, be a part of or work around. And while you are there, you belong, it is your home, your neighbors and friends. You take pride in your town and your ability to get along with, be respected by and be of some benefit to your friends and community. Knowing all the while that you are going to leave one way or another.

You want desperately to have some pride in your efforts and accomplishments in your chosen residence. So you come to town working and trying and keep it up until the day before you leave. That way when you leave there are only good memories of good things and good people.

We shall miss Colorado City and the many friends we have been privileged to work with and for. It has been a most exciting and satisfying period of our life. We do leave with a sense of pride but there have also been disappointments. All of our efforts have not been successful, yet some of them will be continued, by very good people, to completion. We think we have won more than we lost.

All of us should remember that any Chamber of Commerce manager is only as good as his members, directors and officers. We have been extremely fortunate in having the best of all three. No one could ask for more support or cooperation than we have been given.

It has been my experience that people usually treat you as you expect them to. We came to Colorado City expecting to find great people and we did. We shall miss them. We expect Sterling, Colorado to be filled with great people and it will.

In effect, we shall be exchanging one good town for another, and while there is a feeling of sorrow, there are no regrets.

As we mentioned before all of us are given one go around at life but if we really work at it we can make it seem two. You can bet that we're going to give it our best shot. We did in Colorado City.

Our parting wish is for only good things to come to you, yours and this community.

October Is Cooperative Month

More than 440 cooperative farmer owned and controlled cooperatives play a key role in making the family farms in Texas a highly productive system.

October is Cooperative Month in Texas. At this time, special recognition will be given to cooperatives for their roles in economic progress in this state and nation, points out Johnny Feagan, economist from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

The cooperatives in Texas serve some 133,000 members and do a business volume of $1.7 billion annually, Feagan stated.

Texas cooperatives in Texas range from farmer-owned gins, elevators and compresses to marketing, supply and credit organizations, he explained. "Health, housing, insurance, electric, telephone and other service cooperatives are becoming more and more important to all citizens," he commented.

Co-ops make it possible for family farmers to receive more dependable markets for their products and more dependable and lower cost supplies for their farm input, according to Feagan.

"They also benefit consumers by taking the lead in furnishing quality products, in developing better packaging and in using more efficient distribution methods, all of which helps hold down prices of food and fiber products," he noted.

The fourth of October, the eighth grade football team played Sweetwater. The Wolves got ahead 20-0 in the first half and kept the lead during the second half. The final score was 30-0.

Coach Zamarrappa stated that both defense and offense did a great job. Here are the statistics from Coach Zamarrappa: First Downs: Wolves-18, Sweetwater-3; Penetrations: Wolves-5, Sweetwater-0. This win made our record 2-2.

Clack Sees Three Team Grid Race

Loraine Bulldog Coach Roddy Clack analyzed the 1979 District 10-B football race Monday and saw possibly three teams including his own squad who could be pointed out as contenders for the district crown.

One of those contenders is Loraine's opponent this week as the Bulldogs open district competition against the Sterling City Eagles.

Quickly, Clack pointed out that the main thing Sterling City has going for them is their size. Their offensive line averages 205 pounds per man. Clack noted that the Eagles aren't especially fast but they do have some quickness.

On offense they use eight or 10 different sets from the I formation, the split backfield and the Wing T.

The Eagles on defense use a four-four setup and they blitz with at least one and often more than one linebacker almost all of the time.

The Eagles have a 3-2 record and were defeated last week by Bronte 23-13.

Of the other teams in the district, Clack noted that Jayton has been and will be again this year, one of the powers in the district.

The Jaybirds have a 2-1-2 season mark. Clack stated, however, that this record was deceiving because Jayton has played four Class A schools in their first five games.

Clack said that the other three teams in the district; Borden County, Roby and Garden City might possibly be able to pull off some upsets but they weren't likely to be district contenders.

Borden County is 2-3 for the season while Roby is 1-4 and Garden City has an 0-5 season mark.

The coach stated that last week's 29-6 loss to Lubbock Christian High School was really a much closer game than the score indicated.

The Bulldogs took the pigskin to the five yard line and the one foot line on two different occasions without pushing it over for the score and they also missed a field goal.

Clack stated that Casey Merket and Junior Martinez again both had good games offensively. Merket completed five passes for 105 yards and Martinez had two catches. One went for 30 yards and a touchdown and the other went for 62 yards.

Tony Williams also had a good game from his running back position, picking up 47 yards on seven carries.

Volleyballers Are Named

Colorado High School Volleyball Coach George Martin Tuesday named Kathy Garcia as his offensive player of the week and Karla Herm as the defensive player of the week based on their performances in the Lone Wolf Tournament over the weekend and in Monday night's contest against Stamford.

Wolves, Bearcats Ready For Brawl

Colorado City's Wolves will be trying for their second District 6-AA contest when they travel to Ballinger to take on the Bearcats Friday. Kick-off is set for 7:30 p.m.

The Bearcats lost their district opener to Wylie last week in a game played in Abilene on a controversial situation. The score was 28-23 with Wylie on top when on the last play of the game, the Ballinger quarterback threw a pass that was caught in the end zone for an apparent Bearcat touchdown that would have given them the victory.

However, as the quarterback was throwing the pass, he was being tackled and officials ruled that the pass was thrown after the quarterback was downed and that nullified the reception and ended the game with Wylie winning.

Wolves Coach Tom Ramsey said Ballinger is small but quick and have an excellent quarterback in Curtis Michaelwicz and good runningbacks in Kenneth Manley and Bill Brown.

They run the straight T on offense and rely on the power play off-tackle with the Fullback Brown, the sweep with Halfback Manley and the option with Quarterback Michaelwicz and the swing pass.

The Wolves will have to stop these plays to win, Ramsey said.

On defense, Ballinger runs a 27 or 4-3 defense, Ramsey said.

About the Wolves, Ramsey said most are healthy although there are some sore throats and Johnny Lowrance is still nursing his sore ankle. The ankle is better, Ramsey noted.

The Wolves had a good workout Monday with the intensity in practice improving as the team realizes the games being played now are very important, Ramsey said.

About the 10-7 win over Anson, Ramsey said it helped the team's confidence. It was a pretty good team effort, Ramsey said about the victory. One thing that went better than it has been was the passing attack as a new phase of the passing game was introduced with simpler routes, the coach added.

About last week's results of district games, Ramsey said it went about as expected with Stamford and Coahoma winning and the Wylie-Ballinger game a toss-up.

Crucial in the district race this week is the game between Wylie and Coahoma, Ramsey added.

Coaches' Corner

By TOM RAMSEY

We took our first step in becoming a 6-AA district contender this year with our 10-7 victory. Now the big question is how many we can put together in a row.

The steps seem to get harder each week, but that is what makes it fun. It is always nice to win your homecoming game and this was tremendous. The defense came in time and time again to hold Anson to one score. The offense will start putting more points on the board as we get deeper into the season.

This week we travel to "Bearcat land" to take on Ballinger, which lost a close one to Wylie last week on the last play of the ballgame, on an officials ruling.

Ballinger is an improved ball club which can definitely compete in 6-AA. They are a power ball team and like bootleg pass plays which give everyone problems.

The Bearcats line up and try to run over you from their T formation. For the third week in a row we will be facing a 4-3 defense, which is the most I have ever seen in one year.

We will be attempting to solid up our defense and put some wings on our offense to take step number two in District 6-AA this week.

Do It Again:

Our Wolves got district competition started in the right way Friday night with a win over Anson. This week, they'll be trying to get their second district victory against Ballinger.

Ballinger lost their first district game to Wylie last week but it was a close contest. The Wolves and Ballinger Bearcats have a rivalry that dates back many years so you can always count on a highly competitive contest when these two get together.

With each passing week, our team has shown continual improvement as they gain experience. This points up to be a very important contest in the district race as Ballinger is tough.

It's not far to Ballinger so let's all go down and back our team to victory. We know you can do it, team.

We should be interested in life, have a hobby, join a club or do something for someone who might not be able to get out and do for themselves."

Join a walking club, don't wait until it's a must before taking the rocking chair. Because one has lived many years, it is not a sign that life is over. Wake in the morning, giving thanks in your heart for another day God has given you and make it a happy day for yourself and others," she commented.

Jones, Grevey Speak On Yugoslavia Trip

Highlights of the W.M.U. session was Mrs. Glenna Jones and Virginia Grevey who spoke on their two week mission trip to the communist country of Yugoslavia. They were among those from First Baptist Church in Snyder who made the trip.

They stated that the churches there are small with only about 30-40 members and people are poor. "Yugoslavsians dress in drab colors and black. There are many bicycles and the people may ride some 20-25 miles to attend church. There are few cars there and gas is $2.50 a gallon. The attitude of the women is wonderful and they were helpful. Group Enjoys Trip To North Germany

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stirl, Mrs. Elsie Stahl of Loraine and cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Helmut Stahl of Stockdale arrived back in Texas Oct. 2 after a visit with relatives in Hamburg, Germany. They had left Loraine Sept. 17.

Their first visit was to the Island of Westernland in the North Sea in North Germany. They spent three day traveling by car parallel to the Rhine and took a boat there. They saw the large grape arbors on the mountain side.

They grow apples, grapes, plums, pears and the countryside is covered with flowers growing in profusion. Yards of every home has flowers as well as inside plants seen hanging in baskets from the windows.

Their farm crops are mostly grain, wheat, barley and corn. They grow no cotton.

They visited and toured the old Koln Cathedral and several of the castles, some located along banks of the Rhine.

The weather was just cool enough for a light wrap.

The first thing they had to do after arriving there was to change their money to Dutch Marks.

They were especially taken by the clean streets, towns and neat homes with no clutter or junk in sight. Their homes are not cluttered with any excess furniture. They utilize all the furniture in their homes and in a few years dispose of it all and replace with new. They use just those items necessary and needed for living comfort.

People there are heavy eaters. They serve five meals a day: a mid-morning break with coffee and cake; a noon meal of meat, potatoes, several vegetables; mid afternoon, they serve sweet rolls and coffee and for supper the menu is sausage, cheese and bread.

The youth do not get their drivers license before they are 18. The cars there have to be in excellent shape with good tires and if it does not meet these specifications they are issued a notice to fix it up, or get a new one.

They are careful drivers, keeping up with fellow drivers by radio. There are no C.B. radios and there is no speed limit. All ages are seen riding bicycles, more traveling by bicycles than cars.

Their religion is mostly Lutheran, though Catholics are predominant in the southern part.

Leaving on Sept. 17, they traveled to Dallas and from there to Frankfurt, Germany.

Inflation affects your electric bill even more than your grocery bill.

Every time you go to the grocery store you can see what inflation is doing to your food bill. But because you don't buy electricity by the can, you probably don't realize how inflation affects the cost of electricity.

Fuel costs are up, particularly natural gas. Equipment costs are up. Power lines, transformers and poles cost us more every day. Just like milk costs you more every day.

The millions of dollars we must borrow to build plants to ensure your electricity needs in the future are costing us more.

The cost of building these plants is higher, too, because of inflation. And because of the time and money it takes to comply with an ever-increasing number of government regulations. The longer it takes to build, the more inflation takes its toll.

And rising fuel costs are all making your electricity cost you more. But by using electricity wisely you can do your part in keeping that cost down in your home.

At Texas Electric, we want you to know what you're paying for.

exceptions anyone can be taught to read. Mrs. Sparks went on to add that a child's ability to read is linked to the experiences they have had and this goes back to their home life, to whether they have been taught anything at home or not.

She concluded by saying that most of the parents seem to be cooperative but apathetic toward their children's schooling. They seem to feel that the child should get all of his learning at school.

Norma Bonner is Plan A Speech Therapist. She works with about 60 children in the Colorado and Westbrook school districts. The students range in age from three to 15 and they stay in the program only as long as they need her help.

She stated that she sees the pre-school children once a week and the school age children from two to four times a week to help them with their speech problems.

Quinnelle Thornburg teaches music at Kelley. She stated that she has one overall purpose in her music classes and that is help a child develop an appreciation and an enjoyment for music.

She has three basic things she tries to accomplish in her classes: (1) To make the music period a time when the child can succeed in something, (2) To teach the basic concepts of music and (3) To refine the skills learned in the other classes along with their music.

Allie Beth Beauchamp is the migrant teacher in the Colorado Schools and works with 24 students on all four campuses.

She works with students whose parents move often and who are involved in agriculture.

Although the presentations took up the greater part of the meeting, there were several other items on the agenda Monday night.

The board opened two bids to construct a new roof for the shop building at Colorado Middle School.

Barr Roofing of Abilene submitted a bid of $8,889 and Lydick Hooks Roofing of Abilene submitted a bid of $8,274.

The bid from Lydick Hooks Roofing was accepted by the board.

In another matter, the board approved the 1979 tax roll as presented by Tax Assessor-Collector J.S. Craddock Jr.

According to the report presented by Craddock, the total assessed value for the 1979 tax roll is $102,111,410. This means that if the school district had a tax collection of 100 per cent it would collect taxes amounting to $1,746,108.86. Total real property value of the tax roll amounts to $88,870,060 and total personal value is $41,241,399.

Another report presented to the board was the audit report for the 1978-79 school year by Certified Public Accountant Joe Morren.

The board also considered a request by Joe Weaver, President of Jay Adams Chevrolet-Olds, to increase the monthly rate on the five vehicles which the school is leasing from that company.

The old rate had been $90 per month per vehicle plus eight cents per mile for every mile over 6,000 that the vehicle was driven in six months time.

Weaver requested that the rate be increased to $175 per month per vehicle plus the eight cents per mile figure. After some discussion, the board approved the request.

Board members were also presented as an information item, the house plan for the next house to be constructed by the Colorado High School Building Trades Class. The plan calls for a house of about 1,500 square feet.

Superintendent Charles Uselton also presented the board with a report of the vandalism incident of Aug. 5 to Kelley and Hutchinson Elementary Schools and Colorado Middle School.

The total damage figure for the incident has been set at $9,904.09.

Uselton stated that it wasn't possible to say at present how much of that $9,904.09 would be taken care of by insurance. He added that there was a $5,000 deductible on the damages

Once it is off the stalk, however, the crop can be insured which means the farmer will get something for his efforts, no matter what happens.

Hillhouse also stated that the cotton is less vulnerable to moisture damage even sitting out on the field after it has been compacted by the module than it would be in a cotton trailer.

Because of the pressure exerted on the cotton to press it together, less moisture seeps through and it doesn't seep down nearly as far as it does into a loose pile of cotton in a trailer.

Hillhouse added that there are a number of these modules being used on the high plains and he knows of about eight or 10 which will be used this Fall by customers of his gin.

Possibly the main drawback of the modules is their cost. One module costs about which would be charged to building expenses and there was no deductible on the damages charged to equipment and content.

At present, however, it couldn't be determined exactly how much of the damage could be charged to building expense and how much to equipment and content.

$28,000. Hillhouse added, however, that this cost wasn't really all that prohibitive when you consider that the price of one module is about the same as that of the ten 32 foot trailers which it would be able to replace.

The Buford Gin manager said the cost of a module might be prohibitive for one small farmer but probably two or three could go together and buy one.

The cost of the module truck which will be owned by the gin, is about $80,000. Hillhouse added that the truck hasn't arrived yet but should be here within a few weeks.

Hillhouse finally concluded that he really believed that this new device for gathering in a cotton crop was something for the future, that within the next five years 50 per cent of the crop in Mitchell County would be gathered in this manner.

GOOD NEWS for residents served by water lines running up Elm and 13th Street where there has been little or no pressure for some time. Water Superintendent Buzz Rich has begun laying 1,200 feet of new six inch water main. "This has been a pet project of Buzz's and we finally managed a few extra dollars to do it with," City Manager Ray Mason commented. He also noted there will be a new fire plug installed at the corner of 13th and Elm Street.

to the Jaycees for use on the softball field.

McKinnon commented he was appearing so the Chamber's name would be on the priority list for the brochure allocation and requested consideration for monies in the future to be used to restructure the rodeo arena.

"You allowed us $4,000 for the rodeo and that is what we are asking for again this year," McKinnon stated.

"We have been told that the producer who put on the show this year will not come back next year. He also told us that there is a good chance that no other producer will come here because of the condition of the pens and chutes," McKinnon said.

"Has there been any study or survey done to indicate what effect the rodeo had on local businesses," Mason queried McKinnon.

McKinnon indicated there had been a definite good effect not only on Colorado City but Snyder, Sweetwater and other surrounding towns.

McKinnon also requested $1,000 for the chamber to utilize on the upcoming Arts and Crafts Show to be held October 27-28.

"We're going to need to build more hotels just to stay up," Mayor Marion Basham quipped.

The council indicated they would list McKinnon's requests on the priority list and consider each of them as monies come available. Mayor Basham noted the brochure money would be allowed as promised previously.

During the City Manager's Report, Mason told council members the city general fund is overall in the black.

"I want to commend Mason and Brenda for their efforts to keep the city in the black," Councilman Elmer Martin commented.

"They are doing a very fine job," he stated.

The grant application submitted by the city to UDAG will be put on hold until January, according to Mason.

This will be done to allow the contractor time to finalize financial agreements with leases.

TESCO has written a letter requesting the council contact the Railroad Commission expressing concern over a possible increase in rates due to litigation instituted by LoVaca to dispute existing contracts and increase rates.

The council voted to have City Attorney Pete McKinney draft a letter and intercede on behalf of the council.

Sand, gravel and clay have been dumped on the streets in the Sands District to repair damages caused by this years floods, according to Councilman Jesse Munoz. He indicated he had inspected the repairs and was satisfied.

Of his many accomplishments one is unique. He was recently honored by the West Texas Dental Society in San Angelo with an old fashion "Roast" at the end of which he was given the title of President-Emeritus.

Dr. Bridgford was the founder of one of the most powerful political organizations in the state, the Texas Dental Political Association, he noted.

He has served as President of the Texas Dental Association, a position normally reserved for doctors from large metropolitan areas, Dr. Billy Bruce Bridgford commented.

Dr. Bridgford is past president of several organizations including the Chamber of Commerce, Noon Lions, 4-H, Quarterback Club and the Country Club.

"We hope everyone will attend and help us celebrate these past fifty years."

BILL MACK

A bit of news that has several recording artists "bitin' at the bit" is the proclamation that phonograph records aren't selling like they used to.

Back in the '40s, '50s and '60s recorded singles and albums sold by the millions. Now some of the top labels claim that producing and distributing discs is putting them in the hole financially.

Of course this bag of bad news doesn't apply solely to the country music business. It encompasses every phase of the recording industry from rock to pop to classical and, unfortunately, country and western.

Several reasons are given for the drastic drop in profit making. Supposedly one cause is that more blank recording tapes (8-track, cassette and reel-to-reel) are being sold across the counters than ever before. This leads the leaders in the record biz to believe that the fans are using recording devices to dub their favorite tunes from the radio or from records they have borrowed from their pals.

In other words, one album or single can be purchased at the local record shop and passed around from buddy to buddy, thus saving some loot. It's illegal, but seldom checked by the fuzz unless the copied tapes are sold commercially.

Another reason given for the drastic drop in sales in musical platters is the obvious fact that there are simply too many artists under contract to the recording companies today. Many "big names" in entertainment demanded and received a tremendous amount of front money to sign on the dotted line. . . as much as a million dollars or more. Only later did the bosses of the record labels realize that some of these artists couldn't hold their own when it came to selling their releases.

You might be surprised at how few discs some of the very big giants in music sell. After handing out five and six figure checks to these artists every year, as the bosses agreed in the initial contracts in order to get those names in the respective companies' "stable of stars," the labels are finding themselves in an embarrassing situation at their banks.

It's especially depressing to the record companies when they are obligated to pay the so-called superstars an almost unbelievable amount of loot every year regardless of how few records they are selling on the market.

Some of the mammoth record labels have recently dropped many of their smaller name artists in order to retain the "stars" on their roster of talent, even though the "smaller names" were out-selling the "stars" by thousands of records per release. It seems that keeping the super-stars on the books is a matter of pride, even though it may cost the companies millions of dollars per year.

It's a well-known and much discussed fact that a Hollywood movie star who had never sung a song in public, or even on the screen, was signed to a long-term recording contract with one of the major labels back in the '60s for a guarantee of more than 100,000 bucks per year. He recorded one song, which was a bomb, and is still receiving his $100,000 paycheck every year (more than 12 years later) even though he only garbled through one record!

You really can't blame the artists. After all, the record business is much like the motion picture business. You have to make it while you're hot. And let's face it . . . the major record companies have accumulated a ton of money during the past few decades.

In their dog-eat-dog battle to outdo the other labels, they have made the grand mistake of signing names over talent, in many cases, only to discover that the buyers of their product are the final judges in their weekly, monthly or annual deposits in the bank.

Ballinger Is Favored By Three

Ballinger is rated a three point favorite in the game with the Colorado City Wolves Friday night by Harris Rating System.

In other District 6-AA action, Wylie is favored by 11 points over Coahoma. Winters is a five point pick over Merkel and Stamford is favored by 13 points over Anson.

Sterling City is a one point favorite to win over Loraine, according to the Harris Rating System.

Volleyball Girls Whip Stamford

The Colorado varsity volleyball squad opened District 6-AA play Tuesday night against Stamford in Wolf Gym with a decisive victory over the visiting Bulldogs.

Coach George Martin's squad took the best two-out-of-three series in two straight matches by scores of 14-11 and 15-0. The first match went the full eight minute limit.

Karla Herm led the Wolves in the first game with 11 points while Kathy Garcia was high point in the second with eight.

The varsity is now 10-5 for the season and 1-0 in district. Their next contest will be against Snyder on the road Monday and their next district match will be against Ballinger the following night, also on the road.

The junior varsity squad also took their match against Stamford Monday night by scores of 15-2 and 15-11.
