Agent for Carnegie Hero Institute In Lamesa Investigating

Mr. George K. Thomas, special agent for the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission of Pittsburgh, Pa. was in Lamesa April 20 and 21 investigating the murder of W. R. Billingsley last May 1st, 1930 at Sparenberg.

Mr. Thomas came for details of the case to submit to the Carnegie Institute Hero Fund Commission. The Carnegie Medal is one of the highest honors of the country to receive. Those who are eligible for this honor have either risked, or given their lives to save the life of another.

Co-op Association Hold Directors Meeting

The 20 directors of the Texas Cotton Co-op Association which met recently, elected thirteen members of the old board to hold their offices. The other seven were replaced either by reason of new districts or resignations. This evidently shows satisfaction and endorsement of the policies of the old board. Mr. C. A. Barron of Lamesa, who is a director of that board, was unanimously re-elected by the farmers of the 17th district.

R. E. Simpson Jr. was in Hobbs on business, Saturday.

TEN CENT COTTON

Ten Cent Cotton
Fifty cent corn—
I wish to God
I had never been born.

There is a Hell below
And a Heaven on high,
So this Hell-bent bunch
Said "Diversify."

So I raised the eggs
Until 'twant no use;
My hens just busted
Their little caboose.

Bought me some shoats,
Put them on rye;
They sold for a profit—
Yeah, in a pig's eye!

I raised a surplus,
But when I went to sell,
They told me the price
Was shot to Hell.

So I bought some cows,
An built a pasture fence,
Sold their butter
For fifteen cents.

So when it comes to the point,
I want to tell you men,
The Devil himself
Is like the Farmer's friend,

Dawson Schools Receive State Aid Here on Monday

Rural aid to the amount of $17,607 was received here Monday, March 20 by County Superintendent W. T. Webb. This amount, the greatest possible that can be received under the law, was a result of the inspection held here March 23 to 27 by John Olsen and W. T. Webb. Twenty-six out of 28 schools in the county applied for this aid and received it, thus enabling the schools to continue the school term for about a month and a half longer than before. In meriting this aid the schools had to meet two requirements—need for money to continue the term and certain other requirements laid down by the state. The two schools not applying were Richardson and Plainview which both had enough funds to carry on for the term.

Joe Spikes returned Monday night from the Scout Executive Training Camp held the last ten days on the Brazos River in Palo Pinto county. The camp was for scoutmasters only.

Federal Farm Loans in Dawson County may reach to the amount of $75,000.00 if the rush of this week by late applicants is any indication, W. W. Evans stated this week. "The Fort Worth office closes April 30th and no applications will be accepted after that date is the advice received here," he said. So far up to Tuesday noon $53,600.00 has been received in this county. There are also on hand in the local office about 62 incomplete applications amounting to about $10,000.00. All persons having incomplete papers are urged to finish them not later than April 28th in order to get them in the Fort Worth office in time to be acted on.

Senior Play to be Presented Here Tuesday, April 28

"My Once In A While" is the play to be given by the Senior Class, Tuesday, April 28 in High School Auditorium. It is a hilarious hotel farce in three acts. The plot concerns Jack Dexter, the youthful proprietor of a summer hotel in the mountains where life is supposedly free from "Once In A While" but who is in reality, leading a perfectly harmless Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde existence. His sweetheart cannot understand the need for his frequent visits to New York and one of these excursions results disastrously for Jack as he is taken in by a vamp of the screen.

Matters are further complicated by the arrival of guests from the city who know of his escapades. Of course matters are finally straightened out after many laughable situations and romance again runs its smooth course and every one is happy.

The cast has been working for weeks under the direction of Mrs. L. M. Pratt and promises you an evening full of amusement. Don't forget the date, Tuesday, April 28 Price 35c ad 25c.

Preamble To The Constitution Of The American Legion

For God and country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America To maintain law and order; To foster and perpetuate a one-hundred percent Americanism; To preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War. To inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community state and nation; To combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; To make right the master of might; To promote peace and good will on earth; To safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom, and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness.

Ground for the American Legion home on North 5th and Wasson Streets was broken Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock following a short but inspirational program.

S. Richardson had charge of the program which opened with an accoridian solo by Mrs. S. H. James. Following this Mr. C. A. Baldwin offered invocation. Mr. Richardson made a short talk explaining that the ceremony was the realization of their dreams for many years—"an American Legion Home."

Mr. Dyer then introduced Judge J. E. Garland. In his address Judge Garland said that "the American Legion was the only organization whose purpose is solely patriotic. An accoridian solo by Mrs. James followed. W. W. Evans made a stirring address in which he said that "the Legion Home is a shrine that will go down in the history of Dawson county to commemorate the 100 men from Dawson county who left their homes to fight for their country."

The Legion constitution was then read by J. D. Dyer, followed by a brief address from Mayor Lowrie. The corner stone was then laid every person present helping break the ground.

In spite of the severe sandstorm that was raging, a good crowd was on hand, namely: Mesdames Philip Yonge, S. H. James, and J. D. Dyer and Miss Joan Hurst; Messrs. J. E. Garland, F. T. McCollum, W. A. Wilson, E. R. McLain, Rodney Baldwin, former commanding officer of the post at Brownfield, C. A. Baldwin, Carroll Baldwin, J. R. Lowrie, Vic Lamb, Paul Mullinex, C. A. Hollingsworth, Jim Phipps, Louis B. Reid, Clyde Branon, J. D. Dyer, W. W. Evans, O. D. Carter, H. Bland Taylor, J. E. Boren, W. E. Bartlett, Ray Williams, L. C. White, S. Richardson and Aubrey Thomas.

The home is expected to be ready for occupancy about May 15.

INFLUENCE OF FARM BOARD'S OPERATION ON COTTON PRICES

By C. O. Moser

Vice-President, American Cotton Cooperative Association

There seems no doubt that for several months after the original announcement of the Farm Board's loan policy for the 1929 crop, throughout the trying period of the stock market crash of 1929 and until the latter part of January, 1930, the influence of the Board contributed to sustaining cotton prices. This was at a time when it was to the especial advantage of the cotton grower in the marketing of his crop. The sustaining influence of the Farm Board was seen in the fact that cotton prices declined much more slowly than the prices of securities during the period of the stock market crash, and afterwards for about three months were stabilized within the narrow range of about 75 points.

The influence of the Farm Board was felt partly through its willingness to buy cotton at a fixed price, and partly through the intimidation of short-sellers by fear of what the Board might accomplish in the way of boosting prices.

During the latter part of January, 1930, the markets became top-heavy because of the accumulation of contracts in the hands of weak speculative holders, and a severe decline set in—a decline that inevitably resulted from the depression in industry and the reduced demand for cotton.

During the period from the early part of March to the last of May, 1930, there is no doubt that the operations of the Farm Board lifted spot prices above the level at which they would otherwise have been sold. This is shown not only by price studies, which indicate that cotton prices during April and May averaged nearly a cent higher than they would normally have averaged, but also by the fact that prices in this country were raised considerably above their normal parity with prices abroad.

The third period from the end of May to date has been characterized by declining prices to the middle of December, followed by a gradual rise up to the present. During the past several months cotton prices have averaged somewhat higher than would normally be indicated under the prevailing demand and supply conditions. Prices in this country have recently been ruling abnormally close to Liverpool prices. Both of these indications seem to be evidence that prices are being supported above their normal levels, which support must be attributed to the operations of the Farm Board through the Stabilization Corporation and the Cotton Cooperatives.

To argue that these prices would not have gone lower had the more than three million bales of cotton held by the Cooperatives and the Stabilization Corporation been forced during the harvesting period on the already over-supplied market is to challenge the law of gravity, as well as the law of supply and demand. We maintain that avoiding the extreme decline in price to which cotton would have gone without the support of the Farm Board was a distinct service during this period of business depression to business and industry, as well as to farmers. Bankruptcy, financial ruin, and untold social consequences, suicide, etc., were avoided by the timely governmental device that gave aid to poverty stricken and prostrate agricultural communities.

Some of the erstwhile critics of the Farm Board and the Cooperatives do not appear to know that the place of the supply and time of the demand are moveable and temporarily controllable factors in the operation of the much discussed but little understood law of supply and demand. There is no disposition of the Cooperatives to question the ultimate consequences of price action when supply and demand can not be brought into balance, but we regard it as unthinkable to deny the great basic industry of agriculture the only means which modern business ingenuity and political and social economy have ever devised to protect the inadequately organized farmer from the unshielded law of the jungle. The avoidance of the extreme price consequences in any single year of bountiful harvests or temporarily reduced demand gives the farmer opportunity for adjusting his planting operations in the succeeding year to help equalize the supply and demand equation. This, of course, the farmer must do, as it would manifestly be unsound and impracticable to continue to pile indefinitely one surplus on another. There is nothing unholy or unsound in theory or practice of this procedure—in fact, it is exactly what every well regulated industry and business does. It is concurred in by some of the chief industrial and financial leaders of the country—than whom there are none more able than President Hoover and former Chairman Legge. It is agriculture's immediate hope for an equality of opportunity.

INSPECTORS NEEDED IN EVERY TOWN TO CHECK UP MEASURES

On the theory that a check and double check—and perhaps a triple check—should be made of all devices used in measuring products sold to the consumer or bought from the farmer, M. S. Frazee, state weights and measures chief, has recommended that every city in Texas appoint an official city sealer.

Thousands of dollars, Frazee declared, would be saved annually to the consumers and sellers of Texas products if every city had an official sealer. While the weights and measures division in the department of agriculture has the duty of checking up on faulty devices, the six inspectors allotted the division obviously cannot cover the state in the most efficient manner.

Ten cities have already recognized the imperative need for a city official. They are Abilene, Houston, Fort Worth, Dallas, San Antonio, El Paso, Austin, Tyler, Greenville and Beaumont. The state division aids cities in getting their inspectors started by checking up on his apparatus and going with him on his first rounds, teaching him his duties.

Particular needs seen by the weights and measures chief are regular periodic examinations of gasoline vending pumps, and gas water and light meters, not only to satisfy the customer that he is getting everything he pays for, but to give him confidence in the product he buys.

The city sealer also has many other duties, as varied as checking the weight of a loaf of bread to see that it measures up to the 16 ounce minimum prescribed by law, to testing scales in retail stores produce houses, gins, oil mills, compresses and every place where scales are used.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pierce re- Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Loveless are turned Friday from an extended landscaping and improving the visit in Hobart Oklahoma and grounds at their home on South Wichita Falls. First ad Travis Streets.

This office was instructed to declare all unpaid accounts delinquent on the 15th of the month and to discontinue service unless Satisfactory arrangements are made at office.

ON TEXAS FARMS

By W. H. Darrow
Extension Service Editor

Seven hundred pounds of dallis grass and Kobe lespedeza have been planted by 30 pasture demonstrators in Lavaca county.

The average yield of hegarl in Marion county last year was more than three times that of corn, and out of more than 100 demonstrations not a failure was recorded.

Palo Pinto county goats have been torn from favorite brush heaps to become the docile occupants of tin cans on 4-H pantry shelves. Canned chevon has been found good by home demonstration club families.

The standard 4-H pantry canning budget for Gray county is 70 containers for families of five to seven members and 320 cans for families of two. Gardens range from 22 to 31 varieties each.

Farm women in Dickens county constructed 98 hotbeds for early vegetables this spring.

Ray Tyler of Alameda, Harris county, says he has saved $4.00 per day for 40 days on a 15 acre demonstration pasture of oats, barley, sweet and bur clover. Milk production was increased 20 gallons per day.

Wichita county has two canners and sealers which are loaned to farm families under the direction of the home demonstration agent for canning home raised meats and garden stuff. The equipment is always in use, and every borrower has declared intentions of buying his own equipment as soon as money can be saved.

Wharton county 4-H club members raised hogs last year at a feed cost of 6%, and showed that good profits can be made out of 75¢ corn if combined with a protein supplement, even on an 8¢ hog market.

A Message to People

.... Who Think Twice Before Buying

YOU should ponder long and seriously before sending money away from home or spending it with foreign owned "home" concerns when the same money will buy equal if not more value from a home-owned and operated institution. Ours is the only individually owned Oil Business in Dawson County. Money spent with us stays here and helps to build a better Lamesa and Dawson County. Kindly bear this in mind when buying, and remember we practice what we preach.

Ould Braham Ahmed Says Jazz Reminds Him of Africa

Abdul does not speak English, but through an interpreter he told reporters: "I was homesick until I heard those men with the strange instruments playing something very beautiful called 'I Miss a Little Miss,' a fox trot that has much of my country in it.

"Then I shut my eyes and dreamed I was back in my home with the drums going and the pipes. It is very like our music—this American kind—it has all the beats and one feels it as one feels our music."

Abdul is not surprised that the Americans should have discovered and adapted African music. "They go everywhere, they do everything, those Americans," he declares. "The whole world is now made over for the sake of American travelers.

"Everywhere we other peoples build shower baths and hot dog stands, railroads and soda fountains, so that you may not lack in other lands what you have when you are at home. But we like to do it, for we like to have you visit us. It stirs us up just as our music stirs you."
