Coming Sunday

Wells

One of the dirtiest — and most vital — jobs in the oil industry is well servicing. The oilfield depends on well service to keep wells flowing and paying off. A well servicer is featured on Sunday's Business/Energy cover.

Families

Midlander J.R. Hunt talks about the taboo subject of interracial families and friends in Sunday's Speaking Out column on the Opposite Editorial Page. She moved to Midland from the Houston area three years ago.

Names

Gary Hart, Rich Little and Jimmy Stewart are living in Midland. Be entertained about these and other well-known names in Sunday's Lifestyle section.

Drugs

From beer busts enjoyed by students to cocaine and cocktails in downtown offices, the dope on drugs in Midland is dealt with in a five-part Page 1 series.

That sinking feeling

Power poles threatened to join two pickup trucks in the sinkhole that opened up east of Boling, Texas, early Friday. A strip of a rural highway caved in, taking the trucks with it. The hole stretches 200 feet across and is believed to be 600 to 700 feet deep.

Sinkhole forces three to swim for their lives

BOLING, Texas (AP) — A sinkhole that may be 600 to 700 feet deep opened suddenly under a farm road near here early Friday, swallowing two pickup trucks and forcing three men to swim for their lives in the darkness.

Texas Department of Public Safety Sgt. Dyrle E. Maples said the water-filled hole was discovered when the two trucks plunged into the crater just after midnight Thursday.

Maples said that by noon Friday, the mouth of the hole measured 300 by 200 feet — bigger than a football field — and was gradually expanding.

The hole, about two miles east of Boling and 70 miles southwest of Houston, has swallowed a section of FM 442, a major farm road in the area. The cavity was expanding into two adjacent fields and undermined a power line that runs alongside the road.

"Chunks of soil 6 feet long and 6 inches thick will just suddenly drop into the hole," said Maples, who spent hours at the hole Friday. "It's also sinking back from the hole and that whole area is becoming bowl-shaped."

There is a house 150 yards from the hole, Maples said, but he added he doesn't believe it to be in danger.

The area is above the world's largest known salt dome, a formation called the Boling Dome by geologists, said Clinton White, a spokesman for Texasgulf Inc., a company that mines sulphur in the area.

Wharton County Sheriff's Capt. Marvin Smith said another sulphur mine is a quarter-mile away. Visitors to the hole say there is an odor of sulphur in the air.

Sulphur is mined by forcing hot water deep under the ground, melting the mineral and then pumping it to the surface in solution. The process can leave a deep cavity.

Maples said David Green of Boling, who was riding alone in his pickup, suffered a cut lip and bruises when his vehicle went into the sinkhole early Friday. Another pickup, driven by Matt Hobizal of Boling, approached the hole from the other direction and also disappeared.

Maples said Green, Hobizal and a passenger riding with Hobizal, Kevin Joyce of Wharton, all had to swim to safety in the darkness.

A Texas Highway Department engineer, Clyde Schulz, said the highway had been inspected early in the week and then again hours before the collapse. He said no decision has been made on what action to take.

"We first want to see how much more is going to cave in," he said. "Then we'll probably do some probing and see what's there. We checked the area three days ago and found it had settled three feet from what it was built to in 1961."

Both Maples and Smith said the hole could be 600 to 700 feet deep, but no effort has been made to probe the murky waters.

John Brode, who lives in the house near the hole, said the highway began sinking earlier in the week and had dropped about a foot when he drove over it about noon Thursday.

Brode said he and his family were awakened early Friday when horses in a pasture by the house started running. He said he then heard a noise that proved to be a pickup falling into the hole.

"We got on our clothes and I went out to stop traffic," he said.

Midland County lacks funds, manpower to repair roads

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

The old country song about bad roads and that "detour ahead" could apply to some of Midland County's maze of 620 miles of paved, unpaved and half-paved roads.

"It's bad, real bad, across the county," County Commissioner C. DeWayne Davis said of some — not all — of the roads in the suburban areas bordering the city.

The commissioner said he has sympathy for residents who have to travel on rough roads to get to their homes or businesses. But the drought and lack of county funds and manpower prohibit the paving of the county roads and the proper laying of caliche.

In particular, Davis cited County Roads 116 West and 1206 South mainly because two residents of that area in Ranchero Park south of Midland wrote letters complaining of the roads. Neither letter was signed; that somewhat disappointed the commissioner.

"We have reported the severe neglect of these roads several times," penned one Ranchero Park resident in a letter to The Midland Reporter-Telegram, "and have called County Comm. Mr. Davis, but nothing is being done. We pay county taxes for this (road maintenance) and this needs to be taken care of."

Another wrote that motorists "are receiving minor damage to their automobiles due to severe neglect of the county."

Davis doesn't deny their allegations.

"These are roads that have caliche bases," said Davis. He said the rock was put down improperly, the caliche has blown and chuck holes have developed in the roads.

"It's a losing proposition," he said. But the Ranchero Park people who are complaining do have an advantage: "The squeaky wheel gets the grease; there's no doubt about that," Davis said. When that squirt of grease might come he didn't say.

A basic problem with the Ranchero Park roads was in their foundation.

"It gets down to just hard old caliche," said Davis. "They (the land developer) did not do a good job on the roads to begin with; it's not up to par, and we've been paying for it ever since."

Nevertheless, the county accepted the roads and agreed to maintain them.

The prolonged drought is aggravating the road-maintenance problem, Davis said. He said the roads would have to be watered thoroughly prior to the laying of new caliche. "With two graders (per precinct), you can not get around to all the roads before they dry out.

"We do try to do a halfway decent job," he said.

The commissioner did cite some road improvements in the southwest quadrant of the city's outskirts: the widening and striping of Cotton Flat and Midkiff Roads south of Interstate Highway 20.

"It really looks great," he said.

Those roads are two of the main arteries which lead into town and which serve the estimated 12,000 people who live in that southwestern quadrant.

"A town about the size of Lamesa lives out there. They've got to have roads, so they can get to the offices in downtown Midland, to the hospitals, to (Midland) Air Terminal, and schools" and shopping centers.

"These people all have got to go to town. People really appreciate it (improved roads). We're proud of the work that they did," he said of county road crews who widened the two paved roadways.

But the problems of the other roads remain, Davis noted. The severity of the present economy prohibits the county from spending road-maintenance funds it doesn't have.

"We're trying to do what we can...It would be better if they (the roads) were glass smooth."

Safety on the streets was practiced by two- to five-year-olds at the Alamo YMCA Friday.

'Motorists' toddle through safety course

As he neared the railroad crossing, he slowed down to more easily absorb the bumps of the track. He turned the corner, complied with a yield sign, and pulled into a one-way street.

Across town, between the park and the hospital, another group of "motorists" were tangled in a traffic jam. Horns honked but there were no angry shouts.

About 30 two- to five-year-olds straddling tricycles, bicycles with training wheels and even a pink plastic hippopotamus on rollers participated in a traffic safety course at the Alamo YMCA Friday morning.

The program, presented by Ron Benton and Sgt. Lalo Camarillo of the Midland Police Department Crime Prevention Unit, included discussions every 30 minutes with practice driving time in between.

Directed by Gary Seth, Alamo Y gymnasium director, the gymnasium was converted into a mini-Midland, with parks, a hospital and school. The winding streets circled plants, and ran under tunnels and across the railroad track, which sat next to a red cardboard train loaded with stuffed animals.

Governor: Policies 'anti-Hispanic'

EL PASO (AP) — New Mexico Gov. Toney Anaya said Friday he would "continue hounding President Reagan" until he tells the truth about his administration's "anti-Hispanic" policies.

Reagan landed at Biggs Army Air Field at Fort Bliss here Friday evening and was met by Mayor Jonathan Rogers and Fort Bliss Army Gen. James Maloney.

Anaya, the nation's only Hispanic governor and a Democrat, said the president has "a great theatrical personality, but the facts don't really matter to him."

On June 15, Anaya accused Reagan after a national Parent-Teachers Association convention in Albuquerque, N.M., of being "the great white father who speaks with forked tongue" because he allegedly hid the severity of school budgets cuts that affected New Mexico.

Reagan was scheduled to hold a private, hour-long meeting with six Mexican-American leaders, including representatives from the League of United Latin American Citizens, the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund and the American GI Forum. On Saturday, Reagan will address 2,000 delegates of the American GI Forum, a predominantly Hispanic veterans group.

Reagan, who will fly to Mexico to meet Sunday with President Miguel de la Madrid Hurtado, told a local radio station last week that his administration's economic policies have benefitted all, including "Americans of Hispanic descent."

He also told KAMA-AM that critics of his administration's hiring of Hispanics for government work "don't know what they're talking about."

But Thursday, Texas Gov. Mark White said the Reagan administration has "insulted" Hispanics with its rhetoric about policies that help the nation's second largest minority group.

White said Reagan and the Republicans have "malign neglect" of the 15-million Hispanic-Americans.

White will return Saturday to El Paso to respond for the Democrats to Reagan's speech before the American GI Forum, a mostly Hispanic veterans group.

El Paso leaders surprised by Reagan's appearance

EL PASO (AP) — Two El Paso leaders described their first meeting with President Reagan as one of surprise because the nation's leader was so young looking.

El Paso Mayor Jonathan Rogers, who met Reagan when the president got off Air Force One at Biggs Army Air Field on Friday said, "Reagan really is a lot younger looking up close."

Ft. Bliss Command Leader Brig. Gen. James Maloney concurred, adding, "He's really a nice looking man."

Reagan arrived in El Paso on a two-day visit as part of a Republican bid for the support of the nation's 15 million Hispanics. Reagan is scheduled to speak for 50 minutes Saturday to the American GI Forum, a Hispanic veterans group, which is holding its 35th annual convention in this West Texas city of 480,000.

Machinists union strikes Continental

From Staff and Wire Reports

WASHINGTON — The machinists union struck Continental Airlines at one minute after midnight Saturday, pulling 2,000 mechanics and maintenance workers of their jobs at the nation's eighth largest airline.

The airline said it intended to keep 85 percent of its flights operating. Continental has four or five flights a day into Midland Regional Airport.

Robert O. Harris, a member of the National Mediation Board, told reporters, "Continental Airlines and the IAM failed to reach an agreement." Harris indicated that the union was legally free to strike, and the union already had said it would.

Mediator Robert Brown said, "Both parties indicated they were willing to review each other's positions." But he said it was impossible to narrow the differences in time to avert a walkout.

"They've both (the company and the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers) indicated that if there was anything (further) we could do, they would let us know," he said.

Union spokesman Jim Conley declared: "That's it. We're out. It seems obivous the company wanted a strike."

Conley said that in past negotiations management had tended to improve its offer as the strike deadline neared. This time, he said, "They started pulling things from the table and made things worse than they already were. It's sort of like they wanted to test their strength."

Continental spokeswoman Stephanie Ross said in Houston, "The IAM in Washington has advised that it has called a strike and we have thus put a strike plan into effect."

She said the company never got a new proposal from the union and that the union continued to insist upon a massive increase in the company's operating expenses.

Continental has offered the mechanics $16 an hour and mechanics who come to work during the strike will receive that, she said. Continental is going to continue to operate more than 85 percent of its scheduled flights, she said.

Continental President Stephen Wolf told employeee in teleprinter and telphone messages Friday night, "I can assure you that those who continue to work will be proud of this airline and its future," she said.

The 12:01 a.m. EDT deadline was the expiration of a 30-day "cooling off" period.

WEATHER SUMMARY

AP Laserphoto Map

Showers are forecast for parts of Maine and for parts of the Gulf states from Texas to Florida according to the National Weather Service's prediction for Saturday.

Midland has chance for rain

The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport is predicting cloudy skies and a chance of rain through Sunday.

Today should be fair in the morning, becoming partly cloudy in the afternoon. There is a 20 percent chance of late afternoon and evening thunderstorms. The high is expected to be in the upper 90s, and lows in the upper 60s. Winds from the south should blow at 5 to 10 mph.

Sunday's forecast calls for continued partly cloudy skies with a chance of thunderstorms. Highs should be near 90.

Friday's high of 97 was a full 10 degrees below the record set in 1936. Five years earlier the record low for that day was recorded at 61 degrees.

Strike violence continues

EL PASO (AP) — Eight bat-wielding protesters and 10 women who blocked a plant roadway in support of a 42-day-old strike at the Phelps Dodge copper refinery were arrested Friday, and an El Paso officer was injured after he was struck in the neck with a lead pipe, police said.

The number of arrests at the El Paso plant, where 353 workers have been striking since July 1, has risen to 32 this week, Lt. Carlos Pinon said.

Also injured Friday was a police attack dog, and its trainer, Lt. Robert Albertson. Albertson was struck on the side of the neck with a lead pipe carried by one of two men charged around 6 a.m. for aggravated assault.

The other men were charged with resisting arrest and interfering with a police dog, police spokesman Lt. Eddie Agan said.

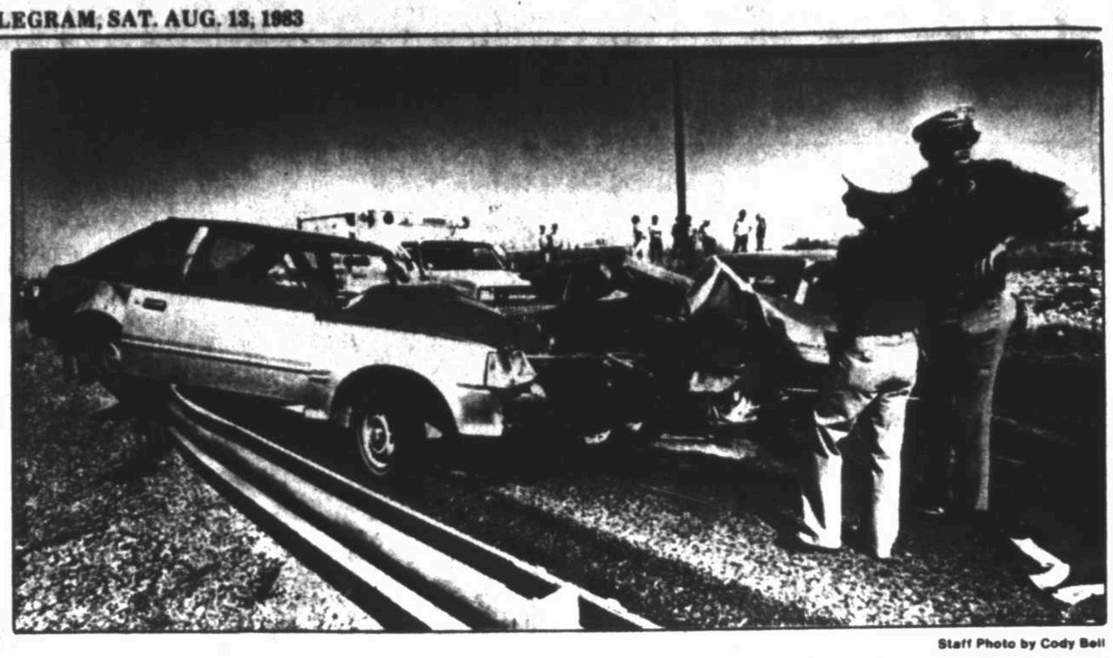

The women were arrested for blocking a roadway after they joined hands and refused to allow traffic into the plant, Pinon said.

The injured officer was treated and released, Tigua Hospital officials said. The police dog, hit on the head with the pipe, was hospitalized in poor condition.

Some of the estimated 100 protesters assembled outside the plant for the early morning work shift carried baseball bats and lead pipes, Agan said.

Union officials have warned that violence could escalate similar to disturbances at a Phelps Dodge mine in Arizona if the company tried to hire replacement workers. Since Wednesday, the company has been hiring machinists and laborers, Phelps Dodge spokesman Dana Wray said.

Hiring of the 353 replacement workers for striking United Steelworker employees is expected to continue into next week, officials said.

Oil firms cut wholesale gas prices

NEW YORK (AP) — More oil companies cut the wholesale price of gasoline Friday and analysts said a downward trend may continue for several weeks because people aren't driving as much as expected this summer.

Motorists should see lower prices at the pump soon.

"The present moderate decline in prices will continue up to and just after Labor Day," said Dan Lundberg, publisher of the Lundberg Survey Inc., a trade journal in Los Angeles. By early autumn, prices should stabilize, he added.

Prices had jumped an average 13 cents a gallon between March and July. That included a 5 cent rise in the federal gasoline tax, but also reflected oil companies' belief that the summer driving season would support higher prices.

But gasoline use has not increased this summer as much as many experts forecast, and excess supplies are beginning to push wholesale prices lower.

Standard Oil Co. of California reduced its wholesale gasoline price Friday by as much as a penny a gallon in parts of the West, and Phillips Petroleum Co. said it dropped prices in some Midwest areas by about half a cent per gallon.

Texaco Inc. lowered its prices one cent a gallon in parts of California, Louisiana and Tennessee, and Mobil Corp.'s price dropped about ½ cent in Connecticut and parts of Massachusetts and Wisconsin.

"It's just poor demand," said Ernest McClelland of Platt's Oilgram Price Report, a trade journal in New York that tracks wholesale petroleum product prices.

Last year, U.S. gasoline use fell to the lowest level since 1972, and consumption has continued to slip. In the three months ended June 30, consumption was 1.4 percent below the year-earlier level, according to the American Petroleum Institute, a Washington-based oil company trade group.

Many experts had projected last spring that an improving economy, coupled with the 10 percent cut in personal income taxes July 1, would help revive demand for gasoline and other oil products. While overall oil demand has risen modestly, improved auto fuel efficiency and other factors are limiting gasoline use.

Experts say the trend will not change soon.

"We expect to see gasoline consumption in the United States continue to decline in the long term because prices are already high enough to make conservation strategies attractive," said Tom Burns, an economist at Standard of California.

Libyan reinforcements pour over border to aid rebels

N'DJAMENA, Chad (AP) — Libyan warplanes bombed President Hissene Habre's forces at two of Chad's northern outposts Friday and Libyan reinforcement were pouring across the border to help the Chadian rebels, Western military sources reported.

The Libyans, after recapturing Faya-Largeau, the chief oasis in northern Chad, for ex-President Goukouni Oueddei's rebels apparently were preparing to support him in a new drive on N'Djamena, the capital.

Habre's Cabinet called for the "direct, massive and immediate intervention of the military forces of France and the United States."

Information Minister Mahamat Soumaila said waves of Libyan aircraft dive-bombed Oum Chalouba, 200 miles southeast of Faya-Largeau on the north-south road down the eastern side of the country.

Western military sources confirmed the bombing of Oum Chalouba and said Libyan planes also attacked Koro Toro, 150 miles north of N'Djamena on the direct desert track from Faya-Largeau to the capital.

The Western sources, who have access to satellite and other military intelligence information, also reported a "constant stream" of convoys from Libya, landlocked Chad's northern neighbor, to the Libyan and Goukouni forces in Faya-Largeau.

They said gangs of men were working around the clock to repair the airstrip which the Libyan bombers blasted.

Western reporters are barred from the fighting area, and there were no independent accounts of the action.

Goukouni's forces earlier this year reached Abeche, 150 miles south of Oum Chalouba and 400 miles east northeast of N'Djamena. Before they could turn west toward the capital, Habre's troops chased them back past Faya-Largeau. But Goukouni that time did not have the Libyan planes, tanks and artillery that reversed the course of the war again Wednesday when his rebels overran Faya-Largeau.

Soumaila claimed most of the 2,500 government troops — about half of Habre's army — who had been reported at Faya-Largeau escaped into the desert. He said many of them had reached Oum Chalouba and Koro Toro and regrouped with other Habre forces there.

Western sources said Habre ordered most of his best units out as much as a week before the final assault. Officials of Habre's government and Western sources both denied rebel claims that Foreign Minister Idriss Miskine was killed in the battle for the outpost.

Habre's forces have neither fighter planes nor tanks. France and the United States are airlifting millions of dollars worth of arms and other military supplies to N'Djamena for Habre's army, and the French flew in 500 paratroopers this week to train his troops and handle their communications. But both the French and American governments refused Habre's pleas for combat support.

Western diplomats said the Redeye anti-aircraft missiles flown to Chad by the United States shortly before Faya-Largeau fell were never used, and they did not know whether all the estimated 25 missiles taken to Faya-Largeau were removed before the outpost fell.

The Cabinet's appeal for American and French combat troops accused Libya of "open aggression" and asked the Organization of African Unity for immediate condemnation of the invasion. It also called for the "vigilant mobilization" of the 5 million Chad people.

'Motorists' toddle through traffic

"Jason, you need to stay inside the tape," Seth cautioned a curly, red-headed youngster who swerved outside of his lane.

A small, dark-headed boy rushed from out of a tunnel, turned a corner and rammed into three tricycles, patiently waiting at a stop sign.

With arrows pointing the correct direction down one-ways, the line of giggling pedal-pushers pulled up and parked their vehicles in front of the two men in uniform.

"Is anybody here scared of me?" Benton asked the toddlers. The shy silence, shared by adults standing around the room, was followed by questions on the color and meanings of the signs. Most were answered correctly in shouted unison.

"What happens if you don't stop at a stop sign?" Benton asked.

Knowing glances were exchanged by the parents.

"Right, you can get run over," was his reply.

DEATHS

Thomas Cooper

Services for Thomas Hugh Cooper, 62, of Odessa, brother of Iola Stegall of Midland, are to be at 2 p.m. today in Hubbard-Kelly Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. Dale Thurlby officiating. Burial will follow in Sunset Memorial Gardens.

Cooper died Thursday at an Odessa hospital after a lengthy illness.

He was born Aug. 30, 1920, in Idabell, Okla., and was married to Theresa Salafia April 17, 1970, in Odessa.

Other survivors include three sons, Jerry Cooper and Jimmy Henderson, both of Odessa, and Richard Cooper of Nacogdoches; three daughters, Theresa Ann Self, Elaine Glass and Sheila Henderson, all of Odessa; two brothers, Bernie Cooper of Odessa and Mac Cooper of Snyder; four other sisters, Viola Eckles of Santa Maria, Calif., Opal Cannon of Abilene, Mildred Rodgers of Colorado City and Willie Brantley of Frisco; and seven grandchildren.

Silverware taken from residence

Mrs. H.C. Brinson, 3113 Stanolind, reported to Midland police the theft of silverware and cash from her residence.

According to police reports, an assortment of silver with an unknown value was taken, as well as $1,000 from her purse. There was no sign of forced entry.

County residents win pecan prizes

A number of Midland County residents were among winners in the 1982 Texas State Pecan Show recently judged in Fort Worth. Suitable entries for the state show were frozen after winning regional pecan shows last December.

Midland County winners in the inshell division included Dr. John Foster, second in Apache, first in Shoshoni and second in Wichita; Dan Holland, second in Barton; M.A. Cappadonna, first in GraBohl; Wanda Bonner, second in GraBohl. In the shelling division winners were: Foster, third in Caddo; David Harris, third in Cheyenne; McVey Pecan Orchard, third in Onliwon, and Davis Pecan Orchard, first in Western.

This year's state show had a total of 403 entries. Twenty-four percent of those entries were from the western region of the state. Of those, 30 percent were winners.

The state grand champion inshell pecan was grown by Herb Hirata's Kiowa from Menard County. West Texans received 10 first places, seven second places and 12 third places in the show.

The county extension service offers these guidelines for well-filled nuts at harvest:

— Water deeply and thoroughly at the dripline of the tree to prevent pecan drop.

— Examine 10 compound leaves per tree for yellow and black aphids. If the average number of yellow aphids per leaf is greater than 15, apply malathion or Zolone. If black aphids average two per compound leave, apply Zolone.

— At the middle of the month begin Zolone applications to control hickory shuckworm. Spray when the developing pecan shell begins to harden. Cut pecan open to determine this. Apply second application 10-14 days after the first spray. In Howard, Martin and Glasscock counties, apply Sevin when the developing kernel enters the gel or dough stage.

— Several species of plant bugs (stink bugs, leaf-footed bugs, etc.) may feed on pecan nuts at this time of the season causing a type of damage known as black pit and kernel spot. Spray applications of Sevin will reduce insect numbers and nut damage.

County pecan shows are held in November and early December. A minimum of 40 nuts in the same variety are required for an entry. Midland County Pecan Show will be Nov. 27-29.

The Midland County Pest Management and Field Crops Committee will present a private applicator certification training program for area producers, as well as any other interested persons. It will be at Energas Flame Room, 2402 W. Wall, Friday from 1:30 p.m. until 5 p.m. There is no charge.

Woman injured in traffic mishap

A Midland woman involved in a traffic accident Friday evening is in serious condition after being resuscitated by two Midland patrol officers.

Vicky Ann Willard, 27, 4303 Andrews Highway, is at Midland Memorial Hospital with undetermined injuries.

According to police reports, 54-year-old John Alton Ramsey, 2705 W. Illinois, was eastbound on Andrews Highway near Midland Drive shortly after 6 p.m. His pickup collided with the rear of Ms. Willard's Datsun compact, which was also heading east, and the car struck a telephone pole.

When officers Wayne Newsome and J.D. Luckie pulled her from the vehicle, Ms. Willard was not breathing. They began to administer cardio-pulmonary resuscitation, and were later assisted by Pattie Fox, a nurse at MMH.

Ramsey was treated and released.

Local hospitals' requests approved

MMBHC certificate of need amended

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Texas Health Facilities Commission approved requests involving several Midland hospitals Friday.

Midland Memorial Behavioral Health Center was given approval to amend a certificate of need, which authorizes the construction of a 50-bed chemical dependency treatment facility, by changing the site of the proposed structure.

The center requested a site relocation from Wadley Avenue in northwest Midland to a piece of undeveloped land west of the intersection of Thomason Road and Illinois Avenue. The new site is about a half mile west of Loop 250.

West Plains, a psychiatric hospital, was given approval to amend a certificate of need, authorizing the construction of a 60-bed psychiatric hospital, by reducing the project cost and changing the site. The hospital reduced the cost from $4,139,266 to $3,871,922, and changed the site from Pilot Avenue to a 10-acre tract located at U.S. Highway 80 and Farm-to-Market 1788.

The new site is about 3,500 square feet from the original site, according to the THFC.

Commissioners also approved requests from Jewell Enterprises of Arlington to buy Midland Care Center, a 118-bed intensive care nursing facility, from R.W. McDonnell Construction Co., Inc., and Stonebrook Properties, Inc. of Arlington, to lease the center from Jewell Enterprises.

The center is to be renamed Stonebrook Care Center-Midland, under proposals approved by the THFC.

Soviet minister begins purge of country's police

The Los Angeles Times-Washington Post News Service

MOSCOW — Gen. Vitaly Fedorchuk, the Soviet interior minister, said earlier this week that a "purge" of the country's uniformed police was under way to rid it of "ideologically and morally" inadequate officers.

Writing in the Communist Party newspaper Pravda, Fedorchuk gave an unusually comprehensive account of law enforcement problems. But he made it clear that one of his top priorities is to impose discipline and raise the level of professionalism within his department, which controls the uniformed police, riot control troops and criminal investigations.

Fedorchuk, who became top Soviet law enforcement official last December, said he had "sharply reduced paperwork" and the volume of various meetings within the ministry to free senior officials for "direct work" with police officers.

Police officers, he said, have been ordered to get out on the streets to fight hooliganism, corruption, drunkenness, speculation, theft and other crimes.

Soviet sources said privately that Fedorchuk, a career officer of the Soviet secret police, the KGB, was shocked by the inefficiency, arbitrariness and corruptibility of the uniformed police.

According to the sources, he recently presented himself at a local police office in Moscow behaving as an ordinary citizen with a grievance who wanted to have a chat with the captain. The general was said to have been treated rudely by officers and refused a meeting by the captain after he kept Fedorchuk waiting for two hours.

Fedorchuk, who served as the chief of KGB for a short period before being promoted to his current position, is regarded as a tough disciplinarian. He is at the center of the current law and order campaign launched by the new Soviet leader Yuri Andropov.

One aspect of Fedorchuk's campaign to impose strict discipline on the nation's uniformed police is a recent Politburo decision to establish a new corps of political officers within the Ministry of Internal Affairs with the aim of raising "the personal responsibility of the staff in meeting their official responsibility."

The police had become notorious for corruption, which had reached to the highest levels of the Interior Ministry. Well-informed sources here disclosed new details about Fedorchuk's predecessor in the job, Gen. Nikolai Shcholokov, who served as the nation's top law enforcement officer for 16 years before his ouster by Andropov last December.

People tell of death squad's visit

EDITOR'S NOTE: Right-wing death squads, frequently accused of operating with the knowledge of government officials and made up of police and military personnel, flourish in many Latin American countries. Here is the story of one such death squad operation as pieced together from interviews with witnesses to the event.

By TOM WELLS

CIMITARRA, Colombia (AP) — As they told the story later, residents recalled that the temperature hung in the low 90s and not a whisper of breeze moved the palms as four men, each with a submachine gun, strode side by side down a dirt street.

They said they knew immediately that the death squad was coming, and they would always remember the day, Monday, July 18.

They recalled that people lingered outside the adjoining concrete-walled houses and then slipped silently inside doorways as the men headed for La Ruiz, a small restaurant with six tables.

Witnesses who claimed to have been there said the only customers at that hour were a dozen men who had come into town to buy supplies for their small farms hacked out of the jungle along the Carare River.

They said the gunmen walked straight into the restaurant and ordered five men out into the street. The men were ordered to lie down in front of police headquarters, next door to the restaurant. Their hands were handcuffed behind their backs, said witnesses who asked not to be identified for fear they would be the squad's next victims.

The gunmen said they had a list of 180 people to be executed and that they would be back, the witnesses claimed.

THE FIVE MEN from the restaurant were marched down the darkened street. Over a period of several minutes, gunshots punctuated the darkness. A few hours later, the bodies of the five men, still bearing watches and money, were found on the edge of town. Each had been shot in the back of the head.

Some Colombian newspapers have theorized that any army people involved with the death squads are operating on their own or in connection with cattle ranchers and big businessmen impatient with Colombia's turtle pace system of Justice.

The Colombian Human Rights Commission says death squads have killed 327 people in the last year. Many of those killed had been investigated by the army for suspected links with leftist guerrillas, Colombian newspapers have said.

In February, the attorney general's office, acting on orders of President Belisario Betancur to put an end to the terror, accused 163 people of being members of the death squads.

Fifty-nine of those named were active members of the army, including two lieutenant colonels. Sixteen others were retired army soldiers, and the others were civilians.

Only one of the colonels and the 16 retired soldiers were charged with taking part in murders. The others were simply said to be members of the death squads.

SPECIAL JUDGES were named to determine if there was sufficient evidence to charge those who had not be accused of specific crimes.

The Colombian justice system is slow. It sometimes takes five years for a case to be dismissed or to come to trial.

The minister of defense, Gen. Fernando Landazabal, has denied that any members of the armed forces belong to the death squads. He said in an editorial in the army's monthly magazine that the accusations were an attempt to discredit the armed forces.

In Cimitarra, townspeople told an Associated Press reporter that when the five men were forced out of the restaurant there some people ran to the police barracks two blocks away and others to an army guardpost a block away where a dozen soldiers are quartered.

No one was found at either place, the witnesses said. The soldiers had disappeared a few hours before the death squad arrived, residents told the AP reporter.

Briton reclaims record

OPORTO, Portugal (AP) — Former British commando Tom McClean reclaimed the record for the smallest boat to make a west-to-east crossing of the Atlantic when he docked here Wednesday night in his bathtub-size craft.

The 41-year-old McClean's arrival ended 62 days, 10 hours at sea in his 7-foot-9-inch yacht Giltspur.

McClean, who had previously set marks rowing and sailing the Atlantic single-handed, set out from St. John's, Newfoundland, on June 6, heading for Falmouth in southwest England.

He was blown south by winds but still reached the Bay of Biscay ready to knock a week off his previous sailing time. Then the gales struck. In stormy seas, he was blown hundreds of miles off course. For two weeks, he was lost off Portugal, thwarted alternately by lightning storms and frustrating calms.

Last August, he set the trans-Atlantic smallest-craft sailing record in Giltspur, only to have it eclipsed March 20 by Wayne Dickinson of Seattle Beach, Fla., in God's Tear — 8 feet, 11 inches.

So McClean chopped two feet off his Giltspur and set off again.

Short drives deadly

One reason for buckling your seat belt, even if you're going for only a short drive, is that three out of four fatal car accidents occur within 25 miles of home.

Unions divided over foreign policy

Hearst Feature Service

BOSTON - Union members are divided on the volatile issue of U.S. policy in Central America and some union leaders consider the participation of AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland on the Kissinger commission a mixed blessing.

In the past, the labor federation has taken a stridently anti-communist stance toward nearly all elements of foreign policy and international trade.

The legacy of that era, when Kirland's predecessor George Meany epitomized cold warrier cooperation with both Republican and Democratic presidents, still pervades union policies.

Kirkland himself, however, is harder to figure out and he has been uncommonly crisp in deflecting questions trying to elicit his views on core issues in the current furor over President Reagan's escalating Central America pressure.

When a reporter, covering the AFL-CIO Executive Council meeting here, asked him the standard question often put to Reagan — did he envision any possibility of sending troops to Central America — Kirkland dismissed the query as "iffy question." He said he had learned from many painful experiences "not to answer questions like that."

None of the 33 members of the AFL-CIO Executive Council pressed Kirkland publicly on his position during the three day meeting. But several of the largest unions put their foreign policy experts in touch with either Kirkland or his foreign policy analyst.

The union leaders want to share their views with him and also impress him with their apprenhension about the escalating chance for conflict.

"I think it is a very volatile situation and we have to watch it carefully," said J.C.Turner, president of the Operating Engineers Union. "I support Congress' action in not sending in more advisors."

He noted that the Salavadoran government never has moved to prosecute the soldiers who killed three labor leaders in that country several years ago nor have they prosecuted the killers of two nuns and other religious women .

U.S., Mexico to sign pollution accord

MEXICO CITY (AP) — U.S. officials expect President Reagan and Mexican President Miguel de la Madrid to sign an accord on water, air pollution and sewage treatment on Sunday when they meet in the Baja California city of La Paz.

The agreement would cover "long-term solutions" to pollution problems along the 1,760-mile U.S.-Mexican border, a U.S. embassy spokesman said Wednesday.

"We are confident that an agreement will be reached," an embassy spokesman said. "We hope that an agreement can be reached in time to be announced on Sunday in La Paz."

Negotiations have been conducted by U.S Secretary of State James Malone and officials of the Mexican Foreign Ministry, the official said.

Will Pharoahs find eternal rest?

By The Los Angeles Times-Washington Post News Service

CAIRO, Egypt (DPA) — Egypt's pharoahs are once again being disturbed in their eternal peace. The famous mummies of the ancient kings will be moved from the Egyptian Museum here to a new Museum of Egyptian Civilization that will be built in the capital on Samalek Island in the Nile River.

Ahmed Kadry, the director of Egypt's archaeological administration, has told Deutsche Presse-Agentur that plans for the museum are now being drawn. Construction is to begin in 1984.

According to the plan, the pharaonic mummies are to be displayed in a special mausoleum "reflecting the dignity and historic role of the kings," Kadry said.

The late Egyptian President Anwar Sadat had ordered the mummies withdrawn from public view in October 1980 because he thought their undignified display might offend the feelings of Moslems, Jews and Christians alike.

The 27 royal mummies had been treated as little more than ordinary numbered pieces in the Egyptian Museum. Visitors, for example, could look through the glass case number 6346 and see the carefully manicured fingernails of Pharaoh Thutmosis II.

Or they might listen to explanations by a tour guide of display number 6342, which held the remains of Pharaoh Sekenere. "This king was killed," the guide might say, pointing to the gruesome evidence on the pharoah's body.

"His hair is stained with blood, his lips still distorted in pain and his hands gnarled," the guide would say.

It was this kind of undignified display that had worried Sadat, and when he issued the ban three years ago, he called for the bodies to be buried "with all honors."

The Cairo archaeological administration hopes that the new mausoleum will become the pharaohs' final resting place after recurrent assaults on their graves over the last 3,000 years.

Originally, all pharaohs from the 17th to the 20th dynasty were buried in the Valley of the Kings near Luxor. But bandits started looting the graves in ancient times, and most of the precious artifacts buried along with the bodies were stolen.

The damaged mummies of earlier kings were first moved under the reign of Pharaoh Sheshonk I, who was the first king of the 22nd dynasty that lasted from 945 to 745 B.C. Some of those bodies were buried a second time in the burial chamber of Pharaoh Amenophis II; others were enshrined inside a rock in a valley.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Sunday, August 14, 1983

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Actress Susan Saint James, singer Connie Smith and former Baltimore Orioles manager Earl Weaver celebrate birthdays today. Also born on this date: the writer John Galsworthy. A new home could be part of your good luck in the months ahead. Be diplomatic and you will be able to convince people to bend the rules in your favor. Those in sports or the arts are viewed in a more positive light. Your social circle grows. A windfall is possible if you are in the right place at the right time. Learn to take constructive criticism in stride. Mate is in your corner.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A relative or old friend's news puts your mind at rest regarding a career or financial move. Beware of someone who may be gossiping about you. Bring things out into the open.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Good news from afar gives you the advantage in a partnership. You are in better position to improve your finances. Romance heats up. You may be ready to make a commitment.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A change of scene proves invigorating and puts you in a romantic mood. You begin to look at someone in a new light. Parents find it easier to get close to their children.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You can make important contacts in the most unusual places. Break away from your regular routine and take a trip to the beach or countryside. Entertainment need not be expensive.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You enjoy being part of the crowd today. Accept an invitation to a large gathering. Elderly parents need more attention. Deal with important business contacts over the phone.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Shy away from aggressive people and pursue quiet pastimes. Family members enjoy your company. Do whatever is necessary to make peace with a relative or neighbor. Romance takes on a new glow.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Spend the day with close friends or relatives. A change of scene proves relaxing. Avoid flirtations. Domestic tension rises if you insist on being a big shot and picking up the tab.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Work harder at correcting a bad habit. You need to get out more and socialize with influential friends. Seek assistance from someone who can put you in touch with the right people.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Why keep your ideas to yourself? If you share them with loved one, you will both be happier. Mind your manners when dealing with someone who is stubborn.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Put aside all thoughts of business. You need some time to relax in the sun. Mate's problems will weigh less heavily if you ask some probing questions. Devote more effort to romance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A domestic relationship takes on an optimistic aura. Creative ventures show promise of becoming profitable. Postpone making any new commitments until you have taken care of your immediate priorities.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Loved one's well-being should be your main consideration. Do not fall prey to the schemes of fantasizing friends. A change in lifestyle will relieve tension and bring greater comfort.

Forecaster spells doom for shows

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The three commercial TV networks will unveil 22 new series in the fall, and a veteran forecaster says only two are likely to become hits.

Another eight have some marginal potential, and the other 12 are fated for short lives, says Philip Burrell, programming vice president for the New York advertising agency Dancer Fitzgerald Sample.

Burrell sees only two surefire hits: ABC's "Hotel" and "AfterMASH" on CBS.

He describes "Hotel" as a sort of landlocked "Love Boat," with cameo appearances by star performers, Bette Davis at the head of the cast, and an advantageous slot on the ABC schedule, after "Dynasty" on Wednesday nights.

"AfterMASH" follows in the footsteps of "M-A-S-H," with the original series' creator, Larry Gelbart, and three of its stars, Harry Morgan, William Christopher and Jamie Farr, Burrell says.

BURRELL, in his annual report, says most of the series tread familiar paths, but he does find one pleasant surprise: "A general increase in the over-all quality of the shows, perhaps as a reaction to competition from cable."

And, Burrell adds, "Another unexpected development is the fact that for the first time in many years, new dramas outpace comedies by nearly 30 percent."

The two most interesting entries, he says, are from NBC. "Mr. Smith" is about a talking orangutan with an IQ of 256. But don't be fooled, this is not "Mister Ed," rather it appears to be a hip, sophisticated comedy, Burrell says.

OF seemingly equal quality, he says, is "Manimal," about a handsome professor who can turn into a variety of animals to help police fight crime.

"Madeline," a wacky comedy on ABC, starring Madeline Kahn in her first television role. Miss Kahn plays a frustrated wife looking for new adventure after 10 years of a dull married life.

"Whiz Kids," a CBS series reminiscent of the hit movie "WarGames." It's Tom Swift in the comptuer age.

The other "maybes" on his list are:

"Emerald Point N.A.S.," a CBS serial with Dennis Weaver as a Navy admiral, created by Richard and Esther Shapiro, who gave ABC "Dynasty."

"BOONE," an ABC drama created by Earl Hamner ("The Waltons," "Falcon Crest") about a 1950s Elvis Presley-like rock 'n' roll singer.

"Scarecrow and Mrs. King," a CBS comedy-spy thriller with Kate Jackson and Bruce Boxleitner.

"Webster," an ABC comedy in which Alex Karras and Susan Clark take in a young black child.

Some of Burrell's prognostications are open to challenge.

Pilot episodes of "Scarecrow and Mrs. King" and "Whiz Kids," for instance, had so many holes in them that the stories sometimes defied logic. "Whiz Kids" is being adjusted to correct the lapses, and with "Scarecrow," the shortcomings could be overlooked if Miss Jackson and Boxleitner hit it off. The electricity between the two was not particularly evident in the pilot.

Among Burrell's predicted also-rans is "The Yellow Rose," an NBC serial set on a Texas ranch. The show has an attractive story line and a strong cast (Cybill Shepherd, Sam Elliott, David Soul, Edward Albert), but it could be hurt by CBS's Saturday-night movie. ABC's "Fantasy Island," on at the same time, seems to be waiting for the right show to knock it off.

Land commissioner admits check mistake

AUSTIN (AP) — Land Commissioner Garry Mauro said Friday his office made a mistake when it announced last month that a check from wealthy rancher Clinton Manges for $394,877 to pay the state for some oil leases was "certified."

The check later bounced because of a "signature irregularity."

"It was wrong. We made a mistake. But it was an honest mistake," said Mauro, who talked to a reporter by telephone from Palm Beach, Fla., where he is on vacation.

A certified check is guaranteed by the bank it is written on, but Manges' check to the state was a personal draft. It was returned to the state treasury stamped "signature irregularity" by the San Diego, Texas, bank it was written on.

Manges has since given the state another personal check for the same amount, but state treasury officials say it will take it several days for it to clear.

Mauro, who received $65,000 for his 1982 campaign from Manges, had announced he would sue Manges if the millionaire oilman-rancher did not pay up by July 22.

On that day, Mauro's office issued a statement saying a "certified check" was delivered at 4:06 p.m.

"I saw the mistake" the next day in the newspapr, Mauro said. "But at that point there wasn't anything we could do. There were news reporters in the office who saw the check when it came in — it wasn't like we were trying to hide anything."

Later, Paul Williams, associate deputy treasurer, told the Houston Chronicle that Manges' check was personal and had been returned by the bank Aug. 1.

Williams gave it back to Mauro the next day, and according to land office records, Manges gave the state another personal check for the same amount on Aug. 4.

Official wants students on right tracks

HOUSTON (AP) — In an effort to strengthen the American workforce, the head of the Texas school board wants to make sixth-graders pick career "tracks" that will point them toward white-collar or blue-collar jobs.

"If you study the curricula of our competitors — (West) Germany, Japan, Russia — we've gotten a little soft," said State Board of Education President Joe Kelly Butler. "We're not keeping up."

But some other education officials said teachers have to be careful not to put children into tracks that could destroy their potential.

Butler said he will submit the idea to the state board next month.

Under the plan, students in the sixth grade would choose among academic, general and vocational courses of study.

Butler said tests would help parents and students pick the right track, but they wouldn't be used to force a student into a particular program.

The plan also calls for beefing up elementary school courses in basic skills such as math, English and reading, Butler said.

"If you don't learn it there, you don't learn it," he said.

Butler presented the idea Wednesday to a meeting of the Select Committee on Public Education in Tomball, a Houston suburb.

He said some form of his idea is necessary if the United States is to continue competing with other industrialized nations.

Students would be allowed to move between tracks, but if they wanted to join the academic program late they would have to delay graduating from high school, Butler said.

"If you want six years of math or a foreign language, you have to start in the seventh grade," he said.

Butler predicted that his program would be phased in starting in September 1984. But board member H. Reginald McDaniel of Dallas said he expects the idea to meet stiff resistance.

"It's going to ruffle a lot of feathers," said McDaniel, a physician. "There are a number of people who don't even want it discussed."

Elaine Stienkemeyer, president of the National Parent Teacher Association, said Friday she too was skeptical.

"It's hard to accept the concept," she said. "I guess at this point, without knowing more about the proposal, I don't understand how it can help the student. But I never turn my back on a new idea."

Lucas indicted for death

ODESSA (AP) — Henry Lee Lucas, a 46-year-old former mental patient who claims to have killed more than 100 women in 16 states, has been indicted in the 1981 slaying of an Odessa woman.

Lucas has been charged with four other Texas slayings and is scheduled to stand trial next month in Montague, where he is accused of killing an 80-year-old woman.

An Ector County murder indictment returned Thursday accuses him of the strangling death of Beverly Joyce Luttrull.

Police found Ms. Luttrull, 46, strangled to death March 13, 1981, in the bedroom of an Odessa home.

Lucas was charged with her death June 25, the day after being questioned in Montague by Odessa police detective Billy Hammitt and Texas Ranger C.J. Havrada, according to court documents.

During the interview, Lucas gave the officers a "written, sworn statement admitting to the murder" of Luttrull, court records said.

Lucas will stand trial Sept. 13 for the killing of Kate Rich of Ringgold, a community near Montague.

Sales tax revenue up

AUSTIN (AP) — Comptroller Bob Bullock says statewide collection of local sales taxes are up slightly over 1982 but seven of the 20 largest cities continue to lag behind last year's receipts.

The cities with local sales tax collections lower than 1982 include Houston, El Paso, Beaumont, Odessa, Abilene, Midland and Tyler.

Bullock mailed out checks for $108 million to 974 cities that voted to levy the one-cent local sales tax on top of the four cent state sales tax.

Houston got the biggest check, $19.6 million; Dallas $11.6 million; San Antonio $5.8 million; Austin $3.9 million and Fort Worth $3.5 million.

Gimbels, Macy's stage version of 'Miracle' by opening doors

NEW YORK (AP) — Gimbels and Macy's reopened their doors Friday, but most of the rest of a 20-block area that includes the garment district remained dark for a third day after an electrical substation fire started by a water main break.

Meanwhile, Consolidated Edison said it had reported a water leak in the sub-basement transformer vault the day before the major rupture.

Crews of Con Ed supervisors — union employees are on strike — worked to splice power lines to other substations and bypass the destroyed seven transformers, which will cost $25 million to $30 million to replace.

Gimbels department store beat rival Macy's to the power Friday morning, lighting six floors with three emergency generators. Offices and the furniture floor stayed dark to conserve power.

"Miracle on 32nd Street. Yes, we are open," said signs in the store's windows.

Macy's, featured in the movie "Miracle on 34th Street," reopened just its first floor three hours later, said spokeswoman Lisa Cohn.

The New York Statler Hotel, whose 2,300 guests were evacuated, stayed open only to find rooms elsewhere for incoming guests.

With power expected to remain out until Monday, officials said the cost of the blackout in terms of repairs and lost business was expected to reach into the tens of millions of dollars.

KENNETH LIPPER, deputy mayor for finance, said at a news conference that direct costs to the city alone are expected to reach $1.75 million, $1.5 million of that in police overtime. He also announced an effort to qualify affected businesses for disaster loans from the Small Business Administration.

Lipper added that because of the lack of refrigeration, health inspectors condemned 175 pounds of spoiled food Wednesday, 775 pounds Thursday and 800 pounds by Friday afternoon.

Leonard Mentzer, tort division chief in the city's legal department, told The New York Times the city might be liable for damages because it owned the 68-year-old water main that ruptured early Wednesday.

But Mayor Edward Koch said Friday: "I have no reason to believe that we have any liability."

Spokesman Larry Kleinman said Con Ed believed it was not liable, and spokesman Murray Selman said the utility had no plans to sue the city.

Officials said there was no way of knowing whether the leak reported Tuesday morning in Con Ed's 38th Street substation was related to the water main break which shorted out switches and set off the 13-hour blaze. The fire was fueled by thousands of gallons of mineral oil used to cool the transformers.

Con Ed spokeswoman Pat Richardi said the utility told the building manager of the leak and later complained to the city.

"IT WAS A trickle — something that's not unusual to an underground substation," she said. "We have no indication whether it was or was not in any way associated with what happened Wednesday morning."

A city crew checked at about 9 p.m. Tuesday, but found the doors to the building above the substation locked and no signs of trouble in the street, said Jeffrey Sommer, deputy commissioner of the city's Environmental Protection Department.

"There was no indication at that time that Con Ed believed that it was a serious problem," he said, adding that the reported leak could have come from that broken main, from runoff or from another source.

Macy's and Gimbels lost an estimated $750,000 in sales during the first two days of the blackout.

Hardest hit was the $17.5 billion-a-year garment industry, which was showing new fashions to 7,000 to 10,000 out-of-town buyers when the outage struck. Most were set to leave Friday, but city and industry officials set up emergency showrooms outside the blackout area, and the mayor offered a reception for buyers who stayed until Monday.

Efforts to end AT&T strike still stalled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts to settle a six-day-old strike against American Telephone & Telegraph Co. remained stalled Friday, as some 675,000 workers stayed off the job across the country, many walking picket lines.

"Clearly we have not broken off communication, but absolutely nothing is moving in terms of change in posture," said Rozanne Weissman, spokeswoman for the Communications Workers of America, the largest of three unions striking AT&T.

"No progress, informal communication continuing, still far apart," was the summation of Charles Dynes, spokesman for AT&T. The company's negotiator assigned to the Telecommunications International Union met for a short while with a federal mediator and "filled him in on the situation," Dynes said.

The mediator from the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service was assigned to the union at the request of its president, John Shaughnessy.

Shaughnessy said he, too, met separately with the mediator Friday and the discussion was "just kind of very general — how we got to this point." Shaughnessy's union represents 50,000 of the strikers while the CWA represents 525,000.

A third union, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, represents 100,000 of the strikers. A negotiator for that union, Arthur Perry, said "there is still no progress in the negotations."

The strikers set up picket lines at telephone company offices around the nation early Sunday when union negotiators walked out of talks on a new three-year contract at the deadline of the old pact. It is the largest labor agreement up for negotiation this year.

With AT&T facing court-ordered divestiture in January, employment security is a major issue in the stalled negotiations. Union negotiators also say technological changes threaten to throw members with obsolescent skills out of work. They are pressing for a company-financed, jointly operated training and retraining program, more advance notice of technological changes and a halt to contracting work that could be done by union members.

Dynes said, "We have some concern, too, and have a pretty good record of concern in this area."

'Computer raiders' attempted to break into DOD computer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A group of young people who used home computers and telephones to "raid" a computer at a nuclear weapons laboratory said Friday they also found a secret phone number for a Defense Department computer.

However, two of the unidentified youths told The Milwaukee Journal they were unable to penetrate security measures to retrieve information from the Defense Department computer in Virginia.

"It is very complicated to break into the DOD," one of them said. "There is a bunch of security. There are lots of passwords and you have to work a certain system that we could not."

Federal officials are considering filing charges against the youths, whose forays into computers were compared to the activity portrayed in the movie "War Games." In the film, a teen-ager uses a home computer to gain access to a defense computer controlling nuclear weapons and nearly causes a world war.

U.S. Attorney Joseph Stadtmueller said the youths' actions might represent wire fraud or theft of government property.

Pancoast pleads innocent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The man accused of the baseball-bat slaying of model Vicki Morgan pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity Friday, and a judge ordered psychiatrists to examine him.

A tentative Dec. 5 trial date was set after Marvin Pancoast, 33, rubbing his mustache and bouncing on his toes before Superior Court Judge David A. Horowitz, waived his right to trial within 60 days.

Horowitz appointed two psychiatrists to examine Pancoast and determine his competency to stand trial in the July 7 murder of Miss Morgan, longtime mistress of late department store heir Alfred Bloomingdale.

Miss Morgan's bludgeoned body was found in the condominium she and Pancoast shared in the Studio City area of Los Angeles.

Man attempts train hijacking

SURF, Calif. (AP) — A man brandishing a knife was arrested Friday after an attempted hijacking of an Amtrak passenger train bound for Sacramento from Los Angeles, authorities said. No one was injured.

The train's engineer contacted deputies while Amtrak personnel evacuated one car between Gaviota and Lompoc. Around 1:30 a.m. the train stopped at Surf and a sheriff's deputy and Highway Patrol officers boarded the train.

The man was arrested without incident for investigation of brandishing a knife and was placed under psychiatric observation.

Smoke causes plane's return

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A flight attendant smelled smoke aboard a TWA Boeing 707 jet with 77 people aboard shortly after takeoff Friday, and the plane returned safely to Newark International Airport.

TWA Flight 201, bound for Chicago and Kansas City, Mo., landed less than 20 minutes after takeoff without injury to anyone on board, said TWA spokesman David Venz.

Venz said the smoky smell was caused by an overheated water pump in the galley.

Woman to sue tuna tournament

WARWICK, R.I. (AP) — A woman says she will file a federal sex discrimination suit to fight her exclusion from the prestigious and all-male U.S. Atlantic Tuna Tournament off Block Island on Aug. 30.

Deborah Houston, 29, was entered in the event by a fishing club, but tournament officials disqualified her because she is a woman, the Providence Journal reported Friday.

Former EPA official pleads innocent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Environmental Protection Agency official Rita M. Lavelle pleaded innocent Friday to charges of perjury and obstructing a congressional investigation and was allowed to remain free without bond.

Miss Lavelle appeared before U.S. District Judge Norma Johnson for a six-minute arraigmment, where she entered the innocent plea through her attorney, James J. Bierbower.

The judge scheduled another hearing for Aug. 25, when a trial date will be set. Ms. Lavelle, who was acquitted July 22 on contempt of Congress charges for failing to honor a House subpoena, faces a maximum of 25 years in prison and $21,000 in fines on the new charges.

Before leaving the federal courthouse, Ms. Lavelle and Bierbower, followed by reporters, wandered from office to office trying to find the correct place to process paperwork involved in the charges.

Asked where she was staying in Washington, Ms. Lavelle said, "With friends, the few I have left."

Ms. Lavelle, who headed EPA's $1.6 billion "superfund" hazardous waste cleanup effort, was indicted last week by a federal grand jury on five felony counts.

She was accused of secretly warning her former employer, Aerojet-General Corp., that it was a potential target of a government lawsuit during a period when she later testified under oath that she had no idea the firm had disposed of hazardous wastes in the Stringfellow Acid Pits in California.

The indictment also charged that Ms. Lavelle lied to Congress last winter when she denied awarding or delaying toxic waste cleanup grants based on political considerations. The indictment said Lavelle had used an "election track" in handing out grants.

Ms. Lavelle was fired by President Reagan on Feb. 7 in an action that triggered investigations leading to the departure of more than a dozen top agency officials, including former administrator Anne M. Burford.

She has been the only official to face charges in the wake of a half-dozen congressional investigations into allegations of mismanagement, conflict of interest and "sweetheart" deals at the EPA.

The Justice Department concluded a six-month investigation Thursday with a report that there was insufficient evidence to bring criminal charges against Mrs. Burford or five other high-level agency officials. However, it said it was still investigating four other former EPA officials.

Asked by reporters whether he thought his client was being made a scapegoat, Bierbower said, "We will cover those things a little later."

Murphy rejected by military

Audie Murphy (1924-71), the most-decorated soldier in World War II, was turned down by both the Marines and the Navy because of size and age before joining the Army. His 12 medals were all won before age 20.

Salvadoran forces bomb guerrilla army near capital

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Air force jets and helicopters bombed guerrilla positions on two volcanos near San Salvador on Friday in support of infantry troops pursuing a column of guerrillas headed for the capital, an army officer said.

U.S.-supplied A-37 jets flew over the city en route to bombing runs at the Guazapa Volcano, 20 miles north of the capital, and the San Salvador Volcano, which borders the city to the west.

Col. Adolfo Blandon of the 1st Army Brigade said the bombing runs took place after government troops detected a guerrilla column moving south from Guazapa toward the capital early Friday.

He said another contingent of troops from his brigade clashed with guerrillas near the town of Santa Cruz Michapa, 18 miles east of the capital, before dawn. He said five guerrillas were killed and one government soldier wounded.

"The bombing and strafing runs are in support of infantry operations in search of rebel bandits," Blandon told The Associated Press in a telephone interview.

Blandon said the strafing attacks included runs by U.S.-supplied "Huey" helicopters.

There are periodic attacks in the capital by guerrilla bombers and right-wing death squads.

Guerrilla leader killed

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — A man assassinated in Guatemala City during the coup against President Efrain Rios Montt was a guerrilla commander apparently slain by other rebels, the national police said Friday.

A police statement said a letter the man was carrying indicated he used the code name Commander Camilo, and investigators were trying to identify him. It said he was about 40 and had seven bullet wounds.

The shooting occurred Monday when leaders of the armed forces replaced Gen. Rios Montt as chief of state with Gen. Oscar Humberto Mejia Victores, the defense minister.

Several documents found at the scene of the shooting in southern Guatemala City indicated Commander Camilo was a member of the Guerrrilla Army of the Poor, the statement said. It is one of four guerrilla groups that have joined to fight to overthrow the rightist military government.

Meanwhile, Mejia Victores made his second high-level change in the government as Col. Carlos Armando Moreira Lopez replaced lawyer Edhar Sarceno Morgan as deputy foreign minister, a Foreign Ministry source said.

The local leader of the Roman Catholic church attacked the government in an interview published Friday, accusing it of branding priests and nuns as communists because they try to help the poor.

"When the priests work to awaken in the Indian the right to be treated as a human being, to have a decent salary, a house and enough to eat, the powerful call the religious workers communists, even the nuns," Acting Archbishop Ramiro Pellecer was quoted as saying in an interview with the Mexico City newspaper Excelsior.

Chinese display skeletons

PEKING (AP) — The skeletons of 92 horses poisoned and buried 2,500 years ago have been put on display in the northeast province of Shadong, the official Chinese news agency Xinhua reports.

They were among 600 horses sacrificed and buried around the tomb of their owner, a nobleman of the state of Chi, one of five powers during China's "spring and autumn period" from 770 to 476 B.C., Xinhua said Thursday.

The skeletons are on display in Linzi, which was Chi's capital.

The tomb was first excavated in 1964. The skeletons were found lying in two parallel rows in a 700-foot-long ditch surrounding it, Xinhua said.

The crypt itself had been opened long before excavation began.

Syria says U.S. envoy should leave

By The Associated Press

A Syrian government-controlled newspaper Friday accused U.S. presidential envoy Robert C. McFarlane of "provocations...lies and distortions" in his peace mission and told him to leave the Middle East.

Druse militiamen, meanwhile, stopped shelling Beirut airport after two days of mountain fighting that left 27 dead and 66 wounded.

Al-Baath, the newspaper of Syrian President Hafez Assad's ruling Socialist Baath Party, charged McFarlane had "lost his equilibrium" and should pack up and leave the Middle East, where he has been trying to get Israeli and Syrian forces to pull out of Lebanon.

"He has changed his mission from one of dialogue to a campaign of provocations against Syria, a campaign of lies and distortion, blaming Syria for all that is happening in the area," the paper said.

"Like all officials of the U.S. administration, McFarlane does not care about wars and destruction, and always wants to see more innocent blood spilled in the world," Al-Baath said. "He has not offered one single aspect to justify the continuation of his presence in the area."

It was the first time McFarlane was personally attacked by the Syrian press since he replaced Philip C. Habib as President Reagan's special Middle East envoy.

Habib negotiated the May 17 troop withdrawal accord under which Israel agreed to pull out of Lebanon provided Syria withdrew simultaneously. Syria, which has been in Lebanon since the end of the 1975-76 civil war, refuses to withdraw. Israel, which invaded 14 months ago to rout the Palestine Liberation Organization, is making a partial pullout to safer positions in the south.

In Tel Aviv, Israel television said the main goal of McFarlane's trips between Beirut and Jerusalem is to achieve an agreement between Lebanese President Amin Gemayel's government and the Lebanese Druse.

It said, without naming its sources, that McFarlane disclosed the goal to Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir and Defence Minister Moshe Arens in private meetings, and he also told them the Lebanese were "shocked" by the Christian-Druse violence.

McFarlane returned to Beirut after his talks with Shamir and Arens, the television report said.

The Lebanese government had no immediate response to the Druse announcement that the leftist militiamen agreed to stop shelling Beirut airport. Israeli television quoted Israeli military sources as saying they were skeptical of any lasting cease-fire.

A communique from the Progressive Socialist Party of Druse leader Walid Jumblatt pledged to respect the cease-fire around Beirut and in the nearby Chouf mountains and asked the government to reopen the airport to traffic.

The facility, one of the busiest in the Middle East, was closed Wednesday and Thursday when Druse gunners pounded it from neighboring hills.

The Lebanese Forces militia, which is dominated by the rightist Christian Phalange Party of Gemayel's father, Pierre, charged that the Druse attacks on the airport and army positions were "part of a Syrian plot aimed at destroying the (Lebanese) regime."

It said that it has taken "a series of defensive measures at various levels and fronts" to cope with the alleged plot. It gave no details.

Lebanon's state and private radios said defusing the Chouf tension was a main topic in discussions McFarlane held with Lebanese government leaders before he flew to Israel Friday.

But Lebanon's government denied an Israel radio report that Gemayel asked Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin to delay Israel's rollback from the central mountains and disarm warring Christian and Druse militiamen.

Beirut newspapers said Israeli forces on Thursday entered Lebanese Forces positions in two Christian strongholds east of Beirut in an attempt to evict Christian militiamen

Yoko Ono sues Swank magazine

NEW YORK (AP) — Yoko Ono, widow of slain ex-Beatle John Lennon, is suing Swank magazine for $6 million and has asked a judge to block publication of "intimate" nude photographs she says were stolen from the couple's apartment.

Miss Ono was joined in the suit by photographer Allen Tannenbaum, who said in an affidavit that the photographs were "unique and valuable" and his reputation would be "irreparably damaged" by their publication in "the tawdry magazine Swank."

The photographs of Miss Ono and Lennon in nude or semi-nude "intimate husband and wife postures" were originally to have been used to promote the couple's "Double Fantasy" album.

But, according to an affidavit filed by Miss Ono, the photographs were never used as intended because Lennon was assassinated by Mark David Chapman before the album was released.

Miss Ono alleges that the pictures were stolen from her apartment in The Dakota on Central Park West, but Swank editor Richard Barraclough said recently the man who offered him the photographs said he found them in a trash can.

Justice Stanley Parkness granted Miss Ono and Tannenbaum an order Tuesday requiring representatives of Swank to show cause why a permanent injunction against publication of the photographs should not be issued.

Barraclough could not be reached for comment on the suit. A woman who answered the phone at Swank's offices said Barraclough had left for the day and that no one else could comment.

Firm calculates value of life

Hearst Feature Service

PALO ALTO, Calif.- When an Ohio policeman died violently at age 38, an attorney for his survivors filed a "wrongful death" claim. Seeking compensation for the family, he wanted a quick estimate on the financial loss caused by the death.

The attorney turned to Legal Economic Evaluations Inc., a consulting firm that in a matter of minutes calculates to the decimal point the economic value of a human life.

The officer's personal data — Caucasian, married, father of five and making $17,400 a year – was punched into an Apple II computer. Had tragedy not struck, the officer would have lived for another 33.6 years, worked for 23.2 more years and earned $320,720, the statistical printout showed.

The attorney could have received pretty much the same conclusion by retaining a college professor using a pencil and calculator. But the one-page analysis would have taken three weeks to a month at a cost of between $700 and $3,000.

Legal Economics Evaluations is less than two years old, but already attorneys from all over the country are calling to get analyses that cost between $60 and $150 for a 9- to 15-page evaluation of almost every aspect of the victim's statistical life.

Some of the nation's most powerful law firms have used the consulting service. The firm has worked on wrongful-death and personal-injury claims arising from the 1980 MGM hotel fire, the 1979 DC-10 Chicago jet crash, the 1981 Kansas City Hyatt Hotel collapse, Ford and GM automobile burn cases and cases involving claims of injury from asbestos and DES, a synthetic hormone widely prescribed to prevent miscarriages that was later linked to vaginal cancer.

The firm was founded by Bruce Danninger, 25, and Robert Johnson, 36, both economists who graduated from Stanford University. It has five employees, prepares 4,000 analyses annually and expects to double its business by the end of the year.

The telephones start ringing when the office opens at 7 a.m. to accommodate East Coast attorneys. The attorneys provide information about the victim's race, sex, marital status and family size, occupation, salary and fringe benefits.

From that, the economists can statistically predict how long the victim would have been expected to live, how many additional years the victim would have worked, and how much the victim would have earned. Inflation is taken into account.

"It takes about an hour to generate a report like this," Johnson said. "We can have it on your desk the next day." The company also provides results by telephone, especially in cases of out-of-court settlements reached just before a case goes to trial.

The firm's computer has been updated and reprogrammed 199 times since the firm opened. The data include figures from the U.S. Census, National Center for Health Statistics and the Department of Labor, and can take into account geographic variations and differences in state statutes. The evaluation deals with virtually every variable the attorney wants, such as the economic worth of a housewife (about $12,000 a year, according to the U.S. Agriculture Department), the working life of a woman versus a man, as well as wage disparities for the same job, and ethnic differences.

In personal-injury cases, the computers are programmed to include reduced earning power. In one case, a carpenter who injured his back was unable to lift anything over 20 pounds but could handle light finishing work. The firm was able to compute the percentage of work and earnings affected by the back injury.

One of the more difficult analyses is to determine the economic worth of an infant or a student with no work history.

Czechoslovak shot putter Helena Fibingerova is actually celebrating after winning the women's shot put Friday in the World Track and Field Championships. She also embraced a half-dozen shot put officials after the victory, clearing the shot put area quickly.

U.S. gold rush falls on hard times

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — World record-holder Tom Petranoff won a silver medal in the javelin, while Calvin Smith and Mary Decker each moved closer to a second gold by winning qualifying heats Friday at the World Track and Field Championships.

But U.S. hopes were jolted by Larry Myricks' failure in a men's 200-meter first-round heat and an injury to hurdler Candy Young.

Meanwhile, European athletes, led by the Germans, won all four golds Friday before a near-sellout crowd of 55,000 at rain-soaked Olympic Stadium.

Patriz Ilg of West Germany won the 3,000-meter steeplechase in 8 minutes, 15.06 seconds, the fastest time in the world this year; Detlef Michel of East Germany won the javelin with a heave of 293 feet, 7 inches; and Ronald Weigel, also an East German, finished first in the 50-kilometer walk with a time of 3 hours, 43 minutes, 7.90 seconds.

HELENA FIBINGEROVA of Czechoslovakia, a former world record holder and 1976 Olympic bronze medalist, won the women's shot put with a toss of 69-0¾.

Petranoff took second in the javelin with a toss of 280-10, barely edging Olympic champion Danjis Kula of the Soviet Union at 280-9.

In the qualifying heats, Smith, who picked up a gold and shared in a world record by the 400-meter relay team, won his 200-meter easily in 21.10.

But Myricks, recovering from a hamstring injury, finished only fifth in his heat and missed reaching the second round.

"I just had no zip, no bounce," Myricks said.

Among those joining Smith, the world record-holder in the 100, in the second round of the 200 were world record-holder Pietro Mennea of Italy and 1980 Olympic 100-meter champion Allan Wells of Scotland.

Mennea had the second fastest first-round clocking, 20.80, while Wells won his heat in 21.14. The semifinals are Saturday and the final is Sunday.

Decker, the 3,000-meter champion, led all the way to win her heat in the 1,500 with a time of 4:7.47. Her time was the fastest in the three heats.

In the women's 100-meter hurdles, Young was injured after clearing the first hurdle, but she could not stop immediately and crashed into the second hurdle. She tumbled onto the track, grabbing her left leg in agony.

THE OTHER two U.S. women hurdlers, Benita Fitzgerald and Pam Page, had no difficulty advancing into the second-round heats. But neither is expected to win a medal in Sunday's final.

American Henry Marsh, the world's top-ranked steeplechaser, ran a close second to Ilg in that event but slipped on the wet track, caught his foot on the last hurdle, fell and wound up eighth. He was limping as he crossed the finish line and officials bandaged his right knee at trackside before taking him to a medical center for treatment.

"I looked at Ilg, and then looked at the hurdle," said Marsh, noted for his overpowering kick. "I got a little too anxious. I overextended a little bit. I got to the barrier and then —boom."

Boguslaw Maminski of Poland was second behind Ilg in 8:17.03 and Colin Reitz was third in 8:17.75.

Steve Scott and Sydney Maree came through their 1,500-meter heats and were poised to challenge Britain's Steve Ovett, the world record-holder, in Sunday's final.

Two Mexicans, Raul Gonzalez and Martin Bermudez, set the pace through most of the 50-kilometer walk, but Weigel, the winner, was always within 12 seconds of the leaders. He closed to within two seconds of Bermudez at the halfway mark, moved into second at 30 kilometers, and took over the lead from Gonzalez with about 12 kilometers to go.

WEIGEL WAS more than three minutes ahead of his rivals by the time he reached the stadium, finishing in 3:43.07.

Jose Marin of Spain was second and Sergei Iung of the Soviet Union, third. The United States' Marco Evoniuk was in striking distance of the leaders for 30 kilometers, but lost ground and finished ninth.

Fibingerova had been in fifth place in the women's shot put until she made her winning toss, which took her past Helma Knorscheidt of East Germany, the silver medalist with a heave of 67-11.

Upon winning, Fibingerova, who missed the 1980 Games because of an injury, jumped up and down, blew kisses to the crowd and embraced about a half-dozen shot put officials.

Ilona Slupianek of East Germany, the world record-holder, was third at 67-5½.

Tina Lillak of Finland, the world record-holder, had the best throw in the javelin qualifying, 226-11.

Cubs 'Soff' soap Dodgers

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

With starters like Ken Pryce and Stan Kyles in Iowa, Jim Wright ailing and Rich Buonantony not scheduled to make his debut until Sunday, Ray Soff, a short reliefer by trade, was named as the sacrificial lamb to face San Antonio's Sid Fernandez Friday night.

Only that's not the way it worked out. Thanks to a three-run homer by Jim Anicich and a couple of homers good for three runs by Carlos Lezcano, Soff came away an 8-5 winner as the Midland Cubs made it four wins in five games before 1,220 fans at Cubs Stadium.

Soff, although he had two earlier starts, hadn't gone over four innings in one stretch all year. Friday he went seven and looked like he was getting better as the game progressed.

When he departed, Midland led 5-2.

"I don't know how far they expected me to go," Soff said. "They just said go as long as you can. I still felt strong when I came out, but they figured 120 pitches was enough. That's the most I've pitched in a game since last year."

Soff, who raised his record to 4-2 before Jim Gerlach took over in the eighth, encountered early difficulties. In the second, he walked the bases loaded, but escaped unscathed. He gave up two hits in the third, but got away with it. In the fourth he got two out, then San Antonio loaded the bases on two singles and a walk before R.J. Reynolds singled home the only two runs off Soff.

"I hadn't pitched that long before and it took a while to get in the groove," Soff said. He gave up only two hits the next three innings and the Cubs helped him out by tossing in a couple of double plays.

Fernandez, 12-3, was 3-0 against the Cubs this year and hadn't lost since a 4-1 loss to El Paso June 10. When Bill Hatcher beat out an infield hit, Tom Lombarski walked and Mike Anicich hit a high arcing fly over the left field fence for his 19th homer, Midland led 3-0.

Lezcano homered behind Randy LaVigne's infield hit in the sixth to make it 5-2 and then added a solo homer during the three run eighth that gave Midland an 8-2 cushion against the Dodgers' three-run rally in the ninth.

The win gives Midland four wins in its last five games and tonight it will be Darryl Banks, 11-9, going for the Cubs against the Dodgers. Banks still has a shot at the Cubs single-season win record, set at 14 by Donnie Moore in 1975, but Darryl will have to make the most of his remaining starts.

CUB PRINTS—Fernandez had a seven-game win streak snapped...Midland's Tom Lombarski had an eight-game hitting streak stopped, but Randy LaVigne continued to wield a hot bat. His two hits gave him eight for his last 18 appearances..."Soff had a few jams early, but pitched out of them with a good breaking curve," said manager Tom Harmon. "I was glad to see Lezcano come out of it with a couple of big hits for us. He had been struggling." Not only that, but Carlos had been thrown out of Thursday's game. Don Hyman, Lezcano, A.J. Hill and Hatcher all had two-hit nights. Both of Hyman's hits were doubles.

Navratilova continues onslaught

MANHATTAN BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Martina Navratilova continued her dominating play Friday in the $150,000 Virginia Slims of Los Angeles women's tennis tournament, overwhelming Wendy White 6-0, 6-2.

Navratilova, the top seed for the event at Manhattan Country Club, has now lost just five games in three matches.

The world's top-ranked woman player, Navratilova required only 45 minutes to defeat White.

Pam Shriver, who defeated Alycia Moulton 6-3, 7-6 Friday, will be Navratilova's foe in the semifinals.

Earning another spot in the semifinals was Kate Latham, who downed Elise Burgin 6-3, 4-6, 6-2 in the quarterfinals.

After her quarterfinal victory over White, Navratilova complimented her opponent.

Player found guilty in rape case

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jurors found one Southern University football player guilty of trying to forcibly rape a young mother last year, acquitted two others and said Friday night they could not agree on the involvement of two more.

Each player had been charged with aggravated rape, which carries a mandatory punishment of life imprisonment. District Judge Dennis Waldron told jurors they could consider five lesser offenses or find the players innocent.

THE JURY had been sequestered almost precisely 24 hours before convicting Linwood Hamilton, 22, of attempted forcible rape, a felony punishable by imprisonment for one to 20 years.

Defense lawyer Peter Castano said he would appeal Hamilton's conviction on grounds the woman had had sexual intercourse before meeting up with the five players last November — an allegation he was not allowed to raise during the trial.

Jurors acquitted Kim Ray Davis, 20, of Atlanta, Ga., and Ernest Bell, 20, of Houston.

The jury of 10 men and two women said it could not decide about the involvement of Thomas Hudson, 21, and Herman Coleman Jr., 20, both of Houston. It was not immediately known whether Hudson or Coleman would be tried again.

Crowds swarmed to the week-long trial at which a 25-year-old mother of two from New Iberia claimed the five players repeatedly raped her and forced her to perform oral sex acts for 2½ hours on the morning after Southern defeated archrival Grambling State on Nov. 28, 1982.

She also claimed Hamilton threatened to break her jaw and stole some of her jewelry.

THE PLAYERS claimed she was a willing participant who scoffed critically at their sexual performances.

Security was tight for the lone line of people awaiting awaited the verdicts. Twenty extra sheriff's deputies were on standby, to be called to duty whenever the verdict was announced.

The judge said there were six possible verdicts that the jury can find, ranging down to sexual battery. Others include forcible rape and attempted aggravated or forcible rape.

The jury considered the testimony from seven days of trial for 3½ hours before retiring Thursday night. The panel continued deliberating all day Friday before returning the verdicts just before 8 p.m.

More than 50 witnesses were called during the trial.

The woman said the players pulled her off an elevator at the Marriott Hotel, pushed her into a room about 5:30 a.m. and raped her repeatedly for 2½ hours.

THE WOMAN'S name was not published under the principle that the victim of a rape is not made public.

The athletes from the Baton Rouge school listened intently to the five hours of closing arguments Thursday, sometimes squirming with embarrassment.

Champion Redskins nip Bengals

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Washington's Joe Theismann threw two touchdown passes Friday night to lead the Super Bowl champion Redskins to a 27-23 National Football League preseason victory over the Cincinnati Bengals.

Playing at home for the first time since beating Miami in the Super Bowl in January, Theismann connected on 10 of 15 passes for 116 yards and two touchdowns to give the Redskins their first preseason victory since 1981.

The Bengals, winless after two preseason games, opened the scoring four minutes into the game, marching 80 yards in eight plays on their first possession. Ken Anderson, who hit 11 of 14 passes for 155 yards, hit M.L. Harris for 12 yards and the score.

The Redskins, moving behind the power running of John Riggins, evened the score on their first possession. Riggins carried seven times for 41 yards as the Redskins marched 77 yards in 12 plays. Theismann completed a pass to tight end Don Warren for the final seven yards for the touchdown.

Washington's Mark Moseley and Cincinnati's Jim Breech exchanged field goals as the first quarter ended with the teams tied at 10.

Anderson, who led the NFL in passing last year, hit five straight passes on the Bengals' next drive before Breech's 23-yard field goal.

The Redskins took the lead late in the half, scoring two touchdowns in 21 seconds.

On a third-and-4 from the 12, Theismann led Charlie Brown on a picture-perfect pass in the corner of the end zone for a 17-13 Washington lead.

Anderson fumbled on the first play after the kickoff and Perry Brooks recovered at the Cincinnati 15. Theismann picked up 14 yards on a pass to Virgil Seay and Reggie Evans scored on a 1-yard plunge.

Breech hit a 37-yard field goal, Moseley connected on a 40-yarder and the Bengals closed the scoring on a 25-yard pass from Jeff Christensen to Dan Ross.

Giants 22, Steelers 13

PITTSBURGH — Rookie Ali Haji-Sheikh kicked five field goals and Phil Simms rifled an 11-yard scoring pass to Butch Woolfolk late in the first half as the New York Giants used seven Pittsburgh turnovers to defeat the Steelers 22-13 in a nationally televised National Football League pre-season game Friday night.

The Giants, trailing 7-3, scored 10 points in the final minute of the first half and never trailed again in ending the Steelers' seven-game exhibition winning streak.

Simms, trying to regain the Giants' quarterback job from Scott Brunner, completed passes of 30 and 12 yards to Floyd Eddings during a 78-yard scoring drive capped by his touchdown pass to Woolfolk with 46 seconds left in the first half.

Haji-Sheikh then kicked a 33-yard field goal on the final play of the half to give the Giants a 13-7 lead.

Haji-Sheikh, whose 42-yard field goal had earlier given the Giants a 3-0 lead, added second-half field goals of 23, 32 and 26 yards as the Steelers turned the ball over four times on fumbles, two by reserve quarterback Mark Malone.

The Giants are now 2-0 in pre-season play.

The Steelers, 2-1, had taken a 7-3 lead on a 4-yard touchdown pass from Cliff Stoudt to John Stallworth with 3:53 left in the first half.

The Steelers moved within 16-13 on Malone's 18-yard scoring strike to rookie Gregg Garity of Penn State with 8:23 left in the third quarter, but Gary Anderson's extra point try was blocked.

Three consecutive Steelers' drives ended in turnovers, with two leading to Haji-Sheikh field goals in the fourth quarter.

Mavs give up Ransey for Walker

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — The New Jersey Nets have traded veteran point guard Clarence "Foots" Walker and two draft picks to the Dallas Mavericks in exchange for guard Kelvin Ransey, a Nets spokesman said Friday night.

The Nets shipped a second-round choice in 1984 and a first-round 1985 choice to Dallas.

Ransey, a point guard, averaged 11.1 points per game last season as a reserve for the Mavericks. He was drafted by the Chicago Bulls on the first round in 1980. His draft rights were traded to Portland, where he played for two seasons and was named to the National Basketball Association All-Rookie team.

The 6-foot-2 Ransey was sent to Dallas in 1982 in exchange for Wayne Cooper and a 1985 first-round selection. Ransey's best statistical season was 1981-82, when he averaged 16.1 points per game for Portland.

"Ransey is a scoring point guard and those guys are hard to come by," said Lewis Schaffel, the Nets' chief operating officer. "We're getting a guy who's 25 years old and in the prime of his career."

National League

ATLANTA — Ken Landreaux hit a two-run homer and Bob Welch and Steve Howe combined on a six-hitter as the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the Atlanta Braves 5-3 Friday night.

The Dodgers moved within 5½ games of the Braves in the National League West with their 10th triumph in their last 14 games in Atlanta.

Landreaux's 14th home run of the season came on a 1-0 pitch from Pascual Perez, 13-4, with one out in the fifth inning after Dusty Baker drew a leadoff walk. It gave the Dodgers a 5-2 lead.

The Dodgers jumped on Perez for two runs in the first inning when Steve Sax singled and scored on Rick Monday's double, with Monday scoring on a single by Baker. Los Angeles made it 3-1 in the fourth on consecutive singles by Greg Brock, Bill Russell and Jack Fimple.

Welch, 10-11, allowed five hits, walked two and fanned six before Howe came on with one out in the seventh and notched his 13th save.

The Braves scored in the bottom of the first on Brett Butler's double, an infield single by Rafael Ramirez and a sacrifice fly by Claudell Washington.

Washington singled, stole second and scored on Bob Watson's single in the fourth and the Braves added their final run in the fifth on singles by Bruce Benedict and pinch hitter Gerald Perry, a passed ball by Fimple and a sacrifice fly by Ramirez.

Astros 5, Giants 2

HOUSTON — Nolan Ryan pitched no-hit ball for 6⅔ innings and combined with Frank DiPino on a four-hitter to lead the Houston Astros past the San Francisco Giants 5-2.

Ryan, 12-5, had retired the first two batters in the seventh before Dave Bergman slapped a 98-mile-per hour fastball through the left side of the infield for a single.

The 36-year-old Astros' righthander, who has a record five career no-hitters, has allowed just eight hits in his last three starts, spanning 25 innings, including a three-hitter against the Giants Sunday.

Ryan ended with five strikeouts and five walks in seven innings. He now has 3,619 strikeouts, seven behind Philadelphia's Steve Carlton, baseball's all-time leader.

DiPino took over for Ryan in the eighth to earn his 11th save.

The Astros backed Ryan with five runs in the first four innings, striking for two runs in the second inning off loser Renie Martin, 1-3.

Phil Garner singled and Jose Cruz walked to lead off the second, and both advanced on Ray Knight's groundout. After Craig Reynolds was intentionally walked, rookie John Mizerock singled up the middle to make it 2-0.

Mets 2, Cubs 0

NEW YORK — Rookie Walt Terrell pitched a four-hitter and Danny Heep homered to lead the New York Mets to a 2-0 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

This was Terrell's first complete game in the majors and evened his record at 4-4. Terrell struck out seven and walked two in pitching the first shutout by a Mets' rookie since Charlie Puleo did it on May 11, 1982.

Mookie Wilson drove in the first run for the Mets in the fifth inning to break a scoreless tie. With one out Ron Hodges walked and took second on a sacrifice bunt by Terrell. Wilson then singled to center to score Hodges.

Heep homered into the Mets' bullpen in right field for his seventh of the year on a 1-1 pitch from loser Ferguson Jenkins.

The loss was Jenkins' eighth this year against three victories. The veteran right-hander has not won a game since June 10.

Pirates 6, Expos 3

MONTREAL — Tony Pena belted a three-run homer to cap a four-run sixth inning as the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Montreal Expos 6-3.

With the score tied 1-1 in the sixth, Johnny Ray opened with a double off Steve Rogers, 14-7, and advanced to third on a flyout. Dave Parker received an intentional walk one out late, but Doug Frobel blooped an RBI double into left field.

Pena then made it 5-1, hammering a 1-0 pitch deep into the left field seats for his sixth homer.

Phillies 5, Cardinals 2

PHILADELPHIA — Greg Gross slammed three hits, drove in two runs and scored one as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the slumping St. Louis Cardinals 5-2.

Marty Bystrom, 5-7, pitched a three-hitter for six innings and struck out eight. Reliever Willie Hernandez earned his eighth save as he combined with Bystrom for a five-hitter.

Neil Allen, 7-12, was the loser for the Cardinals, who lost their 10th game in their last 11.

It was the seventh victory in eight for the Phillies, who have won 14 of their last 18 and increased their first-place margin in the National League East to two games over the Montreal Expos who lost to Pittsburgh Friday night.

The Phillies snapped a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning off Allen.

Reds 6, Padres 5

CINCINNATI — Eddie Milner and Dave Concepcion stroked three hits apiece and Dan Driessen singled to drive in the go-ahead run to give the Cincinnati Reds a 6-5 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Milner scored twice and Concepcion drove in two runs to hand the Padres their third straight loss.

Driessen singled in the fifth to put the Reds ahead to stay and give the victory to Frank Pastore, 6-10, who scattered nine hits over six innings. Tom Hume picked up his seventh save.

The Reds scored in the first on Concepcion's single and in the second on Dann Bilardello's RBI fielder's choice for a 2-0 lead off loser Eric Show, 11-8.

O'Brien's triple keys Texas win over Tribe

By The Associated Press

ARLINGTON, Texas — Rookie Pete O'Brien's two-run triple snapped a 2-2 tie in the fifth inning Friday night and the Texas Rangers rode the combined four-hit pitching of Frank Tanana and Odell Jones to a 6-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Tanana, who went six innings in the 95-degree heat, evened his record at 5-5 as the Rangers snapped Cleveland's four-game winning streak. Jones earned his 10th save by going the last three innings and allowing only a double to pinch hitter George Vukovich in the eighth.

Cleveland starter Tom Brennan, 2-2, lasted only 4 1-3 innings before he was chased in a three-run Texas fifth.

Leadoff walks to Pat Tabler and Andre Thornton, a groundout and Julio Franco's two-run double gave Cleveland a 2-0 lead in the second inning.

Billy Sample's double and Bill Stein's two-out single closed the Rangers' deficit to 2-1 in the fourth inning. In the fifth, Buddy Bell walked, George Wright singled and Mickey Rivers doubled to tie the game. With two out, O'Brien's drive hit the base of the right field wall to score both runners.

White Sox 2, Orioles 1

CHICAGO — LaMarr Hoyt became the major leagues' first 15-game winner Friday night by hurling the rampaging Chicago White Sox to a 2-1 victory over the sagging Baltimore Orioles.

THe triumph was the sixth in the last seven games for the White Sox, who opened a 6½-game in the American League West over rained-out Kansas City while the Orioles suffered their seventh straight defeat, matching their previous longest losing streak of the season.

Hoyt, 15-10, posted his fourth consecutive victory. He allowed six hits, walked three and struck out nine while turning in his sixth complete game. Mike Flanagan, 6-2, was the loser — his second straight setback since returning from the disabled list — although both of the runs he allowed were unearned.

Baltimore grabbed a 1-0 lead in the fifth inning when John Lowenstein walked and scored on a double by Ken Singleton. The White Sox came back with a pair in the bottom of the fifth. Vance Law walked and Scott Fletcher singled. Julio Cruz bunted and all three runners were safe when Todd Cruz dropped catcher Joe Nolan's throw to third for an error.

Tigers 7, Yankees 6

DETROIT — Alan Trammell tied the score with a two-out home run in the ninth inning, his second of the game, and Larry Herndon bounced a single to right field to score Lance Parrish in the bottom of the 10th inning and give the Detroit Tigers a 7-6 victory over the New York Yankees.

Trammell, who hit a three-run homer in the third inning, tied the score after Dale Murray, the third New York pitcher, walked pinch hitter John Wockenfuss to start the ninth and then got Lou Whitaker to hit into a double play.

Lance Parrish led off the Tigers' 10th with a double to right off Murray, 2-3, and continued to third on Don Mattingly's throwing error. Herndon followed with his game-winning single.

Doug Bair, 4-3, worked 1⅓ innings of hitless relief to earn the victory.

With the score tied 5-5 in the top of the eighth, Willie Randolph reached second base on shortstop Trammell's one-out throwing error. After a walk to Graig Nettles, Dave Winfield, who hit two home runs earlier, doubled off Detroit starter Dan Petry to give the Yankees a 6-5 lead.

Blue Jays 5, Brewers 4

TORONTO — Willie Upshaw doubled Barry Bonnell home from second base in the eighth inning to lift the struggling Toronto Blue Jays to a 5-4 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

The victory was only the second in Toronto's last 10 games.

Bonnell opened the eighth against reliever Jim Slaton, 9-6, with a walk and moved to second when Dave Collins beat out a bunt. Upshaw then doubled to right-center that scored Bonnell easily with Collins being thrown out at the plate.

Toronto reliever Joey McLaughlin, 5-2, who came on in the seventh, was the winner. He worked 2 2-3 scoreless innings.

Toronto took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on Lloyd Moseby's 15th home run of the season after Damaso Garcia opened the inning with a single off Mike Caldwell. Toronto added a run with two out in the sixth when Cliff Johnson doubled and scored on Bonnell's single.

Giants' linebacker ends holdout

NEW YORK (AP) — Lawrence Taylor, the New York Giants' star linebacker who sat in the stands for an exhibition game last week while a rookie replacement drew rave reviews, ended his holdout Friday and will join the team at training camp Sunday.

Taylor, the National Football League's Defensive Player of the Year in each of his first two seasons, was attempting to renegotiate the remaining three years of his five-year contract. The Giants wouldn't say whether they acceded to his wishes or made other financial arrangements.

"It was worked out smoothly; that's all I'm going to say," said George Young, the Giants' general manager, in Pittsburgh for the team's Friday night exhibition game with the Steelers.

Taylor reportedly called Coach Bill Parcells and asked to join the team in Pittsburgh and perhaps to get into the game, but Parcells told him to report to camp in Pleasantville, N.Y., after the Giants' off day today.

Taylor was represented by Mike Trope when he signed with the Giants as their first-round draft choice (No. 2 in the league) out of North Carolina in 1981. He received a base pay of $100,000 in his rookie season and $110,000 in 1982 (the latter figure reduced by the players' strike) and was to receive $120,000 this year.

Yankees lose two players

DETROIT (AP) — New York pitcher George Frazier, who injured his ribs in a collision Thursday night, and Yankees catcher Butch Wynegar, who twisted his left ankle in the same game, will both miss a few games because of the injuries.

Frazier, who collided with Kirk Gibson at first base, had X-rays taken at a Detroit hospital Friday morning. While the X-rays proved negative, the right-hander is expected to be out of action for a couple of days.

Wynegar also will be sidelined for a few days after stepping in a drainage area and twisting his left ankle while chasing a foul pop

Aoki shakes jet lag

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — Japan's Isao Aoki, shaking off the effects of jet lag, shot a 6-under-par 66 Friday to take a two-stroke lead after the second-round of the $350,000 Buick Open.

Aoki, who shot a 68 during heavy rains in the opening round, has a two-round total of 134, 10-under-par. That put him two shots ahead of six players who were in at 8-under 136. A victory would net Aoki $63,000 and use of a new Buick for a year.

The 40-year-old Aoki, playing the back nine first at the 7,001-yard layout about 60 miles northwest of Detroit, nearly aced the 191-yard, par-3 No. 11. His 5-iron missed the cup by less than an inch and stopped four inches beyond the pin.

AOKI, WHO won the Hawaiian Open in February, carded five birdies and two bogeys on the back side — his first nine holes — and three birdies on the front nine, including No. 9, where he lofted an 8-iron approach shot to within three feet of the flag.

Aoki, who had been playing in his native Japan most of the season, flew to the U.S. in time for last week's PGA championship in Los Angeles — where he failed to make the cut.

"When I arrived last week, my rhythm was off," Aoki said through an interpreter. "I guess it was jet lag, but whatever it was, my game was sour. This week, I feel my own game coming back."

Aoki said a daylong rain that slowed play during Thursday's first round left greens soft on Friday.

"I thought I could be more aggressive on the soft greens," Aoki said. "My iron play today was very good and that made the difference. I hit it close to the hole all day."

First-round co-leaders Calvin Peete and D.A. Weibring, who started the day at 6-under, both carded 2-under 70s on Friday to fall into a tie with Canadian Open winner John Cook, Crosby champion Tom Kite, Wayne Levi and Jack Renner at 136.

Levi, who started the day even, tied the course record with an 8-under 64 on Friday. Levi's round included two eagles, five birdies and a bogey.

"That's the first time I've ever had two eagles in a round," said Levi, whose best competitive round was a 61 in last year's Texas Open. "This is only my second tournament in seven weeks, so I was just trying to make the cut."

Defending champion Lanny Wadkins and 1979 PGA champion David Graham, winner of this year's Houston Open, were three shots behind Aoki at 137 — along with Tom Purtzer and Dave Barr.

KITE, WHOSE 68 matched his first-round score, said he was playing better than he has in several months. His card Friday showed four birdies and no bogeys.

"I'm hitting the ball much more solidly," Kite said. "Why, I don't really know. Hopefully, this is the turnaround, but I'll have to wait and see."

Patty Sheehan survives Kathy Whitworth's ace

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — Patty Sheehan shook off a challenge by LPGA veteran Kathy Whitworth, fired a 2-under-par 70 Friday and claimed a two-shot lead at the halfway point of the $180,000 Henredon Classic.

Whitworth, who tied for third here last year, carded a hole-in-one on the front nine and survived a double bogey en route to a 5-under-par 67 and a temporary share of first place. It was her third career hole-in-one in competition.

But as the LPGA Hall of Famer was leaving the Willow Creek Golf Club course, Sheehan was opening her round on the back nine with a birdie to regain a one-shot lead.

Sheehan, 1981 LPGA Rookie of the Year and second leading money winner, added two more birdies and climbed to 10-under-par before her second shot at 18 backed up from the hole and she had to scramble for a bogey.

Another bogey, coming on the par-4 second hole, cut Sheehan's advantage to one shot. But a birdie on the par-5 fifth hole restored the two-shot edge and Sheehan finished the round in regulation.

Amy Benz, who just became an LPGA member last week, shot a 4-under-par 68 with five birdies and one bogey to stand alone at 6-under-par 136.

Quarterback hunt resumes

By The Associated Press

For the Houston Oilers and the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, the Great Quarterback Hunt resumes tonight in their National Football League exhibition game in the Astrodome.

The Oilers are trying to decide whether their starter should be Gifford Nielsen, formerly Ken Stabler's backup, or Archie Manning, whom they obtained last year in the trade that sent Stabler to the New Orleans Saints.

The Bucs, having lost Doug Williams to the Oklahoma Outlaws of the United States Football League, will be trying to decide between Jerry Golsteyn, their No. 2 quarterback a year ago, and Jack Thompson, whom they obtained as insurance in a trade with the Cincinnati Bengals.

Tonight's other exhibition games are Cleveland at Buffalo, New Orleans at Miami, Chicago at St. Louis, Detroit at Kansas City, Baltimore at Minnesota, Atlanta at Denver, Philadelphia at San Diego and the Los Angeles Raiders vs. the New York Jets at Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, N.J.

On Sunday it's New England at San Francisco and on Monday night it's Dallas at the Los Angeles Rams.

NFL Roundup

Manning and Thompson will be the first-half quarterbacks, then Nielsen and Golsteyn will hook up in the second half as the two teams seek to find competitive offenses.

"We want to have a starter by the last preseason game," Kay Dalton, the Oilers' offensive coordinator, said. "I feel like in these next two games, one of our quarterbacks will step forward."

Houston's Earl Campbell, one of the premier running backs in the league, will make his exhibition debut against the Bucs. He missed their opener, a 15-0 loss to Baltimore, with a leg injury. Walter Payton of Chicago, another prolific runner, will be sidelined for the Bears' game against St. Louis. He's nursing a pulled hamstring suffered in practice.

The Oilers offense will be going against a tough Tampa Bay defensive that ranked third in total defense among 28 NFL teams last season.

The Bucs struggled early against the Saints but Coach John McKay saw hope at quarterback. "The quarterbacks had a good percentage (against the Saints) and a touchdown," McKay said. "If it weren't for the sacks (six against Bucs) we would have had a total of 360 yards in offense."

Buffalo and Cleveland are meeting for the third time this year, the first two being scrimmages at Edinboro, Pa., and playing their 17th game in six seasons.

"We've gotten to know the Cleveland Browns very well over the past few years," said Bills Coach Kay Stephenson. "From what we saw of Cleveland's squad in the veteran scrimmage at Edinboro, you have to be impressed with the 1983 Browns. They are a solid football team."

Last Sunday night, when the Jets lost 23-16 to the Giants, Jets Coach Joe Walton stressed that he hadn't viewed the game as anything special, just another exhibition designed to get a look at as much talent as possible. That's the tack being taken this week by Coach Tom Flores, whose Raiders were beaten by the Jets in last year's playoffs.

"We know it's the Jets, but we're not going to turn it into a war," he said. "We will still go in with a substitution plan based on what we want to see of our young players, and that won't vary because of the game situation."

McCrory, Jones want Sugar's title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Des "The Bear" John, a roofer from Gorseinon, Wales, predicts Colin Jones will win the World Boxing Council welterweight title within six rounds.

Odds don't bear out The Bear since they favor Milton McCrory of Detroit at 2½-to-1 to take the crown given up by Sugar Ray Leonard when he retired.

John might also be somewhat prejudiced, being from Jones' hometown and one of several hundred Welchmen who have come to watch Saturday's scheduled 12-round outdoor bout at the Dunes Hotel.

There will be a canopy over the ring but temperatures are expected in the 90s. It was 92 at noon on Friday.

The two 147-pounders tried to settle the issue before and failed — fighting to a 12-round draw at Reno, Nev., last March 19.

Chances for a dead heat have been reduced. Under Nevada rules, three judges decide the result if the fight goes the limit. They operate on the 10-point-must system of the WBC under which the winner of each round gets 10 points and the loser 9 or less depending on his showing.

If this fight should end even in points, the winner of the most rounds would get the nod.

Promoter Don King, who has guaranteed Jones $450,000 and McCrory $350,000, says he stands to lose between $400,000 and $500,000 on the promotion.

Rain halts Pizza run

LONG POND, Pa. (AP) — Everybody played the waiting game again Friday at Pocono International Raceway with intermittent rain finally washing out qualifying for the Domino's Pizza 500 for the second straight day.

Unlike Thursday, when the day was a complete wipeout, the Indy-cars were able to get on the track in the morning for a practice session.

"Everybody needs the time on the track," said Indianapolis 500 winner Tom Sneva. "The rain changes the track surface and a lot of guys, including us, still are looking for a lot more speed."

The original schedule called for time trials on both Thursday and Friday, with Indy-car practice sessions sandwiched around a 100-kilometer Super Vee race today.

The two days of rain, however, have necessitated qualifying the entire 33-car Indy-car field today. They are scheduled to complete that task prior to the noon CDT start of the Super Vee race.

The fastest unofficial lap of Friday's practice on the 2.5-mile Pocono trioval was a 189.550 mph turned in by 1982 CART Rookie of the Year Bobby Rahal in a Cosworth-powered March.

Mario Andretti, the veteran from nearby Nazareth, Pa., who two weeks ago ended a losing streak of 26 straight races by winning at Road America, was next in a Lola-Cosworth at 188.386.

CART, which sanctions and promotes the Pocono race, will again bow to the roughness of that front stretch and start the 33-car field two-abreast instead of the traditional three abreast.

Consumers increase installment debt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers took on $4.41 billion more in installment debt than they paid off during June, the biggest amount since the government began keeping record in 1943, a new report said Friday.

The gain was led by car financing, which increased $1.9 billion, the Federal Reserve Board report said.

"Americans essentially are expressing their confidence in the staying power of this recovery by their willingness to go into debt and purchase autos and other durable goods that they put off buying for the last three years," said Van Jolissaint of Evans Economics Inc.

He said the credit report was consistent with other government reports for June which showed increases in personal income and in consumption, including gains for sales of durable goods. Durable goods, items such as cars and refrigerators, are expected to last three or more years and are relatively costly so they often are bought on time.

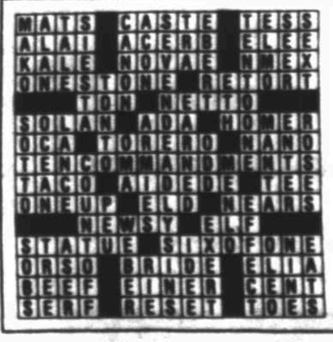

In July, sales of autos and other durables fell from their June level in what economists said was an inevitable slowing of the surge in consumer spending earlier this year.

The June expansion in installment credit followed gains of $2.69 billion in May and $2.27 billion in April.

The gain from May to June amounted to an annual growth rate of 15 percent, the highest since September 1979 when credit expanded 16.2 percent from the month before.

The Fed said the annual rate of growth in the April-June quarter was 11 percent compared with 7 percent in the first quarter and 4 percent for all of last year.

The annual rate for June's increase in auto credit was 18 percent, the Fed said.

Public complains about welfare funds being used for sex change surgery

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Since he was 5 years old, McKinzie Hill has lived with a secret: the desire to be a woman. But it's no secret anymore, mainly because taxpayers' dollars are involved.

In January, the city's Welfare Appeals Committee agreed to pay for Hill's sex change operation. His request spawned legal and bureaucratic battles that have produced legal bills larger than the cost of the surgery itself and a public outcry over the use of taxpayer dollars.

Hill feels the operation is necessary.

Life as a male is like "living a disguise. It's like Halloween every day," without a costume, the 35-year-old welfare recipient has said.

So far the city has spent more than $17,000 on legal fees for attorneys for itself and the welfare committee. The amount, Hill claims, already doubles the $8,525 he says the operation would cost at a clinic in Colorado.

On Tuesday, following eight months of legal wrangling in which the city, in essence, sued itself in order to overturn the committee's decision, Dane County Circuit Judge William Eich reversed the committee's decision, but ordered it to hear the case again.

Though Eich did not rule on whether the committee made the right decision, he said that state law does not flatly prohibit the use of welfare funds for transsexual surgery.

The city claimed in its suit that the committee went beyond its legal powers and violated state statutes governing the use of welfare money. State law requires that aid recipients may receive medical services outside Wisconsin only in emergencies.

Hill, who friends say has gone into hding to avoid public ridicule, has said the operation would be performed outside the state.

The city also contended the committee based its decision on hearsay, rather than testimony from the doctors who had examined Hill, and that mental, emotional and psychological problems should not be handled by general relief programs.

The committee said it did not consider transsexual surgery a psychological treatment, but added that it based its decision on doctors' opinions that cited a high risk for suicide and life-threatening health problems without surgery.

Eich agreed with the city, finding that the committee's decision was based too heavily on hearsay, and that a new hearing was necessary because of "legal errors in the committee's rulings and procedures."

Hill has said his money and health problems began after an adverse reaction to large doses of estrogen in June 1982 in preparation for the eventual surgery. Estrogen suppresses male hormones and allows the emergence of female characteristics.

Hill said he later developed life-threatening blood clots, a side effect of the hormone, which required two weeks of hospitalization.

The costly hospital stint, the inability to continue using the hormone and the closing of the restaurant where he worked tapped all of Hill's savings, he said, forcing him to go on welfare and seek funds for the surgery.

"I still want the surgery, but now I what the outcome will be," Hill told one newspaper. "I've been off hormones for almost a year; it took almost three years of hormone therapy to get me where I was. This is the last chance I'm ever going to have."

Hill described the effects of being off hormone therapy as going through male puberty all over again because his body is beginning to lose its feminine roundness and his facial hair is again thickening.

"I hate these changes in myself," Hill said. "It's emotionally painful when I go to the store for a loaf of bread and the clerk says 'Thank you, sir.' I'm not a sir, not inside — I'm a woman!"

Another delay involved a pending state Court of Appeals decision as to whether Eich could, in making his ruling, reveal confidential information the committee used to arrive at its decision.

Under state law, "no person may use or disclose information concerning applicants and recipients of general relief..."

Bingo may hit jackpot

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bingo — once the domain of elderly ladies who played in church basements — has gone uptown, say two aficionados who hope to hit the jackpot with a monthly newsletter aimed at the new, younger breed of bingomaniac.

The first issue of the "Bingo Bulletin" was such a success that publishers Harry George and Marie Wirth are planning to expand the next one.

"It used to be little old ladies whose fathers and sons dropped them off and picked them up. No more. Bingo is big business," said George, 39, who played his first game eight months ago.

"More men are playing, working women, too," said Ms. Wirth, 32, a corporate secretary who's sat through more than 3,000 bingo games.

Ms. Wirth introduced George, an insurance salesman and Presbyterian minister, to the land of B-10s and I-19s in December.

The first time he played, he took home the $50 jackpot. And although he wasn't quite hooked, he recognized the potential.

"I became intrigued by the bingo player, the whole mentality," George said.

Despite the skepticism of family and friends, George and Ms. Wirth began contacting more than 600 licensed bingo operators in Allegheny County, asking them to buy advertisements in the new publication. Before long, they had earned enough to finance the $2,000 cost of the first issue, a 16-page pamphlet which includes listings of game locations and discount coupons.

Nearly all 12,000 copies, distributed free at convenience stores and bingo halls in the Pittsburgh area at the end of July, were gone within two weeks.

'Hefty' Marine cannot see sister

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Carolyn Pomerene was finally going to realize a dream — meeting her half-brother for the first time, and on the television show "Fantasy."

That was before the U.S. Marine Corps informed her that her half-brother, Lance Cpl. John Terry, was 13 pounds overweight and unfit to represent the Marines on national television.

Until Terry, 19, can shed 13 pounds, Mrs. Pomerene's fantasy has collapsed under her brother's weight.

"I think it's kind of a crummy deal," said Mrs. Pomerene, 36, a geology student at Bakersfield College. "First they told him he could go and then they changed their mind — all over a silly little thing like image."

But Terry, stationed at the Naval Submarine Base in Bangor, Wash., says he will cut back on his weight to help make her dream come true.

"It would have been great" to meet his half-sister, Terry told the Bakersfield Californian.

Mrs. Pomerene's parents divorced when she was 2 and Terry was born after her mother remarried. She had never seen her half-brother, but learned of his whereabouts from relatives in her native Arkansas.

It was after watching "Fantasy" — a program which tries to do in real life what Ricardo Montalban does on "Fantasy Island" — that she enlisted the help of the program.

Strapped for funds, Mrs. Pomerene wrote to the TV show asking for money to visit her brother. Producers scheduled a reunion on the air.

However, Lt. Col. Victor Taylor, commander of the marine contingent stationed in Bangor, told Terry to cancel his plans because he was overweight.

Drug agents spray paraquat on marijuana

ATLANTA (AP) — Drug agents sprayed marijuana patches in northern Georgia with the herbicide paraquat Friday, marking the federal government's first use of the chemical in this country.

Gov. Joe Frank Harris said the operation would make it clear "that we're sick and tired of drug problems and we're going to do something about it."

The Drug Enforcement Administration refused to say where the spraying was being done, but four helicopters carrying television crews followed a copter carrying the herbicide into the north Georgia mountains in White County and eventually helped the government's pilot find the site to be sprayed.

Reporters aboard the helicopters said the spraying was limited to small patches of marijuana at the edge of Chattahoochee National Forest about five miles northeast of Helen.

The herbicide was applied "almost bush by bush," said Ed Sheahan of CBS News.

Harris said he had been assured the operation would not endanger human health or the environment. Paraquat can cause severe respiratory ailments and death if ingested by humans.

DEA officials revealed Thursday that a decision had been made to spray the fields.

Although it was the first use of paraquat by the federal government in this country, the state of Florida used it on marijuana last year.

The federal government has asked South American countries to apply the herbicide to their marijuana fields, and "in good faith, we have to do some of that here," Harris said.

Federal officials insisted that fears about accidental exposure of bystanders were unfounded.

"We're not going to get into how or when we do it, for law enforcement reasons," said DEA spokesman Bill Deac. "But I can state unequivocally that there would not be irresponsible spraying in any area. We're not talking about going up 1,000 feet and dumping it all over the woods."

About 10 guards in protective suits stood along Georgia 356, apparently to keep people from entering the spraying area, said reporter Barbara Nevins of WAGA-TV in Atlanta.

About seven small patches of marijuana were sprayed, she said.

Ms. Nevins said the four airborne television crews followed the government's helicopter — hired from Evergreen Helicopter Inc. of Prattville, Ala. — after it took off from Gainesville, Ga., about noon.

She said the news crews' pilots heard the Evergreen pilot radio Georgia State Patrol units on the ground that he was having trouble finding the site.

"They finally convinced them (the state patrol) that if the news pilots were told the location they could lead the Evergreen pilot to the marijuana," Ms. Nevins said.

The paraquat was sprayed near homes in the sparsely populated area, Ms. Nevins said. She said reporters were kept out of the area and were unable to learn if any residents were evacuated.

Harris said federal agents planned to cut down the marijuana plants and destroy them after the herbicide has done its work.

Asked about the possibility of the herbicide entering the food chain or reaching rivers and streams, Harris said, "Paraquat doesn't leach. It will not run off into rivers. It dissipates in a three- or four-year period of time."

Asked about the health risk to marijuana smokers who might get some of the sprayed leaf, Harris said, "We don't have any responsibility to those people. They do that at their own risk."

The operation was criticized by two Georgia congressmen as unnecessary and potentially dangerous.

Toy box standard to be adopted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission appears ready to adopt a mandatory safety standard for toy boxes that have been blamed for the reported deaths of 21 children over the last decade.

A vote on the proposed mandatory standard is not scheduled until next week, but it appears that a majority of the five-member commission supports the staff recommendation.

The deaths and two cases of brain damage resulted from strangulation when open lids fell on children who were leaning into the toy boxes, Elaine Tyrrell of the commission's office of program management.

Ms. Tyrrell presented the staff's proposed requirement that hinged box lids drop no more than a half-inch from an open position.

The mandatory standard is needed because only nine of the 23 companies that make the product are members of a trade association that has sought to develop a voluntary standard, Ms. Tyrrell said.

The Toy Manufacturers Association has obtained voluntary compliance agreements from 18 firms that make 89 percent of the 700,000 toy boxes produced each year, she said. But the association would have trouble ensuring total compliance with the voluntary standard, she said.

Because the agency has studied the problem for 10 years, Commissioner Edith Barksdale Sloan said the rule should take effect in 30 days instead of the customary 90 days.

'Rebel without a pause' dies

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Clarence Wesley "Sonny" Evans, whose youthful crime career parlayed itself into a trip to Death Row, thought he was merely a "character," his former defense attorneys say.

But his ex-lawyers remember him as a "punk." Few others remember him at all.

Evans — a convicted robber, rapist, former death house resident, would-be "evangelist to the hoodlums" and enthusiastic jail escape artist — died July 14 at Crockett Memorial Hospital, away from his home in the Eastham Unit of the Texas Department of Corrections.

Evans, who was 46, had spent the last 18 years of his life getting into and trying to get out of prisons.

In 1956, Elston Brooks, a police reporter for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram called Evans, who was then 19, "a rebel without a pause." During the next 10 years, Evans lived up to that label.

Evans entered prison for the last time in 1969 with two life sentences for burglary and escape after two court-appointed defense attorneys, Tim Curry and Toby Goldsmith, successfully appealed his 1966 death sentence for rape.

"He thought he was a character," said Curry, who is now Tarrant County district attorney. "He was a punk. Characters don't go out and rape girls.

"He wasn't near the character he thought he was ... (Evans) wasn't near as mean as his daddy was."

Evans was the son of a local hoodlum, Clifton Edell Evans, a Richland Hills underworld figure and gambler who disappeared in April 1955 and was found that November, bured in a shallow grave near Lake Worth with a bullet in his head.

"Back in the '50s, they had sort of a gang war around here, and they killed off a bunch of them," Curry said of elder Evans.

Sonny Evans became a familiar police character during the same time. In 1956, with a four-year list of juvenile offenses behind him, Evans appeared at police headquarters and told skeptical law officers that a "miracle" at a dance and a girl with whom he had fallen in love had persuaded him to reform.

"A gang fight was about to start. I was real glad. I said to myself, 'I'll jump right in and lead the boys,'" Evans said. "Then an act of God hit me. I knew I ought to quit this life.

"I want the people to keep their eyes on me," he told reporters. "I want everyone to know there's a new me."

News stories about the "conversion" prompted a Pecos man to solicit funds to establish Evans as "evangelist to the hoodlums." A judge gave him a job as a carpenter's helper.

Evans walked off the job after a day and a half. Five days after his religious rebirth, he was arrested on a burglary charge after a 100-mph chase with police.

After fleeing Fort Worth later that year, Evans wound up in jail in Washington and spent four years behind bars there on a burglary conviction. He was paroled in 1960, although authorities believed he was involved in other wrongdoing — including the kidnapping of a police officer.

Evans later admitted he had abducted the officer, who had stopped him on a traffic violation. He left the officer bound in an abandoned school, but not before throwing a drape over the man's shoulders, saying, "It'll probably get cold up here tonight."

Freedom wasn't in the cards for Evans. He returned to Fort Worth and pleaded guilty to a burglary charge, receiving an additional two-year sentence. Before leaving for prison, Evans said he planned to pursue a career in professional boxing and hoped to eventually enter college and earn a teaching certificate.

The only thing Evans earned after his release was another arrest in 1966 — this time on charges of raping and robbing a woman at Lake Arlington. Police said the woman's boyfriend was locked in the trunk of the car by the assailant, who threatened to push the vehicle into the water.

While awaiting trial, Evans used a rope made out of bedsheets to break out of the Tarrant County Jail, which was then considered "escape-proof."

Rounded up in Butte, Mont., after a month of freedom, Evans was asked what he thought of the jail.

"Well, I ain't no Houdini," he was quoted as saying.

'Fossil identical to Lucy skeleton'

BAR HARBOR, Maine (AP) — One researcher says that a fossil pelvis found in South Africa identically matches that of Lucy, a human ancestor who lived at least 3 million years ago, but Lucy's discoverer challenged those claims.

Ivan Suzman said the South African discovery may help fix the date of a large number of fossils and raises questions about what kind of creature Lucy was.

Lucy was found in Ethiopia, thousands of miles to the north, and Lucy's discoverer, Donald Johanson, argued that the South African find is not as old as Lucy and that the similarities between the two fossils are not significant.

Suzman, speaking at a press conference Wednesday at the Jackson Laboratory, said he discovered the similarity between the South African pelvis and Lucy during six years of study in the 1970s.

He said he was fascinated that Lucy, one of the most complete skeletons of a human ancestor ever found, and the other fossil skeleton, less complete, came from creatures that lived 4,000 miles apart.

The specimen whose pelvis matches Lucy's is called Sts 14. It was found at an area called Sterkfontein, near Johannesburg.

Suzman said his discovery will be described in his doctoral thesis, which he is writing under the direction of Phillip Tobias of South Africa, a leading authority on South African fossils.

Johanson, from the Institute of Human Origins in Berkeley, Calif., discovered Lucy in 1974. Johanson and his colleagues decided, after considerable study, that Lucy represented a previously unknown species, which they named Australopithecus afarensis.

The designation of Lucy as a new species is not accepted by everyone. Suzman said the identical match between Lucy's pelvis and the South African pelvis suggests that Lucy belongs to the same species as the South African skeleton, Australopithecus africanus.

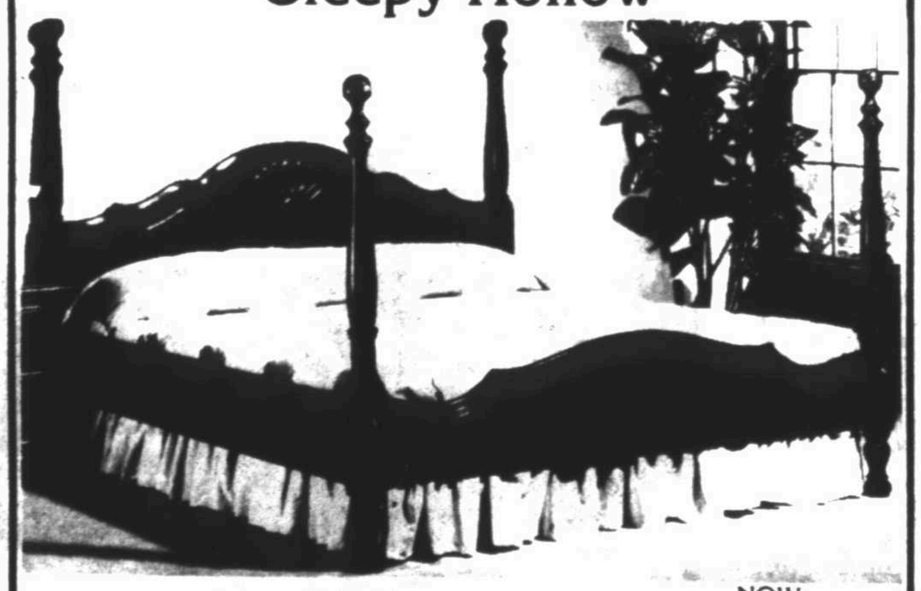

Suzman also said his finding means that Lucy and the South African specimen, Sts 14, lived at approximately the same time.

Lucy is believed to have lived between 3 million and 3½ million years ago, based on measurements of radioactive decay in the soil layers in which she was found.

U.S. armed services institute remedial training

Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — The military services are recruiting high school graduates at record rates. From 81 percent in fiscal 1981 to 86 percent in FY '82 to 89 percent for the first half of this fiscal year.

With such statistics, one may be inclined to believe that we've got the smartest Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force in our history. That may, however, be jumping to a "far-gone" conclusion.

While many defense officials and high-ranking officers cite the high school graduate rate in boasting of the success of the all-volunteer force and the effort to increase the quality of recruits, the matter needs some perspective.

Adm. James D. Watkins, chief of naval operations, provided this perspective in a recent address at Dowling College in New York. He made some disclosures which indicate strongly that a diploma today isn't what it used to be.

Asserting that the Navy, a highly technical service, is heavily affected by the crisis in education in America that was noted in the well-publicized report by a presidential commission, he said:

"We informed the commission that one-quarter of our recent recruits could not read at the ninth grade level, even though most of them had high school diplomas.

"I will never forget a family that was so excited their son was being accepted into the Navy that they all came to the recruit camp in San Diego," he said.

"They came to watch their son go through training only to see him leave the Navy after a few weeks. That young man left because he was unable to bring his reading comprehension to a level where he could read a sign like, 'Beware of Jet Blast.' Now that is tragic."

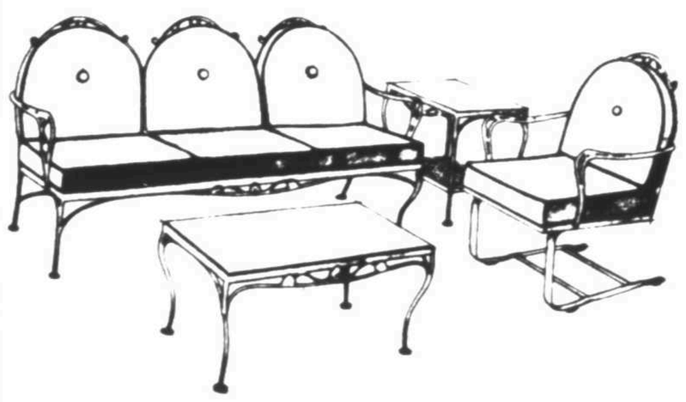

It is. And the other services undoubtedly have similar stories to tell. So does U.S. industry.

Catholic's dream is fulfilled

Married man becomes priest

By The Los Angeles Times-Washington Post News Service

SAN DIEGO — Ray Ryland is not a wealthy man, at least in an economic sense. But he can sympathize with the plight of the camel in passing through a space as small as the eye of a needle.

The eye of Ryland's needle — the fulfillment of a dream — was becoming a priest in the Catholic Church. It was a long and often arduous process, one marked by indecision and anguish. In the end, it proved — by almost any standard — an incredible journey.

Ryland, 61, is married and the father of five children. Celibacy is something that he has read about, never practiced.

Furthermore, Ryland, who was ordained as a priest in March, was not born into the faith, as were most of his new colleagues.

For 13 years, until 1963, he had been an Episcopal priest. But he and his wife were born and grew up, not as Episcopalians, but as followers of the Disciples of Christ (the Christian Church), in what Ryland calls the Bible Belt of Oklahoma and Texas.

RYLAND'S DECISION to enter the Catholic Church becomes even more poignant when he talks about what happened on the afternoon that he and his wife joined.

"On the day we were received (in June 1963)," he said, "we were so happy, so joyful. We wanted to celebrate. But we knew absolutely no Catholics we could invite. All our friends were Episcopalian."

Ryland said that his conversion marked the end of a long crisis of conscience, one that initially left him "very downcast," because — and he offered this in a whisper — "I had no desire to be Roman Catholic. None whatsoever.

"My whole career, my friends, my whole life — it was all in the Episcopal Church."

Thus, Ryland, who has taught religious studies at the University of San Diego since 1969, is sometimes asked: Why?

Why was it necessary to leave behind a community of friends, a promising career in one faith and strike out in a new and uncharted direction?

"OVER A period of 16 years," he said, "dating back to a time before my ordination (as an Episcopal priest), my wife and I gradually realized Christ had established one church — the Catholic Church — and, because we were Christians, we had to enter that church.

"It's really that simple."

Becoming a priest in that church was not nearly as simple. Ryland had sought Catholic priesthood since joining the church but had been repeatedly told by sympathetic bishops that his chances were slim to none — about like those of the camel in passing through the eye of a needle.

His break came in 1980, when Pope John Paul II agreed to grant special dispensations to a number of former Episcopalians who wished to become priests in the Catholic Church. For the most part, the men had converted because of a disagreement with the Episcopal Church's decision to allow women in the priesthood.

LAT Photo

Ray Ryland, who is married and the father of five children, has become a Catholic priest.

Ryland's conversion was not related to the controversy over female priests, according to Richard Duncanson, secretary to Leo Maher, the Catholic bishop of San Diego. But the dispensation applied, nevertheless. In Ryland's case, it allows for a waiver on celibacy as long as his wife is alive. Should she die, he would not be allowed to remarry and would be required to remain celibate until his own death.

"The rule of celibacy is so well-established that the church made these exceptions — but they're exceptions only," Ryland said. "This is not the opening wedge for optional celibacy; it's just an exception.

"SHE (THE CHURCH) has made exceptions in Europe, in Holland and Germany and Denmark, in Australia and now in the United States." (In the United States, Ryland's is the fourth such exception granted since 1980 and the only one in the Western states.)

Ryland said that he had been praying for a Catholic priesthood since his conversion more than 20 years ago; a conversion, he noted, that marked the beginning of a life "that simply fell into place" after a long period of theological examination.

In explaining his conversion, he hastened to add that he did not believe that the Catholic Church was the only church, but the only one that answers the problem of "doctrinal authority."

He said that the Catholic Church recognizes other denominations as having "church reality" but is the only church that can claim to have been established by Christ himself.

"By what criterion do we determine authentic Christianity?," Ryland asked. "The Oxford Encyclopedia of World Christianity, published in 1982, claims there are more than 28,000 recognizable denominations of Christians, all of them contradicting one another — in some instances, in very basic matter.

"The question is, is this where

RELIGION

Christ left us? My wife and I assumed God knew what he was doing when he redeemed the world in Christ, and through Christ, appointed the apostles to be his successors. We couldn't imagine the doctrinal confusion that characterized Christendom as being something that had taken God by surprise.

"WE KNEW that if God doesn't make some provision for the truth getting through — if you just leave it up to human beings — there's going to be disagreement and contradiction."

All 28,000 denominations agree, Ryland said, that somehow the truth will prevail with most of the Protestant ones relying on the Bible as the final arbiter.

"But the problem is, you have the Bible and all of these conflicting interpretations and who's to say who's right?"

In any case, it took Ryland the first 40 years of his life to come to the conviction that the Catholic Church was the one Jesus and the apostles had intended for "all mankind."

"Unfortunately," he said, paraphrasing G.K. Chesterton, "you can't put the Bible on the witness stand, ask it questions and expect to get answers."

During their period of introspection, the questions he and his wife raised "ate on us for months," Ryland said, "and we were forced against our will — no, I should say our inclination — to look at Rome."

HE TALKS about the "misinformation" of some of his postgraduate theology professors, including the noted Paul Tillich and Reinhold Niebuhr.

"I was taught, especially by Reinhold Niebuhr, that the church is demonically arrogant in claiming to stand above the Word of God.

"The church was appointed to be the custodian of the Word and to interpret the Word, but in no way is in command of the Word of God."

Ryland, who will continue teaching religious studies at USD while serving as an assistant to the pastor of St. Mary Magdalene Church, said he "swallowed whole" the teachings of Niebuhr and Tillich.

"Finally I came to the growing realization," he said, "that something was wrong within the confines of non-Roman Catholic denominations. Given the radical contradictions within them and wondering, 'Is this all there is?' I realized no one could know the truth as key points (of Christian doctrine).

"The question (of his conversion) kept popping up, and I kept suppressing it."

He looked down for a moment, then managed a slight smile.

"Either it took the Holy Spirit a long time, or the Rylands are awfully slow learners."

Workshop for ministers to be held

"Ministering to Families of Remarriage" will be the topic of a workshop for ministers and lay ministers to be held at First Baptist Church Thursday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Workshop leaders will be John Young, executive director of Family Services of Midland, and Jim Huggins, minister of counseling at First Baptist. Young and Huggins are also president and vice president, respectively, of the Permian Basin Association for Marriage and Family Counseling.

Young helped start the Stepfamily Association of the Permian Basin and has led several stepparent classes at Cumberland Presbyterian Church of Odessa as well as here in Midand.

Cost of the workshop is $10 per person. The fee includes the cost of lunch and the textbook, "The Readymade Family" by Andre Bustanoby. To register call Family Services of Midland, 683-4241.

Film slated at Foursquare Church

A special showing of the new World Wide Picture release "Jesus is Victor" is scheduled for 7 p.m. Sunday at the Midland Foursquare Church, 415 W. Alta Ave.

"Jesus is Victor" is a personal and intimate portrait of Corrie Ten Boom, who until her death earlier this year, traveled the world telling her experiences in Nazi occupied Holland during World War II. This film gives the viewer an opportunity to travel with her through 35 years of ministry in some 65 countries around the world.

The film features Jeanette Clift, who starred as Corrie in "The Hiding Place." It also features a personal friend of hers — Cliff Barrows of the Billy Graham Crusade.

The public is invited to attend this free showing.

Christian Life Center has classes

Christian Life Center has a new class for young married couples which begins Sunday at 9:30 a.m. at the center.

Christian Life Center also has a singles class that meets at Luby's at 9 a.m. Sundays for a contintental breakfast with Bible study following.

The public is invited to join either group.

Church plans Fellowship Day

Peoples Bible Missionary Church, 1201 E. Spruce St., is holding a City Wide Fellowship Day beginning at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

The church's minister, the Rev. L.L. Martin, invites the public to attend.

Bishops' nuclear war letter 'pure wisdom'

By V.H. KRULAK
Copley News Service

There was a sunburst of publicity two months ago following the issuance of the pastoral letter on nuclear war by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

The notoriety quickly subsided, which is sad because the letter contains much that is thoughtful and sound. Certainly, it is more to be respected than the shrill demonstrations across the land with their "Ban the Bomb," "Nuke the Nukes" and "Freeze Now" banners.

The pastoral letter suffers somewhat from its own weight — it is 150 pages long. But in those 150 pages one finds much pure wisdom.

It acknowledges in plain words that a nation may have to fight for its survival:

"A government threatened by armed aggression must defend its people. This includes defense by armed force, if necessary, as a last resort." And, "We affirm a nation's right to defend itself, its citizens and its values."

It puts our current world posture into accurate perspective:

"In the nuclear arsenals of the United States or the Soviet Union alone, there exists a capacity to do something no other age could imagine. We can threaten the entire planet."

It acknowledges, with careful moral restraints, the place of a deterrent strategy:

"Deterrence is at the heart of the U.S.-Soviet relationship..." and "If deterrence is our goal, sufficiency to deter is an adequate strategy..."

"If nuclear deterrence exists only to prevent the use of nuclear weapons by others, then proposals to go beyond the minimum requirements necessary to ensure credibility of deterrence at any level of conflict are not acceptable."

The letter reminds us all that the reduction of the likelihood of war in general, not just nuclear war, is a major worldwide task:

"Preventing nuclear war is a moral imperative; but the avoidance of war, nuclear or conventional, is not a sufficient conception of international relations."

Where the Soviet Union is concerned, the bishops take off the gloves. In cold candor they say:

"The fact of a Soviet threat, as well as the existence of a Soviet imperial drive for hegemony, at least in regions of major strategic interest, cannot be denied....Americans need have no illusions about the Soviet system of repression and the lack of respect in that system for human rights or about Soviet convert operations and pre-revolutionary activities."

Radiation sources operate

Some 300 electric-beam units and Cobalt-60 radiation sources are in operation around the world, according to the International Atomic Energy Agency. The manufacture of products by radiation processing amounts to between $2 billion and $3 billion a year. The annual growth rate of such products sales in the last decade ranges between 15 and 20 percent.

New loans make mortgages affordable

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The rise in mortgage rates is putting the squeeze back on consumers, but an economist for a lenders' group says new types of loans make it possible for would-be homebuyers to afford monthly payments.

"A family of new mortgage instruments is evolving," said James Christian, economist for the U.S. League of Savings Institutions.

The major new instrument is the adjustable mortgage loan, frequently dubbed the "AML", and Christian said lenders are developing ways to make the AML more attractive to consumers.

The interest rate on an adjustable mortage loan fluctuates according to a pre-selected financial index. When the loans were introduced several years ago, consumers feared that the fluctuating rate would mean monthly payments that would rise sharply and strain budgets.

Christian said, however, that "a lot of ways are emerging to hold payments stable" or at least limit the amount by which they can increase. Some states set maximums on the interest rate rise. In other areas, lenders offer loans featuring negative amortization; the monthly payment remains fixed, even if the interest rate rises, and the borrower's outstanding debt increases.

Christian conceded that the adjustable loan "is something of a gamble," but he said "the fixed-rate alternative is a pretty tough one."

"Pretty tough" means more expensive. A recent survey of 1,400 savings institutions by the U.S. League showed that rates for long-term, fixed-rate mortgages averaged 13.09 percent in mid-June. Rates on adjustable loans averaged 11.86 percent.

The difference in percentages means a difference in dollars when it comes to monthly payments. A 30-year, $60,000 mortgage at 12 percent has a monthly payment of about $617. Boost the interest rate to 13 percent, and the same mortgage has a monthly payment of almost $664. At 14 percent, the monthly payment is about $711.

Christian said the reason for the recent increase in mortgage rates is easy to explain: There is an increased demand for credit in several parts of the economy.

During the first six months of the year, the economic recovery was based on "owned liquidity," Christian said. Consumers used money they already had accumulated.

'House of the Dolphins' sold to Japanese buyer

HONOLULU (AP) — Clare Boothe Luce's oceanfront home, visited by at least three presidents and many other political leaders, has been sold to a Japanese buyer for $3.6 million, state records show.

Officials involved in the sale earlier this year of the "House of the Dolphins" refused to name the buyer or purchase price because of a confidentiality clause put into the contract by the buyer.

But according to state property records, the buyer is the Tokyo-based Blue Chip Corp., and the tax stamps on the transaction indicate the purchase price was $3.6 million.

The house had been on the market at $4.25 million.

Mrs. Luce, a former ambassador to Italy and widow of Henry Luce, founder of Time magazine, has moved to Washington, D.C., where she is a member of President Reagan's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board.

The 14-year-old house has been the scene of many gatherings of political leaders, including Reagan, Vice President George Bush and former Presidents Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford.

The main house, which offers views of Diamond Head and Koko Head that are among the best in Hawaii, has four bedrooms, a 1,426-square-foot living room, two enclosed porches and a formal dining room. The house also has a swimming pool and a pool house.

More than 200 inquiries for the property came from 34 states and 15 nations, said A. Blair Duffy Jr., a vice president of Previews, the real estate organization that coordinated the marketing and sale of the house.

Thatcher goes on two-week vacation

Thatcher

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, wearing dark glasses, went on a two-week vacation Friday after doctors said she was recovering normally from eye surgery.

Mrs. Thatcher, 57, flew to Switzerland with her husband, Denis, 68, from a Royal Air Force base at Northolt, outside London.

They will stay at the Lake Zug home of a British friend, Lady Glover.

Mrs. Thatcher's surgeon, Dr. Richard Packard, said after examining the prime minister on Wednesday that her right eye was recovering normally from Aug. 3 surgery to repair a detached retina.

CLEVELAND (AP) — President Joao Figueiredo of Brazil said goodbye to his cardiologist and left for his homeland Friday, four weeks after undergoing heart bypass surgery at the Cleveland Clinic.

The 65-year-old president and his wife, Dulce, traveled in a motorcade from the 22-room mansion in suburban Bratenahl where Figeuiredo had been recuperating since July 25. His plane left Cleveland airport about 9:10 a.m.

Before leaving Eaton House, a privately owned guest house and meeting place, the president and his wife bid farewell to cardiologist William Sheldon, the mansion staff and people from the Brazilian embassy in Washington.

Figueiredo returns to a nation troubled by severe economic problems, including 127 percent inflation. Doctors want him to recuperate in Brazil for another 10 days or two weeks before returning to work, and they've asked him to return to Cleveland next year for a checkup.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 63-year-old Japanese star of the film "Seven Samurai" and the TV miniseries "Shogun" says having to wear a heavy and "terribly hot" costume in a parade here is part of the price of celebrity.

"It is a strange, awful way of getting dressed," said actor Toshiro Mifune. He will wear the ancient Japanese hunting costume as grand marshal of the Nisei Week parade in Little Tokyo on Sunday. The costume has deerskin chaps and a plumed headpiece.

"It will be terribly hot," he said. "But this is my way of saying thank you to the public, thank you for the success of 'Shogun.' I appreciate all that you have done for me."

Grinning, Mifune said he now understands Bushido, the samurai code of honor stressing devotion to duty and indifference to pain.

GARDEN GROVE, Calif. (AP) — The 17-year-old daughter of country singer and actor Hoyt Axton was accidentally shot in the face as she drove on a freeway, but was in good condition Friday, police said.

April Axton's .22-caliber revolver went off when a 15-year-old girl who was with her examined it Thursday morning, Sgt. Ken Whitman said.

"Although we have designated the shooting as accidental, the final reports will be subjected to a thorough review," Whitman said. "I think the main question at this time is why was the girl carrying a loaded revolver?"

Miss Axton was treated at Westminster Community Hospital for a broken lower jaw and facial wounds, then taken to Rancho Encino Hospital in Encino in good condition, Sgt. Joseph Johnson said.

Axton, a singer and songwriter, composed "Greenback Dollar," "Joy To The World," and "Never Been to Spain." He co-starred in the movie "The Black Stallion," playing a father who drowns at sea.

• • •

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Crystal Lee Sutton, the former textile union organizer whose life was thinly disguised in the movie "Norma Rae," joined striking Southern Bell employees on a sidewalk here.

"I'm a strong union person," Mrs. Sutton said Thursday when reporters asked why she sympathized with phone workers. "I'm always going to take the side of working class and middle class people, and especially of women."

PUBLIC NOTICE

The City of Midland is preparing an application for additional funding under the Community Development Block Grant program. The City is requesting $818,000 for 1983-84. The proposed statement of objectives and projected use of funds is summarized below.

Proposed Statement of Objectives

General Strategy

The general direction in which the City of Midland is headed has been outlined in Objectives for Midland - the Eighties. These goals are designed on a community-wide basis with special emphasis on the targeted areas of south and east Midland. The objectives include improvement of services, upgrading of parks and recreational facilities, and aiding and encouraging decent housing all in an effort to revitalize faltering neighborhoods.

These neighborhoods can be upgraded through rigid code enforcement, rehabilitation of substandard homes, paving, drainage, demolition, and clearance activities. Efforts will be used by the City to support other projects by volunteer groups in the community that will help eliminate the deteriorating conditions. Some neighborhoods in Census Tracts 8 and 15 need extensive revitalization efforts, some neighborhoods in Tracts 1, 7, and 14 need assistance on a moderate scale, while the neighborhoods in Tracts 11, 12 and 13 need help only on a house-by-house basis.

Housing Needs

The housing needs of Midland have increased as the population of the City has increased. New construction has occurred in the City, but the average cost has risen beyond $65,000 for a single family dwelling. This has in turn pushed many low-to-moderate income families out of the housing market. Public assistance for the elderly is available but the facility, Hillcrest Manor, has only 100 residential units and a waiting list of 200. The need for public financing of lower-price housing in Midland is significant. Through improvements to streets and drainage facilities, possible development of community centers and the other needs already expressed, the neighborhoods in south and east Midland can once again become viable neighborhoods.

Projected Use of Funds

| | |
|---|---|
| Acquisition of LandExpansion of Senior Center | $40,000 |
| Park ImprovementsIrrigation System | 100,000 |
| Public Facilities ImprovementsSouthside Fire Station | 50,000 |

The spoiler.

The Civic 1500 S Hatchback is new on the block. And it's so much fun to drive, it's already giving sports cars a run for their money.

It offers special performance features like a 5-speed manual transmission, sport suspension, a rear stabilizer bar, Michelin steel-belted radial tires and a front air dam.

Plus all the standard engineering features you've come to expect from a Honda Civic. And the total economy.

In fact, the only problem you'll have with the new Civic 1500 S is deciding which color you want. Red or black.
