Rail Strike Ban Is Made Permanent

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 1—Justice T. Alan Goldsborough slapped a permanent no-strike order today on three railway unions unhappy about their pay and working conditions.

Justice Goldsborough ruled that because of the "extreme situation" which would result from a nation-wide railroad strike, he had to make his temporary injunction a permanent one.

The three unions — locomotive engineers, firemen and enginemen, and switchmen—already had taken steps to appeal from Goldsborough's earlier temporary order banning a strike.

Wage Talks Deadlocked

Government attorneys explained there is little practical difference in the two kinds of injunctions, but the permanent one will run now until one or the other side asks the court to dissolve it. That will happen when the dispute has been settled.

The controversy was tightly deadlocked, despite repeated efforts of John R. Steelman, presidential assistant, to get the railroads and the union chiefs together. They may resume conferences again tomorrow. Steelman recessed the White House talks to await the Goldsborough decision.

The strike-threatening unions refused to settle for the same 15½-cent hourly pay increase accepted by the other railroad unions in the past year. The engineers, firemen and switchmen asked for several rules changes as well. The unions say that was their original demand, and that the cost of living has gone up materially since the other unions got the 15½-cent raise.

Strike Doubted

The three unions were ready to walk off the job May 11 at 6 a.m. after months of wrangling.

President Truman directed the Army to take over the rail lines, because the three unions, with only 190,000 members, could tie up the major train movements immediately.

The Justice department doubts a strike would have taken place without the court order. Arthur J. Glover, head of the switchmen's union, referred to Army seizure as "a joke." Goldsborough made no

AS JOHNSON CAMPAIGNED OVER AREA—Cong. Lyndon B. Johnson brought his campaign for the U. S. Senate to the South Plains Thursday, winging his way over the area in a modern mode of travel—a helicopter—and everywhere he went he found a crowd of people awaiting him. Congressman Brings Campaign To Plains

Large Crowds Over Area Hear Johnson

By C. W. RATLIFF
Avalanche Staff Writer

CONGRESSMAN Lyndon B. Johnson blazed a political trail over the South Plains Thursday in his campaign for U. S. Senator as he brought his now-famous helicopter down for landings at Lamesa, Brownfield, Levelland, Littlefield and Lubbock.

In the meantime, he hovered over smaller communities and even farmers in fields and turned on a loudspeaker and broadcast briefly at each point.

Good Crowds Hear Talks

Crowds ranging from 500 to 2,000 to 3,000 persons were on hand when he landed the curious aircraft at the various points. At Lamesa, where he landed at 10:45 a. m. on the northeast corner of the courthouse square, observers estimated the crowd from 2,000 to 3,000 persons. At Brownfield, an estimated 800 persons standing and in cars surrounding the Brownfield High school grounds heard Johnson speak for 30 minutes at high noon.

In Levelland, where he landed on a vacant lot just off the courthouse square at 3 p. m., an estimated 1,000 people were on hand and a similar crowd was reported at Littlefield at 4:30 p. m.

Landing in a vacant lot adjacent to Rosenthal field in northwest Lubbock at 5:30 p. m., a similar crowd heard Johnson speak for the tenth time during the day's whirlwind campaign. He had previously hovered over Roundup, Anton and Shallowater to make short talks from the helicopter's loudspeaker.

Program Is Given

Outlining his "Five P's" in each of his talks, Johnson gave his "People's Platform of Preparedness, Peace and Progress."

Johnson pointed out that "the people of West Texas need something done about conserving their water and their soil. They need

CHARGES ARE FILED

AUSTIN, July 1 (AP) — City health officials of Austin today filed charges of adulterating meat with embalming fluid against five Austin grocers, two of whom pleaded guilty and paid fines. H. E. Hargis, city sanitarian, reported five grocers adulterated ground meat with a sulphite commonly known as embalming fluid in violation of the state food and drug law.

Lamesa Resident Killed In Crash

BIG SPRING, July 1. (Special) —Bob Bryley, about 21, of Lamesa, was killed in a highway crash 16 miles north of here about 7:30 o'clock tonight. Four others, three from the South Plains, were injured in the head-on collision.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Sullivan, of Morton, were in Hogan-Malone hospital here with lacerations and bruises and possible other injuries.

Lamesa Man Hurt

Lloyd L. Owens, of Lamesa, suffered lacerations and a possible fracture of the pelvis. He seemed to be the most seriously injured, the hospital reported. Nolan J. Reed, of Big Spring, suffered lacerations and bruises.

According to the highway patrol here, Sullivan was driving south, and the car occupied by the other men was traveling north. The men had just passed another vehicle when the accident occurred.

The cars crashed in the middle of the highway, a patrolman reported.

GRIM PICTURE

235 Persons Face Holiday Deaths

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 1—The National Safety council painted a grim picture today of the accident hazards and the death toll that confront the nation during the Fourth of July weekend.

The council estimated that 235 persons will die in traffic accidents as more than 30,000,000 vehicles jam the highways during the holiday for a new all-time high.

The council warned that drownings, fireworks accidents, heat exhaustion, food poisoning and other hazards will swell the number of deaths.

The council predicted that automobiles will roll up an aggregate of more than four billion miles of travel during the holiday.

Truman Hits Housing Bill

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 1—A housing bill designed to help war veterans finance their homes became law today when President Truman signed it—but he blasted it at the same time as a "teeny-weeny" bill.

He said it was a piece of slipshod legislation that failed miserably to meet long-range housing needs such as slum clearance, housing research and low-cost homes.

Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich), sponsor of the bill, replied that the President's statement indicates that the administration is committed to "the same socialistic tendencies we have been fighting since 1935."

Taft Defends Bill

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) defended the bill on the grounds that it helps the immediate housing problem. He indicated he would renew his fight for a long-range program in the next Congress.

Taft said the big trouble facing veterans now is getting a secondary market for GI loans, and the bill takes care of that.

Taft is co-sponsor with Democratic Senators Ellender (La) and Wagner (NY) of a housing bill that the President favored. But Congress, in its last-minute rush to adjourn, brushed aside the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill and passed Wolcott's.

Under the new law, the Recon-

Appropriations Bills Signed By President

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP) — President Truman has signed appropriations of $5,819,659,851 to run various government bureaus, including the Veterans administration and the Atomic Energy commission, through the fiscal year beginning today.

The biggest chunk, $5,125,309,000 in cash, goes to the Veterans administration. The VA also gets $43,000,000 in contract authority, for which cash will have to be appropriated later.

The bill carries $511,850,000 for the Atomic Energy commission. It provides for disbanding the War Assets administration next Feb. 28.

The law appropriates $7,744,000 for maritime training.

Cross Is Burned At Home Of Georgia Negro Candidate

MACON, Ga., July 1 (INS)—Police in Macon investigated tonight the burning of an eight-foot wooden cross at the home of Georgia's negro candidate for the United States Senate.

Larkin Marshall said his political activity on Henry Wallace's third party ticket had aroused opposition in Bibb county but that he had received no direct threats.

The cross burning was the second at a negro's home in Bibb county within the last month.

HST Predicts Election Win In November

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 1.—President Truman said today it is foolish to think he might withdraw his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

He told a news conference he is in the race to stay, that he expects to be nominated on the first ballot, and that he will win in November.

Second place on the ticket to be selected at Philadelphia will be up to the convention starting July 12, he said.

"Ike" Is Boomed

Asked whether General Dwight D. Eisenhower would be welcomed as a running mate, the President replied that was up to General Eisenhower. The former Army chief of staff is being boomed by some southern and northern Democrats, despite his January letter saying he could not accept a presidential nomination "even under the remote circumstances that it were tendered me."

Another reporter wanted to know whether Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt would be acceptable as a vice-presidential nominee, after calling attention to the fact that Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, former Republican House member from Connecticut, had suggested her name.

Of course, of course, the President replied, smiling. What do you expect me to say to that?

Mrs. Roosevelt Says "No"

(At Hyde Park, N. Y., Mrs. Roosevelt's secretary said the President's widow had authorized this statement: "Mrs. Roosevelt says she has no intention of running for public office at any time whatsoever.")

Told about the exchange later, Chairman J. Howard McGrath of the Democratic national committee, told a reporter:

"I expect the President to be nominated on the first ballot. Any speculation about the possibility of his withdrawing is wishful thinking.

"The President has taken over the reins of government from a great leader, Franklin D. Roosevelt. He has carried through with determination to achieve the objectives of peace and prosperity.

"He has a record on which to run and the only way that record can be judged is for the American people to have an opportunity to

Texas Democrats May Back 'Ike'

HOUSTON, July 1 (AP)—Gov. Beauford Jester today said "I definitely think General Dwight Eisenhower is the man for the job of president."

Jester, here to attend the ninth annual convention of the State Bar of Texas, said he believes Eisenhower will be placed in nomination before the Democratic convention July 12 in Philadelphia and that the nomination will receive the support of the Texas delegation.

"I believe he is the man who could win on either ticket," Jester told reporters.

Asked if he would vote for the general if he is a candidate for the presidency, Jester replied: "Yes."

Earlier today, Wright Morrow, national Democratic committeeman- elect from Texas, made similar predictions concerning Eisenhower's nomination and support from Texas delegates at the Philadelphia convention.

The only thing the two Texas Democratic leaders didn't agree on was whether the former Army chief of staff would accept the nomination.

Said Jester: "I can't answer that one."

Said Morrow: "I don't know of Yugoslav Soldiers, Reds Rally To Tito

By WALTER WELEBIT
Associated Press Staff Writer

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, July 1 —Communist party members and soldiers throughout Yugoslavia were reported rallying to the support of Marshal Tito today.

(The Belgrade radio, recorded in London by Tanjug, Yugoslav news agency, declared "organized incidents which are insults to the Yugoslav people, the Yugoslav state and are aimed at impairing Albanian-Yugoslav relations" had taken place in Albania.

(The broadcast said Yugoslav diplomats had filed a protest against such "brutal and hostile acts" as the pulling down of Tito portraits, the banning of textbooks and songs mentioning him, the closing of the Yugoslav bookshop and the banning of the Yugoslav newspaper Borba.

(The Moscow radio announced tonight the central committee of the Communist party of the Soviet Union has approved the resolution of the Cominform dealing with the situation in the Communist party of Yugoslavia.)

In the face of allegations by the other members of the nine-nation Communist Information bureau that Yugoslav leaders are anti-Russian and not good Communists, the army's first proletarian division elected Tito as its delegate to the fifth Communist party congress.

House Probers Say Federal Speculators Made Millions

By ROSE McKEE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 1—A House committee investigating food speculation reported today 823 federal officials and employes made a net profit estimated "conservatively" at from 10 to 20 million dollars on commodity market transactions.

The committee, headed by Rep Andresen (R Minn.) said "no conclusive evidence has been discovered so far to prove" any of the federal employes possessed "inside information" on government food purchases to guide their speculative transactions.

Probe Will Continue

Andresen stressed that his committee's investigation will continue and that today's report was merely a "preliminary analysis" of findings up to the present time

The report stated that no member of the House or any of its employes was found to have gambled on the commodity exchanges during the period covered by the investigation, January 1, 1946 to December 31, 1947.

The Andresen probe was one of two congressional inquiries on food speculation touched off by charges of Harold E. Stassen last fall that prominent persons inside the government were using official information to make enormous profits by gambling in foodstuffs.

The other investigation, conducted by Sen Ferguson (R-Mich) led to fiery hearings during which President Truman's personal physician Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, testified that he dealt in commodities to cut down financial losses he suffered on the stock market

Stassen Took Stand

Stassen took the stand to fling charges of profiteering in food at Edwin W. Pauley, personal friend of President Truman and at that time special assistant to Army Secretary Royall.

Pauley literally admitted making money on commodity speculations but hotly denied he did so with "inside information." The

Man Who Married Seven Times Given Probation By Judge

(By The Associated Press)

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 1—Thomas A. Robertson, a 25-year-old steeplejack from Providence, R. I., was placed on probation today on a charge of bigamy after police said he was incurably ill with tuberculosis.

In giving Robertson's background to the court, police said his wedding record showed his wives included:

1. Ruth N. Long, at Spartenburg, S. C., in 1942. She got a divorce, Robertson said.
2. Kay Morris, at Corpus Christi, Texas, in 1943.
3. Lucile Emily Miller, at Kansas City, Kas., in 1943.
4. Dorothy Roderick, at Kansas City, Mo.
5. Mina Pugh, also at Kansas City. Wives number two, four and five obtained annulments, according to Robertson.
6. Margaret A. Parks of Springfield, in April, 1946.
7. June Castranova of Providence, R. I., a few weeks later.

Robertson was brought here on a warrant which police served on him in Rhode Island where he was let out of prison because of the state of his health.

He had been sentenced there on complaint of wife number seven after she found out about his marriage to the Springfield woman.

Then the latter brought a complaint here on which he was arraigned today.

Judge William Cranfield placed Robertson on probation on condition that he enter a sanatarium for treatment.

Texas U. Fund Hits New All-Time High

AUSTIN, July 1 (AP)—The University of Texas and Texas A. and M. permanent fund today climbed to a new all-time high of $82,087,496.

Commissioner of the general land office Bascom Giles said a total of 186 leases covering 41,309 acres in the June 18 mineral lease auction sale are being placed in the mail. They represent a $5,900,800 boost toward establishment of the new high level.

Giles said royalties alone from oil and gas on university lands, mostly in West Texas, are flowing into the fund at the rate of approximately $640,000 a month for a total annual take of $7,680,000.

At this rate, Giles said, the higher education fund should pass the $100,000,000 by 1950.

Barney Stagner Wins Jaycee's 'Man Of The Year' Award; Other Members Honored For Achievements

By CHARLES STONE
Avalanche Staff Writer

APPROXIMATELY 200 Junior Chamber of Commerce members, their wives and guests gathered at the Lubbock Supper club on Brownfield highway last night for the annual installation banquet and dance, highlighted by presentation of awards and recognition of the service which individual members have contributed to the club during the past year.

Principal award of the evening went to Barney Stagner as the Jaycees' "Man of the Year." Joe Stanley, Man of the Year for 1947, made the presentation of the gold key to Stagner, after pointing out the record which the former had built up during the year.

Stagner, who served on the board of directors of the Jaycees and was chairman of the sports committee of the club, initiated a program of bowling and softball in the club which was very successful. He had previously been chosen as the Man of the Month.

In making the presentation, Stanley pointed out that the award is made on the basis of "unselfishness and sacrifice of personal desires, untiring effort and a sincere desire for civic improvement and community betterment."

Glen Woody, as master of ceremonies, also presented Rufus Rush with the Attendance award, an award for 100 percent perfect attendance at meetings and functions during the year.

Melvin Evans of Wichita Falls, state Jaycee president, was the principal speaker of the banquet and installed the incoming officers of the local junior chamber.

New officers installed for the coming year were: President, Horace Gearhart; first vice president, R. S. Wilkinson; second vice president, Weldon Gibbs; secretary, Clifton Hanie; treasurer, Dr. Lin-

Clay Declares Situation Now 'Very Serious'

By OMER ANDERSON
INS Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, July 1 — The Russians abruptly quit the Allied ruling commission in Berlin today, and U. S. Gen. Lucius D. Clay for the first time termed the situation "very serious."

The Russian action coincided with a Frankfurt meeting of Clay, other western occupation officials, and German leaders to set up a federal German government.

At the same time a hint of possible easing of the Berlin blockade came from the Soviet news bureau which said the Russians are weighing changes in automobile regulations on the autobahn to Berlin.

German Reds Arrested

Western officials regarded the Soviet action in Berlin as part of an effort to produce chaos and force a western "retreat from Berlin."

They also speculated that the Russians may soon establish a German puppet city administration claiming sole sovereignty in the strategic city.

Thirty German Communist agitators were reported arrested in the American sector, where they sought to convince food-blockaded Germans that the Communists are on the verge of taking over Berlin.

Transport Arrives

A great western air armada now is the only Allied means of supplying Berlin. Gen. Clay indicated the planes soon will fly in coal.

The first newly-assigned American C-54 transport was among 157 planes that landed at Templehof airport today. It carried 1,900 pounds of flour, and reached Berlin 12 hours after arriving in Germany from Bergstrom field, Texas.

Allied intelligence informants said the Russian drive to oust the Allies from Berlin is being directed by a Russian named Schdarnov, identified as a Politburo expert on German-Balkan problems.

Note Is Drafted

They said he was sent to Berlin in February with orders to purge the Soviet military administration and oust the Allies by July.

(London reported that the United States, Britain and France have drafted a tripartite note to Russia demanding lifting of the Soviet food blockade threatening

New UN Official Denounces U. S.

LAKE SUCCESS N. Y., July 1 (INS) — Dimitri Manuilsky, once powerful leader of the Comintern and at present foreign minister of the Ukraine, assumed the presidency of the UN Security Council today with a blast at the United States

Manuilsky charged the United States and colonial powers with repressing the Indonesian people in order to keep control over its raw materials and natural resources.

He declared that the U. S. abuses UN good offices by giving the latter lip service while in actuality extending support to the "repressive measures" of the Netherlands regime. Manuilsky added:

U. S. Is Attacked

"This U. S support and that of other colonial powers is designed to help enlarge foreign monopolies, transform the Indonesian people into a state of feudal miseries and enable the outside interests to penetrate deeper into the land."

He asserted that the Ukraine would not recognize the work of the committee of good offices in Indonesia and concluded:

"The United States doesn't always pursue these policies openly The big powers want to draw a line of demarcation between the old colonial powers and the new one—the United States—in the south Pacific.

Foreign Aid, Rearmament Help Boost Prices, Specialist Says

Dr. Aaron H. Chute, retailing specialist with the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas, told the Kiwanis club luncheon Thursday at Hotel Lubbock that there is a definite upward trend in prices for most commodities, due in part to foreign aid and the rearmament program in the United States.

Dr. Chute outlined briefly what he called main developments in the retailing field in recent years.

Like Hose On Nozzle

He described retailing as for a long time "an economic waste basket," likening it to the nozzle on a water hose as the final phase of commodity distribution that can be either highly destructive or beneficial, depending on methods used by the individual or group.

He cited developments in the retain field as:

1. A new high level of production.
2. Attainment of a record volume of disposable incomes.
3. Increase of 14 per cent in consumers' personal expenses
4. Sales of all retail stores over the nation up 17 per cent, with the increase 11 per cent in Texas.
5. Merchandise inventories 15 per cent higher in 1947 than in 1946.
6. Prices are largely holding firm.
7. Consumers are restricting volume of purchases, with unit sales definitely lower, although dollar volume is up.
8. Increase in number of customers who are short of dollars despite record income figures on national basis, with costs crowding family budgets.

Decline Said Postponed

Dr. Chute believes that the threatened decline in business has been definitely postponed due largely to government expenditures on foreign aid and the rearmament program.

He exhibited a chart showing price increases in commodity lines. Jewelry (luxury) items hit a top of 450 per cent above the 1935-39 base of 100 per cent, but during the past two years have trended downward.

Retail sales as a whole hit a high of 340 per cent of the base, and the food index was up less than general retail. Appeal was up to 400, and building materials topped all commodities, with an increase up to 640 per cent of the 1935-39 base.

Introduced By Leifeste

The speaker was introduced by Sam Leifeste, program chairman.

Mrs. Bill Agee made an appeal for donors to the Lubbock county Red Cross chapter's blood bank, saying the office will be open from 5 to 7 p. m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week, but that the Red Cross office should be called for definite appointment by prospective donors.

Club President L. E. (Jack) Davis was in the chair, with invocation by Dr. M. Norval Young.

Monkey Business Marks Tree Climbing Contest In West

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., July 1 (U.P.)—Van White, 21, Pomona, Cal., made a "monkey" out of himself to win the first annual tree-climbing contest of the national shade tree conference here.

He was the only one of eight contestants to throw his rope into an 80-foot eucalyptus, attach it, climb up, swing from limb to limb and slide down the rope to the ground.

The other tree-climbers couldn't even get their ropes attached and had to use White's line as a contest could have a second and third place winner.

Derby Entries Told To Stay Off Highway

Soap Box Derby entrants, overly-enthusiastic about the coming race Monday, who have been using the highways for practice runs, were warned by the Texas Highway patrol and other department officials Thursday to cease the practice because of the great risk it involves.

A few of the youthful aspirants in the derby, particularly those east of the canyon strip that is to be used for the races, have been throwing themselves liable to death or injury, and officials urged they not use this or any other highway for practice runs.

Denton's Fifth City Official Resigns Job

DENTON, July 1 (AP) — H. C. Giles, chief engineer of the city power plant and water works, resigned today. He was the fifth city official to resign in six weeks.

A city employe 12 years and chief engineer of the utility plants since March, 1947, Giles blamed "petty politics" for city "troubles."

"I just can't do the job with things like they are now," he said.

City engineer T. S. Pennebaker resigned June 18 after a dispute with two new city commissioners elected last April, Mark Hannah and J. E. Fitzgerald.

The following night, city commission chairman Ed J. Williams and commissioner R. L. Selby, jr., elected in April, 1948 to two-year terms, resigned, giving the press of business affairs as the reason. Williams had become chairman following the resignation May 21 of commission chairman W. W. King.

A city election is set for July 6 to fill King's vacancy on commission and Aug. 10 has been tentatively set as the date for an election to fill posts vacated by Williams and Selby.

Three city employes have resigned within the past week, R. G. Milliken, city surveyor, John Clark, city electrician, and Mrs. Ella Mae Turner, city bookkeeper.

Hospitals Charged With Delay In Admitting Polio Patients

HOUSTON, July 1 (AP)—A state representative of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis charges that some hospitals in southeast Texas are slow in admitting polio patients because they first make arrangements for payment of bills.

C. O. Bishop of Tyler, state representative of the foundation, told representatives of a 23-county area that such action by hospitals is one of the major problems faced by the foundation in fighting the disease.

He said delays have not exceeded an hour and a half, but asserted "they have been sufficiently long to endanger the condition of the patients."

Bishop called for formation of a well-planned anti-polio campaign and program in the district.

Meetings similar to the one here yesterday are planned throughout the state by the foundation, Bishop said.

Wiley Brothers Are 'Kept Hopping' Between Books, Bands At Texas Tech Summer School

Between books and bands, a Marine Corps pilot, First Lt. Norman C. Wiley, and his brother, Charles Wiley, are "kept hopping" this summer. Both are enrolled in summer school at Tech, and both are instructors in the summer band school.

Norman C. Wiley is making use of 60 days leave he accumulated while serving with the Marine Night Fighters during the war and since accrued. He is enrolled for eight semester hours college work during the first summer term at Texas Tech and also is French horn instructor in the band school.

NORMAN

Charles Wiley is teaching oboe during band school and will attend both summer terms in the college. He expects to receive a degree in mathematics in August. He returned to Lubbock from the University of Kansas after close of the spring term and will go back there this fall to continue music study and to be an instructor in music next scholastic year. He expects to receive a bachelor's degree in music next year at the University of Kansas.

Father Is Band Director

They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Wiley of 2810 Jefferson. Their father is band director at Texas Tech.

First Lieutenant Wiley pointed out that many men accumulated leave during the war, because of inability especially when overseas, to take their leave.

He went on active duty as a naval cadet in 1943 and later was commissioned a Marine corps lieutenant. He landed on Okinawa about the time the war ended in 1945 and served there until October of that year, when he was a member of the first squadron to land in Peiping, China, for purpose of occupation.

Protected From Bandits

By an ironical turn of events, an armed guard of Japanese accompanied the squadron of American fliers about 10 miles from the air field into Peiping, to protect them from bandits.

Allied troops had not been present in sufficient number to disarm the Japanese, although the war was over. The Chinese command was there, but because of number of bandits left the Japanese troops in Peiping armed in order to help maintain order. A few days after the squadron of which Wiley was a member arrived, enough American troops were present to disarm the Japanese and send them back to Japan.

The Night Fighters were especially capable of fighting at night during the war, because the planes were equipped with radar which could be used for purpose of "homing in" and also to get close enough to shoot enemy planes down.

Wiley is to report back to the air station near Santa Ana about Aug. 1

Butane Dealers Hear Proposal To Halt Farmer Tax Refunds

AUSTIN, July 1. (U.P.)—Members of the Texas butane dealers association were homeward bound today after hearing a proposal that gasoline tax refunds to Texas farmers be halted.

The proposal was advanced yesterday by Ike Ashburn, vice president of the Texas Good Roads association, in a speech at the final session of a four-day convention.

Ashburn said the abolition of gasoline tax refunds to farmers would provide $17,000,000 which might be used for farm-to-market roads.

In its closing session, the association also named J. E. Walling of Haskell as president and W. R. McCright of Victoria as vice-president.

Scurry County Has Gas Show

New petroleum discovery prospects continued to brighten from Sun Oil company's development at its No. 1 Emil Schattell, Southwest Scurry county prospector.

This project, seven miles southwest of Snyder and 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 186, block 97, H & TC survey, took a drillstem test at 6,823-52 feet in the Canyon lime of the Pennsylvanian.

The tester was open two hours. Gas showed at the surface in 20 minutes. It was not gauged or estimated.

Recovery was 1,770 feet of clean oil and 60 feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud. There was no formation water.

Open flowing bottom hole pressure was between 500 pounds and 750 pounds. Shutin bottom hole pressure was 3,000 pounds, after 15 minutes.

Operator was circulating, while deciding whether to run casing and make production tests, or to make more hole before putting the pipe in the hole.

This development topped the lime pay section about 6,816 feet. The formation from there to the present bottom has been well saturated with oil.

Informed sources think a commercial oil well will be completed at this project, even should no better signs of oil be found.

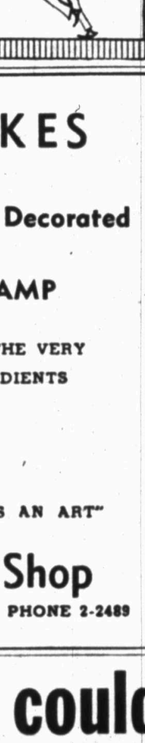

On the latest drillstem test, some of the 1,770 feet of oil was unloaded while the drill pipe was being pulled.

CONSCIENCE CLICKS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (U.P.) — H. O. Gardner, hotel manager, got two crisp bills from a former guest who enclosed the following note: "When I was at your hotel about 10 years ago, I took a small smoking stand—valued around $2. I now want to make restitution."

FDR 'Revised' 1942 Production Figures To Challenge People

NEW YORK, July 1 (INS) — The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt was declared today to have "arbitrarily revised" his war production figures upward during 1942 as a "challenge" to American productive capacity.

Some officers in the War department, after FDR's "astronomical" figures were disclosed, started passing the remark that "the President has gone in for the numbers racket."

This story is reported by playwright Robert E. Sherwood in another chapter on the "secret papers of Harry L. Hopkins" in the current issue of Collier's magazine.

Figures Were Challenge

Sherwood says the President upped the production goal before his message to Congress in 1942 because he felt the surest way to capture the imagination of the American people "was to give them the greatest possible challenge."

Sherwood reports Hopkins quoted the President as replying when he questioned him about the high figures, "Oh, they can do it if they really try."

Roosevelt, according to Hopkins' papers, didn't worry about the "total cost in money," feeling that "it was far better to squander the taxpayers' money than to squander the taxpayers."

DELAY IN PLAN IS SEEN

U. S., Britain, France Give Okay To Separate West German Rule

FRANKFURT, July 1. (INS)—The United States, Britain and France told 11 German minister-presidents today to start the job of setting up a federal government in western Germany. Such a government would make 45 million Germans largely responsible for their own welfare and destiny.

The military governors of the western powers also offered the Germans an occupation statute to serve as a temporary "peace treaty."

Meeting Is Set

The minister-presidents of the American, British and French occupation zones called a secret meeting for July 7 at Coblenz in the French zone to take up the Allied program.

Indications cropped up, however, that some German leaders may try to stall off start of the program to create a western state.

They were believed to fear that a definite commitment to the western plan would aggravate the East-West split on Germany and preferred to wait until they see how the Berlin crisis ends.

Minister-President Kopf of the British zone said "I seriously doubt that the Coblenz meetng will be fruitful. A second conference may be necessary."

Others Seek Delay

Other German officials echoed Kopf and said the Allies were trying to hurry things.

September 1 was set as the target date for a German constituent assembly to start drafting a constitution. Delegates to the assembly will be elected by the state legislatures.

Each of the military governors outlined to the German leaders what the shape of the new government is expected to be.

The historic meeting was held in the former war room of supreme headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Forces, at a time when the East and West were deadlocked over the delicate Berlin crisis.

The western powers at a recent London conference decided to get up a separate German government because of failure to obtain Russian agreement to economic unification of the country and to a peace treaty.

Tito Gains Support

slavia, declared "we cannot be shaken for one moment in our confidence in our leadership, the central committee (of the Communist party of Yugoslavia) and Tito."

Borba, the Communist party newspaper, declared numerous Communist meetings throughout Yugoslavia were hailing "the heroic central committee," and that Yugoslav soldiers were sending warm greetings to Tito as the founder and supreme commander of the army.

(Il Giornale Della Sera in Rome quoted a western power diplomatic representative from Belgrade as saying Tito had offered to back the proposal to return Trieste to Italy if he receives Marshall plan aid.)

In a strong editorial, Borba itself expressed complete faith in the Yugoslav marshal and attacked the Cominform's resolution.

Citing a Bulgarian Communist communique endorsing the Cominform action, Borba said this was "one more example of the unprincipled methods used in the campaign" to destroy Tito.

Albania Scores Slavs

It asked how Bulgarian brotherhood could be advanced when Bulgarian leaders joined in accusing Yugoslav leadership of such "fantastic things."

Bulgaria was one of the countries mentioned yesterday in a Yugoslav Communist program for a projected Balkan bloc with Yugoslavia and Albania.

United States government monitors in Washington said they recorded a Communist broadcast from Albania saying that country also stands with Russia and that Yugoslav leaders were guilty of "open treason." The report could not be confirmed here, but well-informed quarters did not doubt the broadcast was authentic.

Other Reds Hit Tito

About half of Albania's budget is being supplied by Yugoslav loans.

"A break with Yugoslavia would put Albania in a very unfortunate position, unless she expects aid from elsewhere," one source commented.

The Communist party of Austria, taking advantage of the inter-Communist fight against Tito, declared its rejection of Yugoslav territorial claims for parts of southern Austria.

The British Communist party announced its "unanimous" approval of the Cominform's condemnation.

The Hungarian Communist party also declared its support of the Cominform resolution.

vote on it with the President as the candidate."

McGrath said he is not taking the Eisenhower talk seriously, despite statements by some southerners opposed to the President's civil right program that the Columbia university president's name will definitely be put in nomination at Philadelphia.

In the face of reports that Eisenhower will issue another statement before the convention meets again, removing himself from the picture, several anti-Truman leaders are saying they believe the general would accept a draft.

Among these are Harry Carlson, New Hampshire Democratic national committeeman, and Leon Henderson, chairman of the Americans for Democratic Action.

American Industrial Areas Said In Range Of New Soviet Plane

NEW YORK, July 1. (AP)—Gen. Carl Spaatz says Russia has developed a plane that puts "practically every U. S. industrial area of consequence" within range of a one-way, no-return mission from Soviet soil.

Spaatz, retired commander of the U. S. Air Force, said in a Life magazine article the plane was mostly "copied" from the American B-29. He identified the Russian plane as the Tupolev TU-70.

"There is reason to believe," he said, "that the Russians now possess several hundred of them and are manufacturing more at a fairly good rate."

Spaatz said the Tupolev model was copied from three "lost" B-29's which made emergency landings at Vladivostok, Siberia, in 1944.

Spaatz said the Tupolev, "from either Murmansk or eastern Siberia," could reach "practically every U. S. industrial area of consequence" on a one-way, no-return flight.

Spaatz added that "the Russians have come into possession of an intercontinental carrier for their atomic bomb if —and when—they get it."

House Group Reports

Senate committee before which he testified, has yet to make a report on its findings.

Andresen's unit, which tangled with former Agriculture Secretary Anderson but worked without klieg lights and prominent witnesses, reported that it "found no fact" to support rumors that well known federal officials speculated in foodstuffs under assumed names.

The House report said that commodity transactions of the 823 federal employes and officials represented an estimated $212,920,697. It added:

"Considering profits and losses of the 823 employes engaged in speculative commodity trading, a conservative estimate would place the net profit from 10 million, to 20 million dollars."

One "Slip" Is Reported

The report listed one instance of premature disclosure of a government decision to increase the allocations of fats and oils for export.

It said that a girl in the Department of Commerce, whose name was withheld, telephoned the information to a friend who worked for the institute of shortening manufacturers. Thus, the report continued, private interests had the vital information one day ahead of its official release.

The committee held that such a "leak" provided opportunity for profit but added that there was no evidence the Commerce department employe benefited by her indiscretion. House investigators found that 623 speculative accounts were carried in the name of persons employed in the executive department of government or by members of their immediate families.

Clerk Is Heavy Trader

Among large speculators listed in the report was an unnamed girl clerk in the Navy department.

She was said to have speculated in 1,785,000 bushels of wheat, 285,000 bushels of corn, 720,000 bushels of oats, 50,000 bushels of rye, 270,000 pounds of lard, 1,500,000 pounds of cottonseed oil, 35,500 bales of cotton and 48 carloads of eggs. Of her, the report said:

"Based upon the actual price paid for these commodities the value of the contract traded in by this employee whose salary was about $3,300 per year, was approximately $10,311,990. It is estimated that this employe realized substantial profits."

The girl was believed to be the one investigated by the Senate committee, which said she was related to a well-known Washington broker.

The House report also included as large speculators the wife of an attorney in the general accounting office, an employe of the Internal Revenue bureau, an Army officer a former petroleum coordinator and an ex-assistant to Army Secretary Royall.

Lists of speculators previously made public by the Agriculture department included the name of Ralph K. Davies, ex-deputy petroleum administrator.

a man who would turn it down."

Jester, who is chairman of the Philadelphia Texas delegation, said the delegation will hold a caucus the afternoon of Sunday, July 11, and that it is likely the delegates will decide then who they will support for the nomination.

Morrow, pointing out that he was expressing only his personal opinion, later said "I think the Texas delegation is committed in principle, by instructions of the Brownwood convention, to support somebody other than President Truman."

DISPUTE OVER PLEDGE ROCKS CALIFORNIA GROUP

LOS ANGELES, July 1 (INS)—California's delegation to Democratic national convention was beset with bitterness and dissension today over whether it is or is not pledged to President Truman.

The debate was touched off by an accelerating drive to switch to General Eisenhower or Justice Douglas.

Chief supporter of the attitude that the delegation, with its 62 members and 54 votes, has not been pledged was James Roosevelt, state Democratic chairman.

Roosevelt declared today he thought a majority of the delegates "do not consider themselves bound to a pledge."

Others agreed with him, but most stoutly maintained that the delegation was pledged. One of these was former congressman Will Rogers, jr., a delegate at large. He asserted that it would be a betrayal of the voters not to stay with President Truman until he releases the delegation.

Johnson Visits Area

support prices on their products. They need blacktop roads and rural electrification. And they will vote for a man who will help get those things for them."

The Johnson City congressman flayed the isolationists and promised his listeners if elected to the Senate, he would continue to fight for a strong military program.

Backs Defense Program

"If Lyndon Johnson is elected your senator, he's going to continue to demand a 1,000,000-man Army, a 500,000-man Navy and a 70-group air force and enough atomic research that we won't have to fear any nation," Johnson declared.

Other planks in his platform, which he outlined briefly in each talk included higher pay for teachers through federal aid, a minimum pension of $50 a month for aged Texans and extension of farm-to-market roads and REA lines all over the state.

"You hear a certain group say they're going to move the courthouse to Washington; well I am one who believes we should move some of the government back to the courthouse in our Texas counties. I believe we should bring some of those high income taxes back to the people and spend it where it will do the most good."

Conservation Is Urged

"Saving the water and saving the soil is a big enough job for the combined brains and hands of local, state and federal agencies," Johnson continued. "No one is big enough to do it alone."

"This is one campaign, where a handful of men in Houston shouldn't be allowed to decide who will be your next U. S. Senator," Johnson declared.

"Too many of those kind of people want things status quo in Texas, but the tide is swinging toward the people," he said "The tide is coming our way. This time it's Lyndon's time. We're going to win without a runoff."

Has Experience in Capital

Johnson stressed the need for experience in the senatorial post and declared: "I face the job with confidence because I have served an apprenticeship of 12 years as a Congressman—the apprenticeship you required of Morris Sheppard and Tom Connally before promoting them. This experience means I have worked with 435 House members and 96 members of the Senate; it means I have worked across the conference table with such men as Vandenberg and Barkley. It means that I know all the officials with whom a Senator must work to do a job. There is no substitute for experience; if can be purchased only with years out of a man's life.

"I believe I am young enough to do the job, which calls for long hours," he continued. "Texans appreciate the physical demands upon a senator; since statehood, 22 men have represented us and only four of them were sent to Washington when they were past 60.

"Lyndon Johnson asks this promotion on the basis of my ability to get the job done—sufficient experience to know how to do the job and the capacity for sustained hard work to do it."

At Lamesa, Johnson was introduced by Mayor Sam Richardson. County Judge Homer Winston introduced him at Brownfield; Forrest Weimhold, Levelland editor introduced him there and County Attorney Bob Kirk of Lamb county introduced him at Littlefield.

In his talk here, District Attorney Lloyd Croslin, who is district campaign manager for Johnson, introduced him. Following his speech to the crowd near the ball park, he appeared at a reception at Hotel Lubbock and made a brief talk to approximately 100 supporters.

At 6:45 a.m. today, he will broadcast over a special network, originating in Station KFYO after which he will climb aboard the helicopter for another hedge-hopping tour which will include stops at Crosbyton at 9 a.m., Spur at 10:15 a.m., Aspermont at 11:30, Stamford at 12:30 and Abilene at 5:30 p.m.

Two Thefts Are Reported Here

City police were investigating two reports of theft last night and a third arrest had been made by the sheriff's department in connection with a theft charge.

Douglas Woffard, of Levelland, told officers that athletic equipment valued at $61 was taken from his car parked at Sixth and Texas Ave. He listed it as a bowling ball, two baseball gloves, baseball shoes, and a canvas bag.

Pop Reported Stolen

Another complaint was made that some boys had stolen a case of pop from a truck at the rear of Royal Crown Bottling company, at 2901 Ave. H. They drove off in an old model car, police were informed.

Two more suits were recovered and a third Mexican had been arrested yesterday in connection with theft of clothing from Russell Hardin Tailors, at 2018 Fourth, June 18, according to the sheriff's department.

Ramon Salazar, 25, surrendered Wednesday night at the sheriff's office.

Two Were Returned

That afternoon, said Dep. Sheriff Earl Horton, complaining witness to charges, Salazar and Victor Armenta, another of those charged, had returned two suits to the tailor shop—making a total of six recovered since the investigation was commenced.

It was believed there were only six suits taken. Three Mexicans had gone to the place to ask for their suits and when an attendant went into the back of the shop the Mexicans left, officials were informed. Subsequently six new suits from stock were missed Four of them were quickly recovered.

Two Post Bond

Armenta and Alfonso Urtado posted bond of $1,500 each in connection with theft charges. Salazar was remanded to jail in lieu of $1,000 bond, officials said.

C. E. Luce, deputy U. S. marshal, left yesterday with a federal prisoner, 20-year-old Thomas Edward Robinson of Gallatia, Ill., for Lake county, Ind.

Robinson had been held in county jail since June 15, in lieu of $5,000 bail as a material witness in the case of the Government against Michael Wrzisinski, charged with robbery April 29 of Citizens bank of Hebron, Ind. Before Mrs. Olive Fluke, U. S. commissioner for the Lubbock division of the Northern Federal district, Robinson Tuesday waived removal hearing and requested his immediate removal to the Hammond division of the Northern Federal District of Indiana. The order was signed by Federal District Judge James B. Dooley.

March Pledges Strong Fight For Redistricting Of State

HOUSTON, July 1. (AP)—Caso March, candidate for governor, said in a radio broadcast here tonight that as governor he will refuse to sign any legislative acts until the legislature redistricts the state.

"The failure of the legislature to rearrange the legislative districts of the state according to population changes is one of the most unconstitutional and undemocratic actions ever taken in Texas," March said.

The gubernatorial candidate said lack of a redistricing act from the legislature is particularly "unfair to South Texas areas."

March tomorrow will attend sessions of the ninth annual convention of the state bar of Texas and then go to San Antonio by way of Columbus and Schulenburg. He will make his fourth radio address of the week tomorrow at 7:45 p. m.

Arabs Claimed Ready To Reject Palestine Settlement Plans

CAIRO, July 1 (AP)—A high Arab league source said today the league will reject the proposals for a permanent Palestine settlement drawn by Count Folke Bernadotte.

This source said the league's political committee named a subcommittee to draft an Arab reply to the proposals of the United Nations mediator.

Bernadotte will arrive here Saturday to discuss his settlement proposals with the political committee of the Arab league, an official league source said. The Arabs had declined to send representatives to Rhodes and, instead, asked Bernadotte to come here if he wished to talk with them.

ley Millsap; and state director, Asher Thompson.

In indicating the relative rank of the Lubbock Jaycee organization among other such groups in the state, Evans stated that the local group had sponsored 98 projects during the year while the average for an outstanding club is about 70. He also gave the local Jaycees a great part of the credit for inspiring the state campaign on flies and polio which is to be innaugurated by Governor Beauford H. Jester on July 11. Evans was introduced by L. D. Whitely, regional vice president of the Jaycees.

The past president's pin was presented to Roy Forkner, outgoing president, by Homer Hensley, and Forkner acknowledged the pin and a gift from the club with a short talk. He also presented the past officers of the organization and the directors who had worked with him during the year.

Gifts were also presented to Mrs. Forkner and to A. B. Davis, manager of the Senior Chamber of Commerce.

Incoming president Horace Gearhart gave the response following the installation of officers, pledging himself to make every effort to carry on the good work which the Lubbock Jaycees have done during the term of Roy Forkner. In conclusion, Gearhart said, "We hope to have the best club in the best town in Texas."

Entertainment was furnished by 7-year-old Sandra Prichard with two specialty minstrel numbers, and by a floor show presented by students at the Larrymore Dance studio.

Special guests of the evening were Senior Chamber of Commerce officials and representatives of other civic clubs in the city.

the starvation of 2,000,000 Germans.

(Soviet Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin requested and held a meeting in Washington with Undersecretary of State Lovett. Panyushkin declined to tell newsmen the subject "under negotiation.")

Control Council "Dead"

Soviet Col. Boris Kalinin notified the western delegates to the Kammandatura, the four-power Berlin government, that Russia regards the group as "no longer existing."

The western leaders refused to accept "this verbal statement" arbitrarily aimed at trying to kill the group.

The Russians already had boycotted the Allied Control council formed to administer all of Germany when Soviet Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky walked out of the last session March 20.

The American deputy commander of Berlin issued an official statement which said "so far as we are concerned, there still is quadripartite government of the city and we are ready to maintain it.

"Before the Russian action can become official the statement of a very low level officer (the Soviet chief of staff, a colonel) will have to be confirmed by Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Soviet military governor, to General Clay," the American military governor.

The Russians gave as their reasons for the withdrawal the actions of Col. Frank Howley, the American commander of Berlin, and the currency reform of the Western allies. They got angry when Howley had to leave a Kommandatura session June 16 after 13 hours of meeting.

Reds Said Hurt

Indications grew tonight that the Russians may summon an Allied control council meeting July 10, if for no other purpose than to use it as a propaganda sounding board before again announcing it is dead. The ACC secretariat is still functioning.

The French-licensed Kurier meanwhile reported the Russians have been seriously hit economically by the British ban on all freight shipments to the Soviet zone, including Ruhr coal and steel. It said Polish supplies were a poor substitute to the Russian zone.

Three More B-36s Moved Over Into Eighth Air Force Setup

FORT WORTH, July 1 (AP)—Three more B-36s taxied their way into the United States Air Force today, making the jump from civilian to military status by crossing the runways from the Convair plant to Carswell Air Force base.

The huge, six engined planes—numbered 6, 9 and 14—thus brought to four the number of B-36s now on combat status here with the 7th bombardment wing of the 8th Air Force.

Rio Grande's Flood Crest Passes Valley

McALLEN, July 1. (AP)—The crest of the Rio Grande's biggest flood in years passed through the lower valley today while predictions of a new water shortage for this irrigated area were voiced.

A. Cramer of Elsa, resident of the Valley Water Conservation association, said the river's flow has declined to 8,000 cubic feet a second at Rio Grande city and that it will be down to 3,500 cubic feet per second there by Monday—a point at which it will be barely adequate to meet normal needs in the valley.

The crest passed Hidalgo at midnight last night with a flow of 60,000 cubic feet per second and moved on toward Mercedes and Brownsville. J. L. Lytel of San Benito, international boundary commission engineer, said the overflow moved into the valley's elaborate floodways system inlets near McAllen last night and is expected to continue into them for 24 hours.

Jack Dempsey To Referee Lubbock Jaycee Boxing Card July 22

Manassa Mauler To Visit City

Jack Dempsey, the old Manassa Mauler, will be the referee for the Junior Chamber of Commerce bouts July 22, it was announced here yesterday following a wire of confirmation.

Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion and one of the greatest fighters ever to pull on gloves, agreed to make the trip to Lubbock in the interest of boxing. A busy man, the Lubbock date came at a bad time for the old champion, but he cleared the way for his appearance in this city.

DEMPSEY

Bert Kahn, who was in New York for the Louis-Walcott fight and to line up Bill Henderson, J. D. Kirkpatrick and any other fighters that he could, tried to see Dempsey at that time. But the ex-champion was on the West Coast.

However, Kahn had talked to him over the phone when Dempsey was in Florida and had seen him when he had gone to New York for the Roach-Cerdan fight. Dempsey virtually promised then to come to Lubbock.

When Kahn found Dempsey out of town, he immediately went to Dempsey's business manager, Max Waxman, who knew of the virtual promise. After hearing the proposition, he said that he would inform Kahn as soon as possible.

Wednesday Kahn received a letter from Waxman saying that he would let Lubbock have Dempsey for the July 22 date and Kahn immediately wired accepting the offer, asking for confirmation. The confirmation came yesterday.

The appearance here of the man many consider the greatest heavyweight ever to wear the crown of champion adds considerable luster to the 44-round card promised the public. Dempsey was a great champion and has grown in stature in the eyes of the public since he left the ring.

The Manassa Mauler's two fights with Gene Tunney attracted the greatest interest boxing has ever known and fight fans still debate the famous "long count" in their second meeting. This, you will remember, came when Tunney was knocked sprawling and, in the confusion, no count was started for five or six seconds. Tunney rallied and took the decision, but the public has never ceased to question it.

Actually, Dempsey had one of the greatest records in the ring boxing has ever known. He was the original million dollar gate attraction and his name always pulled the crowd, even for mediocre fights.

During his long career, which started in Utah and Colorado mining camps in 1914, Dempsey fought 69 professional fights. He won 47 of these fights by knockouts and another seven by decision. A lone fight was won on a foul, while there was no decision in five bouts and there were four draws. Surprisingly, Dempsey lost four fights, two of them to Tunney, but only one defeat was by a knockout.

Dempsey was born in Manassa, Colo., on June 24, 1895, and his real name is William Harrison Dempsey. When he started fighting Dempsey weighed about 148 pounds and was six feet, one and half inches tall. His fighting prime as a heavyweight was between 187 and 194 pounds. Dempsey won the heavyweight title from Jess Willard in Toledo, O., on July 4, 1919.

The Dempsey-Willard fight was typical of the savagery in Dempsey's power. He floored Willard seven times in the first round with a ferocious attack. He battered the former champion with a continuous assault in the second and third rounds. And seconds before the fourth round open, Willard's handlers tossed in the towel to end the fight.

He then retained the title until defeated by Tunney on Sept. 23, 1926, in Chicago, Ill., in a 10-round fight, when he dropped out of boxing. He started a comeback on Aug. 20, 1931, knocked out 100 of the 175 opponents he faced and then retired permanently after losing a decision to Kingfish Levinsky in August of 1932.

Today he referees boxing and wrestling matches, while operating the famous restaurant in New York bearing his name. He served in the Coast Guard during World War II and has been generous in his charitable activities.

Hubbers Turn Back Clovis Pioneers, 7-4

By JOE KELLY
Avalanche Sports Editor

There's nothing like getting a lead and keeping it, especially against a team like the Clovis Pioneers, who have a way of waiting for signs of weakness and then pouncing. They did last night at Rosenthal Field, but it was too little and too late to avoid losing their second straight game to the Hubbers, 7-4, who thereby took their seventh straight victory.

Cotton Russell started out as though he were going to emulate Red Ramsey's whitewash, but a shady single run in the sixth ended 14 innings of zeros. And from there the Pioneers went on to threaten against the cotton-topped hurler, who definitely showed signs of weakening in the last two innings.

Hubbers Start Slowly

But Russell had enough to check the eager Pioneers, getting three of his nine strikeouts in the final two innings and starting a double play in the ninth that ended the game.

The Hubbers started out not quite as strongly last night, but managed to get a 1-0 lead in the first on Charley Scarborough's triple and Virgil Richardson's single, the first of five runs he batted in.

They added a second counter in the second on Chick Fowler's single, Mike Dalton's error and flies to centerfield by Frank McAlexander and Russell, the latter's bringing in the run.

Scarborough opened the third with a Texas League single to center and completed his trip on Richardson's circuit clout, the batter hitting over the leftfield wall with the count at one ball and no strikes.

Brilliant Fielding Helps

Two more runs in the fourth clinched the game, with McAlexander walking to open the frame. Russell's attempted sacrifice was thrown wide of second by Kramer and both runners were safe. Wilcox popped out and Scarborough grounded out, both runners advancing. Manager Jackie Sullivan walked and Richardson drove a two-run single into right field.

The final run came in the eighth on a fielder's choice that erased McAlexander and gave Russell life. Jackie Wilcox pumped a double into left field sending Russell to third and he scored on Scarborough's long fly to center.

Again brilliant defensive work, despite two errors, marked the Hubber victory. Sullivan made a great jump catch of a line drive in the third and Wilcox started a fast double play in the fourth. Then, in the final inning with the bases loaded, Russell took Dalton's one-bounce hit to the mound, calmly tossed to Don Moore at the plate and Moore's peg to Richardson at first trapped the batter for the final out.

Qualifying Rounds Set In Golf Play

Qualifying rounds for the Directors' Cup golf tournament, scheduled to open with match play Monday at Lubbock Country club, will start today and continue through Sunday, club pro Herb Schroeder announced last night.

The low 64 scorers of the qualifying rounds will compete for the trophy, Schroeder said, and for the prizes that will be awarded to the finalists.

A one-day "flag tournament" will be held at the club Sunday, Schroeder reported. Under the rules of the meet each player will be allowed 71 strokes—par for the layout—plus his handicap. The players will then play as many holes as possible until they use up their strokes. The player who leads in the number of holes completed will be named as the winner.

Cloverlake Beats Coffeemen, 11-7

Cloverlake Dairy's improving nine won a game the hard way Thursday night at Jumbo Webster park, defeating Golden Light Coffee, 11-7, in a 16-inning South Plains Softball loop tussle.

The score was tied at 7-7 at the end of the seventh frame, then nine innings later the Dairymen pushed across four tallies to clinch the victory.

Cecil (Smoky) Hale and Whistle Banks shared mound honors for the Cloverlake crew, with Dewey Carr tagged with the loss. The Dairymen collected 10 hits, while the Coffeemen were slamming out seven safeties.

The Sunbeamers, who Wednesday night clinched the league championship, were upset by the rebounding Thomas Jewelers in the nightcap, 5-0.

Yankees Defeat Red Sox, 10-7; A's Edge Nats

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox belted three homers today but a mental lapse by Johnny Pesky and erros by Dom Di Maggio and Birdie Tebbetts enabled the New York Yankees to take a 10-7 decision from the Sox.

With three runs in, a man on second and two outs in the first inning, Gus Niarhos smashed a grounder to Pesky. Pesky stepped on third thinking he had a force-out and by the time he realized his mistake, Niarhos was safe at first. George Stirnweiss then walked and pitcher Frank Hiller followed with a base-clearing double. Hiller scored the seventh run of the inning later when Phil Rizzuto singled.

Barclay Leads In College Golf Play

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 1 (INS)—Defending champion Dave Barclay of Michigan advanced to the quarter-finals of the National Intercollegiate golf tournament today by downing his second and third round opponents on the tough Stanford university course.

Barclay had a close squeak in his afternoon round against littie Gene Towry of North Texas State who carried the champ to the twenty-second hole before succumbing, 1 up.

In the third round, Barclay beat Towry's teammate, Palmer Lawrence in another 1 up victory.

In the quarter-finals tomorrow Barclay meets Tom Lambie of Stanford who stayed in the running by beating Alex Polli of Ohio State, 4 and 3, and Eli Bariteau, Jr., of San Jose State, 1 up in today's rounds.

Lou Stafford of Oregon and Ed Hopkins of the University of Texas fill out the upper bracket with Barclay and Lambie.

Legion A Team Drops Spur Squad, 18 To 3

McCabe Credited With Mound Win

A 13-hit barrage, including a double by Billy Tatum and a triple by Jim Wilson, gave the Lubbock American Legion "A" nine an impressive 18-3 District 2 victory over Spur Thursday afternoon at the Chapman field diamond.

The Hub city squad started slowly, tallying only two runs in the first three frames, but unleashed a slugging offensive that—combined with a dozen Spur errors—pushed three runs across the plate in the fourth, four in the fifth and seven in the eighth stanza.

Three Lubbock hurlers coasted in to the easy win, scattering four Spur hits, with southpaw twirler Jack McCabe getting credit for the triumph. McCabe worked the first six frames on the mound, giving up only two hits and one run, then big Jim Wilson and Jackie Martyn took over for the final three stanzas.

McCabe boosted his own performance on the mound with three singles in five trips to the plate, while Tatum, Dorrance Guy and Jimmy Richards each slammed out a two-for-five during the tilt.

Lefty John Koonsman turned in a creditable twirling performance for the Spur nine, giving up only seven safeties until the big eighth-frame onslaught, but shaky support from his teammates kept him in hot water almost every inning. Koonsman struck out two batters and gave up nine free passes to first base.

The victory was the fourth of the district season for the Lubbock A nine, against no defeats, and virtually clinched first place in the South half race for the Hub city nine.

Three district games are scheduled today, with the Brownfield team invading Morton, Muleshoe battling Littlefield and Tahoka journeying to Spur. Both Lubbock Legion nines will be idle today.

Cubs Win Third Straight From Cardinals, 4-3

CHICAGO, July 1. (AP)—Andy Pafko pounded out a home run with two mates aboard to hand the St. Louis Cardinals their third straight defeat by the Chicago Cubs today, 4 to 3.

Murry Dickson had a 3-1 lead in the seventh inning when Eddie Waitkus and Hal Jeffcoat singled to set the stage for Pafko's heroics. It was the 11th homer of the season for the Cub third sacker.

The three-game series sweep sweep gave the last-place Cubs a 6-3 margin over the Cardinals for the season.

Stan Musial maintained his .400 pace with a two-for-five day at the plate.

Pampa's Seitz To Lead South Stars Against North Saturday

When the All-Stars take the field at Abilene Saturday night, the stocky, aggressive little catcher behind the plate for the South nine will be Don Moore, the Hubber's sparkplug.

Moore is one of the few players to repeat an appearance this year in the All-Star game, having been singled out for the honor last year when he was with Clovis. And while his hitting has declined considerably over the past few weeks, he is without peer as a receiver and has managed to keep his average above the .300 mark.

Fans last year in Lubbock had no great amount of love for their backstop of this season. He was inclined to arouse their antipathy with his cocky waddle to the mound and back again, his dictatorial manner of telling the umpire what he should have done, his general anti-Lubbock aggressiveness. This year, Hubber fans love him for the same things!

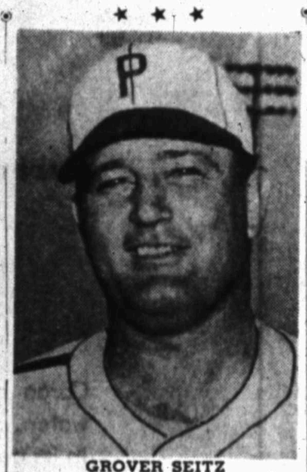

But Moore has something with which to back up his cocky spirit. He joined the Hubbers when they were going nowhere and his presence seemed to lift them up. They began to win, their pitchers settled down a little and they climbed well up into the first division. There was little question in anyone's mind that he had much to do with it.

Wednesday night at Rosenthal Field he poled a long homer over the leftfield fence, the first grand slam homer of the season in the local orchard by any player. It was indicative of why he ended up with selection as the backstop on the All-Stars over Jim Skidgel of Lamesa, Ray Sanders of Clovis, Ray Neal of Abilene and Dick Samek of Pampa.

According to the latest official league statistics, Moore is hitting .318, getting 55 hits in 173 trips to the plate good for 70 total bases. Included in his blows were seven doubles, one triple and two home runs. He has five stolen bases and has sacrificed twice. Opposing pitchers have fanned Moore 25 times, but he has walked 32 occasions and has driven in 24 runs. He also has scored 32 markers.

His understudy will be Skidgel, who has 77 hits in 253 trips good for 124 total bases, including 16 doubles, two triples and nine home runs. But Skidgel has fanned 48 times, while walking 24 times and driving in 57 runs. He also has three stolen bases and a batting average of .304.

Opposing this pair will be Bob Kramolisch of Borger and Manager John Bottarini of Clovis.

GROVER SEITZ

Kramolisch has 54 hits good for 81 total bases, including six doubles, three triples and five home runs. He has walked 44 times, fanned 31 and driven in 35 runs for an even .300.

Bottarini is hitting .335, best of the lot, on 56 hits good for 112 total bases, including nine doubles, one triple and 15 home runs. He has whiffed only 16 times, while being walked 34 and has driven in 58 counters.

DALLAS, July 1 (Special)—Grover Seitz of Pampa has been selected by the 16 players making up the South team in the annual West Texas-New Mexico League's All-Star game to be manager of their squad.

The selection of Seitz, who managed the club in last year's North-South rivalry and brought them in to a 10-8 victory, came as little surprise. The not-quite-so-belligerent Seitz this year took his team from seventh place and led them to the top of the league.

There the Oilers remained for week after week, only to fall into the same slump that has hit so many WT-NM loop nines this season. At present the Oilers are two games behind the high-riding Albuquerque Dukes, but still constitute a serious threat for the pennant.

MARTIN NAMED MANAGER FOR NORTH SQUAD

DALLAS, July 1 (AP)—Hershel Martin of Albuquerque will manage the North team in the annual West Texas-New Mexico league All-Star game at Abilene Saturday night.

Martin was selected by the players in a run-off with Buck Fausett of Amarillo today when the two tied for the place on the first ballot, League President Milton Price announced.

Sports Study

By Earl Scudday

All Lubbock and South Plains sports fans will be glad to hear that Marlin (Shorty) Hayhurst, former Seminole and Lubbock High track and grid mentor, will have some good material for his first football team at Chickasha, Oklahoma, this fall. Shorty, who recently resigned his position as the Lubbock Cowhand grid mentor and the head Westerner track coach, will report for duty at the Chickasha High school late in August—and just in time to start fall drills for his gridders.

According to a report from Jim Lines, sports editor of the Chickasha Daily Express, Hayhurst will have many lettermen back from the squad that went to the state quarterfinals in 1947. The '47 eleven used a modified double wing and T formations, apparently with great success. He will also have some top sprinters and distance men to build his 1949 track squad around, although, knowing Shorty as we do, he will develop many of the boys considered just "average" into top performers.

* * *

The affable Hayhurst certainly is leaving a great record behind him for future mentors to shoot at. In the five years he served as the Westerner track director, Hayhurst coached the Lubbock schoolboys to five consecutive regional track crowns. His cinder path squads consistently won more than their share of the various "invitational" meets staged at Abilene, Big Spring and Odessa, and never failed to make a good showing at the state meet at Austin. Hayhurst developed three individual state champions, including Burl Gene Moore in the 440, Jim Lowrey in the 880 and Cliff Dean in the pole vault.

On the gridiron Shorty's record was just as outstanding. He turned out some of the top Class A elevens in the state before joining the Lubbock High staff as coach of the Cowhands, and gained a reputation for building teams with sound fundamentals and plenty of spirit.

The record of his Cowhand team in '47 was typical. Although the squad was divided into two teams for many of the games, and the elevens played two games a week most of the season, his Cowhands chalked up approximately 17 victories aganist three defeats. One of the wins was over the strong Amarillo Yannigans, while another triumph was a 40-point victory over Roswell, N. M.

Since only about six players who lettered with the Westerner eleven last fall will be eligible for the team this year, it is obvious that the Cowhands of '47 will be the boys that Coach C. R. Pattison will mold into the Westerners of '48.

Hester, Earhart Pace Batting In Softball League

(By The Associated Press)

Big Bert Hester, the home run hitter and hurler for Ragsdale's Sports of San Angelo, is within one percentage point of Ralph Earhart, Bluebonnet of Lubbock shortstop, in the batting race of the Texas Softball league's western division.

Hester currently is hitting .381 while Earhart stands at .382. Lindsey Telford of Baldridge of Lubbock is third with .353.

Jackie Neel of Lubbock collected his fourth shutout last week against Odessa to move into the lead in pitching and Curly Hays of Ragsdale hurled the league's third no-hitter against Crane. Neel continues to lead the strikeout race with 155 in 10 games, followed by Warren Pope of Odessa with 121.

Crane, originally scheduled for a bye this week, will entertain the loop-leading Bluebonnet nine at home Saturday. Ragsdale goes to Big Spring for a holiday doubleheader Monday, July 5. In other week-end games Baldridge travels to San Antonio to meet Nathan's Jewelers and Odessa goes to Monahans for a twin bill. The July 5 series between Stamford and Bluebonnet has been moved to July 7 at Stamford.

The battle for first division berths—and a spot in the Shaughnessy playoff—tightens this week Third place Baldridge will place its spot on the line against Ragsdale.

Stan Hollmig Third Aggie To Turn Pro

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., July 1 (AP)—When Stanley Hollmig inked his name to a pro contract the other day, he became the third member of the 1948 Texas Aggie team to step into the ranks of professional baseball.

Hollmig followed the path taken early in June by Earl Beesley and Tex Thornton, even though—like Beesley—he still was eligible for further Southwest Conference competition.

Hollmig, a slugging outfielder who has been the conference home run champion for the past two seasons, signed with the Philadelphia Phillies for a reported $25,000 bonus. He thereby gave up two more years as an Aggie star.

Texas League On Road To Two Million Attendance Record

DALLAS, July 1 (AP)—The Texas League is better than 10 per cent ahead of last year in attendance and is on the way to its first season of 2,000,000 paid admissions.

Secretary Milton Price today announced that at the halfway mark, which ended June 26, a total of 1,046,792 had been reported by the eight clubs.

Last year at the same time 913,695 had been recorded.

Big White Duck Talks Back To Three-Year-Old Child

BURBANK, Cal., July 1 (U.P.)—When three-year-old Sharon Walters toddles around the lawn of her home, her arm is usually about Elliott, a big white duck.

Sharon, daughter of City Attorney Archie L. Walters, consults her feathered friend about her childhood problems, and Elliott quacks back.

The talking duck converses with Sharon's brother, Bob, 9, too. There's always a response when Bob calls "goodbye" when he leaves for school in the morning.

Elliott also is a favorite of Taffy, the Walters' red cocker spaniel. They play together constantly, but the duck learned the hard way not to touch Taffy's bone. Now he catches insects instead.

New Transport Service Set Up

WASHINGTON, July 1 (U.P.)—Organization of the continental division of the new military Air Transport service was completed today. Maj. Gen. Bob E. Nowland was named commander with headquarters at Kelly Air Force base, San Antonio.

Vice commander is Capt. D. W. Tomlinson, U. S. Naval reserve.

The division will take over transcontinental military passenger routes formerly operated by the Air Transport command and the Naval Air Transport service. It will operate a "special mission fleet" of planes for transporting high-ranking military and civilian officials. President Truman's personal plane, the Independence, is part of this fleet.

Ports Are Connected

The continental division will operate trunk routes connecting supply depots of the Air Material command with ports of aerial embarkation. The ports of embarkation are Westover Air Force base, Mass., Brookley Air Force base, Mobile, Ala., Great Falls Air Force base, Mont., and Fairfield-Suisun Air Force Base, Cal. There are eight supply depots spotted around the country.

The division will have 4,000 Air Force, Navy and civilian members and about 130 airplanes, mostly twin-engine C-47's and four-engine C-54s.

This completes organization of the new transport service. The Atlantic and Pacific divisions have been in operation since June 1.

Texan Passes Out Cards To Friends On State Of Health

FORT WORTH, July 1 (U.P.)—City Councilman George Eagle's patience wore thin when his leg was broken and solicitous friends kept inquiring about his health.

He passed out cards reading:

"Glad you asked me that. Broke it the other day, at home. Feels fine. Doesn't hurt a bit. Expect to be out of the cast and walking in a few weeks. For further details, call Dr. John T. Kramer or Dr. Louis Levy."

Virginia Declares Gyp On Nozzles At Gasoline Pumps

RICHMOND Va. July 1 (U.P.)—Virginia's motorists haven't been getting a square deal from a new type of anti-spill nozzle used on gasoline pumps. Not by a hosefull.

So the state division of weights and measures has put out an order banning the nozzle.

When a motorist drove into a station for gasoline the pump had to fill the hose before it could start filling the tank. The driver had to pay.

Scientist Study Plan To Obtain Atomic Fuel Under New Process

WASHINGTON, July 1. (AP) — Atomic scientists are talking more and more about a major atomic project—Operation Bootstrap. In simple words, its goal is to "breed" atomic fuel from other atomic fuel, getting more than the original amount. At the same time heat and electricity would be produced. This atomic fuel would be "pulling itself up by its bootstraps."

Dr. Robert F. Bacher, the only scientist member of the Atomic Energy Commission, called this project "revolutionary" in a recent speech. He added that "it certainly is enticing." He says Operation Bootstrap possibly may answer the question whether atomic plants ever will provide a major amount of the world's power. It may answer other questions, too, but this one is of prime importance. Here's why:

Even if scientists discover ways to build atomic power plants on a large scale, the basic raw material —uranium—is scarce. Operation of the plants would be limited to the amount of uranium that can be found in the world. Operation Bootstrap is investigating one way to get around this.

Atomic bombs and power plants must have fissionable material as a base. A fissionable material is an element whose atoms will split by chain reaction and give out energy.

Setup Is Outlined

In the atomic bomb project the fissionable material is produced from uranium by the huge atomic installations at enormous cost. Uranium is divided into sister elements, U-235 and U-238. U-235 is fissionable, U-238 is not. There are 140 times as much U-238 as U-235. The U-238 can be turned into a fissionable material, plutonium, but the present process uses as much U-235 as it creates plutonium out of U-238. So there's no profit in it.

Now scientists hope to "breed" fissionable material from U-238 and from another element, thorium. The quantity of fissionable material they create would be much greater than the amount consumed in the process, and in addition it would create heat and electricity as a by-product.

There are two big advantages of the new method: (1) U-238 is 140 times as abundant as its sister element, U-235. That means the raw product from which they come, uranium, would be made to produce much more fissionable material than by present methods if U-238 can be used efficiently, and (2) it would add a new element, thorium, to the raw materials from which fissionable materials can be produced in quantity. There is estimated to be from three to four times as much thorium as uranium in the world.

The "breeding" is done this way: The scientists start off with a pile of U-235. They place the other materials, called "fertile materials" — U-238 and thorium, which are radio active but not fissionable—in the pile. This "fertile material" then becomes fissionable and thus is itself an atomic fuel.

Efficiency Is Problem

The success of Operation Bootstrap depends upon how efficient the scientists can make the process. At present most fissionable material has to come from the elaborate atomic plants that have been constructed at a cost of more than two billion dollars. The new process, if successful, would permit more material to by-pass these plants.

In a practical way, here's what Operation Bootstrap means: The British use about 50 billion kilowatt hours of electricity a year. They estimate it would take 1,000 tons of uranium to produce that much electricity. But the world's entire production of uranium in 1939—the last year for which figures are available—was only 1,000 tons

How much uranium there is in the world and the rate at which it is being mined are official secrets, but the British say the known figures are significant. They say that on this basis, atomic energy on a great scale, doesn't seem feasible.

If Operation Bootstrap is successful, the whole picture is changed, because the supply of "atomic fuel" would be increased many times. Meanwhile this is Bacher's advice:

Don't believe all the wild predictions you hear of atomics.

Theater Building Project Bows To Young Robins In Wisconsin

TWO RIVERS, Wis., June 24 (U.P.) —Construction was resumed on a new theater after all concerned agreed there would be no activity around a certain hawthorne tree at the building site.

Surveyors were laying out markers when Frank Wallo, who operates a nearby cafe, pointed to a bird's nest in the tree. Two young robins were in the nest.

"Can't you wait until the little fellows are a bit older?" Wallo pleaded.

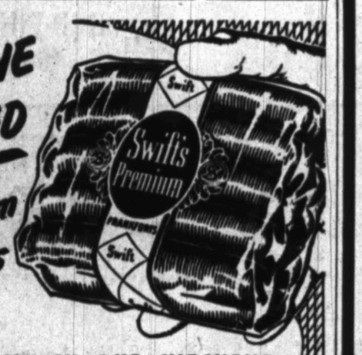

The men thought they could. So until the fledglings can fly, the theater construction will go on all around them but the tree will remain untouched.

Terror Of Vesuvius' And Mob Face Trial For Crimes In Italy

NAPLES, July 1, (U.P.) — Italy's "Terror of Vesuvius," another self-styled Robin Hood, will go on trial this summer with 44 members of his band of murders, kidnapers and thieves. The case is expected to be one of the country's most colorful trials.

Not since Mussolini wiped out the notorious Sicilian Hafia in 1932 has so much villainy been represented in a single court case.

Giuseppa La Marca is the handsome, black-haired desperado who ranged the slopes of Vesuvius, taunted the police with daring escapades and boasted he was Robin Hood in person. Except for a few instances in which he robbed the rich and actually helped the poor, La Marca confined himself to plain robbery, blackmail, murder and kidnaping for ransom.

A special hall has been prepared in the Naples assizes courtroom for the mass trial. The district attorney announced that he has 121 volumes of evidence against the Neapolitan bandit, who has been in jail for more than a year.

La Marca was captured first shortly after the Allied armies entered Naples but managed to escape and built up a new band of criminals armed with war equipment picked up from the battle-scarred countryside.

Last year La Marca tried to escape again. He got a gun smuggled in by friends, walked into the warden's office to be questioned about his behavior and his claims that he was ill, shot the warden and a guard. He almost got out before overpowered by other guards.

La Marca's best method for getting cash was seizing rich landowners for ransoms. One of his biggest prizes was Michele Ambrosia of San Giuseppe Vesuviano, a small village on the slopes of the volcano. Ambrosio was kidnaped twice and each time paid a ransom of 5,000,000 lire, about $9,000.

After the first kidnaping, Ambrosio told police La Marca had treated him "like a king." He had been richly fed and wined and received the most expensive Havana cigars to smoke. Ambrosio bragged, "For 5,000,000 lire, it was almost worth it for the experience."

Three weeks later he was kidnaped again and La Marca, in a letter to a Naples newspaper, said, "Well, he liked it so much, we thought it would be nice to have him as our guest once again." Ambrosio refused to talk about that second 'visit' after his release for another 5,000,000 lire.

Another victim of La Marca was a race horse, Arduino d'Ivrea, known to all Italian race track fans. His owner, Michele Ammirati, paid 4,000,000 lire to get him back.

'Dealer In Death' For Movie Has Charmed Life, Record Shows

LOS ANGELES July 1. (U.P.)—Death and destruction has been Walter Hoffman's job for 37 years

World-wide wars, earthquakes bomb-wrecked buildings and furious fires all have been part of a day's work for the smiling, pleasant 78-year-old Hoffman.

Fortunately, the people he's killed and the rest of the destruction he's created have been make-believe, all for the benefit of the motion picture camera. Hoffman is Hollywood's veteran explosives expert.

The results are faked, but Hoffman's dynamite and other tools are the real thing. They have kept him from getting any life insurance for the 42 years that he's worked with explosives.

Years In Army

Five of those 42 years were with the Army when he helped to build the tunnels and foundation of Corregidor in 1906. Hoffman served as a civilian adviser in demolition work with the Army and Navy during the last war and helped make training pictures.

At Paramount studio, where he's the explosives chief, directors, producers and stars take orders from him when he's needed on the set.

The studio rule, according to Hoffman, is that safety is as important as effect. As he puts it:

"They don't want to lose any big stars and I'd like to stick around a while myself, too."

Only One Accident

His job may be to get Alan Ladd through a battlefield, narrowly missing death, as in a scene for the new film, "Beyond Glory," or it just may be to have Veronica Lake blow herself up with a hand grenade.

Hoffman has had only one serious accident since he's been in Hollywood. It happened during the shooting of a scene in which the side of a cliff was to explode. He and his crew planted one and a half tons of dynamite, but a short in one of the wires caused a premature explosion.

When Hoffman was pulled from under an avalanche of rocks, he had a broken leg and arm, and was covered with cuts.

Doctors With Numbers Guard Against Publicity Seekers

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 1. (U.P.)—Doctors are known by the numbers now. The Memphis Medical society has passed out permanent identification numbers to physicians for use in emergency calls.

For example, Dr. John Doe at the ball game won't hear his name paged. Instead he'll hear "Number 120—you are wanted at the hospital."

Foreign Students To Attend U.S. School

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 24. (U.P.)—A chance conversation on a subway car started a student project that is bringing 70 foreign students to attend Massachusetts Institute of Technology this summer.

The students were invited from 17 European countries and include representatives of states behind the "Iron Curtain."

Earl W. Eames, Jr. and Lloyd A Haynes were returning from Boston to Cambridge when their conversation turned to the post-war troubles in Europe. Both had been in Europe during the war.

As a means of contributing to Europe's recovery and to aid world peace, they decided that it would be a "wonderful thing" to invite foreign students to study at M.I.T.

Other students, then the school itself and the U. S. state department took up the project. Fraternities offered to house the visitors and M.I.T. agreed to waive tuition.

Several thousand graduate students of science and engineering applied for the 70 vacancies. Allocations were made on the basis of war damage to the countries and no questions as to race, religion and politics were asked.

Health Officer Finds Rare Disease Patient Is Doctor

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 1. (U.P.)—Dr. H. Burton Doust, health commissioner, glanced through the weekly report of communicable diseases and was surprised to see a case of trichinosis.

Physicians say the disease, caused by eating insufficiently cooked pork, is fairly rare in this section.

Woman Hermit Finds Plenty Of Company At Country Home

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., July 1 (U.P.)—Men apparently haven't a corner on the hermit market.

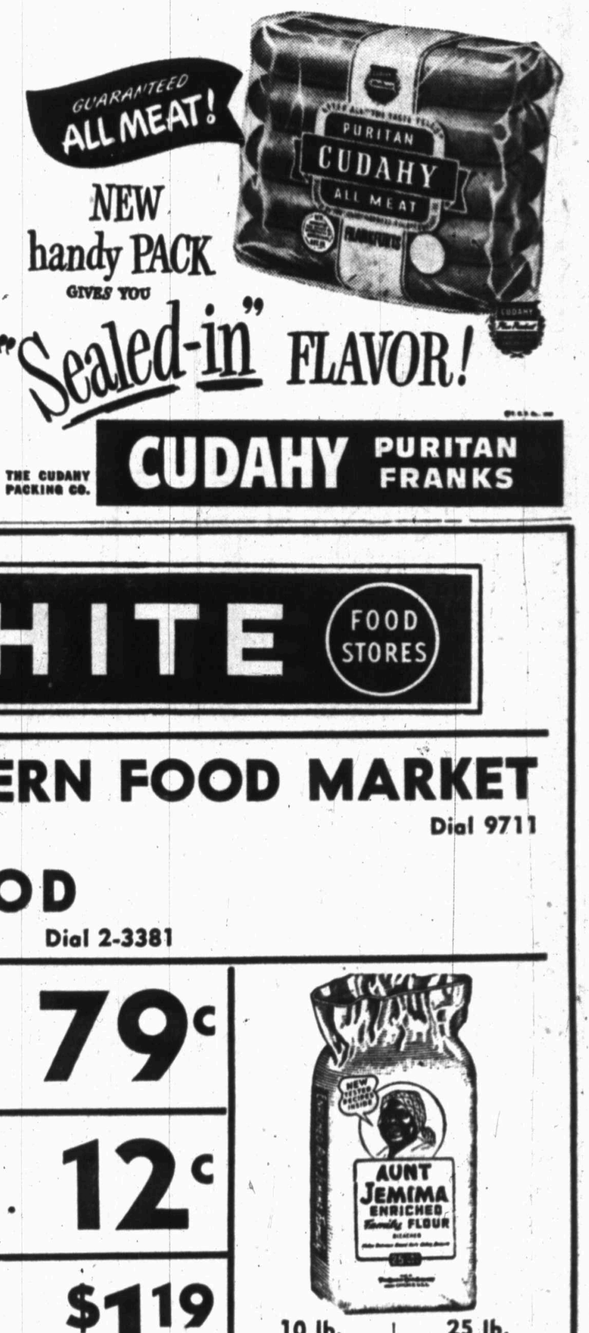

There's Mrs. Myrtle Segua, aged 63.

She lives alone in a cabin off an isolated road not far from here

Though not a hermit in the strictest sense, because she isn't anti-social, Mrs. Segua left city life behind her two years ago because of the housing shortage. Every time she thought she was settled in a house, she had to move.

Now she owns two rural lots and her own cabin. And she isn't lonely. "I work too hard in the winter — and now you can see my company." Mrs. Segua said, pointing to a nest of robins on the window ledge.

South Plains Grocers Form New Association; Officers Named

Formation of the South Plains Associated Grocers, Ins., an organization of South Plains and West Texas retail grocers, with headquarters in Lubbock was announced Wednesday afternoon.

Purpose of the corporation is to supply retail grocery stores of the area with merchandise at factory cost, plus cost of operating a wholesale warehouse, in order to give the consumer lower retail prices, said R. L. Allston, who will serve as general manager of the concern.

Officers Are Named

V. E. Goodwin of Lubbock has been named president of the board of directors of the corporation. Other directors are G. C. Sandlin, Lubbock, secretary-treasurer; Lloyd Evans, Morton, T. O. Petty, Levelland, Cecil Bickley, Denver City, Kyle Graves, Brownfield, and L. H. Finch, Crosbyton.

Assisting Allston in management of the warehouse will be D. I. Boone, who came here from Seagraves. Allston formerly was associated with a Vernon wholesale grocer and has had 20 years experience in grocery wholesaling.

A new building on railroad trackage at Twenty-sixth and Ave. C has been leased and will serve as the warehouse and offices for the corporation.

Area Points Members

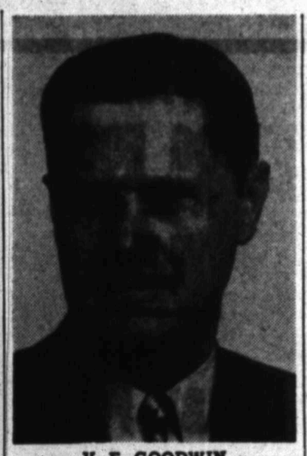

The extent of their operations is evidenced by the fact that retail grocers, all stockholders in the concern, have become affiliated in the following towns: Lubbock, Ralls, Crosbyton, Slaton, Tahoka, Odessa, Seagraves, Brownfield, Meadow, Ropesville, Wolfforth, Levelland, Morton and Denver City.

The association hopes to obtain members in other towns, Allston said.

Allston emphasized that the company plans to handle only well-known brands of foods.

California Collector Believes Saving Pennies Pays Off

SANTA PAULA, Cal., June 24. (U.P.)—Six thousand pennies tinkled on to the counter of a Santa Paula shop as George Rasmusen cashed in part of his penny collection to buy his wife a sewing machine for Mother's Day.

At home Rasmussen has three other piles of pennies, divided up into the 1930s, '20s, and '10s. He's waiting for a book on rare coins so he can know which ones are valuable.

"Penny collecting evidently runs in the family," Rasmussen said. "My brother back in Iowa has a box of 400 Indian head pennies."

Frank 'Bring 'Em Back Alive' Buck To Film African Adventures For British Government

By DOROTHY MANNERS
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, July 1 — Frank "Bring 'Em Back Alive" Buck's first picture in ten years will be released by a British company. He has been waiting around for a chance to make another of his famous film safaris for a Hollywood producer, but no offers came his way. Seems odd. His big game hunting thrillers were always box office.

Fearless Frank's present deal is with Captain Harry Dibble, high commissioner of British South Africa for the past 35 years. Title is "Frank Buck's Adventures in Africa." Territory previously kept from camera observation by the British government will be made available to Buck, who will shoot the feature entirely in color.

Not Interested In Films

Eleanor Parker's house guest, Jean Thompson, has been offered two screen tests, but she isn't having any. Says she is too happy being Mrs. Alexis Thompson.

When I think of the movie actresses who were mad about that boy at one time or another! He is young, rich, and was at one time one of New York's leading playboys. Now he has settled down to marriage and directing the Philadelphia Eagles pro-football team, which he owns.

But, if her guest isn't interested in movies, Eleanor is, and is tuning up for her first at Warners since the birth of her baby. She does "Charge It, My Love" with Ronald Reagan — Alex Gottlieb producing. It is a comedy about marriage on a budget.

All the headaches making "Countess Of Monte Cristo" at Universal-International have not cooled off Sonja Henie and that studio. She wound up her long drawn-out picture today, and immediately put her name on a "deal" to return next spring for another movie.

Meanwhile, Sonja has packed her skates and her jewels and takes off the end of this week for New York, London and the Olympic games. Just as an onlooker, natch.

From Louella: "While we were at the S. F. studio in Stockholm, a very funny and unrehearsed episode took place. Two rival gypsy tribes are working in the Harold Molander movie, still untitled.

"A very beautiful gypsy girl, 16, was doing a dance with her ex-husband. She grabbed a cigaret from his mouth (not in the script) which so infuriated him that he struck her. The two tribes of gypsies got into such a fight the police were called to quell the riot. Now why doesn't Hollywood put on interesting shows like that when columnists come visiting?

"We dined with the Charles Baldwins in Norway—he is charge d'affairs at our embassy while Ambassador Bey is away—and met some interesting people, among them Wenche Foss, Norway's most glamorous actress. Baldwin was in the Navy during the war and is a friend of Gene Markey, Robert Montgomery and Dick Barthelmess. Also had a long talk with L. Ibsen, who is Henrik Ibsen's grandson."

Hollywood in shorts: The Joe Pasternaks expect their third and are plenty happy about it. They have such interesting children. It was their little boy who gathered up Dorothy's jewels and threw them in the alley.

Lauren Bacall, who can't even look at the water, much less get on a boat, will not be along when Bogey takes the Santana over for the channel races. It is the first time Bogart has taken to sea without "Baby," who is expecting.

Merle Oberon and Lucien Ballard celebrated their third wedding anniversary last week in Rome.

Joyce Matthews and Paul Douglas are going 'round together but they say it isn't around-and-around. Milton Berle, her ex, is supposed to be heading for Hollywood this weekend to try to talk her into giving marriage another chance.

The MacDonald Careys just couldn't wait to see Laurence Olivier's "Hamlet" so they put on their best reporter expressions and came to the press review. Or should I say, previews? Demand for tickets was so heavy the one available print was run off in staggered showings from 10 in the morning to 10 at night.

The group I caught was so deeply stirred by Olivier's acting, directing and production that we found ourselves unconsciously talking in whispers for a moment after the finish.

WORKERS TO KEEP PAY

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—President Truman agreed with Congress today that scores of postal clerks who volunteered to help the Army distribute mail during the war can keep extra pay of $100 to $1,000. He signed a bill reversing the comptroller general who ruled the clerks were not entitled to the money and asked for refunds.

CAB Calls Hearings On Hughes' $10,000,000 Loan To Air Line

By LEON SHLOSS
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 1—The Civil aeronautics board today ordered public hearings to determine if a $10,000,000 loan made by Howard Hughes to Trans World airlines "is in the public interest."

The CAB examiner who investigated the loan said the question at issue was whether the multimillionaire moviemaker violated the 1938 civil aeronautics act which prohibits "initial or additional control" of an airline by anyone engaged in another phase of aviation. The act says such transactions must have CAB consent.

Loan Approved Earlier

The Hughes Tool Co., owned by Hughes, now makes aircraft instruments.

In Los Angeles Hughes said that the CAB had informed him before he made the loan that it would not conflict with the board's approval of his acquisition of controlling interest in the airline in 1944

Hughes added "the CAB has now apparently decided to submit the matter to public hearing; this could hardly be construed as a finding that anything unlawful has occurred."

The provision grew out of the "air mail scandal of 1934," when all commercial contracts for mail carriage were cancelled and the Army Air corps attempted to carry the mail Subsequently all plane manufacturing firms were ordered to divest themselves of interest in airlines

Hughes, the spectacular young airman who holds speed records and maks movies, has built planes, survived serious crashes and tangled with a congressional committee, now manufactures aircraft instruments at his Hughes Tool Co

Hughes Asks RFC Loan

The CAB said public hearings will be held to determine whether the loan transaction is "in the public interest" Legal action can follow such decision, with the defendant entitled to appeal to federal court.

Hughes already controls TWA, which has hit several financial shoals recently through a 45 percent interest acquired in 1944.

Hughes has pending an application for a $10,000,000 Reconstruction Finance corporation loan to aid his airline. RFC said today the transaction is "still up in the air."

TWA went through a protracted pilots' strike and a grounding of its new Constellation liners in 1946. In that year the company lost $14,000,000.

Losses in 1947 were cut to $8,000,000 but totaled nearly $4,000,000 for the first quarter of 1948.

Hughes some time ago executed a top-to-bottom management shakeup.

La Motte Cohu, board chairman of Northrop Aircraft Co., was installed as president and Warren Lee Pierson, former president of the government's export-import bank, as chairman of the board. Cohu recently left TWA to head up Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft Co., in San Diego

States' Rights Fight Planned

NEW YORK, July 1. (INS)—Gov Fielding L. Wright of Mississippi said tonight that states' rights must be preserved, "or the objectives of Communism and dictatorship will prevail."

The governor, writing in the July issue of American magazine, said the southern states will demand recognition of state sovereignty at the coming Democratic convention.

To Fight At Meeting

His signed article, detailing Dixieland's opposition to proposals such as the anti-poll tax, anti-lynching and fair employment measures, said:

"States' rights must be preserved or the objectives of Communism and dictatorship—to overthrow the capitalistic system that has brought America to the heights of international supremacy—will prevail.

"The States' rights groups intend to carry their fight to the floor of the forthcoming Democratic convention and regardless of the outcome there, will carry on their campaign until the threat of a dictatorial centralized government has been removed and the rights of the individual citizen restored to him.

"The race problem is only a side issue against centralization and regimentation in government—against snooping federal field men sticking their noses into the business and social activity of free American citizens. The major issues lie in whether America shall perpetuate the system which guarantees that the people, through their respective states, shall continue to rule themselves."

GRASSHOPPERS STRIP CORN FIELDS—Hungry legions of grasshoppers continue their march through cultivated fields near Bassfield, Miss., leaving behind a wake of total destruction. Corn stalks (above) are shown stripped of their foliage by the hordes of grasshoppers, and in background can be seen a portion of a 75 acre pasture of clover and dallis grass that has been eaten clean by the grasshoppers. Rehearsal Is Scheduled For Miss Lubbock Contest Entries

A second rehearsal will be held between 6 and 6:30 o'clock tonight at the Lubbock Supper club for Miss Lubbock hopefuls, contest officials have announced.

And with final arrangements for selection of the favorite local lass almost completed, another Lubbock girl has tossed her hat into the ring of aspirants for the Miss Lubbock crown.

Miss Martha Bucy, of 2219 Seventeenth popped up at preliminary rehearsals held Wednesday night at the Lubbock Supper Club and announced that she would like to take a chance on being chosen Miss Lubbock—a title which will bring a Lubbock county girl an all-expense-paid trip to Port Arthur on July 9 to compete in the Miss Texas Pageant.

Winner in the contest will be named Monday night when a talent-packed floor show revue is scheduled at the Lubbock Supper Club under Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsorship. Advance ticket sales were good Thursday at Wylie's Drug store, 1106 Texas, and additional tickets were put on sale Thursday afternoon at Woody Tire Company, 1656 Broadway.

Tickets, which include the revue and "dancing till," are $1.80, tax included, and those desiring to attend the revue may make table reservations when buying tickets.

Fifteen girls have entered thus far, according to Dr. P. K. Palmer, local Jaycee who is heading committee arrangements.

Chance Purchase Unites Two Brothers After 31 Years

BLACKSTONE, Va., July 1 (U.P.)—E. C. O'Neal, a local hardware merchant, made out a receipt to a purchaser.

The man who had made the purchase left the store, but soon came back.

"This name on the receipt," he said, "could it be that you are my brother . . . ?"

The stranger identified himself as W. H. O'Neal, of San Francisco, Cal. The brothers had not seen each other since they were children 31 years ago.

Colorful Customs Patrol Unit On Mexican Border Dissolved

LAREDO, July 1 (AP)—The southwest customs patrol district, which has seized thousands of lawbreakers along the Mexican border since it was organized in 1853, is no more.

The colorful unit of the U. S. Customs patrol went out of existence at midnight last night.

Some members of the patrol will be transferred to a customs agents unit and the rest will be made inspectors of customs under customs collectors on the border.

Monday Is Deadline On Applications For Police Examinations

Officials announced Thursday that next Monday is the last day for filing applications for examinations for apprentice policemen.

They must be in by 5 p. m.

The police department invites qualified persons to apply.

Those employed would be assigned to a district or beat during a specified period, and given other assignments by superior officers.

Qualifications Given

To qualify, the applicant must be 21 to 35; have a high school education or its equivalent and be between the height of 5 feet 7 inches and 6 feet 6 inches and weight of from 134 to 234 pounds, depending on height. Weight should not be less than two pounds to the inch of height, not more than three pounds.

Applicants may obtain applications from room 205 of City hall. Written examination will be given for the positions at 2 p. m. July 12, in Central Fire station. There also will be a physical and oral examination.

Pay for those employed will be $125 a month plus a cost of living bonus now amounting to to $80.40 a month, with advancement to $140 plus the cost of living bonus. Uniform and some equipment will be furnished by the department.

Out of the last group of more than 20 to take the examination, only six passed. Three of those six were offered employment. Two accepted, but the other in the meantime had found work that paid more, so did not take his appointment.

Tide is a whiz for keeping all your white things sparkling white, week after week! Tide can't turn them yellow, no matter how often they're washed or how long they're stored!

4. Gives more suds—
Prove it in your dishpan!
Kind-to-hands suds! Faster suds! Longer-lasting suds than any soap in hardest water! Tide cuts grease like magic . . . washes dishes cleaner than any soap! No scum in the water! No greasy ring round the pan! No cloudy film on dishes and glasses! That's why they rinse and dry so sparkling clear—even without wiping!

Communist Party Shows No New Advances In European Nations

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 1—There is evidence that the Communist wave in Europe may have passed its peak.

In three key countries, Finland, Sweden and Holland, elections that will provide a crucial test of strength are being held in the near future—Finland, in fact, is voting today and tomorrow—but reports from affiliated Gallup Polls in those three countries show no indications that the Communist party will make substantial gains.

In fact, taking the three countries together, the Communists are not likely to do any better than they did in the last election, and possibly not as well.

The surveys show the Communist Party polling 7.6 percent in Sweden, 19.8 percent in Finland and 11 percent in Holland. The Finnish general election is July 1-2, while Holland holds its election on July 7. The Swedish general election is scheduled for Sept. 19.

The last indication of Communist voting strength in a major European country was the Italian election last March in which the Communist front failed to win, polling a maximum of only 31 percent of the popular vote.

Poultical sentiment in Finland was sounded as of June 15 by Suomen Gallup of Helsinki, the Finnish Gallup Poll. The following table shows the poll results and a comparison with the last general election.

FINLAND	1945 Election	Poll June 15, 1948
Social Democratic Party	25.1%	28.3%
Democratic League (Communists)	23.5	19.8
Agrarian League	21.3	21.8
Coalition Party	15.0	15.0
Swedish People's Party	8.4	8.0
Progressive Party	5.2	5.9
Small Farmers Party	1.2	1.3
Others	0.3	0.5

The coming Dutch elections shapes up into a fairly close fight between the Roman Catholic People's Party, the leading party and the Labor Party (Free Democratic League.) The Dutch Gallup Poll in its latest test shows the Communist Party gaining slightly as compared to the last election Polling is being continued and a further report will be issued by the Dutch poll before election day.

HOLLAND	1946 Election	Poll May, 1948
Roman Catholic People's Party	32%	31%
Labor Party (Free Demo. League)	29	28
Anti-Revolutionary Party	13	12
Communist Party Netherlands	10	11
Christian Historical Union	8	8
Liberal Party (Party of Freedom)	6	6
Others	2	4

In Sweden the last national election was held in 1944 and was forecast by the Swedish Gallup Poll in one of the most accurate election predictions in the history of public opinion polling, the average error on all parties being 0.4 percent.

Comparison of the vote obtained by the Communist party in 1944 with that shown in the current Swedish Gallup poll shows a loss of ground for the Communists.

SWEDEN	1944 Election	Poll June, 1948
Social Democrats	46.6%	42.0%
Liberals	12.9	21.7
Conservatives	15.8	14.0
Agrarians	13.7	14.2
Communists	10.3	7.6
Others	0.7	0.6

Illinois Firemen Too Efficient To Suit Scrap Metal Company

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., July 1. (U.P.)—The Rock Island fire department is too efficient to suit the Dalkoff Iron and Metal Co.

The firm was burning an old auto and a passerby saw the blaze. He called firemen, who smothered the fire with water and chemicals.

Dalkoff officials arrived too late to stop the firemen and had to wait until the half-burned car dried out before they could finish the job of destroying it.

$3,500,000 Divorce Settlement Reported Made By New Yorker

RENO, Nev., July 1. (AP)—A divorce settlement of $3,500,000—probably the largest in Reno divorce history—is reported to have been made on the wife of a New York banker.

The woman, Mrs. Evelyn Lehman, is the wife of Allan S. Lehman, member of a New York banking firm and the nephew of New York's former governor, Herbert Lehman.

Her attorney, Lester Summerfield, said she is establishing Nevada residence and has been at swanky Cal-Neva lodge for two weeks. He refused to comment on the divorce settlement report and Mrs. Lehman was unavailable at the lodge.

Price-Fixing Fight Is Urged By Daniel

AUSTIN, July 1 (U.P.)—Attorney General Price Daniel, in a shakeup of his department to combat price-fixing, warned today that "something drastic must be done to make some of our Texas merchants and out-of-state manufacturers realize that price-fixing agreements will not be tolerated."

Daniel, in a memorandum to all assistants and employees, ordered first priority given during the next six months to the "investigation, filing and prosecution of anti-trust cases."

At the same time, the attorney general created a new anti-trust division and appointed Assistant Attorney General Charles D. Mathews as head.

He commended his staff on anti-trust work already undertaken in suits against milk, bread and ice cream companies and in investigations of alleged violations in the gasoline and butane industries.

No cases to be undertaken in addition to those already underway were contained in the directive.

The "confused" flour bettle is actually known by that name among entymologists because of the confusion scientists have had in naming it.

Texas City Refinery Strike Is Temporarily Averted

TEXAS CITY, Texas, July 1 (U.P.)—A threatened walkout at the Pan-American Refining company was temporarily averted today, as the union and the company mutually agreed to extend the expiring contract till midnight.

Negotiations will be resumed at 6 p. m., with two federal conciliators on hand.

Members of the Oil Workers International union (CIO), local 449, had voted to strike today unless a wage agreement was forthcoming.

In the event of a strike, some 1440 refining company employes and 400 employes of the Pan American Pipe Line company would be affected.

The company had offered a nine-cent hourly wage boost plus continuation of a nine-cent per hour cost-of-living bonus.

Joe D. McGee, secretary-treasurer of the local, declined to say just what pay level the workers were seeking, declaring "that should be worked out in negotiations."

A walkout last January ended when an agreement provided employes with a 12-cent hourly wage hike.

The best time of the year to use kerosene for killing trees and shrubs is when the ground is dry in the late summer or early fall. Kerosene and sodium arsenite are the two chemicals commonly used to kill mesquite.

Rep. Pickett Opens Campaign For Re-Election To Congress

PALESTINE, July 1. (AP)—Rep. Tom Pickett has opened his campaign for re-election to Congress from the seventh Texas district with a speech comparing his record with that of Nat Patton, former congressman who is attempting to regain his seat.

Pickett defeated Patton four years ago.

Pickett said in a speech here yesterday that his predecessor "had two chances to stop" the fair employment practice legislation while he was in Congress, "but he didn't do so."

Burke T. Summers of Nacogdoches also is seeking the Democratic nomination for Congress in the seventh district.

COUNTY TAXES

Action Forthcoming

THE Lubbock County Commissioners' court is to be commended for giving belated attention to the long overdue job of re-appraising assessed property valuations in the county so as to get them on an equitable basis. They are not equitable now, and have not been for years.

This does not suggest the court should order a blanket raise of valuations. This should be avoided, if possible. But it is the court's solemn duty to make a sincere effort to readjust valuations so that all property owners will pay approximately the same amount in county taxes on property of approximately the same value.

This situation does not obtain now. City of Lubbock property owners, as a whole, pay more taxes in proportion to true value of property than do those outside the city. This results from a long-established but wholly inequitable system which taxes city property at a valuation much closer to true value than is applied outside the city limits.

The present Commissioners' court did not originate this system. It was inherited from 'way back. It remained unchanged presumably because no one complained too vigorously, until a group of Lubbock business men put their foot down recently on another proposed hike in business property values.

That protest got promised action. The Commissioners' court is due credit for promptly announcing plans for a county-wide re-appraisal in time for application to assessment rolls next year, with valuations this year remaining substantially unchanged. If the court does that—and no good reason is apparent to doubt its sincerity—no one can complain.

Spending For Good

QUITE a little goodnatured "joshing" followed announcement by Dr. J. William Davis that during his year as president of the Lions club the organization spent more than $46,000 on various local activities. But the fact remains that if Doctor Davis, his fellow officers and directors hadn't spent nearly all available funds, the club would have fallen short of its responsibility.

No one will deny that civic clubs should keep themselves solvent, with some cash reserve—which the Lions club under Doctor Davis did. Yet it mustn't be forgotten that civic clubs are organized to serve, not to make money and pile up surpluses.

The fact that the Lubbock Lions club last year spent $46,893.74 of its $48,974 receipts offers mute but powerful testimony that the club is doing things—big things—and is more interested in spending money to bring local benefits than in showing a whacking balance in the bank.

Not only is commendation due personable Doctor Davis, his officers and directors, for the important financial contributions made to worthy Lubbock projects by the Lions club last year. Every member of the club has similar community acclaim coming to him for being a part of the organization that not only can raise sizeable sums, but also can disburse those sums in proper, helpful manner.

Money-making, per se, should be left to business concerns. Civic organizations may best fill their niche by disbursing funds in a way that will benefit the communities of which they are a valuable part.

It's hard for a man with a cracked lip to enjoy a good laugh.

PATIENCE felt a rising excitement. The sun was shining. The sky was blue. London was thrilling. And to think that she was to be here for a whole weekend!

"What are we going to do?" she asked.

"Well, first we're going to the photographer's."

"Why?"

"To get your photograph taken."

She stared at him.

"What on earth for?"

"Ah, that's telling."

"Roger! Please! Don't be mysterious. Who wants my photograph?"

"I do for one, darling. But I'm not the chief person concerned. The higher authorities are needing it."

They had reached the car now. He opened the door for her.

"Hop in," he said, and as they drove off: "There's a shop in Victoria Street who've promised to get it through in half an hour." He glanced sidelong at her: "How's your French by the way?"

Her breath caught in her throat. What on earth was all this about?

"I love you when you look bewildered," he said softly. "You're awfully sweet, Patience, you know. Just what do you feel about me as a point of interest?"

Patience had been wondering this herself quite often recently. When Roger was with her it sometimes seemed that Paul was forgotten. And then when she was gone from him she knew that this was impossible. Paul was her first love, her real love.

But Roger attracted her. And when he kissed her—when he touched her hand as he was touching it now—yes, even though they were driving through the crowded London streets—her heart raced against her side.

"Well?" he was saying. "You've not answered my question."

"Tell me first what all the excitement is about?"

He grinned.

"As I said—first the photographers. And then—"

"And then—oh, Roger! do be quick and tell me—"

"Then the passport office. Luckily I can pull a few wires and get all through very quickly. Within a couple of hours your passport should be ready."

She gasped. Vaguely at the back of her mind she'd an idea of what was going to happen. But it was too exciting! Too incredible! And Aunt Helen would certainly never allow it. Only Aunt Helen would never know. At least not until it was over.

"Roger, you don't mean—?"

"We're flying to Paris for the week-end. On the first plane tomorrow. Don't look so startled. It's all quite respectable. Charlotte, you and I are going, and you'll be back in London on Monday in time to catch your precious 6:30 back in the evening."

* * *

PATIENCE awoke the next morning, and lay quite still for a moment, enjoying to the full the lovely exciting feeling that today something really thrilling was going to happen to her. Hastily she stifled the little pang of conscience that came to her as she thought of her aunts. It was absurd to allow herself to worry about them. Besides maybe she could tell them all about it once she was safely home again.

And now here was Elizabeth arriving with her early morning tea. She sat up in bed.

"Is it a fine morning, Elizabeth?"

"Wonderful, miss."

Patience sprang out of bed. She took her tea into Charlotte's room to find her coming to life with extreme reluctance.

"Of all the ungodly hours to wake up—" she stretched her arms lazily.

"I always wake early."

"Well, I warn you I don't, and when I'm made to I'm invariably extremely bad tempered."

"Would you rather I took my tea back to my own room?"

"No. I'll put up with you. Only don't be too chatty."

"I won't. But don't lie there too long, or you won't be ready when Roger calls for us."

"I'll be ready all right."

She wasn't. She kept him waiting 10 minutes. Patience fretted and fumed. She herself had been dressed, and her suitcase packed, for a long while.

Roger, also waiting for Charlotte with some impatience, looked at her as she stood there, in a gray suit of Charlotte's with a fluffy little white blouse, and a quite ridiculous hat, and said with a smile: "Do you realize how very much you're to be envied?"

"In what way?"

"Because you get such a kick out of all this."

"Aren't you getting a kick out of it? Isn't Charlotte?"

"Oh, yes. But it's not the same. We're not doing it all for the first time." He stood looking down at her, an odd expression in his eyes.

"That, of course, is what I find so utterly enchanting about you. You're fresh and unspoilt—"

Patience drew a little quick breath. Her eyes danced.

"I thought you might find that rather dull."

"Dull! Don't be silly. Here, stand still! You've got a smut on your nose." He removed it with a corner of his handkerchief. And then dropped a light kiss where it had been. "It's a very nice little nose, incidentally."

"Am I interrupting something?"

There was an edge to Charlotte's voice. She stood there in the doorway looking utterly ravishing. She was completely the finished article. Not a hair out of place. Her make-up perfect. Her suit of a soft beige woolen material, looking every bit the fantastic extravagance it was.

Roger laughed easily.

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

ADVERTISERS are very clever people.

If they weren't, you and I wouldn't buy billions and billions of dollars worth of their goods.

So it isn't really up to me to tell them how to advertise.

BRANDEIS

In the first place they know more about their business than I do, and in the second place I can't afford to insult them.

Every newspaper that publishes my column also publishes a lot of advertising.

If I insult too many of those advertisers, they'll cancel their contracts, the newspaper goes broke and if too many of them go, broke they can't pay for my column and I starve to death.

But since my column does not appear in any magazines or on the radio, I don't see that I take any chances criticising that type of advertising.

Take radio.

I like Arthur Godfrey. I listen to him every morning. I feel duty-bound to buy his brand of cigarets because he depends on the advertiser's money for his pay.

But I also like Jack Benny and occasionally I can even bear Red Skelton.

I want to see all these fellows prosperous and healthy.

But how many brands of cigarets can I smoke, particularly when I don't smoke cigarets?

Not one of those favorites of mine has given me a single good argument why I should start smoking cigarets or why, if I do, I should smoke his sponsor's particular brand.

My wife listens to radio occasionally.

She has heard all sorts of soaps advertised.

But she buys one that isn't advertised on the radio at all.

I asked her why.

"Well, if five people tell me that they make the best soap," she replied, "at least four of them must be liars. So I just buy a soap I know is good without claiming to be the best."

I could mention more examples, but these will suffice.

Now to the magazines.

Is there a single resort to which people can go that isn't overrun with curvaceous beauties in scanty bathing suits and by Magnificent Apollos in equally almost-nothing atire?

Don't the advertisers realize that all of us aren't young, that some of us have jealous wives or husbands who don't want to expose us to temptation?

I AM in the midst of a gorgeous love story. It is about moon and June and I turn over the page for the climax.

"DON'T BE HALF-SAFE!" an ad next to my reading yells at me and, instead of going on with my dreams I am scared by the horrible things that can happen to me unless I do something about my perspiration.

I turn to another story of young love.

But right opposite it is an advertisement telling me all about the poor girl who lost her beau because she used the wrong kind of toothpaste and pretty soon nobody would even speak to her.

My heart aches for her. I turn the page again.

"Look out for Infectious DANDRUFF!" it screams.

I close the magazine and go to sleep.

ON FOREIGN POLICIES

Dewey Backs Platform

BY RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA — Republican Presidential Nominee Thomas Edmund Dewey will, of course, abide by the platform framed for him at Philadelphia. He can do so with good conscience because in the last six months, or since he decided that he wanted another White House chance, he has expressed almost exactly the ideas on foreign and domestic problems that the convention advanced in its 1948 charter.

Mr. Dewey, in almost every speech or private conversation, has given full endorsement to the record of the 80th session of Congress, which makes him palatable to the Taft-Martin-Halleck leadership. Nevertheless, his views identify him as slightly more liberal than the leadership on Capitol Hill at Washington.

TUCKER

Forgetting the phraseology of the platform, which most candidates and voters do in the heat of the conflict, here are the statements of the man from Albany on the issues which will figure in the campaign after the Democrats nominate President Truman here next month and after the leftists rally behind Henry A. Wallace:

PEACE: On the Marshal Plan and the broad question of American aid to a stricken universe:

"Our program of aid to Europe and the Far East should become realistic and hard-boiled, so that it will actually serve—instead of being merely a fruitless relief program—to rebuild and strengthen the nations, whose freedoms are so important to world peace . . .

"Our diplomatic efforts, such as the recent announcements concerning Trieste, the American-French-British demand that the Adriatic port be restored by Yugoslavia to Italy, should be accelerated . . .

"The influence of the United States has not been used so far to strengthen and preserve the forces for peace. I am perfectly convinced that we can only preserve the peace through strength, and that war is the last failure of bankrupt diplomacy."

COALITION: Nominee Dewey has expressed himself in favor of a new European coalition, backed by the United States, even more forcefully than President Truman or Secretary Marshall have dared to match in their public and private papers. Speaking in Lincoln, Neb., last April, he said:

"There are only two great powers in the world—America and communist Russia. We confront each other across a devastated and divided Europe."

"What is needed is a third, great, peaceful power which will also be so strong that no despotic ruler of a totalitarian nation will think the cause of freedom so weak that he dares to wage war.

"What is needed to restore stability in the world is a unified Europe—a strong third power devoted to the cause of peace. What is needed is a United States of Europe."

In view of this statement, it is little wonder that more foreign newspaper correspondents showed up at Philadelphia than ever appeared before at a national political convention.

DRIVEN: In other statements on foreign problems, Nominee Dewey has taken sharp issue with the Truman Administration's handling of these questions. Contrary to the general expectation and to the tenor of the platform's declarations, Mr. Dewey may not agree to eliminate this issue from the campaign. His Milwaukee speech in April, for instance, gave no sign that he was willing to kiss and make up with President Truman under a United Nations tree.

"In recent years," said Nominee Dewey, "we have failed in our mission. Instead of guiding the course of events, America appears before the world as being driven from one position to another.

"The Soviet Communist Party has meanwhile twisted into its own debased slogans the great ideas of human welfare expressed in our Declaration of Independence, our Bill of Rights, our Emancipation Proclamation and in the Constitution of the United States . . .

"So, most important of all is the need of our government to launch a moral offensive which will rally the peoples of the world to the cause for which we stand. Ours is the cause of justice, of religion, of the dignity of the individual, of common decency."

President Truman and Secretary Marshall share this viewpoint, but they have never expressed it so vigorously or eloquently.

ECONOMY: During the Capitol Hill battle over financing of the Marshall Plan which occurred on the eve of the convention, Governor Dewey repudiated the House economy move, even though it was inspired by the most influential Congressman from upstate New York—Appropriations Chairman John Taber. Said Mr. Dewey:

"I earnestly hope that the amounts which have been cut out will be restored, thereby maintaining the confidence of the peoples of the free world in our good faith and leadership."

VOTES: Mr. Dewey's more recent pronouncements on the Palestine problem, national defense, taxation and agriculture were not designed to lose him any votes among groups interested in those issues. Here they are:

"I prayerfully hope that a sound solution that will preserve the objective of a Jewish homeland and that a place for the displaced persons will be developed . . .

"Make America so strong that no nation on earth will dare to attack us. Continue making atomic weapons and build our air force into the mightiest striking power in the world. Do this for peace, not war . . .

"Federal income is now at such high levels that we can build up our military strength, reduce our debt, and still reduce taxes . . .

"Farm prosperity is essential to national welfare, and I favor federal subsidies to keep production high."

Since all these statements were made within the last year, it looks as if Governor Dewey has been quite confident for some time that he would head the army which aims to drive the Democrats out of Washington after their sixteen-year occupancy of the mansion at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

You can tell an uncivilized land. It's where the natives have never seen a bulldozer in action.

It was different in grandma and grandpa's day. When they threw a party, the party didn't throw all of the guests.

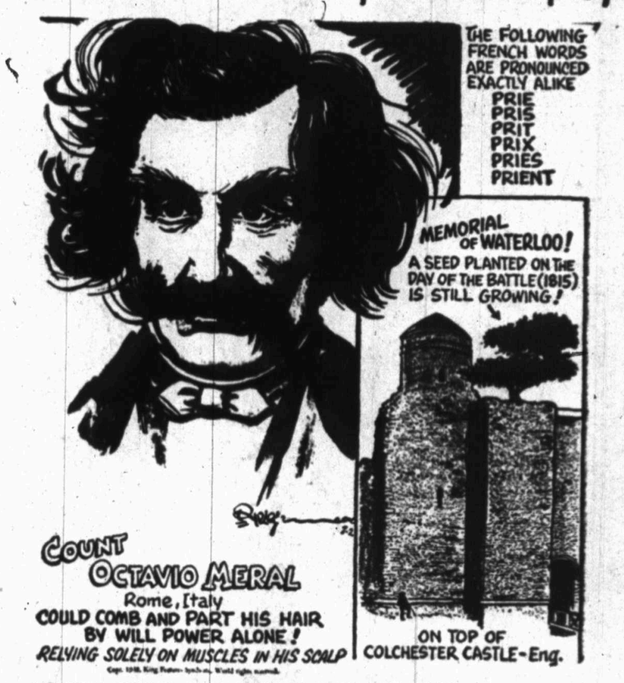

An old-timer can remember when a man didn't get killed because he forgot some safety lesson.

A man has reached middle age when he becomes vitamin conscious.

It was different with the evening dress of yore. A girl didn't have to be half-dressed to feel that she was properly clad.

When a person feels like 30 cents nowadays, he has certainly hit the cheap bracket.

Believe It Or Not-By Robert Ripley

ASSUMING HE GETS DEMO BID

HST To Bear Down On Congress

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Anticipating his renomination at the Philadelphia Democratic convention, President Truman is beginning to turn his attention, in conference with his political advisers, to the strategy for his battle against Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

A part of the design, naturally is his running - mate, who will be picked at Philadelphia, and the platform adopted there by the party.

STOKES

While the President, himself, is described as being confident of ultimate victory in November, it can be said that this confidence is not shared by shrewd and hard-headed political realists in his entourage who realize a desperate fight is ahead.

May Assail Solons

It is generally agreed now that the big, over-all issue for the Democrats is that which the President himself, raised in his tour across the country; namely, the 80th Republican Congress. The story is to be the same that he told there—himself and his program and what the Republicans did about that program.

His only possible hope to win, in the opinion of some of his most astute advisers, is to go "all out" as the champion of the plain people against the interests that dominated the Republican Congress and to pull no punches whatever. As part of this plan, it will be his endeavor to hang the Republican Congress about the neck of his opponent, Governor Dewey, on the ground that the Republican nominee necessarily must stand on the record of the Republican Congress and that, as its 1944 candidate and titular leader, he was in a position to influence its decisions.

While Governor Dewey, has, in effect, accepted the load of the 80th Congress by his statement at Philadelphia praising its "remarkable record," Democratic strategists nevertheless recognize the adroitness of Republicans in denying a place on the ticket to any member of Congress and thus avoidling a direct target.

A curious paradox that plagues Democrats as they plan their campaign was described by one of the highest-placed political advisers who said that no candidate ever had more issues than those which the 80th Congress handed to President Truman, and yet there never seemed to be gerater public apathy over issues that affect everybody so directly.

One statistic symbolizes all the issues. This is the $50,000,000 in salaries and expenses reported by lobbyists operating here since the lobby registration act was passed in August, 1946, less than two years ago. This, of course, does not represent the entire sum spent in lobbying which will run higher. But it tells plenty.

It spells out the activities of the agents of big interests that have swarmed about the capitol in the 80th Congress—the real estate lobby that killed the housing bill; the utility lobby which stopped the expansion of TVA, which helped to defeat the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway, which symied MVA for the Missouri river, and otherwise crippled the program of public power to provide energy so needed by industry and consumers in development of our country; the railroad lobby that got enacted, over President Truman's veto, the Bulwinkle-Reed bill to exempt railroads from operation of the anti-trust laws, and many, many others.

Pressure On HST

Big business has moved back into Washington. It has friends and allies in the administration itself who have tried to tailor policy to accommodate it. Some members of President Truman's cabinet, for example, brought pressure upon him to sign the Bulwinkle-Reed bill, and such administration leaders will try to get him to go easy in the campaign in order to appeal to conservative interests which, of course, will support the Republican ticket.

The fact that monopoly and the increasing influence of big business in Congress will be the dominant Democratic issue of the campaign has encouraged those who are urging the nomination of Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming as vice presidential candidate. He has dramatized the monopoly issue and his selection is urged, as well, to offset that of Governor Earl Warren of California on the Republican ticket.

Also being discussed is Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas, democratic house leader and former speaker, who has fought the utilities and whose nomination also would be a gesture to the disaffected south.

There are strategic arguments for picking a vice presidential candidate from the east rather than the west, but there is a dearth of talent there. Mentioned as possibilities from that area are Senator Brien McMahon of Connecticut and Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, former Democratic House leader.

U. S. Munitions Aircraft Board To Spend Huge Sum On Defense

By WILLIAM F. McMENAMIN
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 1 — Defense Secretary James Forrestal has appointed a munitions board aircraft committee to police the spending of $3,198,000,000 on a powerful new air force and Navy air arm.

The new group will watch over the contracts under the 1949 budget. It also has a five-year production plan for the aircraft industry, ready to go into effect when Congress approves it.

The plan will tie into a long-range program for the aircraft industry to keep it constantly ready for war-time expansion.

Rear Adm. A. M. Pride is chairman of the aircraft committee of the munitions board. The group was set up with the assistance of Maj. Gen. Oliver P. Echols, Air Force, retired, president of the Aircraft Industries Association.

To Reduce Costs

The new long term aircraft industry program is certain to reduce the unit cost of aircraft and make for steady employment in the aircraft industry, defense officials said.

They said their munitions board planning will do away with wasteful bickering between the Air Force and Navy over the plant capacity of individual aircraft manufacturers.

The program is expected to spread production over the widest base possible in order to increase the potential for mobilization in the event of war, they said.

Munitions board officers said peace-time contracts are the best assurance of emergency war-time production.

The new munitions board group will schedule the productive capacity of the industry right down to the last screw, rivet and pound of aluminum. It will arrange the production of engines, airframes and instruments so that they flow to the assembly lines evenly and smoothly.

During World War II, production frequently was held up because planes reached the end of the assembly line with no engines ready, or with instruments lacking.

The munitions board officials hope that congressional approval of the five year purchase program will release the aircraft industry from the uncertainty of a hand-to-mouth existence. They believe it will eliminate production lags.

The committee has worked out a combined aircraft production schedule for the army, navy and air force. It affects not only air frames and engines but every part that goes into a plane.

The munitions board officials believe that will do away with shortages that cause dangerous lags in production.

One of the primary functions of the committee will be to determine the impact on the industry of both current procurement and war-time planned purchases, to avoid shortages.

The group will study the geographical location of the aircraft industry and recommend dispersal "where such action is deemed necessary." The study will include the possibility of underground aircraft plants.

Fort Worth Bakeries Closed Following City Inspection

FORT WORTH, July 1 (U.P.) — Only two of the five pie bakeries in Fort Worth remained open today, following voluntary closing of the other three after an inspection by city health officials.

The establishments will open again only upon inspection and approval of the city health department. Pastry from one of the closed establishments was blamed for sending 16 persons to the hospital with food poisoning earlier this week.

STOP ENCOURAGING THEM BIRDS, GAL—San Francisco's Mayor Elmer Robinson has decreed that pigeons and sea gulls around the city's public places are a nuisance. So feeding them in Union Square, like 3-year-old Susan Smyk of San Bruno, Calif., is doing, is out. A city cleaning bill provides for trapping or killing the birds.

Quake Victims Have Sufficient Supplies

TOKYO, July 1 (INS)—American military government authorities at earthquake-devastated Fukui announced today they now have sufficient food, medicine, clothing and blankets for all quake sufferers.

The disaster relief plan of the U. S. Army of occupation was in full swing as ruins of the west coast Japanese city and two score surrounding towns and villages were still being searched for further victims.

Lt. Gen. Robert Eichelberger, commander of the U. S. Eighth army of occupation with headquarters at Yokohama, announced that Japanese welfare ministry now lists 9,105 quake casualties—2,573 "believed dead," 6,525 injured and seven missing.

Earlier American Army figures set the casualty total at 10,907—3,155 dead and 7,752 seriously injured.

Pioneer Minister Of South Plains Dies

News of the death of Rev. A. L. Estes, 78, pioneer days' Baptist minister on the South Plains, was received here Thursday by family friends. Rev. Estes died in Chattanooga, Tenn., on June 25.

Born in Clayton county, Ga., Feb. 16, 1870 Mr Estes moved to Comanche county, Texas, in 1893 and was ordained a minister of the Missionary Baptist church there. The family moved to Brownfield in 1906 and later settled on a four-section tract in Yoakum county. Tokio now occupies a portion of the land.

Became Missionary In 1907

Mr. Estes became a missionary of the South Plains association in 1907. Traveling by horse and buggy, he often recalled that his ministry frequently required absences of many weeks from his home. He continued preaching until failing health forced his retirement a few years ago. Mrs. Estes died about three years ago.

Surviving are seven children, Edd Estes, of Lamesa; Mrs. Clara McCrary, of Brownfield; W. C. Estes, of Abilene; Mrs. Ada Leavitt, of Lingo N M; Owen Estes, of Oxnard, Calif.; Mrs. Velma Copeland, of Rossville, Ga., and Earl Estes, of Chattanooga. He also leaves 14 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Los Angeles Scout Troop Boasts Of Knowing Horses

LOS ANGELES July 1 (U.P.)—The motto, "know your horses," is taken seriously by the 30 members of Highland Park Boy Scout troop 580 which boasts of being the only mounted Scout troop in the United States

Explorer Scouts, age 15 to 18, make up the major portion of the two group unit, while the younger scouts are the regulation 12 to 15 years old.

Both, however, fill the basic requirements of membership — a working knowledge of horsemanship. They apply it often in overnight camping trips weekly rides and in monthly horse shows.

County Blood Bank Is Opened In City

Plans Given For Operation Of Bank; Seven Donors Contribute

By OPAL DIXON
Avalanche Staff Writer

Set in operation Thursday afternoon, when seven pints of blood were taken from blood donors, the Lubbock County Blood bank is to serve as a continuous source of blood for transfusions for hospital patients in the future.

"Finishing up his tenure as chairman of the Lubbock county Red Cross chapter, Mr. O'Mara is giving his last drop of blood to the Red Cross," the doctor said jokingly as W. C. O'Mara prepared to go to a bleeding table to be the first donor of the blood bank.

"I hope it isn't my last drop," O'Mara, who was chapter chairman five years, answered.

Setup Is Explained

After he had given 500 cc. or one pint of blood, he remained on the table 10 minutes, according to requirements of the blood bank. That rest period was followed by refreshments served by canteen workers.

He and the six other donors apparently completed giving of blood without any unsatisfactory reaction. Safeguards are taken against any such reaction on the part of any donor, because every prospective donor is subjected to tests and approved as a donor before he is allowed to give blood.

The effect is more likely to be good than bad for those approved as donors, said Dr. S. C. Arnett, jr., medical director of the blood bank. "The loss of blood certainly is not detrimental to health or harmful to people," he said. "It makes them feel better."

'Screening' Is Made

Three of the 10 prospective donors who reported Thursday were not approved as donors. One was two years above the 60-year minimum age limit for donors, one had suffered malaria while in military service and the other's veins proved not to be accessible for obtaining the blood.

The "screening" process followed before a person is allowed to give blood is a protection to the would be donor himself, whose physical condition might make it inadvisable for him to give blood, and in some cases will serve as protection of those who might receive the blood in transfusions.

Dr. Arnett, Dr. A. G. Barsh and Dr. Clarence Mast are members of the medical committee of the blood bank and one is to be on duty each of the three periods weekly that the bank will be open. Plan under which the blood bank was established provides that a member of the Lubbock-Crosby County Medical society will be present at all times the bank is open.

Hours Are Set

Regular times of operation will be from 5 to 7 p. m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

"Supervision is done by the doctors of Lubbock—free gratis. That shows how much interest

Rulings Returned By Attorney General

AUSTIN, July 1 (AP)—The automatic tax board today was barred from reducing or eliminating the two-cent property tax levied by the state constitution for confererate pensions.

Attorney General Price Daniel told Comptroller George Sheppard in a ruling yesterday that the two-cent ad valorem levy cannot be cut except by the legislature.

Daniel said the fact that the confederate pension fund now has a sizeable surplus did not alter the case.

The attorney general also ruled that: rural high school districts cannot buy workmen's compensation insurance premiums; the Texas Employment commission can refund unemployment compensation taxes paid in error; the board of managers of a county hospital has sole authority in fixing hospital employes' salaries.

RUSSIA THREATENS VETO

LAKE SUCCESS, July 1 (AP)—Russia threatened today to veto Ceylon's application for United Nations membership. The threat was made in the midst of a bitter procedural wrangle in which the Security Council's 11-nation membership committee refused to reconsider its previous decision to recommend admission of Ceylon.

SERVICES ARE HELD

SAN ANTONIO, July 1 (AP) — Funeral services were held here today for R. W. Peel, 95, who is survived by 105 descendents in this section. A native of Uvalde, Peel died yesterday. Survivors include four daughters, two sons, 31 grandchildren, 56 great grandchildren and 12 great-great grandchildren.

Air Terminal Okay Awaited

City officials are awaiting final confirmations of tentative approvals already given by the Civil Aeronautics administration before issuing a call for construction of the new Municipal Airport Terminal building.

The structure, as proposed, will be a three-wing affair. Two identical wings will form an extremely wide-mouthed horseshoe, their ends curving toward the Plainview highway. The other wing will open upon the landing apron of the airfield projecting from the center ot the outer curve of the other two. A metal fence will separate the building from the aprons.

Tower Is Included

Surrounding the center of the curving wings will be a square tower rising to a height of about 60 feet—approximately that of a tall five-story building—including the beason.

A second floor, circular in design, will rise above the third wing, which will serve as a waiting room. The use to which the second floor will be put has not been decided definitely, but it probably will be leased as a food and refreshment concession.

The principal use of the curving wings will be for service counters for airlines serving Lubbock. These wings can be extended as needed and, according to designers, can be made adequate for the needs of an air traffic volume many times that now handled at the airport. Offices, radar equipment, weather observatory apparatus will be housed in the tower.

More Parking Facilities

The building will be situated a short distance northeast of present terminal facilities and about 600 feet further from the highway. One-way pavement from the highway will border the inside rim of the curving wings. Motor traffic will be discharged and picked up from roofed platforms. Present terminal facilities will be converted to other uses. The change of location and the new building's greater distance from the highway will insure an abundance of parking space.

Estimates are that the building, as designed, will cost somewhat more than $300,000, with the city and the CAA contributing on a 50-50 basis.

Basic design for the structure was obtained from the Mexico City airport terminal, city officials said. The architects are O. R. Walker and James Atcheson, who were associated when commissioned to design the structure. Atcheson since has opened his own office.

Evans Outlines Plan To Pay State Bonus

Natural Resources Levy Is Backed; Candidates Head Into Final Drive

(By The Associated Press)

Gubernatorial candidate Roger Q. Evans would bill Texas Natural resources going out of the state to pay a war veterans bonus which has become one of the major issues in the governor's race.

In a Thursday night speech Evans related for the first time his plan to pay a bonus "without slapping a new burden of taxation on the people of Texas."

Campaign Gains Heat

"Make the big corporations that have their bank accounts outside of Texas . . . the big monopolies that have fattened on our Texas resources . . . make them pay 85 cents of this bonus, by putting a just and proper tax on every quart and gallon, every pound and ton and inch and foot of Texas natural resources that are sent from the state," he said.

As political campaigns rode into the "pay-off" month that left only 24 days for campaigning before the first Democratic primary, Evans punched harder at Gov. Beauford H. Jester who spent the day in Houston at the state bar convention.

He charged Jester with "slapping" every veteran in the face by branding bonus-seeking veterans as "un-Texan."

In an early morning Houston broadcast, Stevenson said he had never been and did not intend to become a "show-off" either in office or while campaigning for office.

Later in Austin he observed: "A farmer can't market his crops and livestock by airplane. He has to go along the road." He recalled that "one penny of calculation" more than 10 years ago had given counties and road districts of Texas nearly $2,000,000 for their highways. As a member of the legislature he had sponsored a bill to allocate one cent of the four-cent gasoline tax to reimburse counties and districts for their road bonds.

The remainder of the proceeds remain with the Levelland Rodeo association.

The rodeo association also will sponsor dances Friday and Saturday nights at 10 o'clock in the McDonald warehouse on North Avenue H here Hank the Cowhand and his Cowhands from Lubbock will furnish the music.

McDonald Assailed As Lobbying For Eastern Brokers, Bankers

SHERMAN, July 1. (AP)—James D. Griffin, candidate for state commissioner of agriculture, charged here today that his opponent, J. E. McDonald, is "lobbying in the interests of Wall Street brokers and bankers."

"He's not lobbying for the farmers," Griffin added.

Griffin advocated setting up an advisory council of five men from all sections of Texas to advise the State Commissioner of Agriculture on problems of the farmer.

The candidate also spoke today in Paris, Denison and Sherman. Tomorrow he will be in Dallas and Fort Worth.

CHICAGO MAN BUYS MACHINE

Hitler's Once-Famed Car Now Finds Way To United States

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 1—There's something either rollicking or symbolic of frustration in the case of a Chicago business man named Chris Janus who, having waited two years for the delivery of an American car he has on order, finally upped and bought Hitler's 250 horsepower Mercedes-Benz.

Hitler's long black open job apparently was easier to get than is the spawn of a Detroit production line. That, of course, will come as no surprise to U. S. motorists who still are waiting for the day when they can replace their Vellie or Scripps-Booth with something natty in the way of a 1949 model.

Rode In Car Once

Your sweatful reporter took more than a passing interest in the arrival of Hitler's car. I took a ride in it once upon a time. Hitler wasn't with me. He was detained elsewhere, suffering from a slight case of suicide, but his car nevertheless wounded me.

The Hitler buggy is an overpowering looking monster with inch-thick side-windows, a tonneau as large as the master bedroom in a veteran's housing project, and a huge hand-rest on the back of the front seat (so that Der Fuehrer could hold on with one paw while he moved along in the car and gave the straight-arm salute with the other hand.)

Hermann Goering had one just like it, and both cars were pressed into service by the Army after the capture of Hitler's handsome hideaway on a 6,000 foot mountain outside of Berchtesgaden.

The cars were used to carry certain visiting celebrities up the hill to the entrance of the tunnel which led to the elevator, which used to carry Hitler and his fellow goons to the imposing mansion atop the peak of the mountain.

Was Rough Trip

It was a tough climb, even for a Mercedes-Benz. Don't ask me how I made Hitler's bus, for it was usually reserved for loose congressional committees, officers beyond the rank of lieutenant general and radio commentators But I did, which isn't the point.

The thing became overheated half-way up the hill and blew the top off its kettle. The steam and water rushed back into the car and struck the most likely target there—my nose—slightly parboiling it.

This was Hitler's last blow of World War II, but it was somehow fitting. He, through his Mercedes-Benz, had attacked one last non-combatant, perhaps the most non non-combatant left in Europe.

I basted my boiled nose with a bottle of warm coke and bummed a ride in a jeep the rest of the way. The Mercedes-Benz, its 250 horses lying on their backs with their feet up in the air, just sagged there—braced against a curb. GI's passing it, in Jeeps, gave it the bird.

Site Was Impressive

Hitler picked himself quite a hill. Before the RAF knocked down the building atop it—all but the "Eagle's Nest" itself—and the Americans and French carried away what was left, it must have been one of the most beautiful places in the world.

It was the scene, too, of one of the liveliest battles of World War II. American GI's and French GI's, reaching the crest from opposite sides of the hill, got into a lovely battle royal over the wine cellar. But enough of that, for the French won.

Even in its horrid ruins the place possessed a majesty evil to be sure, but a majesty. The road to the topmost building, the Eyrie, ended 500 feet below the summit. Then one marched through a long and superb tunnel, carved into the glinting rock of the mountain, and stepped into a huge two-deck elevator made of gleaming copper. (The bottom deck was for Hitler's S. S. guards.)

And up you went, through the core of the mountain, and were deposited right in the foyer of the huge living room of the Eyrie, with a view that encompassed four countries. Perhaps it was that view which helped snap the man's mind and make him believe he could rule the world.

P. S.—Came back down the hill in a jeep and as I passed the still seething Hitlerian Mercedes-Benz I figured I'd never see it again. But then, the other day, there it came up out of the hold of a cargo ship and touched the free soil of N. Y. (It had stopped steaming)—all because a man named Janus couldn't get delivery on a U. S. car.

P. P. S.—Wonder what the smiling Irishman is asking for Hirohito's Hupmobile. . . .

HERE'S UNCLE SAM'S NEWEST MAN O'WAR—Incorporating lessons learned during World War II, the light cruiser USS Worcester, just completed in Camden, N. J., is the latest addition to the American fleet. The 17,000-ton ship, shown in the Delaware River, was named after the Massachusetts city which raised the $30,000,000 it cost. The Worcester, armed with six-inch guns, has a watertight hull. If hit below the water line, only the hold actually damaged would be flooded.

Farmer Devises Fly Swatter For Cow Pestered By Flies

GRAND PRAIRIE, July 1 (U.P.)—Albert C. Bevins, gentleman farmer, got out his adding machine, figured out how much it costs for Mabel, his cow, to switch the flies off her back and then invented himself an invention.

As a result, Mabel practically is free from flies. She operates a mechanized cow swatter.

Blevins' invention consists of a pad, saturated with an insecticide, which he glues on each flank of the cow. As she swishes her tail, it lands on the pad, picking up the insecticide. The next round of the tail puts the pest into a nose dive.

Draftee Has Right To Get Old Job Back

AUSTIN, July 1 (U.P.)—A spokesman for the U. S. Department of Labor reminded potential Texas draftees today that the new draft law provides re-employment rights.

E. R. Speer, field representative of the veterans re-employment rights division of the U. S. Department of Labor, said that World War II veterans now coming out of the service as well as youths who will be called under the new draft law will have the aid of his division.

Right To Old Job

He said that if a draftee leaves permanent employment, he has a right to gain his old job back if he applies for it within 90 days after completing military duty. Then, Speer added, he can not be discharged without cause for a full year.

Speer, whose regional headquarters in Dallas covers four states, was here today for conferences with the Texas Employment commission.

He said that 278 Texas businessmen are serving as volunteer reemployment rights division committeemen in the state, with Gov. Beauford H. Jester as the chief committeeman.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Possibility Of Continent-Wide Closed Season On Ducks Seen

WISCONSIN RAPIDS, Wis., July 1 (AP)—The possibility of a continent-wide closed season on ducks is not as remote as it might seem.

Take the word of Clarence Searles, Wisconsin Rapids, who recently was elected vice-president of the new international Wildfowlers association.

Searles, a former president of the Wisconsin Conservation congress has just returned from an organization meeting of the association, held at Winnipeg, Canada last Friday. On his trip he also attended a meeting of the Manitoba Federation of Fish and Game associations and participated in an aerial and canoe survey of duck nesting areas.

Searles told of a three and one-half mile canoe trip on Delta marsh at the south end of Lake Manitoba — probably the chief breeding ground of canvas backs.

Few Ducks Seen

"There were eight of us making the survey," he said, "and we only counted 351 ducks. It is estimated that there are no more than 75 canvas backs on Delta marsh."

He said the group also surveyed the pot-hole area of Mindnosa in the vicinity of the city of Neepwa and added "indications here, too, point to a somewhat lower population of nesting ducks than a year ago."

Two reasons for the low population, he said, are "that some areas have been heavily flooded while other areas have suffered from drouth. We don't know where these ducks have gone to. We haven't been able to locate them.

"In spite of the fact that the provinces had a bag limit of seven birds per day, the per-hunter take in the area of the pas on Lake Winnepogis was only 3.5 birds per day during a checking period of approximately a week."

He said several of the sportsmen at the Manitoba meeting stressed the point that if the situation was really that critical, they would be willing to go along on a closed season on a continent-wide basis.

Foreign Policy Setup Assailed

By LEE O'BRIEN
INS Staff Correspondent

ALBANY, N. Y., July 1—Governor Dewey indicated today that when he warms up to his campaign for the presidency he is going to rip into the Truman administration on the ground it hasn't played square in the field of bi-partisan foreign policy.

The Republican presidential nominee revealed his dissatisfaction with operation of the bi-partisan policy after he had conferred at length with his No. one adviser on foreign affairs, John Foster Dulles.

Dulles Invited To Paris

Dewey talked with newsmen in Albany shortly before he motored to West Point to attend funeral services for the late Col. David Marcus, commander of the Israeli army who was killed recently in Palestine.

Dulles, after the conference in which he and Dewey canvassed "the entire international situation," flew to Lake Ontario for a vacation.

Dewey announced his approval of a State department request that Dulles—regarded as Dewey's almost certain choice for secretary of state, if he is elected—serve as a U. S. delegate to the United Nations General Assembly. The Assembly meets in Paris in September.

The State department invitation to Dulles, said Dewey, was given before the Republican convention, but Dulles delayed answering until the convention named its presidential candidate. Now, Dewey said, he and Dulles have discussed the matter in detail and have agreed Dulles should serve.

Failures Outlined

Dewey did not directly charge that the Truman administration has "broken faith" in the field of bi-partisan diplomacy, but mentioned several fields in which he said the administration did not consult the Republican leadership. He outlined them as follows:

The Greek-Turkish situation, which Dewey said had been "handed to the American people" without consultation with GOP leaders.

The Potsdam conference and, in Dewey's words, "the deals made there."

The entire Chinese policy, or, as Dewey put it, "lack of one."

Asked if there had been consultation with Republicans in the American "switch" on Palestine some weeks ago, Dewey replied "there was no consultation on that, either."

Dewey told news men, in response to questions, that he and Dulles had discussed the Berlin crisis and the Yugoslavia-Cominform row. But, he said, he preferred not to comment on these matters because "the situations are developing."

Earlier this week, Dewey described the Berlin situation as "grave," and he commented that he was skeptical about the Tito-Moscow break because he always is dubious "when Communists fall apart."

CAA Approval Claimed Given For Fort Worth Airport Project

FORT WORTH, July 1. (AP) — Rep. Wingate Lucas of Grapevine said tonight that the greater Fort Worth international airport had received final approval of the Civil Aeronautics administration.

He said there were no further obstacles in the path of the project.

Lucas made the announcement in Grapevine at the opening rally of Tarrant county political candidates. He was making his first bid for re-election to the House of Representatives to which he was elected two years ago.

Lucas said that CAA acting Administrator F. P. Lee had announced disapproval of the development of the Class 5 airport by Fort Worth could not be "justified or substantiated" in the light of "careful review and analysis of the entire history of the matter."

VA R'ps Many Frills From Training Courses For GI's

WASHINGTON, July 1. (AP)—Ripping out frills from GI training courses, the Veterans administration announced today it won't pay for any more courses in such subjects as ballroom dancing and bartending.

The same goes for photography, personality development, public speaking, sports, entertainment and music.

The test is whether a course is vocational. If it is, Uncle Sam will pick up the check for qualified veterans. If it's avocational or recreational, he won't. The VA determines which is which.

Instructions went out today under the 1949 VA appropriations law which specifies that none of the money can be used for avocational or recreational courses.

Where veterans already are taking such courses, VA said it would continue paying the usual subsistence allowances until the course is completed.

Changes In 'Voice Of America' Planned

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP) — The State department announced today it is revising its entire system of overseas broadcasts which recently stirred up a row in Congress.

The National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting system will withdraw Oct. 1 from their part in the "Voice of America" programs.

After that date, the State department's international broadcasting division itself will prepare and broadcast all news broadcasts and commentaries.

Dallas Zoo Attraction Killed After Running Into Fence

DALLAS, July 1 (AP)—The barking of a pet dog caused the death today of Dallas' latest zoo attraction, a 200-pound Guanaco, wildest member of the South American Llama family.

The animal became frightened when the barking dog approached its pen and charged into a fence, breaking its neck. It had been delivered to the zoo only last Tuesday.

Three Men Named To Board Of Texas State Railroad

AUSTIN, July 1 (AP)—Appointment of three members to the board of managers of the Texas State railroad was announced today by Lt. Gov. Allan Shivers.

The appointees are E. R. Gregg of Rusk and H. V. Hamilton and Dr. R. H. McLeod, both of Palestine.

They will serve two-year terms ending June 30, 1950.

The railroad, built in the 1890's, connects Palestine and Rusk. It is now leased to the T.&N.O. railroad.

Low Salaries Blamed For Lack Of Highway Patrol Applicants

AUSTIN, July 1 (AP)—Low salaries today were blamed for the scarcity of applicants for Texas highway patrol jobs.

Homer Garrison, public safety director, said the highway patrol had made a net gain of only 70 recruits since the last legislature authorized a 200-man increase.

Recruits start work at $200 a month and are eligible for $230 a month after six months of duty.

FLIGHT IS DELAYED

WASHINGTON, July 1. (AP)—A scheduled flight of 16 F-80 jet fighters to England has been postponed from July 7 to about July 14.

Child Is Found Wandering In Road After Falling From Truck

PRESCOTT, Ark., July 1 (AP)—A four-year-old girl, found wandering on the highway before dawn, was claimed this afternoon by her hysterical mother who said the child had fallen, unnoticed, from the back of a truck.

The mother, Mrs. J. W. Hord, jr., 23, of Fort Worth, said her daughter, Marylin, was missing from the bed of the truck when she, her father-in-law, and two other children arrived at Mount Pleasant, Texas, about daylight.

The child had several front teeth missing, her lips were battered and she was a mass of bruises. She was picked up about six miles south of Prescott on U. S. Highway 67.

New Layer Of Atoms Above Earth Found

PASADENA, Calif., July 1 (AP)—Discovery of a fourth layer of excited atoms above the earth, which reflects radio waves and possibly stands as an obstacle to interplanetary rocket flight, was reported today by Dr. Donald H. Menzel, Harvard university astronomer.

The depth of the new layer is not known but it has a temperature of 1,800 degrees fahrenheit, Dr. Menzel said. This is enough to make iron red hot.

Documents captured from the Japanese in Sumatra during the war furnished the clue leading to the discovery, which was made by Dr. Menzel and Dr. Dana Bailey of the U. S. Bureau of Standards.

ODDS AGAINST THEM

COLUMBUS, O. (U.P.)—The odds against a family with children finding housing in Ohio's capital city today are 2,581 to 1, the city housing board reported. The board has had only one recent offer of housing for couples with children. There were 2,581 applicants for that vacancy.

Polio Cases Over Nation Pass Total For Same Period In '46

WASHINGTON, July 1. (AP)—Infantile paralysis cases this year already exceed the total for a comparable period in 1946—second worst polio year on record. But health authorities said today it is still too early to say whether 1948 will rank as a major epidemic year.

Reporting "usual incidence" in three states—Texas, North Carolina and California—the public health service said those three accounted for 64 per cent of the nation's total of 2,007 cases up to June 26.

For the same period in 1947, there were 1,123 cases, and in 1946 there were 1,529.

In 1946, total cases for the year numbered 25,247—second only to 1916 when approximately 30,000 were reported. Health authorities had no figures to show what the situation was in 1916 at this particular time of year.

For the week ended June 26, 309 new cases were reported for the nation as a whole, compared with 253 for the preceding week—and 66 per cent of the new cases for the June 26 week were reported from Texas, North Carolina and California.

Texas has had 579 cases for the year to date, North Carolina, 270 and California, 281. Iowa is next with 73. New York had 69.

Up to June 26, only eight cases had been reported throughout the entire New England area.

Health authorities said that in Texas, North Carolina and California, outbreaks started earlier in the year than is usual for polio.

Therefore, they said, it is still to early to state what the ultimate effect will be on the total for the entire year.

New Mexico Senator's Wife To Visit Daughter In Greece

WASHINGTON, July 1. (AP)—Senator Hatch (D-NM) said today Mrs. Hatch has arranged to sail for Greece, July 31, on the steamship Neo Hellas.

In Athens, she will visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Leet. Leet, an employ of the United Nations organization, is now on loan to the Greek government to establish a welfare program.

Mrs. Hatch will be accompanied on the trip by Mrs. M. L. Norris of Clovis, N. M., a long-time friend. They will return to the United States in October.

Hatch told a reporter if his engagements permit, he may also make the trip.

Segregation Is Oklahoma Issue

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 1 (AP)—Racial segregation became a top issue today in Oklahoma's main July 6 primary race—that for Democratic U. S. senatorial nomination.

Their contest overshadows that of Republicans in the primary because Rep. Ross Rizley (R-Okla) is expected to win his party's nomination handily.

Rizley has the open blessing of the man he is seeking to succeed—Senator E. H. Moore (R-Okla) and that of the state Republican central committee. In addition, his five opponents are virtually unknown politically.

Former Gov. Robert S. Kerr has been the chief target of those seeking the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Gomer Smith, Oklahoma City attorney and former national vice-president of the Townsend $200 a month old age pension clubs, is telling voters Kerr is committed to President Truman's civil rights program.

Smith wants racial segregation laws retained in southern states and opposes all of Mr. Truman's civil rights proposals.

Another well known entry, Attorney General Mac Q. Williamson, also has defended racial segregation and challenged Kerr to take a public stand on that issue.

Kerr, who keynoted the 1944 Democratic national convention, has ignored his opponents and stressed conservation in a statewide speaking campaign.

In addition to Smith, Williamson, Riley and Kerr, other well-known Democratic senatorial contenders are Rep. Glen D. Johnson (D-Okla), secretary of state, Wilburn Cartwright, Lieut. Gov. James E. Berry and pension organizer O. J. Fox.

In addition to choosing party nominees for U. S. Senator, Oklahomans also will select them in the primaries for state corporation commissioner, all eight congressional posts, a judge of the criminal court of appeals and for three supreme court justice seats.

The governorship and the state's second U. S. Senate seat are not at stake.

Merchant Marine Killed In Attempt To Overpower Guard

BEAUMONT, July 1. (U.P.)—Earl Oliver, 35-year-old merchant marine from New Orleans, was fatally wounded early today when he attempted to wrest a small-caliber pistol from a port guard.

C. G. Vick, 70, told officers Oliver made three separate attempts to gain possession of the weapon. Two companions stalled Oliver the first two times when they persuaded him to go to town.

The shooting occurred when Oliver left his ship, the S. S. Coastal Herald, and for the third time tried to get the weapon from Vick.

An inquest was to be held today.

Explanation Of New Traffic Light On Nineteenth Given

That new traffic light at Nineteenth and Jefferson Ave. apparently has some of the motoring public confused.

Calls have been received by The Morning Avalanche asking for an explanation of how traffic should proceed there.

Police answered with this explanation:

West-bound traffic is not affected, if it keeps to the right, or north, lane. There is a constantly-lighted green arrow that directs it to keep going.

Can Make Turn

Under that green arrow is an amber light and under that an arrow pointing to the south. When that south-pointing arrow lights up (it's green when lighted) traffic headed westward on Nineteenth may make a left turn south into Jefferson — provided the motorist is in the left (or passing) lane when he commences his turn.

When such a turn is being made, the motorist is protected from east-bound traffic, which faces a red light and is halted.

Traffic bound northward on Jefferson sees an arrow that, when lighted, allows a right turn. A sign hanging on the traffic light warns against a left turn.

The traffic light is similar to those in numerous other cities of Texas, police say—and to those used in the east for approximately 20 years.

STRIKE CALLED OFF

MEXICO CITY, July 1 (AP)—Workers in the four largest movie studios called off their proposed strike today although pay terms still are being debated.

TRANSPLANTED VANPORT—Former residents of Columbia river war-built city of Vanport, Ore., which was completely destroyed Memorial Day by raging flood waters, are beginning to move into emergency housing laid out in a village in Portland, Ore., at the edge of another war housing project area. Some 400 trailers are being readied. (AP Wirephoto.)

Graveside Services Slated Today For Williams Infant

Graveside services for Ivan J. Williams, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Williams, 3920 Twenty-second, will be held at 10 a. m. today at Lubbock cemetery with the Rev. Jeff D. Welch, pastor of Central Baptist church officiating. The child died Thursday morning.

Survivors include the parents and a brother, Bobby Ray Williams.

Truck Driver Burns To Death As Flames Hold Back Rescuers

TEXARKANA, Ark., July 1. (U.P.)—A driver burned to death in the flaming wreckage of his overturned truck today while would-be rescuers stood by in helpless horror.

The victim was identified tentatively as Thomas Thompson, 24, of North Little Rock, Ark.

Motorists reached the crash scene soon after the truck overturned, but the driver was pinned inside the wreckage.

Flames spread rapidly, from the rear toward the front of the truck, and the motorists were driven back when they reached the cab and the man trapped inside.

FIRE DESTROYS STORE

DENTON, July 1 (AP)—Fire early today destroyed the Aubrey Drug store here, one of the oldest in Denton county. The loss was estimated at $10,000. The store was operated by Clyde Simpson.

DEWEY GETS 'FAN MAIL'

ALBANY, N. Y., July 1 (INS)—Aides of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey reported today he has received 11,000 "fan mail" letters and telegrams since his nomination as Republican candidate for president. The letters and wires were said to have come from all over the United States as well as from abroad.

Only 23 Texans Will Actually Cast Vote For U. S. President

By TEX EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July — A million or so Texans will go to the polls this year, but only 23 actually will cast a vote for the President of the United States.

They, however, will be mere figureheads who send in their ballots to Washington after the issue has been settled in the November general election.

The electoral college method of choosing the president and vice president is the explanation.

A far cry from the institution envisioned by the founding fathers of the republic, the electoral college now functions as an archiac method of formally tabulating the will of the people. The electors' votes still are sent into Congress and counted, but it's a perfunctory operation.

Oddly, it is a device which can and has prevented the will of the majority from being reflected in the seating of a president.

One interesting case in which the loser had a larger popular vote than the man who became president occurred in 1876. The winner was President Rutherford B. Hayes. The loser was Samuel J. Tilden of New York.

Texas Has 23 Votes

In that case three states submitted to Congress two sets of electors each. They were Louisiana, South Carolina and Florida. A special commission comprised of five senators, five representatives and five members of the U. S. Supreme court was set up to decide which should be recognized. A predominatly Democratic House group voted 3 to 2 for electoral slates pledged to Democrat Tilden; the situation in the Senate was reversed. The Supreme court members, most of whom had been appointed originally by Republican presidents, voted 3 to 2 for the Hayes-pledged electors.

There are now the same number of votes cast in the electoral college as there are U. S. Senators and Representatives, a total of 531.

Each state has an electoral strength equivalent to its congressional delegation — two senators for each state and approximately one representative for each 300,000 population. Thus, Texas has 23 electoral votes. New York has 47.

Under the present system, the entire electoral vote of a state goes to the party receiving the largest popular vote. All of New York's 47 votes would be cast for a Republican president if 51 percent of the people voted for the Republican electors and 49 voted for the Democratic electors.

That brings up the pending proposal by Rep. Ed Gossett of Wichita Falls that the Constitution be amended, so that the electors are chosen on the basis of, or in direct proportion to the popular vote. The advantage of this, he argues, is that it would remove the "undue influence" minority groups have where their vote, he says, can swing an entire electoral slate to one party or the other.

Jefferson Made Changes

The original theory behind the electoral college system was that the electors should get together and decide among themselves who was the most qualified man for the job.

The electors themselves were chosen by the state legislators, who in turn were elected by a relatively small percentage of the population, land holders.

Under this setup, an aristocracy, the president and vice president should be picked on the basis of their ability and not political affiliations. George Washington met all qualifications, and had popular appeal too, so the plan got off to a good start.

Thomas Jefferson, however, believed in a democracy more as we have it today. He espoused the party system, and by 1824 electors were being picked by popular vote and pledged to support a specific individual for the presidency and vice presidency.

The Texas political situation four years ago was one of the most interesting of its kind in recent times.

The Democratic party at its May convention decided that the state's 23 electors should not cast their ballots for anyone holding certain civil rights views—specifically it was an anti-fourth term for Roosevelt directive.

In the fall convention of the party, after Roosevelt had been nominated at Chicago for a fourth term, the state Democratic party was controlled by pro-Roosevelt forces who nullified the action of the May convention. The dispute between the two factions went to the Texas State Supreme court for settlement, and that tribunal held that the fall convention had foremost authority. The anti-Roosevelt forces then entered an entirely separate slate of electors on the November ballot, under the head of "Regular Democrats." Had they received more votes than any other party's slate of electors, they could have cast Texas 23 votes for any one of their choosing. Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia so happened to have been the man they mentioned often.

States Mail Returns

In some states the electors' names appear on the ballot; in others they are mentioned collectively and in an incidental manner as being pledged to a particular party's candidate.

After the November election, the secretaries of state for the various state draw up sealed and beribboned documents certifying how the electors cast their vote and send them to Congress. Before a joint session of the House and Senate these documents are opened and the count recorded.

The electors themselves do not come to Washington; in some states they don't even go to the state capital.

A story is told how a number of years ago the secretary of state in Texas called the electors into session in Austin but found some missing. He promptly appointed reporters in the press room in the capitol as proxies. The electors do not receive pay, but only expenses when they journey to their state capital.

Many years ago a messenger was dispatched from the various states to Washington with the electoral vote. A well known political figure who held that role in Texas and made the trek to Washington a number of times was Pat O'Keefe of Dallas. Before his death, the white haired little man was popular at political conventions because of the Irish jig he would strike up for entertainment when things got dull.

Plastics Have Limitations, Company Research Man Says

PITTSBURGH, July 1. (U.P.) — Dr. G. F. D. Alelio, assistant director of the research for Koppers Co., Inc., would like to puncture the plastic dream bubble most people have blown from their imagination.

Dr. Alelio said that although output has grown six-fold in the past few years, the life of America never will be completely dependent on plastics.

He said steel, wood, glass and other "basic" materials would continue to "hold their own."

Dr. Alelio said plastics-making is not easy and that extensive research and experimentation was necessary to make new kinds of plastics.

"Plastics aren't made, as many people believe, by throwing together handfuls of air, water and seaweed," Dr. Alelio commented.

Elderly Persons Hold On To Jobs Even Though War Over

ALBANY, N. Y., July 1. (U.P.)—A man who should know says grandpa is doing all right on the job he took during the war and isn't ready to give it up without a struggle.

Sen. Thomas C. Desmond, chairman of the state joint legislative committee on problems of the aging, so announced after a survey of industries employing 525,000 workers.

"World War II, by bringing the rocking chair battalion back to work, restored the self-confidence of the elderly and gave them back their self-esteem," Desmond said. "They had the know-how and gladly grabbed at the chance to get back in harness. And now, even though three years have gone by since the war ended, the elderly are clinging tenaciously to their jobs."

ITHACA, N. Y., July 1 (U.P.)—Cornell University modern language classes will take to eavesdropping on a global scale.

They will record radio broadcasts from France, Spain, Italy and other countries, including Pakistan, to use as live material in their studies.

They will have $10,000 worth of radio, electrical transcription and other communications equipment to monitor foreign broadcasts.

Houston Officers Seek To Untangle River Camp Murder

HOUSTON, July 1 (U.P.) — Four suspects and three possible death weapons added to the dilemma today in the death of red-haired Louise Russell, former night club photographer, who was found shot to death yesterday at a San Jacinto river fishing camp.

Held and charged with murder were Elroy Hertel, 23, Norman Howard Preston, 20, R. F. Flournoy, 30, and Willie Parnell, 18, whom police said was the dead woman's former sweetheart.

Parnell admitted he had had "several dates" with the divorcee, known in night spots as the "queen of the Beaumont highway."

Flournoy was arrested late yesterday after officers spent a hectic day piecing together haphazard details from the four men involved.

He told of a calm river bank party, interrupted when the other three men drove up in a car. They fled, Flournoy said, when he threatened them with a double-bladed axe.

Later, about 2 a. m., Hertel, Preston and Parnell returned and started firing, Flournoy told police. He returned the fire once with a .22 caliber rifle, and started running when he realized Mrs. Russell had been hit.

Meanwhile, chief criminal investigator Jake Colca of the sheriff's department awaited word from Austin on a ballistics report. Three weapons, a 12-gauge shotgun and two .22 caliber rifles were sent to Austin, along with a slug found under the victim's right arm.

Parnell admitted firing the shotgun "in the air several times," and Flournoy said he fired a rifle, one of two that belonged to the owner of the fishing camp.

Great Lakes Men Not Sure When Boat Is Ship, Survey Shows

CLEVELAND, July 1. (U.P.)—A boat is a small water craft that can be hoisted aboard a ship, according to a definition long accepted by sea-faring men.

However, many sailors on the Great Lakes prefer to call their vessel a boat, and in so doing incur the wrath of those who still "go down to the sea in ships."

Captains of lakes vessels were mailed post-card questionnaires and of the 203 replies received, 189 favored "ship," 11 said "boat" and three replied "steamer."

Although many skippers picked "ships" on the questionaire, they refer to their vessels as boats. It would seem to boil down that it's "ship" when you are formal, but on the lakes more often than not it's "boat" when informal.

PROPOSAL PUT TO GOVERNORS

Senate Group Recommends Cut In Speed Limit To Save Gas

WASHINGTON, July 1 (U.P.)—A Senate commerce subcommittee recommended today that state governors "give serious consideration" to cutting highway speed limits to save gasoline.

Sen. Clyde M. Reed, R. Kans., speaking for the group, said "close cooperation and extreme care by consumers" are necessary.

Otherwise, he said, there will be gasoline shortages in parts of New England and the north central states this summer and a scarcity of kerosene and heating oil next winter.

Reed is chairman of a subcommittee which held hearings earlier this week on petroleum shortages.

Disagreement Cited

Reed's views do not jibe with those of Max Ball, head of the interior department's oil and gas division. Ball testified this week at a similar house hearing that no really serious shortages of gasoline or heating oil are expected this summer or next winter.

Ball said "spot" shortages of a few days duration might develop in some areas because of distribution problems. But barring unforeseen developments such as a strike or an unusually cold winter, he said, there will be enough gasoline and heating oil to go around.

Reed said that if the situation remains serious when the subcommittee meets again Oct. 1 he will call for legislation to place mechanical governors on all automobiles to hold their speed to 45 miles an hour.

In its recommendations, the committee made no specific request for conservation measures. But it asked governors to consider "the fact that gasoline consumption at 60 miles per hour is nearly twice that at 40 miles per hour and that every effort should be made to reduce the speed of all automobile vehicular traffic to a reasonable, economic basis."

Italian Socialists Reject Leaders Who Backed Red Tieup

GENOA, July 1 (AP)—The Italian Socialist party early today decisively rejected the leadership which took it into a disastrous electoral popular front with the Communists.

However, the centrist "straddle" motion it adopted left it largely up to the new party directorate to decide just how tightly the party will be tied to Communism from now on.

This dashed the hopes of Giuseppe Romita and his followers for a clearcut statement writing finis to a two-year-old policy of joint action.

Of the 531,000 valid Socialist votes represented at this extraordinary congress, 227,000 went to the compromise motion, 141,000 to Romanita's motion and 163,000 to a far-left proposal for a continued all-out alliance. Those equal 42, 26.5 and 31.5 per cent.

The new party directorate is to be chosen later today. The centrist faction is entitled to 14 of the 21 seats on the party executive. Through that majority it will elect the new party secretary.

This faction was caucusing today to make its choice. Rated the likeliest candidate was youthful Gian-Carlo Matteotti. He strongly favors unifying the party by bringing back those who broke away because of the pro-Communist stand.

The centrist resolution was adopted at the end of the rowdiest session yet of this turbulent congress. It denounced the Popular Front but promised continued "unity of action" with all "democratic parties, and especially the Communists."

It accepted the Marshall plan as a "reality it is useless to combat," while slamming the Christian Democratic Premier Alcide De Gasperi, the Vatican and American capitalism.

The vote tossed onto the scrapheap Pietro Nenni and Lelio Basso, the two leaders primarily responsible for the Communist tieup.

FBI Identification Division Celebrates Its 24th Birthday

WASHINGTON, July 1. (AP) — The FBI's identification division today celebrated its 24th birthday by noting some staggering statistics on the fingerprints it has collected during its lifetime.

The division now has more than 109,000,000 sets of fingerprint cards in its files.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover commented that these cards would make 163 separate stacks each as high as the 555-foot Washington monument. Or, placed edge to edge, would extend halfway around the world—with enough left over to form a path from Boston to Miami.

Navy Will Send Three Ships To Mediterranean, Persia

WASHINGTON, July 1. (AP) — The navy announced today it will send three ships, including a small carrier, to Mediterranean and Persian gulf ports between July 18 and September 15.

The cruise will include visits to Gibraltar, Maddelina, Sardinia, Naples, Phaleron Bay, Greece; Izmir, Turkey, and three ports on the Persian gulf.

The ships are the escort carrier Siboney, the amphibious command ship Pocono and the fast destroyer transport Carpellotti. They will leave Hampton Roads about July 7.

Operations Of Car Firm Halted

CHICAGO, July 1 (INS) — The Tucker Corp. today announced suspension of operations.

President Preston Tucker of the automobile firm described the suspension as "temporary" and said the action was necessitated by the demand of the Securities and Exchange commission for the company's complete records.

Tucker said 1,100 employes will be laid off immediately. A tool and die makers' strike in Detroit resulted in the lay-off of 900 Tucker workers last Friday.

SEC Demands Books

The SEC filed a petition in federal court June 1" asking that the Tucker Corp. be ordered to submit its books so that its financial operations could be investigated.

The SEC has charged the firm with misrepresentations in its stock sales.

Preston Tucker, in announcing the suspension of business, accused "powerful pressure groups" of bringing about the SEC inquiry. He said:

"Tying up such records at this time will make it impossible to continue operation. Whether its action is right or wrong, the SEC has effectively blocked our very corporate operation at the most crucial point, when we are on the threshold of mass production."

Production Lines Set Up

Tucker said the company has set up production lines capable of turning out 1,000 rear-engine automobiles a day. He added:

"The commission (SEC) has succeeded where our toughest competitors and industrial rivals have failed . . . they have stopped us for the moment.

"We are confident we will win a clean bill of health and can go back to work."

The SEC in its June 15 petition also accused the Tucker Corp. of failing to comply with a subpoena to appear before it on June 10.

The company declared that "none of the documents or records referred to in the subpoena are relevant to the SEC investigation."

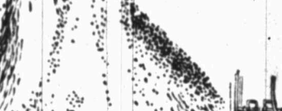

Federal Judge William J. Campbell of Chicago has scheduled a hearing on the SEC petition for tomorrow.

Corpus Candidate Sues To Get New Drawing For Ballot Place

HOUSTON, July 1. (AP)—Morris Knight, Corpus Christi candidate for Congress, today asked a federal court to order the Jim Wells county Democratic committee to hold another drawing to determine the order in which names of candidates will appear on the July 24 ballot.

A civil suit asking such action was filed here today by Gerald Weatherly, Falfurrias attorney representing Knight.

U. S. Judge Denies Request

Earlier in the day federal Judge Allen B. Harnay, ruling the court was without jurisdiction, denied Weatherly's request for an injunction against the committee.

The suit, as filed here with the federal district clerk, names 20 defendants, including John E. Lyle, congressman from the fourteenth Texas district, and a candidate for reelection, and E. G. Lloyd, jr., chairman of the Jim Wells count, executive committee.

Lyle and Knight are the only candidates seeking the congressional post.

An answer to the suit, filed immediately by former Governor James V. Allred, representing the defendants, denied all charges alleged in the suit and terms Knight's action as a "political lawsuit, brought by plaintiff in an effort to achieve cheap publicity to bolster his candidacy which has not been received with any enthusiasm by the voting public in any of the counties of the 14th congressional district . . ."

Claims Drawing "Fixed"

Weatherly later today said he is considering appealing the case to a higher court but admitted that time elements involved may prevent such action.

Knight's suit alleges that, during a June 21 meeting of the county executive committee, names of candidates " . . . loyal to a certain powerful and . . . unofficial political organization . . . commonly known as the Parr gang or Parr-Lloyd gang . . . " were written on slips of paper and "loosely" folded while slips carrying the names of other candidates were folded "tightly."

It is alleged the "loosely" folded slips were drawn from a hat in such a manner ". . . . the names of candidates affiliated or connected with or supported by the said Parr or Parr-Lloyd gang will appear in every instance at the top of the list of candidates for each particular nomination or office . . . with two minor exceptions."

Defendants Hit Back

The defendants' answer stated that "as evidencing the fact that plaintiff's purpose is to achieve publicity, attention is directed to the fact that the complaint as presented to the court is mimeographed, thus making it readily available for distribution to the press . . ."

The answer continued: "That mimeographed copies have already been supplied to at least one newspaper in Jim Wells county which has been tipped off by plaintiff to check on his 'hot' story; . . . all of which is part of a political conspiracy to the part of the plaintiff and his own political 'gang'."

It was also charged in the answer that the complaint fails to state a cause of action, that the plaintiff shows no reason why he cannot secure adequate relief from a state court, and that " . . . plaintiff has been guilty of inexcusable negligence in failing to present his complaint to any court at an earlier date, so that the matter could be determined in time for printing of the ballots . . ."

The answer pointed out that state law required printed ballots be delivered to the county clerk at least 20 days before the date of the primary election in order to facilitate handling absentee voting.

High Cost Of Living Blamed For Decrease In Savings

DALLAS, July 1 (AP)—The high cost of living was blamed today for a decrease in savings deposits last month in the southwest.

The Dallas Federal Reserve bank said today that the downward trend resulted from withdrawals to meet rising prices and a demand for a miscellany of goods and services.

Savings declined fractionally in ten leading cities of the reserve district with only Galveston and Houston reporting slight increases.

Britain Beckons To Tourists To Obtain Additional Dollars

By GERRY HILL
United Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 1—Britain expects about 500,000 tourists this year to spend between £35,000,000 and £40,000,000 ($140,000,000 to $160,000,000).

Britain expects at least 100,000 tourists from America to spend £70 to £80 ($280 to $320) per head in this country.

"We make no bones about it," an official of the travel association said. "We want the dollars."

In 12 months, Britain turned out 6,000,000 pamphlets and more than a dozen travel firms had spent thousands of pounds to lure tourists to these shores.

With an annual grant of £300,000 ($1,200,000), stepped up from £5,000 ($20,000) pre-war, Britain's holiday board allotted a large sum to the travel association and the propaganda machines began to propagate.

Literature Poured Out

From the energetic travel association headquarters in Piccadilly, "Come to Britain" literature poured by the ton. Overseas travel agencies, shipping companies and airlines displayed the colorful literature, slapped up "Beautiful Britain" posters and awaited results.

The 20-year-old travel association promised no beefsteaks or ice cream sodas. In fact, it emphasized that Britain is poor, her hotels drab. But it pointed out the blitzed scenery, the sporting events, including the Olympic games, salmon fishing in Scotland, hiking everywhere.

The bait has been successful. The tourists are flocking in by sea and air and eastbound passage before late autumn from the United States is hard to get. Travel from the continent is well-booked, too.

Rules Relaxed

As well as its financial grant from the government, the travel association has many voluntary subscribers among the hotels, travel agencies and local councils.

The government has done its bit to encourage tourism. Tourists from hard currency countries—which means the United States—now are allowed gasoline for 1,600 miles of motoring. That is a major are refused petrol for pleasure boon in a country whose natives driving.

In addition, when he exchanges the equivalent of £25 sterling ($100.88), the tourist is given a "tourist voucher" book which entitles him to make six purchases of rationed merchandise, excepting food, for immediate delivery.

But if he wants beefsteaks, the tourists must bring them.

Moscow May Tighten Hold On Satellites After Tito Rebellion

By J. M ROBERTS, Jr.
Associated Press Staff Writer

An outstanding question now is whether Tito's rebellion will lead to a preventive tightening of the Kremlin's screws on other satellites.

In other words, will Russia move to forestall other displays of independence? Could it lead to direct incorporation of the captive states within the Soviet Union?

Czechs Were Crushed

Last fall Czechoslovakia refused to accept a security council seat which would have made her a Soviet puppet in the United Nations. She got her ears slapped off in Moscow for wanting to participate in the Marshall plan. It became evident at once that her days of comparative liberty were numbered. The Kremlin soon reduced her to the level of the other satellites.

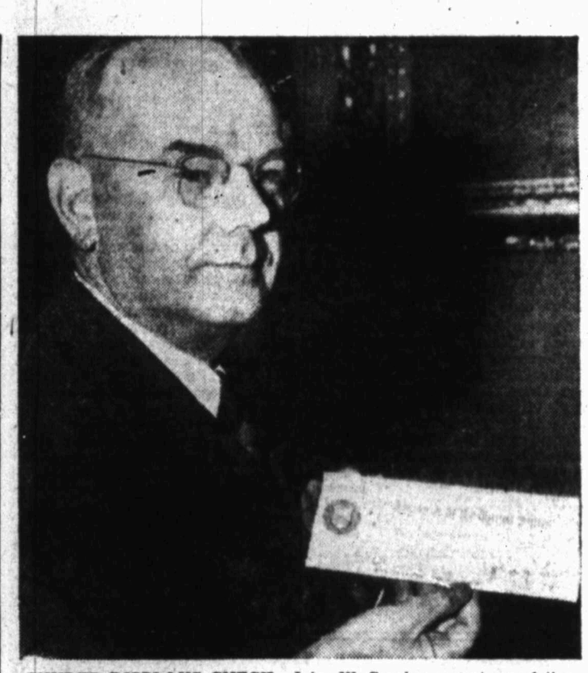

Now "Little Joe" who had been acting more like big Joe than any of the Communist dictators, has kicked over the traces. To the Kremlin, that must look like the unkindest cut of all. What can the Communists expect from other captive countries where the patriots are merely held under a lid rather than subjugated?

More Trouble Reported

Already there are reports of trouble in Romania. The collectivization fight, in which Tito tempered the application of Communist policy to the wishes of his peasants, is also on in Hungary. The Poles, the Magyars, the Bohemians, the Serbs, all have known for centuries the unceasing fight for freedom.

Tito has shown no sign of turning away from Communism. But he is challenging the concept of Communism which makes it an international force whose creed transcends nationalism and governmental sovereignty.

Just as a dissident man in Russia brings down the NKVD hammer upon his whole family, so may Tito's challenge to Russian hegemony bring a tightening of the clamps on all the rest of the Russian sphere.

SNYDER DISPLAYS CHECK—John W. Snyder, secretary of the treasury, displays, in Washington, a $7,500,000,000 check, the biggest bona fide check ever issued by any organization. Actually not a dime changed hands. The treasury check repaid a loan, with interest, from the unemployment trust fund. But the government promptly borrowed the full amount back. (AP Wirephoto.)

Recruiting Office Enlists 37 In June

The local Navy recruiting offices enlisted 37 men during the month of June, according to an announcement made by personnel in that office.

Of the total number, four were ex-Navy men who have reenlisted, and nine have joined under the high school graduate training program, whereby they will attend the trade school of their choice upon completion of recruit training at San Diego.

The June total is considerably larger than totals of enlistments for either of the two months previous. There were 12 enlistments in May and 26 in April. May was described by recruiting officers as a poor month, and April as being about average.

June Is Good Month

June, they said, was a good month from the enlistment standpoint all the way through, although the draft bill caused a pickup in recruiting during the latter half of the month. The bill caused many men who were "on the fence" to enlist without further delay.

The unlimited quota basis for enlistment under the high school graduate training program, which has prevailed during June, has also aided Navy enlistments, the officers said. High school graduates were allowed to join under this program without quota restrictions and pick the training school of their choice.

Weekly Average Given

In most months, enlistments average about five or six per week, but the June weekly average was around 9. This was partly because of the draft measure and partly because of the programs offered by the Navy.

Recruiting personnel at the local office expect July to be about equal to June in enlistments, especially from the standpoint of men who can qualify under the high school graduate training program. The unlimited quota basis will apply this month as it did in June, they said, but will go off the first of August.

The period of gestation of the Indian elephant is not accurately known but is believed to be about 18 months. It sometimes lives to be 60 years old.

Flood Survey On Brazos Begins

FORT WORTH, July 1 (AP)—The federal government today started a flood control survey of the Brazos river watershed to determine flood damages and means of reducing them.

The survey will be conducted by the water conservation division of the Soil Conservation service. It will be directed from regional headquarters here with A. H. Bean, soil conservationist, in charge.

Such a survey must precede a program of flood control by the department of agriculture to determine whether benefits will justify the measures needed to reduce flooding and sedimentation of bottomlands.

Drains Vast Area

The 640-mile long Brazos drains 45,000 square miles from Clovis, N. M., to Freeport harbor on the Texas coast. About 2,000,000 acres of bottomlands are flooded periodically. Most of this bottomland area is in the main valley of the stream, but there are large areas of lands subject to flooding on the Navasota river, the clear fork of the Brazos, and along Mill, Yeuga, Aquilla, California, Pond, Duck and other tributary creeks, Merrill explained.

Information to determine the measures best suited for the flood control program on the Brazos will be gathered by the survey group. Among measures to be considered are: Establishment of vegetative cover on eroded areas and improvement of range cover to make the soil more absorptive and more resistant to erosion; waterways to carry water to natural stream channels without damage to cultivated lands; control of actively eroding channels and stream banks, and floodwater retarding structures in location which allow protection of bottomlands below.

The recommended program will be designed to fit in with the program of large structures proposed by the Brazos River Conservation and reclamation district and the program of the U. S. Corps of Engineers.

Texans In Germany Organize Johnson - For - Senate Club

AUSTIN, July 1 (Special)—Texans in Germany have organized a Lyndon Johnson for U. S. Senator club.

Johnson headquarters here was notified of the organization by Texans who are assigned to various positions in the U. S. Occupied zone in Germany. Its members are urging relatives and friends back home to vote for Johnson for the U. S. Senate post.

"His far-sightedness in world affairs, his past record as Congressman has convinced us that he is worthy of our support and confidence," the club declared. Its message was signed by B. H. Murphy of Austin, chairman; H. B. Hanes of Fort Worth, vice chairman; P. L. Bridge of Dallas secretary, and B. Pearson of Austin, publicity chairman.

Well Known To Texans

"Lyndon Johnson is well known to the Texans in Germany," the club said. "His files contain many requests for assistance from us and we have always found him eager to serve."

"To you, who may have the feeling of security and safety at home, we would bring this warning. Another world war is in the making. Whether or not it materializes depends solely upon your actions in the next few years. An attitude of unpreparedness and pacifism is support of Russia's plans. A strong, direct and emphatic attitude is needed in all dealings with Russia, backed with a strong defense.

"Peace is something that does not come in beautiful tinseled packages, purchased at 'The 5 and 10 store.' It is paid for with good American blood. . .

"We who live as neighbors to Russia understand that men who advocate preparedness are not apostles of fear. They are, in more instances, men who, through actual experience in war, learned best the means of preventing war," the statement concluded.

War-Time Gas Chamber School Cafeteria In California

FRESNO, Cal., July 1. (U.P.)—An army gas chamber solved the problem of feeding some 65-youngsters who attended the Pershing school here.

The building, used during the war to train air personnel in the use of gas masks, was bought by the school's mothers at a surplus sale. The price was $51.

The building was placed on the school playground, given a cement floor and some newly painted chairs and tables. One end was partitioned off for the kitchen. The total cost of the new cafeteria was a little over $3,000.

North Carolina Town Named In Honor Of Bridge Builders

CANTON, N. C., July 1. (U.P.)—The settlers of this mountain community of 5,000 named their home in honor of the Ohio city which built their bridge.

Canton was incorporated in 1891 as Pigeon River, after the roaring highland stream which drove their power mill. Two years later, however, a citizen noticed the name of Canton, O., engraved on the bridge which spanned Pigeon River.

Canton sounded like a good name, and it stuck.

Zuni Indians Near Gallup Plan Observance Of Old Ceremony With Mystic Rain Dances

GALLUP, N. M., July 1 (INS)—The Zuni Indians near Gallup will celebrate the summer solstice Saturday night and all day Sunday in the first of the mystic rain dances held each year.

The quadrennial pilgrimage by the Indian priests to the village of the Katchina Gods is now underway. The gods, according to Zuni legend, dwell in a lake bottom 80 miles west of the Pueblo, near St. Johns, Ariz.

When the Priests and cultists return to their Pueblo, they will bring with them the Katchinas, who will remain in the village throughout the summer, in an invisible form.

Dances Are Planned

During the years between the quadrennial journey to the lake, the Zuni priests and cultists go to plant prayer plums at the Ojo Caliente spring 17 miles southwest of the pueblo. The spring also is a shrine of the Katchinas.

The tribe has a Katchina society, and the officers of this organization go on the pilgrimage accompanied by impersonators of the Katchina priests, the chiefs of the hunters' society and men of the deer and badger clans.

The pilgrims were scheduled to reach the distant shrine tonight. They will make offerings of prayer sticks and hunt turtles as a part of the mysterious ceremony. The return trip will begin tomorrow morning.

Six rain dances will be presented after their return by the six Kivas of the pueblo. Priests from the kiva that presents the first dance will meet the pilgrims on a plain west of the village.

Perform Throughout Night

The dancers will perform in the four courts of the village, then retire to a house where they spend the night in a welcome celebration for the gods. Here altars are set up, and medicine societies provide music.

All night long the dancers perform for the pleasure of their hosts, but they cannot eat or drink in the morning until they have danced four times around each plaza, or until rain falls.

Meanwhile, the Koyemci, or Mudheads, hold similar rites in their own ceremonial house.

The dancing begins at sunrise, and about an hour is needed for each round. During all this time, and all day Sunday, the medicine societies play their primitive music in accompaniment for the dancing.

The dancers leave when the sun sets on Sunday, and the hosts dismantle the altars set up in the houses where the gods visited.

Then the celebration of the summer solstice ends.

Catholic Bishop Is Invited To Attend Beauty Pageant

WHEELING, W. Va., July 1 (INS) — Sponsors of the "Miss West Virginia" beauty contest tonight invited Bishop John J. Swint, of the Wheeling diocese, "to see for yourself" that beauty pageants "are not degrading and immoral."

Bishop Swint was not available for comment. He charged last week that beauty contests are "pagan" and "indecent" and said he would excommunicate any Catholic girl who appeared in the "Miss Wheeling" contest. Two girls withdrew, but a third Catholic, Miss Mariruth Ford, stayed in the running and won the contest.

Tech Student Is Elected To Royal Photographic Society

Charles E. Wendt Jr., of 2104 Fourteenth street, has been elected to membership in the Royal Photographic Society of Great Britain, he was informed Thursday, in a letter from the secretary of the society.

Wendt, a journalism student of junior standing at Texas Technological college, has been a member of the Photographic Society of America for the past year and a half, and also holds a membership in the Pictorial Photographers of America. He was initiated into the Eta chapter of Kappa Alpha Mu, national honorary photography fraternity, at Tech last spring. The membership of the RPS includes some of the best known photographers in the world, and is one of the oldest societies of its kind.

New York's Famed Five-Cent Subway Fare Passes Away

NEW YORK, July 1 (U.P.)—New York City's five-cent subway fare passed away today.

After 44 years of political bickering, the city boosted the fare to 10 cents on its 239 miles of subway and elevated lines. At the same time, fares on the city-owned surface lines were upped to seven cents.

Nickel Pays Dime

Increase, which affects 7,000,000 riders, became effective at midnight when 500 transit workers converted the coin slots on 3,390 turnstiles at 523 stations.

First to be tagged with the new fare were the home-going theater crowds and late night workers. But there was a minimum of confusion.

Carley Nickel, 23, was the first person to pay a dime fare at the Grand Central subway station.

Mrs. Julia Rose of Brooklyn, a dentist's assistant, was one of those caught by the changeover. When she attempted to shove a nickel in a dime slot the crowd yelled: "Them days is gone forever."

Labor Party Opposes

There was little public opposition to the increase, but the American Labor party, which was against it, planned to pass out 1,000,000 circulars protesting the boost today.

Edward Hayle, who has been making change for two years at Grand Central station, said several people came up and doled out 10 cents in pennies to show their disapproval, he said.

The fare increase was made to overcome a $52,750,000 operational deficit, and to boost the wages of city employes.

The fare increase wasn't the only thing that restricted the use of a nickel in New York City today, however. Mayor William O'Dwyer signed a bill yesterday outlawing pinball machines in the city. It became effective today.

Casual Greeting From Friend Saves Life Of Truck Driver

COLUMBUS, O., June 24 (U.P.)—Carl Tenant is grateful to a friend who stopped to say hello.

A friend called and waved. Carl stopped and waved back.

Deputy Berlin Mayor Asks UN To End Soviet Food Blockade

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Ferdinand Friedensburgh, deputy Berlin mayor, is the author of the Berlin city council appeal to the United Nations to end the Soviet food blockade. In the following exclusive article the Christian Democratic party leader tells why he acted on the appeal which thus far is being ignored pending four-power efforts to effect a settlement.)

* * *

By Ferdinand Friedensburg
(Written Expressly For INS)

BERLIN, July 1.—The people of Berlin are innocent victims of this collision of the great powers.

It is the duty of the United Nations to intervene in the name of humanity.

Residents Powerless

We have done nothing to provoke this tension and we cannot do anything to lessen it although we are the chief sufferers.

Our only sin is perhaps the fact that the big majority of the Berlin population is openly opposed to the politics which dominates the surrounding zone (the Russian occupation zone).

The explanation of that is that the Berliners are famed for their love of freedom and democracy—even under Hitler—and they are unchanged.

Chaos Threatens

Unless something is done in this metropolis, three and one-quarter million souls will be in chaos at the beginning of August when coal supplies in the western sectors are exhausted.

Gas, electricity and water will be cut off for lack of power and unless air transport functions at full capacity daily there will be a very grave danger of mass starvation.

Most serious will be a breakdown of sanitation services with the consequent threat of epidemics.

Facing this, we cannot do anything but appeal to the conscience of the world as incarnated in the United Nations.

We are convinced that a fair settlement of differences dividing the powers may be reached if it were possible to get the parties together in a neutral atmosphere.

There is no chance of that here, so the United Nations is the only recourse.

We do not think war is imminent, but the danger is latent and should be met now.

The crisis has not yet reached a peak and next month may be too late.

Most wars come because well-meaning people believe them impossible, and fail to act in time to prevent them.

We believe that the time to act is now.

Dallas Electricians Back On Jobs As Negotiations Resumed

DALLAS, July 1. (AP)—Dallas AFL electricians today called off their "continuous meeting" and returned to their jobs.

About 750 were idle yesterday in a wage dispute.

Frank Graham, business agent for local 59, said negotiations were resumed with the northeast Texas chapter of the National Electrical Contractors association.

Cheaters In Business May Be More Criminal Than Robbers

KENT, O., July 1. (AP)—John H. Given, Kent State University sociology instructor, declares "most of us have enough larceny in our systems to give aid and comfort to the convicted criminal."

Given has prepared a check list by which anyone may grade himself.

It includes such questions as: "do you run from the scene of an accident rather than serve as state's evidence in carrying out the letter of the law?" and, "do you wink at sharp business practices in which someone gets cheated because he wasn't as clever as the other fellow?"

"The kid who holds up a tavern," he says, "is usually less criminal than the contractor who cheats GIs on cheaply constructed homes. It is the pillar of society with a streak of larceny in his make-up that does more damage to the community than the out-and-out crook."

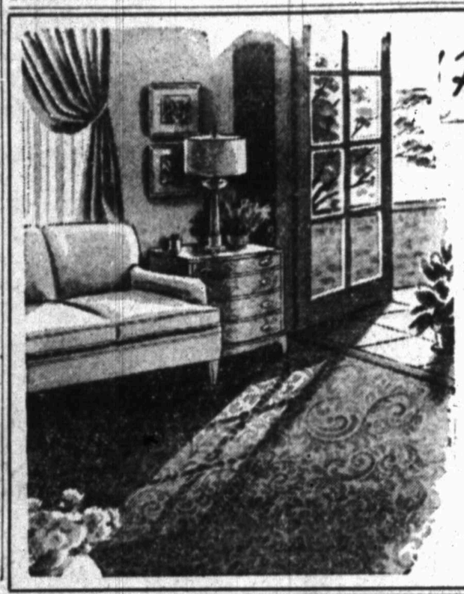

A jellyfish observed off Boston harbor measured 7½ feet across the body, and trailed filaments 120 feet long.

Take Off Ugly Fat With Grape Fruit Juice Recipe

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy — no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of Liquid Barcentrate. Four this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears — how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

County Blood Bank

there is in it," said Dr. Arnett.

The blood bank will eliminate delays—which sometimes are hazardous to a patient, in obtaining blood for transfusions. It also will reduce the cost to a patient, since no charge is made for the blood or for obtaining it. Participating hospitals in the blood bank, Lubbock Memorial, West Texas and St. Mary's hospitals, have set a maximum charge of $5 for administering the blood.

Those giving blood Thursday, in addition to O'Mara, were Jack Crandall, Jack Giles, Ruel C. Martin, Mrs. John McLarty, Dick Crandall and O. J. Sexton.

Jack Crandall and Mrs. McLarty are below the usual minimum age of 21 for those giving transfusions, but gave blood after fulfilling requirements for minors. Blood from minors cannot be accepted without written consent of their parents, or, if married, from their mate, according to blook bank rules.

The blood bank refrigerator has two thermometers one of which is a recording thermometer in operation 24 hours a day. The record from that thermometer reveals whether the temperature at any time has been above the 38 to 40 degrees specified for proper storage of blood. An alarm rings immediately if the temperature goes higher.

Variation in temperature is practically the only condition that might cause damage of blood, said the medical director. The refrigerator, which is round with revolving shelves, was especially designed and built for use as a blood bank.

Chicago Printers Turn Down New Proposal From Papers

CHICAGO, July 1 (INS)—Printers on strike against five Chicago daily newspapers since last Nov. 24, voted down, in effect, today an amended contract proposed by the publishers.

Members of Local 16, AFL International Typographical union, voted 1,011 to 90 in favor of concurring with recommendations of local union officers and the newspaper scale committee.

Local President John J. Pilch said the action presents a rejection of the proposal of the Chicago Newspaper Publishers association.

The local voted 421 to 7, to submit a revised minimum contract demand to the CNPA.

The union by voice vote, also authorized the scale committee to submit the proposal to the publishers individually if it is rejected by CNPA.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, July 1. (AP)—Wheat No. 1 hard, according to protein and billing 2.42¼-46½.

Barley No. 2, 1.73-76.

Oats No. 2 white 1.12½-14½; No. 2 red 1.18-20.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, July 1. (AP)—Corn managed to move ahead in an otherwise stagnant grain market today. Commission houses were the main buyers of the yellow cereal.

Removal of restrictions on brewers' use of grains, small supplies at terminal markets and a more favorable corn-hog feeding ratio combined to give support to corn.

In contrast, wheat showed no response to action of the government in offering to buy wheat in store at Kansas City. The July oats contract was weak most of the session, influenced by excellent new crop prospects.

Wheat closed unchanged to ½ higher July 2.32¼, corn was ⅛-½ higher, July $2.22⅜-½, oats were 1¼ lower to ⅛ higher, July 91¼, and soybeans were ⅛-3½ lower, July $4.13½.

MARKET HITS SLUMP

NEW YORK, July 1. (AP)—The stock market poked its nose into the second half of 1948 today and evidently didn't like the view very much.

After one of the slowest days in three months, the market ended with losses of fractions to more than a point in a decision majority. There was a liberal spattering of modest gains.

Rail stocks tried to pull ahead for a while but soon lost steam. Later in the day oils made a more determined play for higher price levels and for a while did pretty well. Late selling, which centered on the oils, either erased or cut into previous advances.

Volume amounted to only 820,000 shares. This equalled Tuesday's business which in turn was the smallest since March 29. Wednesday's turnover amounted to 990,000 shares.

The market was also distinguished by the comparatively small number of issues which changed hands. Only 969 individual stocks sold, of which 320 advanced and 410 declined.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .1 of one point to 71.2. The industrial component slowed a large decline.

Union Oil of California hit a new 1948 high during the day and managed to close 1/4 ahead at 37½. Also still higher were Shamrock Oil, Mission Corp., Sun Oil, Richfield Oil, and Amerada. Minus signs appeared in front of Gulf Oil, Texas Co., Standard Oil (NJ) and Plymouth Oil.

On the losing side were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, American Telephone, Consolidated Natural Gas, American Smelting.

Jap Is Accused Of Torturing Prisoner

LOS ANGELES, July 1 (AP)—A Navy veteran testified today that Tomoya Kawakita, charged with treason, forced an American prisoner of war to submit to an unusual form of Oriental punishment.

The testimony was given in federal court by Gid H. Spurlock, of Austin, Texas, who was imprisoned at Camp Oeyama, where the American-born Kawakita, 27, was an interpreter for the Japanese.

Spurlock said Kawakita forced another prisoner, Woodrow Shaffer of Memphis, Tenn., to hold a bucket of water above his head while squatting on a raised platform.

Bucket Was Refilled

The witness testified that when Shaffer spilled water, Kawakita would refill the bucket. Spurlock said a bamboo pole was placed behind the victim's knees to increase the punishment.

Spurlock said he saw Shaffer's public punishment in front of the Japanese camp headquarters when he returned from working at a nearby nickel smelter. He said he watched the punishment for about 20 minutes before going to his barracks.

Kawakita, born in California, is charged with 15 overt acts of treason against the United States. He faces a possible death penalty if convicted.

Woman's Common-Law Marriage Suit Against Folsom Dismissed

CULLMAN, Ala., July 1 (INS)—Mrs. Christine Putnam Johnston's common-law marriage suit against Alabama Gov. James E. Folsom was dismissed today at her own request.

Circuit Judge James H. Crow said, however, the suit to give her child the Folsom name was still pending. Judge Crow stated that he was still considering the second suit and would give his decision July 8.

Birmingham Attorney Kingman E. Shelburne argued that the dismissal of the paternity suit against Governor Folsom would violate the rights of Mrs. Johnston's child.

Shelburne had filed the original suits against the Alabama governor for Mrs Johnston in March. Mrs. Johnston, however, changed her mind and with her brother, she petitioned circuit Judge Crow June 16 to dismiss both her common-law marriage suit and the one giving her child the Folsom name.

Funeral services were read by Rev. Hodge Alves, former rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church in Lubbock. Burial was in Mt. Olive cemetery in Alexandria.

Mrs. G. C. Victery, of 3024 Twenty-second, is a niece of Mrs. Whitney.
