Council mulls texting, bag bans at retreat

■ Two problems likely will be addressed at regional meeting with Odessa and Andrews.

By Kathleen Petty
Staff Writer

If Midlanders will be banned from texting while driving or carrying groceries home in plastic bags, it won't happen for at least a few more months.

During the second day of its two-day planning retreat, the Midland City Council agreed both issues are items it would like to address on a regional level during a joint meeting with Odessa, Andrews and possibly other towns.

"We probably need to do something, and we probably need to do something with Odessa because the minute you drive out of town, a different law would be in place," said John James, councilman for District 3. "I like the idea of taking these initiatives and taking a more regional approach."

Several council members said they favor a texting while driving ban because they believe it's become a public safety issue. Eliminating plastic bags from use in the public sector is something several said they're not ready to require at this point.

"Leave plastic bags alone, and let's try to pick up trash," said Scott Dufford, councilman at-large.

Coming Sunday

The council discusses its vision for the future of the MDC and 4B sports complex tax.

Dufford said he supports examining whether to increase its optional litter abatement fee or allocating it differently to address the trash problem. He and others said eliminating plastic bags would solve only part of the litter problem. Plus, it could be a hindrance to grocery stores and restaurants.

Dufford, who broached the issue of texting while driving in October, said it's an problem he wants the city to vote on soon and then leave behind, regardless of whether a ban passes.

"We just ought to make a call," he said.

NM agrees to protect habitat in the Basin

■ Deal will reserve land for the dunes sagebrush lizard and prairie chicken.

By Susan Montoya Bryan
Associated Press

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — New Mexico on Friday signed a conservation agreement with the federal government to protect more than 387 square miles of habitat for two species that have been the focus of a bitter battle among environmentalists, politicians and oil and gas developers in New Mexico and West Texas.

New Mexico Land Commissioner Ray Powell said the agreement represents a "monumental step" toward finding a way to protect the lesser prairie-chicken and dunes sagebrush lizard while allowing for oil and gas development to continue in the Permian Basin.

"We've had enough of the circular firing squads," Powell said during a signing ceremony attended by biologists, project managers and others from state and federal agencies who have worked for nearly a decade to line up conservation agreements with oil companies, ranchers and private land owners.

With New Mexico signing on, nearly 248,000 acres are being added to the conservation effort. Officials with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service said that is the largest area to be set aside by a single state as part of a conservation agreement.

In all, 29 oil and gas companies and 39 ranchers have enrolled in the effort in New Mexico to cover more than 2.5 million acres.

No Grinch here: Library celebrates Dr. Seuss' birthday

He's said to have coined the words "nerd" and "grinch." He wrote a book on a bet using only 50 words.

Theodor Seuss Geisel, aka Dr. Seuss, would have turned 108 on Friday. In honor of his birthday, staff at the Midland County Public Library decorated the children's area with "Cat in the Hat"-themed objects and decor and served popcorn and birthday cake. Some of his books were read to the more than 100 children who attended the party.

Children who participated stopped by the crafts station to make their own paper "Cat in the Hat" hat and received a goodie bag.

Crete Isbell stopped at the library with her 4-year-old granddaughter, Kady, and 5-year-old grandson, Jack, before they went to see the latest Dr. Seuss story, "The Lorax," on the big screen.

Isbell said she hopes the trips to the library will encourage her grandchildren to read and love books as much as her children did.

Weekly US oil, gas rig count up 8 to 1,989

The number of rigs actively exploring for oil and natural gas in the U.S. is up eight this week to 1,989.

The Houston-based oilfield services company Baker Hughes Inc. reported Friday that 1,293 rigs were exploring for oil and 691 for natural gas. Five were listed as miscellaneous. A year ago this week, Baker Hughes reported 1,707 active rigs.

Of the major oil- and gas-producing states, Texas and North Dakota each gained six; Oklahoma was up three; and California, New Mexico and Wyoming one each.

Colorado declined by four and Louisiana three. Alaska, Arkansas and West Virginia were unchanged.

British arms-to-Iran suspect seeks release on bond

A retired British businessman accused of trying to sell missile parts to Iran asked a federal judge in Texas on Friday to release him on bond, agreeing to comply with any measures the court deems fit to ensure he doesn't flee.

Christopher Tappin, 65, is accused of trying to buy specialized batteries for surface-to-air Hawk missiles for $25,000 from undercover American agents, with the intent to export them to Iran.

Federal judge Robert Castaneda is expected to announce his decision Monday.

Tappin was escorted into the courtroom wearing an orange-red prison jumpsuit, with his feet and one hand shackled. U.S. Marshals allowed the other hand to remain free so Tappin could use a cane he needs to walk.

2 pilots home after detainment in Panama

Two Houston pilots are back in the United States after they were detained for 10 months in Panama during a money laundering investigation.

Kenneth Chonoski and Carl Moody were conditionally released and allowed to temporarily return home on Thursday. Both were arrested last May on suspicion of money laundering after landing a private jet in the Central American country.

The Houston Chronicle reported customs inspectors found $2.3 million in the bags of a passenger from Honduras.

After their arrests, the men were eventually transferred to penitentiary where each lost about 20 pounds, and neither could speak Spanish.

Man freed in East Texas stabbing wants DNA testing

A man who served more than 20 years in prison for the killing of an East Texas woman and who took a plea deal to avoid a fourth murder trial has called for new DNA testing that he believes will prove his innocence.

Kerry Max Cook twice was sentenced to death for the 1977 rape and killing of 21-year-old Linda Jo Edwards, of Tyler. Courts overturned both convictions. In 1999, Cook agreed to plead no contest to murder in Edwards' death in exchange for a sentence of time served, which allowed him to go free. A no contest plea is not an admission of guilt but is treated as such for the purposes of sentencing.

San Antonio condemned killer loses federal appeal

A San Antonio man condemned for killing one woman in 2001 and linked to the slayings of two young girls seven years earlier has lost a federal court appeal.

Forty-year-old Ramon Hernandez argued his confession was involuntary when he was tried for the rape-slaying of 37-year-old Rosa Rosado, who was abducted from a San Antonio bus stop. Hernandez also contended his legal help at trial was deficient.

Following his arrest for Rosado's death, DNA tied him to then-unsolved murders of 13-year-old Sarah Gonzales and 12-year-old Priscilla Almarez. The girls left a friend's home on an afternoon in December 1994. The next day they were found strangled and dumped along a road.

The rejection late Thursday from the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals moves Hernandez a step closer to execution.

Man could receive 20 year sentence for child pornography

A 56-year-old man has pleaded guilty to a federal child pornography charge after officers recovered three thumb drives containing tens of thousands of sexually explicit images.

Domingo Castellon was booked into jail Jan. 23 on a drug paraphernalia possession charge. While at the jail, officers retrieved thumb drives from his front pants pocket containing 45 still images and movies of child porn. Authorities said Castellon acknowledged that the thumb drives were his. The desktop computer he used to acquire the images was seized during a search of his Fort Worth home.

Castellon pleaded guilty Friday to one count of possessing visual depictions of a minor engaged in sexually explicit conduct. Sentencing is set for June 15. He could receive 20 years in prison.

Border Patrol exchanges fire across Rio Grande

Border Patrol agents making a drug seizure near the border west of Roma have exchanged gunfire with smugglers in Mexico.

The Border Patrol said in a statement late Thursday that one day earlier agents were nearly run over by vehicles loaded with marijuana near the banks of the Rio Grande. Agents fired at the drivers, and then gunmen across the river began shooting at them. The agents returned fire across the border. No agents were injured, but it was unknown whether anyone on the Mexican side was hit.

Agents found nearly 4,000 pounds of marijuana, but the drivers of the vehicles escaped.

Rosendo Hinojosa, chief patrol agent, said assaults on agents would not be tolerated and agents would continue to respond with appropriate force.

MCALLEN

9 guilty in scheme to get ransom for immigrants

Nine people have pleaded guilty in connection with a scheme to hold 18 illegal immigrants for ransom in a South Texas apartment.

The U.S. attorney's office said brothers Juan De Dios Cedillo-Narvaez and Luis Fernando Cedillo-Narvaez, both Mexican citizens in the U.S. illegally, pleaded guilty Friday in McAllen to conspiracy to commit hostage taking. Seven others pleaded guilty to conspiracy to harbor illegal immigrants.

The investigation began in September when a relative of one of the immigrants contacted authorities after receiving a ransom call. The tip led authorities to Mission. Eventually they found an apartment where immigrants from Ecuador, Guatemala and Honduras had been forced to call relatives to ask for money.

The Cedillo-Narvaez brothers face up to life in prison. Sentencing is scheduled for May 16.

Jewish school wins reset playoff game

Associated Press

Associated Press

Beren Academy players huddle around head coach Chris Cole, center, in the final timeout of a high school semifinal basketball game against Covenant on Friday in Fort Worth. Beren Academy won 58-46 in a game that was rescheduled so it wouldn't conflict with the Sabbath. The Texas Association of Private and Parochial Schools made the change after first rejecting appeals from Beren Academy to move the game.

FORT WORTH — A boys basketball team from an Orthodox Jewish school in Texas advanced to the state championship Friday in a game that was rescheduled after parents filed a lawsuit to ensure it wouldn't conflict with the Sabbath.

Beren Academy beat Dallas Covenant 58-46, a little more than 24 hours after finding out they would play. A crowd of about 100 relatives and friends of the Houston team, who scrambled to make travel arrangements Thursday afternoon, stood and cheered in the final seconds.

"It's great — absolutely hard to describe," team co-captain Isaac Buchine said after the game. "To find out (before the rescheduling) that other people would be playing in our spot didn't sit well ... but we focused on the basketball aspect of it."

The game was originally set for Friday night after the sunset that opens the Sabbath. Beren students say their faith prohibits participation between sunset on Friday and sunset on Saturday.

The Texas Association of Private and Parochial Schools, or TAPPS, had initially rejected Beren Academy's requests to reschedule the game. The league relented after several parents filed a federal lawsuit seeking a temporary restraining order requiring TAPPS to move the game time.

Buchine said word quickly spread among the players at school on Thursday as they shouted, gave each other high-fives and started sending text messages to their teammates and other friends. Then the players had to go home and pack for the unexpected 250-mile van ride to Fort Worth.

> "We're ready. When you've been through adversity, it pays off."
> — ISAAC BUCHINE, Team captain

The school will play in the championship game tonight. The team will have about an hour to get ready and warm up beforehand.

"We're ready," Buchine said. "When you've been through adversity, it pays off."

Mark Mirwis, who was among a handful of parents who filed the suit, said it was unpopular but that he discussed it with his son, the team's co-captain and point guard Isaac Mirwis, before making the decision.

"It wasn't about the game per se ... but asking, 'What does God want us to do?'" Mark Mirwis said.

Rick Guttman, Beren's school board vice president, said the league's other teams were accommodating throughout the season in rescheduling Saturday games at Beren's request. Only when Beren reached the semifinals and league officials got involved did a problem arise, but he hopes that won't happen in the future, he said.

"I think the teams want to compete at the highest level," said Guttman, whose son plays on the team.

Dallas Covenant's coach, Chris Shelton, said that his school had no problem with the game being rescheduled and that his team was "happy to be playing today, to still be playing in March."

Storms kill at least 24 people in 3 states

Associated Press

HENRYVILLE, Ind. — Powerful storms leveled small towns in southern Indiana, transforming entire blocks of homes into piles of debris, tossing school buses into a home and a restaurant and causing destruction so severe it was difficult to tell what was once there. As night fell, dazed residents shuffled through town, some looking for relatives, while rescue workers searched the rubble for survivors. Without power, the only light in town came from cars that crawled down the streets.

From the Gulf Coast to the Great Lakes, the storms touched nearly all walks of life. A fire station was flattened. Roofs were ripped off schools. A prison fence was knocked down and scores of homes and businesses were destroyed. At least 24 people were killed, including 14 in Indiana and nine in Kentucky, and dozens of others were hurt in the second deadly tornado outbreak this week.

It wasn't immediately clear how many people were missing.

The threat of tornadoes lasted until late Friday for parts of Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana and Ohio. Forecasters at the National Weather Service's Storm Prediction Center said the massive band of storms put 10 million people at high risk of dangerous weather.

"We knew this was coming. We were watching the weather like everyone else," said Clark County, Ind., Sheriff Danny Rodden. "This was the worst-case scenario. There's no way you can prepare for something like this."

In Henryville, the scene was eerie and somewhat chaotic. Cellphones and landlines were not working. Hundreds of firefighters and police zipped around town. Power lines were down, and cars were flipped over. People walked down the street with shopping carts full of water and food, handing it out to whoever needed it.

Terry Brishaber said his uncle's mobile home was gone.

"I don't see any remnants. I don't know where it's at," he said.

Aerial footage from a TV news helicopter flying over Henryville showed numerous wrecked houses, some with their roofs torn off and many surrounded by debris. The video shot by WLKY in Louisville, Ky., also showed a mangled school bus protruding from the side of a one-story building and dozens of overturned semis strewn around the smashed remains of a truck stop.

"I'm a storm chaser, and I have never been this frightened before," said Susie Renner, of Henryville.

Andy Bell was guarding a demolished garage until his friend could get to the business to retrieve some valuable tools Friday night. He looked around at the devastation, pointing to empty lots between a Catholic church and a Marathon gas station about a block away.

"There were houses from the Catholic church on the corner all the way to the Marathon station. And now, it's just a pile of rubble, all the way up," he said. "It's just a great ..."

His voice trailed off, before he finished: "Wood sticks all the way up."

An Associated Press reporter in Henryville said the high school was destroyed, and the second floor had been ripped off the middle school next door. Authorities said school was in session when the tornado hit, but there were only minor injuries there.

Classroom chairs were scattered on the ground outside, trees were uprooted and cars had huge dents from baseball-sized hail.

Ruth Simpson, of nearby Salem, came to the demolished town right after the storm hit, looking for relatives that she hadn't been able to find.

"I can't find them," she said, starting to cry, and then walked away.

The rural town about 20 miles north of Louisville is the home of Indiana's oldest state forest and the birthplace of Kentucky Fried Chicken founder Col. Harland Sanders.

Ernie Hall, 68, weathered the tornado inside his tiny home near the high school. Hall said he saw the twister coming down the road toward his house, whipping up debris in its path.

He and his wife ran into an interior room and used a mattress to block the door as the tornado struck. It destroyed his car and blew out the picture window overlooking his porch.

"I knew there was some bad weather out in the Midwest that was coming this way, but you don't count on a tornado hitting here that bad," he said.

Forecasters at the Storm Prediction Center said the spate of storms was unusual.

"Maybe five times a year we issue what is kind of the highest risk level for us at the Storm Prediction Center," forecaster Corey Mead said. "This is one of those days."

Cincinnati-Northern Kentucky International Airport was closed temporarily because of debris on the runways, but one of three runways had reopened by late afternoon. A fire station was flattened and several barns were toppled in northern Kentucky across the Ohio River from the badly damaged Indiana towns.

Terry Sebastian, a spokesman for Kentucky Gov. Steve Beshear, said five people were killed in two counties Friday. A coroner in the southeastern Kentucky's Laurel County said late Friday four more died in the storms there, bringing the total number of weather deaths in the state for the day to at least nine.

One person also died in Ohio. Emergency officials in Lee County, Va., said crews were searching for a man and woman after a tornado reportedly destroyed a home there.

The outbreak also was causing problems in Alabama and Tennessee where dozens of houses were damaged. It comes two days after an earlier round of storms killed 13 people in the Midwest and South.

At least 20 homes were ripped off their foundation and eight people were injured in the Chattanooga, Tenn., area after strong winds and hail lashed the area. To the east in Cleveland, Blaine Lawson and his wife Billie were watching the weather when the power went out. Just as they began to seek shelter, strong winds ripped the roof off their home. Neither was hurt.

"It just hit all at once," said Blaine Lawson, 76. "Didn't have no warning really. The roof, insulation and everything started coming down on us. It just happened so fast that I didn't know what to do. I was going to head to the closet, but there was just no way. It just got us."

Thousands of schoolchildren in several states were sent home as a precaution, and other schools never opened. The Huntsville, Ala., mayor said students had to take cover as severe weather passed in the morning.

"Most of the children were in schools, so they were in the hallways, so it worked out very well," said Huntsville Mayor Tommy Battle.

An apparent tornado also damaged a state maximum security prison about 10 miles from Huntsville.

Powerful storms stretching from the Gulf Coast to the Great Lakes flattened buildings in several states, wrecked two Indiana towns and bred anxiety across a wide swath of the country in the second powerful tornado outbreak this week.

Powerful storms delay tourneys

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — A strong storm front that stretched from the Gulf Coast to the Great Lakes caused a tornado warning Friday that delayed the Ohio Valley Conference women's basketball tournament and forced the crowd into the basement of the Municipal Auditorium for shelter.

The nearby Southeastern Conference women's tournament also was delayed.

A Nashville emergency spokeswoman said fans at the OVC tournament were told not to leave after the first women's semifinal and instead to seek shelter inside the auditorium.

Play stopped between Eastern Illinois and Tennessee Tech with 6:09 left. Fans and teams were taken to the basement exhibit level for shelter in a 40-minute delay.

SEC officials delayed the start of the second half between Tennessee and Vanderbilt for 30 minutes, though 8,954 fans stayed in their seats inside the Bridgestone Arena.

Today in history

Today is Saturday, March 3, the 63rd day of 2012. There are 303 days left in the year.

Today's highlight:

On March 3, 1931, President Herbert Hoover signed a congressional resolution making "The Star-Spangled Banner" the national anthem of the United States.

On this date:

In 1849, the U.S. Department of the Interior was established.

In 1923, Time magazine, founded by Briton Hadden and Henry R. Luce, made its debut.

In 1945, the Allies fully secured the Philippine capital of Manila from Japanese forces during World War II.

In 1991, motorist Rodney King was severely beaten by Los Angeles police officers in a scene captured on amateur video.

One year ago: Seeking to repair damaged relations, President Barack Obama and Mexican President Felipe Calderon agreed during a White House meeting to deepen their cooperation in combating drug violence and declared a breakthrough in efforts to end a long-standing dispute over cross-border trucking.

MCSO says man arrested in gang rape

By James Cannon
Staff Writer

A Midland man was arrested Thursday on sexual assault charges for a gang rape that allegedly occurred on Feb. 18, the Midland County Sheriff's Department said.

Mireles

The 39-year-old woman told authorities that Edward Martin Mireles, 38, and two other men — whom have yet to be identified — assaulted her at a residence on the 1200 block of South Fairground Road.

Mireles remains in custody on a $50,000 bond for the second-degree felony charge of sexual assault.

The woman told investigators she went to the residence to talk to Mireles about ending their relationship. He also was going to tattoo her, according to the arrest report.

The woman told investigators that when she arrived at the house, Mireles forced her into a bedroom. Mireles then allegedly forced her to perform sexual acts on him and another man at the same time and then on a third man, according to the report.

Mireles then allegedly brought the woman to his house and told her he was leaving to bring back men she would have sex with, according to the report.

Before he returned, the woman called authorities. A sexual assault examination was performed and corroborated the woman's statements and the multiple injuries she received during the attack.

Midland deputies have not arrested or identified the other men allegedly involved in the incident.

If Mireles is convicted, he could serve up to 20 years in prison for the second-degree felony of sexual assault.

Judge refuses to halt Sunland Park election

Associated Press

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — A state district judge in Las Cruces on Friday refused to delay Tuesday's mayoral elections in the troubled border town of Sunland Park despite a report from the secretary of state alleging widespread voter fraud.

State District Judge Susan Riedel denied the highly unusual request from Dona Ana County District Attorney Amy Orlando, saying the "burden of proof the state has to prove of irreparable damage was not met," Riedel said.

The judge also said because the election was still a few days away, election officials could step in to make sure it runs smoothly.

Orlando sought the delay after receiving a report from Secretary of State Dianna Duran that showed at least six Texas residents from El Paso had already cast ballots in the race.

First candidate files for 238th District Court

The filing period remains open through 6 p.m. Friday.

Democrats interested in filing for election can call David Rosen, chairman of the Midland County Democratic Party, at 683-2773.

Republicans interested in filing for election can call James Beauchamp, chairman of the Midland County Republican Party, at 940-9100.

mother's footsteps; he loves to read Dr. Seuss books, too.

While cake was served and children gathered for the story time in the center of the children's area, Isbell's two grandchildren sat around a table and collected books from the shelves and read them aloud.

"I like to read the books," Jack said when asked what his favorite part of the party was.

Every half hour between 4 and 5:30 p.m., children gathered to hear one of Dr. Seuss' books read aloud. For the second segment, Midland County Commissioner Luis Sanchez entertained the group with "The Ear Book."

For Zulema Gabaldon, a library staff member, the celebration was a way to get many of the children in the area excited about reading.

"We encourage reading all the time. The whole purpose (of the party) is to get people to know about the library, what it entails and what it has to offer — like characters like Dr. Seuss," she said.

While she hoped the birthday party would provide a segue for many parents to introduce their children to Dr. Seuss before watching the new "The Lorax" movie in theaters, she said it was good to know that Dr. Seuss had not been forgotten and was still on everybody's minds.

"The main idea is not to forget who Dr. Seuss was," Gabaldon said.

LIZARD

the agency recently approved a similar program in West Texas and landowners are starting to sign up.

"We believe these agreements are producing real results," she said.

Having more people on the ground monitoring the two species also has helped give the agencies and landowners a better idea of how many prairie-chickens and lizards are out there and which areas include the best habitat.

The agency is expected to decide this summer whether to list the lizard as an endangered species. The prairie-chicken has been on the waiting list since 1998.

With conservation agreements, Nicholopoulos said energy developers and landowners take voluntary steps to protect habitats for the two species. In exchange, the agency agrees not to require more conservation efforts if the species were to be added to the federal list.

Nicholopoulos said saving the prairie-chicken and lizard are important because the two are indicator species that can signal changes in the environment. Learning more about those changes and how to adapt will ensure future generations can continue to benefit from the region's resources, she said.

The listing of the lizard has been a hot button issue for U.S. Rep. Steve Pearce, R-N.M., and some elected officials in Texas. They're concerned a listing would mean curtailed development and job losses across the Permian Basin, which makes up a large chunk of New Mexico's oil and gas industry and accounts for more than two-thirds of Texas' total oil production.

Pearce said Friday he looks forward to reviewing the details of the agreement.

"My issue is whether a listing is warranted. I believe it is not," he said. "I hope this agreement with the state, in addition to the one already in place with the counties and locals, will be taken seriously by (Interior) Secretary (Ken) Salazar before making a rush to judgment on a listing in June."

Powell said protection of the environment and energy development should not be viewed as mutually exclusive. He pointed to the industry as an economic driver and contributor to the trust that funds education, hospitals and other state initiatives.

"The bottom line is by creating this partnership and working with private landowners and the industries that are so important to the prosperity of the state, we're going to make sure we take care of the health of all species while we generate revenues and maintain good jobs in New Mexico."

COUNCIL

Because drivers are increasingly texting or reading text messages while on the road, Dufford said it's behavior he would like to eliminate.

Mayor Wes Perry, who initially said education might be more effective than a ban, said he is moving toward Dufford's viewpoint. Texting is continually an issue and one residents want the council to address.

"People are expecting us to take a position on this," he said. "For us not to do something is shirking our responsibility."

James and Michael Trost, councilman for District 4, said they would prefer to implement a distracted driving ordinance that addresses texting and other activities because there are several things that can detract from focused driving.

"Distracted driving is more a broad term," Trost said.

If Odessa and other towns favor banning only texting, both James and Trost said it's something they could consider. They would prefer a more encompassing approach to keep drivers safe.

Jerry Morales, councilman at-large, said if texting while driving is banned, he wants to ensure Midland police can enforce it.

City Manager Courtney Sharp said police could look at an ordinance. He added that MPD's data show cellphones are not the major cause in traffic accidents. Of the 3,012 accidents in 2011, only 19 — or about 0.006 percent — were related to cellphone use, Sharp said.

"The statistics aren't there," he said.

Jeff Sparks, councilman for District 1, said the statistics may not support a ban because cellphone use as the cause of accidents is likely underreported.

Sharp said texting, plastic bags and possibly other issues are on the agenda for a joint council meeting planned for the spring.

If Odessa doesn't act on texting while driving — or if it enacts a plastic bag ban — Midland council members said that doesn't mean they'll follow suit.

Members said they want to tackle the topics, as much as is possible, on a regional level so residents won't have completely different ordinances whenever they enter a new West Texas town.

City leaders approve 2013 disposable bag ban

The Austin City Council has approved a ban on disposable plastic and paper bags at checkout counters for retailers.

The ban approved early Friday takes effect next March.

Reusable bags that are allowed include those made of cloth, durable materials or thicker paper and plastic bags with handles.

The ban has exemptions, including single-use bags for newspapers, bulk foods and carry-out items from restaurants. Charitable groups relying on single-use bags to distribute food and other assistance are also exempt.

Supporters of the disposable bag ban raised trash and other environmental concerns.

NEW MEXICO

12 people treated in Eddy County rabies outbreak

State health officials say 12 Eddy County residents have received a series of rabies shots in the most concentrated outbreak of the viral illness in New Mexico in decades.

Thirty-two pet dogs have been euthanized this year in the Carlsbad area, most after tangling with rabid skunks. Health officials told the Albuquerque Journal they have confirmed rabies in 22 skunks and a fox in Eddy County.

Each year, about 50 to 70 New Mexicans receive post-exposure treatment for rabies. But, health officials are alarmed by the concentration of 12 treatments in a single county within two months.

The cause of the outbreak appears to be a combination of a large skunk population and the region's extended drought forcing skunks to look for food in areas where there are people and pets.

Impact of state anti-abortion laws hard to gauge

Associated Press

When lawmakers take aim at abortion, they draw on an ever-growing arsenal of restrictions and mandates imposed on women, doctors and clinics.

But, do these measures reduce abortions? It's a question with no simple answer.

Abortion providers and abortion-rights advocates say many of the laws — those requiring ultrasounds, waiting periods and specific types of counseling — are burdensome and demeaning but rarely dissuade women who want the procedure.

"The reality is that if a woman has decided that's what right for her, she'll do whatever it takes to get it done," said Peter Brownlie, CEO of Planned Parenthood of Kansas and Mid-Missouri.

However, when the laws boost the cost of an abortion — and are coupled with bans on any public funding — there can be a real impact.

"Overall, the informed consent laws have no deterrent effect," said Tracy Weitz, a sociologist at the University of California, San Francisco who has studied the laws.

"But, in states where Medicaid doesn't pay for the abortion — and that gets piled on with the other regulations — we do think it's having an effect on women's ability to access affordable services," Weitz said. "They really disproportionately hurt people already economically on the edge."

Michael New, a political science professor at the University of Alabama, estimates that bans on use of Medicaid funds have reduced the incidence of abortion by about 8 or 9 percent. The impact of the informed consent laws — including waiting periods and mandatory counseling — is less pronounced, New said.

One challenge for researchers is a lack of current data. The most recent national statistics are from 2008, when there were an estimated 1.21 million abortions in the U.S., down from a peak of 1.6 million in 1990.

Scores of bills aimed at deterring abortion have been passed since 2008, mostly by Republican-controlled legislatures and often based on proposals from anti-abortion groups. Last month, Virginia's GOP Gov. Bob McDonnell backed away from a bill requiring women to undergo an invasive vaginal ultrasound prior to abortion after the measure drew protests at the statehouse and ridicule on late night comedy shows. An alternative requiring non-invasive ultrasounds is now headed back to McDonnell, and similar bills are pending in Alabama and Idaho.

Yet, amid the outcry over the original Virginia bill, Texas has been enforcing a similar law enacted last year that makes vaginal ultrasound a precondition for many abortions. The law also requires that the women hear their doctors describe the fetus' development during the ultrasound, and then wait 24 hours before undergoing the abortion.

Abortion-rights supporters in Texas doubt that the images and information provided by that process will dissuade many women from having abortions. However, they say the law nonetheless could be a deterrent because of cost factors — women now need to make two trips to a clinic and will occupy more of their doctors' time.

"The price of the procedure has increased with some of the providers — and there's the cost to women of taking more time off from work," said Houston attorney Shailey Gupta-Brietzke, who helps oversee the Lilith Fund, a program assisting women who can't afford abortions on their own.

Dr. Curtis Boyd, who operates the Southwestern Women's Surgery Center in Dallas, said the new law has forced him and other abortion providers to raise prices, generally by $50 to $75 per procedure.

Boyd, a full-time abortion provider since the 1970s, said ultrasounds are routinely performed before abortions. But he resents a mandate being imposed by legislators and says his patients — many of them already mothers — are unlikely to change their mind due to an ultrasound.

"Women know they're pregnant and it's going to result in the birth of a baby," Boyd said. "That's why they come, because at this time in their life, they don't want to have a baby."

Associated Press

Oklahoma state Rep. Mike Reynolds, R-Oklahoma City, speaks Thrusday during a news conference held by Personhood Oklahoma in Oklahoma City. The group, which wants to ban abortions in Oklahoma, is launching a signature drive with the goal of amending the state Constitution to define a fertilized human egg as a human being. When lawmakers take aim at abortion, they draw on an ever-growing arsenal of restrictions and mandates imposed on women, doctors and clinics.

Yelp shares surge 63 percent in stock market debut

Yelp's stock opened to five-star reviews from investors on Friday, soaring 63 percent even though the company has yet to prove it can make money from its online recommendations.

After Yelp's initial public offering priced at $15, the shares gained $9.52 to close at $24.52 in their trading debut. In an indication of the strong investor interest in the 8-year-old reviews site, the IPO sold above its targeted range of $12 to $14 per share.

It's the biggest first-day gain for an Internet IPO since online real estate service Zillow Inc. surged 79 percent in its stock market debut last July. Yelp's gain wasn't the biggest for an IPO so far this year, though. Those bragging rights still belong to Proto Labs Inc., a Maple Plain, Minn.-based provider of customized parts. Proto Labs' shares soared 81 percent in their first day of trading a week ago.

Yelp's IPO is the latest in a series of Internet stock offerings that are serving as a prelude to Facebook's coming out party on Wall Street this spring. Facebook's IPO is expected to raise at least $5 billion and anoint the owner of the Internet's largest social network with a market value ranging from $75 billion to $100 billion.

Sara Lee spinoff to distribute $4.6B in stock

DOWNERS GROVE — Food company Sara Lee Corp. said Friday that its shareholders will get stock valued at up to $4.55 billion when it spins off its international coffee and tea business later this year.

The coffee and tea business, which includes brands such as Senseo and Pickwick Teas, will also move its headquarters from Utrecht to Amsterdam in the second half of the year in part to be close to key Western European markets.

"With over 250 years of history, the coffee and tea business has solid market positions and deep roots in many European markets," Sara Lee Executive Chairman Jan Bennink said in a statement.

Feel cheated? Small claims court brings big wins

Associated Press

NEW YORK — If you feel cheated by a big company and complaining gets you nowhere, what can you do? A handful of recent cases suggest that consumers can, if they're motivated enough, win against big companies in small claims courts.

These "David versus Goliath" battles were won against the likes of AT&T, Honda and others, without resorting to lawyers. The plaintiffs paid minor filing fees, gathered their own research and presented arguments in quick hearings that resemble the average "Judge Judy" episode.

And now, thanks to the Internet, these victors are connecting with other consumers in hopes of helping them replicate their successes. If the practice catches on, it could amount to a big bucks difference in payouts by these giant corporations.

"It is a significant undertaking," said Heather Peters, of Los Angeles, who sued Honda because her Civic Hybrid didn't meet its claims for gas mileage. She won $9,867 last month.

"But with the Internet, it's a whole different world," said Peters, a former lawyer who just reactivated her license. "It just takes one or two people like us who are the anal-retentive, compulsive people to do all the work, and are magnanimous enough to say: 'Here you are! Go get 'em. You do it, too!'"

Other success stories include Matt Spaccarelli, of Simi Valley, Calif., and Henry Brown, of New York, who both sued AT&T Inc.

Brown won $1,587.50 in October after suing the telecommunications giant for frequently dropping his wireless calls and charging him an early termination fee when he wanted to get out of his contract.

Spaccarelli was awarded $850 last week after successfully suing AT&T for slowing down the data service on his iPhone when he hit a limit for downloads, even though he had an "unlimited data" plan.

Peters and Spaccarelli have put up websites that feature copies of the documents they used in court.

Peters said hundreds of people have expressed interest, and she knows of at least six consumers who have filed cases. Dozens of people have contacted Spaccarelli, and he recently filed suit on behalf of his brother, who has the same problem with his iPhone.

Their victories aren't necessarily final. Honda said it will appeal Peters' award, and AT&T is appealing Spaccarelli's. But, the new hearings basically will be reruns of the first ones. They will feature similar and relatively informal rules. There's no way the companies can use their resources to take a small claims case to a jury trial and force the consumer to rack up enormous legal fees.

The small claims process is by no means easy. For Brown and Spaccarelli, the hearings were harrowing. They felt intimidated by AT&T's representatives. AT&T's lawyer postponed Brown's hearing three times before agreeing to a hearing date, months after the suit was filed.

"He was just so vicious, and it actually scared me. I actually said to the judge, 'I don't feel safe sitting next to him. He's just on the full attack,'" Brown said. The judge was sympathetic but told Brown that lawyers don't have to act nice: "This isn't a tea party," he was told.

Peters started her case because she was dissatisfied with a class-action settlement in the works over the same issue — the Honda Civic Hybrid's gas mileage. That settlement would give Civic owners $100 to $200 each, plus a rebate on a new Honda. Peters made out much better.

Should companies be scared of consumers heading to small claims courts? A quick calculation shows they should be concerned.

Honda's proposed class action settlement might cost the carmaker $40 million, if every one of the 200,000 Civic Hybrid owners claimed the maximum amount. But, if all of the owners went to small claims court and fared as well as Peters, the company would be out nearly $2 billion.

"If corporations see a large number of people going to small claims, it might cut off their ability to have these relatively cheap dispositions of class actions," said Richard Cupp, a law professor at Pepperdine University in Malibu, Calif.

While corporations have been fighting class actions, they don't seem very concerned about self-help justice through small claims. Paying off a few brave souls who head to small claims or arbitration is cheaper than settling class action suits.

"How many people would really do this?" Spaccarelli asks. "I'm just kind of pig-headed."

Companies encourage consumers to take their gripes to small claims courts. A clause in AT&T's contract forbids customers from pursuing a jury trial or a class action. It points them instead to small claims court or arbitration. AT&T scored a victory on behalf of many companies when the Supreme Court upheld the clause last year.

"We strongly believe that small claims and arbitrations are viable options for concerned customers," AT&T spokesman Mark Siegel said. "With over 100 million customers, we expect to receive complaints from time to time, and we know that, in a few of those cases, a small claims judge or an arbitrator might make a decision that we think is wrong. That's OK."

There is scant data on the number of small claims cases filed in the U.S. each year or on the number of cases that feature consumers suing big companies. A study by the National Center for State Courts, published in 1992, found 40 percent of cases in the 12 courts studied were consumer complaints. The same study found that 67 percent of individuals that sued businesses or government agencies won their cases.

Citigroup says chairman to step down

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Richard Parsons, who was named chairman of Citigroup in 2009 just after the bank accepted $45 billion in federal bailouts, will step down from the position, the bank said Friday.

The bank said Michael O'Neill, a Citi board member and the former CEO of Bank of Hawaii Corp., was expected to succeed Parsons. The Citi board will elect a chairman at the bank's annual shareholder meeting in April.

Parsons, 63, the former CEO of Time Warner, has a reputation as a skilled negotiator, diplomat and crisis manager and is one of the most prominent black executives in corporate America.

When he was named chairman in January 2009, the Citi board faced intense criticism for having invested so heavily in the housing market. Some analysts on Wall Street saw Parson's chairmanship as a continuation of the same supervisory lapses from the board.

Parsons was also an economic adviser on President Barack Obama's transition team, and others saw it as a sign that Citi needed his diplomatic skills at a time when the government had become the bank's largest shareholder.

Citi, the country's third-largest bank by assets, was the last major bank to repay bailout loans after the financial crisis. It made $11.3 billion last year after losing a combined $40 billion in 2008 and 2009. The government sold the last of its stake in the bank in 2010.

In a statement, Parsons said the bank "still faces a challenging environment, as do all the large banks, but the crisis is behind us." CEO Vikram Pandit said the bank had returned to "a position of strength among its peers" under Parsons' stewardship.

Citi stock, which lost 3 cents Friday to close at $34.10, lost an additional 6 cents in after-hours trading.

Parsons worked in the White House under President Gerald Ford. He was rumored as a potential candidate to succeed New York Mayor Michael Bloomberg, before Bloomberg sought and was elected to a third term in 2009, but declined to run.

US Justice Dept loses 3 big secrecy court rulings

The U.S. Justice Department has lost three significant court rulings on open records, including a rare order to turn over a classified document.

The rulings have been issued recently by judges in federal district court in Washington. Two have ruled that protecting the privacy of congressmen is not enough reason to withhold records about corruption investigations of the lawmakers.

The third judge ruled the U.S. Trade Representative must turn over a position paper prepared during negotiations for a Free Trade Agreement of the Americas. The Justice Department had argued that disclosure of the document would damage foreign relations since it agreed with other nations in the negotiations that it would not be publicly released.

The judge said the arguments for secrecy were not plausible or logical explanations.

NY congressman: NJ gov took 'cheap shots' at NYPD

Obama joins in assailing Limbaugh slur

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Stepping into an emerging culture clash over women, President Barack Obama made a supportive phone call Friday to a law student who testified before Congress about the need for birth control coverage, only to be called a "slut" by Rush Limbaugh.

For Obama, it was an emphatic plunge into the latest flare-up on social issues. Democratic officeholders and liberal advocacy have accused Republicans of waging a "war on women" because of GOP stances on contraception and abortion rights, and Limbaugh's tirade on his radio talk show was seen as an escalation.

In addition to her call from the president, the third-year Georgetown University law student, Sandra Fluke, was backed by members of Congress, women's groups, and the administration and faculty at her Roman Catholic university.

Demands for Limbaugh's sponsors to pull their ads from his show rocketed through cyberspace, and at least three companies, Quicken Loans and bedding retailers Sleep Train and Sleep Number, bowed to the pressure.

Obama considers Limbaugh's remarks "reprehensible," according to White House spokesman Jay Carney. He said the president called Fluke to "express his disappointment that she has been the subject of inappropriate personal attacks" and to thank her for speaking out on an issue of public policy.

"The fact that our political discourse has become debased in many ways is bad enough," Carney said. "It is worse when it's directed at a private citizen who was simply expressing her views."

Obama reached Fluke by phone as she was waiting to go on MSNBC's "Andrea Mitchell Reports."

"What was really personal for me was that he said to tell my parents that they should be proud," a choked-up Fluke told Mitchell. "And, that meant a lot because Rush Limbaugh questioned whether or not my family would be proud of me. So I just appreciated that very much."

By calling Fluke and injecting himself into the Limbaugh controversy, Obama sent a message to more than one law student. He was reaching out to young voters and women — two groups whose support he needs in this re-election year. He was underscoring that the White House, despite bungling its rollout of the birth control policy, sees it as a winning issue and welcomes Obama's name next to it.

Fluke was given a chance to talk to Congress on Feb. 23, even though lawmakers were on a break and just a few Democratic allies were on hand to cheer her on. The previous week, a Republican-controlled House committee had rejected Democrats' request that she testify on the Obama administration's policy requiring that employees of religion-affiliated institutions have access to health insurance that covers birth control.

Republicans have faulted parts of Obama's health care reform as unconstitutional, including an initial requirement, since withdrawn by the president, that contraceptives be covered under the insurance policies of businesses, including those with religious affiliations.

Fluke said that Georgetown, a Jesuit institution, does not provide contraception coverage in its student health plan and that contraception can cost a woman more than $3,000 during law school. She spoke of a friend who had an ovary removed because the insurance company wouldn't cover the prescription birth control she needed to stop the growth of cysts.

On Wednesday, Limbaugh unleashed a lengthy and often savage verbal assault on Fluke.

"What does it say about the college coed ... who goes before a congressional committee and essentially says that she must be paid to have sex?" Limbaugh said. "It makes her a slut, right? It makes her a prostitute. She wants to be paid to have sex."

He went on to suggest that Fluke distribute sex tapes of herself.

"If we are going to pay for your contraceptives, and thus pay for you to have sex, we want something for it," he said. "We want you post the videos online so we can all watch."

Soaring cost estimate prompts health law doubts

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Cost estimates for a key portion of President Barack Obama's health care overhaul law have ballooned by $111 billion from last year's budget, and a senior Republican lawmaker on Friday demanded an explanation.

House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dave Camp, R-Mich., wants to know by Monday why the estimated cost of helping millions of middle-class Americans buy health insurance has jumped by about 30 percent for an eight-year period, from 2014-2021.

Administration officials said the explanation lies in budget technicalities and that there are no significant changes in the program that would raise concerns.

Cost estimates for new government programs can be wide off the mark. For example, the actual cost of President George W. Bush's Medicare prescription drug benefit came in lower than estimated, so it wasn't as big a drag on federal finances as initially forecast.

Cost overruns for the health care overhaul could create new political problems for Obama by undermining the law's promise to reduce federal deficits.

Iran leader urges strong 'message' from elections

Associated Press

TEHRAN, Iran — Iran's supreme leader told voters it was their patriotic duty to cast ballots in parliamentary elections Friday to send a message of national unity during a "sensitive period" in the showdown with the West over Tehran's nuclear program.

The results for the 290-seat parliament, expected today, will have no direct influence over Iran's nuclear program or other critical affairs, such as military or oil policies. But, the new parliament is expected to boost the voices of hard-liners and give Iran's leadership a stronger hand in shaping the bigger election next year: picking a successor to President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad..

The voting across Iran — from the chilly shores of the Caspian Sea to the warm Gulf — also highlighted the devastated state of reformists and political opposition groups after nearly three years of nonstop crackdowns. Only a handful of liberal-leaning candidates were among more than 3,440 parliament hopefuls — all vetted by Iran's ruling Islamic system — and none had links to the Green Movement that led protests after Ahmadinejad's disputed re-election in June 2009.

That left the main drama of the elections as a contest between various conservative factions, which have lost the coalescing force of the opposition and now are battling among themselves. The main divide is over Ahmadinejad, who faced punishing measures after daring to challenge the near-total authority of Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei last year.

Some ultraconservative blocs in the parliament races seek to show fealty to Khamenei and further slap Ahmadinejad, who is in his second four-year term, the maximum under Iran's term limits.

Ahmadinejad's allies hope to give him a political rebound and a chance — although diminishing — of having a protege as his successor. The Ahmadinejad foes appeared to have the upper hand in the final weeks of the campaign.

Khamenei, who has final say on all state matters in Iran, said it was a "duty and a right" for every eligible Iranian to vote. He described Iran as moving into "a more sensitive period" in its confrontations with the West.

On Monday, U.S. President Barack Obama is scheduled to hold White House talks with Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu. Israel has been outspoken about possible military options against Iran's nuclear program, which the West and others fear could eventually lead to atomic weapons development. Iran says it seeks reactors only for energy and medical research.

The U.S. has urged allies to give time for Iran to feel the full weight of sanctions, which now target its ability to conduct international banking and sell oil.

In an interview with the Atlantic magazine published Friday, Obama warned that a premature military strike might inadvertently help Iran. "At a time when there is not a lot of sympathy for Iran and its only real ally (Syria) is on the ropes, do we want a distraction in which suddenly Iran can portray itself as a victim?" he asked.

Egyptians angry about US NGO case

Associated Press

CAIRO — Egypt's ruling generals faced a backlash Friday over the departure of Americans on trial over charges that their pro-democracy groups fomented unrest, with the country's powerful Muslim Brotherhood and others accusing military leaders of bowing to pressure from Washington.

Six of the Americans left Egypt a day earlier after a travel ban against them was lifted, easing a heated diplomatic dispute over the case between longtime allies Cairo and Washington. The moves to prosecute the Americans have sparked U.S. warnings of cuts in the more than $1 billion in aid given to Egypt every year.

Their departure came after days of intense behind-the-scenes negotiations between U.S. and Egyptian officials trying to resolve the worst crisis between the two countries in decades.

But, it raised an outcry at home against the military, which took power in Egypt after ousting President Hosni Mubarak.

The Muslim Brotherhood, which controls nearly half of seats in parliament and has emerged as the strongest political group since Mubarak's fall, said there was "clear interference" in Egypt's domestic affairs and in the work of the judiciary.

The Brotherhood's spokesman, Mahmoud Ghozlan, said that he believes the United States pressured Egypt's ruling military council to ensure the Americans return home before the case is concluded and the judicial process runs its course.

"The former regime was subservient to the United States. Until now the military council cannot understand that there was a revolution and continues the same policies of answering to Washington," Ghozlan told the Associated Press.

The dispute is rooted in a crackdown by Egyptian officials on pro-democracy and human rights groups. In December, Egyptian security raided offices a number of the groups, including four American ones — the International Republican Institute, the National Democratic Institute, Freedom House and a group that trains journalists. Officials said the groups were suspected of accepting foreign funds to stir up unrest.

Midland High coach Barry Russell warned that any team that didn't bring it's A-game against Andrews was making a big mistake, and the Mustangs, one of two Class 3A teams in the Apache Tournament of Champions, nearly made an example of his team Friday.

But the Bulldogs held off Andrews after a fast start thanks to timely hits and a nice bullpen effort in a 7-5 win at Citibank Ballpark.

The win gave Midland High (5-6) a split on its two games Friday, as the Bulldogs' rally effort fell short in an 8-6 loss to Grapevine in their first game of the day at Zachery Field.

Midland High made sure it wasn't going to have to play from behind against Andrews early by scoring five runs in the first two innings.

"I didn't know how we were going to respond (to the Grapevine loss)," Russell said "It's a growing experience every single inning for us, so I was excited to put some runs on the board."

Midland High vs. Lee

- When: Noon today
- Where: Grande Communications Stadium

Motivation has never been a problem when the Lee and Midland High boys soccer teams play each other, but today that rivalry might take a back seat to just winning.

While Lee's playoff status is a little more secure than the Bulldogs, both teams head into today's noon game at Grande Communications Stadium not worrying as much about the rivalry as they are about winning to gain precious points in the District 3-5A standings.

But that doesn't mean that beating a rival isn't important, either.

"They are playing well, there is no doubt about it," Lee coach Scott Hicks said of Midland High. "But sometimes in this game, you are unlucky and they know what they have to do and step No. 1 is to come out and beat us. That starts their chances of making the playoffs."

Lee helped its playoff chances with a convincing 3-0 victory against rival Odessa High last Saturday, and was able to take Tuesday off. That victory helped the Rebels move to 4-2-0-1 in District 3-5A with 13 points and moved into third spot.

That victory also included a tweak to Lee's formation the Rebels went from a 3-5-2 to a 4-4-2 and it paid dividends on the scoreboard, but more importantly with the team's confidence.

"It ended up working out good for us, and I think we might've had a little spark, a little fire," Lee senior midfielder Colyn Moore said. "That's the formation we've played with on our club team most of our life, and we felt a little more comfortable with it. Where we had players and the players' roles that worked better in that formation."

Midland High, meanwhile, has lost back-to-back games by identical 1-0 scores to Odessa Permian and San Angelo Central and finds itself mired in sixth place in the standings at 2-5-0-1 with seven points. A loss today doesn't necessarily knock the Bulldogs out of playoff contention, but with four games remain-

Midland High vs. Lee

- Where: Grande Communications Stadium

Today marks the first time this season that the Midland High girls soccer team will head into a district game coming off a loss.

The Lady Bulldogs didn't suffer a regulation loss on Tuesday against San Angelo Central, but it was a shootout loss that still stung late in the week. Plus, it was the first time in District 3-5A play this season Midland High suffered a setback.

And as if the league-leading Lady Bulldogs didn't have enough motivation to keep their seven-game winning streak against Lee alive, now they have the added incentive of proving Tuesday's loss was just an aberration.

"I think we kind of have something to prove, and show them that we are not a worse team because of (the loss)," Midland High senior Savannah Ross said. "Just because we lost one game doesn't mean we are going to lose another."

The two rivals will meet for the final time during the 2012 regular season at 2 p.m. today at Grande Communications Stadium, and Midland High's playoff status is essentially set. Now the Lady Bulldogs (13-6-1 overall, 6-0-1-1, 21 points in 3-5A) are

Lee's Rackow has busy weekend with track, soccer

By Jonathan Hull
Sports Writer

On Friday, Tori Rackow competed on the sideline of a soccer field. Today she'll be running around directly on it.

Rackow started a pretty busy weekend for herself Friday, competing in and winning silver for Lee in the triple jump at the Tall City Relays at Memorial Stadium. But, that's just the beginning for Rackow, who is also playing in an important soccer match against crosstown rival Midland High at 2 p.m. today at Grande Communications Stadium.

And, while Rackow knows she will definitely be worn out by the time Sunday comes around, the junior wouldn't have it any other way.

"After all that, I'm pretty worn out," said Rackow, who is a junior at Lee. "I just like doing both of them. I really love track and I'd just rather get right into it. It's really awesome of my soccer coach (Brian Pollard) to let me come out and do this. He doesn't mind as long as I play hard, and I always play hard."

But, what Rackow is doing this weekend, isn't nearly as impressive as what she pulled off last weekend. A week ago Friday. Rackow went with the Lady Rebels track team to the New Braunfels Invitational and led it to a second-place finish in the team standings. Rackow scored the most points for the Lady Rebels, medaling in five events. She won gold in the triple jump, silver in the long jump and bronze in the 100 meters. Rackow also won another silver and bronze medal with the 400- and 800-meter relay teams.

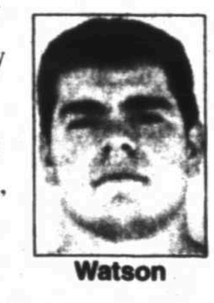
Midland High's Watson wins discus event

By Jonathan Hull
Sports Writer

Gold medals no longer interest Dutton Watson. The Midland High senior has his sights set on much larger accomplishments. Like a trip to Austin.

Watson picked up his second gold medal of the young track and field season Friday, winning the discus at the Tall City Relays at Memorial Stadium with a throw of 163 feet, 11 inches. And, while the defending District 3-5A discus champion is glad to pick up a gold medal at his home meet, Watson wasn't nearly satisfied, either.



Watson

"I'm happy, but I feel like if I'm going to get to state then I need to throw better," Watson said. "That's the whole goal this year. I'm putting the gold medals aside and just want to get to state."

Watson comfortably won the event with a distance that was 26 feet, 1 inch further than his closest competition in Xavier Jones of Odessa Permian. Watson had four throws that were better than Jones' best toss.

Watson set the top mark early with a throw of 155 feet in the preliminary round. In his last attempt of the preliminaries, Watson pushed it out to 160 feet, then cleared 163 feet with his first throw of the finals. On his second to last attempt, he reached the winning mark of 163-11 before scratching on his final try.

And while any other competitor in the event would be thrilled with Watson's winning distance, it wasn't good enough for the Midland High senior. But, that's expected after he cleared a

A Lee loss today does not necessarily take Lee out of the playoff race, but it will jumble up the race for the final three playoff spots. Odessa Permian clinched a playoff spot with its victory on Tuesday. "We can probably afford to lose this game more so than they can," Hicks said. ... The Bulldogs are in sixth place with seven points and three points behind fifth-place Odessa High and six behind Central and Lee. Midland High coach Warren Cottle said his squad still has 12 points left on the table, and if it can put together some scoring with how they've been playing on defense, he said they will be a dangerous team. "We've got a little unlucky and now we fix it," Cottle said. "The boys have played very well, and are playing at a high rate. If we get those 12 points I don't think we have a problem making the playoffs." ... Lee scored three unanswered goals in its victory against the Bulldogs on Feb. 7 at Grande.

Notes & Quotes: The Lady Bulldogs suffered their first setback in district play on Tuesday against San Angelo Central with a shootout loss, but MHS still has a six-point lead over the Lady Bobcats in the 3-5A standings heading into the final four games of the season. ... Tuesday also marked the second time during the league season that Midland High had allowed a goal during regulation. The Lady Bulldogs have allowed two goals in regulation in eight district games. ... MHS co-head coach Joe Horn said Tuesday was a learning experience for his team in regards to how to deal with officiating, and senior Savannah Ross said it also helped the squad realize they have to stay focused no matter how the game is called. "With the officials, we've got to learn that if we feel like something is being unfair we can't let it get to us," Ross said. "We just have to learn to keep our composure." ... Lee, meanwhile, won its second district game last Saturday against Odessa High and kept its playoff hopes alive. The Lady Rebels, though, still have some work to do to get into the playoffs as they are six points behind fifth-place Odessa Permian and six behind fourth-place Odessa High.

ing on the district slate it would be tough for the Bulldogs.

"We're not thinking about playoffs right now, and just taking it one game at a time and trying to do our best," Midland High senior Michael Wynne said.

Midland High coach Warren Cottle said his club has been playing well but has suffered some bad luck, with at least two shots ringing off the goal in San Angelo on Tuesday.

But Cottle added that sometimes you have to make your own luck to be successful.

"The team is still in great shape and we have 12 points left on the table," Cottle said. "We've got a great shot. I'm pretty excited about the way we are playing and I don't think anybody has beat us as far as technically. I think we are better than any team we've played."

trying to finish off another district title.

Tuesday's loss did turn some heads across the district, but Lee coach Brian Pollard said that Midland High will be ready for the Lady Rebels regardless of what happened on Tuesday.

"Against us, they are always dangerous," Pollard said. "They could be undefeated on the year, or winless on the year, and they will come in with extra motivation against us."

After a day off on Tuesday from games, and coming off a 4-0 blowout victory against Odessa High last Saturday, the Lady Rebels have as much confidence at this point in the season as they have all year.

Plus, Lee is a team that is playing for its playoff life as it is mired in sixth place with a 2-5-0-0 and 6 points in 3-5A play. The Lady Rebels are six points behind fifth-place Odessa Permian and seven behind the fourth-place Lady Bronchos.

"I don't feel like it's a must-win, but it's something that we have to push for and go for," Lee senior Kendeal Stark said.

Stark said the first half of league play where the Lady Rebels finished 1-5 was frustrating, but after a team meeting to air out differences, Stark said the team has been playing better and has better chemistry.

Pollard also noticed the change, and it's made a difference the last few games and he's hoping that change will be enough to carry Lee into the playoffs.

"We have nothing to lose now," Pollard said. "Five losses will get us in the playoffs, and there is no way that five losses would keep us away. If we get to six losses it's a coin flip and we don't control our own destiny anymore."

Midland High's destiny, meanwhile, is still to be determined, but even after a tough week with its first loss of the year, Midland High coach Joe Horn said it's still Lee and that's plenty of motivation for the team.

"It's getting to the dog days of the season, you know you have aches and all that stuff and the practices aren't as fast paced as they used to be," Horn said. "You can tell they are still giving it a lot of effort, and I haven't seen in my two years here them not show up for Lee."

IceRays hurt Jacks with late power-play goal

From staff reports

IceRays	3
Jackalopes	2

ODESSA — Corpus Christi's Jonathan Grebosky scored a power-play goal less than four minutes into the third period and it proved to be the difference in a 3-2 victory for the IceRays against the Odessa Jackalopes on Saturday.

The Jacks built a 2-1 lead in the second period on the strength of two Tyler Minx goals. Lawrence Cornellier and Jared Docken assisted on Minx's first goal, and then Josh Obregon and Mikko Virtanen provided the helpers on the second goal.

But the IceRays scored the final two goals of the game as Al Jarosz scored on the power play late in the second period to tie the game.

Corpus Christi was able to increase its lead over the Jacks in the NAHL's South Division standings to seven points with the victory. The IceRays are in fourth place in the division with 50 points, and Odessa is tied for fifth with 43 points. The top four teams in each division make the NAHL playoffs.

The two teams will meet at 7:05 p.m. today in the second of two games at the Ector County Coliseum.

MLB expands playoff format from 8 teams to 10

By Ben Walker
Associated Press

NEW YORK — With less than a month to go before opening day, baseball at last decided who's in and who's out come October.

Now, even a third-place team can win the World Series.

Major League Baseball made it official Friday, expanding the playoff format to 10 teams by adding a wild-card club to each league.

"I hope we get that extra spot," said new Houston Astros general manager Jeff Luhnow, whose team is coming off a 56-106 finish that was the worst in the majors. "I think it's great any time you have more markets involved."

Who knows, maybe a rookie such as Bryce Harper will get that shot this year.

"Cool," the 19-year-old Washington sensation said after a game against college kids. "It's great. Hopefully, we're that playoff team."

Boston and Atlanta sure could've used this setup last year. They went through awful collapses in September that eventually cost them playoff spots on the final day of the season.

"I think the more, the merrier," new Red Sox manager Bobby Valentine said. "I think for the fans, the players, the energy at the end of the season, I don't mind. What would it be, a third of the teams? I think it'll be good."

Darvish pitches shutout inning in Texas squad game

Associated Press

SURPRISE, Ariz. — The mere presence of Yu Darvish on the mound made this more than an ordinary day at camp for the Texas Rangers.

Intrasquad games normally draw few fans with mostly scouts, wives, families, girlfriends and club officials in attendance.

That was certainly not the case Friday. The stands were nearly full, people were standing and more than 100 members of the media attended.

Most everyone came to see Darvish, the Japanese star who's starting his first season with the two-time AL champions.

The 25-year-old, 6-foot-5 righty did fine. He struck out Elvis Andrus while throwing a hitless third inning. The sound of a horde of cameras shuttering with every one of his 21 pitches drowned out the thud of the ball hitting the mitt of catcher Dusty Brown.

"My fastball life and the quality are not even close at all to season form," Darvish said through a translator. "At this time every year my fastball quality and feel are not good. We still have a month to go."

Darvish is scheduled to pitch again March 7 against San Diego.

Chaps split doubleheader to open WJCAC season

Chaps	4-5
Westerners	1-13

SNYDER — The Midland College baseball team split its first doubleheader of the Western Junior College Athletic Conference season on Friday by defeating Western Texas College 4-1 in the first game, before losing the second 13-5.

Barlow

Westerlund

Sophomore right-hander Levi Westerlund was solid on the mound in the first game as he pitched a complete game, allowed one earned run on four hits and struck out six.

Tyler Barlow led the Midland College offense by going 4 for 4 with an RBI, while Joel Atkinson had a double and scored a run for the Chaparrals.

Errors hurt the Chaps (12-6, 1-1 in WJCAC) in the second game as they committed all five of their miscues in the six-run first inning for Western Texas (6-11, 1-1).

The Westerners had a 7-0 lead before MC responded with four runs in the third. However, WTC invoked the run-rule after the seventh inning with three runs in the fifth and sixth innings.

Nick Salois (1-2) took the loss for MC.

Barlow once again had a nice game at the plate by going 2 for 4 with a run scored. Steel Russell was 1 for 2 with an RBI, a run scored and two walks.

The series switches to Christensen Stadium on Sunday with the doubleheader beginning at 1 p.m.

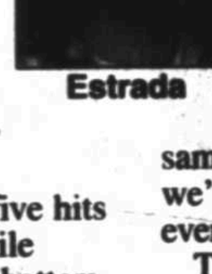
Lady Chaps' winning streak snapped at 21 games

From staff reports

LONGVIEW — Midland College's winning streak is over at 21 games following a 3-2 loss to Angelina College at the Region XIV Crossover Tournament on Friday.

Rios



Estrada

The Lady Chaparrals opened the day with a 3-1 victory against Galveston Community College to extend their winning streak to 21 games. Against Galveston, the Lady Chaps got a strong effort from pitcher Yolanda Rios, who allowed one unearned run on five hits and no walks, while striking out three batters.

Camille Hampton had a two RBI double in the sixth, while Diana De La Paz also had an RBI double in the same inning.

The Lady Chaps held a 2-0 lead heading into the bottom of the sixth inning against Angelina after Gee Estrada hit a solo home run — her 12th of the year — in the top half of the frame. But Angelina made it 2-1 in the bottom of the sixth and put together a two-out rally in the bottom of the seventh, stringing together four hits to pull out the win and end MC's win streak.

"It's actually something we hadn't really been talking about much," MC coach Tommy Ramos said. "We've just been focusing on consistency and effort, bringing energy to the game. I think we had a little letdown in that seventh inning and they put hits back-to-back. Tomorrow is another day. We'll try to refocus and bring that same energy and effort we've been bringing every game."

The Lady Chaps (21-2) take on Alvin Community College at 9 a.m. today.

WOMEN'S SQUAD FINISHES SEASON WITH LOSS

WICHITA, Kan. — In the final game of her career, Tammy Acosta, a Midland High grad, scored a game-high 23 points, but was one of only two players to score in double-figures as The University of Texas of the Permian Basin fell, 76-65, to Arkansas-Fort Smith in the opening round of the Heartland Conference Tournament.

Not only did Acosta lead the team in scoring, she dished out four assists, making her the school's all-time leader in that category with 536 in her illustrious four-year career.

Brock, Garciaparra elected to College Baseball HOF

LUBBOCK — Former major league All-Stars Lou Brock and Nomar Garciaparra are among seven players and coaches elected to the College Baseball Hall of Fame.

Joining Brock and Garciaparra on Friday were former big leaguer Brad Wilkerson, former Wisconsin-Oshkosh shortstop Tim Jorgensen and a trio of coaches: Lewis-Clark State's Ed Cheff, Arizona's Frank Sancet and current Rice skipper Wayne Graham.

The college hall, run by the Lubbock-based College Baseball Foundation, focuses solely on nominees' collegiate careers. This year's group, the seventh to be inducted, will be honored June 30 in Lubbock.

ERRORS COST LEE IN LOSS TO EL PASO MONTWOOD

Lee seemed well on its way to its third victory Friday in the Apache Tournament of Champions, but errors allowed El Paso Montwood to stay in the game and eventually erase a four-run deficit in a 12-8 Rams win that lasted six innings at Ernie Johnson Field.

The Rebels fell for just the second time this season, as Montwood, which trailed, 5-1, after two innings, scored 11 unanswered runs in the next five innings, thanks largely to eight errors by Lee in the game.

"We've got to get better — that's all there is to it," Lee coach Hector Limon said. "We can't commit that many errors and beat a good team, it doesn't matter how good we think we are — we're not going to be able to commit that many errors and get away with it continually."

Luke Stice, who went 3 for 4 with two RBI on the day, put Lee up, 5-1, in the second on an RBI infield single.

But Montwood didn't blink, scoring a run in the third, then 10 runs in the next three innings, including a five-run fifth inning, to blow the game open.

Lee will close the tournament at Citibank Ballpark today, playing Grapevine at 1 p.m. and Canyon Randall at 7 p.m.

EL PASO TEAMS REMAIN HOT IN DAY TWO

El Paso Franklin, El Paso Montwood and El Paso Hanks each turned in impressive victories Friday, going a combined 6-0 on the second day of the Apache Tournament of Champions.

Franklin and Montwood carried momentum from Thursday into Friday, as Franklin followed up a win against Lubbock Estacado in its first game Thursday with wins against Plainview and Amarillo Tascosa on Friday.

Montwood lost its first game of the tournament against Canyon Randall, but has now won three straight after defeating Odessa Permian in its second game Thursday, then beating Lubbock High and tournament-host Lee on Friday.

Hanks split two games Friday and defeated Grapevine and Permian on Friday.

ODESSA HIGH, WINLESS IN DAY ONE, GOES UNDEFEATED ON DAY TWO

Odessa High saw its fortunes change Friday, following up a winless opening day with two impressive wins on the second day of the Apache Tournament of Champions.

The Bronchos lost by a combined eight runs to El Paso Hanks and Plainview on Thursday but gutted out a 1-0 win against Canyon Randall at Ernie Johnson Field then beat Wolfforth Frenship 8-2 at Christensen Stadium to go undefeated Friday.

The Bronchos close the tournament at 10 a.m. today against Amarillo Tascosa at Christensen Stadium.

BULLDOGS

heading into the bottom of the second, the Midland High bats came to life when a leadoff walk by Alex Mata and consecutive hits by Grant Edmondson and Michael Dominguez gave Midland High a 3-1 lead and Dominguez an RBI on his only hit of the night.

A walk and a base hit by Jake Parrish then set the stage for Ryan Whittenburg, who crushed a two-run double over the head of Andrews centerfielder Shane Dolgener, giving Midland High a 5-1 lead after two innings.

Midland High went up 6-1 in the next inning when Travis Sims scored on a Mata fielder's choice, but as Russell stated before the tournament, Andrews was game.

The Mustangs finally got to Mata in the fourth after Mata allowed just two hits in the first three innings and struck out four.

Kyle Buck got the scoring started when he crossed the plate on a wild pitch to make it 6-2 before Braden Martin slapped an RBI single to right, scoring Dolgener, then Christian Marquez scored on the same play on a throwing error by Lance White.

Just like that, Andrews had pulled within 6-4, a score that held heading into the fifth inning.

That's when Jeremy Hallmark entered the game and pitched two scoreless innings while striking out three batters, getting out of jams in both innings with a runner in scoring position.

"(I just wanted to) get up there and throw strikes and get outs," Hallmark said.

Andrews finally got a run off Hallmark in the top of the seventh on an RBI double by Buck that made it 7-5, but Will Taylor came in and promptly retired the next two batters to end the game.

Hallmark said the win was encouraging after the disappointing Grapevine loss, and Russell agreed. But Russell said his team can't afford to make the simple mistakes it made in the game that allowed Andrews to get within striking distance.

"We've just got to get smarter — we are making too many dumb mistakes," Russell said. "I know everybody says we're young and everything, but we're making baseball 101 mistakes — there's no call for that."

Midland High finishes the tournament today with games against Lubbock High at 1 p.m. at Christensen Stadium and against Lubbock Estacado at 4 p.m. at Zachery Field.

And Hallmark said he believes that his team has what it takes to overcome the mistakes that have plagued it early in the season.

"We've just got to come together as a team, just block everything else out and play baseball," Hallmark said.

Thomas, Lee get off to good start

By Len Hayward
Sports Editor

Lee's Libby Thomas came off the course on Friday a little frustrated with her round.

But when the Lady Rebel junior had a chance to look at the scoreboard, her frustration turned to elation when she saw how well her Lady Rebel teammates played on Friday.

Thomas' 1-over par 72 on Friday during the first round of the Midland Girls Golf Invitational at Green Tree Country Club was enough to give her the lead in medalist standings, while her Lee team was tied for fifth in the team standings at 343.

"My team did great, and I'm excited," Thomas said. "I've very proud of them, and I knew we could do it. It was a positive mental attitude and a home course advantage (that made the difference)."

Thomas will take a two-stroke lead into today's final round at Hogan Park Golf Course's Quail Course and said that she left some shots on the course, and had some struggles with her putter.

But what frustrated her most was the chance to play in good weather on her home course.

"Every time I had a downhill putt, I'd leave it a lot further than what I had before," Thomas said. "I hit it by so much it was frustrating, but I made a few coming back."

Along with Thomas' 72, Talyn Standard shot an 82 and Leah Schwope a 99, Sara Pitts 93 and Emily White 96. It was the first time this season that Lee did not have a player be at or over 100.

Plus, among the District 3-5A teams at the tournament, Lee was second, five strokes behind San Angelo Central.

"We have a lot of work to do, but this is really going to push us closer to hopefully competing well in district," Lee coach Blain Huddleston said. "That's two weeks in a row that (Standard) has stepped up."

Lee is 32 strokes behind tournament-leader Andrews, who shot a 312 and whose lowest score on the day was an 87. Three Andrews players — Sarah Black, Kalli Jennings and Whitlee Woods — all carded 76s, with Hailey Burgen coming in at 84 and McKenzie Long 87.

The Lady Mustangs are 16 strokes ahead of second-place and defending champion El Paso Eastwood and 23 strokes ahead third-place El Paso Coronado.

"What was nice about today is getting to play without having three or four layers of clothes on," Andrews coach Mark Burgen said. "It's so much easier to play golf in shorts and a short sleeve shirt. I was pleased with the way our girls had battled today. It'd been a while since the fall when we had a really solid tournament round."

Midland Christian was seventh after the first day with a 350 as freshman Christian Curnutte was in third after a 4-over par 75 on Friday.

"I played pretty good but my putting was off," Curnutte said. "I'm not disappointed in the way I played, but at the same time I'm not satisfied."

Midland High, meanwhile, was in 13th with a 384, as Madeline Coffman led the Bulldogs with a 91.

MIDLAND ISD GIRLS TOP TWO IN SHOT

The Girls Division I shot put ended up featuring a pair of Midland ISD girls at the top of the standings. Lee senior Kristen Galindo won her first varsity gold medal with a throw of 35 feet, 10.75 inches. That effort was just better than Midland High sophomore Jaquita Cannon's mark of 35-01.75, which delivered a silver medal to Cannon.

SMALL SCHOOL BOYS DOMINATE DI 3,200

Two athletes from small schools running up in division placed in the top two of the Boys Division I 3,200 race. Trinity's Christian Farris took the two-mile's gold medal with a time of 9 minutes, 58.45 seconds, while Crane's Zachary Daniel was second at 10:16.08.

Both runners are their respective team's lone representative in Division I with the rest of their teammates all running in Division III. Farris and Daniel will have a chance to repeat that performance in the 1,600 today.

LEE'S SHELTON TAKES GOLD IN LONG JUMP

In an event that took hours to complete, Lee senior Josh Shelton emerged victorious in the Boys Division I long jump with a leap of 21 feet, 5 inches. Shelton was a mere two inches better than second place Justin Saddler of Central.

Shelton will have a chance to add more hardware to his tally today as he's slated to compete in the long jump as well as the 800 and 1,600 relays.

DIVISION II BOYS FIELD SMALL, BUT COMPETITIVE

There may be just five teams in the Boys Division II field, but all five teams — Plainview, Lubbock Estacado, Hereford, Abilene Wylie and Midland Christian — carry a strong track tradition and have made for a competitive field despite the lack of numbers.

While Midland Christian won two of the four events completed Friday with David Parkhurst claiming the high jump title and Bryson Taylor winning the discus, Plainview currently sits atop the Division II team standings with 43 points. Midland Christian is second with 37.

CENTRAL GIRLS VAULT INTO 1ST IN TEAM STANDINGS

San Angelo Central's Dinha Callejas, Brittany Patterson and Cari Whittenburg each finished first, second and third, respectively, in the pole vault, putting the Lady Bobcats into first place in the team standings with 29 points.

But, despite Central occupying all three spots on the pole vault medal stand, the Lady Bobcats hold a narrow margin over the Lee girls heading into Saturday. The Lady Rebels sit in second with 24.5 points.

DIVISION I BOYS RACE TIGHT

The San Angelo Central boys lead the Division I team standings after four events, but Odessa Permian and Odessa High are not far behind. Central has 26 points in first place heading into today with Permian in second with 23 and Odessa High right behind with 22.

Four different schools had the gold medal winner in Friday's four events, showing how even the field was over the first day of competition.

personal-best 180 feet at the Tiger Relays in Wolfforth just a week ago.

"I'm trying to stay in the 180 range," said Watson, who has signed to play football at the University of North Texas in the coming fall. "I feel like that's the range I need to stay in to compete for state."

Watson has advanced to the Region I-5A Championships the last two years, but has failed to make it beyond that point and hasn't even won a medal in the regional discus competition. He's already focused on changing that.

"It's all going to all come down to regionals," Watson said. "I've been there twice and I've choked both times. I can't choke again."

RACKOW

From 1B

Competing in five events makes for a full day. But, Rackow was just getting started. She then made it back to Midland and traveled with the Lady Rebels soccer team to Odessa, where she scored a goal and also picked up an assist in a 4-0 victory against Odessa High at Ratliff Stadium.

"It was exciting. My coaches were very excited for me. It was a great week," Rackow said. "I've never had a weekend like that before. I'm hoping to do it again this weekend."

Rackow continued her run of success on the track, leaping to a silver medal, clearing 34 feet, 7.5 inches in the triple jump. She was behind only Lubbock High's Pamela Uchebo, who had a gold-medal winning mark of 35-05.75.

Rackow

It's the sixth medal she's won in the past week and she has a chance to add to that total today in the long jump. There's a pretty good chance Rackow could add even more hardware to her totals, but due to her commitment to soccer, she won't be participating in any running events at the Tall City Relays.

Instead, after the long jump, which is slated to start at 10 a.m. today, Rackow will head straight to Grande Communications Stadium for the soccer match against Midland High.

For now, trying to score goals on the soccer pitch is the priority. After all, there's plenty of time for Rackow to reach her ultimate goals on the track.

"I'm hoping to medal in district in all five of my events," Rackow said. "It's going to take a lot of training, but I'm a hard worker and I will complete my goals."

Jayhawks close regular season vs. Texas

Dave Skretta
Associated Press

LAWRENCE, Kan. — Tyshawn Taylor has already helped No. 3 Kansas wrap up its eighth straight Big 12 title.

The senior guard has been a part of 120 victories during his time in Lawrence, moving up the school record lists in a number of statistical categories. He's experienced the highest of highs and some faith-rattling lows, all the while becoming one of the Jayhawks' favorite sons.

When he steps onto the court for senior night at Allen Fieldhouse tonight, he understands there will be a flood of emotions. But he also knows his focus will be squarely on Texas.

That's because the Jayhawks are still chasing a No. 1 seed in the NCAA tournament.

The Jayhawks (25-5, 15-2) assured themselves a share of the league title with a dramatic overtime win over Missouri last weekend. They earned it outright with a victory Monday night at Oklahoma State, taking some drama out of their regular-season finale against the Longhorns.

"It's a dream come true to be in this situation," Taylor said, summarizing both the Jayhawks' current situation as Big 12 champs and his entire rollercoaster career.

The polarizing point guard from Hoboken, N.J., has emerged as one of the premier players in college basketball with a Big 12 season that will long be remembered.

He's averaged 18.4 points during conference games, nearly eight over his career average, and is dishing out assists at nearly five per game. He's been at his best when it's counted most, too, scoring 24 against the Tigers and 27 earlier this week against the Cowboys.

"He can frustrate you," said Kansas coach Bill Self, who has more than once shoved Taylor into the dog house, "but I'm sure I frustrated my father, and my kids frustrate me."

Yes, Self likened Taylor to one of his own kids.

That alone may be enough to demonstrate the legacy he's left in Lawrence.

"He's meant a lot to me personally," Self said Thursday. "I thought about that this morning, to be honest with you. I don't get emotional about certain things, but I see myself getting emotional about him, with some of the obstacles he's overcome."

Gusty, clear-air winds will continue throughout the Midwest. A snowstorm is forecast to diminish around the central and northern Great Lakes, but bands of lake-effect snow will linger.

Boy needs supportive refuge from dad's hurtful words

DEAR ABBY

Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069. Her column is distributed by Universal Press Syndicate.

DEAR ABBY: My 10-year-old son has a school friend, "Jeremy," who seems like a sweet, smart kid. I have seen Jeremy's dad interact with him both in and out of school. The man talks down to him and speaks harshly. This sweet boy appears to be verbally beaten down, and it makes my heart ache.

What can I do? I realize I don't know what's going on in their home. There could be other factors causing Jeremy's father to act this way. But, every child deserves love and encouragement. Any advice you can give would be appreciated. — ADVOCATE FOR KINDNESS IN KENTUCKY

DEAR ADVOCATE: Make Jeremy welcome in your home as often as you can, praise him when the opportunity arises and give him a willing ear if he needs to talk. Whatever "factors" are causing his father to treat him this way, they are no excuse for verbal abuse. Your kindness to that boy won't fix his problems at home, but it WILL be remembered all the days of his life. Your hospitality may be the only exposure Jeremy has to a normal, functional family.

DEAR ABBY: I got into a fight with my best friend. I'm 12, and she's 13. We could have solved our own problems, but she got her parents involved. They started saying stuff on Facebook about me and my parents. I forgave her, but I don't want to forgive her parents. Abby, what would you do? — CAN'T FORGIVE

DEAR CAN'T FORGIVE: Your friend's parents appear to be immature and overly involved in their daughter's life. Most tweenage tiffs are resolved by the individuals having the argument. What her parents did was wrong.

If they haven't posted an apology on Facebook, they should. If they don't, my advice is to keep your distance from ALL of them, because regardless of whether you have forgiven your friend, this could happen again.

DEAR ABBY: A group of about a dozen friends are planning a Caribbean cruise. My boyfriend, "Isaac," and I have been invited to join them. I love to travel. I don't get to go on trips often and have never been on a cruise or to the Caribbean, so I'm excited.

Isaac, on the other hand, doesn't care much for travel and doesn't enjoy the ocean. He also doesn't like my friend or her husband. They are the ones who are coordinating the trip and who invited us.

Isaac rarely socializes with anyone who isn't in his circle of friends. He doesn't want to go and thinks I shouldn't go, either. Isn't it unfair of him to tell me I can't go? Would it be wrong of me to go without him? He promises that if I don't go, the two of us will go together next year. (I don't believe him.) — LANDLOCKED IN ARIZONA

DEAR LANDLOCKED: If you don't believe Isaac when he tells you he'll do something, you must have good reason for it.

Yes, it is unfair of him to tell you that you can't take the cruise with your friends. It is also controlling. If you think you would have a good time without him, you should go. It's not like you'll be leaving for a month. He can manage without you for a few days. Instead of trying to discourage you, he should wish you "bon voyage" — but the odds for that aren't high, so don't expect it.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, March 3, 2012:

This year you could become even more emotional. At the same time, you tune into your higher self and intuition more often. If you are single, you see life as boring when you do not have romance sizzling. Take up a new hobby! If you are attached, the two of you argue often. You can end the bickering by kissing and making up. CANCER can be quite romantic.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★ Tension seems to build, no matter which way you turn. Someone you look up to could be a veritable terror. Anger comes out when you least expect it. You might want to work through it, even though another person is on the warpath. Tonight: Get together with friends.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★★ You mean well, but communicating your intentions could take talent. Clearly a child, loved one or new friend is out of sorts. It appears that you might be the stimulus that is triggering him or her. Get together with friends. Tonight: The party could go to the wee hours.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★ You might want to consider an older relative or friend when making plans. Call this person. Know that while you are not committed to doing anything, this person really appreciates your special time together. Use care with a roommate or loved one. He or she suddenly could be on the warpath. Tonight: Out and about.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★★ Understanding evolves to a new level if you can turn an argument into a discussion. You like what comes up, and hopefully you can detach enough to understand where the other party is coming from. Otherwise, take off for the movies, or do something for yourself. Tonight: Opt for something different.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★ Respond to a dear friend or loved one. You might not know what to make of an evolving situation. Suddenly, you might find that you're spending more money than you want. Use care with your expenses. Learn how to handle your knee-jerk reactions. Tonight: Go with another person's idea.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★ You could be far more challenging than you realize. A partner might have enough, and he or she lets you know. Suddenly, you are scurrying after him or her. Look at the big picture. Not every issue is worth a fight. Tonight: Where the people are.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★ Others seem to want you with them, no matter what you or they are doing. For some of you, this implicit demand could be very annoying, as you have so much ground to cover as it is. Juggle your needs somewhat, but maintain your boundaries. Tonight: A must appearance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★★★ Intuitively, you know what to do. Though a friend could push you hard to join him or her, you are best off doing your own thing for the day. Whatever you choose to do, make sure it revitalizes you. A change of scenery might be perfect! Tonight: What you want to do.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★★ Work once more with a partner you really enjoy. You could go a little crazy when dealing with a parent's temper. At the same time, you are wondering why you should have to. Try to clear the air. Have a discussion. Tonight: Togetherness works.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★★ Others will let you know what their plans are soon enough; however, if you would like to take off and do something on your own, the time is now. Keep your cellphone on, in case an opportunity you cannot say "no" to comes up. Try to understand another person's frustration. It will help ease the situation. Tonight: Out and about.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★ Honor your energy and needs. You could be more tired than you realize. Revamp your plans, if need be. Try to keep errands to a minimum. Share a hobby with a child or loved one. You need an easy pace. Tonight: Hang loose.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★★ Please note that someone you really care about is on the warpath. You might not be the cause, even if this person thinks you are. Air out the situation with some detachment. What could be difficult turns into a good exchange between the two of you. Tonight: Make nice.

Dublin's Hunter Turner (14) drives to the basket in Friday night's Region 1 2-A region semifinal. The Lions came up short in their bid to play for the right to go to Austin as they lost to the Idalou Wildcats 57-42. Idalou will play today for the right to represent Region I in Austin at the UIL State finals.

Experience is never a bad thing.

Idalou found that out Friday night at Chaparral Center. The Wildcats leaned on their upperclassman and overcame an inauspicious start in their 57-42 victory over Dublin in the Region I-2A semifinals.

The Lions knocked down three consecutive shots from long range to start the game and hopped out to an early 13-6 lead in the first quarter. When the Wildcats could have panicked, they didn't.

Idalou showed resolve and was unflappable for the rest of the period, taking a 17-16 lead and closing it out with an 11-2 run.

Finishing quarters is something head coach Tyler Helms expects from his veteran bunch.

"These guys have been there," Helms said. "We have a couple young guys that are good players, but at our core, our seniors have been to the regional finals three years in a row. We always stress (finishing)."

That's exactly what Riley Payne did. The senior was relentless in the first

There's no doubt about the confidence Jim Ned head coach Steve Bryant has in his team.

That's definitely a good thing because the No. 17 Indians weren't perfect, but they pulled out a 68-54 victory against No. 10 Childress in the semifinals of the Region I-2A Tournament on Friday at Chaparral Center.

Jim Ned had 25 turnovers in the contest and let Childress crawl back into the game with less than two minutes to play. The Bobcats made it a 63-54 game at the 1:15 mark but the Indians knocked down shots at the charity tripe to secure the win.

With the victory, Jim Ned moves on to face No. 1 Idalou in the Region I-2A championship at 1 p.m. today at Chaparral Center.

"These guys find ways to get it done," Bryant said. "The free throw line came through for us. We got it done at the end."

A win is a win, but having a more comfortable finish would be welcomed by Jim Ned, which began the quarter with a double-digit

Defense proves key in Grady's win over Nazareth

Amarillo Globe-News

LEVELLAND — Grady may have shot nearly 52 percent from the floor and outscored Nazareth by 20 points Friday, but defense was the difference for the Wildcats in a Region I-A Division II semifinal at the Texan Dome.

"We shoot well — we do that all the time," Grady coach Thomas Clay said. "You've got to play great defense to win."

Clay

The Wildcats (29-5) used team quickness and pressure to force 25 Nazareth turnovers — including 19 steals — in a dominant 70-50 win over the Swifts (23-13).

Grady advances to play Sands, a 68-38 winner over Texline, in today's 2 p.m. final at the Texan Dome.

The key to Grady's defense was junior twins Uziel Sanjuan and Ivan Sanjuan, junior Michael Jimenez and freshman E.J. Rodriguez.

The quartet combined for 13 of the Wildcats' steals and provided most of the full-court pressure.

"They're four of the quickest guys you're going to see out there," Clay said. "So we just try to wear down people's guards, and I think eventually it took a

Graford pulls away in 2nd half, snags win over Garden City

ABILENE — Garden City held a four-point lead at halftime Friday night in the semifinals of the Region II-A Division II boys' basketball tournament at Abilene Christian University's Moody Coliseum, but then the Bearkats went cold.

Graford pulled away in the second half to grab a 56-41 victory over Garden City, putting the Jackrabbits into the regional tournament championship game against Lipan at 2 p.m. today. Lipan handed Water Valley only its second loss of the season, winning a 46-43 thriller in the other semifinal game Friday.

Abney

Garden City led for most of the first half and was up 26-22 at intermission. The Bearkats stretched their lead to 29-24 early in the third quarter, but Graford finished the period on a 15-2 run to open up a 39-31 lead going into the fourth quarter.

"We didn't make shots," Garden City coach Koby Abney said. "We've got to make shots to be successful, especially as short as we are. We don't have anyone over 6-foot. Their 6-7 kid bothered us."

The Bearkats tried to pack their zone defense around Graford's 6-7 junior Leonard Benning, a German foreign exchange student.

But when Garden City fell behind in lead.

"I wish we could have kept that lead and not let them get into single digits," Brady Leissner said. "But, it happened, and we pulled it out. That's all that matters."

Leissner played a key part in helping the Indians build that lead in the first half. The Indians shot 55 percent from the field to build a 13-point advantage. Leissner was hot from deep, unleashing a barrage of jumpers en route to scoring 12 of his team-high 16 in the first two frames.

And he wasn't alone. Will Bryant was 5 of 6 from the field for 10 first-half points.

Meanwhile, Childress could not find the basket. The Bobcats shot a paltry 31 percent from the field against the 2-3 zone utilized by Jim Ned although Jacob Darter scored a game-high 27 points.

"It's just disappointing" Childress coach Brent Gaylor said. "We had a great year — can't complain about that. The ball just didn't go through the hole."

Now the Indians will have their chance at redemption in a rematch of the 2010 regional championship when Idalou beat Jim Ned and went on to win the state championship. It's still fresh on the mind of Steve Bryant who said the Indians have been waiting two years to play the Wildcats again.

"It's going to be a fun game," Steve Bryant said. "We're just glad to get the opportunity to give it a shot."

half, attacking the rim aggressively for nine of his team-high 13 points. More importantly, Payne helped draw four first half fouls on 6-foot-9 Dublin center Jakob Damstra.

"The thing about Riley is, even if people think he plays bad, he still has a good game," Helms said. "He does so many things for you that maybe even people watching the game don't realize."

The up-tempo Wildcats managed to maintain a balanced scoring attack with seniors Bradley Adkins and Koal Houchin both scoring 11.

The incessant man-to-man pressure by Idalou wore down the Lions who were ragged by the fourth quarter. Dublin turned the ball over 18 times and the Wildcats turned those steals into 17 second-chance points. The stingy defense also consistently contested shots, with the Lions only shooting 25 percent from the field.

Hunter Turner led Dublin with 15 points.

Idalou will have the opportunity to advance to the state tournament for the third consecutive year at 1 p.m. today when they take on Jim Ned.

Big 2nd quarter fuels Duncanville rout

Associated Press

AUSTIN — Powerhouse Duncanville waited a long time to get back to the state tournament. The Pantherettes wasted no time demolishing Houston Cypress Falls in the Class 5A semifinals on Friday

Sophomore Ariel Atkins scored 15 points and Duncanville used a 21-0 run in the second quarter to cruise to a 64-40 victory in its first state tournament game since 2004.

Now Duncanville (39-1) is back where it expects to be every year: playing in today's final for its seventh state championship.

"We have a lot of passion right now," said senior guard Morgan Bolton, who also scored 15 points. "We all feel we want it. We know what our destiny is."

Duncanville has made 21 trips to the state tournament and produced an assembly line of talent in players such as former WNBA all-star Tamika Catchings and University of Texas standout Tiffany Jackson. On Friday, the Pantherettes played like a team ready to return to its former glory. Swarming defense, tough rebounding and a relentless temple overwhelmed Cypress Falls.

Pantherettes	64
Lady Eagles	40

Pantherette guard Empress Davenport, who has signed to play at Texas and has the look of the next great Duncanville player, was a role player in a dominant team effort with just 8 points on 2-of-8 shooting.

"It wasn't a great day for me, but everyone else was great and we won," Davenport said.

Bolton scored 15 points and Tasia Foman scored 12 for Duncanville, which beat Cypress Falls 58-47 during the regular season. On Friday, Duncanville forced 23 turnovers and turned them into 27 points.

Cypress Falls (37-2) was playing in its first state tournament and was within 14-11 before Duncanville (39-1) started its overwhelming run. Duncanville made three 3-pointers in the burst and forced a rash of Cypress Falls turnovers that led to easy baskets.

Cypress Falls could do nothing to stop it or catch up. The Eagles were just 5-of-22 shooting in the first half and 0-8 from 3-point range. Loryn Goodwin scored 19 to lead Cypress Falls but was the only Eagles player with more than five points

"They played excellent defense and we weren't getting our shots," Cypress Falls coach Jim Stephens said. "The second quarter really hurt us."

Atkins scored 11 in the first half and the Pantherettes' quick guard-dominated lineup had no trouble driving or firing sharp passes that led to easy layups as the game quickly turned into a rout.

Duncanville turned every rebound and steal into a fastbreak opportunity and rarely failed to convert. In one nifty exchange, Foman stole the ball and midcourt, then had a quick give-and-go pass with Bolton for a layup.

"We knew we had to take them out with defense," said Duncanville coach Cathy Self-Morgan, who recorded win No. 914. "You can see a couple of the girls get that look like a tiger. They're going to pounce and steal it."

Cypress Falls looked stunned. Goodwin finally snapped the 8-minute scoring drought with a short jumper with 6:48 left in the third. Duncanville shot 50 percent for the game and held Cypress Falls to 30 percent.

Duncanville beat 2011 state champion Irving MacArthur in the playoffs to get to the state tournament. Duncanville last won a state title in 2003 and Self-Morgan said the pressure to win another one this season has been intense.

"Expectations were huge," Self-Morgan said. "These kids had to get here."

Modern American muscle: 2012 Dodge Challenger SRT8 392 coupe

RoadWorthy!

By Ken Chester, Jr.
Motor News Media Corporation

Merging the best American muscle car characteristics with iconic design, world-class handling, powerful engines and modern technology, the Challenger SRT8 shares its running gear with the likes of the Chrysler 300 and Dodge Charger sedans.

The exterior styling of the Challenger SRT8 392 pays homage to the great Dodge muscle cars of the 1970's with its long, raised performance hood with a functional scoop, a front fascia with air dam and rear deck-lid spoiler. The bold A-line, or character line that runs from stem to stern, gives the all-new Dodge coupe an instantly recognizable muscle car profile. Retro dual rectangular exhaust outlets competes the look from the rear.

For 2012, the Dodge Challenger SRT8® 392 adds even more high-tech performance features to solidify its place as the brand's ultimate modern American rear-wheel-drive muscle coupe. With almost 500 hp from the proven 392 cubic-inch HEMI® 6.4L V-8, the balanced performance approach of the Challenger SRT8 392 provides outstanding straight-line acceleration, world-class ride and handling, high-performance braking and the most up-to-date technologies that deliver more driver excitement and control.

The standard Tremec TR-6060 six-speed manual transmission and a ZF-SACHS 240 mm dual-disc high-performance clutch are proven performers that were first offered on the 2008 Dodge Viper SRT10®. Both automatic and manual models feature a standard limited-slip differential to maximize performance.

The optional W5A580 five-speed automatic transmission features new, standard steering-wheel-mounted paddle shifters that join the center console mounted Auto Stick, allowing for a choice of spirited shifting on both the road and the race track. Both methods give the driver the ability to manually select specific gears on the transmission.

The adaptive damping suspension (ADS) system is new for 2012 and tuned specifically for the Dodge Challenger SRT8 392. The ADS system on the Challenger SRT8 392 features the fastest turn-in and most nimble handling characteristics of any SRT product.

In the "Sport" setting, the system provides the highest damping rates allowing the driver to push the handling envelope like never before. In "Auto" mode, a wide range of on-road and driver inputs – such as vehicle speed, steering angle, steering speed, brake torque, throttle position and lateral/vertical accelerations – automatically tune the suspension for specific conditions.

Drivers can easily choose between settings to quickly change the shock damping and harshness characteristics from "Auto" for everyday commuting to "Sport" for more spirited driving situations. The handling result is .90g capability on the skid pad – the most of any production Challenger and on par with some of the world's best-handling performance coupes.

Inside the passenger cabin, the race inspired and high-performance interior begins with the new, exclusive SRT® heated steering wheel that features mounted paddle shifters for hands on the wheel shifting both on road and at the race track. All audio and Electronic Vehicle Information Center (EVIC) controls are accessible from the horizontal spokes on the steering wheel.

The trapezoidal instrument panel features a four-bomb gauge cluster with chromed accent rings and unique SRT graphics. Inside the cluster, the SRT-exclusive Electronic Vehicle Information Center (EVIC) with performance pages gives the driver trip information, multimedia information from the Media Center radio, along with instant feedback on 0-60 mph acceleration, 60-0 mph braking, G-forces, one-eighth mile and quarter-mile times.

For maximum convenience and to keep passengers connected, a wide array of connectivity, infotainment and mobile multimedia options are available on the 2012 Dodge Challenger SRT8.

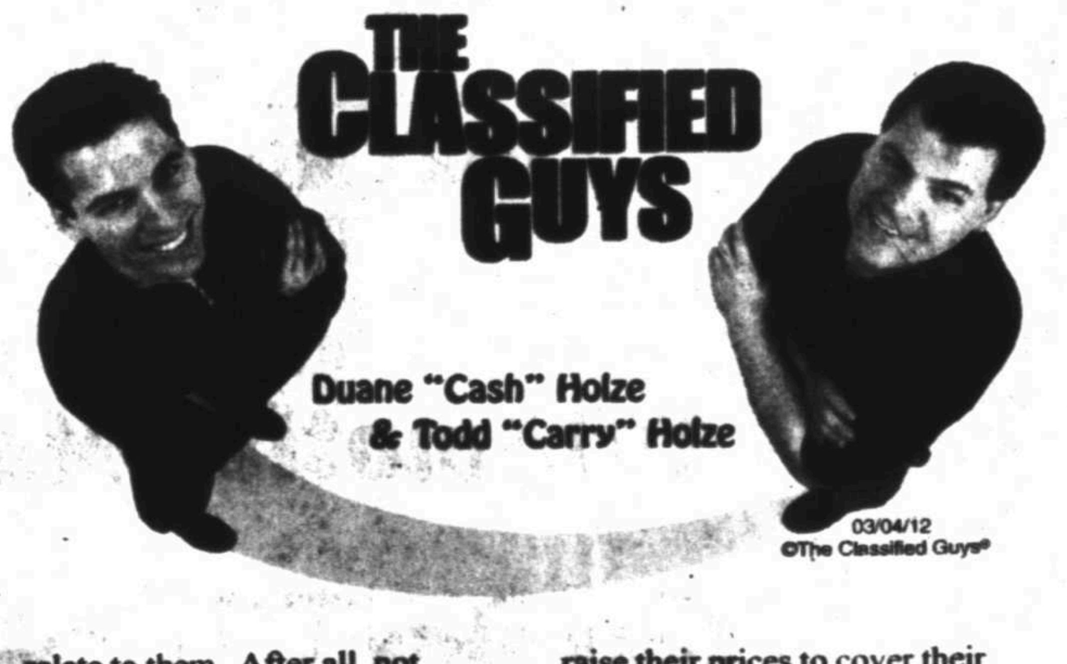
Ask the Guys



03/04/12
©The Classified Guys®

Dear Classified Guys,
Every day when I turn on the TV, at least one story on the news program is about the cost of gas. If it's not the daily national average, it's about the lack of oil production. But when I picked up the classifieds the other day, I saw countless ads for lawnmowers, boats, tractors, weed whackers and even a few go-carts. Toss in the backhoes, paving equipment and other construction stuff that I see for sale and it has me thinking. Everyone only worries about cars these days. I agree that cars are probably the largest users of gas, but the other equipment out there must add up after a while as well. My landscaper uses at least a few gallons doing my lawn each week. Do all of these other items add up or is it really just the cars we should worry about?

Cash: Tractors might make the news if we all drove them to work everyday. However, that would make for some lousy gas mileage and some incredibly slow traffic.

Carry: As you might suspect, automobiles do get the largest publicity since most of us can relate to them. After all, not everyone has paving equipment sitting in his or her garage, but most of us do have at least one car.

Cash: Those other items, such as lawn equipment, really do add up. It's estimated that as a nation we burn about 800 million gallons of gas each year keeping our lawns trimmed. The Environmental Protection Agency estimates that another 17 million gallons are spilled each year while refueling lawn equipment. That's enough to make you want to get a funnel next time!

Carry: And for businesses, like your lawn service, the rising cost of gas is making a significant impact. Many have been forced to raise their prices to cover their increase in costs.

Cash: Yet despite our desire to keep our lawns trimmed, the fuel consumed by cars does significantly outweigh lawn equipment. As a whole, the United States can burn over 400 million gallons of gas each day.

Carry: The good news is that as technology improves, especially in the case of electric cars and batteries, it should trickle down to other areas like small engines and lawn equipment.

Cash: Until then, however, you can expect to read your Sunday newspaper to the sound of chirping birds and your neighbor's lawn mower.

Fast Facts

Rough Ride

Whether it's cruising on a Sunday afternoon or just driving to work, people sure do love to drive their cars. However with the cost of gas hitting all time highs, Americans are driving significantly less. That adds up to billions of fewer miles according the Federal Highway Administration. And with fewer miles on the road, the use of public transportation is on the rise and has seen some of the highest usage numbers of the last 50 years.

To a "T"

Vehicles have come a long way since Henry Ford's Model T in the 1900s. Despite the increased horsepower, comfier interior and countless cup holders, the mileage hasn't changed much. The Model T topped out at only 30 mph, but did get a respectable 20 miles per gallon. Many of today's SUVs struggle to get that kind of mileage. Fortunately with the advancement in hybrids and fuel cells, mileage may make some significant leaps in the next 100 years.

The Greener Side

My friend moved to a part of the city where each person on the block had a small patch of grass between their home and the sidewalk.

When I went to visit him, I noticed that everyone took meticulous care of their small lawn. In fact, as I walked up to the door, the neighbor was outside with his electric mower cutting his grass.

Later as my friend and I were leaving, I noticed his neighbor quit mowing the lawn half way through. Since the area was so small I joked, "What happened? Was the grass too much for him to finish?"

My friend laughed, "Sort of. His mower doesn't reach since he accidentally mowed his extension cord in half."

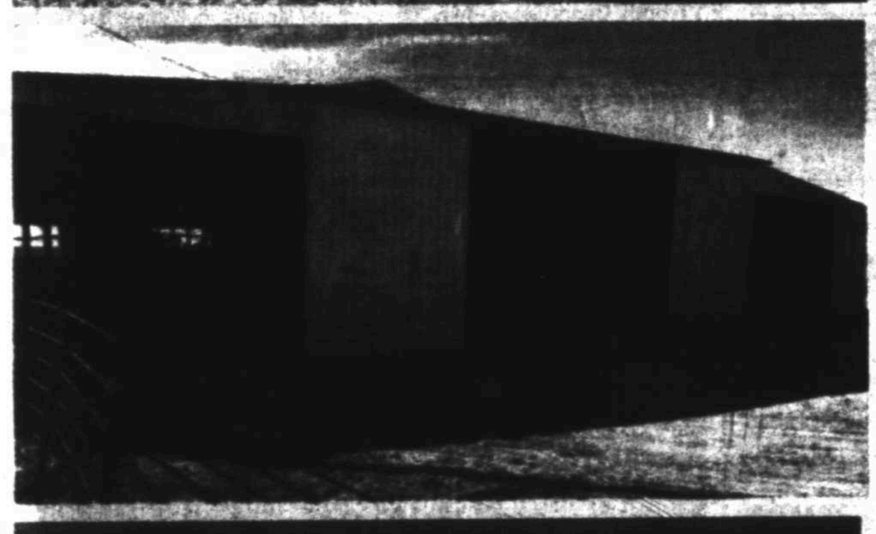
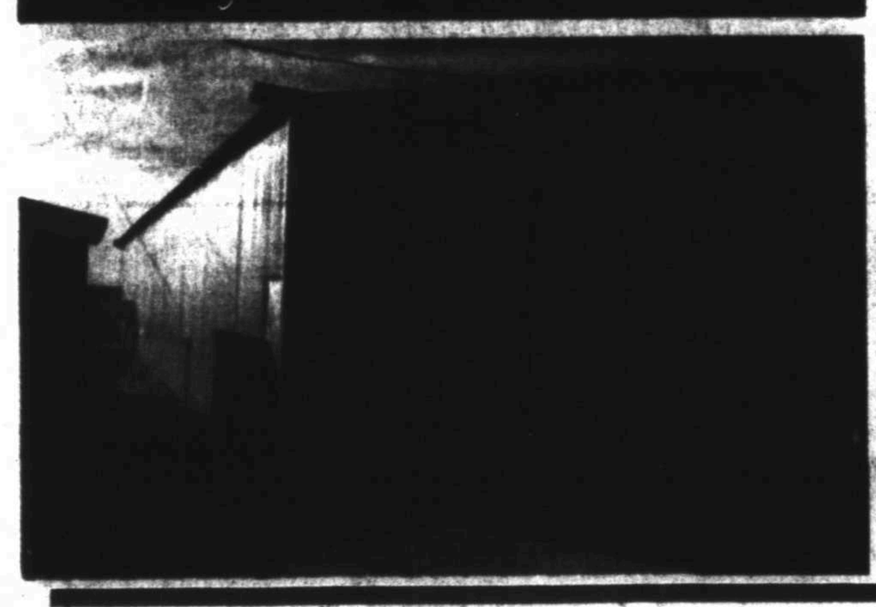
Limitless Possibilities

Farm on Co. Rd. 1140





Are you ready for a drive out to the country? Just take Fairgrounds to 158 east and travel all the way out to 5 points, turn south on 1140 then meander about a mile and the Jones Family Farm is on the right. You are looking at 300 acres that borders County Road 1140 to the East and County Road 130 to the North. 300 acres of endless possibilities! The obvious first choice is that farmland should be used for farming. Take a second look and don't judge a book by its cover. Picture the big barn as an airplane hanger, with 300 acres there is plenty of room for an air strip. Collect and refurbish classic cars? The big barn is perfect for storing your cars and provides ample space to work on all of your projects. There are two modest farm houses on the property. One or both of the homes could be converted into office space or possibly even employee quarters. All of the roads on the property are hard surface roads and there are several gated entrances making access easy. This property is well equipped to handle any task including farming. The machinery barn or "BIG BARN" is approximately 21,000 square feet of implement storage space. There is also a smaller dirt floor barn at 5600 square feet, an 840 square foot cement floor barn and an 1800 square foot metal shop. There are several silos and vintage corrals. The soil is strong farm soil and there are descent reserves of underground water. All of these elements combined scream, "perfect for farming!" But if you are looking to expand your current business operation and can't find the right piece of land or you are planning to start a new business this 300 acre parcel is large enough and versatile enough to accommodate any and all of your plans. So plan to take a drive "out to the country", make it at sunset, you'll never forget the view.
