20 American Airmen Killed

By JOHN CAMSELL
INS Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Jan. 17.—A Superfort bound for the United States crashed in flames today in the Argyllshire mountain area near Loch Goilhead in west-central Scotland and officials said all 20 American Air Force men aboard were killed.

Eleven bodies were recovered from the wreckage before nightfall and brought down on stretchers from the rugged slope where the plane struck.

Fog Is Blamed

Further rescue work was abandoned until daybreak when operations will be resumed.

Heavy fog was believed responsible for the crash. A second Superfort accompying the ill-fated plane on a flight to the United States via Iceland returned safely to the RAF base at Scampton Eng., after heavy weather closed in.

The two Superforts had taken off from the RAF field this morning with U. S. Air Force personnel who had completed their tours of duty in England.

U. S. Air Force headquarters said the crashed plane carried 20 persons, but withheld official announcement of the death toll pending further details from the crash scene. This is near Loch Goilhead, 18 miles northwest of Greenock.

The death toll was placed at 20 in unofficial dispatches. It was believed the Superfort carried a crew of 11 and nine U. S. Air Force passengers.

U. S. Air Force headquarters said there is "a faint hope" some of the 20 occupants had parachuted to safety and announced a search for survivors will be made by British planes tomorrow.

Six Bodies Recovered

Searchers combed the difficult terrain within a three-mile radius of the crash site today until darkness prevented further operations.

By dusk, six bodies had been recovered from Succoth glen into which the plane fell. The rest of the bodies will be brought out tomorrow.

Police and British air spotters near Dunoon reported seeing the big plane overhead and then hearing an explosion.

A search was started immediate-

Plane Carrying 20 Is Missing

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (INS) — A British transport plane with 20 persons aboard was reported missing by the Coast Guard tonight on a flight from Bermuda to Kingston, Jamaica.

The Coast Guard said in New York that the plane's fuel tanks normally would have become exhausted shortly before 5 p.m. CST.

The Coast Guard said the plane carried 13 passengers and a crew of seven.

The four-motored British-South American Tudor plane was due at Kingston at 1:07 p.m. on a flight which started at 7:42 a.m.

Planes Begin Search

The plane was not heard of after 8:50 a.m. when the pilot, identified by the Coast Guard only as McPhee, reported to Bermuda that he was changing his radio frequency from the former base to Kingston.

Emergency landing points for the big plane are Havana, Cuba, and Nassau in the Bahama islands. Neither had made any contact with the plane.

Four planes were sent up tonight to search the ocean for the missing plane and the Coast Guard asked all ships in the area to keep a close lookout.

Tonight the Coast Guard also ordered rescue planes from air

Government Opens Trial Of 12 Top Communists In New York

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The government put on trial today 12 of the nation's top Communists who immediately charged they were being subjected to a "police trial."

The Communists are accused of working for the forcible overthrow of the government.

Some 400 policemen, the largest police detail assigned to a court case here, were on duty at the federal court house at Foley square and the surrounding neighborhood.

This detail, defense counsel said was a "deliberate, purposeful effort to poison the minds of the prospective jurors."

"An armed mob operating in uniform under the authority of the law is there to intimidate us," they claimed. Defense counsel then moved that the court order the policemen removed. Federal Judge Harold R. Medina denied the motion.

While the legal battle was being fought in the courtroom, many persons who had been lolling on park benches in the warm sunshine outside the building got up and began

HST Plans To Make Foreign Policy Talk At Inauguration

By DARRELL GARWOOD
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—President Truman will seek divine guidance toward lasting peace and stable prosperity just before he begins his second term Thursday.

The White House said the President has slashed his inaugural address from 20 to 15 minutes and announced a heavy schedule of official appearances for the week

The divine guidance will be sought in a church service at 10 a. m. Thursday. The name of the church was kept secret to avoid an undue congregation of the crowds already clogging Washington's streets.

Mr. Truman worked continuously over the weekend on his inaugural address—his first formal expression on foreign affairs since the election. The White House said it was virtually completed today.

The announcement that he will speak for only about 15 minutes when he takes the oath of office at the capitol Thursday was believed to mean his foreign policy remarks are being carefully weighed.

The short address, however, will also express his determination to launch a "fair deal" domestically by fulfilling campaign pledges.

The week opened with spring-like weather in Washington, and with an estimated 200,000 visitors already in the city for the biggest inaugural celebration in history.

Entertainment Set

A million persons, half from outside the city, are expected to line Pennsylvania avenue when the President in a Prince Albert and top hat rides from the capitol to the White House at the head of a seven-mile-long parade after taking the oath.

Mr. Truman's official round of visits will begin at 7 p. m. tomorrow when he attends a dinner given by the Truman-Barkley

Rita Hayworth, Aly To Marry As Soon As He Gets Divorce

(By The Associated Press)

CANNES, France, Jan. 17.—Prince Aly Khan announced today that he will get a divorce and marry movie glamor queen Rita Hayworth. He added that his bride-to-be will "not necessarily" adopt the Moslem religion.

Prince Aly explained that his second marriage would be performed both by civil and religious ceremonies and that any children would be brought up as Moslems. Miss Hayworth is a Roman Catholic.

Annoyed by the world-wide comment resulting from his courtship of the Hollywood star, the Moslem prince said he hoped the public now will concern itself with something else and let them alone.

When and where the wedding will take place, who is the plaintiff in the divorce case and where the suit was filed remained unanswered questions.

But Aly, scion of fabulous wealth and heir apparent to the religious leadership of millions of Ismaili Moslems, was definite about this:

"I am going to marry Miss Hayworth as soon as I am free to do so."

He made the announcement at a news conference to which the film star sent a message saying she was "in full agreement" with all he said.

Death Claims Three On Icy Roads In State

(By The Associated Press)

AT least three Texans had perished on the highways Monday night as snow and freezing rain made driving perilous.

The victims included Sheriff Vernon Reeves of Lavaca county; Otha Alton Bateman, former Grand Master of the International Order of Odd Fellows in Texas and Mrs. Marion Howell, 23, of Camp Hood village.

Meanwhile temperatures fell and a drizzling freezing rain covered a great area of the state and iced over highways.

In Austin, Maj. W. J. Elliott, head of the State Highway patrol, warned motorists to stay off roads except in cases of emergency.

Wide Section Hit

And the Weather bureau said another cold wave is on the way to Texas. It is due to invade the state Wednesday.

A snowstorm swept eastward from El Paso Monday night. It was snowing at Lubbock, Midland, Big Spring, San Angelo and Abilene. Freezing rain fell at Bryan, Waco, Dallas, Fort Worth, Austin, Junction, and San Antonio.

Ice froze hard on windshields of automobiles.

The Weather bureau predicted rain for both East and West Texas Tuesday—the new cold wave to strike the next day.

The current cold wave, which dropped temperatures over the state far below freezing, blew into Texas Saturday night.

Auto Skids On Pavement

Sheriff Reeves was killed instantly when his automobile skidded on an icy bridge, nine miles east of Gonzales, and hurtled over an embankment. Miss Annie Sabian, a witness in a case in which the sheriff was engaged, was with him in the car and escaped with slight injuries.

Bateman, 63, tax commissioner for the Sinclair Refining company's southwestern division, Fort Worth, died in a similar crash—his automobile hurtled over an embankment on the Mansfield highway near Village creek. He was returning to Fort Worth from Houston with George V. Leddy of New York, another company executive, when the accident occurred. Leddy was uninjured.

Mrs. Howell was killed when the car in which she was riding near Jarrell, Tex., was in collision with

Rev. Lane served as pastor of First Methodist church here for four years, from about 1912 until 1916. He moved to San Antonio about 15 years ago after his retirement from active ministry. Before he retired, he was pastor of the Methodist church at Mason.

Two New Cold Blasts Racing Toward Area

Snow Blankets Most Of South Plains; Officials Warn Highways Dangerous

By BILL HAMS
Avalanche Staff Writer

TWO NEW cold fronts were thrusting icy fingers toward the South Plains today from the Pacific Northwest and Canada even before a snowstorm which moved up from the southwest Sunday had completed its moisture bearing mission.

More than an inch of snow, over two inches in some sections, covered the South Plains early today, and the Weather station north of Lubbock last night forecast that the fall would continue this morning and possibly into the afternoon. Meanwhile, the new cold fronts were racing toward the Panhandle and South Plains area, both due to arrive sometime Wednesday.

Three Dead In Area Mishaps

SUNDAY traffic accidents on the South Plains took the lives of three persons and seriously injured another.

Dead were William Elton Rich, 18, Denver City garage mechanic; Velera Mae Willmon, 8, of near Plains; and J. I. Hammond, about 60, Floydada wheat farmer.

M. F. Cunningham, 19, of Denver City, suffered a fractured pelvis and broken leg in the accident in which Rich was killed. Cunningham was reported to be recovering satisfactorily in Tombs hospital Seminole.

Struck By Auto

Rich and Cunningham were struck by a 1947 Ford driven by J. C. McGuairt, 27, of Morton, on the Denver City-Plains highway shortly after midnight Saturday, highway patrolmen reported.

Investigating officers said the accident occurred about two and one-half miles northeast of Denver City, as Rich crossed the highway in an attempt to halt roadside scuffling match between Cunningham and a third youth who was not named. Both boys were on the highway when it happened, patrolmen said.

Two unidentified girls from Mornument, N. M., and a third from Denver City were with the three boys at the time of the accident, patrolmen reported.

Taken To Hospital

Cunningham and Rich were taken to Tombs hospital, where the latter was pronounced dead on arrival.

Funeral services were held at 3 p.m. Monday in the First Baptist church of Denver City. Burial was in Seminole cemetery, under direction of Alpha's Funeral home.

Survivors include the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merton Rich; a sister, Mildred; and two brothers, Nathan and Billy Mack, all of Denver City.

Congress Gives Okay To HST's Pay Boost

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (AP)—Over mild Republican protests, Congress today gave President Truman a pay raise from $75,000 to $100,000 a year and boosted his tax-free expense allowance from $40,000 to $90,000 annually.

All it takes now is the signature "Harry S. Truman" to make the nations chief executive a $190,000-a-year man.

By voice vote, without a formal rollcall, the House gave its assent to the salary-hike legislation which had already passed the Senate, 68 to 9.

It was the first time the President has had a pay increase since 1909, when Congress raised the ante to $75,000 for President William Howard Taft.

Bond Is Set In Burglary Case

A 17 - year - old Shallowater youth, Jerry Lynn McClure, late Monday posted $1,000 bond set by D. W. Robertson, justice of the peace, in binding him over to grand jury investigation into a burglary charge.

The complaint, prepared by A. W. Salyars, assistant district attorney, upon oath of Dep. Sheriff Earl Horton, charged that McClure broke and entered the Shallowater residence of E. J. Hurley Saturday.

Horton said he was informed that juvenile officials will file petitions against two minors, 15 and 16 in connection with the case.

Coin Bank Taken

Taken from Hurley's residence, Horton said he was informed, was a small coin bank containing $2.65. Broken pieces of the bank were found Sunday on the schoolground nearby, Horton said.

Bond of $750 was set by C. E. Lynn, justice of the peace, for L. E. Anderson, a 25-year-old negro, who waived examining trial on a charge of desertion of three minor children.

In county court, Lee Green, 23, Lubbock, pleaded guilty of drunk driving and was fined $75 and court costs. In addtion, as is required under the law, his driver's license was suspended six months.

A 21-year-old Plainview man, Harold D. Greer, was held here Monday in lieu of $1,500 bond for his appearance before a grand

WEATHER CAUSES CHANGE; PARADE CANCELED

Texas Inauguration Is Forced Indoors

By MARTHA COLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Jan. 17 — A forecast of freezing drizzle for tomorrow forced the inauguration of the governor and lieutenant governor inside the house of representatives. Parade plans were cancelled.

After the weather bureau said freezing drizzle and possibly sleet, a joint house and senate committee decided to try to jam the crowd into the house.

The house seats about 5,000 persons at its absolute maximum. Dozens of these will be in the official party of Gov. Beauford H. Jester and Lt. Gov. Allan Shivers.

The inaugural parade was cancelled by Adjutant General K. L. Berry, in charge of parade plans. He made his decision about 4:30 p.m., an hour after it was decided to move the inauguration. Military groups informed General Berry the roads were too icy and dangerous for traveling.

Austin's reception for Jester and Shivers tomorrow afternoon and the five inaugural balls at night will go on regardless of the weather.

Senators and representatives will have seats in the house at the inauguration ceremonies. As many distinguished guests as possible will be seated around the speaker's rostrum. These will include official representatives of Mexico.

The governor's office said about half of the gallery would be reserved for other distinguished guests until all were seated.

Dinner Is Given

Dr. W. R. White, president of Baylor university, Waco, will deliver the invocation. Lt. Gov. Allan Shivers will be sworn in first by Lloyd W. Davidson, commissioner of the Court of Criminal Appeals.

John E. Hickman, chief justice of the State Supreme Court, will administer the oath of office to Governor Jester.

The governor's office asked citizens of Austin to stay at home, pointing out that seating space

WTCC Hits New Water Proposal

AMARILLO, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Municipal Water Rights committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce met here today and re-voiced its opposition to the new surface water bill prepared for submission in the legislature.

The bill opposed was drafted by the Water Laws committee of the Texas Water Conservation association headed by Guy C. Jackson, Anahuac, Tex.

To Oppose Changes

Members of the WTCC endorsed the municpal water rights provisions of the present law. It agreed to oppose action to obtain passage in the 51st session of the legislature any changes in the present law's protective privileges of articles 7471 and 7472 which would make appropriations of water for other than domestic use a vested right.

"West Texas municipalities would lose all of their water rights advantages under the new bill," Charles E. Coombes of Stamford, legal counsel for WTCC, declared.

He added: "It would take 25 years for us to find out what the courts think of the new law."

He favored retention of the present law, and the preparation of new amendments where necessary rather than "losing benefits of existing rulings."

Small Towns Claimed Hit

Action taken by the committee lines the West Texas organization squarely against the Texas water conservation and downstate water authorities. Mayor A. C. Humphrey of Stamford, committee member, said even under current conditions the "small West Texas

Flier Says He Has Gone Faster Than Sound '25 Or 30 Times'

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17 (AP)—Capt. Charles E. Yeager, 25-year-old experimental pilot, disclosed today that he has flown "25 or 30 times at speeds faster than sound."

Yeager, snowbound at Muroc airbase since the Army announced a week ago that he had piloted the rocket powered Bell X-1 to 25,000 feet in one minute, 40 seconds, flew in today for a press conference.

He declined to say how fast the X-1 has gone, saying the speed is still classified. To a specific question, he replied:

"If the plane can go 1700 to 1800 miles per hours, that fact remains to be released."

HST Asks Congress For Right To Revamp Executive Branch

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—President Truman asked today for the right to shake up the executive branch of government. Quickly a bipartisan move started to let him have it, but Senator Taft (R-Ohio) urged caution.

Mr. Truman asked the lawmakers:

1. To restore the power to overhaul the government that was held by the president temporarily under 1939 and 1945 laws. He wants it made permanent.

2. To make no exceptions. The previous laws barred the president from touching a number of agencies.

3. To keep the veto power in Congress. This means that Mr. Truman would lay any reorganization plan before the lawmakers. If they didn't approve they would have 60 days to kill it.

Mr. Truman's proposal followed similar recommendations by Chairman Herbert Hoover of the commission on government reorganization. The former president wrote Congress last week that a general reshuffling of the "most gigantic business on earth"

LIQUOR CONTROL PROBE ASKED

Texas Drys Threaten New Drive For Statewide Prohibition Law

By BO BYERS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Jan. 17 — A fight for statewide prohibition was threatened today by the United Texas Drys and the Women's Christian Temperance union.

At the same time, Gov. Beauford H. Jester and Rep. J. Blake Timmons of Amarillo announced they have asked the State Liquor Control board to investigate complaints about the way the control setup has been operating. Timmons has threatened a legislative investigation.

Dr. Walter H. McKenzie of Dallas, executive secretary of the United Texas Drys, and Mrs. Claude De Van Watts, WCTU president, suggested in separate statements that a prohibition drive might be the best way to kill any proposed legislation liberalizing liquor laws.

"We are not particularly alarmed over agitation for sale of liquor by the drink," said Dr. McKenzie. "Of course, if such a bill is introduced, we will oppose it as we would the liberalization of the curfew law or any other provisions of the liquor control act. . . .

He warned that introduction of such a bill "might be a boomerang

Reds May Seek To Consolidate Gains Behind New Peace Drive

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

Soviet Russia apparently is launching a new peace offensive, this time on such a broad front as to raise speculation whether it may be the long-term strategic campaign which has been expected of her after she reached the limits of postwar exploitation.

It seems a little too early, even for a half-world truce during which European putsches would be dropped in favor of greater activity in highly disturbed Asia. It would mean an end to the fight against the Marshall plan, which hardly seems indicated as long as the west itself cannot be positive that the plan is going to work.

French Reds Carry Ball

But it might be a sort of experimental campaign, in an effort to see whether the now-handcuffed fifth columns could be given a new lease on life through a season of disarming quietude.

One indication of this is that the ball is being carried less by Moscow than by the Kremlin's extra-territorial representatives. The "little Cominform" in Paris is the spearhead this time, just as it has been the guidon for other Communist shifts of direction.

The Paris mouthpiece of the International Communists, Cahiers De Communisme, has just published an article combining many of the disarming phrases which Stalin and others have used before. It says that war is not inevitable. It even says that Lenin and Stalin never believed in war as necessary for the "socialist" revolution—a statement which can be contradicted by hundreds of quotations. It says, cooperation and trade between the Soviet and capitalist states isn't a bad idea (depending, presumably, on the capitalistic states doing all the cooperating).

Fits Into Picture

Marcel Cachin, editor of L'Humanite, another Paris party paper, said the same thing in the French assembly and then went to Italy to repeat it and to have it echoed by Italy's Communist leader, Togliatti.

So far, this fits into the strategic picture which students of Soviet practice have expected to see develop some day, with the Kremlin settling down for a long period of non-expansion and consolidation pending the time when industrial development would permit Communism to throw down its final challenge for control of the world.

But Russia has several tactical irons in the fire which apparently would come first and for which a peace offensive would be helpful now.

One of Russia's prime objectives now is to see Allied troops out of Germany—an objective she can't attain but on which she will keep on working. She has a similar but less important objective in Austria, which is why she is so willing for another peace conference there.

All of this really represents the thrashing around of a system which is taking a licking economically and politically, and which has had a very bad year on the propaganda front ever since the Czech coup.

Dallas Grand Jury Indicts Former County Treasurer

DALLAS, Jan. 17 (AP) — The Dallas county grand jury today indicted former County Treasurer Thomas C. Goforth on five counts of misapplication of public funds.

The indictment charged that on Jan. 26, 1948 there was a misapplication of $50 and on June 10, $50; June 15, $100 and two counts on June 28, one of $100 and one of $300.

Goforth had failed to make a year-end deposit as required by law and initial surveys showed him to be at least $8,500 short in his accounts.

Two audits are now pending.

Goforth appeared Jan. 4 before the grand jury and was released under $10,000 bond last week. The penalty upon conviction, according to article 95 of the penal code, is not less than two years, or more than 10 in the penitentiary on each count.

The jury, in addition, returned 48 other indictments involving minor robbery and theft counts and returned 24 no-bills.

Pianist Entertains Jaycees; Report On 'Dimes' Goals Given

Three piano selections by Lawrence Ivy featured Monday's program at the weekly Junior Chamber of Commerce luncheon in the Hilton hotel.

Warlick Carr was a guest speaker on the program. Carr, who is chairman of the Exchange club's Lubbock county "March of Dimes" campaign to raise funds for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, briefly outlined the goals of this month's drive. He expressed hope that Lubbock county will at least double the $6,000 figure achieved in 1948, and pointed out the necessity—in view of last year's polio epidemic here—for a highly successful campaign this year.

Fights Program Profitable

Bob Wylie, reporting on last Thursday's fight program sponsored here by the Jaycees, said the club realized a net profit of slightly more than $300 from the card. Another team match, between Lubbock and Plainview fighters, is planned here for early February, he said.

Clifton Haynie issued a final financial report on the Phillips-Monahans football game sponsored by the Jaycees last month. Net profits from the game, which will be evenly divided between the two schools, amounted to $5,610.22, he said.

Rubinoff To Appear

Glenn Woody discussed preliminary plans for the March 3 appearance at Lubbock High school auditorium of Rubinoff, the violinist. Committee chairman for this Jaycee-sponsored event were appointed.

Weldon Gibbs, who served as chairman of the committee in charge of selection of Lubbock's outstanding young man of 1948, introduced the winner of that honor, Gene Quest, who had been presented the award Saturday night at the regional Jaycee meeting here. Gibbs also expressed his thanks to other committee members who participated in the selection.

Eight guests and two new members were introduced prior to the program.

Leaders Of Soviets' Politburo Keep Firm Hand On Government

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The politburo. You hear it mentioned often. But what is it? It's the real boss of Russia.

It's made up of Josef Stalin and 13 other top Russian Communists. It's full name is the political bureau.

War? Peace? A big veto in the United Nations? A new five-year plan for Russia? Atomic bombs? The politburo makes the big decisions.

Yet, the politburo is not even part of the Russian government. And only a very small percentage of the Russian people are members of the Russian Communist party. How, then, can the politburo run the whole show?

Hold Key Positions

Members of the Russian Communist party hold key jobs in the government. And the key Communists are in the politburo. So the politburo runs not only the government but the party itself.

In thinking of Russia keep a couple of things separate: The party and the government; the mass of the people and the members of the party.

Only about 6,000,000 — of the 200,000,000 people in Russia — are permitted at this time to be members of the Communist party there.

The party wants only a small, handpicked membership, tightly organized, devoted to the cause, obedient, disciplined, and well-drilled in Communism. It's like a trained army or a special, select group.

(About 18,000,000 young people of both sexes, 15 to 26, are members of the komsomoli: the Communist youth league. Although schooled in Communism, they are not party members.

(But they provide the party with the services of devoted youths and a vast pool from which the party can pick future members).

About once a year all the party members elect delegates to a party convention, called the All-Union Congress. The Congress isn't important.

But the Congress elects 71 party members to a central committee which with the help of other committees, handles party details in Russia.

On top of all this — the Congress and the committees — sits the politburo: Stalin and the 13 other top Communists, carefully chosen, running the party.

What follows will show how the politburo also runs the government.

The Union of Soviet Republics (USSR) is made up of 16 republics. (Soviet means council).

Like our own Congress, which makes our laws, the USSR has a parliament, or Congress, called the Supreme Soviet, which makes laws for Russia.

Plan Is Explained

Like our Congress, with its House and Senate, the Supreme Soviet has two branches: the Soviet Union of the Union and the Soviet of Nationalities.

Membership in the Soviet of the Union (like our House in Congress) is based on population. And, just as in our Senate every state has two representatives, membership in the Soviet of Nationalities is based on the various nationalities in the 16 republics.

In Russia every sane person over 18, with no barrier for race or color, can vote. This means everyone, not just those 6,000,000 members of the Russian Communist party.

But—in Russia there's only one party: the Communist party. So there is no real opposition to what the party wants.

Non-party people are elected to the Supreme Soviet, but this can be done only with approval of the Communist party. And the party members are in the big majority of those elected to the Supreme Soviet. So they run the Supreme Soviet.

This Supreme Soviet's term is four years. It's supposed to meet twice a year. To do it's work while it's not in session, it elects a smaller body, called the presidium. Communists run this, too.

The Supreme Soviet names the attorney general and the members of the Supreme Soviet. And—it appoints the Council of Ministers, which is like our own cabinet of department heads, but larger.

These ministers ,they used to be called commissars) Head the various Russian government departments, like oil, railway, railroads, heavy industry, foreign affairs, chemistry and so on.

But the key ministers are Communists. So they run the government—under the politburo because—

The politburo, with its 14 top Communists, tells the other Communists what to do and, since it's the Communists who run the government, the politburo is supreme boss.

City Asks Clearance Of Alleys In Areas Due For Sewer Work

A request that homeowners in northwest Lubbock clear their alleys of obstructions to prepare for installation of the northwest sewer extensions was issued Monday by R. L. Oldham, city engineer.

The city commission will receive bids Feb. 10 on the $131,000 project, designed to give sanitary sewer service to an area north of Fourth street and west of College avenue.

Before work can begin, however, such obstructions as fences, trees and outbuildings which block dedicated alleys must be removed, Oldham said.

Garbage service can be begun in the area when alleys are dedicated and obstructions cleared, it was said. Property owners can expedite garbage delivery service by telephoning the city engineer's office when obstructions have been removed from an entire block of alley now closed in that area.

NOTES ON MARRIAGE

DR. GEORGE LAWTON, noted consulting psychologist of New York, says that career or no career, marriage today is still woman's biggest business. And, with the changing economic status and increasing tensions, one of her trickiest problems is to determine her role in the relationship toward her husband.

Marriages have declined in number since the peak year of 1946, while divorces have increased steadily in the past ten years—eloquent indications of the chaotic marital situation.

Dr. Lawton's solution for the modern wife who wants to make her man happy and her marriage successful boils down to this: In the smaller things which often cause friction, it may be better to give in—if you are otherwise compatible.

Says the psychologist, who has written severals books, including "Aging Successfully": "In matters of taste and preference, where the relationship is sound and where the wife is generally happy, she can yield."

HERE are some tips from Dr. Lawton for brides, and for older married women as well:

First, the problem of smoking. Does you husband like cigars? Then by all means let him enjoy them. Ashes scattered casually over rugs and furniture will rouse the mildest wife to a frenzy. The solution? Simply place plenty of ash trays at strategic points, and subtly make sure they are used.

Does your husband have a yen for juicy steaks and chops? Serve them to him at dinner and save the creamy dishes or the slim, calorie counted ones for your own lunch. Dress to please your man in simple, becoming clothes, rather than ultra-smart sensational costumes.

The pay-off, according to the good doctor, is that if you can give in on the small points and make your husband happy, the gain will be worth the effort.

The whole set-up might be summarized this way:

If you want to make your marriage last, make it first in your life.

Don't Let Shrubs Grow Scraggly

January Is Month To Prune Cone-Bearing Evergreens

Demonstrations on proper methods of pruning shrubs are being given for home demonstration clubs of Lubbock county, according to Miss Clara Pratt, agent.

Cone-bearing evergreens including spruce, cedar, and juniper varieties are due for pruning this month, Miss Pratt stated, while broadleaf evergreens such as nandina and pryacantha, will need attention next month.

Early blooming shrubs, lilac, bridal wreath, flowering quince and forsythia, will be pruned after their blooming season, later in the spring, she stated.

Other suggestions were:

Most pruning may be done with shears. Short handled shears, with a 15-inch handle and a two or three-inch cutting blade, are satisfactory for small shrubs, while shears with handles as long as 28 inches will be needed for taller shrubs. A pruning saw may be needed if the shrubs have not been trimmed in some years.

Cone-bearing evergreens, or conipers, should be pruned by cliping back the branches one or two inches in order to make thick foliage and to shape the bush as desired. It is important to trim them annually beginning well before they reach the size finally desired for them, so the shape will be proper.

Old canes of broadleaf evergreens should be cut at the ground or back to the main stem at the rate of two or three canes each winter. This type pruning forces new growth, making for more vigorous trees.

Canes of early blooming shrubs also should be trimmed to the main stem or the ground. Old bridal wreath growth may be recognized by its gray bark. Lilac and flowering quince require relatively little pruning.

"Women can prune shrubs with very little effort when they learn how," Mrs. Pratt stated, "and should not let their shrubs grow scraggly because they are timid about cutting them back."

Do You Really Want to Take Off That Ugly Fat?
Recently there has been a number of new reducing preparations on the market, some of them based on the diet and vitamin "plan." It is obvious that vitamins will not reduce the body weight, so one must depend on diet to reduce. But it is also obvious that one cannot go on a strenuous diet over a protracted period, and any weight lost will be restored if the former eating habits are gone back to.
So what to do? Well, here is a tip to you "overweight gals" who want to fight "the Battle of the Bulges" in a different way. Ask any well stocked Texas druggist for four ounces of Barcentrate. Mix with 12 ounces of grapefruit juice and take two tablespoonsful twice a day.
This preparation contains nothing harmful and the makers agree to refund your money on the very first bottle if it does not show you the way to lose ugly fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves.
Barcentrate is low in cost and is not based on the diet and vitamin "plan." You need never know a hungry moment while reducing with Barcentrate.

Nation's First Inauguration Ceremony Featured Pomp And Splendor; Washington's Actions Related

(EDITOR'S NOTE: As Washington prepares for the inauguration of President Truman Thursday, many new facts have come to light about the inaugural ceremonies of previous American presidents.

These facts—some amusing, others conflicting—have been unearthed by Stefan Lorant, famed authority on American history, who presents them to the readers of the Morning Avalanche in a series of articles of which this is the first.)

By STEFAN LORANT
(Written Exclusively For INS)

What birthdays are in the lives of men, inaugurations are in the life of a nation.

On Thursday the United States will celebrate the forty-first inauguration of a President.

Forty times four years have passed since that Thursday morning, April 30, 1789, when George Washington walked to the balcony of Federal hall in New York city at the foot of Wall street and with a trembling voice, somewhat hindered by his ill-fitting dental plate, took the oath of "preserve, protect, and defending the Constitution of the United States."

The multitude beneath the railing watched with eager eyes and strained necks as Washington kissed the Bible.

They saw his lips move as he said "so help me God." And they heard Chancellor Livingston who bent over the railing and shouted, "long live George Washington, President of the United States."

Their cheers echoed from the surrounding walls and reverberated in the neighboring streets. Down at the Battery a cannon was fired and a Spanish man-o-war boomed a fifteen-gun salute in the harbor.

Church bells rang and the flag of the new republic waved over Federal hall. It was a memorable occasion, an unforgettable moment—the beginning of government under the Federal constitution.

Washington acknowledged the cheers, then walked back into the building to deliver his inaugural address.

When he reached the Senate chamber, he took his place under a crimson canopy, nervously fingering the pages of his manuscript. Then he began to speak.

President Was Nervous

Senator MaClay, who was present, recorded for posterity that the President "was agitated and embarrassed more than ever he was by the levelled cannon or pointed musket.

"He trembled and several times could scarce make out to read, though it must be supposed he had often read it before.

"He put the fingers of the left hand into the side of what I think the tailors call the fall of the breeches, changing the papers into his left hand.

"After some time, he then did the same thing with some fingers of his right hand. When he came to the words all the world, he made a flourish with his right hand, which left rather an ungainly impression.

"I sincerely, for my part, wished all set ceremony in the hands of the dancing masters, and that this first of men had read off his address in the plainest manner, without ever taking his eyes from the papers, for I felt hurt that he was not first in everything.

"He was dressed in deep brown with metal buttons, with an eagle on them, white stockings, a bag and sword."

But other eyewitnesses remembered it differently. One of them thought that it was "a very touching scene and quite of the solemn kind," and that Washington's aspect was grave almost to sadness.

"His modesty, actually shaking; his voice deep, a little tremulous, and so low as to call for close attention, added to the series of objects presented to the mind, and overwhelming it, produced emotion of the most affecting kind upon the members."

In his speech before both Houses of Congress, the first President announced his principles and promised a stable, orderly and solvent government.

When he finished, Washington, accompanied by members of Congress and a crowd of foreign diplomats, proceeded to St. Paul's chapel at Broadway and Chatham Row where a short service was held and the blessing of the Almighty asked for the future.

After it was over he took his seat in his cream-colored coach decorated with cupids on its side panels, and drawn by four horses with a man on the box and lackey on one of the wheel-horses.

Beside the coach rode six gentlemen on horse-back; members of the Senate, diplomats and distinguished guests followed in other carriages. Dragoons, artillery, grenadiers in brilliant uniforms joined the parade, escorting the President to his temporary home at 3 Cherry Street.

Washington's feelings were expressed in a letter to his friend, General Knox, in which he said, "my movements to the chair of government will be accompanied by feelings not unlike those of a culprit who is going to his place of execution . . ."

In the evening all New York rejoiced. Fireworks rocketed; cascades, serpents and fountains of fire lit the sky. Happy people, full of expectations of the future, filled the drinking places and celebrated throughout the night.

But alas, inaugurations, like birthdays, last for only a day; then everyone must go back to work.

Dissension Soon Flared

The new President was faced with the formidable task of organizing a government, choosing the heads of departments, appointing judges, setting a pattern in dealing with Congress and establishing the etiquette of the office.

It was not long before his two chief advisers, Jefferson and Hamilton, were seriously at odds with each other.

Hamilton's financial policies were severely criticized by many patriotic citizens, and the opponents rallied behind Jefferson and Madison. Under the leadership of these two men, an opposition party gradually emerged.

Washington's desire to maintain a one-party system was of short duration.

The President, weary of his burdens, desired only one term in office, but was urged by all his political friends to remain at the helm of the government.

Worried over the increasing animosity between Jefferson and Hamilton he reconsidered. In the election—the year was 1792—all the electoral votes were cast for him.

But his second inaugural had none of the pomp and ceremony of the first. No parades or processions, no salutes or fireworks marked the day.

The Republican press, influenced by the events of the French revolution, had attacked Washington's formal levees and the President was reluctant to indulge in elaborate celebrations.

Jefferson proposed that Washington should take the oath privately in his own house and send a certificate that he had done so to Congress. Hamilton agreed with this, but the other cabinet members dissented.

At noon on March 4, 1793, Washington walked into the Senate chamber, unattended, and without much formality delivered his inaugural address, took the oath of office from Judge Cushing, and left the hall as quietly as he had come.

The news of his inauguration was hardly discussed for it had seemed so unimportant to the newspapers that they reported it only in a few lines on their inside pages.

Eight years in the presidential chair is a long time. Even the best man is bound to make enemies and no president has found it possible to fulfill the wishes of all the people.

Before his second term expired, Washington was no longer looked upon as a demi-god. He was attacked in the newspapers as "tyrant" and "dictator," an "imposter who should be hurled from his throne." The Philadelphia Aurora wrote: "If ever a nation was debauched by a man, the American nation was debauched by Washington."

This—as it turned out—was far from the verdict of history.

Pneumonia-Stricken Woman Wins Long Battle With Snow

FORT COLLINS, Colo., Jan. 17.—(INS)—Victory was claimed today in a dramatic 48-hour battle against snow and cold to save the life of a young Colorado ranch wife.

Under medical care in Fort Collins today was Mrs. Richard Floyd, who was stricken with pneumonia on the Black Mountain dude ranch operated by her husband.

The ranch, 50 miles west of Fort Collins, has been isolated since the mighty blizzard of two weeks ago. Unable to get a doctor, Floyd decided Saturday to bring his wife to Fort Collins.

Floyd and a crew of ranch hands, aided by a bulldozer, were able to progress only two of the nine miles of mountain road between the ranch and Red Feather lakes, a resort village, in 12 hours.

Yesterday, the rancher and his wife started out again in a station wagon. At the same time, five men with two Army trucks began to "break trail" from Red Feathers.

Sixteen hours later, with the thermometer registering 12 degrees below zero, Mrs. Floyd reached the resort and the comparatively open road to Fort Collins. She was reported on the way to recovery from her illness today.

Rescuers said the ranch road was covered by snow as deep as 20 feet in places, and some of the drifts were packed so hard a car could be safely driven over them.

Where ice hit telephone lines

DAMAGE EXCEEDS $2,300,000

Last week's ice and sleet storm struck telephone communications in the Southwest the hardest blow they'd received since 1937.

Damage to telephone lines exceeds $2,300,000 in the area shown on the map above.

Telephone construction men, 3,000 of them, with their trucks and tools, moved into the storm region from all directions.

At the height of the storm 180 communities in four states had no outside telephone communications whatever.

The storm disrupted service for many thousands of telephone users for varying periods. We regret the interruption to service and we sincerely appreciate the patience people everywhere have demonstrated.

The size of the repair job that 3,000 telephone workmen are now tackling can be measured in the damage—108,000 wire breaks, 9,000 poles down, 2,600 long distance circuits out of service, 19,000 telephones temporarily silent.

By states, the money losses are $600,000 in Missouri, $380,000 in Kansas, $570,000 in Oklahoma, and $750,000 in Texas.

The poles, wire, crossarms, and all the other things needed to restore service are coming into the storm area by train and by truck. They're coming from Missouri, Texas, Alabama, Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi, Illinois, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland.

Telephone men began the repair job while the sleet still was falling. Long after emergency service is restored everywhere they'll still be at work until all damaged telephone equipment has been repaired and replaced, and everyone's service is back to normal.

Lubbock Meets Brownfield Tonight

Westerners Bid For League Win

Lubbock High's battered Westerner cagers, still recovering from tough weekend battles at Amarillo and Pampa, will bid for their second District 1-AA win at 8 o'clock tonight at the Brownfield High gymnasium, where the Hub city quintet will meet the surprising Cubs.

Coach Faris Nowell's Brownfield crew provided the major upset in district competition last week by nosing out the Plainview Bulldogs, 38-36, in two overtime periods. At the same time the Westerners gained a spot in the top loop bracket by defeating Amarillo, 34-32, but lost a 32-22 setto to the strong Pampa Harvesters at Pampa.

The Cubs and the Harvesters are leading the district title chase, as a result of their opening week triumphs, and both quints boast undefeated records in conference play. The Harvesters have two wins, over Borger and Lubbock, and the Cubs hold a single win—over Plainview. Lubbock is in third place with a victory and a loss, while Amarillo, Plainview and Borger have yet to win a loop tilt.

Morris Faces Trouble

Coach Roy Morris faces trouble from three sources tonight when his Westerners tangle with the Cubs at Brownfield. The Westerners are crippled by injuries to two key players, Charles Galey and Bob Rooker, and Lubbock fans know that the Cubs will be pointing for a victory over their traditional South Plains rivals. The Cubs have a veteran team, including three lettermen, and are always tough to beat on their home court.

Galey, the Westerners' top point-maker and field general, received a deep cut over his left eye in a collision in the closing minutes of the tussle with Pampa, and the sharp-shooting veteran was hampered by the injury in the drill session Monday afternoon at the Chapman field gymnasium. Rooker, a defensive star of the games with Amarillo and Pampa, received a foot injury in the Pampa tilt and was limping throughout the workout Monday.

Coach Morris is expected to start his regular lineup against the Cubs, if Galey is able to see full-time duty. Big Jim Wilson will start at his center slot, Galey and Sexton will get the nod at the forward posts and Blair Hankins and Morris Turner will be at the guard positions. Rooker may replace Turner in the starting lineup, if his foot injury shows improvement.

Glenn Gorby, a two-year letterman, is expected to start at center for Coach Nowell's Cubs tonight. The big veteran—he towers three inches above the six foot mark—has been the top scorer for the Brownfield boys in every tilt this season and is ranked as one of the top performers in the district. Forwards will probably be Calvin Farris and John Thompson, with lettermen Jim Billings and Jodie Line at guard posts.

The Cubs have been erratic in non-conference play, defeating Tahoka, Andrews and dividing a pair of games with Denver City, but the Brownfield five has been defeated by Lamesa and several other area quints. The Cubs have been double-tough on their home floor, however, and their win over Plainview cannot be discounted.

Approximately 400 fans are expected at the Brownfield gym at game time, officials reported. A new electric clock and scoreboard will be used for the game.

The "B" teams of the two schools will open the action at 7 o'clock with a preliminary setto.

Arizona Appears To Be On Way To Fourth Border Loop Crown

Tech Dogs Heels Of Surging 'Cats

It's a short season in the Border Conference, so far as basketball is concerned, but it's a long climb for the Red Raiders of Texas Tech.

For three weeks now they have been meeting—and beating conference foes, dropping only one game in six outings. They avenged the one defeat by taking their conquerors, Texas Mines, last Tuesday. They they went on to beat West Texas State Teachers college Friday night. Still they could do no better than second.

Why? Because the University of Arizona cagers, defending champions and winners of the border crown three times in a row, were doing pretty well. In fact, the home-bound Wildcats have taken three straight games on their home hardwood to remain perched in the familiar surroundings of first place.

The Loop Custom

Pretty soon that will have to change, if Border loop play runs true to form. It is customary for teams to win at home and to lose on the road. Tech has done better than a mere average so far this season. They have won three games away from home and dropped only one.

And with six victories against one defeat, the Raiders remain in the best challenging position behind Arizona. The Wildcats have four games to play to equal the Raiders and if they can no better on the road, the two teams would be tied.

Tech has a good edge on Hardin-Simmons, surprise holder of third place. The Cowboys have two losses so far on the schedule and two less victories than the Raiders, who have played the most conference games so far.

WTSTC, rated a pre-season possibility, now has three losses on the record and barely hangs onto fourth place above New Mexico. The latter was one of three teams to beat the Buffaloes, but have not fared well in Arizona.

Texas Mines stands next in the race, almost out of the running after a strong start, and Flagstaff, Tempe and New Mexico A. and M. bring up the rear. All three teams are as good as out of the race, but can continue to cause trouble against the leaders.

The week's schedule, with examinations coming up, is sparse. Arizona takes to the road for its lone game of the season so far away from home, meeting Flagstaff at Flagstaff Friday night. New Mexico A. and M. visits Albuquerque Thursday for a game with New Mexico.

Relay Officials To Meet Wednesday

Representatives of the four sponsoring agencies of the South Plains Relays will hold a meeting at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night at the City hall, where preliminary plans will be made for conducting the second annual Relays event here in April.

Officials expected to attend the session include E. J. Lowrey, Pat Pattison and Freddie Brown of Lubbock High school; A. C. Hamilton and Curtis Barrett, City Recreation department; A. B. Davis and George Bond of the Chamber of Commerce; and Morley Jennings and Maxey McKnight of Texas Tech.

Date of the relays, admission charges, trophy awards and other business concerning the Relays will be discussed at the meeting.

Assault May Appear At Big Tracks Again

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 17 (AP)—Assault, the King Ranch's great thoroughbred, may race again.

The Columbia Record said today it had word from trainer Max Hirsch that he was putting Assault back in training and hoped to start him at a New York track next summer.

"He never looked better—in fact he never looked as good," Hirsch reported in a telephone interview from the King Ranch in Texas.

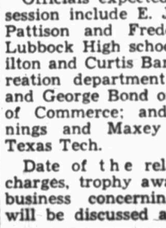

Assault was retired to stud last year after popping an osselet in the 1948 Widener Handicap, when he was matched against Armed.

The six-year-old will work out on a new track at the King ranch.

Assault won racing's triple crown—the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes—in 1946. He won the first five of his 1947 starts, but dropped out of the big money winners' circle because of the leg injury.

Two Lubbock Boys Enter Events

More Entries Swell Tahoka Fight Bouts

TAHOKA, Jan. 17. (Special)—Four more entries in the two-day boxing tournament here Friday and Saturday nights were received today by the Tahoka Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the bouts.

The entries, two from Tahoka fighters and two from Lubbock boys, helped swell the number of bouts that will be held. Handsome trophies will be given to the winners.

Entries today came from Billy McMillan and Paul Hill of Tahoka, both of whom plan to enter the regional Golden Gloves tournament in Lubbock, and Alex Garcia and Isaac Turino of Lubbock, two other Lubbock Golden Gloves hopefuls.

McMillan and Garcia are featherweights, Turino is a light weight and Hill is a light heavyweight, who probably will fight in the middleweight division in Lubbock.

All the boys are of high school age and primarily on the novice side, although the only division open here will be the open class. The Jaycee bouts are considered a warmup for the regional tourney and boys will gain valuable experience here.

Ticket sales still are going rapidly and a capacity crowd is expected for each night. G. W. White, Jaycee publicity chairman, said that the Jaycees were having no trouble in selling tickets and that more probably would have to be printed.

Texas Tech students, as well as school children, will be admitted for 40 cents, while adults will pay 80 cents. Tickets can be obtained from the Jaycees here, or at the doors the nights of the fights.

LATE FEBRUARY DATE IS SET

District 18-A Girls Cage Loop Winners To Compete In Tourney

First and second place winners of the six county tournaments of District 18-A, High School Girls Basketball league of Texas, will compete in the district meet which will be held during the last two weeks of February, under a rule voted by loop officials at a special meeting here Monday night at the courthouse.

Only one of the officials present voted against the two team proposal, while representatives of approximately 15 of the district's 27 member schools were united in their support of the motion.

The district officials also voted to allow the winning teams from the county tournaments to decide the date, time, site and officials for the District 18-A tournament. Several proposals were made concerning the use of either the Texas Tech or Lubbock High gymnasiums for the meet, but a final vote gave the tourney contestants the right to decide the problem.

There was also much support for use of the Amherst gym for the tournament, as a result of its large seating capacity and central location, and several of the loop coaches and school officials reported last night that they would back the move. Exact date of the tourney will be set at a meeting of officials of the county winners here Monday, Feb. 14, it was announced.

County tournaments will be held during the first two weeks of February and the district winner, to be named in the final loop meet, must be certified to the state organization headquarters by March 1. The state tourney at Hillsboro will be held in March.

The 27 district schools are located in six South Plains counties—Lubbock, Hale, Lamb, Cochran, Bailey and Hockley.

Toby Waggoner, coach of the New Deal school team and district chairman, presided at the meeting.

Blue Flame Defeats Texas Lumber Bin

Four games were played in the City and Industrial Independent basketball leagues here Monday night, with Blue Flame taking a narrow 39-37 victory over the Texas Lumber Bin in a feature City clash at the Chapman field gymnasium. Deacon Johnson tallied 14 points for Blue Flame, while W. F. Bowley notched 12 for the Lumber Bin.

The Lubbock Cowhands defeated the Trammell service quint, 32-27, in an Industrial loop setto. Charles Lambert collected nine points for the Cowhands, while George Bedford scored 12 for Trammell.

At the O. L. Slaton Junior High gym the Sanders Motor quint drubbed Rigney Auto, 54-28. Bob Clodfelter topped Sanders with 17 points and Jim Smyth hit the loop for 12 for Rigney.

Hilton hotel trounced Furr Food, 41-25, as Carl Johnson swished the net for 16 points. Melvin Johnson tallied eight for Furr.

Lew Jenkins Scores TKO Over Camacho

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17 (AP)—Lew Jenkins, one-time lightweight champion from Sweetwater, Tex., won his second straight fight since hitting the comeback trail by scoring a technical knockout over Rene Camacho of Miami in one minute, 14 seconds of the second round tonight at the arena.

Lightweight champion Ike Williams, returning to the ring after a two months layoff due to a broken hand, was scheduled to go 10 rounds against Johnny Bratton of Chicago in the feature event.

Jenkins suffered a cut eye in the opening round but rallied to drop the inexperienced Camancho twice. He cut loose with hard right and left hand smashes to the face in the second round, dropping Camacho for a nine count.

Referee Dave Beloff finally stopped the slaughter as the Miami lad stood almost helpless before Jenkins' two fisted attack.

Jenkins weighed 133 and Camacho 131½.

Pro Loop Owners Meet In Chicago

By CHARLES EINSTEIN
INS Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Jan. 17. (INS)—Councils of war or peace, as the case may be, started forming in Chicago tonight with the arrival of embattled All-America Football Conference clubowners.

Grimly unwilling to lose their identity as a league to the larger, older National football league, the A. A. C. operators will hold a secret meeting tomorrow morning in the Chicago offices of their most influential member, Ben Lindheimer.

Lindheimer, Chicago race track potentate who also owns the Los Angeles Dons of the All-America, arrived in town late today and termed talk that the A. A. C. will fold before the week is up as "the usual scuttlebutt."

He added that no definite meeting time or place has been set for a conference of All-America and National league owners. The latter will be in Chicago in full force within the next day or so, with their regular winter meetings scheduled to start Thursday.

Reports that the All-America will definitely shed its Chicago Rockets and Brooklyn Dodgers franchises, peace or no peace, continued to meet with strong factual support. One important A. A. C. executive said:

"We're an eight-team league. Take away Chicago and Brooklyn and you have a six-team league that could operate very profitably next season."

Adm. Jonas Ingram, commissioner of the All-America Conference, chose this occasion to repeat his heartfelt contention that two leagues, along friendly major league baseball lines, will carry the ultimate solution to pro football's problems.

The admiral may choose this week as the time for his final resignation as A. A. C. czar. Long desiring to retire to his home in Coronado, Cal., he resigned as All-America commissioner nearly a year ago but was persuaded to remain on a month-to-month basis. He has said since then that he would retire "when peace comes."

Teams Advance In Levelland Tourney

LEVELLAND, Jan. 17.—(Special)—Thomas Tinkers of Lubbock, Primm Drug of Brownfield and the Levelland Refiners moved into the semi-finals of the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Independent basketball tournament with wins over bracket opponents here tonight.

The Tinkers drubbed Spade, 56-27, as Bob Galey tallied 15 points. Hull notched eight for Spade.

In probably the most exciting game of the quarter-final tussles unreeled here tonight Primm Drug nosed out the Plains Gassers from Shallowater, 45-43. Jake Geron hit the loop for 14 points for Primm, while Buskin led the Gassers with 12 points.

Levelland's powerful Refiners swamped United Geophysical of Brownfield, 76-21, in the final tilt tonight. Fred Owens tallied 18 points for Levelland and Grimm scored eight for the Brownfield quint.

The semi-final games will be played Tuesday night, with Derrick service of Idalou meeting Levelland at 8 o'clock and Thomas battling Primm at 9.

Three-Team Amateur Fight Event Scheduled At West Texas State

CANYON, Jan. 17 (Special) — Coach Odis Crowell, boxing supervisor, announced recently a three-team amateur fight program will be held in Burton Gym at West Texas State College on Jan. 19.

Crowell said teams from Plainview, Amarillo and West Texas State College would compete. He listed the following as the Buffalo team: Willis Hawkins, Canyon, 155; Jack London, Lefors, 147; Arnold Dalton, Brownfield 147; Chet Reeves, Childress, 129. Ernest Babitzke, Canadian, 119; J Roy Henry, Shamrock, 159; Richard Stewart, Hugoton, Kansas, 175; Clint Williams, Phillips, 182; Fred Conner, Lockney, 135; Don Briggs, Shamrock, 185.

FOOTBALL IMMORTALS GATHER—Three of the most famous names in football and three of the men who had most to do with football's present high standing are shown above. They hardly need the customary left to right introduction, but they are Amos Alonzo Stagg, Andy Kerr and Pop Warner. If one coach could have all the football knowledge this group represents, that mentor would be unbeatable. The picture was taken in San Francisco recently, where the three met to discuss—football.

Foster, Dean Arrange 16 Bout Boxing Card

Lubbock-Plainview Inter-City Fights Scheduled Friday Night

The card for the Plainview-Lubbock inter-city boxing match Friday night at Plainview was set yesterday following a conversation between Bud Dean of Plainview and O. C. Foster of Lubbock, respective managers.

A total of 16 bouts, one of which will be an exhibition between Don Williams and Gene James of Lubbock heavyweights, are scheduled for the card. Many of the Lubbock fighters appeared on their first inter-city card last Thursday night, when Amarillo took home an 8-2 decision.

All Are Gloves Entrants

Broken down into weight classes, there will be one flyweight, four featherweight, two lightweight, two welterweight, two middleweight, four light heavyweight and one heavyweight bouts. Without exception, the fighters appearing on the Plainview card will be in the regional Golden Gloves tournament here Jan. 31, Feb. 1 and Feb. 2.

Probably the most outstanding contest will be put up by Calvin Pyle of Lockney, the high school middleweight. Pyle won his 20th straight fight against Abilene Saturday night and will be after his 21st Friday night. His opponent will be James Bickel, who Thursday night won one of the two Lubbock fights against Amarillo. Bickel beat Claude King, one of the better Amarillo fighters and he may beat Pyle.

Ray Crenshaw of Texas Tech, who made a fine showing two years ago, will be making his first start since that time against G. D. Jeffcoat, one of the better Plainview fighters. These two welterweights ought to give the crowd a good fight all the way.

Jerry Martin of Lubbock, who was calm and cool last week in his ring debut against the clever, able Melvin McClung of Amarillo, should fare better this week. The blond flyweight takes on Luther McNeely, who pleased the Abilene crowd in losing Saturday night.

The complete card follows: 112-pounds, McNeely, Plainview, vs Martin; 127-pounds, Don Ramsey, Plainview, vs Eddie Goetze. Ted Livesay, Plainview, vs Jimmy Williams, Coyt Thompson, Plainview, vs John Ticer, and C. L. ATHLETIC COMMITTEE TO MEET

Blair Cherry May Leave Steers For Position With Pro Gridders

AUSTIN, Jan. 17 (AP)—University of Texas officials today said the athletic committee of the board of regents will meet here tomorrow with the university athletic council.

One official said the groups will consider the entire intercollegiate athletic picture including reports that head football coach Blair Cherry is considering offers to coach in the National professional football league.

Cherry confirmed reports last week that he had talked with officials of two professional teams but added he had made no decision.

The young coach has been connected in newspaper stories with head coaching vacancies with the Washington Redskins and the Chicago Cardinals.

Dudley K. Woodward, Dallas, chairman of the board of regents, is expected to meet with the groups tomorrow.

Members of the board's athletic committee are E. E. Kirkpatrick, Brownwood, Chairman, Jim Rockwell, Houston and A. M. G. Swinson, Stamford.

It was pointed out the groups can take no formal action except to make recommendations to the full board which meets here Jan. 29.

Tickets For Golden Gloves Meet Available Daily At Texas Tech

New Entries Will Swell Local Event

Tickets for the three-day regional Golden Gloves program in Tech gym Jan. 31, Feb. 1 and Feb. 2 are available at Texas Tech daily from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m.

Morley Jennings, Tech athletic director and Golden Gloves official, said that the tickets had been printed and were on sale. Half of the reserved seats for each night already have been reserved on telephone orders and persons are urged to pick up their tickets as soon as possible.

General admission tickets also are available, but Jennings did not expect a heavy rush on them until just before the fights.

450 Available

Reserved seats, which are all seats on the floor extending from the ring to the edge of the stands, are selling at $1.80 each for each night of the fights. With about 450 seats available, and the tickets half sold, only about 225 tickets remain for each night.

General admission seats, sold on a first come first served basis, are nearly as good as the ring-side-reserved seats. Tickets for general admission cost $1.20 each and may be bought in advance. Both ticket prices include tax.

Persons buying tickts may either place orders for the reserved seats over the phone or may go to Tech gym between 9 and 4 p. m., daily. And all persons are requested to pick up tickets as soon as possible.

Entries in the fights continue to arrive daily with three novice and one open division fighters entering yesterday. Entered in the featherweight class of the open division is a fighter well known to previous Gloves classics, H. L. McMillan of Box 654 Tahoka. McMillan has appeared on fight cards both in Lubbock and Amarillo, has had 10 bouts and has won over half of them. He is a 20-year-old boy with two years of boxing.

The three novice entries included a featherweight, a lightweight and a possible welterweight, two of the boys coming from out of Lubbock. The lone Hub City entry was Alex Garcia of 123 Avenue N, a 16-year old with no previous experience, a featherweight.

Bob Gullett of Olton Route 2 entered the lightweight division of the novice class. Gullett, a 16-year old boy, has had two years of boxing, but has appeared in only two bouts, winning both.

Crosbyton Novice Enters

Charlie Menton Anderson of Crosbyton is another novice to enter the Golden Gloves. He weighs 150 pounds, but might make the welterweight division. He has had no experience in the ring during his 18 years, but wants to join other Crosbyton boys in showing here.

These entries help to swell the Golden Gloves Regional tournament to a new all time high and, if all the fighters show up, the three-night's show should be filled with good bouts.

As a reminder to all boys in this area, Foster's Gym at 2417 Main street is open from 6:30 until 9 p. m. every night as a training center. All necessary equipment for boxing, outside of personal equipment, is on hand and there are supervised trainers to assist the fighters.

Bill Cissell Is Sick, Broke

CHICAGO, Jan. 17. (INS)—Officials of the Chicago White Sox and the American league moved tonight to the aid of Bill "Spider" Cissell, one-time Sox star who was found yesterday, pain-ridden and penniless, in his drab one-room flat on Chicago's south side.

A victim of Berger's disease, a severe circulatory ailment that affects his legs so that he can no longer walk, Cissell was discovered yesterday when policemen and his 13-year-old son Gary took him in a patrol wagon to county hospital.

"But they couldn't take me in there," said Cissell, famed ex-shortstop who carried a fabulous $123,000 price tag when the White Sox bought him from Portland of the Pacific Coast league in 1928. "They said my disease would take too long to cure."

Cissell had been working as a freight handler until bedded by his ailment. His only active source of funds thereafter was the seven dollars his son earned each week working in a grocery store after school.

He is three weeks behind in his rent, and had not been outside his room for a month before his brief ride to the hospital and back in a police patrol wagon yesterday.

His only companion is son Gary, who prepares his meals. A daughter, Charlene is in school in Iowa and another son, Bill, Jr., is in the navy. Cissell's wife died three years ago.

Efforts were to be made by Sox general manager Frank Lane and by Will Harridge, president of the American league, to secure funds for the former Sox star.

"I don't want charity," Cissell said tonight. "I just want the chance to get back on my feet."

Barney White Is Named Manager Of Temple Eagles Baseball Club

TEMPLE, Jan. 17. (AP)—Barney White, former Texas league player, today was named manager of the Temple Eagles in the Class B Big State league.

White, who once played with Fort Worth and Tulsa, will be a playing manager. He is an outfielder.

Last year he was with Paris in the Big State league, batting .363 and was second in the league for runs batted in.

Homer Peel, part-owner of the Temple club, said White would report here about the middle of next month. The Eagles are to start spring training around March 6th.

Sports Study

By Earl Scudday

Lubbock High's Westerners will go after their second District 1-AA victory of the season at 8 o'clock tonight at Brownfield, where the Hub city schoolboys will tangle with the dangerous Cubs. The Brownfield five surprised area cage fans by defeating Plainview last week, and the Cubs are apparently hard to beat on their home court. The Westerners are not at top strength, as a result if injuries, and the Hub city quint will have to battle to remain in the loop chase.

* * *

Now that we can look back at last weekend's difficult road tussles at Amarillo and Pampa, we're just happy that the Westerners were able to break even. The win over Amarillo, despite the later loss to Pampa's Harvesters, definitely put the Lubbock quint in the top bracket. And now the Westerners face only one other game on the road—with Borger—against a team rated as a championship contender. Both Brownfield and Plainview are dangerous on any give night, but they have little chance to chalk up more than a couple of wins against the four favored quintets. Both Pampa and Amarillo still have to play the Westerners at Lubbock, and the two Panhandle rivals still have to play their traditional settos. So the Westerners are now in a better position to bid for a title. The key games remaining on the Westerner schedule, unless the Lubbock cagers are defeated by Brownfield tonight or Borger later this week, will be the Pampa and Amarillo games here late this month and early in February.

We've been asked plenty of questions about the tilts with the Sandies and Harvesters last weekend, since returning home, so we'll just answer them here. Amarillo is very good again this year, despite two losses in eight games. The Sandies have two very tall boys and handle the ball well, but do not have quite as smooth a club as they had last season. The Westerners were hitting better than usual Friday night when they beat the Sandies, as well as playing a good defensive game, but they just beat the Sandies two points. Too, Coach T. G. Hull's crew will show steady improvement as the football boys get in top basketball condition, and the Amarilloans will be bidding for revenge when they come down here. As Berl Huffman used to say, "it should be a stem-winder."

* * *

The Pampa team that beat the Westerners Saturday night at Pampa is, in our opinion, the best schoolboy quintet we've seen in several years. The Harvesters have three big boys, feature good ball-handling and — against the Westerners—were amazing in their shooting. The Westerners' zone defense kept the Harvesters back of the free throw circle, with the exception of a couple of pivot shots by big Derral Davis, but the Harvester guards hit the basket with morale-breaking regularity during the first three quarters. Although exact figures were not available, every reputable observer at the game estimated that the Harvesters hit at least 50 per cent of their shots in the first half. Just as a comparison, Texas Tech hit 32 per cent of its shots against the Buffs at Canyon Friday night, and Lubbock High hit 36 per cent in beating Amarillo Friday night. There's just no defense for a team that can hit 40 per cent of its shots from beyond the circle.

Of course, no one believes that the Harvesters can be so "hot" against the Westerners again. In fact, in beating Borger last week the Pampans hit only 29 per cent of their throws. So they were definitely playing their best ball when they beat Lubbock. But, with their height, ball-handling and marksmanship, they are definitely the "team to beat" in the district. Their most important handicap is that they have to play games at both Lubbock and Amarillo. Last season the Harvesters beat Lubbock at Pampa, but couldn't get the job done at Lubbock later in the season. Let's hope history repeats on that situation.

We would like to commend the Westerner cagers for the hustle and spirit they displayed in the game against Pampa. The boys scrapped harder than in any other game this season. The results of their work showed on the scoreboard, with Pampa winning by only a 10-point margin. As hot as the Harvesters were on their shooting, the score would have been something like 40-15 or 50-20 if the Westerners had not battled them all over the court. The Westerners actually held the Harvesters to one field goal in the fourth quarter, although the Pampans tallied four points on free throws.

Mel Patton To Quit In Track

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17 (INS) — Mel Patton, 200-meter Olympic champion and the University of Southern California's ace track man, announced today he was quitting track "for financial reasons."

Patton, holder of the unofficial world 100-yard record of 9.3 seconds and often called the "world's fastest human," will be graduated in physical education from USC next June. However, he said he would not use his last year of track eligibility.

"I have a wife and daughter to support," he said. "I have accepted a sales position with my father-in-law, Ed Roos, head of the Allied-Matrix company.

Patton had already begun training for the 1949 season. Teammates had selected him as one of their two co-captains.

The speedster entered Southern Cal in 1946 after a period with the naval air corps. He graduated from University high school in Los Angeles in 1943, winning both city sprints in 1942 and 1943.

In his freshman year at USC he competed on the varsity team and set frosh records of 9.7s and 21.1s in the dashes.

Patton equalled the world record of 9.4s for the 100 yards in 1947 at the Modesto relays. He won the 100 in the N.C.A.A. but a bad leg kept him out of the 220.

He broke the world record for the 100 the following year at Fresno, Cal., where he sprinted the distance in 9.3s to defeat Lloyd LaBeach. The time has been accepted as an American record and is now up for international approval

BUSY BALL CLUBS OPEN MARCH 12

Major Loop Nines Schedule 341 Exhibition Games This Spring

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. (AP)—Major league baseball teams will play 341 exhibition games this spring in the five-week period between March 12 and opening day.

The busy ball clubs will cover most of the south, southwest and southern Pacific coast with a fine tooth comb in their search for condition and loose dollar bills.

For the first time in years, no team is training out side the United States. However, three games will be played in Havana when the Philadelphia Athletics hop over from West Palm Beach, Fla., for a three-day junket, March 25-27. No National league team will venture from the home shores.

The National league schedule, announced today, calls for 232 games, 132 against American leaguers, 54 with minor leaguers and one with a college team—the usual New York Giants vs Army fixture. Five games by split squads are included in the total.

The American league has chartered 241 including 28 intnra-league battles, 77 with minor leaguers, three with foreign teams and one with a marine service squad.

Indians Are Busiest

This two-league total comes to 473 but, of course, the 132 inter-league games are counted by both leagues, hence 341 is correct.

The world champion Cleveland Indians will be the busiest club with 37 games scheduled. The Chicago Cubs and New York Giants, each with 36 games, set the National pace.

Opening day in training schedule, March 12, will find all 16 clubs in action. Here's how they will line up:

Boston Braves vs. Brooklyn at Miami.

New York Giants vs. Cleveland at Tucson, Ariz.

New York Yankees vs. St. Louis Cards at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Cincinnati vs. Boston Red Sox at Sarasota, Fla.

Philadelphia Phillies vs. Detroit at Clearwater, Fla.

Chicago Cubs vs Pittsburgh at San Bernardino, Calif.

St. Louis Browns vs. Chicago White Sox at Hollywood, Calif.

Philadelphia A's vs. Washington at West Palm Beach, Fla.

It goes on like that, almost without a stop, until the opening, April 18-19.

Season Opens In April

The customary city series will be played, winding up the schedules at Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia and St. Louis. Once again the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees close their preseason work with a three-game set divided between Ebbets Field and the Yankee Stadium.

Cleveland and the New York Giants will play the longest series, 16 games, as they troupe home from Arizona, through Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Virginia and finally wind up at the Polo Grounds.

Brooklyn's schedule, already under fire from the Ku Klux Klan authorities in Georgia, calls for Jackie Robinson, the Dodger's negro second baseman, to appear in a number of southern cities for the first time.

The Braves and Red Sox will meet seven times, three in Florida and four in New England. Back home at Sportsman's Park, the St. Louis Browns and Cards play two games Easter weekend. The Phils and A's decide the Philadelphia championship in three mid-April games. There will be six meetings of the Cubs and the rejuvenated White Sox, Chicago's two cellar champs of 1948.

New Cold Blasts May Hit Plains

wore itself out. Rising temperatures, the weatherman said, probably would end the snow and bring occasional rain.

Partly cloudy skies and warmer temperatures were forecast for Wednesday night. A reading in the upper 20's is expected Wednesday morning. A high in the upper 30's is forecast for Wednesday before the first of two new cold fronts swing into the area. After that temperatures probably will nosedive again, the weather station said.

New Fronts On Way

Temperatures here Monday failed to climb over the freezing mark. The mercury slipped to 19 degrees yesterday morning, and inched to a high of 23 degrees during the afternoon. Northerly winds Sunday and yesterday morning whipped the first fall of snow across fields and down streets, but quieted during the afternoon and the snowfall last night was scarcely disturbed except for occasional light gusts of air.

THUNDER WITH SLEET

WICHITA FALLS, Jan. 17. (AP) — Residents of Wichita Falls witnessed a very rare weather event tonight. Heavy lighining and thunder accompanied an intense sleet storm.

First of the new fronts to reach the South Plains is driving from the Pacific Northwest, the weather bureau said, and should reach the Lubbock area between 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. Wednesday. Travelling on the heels of the Pacific front is a blast of arctic air driving out of the Canadian icefields.

"These two fronts may join forces before they reach the South Plains," the weather station reported, "and it may be that we will seem to have only one hard cold blast of weather."

The Pacific front was thrusting across Montana and Wyoming last night while the Canadian storm just had moved across the Canadian-U. S. border into Montana. Both were aimed directly at the Panhandle-South Plains, according to early weather bureau checks.

Farmers Welcome Moisture

Area farmers and ranchers hopes for improved ground moisture conditions this spring were given an additional boost by the snowfall, and the possibility of more precipitation from the approaching fronts added to their general feeling of well being. While the total precipitation from the snowfall was light—it takes 10 to 12 inches of snow to equal an inch of rain—the fall helped push the moisture left by last week's ice storm deeper into the soil and added to the area's badly needed underground moisture supply.

An Avalanche survey last night brought the following reports:

At Plainview, snow began falling about 1 p. m. Monday and continued intermittantly throughout the afternoon and early night, but only a light carpet of snow had covered the ground by 9:30 or 10 o'clock last night. Highways were not reported to be especially slick by that time.

There was little or no wind in the Plainview area Monday.

Motorists in the Littlefield vicinity were being warned last night to drive carefully, since the more travelled thoroughfares in that area were reported to be getting slick. Snow fell intermittantly there in the afternoon and night, with smaller traces Monday morning. Snowfall was reported getting heavier about 9 p. m.

Temperatures at Littlefield were down to about 18 degrees by 9:30 o'clock last night.

Matador Area Has Fall

Snow and spitting sleet were reported at Matador, but only in intermittant flurries which lasted most of the day. A light blanket of snow had covered the ground there by 9:30 o'clock last night. Unofficial temperature reading showed about 22 degrees at that time.

Snow was falling steadily at Lamesa at 10 p. m. Monday, and an estimated one to one and one-half inches of snow had covered the ground. Roads were reported to be extremely slick, and traffic was diminishing as a result.

As in other parts of the South Plains, snow fell intermittantly in the Lamesa vicinity until about 4 p. m. Monday, when the snowfall increased. Temperatures by 10 p. m. were 24 degrees. A resident of Lamesa said last night that indications were strong that it might snow there all night.

Post had an estimated two inches of snow on the ground by 10 o'clock or shortly thereafter last night. It was reported there that it had been snowing steadily since about 4 p. m. Temperatures by 10 p. m. had fallen to 18 degrees. Highways and roads in that vicinity were not reported unduly slick early last night.

A light blanket of snow was reported at Crosbyton last night, but snowfall there had been relatively light Monday, with intermittant falls throughout the day, it was reported. Little wind was reported in that area.

New Broadcasting Station At Levelland Gets Tentative Okay

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (AP)—The Communications commission today announced proposed grants for two new standard radio stations in contested cases pending before the commission.

Since the rulings are tentative they are subject to appeal by dissatisfied parties within 20 days.

FCC said it proposes to grant the applicatio nof Herald Broadcasting company for a new station at Levelland, Tex., to operate on 1230 kilocycles, 250 watts, unlimited time. It said it also proposed to authorize station KOSA, Odessa, Tex., to change frequency from 1430 kilocycles to 1230 kilocycles.

The awards will involve denial of these applications, heard in the same proceeding:

Panhandle Broadcasting Corp. and of Voice of Amarillo for new stations at Amarillo, using the 1230 kilocycle frequency.

Station KBST, Big Spring, Tex., to change frequency from 1490 to 1230 kilocycles.

Station KWEW, Hobbs, N. M., to change frequency from 1094 to 1230 kilocycles.

VFW To Ask Bonus For Texas Veterans

AUSTIN, Jan. 17. (AP)—A bonus for all Texas veterans of World War One and Two will be asked by the Texas division of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The VFW state legislative program announced today calls for the payment of at least $10 per month for domestic military service and $15 a month for overseas service.

S. A. Childress of Waco, state commander of the VFW, met with his staff officers here to plan the legislative program the state organization will sponsor.

Abolition of the poll tax, complete staffing of all county draft boards with veterans, investigation of the Veterans Affairs commission, and rehabilitation of the Confederate home in Austin for use of all Texas war veterans were also included in the proposed legislation.

Death Claims Three

an Army truck. Three other persons were hurt.

The snowstorm penetrated deep into West Texas. El Paso had four inches.

Highways Solid Ice

The state highway patrol said U. S. highway 81 from north of Georgetown into Bell county was solid ice. State Highway 20 from Manor to Elgin likewise was solid ice, the patrol stated.

There were icy spots on U. S. Highway 79 from Austin to Taylor and on State Highway 95 north of Taylor.

Icy spots made hills hazardous on State 29 from Austin to Burnet and Llano, and there was ice from Austin to Junction and Fredericksburg and west of Fredericksburg.

The same dangerous conditions prevailed over Travis, Hayes, Caldwell, Bastrop, Lee, Williamson, Burnet, Llano, and Gillespie counties.

San Angelo, said the state highway patrol, is the hub from which icy roads fan out in every direction. And snow is falling over the whole area.

"Everything in West Texas is iced over," a patrolman stated. The ice was a perilous sheath from Pecos to El Paso.

Roads were open at Amarillo. Snow and a temperature of 12 degrees above zero were expected there Tuesday.

New Mexico Hard Hit

Meanwhile, wintry weather in the west delayed the family washday for many housewives, menaced growing oranges and flashed a decisive stop signal for hundreds of motorists Monday, the Associated Press reported.

Meanwhile the federal forecaster in Kansas City last night warned that an intense storm had developed in Saskatchewan province in Canada and was expected to move rapidly southward. A huge mass of Arctic air will follow.

Bitter cold meanwhile continued to grip a wide section of the Pacific northwest, the Midwest and deep into New Mexico, The Associated Press said. Snow, which blanketed the southern half of New Mexico with record falls ranging from eight to 16 inches stranded several thousand motorists on blocked highways. Some 2,000 auto travelers were marooned at Lordsburg, N. M. Many cars were stalled in the area. Freezing flood waters which backed up behind a 12-mile ice jam in the Missouri river near Kickapoo Bend in Kansas drove many families from their homes.

marching up and down.

Soon the line had about 300 persons, all parading silently. None carried placards or signs. They marched for about an hour and then broke up into little groups.

Assistant Chief Inspector Frank Fristensky, jr., said the reason for the large police detail was that the "Daily Worker (Communist party paper) has been building this thing up for days."

Motions Are Denied

"We are in charge of protecting life and property, keeping the streets clear for unobstructed use of pedestrians and to keep vehicular traffic moving," he said.

The trial, first such proceeding against Communist party members in the history of the United States, got underway at 9:43 a. m. (CST). The defense moved for a 90-day postponement of the oft-delayed case. Judge Medina denied the motion. Then the battle over the police started.

In all, defense counsel presented three motions to the court, the last that Medina disqualify himself on the grounds of prejudice.

This, too, Medina refused to grant.

Foster Absent

The defendants were indicted by a federal grand jury last July 20 during a lengthy investigation of alleged subversive activities and Communist espionage. The defendants, all free in $5,000 bail each, face a possible maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and $10,000 fine.

The trial was postponed last November because William Z. Foster, 67, national chairman of the party, was suffering from a heart attack.

He was the only defendant absent today. His counsel, Louis F. McCabe, told the court Foster was not present because of his heart.

"I did not want to run the risk of instructing him to be present," McCabe Said.

jury on a charge of forgery of a $2,428 check.

Greer allegedly presented the check in payment for a 1949 heavy automobile, to Ray Furr of Furr's Car lot. Arresting police patrolmen, Pete Hubbard and George Hall, said the man had several other checks in his pocket at time of arrest, in amounts of $84.50 $92, $104.50, and $86.

Had Worked For Gin

All, officials said, were signed "Irvan Rhodes," and had been written on the Abernathy Farmers Cooperative gin account in the First State Bank of Abernathy. The defendant, City Detective L. W. Forrester said, had worked for the gin at one time.

Furr called police that he was holding the defendant, who was arrested at 10:30 a. m. Sunday at the 1802 Texas Ave. site of the used car lot. Furr said he had accepted the check and issued a receipt, but did not deliver the car — telling the defendant time would be required for completing the transfor of title.

The defendant waived examining trial in the court of D. W. Robertson, who set the bond.

Burglary Loss Light

Burglary of Moore Mattress company at 1817 Texas Ave., resulted in loss of only $1.30 cash, officials said. Glass was removed from a door, allowing the intruder to reach in and manipulate the lock.

Officials believed there had been an attempt to burglarize Lester's Credit jewelers, at 1010 Broadway. C. H. Childress, janitor of the store, called police at 9:21 a. m. Sunday, after he had found a crack "from top to bottom" of a thick plate glass front door. The door was still locked, however, and it was not believed entrance had been managed. Police believed the door had been struck with an unidentified object to produce the damage.

Texas Ranger Raymond Waters Chief Dep. Sheriff George Eubank and Forrester went to Post Sunday to assist Sheriff Will Cravy study clues in a Saturday night burglary of Hamilton Drug store. Approximately $15 in money and an undetermined amount of merchandise were taken. Only a small amount of merchandise wes believed removed, officials were told.

Laborite Effort To Oust Bevin Reported

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP) — A growing movement within the Labor party to force Ernest Bevin's resignation as foreign secretary was reported today as the British cabinet debated his controversial Palestine policy.

There were conflicting accounts as to the amount of cabinet backing Bevin had. It seems certain, however, that Prime Minister Attlee personally will back him to the hilt.

Sources within the party said at least three cabinet ministers—Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps, Air Minister Arthur Henderson and Health Minister Aneurin Bevan—have expressed opposition to various aspects of the foreign secretary's views on the Middle East.

to the liquor interests in calling for an immediate and aggressive demand for a statewide referendum on the prohibition of sale of all liquors."

Mrs. Watts said the WCTU has been informed for months of a "Houston movement to bring back the wide open saloon and the flow of all types of drinks."

"We have a lobby of fine, informed women already in action at the legislature . . . Legislators will be interviewed and folks back home will be kept informed how their representatives stand. It may be best for us to muster our forces and recruits now and fight for statewide prohibition."

Several legislators had heard a bill might be introduced to legalize sale of liquor by the drink, but none would admit knowing who will present the bill.

Timmons said the results of the Liquor Control board investigation would determine whether he will ask the legislature "to look into the liquor situation."

The Amarillo legislator said recent resignation of his fellow townsman, G. H. (Jack) Little, as a member of the Liquor Control board would have no bearing on his decision as to the need for an investigation.

Timmons recently reported complaints of favoritism, coercion and shakedowns" involving liquor control agents.

In the House of Representatives, few members were willing to express opinions on liberalization of liquor laws. Those who talked were doubtful such a move would be successful.

Rep. S. J. Isaacs of El Paso believed a constitutional amendment would be the only way sale of liquor by the drink could be legalized.

"If they don't cease trying to loosen up laws on liquor, they are going to bring on a prohibition fight," he predicted.

Rep. George Parkhouse of Dallas favored sale by the drink.

"I think that's the way it ought to be handled, with proper legal controls, but I don't think such a bill can be passed. I believe it would take a constitutional amendment, and I would be willing to submit it to the people for whatever action they want to take. I doubt if they would approve it."

ternoon in Treadway-Daniel hospital in Brownfield soon after she was injured in a noon hour truck-auto collision at the intersection of the Denver City-Morton and Plains-Brownfield highways.

Investigating highway patrolmen said the girl was riding with her parents, two sisters, and a brother in a north-bound 1940 Ford truck which failed to halt at a stop sign at the intersection. The left side of the truck was hit broadside, patrolmen said, by an east-bound 1946 Ford coupe driven by James S. Wauson, of Plains. The girl was thrown from the cab and crushed as the truck overturned on her.

Other members of the Willmon family and Wauson, who was alone in his car at the time, escaped serious injury.

Funeral services for the Willmon girl are to be held at 3 p. m. today in the Hale Center Church of Christ. Joe Banks, minister, will officiate. Burial is to be in Center-Plains cemetery, under direction of Farley Funeral home of Brownfield.

Lived At Hale Center

The Willmon family lived at Hale Center before moving to a farm seven miles north of Plains about a week ago. They were returning to the farm from church services at the time of the accident.

Survivors include the parents; two sisters, Ruth and Nancy Ann; and a brother, R. F., jr., all of Plains; and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Nancy of Plainview.

The United Press reported that J. I. Hammond, Floydada wheat farmer, died Sunday of injuries suffered when he lost control of his automobile while driving west of Guthrie.

Harmon Funeral home in Floydada, where the body was taken, said last night that funeral arrangements were pending arrival of a daughter Mrs. Gloria Daniells, from Frankfurt, Germany where her husband is stationed with the air force. Burial, will be in Floydada cemetery, the funeral home announced.

Survivors, in addition to the daughter in Germany, include his wife; four sons, Herschell of Pampa, Jim of Ypsilanti, Michigan, Ralph of Dallas, and Johnny, a student at Texas A. & M. college at College Station; and a sister living in Cafilornia.

Long Fight To Save Life Of Slaton Child Proves Futile

SLATON, Jan. 17. (Special) — The long fight to save the life of 15-month-old Linda Kay Jones of Slaton ended in failure today.

Linda Kay, whose esophagus—the passage from the throat to the stomach—was divided when she was born, died early today in Baylor hospital in Dallas.

Funeral arrangements were indefinite late last night, Williams Funeral home of Slaton reported. A funeral home ambulance went from here today to bring the body back. Arrangements are not expected to be completed until the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Jones, return here from Dallas.

Linda Kay was unable to take food at birth because of her two-section esophagus. However an operation when she was three days old permitted Linda Kay to be fed by means of a tube and a few weeks later another operation apparently had started her on the way to recovery. However, the past weekend her condition took a turn for the worse and she died early today.

GOP To Study Plan

Mr. Truman's message prompted immediate introduction of a bill by Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.), of the Senate Executive Expenditures committee to give him broad authority.

It was sponsored by three other Democrats as well as Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin, Republican spokesman on that committee. Senator Aiken (R-Vt.) former chairman, told a reporter he agrees with the Hoover recommendations.

In the House, Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) told reporters he expects the President's plan to have no trouble there.

But Taft said the reorganization request will be studied Friday by the Senate Republican policy committee, which Taft heads.

"It ought to be very carefully examined by Congress because of the tremendous powers involved," Taft told a reporter. "We don't want to give the president authority to legislate, to change the powers of bureaus set up by Congress."

Republican Is Sarcastic

McClellan said in a statement that under the bill Mr. Truman may submit to Congress plans to 'transfer, consolidate, or coordinate any agencies or functions of the executive branch and may also abolish functions." In addition, such plans "may authorize any officer to delegate any of his functions."

"Some of the provisions may be controversial," said McClellan whose committee is expected to handle the bill.

A House Republican, Rep. Hoeven of Iowa, put in a sarcastic note.

"If he (the President) really wants to effect economies and efficiency he can start almost anywhere," he told a reporter.

He said he understands that 360 new people are being hired every day in government departments and "he will need to reorganize to find jobs" for them.

The Presidential message reminded Congress that he has asked for higher pay for heads and assistant heads of departments and agencies, and revision of the classification laws with the object of keeping "the best qualified" men and women in government.

He urged Congress to act soon on the reorganization legislation so he can put it to work before the session ends.

He wants, he said, "a simple, workable method of making organizational adjustments."

Vestrymen Named At Annual Parish Meet

The annual Parish dinner meeting of St. Paul's Episcopal church, held last night at Hilton hotel was highlighted by the election of four Vestrymen to serve three-year terms, and the election of officers of the Vestry for 1949.

Vestrymen named were Dr. Arthur Jenkins, Frank M. Smith, jr. Ben F. Brewer, and Truman Chumley.

Officers of the Vestry elected for the forthcoming year were Robert Tucker, senior warden, William V. Stone, junior warden, and Charles S. Carter, secretary-treasurer.

During the business session, at which Rev. Claude E. Canterbury, rector, presided, Carter read the treasurer's report of St. Paul's church for the year 1948.

During the session, also, delegates and alternates were named to the convocation of the Missionary District of North Texas, which will be held in Big Spring Feb. 6 and 7.

Men of the church elected as delegates were Otto Rea, Bob Martin, Dr. E. M. Blake, Dr. S. C. Arnett, jr., and Ralph Dorsett. Alternates named were R. Clayton Carter, E. Hayes Sieber, A. V. Weaver, jr., Marshall Allen, and Charles S. Carter.

Women of the church elected as delegates were Mrs. E. M. Blake, Mrs. Charlotte Carter, Mrs Robert H. Bean, Mrs. Ralph Dorsett, and Mrs. Cooley.

Alternates include Mrs. W. W. Rix, Mrs. Virginia Austin, Mrs. Canterbury, Mrs. Robert J. Allen and Mrs. M. V. Gray.

clubs for him and the vice-president-elect.

On Wednesday he will make four appearances, starting with a luncheon at 1 p. m. given by the finance committee of the Democratic party.

A reception by Gov. Forrest Smith of Missouri beginning at 5 p. m., a nelector's dinner at 7 p. m. and a jamboree at the National Guard armory at 9 p. m. are also on his Wednesday schedule.

To Attend Breakfast

Mr. Truman will start inauguration day itself by attending a 7 a. m. breakfast given by his comrades of battery D, over which he served as captain in the AEF during the first world war.

The solemn church services at 10 a. m. followed quickly by his oath and inaugural address at noon Thursday will mark the official beginning of his second term.

After his ride down flag-draped Pennsylvania avenue at the head of the enormous parade, he is scheduled to mount a reviewing stand before the White House and watch the rest of the paraders file by.

Since the parade with its forty big floats and innumerable bands and delegations will take at least two hours to pass, Mr. Truman may barely have time to snatch a bite of lunch before the next event.

Crowds Gather

At 5 p. m. Thursday, he and Mrs. Truman are to begin receiving 7,500 persons, including all the principal governmentals and visiting dignitaries, in a reception at the national gallery of art.

A private dinner at Blair house and an attendance at 11 p. m. at the inaugural ball will wind up their day. On Friday the President and Mrs. Truman will attend a reception given by Treasury Secretary and Mrs. John W. Snyder.

The President's "busiest week" began with a stream of well-wishers at the White House today. He could look out of his office window at crowds milling around the White House grounds, and could hear military planes practicing for their part in Thursday's celebrations.

Among the President's callers was James Caesar Petrillo, who presented him with a life membership in the musicians' union which Petrillo heads. AFL President William Green accompanied Petrillo to witness the presentation to "the country's best-known piano player."

Another caller was Sen. Scott W. Lucas of Illinois, new Senate majority leader. Lucas presented Mr. Truman a solid gold horseshoe, gift of the Phoenix Horseshoe company of Joliet, Ill.

A few drops of rain fell during the day, but the weather was unseasonably mild and warm and forecasters saw the possibility of excellent conditions for the week's outdoor ceremonies.

Nationalists Flee North China Port

NANKING, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The Chinese Nationalists fled by sea from the northern port of Tangku today amid indications that Peiping was destined quickly to surrender or fall to the encircling Communists.

In central China, the government deployed troops estimated at 150,000 along a 300-mile Yangtze river front for the defense of Nanking and Shanghai.

Foreign military observers said the effort looked hopeless and that 60,000 of the troops were in what looked like suicidal positions some 30 miles north of Nanking.

Reds Move Into City

It was learned authoritatively that Tangku, port for Communist-conquered Tientsin 27 miles to the west, was abandoned during the night.

The Chinese navy used small craft of all sorts to move the 35,000-man garrison across Taku bar and out to sea where they awaited arrival of larger transports for the flight south.

The Communists shortly afterward broadcast that they had taken Tangku after the Nationalists fled.

(The broadcast concluded: "The liberation of Pieping and all north China is at hand.")

Spencer Moosa, AP correspondent in Peiping, reported that a committee of prominent citizens was going out Monday to meet the Communists and seek peace. He said an escort and transportation across the narrow no-man's-land outside the walls were provided by the government's commander, Gen. Fu Tst-Yi.

The peace delegation's leader, former Mayor Ho Sze-Yuan, was unable to go, however, because he was injured slightly when a Communist shell struck his home. His daughter was killed and two other members of his family were wounded.

The shell was one of those the Communists have been firing intermittently at the two emergency airstrips inside Peiping's walls.

Victims Scattered

Rescue parties from nearby towns raced to the crash site, a wooded glen between 3,000-foot-high mountains.

"We searched about to see if there were any survivors but found none."

Red 'Peace' Offensive Is Seen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. (AP) — Government officials said today they suspect that a sudden outbreak of Communist "peace" speeches in France and Italy is a Moscow-directed propaganda move to wreck the North Atlantic Alliance before it takes shape.

These officials said, however, it is barely possible that the remarks represent a "trial balloon" floated by Moscow to see whether the United States is willing to make a deal.

No Change In Policy

If that is the case, they said the answer is "no" until Russia lifts the Berlin blockade and shows other evidence of what the State department would consider good faith.

Over the weekend, Italy's Communist boss Palmiro Togliatti and Marcel Cachin, veteran French Communist, both emphasized the need for collaboration between Russia and the U. S. Both ridiculed the idea that war is inevitable.

These apparently coordinated speeches were so mild compared to their previous denunciations of the U. S. that observers speculated on the possibility of a new "peace offensive" by Moscow.

Same Red Tactics

American officials said, however, that the most logical interpretation they can give to the speeches is that Moscow is pursuing its new year tactics of picturing the western powers as the ones who are rejecting Russia's peaceful overtures.

By repeatedly stressing the line that Communist Russia and capitalist America can get along without going to war, the Communists hope to:

1. Fool the world into believing the western powers are spurning Russia's offer of friendship and instead choosing the road to war by forming a Western Alliance.

2. Convince some of the hesitating Scandinavian countries and Italy to stay out of the Western Alliance which is now in the final stages of drafting.

These American officials predict that the Russian campaign would fail on both counts.

$9 Million Asked For School Aid

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Jan. 17 — Potentially-explosive liquor, labor, health, and prison proposals came before or were forecast today for the 51st Legislature.

It spent most of the first day of its second week tabulating the November general election vote and declaring Beauford H. Jester was elected governor and Allan Shivers lieutenant governor.

It also received from Gov. Jester his first request for emergency cash. He asked for quick action on a bill appropriating $9,000,000 to make up a shortage in small town and country school aid funds.

Liquor Move Reported

Counting the general election votes by the house in the presence of the senate is required by the constitution. Everybody knew what the result would be in advance, but the act was a necessary prelude to tomorrow's inaugural. Jester and Shivers formally start their second terms after they are sworn in at noon.

Reports that efforts would be made to liberalize liquor laws this session met with a bristling challenge from Mrs. Claude De Van Watts, state WCTU president. She said the WCTU is ready to go to bat on any such proposals, and threatened a drive for return of statewide prohibition.

No legislator has yet come out with a bill to loosen the liquor laws.

Fireworks Seen

Rep. Douglas E. Bergman of Dallas announced he would introduce a bill to make it a prison offense for labor and management to enter closed shop agreements. This would produce fireworks. Organized labor has already started a drive to repeal labor-restrictive laws passed last session, and it will fight almost any new regulatory effort.

A so-called "basic science" or "minimum standards bill" for all persons who apply for licenses to practice the healing arts was introduced in the senate. Similar measures in the past, backed by doctors of medicine, have provoked strong opposition from chiropractors.

A bill permitting the sale of prison products to the state and sub-divisions of government was also offered in the senate. It was due to draw opposition from both labor and industry.

Other revived veterans of legislature squalls include a proposed University of Texas medical branch at San Antonio, policemen and firemen's wage and hours standards, and civil service for

Survey Shows General Decline Over Nation

Drop In Meat Prices Is Seen

(By The International News Service)

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—The American Meat Institute reported tonight a new drop in the general price of wholesale meats with accompanying declines on the retail level.

The good news for the nation's housewives, the Institute said, included a 20 per cent price drop from the September peak of wholesale meats and retail declines ranging from 13 to 26 per cent on various items.

Officials of the Institute issued their report on the basis of compilations made by the United States Department of Labor statistics.

The Institue reported:

"In the case of meat, the decline is considerably more than the decline that has occurred since the peaks of last summer in all foods—which dropped 14 per cent from the high points reached last July.

"The meat figures are based on government and trade quotations prevailing on the basic markets at Chicago, New York and San Francisco.

"The declines in all food from the comparable week this time last year just matched the declines in meats—10 per cent."

The Institute, using price figures supplied by chain and other retail stores in the Chicago market which the Institute says approximates those for the country as a whole, "showed some sharp average declines from the peak prices of last September."

The report added:

"For example, pork chops have dropped an average of 26 per cent, round steak 25 per cent, chuck roast 2 per cent, leg of lamb, 17 percent, and lamb chops and hamburger, 13 per cent.

"The greatest meat product price decline was shown in lard, now selling 29 per cent under that of a year ago."

PRICES ON OILS AND FATS ALSO SHOWING DECREASE

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP)—A slowdown in foreign buying and hand - to - mouth purchasing at home is bringing down the prices of oils and fats.

Oversupply plays a large part in the price softening too, trade sources said today. There have been bumper crops of such commodities as cotton and soybeans from which oils come and there have been big recent increases in the supply of lard fats.

Some market observers add the high prices of many fats and oils were not warranted to start with.

Foreign buying has slowed down and at home purchasing has been on pretty much a hand-to-mouth basis, especially by the large soap manufacturers.

The results of all this have been small but persistent price drops for the last three months.

LARGE VOTE IS INDICATED

Levelland Residents Vote Today On Home Rule City Government

(Special To The Avalanche)

LEVELLAND, Jan. 17.—Residents of Levelland will go to the polls Tuesday and cast their votes on the matter of adopting or rejecting the Home Rule charter form of city government.

If the vote is favorable, the City of Levelland will cease to operate under the city commission form of government.

A large vote is expected. Levellanders will vote in the office of City Secretary L. E. Mabe in the city hall. L. Sherrod and G. H. Tubb are to be in charge.

Approved Last Year

The Home Rule charter was drawn up and approved last year by a group of business men and civic leaders who were appointed as a charter commission by the mayor and city commission. After the group made a report, the election was ordered by the city government last November.

Levelland is allowed to adopt this proposed type of city government and new charter because the city's population has passed the 5,000 mark as set out in the state's civil statutes.

Persons who have resided in Levelland six months or longer and who hold 1947 poll tax receipts will be eligible to vote. The polls will open this morning at 8 o'clock and will close tonight at 7 o'clock.

The official ballot is divided into 10 articles. In Article I, the corporate name is given as "City of Levelland," and in Article II, boundaries of the city are defined, with provisions made for extension of these boundaries and platting of property.

Article III outlines general corporate powers and is divided into 28 sub-sections that cover virtually all corporate functions. Article IV concerns city management; Article V deals with the governing body itself and its functions.

In Article VI, taxation is dealt with; and in Article VII, recall elections are provided for. Article VIII provides for initiative and referendum on the part of citizens and council.

Article IX is concerned with bond issues and warrants; and the last, Article X, sets forth regulations concerning jurors, officers, qualified voters, and similar matters.

Stanolind Group Visits Lubbock

Lubbock yesterday was host to high officials of the Stanolind Pipe Line company and the Stanolind Oil & Gas company who came here from Tulsa to attend formal opening ceremonies for their new building at 1628 Nineteenth.

Open house for the public was conducted at the building from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. Monday.

Members Of Party

Heading the party of visitors was J. L. Burke, president of the pipe line company and others in the party included C. M. Scott, assistant general manager in charge of operations: R. W. Ellison, manager of industrial relations; George Ewing, public relations; P. E. Carrithers, area industrial relations representative; and A. C. Sdilstad, president of the Stanolind Oil Purchasing company.

J. L. Shoemaker, vice president of the pipe line company arrived late Monday from Denver.

Officials of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce took the group on a tour of Lubbock in the morning and last night joined the C. V. H. corporation in entertaining the visitors. The C. V. H corporation owns the new building.

Appreciation Expressed

"We in the Tulsa general office join employes in West Texas in expressing appreciation to the citizens of Lubbock who have given us such welcome consideration with the establishment of our division office here," Mr. Burke said. "As our employes settle into their new homes they will welcome an opportunity to participate in the affairs of Lubbock. They want to be a part of the community."

Lubbock compares a lot with Tulsa of 25 years ago, Burke pointed out. "It is a city of fine homes, schools, and churches and makes an ideal place in which to live. Lubbock is a fine and growing city and we of the pipe line are pleased with the opportunity to grow along with it."

In connection with the open house, the company's house publication, "The Connecting Rod," issued a Lubbock edition with a picture of downtown Lubbock on the cover, the new building on Nineteenth and a map showing the company's pipe line net work in this area. A picture of C. E. Wilson, area superintendent, is also in the inside cover of the magazine.

GAINES WELL RECOVERS WATER

New Oil Tests Scheduled In Scurry And Andrews Counties

News of oil developments in a number of area counties, including Andrews, Scurry, Gaines, and Yoakum, held interest among South Plains oil circles Monday.

An Ellenburger wildcat is to be started Wednesday in north Scurry county, eight miles north of Snyder, by J. L. Collins and others of Corsicana.

It is to be his No. 1 G. E. Parks, located 1,980 feet from the north and 330 feet from west lines of section 442, block 97, H&TC survey. Elevation is 2,300 feet.

Drilling Permit Asked

The deep zone is expected to come in above 7,900 feet. However the venture may encounter production on a lesser depth in the Pennsylvania, which was opened one and one-half miles west if this drillsite by Standard Oil Co., of Texas No. 1 Brown, discovery well of TJE Dermott field.

In the event pay is found from that horizon, the project is expected to complete there. If not, a test into the Ellenburger is in order.

George Etz and E. H. Robertson of Fort Worth have filed an application with the Railroad commission, asking for permission to start operations at once on their No. 1 University, to be a 10,000-foot exploration in north-central Andrews county, three-quarters of a mile west of the north side of the Shafter Lake multi-pay field.

The prospector will be located 330 feet from south and east lines of the northeast quarter of section 14, block 13, University survey.

May Go 10,000 Feet

The proposed destination of 10,000 feet is calculated to take the venture into the Devonian. It has possibilities of finding petroleum in the Clear Fork and Wolfcamp of the Permian, in the Pennsylvanian and in the Devonian.

It is on acreage obtained by Etz and Robertson in a farmout deal with the Gulf Corp. That concern retained a one-eighth over ride on all flowing oil wells which may be completed on the lease, and a one-sixteenth over ride on all pumping producers which are developed.

Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Co., was running pipe into the Shafter Lake-Ellenburger horizon at its No. 1-F University, second north-central Andrews county wildcat to reach the deep zone in that area.

The 5½-inch casing was being run to 11,595 feet, total depth. After securing the pipe with a cement job, operator is scheduled to drill out and make hole before testing.

This venture topped the Ellenburger at 11,580 feet, on an elevation of 3,259 feet. That makes it 153 feet high on that strata to Sinclair Prairie Oil Co., No. 2-154 University discovery from the deep zone.

The Texas Pacific wildcat is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet

State Legislation To Ban Sale Of Horse Meat To Be Sought

AUSTIN, Jan. 17.—(U.P.)—A bill which would not only forbid the sale of horsemeat for human consumption, but would also include the meat of donkeys, mules and zebras was introduced today in the Senate.

The measure was sponsored by Sen. Searcy Bracewell of Harris county, the focal-point of a horse meat scandal that brought wide investigation by local and state authorities late last year.

The bill would prohibit the sale for human consumption of any meat from the "equine genus." That includes mules, donkeys, horses and zebras.

Heavy Fine Planned

Bracewell's proposal would provide for a fine of $1,000 or 30 days to two years in jail, or both on the first conviction for violation of the act. A second conviction calls for a jail sentence ranging from two years to five years.

Conviction would also require that the trial judge issue a judgment enjoining the defendant from engaging in the processing or sale of any meat for human consumption.

Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, said the present law provides for a fine ranging from $25 to $200 for the sale of unlabeled horse meat.

The proposed law would not only make it unlawful to sell horse meat for human consumption, but would also make it illegal to sell the meat if the seller knew that the buyer intended to later offer it for human consumption.

It would also be unlawful to transport horsemeat betweeen the hours of 10 p. m. and 4 a. m., as well as to store or process horse meat where other meat for human consumption is either processed or stored.

It would be unlawful to keep horse meat in any establishment where other meat is kept for sale unless the horse meat was packaged in quantities of not more than five pounds and plainly labeled as to its contents.

policemen and firemen.

The proposed medical branch at San Antonio was subject of one of the 50th legislature's so-called "ghost bills." It was passed by the legislature but died for lack of $1,000,000 in the State Treasury to carry out its provisions. Reissue of the bill is same as before. By Senator Walton Tynan, of San Antonio, it would have the University of Texas take over surplus federal government arsenal properties in central San Antonio for the project.

The firemen and policemen's wage and hour bill by Tynan would standardize minimum wages at $185 monthly in cities 10,000 to 25,000 population, $205 in the 25,001 to 40,000 population bracket, $225 for the 40,001 to 100,000 bracket, and $250 in cities above 100,001. Longevity allowances would be $5 per month extra for each five years of service in towns from 10,000 to 25,000 and $10 per month extra for each five years of service in cities above 40,000. Maximum hours would be 72 per week for both policemen and firemen in towns of 10,000 to 40,000; 60 hours for firemen and 48 hours for policemen in cities larger than 40,000.

A bill by senator Kyle Vick of Waco would make civil service for firemen and policemen mandatory in all cities over 10,000 population regardless of results of elections the cities may have held in the past.

Senate Gets 21 Bills

Altogether, the senate received 21 bills. No bills have been introduced in the house, pending committee appointments. Senate bills also included those which would:

Appropriate $40,000,000 for rural roads. It was the third measure on this subject offered so far this session.

Give the Lower Colorado River authority power to issue bonds up to $50,000,000 for new dams. It's present limit is $25,000,000.

A bill has already been introduced in line with Jester's rural aid emergency request. It would provide three million dollars for a shortage in rural aid funds last school year and six million for this year.

The last legislature liberalized terms under which schools could receive this extra state aid but it didn't put up enough money.

Jester told the 51st he was confident it would share his view that passage of the bill is of "first importance." Such emergency legislation becomes effective immediately upon passage and signature by the governor.

The venture was preparing to make new hole. It is projected to 7,500 feet.

Location is in the northeast quarter of the west three-quarters of section 3, block A-22, psl survey.

The Shafter Lake Devonian pay yielded sulphur water for Sinclair Prairie Oil Co., No. 1-157 University, in north-central Andrews county, 1,991 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 2, block 14, University survey.

One a two-hour drillstem test at 9,910-60 feet in the Devonian, recovery was the 900-foot water blanket and 3,150 feet of sulphur water.

In all probability, the exploration will plug back and attempt completion from a higher zone which developed possibilities.

Preparations to drillstem test in the northeast Scurry county Ellenbruger were underway at Sun Oil Co., and the Ohio Oil Co., No. 1 Helms, wildcat 20 miles northeast of Snyder.

Total depth was 7,486 feet in dolomite. Point at which the packer was set was not reported.

This prospector had logged only very slight signs of oil and gas in the current formation.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 636, block 97, H&TC survey.

Wildcat Continues Drilling

Magnolia No. 1 Hicks, in extreme southeast Gainest county, about 20 miles southeast of Seminole, and 660 feet from north and west lines of tract 16, league 273, Loving county School Land survey, has progressed under 11,677 feet in an unidentified lime, and was making more hole. Up to now this wildcat has not reported having logged any indications of oil or gas.

Denver Producing and Refining Co., No. 17-C Elliott, southwest Yoakum county deep wildcat, in the southwest side of the Wasson-San Andres field, and 1,312 feet from south and 1,970 feet from east lines of section 832, block D, John H. Gibson survey, had progressed under 10,209 feet in an unidentified lime formation.

It developed some free oil in the Devonian, which was entered at 9,670 feet, according to some geologists. Some water was encountered below the oil zone, and the current formation is not showing any indications of petroleum.

IT HAPPENED TWICE

MUNCIE, Ind.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Harold Lewis has given birth in the back seat of a car twice in less than two years. On the way to a hospital, she was delivered of a seven-pound baby boy in the back seat of her car. In January, 1947, Mrs. Lewis had a similar experience. That time it was a girl. It was the same automobile, too.

CITY MANAGEMENT

Top Drawer Problem

THE IMPENDING change in the Lubbock city managership surprised no one with City Hall contacts. The actual submission of Manager Marlin R. Smith's resignation last Friday was unexpected on the particular day, by many observers, including the City commission. But the opinion has been widespread that a change in the position would occur within a few weeks or months.

While quiet Mr. Smith is not the type who makes public airing of complaints, his dissatisfaction with conditions under which he has worked has become increasingly evident. He has felt that he has not been allowed the latitude for the exercise of personal judgment he had expected when he returned last March 1 to the managerial position he previously had held from 1942 until 1946.

He doubtless felt—and many close observers share the feeling—that the Lubbock city manager, under practices of the past, has been something of a glorified office boy almost completely subservient to directions from the City commission which often were vague and conflicting.

A criticism of Mr. Smith, frequently heard from some members of the commission and others is that he lacks the aggressiveness and decision demanded by a job as big and important as that of Lubbock city manager. One view of such criticism is the contention that Lubbock City commissions traditionally have kept too tight a rein on the city manager to allow him much opportunity to exercise independent judgment and thus demonstrate whatever abilities he may possess.

Another view is that the manager should have the aggressiveness and the ability to take the bull by the horns, so to speak, and to handle municipal affairs in a way which would not involve running to the commission for authorization in matters other than those affecting policy.

We are convinced, from long and intimate observation, that most members of City commissions, past and present, would prefer the positive executive capacity in the managerial position which could dispose of most decisions and problems without taking them to the commission as a whole.

WHILE seeking a successor to Mr. Smith, the City commission might find it desirable, for many reasons, to give serious study to a clearer division of duties and responsibilities between itself and the manager. The job is too big and too important to be entrusted to a mere order taker who will not or cannot exercise considerable individual initiative and judgment.

At the same time, it obviously would be undesirable and dangerous to centralize too much authority in any one official, city manager or otherwise. The City commission is the governing body of Lubbock and should continue to function actively as such. But busy men who are serving virtually without compensation should not be burdened unnecessarily with details.

Thus the selection of a successor to Mr. Smith involves more than the appointment of a new city manager. It might be utilized as an opportunity to improve many aspects of city governmental practice.

We have no doubt that the commission will study the situation for opportunities it may offer which would be helpful to Lubbock, and that the members will endeavor to capitalize fully upon any they discern.

Beware Of Romance

By ROBERTA COURTLAND
Distributed By NEA Service, Inc.

(THE STORY: When sixteen-year-old Merry Carson learns that her dashing father, Kin, has ached her selfish mother, Susan, for a divorce, her whole world turns topsy-turvy. Kin tries to explain to Merry where the marriage failed; he tells her about Lissa, the woman who promises him the companionship Susan never gave him. But Merry is too dismayed to even try to understand. Kin leaves him and Aunt Jane comes to look after things. Susan takes to her bed.)

SUSAN kept to her bed. The doctor came, examined her, held long conversations and consultations with Aunt Jane, and finally talked to Merry gently but firmly.

"Your mother has gone completely to pieces, Merry," he said unnecessarily. "It's very bad for her to stay shut up in that dark room, hiding from all her friends, developing a martyr complex. Somehow we've got to pull her out of it. Your aunt and I think it would be an excellent idea if we got her away from here for a while. I've suggested a few weeks, or months perhaps, at St. Vincent's."

Merry caught her breath.

"A hospital?"

"Lord bless you, no child! It's a small island off the coast. This time of the year there won't be many people there except the year-around residents. Usually by midsummer it's pretty crowded. But now you ought to have no difficulty getting rooms at the inn, or perhaps a furnished cottage. Your mother needs to be out of doors in the sunshine; she needs cheerful surroundings, new surroundings. Your aunt will go with you; we've talked things over. And I think it would be best if you went as soon as possible."

Merry hesitated.

"But she's so terribly weak, Dr. Dick. Do you think she's strong enough to travel?" she asked worriedly.

Dr. Dickson studied her for a moment, his eyes kind and gentle.

"Merry, you may as well know. There's absolutely nothing organically wrong with your mother. She's as well as she wants to be; this trouble with your father has hit her hard and she's taking altogether the wrong slant."

"Breaking up a marriage as long-standing and as happy as theirs, Dr. Dick—"

"I KNOW, it's a tragic thing, Merry. But these things happen and we have to adjust ourselves to them and make the best of them," said Dr. Dickson quietly. "Your mother's attitude is, forgive me, pathetically old-fashioned. She feels her friends are going to snub her and humiliate her; when actually no one will be anything but casually interested."

"She couldn't ever believe that, nor can I!" said Merry stubbornly.

"Well, you must, child. You must, for your own sake."

"I'm sorry, Dr. Dick." The young chin set even more stubbornly.

Dr. Dickson sighed, snapped shut his instrument case, and said calmly, "Well, I'm terribly sorry, Merry, but I've done all for your mother that I or anyone else can do. Time and patience and her own mental attitude will call the turn from now on. See that she gets plenty of sleep; the little red capsules I've given your aunt will insure that. No more than one or two a night, of course."

"That pain in her chest, Dr. Dick—she complains of it a lot. Is it anything dangerous?" she asked, afraid of his answer.

"I've given your aunt some tablets to take care of that, Merry," said Dr. Dickson, and hesitated a moment as though about to say something else. But finally he changed his mind and made his departure.

AUNT JANE came in when he had gone, and looked swiftly at Merry.

"Your mother's quiet now," she said briskly. "I gave her one of the tablets for the pain in her chest and she's dropping off to sleep. She's quite convinced that it's her heart, but that nice doctor says her heart is as sound as a bell, and her blood pressure is as normal as could be expected. Now you and I have to make our plans about getting down to St. Vincent's."

Merry asked uneasily, "You think she's able to make the trip?"

Aunt Jane stared at her.

"Two hundred miles in that big Cadillac that rides like an ambulance with that expert chaffeur at the wheel? Merry, don't talk like a silly little fool!" she snorted.

Merry said huskily, "It frightens me."

Aunt Jane, who was chary of demonstrations of affection, patted her shoulder warmly.

"Poor kid, of course it does. To have your nice, safe, sheltered little life blow up in your face is enough to scare the daylights out of a downy little chick like you," she comforted her. "But it's through things like this, Merry dear, that people grow up."

Merry managed a small, wry smile.

Aunt Jane hesitated and then she said quietly, "That nice Kennedy boy was hanging around here last night, and again this morning.

Quick blurred tears stung Merry's eyes and she looked down at the large class ring held to her finger by a childish wad of cotton. She drew a deep breath as the ring came off in her hand; then she put it Aunt Jane's palm and said thinly, "When he comes back, give him this, Aunt Jane. He'll understand."

Startled, Aunt Jane stared at the ring and then at the girl.

"Oh, for cripes sake, child—"

"I don't want to discuss it, Aunt Jane. He'll understand," said Merry huskily, and went running up the stairs to her own room.

Looking At Life - - By Erich Brandeis

I WENT calling on New Year's Day.

I went calling on a friend whom I had not seen in almost five years.

It was quite late in the afternoon when I made my call.

Earlier in the day we had been to an "Open House" at the home of some other friends.

BRANDIES

That "Open House" was a nice party. Lots of laughter, lots to eat and drink. Lots of "come up and see us some time."

But my friend was not there and I thought I ought to pay him a little visit.

Because that friend had been a good one, and I missed him this New Year's afternoon, just as I had missed him many a time these past five years.

You see, he had died five years ago, and to call on him I had to drive out to the cemetery quite a few miles away.

He wouldn't have liked this particular afternoon.

He liked sunshine and warmth and blue skies.

He liked the kind of weather that made you want to fly right up into the sky and shake hands with the angels.

I know, because he told me so himself, in that Irish brogue of his that he never quite lost, because "his mother came from there."

Well, here I was in the cemetery.

There was snow on his grave and where the snow had melted there was slush, and brown earth and grass were showing through.

The whole place looked lonely and dreary.

He wouldn't have liked that either. Because in his life he had always been friendly and gay.

We had a little talk, that friend of mine down there in his grave and I.

You couldn't have heard us, had you listened. We didn't talk loud enough for that.

• • •

"WHY do you look so downhearted?" my friend asked me, "it's New Year's Day, isn't it?"

"Oh, I don't know," I replied. "I feel like a heel enjoying myself at a party and you lying here all by yourself."

"Never you mind me," he said with that Irish smile of his, "I had more than half a century of fun, and I enjoyed every minute of it.

"Don't you remember all the laughs we had together, and all the dreams we dreamed together, and all the glorious adventures of living?

"You go right back and enjoy yourself. Don't go moping away your life for dear ones that have departed.

"I may not be with you any longer in the flesh. But if you are my friend, isn't the memory of me enough to cheer you up?"

Now it was dusk and the caretaker wanted to close up.

The snow was starting to fall again.

But there was sunshine in my heart.

ON COMMITTEE POSTS

South In Key Spots

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The sectional struggle among members of the top-heavy Democratic majority in Congress for bread-and-butter influence over legislation affecting their most vital interests is the fiercest which Washington has witnessed in years.

It threatens the solidarity of President Truman's Capitol Hill organization, especially as he may have to serve as referee of the fight.

TUCKER

The battle has developed into a tussle between the industrial Northeast and the industralizing West. It revolves, in part at least, around deconcentration of heavy industry, especially steel, that may result from the Supreme Court's outlawing of the basing-point system, and Mr. Truman's threat that the government will build steel plants if the industry will not undertake expansion.

BALANCE: In the Republican Eightieth Congress the control of key chairmanships rested largely among men from New England, New York, New Jersey and Michigan, with a sprinkling of Middle Westerners.

With only a few exceptions—all in the House—the balance of power in committees which originate legislation on business, industrial, labor and financial problems has now passed to the South, the Southwest and the Wyoming-Utah-Nevada region.

With the substitution of Senator Burnett Rhett Maybank of South Carolina for the ailing Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York as head of Banking and Currency, not a single Senate Committee is headed by a member from north of the Potomac river and east of the Mississippi.

The Middle West has also been squeezed out, although it has not suffered as seriously as New York, New Jersey and New England. Ohio has "Bob" Crosser as chairman of House Interstate and Foreign Commerce, and Michigan's John Lesinski, a rabid New Dealer, heads Education and Labor.

STRUGGLE: Only a fighting band of Pennsylvania Democrats on both sides of Capitol Hill will save the older sections of the industrial areas of the country from suffering further losses in this extremely important rivalry. And it so happens that Governor Earl Warren's state of California, which hopes to profit from any decentralization of heavy industry, is the principal opponent.

The Pensylvanians have won a major victory in the selection of Senator Francis J. Myers as the Democrats' whip in the Senate. They also expec reinforcement from Majority Leader Scott W. Lucas of Illinois, which state has a huge stake in the game.

Pittsburgh scored another gain when Francis E. Walter, a good friend of President Truman, was elevated to the Judiciary committee chairmanship and made chairman of the House Democrats' caucus. They look for another improvement in their position when and if Representative Daniel J. Flood of Wilkes-Barre is chosen for a vacancy on the House Appropriations committee. His chief contestant happens to be Helen Gahagan Douglas of California.

Any fund for federal financing and new plants, steel or otherwise would have to be approved by Appropriations, which makes the filling of this seat so pertinent to the sectional struggle.

REBUFF: Far Western Democrats are grousing privately over a prospective rebuff of Mrs. Douglas because they have already lost a chairmanship which would have meant a great deal to them in this controversy. Mr. Crosser took over House Interstate and Foreign Commerce when Clarence F. Lea of California did not seek reelection.

The Westerners also argue that they deserve consideration because they delivered their electoral votes to President Truman, even though their own Governor ran on the Dewey ticket. The, note, too, that older industrial states like New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania turned out a majority for the GOP.

MIGRATION: The Pennsylvanians have now cast their eyes on another post whose occupant would give them a foothold in the house of their enemies on the basing-point issue.

They want to place a man from their state in the vacancy on the Federal Trade Commission, which started the movement for outlawing the basing-point system that has built up industries in the Northeast and the Middle Atlantic states. Mr. Walter has chosen a Pennsylvanian for that spot, although Mr. Truman has not yet ratified the selection.

Unless they can offset by legislation the Supreme Court's blow to the basing point structure, Easterners look for a migration of large and small plants to the West. They have already heard reports that Henry J. Kaiser, who now owns a steel fabricating plant on the coast, will try to expand until he has set up an industry rivalling Pittsburgh.

VIEWPOINT: Capitol Hill curiosity about Dean Acheson does not center around his supposed Communist sympathies so much as it does around his extreme pro-British viewpoint. Several members of the committees handling foreign relations think it more than coincidence that he resembles Anthony Eden in appearance, dress and mannerisms.

It so happens that the father of the new Secretary of State was born in Kent, England. Migrating to Canada, he served as chaplain in Company K of the Queen's Own Rifles, and subsequently he did a stretch with the Canadian Mounted Police. He eventually became the Episcopalian Suffragran Bishop, with headquarters at Middletown, Conn., where the future Secretary of State was born. The father was a staunch Republican and Mason.

CONSERVATIVE: The fact is that Dean Acheson is an ultra-conservative. He was educated at Groton, Yale and Harvard, and they don't make Bolshevik friends at those institutions. His law firm at Washington handles business for the nation's largest corporations. Mr. Acheson's closest friend is Justice Felix Frankfurter, under whom he studied at Harvard Law school.

And, depsite all the jibes at "Frankfurter's hot dog," the Justice is regarded as one of the more conservative members of the high tribunal. So much so that Franklin D. Roosevelt, who appointed him as a "liberal," was deeply disappointed by his attitude, especially his opposition to the 1936 court-packing plan.

FORECAST: The Acheson appointment bears out the writer's New Year forecast that President Truman would soon demilitarize the group of men in control of foreign policy.

As actual director of State while his superiors were attending foreign conferences, Mr. Acheson became irritated over the influence which Secretary Forrestal exerted in the foreign field. And the cocky, self-assured Mr. Acheson is not the kind of man to tolerate interference of this sort.

BREAKUP OF SETUP SLOWED

Probe Of German Cartels Urged

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Successive developments only emphasize further the need of a full-scale congressional investigation of the anti-monopoly program designed to break up the giant industrial cartels in Germany, which furnished the munitions of war for Adolf Hitler's war and actively promoted the Nazi aggression.

Dissolution of these monopolies was a war aim of ours. It seems to have become obscured.

The latest in a long series of incidents comes to light in conection with the recent inquiry in Germany by a three-man commission appointed by Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall. The secretary was prompted to order the investigation last month by evidence submitted to him about abandonment of the anti-monopoly program as it related to some of the biggest cartels in the field of heavy industry. The program was curtailed several months ago on instructions by General Lucius D. Clay, U. S. military governor in Germany.

STOKES

Official Under Fire

In the course of its inquiry this commission, headed by Garland S. Ferguson, chairman of the Federal Trade commission, called in Alexander Sacks, a lawyer in the decartelization branch of the American military government, in which capacity he has served for 18 months.

In his testimony and in a memorandum he submitted afterward to the commission at its request, Mr. Sacks was critical of William H. Draper, formerly head of the economics division of AMG in Germany who had much to do with decartelization policy and who now is under Secretary of the Army here in direct charge of policy for occupied Germany. Mr. Draper formerly was a vice president of Dillon, Read and company and served in the Army during the war.

The lawyer charged that Mr. Draper had hampered enforcement of the de-cartelization program in his post in Germany. It is reported that Mr. Sacks was plain-spoken, which is often his manner.

Now he has been suspended by an order signed by General Charles Gailey, chief of staff for General Clay. The charge is that he attacked the integrity and good faith of under Secretary Draper.

His suspension is subject to a hearing at which he will be permitted to call witness. He is subject also to court martial. While a civilian employe, he is under military authority in the American government.

In what appears to be rather unusual procedure in the case of an independent commission, Mr. Ferguson turned a copy of the commission's whole record of its investigation over to Lawrence Wilkinson, General Clay's economic adviser. Mr. Ferguson remained behind in Germany after the other two members of the Commission had returned to the United States—Samuel S. Isseks, New York lawyer, formerly in charge of the New York office of the Justice department's anti-trust division, and Arthur Kearney, business management expert of Chicago.

For a complete understanding, this incident should be related with some past history.

Background Is Given

Mr. Sacks, who is a New York lawyer, was one of 19 members of the staff of the de-cartelization branch of AMG who signd a protest last March against orders of General Clay which therefater exempted enterprises in the capital goods or heavy industry field from deconcentration action, and specifically exempting two big combines, Henschel, which has almost a 100 per cent monopoly in locomotives, and VKF, which enjoyed a similar privileged position in ball-bearing manufacture.

In their protest they said that General Clay's orders virtually repealed the de-cartelization law. The orders were never put in writing but were transmitted verbally by Richardson Bronson, chief of the de-cartelization branch. General Clay confirmed them later in a subsequent conference in his office with the 19 members. Present with General Clay on that occasion were Lawrence Wilkinson and Phillip Hawkins, chief of the property branch, a son-in-law of Mr Draper. Both advised with Mr. Draper on policy while the latter was head of the economics division in Germany.

Press dispatches during the Royall commission's inquiry in Germany reported that the commission had learned how the anti-cartel program had been modified and, in the case of certain big corporations, had been completely abandoned.

Mr. Sacks is a recognized authority on German cartels and their ramification, influenece on war potential from his experience with the board of economic warfare here during the war when he specialized in that field.

STOCKS GET BOOST
NEW YORK, Jan. 17. (AP)—A rally in American Telephone buoyed the entire stock market today.
Telephone closed lower but the price was down only 1⅛ points at 146 after breaking 4½ points to 143, a new low since 1943 in early trading.
The balance of the market gently rolled downhill during the morning with most losses under a point. As the close gains of fractions to more than a point were in the majority.
The day's business amounted to only 720,000 shares. This compared with 930,000 Friday.
The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .3 of one point at 65.3.
The drop in A T & T was the third substantial one in as many days. Selling pressure started Friday on the heels of news that the Department of Justice had filed an anti-monopoly suit against the huge company.
Traders evidently feared that in such an event A T & T might not be able to maintain the $9 annual dividend which it has been paying for nearly 20 years.
Superior Oil of California took a comparatively bad spill, closing 9 lower at 163.
American Broadcasting slipped a trifle for a while but finished unchanged at 9¼. Rumors continued to circulate regarding possible purchase of the company by a moving picture concern. Motorola added 1¼ at 19¾ and Radio Corp., was ⅝ higher at 13½.
Farnsworth Television moved up ¼ to 8.

Action of the fats and oils market had an unsettling influence on cereals, although corn showed some firmness at times. Grain dealers said the government appeared to be buying fairly large quantities of cash corn. Wheat and oats were off major fractions most of the day.

600 Bodies Estimated To Be In Sunken Ship In Yangtze

SHANGHAI, Jan. 17 (AP) — Divers estimated today that about 600 bodies are still in the sunken steamer Kiangya, which exploded Dec. 3 near Shanghai with a loss of more than 3,000 lives.
About 1,300 bodies were recovered from the ship before tides halted diving operations. Chinese junk and sampans picked up others. Many more were washed ashore and many were blown to bits in the explosion.
The Kiangya was bound from Shanghai to Ninghsien to the south with an estimated 4,000 war refugees. An unexplained explosion sank the small steamer in the mouth of the Yangtze.

RUSSIANS ARE LEFT OUT

Allies Set Up 'Watchdog' Board To Control German Development

(By International News Service)

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—The United States, Britain and France set up a military security board today to prevent rebirth of German militarism without restricting "unnecessarily the peaceful economic and scientific development of Germany."

The board will assume responsibility for certain activities of the defunct four-power Allied Control council, which the Russians quit last year.

Maj. Gen. James P. Hodges, American member of the board, said he "assumed that when conditions are favorable," the Russians will be "invited to participate" in the board's activities.

To Serve As Chairman

He is director of the U. S. military government's armed forces division and will serve as first chairman of the new board.

The British member is Maj. Gen. V. J. E. Westropp. Gen. Etienne Paskiewicz was named deputy French member. The regular French member will be named later.

It was estimated that the board's central staff will consist of 75 persons, chiefly civilians. Temporary headquarters have been been set up in Berlin. Permanent headquarters probably will be in the French zone.

At present the board is subordinate to the three commanders-in-chief of the western occupation zones.

The board, in addition to its three permanent members and their deputies, will have a secretariat and a military, industrial and scientific research division.

The first division will be entrusted with the task of "preventing a resurgence of military organizations and militaristic spirit" in Germany.

The industrial division is directed to ensure the implementation of such prohibitive and restrictive industrial measures as agreed upon by the occupying powers. The third division is directed to prevent any activity that is directed toward "war objectives."

The board will thus be given the overall job of completing the legislative and regulatory work started by the four-power control council in the field of security.

It will have the right to inspect German plants to ensure that its wishes are being carried out.

A joint communique announcing creation of the board said:

"The new organization, by continuing the quadri-partite effort interrupted previously, in no way is designed to restrict unnecessarily the peaceful economic and scientic development of Germany, but constitutes an essential safeguard for all nations."
