'Story Theatre' play dates set

The Western Texas College drama department has scheduled matinee and evening performances of "Story Theatre" Feb. 24-26 in the Fine Arts Theatre on campus.

The opening performance Feb. 24 — a Friday — will be at 8 p.m. A 2 p.m. matinee and an 8 p.m. evening show are planned Feb. 25, followed Feb. 26 by a 2 p.m. matinee.

Tickets are $4 for adults and $2 for students. The box office will open Feb. 20 and tickets may be reserved by calling 573-8511, ext. 234.

"Story Theatre" was described by the New York Post drama critic as "an evening of imaginative and unpretentious delight...fun is predominant."

"If your are an adult, bring a child," wrote The Hollywood Reporter. "This is an echanting evening for the entire family and how many plays and movies can you say that about these days?"

"Story Theatre" was written by Paul Sills. It opened in New Haven, journeyed to Los Angeles and would up on Broadway. The production includes a group of famous fables from the Grimm Brothers and Aesop, including Henny Penny, the Golden Goose, Venus and the Cat, the Fisherman and his Wife, the Robber Baron, the Bremen Town Musicians and other favorites.

Appearing in the cast will be Robert Loveless and Ramona Murphy of Snyder, Kevin Huddleston of Ira, Bill Kelley of Roscoe, Jeff Combs and Scott Ellard of Muleshoe, Teri Duvall of O'Donnell, Cynthia Sayers of Andrews and Martha Hargrove of Rotan.

Duncan Joys of Lubbock is assistant director. Clint Potts of Snyder will be stage manager and Lorie

Chamber lunch, 'it won't be dull'

Barbecue will be served and door prizes given out as Snyder residents are invited to a chamber of commerce-sponsored noon luncheon planned Monday.

Theme for the event is "Community Appreciation," and chamber officials promise "it won't be dull." It will begin at noon Monday in Room A of the Scurry County Coliseum.

The purpose for the luncheon is to allow locals to gather and discuss chamber activities. Central to this is "where you would like Snyder to be five years from now."

Barbecue will be catered through Dub's Barbecue. The price of the meal will be $4.50.

In addition, three cash door prizes will be given to persons attending. A $100 gift will be given also to a chamber member if they are present at the meeting.

Marines await order

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The battleship New Jersey bombarded gun positions in the central Lebanese mountains today with its 16-inch guns and U.S. Marines awaited orders to pull back from their airport bunkers to ships off the Lebanese coast.

The 115-man British contingent of the multinational force withdrew from its suburban base and moved to a ship offshore because of the "deteriorating" situation in Lebanon.

The British move followed President Reagan's announcement Tuesday night that the 1,600 U.S. Marines would be redeployed to American ships off the shores of Lebanon. But Reagan authorized broader use of American naval guns and warships to support the disintegrating Lebanese army and the embattled government of President Amin Gemayel.

The salvos by the New Jersey apparently were in keeping with that policy, but the targets were not announced.

A spokesman for the Marines, Maj. Dennis Brooks, said the New Jersey was "hitting targets way east of Beirut, off my map" with its 16-inch guns, the largest afloat.

Until now, U.S. naval firepower has been used only to protect the Marines and other elements of the multinational force.

It was unclear if the New Jersey's shelling was intended to protect the Marines or aid the Lebanese army. Brooks said he did not know if the Americans were fired upon before the battleship opened up at 1:25 p.m., but said the compound at Beirut International Airport was hit by "three or four mortars or rockets" within minutes after the battleship began firing.

The Voice of Lebanon radio station said the New Jersey fired at least 100 shells in 30 minutes and destroyed at least eight Druse militia gun positions in the central mountains.

Reunion concert scheduled

The Snyder High School bands will present the fifth annual Band Reunion Concert at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. The varsity band will perform under the the leadership of Rodney Parker. Second on the program will be the Concert Band directed by Clifford Franklin.

The final portion of the program will be given by the Symphonic Band. Dick Tolley, professor of trumpet at Texas Tech University, will also perform with the band.

Special recognition will be given to the oldest exe, the one traveling the farthest, and the class with the most exes in attendances.

Admission is $1 per person. There will be a reception following the concert in the student center. Director of bands is Sam Robertson.

by Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Most parents are old-fashioned. They'd love to tuck their children in bed but they can't stay awake that late."

Remember when you wanted to be 21 years old, and be your own boss? In the "old days," age 21 was the magic year of maturity. You could even get married without parental consent, and you could borrow money assuming you could find a sucker behind a loan desk.

Things appeared complicated about that time, but in retrospect it was a pretty care-free time of life. We don't necessarily want to be that age again, but we would probably not wish for the years to pass so swiftly.

Today we celebrate a birthday. Well, perhaps celebrate is too strong a word. However, we want to make one point perfectly clear--we have no objection to growing older, it beats the heck out of the alternative.

We have always suspected that a person's 40th birthday is the most traumatic. Some suggest it is middle-age, although we have suspected that we passed that a few years back.

We won't be 40 for another 12 months, but we're finding that the current birthday has its problems. If someone knows it's your birthday, they generally ask your age.

When we reply 39, then comes a remark of disbelief. "Sure, for how many times?" or "from which direction or you approaching 39?"

We were talking to a newspaper friend of more than 25 years. He, too, made fun of our age. "Awe, that can't be right. You were bald and 30 when you graduated from high school."

The real insult comes from those who mention your "child bride" who also delights in repeating a story about her first job interview. We had met the superintendent's secretary previously, so when old what's-her-name went in for an interview the secretary innocently said, "Oh, I've met your father."

It's enough to make a feller have a mid-life crisis.

Among six finalists...

Newbury candidate at Del Mar

Western Texas College President Dr. Don Newbury was among six finalists announced Tuesday afternoon for the position of president of Del Mar College in Corpus Christi, the fifth largest junior college in the state.

Newbury was notified Tuesday afternoon. "Being a finalist is not tantamount to being hired," Newbury commented, adding that the selection was "certainly flattering news."

"My family and I are extremely happy in Snyder, and very much appreciate a supportive board, a fine administration, faculty and staff at WTC," Newbury said.

He noted his application for the post was filed during the holidays "with full knowledge of the WTC board of trustees."

The position at Del Mar will be vacated in June by the retirement of Dr. Jean Richardson, who is completing 37 years at the college, the last 17 as president.

The list of six candidates was revealed Tuesday afternoon at the February meeting of the college's board of regents. The six were recommended by an independent consultant hired to conduct a presidential search.

According to a spokesman for the Del Mar public relations office, the full board has not been involved with the effort until now.

The six candidates will now be interviewed on an individual basis during February. A final decision is expected by mid-March.

Other candidates named Tuesday were Dr. Domingo Arechiga, president of Laredo Junior College; Dr. Edwin L. Biggerstaff Jr., chancellor of Anchorage Community College, Anchorage, Alaska; Dr. Cecil Groves, manager of educational applications for Bausch-Lomb's interactive graphics division; Dr. James Kellerman, executive director of the California Association of Community Colleges; and Dr. Charles L. McKinney, president of the South Campus of the Tarrant County Junior College District.

Del Mar College was founded some 49 years old.

Ask Us

Q. — Would the newspaper consider running a list of all local, state and national candidates who are running for political office this year?

A. — The SDN will not be running a political "calendar" as in year's past — an item that was an advertisment paid for by the candidates. The newspaper will run a complete ballot of candidates, however, prior to both the primary elections in May and the General Election in November.

In Brief

Camera work is underway

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Challenger's astronauts went before the camera today to star in a panoramic movie being shot by colleague "Cecil B." McNair as their schedule called for rest and experiments before the next tetheress space walk.

The set was the biggest ever, the world below, the stars above.

The space travelers, after five bittersweet, busy days in orbit, welcomed some relaxation before winding down the journey with more outside tests of their jet-pack on Thursday, a news conference from space Friday and the shuttle's first landing in Florida on Saturday.

Today's filming sessions, with a special Cinema-360 camera, were to capture footage for a half-hour documentary, "The Space Shuttle: An American Adventure." They began with shots of Commander Vance Brand and pilot Robert Gibson working at their control stations.

Arab diplomat shot, killed

PARIS (AP) — A lone gunman shot and killed the United Arab Emirates' ambassador to France outside the diplomat's Paris home today, police said. There was no immediate claim of responsibility.

They said the ambassador, Khalifa Ahmed Abdel Aziz Al-Mubarak, was shot in the left temple as he left his apartment building on the Avenue Charles Floquet, only a few hundred yards from the Eiffel Tower. The gunman fired once and fled on foot, according to Al-Mubarek's unarmed chaffeur.

Propane explosion kills 5

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y. (AP) — An explosion occurred when a propane tank was being installed at a lead-extracting business this morning, killing five employees, state police said. Four others were injured.

The explosion occurred around 7:10 a.m. at the one-story RSR Corporation in the Town of Wallkill, about five miles east of Middletown, said state police Sgt. Alfred Dorer. Middletown is about 55 miles northwest of New York City.

Four people were injured and taken to Horton Hospital in Middletown, Dorer said. The five dead were employees, he said.

Hospital spokesman Joseph Plummer said those in the hospital were not seriously injured.

Pre-school heart class set

A two-hour training session is planned here Saturday morning by the Scurry County Heart Association — a program aimed at adults involved with children day care services.

Participants will learn how to present a "Heart Treasure Chest" program for young children. It entails teaching pre-school age youth the benefits of healthy heart care practices.

The training workshop will begin at 10 a.m. in the fellowship hall of First United Methodist Church. For more information, persons may contact Cyndee Gayle at 573-8383.

Fuel help program offered

Project HAP'N, the heating fuel assistance program for needy individuals sponsored by Lone Star Gas, is in operation again this year.

Assistance may be obtained for heating fuel of any type, such as gas, electricity, butane and wood.

The program will be in operation until April 30, unless available funds are expended prior to that date. Those interested should contact Marge Sealy at the Scurry County welfare office, 573-9967.

Fire run here Wednesday

Snyder firemen were dispatched to a reported house fire at the Robert Shreve residence at 2402 Sunset Dr. at 10:20 a.m. Wednesday.

Reportedly, a pile of clothes had ignited near a heater in a bedroom of the home. The fire was extinguished and damage to the residence was said minor.

Police charge man in stepdaughter's murder

HOUSTON (AP) — A man accused of sexually molesting his teen-age stepdaughter was charged with murder after authorities found her mutilated body under the floor of an abandoned house, investigators say.

Investigators allege Oscar McBride, 40, killed the 15-year-old girl, Verna Ann Bowden, because he did not want her to testify against him. He was held without bond today in the Harris County Jail.

McBride was never tried on the child molestation charge because his threats of retaliation kept witnesses and his stepdaughter from showing up in court, said Sheriff's Detective Bill Ogg.

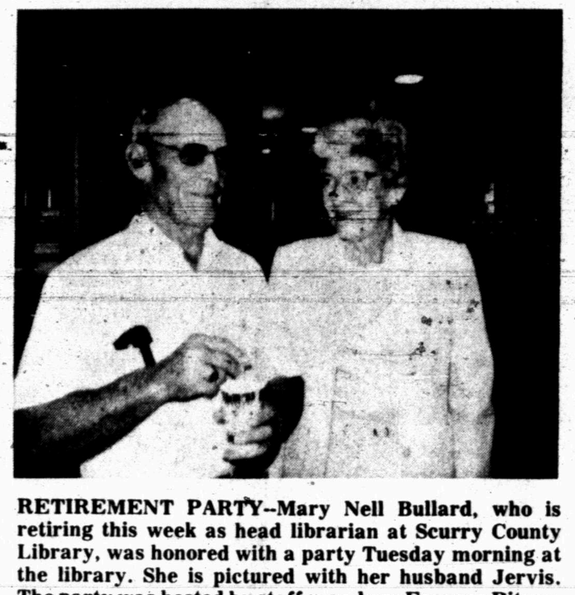

Miss Bowden was last seen Jan. 2 at a north Houston restaurant with her stepfather, Ogg said.

Her battered, partially decomposed body was found Tuesday wrapped in a heavy blanket and stuffed under the floor of a north Houston house, Ogg said.

She apparently had been strangled to death, Ogg said. Investigators said they would not know whether she had been sexually assaulted until an autopsy was completed.

During the American Revolution, British troops occupied New York City in 1776.

Paul Harvey

George Orwell is remembered for the wrong things.

Forty years ago Orwell wrote a novel called "Nineteen Eighty-four" which projected this year in fiction. It was never meant to be more than fiction but it became a classic symbol of impending totalitarianism.

It depicted a world perpetually at war with three superpowers seeking dominance.

The facts of life in 1984 bear little resemblance to his fiction.

But Orwell, from his personal experience, wrote other essays worth re-reading and heeding.

One such is called "Shooting an Elephant."

George Orwell, as a minor colonial official of the British Government half a century ago, was stationed in a small village in Burma.

One afternoon, excited natives rushed up to his thatched hut headquarters to announce that "an elephant had trampled its master to death."

As emissary of the Queen, Mr. Orwell's responsibility was plain. He must be both judge and executioner.

So he slung his gun over his shoulder and started off tracking the great beast.

As he walked, Mr. Orwell pondered his predicament. He did not want to shoot the elephant.

Alive, the great work beast was worth a hundred pounds, Dead, its tusks would be worth less than five pounds.

Yet, as the excited natives trotted alongside, eyeing the white man carefully for any show or sign of "weakness" so that they might laugh and jeer at him — for the white man's greatest problem in Asia then and now is to keep from being laughed at — Mr. Orwell knew what he must do. He must shoot the elephant.

In that awful instant Mr. Orwell realized what colonialism really implies — that when one man seeks to rule another it is his own freedom he destroys. For then he must do, not what he wants, but what is expected of him.

He shot the elephant.

Historians fearful that civilization is helpless to do anything but go in circles, must be encouraged by recent expressions of willingness by Americans to back out of such no-win situations as this in Lebanon.

There is no ignominy in a stragegic retreat. Napoleon was defeated by his adversary's strategic retreat.

Indeed, if from Vietnam our nation learned a lasting lesson, then the mothers of those fifty-nine thousand flag-draped coffins will not have to feel that their sons died for nothing.

Then, indeed, the first war we ever lost will have been the first one we ever won.

Your Birthday

Feb. 9, 1984

Your possibilities for success this coming year look good, provided you do not have more projects going at one time than you can competently manage. Be selective.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It will be up to you to put a stop to outside influences coming in and disturbing the tranquility of your home today. Plug the openings. Your romantic compatibilities are revealed in the Astro-Graph Matchmaker set. Get yours by mailing $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. For your 1984 Astro-Graph predictions, send an additional $1 and your zodiac sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be extra-mindful of what you say today or you could find yourself on a collision course with a strongly opinionated individual.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Monitor your resources carefully today. Try to keep your budget in balance. Clear up old obligations before assuming any new ones.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today you will be judged by the company you keep, so select your companions with care. Don't let the actions of others tarnish your image.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's important to maintain a steady schedule today. If you leave tasks until the last minute, the quality of your performance will suffer.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Speculative ventures should not be entered into hastily today. Jumping in before you have all the facts could lead to your undoing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you have a chip on your shoulder today, you're sure to find one or more persons prepared to knock it off. Avoid confrontations.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Giving someone a piece of your mind today will only serve to momentarily lessen your frustrations. However, the damage you cause could be lasting.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be extra-careful today where your prized possessions are concerned. Don't leave anything lying about that could tempt a dishonest person.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Independence is an admirable quality, provided it is not carried to extremes today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There are two conditions that can negatively affect your work today — being a clockwatcher and having others peer over your shoulder.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Try to avoid any form of financial involvements with friends today. There's a possibility money could lead to a serious misunderstanding.

Dear Abby

Frustrated Husband Says, 'Take My Wife—Please'

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My wife would like to trade me for a kindly gentleman who is well-to-do and no longer interested in sex. Based upon our 45-year marriage, I can recommend her highly as a person of good moral character and an excellent homemaker. She is also a healthy, attractive, conservative and well-informed woman with many friends.

I am prepared to release my 65-year-old wife to any man she might choose because I want her to be happy.

Also, feeling humiliated and frustrated over my long exile from the marriage bed, I would like to be free to love again.

Can you suggest a way in which I might discreetly "advertise" her availability? If successful, the golden years of three senior citizens might thus be substantially enriched.

SERIOUS IN LAGUNA BEACH, CALIF.

DEAR SERIOUS: If you're looking for a kindly, well-to-do, older gentleman who is no longer interested in sex, take an ad out in The Wall Street Journal.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I live alone in very cramped quarters. I have no complaints until unexpected company drops by. Since I have no warning, I usually ask my guest to stand outside for a few minutes while I quickly tidy up my one room, which serves as living room, bedroom, den and eating area.

One guest said she thought this was very rude of me.

What are my alternatives? I enjoy having company.

CRAMPED IN BURBANK

DEAR CRAMPED: (1) Keep your quarters tidy at all times in case unexpected company knocks on your door. (2) Open your door immediately and bear the embarrassment. (3) Continue to ask drop-ins to wait a few minutes while you rush around trying to make the place presentable.

(P.S. And tell the person who called you "rude" that she won't have to wait outside if she phones first.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the bride who invited 31 singles to her wedding and was furious when 14 accepted and indicated that they were bringing a "date."

A wedding is a special occasion when the friends and family of the bride and groom gather to celebrate a joyous event. It is not a party for strangers.

Presumably, the single person is a friend of the bride or groom and will know most of the people there. But if the single person can't have a good time at a wedding without a date, then he or she should decline the invitation.

B. IN L.A.

DEAR B. Let's hear from a Canadian reader:

DEAR ABBY: The next wedding invitation I receive that does not include an escort, I will decline.

Do you know how lonely it is to attend a wedding where the focus is on the happy couple, their happy parents and their many happily married friends? Couples, couples, couples! And there you are, all by yourself. Then some well-meaning relative says, "Next it's your turn to get married!"

Believe me, Abby, rather than attend alone, I will stay home where I feel more comfortable.

ELIZABETH IN WINNIPEG

Local GS leaders honored

Local Girl Scout leaders, Cheryl Winkles and Sherry Wood, have received the Daisy Award and appreciation plaques from the West Texas Girl Scout Council for outstanding service to the local unit.

Ms. Winkles of Troop 84 and Ms. Wood of Troop 203 have been leaders for three years. They co-chaired the Brownie Tacky Party, the Mini Bazaar, Brownie Day at Camp Boothe Oaks and were co-directors of the Snyder Day Camp.

Ms. Winkles serves as Stanfield troop organizer and Ms. Woods is a certified council trainer.

The coveted Daisy Award is presented each year for excellence at the local troop level and service unit activities. The two were chosen over all other volunteers in the 16-county council.

Girl Scouts are a participating agency of the United Way.

Today's hand is taken from Sumner Cotzin's "Communication." He gave it as a problem in play. It seems that East won the first trick with the 10 of hearts and returned the seven of spades. Then Sumner left it to his readers to play the hand. The rest of the East-West cards were not shown.

We have changed one of North's cards from Sumner's problem, because frankly we are not sure that we would find Sumner's play, which he will show in his next communication.

With the hand as is, we have a rather easy problem. We let the spade ride to dummy, which wins with the king or nine as appropriate.

Then we lead a low club from dummy. It doesn't matter which defender wins the trick. All East-West can do is to cash one more heart trick, and we will take the balance.

Why did we change one card from the North hand? Sumner had given North the K-8 of spades. If we let the seven ride, West's nine will force dummy's king. Then, when we lead a low club, a heart will be led. East's ace will win, and another heart lead will give West a ruff with the 10 of spades for the setting trick.

Suicide high

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. suicide rate has increased dramatically in the past 25 years, especially among people between 15 and 24 years of age, says the American Council of Life Insurance.

Suicides, which began to increase noticeably in the mid-1950s, are currently the third leading cause of death in the 15-24 age group.

ORANGE CHIP COOKIES

We've revised our own variation of an old-time cookie.

¼-pound stick butter, at room temperature or cut into 4 pats
½ cup sugar
3-ounce package cream cheese
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 large egg yolk
1 cup sifted or fork-stirred all-purpose flour
Grated rind of 1 medium orange
1 cup (6 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate
½ cup walnuts, coarsely broken

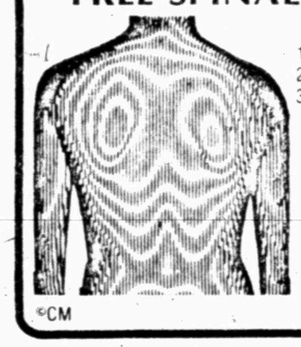

In a medium bowl cream butter, sugar, cream cheese and vanilla; beat in egg yolk until blended. Gradually stir in flour until smooth. Stir in orange rind, chocolate and walnuts. Drop by level tablespoonfuls, about an inch apart, onto buttered cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until bottoms of cookies are golden brown (tops will be white) — 10 minutes. With a wide metal spatula remove to a wire rack to cool completely. Store in a tightly covered container. Makes about 3 dozen.

Low-fasting glucose

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a grandson who was born prematurely at about seven months. His pancreas makes too much insulin and they say this is why he is low on sugar.

The doctors plan on operating to take part of the pancreas out. I've never heard of this. Can this be done? The baby weighed 1 pound 13 ounces two months ago when he was born. Now he weighs 3 pounds. What do you think about this?

DEAR READER — Low blood sugar or hypoglycemia caused by overproduction of insulin is a relatively rare disorder. The most common type of hypoglycemia is associated with a rebound reaction that occurs after ingesting sweets or carbohydrates.

The overproduction of insulin is associated with low blood glucose levels, even in the fasting state. The other form of hypoglycemia (reactive) has a normal-fasting blood glucose level and it falls only after eating.

There are several causes for having low-fasting blood glucose levels. One of them can be an insulin-producing tumor within the pancreas itself. Should that be the case, the usual treatment is to remove it. This would be very uncommon in a small baby, but it's not so uncommon in adults. In such instances the removal of the source of excess insulin usually produces a cure.

I've explained the dynamics of low blood glucose problems and have included some examples of fasting hypoglycemia in the Health Letter 18-8, Hypoglycemia: The Low Blood Sugar Problem, which I'm sending you. Others who are interested can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My 56-year-old husband wakes at night gasping for air. Sometimes I think it's a heart attack. Our internist sent him to a respiratory specialist and all of his tests were fine.

I thought that possibly he was having esophageal reflux, so he had X-rays, but there was nothing there.

We don't know what kind of doctor to take him to next. These spasms happen about two times a year.

DEAR READER — I would have to know more of your husband's history, but your letter suggests the possibility of sleep apnea. These individuals momentarily stop breathing. In many cases it's associated with obstruction of the upper airway. It's common in overweight, middle-aged or older men, but it happens to women as well.

Sometimes it can be dangerous. If the attacks are severe or frequent, they may be controlled by a tracheostomy. The resulting hole in the windpipe is left open at night allowing air to go directly into the lungs, bypassing the obstruction in the upper airway.

Another part of the problem are the excessive folds of tissue at the back of the throat. When relaxed these folds flap together and literally obstruct the airway. Some ear, nose and throat specialists are removing the excess tissue and report good results.

I suggest your husband see an ear, nose and throat specialist for a careful examination. Your husband may need to be evaluated by a sleep center, but let your ear, nose and throat doctor guide you.

Following years of high economic growth and rising living standards, Latin America's gross domestic product (GDP) grew only 1.4 percent in 1981 and dropped 1.2 percent in 1982, says the Inter-American Development Bank. On a per capita basis, it says, the GDP dropped 1 percent in 1981 and 3 percent in 1982, wiping out improvements in standards of living achieved in the two previous years. The decline in per capita incomes was particularly sharp — around 10 percent below 1980 levels — in Argentina, Bolivia, Costa Rica, Chile, El Salvador, Guyana and Uruguay.

Marine withdrawal comes too late

By The Associated Press

Families of U.S. Marines expressed relief at President Reagan's decision to shift the Beirut peacekeeping force to ships offshore, but bitterness marked the reaction of some whose sons and husbands were among the 264 American servicemen killed in Lebanon.

"We're not doing any good there. It's not our war," Rebecca Stephens of Beacon, N.Y., whose son survived the terrorist bombing Oct. 23 at the Marine's Beirut airport compound, said Tuesday.

She said she hoped the forthcoming shift of the 1,600 Marines was a signal that her son, Cpl. Matthew Stephens, won't be shipped back from Camp Lejeune, N.C.. But she acknowledged that he "feels differently. If they sent him back, he'd go. He says it's his duty."

Some of those who have lost family members in Lebanon, like the wife of the late Marine Sgt. Tandy Wells, said they bore Reagan no grudge for having waited to order the redeployment.

"I was glad to hear he took the Marines out of Beirut and put them on the ships, but I don't think it means we have to quit," said Cleta Wells, 42, of Jacksonville, N.C., the site of Camp Lejeune.

Her husband died with 240 other servicemen in the attack on Marine headquarters, "but the situation wasn't then like it is now. Of course I would always wish something would have happened so ... (her husband) wouldn't have had to give his life. But my husband died for what he believed."

Marine Lance Cpl. Kevin Miller is still in Beirut and his mother, Beverly Miller of Avoca, N.Y., said she was glad to hear Reagan's decision. "It's a worry. Every time one of the Marines over there is injured or killed, you don't hear anything and you just sit and worry."

"I just thank God he's (Reagan's) doing something," said Mrs. Thomas Lancie of Webster, N.Y., whose son Jeffrey has completed one tour in the ravaged Middle Eastern capital and could be sent back in July or August.

"We're just praying they're out of there by summer."

But for Patricia Smith of Port Huron, Mich., mother of the late Marine Sgt. Michael Massman, Reagan's decision is too late.

"If he takes them out of there, what did all these boys die for?" said Mrs. Smith, whose son died in the terrorist bombing. Vera Brown of Detroit, mother of another victim of the suicide-bombing, also expressed bitterness.

"Little by little, they're being wounded and killed, and for what?" said Mrs. Brown, mother of the late Marine Sgt. Anthony K. Brown. "I lost mine, and I hate to see these families and parents go through what we went through."

"I am not a military person. I can only go by what my president says is necessary," said Arlene Lange, the mother of Navy Lt. Mark A. Lange, killed during a December air raid over Lebanon. "He knows an awful lot more than you or I, or these Monday-morning quarterbacks.

"Politics have no place with life on the line. There really isn't any point in speculating," she said.

"My son was over there because he was a professional Marine officer," said Walter Wint Sr. of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., the father of Capt. Walter Wint Jr., who died in the blast at the compound. "I don't question what the president does."

Sweden's Dag Hammarskjold was reelected in 1957 to a fiveyear term as U.N. SecretaryGeneral.

March of Dimes campaign slated Saturday in Snyder

March of Dimes representatives will canvas Snyder Saturday seeking donations, Donna Gray, local Mother's March chairman, said.

She reports that as of today the local goal of $8,000 has been exceeded and contributions are still being received. She anticipates that next year the local chapter will have more time to prepare for the annual event.

Several local youth have joined in the effort to raise funds for March of Dimes including Joel Smith, Michael Smith, Michelle Harper and Christie Necessary.

Randy Gressett is assisting Gray with local fund raising efforts.

The Caprock Chapter needs volunteers from Snyder to help educate the public on what services that the March of Dimes Foundation offers. If you are interested in finding out how you might help, contact the March of Dimes, Caprock chapter, P. O. Box 2767, Big Spring, Tex. 79720 or call (915) 263-3014.

Gray said that if anyone is missed Saturday and would like to contribute they may mail in their contribution to the above address.

City approves detention area

MINERAL WELLS, Texas (AP) — City Council memebers have have voted 4-3 not to oppose putting a controversial alien detention center at an abandoned Army base.

Officials for Palo Duro Detention Services, the private firm that will run the 600-inmate prison, says that inmates could begin arriving in 40 days. The facility will be the first privately operated federal prison.

Several residents enraged by the council's vote said they would begin a petition drive today seeking to recall the four council members who voted Tuesday night in favor of the prison — Mayor Ellis White, Jack Harklerode, Claude Pewitt and Wiley Gratts.

"Seventy to 80 percent (of residents) are opposed to it, and four people including our mayor sat there and voted for it in direct opposition to the people they are supposed to represent," Lottie Williams, office manager for an oil and gas company, said after Tuesday's meeting. "I think we'd be remiss if we didn't go for a recall."

City administrators acknowledged that they had no way to prevent Palo Duro from placing the prison in Mineral Wells, but company officials had said they would abide by the council's wishes.

The City Council vote before an overflow crowd Tuesday came shortly after the council was handed petitions signed by about 1,200 people opposing the prison in Mineral Wells.

The Chamber of Commerce also opposed the prison 2-to-1 in a straw poll of its members, and a business organization has been vociferously critical of it.

Palo Duro vice president T.L. Baker said the company is aware of the opposition but not concerned.

The firm plans to begin work immediately renovating some three-story barracks at the old Fort Wolters complex, now an industrial park, Baker said.

"This will not make any change in our plans. We had asked for the council vote, and it was a favorable vote, so we plan to go ahead," Baker said. "On any project, anything concerning a detention center, you're going to have some opposition. It wasn't unexpected."

Girl unhurt when car strikes room

AUSTIN (AP) — A 15-month-old girl escaped injury Tuesday when a pickup traveling an estimated 55 to 60 mph slammed into the bedroom of a South Austin duplex and hit her crib.

Officers said the driver of the pickup apparently fell asleep.

Tiffany Rae, the daughter of Robert and Rebecca Rocha, was asleep in her nursery when the accident occurred.

"My wife and I were in bed, and there was this big explosion that woke us up," said Rocha.

"The truck went right into our daughter's bedroom, but I didn't know what had happened at first. It felt like a dream. When I went in there, she was still in the crib, and she was not hurt."

Police said the pickup hit the crib and pushed it across the small bedroom into the west wall. Patrolman J.D. LaFosse, who investigated the accident, said the relaxed condition of the baby as she slept apparently prevented her from being injured.

Police said the pickup, driven by Larry Jimmy Gonzales, ricocheted off a parked station wagon, then careened across the roadway. The truck went over a culvert and through a wooden fence and a chain link fence before smashing into the back of the duplex.

Gonzales, 29, was treated at a south Austin hospital for back and neck pain and facial cuts, LaFosse said. Gonzales was later discharged.

Court turns down claim by victim

AUSTIN (AP) — A man who lost the sight in one eye when he was slammed in the face by an ex-convict's brass knuckles cannot collect Crime Victim Compensation funds because he filed his claim two days late, the Texas Supreme Court ruled today.

Without writing an opinion, the high court found no reversible error in lower court decisions denying benefits to William Leo Ames, who was injured on June 1, 1980, while at Sam's Place, a tavern at Possum Kingdom Lake.

The Texas Crime Victims Compensation Act is intended to help Texans who are injured during a crime. Ames' said he had $4,000 in medical bills. He also sought the $150 per week maximum in lost wages.

Ames lost the sight in his right eye and suffered a crushed cheek bone after being hit, according to court records.

State law requires claims under the Crime Victims Compensation Act to be filed within 180 days of the incident. Ames' claim was filed 182 days after he was injured, However, his appeal said he was mentally and physically incapable of filing for three days.

Ames wanted those three days subtracted from the 182. That would have put him one day under the 180-day limit.

But Justice Joe Spurlock of the Fort Worth Court of Appeals said lawmakers set the 180-day limit and made no provision for stopping the clock if the victim was too injured to file a claim.

Justice William Burdock of the Fort Worth appeals court dissented, saying the state's position in the Ames case was "untenable." Burdock said "if a person were to be unconscious for six months and therefore not able to file for an extension (the victim) would not be eligible for any benefits because a claim was not filed."

Former Japanese Premier Hideki Tojo attempted suicide Sept. 11, 1945, but he recovered and was later executed as a war criminal.

Budget battle is shaping up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talks between administration officials and members of Congress on President Reagan's call for a $100 billion "down payment" to reduce deficits are getting off to a shaky start with senior Democrats and Republicans already predicting failure.

At Reagan's urging, five top presidential advisers and two members each from the House and Senate were gathering today at Blair House, the government's official guest residence across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House.

But prospects for the negotiations were bleak.

"How," asked Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd, "can anyone realistically expect the whole budget to be rewritten by a few members of Congress and administration representatives meeting downtown, whether at the White House or Blair House or wherever?

The fact of the matter is the process of crafting a budget requires weeks and weeks of careful preparation;" said Byrd, of West Virginia.

Reagan's invitation to the talks was issued a week before he sent Congress a fiscal 1985 spending plan that projects deficits of $180 billion in each of the next few years, not far off the record $195.4 billion posted in 1983.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., has said the president called for the election-year talks simply to "pass the buck" on the issue of huge federal budget deficits.

Legislative efforts to significantly reduce federal budget deficits have been stalled since last year by Reagan's insistence that big increases in taxes or big reductions in military spending are off limits while Democratic leaders ruled out further domestic spending cuts.

But the president's key economic advisers have been urging Congress to take the talks seriously and slash the enormous budget deficits or risk sending the economy into a tailspin.

Midday prices were 60 cents a bale lower to $1.75 higher than the previous close. Mar 76.50, May 76.50, Jul 76.40, Oct 73.55, Dec 72.12, Mar 73.60, May b74.00 and Jul. b74.25.

Legislator calls for firing probe

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — State Rep. Ray Keller, R-Duncanville, has called for a criminal investigation into the firings of Texas Department of Corrections employees.

A TDC investigation into allegations of mistreatment of prisoners resulted in the firing of six employees, including one warden, the demotion of 11 guards and reprimands for 26 other employees.

Keller said TDC officials should turn over results of their investigation to law enforcement officials responsibile for investigating criminal violations of prisoner's civil rights.

"It is appropriate for the TDC to turn over the reports just like we would expect any law-abiding citizen to report a possible crime," Keller said.

Dan Hedges, U.S. attorney for the Southern District, said there are no federal grand jury subpoenas for TDC reports into the brutality incidents.

Hedges declined comment on whether a grand jury would look into the TDC findings on inmate beatings.

Keller, chairman of the House Law Enforcement Committee and a critic of the prison system, said local district attorneys usually investigate brutality charges.

"The point is it was a major hurdle to get the TDC to do anything with personnel," Keller said. "That was a major victory in itself."

MUSEUM VISITORS– Doug Watkins from the Hide Town Bronze Works described the making of bronze sculptures for a group of fifth graders from Stanfield Elementary School when they visited the Diamond M Museum Tuesday. The museum is currently featuring a group of bronzes from its permanent collection in a special display and the students viewed that exhibit as part of the program.

Two men killed by automatic rifle fire

DALLAS (AP) — The slayings of two men killed by a burst of gunfire from an automatic weapon appear to be drug-related, police said.

Police said they had no suspects in the slayings of Luther Eugene Dickerson, 47, and Bobby John Whatley, 34, both of Dallas. Both men were pronounced dead on arrival at Parkland Memorial Hospital shortly before 1 a.m. Tuesday.

Witnesses told police the men were killed by a burst of automatic weapon fire as they attempted to change a flat tire on a luxury car in the parking lot of an apartment complex in north Dallas.

Homicide investigator Bob Alexander said the killings appeared to be drug-related. Hospital workers found several containers of a powdery substance, believed to be cocaine, in the victims' clothing, police said.

More than a dozen shots fired from a large-caliber automatic weapon, possibly .45-caliber, riddled the men and their rented Lincoln Continental, police said.

Congressional leaders are expressing relief

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate leaders of both parties are expressing relief that President Reagan ordered the U.S. Marines in Lebanon shifted to Navy ships offshore, but some critics pressed for a complete withdrawal of all American military forces from the area.

"Moving them to the ships is not far enough. I want to move them all the way home," said conservative Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Asked if the United States would suffer in the Middle East, Goldwater recalled the Vietnam War and said, "I would rather lose a little face than half a million men."

Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. was more restrained, saying now that there is full civil war in Lebanon, "the Marines are no longer serving a useful military or diplomatic purpose."

With the situation now changed, Baker said, the withdrawal to the ships "was the only prudent reply given the circumstances. The alternative is to increase the military presence there, and that would not be wise."

Baker said the administration's tentative plan is to move 500 Marines immediately, and transfer the rest over the next month, leaving 50 troops to guard the U.S. Embassy in Beirut.

Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, called the president's action prudent.

"Our diplomatic efforts should now be further intensified in order to seek progress towards a peaceful resolution of the problems of Lebanon. There is little reason for optimism, but we can do no less than our best," he said.

Percy said his committee would be meeting today with administration representatives to discuss the next steps.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said he hopes the withdrawal moves quickly.

And he added: "I am very sad at the way things have developed in Lebanon.... While I and others acquiesced in the decision, it became clear some time ago that the president's policy was wrong from the beginning."

Last September, O'Neill accepted and Congress approved a compromise War Powers Resolution which permitted Reagan to keep the Marines in Lebanon until April 1985.

But that was before the truck-bombing which killed 241 U.S. servicemen, and the continued heavy fighting among religious factions which O'Neill said demonstrated that the administration failed to anticipate how hard it would be to unify Lebanon.

Another persistent critic of the administration policy, Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., said, "The president is right to remove the Marines ... it's obvious ... that his policy has failed."

In the House, Rep. Ike Skelton, R-Mo., praised the decision but in a reference to the truck bombing and other Marine casualties said, it "comes over 200 deaths too late."

Defendant in custody

Scurry County sheriff's officers jailed one defendant named in a felony indictment returned Monday by the Scurry County grand jury Tuesday afternoon.

Now being held in Scurry County Jail is James Jasper White. He was charged Monday with one count of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon.

Bond for White was set at $10,000 on that charge but he is being held without bond on a state warrant for parole violation prompted by the indictment returned Monday.

A second arrest was reported Tuesday also. Local highway patrolmen reported arresting one man for DWI on U.S Highway 84 near Snyder late Tuesday afternoon.

Investigation now stopped by detectives

City police detectives closed the books on two recent criminal mischief incidents reported earlier in the week at the Gary Durst residence at 3205 Ave. H. The complaintant requested that the cases be dropped.

You may have a deduction...

Some office rules strict

By Robert Metz
(11th of 14 articles)

Many taxpayers may have overlooked a major tax deduction that has arrived unexpectedly on the keyboard of a personal computer. Lots of people are now earning income at home on personal computers and this may lead to a deduction for a home office.

This is not an automatic means to tax savings. The deduction itself is carefully limited to rule out, for example, individuals who work at home for their own personal convenience and in doing so shun space set aside for them at the offices where they are employed.

CUT YOUR OWN TAXES AND SAVE

To prevent a major revenue drain, the Internal Revenue Service has limited the home office deduction to employees who have no such choice. In many other respects, home office rules are now stricter than they've been since the deduction was first allowed.

Even so, many individuals who are unable to go to an office are finding that they can continue their employment, connected to their jobs through the umbilical cord of a personal computer. And when they do meet the strict rules for home offices, they win their deduction.

Here's an example of a legitimate home office deduction that works with or without a computer link. Let's say a taxpayer left to have a baby. With a baby at home, she can no longer commute to work.

Let's say that through direct employment or through a free-lance arrangement she does, say, secretarial work with or without a computer. If she sets aside space for this work, she'll probably be able to qualify for a deduction for her home office.

There are, of course, numerous other home office examples. And they'll no doubt proliferate as computer use becomes more widespread.

Jack Nilles, of the University of Southern California, is also an author. He monitors computer trends. By 1990, he believes several million computer users will be working at least part of the time at home.

Just remember that if you use space in your home as an off-premises employee or as a free-lancer, you should check the rules to see if you can qualify. Once again, the computer is not the only route to a deduction for a home office. Here, then, are the rules.

If you use part of your home regularly and exclusively for business purposes, you can probably deduct a part of the operating and depreciation expenses incurred in running your home. To qualify a part of your home it must either be your principal place of any business; or it must be used by patients, clients or customers who meet with you in the normal course of your trade or business.

Remember the caveat: The IRS says that if the regular and exclusive business use is for your work as an employee, use must be for the convenience of your employer and not simply helpful in your job.

TAX TIP: Recently, the IRS relaxed its strict rule that the office area must be a separate room or a divided area of a room. Although the IRS will look very closely at this, you may now claim a deduction for an undivided area of a room. The space must, however, be used solely for business purposes; you may not claim your den if you use it both for work and more general personal use.

TAX TIP: A taxpayer can have more than one principal place of business. Thus, an employed taxpayer who also operates a free-lance business at home may be able to qualify for home office deductions.

TAX TRAP: If you do deduct expenses for a home office, you will come under special rules when you sell your home. If you defer the capital gains tax on your profit by replacing your home with one of equal or greater value, you must reduce your capital gains exclusion by that portion of the home claimed as office. This could be substantial.

TAX TIP: If you have a home office that you use for a free-lance business, you may want to lease a computer instead of buying one outright. Assuming that you use the computer exclusively for your business in the home, the full lease expense would be deductible.

TAX TIP: Those who buy computers outright should be aware that they change with breathtaking rapidity. Even so, most microcomputers are subject to depreciation over five years, under the asset cost recovery system. Those who own such computers can take a 15 percent write-off the first year — even if you received the computer for Christmas. In the second year the depreciation rate is 22 percent and in the third, fourth and fifth years, the rate is 21 percent. The taxpayer can also use a 10 percent investment tax credit but this will reduce his depreciation base by as much as 5 percent.

Chad Peterson's 13-foot jump shot with two seconds left in the game eased a determined Snyder Tiger team past Sweetwater here Tuesday night, 65-64.

The victory keeps playoff hopes alive for the Tigers, who are in a three-way tie with Sweetwater and Pecos for third place in District 2-4A.

Snyder, now 7-4 in district play, 11-15 for the season, will travel Friday to Fort Stockton for a 7:45 tipoff.

Peterson's winning shot climaxed a thriller of a fourth quarter, which featured eight lead changes and two tie scores. It came after Coach Larry Scott had his Tigers call time out to set up a final play with 11 seconds remaining.

"We wanted to set up a pressure situation against them but they fell back into the zone. It was basically our out-of-bounds play that we went to. The ball was to go to the open man and Chad was it," said Scott.

In fact, Peterson and Paul Tate passed the ball back and fourth a couple of times before the 5-8 senior found enough room to launch the shot. It hit nothing but net, and fell into Mustang player Michael Welch's hands as the buzzer sounded with Sweetwater desperately trying to call time out.

The outcome left Sweetwater stunned, while Snyder fans stood up and cheered for several minutes before making their way out of the coliseum.

It looked early on as if Sweetwater might run away with the game, but Snyder kept coming back. The Mustangs used a bucket from Welch and five freethrows to build a 19-12 advantage with just over two minutes to play in the first quarter. The Tigers came back on a pair of field goals from high-leaper Willie Greathouse, however, and trailed only 21-16.

Sweetwater repeated the show of strength in the second quarter. With 6-5 John Layfield and 6-6 John VanDever hitting the boards, the visitors pushed out to a 30-22 lead before Snyder came back strong again.

Peterson knocked down a couple of freethrows and John Murphy dropped in a layup to cut four points off the lead with a minute to play. Peterson's short jumper at the buzzer left Sweetwater ahead only 34-32 at intermission.

"We studied the video from the last (Sweetwater) game and we knew we could get inside against them pretty easliy," said Scott. "So we kept taking it into Willie and John. Willie missed a few there but we just kept telling him to keep shooting.

"They were getting the rebounds though. I think Layfield and VanDever got most of their points by tipping the ball back in. They led us 17 to 7 on the boards after the first half and I thought that was the big difference," added the coach.

Snyder came back out in the second half and played a better game under the boards. In fact the smaller Tigers outrebounded Sweetwater 12-11 in the final two periods.

The third quarter was a tradeoff until Sunny Cobb scored a field goal, then was fouled and went to the line for two freethrows with 41 seconds to go. He made both charity shots, giving Snyder the lead, 49-48. Welch quickly put Sweetwater in front again, but Cobb got the final bucket of the quarter and Snyder went into the fourth period clinging to a 51-50 lead.

As in the third, neither team controlled the fourth period. Sweetwater scored first, but Snyder came back with two goals and a 55-52 advantage. Back came the Mustangs on a 16-footer by Welch, and so it went, the lead changing with almost every basket.

The swap meet carried on into the final minute when Greathouse scored on a three-point play that left Snyder ahead 63-62 and sent VanDever to the bench with 29 seconds remaining. Sweetwater worked the ball back up court and got it into Neal Hoover, who put the visitors back on top with 17 seconds left.

That set up Peterson's game-winning shot as Snyder then got the ball past the mid-court line and called time out to set up final strategy.

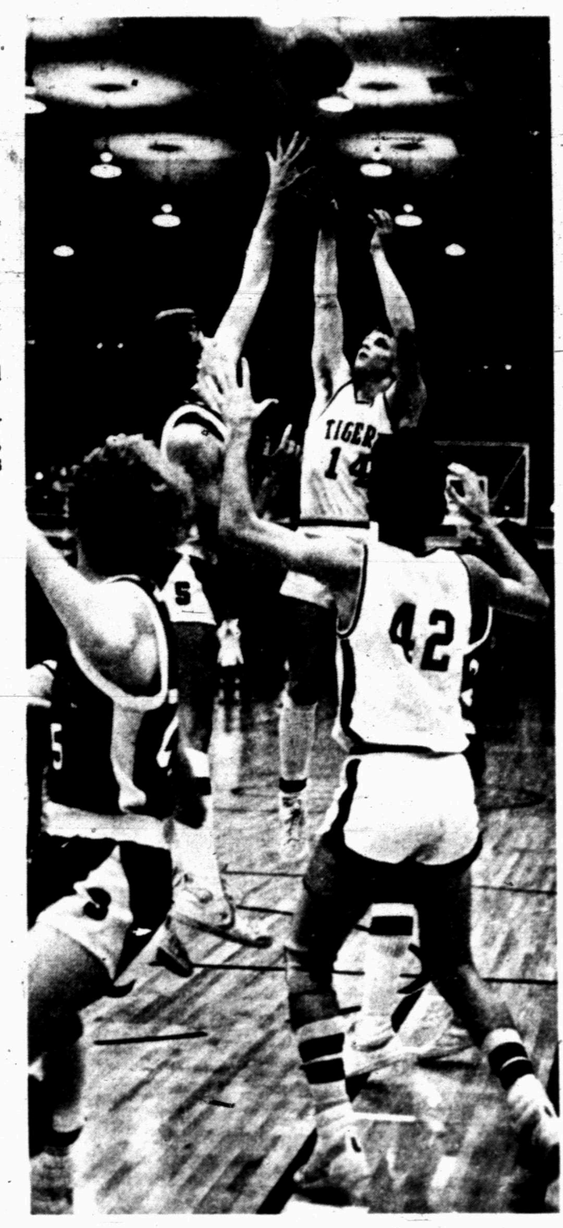

Greathouse's 18 points led the Tigers, who also got 14 from Murphy, 12 from Cobb and 11 from Peterson. Tate put in 7 and Marcus McGlouthin added 3.

Murphy led Snyder on the boards with nine rebounds.

Sweetwater was led by Welch's 21 points. VanDever scored 15 and Layfield had 14.

Sweetwater, which slipped to 18-7 on the season, will entertain Monahans on Friday.

District races set for showdowns

District 2-4A basketball races, perhaps witnessing their most balanced season in a number of years, get set for a stretch run this weekend with almost every game an important one.

Friday's games mark the end of regular season play in the girls standings and to cap it off, league-leading San Angelo Lake View travels to Andrews. Lake View is 12-1 today after ripping Lamesa 73-38 Tuesday night while Andrews is 11-2. Also at 11-2 are Sweetwater's girls.

Andrews romped over Fort Stockton 75-45 and Sweetwater floored Snyder 79-37. In a game which did not influence the standings race, Pecos defeated Monahans 54-36.

A victory for the Lake View Maidens on Friday would earn them the 2-4A championship. Sweetwater, which hosts Monahans, would take runnerup with a win there. But should Lake View lose to Andrews, a three-way tie could exist.

The situation in the 2-4A boys race tightened after Snyder clipped Sweetwater 65-64. That left three teams, Snyder, Sweetwater and Pecos, tied for third place with 7-4 records. Pecos earned a share of the tie by popping Monahans 50-37.

The way is clear for Lamesa, however. The Golden Tornadoes blitzed Lake View 104-54 Tuesday to remain undefeated at 11-0. Lamesa can take the 2-4A championship a week ahead of schedule by defeating Pecos on Friday.

Andrews, 8-3, kept a hold on second place by defeating Fort Stockton, 63-43.

With three games left on the boys schedule, no less than four teams have a shot at the runnerup spot. Key upcoming games include the Lamesa-at-Pecos contest Friday, Andrews at Snyder and Sweetwater versus Pecos next Tuesday and Sweetwater versus Andrews on the following Friday, Feb. 17.

Sweetwater girls combined a well-tuned outside game with a superior night on the boards to exit the city with a convincing 79-37 win over the Lady Tigers here Tuesday.

The win kept the Lady Mustangs tied for second place in the District 2-4A standings alongside Andrews, both with 11-2 records.

Sweetwater worked out to a 25-12 lead, then outscored the hosts 11-2 to begin the second quarter. Snyder scored the first goal of the eight-minute period, but didn't tally again until Lee Ann Pierce hit a single freethrow with 3:56 left. By halftime, the Mustangs were ahead 46-19.

Snyder fashioned a brief comeback attempt in the third period as Carie Housden scored the first five points of the quarter. Sweetwater came back on the strength of the McCain sisters, Deborah and Sandra, taking a 62-30 advantage into the final period.

Snyder played much of the game without sophomore Karlene Thompson, who fouled out with 5:34 to play in the third quarter.

Housden led the Tigers with 21 points - 11 from the freethrow line. Her success from the stripe, 11 of 14, was not typical of the hosts, however. For the night, Snyder was 17 of 39. The Tigers faired no better from the field, scoring on just 10 of 51 field goal attempts.

In addition to Housden's 21, Thompson had 7 points, Becky Gray 3, and Pierce, Wendy Lunsford and Threasa Ashworth 2 apiece.

Housden led on the boards with 12 rebounds. Thompson had nine.

Deborah McCain knocked down 26 points for Sweetwater, now 24-5 for the season. Stephanie Upshaw had 21 points and Sandra McCain added 18.

Snyder, now 10-14 and 3-10 in district play, concludes the season on Friday by traveling to Fort Stockton for a 6:15 ballgame. The Lady Mustangs play at Andrews in a key 2-4A matchup.

JV girls defeated by 'Stangs, 44-37

Sweetwater girls overcame a first-quarter slump to defeat Snyder here Tuesday in junior varsity action, 44-37.

Snyder led 7-4 early, but the Mustangs put up 14 second-quarter points for a 28-17 halftime lead, then outscored the Cats 15-4 in the third period.

Stephanie McKnight had 15 points, eight steals and seven rebounds for the Cats. Hope Hernandez and Rena Alexander scored 7 points apiece and Cintia Gonzales had 6. Gonzales and Stacey Dunk also pulled down seven rebounds apiece.

Sweetwater got 16 points from Cheryl Watson and 12 from Regina Blueford.

Cats triumph

Snyder junior varsity boys copped their 17th consecutive victory here Tuesday, but struggled along the way, nipping Sweetwater's Mustangs 48-46.

"We didn't play well offensively at all," said Coach Bud Birks. "Our defense in the second and fourth quarters won the game for us."

Sweetwater went in front 18-12 but Snyder came back to go ahead 26-24 at halftime. The Cats led most of the rest of the way, though Sweetwater rallied from an eight-point deficit late in the game and had a chance to tie with seconds on the clock.

Chris Garrett led Snyder with 18 points. Jackie Anderson had 12 and Wade Forga put in 8.

The win gives Snyder a 21-5 season record with three games left on the schedule. The Cats travel to Fort Stockton Friday for a 4:30 p.m. contest.

New role for troops hazaradous

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's action allowing U.S. naval gunfire and warplanes to support the beleaguered Lebanese government puts the U.S. government directly and militarily on one side in the civil war ravaging Lebanon.

While Reagan's decision to withdraw U.S. Marines from land positions may help him politically, his order permitting air and naval gun backing for the Lebanese government may open him to charges that he is involving the United States more deeply in the fighting.

Although it clearly has favored the government of Amin Gemayel, the United States has pictured its role in Lebanon as a diplomatic middleman seeking a negotiated solution, including Syrian agreement to withdraw all its troops from Lebanon as the Israelis have agreed to do.

In that role, U.S. warships off Lebanon have been allowed to shoot or launch carrier air strikes at Moslem positions only to protect the Marines, other elements of the multinational force and U.S. reconnaissance planes.

With the likelihood that U.S. Navy guns and warplanes will weigh in more heavily in future fighting, some critics are likely to accuse the administration of subordinating the peace-seeking mission and of inviting increased antagonism from the Arab world.

Administration officials, discussing the new Reagan move Tuesday, said that "Syrian and Syrian-backed forces can no longer stand off and shell government facilities, neighborhoods and Lebanese military positions" in the Beirut area.

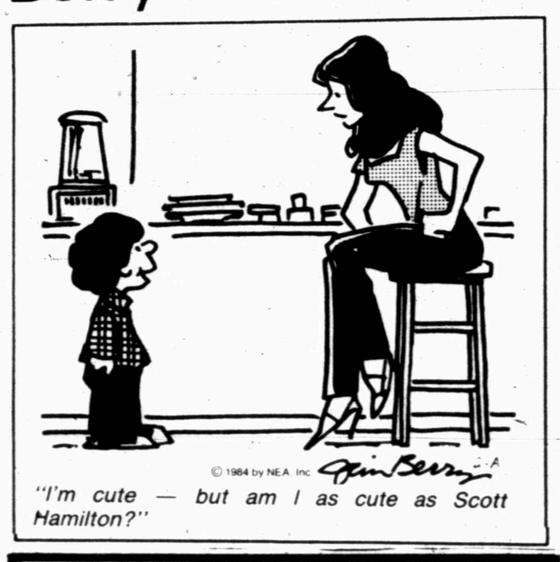

"They can't fire with impunity," said one official, who spoke only on condition he remain anonymous.

SS roles are now at all-time high

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Social Security rolls, after dropping two years ago due to the elimination of some benefits and a disability crackdown, are growing again and hit an all-time high in January.

James Brown, spokesman for the Social Security Administration, said 36,182,998 retired or disabled workers and their families received benefits in January. That was about 22,000 more beneficiaries than in March 1982, when the previous record was set.

The number of beneficiaries had soared upward without interruption every year from 1940, when the first 222,488 people began drawing monthly Social Security checks.

But after hitting 36,161,000 in March 1982, the rolls began contracting as the system felt the impact of changes that the Reagan administration and Congress made in 1981, as well as the sweeping disability reviews launched that year.

The lawmakers ordered a phase-out of Social Security benefits for college students ages 18 to 22, who used to draw regular dependents' benefits if they had a parent who was retired, disabled or deceased. Students' benefits also were halted for the first time in the summer months.

Another change adopted in 1981 led to a cutoff of benefits for widowed mothers when their youngest child turned 16 instead of 18. Widows without children in their care must wait to age 60 to draw benefits, or 50 if they are disabled.

In January 1981, before the congressionally-ordered disability reviews began, 2,857,331 disabled workers were drawing tax-free monthly checks. A million had their eligibility checked over the next 2½ years and 45 percent were told they were fit to work.

Many managed to keep their benefits on appeal. Counting those workers awarded disability for the first time, the number of disabled worker beneficiaries dropped to 2,571,727 by April 1983 — a reduction of 285,604. There has been little change in that figure since then.

The total number of beneficiaries dipped to 35,278,027 in August 1982 — down by nearly 900,000 in five months. But then it began building back up, with some monthly fluctuations, to the current all-time high.

Brown said Social Security's actuaries expect the number to swell to 36.4 million by June. The Reagan administration fiscal 1985 budget projects further growth to nearly 37 million next year.

"It's due to the greying of America," said Brown, referring to the nation's gradually rising median age.

The cost of Social Security's retirement and disability programs is expected to rise from $179.8 billion this year to $191.3 billion next year.
