Ships Warned To Keep Clear Of Blast Area

By DARRELL GARWOOD
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. — The Defense department announced tonight that new atomic weapons soon will be tested at the Eniwetok proving ground in the Pacific.

The tests will involve the latest A-missiles developed in the nation's accelerated program answering the Russian atomic explosion.

It was learned that at least two and possibly more atomic bombs will be detonated in the Eniwetok area. Shipping has been warned to keep clear of the 40,000-square mile area defined as a danger zone.

Importance Studied

Military observers viewed the announcement as especially significant in the light of a recent statement by Sen. Johnson (D-Colo) that American scientists have perfected an atomic bomb six times more powerful than World War II models.

Atomic Energy Commission Chairman David E. Lilienthal told a news conference Monday that Johnson's statement was based on "full and complete" information supplied to the senator as a member of the joint Congressional Atomic Energy comittee.

The Defense department said the Eniwetok tests will be carried out by a joint task force composed of representatives of the military services and the AEC.

Commander Named

Lt. Gen. Elwood R. Quesada of the Air Force, head of a special planning group for the joint chiefs of staff, was named overall commander of the tests.

No date was given in the defense department announcement but persistent reports indicated that they will be conducted in the near future.

The tests will mark the first such use of the Eniwetok area, covering a vast stretch of the Pacific, since "new and improved" atomic weapons were proof-tested in April and May, 1948.

At that time, three new-type weapons were exploded, bringing to a total of eight the number of atomic explosions set off by the United States.

Score Is Given

That figure includes the original A-bomb detonated in New Mexico in 1945, the bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki to hasten the end of the Pacific war, and the two test bombs exploded at Bikini in 1946.

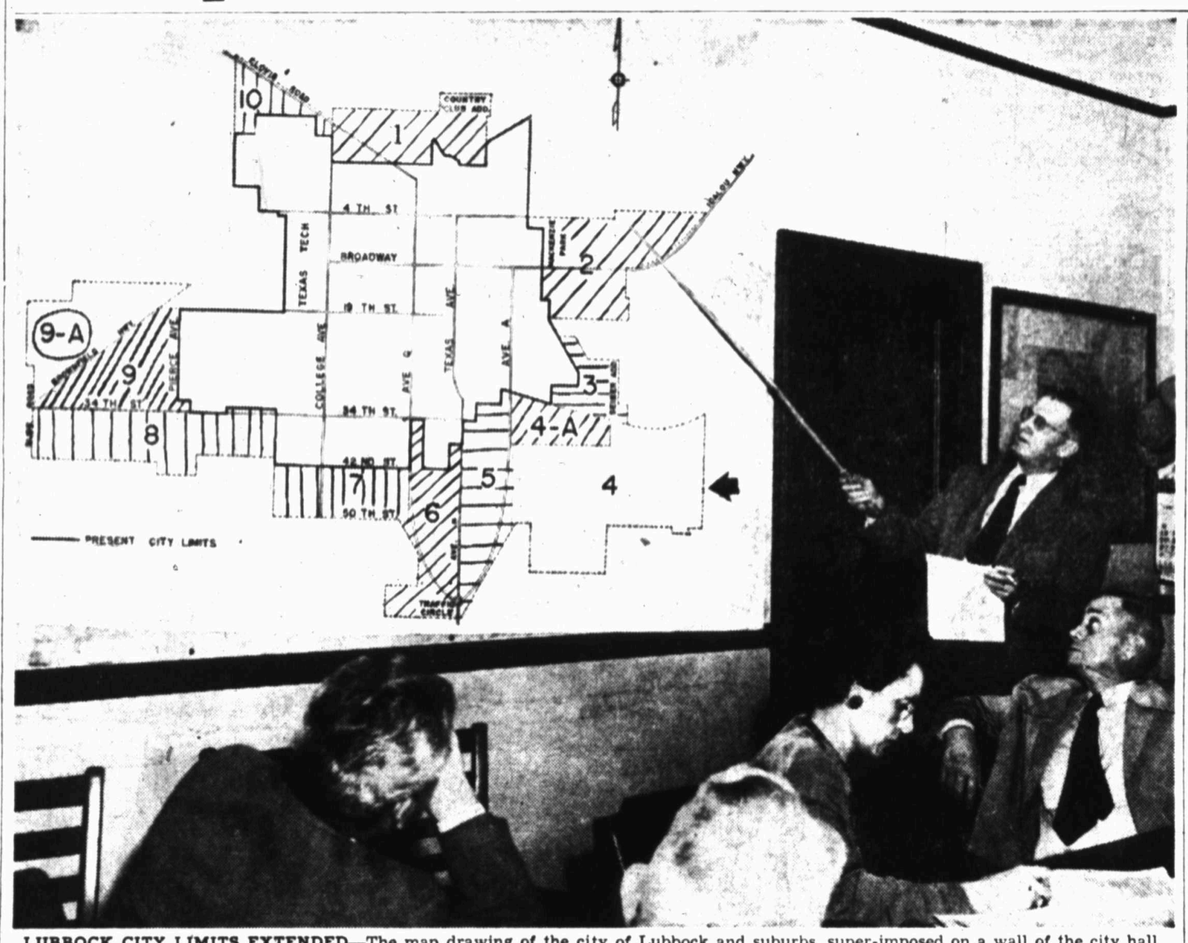

Quesada has been assigned three deputies for his test unit, which is designated "Joint Task Force No. 3."

They are Brig. Gen. Herbert Loper of the Army, Admiral T. B. Hill of the Navy, and Dr. Alvin C. Graves of the Los Alamos, N. M., atomic laboratory.

Brig. Gen. John C. Gerhart, Air Force, will serve as chief of staff for the task force.

The Defense department in refusing to give the dates of the new explosions, said that "full security

LUBBOCK CITY LIMITS EXTENDED—The map drawing of the city of Lubbock and suburbs, super-imposed on a wall of the city hall council chamber, tells the results of public hearings before the city commission Tuesday afternoon on 12 proposed extensions of the city limits. The areas marked by spaced lines were approved for annexation in ordinances passed on first reading—a second reading, probably on Dec. 8—being necessary to complete their enactment. The commission voted against annexing the area designated as "4" (with arrow). Annexation of the 9-A area, known as the Westchester district," was taken under advisement. R. L. Oldham, city director of public works, holds the pointer above in the composite picture. City Attorney Vaughn Wilson, left and Mayor W. H. Rodgers, have their backs to the camera. Mrs. Lavenia Lowe, city secretary, makes notes of the proceedings while City Commissioner W. B. Price looks toward the map. Other officials present, but not in the picture, were Commissioners John Spikes, Clarence Whiteside and E. K. Hufstedler and City Manager Steve Matthews. (Staff Photo.)

Tech Named To Play In Raisin Bowl

CALIFORNIA will see Texas Tech's Red Raiders Dec. 31.

The Raisin Bowl selection committee, meeting Tuesday noon in Fresno, Calif., unanimously agreed to guarantee Texas Tech the $17,500 the local institution had requested.

And a few minutes later, Al Radka, chairman of the selection committee, telephoned Dr. J. William Davis, chairman of the Texas Tech athletic council, that Texas Tech's proposal had been accepted.

San Jose Host Team

San Jose State college, winner of the California Collegiate Athletic association title this year, will be the host team for the game, to be played on Saturday before most of the New Year's Day games, slated for Monday, Jan. 2.

Radka told Dr. Davis that San Jose State was enthusiastic about the opportunity to play Texas Tech and that the Fresno Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the bowl, also was enthusiastic about having the Lubbock team play in Fresno.

Texas Tech received the Raisin Bowl bid by telephone Monday afternoon, but held out for a larger guarantee, pointing out that they could not make the trip financially with security at the original offer, reported to be $14,000.

TWC Also Given Bid

Originally the bid had been extended to Texas Western college, but when Texas Tech declined the Sun Bowl bid, the Miners accepted to keep peace in El Paso. The Raisin Bowl bid then was extended to Tech. The Tech players unanimously voted to go.

Last night sponsors of the Sun Bowl, according to an Associated Press dispatch, decided that they no longer would be obligated to invite the Border Conference champion. They dissolved the agreement they had had among themselves.

Texas Tech officials had point-

Additions May Hike Population 10,000

Action On Westchester Area Delayed; Southeast Section Is Not Included

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

THE city commission last night approved 10 proposed extensions of the city limits, took one under advisement and rejected another.

The actions, if finally approved, will add somewhat more than 10,000 inhabitants to the city of Lubbock population when the federal census is taken next year. With these additions, unofficial estimates of the city's population now stand at between 75,000 and 80,000.

The actions were taken at public hearings lasting more than seven hours, extending from early afternoon until long after nightfall. They attracted probably the largest crowd which ever has gathered in the Lubbock city hall—one which jammed the second floor corridors and overflowed down the double stairways into the first floor lobby.

Westchester Area Under Advisement

The extension taken under advisement is the so-called Westchester area bordering the Levelland highway extension of Nineteenth street.

The addition rejected comprises a large area in Southeast Lubbock extending eastward from Avenue A to a considerable distance beyond the Slaton highway and southward along that road to include the Cotton club.

The following were the extensions approved on first reading:

1. North Lubbock, including the Country Club addition.

2. East Lubbock between Fourth and Nineteenth street bordering the north side of East Broadway about two miles and the south side of that thoroughfare approximately one mile.

3. East Lubbock consisting chiefly of the Seiber addition, including "Queen City," a negro district.

4-A. Southeast Lubbock extending from Avenue A almost a mile eastward and southward from the present city limits to approximately Thirty-eighth street and including the Berry and Clutter's second addition.

South Lubbock Areas Accepted

5. The area in South Lubbock between Avenues A and H from the present city limits, at about Thirty-fourth street, southward beyond the Traffic circle to approximately Sixty-sixth street.

6. South Lubbock between Avenues H and Q from the present city limits southward beyond the Traffic circle to about Sixth-sixth.

7. South Lubbock from the present city limits at Forty-second to Fiftieth streets and from Avenue Q westward to Monroe avenue, a distance of approximately 1¼ miles.

8. A large rectangular area in Southwest Lubbock between Thirty-fourth and Forty-second streets and from Monroe avenue westward to the Slide road, about 2½ miles.

9. A large triangular area in West Lubbock between Nineteenth and Thirty-fourth streets and from Pierce avenue to the Brownfield highway.

10. Another rough triangle in Northwest Lubbock bounded on the west by North Tyler avenue, the south by North Sixth street and with the Clovis highway (the notrhwest extension of Avenue Q) forming the hypotenuse of the triangle.

Commission Actions Unanimous

Actions of the commission on all the additions approved were unanimous.

Mayor W. H. Rodgers joined Commissioners W. B. Price and John Spikes in voting down the southeastward extension. Commissioners Clarence Whiteside and E. K. Hufstedler voted for it.

The decision to take the Westchester extension under advisement resulted from a little maneuvering by Hufstedler and Whiteside. Both made clear they favored this annexation. The mayor, Price and Spikes made equally clear they would vote against it. But they were agreeable to taking the proposal under advisement—which means that the commission still might approve it.

Use Of Building As Library Out

The possibility of remodeling the Broadway Church of Christ, at Broadway and Ave. N, into a public library was discarded at a special meeting of the city commission Tuesday afternoon.

The action followed the unanimous statement of directors of the Lubbock Public Library association that they do not regard the building or site as satisfactory for library purposes.

Members of the library board who appeared before the commission were Mrs. H. F. Godeke, president, Floyd Honey, J. T. Carter, Thord Dockray, Mrs. A. F. Rasor, Mrs. Ben Brewer and Mrs. A. W. Young.

Option Is Dropped

The commission had been given an option to buy the property for $135,000. Members, without a record vote, directed that the option be released.

Alex McDonald and B. Sherrod, representing the church in the proposed deal, charged after members of the library board had left that much "pressure" by "selfish interests" had been brought to bear on the association representatives or urge their opposition to the purchase of the church property.

Mrs. Godeke listed several objections to the proposed project. She criticized the downtown location and the parking problems

Guns Toll Fall Of Chungking

HONG KONG, Nov. 29 (AP) — The rumble and flash of gunfire tolled today the last days of Chungking's brief, troubled reign as the third capital of Nationalist China within a year.

The loss of the bleak southwestern city of 1,000,000 may spring a major political development—the formal return of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to the presidency of the wobbly Nationalist government. Chinese newspapers in this British crown colony freely predicted this.

The reports coincided with arrival of five U. S. senators and six representatives in Hong Kong. The group is touring the Orient to study needs for possible American aid. All 11 congressmen said they opposed immediate recognition of Red China by the U. S. or Britain.

Nationalist dispatches declared Chiang was still in besieged Chungking late today, personally

Jury Returns 49 True Bills

FORTY-NINE indictments, including two charging capital felonies, were returned about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday to 99th District Judge G. V. Pardue by a grand jury of which B. Sherrod was foreman.

Two of them charged murder, two assault with intent to murder.

Most of the others were so-called run-of-the-mill charges, as shown by this breakdown:

Possession of narcotic drug, marijuana, 2; theft of property valued at more than $50, 10; forgery, 5; burglary, 3; theft by bailee, 3; swindling by worthless check, 6; robbery, 5; drunk driving, second offense, 2; desertion of minor children, 4; embezzlement, 1; disposing of mortgaged property, 1; forgery by alteration, 2; wife desertion, 1; swindling, 1.

Fourteen Not Arrested

Fourteen of those charged had not been arrested, the sheriff's department said.

Judge Pardue said the grand jury verbally commended the district attorney's department in connection with its report.

The grand jury was recessed pending call, Judge Pardue said.

TEMPORARY BUILDING TO BE USED

Trustees Buy 10-Acre Site For New Southwest Lubbock School

THE board of trustees of the Lubbock Independent School district last night approved the purchase of a 10 acre tract of land in southwest Lubbock for the erection of a new elementary school building.

The action was taken at the board's regular monthly business meeting, held in the school business office at 1007 Texas Ave.

The land lies between Fortieth and Forty-second streets from Monroe Ave. to Jackson Ave., adjoining the Modern Manors housing development now under construction.

The site was purchased from Mrs. Louis Hunter of Abilene for $9,000.

A. C. Jackson, business manager of the school district, last night was authorized by the board to move the temporary building which now stands on the P. F. Brown elementary school ground to this newly-purchased tract immediately. The temporary structure was in use at the Brown school last year while the permanent building was under construction.

Plan Studied Several Months

The school to be put into operation there within forthcoming months will serve the rapidly expanding area south of Thirty-fourth and west of the area from which the Brown school draws its scholastics. The school board has been considering a school for this area for several months, especial-

Reds Urged To Unite In Anti-Tito Struggle

MOSCOW, Nov. 29. (AP)—The Cominform enjoined Communists everywhere today to back an all-out effort to unseat Yugoslav Premier Marshal Tito. It called, too, for a decisive struggle against Titoists in the party ranks.

The Cominform is a Communist information bureau, in which eight nations are represented.

Far from yielding to any qualms of national Communist elements, the Cominform demanded strict discipline everywhere. It declared it was the "international duty" of all Communists to aid to the utmost those Yugoslav workers fighting for a resurrection of orthodox Communist doctrine in Yugoslavia.

Former Slaton, Lubbock Men Killed In Crash Of Plane

One of the 28 victims aboard the American Airlines plane which crashed in Dallas Tuesday had lived in Slaton until six months ago, and another was a former Lubbock resident.

Henry Eidson, who now lives in Dallas, lived in Slaton until recently. Joseph Smith, of Albuquerque, another victim, lived in Lubbock as a youth. He was a survivor of the Bataan death march.

Eidson came to Slaton from Fort Worth about five years previously. Eidson was associated with the Ray C. Ayers Grain Co. of Slaton, but had disposed of his interests in the company at the time he moved to Dallas.

It was said here that he had worked for the Ray C. Ayers Grain Co. once before, later moving away, then returning to Slaton several years ago.

He had held membership in the Lubbock Country club.

Survivors are the wife and one daughter, Miss Kathleen Eidson, about 20.

DALLAS, Nov. 29. — An American airliner crashed and exploded here today, and 28 persons died in white-hot flames.

Eighteen others survived as the big 60-passenger plane, one of its four engines spouting fire and another failing, plummeted to the edge of Dallas' Love field airport and ripped itself to pieces against two buildings. Fourteen were in a hospital tonight. Four were discharged.

The plane, bound from New York to Mexico City, struck and exploded seven miles northwest of downtown Dallas at 5:45 a.m. (CST). Blue and white flames billowed high in the pre-dawn darkness. There were cries of agony and terror as stunned, hurt survivors stumbled almost miraculously from the heaps of wreckage.

For hours afterwards, firemen pulled charred bodies from the smouldering debris. Identification was slow.

The crippled ship, a DC-6, struck

Storm Threatens Pacific Coast

(By International News Service)

A new Alaska storm headed for British Columbia and Washington tonight as the death toll from two previous gales rose to 34 and residents mopped up after receding rivers with property loss in the millions.

The new blow, like its 60-mile-an-hour predecessors, was reported by the Seattle Weather bureau to be fingering out across the Alaskan gulf, propelled by 45-mile per hour winds from the Aleutians.

Vancouver, B.C., weather forecasters predicted gales and additional heavy rain during the next 24 hours. The rest of the Northwest was due for warm rains late tonight or early Wednesday.

The third storm in four days was reported just as flood workers retired from battles with rain-swollen rivers of western Washington and British Columbia.

Latest storm casualties were in British Columbia, raising the toll of dead in the province alone to 23.

COMINFORM BLAST STIRS UN

U. S. Delegate Urges Russia To Adopt 'Live And Let Live' Policy

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 — U. S. Ambassador Warren R. Austin urged the Soviet Union today to "live and let live" and to act in good faith with other peoples if the Russians really want peace.

He spoke in the UN Assembly while delegates speculated on new Cominform blast against Premier Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia.

Some delegates said privately that Austin's prescription for peace could have been an answer to the Cominform also but that it was obvious he was replying directly to Soviet charges that the United States and Britain are preparing for a new war.

The call of the Cominform for all Communists the world over to help Yugoslav peasants and workers overthrow Marshal Tito was not mentioned in the early stages of the debate. Yugoslav Delegate Joza Vilfan merely told newsmen the Cominform blast was not new and that it showed the Moscow line was not accepted everywhere.

The assembly had before it a western power resolution setting up 12 essentials of peace. It was approved by a 53 to 5 vote in the political committee and brought

REALTORS OPPOSE CONTROLS

Woods Plans To Ask Congress To Continue Rent Curbs For Year

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (U.P.)—Rent Director Tighe E. Woods said today he will ask Congress to continue rent control another year.

"Maybe" ceilings can be abandoned safely after that, he said in an interview.

"I believe it is possible that the housing shortage can be licked by June, 1951, provided industry and the government work together to that end," he said.

Realtors Oppose Curbs

The real estate industry is seeking to end the rent curbs on June 30, 1950, when the present law expires. Realtors contend that controls no longer are needed or justified.

Wood's reply to that was:

"If we are to achieve President Truman's goals of decent housing, at prices people can afford to pay, we haven't yet licked the housing shortage. I have yet to see a $50 rental in new construction in any major city."

Woods said that so far he plans to ask no major revisions in the present law. It is a "decontrol" measure under which ceilings have been abandoned on 2,422,392 housing units and raised, by an average 19 per cent, on another 390,000.

Decontrol Emphasized

The law went into effect April 1. Since then, Woods said, the emphasis has been on "orderly decontrol" as Congress directed.

In some cases Woods has gone so fast in lifting ceilings that local rent boards of landlords, tenants and representatives of neither have protested.

"We took the initiative in trying to decontrol all communities of 25,000 people or less," Woods said. "But in about 50 per cent of these cases, local rent boards have answered our decontrol proposals with violent objections."

Since April 1, Woods has issued 406 decontrol orders on his own. State and city governments, which also were given decontrol powers under the law, have decontrolled in another 187 cases.

Texas Votes Off Curbs

Legislatures in Nebraska and Texas voted their states out from under, and Wisconsin lawmakers substituted state for federal controls. Alabama has voted to end ceilings next May 25.

Arizona and Utah have been completely decontrolled, piece by piece.

The Florida legislature voted to decontrol the state, but the decision was vetoed by the governor. The legislature then voted decontrol — and made it stick — in Miami, Tampa and Lakeland, three of the state's big cities with a 1940 population of 535,000.

Small towns accounted for most of the municipalities freed of controls by local option. However the list includes some fairly big ones, including Dallas and Austin, Tex., Jacksonville, Fla., Knoxville and Chattanooga, Tenn., and Salt Lake City, Utah.

First Law License Given Negro From Texas State University

AUSTIN, Nov. 29. (U.P.)—Henry Doyle was certified today as the first student of the Texas State university for negroes to receive a license to practice law.

The 39-year-old negro, a former East Austin grocer, was listed by the Texas Supreme court as one of 205 successful candidates for a law license out of 249 who took examinations on Oct. 4-5.

Doyle was one of the first students to attend the negro law school when it was set up temporarily in a building behind the capitol in 1947.

The school was moved to the negro university's main campus at Houston in 1948.

The Texas State university for negroes was created by the 50th Legislature in 1947, and the law school was set in operation to offer "equal but separate facilities" as an answer to a suit brought by Herman Marion Sweatt, Houston negro postman.

Sweatt, whose suit now is pending before the United States Supreme court, sought to force entry into the University of Texas Law School.

Girl Scout Troop To Distribute Yule Toys To Needy Children

Distribution of toys to the needy children of the Arnett-Benson addition this Christmas has been undertaken by Girl Scout Troop 16, it has been announced here.

Residents of the district will donate toys to be distributed by the troop, and at least one Lubbock civic organization, the Hub City Kiwanis club, has voted to donate a number of toys.

Names of the needy children will be supplied by local churches and the Salvation Army. The week before Christmas, the parents will have an opportunity to select toys for their children at a "toy store" to be held by the troop.

Several stores in the neighborhood will act as collection centers where those wishing to donate toys may deposit them. These collection centers have not yet been designated.

Fisherman Catches Pelican On Line; Has Two Witnesses

HILLSBORO, Nov. 29. (AP)—The latest catch of John (Cap) Byars, 73, a fisherman for 60 years, is a pelican.

He has the big bird and two witnesses to prove it.

Byars was fishing at an undisclosed spot with Ross Cockrell and Brooks Hord Saturday when the pelican dropped down to investigate.

Byars threw a top-water plug at the bird. The pelican gobbled the plug and took off to the end of the 150 foot of line. The big bird circled like a model airplane on a wire as Byars tried to reel it in.

Finally the bird's wing tangled with the line and it fell. Byars quickly tied it up. He took it home and is awaiting inquiries from zoos.

Palestine Man Killed When Truck Hits Freight Train

HEARNE, Nov. 29. (U.P.)—A 22-year-old Palestine truck driver was killed today when his truck smashed into a Southern Pacific freight train at a railroad crossing here.

Homer Charles Stewart was killed, apparently instantly, when his truck hit the freight about midway after some 40 cars had passed the crossing directly in front of the Hearne railroad station.

Stewart's body was taken to a Hearne funeral home and will be sent to Palestine for burial.

Slot Machine Bribes Set At $400 Million

ST. PAUL, Nov. 28. (U.P.)—Every year racketeers spend $400 million bribing public officials to protect their slot machine operations, a Dartmouth political scientist estimated today.

Dayton D. McKean, chairman of the Dartmouth college department of government, told 250 national Municipal League delegates that the gross take in the slot machine racket probably is $2 billion a year.

On the basis of a special study in California which showed that operators pay 10 to 20 percent of their gross profit for protection and graft, McKean figured the total annual expenditure for such corruption at $400 million.

L. P. Cookingham, city manager of Kansas City, urged city governments to maintain the "personal touch" without using so-called ward-heeling tactics. He said Kansas City's Welfare department has neighborhood councils in 52 sections of the city to coordinate social service work and learn the problems of citizens.

Delegates re-elected Charles Edison former governor of New Jersey, as president of the league.

George Gallup, director of the Institute of Public Opinion, and James W. Clise, Seattle, Wash., were re-elected vice-presidents.

MORE THAN 20,000 CHEER CHOICE OF JUDGE

'Judge Roy Bean,' 1,250 Pound Texas Hereford, Takes Top International Livestock Show Honors

BY SY FRIEDMAN
INS Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Nov. 29. — A magnificent 1,250-pound Texas Hereford steer — "Judge Roy Bean" — won the grand championship today at the 50th International Livestock exposition in Chicago and brought cheer to a Lone Star State 4-H club and boosters of the red-and-white cattle.

More than 20,000 onlookers cheered and stomped when the chief judge, Dr. A. D. Weber, of Kansas State college, decreed that the Texas entry was the show's champ steer.

Backers of the Hereford breed had cause again a few minutes later to applaud when "Chino 906" — another Hereford — was named the reserve grand champion. He weighed 750 pounds.

Agent Shows Winner

"Judge Roy Bean," named for character illustrious in Texas history as the "only law west of Pecos," was shown in the ring by Pecos county Agent W. T. Posey.

The steer is owned by the Pecos 4-H Fort Stockton, Texas, club which boasts a membership of 43 boys and 7 girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sears, of Churchill, Maryland, own the reserve champion "Chino 906."

Two attractive little farm girls from Ohio and Illinois kept the competition at fever heat with their entries, which were eliminated only in the final judging.

Lin Lo Wins Honor

"Lin Lo," 1,250-pound Aberdeen-Angus owned by Bonnie Lou Logan, 15, of Van Wert, Ohio, wasn't eliminated for the top honor until he had been adjudged champion Aberdeen-Angus of the entire show.

Also a winner was "Lucky Strike," 1,500-pound Aberdeen-Angus shown by Betty Hartter, 12, of Carlock, Ill. "Lucky Strike" was named champion of the summer yearling class, all breeds.

The grand champion steer's glory will be short-lived. He'll be auctioned off Thursday, and reports were that the Hereford would bring as much per pound as last year's grand champion, Old Gold, did.

Steer Furnishes Steaks

Glenn McCarthy, wealthy Houston, oil and hotel man, paid $10.75 a pound or $12,000 dollars for "Old Gold" last year. The steer furnished some of the nation's choicest steaks at McCarthy's Texas hostelry.

W. R. Moody, 66, of Fort Stockton, Texas, the adult leader of the 4-H youngsters who raised the champion steer on his small farm, was elated over the victory but seemed indignant when asked if he thought their entry would win. He replied:

"What do you think we raised him for, son?"

He drawled:

"That Hereford was brought up here to win, and it did."

Club Members Approve

Several of the 4-H club members who accompanied their entry nodded approval. Sixteen-year-old Albert Hallford, one of the youngsters who helped exhibit the steer, said:

"We had no idea we were going to win but we sure thought we had a good chance."

Sam Reeves, 15, another member, said six other animals were brought to the show but met with little success.

The resurgence of the Hereford breed to the throne of cattledom was received with vocifrous backing by many cattle breeders.

Individual Work Cited

Edward M. Wentworth, superintendent of the arena at the international exposition, said he believed the winning champion was due to the work of the individual raiser.

He pointed out that more attention has been paid in the past to the cultivation of the Hereford breed, rather than to the feeding.

The 66-year-old leader of the 4-H club said great credit is due the boys and girls because the Hereford is primarily a grazing animal, while Angus cattle are easier to get into good shape because "they are good feed animals and a pleasure to work with." He added:

"I'd rather have an Aberdeen-Angus than any other type. But down there in Texas it's harder to raise 'em. You folks up here in the middlewest have no trouble at all."

Champion's Diet Given

Moody said the grand champion was fed on whole cereal grain, cottonseed meal and commercial feed, which consists of molases, sweet clover corn and other grains.

"Judge Roy Bean" was the first Hereford to win the grandchampionship since 1940, bowing to Shorthorn and Aberdeen-Angus entries in the interim.

Other winners today included the champion group of three steers, shown by Arthur Timm, of Tama, Ia., with Herefords. Reserve champion honors in this category went to Iowa State college for Aberdeen-Angus.

Other Winners Given

In the steers by breeds competition, Oklahoma A. and M. won Shorthorn honors, and Ohio State university won the reserve title; the Fort Stockton 4-H club showed the champion Hereford which eventually won the top honor of the show; and Bonnie Lue Logan took the champion Aberdeen-Angus title. Reserve champion Hereford designation went to Chino farms, and the reserve champion Aberdeen-Angus was shown by Harken farms, Osceola, Ia.

Arthur Witham, of Romeo, Mich., took grand champion female honors in the breeding Aberdeen-Angus category with "Pardella M." — and reserve honors in this class went to J. Garrett Tolan farms, of Pleasant Plains, Ill., with "Paulinomere V."

Husband Explains Events Leading To Garter In Dressing

DENVER, Nov. 29. (INS).— "It was all a misunderstanding," an anguished husband screamed today, giving waiting Denverites his version of events which led to a ladies garter in the Thanksgiving turkey.

But readers of a morning newspaper lovelorn column were still left wondering whether the unique story will have the traditional happy ending.

Fiendish Plan Disclosed

It all started when a woman, who signed her letter "a loving wife," wrote to the column to disclose the fiendish plan which she hoped would make her faithful husband sorry he had strayed from the fold.

She had found a garter in his suitcase after he returned from a business trip. It had a note attached, saying, "remember me."

What better way to confront him with the evidence than to plant it — the turkey dressing, where he would certainly find it? Molly Mayfield, the columnist, agreed with enthusiasm.

Husband Reads Column

But alas, friend husband was also a faithful reader, it developed today. Forewarned, he was able to dish out the dainty morsel of femininie frippery, with its tender note attached, in manner nonchalant.

In his letter, he said, "I met it with a placid eye . . . and went right on eating turkey."

"Oh, so you found this, did you," said husband.

"Please," replied the wife, "let us discuss this another time when the children aren't around."

Atmosphere Sultry

The husband wrote that he planned to be stern and make no explanation, "but the atmosphere around the house is sultry."

He added, "there is something fascinating and flattering about having you two ladies presume my guilt."

So, in hopes that home fires "will burn more cheerily," and to ease Molly's curiosity, the letter explained that the clandestine memento was only a souvenir from a burlesque show.

It came, said the husband, "when the chorus bombarded the bald headed row with fancy garters.

"If necessary I will produce affidavits and witnesses."

In a postscript, he said he didn't know why he kept the garter. Molly apologized, "hope it didn't spoil the taste of the dressing."

Movie Star Zachary Scott Saved From Drowning By Fellow Actor

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29. (INS)— Movie Star Zachary Scott almost drowned in the surf off Topanga canyon but his life was saved by his fellow actor, John Emery.

Zach is in the Presbyterian hospital tonight with head injuries, possible internal injuries and a badly bruised side.

On Sunday, Zach and John were out in a rubber boat when a riptide upset the light craft. Zach hit his head against a rock and was knocked unconscious.

He was in danger of drowning when John reached him and carried him ashore.

Dr. William Branch said that he had been unable to determine whether Zach has internal injuries, but that he is in pretty bad shape.

Zach is in "Colt 45" with Randy Scott at Warner Brothers, and the studio is waiting to ascertain the extent of his injuries before making other casting arrangements.

Firemen at Walton, England, now receive midwifery training.

TODAY'S GAG

SINCE hotel rooms are more readily available now, we forget what travelers went through during the war days.

Hotel rooms were more difficult to find in Washington than any other part of the county then. A radio manager called a certain hotel and asked for a room.

"Where are you now?" the clerk asked. "In a phone booth," the radio man answered plaintively.

"Well," the clerk said, "good night!"

VACATION FUNDS

IT'S not too early to be thinking and saving toward your next year's vacation, unless you never take a vacation and then you can just skip these paragraphs.

There is a simple and relatively painless method of making certain now that when next spring or summer rolls around you will be in financial shape to enjoy the best trip you ever had.

The metrod is simplicity itself: determine how much you'll want to take your holiday and then start a weekly vacation fund.

Be realistic about this matter. Estimate the cost and divide by 52 and you will have the basic figure for the weekly saving. Like all such plans, to be effective it must be consistent—and no fair dipping into it for an extra show or a new hat.

We joined the Christmas club last January and know how welcome such a savings plan can be, especially when the payoff comes!

MAKING YULE PLANS

IT was less than a year ago — last Dec. 26, to be exact — that you made the following resolutions: "Well, by golly, NEXT Christmas there won't be any of that last minute rush for me. I am going to start early!"

It is early now and the odds are that you haven't even gotten around to getting your greeting cards. Perhaps you should look into that. You can get them addressed and stamped in spare moments. And while you are waiting for the cards to come, you might as well get your address book straightened out. It likely needs revisions. And remember that unsealed cards will need a two cents stamp this year.

MAKE our your Christmas lists. There are advantages to shopping early, unless you love pushing crowds, aching feet and harried salespeople. Merchandise is fresher, there is a better selection and you don't have to rush through the list in a couple of weary days.

While beforehand you might take a look around the store room. There is that wrapping paper you bought last year and did not use and there are ribbons and stickers. Might as well get your packages wrapped and in the mail and thus win the everlasting gratitude of the clerks, the postman and also the friends and relatives who receive the gifts. There is always a thrill in getting an early gift.

IT is a little early to buy that tree. But the American Legion has their shipment in and soon the evergreens will be on vacant lots.

Even if we continue to have summer weather, Christmas is on the way. Let's go out to meet it this year.

Mexican Couple Tells How Crash Killed Four Members Of Family

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Nov. 29.—The pretty, dark-eyed Mexican lady told matter-of-factly how her parents and sisters were killed in today's plane crash.

"Of course I will talk to you," Mrs. Benjamin P. Burillo, 25, told a reporter as she drew to a sitting position on her hospital bed.

"My parents and my two sisters were in the same plane. They were all killed."

She was the daughter of Jose De La Mora, 56, prominent Mexico City banker and textile dealer who had taken his 42-year-old wife and two teen-aged daughters on an extended vacation in the United States.

Couple Suffer Injuries

"All I have is a broken ankle, and he"—Mrs. Burillo gestured to her husband in the next bed—"he is only bruised." Her husband nodded.

Shortly before the crash the hostess asked them to fasten their safety belts.

"We strapped ourselves in. Out the window we could see the lights of the city. We moved lower, and suddenly I heard the motors roar, very high-pitched.

"I turned to my husband, who is an architect and engineer and also a private pilot. I said, 'What is he doing? He should be slowing down the engines.'

"My husband said, 'The damned fool, he overshot the field and he'll have to come in again.'

Back Of Plane Hit

"Right after that the back of the plane hit and the forward part shot up. I banged my head and blacked out for a little while."

Burillo was thrown clear. He reached through a window and rescued his wife, left sitting dazed in her seat.

The hunt for dead started soon after the big plane crashed and exploded into flames.

This was after the first confusion, after the wandering injured had been whisked to hospitals and after they had told their stories of the crash.

Plane Trembled, Shook

"The plane trembled and shook and I knew we were in trouble and then bango—"

That was the story of Ernest Ohnell, jr., of Scarsdale, N. Y.

Ohnell was a passenger on the plane, one of 41. There was a crew of five. It was American airlines flight 157, New York to Mexico City, stopping at Washington and Dallas.

Not all the passengers were going to Mexico City. Some were to get off at Dallas. Others were to change planes and criss-cross the country.

Benjamin Bogish of New York City was one who had to change planes. He was bound for Tucson, Ariz. There were arrangements to be made for his wife's funeral.

"Over Love field," said Ohnell, "we came in for a landing. One engine was out. I thought we were on the ground, but we really weren't. Suddenly the plane trembled and shook. The engines roared as if the pilot were trying to take it off again and had decided not to land.

"I felt we were in trouble. Then bango—we hit.

"We hit a hangar (Dallas aviation school) and then there was the explosion . . ."

28 Persons Die

Twenty-eight persons died in the crash, including the two stewardesses. Eighteen were injured, but few seriously.

Another survivor from Mexico City, John Le Lorier, said "God was very good to us."

Le Lorier, 34, managed to pull his wife and 22-months-old son to safety through a gaping hole left by the severed right wing.

"We had been back to my old home in France for a visit," Le Lorier said, "and were going to Mexico City, where we've been the last three years.

Baby Fell Under Seats

"The baby fel' under the seats; I was frantically trying to find him—everything was afire. I got my wife and baby out through a hole where the right wing had been."

Le Lorier was only slightly hurt but Mrs. Le Lorier was burned. Their light-haired child suffered possible fractures but was "doing very nicely" tonight, according to hospital attaches.

The first thought of Laurens Claude of Fort Worth, the plane's 52-year-old pilot, was for stewardesses Margaret Van Bibber, 24, Madison, N. J., and Josephine Cadena, 23, San Antonio.

"How about the girls," he asked City Detective D. D. Dozier. "Did they make it?"

Dozier did not answer. The husky pilot leaned back to let the doctors work on his cuts.

"I wish I had gone, too," he said.

Some Survivors Joke

Some survivors, like William B. Forsythe, 52, Stamford, Conn., could even joke. He is a vice president of the Pepsi-Cola Bottling company.

"One way of getting publicity for the company," he grinned through cracked lips. "It's the hard way. I'd sure rather buy the advertising than get it this way."

Bogish was esleep when he was lyn, N. Y., called his wife and told her he was all right, even though he suffered a broken thoracic vertebra.

"I had a cut lip, bleeding a little—nothing. Do I feel lucky? Who wouldn't? I'm all right now, only damn uncomfortable with my back propped up and my head and feet down. My feet are a little bruised. Otherwise, I feel fine."

Rogish was asleep when he was thrown violently forward, snapping his safety belt. He saw an emergency exit but hadn't the strength to open it. Suddenly someone shoved him, hard.

The one who shoved him was Gerald Mullowney, 23, of Dallas, who also escaped.

Russia Agrees To Return Lend-Lease Icebreaker To U. S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (INS) — Russia agreed today to return to the U.S. early next month one of the three lend-lease icebreakers the Soviets borrowed during World War II.

The Soviet Union reported that the other two lend-lease icebreakers are hopelessly frozen in the floes and cannot be returned until next spring or summer.

Delicate negotiations which have been in progress for the return of the ships since 1946 reached a compromise when Soviet embassy Counsellor Vladimir A. Bazykin was summoned to the State department.

There Under-Secretary of State Dean Rusk accepted the Soviet offer. The icebreaker which is to be returned next month will be handed over at Yukosuka, Japan.

Rheumatic Fever Victim 'Doing Fine'

Lamesa Girl Leaves Hospital After Four Months In Bed

LAMESA, Nov. 29. (Special)— Mary Etta Arwin, seven-year-old Lamesa girl sticken by rheumatic fever, took her first steps in four months Tuesday when she walked from the hospital.

Her first steps since she was ordered to bed on July 27 were taken after Dr. H. W. Bischoff found her "doing fine" in a monthly examination Tuesday.

According to her mother, Mrs. E. N. Arwine, she "scooted along" after the examination in which the doctor reported her heart "nearly normal."

Mary Etta is still getting several letters a day, her mother reported although she has lost count of the mail received by the young lass.

Since her picture appeared in The Lubbock Morning Avalanche with a request for letters, Mary Etta has received more than 2,000 letters and over 300 packages.

She received several packages at Thanksgiving, as well as autographed pictures of her favorite movie stars, Gene Autry and Roy Rogers.

But she is looking eagerly forward to Christmas which she had thought she would have to observe in bed.

Although she still must spend much time in bed, Dr. Bischoff Tuesday prescribed movement from 8 to 10 a.m. and from 12 to 2 p.m. He also stopped giving medicine at least for the time being. Plans had been for her to stay in bed until February.

Mary Etta's legs are still stiff, but she is overjoyed at being able to quit her bed for intervals.

She has been studying her second grade lessons at home, and her teacher says she will be ready for the third grade next year. She may even be able to attend school after the first of the year.

In addition to heart ailment, Mary Etta must have her tonsils out. The operation will be performed within a month perhaps.

Cominform Move Against Tito May Belie Soviet 'Peace' Talk

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

Andrei Vishinsky told the United Nations Monday that it was nonsense to believe that Soviet Russia organizes revolutions and seeks world domination through fomenting uprisings.

At the same time there was world speculation that the latest Cominform statement was designed to foment an anti-Tito uprising in Yugoslavia.

Vishinsky would have you forget the manner in which the Communist minorities took over Poland, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Hungary, and Czechoslovakia. The armed "action committees." The food and job rationing systems under which a man had to be on the "right" side or starve. The pressure of the Red army and the organized hooligan squads. The revolt in Greece.

Cominform Belies Claim

But the Cominform reminds that there is an "irreconcilable struggle" against "bourgeois nationalism."

That's Tito's trouble. He wants a Communist regime, but one independent of Kremlin dictation. Aside from whatever it may mean to Yugoslavia, his stand has done one important thing. It has made Russia say plainly that even a Communist nation is her enemy unless she dominates it.

Students of Russian tactics are pretty well agreed that the Tito defection represents one of the most serious challenges which Moscow policy has ever faced. In France and Italy for instance, the Communists have always had to maintain a certain show of patriotism in order to get anywhere at all. In the United States they always profess publicly that they follow the party line only because it is what America needs.

If Tito gets away with his independence, Lenin-Stalinism, which in Russia has been absorbed by the country's traditional imperialism, might in other countries revert to Marxism and become almost lost in the general trend toward Socialism.

The first impression of the latest Cominform statement, calling on Communists everywhere to intensify the battle and to exert every effort against Tito, is that it is only more of the same.

Its timing coincides with independent reports that Russia is about to make some concrete move against Tito. Red troops movements in the Balkans are believed to have been designed to encourage the belief among underground operatives in Belgrade that they will get support if they try for a coup. Or the Greek pattern, of sending Cominform-armed Yugoslav dissidents across the border, might be repeated.

If Russia or her satellites make no move against Tito, Mr. Vishinsky may find a time when he can make his odd claims in a better atmosphere. But to Russian-style Communism, Tito is a heretic. And a non-liquidated heretic represents a Communist defeat. Inaction is not indicated.

Wreckage Of Missing Plane Believed Seen

PORTLAND, Ore, Nov. 29. (INS). Shattered wreckage of what aerial observers believe to be a missing C-54 transport, which disappeared last Tuesday with a crew of six, was spotted today on the east slope of Mount St. Helens, 60 air miles north of Portland.

Cap. Edward Pesik, Portland air reserve pilot, made the discovery while on a weather reconnaisance flight. He said the remains of the plane were strewn over a wide area. He doubted that any of the crew could have survived.

Preparations to drop medical assistance and food supplies were abandoned on the basis of his report.

Additional aircraft took off in the hope cloud conditions would not prevent them from aiding three ground parties in locating the wreck. Rescuers left for the scene from Kelso, Wash.

Radio communication headquarters were to be established at Spirit lake until the report was checked out.

Mount St. Helen towers upward 9,671 feet approximately 25 miles east of the airway along which the ill-fated plane was flying at the tim it abruptly severed radio communications and the Portland air base a week ago today.

When ex-bus conductress Helen Alexander married her ex-passenger, Angus Godron, in Glasgow, Scotland, recently, the wedding was recorded, the church having been wired for sound so Helen could send a record to her brother Sam, in Australia.

FBI AGENT TESTIFIES AT TRIAL

Thomas Is Accused Of Having Bedridden Relative On Payroll

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — Testimony that Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ) had a 71-year-old bedridden relative on his congressional payroll was introduced today at the lawmaker's trial on salary "kickback" charges.

An FBI agent testified he had been informed that Thomas' office payroll included, not only the aged relative, who did no work, but Thomas' daughter-in-law, who lived in New Jersey.

There was no testimony that they kicked back their pay to Thomas, former chairman of the House Un-American Activities committee, but the representative is accused of requiring three other "employes" to turn pay over to him.

Federal witnesses testified today that congressional salary checks totaling about $8,675 were issued in the names of these three purported employes.

The 54-year-old New Jersey legislator and his former secretary, Miss Helen Campbell, 64, are accused of conspiring to cheat the government. The allegation is that the names of Miss Campbell's niece, Myra Midkiff, and her maid, Arnette Minor, were put on Thomas' office payroll although they did not work, and that their pay was turned over to Thomas.

Another charge, lodged against Thomas alone, is that Mrs. Jacqueline B. Hill was fraudulently listed as a clerk-typist for the un-American activities committee and that much of her salary found its way to Thomas. These three, according to documentary evidence produced by the prosecution, drew salary checks totaling about $8,675.

Thomas sat glowering as part of the story of his alleged conspiracy was unfolded by FBI agent Frederick Vechery, who said he was assigned to the case in September, 1948, a few weeks before Thomas was indicted by a federal grand jury.

Vechery said Miss Campbell, Thomas' secretary, had signed written statements alleging that Thomas not only took salary kickbacks but also had put the two relatives on his payroll.

The FBI agent said Miss Campbell told him that Grace Wilson, an aunt of Thomas' wife, was on the congressman's office payroll from January, 1945 until about the middle of 1946.

He said Miss Campbell did not specify how long Grace Wilson had been bed-ridden except to say it was "during the entire time she was on the payroll."

Vechery said Miss Campbell also told him that Lillian Thomas, the congressman's daughter-in-law, was on the payroll from 1946 until late 1948 although living during that period in Allendale, N. J.

Chapman reviewed many statistics to illustrate the waste of manpower and money in our federal government at present.

He said support of the Hoover commission report was the national Jaycee project for the year.

Lubbock Lions To Present Minstrel Show At Whiteface

A complete picture of the 1948 football game between Army and Navy was seen by members of Lions International at their weekly luncheon in the Hilton hotel ballroom at noon Tuesday.

Plans to take the club's minstrel to Whiteface Dec. 7 were also discussed, with rehearsal date set for 7:30 p. m. Monday.

Presented by Lt. Paul J. Ruzick, commanding officer of the Lubbock Naval Training station, the 1948 Army-Navy game was shown in its entirety, except for huddles and times out. Navy entered the game a 21-point underdog but emerged with the biggest upset of the year with a 21-21 tie.

The complete cast of the Lions' Minstrel will be taken to Whiteface for the appearance there. Preliminary discussions were made concerning the possibility of the club's selling "safety seals," with action probably to be taken in a directors' meeting this afternoon.

Rev. David Zacharias was program chairman for the meeting.

Notre Dame Is Top Team For Third Time In Four Years

Oklahoma Takes Second Place

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—For the third time in the past four years, Notre Dame has been voted the nation's No. 1 football power by sports writers and sportscasters taking part in the Associated Press poll.

In the ninth and final ballot of the '49 season, 172 out of 248 experts plumped for the Fighting Irish from South Bend, who will be working on a 37-game undefeated string when they close against Southern Methodist on Saturday at Dallas.

Michigan Is Seventh

Oklahoma's powerful Sooners nosed out California for second place, with Army fourth and Rice fifth. Michigan, which led the parade a year ago by a narrow margin over Notre Dame, dropped to seventh.

Figured on a point basis (10 for first place selection, 9 for second, etc.) Notre Dame topped the contenders with 2,402, compared with 2,018 for Oklahoma, 1,900 for California, 1,838 for Army, and 1,062 for Rice.

California, idle last week after having clinched the Pacific Coast championship, polled more first place votes than Oklahoma—40 to 18—but more widespread support for the Sooners boosted them past the Golden Bears into the second spot.

No Sectional Influence

Most surprising, perhaps, was the fact that Army's impressive 38-0 rout of Navy convinced only 12 critics that the Cadets were the best team going. That Rice, champion of the Southwest conference, did not receive a single first place vote may offer additional evidence that sectional pride is having less and less influence on the poll.

Ohio State, Big Nine representative in the coming Rose Bowl, placed sixth with 998 points, Michigan seventh, 848, Minnesota eighth, 522, Louisiana State ninth, 516, and College of Pacific tenth, 248.

Pacific Beats Kentucky

Louisiana State vaulted into the select group at the very end by virtue of its 21-0 victory over Tulane. College of Pacific made it by slaughtering California Poly 88-0, beating out Kentucky for the 10th spot by 26 points.

The Rose Bowl will match California, No. 3, with Ohio State, No. 6; the Sugar brings together Oklahoma, No. 2, and Louisiana State, No. 9. Rice, No. 5, tackles North Carolina, No. 16, in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. Kentucky, No. 11, and Santa Clara, No. 15, meet in the Orange Bowl at Miami.

The total final vote with points figured on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis. (first place votes in parentheses).
1. Notre Dame (172), 2,402.
2. Oklahoma (18), 2,018.
3. California (40), 1,900.
4. Army (12), 1,838.
5. Rice, 1,062.
6. Ohio State, 998.
7. Michigan, 848.
8. Minnesota, 522.
9. Louisiana State, 516.
10. College of Pacific (4), 248.

The second ten—11—Kentucky, 222; 12—Cornell, 188;; 13—Villanova (2), 148; 14—Maryland, 134; 15—Santa Clara, 126; 16—North Carolina, 106; 17—Tennessee, 82; 18—Princeton, 46; 19—Michigan State, 30; 20—Missouri and Baylor, each 26.

Others receiving votes: Virginia, 18; Duke 14; Pennsylvania, 10; Stanford, 8; Wofford, Tulane, William and Mary and Southern Methodist, each 6; Texas, Texas Christian and North Carolina State, each 3; Dartmouth, Wyoming, Southern California, UCLA, Vanderbilt, each 2; Brown, Wake Forest and Xavier, each 1.

Boys Club Courtmen Top Plains Ice, 40-28

Jackie Cook and Jack McLarty paced the Boys Club Independents to a 40-28 triumph over Plains Ice Cream in Tuesday's feature basketball game at Lubbock Boys club.

Cook scored 14 points while McLarty was notching 12. However, Kenneth Street of the losing quintet was high for the game with 16.

In the Peewee league, James Wiley tallied 10 points to lead the Mustangs to a 16-8 win over the Stampeders. Lannie Shofner made four points for the Stampeders.

The Eagles, with Wesley Houston scoring eight points, downed the Five Little Angels, 16-8, in a Midget league setto. Dean Fawcett made all but one of the losers' counters.

The Fancy Five took a 34-28 decision over the Big Five in a Junior league game. Leon Bostick dumped in 15 points for the victors, while Billy Sims led the losers with 12 tallies.

Senior league action saw the Unconscious Five down the Golden Gophers, 49-21. Sammy Adams made 19 points for the winners. Billy Diamond was high for the Gophers with 11.

Raiders Play McMurry Tonight And Picadors Meet Reese AFB

Visiting Indians Apparently Strong

Texas Tech basketball fans will be treated to a doubleheader tonight in Tech gym when the Picadors of Coach Allie White open the night's session with a game against the Reese Air Force Base quintet and the varsity meets McMurry's Indians.

The Raiders went through a tough scrimmage session yesterday in order to polish up the rough spots discovered in the 67-45 defeat by West Texas State college Monday night. Coach Polk Robison realizes that there is a lot of work ahead of him before the Raiders become conference contenders.

McMurry Seeks Revenge

McMurry will bring a smooth-working, polished, experienced quintet to Lubbock tonight. Most of the players were here last year, when the Raiders handed them a defeat and they will be seeking revenge.

Among those slated to see heavy action against Tech are Herschell Kimbrell, Dick Richey, Hubert McClesky and Gordon Chambers, forwards; Dell Riley, guard; and Edgar Payne, center.

Coach Robison, although deep in material, has only three lettermen to throw at the invaders, Charley Pinnell, Gene Gibson and Jiggs Jackson. He probably will round out his starting five with Jack Alderson and Ted O'Neil, both of whom appear to be the more promising sophomores.

Frosh Make Debut

In reserve and expected to see considerable service as Coach Robison seeks to find an effective combination or combinations are Weldon McClure, J. R. McAnaly, Verdell Turner, Jim Eddins, forwards; Irl Brown and Jim Cole, centers; and Doral Sandlin and Jim Sharp, guards.

Coach White will be sending his freshman team out or the court for the first time this year and with next tono practice. Yesterday was the most intensive drill that the squad has had.

Heading the Picador quintet will be Center Paul Nolen of Alvorado, a six foot eight and a half inch pivot man. Lewis Martin of Dimmitt and Buddy Brock of O'Donnell probably will be the starting forwards; and Virgil Johnson of Lubbock and Sandy Welton of West Virginia, an all-stater, probably will be starting guards.

Other players Coach White can call on are Forwards Jack Little of Amarillo and Dale Knight of Stratford; Center Dutch Leuen? berger of Lamesa; and Guards Don Seale of Idalou, Blair Hankins of Lubbock and Benny Weber of Shallowater.

The public will be admitted in limited numbers, with tickets selling for $1 each.

Levelland Takes Easy Win Over Springlake

LEVELLAND, Nov. 29. (Special) Levelland's Lobos scored their second straight cage win over the Springlake Wolverines here tonight, taking an easy 37-14 decision.

The Lobos piled up a 17-2 halftime lead, then coasted to victory. Glen Clarkson was high point man with 12 tallies. The Springlake scoring was evenly divided among several players.

The Levelland girls team gained a narrow 24-23 triumph over Springlake, with Wanda Sewell and Hattie Collier scoring nine and seven points, respectively. Top scoring honors for the game, however, went to Springlake's Lois Cleavenger, who netted 11.

Springlake won the "B" boys game, 22-20.

TINKERS, RAFB SCRIMMAGE

Thomas Tinkers and Reese Air Force Base basketball teams went through a practice scrimmage last night at the air field gym, with several Tinkers scoring eight points. They were Deacon Johnson, Clayton Stallings, Bill Eddins and J. L. Houser. High for the service team was Englebreton with six markers.

BACKFIELD READY FOR PANTHERS

Westerners Drill On Offense, Defense For El Paso Contest

A routine drill kept the Lubbock Westerners busy Tuesday as they prepped for their Saturday tilt with El Paso Austin for bi-district honors, and Coach Pat Pattison is keeping the workouts moving at a fast pace.

By using the Cowhand team, Lubbock's "B" squad, Coach Pattison has four complete elevens and can keep all busy on offense and defense. During the regular season one team was idle while the other two went through plays.

GAME TICKETS ON SALE

Tickets for the Lubbock-Austin High football game have been received at the high school athletic office and are on sale, according to E. J. Lowrey. Lowrey reports that many calls have been received regarding tickets which sell at $1.50 for adults and 40 cents for students.

Hard Scrimmage On Austin Menu

EL PASO, Nov. 29. (Special)—Continued hard offensive scrimmage, aimed at bringing their T-formation attack to a razor-sharp edge marked the practice session of the Austin High Panthers here today.

The Panthers meet the powerful Lubbock Westerners here Saturday afternoon in the bi-district playoff with a further shot at the Class AA grid title as the big plum.

Polish Passing Attack

Coach Charles (Red) Harris ran his offensive unit through its second day of scrimmage devoted almost entirely to polishing up the Panther running and passing game.

The Panther backfield of Noel McCormick, Ted Feidner, Jerry Baker and Jimmie Agee ripped through the defensive unit repeatedly as they stressed wide plays and pass formations.

Harris pointed out the need for the drills by recalling Austin's inability to maintain a sustained attack against El Paso High last week. The Panthers bogged down several times in the shadow of the Tiger goal posts.

Near Sellout Expected

The defensive platoon also came in for a big siege of work on fundamentals, with Line Coach Freddy Salem accenting blocking and tackling assignments.

Harris indicated another hard drill was on schedule for Wednesday, with lighter sessions beginning Thursday.

Meanwhile ticket sales here indicated a near sell-out crowd would be on hand in R. E. McKee stadium Saturday afternoon to watch the game.

Sudan Hornets Turn In Double Win Over Whiteface Cage Teams

WHITEFACE, Nov. 29. (Special) Sudan's Hornets scored a double victory over the Whiteface Antelopes here tonight before 250 basketball fans.

Pacing the first team to a 39-17 victory was Don Lance with 15 points, and Hardy Clemons made six for the losers. Cal Foster was a defensive standout for the Hornets.

Coach L. S. Salser's Whiteface "B" team lost, 18-12. Sudan's Whitmore scored seven points. Sharing the scoring for the Antelopes' was Dan Gilbert and Max Dickerson with six each.

BARBER COLLEGE WINS

Lubbock Barber college clipped Trammell Service, 80-50, Tuesday night in an independent basketball game as Y. F. Bowley scored 25 points. Dave Lawson made 16. Hottest man on the court however, was the losers' Self with 30 points. Barber college led at halftime, 46-16.

New Constitution Written By SPOA

Members of the South Plains Officials and Coaches association Tuesday night adopted a new constitution, made preliminary plans for the annual football banquet and nominated 11 members for office.

The new constitution incorporates basketball into the scope of the organization and calls for classification of members based on experience and other factors.

Seek Improvements

Recommendation that two officials be used in basketball games and four officials in football games was also included in the new doctrine.

It was also stated in the new constitution that basketball officials belonging to the organization shall work games on a basis of not less than $5 per man per game plus travel with tournament fees to be agreed upon by the officials concerned.

Objects of the association as mentioned in Article 1 of the constitution include "The Improvement of officiating through a better understanding of the rules and officiating mechanics of the sports in which the officials are engaged and the improvement of the relationships between players, coaches, officials and fans."

Vaughn Is Nominated

Finis Vaughn and Cotton Neely were nominated as candidates for president of the organization. E. H. Wilkins and Ed Haley were nominated for the post of vice president and Curtis Barrett was the sole nominee for the position of secretary-treasurer.

The directors will be elected from the following nominations: Joe Holmes, Howard Price, M. R. Hayhurst, J. R. Callahan, Russell Wimberly and L. L. Judd.

Committee reports on date and place of the banquet were incomplete and Wilkins, chairman of the committee to procure a guest speaker, said he was not ready to announce the name but indicated he would be a "name" coach.

Yancy Price presided.

Last Perfect Class A Record Is In Jeopardy

AMARILLO, Nov. 29. (Special) The last perfect Class A record in the northern bracket of the state playoff goes on the line here Friday when Lefors' Pirates clash with the Littlefield Wildcats.

Coach James Love's Lefors team has breezed to ten straight victories this year, including a 42-28 decision over the strong Phillips Blackhawks in the bi-district round last week.

Coach J. S. Fike's Littlefield team has won 10 in a row since losing its 1949 opener. The lone Wildcat defeat was a freakish 14-0 game which saw Littlefield subloss in the mud at Dalhart in a stantially outgain Dalhart from scrimmage.

One of the Wildcat victories came via the penetration route in a 7-7 scoring deadlock with Sudan. Except for a 20-13 decision over Levelland, all other Littlefield victories have been by wide margins.

Both Lefors and Littlefield are expected to be near top physical form for Friday's regional title scrap, which starts at 2:30 p.m. The winner of this game will go against the Wink-Ballinger victor in the state Class A quarterfinals.

Complete season records:

LITTLEFIELD — Littlefield 0, Dalhart 14; Littlefield 34, Roscoe 0; Littlefield 39, Morton 6; Littlefield 53, O'Donnell 0; Littlefield 47, Brownfield 7; Littlefield 48, Muleshoe 0; Littlefield 66; Sundown 0; Littlefield 7, Sudan 7; Littlefield 20, Levelland 13; Littlefield 47, Slaton 0; Littlefield 47, Spur 14.

PAGE EIGHT. LUBBOCK, TEX WEDNESDAY, NOV. 30, 1949

STAR FROM BROWNFIELD—Johnny Winston, a 185-pounder, has been seeing a lot of action this year at guard on the Abilene Christian college football team. Winston, a freshman, earned two letters at Brownfield in the 1947 and 1948 seasons. He also lettered in track and tennis. Winston has been a big help to the Wildcats in their Texas Conference football race this year. He is a son of County Judge and Mrs. H. R. Winston.

CHOO CHOO JUSTICE SECOND

Leon Hart Wins Heisman Award As Outstanding Player Of 1949

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP)—Leon Hart, Notre Dame's great end, had another honor heaped upon his broad back tonight when he was announced as the winner of the Heisman Memorial Trophy for being "the outstanding college football player of 1949."

The award is made annually by the Downtown A. C. which polls sports writers and broadcasters throughout the nation on their selection.

Walker Finishes Third

The six-feet four-inch, 265-pound husky from Turtle Creek, Pa., won in a breeze with a total of 975 points. In second place came Charley (Choo Choo) Justice, North Carolina's fine back, with 272 points. Doak Walker, Southern Methodist's triple threat back who won the Heisman trophy last year, was third with 229 followed by Arnold Galiffa, Army, 196 and Bob Williams of Notre Dame, 189.

Added To Maxwell Award

Every section of the country voted the Irish end as its No. 1 selection.

A sure bet for All-America ranking, Hart will add the Heisman Trophy to his Maxwell Memorial Football club silverware. The Philadelphia club named the All-Around performer, great on defense as well as offense, as the winner of its trophy 12 days ago.

A poll of 105 major colege football teams shows that almost half are using the two-platoon system of substitution.

Strangler Lewis To Referee Bouts

Third man in the ring tonight for Sled Allen's wrestling program will be Ed (Strangler) Lewis, one of the top figures in wrestling circles in the country.

Lewis will be calling the shots in all three matches, and he may have his hands full before the night is over.

Meeting in the main event for the best two of three falls are Andy Tremain and Alex Kasaboski, two of the toughest men in the area at present.

Tremain Lacks Weight

Kasaboski won a contested decision last week over George Overhul in the main event, and promptly was challenegd for this week's top spot, but Tremain got the nod, having made the bid earlier.

Tremain will be giving away several pounds to Kasaboski, but he believes he can make up for it with speed and science. Recognized by the wrestling fraternity as one of the most scientific, smart and aggresive men in the country, Tremain will be called upon to use all his resources in the match.

Going all out to win and using any method possible, Kasaboski is well-versed in the art and will give Tremain trouble all the way.

Clean Match Slated

Overhul takes on Parks in the semi-final bout, and this match should be more scientific. Both are powerful and hard to beat which should give the fans a clean but rough match. Overhul wants another shot at Kasaboski and should try to use the match as a stepping stone.

Returning to the local ring in the preliminary event is Jack Pappenheim, who tangles with Salvador Flores, one of the smoothest and well-liked wrestlers to come out of Mexico City.

Prefering clean wrestling, Pappenheim and Flores should open the activities with a good show.

Tickets for the matches are on sale at the arena, 606 Texas, until 5 p. m. today and may also be purchased at the gate. The preliminary bout begins at 8 p.m.

VILLANOVA REJECTS BID

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29. (AP)—Villanova college rejected today a bid to play in the Press Bowl at San Francisco Jan. 2.

Walker Nichols Resigns Position As New Mexico Assistant Coach

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 29 (AP) — Walker Nichols resigned today as assistant football coach at the University of New Mexico.

Former San Angelo, Tex., and Texas Tech football star, Nichols said he will join Cox and Langford, implement firm, in Lubbock Tex. His resignation is effective Feb. 1.

Nichols was one of the coaches of the 1939 Texas Champion Lubbock High school team. He later joined the coaching staff at Texas Tech. He came to the University of New Mexico in 1947.

NICHOLS FORMER TECH STAR AND GRID CAPTAIN IN 1935

Walker Nichols, who resigned as line coach at the University of New Mexico last night, had been with the New Mexico institution three years.

Was Freshman Coach

He and Berl Huffman, currently serving his third year as head coach, left Texas Tech together in 1947. Nichols had been freshman coach, assisting the varsity line, and Huffman had been backfield coach.

Nichols received his education in San Angelo, where he was a high school grid star. He graduated in 1931 and came to Lubbock, where he played four years of football. He climaxed his college career by being elected captain for the 1935 season.

At Lubbock High

After graduation from Tech, Nichols went to Lubbock High school as coach of the Cowhands. He served with them for three years and when J. G. Keyes was made head coach during the 1939 season, following the death of Weldon Bailey Chapman, Nichols was made assistant coach.

He remained at the Westerner school until 1941, when Coach Dell Morgan appointed him freshman coach and line coach. He left Tech during the 1942 season for Navy duty, serving in the Southwest Pacific.

Has Two Children

Nichols returned for the 1946 grid season at Tech and the following year was selected by Huffman to be line coach at New Mexico.

He married the former Miss Lena Belle Brown of Megargel, a Tech student, about 1937. They have two children, a boy and a girl.

BY CHOC HUTCHESON

If a fellow believes all he reads, he is apt to become as confused as two sets of identical twins on a double date.

Consider, if you will, the case of Leon Hart.

Hart, you know, is the massive gentleman who plays end for this year's Notre Dame football team. When last weighed on a special scale at the South Bend Steel & Iron Works, Leon hit a neat 245 pounds, which is a nice size, indeed, for a college end.

It so happens that, in addition to all this weight, Mr. Hart packs a great quantity of power. In fact, there has been some loose talk of matching Hart and the Super Chief for a special head-on collision, and it's said that the folks around the Notre Dame campus are betting that Leon will smash in the train's cowcatcher, should such a match ever come off.

In any event, Hart has been highly praised for his football play over the last two seasons. He's been named to most of the numerous All-America teams (all I've seen, in fact), and it's rumored that many a pro grid scout is lying awake nights trying to figure out how to get Leon's autograph on a contract.

Only this week, Whitney Martin, the veteran AP scribe, wrote that "offensively and defensively, Hart should rank with the all-time great wingmen."

But now along comes Dave Camerer, NEA sportswriter, to thoroughly debunk the Hart myth.

Camerer, who used to play tackle for Dartmouth, says he personally scouted Hart throughout the recent Notre Dame-North Carolina game. Here are his observations:

"As a blocker, Hart rolls back his half of any line. In downfield blocking he'll make a hunchback of any would-be tackler he drawns a bead on. On defense, however, the Irish Goliath went for more free rides than the Volga Boatman. He was mousetrapped, beartrapped, elephant-trapped and just plain ridden to hell outa there. North Carolina's first-blood touchdown was the culmination of two consecutive cutbacks by Dick Bunting. Both went through-and-inside Mr. Hart. One blocker, no bigger than a sack of Carolina redclay peanuts, handled him. During the first half Hart figured in just one play-stopping maneuver . . . In Carolina's second-period shot from ND's one, the Tarheels took dead aim on Hart, fired, and apparently scored—only to lost five yards for an offside. . . As a pass catcher, Hart fights the ball. Following one particularly sorry muff, Frank Leahy jerked him, detailed in sideline pantomime Hart s wooden-handed impulses, and ordered him to "surround" the ball."

Camerer also explodes flowery tales regarding Hart's prowess on the famed Irish end-around play. He says, "Bill Wightkin, Notre Dame's other end, makes that end-around play snap. Two years ago, a less massive Hart did, too. But today big Leon makes the play look like a stampede in slow motion.

Gentlemen of the sports-page jury, you have heard both the defense and the prosecution. Now, what is your verdict?

Ty Bain and Glen Lowe, former backfield teammates at Texas Tech, have coached their teams (Mexia and Rosebud, respectively) into the regional round of the state Class A playoff. Lowe's club bumps into the double-tough New Braunfels outfit this week . . . . Lubbock's Chris Christensen was the Class A all-event champion in the recent Panhandle Open Bowling tournament at Amarillo. Ben Brown, Lubbock, finished third in the Class A singles, and All State Auto Insurance company of Lubbock won the Class A team championship with a 2,683 total . . . Pat Pattison, Westerner coach, played end for Centenary when Homer Norton was coach of the Louisiana college. . . . Wichita Falls, 2-AA titlist, already has beaten four other Class AA district winners. They are Breckenridge, Abilene, Pampa and Highland Park. . . . Joel Combs, 160-pound tailback, is the boy Littlefield must watch against Amarillo. Combs, one of the state's top Class A ball-carriers, also is a nifty passer. . . . There's talk among Pacific coast newsmen of matching College of the Pacific and Villanova for a "Press Bowl" game in San Francisco. COP was unbeaten this year, while Villanova dropped only one game. Yet both were snubbed by the other bowls. . . . Congratulations to Dr. and Mrs. L. A. Storrs on birth of a daughter Tuesday. He's the Westerners' team physician. . . POST LOSES TWICE

In the absence of their coach, Toby Waggoner, the New Deal girls basketball teams scored a double victory over Post. The senior girls won, 27-26, and the juniors took a 32-22 decision.

LeBaron Is Little All-American

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP) — Eddie LeBaron, the magnificent faker of College of Pacific's all-conquering Tigers, once again heads the Little All-America football team—eleven players from minor schools who probably could hold their own in any company.

There's no doubt about heady Eddie, the 19-year-old T formation quarterback from Turlock, Calif. The clever ball handler and passer from California set a record when he was named to the Associated Press' 1949 team.

Third Time Selected

It is the third time for Eddie, the first time any player has been picked that often for the Little A-.

LeBaron set the pace for a C. of P. team which is unbeaten and untied in ten games. He is rated one of the best pro prospects among all of the graduating collegians.

Eddie is the only far Westerner on the team. The Midwest has four representatives, the South three, the Southwest two, and the East one.

Rowland Also Named

Joining LeBaron in the backfield are Brad Rowland, McMurry (Tex.), Bill Young of Hillsdale, Mich., and Conrad Callahan of Morningside College (Ia.). Young won honors as the nation's leading scorer with 121 points while Rowland, a leader in that department for most of the year, chalked up 108 points.

The end posts are held down by a pair of 6-3 standouts, Claude Radtke of Lawrence (Wis) and Charles (Rough House) Williams, of Sam Houston State (Tex.)

Average Is Small

Wofford's all-winning squad is represented by Elbert Hammett, a six foot, 200-pound tackle. The other tackle berth was taken by Herbert McKinney, a 215-pounder from Missouri Valley.

This eleven averages just under six feet and 190 pounds per man.

Hale Center Owls Are Held To Court Split

ANTON, Nov. 29. (Special)—Hale Center and Anton divided victories here tonight in an exciting high school basketball doubleheader.

The Hale Center girls team edged the local sextet, 24-22, in a double-overtime encounter. The score was knotted at 20-20 at the end of regulation playing time, and at 22-22 at the close of the first overtime session. Burns scored 11 points and Burgess made nine to pace the winners. Myrtle Brown and Carla Jean Herrington counted 10 each for Anton.

Whitey Williams flipped in a field goal with less than one minute to play to give the Anton boys a 22-21 decision over Anton's quintet. Billy Ray Glasscock and James Greer starred for Anton, while Jerry Johnson sparked the visitors.

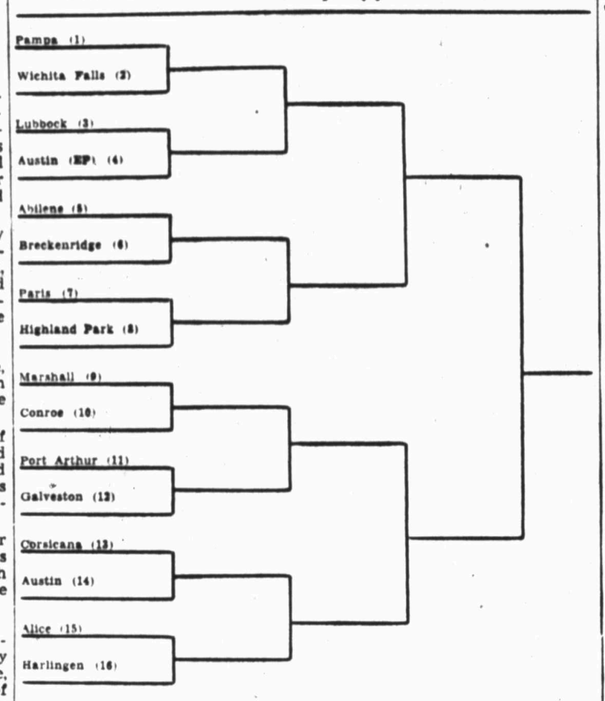

Abernathy Trims Tahoka In Loose Game 65-16; Blackmon Top Scorer

ABERNATHY, Nov. 29. (Special)—Abernathy bested the efforts of Tahoka here last night, crushing the visitors, 65-16, in a non-conference Class A basketball game.

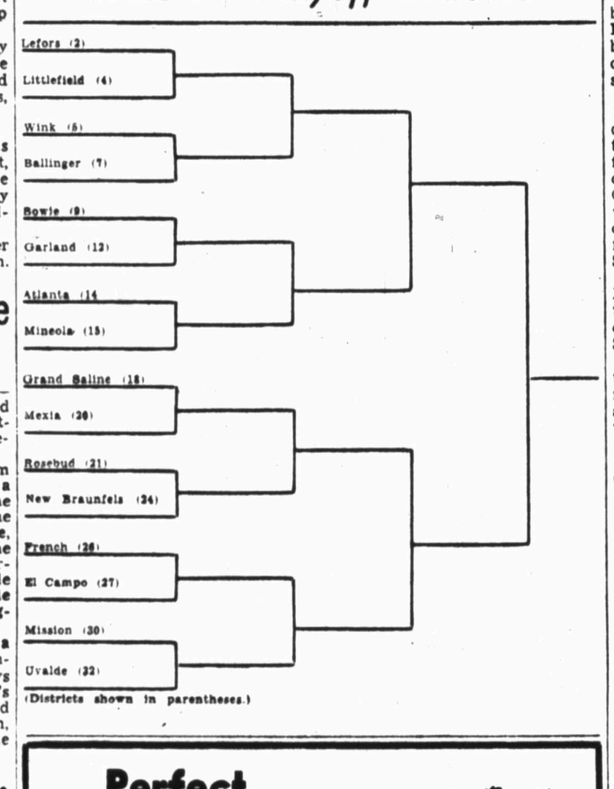

Esten Blackmon paced the winners with 17 points, being pushed closely by Murry Sandefur with 15 markers. Howell was tops for the Tahokans with six markers.

In a "B" team game, Abernathy won, 32-10, with Floyd Myatt and Orville Toler scoring six points and Short getting four for the losers.

SMU Only Team In Irish Path

CHICAGO, Nov. 29 (INS) — Only a victory over Southern Methodist Saturday bars the path to the greatest Notre Dame football season since the days of the late Knute Rockne.

Not since 1930 have the Fighting Irish won 10 games in a single season without a defeat.

Irish Drill Long

But Coach Frank Leahy, hopeful of equaling the record of the immortal Rockne, drilled his squad long and hard today against a freshman group that imitated the Mustangs. A final practice is scheduled for tomorrow and then the Notre Dame aggregation will board a train for Dallas, Tex.

Guard Frank Johnson and Center Walt Grothaus suffered injuries against Southern California, but both will be in the starting lineup against Doak Walker and Co.

Ten Are Seniors

The game is the last college appearance for every member of Notre Dame's regular eleven with the exception of Quarterback Bob Williams.

Emil (Six Yard) Sitko, big Leon Hart, Jim Martin and the others have yet to learn the meaning of defeat in four years at Notre Dame. Only twice have they been tied.

The fighting Irish have been unbeaten in 37 consecutive games. Even the usually reticent Leahy believes his current team is one of the greatest that has ever been seen on a football field.

Three Touchdown Edge

There may be argument on this opinion but no one has disputed the Notre Dame dominance of football for this season. The Irish crushed a North Carolina team (42 to 6) that was good enough to win the Southern Conference championship and a Tulane outfit (46 to 7) which captured Southeastern Conference laurels.

Michigan State lost to Notre Dame, 34 to 21, and was the only team to come within two touchdowns of the mighty men from South Bend, Ind.

Thus, it is not surprising in the least that the odds-makers rate Notre Dame between three and four touchdowns better than the thrice-beaten Mustangs.

A Southern Methodist victory would qualify as the upset of the decade.

New Mexico Court Squad Opens Season

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 29. (Special)—The University of New Mexico basketball team tips off the largest schedule in its history Saturday night in Albuquerque in a game with Eastern New Mexico at Portales.

The contest with last year's New Mexico Conference champs, who will field nine of the 10 men of their title-winning squad, will serve as a gauge of the success to be expected in the Lobos mid-December clashes with five top-notch eastern teams.

Coach Woody Clements' sophladen squad will meet Duquesne Dec. 13 at Pittsburgh in the opening game of its eastern swing. The following night the Lobos match shots with West Virginia at Morgantown, then play Kent State at Cleveland Dec. 16; Seton Hall at South Orange, N. J., Dec. 19 and Iona college of New Rochelle, N. Y., Dec. 21.

Clues Checked In Armed Robbery

CROSBYTON, Nov. 29. (Special)—Sheriff Foy Addison disclosed tonight that several clues are being checked in connection with the Saturday night armed robbery of a Crosbyton drygoods store which ended with the store owner hospitalized with two bullet wounds.

Addison said articles which apparently had been used by the three gunmen have been sent to the Department of Public Safety at Austin. The items were found behind the store where the car had been parked and at the spot where the store owner, A. W. Wallace, 45, was dumped from the car.

Wallace Remains In Hospital

Wallace, who was shot in the left arm and in the back of the head, remained in Crosbyton General hospital tonight, but continued to show improvement.

Addison said an accurate check of store records showed that the bandits escaped with $152, instead of the $300 to $400 originally estimated.

Several additional facts were added to the case after Wallace was able to discuss it fully with Addison.

Wallace said the store safe was open when the men walked him to the back of the store, and that he had twirled the combination mechanism to lock it.

Grabbed For Gun

This, coupled with the fact that Wallace grabbed at the gun held by one of the trio, led to the fight and beating of Wallace in the back part of the store. During the fight, one of the men threw a typewriter at Wallace, who managed to dodge it.

One of the bandits asked another for his gun, saying: "If you haven't got enough nerve to shoot him, give me the gun."

Apparently referring to Wallace's action in locking the safe and trying to grab the gun, one of the trio remarked: "You've seen too many Gene Autry movies. We'll fix you for that. We'll take you out in the country and kill you."

Bandits Discussed Plans

Driving east out of Crosbyton, one man suggested that they kill Wallace and toss his body over one of the canyon bridges, but the country-road plan won out.

About 14 miles east of Crosbyton, the men drove south for three and one-half miles and stopped about one-fourth of a mile before the road became a dead-end. It was here that Wallace was put out of the car and shot in the back of the head as he walked down the road.

Addison said that it was all but certain that the car used by the trio was a 1950 Studebaker.

New Spy Ring Story Aired At Hiss Trial

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (INS)—The prosecution at the second perjury trial of former State department official Alger Hiss unfolded today an astounding story of a pre-war Communist spy ring with contacts in the highest Washington government circles.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Thomas F. Murphy introduced as evidence notes and memoranda naming numerous prominent capital figures at one time in government service as members of the alleged espionage ring.

The testimony came in direct re-examination of Whittaker Chambers, former Time magazine editor, admitted onetime Communist party member and chief accuser of Alger Hiss.

Prosecutor Murphy introduced fragmentary notes by former Assistant Secretary of State Adolf A. Berle, jr., taken during a conversation with Chambers in 1939.

Mother, Grandfather, New-Born Baby Die Within Three-Hour Span

CLEARWATER, Calif., Nov. 29 (AP)—A 32-year-old schoolteacher, Mrs. Thelma Hanson, died in a hospital after giving birth to a son.

Within a few minutes, and apparently without knowledge of her death, her father, Herman Logan, 64, succumbed to a heart attack.

Two hours later Mrs. Hanson's new-born infant died. The coincidence of the deaths, which occurred Sunday, was not disclosed until completion of funeral plans today.

After brief services tomorrow in Huntington Park the bodies will be sent to their home in Lewiston, Ida., for burial.

Tingley Indicates He May Run For Governor Of New Mexico

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M., Nov. 29. (INS).— Former Governor Clyde Tingley let out a nice broad hint today that he wouldn't be adverse to occupying the governor's office again in 1951.

The occasion was Tingley's losing the Bernalillo county number 1 license tag to Joe Heaston, new fair haired boy of the state administration.

Tingley declared, "My present car will run just as well with any license number, and maybe I'll have the number one tag for the whole state in 1951."

Aasked specifically if he plans to run, Tingley said "it takes a lot of money and a lot of friends to run for governor.

"I have a lot of friends," he added.

Woman Killed, Husband Hurt In Collision Of Car, Truck

LONGVIEW, Nov. 29. (AP)—One person was killed and another hurt tonight in the collision of a car and a truck carrying logs.

Mrs. J. H. Hayes, about 60, of Longview was pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital here. Her husband, operator of a sheet metal plant here, was hospitalized with internal injuries and a broken leg.

Highway Patrolman Glenn Elliott said Hayes car backed out onto highway 26 about a mile and a half north of here, into the path of the truck driven by Harold Powell of Longview.

Powell said he didn't see the Hayes car until he had hit it. He was held because he did not have a truck operator's license, Elliott said.

28 Persons Die In Plane Crash

a combination hanger and office building of the Dallas Aviation school and plowed broadside into a plant that tests airplane engines with chemicals. Both buildings burned and the sky colored brilliantly as chemicals flamed in the latter building, the Magnaflux plant.

It was the worst plane crash in Texas history.

Staggers To Porch

Dazed and bleeding, a crew member staggered 100 feet to a row of houses, collapsed on a front porch, and said, "I think I am dying and I want to make a statement. The plane was on fire and I cut all four engines. The engines were off when we hit."

The flight engineer of the plane, William S. Forbes, said the crew member was Robert E. Lewis, 30, of Tulsa, the co-pilot.

Capt. Laurens (Tommy) Claude of Fort Worth, who was at the controls, said one engine failed and was feathered (stopped) over Aitheimer, Ark. Nearing Love field he said, "I squared away to make a landing with flaps and gear down on a final approach. The No. 4 engine quit and I called to the flight engineer to cut on the booster pump when the fuel flow dropped to zero and the left wing dropped after the plane started to mush in (below flying speed).

Calls For Flaps

"I called for flaps and gear up to the first officer. With only two engines working there wasn't much power to gain altitude to climb.

"He (the first officer) called out: 'She's a gonner!'

"As he said that, the plane hit the hangar and burst into flames." Claude escaped through a baggage hatch.

Federal and company investigators arrived while the wreckage still smouldered. But the Civil Aeronautics administration planned no statement until after a public hearing, and American Airlines said it would have no statement tonight.

Officials Among Victims

Lt. Col. A.F.S. Fane, a British king's messenger, enroute to Mexico City and Guatemala on an official mission, was among the dead. So was Mrs. Ernest G. Wadel of Dallas, national chairman of the women's division of the United Jewish Appeal, and David N. Lewis, former attorney for the Department of Justice, office of ailen property, Washington, D.C. Another was Jose de la Mora, of Guadalajara, Mexico, a director of the Mexican Aviation company (CMA). But Dr. Luis de la Rosa, president of the Mexican National Chamber of Broadcasting, survived.

Justice of the Peace Pierce McBride said he had viewed 28 bodies, those of 17 men and 11 women. American Airlines listed 41 passengers and a crew of five. Two of the crew were killed.

Three survivors were a mother and father and their infant child. Crying for help, they rushed their bleeding baby to aid.

Plane Trembles

"The plane trembled and shook and I knew we were in real trouble and then — bango!" said Ernst Ohnell, jr., of Scarsdale, N. Y.

Ohnell, suffering only from shock, said: "The plane was in good shape when it left New York and Washington. Twenty minutes before the accident we were cruising along very comfortably.

"Then passengers were alerted that something was wrong with the number four outboard engine and that we would change planes at Dallas for the trip on to Mexico City. I was in a seat near the rear door.

"Over Love field we came in for a landing. One engine was out. Suddenly the plane trembled and shook. The engines roared as though the pilot were trying to take it off again and had decided not to land.

"I knew we were in real trouble. Then, bango — we hit.

Terrific Confusion

"There was terrific confusion, and an explosion. I hardly remember anything about that terrible explosion. I finally got my seat belt unfastened. I looked around at the emergency door and a man was opening it. He went out and then two other men went out and so did I. Flames were billowing up from the wing on the other side of the plane. Just as I got through, another man came through the door and got stuck in it. I pulled him out. I ran down the wing and jumped to the ground.

One wing of the airliner, with two crumpled engines, held together. It lay against the side of the Magnaflux plant. The other wing was a black stub with the burned out shell on one engine. The fourth engine tore loose as the flaming plane swept cross the top of the Dallas Aviation school.

Spectator's Break Through

Hundreds of spectators burst through an area blockade of police and state patrolem. Ropes held them away from the tragic scene. Fire blazed more than an hour. Then firemen toiled over the blackened, twisted fuselage, wet and glistening in the glare of portable floodlights.

Fire loss tho three buildings set aflame by the plane was estimated at $90,000 by the fire marshal's office. The Dallas Aviation school. A total loss, was estimated at $55,000. Air associates counted $8,000 loss to its building and $10,000 to contents. Magnaflux corporation, where the plane finally came to rest, estimated $5,000 building loss and $12,000 loss to contents.

Lewis Again Cancels Policy Board Meeting

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (INS)—A meeting of the United Mine workers policy board was suddenly postponed today for the second time and rescheduled for tomorrow just a few hours before a strike of 400,000 soft coal miners may be resumed.

Mine Chief John L. Lewis called off today's meeting less than an hour and a half before it was scheduled to take place in New York at 4 p.m. Tomorrow's meeting is scheduled for the same hour.

Today's meeting was to have been in place of one originally set for 3 p.m. yesterday. That meeting was postponed until today on even less notice. Both postponements apparently caught the members of the policy board by surprise.

Both postponements were announced by a spokesman of the UMW in New York "without explanation."

Tomorrow's meeting, if held, is scheduled to convene just eight hours before the truce that returned the miners to the pits three weeks ago will end.

If the miners again quit their jobs the union faces possible government intervention.

Commerce Secretary To Urge Slash In U.S. Excise Taxes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (INS)—Secretary of Commerce Sawyer said today he is convinced that excise taxes must be reduced and that he will recommend this to President Truman who repeatedly has declared his opposition to any tax slash at this time.

Mr. Truman indicated earlier this month that he will ask Congress in January for a $5.5 billion tax increase. Previously, the President has made it clear that he believes excise tax rates should be maintained at present levels.

Sawyer told the National Press club that a four-months "grass roots" tour of 15,000 miles has shown him there is "no doubt about the need for relief of the small businessman if he is to survive."

which could not be avoided. She said further that no remodeling plan could convert the building, completed 24 years ago, into a satisfactory library. Others of the library board concurred in these opinions.

The property is for sale because the Broadway church is building a new edifice further out on Broadway.

A $500,000 bond issue for a library was voted in the city in 1947. The bonds have never been sold and the entire sum still is available for the project.

City Commission Acts To Bring Ten Major Areas Inside City

Mayor Opposes Westchester Action

Mayor Rodgers said that, if required to vote, he would feel compelled to vote against the Westchester extension "because all the information to the commission indicates the majority of the residents of that area are opposed to annexation."

The mayor amplified his position after the meeting.

"Actually, I would like to see Westchester become a part of the city," he remarked. "I am not greatly interested in the additional taxes they would bring to the city. I am interested in the leadership which could be enlisted from the residents of that area in matters of concern to the future of Lubbock. I feel they could render a much greater civic service as citizens of the city than is possible as long as they remain outside."

Crowd Overflows Hall

The hearings attracted a crowd said by Mayor Rodgers to be the largest ever to assemble in the city hall. It overflowed the second floor hallway, down the stairways and the first floor lobby.

The attendance far exceeded the capacity of the small city hall council chamber, but the hearings had to be conducted there because the auditorium of the adjoining American Legion home was filled with Christmas trees. So hearings on each of the proposed annexations were conducted separately. Only those interested in particular areas were admitted to the council chamber during the hearing on that proposed annexation. The capacity of the chamber was taxed several times in accommodating interested groups.

Opposition Is Negligible

Opposition was negligible to most of the proposed extensions which were approved.

No one at all appeared for or against the No. 3 annexation, which includes the Seiber addition.

Appearing for the No. 1 annexation, in North Lubbock, were J. W. Cook, Herbert Williams and Ralph S. Thomas. C. N. Land was more lukewarm to the proposition, but said he was willing to go along with the majority. City Manager Steve Matthews said 73 of 103 residents of the area had signed petitions requesting annexation.

A large delegation appeared for the hearing on the No. 2 East Lubbock extension, including J. E. Hamilton, W. M. Jackson, C. R. Rodgers, S. W. Morrison, H. H. Smith, J. B. Strawn and Pierce Winn. The city manager said 129 of 496 residents had signed annexation petitions.

No. 4 Group Packs Chamber

The council chamber was packed for the hearing on the No. 4 Southeast Lubbock addition. In a showing of hands, only two of the 38 people in the room indicated they favored annexation. W. L. Joosten, sr., was the chief spokesman for the opponents.

C. B. Berry was the chief spokesman in favor of annexing the No. 4-A southeast Lubbock area. About a dozen residents of that area were present, and apparently were unanimous in their desire to be brought inside the city limits.

Support was almost equally strong for the No. 5 South Lubbock addition. Mrs. George W. Wortman and Mrs. W. T. Rogers were among the spokesmen for the extension.

Stubbs Opposes Annexation

R. Q. Stubbs, who blocked an extension of the city limits several weeks ago, was the chief opponent to the annexation of the No. 6 South Lubbock annexation. J. H. Alldridge, E. C. St. Clair, J. W. Davis and Jim Davis spoke in favor of it.

Only Floyd Halbert, C. A. Shelton and S. H. Garrison appeared for the hearing on the No. 7 South Lubbock addition. Halbert favored it. Shelton and Garrison did not oppose it aggressively. The city manager said that, although only 56 residences are in the area, 83 persons signed petitions requesting annexation.

The council chamber was packed to capacity by those present for the hearing on No. 8, Southwest Lubbock. Among about 40 present, 37 indicated by a showing of hands that they favored annexation. Spokesmen for the group included Mrs. H. C. Sanders and Miss Marie Gooch.

Appearing for the No. 9 West Lubbock extension were Leete Jackson, Arch Lamb, George B. Long and J. D. Hord. M. H. Day opposed it.

Westchester Group Large

Another near-capacity audience was present for the hearing on No. 9-A, the so-called Westchester area.

W. G. McMillan, a former city commissioner and a contractor, was spokesmen for the group. He presented petitions signed, he said, by 92 per cent of the residents of the area who are agreeable, conditionally, to annexation.

One petition bearing 22 signatures required guarantees that the city would start "immediate" construction of water, sewage and other facilities to serve that area. Another petition, signed by 101 persons, said their approval of annexation was conditional upon assurance by the commission that utility services would be provided within three years.

The members of the commission promptly and unanimously made clear they would not approve any such conditions. The mayor declared that Westchester residents would not be given preferential treatment over any other portion of the city "as long as I can prevent it."

Bond Issue Needed

The mayor also pointed out that the provision of water, sewage and other services to the areas proposed for annexation will require a large bond issue—estimated by the city manager and R. L. Oldham, city director of public works, at about $6,000,000. There's no other way to get the money, he said.

"We'll need a lot of help to put such a bond issue over, and we could use you," the mayor commented, addressing the Westchester group.

"I'm going to do everything I can to help Lubbock whether I'm inside the city limits or out," McMillan replied.

The attitude of the great majority of the delegation appeared to be that, while they would prefer to remain outside the city limits, they would not protest annexation too vigorously.

No one appeared for the hearing on the No. 10 Northwest Lubbock annexation, which already has been approved on first reading.

Two Readings Required

Two readings are required to enact an annexation ordinance. The second readings on those discussed Tuesday are scheduled for the regular meeting of the commission on Dec. 8. If approved then, 10 days must elapse before the ordinances go into effect.

Members of the commission agreed that zoning will not be allowed to interfere with the completion of any construction which may be in progress in any of the annexed areas on or before Dec. 31.

City officials estimated that the areas approved for annexation will add about six square miles to the city, increasing the territorial area of Lubbock to about 17 square miles.

Officials also said that, by actual count, 2,299 residences are in the approved additions, many of them multiple-unit dwellings, with practically no vacancies.

Border Olympics Will Be Held In Laredo Again, March 10-11

LAREDO, Nov. 29. (AP) — The 18th Annual Border Olympics will be staged here March 10-11, it was announced today.

Director R. W. Parker said competition will be for four classes —university, college, junior college and freshman. A high school division is usually included.

School Board

ly since construction on the Modern Manors project was begun.

It and numbers of small-homes developments in the immediate area are expected to increase the enrollments of the Lubbock schools considerably. Hence, the new school in that vicinity to take care of the influx.

Jackson said last night that the land is now under contract. The deal will be closed subject to title specifications.

Routine business occupied the board at last night's meeting, including the election of several teachers to fill existing vacancies caused by resignations of other faculty members.

Arthur H. Smith was named principal of the George R. Bean elementary school to finish the remainder of the 1949-50 school year. He will succeed the late Cary Mathis in that post. The appointment is for the balance of the current school year only.

New Teachers Elected

Election of the following new teachers was approved:

Mrs. Alphaleta Healer, Carroll Thompson Junior High school; Cyrus E. Todd, George R. Bean elementary school; and Mrs. Sybil S. Todd, George M. Hunt elementary school.

The following faculty resignations were accepted:

Mrs. Alice M. Mizell, Carroll Thompson Junior High school; and Mrs. Marion Lee Rowe, Hunt school.

The school board also approved plans for paving certain parking areas around the M. C. Overton elementary school and J. T. Hutchinson Junior High school.

Those attending last night's meeting were Clyde G. Tatum, president of the board, Ruel Martin, G. C. Dowell, Wm. H. Evans, Dr. M. M. Ewing, Glenn Woody, Don Jones, Supt. R. W. Matthews, and A. C. Jackson, business manager.

Enterprising Youths Develop New Entry To Football Game

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 29 (U.P.)—Here's private enterprise, junior size.

The day of the football game, two small boys stood outside the main gate of Ohio stadium, counting their money. They had just 20 cents between them.

Having decided that crawling over the fence was beneath their dignity, the old of the two hit on a plan.

With the 20 cents he bought four copies of the Columbus Citizen football special at five cents a copy. He gave two of them to his buddy. Then holding one paper over his arm and waving the other in his hand, he strode up to the gate.

"Get your fotball lineup! Name of each and every player!" he shouted. The gateman, evidently thinking newsboys were to be admitted free, let him pass, with his friend right behind him.

Once inside the stadium, they quickly sold the paper and watched the game still with 20 cents in their pockets.

New Development Removes Potato Cooking Guesswork

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 29 (U.P.)—Maybe the housewife will have to gripe no longer because potatoes fall apart when boiled or become hard as rocks when baked.

A new, accurate method of weight separation has been developed at the Cornell university agricultural experiment station to enable grocers to offer package potatoes for one of three specific purposes: boiling, frying or baking.

The method is the result of more than 10 years of research by Prof. Ora Smith. It involves the use of two tubs of salt water solution adjusted for density to the particular type of potato.

Mealy potatoes, best for baking, have the highest specific gravity and sink in the salt solution, Smith said, while the lighter boilers and fryers float.

Consumer reaction is being tested in two local stores.

Emma, Pet Housefly, Survives On Own As Family Takes Trip

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 29 (U.P.) — A common house fly, turned into a pet at the home of the Elmer H. Baumgartens, created a problem when the family wanted to take a trip.

The Baumgartens were afraid their pet, Emma, would starve while they were away, or seek another home.

They finally put some sugar in a bottle cap filled with water and took their trip. Emma greeted them, hale and hearty, when they returned.

NEWS BRIEFS

James Kinder, 23-year-old Lubbock man who was charged recently with liquor law violation, Tuesday reversed an earlier plea and entered a plea of guilty in the county court of Judge Walter Davies. He was fined $200 and costs. Kinder was taken into custody after he allegedly attempted, "by mistake," to sell a bottle of whisky to a city patrolman, Ira Scott.

County Judge Walter Davies Tuesday fined A. G. Graves $1 and court costs on a check law violation charge, a judgment showed.

Mrs. Carl Case, 60, of Muleshoe, is confined to her bed with a serious heart ailment, relatives reported. Her daughter, Mrs. J. G. Wilhite, jr., of Pittsburgh, Pa., has been called to her bedside. Mrs. Case is a long-time resident of Muleshoe.

Felix Gonzales, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cristoval Gonzalez of San Angelo, remained under observation last night at St. Mary's hospital where he was taken about 9 a. m. Tuesday after he had fallen from a moving car near Lubbock. The boy was treated for multiple contusions and abrasions of the head and face.

restrictions apply to all aspects of test preparations, including the time of the tests."

Quesada during World War II headed the Ninth Tactical Air Command after serving as deputy commander of the Northwest African Coastal Air Force.

The AEC, in preparation for the new tests, recently announced a contract with Holmes and Narver, Los Angeles engineering firm, for "maintenance and improvement of facilities at the Eniwetok proving ground."

Loper, a native of Norcatur, Kans., took part in the Marianas and Okinawa campaigns during the war, and was in charge of training and supply for 60,000 Army engineering troops operating in the Pacific. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal.

Hill was born in Fort Worth. He served on the staff of the Pacific fleet commanders in chief throughout the last war, and was awarded the Legion of Merit.

Tech To Play In Bowl

ed out earlier that there was no agreement between the Border Conference and the Sun Bowl. The conference champion always was extended the bid, but there was no moral obligation to the champion to attend. Although Sun Bowl officials had tried to force the Border loop to sign an agreement to send the champion, the conference resisted every attempt.

To Resume Drills Dec. 15

Coach Dell Morgan announced that football practice would be resumed Dec. 15, with intensive work starting Dec. 20. Players will be given two days off at Christmas.

When the squad will leave for Fresno is not known at this time. Tech officials are studying various transportation routes and means of travel. It will be either by plane or by train.

The enthusiasm in Fresno apparently was equalled by Lubbock counterpoints. Football players, coaches, officials and students generally were enthusiastic about the opportunity for the Raiders to close the year in a bowl game.

According to the records, it should be a close battle. San Jose State's Spartans lost four games, all to larger opponents, while Texas Tech had an identical record.

The Spartans won eight games, including a 40-13 licking of St. Mary's, while the Raiders won seven games, including a 15-0 trouncing of Tulsa, later conquerors of Villanova.

Fresno is located in the heart of the San Joaquin valley at the geographical center of the state. It is the Fresno County seat and has a population of over 70,000. The surrounding country is rich and fertile, with grain and fruits the chief occupations, although there are also flour and lumber mills, machine shops and factories. Oil also is abundant. The city was incorporated in 1885 and is the trading and shipping point for a large area.

The mean temperature is 63 degrees, with temperatures in the summer reaching as high as 115 degrees. Frost is not unknown in winter, but is rare.

SUN BOWL TAKES STAND ON FUTURE INVITATIONS

EL PASO, Nov. 29. (AP)—Sponsors of the Sun Bowl decided today they'll no longer be obligated to invite the Border conference champion to the annual post-season football game.

The Sun Carnival executive committee unanimously passed a resolution dissolving the agreement. C. D. Belding, vice president in charge of team selections, offered the resolution.

Belding pointed out that three times in the past four years the conference champion has turned down the Sun Bowl bid, and two of these times accepted bids to other bowls.

Texas Tech rejected the bid both this year and last year. This year they accepted a bid to the Fresno, Calif., Raisin bowl. In 1946 Hardin-Simmons turned down the bid in favor of the Alamo bowl in San Antonio.

The agreement to invite the Border champion as host does not obligate the champion to accept.

Texas Western college of El Paso accepted the Sun Bowl bid, to play Georgetown university after Texas Tech turned it down and accepted the Raisin Bowl bid. Texas Western previously had rejected a bid to the Raisin Bowl.

Cominform Blast

before the assembly for ratification.

The rival Soviet resolution condemns Britain and the U. S. on grounds they are building up to war and then turn around and urges them to agree to a new peace pact among the big five.

Vishinsky Starts Debate

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky started the final round in the assembly on his so-called peace plan which already had been rejected by the political committee. He recited a long history of what he called the Soviet struggle for peace. Then he struck at the U. S. and Britain with old charges and wound up by saying military and civilian leaders in the U.S. are engaged in a "thorough, business-like American way" of preparing for war.

Austin, obviously aroused, strode to the rostrum. He told the assembly the Russians have not co-operated with the rest of the world and that a new peace pact would be hampered by the same old story of non-co-operation. Then he said, especially to the Soviet delegation:

"Live and let live. Replace sweeping propaganda gestures with earnest effort to settle outstanding difficulties. Recognize the common interest and negotiate in a spirit of adjustment and accommodation. Admit the possibility of sincerity on the part of a dissenter and seek a common understanding. Act in good faith to fulfill existing agreements before making new promises. Do these things and fear and tension will be removed. Do these things and many doors to peaceful progress will be opened."

Austin mentioned the Cominform in his speech but not in connection with its most recent blast at Tito. He said never before has the Cominform so completely isolated itself from the rest of the world and he stated this only in the hope that recognition of the situation will persuade the Soviet government to seek to end this self-imposed isolation. He said a common desire for peace should unite everyone.

unidentified hitchhiker were killed when their car skidded off an icy road and plunged into the Similkameen river near Princeton. Two others in the car, Lloyd Richards and Donald R. Wilde, fought their way out of the partly-submerged vehicle.

Storm delayed dispatches told or rails and roads still blocked in the interior of British Columbia by slides of rock and mud brought down under torrential rains and winds up to 86 miles in gusts.

A locomotive and mail car of the Canadian Pacific's Vancouver-bound Kettle Valley Express were derailed near Penticton, B.C., Tuesday.

Four passenger cars remained upright and no one was injured.

The mail car toppled and slid 30 feet down an embankment, stopping short of Penticton lake. A flood-bogged roadbed was blamed for the accident.

Some 200 passengers stranded since Saturday aboard the eastbound Canadian National railway trin were rescued and flown back to Vancouver by Trans-Canada Airline planes.

In northwest Washington, dikes manned by 600 workers held flood damage down as the rivers receded.

An estimated 125 homes received some flood damage. Approximately 25 families who were evacuated had returned to mud-filled homes.

Hungary expects soon to export carbon dioxide produced from natural gas.

directing its defense. Acting President Li Tsung-Jen, who has clashed with Chiang repeatedly over civil war strategy, was reported planning to leave Hong Kong for the United States for "personal reasons." The State department in Washington announced the trip has been authorized.

Nationalist headquarters at Taipeh, Formosa — Chiang's island fortress—said Communist troops reached the south bank of the Yangtze river opposite Chungking this morning. It said the spearhead had been thrown back by crack troops rushed from northern Szechwan.

But passengers on the "last plane" out of Chungking told reporters here the Reds had moved in close enough to level rifle fire at their loading chartered Chinese transport. None was injured. Luggage and some passengers were left behind in the rush to get away.

Plane crewmen, shuttling government officials from Chungking to Chengtu, said they saw numerous columns of fleeing Nationalist troops on the highway between the two cities during the past three days. More than 100 evacuees were airlifted from Chungking to Hong Kong by four planes today.

Associated Press correspondent Spencer Moosa, in perhaps his final Chungking dispatch, said gunfire could be heard across the Yangtze to the south. It was rumored, he said, the Communists would bypass the city and come into Chungking later in the week.

Moosa relayed another report that there were still two divisions of government troops to be withdrawn tonight. After that, it was said, a telephone message will invite the Reds to come in. A peaceful turnover is expected.

Education Board Fills Top Posts

Group To Name Commissioner

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 29.—R. B. (Bob) Anderson of Vernon and Thomas B. Ramey of Tyler became chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, of the newly-formed 21-member State Board of Education.

Both men were elected by acclamation.

The board, first in Texas history to be elected by popular vote, authorized Anderson to appoint a committee to consider all persons eligible for the job of commissioner of education. The committee would assemble facts but make no recommendations.

Senate Okay Needed

The commissioner, to be appointed by the board subject to Senate confirmation, will replace the elective state superintendent of education, Dr. L. A. Woods.

Anderson, the board chairman, is manager of the vast W. T. Waggoner estate located near Vernon and is president of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil association.

He is a former state representative, former assistant attorney general, former professor of law at the University of Texas and state tax commissioner. He helped establish the state's first unemployment commission, now the Texas Employment commission. He is married and has two sons, Dick, 13, and Jerry, 9.

Civic Participation Cited

Ramey, the vice-chairman, is a prominent Tyler attorney, has participated in many civic activities of that city and has served on the local school board.

Accepting the job as head of the board, Anderson told members:

"Each of us has assumed one of the most significant jobs in the last decade. The efficiency with which we operate will to a large extent determine whether we give the people of Texas a full educational dollar's worth for the money spent.

"There must be nothing left undone to make the educational system of Texas progressive, alive to the times, capable of offering opportunity to all."

Cecil A. Morgan of Fort Worth offered the motion calling for appointment of a five-man committee to consider qualifications of prospective candidates for the post of education commissioner.

Mrs. Joe A. Wessendorf of Richmond endorsed the motion noting that "already you and I are being contacted by people who are interested in this position. I think we should name a committee to receive their applications."

A deadline of Jan. 2 was set for Anderson to name the committee. Board members indicated they would not rush their decision.

Woman Killed In Auto Bomb Blast

By BOB JOHNSON, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

DALLAS, Nov. 29. — Underworld enemies tried today for the fourth time to kill gambler Herbert Noble. They got his wife instead, with a bomb wired to the starter of Noble's car.

The attempt against the 40-year-old gambler misfired because Noble had decided to use his wife's car, instead of his own, for a trip to Fort Worth.

Mildred Noble got into the car about 8 a.m. She pressed the starter. The explosion shattered the automobile and hurled her 10 feet, crushing her face and blowing off one foot.

Husband Notified

Police contacted Noble in Fort Worth. "Is she dead?" he asked.

He came back to Dallas and moped in the backyard of his stone home in the Oak Cliff section. He wouldn't talk to reporters.

Homicide Capt. Will Fritz said he was not ready to make a statement about the case. He said Noble, stunned and furious, was not yet able to talk to investigators.

Unidentified men wounded Noble in a running gunfight on a country road Sept. 8. He had been wounded in two previous fights.

Apparently no one saw the actual explosion. Nearby workmen said pieces of metal flew high into the air. One fragment landed in a sand pile two blocks away.

Windows Broken

The blast broke windows in the house, and bits of metal drilled through pine paneling in the front outside wall.

The twisted, blackened frame of the car remained upright in front of the house. Dangling wires showed where the explosives had been wired to the starter.

Neighbors wouldn't look at Mrs. Noble's sheet-covered body to identify her. "She was just the prettiest, sweetest woman," said one.

But next-door neighbors said they scarcely knew her. The Nobles lived most of the time on a ranch near Grapevine in adjoining Tarrant county.

Justice of the Peace W. E. (Bill) Richburg said he believed both dynamite and nitroglycerine were used to make the bomb. "All you can say about it is somebody wired up the car for Herbert and

Texas May Receive Federal Aid Funds

Hopes Boosted For Road Improvements

AUSTIN, Nov. 29.—Hopes for early improvement in numerous Texas highways under the new federal aid primary program appeared bright at a public hearing of the State Highway commission today.

Among projects the commission indicated may come under the program are widening of dangerous U. S. highway 90 from Edna to Foster Field, a wider bridge over the east fork of the Devil's river at Sonora on U. S. 277, a railroad underpass for Amarillo on U. S. 287, and reconstruction of U. S. 69 from Mineola via Golden to Alba.

(By The Associated Press)

Approval Expected Soon

Approval of the new federal aid program is expected within a few months, commissioners told delegations at the hearing.

The new funds were viewed by the commission, however, as affording little hope for requested improvement in U. S. highway 60 across the Panhandle.

A delegation headed by Guy Saunders of Amarillo was told that traffic count on the highway does not justify expenditure of from $2,000,000 to $8,000,000 to widen a 100-mile stretch from 18 feet to 24 feet.

The delegation argued that Oklahoma had widened its portion of the highway to the Texas border to 30 feet and that New Mexico had improved the link to the west. Commission study was promised.

A delegation asked improvement of the Edna to Foster Field highway to cut down on accidents and deaths resulting from heavy fogs and narrowness of the road. Highway commission Chairman Fred Wemple told the delegation that it could be more optimistic in its hopes of getting the $1,200,000 project under the federal aid program. It was promised commission study.

A Bell county delegation headed by Temple attorney John Daniel was told that proposed location of the new U. S. highway 81 routing through Troy might be changed without jeopardizing the project. Daniel told the commission that an alternate location would be less expensive by not requiring moving of as many buildings.

Possible Change Okayed

Wemple told Daniel that the county commissioners court had the prerogative to designate the right of way and might change it.

County Judge J. B. Salmon of Kermit asked for commission attention to a proposed straight route from Kermit in Winkler county to Mentone in Loving county. He said it would cut 43 miles

Refining Firm Told To Cease Discrimination In Oil Buying

AUSTIN, Nov. 29. (AP)—Crude oil purchases by the Coltex Refining Co., without discrimination between fields and producers in west Texas was ordered today by the Railroad commission.

The commission directed that Coltex make ratable and proportionate purchases from oil fields in Glasscock, Howard, Mitchell and Scurry counties.

The order followed a hearing here Oct. 25 at which the commission found that Coltex was a "common purchaser" under Texas law. The commission found that practically all the wells to which Coltex is connected in the Howard Glasscock, Iatan East Howard, Iatan North Howard, Westbrook and Snyder fields are marginal producers and that discriminatory takings "will cause premature abandonment of wells in the area or areas discriminated against."

SCHOOL SURVEY

Risks To Avoid

THE National Education association is seeking the "widest possible publicity for information recently compiled relating to conditions in public schools of the nation as of last October.

Among the findings of the survey were these: About 10 per cent of the teachers—90,000 out of 900,000—held temporary or emergency certificates; 7,941 teaching positions were unfilled; shortages of rural teachers were reported in 45 states and of urban elementary teachers in 37 states, about 250,000 children attended part-time sessions, 1,000,000 were enrolled in temporary or obsolete buildings, and 4,000,000 received instructions in rooms which, by NEA standards, were over-crowded.

The NEA cites these conditions in support of a $300,000,000 federal school aid program when Congress reconvenes in January. The Senate approved such a program last Summer, but the House blocked it.

No one is likely to deny that public schools of the nation could be improved. That probably will always be true. But there is nothing to indicate they are in a condition so deplorable that they should be surrendered to the federal government for correction.

On the contrary, the NEA findings indicate most states and localities are doing an astonishingly good job of providing for public school needs. According to the NEA's own figures, 90 per cent of the teachers have better than temporary or emergency certificates. Only 7,941 teaching positions remained vacant last October—conclusive proof that teacher shortages could not be very acute in many places.

As to over-crowding, most localities are attending to this need just as Lubbock is doing. They are providing them as fast as they can—which, undoubtedly, is much faster than if they had to get Washington's approval before erecting or enlarging their school buildings. They will run the serious risk of having to obtain such approvals if they ever are forced to depend upon Washington for a substantial part of their finances.

Public schools as a whole are getting along too well as they are to justify any such risk as that.

Amusing Prospect

THE workings of the mind of the individual bitten by the political bug often are strangely defiant of realism and logic. An individual so infected gets a few inquiries as to whether he may seek a particular office. He promptly concludes that the masses of the people are clamoring for him to become a candidate.

Appropriate to this pattern, former Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel said the other day that his mail is "heavy" with pleas that he run for President. It would be difficult to think of anyone who would have less chance of election to that office. Yet, strange enough, Mr. O'Daniel appears to be considering the possibility seriously. It would not be surprising if he should announce as a presidential candidate in 1952.

That certainly would be his right. As a matter of fact, the idea of "O'Daniel for President" has its appealing possibilities. It would supply the clownish touch which would be amusingly appropriate in the quadrennial presidential election circus.

The necessity for a second fireman on the Diesel locomotive may be due to the fact that the first fireman has so much nothing to do he needs some one to help him do it.

It is rather strange that with reference to preventing another World War no one has yet suggested outlawing the human race.

As the housing shortage is still acute, ever since the unsuccessful search was made for Noah's Ark we have been expecting an expedition to set out to try to find the shoe in which lived the old woman who had so many children she didn't know what to do.

The Cameo

By VIRGINIA TEALE
Distributed By NEA, Inc.

(THE STORY: Martin Falter has been murdered and the motive is connected with a valuable cameo which he was trying to sell. Hagar Blair, gift shop owner, found the man murdered and her assistant, Stephanie Smith, comes on the scene soon afterwards. When they go to Hagar's house, they find the cameo in Hagar's collection. Later Andrey Yakov, who also has reasons for wanting the cameo, calls on Hagar and suggests that Hagar committed the crime. Meanwhile, Tom O'Neill, whose wife, Nell, owned the cameo, reports the murder to police. The O'Neills are questioned by Chief Peters and Charlie Reddy, a young lawyer who is the chief's assistant. Tom and Martin Falter had had an argument in public the day before.)

XV

AS Tom and Nell O'Neill left the police station, they almost collided with a tall man in a gray suit who was waiting to enter. They exchanged apologies and the newcomer strolled up to the chief's desk.

"Chief Peters? My name is Trotter, Lansing Trotter." He took a slim black leather folder from his inside pocket, opened it and extended it to Peters. Chief Peters inspected the folder and shook hands.

"What brings you to our little town, Inspector Trotter?"

The visitor brought out his pipe and filled it while he answered. "Just between us," he specified, lighting his pipe with one match and four short puffs, "I was sent up from San Diego to dig around on a little matter that has connections here. Enjoying myself at the same time. Just when everything was getting along nicely, one of my characters up and gets himself murdered, which means my dawdling days are over."

Charlie Reddy leaned forward attentively: "You mean Martin Falter, of course, sir?"

"Martin Falter, of course." He blew a rounded puff of fragrant smoke. "Ladies man, confidence man, blackmailer and self-styled artist."

Peters and Reddy tensed, the word came from both:

"Blackmailer?"

Trotter passed his briar back and forth under his nose:

"Served time for it early in his career. Specialty was rich old ladies who longed for the rejuvenating effect of one last fling."

Peters' fat face crumpled humorously, "Now that you mention it, I've heard a few stories." He turned to Reddy: "Remember the whirl he gave that old dame at the Inn—the one from Minneapolis?"

"He had a pretty good modus operandi," explained Trotter. "He'd get the affair going at white heat, then take off on a 'short business trip.' While he was gone, he'd receive purple letters from the lady. Then he'd save the letters until such time as it would be profitable to wave them threateningly under the poor creature's nose. He made quite a good living that way."

Reddy looked puzzled. "Hope this isn't out of order, sir, but I didn't know the bureau concerned itself with blackmail, as such."

"As such, we don't. But one of Falter's little coups—he was known as Michael Frazier, then, by the way—almost became an international incident. The lady in the play was the wife of a South American consul who eventually got wind of the routine and made a big to-do at the State Department. That happened 13 years ago." He paused to re-light his pipe. "And under the heading of History Repeats Itself, this current affair seems to have a foreign root or two. The country involved is one with which we want the least possible trouble at the present time."

"I don't need to tell you," the chief pronounced, "that all our facilities are at your disposal."

TROTTER bowed his appreciation. "I think the best tack at the moment is to proceed separately. I'll amble around, pick up what I can, sub rosa. We'll exchange information—Okay, Chief Peters?"

"Fine with me," the chief agreed. "Reddy and I already have started interviewing suspects. We began with Nell and Tom O'Neill. They found the body this morning. This afternoon, Reddy and I'll see what we can find out from Hagar Blair—a harp old character who runs a shop in town. We'll also question a Miss Smith, who lives with her and helps out in the store. Miss Smith is a hot one—in connection with the murder, I mean. Cab driver in town left her at Falter's place about 8 o'clock."

Trotter raised his eyebrows: "Miss Smith, eh? Mind if I follow that up, too, Peters?"

"Not at all. Shop where she works is around on Ocean Highway, across the alley from the Globe garage. Three Wishes Gift Shop, it's called. Watch your step with Hagar Blair, though, she's balky as a mule and twice as smart."

"Thanks." Trotter shook hands as he left. "I'm at the inn, if you want to reach me."

THERE was a lengthy silence in the police chief's office as the two occupants mulled over the happenings of the last few hours.

Reddy brought out a small notebook, scribbled in it and returned it to his coat. The chief drummed his fat fingers on his desk: "Any opinions, Reddy?"

Reddy replied: "I've started a list of suspects; it starts with Stephanie Smith's name and the O'Neills. None of them sounds like a hot prospect to me, though."

"Me, either," the chief admitted. "Way I look at it, Tom hasn't got the guts, and his wife wouldn't give enough of a damn about anything, flesh, fish or fowl, to kill it. And the Smith girl's unlikely, because Falter didn't fool around with young stuff."

Reddy folded his notebook. "How about going back up to Falter's right now, and taking another look around?"

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

PERMIT me to tell you just a little more about that luncheon in honor of Arthur (Bugs) Baer with [illegible] I dealt in yesterday's column.

BRANDEIS

As I told you, the affair was in honor of his third tieth anniversary as a "laugh" columnist. The Banshees, a famous club of men prominent in the arts, professions and in business, awarded him their annual silver statue called "The Lady," which is to the newspaper world what Hollywood's "Oscar" is to the movies.

With tears in his eyes "Bugs," who had made so many others laugh, delivered his little acceptance speech.

There was, of course, the usual "I don't deserve this honor"—and then two observations that I want to convey to you—because they apply to every business, every job, every life, in which an amount of success has been attained.

"Bugs" could not deny that he IS successful.

But he said: "Success can become monotonous and burdensome, too, just like failure.

"Too many people who have become successful are liable to become complacent and to let down.

"The success of today may well become the Failure of tomorrow. Success has to be re-won every day. It can never rest on its laurels."

That observation made a deep impression on every one of his audience.

Being sucessful men themselves they realized how hard it is to win success and how much harder it is to stay successful.

Success is an endless battle, a battle that is never finished. It is as perishable as the most perishable food.

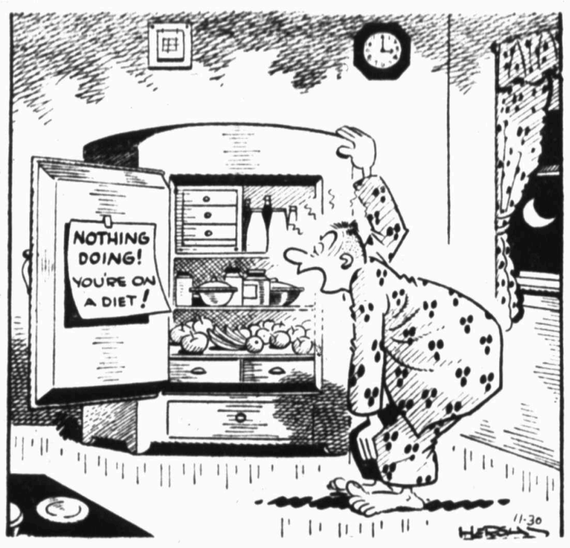

You yourself know people who have been considered successes. Perhaps you envied them. Perhaps you wished you were like them.

Where are they today? What have they done to perpetuate their success?

How many of them have succumbed to the "monotony of success" and become self-satisfied, complacent and swol-

IN DEFEATING DEMOS

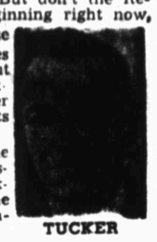

GOP Faces Tough Job

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — "You columnists," writes M.R.A. of Columbus, O., "seem to take the fatalistic position that the Republican Party has no chance in 1952 because it cannot compete with the handouts which Mr Truman and the Democrats promise to so many millions of voters—labor, farmers, old folks, veterans etc.

"Maybe you are right. But don't the Republicans realize that, beginning right now, they ought to convince these people that they themselves pay for these benefits out of their own pockets in taxes, high prices and in other ways, and that nobody gets something for nothing?

"I might also mention the fact that there is the prospect of another 1929 crack-up, only worse, and that the only eventual result is national bankrupty?"

TUCKER

UNPOPULAR: Answer: Top Republicans are debating that very question among themselves today, not only at Washington but throughout the country. So are many workers and white-collar people who belong to no particular party.

Their interest in future security is as keen as it that of those who demand more pensions, social security payments, wages, higher farm supports etc.

One G.O.P. faction, represented largely by the Taft group, insists that the party take the logical unpopular side of this issue. They would hammer at the question of eventual economic disaster and national bankruptcy, including the loss of current benefits, until the millions now enjoying them would, as they put it, "come to their senses."

That decision lies behind the recent warnings given by the heads of corporations like General Motors, du Pont, a few government officials, and former members of the Roosevelt Cabinet.

WARNING: "What are you going to do when the money gives out?"

That is the question which this faction of Republicans would ask, and keep on asking until election eve of 1952.

They would point out that eventually there will not be enough money in the treasury to satisfy current claims, not to mention future burdens.

But it is exeremly difficult to simplify and dramatize such an issue. It will also provoke opposition charges that advocates of economy speak for the "selfish interests," "the privileged few," "Wall Street,' etc. Mr. Truman has voiced that indictment many times already, and vows he will continue his demand for expansion of the "welfare state."

I do not see how the Republicans can take any other stand, even if it means several more defeats in national elections. There is one thing sure:—they cannot outpromise their political rivals. And if they did, nobody would believe them.

It is my opinion that this viewpoint—a day-by-day warning against over-spending—will prevail in Republican Councils.

FLOW: "Please tell us," asks R. W. O. of Pampa, Tex., "the course of Marshall Plan aid from this country to the final recipients. Who actually gets it dumped in their laps with no effort whatever on their part? Who gets the gravy? There are bound to be some itching palms along the path of so many billions of expenditures."

Answer: If ever a government agency did a wretched job of publicizing and explaining its operation, it is ECA. My mail is full of letters asking for details of the flow of money and goods abroad. Here, briefly, is how it works.

A farmer in a French town, for instance, needs a tractor to get rid of broken-down Percherons and thereby expand production. He has the money or good credit from sale of his products. He is a skilled producer. He submits his application to the designated French agency.

OBSERVERS: If he qualifies, he gets his tractor. Having no American dollars, he pays in French francs. We supply the tractor. His payments are then turned over, in part, to an American account for things which we may need from France. Or it can be used by France to increase its own production in other fields. That is the theoretical method of using M. P. funds.

This system applies regardless of the article purchased, or whether it be by an individual or a government.

I do not know how much money sticks to "itching palms," but we have accountants and observers to prevent graft or waste. The Republicans will probably look into this question when and if they ever return to power.

But Mr. Truman was smart in naming a Republican, Paul Hoffman, to head the workers, and to see that many members of the same party and anti-Truman Democrats were given key positions in ECA here and abroad.

EXPENDITURES: "You recently said in your column that 80 per cent of government appropritations are for items connected with war," writes C. H. P. of Middletown, N. Y. "If true, isn't it a fact that we now depend on war more than any other activity to keep people employed, factories running and our present prosperity?"

Answer: I would not say that we "depend" on war expenditures for domestic prosperity. That implies that we deliberately wage war for selfish reasons, as frequently charged against all nations.

But the fact is that the $15 billion for national defense, the $7 billion or $8 billion for veterans' activities and the $6 billion for foreign financial and military aid do contribute to our domestic economy. And there is the undeniable historic fact that the 1929-1939 depression was not really licked until first, we began to rearm, and, secondly, we became a party to World War II.

NAVY OFFICIALS HITS PLAN

North China Blockade Opposed

By PETER EDSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—A U. S. blockade of Communist North China ports at this time would be a mistake, says Vice Adm. Oscar C. Badger of the U. S. Navy. Admiral Badger was the last commander of American naval forces in China. He is now in the office of the chief of Naval Operations, Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, as adviser on Chinese affairs to the Department of State and National Defense.

U. S. blockade of Communist China has been demanded by GOP Sen. William F. Knowland of California, now touring the Orient. Admiral Badger does not rule out the possibility of blockading north China at some future time. But just now he can see no point in it and he cites three reasons for this view:

In the first place, he says a blockade isn't needed. The Chinese Nationalist navy announced a blockade of Communist China ports at the end of June. This Chinese navy consists of some 85 vessels, ranging from patrol boats up to destroyers. Most of them came from U. S. Navy surplus and Admiral Badger believes they are perfectly competent to maintain the blockade without U. S. assistance.

Chiang Kai-shek has allocated some $16,000,000 for supply and equipment of this naval force for the next two years, and that is considered enough to buy fuel oil. The Chinese navy crews on the blockade are paid mostly in prize money obtained from the sale of seizures. This gives them an incentive to make the blockade effective.

THE China coast has long been famous for its smugglers. There are hundreds of junks operating along the 2000-mile coastline. But their tonnage is limted and the river ports where they can pick up or discharge cargo of importance are few in number and easily patrolled. Canton, Shanghai and Tientsin are most important.

A second reason for not putting down a U. S. naval blockade is that there is no tonnage of importance to move. A year ago the Nationalist government tried to find $10,000,000 worth of barter goods for export, but could assemble only $1,500,000 worth.

Best estimate today is that only about 25,000 to 30,000 tons of cargo a month have been moving out of Shanghai since the Communists took it over. This is relatively nothing.

After the Nationalists imposed their blockade of north China last summer, Admiral Badger met with American shipping agents in Hong Kong and Shanghai. He advised them and they agreed to stay outside the three-mile limit and respect the blockade.

Since then, two U. S. Victory ships have dropped anchor at Taku Bar, which is 14 miles off Tientsin in north China. They were able to pick up less than 1000 tons of cargo apiece, which was hardly worth their trouble. Aside from this, the only U. S. merchantman to touch north China was the "Flying Cloud," which recently ran the blockade and escaped off Shangahi.

Just What Reds Ordered

For the United States to bolster the Chinese Nationalist blockade would merely be playing into the hands of the Communists, Admiral Badger points out as his third reason for not advocating this policy. An American naval blockade would enable the Communists to make propaganda against the "Yankee imperialists" as enemies of the Chinese people. It would, in effect, be an act of war.

One other question that has been raised is whether the U. S. Navy has enough strength in the Pacific to operate as a Chinese coast guard auxiliary and blockade the whole coastline from Korea to Indo-China.

THE U. S. seventh fleet, based at Subic Bay in the Philippines and at Guam, consists of one cruiser, four destroyers and auxiliaries. Based at Yokosuka, Japan, is the U. S. Far East fleet of the same strength. These are the strengths recommended by Admiral Badger and he says they are enough.

Farther east, based principally at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and Long Beach, Calif., are additionally two Essex-type carriers, two escort carriers, two cruisers, 36 destroyers, 24 subinarines and auxiliaries. Admiral Bauger says these forces could quickly be called for to strengthen the western Pacific fleets, if that became necessary for a blockade later on.

A communist prisoner en route from Devakottah to Tirupathus, India, to jail, on a bus under armed guard, recently was rescued by 25 men who boarded the bus as bona fide passengers, threw chile power into the eyes of the bus driver and constables, and took the prisoner away.

REARMING OF GERMANY DENIED

Military Leaders Okay General Defense Plans For Pact Nations

PARIS, Nov. 29. (AP)—Military chiefs of the 12 nations of the north Atlantic pact agreed today on the board outlines of a defense plan for the area.

No official announcement concerning the work at the series of defense meetings is expected until the plan has been presented Thursday to the 12 defense ministers.

U. S. Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, who arrived for the Thursday meeting, reiterated that there "never was" any plan for rearming western Germany.

War Danger Lessens

He told a news conference in London the danger of war had lessened in recent months "to some extent, but not to the extent that the security of my country does not demand that we be ready for any eventuality at four o'clock in the morning."

In a statement here he said:

"We have no desire or plan to permit the rebuilding of the armed forces of western Germany. We are simply trying to restore the fruits of German efforts and ingenuity to their proper place in the world."

He said the statement was issued "lest any uninformed friend or vicious saboteur seek to spread a notion as to our attitude toward Germany that would divide our common efforts."

Common Stake Noted

He declared the presence of United States Army, Air and Navy forces in Europe "indicates the conviction our of people that we have a common stake in the freedom of western Europe."

A high military source said the defense plan "is complete as far as the technical level is concerned."

"It is an encouraging plan, one designed to make the western world ready to defend itself. I believe its existence will mean there will be no aggression at all."

The plan outlines the respective roles of each nation.

Much was left to technical experts to work out, including the numbers and distribution of divisions of troops and their armaments, allocations of naval strength and the role of strategic bombing.

Actress Moves To La Vegas To Obtain Divorce, Wed Again

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29.—(INS)—Film Actress Vicki Lane was reported today to have established residence in Las Vegas for a divorce from actor Tom Neal so that she can marry baseball player Jim Baxes.

Vicki's divorce from Neal wasn't to be final in California until next August. However, friends of the actress said that she has fallen in love again, hence the Nevada divorce.

The name of Baxes, third baseman for the coast league pennant-winning Hollywood stars, and the actress have been romantically linked for several months.

Santa Cries, Prays For Life Of Firm, Young Believer

BY MEL MEADOWS
INS Staff Correspondent

SEATTLE, Nov. 29.—Santa Claus cried today and prayed, too, for the life of an 8-year-old believer, victim of a brain tumor.

And scores of little boys and girls, clustered about Santa's knee to ask for themselves the wondrous things of Christmas, asked, instead:

"Please, Santa, bring lots of toys for Gerald."

Father Carries Son

Gerald is the son of Clayton Washburn, a despairing Seattle father who bore the partialy paralyzed form of his son to Santa's department store workshop today. Santa was waiting.

He lifted night-clad Gerald up to his ample lap and with the infinite wisdom of St. Nicked handed him a brightly wrapped package.

Gerald, with help, opened it to find:

"A teddy bear, daddy, to take to the hospital. A big wooly bear to talk to me while I'm sick."

Cruel Words Unheard

Gerald, long inured to a world without playmates, thanked Santa, and the boy's eyes were alight with faith not yet shocked by the cruelets word a child can hear:

"There isn't any . . ."

Gerald, carried quickly to the hospital, clutched his Teddy bear.

Not until Gerald had gone did Santa cry. And then he prayed and told the other children what a noted brain surgeon had told Gerald's father:

"Don't hope too much. The chances are not good, even with surgery. Without surgery, Gerald will die in a matter of days."

Boy Clings To Gift

At Swedish hospital, Dr. Paul Flothow let Gerald cling to his gift from Santa until he lost consciousness under an anesthetic.

Then, deftly, the surgeon punctured the little boy's spine, drew out some spinal fluid, replaced it with air. The air coursed to the boy's brain, outlining under X-ray the doctor's worst fear:

A brain tumor.

So, for Gerald:

Wednesday will be Christmas.

Thursday a scalpel will sever his tumor.

Friday? The doctor won't say.

But Santa will pray.

BUGS BAER'S second observation which impressed us all so much at that luncheon was this:

"No matter for whom you work, there is only one boss of whom you have to be afraid. That boss is YOURSELF.

"If you are true to yourself, if you are faithful and loyal to yourself and do, as well as you can, what your conscience and your ability tell you to do, then you can't possibly be a failure."

With so many people shaking in their boots in fear of their bosses, that is mightly good advice.

If you are the least important member of your business family, if your job seems small and unimportant — remember Bugs Baer's words.

YOU alone are your boss. YOU alone can make or break yourself. YOU alone can fire yourself from yourself.

Yes, it was a wonderful luncheon. I can't remember when I had such excellent food—for thought.

SPECIAL PROBLEMS EXIST

Truman Urges Best Efforts Of All To Assure Full Employment

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—President Truman said today it will take the best efforts of all citizens to use the nation's resources in a way that will assure jobs for everyone.

That was the message the President sent to the opening meeting of the Labor department's annual conference of State Labor commissioners and representatives of labor unions.

The group meets each year to review state and federal labor laws and exchange views on how they can be improved.

Tobin Reads Message

Mr. Truman's message, read for him by Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin, said:

"You meet at a time when, despite nearly record levels of employment, special unemployment problems exist in certain areas of the country.

"We need the experience and ingenuity of all our citizens in mobilizing our resources to afford them full opportunity to work—free from the fear of economic insecurity.

"I am sure you will make a constructive contribution to this high purpose."

Social Advances Claimed

The President said the past year was "marked by commendable social progress of all the people through advances in federal and state laws protecting and promoting the well-being of wage-earners."

Mr. Truman noted recent acts of Congress raising the minimum wage from 40 to 75 cents an hour and adding to the functions of the Labor department. He praised "liberal changes in your state laws" on labor.

Delegates to the conference were from 40 states, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics and a Labor department official, told the delegates that non-farm employment has risen about 50 percent from prewar 1939 to 1948. Such employment was 30 million in 1939 and 45 million in 1948.

"During the past decade," Clague said, "the payroll dollars have risen even more spectacularly than employment. Dollars earned by manufacturing production workers were three and a half times as high in 1948 as they had been in 1939.

"The same spectacular increases in dollar payrolls occurred in other industry groups also."

Clague said average weekly earnings of manufacturing workers rose from $23.86 a week in 1939 to $54.14 in 1948, a gain of about 127 per cent.

Clague said that "in virtually all industries, annual earnings more than doubled during the 10-year span," due to increasing year-around employment.

Daniel 'Too Busy' To Consider Politics

AUSTIN, Nov. 29 (U.P.) — Attorney General Price Daniel said today he would not consider any "future politics until after Jan. 1, 1950."

The prepared statement was seen as leaving the way open for Daniel to make any one of several announcements immediately after the first of the year.

He could announce his candidacy for re-election as attorney general, retire from politics, or enter the race for governor.

His recent speech at Fort Worth before the Texas State Teachers association was viewed by some observers as having political overtones.

In that talk, he warned against "weak-kneed Texans" who urged a compromise settlement of the tidelands controversy.

owever, the attorney general explained in his statement, "I meant nothing personal or political in my remarks."

In a two-page statement, Daniel said "my hands and my hours are full trying to do the job to which I have already been elected. I resolved from the beginning, long before Governor Jester died, that I would not neglect my present office by even considering future politics until after Jan. 1, 1950. I am staying by that resolution."

Prior to Jester's death last July, Daniel had been considered a prime contender for the governorship in 1950.

Plane Crash Interrupts Man's Trip To Wife's Funeral Rites

DALLAS, Nov. 29. (U.P.)—A passenger's trip to his wife's funeral at Tucson, Ariz., was interrupted only briefly today when the American airline's plane he was riding crashed in Dallas.

Benjamin Bogish, 58, of New York City, suffered a broken arm in the crack up. But after having the arm placed in a cast, he hired an ambulance to continue his journey westward.

Bogish talked by telephone with funeral home attendants in Tucson and requested that the funeral, scheduled this afternoon, be postponed until his arrival, possibly tomorrow.

Bogish said he was aware the plane was going to crash as it neared Love field. He said, "I just sat there and watched the ground come up.

"My arm snapped but I saw someone (presumably Albert Brody of Brooklyn, N. Y.) kick out the emergency door. I dazedly made my way to the exit as the screams of the injured filled the plane.

"There were gas and oil fumes all over the ship," Bogish continued, "but I did not notice any immediate fire.

"My foot caught as I started through the emergency door, but someone behind me gave me a shove and I popped out onto the wing. Then I stepped to the ground and began running."

Federal Agency Bans Ads Used To Promote Ipana Tooth Paste

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—The government today ordered Bristol-Myers Co., New York, to stop using certain advertising claims for Ipana tooth paste including those about its value in combating "pink tooth brush."

An order issued by the Federal Trade commission said the action resulted from "misrepresentation of the therapeutic value of Ipana tooth paste and of the extent to which it is used or recommended by dentists."

In announcing the decision, FTC said it has dismissed complaints against two New York advertising agencies in connection with the matter. They are Pedlar & Ryan, Inc., and Young & Rubican, Inc., who handled the Bristol-Myers account.

Lubbock Firm Produces 5,000 Storage Batteries Monthly In $100,000 Plant

Here's one Lubbock concern that the Chamber of Commerce should get quite a charge out of, if the gentle reader will pardon a poor pun.

It's the Hot Point Battery company, a $100,000 manufacturing plant that currently is grossing half a million dollars a year in the manufacture of storage batteries.

In producing an average of 5,000 batteries a month, the manufacturing plant provides a sizeable straw in the wind to indicate how Lubbock is rapidly becoming an industrial city.

12 Different Types

Hot plate batteries, in 12 different types and sizes, are now on sale in Texas and New Mexico. The firm makes storage batteries for practically every purpose except marine engines.

The firm is an outgrowth of the Zermac battery manufacturing firm which was established here several years ago.

Officers of the firm are Buster Welch, president, J. F. Anthony, vice president and J. T. Talkington, secretary-treasurer.

The manager is James E. Thompson, a chemist with a long background in the battery business, who arrived in Lubbock Monday to take the helm of the plant as general manager.

Experienced In Work

A member of the American Chemical society and a graduate in chemistry of Monmouth college, Thompson's experience goes back to 1930, when he was employed by the Globe-Union, Inc., testing laboratories for two years. From 1932 until 1936 he had factory training in the actual manufacturing of batteries with the firm. From 1937 until 1942 he was assistant manager of the firm's Memphis, Tenn., plant.

From 1942 until 1944 he was in the research laboratory at the Milwaukee plant doing research work. From 1944 until 1947 he did research work for Ideal Industries, Inc., of Sycamore, Ill., on the recharbeable wet type flashlight battery, and in 1948 he became manager of the Price Battery corporation, Atlanta, Ga.

In October the firm moved into a remodeled building at Sixth and Texas avenue, where 11,000 square feet of floor space permitted considerable enlargement of the assembly lines and manufacturing processes.

The firm is now working on plans for further expansion, to double the present plant output. Along with greatly increased output will naturally follow expansion of distributorships and dealerships and of the territory in which Hot Plate batteries are available.

The manufacturing process actually is an assembly-line fabrication of pre-manufactured parts. Battery cases, insulation and chemicals are purchased, the firm molds and pastes plates, makes its own posts and straps.

One big customer of the firm is the State of Texas. Hot Point has a contract to supply all storage batteries used by the State of Texas.

Dallas 'Love Burglar' Suspect Charged With Raping Housewife

DALLAS, Nov. 29. (U.P.)—Fred Felix Adair, jr., suspected of being Dallas' notorious boudoir bandit, was indicted today on a charge of raping a Vickery housewife last February as her two small children looked on.

The mild-mannered young bookkeeper, father of an 18-month-old daughter, was identified after his arrest last week by a half dozen women as the "love burglar" who molested them in their homes.

The 25-year-old man at first signed a confession, admitting a series of burglaries and attacks during the past year but repudiated the confession after conferring with his pretty wife and his attorney.

Adair was being held in city jail pending further investigation. The office of district attorney Will Wilson has recommended that he be held without bond. It was not known immediately when he would be tried.

A recent Central African census survey shows the African population increasing at the rate of 2.81 per cent, which means it will double every 25 years.

Eyesight tests for drivers, not generally in effect in South Africa, may become a part of the national law, on the advice of the Institute of Trafic Officers

Woman Educator Accuses U. S. Colleges Of Serious Failures

(EDITOR'S NOTE: One of America's leading educators appraises the young college graduate in the following article and finds among them many with cynicism toward their country, skepticism about democracy and a lack of conviction about life and religion.

Such students, says Dean Millicent C. McIntosh of Barnard's Women's college, "fall easy prey to radical teaching" or "become indifferent about their responsibilities as citizens."

Dean McIntosh, herself a mother of five children, says the fault lies often with the colleges and universities and suggests to these institutions steps for aiding the undergraduates in acquiring a wholesome and positive sense of values.)

By MILLICENT C. McINTOSH

(Dean of Barnard College Written Expressly For INS)

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—It seems to me that both men's and women's colleges often produce graduates who are cynical in their attitude toward their own country.

It has become fashionable to be skeptical about democracy, and many college students do not find strong and positive answers to their questionings about the inconsistencies in our democratic picture.

Such students, who may be both sensitive and idealistic, fall easy prey to radical teaching if they are anxious to do something for the world. Others become indifferent about their responsibilities as citizens.

Both Sides Urged

No educational institution can abrogate its right to freedom of discussion and teaching. Nothing can be more important than to present disadvantages as well as advantages of any political system.

On the other hand, the responsibility of departments of history and government to provide a sound basis for patriotic citizenship is one which must be kept constantly in mind. Seminars, conferences, speakers, can be planned and chosen from the point of view of the contribution they can make to giving proper perspective on our American scene. Moreover, I believe that some course should be required of every undergraduate which will provide this perspective.

Many of the best students are encouraged by their professors to do specialized work and to prepare for a profession or research.

Career Thinking Evolves

They become accustomed to thinking of themselves in terms of a career, and unconsciously imbibe the idea that the duties involved in running a home and bringing up a family have less dignity and importance than a job. Such an attitude is summed up by the remark made so often by college graduates, "I am only a housewife."

This group of women, who often feel "frustrated" because their married lives make it impossible for them to fill the specialized role that they have envisaged for themselves during their undergraduate days, presents an important problem to the colleges.

These are the graduates who complain that their education has not prepared them for marriage, and who most loudly criticize the liberal arts curriculum.

Marrige Preparation Given

A liberal arts education, which develops the intellect, cultivates the taste, and trains a person to use her brain effectively, has prepared a person for marriage.

It is not the liberal arts curriculum which has failed, but the "climate of opinion" which has been wrong.

If both teachers and administrators are realistic about the lives women will lead when they marry, and if they understand that a large proportion of their students will marry, undergraduates will be given the proper attitudes toward marriage and motherhood.

Conviction Often Absent

Colleges often fail to produce graduates who have definite convictions about life or a religious faith. It is disturbing that the colleges and universities, many of which were originally founded to train clergymen, have not more definitely recognized their responsibilities in this area.

I believe that a college has definite responsibility for establishing a moral and spiritual climate for its students. It can, first of all, have a top-notch department of religion, preferably one which works closely with the department of philosophy.

Some sort of counselling on the religious level also seems to me very important, so that girls who are troubled by meeting new situations and new ideas may have an opportunity to talk over difficulties with a sympathetic, well-trained person.

Dallas Crash Marks Third Air Tragedy Involving Big Liners

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Nov. 29 (U.P.) — The crash of a DC-6 airliner at Dallas was the third major tragedy involving the big four-engined luxury planes since they went into operation after the war.

In one crash at Bryce Canyon, Utah, on Nov. 24, 1947, a total of 52 persons lost their lives. Evidence showed the plane, operated by United Airlines, had caught fire in flight.

Less than a month later, on Dec. 11, an American Airlines DC-6 was forced to land at Gallup, N.M., when fire ate away a big portion of its fuselage.

Company Advises Halt

After that near-tragedy, Douglas Aircraft Corp., which builds the ships at its big plant here, advised airlines to take the planes out of service until it could be determined what was causing the fires.

Following a full-scale investigation at the plant here, changes were made in the plane's heating systems and in the baggage compartments to eliminate the suspected causes of the fires.

The 96 planes that had been sold to commercial airlines were returned to full service on March 15, 1948. Shortly afterwards, one of the type was used to carry Premier Minister Eamon DeValera of Eire and 50 newsmen around the country.

Dive Extinguishes Fire

The following month, on April 29, another American Airlines DC-6 caught fire and its pilot, Capt. E. S. Swanson, had to dive 3,000 feet to put out the flames in an engine. None of the 52 passengers was injured as the plane landed safely at Cleveland. The fire was blamed on a supercharger propellor that broke free and smashed into the engine.

Six weeks later, on June 18, 1948, a United Airlines DC-6 struck a power line near Mt. Carmel, Pa., and smashed into a hillside, killing its 43 passengers and crewmen.

The DC-6 was the first big commercial plane developed after the war and one of its type is used to transport President Truman on his frequent flights.

The plane has a cruising speed of 300 miles an hour.

British farmers predict that because of poor crops, potatoes will be rationed.

NEW INTERNATIONALS OFFERED—New truck engineering and design providing advances in performance, safety and comfort mark the 87 new L-line basic truck chassis models introduced today by the motor truck division of the International Harvester company and on display at the Commercial Truck company, 713 Texas avenue. Light, medium and heavy-duty trucks from the new line are pictured above.

New Line Of International Harvester Trucks To Be Introduced Here Today

The International Harvester company will introduce today through its nationwide dealer organization a complete new line of heavy-duty engineered motor trucks designed to meet the ever-increasing needs of truck operators. The Commercial Truck company, 713 Texas avenue, will have the trucks on display.

Built to handle every type of hauling job, trucks in the company's newly designed L-line, consisting of 87 basic truck chassis models, present a complete new design and incorporate many new mechanical engineering improvements to promote operating efficiency and economy.

New Advantages Claimed

Included among the new, test-proved advances in model design and engineering incorporated in Harvester's new L-line of International trucks, are:

1. Complete restyling that blends a new modern truck streamlining with extreme practicability.

2. A newly designed cab offering more room, added comfort and conveniences and all-around visibility, factors in safe operation.

3. New chassis dimension engineering permitting better load distribution, greater maneuverability, improved engine accessibility and short overall lengths while maintaining or increasing load-carrying lengths.

4. New, improved valve-in-head International truck series engines, inculding an all-new Silver Diamond engine.

New Features Given

Spearheaded by four classifications of four-wheel model trucks, ranging in gross vehicle weight from 4,200 pounds to 30,000 pounds, the new L-line also features new multi-stop units, products of the company's Bridgeport, Conn., plant; a new group of six-wheel chassis units, ranging in GVW from 22,000 to 50,000 pounds, and a new group of cab-forward chassis units, ranging upward from 14,000 pounds.

Biggest change in the chassis dimensions, the company's motor truck general manager continued, is in the wheelbases, which have been shortened as much as seven inches in some models.

Shorter Wheelbases Cited

Together with reproportioned cab-to-rear axle dimensions and front-to-cab dimensions, the shorter wheelbases have resulted in a shifting of load weight, so that it is in balance between front and rear axles.

The shorter wheelbases and other chassis dimensions have made possible shorter overall lengths, it was pointed out, with no actual decrease in load-carrying lengths. In some cases, greater load-carrying lengths are available within the shorter overall lengths of the trucks.

Easier handling results from the shorter turning radius of the shorter wheelbases, as well as from the widened axle treads. The turning angle on practically all models in the new line has been increased to a minimum of 37 degrees for both popular and standard tire sizes.

James Roosevelt Dismisses Speculation On Presidency

CHICAGO, Nov. 29. (INS)—James Roosevelt, eldest son of the late President Roosevelt, dismissed as ridiculous today speculation that he and his brother, Franklin, D. Roosevelt, jr., might be Democratic candidate for president in 1952.

The late President's son, who recently announced his candidacy for governor of California, came to Chicago to address a B'nai B'rith meeting.

Asked what would be his program if elected governor of California, he replied:

"I'll apply the principles of the Fair Deal to California."

350 Brownfield Pupils Start Full-Day Schedule Of Classes

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 29. (Spl.)—Approximately 350 elementary school pupils who have been attending school on a half-day schedule since the term opened Aug. 29 went back to a full-day schedule this week upon completion of a temporary classroom building at the Jessie G. Randal school.

Four first grade classes, four second grade classes and two third grade classes were affected by the schedule change, according to S. P. Cowan, superintendent of schools.

The temporary classroom building was constructed for a school cafeteria, but has been partitioned off into six classrooms and will be used for that purpose until additional room is provided in the school's current building program.

The superintendent also announced that a new fifth grade class was created Monday morning with L. C. Davis as teacher. Davis has been teaching the exceptional children's class since the term opened, but since attendance in this class has decreased to only three pupils it is not being taught full time.

Airliner Sets New Speed Mark On Denver, Kansas City Trip

DENVER, Nov. 29 (INS) — A Continental Air lines plane today sped from Denver to Kansas City in 1 hour and 40 minutes to set a new passenger flight record.

O. R. Haueter, vice president in charge of operations, said the two engine Convair plane lopped 35 minutes off its schedule for the 563 mile distance.

The plane, carrying 28 passengers, took off from Denver at 7:15 a.m. and averaged 332 miles an hour for the flight. A top speed of 450 miles and hour was attained between Thurman and Goodland, Kansas. Captain Harry Taneyhill was pilot of the plane. Other crew members were First Officer Stan Lee and Stewardess Virginia McNeil.

Crashes Kill 200 In Past Month

(By The Associated Press)

The crash of an American Airlines plane at Dallas Tuesday raised the death toll from major civilian and military air accidents in the past month to more than 200. Twenty-eight persons were killed at Dallas.

It was one of the worst months for aviation in peacetime history.

Just about a month ago on Nov. 1 an Eastern air lines plane and a P-38 fighter collided near Washington, D. C., killing all 51 passengers and a crew of four on the DC-4.

Representing the greatest loss of life in American Commercial aviation, the Washington crash spurred authorities to ban combat-type aircraft from the busy national airport where the accident occurred.

Three days before a Paris-New York Transatlantic airliner crashed in a flaming heap against a mountain peak in the Azores. The 48 dead included Marcel Cerdan, former French and world middleweight boxing champion.

Then on Nov. 20, a dutch mercy plane carrying 28 Jewish refugee children from North Africa to Scandinavia came down in a mass of twisted wreckage near Oslo, Sweden. A 12-year-old boy survived, but 34 others died.

Meanwhile, the Air Force plagued by a series of tragic mishaps, took some of its famed B-29 Superfortresses out of the air for overhaul.

The Air Force's November pack of woes were highlighted by the loss of 18 personnel when two Superforts collided in a mock bombing run near Stockton, Calif., on the 16th.

Woman Killed

Mrs. Noble got it," he said.

Noble was wounded in the left leg by a buckshot charge in the Sept. 8 fight.

He said he had noticed two men lurking on the road near his ranch house for four days. He and an unidentified friend went after the pair as they skulked past the ranch in a car. The fleeing car overturned and the two men emerged firing. They fled into a woods after wounding Noble.

Police arrested a 44-year-old ex-convict, G. R. Nesbit of Castleberry, and charged him in Fort Worth with assault to murder. He was released on $5,000 bond.

Noble was wounded in 1948 by an unknown gunman who ambushed him beside a cattle guard leading to his ranch house. He was not seriously injured.

Three years ago, Noble was seriously wounded in a wild automobile chase along country roads leading north to Denton county. He escaped by crawling under a farm house.

Sheriff Reports 'Nothing New' In Probe Of Southland Death

POST, Nov. 29. (Special)—The unsolved mystery surrounding the death of Mrs. Marvin Truelock, 41, of Southland, goes into the third week on Wednesday with Sheriff E. M. Bass reporting "nothing new" tonight.

Bass said that he has made trips to Southland in the past week, and also has questioned Southland resident in Post, "checking a few more leads."

However, he said, most leads have been checked and no new angles have been uncovered.

No change has been made in the temporary verdict rendered by Justice of the Peace J. D. King of Post. King gave an open verdict of "death by suffocation from gag in mouth."

Mrs. Trulock, mother of two children and a former school teacher, was found dead on the concrete floor of her bedroom on Nov. 16, a burning stove over her face, a pair of cotton socks stuffed into her mouth and her hands behind her back under a loosely-tied rope around her waist.

A man demanding a second pair of free National Health spectacles in England, said: "My dog chewed the others."

CROSBYTON, Nov. 29. (Special)—Sheriff Foy Addison "disarmed" a young trio here today, but they weren't the same three who pulled the Saturday night robbery and shooting here.

Acting on a tip from a Lubbock motorist who said his three hitchhiking passengers had acted suspiciously and had a gun, Addison drove to the edge of town.

He found the trio, and sure enough, one had a toy pistol stuck in his belt. Addison relieved them of the gun with a promise to return it if they called with their parents.

The boys, one 15 years and two 16 years, said they were from Sundown, and were going to Dickens.

Houston Residents To Decide Annexation Program Dec. 30

HOUSTON, Nov. 29. (AP).—Houstonians will vote Dec. 30 to decide whether the city should complete its big annexation program.

Some 90 square miles of territory are involved.

The city council passed an emergency ordinance calling for the election today. The council had been scheduled to make final passage of the annexation ordinance Dec. 14.

Today's action was made after the council learned that petitions seeking the election have been in circulation since Friday.

Mayor Oscar Holcombe told reporters he is confident a majority of voters will favor the anexation.

E. T. Morgan, one of the backers of the petitions, said signatures would continue to be added.

"We believe annexation of this huge area would tend to drive away industries," he said.

Railway Head To Speak Here

William G. Vollmer of Dallas, president of the Texas and Pacific railway, will be speaker at today's luncheon meeting of the Rotary club in the Hilton hotel, Guy C. Victory, president of the club, announced Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Vollmer, who is in great demand as a speaker throughout Texas, will arrive in Lubbock early Wednesday morning in his business railroad car by the Santa Fe lines.

A group of Lubbock business men will greet him and conduct him on a tour of Lubbock during the morning.

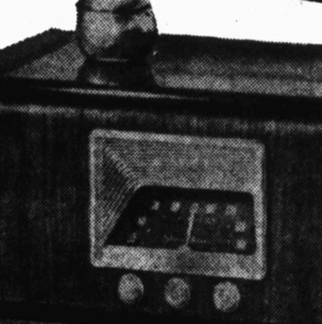

Vollmer began his railroad career in 1902 when he entered the service of Pennsylvania railroad as a stenographer. Several years later he was employed by the Baltimore and Ohio company and the Rock Island Lines, and still later, entered the service of Missouri Pacific lines where he worked in several branches, including the maintenance, engineering, and operating departments.

In 1917, when B. F. Bush, then president of the Missouri Pacific lines, needed an assistant, he chose Vollmer, at that time a junior executive in the operating department. In 1943 Vollmer became senior vice president, a position he relinquished upon assuming presidency of the Texas and Pacific May 16, 1945.

Vollmer will be accompanied to Lubbock by J. J. Finegan, assistant to the president, J. B. Shores, director of public relations, both of Dallas, and Hary DeLane, general agent, and Don Scrivner, travelling freight agent, both of Abilene.

The subject of his speech at the Rotary meeting will be "Freedom Isn't Free."

Nationalist Leader's Plan For Early Trip To U. S. Gets Okay

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — The State department disclosed today that American approval has been given to an early trip to the United States by Li Tsung-Jen, acting president of the tottering Chinese Nationalist government.

The visit—if made—promises to revive the issue of renewed American aid to head off a Communist advance into southeast Asia. The announced purpose is to enable Li to obtain medical treatment, but officials said there would be nothing to keep Li from making a plea for American assistance.

Large Fund Available

President Truman has congressional authority to use a $75,000,000 special fund to promote American interests in China or its "general area." Nationalist officials and their American champions contend the most effective use of the fund would be to help keep Nationalist forces fighting to stem the Communist march southward.

The State department was told that Li's purpose is "purely personal," to get expert treatment for a stomach ailment which has put him in a Hong Kong hospital. On this assumption the American consul general in Hong Kong was authorized to issue a passport for the projected trip when requested.

General May Make Trip

The State department and the Chinese embassy both said the date of his departure and other specific information was unknown here. They lacked information also on plans for a visit by General Pai Chung-Hsi, currently the Nationalists' top military commander. Hong Kong reports said he might accompany Li.

The acting president's projected trip came to light as a new American note was drafted to the Nationalists protesting against the shelling of the American merchant ship, the Sir John Franklin, by two blockade warships at the mouth of the Yangtze river.

There has been no response to an earlier protest when the Flying Cloud, a freighter of the same line, was attacked in the same waters Nov. 15.

Because there is no doctor on lonely Pitcairn Island, in the Pacific, one of the islanders, Wendell Christian, recently made a 3,000-mile trip to New Zealand to have his broken leg attended to, being rowed out to the liner Port Jackson in a whaleboat when it called at Pitcairn.

In Vigo, Spain, the sardine run reappeared recently after an absence of two years.

Wall Street

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP) — Stock traders stepped warily in today's market and prices scarcely stirred.

The market tripped at the outset when fractional losses were posted for a wide variety of leading issues. Supply and demand reached a quick balance, however and further declines were blocked.

Occasional flurries of activity helped to lift the day's business to 1,310,000 shares from 1,080,000 yesterday, which was the smallest in nearly two months.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 1 of one point to 67.8. A rise in the rail group was more than offset by a decline in industrials. Utilities were unchanged on average.

Chesapeake and Ohio was subjected to fairly heavy pressure late in the day following news that the board had decided to defer action on the dividend for the first quarter of 1950 until February.

The common closed ¾ lower at 27⅞, a new low for the year.

Directors of Allied Chemical voted a special dividend of $4 a share and the stock promptly dropped to a closing loss of 4 at 200. Some demand for this high-priced issue has been attracted by the possibility of a stock split-up.

The Board of American Can voted an extra disbursement of $1 a share, same as paid last year, but the stock dipped ¼ to 89¼.

Closing lower were American Airlines, Warner Bros. Pictures, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Goodrich, Consolidated Edison, Texas Co., and Johns-Manville.

Higher were Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Radio Corp., U. S. Leather, American Telephone, International Hydro-Electric, Socony-Vacum, American Smelting, General Electric, and Standard Oil (NJ).

Lower in the curb were Kaiser-Frazer, N. J. Zinc, and British-American Oil.

Higher were International Hydro-Electric preferred, Pancoastal Oil, Standard Power and Light, United Light and Cities Service. Sales of 340,000 shares were even with yesterday.

Heavy demand for Missouri Pacific obligations highlighted a narrow corporate bond market.

U. S. governments dropped 1 32 to 8 32 of a point in the over-the-counter market. Federal issues steadied yesterday after a five-day decline.

India reports that Pakistan is rapidly evacuating non-Moslems.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP) — Cotton futures were irregular in slow trading today. There were seven December transferable notices issued at New York which were believed promptly stopped by a leading spot firm. Hedge selling was light, although spot cotton sales continued to hold at much higher levels than a year ago.

Leading spot firms were substantial buyers of futures, believed to be against raw cotton purchases.

Futures closed 45 cents a bale lower to 15 cents higher than the previous close.

Texas Lawyer May Be Barred By NLRB

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (U.P.)—The National Labor Relations board has decided that it simply can't have Texas lawyers going around punching its agents in the eye—especially during hearings.

NLRB General Counsel Robert N. Denham ordered John L. Camp, a Houston attorney, to show cause why he should not be barred from further board hearings because of an incident at an Oct. 26 hearing in Rankin, Tex.

Camp was representing an Ohio Oil company. According to Denham, he made "an unprovoked, brutal physical assault" on Don E. Wilson of the board's Fort Worth regional staff.

"(Camp) approached Wilson from behind, jerked him around by the shoulder and, without warning, punched Wilson in the eye, knocked him to the floor," Denham's petition said.

Thereupon, it added, Camp "pounced upon Wilson on the floor and was attempting to punch and kick him, when he was physically restrained . . ."

The board gave Camp until Dec. 8 to decide if he wants to try to explain. It was the first time the board had taken such action in its 14-year history.

Besides filing the show cause petition, Denham also said he has referred the case to the Justice department for appropriate action under the "criminal statutes."

Under the Taft-Hartley act, anyone who interferes with an agent of the board in the performance of duty can be [illegible] $5,000, jailed for a year, or both.

Elliott Roosevelt To Abandon Retail Christmas Tree Sales

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 29. (AP)—Elliott Roosevelt won't be hawking his $1 Christmas trees on New York street corners this Christmas season.

A spokesman at his farm said some trees may be sold at wholesale but that there will be no retail selling. He didn't say why.

Roosevelt and his wife, Actress Faye Emerson, now separated, personally sold trees last year and the year before. A number of dealers protested, charging them with price-cutting.

BROWDER ADVICE RECALLED

Bridges Meeting With Top U. S. Red Claimed At Perjury Trial

By CONSTANCE HITCHCOCK
INS Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—Government witness in the Harry Bridges perjury trial testified today that the longshore leader was present at a meeting in 1934 in a Santa Clara county prune orchard with Earl Browder, No. 1 U. S. Communist.

The witness, John (Big John) Schomaker, said the meeting took place during the bloody waterfront and general strike in San Francisco.

Schomaker, an admitted former Communist organizer on the waterfront and onetime business agent in Bridges' CIO longshoremen's and warehousemen's union, said he and Bridges were members of a group that talked with Browder in an orchard shack.

Parting Shot Delivered

It was Schomaker's parting shot at the 48-year-old Australian born labor leader who is accused of lying under oath when he swore he had never been a Communist at the time he obtained his citizenship in 1945.

On trial with Bridges are two of his trusted aides, Henry Schmidt and J. R. Robertson.

Schomaker, a lanky, six-foot-four figure of a man, told of the meeting with Browder just before the defense began its cross-examination. He testified:

"We drove to a little shack. After we had a little lunch, we all of us went inside the cabin and we were all introduced to Earl Browder.

Mustache Shaved Off

"I said that don't look like Browder' and Henry Schrimpf said 'No, he shaved his mustache off'."

Schomaker said the man introduced as Browder was accompanied by Sam Darcy, then district organizer for the Communists in San Francisco, a woman named Minnie Carson and another man whose name he couldn't remember. He testified:

"Bridges talked about the strike, Browder had quite a bit to say. We talked quite a bit about the terror in the strike, about the police and about the tear gas saleseman. In general the atmosphere was one of tension."

Popular Support Urged

Schomaker said Browder told them they should get more "popular support against the forces of terror and violence."

When Defense Attorney Vincent Hallinan began his cross-examination he sparred tentatively with Schomaker about various aspects of his story. Through much of the questioning, Hallinan emphasized conditions on the waterfront during the strike.

Schomaker said conditions were "lousy and terrible" and that police invaded the homes of the strikers and "beat them up" when they gathered in lines at open air soup kitchens.

Bloody Thursday Recalled

Once he referred to the two men killed in a violent battle with waterfront guards on the so-called "Bloody Thursday" still celebrated by San Francisco longshoremen as a "stop work" day.

The hard hitting defense counsel scored when he began a review of Schomaker's testimony that Bridges was a card-carrying Communist who took his strike orders from a Communist boss.

Schomaker had testified that he carried orders direct from Darcy to Bridges. When Hallinan pressed for specific instances, Schomaker testified:

"Well the orders were given at Communist meetings and we were supposed to tell all members and since they were party orders I assumed they came from Darcy since he was head of the party here."

Schomaker said that on a number of occasions he told Bridges, "Darcy wants to see you," and that the two would then meet.

Hallinan drew from Schomaker testimony that Bridges often met with Communists prior to the time he is alleged to have joined the party.

Margaret Truman Receives Offer For London Appearance

LONDON, Nov. 29 (U.P.)—Cecil Landau, British producer, today sent Margaret Truman an offer of week for a brief appearance in London in the revue "Sauce Tartare."

Landau said in his cable to Miss Truman that he was "delighted to hear of your success" with the National symphony in Washington.

"Would you consider flying to London on a short visit as London would, I know, like to see and hear you?" his message said. "Salary could be arranged, but a suggested figure is 500 pounds a week."

Oklahoma Senators Remember State Constitution, Too Late

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 29. (AP).— Half of the Oklahoma state senate is in a mess. They got there by themselves and now need Gov. Roy J. Turner's help to get out.

Last spring during the regular session the legislature raised salaries of all state officials. Then, after they had quit and gone home, they remembered.

Oklahoma's constitution prohibits legislators from seeking an office which has had a pay raise during the member's term. The consensus at the capitol is that the provision will affect only the 22 senators hose terms do not expire until 1952.

In the current special session, called by Turner to appropriate for a $36 million building program, the senators hope the act can be brought up and amended to allow them to seek statewide offices. At least two senators want to run for governor.

However, in a special session no subject can be brought up without the governor's permission. Turner, who hopes for a session of not longer than two weeks, has given no indication yet that he will bring up the subject.

In the meantime the senators can only reflect on their generosity for state officials that backfired.
