County gets new power plant

To be built near Westbrook

MAKING IT OFFICIAL — County judge Ray Mayo (left) announces an agreement with FGE Texas to build a natural gas power plant in the county. Also pictured are Emerson Farrell (center) of FGE Power and Ross McCausland of Protos Energy Advisory.

Mitchell County Judge Ray Mayo stepped in front of the microphone in the foyer at the Mitchell County Courthouse Monday and made an announcement which has been spread all over Texas. After welcoming the interested parties which had crammed into the lobby, Judge Mayo told them what they had come expecting to hear.

"This is an exciting day in Mitchell County," Judge Mayo said. "We're here to announce a major undertaking that we've been working on for a couple years with our board of economic development. We are here to announce the creation, or I guess a partnership with a company which is going to build a gas powered power plant in Mitchell County."

Mayo then turned the floor over to Emerson Farrell, President and CEO of FGE Power, LLC.

"We are calling our project here in Mitchell County FGE Texas. It will be a next-generation, high efficiency gas plant, which we feel is critical at this time, both for Texas and our country," Farrell said. "We hear about job losses continuously and the best way to change that tide is through infrastructure and development projects such as ours."

The 726-megawatt plant is expected to create as many as 400 jobs during its construction phase, which should last from as early as September until its expected completion in 2016. After construction, the plant will require 18-20 fulltime employees to run and maintain the operation.

Farrell said the "clean, affordable energy" would also serve as a backup to the area's wind energy, as well as those in Fort Worth and Houston.

Mysterious water line ruptured north of I-20

Several months ago, Colorado City Manager David Hoover asked the city council for the authority to contract someone to find and map all the water lines, shutoffs and connections in the city. Last Wednesday night, for the third time in the last two months, the city saw the importance of that request, as a water line spewed thousands of gallons of water onto the ground, as the city attempted to repair the problem and find the shut off valve.

A crew burying fiber optic cables along the north service road of I-20, just east of the sports complex, unearthed an eight foot section of pipe, unleashing the flood.

"They had requested line location from the city," Hoover said, "but the information we have is not always accurate."

Hoover said the city maps were dictated to a former city manager by past employees, with information they retrieved from their own memories. He said the maps have been an ongoing process for some time and still require much

County agrees to provide land, water for power plant

After a brief executive session Monday morning, the Mitchell County Commissioners Court returned to open court and immediately approved the purchase of property in the Westbrook area to be used for a new natural gas powered power plant. The court agreed to purchase 157.2 acres from Vince Hatfield and then execute an option to purchase an additional 40 acres from Joe Morren. The court, minus Jeremy Strain, who was not in attendance, voted unanimously to acquire the land necessary.

In a signed Memorandum of Agreement between Mitchell County and FGE Texas, LLC, the county agreed to purchase and provide the property at no

Police chief fighting back against drugs

"I am tired of these people hanging this stuff in our face and I decided we are going to fight back," Colorado City Police Chief Roy Owens said Tuesday, speaking of a growing drug problem in the city. "We have known we have a problem in C-City for a while now and I have gotten with my officers and I told them I am flat sick of it."

The chief said his department had experienced a "pretty good week" with arrests, most noticeably dealing with illegal

AND THE WATER WAS PARTED — After a water line was ruptured along the north service road of I-20 last week, crews were forced to pump the water out of the way so they could attempt to fix the break.

Trade Days this weekend

Chamber of Commerce president Ty Wood wishes to invite everyone to join him at the twice-annual Railhead Trade Days March 16-17 at the Railhead Building.

It has not been too long since the sure demise of Twinkie's was announced. A reprieve of the Hostess company has renewed hope for the long-standing traditional cakes, and it may prove to be just in time, as the Railhead Trade Days are upon us again. Bringing with all the fun, will hopefully be the deep fried goodness many have feared has long passed.

One new attraction this year will be an added food vendor, as the Masonic Lodge has agreed to show off just a bit and feed the masses proper.

Booths will be open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Saturday and then again from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. Sunday. Be sure to bring plenty of anticipation, as the twice-annual event has been gathering steam as it goes along. This year should prove to be no different.

Aside from the many food booths, which should hold the attention of even the most discerning patron, there will be plenty of new and returning vendors, selling everything from crosses to fine china.

Plenty of children's wear will also be in store for parents who know all too well that the best place to shop will always be downtown C-City.

Once you are done fitting Jr. for that new pair of Wranglers, send him off to enjoy himself. Let him get his face painted and maybe even sneak in a bit of cotton candy.

Meanwhile, mom and dad can find all the jewelry, clothing, sports collectibles and gift items they could ever use...and then some.

But back to the food. Barbecue, grilled meats and all the fixin's are waiting for anyone willing to put that diet on hold for a couple days. And just in case you can't break that diet on meat alone, there is sure to be the traditional fair food as well. Funnel cakes and fried Snickers, nestled ever so gently beside corn dogs and chili dogs. My, oh my! See you there.

March 19 declared national ag day

The Texas Farm Service Agency (FSA) suggests that we all take a moment in these turbulent fiscal times to celebrate agriculture and honor our hard-working farmers and ranchers in Texas. Keith Hiser, Mitchell County Executive Director, announced that March 19 is National Ag Day and this year's theme is "Generations Nourishing

"Generations". According to recent USDA studies, the agricultural sector right now remains a bright spot in terms of economic stability and growth and there is a strong demand for U.S. agricultural products," said Hiser. "Generation after generation of agricultural producers in Texas are getting up early every day to provide the food, fiber and fuel that feed and clothe Americans and others around the world."

Hiser further notes, "As research advances, the future may be even brighter. New uses for ag products are being found to utilize natural ingredients for life-saving medicines and supply the critical commodities required in a long list of manufacturing sectors."

Despite the onslaught of natural disasters weathered by farmers and ranchers this past year that created less than ideal growing conditions, producers still managed to grow the commodities that keep our economy moving forward. And they maintain our abundant supply of renewable resources in an environmentally sensitive manner. "For their life sustaining efforts, we honor Texas' agricultural producers for their vital contributions," said Hiser.

Major commodities produced in Mitchell County include cotton, cattle, wheat and forage crops. Texas agricultural production contributed more than $75 billion in export revenues during 2011.

State cleanup announced

Keep America Beautiful's Great American Cleanup (GAC) is the nation's largest community improvement program, taking place annually from March 1 through May 31. Keep Texas Beautiful (KTB) is a state affiliate of Keep America Beautiful, and administers the Great American Cleanup program for Texas.

Great American Cleanup activities can include beautifying parks and recreation areas, planting trees, removing graffiti, picking up litter, cleaning waterways, handling recycling collections and conducting education programs. The GAC is open to all Texas communities, and events can involve volunteers from all walks of life, such as school groups, garden clubs, Scouts, business leaders and community groups.

Online registration is now available through Keep Texas Beautiful at www.ktb.org. Local organizations can schedule events in their communities and gain access to valuable resources to plan, promote and host an event. Participants can receive trash bags, volunteer giveaways, promotional items, and more to assist in facilitating their cleanup event. Participants may also elect to post their event information on the KTB event calendar.

View the comet this weekend

The time has come for those waiting ever-so patiently to get a glimpse of the PanSTARRS comet. Oran Carroll will be at Ruddick Park this weekend with binoculars and telescopes for everyone to use.

The comet watching party will begin 30 minutes prior to sunset on Friday, March 15 and then again on Saturday, March 16.

"We will have our telescopes ready to go at sunset," Carroll said. "We want to be ready when that huge ice cube appears."

The view should last about 45 minutes, according to Carroll.

The Colorado City Kiwanis will be serving tea and coffee, and like the use of the telescopes, it will be free of charge. Jan Lemons said she was anxious for the event.

"It should be a lot of fun," she said. "I hope everyone comes out to see this."

The velocity of Comet PanSTARRS is between 108,000 and 144,000 miles per hour. Translated roughly, just in the time between the two viewing nights, the comet will have travelled 3,000,000 miles. Now, that's fast.

Carroll said he had been to many events where the hosts were either completely aloof or just plain exclusive. He said he would be never be either.

"That has always been a concern of mine," he said. "I will stand on my head to make sure everyone who comes to our comet watching party will feel they are completely welcomed."

CONGRATULATIONS ARE IN ORDER! Texas Department of Criminal Justice's Region V Director Jason Heaton attended a ceremony last Thursday at the Webb Center that ended the auditing process by the American Correctional Association. The local units and the work camp in San Angelo received high marks from the auditors.

Wallace/Ware celebrate end to audit

The Wallace/Ware Units and W3 Work Camp of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice finished the auditing process by the American Correctional Association and capped off the week with a ceremony at the Webb Center on Thursday.

Marvin Wilson, Ray Tamminga and Laura Tafonga were the visiting auditors, checking for safety, policy compliance and documentation, among other things. Overall, the units received a 100% rating on mandatory standards and 98.6% on non-mandatory standards.

Tamminga praised the medical team at the Wallace Unit, saying the healthcare provided to the offenders "shows a great deal of care" with proper medical programs in place. Auditors also gave compliments to the staff for maintaining the older structures saying, "The facility is older but still looks good."

According to Wilson, there are two grievances auditors always hear about from offenders; one is the food and the other is quality of healthcare. He said that they heard neither while speaking with offenders at the two units, which speaks highly of both the food service and medical departments.

All the auditors complimented the staff working at the prisons. "The staff is the biggest compliment that makes this place run," Wilson said. "I know how hard you work every day," Tafonga said to staff members attending the ceremony.

One thing pointed out by all who spoke at the ceremony, including Regional Director of Region V Jason Heaton, is the excellent relationship that has been established between the prisons and the community. Tafonga said that the "tremendous amount of support from the community" was something she had never seen before.

Warden Eric Guerrero expressed his appreciation for the staff, acknowledging the sometimes-overwhelming shortages. Guerrero stated that the facilities are 191 officers short, and he sees correctional officers working six days per week, 12 hours per day.

Overall, the ceremony was a congratulatory one for all those attending. The ACA auditors said that while they cannot give accreditation, they will certainly recommend the Wallace/Ware Units and W3 Work Camp be reaccredited.

City Council agrees on property, but not coke bottles

In a regular meeting of the city council of the City of Colorado City Tuesday night, the council approved the city's participation in the Cline Shale Alliance. This recently formed group will meet regularly for updates, ideas and progress sharing as the activity in the Cline Shale rises.

In other business, the council authorized city manager David Hoover to publish a Public Notice, regarding allocation of Hotel/Motel Tax Requests.

The council also agreed to repeal all covenants, restrictions and conditions for the Hillcrest Addition to the City of Colorado City. The restrictions had stopped being valid when the lots stopped being sold in 2006. According to city secretary Donna Madrid, there were approximately 10 owners in the subdivision and she said they would soon be notified of the repeal.

The only item on Tuesday night's agenda which was not unanimously agreed upon by the council was a proposed resolution, supporting the passage of state legislation establishing refundable deposits on all aluminum, glass or plastic beverage containers in the state. The motion passed with a 4-2 vote, as councilmembers Keith Hiser and Sure Mason voted against it.

"I think it's a good thing, but I hesitate about the city's getting involved in and encouraging these types of legislation which affects private businesses," Hiser said before the vote. "But I think it's a good thing for KCCB (Keep Colorado City beautiful) and other groups to back and support."

OPINION & COMMENTARY

TUMBLEWEED SMITH They teach English, don't they?

"Brianna and I's idea was to climb Mount Washington."

That was a statement actually broadcast to a national TV audience by the weathergirl on ABC. I thought you had to have a few smarts to get a job on a national television network.

I have come to expect hearing flagrant abuses of the English language on commercials. One for an eyeglass firm says, "THE GUY ON THE RIGHT'S MOM GOT A PAIR FOR....." I didn't know right had a mom.

A cigar place ad says: "THE COOLEST GUY IN THE WORLD'S BROTHER...." Didn't know world had a brother. Do I detect a trend here?

Are all writers of commercials dimwits? Come on.... you need to do better. And while we're at it, please stop using trite, overused phrases that don't make sense in the first place. "LAST CHANCE!" Really, now.

The number one most overused phrase used by commercial writers is this one: "TURN YOUR DREAMS INTO REALITY." I'm sure. Second is "NOW MORE THAN EVER." How do you know? Have you lived since the beginning of time?

Then these along those same lines: "NEVER BEFORE." "NEVER AGAIN." "SAVE LIKE NEVER BEFORE." I guess you should extremely limit use of the words ever or never in a commercial. By the way, is every month CHEVY MONTH?

"ONE OF A KIND BARGAINS."

"YOU'LL SLEEP LIKE A BABY ON A-----MATTRESS." Does that mean you cry and scream between short naps?

The most grandiose English mistake I hear on radio and TV (why is the code word for television capitalized and radio is not? How about just R? Turn on the R) is the non-agreement of subject and adjective. "THE SCHOOL IS HAVING THEIR ANNUAL CARNIVAL." THEIR means more than one. "THE SCHOOL IS HAVING ITS ANNUAL CARNIVAL" is correct. I do know that sometimes the correct way sounds funny, but please get used to doing it right. English teachers and writers who adhere to some rules of grammar will appreciate your efforts. I think some of these problems developed when schools stopped teaching handwriting, geography and how to diagram a sentence.

I haven't seen much misspelling lately, thanks to the computer's spell checker. Apple computers won't let you use passive voice. Active voice is fine, but sometimes you need to by-pass the computer's rules and do something for effect and rhythm. I can't wait to see what my computer's grammar check is going to do with all these (mostly on purpose) mistakes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letter to the Editor:

Pipe water into West Texas or wake up one day with a water poverty crisis.

I hear, "It's too expensive," and "We can't afford it." If Colorado City is to stay on the maps - you cannot afford not to!

Problem is, when the sources of water have been grabbed up by cities with visionary leaders and citizens, desal of Gulf water will be the only solution.

Water is like eggs in the nest. If you save too many pullets, you end up with eggs to sell - there will be a handsome market. "Dive" in "head first" to get extra pullets.

Val Verde water rights in a 48" pipeline may be a Harvard geologist's pipe dream. If he takes the risk and all you have to do is buy his water at $3.60 a thousand, better find a way. Turn your heads inward and, sooner or later, reality will slam your blind side!

Save "alternatives" you have and grab all that comes along. Both can be assets - be greedy of water or children will live where they find water.

Remember why Texas Tech is not in Colorado City!

cost to FGE. In exchange, FGE Texas agreed to build the power plant in the said location. In addition, FGE Texas agreed to provide to Mitchell County an economic development grant in the amount of $400,000.

In lieu of tax for 20 years, FGE Texas has agreed to make an annual payment in the amount of $3 million, to be split between Mitchell County Economic Development (50 percent), Mitchell County Hospital (16.7 percent), Lone Wolf Groundwater Conservation District (16.7 percent) and Westbrook ISD (16.7 percent). The payments will begin when the power plant becomes operational, proposed to be in 2016.

The commissioners voted to allow County Judge Ray Mayo the authority to sign the memorandum, as well as an agreement with BOED, stating the county's agreement to fulfill all the requirements of the memorandum.

In other business, the court agreed to pay the county's regular bills in the amount of $113,417.69, as well as bills associated with the new law enforcement center in the amount of $580,231.05.

narcotics. He said things started with the warrant roundup as his department made several arrests on traffic stops to take what he called a "sizeable" amount of narcotics off the streets of Colorado City.

Chief Owens said he believed the community knew something was going on and the department had not put a big hit on anything recently.

"We have been watching things for a while. We know who's who and what's what," he said. "We just haven't made the mother lode score yet. I just want the community to know the police department is actively going out and working on our narcotics problem in this community."

The chief also noted he expected those who are actively involved in the illegal narcotic activity in the city to know that it was only a matter of time before they were caught.

"We are going to get you," he said. "Now, we are not going to ever stop the entire process, but they better think twice about it."

Owens said he knew middle school and elementary school kids were around the drugs, not necessarily using, but having it in sight. He said he felt it was possible they had already been approached to purchase drugs or sell them for those who were pushing the illegal substances in the city.

Over the last week, the department has made arrests involving marijuana and methamphetamines, along with pipes and other paraphernalia. He said it wasn't necessarily a large quantity, but it was a "decent" quantity for the incidents.

"I know there are players out there we have not caught," he said. "I know there will be more and I know there is stuff out there we have not seized yet, but again, I am going to say that we are taking an active stance against the illegal narcotics activity in our community."

Owens said that with the information his department had, they were aware of, and had suspects, who might be involved in more information to be accurate enough to be effective.

"Jason Free spent a lot of time yesterday with a metal detector looking for our equipment," Hoover commented. "He was able to find many connections and manhole covers we didn't even know were there."

The unearthed section of pipe, which is the section that comes up at a 45 degree angle from the eight inch line which goes under I-20, was completely destroyed, according to Hoover.

City crews worked through the night to repair the line and restore water to those north of the interstate, but at 8 a.m. Thursday morning, they were still unable to get the line's replacement back into position.

"There appears to be another problem with the line somewhere," Hoover said. "Another portion may have been damaged as well."

Thursday morning, another crew was at the scene, digging the line up in order to find the additional problem area.

The leak was eventually contained later in the day Thursday and the city had one more water line whose location they were sure of.

bringing the narcotics into the community. Again, he recognized the undeniable realization that his department would never see a complete end to the problem but vowed they would continue to fight and do everything they could to make the city safer.

In addition, Chief Owens said he has intentions of starting a "Colorado City's Most Wanted", featuring someone his department is wanting to apprehend, either as a suspect or someone with outstanding warrants.

"This is so people involved in the illegal activity will know their picture will be posted in the newspaper," Owens said. "We will also be asking the community for tips on these individuals."

Owens said he wanted to run the idea by City Manager David Hoover before he got it underway, to make sure he was not opposed to it, but he believed Hoover would go along with it.

"The more eyes and ears out there in the community who know who these people are, the better," he said. "If they see them somewhere, they can call and give us a heads up."

McCausland, the founder of Protos Energy Advisory, which is partnering with FGE for the project in Mitchell County.

"We are just thrilled to be here," McCausland said. "This is a project we have been looking at to locate for quite some time. It became obvious Mitchell County was the leading spot. We've had excellent support from the staff at the Mitchell County Economic Development Board."

According to Farrell and McCausland, the power plant would fill the need in Texas.

"At this point in time, what Texas needs is power in the middle of the summer peak times," McCausland said. "That's when they're short. They're not short at night. They're not really short in the winter and fall months. They have an issue during the summer months for the next few years."

McCausland said the power plant would use brackish water, knowing the concern for fresh water in the region. The brackish water will be supplied by Mitchell County, through the use of water wells, according to a Memorandum of Agreement signed between FGE and the county earlier Monday morning. If the need arose, he said the plant could also use recycled waste water, as long as it met certain criteria.

Depending on operations, as McCausland said the plant could vary its operations based on the needs, the power plant will need roughly 2 million gallons of water per day.

"It looks like the county's wells can more than meet that," he said. "One thing we want to do is use as much of that as possible. That's one thing we talked about this morning with them (BOED), about finalizing that out in the next few weeks."

Farm sale March 23

The 25th annual Loraine Volunteer Fire Department Farm Sale will be held a week earlier this year. Normally the last Saturday of the month, it was decided to move it this year to not cause a conflict with Easter weekend. The sale will be held on Saturday, March 23 at the Loraine Co-op Gin yards, beginning at 9 a.m.

"We started taking calls and items a little later this year for security reasons," Doyle Mitchell said, "but they are starting to come in now."

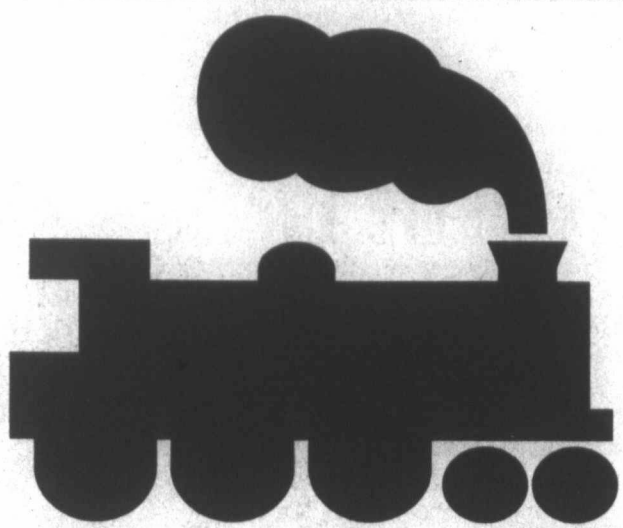

The annual fundraiser is ordinarily used to help the department defray the cost of purchasing equipment. Proceeds from past sales have provided much needed items such as bunker gear, tanks, truck upkeep, radios, walkie-talkies, and lights.

The fire department will also be serving around 600-800 hamburgers for visitors and buyers alike. However, this year will be different in that aspect, as the Loraine Fire Department, Mitchell County Sheriff's Office, Colorado City Fire Department and the Westbrook Fire Department will work together and raise money at the concession stand and use all those proceeds for a grandchild of Justice of the Peace Rick Grissam (Precinct 4). The child was born with heart problems and is undergoing a series of surgeries. Grissam is a member of the Loraine Fire department.

The LVFD always accepts donations and auction items may be taken to the Loraine gin yard.

Those wishing to get a consignment need to call ahead to log in. Interested parties should contact Don Boyd at 325-242-1229, Doyle Mitchell, 325-933-0113 or Rick Bailey at 325-242-2402.

"We already have a couple trucks for the auction," Mitchell said. "We have a flatbed trailer as well some other assorted implements and we are expecting much more to come in soon."

WALK AROUND THE LAKE

By Ginny Harmon
Hello, Everyone!

The now-famous cat, Linda Baum, is finally becoming so friendly with everyone. She will put her face to mine and meow and then demand love. But, sometimes it worries me.

I know I have told her everything there is to know about the birds and the bees. The other night, however, she stayed out all night. There has been a male cat hanging around, and I have seen her eyeing him. Every March around the coming of Spring, she gets like this. She has been fixed, but either way I believe she is male cat crazy!

Sunday, March 3rd, I sang a song with Linda Archer. We had so much fun! Pastor Abbott talked about how we say things and how hurtful they can be to others. His wife, their son and his wife and their children were in attendance. The Dorn Chapel was overflowing that morning. My daughter, Diann, came in from Graham and was also present for the service.

Linda Archer is down in her back. Get well, my friend.

Brenda Shifflett's allergies are acting up. Hope she is feeling better this week.

Dorn's Ladies Salad Supper was held on March 4th. Fourteen ladies attended. Linda Archer gave her testimony, and I heard it was a lovely evening with good fellowship.

Traffic is picking up here at the lake. On our road 256, I always pull up and look both ways.

Last week a truck came out of nowhere and was driving so fast I failed to see him, and we almost collided. Never had to worry before, but I am sure going to take my time and look both ways four times before pulling out.

My poor Ed. He was in the ER a week ago last Thursday. Had some heart problems checked out and was sent home with a monitor.

Sadly, I lost his wallet somewhere in the hospital but most likely outside of the ER. The hospital staff looked everywhere for Ed and I. They are such kind and wonderful people at Mitchell County Hospital.

They did not find it. Jim Baum announced on the radio about Ed's wallet, but we have yet to find it. Thanks, Jim for making that shout. We love and appreciate you, too!

To top it all off, Ed came down with the crud and he has been so sick. We have him on the mend now and will start replacing the wallet and contents this week.

So many people have had what Ed has; the coughing, the fever and the aches and pains. Get well to all of our friends and fellow C. City residents who have been down!

Congratulations to Ed Blake for being Citizen of the Year. Proud of you, Ed!

Westbrook School is growing by leaps and bounds. My great-grandchildren go there and they love it. Heard that new classrooms are in the works and re-finishing the existing classrooms during the summer months will be a welcome back surprise for students in the Fall.

Congratulations to all the basketball players, teams and winners. We had an exciting Saturday of basketball and I'm proud to say my great-grandson, Nick Reynolds' team was undefeated. Good job, boys and girls!

Our great-granddaughter, Presley Victoria, will be nine months old! Where has the time gone? She is standing alone and being brave. Walking is shortly down the road.

Have not seen the squirrel family lately. I hope they moved on with safety and not demise!

Linda Archer feels like many of us do and that is to try and stay in Colorado City and support our local businesses. Her friend went to Sweetwater to see a dentist there. He gave her three shots in the area of a tooth that needed pulling. After 20 minutes, he came back, tapped on her tooth and she said she could still feel it.

Another shot was given and 10 minutes later he was ready, but she was not. The pulling started, along with the screaming and he still continued, finishing the extraction. This happened several years ago and she has been afraid to go to any dentist again.

This week she was finding herself in the same situation, but she called Dr. Michael White, our local dentist. She had an absolutely wonderful experience!

Patsy Briggs is using her talents painting rocks. She will bring a rock to "life" inspired by the character and natural shape. Some of her creations have ended up as pigs, a ram, a heart and even a bird. They are adorable!

Her husband, Terry, will find rocks for Patsy when he is on the job and then brings them home to her. Thanks, Terry, for contributing to Patsy's creative habit.

Linda Archer is still having coyote issues. Patsy is designing a sign that says, "Coyote Rest Area. Welcome! Admission Free, Shade Trees, Bring a Friend! Y'all Come back, ya' hear?"

Paula Cruz has had both knees operated on. Speedy recovery, you brave soul.

A few memories to share with you before we say goodbye for another month...

When McDonalds finally came to California way back when, Ronald McDonald was a twinkling in the advertiser's eye. The spokesperson was Hobo Kelly.

Fast food was just making a break-through in those days, (late 50's and early 60's) and I can remember seeing the Oscar Mayer Weinermobile running around the area on a regular basis. Blimps were always overhead and blinking out messages.

On every corner was a mom and pops grocery store. Policemen walked their beat. The first Tastee Freeze was not a tasty treat, it tasted like cardboard.

We walked everywhere. I can remember Saturday nights at Woolworths. Bath nights were also on Saturday nights in a tin tub. No diet drinks, we drank water. The local malt shop made the best hamburgers and had only chocolate, vanilla and strawberry malt flavors. Tuna tasted like tuna!

The biggest memory of cooking back in the day was that we used (hold your hearts) LARD... boy do I miss my Mom's cooking!

Ed, Vickie and I wish you all the happiest and holiest Easter! Hope the Lord blesses each and every one of you!

Dorn Chapel will be having sunrise services Easter morning and will have a fellowship breakfast following shortly after.

See you next month!

DEALING WITH THE AFTERMATH - Annually, the Farm Bureau donates to local causes, and one of their more continuous acts is to pick an area family and take them shopping at Fuller Foods. This year, the bureau chose one of its own members for this shopping trip. Frank and Laura Garcia, who recently lost their home to a fire, were given a shopping trip Thursday evening. In addition to the shopping spree, the farm bureau also donated $200 to the Community Mission and $200 to Wallace Senior Citizen Nutritional Program. Pictured, from left to right are Farm Bureau representative Brandon Hoback, Frank Garcia, Laura Garcia, Farm Bureau representatives Dan Morgan and Lynn Bradbury.

Congratulations to Mitchell County!

Because of the outstanding and forward looking men and women of the County Judge's office, Commissioner's Court and the Board of Economic Development, our County has added a Gas Plant that will be a boost to our future economy and growth.

Thank you for all you have accomplished in the past and other projects you are pursuing for our county.

Students win FSI competition

Two students from the Texas Tech University Personal Financial Planning Department won first place and a $5,000 scholarship at the 2013 Foundation for Financial Service Professionals (FSF) Industry Issue Competition at the Arizona Institute on Jan. 28, 2013.

Tyler Chaney and David Wilder, both graduate students at Texas Tech, were chosen by a panel of judges through a blind review process as one of the top three teams to advance to the final oral round of the competition based on their written solution, which was previously submitted in October.

The title of this year's issue was "Which Way to Go? Best Practices in Identifying and Evaluating Specific Careers in the Financial Services Profession." Chaney and Wilder chose to evaluate three professions; including a life insurance company actuary, a fee based certified financial planner and an advanced life insurance professional.

"I think the judges enjoyed the way Tyler and David conducted in-depth research on the professions within the Financial Services industry," said John Gilliam, associate professor in the Department of Personal Financial Planning. "They also did a great job presenting their paper in an articulate and professional presentation on a very broad industry."

The judging panel, which was selected among experienced practitioners and members of the FSP society, announced Chaney and Wilder as the winners of the $5,000 scholarship at a reception following the oral presentations. This money will go to the Texas Tech Personal Financial Planning Department.

Chaney is the son of Britt and Dawn Chaney and the grandson of Bobby and Jan Lemons and Barbara Chaney Fullingim and the late Jake Chaney.

Lady Wolves open district with big win

The Lady Wolves opened the district portion of the softball schedule with a big win, edging out a 10-inning, 6-3 victory over Lamesa. Leslie Davila led the way offensively, batting .750 (3-4). She led off the 10th inning with a triple and eventually scored the winning run. She was named the team's Player of the Week. Davila made four outs in center field for the Lady Wolves and threw out a runner at home plate from her position in center.

The first nine innings of the game were a pitcher's duel, as Cassie Sutton battled her Tornado counterpart. Sutton gave up only five hits and held the Tornadoes to three earned runs.

The lady Wolves' bats were powerful in the game however, belting out 13 hits and converting them to their six runs. Britany Munoz, Reagan Conahale, Olivia Luera and Sutton each had two hits in the game.

The Lady Wolves will be back on the diamond next Tuesday, after taking some time to relax during spring break, when they will be travelling to Denver City to take on the Lady Stangs.

OUT MUSCLED — The Westbrook Lady Wildcats squared off Monday in Colorado City against the much touted Forsan Lady Buffs in a game among the top two teams in the district. And while Westbrook pitcher, Koe Alvarez throws out a runner at first base, the Buffs came away with this one in definitive fashion, out scoring the 'Cats 11-1 in five innings. Many errors were committed by Westbrook, but the difference in the game was both the heavy bats and the aggressive defense of the Lady Buffs.
