RUSSIA ORDERS JAPANESE TO MOVE

Business Revival Loses None of Momentum Past Week

HOARDED MONEY SEEKS BANKS WHILE STEEL AND AUTOMOBILE PLANTS RESUME PRODUCTION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (US)—The volume of business throughout the country, as gauged by bank debits, was 10 per cent greater in the week ended Nov. 7 than it was in the preceding week, the commerce department announced today.

By RICHARD L. GRIDLEY
United Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (UP)—General business improvement lost none of its momentum this week, despite substantial setbacks in both commodity and security prices, for hoarded funds returned to banks and steel and automobile plants resumed production.

Stimulated by a resumption of activity by leading automobile companies, now swinging into production of their 1932 models, the steel industry experienced its third successive weekly upturn, the most sustained advance since last spring.

Auto Industry Optimistic

The automobile industry, always sensitive to minor changes in public buying, is unusually optimistic. New automobile models already before the public indicate widespread public interest. Many manufacturers expect a greater volume of business next year than in 1931. This improvement would be followed immediately by revival in the steel industry.

The wage question again drew the limelight with the announcement of leading railroad executives that they soon would discuss pay scales with labor.

Believe Advance Justified

The reaction in stocks and commodities was interpreted variously. Some business leaders held that unwarranted speculation in stocks and commodities might lead to serious consequences. Others said a sweeping rise in prices would go a

Senator Charges France and Italy European Menace

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (US)—France and Italy with their respective satellite nations were pictured tonight by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, as presenting a menace to the peace of Europe.

The senator, just back from an extensive tour of Europe as a delegate to the inter-parliamentary conference at Bucharest, said the rivalry between France and Italy today is similar to the maneuverings among other European nations which led up to the world war.

Economic pressure, he said, is utilized to make allies of smaller nations, just as military leaders once hired mencenaries to fight their battles.

Baering Down on News With 'Baer'

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

We will soon see a brand new senate with the same old members.

The boys coagulate in December to swing off each other's lapels and chew the legisaltive beer.

You might think they would get somewhere all speaking the same language.

But they're still knotted up like a late schoolboy's shoe laces.

They open with a deadlock. A deadlock means there are more Democrats in the cloakroom than there are Republicans on the golf links.

They usually close with a deadlock. This time they are going to get right down to business and start with one.

It's the same in the house of representatives. About 216 votes on each side. So you know the only thing they will agree on this session is two hours for lunch.

PADLOCK HOME OF KELLY HUNT BY COURT WRIT

Regular Fall Term of U. S. Court Will Open in City Monday

A federal court padlock was placed on the residence of Kelly Hunt, located in Wichita county between the Seymour road and the Wichita river, late Saturday afternoon. A hearing on the temporary injunction granted by federal court was set for Nov. 21 here.

The temporary writ was granted on the application of the United States district attorney's office, in which it is alleged that the place was a nuisance. The order, which is addressed to Kelly Hunt, Marie Anchor and any other persons found in charge of the place, sets out that they be "restrained and enjoined from manufacturing, selling or bartering or otherwise disposing of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes as defined in the national prohibition act and that all persons be restrained from opening and operating such premises and from conducting a nuisance on said premises."

J. T. Bentley, deputy United States marshal, who served notices of the injunction and tacked up a notice reading, "Closed by order of the United States district court," on the front door, officially padlocked the place but left one room unlocked for the use of the owners until after the hearing of Nov. 21.

President Hoover Awaits Reaction Congress to His Proposal to Form System Home Loan Discount Banks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (INS)—President Hoover today awaited the reaction of congress to his proposal to set up a system of home loan discount banks which could "unfreeze" some two billion dollars worth of home and farm mortgages now held by savings banks, building and loan associations, farm loan banks and deposit banks.

Although he has not yet canvassed the national legislators, who must enact the necessary laws for establishment of the system, the president was confident his plan would appeal to them. It was evolved after three months of consultation with representatives of the various groups granting credit on mortgage loans.

Generally, this latest move by Mr. Hoover to relieve the strained financial situation, which is retarding recovery from the economic depression, was hailed as a distinct contribution. Institutions throughout the country have been severely restricted, and in many cases pushed to the verge of ruin, as a result of the "frozen" mortgages they are holding against loans to small home owners and farmers, and their need for relief has been evident for some time. Further, the proposed discount system would be permanent and designed to strengthen the whole home ownership set-up.

In the opinion of the president, a considerable part of the unemployment is due to stagnation in residential construction, and he believes his plan will open new avenues of work for the jobless "in the most vital way."

Preacher Who Criticised Bishop For Part in Presidential Campaign Suspended From Pulpit One Year

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 14. (AP)—The Rev. Rembert G. Smith, Sparta, Ga., who criticized Bishop James Cannon Jr., for his activity in the 1928 presidential campaign, was suspended from the ministry today for one year on secret charges by an ecclesiastical jury of the North Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South.

Twelve of the 13 members of the trial committee signed a report saying he had been found guilty of "gross imprudence and high unministerial conduct" but no explanation was given as to why the 13th member, the Rev. W. M. Twiggs, Hapeville, did not sign.

Suspension of Mr. Smith, who recently has criticized sharply what he termed "political activities" of Bishop Cannon and several other bishops of the church, was made over protest of officials of his church at Sparta. The church recently asked he be returned to Sparta and yesterday 110 members telegraphed the conference protesting his trial and repeating the request he be sent back there.

The Sparta church also sent a memorial to the conference criticising activities of "bishops, ministers, church boards, and church organs in personal matters and politics" and requested resignation of Bishop Cannon.

When the presiding elder of the Augusta district in a routine report to the conference this week said charges had been brought against Mr. Smith, the presiding officer, Bishop John Moore, Dallas, Texas, relinquished the chair to a visiting bishop, W. F. McMurry of Missouri.

Secrecy surrounded the trial.

APPEALS COURT REVERSES CASE IN JETER SUIT

Decision Says Caution Must Be Used by Speeding Ambulances

REFUSE AWARD AGAINST TRACTION COMPANY HERE

Case Grew Out of Collision Between Ambulance and Trolley in 1930

FORT WORTH, Nov. 14. (AP)—A ruling holding the drivers of ambulances responsible in case of collisions at high speed, unless it can be shown the accident was not due to lack of caution on their part, was handed down by the second court of civil appeals today in an opinion written by Chief Justice T. H. Conner.

The greater the speed, the greater the need of caution, the ruling said in effect in reversing and rendering a damage suit appealed by the Wichita Falls Traction company.

"No municipality or legislative act can lawfully authorize the use of the public streets or roads to consciously act or drive in a manner destructive to life and property, the ruling said. "The mere exemption from speed laws cannot be construed as a license to operate a dangerous agency at cyclonic speed over the public streets."

The opinion was in the appeal of the traction company from a district court judgment awarding Joe Jeter of Wichita Falls $884 damages for injuries received in a collision between a street car and an ambulance.

Jeter, a passenger on the street car brought suit against both the traction company and Albert Liemkuehler, owner of a private funeral parlor to which the ambulance belonged. The district court awarded the plaintiff no admages from the undertaking company, finding the negligence of the street car motorman to have been the proximate cause of the accident.

The higher court reversed this judgment, declaring that although the ambulance was on an emergency call, the driver was required by his great speed to exercise proportionate caution and a high degree of care.

Testimony at the trial indicated the ambulance was traveling at a speed of from 60 to 65 miles an hour and that the driver was able to see the street car for a distance of 350 feet.

The appeals court also handed down a decision settling conflicting claims of receivers appointed by district courts here and in Smith county to take charge of the estate of Paul Vitek, burned to death several months ago in a blazing East Texas oil well.

The court decided the application under which C. A. Gillian, Fort Worth oil man, was appointed receiver of the estate by the seventh district court here was filed in advance of the one in Smith county, and ordered Earle B. Mayfield and John M. Stephens, the other appointees, to turn over the properties they had collected.

Trolly-Ambulance Crash

Joe Jeter, negro, sued the Wichita Falls Traction company and Albert Leimkuehler for damages for injuries alleged to have been received in a collision between a street car and an Albert's company ambulance at the intersection of Thirteenth and Holliday streets here July 6, 1930. Jeter was a passenger on the street car.

Mrs. Pearl Tedford, who was riding on the ambulance cot and was thrown out on the pavement by the impact, also sued and was awarded $13,000 against the traction company at the third trial of the case held before Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court recently. Motion for a new trial is still pending in that suit.

Elder Sister of 'Bat Baby' Reveals Full Story Maniacal Cruelty Which Three Children Suffered at Home

By MARGARET LANE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Louise Riley, the "Bat-Baby's" elder sister, has revealed for the first time the full story of the maniacal cruelty which she said she, her brother Francis and her baby sister Edith suffered at the hands of their father and stepmother for eight nightmare years.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14 (INS)—Never in her youthful life has Louise Riley, pretty 20-year-old sister of little Edith Riley, the Bat Baby, had a beau or owned a pair of dancing slippers.

She was never allowed out with boy friends and knew not the companionship of girls until she left home two months ago.

Now with her uncle, Malcolm Annadale, she longs for good times and pretty clothes. One of the first things she is going to buy "when things are all right" is this pair of party slippers for which she has longed.

"Of course, I don't know how to dance, but I guess I can learn," she said today. "It will be wonderful having a real party dress and going to a real party."

The story of little Edith Riley, her body shrunk and her mind darkened by four years' alleged abuse and starvation in a dark and airless cupboard, has horrified the whole country. What has not been revealed is the whole tale of childish suffering that the brother and two sisters say they survived, ever since their father, Harry Riley, married a second time, and the three children were taken from their grandmother's care. The wicked stepmothers of fairy tales never behaved with such unexplained brutality as that with which the three children charge the second Mrs. Riley.

Describes Years of Misery

Louise, a frail girl of 20 who looks much younger, described their eight-years' misery in an exclusive interview with an International News Service reporter.

"Edith wasn't the only one who suffered," she said, "though being quite a baby and helpless she could stand up for herself even less than we could. We were all mortally afraid of our stepmother. Even when I saw Edith beaten and shut in the cellar or the cupboard, I was afraid to speak. She threatened she would 'fix' me if I told. I have seen her take the child by the throat in a rage and throttle her until her tongue hung out. Sometimes she beat her head against the wall until it bled, but Edith rarely cried. Mother was terrible when she was drunk.

"She had often beaten Francis unmercifully, too, within this last year she got into a towering rage and threatened to beat the life out of him. She told me to hold him while she did it. I was afraid of her, but I said 'I'll never do that to my brother.' But she threatened to beat me too, and I was terrified. I am not strong and she was very violent. In the end I had to do as she told me.

Had No One to Tell

"We never told any of our relations because we were never allowed to see them. From the time my father married her, no one came to the house. We were never allowed out of the house except to go to school, and if we were not home within a quarter of an hour after school ended, there was trouble. We had no one to tell, and we were afraid what she might do to us.

"Once or twice I spoke to my father about Edith, but he never said anything more than 'shut up.' He has lost all his spirit since he married her. He is just about as afraid of her as we are, and he hardly ever speaks. He never had any affection for Edith or me. The only one he took any notice of was Francis.

"I never knew where Edith was locked up, because I was not allowed to go up to the second floor where the bath-room was. I was always made to use the lavatory in the cellar and to wash in the kitchen. Occasionally she let me go to the bathroom at the very top of the house, but I never had hot water. The cold baths made me ill once but I was not allowed a doctor. She never gave me any advice or told me anything. All I knew about my own health was what I found out from other girls at school.

Learned Where Edith Slept

"Edith was supposed to have a room on the second floor, but after the first four years our stepmother let the room, and we did not know where Edith slept. We supposed she slept in our stepmother's room, where there were two single beds. But I found out that that was not true when I had been allowed to have a bath one night, and it was fairly late. There was no light upstairs, so I went down to my stepmother's room for a candle. I saw her in one bed and her own son, Billy, in the other. Edith was nowhere to be seen, and there was nowhere else for her to sleep. I found out later that she was in the closet off our stepmother's bedroom. She had no bed. I had a made-up bed in the dining room downstairs. It was terribly cold in the winter and I used to lie awake because we rarely had enough to eat.

"Of course I know times were often hard. My father was not always in regular work, but what money we had was spent on liquor and cigarets and the 'number game. She often used to send me down to a shop to place betting money. She would always buy a pack of cigarets before she would buy food for us children.

Less Liberty Than Child

"We were never very clean. It got to worry me because my skin was in such a state. I was 20, and had less liberty than a 5-year-old child. Sometimes I used to feel there couldn't be a God, when He could allow such things to be.

"I could remember my little sister as a healthy, normal child, and when I saw her blinking in that dark cupboard, smaller than she had been at 4 years old, and with her legs too feeble to bear her, I thought my heart would break.

"I have never been able to guess why our stepmother did all these things, unless for spite. I think she is a bit mad, and then she is a heavy drinker, too. She never knew our own mother, but I have heard her call her bad names. Once I stood up to her over it but she only shouted at me. She never cared what language she used.

"Before we went to her, Edith was a normal child. I remember her perfectly then. The fact that she is out of her mind now is not so strange as that Francis and I are still sane."

Before Harry Riley's second marriage, his three children were happy and well, living with their grandmother, Mrs. Annadale (their mother's mother), and their two maternal aunts, Louise Riley said. They lived in this way for the first four years of Edith's life, and then the second Mrs. Riley—for a reason known only to herself—went to court for the custody of the children, and won them against the grandmother's anxious pleading.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 14. A blow on the head had fractured his skull, the coroner announced, a coroner's jury returned a verdict of homicide by parties unknown.

Police officials advanced the theory the killing was the outbreak of a bootlegger's war in St. Louis.

Modica's car was found early this morning on a lonely road in St. Louis cuonty, a revolver, containing five discharged cartridges was found about 15 feet from the car. The last bullet fired had jammed in the barrel of the revolver, police said. A diamond ring, valued at several thousand dollars, was found on Modica's person and authorities expressed the opinion robbery was not the motive.

Deep Budget Slashes Help Meet Reduction in Muny Income

BEGIN TEST OF RIGHT SHERIFFS TO COLLECT FEES BEFORE INDICTMENT

AUSTIN, Nov. 14. (AP)—Test of the right of State Comptroller George H. Sheppard to withhold approval of fee accounts of sheriffs where the fees accrued on a warrant issued by a justice of the peace, prior to indictment, was started in supreme court today.

Representative T. H. McGregor of Austin filed application for a writ of mandamus to compel Sheppard to approve the account of Lee A. Cook, sheriff of Terrell county, for $143.55, claimed as fees and mileage in the arrest of two prisoners who resided out of the county. The arrests were made on a justice court warrant.

Sheppard refused to issue a warrant for the account, even though the men subsequently were indicted by the grand jury, holding the state was not liable for fees on justice court warrants.

The petition alleged the fee law specifically allowed the charges.

MANY ENGINEERS BID FOR WORK EVALUATING LONE STAR PROPERTIES

AUSTIN, Nov. 14. (AP)—A large number of engineers were given a hearing before the Texas Railroad commission on their bids for the work of evaluating the property of the Lone Star Gas company for rate purposes.

At first the commission had proposals based on per diem charges, but later asked bids for the entire project.

It was the commission's purpose to value properties of the company before reviewing appeals made by the company to the state agency from ordinances enacted by several municipalities arbitrarily reducing gas rates to consumers.

After the commission decides what a fair rate at the gates of the cities should be it can determine a reasonable charge for consumers.

DALLAS MAN SENTENCED 25 YEARS IN PRISON FOR PART IN BANK ROBBERY

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 14. (AP)—George Griffith, 51, Dallas, Texas, pleaded guilty in circuit court today to participation in the $1,200 holdup yesterday of the State Bank of Hallsville, 12 miles northeast of here, and was sentenced to a 25-year term in the state penitentiary.

Griffith, who was arrested at Moberly late yesterday, was identified by V. G. Caldwell, assistant cashier, who was the only one in the bank at the time of the robbery.

Wilson Wade, 40, Moberly, Mo., who also was arrested as a suspect, pleaded not guilty and was held in the county jail here, unable to make bond of $7,500.

Boone county officers continued a search for the third member of the party.

About $400 of the loot has been recovered.

VIRGINIA BERG

Sunday morning at 11 in a large auditorium at 807½ Tenth street an evangelistic campaign will start under the auspices of "The Church of the Air." Rev. Albert E. Davis announced Saturday that Evangelist Virginia Brandt Berg and party will conduct the meeting. Mrs. Berg is said to be a far-famed evangelist and one of America's foremost orators.

One of the main features of the "Berg Evangelistic Party" is to present old truths in drama and song, it is announced. A stage has been constructed for these Bible dramas.

The subject for Sunday night will be "Storm Warnings, or What Is Wrong With the World Today?" This is said to be a startling address dealing with world conditions of the present hour. What is the cause of the world-wide economic depression? Is it just another "hard times," or is it God's dealings? Will it decrease or become more severe? Have these times any spiritual and dispensational significance? What will the outcome be? These and other questions will be answered in this lecture by Evangelist Berg. The public is invited.

RED CROSS HAS MORE THAN 600 MEMBERS HERE

Roll Call Chairman Well Satisfied With Progress of Drive

HOME SERVICE SECRETARY HAS IMPORTANT DUTIES

Many War Veterans Receive Aid in Getting Compensation

In reporting progress of the 50th anniversary Red Cross roll call, J. Will Gray, roll call chairman, expressed satisfaction with progress up to noon Saturday. A total of more than 600 members had been signed up to that hour. The drive will continue this week until the goal is reached.

"Not the least important work of the Red Cross is the activity of the home service secretary," Mr. Gray said. A generous government has provided legislation to care for the war wounded and disabled, but these men have to prove their eligibility, and it is this stumbling block which has been largely overcome by the helpful and friendly service of the Red Cross home service secretary. Throughout the country today several hundred thousand veterans are receiving the benefits of legislation because the Red Cross helped them perfect their claims. Many are today entering hospitals, which have been provided for them by the government, after having gained entrance through the assistance of the Red Cross chapter.

"What this has meant in Wichita county during the past year is forcibly shown by the report of J. F. Friberg, home service worker in the Wichita county chapter.

Veterans Helped

"During the year ended Sept. 10, 1931, 1,504 veterans made applications for loans on adjusted service certificates. Of that number probably 50 per cent were seriously in need of the funds by reason of unemployment, sickness or other causes. Fourteen of the applicants were wives or children of veterans who were deceased and 313 applications were for pensions on account of physical disabilities, and 93 awards have been obtained for these disabled veterans. These 93 Wichita county men are now drawing a total sum monthly of $1,768. In addition there is being received by 108 Wichita county veterans $2,000 monthly in disability compensation service connected awards. Applications for hospital treatment during the year numbered 144. Burial allowances collected during the year amounted to $7,700 paid to 77 applicants. Thirty-two demands for payment on adjusted service certificates of deceased veterans were handled during the year, and cash collected for Wichita county beneficiaries amounted to $27,164.50. The statistics for the year are as follows:

50 per cent loans on adjusted service certificates	$545,322.21
Disability allowance awards received	21,216.00
Disability compensation awards received	24,000.00
Burial allowance claims collected	7,700.00
Payment to beneficiaries on certificates	27,164.50
Government life insurance policies	20,000.00
Allotments and allowances	420.00
Widows' dependence claims collected	3,000.00
Applications for hospital treatment saving to county or city for free treatment	14,400.00
Total cash brought into the county	$663,222.71

Record Work Here

"To show that this work is continuing and growing, and as further evidence of the importance of the work of this officer to the county, the following figures for Sept. 10 to Oct. 31 are given:

Sept. 10 to 20, inclusive:

Applications for loans on adjusted service certificates	$11,678.00
Awards on disability allowance claims	1,200.00
Awards on disability compensation	300.00
Payments to beneficiaries on certificates	421.00
Burial claims collected	300.00
Total	$13,899.00

October 1 to 31 inclusive:

Applications for loans on adjusted service certificates	$5,823.50
Awards on disability allowance claims	1,461.00
Payments to beneficiaries on certificates	1,000.00
Burial claims collected	600.00
Total	$8,887.50

"The value to the citizenship of the county of a trained worker, having contact with all government departments supervising the distribution of funds under the various laws passed by congress for the benefit of ex-service men is obvious."

Sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 1⅝ yards of 36-inch fabric.

Pattern 1028

For the figure that has increased becomingly with added years, we suggest this simply made frock of satin, canton crepe or sheer wool. The bodice adds a contrasting rever on the right, but you may have one on each side if you prefer. Skirt fullness is gained well below the hipline and is joined in front in a zig-zag line that is most becoming. There are three inverted pleats that give a nice, straight effect. Sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch fabric and ¾ yard contrasting.

These models are very easy to make as each pattern comes to you with simple and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern ordered.

Send for our Fall and Winter Fashion Catalog. It offers an opportunity to select smart fall and winter styles for afternoon frocks, sport models, house dresses, lingerie, pajamas, clothes for the kiddies, and accessory patterns for gift sewing. This catalog is 15 cents when ordered alone. Catalog and pattern together, 25 cents. Address all mail and orders to Record News Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

REALTORS ENDORSE PRESIDENT'S PLAN HOME LOAN BANKS

Local Real Estate Board Advises Hoover of Endorsement

PLAN DEVISED TO AID SMALL HOME OWNERS

System Will Relieve Pressure on Owners and Mortgage Holders

Members of the Wichita Falls Real Estate board formally endorsed President Hoover's plan for home loan banks, at a meeting Saturday morning.

Notice of the board's endorsement was forwarded to the president in a telegram signed by W. S. Curlee, executive secretary of the board. Mr. Curlee's telegram follows:

"The Wichita Falls Real Estate board endorses your home loan bank plan as being one of the most far-reaching and important steps offered to assist home ownership.

"Your announcement will bring encouragement to thousands whose inherent desire is to own a home and the plan will make real estate mortgage securities more liquid and in time assure a greater volume of money available for home building."

Action of the real estate board followed announcement by President Hoover Friday that he would propose to congress a system of home loan banks as a part of his anti-depression program.

President's Plan

Under the president's proposal, which will be submitted to congress at the December session, a system of 12 banks, one for each of the federal reserve districts will be established. These will be supervised by "a federal home loan board" with headquarters in Washington. Each bank is to have an initial capital of from $5,000,000 to $30,000,000, depending on the requirements of the district. The banks will conduct no original business but shall be restricted to rediscounting mortgages held by such institutions as building and loan associations, savings banks, deposit banks and farm loan banks. Mortgage loans eligible for rediscount shall not exceed $15,000 under the president's plan. Real estate men regarded the last provision as important in that it showed the president's intention to help the small home-owner and the man with the suburban bungalow.

EVERYTHING OKAY NOW WRITES PRISONER WHO ESCAPED ARKANSAS JAIL

ROCHESTER, Minn., Nov. 14. (AP)—"Everything's okay," wrote an Arkansas man in telling local police how he escaped from their jail and today they answered southward, "Everything's okay here, too."

Forgiveness has gone to John Wydick, Forrest City, Ark., because, they said, of his letter telling he had been acquitted at Little Rock of a federal charge of transporting a stolen automobile.

A handy window and excitement of a big conventon here brought his exit two months ago. The urge to be free of the charge then brought surrender and trial, he said.

"So while I gave your police a bad reputation for having a jail break," he wrote, "I really saved the government some railroad fare to get me back home. And now that I'm free, well, everything's okay."

SANTA FE AUTHORIZED TO DISCONTINUE TRAINS COLEMAN TO BROWNWOOD

AUSTIN, Nov. 14. —The Texas railroad commission today authorized the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway company to discontinue is passenger trains Nos. 77 and 78 between Coleman and Brownwood, effective Nov. 29.

It announced a hearing for Nov. 20 on the same company's application for permission to discontinue its passenger trains Nos. 27 and 28 between Cleburne and the Texas-Oklahoma state line. The railroad alleged revenues of the trains were insufficient to pay the "out-of-pocket cost of operation."

NEW BUICK MODELS ON DISPLAY HERE SATURDAY

Several hundred motorists inspected the 1932 Buick models at the Fritz Motor company showroom, Eleventh and Scott, Saturday, the first day on which the new cars were shown to the public, according to D. L. Fritz, president.

The local dealers have one of the new small Buick 8 sedans, the price range of which starts at less than $1,000, f. o. b. the factory, and two sedans in the larger models.

Buick Improvements

By ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

FLINT, Mich., Nov. 14.—First intimation of what the 1932 automobile will be like comes Saturday with the introduction of the new Buicks.

Most significant innovation in this automobile is what the manufacturer calls "wizard control." This is a vacuum-operated automatic clutch, also affording a safe and positive form of free wheeling.

By slight pressure on a button beside the regular clutch pedal, and release of the accelerator, the clutch is thrown out and the car put into free wheeling. Pressure on the accelerator, even with the button still depressed, will immediately throw the clutch in. The same action will result from release of the button, even with the accelerator untouched.

So slight is the force needed to operate the "wizard control" button that the manufacturers believe many drivers, especially women, will use this instead of the heavier clutch pedal for all their driving.

More Streamline

Next in importance to this innovation is Buick's new appearance, tending more toward reduction of wind resistance and affording a sleekier, speedier-looking job. For this effect, the radiator has been heightened and narrowed down at the bottom, while the outer sun-visor has been replaced by a sun-shield that can be manipulated to hide the sun from in front or at the side.

The windshield, too, has a smarter slope and its lines flow forward into the horizontal lines of the body. The front fenders have a longer, fuller sweep, the headlights are streamlined and the rear of the body is finished off to give the entire car more speed and length in appearance, besides helping reduce wind resistance.

For greater comfort, Buick has installed a "ride regulator" which regulates the shock absorbers for the different types of road encountered to make riding more easy for the passengers.

A further improvement is the vacuum pump operated windshield wiper, which keeps the wiper going no matter what the strain on the engine, since it is made to operate independently of the manifold.

Easier for Driver

Inside the appearance is enhanced considerably with comfort and at the same time driving control is made easier by setting all instruments directly in front of the driver so he can see them through an arc of the three-spoked steering wheel.

Besides these major improvements, the Buick engineers have added refinements to almost every important part of the car, to the syncro-mesh transmission, the clutch, the oil cooler, the carburetor, the fuel line, the differential, the springs, and the entire body itself.

The engine is still the eight-in-line overhead valve type, but either a normal or a high compression head will be afforded the new buyer for the same price. There are advantages in either type, although the engineers point to the greater power, high speed and quicker pickup of the high compression engine with the necessary use of the more costly anti-knock gasoline and special type spark plugs.

There will be 26 models in four series, of which eight will be entirely new. The most appealing innovation is the five-passenger coupe on the 118-inch and 114-inch wheelbases.

And all this will be presented at prices as much as $100 below those of the 1931 Buicks.

RUTH BRYAN OWEN MAKES SHORT STOP IN STAMFORD

STAMFORD, Texas, Nov. 14.—Ruth Bryan Owen stopped here for a few minutes Saturday, on her way to Abilene. She talked freely on politics and was particularly pleased with the prospect of John Garner being the next speaker, adding "we think a lot of him in congress."

When asked about Hoover, his future, or his present policies, she adroitly side-stepped the question. She was very optimistic over he outlook for a Democratic victory next year. Mrs. Owen spoke here 11 years ago. Her father spoke here twice on lecture tours.

REFUSE PERMIT TO CONSTRUCT BRANCH GULF WEST TEXAS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—Refusal of the application of the Gulf and West Texas railway for permission to build 59 miles of lines in Kendall and Gillespie counties, Texas, was recommended to the Interstate Commerce commission today by Ralph R. Molster, examiner.

The commission was asked to require further efforts to reach an agreement on the construction. Rejection of the application was proposed without prejudice to the filing of another should the owners of the Fredericksburg and Northern refuse to accept a fair commercial value for their line.

The proposed line would connect with the Kerrville branch of the San Antonio and Aransas Pass. Both companies are controlled by the Southern Pacific.

It would parallel the Fredericksburg and Northern railway. The application was filed because the Southern Pacific could not come to an agreement with owners of the Fredericksburg and Northern as to a purchase price for that line. The Southern Pacific through its subsidiaries, offered $200,000 for the road, but its owners wanted $350,000.

Survivors of Motor Ship Crew Rest and Recount Experiences While in Storm-Tossed Open Boat

COLON, Panama, Nov. 14. (AP)—Eleven survivors of the crew of the motor ship Baden-Baden which foundered off the Colombian coast Monday, rested today and recounted the experience of three days and nights in a storm-tossed open boat, facing starvation.

Twenty minutes after the freighter went down and they had seen a second lifeboat overturn carrying five of their comrades to their deaths, the 11 heard the comforting drone of an airplane, they said.

Cheered by the prospect of a quick rescue, they momentarily forgot they had but little food and no water, as the Baden-Baden sank so quickly they scarcely had time to clear ship. Two cans of beans and cheese and a single banana comprised their rations.

Begin to Despair

But when hours wore into days and they had parceled out the last of their rations, when chills and fever spread among the occupants of the boat and they found themselves fighting a losing fight against the seas which swept over their craft, they began to despair.

Capt. Hewitt Walters, Mobile, Ala., recovering at Colon hospital from severe injuries suffered when a timber struck him just as he was leaving the sinking freighter, said he had endeavored to keep hope alive among his men by assuring them they must have been seen by the plane and that rescue surely was on the way.

When they were finally sighted by the United States minesweeper Swan yesterday, the weary, starving men dropped to their knees and thanked God for saving them, Captain Walters said.

They were given warm food and dry clothing. The minesweeper's crew slept on deck, giving the Baden-Baden's survivors their berths. After a difficult return trip through the pounding seas, the rescue ship docked here last night and the 11 men were landed.

They confirmed earlier reports that Hans J. Lau and Adolph Schoenck, owners of the Baden-Baden, were among the five lost.

GRANDI TO GO TO WASHINGTON FROM STEAMER

STORMS AT SEA DELAY MINISTER'S ARRIVAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—Without putting a foot on New York soil, Foreign Minister Dino Grandi will go direct from his ship to Washington Monday to begin his momentous conversations with President Hoover.

He will be taken from the liner at quarantine and will entrain for the capital from New Jersey.

Major William F. Deegan, chairman of the mayor's reception committee, said a change in plans was necessary because of the expected lateness of the foreign minister's arrival.

The Conte Grande, which is bringing Grandi, his wife and six Italian experts to this country, originally was scheduled to dock at 9 a. m. Monday.

Receptions Plans Altered

Plans for a typical reception were altered when it was stated Grandi wished to begin his discussions of world problems with the president as soon as possible.

The ship was delayed by storms and at noon today docking time was posted as 2 p. m. Monday. That brought the further change.

This afternoon the Lloyd Sabaudo line said the liner was picking up speed and would be in by 1 p. m. Monday at the latest and even earlier if good weather continued.

The first formal message of welcome was dispatched by radio today by Secretary of State Stimson. He told the Italian minister "The nation is prepared to welcome you as its honored guest."

Grandi will spend several days in New York after visiting Washington and will be received by Mayor Walker then.

Grandi is coming with a five-point program for discussion and with the full backing Premier Mussolini. World economic cooperation, disarmament by a fair method, maintenance of the gold standard, peace treaty reservation and war debts and reparation will be the chief subjects of the international conference.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—Anti-Fascist leaders today called a meeting here Monday to protest against the American government's reception to Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy.

Representatives of committees formed in Boston, Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore and Washington, in opposiion to the Italian statesman's visit, will attend.

The committee today established headquarters in a local hotel for the duration of Signor Grandi's visit to Washington.

GOVERNMENT CAMPAIGN FOR FORCED MORALITY DRAWS TEXAS PROTEST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (US)—The treasury's campaign for forced morality and abstinence along the Mexican border by closing the border at night, today drew protests from several Texas cities.

Chambers of commerce, merchants, mayors, county judges and police chiefs from Eagle Pass, Brownsville, Laredo, Roma and Zapata, presented a petition asking that the border ports be kept open from 6 a. m. to midnight.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman said he would investigate.

PRESIDENT STARTS WORK ON MESSAGE

that he can begin work on the budget measure.

It was learned that he will recommend to congress first the immediate approval of the moratorium. As it must be ratified by Dec. 15, if it is to become effective, and congress meets Dec. 7, only one week is allowed for action. With a fight for reorganization of the house imminent, the president will urge expedition.

Home Loan Banks

He will then take up his recommendation for the establishment of a home loan discount banking system, urging that it will go a long way toward encouraging domestic recovery from the decline and give work to thousands now idle because of stagnation in home construction.

He will refer only generally to plans for dealing with the $2,000,000,000 deficit and taxation. This will be analyzed in great detail in the budgetary measure which will be submitted at the same time as his regular message, but read the following day.

Finally, the president is expected to follow his previous recommendation of American adherence to the League court. However, in view of existing conditions, it is understood that he will do little more than again drop the proposal in the lap of the senate. He is expected to recommend American cooperation with the League of Nations in dealing with such matters as the conflict between China and Japan in Manchuria, which so far have been unsuccessful.

Wichita Falls Symphony Orchestra Ready Start Intensive Rehearsals For Auditorium Concert December 1

Rehearsals for the elaborate concert to be presented at the Memorial auditorium Dec. 1 will become frequent and intensive beginning Sunday afternoon and continuing until the date of the performance, according to Ethel Allen Nelson, conductor of the Wichita Falls Symphony orchestra.

Miss Constance Ferguson of Amarillo, eminent Texan danseuse who is to provide a miniature ballet for the event, will be here Sunday afternoon to attend a rehearsal of the orchestra to be held at the Academy of Mary Immaculate. Miss Ferguson and Mr. Nelson will study together the adaptation of her dances to the ballet music recently written by the latter for the coming concert.

Vocal elements in the harmonic background for the "Flower Dance" are to be in charge of A. H. Mahaffey of the Mahaffey Voice and Piano studios here, it was announced. An ensemble of probably eight female and six male voices will be used in support of Mrs. Pearl Calhoun Davis, soloist, and the orchestra. Choral sections, the orchestra, and the soloist join the members of the ballet in depicting the surrender of the flowers to winter, and their quick rejuvenation with the return of spring.

Orchestration of the new Nelson composition has been completed, and has been afforded several rehearsals. The orchestra now represents a much more complete instrumentation than at any other time in its history, according to its director. A woodwind section has been materially strengthened by the addition of several clarinets, and instead of one flute, as formerly, the organization now has three capable performers in that section.

Two well-known musicians, not formerly active with the orchestra, have assumed important roles for this season. Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, teacher of piano, accompanist and coach in the Mahaffey studios, and musical director at the First Presbyterian church, is pianist with the orchestra, and Jack McWilliams of Burkburnett now presides over the kettle drums.

Aside from the varied presentation of Mr. Nelson's "Flower Dance," the program will include selections by the Court Fiddlers, solos by Mrs. Davis and Arthur Davis, violinist, and solo dances by Miss Ferguson.

Upon its last appearance at the Memorial auditorium, two years ago, the symphony orchestra was greeted by almost a capacity audience. An equal response to the announced program is anticipated for the Dec. 1 concert.

PADLOCK HOME OF KELLY HUNT HERE

Mr. Bentley was accompanied by William R. King, federal prohibition officer; A. Y. Tevepaugh, deputy constable, and A. L. Stubblefield and Fred Stengel, city officers. The officers brought back a half-gallon of whisky which they said had been found on the premises.

Charges of sale and possession of liquor and operation of a nuisance were filed against Hunt in federal court last July following a raid by dry agents, city and county officers. These charges will be presented to the next federal grand jury, officers said Saturday night.

Hunt is also under a burglary indictment in Archer county in connection with the robbery of the Dundee bank last January, when a safe weighing 4,500 pounds was carried away by thieves. The safe has never been recovered.

The regular November session of federal court of the northern district of Texas will open in the 89th district courtroom here Monday with Judge William Hawley Atwell on the bench.

Judge Atwell will impanel the grand jury Monday and the inquisitors will immediately go into secret session. Trial of criminal cases will start Nov. 23, and more than 100 cases, mostly for violations of the national liquor laws, will probably be presented for trial.

Civil suits will be taken up immediately after the grand jury has been impaneled.

Judge Atwell opened a special term here last Monday which lasted only two days for the hearing of an involuntary petition of bankruptcy against the Bank of Crowell. The court declared the bank insolvent.

BUSINESS REVIVAL HOLDS MOMENTUM

long way toward restoration of normal conditions without disastrous liquidation.

In most quarters the recent rise in prices was considered justified. Whether or not the advance should continue further was a matter of conjecture. It generally agreed, however, that the rise was the most stimulating development in the business situation since the start of the year.

Southwest Business Review

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 14. (UP)—Although many millions of dollars has been added to potential wealth of merchants, oil men and farmers, due to rising prices, no material affect on business has been noted, the federal reserve research department reported his week.

Wheat prices displayed reactionary tendencies as compared to those of the past few weeks. Most grain men here were of the opinion that wheat was due for a set-back.

Missouri's bumper corn crop was estimated at 171,668,0000 bushels by the United States department of agriculture, almost twice that harvested last year.

Attention was also centered on the American Petroleum institute meeting at Chicago which indorsed a protective tariff on foreign oil. This was met with acclaim by Mid-Continent oil leaders.

Livestock Industry

The livestock industry was mostly steady. Choice fat cattle made the best showing, while hog prices sagged to lowest levels since 1908. Movement of Texas calves and steers into the Kansas short grass lands for winter feeding was under way.

New bookings of flour sales by southwestern mills averaged 125 per cent of capacity, compared with 95 per cent for the preceding week and 66 per cent for the corresponding period last year. Prices were 12 to 25 cents a barrel higher and sales ran generally in lots of 2,000 barrels or less.

After a 10-day tour of the southwestern states, M. H. Cahill, president of the M-K-T railroad said the district was showing definite trends of real emergence from the depression. He further stated that wholesale and retail trade will be stimulated as soon as the large quantities of wheat, cotton and livestock of the district start moving to market and the money is put into circulation. Cahill is now in New York.

The local federal reserve bank reported a heavy expansion of credits from member banks.

British Exports Drop

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (US)—After declining for two months, British exports of iron and steel products rose 19,637 tons to a total of 188,812 tons during October, the commerce department announced today.

Amarillo Mayor Sees Agreement For Lower Rate

AMARILLO, Texas, Nov. 14. (AP)—Mayor Ernest O. Thompson said today that negotiations under way between the city commission and officials of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, looking toward a renewal of the company's franchise, would provide lower rates.

"Newspapers down state got the impression that the city was whipped in the recent telephone fight in which a large number of telephones were disconnected," Mayor Thompson said. "Nothing could be farther from the truth.

"Telephone company officials came to us and announced openly at the city commission meeting Tuesday night that they would give us a 'satisfactory settlement' if we would negotiate on the renewal of their franchise. We announced at the beginning of the fight that nothing short of lower rates would be satisfactory to us. There was no other issue in the telephone fight, and if their offer to make an agreeable settlement doesn't involve lower rates we have been misled."

Mayor Thompson said company officials had agreed to send counsel here within 10 days or two weeks to work with the city commission on the new franchise.

COLUMBUS HAILE DIES AT ST. LOUIS

Long Railroad Experience

When Columbus Haile was elected president of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad in December, 1926, he had behind him an experience of 46 years as a railroad man.

It was said that few men ever assumed the presidency of a railroad better prepared for his particular job that was Mr. Haile. He had served as a general officer of the "Katy" lines 35 years, during 20 of which he had been vice president in charge of traffic.

He held that position during the "Katy's" rejuvenation and period of greatest development, which began with the election of Charles E. Schaff as president in 1912. He acquired an extensive knowledge of railroad conditions in the Southwest and was regarded as an authority on traffic problems in that section of the country.

Except for the period of federal control during the world war, when he served as traffic manager of the "Katy" and Frisco lines north of the Red river, Mr. Haile served continuously as the ranking traffic officer of the M. K. and T, until his election to the presidency.

Mr. Haile began his long railroad career in Texas as a clerk for the Houston and Texas Central railway in 1880. He had grown to young manhood in Virginia where, after completing his education, he became a teacher in a small country school. At the end of one term he decided that Texas and railroading offered better opportunities than Virginia and teaching.

Four Years With I. & G. N.

In 1881 he went with the International and Great Northern railroad, remaining four years, then served a similar period with the Texas Traffic association. Appointed assistant general freight agent of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas in 1889, he was promoted to general freight agent two years later and served in that capacity five years. In June, 1896, he became a member of the board of administration of the Southwestern Traffic association, but a year later returned to the "Katy" as freight traffic manager and continued in that capacity until 1907, when he was chosen vice president and placed in charge of traffic.

As the chief executive of the "Katy," Mr. Haile followed no fixed rules in the operation of the railroad, but rather relied upon his long and varied experience to solve problems as he was confronted by them. Of his policies, a close associate once said: "He depends upon the prevailing circumstances and maps his course by the necessities of the occasion."

Mr. Haile was born at Carlowville, Ala., Sept. 8, 1860. When he was a boy his family moved to a plantation near Staunton, Va. The son was educated at Staunton Male academy, Hampton-Sidney college and the University of Virginia. He was 19 when he was engaged as a country school teacher at $25 a month.

On Dec. 25, 1883, Mr. Haile married Miss Tempe Perry of Palestine, Texas. They had three children.

FOUR CANDIDATES WURZBACH SEAT

was forecast Friday by Mrs. Florence T. Griswold, Republican national committeewoman from Texas who also predicted that he would receive the indorsement of the committeemen from the 14th district when they meet here Tuesday.

The other announced candidates are Democrats. They are:

Carl Wright Johnson, San Antonio attorney.

Thomas Smiley, county judge of Karnes county.

Richard M. Kleberg, ranchman and lawyer, of Corpus Christi.

One other candidate may be entered by a faction of San Antonionians who are opposed to Johnson. A meeting to discuss a possible candidate was scheduled for Sunday.

Meanwhile, in accordance with the governor's proclamation designating Nov. 24 as the date for the special election, County Judge William A. Wurzbach has fixed next Thursday at noon as the final hour for the filing of applications by candidates for places on the ticket. Johnson is the only candidate to have filed his application to date, it was said.

Republican county leaders who, with Herman C. Ingenheutt of Comfort, district Republican chairman, will attend the caucus to be held in the St. Anthony hotel Tuesday morning will include:

J. M. Elders, Karnes City; D. R. Locher, Corpus Christi; Raymond Mullen, Taft; A. W. C. Bergfeld, New Braunfels; H. E. Crofts, Marble Falls; Emil Brietzke, Seguin; Fred A. Bracht, Rockport; E. H. Hunt, Beeville; John W. Reece, Floresville, and Dr. John B. Albright, San Antonio.

SOVIET PURCHASES IN U. S. SHOW DECREASE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14. (US)—Purchases made by the Soviet government in the United States for the first 10 months of this year amounted to $49,400,000, or 52 per cent less than the purchases over the same period last year.

These figures were made public today by the Amtorg Trading corporation through its San Francisco representative.

HUSBAND ATTACKS WIFE'S PARTNER

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 14. (AP)—Angered because his wife was winning over him at bridge last night, Lewis C. Bryan threatened her and then stabbed Michael C. Wilcoxson, her partner, who interfered, police said today.

Wilcoxson, wounded twice, once near the heart, was recovering in a hospital. Bryan was charged with assault with a dealy weapon, on a complaint signed by Wilcoxson's 18-year-old daughter.

RUSSIA ORDERS JAPS TO VACATE

on the way to Mukden by way of Newchang, after secretly leaving the Japanese concession at Tientsin.

It was also reported that Prince Kung, of an ancient Manchu dynasty, was to be proclaimed head of independent Manchuria. Neither report, for obvious reasons, could be confirmed in Japanese circles.

Keeping in Close Touch

PARIS, Nov. 14. (AP)—Indications that the United States is playing a strong part behind the scenes in effecting peace in Manchuria were seen today in the activity of Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, who came here at the direction of President Hoover to act as an observer at the council of the League of Nations.

General Dawes conferred this morning with Foreign Minister Aristide Briand who, as chairman of the council, is in direct charge of peace negotiations.

Tomorrow noon he will talk with Dr. Alfred Sze, China's delegate to the League of Nations, who will arrive in the morning from Geneva.

Close contact, it was learned, is being maintained by General Dawes, the American embassy and Washington.

Although there were no indications tonight what steps the council may take when it meets Monday, observers were hopeful something definite might develop by Tuesday at latest.

One suggestion was that a scheme might be worked out under which the Japanese troops would withdraw to their treaty zone while an international group shared with China the responsibility for Japanese lives and property in the evacuated area.

Chinese Pressing Ahead

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Nov. 14. (AP)—Chinese and Japanese troops fought a battle at Kaiyuan, within 75 miles of Mukden, in which 40 Chinese were killed, the Japanese headquarters announced today.

The same announcement told of a skirmish between outposts in the Nonni river area in which two Japanese were slain.

Reports from the Nonni indicate the Chinese are pressing ahead with their attempt to turn the right flank of the Japanese army. They have succeeded in establishing positions five miles east and southeast of the Japanese line.

In Mukden considerable importance was attached to the Tokyo government's demand that Gen. Mah Chan-Shan get out of Tsitsihar by Nov. 25. This was taken as proof that the government is fully backing up the attitude of the Japanese military leaders in Manchuria.

Under auspices of the Manchuria Young Men's associations the Japanese community of Mukden will hold a demonstration tomorrow to declare that the League of Nations shall not weaken the Japanese position in Manchuria.

Mukden was placarded tonight with demonstration slogans, of which "No evacuation and reinforcements from Japan" was typical.

At Japanese headquarters it was said information had been received that Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed governor of Manchuria, has sent out agents to destroy bridges on the Mukden-Antung railway and thus interfere with shipments of reinforcements from Japan.

Mexico Radio Stations Expected To Play Havoc With Broadcasting With No Remedy State Officials

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. (INS)—Mexican radio raids are going to play havoc with American broadcasting in the next 12 months, and there is no way short of force to stop them.

This was the measured conclusion of federal radio commission officials today as complaints against the new Mexican 75,000 watt station XER at Villa Acuna poured into the commission.

And XER will be far from the only American unit "shooting" from the other side of the border in the future. Ten other stations are to be constructed, the commission learned.

When completed, these 11 stations will prove an effective blanket for American stations in the South and Southwest, operating as they will, on whatever frequency suits the fancy of Mexican officials. Commission engineers reported they expected the new Mexican stations to use between 10 and 25,000 watts power, and interfere with American broadcasting as far north as the Canadian border.

About all this the federal government can do nothing unless it resorts to force, in the opinion of the radio commission. Mexico has no broadcasting treaty dividing channels with the United States, and there are no laws to prevent Mexico using the same channels American stations use.

"It is a situation where things are in bad shape now, and getting rapidly worse, with no prospect of improvement," according to an engineering expert of the commision who refused to allow use of his name.

"Broadcasters in the United States are simply in for a bad time of it, and will have to 'take it on the chin,' so to speak. I see nothing that can be done."

METHODISTS FLAY TRAFFIC IN LIQUOR

session were reached today when the board of missions reported a deficit of approximately $3,000 which was needed to meet immediate needs. Much of the money alloted to the board goes to supplement salaries of missions and circuit preachers.

The board reported many of these preachers this year received less than $400. One mission preacher said he had received less than $300 this year, hitch-hiking rides in many instances to visit churches because he had no money. He offered to donate the remaining $100 due him on salary but Bishop Boaz said he would not be permitted to do so.

Urged to Avoid Debt

Bishop Boaz exhorted young preachers to keep out of debt.

"You can afford to go hungry, but you cannot afford to be in debt," he warned them. He said common sense and hard work was a rule of success in the ministry as well as in business. Members of the class admitted to full connection were O. F. Mason, E. M. Nowlin; C. R. Matthews and R. H. B. Alright. They will be ordained as deacons tomorrow.

Hugh S. Black of Childress was nominated for conference lay leader by the board of lay activities. The conference ratified his nomination.

Dr. C. Q. Smith, superintendent of the Methodist hospital at Fort Worth, read a report showing that the hospital represents an investment of $924,000 and has a staff of 88 physicians and surgeons serving 2,775 patients in the past year.

American Legion Criticised

FORT WORTH, Nov. 14. (AP)—Criticism of the action of the American Legion convention at Detroit in September in asking for a referendum on the 18th amendment was made in a resolution adopted today by the Central Texas Methodist conference in session at First Methodist church.

The resolution commended the action of "those Texans who stood against the resolution for wine and beer." The resolution read, in part, "We, the undersigned ex-service men of Central Texas conference, do heartily approve every movement for peace and disarmament." The criticism of the legion's "give us beer" session in Detroit followed. It was signed by eight pastors who served overseas.

The conference also adopted the report of the conference board of Christian education and adopted a resolution indorsing the $50,000 campaign for the Texas Woman's college to liquidate its indebtedness and provide a permanent endowment. The board allowed T. W. C. $10,000 in the annual apportionment.

The conference tonight adopted a resolution of confidence in Bishop James Cannon Jr., charged with violation of the corrupt practices act.

They cheered loudly when he was referred to as "one of the greatest heroes of this day."

The resolution and an address on prohibition by J. A. Crain of Indianapolis, enlivened a meeting of the board of temperance and social service of the conference, which closes Sunday night.

Dr. Crain, who is secretary of the board of temperance and social welfare of the Disciples of Christ and a member of the national prohibition board of strategy, declared that the eventual decision as to the fate of prohibition is in the hands of the 22,000,000 young people who have come of voting age since the 18th amendment went into effect.

Mr. Markham died in a Tyler hospital Friday night from scalds received in a boiler explosion. He was reared in Wichita Falls and attended school here. Survivors include a brother, Orville Markham. He was the nephew of Police Chief Dick Morris.

Judge Reprimands Mother of Three Grown Children

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 14. (UP)—A plainly dressed mother of three grown children, her gray hair falling in long curls about her shoulders, faced the scathing rebuke of Federal Judge Edgar S. Vaught today for violating the liquor laws.

The mother is Mrs. Melissa Bell, 43, Enid. She has two daughters, 24 and 22, and a son, 17. She had spent five weeks in the Garfield county jail.

She told the court the reason she went into the liquor business was because a physician had told her to take whisky as a medicine.

"Your story doesn't sound right to me," Judge Vaught began. "You are the mother of a 17-year-old boy. Don't you know you are paving the road to the penitentiary for him?"

Mrs. Bell made no protest when she was fined $100 and ordered to jail until the fine is paid.

CONDITION STOCK BEST IN YEARS

Nov. 1 is reported at 80 per cent of normal, the same as on Oct. 1.

"Range conditions have improved over most of the west and northwest portions of the state during October. Good rains fell over the eastern and northern portions of the Edward's plateau region and in North, Northwest and Northeast Texas. However, it is still dry in the southeast and south districts and the southwestern portion of the Edward's plateau.

"An improvement of these points is noted in the state condition of ranges during the month and the condition now is rated at 74 per cent of normal."

The report said feed supplies are abundant in most areas at relatively low prices.

"No change from a month ago is reported in the sheep condition," the report stated. "Most of the animals are fat and will go into the winter in good condition."

Many Buyers in Market

FORT WORTH, Nov. 14. (AP)—Stocker and feeder buyers from six states other than Texas bought cattle on the Fort Worth market this week. Total sales for this class of cattle was 5,581 head for the six-day period. Texas buyers handled 2,434 head with Oklahoma and Illinois buyers second and third. Other states represented were Kansas, Missouri, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Stocker steer calves topped at $6.25 and yearlings at $5.60. Heifer calves sold up to $5.50. The top on killing steers was $7.25 for a load of 1,200 pound beeves.

Miss Evans and Cudahy were married in July, 1929, in Riverside, Calif.

Rail Executives Making Effort to Solve Problems

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—Two important moves have been made by railroad executives looking toward solution of problems facing the carriers.

One was the approval yesterday by the Association of Railway executives of a modified form of the Interstate Commerce commission plan for a pool of revenue to be derived from specific rate increases for the benefit of the weaker roads.

The other was a decision to meet with representatives of the railroad labor organizations to discuss "subjects of mutual interest."

This discussion was presumed to include proposals for adjustment of working schedules and other factors which would bring about the equivalent of a suggested 10 per cent wage reduction.

The principal departure in the executives' draft of the proposed pool plan was to make the funds to be placed at the disposal of the weaker roads a loan rather than an outright gift as the Interstate Commerce commission proposed.

FREIGHTER SEIZED ON CHARGE OF SMUGGLING $500,000 LIQUOR CARGO

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (US)—Collector of Port Elting today seized the freighter Ariyn, valued at $1,000,000 and owned by the Bull Insular line, on charges of having smuggled $500,000 in liquors into port here last February.

According to members of the crew, who "squealed" to government agents because their share of the alleged spoils were too small, the liquor was transferred from a British rum boat which was found sinking at sea.

Officers of the Alyn also are supposed to have landed the alien crew of the lost rum runner in this country, and as a result face an additional charge of violating the immigration laws.

BUS COMPANY SUED FOR $10,450 DAMAGES HERE

The Wichita Falls Bus company is defendant in a suit asking $10,450 damages for Stella Smith Lebow, which was transferred to district court here from Wilbarger county Saturday.

The plaintiff alleges that last June 23 she suffered serious injuries when a bus of the defendant company on which she was riding broke an axle and stopped suddenly near Claude, Texas, throwing her out of the seat in which she was riding and against the back of the seat in front of her.

ALLRED JOINS WAR AGAINST DUTY ON SCHOOL EQUIPMENT

AUSTIN, Nov. 14. (AP)—Atty. Gen. James V. Allred announced today he had joined attorneys general of 12 other states in signing and approving a brief prepared by the attorney general of Illinois in a case pending before the United States court of customs and patent appeals involving the point whether higher education is a proprietary or governmental function.

The case, styled the Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois vs. the United States, involves a duty of $5,000 paid by the University of Illinois under protest on some scientific apparatus imported by the university from a foreign country.

The state of Illinois contended that in supporting and maintaining the state university it was engaged in a governmental activity and the apparatus was necessary for educational purposes and that being engaged in a governmental activity no agency of the state so engaged is subject to a federal tax.

The United States customs court at Chicago held in a divided decision that conducting higher education is a proprietary and not a governmental activity and that the university was liable for the custom duty.

PITT PANTHERS WHIP ARMY ELEVEN, 26-0

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 14. (AP)—A swirling ground fog that stuck to the gridiron and enshrouded the big municipal stadium Saturday proved a perfect screen for the passing attack of Coach Jock Sutherland's Pittsburgh Panthers as they took to the atmosphere to hand a strong Army eleven its worth defeat of the season.

When the final gun sounded and 62,000 spectators were able to relax from the tiring task of peering through the fog, the scoreboard read: Pitt 26, Army 0. Fourteen hundred cadets who had sat in dismal silence from the opening whistle made their way out of the arena and prepared to return to West Point.

The Panthers' rip tearing backs, Heller and Reider, tore gaping holes through the Army ramparts and their aerial raids demoralized the Cadets' defense, such as it was. Never once did the future generals penetrate Pittsburgh territory. It was only on rare occasions the bare legged Army backs had an opportunity to carry the ball.

QUANAH HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETICS OUT OF RED

QUANAH, Texas, Nov. 14.—The Quanah High School Athletic association is free from debt for the first time since its organization. When the present season opened the association owed several hundred dollars, and some of these debts were several years old. All of these old bills have been paid, and a few current small accounts are all that remain outstanding.

Authorities state that by the end of the season the fund will be of comfortable size, and one that will assure next year's team required equipment.

TRADE MARK FOR TEXAS FED MEATS CONTEST SUBJECT

Citizens of Wichita Falls are invited to put their thinking caps on, maybe win $100, and do a great service to Texas. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has announced a contest to select a trade-mark for Texas fed meats.

To the man, woman or child who suggests the best trade-mark for Texas fed meats, which will be used to identify such meats and popularize their use and demand at markets, cafes and hotels, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is offering a cash prize of $100.

Complete details may be obtained from the local chamber of commerce secretary, but anybody may qualify. A trade-mark may be a mark, a device, a symbol, phrase, slogan or a coombination of any two or more of these. The entries must be sent to the Stamford office of the West Texas chamber not later than Jan. 15, 1932. Any person may submit as many entries as he desires, but each must be on a separate piece of paper and bearing the contestants name and address.

Three judges yet to be named will pick the winner. The contest originated with the livestock committee of the West Texas chamber, which is working for increased consumption of Texas meats in Texas and the promoting of feeding Texas livestock in Texas. John M. Gist of Odessa is chairman of the committee, and Paul T. Vickers of Midland, secretary.

Sales of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company for the five-week period ending Oct. 31 were $95,497,921. This compares with $100,965,024 for the same period in 1930, and is a decrease of $5,467,-103, or 5.41 per cent.

More goods were sold during the October period in 1931 than in the same period a year ago, as shown in the estimated tonnage figures. October sales, expressed in tons, were 524,743 this year, compared with 481,703 in October, 1930. This is a gain in quantity of merchandise sold of 43,040 tons, or 8.93 per cent.

Average weekly sales in October were $19,099,584 compared with $20,-193,005 in 1930, a decrease of $1,-093,421. Average weekly tonnage sales were 104,949 compared with 96,341 in October 1930, an increase of 8,608.

Do Not Curtail Consumption by Lessening Worker's Pay When Shorter Week Instituted Urges Al

By ALFRED E. SMITH

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—With the agitation for a five-day week or a shorter working day I have been in sympathy and have said so on numerous occasions. In this machine age it will help to spread employment if we can, by shortening hours, utilize larger numbers of workers. Employers cannot rest content, however, with the mere shortening of hours, nor can the community. There is a further responsibility. If we are to look upon the shorter work week as an economic measure it must also involve no lessening of pay. Otherwise, we put ourselves in the position of curtailing the consuming ability of our working population. Therefore, a far-seeing program will provide as well for outlets that will improve the consuming power of our working people.

The shorter work day with daylight saving as it exists in many parts of the country provides many leisure hours which can be spent in family life. The shorter work week provides a long period at the end of each week which can be used for the same purpose. There are many by-products possible out of the added hours spent away from the factory or industrial plant that on the surface are not easily apparent and which would result in economic expansion.

Shorter hours might very well stimulate home building and the improvement of homes that would cause an impetus in the various construction trades and in the industries which supply the materials used in construction. Many a worker lacks only the leisure to build a new porch on his house or a sun-parlor or add a room. Where there are one or more adult male members of the family, such work is easly done a little at a time in daylight hours. Many families living in rural or suburban communities would be able to build or put together a little house for themselves that would make for a higher standard of family living and improve the health and well being of the family. Every such undertaking, no matter how small, starts a whole chain of economic processes. Materials are needed. Tools are required. They must be transported. Technical help is required for electric work or plumbing. The result is an increased purchasing power all along the line. If we can multiply this process by thousands all over the country we are setting the wheels in motion for a stabilized, home-owning, responsible citizenship.

There is another productive activity which shorter hours will bring about. The long week-end will be conducive to spending more time outdoors. The families will seek recreational resources that can be provided by public agencies. Here the locality, the state and the nation can come into play. Only recently the federal government acquired the great Smoky Mountain park in Tennessee. With the coming of the cheap automobile, these outdoor resources have become increasingly important.

Every time a new park is acquired or any progress is made in the development of those already in existence, it gives employment to the hundreds and even thousands of workers who have to do with its planning, development and final administration. Highways and parkways must be built to give access to beaches and forests. Camp sites must be prepared. Landscaping must be planned and carried out. Beaches must be cleared, made safe and leveled. Buildings must be constructed for the comfort of the visitors to these resorts. The recent park developments which have undertaken to furnish amusements as well as access to beaches or parks must be administered and cared for. To take advantage of all these opportunities people must have time and money to spend. No greater stimulus has come to wholesome family recreation in a generation, than the extension and development of our great park and parkway systems.

Some people have taken issue with me in that I have not mentioned every time in discussing the shorter week, my belief that it should not carry with it any decrease in pay. Obviously, if we reduce hours and reduce purchasing power at the same time, we retard progress.

There are more than a million workers now enjoying the five-day week. It seems difficult to remember the time when we were fighting to shorten the 12-hour day. Many large plants even worked 12-hour shifts for 24 hours a day. The eight-hour day and the 48-hour week were considered so great an advance that it took many years to secure its recognition for women and children in industry in New York state. Even now it is an imperfect law.

There must be recognition of the fact that fewer individuals are required to conduct a given manfacturing or industrial operation or skilled mechanical job, because of the introduction of labor-saving machinery. Labor-saving machinery is nearly always introduced for the purpose of producing savings in human effort and necessitating fewer employes. Saving in time is the secondary consideration. There is undoubtedly a definite percentage of unemployed people who have been displaced in this way and they must be reabsorbed into industry. The only way immediately possible would be to increase the necessity for the number of workers. This can undoubtedly be done by shortening the working periods. The American Federation of Labor has recognized this in its recent conventions in voting for the five-day week and the six-hour day.

All such changes come about slowly and gradually. There is no doubt the five-day week will not come about by any sudden change. It will be adopted here and there and experimented with in larger industries. Labor organizations will press for it and perhaps the pressure of unemployment will help. Certainly labor organizations have never rested content with any temporary gain. The eight-hour day was agitated as far back as 1886, when most workers were on 10 and 12-hour shifts, and long before most wage-earners had won the eight-hour day, the drive for the five-day week began.

Business men have found improved working conditions and shorter hours benefit production. One or two important organizations are already experimenting with the six-hour day and one such large organization reports increased production in every part of its plant, not only from workers but the increased rate of operation of the plant brings about a better return from the capital investment in plant and machinery and even a decreased overhead because of the increased production per hour.

With a proper provision for the use of the increased leisure time, and with no reduction of wages, a shorter work week will undoubtedly be the next forward step in our economic reorganization.

JUNIOR RED CROSS MEMBERS SEND 18 BOXES ACROSS SEA

Eighteen boxes filled by Junior Red Cross members in the public schools were shipped Saturday to other Junior Red Cross members in southern Europe. Each year an average of 100,000 boxes from the United States are sent as tokens of friendship to the school children of foreign countries and to the insular possessions of the United States.

The purpose of the Junior Red Cross is to promote health, to develop the altruistic tendencies in children, to give practice in good citizenship, and to promote international friendliness among the children of the world. Beginning in war time in Canada, Australia, and the United States, the Junior Red Cross is now an active force in the schools of more than 40 countries.

This year three schools are sending their boxes to southern Europe, Alamo, Benjamin Franklin, and Bowie. The other schools are preparing boxes to send to insular possessions.

The joy of filling the boxes is climaxed by the letters from the foreign children and often by return gifts, usually representing the affectionate handiwork of the children. Sometimes it is a box of raisins from Greece, again it may be a doll dressed in native costume from France or perhaps a book of posters showing customs of the countries over the sea.

This year the gifts consist of simple toys, pencils, crayons, games, marbles, whistles, puzzles, handkerchiefs, or other things that may strike the child's fancy and help to give the children abroad an understanding of American children.

Mrs. A. J. Newby is chairman of junior activities and the work is carried on through her leadership and the cooperation of H. D. Fillers, superintendent of city schools, and the principals and teachers.

Tom Burnett Again Comes to Aid of Needy School Children Wichita Falls P.-T. A. Sponsors Play to Raise Funds

Tom Burnett, well known cattle and ranch man of this section, is again actively interesting himself in the welfare of the needy school children of Wichita Falls.

Because of a generous donation recently made by Mr. Burnett to the City Council Parent-Teacher association, which is composed of units working in the 15 city schools, this organization has been enabled to sponsor the production "A Successful Calamity" to be given by the Civic theater players at the Memorial auditorium on the night of Nov. 20.

The entire proceeds of the presentation will be used by the council for the lunch fund which each winter takes care of school lunches in the cafeterias for underprivileged children who would otherwise have to go without food at the noon hour. Tickets for the performance of "A Successful Calamity" are announced as 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

It will be remembered that last winter Mr. Burnett made an initial donation of $2,000 to help maintain this fund for needy children in the schools. Thereafter the fund was augmented by contributions from the different organizations and civic clubs in Wichita Falls.

The City Parent-Teacher council expects that a large number of tickets will be sold for the performance of "A Successful Calamity," Nov. 20, and that the entire community will give its enthusiastic support to this most worthy cause. Tickets may be secured at any of the schools or at Renfro's drug store, Eighth and Scott.

Columbia Symphony

Howard Barlow, conducting the Columbia Symphony orchestra, has arranged a short program of musical gems from the works of Mendelssohn, Charpentier and Saint-Saens, to be heard over the WABC-Columbia chain on Monday, Nov. 16, from 8:15 to 8:30 p. m., central standard time. Playing the "Gigue et Finale" from Saint-Saens' "Henry the VIII," Barlow will strive to emphasize the composer's responsiveness to imagnative suggestion and versatility of conception as well as his gift for technical perfection in thematic development and orchestration.

NEGRO COMMUNITY CLUB MAKES PLANS FOR FALL AND WINTER ACTIVITIES

The Negro Community club met at the home of Tom Burks on Bonner street, Nov. 10 at 8:30 p. m. The president, E. B. Jeffrey, called the meeting to order, first transacting regular routine business. Several problems which confronted the club were discussed and plans for the negro fall and winter activities, including the coming house fair, were formulated.

An appeal was made by Coach Daniels, for better attendance of negro citizens at the football games.

"Our good white citizens have been very loyal. We appreciate their support," he declared.

J. E. Burnet, chairman of the executive committee of negro Boy Scouts, made a fine talk on the importance of negro scouts and the duty of the scoutmaster.

POINTING TO WICHITA FALLS

Wichita Falls is not by any means the only city that is having its troubles with school finances. In a great many other communities it is necessary to make the same appeal that is being made here, to pay school taxes promptly so that money for current expenses will be available.

We doubt if any other city has had the response to that appeal that Wichita Falls taxpayers have made. In fact, school authorities elsewhere are pointing to this city as one whose example is to be followed. Likewise, community chest workers in other places are citing Wichita Falls' accomplishment in efforts to pep up their lagging campaigns. "Look at what Wichita Falls has done; surely we should do as well," is today a rallying cry in many cities. In some it is sounded to speed up payment of schol taxes. In others it is sounded to encourage community chest campaign workers.

Wichita Falls has set a mark, in civic spirit, for other cities to shoot at, this fall.

TWO HOURS IN THE SCHOOLS

We would like to think that the programs held at the schools last Thursday night accomplished all that they might have accomplished; that is, that they acquainted all parents with the workings of the school system and inculcated such an interest in school problems as will facilitate the sort of parental cooperation the schools need.

It is more likely, however, that it did not have that effect. Too many parents now feel that, having given two whole hours to the schools, they have done their full duty. One can't find out very much about the schools in that length of time, even if one observes closely. And attendance at such affairs is not all that is required of school children's parents, by way of coperation.

Such an occasion, instead of satisfying the parents' curiosity about the sort of schooling their children are getting, ought to stimulate it and inspire a wider and more intelligent interest in school affairs.

JUSTICE BRANDEIS

Justice Louis D. Brandeis of the United States supreme court was 75 years old the other day. Reading the encomiums and praise-ful comments upon his career, it is difficult to realize that he is the man who, 15 years ago, was the target for so much criticism and so many protests when he was nominated for the supreme bench.

Wilson had previously considered appointing him attorney general. The president's friends in New England, hearing of this, assured him that such an appointment would be very unpopular, and Wilson heeded such assurances. Four years later, however, he appointment Brandeis to the supreme court. Then the storm that had been averted in 1912 broke in full fury. William Howard Taft, Elihu Root and President Lowell of Harvard were among those who permitted their names to be used in protests against the appointment. Republican senators were solidly against Brandeis and some Democratic senators were inclined to join them, but were eventually brought into line. Confirmation was effected by a vote that held close to party lines.

Fifteen years later, the Jewish attorney, son of immigrant parents, has won a secure place in the esteem of the nation. Although the liberalism which brought about the opposition to him in 1916 has manifested itself in many of his opinions, it has been attended by such sane-ness and such legal scholarship as to still the critical voices. Today Brandeis stands second to only the venerable Holmes among the justices in the regard of the nation.

THE STILL UNFINISHED TASK

Just a year ago, Joseph A. Kemp died. In the inspired address which his pastor, Dr. N. F. Grafton, delivered at the funeral service, the departed leader was referred to as a Moses who, though brought within sight of a promised land, never entered into it. He died without seeing the consummation of the task to which he had given so much of thought and effort, the development of the irrigated valley.

That task, one year after the chief toiler's death, still is unfinished. But he would rejoice to know that the torch which fell from his failing hand was caught and re-kindled and is being carried on. He would rejoice to know that the faith he held did not die with him, but is today inspiring Wichita Falls to do all that he hoped to see done. Wichita Falls is more fully alive to the possibilities of the valley, more firmly resolved to make the most of those possibilities, than ever before. Its leaders are coming to grips with the task.

If there has been little actual achievement, during the past 12 months, there nevertheless has been much done in a preliminary way, clearing the ground for the task itself. A definite start has been made toward establishment of marketing facilities for the valley's products. A practical program of development is being carefully studied out. Steps are being taken to put competent farmers on the irrigated lands, under conditions which will enable them to become owners. And, perhaps more important than any of these undertakings, the project has come to occupy a dominant place in the thoughts of those who have this city's future at heart. We have come to realize what it can mean, what it must mean.

Consummation of the task will not be easy. It is going to take the patience and the resolution that Joseph A. Kemp exemplified during the three score years that elapsed from the time he conceived the project until he saw the great dams completed and the water flowing through the canals. He carried on because he had a vision that would not let him quit. If we of Wichita Falls have caught that vision, after these wasted years, it is not too much to expect that it will serve the new leadership as it served him.

The coming year will bring a special opportunity in the valley. There is going to be a departure from cotton, as the dominant crop. If it can be demonstrated that the irrigated tracts offer, to those who want to shake off the shackles with which cotton has bound them, the chance to work out a new and more wholesome farming program, we can accomplish a very great deal toward making the vision real. A year hence, there should be a record of achievement that will show the valley definitely on the way to the consummation of the hopes held for it.

Nov. 16 of each year should be a day on which to give an accounting of the progress made, to list the year's achievements and see if we have drawn nearer to the objective. If Wichita Falls goes forward on this task in the spirit which has been manifested in recent months, not many years need to elapse until on some Nov. 16 our city can salute the memory of J. A. Kemp with a pride it has not yet known.

THE NEIGHBORS HELPED

We are told that when the folks up at St. Louis were discussing the baseball franchise question, one thing that weighed heavily was the fact that the chambers of commerce, and various individuals, in Northwest Texas and Southwest Oklahoma communities sent messages pledging their support to the Spudders.

Such a thing could not fail to impress the club's owners. Probably it had much to do with the favorable decision that was reached. Wichita Falls is proud of, and grateful for, the help its neighbors gave.

Old Lady Hides Her Jewels

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine
(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

Great drama, made of the stuff that moves men's souls, is not concocted by the wit of clever playwrights; it springs with poignant power out of the day-to-day-lives of ordinary men and women, now triumphant and now thwarted, as they seek to satisfy the deepest hungers of their hearts.

The papers have been dealing for days with an incident that millions will pass by as but the story of another erratic, but, to me, it carries the supreme pathos of a normal hunger of the human heart thwarted and thwarted and turned aside, and throws a revealing light on the one rusted link in society's armor.

It is the story of an old woman who has, for some time, led the life of recluse. In exquisite gown and still more exquisite jewels, she had danced with the Prince of Wales, later the dashing King Edward, but then visiting the United States as Baron Renfrew. Years passed. She was not to know the love and laughter of children. The outpourings of the heart that are meat and drink to womankind were, with her, to be dammed up. She is now an old woman. In her illness, she was seen to open old trunks and to bring from them the exquisite jewels and gowns that had graced her gayer girlhood. And, I imagine, the light and laughter of other years raced back across her mind as she let these jewels pour through her fingers, as she swished the folds of these gowns to stir engaging memories, and as she pinned large amounts of currency to her night-dress to give her a sense of the buoyant wealth that marked her girlhood.

To relatives all this meant an erratic and irresponsible old age and called for a guardian.

I suspect he would not see her differently.

But our society is so obsessed with the divinity of property that we cannot but think it a bit insane to keep a fortune in jewels just for the love of looking at them, when the glamor and gaiety of life have otherwise passed us by.

I can think of a thousand ways in which men and women are seeking to fill empty spaces in their lives that call for a guardian far more than the wistful practice of this old lady who loves her jewels.

ROUGHLY SPEAKING

by John Gould

White Lines

Neat white lines the pavement mark,
Show how to stop and where to park.

Those who by the lines are guided,
By traffic cops are seldom chided.

Those who do not crowd or fudge,
Don't have to argue with the judge.

Life, just like traffic, has white lines,
Stop markers, and "no parking" signs.

Plainly showing the direction
To all who'd go with circumspection.

To guide all those who would go right.

But Life, like traffic, has its scorners,
Rushing lights and cutting corners.

Ignoring all Life's traffic cops,
Disregarding all the stops.

To pedestrians they give no thought.

But when at last they have to face
The Judge and try to plead their case,
I shouldn't like to be in their place.

Before he went to Washington, Congressman Garner shipped several bushels of pecans there. Just as if he wouldn't have enough nuts to deal with.

As we understand the situation at Washington the Democrats are going to control the house, and, gosh! how they dread it!

The way the news comes from Manchuria, you can't tell whether the Chinks and Japs are fighting again, or yet.

Discovery

On Thursday night it meant a lot
To some fathers and mothers,
To find that their offspring were not
Any dumber than the others.

We made another discovery that interested us. It was that school teachers nowadays are much better looking than the ones who, when we were a young and bright-faced lad, tried to force some knowledge into our system.

There is no relation, of course, oetween pulchritude and pedadogical ability. But we'll bet that if we'd had as good-looking a bunch as those we met Thursday night, we would have done better.

And now, if there's such a thing as gratitude, there'll be more A's on the next batch of report cards at our house.

Affection

I like my city an awful lot,
Fully as much as I oughter,
But my affection wanes somewhat
When I take a drink of its water.

We understand that the kind of water we're getting now is so unsuited to a certain domestic industry, that the home-brewers are buying bottled water instead. When water is so bad that not even the home-brewers will use it, there's something wrong.

If there's any time when home-brew would really be potable—to a person of discriminating taste in such matters, that is—it would be just after you had taken a drink of the city water.

But that's no recommendation for home-brew, of course. Even spinach would taste good, under the same circumstances.

And now the Grandstand Managers association, which was threatened with forfeiture of its charter, is getting itself reorganized, delinquent members are paying up their dues, and preparations are being made for a busy season.

It won't get to functioning with its old-time efficiency and spirit, however, until the East Texas oil field plays out and some of the charter members return.

System

I hate disorder and disarray,
They give me a cervical pain,
But I wish I could quit putting things away
Where I can never find them again.

The president of the Spanish republic is to receive a salary of $90,000 a year, but he'll probably earn it all.

Besides, there's the risk of his constituents indulging in the old Spanish custom of throwing him out on his ear, without notice.

Secretary of State Stimson was the first to talk over the new long distance telephone to Rumania. We hope he refrained from asking how the king liked his new sister-in-law.

The king's brother had a golden chance for a snappy comeback at Carol, even though he probably didn't take advantage of it. He might have said, "Well, you haven't made any great success of matrimony yourself."

The upshot of the navy fuss seems to be that a president can be uninformed, but never ignorant.

We hope that the affair won't lead to any general inquiry into the question of the ignorance of officeholders.

There are, we are quite sure, a good many ignorant officeholders. But they are never as ignorant as the folks who voted them into office.

Gandhi will take his goat with him when he returns to India. The British didn't get that.

We gather, from what the oil company officials say, that they are not angry at Mr. Allred. Just terribly, terribly hurt.

At any rate, Theodore Dreiser is getting lots of material for "An American Comedy" if he ever writes it.

Incidentally, he's furnishing a good deal of the material himself.

WASHINGTON. — Figures may not lie, but they are likely to fool you, just the same. Give a politician a few digits to play with and he makes them lie down, turn over, sit up and do flipflops like a team of trained fleas.

You might think they would have a special government bureau to do all the statistical tricks which are used to entertain the nation, but it isn't necessary because nearly all men in public life have become expert at it. Cabinet officers who pull magic figures from a hat to end depressions have nothing on the Democratic leaders who can prove to the satisfaction of any complete moron that a couple of billion dollars' decline in our foreign trade is entirely due to the Hawley-Smoot tariff.

Shooting holes in the other fellow's round numbers is a very large part of the present propaganda of the Republican and Democratic parties.

Secretary of War Hurley has just announced proudly that his department's budget for 1933 is "approximately $44,000,000 below the appropriations for 1932." And so it is. That figure sounds $30,000,000 better than the cut of $14,000,000 from last year's budget. Congress last year appropriated $30,000,000 more than the army budget, thereby enabling Hurley to compare budget with appropriation instead of budget with budget. This is an especially good trick and almost defies criticism.

Secretary of the Navy Adams, after White House pressure, announced a cut of $60,000,000 in his budget, which sounded all right until it was pointed out that the total budget this year had been $40,000,000 over last year's and that the real cut was only $20,000,000. Hundreds of millions might have been "saved" if this year's original budget had been high enough.

Congressman Luther A. Johnson of Texas has been razzing President Hoover himself, who, in an optimistic formal statement, said the effect of improvement in the credit situation had increased cotton prices by $15 to $20 a bale. Later Hoover corrected himself and said he should have said $5 to $10 a bale, but Johnson still insists that there was no $10 increase in the period to which Hoover referred and that the market reports prove it. Then Johnson says even with increased prices prevailing the first of this month cotton was $7 a bale less than on Aug. 1 and lower than at any similar period in 32 years. Thus the same figures inspire loud cheers from one man and dismal moans from another.

Lately there have been certain encouraging signs in finance and business, but the general tendency has been to bunch them with all annual seasonal improvements and holler that the whole trend is encouraging. The commerce department, however, reports that manufacturing did not experience any of the usual fall gain and that gains in car loadings, retail trade, bank debits, foreign trade and factory employment were less than the normal seasonal rise. That meant that some of the gains were actually losses.

There is also a dandy chance to brag about October's figure as compared with September's, too, because October had 27 working, producing days and September only 25.

And observe how the American Federation of Labor can prove that legalized beer would employ more than 1,000,000 persons, whereas dry organizations use available statistics to show that it couldn't possible employ more than 230,000 and would throw many more than that out of work in other industries.

Health and Diet Advice

Fletcherising

Many people have practiced chewing their food at least 30 times before swallowing it. Health teachers all over the world have been teaching people to masticate more thoroughly. Horace Fletcher taught the layman through various books the necessity for masticating food well, and his name has gone down in history as the foremost exponent of the art of chewing. The word "Fletcherize" is now in all standard dictionaries.

The chemical action taking place in the mouth is this: The digestive fluid of the mouth contains a ferment or enzyme called "ptyalin" which has the chemical power to change starch into forms of sugar called dextrose or maltose. Only five per cent of the entire starch digestion takes place in the mouth, but this is the most important part of the digestion, and is equal in many ways to the other 95 per cent which takes place in the small intestines. If the starch is properly mixed with the saliva, it is changed just enough so that when the starch passes through the stomach it is not harmed by the gastric juice.

Starch must be digested by an alkaline ferment, and the acid of the stomach only interferes with this digestion. Consequently, if the starch is somewhat changed before it reaches the stomach, the stomach acid will not have so pronounced an effect upon it.

There is no doubt but what if food is enjoyed it will digest more readily, and be assimilated more completely. When food is chewed properly, a finer flavor will be noted, as the starch in the food is changed to maltose and dextrose and consequently that food will be more relished. It is not as important to chew protein foods as it is foods containing starch.

One of the greatest objections to cooked foods is that they encourage hasty swallowing, whereas, with the raw foods it is necessary to masticate them thoroughly or they can not be swallowed with comfort.

If you completely masticate your food, you will find that you will eat much less. Many digestive troubles will be overcome by this simple practice of mastication, which will cut down the quantity of food.

Mastication should be practiced diligently if only to give the teeth exercise, as the blood will not circulate in the gums well unless they are properly used. The organic salts and vitamins will likewise be extracted from the food more readily and furnish material for the building of good strong teeth. The raw vegetables are especially valuable for the teeth.

Milk must also be well masticated, and each swallow should be churned about in the mouth before it is swallowed. Then let is just trickle down the throat, a few drops at a time. Otherwise you will find that air is swallowed along with the milk. The curds formed by the action of the acid gastric juice will be smaller if milk is chewed in this way.

To play safe, take plenty of time to eat a small amount of food at each meal. It is folly to hurry through a meal in five minutes, and then spend hours complaining about the indigestion thus produced.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Balanced Diet for Mental Alertness

Question—"A Worried Mother" writes: "Our little girl, 8, has what I call day dreams. It takes her so long to do things. She is not getting along in school this year as last. She eats fairly well, sleeps fair, but her mind isn't as active as it was. Would appreciate advice."

Answer—Growing children must be given plenty of foods containing calcium, silicon and iron. All of the cooked and raw greens contain these important minerals, and without these the child cannot build bone and nerve cells, and be alert mentally and physically. If you have your little girl take a short fruit fast of about four or five days, and follow this with a well-balanced diet including plenty of non-starchy vegetables, I feel sure that you will soon notice an improvement in her general health. She should be given one-pint enemas of plain, warm water at least twice daily during the fast. There are many children who are quite normal apparently, who seem to have dreams or visions during the day. However, by correcting any digestive disturbance that may exist you will find that the child will become more active in every way.

Conspicuous Adam's Apple

Question—F. E. U. writes: "I am a 16-year-old boy and my arms are exceedingly small, slender, since I don't take much exercise. Can you give me a set of exercises or something which I can use to develop them to the size they should be? Also, is there anything that can be done to reduce the size of my Adam's apple? I've never heard of any, so I don't expect a remedy, but I want you to tell me if there is one."

Answer—The Adam's apple is simply the larynx and is quite normal. If it seems to be unusually prominent, it is due to lack of development of the neck muscles. It is usually a good indication to have a large Adam's apple. Developing the muscles of the neck makes it less conspicuous. You should use systematic exercises, also engage in swimming, hiking, athletics, etc.

Twenty Years Ago Today

From Files Wichita Times

Wednesday, Nov. 15, 1911

Frank Kell, vice president and general manager of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern, has just returned from "the front" where he closed contracts for right of way to a point six miles north of Beaver City in Beaver county, Oklahoma, near the Kansas line.

Amoy, China, Nov. 15.—The republicans who took possession of the city yesterday have issued an address to the foreign consuls in which the neutrality of the consuls is requested. Assurance is given that their property, including churches will be protected.

Iowa Park, Texas, Nov. 15.—An oil rig was hauled out to the Fassett ranch, southwest of here yesterday, where work on a well will begin at once.

PONCE DE LEON WILL BE SCHOOL OF RADIO SUBJECT FOR MONDAY

A dramitization based on the life and adventures of Ponce de Leon will be broadcast by the American School of the Air to the school children of the country at 1:30 to 2:00 p. m., central standard time, Monday, Nov. 16, over a nation-wide network of the Columbia Broadcasting system.

The story to be broadcast starts with the episode wherein a young woman comes to Ponce de Leon, who is at that time governor of Porto Rico, and tells him of a land where all sorts of fabulous riches are to be found. But most important of all there is in this land a "fountain of youth" and anyone who drinks from it will remain eternally youthful. Believing this, Ponce de Leon started out with a band of men on the expedition which resulted in the discovery and exploration of Florida.

IN NEW YORK with Gilbert Swan

NEW YORK.—The veteran backstage folk of the Metropolitan Opera take their traditions just as seriously as do the be-diamond gentry who occupy the boxes of the golden horseshoe.

Most of them have been on duty for a generation or more.

Well, take for instance Capt. John Edgar, the famous stage doorman. It was about 25 years ago that he arrived at the Met. He was then a young man who wanted the propinquity of musical artists. He had musical ambitions of his own. There was no place for him in the operatic assemblage, so he took the job of tending the stage door.

But today, as then, he is at the door; ready to receive the newcomer and exit the old-timer.

In one of the many cubby-holes that lead away from the foyer, you'll find Lionel Mapleson. He's the musical librarian and he takes tender care of thousands of musical manuscripts and be able to produce almost any score on a moment's notice.

The Metropolitan recently opened its 49th season; and the Maplesons had been there some 40 years of that time. Few in the world have such an intimate acquaintance with musical manuscripts.

Jules Judels, who has been there almost 40 years, knows exactly where spear-bearers and other extras may be obtained on a few hours' notice.

His is one of the more colorful jobs at the Met, since there are thousands trying to get on the opera stage whatever their role. The spaghetti-and-red-ink parlors of the city are cluttered with gents who drive trucks or taxis and follow odd trades, yet who live for that moment when they can stand in the last chorus line on the operatic stage.

But to get along: Aimee Gerber, who gives out the pay envelopes, came from the old Grau Opera company some 35 years ago; Bill Guard has been a press agent ever since he left the Times building 20 years ago; for a quarter of a century Jacob Butcher has worried about the lights; and it was 20 years ago that Josev Novak began to fret himself about the theater's scenery; Tom Bull, who died about two years ago, had taken tickets at the entrance for so many years that he knew every New York notable by first name and was, perhaps, the only public servant allowed to address them as "Gus" and "Joe"; Hugh Brown, who has been there for 22 years, took his job; Dave Hayes, chief engineer, has 30 years of service; and then there are property men and engineers and box-office folk of equal vintage.

When it comes to matters of sartorial temperament, no one in the theater has had greater experience than Filomena Pamponi, the wardrobe mistress. She has been there 14 years. And for 26 years, Florence Morton has been answering phone calls in all languages.

MRS. C. A. ROGERS

MRS. PHILIP OVIATT

MISS VIRGINIA DOUGLAS

IN THE PICTURES — Mrs. C. A. Rogers, popular matron, is president of the Musicians club which will give its first open program of the autumn season at the junior college auditorium Monday evening.

Mrs. Philip Oviatt, pianist of unusual ability, is chairman of arrangements for the Musicians club program and will be one of the accompanists.

Miss Virginia Douglas is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Douglas, pioneers of Electra. She is a member of the Junior Forum and has recently been appointed superintendent of the primary department of the First Christian church Bible school in Electra. Miss Douglas received her bachelor of science degree in education and life certificate to teach kindergarten and primary work from the University of Missouri last June.

First District T. F. W. C. Gives Unusual Report

With clubwomen returning from the T. F. W. C. conference held in Lubbock, Nov. 9, 10, 11, echoes of the report of first district given by the retiring president, Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, are being heard. First district was awarded the prize for the greatest number of county federations received during the year and will hold the silver cup until the next annual conference report. During the administration of Mrs. Oneal, 28 new clubs were added, five of these county federations and one an inter-county federation made up of six county federations that had in the first meeting 250 women. At the district convention last spring, 309 were in attendance.

The American home committee reported 1,400,000 containers of home canned products. "No Waste," was the slogan stressed in county federation meetings. Two of the five master farm home makers of the state are in first district. A survey of the chairman of home economics in the 21 counties in first district showed that in 100 of the 700 schools of less than 500 enrollment, home economics is being taught. Fifty per cent of high school girls elect the subject. In 16 of the 21 counties, there are government home demonstration agents. The chairman of home equipment reported 1,367 improvement in rural homes.

Education

This has been a "Scholarship and Loan" year in first district. Two district funds for the first time in the district history have been created. One, started by Mrs. J. C. A. Guest at Graham was named for the life member of the board, Eunice Graham; the fund is now $275. The other was created by the fine arts department in memory of Mrs. M. P. Bewley and is called "The Bewley Memorial Fund." It now totals around $10,000.

Montague county won first place in terracing and conservation of soil in the state contest at A. & M. college. Mrs. Cad McCall, district chairman, has undertaken reclamation of 580 acres of land in her county; streams on this farm will be set aside as wild flower and bird sanctuaries.

Public Welfare

Of 90 clubs reporting in first district, all but seven reported some health work. An amount totalling $2,900 was given in money by clubs in the district for hot lunches for school children; for food for undernourished children. One thousand hours of work were given by Mrs. St. Andrew Myers, secretary of first district, of Henrietta, who has been unusually active in health work.

Junior clubs in first district reported $1,800 in gifts to senior clubs and outstanding work in social service and in demonstration work.

Four new clubhouses have been added in the past year to the 12 in first district. One at Throckmorton, on a reclaimed log cabin 63 years old, has been restored to its original form and furnished in its original manner by the Buffdale County Woman's club.

Musicians Club Will Open Autumn Season Monday Eve Program at Junior College

Nine pianos and a 15-piece string ensemble under the direction of Miss Annette Walsh will present a double-number of Grainger compositions on the Musicians club's first artists program of the current season, to be given Monday night, Nov. 15, at 8:15 o'clock in the Junior college auditorium. The performance is for the public, without charge.

The ensemble numbers which will conclude the program are the same ones that were heard last spring by a large audience when Miss Walsh presented her annual pupils' recital at the college auditorium. The nine pianos will be manned by well-known local pianists, and the string ensemble includes many of the city's accredited musicians.

"The Nightingale and the Two Sisters," and "Lord Peter's Stable Boy" are the two Grainger creations to be presented by the 24-piece ensemble. As implied by their titles, the two will be lucid tone pictures with the characteristic Grainger strength in descriptive effects.

Miss Walsh also will appear as solo pianist, opening the evening's program with a modern study, "After Midnight," by Rudolph Ganz. One of the foremost pianists in the United States, formerly successful conductor of the St. Louis Symphony orchestra, Ganz also is one of the several eminent teachers with whom Miss Walsh has studied.

Two vocal groups will be included in the musicale planned for Monday night. Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, contralto, will sing an Elizabeth Barrett Browning poem, "How Do I Love Thee?" set to music by Maude Valerie White; "In Autumn," by Pearl Curran, and "Thou Art to Me a Flower," by Degele. Miss Harriett Bradley will play a violin obligato with Mrs. Mahaffey on the Degele number. Accompaniments will be played by Mrs. Phillip M. Oviatt.

The other song group will be given by William E. Young, baritone, using a Haydn number and a ballad by Squire. Mr. Young's accompaniments will be played by Mrs. F. R. Collard.

Popularity of a group of violin solos by Mrs. J. E. Hall is assured by the inclusion of the Wieniawski "Romance," and her second number will be "Serenade," by Pierne. Mrs. Lucille Brooks Huff will play the accompainments.

Miss Walsh will have the following artists in her ensemble: Mrs. Charles Bourland, Miss Geneva Taylor, Mrs. E. H. Eddleman, Miss Lucy Huggins, Miss Katherine Steiner, Miss Sara Creath, Miss Annabel Perkins, Mrs. Paul Taylor and Mrs. C. C. Parfet, pianos; Mrs. J. E. Hall, Mrs. Fred Sharpe, Misses Roberta Lincoln, Thelma Norvell and May Bartlett, first violins; William Donnell, Miss Mathilda Donnell, James Hull, Miss Merrill Strong and Miss Alice Philco, second violins; Mrs. A. PEGGY PIEDMONT Says

CHARITY covers a multitude of luncheons, afternoon teas and morning committee meetings these days. Everybody who is anybody, is on at least one committee meeting to help arrange some of the important charity bazaars or other affairs for sweet charity sake. Sunday school classes are busy preparing for Thanksgiving baskets for needy families and members of the missionary societies are doing likewise, and of course the usual Christmas bazaars are receiving consideration at this time.

THIS is indeed a busy season for Wichita Falls women. With the annual flower show at the Woman's Forum clubhouse occupying all the club women in the city the past week, while many spent three days or longer in Lubbock, attending the state federation meeting, many will have to take a few days off now for a little rest and home duties before launching into more outside activities.

PARENT-TEACHER associations have been busy the past week observing "children's book week" and also with the state congress and parent-teacher meeting which held its 23rd annual convention in San Antonio. All of the schools in the city observed the week with open houses and all of the association units presented special programs. A well known writer on child welfare says that as we learn more about children, so does literature for children improve. From the tiniest tot with his stories written in pictures, to the boy curled deep in a tome of simple mechanics, the new writers are basing their work on the natural development of the child mind.

"BOOKS for young children used to contain harrowing tales of fear. Now, except for large and harmless generalities, that is left out. They used, also, to go in for the goody-goody type of story that could not resist a moral. Now the morals and lessons of behavior are there but so cleverly done that the child does not realize he is being preached to.

"Again old-time books were too often over the child's head, even those written especially for youngsters. Also there were no clever illustrations to hold the eye and attention. In other words, the world and most of its writers were guessing at childhood and its needs and floundering hopelessly as to its literature.

"THE new books are too numerous to name; never has there been such a wealth of excellent reading for young people, from the baby up to the 16 year old, as there is now. It is worth a trip to any book store just to go inside and lose yourself in the fascinating pages of fairyland, adventure and travel."

AS THANKSGIVING draws near and we stop to consider the past year and just what we are thankful for, most of us are prone to remember the depression more than anything else. It is true that in 1931, more than any year since the memorable depression following the war between the states, our country has had to endure great financial losses and even complete failures, yet such experiences have enriched the very lives of those thus impoverished, and hardships and reverses build character. But indeed we in Wichita Falls have much to be thankful for. The lunches for school children of needy families are ever items of thought as are clothing and other articles necessary to keep them in their classes and the day nursery has fed more children the past month than ever before, that the mothers may work and earn a livelihood.

Men in all walks of life have been put to work here in the past few weeks, and all of this causes us to just bubble over with thanksgiving.

AND now after taking time off for the flower show and Lubbock meeting, club women are about to get back into harness and into the regular routine meetings. Tuesday, the literature department of the Woman's Forum will meet when Charles I. Francis will interpret "Charles Eliot" by Henry James, a Pulitzer prize biography. Hostesses on this occasion will include Mesdames Leslie Humphrey, A. H. Carrigan, A. B. Booth, C. H. Clark, E. T. Duff and T. F. Hunter. Thursday afternoon the drama department will present Mrs. Charles William Wallace, well known Shakespearean director, in an afternoon with Shakespeare. Scenes from "Macbeth," "The Merchant of Venice," "As You Like It" and "Taming of the Shrew" will be given with Mesdames John Rhea, John Thomas, E. L. Fulton and Miss Elois Warford, readers. Music will be furnished by the music department of the forum.

EXPERTS say that one of these days, when you go out to replenish your make-up kit, you'll be buying dark brown lipstick, yellow powder and a little green rouge. Sounds queer now, doesn't it? Or you will, that is, providing that you're one of the army of aspiring television actresses.

For the new visual art has come along and upset all the color schemes and beauty roles. Your cheeks may be like the red, red rose, and your lips be appropriately darker. But over the air they would fade into pallid invisibility.

If you're a blonde, the chances are that you'll have considerably more trouble in getting your face across. Brunets show up much better and require less artificial coloring than the fair performers whose hair and features furnish little natural contrast. Both the Columbia and National Broadcasting companies found early in their experimental work that brunets are easier on the eyes, so far as television is concerned. And both chose brunets—Natalie Towers and Dorothy Knapp—as their television test girls.

But now that broadcasting has been begun, and hundreds of different types have appeared before the scanner, it is revealed that certain blonde types also are television "naturals."

It's all a matter of light and shade, of contrasts between subject and background and costume. When a brunet goes into a studio a light screen is placed behind her, and dark curtains furnish the back ground for blondes.

THE features are delineated by artificial means. Red is out of the picture, literally, since it is a fast color that does not register in the projection machine. So lip, brow and eye shadings, as well as the cheeks, must be in almost any other colors but their natural ones.

Well we know one that does not aspire to be a television actress so probably her make-up kit will not change its colors, and that is your old friend.

Y. W. C. A. Board Will Work With Local Bureau

Through its employment department the local branch of the Y. W. C. A. is cooperating with the national movement for unemployment relief instituted by President Hoover under the chairmanship of Walter S. Gifford, according to Irma Schnelle, Y. W. C. A. secretary. The department functions independently and also in connection with the local emergency unemployment bureau.

Last month 69 interviews were given 38 applicants. Of the 17 calls which came to the department from prospective employers, nine were satisfactorily filled. "The percentage was not greater since several of the calls were from out of town and others desired girls to work for board and room only," said Miss Schnelle.

Cooperation is given the national movement through business girls clubs and Girl Reserve clubs and other agencies of the local Y. W. C. A. in compliance with Mr. Gifford's request to the national social work council.

Mr. Gifford said in part that "It is obviously important that localities give careful consideration to a well-rounded community program and undertake to carry forward health work, where needs will be increased; child care which will present even greater demands if the welfare of children is to be looked after, and that considerable group of activities of so-called character building agencies for whose services there has probably never been a greater need, if the morale of young people and adults is to be maintained."

In a letter to Mrs. Robert E. Speer, president of the national board Y. W. C. A., Mr. Gifford thanked her for resolutions passed by the board promising assistance and he said best results can be obtained "if forces like the Y. W. C. A. can be applied to assist united local effort."

In expressing his appreciation to Mrs. Speer, Hoover wrote "The endorsement and cooperation of your board in the work of the unemployment organization and its committees is appreciated indeed."

Mrs. John Rhea will give the dramatic presentation of the sleep-walking scene in Macbeth, following Mrs. Wallace's preliminary talk and others following will be the hair room scene from "The Merchant of Venice," by Mrs. E. Times' Program for Wichita Falls

1. OIL—Place the Wichita Falls district on a parity with other centers in the marketing of both crude oil and refined products.
2. THE VALLEY—Systematic, vigorous development of the irrigated valley in keeping with its possibilities as Wichita Falls' greatest physical asset.
3. WATER—An ample, assured supply of soft water.
4. EDUCATION—Maintenance of a junior college in Wichita Falls to give opportunity for higher education to our youth—the highest standards in elementary schools.
5. THE LAKES—Full development of the recreational opportunities offered by the three lakes.
6. HIGHWAYS—Early consummation of a highway program covering all the main routes radiating from this city and all the local roads that serve its agricultural community.
7. DRAINAGE—Solution of the drainage problem in all three phases; first in the irrigated valley; second, with regard to Holliday creek. Third, in those portions of the city now inadequately drained.
8. GOVERNMENTAL ECONOMY—The adoption of such means as may be found most feasible to reduce the cost of local government by elimination of unnecessary offices and consolidation of others.

POINTING TO WICHITA FALLS

Wichita Falls is not by any means the only city that is having its troubles with school finances. In a great many other communities it is necessary to make the same appeal that is being made here, to pay school taxes promptly so that money for current expenses will be available.

We doubt if any other city has had the response to that appeal that Wichita Falls taxpayers have made. In fact, school authorities elsewhere are pointing to this city as one whose example is to be followed. Likewise, community chest workers in other places are citing Wichita Falls' accomplishment in efforts to pep up their lagging campaigns. "Look at what Wichita Falls has done; surely we should do as well," is today a rallying cry in many cities. In some it is sounded to speed up payment of schol taxes. In others it is sounded to encourage community chest campaign workers.

Wichita Falls has set a mark, in civic spirit, for other cities to shoot at, this fall.

TWO HOURS IN THE SCHOOLS

We would like to think that the programs held at the schools last Thursday night accomplished all that they might have accomplished; that is, that they acquainted all parents with the workings of the school system and inculcated such an interest in school problems as will facilitate the sort of parental cooperation the schools need.

It is more likely, however, that it did not have that effect. Too many parents now feel that, having given two whole hours to the schools, they have done their full duty. One can't find out very much about the schools in that length of time, even if one observes closely. And attendance at such affairs is not all that is required of school children's parents, by way of coperation.

Such an occasion, instead of satisfying the parents' curiosity about the sort of schooling their children are getting, ought to stimulate it and inspire a wider and more intelligent interest in school affairs.

JUSTICE BRANDEIS

Justice Louis D. Brandeis of the United States supreme court was 75 years old the other day. Reading the encomiums and praise-ful comments upon his career, it is difficult to realise that he is the man who, 15 years ago, was the target for so much criticism and so many protests when he was nominated for the supreme bench.

Wilson had previously considered appointing him attorney general. The president's friends in New England, hearing of this, assured him that such an appointment would be very unpopular, and Wilson heeded such assurances. Four years later, however, the appointment Brandeis to the supreme court. Then the storm that had been averted in 1912 broke in full fury. William Howard Taft, Elihu Root and President Lowell of Harvard were among those who permitted their names to be used in protests against the appointment. Republican senators were solidly against Brandeis and some Democratic senators were inclined to join them, but were eventually brought into line. Confirmation was effected by a vote that held close to party lines.

Fifteen years later, the Jewish attorney, son of immigrant parents, has won a secure place in the esteem of the nation. Although the liberalism which brought about the opposition to him in 1916 has manifested itself in many of his opinions, it has been attended by such sane-ness and such legal scholarship as to still the critical voices. Today Brandeis stands second to only the venerable Holmes among the justices in the regard of the nation.

THE STILL UNFINISHED TASK

Just a year ago, Joseph A. Kemp died. In the inspired address which his pastor, Dr. N. F. Grafton, delivered at the funeral service, the departed leader was referred to as a Moses who, though brought within sight of a promised land, never entered into it. He died without seeing the consummation of the task to which he had given so much of thought and effort, the development of the irrigated valley.

That task, one year after the chief toiler's death, still is unfinished. But he would rejoice to know that the torch which fell from his failing hand was caught and re-kindled and is being carried on. He would rejoice to know that the faith he held did not die with him, but is today inspiring Wichita Falls to do all that he hoped to see done. Wichita Falls is more fully alive to the possibilities of the valley, more firmly resolved to make the most of those possibilities, than ever before. Its leaders are coming to grips with the task.

If there has been little actual achievement, during the past 12 months, there nevertheless has been much done in a preliminary way, clearing the ground for the task itself. A definite start has been made toward establishment of marketing facilities for the valley's products. A practical program of development is being carefully studied out. Steps are being taken to put competent farmers on the irrigated lands, under conditions which will enable them to become owners. And, perhaps more important than any of these undertakings, the project has come to occupy a dominant place in the thoughts of those who have this city's future at heart. We have come to realize what it can mean, what it must mean.

Consummation of the task will not be easy. It is going to take the patience and the resolution that Joseph A. Kemp exemplified during the three score years that elapsed from the time he conceived the project until he saw the great dams completed and the water flowing through the canals. He carried on because he had a vision that would not let him quit. If we of Wichita Falls have caught that vision, after these wasted years, it is not too much to expect that it will serve the new leadership as it served him.

The coming year will bring a special opportunity in the valley. There is going to be a departure from cotton, as the dominant crop. If it can be demonstrated that the irrigated tracts offer, to those who want to shake off the shackles with which cotton has bound them, the chance to work out a new and more wholesome farming program, we can accomplish a very great deal toward making the vision real. A year hence, there should be a record of achievement that will show the valley definitely on the way to the consummation of the hopes held for it.

Nov. 16 of each year should be a day on which to give an accounting of the progress made, to list the year's achievements and see if we have drawn nearer to the objective. If Wichita Falls goes forward on this task in the spirit which has been manifested in recent months, not many years need to elapse until on some Nov. 16 our city can salute the memory of J. A. Kemp with a pride it has not yet known.

THE NEIGHBORS HELPED

We are told that when the folks up at St. Louis were discussing the baseball franchise question, one thing that weighed heavily was the fact that the chambers of commerce, and various individuals, in Northwest Texas and Southwest Oklahoma communities sent messages pledging their support to the Spudders.

Such a thing could not fail to impress the club's owners. Probably it had much to do with the favorable decision that was reached. Wichita Falls is proud of, and grateful for, the help its neighbors gave.

Old Lady Hides Her Jewels

By GLENN FRANK
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

Great drama, made of the stuff that moves men's souls, is not concocted by the wit of clever playwrights; it springs with poignant power out of the day-to-day-lives of ordinary men and women, now triumphant and now thwarted, as they seek to satisfy the deepest hungers of their hearts.

The papers have been dealing for days with an incident that millions will pass by as but the story of another erratic, but, to me, it carries the supreme pathos of a normal hunger of the human heart thwarted and thwarted and turned aside, and throws a revealing light on the one rusted link in society's armor.

It is the story of an old woman who has, for some time, led the life of recluse. In exquisite gown and still more exquisite jewels, she had danced with the Prince of Wales, later the dashing King Edward, but then visiting the United States as Baron Renfrew. Years passed. She was not to know the love and laughter of children. The outpourings of the heart that are meat and drink to womankind were, with her, to be dammed up. She is now an old woman. In her illness, she was seen to open old trunks and to bring from them the exquisite jewels and gowns that had graced her gayer girlhood. And, I imagine, the light and laughter of other years raced back across her mind as she let these jewels pour through her fingers, as she swished the folds of these gowns to stir engaging memories, and as she pinned large amounts of currency to her night-dress to give her a sense of the buoyant wealth that marked her girlhood.

To relatives all this meant an erratic and irresponsible old age and called for a guardian.

I suspect he would not see her differently.

But our society is so obsessed with the divinity of property that we cannot but think it a bit insane to keep a fortune in jewels just for the love of looking at them, when the glamor and gaiety of life have otherwise passed us by.

I can think of a thousand ways in which men and women are seeking to fill empty spaces in their lives that call for a guardian far more than the wistful practice of this old lady who loves her jewels.

White Lines

Neat white lines the pavement mark,
Show how to stop and where to park.

Those who by the lines are guided,
By traffic cops are seldom chided.

Those who do not crowd or fudge,
Don't have to argue with the judge.

Life, just like traffic, has white lines,
Stop markers, and "no parking" signs.

Plainly showing the direction
To all who'd go with circumspection.

To guide all those who would go right.

But Life, like traffic, has its scorners,
Rushing lights and cutting corners.

Ignoring all Life's traffic cops,
Disregarding all the stops.

To pedestrians they give no thought.

But when at last they have to face
The Judge and try to plead their case,
I shouldn't like to be in their place.

Before he went to Washington, Congressman Garner shipped several bushels of pecans there. Just as if he wouldn't have enough nuts to deal with.

As we understand the situation at Washington the Democrats are going to control the house, and, gosh! how they dread it!

The way the news comes from Manchuria, you can't tell whether the Chinks and Japs are fighting again, or yet.

Discovery

On Thursday night it meant a lot
To some fathers and mothers,
To find that their offspring were not
Any dumber than the others.

We made another discovery that interested us. It was that school teachers nowadays are much better looking than the ones who, when we were a young and bright-faced lad, tried to force some knowledge into our system.

There is no relation, of course, ostween pulchritude and pedadogical ability. But we'll bet that if we'd had as good-looking a bunch as those we met Thursday night, we would have done better.

And now, if there's such a thing as gratitude, there'll be more A's on the next batch of report cards at our house.

Affection

I like my city an awful lot,
Fully as much as I oughter,
But my affection wanes somewhat
When I take a drink of its water.

We understand that the kind of water we're getting now is so unsuited to a certain domestic industry, that the home-brewers are buying bottled water instead. When water is so bad that not even the home-brewers will use it, there's something wrong.

If there's any time when home-brew would really be potable—to a person of discriminating taste in such matters, that is—it would be just after you had taken a drink of the city water.

But that's no recommendation for home-brew, of course. Even spinach would taste good, under the same circumstances.

And now the Grandstand Managers association, which was threatened with forfeiture of its charter, is getting itself reorganized, delinquent members are paying up their dues, and preparations are being made for a busy season.

It won't get to functioning with its old-time efficiency and spirit, however, until the East Texas oil field plays out and some of the charter members return.

System

I hate disorder and disarray,
They give me a cervical pain,
But I wish I could quit putting things away
Where I can never find them again.

The president of the Spanish republic is to receive a salary of $90,000 a year, but he'll probably earn it all.

Besides, there's the risk of his constituents indulging in the old Spanish custom of throwing him out on his ear, without notice.

Secretary of State Stimson was the first to talk over the new long distance telephone to Rumania. We hope he refrained from asking how the king liked his new sister-in-law.

The king's brother had a golden chance for a snappy comeback at Carol, even though he probably didn't take advantage of it. He might have said, "Well, you haven't made any great success of matrimony yourself."

The upshot of the navy fuss seems to be that a president can be uninformed, but never ignorant.

We hope that the affair won't lead to any general inquiry into the question of the ignorance of officeholders.

There are, we are quite sure, a good many ignorant officeholders. But they are never as ignorant as the folks who voted them into office.

Gandhi will take his goat with him when he returns to India. The British didn't get that.

We gather, from what the oil company officials say, that they are not angry at Mr. Allred. Just terribly, terribly hurt.

At any rate, Theodore Dreiser is getting lots of material for "An American Comedy" if he ever writes it.

'Prohibition' Enforcement Difficulties Here, Too!

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON. — Figures may not lie, but they are likely to fool you, just the same. Give a politician a few digits to play with and he makes them lie down, turn over, sit up and do flipflops like a team of trained fleas.

You might think they would have a special government bureau to do all the statistical tricks which are used to entertain the nation, but it isn't necessary because nearly all men in public life have become expert at it. Cabinet officers who pull magic figures from a hat to end depressions have nothing on the Democratic leaders who can prove to the satisfaction of any complete moron that a couple of billion dollars' decline in our foreign trade is entirely due to the Hawley-Smoot tariff.

Shooting holes in the other fellow's round numbers is a very large part of the present propaganda of the Republican and Democratic parties.

Secretary of War Hurley has just announced proudly that his department's budget for 1933 is "approximately $44,000,000 below the appropriations for 1932." And so it is. That figure sounds $30,000,000 better than the cut of $14,000,000 from last year's budget. Congress last year appropriated $30,000,000 more than the army budget, thereby enabling Hurley to compare budget with appropriation instead of budget with budget. This is an especially good trick and almost defies criticism.

Secretary of the Navy Adams, after White House pressure, announced a cut of $60,000,000 in his budget, which sounded all right until it was pointed out that the total budget this year had been $40,000,000 over last year's and that the real cut was only $20,000,000. Hundreds of millions might have been "saved" if this year's original budget had been high enough.

Congressman Luther A. Johnson of Texas has been razzing President Hoover himself, who, in an optimistic formal statement, said the effect of improvement in the credit situation had increased cotton prices by $15 to $20 a bale. Later Hoover corrected himself and said he should have said $5 to $10 a bale, but Johnson still insists that there was no $10 increase in the period to which Hoover referred and that the market reports prove it. Then Johnson says even with increased prices prevailing the first of this month cotton was $7 a bale less than on Aug. 1 and lower than at any similar period in 32 years. Thus the same figures inspire loud cheers from one man and dismal moans from another.

Lately there have been certain encouraging signs in finance and business, but the general tendency has been to bunch them with all annual seasonal improvements and holler that the whole trend is encouraging. The commerce department, however, reports that manufacturing did not experience any of the usual fall gain and that gains in car loadings, retail trade, bank debits, foreign trade and factory employment were less than the normal seasonal rise. That meant that some of the gains were actually losses.

There is also a dandy chance to brag about October's figure as compared with September's, too, because October had 27 working, producing days and September only 25.

And observe how the American Federation of Labor can prove that legalized beer would employ more than 1,000,000 persons, whereas dry organizations use available statistics to show that it couldn't possible employ more than 230,000 and would throw many more than that out of work in other industries.

Fletcherizing

Many people have practiced chewing their food at least 30 times before swallowing it. Health teachers all over the world have been teaching people to masticate more thoroughly. Horace Fletcher taught the layman through various books the necessity for masticating food well, and his name has gone down in history as the foremost exponent of the art of chewing. The word "Fletcherize" is now in all standard dictionaries.

The chemical action taking place in the mouth is this: The digestive fluid of the mouth contains a ferment or enzyme called "ptyalin" which has the chemical power to change starch into forms of sugar called dextrose or maltose. Only five per cent of the entire starch digestion takes place in the mouth, but this is the most important part of the digestion, and is equal in many ways to the other 95 per cent which takes place in the small intestines. If the starch is properly mixed with the saliva, it is changed just enough so that when the starch passes through the stomach it is not harmed by the gastric juice.

Starch must be digested by an alkaline ferment, and the acid of the stomach only interferes with this digestion. Consequently, if the starch is somewhat changed before it reaches the stomach, the stomach acid will not have so pronounced an effect upon it.

There is no doubt but what if food is enjoyed it will digest more readily, and be assimilated more completely. When food is chewed properly, a finer flavor will be noted, as the starch in the food is changed to maltose and dextrose and consequently that food will be more relished. It is not as important to chew protein foods as it is foods containing starch.

One of the greatest objections to cooked foods is that they encourage hasty swallowing, whereas, with the raw foods it is necessary to masticate them thoroughly or they can not be swallowed with comfort.

If you completely masticate your food, you will find that you will eat much less. Many digestive troubles will be overcome by this simple practice of mastication, which will cut down the quantity of food.

Mastication should be practiced diligently if only to give the teeth exercise, as the blood will not circulate in the gums well unless they are properly used. The organic salts and vitamins will likewise be extracted from the food more readily and furnish material for the building of good strong teeth. The raw vegetables are especially valuable for the teeth.

Milk must also be well masticated, and each swallow should be churned about in the mouth before it is swallowed. Then let is just trickle down the throat, a few drops at a time. Otherwise you will find that air is swallowed along with the milk. The curds formed by the action of the acid gastric juice will be smaller if milk is chewed in this way.

To play safe, take plenty of time to eat a small amount of food at each meal. It is folly to hurry through a meal in five minutes, and then spend hours complaining about the indigestion thus produced.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Balanced Diet for Mental Alertness

Question—"A Worried Mother" writes: "Our little girl, 8, has what I call day dreams. It takes her so long to do things. She is not getting along in school this year as last. She eats fairly well, sleeps fair, but her mind isn't as active as it was. Would appreciate advice."

Answer—Growing children must be given plenty of foods containing calcium, silicon and iron. All of the cooked and raw greens contain these important minerals, and without these the child cannot build bone and nerve cells, and be alert mentally and physically. If you have your little girl take a short fruit fast of about four or five days, and follow this with a well-balanced diet including plenty of non-starchy vegetables, I feel sure that you will soon notice an improvement in her general health. She should be given one-pint enemas of plain, warm water at least twice daily during the fast. There are many children who are quite normal apparently, who seem to have dreams or visions during the day. However, by correcting any digestive disturbance that may exist you will find that the child will become more active in every way.

Conspicuous Adam's Apple

Question—F. E. U. writes: "I am a 16-year-old boy and my arms are exceedingly small, slender, since I don't take much exercise. Can you give me a set of exercises or something which I can use to develop them to the size they should be? Also, is there anything that can be done to reduce the size of my Adam's apple? I've never heard of any, so I don't expect a remedy, but I want you to tell me if there is one."

Answer—The Adam's apple is simply the larynx and is quite normal. If it seems to be unusually prominent, it is due to lack of development of the neck muscles. It is usually a good indication to have a large Adam's apple. Developing the muscles of the neck makes it less conspicuous. You should use systematic exercises, also engage in swimming, hiking, athletics, etc.

Twenty Years Ago Today

From Files Wichita Times

Wednesday, Nov. 15, 1911

Frank Kell, vice president and general manager of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern, has just returned from "the front" where he closed contracts for right of way to a point six miles north of Beaver City in Beaver county, Oklahoma, near the Kansas line.

Amoy, China, Nov. 15.—The republicans who took possession of the city yesterday have issued an address to the foreign consuls in which the neutrality of the consuls is requested. Assurance is given that their property, including churches will be protected.

Iowa Park, Texas, Nov. 15.—An oil rig was hauled out to the Fassett ranch, southwest of here yesterday, where work on a well will begin at once.

PONCE DE LEON WILL BE SCHOOL OF RADIO SUBJECT FOR MONDAY

A dramitization based on the life and adventures of Ponce de Leon will be broadcast by the American School of the Air to the school children of the country at 1:30 to 2:00 p. m., central standard time, Monday, Nov. 16, over a nation-wide network of the Columbia Broadcasting system.

The story to be broadcast starts with the episode wherein a young woman comes to Ponce de Leon, who is at that time governor of Porto Rico, and tells him of a land where all sorts of fabulous riches are to be found. But most important of all there is in this land a "fountain of youth" and anyone who drinks from it will remain eternally youthful. Believing this, Ponce de Leon started out with a band of men on the expedition which resulted in the discovery and exploration of Florida.

NEW YORK.—The veteran backstage folk of the Metropolitan Opera take their traditions just as seriously as do the be-diamond gentry who occupy the boxes of the golden horseshoe.

Most of them have been on duty for a generation or more.

Well, take for instance Capt. John Edgar, the famous stage doorman. It was about 25 years ago that he arrived at the Met. He was then a young man who wanted the propinquity of musical artists. He had musical ambitions of his own. There was no place for him in the operatic assemblage, so he took the job of tending the stage door.

But today, as then, he is at the door; ready to receive the newcomer and exit the old-timer.

In one of the many cubby-holes that lead away from the foyer, you'll find Lionel Mapleson. He's the musical librarian and he takes tender care of thousands of musical manuscripts and be able to produce almost any score on a moment's notice.

The Metropolitan recently opened its 49th season; and the Maplesons had been there some 40 years of that time. Few in the world have such an intimate acquaintance with musical manuscripts.

Jules Judels, who has been there almost 40 years, knows exactly where spear-bearers and other extras may be obtained on a few hours' notice.

His is one of the more colorful jobs at the Met, since there are thousands trying to get on the opera stage whatever their role. The spaghetti-and-red-ink parlors of the city are cluttered with gents who drive trucks or taxis and follow odd trades, yet who live for that moment when they can stand in the last chorus line on the operatic stage.

But to get along; Aimee Gerber, who gives out the pay envelopes, came from the old Grau Opera company some 35 years ago; Bill Guard has been a press agent ever since he left the Times building 20 years ago; for a quarter of a century Jacob Butcher has worried about the lights; and it was 20 years ago that Josev Novak began to fret himself about the theater's scenery; Tom Bull, who died about two years ago, had taken tickets at the entrance for so many years that he knew every New York notable by first name and was, perhaps, the only public servant allowed to address them as "Gus" and "Joe"; Hugh Brown, who has been there for 22 years, took his job; Dave Hayes, chief engineer, has 30 years of service; and then there are property men and engineers and box-office folk of equal vintage.

When it comes to matters of sartorial temperament, no one in the theater has had greater experience than Filomena Pamgoni, the wardrobe mistress. She has been there 14 years. And for 26 years, Florence Morton has been answering phone calls in all languages.

SOCIETY

MRS. C. A. ROGERS

MRS. PHILIP OVIATT

MISS VIRGINIA DOUGLAS

IN THE PICTURES — Mrs. C. A. Rogers, popular matron, is president of the Musicians club which will give its first open program of the autumn season at the junior college auditorium Monday evening.

Mrs. Philip Oviatt, pianist of unusual ability, is chairman of arrangements for the Musicians club program and will be one of the accompanists.

Miss Virginia Douglas is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Douglas, pioneers of Electra. She is a member of the Junior Forum and has recently been appointed superintendent of the primary department of the First Christian church Bible school in Electra. Miss Douglas received her bachelor of science degree in education and life certificate to teach kindergarten and primary work from the University of Missouri last June.

First District T. F. W. C. Gives Unusual Report

With clubwomen returning from the T. F. W. C. conference held in Lubbock, Nov. 9, 10, 11, echoes of the report of first district given by the retiring president, Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, are being heard. First district was awarded the prize for the greatest number of county federations received during the year and will hold the silver cup until the next annual conference report. During the administration of Mrs. Oneal, 28 new clubs were added, five of these county federations and one an inter-county federation made up of six county federations that had in the first meeting 250 women. At the district convention last spring, 309 were in attendance.

The American home committee reported 1,400,000 containers of home canned products. "No Waste," was the slogan stressed in county federation meetings. Two of the five master farm home makers of the state are in first district. A survey of the chairman of home economics in the 21 counties in first district showed that in 100 of the 700 schools of less than 500 enrollment, home economics is being taught. Fifty per cent of high school girls elect the subject. In 16 of the 21 counties, there are government home demonstration agents. The chairman of home equipment reported 1,367 improvement in rural homes.

Education

This has been a "Scholarship and Loan" year in first district. Two district funds for the first time in the district history have been created. One, started by Mrs. J. C. A. Guest at Graham was named for the life member of the board, Eunice Graham; the fund is now $275. The other was created by the fine arts department in memory of Mrs. M. P. Bewley and is called "The Bewley Memorial Fund." It now totals around $10,000.

Montague county won first place in terracing and conservation of soil in the state contest at A. & M. college. Mrs. Cad McCall, district chairman, has undertaken reclamation of 580 acres of land in her county; streams on this farm will be set aside as wild flower and bird sanctuaries.

Public Welfare

Of 90 clubs reporting in first district, all but seven reported some health work. An amount totalling $2,900 was given in money by clubs in the district for hot lunches for school children; for food for undernourished children. One thousand hours of work were given by Mrs. St. Andrew Myers, secretary of first district, of Henrietta, who has been unusually active in health work.

Junior clubs in first district reported $1,800 in gifts to senior clubs and outstanding work in social service and in demonstration work.

Four new clubhouses have been added in the past year to the 12 in first district. One at Throckmorton, on a reclaimed log cabin 63 years old, has been restored to its original form and furnished in its original manner by the Buffdale County Woman's club.

Nine pianos and a 15-piece string ensemble under the direction of Miss Annette Walsh will present a double-number of Grainger compositions on the Musicians club's first artists program of the current season, to be given Monday night, Nov. 15, at 8:15 o'clock in the Junior college auditorium. The performance is for the public, without charge.

The ensemble numbers which will conclude the program are the same ones that were heard last spring by a large audience when Miss Walsh presented her annual pupils' recital at the college auditorium. The nine pianos will be manned by well-known local pianists, and the string ensemble includes many of the city's accredited musicians.

"The Nightingale and the Two Sisters," and "Lord Peter's Stable Boy" are the two Grainger creations to be presented by the 24-piece ensemble. As implied by their titles, the two will be lucid tone pictures with the characteristic Grainger strength in descriptive effects.

Miss Walsh also will appear as solo pianist, opening the evening's program with a modern study, "After Midnight," by Rudolph Ganz. One of the foremost pianists in the United States, formerly successful conductor of the St. Louis Symphony orchestra, Ganz also is one of the several eminent teachers with whom Miss Walsh has studied.

Two vocal groups will be included in the musicale planned for Monday night. Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, contralto, will sing an Elizabeth Barrett Browning poem, "How Do I Love Thee?" set to music by Maude Valerie White; "In Autumn," by Pearl Curran, and "Thou Art to Me a Flower," by Degele. Miss Harriett Bradley will play a violin obligato with Mrs. Mahaffey on the Degele number. Accompaniments will be played by Mrs. Phillip M. Oviatt.

The other song group will be given by William E. Young, baritone, using a Haydn number and a ballad by Squire. Mr. Young's accompaniments will be played by Mrs. F. R. Collard.

Popularity of a group of violin solos by Mrs. J. E. Hall is assured by the inclusion of the Wieniawski "Romance," and her second number will be "Serenade." by Pierne. Mrs. Lucille Brooks Huff will play the accompainments.

Miss Walsh will have the following artists in her ensemble: Mrs. Charles Bourland, Miss Geneva Taylor, Mrs. E. H. Eddleman, Miss Lucy Huggins, Miss Katherine Steiner, Miss Sara Creath, Miss Annabel Perkins, Mrs. Paul Taylor and Mrs. C. C. Parfet, pianos; Mrs. J. E. Hall, Mrs. Fred Sharpe, Misses Roberta Lincoln, Thelma Norvell and May Bartlett, first violins; William Donnell, Miss Mathilda Donnell, James Hull, Miss Merrill Strong and Miss Alice Philco, second violins; Mrs. A. PEGGY PIEDMONT Says

CHARITY covers a multitude of luncheons, afternoon teas and morning committee meetings these days. Everybody who is anybody, is on at least one committee meeting to help arrange some of the important charity bazaars or other affairs for sweet charity sake. Sunday school classes are busy preparing for Thanksgiving baskets for needy families and members of the missionary societies are doing likewise, and of course the usual Christmas bazaars are receiving consideration at this time.

THIS is indeed a busy season for Wichita Falls women. With the annual flower show at the Woman's Forum clubhouse occupying all the club women in the city the past week, while many spent three days or longer in Lubbock, attending the state federation meeting, many will have to take a few days off now for a little rest and home duties before launching into more outside activities.

PARENT-TEACHER associations have been busy the past week observing "children's book week" and also with the state congress and parent-teacher meeting which held its 23rd annual convention in San Antonio. All of the schools in the city observed the week with open houses and all of the association units presented special programs. A well known writer on child welfare says that as we learn more about children, so does literature for children improve. From the tiniest tot with his stories written in pictures, to the boy curled deep in a tome of simple mechanics, the new writers are basing their work on the natural development of the child mind.

"BOOKS for young children used to contain harrowing tales of fear. Now, except for large and harmless generalities, that is left out. They used, also, to go in for the goody-goody type of story that could not resist a moral. Now the morals and lessons of behavior are there but so cleverly done that the child does not realize he is being preached to.

"Again old-time books were too often over the child's head, even those written especially for youngsters. Also there were no clever illustrations to hold the eye and attention. In other words, the world and most of its writers were guessing at childhood and its needs and floundering hopelessly as to its literature.

"THE new books are too numerous to name; never has there been such a wealth of excellent reading for young people, from the baby up to the 16 year old, as there is now. It is worth a trip to any book store just to go inside and lose yourself in the fascinating pages of fairyland, adventure and travel."

AS THANKSGIVING draws near and we stop to consider the past year and just what we are thankful for, most of us are prone to remember the depression more than anything else. It is true that in 1931, more than any year since the memorable depression following the war between the states, our country has had to endure great financial losses and even complete failures, yet such experiences have enriched the very lives of those thus impoverished, and hardships and reverses build character. But indeed we in Wichita Falls have much to be thankful for. The lunches for school children of needy families are ever items of thought as are clothing and other articles necessary to keep them in their classes and the day nursery has fed more children the past month than ever before, that the mothers may work and earn a livelihood.

Men in all walks of life have been put to work here in the past few weeks, and all of this causes us to just bubble over with thanksgiving.

AND now after taking time off for the flower show and Lubbock meeting, club women are about to get back into harness and into the regular routine meetings. Tuesday, the literature department of the Woman's Forum will meet when Charles I. Francis will interpret "Charles Eliot" by Henry James, a Pulitzer prize biography. Hostesses on this occasion will include Mesdames Leslie Humphrey, A. H. Carrigan, A. B. Booth, C. H. Clark, E. T. Duff and T. F. Hunter. Thursday afternoon the drama department will present Mrs. Charles William Wallace, well known Shakespearean director, in an afternoon with Shakespeare. Scenes from "Macbeth," "The Merchant of Venice," "As You Like It" and "Taming of the Shrew" will be given with Mesdames John Rhea, John Thomas, E. L. Fulton and Miss Elois Warford, readers. Music will be furnished by the music department of the forum.

EXPERTS say that one of these days, when you go out to replenish your make-up kit, you'll be buying dark brown lipstick, yellow powder and a little green rouge. Sounds queer now, doesn't it? Or you will, that is, providing that you're one of the army of aspiring television actresses.

For the new visual art has come along and upset all the color schemes and beauty roles. Your cheeks may be like the red, red rose, and your lips be appropriately darker. But over the air they would fade into pallid invisibility.

If you're a blonde, the chances are that you'll have considerably more trouble in getting your face across. Brunets show up much better and require less artificial coloring than the fair performers whose hair and features furnish little natural contrast. Both the Columbia and National Broadcasting companies found early in their experimental work that brunets are easier on the eyes, so far as television is concerned. And both chose brunets—Natalie Towers and Dorothy Knapp—as their television test girls.

But now that broadcasting has been begun, and hundreds of different types have appeared before the scanner, it is revealed that certain blonde types also are television "naturals."

It's all a matter of light and shade, of contrasts between subject and background and costume. When a brunet goes into a studio a light screen is placed behind her, and dark curtains furnish the back ground for blondes.

THE features are delineated by artificial means. Red is out of the picture, literally, since it is a fast color that does not register in the projection machine. So lip, brow and eye shadings, as well as the cheeks, must be in almost any other colors but their natural ones.

Well we know one that does not aspire to be a television actress so probably her make-up kit will not change its colors, and that is your old friend.

Y. W. C. A. Board Will Work With Local Bureau

Through its employment department the local branch of the Y. W. C. A. is cooperating with the national movement for unemployment relief instituted by President Hoover under the chairmanship of Walter S. Gifford, according to Irma Schnelle, Y. W. C. A. secretary. The department functions independently and also in connection with the local emergency unemployment bureau.

Last month 69 interviews were given 38 applicants. Of the 17 calls which came to the department from prospective employers, nine were satisfactorily filled. "The percentage was not greater since several of the calls were from out of town and others desired girls to work for board and room only," said Miss Schnelle.

Cooperation is given the national movement through business girls clubs and Girl Reserve clubs and other agencies of the local Y. W. C. A. in compliance with Mr. Gifford's request to the national social work council.

Mr. Gifford said in part that "It is obviously important that localities give careful consideration to a well-rounded community program and undertake to carry forward health work, where needs will be increased; child care which will present even greater demands if the welfare of children is to be looked after, and that considerable group of activities of so-called character building agencies for whose services there has probably never been a greater need, if the morale of young people and adults is to be maintained."

In a letter to Mrs. Robert E. Speer, president of the national board Y. W. C. A., Mr. Gifford thanked her for resolutions passed by the board promising assistance and he said best results can be obtained "if forces like the Y. W. C. A. can be applied to assist united local effort."

In expressing his appreciation to Mrs. Speer, Hoover wrote "The endorsement and cooperation of your board in the work of the unemployment organization and its committees is appreciated indeed."

Wichita Falls Girl Recognized For Unusual Musical Talent

MISS FLORA BRUCE GREENWOOD

Leopold Stokowski, celebrated as the greatest conductor in the entire world has recognized the genius of a Wichita Falls musician. Flora Bruce Greenwood, who has been studying piano in the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia, and harp under Carlos Salzedo, eminent French harpist and composer, is now second harpist in the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra, a musical organization which to this date has only admitted one other woman to its ranks.

Miss Flora Bruce Greenwood, daughter of Mrs. Flora Anderson Greenwood, 1805 Pearl street, has been a musician practically all her life. Her mother recognized her gift while she was very young and, a gifted violinist herself, taught the child to play the violin, until she rebelled, announcing that she liked the piano better. Miss Annette Walsh taught her piano and she also had lessons on this instrument under David Guion and then under Rubin Davies, when she went to Miss Hockaday's school at the age of 14.

After graduating from Miss Hockaday's school, she attended National Park Seminary, Washington, D. C. She was 18 when she decided she chose to major in the harp; she applied for and was granted an audition in the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia, where she has continued since. It was her unusual gift for the harp that attracted Mr. Stokowski's attention and won her the present position.

Miss Greenwood will return to Wichita Falls for the month of June and will rejoin the orchestra in July to take her part in the concerts given in the Robin Hood Dell, during July and August. Philadelphia's "Dell" is comparable only to Hollywood's "Bowl," and it is quite as popular with lovers of music.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

When the others had gone, their gay voices drifting back careless with light laughter, Sue looked at Jack. He was serious tonight. The whimsy was gone from his gray eyes. He looked tired.

"Sue," he said abruptly, "how much money does it take to swing a house?"

"Not much to swing one like we'll be having," Sue answered. "I've been trained to be economical. You'll be surprised at the things I'll make a dollar buy."

"Sure you don't mind sacrificing a little bit?" Jack asked. "I hate like the deuce to ask you to. But I can't see daylight."

"Don't let that worry you," she answered. Sue left her chair and went to sit on the arm of his. Jack's arm reached up and pulled her down and she brushed her lips lightly across his forehead. "We haven't a thing to worry about as long as we have . . . each other. And besides, didn't you make money on that trip of yours?"

He nodded. "I did—but when I started to balance up figures it isn't as much as I thought it would be. Or it doesn't go as far as I thought it would. Something's the matter."

"Maybe we had better take an apartment and let the house go," Sue said slowly.

"Not much!" He laughed, more like himself. "I'm strong for four walls of my own. Only . . . are you sure you want the house?"

"Of course I do." Her dark blue eyes were a little surprised. "Jack, something else is wrong. What is it?"

"Nothing." Then he changed his mind. "Sue, I've got some invitations at the office to parties and dinners. We'll have to go. And I want you to meet these people. But we'll have to do some entertaining ourselves. And my club dues are falling due. Dad took care of them before. Paid them all. But now . . ."

"I'm sort of an expensive addition to the family," Sue said slowly. "You'd better let me go to work. And we'll take an apartment."

"Oh, no you won't, and no we won't," Jack answered, his arm tightening. "We'll swing it. But I just got scared. How about making out a budget?"

"Fine." Sue nodded. "But hadn't we better wait until we're moved and see how much our expenses are going to be?"

"I guess you're right. We'll have to put some money aside for the housewarming, you know. Everybody will come. Let's forget it now. Sure you aren't sorry you took a chance on me?"

"Sorry I took a chance on you?" Sue's very words were startled. "Of course not. Don't be foolish. Money doesn't mean anything at all to me. You should know that."

But all the rest of the evening Sue couldn't get the thought out of her head that a dollar sign was casting a shadow over the future. Money was very important, she kept telling herself. They needn't worry. But she wondered . . . Why did girls try to keep their hearts free when they came in contact with men who had nice dispositions and flat pocketbooks? Why did they say that it was better to give yourself a chance to take both love and money?

But Jack was different! And she could do her own work and keep herself as attractive as ever. Any girl who couldn't was just . . . just . . .

Next: An accident.

WILL OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

MR. AND MRS. S. L. PHILLIPS

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Phillips will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary, or golden wedding, Tuesday at the home of their son, O. L. Phillips, 2011 Grant street. Mr. Phillips was 70 years old Nov. 3, and his wife was 67 March 18, 1931. They were married in Tennessee, on Nov. 17, 1881, and eight years later moved to Texas, arriving in Waxahachie, Aug. 29, 1889.

As true pioneers and Texans, these two relate many stories of the early days in Texas, when there were no automobiles, no paved roads, no telephones, no rural mail routes and many other conveniences which we overlook entirely as we go forward grumbling about hard times, forgetting the millions of automobiles that in accordance with the old prophecies, are going "to and fro and jostling each other in the streets" and also the airplanes which "as doves to their windows" soar about in the air.

Mr. Phillips tells of his experiences on a certain trip he made through Wichita Falls on his way into Oklahoma in the nineties. Driving a bunch of cattle and hauling his household goods in covered wagon, he remembers Wichita Falls as only a small, straggling town, nestling in the valley with the North Texas blizzards whistling over it and surrounded by wide open prairies, dotted about with prairie dog holes.

"In those days there were many emigrants toiling slowly westward, in their covered wagons and bringing up the rear with a bunch of cattle and horses," he says. "Those same pioneers who helped tot blaze the western trails and to whom we owe so much in the development of the western and northern territories."

Since their arrival in Waxahachie they have been residents of Texas, with the exception of about two years spent in Oklahoma while Mr. Phillips filed on a claim in the vicinity of Snyder.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips have been blessed with 50 years of happy married life and unusually good health, and with their two children, O. L. Phillips of Wichita Falls, and Mrs. J. J. Morris of Cumby, Texas, are still enjoying, with the exception of the death of one grandchild, (Mrs. J. O. Newcomb, of Dallas), an unbroken family circle.

An overflowing audience at Reagan Junior high Thursday evening heard a special Thanksgiving address given by Mayor Walter E. Nelson at the regular parent-teach- meeting which followed the open house evening held by all city schools. Mr. Nelson's address featured the thanksgiving that should be felt for homes with families living in them, sharing each others joys and blessings. He paid an especially beautiful tribute to the mothers and wives of the world and the humor and sympathetic understanding of his address held his audience's attention.

Rev. J. E. Montgomery, pastor of Highland Heights Christian church spoke on "The Effect of Good Reading on the Development of Character," stressing the necessity of putting high class reading matter into the hands of the youth of today. "Youth," he said, "is a plastic clay and susceptible to all outside influences." He spoke of the ever broadening vista for the mind opened by good books and of the development and appreciation of honorable living fostered by them.

The program was opened with a special musical number sung by the Harmony Boys Glee club, followed by an orchestral number, "The Rosary." The stage was then cleared for a large group of the Melody Girls Glee club, who sang "Home to Our Mountains." Miss Rachel Davis, musical director, directed the musical program. Miss Nettie Maxine Baber accompanied the girls glee club.

Mrs. E. C. deMontel gave the devotional and in observance of Good Book week, spoke briefly on the Bible, not from a historical or religious viewpoint but solely from the angle of literature.

Mrs. Monte Staniforth, president of the P.-T. A. presided in a brief business session, then gave the chair to the program chairman, Mrs. W. E. Timblin. W. A. Franklin principal of the school spoke in appreciation of the manner in which parents had responded to the National Educational week project of the night school session. He urged that the parents visit more frequently throughout the year and stated that the faculty was always glad to welcome them at any time.

Approximately 500 visiting parents participated in the cafeteria dinner, the calsses and program. Much praise was given departmental exhibits. A demonstration of the cooking class was given by serving hot coffee and cake just prior to the program. Approximately 200 parents were unable to find seats in the auditorium for the program. Mesdames D. B. Sewell, E. H. Yager and R. W. Reynolds registered the guests.

World's Champ?

LONDON.—When Lewis Clarke was small, he was so puny and ill that he was unable to attend school. Through a system of exercise he has built himself up so that now, at 16, he is considered the strongest youth of his age in the world. He can break nails with his fingers, drive a six-inch nail through a plank with his hand, and can support a heavy anvil on his chest while someone pounds it with a sledge hammer.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS

The executive board of the local council will meet at local headquarters for the bimonthly luncheon, Wednesday noon. All members are urged to attend.

Training Course

No class was held in guardian training course last week, but will meet at 9:30 on Tuesday of this week. Plans will be made for an outdoor meeting.

Nutrition Class

Members of the fire makers nutrition class held their discussion class on Monday afternoon, previous to the preparing and serving of the fire makers dinner by the members. The discussion centered around vitamins, and their functioning in the body, and the types of foods producing necessary vitamins.

The menu which was planned at a previous meeting was carried out. The girls purchased the food, cooked, served and ate the meal of Spanish rice, creamed peas, cabbage slaw, and ambrosia.

Those taking part were Gladys Young, Ruth Loughridge, Madilane Hokett, Ruth Thomas, Lois Schram. Miss Pearl Rorabaugh, instructor for the class, Miss Beulah Lane and Miss McIlheran enjoyed the meal with the girls.

The next class will be held on Monday afternoon. Plans will be made for the out-of-door meal to be cooked by members. All girls are to turn in menus, check up an evaluation cards, and report cooking done at home.

Red Cross Seals

Camp Fire Girls have taken over the folding of letters and seals to be mailed out for Anti-Tuberculosis society. Various groups will give their group meeting over to this service this week. Girls may also work on them at the local headquarters every afternoon this week. Service time will be given to all who help. This is a wonderful work which is being done by the Anti-Tuberculosis society, and Camp Fire Girls are happy to have a small part in such a service.

Armistice Day Parade

Visit to Geraldine

Miss McIlheran visited the Camp Fire group at Geraldine school near Holliday on Friday afternoon. Miss Hazel Chamberlain has reorganized this group which was originally organized by Mrs. Harrington, later taken over by Mrs. Mary Harolson, and has been inactive for several months. The girls have the use of a small "shack" for a clubhouse. They have begun the beautification of the clubhouse and have plans to transform it into a spot which will be a pride to the community.

On Friday the girls made a study of symbolism, as many have not chosen their own names as yet. Symbolism will be used to a large extent in planning decoration for the club house. Miss Chamberlain is proving what Camp Fire can mean to the girls in a small community.

Oawakiya Group

The Oawakiya group met at the home of Lorita Tanner, 1113 Taylor on Thursday afternoon. A program committee of Margaret Hutchinson, Willie Mae Bralley and Ethel Ranbarger was appointed to plan with the guardian for meetings for the group. Suggestions as to what the group wants to accomplish during the year were discussed.

At the next meeting, to be held at the home of the guardian, Mrs. Frank Schram, 2001 Pearl, an election of officers will be held.

Nowestompatimmin

The Nowstompatimmin group will meet at the home of Bess Pauline Huddleston, 2128 Avenue K, on Wednesday afternoon. No meeting was held last week.

Book Week Extra

An interesting and intriguing mimeographed folder from the Kemp library has been received at the local headquarters, telling of the splendid program outlined for book week, at the library. We notice that two of our Camp Fire Girls, Nadene Steward and May Anna Duncan have been chosen from their respective schools as hostesses. Camp Fire Girls, let's visit the Kemp library 100 per cent this week, as it is sure to be worth while.

MOCK TRIAL TO BE PRESENTED FIRST BAPTIST

A mock murder trial in which well-known citizens will take the parts of the defendant, prosecutor, officials, jurors, witnesses and others usually connected with such trials will be held at the First Baptist church Thursday evening at 7:30. The public is invited and admission will be free.

The whole setting will deal with the "killing" of a man by his friend, who, it is shown, was under the influence of liquor at the time he struck the blow which snuffed out a life, left a widow and family of fatherless children.

The "Trial" is being put on by cooperation of the churches and is a means of pointing out a lesson in prohibition law enforcement. Twenty-five prominent local leaders of this city will take part in this trial. The cast follows:

Judge—Guy Rogers.
Sheriff—W. G. Bralley.
Jack Stiles, Bootlegger—B. D. Sartin.

Mrs. Lloyd, Defendant's Mother—Mrs. George Fleming.
Mrs. Wright, Wife of Deceased—Mrs. Curtis Young.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF WAR WILL DISCUSS ARMY AVIATION IN 1931

F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war, in charge of aeronautics, will discuss "Army Aviation in 1931" in an address Monday, Nov. 30, from 5:45 to 6 p. m. C. S. T. over a coast-to-coast network of the Columbia Broadcasting system.

Mr. Davidson, who flies almost daily, speaks with authority on aviation matters. He was a member of the famous "Yale Unit" which trained some of the most active fighting aviators who operated over the lines in France during the war—Yale men—and has been intimately associated with military and commercial aviation ever since. He chose politics as his career but found a mixture of politics and aviation most to his liking. He was appointed to the post he now holds in 1926. His annual report on aviation, a closely read publication, will be released coincidental with the address over the Columbia network.

AMUSEMENTS

Peggy Shannon in "Touchdown," with Richard Arlen, Charles Starrett, Regis Toomey, Jack Oakie and Howard Jones, famous mentor of football teams at the University of Southern California, at the Majestic Sunday and Monday. On the same program you will see "Jazz Reporter" and Paramount news in sound.

Madge Evans bids a fond farewell to Hardie Albright, who entrusts her to the care of his friend, Charles Farrell in "Heartbreak," at the State three days, starting Sunday.

'Touchdown' With Richard Arlen At Majestic Sunday and Monday With State Theater Playing 'Heartbreak'

Stars of the films and stars of the gridiron combine their artistries to make "Touchdown," now playing at the Majestic, the sensation of all football films.

Richard Arlen plays the central role. First he appears as a player on a big, successful team; for the remainder of the action he is the coach of a big university, winning game after game until the final tense scenes when he is forced to lose the one big game. Arlen played football in his college days.

Charles Starrett is another young film actor who played football (at Dartmouth) before becoming a screen favorite. He has a very important role as the star kicker on Arlen's team.

Regis Toomey, who also appears in grid togs, played freshman football at the University of Pittsurgh. He is Arlen's love-rival in the story for the hand of Peggy Shannon, the auburn-haired beauty who supplanted Clara Bow in "The Secret Call" and has been zooming to fame ever since.

Those are a few reasons why this picture is away ahead of any other football picture ever made. Another reason is that it's human stuff. A story so potent that even if it were shorn of all super-thrills of the gridiron, it would still stand out as a great romantic-dramatic film document.

To make your evening complete you will see "Jazz Reporter," a Davis and Band act, and Paramount news in sound.

"Once a Lady"

One of those events looked forward to, and cherished by movie millions, is a new Ruth Chatterton picture starting at the Majestic next Tuesday. The newest opus for the "first lady" of the films is titled "Once a Lady," and is a melange of the surefire dramatic clay which this emotional sculptress so effectively handled in "Madame X," "Sarah and Son" and "Anybody's Woman."

"Ambassador Bill"

Will Rogers, it seems, is one of those rare individuals who are able to go through life as though the false fronts of other people did not exist. And what is rarer still, he is able to do this without giving offense to others.

This, of course, is only because the man is not limited by his wisecracks. One invariably feels a depth of wisdom and universal sympathy beneath the most biting phrase.

This humane quality is said to reach its full flavor in "Ambassador Bill," which opens at the Majestic next Friday.

The Majestic also presents "Ambassador Bill" as a midnight benefit show Saturday.

In addition you will see "Deception," football for the fans; "Fishing Around," a Micky Mouse cartoon, and Fox news in sound.

"HEARTBREAK" AT STATE SUNDAY FOR THREE DAYS

Although not a war picture, "Heartbreak," which opens a three-day engagement at the State Sunday, is a story based on incidents occurring during the war, and for this reason presents a colorful and entertaining background. The principal player in "Heartbreak" is Charles Farrell, supported by Madge Evans, Hardy Albright and Paul Cavanaugh.

The theme of the drama is woven about the romance of Farrell, as an American representative in the Vienese embassy. The romance is interrupted by America's entry into the war. Farrell has also become a friend of Hardy Albright, his sweetheart's beloved twin brother, whom fate decrees he shall meet in fatal combat, being sent to death without raising a hand in his own defense, out of loyalty to a pre-war friend and the respect of his sister's love. An honorable desertion, which is his only way of atoning for his crime, brings about a dramatic climax to the story.

"Honor of the Family"

Opening Wednesday for a three-day engagement, Bebe Daniels brings to the screen one of the widely read stories of Honore Balzac, rewritten however, to conform with modern times. And up-to-the-minute as it is, Bebe Daniels is seen as the coquettish and daring nurse and "companion" to the aged and absurdly rich Hungarian nobleman. Supporting Miss Daniels is a new and dashing hero of the screen, Warren William.

Gem Will Feature 'Huckleberry Finn' Starts on Sunday

"School days, school days! Oh the golden-rule days!"

Time will be turned back nearly a hundred years Sunday at the Gem where "Huckleberry Finn," Mark Twain's rollicking comedy of youth will open its two-day run, and young and old and medium aged will live again the "good old days" with Jackie Coogan as Tom Sawyer, Junior Durkin as Huck Finn, and Mitzi Green as Becky Thatcher.

Again the cast of young featured players who won such a fresh response from American screen audiences tired of gangster movies and problem pictures, portray the immortal characters of Mark Twain's story. "Huckleberry Finn" continues the adventures of "Tom Sawyer." More than two hundred lovably old-fashioned youngsters are seen in the picture.

Luckily the proficient adult cast seen in "Tom Sawyer" has not been tampered with. Clara Blandick again grumbles and groans through the trials of Tom's Aunt Polly, and the jolly Jane Darwell placidly adapts herself to the strange moods of Huck. Two notable additions to the adult cast, Eugene Pallette and Oscar Apfel, seen as a pair of desperadoes from whom Tom and Huck rescue two defenseless girls, add a new note of comedy.

Little Jackie Searl again wins hearts with his impudent portrayal of Sid, Tom's annoying little brother.

BILLIE BURKE

Billie Burke, who comes to the Memorial auditorium Wednesday night, Nov. 25, for one performance only in the New York comedy hit, "The Vinegar Tree," began her illustrious career in England, although she was born in America—in Washington, D. C., if her biographer is correct.

Her parents sent her to England when she was 12 years old to improve her voice. Then she was taken to France so that she could acquire that language to add to her list of accomplishments. She speaks French today as fluently as English as a result of that trip to the continent.

George Edwardes first engaged her in London for "The School Girl" and the English public took her to its heart so that he starred her successively in "The Duchess of Dantzic," "The Blue Moon" and "The Belle of Mayfair."

Then along came the astute Charles Frohman, who saw in this dainty singing and dancing star far greater possibilities than were offered in musical shows. He brought her to America as leading woman for John Drew in "My Wife." The instantaneous hit she made in that play proved that Mr. Frohman was right and the next year he elevated her to stardom in "Love Watches." After that musical comedy became only a name for Miss Burke for she was the most popular of all comedy stars in America. Hit followed hit, and each more firmly established the blue-eyed, red-haired Irish girl as the idol of theatergoers from coast to coast. A few of her steller triumphs were "The Mind the Paint Girl," "Jerry," "Mrs. Dot," "The Marquise" and "The Truth Game."

"The Vinegar Tree," her present vehicle, was played in New York by Mary Boland, but Belasco and Curran realized that the part cried aloud for Billie Burke. After much persuasion they lured her away from her country estate on the Hudson at Hastings to play Laura Merrick on the coast. Their sapient wisdom has been rewarded by the greatest financial triumph in the history of coast theatricals.

Advance mail reservations are now being accepted by addressing H. C. Cheshire, care Renfro Drug, Wichita Falls, or by phoning 9047. The downtown ticket sale will open Saturday, Nov. 21 at Renfro Drug.

Civic Theater Players to Show Satirical Comedy Next Friday Night Benefit P.-T. A. Charities

By MRS. EWING WATKINS

Plans for combining a worth while benefit and an interesting entertainment continue as the Wichita council of the P.-T. A. starts the ticket selling campaign for "A Successful Calamity," the three-act comedy to be presented by the Civic Theater players for the benefit of the school children's lunch and clothing fund, at the Memorial auditorium, Nov. 20.

Treating with factitious satire the troubles of a multi-millionaire, Clare Kummer has concocted a delightful and, judging by its popularity on Broadway a few years ago, successful comedy. J. C. Straus Jr., director of the Civic Theater players, has chosen a cast aptly fitted to impersonate all the charming—and despicable—characters in Miss Kummer's mad picture of 24 hours in a millionaire's home.

Henry Wilton, the lonesome plutocrat, will be smypathetically characterized by H. H. Ferrel. Mr. Ferrel will be remembered as the older and less gracious brother in the recent "A Lady's Veil," but as the adoring husband and father in the Wilton mansion. Mr. Ferrel returns to the type of role he has so successfully enacted several times on the Little Theater stage.

When Wilton finally rebels at being led from one dull social function to another and uses drastic measures to assure himself of one quiet evening at home he discovers anew that the family he seldom sees is a most attractive group. Miss Mary Virginia Barron will portray his young, second wife, Emmy, with the poise and grace which marked her Little Theater work in the past. Two newcomers to the Civic theater will impersonate Wilton's worldly son and daughter. Paul Barnett Jr., will make his initial appearance as the blase young son, Eddie. Far from being an amateur in dramatics however, Paul is an accredited declaimer in the high school here and has debated successfully in district contests. Miss Goldie Davis of Electra will contribute an interesting interpretation of careless youth in the role of Marguerite, Wilton's daughter.

On the memorable night when Henry Wilton stays at home he learns many things about his amazing family. Most important to him is the infatuation of an Italian artist, Rafaelo, with his wife. Being a prosaic American business man and fond of the lady in question, Wilton's reaction to the suave, hand kissing artist is the usual one. Drew McCully will portray the amorous Rafaelo.

Of less importance but undeniable interest to Wilton is the engagement of Marguerite to two equally eligible and uninteresting young men. Since Marguerite announces honorable intentions toward both of them and swears she loves neither, Wilton's natural disapproval of his daughter's irregular conduct is completely subjugated by his astonishment. Those two young wooers will be portrayed by Ridley Maples and Arvil Davis. And when Eddie is alternately engaged to and jilted by lovely Julia Partington, through the entire evening of Henry Wilton's "at home," the harassed millionaire seems justified in casting furtive glances over his shoulder in search of a possible cupid. The last young modern will be impersonated by Miss Joan Fox.

In the capacity of Dr. Broodie, the family physician, Gerald Coffey, another popular Civic Theater star, will make a hurried appearance after a sleeping powder, originally intended to calm nerves frayed by too many teas and too much contract, is administered to an entirely unsuspecting person. A. F. Edwards, who will be pleasantly remembered from past theater productions, will enact the role of John Beldon, the other half of the firm of Wilton & Beldon—honest millionaires.

Two experienced players represent the servants in the Wilton household. Miss Jennie Louise Hindman will lend grace and beauty to the impersonation of the saucy French maid, Albertine. With an intriguing accent she will rebel at being dignified and impersonal while all around her "eet ees spreeng." While in direct opposition Harold White will personify loyalty and dignity as Connors, the butler.

No reserved seats will be honored at the benefit performance of "A Successful Calamity." Tickets may be purchased from school children and any seat may be had for 50 cents. The play will be presented one night, Nov. 20, at the Memorial auditorium.

MASKAT'S FALL CEREMONIAL TO BE BIG AFFAIR

Maskat Temple ceremonial of Nov. 25, 1931, has been planned with the thought of making the day a civic occasion for Wichita Falls and the surrounding territory. Plans, in which the civic bodies and merchants of the city are cooperating, are under way to make this a banner day.

There will be something doing all day long and a parade at 4 o'clock in the afternoon will include the civic and military bodies, as well as the regular and many new features of the Shrine parade.

The potentate, W. B. Hamilton, has appointed Kindel Paulk, director general for the ceremonial and he and his assistants, with the aid of the entire nobility, are working to make this day unique in Shrine history.

TIMES BOOK REVIEW AND LITERARY LANTERN

The Literary Lantern

burns weekly in the Sunday Times and is intended to throw light on writings around and about the South. Communications for this column should be addressed to the Editor of the Literary Lantern.

This week we offer "Lantern" readers a check list of southern books for boys and girls. There are so many worthwhile juveniles that only the briefest mention may be made of each one, and the score or more of historical and adventure tales must be treated in a later issue.

Song Collections

"American Songs for Children," collected by Winthrop B. Palmer (Macmillan, $2.50), contains 32 songs, most of them of the jingly, folk-tune variety which all children love. Sixteen of the selections are from the South, and include such gay ditties as "Turkey in the Straw" and "The Wedding of Miss Duck," some familiar negro spirituals and less familiar but very amusing play-songs. The New England section gives the little-known round, "The Man Who Has Plenty of Peanuts" and there are equally catchy songs from the West. The simple piano arrangements of the music are by Fiona McCleary. A crowning touch to a really lovely book is given by the sassy and joyous pictures of Harrison Cady.

Story Collections

"Around the Hearth Fire," edited by Wilhelmina Harper (Appleton, $2.50), seasonal stories of Christmas, Thanksgiving and Easter are collected together from the pages of The Youth's Companion. If you like the sentiment of that magazine this book is for you (or your young folks). The best numbers are by Ben Ames Williams, Mary Austin and Charles Tenny Jackson, episodes concerned with Christmas in the South.

Animal Stories

"Sammy and Silverband" (Houghton Mifflin, $2) is a tale of the African jungle by Janet Miller of Tennessee. When we finished her recent "Jungles Preferred" we recounted some of her experiences to a few children handy hereabouts and they were fascinated with the adventures of this brave woman doctor, clamoring for more about the animals, savages, witch-doctors and all sorts of perils and fascinations of the Belgian Congo. As if in answer to their demands Dr. Miller has written a book for children, all about a little boy of 8 and his pet elephant and the everyday events which seem marvelous adventure to us. The common run of the jungle birds and beasts hobnob with Sammy, very much as the animals of the Indian jungle did with Mowgli. This is an absorbing tale. Erick Berry contributes some of her animal pictures—a further treat.

"Igloo," as nearly all medium-sized children know, was Admiral Byrd's dog, a little fox terrier, frisky and impudent, but a hero. He had more travels and adventures to his credit than most explorers know. For Igloo accompanied Admiral Byrd to both the north and south poles, with many journeys in between. Jane Brevoort Walden has written the biography of "Igloo" (Putnam, $2.50) in rather a grown-up style. But older boys and girls—and parents—will enjoy it thoroughly. There is a foreword by Admiral Byrd and 100 spirited dog sketches by Diana Thorpe.

Stories of Southern Life

"Miss Jimmy Deane," by Rose B. Knox (Doubleday, Doran, $2), of Alabama and North Carolina, gives a happy picture of a life on a southern plantation "in the ol' days befo' the war." "Miss Jimmy Deane" and her pickaninny maid and playmate, Darling, are two quite believable and charming madcaps. They romp and caper from the Big House to the Quarters and all about the woods and fields of Pleasant Meadows. The story is rich in details of old southern living; the characters are charmingly real; the author's style has the simplicity and youngness which are required in good juvenile writing—what more could one desire for a truly charming gift book.

"The Pickaninny Twins," by Lucy Fitch Perkins (Houghton Mifflin, $1.75) will be hailed by young-uns who know, as another of those grand twin books. The 21st in the series it is. Ever since Mrs. Perkins' story and pictures of "The Dutch Twins" started the young appetite, there has been a clamor for her twin stories and, as far as we can remember, "The Pickaninny Twins" are the cutest of the lot. Every southerner knows that there was never anything cuter than a little pickaninny. Brother and sister all of a size are irresistible. Mrs. Perkins created a lifelike pair. This is a beautifully printed and illustrated volume, and its low price is no doubt due to the tremendous number of copies which will be sold.

"The Red and White Secret," by Florence Selden Pepie, (Garrett and Massie, $2) is laid in the Virginia Blue Ridge. It is rather a commonplace, studied picture of an 8-year-old whose father goes to fight in the world war.

"Zeke," by Mary White Ovington (Harcourt, Brace, $2) is a story of struggle and development in a negro school down South. Writing seriously, but not over-moralistically, the author records some of the problems and scrapes which badger the young initiate until he finally becomes a model pupil of the school. If all young southern boys could read this book they would evolve a spirit of sympathy and understanding with negro youth, fine equipment for meeting the problem of race relations in later days.

"Orange Winter," by Marjorie Medary, (Longmans, Green, $2) makes one wonder why more juveniles are not written with Florida as a setting. This well-written book for older girls, recounts the pioneering exploits of one Hetty. Ambitious for college, a bizarre desire in the 1880's, she earned the means as one of the first orange growers in Florida, but not without mishaps and excitement.

"Waterless Mountain," by Laura Adams Armer (Longmans, Green, $2) has already been praised in this column as a distinguished and beautiful piece of book-making. It is all about the Indians of the Southwest; a poetic and fascinating volume.

Books Instructive, More or Less

"Wonder Windows," by Eugenia Rockford (Dutton, $2) tells younger boys and girls the stories of craftsmen in different countries and then instructs them exactly how to go about making the characteristic objects. Japanese block prints, Dutch tiles, miniature Navajo blankets, modeled bowls, are some of the things to be created by the child-reader. Miss Eckford's instructions are clear and her stories attractive. She has taught art in North Carolina College for Women, the summer school of the university, at George Washington university and Maryland State normal.

"Prize Winners' Book of Model Airplanes," by Carl H. Claudy (Bobbs-Merrill) is the handbook for the older boy mechanic. Sixty-one different experts tell how they made their working models and give diagrams to explain the text.

"The Romance of Transport," by Ellison Hawks (Crowell, $3) is a book distinctly for the older boy. With its generous number of illustrations, this volume gives the development of various means of covering ground, from camel travel and Roman roads to Fords and electrical passenger ships. A fascinating book!

"How Our Government Is Run," by Inez N. McFee (Crowell, $2.50) seems a heavy title for a young people's book. But there is much of interest in this clear explanation of the workings of different departments in American government. The serious-minded young citizen will find the text well worth wading through, even if it is hard going at times. Incidentally, any one who reads this book will become thoroughly acquainted with the city of Washington.

"North America," by Lucy Sprague Mitchell (MacMillan, $3.50) is designed to inject geography palatably into the mind of the youngster who should be just hungry to know all about his own land. Mrs. Mitchell's success is attained by appealing strongly to the child's imagination, by giving stories and introducing real people from different localities, by referring often to the many explanatory illustrations which are so different from ordinary geography pictures. The author evidently has ways with children, learned from long teaching experience and from comradeship with her own small family. Any child from 9 up should, in fact must, enjoy this volume.

"The Stars for Sam," by W. Maxwell Reed (Harcourt, Brace, $3) is a companion to "The Earth for Sam," and tells in intimate and even frivolous fashion, the weighty tale of this universe. One reading this volume to a child will be surprised to find himself suddenly swallowing, and actually enjoying, all sorts of once-dry information, geology and astronomy in a glittering disguise. The book may be understood and enjoyed by youngsters long before the suggested age of 12, and 16 is by no means the limit of the other side.

"Builders and Books" by Annie Russell Marble (Appleton, $2.50) combines the stories of American history and literature in a short and handy account for young folks. This is rather a large order, so no reader should be disappointed that the book skims blithely over important events in a somewhat superficial manner.

A Voice of Beauty

"ARROWS OF DESIRE" by Mary Hoxie Jones, The Macmillan Company, $1.50.

"Arrows of Desire," by Mary Hoxie Jones is a slender volume of verse by a new poet—one whom her publishers acclaim as possessor of a fresh lyric gift and a sensitive ear.

Poetry is a different thing to different people. To me it is that feeling for beauty so expressed that even if meter and scanning fail, I thrill to thought and words. There are poets whose torches will light future ages, but there are also poets whose verses are charming reading and because of whose work the world is made a better place. Just as there are mammoth "mums" that win blue ribbons at flower shows and there are also great bushes of little old fashioned flowers that spell joy for many a person.

Poetry is an escape from a dull routine. Mary Hoxie Jones loosed my spirit with more than one of the verses in her book. With her in "March," I almost heard the cardinal sing, saw the larch sprout and the buds shove and felt spring hurrying over the hill.

The writer's love of nature is shown in "Incomplete Death," in "Passage," and in "Autumn," "How very brief the rose,"—"I shall keep groping for another spring."

I am glad to add my small voice of praise to the charming verses of this new poet. The world is so full of versifiers who go by that name that one who lifts a veil to show the golden horizons should receive an accolade. —L. N. CASON.

Reds in America

"T. N. T." by Edwin Marshall Hadley, The Tower Press, Inc. $1.00.

In the small compass of scarcely more than a hundred pages, Col. Edwin Marshall Hadley, presents to the reader of his new book "T. N. T." a bird's-eye view of the spread of communism in America.

Apathy and indifference toward the spread of communism is viewed by the author as the most distressing phase of the present situation. "Always," he says, "has the decadence of a nation followed the apathy and false toleration of the citizen." He makes the startling declaration that there are more Reds in America today than in Russia when the anarchists massacred their way into power.

It is to combat the apathy and wake America to its dangers that Colonel Hadley conceived the book. —M. E. D.

Season's Best Children's Books

By AVALON E. RINES
Children's Librarian Kemp Public Library

It is with pleasant anticipation that I view the stacks of new children's books surrounding me. With their bright covers, attractive lettering and decoration, what a gay array they present. How appealing to the eye! The publisher and craftsman have certainly gone far to give children good "first impressions." They are intriguing and I am anxious to get between the covers of this top one.

But suddenly a not altogether pleasant thought disturbs the state of mind. It makes one a trifle less eager to begin closer examination. The imagination paints a fine plum pudding gayly bedecked and adorned with holly. It, too, is irresistible so we eagerly cut the first piece—alas, only to find that it has no plums!

The most satisfying discovery about the children's books of the season is that the plums are there! Proof has reassuringly come in the eating. Once inside the covers, we are convinced that publisher, craftsman, author, and illustrator have combined their efforts so as to make the child's book a unit of beauty from binding design to tailpiece.

Let us cut the pudding for our youngest children first. Many of the season's loveliest picture books have a foreign flavor.

"When the Root Children Wake Up," by Sibylle von Olfers (Stokes) comes to us from Germany. It is a truly beautiful and unusual picture book of how things happen in nature at the coming of spring. Little children will find endless fascination in its color, humor, and detail.

"The Tale of the Wee Little Old Woman" (Harper) is another one of Elsa Beskow's famous picture books of Sweden. It is done in her usual lovely color and carefulness as to detail. The pictures themselves tell the story for the tiny child—and that alone makes it a true picture book.

When Wanda Gag makes a new picture book, we know it will be accepted by small book-lovers immediately. "Millions of Cats" offers proof for that statement. This year we have "Snippy and Snappy" (Coward), a perfectly fascinating story of two field mice. The artist's black and white drawing have a sturdiness, a humor, and a sort of sophistication that has endless appeal for little children.

William Nicholson, whose "Clever Bill" of two years ago was a real contribution, has given us this season, "The Pirate Twins." The drawings again are excellent. The book is full of fun and the picture book age child will have a really good time over it. For the naughty pirate twins "bit their nails, sucked their thumbs, put things in the cat's milk, and even played dominoes in bed!"

Emma Brock, Helen Sewell and the Haders all have a contribution to the season's output of picture books. These artists' works have, in a few year's time become very popular with children who like fun and color in their picture—and what child doesn't?

In the "Greedy Goat" (Knopf), Miss Brock has given us a story of Austria and has illustrated the hand lettered text, as usual, in soft line drawing.

Helen Sewell has been very generous with her art in "A Head for Happy" (Macmillan). The amusing and interesting pictures tell the story of the search three little girls made for a head for a doll they made. We are very pleased with this book and feel sure that little children will find it just as delightful.

"The Farmer in the Dell" (Macmillan) is different from anything Berta and Elmer Hader have done so far. In it is a wealth of information about farms for children who are unfamiliar with them. The Haders grew up on a farm just like the one they picture so we know everything is accurate. Of course the color for which these artists are famous abounds in this book too and makes it truly a delightful and worthwhile picture book.

The Next Age Group

"Little Pear" by Lattimore (Harcourt). It is not only the entertaining story of a little Chinese boy, but it is a true picture of the way Chinese children live, what they eat, what they wear, and the toys they play with. The book is bright and attractive, both inside and out.

And of course no list is complete this year without mention of "The Cat Who Went to Heaven," by Elizabeth Coatsworth (Macmillan) It is truly a worthwhile book from the standpoint of literary value, illustration, and appeal to children. The story of the Japanese artist, his painting, his cook, and his kitten is the most charming children's book we have read for a long time. The very fact that it was awarded the John Neeberry medal for the best children's book of the year is substantial recommendation.

A new book by Beatrix Potter is always heralded with joy and enthusiasm. "The Tale of Little Pig Robinson" (McKay) is quite as the Peter Rabbit books and will be read with keen delight by the second or third grader.

We are at once impressed with "Little Black Stories for Little White Children" (Payson & Clark) because of its originality of content and make-up. The stories are of African children and have the "simplicity and naive humor of Aesop and Uncle Remus, but with an added richness of expression." The startling illustrations from the original woodblocks of Pierre Pinsard especially attract our attention. Here is indeed an unusually worthwhile book.

Then there is "Black Face" by Thelma Bell (Doubleday), a real reward for getting one's arithmetic done. It is a lively story of a little black-faced lamb who went adventuring on the cow catcher of a shiny green and black train. The illustrations in bright wash are charming!

There are many interesting new books for older boys and girls but there are a few that we would like to mention with special emphasis. In the way of fiction, there is nothing that will offer more genuine entertainment and enjoyment than "The Bastable Children," by Edith Nesbit (Junior Literary Guild). There are six of the Bastables and they are individually and collectively the most likeable English children one could imagine. Their gay adventures and escapades as told by one of them, will give the 10 to 12 year old Tom Sawyer thrills.

"North America," by Lucy Sprague Mitchell (Macmillan) is a new kind of geography book. Mrs. Mitchell knows North America first hand—for she has taken long pack trips in the Sierras, camped and ridden on the desert, gone down into mines and up in airplanes. The interesting way in which Mrs. Mitchell tells the stories in this book, and the illustrations by Kurt Weise, make a fascinating travel-geography book for the child nine years or over.

Another outstanding non-fiction book recently published is "How They Carried the Mail," by Joseph Walker (Sears). It tells—in a way more thrilling than fiction—of King Sargon's trusted friend who crossed Asia to deliver his master's message; of the lad who raced from Marathon to Athens with the news of the Greek victory; of the Pony Express; and of the hazards of aviators carrying letters at a speed of 100 miles an hour. This is truly an important and valuable book.

Children's Favorites

"FAVORITE PAGES FROM CHILD LIFE," Rand McNally Company, Chicago.

The 10th birthday anthology taken from "Child Life," 1921 to 1931 is an enchantingly bound volume full of enchanting sense and nonsense for real honest to goodness children.

It is dedicated in the pirate book plate "to the boys and girls who love 'Child Life,'" and every page is color and rhythm in romance and reality.

The child fed on such pretty nonsense as the moon song or the adventures of "The Pirate Blue Jay," who thrills to "The Mutt," as all little boys and girls who ever loved a dog must do; who wriggles with joy at "The Puffin" or "Jonathan Bing."—well that child will have an early introduction to real child literature.

The intrinsic value of the anthology lies in its proof of the educational value of "Child Life"; real ideals are expressed and character is built by stories such as some of those used in the selected anthology.

A North Texas Black Farm

The "BIG ROAD," by Ruth Cross. Longman-Green and Company $2.00.

Every time I pick up a novel that has the cotton country of Texas for its locale, it is with high hopes. One of my firmly fixed literary beliefs is that somebody, some day, is going to write a story of the black land cotton country that will be real literature; that will put into print the struggle, the sweat, and the sorrow that appertain to raising cotton under the tenant system. There is an epic awaiting its Homer. It is a field fully as rich in material as the Middle West of which Hamlin Garland has written, or the Northwest of which Martha Ontenso and the late O. E. Roivaag have written.

So that every time a new book appears that deals with cotton farming I open it with the hope that here, at last, is what I've been awaiting. About a dozen times in recent years such books have been published, and each time the perusal of it has brought disappointment.

"The Big Road" by Ruth Cross doesn't change the situation. Its setting is a North Texas black land farm, with a black farmer as the villain of the piece. Its story deals with cotton farming only in a collateral way. The farmer has a music-lover for a wife and she tries to make a musician of their son. The general effect is as if Louisa May Alcott were trying to indulge in realism, although of course L. M. A.'s style never stumbled and staggered and occasionally fell flat as Miss Cross' does in places. She doesn't seem to consider the uses of subtlety in developing a situation. The style of "The Big Road" is about as subtle as the pepper in a plate of chile. The plot limps along in such a way that you presently don't care whether the farmer's son ever plays the piano or not.

Well, like the rural movie fan who said that even if Theda Bara did always win when she had to fight for her honor, he was going to keep on going to see her picture. I'm going to keep on reading these cotton country books. And hoping. But sometimes it seems that the hope is as vain as that of the Theda Bara fan.—J. G.

THE BOOK SURVEY

"American Beauty," by Edna Ferber, Glorifies Immigrant Blood and Traces Decadence of New England Stock.

By BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Writer

In "American Beauty," Edna Ferber turns her attention to New England and traces the decline and fall of the traditional, hard-shelled Yankee. In a novel that covers more than two centuries she examines one of the most interesting changes that the melting pot has produced—and, at the same time, achieves the best book she has yet written.

The Oakes family settled in Connecticut before 1700, building a fine, spacious mansion of red brick, farming a thousand rolling acres and living a free, colorful and full-blooded life as colonial aristocrats.

But the passing of years thinned out the old New England stock. The nation expanded, and the rich soil of Ohio and Texas drew the farmers west. The energetic, red-blooded ones moved on and the timorous, the weaklings and the soft-hearted ones remained. Society decayed, its life-blood drained off. The Oakes mansion fell into decay, tenanted by eccentric old Judith Oakes, her niece, Tamar—and the Polish hired man, Olszak.

And Olszak, of them all was the most significant. For he represented the new blood that was revivifying the land; the peasants from Poland, coming in to scandalize the natives and work the abandoned farms, to find plenty and richness in soil that had been cursed as barren. In the end it is the strain of Olszak that is triumphant.

Miss Ferber has told all of this with her usual feeling for color, her customary skill at character-drawing. If the great length of time encompassed by her book gives one, here and there, a feeling of undue compression, that can't be helped. She has presented a bit of American pageantry in very fine style.

"American Beauty" is published by Doubleday, Doran & Co. at $2.50.

Society Deludes Itself in War Time

The way in which a nation whips its emotions up to the frenzy necessary for the prosecution of a war is pitilessly revealed in "Society at War," by Caroline E. Playne.

Miss Playne presents a careful analysis of newspaper articles, public speeches, pamphlets, sermons, recruiting posters and similar things issued in England between the outbreak of the world war and the end of 1916. The result is a book that is exceedingly informative—and rather horrifying.

For all of these war-time appeals sound false and meaningless today; and that is the measure of the way in which the world deluded itself a decade and a half ago. In order to go to war, nowadays, society must abdicate its mental functions completely. It must live by its emotions; it must whip up hatred and prejudice, suppress truth, give expert liars free scope and go without reservations into a soul-destroying neurosis.

So doing, in the end it becomes utterly helpless. Miss Playne shows that the war could have ended in 1916 on a fair, just basis. But it didn't—because, by that time, the English people (like the people of other lands) had got beyond the point where they could listen to reason. European society, in fact, had gone quite mad; Miss Playne shows just how it happened.

All in all, it is an immensely instructive book. It is published by Houghton, Mifflin Co., and sells for $3.50.

New Biography of Penrose

I don't know just why the life story of a sinner should be so much more interesting than the life story of a saint. It is, usually, and the greater the sinner the greater the interest. This, very likely, is too bad—

Anyway, Walter Davenport has written a book called "Power and Glory," which is a biography of the late Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania, and it is one of the most engrossing biographies of the year. It presents Penrose—quite fairly, I think—as a man of tremendous ability and no scruples at all. A born aristocrat, he voluntarily descended into the miasmic bogs of ward politics; and he remained essentially a ward politician to the end of his days.

Mr. Davenport has told the story just as it should be told. He is neither horrified nor apologetic. He refuses to smack his lips over the Gargantuan peccadilloes of the senator's private life, and he does not hold up his hands in horror over the man's cynical denial of moral standards in politics. He simply presents the facts, together with a handful of those legends which, true or false, are sometimes even more revealing than facts.

It think you will enjoy this book immensely. When you finish it, too, you will find that it has been a liberal education. Is is published by Putnams', and sells at $3.

Well-Written, But Frank

"Loveliest of Friends," by Sheila Donisthorpe, is another novel in the tradition of "The Well of Loneliness." Now it happens that I personally am of the opinion that there are already quite enough novels of that kind in existence; nevertheless, it must be said that this book is well written and—"revealing." I believe is the word that is customarily used, isn't it?

I mean to say that whatever you think of her choice of subject matter, the author has written a compact novel, peopled with some well-drawn characters and expressed herself in smooth, nicely handled English. However, unless you approve of extreme frankness on an exceedingly delicate subject, you'd better let it alone.

"Loveliest of Friends," published by Claude Kendall, sells for $2.50.

Is the modern woman going Antique?

YES, the girls wear Empress Eugenie hats—but that seems to be the only noticeable tendency that the modern woman is going antique.

Isn't it rather hard to imagine yourself tearing down the street in an old surrey, say at 3 miles an hour? Picture, if you can, a modern woman reading a true story by the light of a kerosene lamp.

No, you wouldn't want to live like they used to.

Perhaps one of the things you would miss most would be the telephone. Wonder what Grandma did when these things happened: pouring down rain, and not a grocery in the house; no way to order quickly . . . friends, haven't seen them for days; no way to reach them . . . noise in the basement; burglars, maybe! . . . no telephone book with the names of friends, relatives, business houses . . . relatives in a distant city; are they well? . . . a child's face, pale against a pillow; a doctor, quick!

It is hard to do without a telephone. Why should you, when the service costs so little?

LONGHORNS JAR T. C. U.'S HOPES WITH 10 TO 0 VICTORY

For a good many years we have wondered why football coaches generally have been so careful not to run up big scores in their early season games; why they have fought against bringing along their teams to their top stride as early as possible. It is our humble opinion that the Quanah Indians may be offered as a horrible example. We may be wrong, but we have a hunch that the Indians are not as good a football team today as they were six weeks back. Their inability to score against Vernon is not entirely, but partially, responsible for that thought. Quanah opened up its season by averaging something like 70 points per game against its first four or five opponents. The Indians looked like a million dollars when they played Electra. They still looked good against the Coyotes two weeks later, but, whether justified or not, we lowered out opinion of the Indians after the Wichita Falls game. It dropped still lower after the Hollis game and we'll have to admit that it has sagged still further as the result of the scoreless tie at Vernon last week.

The scoreless tie at Vernon may be considered a sign more of Vernon strength than any waning on the part of the Indians, but the Lions have done not a thing this season to indicate they are overburdened with strength. The Altus game, which was won by Vernon, 38 to 6, is the only display of scoring power the team has produced in the entire season. Incidentally, this one game figures in a line of comparative scores that paints Vernon as a much stronger club than Quanah. Altus, the team beaten so decisively by Vernon, won from Hollis, 12 to 0, and Quanah was able to defeat Hollis only by 12 to 7. A more direct comparison is that offered in the Quanah and Vernon games with Electra and it paints another sort of picture. The Lions were hard pushed to beat Electra, 6 to 0, while Quanah won from the Tigers, 32 to 0. These two extremes show just how misleading comparative scores can be; as well as how difficult it might be to prove our point that the Indians are backsliding by pointing out scores. It simply can't be done. You'll have to either disagree with that idea or take our word for it, and let it go at that.

Possibly the Indians' less impressive showing in each succeeding game for the last five or six weeks may be traced to improvement in the opposition they have encountered, rather than any backsliding tendencies on their part. We feel sure that this Quanah club would have a much tougher time whipping the Coyotes today than they encountered a month ago. Just as the Indians were brought along too speedily, we believe the Coyotes have suffered from a trend in the opposite direction. We believe they were advanced too slowly and that the team right now is where it should have been five or six weeks back. We don't know whose fault that may be; whether it can be traced to the coaching staff, the players themselves, atmospheric conditions or the disturbance in China. We do know that the Coyotes are playing much better football than they were when they dug into their championship schedule early in October. The theory of Quanah's retrogression is all guesswork; it is a fact that the Coyotes have improved immeasurably since the start of district warfare.

Coach Dan Stallworth probably contends that his team has been rated too highly from the start, and he's probably right, if that is his contention. All along it has not been difficult to pick flaws in the Indians' scheme of things. It has been handicapped by faulty punting. Its reserve strength is almost nil. Its forward passing attack at no time this season has been on a par with its running game. Those are flaws that Coach Stallworth has recognized from the start, while most of us were prone to wink at them in the belief that maybe the team was holding something back for the necessary occasion. The occasion presented itself at Vernon Armistice day, and the same weaknesses again were conspicuous. We sincerely hope that we are wrong in the belief that the Indians are going to bump into much football when they play the Lubbock Westerners in the bi-district round, but there is absolutely nothing on which to base hopes of a Quanah victory in the inter-district battle—whether the foe is Lubbock, Amarillo or Pampa. Quanah may well feel proud of its district championship, regardless of its fate in coming games, for it is a far cry from the Indian teams of the past to that of 1931. Even the scoreless tie at Vernon left no doubts concerning Quanah's superiority over its district No. 2 rivals.

The syndicate idea in baseball apparently is in for its greatest boom since Branch Rickey introduced the thing to organized baseball seven or eight years back. And this despite the stubborn opposition that has come from the office of Commissioner Keneesaw Mountain Landis. The success of the Cardinals in building up not only a pennant winning National league combination, but prospering financially in the operation of at least some of its subsidiaries, has opened the eyes of the big league clubowners. The most important development in this direction since the close of last season was the purchase by the Yankees the other day of the Newark franchise in the International league. It is significant that Col. Jacob Ruppert, the New York owner, spoke enthusiastically for the chain store system and indicated that his club might go in for the thing on an even larger scale. With a new manager on the job at Brooklyn and the club's political affairs untangled, it has been reported from Flatbush that this club might go in for minor league ownership before the end of another season. Louis Comiskey, who took over the reigns of the Chicago White Sox after the death of his father, has indicated his club is giving serious consideration to the purchase of a farm or two in the hope of developing players that money can't buy.

Frogs' Heralded Defense Fails to Stop Herd Attack

Christians' Defeat All but Assures Mustangs of Championship

By CHARLES E. SIMONS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Nov. 14 (AP)—Texas Christian university's chances to win the Southwest conference championship were terribly jolted Saturday when the University of Texas, rated as the under dog, pulled a surprising upset and defeated the Christians, 10 to 0.

Texas' defeat of the Christians almost gave the conference championship to Southern Methodist university, who Saturday conquered Baylor, 6 to 0, in the semi-final conference game. S. M. U. will play the Christians Nov. 28 in the season final and needs only a tie to win the championship.

The Methodists have not been defeated.

The Longhorns, booed and hooted for their poor showing early in the season, staged a fighting comeback against a dogged and stubborn Christian eleven, battling for all they were worth for a chance at the Southwest highest football honors.

A pre-game prediction was that Texas would be unable to do anything with the sterling defense of the Frog forward wall. Statistics of the game show Texas not only did something to it but rolled up a total of 240 yards gained from scrimmage. Texas made 14 first downs to 10 for the Christians.

Passing Attack Works

The Texas passing attack was far better than it has been at any other time this year, the Longhorns being successful in seven out of 14 overhead attempts.

In a desperate attempt to even the score, the Frogs threw passes all over the lot but had miserable success. The tight Texas pass defense made it impossible for them to complete more than four out of 22 tries.

Texas scored a field goal near the middle of the first period when a crushing drive, topped by a 20-yard pass from Koy to Stafford gave the Steers the ball on the Frog 10-yard stripe. Koy hit the line for two, three and one yard again on three successive tries and Weaver a substitute halfback with an educated toe, was rushed in. He place kicked from the 12-yard line.

The kick was partially blocked, striking the elbow of an ambitious Frog forward and barely slid across the bar. Had the Christian lineman been a fraction of a second quicker he would have knocked the ball down.

Craig Sets Pace

Craig, dashing Texas back, was the hero of the drive that netted a Texas touchdown in the third period. Texas gained the ball on its 40-yard line on an exchange of punts. Koy blasted tackle for eight and Stafford made it first down on the Frog 48. Craig skimmed through the Christian left tackle to the 14-yard line where he was forced out of bounds. Stafford climbed over left tackle to the three yard line and gained another half-yard in the same place.

The Frog secondary was playing close into the line, expecting another Texas effort through tackle. Koy, faking a plunge, sucked the Frog end and backs in and then ran the Christians' left end for a touchdown. He dragged three tacklers across the line with him.

The Frogs never advanced the ball past the Texas 25-yard line. They had tough luck on several of their aerial thrusts, most of which were well timed and placed but which usually found an alert Steer and a Frog reaching for the oval at the same time.

The Christians gained 119 yards from scrimmage while their four completed passes were good for 100 yards. Texas intercepted four passes, all at critical periods when it seemed the Christians were on their way to a touchdown.

The game was on the cleanest ever played on Memorial stadium grid, no penalty greater than five yards being assessed either team.

Almost Another Score

Spearman was the main cog in the Frog offensive and several times broke away for what looked like touchdown runs only to be brought down by one of the thundering herd.

An intercepted pass near the end of the game almost resulted in another Texas touchdown. Taking the ball in midfield when Price snagged a Christian pass, Texas passed and ran the ball to the Frog two-yard line and was preparing to buck for a score when the gun cracked. The drive featured the work of Clewis, Craig, Fagan and Rundell.

ABILENE ELIMINATES BRECKENRIDGE FROM RACE WITH 20-0 WIN

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Nov. 14. — Breckenridge High school eliminated from the race for the Oil Belt district football championship Saturday afternoon when the Bucks were soundly trounced, 20 to 0, by the Abilene Eagles.

Wyatt, fast stepping Eagle quarterback, was largely responsible for the Buckaroo defeat, as he put his team on the offensive from the start. He was ably assisted by Jones, fullback; Galbraith, half, and Groseclose, tackle. White, guard, and Cox, tackle, were the stars for the Buckaroo team, while the inexperienced Breckenridge secondary was largely responsible for the loss of the game.

Jones, Blackmon and Middleton carried over the Eagle touchdowns, and Davis, guard, kicked two of the goals. Abilene scored 14 first downs to seven for Breckenridge.

EAST CENTRAL ELEVEN BUMPS ABILENE TEAM

ADA, Okla., Nov. 14. (AP)—East Central Teachers college of Ada swept to a 26 to 12 victory over the Abilene Christian college Wildcats here Saturday.

The teachers' eleven, playing with a dash, had things its own way during the second half. A dazzling passing attack, mixed with driving plunges, kept the Texans on the defensive.

The invaders' scoring came early in the game before the Tigers began to click. Keyes, flashy Wildcat quarter, led the visitors' attack, planting touchdowns in the first and second periods. In the final period he got loose for a brilliant 80-yard run from his own goal line. Don Kuhn, halfback, was the big gun in the Tiger forces. He ripped off long runs, snagged passes and intercepted three Wildcat flips.

Mason Scores Lone Touchdown on 66-Yard Run In First Two Minutes

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Nov. 14. (AP)—Weldon (Speedy) Mason and his 66-yard run for a touchdown in the first two minutes of the initial period shoved the Southern Methodist Mustangs into their Southwest conference finals with an undefeated and untied record here Saturday. Mason's long gallop through a broken field netted the Mustangs a 6 to 0 decision over Baylor in a listless game where the Mustangs kept everything under cover but their Maroon and Blue colors. It was Southern Methodist's eighth straight win and their fifth conference victory.

The Mustangs have only one more conference game—that against Texas Christian at Fort Worth on Nov. 28. The worst they can get insofar as the championship is concerned is a tie.

Ponies Held Back

Saturday's game was just one of those things. The Methodists were ranked as a two or three touchdown favorite, but they never extended themselves. Their running game was of the mediocre variety and they tried no passes except straight down the field and a few so-called laterals which could have been left in the store room insofar as their importance was concerned.

A small crowd of approximately 7,000 waited for the Mustangs to open up. They are still waiting. The Ponies did not have to play their best and they never did.

But it started off like a ball game. Captain Neeley kicked off to Snell of Baylor who returned to his 24-yard line. Pierce then punted to Southern Methodist. Mason gathered in the sphere on his 34-yard line and up the field he raced 66 yards and over the goal line for a touchdown, leaving in his wake several Baylor players who tried to tackle but unlike the Northwest mounted, missed their man. Captain Neeley missed goal from placement. That was the ball game. Baylor never offered a serious scoring threat, registering only two first downs against 11 for Southern Methodist.

Stars Are Few

After his regulars had suddenly leaped to the front, Coach Ray Morrison called most of them to the sidelines to look on while first and second string reserves held Baylor until the fourth period. Taking no chance, Morrison fired his regulars back into the battle in the last period. They offered a constant scoring possibility, but did not pack the punch.

The game offered hardly a star. Mason's run was the best thing in the four periods. Pierce, Alford and Harris played fine ball for Baylor in spots but they never had enough spots. "Roughouse" Riley and "Scrapiron" Hammon played smashing ball in the Methodists' line the little while they were in the game.

SOONER FUMBLES ALLOW MISSOURI TO WIN, 7-0

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 14. (AP)—Gwinn Henry's Missouri Tigers, taking advantage of two costly fumbles, scored a touchdown within the first two minutes of play to defeat the Oklahoma Sooners, 7-0, Saturday afternoon before a home-coming crowd estimated at 5,000.

Missouri won the game when George Stuber, Tiger quarterback, threw a 15-yard pass over the goal line to the Missouri captain, Frank Bittner. Percy Gill added the seventh point with a place kick.

But after Missouri went into the lead, it was a fighting and at times dangerous Oklahoma eleven that carried the battle. In the final period, the Sooners unleashed a furious aerial attack which threw a scare into the Missourians, and nearly resulted in a tie.

The first costly Oklahoma fumble paved the way for the Missouri touchdown, and the second halted a Sooner attack after Capt. Guy Warren had taken the ball to the Missouri one-foot line late in the final period.

HARVARD BEATS HOLY CROSS, 7-0, TO TAKE LEAD EASTERN TEAMS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 14. (US)—Harvard Saturday night stood out as the only undefeated and untied football force in the East by virtue of a 7 to 0 victory over dogged Holy Cross resistance before a capacity crowd of 50,000 persons here Saturday.

The Crimson juggernaut marched 72 yards for the only score of the game in the first period of play.

Terrific line shattering by Jack Crickard and Schereschewsky, Harvard's two ball-carrying aces, a fine lateral from Crickard to Barry Wood, and a short forward pass from Wood to Crickard aided by two Holy Cross penalties swept the Crimson from its own 28-yard line to the Purple four-yard mark.

After two rushes had netted a gain of only two yards, Crickard bulleted his way off tackle and shot across the final line for the touchdown. Wood's drop kick went through the uprights as the Harvard sections went wild.

Notre Dame Keeps Up Winning Ways At Navy Expense

Ramblers Score Three Touchdowns in One Period to Win, 20 to 0

BALTIMORE STADIUM, Baltimore, Nov. 14. (AP)—The Navy's football ship, tossed about uncertainly in its campaign so far this season, ran afoul the Notre Dame hurricane Saturday and floundered on the rocks of a 20-0 defeat.

The green-shirted raiders of South Bend smashed over the Navy goal three times in the second period, but after that a stubborn Middy defense halted the fast running backs and played the powerful line on almost even terms to stop every scoring threat.

The Middies, in holding the high scoring outfit carrying on for Notre Dame to three touchdowns, surprised those who had expected the gold helmeted steam roller to smother them under an avalanche of scoring.

Even at that, the 20 points scored by the Ramblers was not a criterion of the difference between the two teams in everything but stubbornness of defense. Not one first down did the Navy register while the South Benders were counting 14 and piling up 281 yards in rushing from scrimmage.

Chung-Hoon, Hawaiian halfback, was the shining light of the Navy's stand. He held his own in the kicking department with Marchy Schwartz, gained 24 of the Navy's 51 yards, and backed up the line in fine style. "Bullet" Lou Kirn, the Navy's backfield ace, did not get in the game because of an injury.

Between the halves, the regiment of midshipmen paid honor to the late Knute Rockne, the famed coach who started the South Benders on their way to the top of the nation's football heap. With colored cards, they formed a football background and spelled out on the word "Rock" while taps was played.

Tulane Greenies Whip Georgia by Decisive Margin

Wave Rolls Over Red-Shirts, 20-7, to Keep Its Record Clean

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

SANFORD STADIUM, ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 14. (AP)—The mighty Green Wave of Tulane engulfed Georgia's gallant football forces Saturday in a turbulent climax to one of the South's most spectacular gridiron spectacles.

The final score was 20 to 7, as Tulane achieved a decisive conquest befor a crowd of 36,000 spectators that packed Sanford stadium overflowed to the field and delayed the game's finish repeatedly as incipient rioting and fist fights were waged along the sidelines.

Except for a few dazzling moments of the third period when the red-shirted Georgians flashed their one scoring thrust, the battle of Athens was turned largely into a rout by the powerful, resourceful and hard-hitting aggregation that carried Tulane's banner another big stride along the championship trail of 1931.

In National Race

Tulane's victory not only kept the Green Wave in a commanding position in the race for Southern conference honors, alongside of Tennessee, but kept the Greenies very much in the race for national title honors. They have a few more hurdles to clear but by hurdling Georgia's stubborn resistance Saturday, Tulane's forces have cleared the main barrier in their dash toward the goal of playing Southern California in the Rose bowl classic New Year's day at Pasadena.

The Battle of Athens was marred by close to a record crop of penalties, but was decided by a combination of Tulane's smarter play and sensational passing.

Engineered by the flashy Don Zimmerman, a triple threat halfback, Tulane's aerial attack accounted for the first two touchdowns tallied by the Green Wave and put Georgia in a hole from which it threatened only once to escape.

Georgia Rallies

For perhaps five minutes of the third period as Georgia played its one big hand, the crowd of Bulldog sympathizers had plenty to cheer about and it looked for a time as if the courageous Georgians might overhaul their rivals by the sheer spirit of their comeback.

With the ball on Georgia's 40-yard line, Buster Mott, hero of the victory a week ago over New York university, took a pass over his shoulder as he steped into the clear and outraced his would-be tacklers to the corner of the field. It was a magnificent thrust, to which Catfish Smith added the extra point on a perfect place-kick.

It looked like a typical Georgia rally, but the Bulldogs were not equal to penetrating the closely-knit Tulane defense again. The next thrust through the air was a boomerang as Francis Payne intercepted the ball deep in Georgia territory and raced to the Bulldog 20-yard line.

Shortly afterwards the Green Wave hit the red shirts with a final smashing impact. Payne dashed off tackle 26 yards for the third touchdown, Zimmerman booted the extra point and the door was closed to Georgia's last lingering hope.

Aggies Surprise Owls With Power In 7-0 Skirmish

College Station Crew Threatens Often and Wins With Touchdown

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—The Texas Aggies, that perennially undiscouraged football eleven, defeated Rice institute, 7-0, Saturday afternoon, but the institute partisans could turn to each other for comfort and say:

"It might have been worse."

The Cadets brought a running attack of unsuspected fury to Rice field and all but carried the Owls' goal breastworks on three occasions each time getting within seven yards or less from touchdowns. Once A. & M. was two feet away and the institute line swayed and held.

To John Coffee, an Owl end, fell the unhappy designation of "goat." Twice, in critical times, he dropped long passes, one for 35 yards and the other for 45. A conspicuously brilliant tackle, however, relieved him of some of the onus. It was he who hauled down the racing Aston on the Rice 21-yard line when that Cadet was out in front and had gone 58 yards down the field.

A. & M. scored late in the third period with a successful quick march from the Rice 27-yard line. Spencer, a substitute back, went over and Domingue, another substitute, kicked goal.

The A. & M. attack began to look irresistible in the first period, with Aston's brilliant run. The Cadets got within seven yards of the Owl goal before he fumbled.

Early in the second, Aston, Rees and Domingue for the Aggies, passing and plunging, advanced to the six-yard line, but Domingue could not suppiy the final bit of essential drive.

It was only a matter of moments, though, until A. & M. swung 42 yards down the field, again combining passes and line drives, without a defective play intervening until an Aggie pass was grounded behind the Rice goal line.

The institute made its gallant stand on the two-foot line in the third period. Dawson blocked and recovered a Rice punt and was brought down only after he had reached the 11-yard line. It was easy for the Cadets to pick up 10 yards and one foot, but the Owls denied them the other two feet. Domingue, despairing of going through, attempted a placement kick, but failed.

The lineups:

A. & M. (9)	Pos.	Rice (0)
Bell	L.E.	Coffee
Magrish	L.T.	A. Hazell
Hornsby	L.G.	Klarner
Nolan	C.	Harris
Moore	R.G.	F. Lacy
Cummings	R.T.	Lauterback
Malone	R.E.	Strong
Hewitt	Q.B.	V. Driscoll
Graves	L.H.	Hammett
Davis	R.H.	Mueller
Aston	F.B.	Jamerson

Score by periods:

A. & M. scoring, Touchdown, Spencer, (sub for Aston). Point after touchdown, Domingue (sub for Graves).

Your Car Will Be Better Lubricated and Serviced by the Dealer Who Sells That Car

Better never start Than fail to stop!

Failure to start may be annoying, but failure to stop is terrifying—or maybe worse. You'll only be delayed if your car doesn't start some morning but if it sometimes fails to stop quick——— ! ! !

Much talk goes around about how fast cars will go, and too little thought as to how quick cars will stop.

Brakes are efficient nowadays if they are kept in good condition. All connections working freely, properly adjusted, and good lining. Car manufacturers have provided stopping power ample for the size and speed of cars. But car owners must not neglect to keep brakes in good condition, always.

Never, never, postpone brake attention.

And, likewise, never trust your brakes to anybody except the dealer who sells your make of car. He is a real brake specialist. He specializes not on all brakes on all kinds of cars, but only on the particular brakes on his own make of car.

Four-wheel brakes, balloon tires and faster driving have brought more brake changes in the last five years than ever were dreamed of before. The fellow who was a whiz-bang on brakes five years ago might be a rank dub on today's brakes. Not one of the car dealers listed below would pretend to know much about the brake systems on other makes of cars. He knows only his own, better.

Old Rivalry Renewed in Game That Ranks With Season's Best

These are busy times in Wichita Falls' two junior high schools, Reagan and Zundelowitz. Student bodies, pep squads and football teams are preparing for the "big event" of the year. The warring gridiron forces take their differences to the Athletic park field Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the annual battle that provides Wichita Falls fans with one of the delectable morsels of the football season.

Zundy and Reagan this year boast perfect records in the Northwest Texas Junior High School conference, and Friday's battle will determine the championship. But that means little. The junior high race has all but dropped out of the grid picture, with only Bowie competing with the two Wichita Falls schools. In the importance of any Zundy-Reagan meeting the conference race moves into the background, for the rivalry established in five years of inter-school warfare means far more to the two student bodies than mere championships.

Both Teams Ready

The Reagan entry, under the guidance of Coach A. D. Beck, played its last game before the big battle in defeating Bowie Junior High school, 32 to 2, Friday afternoon on Culbertson field. Coach Roy Golden's Zundelowitz charges were not so fortunate in their final taste of competition and took a 26 to 6 stinging from Electra Junior High school the day before. Both teams came out of their final jousts in tip-top shape, and unless there are injuries in this week's practice, both will have their strongest forces available for the Friday classic.

The tradition of five years of gruelling competition between these two rivals prevents the establishment of a pre-game favorite, and the fact that Reagan's record is a bit glossier than that of the Zundy boys may be discounted 100 per cent. The dope chart never means a thing in Zundy-Reagan battles, and it is safe to say that the Redbirds will not go into Friday's game too cheaty because of their brighter record through the season. By the same token, it is certain that the Polk street battlers will not be suffering from an inferiority complex.

Start From Bottom

Both junior high school teams had to start from the bottom and build up at the start of the 1931 season, the teams of last year being all but annihilated by graduation. Few veterans of preceding Zundy-Reagan battles will be in the lineup Friday. Both schools were fortunate, however, in having available the finest crops of youngsters in their history, and despite inexperience, each team ranks favorably with its predecessors of the last five years. The two teams that take the field Friday probably will be the heaviest in the history of the schools, with Reagan holding only a slight weight advantage.

With the exception of two players, who often are switched from end to backfield, Reagan's lineup has seen few changes during the last few weeks. Virgil Stingel and Allen Robinson both are proficient at end and at halfback, and Coach Beck often switches the pair back and forth. Robinson is one of the best of the Redbird line plungers, and along with Ray West at fullback, provides a real problem for the Zundy defense. Don Yeakley at halfback and Capt. D. L. "Country" Smith at quarterback are versatile performers who figure prominently in the team's running and passing attack, and Smith is one of the best kickers developed in the junior high ranks.

Hefty Forwards

Reagan's line boasts unusual weight at the ends and tackles. With Creecy and Robinson on the ends and Clark and Ashcraft at tackles, the team has more weight at these stations than in the history of junior high football here. With Stingel at end, however, the flanks lose much of their heft—but none of their efficiency. A trio of gridders, not so big but fast and fiery, guard the central portion of the line. These are Nae Stone at center and Frank Osner and Jack Rambo at guards.

Reagan reserves likely to see service in the Friday scrap include W. C. Shirley and Mike Ditto, forwards; C. E. Edwards and Nolen Corbell at ends and John Davis in the backfield.

Coach Golden also has done quite a bit of backfield shifting the last few weeks and used five men steadily as ball carriers. Frank Rusk, one of the leading lights of the 1930 game, is the "powerhouse" of the Zundy attack. His specialty is line plunging and the Reagan forwards will have a real task on their hands in stopping his rushes.

Two Quarterbacks

Two men have been handling Zundy's offensive from the quarterback post, Ed Maag and Ralph Hartman. With Hartman calling signals Maag usually is stationed at halfback. The other halves are Woodrow Marshall, the team's most efficient passer, and Marion James.

One of Zundelowitz' strongest defensive units is left end, where Capt. Corbett Hund has held away for two years. It is not likely that Reagan will aim many of its plays in the direction of the Grays' leader. Both Hund and Frank Weidman, at the opposite end, figure prominently in the team's passing attack.

Reserves likely to see service for Zundy include Brode Leach, Jimmy Mays, Henry Swain and Forrest Baber.

Officials for the Friday game have been announced as Barry Holton and Charlie Lindsey of the high school coaching staff and Butler Westerfield of Burkburnett. Holton probably will serve as referee, Lindsey as umpire and Westerfield as linesman.

Migration Of Hunters Under Way

Scarcity Ducks, Geese Expected

Torn between two loves, the nimrods of Northwest Texas were divided into two armies over the week-end as they prepared for the first migrations of the new hunting seasons. For the first time since the agencies of government have seen fit to protect the game supply, the shooting seasons for ducks and geese and for deer and turkeys open simultaneously, and those of the gunners not fortunate enough to select places for their conquests that provide all these game species were forced to choose between the waterfowl and the wily gobler or stately buck. The more fortunate were planning hunts that combined all.

Hundreds of sportsmen of Wichita Falls and the neighboring territory were en route Saturday to the scene of battle; others were moving out Saturday night and early Sunday to be ready for action at the start of the open seasons Monday. The deer and turkey hunters faced long journeys into Southwest Texas for their sport, while those who sought ducks and geese were able to find their sport nearer home.

Duck Shooting Nearby

The irrigation lakes, Lake Wichita, Diversion lake and Lake Kemp, are a true mecca for the waterfowl hunters, and most of the parties heading for the blinds were delaying their start until Sunday or Monday morning, as the duck and goose season does not open until 12 noon Monday by decree of the federal government.

An acute shortage of waterfowl, foreseen by the department of agriculture because of drouth conditions in the breeding areas of western Canada, has led to a presidential proclamation giving the hunters of the entire United States only 30 days of wildfowling this year. The Texas season opens at noon of Nov. 16 and continues until sundown of Dec. 15. While the 30-day open season varies in different parts of the country, no state receives more than one month of gunning.

Normally the North Texas duck season now would have been in blast a full month, but the shooters have lost comparatively little in being deprived of this first month. The late season has provided little inducement for the quackers to migrate this far south, and unless there is a sudden turn in the weather soon the early part of the season is not likely to produce the best of shooting.

Early Ducks Here

Early arriving ducks—the deep water varieties, including redheads and canvasbacks—have been on the big lakes in fairly substantial numbers, but the later arrivals, the mallards, pintails, et al., have not yet put in their appearance in quantity. They are expected to arrive thick and fast, however, with the first flurry of winter, and the gunners should not have to wait long for the best of sport.

Realizing the necessity for drastic action in the preservation of waterfowl, the hunters of this section have fully respected the curtailed season, and arrests for early shooting have been few throughout the Northwest Texas territory.

The federal bag limit for ducks and geese complies with that of the state and the temporary regulations set up this season do not affect the limits in Texas. No more than 15 ducks or four geese may be killed in one day or more than 30 ducks or 12 geese in any period of seven consecutive days. The possession limit for ducks is 30 and for geese eight.

Oklahoma's season for ducks and geese closes at sundown Thursday, and Texas hunters are cautioned that it will be unlawful to shoot within the cut banks of Red river, either on the Texas or Oklahoma side, after that date, and that during the open season a Texas-Oklahoma Red river license, costing $2.50 is required of Texas hunters to shoot on the south side of the river.

Deer and Turkeys

Many parties of Wichita Falls hunters were en route Saturday to Southwest Texas to combine deer and turkey shoots. One group of five composed of W. C. Woody, B. B. Greever, C. W. Boller, C. H. Parker and T. J. Colburn was scheduled to depart early Sunday for the Joe Johns ranch near Boerne. Another party of six, Dr. A. F. Leach, George D. Fox, Gerald Pond, Robert Taylor, Dave Shepherd and Dr. R. H. Peterson, were en route Saturday to a ranch 30 miles south of Mason.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom W. Pruett, Phil A. Menke, V. E. Stampfil, Glenn Thompson, George V. Harpin, J. M. Dearman, C. H. Bingham, Howard Bennett, Robert E. Taylor, Bill Guthrie, Dr. O. W. Wilson, Ed Love and Hal Kelleher were others en route Saturday or planning to leave Sunday on deer hunts.

AT LEAST THEY DIDN'T HAVE MORE DEER THAN LEGAL LIMIT PERMITS

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 14. (INS)—Had luck been with them Max Wegner and Charles Voges might have got the first buck of the season. But luck was against them and Saturday they paid fines totaling $123 following their arrest Friday night while hunting for deer near here.

The season does not open until Monday. They had no licenses and they were using headlights. Otherwise they were within the law. In addition to the heavy fine the pair automatically lose their rights to hunt for an entire year.

AUSTIN, Nov. 14. (AP)—Texas hunters, who Monday will start their annual campaign against deer, bear, turkeys and ducks and other wild game, should have little difficulty bagging their limit.

"If they can find it, and hit it after they find it, they should be able to make the limit easily," a game department official stated in commenting on the Texas game situation.

J. G. Burr, chief of the conservation division of the game, fish and oyster commission, reported the crop of young game last year was excellent and the sportsmen should reap the benefit of it this year if they can get the proper level on the sights of "old Betsy."

Conditions through the state were reported good with the exception of the country around Austin. This has been fairly well hunted out, Burr said.

There also will be a scarcity of ducks and geese compared to former years owing to bad game propagation conditions in Canada. The duck season has been shortened to 30 days by order of President Hoover.

Increase Expected

Burr said the supply of deer, quail and turkey was plentiful.

The hunting license bureau of the game commission has been kept busy accepting applications for hunting licenses. Last year 112,809 resident hunting licenses were granted and 511 non-resident licenses. A slight increase in the total number of ambitious nimrods was expected this year. Since persons hunting in their own counties are not required to obtain licenses, the number of registrations in Texas is comparatively small compared to other states.

A large portion of the hunting this year will be done on private game preserves operated by large ranchers, who permit hunting on their property at so much per acre rental. The number of acres in privately licensed game preserves is 3,250,000 acres, most of it in the best game territory in the state.

Hunting Fatalities

Last year 4,151 buck deer were killed on the private preserves and 962 turkey gobblers. The game commission has no record of the number of deer killed off private preserves but estimated the total at approximately 9,000.

Last year 62 fatalities were reported during the hunting season. Of the number 34 were killed either by shooting themselves accidentally or by being shot by some one else. Seven of the number killed were boys, five of whom shot themselves while two were killed by others. Of the 27 men who were killed, 14 shot themselves and 13 were killed by others.

Three boys were self-wounded and five wounded by others.

Twenty-eight fatalities from causes other than shooting were recorded. Twenty drowned, one died from exposure; two were killed by automobiles; one died of heart failure, two died in falls from trees; one was killed by a wild hog and another died of injuries received when kicked by a horse.

Westerners Look Forward to Game Against Sandies

Lubbock Needs Only to Tie Amarillo to Win District Honors

LUBBOCK, Texas, Nov. 14.—Light workouts have been given the Lubbock High school Westerners following the Armistice day 41 to 0 victory over Plainview when additional injuries were incurred.

A light workout was on the schedule for Saturday but next week the boys who are not on the injured list will go into fast scrimmage and hard work preparatory to the game of all games as far as the Westerners are concerned in district No. 1.

Thanksgiving day, Lubbock plays Amarillo in the Panhandle metropolis. The Westerners will line up with something near 400 points to 12 in nine victories, with a clean slate in the district, while Amarillo with about as many or more points will be handicapped with one defeat, Pampa 13, Amarillo 7.

An absolute tie would give Lubbock the championship. The Westerners hope to make it decisive, however. A defeat at the hands of Amarillo would throw Lubbock, Pampa and Amarillo in a three-way tie for the championship honors. Naturally, that is what the Amarillo Sandstorm club hopes and expects.

Point for Sandies

Four thousand tickets will be offered for sale in Lubbock in the next few days and M. H. Duncan, Lubbock superintendent expects every one of them to be sold to Lubbock fans who will make the trip to Amarillo to witness the game. The remainder of the tickets to fill Butler field at Amarillo can easily be disposed of in Amarillo, Pampa and other north plains towns, Amarillo officials declare.

The game is attracting more interest than any football game in district No. 1 this year. Last year Lubbock lost to Amarillo on a tie game, having been beaten earlier in the season by Pampa. The year before the Lubbock Westerners outplayed the Amarillo team only to be turned back by hard luck in a 12 to 7 defeat.

The Thanksgiving day game has been foremost in the minds of the Westerners during the season and now that all other barriers are out of the way, the lads are really concentrating on Amarillo.

Time to Recuperate

Injuries are causing Coaches Chapman and Huffman lots of worry. The Plainview game found Bill Davidson, stellar back, running wild until the very last play, when a knee was wrenched after he had sprinted 27 yards with the ball.

Cecil Merrill, halfback, is troubled with an arm injury received in the Childress game, and hurt again Wednesday.

Gene Barnett is still around on crutches with a broken bone in one foot, which may keep him out of the Amarillo game. It is a question. He is getting along as well as could be expected, Coach Chapman says.

With nearly two weeks in which to recuperate, the Westerners injuries should heal, however, and the coaches will have an opportunity to whip the team into the best playing form of the year.

RAILROAD SUED FOR $50,000 DAMAGES IN PETITION FILED HERE

Damages totaling $50,000 are asked in a petition filed in district court here Saturday by J. R. Cowden against the Santa Fe railroad. Jack Ballard is attorney for the plaintiff.

The petition sets out that Cowden was injured when he "inadvertently fell asleep on the track of the defendant company" near its depot at Taiban, New Mexico, Sept. 16, 1923, about 3 o'clock in the morning, and was hit by a train.

IOWA PARK VOLLEY BALL TEAMS DEFEAT CASHION

IOWA PARK, Texas, Nov. 14.—The senior girls volley ball team of Iowa Park High school played the first games of the season with the Cashion Cats in the Iowa Park gym this week.

In the first game Iowa Park lost to Cashion, 15 to 3, but in the second game Iowa Park took on new life and surprised the Cats by winning, 15 to 3. The third game was a hard fought battle all of the way with Iowa Park winning 15 to 13.

CASHION JUNIORS WIN FROM IOWA PARK TEAM

IOWA PARK, Texas, Nov. 14.—The Cashion school junior basket ball team beat the Iowa Park Hawks in a practice game in the gymnasium of the Iowa Park High school, 11 to 10. Alvin Humphrey made all of the points for the Cashion Cats, while R. B. Foreman and Elvin Gardner were stars for the Iowa Park quintet.

WICHITA FALLS GRIDDERS TO PLAY MANGUM TEAM

MANGUM, Okla., Nov. 14.—A football game which promises to prove of unusual interest will be played here Sunday afternoon between the Mangum All-Stars and the Wichita Falls Pups.

The visiting team is an independent organization from the Northwest Texas metropolis, and is composed of former high school and college gridiron stars. They claim they are coming with the avowed intention of "making it hot" for the local players.

The Mangum All Stars are noted for their line, but they will have some trouble stopping Blondy Smith and Rollin Dixon two of the Pups' most consistent ground gainers. The Pup line will be headed by Philip Blacklock at center, a powerful defensive man.

DEMPSEY SLATED IN KANSAS CITY BOUTS

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 14. (INS)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, arrived in Kansas City Saturday to undergo a five-day period of training in preparation for a double exhibition bout for charity here next Wednesday night.

Dempsey will have as his opponents in the exhibition bouts Charley Belanger, light heavyweight champion of Canada, and Jack Roper of Los Angeles. Dempsey will fight each of them two rounds.

SIMMONS' HOME RUN IS FEATURE U. S. VICTORY

TOSHIYASU OGAWA, Japan, Nov. 14. (AP)—A homer by Al Simmons of the Philadelphia Athletics, which pierced the umbrella bleachers in centerfield was the high spot of a baseball game between the touring United States All Stars and an All-Japan team Saturday, played in a drizzle before 40,000 fans and won by the Americans, 6 to 3.

Coyotes Back to Hard Toil After Pleasure Jaunt

Pack Has Almost Two Weeks to Prepare for Vernon Clash

Some 20 members of the Wichita Falls High school football squad "lived the life of Riley" Saturday as guests of the junior chamber of commerce at the Southern Methodist-Baylor battle at Dallas, but their respite was to be shortlived, and no later than Monday the boys were to get down to the serious business of preparing not only for their last, but one of their most important battles of the season, scheduled for the home field Thanksgiving day.

A game with the Vernon Lions always is important regardless of the stakes, and it happens that the runnerup position in the district No. 2 championship race will be the prize for the winner Thanksgiving day. While nothing more than the consolation of rating as the second best team in the district can be claimed by the winner, the Quanah Indians having bottled up the championship when they defeated Electra, 32 to 0; Wichita Falls, 27 to 6, and won from Vernon by 20-yard zone penetrations in a scoreless tie, the Turkey day game nevertheless bears particular significance to both schools and the fans of both cities. The Wichita Falls-Vernon rivalry is backed by years of tradition that ranks the annual game high on the schedules of both schools.

Quanah vs. Childress

Quanah's district conquest is not yet complete, as the Indians are yet to play the Childress Bobcats. This final game, however, hardly can change the Indians' standing, as each of the three teams they have beaten has defeated Childress, and as far as the title race is concerned, the Quanah-Childress game merely marks the formality of playing out the schedule.

Both Wichita Falls and Vernon have won from Childress and Electra and lost to Quanah, but a comparison of the scores indicates the Coyotes are in for a merry tussle Thanksgiving day. The Coyotes won, 6 to 0, from Childress, while the Lions whipped the same team, 26 to 0. Against Electra, Vernon won by a score of 6 to 0 and the Coyotes by 20 to 12. After Quanah had beaten the Pack, 27 to 6, Vernon held the Indians to a scoreless tie.

These figures do not paint the Coyotes' chances Turkey day any too bright a hue, but those who have followed the progress of Coach Barry Holton's squad since the Quanah game are aware of a general improvement that ranks the club as a worthy foe of the Vernon entry.

Two Weeks' Drill

The Pack's Saturday excursion to Dallas marked its final respite from the drudgery of daily practice, and two weeks of hard practice were on the program starting Monday. Coaches Holton, Lindsey and Morris have given the men just enough work to keep in condition since the Armistice day contest with Fort Worth North Side, but it will be quite different this week.

The major problem facing the coaches is the eradication from the Coyotes' play of the mechanical errors that have proved so costly in the last few games. The Pack has suffered heavily at one time or another from fumbles, poor handling of punts, faulty kicking, bad passing from center and intercepted passes. In practically every game a new malady has appeared to handicap the Wichita Falls team's efforts. Fundamentally, however, the team's offense and defense have improved with every succeeding game, and seemingly the main task of the coaches in the practice time available before Thanksgiving is the polishing up of the minor departments of play that have been at fault in late games.

No injuries of consequence were sustained in the Armistice day game and the only player out of action last week, Raymond Allen, end, is expected to return to the lineup before Turkey day.

DUNCAN DEMONS FACE TWO TOUGH ELEVENS

DUNCAN, Okla., Nov. 14.—Two of the hardest games of its 1931 schedule are facing Duncan High school next week. Tuesday the Duncan Demons meet Yukon here. Friday Grandfield plays here.

The Yukon squad is one of the strongest in the state and is making a bid for the Southern conference title. Grandfield also has a powerful team, claiming state honors.

If weather conditions are favorable, both games will be played at night.

Only Striving To Be Vivid, Avers Husing

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 14. (AP)—Ted Husing, Columbia Broadcasting company sports announcer, who Friday was barred by Harvard athletic authorities from attending any more games at Cambridge in his official capacity because he termed the play of Capt. Barry Wood "putrid" in last Saturday's game with Dartmouth, Saturday issued a statement in which he said he "was sorry" he had offended certain people, "regardless of the justice, or injustice of Harvard's action."

"Last Saturday I did say that Barry Wood's play was putrid," said Husing, who was here to broadcast Saturday's game between Army and Pittsburgh. "I have since explained that I used this adjective in a comparative sense, because I had seen Wood do so much better. I was striving to be interesting and vivid.

"I had no idea I was going to offend certain people. I certainly had no intention to do so. It has since developed that my word did offend some people.

"I cannot recall the word from the air. I can only say as an individual that since it has caused offense I regret I used it. I am sorry, regardless of the justice or injustice of Harvard's action.

"As a sports announcer, I can only say that if I and my fellow announcers are to serve the public we must not be unduly constrained by deference to either side in the sports we cover."

Lumber Company Robbed

GLADEWATER, Texas, Nov. 14. (AP)—The Gladewater Lumber company was robbed of mechanical equipment valued at $2,000 last night.

CANYON TEACHERS WIN FROM SUL ROSS ELEVEN

ALPINE, Texas, Nov. 14. (AP)—West Texas teachers of Canyon, runnersup in the 1930 Texas Intercollegiate Athletic association, defeated the Sul Ross teachers, 7 to 2, in a listless conference game here Saturday.

JOCKEY SUSPENDED FOR ROUGH RIDING TACTICS

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 14. (INS)—Laverne Fator, famous jockey, was under suspension Saturday for the balance of the Pimlico meeting for rough riding in the seventh race Wednesday.

P. B. Codd and John Torain, trainers, and V. Sutro, an owner, were suspended "for the best interests of the turf."

Sandies Score 87 Points to Defeat El Paso Gridders

Soggy Field Fails to Slow Pace of Amarillo Juggernaut

AMARILLO, Nov. 14. (AP)—A soggy and watery field failed to slow up the Golden Sandies of Amarillo high here Saturday and the Panthers of Austin high of El Paso were submerged, 87 to 0.

At no time were the Panthers able to hold the heavier Sandies. Coach Blair Cherry used every eligible player on his squad, 23 Sandies seeing service in the slaughter.

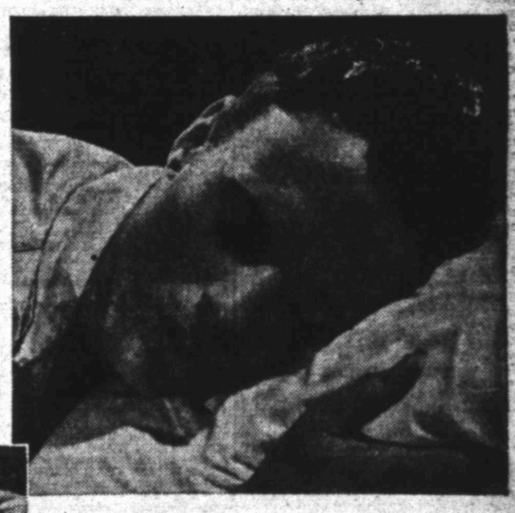

Several times the Panthers almost got away with their aerial attack but were not able to handle the slicky ball.

The Sandies play Slaton here next week, and then meet the Lubbock Westerners on Thanksgiving day in district one's most important battle. The Sandies have only an outside chance to beat Lubbock and throw the district into a three-way tie with Pampa's Harvesters being the third team.

SLEEP TONIGHT
This Instant, Drugless Way
Feel Like a New Person Tomorrow

Now . . an Instant Way to Get 8 Hours Sound Sleep at Night Entirely Without Drugs. Brings Clear-Eyed Mornings and Energetic Days

Now—you can say "good-bye" to sleepless nights—banish heavy-eyed mornings!

For a way has been found to induce instant sleep—entirely without drugs. A way that brings sleep so naturally that 20,000 physicians endorse it.

It is not a medicine in any sense of the word. It is as free of drugs as the bread you eat or the milk you drink!

The sleep it brings is natural—far different from artificial sleep and the lethargy following the use of sleep-producing drugs.

It is a delicious food-drink you take at night a few minutes before you go to bed. You fall asleep almost as soon as your head touches the pillow. And sleep 8 hours as soundly as a child.

In the morning you awake completely refreshed, in body and mind. Your whole being is recharged with new vitality.

It Does These 3 Things

The name of this remarkable product is Ovaltine—discovered in Switzerland by a scientist of international fame. During the World War it was made a standard ration for invalid, nerve-shattered soldiers. It does three things no other food-combination in the world will do.

First, it induces sound, restful sleep by a natural process.

Second, it rebuilds worn-out nerve and body cells. In addition to other valuable food elements, Ovaltine contains in concentrated form a natural vital property called "lecithin," which is the important part of nerve and brain tissue. And these special food properties rebuild nerve, brain and body tissues as you sleep.

Third, Ovaltine aids digestion. This is due to the fact that it contains a high proportion of a food element known as diastase—an element which has the power to digest the starch content of other foods in your stomach. Thus lifting a great burden from your digestive organs.

Also, by stimulating and aiding digestive processes, Ovaltine tends to draw blood away from the head. And helps reduce the congestion that is present in brain capillaries when a person lies awake at night thinking and worrying instead of sleeping.

Start Tonight

So try Ovaltine tonight. See how quickly—how naturally and normally—you fall asleep.

In the morning, you'll feel like a new person. Fresh—alert—clear-eyed.

Your whole appearance will reflect the result of the restful sleep you've had. And a few weeks' use of Ovaltine will show an extremely gratifying health-result. A health-result manifested by steadier nerves—stronger digestion—and buoyant energy that increases day by day.

'Phone your druggist or grocer for a tin of Ovaltine today. Mix 2 to 4 teaspoonfuls in a glass of warm milk and drink it just before you go to bed tonight.

(Note) Thousands of nervous people, men and women, are using Ovaltine to restore vitality when fatigued. It is also widely recommended by physicians for nervous, underweight children, nursing mothers, convalescents and the aged.

YALE PROFESSOR TO GIVE HISTORY RED CROSS IDEA

Growth of the Red Cross movement from its conception by a Swiss tourist watching the battle of Solferino to its present importance, when in the United States alone sixteen million people have mobilized to support it, will be traced by Dr. Howard W. Haggard, associate professor of physiology at Yale, during the "Devils, Drugs and Doctors" program to be broadcast at 7 p. m., central standard time, Sunday, Nov. 15, through the WABC-Columbia network.

Dr. Haggard recalls that as recently as the Crimean war there was no nursing service of any kind available for the victims in battle, and that Florence Nightingale's work at Scutari laid the foundation for all that has been accomplished since. With her example as an inspiration, Henri Dunant, an eye-witness of battle in which 40,000 men were killed and wounded, began the movement for an international treaty to declare neutrality for the wounded, nurses, doctors and hospitals, which developed into the Red Cross.

The emblem of the organization, says Dr. Haggard, is in itself recognition of Dunant's work, for it represents the Swiss national flag, with the colors reversed.

ROSSINI'S ORATORIO IS CATHEDRAL HOUR FEATURE

Selected arias from Rossini's magnificent oratorio, "Stabat Mater," will be featured in the Cathedral hour, a musical service produced under the direction of Channon Collinge and broadcast over the WABC-Columbia chain on Sunday, Nov. 15, from 12 to 12:45 p. m., central standard time, by a group of outstanding Columbia artists.

As a solo presentation Barbara Maurel, operatic contralto, accompanied by the Cathedral Symphony orchestra, will offer a composition, "Supplication," from Collinge's musical pen. Other soloists will be Adele Vasa, soprano; Theo Karle, tenor; Crane Calder, bass; aided by the Cathedral choir and orchestra.

Violin Concert

Toscha Seidel, world famous violin virtuoso, accompanied by Herbert Jaffe, pianist, will play the Kreisler arrangement of the Scherzo by Karl Dittersdorf, one of the foremost American violinist-composers of the eighteenth century, during his recital to be broadcast over the WABC-Columbia network on Monday, Nov. 16, from 9:30 to 9:45 p. m., central standard time.

SMUGGLING DURING NAPOLEONIC ERA IS RADIO PLAY THEME

"The Arrow," a drama dealing with the activities of smugglers during the Napoleonic era, will be enacted during the "Romances of the Sea" program to be presented over the WABC-Columbia network from 8:30 to 9 p. m. C. S. T. Sunday, Nov. 15.

In 1806, when France was conquering the world with her armies under Napoleon, England, still remained mistress of the seas. The war did not interfere with the activities of English smugglers, who upheld the principles of free trade.

Pat McCarthy, according to the story, was the owner of a fast lugger, "The Arrow," and his friend, Danny O'Brien, sailed with him as mate aboard the vessel. With a crew of 15 daredevil Irishmen they made their way to the French coast where many strange and exciting adventures befell them. How Danny's quick wit saves them from a French prison serves as a thrilling climax to the drama.

GLADYS BRITTAIN WILL SING OVER COLUMBIA CHAIN

Gladys Brittain, concert singer who holds the Juilliard scholarship, has been chosen as the guest artist for the "Evening in Paris" over the WABC-Columbia network on Monday, Nov. 16, from 8:30 to 9.00 p. m., central standard time.

Born in St. Louis, and moving to Kansas City at an early age, Miss Brittain has spent most of her life in the Middle West where she has been active in concert work. After a short stay in Hollywood she came to New York as the winner of the Juilliard scholarship.

For her solo selections she will sing "Love Letters in the Sand" and "You Didn't Know the Music." She will join Jierre Brugnon in a duet arrangement of "To the Land of My Own Romance," from Victor Herbert's operetta, "The Enchantress." Max Smolen's orchestra will furnish the accompaniment and in addition will give a symphonic orchestration of "Marta."

String Quartet Has Instruments Valued $120,000

More than $120,000 is represented in the instruments used by the Gordon string quartet, one of the most famous of chamber music groups in this country and abroad, which will be heard in the second of a series of five programs on Sunday, Nov. 15, from 10:30 to 11:30 p. m. C. S. T. during the Sunday morning musicale over an NBC-WJZ network.

Jaques Gordon, first violinist, who formed the ensemble in Chicago 10 years ago, plays upon a Stradivarius, known formally as the Tom Taylor and valued at $40,000.

Ralph Silverman, second violinist, has an instrument which was made by the teacher of Stradivarius and is valued at $25,000. Paul Robyn, player of the violin, and Naoum Venditsky, the cellist, both use instruments which are valued at from $20,000 to $30,000.

PRINCETON DEFEATED BY GENERALS, 6 TO 0

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 14. (US)—The Princeton football team went down to its sixth successive defeat here Saturday afternoon when they bowed before Washington and Lee, 6 to 0, for the first time in the rivalry between the two teams.

A long pass from Mattox to Sawyers, the only aerial which the Generals attempted throughout the game, netted the touchdown. It followed a 30-yard march down the field on line plunges through left guard and tackle.

The Tigers got within the visitors 20-yard line only once. In the opening minutes of the game Harry Seyforth recovered a Blue and White fumble on Washington and Lee's 37-yard line. A pass, Craig to Fairman gave Princeton a first down on the 10-yard stripe. Here the Southerners' defense stiffened and they took the ball on downs on their own 9-yard line. Bailey kicked out of danger and Princeton failed to threaten again.

Erich Kleiber to Conduct New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra In Series of Numbers by Old Masters

Seldom-heard works by Handel and Berlioz, and the famous "Third Symphony" of Beethoven, make up the program in which Erich Kleiber will conduct the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra for the concert to be broadcast from 2 to 4 p. m., central standard time, Sunday, Nov. 15, through the WABC-Columbia network.

Handel, born in Germany, spent so much of the latter part of his life in England that is almost more English than German in many respects, and the overture to "Esther" with which Kleiber will open his concert is in itself a typical example of the transition that came over the composer. Originally written in 1720, under the title of "Haman and Mordecai," this oratorio contains in its first form few indications of the style which Handel later developed in composing such masterpieces in oratorio-form as "The Messiah," but in 1732 he worked over the entire composition afresh.

It is this later version of the overture to the oratorio which will be performed in this concert. It shows Handel as having mastered a style of orchestration new in his day, although it at once recommended itself to his audience by reason of its straightforward clearness of expression. Because of these factors it proved to be one of the few works with which he was able to achieve immediate popular acclaim.

Body Found at Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Nov. 14. (INS)—Complete mystery today followed the finding of a body in Blue Mountain, Miss., which was tentatively identified as that of W. L. Ray, who disappeared from his home here two weeks ago.

The suit of J. A. Wade against the Wichita Falls and Southern railroad for $60,000 damages will go to the jury before Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court Monday morning.

Arguments in the case were finished late Saturday afternoon and the jury was immediately excused until Monday morning, when they will begin their deliberations.

The petition alleges that Wade was permanently injured as a result of having slipped on the ice and fallen near the roundhouse of the defendant company here while working as that company's employe in January, 1930.

The first trial of the case last summer resulted in a hung jury. The plaintiff is represented by E. W. Napier.

MURRAY OPTIMISTIC UPON RETURN FROM OIL MEN'S MEETING

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 14. (AP)—The oil industry now is possessed of a "real spirit of cooperation," as well as optimism, Cicero I. Murray, chairman of the oil states advisory committee, reported today upon his return from Chicago, where he attended the annual meeting of the American Petroleum institute.

The advisory committee, organized by representatives of governors of the oil states, was given signal recognition, Murray said, by the various groups reporting on conditions within the industry, and brought commendation from several leaders who have been opposed to "outside interference," among them being E. G. Seubert of the Standard Oil of Indiana.

The oil states committee went on record as favoring a tariff on crude oil and exclusion of foreign refined products; favored a legal subcommittee to work on a program of interstate and federal control of production, and advocated a war on tax evaders and bootleggers.

Wirt Franklin and his group returned today from Chicago and made ready to launch a nation-wide campaign for a heavy levy on crude and exclusion of foreign refined products.

Aged Parents Plead Tearfully With Winnie Ruth Judd to Tell Truth In Trial for Phoenix Trunk Slayings

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 14. (AP)—Emerging from the county jail after a visit of more than two hours with her daughter, Winnie Ruth Judd, Mrs. H. J. McKinnell said today she had pleaded with Mrs. Judd to "tell the truth," of the recent slaying of Mrs. Agnes Anne Le Roi and Miss Hedvig Samuelson and the sending of their bodies to Los Angeles in trunks.

"I want my daughter to tell the truth," she said, with tears in her eyes. "No matter what happens, she must tell everything truthfully."

The Rev. H. J. McKinnell, the accused woman's father visited his daughter also, but for a more limited time than the mother. Mr. McKinnell left the cell to confer with Herman Lewkowitz, Mrs. Judd's counsel.

The aged couple who came here from their home in Darlington, Ind., were taken to an unoccupied cell in the juvenile division, and their daughter brought to them there from the women's ward.

Officers Cordial

"Be brave, mamma, be brave," the clergyman urged his wife as they waited, he pacing the floor and she seated on a bench.

"Don't worry me," he said, "this is all going to come out all right. I don't believe any one knows all in this matter. Have faith in our girl. Be glad to see her."

"We were so glad to see her," said Mr. McKinnel as he and his wife rode in the elevator from the sixth floor of the court house where the Maricopa county jail is situated, "and she was so glad to see us."

"She is not herself," he said, and added "maybe we are not ourselves, either."

The minister expressed gratification at treatment he said he received from county officials.

"I would not have been surprised had he searched me for saws and things," he said, referring to Sheriff J. R. McFadden, who, habitual broad felt hat upon his head, had accompanied them to make arrangements for their visit with Mrs. Judd, "but he didn't."

"He treated us like we were his friends and he is going to let mother see her every day."

NINETEEN LOCATIONS STAKED OUT IN DISTRICT LAST WEEK

Wichita, Archer and Young Counties Divide Honors for Record Number of New Tests Started, Despite Failures

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

Failure to complete producers in two of the district's most interesting deep tests did not serve to dampen the ardor of the fraternity. Nineteen new locations were staked out, the greatest number for a week turned in by the engineers of the district during the last three years. These locations were about equally divided between proven and wildcat territories, Wichita, Young and Archer counties being the favored areas.

Several producers were finished and the usual number of dry holes was reported.

NEW OKLAHOMA OIL OPERATIONS SHOW BIG GAIN

TWENTY NEW TESTS NINE COUNTIES ARE REPORTED

Brings Total New Starts For 1931 in Oklahoma Up to 2,525

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 14.—For the first time in many months, new drilling operations in Oklahoma show a large increase over the previous week. Operators are of the opinion the many new locations may presage the start of the "big" drilling campaign that has been forecast for the state.

Twenty new reports came for the week ended Nov. 7, from nine counties, compared with 15 new reports for the previous week.

The 20 new starts brings the total for Oklahoma for 1931 to 2,525 compared with a grand total for 1930, of 2,830 new test wells started.

In the completion report for Oklahoma seven counties were represented in the 10 new wells. Creek, Oklahoma and Okmulgee counties each reported two new wells. Six were oil wells and four were completed for gas. The largest completion was in the Oklahoma City field. Only five failures for the state were reported.

The new test wells follow:

Creek County—Glad Oil company's No. 4 Travis, in the southeast corner of the northeast of 13-19-8e; A. A. Bailey and others' No. 4 Weaver, in the southwest corner of the northwest of 18-19-8e and Ben Curtis and others' No. 1 Reynolds, in the southwest corner of the southeast of 29-17-12e.

New Producers

The producing wells:

Creek County—Gled Oil company's No. 2 Travis, southeast corner of the northeast of 13-19-8e, made 175 barrels oil at 2239 to 2280 feet; Bryan Petroleum company's No. 1 Bucktrot, southwest corner of the southeast of the northwest of the southwest of 35-17-10e, made 2,500,000 gas at 1675 to 1685 feet.

Jefferson County—O. V. Beck's No. 1 Seay, southwest corner of the northwest of the southeast of 34-8s-5w, made 125 barrels oil at 1530 to 1552 feet.

Muskogee County—J. M. Foltz and others' No. 1 Island, in the southwest corner of the northeast of 8-15-18e, made 11,000,000 feet gas at 1590 to 1597 feet.

Okmulgee County—Henley and others' No. 1-A Lee, northwest corner of the northeast of the southwest of 28-15-12e, made 1,000,000 feet gas at 1874 to 1884 feet; W. M. Sherry and others' No. 1 Pense, center of the northwest of the southwest of 21-16-11e, made 2,500,000 feet gas at 1732 to 1781 feet.

Stephens County—J. C. Chambers and others' No. 1 Dare, southeast of the northwest of the southeast of 2-2s-8w, made 40 barrels at 1356 to 1361 feet.

Development of the 3800-foot sand in south Wichita county will probably slow up at least for a time on account of the completion of the Consolidated and Primrose Refining company's No. 1 Munger as a dry hole. This test, two and one-half miles southeast of the discovery well, and in the northwest corner of block 31, W. V. F. L., encountered a promising sand at 3781 feet and set casing after drilling 18 feet of the formation. Thursday the plug was drilled out, but bailing resulted in a dry hole. Later at 3892 six feet of sand was drilled and at present a machine is being moved over the hole to drill deeper into the formation. If this sand warrants a test bailing may be resumed before the final abandonment.

Another section of the county which has been practically devoid of drilling for some time, the old Sunshine area northeast of Electra, just at present is attracting the attention of operators to the opportunities for production in this section of the county. The prime factor in bringing about the new activity here was the completion of Dingee and others' No. 2 Geo. L. Doble in D. L. & C. survey, abstract 711, which is making 25 barrels from a shallow sand from 880 to 886 feet. With its completion two locations were staked out, Daubert and others' No. 1 Geo. L. Doble southwest in the same survey is drilling at 560 feet. To the west one-half mile Walton and others are rigging up on the A. B. Honaker tract. North of the well R. R. Clark, pioneer operator in the pool, is expected to make a location during the coming week.

Second Failure

Consolidated and Primrose interests received a second sock on the chin during the week when their No. 1 L. F. Wilson, located in section 76, A. T. N. C. L. survey, in Archer county, failed to make a producer in the 2200-foot sand. This well is a semi-wildcat, about 1300 feet northeast of the Deep Oil-Lindsay No. 1 well, which uncovered the new deeper pay in the Chalk Hill pool that added a deep sand to the county's numerous producing areas. The sand was picked up at the usual depth, or at 2223 feet, but did not show traces of oil or gas. Drilling continued in an effort to pick up a sand at 2283 feet, which was logged in the original well. Failure attended the efforts and Saturday the hole was abandoned as dry at a total depth of 2303 feet.

North of Archer City two tests are being watched with interest by the operators in this area, both being 2250-foot rotary tests, Goss and Wagoner's No. 1 Langford in block 135, and Jack Story and others in block 134, a short distance to the south, both in the Harris survey.

In the southeast part of the county, in the saturated lime area, a number of nice wells have been completed on the F. C. Green and C. L. Abercrombie farms. These wells were brought in by Maxson and the Panhandle company and H. C. Dean and others. Several new locations were staked out in various blocks of the Falls county school land.

Young county activities were marked by the completion of several wells in the shallower areas north of Newcastle. However, the majority of these were dry holes. Northeast of the post proper George Mollenkopf's No. B-1 Jeffery, located in north half of southeast quarter of section 50, T. E. & L. survey, has some sort of a producer from the sand at 870 feet and promises a nice northeast extension to the field.

Progress on Wilbarger, Jack and Montague county tests is going along in a satisfactory manner and interesting developments are expected from one of these pools at an early date.

Crude movements from the different pools of the district for the week ended Saturday showed an average of 57,018 barrels daily from the nine pools. This is a gain of about 137 barrels as compared with the last week's run. The North Texas division composed of Throckmorton, south Young, Haskell and Jack counties registered a daily output of 7,486 barrels per day, a loss of 370 barrels under the previous pipe line movement.

DRY HOLE AND NEW LOCATION STEPHENS AREA

DUNCAN, Okla., Nov. 14.—A dry hole was abandoned and a new location staked out in Stephens county during the last week.

George Pace abandoned his No. 4 Mrs. P. S. McMasters, in the NE. NW. NW. NE of 13-2s-8w, in the field northwest of the town of Comanche, as a duster at 2031 feet.

Pace has completed derrick and is rigging up rotary tools for a new test on his Bristow lease, in the NE. SE of 18-2s-7w, just north of Comanche. Pace's No. 11 Ode McMasters, in the NW. NW. NE of 13-2s-8w, is an inactive location.

H. J. Brown and the K. D. Drilling company are drilling in lime at 810 feet in their No. 2 Higginbotham tower, in the SW SW SE SE of 15-3s-5w, a test being drilled for gas in the field southwest of the town of Loco.

The Murray Petroleum corporation is preparing to abandon its No. 1 J. N. Wilkerson, in the SE NE SE of 15-1s-5w, a wildcat 14 miles east of Duncan and just northwest of production in the Santa Fe shallow field. Total depth of the No. 1 Wilkerson is 1253 feet.

The Tatums Oil company has completed derrick and is digging pits for its No. 1 Carter-Hooks, in the SW SW NW of 13-1s-3w, an interesting test to be drilled just north of the Tatums field of Carter county.

OIL RISES TO 1800 FEET IN WARD WILDCAT

OUTPUT DEEPEST WELLS IN REAGAN RESTRICTED

New Pool May Be Opened In Ward County Near Loving Field

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Nov. 14.—Rising of fluid, mostly oil, to a depth of 1800 feet in four days in John F. Shipley and others' No. 1 Monroe, a Ward county wildcat, after sand topped at 4663 was entered two feet; the development of an oil spray in another Ward county well and the striking of oil in an Upton county well in the Wentz pool were among this week's West Texas oil developments.

Production of the world's deepest producers, in Reagan county, was restricted after showing a gain each week for five consecutive weeks, and one of the wells, Texon No. 3-B University, had deepened from 8633 to 8736 feet and was unloading to test. A test one mile northwest of west central Crane county's discovery producer had another oil showing and the first lime stringer was logged in a Cochran county wildcat. Preparations were begun to drill one new test each in Howard and Pecos counties, the latter being a wildcat.

Hopes for production in Shipley and Byrd & Harmon's No. 1 Monroe in Ward county for production that would open a new pool was based partly on the fact that many wells in the Wheat field in Loving county, about 13 miles to the northwest, have filled only a few hundred feet with oil after drilling into the Delaware sand but when shot flowed 150 to 200 barrels a day. Oil in the Wheat field tests around 40 to 41 gravity, while that from No. 1 Monroe tested only 32.5 gravity. Running of the baller to the bottom revealed some water in No. 1 Monroe and whether it was drilling water or bottom hole water was undetermined. Many believed it was drilling water.

Ready to Shoot Well

Shooting was planned but this likely will not be done until next week. No. 1 Monroe topped the sand at 4663 feet, 2008 feet below sea level and 33 feet in the Delaware lime, topped the pay at 4664 feet and shut down at 4665. It is 330 feet from the southeast and southwest lines of section 33 block 1, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey.

Resuming drilling at 2365 feet, where an increase in gas blew tools out of the hole, Stanolind Oil & Gas Co.'s No. 1 Brown in Ward county struck oil in sand from 2273-75 feet, had small increases from 2284-90 feet and from 2312-15 feet and had drilled to 2350 feet in lime, spraying a small, unestimated amount of oil. The well gauged 5,885,000 cubic feet of gas on Nov. 6. It is 330 feet from the northwest and southwest lines of section 26, block B-29, public school land, one-half mile from oil production.

George Farley and others' No. 2 Lane in the Wentz area in Upton county topped the lime at 2195 feet, 375 feet above sea level, set 6¾-inch casing at 2220 feet, topped the pay at 2310 and drilled to 2355 feet. Oil rose 1300 feet. The well was to be tubed and placed on the pump. It is 2310 feet from the south line and 990 feet from the west line of section 36, block 1, M-K-T Ry. Co. survey, a diagonal northeast offset to Farley and others' No. 1 Lane and a diagonal southwest offset to Baldwin & Mintex's No. 1 Lane, both producers.

Texas-Pacific Coal & Oil Co.'s No. 2-B Sherk, in section 1, block 3, M-K-T Ry. Co. survey, topped the salt at 910 feet and had drilled to 1705 feet in red rock. Gulf Production Co.'s No. 89 McElroy, spudded on Nov. 7, had drilled to 250 feet in red rock. It is 2762 feet from the north line and 330 feet from the east line of section 200, block F. C. S. D. & R. G. N. G. Ry. Co. survey.

Four Deep Producers

Four of the world's deepest producers, in Reagan county, last week yielded 129,709 barrels of oil, 1,595 barrels less than during the week ending Oct. 31. Texon No. 4-B University, the only one of four Texon deep wells then open, gauged 66,345 barrels, 393 barrels more than the week before. Big Lake Oil Co.'s No. 4-C University, recently deepened to 8833 feet, increased 7,034 barrels to 27,458 barrels for the week. The gain by Big Lake No. 4-C University was more than offset by the restricting of Big Lake No. 5-C 7,853 barrels to 29,744 barrels. This was effected by setting four-inch tubing at 8841 feet, 31 feet off bottom. Production by Big Lake No. 1-C University was reduced 1,170 barrels to 6,162 barrels for the week.

Texon No. 1-B University, the discovery well, which cemented whipstock from 5,090 to 4,815 feet to sidetrack 5 3-16-inch pipe, had drilled to 5440 feet in shale, making new hole. WILL ROGERS TELLS of FLYING TRIP TO MEXICO CITY

(Copyright 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

By WILL ROGERS

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, or what I see as I flit from limb to limb. Couple of weeks ago I had a great trip down to Mexico City. That is A Town like Mexico Towns, and Mexican people, they move just about fast enough to suit me. But I dont know, they are likable anyhow, they all got humor, and as for hospitality, well you havent seen any till you see them.

Hal Roach the great Comedy Movie Director, who makes all the really funny Pictures, and is responsible for the best team of Comedians, Laurel and Hardy, you know they are the favorites with all us Movie Folks, as well as the audiences, well Hal, and Eric Pedley the great Polo Player, who played on our International team against England the last time, and he made more goals single handed than all of England combined, well he is a wonderful Athlete, was the champion Boxer of his Division during the war, great Tennis Player, Golf, anything, and a fine fellow with it. We were in Hals private Plane, piloted by Captain Jimmy Dickson, who has covered this country from more different angles than anybody.

Well the four of us lit out. We bid our wives good bye at the Airport at five in the morning, thats before daylight. Now thats what I call a dutiful wife, that will crawl out at that hour and go to the field to see your Husband off for Mexico. I had kinder promised to take the Women on this trip. But we got out of it in some way. You see they would have had to have gone on the train. I was the fellow that was to take them down and then the other fellows fly down and meet us. It was a Dandy idea and I may have to do it yet, and I will be glad to do it, for any excuse that gets me down there is a good one. But I want to compliment these wives. Now Mrs. Pedley her Husband hadent flown so much, and it was fine of her to let Eric go. You know Wives have kinder got to get used to this flying business for their Husbands.

Mine is pretty well broke in. In fact the last time I went to Oklahoma I took My Mary and Bill Jr. there and back in Hals Plane. My wife makes short trips, but not any Transcontinental ones. We hit the line and cross into Mexico at Douglas, Ariz and if you want to see courtesy why their Authorities sure showed it to us in getting permission to cross. You know this taking a Plane into another country is not like driving a Ford in, there is more to it.

We hit Torreon about 1100 miles from Los Angeles that night, hit the field after dark and had to throw out a flare. (Its a kind of a lamp of a thing, fastened onto a silk Parachute and goes down and lights up the field). It only costs $40 so it pays to get in by daylight. Thats a very pretty, and clean, prosperous little City, then the next day over the Mountains to Mexico City. Oh yes I like to forget we on the first day circled over the great Hearst Ranch, (I had been down there a couple of weeks before). Its a wonderful place, One Million Acres, sixty Thousand Cattle. We would have liked to landed there but the ground looked wet from a lot of rains. But the one great view of Aviation is the sight of the valley of Mexico City. Its eight thousand feet high, and still a Valley, with the old Volcano of Popocatepetl, smoking nearby. It was good to see old friends who I had met on previous visits, mostly when I was there with Ambassador Morrow. Things are fine there, of course the usual hard times of all Nations but no more than us, or the rest.

And Here Was Old Popocatepetl

We were asked that night to go out and call on Ex Pres Calles, (called Ki-ess). Now there is a remarkable man, a really BIG man, one of the few able men during our generation. That sounds pretty windy dont it? Well its true, if ever a single man kept a Country in check its this man Calles. No Dictator Dont want to be President again. He simply wants his country to have peace, and they know he is a real Patriot, and not one of these Idealists. Mexico has had plenty of men that meant well, had a certain ability, but lacked the real spark, and the downright nerve, I mean Political nerve, and physical nerve. Well this fellow has it.

Both Roach and Pedley said they had never in their lives met a public man that any more impressed them than he did. Now Mexico dont want any trouble, and the few that do want to make it are held in check by this man. I was pleased when I went in that he gave me the "Embrazo" or embrace, where each of you put your arms over the others shoulders into a kind of pat of embrace, and its only among particular friends. Well I swelled up till he couldent hardly embrace me.

We talked mostly of Morrow. He was tremendously fond of him. We also have a very fine man as Ambassador there, a great international Lawyer from Salt Lake, Mr. Clark, he is doing a fine job there, in fact he helped make Morrow's term such a success. Morrow asked in going there, "Who is the best man on International Law there is?" They all said this man Clark if he could get him. Morrow got him, and he worked with Morrow all the time he was there, then when Morrow left he had him take his place.

He has a great personality, and there will never be any trouble with Mexico while he is there. In fact I dont think there ever will be. We are neighbors and we both see it to our advantages that we are friends. Roads, Aeroplanes, Sports, Schools, exchanges of newspapers, a hundred things that are bringing them closer to each other all the time. Go down there this winter. Its got Europe licked to death, for scenery, quaintness, hospitality, and Beer, and of course the cost is about a fourth or fifth. And dont fail to read Stuart Chase's wonderful book, "Mexico a Study." Its the greatest thing you ever read, on any Country.

BURKBURNETT ELEVEN TO BATTLE FORT SILL SOLDIER TEAM SUNDAY

Everything is all set for the football clash Sunday afternoon at Shamburger stadium in Burkburnett when the Burkburnett All-Stars and the Army team from Fort Sill, Okla., clash in one of the feature games of the year in independent football circles in this section. The two teams which face each other Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock represent two of the fastest independent teams in this section and judging by the heavy advance sale of tickets there will be a huge crowd on hand for the game. The Army team is coached by Biff Jones, formerly of West Point, and a coach who can be counted upon to have a bang up good team.

The Burkburnett team realizes the battle it will have on its hands and every afternoon has found long grilling practice session in an effort to whip into top form for the big game. The team was greatly reinforced by the return of eight men to the lineup. The return of Wright, Dodd, Leake, Brantley, Faulk, Henderson, Morley and Hood has greatly added to the hopes of the Burkburnett fandom.

Manager Sike Smith of the Burkburnett team announced Saturday that his probable starting lineup would find Winniger and Dodd on ends; Wood and Henderson, tackles; Jarrell and Key, guards; Vance, center; B. Johnson, quarter; Buckner and High, halves; and Stringer, fullback.

TIMES' DAILY MARKETS

RALLIES FOLLOW COTTON DECLINES WEAK AT CLOSING

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—Rallies from an opening decline in cotton today were followed by renewed weakness under some southern selling and liquidation.

January contracts, after selling off to 6.45 early, rallied to 6.54 or within a point of yesterday's closing quotations, but later broke to 6.44 and closed at 6.46. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 8 to 11 points.

The opening was steady 6 to 9 points lower under southern selling and liquidation inspired by the lower Liverpool cables and the easier tone of the stock market. Brokers supposed to be acting for cooperative interests were among the sellers and prices worked gradually off to 6.33 for December, and 6.61 for March or about 10 to 12 points net lower on the general list. Offerings then tapered off to some extent and losses were just about recovered on a renewal of trade or investment buying and week-end covering. December advanced to 6.45 and March to 6.71 on this demand but selling became more active again in the late trading and closing quotations were within a point or two of the lowest for the day.

No special news factors were particularly mentioned in connection with the decline, but it was pointed out by some of the local brokers that rather a reactionary tone had been in evidence for the past two or three days, and the selling this morning was probably encouraged by the action of the grain and stock markets. The steadiness or silver had a sustaining influence and there were rumors that the early break had brought in some investment buying through commission houses as well as a rather better trade demand.

The report of the census bureau showing domestic consumption during October of 462,025 bales compared with 463,704 in September and 443,284 in October 1930, was not generally mentioned in connection with the action of the immediate market.

Liverpool cables said that Bombay buying had been supplied by liquidation and hedging in that market, but reported a fair business in cotton cloths for the Manchester outlets generally. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 204,000 bales against 195,000 last year.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 14. (AP)—The cotton market was quite active today for a brief Saturday session. Prices developed a slightly easier tendency owing to lower cables than due, hedge selling, week-end liquidation and easiness in the stock market.

After opening 3 points down and easing off to levels 6 points below the previous close in the first hour, prices rallied 5 points early in the second and last hour on rather good trade buying which developed, but eased off again to new lows for the day near the end on liquidation losing 6 to 9 points from the previous close. The market closed steacy showing net declines for the day of 6 to 8 points.

Liverpool cables came in 3 to 4 penny points worse than due on improved sterling. Bar silver in London closed at 21 9-16d up ⅛d. Private cables stated that Bombay bought but that there was liquidation and hedge selling. Manchester cabled that there was a fair business generally. First trades here were three points down.

In the late trading prices eased off again on week-end liquidation and in sympathy with stocks making new lows for the day at 6.35 for Decembr, 6.45 for January and 6.61 for March.

Port receipts 46,729; for season 4,344,493; last season 5,296,278. Exports 44,421, for season 2,212,081, last season 2,628,036. Port stock 4,638,813; last year 3,997,871. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 152,039, last year 185,377. Spot sales at southern markets 39,809, last year 34,638.

Liverpool Cotton

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 14. (INS)—Spots cotton was quiet at the opening today with prices easier. Receipts amounted to 23,000 bales.

At midday, middling fair was quoted at 6.19d; strictly good middling 5.74d; good middling 5.34d; strictly middling 5.14d; middling 5.02d; strictly low middling 4.92; low middling 4.79d; strict good ordinary 4.59d; good ordinary 4.39d.

Futures were steady with December at 4.67d; January 4.67d; March 4.71d; May 4.77d; and July 4.82d.

New York Coffee

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—Coffee was higher today on trade buying and covering on a more favorable view of Brazilian political developments. No. 7 contracts opened 2 to 4 higher and closed 9 to 12 higher. Sales 5,000. Santos opened 2 higher to 2 lower and closed 8 to 11 higher. Sales 12,000. Closing quotations: No. 7 contracts: Dec. 5.12; March 5.35; May 5.46; July 5.53; Sept. 5.66. Santos: Dec. 7.42; March 7.70; May 7.84; July 7.96; Sept. 8.06.

Spot coffee steady. Rio 7s 6½; santos 4s 8⅜.

PRICES CURB LIST GENERALLY LOWER WITH OIL HEAVY

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—An easy tone prevailed in the curb market today, although trading was quiet. Specialties were rather soft, while utilities tended to sag. Oils were slightly heavy. Transactions approximated 160,000 shares.

Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, one of the curb's few rail stocks, lost 5 points in sympathy with the downward movement of carrier issues of the big board. New York Steam also fell 5 and A. O. Smith 6¾, while Mead Johnson and Great Atlantic & Pacific were down 3½ and 4, respectively, in light offerings. Ford of Canada "B" likewise yielded 4. American Bakeries "A," an inactive, broke nearly 5. Perfect Circle sagged 22. Deere and De Forest Radio were about steady.

Consolidated Gas of Baltimore firmed a point, but it was an exception in the utility group. Electric Bond & Share touched a new low for the reaction at 19⅛, closing at 19⅛, off ⅛. United Light "A," American Light & Traction and American Gas were heavy.

Small losses occurred in Gulf Oil, Standard of Indiana and International Petroleum. Newmont Mining was the only metal issue to show much life; it advanced 1⅛ in the late spurt.

RAIL GROUP WEAK AND STOCK MARKET GENERALLY LOWER

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—Financial markets were reactionary in the week-end dealings today, following the pattern of the last few sessions.

Stocks felt the disturbance created in the rail group by weakness of New York Central, but closed generally above the lows on late short covering, with net losses ranging from a fraction to 4 points in most instances. Wheat steadied after an early setback, only to sag again to a weak finish, off two cents a bushel.

Shade trading was active throughout the first hour, when New York Central broke 4 points to a new low at 41⅝. The nine months' earnings statement was used as an argument by those who believe the current dividend is in danger and offerings of the stocks were rather large. It closed at 42¼, off 3¼ net. Union Pacific and Norfolk & Western lost slightly more than 4, while Bangor & Aroostook was down 5.

Establish New Lows

Radio and its subsidiary, Radio-Keith-Orpheum, both established new lows, the former sagging below 10. Weakness apparently reflected objections to the refinancing plan proposed for R-K-O. Western Union made a poor showing, and was off half a dozen points at the worst. American Telephone, Case, Auburn, Santa Fe, New Haven, Coca-Cola and corn products lost in the neighborhood of 2, while net losses in U. S. Steel, American Can, National Biscuit and Allied Chemical approximated a point. Metals were firm, apparently in expectation of more favorable news from the copper curtailment conversations. Stock transactions totaled 1,137,975 shares.

President Hoover's plan for a nationwide system of home loan discount banks was hardly a market influence, although Wall street gave the proposal a favorable reception. Traders probably felt, however, that the effects of such an arrangement, if approved by congress, could not be realized for some time; furthermore, it had been known that the administration was working on some such scheme.

DOWNWARD TREND FOR BOND MARKET FEW EXCEPTIONS

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—The bond market declined irregularly today in dull trading. Sales on the stock exchange aggregated $5,013,000, the smallest total for a short session since Sept. 11, when sales amounted to $4,565,000.

There were a few conspicuous exceptions to the downward trend, the most noticeable of which was an advance ranging from fractions to 2 points in Argentine obligations. Strength appeared sporadically in such loans as Bordeaux 6s, Australian 4½s and 5s and Finnish 7s.

German loans sagged until the last half hour, but reversed their trend then and a number of them closed the day higher. The 5½s of 1965 and the 7s of 1949 were two of the most active bonds of the whole list. The former closed with a net gain of 1 point and although the latter lost about as much they closed above the low of the day.

Japanese loans made varying gains. The 5½s of 1965 and the 6½s of 1954, Oriental Development 5½s and 6s, Tokio Electric Power 6s, Tokio 5½s and Tokio Electric 6s closed higher, although the turnover in several of them was small.

United States government obligations were dull and divided their net changes about evenly between gains and declines. The total turnover in this group approximated $400,000.

Corporate loans receded irregularly. The average closing price of 60 representatives bonds composed of equal numbers of industrial, public utility and railroad issues was 84, a net loss of four-tenths of a point for the day.

The railroad and industrial loans as a rule scored heavier losses than the public utilities. Issues of the New York Central, Missouri-Pacific and Southern Pacific were moderately active at fractionally lower levels.

SLUMP IN PRICES IN WHEAT MARKET AS BUYERS UNLOAD

CHICAGO, Nov. 14. (AP)—Big speculative holders of wheat relinquished ownership today with a rush, and prices crumbled wholesale, blotting out virtually half of recent rapid gains. Shrinkage in values since Monday amounted to more than 12 cents on wheat, 11 cents on rye, and 8 cents on corn. Rains which in part relieved drouth over domestic winter wheat territory southwest had a disturbing market influence, together with reported pressure of Russian wheat offerings at Liverpool and confirmation that France had agreed one-third of her wheat imports would be obtained from Jugoslavia.

Wheat closed unsettled at almost the day's bottom level, 2@2⅞ cents lower than yesterday's finish, corn ¼@1 cent down, oats ¼@58c off, and provisions at 5@20 cents decline.

In some quarters, belief prevailed that the supposed leader on the bull side of the wheat market had quit at least temporarily as a promoter of higher prices. On the other hand, opinions from various sources were expressed after the close that the reaction had gone too far. Exporters especially were represented as waiting to see what effect today's price downturns would have on foreign buying. A bearish feature, however, was that not only had France agreed one-third of her imports would be taken from Jugoslavia, but that a similar agreement was expected between Germany and Jugoslavia.

Meanwhile, today's overseas purchases from Canada and the United States remained scanty, 500,000 bushels, and the bulk of it Canadian. Price rallies made but slight headway at any time, notwithstanding Argentine complaints of unwelcome rains in harvest regions, and despite word that drouth was little abated in Western Kansas, where since July 1 the rainfall has been scarcely half of last year's total.

Corn and oats failed to reflect fully the wheat market break. Wet weather over the corn belt and high prices paid in parts of Iowa and Illinois for cash corn had a substantial effect.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—Dec. 54⅞, 59½; March 62¼ offers; May 59⅞@59⅞, 64⅞@64⅞; July 59⅞, 64⅞. Corn—Dec. 40, 43⅞; May 45@45⅛, 47⅞@47⅞; July 46⅞, bids.

Midwestern Livestock Review

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 14. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Cattle trade around the 11-market circuit was featured by a fairly broad demand for the few finished fed steers and yearlings offered at prices steady to 50c higher. But the in-between grades of steers after opening the wee higher closed dull with values at most centers unevenly 25@75c under a week ago. Weighty steers in Chicago topped at $12.15 and best yearlings made $12.10. Short fed steers, however, were plentiful with the majority ranging within a spread of $5.25@8.50. Country demand for stocker and feeder classes was fairly broad and most points reported prices steady to 25c higher. Better grades of stocker and feeder steers cleared from $5.00@6.50 while the bulk of stock calves sold from $5.00@7.00. Aggregate receipts estimated at 212,600 were 5,500 short of last week and 10,000 short of the corresponding period a year ago.

Hogs closed the week uneven with a few points showing upturns of 10@15c as compared with last Saturday most markets were on a 10@20c lower basis. St. Louis had a late top of $5.20. Total offerings were around 582,000 as compared with 481,832 last week and 533,979 a year ago.

Killing classes of sheep were firm to unevenly higher for the week most of the river markets reporting gains of 25@35c on fat lambs and some strength on aged stock. Feeding lambs registered no material change. The supply approximated 448,300 against 493,073 last week and 349,573 the same period a year ago.

Farmer-Athlete Titled Champion Of Corn Huskers

GRUNDY CENTER, Iowa, Nov. 14. (UP)—Orville Welch, Monticello, Ill., whose weight is about that of a good college halfback, has $100 in prize money and the title of champion corn husker of America.

The 26-year-old farmer-athlete won the honors by sending more than a ton of ears thumping against the bangboards of his wagon in 80 minutes in Clyde Wilhelm's muddy corn field.

With a husking hook on his bare right hand, Welch bobbed his way through the acre corn patch to victory while 60,000 spectators including Gov. Dan W. Turner cheered him on.

The husking championship was Grundy Center's greatest celebration. Spectators from all over Iowa and adjoining states poured over the rain-soaked corn field to watch the competition of 16 state champion huskers. Radio announcers broadcast play-by-play accounts of the match.

Welch weighs 165 pounds. He is married and works on his father's farm near Monticello. When somebody thought of making the arduous husking into a sport, he became interested. For seven years he entered the state contests. Last year he placed fifth in the national event.

Fast and shifty on his feet, Welch husked 2,196.4 pounds after officials deducted from the total for ears missed.

The standings included: Welch, 2,196.4; Theodore Balko, Minnesota, 2,139; Lee Carey, Iowa, 2,111; Carl Seller, Illinois, 2,075.6; Omer Little, Kansas, 2,021.8; H. F. Roepke, Kansas, 1,838.6.

QUANAH BUSINESS MEN WILL VISIT PANTRIES OF FARM CLUB WOMEN

QUANAH, Texas, Nov. 14.—About 25 Quanah business men will make a trip Monday, Nov. 16, to the kitchens of various club women of the county who were entered in the kitchen and 4-H pantry contests just closed.

The trip is sponsored by the Quanah Chamber of Commerce, and will be headed by Miss Elsie Philips, home demonstration agent, and George Sager, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

Thousands of cans of fruit and vegetables have been canned in the county this year, and substantial prizes have been awarded in these special contests. More than 1,000 cans of fruits and vegetables have been canned by one contestant, and there is still the bulk of the meats to be canned.

Boy Scout News
Doings of Scouts in Wichita Falls Area

Since the date for the jamboree has been changed, it has been found advisable to have the next board of review Monday, Nov. 23, at the scout office at 5:30 p. m.

Troop 16

Kenneth Erwin, scoutmaster of troop 16, which meets at the First Baptist church, reports a good attendance. In addition to the regular members, 13 visitors were present, each one wanting to join. The troop had patrol contests on the jamboree events, getting ready for the jamboree. The tenderfoot badge was awarded to Leroy Henry, who recently joined the troop. Paul Osteen and Snelling White were voted into the troop, having visited the troop three times, and have passed their tenderfoot tests. Roy Crocker, who was awarded his Eagle badge last week, gave a talk on the law of "helpfulness."

Moving Picture

"The Scout Trail," the moving picture that was made by troop 12 under the direction of Don Ross, scoutmaster of troop 12, was shown Wednesday night at the Highland Heights Christian church to a crowd of over 100 people. It was shown Thursday night at Sam Houston school to a crowd of over 300 people. Friday night it was shown to the members of troop 2. Sunday, the picture will be shown at Benjamin, Texas. Mr. Ross reports that the picture is billed through December.

Troop 10

Paul Woodward, scoutmaster of troop 10, meeting at the First Presbyterian church, had a large crowd present, including several boys who have expressed a desire to join the troop. Men visitors included Douglas Parker, a scoutmaster; Don Ross, scoutmaster of troop 12; J. Stingle, an Eagle Scout from Oklahoma, and W. E. McBroom, father of one of scouts. Troop 10 was just finishing the handicraft contest and prizes were awarded to Murel Schellane, first place with a fine bird house; Frank Rusk, second place, with a model aeroplane, and Gordon Alvis, third place with a clay model horse. The judges were the entire troop. Douglas Parker, Paul Woodward and Scout Executive Frank Creighton. The troop is planning on an overnight hike to Weeks park next Friday night, providing the weather permits. Two weeks from Friday night, Nov. 28, the troop will have a mother's night.

Sectional Meeting

Last Monday and Tuesday Scout Executive Creighton attended a sectional meeting of scout executives at Dallas. Mr. Pote from the New York office and Mr. Fitch from Dallas were present and gave talks on the present condition of scouting in this territory. Reports show that 19 men have been released from scouting since the first of the year in the ninth region. Mr. Pote, in his talk, stated that throughout the country conditions were getting better and within another year scouting conditions would be back to normal.

Troop 2

Troop 2 met with Bill McClure, the scoutmaster, in charge. Instead of the regular troop meeting, Don Ross showed the picture, "The Scout Trail," and it was well received. Six boys were present that will join the troop next meeting night. This troop now has 14 Eagle Scouts and several more will finish before Dec. 31. One of their Eagle Scouts is moving to Washington, D. C. He is Harold Wieler and will return in about six months, as his father is being assigned to some special military duty at the capital.

Scoutmasters Association

Monday night at 7:30 o'clock the scoutmasters of the city will meet in regular session at scout headquarters. This body of men meets once a month and plans the activities of the scouts of this city. Paul Woodward of troop 10 is president and Kenneth Erwin of troop 16 is secretary. Plans for the jamboree, for the repairing of Christmas toys and the overnight hike will be discussed.

Troop 1

Troop 1 met at Floral Heights Methodist church with Floyd Billingsley, the scoutmaster, in charge. Fifteen boys were present, and as the troop is now re-registering, all boys who had not paid their registration fee were urged to do so at once. Several promised to register Saturday. Plans were discussed as to a totem pole and a handicraft contest. If weather permits the scouts decided to camp at Weeks park next Friday night. The scoutmaster examined several boys for their tenderfoot tests. While he was examining these boys, the assistant scoutmaster, Milton Brand, was conducting a play period. The troop was dismissed with the Lord's prayer.

Troop Camping

A section of Weeks park is being fixed up so that it will be practical for troops to camp out every Friday or Saturday night. Fireplaces for cooking have been prepared and a fine council ring fireplace has been made. Every week for the past five weeks, some troop has used Weeks park as an overnight spot for camping and until cold weather sets in, it is apparent that troops will stay out. The scoutmasters will have their overnight hike at Weeks park. It will be next Saturday night or the Saturday night following. Imu Pig is assured the men this time and each man will prepare his own breakfast.

Troop 4

This troop met at the First Christian church with Dick Hambrick in charge. The meeting opened with the scout oath and law. Mr. Hambrick talked to the troop on advancement. Troop four is being revived as they missed quite a few meetings, but a drive is now being made for new members and every boy agrees to get at least one new member. Twenty-five boys were present and those that were not registered, agreed to get their tenderfoot tests passed and be ready to register before the first of the month. Dr. H. T. Woods, the pastor, and his son; Jack Hupperts, the assistant pastor; J. W. Pond, and R. E. Shepherd, president of Boy Scouts, were present, and all made talks encouraging troop 4 to better efforts. A chile supper was served. John Tevis, the scoutmaster, arrived late and made a talk on the future plans of the troop. The troop decided on an overnight hike to Weeks park on Dec. 3. For the past three meetings the troop has been in a contest with A. G. Fletcher in charge of one team and J. D. Woodward in charge of the other team. A. G. Fletcher lost and his side had to wash the dishes, after the chili supper.

Scout Jamboree

Details as to where and when the jamboree will be held have not been finally decided upon. It is hoped that at a meeting to be held the middle of the coming week a definite date and location can be arranged. All previous jamborees have been held in the Memorial auditorium, but since a ruling has been made that every one using the auditorium should pay $50, it has been found impossible to pay the amount asked and until other developments arise no definite date can be set for the jamboree.

Troop 26

This troop met at the First Presbyterian church, south, with "Smoky" Lupher as scoutmaster. Mr. Lupher has just recently taken over this troop and had nine boys present Friday night. Mr. Lupher gave a written quiz on the tenderfoot tests and has started the boys to re-studying the tenderfoot work. This troop is planning some big times for the early winter. Saturday afternoon the boys were to meet at church and clean up the church grounds.

Benjamin Trip

Sunday afternoon a group of Wichita Falls scouts and scoutmasters will leave for Benjamin where they will give outdoor work to the scouts of that city and will cook their supper in the open and will have boomerang throwing and archery. At the night service all churches are uniting for a union meeting at the theater when the scout picture, "The Scout Trail," will be shown. John Tevis, scoutmaster of troop four, will put on the tenderfoot investiture service and Don Ross will give an exhibition of airplane flying. Several other places have asked for Sunday night services, so as to reach the entire citizenship of the smaller towns.

Troop 14

Troop 14 met at the South Side Baptist church with J. B. Cissell in charge. The meeting opened with scout oath and law. The troop was divided into two patrols and with J. B. Cissell Jr., as leader of the Daniel Boone patrol, and Joe Butler leader of the Cardinal patrol. Three new members were taken into the troop, Odell Damerall, Hazzell Cons and King Art. Eduall Platt, one of the troop committeemen, offered a prize to the boy that presented the best piece of handicraft before Christmas. Every boy present agreed to enter a piece of handicraft in the contest. The meeting was dismissed with scoutmaster's benediction.

New Members

The recent drive that was started and was called off on account of conflicting events has already netted quite a few new boys without the effort that was planned. Over 30 boys have joined the troops of the city within the past month and before the end of the month many more will join. It is planned to have the big membership drive the latter part of January and first part of February, just previous to the anniversary week celebration.

Troop Eight

Troop eight, at the Grant Street Methodist church, met in regular session with Charlie Rhoads, the scoutmaster, in charge. This troop assisted in the showing of the scout picture at Sam Houston school Thursday night. Last Friday night the troop camped out at Weeks park. This troop registered 12 new boys this week and so far has the record number of new members.

Winter Camp

Already many boys have been requesting further information as to the camp to be held at Diversion dam during the Christmas holidays and it is certain that the allotted number of 40 will be reached long ere time for camp. Several boys will come from nearby cities. The camp will start Monday and end Friday and will cost $3.75. Hikes and stunts will prevail. One night will be given over to the Order of Tong. Handicraft will be on the program for two hours every morning. All outdoor tests will be given.

REFUSE COMPENSATION INSURANCE TO OKLAHOMA DRILLING CONTRACTORS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 14. (UP)—Compensation insurance companies are refusing to write new insurance for drilling contractors, William Murdock, secretary of the insurance board, said today.

"A gas well drilling contractor appeared before the board asking release," Murdock said. "The men face loss of lifetime savings unless the insurance companies underwrite their injury risk and allow them to proceed with their business."

The compensation companies are asking for an increase in rates in this state due to losses last year. The insurance board has heard testimony and now has briefs under advisement in the compensation rate cases.

Will Your Estate Go Over the Dam?
While the man lives, the property which he has accumulated is protected by his experience, his judgment, and the exercise of restraint over any unwise expenditures of the family.
The tastes and inclination of heirs, however, are not always conservative. Like the waters of a dam, they burst when the restraining force is removed.
If you wish to protect your beneficiaries against their own errors of judgment in spending and investing you may place such of your property as seems desirable in trust with this bank. You may entrust that the income be paid regularly to those you wish to benefit and, if you desire, the principal itself can be given to them at an age when it is assumed they will have had sufficient experience to handle their financial affairs properly.

But you may read it!

My dear Mr._____:

Sometime ago I asked myself: "Could my wife run my business affairs? And if she couldn't do it now, is it fair to ask her to do it after I have gone?"

Or, for that matter, I reasoned, could many wives run their husband's businesses? Wouldn't the average woman, without much business training, have difficulty in investing a man's money properly?

It must, I say, make quite a difference to a woman—as to who settles her husband's estate. Suppose a man appointed as executor of his will, a friend, who might be absent, ill, or die, perhaps shortly after he tackled this settling-up job, or right in the middle of it. Wouldn't it be better for all concerned if this man named a corporate executor—a permanent organization that keeps on the job, through all sorts of "business cycles"?

Perhaps all this is no news to you. You may have made your will and named an institution like ours as executor and trustee. If so, fine! But I am writing you on the chance you haven't.

There is really a lot you ought to know about settling estates. Won't you drop in and go over this matter with us?

Sincerely yours,
Trust Officer
