Board Of Control Members To Be Here Tuesday To Hear City's Bid

Plans to back up Big Spring's bid for location of the $817,000 West Texas hospital for the insane went forward Thursday, after receipt of information that members of the state board of control will be here next Tuesday, June 29, for hearings on the application of Big Spring and nearby cities.

A chamber of commerce committee headed by Dr. M. H. Bennett discussed the procedure for presentation of the city's application.

According to Associated Press dispatches from Austin, the board will hold hearings here for Big Spring, Odessa, Midland and Kermit. The board's tour of West Texas proffered sites will start Monday, when the group will be in San Angelo.

Following the hearings here, the board will follow this schedule: June 30, Lamesa in the morning and Lubbock in the afternoon for consideration of Lubbock's and Slaton's applications; July 1, Plainview and Amarillo; July 2, Colorado and Sweetwater; July 3, Abilene.

Members of the board of control are Claude Teer, John Wallace and H. M. Meyers. Valuers, clerks and other attaches are expected to be with them for the hearings.

Under preliminary plans, Bob Schermerhorn, president of the Big Spring chamber of commerce, will preside for the local group, introducing Bennett, who will present the Big Spring bid. Fred Keating will outline the soil and agricultural resources of the proposed tract; City Manager E. V. Spence will tell of water and other municipal facilities available; and W. T. Strange, Jr., will present the city's geographical advantages.

George White and E. Reaman will head a group accompanying board of control members on a trip to available tracts of land.

The board of control, charged with locating the new institution, was given unlimited time to make its selection, but is acting promptly, so that work may be started soon after the appropriation of salaries and maintenance costs becomes effective, Sept. 1.

A superintendent will be chosen within the next few weeks, according to word from Austin, to assist the board in planning and building the institution.

7 Of Escaped Texas Felons Re-Captured

Young Crockett Residents Take One After A Two-Mile Chase

HUNTSVILLE, June 24 (AP)—Seven of the nineteen convicts who broke from the Eastham prison farm Tuesday had been recaptured at noon today but posses of men and bloodhounds traced cold trails on a dozen others.

Two young Crockett residents, J. D. Woodward, Jr., and A. D. Smith opened fire on a light truck carrying three of the fugitives and captured one, James Henry Mitchell, after a two-mile chase near Crockett.

Woodward and Smith forced the convicts' stolen machine into a ditch and fired with a pistol, when the trio attempted to flee. Mitchell, under 72 years in sentences, surrendered. The others fled.

Prison officials said W. C. Graham, Fort Bend county killer serving a life term, had been caught near the farm last night.

Tyler police believed W. H. Bybee, desperate leader of the break, was one of two men who held up Roy Smith, Tyler taxi driver, last night and forced him to drive them to Kilgore.

The pair alighted from a freight train which arrived at Tyler from Lufkin. Two others also with them disappeared but the other two approached his cab, commanded him to drive them five miles out on the Kilgore road, Smith said. Near Kilgore they forced him to take a side road and fled.

Two convicted murderers were taken with three other convicts in captures yesterday. Forty miles from the prison farm, near Groveton, George Scott of San Antonio and Jack Foreman of Comanche were taken in a tree from which they sought refuge from the pursuers' bloodhounds.

They offered no resistance. Scott and Foreman were serving life terms for murder.

Martial Law Is Lifted In Strike Area

Pennsylvania Governor Says Mills May Re-Open Friday

UNION DROPS PLANS FOR GENERAL STRIKE

Ohio Manufacturers Close Plants As Sympathy Walkout Halted

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 24 (AP)—Governor George H. Earle today lifted martial law in the Johnstown strike zone, effective at 7 a. m. tomorrow.

"Apparently the emergency in Johnstown has passed," the governor said. "I therefore decree an end of martial law at 7 a. m. Friday morning."

Mills May Reopen

Earle placed the strike district under martial law last Saturday and ordered closing of the Bethlehem Steel mill where a strike had been declared by the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Earle said that the mills may reopen at 7 a. m. and conditions generally will revert back to the status which prevailed before martial law was declared.

Previously, five manufacturers closed their plants in Warren and Niles, Ohio, after the C.I.O. notified its unions to abandon plans for a general sympathy strike.

Officials of the Brainerd Steel Company, who declined to be quoted by name said their contract with the C.I.O. was "no good."

They denied there was a lockout at their plant, and said operations were curtailed, partly due to lack of orders.

F. R. Schaeffer, general manager of the Niles Steel Products Company, declared the action was taken because of an unauthorized strike yesterday.

Sympathy Move

C.I.O. unions called strikes in many Warren plants yesterday in a move for a projected general labor holiday as a protest against a court injunction limiting picketing at the Republic Steel plant in Warren.

The action, also, was a sympathy move against the movement of men and supplies into the Republic plant under protection of city police and the Ohio national guard, sent to the Mahoning Valley by Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio to maintain the steel "status quo" while the federal mediation board continued its deliberations in Cleveland.

With the threat of a general strike over, Warren breathed easier, as the mediators in Cleveland continued negotiations with executives of the Republic Corporation, Bethlehem Steel, Inland Steel, and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., whose plants have been strike-bound since May 26 because of refusal of the management to sign labor contracts with the steel workers organizing committee, a C.I.O. affiliate.

Suicide Verdict Returned In Death Of Miss Minnie Anderson

Minnie Anderson, 18-year-old Coahoma cafe employee, died in a Big Spring hospital Wednesday evening about an hour after she had swallowed the contents of a bottle of household disinfectant.

Justice of Peace Joe A. Faucett returned a verdict of suicide.

Opal Goodin, roommate of Miss Anderson, told the justice of peace that she returned to their room near the cafe where they worked Wednesday evening to find Miss Anderson across the bed, an empty bottle nearby.

Brought To Hospital

She said that the girl was still conscious, and begged weakly: "Don't call anyone. I've done it. I want to go."

Help was summoned and Miss Anderson was rushed to a local hospital where a stomach pump was applied and counteractives administered without success.

She died 20 minutes later.

Previously the girl had made threats to end her life. Faucett told Miss Goodin. The night before she had declared her intentions but Miss Goodin said she "talked her out of it."

Funeral arrangements had not been completed Thursday afternoon pending receipt of word from relatives. Miss Anderson is survived by her father, Joe Anderson of California; her mother, Mrs. Ollie Busby of Colorado; her step-father, John Busby of Colorado; a sister, Maude Anderson of Colorado; and two brothers, Oscar Anderson of Colorado and Bine Anderson of California.

PRAIRIE CHICKEN LAW

Senate action was needed before the proposal would become law.

JIM FERGUSON INDICATES 'MA' MIGHT BE A CANDIDATE AGAIN, IF SHE'S WANTED

BRENNHAM, June 24 (AP)—Miriam A. Ferguson, twice governor of Texas, may be a candidate in next year's race for governor, her husband, James E. Ferguson, intimated in the Brenham Banner-Press today.

In an article over his signature the former chief executive said: "My wife and I are receiving many letters every week asking if my wife is again going to run for governor. Some of the letters seem to be merely seeking information, while many of the letters urge my wife to run for a third term."

"My wife x x x tells me to say that she has no desire to again meet the rigors of a political campaign."

But, he added, "My wife's health and my health is better than it has been in years."

The man whose wife followed him into office after he was impeached as governor further explained:

"Unless there should be some widespread and general demand amounting to a public duty to render a personal service, my wife says that she is willing to leave the field to younger statesmen who are trying to extinguish or distinguish themselves on the altar of their country."

"Frankly, I do not look for any such demand that would induce my wife to become again a candidate. However, there is already a well-developed idea in the minds of the people that there must be a decided change in the administration of the government, both state and national."

He then took the present administration to task for "the mounting deficit in the state general fund."

"The miserable mess which has been made of state affairs," he said, "is causing the people to ask who can best handle the deplorable situation that confronts us. It is not that my wife's administration was so good, but that the present administration is so bad that makes the people want a change."

Du Ponts And Mellon Among Those Listed

1,300 Personal Holdings Cited In Big Savings On Tax Returns

METHODS ARE LEGAL UNDER PRESENT ACT

Revenue Commissioner Never Questions Legality Of Deductions

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—The names of Andrew W. Mellon, Pierre Du Pont and John J. Raskob entered today into a congressional investigation of methods by which the nation's wealthiest business and financial leaders reduce their income taxes.

Excitement

Their introduction by Guy T. Helvering, internal revenue commissioner, charged a joint senate-house inquiry committee with excitement. Members listened intently as other names, including those of more than half a dozen additional Du Ponts, studied the testimony Helvering gave and highlighted records he introduced.

Just before the committee recessed until Tuesday morning the treasury tax official informed the committee that 1,300 personal holdings, through deductions perfectly legal under present statutes, had made an aggregate tax saving of $2,638,307 in 1936 returns.

He estimated that an analysis, not yet made, of 4,516 holding company returns would show a tax reduction totaling $9,237,000. And the figure, he asserted, represented only a fraction of the tax avoided through holding companies because it necessarily did not cover many returns.

Others of the Du Pont family named in addition to Pierre were Mrs. Ethel Du Pont, F. V. Du Pont, Paulina Du Pont, Mrs. W. Du Pont, Rosa, H. F. Du Pont and R. C. Du Pont.

Legality Not Questioned

Helvering never questioned the legality of tax deductions taken by the holding companies. He asserted that had the owners filed individual income tax returns they would have paid much more revenue into the federal treasury.

Asked after the hearing whether any legal proceedings were planned against those named, he replied negatively.

Included in the list of holding company owners were such names as

READING AND

By John Selby

"ANATOLE FRANCE," by Edwin Preston Dargan; (Oxford: $5).

Edwin Preston Dargan, whose "Anatole France" is published today, is among the most modest of authors. He started, 10 years ago, to do a psychological biography of France, and now he confesses that he found it necessary to straighten out some of the enigmatic facts of the man's life before attempting his original objective. So he disclaims any assumption that his is the "definitive" biography; this, he declares, cannot be written until much correspondence, now scattered, is reassembled, and until certain persons now living have died. After all, France has been dead only 13 years.

This is very good of Professor Dargan, who has been professor of French literature at the University of Chicago so long that he might have been forgiven a more stiff-necked approach. Just the same, he values his work too lightly, for in spite of the fact that its 728 pages cover France's life only through his election to the Academy in the nineties, and are not at all light reading, the book certainly is essential for all real students of France and the French.

There is no space to list the tortuous spots Dr. Dargan has straightened. For that matter, the writer is not qualified to express an opinion in this matter. Several enigmas are not yet solved—such as the reasons which led the writer to set up bachelor quarters, and the whole set of circumstances surrounding his divorce.

But it is obvious to any reader that Dr. Dargan has gone at his job in the only possible way, which is to assemble all the available fact and sort it out. He does much of this in the book itself, and this engages the reader on occasion. It is rather futile, it seems to the writer, to list most of the important people who congratulated France on his election to the Academy and summarize their expressions. This makes several pages of forbidding prose, which may perhaps be justified when the second volume of the work appears. The

For the past two years he has been stationed at Tientsin, China. Back in America on furlough, he will spend several days visiting Mr. and Mrs. Dabney.

Walters will sell to the highest bidders leases in Crane, Ector, Andrews, Upton, Crockett and Pecos counties.

INSULL PROPERTY IS AUCTIONED TO SATISFY CREDITORS

CHICAGO, June 24 (AP)—Five old English furniture, Oriental rugs, costly china and glassware that Samuel Insull collected in his heyday as utilities magnate went under the auctioneer's hammer today "to satisfy creditors."

The scene of the two-day sale was the ten-room penthouse atop the skyscraper Chicago City Opera building, which the former billionaire built to house his pet avocation, the opera.

In the federal building, not far away the 78-year-old financier was involved in a $40,000,000 suit filed by creditors who suffered losses in the mid-depression collapse of his utility empire.

Demo Parley
On ScheduleFD's Harmony 'Conference' Comes On Eve
Of Court Debate

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—"Harmony" conferences between President Roosevelt and democratic congress will begin tomorrow, on the eve of senate debate over a measure which has divided party ranks—the court reorganization bill.

Majority Leader Robinson (D-Ark.) announced last night the senate probably would consider the court bill late next week after passage of appropriation measures required by July 1.

Most opponents of the bill will attend the three-day series of party meetings on secluded Jefferson Island in Chesapeake bay.

Democratic leaders have discounted the possibility of serious discussion of the court issue at the conference, which they describe as primarily social.

But one group of enthusiastic new leaders—headed by Rep. Maverick of Texas—has expressed a determination to talk business.

The Maverick group hoped to get agreement on a long enough congressional session to permit enactment of crop insurance, wage and hour standards, housing and other social and economic legislation.

Social Security
Officials Confer

SAN ANTONIO, June 24 (AP)—Eleven district field representatives of social security board of offices of Region No. 10 met here today to discuss procedure in assignment of account numbers, a task that will be taken over from the postoffice after July 1, Oscar M. Powell, regional director, announced today. Claims filed by workers who have attained the age of 65 since Jan. 1 will also be discussed, Powell said.

The seven Texas representatives are M. D. Dewberry, Austin; L. L. Rupert, Beaumont; E. L. Tutt, Dallas; F. J. McCarthy, El Paso; Fred C. Rogers, Houston; J. E. Jackson, San Antonio, and E. E. Freeman, Tyler. The three Louisiana representatives are P. L. Dark, Monroe; J. S. Goff, New Orleans, and E. H. Frank, Shreveport. The New Mexico representative is G. N. Hamm, Albuquerque.

LIFT REQUIREMENTS

AUSTIN, June 24 (AP)—A bill lightening requirements of vegetable and citrus dealers headed for Governor James V. Alfred's desk today.

The house yesterday completed action on a senate measure altering provisions of one passed at the regular session of the legislature. Sponsors said the new action lowered salaries of persons administering the acts and permitted one bond and one license fee to suffice for anyone dealing in both vegetables and citrus.

Texas Guinan's Idea Still Works; Cafe Builds Business On Insults

TOLEDO, O., June 24 (UP)—"Hello, sucker!" That brazen greeting is just a memory in the night clubs today, but Texas Guinan, its originator, left a theory that is still used to prosperous advantage—the customer loves to be insulted.

Eugene and Glenn Fowler, automobile salesman, opened a restaurant as a sideline to their regular business. They found later that they didn't have the time to do a good job of waiting on their customers. Hence, they resorted to studied insults to cover their deficiencies.

It worked. That was 11 years ago. Today, the brothers have two large, centrally-located restaurants.

A customer enters a "Bud and Luke's," sits at a table covered with oilcloth. A waiter tosses a pile of silver on the table and snarls: "Help yourself. What'll you have?"

A new customer usually is somewhat taken aback by such bold talk, whereupon the waiter will roar back to the kitchen: "They, guys, this rube won't order!"

This cry brings platoons of waiters marching in, mumbling and shouting at the confused diner. Famous characters have been picked up and carried out the door. The latter treatment is usually prearranged, however.

The waiters wear hats at all times, and are paid for their "ad-libbing" ability. They talk about a customer's clothes, his hair, looks and if he wears a lodge badge of any type, they pounce at the opportunity to make wisecracks about the organization.

Silver is sometimes "planted" in a diner's coat pocket. When the waiter attempts to leave, the waiter seizes him and the luckless victim is highly embarrassed.

The kitchen crew joins in the bedlam. Shrieks, moans, breaking dishes, falling pots, bells and whistles add to the customer's dilemma.

Unless the new customer has a strong mental constitution he is likely to leave "Bud and Luke's" babbling something incoherent.

Several women in this community are canning this week. Mrs. J. W. Wooten and Mrs. Ed Johnson put up plums and tomatoes, and Mrs. Ray Smith canned a beef.

Combines have been running in this area. Harvesting has been under way in the Langley field of 50 acres, the Lee field of 40 acres and the Norris field of 150 acres. The Norris wheat is yielding 20 bushels to the acre, and is being shipped to Fort Worth. Mr. Norris has 25 acres of barley and will use the grain to fatten out a bunch of hogs. He now has 30 head running in the grain. He also plans to fatten out a load of calves for shipment around September 1.

Cotton is growing rapidly in the warm weather which has prevailed. Some fields are cleaning out, but weeds are bad in others.

"attack" from the Spanish government. The German battle fleet, about to be reinforced by the pocket battleship Graf Spee, was told to "protect German interests." A fear still pervaded Britain that the joint Italian-German withdrawal from the non-intervention patrol designed to isolate the Spanish war was the forerunner of an attack against government Spain as "punishment" for an alleged attempt to torpedo the German cruiser Leipzig.

The island of Guam in mid-Pacific was ceded to the United States by Spain in 1898.

Inquiry

as Thomas W. Lamont, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., Roy W. Howard, W. A. Paley, and Robert P. Scripps. E. W. Scripps also was named, but newsmen explained to Helvering after the hearing that he is deceased. Helvering said he assumed a holding company listed under his name belonged to Scripps' estate.

Helvering did not say at any point that the tax-reducing activities of those named were in any way illegal.

Instead, he said they took advantage of tax deductions allowed personal holding companies under the law which are not permitted on individual tax returns.

Two Holding Companies
Mellon was described as having two holding companies. His name was brought into the hearing early in today's session when the treasury official listed the names of 17 holding companies and their principal owners as examples of how holding companies were used by wealthy persons to cut tax payments.

The two companies which Helvering said were owned by the former secretary of the treasury were given as the Adams Tobacco corporation of New York City and the Penn Tobacco corporation of Greenwich, Conn.

Helvering supplied a table showing the Adams company, on the basis of its 1934 tax return, had a net income of $97,773 before any adjustments were made under the personal holding company tax section. The company paid, he said, an ordinary corporate tax of $115, no personal holding company surtax, and dividends of $20,250.

The additional surtax which would have been paid if not personal holding company had existed was calculated at $28,500.

The list also included the Penn Tobacco corporation, owned by the same individuals, with a net income before adjustments of $192,600, no ordinary corporate, or holding company surtax, no dividends, and an additional surtax that would have been paid if the firm had not existed of $76,885.

The list started with the Robert P. Scripps company, of which Robert P. Scripps was given as principal owner.

The firm had net income before adjustments of $173,599, paid no

County Court Is Recessed For Week

County court recessed for the remainder of the week Thursday after hearing one plea of guilty during the morning.

V. A. Gomes entered a plea of guilty to failing to display beer and wine license in a conspicuous place, and was fined $25 and costs. A complaint against him for possession of distilled spirits without permit was dismissed on motion of County Attorney Walton S. Morrison.

L. F. Baker, charged with possession of liquor for sale, was freed when the county attorney moved for a dismissal after the evidence was in.

The negligent homicide case pending against James Madding was continued by agreement.

C. W. Mitchell took a judgment by default against Raymond F. Lyons in a suit on a note. Agreed judgment was entered in the suit of L. I. Stewart against W. M. Spears on a contract.

Case of Lee Jenkins versus the Roadway Transportation Co., suit on contract, was passed.

FACES CHARGE IN TRAFFIC DEATHS

BURNETT, Tex., June 24 (AP)—James Cockrell, 22, of Lampasas, was charged with murder today in connection with the deaths of two children Sunday night when they were struck by an automobile as they were walking to church on highway No. 66.

The victims were Walter and Ace Lee Bird, children of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bird of Burnett.

Sheriff Hugh Barnett and two state patrolmen arrested Cockrell.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Big Spring Hospital
Mrs. F. A. Langley of Westbrook was admitted to the hospital for treatment.

Thomas Burkhead of Coahoma was in the hospital for treatment.

Corporate or holding company tax, and dividends of $45,000, the treasury official said. The additional surtax that would have been paid had the company not been formed was placed at $59,840.

Eight Local Scouts Depart For National Jamboree In Washington

Eight Boy Scouts, ranging in rank from tenderfoot to Eagle, departed Thursday morning on a 20 day trip of high adventure which will take them to the National Scout Jamboree at Washington and to New York City.

The group joined with several others from the western end of the Buffalo Trail council to fill a special car put on for them here.

Darold Wilson, area field executive, and Buster Howard, Midland scoutmaster, were in charge.

In the Big Spring contingent were George Miller, who will serve as senior patrol leader for the troop recruited in this area, Sam Atkins, leader of the Big Spring Horned Frog patrol, J. L. Woods, his assistant, Paul Kusch, Julian Fisher, Sammy Melinger, Wofford Hardy and Warren Woodward.

The boys were loaded with equipment and trinkets which included cowboy boots, chaps, shirts, uniforms, scores of horned toads, branding irons, cow horns and hoofs, lariats, etc. Many of the articles are to be put on display while others, such as the frogs, will be traded to scouts of other areas for trinkets.

Plans were to continue to Sweetwater where the remainder of the troop would board the train, thence to Fort Worth where a special scout train was to be made up.

Arrival in Washington is slated for June 28 when a three day jamboree training period is to start. On the 29th the jamboree starts with a massive torch light parade. Other highlights are the convention before the Washington Monument on July 4, three appearances of President Roosevelt, a pilgrimage to Mt. Vernon, area arena nights, and a trek to New York.

The group is scheduled to return here about July 14.

Take Testimony In Borger Vote Case

STINNETT, June 24 (AP)—Quo warrant proceedings against officials elected at the April 6 Borger city election reached the testimony stage here today after selection of a jury had been completed.

Considerable time was consumed today with the reading of the plaintiff's petition and the defendant's answer.

Three defeated candidates for commissioners alleged in suit brought against three members of the former administration and two members of an opposition faction, that the election was won by fraudulent means and "defeated the will of the voters."

Named as defendants were Mayor John R. Miller and Commissioner Henry Knight, C. C. McClelland, Perry F. Powell and T. S. Davidson. Davidson and Powell, candidates of the opposition faction, were named in order to make the suit cover all members, which could force a new election.

IN COLORADO
Mr. and Mrs. Leland L. Martin have arrived in Boulder, Colo., where they will attend the summer session of the state university there. They left here the forepart of the week after he had returned from a 5,000-mile tour with members of the Junior and senior classes of Fortson. He described the trip as the "most successful" of some nine such tours he has supervised.

Parkers Awaiting Sentences For Kidnaping Plot

NEWARK, N. J., June 24 (AP)—Anotehr complex sequel to the Lindbergh kidnaping drew to a close today as Ellis Parker, Sr., colorful "country detective," and his son, Ellis, Jr., awaited sentence for plotting the kidnaping of Paul H. Wendel.

The two were convicted last night by a federal jury of conspiring to seize and torture Wendel to obtain a false confession to the kidnaping of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr. This "confession" delayed for three days execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the Lindbergh crime.

The Parkers were liable to sentences of one day to 100 years. The jury, which deliberated for 6 1/2 hours after hearing nine weeks of testimony, recommended leniency and Judge William Clark said the recommendation would have "great weight" with him. A suspended sentence was possible. Next Wednesday was set tentatively for sentencing.

LONOKE, Ark., June 24 (AP)—Lester Brockelhurst, 23-year-old one-time Sunday school teacher, went on trial today, charged with the hitch-hike slaying of Victor Gates of Little Rock.

Prosecutor George V. Hartje said the death penalty "is the only fair verdict that can be reached" against the Galesburg, Ill., youth.

Brockelhurst's attorneys built their defense around a plea of insanity in response to which the prisoner himself exclaimed: "I don't think I'm crazy; at least I hope not."

Recipes For Community Suppers

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer

Cooking for large gatherings—church suppers, parent teachers' banquets and farm bureau dinners—calls for food which are easy to prepare and inexpensive.

The selection of the menu, the marketing and the cooking should all be done with a view to avoid waste, particularly if the event is to be money-making.

Two things will do a lot to make a community supper successful. The first is detailed planning by the general chairman and her sub-chairmen. The second is proper division of the work among committees.

Choose Committees

Four committees should be selected by the chairman for the comparatively large function—the preparation, the dining room, the serving and the "clean-up" committees. If such affairs are given regularly it is advisable to rotate the committees. The preparation committee should be comprised of good cooks who will purchase and prepare the foods.

Members of the dining room committee should be responsible for assembling tables and chairs and setting and decorating the tables and dining room.

Train Waitresses

The serving committee should provide the waitresses—usually chosen from among the younger members of the group. They should be given definite instructions and a few minutes of careful training before the supper takes place. They also should be given a few serving hints on such matters as keeping the water glasses filled and pouring coffee from heavy china or metal pitchers. For there's nothing which will send more satisfied customers away from such functions with praises on their lips than quick, careful service.

Members of the fourth committee, the "clean-up" group, should take charge of the dishwashing and general cleaning up after the affair is over.

The menu served at such a supper is, of course, very important. Below is a menu which may be altered to meet the requirements of smaller or larger groups, although it is planned for a group of 25.

Cotton Picker Known In 1850

Device Abandoned Lest It
Destroy The Slave
Market

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 24 (UP)—Development of the South's first mechanical cotton picker, registered in the U. S. Patent Office nearly nine decades ago, was abandoned because it was feared the device would destroy the market value of negro slaves.

The machine was registered Sept. 10, 1850, by two Memphis residents, Samuel S. Rembert and Jediah Prescott. It was similar in principle to the picker being built and demonstrated in Soviet Russia and South America by the Rust brothers, John and Mack.

Available city directories and newspaper files do not identify Prescott, but many of Rembert's descendants still live here.

Family records of Samuel S. Rembert, Memphis, grandson of one of the inventors of the early mechanical picker, show that the machine was demonstrated experimentally with a "degree of success."

Rembert's son decided to abandon the invention because he feared it would supplant human labor in Dixie and thus destroy the large amount of the section's wealth represented in negro slaves.

Willing to Forego Profit
The same problem of displacing human labor was met by the Rust brothers with the offer to market their machine on a non-profit basis for use as directed by social leaders in such a manner to provide for the rural laborers who would be thrown out of work by utilization of the picker.

Although lacking many of the mechanical refinements of the Rust machine, the Rembert-Prescott invention was "rather remarkable and might have been feasible," according to mechanics who have studied the yellowed drawings.

The Rembert - Prescott picker was mounted on two over-sized wagon wheels. A mule team provided motive power. The machine plucked cotton from bolls by whirling sharp spindles through the plants.

Three Processes Worked Out
There were three successive processes. A horizontal revolving bar, set with barbs at the front of the machine, knocked bolls open and loosened the lint. The plants then were pulled through a narrow trough which narrowed toward the back—as in the modern pickers. Two vertical disks on each side of the machine were equipped with spindles which whirled through the plants to gather the lint, which raked off by revolving winged cylinders. At the rear of the picker, a pair of vertical cylinders, also covered with spindles, brushed through the lint to take out waste and foreign matter.

The cotton picker was only one of Rembert's experiments. He also worked on a machine to produce ice cubes and developed a cotton press utilizing the same principles now employed.

It already has toured the New England, Eastern seaboard and South Atlantic sections. The cars will come here from Brownwood and San Angelo, going from Big Spring to Abilene.

Each of the test cars carries an observer, who records at regular intervals information on fuel consumption, lubrication, etc. Dealers for automobile manufacturers represented in the fleet are to greet the party on its arrival, and a welcoming program is being planned. This event will be broadcast over KBBT.

Automobiles included, in addition to a photographer's car and a scout car, are Chevrolet, Plymouth, Dodge, Chrysler, Ford, Lincoln Zephyr, Buick, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Packard, Studebaker and Terraplane.

Morrison School To Open Monday

Kate Morrison Americanization ward school will open its doors for the beginning of the 1937-38 term Monday, John R. Hutto, principal, announced Thursday.

Mexican school children in grades from the first through the sixth will be expected to be at the school building at 9 a. m. for enrollment.

The school, first of the Big Spring units to open, will continue in session for 12 weeks. Then will follow a 12 weeks recess during which the students may engage in harvesting work if they desire, Hutto said.

Regular school routine will be resumed the first Monday after Christmas, or December 27, and continue until the end of the year.

It was found last year, first time the split term was tried, that the Mexican materially increased attendance since many Mexican children normally find employment in fields during the fall.

Cotton 'Jumping Up' With Aid Of Hot Weather; Good Yield Forecast

Summer weather, boosting temperatures past the 90 degree mark and holding nights above 70 degrees, is having a magic effect upon cotton prospects in Howard county.

Oldtimers cannot remember when the plants showed more rapid growth than they are in some sections here now. In the past week cotton has fairly "jumped up" in well worked fields.

Woody fields, according to County Agent O. P. Griffin, are in for trouble, however. The weed growth is keeping pace or outdistancing the cotton, sapping precious moisture.

So long as there is plenty of moisture in the ground there is no need for worry over hot winds, he said. It is only when the moisture supply is taxed that cotton begins to suffer from the heat.

Progress of the current crop through June indicates a bumper cotton yield this season.

LOSES ONE PLAYER

FORT WORTH, June 24 (AP)—Coach Dutch Meyer of the T.C.U. Horned Frogs, up and around again after an appendicitis operation last week, said this morning that a single player had been lost off the 1937 grid squad by ineligibility. He is Horace Carswell, junior fullback of Fort Worth.

All other members of the varsity and freshman squads made the grade. This means that the Frogs will have one of the largest squads in history next September including 16 letter men.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 million of tiny sacs or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or painful passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of passing backache, rheumatic pains, headache, leg pains, loss of sleep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, indigestion and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give heavy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney sacs each one passing waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

AQUATIC STARS TO STAGE EXHIBITION TOMORROW NIGHT

Tex Robertson, University of Texas swim coach, will arrive in Big Spring at noon Friday with his squad of aquatic stars for an exhibition at the Muni pool tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Coach Robertson will describe the various events over a public address system and will give swimming instruction to those desiring. There will be no charge.

The Longhorns are to compete in a national championship meet in Chicago July 5-6.

SEVERID AND PEEL LEADING IN POOL

Editor's Note: This is another in a series of prospects for the Texas League's all-star game at Houston, July 17.

DALLAS, June 24 (AP)—Early voting on managers for the north-south teams in the Texas league's second annual all-star game at Houston July 17, conveyed unusual impressions on fandom opinion.

Down south, Hank Severid of Galveston is an easy leader over Al Vincent of Beaumont with but a scattering few votes for Zach Taylor at San Antonio. Johnny Woodward of Houston is getting most of his votes as a player.

Severid's popularity has been attributed to his long stay in the loop, having managed teams at Wichita Falls, Longview, San Antonio and Galveston while the other three are experiencing their novice year in the league.

In the north, Homer Peel of Fort Worth is polling a heavy managerial vote with Alex Gaston of Dallas in second place. There is little count for Jim Keesey of Oklahoma City, whose Indians are leading the league or Bruce Conatser of Tulsa.

Peel registers a definite impression with the fans because of what he has done for the Panthers in the last two seasons. His heavy hitting makes him a choice as player-manager. However, Keesey, who is lagging far behind Lee Stebbins of Fort Worth in the first base voting, has much the same drawing power of Peel but is not cashing in on it.

If Peel is named, the north's roster will be cut to 17.

CHAUTEAUX NOT TO ASK FULL POWERS IN FINANCE CRISIS

PARIS, June 24 (AP)—Camille Chautemps' new cabinet decided at its first meeting today, an authoritative source said, to refrain from asking the full financial powers which parliament refused to give the previous ministry of Leon Blum.

Chautemps intends to ask for authority to reduce government expenditures and impose new taxes by decree without waiting for parliamentary approval, this informer said, but he does not plan to demand the virtual dictatorship over French finances which Blum requested.

Osage Indians, Tired Of Derricks Of Oklahoma, Want To Enter Mexico

WEWOKA, Okla., June 24 (AP)—Oklahoma Oil Derricks which brought riches to the Osages, but only misery to the Seminoles, today sent restless tribesmen once more on a search for their legendary "happy hunting ground" in Old Mexico.

Four Seminole chiefs took a petition to Mexico City asking President Lazaro Cardenas to grant them and their forefathers owned before the U. S. civil war brought them to Oklahoma.

Lunching with Cardenas at Chapultepec castle, the chiefs declared their 4,000 tribesmen wished to leave Oklahoma forever and return to the tepees of their ancestors in the wilderness of Coshulla.

Members of the delegation were Peter Tiger, Edward Hargo, Pete Miller and John Morgan, representing the Seminole reservations at Konawa, Hazel, Bowlegs, Ada, Wewoka and Sasakwa.

An Indian history has it, Co-Wokee, who was elected chief after the second Florida war, led the first band of Seminoles into Mexico to seek a new home. Part of the tribe remained behind in the Oklahoma territory which had been allotted to them.

When the civil war came, the band returned to aid relatives in the United States. The fighting proved so disastrous that only a few survived and these did not return to Mexico.

The Seminoles eventually forgot the location of their old homes and the tribesmen who had lived there died.

Today it is not known whether the grave of Co-Wokee is in Oklahoma or on the "lost reservation" beyond the Rio Grande.

But the legend and the longing for the "lost reservation" persists. The monotony of life among Oklahoma's drab oil derricks is detested by the Seminoles who dream constantly of another emigration to a land untouched by civilization.

Luis P. Abreu, Mexican consul at Oklahoma City, secured the four chiefs and their audience with Cardenas.

MEXICAN RAILWAYS TAKEN OVER BY GOVT.

MEXICO CITY, June 24 (AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas pushed his socialistic program another step forward today with expropriation of the country's greatest railway line, the National Railways of Mexico.

The government's decision, disclosed suddenly after a cabinet meeting, was to be issued in the official gazette today.

Since the National Railways was incorporated in 1907, the government has owned 51.35 per cent of the stock. Foreign bondholders will be reimbursed after the expropriated properties are revealed the government said. In 1930, such United States investors' holdings were estimated at $73,000,000.

Previous moves in Cardenas' socialistic program have included expropriation of much agricultural land and its distribution among peasants, partial nationalization of Mexico's oil industry, and the teaching of socialistic theories in schools.

Turkey Crop To Be Pooled

Growers Organization Is Perfected In Meeting At San Angelo

SAN ANGELO, June 24 (AP)—Pooling of a large part of the turkey crop in three southwestern states was declared assured yesterday as organization of the Southwestern Turkey Growers' association was perfected here with C. E. Clark of San Angelo elected president and Paul A. Cunyus, formerly of Fort Worth, employed as manager and secretary-treasurer.

Six Texas growers' co-operatives were represented and the officers said they hoped to foster and contact other units in Texas, New Mexico and southwestern Oklahoma.

Walter Cardwell, manager of the Luling foundation farm, was named vice president. Directors chosen, besides Clark and Cardwell, include Roy B. Davis of Plainview, M. F. Lett of Ballinger, E. A. Schronroock of Goliad, and W. E. Carroll of Brady, Clark, Davis and Lett comprise the executive committee.

The co-operative plan bears governmental support, financial aid being expected this year from the Farm Credit Administration, and Jack Shelton, state agricultural agent and vice director of the extension service, pledging the organization the aid and advice of poultry authorities at College Station.

Diamond Smuggling Ring Broken With Wholesale Arrests

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—Federal agents today rounded up additional members of an international diamond smuggling ring, which they said had netted millions of dollars in the last seven years.

Twenty-four of the 50 persons whose indictments were announced yesterday already were under arrest, Lamar Hardy, United States attorney, said. An additional 24, mostly Europeans, were fugitives. The defendants were scheduled for arraignment on charges of conspiracy to evade the customs law and smuggling.

Directing operations of 22 carriers who brought diamonds valued at $13,000,000 into the United States illegally during the seven-year period was a group of leaders with headquarters at a lower Manhattan diamond club, Hardy stated.

The carriers of the gems, Hardy said, included housewives, actresses, misde, a labor union organizer and even a school teacher who used her summer vacations for trips to Europe to bring back undeclared diamonds from Amsterdam and Brussels.

SEES THE NEED OF A SPECIAL SESSION

AUSTIN, June 24 (AP)—Another special session of the legislature to raise additional pension fund revenue was seen as a necessity today by Rep. C. C. Morris of Greenville.

Morris, chairman of the board of managers in the house's recent old age pension inquiry, said funds cleaned in that investigation showed that funds will not be sufficient to last until November 1. He advocated another session not later than September 1.

EMPLOYER PAYROLL CONTRIBUTIONS FOR MAY DUE TOMORROW

AUSTIN, June 24 — Orville A. Carpenter, chairman-director of the Unemployment Compensation commission, today reminded Texas employers that their contributions of one and eight-tenths per cent on their May, 1937, payrolls will be due on June 25.

Many employers, Carpenter said, will contribute to the unemployment compensation fund for the first time on June 25, since the Texas act provides that an employer first becomes subject to the law only after twenty weeks of a year in which he had eight or more employees. May 20 marked the twentieth week of the current year.

Total contributions to the Texas unemployment compensation fund passed the $11,000,000 mark this week, while it is estimated that more than $20,000,000 will have been deposited in the fund by the time benefits first become payable after Jan. 1, 1938. Mr. Carpenter emphasized the fact that benefits will be payable only to those persons who have worked for employers subject to the law. More than 600,000 employees now are covered, he said.

BARRIE HONORED BY SCHOOL CHILDREN

KIRKRIEMUR, Scotland, June 24 (AP)—Three hundred school children who looked upon Sir James M. Barrie, creator of Peter Pan, as the fairy godfather of all girls and boys, helped bury him today.

Most of those who attended the funeral for the man who made this little village famous as the "Thru" of his Scottish tales were the townspeople and the children he had known.

The famous author died of bronchial pneumonia last Saturday.

The UNITED

THE SPORTS CIRCUIT— Greenberg In No. 1 Comeback Of The Year

By TOM BEASLEY
The No. 1 comebacker of 1937 is Henry Greenberg, Detroit Tigers' first baseman. Hankus Pankus was the No. 1 question mark of the Tigers when they reported for training at Lakeland, Fla. He broke his wrist in the twelfth game of the 1936 season.
No one was sure whether he'd be able to play again. The Tigers sent him a contract for $1. It was up to Greenberg to prove he could still play ball. He wasn't in any too high favor because he had been a prolonged holdout before the 1936 season. He had a long wrangle with the Detroit officials and finally had to sign up at a figure nowhere near what he thought he deserved on the basis of his 1935 record when he led the league in runs batted in and total bases.
Greenberg first hurt his wrist in the 1935 world series against the Chicago Cubs. Then when he hurt it in a collision with Jake Powell, then playing with Washington, early in the 1936 season many persons shook their heads and doubted if Greenberg would ever come back.
After his wrist was injured last season Greenberg hoped to get back into action within a few weeks. The doctor who treated it, encouraged him considerably, and told him several times that he thought he'd be back in the game soon. In May he told Hank he thought he could play in June. In June he told him he thought he'd be ready for action in July. In July he said he surely could play in August.
"Say, what is going on here?" Hank was finally provoked into inquiring.
Then the doctor broke down and told Hank he had been kidding him all along for his own good. He wanted to keep the cast on Greenberg's arm as long as possible, and keep him from worrying about it. He confessed to Hank that he was afraid he would run off to some other doctor who'd hasten the healing process and rush him back into action before he was ready with a chance that he might get hurt again and be finished for good.
Greenberg was pretty mad at the doctor for a while but he got over it and now he confesses the doctor probably saved his baseball career for him.
"My wrist is stronger than it ever was," he says. "I never have to favor it."
Greenberg's wrist must be good. He's hitting better than ever in his life. Just glance at his batting average, his runs batted in, his total bases, runs scored and home runs. Those are the columns that count. Greenberg is up there in all of them.
After the Tigers lost Mickey Cochrane, it was Greenberg and his big bat who kept Detroit from collapsing. And if the Tigers should come through and win the pennant the main man will be Henry Greenberg, the Bronx boy who staged one of the greatest comebacks in baseball history.
MRS. CHAS. AKEY, one of five Lubbock golfers in the women's invitation tourney here, has extended a cordial invitation to all local feminine players to compete in the Lubbock invitation meet July 21-25.
SHEIK MAR-ALLAH and Tarzan Krause will wrestle in the main event next Tuesday night. Promoter Herman Fuhrer announced yesterday before leaving on a 10-day vacation.

MRS. O'CONNELL, MEDALIST, WITHDRAWS FROM MEET 28 GOLFERS START 1ST ROUND PLAY

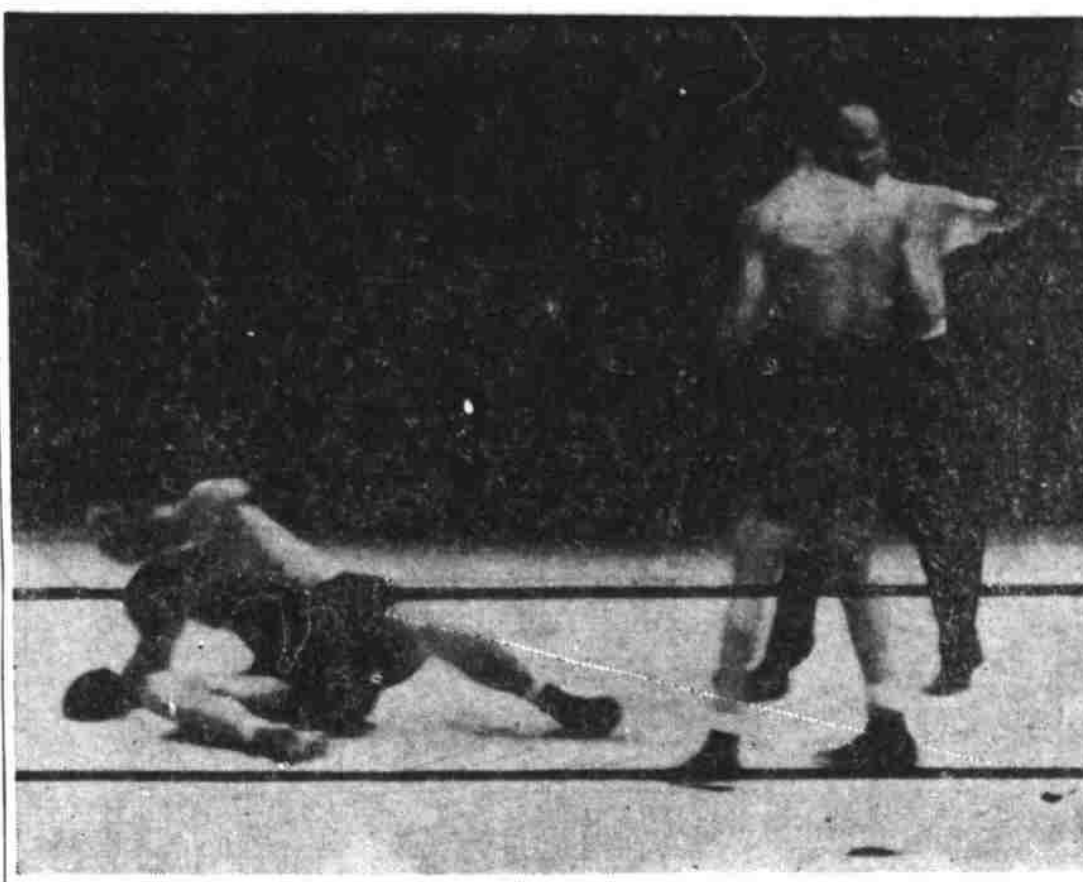

A fast field of 28 golfers teed off this morning for first round matches of the second annual Big Spring women's invitation golf tournament with Miss Elinor Jones, 17-year-old New Mexico state champion, definitely established as favorite, despite a very bad qualifying round.
Mrs. Will O'Connell, San Angelo ace, defeated by Mrs. R. E. Winger of Fort Worth in the recent women's West Texas tournament at San Angelo, blazed over the 18-hole and green layout in 79—one over women's par—to win medal honors. Late Tuesday afternoon, however, she was called out of town and announced she would be unable to play any of her matches.

Miss Jones, experiencing trouble on the tees and near the greens, qualified with an 88, but her sub-par 77 in a Tuesday practice round made her the outstanding favorite.

BOMBER LIFTS CROWN FROM BRADDOCK

Joe Louis Looking For Work

Jacobs Signs New Contract With Champion

CHICAGO, June 24 (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis is looking for work—"an' lots of it!"
The new ruler of ringdom, by virtue of his eighth round knock-out of James J. Braddock last Tuesday night, which increased his already fat personal bankroll by about $50,000, isn't worrying about where his next meal is coming from. Nor is he going into hiding with his new crown.
"Long layoffs don't do me no good," said Joe as he packed his grips preparatory to leaving tonight for Detroit and a visit with his mother. "I want to fight as often as mah managers want me to. I'd like first to meet Max Schmeling, but that's up to them to figure out."
The way things shape up, Joe won't have to worry about too long layoffs. Mike Jacobs, the New York promoter who staged Tuesday's title bout, yesterday announced a two-year extension of his contract with the 23-year-old titleholder. The extension gives Jacobs exclusive rights to the negro's services for the next five years.
A clause in the new agreement provides for as many as four fights a year, with the probability that Louis will see action at least twice annually. Jacobs' principal concern now is landing one more fight this year, with the big objective being a Louis-Schmeling bout in September, in New York. He said Detroit, Cleveland, Philadelphia, Chicago and London were bidding to put the young champion in action.
Jacobs also disclosed he has effected a three-year agreement for the fighting services of the ex-champion, Braddock. Concurring in Braddock's opinion that he is not "through," the promoter hopes to land a suitable opponent for Jersey Jim in the fall or early winter, preferably Max Baer.

Dawson Has Trouble In First Round

Second And Third Round Of Trans-Miss Play Scheduled Today

DENVER, June 24 (AP)—In the 37th renewal of the Trans-Mississippi golf tournament at the Cherry Hills links here today, the remaining 32 masculine warriors resume firing in the second and third rounds, each scheduled for 18 holes.
They will pare the field to eight for the start of the 36-hole tests tomorrow and continuing Saturday with the finals on Sunday.
Experience was represented by such players—ever dangerous—as defending champion John Dawson of Chicago, who had a close squeeze yesterday; Jimmy Manion and Eddie Held, fellow St. Louis competitors and the oldest former champions left in the running; Gus Moreland, Walker cup star from Peoria, Ill., and twice former champion, who has won two "trans" titles, and Frank J. Eustlish, Denver veteran, generally regarded as the chief mile-high city threat.
Youth called upon such eager exponents as medalist Reynolds Smith of Dallas, who is 24 and a Walker cup player; Harry Todd, 20-year-old Texas open champion from Dallas; Ed C. Kingsley of Salt Lake City, a confident 22, and Walter Eblein, the Kansas City ex-night watchman.
One former T-M champion was bounced out of the meet in yesterday's opening match play program. Leland Hamman, Paris, Tex., who won the trans three years ago, lost to Fred Newton of Cleveland, former newspaperman, 2 and 1.

KING CARL WINS NINTH OF SEASON

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer
Carl Hubbell is back on the winning track, recovered from the mysterious non-winning malady that set in the day the Dodgers broke his two season winning streak of 24 straight.
The manner in which Bill Terry's Giants went about proving for Hub's ninth victory of the season, his 8-4 conquest of the Chicago Cubs, yesterday, was equally heartening to the man whose club is locked in a bitter three-way struggle for mastery of the National League.
How the Giants managed to pace the circuit for nine days was something of a puzzle. Their pitching was far from extraordinary, and they hardly could have been compared to the Yankees in power at the plate.
Even the addition of Wally Berger to the lineup didn't bring results. So yesterday's performance, in which the Terrymen landed on four of the Cubs' best pitchers, was gratifying to Terry and a warning to the Cubs, out in front by one game, and the Cardinals, tied for second with the Giants in the won and lost column.
Berger, before giving way to George Davis when the Cubs switched from southpaw to right-handed pitching, poked his first Giant homer and sixth of the year. Sam Leslie drove in three runs with a home run and a single and Mel Ott, whose batting slump has applied to everything but four-baggers, walloped his twelfth as every man but Dick Bartell, Lou Chiozza and Davis, who was up only once, hit safely. Hub had a six-run lead after three innings.
Even Hubbell, rapped for twelve hits but scored on only one in the eighth, when five straight hits produced all four Chicago runs, chimed in with two singles to aid his own cause and en da 4-game losing streak while pitching a complete game for the first time in seven starts.
While the Giants were disposing of the league leaders, the Cards and Dizzy Dean kept pace by turning back the Dodgers 3-2. Two unearned runs cost Brooklyn the game after Van Mungo, a two hit pitcher for seven innings, was forced to withdraw because of a blister on the index finger of his salary hand.
Two well pitched games completed the National league program. Hugh Mulcahy lifted the Phils to sixth place with a four hit, 3-0 job on the Reds, while young Russ Bauers of the Pirates turned in a six hitter that was good enough to cost the Bees their eleventh straight loss, by 8-5.
In the American league, the front running Yankees were spilt by the St. Louis Browns, 6-3, but lost no ground as second place Detroit dropped a 6-5 decision to the Red Sox. The Cleveland Indians continued to suffer their road trip jitters in a 14-5 pasting by the Senators, and the Athletics, who have scored one run in their last three games, sustained their second consecutive shutout, a 2-0 performance by the White Sox who won on only three hits, two of them homers.

PITTSBURGH, June 24 (AP)—This is the land of Panthers and Pirates. He's only got three deep out at Pitt, but already Coach Jack Sutherland has started fearing the two Dukes—Duke and Duguesne. The baseball addicts still give the Pirates a good chance for the National League bunting even if they aren't clicking like they did earlier in the season. Six Straight Wins Put Cats In 3rd Place

Panthers Cut Down Beaumonters, 14-8, In Slam-Bang Battle

(By the Associated Press)

Oklahoma City and Beaumont have held pretty much of a monopoly on the Texas League's top spot this season but the rest of the circuit has managed to edge into the white glare of the spotlight at frequent intervals.
Every club in the league except Houston and Galveston have taken some measure of glory unto themselves by sudden spurts of power and pitching. Even Dallas, clinging by its fingernails to seventh position, has spurted.
The latest bidders for fame are Fort Worth's Cats. Good pitching and a fierce batting spree paced by Manager Homer Peel have brought the Panthers six straight games and into third place, a mere half game behind Beaumont. The Cats cut down the Beaumonters 14 to 8 in a slam-bang battle last night in which Peel drove in five runs and scored three.
San Antonio salvaged something from its current decline, winning its second straight from Dallas, 7 to 4. As they were doing in their recent winning streak that hoisted them near the top, the Missions cut loose at bat for 14 hits.
Extra inning battles went to Oklahoma City and Tulsa against two South Texas clubs. In an 11-inning affair the Indians came out ahead of Houston, 3 to 2, largely because of Keene's wild throw to the Buff first baseman. Ralph Buxton was credited with beating Lyons of Houston in the pitching duel.
Tulsa took 13 innings to defeat Galveston by the same score. The clubs together smacked 23 hits for their five runs.

Don Budge To Tangle With French Player

Faces Christian Boususs In All-England Tennis Championships

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 24 (AP)—While his Davis cup teammates faced what appeared to be comparatively easy assignments today, red-thatched Don Budge was called upon to match strokes with Christian Boususs, third ranking French player, in the All-England tennis championships.

Budge turned in an impressive effort yesterday in beating England's third ranking star, George Patrick Hughes, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.
The other three Americans still in the tournament faced English opponents. Bryan (Bitay) Grant, rapidly recovering from a congested shoulder, encountered E. R. Avery; Gene Mako met F. H. D. Wilde, and Frankie Parker met M. D. Deloford.

CHICAGO, June 24 (AP)—Toledo and Minneapolis shared the leadership of the American Association race today.
Toledo lost a chance to take first place when Kansas City took a 7 to 6 victory in the second game of a double header last night. The Blues dropped the first game, 11 to 4.
Louisville collected 13 hits for 21 bases to defeat Minneapolis 10 to 5.
St. Paul bunched five hits with two errors to defeat Indianapolis, 7 to 2.
Milwaukee bowed to Columbus 9 to 2, falling below .500 for the first time this year.

SYMPATHIES AND DUTY

We have heard a great deal about the "right" to do this and that in this country since the signing of the Declaration of Independence. People have beaten their breasts about the right to follow their own occupations in peace, over the right to occupy their own property, but now we have an issue coming to a head in Pennsylvania, where a new right is being urged—the right to deprive men from going back to their jobs and the right to deprive property owners from the use of their property.

We do not believe any right-thinking man wants bloodshed among our people. No sane person should fail to do what he can to adjust disputes among men, especially disputes which arise between employees over the right of one to return to his job and the attempt of the other to assert his right to keep his fellow workers from returning to work.

But in all of these matters there are principles involved which sometimes become a paramount importance. While individual citizens may disagree as to what they would like to see happen, the administrative officers of the nation or the state, as such, are not privileged to allow their personal feelings to relieve them of their official duties.

Perhaps some day Congress or the several legislatures will pass laws which will give to one group of employees the right to say that another group of their fellow workers can or cannot continue their employment. However, we have no such law now. On the contrary we have very specific laws saying that a man can work where he pleases and that men who try to keep him from working shall be punished by fines and imprisonment.

Under such circumstances it seems that those administrative officers who not only fail to speak for the enforcement of the laws they have sworn to uphold, but put the weight of their influence on the side of those who are attempting to assert the "right" of depriving their fellow workers of the privilege of employment, are treading upon very dangerous ground. They are establishing precedents both moral and practical that may some day rise and smite them and the people they have been charged to protect.

No law can be involved as to man's sympathies in such disputes, but no sympathy, no matter how well founded, can offer relief to the executive who allows his sympathies to determine the discharge of his duty.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Speaking of terse criticisms, there was the incident of a Broadway press agent's reaction to an invitation to handle the publicity for a waning restaurateur.

The fellow in question was noted for his fine chop houses of the past, but in recent seasons his popularity had diminished.

"Well, come and have dinner with me," he urged to the space-grabber. "See for yourself what a nice place I have."

Unable to escape, the press agent arrived and sat through a far from savory dinner.

Reflecting bitterly upon the experience next morning, he dispatched this telegram to the restaurateur: "What you need is a chef, not a press agent."

It must be true, the saying that a racket—just any old racket—will work in New York. There was the "hit show" gag that cropped up in the police reports the other morning.

It appears that a broker received two tickets to "The Women," a Broadway star attraction, and with the tickets was a note saying, "Guess who?"

Unable to solve the anonymity of the donor, but nevertheless delighted to have two tickets to a hit drama, the broker and his wife went gaily off for a pleasant evening.

What is more, the tickets were authentic, the performance was excellent, and the pair had an enjoyable time—until they got back home.

Their apartment, of course, had been ransacked. A collection of rings and watches, together with the silver and a sum of cash was missing.

At last they discovered a little note pinned to the dining room tablecloth. It said impudently: "Now you know."

Carousing past No. 2 Beckman place on a recent evening I was delighted to witness one of those unexpected little side-shows which New York is always so willing to put on.

There was a strolling troubadour on the sidewalk, or rather he wasn't exactly a troubadour. This fellow, a sad-eyed derelict, was a street musician, and he earned his living by playing impromptu tunes to any and all who would listen, and who would, incidentally, contribute a few coins.

Several yards away stood one of those haughty doormen who, so the New York legend has it, are far more imperious than a grand duke could or would want to be. He suddenly stepped briskly up to the startled fiddler.

He said something in a low voice to the fellow, and I suppose he was inviting him to get the hell away from there. The fiddler looked up and gravely passed his violin over to the doorman. Whereupon that be-livered personage, shedding

TODAY AND TOMORROW

By Walter Lippman

CHICKENS COME HOME TO ROOST

Five months ago Mr. Roosevelt's ardent friends would not listen to any one who warned them that they had taken a course which led not to reform but to reaction. All they could think of was the election returns and their supposed mandate.

Yet they were told that the attempt to seize control of the judiciary, that their refusal to uphold the law in the Michigan sit-down strikes, that their financial responsibility, that their contempt for those who asked that the election be interpreted as a mandate for an era of good feeling, that their use of political terrorism against their opponents, that their encouragement of class hatred, that all these things would promote a dangerous reaction.

These warnings are now being verified, and the new deal administration is confronted with the rising temper of a large part of the community which looks upon Mr. Girdler as the St. George who will slay the dragon. For Mr. Girdler is just as bold and just as arbitrary and just as bellicose as the new dealers of 1937 set out to be. They have conjured up an opposition in their own image which has as little use as they had for the process of persuasion and conciliation.

Some months ago I ventured to say that the cause of American progressiveness was in the hands of inexperienced and short-sighted zealots who, unless they were soon checked, were destined to discredit progressivism and to provoke a violently reactionary temper; and that in the ensuing conflict the ruthlessness of the Right would be much more than a match for the ruthlessness of the Left. That was bound to happen. For what the new dealers were doing when they attacked the courts, apologized for the sit-down strikes, formed a political alliance with the C.I.O. and monkeyed with the peril of inflation, was to create a mortal fear among those who have a substantial stake in the community that the very foundations of their personal existence were threatened.

They frightened not merely the multi-millionaires but the middle class. In fact they frightened the middle class more than the millionaires, who know how to look out for themselves. For even in point of numbers the middle class, which includes a very considerable part of the skilled workers, is by far the majority; in influence it is always decisive when it is aroused. These people with good jobs, with homes, with children in high schools and colleges, with bank accounts and insurance policies, have been frightened by what they fear is some kind of unwillingness on the president's part to protect their interests.

That, and not the abstruse arguments, is what defeated the plan to pack the court. That is what has caused the revolt in congress. That, when I am greatly mistaken, is what caused the president to leave Washington at the moment when the president needs him most. And that is the reason why Mr. Girdler, who on the intrinsic issue has a mighty poor case, has today a highly emotionalized public support.

Mr. Roosevelt, intoxicated with personal power, imbued with a messianic conception of his capacity for saving the nation to the ill-nourished, ill-clad, and ill-housed one-third, has frightened the other two-thirds to the point where they are thinking of lawless devices to re-establish law and order.

By the middle of last week we had reached the point where the agencies of government stood helpless and hopeless amidst the extremists on both sides of the steel strike. There was no rallying point of authority for the reasonable people of the country, and they were being offered an intolerable choice between the illegal mass violence of excited workers and the demands of a few irreconcilable employers that the strikes be crushed by legal but violent means. Ever more ominous tendencies manifested themselves. In the absence of an impartial and firm attitude upon the part of the federal and local governments, there had begun movements on both sides to take the law into their own hands, and what was still worse a considerable section of influential conservative opinion had begun to applaud the irreconcilables in their ranks and to flirt with the notion of supporting them with armed mobs.

In this excessively dangerous clash of extremist opinion, the Taft Mediation Board offers much the most hopeful prospect. It is competent and it is representative of all those in the country who cling to the idea that industrial peace can be had without arbitrary violence. This board provides the rallying point of authority for reasonable people; it is their agency, as distinguished from the weak and prejudiced public officials who have thus far encouraged or tolerated a lawless spirit on both sides.

This board has no legal power to arbitrate the issues or to enforce a settlement. But the American people can, if they are so minded, invest it with a moral authority sufficient to bring peace through justice.

ding his austerity like mascara at a tear-jerker, carcassed he fiddle fondly and held it up to his chin.

It was, I assure you, a delight and a surprise to stand and watch him give an impromptu recital, with a beggar's borrowed fiddle, there on Beckman pavement.

How To Torture Your Husband

FLAME TRAIL

By Marie De Nervand

Kay paused a moment, and then added half aloud and half to herself: "I have a hunch that the Flying Six, and with Aunt Kate away, there's no special reason to get back early. I may as well go out on my point, and give us both a bit of a rest."

Suited the action to the words, Kay dismounted, and flinging Flicker's reins over his head, left him on the trail, as she made her way along a rocky ledge that led to a projecting cliff. From here a magnificent panorama of the surrounding country could be seen. Stretching out at full length, with her elbows propped on the smooth granite, and her chin resting on her hands, Kay gave a long sigh of satisfaction. This was one of her favorite spots, and it was more than a month now since she had been here.

Her yellow brown eyes half closed in the drowsy warmth of the sun that beat on her relaxed body, Kay thought back to the last strenuous month. Everything had seemed to happen at once, and the climax had been reached when Aunt Kate had fallen and broken her hip, and had to go to the hospital. "If Dad were only here!" Sudden tears dimmed Kay's eyes as she thought, that was always uppermost in her mind, half unconsciously voiced itself, but she resolutely forced them back. There had been no time for tears in the last year, since the tragic death of her father, when Kay had decided to stick to the ranch, and make a home for her young sister, and her great aunt.

It had been no small undertaking for a girl of 19, but Kay had braved this first year, and come through, in spite of all predictions to the contrary. Now—

With a sudden exclamation, Kay brought her reminiscing to an abrupt halt, and sat up straight, leaning forward with tense muscles, as she gazed intently down the ridge.

Several hundred feet below her, a man was piling up some brush and dried needles in a seemingly purposeful fashion against a dead tree that reared its russet height in sharp relief against the green of its neighbors. As though sensing observation, he paused suddenly and listened, glancing furtively over his shoulder. Then, evidently assuring himself that he had been mistaken, he went on with his strange task.

Her throat tight, and her eye blazing with raging indignation, as the meaning of his peculiar action flashed over her, Kay slipped off the rock, and back into the shadow of the pines. Pulling out her gun, she started a rapid and noiseless descent toward the spot that she had seen from above.

Her heart beat like a trip-hammer as she realized that she probably had spotted the firebug that the whole county had been looking for. During the last two months a series of forest fires had broken out, and only the vigilance of the fire patrols had saved the region from disastrous losses. The conviction that the fires were of incendiary origin had gradually grown, although no one had been able to prove it.

Her indignation completely blotting out any thought of fear for herself, Kay slowed down and steadied her nerves with an iron grip as she noiselessly slipped from one tree trunk to another.

She could see the russet color of the dead pine now, and the outline of the pile of brush at its base. The crash of the dried branches as they were stacked up on the side of the pile away from her told her that she was in time. With her heart in her throat, she hurried forward.

She rounded the pile and pointed her gun at the stooped figure of the man, who was bent over, propping a long branch against the others.

Her clear "Throw 'em up!" rang through the woods in no uncertain tones. Whirling about, the man straightened and faced her, then slowly obeyed the command, his eyes fixed at first on the gleaming barrel of the gun that covered him, then lifting to meet Kay's stern gaze.

A strange feeling clutched Kay's heart at the man's expression. His face was gaunt and drawn, and there were great dark circles under the desperate eyes that met hers. She had never seen a look of such mingled misery and proud defiance. For the first time, a doubt as to whether her suspicion was right, all evidence to the contrary, flashed over her.

Kay's lifetime on the range had made her a keen judge of men, and something instinctively told her that this man wasn't bad. In spite of his desperate look, his eyes were honest, and his mouth was straight and decent, and yet—

She hardened herself against the unreasoning sympathy that stole over her, and steeled herself to play her part in bringing him to justice.

"You've Never Been Hungry?" "Throw out your gun!" she commanded.

The man's shoulders twitched into a shrug. "I haven't any." His voice reflected the despair of his general attitude, and in spite of her suspicion, Kay felt the ring of truth in it.

"You were about to set a forest fire," she accused.

The man made no attempt to deny it. "What if I was?" he challenged harshly. "Why not?"

"Why not?" Kay echoed, her voice shrill with indignant surprise at such a question. The thought flashed over her that the man must be a lunatic, but she instantly dismissed it; there was nothing insane about the eyes that gazed at her with bitter intensity. "Yes, why not? What harm would it do to burn off the timber on this ridge? There are plenty of men to fight it, and keep it from reaching any of the ranch houses. Plenty of men!" he repeated, with a wild, harsh laugh. "That's the only job a man can get these days—fire fighting."

At Kay's shocked look, he added fiercely: "You've never been hungry, have you? Or seen your mother and sister hungry? Why shouldn't I make a job for myself?"

A conversation Kay had overheard between two of the punchers to the effect that the fires were being started by the desperate unemployed to give themselves jobs, flashed into her mind, as he blazed these questions at her.

"You mean to say," she faltered, "that you've been setting these fires because—"

"I haven't been setting them," he broke in. "Believe it or not, this is my first attempt. God, I couldn't even pull that off!"

With sudden reckless disregard of Kay's gun, he pulled his hands down over his face, then dropped them to his sides, and faced her with his burning black eyes.

"What are you going to do about it?"

Kay met his question with another.

"And you mean that your mother and sister are—actually hungry?"

He gave a wild laugh. "No; they're not hungry right this minute; and they won't be for another couple of days. Do you want to know why? Because I stole some food for them! That's why!"

He straightened up and reiterated his defiant question.

"What are you going to do about it?"

For a long moment, the two confronted each other, and then Kay obeyed an uncontrollable impulse.

"This," she said, simply, and slipped her gun into her holster. (Copyright, 1937, Marie de Nervand)

Kay's wits are tested, tomorrow by the unexpected arrival of the fire patrol.

FRENCH GOLD FUND ABOUT EXHAUSTED

PARIS, June 24 (AP)—Virtual exhaustion of France's 10,000,000 franc (about $450,000,000) gold stabilization fund was disclosed today, indicating the gravity of the financial crisis which Premier Camille Chautemps' new cabinet has been called on to solve.

"The stabilization fund soon will be obliged to call for gold from the Bank of France," Prof. Charles Rist and Paul Baudouin wrote in their joint letter of resignation from the fund management, its publication disclosed.

"Already for several weeks the directors have been powerless to relieve the pressure against it. Our daily meetings are of almost no further use," they said.

Chautemps, premier for the third time, was received with his ministers by President Albert Lebrun at the Elysee Palace in the early morning.

The 62-year-old Chautemps shared honors in the ceremony with Blum, who carried two-thirds of his former government into the new administration, and who made a minister of state and vice-premier of the new cabinet.

CONVICT NAMED AS SLAYER OF ANOTHER

HUNTSVILLE, June 24 (AP) — Three convicts, eye-witnesses to the slaying of convict Alton Crowson, identified Homer J. Turney, a fellow-convict, as the slayer. They were Nelson Kestley, Robert Guy Phillips and Theodore Budd.

Each of the trio, on the witness stand in Turney's trial, pointed to the Houston robber and said he was the man who slipped behind Crowson as he sat watching a motion picture May 2 and plunged a prison-made knife into his neck.

Willie Lee Rogers, sent up for burglary and forgery, testified he saw Ernest "Frenchie" Myers sell the knife to Turney for 35 cents.

Stanton Couple Observe 51st Anniversary Of Wedding Date

STANTON, June 24—Rounding out more than half a century of married life, Mr. and Mrs. N. Kaderil celebrated their fifty-first wedding anniversary Tuesday. For 51 years they have made their home the farm south of Stanton where they still reside.

In more than three decades of residence here, they have seen the plow follow the cowboy's lariat as a symbol of life in this region and have done their share in aiding the onward march of agriculture in this region. Mr. Kaderil is said to be the first man to settle in Martin county who made his living by farming. He introduced cotton planting here and his second crop bore so heavily that he hauled 30 large wagonloads, equivalent to 35 bales of 500 pounds, to Big Spring by mule-team.

With diversification as his theme he planted a large vineyard and set out an acre in orchard, producing an abundance of fruit and grapes. In later years, with the family made smaller by the marriage or working away from home of the children, and with the onslaught of the drouth and depression, the vineyard and orchard have been allowed to decrease in size, though still large enough to supply the wants of Mr. and Mrs. Kaderil.

The Kaderils came to Stanton in February, 1904, several years after their marriage which occurred in Lockhart, Texas, June 22, 1886. Details of the wedding are still clear in the minds of the husband and wife. Mrs. Kaderil describes the white organ wedding dress she wore, made with long, parted front overskirt draped above a full skirt, long sleeves and moderately high neck. Her husband, who wore blue serge, remembers his hat as "one of those dude straw hats."

They were married by the Baptist pastor, the Rev. Harrell, at his home. Accompanying them were the bride's grandfather, Mr. Gibson Stagner, and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Allen. Prior to her marriage Mrs.

Kaderil was Miss Mary Elizabeth Parr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Parr, who lived near Lockhart.

Mr. Kaderil also lived near Lockhart. At the time he met his future bride, he was employed by Mr. Allen and the Parris lived nearby. The Kaderil children draw a parallel between the beginning of their parents' romance and that of a famous Biblical couple, for the two first met at the well which supplied water for both the Allen and the Parr households.

After their marriage, the two lived in Williamson county for several years and then in Greer county, Oklahoma, for two years before making their home at Stanton. Eight children, all of whom survive, were born to the couple. Of the eight, four are teachers and another daughter taught up to the time of her marriage a few years ago. The children are: Allen Kaderil, abstract man; Stanton; L. O. Kaderil, Stanton; J. N. Kaderil, superintendent of the Pleasanton school; Chester C. Kaderil, railroad man; Potter, Neb.; Fred Kaderil, principal of San Marcos high school; Miss Ethel Kaderil, English teacher in Marfa high school; Turner Kaderil, coach at Mount Pleasant; and Mrs. R. C. Bostick of Odessa. There are 12 grandchildren.
