Glickman Elected UT Student President

Julius Glickman of Big Spring, who threw his hat into the ring less than two hours before the filing deadline, was elected Wednesday as president of the University of Texas student body.

He ran as an independent, and he gained a clear majority in the first primary over three other opponents. He apparently had it won by 11 p.m. with three boxes still out, and when these came in they only served to widen the margin.

Julius is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Glickman, and he is a first year law student at the university. He got his academic degree last year as a Plan 2 student. He also was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholarship fraternity.

A 1958 graduate of Big Spring High School, he entered the university the same year and has earned numerous honors. He was selected for membership in the Cowboys, Silver Spur, Tejas, and

JULIUS GLICKMAN

Friars, and he also was named to the law honor society.

At the end of his junior year, he was chosen to be an exchange student in Chile.

Julius has been active in various campus affairs, but he had not intended to run for office. When a delegation called on him a couple of hours before the filing deadline, he agreed to make the race.

During the past two weeks he has been engaged in appearances and debates, stating his position on numerous issues. Included were continued participation in the National Student Association, all university functions and activities open to all students, a program of exchange students, activities designed to harmonize the independents and Greeks (fraternities).

Julius Glickman is the second Big Springer to have been chosen head of the university student government. J. J. (Jake) Pickle, son of J. B. Pickle, won that honor as an independent in 1936.

Algeria Asks End To Sahara Nuclear Tests

ALGIERS (AP)—The Algerian government waited uneasily today for an answer to its demand that France end nuclear testing in the Sahara.

Premier Ahmed Ben Bella and the Algerian National Assembly made the demand Wednesday in calling for revision of the agreements giving France military bases in Algeria and its Saharan territory.

Trouble is sure to follow if French President Charles de Gaulle ignores the plea, as he did Tunisia's demand in July 1961 for French evacuation of the Bizerte base. The Tunisians attacked the base, and 3,000 Tunisian lives were lost.

There was no official comment in Paris on the Algerian demand.

Ben Bella's demand for revision of the military agreements was prompted by an underground atomic explosion which the Algerians said France set off in the Sahara testing ground Monday. The Algerian Assembly approved his stand by a near unanimous vote.

The French test violated the sovereignty of newly independent Algeria and was "a direct menace against the population," Ben Bella told the assembly.

The premier implied that he would demand reduction of France's stay in all the Algerian bases it retained under the Evian independence agreements and a pledge not to use them for nuclear tests in the interim.

Estes Aides Lash Mortgage Firms

Seek To Prove All Parties Knew

EL PASO (AP) — A witness said today that a major finance company knew "There was something fishy" about Billie Sol Estes' tank deals, but went ahead buying mortgages Estes had promoted.

The testimony came from J. C. Williamson, Midland geologist and farmer, and was brought to the stand to bolster Estes' claim that all parties to the mortgage deal knew the security listed in the mortgages was fake.

Williamson appeared earlier as a government witness and said he was paid $90,000 for signing tank mortgages in some of the Estes deals.

Today he was asked about a telephone conversation with an executive of Walter E. Heller and Co., a Chicago finance firm.

Williamson said he asked to speak to a high official and was told that they were putting "a Mr. Kreeger on the phone."

Williamson said he wanted to talk about the tank mortgages. He was asked by a defense lawyer:

"Did Kreeger tell you there was something fishy about those tank deals?"

"He did," Williamson replied, "he lit into Billie Sol pretty heavy.

"He said Heller was not going to take any more of that paper and he didn't care who signed it."

The witness said that Heller and Co. did buy more such tank mortgages after that time, however.

He said some of the deals after that time were with four men in a Midland family.

These were J. C. Barnes Sr. and Jr., and two sons-in-law of the senior Barnes, Dr. Russell J. Ramsland and W. F. Wynn. These witnesses previously said they put about $2.5 million into the deal.

Hilbert Kreeger testified yesterday that he is assistant secretary of the Heller Co. He was asked if he ever said there was something fishy about the tank mortgages. He said he never made any such statement.

The government forced Williamson to acknowledge that he had no close connection with Kreeger, that he talked to him only once by telephone and never saw him.

Another defense witness, Charles E. Sherrill Jr. of Fort Stockton, Tex., testified Estes was in the business of selling mortgages with fake security as far back as Jan. 25, 1958.

PUMP MORTGAGES

Sherrill testified about mortgages on irrigation pumps. He is a lawyer for Associates Investment Co., South Bend, Ind. He did not say how many pumps were involved or their worth.

Sherrill said the finance company bought the mortgages from the Estes Equipment Co.

The mortgages were signed by R. H. Tyler of Ft. Stockton.

"To the best of my knowledge he (Tyler) never got any pumps," Sherrill testified.

The lawyer said he brought a foreclosure suit for the company but after the suit started he discovered the pumps did not exist, and his company withdrew from the legal action.

He did not go further into the case, claiming other matters discussed by him and executives of the lending company were privileged—that they were confidential matters between a lawyer and client.

Estes is on trial on charges of mail fraud, transporting fraudulent documents across state lines and conspiracy involving what the government contends are mortgages listing fertilizer and other tanks as security when the tanks never existed.

RESTED CASE

Prosecutors checked the next move to lawyers for the embattled promoter Wednesday by resting their case after five days of documented interlocking testimony.

U.S. Dist. Judge R. E. Thomason overruled an immediate defense motion for acquittal on the ground of insufficient evidence. At defense request, the court then recessed until this morning while the Estes lawyers organized their presentation.

John D. Cofer, head of the Estes legal staff, declined to say whether the defendant would take the stand.

OTHER WITNESSES

There was no indication whether three co-defendants named in the same indictment under which Estes is being tried would testify.

The three, Harold E. Orr, Ruel W. Alexander and Coleman D. McSpadden, pleaded guilty to the charges and received prison sentences.

Judge Thomason said, however, they wouldn't be required to enter prison until Sept. 1 provided they remain available to testify about Estes' operations.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Gen. Rufus Cleans offered testimony from 27 men and a woman backing charges that Estes realized $22 million by helping peddle mortgages on fictitious fertilizer tanks.

The government started with evidence of transactions it sought to trace through all of four or five phases.

LOANS INTO TANKS

Twelve men testified they put $338,000 into loans on anhydrous ammonia tanks at the urging of Estes, who agreed to lease the tanks from them for use by his giant fertilizer distributing business.

Evidence from the first three prosecution witnesses set the pattern. They were J. C. Barnes Jr. and two brothers-in-law, Dr. Russell Ramsland and W. F. Wynn, all of Midland.

Money lending firms represented on the witness stand were Walter E. Heller & Co. of Chicago, Pacific Finance Co., Commercial Credit Corp., Pioneer Finance Co. of Detroit, and two Lubbock, firms — Kuykendall Investment Co. and Caprock Investment Co.

Makes Use Of Severed Arm

Everett Knowles Jr., 13-year-old Somerville, Mass., lad who underwent historic surgery to have his right arm restored after it was severed in an accident last year, supports a baseball bat with the arm following removal of the cast. A spokesman for Massachusetts General Hospital, where the surgery was performed, said it is still too early to predict the "ultimate extent of recovery." Everett's arm was torn off by a freight train as he was on his way home from school.

Bank deposits gained from the end of last year but they were off from the comparable date a year ago, statements of four Howard County banks showed today.

The figures were issued in response to a call for condition of banks as of March 18, 1963. The corresponding date a year ago was March 26.

Deposits this year stood at $39,607,669, down $1,469,305 from a year ago. However, this figure was well above the $37,369,980 at the end of 1962.

The First National, State National, Security State Banks in State showed loans and discounts of $17,919,196, a new record, and $2,832,146 more than a year ago. This figure was down slightly from the peak of $18,094,188 at the end of last year.

Cash stood at $9,394,334, or $2,525,942 more than the comparable time in 1962. The total also was well above the $8,066,764 at the end of the year.

Total resources of the four banks aggregated $43,126,874, or $1,394,312 under the all time peak a year ago when the figure was $44,521,186.

The First National Bank touched a new peak in total resources for that institution in registering $21,533,605.25.

Wagner Charts New Course For Shutdown

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner charted a new course today for settlement of the 104-day-old New York newspaper shutdown.

He announced that negotiators for the publishers of eight closed newspapers and for the striking Mailers Union reached tentative agreement on terms for a new contract.

The mailers are a sister union of the printers, whose strike against four newspapers last Dec. 8 led to the shutdown of the city's major newspapers.

Wagner urged that members of Local 6 of the International Typographical Union reconsider his formula for settling their strike. He suggested that a membership meeting be held next Sunday at Madison Square Garden for a new vote.

Wagner, who has been trying for almost two months to end the shutdown, announced the Mailers Union settlement and his proposal to speed a printer settlement in a statement at 2:30 a.m. Negotiations involving two other newspaper unions were in progress at the time.

Southern Cities Dropped From Army Band Tour

JEKYLL ISLAND, Ga. (AP)—Nine Southern cities have been dropped from a concert tour by the Army field band and soldiers chorus because there was no assurance that audiences would be integrated.

The 93 musicians, at a motel at this Georgia coastal resort, en route to Jacksonville, Fla., for a concert, learned of the change while watching a television newscast.

The Army announced in Washington earlier that planned appearances had been canceled at Greenville, Charleston and Columbia, S.C.; Savannah, Ga.; Montgomery, Ala.; and Hattiesburg, Vicksburg, Clinton and Meridian, Miss.

"Army policy requires that the U.S. Army field band perform in public before audiences that are seated on a desegregated basis," the announcement said.

Some Wintry Weather Remains

By The Associated Press

The spring season started a three-month stand today but it was a little chilly in much of the eastern half of the nation and wintry weather hit areas in the Northeast.

But on the bright side, at the end of the long, cold winter at 3:20 a.m. (Eastern Standard Time), were clear skies across the major part of the nation. This was in contrast to the stormy weather pattern in many areas earlier this week.

Winter's last snowstorm which spread from the northern Midwest into the Northeast was centered in southern Ontario and was weakening slowly. The snow belt extended from Lower Michigan and Ohio eastward through much of the northern Atlantic states.

Heaviest snowfall was in southeastern New England, with up to a half foot near Boston and three inches in Boston. Heavy snow remained on the ground in northern border states from the Midwest into northern New England.

There were no other wet spots but skies were cloudy in the extreme Northwest and light rain and rain mixed with snow was indicated from central California northeastward into western Montana.

Flood waters continued to menace areas in West Virginia, southwestern Pennsylvania and Southern Illinois. Minor flooding also was reported in parts of New York state, Maryland, Ohio and Indiana.

Temperatures were lower than Wednesday morning in the eastern half of the nation. Biggest changes were in the Southeast, with readings from the 30s in Kentucky to the 40s in Georgia, Alabama and South Carolina, compared to the 60s Wednesday morning. Temperatures were in the 60s and 70s in Florida.

The freezing belt extended from the northern Plains eastward through the North Atlantic states. Stiff winds swept many areas.

Temperatures in the 50s or higher prevailed from the Gulf Coast westward through Texas into the Southwest.

House Tentatively Okays Annexation Curb Bill

AUSTIN (AP)—The House gave tentative approval 131-14 today to a bill limiting the amount of land cities can annex in one year.

The measure, by Rep. Henry Grover of Houston, will come up for a final vote in the House next week.

Approval came over the objections of Reps. Bob Eckhardt of Houston and W. T. Dungan of McKinney.

Eckhardt said the bill "is loaded with special interest bonanzas."

"It is a good vehicle we can live with," Grover said. "The Texas Municipal League and some others aren't entirely agreed with everything in the bill, but they are behind it now."

"It is time we as members stop delegating our authority to conference committees," Eckhardt said.

If the Senate changes the measure and the House does not accept the changes, a conference committee would be named to work out the differences.

Eckhardt said amendments placed on the bill takes power away from the city to control air pollution and industrial safety in tax-free industrial districts.

The Senate spent the morning considering a number of local bills.

The Senate adjourned until 10:30 a.m. Monday.

The Senate Education Committee in a brief session approved a House-passed bill to create Gov. John Connally's requested committee on education beyond the high school.

Plane Crash Probe Opens

CUNEO, Italy (AP)—The state attorney in Cuneo opened a formal inquiry today to determine if sabotage caused the Alpine crash of King Saud's jet en route from Geneva to Nice.

A spokesman said one object of the inquiry was to check a report that there might have been a bomb aboard the plane, which crashed off course in fog and clouds early Wednesday. All 18 persons aboard were killed. They included nine members of the Saudi Arabian king's household and four American crewmen.

The bomb report was published in an Italian paper, which quoted a Radio Mecca broadcast of a message purportedly sent by the king from Nice.

In Nice, however, the king's chief of protocol denied that Saud had made such a charge.

The plane had taken Saud and most of his party to Nice on Tuesday. It returned to Geneva for more members of the royal party and much of the party's baggage, and was on the way back to Nice when it crashed.

Officials at the Geneva airport said they had no reason to suspect sabotage. They said the plane had been heavily guarded while at Geneva.

Lubbock Man Is Killed In Crash

LUBBOCK (AP)—John Kinsey, 52, of Lubbock was killed Wednesday night when a pickup truck overturned after a blowout.

The accident occurred 3 miles east of Tone and about 35 miles east of here. The driver, Clinton Ray Thrasher, 20, also of Lubbock, suffered minor injuries.

Marine Plane Victim Named

CHERRY POINT, N.C. (AP)—The 2nd Marine Air Wing identified today the pilot killed in the crash of his jet plane on a training flight Wednesday as Lt. James R. Foster, 24.

His widow lives at nearby Havelock. His mother is Mrs. Cora Bond Foster of 2406 Piedmont, Wichita Falls, Tex.

Witnesses said Foster flew away from an inhabited area after his A4C Skyhawk became disabled from an unknown cause, and parachuted only when he was over woods near Scotland Neck in northeast North Carolina. The chute did not open.

WOOD YOU BELIEVE IT?

MANKATO, Minn. (AP)—Steve Brown, 19, a freshman at Mankato State College, had stomach cramps for six weeks after a toboggan accident, but not until last weekend did he learn the cause.

He had been to the doctor several times without relief. Last weekend, he went again.

The doctor probed a wound in his bottomside and found a bit of wood. He pulled, and pulled some more, and finally retrieved a 10-inch splinter.

The doctor said the piece of wood from the toboggan slipped through a notch in the pelvis and worked into the youth's back without touching any vital organs.

"Perhaps I'll frame it," said Brown, marveling at the size of the splinter.

James Fryar, Stanton, Dies In Collision Of Car, Truck

Funeral for James Harvey Fryar, 54, Stanton implement dealer and former resident of Big Spring, will be held at 2 p.m. Friday in the Stanton Methodist Church.

Widely known in this area, Mr. Fryar was killed instantly Wednesday evening in a car-truck crash seven miles south of Stanton on State Highway 137.

The Rev. Ellis Todd, pastor, will officiate for services and burial will be in the Big Spring City Cemetery, under the direction of River Funeral Home.

Mr. Fryar was operator of the Fryar Implement Co., Stanton, and had lived in the Martin County city since September, 1961. Prior to that, he had lived in Howard County since 1951 and was known here as a farmer and land owner.

Deputy Sheriff Jake Martin, Glasscock County, said that Mr. Fryar's body was found by a Latin-American truck driver into whose vehicle the Stanton implement dealer's car had crashed. Martin said that the truck, loaded with junk, had a flat tire about seven miles from Stanton and 1.1 miles inside the Glasscock County line. The driver pulled to one side of the road and took the tire back to Stanton to be repaired.

Sometime about 5:30 p.m., Martin estimated, Fryar driving the same direction the truck was headed, rammed into the rear of the parked vehicle. The car was demolished.

The Latin - American, whose home is also in Stanton but whose name Martin did not know, returned with the repaired tire and found the victim's body in the wreckage of his late model car. He had been dead for at least half an hour, the officer said. The truck driver reported the accident to the sheriff's office in Garden City.

This was the first traffic fatality for Glasscock County this year.

Mr. Fryar was born Sept. 10, 1909 in Center, Ala. His home address in Stanton was 1108 N. St. Joseph.

He was a past president of the Big Spring Rotary Club, past president of the Howard County Farm Bureau, was a director on the Martin County Chamber of Commerce board, and on the board of the Stanton Methodist Church. He had been a member of the Methodist church of many years. Mr. Fryar was formerly connected with the First National Bank in Big Spring.

He was married Sept. 15, 1931 to Mrs. Fay Cook in Midland. She survives him as do two daughters Mrs. Neil Pruitt, Wichita Falls, and Mrs. B. L. Tarleton, Montgomery Ala. His mother, Mrs. C. R. Fryar, lives in Cisco. He has one brother, C. O. Fryar, Big Spring, and one sister, Mrs. A. J. Sanders, Cisco. There are two grandchildren.

The family suggested the Methodist Church College Fund or the Howard County Junior College Scholarship Fund for memorials.

Defense Chiefs Talk With Probers Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Deputy Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatric testify today in the widening Senate probe of the TFX warplane contract.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee is trying to learn whether the Defense Department's civilian top command settled for an inferior and more costly TFX fighter-bomber design in awarding the contract to General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex., over a rival bid by the Boeing Co. of Seattle, Wash.

The $28-million contract covers the start of work on the TFX—which stands for experimental tactical fighter. Eventually 1,700 of the fighter-bombers will be built for both the Air Force and Navy for an estimated $6.5 billion.

BEST FILLED

McNamara has stated that the General Dynamics design best filled the needs of the two military services and that Boeing's design would cost $1 billion more.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said he would demand from Gilpatric the name of an anonymous Pentagon spokesman who, last weekend, challenged the fairness of the investigation.

McNamara had requested and received permission to testify out of turn and expand on a written defense of the contract award he had given the subcommittee last week.

Word leaked out Wednesday that the subcommittee was checking on relationships between General Dynamics and Gilpatric's former law firm, Cravath, Swaine & Moore of New York.

Maurice T. Moore, a partner in the firm, said in New York the firm has done legal work for both General Dynamics and Boeing, but not in connection with defense contracts. He said Gilpatric participated in some of that work, but not since leaving it in 1961 to enter government service.

McNamara issued a statement denying that Gilpatric had any conflict of interest. "His integrity and devotion to public service are unassailable," the secretary said. And he repeated that he takes full responsibility for the contract award.

McClellan told a news conference Gilpatric would be free to make a statement about the law firm if he chose, but that this was not the purpose in calling him.

The senator parried questions about reports the subcommittee is checking into the business backgrounds of others at the Defense Department, too. He said the subcommittee wants only the truth and is "not seeking to get anybody."

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., said the check on Gilpatric is being handled by the full subcommittee's staff, not by aides assigned to its Republican minority. He said he regarded it as "normal investigative procedure" to check into backgrounds of all who might be concerned with the matter.

McClellan said the subcommittee is determined to expose whoever issued Sunday's anonymous blast accusing him and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., of having trapped the Defense Department into an unfavorable position in the inquiry.

"I just think that when a responsible agency of government issues a statement like that, the author should be known," McClellan said. He termed the anonymous criticism "a bit of managed concealment" which he did not propose to allow.

Disproves Old Theory

Maud the Mule just didn't believe the theory that mules, a hybrid of horses and donkeys, can't bear young and she shows her young son to those who came to visit them at Tucson, Ariz., to prove her point. Veterinarians and other specialists called the birth "very rare" but didn't attempt to explain it.

Health Experts Seek Tuna Poisoning Data

DETROIT (AP)—Health authorities still seek positive answers today to whether contaminated tuna caused two food poisoning deaths and, if so, how many cans from the same batch still are on pantry shelves.

If any of the 5,760 cans shipped to Detroit area A&P food stores were contaminated, was there more than one? Were there others among the 26,400 cans of Japanese tuna packed the same day by the same West Coast packer?

Experts say the answers may be several days away.

Two Detroit women died of food poisoning tentatively diagnosed as "type E botulism," a rare type generally associated with marine life from extreme cold waters.

Ralph Johnson, U.S. Food and Drug Administration bacteriologist at Detroit, said "we have some toxic (poison) cultures" from the can from which the women ate, and that "preliminary indications make us very suspicious." But he was not ready to say whether it was type E or whether the tuna could have been responsible.

About a dozen cans from the suspected shipment, taken from store and pantry shelves proved negative in FDA tests.

Milton P. Duffy, chief of California's food and drug inspection, said at San Francisco he was confident a full checkout would show no tuna botulism involved. He said that the cannery is completely new and modern.

George T. Daughters, Detroit FDA chief, said that if botulism is proved in this case it will be the first in his 40 years experience that had been traced to a commercially canned product. The last known occurrence was in the mid-1920s and was in canned ripe olives, he said.

Margaret McCarthy, 39, died in Detroit Tuesday, three days after her neighbor, Collette Brown, 37, with whom she had shared a tuna fish snack late last week. Both developed symptoms resembling type-E botulism.

The tin from which they ate was traced to a consignment of 120 cases to Detroit area A&P food stores. The 6½-ounce cans bore the A&P label and were from a coded shipment with markings of WY3Y2 over 118X.

When health authorities first voiced suspicion, A&P withdrew all the WY3Y2-118X shipment. Wednesday it ordered all A&P brand tuna withdrawn temporarily from its 4,400 supermarkets across the country.

When the public health is involved, A&P said in a statement, it makes every effort to cooperate with authorities and "to prevent at any cost the distribution of merchandise that conceivably could be contaminated."

George Fowler, assistant to the Detroit FDA director, raised the possibility only one can, if any, may have been tainted.

"It is pure speculation on my part, but there is a possibility that an air pocket—even in one individual can—could have kept temperature inside that can low enough during pressure cooking for the organism to survive," Fowler said.

On Jan. 8, the day the A&P consignment was canned, Duffy said the Washington Canning Corp. of San Francisco processed a total of 550 cases or 26,400 cans. Washington packs under its own brand name and under the labels of several chains.

California public health officials said the A&P tuna was cooked for a longer time and at a higher temperature than required by state regulations. Daughters said in Detroit California's inspection system is one of the best and he would be surprised if anything got by it.

Medical dictionaries describe botulism as food poisoning due to improperly canned food. Daughters said types A and B are not uncommon in home-canned vegetables.

Daughters said that a year ago two cases of botulism were discovered in Minnesota and traced to fish bagged in plastic from which the air had been withdrawn to make the fish safe longer for counter sales.

Daughters explained that the bacteria needs a near-absence of oxygen-bearing air to grow and become poisonous.

Symptoms of botulism usually begin with blurred or double vision. The disease damages nerves, especially those involved in breathing, swallowing and speaking, and can cause circulatory collapse.

Too Much Leg, Says Salvation Army General

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Gen. Wilfred Kitching, the Briton who heads the Salvation Army, says women show far too much leg.

"Nowadays, skirts are much too immodest," he said in an interview today.

"How low would you like to see our skirts?" asked a girl reporter in a knee-length skirt.

"Better ask my wife," answered the general, smiling. "But I would say a skirt which came halfway between the knee and ankle would seem modest enough."

The general is visiting Australia for three weeks.

FDA Chief Says Questioned Drugs Off Market Long Time

WASHINGTON (AP)—Food and Drug Commissioner George P. Larrick says three drugs which an FDA medical officer claimed had not been proven for safety "have been off the market for a long time."

And Larrick said in a statement Wednesday, the drug law passed by Congress last year will enable his agency to deal with such cases more effectively in the future.

Dr. John O. Nestor, medical officer for FDA Bureau of Medicine, told the Senate Government Operations subcommittee Wednesday that the agency had permitted sale of at least three drugs—Entoquel, Mer-29 and Altafur—although preliminary data on them did not substantiate their safety.

DRAGGED FEET

Nestor further testified that the FDA dragged its feet in pulling two of them—Mer-29 and Altafur—off the market following indications that they produced injurious side effects.

The subcommittee headed by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., resumes its study of drug marketing safety procedures today.

Larrick in his statement conceded that the original drug applications criticized by Nestor "could have been done better." But he noted that the FDA is bound by laws passed by Congress, and the cases cited by Nestor occurred before Congress last fall passed a stricter law for handling and licensing new drugs.

An FDA spokesman said Wednesday night that some of the provisions of the new drug law are in effect and "most will become operative early in May."

Nestor, 50, a Washington pediatrician who joined the bureau two years ago as a specialist on pediatric drugs, declined comment Wednesday night when asked if he thought the new regulations would preclude cases such as he cited.

FURTHER CHARGES

He claimed Wednesday that "nonmedical men, including laymen, have been making medical decisions" on new drug applications. He said any questions he raised about past decisions or "past commitments to the pharmaceutical industry would be challenged with indifference, disapproval or even hostility."

And, Nestor said, when he and colleagues questioned possible side effects of a proposed vitamin "as is frequently the case in FDA we were told of the cost to the pharmaceutical firm" of new tests or withdrawing the product.

Larrick said "we categorically deny that laymen have been making medical decisions."

"The question of cost," Larrick added, "has had no part whatever in our decision."

Nestor testified that he and other pediatricians have opposed an application to include menadione (vitamin K) in a multiple purpose vitamin capsule on grounds that if given pregnant women it might lead to brain damage, spasticity and death in newborn infants.

He said he had been unable to learn the outcome of the case. Larrick said the firm has been advised that its application does not sufficiently establish the safety of the capsule and that it had until today to file new evidence.

An FDA spokesman said the proposed capsule containing menadione has not been marketed.

TRANQUILIZERS

In testimony prepared for today's session, Dr. Fritz Freyhan of Washington warned against indiscriminate use of tranquilizers.

Freyhan, who has charge of clinical studies at the clinical neuropharmacology research center at the National Institute of Mental Health, said there is strong evidence of "very considerable overuse if not abuse" of some tranquilizer drugs.

He charged that "little has been done to point to the dangers which arise from simultaneous prescriptions of several psychiatric drugs."

"While the more potent of the compounds influence specific manifestations of schizophrenia or of depression or anxiety," the witness said, "they do not wipe out psychoses, neuroses or anxiety."

He added that the same drug which proves effective in treating certain symptoms of anxiety may be useless "or even harmful for patients with different types of anxiety and of other personality structures."

More Testimony Friday In Ft. Stockton Hearings

FORT STOCKTON, Tex. (AP)—Testimony resumes Friday in the hearings into the legitimacy of cotton allotment transfer deals arranged by promoter Billie Sol Estes.

The three-man farmer committee hearing the evidence recessed the session Wednesday night until Friday because one member could not be present today.

Appeals are being made against the government's ruling that Estes' cotton deals were improper, and that it had a right to withhold $538,928 in penalties.

Despite objections by American Grain Corp., owner of Estes' assets, affidavits were introduced showing that three Oklahoma farmers believed the contracts they signed for the sale and release of their land were for selling cotton allotments to Estes.

Signers of affidavits were identified as Walker Roman Nose, Mrs. Erma Calf Barehead and Mrs. Ada L. Davis, all farmers in Custer County, Okla.

J. Berry Ligon, Pecos County chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, and his office manager, Mrs. Ruth Minear, testified concerning a January, 1961, meeting in Fort Stockton in which Henry Marshall participated. Both quoted the former Bryan, Tex., man as saying that Pecos County allotment transfer cases were in good order.

Marshall, former ASCS program specialist, was found dead in June, 1961, with five bullet wounds in his body. His death was first called a suicide but Texas police said a later investigation indicated that Marshall's death was murder. The case still is unsolved.

After the testimony of Ligon and Mrs. Minear, J. Taylor Allen of Provo, Utah, took the stand. Allen is former Southwest area director of the farm aid program under the Eisenhower administration. He said he attended the January, 1961, meeting here and that Marshall was dissatisfied with the manner in which the cotton allotment deals were handled.

Allen testified last July before the Senate Investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., that Marshall fought Estes' cotton acreage allotments as an illegal scheme.

The government is seeking to confirm the $538,928 in penalties it imposed on Estes and to continue the cancellation of cotton acreage allotments.

Estes and his agents, as did other farmers in far West Texas, sought out farmers who had sold their farms to make way for reservoirs, super highways and similar eminent domain projects.

Under law, such farmers can buy other farms and transfer their old cotton allotments to them. So Estes sold farms to them and then leased back the land. The government contends these were not genuine sales, but merely a subterfuge to gain cotton allotments.

"RELIABLE PRESCRIPTIONS"

TAUGHT TO LOVE

"But as touching brotherly love ye need not that I write unto you: for ye yourselves are taught of God to love one another" (I Thess. 4:9). Yes, God has truly taught us to love one another. In many ways He has taught us to love.

First, by precept (or command) God has taught us to love, both our brethren and our enemies. "A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another." "But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you" (Jno. 13:34; Matt. 5:44).

All who have the right attitude will respond to God's command to love. They will let God teach them. Disciples are learners. Does this include you, brother? Are you a disciple of Christ?

We recommend that our readers hear the sermon by E. R. Garretson tonight, 7:30, church of Christ, 14th and Main. We hope to see you there.

EAST FOURTH GETS THE WORKS
Graders are widening the stretch from Union to Tulane

Street Work Progressing On East Third, Fourth Streets

East Fourth Street is being graded for the widening and repaving program by the Texas Highway Department, and drainage structures under East Third are being installed prior to getting the same treatment.

All old pavement has been removed from East Fourth, from 150 feet east of Union Street to Tulane, and graders are busy preparing the grade for new work. Curb and gutter will be laid on both streets when the grading and drainage structures are completed.

Drainage connections, at the east side of Birdwell Lane at a crossing north of Pollard Chevrolet and about half way between Pollard's and Birdwell, are being made to lines already laid by the City of Big Spring in anticipation of the widening and paving program.

Traffic is moving over both streets. East Fourth Street is being used on the south side today while crews are working on the north. It will move over to the north side when the grading begins on the south. Cuts have been made on the north side of East Third for drainage structures and, when finished, will be covered and traffic routed to the north while work is being done on the south.

Dirt being moved out of Fourth, where the grade is being lowered, is being piled on a vacant lot at Circle Drive for use on fills later.

When completed, the two streets will be curbed, guttered, and threelaned to the same specifications as the two streets now running west from Union Street.

The work is being done to coincide with the IS 20 interchange east of Birdwell Lane and will provide the business route of the highway through the city.

DEAR ABBY

Notice To Teen-Agers

DEAR ABBY: We are unable to convince our teen-aged daughter that it is bad taste to show affection in public. I'm talking about the sickening behavior one sees today between young people going steady. She thinks it's all right to hang on to a boy and put her arm around his waist while he does the same when they walk down the street. Also, because "everyone else does it" she sees nothing wrong with sitting practically on his lap while he drives the car. If we tell her it looks bad, she says we are living in the dark ages. She'll take your word for it, Abby, so please enlighten her, along with a few million others.

DEAR EXASPERATED: This is for all the vulnerable parties: Please, young lovers, wherever you are, believe me, it IS in the poorest taste to act lovey-dovey in public. A boy who respects a girl will not initiate it, and a girl who respects herself will not encourage it. So hands off. And I mean 100 per cent off.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Last fall a distant relative of ours started sending us a religious paper. Our family is not of that religion and we do not enjoy reading it. I know this relative meant well, but we are not interested in being "converted" and this paper seems to have that as its purpose. Should we let this relative continue sending it? The paper must cost something and I'm sure the postage does. We just throw it away without even looking at it. Or should we write and tell him to quit sending it?

MINNIE-A P P O L I S

DEAR MINNIE-APPOLIS: Write to your relative and tell him you appreciate his thoughtfulness —but you and your family are not interested in the paper so he shouldn't waste the time and money to send it.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: The item in your column about how to tell an "eight - year - old blabbermouth" that he was going to have a little brother or sister brought back memories. When our little boy was eight, I was expecting a baby, and it was quite apparent. So I told him a new arrival was on the way. He said, "Let ME tell Daddy about it when he comes home from work." He was so disappointed when I told him that Daddy already knew.

Choir Sings For Lions

Members of the Big Spring High School A Capella Choir favored the Downtown Lions Club Wednesday with a brief concert at the Settles.

Under the direction of Mel Ivey, the vocalists sang two contest numbers they will sing in Interscholastic League competition, then rounded out the program with a lighter number.

James Tidwell, president, urged a large attendance at the ladies night program set for Tuesday 7 p.m. in the Cosden Country Club. The program will turn largely on the contest to select the club's queen candidate for district honors. Ten high school girls are entered in the event so far.

Mr. Marshall Cauley received his key for new member enlistment. Other membership awards were distributed by Tidwell. Tidwell called for re-doubled efforts by the club in backing Lou Carothers in a bid for the district governorship, and in construction of a miniature golf course at the Big Spring State Hospital.

Tests Made On 3 Varieties Of Cotton

LUBBOCK — The performance characteristics of Rex, Austin and Lockett 88A varieties of cotton were demonstrated by the most recent results of Texas Agricultural Experiment Station tests being conducted with financial support from Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

PCG has announced that these three varieties out-produced all others in the tests, which include studies of 12 varieties over the four-year period, 1958 through 1962. Test plots at Brownfield and Lubbock were utilized, with those at Brownfield slightly exceeding yields at Lubbock. LeVon Ray, assistant agronomist for the station at Lubbock, explained that this fact largely stems from the longer growing season at Brownfield.

In open-boll varieties, the new Acala 1517 BR-2, which was released in 1962 by the New Mexico Experiment Station, showed greatest promise for those areas where length of season and other factors are adaptable to Acala-type, or open-boll cottons. Others in this category which did well in 1962 tests were Rex Smoothleaf, Paymaster 8890, and Rex. The advantage of the Acala 1517 BR-2 over these other varieties is its greater resistance to bacterial blight and tolerance of verticillium wilt.

Additional details concerning the tests, both on stripper and open-boll varieties, can be obtained by growers from county agents, or from the experiment stations. All figures reflect an average of results obtained in the Lubbock and Brownfield tests.

COURT PUTS NEW TEST TO OLD PROPOSITION

Must A Man Be Forced To Leave His Skills Behind With His Job?

Man In The Middle

Donald Wohlgemuth, 30, a chemical engineer shown with a space suit model at Dover, Del., plant of his employer, International Latex Corp., is the center of a controversy between that corporation and B. F. Goodrich Co. The dispute involves Wohlgemuth's knowledge of a certain process. Goodrich seeks to prevent Wohlgemuth from working in a certain operation of International Latex saying it fears loss of confidential information about space suits, the field in which Wohlgemuth had worked for Goodrich.

By DARDEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—What's in a man's head can belong to someone else.

His knowledge, courts have held, is not necessarily his to sell.

This proposition is being tested anew in a conflict involving a tire company, a girdle maker and a bright young chemical engineer.

The outcome could have broad implications for industry and workers.

At issue is the principle, rooted in English common law, that trade secrets a man learns on the job belong to whoever was paying him at the time.

Knowledge of ingredients and of ways of putting things together or working materials is not the property of the discoverer but belong to his employer, this principle has held.

The new legal action tries to find out exactly how this operates.

The tire company, B. F. Goodrich, is seeking to prevent a former employe, Donald Wohlgemuth, 30, from working in a certain operation of International Latex Corp., the firm that makes Playtex products.

Goodrich says it fears the loss of confidential information about space suits, the field in which Wohlgemuth had worked for Goodrich.

Goodrich said it is pressing the case "in view of the importance to American industry of the legal question involved."

The problem has mushroomed in recent years. Some $15 billion a year is spent on research. Products and processes depend upon complex and intricate information.

Corporations worry that ideas that cost millions might pass out the door into a competitor's plant in the person of a departing employe.

As a result, an increasing number of firms require technical people to sign an agreement not to reveal secrets to a future employer, usually for a stated period of time—six months to two years in most cases.

Many firms also write into employment contracts agreements that employes will not work for competitive firms for a given period.

Increasingly, men who switch jobs find that their old boss has written their new boss a letter. The letter tells what kind of information the employe had that the former employer thinks should be kept secret.

Watching these efforts, the employe may conclude that knowing too many company secrets could bind him to a firm in a kind of intellectual servitude.

There are broader considerations.

The free interchange of men and ideas, said one chemical company executive, is what makes a competitive society perk most effectively.

"Ten years ago, there were only two companies making polyethylene," he said. "Now there are a dozen. Who started up these new plants? They weren't all college kids, you can be sure of that."

But others argue that without secrecy safeguards, research funds would dry up. No one will spend money learning what someone else could steal.

Also, said a corporation attorney, secret-keeping doesn't have to reduce mobility or hamper cross-fertilization of ideas. Restrictions are placed only on very specific information about very specific things, he said.

The line where general information stops and specific, secret information begins is not always easy to draw, however.

The Goodrich case attracts interests for this reason, among others. It involves trying to spell out the secret area in advance, then prevent the newly hired employe from working in it.

This emphasis on restricting before there has been any actual disclosure makes the case something of a bellwether, some legal experts think.

Wohlgemuth, a graduate engineer from the University of Michigan, had been technical manager of space suit development engineering for Goodrich. The firm has been a leader in the field, providing the suits for astronauts in Project Mercury.

International Latex, based at Dover, Del., is a relative newcomer in the field with a new $1.5-million contract for Apollo moon flight outfits. It hired Wohlgemuth, topping his $10,600 a year salary at Goodrich with pay of $13,700.

Goodrich went to court and got an injunction stopping Wohlgemuth from doing any work for Latex.

"Until the hiring of Mr. Wohlgemuth," said Goodrich, "it had been the uniform practice of companies in the industry to train their own space suit scientists."

Latex replied that Wohlgemuth had a right to advance his career, said Goodrich was underpaying him for the job he was doing and that Latex merely paid him average rates for his kind of skills.

Further, Latex said its space suit technology was different from—in fact, was farther advanced than—Goodrich's.

Common Pleas Court Judge Frank H. Harvey in Akron, Ohio, where Goodrich is based, ruled after a trial that "the mere fact that a former employe who possesses a trade secret has accepted employment from a rival manufacturer isn't sufficient to warrant an injunction against the employe," unless evil intent is shown.

Wohlgemuth, who lives with his wife and child in a new house he bought near the Dover plant, could return to work, the judge said.

Goodrich appealed.

What it seeks is a permanent order resembling a temporary one in a parallel case involving the Du Pont Co. and American Potash and Chemical Co., Los Angeles.

Du Pont has so far prevented Donald E. Hirsch, 38, a father of four who has a doctorate in chemical engineering, from working for American Potash on a process he helped Du Pont develop.

This order is merely a preliminary injunction, however. There has been no trial on the merits.

The Goodrich case is the forerunner because it has been to trial—the court decision which Goodrich lost. Now Goodrich hopes to win its point on appeal.

Attorneys from Du Pont and the many other firms with similar cases brewing will watch carefully the Goodrich appeal hearings in Akron April 11.

So will thoughtful members of technical staffs throughout American industry.

Receipts Show Texas Farmers Fared Well

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—Texas farmers fared well last year. Their cash receipts and new income showed increases.

Average 1962 net income, as shown by a recent Agriculture Department report, was $3,870, up 3 per cent from the $3,755 in 1961. The national average last year was $3,498, up about 4 per cent from $3,360.

Farmers in Texas' neighboring states showed a wide range in income. The figures for 1962, with the per cent change from 1961: Arkansas—$3,745,up 3 per cent; Louisiana—$2,723, up 15 per cent; Oklahoma — $2,253, down 8 per cent; New Mexico—$3,547, up 32 per cent.

Total cash receipts of Texas farmers amounted to $2,571,590,000 (B) in 1962, compared with $2,530,315,000 in 1961. The totals included payments under federal farm programs. For 1962 these payments amounted to $148,461,000 (M).

From 1962 sales of crops and livestock, Texas farmers took in $2,423,129,000 (B) as compared with $2,396,445,000 the preceding year.

Livestock and livestock products accounted for $1,051,896,000 of the 1962 sales, crops the remaining $1,371,233,000. The comparable figures for 1961 were $1,053,751,000 and $1,342,694,000.

Discussing the farm year for Texas, the report said:

"Total government payments were up moderately. Increased receipts from the wheat program accounted for most of the (overall) gain. Total production expenses were up slightly . . ."

The various government farm programs provided Texas farmers with these 1962 payments: Conservation $21,731,000, Sugar Act $79,000, Wool Act $10,515,000, Soil Bank $31,310,000, Great Plains Conservation $2,058,000, 1961 feed grain program $1,017,000, 1962 feed grain program $63,285,000, 1962 wheat program $16,249,000, 1963 wheat program $2,217,000.

AROUND THE CAPITAL:

Two secretaries on the staff of Rep. Graham Purcell (D-Tex) now handle his congressional district correspondence with new interest.

The pair, Mrs. Lucille Orr Kenney and Miss Jeanette Wright, had never been to Texas until a recent appreciation dinner was held for Purcell in his hometown of Wichita Falls. They joined with Mrs. Ireta Jo Coffey, a resident of the district, and flew to Texas for the affair.

In addition to attending the dinner, where Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and others who praised their boss, the two visited ranches, saw oil wells gushing, rode to the top of a grain elevator, toured Sheppard Air Force Base and met hundreds of people they called "the friendliest folks in the world."

A study of the damage done by the golden eagle to new born sheep and goats in the Southwest will take several months, according to word Sen. John Tower, (R-Tex) has received from the Fish and Wildlife Service.

Some ranchers contend the birds take a serious toll of young livestock.

The study is an outgrowth of legislation passed last year giving the Secretary of Interior authority to regulate the killing of golden eagles, which some conservation groups felt were in danger of becoming extinct.

An order issued by Secretary Stewart L. Udall places a ban on shooting the eagles from airplanes.

Brochure Aimed At Tourists

AUSTIN — Tourists unfamiliar with Texas are expected to get an eye-opening look at the state as the result of a colorful new travel brochure released today by the Texas Highway Department.

The 32-page booklet, "Texas—Today's Fun-tier," is one of several devices used by the State Highway Department to assist Texas in winning a fair share of the burgeoning national travel market.

"Texas realized $471 million from tourism in 1962, an increase of $31 million over 1961," explained D. C. Greer, state highway engineer. The potential is far greater if misconceptions can be overcome.

One of the most prevalent misunderstandings is that Texas is all a vast desert, arid and highly uninviting as a vacation land. The new brochure punctures this idea. It emphasizes that Texas is a land of infinite variety with its roots in gaiety and excitement. The concept is embodied in the theme that yesterday's frontier has yielded to "today's fun-tier."

British TV Shows Births

LONDON (AP)—Films of births by Caesarean section were shown on British television Wednesday night in full detail. Squeamish viewers were advised in advance not to watch, and the BBC said it received no complaints.

The operations, one for a normal head-first delivery and the other for a breech-positioned baby, were filmed in January at a London hospital.

They showed the mother's abdomen opened and the baby being extracted by the surgeon, a woman. She spoke through a portable chest microphone as she worked, explaining the operation.

The program, "Your Life in Their Hands," is a weekly show on medical problems that normally has more than a million viewers.

Balloon Flight Planned Friday

HOLLOMAN AFB, N.M. (AP)—Two balloonists hope to take off Friday for a high altitude, all-night look at the stars which may determine the feasibility of a manned balloon observatory.

Strong winds may take the Project Stargazer balloon, carrying Capt. Joe Kittinger and astronomer William White, 500 miles from the launch site here.

Winds of about 18 miles per hour aloft are forecast. They would carry 3 million-cubic-foot balloon to near Dallas.

An unmanned balloon launched Wednesday morning at Holloman landed at Snyder, Tex., 350 miles away, after a 10-hour flight. It didn't carry near the payload Stargazer will have, and floated at more than 100,000 feet. Stargazer's top altitude will be 85,000 feet.

The launch has been delayed twice because of electrical and mechanical problems in the 5,300-pound gondola's control instruments. Weather problems may force another postponement of the launch, set or 6 a.m. Friday. The Weather Bureau has forecast strong surface winds.

The flight will be the second for Kittinger and White, who took the first Stargazer balloon aloft Dec. 13, 1962.

Kittinger will fly the balloon, which will carry a 12½-inch telescope. White will try to determine at what altitude stars stop twinkling and find out how much of the infrared spectrum is absorbed by water vapor in the atmosphere. He also will make pictures of the stars. These will be compared with photographs taken from the ground to determine what part air turbulence plays in astronomy.

Senate Returns Amended Teacher Retirement Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate returned to the House Wednesday a much-changed version of the teacher retirement bill approved earlier by the House.

The House will get a chance to approve Senate amendments or send the measure to a conference committee. Generally, the bill would permit teachers to use their best 10 years of service as the base for retirement pay instead of the 1950-55 period now used. Opponents have claimed the teacher retirement fund is fiscally unsound and the bill eventually will cost the state $158 million.

Measures pending on the Senate calendar that have temporary approval but still needing a final vote for the trip to the House included:

A bill making Pan American State College at Edinburg a senior, state-supported institution.

A measure abolishing the poll tax as a requirement for voting, without any provision for another tax or registration law.

A measure that would let the state issue $200 million in bonds to finance efforts to attract new industry to Texas.

The Senate completed action on and sent to the governor bills that would require signatures of bank officials on stock transfers, and allow state institutions to purchase liability insurance for operation of atomic reactors.

Three bills were approved for floor debate in House committee action:

A redistricting measure to give an additional congressman to South Texas and Dallas at the expense of an East Texas seat in Congress.

A bill to prohibit discrimination because of age in employment of persons over 40 years old by state and local governmental agencies. A penalty section was dropped.

A bill to tighten education requirements for beauticians.

Sent to subcommittee were measures to abolish the aeronautics commission; to put names of presidential electors on ballots next to presidential candidates' names; to advertise Texas with such words as "Vacation State," "Lone Star State" or "Has Everything" on license plates; and to American nationals who attend state colleges.

A LOOK AT THE SCHOOL ATHLETIC BUDGET

Where Does Our Money Go?

By JOE BEYER

Have you stopped to wonder what your tax payment will purchase for education? With budget time approaching, you can see specifically what your money purchases by checking some of the costs listed in the athletic budget.

An average homeowner, whose house cost about $10,000, pays slightly more than $100 each year for education, at the present tax rate of $1.70 on 60 per cent of value.

Applying this average figure to the proposed athletic budget which has been presented to trustees for approval, it comes out in these terms:

FOOTBALL

It will take 245 taxpayers to foot the bill for the football budget proposed for the coming year. Another 69 will pay for basketball, 27 for baseball, 26 for volleyball, 7 for golf, 10 for tennis, 45 for track, 17 for athletic director's expense, 15 for athletic insurance, sever for cheerleaders and another 177 for miscellaneous expenses. In all, it will take about 635 taxpayers to take care of the athletic program.

Awards under the proposed budget will take the taxes of 33 homeowners, the same number as it did last year. The total proposed cost is $3,385, compared to $3,241 a year ago. By sport, with last year's figures in parenthesis, the costs are: football $1,700 ($1,660), basketball $575 ($471), baseball $180 ($180), volleyball $500 ($500), golf $100 ($100), tennis $150 ($150) and track $180 ($180).

BALLS

It takes between 19 and 20 taxpayers to provide balls of various kinds for the many sports in which athletes participate. The proposed budget asks $1,877.50 for this type of article while last year's asked for $1,789.30. By sport it comes out this year to a need for 42 footballs at a cost of $671.10; 24 new basketballs at a cost of $461.40; 14 dozen new baseballs at a cost of $420; an unknown number of tennis balls with a value of $125 and 20 dozen golf balls costing $200.

Most of the figures in the budget, such as travel and other game expenses, are not usually subject to cuts except through drastic curtailment or alteration of schedules.

Faced as trustees are with the alternatives of hiking taxes or cutting the budget, they may have to take the largest chunks out of the money proposed for equipment if they choose the latter. Keeping in mind the approximate value of $100 which each taxpayer's money can purchase, one can see from an itemized list of equipment asked in the proposed budget, about what it is worth in shoes, balls, bats, helmets, etc.

BIGGEST CHUNK

With all of its required paraphernalia, football takes the biggest chunk out of the equipment expense. It totals $7,500.

Among items showing up this year which were not listed a year ago are 12 pairs of coaching pants costing $95.40, two gallons of shoe dressing at $12.70, and 12 dozen monogrammed towels costing $105.

It will take 144 pairs of football shoes to outfit the gridiron performers at a total cost of $1,473.80; last year it took 102 pairs which cost $1,316.10. Practice pants took a beating last year. This year 80 pair at a cost of $420 will be needed compared to 20 pair at $95 last year.

Other repeat items this year are 2,000 cleats at a cost of $150; same as last year; a set of goal flags at $17.25, no change; 36 hanger racks at $52.50, same as last year; four kicking tees at a cost of $10.40, down from the six last year which cost $12.25; 44 dozen athletic supporters costing $297, up from the 18 dozen needed last year at a cost of $117; and 12 dozen T-shirts costing $136, compared to 28 dozen last year at a cost of $252.

Equipment for basketball does not approach that required for football, but the proposed budget is asking for a total outlay of $2,578 for the High School, Runnels and Goliad.

UNIFORMS

At the High School this year, the budget asks for 30 game uniforms which will cost $432; four uniforms were purchased last year for $48. Forty pairs of shoes will be needed at a cost of $318; this is the same as last year. An additional 12 pairs will be purchased for the junior high schools at a cost of $95.60; last year 24 pairs were purchased at a cost of $190.80.

The proposed budget calls for 20 new basketballs at the high school at a cost of $391.40, compared to 10 last year at a cost of $229.50. Junior high schools will need four basketballs costing $70; last year 12 were purchased at a cost of $236.40.

The budget asks for 15 additional uniforms at junior high schools at a cost of $72.75. There will also be purchase of four dozen T-shirts for high school basketballers at a cost of $32; last year three dozen were bought at a cost of $42.

A new item this year is 30 travel bags costing $90.

TRACK

The proposed budget for track is $4,460 this year, compared to $4,544.79 last year.

Shoes are among items which apparently are subject to severe wear each year. At the senior high school, the budget asks for 12 pair of new meet shoes at $168, 25 pair of cross country shoes at $150 and 20 pair of workout shoes for $240. Last year the quantities and prices of these articles were the same. In addition, 30 sets of spikes costing $30 were asked for each of the two years.

Junior high schools this year have budget proposals calling for 35 pair of track shoes at a cost of $398.25; last year 35 pair cost $365.75. Road shoes will total 30 pair at $176.70. Last year cross country shoes for the two schools totaled 49 pair at $293.24.

Items showing up again on the high school budget include a 12-pound shot at $10, a discus costing $15, two pair of starting blocks costing $50, two crossbars at $18, three sets of spike wrenches at $3.15, six batons at $7.50 and 30 sweat suits costing $234. All of these items are needed again in the same quantities and at the same cost. Also, one .22 caliber starting pistol costing $24.85; last year one was obtained for $24.

JUNIOR HIGH

At junior high schools coaches are asking for three stop-watches costing $82.50, compared to two at $54 last year; five batons costing $6.25, compared to five last year at $6.50; two sets of starting blocks costing $47, compared to one at $7.45 last year; one discus costing $8.30 compared to two at $20 last year; one shot costing $5.35 compared to two last year at $16; and one tape measure costing $10.45 compared to one at $9.35 last year.

Many repeat items also show up in the proposed baseball budget which this year is pegged at $1,500 compared to $1,487.75 last year.

Six dozen bats will be required at a cost of $198; the same number and cost as last year. Thirty pairs of shoes this year will cost $538.50; 30 pair last year cost $328.50. The budget asks for 14 dozen balls at $420, compared to 12 dozen last year at $360.

REPEAT

Other repeat items which call for the same number and cost this year as last are: one catcher's mitt at $25, one first base mitt at $25, one set of game bases at $25, one catcher's mask at $10.45, one catcher's chest protector at $9.90, one set of shin guards at $14, one bat bag at $13, six catcher's supporters at $10.50, five pitcher's toe plates at $8.75, one dozen rosin bags at $3 and 12 bottles of glove oil at $4.20.

In addition, the miscellaneous account is pegged at $42.95 compared to $200 last year.

The tennis budget is small, by comparison to some others, totaling only $200. It calls for funds to purchase one dozen sweat shirts at $75, same as last year, and an unlisted number of tennis balls at $125, down in value from $200 last year.

Golf will require 20 dozen golf balls costing $200, the same as last year.

GIRLS

A part of this budget—the program offered for girls — has already been approved by vote of directors at the March meeting. Volleyball, which last year cost $2,682.90, was proposed for a cut to $1,500 but trustees boosted the figure to $2,585. The cheerleaders budget, last year at $1,640, was cut to $663. This is $3 less than the $666 proposed.

In only one other department was a cut recommended, that for insurance because a more favorable policy was obtained. Tennis, at $925, and golf, at $700, are proposed to remain the same. All other categories reflect increased costs.

Comparative totals for the various sports follow. Last year's budget figures are in parenthesis. Football is $24,585 ($22,512.20); basketball $6,899 ($5,797.90); baseball $2,750 ($2,499.75); track $4,460 ($4,378.79); athletic director expense $1,700 ($1,650); and miscellaneous $17,790 ($16,367.19).

Pierre Holds 1,000th Meet With Newsmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

ANNIVERSARY: Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, holds his 1,000th briefing for newsmen today.

The genial aide to President Kennedy first briefed newsmen on Jan. 21, 1961, a day after the inauguration of the chief executive.

COOLING OFF PERIOD: Despite the continuing New York and Cleveland newspaper strikes, the labor scene is cooling off, says the man who is the chief government watchdog in this field.

William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, told a reporter Wednesday that his agency was working for settlements in 84 strikes at the end of last week, "the lowest weekly total we've had in some time."

Simkin said that on the average last year his service was in on about 150 strikes at a given time. Beginning in January the number began to decline.

"But we've got our fingers crossed," Simkin said. "We've got some big ones coming up."

CHERRY TREES: A capital parks official predicts Washington's famed cherry trees, delight of tourists and residents alike, will bloom between April 6 and 10.

George W. Robey, assistant chief horticulturist for the National Capital Parks Service, said Wednesday the trees should burst into their annual pink and white glory about the time of the annual Cherry Blossom Festival scheduled for April 2-7.

FRINGE BENEFITS: House members would get some extra benefits under proposals approved by the House Administration Committee.

Among other things the bills, approved Wednesday and scheduled for consideration next week, would:

Allow members an additional $10,506 a year for office help and raise the salary ceiling for employes from $15,349 to $16,289.

Finance two extra trips home each year, at actual cost, in addition to the 20 cents a mile members now get for one round trip per session.

Furnish members three instead of two rent-free offices in their home bailiwicks—if the space can be found in government buildings. Members would continue to get the $1,200 a year they now receive to rent such office space.

President May Visit W. Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy was reported today to be considering a visit to West Berlin on his trip to Europe next summer.

Authoritative sources said the State Department has advised the White House that the President should go to the Communist encircled city after he visits Bonn, but no decision has been made.

According to tentative plans, Kennedy will go to Europe June 13-27.

He agreed first to visit Rome when Amintore Fanfani, the Italian prime minister, visited Washington last January. Subsequently it was announced that he will go also to Bonn, the West German capital.

Donkey Ball Game Scheduled Tonight

Courage will be more in demand than capability during a basketball performance at the High School gymnasium tonight.

Members of the Y's Men's Club and the board of directors of the Y will mount their steeds at 7:30 p.m. to see who can ride to victory in a donkey basketball game.

The game has tentatively been labeled a basketball game, but if the usual lack of cooperation between man and beat prevails, it could be anything but that.

The donkeys may be in command tonight if a display during picture-taking this morning is any indication of what the players are facing. However, the owner promised that the animals would cooperate, maybe, and would do what they were asked, sometimes.

Despite the lack of qualifications for the basketball players, the performance has all the earmarks of an evening of entertainment. Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Proceeds from the game will go to the Youth Council of the Y to help pay for needed improvements at its site at Moss Creek Lake.

Players for the board of directors will be James Tidwell, manager; Dr. Floyd Mays, Pete Cook, Ike Robb, Ralph McLaughlin and Col. Julian Baird.

On the Y's Men's team are Joe Leach, manager, John Hogg, John Berry, Clyde McMahon Jr., Jim Line, Buddy Redden, Wesley Phillips, J. A. Spence and Tom Enloe.

Stock Market Rally Stalls

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rally stalled today, leaving prices on an even keel. Trading was quiet early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average at noon was unchanged at 257.1.

Firmness prevailed among the oils, nonferrous metals and aerospace issues as well as utilities and rails.

Among other major industrial groups, steels, motors, tobaccos and drugs tended to the soft side.

Changes of key stocks were fractional but there were a few moves of a point or so.

Fire Damages Restaurant Here

A fire, starting in the barbecue pit at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant, 803 E. Third, Thursday morning, did considerable damage to the kitchen and roof and resulted in smoke damage to the building's contents.

Firemen were called at 8:55 a.m. and soda extinguishers were used on the area around the pit. The fire was under control in a short time, although heavy smoke filled the building.

Firemen were called to extinguish a grass fire at the Webb AFB dump grounds, three miles west of the city, at 2:35 p.m. Wednesday. No damage resulted.

Wrong Name In Birth Report

In its issue of March 10, The Herald erroneously announced the birth of a baby to Mr. and Mrs. Carbet Newton, 315 NE 9th.

This was an incorrect listing of names to the hospital, and the Newton names should not have been used. The Herald is happy to make a correction.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our thanks to our many friends and relatives for the kindness shown us during the illness and death of our beloved Daddy, Clarence Thompson. We would like to especially thank the nurses of Cowper Hospital who were so patient and understanding, also Rev. Hodges for his services. May God bless all of you.

First Annual Snake Hunt Opens Friday

West Texas snake hunters will begin registering tomorrow at the Sands Motel for the Saturday-Sunday Rattlesnake Derby at the Howard County rodeo grounds. All hunters will get a "wiggle on" to see who turns up with the most pounds of rattlesnake steak for the roundup.

The first derby for Big Spring is being sponsored by the Jaycees. Prizes will be awarded for the three top gross weights, longest rattler, smallest rattler, and the snake with the most rattles.

The admission fee for spectators at the derby will be 50 cents for adults. Children under 12 will get in free.

All roundduppers may secure a list of ranches where hunting will be permitted when they register. All courtesies and considerations for property must be observed by the hunters as many ranchmen welcome the rattlesnake wranglers.

Curator and snake handler for the roundup will be Shelly Downs of Micanopy, Fla. Rattlesnake steaks will be served at the grounds, and will be in charge of Olin Graves. He will "dish out" information on how to kill, skin, clean, butcher, and cook the meat. The extent of appetites will determine how many plates are served.

Speaking Course To Begin Tonight

Castro-Red Alliance Plans Retort To San Jose Parley

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
An AP News Analysis

The Castro-Communist alliance in Latin America plans a swift retort to the challenge of a new deal for the Western Hemisphere, laid down at San Jose, Costa Rica, by President Kennedy.

Communists of the hemisphere gather next Thursday in Rio de Janeiro, in what will be called "The Continental Congress in Defense of Cuba."

The principal aims will be to plot more aggressive strategy to step up the pace of revolutionary activities, and to rekindle mass sympathy for Fidel Castro's regime.

Moscow propaganda has been paying much attention to this congress. It claims that "hundreds of organizations, political and social personalities, and plain people of Latin America" are rallying to the Castro banner.

In one respect, Moscow's support of the congress is an answer to the Red Chinese, who have been accusing Premier Khrushchev's party of timidity in pushing revolutionary violence in underdeveloped areas. It also can serve the Soviet party as a weapon for countering Peking's influence in Latin America.

The Communists and Castroists —the terms are virtually synonymous—will use the congress to inventory their assets and prospects. Positions of the parties and revolutionary situations, country by country, will be under microscopic analysis in the back-room meetings, while the oratory in the congress hall lays down a smokescreen.

The Rio meeting is expected to come up with some sort of blueprint for action.

If the congress follows Moscow's general directives for such enterprises, with what the Kremlin calls "the new logic of scientific communism," it will map out those areas where violence will pay off and those areas where struggles for electoral and economic power offer the prospects of better dividends.

A hemisphere Communist meeting held in Mexico in 1961 resulted in refinements in plans and methods of attack. These probably included the combination of terrorism and political conflict adopted in Venezuela, which is considered a prime target.

After that meeting, Moscow explained the problem to Communists in this way:

"The working class of some countries can seize the power by peaceful means, as through the parliamentary system or other democratic systems. Therefore the working class headed by the Communist party should unite the people.

"The working class and its (Communist) vanguard depend on the revolutionary struggle carried out by the masses, as well as spiritual and ideological support from socialist (Communist) countries, to counterattack opportunists and defeat the imperialist force politically.

"The Communist party program (of October, 1961) pointed out that all this can be realized through continuous development of the economic struggle by the laboring people."

That means that where the opportunity arises, the weapon of strikes and economic violence must be employed to the fullest extent while the party works within the political framework of the country. This means an attempt to seize power short of revolution and civil war.

This is not the only way, Moscow points out. The other way is by open revolution, "establishing a dictatorship of the proletariat, eliminating the exploiters' rule and transferring all property and power to the workers (Communists)."

In backward countries, where armies and police forces are not too strong, the nonpeaceful means is highly recommended. If the situation is right, Communists should "call upon the masses to carry arms." But the Communists should not resort to armed rebellion if there is a good chance to win by means short of that.

Nothing Encouraging Found In Prospects Of Berlin Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union will open new talks on Berlin soon, probably next week. But authorities here find nothing encouraging or reassuring in the prospect.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev appears to be caught in a severe Communist leadership crisis at present, and this is authoritatively interpreted to preclude any substantial moves for improvement in Soviet relations with the Western powers.

At best, as Washington now assesses the evidence, Khrushchev must mark time on major East-West issues. At worst, he may press unacceptable demands upon the West.

Internal difficulties and his continuing quarrel with Red Chinese leaders suggest the possibility that he might regard a new flareup in the long dispute over Berlin as a desirable diversion.

The U.S. Embassy in Moscow was informed by the foreign office earlier this week that the Soviet government would be ready to start the Berlin talks "in the near future."

The outlook now is that the initial talks will be held here between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin beginning by the end of next week.

U.S. officials are still puzzled by the Soviet purpose in starting up the talks again. The last round was concluded in October, just before the Cuban crisis erupted. Since that time the Soviets have not proposed any new ideas for a settlement although Khrushchev has spoken publicly about replacing the flags of the United States, Britain and France in West Berlin with the U.N. flag.

The State Department is not sure what Khrushchev means by this suggestion but believes his aim still is to put an end to the Western occupation rights in Berlin and make the city more vulnerable to Communist pressures.

If the suggestion is converted into a proposal it seems certain therefore to be rejected and there is no prospect that Khrushchev would be prepared to accept any Western proposals for a Berlin accord.

The U.S. attitude toward the talks has been shaped by the fact that since January Khrushchev has been following a harder line toward the United States and the West generally, with the evidence ranging from the breakdown of nuclear test ban negotiations to the way in which Soviet troops have recently been withdrawn from Cuba.

Khrushchev promised Kennedy in mid-February that several thousand would be taken out by mid-March and estimates in official Washington of the number to be withdrawn ran as high as 9,000. The best available information from authoritative sources here is that the number withdrawn up to last weekend was around 3,000.

Four Teen-Agers Held For Mischief

J. B. Hall, depty sheriff at Coahoma, said that he had arrested four youths, three of whom are juveniles, in connection with acts of vandalism which occurred at the Coahoma High School last week.

He said the boys admitted the offenses which included slashing car tires and shooting holes in windshields and auto glass with air rifles. They had no reason for the acts, they told the deputy.

The 17-year-old boy has been charged with malicious mischief and will be brought before the justice court in Coahoma. Hall said he would turn the younger boys to the juvenile officer here.

Optimists See Alcoholism Film

Seventeen members of the Big Spring Optimist club and six guests saw a film on the medical aspects of alcoholism at the Wednesday morning meeting. The film was shown by Shelby Parnell, counselor on alcoholism at the Big Spring State Hospital. He was introduced by the Rev. Joe Leatherwood.

The club-sponsored oratorical contest was set for March 29, at 4 p.m., in Room 205 at the high school. Plans call for the winner's speech to be given to the club April 10.

Guests included five Lamesa club members, and one from Big Spring, J. W. Dickens.

Salesman's Car Looted At Night

Gaston Bell, Clyde, told Big Spring police early Thursday morning that some one had stolen approximately $32 in merchandise from his car last night while it was parked on the Howard House lot. He said he forgot to lock one door.

Items missing, out of between $1,000 and $2,000 worth of merchandise in the car, were 12 pairs of sunglasses, six straw hats, six khaki hats, and three bottles of liquor.

Traffic Light Pole Knocked Down

Airman Daniel B. Jurka, 22, was arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated at 1:35 a.m. Thursday after his car knocked over a traffic control signal pole at the southeast corner of the Marcy - Gregg intersection. Jurka entered a plea of guilty in County Court this morning and was fined $50 and given three days in jail.

Police said Jurka's car weaved east on Marcy and entered Scurry Street headed north, where he was apprehended. An estimated $250 damage resulted to Jurka's car, and City Electrician Roy Rogan estimated damage to the pole and fixtures at $100, plus labor.

Missile Works At Sea Level, Army Reports

SAN NICOLAS ISLAND, Calif. (AP) — The new medium-range Sergeant missile was tested 21 times high in the New Mexico desert, but what the Army wanted to know was whether it would also work at sea level.

The Sergeant was lobbed 70 miles to a target on San Miguel Island in its first public firing at sea level. This was the second in a series of three test shots being conducted to see how the Sergeant withstands the corrosive salt-laden air and behaves in the more dense atmosphere at sea level. The New Mexico tests were conducted at White Sands 4,000 feet above sea level.

The Sergeant, a 34-foot single-stage missile that operates on solid fuel, already is being deployed in Europe. It has a range of about 75 miles and is capable of carrying nuclear warheads.

San Nicolas is 55 miles southwest of Los Angeles.

Charges Pending Against 2 Youths

Two youths, taken into custody in connection with a series of thefts and burglaries, turned out to be 17-year-olds and not juveniles as had been reported to Bob Darland, juvenile officer.

Darland and Deputy Sheriff A. G. Mitchell arrested the youths last night. Darland said that both admitted a series of thefts. One lives in Big Spring and the other in Forsan.

Darland said that his part in the case halted when it was shown the boys were 17. It was not known at noon Thursday what charges would be filed against the pair.

Shell Reports Its Best Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Shell Oil Co. reported 1962 was the best ever for sales and earnings.

Profits totaled $157.7 million, against $140.4 million in 1961.

Sales advanced to $2,360,100,000 from $2,247,600,000.

"Despite the record sales, depressed prices, especially of automotive gasoline, prevented the company from realizing the full benefit of the stronger demand for its products," said President Monroe Spaght.

Cosden Will Attempt To Complete In The Wolfcamp

Cosden Petroleum Corporation will re-enter the No. 1 J. L. Whitmire, former Fusselman discovery about five miles northeast of Big Spring, in an attempt to produce from the Wolfcamp.

The project was formerly completed June 28, 1959 for 142.47 barrels of 42 gravity oil pumping from perforations between 9,542-554 feet.

It was treated with 2,500 gallons and produced 14 per cent water. The well was a two-mile south extension to the Big Spring (Fusselman) pool, in Howard County.

Operator will plug the hole back to 8,000 feet. Old total depth is 9,600 feet. On the way down the operator did not report tests on any zones above the Mississippian.

The project spots C NE NE, section 37-32-1n, T&P survey.

Kennedy Reports To Nation Tonight On Costa Rica Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy reports to the nation tonight on the Costa Rica conference which produced a seven-nation agreement to speed economic development of the hemisphere and curb Cuba-based subversion.

Shortly before Kennedy left the Costa Rican capital of San Jose late Wednesday, he announced he would open a 6 p.m. Washington news conference with a statement on his Monday through Wednesday talks with the chief executives of Panama and the five Central American republics.

The President was certain to express satisfaction with the outcome of the San Jose meetings, which brought him personal acclaim and agreement on a detailed statement of policy to guide the United States in its dealings with Panama, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Nicaragua and Honduras.

Hoping to attract a large television-radio audience for the news conference, Kennedy postponed for two hours the 4 p.m. starting time of the session originally announced more than a week ago.

The news conference will be carried live on NBC, CBS, ABC and Mutual radio networks. It also will be carried live on television by NBC and CBS. ABC planned live broadcasting except along the Pacific Coast, where a 4:30 p.m. PST rebroadcast was scheduled.

CBS said no decision had been made on television coverage.

Kennedy, who left Washington last Friday for a weekend in Palm Beach, Fla., before going to San Jose on Monday, returned to the capital late Wednesday night.

Mrs. Kennedy was waiting and she went aboard the presidential jet transport for a private reunion when the big plane came to a stop at nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md.

The Kennedys emerged from the craft arm in arm and went to a helicopter which took them to the White House.

Before leaving San Jose, Kennedy told a cheering crowd of university students that Cuba is an example of communism's failure to provide for its people. Contrasting the progress of Costa Rica with that of the Communist-controlled Caribbean island, Kennedy said Cuba now produces 25 per cent less food than it did five years ago.

As he did throughout his stay in Costa Rica, the President emphasized the theme that the hemisphere nations must cooperate to achieve stronger economies and a larger measure of social justice through "peaceful revolution."

"The myth of the 1950's"—the claim that communism can build a better system—has collapsed, Kennedy said.

"It is our adversaries who must build walls to contain their people," he said.

The language was a substitute for a passage in Kennedy's prepared text saying the Soviet Union must get out of Cuba. Kennedy also omitted a statement in the text that Cubans should share in the principles of freedom and economic growth which he said are the basis of the Alliance for Progress.

Newsmen who cover the White House said Kennedy frequently departs from prepared texts, and on that basis they saw no special significance in revision of the Cuban passage.

Andrew T. Hatcher, assistant White House press secretary, confirmed that the prepared text becomes part of the presidential record whether delivered in that form or not.

The crowd at the University of Costa Rica, estimated at 10,000 cheered lustily as Kennedy wound up his speech with: "Viva Costa Rica, Muchas gracias."

Students swarmed over restraining barriers as Kennedy walked to a Marine helicopter to fly from the campus to El Coco Airport to depart for Washington. Only when the big rotars began to turn did the crowd back away from the 'copter.

During the flight home, Kennedy sent a wire to Costa Rican President Francisco J. Orlich "to thank you for the warmth and welcome we received from the people."

Kennedy said "the vitality and dedication of the people were evident everywhere and inspiring to us all."

And he added thanks to the five other Latin-American presidents "who made our stay so pleasant and productive."

Mets Down Dodgers With Help Of Tree

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers used big bats, but then the New York Mets used a tree.

The tree turned in a sparkling defensive play for the Mets in the ninth inning Wednesday, holding Bill Skowron's out-of-the-park shot to a triple and saving New York's 4-3 exhibition baseball victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers at Vero Beach.

The Houston Colts got seven hits from Carl Warwick and 33 in all against 21 for San Francisco at Phoenix to outlast the National League champion Giants 16-12 in a 13-inning marathon.

The Yankees, barreling into ninth place in the American League standings, managed to get by with only 27 hits—including homers by Roger Maris and Joe Pepitone—for an 18-3 triumph over Washington at Fort Lauderdale.

Curt Flood hit his third homer and played thief on two drives to center field as the Cardinals dumped the Orioles 4-3 at St. Petersburg. Baltimore was the last undefeated team in exhibition play.

Pittsburgh blanked Detroit, 4-0 in a six-inning game, at Lakeland, Cincinnati edged Minnesota 6-5 at Tampa, the Chicago White Sox defeated Philadelphia 7-5 at Clearwater, Boston whipped Cleveland 5-2 at Scottsdale and the Los Angeles Angels nipped the Chicago Cubs 2-1 at Palm Springs.

Skowron lost his decision with the tree that grew at Vero Beach when his blast with one man on and the Dodgers trailing 4-2 cleared the bank surrounding the outfield but struck the tree and rebounded onto the playing field. Skowron had to settle for a triple.

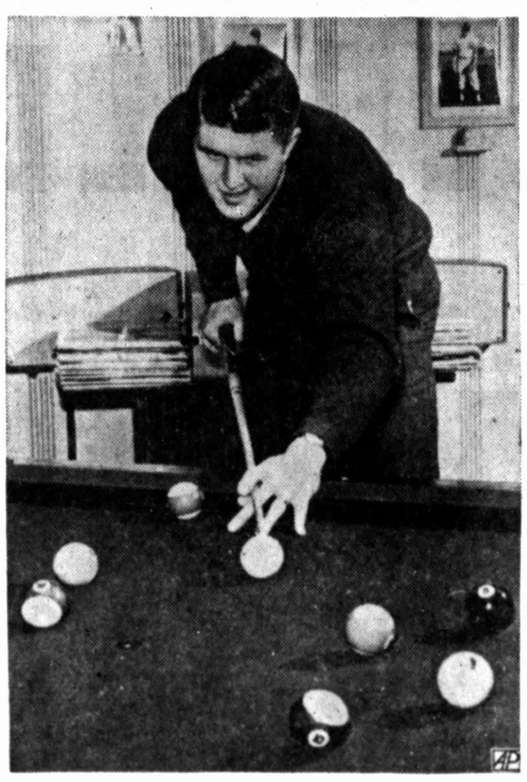

Warwick started the Colts to their game-winning rally in the 13th with his seventh hit in nine at-bats.

The Yanks got the job done in two bursts against the Senators, scoring four runs in the first inning on six consecutive hits.

Flood was all over the field for the Cardinals in the eighth inning, first holding Jim Gentile's liner to right center to a single by cutting it off quickly, then racing to left center and grabbing Al Smith's apparent game-tying extra base hit with a diving, backhanded catch.

Pirates pitchers Don Schwall and rookie Tommie Sick combined for a two-hitter in the rain-shortened game against the Tigers. Two homers by Johnny Edwards and one by Wally Post carried the Reds to their triumph over the Twins. Dave Nicholson's two-run homer was the big blow as the White Sox defeated the Phillies.

Dick Stuart and Roman Mejias got the job done against the Indians for the Red Sox. Stuart hit a homer and sacrifice fly and Mejias a homer and two singles. Rookie first baseman Charlie Dees drove in both runs with a homer and single as Angels made it six victories in a row by beating the Cubs.

Champion Of Baseball Bonuses

A game of pool in his home at Fond Du Lac, Wis., occupies Hub King, a 21-year-old right-handed pitcher who received a $50,000 bonus in signing with the New York Yankees. King said he is a firm believer in the pay-now play-later system for untried youngsters. He says bonus payments "are good" and don't blunt incentive, which he says "is an individual matter." King will be assigned to the Yankees' Augusta club. (AP Wirephoto)

Badgers Lose Tourney Game

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Propelled by a pair of flashy backliners, the Moberly, Mo., Greyhounds have moved into the semifinals for another of their almost perennial cracks at the National Junior College Basketball championship.

Joe Mimlitz scored 36 points and Harold Cebrun held the opposition's top scorer to 14 Wednesday night as Moberly trounced Burlington, Iowa, 86-71.

Phoenix, Ariz., had a close escape in the final seconds but beat back a 45-point scoring splurge by Gene Bogash and defeated Wilmington, N.C., 78-76 in the other semifinal game.

The other two semifinalists will be determined tonight when Independence, Kan., meets Marianna, Fla., and Casper, Wyo., meets Hibbing, Minn.

Burlington and Wilmington also meet today in a consolation playoff on the championship side of the intricate tournament bracket. First-round losers continue a separate playoff on the other side. Southern Union of Wadley, Ala., made the semifinals of this division by beating Broome Tech of Binghamton, N.Y., 58-49 Wednesday night.

Hibbing beat Amarillo, Tex., 66-63 in double overtime and Casper upended New York City Community College of Brooklyn 80-74 in first-round games.

Odessa Bronchos Favored In Meet

ODESSA — Odessa High is favored to retain its lead in the District 2-AAAA golf round, which takes place over the Sunset Country Club today.

The play was originally scheduled for Saturday at the Odessa Country Club but had to be moved forward due to the fact that a sprinkling system is being installed there.

Fifth and final meet to decide the team and individual champions will be staged in San Angelo Saturday, April 6.

Odessa High now leads the field by seven strokes and will have the advantage of playing at home. Odessa had had rounds of 307-317-311 for a 935 total.

Midland High trails with rounds of 310-336-296 for 942 while San Angelo, the pre-season favorite, is ten strokes back of the leader, with rounds of 317-323-305 for 945.

Big Spring and Abilene Cooper have totals of 959, which leaves each team 24 strokes back of the pace setters. Permian is next, in at 960, while Abilene High trails the ticket with a 1,001 aggregate. Abilene was runnerup in the circuit last year.

Cecil Salazar of San Angelo leads in the race for medalist honors with a 54-hole total of 220. Midland High's Steve Russell is second, with 225; while Lans Hays of Odessa is third, with 226.

Neil Robinson, David McCullah, Norman Patterson and Butch Bradford probably will represent Big Spring in today's play.

Gray-Y Stars Await Tipoff In Annual Cage Contest

Twenty-four star players from the eight Gra-Y basketball teams which recently wound up league play have been chosen to take part in an all-star clash Saturday.

The game will be played at 7 p.m. at the Howard County Junior College gymnasium. Tickets to the match are available from the boys, at the YMCA or at the door Saturday.

Lakeview, with a record of eight wins and no losses, headed the list of teams. Kate Morrison and Bauer, tied with six wins and one loss each, will meet Friday night at the Y to determine the holder of second place. The standing of other teams in the order in which they ended the season are Boydstun, College Heights, Park Hill, Washington, Airport and Cedar Crest.

Champion May Be Shelved For Remainder Of Year

CHICAGO (AP)—Golf club-shy Sonny Liston began training again Thursday—this time for an operation on his left knee that may shelve him for the rest of the year.

"For the next couple of days I've got to lift 40-pound weights with my legs to help strengthen my knee," he told The Associated Press. "Then I guess I'll have another examination. I know now I got to have an operation. The sooner the better.

"I'm glad I went to Miami yesterday and proved that I had a bad knee. I was getting mad about all the talk that it was an excuse to duck the fight (with Floyd Patterson). I think everybody is satisfied about my knee now."

The world heavyweight champion, who said he quit training for the Patterson return match weighing 222 pounds and now is 225, hurt his knee swinging a golf club while posing for a photographer.

The bout was set back from April 4 to April 10 and now is off indefinitely.

Liston returned from his one-day trip to Miami Wednesday night with his companion, Lowell Powell. The only persons to meet them at the airport were this reporter and an Associated Press photographer, who drove them home.

In the car, the seated Liston was asked just how the injury happened.

"I just swung back like this"—and that was the end of the demonstration as his ham-like mitts, clasped over an imaginary golf club, banged against the roof.

"Last time I'm ever going to pick up one of them things (club)," said Liston. "And even if maybe I once thought of playing golf, it's out of my mind for good now. It's cost me too much already."

Liston said he never had played golf.

Cousy Parents Earn Praise Of Celt Star

BOSTON (AP) — With his boundless energy, young Bob Cousy viewed life from the street of a New York slum and saw two paths.

One was to achievement in sports. The other to the world of stolen hubcaps and broken windows.

The all-time athletic great retiring from the Boston Celtics after 13 years credits his path on the right road to his parents and the fact they moved to a basketball hotbed in the borough of Queens when he was 13.

"Contrary to popular opinion, I was not born with a basketball in my hands," Cousy says. "In fact, I hardly knew what one looked like until we moved to St. Alban's. From then on, the excellent competition at my school and the ones we played against helped me to sharpen my game."

When Cousy arrived on the Worcester, Mass., campus, the Crusaders had a budding national champion.

"So here was I, the great Cousy, captain of the New York City all-scholastic team the year before, relegated to a boy fighting to stay on the squad," he recalls.

After earning All-America honors at Holy Cross, he was drafted by the Chicago Stags. That National Basketball Association franchise folded shortly thereafter and the Celtics, who didn't want him, got him by drawing his name from a hat. Bob now discloses he had doubts then that he would even make the team but set out to prove himself all over again.

Thirteen All-Star squads and five NBA championships later, the results of Cousy's efforts need no embellishment.

Former Holy Cross teammate Andy Laska recalls the Cousy of their college days.

"He was so determined and devoted we used to practice in a barn . . . and when we'd all be up eating supper in the dining hall, he'd still be down in the barn practicing . . . That's his secret. He's never satisfied with his game, even after 13 years."

Cousy makes no blanket predictions as to how he will make out as head basketball coach at Boston College, a post he takes over next season. But he feels his understanding of boys will help.

The ceaseless Cousy drive won't hurt his cause much either.

Colts, Giants In Marathon

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Hour baseball quiz for today:

Q—How can a team collect 21 hits in one contest, including five home runs, and lose the game when the opposition leaves 21 men on base?

A—The opposition gets 33 hits —28 singles, two doubles, a pair of triples and a two-run homer in the 13th inning that wins the game.

Q—What Little League game was that?

A—These were big leaguers, the San Francisco Giants and the Houston Colts of the National League playing a spring exhibition here Wednesday. There were 123 official batters, not to mention 10 who walked and one who got hit with a pitch.

Q—How many players were used? How many were pitchers? Were any of the latter effective?

A—An estimated 39 players saw action. Ten of those were identified as pitchers, five for each side. The winner, Connie Grob, stopped the Giants on 10 hits in the four innings he worked, and choked off the losers with only two home runs. Bob Bishop took the defeat.

Q—Who hit home runs for San Francisco?

A — Willie McCovey, Willie Mays, Ernie Bowman and Cap Peterson each hit two-run homers while Orlando Cepeda hit one with the bases empty. Houston's Carroll Hardy hit a two-run shot in the top of the 13th when the Colts scored six times.

Q—Were there any other big hitters?

A—Yes. Houston's Carl Warwick picked up seven hits in nine trips and batted in six runs.

Q—Didn't the B squads play earlier?

A—Correct. Houston won that also, 2-1.

Q — Only 2-1. Wasn't that boring?

A—No. That was baseball.

Detroiters Lose NBA Playoff Tilt

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Detroit Pistons are fast learning from the St. Louis Hawks that in the National Basketball Association the team that finishes fastest, usually ends up with the mostest.

St. Louis spotted the Pistons a 16-point margin in the first minutes and then stormed back to bury the Detroiters in the closing quarters to take a 1-0 lead in the Western Division semifinal playoffs with a 118-99 victory.

The two teams will meet for the third straight time on Friday in St. Louis in the second game of the best-of-5 series.

Syracuse and Cincinnati resume their Eastern Division playoff series in Cincinnati Thursday night. The Nats lead, 1-0.

Steers Leave Friday For Uvalde Tourney

Members of the Big Spring High School baseball team leave early Friday for Uvalde, where they take part in an invitational tournament.

Inability to obtain a bus caused coach Roy Baird to cancel plans for the team's departure this afternoon.

First round opponent of the Steers in Uvalde will be Del Rio. The two teams clash at 3 p.m. tomorrow.

If the Steers win that one, they challenge the survivor in the Eagle Pass-San Antonio Southwest game at 8 p.m. Friday.

Other teams in the tournament include Pearsall, Judson, Uvalde, Medina Valley, Crystal City, San Antonio Edgewood, Brackettville, Marshall, Marion, San Felipe, Laredo and St. Louis.

Big Spring carries a 5-7 won-lost record south with it. The Steers ended a five-game losing streak last Tuesday by blanking Brownfield, 10-0.

Tournament finals will be at 8 p.m. Saturday. The Steers competed in the tournament two years ago but did not return due to a schedule conflict last year.

Del Rio warmed up for the tournament by defeating Brackettville, 12-1, in a practice game Tuesday. Two Del Rio pitchers, Edward Guerra and Bresino Gonzalo, surrendered but two hits to the losers.

Top hitters on the Del Rio club are Bobby Garza and Darryl Wibbert.

Del Rio took part in the Crystal City tournament last week but lost both its starts there. Laredo beat the Wildcats in the opening game, 15-10, and they were downed in Del Rio-San Felipe in their second start, 9-2.

There was still some doubt Wednesday that Jeff Brown would be able to make the trip with the Steers. The slugging first baseman, who has been catching in recent games, has been out with the flu. He missed the last two contests due to illness.

In event he can't play, Allen Clanton will probably go behind the plate and Eric Nichols will take over at first base.

Roy New or Jack Roden could get the starting mound assignment for Big Spring against Del Rio.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Western Conference coaches delivered the final affront to HCJC over the ineligible player issue which arose back in January by refusing to consider any of the Jayhawks for the 1963 league all-star team.

San Angelo dominated the team, with four players on the ten-man squad.

Kirby Pugh led the voting with 74 points. Others chosen included Sammy Smith, Frank Phillips; Bob Dibler, Amarillo; Bruce Tibbets, San Angelo; Stanley Lynch, Lubbock Christian; Pete Welch, San Angelo; Ed Gardner, Odessa; Mike Wesbrooks, Amarillo; David Watson, San Angelo, and Cecil Marshall, South Plains.

Pugh, Armando Cerna, Ranger; Smith, James Mogan, Decatur Baptist, and Dibler were named to the Region V star-spangled team.

The executive committee of the Western Conference piously reported that HCJC's only penalty for the rules infraction would be forfeiture of two games, but it was much more than that.

Dr. Bob Carter of Amarillo, who is chairman of Region V, refused to list the Jayhawks in conference standings after the decree. You might say the Hawks played more than half its league games simply for the exercise.

For the sixth time, John Pipes has agreed to serve as director for Public Links Sectional golf play here.

The competition will be staged at the Big Spring Country Club Monday, June 17. Entry fee will be $5 and no green fee will be exacted.

The rewards are big. The winner becomes eligible to take part in the 1963 Amateur Public Links championships, which will be staged over the Haggin Oaks Municipal course in Sacramento, Calif., July 8-13.

The Big Spring Golf Association will help raise money for expenses of the local representative and, in addition, will assist in staging the Sectional Round itself.

The association usually helps by holding a Partnership tournament Memorial Day, May 30, and will do the same this year if the Muny course can be obtained for such a meet that particular day.

Incidentally, Richard Sikes, the young Arkansas linkster, won his second straight National Public Links championship last year. He became only the second man in history to achieve such a feat.

Pipes himself has had little time for golf lately. He's employed by a concern that deals in the servicing of record machines, is subject to call night and day.

That field of 132 players for last Sunday's Shamrock Partnership tournament at the Big Spring Country Club was somewhat larger than officials had expected. Good weather, no doubt, boosted the interest.

The Country Club people can easily handle a throng upwards to 200 for such a tournament.

Eighteen persons shared in the awards given away in last Sunday's play, by the way.

They're getting ready to top the greens at the Country Club but play will not be interrupted.

The survival of pro golf tournaments in Florida may hinge on the success or failure of the Doral Open Championship starting today.

The 1962 Doral meet lost $62,000 in 1962. West Palm Beach dropped $8,000 on its annual event earlier this year and promoters of both it and the Coral Gables meet are seriously considering the abandonment of their pro tournaments.

Another loser at Doral, sometimes called the Taj Mahal of the Everglades, could be a clincher as far as some of the state's sponsors are concerned.

Frank Strafaci, executive director of the Metropolitan Amateur Golf Association of Miami, raised $45,000 on the Doral program and advance ticket sales this year and has been quoted as being "hopeful" of breaking even.

He has reminded the public, however, that it costs about $80,000 to put on a $50,000 tournament such as the Doral.

Florida's money problems stem from the fact that most people go there to play golf, not to watch. They reason they can see all the big stars on television. Ticket sales at the initial Doral Open last year amounted to a meager $1,250. Local jealousies are another factor which sponsors must battle.

Doral actually is a hotel with two courses. All the hotels in that area are in competition for business and they don't want to do anything to help a competitor.

Still another factor is tournament promotion by a hotel such as the Doral is the loss of patronage simply because one of its courses is closed for a week.

Pro golf might be pricing itself out of existence.

Accuser Wants Tests By Drugs

ATLANTA (AP)—Former Georgia Athletic Director Wallace Butts has taken a lie detector test and his attorney says the results indicate he is telling the truth in denying a charge of collusion to fix the Georgia-Alabama football game last fall.

William Schroder, the attorney, said Butts took the test Wednesday at Jacksonville, Fla. "He passed with flying colors," Schroder said.

The Saturday Evening Post charged that Butts telephoned inside information on the Georgia team to Alabama Coach Paul Bryant eight days before the game which Alabama won 35-0.

Bryant also took a lie detector test. He said the results showed that he, also, was telling the truth in denying the charge.

George Burnett, an Atlanta insurance man who heard the alleged telephone conversation, according to the Post, also took a lie detector test. He said the test showed that he, too, was telling the truth.

Burnett issued a statement through his attorney Wednesday night in which he challenged Butts and Bryant to take additional tests — using sodium pentothal (truth serum).

The attorney said Burnett offered to allow attorneys for Butts and Bryant to question him while he is under the influence of the serum if they would permit his attorney the same privilege in questioning Butts and Bryant.

There was no immediate comment from either Butts or Bryant.

A spokesman for the Georgia Athletic Board said a record has been found of a telephone call from Butts to Bryant at the time the Post alleges the two conspired to rig the game.

The attorney for the board, M. Cook Barwick of Atlanta, said "we found a record of a call at the precise time Burnett said he heard the call. The record indicated the call was made from an Atlanta number to Tuscaloosa but was charged to the athletic board."

Butts, who has never denied talking with Bryant, said at his Athens, Ga., home last Sunday that he did not recall a conversation on the specific date.

Burnett was quoted in the Post as saying that through an electronic mistake he was connected into the conversation between Butts and Bryant.

Dupas And Moyer Arrange Fight

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Ralph Dupas, the dandy dancer from New Orleans, will get a crack next month at Denny Moyer's junior middleweight title.

The New Orleans Boxing Club announced Wednesday night that Moyer would meet Dupas here April 29 in a 15-round championship match at Municipal Auditorium.

The Moyer-Dupas bout had earlier been scheduled for Oakland, Calif., on April 15, but promoters there canceled the match after both fighters said they could make more money elsewhere.

Volcano On Bali Kills 400 People

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Bali island's rampaging Agung volcano has killed at least 400 persons, a spokesman for the Indonesian civil defense organization said today.

The spokesman said there was an increasing threat of more violent eruptions from the 10,308-foot volcano in northeast Bali.

President Sukarno had declared the tourist-mecca island a disaster one.

It was not clear immediately whether the increased death toll was due to new eruptions. Previously, officials had put the death toll at 150 or more.

A Red Cross source said latest reports listed 125 known injured. In view of the jump in the death toll, the number of injured also was expected to rise sharply.

The volcano erupted briefly Feb. 19, killing 17 persons, then lapsed into a lull. Last Sunday it began spewing out rock and lava.

The civil defense spokesman said some 250,000 persons are being evacuated from an area 20 miles around the volcano, which the Balinese consider the center of the universe.

Tons of lava and rock have spread death and destruction over a wide area. Thick clouds of volcanic ash virtually blacked out the sun over ports of Bali and darkened the sky over nearby populous east Java.

The spokesman said lava flows have isolated several areas to the east and south of Agung. However, the areas are accessible from the sea and boats are being rushed from nearby islands to aid victims and evacuate threatened areas.

Besakih, the largest and most sacred of Bali's temples, is on the slope of Agung, but so far it is reported undamaged. The temple is the focal point of a 100-year ceremony which was under way when Agung erupted.

During the ceremony held once each century, bones of the dead are burned to cleanse the island and rid it of spirits.

A large number of tourists are on Bali for the ceremony. However there have been no reports of any foreigners among the casualties. Most of the tourists are staying at Denpasar, the capital of Bali, about 40 miles southwest of Agung.

The island is just off the east coast of Java. Indonesia's most populous island.

Re-Districting Bill Protested As Insult To Sam Rayburn

AUSTIN (AP)— A House committee approved a congressional redistricting bill Wednesday night over protests that the committee was "spitefully stomping on the grave of the late House Speaker Sam Rayburn."

Rep. Don Hefton of Sherman spoke against the bill which takes a district away from East Texas, gives a new district to South Texas and gives Dallas County its second congressional seat.

The bill goes to the floor of the House where it awaits many amendments and debate.

The measure, written by a nineman subcommittee, puts U.S. Reps. Wright Patman of Texarkana in the same district as Ray Roberts of McKinney in a district running along Northeast Texas.

Hefton said the bill is an attempt to gerrymander the district of Rep. Lindley Beckworth of Gladewater so a conservative Texas House member can oppose Beckworth. Hefton did not mention the member's name.

He said it could also be "a cowardly attempt to give Patman a seemingly safe run against a freshman congressman." Roberts is a freshman member, while Patman is sixth in seniority in Congress.

It was brought out that additional counties placed on Rep. O. C. Fisher's district in West Texas makes that district larger than 23 states in the Union. Fisher is from San Angelo.

Odessa and Midland counties stay in the same district running from Midland west to El Paso. Republican Ed Foreman of Odessa now serves that area.

Harris County (Houston) retains its two members. Rep. Henry Grover of Houston said he will attempt to amend the bill on the floor to give Harris County another congressman.

Texas now has 23 congressmen, with one, Rep. Joe Pool of Dallas, elected at-large.

The new South Texas district is carved into an area from Seguin and Gonzales on the north, southwest to Eagle Pass and south to Zapata County.

Rep. Olin Teague of College Station has his district extending from Waxahachie on the north to Hallettsville to the south.

Victoria County is taken from the district of Rep. Clark Thompson of Galveston and put in the district of Rep. John Young of Corpus Christi.

Rep. Homer Thornberry's Central Texas district stays nearly the same as do a number of other areas.

Rep. Joe Kilgore of McAllen has his district shaved to four valley counties—Cameron, Willacy, Hidalgo and Starr.

Foreign Aid To Rise Above $100 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Total U.S. foreign aid since World War II will climb above the $100 billion mark this year.

How well the giant overseas assistance program promotes U.S. security—and how it could be refashioned to do a better job—is the subject of a controversial report by a presidential advisory committee headed by Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

Aides said a final version of the Clay report was made available to President Kennedy today. The report is expected to be made public this weekend.

Figures furnished by the Agency for International Development, which administers U.S. aid, list $97.7 billion worth of military and economic help to 111 countries and foreign groups from July 1, 1945, through mid-1962.

Though detailed statistics for the current fiscal year have not yet been worked out, the over-all total is certain to push past $100 billion. That's because Congress last fall voted another $3.9 billion in new aid funds and other items like surplus food disposals abroad have been topping $2 billion a year.

France, with $9.4 billion, and Britain, with $8.7 billion, still rank 1-2 as the largest total receivers of postwar American aid. The Western allies got the bulk of their U.S. financial help in the early postwar years when the Marshall Plan focused on European recovery.

Today, the aid pattern is different. With Europeans now prospering and dispensing aid themselves, U.S. aid now focuses on underdeveloped countries and poorer lands pressed by the Communists.

Thus, far more American assistance has gone to nations like India, Korea, South Viet Nam and Turkey since the end of the Marshall Plan in 1952 than to West European countries.

In 1962, India was the biggest U.S. aid recipient with $838 million, bringing her over-all total to nearly $4 billion. Pakistan was next highest in 1962 with $439 million, making a $1.9 billion total. Turkey got $356 million for a $3.9 billion total while Korea received $345 million, pushing her total to $5.4 billion.

France, with $51 million, and Britain, with $25 million are still listed as U.S. aid receivers in 1962—but this is all in arms assistance connected with the common North Atlantic defense effort.

American aid has undergone other changes too. In the 1949-52 Marshall Plan years, all but $3 billion of the $19 billion in U.S. overseas economic help went out as grants, or gifts. By 1962 the emphasis had changed to easy term loans aimed at stimulating economic development.

Of the $5.2 billion in U.S. economic aid dispensed in 1962, $2.9 billion was in loans and $2.3 billion in grants. The $1.5 billion in arms aid, however, remained almost entirely grants as before.

Of the $97.7-billion cumulative total, $66.6 billion has been in economic aid of which $42.7 billion was grants. Military assistance totaled $31 billion, all except $279 million in grants.

The American aid program also has used a wider variety of measures in recent years, ranging from food-for-peace disposals of U.S. farm surpluses to the Peace Corps.

The biggest of the new programs dollarwise is food-for-peace. Accounting for only a negligible portion of the U.S. aid total in Marshall Plan years, the food-for-peace outlay was listed at $1.6 billion in 1962. The 1962 spending for the Peace Corps, a Kennedy administration innovation, was reported at $29.6 million.

Israel Protests W. Germans Working On Arab Weapons

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government is expected to tell Israel it cannot prevent German rocket scientists from working for the United Arab Republic because that is their right as private citizens.

A West German spokesman said Bonn would not comment until it received an official report of Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir's appeal for a curb on German scientists she charged are helping the U.A.R. build offensive missiles.

In a speech before Israel's Parliament Wednesday night, Mrs. Meir said:

"A number of German scientists and hundreds of German technicians are helping develop offensive missiles in Egypt and even armaments banned by international law, especially of a particular category serving solely for destruction of life.

"There is no doubt that the motives of this evil crew are on the one hand lust for gain and on the other a Nazi inclination to hatred and destruction of Jews.

"We state emphatically that neither we, nor—we are sure—world public opinion, can reconcile ourselves to this situation."

The Israeli charge posed a ticklish problem for Adenauer's regime, which tries to avoid any actions which could be interpreted as anti-Semitic. It has stated repeatedly that private German citizens living abroad can take whatever jobs they please and observers felt it would be difficult for the government to retreat from this position.

Traffic Islands Being Re-Located

Concrete is being poured this week on traffic islands at the intersection of Wasson Road and Randolph, at Seventeenth and Aylford, and at the intersection of Canyon Drive and Cedar, Bruce Dunn, director of public works, said Thursday.

"We relocated the curbs at the Canyon-Cedar intersection," he said, "and will also set a new corner curb of sand bags at Settles and Fifteenth where traffic control will be changed soon. We hope, by the last of this week or the first of next, to place sand bags at the city park entrance off of Wasson.

"We are routing traffic to eliminate hazards at the various intersections," he said.

Firm Must Sell Property

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Martin-Marietta Corp. must sell 75 plants and properties worth millions of dollars, the Federal Trade Commission said Wednesday.

Also, the firm which has plants in Texas at El Paso, Littlefield and Pampa, was laid down stringent bans against future company acquisitions.

Within the next two years, the FTC said, Martin-Marieta must sell—only to buyers approved by the commission—60 concrete pipe plants, 13 crushed stone, sand and gravel plants, quarries or quarry sites and two lime plants.

The action took the form of a consent order agreed to by Martin-Marietta and commission attorneys. The agreement is only for purposes of settlement and is not an admission by Martin-Marietta that it violated any law.

Committee To Make Survey For Wholesale Outlets

A survey of local businessmen is next in line for the wholesale distribution committee of the Chamber of Commerce. At a regular meeting Wednesday the committee adopted a questionnaire and formed a nucleus of men to head the survey.

Workers will contact businessmen to determine what kinds of merchandise can be profitably distributed from Big Spring. All information will be confidential. It will be coded on IBM machines for rapid tabulation.

In discussion of possible locations for a distribution area, Marvin Springer pointed oot that the presently-owned industrial site is not satisfactory. He noted that it is excellent for heavy industry, but that other sites in the city would be better for a wholesaler.

Freeland Austin heads a committee of five to select businesses to contact during the survey.

Fire Damage

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Fire destroyed three buildings on the edge of the downtown district Wednesday and left damage estimated at one million pesos ($80,000).

Hanigan To Leave VA Hospital Here

Philip Hanigan, registrar at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital 3½ years, leaves April 1 for a new assignment, according to V. J. Belda, hospital director.

The new appointment was announced at a noon luncheon in Hanigan's honor today at the Cosden Country Club. About 15 administrative and service chiefs were present.

Hanigan is going to the VA center in Los Angeles. He began his career 14 years ago at the Castle Point VA Hospital, advancing through the management development program. He came here from Minot, N. D., where he was registrar.

He is a native of Sarrockaway, L. I., N. Y., and a veteran of four years in the Air Force during World War II. While here, he has been active with the Knights of Columbus and will resign his post as Grand Knight.

His other work here has included that of president of the Employes' Association and senior member of the Credit Union Committee. Hanigan is an ardent sportsman, in golf, bowling and swimming.

A replacement for the registrar position has not been named, Belda said. The appointment will be made by the central office.

PHILIP HANIGAN

Hanigan will be followed by his family at the beginning of May. They have two children, Kerry, a student at the Immaculate Heart of Mary Parochial School, and Denise. They live at 3615 Calvin.

Convict On Death Row Fights Off 'Do Gooders'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Harlan of the Supreme Court was asked today to stay the execution tonight of a New York state prisoner who has fought off efforts of attorneys whom he calls "do gooders"—to save his life.

Frederick Charles Wood, 51, condemned slayer of five persons, is scheduled to die in Sing Sing Prison's electric chair at 10 o'clock tonight.

"I really want to ride the lightning," Wood has said. ". . . I do not welcome any intrusion into this stinking case of mine."

Norman Dorsen, a New York University associate professor of law, filed with the Supreme Court clerk a petition asking that Harlan grant a stay to permit a hearing on Wood's sanity.

Dorsen, who was a law clerk to Harlan about five years ago, said he contended in the petition that Wood "may well be insane now." Dorsen said there is enough evidence of insanity in Wood's history to show that he now deserves a hearing at which he would be represented by counsel.

There was no indication when Harlan would act.

Dorsen filed his request for a stay of execution after state and federal courts in New York had rejected a similar request by other counsel. Two lower federal courts already have turned Dorsen down.

From death row, Wood has declared he wants no interference with his execution.

"I have had three stays of execution thus far, one automatic (beyond my control) and two effected by well-intentioned lawyers as 'do-gooders.'

"I want no more."

Wood, who even mocked the judge who sentenced him to die, was sent to the death house for slaying two elderly pensioners during a wine drinking spree in Queens in 1959. He was then out on parole after serving 17 years for beating a man to death in Elmira, N.Y., in 1942.

Later Wood confessed to having killed a 16-year-old girl in 1926 and an Elmira woman in 1933.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SEC. B BIG SPRING, TEXAS, THURSDAY, MARCH 21, 1963 SEC. B

New Hamburger Drive-In To Open In May On Gregg St.

Cal Scaggs and C. W. Nugent, Midland investors, have acquired ownership to a tract of land at 2401 S. Gregg and are building a $75,000 Burger Chef installation, it was announced today by John T. Moake, Midland, western representative for Burger Chef Systems Inc.

Moake said that the establishment, which is to follow the design of all 240 Burger Chef places now in operation, will be opened for business sometime about May 15. He said that the operator has not been definitely selected but that he expects to have the man signed in a few days.

The Burger Chef place here, with a 40 foot by 60 foot orange and white building, is No. 231 in the system. It occupies a tract 150 by 300 feet acquired from the FTC Inc. for $23,500.

Burger Chef features 15 cent hamburgers and is to be open 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily. The nearest Burger Chef to Big Spring at present, Moake said, is in Austin. However, the system covers all of the northeast and southeast part of the nation, most of the south and southwest and west into California. By the time the Big Spring place is operating Moake said there would be at least 240 Burger Chefs doing business. Others are being built.

A feature of the establishment will be self-service—the customer drives onto the lot, walks to the window and places his order.

"A rule of Burger Chef," Moake said, "is 'no tipping.'"

Each Burger Chef features an automatic patty machine which produces burger meat patties at an established standard size. The system keeps close check on the operators and requires its standard quality be maintained constantly. An automatic open flame broiler capable of cooking 600 hamburgers an hour is standard equipment in all Burger Chef establishments.

Moake said that Scaggs and Nugent are investors and are building the establishment to be sold. They are not to operate it.

Dies

Stuart Malcolm McGregor, 71, editor of the Texas Almanac for the past 40 years, died in a Dallas hospital. McGregor, widely credited with knowing more about Texas than any other man, retired recently from the Dallas Morning News.

Lack Of Rain Holding Back Grains And Pastures

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Farm activities are increasing but a lack of widespread rain is holding back Texas grains and pastures, says John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Heavy feeding of livestock is prevalent still in practically every section, he said. Some relief was noted in sections which got rain and mild temperatures.

Early corn and some grain sorghum have been planted as far north as Central Texas. Heavy planting is awaiting warmer soil.

Farmers in South Texas are planting cotton and sorghums. Moisture generally is adequate to germinate the seed but sub-soil moisture is short in most counties. Pastures are greening but grazing is short. Citrus is blooming and winter vegetables are being shipped. A soaking rain would be welcome.

Moisture is short in western counties of South Central Texas. Corn and sorghum are being planted; flax is making progress; fruit trees are in full bloom. Tomatoes are going into hotbeds and potatoes are being planted. Ranges are below average and cattle are thin and being fed.

Good weather stimulated pastures in the upper Gulf Coast area. Oats made good progress. Trees are blooming and figs are budding. Vegetable planting is heavy and much coastal Bermuda grass is being sprigged.

East Texas has adequate moisture but pastures and ranges are below average. Most trees are budding.

Moisture is adequate in Northeast Texas but a general rain is needed. Oats made some progress. Pastures are still below average. Plowing and the planting of gardens, coastal Bermuda grass and tomatoes in hotbeds were major activities.

Moisture is short in most of Central Texas but corn and gardens are being planted. Oats are making some progress but many stands are poor. Little grazing is being furnished. Pastures are greening up but grazing is short. Goat shearing is in full swing.

A lot of moisture is needed soon if grain fields in West Central Texas provide any grazing.

A general rain is needed in far West Texas also. Grasses and weeds are trying to grow but need moisture.

Scattered light showers and rain up to two inches fell in North Central Texas but a general rain is still needed. Wheat is improving. Many frozen oat fields have been plowed and some were resown. Many farmers are awaiting moisture to spring coastal Bermuda grass and plant corn.

Showers to a half inch of rain fell over parts of the Rolling Plains (Vernon) but 20 of the 22 counties in the district need moisture. Wheat has grown, but greenbug and grain mite damage is cropping up. Cattle are being moved from wheat.

The surface is dry and subsoil moisture is only fair in the South Plains. High winds hurt. Wheat made some improvement but stands were reduced by freezes. Livestock were in good condition on dry pastures and being fed.

Moisture in the Panhandle was short to very short. Winter-kill, drought and high winds all hurt wheat. Land preparation and preplant irrigation are in full swing. A general rain is needed.

Hard Winter Officially Ends

By The Associated Press

Winter, 1962,63, whose walloping of the Northern Hemisphere long will be remembered, yielded to spring at 3:20 a.m. today.

U.S. weathermen said the winter was among the most severe in the past 100 years.

England reported the months from December to February were the coldest in 223 years.

In Japan, record-breaking snow caved in 1,700 roofs in Tokyo alone.

Meteorologists said the winter was the coldest or near the coldest on record for Chattanooga, Birmingham, Cleveland, Atlanta, New Orleans and Pittsburgh.

But in Alaska, many areas had much warmer weather than usual.

COST IN LIVES

The cost in lives from weather-linked accidents was high. Crop losses, particularly in the South, ran into the millions of dollars. The South also had tornadoes and some of the worst floods in its history.

But this excess of moisture didn't carry over to much of the West, where some states reported the driest winter in years, and fear there might be a water shortage later. Many ski resorts suffered from a lack of snow.

Generally business wasn't hurt as much as it sometimes is during a hard winter, a survey by The Associated Press showed.

Retail sales were up two percentage points from a year ago. Industrial production held steady, with steel and auto output climbing.

The winter was, in the words of a Tennessee weather prophet—Helen Lane of Crab Orchard—a "humdinger." She predicted as much last fall after noticing that hornets' nests were close to the ground near her home in the Cumberland Mountains.

At Kingston Springs, in a pocket on the Harpeth River near Nashville, the mercury plummeted to 30 degrees below zero on Jan. 24. Nashville recorded an all-time low of 15.4 degrees below zero.

Deeper in the South, New Orleans had its coldest winter since 1905. Fifteen days of freezing or below left a seasonal mean temperature of 51.7 degrees. The 1905 mean was 51.1. The record is 50.9 set in 1886.

PALMS KILLED

The city's royal plams, familiar to thousands of tourists, were killed by the freeze for the second straight year. They had been replanted.

The winter was the coldest in South Carolina since 1901. Temperatures along the coast fell to 10 degrees or lower in December for the lowest reading there in memory.

In Florida, a mid-December freeze sent temperatures down to 10 degrees in the northern portion. As a result, the state's citrus crop was cut from an estimated 161.7 million to 110.7 million boxes.

Citrus experts said it will cost growers more than $300 million to replace trees and rehabilitate groves during the next three to five years.

Millions of dollars worth of shrubs and palm trees had to be replaced.

BOOM YEAR

Nevertheless, the state enjoyed a boom tourist year, with northerners flocking there in hopes of finding a bit of sunshine.

The winter was described as the coldest of the century for North Carolina, although there was less snow than usual, particularly in mountainous western North Carolina. On Jan. 24, the lowest unofficial temperature on record—24 below—was reported at Mt. Pisgah.

The combination of December, January and February was the coldest on record for the Cleveland, Ohio area. Snow at the Cleveland Hopkins Airport totaled 68.4 inches, compared to 36.6 inches in a normal winter.

The record snow measurement for Cleveland was 80.9 inches in the 1909-10 winter.

The winter was the third coldest in history for Chicago, with 24 days of zero or below temperatures.

In Indiana, a record 22 days of subzero temperatures was recorded in Indianapolis from December through February. Laport measured 105 inches of snow during the season.

Iowa's winter was the coldest since 1935-36. In the past half century, only the winter of 1917-18 also was colder.

50 BELOW

There was an unofficial 50 below zero reading at Decorah in northeast Iowa. In some parts of the state the temperature sank below zero every night for as long as three weeks.

Michigan reported the fourth coldest winter on record, with an average temperature of 20.7 degrees, 7.3 degrees below normal.

Ice on the Great Lakes was reported the thickest in 50 years. Lake Superior, never known to have frozen completely over, came close this year.

Transportation Help Requested

AUSTIN (AP)—Cities in Orange and Jefferson counties want help in working out solutions to their "Golden Triangle" urban transportation troubles.

Delegates asked the Highway Commission Wednesday for a long-range study of urban transportation in the counties, whose 300,000 population is expected to nearly double by 1980.

H. S. Peterson of Orange, chairman of the Sabine - Neches Chamber of Commerce, said urban transportation facilities are lagging while traffic gets more clogged.

Commission chairman Herbert Petry estimated the cost of a study at $240,000, of which the cities would pay 15 per cent. Any study would be coordinated with the officials representing the two counties and the three largest cities, Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange.

Panel Approves Slant-Hole Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — The House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee approved Wednesday a bill to curb slant-hole oil well drilling.

The bill makes it a criminal offense intentionally to deviate a well or to produce oil from a deviated well. Penalties up to 10 years and $10,000 in fines, or both, are provided.

Reps. Bill Hollowell of Grand Saline and Menton Murray of Harlingen said they will ask speedy consideration by the House and will resist changes to the bill.

LUCILLE BALL

Lucille Ball Knows Energy Can Be Built

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Lucille Ball bounced from making Warner Bros.' "Critics' Choice" into her new series on CBS-TV with such ease that I asked where all her energy comes from.

"People are always asking me that," Lucy said, as we walked to her dressing room for lunch. Her maid was in the kitchen making a cocktail of vegetable and fruit juices for us. As we sipped a mixture of carrots, apple and celery, Lucy sang the praises of what people call health food.

"I never ate any other way as a child," she exclaimed. "My mother was way ahead of her time. We never had white sugar or white flour in the house. Instead of candy, there was maple sugar and bowls of seeds around the house for snacking. I was used to three good meals a day with vegetables and salads. If you build a strong body with food, you naturally have energy."

Lucy spoke of exercise: "People get soft when they don't use their bodies. If you don't like sports, get out and walk, or dance."

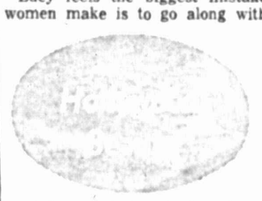

We were served tomato bouillon, green salad and broiled liver. For dessert there was fresh fruit and cookies made with whole-grain flour and honey.

There was a jar of raw gelatin on Lucy's dressing table. "I put this in fruit juice for a lift. It's pure protein and practically tasteless.

"I also use honey for quick energy. When I was doing 'Wildcat' on Broadway, I used to take it by the tablespoon between acts in hot tea. Energy isn't something that you can have overnight, but if you are interested in building health, you will find you have energy."

"In New York I dress with hats and gloves and I'm very sophisticated about my clothes, but here in California I like to relax. Leisure clothes can have a style all their own. You have to be disciplined about cleanliness, neatness and color combinations no matter what you are wearing, but with casual clothes you can always count on being comfortable."

Lucy feels the biggest mistake women make is to go along with a style that isn't suited to them. This applies to hair as well as clothes. We discussed perfume, for I had noticed several scents on her dressing table.

"I prefer cologne to perfume. I don't care for anything that is overpowering. There is a technique to using a fragrance so you don't use too much or too little."

Another bottle on her dressing table was an oil with a plunger attached.

"I use it for taking off my make-up. It cuts the grease and lathers like soap when I rinse it it off with water. I buy it by the pint. I learned about this oil a long time ago from my make-up man, and I have used it ever since. If you can't find something to remove all your make-up, you are headed for complexion troubles," Lucy concluded.

Lunch Scene Enhanced By Blossoms

Apricot trees, intensely pink with blossoms, formed a projected background for the buffet table Wednesday at the home of Mrs. D. S. Riley. Seen through the window, the trees added decor for the luncheon, served to the Downtown Lions Auxiliary. Mrs. John L. Dibrell was cohostess.

Tulips in variegated colors centered the buffet table, while jonquils and their foliage lent color to the luncheon table. About 23 members were served.

Mrs. L. T. King presided during a brief business session. She asked for committee volunteers to help decorate for the Queen's Contest, to be held at the Cosden Country Club Tuesday evening.

Hostesses for the April meeting will be Mrs. Lloyd Curley and Mrs. Dick Lane.

Southern Belles Spread Their Charm For Azalea Trail

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When the South has something to sell, it puts its best faces forward. Thus, three southern belles are touting the beauty of Alabama's azaleas, and in particular the Azalea Trail Festival, at Mobile.

The 17-year-olds, Azalea Queen Jody Prothro, and her maids of honor, Vicki Powers and Diane Juvenam, have charmed would-be tourists in many states with their sugartoned accents. They just smile, look pretty and sit for photographs in their pastel ante-bellum dresses and big picture hats, and the gentlemen swoon. The idea is that when they revive, they'll make tracks for the azalea trail.

CHARM A PLUS

The girls weren't picked just for looks. They had to have As and Bs in school grades to become queen, and maids of honor, plus personality qualifications. But it follows that they'd be charming, like any little ol' southern girl should be.

"They want a girl who is not only pretty, but can think on her feet," explains Jody, "and the first time I ever opened my mouth to make a little talk was at St. Paul. It was unexpected and a complete shock, but I was surprised it was so easy," she says of her experience before the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The same thing happened in Louisville, but by that time she was a seasoned speaker.

DRAWLING DOLL

"Everybody was so fascinated with my accent, I got teased a little bit," she said.

They met other girls who will appear in a pageant to choose America's Junior Miss, the climax of the festival, and discovered that Northern girls have a different kind of home life.

"They don't confide in their mothers as we do. They are more on their own. My mother reads my letters and I confide in her about everything," says Jody.

"Sometimes there are three generations of families at our big balls," explains Vicki, the brunette of the trio.

"And some parents double-date with their daughters," volunteers their chaperone, Cornelia Turner, women's editor of the Mobile Press-Register.

"I think it depends on where you live, the location has a lot to do with the relationship," says Diane. "There is always something going on in the south. The climate is always good for entertaining."

PARENTAL ADVICE

Many southern girls are strictly forbidden to go steady, says Jody, "but our parents don't sit down and give us lectures, they are always telling us things we should know in a general way, and it just sort of sinks in."

Jody gets a scholarship as queen of the festival. The maids get partial scholarships, and Vickie hopes to go to Julliard School of Music.

The girls will reign for about a year. They will be official hostesses for the pageant as well as the festival.

"It's 35 miles of azaleas, shaded pink and red," says Jody.

"All lighted at night. It's terrific," says Vicki.

"The only canopied trail in the United States," says Diane.

The girls will have no difficulty making everything charming for tourists they may meet. It just comes 'natcherly' to be good hostesses, they say.

Thrice Blessed

Three pretty examples of Southern charm are Azalea Queen Jody Prothro, center, and her maids, Diane Juvenam, left, and Vicki Powers.

MISS CLARA SECREST

Dinner Parties Are Artfully Achieved

By JO BRIGHT

The average woman often experiences moments of apprehension when planning a dinner party for ten or more guests. At those times the walls of spacious kitchens may seem to close in to form a culinary chamber of horrors.

Miss Clara Secrest is no ordinary hostess. With know-how-nonchalance she dons an apron and prepares for a party in a space no bigger than the bathroom.

There is no reason guests might suspect its former use—except that it is reasonable to assume that long, white porcelain object on the floor is a bathtub.

Miss Secrest lives in Room 607 at the Settles Hotel. Also in rooms 609 and 611. With Miss Edith Gay and Mrs. Tom Ashley, she has converted the connecting rooms into a convenient apartment. Thus the third bathroom became a kitchenette containing a refrigerator, stove, lavatory sink (spices stored behind the mirror) and cabinet and storage built over the tub.

Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William M. Secrest, Miss Secrest was reared in Hamilton. She attended Baylor University and earned a bachelor of arts degree after she began teaching at Texas Technological College. She received a master's degree at Texas Wesleyan College in Fort Worth. During the summer months she attended the Zaner-Bloser Co. School of Penmanship in Columbus, Ohio, the only one of its kind in the United States.

Arriving in Big Spring in answer to a newspaper ad for a teacher, she has been on the staff of the senior or junior high school here for a number of years. She is now on the faculty at Runnels Junior High where she teaches writing and art for the seventh grade.

Professional organizations to which she belongs are the Texas State Teachers' Assn., Classroom Teachers' Assn., and the National Education Assn. Her study club is the 1930 Hyperion.

"If I have a hobby, I suppose it is cooking," she said. One favorite cookbook is "Recipe Roundup," compiled by a group of Lamesa churchwomen. A cousin, Mrs. Robert Koger, lives in Lamesa where she has a catering service. Miss Secrest said she depends on her for many new recipes and methods.

Dinner parties, she considers, is the best way to entertain. Guests attest to the marvelous dinners that come from that tiny kitchen and are served with gay imperturbability by a gracious hostess. If you are ever her guest you may be served one of the following dishes.

SUMMER RICE DRESSING

2 cups cooked rice
2 cups milk
½ lb. cheese (diced) (sharp or medium cheddar)
Salt
Garlic salt to taste
1 green pepper-chopped
Dash of sugar
Dash of cayenne
1 cup parsley (chopped fine)
2 eggs
1-3 cup cooking oil
1 onion chopped

Mix together and cook in casserole 45 minutes to an hour at 350 degrees.

SHERRY MARLOW

1 cup heated sherry
½ lb. marshmallows
1 pt. of heavy cream (whipped)

Dissolve marshmallows in sherry and cool. Fold whipped cream into mixture. Pour over vanilla wafer crust or chocolate wafer crust which has been fitted into a long pyrex dish. Chill. Cut in squares.

SAUERKRAUT SALAD

1 No. 2 can kraut (cut with scissors)
1 large tomato (peeled and diced)
1 medium sized onion (chopped)
¾ cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped pimentos
½ cup sugar
½ cup vinegar
¼ cup water

Combine sugar, vinegar and water. Bring to a boil and pour over other ingredients while still hot. Place in refrigerator over night.

PORK CHOP AND RICE CASSEROLE

6 pork chops
2 cups cooked rice
1 can cream of chicken soup diluted with 1 soup can of whole milk or water
1 medium size onion (sliced)
1 can mushrooms

Salt, pepper and flour pork chops. Brown and drain. Place in casserole. Cover with sliced onions, mushrooms, rice and soup. Cover and cook one hour at 325 degrees.

RICE CASSEROLE

2 cups rice (cooked)
4 cups chicken broth
2-3 of ¼ lb. butter
¾ cup chopped celery
¾ cup grated carrots
2 tbsps. parsley flakes or ½ cup fresh parsley
½ cup green onion, tops and all, chopped
½ cup slivered almonds

Melt butter in hot pan. Add rice and brown 5 minutes. Pour boiling hot liquid over rice. Cook 370 degrees in covered dish 30 minutes. Remove from oven and add other ingredients. Bake 30 minutes longer.

To warm over add 3 tablespoons water and reheat in covered dish. Just as good second day. I use Spice Island chicken stock.

ICE CREAM

1 small can crushed pineapple
1 can frozen orange juice
1 can Eagle Brand Milk
3 bottles of 7-UP

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Fold in ½ pint of whipped cream. Freeze in refrigerator tray. Cover tray with foil.

COLOSSAL ASPARAGUS SALAD

2 cans of colossal asparagus spears
Sweet relish
Sliced stuffed olives
Italian Wish Bone Dressing

Place a layer of asparagus in salad bowl and put a layer of sweet relish and a layer of sliced stuffed olives. Repeat. Pour dressing over other ingredients. Chill and let marinate several hours.

Steak Is Stuffed

Be adventurous! If you've never stuffed a flank steak, go to it!

STUFFED FLANK STEAK

2 lb. flank steak
3 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 small onion, finely chopped
1-3 cup finely diced celery
1 cup prepared cornbread stuffing (from 8-oz. bag)
½ cup stock or water

Cut away any heavy wads of fat from steak. Cook onion and celery in the butter until wilted; mix in the water and corn bread stuffing. Add more water if stuffing seems very dry.

Mound stuffing down center length of steak; roll up steak (in jelly-roll fashion) around stuffing. Turn up ends and fasten all edges of meat with skewers.

Bake, covered, in a moderate (350 degrees) oven in a small roasting pan, adding stock to bottom of pan, for about 1½ hours or until meat is tender. Baste several times with stock in pan and uncover last half hour so meat will brown.

Slice into rounds, cutting across the long meat fibres. Makes 6 servings.

Make A Cranberry Pie To Perk Jaded Tastes

Four new desserts for anytime, and each starts with a package of cookies and a can of cranberry sauce. Vanilla wafers, gingersnaps and graham crackers team with canned cranberry sauce to make these dessert treats. There are two desserts for the refrigerator, one for the freezer and one for the oven. All are easy to make, yet special enough for party-fare.

First there's Cranberry Refrigerator Pie with a vanilla wafer crust holding a creamy cranberry orange filling.

CRANBERRY REFRIGERATOR PIE

1 cup whole cranberry sauce
½ cup light brown sugar
1 pkg. orange flavored gelatin
1 cup whipping cream (½ pint)
½ cup walnuts, finely chopped
Vanilla wafers, about 25

(Note: You're right! There isn't any water in this filling). Mix cranberry sauce and sugar in saucepan. Bring to boil. Remove from heat. Add package of orange gelatin and stir to dissolve. Let cool. Whip cream until stiff. Add nuts and cranberry mixture to whipped cream. Line 9 inch pie plate with vanilla wafers, arranging them around edge, also. Pour in cranberry mixture. Chill thoroughly. Garnish with whipped cream or walnut halves.

Cranberry Ginger Dessert uses layers of ginger snaps, cranberry sauce and cream for a chilling in the refrigerator.

CRANBERRY GINGER DESSERT

½ lb. cream, whipped
¼ cup nuts
1 lb. can jellied cranberry sauce

Line a pan with a layer of ginger snaps. Beat cranberry sauce with beater and fold in whipped cream. Spread a layer of the cranberry whipped cream mixture over the ginger snaps. Repeat with alternate layers of ginger snaps and whipped cream mixture. Top with chopped nuts and let stand in the refrigerator four hours or longer. Serve in sherbets and, if desired, top with a small amount of whipped cream.

Then an elegant Cranberry Macaroon Torte is made with graham cracker crumbs in the baked shell. It's filled with a creamy cranberry orange filling to chill.

CRANBERRY MACAROON TORTE

3 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
1 cup finely crushed graham cracker crumbs
1 tsp. almond extract
1 tsp. vanilla extract
3 egg whites
½ cup sugar
½ cup chopped nuts
1 1-lb. can whole cranberry sauce
½ cup whipping cream
1 3-oz. pkg. orange gelatin
½ cup brown sugar

Beat egg yolks, gradually adding the sugar, until thick and lemon colored. Mix in the crumbs, vanilla and almond extract. Beat the egg whites until frothy. Continue beating and add the sugar gradually until the mixture is shiny and stands in peaks. Fold into the egg yolk mixture with the chopped nuts. Spread into two greased 8-inch pie plates or one greased 10-inch pie plate. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 25-30 minutes. Cool. In a saucepan, mix together the cranberry sauce and brown sugar. Continue stirring and bring to the boiling point over moderate heat. Remove from the heat. Dissolve the gelatin in the hot cranberry mixture and cool until partially set. Whip the cream. Spread thin layers of the cooled cranberry filling alternately with the whipped cream on each 8-inch torte shell or the one 10-inch shell. Begin with a cranberry layer and end with a whipped cream layer. Recipe will make 10-12 servings.

Cranberry Macaroon Torte can be frozen and can be served as a frozen dessert or defrosted to serve.

Enjoy A Make-Ahead Casserole For That Very Special Party

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Friends give us recipes for dishes they have enjoyed serving at buffet suppers and we pass these along.

Recently one hostess found herself facing a last-minute supper party for her newly - married daughter-in-law's and a chicken-and-rice dish was concocted to serve 12 to 16. We call this recipe a "morning casserole" because our friend prepared it the morning of her supper. Then she refrigerated the dish and heated it in the oven an hour before serving.

We're giving you the original large recipe in case you, too, have to feed a crowd. When we tried the dish we were counting on only six to eight guests to feed, so we halved the amounts.

As an extra with the casserole at our supper, we had sliced smoked tongue. With the tongue we offered a variety of mustards—the regular American kind in both brown and yellow versions, Dijon (from France and sharp), and Bahama-type (a sweet brown mixture).

A huge salad of water cress, chicory, escarole and romaine plus paper-thin slices of cucumber, a bowl of tiny tomatoes, and a basket of hot buttered rolls were our accompaniment to the casserole and tongue. And for a no-preparation dessert we found ice cream and an on-hand sauce the perfect answer.

As an alternate menu, we suggest cooked green peas with the casserole, followed by a salad of water cress (or other greens) orange slices or segments, and French dressing. Dessert might be a filled and frosted layer cake—angelfood or another variety.

BIG CHICKEN AND RICE CASSEROLE

3 whole broiler-fryers
2 cups water
2 tsps. salt
2 tsps. monosodium glutamate
2 bay leaves
3 sprigs parsley
1 cup coarsely cut celery tops
1 can (10½ ozs.) condensed cream of mushroom soup
2 cups converted - type rice (cooked)
1 pint commercial sour cream
1 pkg. (1½ ozs.) dehydrated onion soup mix
Mushroom garnish

In a deep kettle bring to a boil, covered, the chickens in water with salt, monosodium glutamate, bay leaves, parsley and celery tops. Simmer until tender. Strain chicken from broth. Measure broth and, if necessary, boil until reduced to 1½ cups; mix with undiluted mushroom soup; turn into a 4-quart casserole. Skin chicken; remove it from bone; cut into large fork-size pieces; add to casserole with cooked rice, sour cream and onion soup mix; mix well. Refrigerate. One hour before serving place in a moderate (350 degrees) oven and bake, uncovered, 50 minutes. Add mushroom garnish. Makes 12 to 16 servings.

MUSHROOM GARNISH

Drain one 6-ounce can of mushrooms and wrap in foil, using a drugstore fold. About 30 minutes before casserole is heated, place foil-packaged mushrooms in oven to heat. At serving time place mushrooms around edge of chicken casserole and top each one with a tiny pimiento cut-out; sprinkle center with minced parsley.

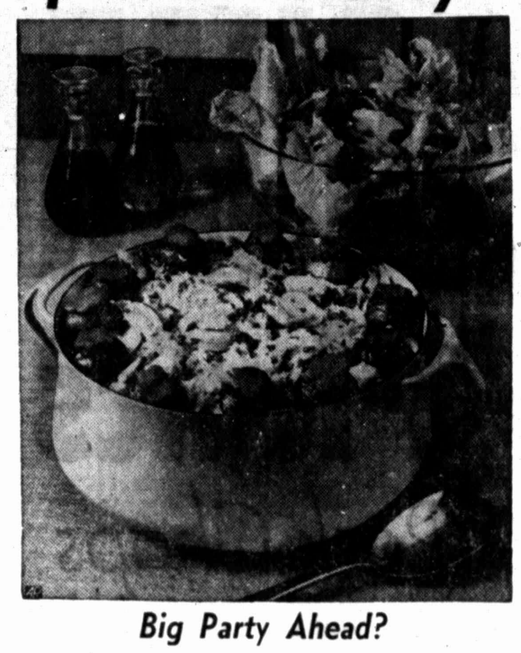

Fine Fare

Fish fillets go fancy when they are given a stuffing, and the dish is simple to prepare.

STUFFED FISH FILLETS

6 fish fillets (such as lemon sole), 1¼ to 1½ lbs.
3 tbsps. butter or margarine
½ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup finely chopped celery
6 tbsps. fine dry bread crumbs
⅛ tsp. each salt and pepper

Have the fillets free of both bones and skin; wipe with a damp cloth. Cook onion and celery in the butter until softened but not browned; mix in the crumbs, salt and pepper. Spread stuffing over fillets; roll up; secure each with a toothpick. Place stuffed fillets in a small shallow baking dish. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven 25 to 30 minutes; baste once or twice with the butter that oozes out of the stuffing or with a little extra butter. Serve with mushroom sauce. Makes 3 servings—2 fillets per portion.

Big Party Ahead?

You may want to consider serving this chicken and rice casserole — prepared in the morning and served at suppertime.

Pancakes Are Spiced With Cherry Sauce

For cherry red sauce:
1 tbsp. cornstarch
1-3 cup sugar
½ tsp. grated lemon rind
¼ tsp. salt
1 can (1 lb.) red sour pitted cherries (water packed)
¼ tsp. red food coloring.

Combine cornstarch, sugar, lemon rind and salt in a saucepan. Drain cherries; stir liquid into dry ingredients.

Cook stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil. Boil ½ minute. Add red food coloring and cherries.

Tuck slices into school lunches or serve with fresh fruits, cheese and walnuts to crack or in sandwich form to accompany salads. Crunchy, fresh California walnuts give the bread a wonderful flavor and you'll find them widely available in-the-shell in cellophane bags or shelled in convenient vacuum cans or clear bags.

¾ cup chopped California walnuts
¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup granulated sugar

Cut peaches into small pieces with kitchen scissors. It is not necessary to soak them first. Chop walnuts. Cream butter or margarine, sugar and egg together. Resift flour, baking powder and salt together; add to creamed mixture alternately with cream. Stir in walnuts and peaches. Turn into greased 9½ x 5½ x 3-inch loaf pan. Lenten Breads Lend Excitement To Meals

When planning meals for Lenten days, be sure to include tasty bread treats to complement main dishes.

Special Lenten breads can add appetizing appeal and excitement to March meals.

Hot Cross Buns are a prominent and traditional Lenten treat in Europe and northeastern United States. Filled with tasty currants and topped with white icing crosses, Hot Cross Buns can be eaten on fast days and served with any meal from morning till night.

Originally baked as a hi-rise yeast roll, Hot Cross Buns can now be prepared with self-rising flour to avoid time-consuming baking techniques.

HOT CROSS BUNS

1 cup milk
¼ cup cooking oil or shortening
3 tbsps. sugar
1 tsp. salt
1 egg
3½ cups self-rising flour
2-3 cups currants and raisins
½ tsp. cinnamon

Combine all ingredients except self-rising flour. Gradually stir in flour to form soft dough. Grease large muffin tin or muffin cups. Spoon dough into greased cups, filling each cup half full. Or roll dough on floured board and shape into individual rolls to be baked on flat baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) for 25 minutes or until brown. Remove from oven and cool slightly before icing. Makes 12 to 18 buns.

Prepare easy confectioner's icing for crosses by blending ¾ cup confectioner's sugar, dash of salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla and 2 tablespoons of milk. Form crosses by spooning icing in form of cross atop each bun.

Hot Cross buns can be frozen, wrapped in foil and re-heated in oven as needed for meals and snacks. These buns should be warm when served.

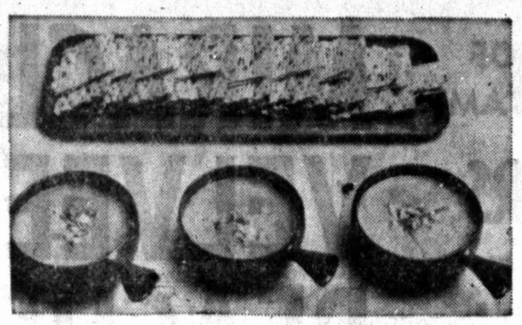

A popular Southern bread to plan for March menus are corn meal Hush Puppies, the ideal bread to serve with fish main courses.

SPICY HUSH PUPPIES

½ tsp. garlic juice or garlic salt
3 tsps. chopped pimentos
2 cups corn meal mix
1 cup milk

Combine all ingredients and blend well to form light corn meal batter. Heat cooking oil or shortening at least 2 inches deep to hot (365 degrees) in deep fry pan or sauce pan. Dip tablespoon into hot cooking oil or shortening. With greased spoon, drop tablespoonfuls of corn meal batter into hot cooking oil or shortening. Shape each spoonful of batter to fairly round shape by swirling mixture toward end of spoon just before dropping. Cook until browned. Drain on absorbent paper. Makes approximately two dozen hush puppies.

Spicy hush puppies can be frozen, wrapped in foil and reheated in oven for meals as needed.

Soup Surprise

Fish is the secret ingredient that makes this supper in a soup bowl a Lenten delight for on-the-go eaters.

Soup Bowl Supper

A welcome idea in these weeks of in between is a bowl of steaming soup made more interesting, nourishing, and appetizing with chunks of tender salmon.

Whether or not you observe the Lenten season, you're bound to go fishing more often than usual during the 40 day period of moderation. It's a wonderful way to serve more simple fare and to balance the budget, often bent to breaking point, after the strenuous holiday season.

By simply combining a can of soup and a can of salmon, both staples on every supply shelf, then adding a touch of an herb, a kiss of a spice, a nourishing supper-in-a-bowl is ready to serve in less than 5 minutes. You're saving precious time as well as money, yet you're serving a dish that everyone will enjoy. Try one of these flavorful combinations today.

SALMON CHOWDER

1 can condensed cream of celery soup
1 can 7¾ oz.) salmon flaked
Liquid from salmon plus milk to measure 1½ cups
½ tsp. paprika
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
½ tsp. dried dill weed

Combine ingredients and heat over simmering water or stir over direct heat. Serves 2.

CURRIED SALMON AND PEA

1 tbsp. minced onion
1 tsp. curry
1 can pea soup
1 can (7¾ oz.) salmon, flaked
Liquid from salmon plus milk and cream to measure 1½ cups
1 tsp. lemon juice

In saucepan heat butter and in it cook onion and curry until onion is soft. Stir in remaining ingredients. Heat over simmering water or stir over direct heat. Serves 2.

SPECIAL BREADS

Coffee Cake For Brunch

For a baking-powder coffee cake with fine flavor and texture, try this recipe:

CHEF'S COFFEE CAKE

1½ cups sifted flour
2 tsps. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
¼ cup butter
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
2 eggs, separated
1 tbsp. lemon juice
½ cup milk
½ cup blanched slivered almonds
½ cup sugar mixed with ½ tsp. cinnamon
2 tbsps. melted butter

Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cream the ¼ cup butter with the sugar and lemon rind; beat in yolks well, one at a time, then lemon juice. Add flour in three additions alternately with milk, stirring just until smooth.

Beat egg whites stiff; fold in. Turn into 9 by 9 inch baking pan. Sprinkle almonds over top, then sugar-cinnamon; dribble with 2 tablespoons melted butter. Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven about 30 minutes. Cut in squares in pan and serve warm.

Crisp Meringues

Crisp meringues are delicious filled with ice cream. If you are baking the meringues for a party and they soften during an overnight stay in a covered container, reheat them in a very slow oven for 15 minutes or so. Then cool the meringues and they'll be crisp.

Simmer Beans

Be sure to cook dried beans at a simmering temperature so they will stay whole. If the beans do not boil, you should be able to cook a pound of the beans (a little over two cups) in 1½ quarts of water.

Tomatoes Good Buy This Week

By The Associated Press

Tomatoes, for the first time since late autumn, are a best buy this week at Texas food markets, the Agricultural Marketing Service says.

Prices have dropped sharply with increased supplies from Mexico and Florida.

The service also tagged snap beans as a best buy. Prices hit the lowest level of the season.

Radishes drifted lower. Avocados declined.

Cabbage, carrots, greens, shallots, yellow onions, round red potatoes and sweet potatoes are good buys in view of prices and food values.

Turkeys and hams view as top bargains at meat counters. Other high-protein foods, peanuts and peanut butter, are plentiful.

Canned corn, canned freestone peaches and canned ripe olives are moving at volume discount prices.

Exotic Chicken

This delicious chicken recipe is too easy to be true. Place ½ cup of butter, the juice of 1 lemon, 1 teaspoon of salt and ½ teaspoon of paprika in a large skillet over the burner. Place 6 chicken breasts in the sauce, cover the skillet and reduce the heat and forget it for 20 minutes. Turn, cover and cook 20 to 30 minutes more. If you want sauce to serve with the chicken, add light cream to the skillet. Thicken with egg yolk if desired.

Prevent Scum

Keep syrups, after opening, in a cold place so no scum will form over the top surface.

LENTEN SALAD

French-Style Salad Is Good In Lent

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If you've never served a Nicoise Salad, you may enjoy doing so during Lent.

This is the salad met everywhere in Paris, and worth adopting.

Larousse Gastronomique, the famous French dictionary of food that is now available in a fine English version, gives the ingredients for Salade Nicoise as potatoes, snap beans, anchovies, olives, capers and tomatoes dressed with oil, vinegar, salt and pepper, and sprinkled with the fresh herbs chervil and taragon.

However, French cooks often change these ingredients and add lettuce, tuna and hard - cooked eggs, and specify that the olives used be the ripe variety. It's this latter version, with the anchovies and capers omitted, that is given in the following recipe.

Preface this American Nicoise Salad with a hot soup; serve French bread with both the soup and salad and you'll have a satisfying meal.

AMERICAN NICOISE SALAD

1 small head lettuce
2 cans (6½ or 7 ozs. each) tuna (packed in vegetable oil)
1 cup cooked sliced potatoes
1 cup cooked cut snap beans
3 hard-cooked eggs (shelled and quartercd)
3 small tomatoes (quartered)
1 small red onion (sliced thin and separated into rings)
12 ripe olives
Salad Dressing

Shred the lettuce fine and place in a large shallow bowl. Lift tuna from oil in large pieces and pile in center of bowl. Surround with a ring of potatoes and one of beans. Alternate egg and tomato quarters around beans. Garnish with onion rings and olives if made ahead of serving time, cover tightly with saran and refrigerate. Just before serving (at the table) pour the Salad Dressing over all the ingredients and toss well. Makes 6 servings.

SALAD DRESSING

Dash of paprika
½ tsp. monosodium glutamate
1-3 cup lemon juice or vinegar
2-3 cup salad oil

Add the salt, paprika and monosodium glutamate to the lemon juice; stir with a fork until dry ingredients are dissolved. Add oil; beat with the fork until blended.

Have Mixed Grill Meal

Ever serve a mixed grill instead of a roast for that end-of-the-week dinner?

SAVORY LAMB CHOPS

4 loin lamb chops, 1 inch thick
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
¼ tsp. dry crumbled oregano
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 tbsp. red wine vinegar

Cut all but a thin layer of fat away from outside edge of chops. Remove lump of fat at center of inside edge; roll the tail on each chop together and skewer with a small meat pin. Have chops at room temperature.

Mix together the salt, pepper, oregano, crushed garlic and vinegar; spread half the mixture over top surface of each chop. Arrange chops on rack in broiling pan; broil, according to the directions for your range, until browned. Turn chops and spread with remaining seasoning. Continue to broil to desired doneness.

Remove meat pins. Serve with browned pork sausage links and broiled mushrooms. Makes four servings.

Sauce For Seafoods

This subtle mayonnaise - thick sauce from the Mediterranean can be used on any kind of cold seafood; or place a spoonful of it in slices of cold ham or salami, roll up and serve as cornucopias; or use as a stuffing for celery.

¼ cup capers, well-drained
2 cans (2 oz.) anchovy fillets, drained, minced
1 can tuna fish (7 oz.), drained
1 or 2 garlic cloves, crushed
½ tsp. dry mustard
½ cup olive oil
¼ cup chopped black or green olives

Cobine all ingredients, beat in electric blender until pureed and thick; or, mash and beat with wooden spoon first five ingredients until paste-like, slowly beat in olive oil, add olives when sauce is thickened. Makes 2 to 2½ cups sauce.

Spanish Chicken Is Spicy Dish

1-3 cup olive oil
¼ tsp. basil
½ tsp. oregano
1 tbsp. minced parsley
1 garlic clove, minced
2 tsps. salt
1 tsp. lemon juice
1 3-lb. chicken, cut up
1 cup chopped onion
1 green pepper, chopped
½ cup minced ham
1-Lb. can tomatoes
⅛ tsp. saffron
2 cups water
1 cup long grain rice

Crush together the basil, oregano, parsley, garlic and salt with mortar and pestle or in small bowl, moisten with a little olive oil and the lemon juice, brush over chicken pieces; let stand ½ hour. Heat remaining olive oil in heavy large skillet, cook the chicken until browned on all sides; remove chicken. Add onion, green pepper and ham to oil in skillet, cook over moderate heat until onion is soft, add rice, cook until transparent. Heat together tomatoes, saffron and water to boiling. Add boiling water to rice, stir to blend, replace chicken, cover tightly, bring liquid again to a boil, then turn heat as low as possible and cook 20 to 25 minutes until all liquid is absorbed. Serves 4 to 6 persons.

A Devotional For The Day

God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved. (John 3:17.)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, Thou are love. Help us to be possessed of love like Thine that it may be the governing force in our lives. In the name of Christ, who proclaimed Thy love and taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

(From The 'Upper Room')

Tough Spot

Secretary of Defense McNamara is getting his lumps these days. Few will argue that he is a brilliant and tireless figure, that he has a keen grasp and unique executive ability. But, the complaint now noised around is that he is a dictator in the defense establishment.

James Reston, a Washington observer, thinks Sec. McNamara's difficulty boils down to something relatively simple—he has been run over by the gravy train.

The secretary's penchant for wielding the knife on various projects and establishments has not endeared him to some members of Congress, particularly those whose constituents have been involved. The TFX program is a case in point. His conclusion that the General Dynamics proposal was, from a realistic analysis, more advantageous might not have evoked much reaction in private business, but when the political overtones were employed, it became a hot potato. multiply this by cutback decisions on the Skybolt program, the Sugar Grove radio telescope project, the Advent Communication satellite, the R-70 super-plane and many others and you have cumulative impact. In addition, he whittled the $67 billion dollar asking of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to a $53.7 request which went to Congress.

Many conscientiously believe he is quick on the trigger when it comes to decisions, and some feel he deviates from recommendations of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. His job is not an enviable one, for he administers an agency of government which spends more than the combined income of all our private corporations. Moreover, the imposition of cicilian authority over the military is not the easiest thing. In recent testimony to a Senate committee, Gen. Lauris Norstad hinted for a bit more weight to be given to the recommendations of the joint chiefs and suggested closer personal negotiations in policy creation. But, the general firmly supported the secretary's final authority in decision-making.

All Winners

Mrs. J. R. Langston has been selected as the recipient of a $250 award for the best letter nominating some sales or service person for a courtesy award. Mrs. E. J. Mann, whom she nominated, received a plaque.

This has certainly been an important event for these two persons as well as others who were named in the weekly awards. It is more significant in the final analysis to the business community, for necessary quality in development and maintenance of good trade relations.

The interesting thing about the contest has not been so much the selection of winners but the generally good response by the buying public. More impressive, still, is the long list of people who received nominations. This is good evidence that the quality of courtesy does exist in Big Spring stores. We hope that it always does, that it remains one of our business graces. In that case all of us will be winners.

David Lawrence

A Congressional Plan For Cuba

WASHINGTON—Members of Congress of both parties have for months expressed serious concern over the possibility of open military aggression by Communist forces against the nations of this hemisphere. A realistic appraisal of the present situation and a recommendation as to what should be done have just come in a unanimous report from the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives. All nine members of the subcommittee on Inter-American Affairs — both Republicans and Democrats—signed the report.

THE COMMITTEE findings are that, even though the Castro Communist forces in Cuba are incapable without outside assistance of successfully mounting an "offensive" blow, this "does not minimize the Communist threat to inter-American security." The committee then says bluntly that "no plan for collective action against Communist subversive aggression has been put into effect" by the countries of the hemisphere.

The report points out that, because no clear and unified hemispheric policy dealing with the Castro Communist subversion has been developed, some of the members of the Organization of American States "have not devised effective internal methods of controlling subversive traffic in and through their territories."

IT IS ASSERTED emphatically that Cuba's dependence on the Soviet Union is complete and that the regime "is in fact controlled and operated by trained professional agents from the Soviet bloc." The House subcommittee report states flatly that "the Soviet Union must be held accountable for such subversive aggression in the Americas."

It adds that the "violent overthrow of existing governments remains the unified aim of Communist forces in Latin America," which include both the "Soviet and Chinese branches of international communism."

BUT WHAT TO do about it? The subcommittee makes four principal recommendations, as follows:

"1. In accord with the joint resolution of Congress, October 3, 1962, Section (A), immediate steps should be taken by the United States 'to prevent by whatever means may be necessary, including the use of arms, the Marxist-Leninist regime in Cuba from extending, by force or the threat of force, its aggressive or subversive activities to any part of the hemisphere.'

"2. THE UNITED STATES should be prepared to act with military force, if needed, in response to the request for help and assistance of any nation of this hemisphere in danger of being overthrown by Castro Communist subversive aggression. This recommendation is in no way to be considered as a substitute for, or a bar to, unilateral action by the United States in defense of its own security.

"3. Every effort must be made by the United States to assure collective action by the Organization of American States, and by OAS member states individually, toward the curbing of Castro Communist subversive activities and traffic in the hemisphere.

"4. THE UNITED STATES should seek the complete diplomatic and economic quarantine of Communist Cuba by other nations of the hemisphere."

Recommendations of a House committee are influential but do not necessarily mean concurrence by the executive branch of the government. But it is significant that members of Congress are setting forth explicitly what they think should be done in Latin America. They have, in fact, stated in much more vigorous terms what American policy should be than has either the White House or the State Department.

THE REPORT SHOWS a sympathetic attitude by the committee's members toward economic aid for Latin America, but it is clear they feel that this will not solve the problems of the hemisphere unless stern measures are taken to eliminate the threat of Cuban-based subversive aggression.

There are indications that the Latin-American governments themselves are under heavy internal pressure from radical groups, some of which are not unsympathetic to the Communists, and that this is complicating the whole problem of collective action in the hemisphere. The Soviets have spent hundreds of millions of dollars not only to supply funds, guidance and technical assistance to train guerrillas and terrorists brought into Cuba from throughout Latin America, but to infiltrate organizations in various countries. They are leaving no stone unturned to gain a political following inside the countries of the hemisphere. Many organizations are infiltrated by Communists, and the majority of the members are not aware of this underground activity.

THE WHOLE Latin-American problem is becoming more and more complicated, largely because the United States has not acted decisively and forcefully in dealing with the Communist base established under the Castro regime in Cuba.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Hoboes have gone electronic in New England. Word has filtered this far South that some of the "knights of the open road" who frequent northern climes have come up with a new and modern wrinkle for beating the frigid nights. They simply latch onto an electric blanket by hook or by crook, scout around until they find a patio or picnic area with outdoor electric sockets, plug in for the night and sleep warmly on someone else's meter.

Quick And Healthy

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Modern "convenience" foods are just as healthful as those dishes that grandma used to make, an Oklahoma State University dietitian says.

Miss Mary Currier tested such modern processed foods as dried meats and milk and dehydrated soup. She found that her test animals, white rats, thrived on the food.

"This should make homemakers feel more secure about using time and work saving prepared foods," she said.

Two Giants Stuck On Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — So far the Russians are ahead on Cuba, now their satellite in this hemisphere. But they look stuck with it, even if they wanted out.

The United States seems baffled on how to rid the island of them, Fidel Castro and communism in general. Even excited congressional cries to do something, like a blockade, have melted away.

President Kennedy, pointing out a blockade might mean war with Russia, has promised to tighten antisubversion rings around Cuba. What that means isn't clear.

NEITHER HE nor the six Central American presidents who met with him this week in Costa Rica suggested direct action. But it's hard to see what else will work so long as Russia keeps Castro afloat with supplies and protection.

The State Department, meanwhile, strongly opposed hit-and-run raids on the island by Cuban refugees. Two refugee groups reportedly raided over the weekend and killed or wounded some Russians.

The mess will get worse if the forays continue and the Russians pursue the raiders with ships and planes. At the same time, without such tangible evidence of support, anti-Castroites in Cuba may give up.

The presence of 15,000 or so Russian troops in Cuba is frustrating in more ways than one this country's historic policy of keeping foreign powers out of the hemisphere:

1. SO LONG as Castro is boss and wants them, this country can't argue they have forced their way in.

2. Since U.S. officials have said the Russian troops are not a direct threat, this country can't use self-protection to excuse direct action.

3. Direct action, since Russian troops would be involved or endangered, would head straight for war with Russia.

4. Too much pious American outrage at the Russians' presence would be unconvincing. American troops are involved in fighting Communists in Viet Nam.

So, while Premier Khrushchev was embarrassed when Kennedy forced him to remove his Cuban missiles, he has embarrassed Kennedy with his troops.

SINCE NEITHER Kennedy nor anyone else has suggested a quick solution, the American embarrassment should go on indefinitely.

It's additionally galling to know the Russian troops are life insurance for Castro in case the Cuban people wanted to throw him out.

There's another side to the coin:

Castro, since he must depend on Russian economic and military protection for survival, has to be subservient to Russian wishes.

This makes him a puppet. Puppets can be discarded. The Russians, no dopes, must have several other Cuban Communists ready to replace Castro if he balks.

At the same time Cuba, under the Russian wing, is now a training ground for Communists from other Latin-American countries.

Keeping them from returning home seems to be the antisubversion ring Kennedy is talking of tightening.

IF BY this time the Russians are wishing they weren't so deeply involved in a place so far from Russia as Cuba, there seems little they can do.

The Placid Path

NEW YORK (AP)—The poor man's philosopher:

Man has been going steadily downhill ever since he traded the sun dial for a wrist watch.

One of the most placid paths to a ripe old age is along the pavement of postponement.

It is better to remember or anticipate a joy or duty than to endure it. Life isn't an insurmountable mountain. It is a clutter of climbed molehills.

Some people make living a continual emergency, as if they were always on the way to a four-alarm fire. They always feel they have more to do than they can cope with, and their reward is the merit badge of the uneasy—an ulcer.

Existence becomes a blossoming glade rather than a bearpit if you learn the pleasant art of postponement. The best philosophy of survival is to live few uncrowded hours.

Give every demand upon your attention a 24-hour perspective. If a thing is worth doing at all, it can be best done in the vast tomorrow rather than the hurried today. One's greatest error is often made while performing the avoidable in doing the unnecessary.

Never attack a peril—and rarely a promise—unless you really have to. Often, if you look at them steadily, they will evaporate. They will go away and leave you undisturbed.

Toy your time with trifles. Then the vast unaccomplished future will loom as a finer treasure trove than your achieved past.

There is considerable pleasure in getting some things done, but there is also a large pleasure in enjoying the prospect of things undone. Everyone should have a larger list of things to be attempted than his catalog of things won.

For example, among my goals are the climbing of the Empire State Building and the reading of Leo Tolstoy's remarkable novel, "War and Peace."

I have met a number of people who have done these things separately, and they all brag about their victories.

But what I have in mind is to be the first man in history to do them at the same time—to go up the Empire State Building and through "War and Peace" step by page, page by step.

That is my secret scheme. But why rush into it? It is more fun to think about climbing the Empire State Building while reading "War and Peace" than it is actually to do it.

Living can be a real luxury once you take the urgency out of it.

Undersized Uterus Doesn't Prevent Pregnancy

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have an underdeveloped uterus. What does this mean? Is there any chance of my ever having children? I love them.—Mrs. D.

The term means that the organ is smaller than average for an adult woman. "Infantile uterus" is also sometimes used as an apt description.

There's a great deal we don't know about why some people develop differently, but this particular condition has been found in certain constitutional types: for instance, women with small breasts and thin musculature.

As to your chances of becoming pregnant, I am through with predictions. If your menstrual pattern is reasonably normal and ovulation occurs, pregnancy is quite possible.

On the other hand, if there is some glandular deficiency, fertility may be impaired. Nature has regulated things pretty well. Some women are meant to have children—and they do. And a mere mortal doctor can't always outguess wise old Mother Nature.

Of course, in cases in which ovaries or tubes have been removed or are not in healthy condition, a woman cannot become pregnant. It is physically impossible.

Many a woman with an undersized uterus has been told that she "couldn't have children," but when a healthy bundle of joy arrives, the doctor's face has turned red.

If the necessary physiological structures are present, and the woman's system is functioning properly, chances of pregnancy are good. And I sincerely wish you the best of good fortune.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: X-rays showed I had an ulcer in the pyloric canal. After going on a strict diet I had more X-rays two months later, showing the ulcer had healed. Is it possible for an ulcer to heal that soon? And why does the pain still remain? My doctor says scars can cause as much pain as an ulcer. Would you explain?—Mrs. R. B.

Yes, an ulcer can heal that soon, but the puckering of the scar can, in some cases, put strain on tender areas. There may be an element of spasm of the pylorus which can cause pain.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: Recently a friend of mine began drinking and has continued for over two months. I doubt that he will live long enough to get cirrhosis of the liver. What alcohol content can the body tolerate at one time?

He drinks beer every day until 5 o'clock, and then drinks two fifths of liquor in highball form before midnight. Your answer may help me convey to him the danger of drinking at this rate.—R.J.B.

He must have worked up to this enormous amount of alcohol over a period of time — perhaps unknown to you.

If you can get him to see his problem you'll be doing him a favor indeed, because he is in grave danger.

The amount of alcohol the body can tolerate varies somewhat with the individual and his size, but it is generally believed that the body can dispose of about an ounce an hour—not that it is safe or sensible to attempt that maximum.

But quite aside from the toxic effects of alcohol, most problem drinkers don't eat well or regularly, and the lack of suitable food not only increases the risk of cirrhosis but aggravates the poisonous effect of alcohol on brain, nervous system, stomach and body in general. I hope you can help your friend.

Around The Rim

Inexorable Law Of Automobiles

I doubt that anyone has the problems with vehicles that we have. It seems every time we start out somewhere, some trouble develops, occasionally minor but more often serious and expensive.

As a result, I have been able to draw up a list of fundamental principles that govern these incidents with appropriate corollaries.

FOR INSTANCE, if the sign states: "Mechanic on Duty 24 hours a day," when you pull in, he isn't. He is either (1) gone for a cup of coffee, (2) out looking for parts to fix someone else's car or (3) in bed with influenza.

Once you have located a mechanic, if you are that fortunate, you will still have problems, including (1) he has never seen a car like yours before, (2) they don't make anymore the kind of parts that are broken, or (3) it will take three days to have that part shipped in. It's no matter if you have the latest model of the best-selling car.

Another thing, the chances of having a car breakdown increases as you get farther from home. Rarely will you have auto trouble if (1) you are in the middle of a large city, (2) it is a weekday, and (3) there is a telephone near at hand.

BUT, WATCH out when (1) you are on a lonely stretch of road, (2) the nearest town has only one grocery store, and (3) the only telephone has been disconnected for lack of patronage. If it is Sunday or a holiday, you've had it.

Now if you have brake trouble, the mechanic you find will invariably be a carburetor specialist, and vice versa. And if several different parts will get your car running again, he will only have the most expensive one in stock.

TAKE A SIMPLE thing like a flat tire. If you ruined your tire before you could get stopped, the station will have at least two dozen different sizes of tires and all will be inexpensive — on sale or otherwise a bargain. But, he won't have the size that fits your car. If, by chance, he does have one that will fit, it will be the finest piece of rubber ever molded, and the cost will be staggering — usually about $1.75 more than you have with you.

But once you have found the mechanic, the work has been done, you are prepared to go, and he figures the bill, you will see a sign behind the cash register: "We do not accept out-of-town checks under any circumstances," or some such warning.

AND WHEN YOU get back home and take the old bus down to your regular mechanic, chances are he will comment "Who has been fiddling around under here? Looks like I'll have to do the work over to make sure it's right. You ought to be more careful who you let fool around with your car."

A Nation Of Yakkers

Among the warning essays that appear with singular regularity in American magazines and newspapers is the one alerting us to the multimillions of dollars or rubles spent annually by the U.S.S.R. on a world-wide espionage network. The sum allocated by the Kremlin for spying in the United States, I have just read, is probably many times as much as the annual American budget for cloak-and-dagger work around the globe.

HOWEVER, it must have occurred to more than one citizen in recent months that the Communists are wasting their rubles in the United States. All the Russians need do in this country is settle back in an easy chair and open the window. They don't even need to purchase a hearing aid, much less to bug vital centers, to eavesdrop on the secret and classified information in this country.

We are a nation of yakkers at home and abroad, as General Lauris Norstad pointed out a few days ago when he testified before a Senate Operations subcommittee.

"AMERICANS TALK too much, especially when we are abroad," the general, recently retired Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, declared.

No one on the committee argued with General Norstad about that fact. But since the Russian missile retreat from Cuba last autumn Americans on home base have surely been outtalking the most loose-lipped citizens abroad. Americans at the seat of government have been literally talking their heads off since that time.

THIS NATION and its elected representatives would be outraged if some irresponsible citizen demanded that the books of the CIA or the FBI be opened to the public, or that all the secret files of intelligence and counter-intelligence be made available to anyone who wanted to paw through them.

But the steady attrition of such information, the continuing "leakage" in and out of Congress and the Administration, when both are seeking political advantage, is little noted or long remembered.

THAT IS, little noted or long remembered by anyone but Old Big Ears in the enemy camp who only has to tune in on political dissidents making political hay and spilling the beans for partisan advantage.

But that is only one aspect of the situation: the Administration in turn, stung by the revelations and charges of its critics, has replied in kind. It has not been able to resist the very human instinct to lash out at the gadflies and, in reply, lay bare still more vital information.

THE TAPE RECORDERS were surely overworking in the Communist camp on the incredible day when an American Secretary of Defense, complete with blue prints, maps and pinpoint information, was put on television to answer Administration critics.

Democracy does not entitle a citizen to access to secret information on which the nation's safety rests.

Rep. George Mahon (D., Texas) chairman of the subcommittee of the House Defense Appropriations Committee, put his finger on the crux of the matter the other day when it called for an end to the "outrageous and intolerable" damage to the nation's intelligence organization caused by too much loose talk.

"IN RECENT weeks there has been a great excess of talk about the procedures of our intelligence apparatus," he said. "Critics have made public statements on matters which should never be discussed in public. The Administration has mistakenly allowed itself to be goaded into revealing information detrimental to our best interests.

"There is an intelligence gap in the intelligence of those who are daily revealing the secrets of the intelligence operations of the United States Government," Mahon declared, adding that "our immaturity and indiscretion in these constant disclosures are making us the laughing stock of the world."

AMEN! Why should the Communists buy information when we are giving it away?

The Middle East Rumble

WASHINGTON—The State Department isn't worrying about the big rumble in the Middle East—and the unkind temptation is to recall an old music hall joke about the Russian Czar. His adviser told him everything was dandy—"Then came the Revolution!" The State Department was not worried about China or Cuba, either—and look what happened.

EVEN SO, the internal evidence seems to indicate that the Arab World is having a private spasm of growing pains, largely unrelated to the East-West struggle. Americans find it hard to believe that trouble can brew without communism stirring the cauldron. It is even more incredible to find Arabs up in arms without Israel as a side issue, or to find that governments are overthrown in that part of the world without Egypt's President Nasser in a leading role. Yet, it's probably accurate to write that the Reds, the Israeli and the Strong Man of the Nile are not playing principal parts in the Middle East commotion.

THE UPRISINGS in Iraq and Syria were not Nasserite in origin. Socialism—the drive toward welfare for the masses—is the catalyst and the military clique in each country is the source of power. Running concurrently with the socialist drive and the military initiative is the old desire for Arab unity, inhibited by the passion of nearly every Middle East country to retain and assert its own nationalism.

PERHAPS THE BEST and only way to understand this revolutionary complex is to set forth the optimum which a consensus of Arab leadership might hope to achieve. If reasonably successful, the final result would find the formation of such an Arab Confederation in which the member states—certainly Egypt, Syria, Iraq, possibly Yemen and maybe Algeria — would retain full identity as nations.

There would be a reign-but-not-rule central government, much as the Founding Fathers planned for the United States, somewhat along the lines of the American Confederacy, and not very different from the original concept of the European Common Market—except that Europe is rich and Arabia is poor.

THERE WOULD BE a powerful and united armed force, not for external conquest, however, but for preventing plots and counter-revolutions from spoiling the Grand Design. Although proud and isolationist toward East-West involvements, the projected Arab Union would not be hostile to foreign investments, for without these no Welfare State could flourish.

Since the Arab Union is anti-monarchial, its regional policy would inevitably look with disfavor upon the royalist regimes in Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Jordan. The danger is not so much of war between the republics and the monarchies as it is of "inspired" uprisings within the monarchies.

NASSER'S WILLINGNESS to play a cooperative but non-dictatorial role in the struggle has a number of explanations. One is that President Kennedy has persuaded him, with letters and renewed aid that runs to about $140 million a year, to dismount from his high horse of the Suez crisis years. Another is that the Ba'ath (Socialist) Party, which is strong throughout Arabia, is somewhat cool toward Nasser. Finally, Nasser's experience in 1961, when Syria seceded from the United Arab Republic, convinced him that tight unity among Arab nations was unenforceable.

From present indications, the Middle East will not "go West," but it won't "go Communist" either. That seems about as much as we ought to ask for.

Differences In Bourbons

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — All bourbons contain the same basic ingredients. Differences in body, color, taste and aroma are due to the proportions and quality of corn, rye and barley, variations in the amount of water used in mashing the grain, the distillation processes, the proof (alcoholic content) at which the whisky is distilled, types of barrels used during aging, length of aging and type of warehouses.

Texas Spring Is Clear And Mild

By The Associated Press

Appropriate weather — clear skies and mild temperatures — greeted the arrival of spring Thursday.

The new season began officially in Texas at 2:20 a.m. for a three-month stint.

While temperatures were crisp during the early morning, the mercury began climbing toward the 70s and 80s during the day.

Skies were clear in North Texas, but scattered clouds covered parts of South Texas.

The temperature range at 4 a.m. was from 38 at Dalhart to 61 at Cotulla and McAllen.

Re-Check Indicates County Cattle Still Free Of Brucellosis

Howard County is relatively free from the threat of Brucellosis, according to the results achieved so far in the county-wide recheck of ranch and farm cattle.

More than 1,700 head of cattle from nearly 100 herds have been tested since the program began in this county March 1.

D. C. Bruce, laboratory technician who tests the samples turned in by the field crews, said Wednesday that he had found only one reactor and 13 other animals which he classified as suspect.

He added that the suspect animals did not necessarily have Brucellosis. Sometimes, he explained, animals which have been given the vaccine against the disease show reactions which make them appear as potentially infected. It may be, he said, that some of these 13 suspects have been vaccinated against the disease and the reactions shown in the test stem from the vaccine.

Ten of these suspects, Helbig said, came out of two herds. Thus, he pointed out, the percentage of possible infected animals in the county is extremely low—even should some of the suspects prove to be infected.

He said that out of all of the herds tested so far, only six herds have offered any evidence at all of possible infection.

Dr. Lowie Rice is the veterinarian in charge of the tests.

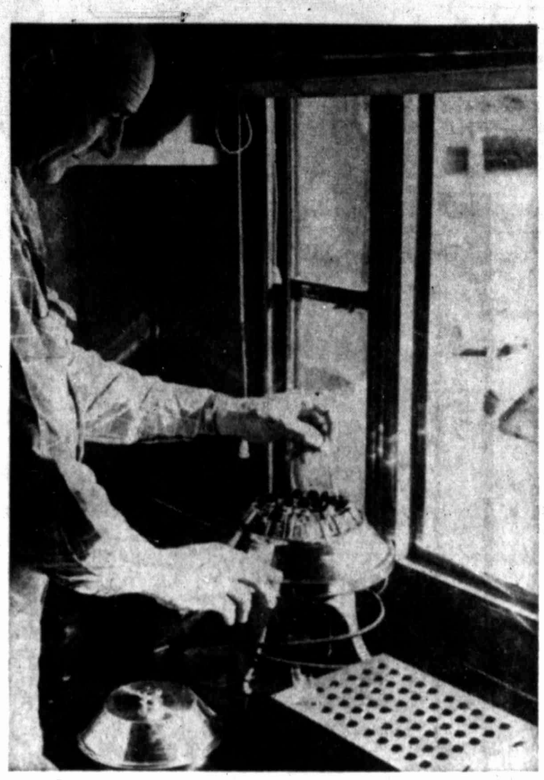

The check now being made of Howard County herds is the re-test ordered to insure the county's continuation as a certified Brucellosis free area. Three years ago, the county was certified after a similar testing program. Under the law it must be re-tested each three years to keep its certification in effect.

Unter the regulations, all of the herds which had reactors in the original go-round in 1961 are being re-tested 100 per cent. In other herds, 20 per cent of the animals are being tested. It is estimated there are more than 10,000 head of cattle in Howard County. To complete the test under the present program approximtely 2,200 of these animals will have to be checked. With more than 1,700 tested, the program is nearing its conclusion.

Helbig said that there may be herds in the county which are not on the list of herds he has and which the owners may desire to have checked for the disease. If so, he said, the oners can contact his office and test arrangements will be made. He said time is short to qualify for the check, however, and he recommended speed.

Bruce said that where a reactor is found in a herd, the animal has to be sold to a slaughter house. The disease in no way effects the use of the meat from the animal. The damage Brucellosis does is in causing cows to abort their calves and possible transmission of the disease to people. A person suffering from Brucellosis has what is known as undulant fever, a long continuing and highly debilitating illness.

The testers now in the county are making tuberculosis checks of all dairy cattle at the same time they are running the tests on possible Brucellosis infected herds.

Doctor's Day Set Next Week

Big Spring physicians are due to find a red carnation on their desk the morning of March 29.

There likely will be a card on it from their closest admirers—their wives.

This will be the visible extent of the observance of Doctor's Day, but the Auxiliary of the Permian Basin Medical Society hopes the day will be regarded widely in public consciousness.

Mayor George Zachariah has proclaimed it as Doctor's Day in Big Spring, pointing out that this will be a time for expressing appreciation of doctors for their contribution to public health. It is, he said, an opportunity for personal appreciation, for the physician is still chosen by the family to serve it, to counsel it in health and to minister in illness.

"Because of this intimate contact," he added, "the doctor is a special person in a special way. Whether we make direct expressions of this appreciation or not, I hope that we will at least pause to give it thought."
