GOVERNOR'S MANSION SUFFERS HEAVY DAMAGE

Tornado Rakes Part Of Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Three persons were killed and scores injured when a tornado swept across homes and businesses in northwest Atlanta early today, police said. The governor's mansion suffered heavy damage in the twister.

"What we're doing now is evacuating all these damaged buildings. We're concentrating on life now," said Deputy Police Chief A. T. Hornsby. "We're looking for more victims."

The twister struck at the beginning of the morning rush hour.

At least 50 persons were treated at hospitals, and numerous others suffered cuts and bruises as the twister tore off roofs and battered out windows in a widespread area, authorities said.

HE SCREAMED

Gov. George Busbee reportedly was in the shower when the tornado thundered across the $1.4 million, two-story mansion. He screamed for his family to get to the center of the house. No one was injured.

Busbee said the huge fluted columns in the front of the eight-year-old Greek Revival structure were blown down and sections of the roof were ripped off. One of the columns was sent crashing through an unoccupied upper-floor bedroom window, he said.

"All of the front part of the mansion has been destroyed. The main walls are intact," Busbee said. "Over half the trees have been blown over and destroyed. There was very severe damage to the mansion and the grounds but no injuries."

HEARD ROAR

"I heard a roar and knew something was hitting," he said. "Some, I think, saw the tornado coming before it hit. It was 60 or 70 feet above the ground."

One man was killed when a collapsing wall crushed his automobile, police said.

The storm winds shattered windows and ripped off roofs in the Perry Homes, a public housing area. Mayor Maynard Jackson toured the area and pledged to seek federal disaster aid.

"What makes this even worse is that these are poor people," he said.

A number of school children from the Perry Homes area suffered minor cuts when the windows of their school bus shattered. The driver had shouted a warning for the children to lie on the floor.

"I heard the wind and I looked out the window and I saw this big red thing," said 18-year-old Kim Moss. "I saw a car fly through the air."

"There's just a lot of destruction," said Police Sgt. Jerry Price. "It looks pretty bad."

A number of people were hurt when the twister ripped roofs from buildings in a nearby industrial sector and demolished several buildings. Rescue workers dug through the debris of a collapsed building to free one injured man.

State police reported an aprartment complex was also hit by the tornado, but there were no immediate reports of injuries.

Near Rome, northwest of Atlanta, a twister blew out the windows of an Adairsville school and destroyed several small buildings in the community of Shannon. No injuries were reported there.

SAW IT COMING

The twister leveled a shopping area in northwest Atlanta and damaged roofs and windows in nearby homes.

Rosalie Walton saw the tornado from a window of her apartment on the side of a hill.

"I was getting up to get my children off to school and I saw it coming," she said. "It hopped around uprooting everywhere. I started yelling to the children, 'Hit the floor, hit the floor. Get under the beds.'"

Susan Clough, who works in the governor's office, said the storm blew the windows out of her apartment complex, which is in the same section of town as the governor's mansion.

"All the windows came off. No one was killed thank goodness. My son left three minutes before hand. I was just in a panic," she said.

"I looked out and it was just horrible. All I saw were trees just bending down to the ground."

HEAVY FIGHTING

Da Nang Isolated

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Tank-led North Vietnamese forces overran two more provincial capitals today and isolated Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city.

The North Vietnamese advance cut off the entire northern quarter of South Vietnam at a point 300 miles northeast of Saigon.

In Cambodia, rebel forces overran a key base guarding the Phnom Penh airport and another government position 18 miles west of Phnom Penh, killing scores of women and children, field reports said. But the U.S. airlift of rice, ammunition and fuel resumed after a two-day suspension.

DANGER OF FALLING

The South Vietnamese provincial capitals that fell were Quang Ngai and Tam Ky. The old imperial capital of Hue, 50 miles north of Da Nang, is already cut off, and the only way of resupplying government forces in Da Nang is by air and boat.

Da Nang, a major military headquarters, is where the first U.S. forces landed in 1965. It then served as a major U.S. air base and headquarters for a U.S. Marine division. It normally has a population of 500,000, but this has been swollen to more than double its size by 600,000 refugees.

Hue, the country's fourth largest city, is now encircled and also in danger of falling. Most of its 200,000 inhabitants have fled.

Tam Ky is the capital of Quang Tin Province 35 miles south of Da Nang. Quang Ngai is the capital of Quang Ngai Province 40 miles further south. The fall of a provincial capital is regarded as tantamount to the fall of the province itself because the capital controls the province's functions.

This would make Quang Tin and Quang Ngai the 10th and 11th of South Vietnam's 44 provinces to fall to the Communists and would put under Communist control about 40 per cent of South Vietnam's 66,000-square-mile territory and the three million people living there, or roughly 15 per cent of the country's population.

The Communist-led offensive has created almost one million South Vietnamese refugees. The Viet Cong say they have requested emergency aid for the refugees and the North Vietnamese charge the fleeing civilians are being used as "human shields" by retreating South Vietnamese forces.

LIKE ANTS

In Cambodia, rebel forces "attacking like ants" routed government forces from Tuol Leap, the strategic base six miles from the airport which was supposed to protect the U.S. airlift from rockets, field reports said.

Another government position 18 miles west of Phnom Penh, fell after 300 insurgents infiltrated through a sewage viaduct and began throwing hand grenades, killing scores of women and children of soldiers' families, the reports said.

North and South Vietnamese infantry and tanks battled Sunday 10 miles southeast of Tay Ninh City, the threatened provincial capital 55 miles northwest of Saigon. The South Vietnamese military command claimed 182 North Vietnamese were killed and two of their tanks destroyed. Government losses were not reported.

But the command also reported the loss of two outposts and a hamlet near Tay Ninh, which is believed to be the next Communist target.

Thousands of refugees fleeing from Hue, the former imperial capital on the northern coast, were reported caught in heavy fighting along Highway 1, the country's main north-south road.

The North Vietnamese were holding the Da Bac Pass, blocking the route to Da Nang, and the government rushed up some 800 paratroopers to clear the road. But Associated Press Correspondent Peter Arnett reported from Da Nang that the paratroopers were overrun.

Arnett said Hue, nearly deserted, continued under shellfire and overcast skies prevented helicopters flying in to help evacuate those who were left.

FLEEING HUE

Many were fleeing Hue by boat. One motor ferry bringing refugees down the coast capsized in stormy seas Sunday night. First reports said 3,000 refugees were aboard, and all were feared lost. But later the South Vietnamese command said it believed that fewer than 100 were aboard, and 45 survivors had been picked up.

Congressional Leaders Hear Mideast Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders emerged from a meeting today with President Ford and a pessimistic Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger pledging bipartisan cooperation in efforts toward a Middle East settlement.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said the meeting "was depressing and disappointing because of the lack of success" of Kissinger's most recent negotiations, which he said "we completely support."

Mansfield and other congressional leaders said that efforts for a settlement will now continue in the Geneva Conference.

BLAME

Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott said the congressional leaders "are bipartisan, they are responsible and in this case division stops at the water's edge."

The leaders said President Ford has begun a reassessment and re-examination of U.S. policy in the Middle East and would keep Congress immediately advised of developments.

Kissinger, who returned home Sunday night after his Middle East negotiations broke down, received warm applause from the congressional leaders of both parties as they gathered in the Cabinet Room to hear his report on the peace mission.

Scott told reporters afterward: "We ought not to be assessing the blame. We are agreed Secretary Kissinger was not to blame."

House Minority Leader John Rhodes said there was "no feeling of despair, no feeling war is imminent" as a result of the breakdown of step-by-step negotiations Kissinger had undertaken with Egypt and Israel.

But Mansfield said peace negotiations at the Geneva Conference will be much more difficult because the number of participants will be larger.

House Speaker Carl Albert said, however, "There's no loss of hope." He called Kissinger's shuttle diplomacy a superb effort.

NOT CLOSE ENOUGH

Mansfield said Kissinger had come "close, but not close enough" and that his efforts had collapsed over Egypt's refusal to make a non-belligerency pledge.

The congressional leaders said Indochina did not come up at the meeting. In response to questions, Scott told reporters the lawmakers agreed developments in Southeast Asia in no way affected the U.S. position in the Middle East negotiations.

Police Spying

CHICAGO (AP) — Three Chicago aldermen have called for the removal of any public officials involved in a police spying program, and Deputy Police Supt. Mitchell Ware has been subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigating police intelligence activities.

In a news conference Sunday, independent Aldermen Dick Simpson, Leon Despres and William Cousins Jr. called for an emergency city council meeting to consider removing officials found to have been involved in the program.

Ware, who is in charge of all police intelligence activities for the city, has been subpoenaed with six officers who allegedly infiltrated community groups.

Police Supt. James Rochford said he "would be happy to appear" before the grand jury. He said calling in Ware and the other officers would only be "a fishing expedition."

Last week it was disclosed that the six officers had joined several community groups to spy on the organizations.

It was later reported that files on hundreds of citizens were kept by police.

Approve Local Air Service

AUSTIN —For the first time since early December, Big Spring will have scheduled airline service following the Texas Aeronautics Commission approval of an application for an air carrier certificate for El Paso Air Transport. The Commission okayed the application on recommendations of examiner John Soule after a February 12 hearing in Austin.

EPAT officials indicated that they will begin scheduled flight service from the Howard County Airport as soon as possible, probably by this weekend.

El Paso Air Transport, doing business as Trans Regional Airlines, originally applied for the Texas Air Carrier for scheduled service between Howard County Airport and Midland Air Terminal, Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport and Abilene's airport.

At the Feb. 12 hearing in Austin, Texas International Airlines, which flies routes out of Abilene and formerly served the Big Spring area with scheduled flights, filed an objection to the portion of the application requesting a schedule to Abilene.

TIA withdrew its objection when Trans Regional elected to withdrew any mention of Abilene from its application.

At the hearing, the Trans Regional qualifications, Big Spring need, and Howard County Airport facilities were examined and the examiner recommended to the TAC that the application be approved.

Texas International won a two-year legal battle to withdraw their services to Big Spring effective last Dec. 31, but a ground worker's strike actually halted scheduled service on Dec. 3. Since that time, Big spring air customers have been using Trans Regional planes on an unscheduled, charter basis.

Trans Regional plans to offer scheduled flights twice daily, to Midland and Dallas in Cessna 402's and an Aero Commander, both classified as light twin-engine aircraft carrying 10 or fewer passengers.

To Announce Settlement

DALLAS (AP) — City Councilman Russell Smith was expected to announce settlement of a fraud suit brought against him by the Bank of Mesquite at a news conference today.

Smith was among six persons named in a federal court suit earlier this month in which the bank claimed the defendants fraudulenlty obtained a $519,536 loan for a land deal.

Parachutist Escapes Death

DALLAS (AP) — An unidentified parachutist narrowly escaped death Sunday when his descending chute became entangled in high tension power lines in North Dallas.

Witnesses said he was hanging in his harness about 30 feet above the ground, slipped free and landed on his feet. The chute, freed of his weight, then billowed free and blew into a field.

The mystery jumper folded his chute and departed before police, an ambulance and a rescue team arrived.

The fire chief says it's "unbelievable" and the head of the firefighters' union says "there's something wrong" when a city firefighter lives so far from his work. Two months ago, Colen moved to be near his son, Mike, who is stationed in Arizona with the Army. Colen kept his $19,300-a-year firefighter's job and commutes 1,600 miles to work a 24-hour shift once or twice a week. Roundtrip airfare is about $200. Colen, a 24-year fire department veteran who was cited for heroism in 1969, has apparently decided to move back to the city.

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) The U.S. airlift resumed today after a two-day suspension but rebel forces "attacking like ants" overran the strategic Tuol Leap defense perimeter six miles away and routed the government defenders, field reports said. The insurgents also infiltrated another position in a sugar factory, 18 miles west of Phnom Penh, throwing grenades and killing scores of women and children of soldiers' families, the reports said. They said the rebels got into the factory through its sewage viaduct. The Tuol Leap position was to have been the jump off point of a 4,000-man operation to push insurgents out of rocket range from Phnom Penh's airport. Field reports said the commander at Tuol Leap was arrested and will stand trial for abandoning his position without orders.

PRISON OFFICIALS AGREED TO PROVIDE ARMORED CAR

Hostages Decided They Would Die If Necessary

HOUSTON (AP) — Four hostages in the Huntsville prison siege last summer decided that if necessary they would die so that others could go free, one of those hostages testified today.

The Rev. Joseph O'Brien, a Roman Catholic prison chaplain who was one of the hostages held in the 11-day siege, said he and three women were selected to accompany three convict-gunmen inside a large shield. He said he felt their selection virtually assured their deaths.

"We decided among us that the four of us in the shield would die and we were willing to die if the others were safe," the priest said.

NO HOPE

The testimony came at the start of the fifth week of the capital murder trial of Ignacio Cuevas, the only convict to survive a gun-battle with guards and Texas Rangers which ended the siege.

Two of the hostages died inside the shield, Julia Standley and Elizabeth Beseda. Fred Gomez Carrasco, leader of the escape attempt, and Rudolfo Dominguez also died.

Cuevas is on trial in the death of Mrs. Standley.

During the 11-day ordeal, Father O'Brien testified, hostages were held in the prison library and believed they had no hope as long as they remained there.

"We realized we didn't stand any chance at all if we stayed in the library," he said. As a result, he said, the hostages were eager to take their chances outside.

Movement from the library became possible after prison officials agreed to provide an armored car parked near the ramp leading from the library.

But Father O'Brien said to his knowledge officials never promised that the armored car would be permitted to leave the prison compound. Nor were promises made, he said, that the inmate-gunmen would be allowed to move safely to the armored car.

"My thoughts going down that ramp were that we'd never get to the armored car," the priest said.

In testimony Friday, the prison chaplain said the shield was intercepted by officers who battered it down with fire hoses.

WARNING

Father O'Brien said before the shield tumbled, he heard several shots and was himself wounded.

He said he was lying on top of several bodies when he saw two men, wearing flak jackets and helmets and carrying pistols, advance.

The priest said he pointed toward Dominguez and "I think I shouted a warning." He said one of the lawmen, who he identified as Department of Public Safety intelligence officer Winston Padgett, then fired his pistol.

Padgett, said the priest, then asked, "Carrasco?"

Father O'Brien said he pointed at another part of the pile of bodies and the officer again fired his pistol.

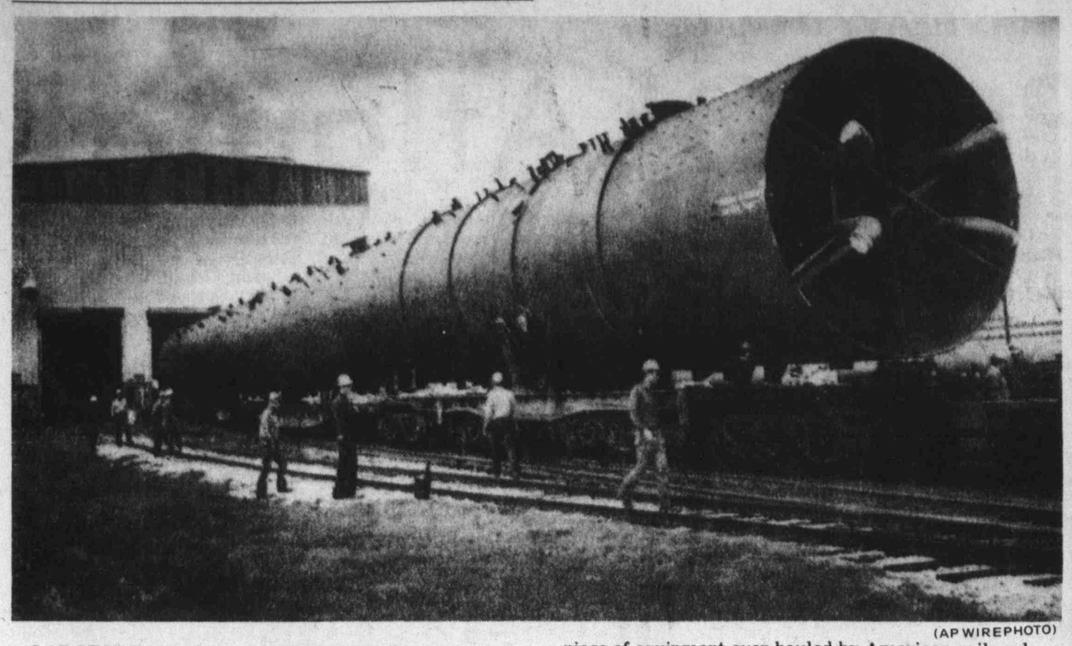

The priest said he did not see where either bullet struck.

O'Brien said the two women, along with another hostage, Mrs. Novella Pollard, were handcuffed to the gunmen. Mrs. Standley was handcuffed to Dominguez, Mrs. Beseda to Carrasco and Mrs. Pollard to Cuevas.

The priest said before the escape was attempted, Carrasco showed Dominguez and Cuevas how to hold the women and to press their weapons against the hostages' chests.

Cuevas and Mrs. Pollard were unhurt in the shootout. Father O'Brien was seriously wounded in the arm and chest.

Israeli Forces Alerted After Failure Of Mission

By The Associated Press

Israeli troops patrolled their country's borders in a state of alert today amid rising tension generated by the failure of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's peace mission.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy predicted that the tension would get worse. However, Israel, Egypt and the United States all indicated that they were prepared to attend Middle East peace talks in Geneva to seek a settlement.

President Ford welcomed Kissinger back to Washington from his 16-day mission and praised him for making "maximum efforts" to achieve an agreement between Israel and Egypt. He said the U.S. quest for peace in the Middle East was ended only "on a temporary basis."

PERSONAL

U.S. officials told newsmen accompanying the secretary of state home Kissinger is convinced his personal diplomacy is dead after running into "irreconcilable" differences between Israel's and Egypt's terms for a new withdrawal of Israeli forces in the Sinai desert.

The officials said the Arab-Israeli peace conference in Geneva is likely to get under way in May. At the conference Israel would have to face all her Arab adversaries, including probably the Palestine Liberation Organization, instead of negotiating with them one by one, the strategy that Kissinger devised.

The United States and the Soviet Union are cochairmen of the conference, which has met only once, briefly, and did nothing then. Its resumption has long been demanded by the Russians, the Syrians and the Palestinians, but until last weekend Egyptian President Anwar Sadat stuck with Kissinger's step-by-step diplomacy.

'VERY DIM'

Fahmy told newsmen his government would make a formal request "within days" for the return to Geneva.

"We are willing to go to Geneva," said Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin.

Fahmy said the collapse of Kissinger's shuttle negotiations left a "very dim" situation, and he did not exclude the possibility of new fighting.

Egypt and Israel blamed each other for the deadlock.

"Dr. Kissinger felt it sterile to continue because of Israel's behavior," said Fahmy.

Rabin in a news conference confirmed that Israel had refused to modify its demand for a nonbelligerency pledge from Egypt in exchange for the Mitla and Gidi passes and the Abu Rudeis oilfield.

"We were entitled to a statement ending the war," he said.

Israel offered "to evacuate the area from the present line to the middle of the passes or even a little bit more than that, to evacuate the oilfield and to hand it back to Egypt, but we expected not only general statements about readiness to limit the use of force," Rabin said.

KILLING

"The state of belligerency will only be ended after Israel's final withdrawal from all Arab territories and the creation of a Palestinian state," said Fahmy.

Both Rabin's office and sources in Washington denied Israeli newspaper reports that President Ford sent Rabin a cable blaming Israel for the breakdown in the talks.

A note was also sent to Sadat, the sources said. They had no idea of its contents but assumed it resembled the note to Rabin.

The Israeli military command said its troops killed two Arab guerrillas Sunday on the Lebanese border. Three Arab gunmen were killed in a clash Friday, the area's most serious since January.

Army Decides Fems Must Qualify With M16 Rifle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has decided that all women soldiers donning their new uniform after June 30 must become qualified "markspersons" with the M16 rifle.

Although women are barred from serving in combat units, the Army said it feels they should be trained to help defend their supporting outfits if emergencies arise while they are stationed overseas.

The Marine Corps reportedly is considering a similar step, although it probably will be on a selective basis determined by a woman Marine's assignment.

CHANGE IN POLICY

In the Air Force, weapons training for women is a voluntary matter. The Navy has its Waves fire .22 caliber rifles and revolvers, but only to familiarize them with the weapons.

The Army said voluntary rifle training for enlisted women has been part of their basic instruction since last August, but that about one-fifth of the girls have chosen to stay out of it.

"Therefore, the voluntary weapons program did not fully meet the Army's need to have all its soldiers adequately trained and a change in policy was required," an Army spokesman said when asked about reports of the switch.

All enlisted women joining the Army, National Guard or the Army Reserve after June 30 will be required to become qualified with the M16 rifle. They will be told of this before they sign up, the Army said. There are around 40,000 women in the Army.

WEAPONS

Women already in uniform or in the reserve forces will not be required to take rifle training during their current enlistments. But they will have to do so if they want to re-enlist.

Women officers also will have to undergo what the Army calls "defensive-type weapons training."

Meanwhile, the Army stressed that "women will continue to be precluded from assignment to units haing a direct combat mission."

In recent years the Army has widened the range of military specialties open to women.

But the services still refuse to allow women to enter West Point, Annapolis and the Air Force Academy because they say the mission of those schools is to prepare leaders for combat.

The issue has been tested in the courts, but so far the bar has been upheld.

DROPSIE UNIVERSITY

Students Come And Go, But Old Prof Remains

PHILADELPHIA (AP)- The students come and go, but Dr. Solomon Zeitlin remains, teaching in the same classroom where he began half a century ago.

The 82-year-old professor of post-Biblical literature and institutions recently celebrated his 50th anniversary at tiny Dropsie University here.

"I began teaching two classes a day and I haven't changed. It's the same schedule. I even use the same classroom I started in," he said in an interview.

The wizened Zeitlin walks with a limp caused by a broken hip, but he still has plenty of spark.

"I don't run away from arguments. Even my students often disagree with me. We have some lively discussions in my classes, but it's all right. I feel fine about my opponents. I have nothing against them— just their ideas," he says.

Zeitlin has been involved in several Biblical controversies, the latest involving the famous Dead Sea Scrolls discovered in 1947.

Many scholars say the scrolls are pre-Christian, but Zeitlin thinks they date from the 6th or 7th century A.D.

If his theory is correct, it could shed new light on the historical development of Christianity.

Zeitlin, a native of Russia, studied in the Soviet Union and in Paris before enrolling as a student at Dropsie in 1915. He earned a doctorate two years later and taught in New York before returning to Dropsie as a professor in 1925.

"We're not a disease, we're a university," smiled Dr. Abraham Katsch, president of the university. It is Jewish-sponsored but is nondemoninational and specializes in Biblical studies. Enrollment is about 200.

"I have always enjoyed complete academic freedom," Zeitlin said of his years at Dropsie. And he has no plans to leave the school.

"I'll never retire," he said.

Zeitlin has published several books and more than 400 articles. He is now editing collected works to be published in six or seven volumes.

CONGRATS FROM COLONEL — E. L. Terry and his son, Roger, of Big Spring received congratulations from Col. Harland Sanders, founder of Kentucky Fried Chicken, for eight years of service. This came at the KFC International franchises convention last week in Las Vegas, Nev. Col. Sanders displayed the pressure cooker in which he prepared his original seasoned chicken. Last year, Terry served 1,200,000 meals in his franchised outlets.

Duster '12' Visits Area

Bill Fryrear is getting a bit nervous that he may have been too conservative in his sandstorm forecast.

Sunday's blow—more reminiscent of the old dusters of the 30's than of the current localized blows — was No. 12 for the season. Using his formula of moisture in reserve and other factors, Fryrear, who is in charge of the U. S. Experiment Station research staff here, had forecast 25 sandstorms for the year.

'What we always fear in making these estimates,' said Fryrear, 'is that something will come along like that one on Monday, March 17 with winds so strong (58 mph) that they suck out the surface moisture and start moving the soil. Now, even the lesser breezes pick up the soil and start moving it.'

Last year, with no moisture reserves, had loomed as a bad season for wind erosion. Fortunately, there was comparatively little wind until just before Spring showers, and then in the Autumn, there was an unprecedented long wet spell. The number of sandstorms fell far short of the forecast, much to the delight of Fryrear who looks on the storms as threats to soil rather than his predictions.

Conferees To Iron Out Tax Bill Differences?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate and House conferees met today to iron out differences between their versions of a multibillion-dollar tax cut and predictions that Congress will complete action on a compromise by Wednesday.

They were joined by Secretary of the Treasury William E. Simon and his chief tax aides. The conferees and their tax staff experts gathered in a small meeting room just off the House chamber. After posing for pictures, they ordered the doors closed.

TOUGH JOB

"We'll try to finish today if possible," said Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and head of the House confereees. He said it would be a tough conference.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and leader of the Senate conferees, said he expected controversial provisions on repeal of the oil depletion allowance to be taken up last.

The final package to be sent to President Ford will total somewhere between the $19.9 billion in cuts voted by the House and the $33.1-billion package voted by the Senate. It also may include a provision ending the controversial oil depletion allowance for major producers, lawmakers agreed.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen, speaking Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation," said Ford has not ruled out the possibility a veto, although he will not decide until he sees the final bill.

Nessen indicated that some of the amendments to the tax bills were causing some concern to the President.

TAX TROUBLES

"If they do send it up (to the White House) with amendments which have not been considered and which don't have anything to do with a clean and simple antirecession tax cut, he has not ruled out a veto," Nessen said.

Ford previously has come out against repealing the oil depletion allowance. Such a repeal, in varying forms, has been included in both the Senate and House tax-cut bills.

Ways and Means Committee Chairman Al Ullman, appearing on ABC's "Issues and Answers," said many amendments in the Senate version cannot be justified and predicted the conferees would eliminate many Senate additions.

Ford held three meetings Sunday with his economic advisers and congressional leaders to talk about the tax-cut bills.

After meeting with Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, economic adviser Alan Greenspan and others, Ford met alone with Ullman, and then met with Simon and two Republican congressional leaders.

The congressional conferees arranged to meet early today to speed action. Congressional leaders insist neither house will begin Easter recesses until the bill is on its way to the White House.

Ullman told reporters he expects "a long, tough conference" on the tax-cut bill but confidently predicted a bill by Wednesday.

DEADLINE

In the Senate, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said "the prospects are good that they (the conferees) will be able to get together by Wednesday" because they face Holy Week recess deadlines.

The Senate version of the tax bill, passed in the wee hours Saturday on a 60-29 vote, provides most taxpayers with a rebate of their 1974 taxes of between $120 and $240, gives every Social Security recipient a $100 bonus payment, reduces the 1975 taxes of virtually all individuals by $40 and provides additional relief for families under the $20,000 gross income level that itemize deductions.

In addition to $25.7 billion in tax cuts for individuals, the Senate bill provides a $7.4-billion reduction for businesses, mainly by raising the tax incentive for buying new equipment.

OIL ACTION

It offsets the reductions somewhat by repealing $3.8 billion in tax breaks for corporations, mainly large oil companies. Included in the repeal package are proposals to end the 22 per cent oil depletion allowance except for small independent firms and a cut in the amount companies can deduct from their U.S. taxes for foreign taxes.

The present provision saves oil and gas producers an estimated $2.5 billion annually in taxes.

Commissioners Study Road Map

Members of County Commissioners Court this morning studied Texas Highway Department proposals for new roads and considered making their own recommendations.

County Commissioner Simon (Cy) Terrazas noticed no roads were proposed for his Precinct 1, which he represents.

County Judge Bill Tune said a discussion with Max Green over the 1974 audit concerned personnel and would be held privately this afternoon.

A request that the city and county apply for a 50-per cent grant for hospital and ambulance equipment was also tabled for consideration later today.

Total cost would be $32,500, Tune said, with local governments paying half.

LEASE BACK

Included are funds for an ambulance which could be leased to Alert Ambulance.

"In the event an ambulance (service) deteriorates or goes out of business, then the county or the city would have an ambulance they could use of an emergency basis," Tune commented.

"Some of these federal programs are like going on a vacation with credit cards," Commissioner Jack Buchanan observed. "There's going to be a pay day some day."

Before taking action, the court plans to study papers outlining the emergency medical services project.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, the court:

Considered replacing or repairing a motor grader cab damaged when the vehicle tipped over. There were no injuries in the accident, County Engineer Neel Barnaby said.

Learned that Fina was loaning the county a 6,100-gallon, asphalt tank trailer free of charge.

Authorized placement of one federally-paid manpower trainee each in the tax appraisal office and county auditor's office.

"There's going to be some people disappointed when we don't keep them when their time (as federally-paid trainees) is up," Commissioner Ikie Rupard said.

Granted permission for Pioneer Natural Gas Co. to install a line under county right-of-way in the Tubb addition.

Okayed moving a phone inside the district clerk's office.

And heard Modesta Rodriguez tell about plans for a dance for some high school graduates June 7. She and parents of about 45 other high school seniors wanted to use the Dora Roberts Exhibit building and were told this structure belongs to the Howard County Fair Association. If the group wants to use the county fair barns, there will be a $50 deposit toward a $50 cleanup fee, he said.

Mull Bell Motion

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Lawyers in a $29.2 million lawsuit against Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. closeted themselves with District Court Judge Peter Michael Curry today, apparently to discuss a motion to compel testimony in depositions from 12 Bell executives.

A hearing had been scheduled for 9 a.m. but Bell lawyers asked for a closed-door conference.

Several of the depositions in question have already been filed, but have not been made public at the insistence of Southwestern Bell.

Curry ruled Jan. 6 that the depositions would be made public, but said earlier this month that he had been misunderstood and that the depositions would remain closed if either side asked for it.

The suit against Bell was filed by former Bell executive James Ashley and the family of the late T.O. Gravitt, Bell's chief executive in Texas who committed suicide last October.

VANDALISM

The window glass in a gas pump at the Kent Oil Service Station, 905 Lamesa Highway, was smashed, police learned Friday.

Firemen Know Who To Fight

HOUSTON (AP) — The president of the Houston Firefighters Association, bitter about voters' rejection of a proposal that would have granted fireman collective bargaining rights, says firemen have found a new kind of unity in the defeat.

"They know who to fight now," said Lester Tyra. "We will be back. Right always wins and we are right."

In a special election Saturday, Houston voters turned down the firemens' collective bargaining bid and also rejected three other proposals which would have hiked the slaary of top city officials. The vote was more than two to one against them.

Only 76,501 voters turned out. More than 600,000 persons were eligible to vote.

Voters turned down the collective bargaining proposal by a vote of 53,325 to 22,683.

A proposal to boost the mayor's salary from $20,000 to $40,088 was defeated 51,169 to 22,482; a proposal to raise the city controller's salary from $14,800 to $28,062 was defeated 51,169 to 22,482; and a proposal to boost city councilmen salaries from $3,600 to $19,488 was turned down 52,012 to 21,914.

Tyra blamed the collective bargaining proposal defeat on "lies, half-truths and voter apathy."

"The results show firefighters think more of city than the city thinks of them," Tyra said. "It's a damn shame when a man has to put his life on the line and only 22,683 people appreciate it."

He said other factors in the defeat were "a vendetta against the firefighters union" by former Mayor Louie Welch and citizens' memory of a sickout by more than 200 firemen last September.

Angry Allegations Of Police Brutality

DALLAS (AP) — Angry allegations of police brutality echoed from West Dallas into a political rally and on to city hall Sunday.

Mayor Wes Wise promised a further airing of the situation at a city council meeting today.

Complainants accused policemen of beating several persons while making arrests at two West Dallas residences in the largely Mexican-American district Friday night as officers responded to a disturbance call at the home of Olivia Marez. Seven were taken into custody, including Mrs. Marez.

Those making the protests appeared first at a rally where rival city council candidates Pedro Aguirre and Garry Weber were present. At length they moved to city hall with Aguirre for talks with City Manager George Schrader and police officials

After a two-hour conference, police released the arrested persons and dropped a charge of assaulting an officer against Mario Isaacs, 19, while juvenile officers released his girl friend, Maggie Marez, 16.

Police said trouble developed Friday night when a young man refused toshow identification after officers found a group leaning on a car, drinking beer and listening to loud music in front of the Marez residence. They said four squad cars and a helicopter answered a call for assistance after the young man was handcuffed and a crowd surrounded the patrol car where he was placed.

Members of the Marez family and the Martha Castaneda family asserted police entered their homes and treated occupants roughly. Officers said they entered the houses in pursuit of persons in the crowd who tried to run away.

Isaacs appeared in bloody clothing and with a blood-stained bandage on a hand as he was released from jail. He said it took two stitches to close his head injuries.

At one point Isaacs told reporters, "Yes, I did take the officer's flashlight and had him down on the floor — but I was defending myself to keep him from hitting me as he was doing."

A spokesman said police said they would take testimony about the incident at a hearing this evening.

Absentee Vote Very Light

Three persons have voted absentee in the City Council Election which will be held next Tuesday. The deadline for absentee votes is Friday, March 28.

Candidates include Mrs. Polly Mays for position No. 3 and Charles Tompkins and H. V. (Burr) Crocker for position No. 4.

Held In Lieu Of Bond

Paula Jane Stuteville, 20, 701 E. 13th St., was held by County Authorities this morning in lieu of posting $10,000 bond set by Municipal Judge John R. Coffee.

She is charged with forging the signature of her landlord, L. C. Caffey, on a check left in the residence at 206 E. 16th St.

Terry McArtney allegedly passed the forged check made for $20.90 at Smallwood's Western Wear, the criminal complaint states.

Woman Vanishes

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — Authorities continued an unsuccessful search in Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas today for a Hattiesburg woman who fled after Gov. Bill Waller said she would have to enter the state prison.

Virginia Smith, sentenced to four years in prison as an accessory in the death of a Texas man, disappeared Friday after Waller rescinded an order which had allowed her a two-month delay in the beginning of her sentence.

Waller said the delay would allow Mrs. Smith to see her daughter graduated from high school.

Dist. Atty. Rex Jones of Hattiesburg sharply criticized Waller's order and Waller revoked it Friday, saying he was afraid that news stories about the case would hurt the daughter.

Mrs. Smith was convicted in the death of Robert Campbell, whose body was found buried in her back yard and a second man also was convicted in the case.

Moynihan Has A Point

Daniel P. Moynihan, former ambassador to India, joins the roster of officials who are suggesting that the United States of America take positive steps to gain more international respect for its food aid programs by reminding others of our generosity.

As a practical matter, what this country had done is furnish food to aid other nations without getting anything meaningful in return where the welfare of the United States is concerned. This year, for example, the U.S. food aid program totals $1.6 billion. While we do not advocate breast beating about our alms, we do feel that facts should not be buried.

Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz indicated the magnitude of American contributions last November when he told the World Food Conference in Rome that the United States is the world's No. 1 food donor. Meanwhile, the U.S. housewife struggles to meet her food budget in the face of inflation caused in part by actions of other nations — to some degree that have quadrupled the price of petroleum.

It fell to a group of midwestern farmers to lay it on the line at Rome. They said the U.S. taxpayer cannot be expected to feed the rest of the world forever out of his own shrinking pocketbook.

Mr. Mohnihan is saying that the United States should consider its food resources a "weapon" to be used economically in much the same way the oil producing nations use their oil weapon to harass and hamstring the industrial nations. He reminds us that while the United States was "inconvenienced" by the 1973 oil embargo and a boost in oil prices, the producing nations "destroyed a generation of economic property for South Asians who, as a result of the inflation spiral, now have no prospect of ever getting an automobile to fill up" with oil or gasoline.

Mr. Moynihan is correct in urging the United States to stop being defensive in the United Nations toward the Third World countries. And, indeed, it is time.

There Are Better Ways

A government identity card — complete with fingerprints — has been proposed by Frances G. Knight, director of the State Department's passport office, as a "secure method of guaranteeing a citizen's personal identity."

But, contrary to Miss Knight's belief that opposition to such national registration would be "insignificant," a considerable number of Americans believes that the United States is already drifting closer to the regimented society through growing use of Social Security numbers on loan and insurance applications, driver licenses and bank accounts. Some influential Washington lawmakers, in fact, have introduced legislation aimed at reversing the trend to a universal identification which lends itself too easily to development of vast, computerized information banks.

The apprehension does not reflect the individual's lack of concern for insuring personal identity, but increasing recognition that he is in danger of losing it.

Miss Knight's goal is to protect the American citizen from "criminal impersonations."

There has to be a better way than surrender of personal privacy.

My Answer

Billy Graham

What is your opinion on cremation? Do you feel it is a sin in the eyes of the Lord? My wife and I would prefer to be cremated. G.G.Y.

This is a recurrent question, so it is a subject of some concern among Christians.

The first Christians to be cremated lived in the Roman empire, when this practice became part of the general persecution. It was really a punitive measure, designed to mock the faith in a resurrection. In the following years, burial became the standard arrangement until in the French Revolution in 1797, it was reintroduced.

Now in many parts of the world, for reasons of hygiene and lack of space, cremation has gained new acceptance. We know, however, that there is no case in the New Testament of cremation and, of course, the example of Christ was one of burial.

Probably, if some survey were taken among Christians today, the preference would be for burial. The Scripture's glad promise, however, is that nothing can separate us from Gods love (Romans 8), and that whatever our condition, the resurrection to meet Christ (1 Corinthians 15) will take place on schedule.

Making It Worse

Marquis Childs

WASHINTON — Recipe for how to make things worse than they are: Start with a large order of paranoia, stir in with groundless rumors and wild charges, bake with a strong infusion of CIA flavoring.

IN THE PRESENT supercharged atmosphere all the old suspicions about the assassinations of President Kennedy and his brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, are being revived. This can be put down partly to what is little better than cheap publicity seeking by those who think it is a sure way to garner a headline.

But reports from around the country show that the wildest of the rumors are taken seriously by those who, given even a little rational thought, should know better. The CIA planned the assassination of the two Kennedy brothers. This has taken hold not only with the crazies, but among the young willing to believe anything evil about "establishment."

THE COMMISSION that investigated President Kennedy's assassination was headed by the late Chief Justice Earl Warren, who accepted the assignment reluctantly after arm twisting by President Lyndon B. Johnson, Gerald R. Ford, then Republican leader in the House of Representatives, was a member of the commission.

After sifting with a capable staff every scrap of evidence, rumor and report, including the charge that a conspriacy was involved, the commission found that Lee Harvey Oswald, the loner, was the killer who had fired on the President as he passed by in the motorcade in Dallas.

AS FOR ROBERT KENNEDY, witnesses saw Sirhan Sirhan fire the fatal shot as the young Senator passed through the [illegible]-room of a hotel kitchen in Los Ange[illegible]. After a lengthy trial, Sirhan was found guilty and sentenced to death.

Since his conviction he has waited in death row in San Quentin pending judicial decision on the legality of the death penalty. Naturally members of his family are eager to exploit the agitation to reopen the case.

THERE SEEMS at times a competition to see who can swallow the biggest myth, with the CIA the prime bait.

In a suburb of Los Angeles, the Orange County Bar Association heard at a luncheon meeting Philip (Dave) Thomas describe how he had carried out 22 assassinations in the Soviet Union as a CIA agent.

ONE NEWSPAPER headline said: "CIA Assassin Tells Lawyers of Exploits." The speaker went on to say that in order to escape the KGB after his latest killing, he had seized a Pan-American Airways 747, using his American Express card, to fly him to safety.

Even though the story is wildly improbable, the CIA searched its files. No such name nor anything resembling it came to light.

An organization most active in promoting the conspiracy theory of the CIA is the National Caucus of Labor Committees, a militant Marxist organization that links the CIA with the KGB in a giant brainwashing operation. Members believe in a "master plot" they must do everything possible to frustrate.

ONCE BEFORE in a time of trial and tribulation the same witches' brew of fear and suspicion haunted a troubled nation. After President Abraham Lincoln's assassination in 1865, just at the end of the Civil War, the rumor persisted that his Secretary of War Edwin M. Stanton had played a part in a plot to murder the President.

Nothing was ever proved beyond the fact that the abrasive Stanton had often been at odds with Lincoln over the conduct of the war. Latter-day scholars have dismissed the rumor as unfounded.

Hopefully we will recover from the present plague which is more virulent than that of a century ago.

Disguising Prices

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — At midafternoon the flower seller outside the commuter station is selling roses for $2 a bunch, 12 to the bunch. At 5 p.m. the price is the same but the bunch now consists of four roses.

This salesman is only doing what thousands of other hard-pressed entrepreneurs are attempting—disguising price increases.

A medium-priced restaurant is forced out of business by its inability to keep prices moderate. A month later, after a name change and redecorating, it opens as a high-class affair, seemingly justifying higher prices. The food's the same.

Another restaurant with a long tradition of fixed price dinners goes a la carte. Individually, the price of each a la carte item doesn't seem too high, but the bill adds up to a lot more.

Government statisticians who compile the Consumer Price Index attempt to adjust their figures for changes in quality and quantity, but a suspicion exists that so widespread are disguised price increases that they're not geting them all.

Shrinking the size of the product remains the most typical disguise, practiced most noticeably by candy bar makers but also by car makers, ice cream scoopers, sandwich makers, bartenders and home builders.

Does the latest house in your development seem a bit smaller than the ones built earlier? Surely your eyes must be deceiving, you say, but it does seem a bit smaller, although it is precisely the same in all details.

You're right. Some builders simply shrank the size of their product to hold the price line. The same designs, the same specifications, but an end product a foot or two smaller in almost every dimension.

Some sellers simply give up attempting to hold down prices. They might, like some candy manufacturers, feel they have shrunk the size of their product to an unshrinkable minimum, and so they go in for a whopping increase.

To make the big price increase seem justified, these candy makers at the same time enlarge size of their bar. But whereas the price might double, the contents are enlarged only 1.5 times.

Occurring throughout the market place are practices quite similar to the a la carte for fixed prices substitution: Standard equipment and services become extras for which there is an added charge.

With energy costs so high, for example, landlords are detaching electricity from the rent payment. By putting in separate meters they now turn that responsibility over to the renter.

Car makers pioneered the technique of upgrading standard equipment to the special accessory category, for which an additional price is paid.

About Those Eye Floaters

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I went to an ophthalmologist because I have been seeing black spots. He called them "floaters." He said that they were not serious, and he said there was no cataract or glaucoma.

Can you give me some information about "floaters"? — A.R.

Nearly everyone has had one or more floaters at one time or another. They are more prevalent in older folks, but they can occur in any age group.

Vitreous floaters — which is the full name — are flecks of tissue, often displaced blood cells, that flake away from the inner surface of the eyeball into the fluid-filled cavity behind the lens. When his happens, they cast a shadow against the retina, producing the impression of seeing black spots.

In extreme situations, such as a severe blow to the head, a flurry of floaters can resemble the miniature snow blizzards produced in one of those little glass ball ornaments. The flecks disappear quickly and the snowstorm ends. It's the same with floaters.

Although usually harmless, floaters should be reported to the eye doctor, which I'm pleased to see you have done. They can be symptoms of certain eye diseases, especially if they recur with frequency.

Floaters are most prominent when staring into a bright sky or into a light. They disappear when the eye returns to a subdued gaze. Sometimes they will appear as bits of thin thread. I had one of these for years, but I can't seem to make it perform for me anymore. It must have disappeared.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 13 years old and a worrier. I had pneumonia when I was a year old, and again when I was seven. Ever since then I have dreaded the disease.

Recently I was told that after you had had pneumonia twice, your body develops immunity to the disease. I would like to know if this is medically proven. — R.M.

It might be partially true. Some immunity does result from the antibody formation in the body upon invasion by the pneumonia germ. But how much and how long this persists, I just can't tell you.

And this immunity would only hold for that specific germ. There are several others that can cause pneumonia, so it's possible to have the disease time and time again, each time involving a different organism.

Your misconception may arise form the erroneous notion that if both lungs are affected, one cannot contract it again. This, of course, is patently untrue.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there some way to prepare beans to avoid the gas problem they cause? — H.G.

Add a bit of baking soda to the water in which they are boiled.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please write something about cerebral ischemia. Can it be cured or checked, and how does a 77-year-old patient go about his business having it? I mean as to diet and exercise. — J.U.

Cerebral ischemia means there is inadequate blood oxygen reaching the brain. It implies an arterial hardening, is usually associated with aging. At 77, it would be surprising if you did not have some degree of this.

Yet, it is a diagnosis too glibly made, often ignoring other possible causes. Anemia and low thyroid activity are possibilities, and they should be looked into.

But in true cases of cerebral ischemia one cannot do very much to alter the toll time exacts form the arteries. There is no special diet. Keep up any exercise that doesn't overtire you. Walking is best, and it will perk up your circulation. It is important, too, for you to remain mentally active — read, play cards, etc.

Plug For The Paper

Around The Rim

Tommy Hart

One thing and another:

I'M ALWAYS dubious of people who brag about the fact that they never read a newspaper. To me, it's a form of snobbery I can do without.

The printed word remains one of the great blessings of mankind and it would be hard to imagine a civilized world getting along without newspapers.

EACH OF US has a consuming interest in our neighbors and how else would we find out who married whom, who went his separate way, who dispatched whom and who departed this vale of tears if the newspaper disappeared from the newsstand or wasn't tossed on one's front porch?

The zany exploits of the passing parade are mirrored best in the columns of your family chronicle. By what other method can you be made to feel superior and inferior at the same time by reading of mankind's deeds, his fits of passion, his compassion and his misadventures?

THE PRESS is being attacked as never before, but perhaps it is because it is doing a better and more consciencious job than ever before.

Everyone should read a paper with some detachment and reserve the right to doubt the motives of the person who authored the article. But the fact that the reader can dissent is what it's all about. The individual who would abolish or constrict the free press is closer to the subjugated form of existence than he perhaps realizes.

THE TERM "hard times" is interpreted in different ways by different people. For instance, hard times to a hitchhiker means he'll go either way.

What better way to conserve energy than with an empty tank?

I date way back. I can remember when a penny postcard cost a nickel.

I don't know what gave me the idea a neighbor's little boy was brassy but the other day he offered in rebuttal to his mother this animadvert: "Don't yell at me? I'm not your husband."

BEST DESCRIPTION I've heard of the word "chivalry:" A man's urge to protect a woman from everybody except himself.

There's this thing about it: A psychiatrist doesn't have to worry as long as other people do.

I never take flowers home. The first thing my wife smells is something fishy.

If more people acted their wage, there wouldn't be as many of them living beyond their means.

Thieu's Gamble

Rowland Eva[illegible]

WASHINGTON — U.S. officials were neither consulted nor alerted by President Nguyen Van Thieu before he suddenly pulled South Vietnamese troops out of the Central Highlands, so that policymakers here were stunned along with the rest of the world.

Had they been asked, most U.S. experts would have given cautious approval to Thieu's gamble (though one Vietnamese specialist here privately considers the withdrawal "precipitious" and bearing grave risks). The fact that they were NOT asked completes the end of Washington's tutorship over Saigon but also carries more sinister connotations: resentment in Swigon that Congress has doomed South Vietnam to destruction.

THIEU ABANDONED three highlands provinces in hope that the accelerating Communist offensive by North Vietnamese regulars might be contained if Saigon constricts its lines. Behind that hope is the reality of reduced U.S. military aid now and into the future. Indeed, North Vietnam's offensive was clearly prompted by the mood on Capitol Hill. Just as presidential intervention saved South Vietnam from the Communists in 1965, congressional disengagement may deliver the country over to Hanoi in 1975.

Today's South Vietnamese army (ARVN) bears no faint resemblance to the demoralized rabble saved from destruction by President Johnson a decade ago. Sen. Henry M. Jackson's attempt to justify his new dovishness with his astonishing statement that the ARVN will not fight is unanimously rejected by first-hand observers.

THE BRITISH military authority, Sir Robert Thompson, came through Washington recently after a Vietnamese visit declaring Saigon's best outfits — marines, airborne, the 1st and 2nd ARVN divisions — better than any Western troops today, including Americans. Dovish Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, Jr., of California, a Marine infantry officer in Kurea, was surprised by the high caliber of ARVN units he visited this month.

Thus, Thieu's pullout is not comparable to the inglorious retreats of Chaing Kai-shek's non-fighting Chinese divisions in 1949. Rather, it is an undersupplied army trying to counter its fully supplied foe by concentrating forces. Such an in-gathering was privately predicted to Assistant Secretary of State Philip Habib when he accompanied visiting Congressmen to Vietnam two weeks ago.

The best response by Saigon would be, say knowledgable U.S. officers, a combined air-ground strike in the highlands by fighter-bombers and airborne units. But today's lack of fuel and ammunition, likely to get worse instead of better, prevents direct action.

Thieu's alternative is to abandon a lightly populated area poor in rice. "It's a good physical solution, considering the problem," one U.S. Vietnam-watcher told us. "It's the psychologicl problem that worries me." That is, will abandoning the Central Highlands be perceived throughout South Vietnam as a signal that all is lost?

SO, PRESIDENT Thieu is taking a gamble, even if a necessary one. But necessary or not, there is no criticism from Washington. After ARVN troops had "won" the war in 1972 (in the opinion of Sir Robert Thompson and other experts), Thieu was forced into signing a "peace" treaty with no safeguards against Hanoi pouring reinforcements into the South. With Moscow and Peking generous in military aid, those reinforcements roll down from the North without fear of bomber attack to fight ARVN units crippled by U.S. aid cutbacks. Thieu's gamble was spawned in Washington.

Follow That Car

Suppose a policeman jumps into the back seat of your automobile and shouts:

"Follow that car!"

Are you obliged to obey? Generally speaking, you are indeed. Under the ancient "hue and cry" doctrines of the common law, an officer may commandeer any vehicle that he needs to catch a fleeing felon.

As Judge Benjamin Cardozo once put it:

"The horse has yielded to the motorcar as an instrument of pursuit and flight. Still, as in the days of Edward I, the citizenry may be called upon to enforce justice, not faintly and with lagging steps but honestly and bravely and with whatever implements and facilities are at hand."

You may even be obliged to help in making the actual arrest (at least, say some states, if you are an "able-bodied male over 18 years of age"). To refuse, without good reason, could make you guilty of a misdemeanor.

On the other hand, in the event that you do lend a hand, the community owes you certain legal benefits in return.

For example:

A man was called upon by the sheriff to help in arresting an armed fugitive. In the ensuing gunplay, he suffered a bullet wound in the shoulder.

He was therefore entitled, a court ruled afterward, to collect workmen's compensation — just like any county employe injured in the line of duty.

In another case, a clerk in a store helped a policeman make an arrest that turned out to be an error. In short order, the clerk found himself facing a damage suit for "false arrest."

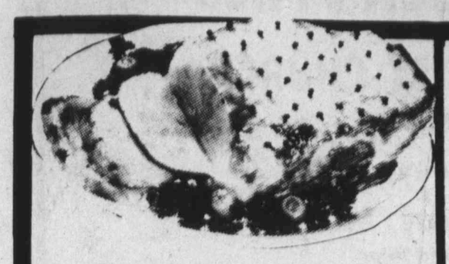

But the court held him not liable. The court said making him pay damages for an innocent mistake, in no way his fault, would be shabby thanks from society to a good citizen.

Express Opinions

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin Agriculturist, a rural magazine, says one of its recent polls indicates that most farmers feel food and gasoline shortages are falsely created to raise prices.

It says 63 percent of Wisconsin farmers polled said that shortages are probably artificially created so that companies can raise prices. Twenty-one percent feel shortages will be with us for some time, 9 percent think they are only temporary and 7 percent are undecided.

'CHECKBOOK JOURNALISM'

Cat-And-Mouse Game With Haldeman On Tube

By JAY SHARBUTT
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Back in the mid-1950s, Mike Wallace ran a feisty local TV interview show in which he seemed more prosecutor than reporter and each week's guest more victim than willing participant.

The Wallace approach has mellowed since then. But his CBS interview Sunday with former top White House aide H.R. Haldeman unexpectedly showed flashes of the make-'em-sweat Wallace style of old.

FASCINATING

The result was a fascinating kind of cat-and-mouse game with Haldeman, the strong-willed Californian who once was Richard M. Nixon's main man and now is appealing a conviction on Watergate cover-up charges.

Many newsmen tend to be deadpan when interviewing folks. Not Wallace in Sunday's show. At times he was visibly incredulous, and his voice occasionally became very soft, much in the manner of a district attorney hoping for the blurted answer that convicts the defendant.

But Haldeman, a handsome man who spoke in pleasant, well-modulated tones, didn't blurt and seemed to lose his composure only once.

COMPASSION

That was when Wallace quoted former White House aide John D. Ehrlichman as telling him, "that you (Haldeman) undertook, the Nixon White House" undertook to pay expenses of the Watergate burglars 'out of compassion.'"

Haldeman, slightly angered, shook his head and replied: "He did not tell you that the Nixon White House undertook to do it. He told you that the Committee to Re-elect the President undertook to do it."

Otherwise, there seemed no strong reactions by Haldeman to the Wallace probing. It was fascinating to hear Haldeman discuss Nixon and Watergate, but he wasn't startled into making startling admissions.

It was highly interesting that he said he once felt the Watergate tapes—which brought down the Nixon administration—should have been destroyed once it appeared Nixon couldn't keep them private.

But Haldeman, who later said he recommended against this, wasn't asked why he initially felt the tapes should have been destroyed.

ABSORBING

Nor was he asked for his opinion on why at one time then-President Nixon "raised the question of whether the tapes ought not to be destroyed."

Still, it was an absorbing hour, culled out of more than 6½ hours of filmed interviews conducted by Wallace on March 4 and 5 at Haldeman's home in the fashionable Hancock Park section of Los Angeles.

CBS next Sunday will air a second Haldeman interview with other material from that two-day question period.

It says the show includes Haldeman's home movies of the Nixon years, and his replies to questions ranging from what Nixon thought of the late J. Edgar Hoover to whom Haldeman thought was "Deep Throat," the unknown White House insider who so greatly helped the Washington Post investigation of the Watergate case.

The network has said it paid Haldeman for the interviews, but denies accusations it engaged in "checkbook journalism" by doing so.

The Bus Is Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — The humble but handy bus, long eclipsed in commuting supremacy by agile autos, is making a dramatic comeback, reports the Road Information Program.

One cause of the bus's new popularity is a federal program that pays 80 percent of the purchase costs. Signs of the bus's resurgence are everywhere. Minibuses, cheaper and more maneuverable than the standard 40-footers, already are fixtures in downtown Washington and in many suburban communities. Extra-long "articulated" buses that bend in the middle are being test-driven around the country.

Some cities, such as New York, Chicago and Detroit, are casting a nostalgic eye back to double-decker buses that were popular until about 25 years ago. Other innovations in bus travel include dial-a-ride, where passengers telephone for door-to-door service

Tigers Whip Friars

NEW YORK (AP) — You don't have to be great to play basketball for Princeton—only smart.

The flawless Tigers proved Sunday that brains were far better than brawn while winning the 38th National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

"This team is smart and courageous and how can you beat brains and courage?" Princeton Coach Pete Carril noted with smug satisfaction after his "textbook" Tigers whipped the Providence Friars 80-69 in the title game.

To be sure, Sunday's victory was a clinic in basketball—as were Princeton's first three victories in the tournament.

When Providence went into a full-court press in the first half, the Tigers broke it by running with the ball. When Providence went into a zone defense in the second half, Princeton killed it by sitting on the ball.

The Tigers became the first Ivy League team in history to win the NIT

STEERS UNDEFEATED

Mojo Trap Laid Out

Flashing a 2-0 sign, Big Spring is set to unlimber against Permian, defending 5-4A champs, in Odessa, Tuesday, at 4 p.m.

Mojo, the name Permian uses to shake-up its opponents, also is unscarred in two district tests.

Both Big Spring and Permian boast identical seasonal records, 6-5 each.

The Steers, winner of their last three games in a row, share the conference lead along with Permian, Cooper and Lee.

Alex Kager, 2-0 in 5-4A, will no doubt, from reliable reports, get the beckoned mound call for Permian. Without him, Mojo's loop mark could very well be 0-2.

In the district opener against Midland, Tuesday, Kager allowed only three scattered hits as Permian won 3-2. On Saturday, Mojo dumped Abilene High, 7-2. Kager allowed six safeties.

Scouting reports say Kager is hard to beat. The Steers would like to convince observers they can shell Kager. It can be done:

Larry Horton, Steers head coach, has confidence in the team. Big Spring has confidence in itself.

Horton plans to counter against Kager with Pat Carroll, 3-1.

Big Spring's two wins have been over Abilene, 7-6, Tuesday, and Midland, 7-5, Saturday. Both wins were in Steer Park and observed by the largest following in three years.

This is the best Big Spring district start under Horton's three year guidance.

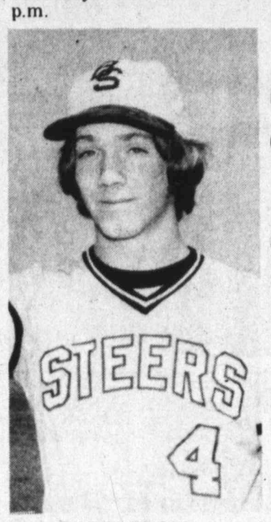

Following the Permian test, Big Spring has a home date with rugged Lee, Thursday. Game time is 4:30 p.m.

'Cats' Paws Sharp

By The Associated Press

The problem with winning the NCAA Regionals is that it's only half a loaf—it's great while it lasts, but before you know it you have to go back out and fight for the rest.

"It would be nice to savor this victory for a while," said Mike Flynn, whose 22 points paced Kentucky to a stunning 92-90 upset of top-ranked and previously unbeaten Indiana in the Mideast Regional at Dayton, Ohio, Saturday, snapping the Hoosiers' 34-game winning streak.

"But Monday, Coach Hall will be back yelling at us, getting us back ready for the next game."

The next game for Coach Joe B. Hall's Wildcats will be in the semifinals at San Diego March 29 against Syracuse, the Cinderella team of the 1975 NCAA basketball tournament. The 20th-ranked Orangemen, who earlier upset powerful North Carolina, won the East Regional with a 95-87 overtime decision over Kansas State.

After 20th-ranked Syracuse, 23-7, meets fifth-rated Kentucky, 25-4, in the first semifinal at 3 p.m., EDT, Saturday, third-ranked Louisville, 27-2, will take on second-rated UCLA, 26-3, in the second semifinal.

The winners will meet at 9 p.m. Monday, March 31, for the title.

The semifinals and final will be nationally televised by NBC.

Melanie White 1st In Fencing

Melanie White, Big Spring High biology teacher, proved her skill at swordsmanship Saturday afternoon in the Fourth Annual Odessa College Fencing Tournament.

Mrs. White placed first in the Women's Division and fifth overall. The tournament had the largest field in its history.

Mrs. White's husband, Bruce, last year's champ, was eliminated in the last bout of the semifinals by one point.

PALMER FAILS AGAIN

'Half-Pay Ziegler' Earns Full Reward

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Larry Ziegler peered at the check in his hand.

"It looks okay," he said, then wiped the smile from his face and, in mock-seriousness, observed:

"But I ain't got it to the bank yet."

The last time he had won a golf tournament, in the 1969 Michigan Classic, he didn't get to the bank. He didn't even get a check. When the tournament was over and Ziegler was a winner, the sponsors discovered they didn't have enough money to pay off.

He got it eventually. The Tournament Players Division of the PGA paid him from their funds in two delayed installments. It won him the nickname "Half-Pay Ziegler."

But it was full pay this time, $30,000 for his two-stroke victory Sunday in the Greater Jacksonville Open.

"I thought somebody would come out of the pack and win it—but I didn't think it would be me," Ziegler, 35, said after overcoming a huge field of challengers with a seven-underpar 65 in the final round over the 7,143-yard Deerwood Country Club course.

Ziegler scored his second American triumph—he also won the Morocco Open in North Africa late last year—with a 72-hole total of 276, 12-under-par.

The clincher was a string of holes starting on the 13th where he went birdie-par-birdie-eagle, the last on a 25-foot chip-in. Nine players, including bitterly disappointed Arnold Palmer, had led or shared the lead during the final round before Ziegler's winning splurge.

"I'm very frustrated," said the 45-year-old Palmer, his shoulders slumped.

Hogs Derailed By Texas A&M

By The Associated Press

The Arkansas Razorbacks, derailed by Texas A&M en route to a midseason showdown with Texas, travel to Austin next weekend to battle with a Longhorn team that apparently is riding a runaway express.

Arkansas was 4-1 after beating the Aggies Friday, but A&M swept a doubleheader 3-2 and 5-0 Saturday to push the Razorbacks into the also-ran category. David Lockett pitched a five-hitter in the nightcap to notch the shutout for the Aggies.

Texas, which hosts Arkansas for three games Friday and Saturday, displayed its pitching strength in a three-game sweep of Southern Methodist over the weekend to run its record to 12-0, four games ahead of Texas Christian and 4½ up on the Aggies.

The Longhorns got a no-hitter Friday from Jim Gideon and Martin Flores and Terry Ray combined for another shutout over the Mustangs Saturday.

Mitchell Named Coach Of Year

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — "There were 10 teams capable of winning this tournament — it just depended on who got the breaks," said Coach Mike Mitchell of Western Texas, which left here with the national junior college basketball crown.

The Westerners, whose single loss in 37 season and tournament games was to South Plains of Levelland, Tex., won the title in only the fourth year since the school's dedication by defeating Southern Idaho of Twin Falls 65-57 Saturday night. It was their first trip to the national.

Mitchell was named National Junior College Athletic Association coach of the year.

Bob Miller, Western Texas' 6-foot-5 guard who injured a hand in a car door before Friday's semifinal contest against De-Kalb South of Decatur, Ga., but played in the last two games was named the tournament's most valuable player. The sophomore from Seaford, N. Y., who averaged 22.7 points in 33 season games, was joined on the all-tournament team by 6-7sophomore Eugene Harris.

Southern Idaho jumped in front early in the title game, but the Westerners took the lead for keeps with 8½ minutes remaining in the first half when they moved ahead 14-13. The Eagles fought within two at 30-28 early in the second half, but that was as close as they could make it. Harris led the scoring with 18 points.

Utica, Miss., also on its first trip to the national tournament, took third place with an 80-66 victory over DeKalb and closed its season 32-4.

TITLE TALK

Wepner Believes Ali On Way Down

CLEVELAND (AP) — Boxing takes a 35-mile trip over a rolling road to seeming nowehere tonight for another bizarre Muhammad Ali benefit.

You have to be here to believe it.

"I am like oxygen—oxygen is all over the world," bellows the bombastic Ali. "Any man who challlenges me is challenging the world—he has to be out of his head."

The challenger is a big, mustachioed booze salesman named Chuck Wepner, who until a couple of months ago was little known outside the dimly lighted saloons of Bayonne, N.J.

He could be the longest shot in heavyweight title fight history. Odds have been quoted from 10-1 to 100-1. Las Vegas refuses to make book on it.

Wepner, a hulking 6-foot-5 with a reputation for facial skin that will crack like delicate china and for countless bar room brawls, appears awed by his sudden thrust into the center of boxing's stage and the guarantee of a $100,000 pay check, but he gives no indication of being frozen with fright.

"Ali was a great fighter once but is going downhill," he says. "The champ's got fast hands but slow legs. I will stop him in the 13th."

Some of his closest associates wonder if he believes it.

The 15-round fight, the first defense by Ali since regaining the crown with a knockout of George Foreman last October in Zaire, Africa, is part of a unique electronic doubleheader representing a $2.3 million gamble by promoters.

The show begins in New York's Madison Square Garden at 9:30 p.m. EDT with a creditable heavyweight matchup between Jerry Quarry and Ken Norton, guaranteed $185,000 and $100,000 respectively, for their 12-round battle.

'THEY NEED HELP'

Vets Of Vietnam Voice Pessimism, Sadness

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas-area veterans of the Vietnam War, although sympathetic to the plight of the South Vietnamese people, are critical of the way the United States conducted the war.

REDS ROLL

Pessimism and sadness were voiced by the veterans, many of whom had suffered wounds and lost comrades while fighting in Vietnam. They were saddened at news that key cities of South Vietnam were falling to Communist forces.

The men spoke in interviews published over the weekend by the Dallas Morning News and the Dallas Times Herald.

"Speaking for the men who were killed...I can't tell you how they would feel about the land being lost, " said former Marine Sgt. Bill Davis, who was wounded at Pleiku. "But speaking for them as Marines, I can tell you. Their reaction would be the same as mine. Why give up the territory. This is something I almost lost my life for."

A veteran who lost both legs in Vietnam said: "I am very disappointed and saddened. The Central Highlands (site of the Communist offensive) is where I lost my legs and I hate to see it given up without a fight.

He said the basic reason for American participation in Vietnam is "a moral committment to support a country from the violent, physical imposition of totalitarianism; this reason is still viable."

"They need help, they can't do it by themselves," said James Price of Gulfport, Miss., a patient at the Veterans Adminstration Hospital here and a former tank driver in Vietnam. "If the Americans are out, South Vietnam will be under Communist rule."

Another veteran, Jim W[illegible] who led an Army squad near Hue said he was surprised at how quickly the Vietnamese city would fall.

NO CONFIDENCE

"I thought we had taught those people about courage and sensitivity," he said. "But after we pulled out, they lost confidence because Uncle Sam wasn't there."

The veterans were not unanimous on the question of U.S. involvement.

"It is not the Americans' war in the first place," said Thomas Smith, 24, of Dallas, a former Marine. "Everybody who went over there should not have gone."

But Charles Scarbrough, 29, of Irving, said: "As many people as we lost, I dont't think we should have pulled out to start with. We should have gone in there to win. Why were we over there if we were going to pull out and let them have it?"

A 30-year-old security officer who served two tours in Vietnam said limited U.S. aid should be continued to South Vietnam, observing, "If they'd only put the money to the use intended instead of putting it in Swiss bank accounts." He added that U.S. aid often never reaches the people but ends up in the pockets of corrupt officials.

ALL OR NOTHING

An Air Force officer said future aid should be "total or none at all." He said partial commitment only prolongs the war.

Army S.Sgt. Dave Aycock said the South Vietnamese cannot hold out much longer.

"It's all behind us now," Aycock said. "I think we are about to see the whole thing come to an end. A lot of American blood was shed to hold the land and it seems to me it was in vain."

Truck Driver, Beef Missing

BURLESON, Tex. (AP) — Peace officers are searching for the driver of a truck and 10,000 pounds of beef, missing when the truck was discovered by police at a roadside park south of here Friday night.

A motorist noticed the parked truck Thursday and when he drove past next day it had not been moved.

Police examined the truck and discovered the refrigerator motor was running but the back door seal had been broken.

Checking the interior, officers found about 25,000 pounds of beef still refrigerated, but an additional 10,000 pounds were missing.

The truck left Plainview last Sunday bound for Chicago with 35,000 pounds of beef.

Owners of the vehicle, Querner Truck Lines of San Antonio, had notified the Federal Bureau of Investigation that it was missing.

Trinity Memorial Park Offers Burial Vaults

Trinity Memorial Park has a serene, beautiful atmosphere as a last resting place for your loved ones.

Well kept and always immaculate, it also offers the purchase of a concrete burial vault for lasting protection that many people have gained by use of the mausoleum.

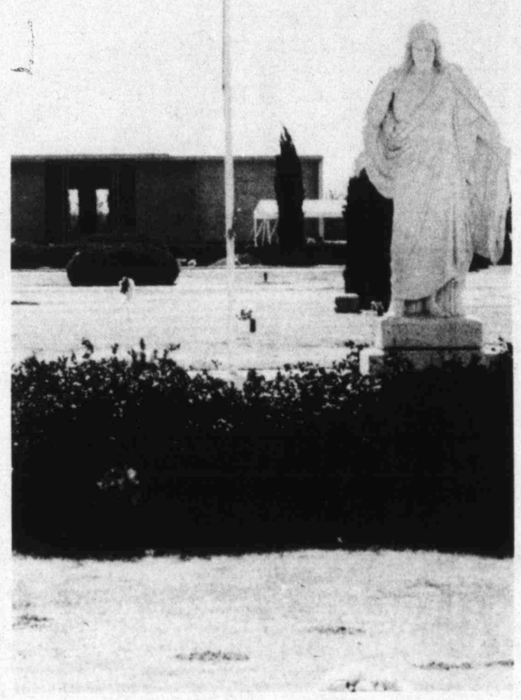

The strength and durability of the concrete burial vault constructed by Big Spring's Trinity Memorial Park is unexcelled. The steel reinforced concrete and the impermeability added by a water-proofing agent which is mixed with the concrete before it is formed assures of that lasting protection you demand.

More and more people are realizing and insisting on this vital protection. These concrete burial vaults have been constructed by Trinity Memorial Park for over 15 years and they offer superior quality and protection.

The vaults are constructed of dense concrete that withstands pressures of more than 4,000 pounds per square inch. Tests have shown that this concrete increases in strength with each year that passes.

The vaults have a special feature in the Air Seal, which is a protection which allows dampness from any possible source to escape, keeping the interior in a perfectly dry condition. Rigid standards insure the quality of the concrete and the workmanship of each vault.

Because of their durability, these vaults are the preferred choice of your funeral director and cemetery director. These vaults are available through the various area funeral homes, including Big Spring, Snyder, Stanton, and Lamesa.

Employment Service Offered

Success in finding a job or in finding the right person to fill a job is better assured by consulting a professional employment service such as Big Spring Employment Agency, located in the Permian Building.

Finding the right person for the right job is the duty of Mrs. Sue Brown and Mrs. Ruby Taroni, the experienced personnel counselors at Big Spring Employment.

Each employer has the right to demand the person best qualified for the job, considering the requirements of the work, the salary to be offered and the availability of applicants.

With this in mind, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Taroni carefully evaluate each applicant before he or she is sent for an interview

The agency spends many hours screening job applicants so that employers do not waste time interviewing persons not qualified for the job opening. The agency refers only to those who measure up to the job's requirements.

Thus, fewer rejections plague the employer or applicant. The employer sees fewer people and fewer rejections make for better public relations.

Carvers Offers Customer Service

They also have a complete cosmetic counter, gifts, greeting cards and chocolate candy for somebody special at Easter.

During bad weather, or if you're in a hurry, you can simply drive up to the window of Carver's Drive-In Pharmacy and your prescription can be filled without you having to leave your car.

If you cannot get to the pharmacy, request delivery and they will come to you anywhere in the city limits of Big Spring.

Carver's is a good place to visit prior to calling on a friend in the hospital to select a greeting card, box of candy, game, toy or magazine.

They have a stunning array of beauty products at the cosmetic counter and a wide selection of perfumes.

They also are stocked with an assortment of hypo-allergenic cosmetics that are kind to sensitive skin.

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK7 ♥AK9 ♦KQ54 ♣AJ7
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
2 NT	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	4 ♣	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four hearts or four spades. Partner has shown a hand of indeterminate strength containing at least five clubs and probably a four-card major suit. Your hand is eminently suited to slam, so you should cue-bid one of your major suit holdings to encourage him to bid on. Since you have already denied a four-card major in responding to Stayman, you need not fear that partner will mistake your bid for a legitimate suit and pass.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠QJ6542 ♥754 ♦J83 ♣6
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two diamonds. Since partner has nine or ten cards in the minor suits, chances are that he can't have much in spades. If you rebid your suit instead of giving preference, partner would be entitled to expect a stronger spade holding from you. Besides, the bidding is not yet over—partner might still surprise you by showing spade support at his next turn.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable with 60 on score, you hold:
♠8 ♥KQ105 ♦873 ♣KQ954
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
2 NT	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three clubs. Partner has made a slam try, for even with a weak heart suit he would have no reason to try to "improve" the contract. You have more than enough to cooperate. Whatever your partner does next, you should jump to five hearts to show your super-maximum.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable with 60 on score, you hold:
♠J7643 ♥843 ♦95 ♣Q43
Partner opens the bidding with one diamond. What do you respond?

A.—Normally, you would not consider responding to partner's opening bid. Here, however, you have 60 on score, and even one no trump, bid and made, would give you the rubber. Thus, it is tactically correct to keep the auction open with one spade. Naturally, you intend to drop the bidding as soon as possible.

Q.5—As South, not vulnerable with 60 on score, you hold:
♠84 ♥954 ♦10763 ♣J876
Partner opens the bidding with a demand bid of two spades. What action do you take?

A.—Respond two no trump. Yours not to reason why, yours simply to respond when partner makes a forcing two-bid. The fact that you have 60 on score does not alter your obligation to keep the bidding open for at least one round. And if partner introduces a new suit at his next turn, you would again be forced to keep the auction alive.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ76 ♥AQ95 ♦J9854
What is your opening bid?

A.—Normally, it is correct to open your five-card suit, and that is the bid we would recommend if your weak five-card minor were clubs and you were void in diamonds. Here, however, a two club response to a one diamond opening bid would leave you badly placed and force you to rebid that motheaten suit. Therefore, we would treat the diamonds as a four-card suit and open the bidding with one spade, or even one heart.

Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠QJ98 ♥763 ♦AJ952 ♣6
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♥	Dble.	2 ♥	?

What do you bid?

A.—Partner's double virtually guarantees a four-card spade suit, and the bidding suggests strongly that he has no more than one heart. Your two hands fit admirably, and we suggest you bid four spades immediately. However, we would not fault you greatly if you jumped to only three spades. Take a demerit if you did no more than bid two spades, or elected to show diamonds rather than spades.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠QJ53 ♥82 ♦764 ♣9653
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
2 ♥	2 ♠	?

What action do you take?

A.—Double. In view of East's overcall, it does not look as if your hand will be of much use to your partner. Your double suggests that most of your values are concentrated in the opponents' suit and that it might be wiser to play for penalties rather than to bid on. Partner will now know that, if he contracts for game, he must have it in his own hand.

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

TUESDAY, MARCH 25, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until shortly after noon, much of the confusion and muddled thinking of yesterday morning persists, so don't be misled by false, misleading conditions. Later you find you can analyze just what is occurring about you and make some worthwhile long-range plans for prosperity.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Improve health early and plow into work to get it behind you easily. A fellow worker could depress you if you permit. Be silent and all is okay.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plans for entertainment fall through during day, but something better turns up tonight. Improve appearance. Get bills paid, work done.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You find it difficult to clear up that situation at home in a.m., but later all works out just fine, so be patient.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You may receive a letter that could be upsetting, but if you study it well, it can result in benefits for you. Use care in motion.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be careful in money matters and you get along better. Consult with an expert or adviser later in the day, since the a.m. isn't good for such.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) The a.m. is apt to be depressive but later the gloom lifts and you can get much done, be happy. See persons who help you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get boring work done and then off to more pleasant activities that you enjoy. Help a good friend, but avoid stragglers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't ask advice or favors of friends in a.m., but do so later for good results. Enjoy social life in p.m. Dress beautifully.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Take care of dull duties early so you are free when something fascinating develops later. Ask higher-up for advice later in day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You want to make some change, but wait for afternoon to be certain about decisions. Later in the day get ideas from wise person.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be accurate when working on statements and reports or you could get into trouble. Use your hunches dealing with others. Romance in p.m.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You don't understand exactly what an associate is driving at in a.m., so study it well tonight before agreeing. Don't make commitments early.

STILL BUY GEM FRISBEES FOR $2,500

Nation's Rich Feeling Recession

By LEE MITGANG

The nation's rich are feeling the recession, too. But for them, it's a recession on cat's feet: very quiet, but the claws are still there.

"I go to Europe at least three times a year, but I haven't gone this year and I may not next," says a tennis player waiting for a court at a Great Neck, N.Y., indoor tennis club.

"I hate to say it, but we've really curtailed our travel," says Mrs. Miles M. O'Brien Jr. of Grosse Pointe, Mich., a wealthy suburb of Detroit. "We had hoped to go to Aspen this year, but it just wasn't in the cards. We don't entertain as much, either."

ANTIQUE GUNS

But others with more blithe spirits still buy diamond crusted Frisbees for $2,500 at Sidney Mobell's jewelry store on San Francisco's Nob Hill. In Winnetka, Ill., women still order $450 custom-made sports jackets for their husbands.

On New York's Fifth Avenue, Cartier's jewelry store president Fred Montezinos says, "People still pick up a $175,000 piece without batting an eye." Down the street at Abercrombie & Fitch, antique guns for $8,000 to $45,000 are selling as fast as the store can stock them.

The recession is producing contradictory alterations in wealthy Americans' spending habits and lifestyles. Where cutbacks occur, they have not been particularly drastic.

NOB HILL

In Great Neck, Nob Hill, Grosse Pointe, Shaker Heights, Ohio, Philadelphia Main Line suburbs, Highland Park, Texas, and Winnetka — all among the richest communities in the nation — The Associated Press found wealthy Americans who:

—Are switching to chicken but still shop at gourmet food stores.

—Are camping on their vacations but drive to their campsites in new Mercedes Benzs.

—Take several weekend trips to Florida or Palm Springs on a moment's notice but still feel they can't afford a European trip.

The recession's impact on a wealthy family also seems to depend on what part of the country it lives in. Residents of Grosse Pointe, many of whom took their wealth from America's car craze, are cutting back more perceptibly than some other rich communities.

In wealthy Highland Park, an incorporated community surrounded by Dallas, the financial capital of the Southwest, resident Al Cooter, owner of several camera shops, asks with a smile, "Recession? What recession? Things are fine here."

BETTER TIMES

But a walk down Middle Neck Road, Great Neck's main street, reveals signs of business problems: storefronts advertising sales in clothing, books and jewelry, all of which sold effortlessly in better times in the fashion-conscious Long Island community.

Many in Great Neck made fortunes in New York City's garment district and on Wall Street, and they're now feeling the slump in both fields.

There are signs, too, that more wives in wealthy households are looking for jobs in an effort to maintain a high living standard.

Truly puzzling behavior is to be found at Great Neck's dinner tables and on those of some other wealthy areas.

The owner of Kuch's Gourmet Food Shop says business is excellent and wealthy Great Neck patrons continue to buy luxury items like crabmeat and precooked snacks.

"They're paying $5 for a cheesecake, 95 cents for a box of crackers, $1.89 for a loaf of Russian black pumpernickel bread," says Barbara Ardell, a saleswoman at the Bryn Mawr Cheese Shop on the Philadelphia Main Line.

While the rich have kept their taste for culinary knickknacks, they seem ready to economize by serving more chicken and less prime rib.

NO PATTERN

"I can see the change in just the last six months," says a butcher at Great Neck's Jays Kosher Meat Store. "Freezer orders are way down. My wealthy clients used to buy sides of beef, but now they're just taking cuts."

"My wife, Linda, is being selective in her purchase of groceries," says Shaker Heights attorney Harry J. Lehman, who represents the area in Ohio's House of Representatives. "We have cut down on steak and we have quit going out to eat one night a week. That's a saving of $30 right there."

No real pattern emerges on how top-class restaurants are faring in the recession. A survey of about a dozen expensive restaurants in the nation taken by the trade group National Restaurant Association reported that the rich are still spending big away from home.

PARTY OF FIVE

But the owner of New York's La Caravelle, Robert Meyzen, says, "Business is definitely off now, and any premium restaurant that says otherwise is probably not being frank." A meal for a party of five at La Caravelle can cost $500.

Likewise, Jerry Hurley of the National Club Association says the larger, more prestigious country clubs still are doing well. Interviews with club members suggest this is one pleasure few rich Americans are willing to sacrifice.

"What should I cut out? The golf club? I enjoy that," says Benjamin M. Gaston Jr., an insurance executive who lives on the Philadelphia Main Line.

"There has been no cutback on the number of meals served or the entertaining at our club. Last year we raised food prices 10 per cent. No one said anything," says the manager of a Winnetka country club who declined to be identified.

PRICE TAGS

On Nob Hill and in Great Neck, Cadillac sales are about level with a year ago, but down about 60 per cent from the banner 1973 model year.

But the rich are still buying big cars. American dealers of Mercedes Benz and Rolls Royce — with top price tags of $22,000 and $72,000 respectively — say sales have been good-to-excellent lately.

The children of the rich also are feeling this recession in some communities surveyed as a growing number of families trim educational plans and costs, though many are doing it voluntarily.

"Our son is in a state university. He has insisted on getting a job to help pay his way. We didn't suggest he do so. He did it on his own," said a Winnetka resident with four other children in college.

Mrs. O'Brien of Grosse Pointe says some of her friends aren't sending their children away to school as much as before.

VIOLENCE IN TEXAS

Two Electrocutions, Three Shooting Deaths

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents, as usual, drew the blame for the greatest number of violent deaths in Texas during the first weekend of spring.

The Associated Press tabulated reports of 19 fatalities between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday, including 11 on streets and highways. There also were three shootings, two stabbings, two accidental electrocutions and a drowning.

Among the victims were:

Kenny Ray Grisson, 18, of Fort Worth was killed early Sunday as a car rammed into a bridge support there. Another youth escaped with minor injuries.

Bennie Paulene Chapman, 61, was struck and killed by a car as she stepped off a curb Sunday in Houston. Police quoted witnesses as saying the woman was walking home with an armload of groceries when she was struck by the car that did not stop.

A Hawley youth, 17-year-old Timothy Earl Paxton, died Sunday afternoon when his motorcycle collided with a car about 2½ miles east of Hawley, which is 10 miles north of Abilene in West Central Texas.

Bill and Norma McElrath, were found shot to death Saturday in their North Dallas home. Police said Mrs. McElrath, 30, was shot once in the face and twice in the stomach and her husband, 39, was found with a bullet in his brain. A .25 caliber pistol lay next to McElrath's body and police said a note was found in the den. Friends said he had been despondent over financial matters.

A Pleasant Grove man was shot and killed and another man arrested after a backyard argument, Dallas police said. John L. Morgan Jr., 33, was shot in the chest during an argument over ownership of an automobile, officers said.

Dorothy Johnson, 62, of Pecos was found dead at her home Saturday with multiple stab wounds.

Raquel Ramos, 5, of Lubbock was killed Saturday when she was struck by a car in Fort Worth. The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geronimo Ramos, had been playing across the street from the home of friends and was returning when the accident occurred.

Bobby Patton, 25, of Houston was stabbed to death at Houston bar early Sunday. Police said a woman was sought.

Jimmy Wayne Adams, 23, and Otis Malco, both of Port Arthur were killed Saturday when their small foreign car and another vehicle crashed head-on between Port Arthur and Beaumont.

Cynthia Anderson and Loretta Shores of Corsicana were thrown from an overturning car and killed Saturday when the vehicle ran off Farm Road 1126 in Navarro County. Two companions, Jeffery Bonner of Waco and James R. Arp of Corsicana, were injured.

Alvin D. Moore, 33, suffered fatal injuries early Saturday when his fiberglass sports car ran off a curve and hit a utility pole at Amarillo.

A soldier stationed at Ft. Hood, Juvenal Benavides Jr., 19, of San Diego, Tex., was killed Friday night as a car went off U.S. 183 and hit a tree 11 miles south of Cuero. Daniel M. Cisneros, 18, of Corpus Christi, riding in the car with him, suffered serious injuries.

James G. Simmons, 5, was struck and killed by a truck Friday night when he tried to cross busy North Central Expressway in Dallas, police reported.

Russell J. Harrell, 44, and his daughter Roxanne, 9, were electrocuted accidentally Sunday evening on a farm one mile northeast of Hereford in the Texas Panhandle. Officers said Harrell was felled when he brushed a high voltage line with a piece of irrigation pipe and the girl died while trying to pull him clear.

Mario Reyna, 31, drowned Sunday afternoon in a pond 2¼ miles east of Los Fresnos in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. The body was recovered by his brother Carlos.

Meat Packer Must Confirm

A Tucson, Ariz. firm which purchases livestock for slaughter purposes in Arizona and in Colorado City, Tex., has been ordered to observe payment, accounting and record-keeping requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) said today.

Frederic C. French, operator of French's Western Meat Packing Co. consented to the issuance of the order, and waived oral hearing. He neither admitted or denied the charges contained in the complaint.

USDA Administrative Law Judge Dorothea A. Baker order French to cease and desist from issuing insufficient funds checks in payment for livestock; failing to pay, when due, the full purchase price for livestock; failing to pay, when due, the full purchase price for livestock, meat or meat food products; failing to issue scale tickets in accordance with official instructions. Payment for the livestock and meat have now been made.

Use Care In Return Filing

With less than a month remaining until April 15, the annual deadline for filing individual income tax returns, the Internal REvenue Service (IRS) is cautioning taxpayers to watch out for the last-minute mistakes that can delay refunds or, worse cost money.

A disporportionately large number of taxpayers traditionally wait until the final days of the filing season to send in their return, and thousands of returns come in with simple mistakes that can only be attributed to haste.

If you're working up your return now and want some advice, the IRS has experts answering toll-free phone calls from throughout North Texas at 800-492-4830.

Elderly Denture Thief Mixes Patients' Bite

DEAR ABBY: I am employed at a very large convalescent home. One of the elderly residents here lost her dentures, so with a pillow case in hand, she crept into the rooms of the other occupants while they were sleeping, and picked up each pair of false teeth from the water glasses. She then returned to her room and tried each set until she found one that fit her. She then sneakily returned any set of teeth to the water glasses.

The next morning, everyone was walking around the place with overbites and underslug jaws, complaining bitterly that their dentures didn't fit!

How do we straighten out this mess? Or must we buy new dentures for 100 residents?

DENTURE DILEMMA

DEAR DILEMMA: Call in a dentist and ask him to examine the mouths of the patients and the dentures, in order to return them to their rightful owners. I am told that denture-marking kits are available. Get one, and use it, before another teeth thief gums up the works again.

DEAR ABBY: What do the experts say about children sleeping with their parents in case of divorce? Please be explicit.

I have been keeping company with a 44-year-old divorced man for three years. He has three daughters, aged 13, 11 and 8, and he feels it is all right for them to sleep with him until the age of 10 or 11. I don't.

When the girls visit him overnight, they ask to sleep with him, and he sees nothing wrong with it. The 11-year-old shared his bed until only recently, and the 8-year-old still does. The little one is seeing a psychologist weekly, and her mother is seeing a psychiatrist regularly, which I hope is beneficical to both.

My friend is a very kind and sensitive man who would not intentionally hurt anyone, but I feel that he is off his mark with regard to bed-sharing. What do you say?

WANTS TO KNOW

DEAR WANTS: I agree that a father should not encourage daughters of this age to share his bed. Not only could this have conscious (or unconscious) sexual overtones for the father as well as for the daughters, but it also tends to foster a dependency in the children that is not in their best interests.

The fact that one of the daughters is in therapy underscores these points, but they could be equally true for the daughter not in therapy. At the very least, I would expect that this "well-meaning" father would check this matter out with his daughter's therapist.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

North-south winners were Mrs. J. D. Robertson and Mrs. John Stone, first; Mrs. Henry Bell and Mrs. Morris Rhodes, second; Mrs. E. L. Powell and Mrs. Charles Tompkins, third; and Mrs. James Raoul and Mrs. Hayden Griffith, fourth.

In the east-west position, high tallies went to Mrs. Elvis McCrary and Mrs. Ray McMahen, first; Mrs. W. B. Gill and Mrs. Elmo Wasson, second; Mrs. R. E. Dobbins and Mrs. W. J. Harris, third; and Mrs. Hayes Stripling and Mrs. E. O. Ellington, fourth.

Surprise! Some Things Cheaper

Bargain hunters take note: statistics show that almost 2 per cent of the items on the government's Consumer Price Index actually cost less today than they did eight years ago.

Seamless nylon hose, multiple vitamin compounds, portable tape recorders, super 8 movie cameras and two types of drugs were cheaper last month than during the 1967 base period used by the goverment.

Another five items, including television sets, portable radios and golf balls, have increased less than 10 per cent in eight years.

Before you cheer too loudly, however, you might want to note that the same statistics show 19 items — about 5 per cent of the total — have more than doubled in price since 1967. Sugar leads the way, costing almost five times what it did eight years ago, with more than half the increase occuring in 1974.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, which compiles the Consumer Price Index, also provides a detailed breakdown of what is happening to the price of 301 of the 396 products checked.

For the purpose of comparison, the price in the 1967 base period is used to represent 100 per cent. A January 1975 index of 110, therefore, means something costs 10 per cent more than it did in 1967; an index reading of 90 shows a 10 per cent decrease.

Over-all, without adjustment for seasonal variations, the Consumer Price Index for January stood at 156.1. That means prices have risen 56.1 per cent since 1967 or, put another way, it costs $156.10 to buy the goods and services you could have purchased for $100 eight years ago.

Most of the price decreases have occurred because of improved manufacturing techniques that cut production costs, such as in the electronics industry. Increased competition also has forced price cuts in some areas, like women's nylon hose.
