BISHOP IRED AT PLAN TO BAR MARITAL 'OBEY'

Says "God Made Man To Be the Head of The Family"

QUESTION OF 'VANITY'

Urges That Marriage Ceremony Not be Altered To Suit Modern Ideas

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP).—Just when it had been conceded that the word "obey" so objectionable to many blushing brides, would be stricken from the Episcopal marriage ceremony with little or no debate, a protest coupled with a scathing denunciation of modern family life is voiced by the bishop of Colorado.

The Right Rev. Irving P. Johnson, D. D., is described as one of the most brilliant thinkers and orators of the Episcopal church. His dissent scintillates with barbed aphorisms.

Representatives of the church said today that the publication of his opinion would provoke a lively discussion throughout the church.

It is summarized as follows:

"If women do not love men well enough to accept their leadership, which is the significance of 'to obey,' they will not love them any more because their vanity is flattered by the omission.

"Why is it proposed to take the word 'obey' out of the marriage service? In my judgment because modern society has lost the sense of proportion which lies at the foundation of the home, and in order to justify itself wishes to accommodate the word of God to palliate the situation.

Doesn't Connote Servility.

"The idea that the word 'obey' connotes servility is the heresy of modern parents and the schism of modern families. The word 'obey' is limited always by the circumstances of its use. When a woman is asked to obey her husband, she does not lessen the glory of her womanhood.

"A family is a corporation and every man is the head of the family or else it is provided by a committee of two which has no way of determining a majority vote except by an endurance test. It is now proposed to endorse a headless family in the interests of accommodating truth to prejudice.

Man Is Protector

"God made man to be the head of the family because it was his duty to provide and protect. The church exists to set forth ideals, not to justify the perversion of ideals.

"I believe fully in woman's rights but I do not believe headship of the family is one of those rights. It may be true that in a majority of cases she has the best head and uses it more intelligently but when she is moved to assert her leadership, the man loses a glory that the woman does not gain no matter how much she may proclaim the fact that she deserves the recognition to which her talents entitle her."

The Right Rev. Charles L. Slattery, bishop co-adjutor of Massachusetts is chairman of the joint committee on prayer book revision which sponsored the elimination of the word "obey" at the general convention of the church in Portland, Ore., in September, 1922. The convention, virtually with unanimity, voted for the elimination, but under the laws of the church an amendment must be approved by two succeeding conventions and, accordingly the matter will come up for final determination at the triennial general conference that is to open at New Orleans on October 7.

Bishop Johnson is said to be the first notable leader of the church to come out openly against the proposed change.

City Host To Big Abilene Booster Crowd

Low Bridge!

Judge Aynesworth Says Cut 'Em

CUT limbs off the shade trees on the sidewalks if they are closer than seven feet from the ground.

That was the mandate of the city council at its meeting last night following the complaint of Judge Joseph H. Aynesworth that limbs closer than seven feet to the ground formed a menace to the life and limb of men of his height.

Judge Aynesworth, one of Wichita Falls few "seven-footers," complained that in meandering about town, especially at night, he often found the limbs of shade trees too low, so low in fact that he was constantly coming in collision with them. And this, he pointed out, is illegal, since the city has an ordinance requiring limbs to be cut off to within seven feet from the ground.

The city council instructed Police Commissioner Quiesser to send a policeman with Judge Aynesworth and have the offending limbs removed.

FARMER SUES WATER BOARD FOR DAMAGES

J. F. Le Gear Asks $7,600 For Alleged Injury To His Crops

Damages of $7,600 are asked by J. F. LeGear of the Wichita County Water Improvement district No. 1 in a suit filed Monday in the 89th district court as an outgrowth of alleged damage to the plaintiff's land by irrigation water turned on it.

The petition alleges that the plaintiff owns a farm in the irrigated district and that some time ago he coutracted with the irrigation district to use water from its canals for the purpose of irrigation. He maintains that pursuant to this agreement he turned such water onto his crops this year and that they immediately died. An investigation, the petition sets forth, revealed that the water was far too warm for the good of the crops, reaching 110 degrees at times.

Because of this, the plaintiff alleges, his crops were totally lost, causing him damage of $2,600, while the value of his land depreciated $5,000, making a total of $7,600 in all for which he prays.

FRENCH REPLIES RECEIVED

German Ministers Finally Get Reply to Their Proposition.

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Gustave Stresemann, the German foreign minister, late this afternoon received from the French ambassador, M. De Margeri, the French reply to Germany's security pact proposals. Of the numerous diplomatic documents exchanged between Germany and the entente powers in recent years none probably has excited such a measure of impatience as this note, which coming from M. Briand, the French foreign minister, in behalf of the allies finally reached Berlin after having made the circuitous route of the European capitals.

HIGHWAYS DESIGNATED

Goliad to Stockdale and Yorktown to Kennedy Named.

AUSTIN, Aug. 24.—Designation of a 63-mile highway from Goliad to Stockdale and designation of a 28-mile extension from Yorktown to Kennedy was made late today by the state highway commission. Henry Paulus of Yoakum made the application, which was granted on condition that the counties of DeWitt, Goliad, Karnes and Wilson voted the necessary bonds.

The commission has received notice that Knox county had filed injunction proceedings against R. B. Stroup and company of Wichita Falls, which holds the county maintenance contract. Eugene Smith, secretary to the commission, said that the action was taken on the claim that the company has a previous contract with the state for maintenance.

BANQUET GIVEN AT KEMP FOR 125 VISITORS

Chamber of Commerce Has Lively Meeting With Delegation

IN TOWN ALL NIGHT

Special Train Pulls Out Tuesday Morning For Amarillo

Wichita Falls was host last night to 125 business and professional men of Abilene who are on a four-day tour of this section of the state advertising the Abilene fair September 21-26 and boosting the city in general.

The booster special reached here shortly before 8 o'clock from Cisco and intermediate points and at 8:15 a banquet was spread for the visitors in the Kemp hotel, where the official and informal welcomes of the city were extended.

Cowboy Band Along.

Accompanied by the famous Cowboy band of Simmons university, the Abilene citizens swept down on startled Wichita Falls early in the evening and staged a lively parade down the streets of the city, while the band struck up the popular "Old Grey Mare." Wild, cowboy yells rent the air. Abilene was here!

The banquet at the Kemp was one of the liveliest ever witnessed here. Luther Hoffman, director of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce, under whose auspices the banquet was given, welcomed the visitors.

"It is a real joy to clasp your hands and second your plans to develop what I believe to be the greatest section of the greatest state in the union," Mr. Hoffman said. "We are neighbors and what benefits Abilene helps Wichita Falls."

J. C. Mytinger, vice-president of the chamber of commerce, was toastmaster. He introduced Dr. J. E. Sandefer, president of Simmons university.

Dr. Sandefer, in the words of Mr. Mytinger, brought to Wichitans a real message of this city's advantages. "No city in what is known as West Texas has an opportunity to surpass Wichita Falls as the logical commercial center of this great section of the state," the college president declared.

Saw Its Possibilities.

"Wichita Falls," he said, "truly is a 'city that faith built.' Years ago, men of large interests and broad vision came to this city. They saw the city's possibilities. They combined their industry, their faith and their wealth and as a result you have here today the first city of this section. At this juncture I wish to pay tribute to the men of intellectual, spiritual and material strength who found the wealth that God put in the bosom of the earth—the men who found wealth and happiness and prosperity by fair and proper development of this city's resources. This is the kind of city building that does not perish—the future of this city is an abiding future. You men of Abilene might profit by the lesson of the founders and builders of this great city," Dr. Sandefer declared.

Mayor R. E. Shepherd told the visitors to "pick up anything on the streets that you like, and if the police pick you up, telephone me and I'll come down and get you out of jail." The mayor's offer was cheered wildly.

A male quartette from Simmons university sang two songs. Prominent Wichitans were introdnced to the Abilene visitors by Mr. Mytinger.

Then someone found out that Wichita had a singing mayor and there were loud calls for "let the mayor sing!" He sang and the house went wild. The cheers continued. The mayor previously had won the favor of the visitors with his cordial welcoming words, but his song took them as a happy surprise. There was no letup in the cheering and the mayor responded with the "Come to the Texas-Oklahoma Fair" song.

Today the Abilene boosters go to Amarillo. They will be in Sweetwater and Big Spring on Wednesday; on Thursday they will go to San Angelo and to Ballinger, returning Thursday evening to Abilene.

They leave Wichita Falls early this morning to resume their excursion.

LYRICS OF LIFE.
By Douglas Malloch.
The Old Pedestrian.

Today a fellow crossed the way
Who walked exceeding slow;
I had to stop the car today
To let a fellow go
Across the road, a fellow who
No doubt had other things to do
Across the way, a total loss
Unless that fellow got across.

Today an old pedestrian
Who couldn't walk at all,
To tell the truth, a veteran
Who really had to crawl,
Had business on the other side!
And so, although I like to ride,
I had to wait respectfully,
As he would wait, no doubt, for me.

Because, I figure, though we are Important, I and you,
We folks who drive a motor car,
Some other people, too,
Have business just across the way
On many a road on many a day;
And, though the road to speed invites,
Even a turtle has some rights.

Final Services Are Held Monday For Chicago Publisher

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(AP).—Victor Fremont Lawson publisher of the Chicago Daily News, was laid to eternal rest today. Simple funeral services were said for him in the New England Congregational church in the presence of many notables of national, civic and newspaper life and his body was buried in Graceland cemetery alongside that of his wife who preceded him in death by eleven years.

His wish was that his funeral and burial be devoid of ostentation and display and they were, excepting a profusion of flowers that adorned the altar.

One spray was from President and Mrs. Coolidge.

Charles G. Dawes, vice president of the United States; William E. Dever, mayor of Chicago; Melville E. Stone, partner of Mr. Lawson 12 years in publication of the Daily News, later his coworker in organizing The Associated Press and now councellor of that organization, Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press; Adolph Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, and George Rogers of the Cleveland Plain Dealer were in the great throng of mourners at the New England church.

MIX ONIONS AND LIQUOR

False Bottom to Onion Basket Shows Bootleg Container

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 24.—General prohibition agents have discovered a new fangled container for bootleg liquor. The contraption consists of a box with two separate compartments, the top one of which was filled with large white onions, while the bottom part hid the liquor. A false bottom to the box afforded access to the liquor.

In a raid on a private home today, the agents noticed what they thought was a box containing onions. The man reached down through the onions and found the liquor.

STIFF FIGHT IN PROSPECT OVER KIDNAPED BOY

Bexar County up in Arms Over Extradition Of Mrs. Canady

WICHITAN INVOLVED

Attorney C. C. McDonald To Represent New York In Hearing

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 24.—District Attorney C. M. Chambers today joined in a petition asking Governor Miriam A. Ferguson to refuse to grant the requisition for the extradition of Mrs. Roscoe Canaday of San Antonio. Mrs. Canaday, who is wanted in New York on a charge of kidnaping her own son, Roscoe, Jr., 9, will appear before Governor Ferguson Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Kidnaping "Impossible"

Chambers sent a telegram to the governor this afternoon. In it he pointed out that inasmuch as the law held that Roscoe Canaday, Sr., could not be charged with kidnaping his own son, surely she would hold that the mother could not be charged with kidnaping her own son from the father.

Telegrams from other prominent citizens of San Antonio and Bexar county and other Texas points urging the governor to deny the extradition request have been sent in the last few days, according to Judge W. C. Linden, attorney for Mrs. Canady. Judge Linden will represent her at the hearing Tuesday.

McDonald for New York

The hearing was set when Mrs. Genevieve McLaughlin, arrived in Austin today from New York with papers for Mrs. Canaday. The hearing was arranged by Judge Linden and C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls, attorney representing the state of New York.

Mrs. Canaday is charged in an indictment by the Queen's county grand jury of the state of New York with having kidnaped her son from his father on July 7. A few weeks prior to that date the boy was kidnaped from her when he was snatched from the arms of his maternal grandmother in San Antonio.

Canaday is under indictment for the kidnaping in Bexar county.

Plots, Threats and Sudden Hiding Weave a Weird Tale Over Eastern Manufacturer

EATONTOWN, N. J., Aug. 24.—(AP).—Max Phillips, collar manufacturer who believes a widespread plot to ruin him is afoot, quietly left his home near here today, went to New York, and dropped out of sight.

His home, where he waited last night for the foes he said are conspiring against his reputation and life, was almost deserted today, the guard of private detectives there, having apparently been withdrawn. It was stated by servants today that Mr. Phillips would not return from New York tonight.

While Mr. Phillips, who has caused the arrest of three women and a man in the alleged plot against him was on his way to New York, Joseph S. Marcus, 82-year-old banker who says he believes he is the "arch enemy" referred to by Mr. Phillips, fell critically ill at his New York home. Mr. Marcus, who voluntarily contributed to the story of intrigue told by Mr. Phillips said that the collar manufacturer's story of a plot is a hallucination. Mr. Phillips has a grudge against him, he said, because of a recent stock deal.

TWO MEN HELD FOR ROBBERY IN KRUM JUNE 9

Disguises, Arms, Explosives And Other Evidence Uncovered

OTHERS ARE JAILED

Three Negroes and Two More White Men Taken In for Investigation

DENTON, Texas, Aug. 24.—Yancy Story and Shelby Stiff were arrested on the Story farm south of here today on complaints charging them with robbery with firearms in connection with the daylight robbery of the First State bank at Krum, Denton county, June 9. The charge followed a search of the Story farm today by a number of Denton and Dallas county officers and state rangers headed by Ranger Captain Tom Hickman.

The charges implicating the two in the Krum robbery were based primarily, officers said, on the finding of alleged disguises, among other articles captured, resembling those worn by the bandits in the bold bank holdup.

Negroes Arrested

Three negroes and two white men were also arrested and held for further investigation in connection with the case.

Captain Hickman, who obtained the warrant to search the farm, Sheriff Schuyler Marshall of Dallas county, and Sheriff Fry of Denton county led the search on the Story farm. Other state rangers and Dallas county deputies assisted the Denton county officers.

The search was being continued late today.

The officers reported finding two automobiles, one a new touring car, a 50-pound case of dynamite, an assortment of automobile tires and accessories, parts of a still, a small quantity of liquor and a watchman's punch clock.

Most of the articles were found under hay in two large barns on the farm.

The farm is located about six miles south of Argyle and about two miles west of the Fort Worth highway.

The First State bank at Krum was held up and robbed of $3,100 in cash and $1,550 in Liberty bonds just before closing time the evening of June 9, by two masked men. Three employes of the bank were present at the time the bandits made their escape in a large touring car, believed to be one stolen here. The car was found soon after the robbery where it had been abandoned several miles north of Denton. Another is believed to have met the bandits to throw officers off their trail.

Masks believed by officers to have been used by the bandits were among the articles found on the Yancy farm today.

Tidewater Lowers New England Gas Two Cents Monday

LUKE, Aug. 24.—Although the declining gasoline prices are causing Mid-Continent refiners to weep, the jobbers of the Central Mississippi Valley are giving them plenty of orders for immediate shipment at prevailing quotations. The railroads report lots of gasoline rolling from Mid-Continent refineries.

The Standard Oil company of New Jersey added to the uncertainty of the higher gravities Saturday by announcing a half-cent cut on export grades of gasoline. This caused the 54-66, 375, grade to soften from 11 1-2 and 11 3-4 cents as of Thursday and Friday to 11 1-4 to 11 1-2 cents on Saturday.

U. S. motor grades range from 9 1-2 to 9 3-4 for the 56-58, 437, to 9 3-4 to 10 for the 58-60, 437 product. The 56-58, 450, is offered as low as 9 1-2 cents. Little Wichita On Rampage In Archer

The Little Wichita river was on a rampage yesterday, said reports from central Archer county. The water was reported running over dams in a place or so, and to be at a high mark. While the Archer City area itself has had little rain, the water is believed to be coming from a locality between Archer City and Megargel, where the downpour a day or so ago was known to be heavy.

The water supply of the central part of the county for the past week or so a real problem to operators there, will be aided materially by the flood. Reports that the Beaver Creek Water company's dam had gone out were denied by that company, officials of which stated that it had been materially strengthened since the last freshet and that it was holding well.

Barkley-Meadows Area

With the arrival of more water in the Little Wichita, a renewal of activity in the Barkley and Meadows pool northwest of Archer City is looked for. That district has been almost entirely shut down of late due to lack of water.

HELPED THROUGH CHANGE OF LIFE

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during this Critical Time

Baltimore, Md.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to help me through the Change of Life and for a broken-down system. I had been complaining a long time and dragging along had tried other medicines which did not help me much. I read in the newspapers of the Vegetable Compound and after taking a bottle I felt better. I did not stop with one bottle, but took it through the whole critical time and am now practically a well woman. I have two daughters whose health was very bad before they married and I was worried about them. I got the Vegetable Compound for them and it helped them, and after they married it also helped them in bearing their babies. This is a great and good medicine for all complaints of women, and I recommend it to all."—Mrs. L. GINGRICH, 1375 N. Gilmor St., Baltimore, Maryland.

The Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for women of middle age. Let it relieve you of nervousness, that feeling of strain and those annoying hot flashes so common at this time.

FACTORY HEAD CONFESSES TO BANK HOLDUP

Is Dashing Blue Robber Bandit Who Baffled Cops In $20,000 Robbery

DAYTON, Ohio, Aug. 24.—(AP).—Fred Nichols, Dayton manufacturer, was arrested by detectives today and was said to have admitted he was the blue-masked, blue-robed bandit who robbed employes of the North Dayton branch of the Dayton Savings Bank and Trust company, escaping with $28,000, August 14.

Nichol is president of a manufacturing company bearing his name. He told detectives he had turned robber because of financial difficulties. He said he was compelled to raise money so he conceived the idea of robbing the bank and purchased the blue material of which his robe and mask were made and the gray kid gloves which concealed his hands.

The clue which led to Nichol's arrest was the presence of his adopted daughter, Miss Helen Sammet, an employe of the bank, at the time of the holdup. Methods employed by the robber were so weird that until the detectives started investigating the Nichol clue they had no information on which to base their investigation.

"NO POVERTY!"

There is more than passing interest in the recent published statement of John Boswell of the southwest development bureau of the Dallas chamber of commerce that nowhere in the drouth stricken area of Texas "is there poverty except in isolated instances." Mr. Boswell recently completed a survey of conditions in South and Central Texas, where crops are poor and where business conditions have slackened because of lack of rain.

The fact that there is little poverty, even in the drouth stricken areas of the state, is significant. It means that Texas people are better equipped to take care of themselves than they were ten or twenty years ago. Texas people are beginning to think. Excellent educational institutions and improved social conditions have brought about a change. No longer are the people of Texas content to say, "Poverty is no disgrace," and with that, become destitute.

When cotton crops failed in Central and South Texas, farmers did not allow their tenants to sit idly and look at the parched and barren fields. They told them to go where crops were good and where employment could be found. In many instances, farm owners loaded their tenants in trucks and carried them to sections of the state which had been favored with better conditions. This was the sensible thing to do.

Uncertainty over crop conditions in South and Central Texas was felt long before the actual drouth arrived. This caused merchants to become cautious in their purchases. Where money could be clipped from operating expenses without greatly impairing the operation of the business, it was done. Proposed improvements were delayed. Clerks and mechanics went to sections of the state where conditions were good. Banks held their loans to a safe basis.

Mr. Boswell says, "Crops are uniformly poor throughout the south and central drouth afflicted regions of the state, but drouth conditions set in early enough for farmers and merchants to retrench their expenses in anticipation of a dry crop season."

Surely, poverty is no disgrace, just as a man cannot be condemned for a beautifully bowed pair of legs—but it must be admitted that neither adds anything to the social, aesthetic, cultural or economic benefits of things.

Elwood, the socioligist, says, "poverty, indeed, is not an evil at all when the circumstances are such that one can readily raise one's self out of poverty."

People who think are not going to suffer from poverty, in the popular use and understanding of the term. There are, of course, people who are born in poverty, or who, by accident or illness, become poverty stricken for life. But there is little excuse for permanent poverty in the case of an able-bodied, mentally normal human being in Texas, or in the United States.

Another of the eminent sociologists, Hayes, gives four types of poverty, two of which could be prevented. He classes them as follow:

1. Normally dependent. (Children and aged persons unable to take care of themselves.)

2. Physically dependent. (Persons unable to support themselves due to physical defects.)

3. Morally dependent. (Quarrelsome, insubordinate, drunken, licentious, idle, wandering, ambitionless persons, lacking pride and self respect and a desire to provide for themselves or for their dependents.)

4. Unemployed. (Persons able to work but unable to find jobs.)

The Charity Organization society of New York several years ago said 43 to 52 per cent of applicants for aid needed work, not material aid.

BELGIANS PAY THEIR DEBT.

Little Belgium defied the kaiser and was crucified. Little Belgium won the applause of the world by its blood sacrifices for the freedom of Europe. Now the funding of the Belgium war debt to the United States has taken place.

Uncle Sam will forego charges of interest on actual war loans to Belgium while the war was on and the little kingdom will be permitted to pay back to the United States $171,000,000 over a period of sixty-two years and this without interest. The balance of the debt, approximately $246,000,000 will also be paid back over a sixty-two year period with some remission of interest charges. An interest rate of 3 1-2 per cent after the first ten years was agreed upon for this part of the debt.

All honor to the Belgians. All honor to the little kingdom. They fought the good fight and won. They escaped the sword of the kaiser. Now they will bow their backs for a hundred years to come to pay the debt they owe the American republic.

If war isn't hell then hell must be a comfortable summer resort all the year round. There are so-called statesmen in America and the wide world over, who call themselves Christians and yet they are unwilling to affiliate with a league of nations for the prevention of future wars.

Why not the world court? Why should American senators refuse to ratify the proposal? Why another war in the next fifty years that will be more frightful than the world war?

PROBABLY THE SAME.

Now comes an ambitious patriot who desires to rewrite the words of the "Star Spangled Banner." This is evidently the same sort of man who is always busy giving the public a new and unwanted translation of the Bible.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

Hesitators.

"The trouble with that new man," said the general manager, "is that he is a hesitator.

"I don't mean by that that he is deliberate, or careful.

"I mean that he never does anything when you tell him to.

"I think he means well enough. I am going to take the trouble to get him out of that habit. He has a good mind, and he can be useful.

"But the effect he produces on the men over him is bad.

"Instead of jumping when he is told to do anything, he says 'All right' and then finishes what he is working on at the time.

"His immediate boss thinks he is surly. But he isn't. He's just got the habit of hesitating. And it is a vicious habit."

Hesitators are common in business—less common in armies and navies, where the habit is roughly discouraged.

They never seem to want to do anything when they are told to do it.

They are afflicted with a sort of mental inertia, which keeps them from moving rapidly unless there is an emergency.

Nearly always they are visited with more blame than they deserve for rarely do they mean to be sullen or unobliging.

The discipline of business is as important to business as the discipline of an army is important to the army.

Things must be done when they ought to be done, or the whole machine is likely to be put out of gear.

The man who instantly responds to a request to do something always makes a good impression.

Indeed the brisk chap, who is right on the job and alert to find out what is wanted of him will often be promoted more rapidly than the hesitator who has more ability, and will amount to more in the long run, if he ever succeeds in curing himself of his bad habit.

On shipboard there is no place for the hesitator, and no one who has had nautical experience ever lets any time elapse between receiving and carrying out an order.

It may be true that many bosses are overbearing, and that some of them are ignorant and incompetent.

It may be true that many of the orders that they give ought not to be carried out at all. But bosses of that sort do not hold their jobs for long.

The young man who is in business is there because he wants to get ahead. He cannot get ahead without making his employers believe in him.

The surest way to inspire doubt about his ability is to hesitate, to wait or dawdle before doing what he is asked to do.

The habit once formed is hard to cure. One soon gets into the way of thinking that there is time for everything, and that most little jobs can be put off till bigger ones are done.

But his employers seldom feel that way about it. They expect him to do what they want him to do, and to do it now. If he does, his chances are good. If he is slow about it he verifies a very aged proverb which has to do with he who hesitates.

JOHN BULL AS A STUDENT.

According to a London newspaper Mr. John Bull, working through the British Empire Cotton Growing corporation, has decided to establish a central cotton research station in Trinidad. It is Mr. Bull's purpose to investigate there the cotton plant in all phases of its growth and under rigorously controlled conditions in order to ascertain and estimate the importance of several factors which contribute to the final result.

Mr. Bull's intention is not to provide strains of pure line seed for large scale distribution in different parts of the empire, but to breed out pure lines for special characteristics. These will be tested locally by Mr. Bull's agents in different parts of the world to ascertain if they are satisfactory in any particular country so that the country can raise its own seed.

It is also hoped by Mr. Bull that the central station in Trinidad will provide a scientific link between growers and manufacturers. Now what is Uncle Sam doing along these lines? What is he doing in the pure seed field of endeavor? What is he doing to provide a scientific link between growers and manufacturers?

America shipped more cotton to foreign lands the last cotton year than in any year since the close of the world war. More than eight million bales were purchased by foreigners. Consumption by American mills during the cotton year which ended July 31st was 6,191,349 bales of lint and 661,065,000 of linters which was a heavy increase as compared with the figures for the year which ended July 31, 1924.

In other words almost fifteen million bales of American cotton was exported or consumed at home in 1925. Conditions in the textile centers of England are not encouraging. This is one reason why the great international bankers of New York and London are clamoring for a tariff revision by the American congress.

These gentlemen have loaned billions abroad. Now they demand a market here for foreign made goods. New England and American manufacturers are protected by a high tariff and yet the New Englanders are cutting wages all the way from ten to fifteen per cent. They say that the high wages of the war period must come down. They say they cannot do business unless their employes are willing to face new conditions or rather new wage scales.

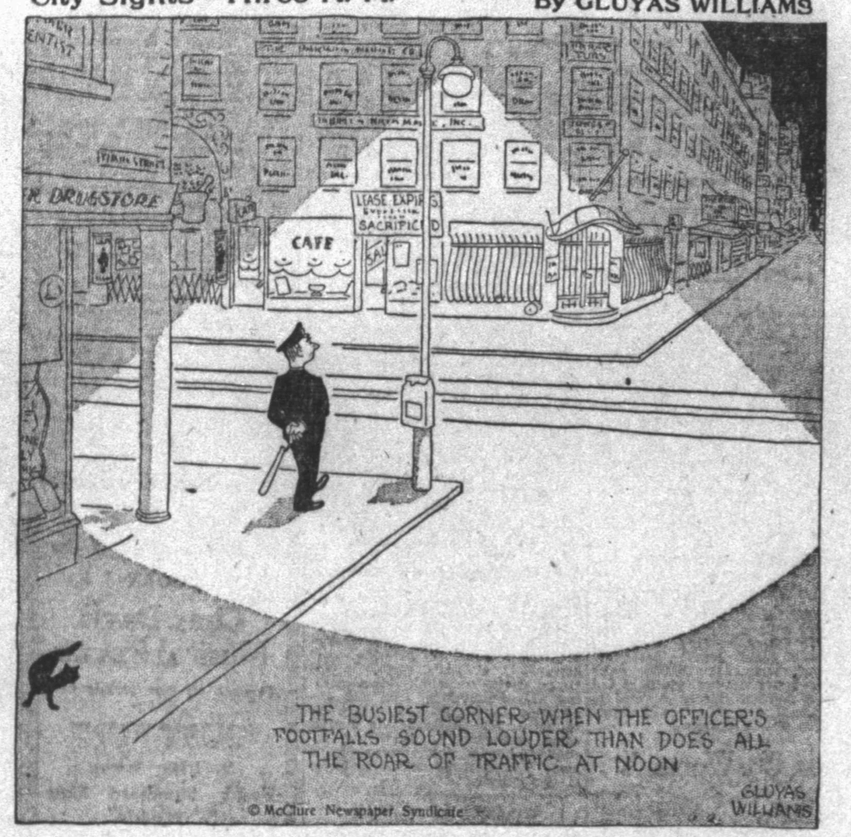

This has led William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, to call for a show down. President Green says if the wages of mill workers are to be reduced then revision must come and the textile kings of America must be satisfied with less protection in the future. If the ports of America are to be thrown open to the goods made by the cheap labor of Europe what will happen to the American wage workers?

His high standard of living will be changed. His wage scale will be reduced. On the continent of Europe toilers work from twelve to fourteen hours a day. Their daily stipend is very low. Their standard of living is not high.

Regardless of this, if the American manufacturer is to be protected why not the American wage worker? In days gone by the big bankers of New York and the big manufacturers of New England worked together in harmony and provided the sinews of war for the republican party in campaign years. Now they are wide apart. The big bankers are clamoring for low tariffs while the big manufacturers would build a high tariff wall around the United States.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

Virgo.

Today's planetary aspects are very inauspicious and unfavorable until after sundown, when a sudden change is apparent, indicating an awakening of emotion and a stimulation of thought and activities. During the day there will be present an atmosphere of nervousness and unnecessary worry. It would under such conditions be impolitic and inexpedient to attempt to do that which could be conveniently left for a more propitious occasion, as you, in all probability, will not be in a state of mind to encourage concentration of effort. In the evening all social functions or family reunions promise to be productive of happiness. Furthermore if the opportunity should be desired and should present itself, advantage can be taken of the benign and emotional sense to "put your love to the test."

Children born today will not, apparently, possess that strength and vigor of constitution which will unaided carry them safely through the ticklish period of infancy. They will all need very careful nutrition and a clockwork system of living and if given the one and, provided with the other they will, although in some cases with difficulty, attain physical normalcy. In disposition, they will be rather peevish and complaining, but this will largely be a natural result of their physical condition. As they grow up, this condition will disappear, and give way to contentment, and a philosophical state of mind.

If today is your birthday, you are very fond of change and such changes as you make are liable to be quite sudden and unexpected. You are partial to the attractions of society and very punctilious in carrying out what you consider to be your social obligations, and under any and all circumstances, are a stickler for convention, as you have a wholesome fear of "Mrs. Grundy."

In your love you are very demonstrative. In your hatred—and you can hate with enthusiasm—you are very bitter. You are known as a good friend and an implacable enemy. You possess a large amount of "sang froid" and are able to repress your innermost feelings. You do not carry your heart on your sleeve, and, even though you may be worrying yourself to death, the outsider or onlooker would never guess it.

Successful people born on this date are:

William Weigel, United States army general.

George P. Lathrop, author, founder and president of American Copyright league.

Francis Bret Harte, author.

Samuel R. Franklin, naval officer.

Gardiner Greene Hubbard, lawyer.

Bandit May Lose Hands; Cafe Owner Loses Meat Cleaver

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 24.—(AP).—Joe T. Cleary, 29, confessed robber, may lose both hands as a result of the holdup of the restaurant of George Chofas here late last night in which Cleary was slashed on the wrists with a meat cleaver in the hands of Chofas. An unidentified accomplice escaped with $30.

BAN TRUTH SERUM

Attorney General of Ontario Bars Its Use in Province.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 24.—(AP) Attorney General William F. Nickel has banned Dr. E. H. House's "truth serium" from use among prisoners of the province.

Crown Attorney James S. Allen today was instructed to notify Jailer William Wanless and Sheriff J. N. Anderson that neither Arthur Janisse, held in connection with the murder of Clayton McMullin, nor any other prisoner is to be a subject for Dr. House's "scopalamin."

It had been planned to have Janisse take the serium during the international convention of the finger print experts which will open here this week. A person under the influence of scopalamin is incapable of falsifying it is claimed.

8 MISSIONARIES MISSING

Britons Kidnaped by Chinese Bandits. Not Found as Reported.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Inquiries as to the whereabout and welfare of the eight British missionaries kidnaped by Chinese bandits on August 6 have thus far been fruitless. The party, including Bishop Nowell of Toronto, and five women were taken while at a holiday resort, but details of their capture still are lacking.

Advices from Nunyang, in Szechwan to the London offices of the Church Missionary society last week said all the members of the captured party were reported to be safe and receiving good treatment from their captors.

Judge In Charge Of Crabtree Millions

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Judge Joseph R. McCoole of the Norfolk probate court was today appointed a special administrator of the estate of Lotta Crabtree, Boston actress, who died last fall. The appointment was made by Judge Prest of the Suffolk probate court, who is now presiding over the hearings at which persons claiming to be relatives are trying to break her will which left almost $3,000,000 to charity.

Judge McCoole will act with General Clarence R. Edwards in administering the property.

SEVEN ASSASSINS HANG.

Pay Extreme Penalty for Murdering Governor of Sudan.

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The seven men principally concerned in the assassination of Sir Lee Stack, sirdar of the Egyptian army and governor-general of the Sudan, have paid the extreme penalty for their act which caused such a sensation last November and which had such far-reaching political consequences.

They were sent to the scaffold yesterday and were hanged at 45-minute intervals, the hoisting of a black flag each time notifying the crowds outside the prison walls that the trap had fallen.

BURY ACCIDENT VICTIM.

HOUSTON, Aug. 24.—Mabel Jordan Guinn, 20, who was killed in an automobile accident at Corsicana Thursday, was buried here today in a neat grave at Forest Park cemetery.

HOW IT STARTED

"A Fly on the Wheel"

We are all familiar with the use of the expression, "Like a fly on the wheel," to denote the utter helplessness of somone as contrasted with powerful destructive influences to which he is exposed, or with reference to treachery where the victim is absolutely helpless. In short, it signifies a situation where one has not a chance, where one is overpowered at the very start. A man speculating on the stock market, for instance, is often referred to as "a fly on the wheel."

The reference is to the mediaeval torture wheel which was used on political or religious offenders to exact confessions or merely as punishment. The service of the wheel during the inquisition has been written in letters blood over the pages of history. It was a revolving contraption of great dimensions on which the prisoner was tied and rolled until every bone in his body was broken and crushed. For all his chances to defend himself or escape, he might indeed have been "a fly on the wheel."

The figurative application of the expression to a situation that is equally preposterous in its unfairness, is easily comprehensible.

Report Boycott By China On U. S. Ships

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 24.—(AP).—The Shanghai correspondent of the Liverpool Post says the boycott declared by the Cantonese government against the British and Japanese shippers has been extended to include American goods.

The Cantonese government has officially notified American firms and steamship lines having offices in Shanghai and reshipped in Russia or Chinese boats.

The reason given for the boycott is that quantities of British and Japanese goods have been smuggled into Canton under American labels.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP).—No word of a boycott of American goods at Shanghai has reached the state department.

JERUSALEM GROWING

Forecasts 2,000,000 Jewish Population for City in 20 Years.

VIENNA, Aug. 24.—(AP).—The prediction that in 20 years Palestine will have a Jewish population of not less than 2,000,000 was made by K. Spinzak, head of the labor and immigration department of the Zionist executive in Jerusalem, in his report to the Zionist congress.

"Jewish immigration into Palestine averaged 3,000 monthly this year," said the report. "In the next two years this will grow 60,000 annually. No unemployment is prevalent in that country despite the arrival of these immigrants."

26 Persons Die In Week-end Accidents

CHICAGO, Aug. 24. — (AP) — Twenty-six persons were killed and many others injured throughout the country in week-end accidents ranging from automobile collisions to flying mishaps. Seven automobilists were killed; five persons were drowned, five succumbed to violence, while the others were fatally hurt in train, storm, wire and launch accidents.

The automobile toll for the entire week in nine middlewestern states was 87. Ohio lead with 26, with fatalities in other states as follows: Illinois 18; Indiana 14; Missouri, 8; Texas, 6; Iowa, Kapsas and Oklahoma, 4 each, and Minnesota, 3.

"He's a good lad," he said, smothering a sigh. And again the same feeling of envy came to him that he had felt once before. Why couldn't he take things easily and joyously as Williams did? What was there lacking in his composition that the seriousness of life seemed always uppermost in his mind? Two years of arduous responsibility had robbed him of his youth's prerogative and made him a man before he had hardly ceased being a boy. And yet, until these last few weeks, he had not even been a man, properly speaking. He had been only a machine— a creature of routine and method, rather than a living, breathing mortal moved by ordinary human passions. In Touggourt, Williams, who was five years his senior, had been like a boy out of school, bubbling over with interest and entering light-heartedly into everything that offered, undeterred by his ignorance of the language. And Caryll had marveled at his genuine and frank enjoyment. But it was in Touggourt that he himself, for the first time, had become conscious of his manhood. Touggourt! He drew his breath in sharply. The little Arab town he had hated would always, henceforward, be connected in his mind with the brief romance that had flashed like a streak of summer lightning across the calm horizon of his placid existence, stirring him to a depth of feeling of which he had not known himself capable.

For the first time love had touched him- the strange, incomprehensible love of a man for a woman, and for a few short weeks he had surrendered to emotions and impulses that were totally foreign to his nature.

It had been very real to him then, though now it was beginning to seem like a wild and improbable dream. But, wild and improbable though it might be, and faintly ashamed, as he was now, of the deep impression the girl had made on him, he knew that he would never forget her. Though he might love again, the memory of his first love would go with him always—a half-sad, half-tender recollection that would haunt him, even as the girl's face still haunted him.

Poor little lovely waif, tossed like a piece of helpless drifting wreckage on the stormy sea of life. Where was she now? What had been her fate at the hands of the devilishly handsome, sinister, smiling young desperado who had abducted her? Had she gone to gilded imprisonment to be petted or ill-treated at the whim of her captor—or had she already been flung aside, like a discarded toy, to join the ranks of similar unfortunates? He winced with horror of the sudden thought.

His own part in the affair seemed to him dastardly. But what else could he have done? Circumstances had prevented him from raising a hand in her defense and when he reached the hotel Saint Hubert had not returned. The next morning, while concealing his own feelings, he had endeavored to interest Saint Hupert in her fate. But the count had negatived his suggestions for instigating a search for a missing dancing girl. It was impossible, he had said, that Caryll could be mixed up in an affair of which he had been merely a disinterested spectator; an affair, too, that was causing the authorities much annoyance and uneasiness. These things happened, unfortunately, he had assured him —and Algeria was not England. "And noblesse oblige, mon ami," he had concluded, "it is not for you to concern yourself with the amours and abductions of cafe girls of doubtful reputation." And Saint Hubert's reasoning had brought back to him again the remembrance of inherited duties and responsibilities, and the clamoring of youthful love had gone down before the training of years.

It had all been a piece of romantic folly—a preposterous dream that could never have been more than a dream. Even had her nationality not been an unsurmountable barrier between them, it was not from the vicious atmosphere of a Cafe Maure, or the unsavory streets of an Arab town, that he must choose the future Countess of Glencaryll. But if he only could have done something to help her, something that would have lessened the feeling of shame and disgust he had for himself now.

His face flushed dully, and he turned his head away, raking the sand with nervous, impatient fingers.

"Has anything more been heard of that cafe business, Uncle Raoul?" he said jerkily.

Saint Hubert, intent on the busy scene he was watching, raised himself suddenly on his elbow. "There they go, at last," he exclaimed. "I thought we should have got away first, after all." Then, sitting up slowly, he shook the sand from his jacket and glanced at his watch. "What was that, Caryll," he inquired. "The row at the Cafe Maure? No, nothing much—at least up till the time we left Touggourt. Colonel Mercier had a mysterious packet of letters sent him which may have some bearing on the affair, but they were forwarded to headquarters, so I didn't hear what they were. The snake charmer who owned the girl disappeared in some extraordinary fashion, and the general idea now seems to be that it was only a private quarrel between him and the girl's abductor. The astute young gentleman himself has also vanished, and all efforts to secure information about him have failed. He was either really a stranger in the town—or he has been very loyally screened. Nobody would admit to being at the cafe that night and the whole of Touggourt professes a charming and child-like ignorance of everything that occured. I, personally, am of the opinion that it was only a private affair—probably a case of stolen goods on both sides—but the authorities are rather inclined, just now to look somewhat suspiciously on any fracas. However, time will show. It will be interesting to see if anything comes of it. In the meanwhile, if you are ready, its about time we start." It was with a feeling of pleasure, not unmixed with amusement, that Saint Hubert watched Caryll's capable handling of the beautiful, but difficult-tempered horse that was the Sheik's first present to him. Had Ahmed some ulterior motive in sending this particularly intractable animal—was it to test capabilities of which he was ignorant, to see of what sort of stuff this unknown son was made? The Count's lips curved in a smile of satisfaction.

In whatever way Caryll might otherwise fail to win his father's approbation, his horsemanship, at least, was beyond reproach. He could ride, and that went for something in this country.

Saint Hubert was aware of an odd feeling of responsibility as he rode by the side of his adopted nephew. In his own way, but for very different reasons, he was as nervous as Caryll in view of the meeting that would take place before many more hours were past. He knew what was Caryll's preconceived opinion of his father—would the Sheik be able to make the due allowances that would have to be made before a basis of understanding could be arrived at between them? Would Caryll have the grace to respond to the first overtures, or would he shut himself up within that wall of reserve that made him, outwardly, so unapproachable? He stole a glance at his companion. The look of pleasure and interest that had animated the young man's face during his first few moments while he had wrestled with his refractory mount had passed, and, his horse reduced to order at last, he was riding firmly with compressed lips and an air of concentrated gloom.

Saint Hubert eyed him half pityingly, half impatiently, but wisely refrained from making any comment. After all, what was there to say? He had done all he possibly could to pave the way, and Caryll would have to take his own line, whatever the consequences.

His thoughts veered suddenly. Much as he longed to help him, Caryll's difficulties had taken a secondary place in his consideration this morning.

He had another and more intimate difficulty to contend with. His own face clouded and a look of deep sadness crept into his eyes as his mind ranged forward to the coming meeting, not of the Sheik with his son, but of his own meeting with the woman he loved. Years ago he had tried to tear that love out of his heart, had tried to stifle the envy that seemed unworthy and disloyal, but, deeply rooted, it had persisted and, at last, he ceased to fight against it. She would never know of it and, unreturned, what harm could it do her? He could still love and find consolation in her happiness.

It was two years since he had seen her, two years since he had last deliberately tortured himself with the sight of her perfect contentment. It was hard to look at happiness through another man's eyes, hard to witness that ideal comradeship that made the sense of his own bitter loneliness so much more acute. But how much greater would have been the misery of his life if the Sheik's love for the woman he had taken so violently had waned, as once he had feared it would wane. That would have been a hell beyond endurance. But Ahmed loved her, passionately, tenderly, as he did himself—and his own sacrifice had not been in vain.

And it was something that she had given him her friendship; that, in part, he had helped her to happiness.

Had she changed at all in these last two years? Yet why should he imagine that any alteration could have taken place in her? To him she never seemed to change.

Would his love have kept her so youthful, so perfectly satisfied? His lips twisted painfully. He would never have had the chance of trying. He had not known her before love had tamed her indomitable and imperious spirit. Cold and unemotional as she had been then, she would have been contemptuously disdainful of him as she had been of all men. She would have gone her way indifferent to love, indifferent to everything but the spirit and adventure for which she had lived. He could never have employed the terrible methods with which the Sheik had subdued her. He could never have compelled, first her unwilling admiration, and then her affection, as Ahmed had done by the sheer force of brutal mastery that had made her acknowledge an imperiousness that was greater than her own, that had brought her, at last, submissive to her captor's feet.

It was only—to a man like Ahmed that she could have surrendered. And God knew, that though he envied him, he did not grudge his friend the happiness that was his. As he could not have won her himself, he would rather that Ahmed had her than another. He drew himself straighter in the saddle, forcing back a rising sigh as he prayed again for the strength that had never yet failed him.

What he had hidden for so long, he could go on hiding—God helping him. After all, he had much to be thankful for. He might have had to endure the sight of her suffering again, of seeing her ill-used and neglected. As it was she was happy, and nothing mattered but her happiness. And, surely, he was too old now to be crying like a child for the moon!

A smile of self-mockery lightened the melancholy of his face, and he turned to Caryll with a cheery remark.

The morning wind had died away, and the day gave promise of great heat. Already the horizon was vague and obscured, hazy with wreathing films of shimmering vapor that rose, eddying, from out of the bosom of the mighty desert. And the hot sun, set in a cloudless sky, was glinting and glistening on the shining sand, turning its myriad particles to gold. Troops of the little gray sand larks fluttered mutely overhead, and now and again a solitary hoopoe scuttled into safety almost from under the horses' feet.

For some time, Caryll had been watching a paint spoor that more than once had crossed their track, and at last Saint Hubert noticed his interest. "Gazelle," he said, reining his horse nearer, "but not very recent, I'm afraid."

Caryll laughed, for the first time that morning. "I'm beginning to think your gazelle are myths," he retorted. "We've seen traces before but the beasts themselves seem to be illusive sort of creatures. And how they live in all this country beats me," he added, with a quick glance about him. And the immense stretch of desolate loneliness on which he was looking stirred him at last to voice the question that had been hovering on his tips for days.

More Truth Than Poetry

OVER ADVISED

Of a man who has lived to a hundred and five
In the paper I recently read,
Who attributes the fact that he still is alive
To the temperate life he has led.
That he can't keep away from ice cream and mince pie—
He is perfectly willing to own,
He eats all the lobsters his means will supply—
But he always leaves liquor alone.

When I read of this aged abstemious man,
I said to myself with a smile:
"If I model my life on this temperate plan—
Perhaps I shall live a long while."
So I waved the fresh Scotch and the cocktails aside,
Looked on bitters and gin with a frown,
But I grew weak and nervous and watery eyed—
And my health became quite broken down.

Then I read of a man of a hundred and eight
Who declared that he owed his long years
To drinking red liquor and drinking it straight—
As well as mixed ales, wines and beers.
He had started to drink when a lad of eighteen,
And although he is fain to admit
That the stuff he now gets is a little bit green—
It keeps him quite husky and fit.

I still am determined to lengthen my days
In excess of their natural span,
But I hardly know which of these differing ways
Will prove the more valuable plan.
I could live till a hundred and twenty perhaps,
And so, gentle reader, could you,
If we only had read about one of these chaps—
But now we don't know what to do.

Conley Breaks Up Game In Tenth With Homer; Spuds Lose 4-2

2 RUNS SCORE AHEAD OF HIM TO SINK LOCALS

Osborn and Eberhard In Fine Pitching Battle Most of Way

Just as the fans were settling down to witness on over-time pitching battle between Robert Osborn and Karl Eberhard Monday afternoon the El Paso wonders' ball game dropped over left field fence in the form of a home run by Snipe Conley with two Steers on the paths.

Costly errors in the eighth gave Bob a bad break that he was unable to overcome, and the Steers won the game in the tenth by the score of 4 to 2. Seven two-ply killings featured the game, no less than four turned in by the Spudders.

The Spudders and Steers were both fighting for the game and the breaks turned against the locals in the eighth. Winning baseball was the winning margin in the tenth, Conley's home run drive over the wall being a hard smash, but nevertheless the game should have stopped in the ninth.

The Spudders did their scoring in the first inning. Distel slammed a two base blow to left center and romped home as Fitzgerald singled to center.

After this the two pitches settled down at the same pace and zero's were hung up in regular order. The Spudders threatened again to put a hole in the string of 0's in the seventh, but Eberhard tightened in the pinch and held them at bay. Query and Osborn were retired with ease. Gross muffed Metzler's grounder to short. Distel walked. Fitzgerald was hit with a pitched ball, filling the bases and Ping Bodie was then stopped with a high foul to Segrist.

The Bovines tied the game in the eighth inning without a hit. Tanner booted Segrist's grounder to second. Hungling hit to Osborn, and the pitcher heaved wide to second in an attempt to get Segrist. Both runners were safe. Eberhad sacrificed, Dorman to Tanner, the latter covering first base. Bauman was purposely passed, filling the bases. Conley batted for Gross and forced Bauman at second, Tanner to Distel, the latter fumbling long enough to be too late for a double play.

Only a great play by Distel cut Dallas out of a run in the first of the ninth. Miller singled to center. Griffith sacrificed Miller to second with a bunt down first base line. Teddy Kearns lined one through the box and Distel made a great shoestring catch and doubled Miller off second.

Dallas iced the game in the tenth inning. Hungling walked. Eberhard singled past third when Dorman, figuring on a bunt, came in with the pitch. Hungling stopped at second. Then Conley came through with a drive over left field wall for the round trip, chasing the pair of runners in ahead of him.

The Spuds made a great last inning try, but one was all they were able to shove over the pan. Fitzgerald singled past first. Tanner singled to center sending Fitzgerald to third. Callaghan forced Tanner at second, Bauman to Conley, Fitzgerald scoring.

The same two clubs tangle this afternoon with Jimmie Brett's hooks pitted against the slants of big Slib Love.

Murdock Back

Young Murdock has returned from Dallas, where he defeated Dickie Dixon Friday night. Both Murdock and Dixon had whipped everything they had met in Dallas, and were paired together in the main event. Dixon went to the mat in the tenth for the count of nine, and cinching the fight for Murdock, although the young Wichitan carried every round to the last one save about two.

PIRATES ROUT GIANTS AGAIN; 6 GAME LEAD

Corsairs Practically Cinch National League Flag For This Year

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP).—Little remained tonight of the fear felt by the Pirates of Pittsburgh in former years when guests at New York's Polo Grounds, for the men of McKechney today turned back the National league champions for the fourth time in five attempts and gathered unto themselves a lead of six full games—an impressive margin with fewer than forty contests to play.

The fifth battle, the last of the series, was a 9 to 2 rout in which Ray Kremer, in the box for Pittsburgh, labored steadily, supported by tremendous hitting on the part of his mates. Four pitchers of the McGraw staff went to the fray and only one of them survived the attack, Walter Huntzinger holding Pittsburgh safe for three innings after the damage had been accomplished.

To Close Probe

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Commissioner of Baseball Landis probably will complete his investigation of the Southern association baseball scandal tomorrow after examination of one more player from that circuit, who was summoned to Chicago today.

Among three players examined today were two whose names have not heretofore been mentioned.

President John D. Martin of the Southern association was closeted with commissioner Landis tonight going over the 300 pages of testimony which make up the record of the inquiry.

Helen Wills Holds Tennis Throne By Sweeping Victory

California Star Wins Singles And Doubles Crown At Forest Hills

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 24. (AP)—Helen Wills turned back the challenge of Kathleen McKane, ace of British women players, and won the national tennis championship for the third straight year today. The match, played at the West Side stadium, was as spectacular a contest as has ever been witnessed.

The 19-year-old American girl did not retain her laurels without a struggle. She lost the first set to the slim British star, but came back after that to sweep her rival aside with as devastating and crushing an exhibition of powerful stroking as any woman player has ever shown.

The final score was 3-6, 6-0, 6-2, decisive enough in the end but it fails to tell the vivid story of amazing speed of stroke and courageous aggressiveness that carried the young title holder to the greatest victory of her career, a triumph that left her supreme as queen of American courts and gave her possession of the big silver championship trophy outright.

An hour later she returned to the court to play a dominant part in carrying off her second title in the doubles final which she won with Miss Mary K. Browne by defeating the veteran team of Miss Elizabeth Ryan and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, in an all-California battle.

Good Scores Made

WHITE BEAR, Minn., Aug. 24. (AP)—Scoring was so good today in the women's western golf championship quilfying round at the White Bear Yacht club that it took 95 or better to be among the 32 leaders who will start match play tomorrow for the title. In fact four players with scores of 95 had to play off for the last two places. At the head of the list was Mrs Miriam Burns Horn of Chicago, who won the crown two years ago and was runnerup last year to Edith Cummings who refused to defend her title. The former Kansas City girl, a Chicago bride of only a few weeks took two strokes off par by scoring a 78 over the 6,281 yard links, made difficult by its hilliness, deep roughs and many traps. The medalist scored five birdies.

TIGERS 13, SENATORS 4

DETROIT, Aug. 24.—(AP).—It was Detroit's turn to have a spree today and they had it at the expense of three Washington pitchers, including the veteran Gregg and Ruether, who were pounded from the box as the Tigers won, 13 to 4. J. Harris connected for a home run in the fifth inning that drove in a runner ahead of him. Goslin, next up, tripled to score a second later in Washington's only rally. The world's champions played ragged ball while the Tigers kept their willows working viciously. The series was evened at 2-all. Score:

WORLD'S MAT TITLE AT STAKE HERE TONIGHT

Matsuda, Jap Titleholder, Meets Tony Ross In Local Arena

The stage is all set for the first world's championship athletic event ever held in Wichita Falls, which will be held in the 11th and Indiana arena tonight.

Matty Matsuda, undisputed welterweight champion wrestler of the world, arrived Sunday night and declared he was in the best of condition. Tony Ross has been working out every day since his match with Kala Pasha and declares that he is sure of beating the Jap, thereby winning the championship belt.

Matsuda gave several lessons in the art to jui jitsu to the local police force Monday afternoon. The West Texas favorite, Jack Gorman, wrestles Sylvio Checco on the same card. Checco is the welterweight champion of the U. S. navy and comes from Boston. He comes here with a great reputation from the New England states and is confident that he can beat Gorman in quick time. The sailor says that he has been after Matsuda for some time, but up to the present the Jap has refused to meet him. Next Tuesday's card is by far the best that has been offered in this part of the country.

COPS GET POINTERS.

Members of the city police and fire departments were given some practical demonstrations Monday in how to deal with recalcitrant gentry when they met with Matty Matsuda, noted Japanese wrestler who appears here in a title bout with Tony Ross Tuesday night.

The cops were shown a number of easy holds that would render the most obstreperous prisoner docile, the grips being demonstrated by Matsuda on Clarence Griffin and Joe Perskey, welterweight champs of the city hall.

Another demonstration will be given at the wrestling arena at Indiana and Eleventh at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

"In The Name of Love" Proves a Senational Film Of Destruction

A sartorial treat as well as de luxe entertainment is in store for those native film enthusiasts who visit the Olympe this week. "In the Name of Love," the main feature attraction, is a colorful romance with modern France for its picturesque locale. Howard Higgin directed it for Paramount, and the sterling cast includes Ricardo Cortez, Greta Nissen, Wallace Berry and Raymond Hatton.

That "clothes make the man" is exemplified by Cortez who wears a glittering military uniform with gold braid, bedals, epaulets, and cape for his impersonation of the "Prince of Como." Beery and Hatton, as a bogus count and a decadent marquis, respectively, are veritable fashion plates.

On the feminine side, Miss Nissen's blonde liveliness is accentuated by fashionable Paris gowns, fashioned especially for her by Travis Banton, famous styles creator. Lillian Leighton, as the newly rich mother of Greta Nissen, and Edythe Chapman, as Cortez' mother, also wear many beautiful gowns, although the raiment of the former is exaggerated in ekeping with the type of her role.

All in all, "In the Name of Love" will satisfy the average picture-goer because it appeals to the eye, the heart and the mind!

Teacher's Exams To Be Held August 26

An announcement has been received here from state Superintendent S. N. Marrs that in view of the demand for another opportunity for building to first and permanent grade teaching certificates under the old state law he has decided to give an examination in all counties on August 26. This is only for those who wish to build to higher certificates under the old law.

In this connection it was stated yesterday by County Superintendent Burl Bryant that under the new law first grade and permanent certificates could not be obtained after September 1, by examination. They must be earned through work done in college.

The coming examination will not be open to applicants for second class certificates.

NEGROES IN STAMPEDE

Cops Sing Cowboy Songs to Calm Them as Gambling Game Raided

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 24.—Five negroes and three white men, their game of "black-jack" interrupted by detectives, gave such an imitation of a catte stampede that the officers barring the various entrances to the residence were forced to soothe them much in the manner used with frightened cattle.

With detectives posted at each door to guard, the raid began. The negroes, frightened at the sudden appearance of the officers, began screaming. Their retreat cut off they began running around the room.

Singing little snatches of songs used by old-time cow punchers, the officers quieted them.

Florida Boom Is Ruination Of Press In Oklahoma Town

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 24.—The lure of Florida is playing havoc with the daily newspapers of Northwestern Oklahoma, as well as other areas.

Ten newspaper reporters and six editors from newspapers in Tulsa, Okmulgee, Sapulpa, Muskogee and several smaller towns have resigned to join a new daily newspaper at Tampa, while the Miami and Palm Beach newspapers have also drawn heavily on talent from Oklahoma and Kansas newspapers.

Vernon L. Smith, who was managing editor of the Tulsa Democrat from 1915 to 1919, is now owner of the West Palm Beach News, and Cy Logsdon, sports writer and paragrapher, is associated with Smith. Mrs. Smith was at one time a sob-sister on the Oklahoma City Times.

TAX RATE UNCHANGED

CROWELL, Aug. 24.—County taxes for Foard county for 1925 have been fixed by county commissioners court at $ .95 on the $100 valuation, the same rate that prevailed last lear, it has been announced. Special school taxes ranging from $ .40 to $1.00 in the various districts also have been voted.

THAT MORNING THRILL!

THE neat little bundle that you find on your doorstep each morning contains an abstract of the whole world's happenings for one full day. Don't you experience a thrill as you stoop to pick it up? What of importance has happened locally since you closed your eyes last night? What are the latest details in the big national story of the moment?

At home and from across the sea the morning newspaper gathers the fragments that make a vivid, daily history set forth in readable, comprehensive style.

It takes tremendous sums of money to manufacture a morning newspaper. Night workers must be paid high wages, and careful, intelligent reporting and editing cannot be assured at low salaries. The finished product that you carry into your home is just as perfect a piece of journalism as money can buy. Morning newspapers start the day for millions of America's "first families." They project in the home a review of one complete day's events.

The Morning Newspaper is the Woman's Newspaper

Women buy 85% of the merchandise sold at retail in this country. Progressive retailers are becoming more convinced of the fact that they must not only give their merchandising arguments a woman point and appeal, but must place these arguments where they will reach and influence the greatest number of women.

That accounts largely for the popular swing among advertisers to morning newspapers.

For women of today read COMPLETE newspapers—the whole story every morning of a full day's events. The morning newspaper arrives when most women have most time for reading, and remains with them during the ten open-store hours of daylight.

USE MORNING NEWSPAPERS

10 HOURS OF DAYLIGHT LIFE IN THE HOME

is given every advertisement published in Morning Newspapers.

"With the morning newspaper in the home ten hours a day, there is greater opportunity to study its contents."
HON. BELLE KEARNEY,
State Senator in Mississippi.

"Women should read newspapers thoroughly. Newspaper advertising plays a very important part in the Economics of the home."
ATTORNEY ANNA H. SETTLE,
President Louisville League of Women Voters.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The cotton market was dominated today by the government report to the practical exclusion of all other influences. The figures reported from Washington of a condition of 62 per cent of normal, an indicated yield of 13,990,000 bales and total ginnings to August 16 of 577,921 came near enough to meeting general trade expectations to eliminate the excited fluctuations which frequently follow government reports. Prior to the publication of the bureau totals the market had fluctuated within a narrow range, prices being at one time in the early trading five to six points above Saturday's close and just before the bureau report they were only a point or two under Saturday's close. The first effect of the government report was a decline of 18 points, mainly due to hedge selling. From this decline there was later a rally of 45 to 46 points on good trade buying, but the advance led to renewed hedge selling on a trading and prices eased off 37 to 39 points from the highs. The close showed net losses for the day of 9 to 10 points. After opening slightly irregular one point down to four up the market rallied slightly to 22.81 for October and 23.03 for December or five to six points above the close of Saturday. Prices gradually eased off until October traded at 22.75, December at 22.95 or six to eight points down from the highs. These were the pre-bureau levels. When the government report was issued October traded 10 points higher but immediately slumped off to 22.57 for October while December eased off to 22.77 or 15 points below the prices ruling before the report was issued. The market later advanced sharply on good trade, buying until October traded as high as 23.02 and December at 23.23, or 45 to 46 points up from the lows. This advance induced quite a wave of hedge selling and prices declined 36 points from the highs leaving a small net loss for the day.

The weather map showed considerable rain in the belt and lower temperatures but little attention was paid to any influences but the government report. Exports for the day totaled 6,202 bales.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP).—Sporadic bear selling and profit taking inspired by stiffening money rates and the speculative belief that a "technical reaction" was due interrupted the upward movement of prices in today's stock market. Closing quotations disclosing considerable irregularity. There were no news of trade developments of any consequence to influence the movement of prices but merger and dividend rumors were again widely circulated in connection with the bidding up of the rails and specialties nearly two scores of which were lifted to new peak prices for the year.

With July earnings reports and current freight traffic statistics giving promise of a splendid showing by many carriers in the last half of the year, operators for the rise had little difficulty in attracting a figure on the rail shares. Southern railway was run up more than three points to a new high record at 106 1-4, in apparent expectation of a more generous dividend distribution to stockholders, and Chesapeake and Ohio attained a new peak at 106 7-8 on a revival of reports that minority stockholders who are opposing the proposed Nickel Plate railroad merger had reached a satisfactory agreement with the Van Sweringen interests.

Additional new 1925 high records were established in the railroad group by Frisco common, St. Louis Southwestern common, Seaboard Air Line common and preferred, Western Pacific common, Western Maryland common, Katy common and Missouri Pacific preferred.

Standard industrials turned slightly reactionary after an opening period of moderate strength. U. S. Steel common touched a new high on th ecurrent upswing at 125, the price at which common stock was last offered to employes of the corporation, and then fell back to a point for a small fractional loss on the day. American Can closed 3-4 lower at 245, after selling nearly three points above that figure. Baldwin showed a fractional loss at 114 1-2.

A sudden revival of activity and strength in Chrysler Motors which was bid up 11 1-2 points to a record high at 127 1-2 and then reacted to 123 was widely construed as a run-in of an over extended short interest. This demonstration apparently frightened shorts in some of the other automotive issues. Mack Trucks in closing 2 1-4 points higher at 219 1-4 after having sold nearly six points below that figure. Nash Motors broke 18 points to 411 on a few sales.

General Railway Signal was another spectacular figure, scoring 25 1-4 points to a new peak price of 340, or 196 points above the year's close. Call money renewed at 4 per cent but advanced to 4 1-2 when some of the banks began calling loans in the afternoon. Time money was quoted at 4 to 4 1-2 per cent depending upon the maturity. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

File Charges In Assault Case Here

Charges of criminal assault were filed here yesterday against a white man, arrested early Saturday morning in connection with the alleged assault on a 23-year-old married woman in a downtown rooming house. The charge was filed in the court of Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwinn. The woman told police she was lured to the rooming house on a ruse that her husband, an oil field worker in a nearby city, was in town drunk, and that her alleged assailant, posing as a friend, was trying to find the husband and take him home. Sam B. Spence, special county investigator, filed the charge following a two-day investigation.

In a statement said to have been made to George Hodgins, chief of police, and to Mr. Spence, the man is said to have admitted being in a room with the woman, but denied the assault. The defendant has a wife and two children in Yale, Okla. The husband of the alleged assault victim told police the man under arrest once had worked with him as a rig builder.

SISTERS' LOVE FOR BROTHER COSTS ONE LIFE

Girl Enters Blazing Home To Save Brother Believed Trapped

MEGARGEL, Aug. 24.—The love of two sisters for their brother cost the life of one and the painful injury for the other when the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frek Kunkel was destroyed by fire here early today.

Miss Leola Kunkel, 18, and her sister Thelma, 14, defied the flames of the two-story residence to rescue their brother, whom they believed was trapped in the inferno. Thelma is believed in a critical condition. The father, Fred Kunkel, was painfully but not seriously burned.

All of the family had escaped from the burning building when one of the younger boys was missed. Two sisters rushed into the building, one to death, the other to serious and possibly fatal injury.

Funeral services were held at 6 o'clock this afternoon at Megargel cemetery.

The home and its contents were destroyed. Part of the loss was covered by insurance.
