CISCO EXCEEDS BOND QUOTA BY $52,541; $2,459 ADDITIONAL BE GOOD MEASURE

Cisco bond purchases Thursday totaled $2,450, bringing the grand total for the Third War Loan Drive to $197,541—$2,459 less than the $200,000 mark, but $52,541 more than the quota assigned this city.

However, since the drive continues through Saturday, it is safe to assume that the additional $2,459 desired will be forthcoming.

Cisco employees of the Humble Pipe Line bought bonds in the amount of $11,425 on September 29.

Yesterday these far-sighted employees put an additional $200 in the safest investment on earth, bringing their bond total to $11,625.

JAS. WRIGHT OF AIR CORPS ROTARY GUEST

A step forward in the activities of boys work was begun at Rotary luncheon Thursday when R. N. Cluck introduced a high school student, J. B. Curtis, as an honorary member for one month, after which another student will be given the honorary classification for the same length of time. In this way, it was explained, young men on whose shoulders will soon fall the responsibilities of carrying on, may receive training in organized community activities.

Other visitors and guests were Rev. James R. Wright, Lion Arlin

Bint, diversified occupations teacher at the high school; J. W. Shepard of Chicago; Fred Wimple of Midland, past district governor of Rotary; Miss Doris Jamison, pianist, and James Robert Wright, Jr., the guest speaker.

J. E. Hays, chairman of attendance, announced that both sides in the campaign now on had scored 100 percent for last week and that each side had one member absent this week. It remains to be seen whether they make up or not.

Past president Edward Lee introduced the speaker by saying he had contacted young Wright, who is home on leave, and asked him to tell the Rotarians if it was true that the men training in the aviation corps now are having an easy time at the expense of the government.

The speaker, who had volunteered before he was 18 years of age, and was called a few days after attaining that age, spoke in a splendid manner, giving in more or less detail his activities since his induction at Dallas on June 2.

The high lights of the talk were the emphasis he placed on the strict discipline of his training camp, its value in many ways and the fun which these young men got out of the hardships that they sometimes had to undergo. In all his talk there was nothing but praise for everything in the program. He said he would not sell his experiences at any price.

Wright traced his movements from Dallas to his first destination at beautiful Biloxi, Miss., and thence to Bowling Green, Ky., where his training began. He arose at 5:15 each morning and his studies began soon after breakfast. Physics, math, English, public speaking, history, geography, military courtesies and first aid were the subjects emphasized, with special emphasis on physics. This course continued three months.

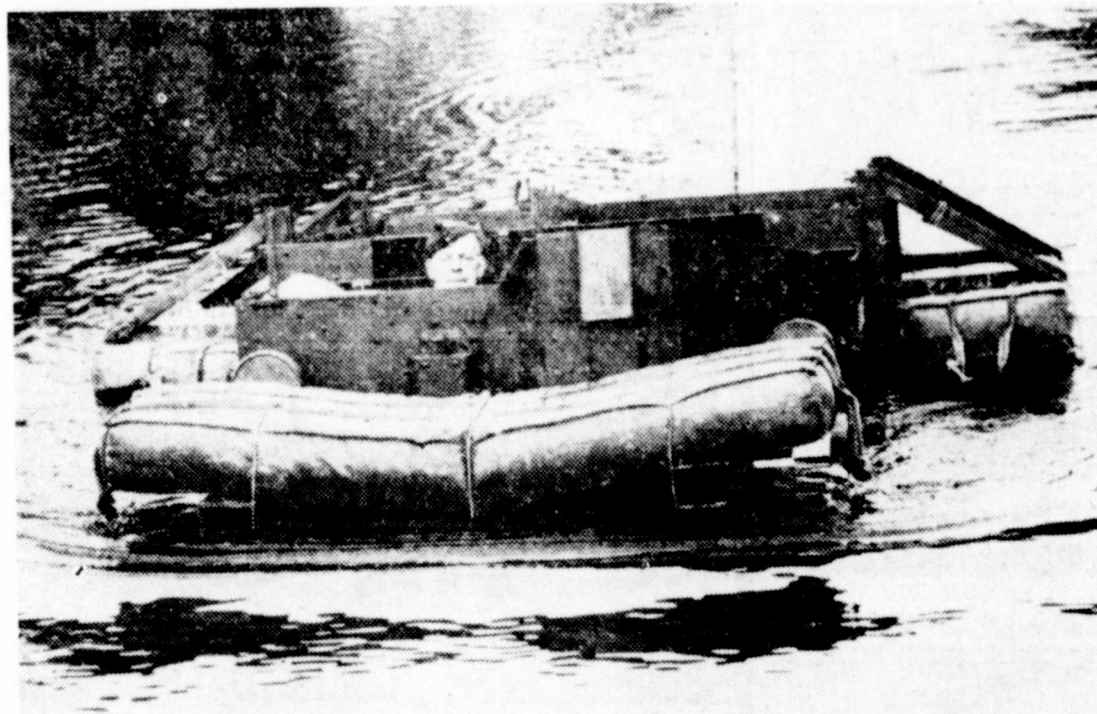

The flying course was supposed to consume one month, but a hurry up order came and the time was cut down to two weeks.

Lots of mopping, sweeping and dusting kept them busy and on their toes. Officers were severely strict as to any speck of dirt or any flaw in their personal appearance, but the speaker seemed to see the humorous side of every hardship and related many incidents on himself that brought laughs from the audience. He closed by saying he would not trade the experience and education received for any earthly value. He and his buddies, he stated, were anxious to get into the heart of activity across the seas and get it over with.

"We want to get home, but we know we can't until victory is won; so we are anxious to get into the fighting," he stated.

LIONS LADIES NIGHT PROGRAM WAS GOOD ONE

Lions ladies' night, held at Laguna Hotel last evening, was a thorough enjoyable affair from all angles, including the steak dinner served to approximately 100 people.

R. W. McCauley, presided and O. L. Stamey was the toastmaster. The invocation was by Rev. W. H. Cole. Misses Inka Sherman, Anna Jo Tableman, Catherine Draganis and Marilyn Shertzer, comically dressed, sang several songs and made a distinct hit.

A sing-song in which all joined was a pleasant feature and N. C. Huston was presented with a past president's pin preceding the introduction of the guest speaker, Dr. Law Sone, head of Texas Wesleyan college.

Dr. Sone was introduced by Rev. Leslie Seymour, the distinguished guest taking for his subject, "Unconditional Surrender Means Isolation is a Thing of the Past."

TAYLOR NOW A CADET.

Ira Thomas Taylor, son of Mrs. Ira May Taylor, 1009 E. Tenth street, has completed his basic training at Miami Beach, Fla., and has entered Kent university in Ohio for further training. He is now an aviation cadet. The Cisco boy enlisted in the army air corps reserve while attending Cisco Junior college and was called July 17 of this year, soon after his 18th birthday.

MIKE FLEMING TO EL PASO TO LIVE WITH SON

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Fleming, who have been making their home in Pecos for the past seven months, will move to El Paso in the near future. They made El Paso their home for several years before locating in Pecos.

The move to the border city will mean the departure from Cisco of Mike Fleming and his son Francis and the closing or leasing of the Fleming home at 400 H avenue. Mrs. Fleming is here now, attending to business matters and packing household goods preparatory to shipment.

Mike Fleming, who will be 89 years of age on the 12th of this month, has a very large circle of friends in Cisco and they will regret his departure. Though born in New York, Mr. Fleming came to Texas in 1880 and located in Cisco in 1900. He came here as section foreman for the T. & P. railroad and served in that capacity until 1915. During his long residence here he has been known as a progressive, thoroughly dependable citizen and good man. He served as city commissioner at one time.

LIEUT. JONES OF ARMY HERE FOR A VISIT

Lieut. Crandall Jones, aeronautical engineer with the army air forces, has arrived in Cisco to spend eight days with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Jones, and his many friends. The lieutenant came here from Salt Lake City, Utah.

From Cisco Lieutenant Jones will depart for Langley Field, Va., where he will be in charge of a ground crew as squadron engineer for B-24 Liberator bombers.

E. M. HOWARD HEAD OF WAR FUND DRIVE

E. M. Howard of Rising Star, chairman of the National War Fund Drive in Eastland county, which starts October 11 and continues through the month, announces the county quota has been placed at $12,898. This annual drive has been made in the name of the USO heretofore.

Mr. Howard, who has been a tireless worker in each of the previous USO campaigns, in his announcement brings out that "not only is it necessary to win a war, but it is also necessary to bind up the wounds of war and minister to the needs of millions of American men in uniform who, far from home and in strange surroundings, are fighting actual battles."

Continuing, Chairman Howard says: "The function of the National War Fund is to raise sufficient money to do all these things and Eastland county's quota of $12,898 is considered very reasonable. The Texas quota is $4,885,781."

The county organization is made up as follows:

County chairman, E. M. Howard, Rising Star; vice chairman, John W. Kindler, Ranger; treasurer, W. F. Creeger, Ranger; publicity chairman, B. A. Butler, Eastland; fraternal chairman, Henry Pullman, Eastland; federated clubs chairman, Mrs. M. L. Stubblefield, Gorman; quota chairman, R. L. Ponsler, Cisco; campaign chairman, Charles S. Sandler, Cisco; rural communities chairman, Cecil Shults, Rising Star; secretary, Mrs. Irene Shults Hughes, Rising Star.

WHEN AMERICANS ENTERED CITY THEY FOUND THAT ALL GERMAN FORCES HAD BEEN EVACUATED

NORTH AFRICA, Oct. 1.—The Allied Fifth Army has captured Naples, the first great prize of the 22-day Italian campaign, which was launched less than 12 hours after Italy surrendered, it was announced today.

The Allies entered Naples this morning after their climactic attack on the rim of the Salerno hills south of the city which broke the backbone of German resistance and laid open the approaches to the great port. When the Americans entered the city they found that all German forces had fled.

First indications were that the Fifth Army men who led the way into Naples were British. British troops had been manning the western section of the Fifth Army line since the bridgehead was secured and the northward push started.

A British Broadcasting Corp. report from Allied headquarters said the harbor at Naples can be cleared for Allied use in eight days. The Germans were reported to have carried out extensive demolitions, and the harbor took a severe pounding from Allied planes.

The first Allied units to enter Naples probably were those which burst through the coastal bottleneck west of Mount Vesuvius, hurdled the last formidable barrier by the capture of Torre Annunziata, 11 miles from Naples, and plunged on to the suburbs of the city.

Pre-war Naples was Italy's third city and second port. In Allied hands it was—or was expected to be made speedily—one of the greatest Mediterranean bases for the Battle of Europe.

Once the Allied foothold at Naples is established, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's men will have a formidable springboard for the northward march to Rome and beyond.

Naples fell after the Fifth Army had flanked it by capture of the Avellino road junction to the northeast.

Allied shock troops broke down the last formidable barrier athwart the coastal road leading along the bay to Naples by the capture of Torre Annunziata, 11 miles from the city, after a 24-hour artillery barrage and bitter fighting in the streets.

"The Eighth Army advance continues according to plan," the daily communique said. It was in contact with the German rear guard, and captured a number of points. But there was no specific report of the British progress.

The new line runs from Naples to San Severino, the capture of which was announced yesterday, then almost due north of Avellino, the Montemarano, Melfi and onto the Adriatic.

An air communique reported that Allied planes yesterday repeated Wednesday's operations almost exactly, attacking targets within an arc 25 miles north and east of Naples, without encountering a single enemy plane over Italy.

OKS ATWELL'S PRESS COMMITTEE STAND AGAINST TEE JUMPS ON OPA CONTROL ARMY, NAVY

HOUSTON, Oct. 1.—U. S. Circuit Judge J. C. Hutcheson today allied himself with Federal Judge W. H. Atwell in opposition to OPA's control over the nation's war-time living.

Speaking before a Houston civic club, the federal jurist praised the decision of Judge Atwell in curbing the power of OPA, and took what was interpreted as a punch at the U. S. supreme court.

In a decision Wednesday at Dallas, Judge Atwell held that certain acts of the OPA were unconstitutional and referred to them as a "modern instance of dictatorship." The federal judge condemned the OPA policy of naming a "hearing administrator" to hear charges of rationing violations and assess penalties, holding that such procedure violated the constitution.

REDS ROLL ON.

MOSCOW, Oct. 1.—Red armies pounded across the wooded plains of White Russia at places only a little more than 100 miles from the old Polish border today, increasing the threat to Adolf Hitler's Vitebsk-Orsha-Mogilev-Gomel Line. (A British Radio broadcast recorded by CBS said the Russians were "practically at the gates of Gomel" and less than 30 miles from Mogilev, Vitebsk and Orsha).

LAWYERS' SUGGESTION.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The National Lawyers Guild today urged congress to increase payments to soldiers' families to $120 a month for a wife and one child, and $20 more for each additional child.

LEADS AIR ATTACK ON ITALY—Maj. Gen. James H. ("Jimmy") Doolittle, pioneer in the development of aeronautics, hero of the bombing of Tokyo in April, 1942, and wearer of the Congressional Medal of Honor and all other official decorations for gallantry and distinguished service, climaxed his dramatic military career thus far by directing the war from the skies in the capture of Southern Italy. Gen. Doolittle, aged 46, is Commanding General, North African Strategic Air Force. An intrepid soldier, he has also qualified as a wartime champion of industry. Before taking up active combat duty in the present hostilities he rendered important service in supervising the conversion of automobile factories into plants for the manufacture of airplane parts.

THE BIG FOUR.

The stronger Russia grows — and her power is growing incredibly now — the more important it is for the great Soviet nation and the great Democratic nations to understand and appreciate each other. Britain, the United States and Russia are today the big powers in this world, and seem destined to go along together as leaders of civilization and economic power in this generation, at least. And China, when she gets her stride, should make a strong fourth.

But they will have to agree in essential matters, and avoid unpleasant disagreements over non-essentials. One horse is easy to drive. A two-horse team is twice as hard, and the difficulty may be doubled with every added horse.

There is no longer so much fear of Russian Bolshevism or Sovietism. Under Stalin the nation seems to be growing more conservative. Its present status might be regarded as a compromise between autocracy, communism and democracy. It has a rather liberal constitution, which has not yet been put into practice, but might be adopted gradually when this war is over and political experiments are safer.

COAL.

As winter comes on, and many coal bins remain unfilled, people naturally get worried. The deficit left by the coal strikes last spring seems not to have been fully made up. Coal production through the summer and early fall should have been larger. Between war requirements and domestic demands, the industry must struggle for a while, or it will be a very cold winter for millions of people.

Plans for rationing are being developed at Washington, accompanied by the expressed hope that it is a necessary evil, not a necessary evil. Meetings are being held and various groups organized, and the OPA announces that it will have a few rationing programs in operation in this field. But these very facts sound rather ominous.

Many a coal yard, usually well filled at this time of year, is almost empty. The effect of the shortage is already being felt. It would be reassuring to have more water and power going into people's homes, instead of prolonged outages about it.

FOOTBALL.

Football has long been the terror of many an American mother. Broken limbs and other injuries have been the product of every season. While most of the accidents have befallen players on small teams, who lacked careful parental supervision, there have been over the years enough serious hurts to make any parent of a college football player uneasy. Wise coaches have sought to allay this uneasiness. Outstanding along this line has been Clark Shaughnessy, coach of the University of Pittsburgh, who has just had his efforts recognized. The National Safety Council has given him its highest award, the title of "safety ace," formerly reserved for industrial executives whose safety achievements were remarkable.

Two of Shaughnessy's mottoes, scrupulously lived up to, largely explain his selection. One tells coaches, "Never use a boy who has a minor injury." The other should be heeded by the bruiser type of player or coach, still to be found occasionally: "Remember that the aim of a football game is not to annihilate the other team, but to advance the ball."

This year it is especially important to conserve the power of American youth. Shaughnessy has outlined a policy that should be followed universally.

GORIZIA.

A name often heard in World War I was Gorizia, an Austrian town in the mountains, the scene of bitter struggles between the Austrian and Italian armies. It took from June, 1915, till August, 1916, for the Italians to capture it, and even then they lost it next year by their defeat at Caporetto.

Now the Yugoslavs have seized it, just when the Germans would like to devote their whole attention to the American and British armies invading Italy.

Hitler must feel like a man trying to smooth out a featherbed with a flatiron. When he has one end to suit him, it blows up at the other.

Incidentally these Balkan gains of the Yugoslavs are beginning to look like a third front.

U. S. CRIMINALLY CARELESS OF LIFE

CHICAGO, Oct. 1. — The National Safety Council said today that accidental deaths on the home front are running far ahead of

Secretary of the Treasury "Sees the People"

SECRETARY MORGENTHAU (right) shakes hands with SHERMAN KIMMEL, 6924 Berthold avenue, St. Louis, Mo., who helped make the 6900 block the first in the United States to go over the top in the War Bond drive by buying 10 bonds. Kimmel's wife stands at his right, while his daughter and her husband, MR. and MRS. FLINT GAMEL, are at his left. In the foreground, back to the camera, is MRS. WALTER VOGEL, 6932A Berthold, solicitor who put the block over the top.

St. Louis, Mo.—It isn't every day that a cabinet member, the nation's Secretary of the Treasury, comes scuffling in a person's home and says to you: "Thanks for buying that extra War Bond."

That's exactly what happened to a group of families in the 6900 block of Berthold avenue here. Secretary Henry Morgenthau, Jr., made it his first order of business during a two-day stay here to pay tribute to the manner in which St. Louisans were going about the job of backing the attack during the Third War Loan.

The Vogels and the Gamels and the Kimmels whose homes Mr. Morgenthau visited to express his appreciation of the "real America" are typical of millions of their countrymen. The neighborhood is just like any average residential neighborhood in your home town. There are cottages and two-story wooden homes and a few trees.

When the 3rd War Loan began, everybody got busy in the countless neighborhoods of St. Louis. More than 9000 men and women undertook the huge task of going into the approximately 250,000 homes and having a chat about the dire need of backing the boys at the front.

The 6900 block of Berthold avenue responded 100 per cent the first night. It claimed the honor of being the first neighborhood in the nation to go all-out back of the 3rd War Loan.

Stickers, announcing "We bought extra Bonds," adorned windows of every home. Big red and white placards bearing the message "100 Neighborhood" hung from all lamp posts surrounding the block.

At the time Mr. Morgenthau went visiting here, more than 100,000 St. Louisans were already exhibiting the stickers at their homes.

Speaking from the porch of the Kimmels, he told the Berthold Block neighbors:

"I am glad of this opportunity to visit these homes. This is America at its best. If every block in this country did what you people have done I could retire tomorrow—the money would roll into the Treasury."

"See the People" is Missouri's 3rd War Loan slogan. That's what Mr. Morgenthau did. As he left the block with "good nights" ringing in his ears, he commented: "This has been my greatest experience so far during the 3rd War Loan Campaign."

Let's Get It Over With

When one thinks of all the suffering, bloodshed, loss of property and time, one is made to wonder how long the civilized nations of the earth will have to suffer before it is over and governments are restored to their citizens, and the liberties they have a right to enjoy are given to them.

We have put our hands to the plow; we cannot turn back; we must finish the task we have set for ourselves. Let's get it over with and return to peacetime pursuits.

Why Electricians Are Needed in Seabees

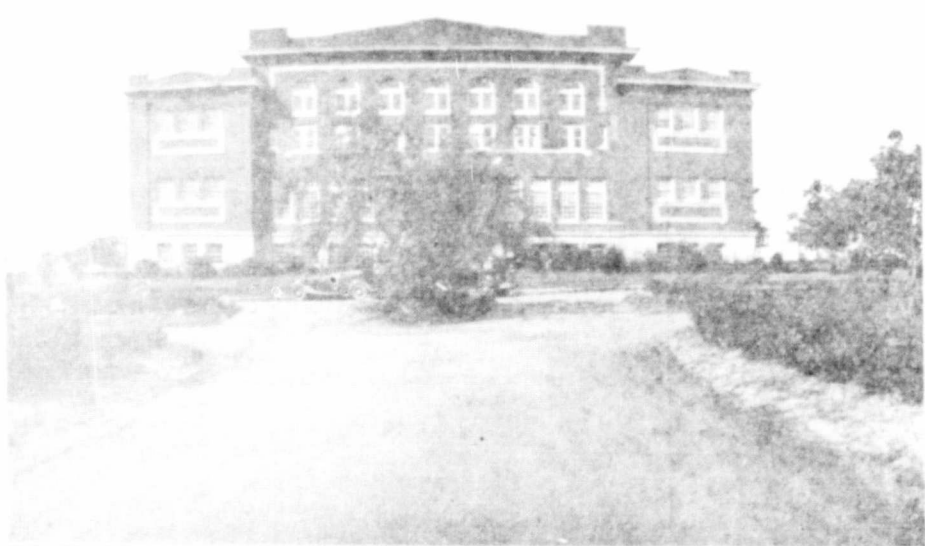

This photo, taken on a Pacific island, shows why the Seabees need electricians. A novice can't learn to operate one of these generators overnight—and the Navy hasn't the time to give all the men necessary to do the job the fundamental training. Seabees are the Construction Battalions of the Navy. They build roads, airplane runways, water works, sewage systems and just about everything necessary at a modern advance fighting base. The Army needs men for similar work in the Army Engineers. For full information about the Seabees, see any Navy Recruiting Station.

C. J. TURNER, Registrar

Founded 1918

WENTY-FIVE years is not old. Many firms boast histories embellished and hallowed by generations. Compared with these, we're a lusty, vigorous youngster.

That is, in YEARS. But, compared in terms of accomplishment, our first quarter century is impressive. It is indeed SIGNIFICANT. For in 25 years we've emerged from small, modest beginnings to become the Southwest's Largest Independent Coffee Roaster. All Texas can rightfully rejoice with us. To the loyal legion of Admiration customers who shared then as they share now the early enthusiasms, we renew our pledged assurance of every service and consideration. And to our hundreds of employees, grown from a handful, who gave so gallantly of their faith, young courage, and friendship—we express our most grateful appreciation.
