STAR WITNESS RELATES PLAN TO KILL YOUTH

DEAD STUDENT QUOTED BY FLOYD HUFF IN TRIAL

PAWNEE, Okla., Feb. 13. (AP)—Mrs. O. L. Harmon today told the court she had been threatened with death in the past 24 hours if she testifies in the Phil Kennamer murder case.

PAWNEE, Okla., Feb. 13 (AP) Phil Kennamer was named by a state witness today as the originator of a plot to take lewd pictures of two Tulsa society girls.

The witness, Ted Bath, was the fourth state witness in Kennamer's trial for his life for the fatal shooting in Tulsa last Thanksgiving of John Grorell, who was named as a participant in the conspiracy.

Bath's testimony brought several sharp objections from the defense counsel and two conferences in the court room with District Judge Thurman Hurst.

One came when he declared Kennamer proposed that they rob a Tulsa sandwich shop and beer parlor where $300 to $400 was supposedly in the till each week-end.

"I remarked there would be three or four men there to resist, and refused," Bath said.

"I went out of the Brown Derby, where we had a beer, and came back in a moment. Then Phil asked me if I knew Barbara Boyle (daughter of J. H. Boyle, a wealthy Tulsa gasoline operator), and John objected, saying the Boyles were friends of his.

"Then Kennamer suggested Virginia Wilcox, and said we should take compromising pictures of her."

Defense attorney successfully objected to a question about what was to be done with the pictures.

On cross examination, Moss fired this question: "Didn't Pres Cochrane introduce Pat Burgess to you as "my strong arm man from Texas?"

County Attorney Holly Anderson of Tulsa, prosecuting here on a change of venue, objected and was sustained.

Cochrane, 20, close associate of Kennamer, and Burgess, a reporter for the Tulsa World, where Cochrane worked briefly as an office boy, have told officers they were approached by Kennamer and Gorrell regarding illegal activities and refused to take part.

Moss then asked but two more questions: "Gorrell objected when the Boyle girl was suggested?"

"Yes."

"But he did not when Miss Wilcox was named?"

"He did not."

"Did you object?" shot Anderson on redirect examination.

"I did," said Bath, and was excused.

Judge Hurst recessed court for lunch.

Earlier, Moss was blocked in efforts to show through the star state witness, Floyd J. Huff, Kansas City airplane mechanic, that the latter had called Kennamer "crazy" when he threatened to kill Gorrell.

Franks Acts as Postmaster for Kingsmill Now

Lee R. Franks has been appointing acting postmaster at Kingsmill, effective as of last Saturday.

Mr. Franks is an employe of the Cabot company. He is assisted at the postoffice by Mrs. Franks. The office has been moved a short distance to the J. M. Kirby grocery.

Roy D. Broyles, recent postmaster at Kingsmill, last night was reported to have been arrested at Portales, N. M., at the request of Postal Inspector M. B. Johnson of Amarillo. Sheriff J. H. Bord of Portales took about 300 money order blanks and a Kingsmill rubber stamp from Broyles, according to the Associated Press.

J. E. Broyles, brother of the recent postmaster, was in charge of the Kingsmill office when it was relinquished to Mr. Franks.

'Richest Girl in World' Is Married

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—Obtaining a marriage license this morning, Doris Duke, tobacco heiress and "the richest girl in the world," was reported to have been married shortly afterwards to James Henry Roberts Cromwell, New York advertising man. The ceremony is said to have taken place at Miss Duke's town house.

Not wishing publicity, Miss Duke had Philip A. Hines, deputy city clerk, visit her house and issue the license there. Her physician, Dr. Richard H. Hoffman, told Mr. Hines that the excitement of publicity might be injurious to her nervous system.

EXACT CAUSE OF DISASTER IS A MYSTERY

LAST OF GIANT SHIPS RESTS AT BOTTOM OF PACIFIC

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—America's navy will continue for the present without a giant fighting dirigible.

President Roosevelt gave this word today while discussing the Macon crash, but distinctly reserved a final decision on the place of lighter-than-air craft in military service.

The impression given a crowded White House press conference was that loss of the Akron with a heavy death toll and then, last night, the sinking of its sister-ship Macon, meant a temporary abandonment of dirigible construction.

By LEONARD MILLIMAN
(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13.—The giant dirigible Macon, destroyed by a sudden mysterious disaster, lay at the bottom of the Pacific ocean today, while 81 survivors were being brought into San Francisco Bay by cruisers of the United States fleet. Only two members of the crew were missing.

The tragic fate of every American made giant dirigible the navy has possessed overtook the queen of the skies as she neared her Sunnyvale base at sunset yesterday.

One or two of her 12 gas cells suddenly burst as she sped through squally air and fog 110 miles south of San Francisco.

The delicately balanced craft nosed abruptly skyward and the immediate efforts of Lieut.-Commander Herbert V. Wiley, skipper of the Macon and survivor of the Akron disaster, to balance the ship proved futile.

Sinks Immediately

Under his orders the unmanageable dirigible landed, stern first on the water 10 miles off point Sur. She sank almost immediately but her crew had taken to rubber lifeboats and all but two men were picked up by the cruisers Richmond Concord and Cincinnati.

The exact fate of the two missing men—radioman Ernest Dailey, North Bend, Ore., and Florentino Edquiba, Filipino mess sergeant—like the cause of the bursting cells, was not determined. Dailey presumably broke his back in a 125 foot leap from the ship before it landed. Edquiba was last seen aboard.

In the faint hope of finding them alive, a cruiser division and the cruiser Milwaukee were directed to continue searching the water off Point Sur until noon.

Two injured men will be taken off the rescue cruisers by ambulances, although their hurts are not serious. The message requesting ambulances as a precautionary measure did not identify the pair but previously boatswain's mate P. M. Jackson was reported internally injured.

Sunk in 250 fathoms the wrecked dirigible was a total loss. The navy contemplated no salvage plans.

Principals Are Retained in City

Principals of the Pampa schools were re-employed for another year at a meeting of the Pampa Independent school board Monday night. Supt. R. B. Fisher has another year on his contract from last year.

The board, after electing the principals, decided that work of naming teachers for next year will be taken up later, probably starting at the next meeting, which will be Feb. 25.

L. L. Sone, principal of the high school, has been in Pampa six years.

R. A. Selby, junior high principal, has also been teaching here six years.

Mrs. Annie Daniels, principal at Woodrow Wilson school, is the pioneer of the Pampa teaching staff, having been here 13 years.

J. A. Meek, principal at B. M. Baker school, has been in the Pampa schools eight years.

Miss Josephine Thomas, Horace Mann principal, has been teaching here seven years.

A. L. Patrick, principal at Sam Houston school, has been teaching in the district five years.

Twinkles

Austin is a "fur piece" to travel to watch a big crowd of playboys, statesmen, hair-sots, and what-not argue over laws that many of them know little about. We don't know whether to lament or feel glad that the distance forbids personal observation of the working of our great democratic (?) institution.

How anybody can, while watching antics of various legislatures, wish to turn all business over to the government is more than we can fathom.

Planning to vacation in Mexico City next July, we're brushing up on Spanish. We don't plan to live in Mexico. The people down there were so absurd as to mimic their U. S. neighbors and adopt a policy of "Mexico for the Mexicans."

Skippy, the family pup, bitterly dislikes to hear folks roller skating. "Out of the mouths of babes . . ." and pups!

But to refer to Mexico again, we doubt that that republic is any more "foreign" than is Louisiana right now in respect to personal liberties.

Musings of the moment: Which comes first, relief or business confidence? Mr. Roosevelt must think it is the old, old question of the hen and the egg—which came before the other. He leans toward relief and calls upon business to feed the hen so that she may lay eggs of better days, to strain fo ra figure. Confidence must also be maintained in the ability of the government to equalize work opportunities in this country.

Brevitorials

IT IS PRETTY WELL agreed now that something must, will be done to stop the enormous waste of gas in the Panhandle. Waste to some land and royalty owners and the gas stripping industry has meant income. In many cases, this income came from gas lands which previously were non-productive because of the lack of market. Obviously, to stop waste is also to stop income from many leases. And while income would stop, pipeline takings would not stop. Pipelines would again have a form of monopoly in that there would be no other outlet. A monopoly permits price manipulation, as is well known through local experience. Obviously again, any legislation must go further than to lop off one evil; it must Rich Get Richer, Poor Get Children Ain't We Got Fun!

DALLAS, Feb. 13. (AP)—Dr. J. H. Stephenson, superintendent of Parkland hospital here, informed the city-county hospital board that 64 per cent of the babies born in Dallas last year were born to parents who were on government relief rolls.

"This situation," Dr. Stephenson told the board, "is a problem. It shows that the folks who can't afford to have more children are having them anyway.

"Every child they bring into the world is one more mouth for the government to feed. And every destitute mother is just another charity patient for doctors and hospitals to aid."

TO COMPLETE CLUB BUILDING DURING SPRING

CAPITAL STOCK WILL BE INCREASED 40 SHARES

Construction of the beautiful Country club building will be started as soon as the water and gas lines have been laid to the location, the stockholders announced following a meeting yesterday afternoon. Laying of the lines will be started tomorrow.

A charter has been received authorizing an increase of the Country club capital stock from 60 to 100 shares. Most of the additional shares have been sold, which assured the building and furniture.

Pampa has long been in need of such a building. There are some of the best golfers in the southwest living in Pampa, known as a fine golfing city. The stockholders have been working long and hard to secure a suitable clubhouse. Now that it is assured, they feel that their work has not been in vain.

The building will be of brick and will be constructed west of the 17th green. It will have a large ball room with kitchen adjoining. There will be a men's shower and lounge room and a ladies' rest room and lounge. There will also be a check room and locker rooms. All will be beautifully furnished and equipped. A large veranda will be along the front of the building which will be in the shape of an L.

William Mullinax has been awarded the contract. He expects to have the building completed in 50 working days. He assured the directors that the building would be completed for the spring activities of the club.

President H. H. Hicks has been notified by the tournament committee that big plans are being made for the dedication of the new clubhouse. The greens committee has completed arrangements for erecting a dam to make a lake that will cross three fairways.

The No. 1 hole will be the present No. 18 hole when the clubhouse is completed. That will make green No. 9 across the fairway on hole 18 from the clubhouse.

Mrs. Hughes Sits On First Case in Court in Dallas

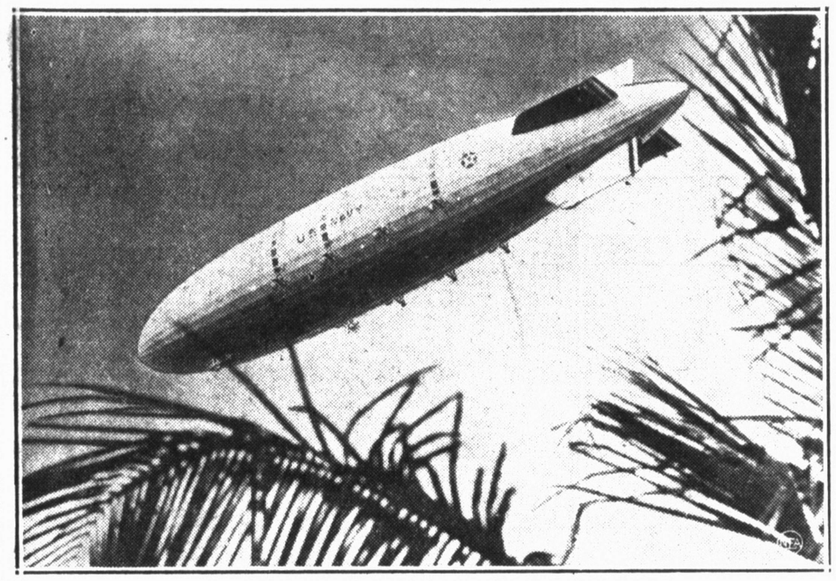

DALLAS, Feb. 13. (AP)—Mrs. Sarah T. Hughes, former state representative and the recognized leader of women voters in this county, returned to Dallas today, signally-honored as the first regularly-appointed woman district judge in the history of Texas.

She immediately took the bench, posed for photographers and proceeded with trial of a $36,000 damage suit started Monday by special Judge D. A. Frank. Mrs. Hughes elected to sit with Special Judge Frank for the remainder of this trial because of her unfamiliarity with the facts and issues involved.

"I have no pet policies to put into effect as judge of this court," she said. "I shall be happy if I can only measure up in part to the qualifications of my two predecessors, the late Judge Kenneth Foree and Judge W. M. Taylor."

Judge Hughes takes over the vacancy created when Judge Taylor resigned from the bench here to accept appointment on the commission of appeals to the state supreme court.

The Macon, Pride of U. S. Navy, Is In Watery Grave

Mysterious bursting of several of her 12 gas cells early last night brought disaster to The Macon, last of America's lighter-than-air craft, in the Pacific ocean off San Francisco. Two members of the crew were lost. In the above picture, The Macon was with the U. S. fleet near Miami, Fla. Yesterday the ship was returning from maneuvers with war vessels in the Pacific.

Mrs. Vallee Loses Suit

Judge Ends Action By Dismissing Fay's Suit to Get More of Rudy's Cash.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—Fay Webb Vallee today lost her attempt in supreme court to obtain a more generous slice of the income of her estranged husband, Rudy Valee, the crooner.

Justice Salvatore Cotillo ended the action by granting a motion to dismiss the case which had been made by counsel for Vallee.

The justice ruled that Mrs. Vallee had not proved her allegations that the separation agreement with her husband had been made through coercion and under duress.

The financial clause of the agreement gives Mrs. Vallee $100 a week maintenance money.

Narcotic Charges Are Filed Against Two Post Doctors

LUBBOCK, Feb. 13. (AP)—Charges of violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic act were filed against Dr. L. W. Kitchen and Dr. V. A. Hartman of Post before United States Commissioner Victor Lindsey here this morning.

Kitchen, a veterinarian, and Hartman, a physician, are held in Dallas under charges of complicity in the slaying of Spencer Stafford, a federal narcotics agent, last Thursday at Post.

V. C. McCullough, a federal agent who was with Stafford when he fell before machine-gun bullets directed by Sheriff W. F. Cato of Post, signed the complaints here against Kitchen and Hartman.

WEST TEXAS: Fair, warmer in north portion tonight; Thursday, fair.

Tuesday evening's quarterly B. C. D. banquet will be at the Schneider hotel, it was decided last night at a meeting of the directors of the organization.

Tickets, priced at 75 cents, will be sold by a committee, headed by B. W. Rose. A large crowd of business and professional men, Jaycees, and other citizens is expected. The Junior chamber has canceled its luncheon of next Tuesday in order to attend the banquet of the senior organization.

Gilmore N. Nunn will preside as toastmaster over the program. The main purpose of the gathering is to "talk about Pampa," supposedly the most intriguing subject imaginable, relations with other communities, and several mystery subjects will be briefly discussed by committee chairmen. Open discussions will follow.

The program, however, will not be lengthy and the discussions will be limited in order to assure this fact.

Tree Planting To Begin Soon

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP) — Actual planting of trees in the proposed federal shelterbelt across the semi-arid west will begin within a month with 100 miles of plantings the goal of the first year's program.

Paul H. Roberts, acting director, said today plantings would start about March 1 and this year's program would be completed by May 1. Then further scientific studies will be pressed to prepare for 1936 when the forest service expects to plant 100,000,000 seedlings.

From 20 to 25 miles of such strips are to be planted in Nebraska, Roberts said, about 15 miles in Kansas and probably only about 10 miles in Oklahoma and Texas together.

JURORS HAVE SAT ON CASE OVER 4 HOURS

JUDGE'S CHARGE GIVEN TO 12 BY 11 O'CLOCK

BY WILLIAM A. KINNEY
(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press.)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 13. (AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's murder jury had deliberated for three hours and 37 minutes at 3 p. m. today. The jurors had coffee and sandwiches sent in to them at 1:40 p. m.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 13. (AP)—The jury trying Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the kidnaping and murder of Baby Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., began its deliberations today after being instructed that it could return three possible verdicts — murder in the first degree, the same with recommendation for life imprisonment, or acquittal.

The final charge of the court paid particular attention to the disputed reliability of the important state witnesses, Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon and Amandus Hochmuth, and to the defense theories that a gang perpetrated the crime and that the dead Isador Fisch gave Hauptmann the ransom money he had.

"Do you believe that?" were the concluding words of the court's remarks about each of the defense contentions.

Defense exceptions to the charge were heard after the jury retired at 11:23 a. m.

Justice Trenchards charge though brief, was sharp and to the point. It reviewed a number of the defense contentions with conclusions of "Do you believe that?"

Questions About Ladder

On the state's important ladder evidence, the court asked the jurors: "Does not the evidence satisfy you that at least a part of the wood from which the ladder was built came out of the flooring of the attic of the defendant?"

"If you find that the murder was committed by the defendant in perpetrating a burglary it is murder in the first degree," the court said, "even though the killing was unintentional.

"If there is a reasonable doubt that the murder was committed by the defendant in perpetrating a burglary, he must be acquitted.

"If you find the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree you may, if you see fit, by your verdict and as a part thereof recommend imprisonment at hard labor for life."

He asked the jurors if there was any doubt in their minds as to the reliability of the testimony of Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon, the ransom intermediary who said he paid Hauptmann Lindbergh's $50,000.

He asked them if they believed the defense contention that a gang perpetrated the crime.

Referring to the testimony of Arthur Koehler, wood expert, on the ladder, he said:

"You should consider the marks

MAY 30 AND 31 FIXED AS DATES FOR THE PANHANDLE PRE-CENTENNIAL AND ROUNDUP

Committee Chairmen Named; Plans Adopted Last Year Will Be Carried Out

May 30 and 31 were the dates set last night for the second annual Panhandle Pre-Centennial celebration and Pioneers Roundup to be held in Pampa.

Those two dates will be the last Thursday and Friday in May, the same days of the same month on which the celebration was held last year. May 30 is Decoration day, a legal holiday. A recently appointed Junior Chamber of Commerce committee fixed the dates at a meeting last night.

The celebration will be entirely different from last year's, although it will pertain to Texas history, and will celebrate the 99th birthday of Texas' independence from Mexico. Last year, the Junior Chamber of Commerce adopted a three-year Centennial program as a project after the plan had been approved by clubs and business men of the city. The town promised and gave whole-hearted support to the project which received wide publicity and acclaim.

The three-year plan called for celebration of the events of Texas history up to 1834 last year and that was accomplished; this year's program as established and outlined last year provides for the observance of historical events of the tumultous year of 1835.

LOCAL SPEEDING ENDANGERS LIVES

Complaints of citizens against speeding and other traffic violations are rising into a crescendo. The city commission is frankly stumped by the problem. A citizens' committee will be appointed to study the many-sided question and make recommendations.

Almost daily there are auto crashes. Many, fortunately, are of importance mainly because of what might have happened. But the lucky motorists who escape today may not be so lucky tomorrow.

By speeding we do not mean driving 25 miles per hour. There is much speeding well beyond the 40-mile mark, and considerable of it nearer 55 and 60 miles, especially at night. Travel to and from the oil field has become especially dangerous.

Moreover, whiskey and gasoline are being mixed all too freely. As various dances break up, the dancers—not always 100 per cent sober—climb into cars and speed forth in all directions. It has come to the point where many citizens say the traffic officer is more needed at night than in daytime.

Undoubtedly, police handling of the situation has been inefficient for months, for various reasons not always the fault of the officers. There have been few arrests for speeding. Fines have been too low to be effective. Little control has been used at night. Traffic signals have been darkened too early in the evening.

It is high time that there be an end to dilly-dallying and making of police requests. Only a firm hand, applied without fear and without favor, and supported fully by the city commission, can be expected to get results.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—New Deal morale is nearer bottom than it ever was before.

A foggy where-do-we-go-from-here feeling afflicts an unprecedented number of high officials and senators who can't find anything to cheer about.

Administration liberals, optimistic to the last after others succumbed to pessimism, have now been completely floored by the dismissal of General Counsel Jerome Frank of AAA and a group of subordinates—plus demotion of Consumers' Counsel Fred C. Howe, appointed to protect consumers from profiteering under the AAA program and now being punished for trying.

Howe, Frank, Gardner Jackson, and other tried to persuade AAA Administrator Chester Davis that fair prices paid to farmers and charged to consumers were better for the country and the AAA program than big profits for packers, milk corporations, and other "middlemen."

But food processors, who brought terrific pressure and packed AAA ranks with their friends, are now completely in ascendancy after a long period during which the Davis group sabotaged and suppressed efforts for the consumer.

* * * *

Congressional grumbling drowns any cheers over the work relief and social insurance bills, now dragging slowly and with difficulty. The sole Capitol Hill achievement to date has been negative—defeat of the administration on the World Court.

Downtown, PWA, FERA, and NRA all worry over what happens to them next. NRA, along with the A. F. of L., tries to recover from the sock it got when Roosevelt turned down NRA recommendations on the automobile code. Morale at the National Labor Relations Board is shot to pieces and you can imagine what the supreme court oil decision did to the oil administration.

* * * *

Senate munitions revelations involve higher and higher personages. Evidence of White House wire-pulling by battleship builders—involving Jim Farley, Secretary McIntyre, and the Admiral Peoples who is touted as No. 1 Man in the four-billion dollar work relief program—hasn't been a refreshing tonic to idealists.

New Dealers whisper that Roosevelt is "slipping" in prestige. A sympathetic senatorial secretary from a large state remarks that whereas 90 per cent of congressional mail a year ago demanded support of Roosevelt, few such letters now are received.

The administration's own economists insist that there was no genuine improvement in 1934 and fail to see bright skies ahead.

* * * *

Just the same, many New Dealers had a swell time at the President's Ball . . . I remember getting a wink from bald-headed Don Richberg as his large frame pranced a partner through the heavy throng . . . And was carried way back to the Wilson administration when I saw Dr. Cary Grayson and Ray Baker—two veteran social lions—parked with Mrs. Roosevelt, beautiful Anna Dall Goettiger, and young Elliott Roosevelt and his wife, all laughing heartily as Eddie Cantor wise-cracked at points of Mae West's anatomy.

President Roosevelt is having so much trouble with his $4,880,000,000 relief program, probably because he hasn't yet taken in all the relatives and friends of all the congressmen.

Germans have been warned to stop slurring their "Heil Hitler," or pretty soon they'd be slurring their remarks about him.

A University of California scientist has developed a vaccine for prevention and cure of the common cold, leaving us little with which to dread the winter.

Chicago has been rated the noisiest city in the United States, with echoes of the World's Fair still resounding in our ears.

According to latest reports, the government is encouraging some railroads to go into bankruptcy. That's strange. They needed no encouragement heretofore.

8,000 RABBITS KILLED

HART, Castro county, Feb. 13 (AP)—More than 8,000 jackrabbits, which, based on government statistics, could have eaten as much feed as 500 full-grown steers, were killed in a recent drive near here. About 125 hunters from Plainview, Olton, Muleshoe, Dimmitt, Sudan and Hart participated in the one-day hunt. Other thousands of the crop-eating rabbits have been killed in similar drives in West Texas in recent months.

In 1933 there was one death in the first year of life for every 17 children born, while in 1915 one of every 10 died.

Dusting The Covers Of Texas History For THE TEXAS CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION OF 1936

The smoke that curled higher to the sky, and the flames that brightened the surrounding landscape that twilight of March 6, 1836, told the sad story of the most heroic defense ever made by one hundred and ninety-two men. Those who had given their lives to defend the Alamo were given no burial ritual as their bodies were placed on the funeral pyre. Brave, impetuous Col. Travis had been found on the north battery of the fortress with a bullet wound through his forehead. Adventurous David Crockett, who liked to tell of the number of bears he could kill on one hunt in the Tennessee mountains, had died under the Mexican volley on the west fort. Col. James Bowie, who had tried to fight from his sick bed, had died there, in one of the rooms on the south side.

Three days earlier, Travis had made a last appeal for help. "The power of Santa Anna is to be met here, or in the colonies; we had better meet them here than to suffer a war of devastation to rage in our settlements . . . God and Texas—Victory or Death." A blood red flag was waving over the church as a symbol of vengeance, and the Texans were determined to hold the fort as long as possible. With Santa Anna in the lead, more than four thousand Mexicans had stormed the Alamo. The combat was fierce. With their ladders and other equipment, the Mexicans eventually got over the walls, and the hand-to-hand fights that ensued were the worst in the history of either nation. The Mexican reserve corps had to be brought in, though only 192 Texans were defending the Alamo. For an hour and a half the firing was incessant. At the end of that time, the Mexicans were victors, but only over 192 dead bodies of Texans.

The story of the Alamo is known to every Texan. It will be in memory of those who died there that the Centennial celebrations will be held in 1936. In the hundred years that have passed since the memorable day, the bravery and sacrifice of those who died has not grown less. Still standing is the old mission, having been restored a long while after the siege. The bloodstains in the rooms of the Alamo tell more vividly than anything else the terrible event. Those who go there in 1936 may be able to understand more clearly how the life and liberty of a state originated.

The PEOPLES COLUMN

Editor, The NEWS:

In the article appearing in the February 11 issue of this paper under the heading "Rep. Worley Hears Local Gas Opinions" the statement was made that members of both sides were present at the conference. An exception must be made to this as no independent gas producer or land owner who depends on the stripping process as a market for his gas was present, nor was a representative of any stripping plant.

A missstatement was made also in one of the paragraphs as follows: ". . . . and strippers have fought the ratable taking plan . . . ." This is entirely wrong as the strippers, independent gas producers, and land owners together with the aid of the Railroad Commission have advanced the first and only practical plans pertaining to ratable taking. Further proof of their intention is shown by the numerous meetings which were held at Austin, Amarillo, and Pampa to discuss the many ratable taking plans, and always the utilities and not the strippers were against ratable taking of gas on any reasonable basis whatsoever.

Again it is important to note that Gray county, which has about the lowest gas pressure in the Panhandle except parts of Hutchinson county, has not a singel outright stripping plant within its borders. The low pressure is rightly attributed to the careless way gas is handled in assisting oil production and to the popping off of both wet and dry gas at the wells on many leases; but the worst evil of all is the constant popping off of gas at the many casinghead gasoline plants. These combination plants, or "casinghead" as they are called, have been popping off the residue from both wet and dry gas for many years in Gray county, and this is the cause of the extremely low pressure here.

"DETECTING" A CRIME

READING, Pa. (AP)—Daniel Dudley, private detective, sat in the office of Alderman Charles Lease, conferring on a prospective case.

They faced a window, and outside at the curb was the detective's automobile.

"That fellow there certainly knows a good car when he sees one," said Dudley, "look how he's giving my new machine the once over."

"M-u-mmm," agreed the alderman.

"Now look," said Dudley, "he's taking a peek inside. Maybe he wants to buy one like—hey! 'stop thief'!"

City police are helping the private detective look for his stolen car.

The Fort Scott, Kas., fire department answered 218 alarms during 1934, the fires resulting in a total net loss of $217.

COACH MITCHELL ASKS ROOKIES TO REPORT FOR SPRING FOOTBALL TRAINING

PHILLIPS TO BE IN CHARGE OF NEW BOYS

GORILLAS WILL REPORT THIS AFTERNOON FOR WORKOUT

The first call for spring football training was issued by Coach Odus Mitchell yesterday. It was for boys with no previous football experience and for boys ineligible for competion last year because of the transfer rule or scholastic difficulties.

This afternoon, football prospects from the Gorilla squad of 1934, who do not have other activities, were instructed to report. A few eligible Harvesters who are not playing basketball will go out for practice to help Assistant Coach Harry Phillips, who has arrived here from El Paso to assume his duties.

The prospects will work out every afternoon for two weeks, when a scrimmage will be conducted. Boys showing promise will be kept in uniform to work with the rest of the squad, which will be ordered to report at the close of the basketball season.

If the Harvesters fail to win the district basketball tournament to be played here Feb. 22 and 23, it will mark the close of the season unless extra games are matched. A win for the Harvesters will place them in the regional race with further competition at Canyon.

The Gorillas do not compete in any league and have few games scheduled in advance. Most of the members of the Gorilla basketball squad played football last season. Included in the list of prospects are Jones, Strickland, Oliver, Nix, Baker, Kitchens, Elkins, Wasson, and Bowsher.

Only two members of the Harvester basketball squad with past football experience will be eligible for football in 1935. They are the Green brothers, J. R. and Stokes. Herring and Irving will be eligible for football if they desire to try for places on the team.

Fundamentals will be stressed by Coach Phillips during his early training periods. Coach Phillips, for the last 6 years line coach at Texas School of Mines, El Paso, is reccgnized as one of the most capable coaches on fundamentals. The new line coach is skilled in teaching interference and blocking which will be stressed after practice gets under way with the full squad in uniform.

Coach Mitchell will stay with his basketball team until the close of the season. He will visit the practice field, which will be across from the Sam Houston school, whenever possible.

Coach Phillips has already become popular with the boys. He is the type of coach who studies his prospects. He gets into the line and shows them how it should be done, and, to judge by his record, at Texas university, School of Mines, and at coaching schools, he "knows."

Bobsled Squad Is Chosen for 1936 Olympics

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 13. (AP)—Billy Fiske, demon bobsled pilot who won the Olympic four-man bobsled title for Uncle Sam in 1928 and 1932, again will lead America's bobsled forces in the 1936 competition in Germany.

While unable to compete in the tryouts just concluded because of engagements on European runs, Fiske was chosen last night on basis of past performances to head a 15-man squad which the United States hopes to send to Garmisch—Partenkirchcen in the Bavarian Alps.

Other members of the squad are: Donna Fox of New York City and Ivan Brown of Keene Valley, winners of the four man and two-man trials respectively the past four days; Gilber Colgate, New York; Richard Lawrence, White Plains; J. Hubert and Curtis Stevens, James Bickford, Robert P. Martin, Crawford C. Merkle, John J. Shene, Francis Tyler and E. Hugh Varno, Lake Placid; A. M. Washbond, Keene Valley, and Max T. Bly, Lake George.

Wheeler Girls Place Second in Kelton Tourney

WHEELER, Feb. 12—Wheeler high school basketball teams had marked success at the opening of the Kelton gymnasium Friday and Saturday. The new gymnasium is one of the best in the county.

The Wheeler senior girls' team took second place in the tournament, winning from Lela and Kelton before being defeated in the final game. The Wheeler Junior high girls' team took third place in that division with wins over Shamrock Junior high and Kelton's second string. The Mustangs took a third place in winning games from Kelton.

Thirty-one teams competed in the tournament which was marked one of the best of the year.

Wheeler teams will compete in the Wheeler county tournament to be played in Mobeetie Friday and Saturday. The team winning the event will enter the district meet in Pampa Feb. 22 and 23.

Pampans Will Play Hedley In Grudge Tilt On Friday

Revenge for Defeat Of Last Season Is Planned

The team that knocked the Harvesters out of a district basketball championship here last year, Coach "Dumb" Newman's Hedley Owls, will come up to Pampa Friday night to take on Coach Odus Mitchell's cagers again.

Naturally, the Harvesters, particularly J. R. Green and Bill Dunaway, regulars on the 1934 quintet, will have a chip on their shoulders, and will be anxious to beat the Owls. Last season, the Harvesters whipped the Hedley cagers once or twice, but lost the crucial games in the play-off here and at Hedley.

That the Owls have a good team is an admitted fact. Last Saturday night they were nosed out 41 to 40 by Clarendon for the championship of Donley county. However, Clarendon must beat Goodnight Saturday night for the titular honors of the two countries of Donley and Armstrong in order to represent them at the district meet here Feb. 22-23. Otherwise Hedley will have another crack at the crown.

Hedley's team has improved rapidly and is now in the peak of excellence. There is no way of comparing the Owls with the Harvesters since neither has played each other, nor teams the other has played.

Coach Mitchell was positive today that the Owls would furnish plenty of competition. Newman has another flock of long-distance experts, and the prospect of seeing Owls sinking the ball from center and other remote sections of the court Friday night is very likely. Hedley almost defeated Clarendon because the Owls were able to swish the basket rods away. "Any team that can score 40 points while the other team is scoring 41 must be pretty good," said Coach Mitchell. "We will have a battle on our hands from the first minute of the game."

The Harvester mentor is driving his charges hard this week. He hopes his team will reach the peak by next week-end when the district meet will be held. The chief weaknesses of the Harvesters in last week end games which they won, was inability to break fast, inaccurate passing, too much dribbling. The boys are practicing two hours daily this week.

On Saturday night, the Canyon Eagles will play the Harvesters on the local court.

SAUCE FOR WIFIE, TOO

Mrs. Joan Runyan is a firm believer in the old saw, reversed. "What's sauce for the gander is sauce for the goose." So she demonstrated for the cameraman at Miami that she can whack out a good drive, too. Paul Runyan, her husband, P. G. A. champion, seems to wear a quizzical expression as he analyzes wifie's driving form.

Great 'Diz' Sees Difficult Season Ahead of Deans

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 13. (AP)—Dizzy and Paul Dean of the Cardinals are hopeful of exceeding or at least equalling their last year's pitching records, but the great "Diz" admitted today it was going to be a much more difficult season.

"Me and Paul got a lot of breaks last year," he said, "but every team in the league will be gunnin' for us this year and then again the 'breaks' don't come to you all of the time."

Detroit, the team which Dizzy and Paul defeated in the world series last fall, is just "a mediocre ball club," in the opinion of the Cardinals' No. 1 man.

There isn't any question about which team will win the National league race this year, according to the elder Dean, but he thinks the Pirates and Giants will engage in a dog fight for second place.

Dizzy has gone in for golf here in a big way. His lowest score is 76, but "I am getting better every day," he said.

LeFors Faculty Beats McLean's In 36-26 Game

The LeFors Faculty basketball team drubbed the McLean teachers and ex-Tigers 36 to 26 on the LeFors floor Monday night. In a preliminary game, the LeFors Junior high team won a 16 to 6 game from the McLean Junior high team.

The faculty contest was evenly played until the last half, when the Smith-Bronson combination started clicking to put LeFors in the lead. The two LeFors coaches tied for high scoring honors with 16 points each. Loder, McLean center, led his team's scoring with 16 points. Coach Garrison Rush and McCarty, ex-Tiger star, followed with 5 points each.

The LeFors faculty has matched a game with the White Deer faculty for next week. The LeFors aggregation is pointing for a game with the undefeated Pampa faculty quintet.

Proceeds of the game in LeFors Monday night went to the Boy Scout troop which is raising money to purchase uniforms.

Stop Watches Are Asked by Solons

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—The house is in the market for a stop-watch to time speeches.

Members are getting addresses down to such a fine point that Rep. May of Kentucky asked for an even 2½ minutes to discuss conditions in Mexico.

Rep. Blanton of Texas, got up to reply and demanded 2 minutes and a quarter.

"Without objection," said Speaker Byrns, "the gentleman will be allowed to proceed for 2 minutes, 15 seconds."

The Philippine islands exported 5,324,874 cigars to the United States last September, less than one-fourth the exports for September, 1933.

Record Number Of Holdouts in Chicago's Cubs

CHICAGO, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs, long noted as the holdout proof club of major league baseball, may open spring training this year with a record crop of recalcitrants parked stubbornly around the mail boxes awaiting and demanding more money.

Although 1935 contracts were mailed more than a month ago, nothing has been heard from six of the team's prospective regulars. The six, now regarded as holdouts, are Outfielders Chuck Klein and Frank Demaree, Infielders Billy Herman and Woody English, and Pitchers Bill Lee and Larry French. All other players have signed or have made dates to talk contract before the team's departure for the spring training camp at Catalina Island, February 25.

Navy Has Lost 40 Millions on U. S. Air Ships

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—The navy has spent about $40,000,000 since the war on lighter-than-aircraft and equipment.

All the ships except the Los Angeles have crashed.

Following is the amount spent by the navy on dirigibles between 1918 and 1933:

ZR 2, bought in England, crashed during test flight there August, 1921; loss to U. S. $1,000,000.

Shenandoah, crashed 1925, $2,200,000.

Los Angeles, discommissioned, in 1932, (no original cost to U. S. because ship was received from Germany on reparations account.)

Akron, crashed April, 1933, $5,358,000.

Macon, crashed February 12, 1935, $2,600,000.

In addition, the navy has spent $9,000,000 on the station at Lakehurst and $4,500,000 on the Sunnyvale, Calif., station.

Up to 1933 it had spent $9,000,000 on maintenance and replacements, $3,000,000 on helium, $800,000 on experimental development.

Wrestling Plans Are Up in Air— Building Sought

"When are we going to have some more wrestling in Pampa?" is the query of Pampa sport fans. The answer is that nobody knows.

There is no building in the city available for the holding of wrestling matches. Since the Pla-Mor auditorium was remodeled, it did not leave enough ceiling space for wrestling.

Pat Garrison, who has made application for the Pampa license, is busy hours a day looking for a suitable building or for someone to build a suitable place for the holding of wrestling and boxing matches. He believes the building could be rented for enough other activities to give the builder a fair return on his investment.

With the basketball season nearing its close, Pampa sport fans will have no place to go for an evening's entertainment and they are yelling for some wrestling and boxing.

It will probably be possible to stage outdoor wrestling and boxing at Road Runner park when the weather becomes suitable, but that will not be for several months.

TEACHERS TO PLAY McLEAN THIS EVENING

VISITORS WILL SEEK TO AVENGE RECENT 43-24 BEATING

Students may boo or cheer their teachers tonight, just as they choose, when the faculty basketball team tangles again with McLean's aggregation on the gym floor promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

Fans who are used to watching the Harvesters play may find their eyes moving at a faster clip because the pedagogs pride themselves on speed and technique. The teachers have been working out for six weeks and are in fine physical condition and play a whirlwind game.

Some skillful, clever roughness is also in prospect tonight. The teachers are experts at covering up their hip and knee work, in pivoting, blocking and in other fine points of the game.

The profs expect to win if Frank Monroe and Coach Odus Mitchell are "on," and both of those young men will want to be "on" since the game will mark the team's debut in Pampa. Frank scored 23 of 44 points in a recent game with McLean, and most of them in the last half.

McLean has learned by now that Mr. Monroe is the man to watch and it is expected they will have at least two men on him. In that case Coach Odus Mitchell whose basketball record at West Texas State Teachers College under Coach Sam Burton excelled that of any member of the faculty team should be able to get loose. Mitchell was an all-conference player and was on a championship team. Basketball was his first love—and probably still is. Other members of the team, Savage, Kelley, Anderson, also attended the Canyon school. Dick Dennard was an athletic star at Trinity university.

In the early days of the University of North Carolina, two lotteries, sanctioned by the state legislature, were conducted to raise a building fund.

Death Sentences Are Affirmed by Criminal Court

AUSTIN, Feb. 12. (AP)—The court of criminal appeals today affirmed the death sentence assessed Louis Cernoch, Granger farm hand, in Williamson county for murder of a constable.

The court also affirmed the ten year sentence of C. E. Heidingsfelder Sr., Houston lawyer, convicted in Williamson county of embezzlement of $34,500 in Harris county from Mrs. Adele Pipkin of New York.

Richard Charles Rehm, sentenced to death in the slaying of a Dallas policeman, was granted a new trial.

The death sentence of Doyle Arnold for murder of his divorced wife, Zelma Arnold, in Breckenridge September 10, 1932, was affirmed.

He was convicted of stabbing and beating the woman to death with a rock a short time after a lawyer advised them the divorce was granted.

Starvation Killing 17-Day Old Infant

GRANITE CITY, Ill., Feb. 13. (AP) Destined to death at birth, seventeen-day-old Robert Jenkins clung stubbornly to life today despite gradual loss of strength by starvation.

The child, in St. Elizabeth's hospital, was born with a strictured esophagus which prevents it from taking food. Physicians are at a loss to correct the condition, the baby being too weak to undergo an operation.

The infant was coming weaker today. It has been in a semi-conscious state and attendants expressed the opinion that it apparently has not suffered greatly from hunger pains.

SANDIES TO PLAY TECH

AMARILLO, Feb. 13. (AP)—The Amarillo Golden Sandies, high school football champions of Texas, will open the 1935 season on the field where they won the 1934 title by trouncing Corpus Christi. In addition to meeting Borger, Lubbock, Plainview and Pampa in District One games, Amarillo will play the Capitol Hill Indians of Oklahoma City. The game will be on Butler field here October 4.

STARTING RIGHT

DALLAS, (AP)—One of the hardest fought court cases in the history of Dallas county will serve as the initiation for Mrs. Sarah T. Hughes, who today becomes the state's first woman district court judge.

The first case on her docket, Mrs. Charles Bower's suit against a taxicab company, has been tried six times in local courts since it was filed in 1926.

Speech Teacher Added to Studio Staff This Week

Valentine parties have entertained students in the Vincent studio of dancing and expression the last two days. Kathryn Vincent Steele, director, is giving a Valentine box for each class, and the private pupils are included for the holiday fun.

Increased enrolment in expression classes has resulted in addition of Miss Imogene Hollenbeck to the studio staff. She was graduated from Pampa high school last year and is remembered for her performance in "Smoke-Screen," high school contest play.

Both the play and Miss Hollenbecks' performance took first honors in the state interscholastic contest. She has studied courses in expression and dramatics in Oklahoma City this year, and has had her own class at St. Joseph's college, Guthrie, Okla.

Miss Hollenbeck plans to organize also a dramatics class for adults. Mrs. Steele will continue to supervise all songs, readings, and programs directed by Miss Hollenbeck and other assistants. Enrolment in the new expression classes begins immediately.

EL PROGRESSO HEARS REVIEW OF NEW BOOKS

MRS. TODD PRESENTS OUTLINES OF TWO BEST SELLERS

Two best-selling novels of the year were reviewed for El Progresso club yesterday afternoon, when it met with Mrs. C. P. Buckler. Mrs. James Todd Jr., city librarian, was in charge of the program.

She first reviewed "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," by James Hilton, the story of a boy's school in England in which Mr. Chips began as a young instructor and rose to head the school. He is characterized as a good teacher and a lover of boys, one who had a keen insight into the youngsters' minds, who made his home free to the students, and whose passing was mourned by boys and teachers alike.

Very different in locale and characterization was the other book, "So Red the Rose," Stark Young's story of the old south and the Civil war. Its scenes are largely around Natchez, Miss., and the book depicts intimately the lives of two prominent families in those stirring times.

Members present for the program and informal social period were Mmes. John V. Andrews, George Briggs, W. M. Craven, W. R. Ewing, C. T. Hunkapillar, Lee Ledrick, P. C. Ledrick, Carson Loftus, Dave Pope, W. Purviance, John K. Sweet, Charles Thut, Todd, George Walstad, and the hostess.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly peppy and buoyant and full of ambition.

For they don't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Your skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

FIRST 16 WOMEN COLONISTS IN TEXAS BROUGHT SILK STOCKINGS

(Note: The following is one of a series of weekly articles taken from the Bexar Archives at the University of Texas. This collection, considered the greatest single historical treasure on the North American continent, has been catalogued and is now being translated by the University of Texas. It consists of 400,000 pages of original Spanish handwritten documents comprising the official archives of the Mexican government for the department of Bexar, which covered almost the whole of what is now the State of Texas, for the period from 1731, soon after Tejas became a separate province of Mexico, to 1836, to the Battle of San Jacinto. This series of articles will consist principally of quotations from the documents, many of which have heretofore been unpublished, and will reveal for the first time what actually transpired during the century in which Texas was transformed from a wilderness inhabited only by savage Indian tribes to an independent American republic.)

AUSTIN, Feb. 13 (AP)—Two pairs of silk stockings were among the possessions given to each of the 16 women who took their courage, indeed their very lives, in their hands, and sailed with their fathers and their husbands from the Canary Islands in 1730 to become the first officially recognized colonists in a new land, Texas.

This fact is revealed for the first time with the translation of certain official documents in the Bexar archives in the University of Texas library. The archives comprised the official Spanish and Mexican governmental records at San Antonio de Bexar, for more than a century the seat of Spanish government for all Texas.

It was a hardy little band of pioneers who left their pleasant surroundings, their friends, the established businesss in the Canary Islands, a Spanish possession, to accept the promises of the Spanish government of a new home in the wilds of Texas. To realize that they must settled in a wilderness haunted constantly by threats of Indian outrages, and that at San Antonio de Bexar they would be as near to the enemy French in Louisiana as to Mexico City, the seat of Spanish civilization in Mexico, must have held terrors for them.

Yet they came. From the very outset, they were faced with all the problems that greet humanity everywhere—life, death, love, happiness, pain. Only ten families set out to begin with. Only ten men, with their wives, their sons, and their daughters, under the leadership of the so-called "first" man, the eldest, Juan Leal Goras. Within a month the number of families was increased to 15, Vincente Alvarez Travieso, Francisco de Arocha, Antonio Rodriguez, Joseph Leal, and Juan Delgado having married island girls before sailing. Death had come to Juan Cabrare, and later to two women, his widow, Marie Rodriquez, and the wife of the "first" man, Juan Leal Goras. A son had been born en route to one of the families.

In an official document signed before Francisco Manuel de Cobarrubias, notary public in Quautitlen, November 9, 1730, a list of personal effects and of tools given to each family is noted, and the head of each family was required to sign the document in acceptance of its terms, either in script or by mark. It is this document that has just been translated by university translators.

The following list of articles for personal use was given to Juan Leal Goras, recognized as the leader of the party. Similar possessions were given by the Spanish government to each other man in the band:

"Two shirts, two pairs of white trousers, two white jackets with sleeves, two cravats, a cape, a riding suit, a pair of trousers, two pairs of woolen socks, two pairs of shoes, a hat, a mattress and two sheets, a pillow with its case and case covering, a quilt, two horses, a saddle with stirrups and cushions, a bridle with head-stall and reins, a hackamore with its halter, two sheep skins, a pair of spurs, a pair of boots, some spur straps, a wide cavalry sword with its belt, a knife, a gun with its sheath, girdle with its powder flask, bells, and flints, a pack saddle, and copper kettle with its top for cooking and which serves as a frying pan."

To each woman an unusual combination of "finery" and practical necessities were given, it is evidenced by the list of things given to Maria Curbelo, wife of the "second" man:

"Two shirts, two pairs of white petticoats, two jackets with sleeves, two handkerchiefs, two pairs of silk stockings, two pairs of understockings, two pairs of shoes, a serge petticoat, a white baige cloak, a plain shawl, an upper petticoat, two horses, a saddle without stirrups and cushions, a bit with a head stall and reins, a hackamore with its halter, two sheep skins, a mattress, two sheets, a quilt, a pillow with its case and case covering, and a pack saddle."

That Juan Leal Goras, sometimes called Juan Leal, was recognized by the Spanish authorities as spokesman for the colonists is evidenced by the portion of the document which outlines the tools and implements which each settler was to receive. Cognizance is also taken of the fact that some of the islanders were unable to write. After listing the personal belongings to be given to each individual, the order continued:

"This delivery having been made as stated, with the intervention of Francisco Duval and Juan Leal, head of the first family, they will also be charged with the tools that they receive so that they may deliver them with all care and equity, as follows:

"Two axes, two ploughs, two machetes, two crowbars, ten saws, ten adzes, ten chises, twenty poughshares, strengthened with steel, two paddles, tencomales (pottery vessel used for cooking tortillas) and ten tents with all their framework.

"In this manner delivery was made to each one of the 56 persons who make up the families mentioned, and each one of them what was thus his share, received all that was coming to him as expressed in detail for each. They received this in person and before Don Francisco Domingo de Laba, alcalde mayor of this jurisdiction, and with the help of the present royal notary public of this town. I certify that this was executed in this manner. I also attest that it was done with the intervention of Francisco Duval and Juan Leal, who were witnesses of the fact that delivery was made to the entire satisfaction of the families in question, as well as of the said Francisco Duval, Juan Leal, Don Thomas de Zubiria, Don Joseph Carillo, and Don Juan Manuel Ximenez. All the persons of the said families who knew how to write signed this, and for those who did not know the witnesses signed."

Cost of Macon, Sister of Akron, Was $2,600,000

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Here is a description in figures of the ill-fated Macon:

Length overall 785 feet.
Maximum diameter 132.9 feet.
Height overall, 146.5 feet.
Gas volume 6,500,000 cubic feet.
Number of engines 8.
Total horsepower 4,480.
Maximum speed 72 knots 80 miles.
Cruising range without refueling 9,200 miles.

While the Akron cost $5,358,000, this figure included the construction of a hangar at Akron where both the Akron and Macon were built. The actual contract price of the Macon was $2,600,000. Congress authorized expenditure of $8,000,000 for the two ships.

Contracts for the construction of both crafts were awarded the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation in 1928 with the provision that upon the successful operation of the Akron a second vessel should be built. The Akron was accepted by the navy in October, 1931.

She crashed April 4, 1933, about two weeks after the Macon was christened by Mrs. William A. Moffett, widow of Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics who went down with the Akron.

Mrs. Moffett, who lives here, was deeply concerned at last night's crash. She kept in close touch with reports of the accident.

Hoover Resounds Liberty Beliefs, Praises Lincoln

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—Herbert Hoover sees violation of "fundamental American liberty" as a threat to the "life principle" of the nation.

That was his warning at a Lincoln day dinner of the national republican club last night at which he called Abraham Lincoln an "inspiration" to America in the present period of its history.

"Lincoln was a great liberal," said the former president last night. "He believed passionately that Americans should be masters of the state and not the pawns of the state. He believed a fundamental spiritual truth has been revealed to humanity in the conception of personal liberty as a basis of society.

"Whatever violates, infringes or abrogates fundamental American liberty violates the life principle of America as a nation."

Lincoln in himself, he said, was "the highest expression of American life."

Mr. Hoover was introduced by Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who declared the new deal administration had flouted the constitution and shaken the foundations of liberty and democratic government.

Frau Hauptmann Concerned Over Fate of Bruno

KAMENZ, Germany, Feb. 13 (AP)—Frau Pauline Hauptmann displayed none of her son's stolidity today as she anxiously awaited news of the jury's verdict determining Bruno Richard Hauptmann's fate.

"I hope this nervous strain of the last few days will at last be taken from me," the mother of the man accused of the murder of the Lindbergh baby said as she returned from her morning constitutional.

The townfolk of Kamenz were one in wishing that Frau Hauptmann's "faith in her son might not be disillusioned."

Restlessly pacing her small living room, the 69-year-old woman had difficulty in concealing her agitation.

"You see," she said, pointing to an elderly woman sitting on a sofa, "a niece of mine has come here to while away the time and help me over the last and most decisive hours."

Frau Hauptmann said her eldest son, Fritz, who is in Dresden, is similarly concerned over the outcome of the trial.

"He has talked the matter over with various lawyers, who are his customers," she said, "and all agreed the trial is based on insufficient evidence."

WILL LAUNCH 3 PROBES OF MACON CRASH

BELIEVE DISASTER HAS SPELLED DEATH FOR AIR SHIPS

BY THOS. J. HAMILTON JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—The controversy over fighting airships opened with new vehemence today as the government prepared to launch at least three investigations into the crash of the dirigible Macon off California.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt and congressional leaders, who obviously had been gravely concerned as the startling news of the giant ship's accident came in, heard eagerly the later reports telling of the rescue of most of the crew.

Intense interest was manifest as Lieut. Com. H. V. Wiley, skipper of the Macon, began to flash his first official reports to his superiors telling how, during a squall, a "casualty occurred in the stern"; how the stern crumbled and as a gas cell was lost; how the ship landed "stern first" with all hands taking to rubber boats under "excellent discipline" and watching the great ship sink below the waves.

A prediction that the crash, coming after the disaster to the Macon's sister ship, Akron, would spell the "death knell" of light-than-air craft as a fighting arm of the navy came from Chairman Vinson (D., Ga.) of the house naval committee.

"We surely will investigate as soon as enough facts are available on which to base an investigation," he said.

The navy's high command prepared, on receipt of direct information from Admiral J. M. Reeves, commander of the fleet, to summon a naval board of inquiry into swift session. Representative Sirovh (D., N. Y.), chairman of the house patents committee, said his investigation into alleged industrial control of patents would be widened to inquire into the crash.

Advocates of lighter-than-aircraft as part of the nation's defenses were calling for a suspension of judgment until all the facts were gathered and Brig. Gen. William D. Mitchell, former chief of the army air corps, said the Macon and other navy dirigibles have "not had trained crews."

The accident, he said, "should not affect the policy of building commercial warships to be operated in conjunction with the Graf Zeppelin so as to train American crews."

The German craft, he said, has traveled 600,000 miles and crossed the Atlantic about 74 times with "never any accident at all."

"Those men are trained men," Mitchell added.

"It is imposible to take naval officers and rotate them between airships and battleships. I don't know if that caused the Macon's trouble, but men have to be specialists to handle dirigibles."

The crash was termed "shocking and regrettable" by Rear Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of the bureau of aeronautics. He declined to say anything further pending more information.

CAPTURES BIG LOBO

CROSBYTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Billie Tremble, who has been trapping in the "brakes" off the caprock in Dickens county, reports that recently he captured a lobo wolf five feet, six inches in length. A lobo wolf is rare in this section, trappers state. Coyotes are more common. Tremble has caught a number of coyotes, several good sized bobcats, a few coons and some skunks.

There was an increase in world deaths from plague in 1933 of 27,000 over the previous year.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

FOR AND AFL GO TO MAT IN LABOR BATTLE

PRESIDENT HOPES FOR BREAK-UP IN RELIEF BILL JAM

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Roosevelt forces and A. F. of L. leaders went to the mat today in a major test of congressional strength.

The president hoped for a break-up in the jam which has locked his $4,880,000,000 work and relief bill in the senate appropriations committee for nearly three weeks.

The committee planned to vote before the end of the day on a motion to throw out the McCarran "prevailing wage" amendment, which it wrote into the bill against Roosevelt's wishes last week. The amendment proposes that relief workers be paid wages prevailing in the different communities. The president has insisted on lower rates on the ground these would discourage men from leaving private employment for relief jobs. The figure the administration officials have advocated is $50 a month.

As the hour for the showdown neared, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, counted on arguments made before the committee yesterday to offset administration pressure.

Supported by John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, and 17 members of the labor federation's executive council, Green told the committee:

"Adoption of the present program without the McCarran amendment will wreck the prevailing wage scale established throughout the country."

Missing Macon Operator Was Born in Texas

SUNNYVALE, Calif., Feb. 13 (AP)—Both missing crewmen of the navy dirigible Macon had been attached to her similarly ill-fated sister-ship, the Akron, although neither was aboard the latter craft when it broke up in the Atlantic ocean, personnel records revealed tonight.

The two missing men are Ernest Edwin Dailey, 29, of North Bend, Ore., radiographist first class, and Florentino Equiba, 34, Filipino mess sergeant.

Dailey, born Feb. 16, 1906, in Big Spring, Texas, enlisted from North Bend, Ore., April 18, 1924, in Portland, Ore. He was attached with the Macon from November 30, 1931, to December 31, 1932, and has been with the Macon since September 30, 1933. He also was attached to Lakehurst, N. J., Washington, D. C., San Diego, Calif., Memphis, Tenn., and Hampton Roads, Va.

He is married, with a wife in San Jose, Calif.

Equiba enlisted December 9, 1925, at Cavite, P. I., from Candegaria, Sambles Province. He is unmarried.

Neutral Strip Established In Boundary Fight

Commission Will Be Asked to Probe Situation

(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press.)

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Feb. 13.—The Ethiopian and Italian governments agreed today to the establishment of a neutral zone where hostilities recently have occurred and to appoint a boundary commission.

The agreement was reached by representatives of the two nations after several days of intensive debates.

First reports of the understanding said that a commission to be appointed would investigate the situation which has arisen between Ethiopia and Italy over the boundaries of this empire and the Italian colones of Somaliland and Eritrea and would attempt to end the boundary dispute.

The Italian minister of Ethiopia was said to be authorized by his government to arrange for the delimitation of the disputed frontier and to have been instructed to make arrangements to minimize the danger of additional clashes.

ROME, Feb. 13. (AP)—The Italian government was said authoritatively today to be ready to spend $850,000,000 in a two-years military campaign in Africa in the event hostilities break out with Ethiopia.

The Italian military plans became known as Negradas Yesus, Ethiopian Charge D'Affaires, handed Premier Mussolini Emperor Haile Selassie's defiant retort holding Italy responsible for the forntier conflicts which precipitated the present crisis.

The Ethiopian communication, a government spokesman said, created a "serious situation." He described as undiplomatic procedure the action of the Ethiopian envoy in making this sovereign's message public before it had been presented to the Italian government.

It was learned Italy is recruiting 5,000 physicians for colonial service. A battalion of 300 fascist militia left Rome for Sicily at 7 a. m. with full colonial equipment.

The militia marched to the railroad station by a circuitous route skirting the main streets. Every effort is being made to keep the troop movements from disturbing the capital.

The only information on the crisis published so far in Italian newspapers has been two government communiques Monday, one announcing the mobilization and the other the skirmish at Adub.

They have also carried accounts of favorable reactions in London, Paris and Geneva of the Italian stand,

General Rudolfo Graziani, former governor of Cirenaicia, it was learned, is now at Massaua, capital of Eritrea, as a member of the staff of General Emilio de Bono, high commissioner for the colony. It was considered likely he would command any military expedition into Ethiopia, although no leader has yet been named.

General Graziani was in charge of the Italian forces which suppressed a native rebellion in Cirenaica.

Following his interview with Under-Secretary Suvich, Charge D'Affaires Yesus told the Associated Press:

"Signor Suvich assured me that neither King Victor Emmanuel nor Premier Mussolini wanted war and I assured him that Ethiopia did not want war."

He said his discussion in the foreign office revolved on the question of which side was the aggressor in the fighting at Adub last month.

The Ethiopian envoy said he could not give Suvich's reaction to Emperor Haile Selassie's note but remarked: "The emperor himself has informed me that Ethiopian tribesmen were not to blame for the border conflict."

consider the market and price situation, drainage of leases, and unfortunately now, the vested interests which were encouraged by the Sour Gas law.

If you think it is easy to write legislation to correct these conditions, you're just plain misinformed.

AND, WHILE THE Panhandle is just as perplexing as any, the East Texas problems are as incomprehensible to us as are our problems to the state at large. There's so much smoke down in East Texas that there must be more fire than the state officials will admit. We have smoke-balls, figuratively speaking, from W. D. Kinney, of the Kinney Farms at Henderson. We don't know the merit of them so that the reader can compare them with those frequently printed in the daily press dispatches.

MR. KINNEY TALKS of the "greatest theft of all time," compared with which the scandal of Teapot Dome was "as a tea kettle to an ocean oil tanker. He says that he owns about 1-100th of the entire royalty acreage of the East Texas common pool. He adds: "I have never received a dime for any of my stolen hot oil, taken from the great East Texas common pool during the last 4 years . . . I hereby demand that the State of Texas and the federal government pay me in full for my share of this stolen property (confiscated oil) since the opening up of Joiner No. 3 in September of 1930." He estimates that there is more than 3,000,000 barrels of oil involved.

THAT WILL introduce Mr. Kinney. Pointing out that few or none of the hot oil buyers, hot oil attorneys, bribed officials, or other criminals have been sent to prison, he concluded that "If there had been any efficiency worth the mention among the entire forces of justice, there would be some marks of the administration of justice," He adds:

"The guilt among these thieving pirates in stealing the oil, and in buying the stolen oil, is not only beyond belief, but there is plenty of evidence, in fact, the whole state and nation reek with evidence of this foul treachery among these thieving majors, mediums and minors. In fact, the own sworn statements of these thieves in the State Comptroller's reports, at Austin, where the tax reports are made, are mute evidence of this enormous theft, condoned by a state officialdom evidently filled with thieving corruption, and no more than frowned at by a "wishy-washy" national officialdom and national and state legislatures.

"The general rascality of the large companies in the East Texas field is a disgrace to civilization, and the shame of oildom during the past four years. The enormous 'earnings' of the giant corporations, generally speaking, represent the price of the loot—the price of stolen property, stolen from me, stolen from you, and from other land and royalty owners and honest operators, in the field.

"This whole gigantic East Texas thralldom of iniquity has been one round of stealing everything they could get their hands on—companies, large, medium and small with comparatively few exceptions, have been diving in for everything they could get, without consideration for the land and royalty owners and the honest operators' interest. Knowing the atrocities and thieving activities of these companies, large, medium and small. I would say that at the present time there are interwoven all underneath the ground throughout this great East Texas thralldom of iniquity known as the East Texas oil field—bypasses, and other intriguing methods of stealing oil, the uncovering of which would reveal a theft of the rightful owner's property that would astonish the world, and make the New York stock exchange, and all other American under-cover-methods of deceit and fraud, compare as a gentle breeze to a tornado. Never in the history of the world, to my knowledge, has there been so many thieves, robbers, pirates and rascals congregated under the canopy of high heaven, each with an eye on the other fellow's property, and reaching into the pockets of the victims for an over-full share of the loot.

THOSE ARE BIG words, hard words, cutting words. If they are true even in the tenth degree, we ask you how can a legislature, how can a governor ignore the implications and fail to go into the facts?

BILL FOR AN ELECTIVE HIGHWAY COMMISSION IS NOT REPORTED

AUSTIN, Feb. 13 (AP)—The administration bill to establish a state planning board for the coordination of state and national relief programs faced renewed examination in the senate today.

Whether the governor should appoint the six members of the board, or whether the appointive power should be divided between the governor, the speaker of the house and the lieutenant governor, was the big issue.

Having already acceded to the administration wishes, the planning board was a closed matter for the house. There were rumblings in the lower chamber, however, of a new storm over repeal of the state law legalizing pari-mutuel betting on horse racing.

There was talk of a move to bring up a bill regulating the bookies out of business, and another to end all forms of wagering on the horses by a simple amendment to the bookie regulation bill. A house committee already had voted for repeal of the wagering law.

Meanwhile, house committees showed signs of catching up with their business of studying bills, patching up defects, reporting favorably or unfavorably.

Few controversial bills had been heard by senate committees.

First step in the move of some for an elective highway commission received a sharp setback last night when the house committee on highways and motor traffic unfavorably reported, 8 to 5, a measure by Rep. Ross Hardin of Prairie Hill.

Hardin's bill called for division of the state into five districts and election of a commissioner from each district. He declared the issue was whether the commission should be responsible to the people of Texas.

Speaking in favor of letting the bill reach the floor were Representatives Cecil A. Lotief of Cross Plains, George A. Davisson Jr., of Eastland, and Jasper N. Reed of Texarkana.

Davisson said complaints of unfairness were general against the commission and at least 20 counties had not been given a hearing."

He charged the highway department was the biggest political machine in the state.

Rep. J. T. Ronch of Lufkin, on the other hand, said the bill, if enacted, would set Texas' building program back 20 years, stop federal aid and cause demoralization.

HIP BROKEN? IT'S NOTHING!

WELLINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—It takes more than a broken hip to keep Elmore Dodson from finishing a job. Dodson, early-day rancher for whom the town of Dodsonville was named, was attempting to throw and brand a cow when the animal knocked him from his feet and broke a hip. He managed to finish the branding before going to Dodsonville for treatment.

MINISTER IS DRAGGED FROM JERSEY TRIAL

SHOUTS TO JUSTICE—ALMOST BREAKS UP CASE

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY

(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press.)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 13.—The Lindbergh kidnap-murder jury, which for 31 days has heard the state and defense battle for Bruno Hauptmann's life, returned to the courtroom today to receive legal instructions and then to decide his guilt or innocence.

The charge of Justice Thomas W. Trenchard of the supreme court, expected to take less than an hour, was the only business before the eight men and four women could retire to a bare, padlocked room in the rear of the courthouse to consider their verdict.

Both the defense and the prosecution, their final arguments over, appeared confidence of a favorable verdict. Edward J. Reilly, chief of Hauptmann's legal staff, declared:

"The inane talk of an irresponsible clergyman ruined Attorney General Wilentz's summation and assured for Bruno Hauptmann an acquittal."

He referred to the Rev. Vincent G. Burns of Teaneck, who shouted near the close of the attorney-general's address yesterday that someone had confessed to him the kidnap-killing.

Wilentz offered one of the most powerful arguments I have ever heard in any courtroom," Reilly said, "but the whole value of it was destroyed by the minister."

Prosecutors, he said, insisted on dismissing the minister from the county without charge, while Reilly himself wanted the man sentenced to days in jail on charge of contempt of court.

Mr. Burns dramatically attracted the court's attention as Wilentz was about to finish his plea to send Hauptmann to the electric chair.

"If your honor please—" came his voice from a group of spectators.

"I want that man taken out," cried Wilentz.

"A man confessed this crime to me in my church," the clergyman shouted.

Spectators grabbed him and state police rushed forward. Someone shoved a hand over his mouth. Finally he was pulled from the courtroom by officers.

After a whispered conference with attorneys, Justice Trenchard ordered the jury to disregard what they had just seen and heard.

Adding he had hoped to deliver his charge before the session closed, the justice said:

"I think it is better for you to get a good night's sleep and take the case in the morning with a fresh mind."

Extra state police and deputies were ordered to be on hand early today in anticipation of a record crowd. Throngs filled the streets outside the courthouse yesterday as the jurors entered and left the building.

Justice Trenchard's charge was expected to be brief, in contrast to the lengthy summations the jurors heard from the prosecution and defense.

The justice was expected to instruct the jury to find one of three verdicts: Guilty of murder in the first degree; guilty of murder in the first degree, with a recommendation for mercy, or acquittal.

The possibility he would tell the jury they might find a second degree verdict was considered remote.

A flat first degree verdict carries a mandatory death sentence. Such a verdict with a recommendation for mercy carries a life sentence, but in most instances a New Jersey prisoner sentenced for life is eligible for parole after 15 years. A second degree verdict would mean a maximum sentence of 30 years.

In the event of an acquittal, Hauptmann would not go free, for Bronx authorities have filed a detainer against him on an indictment charging him with extortion in connection with possession of the ransom money.

CAUGHT BY A SNEEZE

PHILADELPHIA—Two Philadelphia policemen are grateful for a sneeze. They were searching a second floor stockroom of an automobile accessory store for two burglars and couldn't find them. Then they heard a sneeze over their heads, and found two men crouching on the rafters. They were booked as William Kane, 23, and Norman Balbow, 22.

His Is the Mightiest Pen in Pension

Seldom has a single person risen so quickly to so great an influence over Congress as the man pictured above in three characteristic poses. He is Dr. Francis E. Townsend, the California physician whose "revolving old age pension plan" of paying $200 monthly to all elderly people has obtained such wide support. Actively lobbying his bill in Congress, writing continually in its favor, and making a continual round of organization meetings and speeches, Dr. Townsend enjoys none of the leisure he bespeaks for other elderly people.

Montana Rides Again

A RAPID-FIRE ROMANCE BY EVAN EVANS

SYNOPSIS: Mateo Rubriz and brother Pascual have ridden north into the United States to get the Montana Kid's help in recovering the emerald crown of Our Lady, stolen by the governor from the church in Duraya. By tricking Montana into a fight that sets the law on him they separate him from Ruth Lavery, his bride-to-be. Now they have told him about the crown, and he insists on helping them, giving as his reason the daughter of an inn-keeper of Duraya.

Chapter 11
IN DURAYA

The friar walked or ran most of the way south; and he seemed to spend more energy pulling the mule after him than in getting his own bulk over the ground. Only when the way was level and there was a chance for a lope or a brisk trot would he step into the saddle and ride the mule through the dust which the horses raised.

"Why does he do it?" asked Montana.

"Once a mule that was carrying him through the mountains slipped on a frozen rock and broke its leg," answered Rubriz. "Since then he takes pity on four-legged beasts. I had to stamp and rage to make him ride, on the way north with me. Even then he would not take a horse. A mule was too good for him, he said. You see, he is but a child."

"A child that moves mountains, eh?" said Montana. "But why did he come north with you?"

"He had heard the thousand stories about you, brother. He was hungry to see your face. That will make him a great man with the shepherds and the villiagers."

"Ah! So that was the reason!" murmured Montana.

But though he smiled, the first doubt had entered his soul, coldly. He saw that he would have to be on his guard from now on.

As they came through the hills into view of Duraya, the sunset flared and died quickly. It made the white walls of the town bloom for a moment. It made the looping river run red. Then the soft twilight rose out of the valleys, overflowed the hills, invaded the sky, and brought down the stars.

They descended into the plain.

"You tell me, Brother Pascual," said Montana. "Shall I pass as a true Mexican cowboy?"

"Why not, dear friend?" asked the friar. "Your hair is black. And now that you have rubbed a little of that stain into your skin, you are as dark as most. Your hair is already black, and as for the blue eyes, those are found in Mexico often enough.

"Besides, the red mare is the sort of horse that a famous charro would ride. And you have a suit of yellow leather with silver spangles all over it. The good Mexican speech comes so easily off your tongue that even I, who know, at time forget the truth about you."

"Tell me, also," said Montana, laughing, "if you think that you could ever really open your heart to a gringo."

After a long pause the friar said: "I can at least try, my friend. All men are the children of one God. So I can at least try!"

In Durayo they separated.

The friar went to the church. But the bishop was not there. So he went to the bishop's palace and climbed the stairs which were open and unguarded day and night in order that the poorest of the poor might come to the Bishop Emiliano in the little, bare, upper room which was all that he reserved for himself out of the splendors he might have enjoyed.

That was why little Bishop Emiliano, kneeling in prayer with only two candles to light the wooden cross on the naked wall of his room, said no head when the friar entered and kneeled in turn. The poor often did this.

The bishop was only vaguely aware that another presence was there, and it was some time before he looked over and found that brother Pascual and returned to him. He started up at once and went to the kneeling giant.

"Give me your blessing," said the friar, earnestly, without rising.

Even on his knees he was almost as tall as the bishop. "Give me a blessing of a special grace, for I have done a thing that will bring much evil on my country."

"I have helped bring into Mexico a terrible man," said the friar. "I have brought El Keed all the way from the north to Duraya."

"Ah, my son," said the bishop, "why have you done this? That is a known man and a lawbreaker."

"He is a lawbreaker," said the friar, "and in fact he breaks the law so well that Rubriz would not try to steal away the emerald crown of Our Lady unless he had the help of the gringo."

"Are they not great enemies?" asked the bishop. "The story is that the gringo stole away the foster son of Rubriz."

"They are great enemies, but also they love one another," said the friar.

"What sort of a man is El Keed?" asked the bishop.

"He is a man swift enough to catch a mountain goat and almost big enough to eat one."

"A great, sour brute?"

"It would be better if he were a sour brute. No, he is a smiling danger. Men cannot help trusting him. The women look as though they were seeing their first man."

"But has he actually come to help Rubriz steal the emeralds?"

"That is why he has come. Partly to steal the emeralds, but more to find trouble and advanture."

"Will he need a large reward, Pascual?"

"The danger he finds will be his reward."

"You speak of a reckless fellow, but not of a bad man, I think," said the little bishop.

"I speak of a fire," said Pascual. "Some men may be able to warm their hands at it, but others will soon be yelling inside the flames."

Mateo Rubriz, at this time, was sitting in the house of a friend at the edge of the town. It was a poor shack of 'dobe with only one room. On a mattress in a corner lay three grimy children, sleeping in spite of the lamplight that shone in their faces.

The wife of the family was undressing behind a rag of an old red curtain. Her husband sat at the table with Rubriz. The peon kept smacking his thick lips over his pulque. He looked at his drink with astonished eyes, and with continued amazement stared at his guest. For here sat a fortune in the skin of a man.

But to Onate, and to Onate's family, the bandit appeared as a good angel. He could trust them absolutely. They would hardly allow him to spend enough money to buy the very food that he consumed. And they dreaded almost more than they desired the gold piece which he always left behind him when he disappeared.

It was in the house of Onate that Rubriz had wished to put El Keed, also but Montana refused, point blank.

"You'll lie in a soft bed," said Rubriz, "and you'll sleep sound even after the Rurales are in the room!"

"Well," Montana would answer, "I'd rather wake up and see Rurales than chickens on the rafters and pigs on the floor."

So now he was verging towards the most prosperous inn in the town, and the mare passed like a sheen of red silk through the lamplight that passed out a few steps from door and window.

She went daintily, sniffing at the myriad ordors of man and cookery and dogs and pigs and chickens that crossed and recrossed in the air, besies that other scent which sometimes made her throw her head high as she perceived the acrid air from the mountain desert blown in from afar.

Her rider sat crosswise, with his left leg thrown over the high pommel of the saddle. He carried under his arm a guitar which he had picked up cheap in a musicshop. Now that it was tuned, he struck out a few soft chords and then let his voice start ringing in a very old Spanish song.

That song penetrated into the inn of Miguel Santos, where every chair around the little tables was filled and cigaret butts lay about everywhere on the earthen floor, and the lamplight showed nothing very clearly except the faces of the dirty playing-cards and the lower twists and whorls of smoke.

Miguel Santos himself had stepped out from behind his little bar and had gone into the small back room where the more serious games of chance were in progress.

ETHIOPIA ACTS TO DEFY ITALY AND MUSSOLINI

Italians Are Blamed For Trouble in Africa

ROME, Feb. 13. (AP)—Negradas Yescus, Ethiopian Charge D'Affaires, presented to Premier Mussolini today Emperor Haile Selassie's defiant challenge holding Italy responsible for the African frontier conflict with precipitated the Italo-Ethiopian crisis.

Immediately after the Ethiopian emissary departed from Il Duce's office in the Palazzo Venezia, a government spokesman announced the African monarch's stand has created "a very serious situation."

The note, the spokesman said, is equivalent to "defiance," adding that gravest consequences might follow.

He also characterized Emperor Selassie's publication of his note before its presentation to Mussolini as undiplomatic procedure.

The official source reiterated the government's intention that the January 29 conflict at Afdub, on disputed territory, was occasioned by Ethiopian aggression. He denied the Italians attacked an Ethiopian patrol at Gherlogubi as charged in the Ethiopian message.

Asked about persistent rumors that Italian troops had begun to leave for Africa, the spokesman did not repeat the denial he made yesterday but merely said he had no information on this subject.

JOKER FOUND IN LEGION'S BONUS BILL

Patman Claims Bill Would Authorize Payment of Bonus But Not Pay It.

BY CLARENCE M. WRIGHT,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Advocates of the Patman bill to pay the soldiers' bonus with new currency reported with obvious glee today that they had found a "nullifying joker" in the American Legion's bonus bill.

Rep. Patman (D., Texas) was one of the discoverers. He said the Legion bill, which proposes immediate payment of the $2,100 000,000 bonus but does not specify how payment shall be financed, concludes with this language:

"There is hereby authorized to be appropriated such amounts as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this act."

"That," Patman said, "would not even let the treasury issue new bonds to pay off the certificates. If the Legion's plan is followed, congress will have to pass two bills—this first one 'authorizing' an appropriation and a later one actually making the appropriation.

"It begins to look to me as though the national commander of the Legion (Frank N. Belgrano Jr.) has served a double curve on us. Why, the Legion bill is just a make-believe bill."

Patman said he had read the Legion measure several times but that the difference between the proposed "authorization" and an actual "appropriation" previously had escaped him "because this provision is so artfully drawn."

"Why," he added, "a man could vote against that Legion bill and still not vote against payment of the bonus, for that bill wouldn't pay the bonus—it would just authorize its payment."

MACON

Numerous inquiries into the disaster were expected today, primarily from the navy and congress.

Congressional leaders intimated the disaster would mean the defeat of further development of lighter-than-air-craft, already under fire.

Akron Tragedy Remembered

It was the third, though least tragic disaster to overtake great airships of the United States fleet. The Akron crashed with a loss of 73 lives April 4, 1933, and the Shenandoah eight years earlier with a loss of 14 of her crew.

If the two missing are not found the Macon crash will bring to 350 the number of lives lost in the 15 major dirigible crashes in the world in the past 23 years.

The remarkably small loss of life was attributed to naval discipline and the presence of a score of fighting craft with which the Macon had maneuvered off the California coast for a day and a half.

The exact cause of the disaster apparently was not known by the naval officers themselves whose cryptic wireless messages told the dramatic story of the end of the Macon and the rescue of most of her crew.

Rear Admiral C. E. Courtney of the cruiser Richmond, which picked up 64 survivors, said the number 9 gas cell had burst. Earlier Commander Wiley had said it was cells 1 and 2.

Wiley's story of the crash follows:

"While off Pt. Sur, a course north all engines standard speed 63 knots, altitude, 1,250 feet, air squally, about 5:18 p. m. (P. S. T.) a casualty occurred in stern.

"I thought elevator control carried away. Ship took a bow up inclination, rose rapidly.

"Ordered all ballast and fuel slip tanks dropped aft of midship. Received prompt word number 1 gas cell under fins was gone and stern was crumbling and finally that number 2 cell was gone.

"Tried to land ship near cruisers off Pt. Sur but could not see surface until shortly before landing.

"The ship landed stern first with no way on (no speed ahead) at 5:40. All hands took to rubber boats and saw ship finally sink. Discipline excellent and all hands had alarm in time to don life jackets."

Only One SOS

The light house keeper at Point Sur told of seeing the airship suddenly sink and then rise rapidly and disappear from sight so that he could not see it through the fog even with powerful glasses.

Simultaneously Wiley sent out his only SOS reporting the ship was "falling."

Naval craft in the immediate vicinity headed at once for the Macon's position, and Admiral J. M. Reeves, commanding the fleet maneuvers, took charge of all air lines to direct the search.

Thirty boats in the area, mostly craft steaming for San Francisco Bay, turned to her aid.

Six coast guard cutters were ordered to put out from various California ports—the Calypson, Tahoe, Shawnee, Ariadne, Perseus and Hermes.

All hands in the Mare Island navy yard in San Francisco Bay were ordered to stand by. The Red Cross directed nearby agencies to be ready to lend aid. The naval hospital ship relief was ordered to speed to the scene from Southern California.

The ability of the navy to mass so much aid immediately was impressive, but such ample help was unneeded.

Three ships breaking from the column of cruisers, with the aid of their powerful searchlights and calcium flares let off by the Macon quickly picked up the 81 survivors. The Richmond took aboard 64, the Concord 11 and the Cincinnati 6.

FDR Interested

After a futile search of the dark waters for the two missing men, they continued to San Francisco.

President Roosevelt, as soon as he heard of the disaster, phoned the naval communications headquarters to obtain first hand information of the Macon's casualty.

As messages relating to the crash flashed into the capital, these were quickly relayed to the president's desk. The chief executive was known to be relieved that the casualty list, if any, would be small.

Former President Herbert Hoover received the startling news while he was attending a Lincoln day dinner in New York.

"This is very sad news indeed," said the former president. "The Macon was launched during my administration and I hope that all of those aboard are alive and safe."

Hardly had reports of the disaster reached the capital than congressional leaders intimated the tragedy might provide the answer —"no!" —to the question of the practicability of lighter-than-air-craft for naval scouting purposes.

Light-Pole Cat Finally Rescued And Leaves Town

A country cat came to town last week and, not being accustomed to trees and poles, climbed to the top of an electric light pole to escape from a dog. Then it couldn't get down. It had been used to dodging into a barn or under a porch to get away from canines.

The cat, just an ordinary yellow colored feline, parked on the cross piece of a pole in the 500 block on North Hobart street for two days. The fire department was notified of the cat's plight and yesterday afternoon following a run to a fire, the truck went around by Hobart street and saved the cat from its precarious position.

Bobby Burns donned climbing spurs and made his way to the top of the pole. The cat was puzzled. Bobby finally hooked his safety belt around the pole and cornered Mr. Cat. Firemen on the ground held a landing sheet and the cat was dropped. It bounced once and then without saying thank you or giving a look of appreciation headed north on Hobart street. When last seen, the cat was on its way back to the country.

Wash House Blaze Is Extinguished

A meeting of the Pampa Fire Prevention board will be held some night next week, Joe Burrow has been named chairman of the board. His duty is to promote safety in the city.

HAUPTMANN

upon the wood and give the evidence in respect thereto such weight as you think it entitled to after a consideration of the credibility of the witness."

As to Hauptmann's own testimony:

"His interest in the result may be taken into consideration on the question of whether he is telling the truth. His previous convictions of crime may be considered only as affecting his credit as a witness."

Question Favors State

Of Amandus Hockmuth, the aged man who said he saw Hauptmann with a ladder in a car near the Lindbergh home on the day of the crime:

"This testimony, if true, is highly significant. Do you think that there is any reason upon the whole to doubt the truth of the old man's testimony? May he not have well and easily remembered the circumstance in view of the fact that that very night the child was carried away?"

When Justice Trenchard finished his charge he had to warn the spectators to cease their "humming and buzzing." He told the attorneys to argue any exceptions to his charge after the jury retired.

As to Hauptmann's alibi witnesses, the judge told the jury:

"You should consider the fact, where it is the fact, that several of the witnesses have been convicted of crime and determine whether or not their credibility has been affected thereby. And where it appears that witnesses have made contradictory statements you should consider that fact and determine their credibility as affected thereby."

His remark on circumstantial evidence was:

"When the case against the defendant is made up wholly of a chain of circumstances and there is reasonable doubt as to any fact the existence of which is essential to establish guilt, the defendant should be acquitted.

"It is not sufficient that the circumstances prove, coincide with, account for and therefore render probable the hypothesis that is sought to be established by the prosecution. They must exclude to a moral certainty every other hypothesis but the single one of guilt."

The jury was instructed that it may conclude from the evidence that Baby Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., was stolen by someone who entered the nursery of the Lindbergh home through the window by means of a ladder.

The defense had contended the baby was carried down the stairs of the home by someone on the "inside" and that the ladder was a plant.

The court also charged the jury that it may conclude the baby's sleeping suit was stripped from it at the point at which the nurse Betty Gow said she found its thumbguard.

This evidence was important to the state's case because the baby's body was found in Mercer county. Hauptmann is charged with murder in Hunterdon county.

In Condon Testimony

"The state contends that the uncontradicted evidence of Colonel Lindbergh and Dr. (Charles) Mitchell and other evidence justifies the reasonable inference that the felonious stroke occurred in East Amwell township in Hunterdon county, when the child was seized and carried out of the nursery window and down the ladder by the defendant, and that death was instantaneous; and from the evidence you may conclude, if you see fit, that the child was feloniously stricken on the first day of March at the township of East Amwell in this county and died as a result of that stroke."

Reviewing the ransom negotiations, in which Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon said he paid Lindbergh's $50,000 to Hauptmann, Justice Trenchard said:

"It is argued that Dr. Condon's testimony is inherently improbable and should in part be rejected by you, but you will observe that his testimony is corroborative in large part by several witnesses whose credibility has not been impeached in any manner whatsoever.

"Of course, if there is in the minds of the jury a reasonable doubt as to the truth of any testimony, such testimony should be rejected, but, upon the whole, is there any doubt in your mind as to the reliability of Dr. Condon's testimony?"

"It is argued," Justice Trenchard said, "that Colonel Lindbergh could not have identified that voice and that it is unlikely that the defendant would have talked with Condon. Well, those questions are for the determination of this jury."

As to the gang theory expounded by the defense chief, Edward J. Reilly, the court said:

About Gang Theory

"It is argued by defendant's counsel that the kidnaping and murder was done by a gang and not by the defendant and that the defendant was in no wise concerned therein. The argument was to the effect that it was done by a gang with the help or connivance of some one or more servants of the Lindbergh or Morrow households.

"Now, do you believe that? Is there any evidence in this case whatsoever to support any such conclusion?"

The doors of the courtroom were locked as the charge was given. The Associated Press, the only news service subscribing to the official transcript of the proceedings, was able, however, to report the instructions as they were delivered.

The judge declared it a matter of importance as to whether Hauptmann wrote the original ransom note which was found in the Lindbergh nursery and the 13 notes that followed.

He recalled the numerous state experts testifying that Hauptmann wrote them, Hauptmann's denial and the testimony of one defense expert who said Hauptmann did not write them. He said:

"The weight of the evidence to prove the genuineness of handwriting is fully for the jury.

About the disputed panel in Hauptmann's closet which bore the penciled telephone number and address of Dr. Condon, he said:

"If you believe that he did (write the notation on the panel) although he now denies it, you may conclude that it throws light upon the question whether or not he was dealing with Dr. Condon."

On the discovery of ransom money in Hauptmann's garage, the court remarked:

Court Asks Questions

"Does it not appear that many thousands of dollars of ransom bills were found in his garage, hidden in the walls or under the floor, that others were found on his person when he was arrested and others passed by him from time to time. * * *.

"The defendant says that these ransom bills, moneys, were left with him by one (Isador) Fisch, a man now dead. Do you believe that?"

He told the jury it might also consider the evidence that shortly after the delivery of the ransom Hauptmann began to purchase stock in a much larger way and to spend more freely. Then he asked: "Do you believe his testimony that the money was left with him in a shoe box, and that it rested on the top shelf in his closet for several months?

"His wife, as I recall it, said she never saw the box and I do not recall that any witness, excepting the defendant, testified that they ever saw the shoe box there."

Reviewing the state's evidence, the court remarked:

"The fact of death seems to be proved and admitted.

"There is evidence from which you may conclude, if you see fit, that the person who carried away the child, entered the nursery or child's bedroom through the southeast window of the nursery room by means of a ladder placed against the side of the house, under or near the window, and this occurred shortly after 9 o'clock at night."

The jury was carefully guarded when it was brought into the court for the charge. It was flanked by nine civil guards and a detail of state troopers, and kept in a tight line on the march from the hotel.

Judge Trenchard reminded the jury of the scene about the Lindbergh house when Baby Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., was stolen on the night of March 1, 1932. He recalled that Colonel Lindbergh testified he heard a crash that sounded like wood on wood, and that thereafter a broken ladder was found.

"Miss (Betty) Gow and Mrs. (Ollie) Whateley testified that later, about April 1, 1932," the court went on, "they found the thumbguard, which Miss Gow had securely tied to the wrist of the child's sleeping suit when she put him to bed, that they found this thumbguard in the road leading from the Lindbergh home and on the Lindbergh property, with the knot still untied, from which you may possibly conclude that the sleeping suit was stripped off of the child at that place."

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Rogers of Tucumcari, N. M., visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Glover, Monday evening.

Leo Brewster returned to Fort Worth this morning after attending court here. Br. Brewster is assistant district attorney of Tarrant county.
