Milady's Hair Styles Change With Times

Methods of hair styling have changed as much or more than designs since Peggy Poteet completed the required thousand hours of training it took in 1940 to become a full fledged beautician.

Fresh out of Olton High School and a graduate of Arlene's Beauty School in Lubbock, Peggy came back to the town she loves dearly to work as a beauty operator in a tiny shop located about where the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture office is today.

Peggy cannot remember when she didn't want to be a beautician. "I've thoroughly enjoyed my work and I feel sorry for persons who don't. I hate to think about the time when I'll have to give it up completely."

When she began work, Peggy remembers that hair sets were fifteen cents with a shampoo and set for a quarter. Few women then, and for years later, indulged themselves the luxury of the beauty shop shampoo choosing instead to wash their own hair for the difference in cost.

Permanents, that ordeal endured for the sake of beauty, were 98 cents. The "machine" permanents involved about five steps. Basically, milady's hair was "blocked," rolled on small rods and each curl clamped with electric irons. Weighted by the apparatus, she then suffered waiting periods varying from five to 18 minutes.

Without fail, at least one curling clamp would become unbearably hot which would call for the blower to cool the burning spot. Not infrequently, the beauty operator was also called to the task of cooling a separate spot, at the same time, by blowing with her own breath. Even then, small blisters or burns were part of the price paid for curly hair.

Curls were put up with hair pins and then bobby pins. Curlers of varying styles are later tools of the trade.

Peggy and Clovis, schoolmates, were married in 1941. When Clovis went into the service during World War II, Peggy went with him to his stateside assignments, working while he was stationed at Columbus, Ga.; Boston, Mass. and Blackstone, Va. The Poteets still keep in contact by letters and visits, with the folks Peggy stayed with and with friends they met during those days.

When Clovis was shipped overseas, Peggy returned home. Their daughter, Cheryl, was born soon afterwards. Peggy went back to work, running a beauty shop for Mrs. Ruby Brown. Mrs. Brown sold the small shop which was located north of Olton Butane and with Clovis' return home, Peggy stopped work to become a farmer's wife.

Recalling she "helped farm" for about eight months, Peggy laughs in remembering her help and admits Clovis approved of her return to the beauty business.

Peggy put in her first shop in an old frame building located about where Pioneer Gas is today. The shop had been opened for about six months when a butane leak explosion demolished the shop and forced her to seek a new location.

Fillies Win District, A 'First' For OHS

Olton High School's Fillies this week captured the first District Girls Basketball championship in the school's history.

Tuesday night's 64-43 victory over Littlefield coupled with Friona's win over the Bobbies of Dimmitt gave the title to the OHS team. Twenty-two years ago, the OHS girls basketball team received the district championship by default when the only other team in the district, Nazareth, chose not to compete for the title. Susie Culwell was the star of Friday night's 69 to 46 win over Friona as she came within one point of equaling the opposition's total output. Against Littlefield Tuesday night, she scored 32 points.

Friday's game was a fine performance by the Fillies with Carla Moses, Laurie Gallagher and Melanie Cowart turning in equally outstanding jobs, Coach Buddy Ables said this week. Forty-one of 46 attempted field goals were good.

Against Friona, Donna Muller scored 14 and Donna Hodges, 10.

Tuesday night's "sweet victory" came also with the help of Donna Hodes' 22 points. Carla Moses, Jimmie Graham and Kim Barnett turned in outstanding defensive performances.

Scoring 28 points in the third quarter, the Fillies made 14 of 17 shots in that period.

District record of the Fillies is 5-0; season standing is 16-7.

Outstanding Citizens To Be Recognized

"Down to earth" philosophy from Reagan V. Brown, special assistant to Governor Dolph Briscoe; steak dinner and the timings; a share in paying tribute to three outstanding citizens plus other pleasures of the evening are in store for banquet goers Tuesday night. Tickets for the annual Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture must be obtained by tomorrow (Monday) for persons who did not receive tickets in the mail. Chamber members who were mailed two tickets must return their tickets by the same date if they do not plan to use them. This measure is being made to allow the food committee to know how much food to prepare and to avoid confusion at the door Tuesday night.

Banquet time is 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Homer Worley Rites Held Here Tuesday

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Main Street Church of Christ for Richard Homer Worley. Graveside services were conducted at Rochester Cemetery in Rochester. Milton Caraway, minister of Main Street, and the Rev. Wayne Sistrunk, pastor of Hart Camp Baptist Church, officiated. Henry A. McBroom, minister of Brady Church of Christ and brother-in-law of Worley, officiated graveside rites. Stanley McBroom, nephew, led prayer. Funeral arrangements were by Parsons Funeral Home.

HOMER WORLEY

Born June 23, 1910 in Judd, Worley was married to the former Ila Dean Guffey Sept. 28, 1935 in Altus, Okla. They moved to the Spade Community in 1949 from Rochester and to Olton in 1960. In 1961 they moved to the Circle Community.

A retired farmer, Worley was a member of Hart Camp Baptist Church. He died Sunday in Littlefield Hospital, a victim of cancer.

Survivors include his wife, Dean; one son, Paul Worley of Carrolltown; two daughters, Mrs. Preston Mason of Houston and Mrs. Claude Roper of Stanton; four grandchildren, Renee and Pamela Roper and Deanne and Curtis Jay Mason; five sisters, Mr. Troy Hanson of Monahans, Mrs. John L. Garner of Iraan, Mrs. W.A. Hatfield of Denver City, Mrs. Henry A. McBroom of Brady and Mrs. A.R. Sawyer of Old Glory; and three brothers, L.V. Worley of Knox City, Ray Worley of Greenville, Ga. and Wayne Worley of Brownwood.

Honorary pallbearers were Jess Welch, D.Y. Ray, John Mosses, A.D. Moses and Dan Quigley.

Hail Suppression Program To Feature Fund Kick-Off

Farmers and other interested persons are invited to a 7:30 breakfast Tuesday in Hamill's Restaurant to kick-off a fund campaign for the 1974 hail suppression program.

Olton Directors of Better Weather, Incorporated are

Dan Quigley, Eldon Franks, Floyd Light, James Cowart and Cotton Lewis.

Donations to the program may be left with banks in Olton, Earth, Dimmitt and Littlefield or with directors in different areas.

Cost of the program for 1974, with plans calling for extended protection of a third plane, is $160,000 and has been apportioned at 90 cents per cultivated acre.

Farmers who rent share the cost of program with land owners. Those who cash lease and land owners pay the entire amount.

Tom Henderson of Atmospherics Incorporated and Orville Clevenger, president of Better Weather, Incorporated will be present at the breakfast, Quigley said this week.

Mrs. Allie Locke Dies; Services Held Wednesday

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Main Street Church of Christ for Mrs. Allie Lena Locke, 76, who died Monday in Methodist Hospital following a lengthy illness.

Milton Caraway, minister, and G.B. Stanley of San Antonio, former minister, officiated. Interment was in Olton Cemetery under the direction of Parsons Funeral Home.

Born Feb. 18, 1897 in Franklin County, Ark., she was married June 3, 1917 in Hollis, Okla. to Will Locke. They came to Olton in 1929 from Hollis.

A member of the Church of Christ 42 years, for many years Mrs. Locke and her husband took children from children's homes in Portales, N.M. and Tipton, Okla. into their home for summer vacations. Locke died in June, 1969.

Survivors include two daughters, Mardema Ogle and her customers, the explosion came one afternoon after she had closed shop early so there was no injuries.

Peggy's next shop was in another building no longer in existence. Until the summer of 1956, Peggy cut, curled and combed hair in a frame building located about where Olton Cleaners now stands.

When frame buildings belonging to the late R.E. Dennis were torn down to be replaced with those now existing, Peggy had her present shop built.

Recalling the years past, Peggy remembers beauty shop hair do's were just for special occasions when she was in school. And her desire to become a beautician began before that time for she can't remember when she didn't want that for a career.

Peggy remembers one vivid lesson she learned in beauty school to be sure which scissors she wields. A classmate in beauty school, had the horrifying experience of using the wrong scissors and was later faced with fixing the same customer's hair. Not recognizing the woman, she exclaimed over the customer's bad haircut only to be answered, "Yes, I know. You're the one who cut it."

An embarrassing recollection dates back to the days of the popular "poodle" hair only as Blanche. The photo at right is Peggy Poteet, a picture carried in the Enterprise when she began her career as a beautician in 1940.

Laughing at the memory, she says the reply was the click of the receiver.

"It wasn't Frank and I never did find out who it was!"

Although styles have changed many times over through the years some portions of the styles are carried on in a different way with a different look.

Peggy says she first learned to "tease" hair when she did page boy sets in Boston while Clovis was in the service. Teasing did not reach here though for several years.

The fashionable hair style when Peggy finished beauty school was pin curls combed

Olton's richest resource, her youth, will be taking the limelight this weekend as the twenty ninth annual FFA, FHA and 4-H Stock Show unfolds Friday and Saturday.

Throughout the year, the youngsters have been feeding and caring for their animals. Girls have been busily sewing garments, doing handwork and cooking. Results of their efforts will be exhibited for their parents, friends and other supporters. Let's get behind them and support them all the way.

Successful shows cannot happen without the before-hand work of the youngsters nor would they be successful without the hard work of a large number of men who lay the groundwork, "beating the bushes" for contributions to make the sale a success and thereby enabling the youngsters to receive adequate rewards for their labors and expenses.

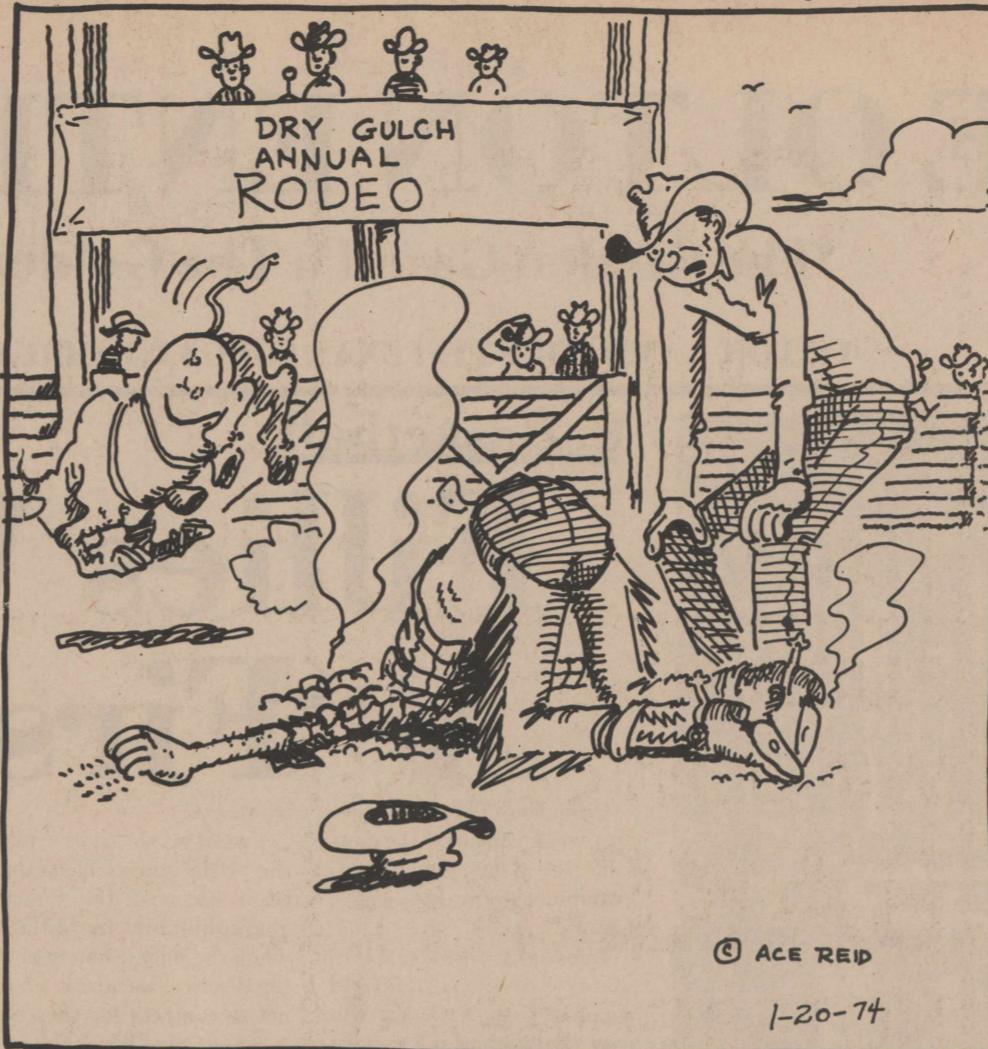

Hats off to everyone who helps in the 29th annual show. May it be the best ever!

HEAD OVER HEELS IN LOVE

Valentine's Day—the day when one traditionally loses his or her heart to another—was named for two men who literally lost their heads.

The first St. Valentine was a priest who lived in Rome under Emperor Claudius II. He was jailed by the Romans for aiding persecuted Christians. He reportedly cured the jailkeeper's daughter of blindness, but about 270 A.D., the Romans beheaded him on Palatine Hill.

The other St. Valentine was a bishop of Terni, about 60 miles from Rome, who was persecuted for converting a Roman family to Christianity. He was beheaded in Rome about 273 A.D.

The Romans of that time had a feast called Lupercalia. It was a lover's festival for the young, with men and women partnered by lot and then exchanging gifts, says World Book Encyclopedia; many such encounters ended in marriage.

With the spread of Christianity, churchmen began attempts to reform the pagan rites. In 496, Pope Gelasius changed the festival date, which had been Feb. 15, to Feb. 14 and called it St. Valentine's Day.

Everything But The Kitchen Sink

BY MOZELLE TROTTER

It's Stock Show time again—an exciting time for so many youngsters. It's a big event for the boys and girls, young men and women, as they exhibit projects into which they've poured themselves for the better part of a year.

For me, Stock Show time is always a reminder of just one of the instances when I've been so wrong! Parents should be there to guide and encourage but be ever so careful about trying to choose their future for them. We can have our secret wishes maybe but remember, too, they might know best!

A few years back when Number One Son registered for freshman vocational agriculture his mama was appalled.

"Why," I demanded, "Why take that when you don't plan to be a farmer?"

Out-voted, of course, I still found a number of occasions through the year to bemoan the waste of time and the cost and care required of him for that lone duroc that represented his Vo Ag beginning.

"Just maybe I might be wrong" began dawning when he was selected that Spring as the FFA Chapter Greenhand Farmer.

Two years later, Son Number Two also enrolled in Vo Ag—with mama still wondering "why?" but with much less advise to the contrary.

Hindsight has now revealed Mama didn't know best but that Mama was very wrong!

Vocational Agriculture brought both young Trotters satisfactions, achievements, their college education and what seems to be their life's work. It was more than, as Mama imagined, a high school course for future farmers.

Not just once did good fortune smile upon a Trotter child but fantastic and marvelously, both were chosen for four year scholarship by the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo.

Both earned the state's top FFA award, an honor their dad also achieved in high school, the Lone Star Farmer Degree and both went on to attain the highest award that can be achieved—the American Farmer Degree.

Son Number One is just days away from accomplishing yet another goal, lacking only his "orals" in his quest for a masters degree in swine nutrition.

A long way his Mama's come from that day when she might have defined a pig as "an animal that wallows in mud and eats 'slop' but makes good eating when he's slaughtered and sugar-cured!"

Number Two Son is nearing that day when he'll join the ranks of "Former Students" for an Aggie is never as "ex."

So, it's good luck young exhibitors, whether you're showing pigs or lambs or steers or serving or cooking. And, everyone, let's show them we're proud!

MRS. LONNIE VENABLE

Cook Of The Week

Recipes for tasty but easy to fix dishes are shared this week by a young housewife who's lived all her life in Lamb County. Mrs. Lonnie Venable grew up in the Springlake-Earth community, living on a farm near Springlake most of the time before her marriage.

Wenell and Lonnie have made their home in Olton since their marriage, commuting to Littlefield for the period when Lonnie had a music store there. Lonnie is now a farmer.

Musically talented, Lonnie has a number of instruments. "And I can't play any of them!" says Wenell.

Wenell's hobbies reflect other artistic talents, however. She enjoys doing decoupage and painting ceramics. She also likes to sew and is about through with crushed velvet draperies she has made with her mother's help.

Party To Fete Mrs. Redinger

Mrs. Ronald Redinger, nee Miss Judy Wilkinson, will be honored Saturday, Feb. 16, with a post-nuptial gift-tea to be held in the home of Mrs. W.T. Hankins.

Friends and relatives are invited to call between the hours of 2 and 5 p.m.

daughter of a former Olton resident.

Mrs. Ruby Ownbey, named to the honor, asked to meet the Olton visitors and introduced herself as daughter of Johnnie Jones, an early day resident of this city.

Mrs. Ownbey was called a "people helper" who spends most of her time helping other clubs and individuals in Seminole.

Owner and operator of an egg business in that vicinity for 17 years, she is past Business and Professional Womens Club Woman of the Year and is active as chairman of Gaines County Cancer Drive, International Toastmasters Club and the American Heart Association.

Card Of Thanks

We want to express our gratitude to the fine people of Olton and the community for the many sincere, genuine kindnesses shown to us while we were there for the funeral of our beloved sister, Margie Statten.

Those to whom we give special thanks are Mr. and Mrs. Owen Norfleet, Mrs. George Richards, Rev. Lewis and Miss Delores Burch. Also to the food committee of the First Baptist Church, those who participated in the music at the service, and the neighbors and friends who served the meals and brought in such wonderful food.

We truly appreciate your concern. Please continue to remember our family in your prayers.

Chaplain and Mrs. Donald R. Smith

The family of Allie Locke wishes to express sincere appreciation for all of the expressions of sympathy extended to us. Our many wonderful friends here in Olton have helped us in so many ways and we shall always be grateful.

Editorial:

By Lionor Herrera:
If I was a tasty little fruit everyone would be going around trying to eat me. The only thing the teachers wouldn't let them. There I sat day after day, night after night until one day a boy came to the desk and took me. He said, "Now I'll have you for lunch." Then I said, "Try me but you wouldn't like what you taste, I'm plastic." He took me back and that was a little white lie, but if you are ever in trouble speak or they'll eat you.

Think and Grin

Q: What did one math book say to the other math book?
A: I've got problems.

Joe: Did you hear what happened at the farm last night?
Tom: No What?
Joe: Two clothespins held up a shirt.

Q: What is big at the bottom and little at the top and has ears?
A: A mountain.

Q: What about the ear?
A: Haven't you heard about mountaineers?

Robert Powers Is Assigned

Robert L. Powers, Soil Conservationist, has been assigned to the Littlefield Field Office, Soil Conservation Service, according to Joe Blevis, District Conservationist. Robert joined the staff Jan. 7, moving from Paris where he had worked the past five years. Powers started working for the SCS in 1961 while still in College. He was graduated from Sam Houston State University in 1963. He served four and one-half years in the U.S. Army as a commissioned officer.

A member of the Soil Conservation Society of America, Powers received an outstanding performance award in 1972 for superior work at the Paris SCS office. Powers replaces Bob McQueen who was transferred from Littlefield in September. He will be working with landusers in the Northeast part of Lamb County to apply conservation measures and will assist in other operations of the Littlefield office. His wife, Kay, will join him when school is out.

Sugar, Spice, And Sage

By Jan Sherman

Ah, the month of love. (Sound of lovebirds twittering in the background, pictures of hearts passed on all windows, and at least twelve bouquets of flowers falling from Heaven) No, no, not romantic love, not yet. This week; love for others, the ability to think about the other guy before condemning him. Namely this is for school children and teenagers. Teachers, you may want to listen in too.

"My teacher is an old grouch. She assigns too much homework. Besides all that she doesn't like me. Why can't she have a sense of humor, or show some sign of being human. All she does is rant and rave. Boy, what a lousy year!"

Go ahead, I'm listening. You see, I can listen and I will because I've been a student and I've done the teacher thing too. "So?" So I want to talk about your complaints. I want you to understand something. Now wipe away the balk cloud over you head and listen, because this old shakey 27 year old knows what she's saying.

I don't remember being nasty with my teachers-so I must have been an exception in my day-since a lot of my friends say they were.

I was taught at home to respect my teachers. Dad had a way about him that was most convincing when it came to some of the orders he gave me. He would simply explain that right now I probably didn't understand some of the things I should, but someday I would. Tired, but true. That someday came. I was never allowed to gripe about my teachers around him or belittle them.

I went to college and decided to become a Home Economics Education major. "So now, you're going to talk about the good old days. I couldn't be less interested." Yes, you will. It has to do with you. In the first place no one could major in education unless he had some sort of love for it.

They set you up in an imaginary classroom while you're at school. They tell you about your class and how nice they are. They tell you how glad the students will be to know that you have done so much very hard work for them. They will respond cheerfully when you make up learning games, when you present them with pretty bulletin boards, when you take them on meaningful field trips, when you appear enthusiastic with what you're doing. They are eager to learn so you knock yourself out making up a test that doesn't ask for repetitious material, that doesn't ask for just simple facts, tests that cause them to dig through their open minds and furnish you with real thoughts. You work yourself to death because this is rewarding. Students like this are terrific, you tell yourself as you sit up all night to study for a test on which you must present the steps of learning so that you can be a qualified, exciting teacher.

You get your degree and plunge forward for your first job. You find it..it's not much.. just a substitute teacher. That's okay you tell yourself. You'll do it with everything you have. You'll put forth all the effort and do your best remembering everything you've been taught.

As you walk in to do your very best, you see jaws working over a piece of gum, blah expressions on faces, a little mischief in others as they talk with their friends, showing very little respect for this humble teacher (and oh! you are so humble at first) Where are those eager faces, the open minds, which you must have to do your best. This is what they told us we'd have. Where is it? You walk into the room..all smiles.. and try very earnestly to greet this class with enthusiasm so they will respond in the same way.. After all what is the golden rule. Treat others the way you expect to get treated, right? Okay, world here I am. Where are you? Right out there in front of you, baby. This is it.

Forget those students you read about. Forget those idealistic classroom situations. Some may be that way. I'm not talking to those of are human beings and have feelings too. I'm talking to you who feel like they must run over teachers, take advantage of the substitutes, and give them a hard time.

Just remember..they don't have to be there. They are there for you and because once upon a time they had a love for teaching and a love for kids just like you. But because they walked into a classroom that didn't respond and treated them like so much flesh at the front of the room, they have turned from their ideal (since their ideal turned) into the hard, mean teachers you may gripe about today.

So the next time you say my teacher doesn't care, and she assigns too much work you look around and see if you can see why.

Poll-ette Scholarships To Be Awarded To Two

Two scholarships will be awarded by the Texas Poll-ettes in the sum of $300 each this year. The Texas Poll-ettes, who are deeply interested in young people, offer these scholarships as a means to assist young people in furthering their education in the various fields of agriculture. The scholarship may be used at any junior college, college or university in the state of Texas.

An applicant should be a high school graduate and a resident of the state of Texas. Each applicant must have three recommendations; one being from either the county agent, club advisor, FFA advisor or high school principal.

The deadline for receiving scholarship applications is May 1, 1974. All youths interested in the scholarship fund mail their applications to Mrs. M.D. Arrington, Route 1, Jacksonville, Texas 75766.

Department of Interior Asks Conservation Help

The nation faces critical fuel shortages forecast to have significant effects on the outdoor recreation opportunities and leisure time activities of the vacationing public during the coming summer.

The South Central Region of the Department of Outdoor Recreation is seeking remedies to the problem whereby, although recreation (vacation) activities may be curtailed, they will not be completely foregone.

The Bureau is vitally interested in your suggestions on new approaches, practices or ideas that may have merit in conserving critical fuel supplies while at the same time assuring continuance for a variety of public and private recreation programs.

Your comments should be forwarded to:
Recreation-Energy Task Force
Bureau of Outdoor Recreation

5000 Marble N.E., Room 221
Albuquerque, N.M. 87110
The Bureau will prepare a Recreation-Energy Notebook, based on input received, which will include innovations and ideas of ways and means to provide outdoor recreation opportunities during the period of energy resource limitations. Copies of the notebook will be forwarded to all Councils of Government within the South Central Region.

Voice Of Business

BY ARCH BOOTH

One year ago I wrote a column warning that Social Security taxes were going up, effective with your first paycheck of the new year.

It looks like that is going to become an annual tradition.

Last year both the tax rate and the wage base (amount of money on which the tax is paid) went up.

This year, it's just the wage base that's being raised -- from $10,800 perhaps to as much as $13,200. In other words, if you make more than $10,800, you will be paying more Social Security tax in 1974. The maximum amount of the tax goes up from $631.80 to $772.20 for an employee. His employer has to match that.

The new tax increases are needed to finance a two-stage increase in Social Security benefits voted by Congress. Benefits will go up a total of 11%.

Some 30 million Social Security recipients will get the increase. The bill for it will have to be paid by the 20 million people who earn more than $10,800.

Contrary to what is commonly believed, increases in Social Security benefits are way ahead of inflation. For example, between January, 1970, and July 1, 1974, the Consumer Price Index will have increased by a little over 24%. In the same period, Social Security benefits will have gone up 68.5%.

A column like this will get me letters -- some of them heartrending -- from Social Security recipients who have led exemplary lives and believe they "deserve" the increase. It's hard to quarrel with that. The problem is, the government cannot "give" anyone anything it has not first taken away from someone else.

So, while there are undoubtedly people who "deserve" the benefit increase, there are also people who do not "deserve" the tax increase necessary to pay for it.

As some philosopher said, most debates about values are not debates between right and wrong but between rights and rights -- and this makes their resolution endlessly complicated.

One might also question the morality of Congress raising the Social Security tax for the rest of us, while exempting itself, its employees and the employees of the Federal Government.

The pat answer is that government employees have their own pension plan, to which they contribute a part of their pay. Well, so what? Many employees in the private sector also pay into private pension plans, and they have to pay Social Security taxes, too. Federal employees are now the largest single group exempted from Social Security taxes.

Beyond the moral questions, moreover, there's a practical reason for worrying about the Social Security increases.

Social Security recipients are now getting back far more than they paid in Social Security taxes during their working lives, even counting interest. The most a worker could have paid in taxes since the program's inception is $5,271. At maximum 1974 benefit levels, in a little over 18 months this worker would get back everything he put in.

Now, here's the real problem. Today's higher benefits are being paid out of higher taxes on today's workers. That system works fairly well as long as there are more people working, and therefore paying Social Security taxes, than there are benefit recipients. But what would happen if there were more recipients than working taxpayers, as has happened in the Railroad Retirement Program?

As you probably know, our birthrate has been dropping sharply. We now appear to be headed for a condition of zero population growth sometime in the future.

ZPG is desirable -- necessary -- for many reasons. But it has the potential for raising havoc with Social Security, because there will be fewer young workers to support a larger aged population.

What happens then? Will the smaller (relatively speaking) working population be able to carry the burden? Will the recipients stand for a cut-back in payments? Will the system collapse?

There are very serious questions. Someday, we will be forced to answer them. Until then, it looks like Congress will go on raising both the benefit levels and the tax, as though there's no tomorrow.

Soil & Water

JOE BLEVINS

Farmers concerned with using the best available acreage to increase their cropland can get valuable data from a soil survey, Dan Blackstock, area soil scientist from Lubbock of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, said today. He was here providing soils training to the Littlefield field office staff.

"Soil survey field work has been completed for 123 counties in Texas," Blackstock said. "And the data is available to anyone making land use decisions."

Work is currently underway on soil surveys for all remaining counties in the state, Blackstock added.

"With a soil survey map, you can read the land like a book," said Blackstock. "Some soils are ideal for a particular crop. Others are better off in another crop, or left in grass. And on some soils, the owner can choose between pasture or crops."

"The point is that a great deal of soil information is available to farmers and other land users. The survey for Lamb County has been completed. The Soil Conservation Service-working through the Lamb County conservation districts--can provide soils data to anyone considering a change in land uses."

Blackstock added, "Although farmers are the biggest group of users, soil survey information is also very helpful to engineers and urban land use planners who need to know about drainage patterns, depth to bedrock, foundation hazards, or other uses being planned for them. A number of cities in Texas have made changes in their land use plans after checking a soil map and as a result, they saved a great deal of money in construction costs."

Local soil survey maps and information can be obtained from the Soil Conservation Service office at the Courthouse in Littlefield.

Highway Patrol Investigates 14 Accidents

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 14 accidents on rural highways in Lamb County during the month of December, according to Sergeant Thurman Keffer, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in no persons killed and eight persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the year of 1973 shows a total of 131 accidents resulting in eight persons killed and 75 persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety Region for December, 1973, shows a total of 499 accidents resulting in 17 persons killed and 277 persons injured as compared to December, 1972 with 462 accidents resulting in 20 persons killed and 213 persons injured. This was 37 more more accident, 3 less fatalities, and 64 more injured in 1973 at the same period of time.

The 17 traffic deaths for the month of December, 1973, occurred in the following counties: Parker, four; Lubbock, three; Wise, Young, two each; and Floyd, Hockley, Terry, Carson, Ochiltree, and Oldham, one each.

HART CAMP HAPPENINGS

MRS. EDWIN OLIVER
PH. 262-4242 FIELDTON

Members of the Hart Camp and Fieldton Baptist Churches combined efforts this week in a Training Union Bible study course at Hart Camp. Adults and young people studied the Book of Colossians with Dr. Howard, Bible Instructor at Wayland Baptist College teaching the adults and Ray Muller of Fieldton teaching the youth. Rev. Jeff Messer of Fieldton taught the primary class.

Enrollment for the three night study was 35. Following Wednesday night's session a fellowship was held in the educational building with the host church serving refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Parkey, Mr. and Mrs. Blanton Martin and Mrs. Edwin Oliver attended a workers conference last Monday night in the First Baptist Church in Littlefield.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Neinast have spent the last few days in Stamford to be with her mother who had major surgery last week in Stamford Memorial Hospital for the removal of her foot and part of a leg following an injury received from a fall during Christmas. She will be hospitalized for sometime because of her diabetic condition. Anyone wishing to send cards may mail them to Mrs. Erwin Rinn, Stamford Memorial Hospital.

A.J. Young is in the Central Plains Hospital in Plainview following a wreck Tuesday evening while driving a diesel truck for Consumers of Olton. He had a severe cut on his forehead and other injuries. He was unconscious for several hours following the accident. An elderly couple of Plainview were also involved in the accident. They were not seriously injured.

Kathy Langford of West Texas State and Debbie Oliver of South Plains recently visited their parents for the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Blanton Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Milligan and Edwin Oliver made a trip to Rochester Wednesday to attend graveside services for Homer Worley of Olton. The three men were among the pallbearers for the memorial services. Funeral services were held Tuesday in the Church of Christ in Olton.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Oliver were in Victoria recently to attend funeral services for her sister-in-law, Mrs. H.L. Mitchell of Bloomington. She had been ill for several weeks. Mrs. Oliver's mother, Mrs. I.N. Mitchell of Newcastle, accompanied them to Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Johnson of Liberty Hill celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday evening with a reception hosted by their children. Attending from Hart Camp were their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Johnson, Amy and Mark and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Puckett.

Mmes. Gerry Langford, Don Muller, O.J. Neely and Edwin Oliver were in Edmonson last Saturday afternoon to attend a wedding shower honoring Mrs. Mike Burleson of Plainview. The young couple were married in December. Mrs. Burleson is the former Teresa Brasher of Plainview. Mike is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elma Burleson, former residents of this community.

Menace Of The Crowd

"Far from the madding crowd," wrote the poet Thomas Gray, life can be beautiful.

It can also be a lot safer. Crowds have built-in dangers, and the law requires those in charge—if anyone is—to take reasonable precautions against accidents.

Consider this case: Moviegoers came swarming into the lobby of a downtown theater, determined to get good seats at the next "break." But they pushed so hard against the restraining rope that an elderly woman in front suffered a broken rib.

POOR MAN

The poorest man may not be the one without any money. He can well be the person with no ambitions for the future.

In due course, she filed a damage suit against the owner of the theater. At the trial, the owner protested:

"Crowding is one of the risks of going to see a popular picture. We can't help it if people have bad manners."

But the court granted the woman's claim. The court said the management had no business allowing more people into the lobby than it could safely control.

In another case, a publicity-seeking store created a crowd on purpose by not opening its front door on time. When the door was finally thrown open, the resulting scramble left two customers injured. For its negligent role in this affair, the management was later held liable.

Still, not every crowd-caused injury is preventable. Another woman was injured in an elevator when too many people tried to squeeze in. Was this, too, the responsibility of the management? Demanding damages, the woman said it was.

But a court disagreed, seeing no one at fault in such an odd, impromptu mishap. Said the judge: "How could the owner of the building either foresee a possible accident of the type described or forestall it?"

NEW FIRST AID SKILL BOOK FOR YOUTH

It happens all the time. In the city and in the country. There's a car wreck. People are cut and bleeding. A crowd gathers. People just stand around - silent. They don't know what to do. Or, there's a fire-or an explosion. Falling buildings break bones. Flying glass cuts through soft skin. Again, a crowd gathers. People waste time waiting for help to come. All this time, hurt people are waiting for someone to help...help.

Every day, too many people, especially young ones, are seriously injured. Because they are not always treated correctly or in time many of them die.

To combat such tragic facts, the Boy Scouts of America has published a new, colorfully illustrated booklet called First Aid Skill Book that can help you learn what to do in case of an emergency.

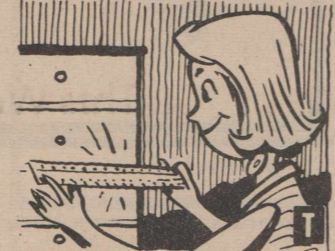

This booklet details over 105 first aid topics from the care of simple cuts and bites to treatment for major burns and excessive bleeding. Special emphasis is placed in the booklet on first-aid problems common to the city. One of them—lead poisoning, its detection and six common symptoms—is discussed fully; another topic is bites of rats and other animals as well as spiders and insects.

Measuring Up
by LUCIAN

The oldest known measurement is the 20.5" cubit, representing, roughly the distance between a man's elbow and his middle finger.

The name of the units of measurement we use today speak of the classical calculations they come from. A mile was once the Latin mila passum, meaning 1,000 paces. "Inch" inched away from the Latin uncia: "twelfth part." And "acre" grew from a word meaning field.

Cultivator Sweep Tool Successful Supplement

A cultivator sweep supplement invented by Dr. A.W. Young, professor emeritus of agronomy at Texas Tech University, has been patented, manufactured and put to use successfully.

Users of the new agricultural cultivating tool have praised the sweep supplement.

The former longtime chairman of the Department of Agronomy in the College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech received the patent in November last year. Dr. Young said the device is designed as a supplement to the conventional cultivator sweep.

"It may not be successfully used except as it follows behind a cultivator sweep or other soil loosening device," he said. "It is designed to bolt onto the cultivator shank immediately behind the cultivator sweep and serves to move the loosened soil towards the plant row."

Dr. Young said use of the tillage aid conserves moisture, reduces plant losses, allows for minimum tillage, prepares the soil for irrigation, minimizes equipment costs, reduces power requirements, has vertical and lateral adjustments, is adaptable to wide and narrow row crops, allows high speed cultivation and is of durable, rugged construction.

The implement clears the furrow of loose soil between the rows of the growing crops and shapes the furrow and pushes the dirt to the row to cover small weeds.

With the trade name of Ployuse Sweep Supplement, the device has been manufactured by Visioneering, Inc., of Lubbock and more than 200 have been sold and put to use.

During 1972 the supplements were used at the Southern Great Plains Field Station at Bushland; High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway; South Plains Research and Extension Center near Lubbock; Texas Tech University Farm, and on many farms on a wide range of soils.

Lubbock farmer Roy A. Forkner said, "These supplements are very good for forming irrigation furrows. I like being able to move the dirt to the row without pruning the roots. The ease of adjustment, the speed you can plow and the light draft are important."

"When traveling at speeds near six miles per hour, we were able to destroy weeds up to eight inches in height," said Jim Valiant, agricultural engineer at the High Plains Research Foundation. "These sweep supplements were used on both double row and single row crops. The smooth water furrows left by these devices resulted in more uniform movement of water down the furrow. Speed and sweep supplement position influenced results."

At Bushland the tools were used on sorghums planted on top of a bed and were successful where soil was in good tilth and not too wet.

Another Lubbock farmer, Troy Snodgrass, says the sweep supplement has "great possibilities, especially in dry-land operation, but also did excellent work in irrigated cotton."

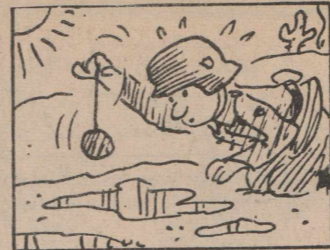

The inventor was a member of the Agronomy faculty at Texas Tech 34 years and was chairman of the department most of that time. He retired from the faculty in 1969.

There's an effective, down-to-earth method of removing mud stains. Let mud dry. Brush out most of it and soak in cold water, then launder. If stain remains, use alcohol.

You can get out perspiration stains with no sweat. If possible, wash thoroughly with warm water and detergent. Apply diluted ammonia to fresh stains and rinse with water.

In World War II, the German army in its North African campaign dryly attempted to use a pendulum as a divining rod to find water!

It's no fairy-tale -- the first translation of Aesop's fables into Chinese was immediately suppressed by sensitive officials who suspected them to be of local, and dissident, authorship.

"OF COURSE, THERE ARE CERTAIN DISADVANTAGES TO LIVING ON A STEEP HILLSIDE."

Dear Editor

Dear Editor:

We need your help! It is our aim to provide a free and open forum for participation of Texas citizen in the work of the 1974 Constitutional Convention--after all, the document belongs to the people.

Active citizen participation in the revision of the State's 1876 Constitution may well be the necessary ingredient to insure a new document is drafted that will be acceptable to a majority of Texans.

Now about the help we need from you. Will you, as the leading journal of current events in your community, give us a few lines in a prominent place in your newspaper to spread the word that citizens are welcome--in fact encouraged--to express their thoughts, their wishes and their fears about contents of the proposed new document? Perhaps you would consider running a box containing information similar to that proposed on the attached sheet.

The 181 delegates to the Convention are now in the process of holding public hearings in Austin on various sections of the document draft.

Citizens can appear before committees studying the various sections or they may express their opinions by writing individual delegates.

In order to encourage citizen awareness and participation, the Convention is operating an incoming toll free WATS line linked with a public information center in the State Capitol.

The number is 1-800-292-9600, and the phone is operational 24 hours daily. If the phone is temporarily unmanned, questions will be recorded and an answer sent by mail.

Citizens may use the toll free WATS line to obtain information on how they may testify before Convention committees.

We shall sincerely appreciate your assistance in getting the message to the people that they are invited and encouraged to participate in the writing of a Constitution, the basic law of our State, that will be acceptable to a majority of our people.

Sincerely,

Price Daniel, Jr.

One purpose of our nation's space program is to learn how the moon came into existence. The Bible tells us that God created it and all other heavenly bodies. He put them into their appointed places in His universe and He sustains them there by the word of His power. A God who can do that can do anything! He can help you in all of life's problems and trials. He can deliver you from temptation. He can save you from sin's power. He can rescue you from hell. He can give you love, joy, peace, and everlasting life.

One day God is going to judge this world and destroy His creation, now marred by sin, in order to bring forth a new heaven and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness. Man cannot destroy God's world. God will end it in His own time and in His own way. Neither can man prevent the end of the world. It will take place just as God has said. You cannot hide from God, neither can you escape His judgment.

But God has made a way of deliverance. Once before, God had the ark prepared for all who would be saved by God's way. Many passed it up and were lost.

This time God has sent His Son, Jesus Christ, to deliver all who will trust Him as Savior. No one will make it who doesn't take God's way. The door of God's ark stands open. Above it is the word, COME.

W.G. Finney Announces Candidacy For J.P.

W.G. Finney authorized the Enterprise this week to announce his candidacy for re-election as Justice of Peace, Precinct #1.

Peggy's

About six years ago, Peggy added a gift boutique corner to her shop and she and Clovis entered the restaurant business in December, 1969.

Cheryl, Mrs. Robert Duncan, has followed her mother's footsteps and has her own shop in Lubbock. She has won area, state and national honors in cosmetology.

The young Duncans have two children. Brian is seven years old. Five-year-old Heather is already "fixing hair," finding pleasure in combing and old wig or fretting over "Paw Paw's lack of locks."

Finney stated his plans to see each voter in the precinct prior to election. Seeking re-election for a second term, he completed the unexpired term of V.L. Smith Sr.

Born at Finney Switch, north of Plainview, he came with his parents to Olton when he was about two years old.

Mrs. Locke

Pallbearers were Clovis Poteet, Jack Edwards, Harold Jordan, Roy Salas, J.M. Key and Jack LaFrance.

Constitution Convention Committees Begin Work

As the Constitutional Convention moves into its fourth week, some committees are now beginning to formulate their proposals which will be sent to the Convention floor for debate. Representative Bill Clayton D-Springlake, reports that the Convention as a whole will consider Article I (the Bill of Rights) this week. In adherence to an Attorney General's opinion handed down last week, the Convention cannot make any changes in the current Bill of Rights; therefore, floor debate should be limited on this particular article on the constitution.

One question which remains unanswered is whether or not the Attorney General's opinion also applies to the preamble of the constitution. Clayton reports that if this opinion does not apply to the preamble some delegates would like to take the reference to "God" out of the preamble of the constitution. This could cause considerable debate on the floor of the Convention this week.

"Once the Bill of Rights has been passed and other articles begin to come to the floor of the Convention for action, I will be reporting these events and outlining the controversial issues," Clayton stated. Additional information or research may be obtained by dialing the toll free number 1-800-292-9600. Experienced Convention personnel will be available to answer any questions.

UIL One Act Play Chosen By Speech Class

Cast of Olton High School's entry in the year's UIL One-Act Play contest was announced this week.

The play, entitled "Screw-tape," is the story of two "fiends" who are assigned to earth in order to possess a young architect named Michael Green.

The title role of Screw-tape, the senior devil, is Monte Chitwood. His nephew, Mormwood, who is on his first assignment, will be created by Mark Gunter. These two are assisted by "female fiend" Slumtrimpet, the role of Connie Thomas.

The object of the fiends attention is John Rodriguez, who plays Michael. Mike's mother will be portrayed by Virginia Daugherty.

Judy Macadam, Slumtrimpet's "assignment," is played by Chesna Dickenson.

Milly Brooks is portrayed by Robin Criswell, while her mother is played by Cynthia Norfleet. Freddy Stockdale will play John Mortar, Mike's friend.

Students who will serve as alternates and crew will be Kim Barnett, Bryan Allcorn, and Alan Johnson. Director is Mrs. Marilyn Miller.

The contest will be held in Dimmitt High School Auditorium April 2. Critic judge will be Mrs. June Bearden, head of the drama program at Lubbock Christian College.
