FARMERS CARRY FIGHT TO MELLON

Chinese Killer Triumphs In March On Capital Stronghold

TERRORIST OF HANKOW TAKES PEKING PALACE

General Pai Accompanied By Bodyguard Of 2000 Troops

GIANT ARMY COMING

Claims Half Million Troops On Way To His Aid

PEKING, June 12. (AP)—(Delayed, via Naval Radio.)—Gen. Pai Chung Hsi, the Kwangsi commander from Hankow, who has terrorized communists at Shanghai and Hankow, where he executed nearly 2000 persons, took possession today of the Yang Yu Ting palace at Peking. Two thousand Hunan troops marched into the city with him as his bodyguard.

General Pai announced that he was bringing 120,000 of his soldiers from the Kwangsi and Hunan provinces to the Peking and Tientsin areas, which he said, would swell the number of nationalist troops in this district to more than a half million.

He declared that Gen. Feng Yu Hsiang had 140,000 troops and that Gen. Yen Hsi Shan's force surpass 250,000 men. Foreign observers were inclined to believe the latter figure was an over estimate.

Demo Committee Meeting Called

WASHINGTON, June 13. (AP)—Clem Shaver, chairman of the Democratic national committee, today issued a call for a meeting of the committee at Houston, Texas on June 25, the day before the opening of the national convention. The meeting is to consummate final arrangement of the convention.

Stock Market Stages Remarkable Comeback

Quickly absorbing the forced liquidation of weakened marginal accounts resulting from the spectacular break in yesterday's record-breaking 5,000,000 share session, the market headed upward and continued that way to the close. The recoveries in the active issues ranged from $3 to $15 a share with the day's gains in the Associated Press industrial and railroad averages exceeding the declines of yesterday.

Cancellation of Oil Firm's Permit Asked

AUSTIN, Texas, June 13. (AP)—Cancellation of the permit held by the Goldenrod Oil company to do business in Texas, is asked in a suit filed in district court here today by Assistant Attorney General Rice M. Tilley.

Tilley claims the company, chartered in Delaware, but with its principal office in Dallas, declared an unauthorized 200 per cent stock dividend, issued bonds without sufficient available property to secure them and failed to pay state franchise tax.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge Leave for Wisconsin

WASHINGTON, June 13. (AP)—President and Mrs. Coolidge left tonight for the summer White House in Wisconsin.

The departure, postponed Monday because of illness of Mrs. Coolidge, found her still somewhat indisposed and she immediately retired. A trained nurse traveled on the presidential car.

Host Slain by Visitor After Alleged Threat

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13. (UP)—"I just shot a man, you'd better come out." Ambrose Causer, 28, telephoned the police after he shot and killed James Billings, 47, following a quarrel in the Billings home.

Billings threatened to kill Causer's wife and three children with a jackknife, Causer told officers.

Thea Rasche Avers She'll Make Flight

NEW YORK, June 13. (AP)—Thea Rasche, German aviatrix, tonight reiterated an announcement she made earlier in the day that she would proceed independently with arrangements for a transatlantic flight, and denied reports that she had abandoned plans for the flight.

First Day of Oil Land Trial Given to Pleas

AUSTIN, Texas, June 13. (AP)—Counsel spent the first day of trial here on the state's suit for more than 500 acres of Hutchinson county oil land worth millions, in reading various pleadings. Selection of a jury was started about noon.

Texas Law Fails To Cover Seating Of Republicans

By WILL ROGERS

KANSAS CITY, June 13.—The whole show has degenerated into nothing but a dog fight for vice president.

All we have done today is listen to Senator Fess explain what he forgot to say yesterday. It seems he left out Roosevelt's name yesterday. And it took him all day today to alibi for it. I don't know who he forgot today, that he will have to bring up tomorrow.

They had a time seating the Texas delegation, as there was no law in Texas to apply to a Republican primary. Texas never thought they would come to a point where there would ever be any Republicans there. They also have no laws against the shooting out of season of reindeer, or musk ox.

Laws Inadequate

The Indiana delegation took a day off and went to visit the most prominent Republican Indianians at Leavenworth. They just played the national anthem, and when they finished Fess asked the band leader to play something else, "while the chairman was trying to think of something to say." They are still playing.

Men who two days ago wouldn't even speak to a vice president are now trying to get to be one.

They have weeded the vice presidential candidates down to just the following: 96 senators; 436 congressmen, and 47 governors. (Forty-eight governors, I should have said; Oklahoma has been admitted).

They took a vote on the floor of the convention of the Georgia delegation, and 15 voted black and three white.

Tobacco Banned

They stopped everybody in the house from smoking. The Republicans are coming out against cigarets and tobacco.

We don't hear any more of Melton. He is just the treasurer since Vare delivered the Pennsylvania delegation to Hoover. Be a good joke on the senate if Hoover demands Vare run with him as vice president. That will get him in the senate.

They say Dawes is flying here to keep them from sentencing him to another four years listening to the senate without ear muffs.

COUPLE FROM WICHITA DEAD

Storm Claims Lives of R. R. Rochesters

HARRISON, Ark., June 13. (AP)—A tornado struck Pyatt, near here, tonight, destroying practically every building and seriously injuring one person, Tom Melton. About 50 buildings were destroyed.

POTEAU, Okla., June 13. (UP)—With the restoration of communication lines that were crippled by a tornado last night, word of the death of two persons and the destruction of property was brought here late today.

The dead are Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Rochester, who moved to western Arkansas from near Wichita Falls about two years ago. The storm started about a mile east of Heavener, near here, cutting a path 20 to 30 yards wide. The two persons were killed when their house was destroyed.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Rochester, who were killed in an Arkansas tornado Tuesday night, are unknown in Wichita Falls.

Services Thursday For Former Baseball Star

WAGONER, Okla., June 13. (UP) Funeral services for Charles Corgan, 26, former Brooklyn Robins baseball player, who died at the home of his mother here today, will be held here Thursday afternoon with burial in a local cemetery.

NOBILE AMONG INJURED WHEN SHIP CRASHES

SCIENTIST IS VICTIM

Ice Threatens to Crush Rescue Ships As Time Drags

ROME, June 13. (UP)—Gen. Umberto Nobile of the Arctic dirigible Italia was injured in the right arm and leg and Chief Engineer Cecioni suffered a broken right leg when the dirigible crashed on the ice off Foyn Island, May 25, an official announcement tonight said.

The Swedish physicist Malmgren suffered severe concussions of the arm in the wreck of the Italia, according to the report, the first intimation that Nobile had been injured.

Hitherto Nobile's reports had said two men were injured, but he had not mentioned that he was one of them.

All In Silence

KINGS BAY, June 13. (UP)—A disturbing silence and the menace of wild Arctic storms and heavy seas enveloped Gen. Umberto Nobile and other members of the crew of the wrecked dirigible Italia as they drifted slowly on an ice floe toward Nordostland tonight.

Strong north winds were blowing, the ice on the southern edge of the ice pack was breaking under thunderous seas, and a heavy snow was falling. Fears were felt for the safety of the three men who left Nobile in a desperate attempt to walk to the mainland.

Ships In Danger

The rescue ships Hobby and Braganza were confronted by the danger of being crushed by ice, but the Braganza was loading supplies hurriedly in preparation for dashing back into the threatening storm in search of the castaways. The voyage would be perilous, it was admitted here, but the Braganza was being made ready to leave tonight.

Hopen Island, southwest of Nordostland and 450 kilometers removed from Nobile—a three hours flight—was designated as the base for the Russian and Swedish relief planes.

One Russian airplane is aboard the Russian ice breaker Maligin, pushing toward Nobile through the ice-laden seas.

Captain H. Riiser-Larsen, head of relief work, returned to the Hobby from a reconnoitering flight today. It was not known if he had seen tracks of the explorers.

Second Election For School Bonds

Weeth school bond issue of $20,000 recently voted and declared invalid will go before the voters again Thursday, according to Burl Bryant, county school superintendent.

The first bond issue was found invalid after it was shown that the proper order of election was not made by the school board.

Stewart Trial Jury In Apparent Deadlock

WASHINGTON, June 13. (UP)—The Stewart contempt trial jury, apparently badly deadlocked, made no report after eight hours of deliberating. There was no sign of a verdict, and if none is given before midnight, which will be 11 hours after the eight men and four women received the case, Justice F. Siddons is expected to order the jury locked up for the rest of the night.

Shrine May Assume Ward's Concert Programs as Convention Benefit

Disposition of contracts announced by William Ward, building manager of the city auditorium, for entertainments in the city auditorium has not been made, but it was said Wednesday that the Maskat temple band is considering taking them over with a view to using the money to help pay for the trip to their convention.

This has not been definitely decided, it was learned from Al Ellis, recorder of the Shrine, Wednesday night. Mr. Ellis said he would look into the matter Thursday with a view to making an announcement on the matter if possible.

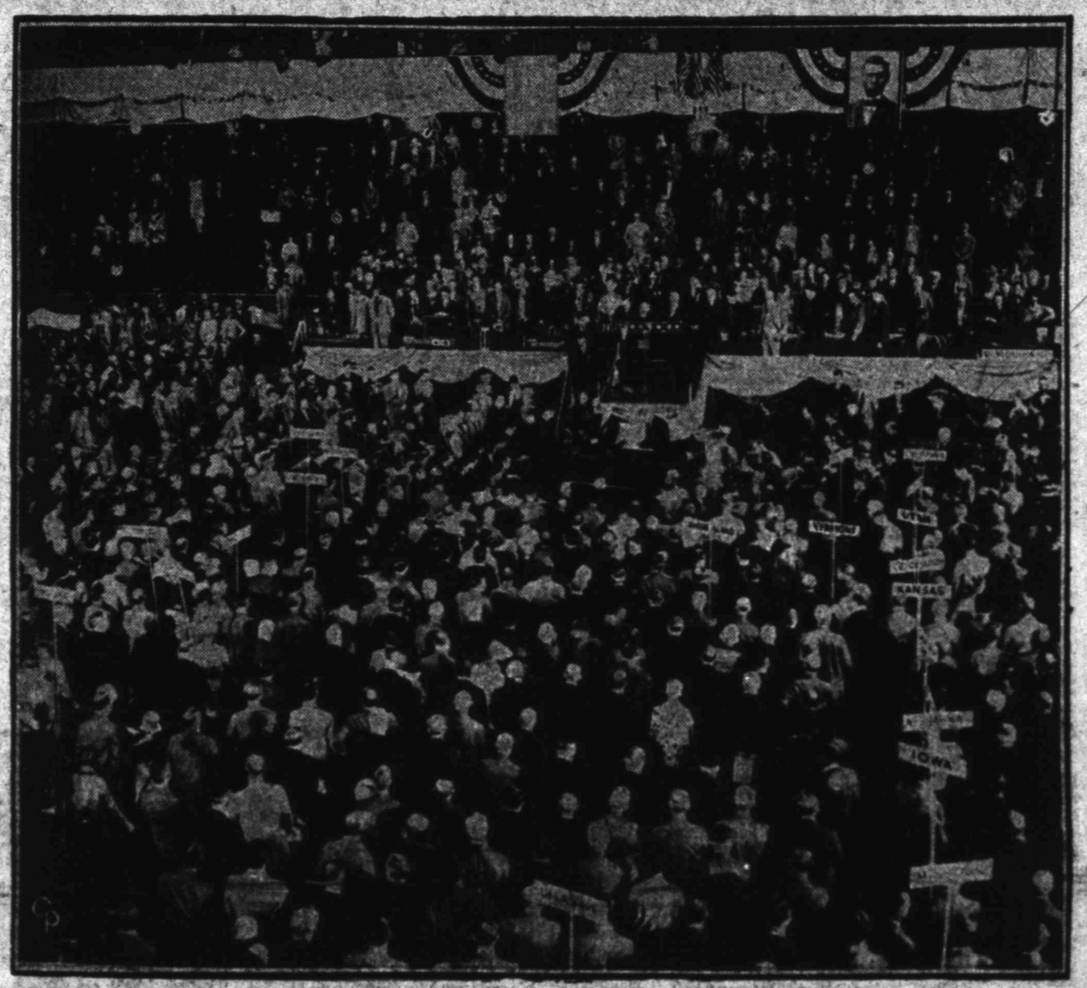

No announcement was made by Mr. Ward, who, since the Monday night meeting of the council, has been endeavoring to dispose of his contracts, he said.

City Manager George D. Fairtrace said Wednesday that he did not know yet what disposition Mr. Ward was making of the contracts, and that he was not concerned just as long as Mr. Ward disposed of them and severed all connection with the programs.

Whether the Cyrena Van Gordon concert, announced on June 1, by the Wichita Booking bureau which Mr. Ward told the city council he was interested in, is included in the contracts which the Maskat band is considering was not indicated. Other contracts in the case are those for the Sousa band and the Paul Whiteman orchestra concerts.

The transfer of the contracts was brought about at the Monday night meeting of the city council when women of Wichita Falls presented formal verbal and written resolutions and protests against Mr. Ward working for the city as manager of the auditorium, and at the same time booking attractions for his personal gain.

DEMOS INVITE FARM HORDES

Jones and Shaver Promise "Square Deal"

HOUSTON, Texas, June 13. (UP) The Democratic party today made a renewed bid for the agrarian vote which party leaders hope will be denied the Republican nominee.

The latest attempt to cement the agricultural strength into a bloc for the man nominated here in June came in a formal statement issued jointly today by Clem Shaver, national committee chairman, and Jesse H. Jones, arrangements committee chairman.

"Regardless of what the farmers get in Kansas City," said Jones, "we renew our invitation to them to come to Houston.

"The farmers will be welcome here. They won't have to plead for a square deal and any promises that are made to them in Houston will be kept."

In the joint statement of Jones and Shaver, a fair hearing is promised.

"Of course, none of us can promise anything except that the farmers, like everybody else who comes before the Democratic convention, will be given a fair and courteous hearing."

Shaver, speaking of Senator Fess' keynote speech at Kansas City, said:

"If the keynote speech at the Republican convention expresses the feeling of that party as to its actions, then there has been made a new contribution to American political humor."

Woman First Delegate To Arrive for C-C Meet

FORT WORTH, June 13. (AP)—The first delegate to the West Texas chamber of commerce convention here June 18-20 registered on Wednesday afternoon. The delegate is Mrs. W. B. Hamilton, Alpine, secretary of the Brewster County chamber of commerce. Mrs. Hamilton said she arrived early to pave the way for the rest of the Brewster county delegation, due here on Sunday.

Bandit Loses Nerve In Attempted Holdup

HERINGTON, Kan., June 13. (UP)—Losing his nerves as he was staging a holdup of the Latimer State bank, at Latimer, northeast of here, Bruce Burch, 20, backed out of the bank when he heard others in a rear room. Ben Frohm, assistant cashier, whom Burch had first accosted, led others in pursuit of the youth who endeavored to escape in an automobile. Burch was wounded in the back, lost control of the car and went into a ditch.

FARM BILL EXPLAINED TO RUNYON SIMPLY AS 'ER-ER'

But He Makes It Out Pretty Well; Convention Upholds Texas' Demo Legislature

By DAMON RUNYON
Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service Inc.

CONVENTION HALL, KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13.—Bishop Thomas F. Lillis, of the Catholic Church of Kansas City, an elderly, heavy man, read a powerful prayer after the fervent Senator Fess called the Republican convention to order at 10:45 this morning.

The Bishop closed with the Lord's Prayer. The delegates stood and mumbled it in unison with him. Some skipped a lot of the words.

Senator Fess, who wore a fresh suit of black, and a new collar to replace the one he sweated out of shape while keynoting yesterday, made an apology to the convention for omitting a very important note in his keynoting.

He forgot to speak of Theodore Roosevelt. Senator Fess admitted the Klieg lights which the movie men turned on him at intervals during his keynoting caused him to fumble.

More Perspiration

He read the tribute to Roosevelt this morning that he should have discharged yesterday, and the delegates applauded profusely. A sudden blast of the Klieg opened all of Senator Fess' pores anew. He is a man who seems to be given to perspiration.

Lafayette B. Gleason, secretary of the convention, announced that the state of Utah had presented the convention with a gavel made of pure Utah copper. The delegates from the Mormon state led the applause for this generous donation.

The band played "My Country 'Tis of Thee," and Senator Fess requested it to keep right on playing until something happened. Also he requested the delegates to throw away their Panatellas, Lucky Strikes and Murads. Some of the boys seemed to forget that ladies were present.

He summoned the thunderous Lafayette B. Gleason, and Mr. Gleason bellowed the directions that smoking is against the fire department regulations of Kansas City. Three fire chiefs from other baliwicks who are among the delegates, began doing their stuff.

Await Woman, As Usual

The convention was waiting on a woman. The world is always waiting on a woman. This woman who was holding up the march of progress is Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, the female assistant attorney general of the U. S. A., chairman of the committee on credentials. Incidentally, Mrs. Willebrandt, as assistant attorney general, is in charge of prohibition enforcement.

And by the way, there seems to be plenty of enforcement around Kansas City. Things are very, very dry.

Mr. Andrew Mellon, who is the biggest gun at the convention, was about the only man worth watching. His lips moved as Bishop

BLAST BURNS PROVE FATAL

C. H. Tracey Dies of Hurts Received in Storm

C. H. Tracey, 29, employe of the Wichita Ice company, died at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday night at a local hospital as the result of burns he received during an explosion at the ice plant during the storm of June 3.

The explosion which proved fatal to Mr. Tracey was attributed to a shortage in the wiring caused by the wind.

Mr. Tracey, who lived at 509 Austin street, is survived by his widow and father, J. L. Tracey, of Bonham.

The body will be forwarded to Bonham by the Hines mortuary Thursday.

Dust Explosion Wrecks Kansas Grain Elevator

MILLARD, Kan., June 13. (UP)—A dust explosion today wrecked the Ochs Brothers elevator. Ben Ochs, one of the proprietors, was slightly injured. The elevator was empty. It has a capacity of 30,000 bushels.

CREAGER GAINS FULL CONTROL

Texas Hoover Delegation Wins Last Fight

By L. B. DILBECK
Associated Press Staff Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13.—Champions of a lost cause who fought to the end, Republican delegates elected to the national convention by districts in Texas prepared tonight to return home without having participated in the quadrennial big show.

By vote of 659½ to 399½ the convention denied them seats and then seated the state convention selected delegation controlled by National Committeeman R. B. Creager of Brownsville and committed to Hoover for president.

Third Party "Forced" By Cal, Norris Claims

WASHINGTON, June 13. (UP)—A movement for an agricultural third party has been "almost forced" by President Coolidge, Senator Norris of Nebraska, mentioned as a candidate for such a party, told the United Press today. He added, however, that he has no ambition to lead a party of this kind.

Moses Is Latest Bet For Vice President

KANSAS CITY, June 13. (AP)—Vice Presidential politics warmed up tonight as the Republican convention waited for its platform and Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, was put forward in the latest boom as an opponent of Vice President Dawes who seemed to be holding an advantage.

American Ambassador To Chile Resigns

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 13. (UP) United States Ambassador William A. Collier has resigned, it was announced here tonight. The cause of his resignation was given as a desire to attend to personal business affairs in America. Collier is a native of New York.

FARM PLANK WITHOUT FEE IS ADOPTED

Desperate Effort to Head Off Hoover Victory Will Be Made

CONCLAVE ADJOURNS

Platform Battle Averts Night Session As Scheduled

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13. (AP)—The first night session of the Republican national convention adjourned after one minute tonight because the platform committee was not ready to report.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13. (AP) The Republican convention platform committee tonight voted against any mention of the equalization fee in the farm relief plank, accepting the tentative draft of the plank that had been proposed by the sub-committee of 15.

The committee also approved the Borah plank declaring for specific enforcement of the eighteenth amendment.

It is expected the fight over the farm relief plank will be renewed when the platform formally is submitted on the convention floor tomorrow.

FARMERS TO TALK WITH SECY MELLON

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13.—A last minute desperate effort to head off the nomination of Herbert Hoover will be made tomorrow morning by delegates from the middle west agricultural states who are convinced that Hoover cannot win the farmer vote.

At 9 o'clock in the morning a delegation from the states will have an audience with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and endeavor to convince him that some one other than Hoover should be named.

Controls Conclave

It is generally understood that Mr. Mellon controls the convention. It was his decision to swing the delegation to Hoover which made the latter's nomination certain.

Therefore the farm leaders are convinced that if Mr. Mellon can be persuaded to drop Hoover in favor of some one whom the farmers believe will have a better chance to win, the switch can be made and a candidate satisfactory to the farmers can be nominated.

Mr. Mellon agreed to receive the farmer delegation after they had besieged him all afternoon with requests for a hearing. His first reply to their representative was that he would give them an answer at 6 p. m. At that hour he informed them he would see them in the morning.

Explain Cause

The committee will explain their cause to Mr. Mellon and ask him to throw the Pennsylvania delegation support to some candidate other than Hoover.

They will not suggest a candidate but will tell Mr. Mellon flatly that they will not vote for Hoover next November if he is nominated.

The committee that will call on Mr. Mellon was appointed tonight as follows:

W. A. Settle, president of the Indiana farm bureau; Edgar D. Bush, candidate for lieutenant governor of Indiana; M. P. McNeeley, Illinois; L. W. Price, California; Burt Ashton, Illinois; Dr. J. G. Royse, Indiana; Fred Meeker, Indiana; C. C. Williams, Indiana; Russell Van Hook, Indiana.

CONVENTION HALL, KANSAS CITY, June 13. (US)—Chairman Moses was informed that the platform committee was involved in such a wrangle on its farm relief plank that agreement before tomorrow was improbable, when the Republicans convened tonight.

Chairman Moses rapped for order at 7:30 p. m. The delegates were slow in taking their seats, very few being in the hall when the call to order was given.

The next order of business before the convention was the report of the committee on resolutions. The chairman was informed that the committee will not be prepared to report until tomorrow morning.

Mark L. Requa of California arose and moved an adjournment until 10 a. m. The motion was carried without dissent.

"Wild Bill" Donovan In Conference With Hoover

WASHINGTON, June 13. (UP)—Col. William "Wild Bill" Donovan, assistant U. S. attorney general, mentioned as a vice presidential possibility, conferred with Herbert Hoover today. No intimation was given as to the nature of the conference.

A personal report of activities at the Republican national convention, which appears certain to nominate Hoover for president, was given the commerce secretary by his personal secretary, George A. Kerson, who just returned from Kansas City.

"WE CHALLENGE 'THE ENEMY'S' STRONGEST CHAMPION," SAYS MOSES

CLAIMS PARTY IS AGGRESSIVE

Permanent Chairman Puts "Fire" Into Talk

KANSAS CITY, June 13. (AP)—Declaring the Republican party would not shirk its responsibility toward agriculture, Senator Moses of New Hampshire, as permanent chairman of the national convention, told the assembly today that the party would enter the campaign "in no posture of defense."

"We come up on the field aggressively militant," he said. "We intend to carry this fight to the enemy. And we challenge them to bring forth their strongest champion.

"The honor which you have conferred upon me is very great," the chairman began, "and I thank you for it. The duties which your generous actions lay upon me may prove to be difficult; but I hope to be able to perform them satisfactorily.

"We come now to the central and most important tasks for which we are assembled. First, we are to formulate a declaration of principles which will embody the essentials of Republicanism and with which we shall submit our cause to the people.

"Inevitably, in a party thoroughly national in its vision and contact as ours is, there will from time to time arise differences of opinion. This is by no means the first occasion when Republicans have found themselves at odds regarding a question of cardinal consequence as affecting party policy. Heretofore, we have succeeded always in settling our difficulties within our own ranks through that wise spirit of accommodation which must characterize a great and far flung organization like ours, upon which depends so much for the advance and prosperity of our country. So it will be now.

Praises Republicanism

"No one can doubt the essential sympathy with which the Republican party has always looked upon the great and diverse interests which make up the fabric of our national existence. This sympathetic view point has not changed. Agriculture and industry and the social order continue to be the prime objects of our solicitude, and in dealing with them the Republican party will not shirk its responsibility.

"We shall, however, now as always, chart our course within the limits of the constitution and within the operation of sound economic law.

"Half a century ago the Republican party stood firm against inflation through an intimidated issue of paper money—and the people stood with us then.

"A generation ago the Republican party stood firm against a debasement of our currency through the free coinage of silver—and the people stood with us then.

Republicans Are Firm

"Less than 10 years ago the Republican party stood firm against the surrender of our national sovereignty through minority membership in a foreign super-state—and the people then stood with us twice by majority of more than seven millions.

"So we shall stand firm again here and now—and in November the American people will again crown our courage and reward our sincerity in a victory as splendidly triumphant as any which we have ever achieved.

"Upon the platform which we shall thus reconstruct, we shall place a candidate whose personality fits our principles and the nation's present necessities. We are not barren of presidential timber. However our choice may fall, we know it will not rest in unworthy hands and that the leadership we shall here set up will assure to the country a Republican ascendancy which will endure for at least eight years more.

Five Million Reasons

"There are at least five million reasons why this must be so—because there are at least five million more Republicans than there are Democrats in this country. These millions united, as we know they will be when this convention has concluded its task, and joined by millions more to whom our candidates and our principles will appeal, will sweep on to an overwhelming victory at the polls.

"There is no occasion for the people to distrust our party and there is no occasion for our party to distrust the people. Their sober judgment will rest with us because—

"In seeking for a foreign policy for the United States we know our people will not turn to the party which conceived and nurtured the League of Nations;

Scorns Free Silver

"In seeking for a fiscal policy for the United States, we know our people will not turn to the party which advocated rag money and free silver;

"In seeking for an economic policy for the United States we know our people will not turn to the party which clings to the fetich of free trade;

"In seeking for a policy to make the tariff effective for every interest in the United States, we know our people will not turn to the party whose strength and weakness alike lie in its sectional character;

"In seeking for a policy to assure honest administration of the government of the United States, we know our people will not turn to the party whose most recent and most outstanding achievement in this year of grace is the revealed grafting of twenty million dollars from a single city;

Says Demos Flout Law

"In seeking for a policy of law enforcement in the United States, we know our people will not turn to the party which maintains itself in the places of its power through nullification of two amendments to the constitution and which openly flouts a third;

"In seeking for a policy to assure honest election everywhere in the United States, we know our people will not turn to the party whose sole title to success has rested upon intimidation and the tissue ballot and which now rest upon the obliterated vote of four million American freemen;

Denounces Tammany

"And in seeking for an agency to carry forward the program of the social order in the United States, we know our people do not intend to throw our country within the tender embrace of Tammany Hall.

"We enter this campaign in no posture defense. We come upon the field aggressively militant. We intend to carry this fight to the enemy. And we challenge them to bring forth their strongest champion. Whether he emerge from another spectacle like the one-hundred-and-three-round battle of the Madison Bear garden, or whether he come from an overpowered convention held spell-bound by the glare of Tammany tiger, we are ready for him. Bring him on and we will bury him. We welcome him with hospitable hands to a bloody grave.

"We care not whether his name be Brown, Jones, Robinson or Smith."

G. O. P. GENIUS PUT TO TEST

Platform Framers Fail To Get Anywhere

KANSAS CITY, June 13. (AP)—Enunciation of Republican party doctrine on farm relief was high in the air tonight after much committee drudgery.

The job of framing a plank to meet all requirements of radically different views within the party on this subject was turned over to a sub-committee by the resolutions committee of the national convention last night. Tonight the sub-committee sent it back unsolved and a five-minute session resulted.

The entire committee then took up the subject with little prospect of an early agreement, but instead a strong possibility that the convention itself must fight its way out of the muddle of conflicting proposals in which its committee machinery has become snarled.

Fee Is Nub

The whole fight in the sub-committee revolved around the equalization fee, which led to two vetoes of the McNary-Haugen bill.

Proponents of such a declaration found reinforcements in the entire committee and promised to wage the fight long through the night, thus upsetting plans of convention leaders to take the platform up at a night session of the convention.

Those working for delay, and they included representatives from the middle and northwestern states, were given aid by the wets on the full committee who launched a fight against the Borah prohibition enforcement plank which was accepted by the sub-committee.

Such leaders of the wet forces as Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Columbia university, and former Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr., of New York took strong exception to the provision in the Borah plank calling the 18th amendment by name. They objected to such a declaration because it would place the party on record as endorsing a particular amendment to the constitution as above all others.

"Wet" Summoned

Soon after the entire committee went into session, former Senator Wadsworth appeared on the scene and summoned Senator-elect Vare of Pennsylvania, another wet leader and member of the resolutions committee, to whom he gave a wet plank with a request that fight for its adoption be made. It called for modification of the Volstead act.

Informed that the plank as agreed to by the sub-committee contained a direct reference to the 18th amendment, Dr. Butler stated that if this should be approved he would carry the wet and dry fight to the floor of the convention after the platform had been submitted.

A similar threat was made by proponents of a plank endorsing the principle of the McNary-Haugen bill if their views should not be met by the resolutions committee.

Tentative Draft Approved

Prediction that the fight over the relief plank would be transferred from the resolutions committee to the floor of the convention was made late in the day by Senator Borah.

Borah declared that the differences of opinion "ought to be settled in open convention in the face of the world."

Members of the committee said that the tentative draft made by the sub-committee had been approved down to the agricultural plank. This still left to come the fight over the prohibition enforcement declaration.

Cal's Fear of Future Historians Was Cause of "Holding Out," Writer Says

By JOHN T. LAMBERT
Universal Service

KANSAS CITY, June 13.—Now that the world and its brother knows that President Coolidge is determined to leave the White House on March 4, I have been asked to write the "inside story" of it all. This because of 15 years experience in reporting his official doings.

Well the "inside story" is as simple as any of the ten commandments.

Sincere Man

It is this: The president is a sincere man who means just what he says. All the mystery was caused by politicians who are not sincere, who do not mean what they say, and, consequently, figured that the president had purposely used the word "choose" to deceive and mislead the people in order that he might be drafted for four years more.

President Coolidge decided more than a year ago to retire upon the expiration of his term. You must bear in mind that he had been in the public service 20 years without a respite and in the presidency he found the most exacting and confining of all tasks.

The president has about as much privacy as a canary in a cage. These annual "vacations" are merely shifting the scene of the sightseers and gazers from Washington to some other section of the country. He wants first of all a complete vacation from the arduous work of serving in public office.

Mrs. Coolidge knew that he had decided to retire upon the completion of his term. She alone knew it, but not even she was aware that he had fixed August 2—the fourth anniversary of his assumption of the office—for the announcement of his decision not to run again.

Careful of History

No sooner was the announcement made than an army of "wise" politicians who view everything with astigmatic eyes began to interpret the statement as an adroit, double phrased bid for reelection.

The president is careful of history. He did not want the historian fifty or one hundred years hence to report that his decision not to run was based upon any fear that he could not be reelected.

So his "I do not choose" statement actually meant, "I could be renominated and could be reelected, but I do not choose to be renominated or reelected."

He had estimated that that announcement would relieve him from all consideration for the office. But he became aware that it did not. Some of his best friends joined the draft movement. He saw that it was necessary to put a stop to it and he decided to make a second announcement to the Republican national committee at Washington because they were the ladies and gentlemen upon whom would fall the task of nominating and electing his successor.

One has but to read the announcement made to them in the White House to realize his simple and straight course in the matter. He allowed to them the credit of having taken his announcement for granted. He did not concede that any honest politician had applied the double-meaning interpretation to his statement. In fact, the idea in his speech to the committee was this: "You have realized that I have decided not to run again and you have proceeded to the work of selecting my successor."

They Won the War And What Not, Is Gist of Keynote

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
Copyright 1928, by Universal Service

KANSAS CITY, June 13. — The states are popping into Hoover's bag like tiddlywinks into a high hat.

We can understand why Hoover wants to be president. But why does Dawes again want to be the White House caddy?

The only explanation for Dawes desiring another term is that he must have some tobacco left.

Curtis says he will fight to the finish.

He means from the finish. It was over last Monday.

Doctor Butler has made so many speeches that his teeth are getting to look like phonograph needles.

Which only leaves the Democrats the income tax and California sunsets.

There isn't an orator in the Republican party.

And there are too many in the Democratic.

Doc Butler's speeches have all been made in committee rooms. Now he threatens to carry the liquor fight to the floor.

Doc had better lay off. Way back in 1904 we carried a liquor fight to the floor and lost it.

Oklahoma Youth Gives Bond On Charge Here

T. R. Polly, arrested in Oklahoma several days ago and under a statutory charge, made bond of $1500 before Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwinn Wednesday morning after he had waived a preliminary hearing.

The charges against Polly were filed on June 2 by Gage McDermett and Dick Kenley, assistant district attorneys, following investigation.

Polly was arrested about a week later in Oklahoma and was returned to Wichita Falls after waiving requisition.

DENEEN SEEN AS CANDIDATE

Conqueror of Big Bill Thompson Boomed

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13. (UP)—Secretary Herbert Hoover, assured of his own presidential nomination in the Republican convention, refuses to meddle with the naming of his running mate.

As a result, the vice presidential bombs are bursting all over the place tonight and friends of Hoover are seeking a leader who will take hold on the situation and see that the head of the ticket has a teamfellow who will help and not hurt.

Foremost among the score or more candidates who directly or indirectly have thrust themselves into the vice presidential running is Senator Deneen of Illinois, recently victorious in a battle against Mayor William H. Thompson of Chicago, for control of government in Illinois.

He has not talked with Vice President Dawes—also strongly urged for renomination by his friends—it is stated by the senator's friends that he would be pleased to run with Hoover.

Deneen, a former governor of Illinois and enjoying support from the same quarters as Dawes—and some additional ones—has been more or less talked of for the vice presidential nomination ever since he won out in the recent Illinois battle.

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.—Adv.

'ER-ER' GIVEN AS DEFINITION

Damon Runyon's Story On Convention

Lillis was praying, giving rise to the rumor that he was repeating the prayer.

North Dakota Humor

One Mr. Norton of North Dakota lifted a small voice and asked Senator Fess for permission for Senator McMaster of South Dakota to address the convention pending the arrival of the belated Mrs. Willebrandt. McMaster is one of the stanchest of the supporters of the farmer and his interests in the senate, and Mr. Norton evidently thought he might have something to say that ought to be heard.

Senator Fess grinned ever so feebly at the very idea. Not many heard Norton's request anyway.

Meantime, outside the convention hall, the farmers were cutting up no little. Paper badges that read: "Agriculture," appeared.

They had with them a band arrayed in blue denim jumpers, which is supposed to typify the apparel of the farmer-man. The gate keepers peered at the assemblage, and sorrowfully shook their heads. "No tickee, no washee," they said.

So they commenced to march around and around the convention hall, the band playing a funeral dirge, presumably their ides of a swell musical setting for the Republican hopes if the grand old party doesn't give them a blank endorsing the McNary-Haugen bill.

Read Carefully Here

"Don't fool around much with that McNary-Haugen thing," cautioned young Mr. Roddan. "Nobody knows exactly what it's all about, and you'll only confuse your readers if you try to explain."

It seemed excellent advice, especially after a canvas of some of the other inmates of the press section on the question, "What's the McNary-Haugen thing about?"

"Why, it's about—er-er-er-er," was the general answer. The most powerful minds in the press section were quite discombobulated.

Then I had to try to learn what er-er-er-er is. It's too much work.

The McNary-Haugen bill, which has been twice passed by congress and twice vetoed by the president, seems to be clear enough to the horny fisted tillers of the soil, judging from the racket they are making about it.

The bill is designed to give the jolly farmer government aid in the complicated task of marketing his products, as near as I can come to it, which is an inch nearer than some of the politicians, at that.

A couple of hundred Pullman porters of various shades from a rich sepia tone to an anthracite black, joined the parade of the farmers around convention hall.

All Want Relief

Mr. Arthur "Bugs" Baer, the humorist, joined the parade, but whether he was parading with the porters or with the farmers, is a matter of conjectures. Mr. Baer wants relief. Everybody wants relief. You'd really be surprised.

The parading farmers are said to be from all parts of Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado and other western states. How they found time to get away from the duties of their farms long enough to do all that parading is not entirely clear. There was one farmer from Chicago, Ill. He is a side-walk farmer.

"If we don't get what we want here we're going to Houston to get it!" the farmers yelled.

I can assure them that they will get plenty of support in Houston from the New York Democrats, especially in the matter of parading, although a New York Democrat's idea of a farmer is somebody he can steer against a payoff.

The New Yorkers were disappointed. They thought the farmers would have hayseed in their hair. The farmers were disappointed, too. They thought the New Yorkers would be all wearing brown derbies, like Al Smith and have a lot of Follies girls with them.

Mrs. Willebrandt finally appeared on the platform at 11:45. She had been keeping the folks waiting three-quarters of an hour. She is a plump little lady, with brown hair ever so slightly tinged with gray, and with a complexion that showed old ivory under the kleigs.

Everything Confirmed

She wore a filmy black dress, with white edging at the sleeves, and a white collar, cut low enough to show her throat and a wedge of her chest. She has nice even white teeth, and a firm voice. It is not often a woman is chairman of a major committee at a national convention.

Her committee worked all night, what with a lot of contests and squabbles in the different delegations. The burden of her report seemed to be that her committee confirmed about everything the national committee did last week in seating Hoover delegates from the south.

The galleries were somewhat better filled than yesterday, but there were many empty seats, at that. A local newspaper printed a statement that spectators' seats were being quoted at $50 each. May be. But no one seems to be buying them.

Mrs. Willebrandt's voice held out well as she rambled through her long report.

Mr. Mellon propped his gray moustache up in his right hand, the forefinger against his cheek, and seemed to be day dreaming as Mrs. Willebrandt read on, and on. He looked up brightly as she concluded 'mid vague applause.

Mrs. Willebrandt moved the adoption of the report, whereupon Judge Daniel O. Hastings, of Delaware presented a minority report from the credentials committee, especially with reference to the Texans.

Judge Hastings said the minority report was put forward as a matter of law, more than anything else.

Legislative Rights

Some of the delegates favored by the majority report, he said, hadn't been selected in accordance with the custom of the grand old party. He didn't think a Democrat legislature in Texas had any right to make laws regulating the selection of Republican delegates. But while some of the delegates applauded his sentiments, others though they would go out and see the farmers about both propositions. The farmers have an idea that neither the rule of reason or right and justice are any part of the convention.

Mrs. Willebrandt was loaded to the muzzle for the judge, and when she got through answering him you got an idea that he was a pretty poor fish, at that, to be arguing with a lady.

A solid looking sunburned citizen whose name was disclosed as Tom O. Streissguth, of Minnesota, demanded permission to be heard on the reports of the committee. He was talking for the minority report, and he warned the folks what happened to the grand old party in 1912 after the Taft steam roller had flattened out a lot of citizens. There was in this crack the gentle inference that Mr. Streissguth had in mind a Hoover steam roller.

Senator Fess put the question of the adoption of the minority report first on what you call a yea and nay vote and the vocal outbursts made it appear that the noes had it by seven lengths.

Senator Fess said as much, but from all over the hall came the cry, "roll call! roll call!"

So Jawjah Is Polled

When Georgia was called, the vote was announced as six aye and 10 no. Up rose a dark gent bawling:

"Ah want the Jawjuh delegation polled!"

So the names of the Georgia delegates were called off one after the other.

"Benjamin Jefferson Davis," yelled the clerk.

"No" howled the dark gent.

Only two Georgians voted yea, and 14 no, showing that Benjamin Jefferson Davis knew his asparagus when he called for that poll. The convention laughed out loud.

Montana asked to be passed, but that wasn't allowed, so Montana drew a giggle by casting five and a half votes no, and five and a half yes.

New York's vote was a slight shock to the Hooverites with 59 for the minority report, and only 31 against it. The delegates cheered the announcement lustily.

Now Pennsylvania.

Meek Mr. Mellon

Mr. Mellon got up, as frosty looking as a chocolate sundae. There was some little applause. The convention likes Mr. Mellon, for all his apparent chill. His voice could scarcely be heard 10 feet away.

"Pennsylvania casts 79 votes no" he said very quietly. That's one delegation that carries no dimension or difference of opinion around with it.

"The important thing about this vote, is that it is a test on Hoover," remarked the youthful Mr. Ed Roddan, sitting next to me. "It'll show whether he has that 545 that he needs."

The vote was 676½ no and 395½ aye.

"Huh" was young Mr. Roddan's expressive manifestation on this Hooverian landslide.

Mrs. Willebrandt won her argument hands down.

The adoption of the majority report was then made unanimous and Senator Frederick Sackett, of Kentucky, presented the report of the committee on permanent organization. Senator Sackett spoke in rather a quavering voice. The committee, he said, recommended Senator George M. Moses, of New Hampshire as permanent chairman, but everybody knew that last night.

The committee also named 51 honorary vice-chairmen, one from each state and territory.

The report was adopted without dissent, and Senator Deneen, of Illinois, and Senator Gillett, of Massachusetts, were named by Senator Fess to escort Senator Moses to the platform, though he looked quite capable of finding his way there alone.

"He's known as the senate wisecracker," commented the politically wise Mr. Roddan.

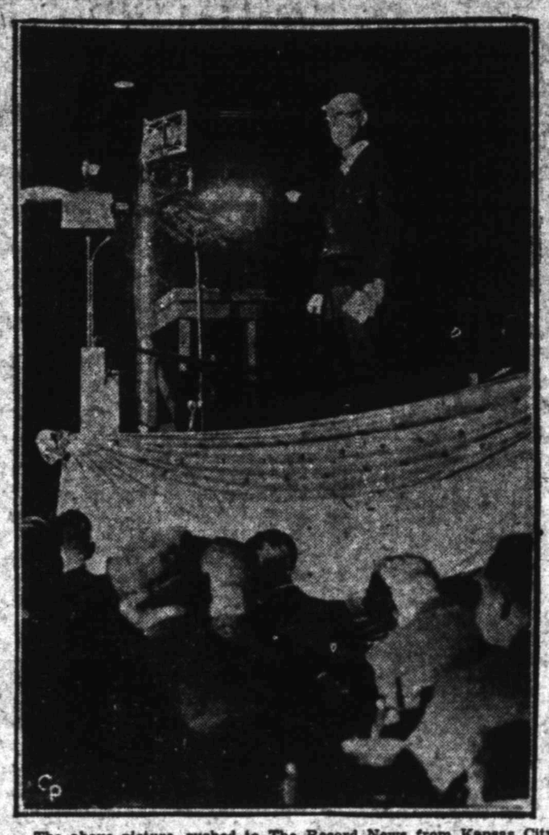

Senator Fess presented him as the best presiding officer he had ever known in the senate. Senator Fess then retired from the scene, somewhat limp, and obviously no little relieved, while Moses began booming at the assemblage.

A Royal Guy

DEMO CRITIC SMITES LADIES

Colorless Conclave, Says Press Box Writers

By EMILY NEWELL BLAIR
Vice Chairman of the Democratic National Committee

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13. (US)—Looking down in the convention from the press platform revealed the amazing discovery that we are the taupe-colored race—K.K.K., please take notice. The next discovery was that there were not enough women scattered among the delegates to give the field-like appearance of the 1924 convention. I refer, of course, to hats. Red is still popular.

Neglected Field

Women politicians ought to study this question of head gear. A red hat pleases the men and gives the wearer identity to the bystander.

A little gray-haired woman at the New York convention in 1924 in the Oklahoma delegation wore one so continuously that before the convention was over every newspaper writer and politician in the convention had her placed. I recall a magazine writer who at the same convention appeared every day in front of the platform in the same grass-green hat and dress.

A politician once said to me that women made such a mistake in carrying three names—Anna Howard Shaw, Carrie Chapman Catt, Maud Wood Park. A man knew it was all he could do to orient one name in the mind of the public. How, then, can a woman orient six hats in the minds of the persons she wants to remember her?

Need "Uniform"

Let us watch for the first women to adopt a political uniform. Alice Roosevelt has already solved the problem. Her hair better identifies her than any insignia or placard—of course, she does not bob it—and no one ever remembers what she wears. Which is no more an accident than her hatless appearances.

Am I cynical? I do not mean to be. Acquaintance is a great asset to any politician no matter how high his aims.

Am I trivial? Not intentionally. But sitting here in the "drip" of Mr. Fess' voice and watching the faces upturned to him, I can only offer the commentaries the scene evokes.

While watchfully waiting for women to perform and bosses to agree and the master voice to speak, why not give such advice as the occasion yields?

Methods Outworn

Is this Republican party so organized that the delegates do not need any more drama or appeal than this keynote speech to enliven it? When will these antiquated convention methods be brought up to date? Why this long, dull speech without epigram, praise or even apt word, delivered by a personality without color or texture when all that he said—the defense and the prospectus of the administration—is at the moment printed in the daily press awaiting only his final bow for distribution. If they have any historian, why not a Maurois or a Ludwig? If a prospectus-writer, why not a Florida real estate "model?"

Not a soul in the vast audience but could read the speech at home, or could hear it by radio lying on his couch. But not one would read it. Not many are listening. Why, then, make it? If they cannot put on an actor or capitalize a melodious voice, why not issue a statement to the press, or print it separately, and give the delegates a short call to arms, and get down to business?

The parade, which preceded the convention by a day, was an attempt and a fairly successful one, toward modern methods. It was an appeal to the movie-trained mind. Claiming the railroads, the steamship, and the electric are by means of miniatures and floats is at least less boring and, supported by the blare of bands and the glare of torches, does entertain the crowds.

As for the women, on the first day of the convention there is far less window dressing than in the previous one. One woman on the committee to escort Mr. Fess to the chair, Mrs. Leona Curtis Knight, daughter of the candidate-senator from Kansas who is herself a delegate from Rhode Island. That is all. Not even a spectacular placing of them upon the convention hall platform as in previous years.

"WE CHALLENGE 'THE ENEMY'S' STRONGEST CHAMPION," SAYS MOSES

CLAIMS PARTY IS AGGRESSIVE

Permanent Chairman Puts "Fire" Into Talk

KANSAS CITY, June 13. (AP)—Declaring the Republican party would not shirk its responsibility toward agriculture, Senator Moses of New Hampshire, as permanent chairman of the national convention, told the assembly today that the party would enter the campaign "in no posture of defense."

"We come up on the field aggressively militant," he said. "We intend to carry this fight to the enemy. And we challenge them to bring forth their strongest champion.

"The honor which you have conferred upon me is very great," the chairman began, "and I thank you for it. The duties which your generous actions lay upon me may prove to be difficult; but I hope to be able to perform them satisfactorily.

"We come now to the central and most important tasks for which we are assembled. First, we are to formulate a declaration of principles which will embody the essentials of Republicanism and with which we shall submit our cause to the people.

"Inevitably, in a party thoroughly national in its vision and contact as ours is, there will from time to time arise differences of opinion. This is by no means the first occasion when Republicans have found themselves at odds regarding a question of cardinal consequence as affecting party policy. Heretofore, we have succeeded always in settling our difficulties within our own ranks through that wise spirit of accommodation which must characterize a great and far flung organization like ours, upon which depends so much for the advance and prosperity of our country. So it will be now.

Praises Republicanism

"No one can doubt the essential sympathy with which the Republican party has always looked upon the great and diverse interests which make up the fabric of our national existence. This sympathetic view point has not changed. Agriculture and industry and the social order continue to be the prime objects of our solicitude, and in dealing with them the Republican party will not shirk its responsibility.

"We shall, however, now as always, chart our course within the limits of the constitution and within the operation of sound economic law.

"Half a century ago the Republican party stood firm against inflation through an intimidated issue of paper money—and the people stood with us then.

"A generation ago the Republic, an party stood firm against a debasement of our currency through the free coinage of silver—and the people stood with us then.

Republicans Are Firm

"Less than 10 years ago the Republican party stood firm against the surrender of our national sovereignty through minority membership in a foreign super-state—and the people then stood with us twice by majority of more than seven millions.

"So we shall stand firm again here and now—and in November the American people will again crown our courage and reward our sincerity in a victory as splendidly triumphant as any which we have ever achieved.

"Upon the platform which we shall thus reconstruct, we shall place a candidate whose personality fits our principles and the nation's present necessities. We are not barren of presidential timber. However our choice may fall, we know it will not rest in unworthy hands and that the leadership we shall here set up will assure to the country a Republican ascendancy which will endure for at least eight years more.

Five Million Reasons

"There are at least five million reasons why this must be so—because there are at least five million more Republicans than there are Democrats in this country. These millions united, as we know they will be when this convention has concluded its task, and joined by millions more to whom our candidates and our principles will appeal, will sweep on to an overwhelming victory at the polls.

"There is no occasion for the people to distrust our party and there is no occasion for our party to distrust the people. Their sober judgment will rest with us because—

"In seeking for a foreign policy for the United States we know our people will not turn to the party which conceived and nurtured the League of Nations;

Scorns Free Silver

"In seeking for a fiscal policy for the United States, we know our people will not turn to the party which advocated rag money and free silver;

"In seeking for an economic policy for the United States we know our people will not turn to the party which clings to the fetich of free trade;

"In seeking for a policy to make the tariff effective for every interest in the United States, we know our people will not turn to the party whose strength and weakness alike lie in its sectional character;

"In seeking for a policy to assure honest administration of the government of the United States, we know our people will not turn to the party whose most recent and most outstanding achievement in this year of grace is the revealed grafting of twenty million dollars from a single city;

Says Demos Flout Law

"In seeking for a policy of law enforcement in the United States, we know our people will not turn to the party which maintains itself in the places of its power through nullification of two amendments to the constitution and which openly flouts a third;

"In seeking for a policy to assure honest election everywhere in the United States, we know our people will not turn to the party whose sole title to success has rested upon intimidation and the tissue ballot and which now rest upon the obliterated vote of four million American freemen;

Denounces Tammany

G. O. P. GENIUS PUT TO TEST

Platform Framers Fail To Get Anywhere

KANSAS CITY, June 13. (AP)—Enunciation of Republican party doctrine on farm relief was high in the air tonight after much committee drudgery.

The job of framing a plank to meet all requirements of radically different views within the party on this subject was turned over to a sub-committee by the resolutions committee of the national convention last night. Tonight the sub-committee sent it back unsolved and a five-minute session resulted.

The entire committee then took up the subject with little prospect of an early agreement, but instead a strong possibility that the convention itself must fight its way out of the muddle of conflicting proposals in which its committee machinery has become snarled.

Fee Is Nub

The whole fight in the sub-committee revolved around the equalization fee, which led to two vetoes of the McNary-Haugen bill.

Proponents of such a declaration found reinforcements in the entire committee and promised to wage the fight long through the night, thus upsetting plans of convention leaders to take the platform up at a night session of the convention.

Those working for delay, and they included representatives from the middle and northwestern states, were given aid by the wets on the full committee who launched a fight against the Borah prohibition enforcement plank which was accepted by the sub-committee.

Such leaders of the wet forces as Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Columbia university, and former Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr., of New York took strong exception to the provision in the Borah plank calling the 18th amendment by name. They objected to such a declaration because it would place the party on record as endorsing a particular amendment to the constitution as above all others.

"Wet" Summoned

Soon after the entire committee went into session, former Senator Wadsworth appeared on the scene and summoned Senator-elect Vare of Pennsylvania, another wet leader and member of the resolutions committee, to whom he gave a wet plank with a request that fight for its adoption be made. It called for modification of the Volstead act.

Informed that the plank as agreed to by the sub-committee contained a direct reference to the 18th amendment, Dr. Butler stated that if this should be approved he would carry the wet and dry fight to the floor of the convention after the platform had been submitted.

A similar threat was made by proponents of a plank endorsing the principle of the McNary-Haugen bill if their views should not be met by the resolutions committee.

Tentative Draft Approved

Prediction that the fight over the relief plank would be transferred from the resolutions committee to the floor of the convention was made late in the day by Senator Borah.

Borah declared that the differences of opinion "ought to be settled in open convention in the face of the world."

Members of the committee said that the tentative draft made by the sub-committee had been approved down to the agricultural plank. This still left to come the fight over the prohibition enforcement declaration.

Cal's Fear of Future Historians Was Cause of "Holding Out," Writer Says

By JOHN T. LAMBERT
Universal Service

KANSAS CITY, June 13.—Now that the world and its brother knows that President Coolidge is determined to leave the White House on March 4, I have been asked to write the "inside story" of it all. This because of 15 years experience in reporting his official doings.

Well the "inside story" is as simple as any of the ten commandments.

Sincere Man

It is this: The president is a sincere man who means just what he says. All the mystery was caused by politicians who are not sincere, who do not mean what they say, and, consequently, figured that the president had purposely used the word "choose" to deceive and mislead the people in order that he might be drafted for four years more.

President Coolidge decided more than a year ago to retire upon the expiration of his term. You must bear in mind that he had been in the public service 20 years without a respite and in the presidency he found the most exacting and confining of all tasks.

The president has about as much privacy as a canary in a cage. These annual "vacations" are merely shifting the scene of the sightseers and gazers from Washington to some other section of the country. He wants first of all a complete vacation from the arduous work of serving in public office.

Mrs. Coolidge knew that he had decided to retire upon the completion of his term. She alone knew it, but not even she was aware that he had fixed August 2—the fourth anniversary of his assumption of the office—for the announcement of his decision not to run again.

Careful of History

No sooner was the announcement made than an army of "wise" politicians who view everything with astigmatic eyes began to interpret the statement as an adroit, double obrassed bid for reelection.

The president is careful of history. He did not want the historian fifty or one hundred years hence to report that his decision not to run was based upon any fear that he could not be reelected.

So, his "I do not choose" statement actually meant, "I could be renominated and could be reelected, but I do not choose to be renominated or reelected."

He had estimated that that announcement would relieve him from all consideration for the office. But he became aware that it did not. Some of his best friends joined the draft movement. He saw that it was necessary to put a stop to it and he decided to make a second announcement to the Republican national committee at Washington because they were the ladies and gentlemen upon whom would fall the task of nominating and electing his successor.

One has but to read the announcement made to them in the White House to realize his simple and straight course in the matter.

He allowed to them the credit of having taken his announcement for granted. He did not concede that any honest politician had applied the double-meaning interpretation to his statement. In fact, the idea in his speech to the committee was this: "You have realized that I have decided not to run again and you have proceeded to the work of selecting my successor."

They Won the War And What Not, Is Gist of Keynote

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

KANSAS CITY, June 13. — The states are popping into Hoover's bag like tiddlywinks into a high hat.

We can understand why Hoover wants to be president. But why does Dawes again want to be the White House caddy?

The only explanation for Dawes desiring another term is that he must have some tobacco left.

Curtis says he will fight to the finish.

He means from the finish. It was over last Monday.

The clover kickers paraded down Main street.

They can if they are farmers.

Doctor Butler has made so many speeches that his teeth are getting to look like phonograph needles.

Summing up the keynote speech we find that the Republicans claim credit for Lindbergh's flight, Eskimo Ice Cream, silk stockings, winning the war, prosperous non-employment, protective tariff, Babe Ruth's batting, prohibition and Mike Angelo's paintings.

Which only leaves the Democrats the income tax and California sunsets.

There isn't an orator in the Republican party.

And there are too many in the Democratic.

Doc Butler's speeches have all been made in committee rooms. Now he threatens to carry the liquor fight to the floor.

Doc had better lay off. Way back in 1904 we carried a liquor fight to the floor and lost it.

Oklahoma Youth Gives Bond On Charge Here

T. R. Polly, arrested in Oklahoma several days ago and under a statutory charge, made bond of $1500 before Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwinn Wednesday morning after he had waived a preliminary hearing.

The charges against Polly were filed on June 2 by Gare McDermett and Dick Kenley, assistant district attorneys, following investigation.

Polly was arrested about a week later in Oklahoma and was returned to Wichita Falls after waiving requisition.

DENEEN SEEN AS CANDIDATE

Conqueror of Big Bill Thompson Boomed

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13. (UP)—Secretary Herbert Hoover, assured of his own presidential nomination in the Republican convention, refuses to meddle with the naming of his running mate.

As a result, the vice presidential bombs are bursting all over the place tonight and friends of Hoover are seeking a leader who will take hold on the situation and see that the head of the ticket has a teamfellow who will help and not hurt.

Foremost among the score or more candidates who directly or indirectly have thrust themselves into the vice presidential running is Senator Deneen of Illinois, recently victorious in a battle against Mayor William H. Thompson of Chicago, for control of government in Illinois.

He has not talked with Vice President Dawes—also strongly urged for renomination by his friends—it is stated by the senator's friends that he would be pleased to run with Hoover.

Deneen, a former governor of Illinois and enjoying support from the same quarters as Dawes—and some additional ones—has been more or less talked of for the vice presidential nomination ever since he won out in the recent Illinois battle.

When Pain Comes
Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"ER-ER" GIVEN AS DEFINITION

Lillis was praying, giving rise to the rumor that he was repeating the prayer.

North Dakota Humor

One Mr. Norton of North Dakota lifted a small voice and asked Senator Fess for permission for Senator McMaster of South Dakota to address the convention pending the arrival of the belated Mrs. Willebrandt. McMaster is one of the staunchest of the supporters of the farmer and his interests in the senate, and Mr. Norton evidently thought he might have something to say that ought to be heard.

Senator Fess grinned ever so feebly at the very idea. Not many heard Norton's request anyway.

Meantime, outside the convention hall, the farmers were cutting up no little. Paper badges that read: "Agriculture," appeared.

They had with them a band arrayed in blue denim jumpers, which is supposed to typify the apparel of the farmer-man. The gate keepers peered at the assemblage, and sorrowfully shook their heads. "No tickee, no washee," they said.

So they commenced to march around and around the convention hall, the band playing a funeral dirge, presumably their idea of a swell musical setting for the Republican hopes if the grand old party doesn't give them a blank endorsing the McNary-Haugen bill.

Read Carefully Here

"Don't fool around much with that McNary-Haugen thing," cautioned young Mr. Roddan. "Nobody knows exactly what it's all about, and you'll only confuse your readers if you try to explain."

It seemed excellent advice, especially after a canvas of some of the other inmates of the press section on the question, "What's the McNary-Haugen thing about?"

"Why, it's about—er-er-er-er," was the general answer. The most powerful minds in the press section were quite discombobulated.

Then I had to try to learn what er-er-er-er is. It's too much work.

The McNary-Haugen bill, which has been twice passed by congress and twice vetoed by the president, seems to be clear enough to the horny fisted tillers of the soil, judging from the racket they are making about it.

The bill is designed to give the jolly farmer government aid in the complicated task of marketing his products, as near as I can come to it, which is an inch nearer than some of the politicians, at that.

A couple of hundred Pullman porters of various shades from a rich sepia tone to an anthracite black, joined the parade of the farmers around convention hall.

All Want Relief

Mr. Arthur "Bugs" Baer, the humorist, joined the parade, but whether he was parading with the porters or with the farmers, is a matter of conjecture. Mr. Baer wants relief. Everybody wants relief. You'd really be surprised.

The parading farmers are said to be from all parts of Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado and other western states. How they found time to get away from the duties of their farms long enough to do all that parading is not entirely clear. There was one farmer from Chicago, Ill. He is a side-walk farmer.

"If we don't get what we want here we're going to Houston to get it!" the farmers yelled.

I can assure them that they will get plenty of support in Houston from the New York Democrats, especially in the matter of parading. Although a New York Democrat's idea of a farmer is somebody he can steer against a payoff.

The New Yorkers were disappointed. They thought the farmers would have hayseed in their hair. The farmers were disappointed, too. They thought the New Yorkers would be all wearing brown derbies, like Al Smith and have a lot of Follies girls with them.

Mrs. Willebrandt finally appeared on the platform at 11:45. She had been keeping the folks waiting three-quarters of an hour. She is a plump little lady, with brown hair ever so slightly tinged with gray, and with a complexion that showed old ivory under the klieg.

Everything Confirmed

She wore a filmy black dress, with white edging at the sleeves, and a white collar, cut low enough to show her throat and a wedge of her chest. She has nice even white teeth, and a firm voice. It is not often a woman is chairman of a major committee at a national convention.

Her committee worked all night, what with a lot of contests, and squabbles in the different delegations. The burden of her report seemed to be that her committee confirmed about everything the national committee did last week in seating Hoover delegates from the south.

The galleries were somewhat better filled than yesterday, but there were many empty seats, at that. A local newspaper printed a statement that spectators' seats were being quoted at $50 each. May be. But no one seems to be buying them.

Mrs. Willebrandt's voice held out well as she rambled through her long report.

Mr. Mellon propped his gray moustache up in his right hand, the forefinger against his cheek, and seemed to be day dreaming as Mrs. Willebrandt read on, and on. He looked up brightly as she concluded 'mid vague applause.

Mrs. Willebrandt moved the adoption of the report, whereupon Judge Daniel O. Hastings, of Delaware presented a minority report from the credentials committee, especially with reference to the Texans.

Judge Hastings said the minority report was put forward as a matter of law, more than anything else.

Legislative Rights

Some of the delegates favored by the majority report, he said, hadn't been selected in accordance with the custom of the grand old party. He didn't think a Democrat legislature in Texas had any right to make laws regulating the selection of Republican delegates. But while some of the delegates applauded his sentiments, others though they would go out and see the farmers about both propositions. The farmers have an idea that neither the rule of reason or right and justice are any part of the convention.

Mrs. Willebrandt was loaded to the muzzle for the judge, and when she got through answering him you got an idea that he was a pretty poor fish, at that, to be arguing with a lady.

A solid looking sunburned citizen whose name was disclosed as Tom O. Streisaguth, of Minnesota, demanded permission to be heard on the reports of the committee. He was talking for the minority report, and he warned the folks what happened to the grand old party in 1912 after the Taft steam roller had flattened out a lot of citizens. There was in this crack the gentle inference that Mr. Streisguth had in mind a Hoover steam roller.

Senator Fess put the question of the adoption of the minority report first on what you call a yea and nay vote and the vocal outbursts made it appear that the noes had it by seven lengths.

Senator Fess said as much, but from all over the hall came the cry, "roll call! roll call!"

So Jawjah Is Polled

When Georgia was called, the vote was announced as six aye and 10 no. Up rose a dark gent bawling:

"Ah want the Jawjuh delegation polled!"

So the names of the Georgia delegates were called off one after the other.

"Benjamin Jefferson Davis," yelled the clerk.

"No" howled the dark gent.

Only two Georgians voted yea, and 14 no, showing that Benjamin Jefferson Davis knew his asparagus when he called for that poll. The convention laughed out loud.

Montana asked to be passed, but that wasn't allowed, so Montana drew a giggle by casting five and a half votes no, and five and a half yea.

New York's vote was a slight shock to the Hooverites with 59 for the minority report, and only 31 against it. The delegates cheered the announcement lustily.

Now Pennsylvania.

Meek Mr. Mellon

Mr. Mellon got up, as frosty looking as a chocolate sundae. There was some little applause. The convention likes Mr. Mellon, for all his apparent chill. His voice could scarcely be heard 10 feet away.

"Pennsylvania casts 79 votes no" he said very quietly. That's one delegation that carries no dissension or difference of opinion around with it.

"The important thing about this vote, is that it is a test on Hoover," remarked the youthful Mr. Ed Roddan, sitting next to me. "It'll show whether he has that 54s that he needs."

The vote was 676½ no and 395½ aye.

"Huh" was young Mr. Roddan's expressive manifestation on this Hooverian landslide.

Mrs. Willebrandt won her argument hands down.

The adoption of the majority report was then made unanimous and Senator Frederick Sackett, of Kentucky, presented the report of the committee on permanent organization. Senator Sackett spoke in rather a quavering voice. The committee, he said, recommended Senator George M. Moses, of New Hampshire as permanent chairman, but everybody knew that last night.

The committee also named 51 honorary vice-chairmen, one from each state and territory.

The report was adopted without dissent, and Senator Deneen, of Illinois, and Senator Gillett, of Massachusetts, were named by Senator Fess to escort Senator Moses to the platform, though he looked quite capable of finding his way there alone.

"He's known as the senate wisecracker," commented the politically wise Mr. Roddan.

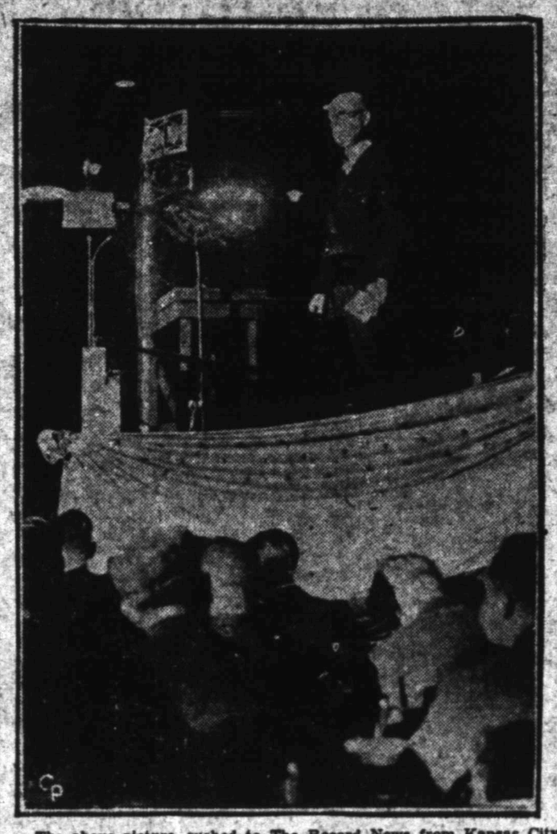

Senator Fess presented him as the best presiding officer he had ever known in the senate. Senator Fess then retired from the scene, somewhat limp, and obviously no little relieved, while Moses began booming at the assemblage.

DEMO CRITIC SMITES LADIES

Colorless Conclave, Says Press Box Writers

By EMILY NEWELL BLAIR
Vice Chairman of the Democratic National Committee

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13. (US)—Looking down in the convention from the press platform revealed the amazing discovery that we are the taupe-colored race—K.K.K., please take notice. The next discovery was that there were not enough women scattered among the delegates to give the field-like appearance of the 1924 convention. I refer, of course, to hats. Red is still popular.

Neglected Field

Women politicians ought to study this question of head gear. A red hat pleases the men and gives the wearer identity to the bystander.

A little gray-haired woman at the New York convention in 1924 in the Oklahoma delegation wore one so continuously that before the convention was over every newspaper writer and politician in the convention had her placed. I recall a magazine writer who at the same convention appeared every day in front of the platform in the same grass-green hat and dress.

A politician once said to me that women made such a mistake in carrying three names—Anna Howard Shaw, Carrie Chapman Catt, Maud Wood Park. A man knew it was all he could do to orient one name in the mind of the public. How, then, can a woman orient six hats in the minds of the persons she wants to remember her?

Need "Uniform"

Let us watch for the first women to adopt a political uniform. Alice Roosevelt has already solved the problem. Her hair better identifies her than any insignia or placard—of course, she does not bob it—and no one ever remembers what she wears. Which is no more an accident than her hatless appearances.

Am I cynical? I do not mean to be. Acquaintance is a great asset to any politician no matter how high his aims.

Am I trivial? Not intentionally. But sitting here in the "drip" of Mr. Fess' voice and watching the faces upturned to him, I can only offer the commentaries the scene evokes.

While watchfully waiting for women to perform and bosses to agree and the master voice to speak, why not give such advice as the occasion yields?

Methods Outworn

Is this Republican party so organized that the delegates do not need any more drama or appeal than this keynote speech to enliven it? When will these antiquated convention methods be brought up to date? Why this long, dull speech without epigram, praise or even apt word, delivered by a personality without color or texture when all that he said—the defense and the prospectus of the administration—is at the moment printed in the daily press awaiting only his final bow for distribution. If they have any historian, why not a Maurois or a Ludwig? If a prospectus-writer, why not a Florida real estate "model?"

Not a soul in the vast audience but could read the speech at home, or could hear it by radio lying on his couch. But not one would read it. Not many are listening. Why, then, make it? If they cannot put on an actor or capitalize a melodious voice, why not issue a statement to the press, or print it separately, and give the delegates a short call to arms, and get down to business?

The parade, which preceded the convention by a day, was an attempt and a fairly successful one, toward modern methods. It was an appeal to the movie-trained mind. Claiming the railroads, the steamship, and the electric age by means of miniatures and floats is at least less boring and, supported by the blare of bands and the glare of torches, does entertain the crowds.

As for the women, on the first day of the convention there is far less window dressing than in the previous one. One woman on the committee to escort Mr. Fess to the chair, Mrs. Leona Curtis Knight, daughter of the candidate-senator from Kansas who is herself a delegate from Rhode Island. That is all. Not even a spectacular placing of them upon the convention hall platform as in previous years.

Police Guard Hoover's Home

By CLINTON COFFIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 13. (AP)—A temporary lull developed today in the swirl of activities that has centered around Secretary Hoover since his nomination for president at Kansas City became probable.

Early in the morning, George E. Akerson, of his secretarial staff, returned to Washington from the convention scene and was closeted immediately with his chief. Stacks of telegrams of congratulations, coming in advance of the convention's nomination proceedings were received, but Mr. Hoover determinedly refused to regard himself yet a presidential candidate.

His expert staff familiar by long practice with the job, fended off all attacks on his privacy whether by photographers, newspaper reporters or would-be callers. He spent the day as he has spent his previous days within his private office at the commerce department, though a big radio set in an adjoining room and an open telephone line to Kansas City were maintained in service to keep him in touch with the convention's progress.

The Washington police department took cognizance of the approaching situation far enough to station a detail of officers around the Hoover residence in Washington, a precaution usual for the protection of celebrated personages in the capital.

The Social Side—Wichita Falls' Woman's Interests—Clubs and Churches

Members of Junior Forum Will Offer Scholarship at College

A scholarship to be known as the Junior Forum scholarship, was voted on as the principal business to be taken up in the business meeting of the club when it men for luncheon at the Woman's Forum Wednesday. The scholarship will pay a year's tuition at the Junior college for any worthy girl whose scholastic standing and character warrant the award, according to members of the organization. The girl need not be a member of the Junior Forum, though such a member would be given a preference.

Another item of interest taken up concerned the bridge tournament which will be given at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the clubhouse, as a benefit to aid in raising funds for the scholarship award. Prizes have been purchased and plans are under way to prepare for a large attendance at the tourney.

The luncheon table was prettily decorated with a profusion of gladioli and ferns. Sponsors were: Mrs. Claude B. Woods, Mrs. Darrold Kahn, Mrs. P. P. Langford and Mrs. R. H. Delaney.

Members present were: Misses Virgie Mae Adams, Margaret Hines, Jane Adams, Rose Marion Art, Camille Avis, Wilma Brown, Anita Crocker, Louise Carpenter, Mary Louise Clark, Mary Elizabeth Donnell, Matilda Donnell, Mary Delaney, Peggy Durkin, Zona Marie Elhert, Dorothy Everts, Mildred Gildhouse, Elizabeth Gilbert, Mary Ellen Hines, Lorraine Hambrick, Elizabeth Langford, Lida Lea, Harriett Peterson, Elizabeth Smith, Mildred Sherrod, Cecilia Carroll, Mary Tancred, Evelyn Trimble, Spencer Merle Whatley, Corrine Tucker, Joline Woods, Imogene Willis, and the following guests: Miss Lillyan Morris of Beaumont, Miss Marion Harrington of Fort Worth and Miss Wilma Parham of Dallas.

Mrs. Lindley Hostess At Weeks Park

Mrs. W. E. Lindley was hostess to members of the Ladies' Golf club of Weeks park, at the regular weekly session of games and luncheon at the club house Wednesday.

Mrs. G. C. Biggs won high score award: Mrs. J. C. Thompson, second high, and Mrs. Earl Parmer, guest prize.

Members and guests present were as follows: Mesdames Biggs, W. C. Duncan, A. P. Terrill, D. A. Lundien, T. E. Bower, T. B. Bauer, Pearl Parmer, J. C. Thompson, O. R. Jeffers, C. F. Greene, R. C. Lipscomb, R. R. Fisk, E. D. Steward, M. D. Bolton, H. H. Brown and the hostess.

COULD NOT RELISH A MEAL

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Gave Her Strength

King City, Mo.—"For seven months before my baby was born I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was able to do my own work and to eat heartily where before I was always sickly and could not relish a meal. Congratulations to the Vegetable Compound, as it is the best tonic I ever took. I have given birth to seven children before this, losing all of them, not being able for some reason to carry them to their full times. I hope this letter will help others to use this tonic."—Mrs. A. L. Clevenger, Box 854, King City, Missouri.

STRICKEN SUDDENLY

Almost daily we hear of it—the story of some man, probably a friend, suddenly cut off in the midst of his usefulness, in the very prime of life. That's what high blood pressure and heart trouble will do—snap off life without warning. All due to our abnormal living habits which put too great a strain upon the vital organs, especially the liver.

The liver becoming weak and sluggish fails to cleanse the blood of the poisons formed in food waste. The whole system then becomes toxic, with stomach, kidneys, heart and blood vessels affected.

The liver, especially at middle life, needs a little help, and there's nothing better for this, as physicians today know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall is a great natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning, so essential to health and vitality. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing ten drops of pure ox gall. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and one or two days' use will prove a revelation. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, ask for Dioxol.

Free Test Take this ad to the druggist named below and he will give you a free sample of Dioxol tablets. Try them yourself. See the splendid, quick results. One trial of Dioxol and you will want a full package!

NINE SCHOLARSHIPS

The total of Junior college scholarships was brought to nine Wednesday, when N. H. Martin gave a $90 award by which a deserving student may attend the Junior college without paying tuition, according to a statement made by W. R. Chauncey, president of the school board.

Other scholarships previously announced were given by the following: W. B. Chauncey, W. B. McClurkan and company, J. J. Perkins, W. M. Moore, the Kiwanis club, Mr. and Mrs. John Hirschi, W. M. McGregor, and the Junior Forum.

Ramblin'

with

Marie Theresa

WE HEAR so much of the modern young girl—the 'teen age girl who is casting about in the wilderness of her new freedom, with nothing but a labyrinth of conflicting teachings and desires to guide her, that when we learn that she is really a thinking young individual with an aim, and what's more, a brain, we marvel.

Members of the Junior Forum, which takes in a group of 55 young girls from Wichita Falls homes, demonstrated clearly that they have an aim and purpose in life, Wednesday, when at their luncheon at the Woman's Forum, they voted to offer a Junior Forum scholarship to the junior college, this coming fall, to a girl of high scholarship and exemplary character. The girl shall be preferably a member of the Junior Forum, but need not be.

At the recent biennial of Women's Federated Clubs held in San Antonio, a session was held for the younger members in club work. The aim of all the 20 Junior Forum clubs represented in that session, from states in all parts of the country, was the ideal of instituting a scholarship for some worthy girl—the ideal of investing in youth, in other words. Some of the clubs had already succeeded to the goal sought, while others were casting about for sufficient means, or "nerve" to "put it over." (These kids will use slang). When delegates from the Wichita Falls group arrived home, the urge to offer a scholarship had an impetus in the call for junior college scholarships. And now there is a Junior Forum scholarship.

ONLY one club, the Detroit club represented in San Antonio, was larger than the local group. The Detroit organization is six years old, has a paid up membership of 125 members, and they regretted the giving of $50 to the senior organization! Miss Joline Woods, who gave the report from the local Junior Forum, spoke of a 55 membership club which had made during the year $1065 and had paid $600 on the piano for the clubhouse, with never a fear but that the payments on the clubhouse piano would be met!

The Junior Forum will sponsor a bridge tournament at the clubhouse at 2:30 o'clock, Thursday afternoon, as the first public social event to be planned by them as a benefit. Lovely prizes have been purchased and elaborate plans are being made to entertain a record crowd, members say.

MORE grief. High heels result in a shapely calf and do much toward preventing a breakdown of the arches, declares Dr. H. Ryberg, chairman of the scientific committee of the California State Association of Chiropodists, at the annual convention of that association, held in San Francisco recently.

This in direct contradiction to the many expressions of the opinion that high heels are the cause of breaking down of arches and the fear that women would in future generations, develop through the wearing of high heels, a deformed calf.

What are we of the concerned sex to do? Keep shifting from extreme to extreme to keep abreast of the changing opinions on that question? I hope not—that would result in all sorts of foot ailments, and I do hope that the sisters will learn what is good for their particular feet, and stay with it, despite the various conflicting opinions. This column won't be held responsible for what happens if the shift from low to high is made too promiscuously.

DR. NAT F. GRAFTON, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, had the supreme privilege of rendering unto the third generation a kindness or a series of kindnesses extended him by a minister when he himself was beginning the work in which he has so well succeeded.

Tuesday evening when Grady Snuzes presented himself as candidate to enter the clergy of the church, following the organization of the new Presbytery and Presbyterial, Doctor Grafton saw more than an earnest youth before him—he saw the grandson of the man who had been a source of encouragement and inspiration to him when, as a young man, he first entered into the work of the church.

Golf Association Changes Schedule

The Women's Golf association of the Country club will begin Thursday with the summer schedule of games and breakfast. Games will begin at 7:30 o'clock. Thursday morning and breakfast will be served at the clubhouse at 9:30 o'clock.

Electra Musicians To Attend C-C Convention

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, June 13.—Seven boy musicians from Electra will accompany the Gateway band of Iowa Park when that organization leaves for Fort Worth next week to attend the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention. They are Learry King, Theo Cheaney, Flynn Cheaney, Sam McBride, Raymond Bradley, Willie Brown and Ben Rippy.

Flynn Cheaney and Raymond Bradley are members of the Texas Aggie band of the A. & M. college, of which the boys were students last year.

Milady's Attire for New Season Has Plenty of "It"

By MADELON
New York Fashion Observer

NEW YORK, June 13.—Of course style always was, and will be, governed to the largest extent by individual preference. General trends will establish certain standards; but the well dressed woman will always adapt to herself an individuality in clothing.

The season's mode indicates a marked reaction toward the distinctly feminine in attire. The clothes one sees worn by the smartest matrons and misses in Park and Fifth avenue have "It." This femininity can be expressed in many ways, in accordance with the individual preference mentioned above. To one woman dainty working of fabrics will achieve the effect. Another will require frills and furbelows, and still another richness of fabric. Always the personality and individuality of the wearer must be regarded.

The three dresses illustrated here are typical of the new mode. Each is different in every respect, and yet all truly represent the new feminism in attire.

The model on the left is a two-piece frock of canton crepe. The skirt is attached to a bodice top and pleated at the front. The blouse is distinguished by hand fagotting. The vest is embroidered in a modernistic design. It is an ultra-modern and ultra-chic creation.

Airy grace and pleasing sprightliness are suggested by the center model, of flowered design. It is, of course, intended for afternoon wear. The deep collar is edged with lace, as are the side panels, which give it an uneven hemline.

The model at the right is best described as one of intricate simplicity. Slender tabs, in two lengths, hang from the waist of this georgette frock, lending graceful movement to the skirt. A dainty jabot collar and cuffs are introduced in contrasting color. A jeweled ornament is employed at the waist and neckline.

Walther League Thanks Press For Publicity On Convention

Wichita Falls, Texas, June 12, 1928.

Whereas, the Wichita Daily Times and the Wichita Falls Record News gave our convention generous space in writing up the convention's progress,

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, that the convention express its grateful appreciation for the splendid publicity given us by these newspapers and that a copy of this resolution be submitted to each of these two papers.

Respectfully,
LONE STAR DISTRICT WALTHER LEAGUE
By MITA ISENHOWER, Secretary.

Kansas Visitor Honor Guest At Bridge Tuesday

Mrs. Lee J. Wilmeth was hostess at bridge Tuesday afternoon at her home on Westlake drive, complimentary to Mrs. T. E. Bauer of Topeka, Kan., sister and guest of Mrs. D. A. Lundien.

High score in the games was won by Mrs. Lundien, who was awarded a rose-colored taffeta floor pillow; Mrs. L. N. Hays received second high score prize, an orchid bow with a white lady statue in the center, while Mrs. Bauer was presented with the guest prize, an embroidered vanity set.

Dainty refreshments were served to Mesdames Bauer, Lundien, Stanley Granger, Earl Parmer, Dorothy Fox, Jack Grimes, C. A. Stuckey, Gambill, Loran Taylor, E. H. Noe, E. D. Steward, I. E. Silkwood, Orville Carrico, L. N. Hays, H. H. Brown and the hostess.

Straw Hats Worn With Overcoats Year Around

MEXICO CITY, June 13. (AP)—Straw hats and overcoats, either or both, together or separately, are worn the year around in Mexico City, according to individual taste.

There is no fixed date for commencing to wear straws, no dead line when they must be abandoned. More straws are worn in the summer than in the winter, but there are plenty of men here wearing straws on Christmas day, and every day of the year. There are others who never change from a felt.

Miss America Weds

"Miss America of 1925," Miss Fay Lanphier, of California, has joined the ranks of beauty contestants who have married since winning pulchritude laurels. She is the bride of Sidney Spiegel Jr., of Chicago. Their engagement was kept secret for a year.

CHIC CHERIE

Dina is talking. She usually is. What's more she is talking about Ernest. "He's so sweet," she says to Cherie, and much more of the same sort. Which explains why Cherie is still wearing her nightgown of printed silk and why Dina is still in her pajamas of pink crepe trimmed with points of lace. Of course she's going to marry Ernest, but—

"And he has such an original mind," she continues, and by this time she has got herself into a

"He is so sympathetic about my career," Dina babbles on, having jammed her hat on with a disrespect no one should be allowed to offer a felt hat with little stars sewed in raffia. Cherie is settling her green felt cloche with its band of cire ribbon at the correct angle and is unable to reply—which perhaps is just as well for the general good.

"Really, Dina," Ernest is saying, "I should think you might get down something less than an hour late"— and we'll tactfully refrain from repeating any more of the conversation. Dina's ensemble is of a rough washable crepe, Cherie's is of rose and green shantung—because Summer is here and light silk ensembles are the sort of thing one wears in June.

dance set of flesh colored gloves silk with a yoke, back and front, on the panties, and lace trimming on both panties and brassiere. Listening is more strenuous than talking, which explains way Cherie has only managed to get her vest and garter belt on.

Members of D. O. D. Class Entertained At Party Wednesday

The D. O. D. Bible class of the First Methodist church was entertained at the home of Mrs. T. H. Lawson, 1825 Huff, Wednesday afternoon, when the following members were joint hostesses: Mesdames H. F. Spaker, H. K. Roberts and E. H. Yager.

The house was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and a profusion of ferns. Mrs. J. Milton Erwin, president of the class, presided over a brief business session.

Entertainment members were given by Mrs. W. T. Knight and children, Billy and Mary Ruth, who played orchestra numbers; a vocal solo by Margaret Leo Yager, a group of readings by Miss Ella Merle Mathis, and guessing contests in which all members participated.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mesdames T. M. Muirhead, D. A. Parker, F. A. Rinehart, Edgar Haney, Mattie Jaco, A. M. Moseley, Erwin, C. E. Huffman, A. C. Parker, J. D. Kilgore, Myrtle Montgomery, A. J. Christal, Dan Hardy, H. F. Robertson, R. L. Underwood, T. H. Peery, B. P. Arwood, J. H. Bentley, L. G. Childs, T. A. Baggett, Leon Keebie, R. T. Sloan, J. A. Remington, A. J. Sullins, J. A. Tinsley, C. B. Haynie, G. D. Hall, W. S. Douglas and Mrs. Knight and children.

Aviators Unhurt When Planes Crash in Air

GALVESTON, Texas, June 13. (AP)—Lieut. Lloyd H. Tull and Cadet Leland C. Brown, both members of the Kelly field advanced flying school contingent which is here for bombing and gunnery practice, escaped death by a narrow margin when their pursuit ships crashed head-on at an altitude of 100 feet here today.

Lieut. Tull suffered injuries about the chest while Brown received only minor cuts about the head.

Presbyterial Completes Meet Here Wednesday

Leftover business was taken up Wednesday morning by members of the new presbyterial, organized Tuesday evening at the First Presbyterian church.

Mrs. King of Electra was made secretary of young people's work; Mrs. B. B. Woodall of Wichita Falls was made secretary of senior and intermediate Christian Endeavor, and Mrs. J. A. Birdsong of Vernon was elected corresponding secretary, thus filling the three offices left vacant at the end of the organization Tuesday.

Modern Girl Cannot Expect Help in Business of 'Getting Man'

Every Woman Knows That Heaven Helps Those Who Help Themselves to Get Husbands—Yet the Modern Girl Must "Get Her Man" Without Being Either a Modest Violet or a Husband Chaser.

There is no question that puzzles the young woman of today more than trying to decide just how much of the love-making she should do. She perceives that Heaven helps those who help themselves to get husbands, yet she does not wish to appear as a man-chaser. She may know by the pricking of her thumbs and certain other occult and esoteric signs, that some man is in a sentimental and marrying mood in which any woman who is a fast worker can get him, but she doesn't know just how far she should go in putting the good thought upon him, that since he must love somebody, it might as well be her, as the old Floradora quartet used to sing.

She also realizes that man still clings with child-like faith to the old theory that man is the pursuer and woman the pursued, and that there is nothing he resents more than having the roles reversed and to be openly stalked down by an intrepid husband-hunter. So what is a poor girl to do, who finds herself impaled upon the horns of two dilemmas? She is damned if she does and damned if she doesn't. If she leaves all of the love-making to the man, she takes a chance on his not doing it at all, while if she does the love-making herself, she runs the risk of scaring him off and watching him take to the tall timber.

As I have said many a time and oft in this column, there is no other such idiotic convention as that which prevents a woman from openly and frankly seeking her mate and popping the question to the man she wants for a husband. Compared to that, the right to vote and earn her own living are poor and trivial privileges, and it passes comprehension why women, who have fought tooth and nail for political and economic freedom, have not asserted their equal rights with man in love-making.

Of course, as a matter of fact, women do perform their share of the love-making, and then some. Perhaps it is generally the woman who sees the man first, and many a wife, if she choose, could answer the question that her husband fruitlessly puts to himself when he wonders how he ever happened to marry her.

But the trouble is, that under the silly code that makes woman a presumably passive agent in sentimental affairs, a girl has to work by stealth and this cramps her style. The question then becomes one of how a girl can get her man when she must work along indirect lines.

Sometimes the good Lord sends an answer to the maiden's prayer in the shape of a mother who has gumption enough to know that it is part of a mother's duty to help her daughters secure good husbands. So mother supplies the background that just naturally inclines a man's heart toward matrimony. She provides the doormat on which "Welcome" is printed for eligible youths. She gives her girl's beaux the glad hand and stays them on angels' food and Sunday night suppers. There is always light and cheer and comfort in her living-room and that intangible home atmosphere that makes a man begin to think that he would like to have a little two-by-four flat and a wife sitting across the table in a bungalow apron, pouring out his coffee for him of a morning.

As a matrimonial advance agent there is nobody equal to a mother who knows her business, and any girl who can invite young men to a nice cozy home party has the ideal approach, as they say in the manual of salesmanship. It is natural. Apparently innocuous and deadly effective in its results. "Will you walk into my parlor?" said the spider to the fly, and we all know what happened.

Alas, however, fate does not bless every girl with a discreet mamma. There are mothers who scare young men off by their rudeness. There are mothers who think it too much trouble to feed the brute. There are stupid mothers who sit around within earshot and never give a young man a chance to do any courting, even if he wanted to; mothers who leave their daughters to sink or swim, get married or be old maids, according to their own strength and ability to strike out for themselves, and it is these girls who find it so difficult to know just how much of the love-making they should do, if any.

As a general thing, their chief problem consists in turning liking into loving and making the men who look upon them as chums and side partners, see them as sweethearts and wives. Perhaps women are more sensitive to heart throbs than men are. Anyway, it often happens that when men and women work side by side the girl realizes that she has fallen in love with the man long before he senses that she is anything more to him than a good pal. He knows that he enjoys her society, he thinks she is the cutest little trick ever, and that everything is flat and loses its pep if she isn't around but he thinks that it is only because she isn't silly and foolish like other girls, and she is reliable and dependable and does her work properly.

The girl senses all of this. She knows that he cares more for her than he knows he does, but she is also aware that they might go along in this same relationship for years without his finding out the real state of his affections. She knows he might even marry some other woman while caught up on some guest of transient attraction. And so she knows that if she gets him, she must get busy.

But how; when he would be so shocked if she proposed marriage to him that he would probably say "No!" It is a parlous situation in which her only chance is to remove herself bodily from his environment and trust to luck on his missing her enough to make his some after her.

Then there is the question of whether a girl should disclose her love, or let it prey upon her damask cheek. According to tradition in olden times, the colder a girl was, the hotter a man's passion for her flamed; the more she flouted him the more determined he was to have her. But those tactics would not work with the modern sheik. Men are spoiled, and if there were now a Dear Lady Disdain, she wouldn't have suitors sighing at her feet, she would be dateless.

The man of today expects a girl to burn a considerable quantity of incense before him, and to show a proper appreciation of his charms. Yet she mustn't overdo it. She must be easy, but not too easy. She must be willing, but not too willing. He wants to marry her, not to be married by her. He wants the thrill of the love chase, but not to have to wind himself pursuing it too hard. His ideal, one might say, is to be a mighty sportsman pursuing a dove that flutters a few feet ahead and that falls dead whenever he fires his little arrow.

And so perhaps the answer to the question of how much a girl should help a man in the love-making is, "As much as necessary"—always remembering that it is meritorious to help a lame dog over the stile, but that a gay dog does not need any assistance.

NEEDS OF FAR NORTH

SEATTLE, June 13. (AP)—Replying by wireless to a message asking what he wanted the United States coast guard cutter Northland to bring him, Archdeacon Goodman of the Episcopal mission at Point Hope, Alaska, radioed: "A barrel of beer and some limburger cheese." In addition to the beverage—non-alcoholic—and cheese which was a part of the cargo of the Northland when it headed north, was an organ also consigned to Goodman for use in the mission.

Tramp, Tramp the Farm Boys March

But Parade Ends at Convention Doors

By RODNEY A. DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13.—Round and round the walls of Jerico tramp the discouraged and bitter farmers of the middle west.

But the walls fall not and the gates are barred.

Within the convention hall, fighting, impotent minority plays the part of the rahab and would deliver the strong hold of conversation to the beseiging host. It can't.

Plays Dead March

The thin circling parade, which just about stretches to the circumference of the convention building, is led by a brass band which breaks into the dead march of Saul as it passes each of the entrances through which the farmers are refused admission. Thus, by order of Jehovah, did Joshua's seven priests, bearing seven trumpets or ram's horns before the ark of the covenant, blare so effectively before Jericho in the land of Canaan.

And angry delegates within strive vainly to stop Hoover and gain for the farmer a share in the pillage of the consumer.

But these are no days for miracles. If the farmers thought they had a Jehovah in Lowden, they found their idol's feet were made of clay.

The undaunted marchers without and the undaunted delegates within are starkly symbolic of the losing battle, the probably impossible battle, which they are making to restore the happy conditions which existed before the agricultural age began to succumb to the industrial.

Relentlessly and almost ruthlessly, the small farmer is being pushed back. The present agricultural system which is his can hardly hope to stand off the irristible tide of economic demand which has made ours a nation of mass production, economical units, labor saving devices, standardization and consolidations.

Last Stand

The farmer is certainly making the last stand. He sees his brethren the samll merchants, driven from mercantile enterprise by the chain stores and the great department stores. He observes that the small manufacturer goes profitless while huge corporations often moulded of smalled concerns, wallow in astonishing prosperity. He notes the extension of branch banking and the fact that thousands of small banks have failed these last few years while greater banks grew fat. He perceives that the unorganized industries are the ones in chaos. He knows that in all industries new and efficient methods of machinery are forcing men out of work.

Agriculture remains the greatest of all our industries. It cares for 30 million persons. It rests on more than six million separate farms.

No Compromise

Six million separate units in a single industry; that is the system which delegates and marching farmfarmers at Kansas City are in effect, attempting to maintain. Their efforts are laudable for the seeming inevitability of the introduction of modern efficiency, organization and capitalization of agriculture will work great hardships on millions of men and women.

To avoid those they have devised unusual schemes to help agriculture which the captains of industry and finance who dominate the Republican party will not accept.

Let's take first the attitude of those stolid marchers around the convention hall with their occasional feeble shouts. "We won't take Hoover." It was expressed vividly and intelligently to this writer by one of them, L. A. Kaercher, editor of the Weekly Gordonville Independent in Big Stone county, Minn. Three thousand farm folk, assembled at their annual picnic, chose him to come to Kansas City and represent them.

Dirt Farmers

"The men in this line," said Kaercher, "are all dirt farmers. There are about ten thousand of us in town. No more because more couldn't afford to come. Yet few enough so that we are being turned down on all sides, in the mistaken notion that we will forever vote Republican.

"My newspaper would be extinct if it depended on advertising from merchants, who, with the farmers' buying power cut, are themselves poverty stricken.

"But we print a page and a half of legal notices each week and that saves us. Those notices announce foreclosure of mortgages on the farms of our people. I feel like a ghoul."

Now to the large hotel room of C. D. Campbell, president of the Campbell Farming corporation. Campbell organized and conducted the greatest experiment in mass production, scientific farming and made it pay.

Modern Farmer

He has a farm of 95,000 acres in Montana said to be the largest cultivated farm in the United States. He raises wheat and flax. Wherever possible, he has replaced men with machinery. His investment is $675,000. His minimum wage is $6.80 a day, he is here to support Herbert Hoover on the theory that agriculture needs a business man and an engineer in the White House.

"We are applying what we have learned in revolutionizing manufacturing and transportation to agriculture, he told this writer. "We have the combine, which has immensely reduced harvesting and threshing costs. Every farmer should have one who has 260 acres or more of wheat. Plowing will soon be completely revolutionized.

"Capital is going to invest in agriculture on a large scale. Farming will be considered and handled as a manufacturing business."

Need Larger Farms

"We need larger farms, we will always have smaller farms, but these will be for the farmer and wife who can do all their own work without hired labor."

"In less than 20 years we will have less than 20 per cent of our population on farms, compared with 29 per cent now."

What, your correspondent demanded, would become of the nearly 10 million persons who would be forced from the farms if Campbell were correct? Campbell was optimistic. They would be absorbed by industry, he thought, which must draw its workers from agriculture under immigration restriction. The farmers remaining would consolidate their farms into more economical units and become prosperous. Thus the factories would hum and the surplus farmers be absorbed.

Perhaps some of the marchers around the convention hall wouldn't share his optimism. If Campbell is correct the uprooting and the transition will be a painful process.

Rules G. O. P. Social Affairs

Although Mrs. J. F. Curtis, of Roslyn, N. Y., and Washington, is secretary of the Washington committee for Herbert Hoover, most of her time at the Republican convention at Kansas City must be devoted to looking after and entertaining distinguished women guests. She is said to be the ungrowned social ruler of the women attending the convention.

Dawes Leads Running Mates

KANSAS CITY, June 13. (AP)—Vice President Dawes seems to be in the forefront of the vice presidential race tonight with Herbert Hoover, holding his silence and his forces divided on the second place selection.

A fellow Illinoisian of Dawes, Senator Deneen, was among those being driven close behind the leader. Deneen has been put forward by various factions, against his will, as choice of some administration men who would stop Dawes.

More than a score of candidates were in the field tonight and leaders decided to put off until after a nominee is selected tomorrow, any attempt to make a final decision.

Interest centers in the Middle West from which section it seems likely now that the man will be taken. Both Vice President Dawes and Senator Deneen are friendly to Frank O. Lowden as well as from the same political family in Chicago.

Chairman William M. Butler of the Republican national committee took his place on the platform almost 20 minutes before the meeting time and Chairman Moses of the convention followed soon afterwards.

Paragraphs On Pachyderms

By United Press

KANSAS CITY, June 13. — Despite the fact that nine out of every 10 persons in this town seem to be looking for convention tickets, or some subterfuge by which admission can be gained without tickets, there were vacant seats in all sections of the hall today.

One woman, Mrs. Willebrandt, kept some 10,000 men waiting for an hour this morning while the convention postponed activities awaiting her delivery of the credentials report.

No temporary chairman ever was happier to get relief than Senator Fess when permanent Chairman Moses took over the gavel. Fess had become so hoarse in one day's attempt to make the convention hear him that his voice was scarcely more than a whisper.

An 85-year-old woman, who said she had come from Hastings, N. Y., to see the convention, but hadn't a ticket, had no trouble in persuading a doorman to admit her.

Mrs. George H. Moses, wife of the permanent chairman, wore a chic short suit of white at the morning session. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick wore a printed red and white skirt, tan hat and tan jacket.

Convention hall tonight could accommodate seven more persons than when the convention opened. The grand piano, used for accompaniment of Mme. Schumann-Heink, had been removed.

Canes are now on sale on all street corners in the convention district. Delegates who'd never dare to carry them in the home town swing them here with nonchalance.

A page shouted his way through the Mushlebach hotel today calling for "Mr. Sinclair." Someone suspecting a Democratic joke, asked the page the man's initials. "I don't know," the boy replied. "The boy replied. "The fellow who asked me to page him said Sinclair was an oil man."

Ludwig Hermann, delegate from New York, is leaving the convention cold tonight and going back home to East 76th street. Hermann was against Hoover. "Since the convention already has decided whom it's going to nominate, I don't approve of it," he explained.

Nearly all the phones in Kansas City operate on the dial system. Some of the delegates get their fingers caught in the holes of the dial.

An easy way to lose $10—a bookmaker's placard displays the sign, "$250 to $10 that Goff is not nominated for president."

Coast Patrol Boat Damaged by Blast

NORFOLK, Va., June 13. (UP)—The coast guard patrol boat Dart was badly damaged and two men were seriously burned today in an explosion of gasoline in the vessel's bilge. Z. V. Peel, Norfolk and A. Stackhouse, Hampton, Va., formerly of Washington, machinists mates who were working on the engine in a boat company plant here, were injured.

The deck of the Dart, a confiscated rum runner, was blown to pieces. Cause of the explosion was not learned.

U. S. marine hospital authorities said the men were in a serious condition.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y.—While fishing through the ice on Lake Champlain, Edward Pearson hooked a nine-pound pickerel. After a little struggle he pulled the fish in and in addition to capturing the finny prize, hauled in a lamprey eel, which had attached itself to the back of the pickerel.

HOW HE CELEBRATED

A dispatch from Jewett in the county of Leon, lets the people know that Col. Alvin Owsley, candidate for the United States senate, celebrated his 40th birthday making four speeches in four towns.

Col. Thomas L. Blanton isn't going to celebrate his birthday this year until after the nomination for senator has been made. He is making six to eight speeches daily.

Col. Oscar B. Colquitt got out of the activities of the campaign by withdrawing his name or application. When Colquitt was in his prime he was the best campaigner in Texas. Not the greatest orator, but a campaigner who could make a dozen speeches daily and never show fatigue.

He was a plowboy in his youth and perhaps this had something to do with it. A plowboy who is compelled to address a pair of mules hitched to a plow from sunrise until sunset, prepares his voice for action if he ever invades the political field.

Colonel Blanton never handled a plow and a pair of mules. Colonel Owsley never pushed a plow. It must have been great sport in the good old day.

FOR WHITE DEMOS

Colquitt had withdrawn his name from the ballot prior to the session of the committee in Waco. Thomas B. Love had not recalled his filing application. A motion to exclude Love's name was tabled by a vote of 19 to 6. Former Attorney General Earnest May made the motion to table the proposal. He said "I think the place to care for Mr. Love is in the primary." That is, May declined to be a party to the proposal to make a sainted martyr of Love. There were many proxy holders. Former Attorney General W. A. Keeling held one. He is responsible for the following resolution which was adopted by unanimous vote, "Resolved that all white Democrats who are qualified voters under the constitution and laws of Texas, and who subscribe to the statutory pledge as provided in article 3110, revised civil statutes of Texas and none other, be allowed to participate in the primary elections to be held on July 28 and August 25." This will be the test for all participants.

FALLS

When you're steeped in disappointment,
When you've sunk neck deep it seems,
In the dirty, sluggish waters
That surround your fondest dreams,
That's the time to show your metal;
That's your signal for a fight.
Even cowards can be heroes
When their plans are working right.

But it takes a man with courage
To imbibe the bitter cup
That is waiting for a failure—
One who's down, and has been up.
Life is stringent in its teachings;
Here's a truth I know full well:
After falls, your heart grows stronger

—John Self Elliott.

One-Minute Sermon

Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth; for I am God, and there is none else.

I have sworn by myself, the word is gone out of my mouth in righteousness, and shall not return, That unto Me every knee shall bow, every tongue shall swear.—Isaiah xlv., 22-23.

A Tin Bucket Brigade

SAN ANTONIO has its tin bucket brigade. They are skilled and unskilled workers. They are home makers and tax payers. It was different in the long ago. Value of products manufactured by San Antonio factories has increased from $642,412 in 1880 to $85,000,000 in 1928, which is a reminder that the manufacturing states of the republic are the states where the per capita wealth is the greatest. Texas is on the way.

Speaking of the Tomato

TROUP is a town in Smith county. Troup shipped a total of 25 cars of tomatoes to eastern markets in a single day, and average daily shipments from Troup have amounted to ten car loads. Troup is but one spot on the East Texas map where the farmers are busy shipping tomatoes and blackberries and strawberries. Are they making dividends? They are.

Speaking of Justice

FOR the first time in history the supreme court of the United States has cleared its docket and is looking to the future. Chief Justice William Howard Taft is entitled to some of the credit, and the associate justices should not be overlooked.

Those who are parroting about swifter justice and fewer technicalities are reminded of the fact that the court of last resort of the republic has made the grade.

Then coming home they are reminded of the fact that murder is murder in Texas. There is no manslaughter now. This statute has been relegated and the governor and the lawmakers and the high court judges of Texas are responsible for the relegation.

Law is law in Texas.

Murderers are sent to the electric chair or to the penitentiary for life or for long terms of imprisonment.

Reversals are rare.

Indeed, the penitentiaries of Texas are overflowing with the convicted law breakers of the realm. There are more convicts behind the walls and on the farms today than ever before in the history of Texas.

This is a matter of record, and the record speaks for itself.

A Problem of Nerves

DOROTHY CANFIELD FISHER, the novelist, told the graduating class of the University of Kansas the other day that one of the chief problems of modern America is a problem of nerves.

Our nerves, she said, are only a generation or two removed from those adjusted to solitude and silence; yet solitude and silence have gone from modern life beyond recall, and it is up to us to adjust our nerves to the new conditions. If we fail we shall make quite a hash of our affairs.

Her generation, Mrs. Fisher said, came on the scene just at the close of the pioneer period; and, she continued:

"We had neither the tools nor the knowledge to deal with the wholly unexpected phenomenon of evenings with nothing to do, such as our forefathers had never known, and of long, empty Saturday afternoons, and Sundays without two or three strenuous church services. Our generation knew no more what to do with the leisure time offered us by the new organization of society than a Hottentot would know how to get the good out of a box of artist's materials.

"We used these golden, priceless minted coins of free hours just about as intelligently as the Hottentot would treat instruments of the higher life. We were all prepared for one kind of life and were called without warning to lead and organize another."

Human habits of thought and action are hard to change. We are prone to cling to the old ways. Yet during the last quarter century conditions of life have undergone tremendous alterations. The scientist and the industrialist have moved faster than the rest of us. They have given us new tools before we were able to use them.

The old theory of society held that there should be a wealthy "leisure class" at the top, possessing plenty of spare time and trained from infancy in the use of it. Below this class there would be a great mass of workers, who would not need to know how to use their leisure, as they would not have any.

But in recent years all of this has changed. A carpenter today has as much spare time as a banker had a generation ago. A house-wife today has more leisure than her mother ever dreamed of having. In the old days farmers chanted the proverb, "A farmer's work is never done"; today the farmer is finding the proverb a bit out of date.

All of this has meant confusion. We have wasted much of our leisure. Our nerves have become slightly frayed. The job that confronts us now, as Mrs. Fisher says, is one of adjustment. We must learn how to use our spare time. If we fail it will prove a curse.

HOW NICE TO HAVE WIFEY KIDNAPED

A certain man here, who has the same name of a prominent cigaret manufacturer, received a black-hand letter which demanded $25,000, otherwise they would kidnap his wife. THE OPEN SPACES ARE NO MORE

The inventive genius of man has been put to ignoble tasks. Not satisfied with a phonograph that makes the nights and days hideous in drug stores and such places, some inventor has gotten out a pocket size phonograph, and now the little picnics and excursions will no longer be restful and quiet. It will be impossible for a person to go fishing without hazarding the risk of having his holiday disturbed by the wheezy notes of "She Ain't My Baby Now," or the sonorous tenor parts of the Black Crows or the White Elephants or some other group of dialogue artists. It has just about gotten so in this country that there are no more wide open spaces.

CHAPTER LIII

"Society unfortunately isn't ready for your Athlistic philosophy just yet," said Markham. "And during the intervening transition human life must be protected."

He rose resolutely, and going to the telephone, called up Heath.

"Sergeant," he ordered, "get a John Doe warrant and meet me immediately at the Stuyvesant club. Bring a man with you—there's an arrest to be made."

"At last the law has evidence after its own heart," chirped Vance, as he lazily donned his topcoat and picked up his hat and stick. "What a grotesque affair your legal procedure is, Markham! Scientific knowledge—the facts of psychology—mean nothing to you learned solons. But a phonograph record—ah! There, now, is something convincing, irrefragable, final, what?"

On our way out Markham beckoned to the officer on guard.

"Under no conditions," he said, "is any one to enter this apartment until I return—not even with a signed permit."

When we had entered the taxicab, he directed the chauffeur to the club.

"So the newspapers want action, do they? Well, they're going to get it... You've helped me out of a nasty hole, old man."

As he spoke, his eyes turned to Vance. And that look conveyed a profounder gratitude than any words could have expressed.

(Tuesday, September 1; 3:30 p. m.)

It was exactly half past three when we entered the rotunda of the Stuyvesant club. Markham at once sent for the manager, and held a few words of private conversation with him. The manager then hastened away, and was gone about five minutes.

"Mr. Spotswoode is in his rooms," he informed Markham, on returning. "I sent the electrician up to test the light blubs. He reports that the gentleman is alone, writing at his desk."

"And the room number?"

"Three forty-one." The manager appeared perturbed. "There won't be any fuss, will there, Mr. Markham?"

"I don't look for any." Markham's tone was chilly. "However, the present matter is considerably more important than your club."

"What an exaggerated point of view!" signed Vance when the manage had left us. "The arrest of Spotswoode, I'd say, was the acme of futility. The man isn't a criminal, don't y' know. He's what one might term a philosophic behaviorist."

Markham grunted but did not answer. He began pacing up and down agitatedly, keeping his eyes expectantly on the main entrance. Vance sought a comfortable chair, and settled himself in it with placid unconcern.

Ten minutes later Heath and Snitkin arrived. Markham at once led them into an alcove and briefly explained his reason for summoning them.

"Spotswoode's up stairs now," he said. "I want the arrest made as quietly as possible."

"Spotswoode!" Heath repeated the name in astonishment. "I don't see—"

"You don't have to see—yet," Markham cut in sharply. "I'm taking all responsibility for the arrest. And you're getting the credit—if you want it. That suit you?"

Heath shrugged his shoulders.

"It's all right with me....anything you say, sir." He shook his head uncomprehensingly. "But what about Jessup?"

"We'll keep him locked up. Material witness."

We ascended in the elevator and emerged at the third floor. Spotswoode's rooms were at the end of the hall, facing the square. Markham, his face set grimly, led the way.

In answer to his knock Spotswoode opened the door and, greeting us pleasantly, stepped aside for us to enter.

"Any news yet?" he asked, moving a chair forward.

At this moment he got a clear view of Markham's face in the light, and at once he sensed the minatory nature of our visit. Though his expression did not alter, I saw his body suddenly go taut. His cold, indecipherable eyes moved slowly from Markham's face to Heath and Snitkin. Then his gaze fell on Vance and me, who were standing a little behind the others, and he nodded stiffly.

No one spoke; yet I felt that an entire tragedy was somehow being enacted, and that each actor heard and understood every word.

Markham remained standing, as if reluctant to proceed. Of all the duties of his office, I knew that the arrest of malefactors was the most distasteful to him. He was a worldly man, with the worldly man's tolerance for the misfortunes of evil. Heath and Snitkin had stepped forward and now waited with passive alertness for the district attorney's order to serve the warrant.

Spotswoode's eyes were again on Markham.

"What can I do for you, sir?" His voice was calm and without the faintest quaver.

"You can accompany these officers, Mr. Spotswoode," Markham told him quietly, with a slight inclination of his head toward the two imperturbable figures at his side. "I arrest you for the murder of Margaret Odell."

"Ah!" Spotswoode's eyebrows lifted mildly. "Then you have discovered something?"

"The Beethoven Andante."

Not a muscle of Spotswoode's face moved; but after a short pause he made a barely perceptible gesture of resignation.

"I can't say that it was wholly unexpected," he said evenly, with the tragic suggestion of a smile; "especially as you thwarted every effort of mine to secure the record. But then...the fortunes of the game are always uncertain."

His smile faded, and his manner became grave. "You have acted generously toward me, Mr. Markham, in shielding me from the canaille; and because I appreciate that courtesy I should like you to know that the game I played was one in which I had no alternative."

"Your motive, however, powerful," said Markham, "cannot extenuate your crime."

"Do you think I seek extenuation?" Spotswoode dismissed the imputation with a contemptuous gesture. "I'm not a schoolboy. I calculated the consequences of my course of action, and after weighing the various factors involved, decided to risk it.

"It was a gamble, to be sure; but it's not my habit to complain about the misfortunes of a deliberately planned risk. Furthermore, the choice was practically forced upon me. Had I not gambled in this instance, I stood to lose heavily nevertheless."

His face grew bitter.

"This woman, Mr. Markham, had demanded the impossible of me. Not content with bleeding me financially, she demanded legal protection, position, social prestige—such things as only my name could give her.

"She informed me I must divorce my wife and marry her. I wonder if you apprehend the enormity of that demand?.....You see, Mr. Markham, I love my wife, and I have children whom I love. I will not insult your intelligence by explaining how, despite my conduct, such a thing is entirely possible... And yet, this woman commanded me to wreck my life and crush utterly three I held dear, solely to gratify her petty, ridiculous ambition!

"When I refused, she threatened to expose our relations to my wife, to send her copies of the letters I had written to sue me publicly—in fine, to create such a scandal that, in any event, my life would be ruined, my family disgraced, my home destroyed."

He paused and drew a deep inspiration.

"I have never been partial to half-way measures," he continued impassively. "I have no talent for compromise. Perhaps I am a victim of my heritage. But my instinct is to play out a hand to the last chip—to force whatever danger threatens.

"And for just five minutes, a week ago, I understood how the fanatics of old could, with a calm mind and a sense of righteousness, torture their enemies who threatened them with spiritual destruction....I chose the only course which might save those I love from disgrace and suffering. It meant taking a desperate risk. But the blood within me was such that I did not hesitate, and I was fired by the agony of a tremendous hate. I staked my life against a living death, on the remote chance of attaining peace. And I 'got.'"

Again he smiled faintly.

"Yes, the fortunes of the game....But don't think for a minute that I am complaining or seeking sympathy. I have lied to others perhaps, but not to myself. I detest a whiner—a self-excuser. I want you to understand that."

He reached to the table at his side and took up a small limp-leather volume.

"Only last night I was reading Wilde's 'De Profundis.' Had I been gifted with words, I might have made a similar confession. Let me show you what I mean so that, at least, you won't attribute to me the final infamy of gravenness."

The Day Book of a New Yorker
By CLARK KINNAIRD.

NEW YORK, June 13.—Unique among the books of the season, and one that should give a lot of comfort to thousands of unrecognized writers all over, is "Rejections of 1927," a volume of short stories sent back to the authors by 10 or more American magazines.

Nearly every writer, novice or professional, has unsold manuscripts that he or she believes well deserving of print. Many of these stories were refused because of editorial prejudices, which, in the words of the conventional rejection slip, "in no way affects the excellence of the manuscripts."

The fact that Kathleen Norris' first story was bought by the Atlantic Monthly after it had been rejected by that publication, is well known. There are scores of similar MMS. adventures. They merely show that editors, like other mortals, make mistakes, and have their vagaries, and that there is a large amount of excellent material rejected that is worthy of print.

"Rejections of 1927," edited by Charles R. Baker Jr., himself a former magazine editor and present publisher's 'reader,' has stories by Ben Ames Williams, Mary Heaton Vorse, Ruth Cross, J. P. McEvoy, Edgar Hay, Gouverneur Morris, Ferrin Fraser, Cyril Hume, Arthur Schnitzler, Emerson Low, Edwina Stanton Babcock, Mildred Cram, Frances Bragg Middleton and Seth Clarkson, among which names are some that will be recognized as headliners by even casual fiction readers.

The book casts no reflections upon Ray Long, Henry Mencken, Merle Crowell, et al., but it does demonstrate that the writer shouldn't lose heart just because one magazine rejects his work.

When the Fox organization borrowed the apartment of Emil Fuchs, famed artist, in the Hotel Des Artistes, to throw a swell party for Janet Gaynor, the cinemactress, it ordered attending employes to buy or rent the conventional "soup and fish," and tactfully informed guests that they were expected to appear in formal attire.

All present "looked their best," with one conspicuous exception. Many of the guests wondered how this individual, clad in a sack suit that obviously needed pressing, got in, and speculated on how long it would be before he was "thrown out." Then the uninitiated learned that the person who didn't care how he looked in the presence of so many notables was Emil Fuchs himself.

As usual, "gate crashers" descended upon the party to rub shoulders with celebrities, a curious collection of which gathered to meet the tiny emotional actress. "Celebs" included Thyra Samter Winslow, author; Marie Dressler, retired comedienne; Harrison Fisher, artist; Long, the editor, and wife; Neysa McMein, the cover painter; Harold Ross, the bovine-appearing Texan who edits the New Yorker, bible of sophisticates; Dr. John H. Finley, the educator and publicist.

MOVIE STARS GET NEW BOSS

First National President Resigns

NEW YORK, June 13. (UP)—Colleen Moore, Richard Barthelmess, Harry Langdon and a number of other movie stars find themselves with a new boss today as a result of a major shake-up in First National pictures.

A special meeting of the board of directors of First National announced acceptance of the resignation of Clifford B. Hawley as president.

Irving D. Rosshein, president of the Stanley company of America, was elected to succeed Hawley at the helm of First National, and Joseph P. Kennedy, president of P. B. O. and chairman of the board of the Keith-Albee-Orpheum corporation, was invited by the First National directors to act as "advisor."

It was understood that Kennedy is to be given a free hand, under the same arrangement by which he recently became advisor to Paths, with powers credited by the industry as practically unlimited.

Flags Chief Decoration At Houston Convention

HOUSTON, Texas, June 13. (AP)—The flag of each state and territory of the Union will adorn the Houston coliseum at the national Democratic convention. Plans for the decoration of the huge auditorium have been sent to the national committee by George S. Cohen, chairman of the committee on decorations.

The flags will be arranged in alphabetical order around the delegates' section, beginning at the right of the speaker's platform. The background of the stage will be a bower of southern smilax in the center of which will be placed a United States crest. The whole stand will be surrounded by 13 American flags. Red, white and blue bunting will serve as the decoration for the rest of the hall, covering the beams and posts.

New Traffic Rules Enforced at Electra

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, June 13.—Traffic rules in Electra are being rigidly enforced and the police department is being kept busy. Streets were cleaned and traffic lines marked this week, which makes a decided improvement. Chief of Police Taylor states that so far no difficulty has been experienced in enforcing the new rules, which, among other rules, prohibits double parking on the principal streets.

Several arrests have been made and fines assessed, but as a general rule, people are respecting the new regulations.

POLITE TRAFFIC COPS

QUITO, Ecuador, June 13. (AP)—Quito's traffic policemen probably hold the record for politeness. When north and southbound traffic is stopped to allow east and westbound traffic to proceed at the street intersections the traffic officers on duty motion to the north and south bound pedestrians to keep on the sidewalks and say, "With your permission, ladies and gentlemen."

By JAMES CRUZE

James Cruze ran away from home at the age of 16 and joined a tent show, with which he cruised all over the country, playing leading parts in blood and thunder mellerdramas such as "Tempest and Sunshine," "St. Elmo," etc.

In 1908 he became attracted to the flickering films—and how they did flicker then! His first big effort was in a serial called "The Million Dollar Mystery." Today he is one of the world's foremost movie directors.

"I have always liked the story," Cruze said, "of a man who came rushing into a physician's office. 'Doctor, doctor, he said, excitedly, my horse has the heaves and—'

"'Just a minute,' broke in the physician, you had better consult a veterinarian, I am a—'

"'Let me finish,' interrupted the other. 'I did consult a veterinarin and he told me to blow a certain powder up the horse's nose through a flexible tube, and—'

"'But why are you coming to me?' put in the physician.

Former Capital of Crown Colony To Be Restored to Old Appearance

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., June 13. (UP)—John D. Rockefeller Jr. has waved a magic wand as potent as that which Henry Ford employes to collect New England taverns, it was announced here tonight, and as a result this ancient Virginia village will shortly appear almost exactly as it did before the American revolution.

A full explanation of all the recent rumors and the buying and selling of property was made to the citizens in a town meeting tonight by the Rev. Dr. W. A. Goodwin of the faculty of William and Mary college.

The speaker told the residents of Williamsburg that their beautiful village was to become a national shrine, restored through the aid of Rockefeller to its appearance when it was the capital of the crown colony of Virginia.

The restoration, which will cost a sum not made public at the evident request of Rockefeller, will be accomplished as ruthlessly as though it were in the name of progress. Many of the ancient buildings will stand but where they have been replaced by modern structures, the modern buildings will be torn down or moved away to make place for a duplicate of the original.

Business buildings will give way to the old gardens they replaced. Three or four modern buildings will be razed to restore the village green. Even the high school building, of which progressive Williamsburg was once proud, will be demolished. It occupies the site of the old governor's palace, to be rebuilt.

English Duchess's Plane Arrives in Persia

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Mr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

More Danger in Not Reducing

Many women are frightened against reducing by statements of supposed authorities that dieting to take off weight is weakening, and brings on serious consequences, like tuberculosis. My private opinion is that many of these "experts" have never dieted a patient.

I have observed and conducted thousands of cases of reducing and I do not know of any fat woman who has been injured by limiting the amount of food below that which she was accustomed to eating. The only possible danger that I know of would be for her to reduce too much below normal on a diet that is deficient in alkaline-forming elements or vitamins. It is possible that if she reduced on white bread and sugar exclusively that her system would become very toxic. This danger is entirely avoided if the fresh fruits or non-starchy vegetables are predominant in the anti-fat menu. I believe that protein should also be added when the weight is about its normal. Starches, sugars and fats may be entirely dispensed with for all fat people.

It is advisable that patients who reduce should receive sufficient exercise to maintain the muscular tone of their bodies. Long daily walks are of undoubted value, especially because they cause the body to absorb a larger supply of oxygen to assist in consuming any clogging waste matter in the muscles and tissues.

I receive many inquiries about the use of certain glandular extracts for reducing, but I have never found them either advisable or necessary. Possibly much of the talk about the dangers of reducing has originated in those cases where too much of these secretions were employed.

It is a well known fact that after 30 a person has a much better chance of long life if he is thin. There is not much satisfaction in eating heartily just to fill an oversized casket!

Contrary to the prevailing idea of many people, fat has no connection with health. The proper weight for the best mental and physical vigor is often far below the patient's ideal, and it can only be determined by careful observance, considering the temperament, muscles and bony framework. One cannot determine the correct weight by the height and age alone.

The best rapid method of reducing is to employ the citrus fruit fast, using only these fruits or their juices and water. In this manner the weight will reduce from one-half to two pounds daily, with a marked improvement in all physical and mental functions.

This increase of energy is due to freeing the body of any burden of encumbrances. Ordinary occupations may be followed throughout the fast. This is not impossible, and I have known of a number of cooks and chefs who reduced while in continual contact with food. It was necessary for them to refrain from even tasting food during the reducing period.

The diet following the fast should be carefully selected to provide the proper amount of protein and green vegetables. One can live on this diet indefinitely. The carbohydrates and fats should only be introduced very gradually after the patient has completely overcome the tendency of obesity.

Questions and Answers

Question—F. M. asks: "How is it so many of my friends have gout? I thought it was caused by drinking alcoholic beverages, but since prohibition that cause should be almost removed."

Answer—Gout is a form of rheumatism and is caused by the rheumatic toxemia which comes from over-eating, over-drinking and using wrong kinds of food and in improper combinations.

Question—Mary H. writes: "I read in your column that milk should not be used with sandwiches. When should milk be used?"

Answer—Never use milk with sandwiches. Milk should be taken by itself or combined with one kind of fruit, or with the non-starchy vegetables.

Question—Mrs. N. G. H. writes: "Do you know where I can get the new dress material which permits the ultra-violet rays of the sun to penetrate to the skin?"

Answer—You probably refer to the material called celanese, a cellulose acetate product which some manufacturers have been experimenting with.

Question—Mother asks: "Do you think it harmful to children to use scooters? I have heard that they caused one leg to be shorter than the other."

Answer—If a child can be made to change from one foot to the other while running a scooter, it should be very beneficial exercise, but one-sided exercise for children encourages a faulty position of the pelvis, and spinal curvature.

ELKS PLAN FLAG PROGRAM

Annual Ceremony at Lodge Tonight

Wichita Falls Lodge No. 1105, B. P. O. E. will observe its annual flag day program Thursday night with a program at the Elks hall, it was anonunced Wednesday by H. C. English, secretary.

"As our order is wholly American in character and patriotic and benevolent in purpose, it is justly fitting that this lodge should observe the anniversary of our flag," said Mr. English.

A program has been drafted for the meeting Thursday night, and members of the lodge have been asked to be present, promptly at 8:30 o'clock, Mr. English said.

Seven Texas Students Get Illinois Degrees

URBANA, Ill., June 13. (AP)—Seven students from the state of Texas today marched across a board platform in the huge new gymnasium building of the University of Illinois, members of a class of 2000 graduating seniors, to receive their degrees and sheepskins at the fifty-seventh annual commencement exercises.

In characteristically brief and pungent statements, President David Kinley delivered the commencement address.

The University of Illinois is the third largest educational institution in America, with an enrollment of nearly 13,000 students. Graduates from the state of Texas were:

Abernathy, James Marion Hardesty, Ph. D.
Beaumont, William Hume Farmer Jr., A. B.
Galveston, Marion Isaac Levy, M. S.
Itasca, Helen Thomas Coffin, B. S.
Saginaw, Glen Aven Lindsey, Ph. D.
San Antonio, John Ford Querreau, M. S.
Waco, Corrinne Malinda Lindquist, B. S.

Electra Pythian Sisters Organize Drill Team

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, June 13.—The Norene temple, Pythian Sisters enjoyed a splendid meeting Tuesday night, with Mrs. Homer Rippy, newly elected M. E. C., presiding. Mrs. Lola Corder, keeper of records and seals, gave a splendid report of the last meeting and the work of several special committees.

In the business session Mrs. Corder was elected press reporter and a drill team, to be used in ceremonial work, was reported to be in process of organization. The personnel is not yet complete. J. Ray Corder was named captain of the team and Friday night of each week has been set for practice nights. The first meeting of the team was held on Friday night, June 8 and preliminary maneuvers rehearsed.

Lodge to Vote On Incorporation Plan

A formal petition to incorporate Wichita Falls lodge No. 1105, B. P. O. E., under the laws of the state of Texas, has been presented to the lodge, it was announced Wednesday by H. C. English, secretary of the lodge. E. F. Fruechte, exalted ruler, has set Monday, June 18, as the date for the vote of members on the question. The meeting will open at 8:30 o'clock.

Nervous Folks PraiseCapudine

Those who have used Capudine for overwrought nerves, headache, periodic pains and other nerve pains are high in their praise of it because it gives quick and safe relief by soothing the nerves,—not by deadening or doping them.

Being liquid, Capudine acts much quicker than tablets and powders. Contains no opiates. At all drug stores: 30c and 60c.—Adv.

Former Dancer Content With Home Life

Irene Castle, Once Famous Dancer, Lives Quietly and Plays Soltaire

By WALTER T. BROWN
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, June 13. (AP)—Irene Castle, the dancer, who, when she came to Chicago five years ago to become Mrs. Frederick McLaughlin, said she couldn't go to sleep before 2 a. m., now is so domesticated that she can't stay awake that long.

The wife of a wealthy manufacturer and sportsman, she is emphatic that she never will return to the stage. Her life is grooved with that of her husband and their small daughter, Barbara, 3.

Mrs. McLaughlin, who is no less comely, if somewhat more matronly looking than when she originated with Vernon Castle the "Castle Walk," wants those "who liked my dancing" to remember her as she was.

"They couldn't help but compare my work with what it had been, and me now with me then," she laughed. "And I'm not so blind that I do not know that I have slowed up; maybe not so light on my feet, or so willowy."

The McLaughlins have a home at Lake Forest, fashionable suburb. There are a half dozen dogs, four saddle horses and tennis courts. On this estate Irene Castle spends most of her time.

"You can't mix a career and domesticity," observed she whose style and vivacity are the antithesis of the generally accepted meaning of domesticity.

"I couldn't have my husband and my baby if I went back to the stage. Barbara and I have great times romping with the dogs, and sometimes we have little picnics. Three times a week my husband and I ride, and when the hunting season is on we have gay times."

"You see——" she paused, perhaps thinking of her two children who died in infancy, "I always wanted, above anything else, a baby."

Besides her home, Mrs. McLaughlin's chief interest has been the anti-cruelty society, fighting the battles, mainly, of the stray dog. Through her efforts, a stray dog farm was established here where homeless animals are cared for until an owner is found.

First Woman Receives Oxford Literary Degree

OXFORD, England, June 13. (AP) Oxford university is about to confer the degree of doctor of literature for the first time upon a woman. The woman who has achieved this distinction is Miss Eleanor Constance Lodge, sister of the world famous scientist, Sir Oliver Lodge.

Miss Lodge, who since 1921 has been principal of Westfield College for Women at Hampstead, has written a number of historical works and has held several important educational posts. She is 59 years old.

Three Doctors Operate On Ghazi for Pimple

ANGORA, Turkey, June 13. (AP)—Rumors of President Kemal's reputed illnesses have come to be jokes reminiscent of Mark Twain's "The reports of my death are greatly exaggerated."

According to the latest report whispered about the capital, three doctors had been summoned from Constantinople for an operation entailing the removal of one of the Ghazi's kidneys. Tracked down, the report was found to be true as far as the three doctors were concerned, but the purpose of their visit proved to be the lancing of a small infected pimple on the great man's forehead.

CHAUMONT, France, June 13. (AP)—Madame Veuve Barrois wields the gavel here as the first woman auctioneer in France. Women formerly were kept out of this profession by a Napoleonic law. Its amendment four years ago permitted Madame Barrois to succeed to her late husband's position.

Nation's Only Woman Oil Executive Has Meteoric Rise in Business

SHREVEPORT, La., June 13. (AP) The nation's only woman oil executive believes the boss should set an example for her, or his, employes.

She is Mrs. Norma M. Hancock of Shreveport, president of the Omegr. Oil corporation, which employs 3500 workers and owns extensive rights to fee minerals and oil royalties throughout the southwest. Until recently Mrs. Hancock was active president of the Dixie Oil company, producing subsidiary of the Standard Oil of Indiana.

Still a young woman, Mrs. Hancock's rise in the business world was little short of meteoric. She long had been interested in oil and actively participated in the formation of the Dixie company before it was taken over by the Standard.

Mrs. Hancock's business ability was recognized by Fred H. Wickett of Chicago, former president of the Dixie company, while she was serving him as confidential secretary. He sent her to Shreveport 10 years ago as secretary to the Dixie. Eight years later she became its president and during her two years tenure the company experienced rapid expansion.

"The one who produces is the one who succeeds," is Mrs. Hancock's motto, and she practices what she preaches. Being a business woman and having an alarm clock go hand in hand, she says.

"The employer must set the pace," Mrs. Hancock believes. "I can't expect people working for me to give their best unless I, too, am on the job. Being the first to the office and the last to leave carries a lot better moral than the reverse, but I'm not a slave driver."

Despite her business connections, Mrs. Hancock is widely known in social circles. She is a member of several clubs and takes an active interest in them. She supervises her own household.

Babies born to employes since Mrs. Hancock has held an executive post have immediately received souvenirs. She often finds time for personal calls on the mothers.

Hindenburg Springs Surprise at Opera

BERLIN, June 13. (AP)—President von Hindenburg sprang a surprise upon the representatives of the federal and Prussian governments who occupied the former royal box with him at the reopening of the historic State Opera Unter den Linden. He ventured into the field of operatic criticism.

This was Hindenburg's second attendance at an opera in Berlin since he became president, the only other time having been in connection with King Amanullah's visit in February. Most of those in the box with him assumed he knew little about opera.

Lions to Name New Officers Next Week

Through failure of the nominating committee to complete two lists of nominees, the Lions club was obliged to postpone the annual election of officers scheduled for Wednesday, until the meeting next week.

Out-of-town delegates who attended the luncheon Wednesday in order to make plans for an inter-city Lions picnic, included the following: President R. B. Saxe, C. E. Mitchell and George T. Kimbell of the Burkburnett club; President C. C. Hudson, R. O. White, Sid Davis, and Dr. Gordon Clark of the Iowa Park club. Dr. Gaines B. Hall gave the invocation. E. F. Bohmfalk conducted the sing-song, and W. E. Wilson read the minutes.

A delegation of Wichita Falls members will attend the banquet to be given Thursday evening at the Country club of Electra, in celebration of the incoming and retiring officers of that organization.

AMERICAN COLONY WANES

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, June 13. (AP) Only 31 Americans live here now, compared with an American colony numbering two or three hundred some years ago. The years of revolution and periods of business depression or uncertainty since, are given as the reason for the decline. Some talk hopefully of a business revival. American interests are developing banana plantations in the southern part of the state which may add an important export to the port's shipping.

KIEFER BLANKS CATS, 1-0, AND CHAMPIONS LEAD SERIES, 2-1

JOE IS VICTOR OVER WALKUP

Fast and Errorless Support Aids Utican

FORT WORTH, Texas, June 13. They used to say, When Walter Johnson was pitching in his heyday, that you can't hit 'em if you can't see 'em. Fort Worth couldn't hit 'em today and when you can't hit 'em you can't score 'em. Joe Kiefer, the stocky right-hander with the fast mode of pitching, stood the Cats of Jake Atz on their heads today, besting Jimmy Walkup in as sweet a pitchers' battle as the fans of this cow town have witnessed in many a moon. The score was 1 to 0, which except for a scoreless tie is the acme of chucking.

Joseph, the pride of Utica, N. Y., held the Cats to five hits, scattered along in so many innings, and received errorless support from his comrades. They looked like real champions today, did those Spudders, their victory being two out of three in the series, which isn't concluded until tomorrow, and three in their last four games.

Spuds Win in Second

Walkup was almost as good as Kiefer. Almost—but not quite. And his support was almost as good as that received by Joe. But "almost" and "if" and "maybe" so often mean the difference between victory and defeat, and so it was today.

A base on balls, a hit and an error (the only misplay of the pastime) in the second inning, enabled the Spudders to score the lone tally of the ball game. After one was out, Jenkins strolled. Swede Swenson, the candy kid in the pinch, delivered as usual, a sharp single to left, sending Jenkins to third. Stanton drove a grounder to Freitag which the second baseman dropped after tagging Swenson, and while Wally was thrown out on his way to third, Jenkins scored.

Champs Home Friday

Fast and at times spectacular fielding by both clubs enlivened play. Benton and Turgeon were batting leaders with two hits each, one of the Rabbit's blows going for a double. The champions made eight hits off Jimmy. None of the Cats could touch Kiefer for more than one blow.

After playing the Cats tomorrow the Spudders return home Friday for five games in four days with the Dallas Steers, featured by the raising Friday of Texas league and Dixie championship pennants, won in 1927.

Churchill Downs Owners Get $375,000 Derby Cut

CHICAGO, June 13. (AP)—The biggest winner of the 1928 Kentucky Derby was Col. Matt J. Winn, executive director of Churchill Downs, and his associates.

While Reigh Count splashed through the mud to victory, rewarding his owner, Mrs. John D. Hertz of Chicago with $55,000, Colonel Winn's adding machines were counting up around $375,000.

The Kentucky Jockey club's "take" on the betting Derby day approximated $207,000. The gate probably exceeded $150,000, with box seats bringing in $20,000. The concessions added another joyful lump.

Lad, 16, Gets Chance With Boston Red Sox

The boy is a former member of the Easton, Pa., team. He is right-handed, batting and throwing, and five feet eight inches tall. He weighs 167 pounds. While President Bob Quinn told Cicero's mother that the boy ought to remain in high school, every encouragement will be given him by Manager Bill Carrigan, now that he has decided to try professional baseball.

DAILY DOPE

By Larry Dailey

TWENTY YEARS or so from now the kids of the Knot Hole gang will be asking us oldsters who those fellows are in the picture that says Texas league and Dixie champions. And we will tell with pride of a clan of ball players who wrote the name of Wichita Falls in flaming letters in baseball history. "Well, let me see, it was 'way back there about in 1926, no, it was 1927, I know now, 'cause that was the year that a feller named Lindbergh was the first to fly across to Europe, and the year o' the big Mississippi flood," we will tell the youngsters. "There's been many a feller to fly across the ocean since that year, but not many pennants have been won—and few have been the nines that won a Texas league and Dixie championship the same year, especially as did those Spudders."

◊ ◊ ◊

Then we will grow reminiscent, and in the comfort of our big arm chairs, will relate the story of the triumphant march of the Spudders. It was an epic of baseball in the South, the achievement of the Spudders of 1927, and I have no doubt but that 20 years from now their record of 1927 will be unequaled, or at least unsurpassed. Indeed, it never will be bettered, for the Wichita Falls club attained the ultimate in winning its Texas league pennant and the championship of the South.

◊ ◊ ◊

TAKING THE LEAD the first day of play the Spudders of 1927 swept through the Texas league without relinquishing first place for a single day. Some club may win more victories for a season or finish with a higher average. But no team can better that performance of the Spudders in getting out in front and staying there all the way.

◊ ◊ ◊

Then, to climax that achievement in the league championship season, the Wichita Falls nine defeated New Orleans, champions of the Southern association, in four straight games to win the supreme honors of old Dixie. That is a feat that may be equaled, but of course can't be bettered. And it has been equaled only twice in the history of the world series of the National and American leagues, and never in the annals of seven previous southern championships.

◊ ◊ ◊

WELL, TOMORROW we are to pay tribute to J. Alvin Gardner, the sportsman who assembled the club that won those honors for our old home town; to Carl Williams, the manager who led those athletes to the heights, and the players themselves who carried Wichita Falls to baseball glory. The Stars and Stripes and the Texas league and Dixie pennants will be hoisted to the flagpole to wave in proud token the symbol of achievement for which they stand. The band will play "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Dixie" and other stirring martial airs and our pulse will quicken in pride in the occasion. Then maybe the Spudders will lose the ball game to Dallas. But regardless of what is to be the fate of the Spudders this season and in the years to come, they can't take away those Texas league and Dixie championships of 1927.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

NEW YORK, June 13.—Walvers have been granted on Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Herb Pennock of the New York Yankees. They have been sold to the Wichita Falls Spudders. A desire to make the American league race interesting and stop the Houston Buffs was the reason for the sale of the players, it was announced by Miller Huggins.

LOS ANGELES, June 13.—Jack Dempsey will not accept $500,000 to fight Gene Tunney Labor day. "I care nothing for money," Dempsey said today. "But I know I am a better man than Tunney and will fight him for nothing in my gymnasium here to prove it."

◊ ◊ ◊

KANSAS CITY, June 13.—Hiram Rustic of Pumpkinville, Iowa, approves the nomination of Herbert Hoover. "Mr. Hoover is a friend of the farmers because he is a farmer himself," asserted Mr. Rustic. "I know that because I saw his picture once wearing overalls." (Editor's note: Mr. Hoover presumably was wearing overalls, not the picture.)

◊ ◊ ◊

CHICAGO, June 13.—An important meeting of vital interest to all people was held here today. Will Rogers was not present and did not give his opinion on the matter.

◊ ◊ ◊

JAMES K. CRAWFORD was in town yesterday. The name of James K. Crawford is well known in two worlds—baseball and financial. And the man is known himself in the Southwest as prominent in the affairs of baseball and oil. Mr. Crawford for several years held a place at Tulsa similar to that occupied here by J. Alvin Gardner. He brought Western league baseball to Tulsa and gave the fans of that town championship teams. A big-hearted big Irishman, Jim Crawford was greeting many friends here yesterday. Though he retired from baseball last year by disposing of his holdings in the Tulsa club, Mr. Crawford still retains close interest in the game. He has seen several Texas league teams play and is much impressed with the class of baseball in our loop.

SIMON PURES

By GORDON FULCHER

About Amateurs

Texas Electrics started the second half of the season similar to the way that they opened the first half Tuesday against James Brothers. Last half they started the season by defeating James Brothers and again they got off in the same manner.

The Electrics will be one of the foremost contenders for the second half championship because they are fighting with their backs to the wall. The Kilowats might have ridden to the first half championship as easily as they started toward it had they not become a bit too confident over their brilliant showing.

The Electrics still have a bare chance to win the first half but it is only a remote possibility. They would get a chance to play it off for the first half title if the Panhandle loses today to James Brothers.

Manager Rabbit Gordon of the Panhandle has plenty of tricks in his bag and it is likely that he will use them all before he will see his team lost a contest that will win the first half race.

Kansas City Will Try Any Sport But Baseball Leads All the Rest

Bugs Baer, As Other Humorists, Takes Golf Seriously; Scribe Deplores Lack of Interest in Game

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service, Inc.)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13. (US)—Out here in Kansas City they are trying a little bit of everything in the way of sport. Boxing, baseball, golf, horse racing and even dog racing goes forward with more or less success.

A new race track has just been opened at Riverside, in north Kansas City, and a job lot of bangtails are running around there every day. They are trying a new idea in the matter of betting, which is as illegal in Missouri as it is in a lot of other spots.

I believe you buy shares in the gallant nag that you think ought to win some particular race. They are using the same system with the dogs. A cash client never pauses to go into the details of a betting system, however. All he wants to know is, can he bet?

But the theory of the Kansas City system of course, is that you aren't really betting, even though you lose your money. You are buying those shares on the hoss. Take 'em down to McAleenanx's and see how much you can get on 'em!

The only sure system I know of to keep John from so construing betting, no matter how you disguise it, is to round up all his minions, including a few district attorneys, judges, sheriffs, constables, cops and coroners, and even then some lowly minister of the gospel is apt to come along and spill the beans. It's a tough life for the lads who are always trying to outfigure John Law.

Always Good for Baseball

Kansas City has always been a first rate baseball bailiwick. In fact there is talk from time to time of inserting the town in one of the big leagues, preferably the American, vice some weak sister or brother.

Until the two St. Louis major league clubs woke up and started playing a little baseball, there was chatter that one of these franchises might be moved into Kansas City. I have no doubt that this city would support a big league club very well.

Its present club, the Blues of the American association, is drawing well in the fourth spot of the standing. All Kansas City baseball clubs have been the blues since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary. It's a name that would fit a couple of the major league clubs very nicely now.

Major league baseball bugs visiting these parts find some old friends in the local lineup, such as Wambagnass, the former Clevelander; Tom Sheehan, the pitcher, and others. Good old "Casey" Stengel is managing Toledo in this league, and Ferdinand Stubblefield Schupp is pitching left handed baseball for Louisville.

It seems but yesterday that Ferdinand Stubblefield came to the Giants, a mere stripling, with plenty to learn about pitching.

Golf Goes Big in Kansas City

Golf is a big game in Kansas City. Citizens of all shapes and sizes may be seen staggering over the hills and dales of the fine golf courses in this vicinity, and a lot of the visiting newspaper men were permitted to tear up the grass at one of them, called Hillcrest, Sunday.

Among the visitors was my cellmate, Mr. Arthur "Bugs" Baer, who plays golf left handed, and in large balloon tired trousers. Mr. Baer is worth any price of admission on a golf course. I would not say he plays golf, but I do say he plays it most earnestly.

Mr. Baer is normally a humorist, but all humorists take their golf seriously. Mr. Ring Lardner, who is permitting his first national convention to miss him since Tyler was nominated, is one of the most serious golf players in the business. His golf is terrible, but you would hurt Mr. Lardner's feelings if you suggested that indubitable fact to him.

Mr. Will Rogers, another humorist, does not go in for golf. He has been playing polo since he arrived here. Mr. Rogers is a bug on polo. I hesitate to offer criticism on him as a polo player, but I can cheerfully testify that Mr. Rogers is really a very funny man.

Why No Good Golfers?

I find that Mr. Ed Cochrane, the sports editor of the Kansas City Post, is perturbed no little because other cities no larger than this have some good golfers.

Mr. Cochrane explains this proposition on the theory that golf clubs in other cities encourage young golfers more than they do in Kansas City. He says there are plenty of fine young golfers here who could reach the pinnacle of golfing success if some one would boost them a bit.

He mentions Monk Wilson, Paul Jackson, Wesley Dunlop, Frank Aylward, Morton Benedict and Ed Goettel as great prospects. Two of them, it appears, are financially able to float their own careers on the old greensward, but most of the others are former caddies, and can't pay their ways to tournaments, and the other paths of golfing achievements.

As Mr. Cochrane sees it, this is a deplorable situation. He evidently desires that Kansas City should amount to something in golf. Mr. Cochrane is himself a golfer, and you can understand his feelings.

He points out that Eddie Held, Jimmy Manion, Clarence Wolfe and Dick Bockenkamp, of St. Louis, were promoted by wealthy golfers of that city and as a result Held and Manion put St. Louis on the golfing map.

In short Mr. Cochrane seems to be trying to shame Kansas City into doing something to hoist the old home town out of the slough of golfing despond.

Ritts Riticisms

By BILL RITT

Watch the Browns, said the president of the American league as the season opened. We will if we can find them.

Watching any club but the Yanks in the American league is apt to give a fellow a crick in the neck. He'd be looking down all the time.

The Browns opened up in an old game with a new deck. The result was as disappointing as it was expected.

The St. Louisans came from Missouri and had to be shown. They were—by the Yanks, Athletics, Indians, etc.

Only one thing has kept the Browns from winning a lot of pennants. There always happened to be another ball club between it and first place.

3 NEW STEERS HELP WIN, 3-1

Pitchers' Duels Mark All Games in League

DALLAS, Texas, June 13. (AP)—Three new athletes went through their first full game for the Steers Wednesday and helped them to a 3 to 1 victory over Shreveport, evening the series.

Bunched hits mixed with bases on balls off Dickerman, enabled the locals to nose out. The triumvirate which helped put over the win consisted of Catcher Siemer, Outfielder Rosenthal and Thirdbaseman Mullen.

Siemer whaled a two-bagger in the sixth. Rosy handled six fly balls. Mullen did nothing at bat but took care of three chances in the field. Score:

TWILIGHT TITLE DECIDED TODAY

PANHANDLE TO MEET JAMES

Victory Would Give Oilers First-Half Honors

By GORDON FULCHER

The championship of the first half in the Twilight league race may be decided this afternoon when the Panhandle Longhorns and James Brothers clash at Katy park in a postponed contest.

Victory would keep the Longhorns in first place to win the first half with a percentage of .750 while a loss would tie the Steers for first place with the Texas Electrics.

Longhorns Finish Fast

The Electrics took the leadership from the first of the season and held it until the last week of the first half, when a loss to James Brothers sent the Kilowats to second place.

After getting off to a bad start the Longhorns pushed steadily upward until they topped the league.

The Steers probably have the strongest team in the loop on the field as well as the best pitching staff. Anderson, Lupher and Young have done duty on the mound while Snipe Connally, one of the best amateur pitchers in the city, has been working in the outfield and can be called into the box if he is needed.

James Strengthens

James Brothers, after being rated as the weakest team in the loop at the first of the season has turned out to be one of the foremost and probably the hardest working team in the league.

The Milkmen are hard to beat and should give the Steers one of the best battles that has been seen at Katy park this year.

James Defeats Panhandle, 12-5

Creamers Bat Timely To Score 12-5 Victory

James Brothers defeated the hard-hitting Panhandle Longhorns 12 to 5 Wednesday afternoon in a Twilight league game at Katy park. Timely hits by the Creamery batters coupled with Panhandle errors gave James Brothers their first victory in the second half race.

Wesley Thompson, third baseman, laced out three two-base hits out of four times at bat. Lefty Coe, Creamery first baseman, clouted a home run and also got three singles out of four trips to bat. Score:

Grappler Quiets Psuedo 'Officer'

By W. F. SULLIVAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 13. (UP)—Michael Lemar is not a policeman but the police know him well.

Johnny Meyer is the middleweight wrestling champion and the world knows him well—by name.

Michael knows the champ now by name and by sight, in fact, he met Meyer and is not soon to forget the meeting.

Michael and Johnny were strangers at sight when they encountered each other on the streets today. The former was belligerent while the latter was peaceful.

Michael flashed a bright star on the wrestling champion and said as he sniffed:

"See, I'm a policeman. What you got in that automobile? (Sniff). I think it's liquor."

Meyer insisted that he had no liquor in his machine and endeavored to get into the car without further molestations.

Johnny Gets "Fall"

"Just a minute, I think I'll throw you in," replied Michael.

The word "throw" aroused Johnny's wrestling blood. He thought a moment and couldn't recall any scheduled bout in Chicago but he sprang into action.

The champ's favorite grip-worked and Michael found himself in quick contact with one of Chicago's disreputable and unclean loop gutters.

At this moment some spectators appeared on the scene. Michael looked up at them from a position unbecoming an officer and jumped quickly to his feet, pivoted and retreated down the street.

"The regulars," he said, as he noticed a couple of uniformed men among the bystanders.

Meyer Still Champ

Meyer was right behind the fleeing form as he knew he must take two falls to be declared the winner. At an alleyway, he and Michael met for the deciding fall. Meyers won again through quick application of his headlock just as the spectators were reassembled.

"You win Meyer," said one of the "regular" policemen.

Turning to the fallen "officer," the spokesman continued: "Michael I guess you joke again. Where did you get the star?"

"I found it on the street," replied Michael as he was led away to one of the cells with which police say he is very familiar.

Lead Not Always Desirable

By O. B. KEELER

The front-runner is in a hard place, in an open golf championship. Take some recent instances. Jose Jurado, the brilliant little Argentine professional who scales about 120 pounds, soaking wet, started with a rush at Sandwich in the recent British open, put a couple of great qualifying rounds behind him, flashed to the front in the first and second rounds—and then died away to a 76 and an 80 in the last two, as the grim rush of the imperturbable Hagen, with Gene Sarazen and Archie Compston on his heels, sent that trio to the fore. Hagen was in his favorite position at the end of the second round, three strokes back of the lead. He then negotiated a 72 and another 72, and was two strokes in front, as rounds of 73 proved the best his nearest rivals could do, and the gallant little man from the Argentine had collapsed.

"Curious thing, starting your last round with a lead, especially a big lead," Bobby Cruickshank told me at Pinehurst. "I was six strokes ahead of Henry Cluci in the Florida open, and lost the tournament.

"The attitude is peculiar. If you're a stroke or two behind, or level, or maybe a mere stroke in front, you have your problem clear and sharp as a razor edge. You must shoot the works. With a big lead, you may tell yourself that you MUST shoot the card—but you can't seem to convince yourself. Then you go a bit slack, and the shots don't come off; and you're lucky to stagger in ahead. In this case, and in one other, not many years ago, I didn't. I staggered in behind."

A closer finish and a singularly spectacular example was that in the $15,000 Miami beach open tournament last March, when Sarazen started the final round a stroke ahead of Cruickshank and several ahead of Johnny Farrell. Sarazen slipped slightly, but Cruickshank came on with a 66, which really ought to be good enough to win any tournament in the last round if the compiler be no more than two or three strokes outside as he starts. In this case Cruickshank was a stroke to the good when he started, yet he finished in second place, two strokes behind, because Johnny went completely crazy and touched off a 63 under him.

HUMPHRIES TO BOX TRAMMEL

Spanish-American Vets Give Tonight's Boxing

Pug Humphries will meet Duke Trammel in a 10-round boxing bout at the ball park tonight, in a benefit match sponsored by the Spanish American War veterans. Proceeds from the match will be placed in the memorial fund.

An added feature of the show will be an eight-round match between "Spike" Stewart and "Cyclone" Harper. Included in the preliminaries will be a six-round go between "Frenchy" LaFevre, Grandfield, Okla., and Pat McGuire, Shreveport, La.; Alvie Anderson and Allan Kates, four rounds; and "Chief" Humphries and Kenneth Adams, four rounds.

Adult tickets will sell at 75 cents, ladies' tickets at 50 cents, and kids' admission passes for a dime. Ringside seats are on sale at the Renfro and Miller drug stores and Wolff Brothers Cigar store.

MICKEY DRILLS TO FIGHT ACE

Walker Expects Hard Fight From Hudkins

By WARREN BROWN

CHICAGO, June 13. (US)—While Ace Hudkins, the challenger, is working himself into a frenzy talking about all the folks he would like to fight, Mickey Walker, the champion, is proceeding with a campaign to battle himself into condition for the middleweight title defense at the Sox park this month.

Walker figures to come into the ring against Hudkins in the best condition of his career.

He does not regard the Nebraskan as a soft touch, and looks for a bitter struggle, in which both himself and the challenger may have to make trips to the canvas before the warring is completed. Consequently Walker, under the guidance of his manager, Jack Kearns, is getting himself in shape for anything.

This contest between Walker and Hudkins at the present time, figures to be the outstanding championship contest of the year.

It promises a great deal more in the way of fighting spirit and the will to battle than the meeting between Eugenie Tunney and Tom Heeney, and it ought to run up a gate receipts total that will be second only to the affair of the long count.

Curiously enough, New York and Los Angeles have been quicker to recognize the sheer fighting promise of this bout than Chicago, where the combat is actually to take place.

Promoter Jim Mullen has been besieged with requests for press reservations by all the papers of these two cities, and he will doubtless attract customers from both sections of the country.

The fight will be the first, save the battle of the long count, in which principals appearing in Chicago bouts have pitched training camps in this vicinity. In most of the other engagements, championship or not, the fighters have appalled themselves of the facilities of Mullen's gym.

LOMSKI FOULS LATZO IN SIXTH

Pete Leading Savage Fight As Low Blow Ends Mill

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

EBBETTS FIELD, BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 13. (UP)—Pete Latzo, of New Jersey, former welterweight champion, won on a foul after one minute and 23 seconds of fighting in the sixth round of a scheduled 10 round bout with Leo Lomski, Aberdeen Assassin, here tonight.

The sudden ending left 15,000 spectators gasping after witnessing five rounds of some of the most sensational fighting seen in a New York ring in months.

Latzo, who 13 days ago gave the light heavyweight champion, Tommy Loughran, an unexpected scare in a title fight, came back into the same ring tonight doped to lose only to outfight Lomski through five rounds of hammer and tongs battling.

Leo Fouls Frequently

A low right, brought up from the floor, sent Latzo writhing to the canvas, and Referee Lou Magnolia waved Lomski to his corner, awarding the match to Latzo.

Lomski, swinging wildly all evening, had been repeatedly warned by Referee Magnolia for his low punches, but could not seem to bring them up.

Jimmy Johnston, Latzo's manager, protested frantically about Lomski's low punches during the rest period between the fifth and sixth rounds, and Referee Magnolia had to order him out of the ring. Johnston had previously jumped up in the third round and shouted, "What's wrong, Magnolia? Can't you see those low punches?" at the top of his voice.

No Question On Foul

There was no question about the punch which ended the fight. It was six inches below the belt and made Latzo go down writhing in pain. He was helped to his corner and revived sufficiently to have Jack Humphries hoist his hand in victory.

Lomski rushed out and out-slugged Latzo in the first two rounds, but there his advantage ended. Latzo set the Aberdeen Pole back on his heels as they met in mid-ring for the third round, and from then on the western fighter was fighting desperately to stand-off the wild rushes of the former 147-pound champion.

Leo Groggy in Fifth

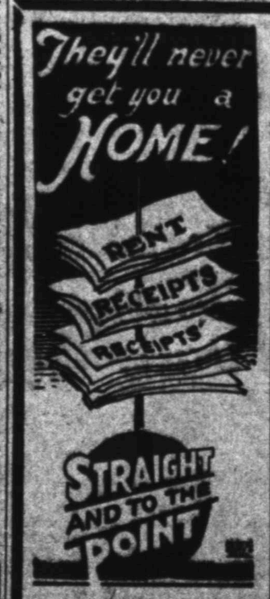

Latzo had Lomski groggy in the fifth round and drove him around the ring with a furious attack which had the crowd on its feet yelling for a knockout.

Latzo, rated a 5 to 3 choice in the ringside betting before the opening ball, now is in a position to demand another bout with Loughran after the latter's meeting with Jimmy Slattery June 28. Latzo also will have a chance to win the middleweight title if he can make the 160-pound weight limit as the winner of tonight's battle was promised the match with Mickey Walker July 4.

Lomski weighed 175, Latzo 170½.

Eddie (Kid) Whalen, 155, Brooklyn, defeated Georgie Lee, 152½, Worcester, Mass., in 10 rounds.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 13. (AP)—The cotton market today recovered part of yesterday's losses on covering or rebuying promoted by reports of an improved tone in the stock market, bullish features in weather and crop advices and a firmer technical position after the break Tuesday. October contracts sold up to 20.51, or 38 points above the low level of the previous day, and closed at 20.43. The general market closed steady, at net advances of 15 to 22 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 5 to 8 points. Over-night selling orders brought in by yesterday's weakness were quickly absorbed around initial prices and the marked turned upward. Offerings were much lighter, as if liquidation of old long accounts had run its course for the time being, while reports of rains in parts of the south and the forecast for showers in the western belt seemed to bring in buying for a further rally.

The first flash of the weekly report of the weather bureau made rather a bearish impression on sentiment, as there was a flurry of selling on its publication, but offerings were absorbed on setbacks of a few points, and the market firmed up again later, influenced by mention of bullish features in the details.

July sold up to 20.42 and December to 20.34, net gains of 25 to 30 points on more active months. The close was several points from the best under realizing by early buyers.

Private cables said liquidation had been absorbed by Continental and Bombay buying on a scale down in Liverpool.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 13. (AP)—Cotton prices today recovered a greater part of the loss sustained yesterday although trading was not as active as on the previous day. An improved technical position and prospects for unsettled weather in the belt were the main influences although the improvement in New York stocks accounted for a good part of the recovery.

October contracts, after opening 9 points up at 19.78, eased off to 19.71, but the subsequent steady advance carried the delivery to 19.94, up 25 points from the previous close. The option closed 2 points under the top with the general market steady at a net advance of 23 to 25 points.

Liverpool cables were slightly better than due and first trades here showed gains of 8 to 9 points. Execution of some overnight selling orders caused a recession of 5 to 9 points, with July trading off to 19.97, October to 19.71, and December 19.70.

The official forecast for showers and a slightly bullish interpretation of weekly weather and crop summary brought out considerable buying which was further stimulated by the strength of the New York stock market. At mid-session July had traded up to 20.11, October 19.87, and December 19.85, or 16 to 18 points above the previous close.

After mid-session there was another spurt of buying based on the liberal rains reported in Texas and Oklahoma, parts of Arkansas, Louisiana, Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia. There was also some covering, and before the demand was supplied July had reached 20.20 and October and December 19.94, or 25 to 27 points above the previous close. The close was near the top.

Banking Support Lends Aid To Weakened Stock Market; Oils Gain

By BROADAN WALL
Universal Service Financial Expert

NEW YORK, June 13.—Stocks rallied in orderly trading today, led by Steel common and other standard industrials. The recovery had been evidenced by the better tone in government bonds toward the close Tuesday, as pointed out here, for it evidenced that banking powers feared the decline was proceeding too rapidly and were ready to give support for awhile at least.

Combustion, Chrysler and other group favorites enjoyed the best advances as they were churned again by pool managers.

The advance was entirely due to banking support helped by technical conditions and was shared in by rails, oils and other groups to almost equal extent. Call money held at 6 per cent and appeared in fair supply.

Brokers' loans figures will be announced after the close tomorrow by the federal reserve board at Washington. Brokers estimate a decline of from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000. Anything less than $150,000,000 would not be bullish.

Considering the amount of new financing in the week to be reported on and the untamable propensity of the "public" to "buy on reaction" the decline may be less than generally expected.

No matter what falling off is shown the report will indicate that stocks are still in weak hands for while the average prices are near the low of the year the reduction in loans of the past week will constitute only the first cut effected by the reserve banks.

With tight money ahead for the balance of this month the reserve officials are not likely to miss the opportunity for getting further correction.

Motor merger was again a popular topic of discussion due to admission of the Studebaker officials that "conversations" had been held looking to the acquisition of Pierce Arrow. Just as in other motor consolidations recently, the street is puzzled as to benefits from such grouping especially if current market valuations are taken as a basis of exchange.

Durant interests, it was claimed, were at work on merger plans and Hupp and Packard reflected such report in as much as Mr. Durant and his friends reputedly hold a substantial amount of those two stocks.

In connection with the Chrysler-Dodge deal it was pointed out that a "joker" in the Maryland law did not promise well for Dodge stockholders who did not make the exchange of stock.

Grain

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE
Universal Service

CHICAGO, June 13.—All the grains closed lower today. Longs in the nearby corn futures spilled their accumulations with a free hand, and the July dropped about 3 cents.

The number of ardent crop experts was increased by a new one who solemnly announced as the result of a birdseye view gathered on an automobile ride that the prospect for corn this year is exceedingly "slim." It's a great world for experts. We do not hesitate to say, however, as the result of a taxi-ride through the loop, that the 1928 crop of corn will be the largest in three years.

At the close today wheat was 1⅛c to 2c lower; corn was down 1c to 3⅜c; oats were off ⅛c to 1c; rye was down 1⅞c to 2⅜c.

Wheat looked pretty well sold out when the final gong rang. It may be an exceedingly dangerous short sale on any weakness early this morning. A good reaction is due, and the market appeared at the end to be in shape to turn up sharply on any persistent buying.

Wheat was sold early, but on the first break down to the early bottom it was covered. On the rally it was sold again and again covered on the break.

The corn market appears to me to be in a dangerous situation. Pressing the short side on declines may prove costly. It may be a good market for the outsider to stay away from for a time.

The prospect for the new crop continues to be excellent. This is hard to ignore. Against it, in the market sense, is the situation in the nearby futures which depends entirely upon the volition of holders of long corn.

Today corn is quite likely to show strength instead of weakness. It is this possibility of the market to change its attitude abruptly overnight that makes corn dangerous to trade in at present.

Totals	260,251	262,060	1,096

Mission Pool

Gypsy Oil company's No. 1 Mission, in the southwest corner of 5-8-6, which topped the Wilcox sand at 4327 feet, and is but four feet in to a total depth of 4341 feet, made 2702 barrels in the 24 hours ended Tuesday morning. The tools are now out of the hole.

Earlsboro Pool

In the Earlsboro pool, Roxana Petroleum corporation topped the Viola lime at 4256 feet, an dis setting casing the 6⅝ at 4283 feet, in No. 2 Hearn, in the southwest corner of the northeast of the northwest of 13-9-5. This offsets Prairie Oil and Gas company's Nos. 5 and 6 Davis.

Bowlegs Pool

Twin States Oil company's No. 1 Lowe, in the southwest corner of the southeast of 25-8-6, Bowlegs pool, topped the Simpson sand at 4313 feet, is drilling at 4339 feet, and has a showing of oil.

Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 1 Davis, in the northwest corner of the southeast of 13-8-6, topped the sand at 4218 feet and is bailing at 4220 feet, there being 100 feet of oil and water in the hole.

Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company's No. 3 Hull, in the southeast corner of the northwest of the southeast of 26-8-6, topped the sand at 4167 feet, and at a total depth of 4194 feet, flowed 2176 barrels on air in 24 hours.

HINES-PANHANDLE-WAGGONER

Harry Hines and Panhandle company No. 1 J. & J. Waggoner, located in G. C. S. F. survey, lot 2, block 2, southwest Wichita county, is completed in the sand at 1394-97 feet and is swabbing at the rate of 50 barrels daily.

TWO DUE FOR CONSOLIDATED

The Consolidated Oil company has cemented and set pipe on its Nos. 2 and 3 W. T. Waggoner wells in block 5, section 4, H. & T. C. R. R. survey, southeast Wilbarger county, offsetting the discovery well, both topping the pay at 1343 feet.

PANDEM-WILSON

The Pandem Oil company made location for its No. 1 L. F. Wilson test to be drilled 150 feet south of center of north line of section 82, lot 780, A. T. N. C. L. survey, south of the Wilmot pool in Archer county. This marks a revival of activity by Pandem.

NORTHEAST OF KEMP CITY

Swabbing at the rate of 200 barrels per day, the No. A-1 well of L. P. (Pink) Hammond, located in northeast corner of block 30, W. V. F. L., Munger brothers farm, northeast of Kemp City, is showing up as one of the best brought in from this area. The oil, which is coming in at a rate of 800 feet an hour was picked up at 1750 feet, somewhat higher than it was encountered in the other wells of this section. No. 2 location has been made to the south.

ON NETHERTON RANCHO

Harry Hines and associates No. 1 E. J. Netherton, located in block 104, A. T. N. C. L. survey in Archer county is drilling at a depth of 1225 feet.

MAER-STANIFORTH- PANDEM

Maer-Staniforth, and Pandem Oil company are preparing to put down a joint test on the A. L. Harris land, 825 feet north, and 150 feet west, of the southeast corner of block 71, J. W. Harris sub-division, Archer county.

Texaco Makes Three Locations

Special to The Record News:

ELECTRA, Texas, June 13.—The Texas Co. staked three new locations this week in the Gray Back Crossing area, offsetting their production in section 24, block 4. The new wells will be Texas Co. Nos. 355, 356 and 357. Derricks are to be built at once.

R. H. Cook has made location and will rig up this week to drill on the Throckmorton lease, James Torrey survey, A-132, four miles southeast of Electra.

The Manhattan Oil Co. (Hal Hughes et al), No. B-1 Waggoner, were obliged to shut down for two days this week, on account of high water, which prevented the workmen from crossing Beaver Creek. This location is one mile southeast of the Craig bridge and is a wild cat south of the Gray Back pool. They resumed drilling at 1250 feet. The same company, No. A-1 Waggoner, northwest of the bridge, is drilling at 2530 feet.

Merger of Pierce-Arrow With Studebaker Corporation Planned

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 13. (UP) Another large automobile merger—the proposed combine of the Studebaker corporation with the Pierce Arrow Motor Car company—probably will be consummated late next week, it was intimated here today by Pierce Arrow officials.

M. E. Forbes, president and general manager of the Pierce Arrow company, declined to comment on the reported consolidation; but other officials of the company said negotiations were under way between Forbes and A. L. Erskine, president of the Studebaker company.

The conference in New York between Forbes and Erskine was described as "informal." The board of directors of the Pierce Arrow company were called into session late today.

FAIN-M'GAHA BRING IN WELL

No. S-4 Waggoner Stacks Up as 1000-Barreler

Another big producer was added to the rapidly mounting number on the Waggoner pasture in southeast Wilbarger county, when the Fain-McGaha company's No. S-4, located in the southwest portion of the northwest quarter of southeast quarter, of section 24, block 4, H. & T. C. R. R. survey was completed and is swabbing and flowing with an estimated production of 1000 barrels. The new well is located one-half mile south of the Waggoner Refining company's H-1 gusher completed a few days ago, and topped the upper sand at 2291-2305 feet. The lower pay was picked up at 2389 and penetrated two feet.

The same company has set and cemented pipe on its No. S-5, in the same section but about one-half mile to the west of production. Four other tests are rigging up, Nos. 6, 7, 8 and 9 on the Waggoner "S" lease.

South Has Its Day at Meeting

Texas Contest Shows Hoover's Strength

By GERALD P. NYE
United States Senator From North Dakota

KANSAS CITY, June 13. (US)—What is generally considered as being the first test of Hoover convention strength was that vote of Wednesday upon the credentials committee minority report. This report would have displaced Texas Hoover delegates with delegates opposed to him. The report was defeated, 676 to 395. The vote is interesting not alone because it is represented as indicating Hoover strength, but because of the complexion of the vote.

Hoover, according to this test, has 676 votes at this time. This is hardly accurate, since for example, the anti-Hoover Nebraska delegation contributed 18 votes to that total. Counting away the Nebraska vote would leave Hoover on this so-called test 658.

Of that number, 104 came from southern states which have never contributed an electoral vote to the Republican candidate. Sixty-seven more came from states which are far more frequently Democratic than Republican. Take away these two sets of delegates' votes from Hoover and his test yesterday would have found him with a total of 487 votes, the great bulk of it from the industrial states, and 58 votes short of the required number to nominate.

Thus can it be demonstrated what a balance of power, yea, what a determining force, the delegates from Democratic states are or can be in Republican conventions. Directed as these delegations invariably are by the administration forces, it is easy to see how misrepresentive of genuine Republican strength and wishes a convention may be.

But the south has its voice today. Why waste time explaining why it appears that western Republicanism is going to be defeated, perhaps upon the first ballot, by the Hoover forces?

OWSLEY BACK TO HOME TOWN

Speaks at Gainesville Wednesday Night

Special to The Record News.

GAINESVILLE, Texas, June 13. After being away from the old home town for over three and one-half months, Alvin M. Owsley, candidate for United States senator, returned to Denton Wednesday to be on hand and greet the visiting firemen at their convention. "I've had a great time today," said Mr. Owsley, "and it looks as though I would carry the firemen solid."

Mr. Owsley addressed the Democrats of Gainesville in Cook county Wednesday night in the same courtroom where he has tried many a case in the past and a multitude of his friends were on hand to greet him. Mr. Owsley immediately began the discussion of the issues now before the Democrats of Texas, especially farm relief, explaining in clear, concise words the workings of his plan in comparison to that of his opponents.

"Law enforcement," said Mr. Owsley, "has been very lacking the past eight years. What we need in Washington is a complete change of regimes and the party of the people returned to power. I believe in the enforcement of all the laws and exceptions made of none of them." The further need of good roads and tariff revision to protect the farmer was also discussed in length by Mr. Owsley.

Mr. Owsley was introduced by Mr. Cecil Murphy, city attorney, and seated on the platform was W. O. Garnett, J. H. Garnett, Fred V. Blucher, commander of the legion post, Granville Jones, James Ralph Bell, W. E. Murphy, J. P. Adams, P. F. Mitchell, L. C. House and R. A. McElrath.

Girl Racers Stumble Again

ST. JOHNS, N. F., June 13. (UP) The prospective race across the Atlantic by air to England between Miss Amelia Earhart with her monoplane Friendship and Miss Mabel Boll in the Columbia was postponed for at least another day when the Friendship failed to take the air after three attempts on Trepassey bay and Miss Boll announced she preferred to rest until Thursday.

Wilber Stultz, Miss Earhart's pilot, announced he would try again Thursday to get the Friendship off the water into the air by reducing her heavy load of gasoline.

Experts beleive the Friendship's gasoline supply must be materially reduced before the giant airship can take off. They believe, also, that the heavy plane will not rise with sufficient gasoline for the Atlantic flight.

It is predicted the Friendship will have to be taken to Conception bay nearby and start with a lighter load.

Miss Boll's Columbia is a land plane—the same in which Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine flew to Germany last summer—and little trouble in starting is anticipated.

Three Counties Given Road Aid Wednesday

AUSTIN, Texas, June 13. (AP)—Three counties were added today to the list of those to benefit in road construction contracts to be let June 21 by the highway commission.

They are Jones, Callahan, and Taylor. Concrete pavement or alternate type of brick pavement on highway 1-A from east city limits of Abilene northeast across the three counties to Shackelford county line is provided.

Paving of Small Unit To Complete State Road

OTTAWA, Kan., June 12. (UP)—Action of the Franklin county commissioners today in calling for bids to pave from Ottawa north to the Douglas county line will complete the final gap in the hard surfacing of U. TEXAS UTILITY WORK IS TOLD

Contact With Schools In State Described

WASHINGTON, June 13. (AP)—Contacts established by the Texas Public Service Information bureau and the Southwestern Public Service association with college professors, colleges, and other educational institutions in the southwest, particularly in Texas, were described today by C. W. Davis of Dallas, chairman of the bureau and a member of the association, at the federal trade commission's utility investigation.

Another witness, S. J. Ballinger, secretary of the southwestern division of the National Electric Light association, testified that his organization which represents Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi, the same states in the territory of the Southwestern Public Service association, planned to spend $20,000 this year on public relations work.

His organization, Ballinger said, already had paid the expenses of a meeting of professors called by Dean C. O. Ruggles, formerly of Ohio State university, at New Orleans to discuss utility courses in colleges. He added that the expenses of many professors to this gathering had been paid by the organization.

Davis testified that the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college was used by the southwestern associations as an avenue through which a survey of rural electrification was made by John E. Waggoner, a former farm implement salesman from Chicago, who is connected with the institution.

Documents, introduced into the record, showed that in 1927 the association spent $3241 for the survey and that in 1928 the survey expenses have amounted to $5419. Davis, who also is vice president of the Dallas Power and Light company testified that the money was paid to the college which turned the funds over to Waggoner.

Davis described in his testimony that utility men in Texas delivered addresses at colleges, and in high schools and of the work of women employes who are trained by the companies to address children in grade schools on technical subjects.

Creager Gains Full Control

committee recommending that the district delegates, followers of Congressman Harry Wurzbach, be seated. The case had been appealed to the convention committee from a decision of the national executive committee placing the Creager faction on the temporary roll.

The convention action is final and leaves Creager in complete control of the Texas situation. District elected delegates summoned here to take their seats if they won them were left without voices or guest seats in the convention.

Mrs. Mabel W. Willebrandt, assistant United States attorney general, submitted the majority report favoring the Creager faction chiefly on grounds that party rules adopted in 1916 provide for state convention selection of district delegates when the state law authorizes it, as the majority held was the case in Texas.

The fight extending until 1 a. m. today before the credentials committee was re-enacted in some measure before the convention.

Cites Principle

Submitting the minority report, Daniel Hastings of Delaware declared that district selection of delegates has been a Republican principle since 1880.

He was cheered when he demanded to know whether a "Democratic legislature in Texas can pass a law binding upon the Republican national convention which is plenty able to take care of itself."

No appeal was made from the committee's decision denying the Wurzbach delegates at large seats, consequently when Texas was reached on roll call the Creager delegates at large were allowed to vote on the question.

Oklahoma's delegation cast its 20 votes for the Wurzbach group, repudiating the adverse vote of the Oklahoma national committeeman, W. G. Skelly, Tulsa oil magnate, in the executive committee some days ago.

Negroes Polled

When the Georgia vote was called the chairman reported six votes for the Wurzbach group and 10 for Creager. A negro delegate demanded a poll of the delegation and this showed only two voting for Wurzbach.

Cheers halted the roll call when United States Senator Deneen cast the 61 Illinois votes for Wurzbach who was upheld mainly by states favoring candidates composing anti-Hoover coalition.

Besides those mentioned the following states were represented in the minority report: Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, South Carolina, South Dakota, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Several other state delegations split up on the roll call. New York gave Wurzbach 59 votes and Creager 31.

Houston Ocean Trade Totals Half Billion

HOUSTON, Texas, June 13. (AP)—Though situated 50 miles from the Gulf coast line, Houston has brought the ocean to its front door so huge ocean-going ships of many nations may discharge and load cargoes.

For more than half a century sluggish Buffalo Bayou carried small oyster-laden schooners and similar craft from the Gulf of Mexico to this city. Today shipping interests of the world know it as the Houston ship channel.

Transformation of the former bayou or river to a deep water ship channel and the creation of port facilities here was accomplished by the expenditure of approximately $20,000,000.

Last year 3560 vessels of 63 steamship lines arrived and departed, carrying 12,000,000 tons of products valued at $516,000,000.

Duke Rolls Up Sleeves, Works On Church Tower

INVERARAY, Scotland, June 13. (AP)—With his coat off, his shirt sleeves rolled up to his elbows, and a short pipe in his mouth, the Duke of Argyll is working here as a laborer to help forward the building of a new tower for a peal of bells for All Saints' Episcopal church.

He fetches stone from a quarry, wheels a barrow, and does other muscular jobs, keeping the same hours and observing the same conditions as the other workmen employed on the building.

The duke, who is 56, is the titular head of the great clan Campbell and a nephew of the Princess Louise, daughter of Queen Victoria. The ducal residence, Inveraray Castle, adjoins this town.

There are 250,000 words in the English langauge—70,000 more than in the French, German and Spanish languages combined.

FOUR INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. W. T. Boone Reported Improving

Mrs. W. T. Boone of Lubbock, mother of T. R. Boone, who was injured in an automobile accident near Floydada Tuesday afternoon, was resting well at a Floydada hospital Wednesday, according to E. T. Duff, who returned from Floydada Wednesday evening.

Miss Lalla Boone of Lubbock, a sister of Mr. Boone, Mary Boone of Wichita Falls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Boone, and Elizabeth Allbritton of Wichita Falls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Allbritton, also were slightly injured in the accident.

Mrs. Boone suffered a broken wrist and body injuries, Mr. Duff said. It was believed that her injuries would not prove fatal.

The party had just left Floydada for Lubbock, where Miss Lalla Boone is a member of the faculty of the Texas Technological college, Mr. Duff said. The automobile overturned a number of times, pinning Mrs. Boone beneath the wreckage.

The two Wichita Falls girls returned here with Mr. Duff Wednesday.

Deaths

MRS. LEONA WOLF

The body of Mrs. Leona Wolf, 28, who died in a local hospital Tuesday noon, was forwarded by the Hines mortuary to Clairette, Texas, Wednesday night.

J. W. ARMSTRONG

The body of J. W. Armstrong, who died at a local hospital Monday, was forwarded by the Hines mortuary to Denton Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Armstrong is survived by his widow and two sons, J. W. Armstrong Jr., of Borger and F. L. Armstrong of Putnam.

MRS. BEULAH ROSS

Funeral services for Mrs. Beulah Ross, 40, of 804 Tyler, who died in a local hospital Tuesday night, will be held from the Floral Heights Baptist church Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock with the Rev. W. H. Albertson officiating. The body will be forwarded by the Hines mortuary to Electra for burial.

Mrs. Ross is survived by her husband, W. L. Ross, two sons and one daughter.

Equalization Board Ends First Survey

The preliminary survey of the city tax values by the Wichita Falls board of equalization was completed Wednesday by the board of equalization in the offices of W. R. Hyer, city tax assessor and collector.

The board will recess until the actual hearings start, which probably will be the second week in July.

Meantime, the values suggested by the board will be entered by the tax office. After that is done, cards will be sent out to all who may have any adjustment of any kind to take up with the department. The cards will allow a reasonable time to appear, and this is usually considered to be 10 days, according to Mr. Hyer.

The formal hearings will start with the response to the cards.

Today, At the Theaters

MAJESTIC: Adolphe Menjou in "A Night of Mystery." Inkwell comedy. Novelty, "Fantasy." Paramount news.
STRAND: Last times of "Sorrell and Son." Pathe news. On the vitaphone: Brown and Whitaker in "In the Park," and The Revelers, Victor recording artists.
OLYMPIC: Last times of Laura LaPlante in "Finders Keepers."
GARDEN: Mary Pickford in "My Best Girl." Comedy.
GEM: Zane Gray's "Under Tonto Rim." Comedy.

Two shows close here today. "Sorrell and Son" at the Strand and "Finders Keepers" at the Olympic are winding up their runs. Both are excellent pictures.

A new show, "A Night of Mystery," starring Adolphe Menjou is opening at the Majestic.

The new shows at the Strand and Olympic which will open Friday are "Tenderloin" and "Aflame in the Sky."

◇ ◇ ◇

"Tenderloin" is a talking motion picture as was Al Jolson's "The Jazz Singer." "Tenderloin" is the second complete feature film to be presented in Wichita Falls. As the talkies have been gradually improving, "Tenderloin" has marked another step forward. Its opening in New York a short time ago was one of the greatest things the talkie world has known. It has more dialogue than any other to date, and of course it has the vitaphone at work throughout the play. When the machine is not turning out words it is turning out music or else some other sounds to make the presentation more natural.

◇ ◇ ◇

The short vitaphone features which have been presented each performance at the Strand have been quite marvelous to see and hear. Some folks have failed to appreciate the fact that the talkies are new and must be developed. Twenty-five years ago, we couldn't get an enclosed, luxurious, balloon tired automobile that would sail along in comfort and safety at 60 and 70 miles an hour. Lots of folks of those days had champagne appetites in automobiles, but that didn't do them much good for the scientists and manufacturers had only reached the beer making stage in auto building. The public will never appreciate things which are handed to it on a silver platter, and it won't get any real pleasure out of it in years to come, if it is handed on a silver platter.

MEDIC HEAVES BOLT AT BILL

Chicago Mayor Flayed For Health Tactics

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 13. (UP)—Dr. Louis I. Harris, commissioner of public health of New York city, heaved a medical "pineapple" at Mayor William H. Thompson of Chicago today when he suggested creation of a federal health department with a portfolio in the president's cabinet "to correct the crazy quilt pattern of civic health administration."

"A secretary of health would have prevented the brutal and unceremonious dismissal by Thompson of Herman N. Bundesen, city health commissioner and other nationally-known men because of political reasons," Dr. Harris said.

Dr. Harris denounced in strong terms the attempt of politicians to "make public health a public football to be kicked about."

"Why glorify the hogs under strict supervision and legislation and allow human health regulations with crazy-quilt patterns?" he asked. "America is the butt of critics' jibes, methods and budgets without rhyme or reason, each city with different regulations."

Dr. Harris suggested that should a federal health department be created it would direct health operations such as making regulations of food, milk and living conditions.

"Many of the largest cities in the country," he continued, "have unregulated milk inflow. Tubercular milk is the cause of tuberculosis and hunchbacks among babies. An epidemic of typhoid in Montreal a year ago was said to have been traceable to tubercular milk.

"A short time before the epidemic, one newspaper made a fight for regulations. Seven or eight thousand persons suffered typhoid and 10 per cent of the cases were fatal. It was a wonder the families did not sue the city for damages."

Lake Wichita Nears Top of Spillway

A further rise of half a foot was noted in Lake Wichita Wednesday by Dr. A. H. Douglass, manager of the water department. The water is now quite close to the spillway, and it won't take much more water to run it over into the drain.

City Manager George D. Fairtrace inspected the lake and the spillway Wednesday afternoon, and found it in generally good condition. The water had covered a great part of the level land which on Tuesday had been dry. It was quite near where the water passes over the roadway which leads to the spillway a few yards away.

SAUL'S HOST TO THOUSANDS

Huge Crowd Attends Party For Anniversary

Gigantic crowds packed the grand stand and taxed the facilities of the Texas-Oklahoma fair grounds at the Wednesday night celebration of the anniversary of Saul's store.

Ralph DeShong, manager, estimated the crowd at 10,000.

Pyrotechnics and music filled the air. Red Phillips, baseball announcer for the Spudders, led the crowd in community singing. The Panhandle Refining company band played and received high compliments from Mr. DeShong.

Fireworks Display

A special fireworks display was the 14th anniversary sign which unfolded itself in fiery letters before the grandstand. It was the surprise of the evening.

The windup was a gigantic American flag. As this piece was set off, the band played the "Star Spangled Banner."

So great were the crowds, and so far were they they beyond the expectations of the store, that it was difficult to handle them, Mr. DeShong said.

However, that didn't matter much as the crowd had a good time, especially when the band played "The Old Gray Mare." Mr. DeShong said the 14th anniversary sale would open at the store Thursday morning.

The celebration did not drag. There was something doing all the time, and when it was over and there wasn't any more, the crowd went home well satisfied.

Free Trolley Rides

The next free feature of the anniversary sale starts at 9 o'clock Thursday morning when all town bound street cars will carry the passengers for Saul's store free of charge. Immediately after that the sale starts.

The store front has been gaily decked out in bunting and flags and signs telling of the sale.

Practically the entire stock of the store, with the addition of 25 tons of good merchandise at reasonable prices, which was especially purchased for the sale, will be offered at reduced prices, according to the announcements.

The entire city has been invited by Mr. DeShong to come to the store, attend the sale and have a good time.

Acquittal Is Won On Charge of "Blocking"

Second of five men arrested by city police Tuesday on the corner of Seventh and Indiana was acquitted of charges of "blocking the sidewalk" by a jury in corporation court Wednesday afternoon. One man had previously been convicted on the charge and assessed a fine of $1. Appeal from the verdict Tuesday had not been filed, but appeal bond was made.

Of the three remaining men charged with blocking the sidewalk, one goes on trial Thursday. Two have not demanded a trial.

The man freed by jury trial Wednesday testified that he had arrived on the Seventh street corner a few minutes before his arrest by police.

Potato Growers To Sell Crop Locally

Ben Keith of the Keith Produce company of Fort Worth was principal speaker at a called meeting of the Wichita Potato Growers association at the courthouse Tuesday night, where it was decided by the growers that they would seek to market the 1928 potato crop locally.

Less than half a yield on the 325 acres planted in the county is expected, according to G. C. McGown. Harvest is expected to start within the next week.

Wichita county potatoes will be marketed under the trade name "City of Faith," it was decided.

Before Baby Comes

Zoo Gets Another Marvel After Cop Speeds to Rescue Girl From 'Wolf'

"There's a big wolf out in my back yard, come quickly," an excited woman, living on the west end of Ninth street, phoned police officers Wednesday afternoon.

Carefully adjusting his artillery and cranking up the "hoodlum" wagon, Ellis Summers, motorcycle officer, sped to the rescue.

A few minutes later he returned to the police station. First glance in the "hoodlum" failed to reveal the captive, but a second look showed a coyote pup curled in a corner of the rolling cage.

MEXICO'S ACE TO TRY AGAIN

'Lone Eagle' Plans Through Hop Home

WASHINGTON, June 13. (US)—Mexico's boy flier, Captain Emilio Carranza, "did" Washington today, had a good time and then with a pair of dark eyes squinting skyward, said:

"I guess I'll fly back to Mexico City, non-stop from New York."

He will make the attempt in about 15 days, he said. His decision was prompted because dense fog forced him to make an intermediate landing during his Mexico City to Washington flight.

This was a proud day for Mexico's premier birdman. President Coolidge entertained him at luncheon and personally praised his intrepid air journey. Secretary of State and Mrs. Kellogg had him as the honor guest at dinner. Tonight Ambassador Tellez tendered him a reception at the Mexican embassy.

Modest Boy

Captain Carranza went through it all with the unassuming modesty of the true aerial adventurer. Refreshed from a good night's sleep the aviator's first mission this morning was a visit to Arlington National cemetery, where he laid a wreath on the tomb of America's unknown soldier.

Carranza made it plain, however, that when he starts back he will see to it that he has food close beside his pilot's seat. He hungered on the flight to Washington because the packet of food, during last minute preparations was stowed securely in the after part of the plane. So far as reaching it was concerned it might as well have been tied to the tail skid.

Mother Fails To Imprison Daughter

A 16-year-old girl was placed in the custody of the Children's Aid society of West Texas Wednesday after Judge P. A. Martin had denied a mother's petition that her daughter be imprisoned in the state training school for girls.

The mother, it was brought out during the testimony, has been married five times.

The girl, placed on the stand by Wayne Somerville, county attorney, and Mayor J. W. Akin, who represented the society, told Judge Martin that she had tried to leave home at different times because of the objectionable environment there.

The parents attempted to invoke a state law which provides that children whom parents cannot control be confined to the state training school. They alleged that the girl would not obey them and that she was wayward.

The aid society, in fighting the efforts of the parents to have the girl confined in the training school, upheld her efforts to escape from the environment in which her parents lived.

C-C Committee Approves Trade Trip

The agricultural committee of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce Wednesday approved the plans for the Wisconsin trade trip and also the schedules which had been tentatively arranged by J. W. Chatham, traffic and industrial manager of the chamber.

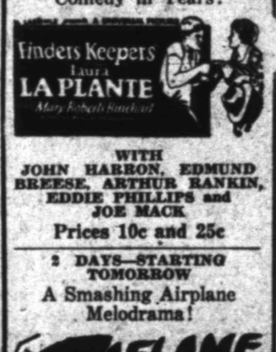

Report Expected Soon On Blackmer Evidence

NEW YORK, June 13. (UP)—District Attorney Banton will report within a few days to Governor Smith upon evidence which is believed sufficient to warrant indictment and extradition of Henry H. Blackmer, missing Teapot Dome scandal witness who is a fugitive in France.

Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, wrote to Governor Smith last fall suggesting that steps be taken to bring the former Denver oil man back to New York.

CITY FILES CLAIM

Damage Asked From Insurance Firms For Rain

The city of Wichita Falls will now endeavor to get back a part of the money it has spent on insurance premiums, according to W. E. McBroom, city clerk.

Wednesday, a formal claim was made for $35 to cover the damage to the roof of the city auditorium in the recent storm. The claim was made under a storm and tornado damage policy.

SERVICES FOR RABY TODAY

Body of Wichitan Sent To Comanche

Funeral services for W. F. Raby, 52, local real estate dealer who was killed Saturday morning when struck by an automobile on the Iowa Park road, about eight miles from Wichita Falls, will be held in Comanche, Texas, Thursday afternoon. The body was to have been forwarded to Comanche at 3 o'clock Thursday morning by the Burris-Shepherd Undertaking company.

The accident in which Mr. Raby met his death occurred when he stepped in front of an automobile driven by Miss D'Laural Beville, teacher in the Edinburg high school. Mr. Raby was hidden from the driver of the car by a truck stopped by the roadside, it was brought out at the inquest.

Mr. Raby is survived by his widow, one daughter, Willie Raby, and one son, Elmer Raby. Mr. and Mrs. Raby had lived near Wichita Falls for about three years. He was engaged in the real estate business here.

BURK BRIDGE AGAIN OPEN

Traffic Resumed Between Texas and Oklahoma

The Burkburnett free bridge over the Red river was reopened to traffic Wednesday afternoon after having been out of service for several weeks due to the washout of the north approach on the Oklahoma side of the bridge.

This approach is 1200 feet long and is primarily a dirt fill. A wire screen has been placed along a large part of it to help keep the river from washing the dirt away again.

Wednesday afternoon the bridge was alive with traffic, and the streets of Burkburnett were crowded with cars that had just "come over."

Milk routes among the farms along the north side of the river will be reorganized by the Kraft Cheese company at once, and many other industries which were halted when the dirt washed out will again become active.
