ALL-TIME RECORD HARVEST STILL GOING AT FULL SPEED

Area Cotton Crop Brings In $225 Million

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

COTTON ginnings on the South Plains passed the 1,000,000-bale mark Saturday for the first time in any year in history.

Authoritative estimates were that 500,000 to 600,000 bales still awaited harvest, comprising the largest cotton crop ever grown within a comparable area upon earth.

The crop represents a cash value conservatively placed at a minimum of $225,000,000.

The closest this area ever came to the million-mark before was in 1937, when 959,000 bales were ginned. The next largest year was 1947, with 944,000 bales.

The 22 cotton producing counties of the region, with a total area of about 20,000 square miles will harvest about 10 per cent of the staple grown in the U. S. and 25 to 30 per cent of that grown in Texas.

The U. S. cotton classing office at 1702 Avenue H supplied the official records which established that the 1,000,000-bale ginning mark had been reached and passed. More than 99 per cent of the staple grown in the area is classed as to length, color and quality as fast as a sample from every bale ginned can be rushed to that office.

The office, incidentally, is the largest of its kind in the world, now employing approximately 150 people.

L. O. Buchanan, head of the office with the title of chairman of the board of cotton examiners, reported that 865,695 bales had been classed at the close of business Saturday.

He estimated that approximately 95,000 samples were in the office waiting to be classed, with samples from about 50,000 additional bales en route from gins and/or compresses.

The figures add up to approximately 1,010,000 bales ginned. The estimates were extremely conservative so that actual ginnings doubtless were several thousand bales larger than this total.

According to Buchanan's computations, the millionth bale probably was ginned Saturday morning.

However, with 287 South Plains gins turning out a bale of cotton each at the rate of one every six to 12 minutes — most of them operating on a round-the-clock schedule—it would be impossible to designate any particular bale as No. 1,000,000.

In the aggregate, the gins of the area are turning out about 28,000 bales and the classing office is handling about 23,000 samples a day Both of these are record-breaking figures, not alone for this area, but for the nation and the world.

The South Plains and Caprock counties which have contributed to the amazing record this year are, alphabetically, Bailey, Borden, Briscoe, Castro, Cochran, Crosby, Dawson, Deaf Smith, Dickens, Floyd, Gaines, Garza, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Motley, Parmer, Swisher, Terry and Yoakum.

The ginning of the millionth bale marked a significant milestone in the dramatic history of cotton in this region.

The fact that this area would produce the staple abundantly was recognized by the earliest pioneers. Most of them were from cotton growing region

China Warned Not To Fire On U. S. Ships

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—In a strong note of protest, the United States has demanded that the Chinese Nationalist government warn its warships that they cannot fire illegally on American vessels running the China coast blockade.

The State department disclosed today that the rebuke was delivered yesterday to Chinese Foreign Minister George Yeh in British Hong Kong.

Secretary of State Acheson had emphasized in a news conference Wednesday that he wished all American ships would stay out of the "hazardous" Shanghai area. Today's note hammered the reverse side of the case—insistence that Nationalist warships should not illegally attack American vessels.

Directed Against Attack

The protest was directed specifically against the attack Monday on the Isbrandtsen line's vessel, the Sir John Franklin. It was entering the Yangtze river leading to Shanghai. Previously the State department had protested an earlier attack on Isbrandtsen's Flying Cloud in the Shanghai area.

The new note made these major points:

1. The United States, from the beginning of the blockade last June, has declined to admit its legality for many reasons.

2. The attack on the Sir John Franklin was carried out "indiscriminately and wantonly" and was "unjustifiable and contrary to the law and practice of nations."

Chinese Held Responsible

3. The United States government therefore holds the Chinese Nationalist government "fully responsible for any losses sustained by American nationals as a result of these reckless acts."

4. The United States views seriously the attack on American life and property and requests that the Nationalists prevent another "incident of this nature."

The department appeared to draw a distinction between what a nation has a right to do in its own waters, and an attack which violates international law and extends outside that area. It contends this now has occurred.

Violation Of U. S. Rights

At the news conference Wednesday Acheson had said that he considered the latest attack in some respects at least a violation of American rights. Therefore he considered that if the Isbrandtsen line wanted to claim damages the American government would back it up.

At the same time he singled out the Isbrandtsen line as the one Pacific ship operator which had

New Mexico Man Also Is Fatally Hurt As Cars Collide With Terrific Force

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

PLAINVIEW, Dec. 3.—Four persons were killed and two others seriously injured when two cars rammed together with terrific force about 6:15 a.m. today on the Lubbock-Amarillo highway four and one half miles north of here,

The dead were:

Robert Henry Willis, 70, of Floydada.

Mrs. B. E. Robinson, 31, of Amarillo.

Charles Alfred (Fred) Geer, 58, of Amarillo, father of Mrs. Robinson.

Injured Identified

The injured were Mrs. William Youngblood, 41, reported in a fair condition tonight in Plainview clinic, and David Robinson, two-year-old son of Mrs. Robinson.

The four deaths pushed the South Plains traffic fatality toll for this year to 96—five past the 91 deaths predicted for the entire year by district Texas Highway patrol officials in January. Of the 96 dead, 39 have been killed in the past 35 days as highway fatalities continue at a rate of more than one a day on the South Plains.

Three of the dead, Willis, Geer and Mrs. Robinson, apparently were killed instantly. Youngblood died after being taken to Plainview clinic.

Floydada Man Alone

Willis, a carpenter at Floydada and a pioneer Floyd county resident, was driving north, alone in a 1940 Chevrolet coupe. He was enroute to Amarillo to see a physician who had been treating him.

The family group was in a 1949 Mercury sedan, headed south from Amarillo, enroute to Snyder.

Both cars were all but demolished by the impact of the collision, investigating Highway patrolmen said.

Hits Near Door

According to the patrol officers, Willis apparently had swung inward on the highway on a slight curve. The front of the Mercury collided near the left front fender and door of Willis' car—on the driver's side.

Willis apparently died from head and chest injuries. Both legs and arms were broken.

Geer, driver of the other car, died in the wreckage and was pinned under the steering wheel.

Thrown From Car

His daughter, Mrs. Robinson, was thrown from the car and died from multiple injuries which included a broken neck, head injuries, a broken right jaw, broken right arm above the elbow, severe lacerations and multiple bruises.

Youngblood, Geer's brother-in-law, who died in Plainview clinic shortly after the dawn crash, re-

Three Burned To Death, 21 Hurt In Oklahoma U. Fire

(By The Associated Press)

NORMAN, Okla., Dec. 3.—Three University of Oklahoma students were burned to death today when a flash fire swept through a wooden dormitory.

Twenty-one were injured, two critically.

More than 300 others escaped uninjured. University officials said at 4:30 p.m. all the students in the dormitory at the time of the blaze had been accounted for.

Victims Identified

Those who died in the blaze were identified as:

Price D. Starks, age unknown, Oklahoma City. His body was burned beyond recognition but identification was made through the location of the body in the ruins and by checking the list of those known to have been in the building.

There were 349 men students in the dormitory.

Many Jumped Out Windows

Awakening suddenly in the early morning hours, many of them jumped from the windows of the sprawling two-story wooden structure, formerly used as a Navy barracks.

Long after the flames had died away, leaving only the building's concrete supports standing like tombstones in a graveyard, university officials worked feverishly to identify the dead.

It was a tedious job because an unknown number of dormitory residents had departed for the weekend.

Firemen continued to dig through the ruins, while university workers sought to contact the missing students or their families. Anxious parents were swamping the university switchboard with telephone calls from all over the country.

With the origin of the fire, which enveloped the building in less than 10 minutes, still undetermined, estimates of the damage ran beyond half a million dollars.

Goodfellows Again To Spread Cheer

The Lubbock Goodfellows are on the job again, just as they have been during each of the last 15 Christmases.

They are going to do everything they can, just as they have done for 15 years, to make certain that no needy child in Lubbock is forgotten on Christmas day.

They, therefore, are asking contributions to the annual Goodfellow fund. The first list of contributors will be published in The Morning Avalanche and The Evening Journal of next Wednesday. Donation then will be acknowledged from day to day until the drive ends.

Would Help 4,000 Children

The Goodfellows need about $3,000 this year. There are about 4,000 children in the city who must depend upon the Goodfellows for whatever Christmas joy they are to have.

The Goodfellows can supply each child with a package containing candy, fruit, nuts and new toys. But they need about 75 cents for each child. With that much money, they can take care of needs because they get everything at rock-bottom prices.

The identity of the Goodfellows, including the Chief, are kept secret to guard against the possibility that someone might charge they are seeking publicity for themselves.

Contributions to be included in the first list should be sent or mailed to The Avalanche-Journal, 1211 Texas avenue. In the same issues with the list of contributors will be a coupon on which to report the names of children who should be remembered by the Goodfellows.

$43 Billion Budget Seen

By ROBERT G. NIXON
INS Staff Correspondent

U. S. SUB BASE, KEY WEST, Fla., Dec. 3. —A $43 billion budget was forecast today for presentation by President Truman to the Congress next month.

Informed quarters, at the same time, intimated that Mr. Truman will request a tax increase of from $4 billion to $5 billion.

Budget and tax problems had high priority on the President's list of problems as he ended the first week of his three-week Florida vacation.

Reports To Truman

Assistant to the President John R. Steelman reported by phone today to the President of developments in the highly-complex fiscal situation.

Steelman, who will return to Key West Monday, conferred with Secretary of Treasury John Snyder and budgetary officials during the day.

Steelman's round of conferences also included some with other cabinet officers, White House Administrative Assistant Charles Murphy, and Leon Keyserling, acting economic advisers' chairman.

Helps Prepare Messages

Murphy has been the chief correlator of information for the President's state of the union, budget and economic messages while Mr. Truman is vacationing in south Florida.

There were indications at Key West that this year's cold war budget may even reach the staggering total of $45 billion.

Budgetary experts are known to have been working in an area that extends from $41 billion to $45 billion.

Their problem is two-fold:

1. To keep the budget within reasonable bounds in the face of constantly increasing requirements for defense and aid to other nations caused by the cold war.

Problem Explained

2. To cope with the demands of a Congress that last session talked economies but voted funds considerably in excess of the President's budget recommendations.

There were some intimations that the budget request may run as high as $45 billion.

Mr. Truman hoped for a balanced budget this year when he asked for $42 billion.

Instead, he found himself with a $5.5 billion deficit on his hands.

Break In Coal Front Claimed

BY PHILLIPS J. PECK
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — A group of Kentucky mine owners were reported today to have agreed to a new contract with John L. Lewis providing a 15-cent increase in welfare fund royalties and a 95-cents-a-day pay boost for miners.

The reported agreement represents the first "break" in the United Mine Workers seven-month, strike-punctuated battle for an improved new wage pact to replace the contract which expired last June 30.

To Sign Monday

Officials in Washington said the Kentucky owners will come here Monday to sign the contract at UMW headquarters.

The bulk of Lewis' 480,000 soft and hard coal miners wil go on a three-day work week Monday as part of the UMW's campaign to force the entire coal industry to agree to the new contract terms.

Operators signing a contract will be allowed to produce on a five-day schedule.

The Kentucky group is understood to include several score small truck mine operators in the eastern section of the state. They reportedly mine about three million tons of coal annually.

Contract Worked Out

Samuel Caddy, president of UMW district 30 in Kentucky, is understood to have worked out the agreement in line with Lewis' order last Thursday to local union officials to seek contracts on a company-by-company basis.

The contract reportedly boosts the operators' royalty payments to the UMW welfare program from their present level of 20 cents a ton

Probe Ordered Into Uranium 'Shipments'

By FREDERIC TUTTLE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 — A double-barrelled congressional investigation was launched today into reports of huge wartime shipments of uranium and atom-bomb secrets to Russia.

Sen. McMahon (D-Conn) chairman of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy committee, announced he has directed his staff to probe immediately charges by a former Air Force inspection officer that the late Harry Hopkins ordered hundreds of pounds of uranium flown to the Soviets.

Chairman Wood (D-Ga), of the House un-American Activities committee, wired his top investigators to check on the charge and held his committee ready for full hearings on 48-hours notice.

The accusation which touched off both investigations was made Friday night by Maj. George Racey Jordan, now president of the American Pacific Industrial corporation.

In a radio interview with Fulton Lewis, jr., Jordan said that Hopkins, former lend-lease administrator and intimate of the late President Roosevelt, also ordered vital A-bomb secrets flown to the Russians.

Story Is Doubted

(The sensational nature of Jordan's statement, involving Hopkins, brought strong expressions of doubt, the Associated Press reported.

(Robert E. Sherwood, who was close to both Roosevelt and Hopkins called Jordan's story "incredible."

To Question Jordan

McMahon said that he has directed his staff to question immediately Jordan and the military men who were then in charge of the nation's atomic program.

Harlod Bergman, deputy director of the atomic committee staff, said he is leaving Washington at once to try to contact Gen. Leslie Groves, wartime chief of the Manhattan project and other officers more directly connected with A-bomb security at the time.

Bergman said he will make every effort to see Groves "over the weekend."

Groves, now an official of the Remington Rand company and a resident of Connecticut, declared he would have nothing to say

Reds Challenged To Labor Check

NEW YORK, Dec. 3. (AP).— Britain challenged the Soviet Union today to let the world see what has happened to 1,500,000 Latvians, Esthonians and Lithuanians the British charge have been driven into Russian forced labor camps.

The Russians remained silent on the challenge during bitter British-Soviet debate in the United Nations assembly.

In a counter blast, Soviet Delegate Alexander Panyushkin charged the British were disseminating "Goebbels-like propaganda" against the Russian government. Joseph Goebbels was Nazi Germany's minister of propaganda.

References Deleted

Assembly President Carlos P. Romulo struck all references to Goebbels from the General Assembly's record including British Delegate G. T. Corley Smith's angry reply. Smith said: "We had no other connection with Goebbels than at the wrong end of a bomb."

After Romulo finally succeeded in terminating the heated debate, the assembly approved a refugees

Sherman Cotton Mill Hit By Fire

SHERMAN, Dec. 3. (AP).— Two large cotton mill warehouses were destroyed here today. The loss in cotton seed alone was more than $350,000.

The warehouses were owned by Kimball Milling company, one of eight plants owned in North Texas.

Phillip Norris of Fort Worth, geenral manager of all the mills, said here tonight that the firm planned to replace the destroyed structures with a modern all-steel building costing between $75,000 and $100,000.

Fire Starts In Conveyor

The blaze started shortly before noon in a conveyor carrying seed from the seed house to the mill. The exact cause of the flames has not been determined.

Firemen from Sherman, Denison and Perrin Air Force base prevented the wind from carrying the flames to surrounding plants in the southeast Sherman industrial section. Very close by was the large Fant Flour Milling plant.

Cottonseed Loss Heavy

F. E. Phillips, plant manager, made the loss estimate. Besides the 6,500 tons of cotton seed, which cost $42 to $60 a ton, and the buildings themselves, the loss included 1,500 bushels of cotton planting seed at $2.50 to $3 a bushel, and 400 tons of hulls at $10 a ton.

The loss was largely covered by insurance.

The Kimball Milling company is owned by Kay Kimbell, Dr Coleman Carter and Philip Norris, all of Fort Worth.

There were no injuries in the fire, which sent flames and smoke to a great height. The blaze was discovered by A. G. Shaw, in charge of the feed house.

U. S. To Bolster Far East Lines

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (INS)— The United States moved today to strengthen its Far Eastern ramparts against Communism and supplement President Truman's certain approval of the Paris agreement on overall western military strategy.

The State department revealed that it is already negotiating with the Philippine republic on the amount and type of arms it needs to hold the islands in the democratic fold.

The talks are being conducted on an "informal and exploratory" basis against a background of Communist sweeps across China and threateningly near southeast Asia.

"Outrages" Play Part

Also behind the talks are the recent Communist "outrages" against U. S. diplomats and military personnel, culminating in the summary eviction of U. S. Consul General Angus Ward in Mukden.

The Philippines will share in more than $27 million allotted during the recent session of Congress to arm the islands, Iran and Korea. An additional billion dollars was voted in the same bill to equip thhe Atlantic treaty nations.

But the President must approve the strategy agreed on in Paris for throwing the might of the western democracies against any Russian thrust in Europe before

The empty trailer was found abandoned a half-mile east and a half-mile south of the gin.

The district attorney's office announced that a kidnapping charge naming Vernon E. West and his wife Betty had been dismissed.

NO HOLDUPS REPORTED

For the first Saturday night in three weeks, no armed holdups were reported over the South Plains up to an early hour this morning. The past two Saturday nights, armed men have struck at department stores in Lubbock and Crosbyton, in each case kidnapping a store official for a wild ride before releasing him. Several store owners over the area were reported to have armed themselves or set up other precautions against repetition of the daring robberies of the past weekends.

Fair, Cool Weather Forecast For Area

Fair skies will continue to favor the South Plains cotton harvest today and Monday, the Weatherman said last night, but he predicted slightly cooler temperatures for today.

After a low this morning expected near 30, the mercury should reach no higher than 60 in the Lubbock vicinity this afternoon, he said. Lubbock's Saturday morning low was 44, but the reading was 40 just before midnight.

Warmer temperatures are expected Monday, the forecaster said, although the Monday morning low again may hit near the freezing mark.

Light rains fell over much of Texas Saturday. Among points reporting rain were Llano, Abilene, San Angelo, Wichita Falls and Austin, the Associated Press said.

Fire Causes $4,500 In Damages In City

A sterilizer building at the City Mattress factory, 1817 Texas ave., was gutted by fire about 10 p.m. Saturday, causing damage estimated at $4,500.

The white frame structure and all equipment in it were a total loss.

The building was enveloped in flames when firemen arrived and extinguished the blaze with the aid of two pumper trucks. The main building, located directly south of the burned building, was not damaged, although the northern wall was scorched slightly and electrical connections between the two buildings were burned apart.

Owners and operators of the factory, P. A. Ridgeway and L. T. Davis, said the loss in equipment amounted to $2,300, with the structure boosting the damage estimate to $4,500 Davis said the fire would not close the shop and they would be open for business during the rebuilding of the sterilizer.

The property belongs to C. C. Burns, 1631 Eighteenth.

Lubbock Infant Dies Before Operation Can Be Performed

BILLIE Eugene Williams, the infant whose plight touched the hearts of many Lubbock and South Plains residents, is dead.

Fate cheated the nine-month-old infant of an operation that might have made him a healthy youngster by less than 72 hours when he died sometime between 4 and 6 a. m. Saturday as he lay sleeping in his crib in a small trailer house in Trailer Town in north Lubbock.

His mother, Mrs. B. A. Williams, had planned to leave with him at 7 p. m. Saturday for Galveston, where he was to undergo a delicate heart operation sometime Monday at the University of Texas Medical school's John Sealy hospital.

The infant was last seen alive at 4 a. m. by his weary but attentive mother. When she next looked at her only son two hours later, he was dead.

Billie Eugene's condition had steadily worsened since Monday. Friday, medicine was prescribed by his physician to alleviate a stomach disorder.

He was born Feb. 26 at Fort Smith, Ark., and came to Lub-

PRESENT BANS TO CONTINUE

New U. S. Housing Policy To Make Little Changes In Present Setup

By BILL ROSS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—A key official said today that a new government move to curb racial and religious discrimination in future housing means little real change in present bans against minorities.

Franklin D. Richards, commissioner of the Federal Housing administration, said the plan to deny federal guarantees on home mortgages where new restrictive covenants are on record will apply only in "exceptional cases."

"The ruling will have no effect on any property which had racial covenants in the past," he said.

Truman Backs Policy

The new policy—to become effective at some future date—was announced yesterday by Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman, with President Truman's backing.

Perlman told a New York audience that the "Federal Housing administration is amending its rules so as to refuse to aid the financing of any properties the occupancy or use of which is restricted on the basis of race or creed or color."

While he added that the restrictions must be "recorded" after the effective date of the new rule before the ban would apply, there was immediate speculation that sweeping changes were in store in the government's policy of helping finance home purchases and construction.

Official Denies Changes

But Richards, who heads the agency which handles government financing for home construction and purchases, said later that such is not the case.

Most of the nation's dwellings still will be eligible for FHA financial aid, he told a reporter, even after the effective date of the new policy.

"It will be an exceptional case," he said, "where a property cannot receive federal mortgage help."

The FHA chieftain said the policy was mapped during several conferences with Mr. Truman and other high-ranking government officials.

New Weapon Held

Housing officials generally agreed that what the ruling means, in effect, is that the government now has taken up a new weapon to curb the spread of housing discrimination but that little has been added to the administration's drive to end existing bans against minorities.

The FHA does not grant loans to home buyers or builders. It insures banks against loss on such loans, however, provided certain conditions are met in the construction and financing of the dwellings.

Officials say about one-third of new home construction in the past year has been financed under FHA guarantees.

Richards said the new ruling "is not intended to have an adverse effect on properties now covenanted." He could not estimate the number of such dwellings, or the total of new houses which might be affected by the ruling. But he indicated clearly that the latter total would be low.

Officials Laud Move

President Truman, vacationing at Key West, said Perlman's statement was made with the chief executive's full knowledge. Other government officials also lauded the move.

Carl ...ay, veterans' administrator, said that he is taking action to change GI loan regulations to cover the same provisions as FHA.

Raymond Foley, administrator of the house and home financing agency, said the move is "in full conformance with the public policy of the United States and essential to the public interest."

Nathaniel S. Keith, director of slum clearance for the Public Housing authority, said federal projects to aid slum clearance and low-income dwellings will adopt the new policy. PHA officials said, however, that no specific plans have yet been mapped.

South Remains Calm

In the South the changes were viewed with calm.

Sen. George (D-Ala.) said he'd been expecting the move for some time and added:

"I think that hereafter all federal appropriations will be based on the same principle."

Two other senators—McCarthy (R-Wis.) and Douglas (D-Ill.)—praised the move as a step toward solving the housing problem of the minority groups.

Perlman said the policy is being adopted to bring FHA rules in line with a Supreme court decision that while restrictive covenants are not illegal, they cannot be enforced in court.

Santa Given Rough Time By Young Boy In Wichita Falls

WICHITA FALLS, Dec. 3. (AP)—"Where do you live?" the department store Santa asked little Bobbie Shaaf who sat on his knee.

Bobby looked surprised and said: "Don't you know?"

Santa changed the subject: "What do you want for Christmas?"

The five-year-old Bobbie looked grim now. "DON'T YOU KNOW?" he asked. Then, as Santa groped for an answer, the child added:

"Didn't you get that letter?"

Houston Paper Urges Public To Protest Phone Rate Hike

HOUSTON, Dec. 3. (U.P.)— The Houston Press of the Scripps-Howard newspaper chain urged its readers to start a mail campaign today if they want the city council to back-track on rate increases allowed the Southwestern Bell Telephone company.

In a front page editorial, bannered across the top, the paper called council approval of the substantially higher rates "a steam-roller grab," and said it was a council move "completely ignoring the public."

The Press asked that all disapproving readers put their views in writing or in a telegram, saying "just what you as an American think about this steamroller grab of millions annually."

The new telephone rates gained approval of Public Service Director Clinton Owsley and the city council Thursday, and went into effect immediately on order of Mayor Oscar Holcombe.

Southwestern Bell had sought the boost for two days in a hearing before the council, claiming it deserved a "fair return" on a reported $59 million investment in the Houston area.

Jones To Head Bond Committee

Irving L. Jones, civic and business leader, was announced Saturday as the chairman of a citizen's committee which will urge support of a $1,075,000 city bond issue on which an election is to be held Dec. 13.

Members of a special committee announced that Jones had been offered and accepted the appointment. The committeemen were Dr. M. Norvel Young, minister of the Broadway Church of Christ, J. D. Hassell, jr., and Hurley Carpenter.

Jones announced immediately that he will schedule several conferences this week in futhering the campaign to inform the residents of the city as to the importance of the proposed bond issues

Fund Distribution Given

The proposals include $550,000 for enlargement of the sewage disposal plant and mains and $525,000 for rights of way to complete the city highway dispersal system.

"Enlargement of the sewage system is necessary as a safeguard to the health of the entire community," Jones commented, in accepting the chairmanship.

"The completion of the highway dispersal system is necessary to the continued growth of the city. For every dollar the bond issue will supply for this purpose, the state and federal highway departments will spend approximately $3 for better and safer streets in our city."

The chairman said he will complete the personnel of a steering committee to direct the campaign early this week.

Stranger Helps Philadelphia Man Start Stalled Auto, Then Drives Off With It

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3 (AP)—Walter Bowe was struggling to push his 1938-model auto out of an intersection in South Philadelphia when a courteous stranger stepped up and offered to help.

The two pushed together a while, trying to start the car. Then the stranger suggested that he, as the lighter man, might get in and work the starter while Bowe continued to push.

Bowe pushed, and pushed, and pushed. The stranger ground away on the starter. At last, the motor turned over.

Man Is Convicted Of Burglary At Amarillo

AMARILLO, Dec. 3. (U.P.)— James Farris, jr., was sentenced to 12 years imprisonment today after pleading guilty to burglarizing the safe of the Ideal Food store.

Earlier this week, Farris led Sheriff Paul Gaither to where he had buried the safe after blasting it from a concrete base in the store July 23.

Dist. Atty. Lloyd King said he believed the conviction squared Farris in Potter county, but he still must face charges in Randall county for his armed robbery with the Radar twins of the KLYN radio transmitting station.

The robbery took place just before the trio were recaptured here last Saturday.

Factors Other Than A-Bomb Of Vital Importance In Future War

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Vannevar Bush is the former chairman of the Research and Development board of the national military establishment where he was responsible for experiments in every type of scientific weapon. He also played a key role in the development of the atom bomb.

In the following article Dr. Bush, president of the Carnegie Institution, appraises the significance of the Russian development of an A-bomb in the comparative military powers of the United States and the Soviets.

Dr. Bush, author of the recent book "Modern Arms and Free Men" (Simon and Shuster), concludes that the U. S. can prevail in any test of strength because "democracy can meet totalitarianism on its own terms and overwhelm it.")

By DR. VANNEVAR BUSH
(Written Expressly For INS)

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The Russians have succeeded in building an atomic bomb; this is a significant and important fact. The timing of the event is also important.

The Russian accomplishment came earlier than many people had expected, earlier than I had expected. How long it will take the Russians to travel the long hard road from a single test explosion to a stockpile of atomic weapons is a question which will be variously estimated.

Soviet brains are good brains. How rich Soviet resources are and how long the Russian system can stand the strain may be another matter.

Confusion Is Easy

It is dangerously easy, in thinking about the Russian bomb and what it means in the total world picture, to confuse the immediate with the long-range future.

I have sought to show in "Modern Arms and Free Men," which was nearly ready for the press when the President announced the Russian explosion, that modern war involves a whole galaxy of weapons, that the atomic bomb is the most ghastly destructive force among them, but that it is not an absolute isolated war-winner by itself.

Planes to deliver it to its target, means of protecting those planes —these enter. So do all sorts of defensive means, ranging from radar to proximity-fused rockets.

Single Sentence Inadequate

To balance the possibilities and limitations of this complex pattern of components of war demands long-range rigorous thinking. It cannot be summed up in a sentence or a slogan.

That balancing must include the relative industrial power of possible opponents. It must reckon with relative ability to stand the ever-mounting costs of total technological warfare. It must take into account the initiative, inventiveness, and pioneering courage of free men nurtured under democracy as compared with the undoubted ability of totalitarianism to drive ruthlessly toward an objective in spite of the suffering it may cause its people.

Over the really long pull, then, the answer will be found in the comparative strength of the presently opposed philosophies of society and government.

Struggle Tests Strength

It rests in the over-all strength of the free democratic system as against the over-all strength of totalitarianism.

We have proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that the strength of democracy can meet totalitarianism on its own terms and overwhelm it. That proof was given in the heat of the most terrible war in history.

It is a more difficult and subtle problem to give such proof in times of even uneasy peace, without the spur of actual conflict. We have not yet fully proved that democracy in times of peace can hold a steady course toward a tough objective, undeflected by the lure of temporary expedients. But the more difficult the problem, the more vigorously we must rise to meet it.

It behooves us not to waste time harassing with vain speculations about the immediate news, but to buckle down wholeheartedly and ruggedly, to make the democratic system work to its full potentialities, and so to prove again the power of the institutions of free men.

Los Angeles Oilmen Resist Pressure To Close Down Plants

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3. A demand that Los Angeles oil refineries be required to shut down until changing weather brings an end to the current smog plague brought cries of "political hysteria" from oil industry spokesmen today.

The shutdown demand was made by John Anson Ford, member of the county board of supervisors. He said he would place the matter before Tuesday's session of the board.

Ford described the refineries as one of the major sources of sulphur dioxide in the atmosphere, but conceded that they were "not the only ones involved in this air pollution" that has continued for more than two weeks.

Oilman Denies Charge

Reese Taylor, president of the Western Oil and Gas association, declared that Ford's stand "indicates a lack of knowledge of the true smog situation."

The oil industry spokesman contended that every industry in Southern California could be suspended and every automobile idled and the smog situation would not be helped.

He pointed out that Los Angeles experienced one of its worst smog spells in September, 1948, at a time when all but 12 percent of the area's refineries were closed by a strike.

Sudan has been skept by schoolboy strikes, said to be "dcliberate attempts by a disruptive underground movement to control and exploit the entire student class."

Texas-Born General Found Shot To Death

BURLINGAME, Calif., Dec. 3. (AP).— George Fleming Moore, the Texas-born general who commanded Corregidor during the Japanese siege, was found dead last night, a bullet through his head.

The 62-year-old major general was found dead on a mountain road. An automatic pistol and a note to his wife lay near his hand.

Born at Austin, Texas, Moore, was graduated from Texas A&M where he was a football tackle in 1908. He enrolled at A&M from Edna but his home was in Fort Worth before he graduated. He worked in the Fort Worth city engineers' office a year after completing his college work.

In 1937 he returned to A&M as a colonel and commandant, serving there until 1940 when he was ordered to Hawaii. Enroute to Honolulu his orders were changed and he went direct to the Philippines.

DILAPIDATED MANSION EXPLORED

Treasures Hoarded By Widow Form Basis For Court Battle

By DON WINKS
INS Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Dec. 3—Treasures hoarded by a petite, art-loving widow may provide the key to a fantastic Victorian melodrama played for over half a century in an antiquated Chicago mansion.

The drama revolves around the tiny figure of Mrs. Linda Belle Titus Knox, a wealthy and eccentric recluse who lived and died surrounded by $1 million in art treasures.

Attended Auction

It was brought into the open by investigators for Mrs. Knox's estate, who uncovered the outline of its plot in her three delapidated mansions.

Mrs. Knox lived alone in a drafty upper floor room of her seedy mansion on Chicago's once-fashionable west side.

Neighbors seldom saw her except on days when she boarded a streetcar to attend an auction.. The thrifty little woman thought nothing of spending $25,000 for an art object she liked.

These objects—collection of rare porcelain, paintings, antique furniture, Dresden china, sculpture and jewelry—were stored, some unopened, in the three once-pretentious houses.

Last week investigators discovered a horde of diamonds weighing an estimated 1,000 carats which Mrs. Knox had hidden in a false-botomed trunk. No one knew they existed.

The value of the art objects already discovered has been estimated at over $1 million and investigators believe still more is hidden in nooks and crannies of the three mansions.

Mrs. Knox had been married twice—once to George Titus, a wealthy, socially-prominent businessman, and, when he died, to Sidney Knox, who was her first husband's bookkeeper.

The Knox's lived a quiet life, scarcely venturing from their home except to attend auctions to add to their beloved collection.

In her early married days, Mrs. Knox was remembered as a charming and pretty woman and an accomplished hostess. After Knox died in July, 1948, she became a recluse.

A few weeks before her death, Mrs. Virginia Momsen, a Joliet, Ill., barber's wife and a niece of Mrs. Knox, sought and obtained a court order declaring the aged woman too enfeebled to administer her own estate.

But Mrs. Knox already had made her will, leaving the bulk of her estate to Mrs. Henry J. Reynolds and Col. Henry Ferber, old-time friends. She died Nov. 9 at the age of 94.

A hot court battle is expected when the will is probated. Two grand-nieces, Mrs. Angelina C. Robinson, and Mrs. Bessie C. Medina, both of Mexico City, have indicated they would contest it.

Even as the legal documents to decide the fate of Mrs. Knox's millions are being drawn up, search is underway through the empty houses for what may be substantial additions to the fantastic Knox fortune.

Tech Recreation Hall Dance To Feature Name Band Friday

The first "name" band to appear at Texas Tech in several years will play for a recreation hall dance from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. Friday, according to Dean of Men James G. Allen. Admission will be $1.80 per couple.

"Skitch" Henderson and his traveling band will provide the dance music, while the director himself will appear in an earlier piano concert at the same place at 5 p.m. Admission to the concert will be 60 cents per person.

Born in England, Henderson came to America in 1935 at the age of 16 and has since made appearances with such stars as Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Frank Sinatra and Dick Haymes. After organizing his own band following service in World War II, he has made numerous musical recordings for Capitol records, with his first big hit being "Five Minutes More."

BONING UP ON HOOVER REPORT — Waggoner Carr, left, and Thelbert Miller, right, will take the stump in Lubbock and surrounding towns in behalf of the adoption of recommendations of the Hoover commission report which advocates sweeping changes and economies in government administration. The Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce, in conjunction with the national organization, is starting an intensive drive to lobby for the adoption of the report's recommendations. Among phases of the drive is preparation of a petition with 2,000,000 names on it to present to the next session of Congress. Meanwhile, Carr and Miller find the voluminous report required plenty of reading. (Staff Photo.)

Eight Tech Beauties To Be Named Today

Sixteen beauties of Texas Technological college remaining from an original slate of 99 candidates will battle it out with charm at 2:30 p. m. today in the campus Recreation hall for selection as the eight official beauties of the college.

Licia Albanese, Italian-born Metropolitan opera singer, will make the eight selections as the girls parade before her in formal evening wear. Beauty, grace, poise and charm will be the deciding factors.

Campus-wide nominations which placed the names of 99 coeds in the first eliminations were held early this semester. A committee of male students then narrowed the field to 46 and three local citizens made selections of the 16 finalists.

The eight beauties will be featured on two pages each in the student yearbook, according to Editor Roy Grimes. One full-page formal pose will be included. Runners-up will also be given recognition.

This year's judge is in Lubbock for a recital Tuesday night at the Lubbock High school auditorium of arias from famous operas, a program sponsored by the Tech Artists course committee. Names of the winning beauties may be withheld until publication time for the yearbook, Grimes said.

The 16 finalists include Betty Welcott, Dallas; Mary Ann Kelly, Colorado City; Pat Todd, Houston; Levora Manning, Amarillo; Jo Cole, Big Spring; Jane Wier, Brownfield; Pat Bennett, Dumas; Dotsie Stephenson, Fort Stockton; Jo Simmons, Lubbock; Janelle Reed, Crosbyton; Jeanine Ballew, Rising Star; Phyllis Jeanne Leach, Slaton; Betty Fillingim, New Home; Helen Ohlenbusch, Sweetwater; DeLois Utterback, Amarillo; and Connie Hopping, Littlefield.

A MEMORY BOOK OF PROGRESS OF LUBBOCK AND THE SOUTH PLAINS
1873 — 1949

The Texas South Plains area has become one of the most important cotton compressing centers in the world. More than a dozen modern plants give seasonal employment to hundreds of people and have added many millions of dollars to the wealth of this region.

This major industry had its beginning back in 1917 when the Lubbock Compress company established its business here with equipment moved from another city. The Lubbock National bank takes pride in having had a part in encouraging the establishment of the plant here.

The plant has been expanded enormously since its establishment, its capacity having been increased by several hundred per cent. The improvements have included warehouses for approximately 35,000 bales. Most of this expansion has occurred under the supervision of Charles Stillwell, manager since 1932. B. L. Anderson, of Fort Worth, is president of the company.

Other large compress and warehouse operating concerns in the Lubbock area include the West Texas, the Plains, the Texas, the Union and the Farmers Cooperative.

They combine into an industry which make the Texas South Plains second to none of the inland cotton producing centers of the nation and the world.

NEARLY TWO-THIRDS COLLECTED

More Than $690,000 Handled By Tax Office In Two Month Period

An estimated 61.7 percent of current taxes had been collected through November, the second tax discount month, County Tax Assessor-Collector H. B. Bryan said Saturday.

Bryan said that $267,003.25 had been collected in October for the county, $41,338.84 in November.

For state purposes, $211,155.22 was collected in October, $27,191.65 in November.

That means $546,688.96 of the total charge of $875,292.39 on the state and county had been collected.

Total Given Boost

In addition, collections for rural schools, car transfers and the like had swollen the total by another $147,676.72.

Thus, the tax office handled in excess of $690,000 within the two-months period.

In October, a 3 percent discount for payment of taxes in full was allowed by the office. All rural school districts allowed the discount, as well.

In October, the percentage of collection for state and county was 54.53, Bryan said.

Poll Tax Behind

The tax official emphasized, however, that poll tax purchases were "60 days behind schedule—with an important election year coming up."

The electorate had voted in a recent amendments election on the question of whether to substitute registration of voters for the poll tax as a prerequisite to balloting. The state, as a result, did not have supplies printed for issuance of poll taxes and exemption certificates pending anouncement of the election's outcome.

Supplies Expected Soon

"Our supplies should arrive this week, perhaps by Tuesday," Bryan said. He urged that prompt attention be given to the matter then.

The official said that, to be doubly sure, persons who have exemption certificates by virtue of age should renew those certificates if they have moved from one election precinct to another in a city of 10,000 or more population.

The courts have engaged in a lively controversy over the permanent exemption problem in recent years. No such certificate is required in cities of less than 10,000.

Building Awards Hit $12,921,728 Total

AUSTIN, Dec. 3. (AP) — Texas construction awards this week totaled $12,921,728, building plans for 582 low-cost homes accounting for $3,934,280.

All residential contracts aded up to $5,390,930, the Texas Contractor, building trade journal, reported. The Magazine's figures are based on building permits issued and reports of architects.

Seventy-two homes costing more than $7,000 each were put under contracts totaling $1,000,150, an average of $13,849 per house. The average for low-cost residences was $6,759. Cost of lots is not included.

Lettings on apartments providing 36 one-family units amounted to 161,000. An upsurge in duplex construction produced contracts for $295,500 on 32 two-unit houses.

Engineering awards totaled $3,802,524, of which $2,530,305 was for highways and streets. Bridges added $345,694; waterworks and sewers, $421,150; and irrigation and channels, $505,375.

Non-residential building contracts came to $3,278,274. Schools accounted for $278,042; churches and theaters, $371,089; hosptials and hotels, $804,549; public buildings, $24,300; and business buildings, $2,250,294.

The year's total now stands at $873,102,952, the trade journal reported.

JESSUP CLOSELY WATCHED

UN Delegates Skeptical Of Red Claims Of U. S. Failure In China

BY PIERRE J. HUSS
INS Staff Correspondent

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Dec. 3. Top diplomats at the UN cautioned their home governments this week to take with a grain of salt the Communist claim that the United States has lost face in China by the arrests of its consular officials.

The Communists at the UN are carrying on a whispering campaign that the American prestige in the Far East has declined sharply because of the China Reds' treatment of the Americans.

However, UN delegates are informing their capitals that the opposite is true and that Russia's dream of conquest in the Far East may soon be punctured.

Three Reasons Given

They give three main reasons for their attitude:

1. The diplomats are convinced, probably to some extent because of inside information from Washington, that before next spring a Japanese peace treaty will have been signed — without Russia.

2. They have learned to respect the perceptive powers of a professor from Columbia university named Philip C. Jessup, who is soon to leave on a trip skirting the for-flung frontiers of China.

3. They have a deep-seated conviction, based probably on a combination of experience in diplomatic tactics and on awareness that Jessup has bested the Russians at every encounter, that the Japanese treaty and an iron-clad anti-Communist front in Asia are stamped on Jessup's travel ticket.

Trip Ends In February

His scheduled return to Washington in February is being marked on calendars as a date worth watching.

Probably one of the best silent compliments to Jessup's ability is the deep interest Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky has displayed in all his movements.

It is said at UN that Vishinsky has standing orders to his team to be told at once whenever Jessup puts in an appearance at a major committee meeting. He wants to be there in person to cross swords with the man who broke down his non-participation policy in the Security council's Paris discussion of the Berlin blockade.

Trip Arouses Curiosity

Vishinsky also has been deeply curious about Jessup's forthcoming trip to the Orient. He suspects his adversary of being the kingpin in America's moves that way. In that respect, judging from all available symptoms at UN, he isn't far wrong.

Jessup played a major role in compiling the U.S. white book on China and is the voice whispering policy in the ears of Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

On that basis, it will be remembered that in publishing the white book, Acheson sounded a warning against Communist aggression beyond the frontiers of China. His words, in effect, were an ultimatum to Soviet Russia — thus far and no further. Or else - - -

Mind Holds Words

Diplomats at UN who have come to know Jessup are consequently convinced that carved into Jessup's mind for his forthcoming trip to the Orient will be those significant Acheson words.

He can say to the powers that be in Burma, Indo-China, India, Pakistan and at Pacific stopping-off places: Mr. Acheson spoke the words "thus far and no farther" only a few hours after long consultation on Asia with Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain and Foreign Minister Schuman of France.

Numerous delegates at UN believe that Moscow is urging haste on the Chinese Communists to forestall Jessup.

'Deadline' To Be Set

The common suspicion in both camps is that he will draw a "deadline" across his blueprint of Asia over which there can be no crossing by foreign forces driving down from the Yangtze. They have an idea he will see to it that each established regime in Asia will have the wherewithal to curb Communist coups and uprisings within the land bordering on China.

Thus, it is expected that from the Jesup trip will emerge the pattern than in Europe the deadline is the Elbe and in the Far-East it is the frontier of China — across neither of which Russia can push any Communist forces without risking war.

Harried State Highway Patrolman Assails Attitude Exhibited By Many Motorists

ENNIS, Dec. 3. (AP)—The attitude of some motorists has become a plague, a state highway patrolman says.

R. H. Pecto, a patrolman for the Texas Department of Public Safety, who is stationed at Ennis said the "You-can't-do-this-to-me" attitude persists among many drivers arrested for unsafe driving. There is also the "I'll-get-your-job-young-man" attitude, Pecot told a club meeting here.

"It's disheartening to stop a man in an old jalopy with no brakes and have him contend that his car is safe on the road because he just creeps along and isn't going far anyway. It is equally disheartening to stop a speeder behind the wheel of a high powered new car and have to listen while he explains that he is a good driver, that his car is in perfect condition, and that, therefore, it couldn't happen to him," the officer said.

Tear Up Cars

Pecot said: "We take an awful lot off the drunks. They try to fight and tear up the patrol car. If we aren't careful, they will slash the upholstery; but we take care of them and their property.

"When he sobers up, a drunk is invariably remorseful and apologetic. The jury sees him when he is on his good behavior. For every 12 drunken drivers arrested and taken to jail, about 6 are indicted; on an average, 3 of the six will be freed; 2 of the last 3 will receive suspended sentences; probably 1 of the 12 will pay the minimum penalty of a fine of $50 and costs and a suspension of his driver's license.

"Traffic accidents have become a social disease. The death toll in Texas is about 6 per day, with dozens sent to hospitals and perhaps a hundred injured. Then, consider the property damage. Engineers who have worked on the problem say that with only a moderate amount of caution every 2,000 accidents could be reduced to 500.

Pecot thinks Texas needs standardized drivers' courses, uniform markers and signs, and 4 lane highways. He explained that old highway markers and signs are in force until they are replaced and that it will take approximately 10 years to replace and standardize signs in Texas. "There has not been a death on the 4 lane section of State Highway 75 south of Dallas since it was completed over a year ago," he added.

'Ike' Denies Ambitions For Presidency In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 3. (U.P.)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, insisting he's out to "sell Columbia university" and denying again rumors of his presidential aspirations, rested at the home of oil-man-rancher Hal Mangum today.

The president of Columbia answered reporters on his arrival last night with an emphatic "no" to queries about his 1950 Republican party presidential plans and said "go back and read that letter."

He was referring to a forceful Jan. 23, 1948 letter announcing he would not run.

The general, who proudly points out he's a native Texan, will be the honor guest at an informal dinner tonight given for him by Mangum at the St. Anthony hotel. Otherwise, he wants to "rest without fanfare."

He will leave here Tuesday for a Wednesday chamber of commerce dinner speech at Houston and was scheduled to talk to the Galveston Rotary club Thursday. He also will visit Fort Worth at the request of Fort Worth publisher Amon Carter.

Church In Seminole Receives 1907 Bill

SEMINOLE, Dec. 3—Officials of the First Presbyterian church have received a bill for an account which they believe is the oldest on record—so old, in fact, that it came as a complete surprise to present day church members.

The bill requested payment of $200 which was borrowed by the church from the Presbyterian General Assembly in 1907. Church leaders believed that the money was borrowed to aid in building the first church building in Seminole.

Luckily, no interest charge was made on the debt.

Why the bill was so late in coming was not explained. S. C. Scott, who joined the church shortly after coming to Seminole in 1916, said that the bill came as a complete surprise to him.

TEXAS SOLON HITS ALLOTMENTS

Aid May Be Asked For Counties Hardest Hit By Cotton Curbs

WACO, Dec. 3. (AP)—Congressman W. R. Poage said today he may ask Congress to help counties hit hardest by the 1950 cotton acreage cutbacks.

Poage met with Texas farm bureau federation officials and delegations from Swisher, Wise and Comanche counties. They discussed the Production and Marketing administration cotton acreage allotment of 7,637,029 acres for Texas farmers in 1950. Cotton farmers planted about 10,400,000 acres in 1949.

20 Per Cent Ratio Favored

Poage told the group that farmers in a county should be allotted at least 20 per cent of the total cropland for cotton acreage. He said counties with less than 20 per cent ratio may soon find themselves out of the cotton business.

The congressman previously has charged that the PMA is not carrying out Congress' intentions in administering the cotton allotment law.

Today he said it was partly Congress' fault that some counties will receive a cotton acreage quota of less than 20 per cent.

"We spent months listening to everyone from over the nation in working out the allotment program," he said, "and no one thought of giving each county a guaranteed ratio. At least one county in Texas—Gillespie—has a 1.5 ratio."

Small Increase Seen

Poage told the group that guaranteeing each county a 20 per cent ratio would mean raising the national cotton acreage allotment from 21,000,000 to 21,500,000 acres.

"Under the present picture, an additional 500,000 acres spread out over the cotton producing states wouldn't make too much difference," Poage said.

He added that in 1951 measures would have to be taken to offset the 1950 increase he proposes. Poage said he believed the program could go into effect in January and still not hurt the present allotment setup.

Legal Fight Studied

Because the allotments already have been announced, it may be too late to fight them on legal grounds, said President J. Walter Hammond of the South Texas Farm Bureau federation.

Hammond and other Farm bureau leaders met here today with Congressmen Robert Poage and Tom Pickett. They charge "improper administration" of the cotton acreage law by the production and marketing administration.

It was learned at the meeting that provisions of the allotment program concerning the controversial war crops section have not been changed.

A group of Coastal Bend farmers already have gone to court, seeking an injunction, in hopes of blocking the allotment set-up.

Farm bureau representatives from Swisher and Houston counties were on hand for the meeting, called after PMA announced a cotton acreage allotment of 7,637,029 acres for Texas in 1950, compared to 10,400,000 planted in 1949.

Bar Members Hear Address By Fellow Attorney At Meeting

"Trial Of A Criminal Case And Appeal Thereof" or "What Every Young Lawyer Should Know" was the topic of J. E. Vickers, veteran South Plains lawyer, at a luncheon meeting Saturday of the Lubbock County Bar association in the Hilton hotel.

Vickers, who came to Lubbock in 1909, one year after he had graduated from the University of Texas Law school, spiced his talk with amusing incidents in his long career.

Changed Clientele Noted

He pointed out that the class of clientele in criminal cases has changed considerably since he began practicing law.

"When I started out," he reminisced, "most of the defendants were high class people involved in crimes of passion, but now, many of the defendants are so-called professional criminals."

The longtime officer of Texas courts then outlined procedures to be followed in conducting the defense in a trial.

Advice Given Hearers

In his list of procedures, he told his fellow attorneys to "let the jury know you are there for a dogfight from the start." In the next breath he warned to be polite to the court and not to argue with the presiding judge's rulings.

Then he inferred that it was easier to cross examine women witnesses than men witnesses. "Be real gentle with them and get them to saying 'yes' frequently," he mused, "and pretty soon they will be saying 'yes' to about anything you ask them."

However, he warned of the dangers of being harsh in cross examination. "You can lose your case that way," he emphasized.

Present Setup Okay

In conclusion, Vickers said he believed the current criminal judiciary system and the court of criminal appeals in Texas are "as good as can be found anywhere."

E. L. Klett, a Lubbock attorney since 1908 and former university classmate of the speaker, introduced Vickers.

George McCleskey, who presided, announced that Tom Duggan will report on a tax school he attended in New York recently at the next regular meeting, Dec. 17.

Discussion Set On Buying Site

An open meeting to which all Lubbock persons are invited will be held at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in Junior ballroom of Lubbock hotel to discuss the proposed purchase of a block of downtown property now owned by First Methodist church, it was announced Saturday.

The announcement was made oy George S. Berry, Lubbock attorney, and A. B. Brown, hotel and property owner, who are among the group proposing the purchase of the church property and its resale for retail business purposes.

Editor To Speak

The group hopes by its action to foster the westward development of the retail business area along Main, Broadway and Thirteenth streets.

Chas. A. Guy, editor of the Avalanche-Journal, has agreed to serve as "keynote speaker" at the meeting, Berry and Brown announced.

Following Guy's talk, the meeting will be thrown open for general discussion by persons attending.

It is expected that many persons not directly involved in the property transfer will attend, in addition to numerous property-holders along Broadway, Thirteenth and adjoining streets.

Expansion Planned

The proposal to purchase the church property was made with aim in view of eliminating a "stumbling block" for the business district in that area.

With announcement that Lubbock Memorial hospital will soon erect a new building on west Nineteenth and the present property converted to commercial enterprises, and with First Baptist and Broadway Church of Christ properties on the market, the group of citizens saw possibilities of expanding the downtown retail area in a manner that would attract many new businesses to Lubbock and greatly improve the downtown section.

Saw Off Lever; Rush Victim To Hospital

Quick Thinking Saves Girl Impaled On Car Gear Shift

DETROIT, Dec. 3. (AP)—Laura Cassell, 20, probably owed her life today to the steady nerves of a garage mechanic and a policeman—and surgeons' skill.

Laura's father, Jack Cassell, was driving her to her department store job yesterday.

At an intersection where police said the signal light had failed the Cassell car collided with another.

Laura was flung sideways against the steering wheel.

The wheel splintered and Laura was impaled upon the gear-shift lever. It entered her chest through her left side.

But they called John Richer, mechanic at a nearby garage.

As Laura gritted her teeth, Richer sawed the lever from its mounting while Patrolman George Mortimer held the girl.

Then Laura, who is small and seems fragile, was rushed to Harper hospital.

An hour-long operation followed. The broken gear-shift lever was removed after her chest was opened from her back.

Dr. William Tuttle, who operated, said Laura came through in "good" condition.

She ought to be up and around in a day or two, he added.

Her father suffered minor injuries. The other driver was unhurt.

Dr. Tuttle was high in praise of Laura's original rescuers.

"The credit for saving her," he said, "goes to the men at the scene who had sense enough not to pull the lever out of the girl's chest. That might have been fatal."

Injured Railroad Commissioner Hopes To Resume Regular Duties

AUSTIN, Dec. 3. (U.P.)—Railroad Commissioner William J. Murray, jr., critically injured in an automobile accident last September, expressed hope today that he would be able to "resume the regular duties of railroad commissioner" by next week.

Murray returned to his office yesterday for the first time since his accident. He received major back and head injuries when a taxicab in which he was riding was involved in a collision with another cab here.

Body Recovered In Sapulpa Hotel Ruins

SAPULPA, Okla., Dec. 3. (U.P.)—A body, tentatively identified as that of an Oklahoma City salesman, was recovered today in the ruins of a fire that destroyed the four-story Loraine hotel here yesterday.

Virgil Vincent, Oklahoma City, tentatively identified the victim as his uncle, Louis Vincent, 71, Oklahoma City.

Fred Graves, a resident of the hotel, has been missing since the fire and it was feared he also may have died.

H. A. Baker of Kansas City suffered a broken ankle in escaping from the fire, which razed two other buildings in addition to the hotel.

The extra value of Buick's own Fireball valve-in-head straight-eight power.

The bump-smothering gentleness of soft coil springs on all wheels, both fore and aft.

The roominess of Buick's king-size interiors—the lightness of Buick controls—the new parking and garaging ease of traffic-handy size—

And that completely different and distinguished look of Buick's tapered fenders, sleek jet-plane lines and the sturdy, shock-deflecting protection of that bold new front-end design.

South Plains Area Harvesting All-Time Record Cotton Crop

Just who planted the first cotton is questionable. Among the first was the late Rollie Burns. Back in the 1880's, while managing a large ranch, he planted a few acres in cotton just to see what would happen. Without irrigation and with little attention to cultivation, he estimated the production at about three-quarters of a bale per acre. But there was no place to gin it, so it was not picked.

The first South Plains cotton to be ginned, around 1900, was hauled in a wagon to a plant near Big Spring. Sometime after that, the first gin in this area was built.

In 1912 approximately 10,000 bales were ginned—the first year for which records of ginnings on the South Plains were obtainable. Most of this cotton was grown in Lubbock, Dickens and Crosby counties.

Past Records Given

Records of area cotton production by years since that time follow—and this is the first time the tabulations have been compiled and published:

Year	Bales
1913	18,000
1914	40,000
1915	30,000
1916	50,000
1917	10,000
1918	10,000
1919	80,000
1920	75,000
1921	70,000
1922	100,000
1923	160,000
1924	290,000
1925	220,000
1926	460,000
1927	250,000
1928	260,000
1929	230,000
1930	270,000
1931	515,000
1932	340,000
1933	437,000
1934	78,000
1935	318,000
1936	361,000
1937	959,000
1938	379,000
1939	355,000
1940	401,000
1941	484,000
1942	580,000
1943	473,000
1944	625,000
1945	84,000
1946	206,000
1947	944,000
1948	614,000

The wide fluctuations in the ginnings from year to year usually have been in close proportion to moisture. Years of low production are indicative of drouth. Those of large production were years of abundant moisture.

Increase Has Been Steady

The increase in cotton acreage has been steady, reaching an all-time high of about 3,000,000 planted and approximately 2,750,000 to reach maturity this year.

The cotton producing area of the region also has been extended steadily. Dickens, Lubbock, Crosby and Hale were among the first to produce the staple in quantity.

Other counties fell into line from year to year including Castro, Deaf Smith, Parmer and Swisher as the most recent. Their ginnings were not large enough to be reported separately as recently as last year. In cotton tables, their production was lumped together with that of "other counties." Their cotton acreage this year aggregated about 75,000, and their indicated production around 50,000 bales.

Comparisons Are Made

The steady growth of the importance of this region in the state and national cotton picture can be given dramatic emphasis by a few comparisons.

In 1912, this area produced about one-fifth of one per cent of the Texas ginnings, which totaled 4,880,000 bales, and about one-thirtieth of the national total (13,703,000 bales).

In 1919, the South Plains produced about 4 per cent of the Texas crop, and less than 1 per cent of the nation.

In 1929, or 20 years ago, this area grew about 8 per cent of the Texas and 1½ per cent of the U.S. crop.

In 1939, about 12 per cent of the Texas and about 3 per cent of the national crop was produced above the Caprock.

The ratio this year will be 25 to 30 per cent of the Texas and 10 per cent, or more, of the nation's ginnings.

Basis For Huge Industry

The production has become the basis for a huge industry: 287 cotton gins worth, conservatively, around $30,000,000; 11 compresses, seven oil mills, and hundreds of warehouses and other storage facilities.

At peak, these facilities employ more than 10,000 persons—not including the approximately 90,000 who help with the harvest. Of the harvest workers, approximately 70,000 are itinerants and the remainder are residents of the area.

Cotton on the South Plains has made many other contributions to the industry. For example, strains have been developed in and for this area which are resistant to the prevailing winds. Ginning techniques have been developed or improved for handling the cotton of this region and now are in general use.

Controls To Have Effect

The study of production figures of this and past years inevitably provokes the question: What will happen in 1950 and during subsequent years if federal acreage controls are restored? And it now seems a virtual certainty they will be restored by a vote of the farmers on next Dec. 15.

Controls unquestionably will reduce the South Plains cotton acreage very substantially. Under the figures announced Friday, this area would be allowed 1,824,439 acres for cotton next year—as compared with more than 3,000,000 acres this year.

But the acreage also will be reduced in approximately the same proportion in all other areas of the cotton belt.

The assumption is that, under controls, the best of the cotton land will be continued in that crop. With fewer acres, they almost certainly will be tended more carefully. Most farmers will give more attention than ever before to the selection of the highest quality seed.

The prospects are that, with normal weather, this area may produce more cotton, in proportion to the state and national totals under controls than without them.

Under almost any conditions, the indications are most favorable that this area will continue to be the most productive single spot in the cotton picture of the state, nation and world.

Lubbock Exchange Helps Boost Area Cotton Industry

Credited with important contributions to the important position Lubbock and South Plains have attained in the cotton industry are the members of the Lubbock Cotton Exchange.

Organized less than three years ago with a charter membership of 60, the roll now includes more than 100 of the leading cotton men of the city and area.

Chartered In 1947

The exchange was chartered under state laws on March 22, 1947, with the following officers and directors: Don L. Mitchell, president; Perry J. Leverett, vice president, V. O. Jennings, secretary -treasurer; and L. D. Stevens, J. B. Booth, Frank Bass, T. D. Stuart, J. R. Bragg, Frank Parham and the officers, directors.

Present officers and directors, elected last March, are M. C. Robertson, president; George W. Cochran, vice president; Jennings, secretary-treasurer; and C. L. Dean, K. N. Clapp, R. S. Tapp, C. P. Carlock, Bill Roberts, W. D. Massey, H. M. Sharpe, Frank Ewing, Robertson and Cochran, directors.

Purposes of the exchange were explained as including the encouraging of the highest ethical standards among members and the promotion and encouragement in every way possible of everything that pertains to cotton and those associated in any way with its production, marketing, handling and processing.

China Gets Warning

sent its vessels into Shanghai. By way of indirect rebuke he praised the "wisdom" of all those operators who had stopped sending their ships there.

In New York, the Isbrandtsen line declined comment on the protest. However, last night Vice President Matthew S. Crinkley said in a speech that its ships would continue to enter Shanghai, based on the State department's view that the blockade is not legal.

Timidity Charged

Crinkley accused the department of timidity and carelessness in not doing more in support of its policy.

While the Nationalists tried to halt sea trade to the Communist-held area, their hopes grew feebler in the field. The Reds relentlessly pushed on in western China, cutting two highway arteries to the new Nationalist capital in crowded Chegtu.

In his news conference Wednesday, Acheson was careful to draw a sharp distinction between legal rights involved on both sides in the ship case.

Chiang Expected To Retreat To Formosa

HONG KONG, Dec. 3. (AP)—A rapid Communist advance through China's far west raised the prospect today that Chiang Kai-Shek soon may abandon the mainland for his island fortress of Formosa.

There seems little to stop the Red rush in the west, which rapidly is being cut in half.

Even the best Nationalist armies left, those of Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi, are being driven into an ever-shrinking corner in the south.

An official announcement in Chengtu, the new refugee capital in the west, said Pai was shifting his headquarters to Hainan. This is the large island off the south coast. Red guerrillas are active there.

The newspaper Sing Tao Min Po of Hong Kong, with Nationalist leanings and connections, said officials in Pai's Kwangsi province capital of Nanning are being urgently evacuated to Hainan.

The generalissimo is in Chengtu directing Nationalist defenses and soon may take back the presidency. Acting President Li Tsung-Jen is leaving Hong Kong by plane Monday for the United States.

resolution supported by the western powers.

The measure provides for the naming of a UN high commissioner to handle refuge problems after the Inlternational Refugee organization (IRO) passes out of existence early in 1951. The key vote was: 35 in favor, seven against and 13 abstentions.

The assembly rejected a White Russian proposal which would have obliged UN members to send back to Soviet areas next year thousands of displaced persons who do not wish to return to their former homes in Russian-controlled territory.

Soviet bloc delegates attacked the policies of the IRO. That organization consistently has refused to allow forced repatriation of refugees.

At Lake Success the assembly's special political committee approved overwhelmingly a resolution welcoming the recent Dutch-Indoesian agreement at the Hague to create a sovereign United States of Indonesia. The vote was 43 to five, with four abstentions.

Russia, the Soviet Ukraine and Poland tried vainly to hold up action until the Security Council could investigate whether the Hague agreement actually means independence for Indonesia.

Far East Defense

the arms can be shipped.

He also must approve any bilateral pact arising out of the present Manila talks before the Philippines may receive military aid.

Defense Secretary Johnson, jubilant over success at the Paris talks, returned to the U. S. Friday with the agreement for the President's approval.

The State department said formal negotiations in Washington will follow the preliminary Manila talks where the United States is represented by John F. Melby, foreign service officer in the office of Philippine and southeast Asia affairs.

The present discussions began Wednesday and are expected to last a week.

An additional $75 million was tagged for military assistance in the Far East at the President's discretion. It is unlikely that this sum will be utilized in the near future.

That portion of the aid bill was approved after a stiff fight by a "China aid bloc" headed by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.), who is now touring the Far East.

Voice Of America Beams Top Red Speech To Soviet People

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (INS)—The Voice of America today beamed Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky's own voice back to Russia to correct some discrepancies in the Communist propaganda claims about Soviet atomic energy development.

Last month, Vishinsky told the United Nations in New York that "we are blasting mountains, we are changing the flow of rivers, we are irrigating deserts, we are laying ever new lifelines, stamping out death and decay in such areas in which the human foot seldom treads."

As against this, for domestic consumption, Pravda, central organ of the Communist party, reported that portion of Vishinsky's speech in the future tense, quoting him as saying "we want to apply atomic energy to blasting mountains, etc."

Yugoslavia's "Optika" factory at Zagreb has begun to turn out optical glass.

ceived a crushed chest, a broken nose, both legs fractured, a deep gash on his right forehead, a cut over the left eye and abrasions over his body.

His wife, reported in a fair condition in Plainview clinic, had a possible broken back and internal injuries. She also received broken ribs and a broken wrist. The Youngbloods were passengers in the back seat.

Boy Becomes Orphan

Little David Robinson, who became an orphan when his mother died, received a broken leg and a broken arm, but his condition was not believed critical.

His father died at Snyder in October of a heart attack. He had been a rate clerk for the Hill Motor Freight line in Amarillo.

It was reported that the Youngbloods arrived in Amarillo from Tucumcari on Friday, and the group left early this morning for Snyder.

The bodies of Mrs. Robinson and Youngblood were taken to the Lemons Funeral home in Plainview, and the bodies of Willis and Geer were taken to the Roy Woods Funeral home, also in Plainview. Later in the day, Willis' body was taken to the Harmon Funeral home in Floydada, and the other three dead were taken to an Amarillo funeral home.

Rites Set Today

Funeral services for Willis will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday in the First Methodist church of Floydada, with the Rev. R. N. Huckabee, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in the Floydada cemetery, with Masonic graveside rites. The Harmon Funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

Willis, a carpenter in Floydada for more than 30 years, came to Floyd county from Mills county in 1891. He was a cowboy in New Mexico and worked at one time for the Matador ranch.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Mary Ann Willis of Floydada; a son, Clay Willis of Amarillo; three brothers, Scott, Ernest and Landrum of Wyoming; two sisters, Mrs. Frank Howard of Paris, Tex., and Mrs. Walter Attaway of Arizona, and two grandchildren.

Survivors of Geer, an Amarillo paint contractor, include his wife, Mrs. Emma Geer of Amarillo; a son, Raymond of San Francisco, and a daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Beauregard of Amarillo.

Youngblood's survivors include his wife, in the Plainview hospital, and his sister, Mrs. Emma Geer of Amarillo whose husband died in the crash.

Mrs. Robinson is survived only by her son, David.

FOUR PERSONS HURT IN CAR-TRUCK CRASH

Four persons were hurt, none critically, in a car-truck crash about 6:15 p.m. Saturday about two miles southeast of Shallowater on the Lubbock highway.

The injured were Luther Champion, 40, of Forty-seventh and Tahoka highway; his wife, Mrs. Annie Mae Champion, 38; L. A. McGraw, 24, of Star Route 2, Littlefield; and his wife, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth McGraw, 20.

All were passengers in a 1947 Ford sedan belonging to Champion.

Truck Went Into Skid

Highway patrolmen who investigated the accident, said a Chevrolet truck driven by Earl McMurray, 26, of Shallowater, was traveling toward Shallowater on the thoroughfare, while the Champion vehicle was enroute to Lubbock.

According to reports from McMurray, driver of the truck, and from an eye witness to the accident, a Plymouth automobile immediately ahead of the truck came to a sudden stop, and to avoid hitting the rear of it McMurray was forced to apply his brakes quickly. The sudden stop threw the truck into a skid and into the opposite traffic lane into the path of the Champion automobile.

Truck Driver Unhurt

McMurray was not hurt in the accident. Passengers in the Champion automobile were brought to St. Mary's hospital by McDonald Funeral home ambulance.

Hospital attendants said last night that Champion suffered lacerations of the right hand and left forehead and a possible chest injury. X-rays are to be made.

Mrs. Champion received lacerations and a possible back injury. She was in a state of shock last night, and appeared to be worst injured.

Champion was released last night after treatment. The other three remained in the hospital last night for treatment and observation. Hospital attendants said late last night that they were resting as well as could be expected.

Investigation of the accident is being continued today.

Air Force Establishes Special Board To Suggest Academy Site

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—The Air Force has set up a board to recommend a site for an Air Force academy for which it hopes to get congressional approval next session.

Other members will be Lt. Gen. Hubert R. Harmon, and Maj. Gen. David M. Schlatter.

All proposals for sites must be in the hands of the board by Dec. 31, the announcement said, so its final recommendation may be available to the session of Congress starting in January.

Fire Claims Three

Cross, university president, placed the loss at around $500,000. Property Custodian L. J. Hughes said it would be between $600,000 and $700,000, not including students' personal losses.

University Fire Chief Claude Summers said campus dormitories are inspected monthly. He said the dormitory destroyed today was inspected Nov. 8.

Timeclock Punched

Summers said a night watchman's timeclock was punched 45 minutes before the first report of the fire was received.

The fire department received the first alarm at 2:55 a.m. (CST)

The university is located at Norman, 18 miles south of Oklahoma City. The barracks was located on what is known as the south campus, adjacent to the original university campus. It formerly was used as a naval air technical training center. The university took over the former naval base following the war and used many of the barracks as housing and classrooms for students.

The destroyed dormitory was on the southeast corner of the south campus. It was used during the war as a bachelor officers quarters.

Bodies Are Found

Three bodies were found by searchers after the ruins had cooled.

Critically injured were David M. Clary, Buckner, Ark., and John H. Sorensen, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Fire Chief Summers said the fire apparently started in the No. 1 wing of the dormitory. There are five wings.

Two bodies were found in the first wing and one in the fifth.

University officials announced the students left homeless by the fire would be moved into Robertson and Hester halls, girls' dormitories. The girls will be moved to newly completed dormitories.

Students Race Through Halls

The fire started about 2:30 a.m. (CST). Students ran through the halls shouting that the building was afire.

Many thought at first it was a practical joke, but the roaring flames and intense heat soon affirmed the warning.

Many war veterans housed in the barracks jumped from their windows with nothing on but their GI shorts and clutching the GI subsistence checks they had just received.

A few students were able to grab some of their belongings but most escaped with only a hastily donned pair of pants and shirt.

Many students were cut when they were forced to break the glass in the windows. They later said the dormitory had been painted last month and the windows were stuck by the paint.

This was the second fire in a former Navy barracks on the south campus in two years. Thanksgiving Day, 1947, a barracks housing the geology department was destroyed but there were no casualties.

Three other destructive fires have hit Oklahoma the past three days. At Sapulpa, at least one person was burned to death and $500,000 damage caused to a quarter of a city block. Fire also struck downtown Chickasha Thursday and downtown Wister early today.

Lubbock Lions Club To Present Minstrel At Levelland Thursday

LEVELLAND, Dec. 3. (Special)—The Lubbock Lions club Minstrels will be presented here at 8 p. m. Thursday in the auditorium of the new Levelland Senior High school.

The show will be presented at Whiteface on Wednesday night.

Operatic Soprano To Present Recital In Lubbock Tuesday

Licia Albanese, Metropolitan opera soprano, will be presented in recital at the Lubbock High school auditorium at 8 p.m. Tuesday by the Texas Tech artists course committee. Admission is $1.80 for townspeople, with tickets available only at the door.

A singer whose hobby is walking in the rain and who made her singing debut with her back to the audience, Mme. Albanese holds the record among opera stars for longevity on the radio, recently completing six years with the weekly Treasure Hour of Song.

Audience Sees Back

Starting out to be a dancer in her native Bari, Italy, Mme. Albanese made her singing debut at a family concert and was so shy she turned her back to the listeners. Her operatic debut was in Milan in 1935 when she was jerked from the audience to sing the leading role in "Madame Butterfly" after the star became suddenly ill.

Her Metropolitan career was begun in 1940, also as "Madame Butterfly," and subsequent appearances in America led the Italian singer to become a citizen of this country in 1945. She is married to another naturalized American from her own home town.

Tech students holding even-numbered activity receipts will be admitted to the Tuesday recital here. Songs in Italian, French, Spanish and English will be included in the arias to be sung from such operas as Carmen, Don Giovanni, Madame Butterfly, Pagliacci, Faust, La Traviata and Othello.

about the reports "until, if and when the matter becomes subject to a congressional investigation."

McMahon, long a critic of military policies regarding atomic energy, said that he thought the military men "could throw some light on the matter." McMahon asserted in a statement from his office in Norwalk, Conn.:

"From what I am told about this broadcast, it occurs to me that the patriotic and efficient men who were directly responsible for the security of our atomic bomb project could throw some light on this matter.

Inquiry Requested

"I have requested the committee staff to inquire from the generals and other military officers who know about it."

Wood declared at his Canton, Ga., home that the charge "smacks of the sensational" and he is putting top staff members of the un-American activities committee to work developing the facts. Wood said:

"If we are satisfied that the charges are true and not exaggerated we will immediately begin hearings on the matter before Christmas. These charges, if factual, are so important that they can be subject to no delay."

Another Demand Made

Sen. Hickenlooper, Iowa, ranking Republican on the atomic energy committee, made a separate demand for an investigation. He said at Fort Dodge, Iowa, that Jordan's charges "must be looked into." Hickenlooper said:

"I was aware that some kind of high level information was furnished to the Russians. Its exact nature I do not know in detail."

"It is most important not only that we know what may have gone on in wartime, but that we also know what has gone on more recently."

Jordan declared that he saw armed Russian guards place "suitcase loads" of secret American documents and A-bomb ingredients aboard Soviet-bound lend-lease planes in 1943 and 1944.

Jordan later said that he was informed that the State department informed the War department that the alleged atomic shipments were not to be interferred with.

Bond Set For Negroes

Bond of $600 was set for Gus Williams, 51, bond of $500 for Reuben Williams, 20, both Slaton negroes charged with liquor law violation, the sheriff's department said.

Two pistols were reported stolen from the Roy Moore farm near Acuff, a .38 super automatic and a .22 pistol.

Two burglaries were reported Saturday morning at Shallowater.

City cleaners was entered by the back door and $5 in silver and an indeterminate amount of clothing taken, L. W. Rhodes said.

Tires, Wheels Stolen

Frank Loveless of near Abernathy said two tires and wheels were removed from his trailer.

A car owned by G. E. Anderson of 718 Ave. C was taken from the 1200-block of Ave. E Saturday afternoon, police were informed. The vehicle, a black, 1940 Nash bearing Texas license AN 8641, was valued at $400.

R. G. Alexander of 1601 Main, complained of the theft of a Graflex series B camera valued at $120.

April Barton Hobby, 33-year-old negro woman, early Saturday night was seeking to post $500 bond in a liquor law violation charge, county officials said.

to 35 cents and increases the miners' daily wage rate from $14.05 to $15.

Lewis is said to have dropped his demand for reduction in the work day from eight to seven hours but refused to surrender the contract clause stipulating that the miners will work only when "able and willing."

Not Members Of SCPA

Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers association representing nearly 100 million tons of coal output a year, said the Kentucky operators are not members of his organization.

Moody said it "is inconceivable that the action of this group will affect the attitude of the regular coal operators." He added:

"The mighty United Mine Workers certainly has fallen when it has to work out a shot-gun wedding with a small group of the smallest type operators in an effort to force a break in the ranks of the operators able to withstand the union pressure.

"Because they were unable to live on a three-day week, the Kentucky group was forced to accept the UMW terms."

"Politics" Charged

Meanwhile, the National Coal association charged the Truman administration with "playing politics of the cheapest sort" by trying to help Lewis out in his contract battle with mine owners.

John D. Battle, executive vice president of the association, told NCA members that coal oerators "may expect the worst" from the intervention in the coal dispute of Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman.

Battle assailed Steelman for his recent statements, after Lewis issued this three-day work week order, that a general settlement of the coal dispute may be in prospect along with a long period of industrial peace.

Steelman also indicated the White House was gratified by Lewis' action.

In a bulletin to NCA members, Battle charged that the three-day work week means "chaos in the coal industry" and added:

"The administration is avoiding every move that would bring order out of this situation. It is playing politics of the cheapest sort and it must be remembered that John Steelman has injected himself into these wage negotiations over a period of years, always maneuvering against management.

". . . With Steelman in the picture, the coal operators may except the worst. His recent statements are intended to mislead people into thinking that an agreement is just around the corner.

"This is an old racket and we expect that Steelman will make every possible effort to get Lewis out of the dilemma into which he has maneuvered himself."

His delicate condition came to the attention of residents of the South Plains when he entered West Texas hospital.

An immediate heartwarming response came in the form of cash and checks up to $100 in amount to build up a get well fund amounting to more than $700 for Billie Eugene.

After his release from West Texas hospital Oct. 5, he was taken to the Galveston hospital where his mother was told the operation should be delayed until he was at least 2½-years-old However, his condition called for an immediate operation after his condition grew worse when he returned home.

C. J. Hollingsworth, business manager of the hospital here, Saturday reduced the hospital bill from $436.54 to $250, which was paid from the fund. The Salvation Army had underwritten the hospital expenses but was short on funds.

The child's father had already paid $40 on the bill from his meager salary of $45 a week.

Funeral expenses including a neat lambskin casket, new clothes for burial and expense of transporting the body and an escort to Fort Smith, where funeral services will be held came to $113.83, which was paid to Rix Funeral home, which also reduced its charges.

His aunt, Mrs. Audie Ashworth of 519 Fifteenth, left with the body at 7 p. m. Saturday aboard a Texas & Pacific train and will arrive in Fort Smith at 5:45 p. m. today.

Another $110 was taken from the fund when the baby was taken to Galveston.

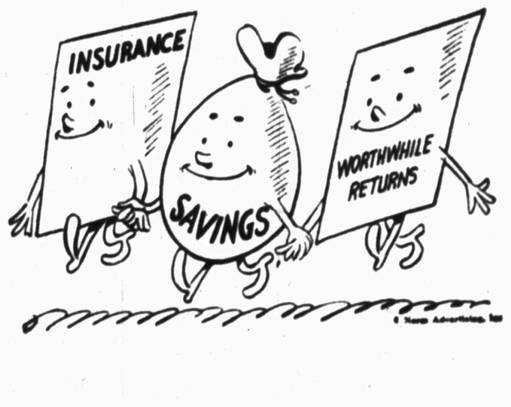

The remaining $197.65 was released to the father Saturday afternoon by The Avalanche-Journal to help pay expenses of a burial plot at Fort Smith.

Williams, his wife and three daughters, Edna Louise, Judy Marie and Doris Jean, were driven to Fort Smith Saturday night by relatives.

"I want to thank everyone in Lubbock for their assistance to Billie Eugene and us," Williams said.

"It was a blessing that we came to Lubbock," he added, "and I will be back for work here Wednesday or Thursday."

He said Mrs. Williams will stay with relatives in Fort Smith "until she recovers from the shock."

Notre Dame Rallies To Overcome Smashing SMU Offense, 27-20

El Paso Austin Wallops Westerners, 37 To 12

Rote Passes, Runs To Pace Pony Attack

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

DALLAS, Dec. 3. — Notre Dame's Fighting Irish pulled back from the shock of a thundering Southern Methodist offense that had them on the brink of defeat today to drive 57 magnificent yards for a touchdown that gave them and undefeated, untied season 27-20.

In one of the all-time thrillers of Southwestern football history, the men of Notre Dame stopped a great SMU drive on the seven-yard line with less than four minutes to go to finish four years unbeaten — the first time Notre Dame ever accomplished such a glittering feat.

Southern Methodist, picked to lose by at least 28 points, battered and weary, put its greatest game into this battle today, latching onto the flying shirttail of killer Kyle Rote, the greatest player on the field, to play Notre Dame its closest game of the season.

Rote Star Of Game

Southern Methodist battled without its great back, All-America Doak Walker who was on the sidelines in civilian clothes because of a leg injury, but Walker, in his palmiest days, never played a greater game than Rote.

Kyle smashed and crashed for 115 yards and he passed 24 times and connected on 10 for 146 yards.

Bob Williams, the great Notre Dame quarterback, bested Rote in passing with 11 completions in 18 throws for 165 yards and included in his throws were two for touchdowns. But no one could match Kyle running with the ball.

Notre Dame, as a result of its ground power, led in yards with 442, with 277 of it rushing. But SMU got 307 passing. The SMU total was 409 as a result of a net 102 running.

Rough, Tough Battle

It was a rough battering ball game with players being carried off the field in a stream.

There appeared little doubt but that Notre Dame had the better team but the great Rote, the mightiest runner seen in the Cotton Bowl this year —and possibly for any other year — almost beat the Fighting Irish.

It was the first time this year for Notre Dame to be held on even terms in the last half. In fact, the Methodists had the better of it in the final two periods. And as the game ended, the mighty Rote was battering to the Notre Dame 41-yard line in another great SMU surge.

Notre Dame thus finished the season as national champion for the seventh time and the tenth time in 61 years of football to be undefeated and untied.

A crowd of 75,457 fans jarred the giant Cotton Bowl to its foundations, rocking and swaying and going mad at the gridiron drama being unfolded before them.

SMU Toughest Foe

Notre Dame thus found Southern Methodist its toughest foe. Three times the teams have met and today was the widest margin the Irish ever have been able to win by.

The score was tied 20-20 early in the fourth period as Notre Dame gathered its green-shirted legions for that one great drive that paid off. Emil Sitko, Francis Spaniel, Leon Hart (the All-America end who went to fullback in the clinches) and Bill Barrett ripped and tore the SMU line. From the Methodist six the fleet, driving Barrett whirled around left end for a touchdown.

Back came the Methodist horde to drive with the kickoff from its 29 down to the Notre Dame four with Rote passing and running until he reached the 28. Here he was hit hard by the giant Hart while attempting to pass and had to leave the game. Sophomore Fred Benners stepped in and passed to H. N. Russell on the Notre Dame five. Russell lost one at center and Benners was hurt attempting to pass when rushed by Hart. Rote then came back in to the game and circled left end for two. Then Kyle tried a jump pass over the line that Jerry Groom and Bob Lally intercepted in unison.

That was the ball game.

SMU tried 35 passes and completed 17, getting five intercepted by the Notre Dames. The Methodists did just what they were expected to do — fill the air with footballs.

SMU and Notre Dame traded drives through half of the first period but finally the Irish got one under way that carried 73 yards for a score. The pay-off was a pass from Williams to Wightkin that ate up 42 yards and brought a touchdown. Steve Oracko kicked the extra point.

Shortly afterward came the most sensational play of the game. It was a 63-yard pass play that carried to the Notre Dame six. Rote handed to Champion who lofted to Milam on the Notre Dame 40. Mike Swistowicz ran him out of bounds. In four plunges Rote had to get out of trouble. He stood to give up on the one-foot line. Williams tried a daring play deep in the end zone to pass but Pat Knight of the Methodists rushed him and the ball wobbled untouched. Officials first ruled it a safety then changed and made it an incomplete pass.

The Irish kicked out but the next

SHORT PANTHER GAIN YESTERDAY—Halfback Jerry Baker (11) is shown about to tumble to the ground after hit by Halfback Charley Williams (44). Baker picked up good yardage on this play and continued to get in Lubbock's hair throughout the long afternoon. Austin High school of El Paso trounced the Westerners 37-12 to end their string of undefeated, untied games at 11 and oust them unceremoniously from the state Class AA playoff battle for the championship. The Panthers twice fought from behind to tie the score before the half ended, played a scoreless third period, then caved the roof in on the Lubbock boys with a scorching 25 points in the final quarter. In the picture above, Lubbock players shown are End Billy Wright (49), Tackle Doug Ross (42), Guard Sam Modrall (57) and Guard Bob Newell (68). Panther players shown are, also left to right, Quarterback Jim Agee (40), Tackle Ronald Gubis (71), Guard Olin Ragland (60) and Center Bobby Dirmeyer (51). Dirmeyer was a thorn in Lubbock's side all day. (Staff Photo by Choc Hutcheson, picture flown to Lubbock courtesy of Pioneer Airlines.)

Title Dreams Exploded As Austin Gets 25 Points In Fourth Quarter Scoring

By AL WILLIAMS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Writer

AUSTIN HIGH STADIUM, El Paso, Dec. 3.—Dreams of a state football championship were exploded right in the faces of undefeated, untied Lubbock High school here this afternoon before 7,000 bug-eyed fans, who sat in rapturous surprise as the Panthers of Austin (El Paso) High school romped to a 37-12 victory in the biggest upset of the 1949 Class AA schoolboy grid season.

The roof caved in on the Westerners in the fourth quarter when the aroused Panthers, on the prowl throughout the game, finally found the right scoring combination. They shot 25 points across the Lubbock double stripe in the final period to rout any question of another last minute Westerner victory.

El Paso Earned Victory

It was a well-earned triumph for the underdog Panthers, who twice had to fight from behind to stay in the ball game. The Westerners held a 6-0 lead early in the game and then, after El Paso had tied it up, went ahead again 12-6.

But the slashing, driving Panthers were not to be denied the fruits of victory. Convinced that they were the better team, they outcharged and outhustled the Westerners at every turn. And they turned any semblance of a close game into a bad nightmare for Lubbock with 25 points in the waning moments of the clash.

The defeat dropped the Westerners from further contention in the Class AA title race and sends the El Pasoans into the quarter-final round against Wichita Falls. It was Lubbock's first defeat in 11 starts in 1949.

Content with a 12-12 halftime score, El Paso came back to carry the fight to the Westerners, although a penalty broke up a Lubbock scoring threat. That was in the third quarter, the last time Lubbock was to make any kind of threat.

Then, in the fourth quarter, the skies showered down on Coach Pattison's erstwhile juggernaut. El Paso pushed over four touchdowns in five minutes and five seconds, two on intercepted passes and runbacks by George Clark, a substitute.

The outweighed Austin line opened up gaping holes in the Lubbock defense to allow the backs to slide through for long gains. On defense, the two-platoon system of Coach Red Harris paid off as Lubbock was limited to 162 yards on the ground. El Paso made 356.

The Panthers had more of an air arm than the air-minded Westerners. They completed eight of 13, one for a touchdown, while Lubbock completed only three of 10 and had five intercepted, two being returned for touchdowns.

Soon after the kickoff today, the Westerners received a break. The game had opened with Lubbock stymied and Malcolm Young had booted to the Panther 18, the ball being returned to the El Paso 27.

On the first play Noel McCormick fumbled and End Garnet Reeves recovered on the 34. Four plays later Young scored on a line buck over right guard. Billy Pressley's conversion effort hit the goal post and bounced back onto the field.

Panthers Started To Roll

After an exchange of punts, the Panthers began to roll from their own 27. The El Paso club moved 73 yards on seven plays. McCormick, Baker and Feidner picked up yardage through the Lubbock line to the eight, where McCormick went up the middle to score standing up. Freshman Fred Kriss' kick was low.

Young took a pitchout from Brown minutes later and raced 70 yards with the help of good blocking to put the Westerners in the front for the last time, 12-6. Pressley's boot was wide.

El Paso came right back to knot

Coach Pattison Says Sky Fell In

By CHOC HUTCHESON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Writer

EL PASO, Dec. 3.—"The sky fell in on us."

That was one of Coach Pat Pattison's first comments today after his Lubbock Westerners had dropped a stunning 37-12 Bi-District decision to Austin High. There probably isn't a better way to tell the story of what happened here today as Lubbock suffered its first and final grid defeat of the year.

This was a ball game that the favored Westerners just weren't supposed to win. They were outhustled, outscrapped, outplayed and most important, outscored by an amazing Austin team that was fired up like a branding iron.

For three full quarters it was a hell-for-leather battle, as the Westerners—although playing below par—managed to hold off the persistent Panthers. But then came the unbelievable fourth quarter scoring avalanche that buried Lubbock's state championship hopes for keeps.

Actually, the bitter end came long before the final whistle. While the players on the field fought gamely all the way, the boys on the bench seemed to realize that their number was up when Austin scored its back-breaking fourth touchdown on a 45-yard return of an intercepted pass.

Through those nightmarish fading moments of the game, a glance at the Westerner bench was enough to convince any onlooker that the youngsters there knew that their white-shirted mates on the field were battling for a lost cause. The Lubbock regulars, who had given way to the reserves when it became obvious that they could no longer harness the Panthers, watched in frozen-faced silence as Austin continued to seize upon every opportunity to add to its already insurmountable margin. A few regulars broke into open sobs fully five minutes before the end of the game.

Through it all Coach Pattison remained unruffled. Kneeling, as usual, before the bench, he made substitutions and calmly talked with players as though the game had just begun.

When at last the final gun sounded, he started the long trek across the field to congratulate Charles Harris, Panther coach.

Simultaneously, the Westerner bench became a scene of schoolboy disappointment at its height. With a few exceptions, the players bawled openly, blurting out to well-wishers their apologies for what they considered a miserable performance on the playing field today. Each seemed to think that the team defeat was his own individual responsibility, and some even apologized to each other.

After a few moments, players

Lubbock Dominates All-District 11

Brock, Brown, Williams Are Unanimous Team Selections

AL WILLIAMS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Writer

Lubbock High school football players dominate the annual All-District 3-AA team selected by the five conference coaches and only four first team choices were unanimous.

End Paul Erwin of Odessa, Tackle Joe Brock of Lubbock, Quarterback Bobby Brown of Lubbock and Halfback Charlie Williams of Lubbock were the unanimous selections of the coaches.

But since a point system was used, the All-District eleven actually is a baker's dozen. Ties in backfield choices dictated a six-man backfield, with Westerners grabbing four places and Odessa and Lamesa one each. The second team has a five-man backfield.

Nine From Lubbock

Of the 13 players selected on the first team, nine were from Lubbock, three were from Odessa and the thirteenth was from Lamesa. But Odessa hogged the second team spotlight with five selections. Lamesa placed four men, Lubbock two and Midland one.

Honorable mention included players from all five schools of the district, with Midland, Lamesa and Odessa players predominating.

The highest point total possible under the selections was 20, which Erwin, Brown, Brock and Williams earned. A total of 45 players received mention, 25 of whom made the top two squads.

All players receiving mention were nominated by the five district coaches. Coaches were not allowed to nominate players from their own squads, thus picking an all-opponent group. Furthermore, no sportswriters were polled on their selections.

Players on the first team were credited with five points and those on the second squad with three points, for each selection made.

Erwin Top Receiver

Erwin, rangy 170-pound Odessa wingman, is the leading pass receiver in the district and was one of the top defensive men. He was hard to move by all teams, and was best at breaking up end runs and sweeps.

Williams is the leading ground-gainer of the Lubbock squad, picking up 657 yards on 67 carries for a 9.8 average. He has scored 54 points. Williams' 70-yard dash against Odessa enabled the Westerners to defeat the Broncos and go on to win district. Williams is one of the best defensive men in the district at linebacker.

An ace quarterback, Brown is a potential all-stater, having been selected already on one downstate newspaper poll. He has a .578 completion record passing, hitting 26 times for five touchdowns on 45 attempts. Only one pass has been intercepted, that after bouncing out of a Lubbock players hands. Brown has averaged 37 yards per carry on eight punt returns and has scored three touchdowns.

Brock's all-round play on offense and defense gained him a unanimous spot on the coaches' team. A fine blocker, Brock is fast and can move downfield quickly to lead interference or open up holes in the defensive line. As a tackler he has no peer.

Reeves Is Selected

Lubbock's Garnet Reeves was selected at the other end position in his senior year. Reeves has scored five touchowns.

Odessa's Roy Heard came near to being in the select, "20 Point" group. A 178-pounder, Heard is a rock on defense and a quick-moving offensive tackle.

The middle of the line was all Lubbock, with Douglas Wienke at center and Freddy Gray and Sammy Modrall at the guards. Modrall was the heaviest man on the squad at 225 pounds.

Lamesa's hard-charging halfback, Dick Echols, was the third back chosen. Fleet Bobby Jackson of Odessa was another choice on

Westerner Quint Drubs Plainview

JIMMY HENLEY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Writer

The Lubbock Westerner basketball five racked up their third consecutive win as they dropped the Plainview Bulldogs 54-24 at Chapman fieldhouse Saturday night.

The Lubbock five took an early lead in a rough first period to lead at the end of that quarter 15-10. Center Jim Wilson, veteran all-starter, led the early attack, bucketing four field goals and one free toss before he fouled out in the second period. The Bulldogs never recovered.

The Westerners were still far short of last year's consolation champion team in this early game, but the new additions to the quintet showed much promise for a more polished team. Also hampering the five was the large number of fouls, which accounted for half of Plainview's score.

Jimmy Sexton led the Westerner scoring with 12 points, as he hit the mark more than one-third of the time on close-up shots.

It was short, but shifty and fast Carl Ince that added much suave to the not so smooth working Westerners as he added ten points to the score to be second in scoring.

Several other new members of the team exhibited good work in downing the outclassed Bulldogs. Among those were Tom Cheatham, Billy Williams and Bobby Sexton, brother of Jimmy.

Leading Coach Wall's Bulldogs was Jackie Howton who scored eight points.

It was the third win of the season for Coach David Cook's Westerners, who had previously taken two games from Abernathy. For Plainview it was the second loss, having lost their season opener to Lamesa 36-22 Friday night.

Unknown Backs Batter Crimson Tide

Auburn Tigers Upset Alabama 14 To 13

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 3 (AP) — Auburn, winner of only one game all season, scored the easy way, added another touchdown on sheer power and hung on like the Tiger they are called to outplay and upset mighty Alabama today, 14-13.

Auburn was a low-rated football team, supposed to have only the throwing arm of Travis Tidwell as an offensive weapon.

But not so this cold, clear afternoon before a packed house of 44,000 fans.

Tidwell's passes were put in moth balls because Alabama would be expecting them. And in their place stepped Jim McGowen, Jim Jeffers, Bill Davis and a horde of heretofore unknown backs who battered larger, and more respected Alabama for a major upset if ever one was played.

The game was only the second of modern times between these two one-time Cottonland Conference powers. Their series became so hot and violent back in 1907, that for the safety of Birmingham and about everyone else, their games were called off.

Auburn scored first, but Alabama power was too much for the score to remain that way and at the half it was a 7-7 tie. But Auburn again took the lead, this time with as powerful a drive as any Southeastern Conference team has pulled this year. Again Alabama came back with another touchdown.

Then with only one minute and 20 seconds to go, Eddie Salem, who had been one of Alabama's greatest offensive stars all afternoon, missed the point after try and Dixie's upset of the season became a game Auburn won't forget and Alabama would like to forget.

This was only the third game in 56 years of Alabama football which was lost by one point. The last one was 21-20 to Tulane in 1947.

Leahy Says Rote Is Underrated Player

Irish Glad Walker 'Was Not In Game'

By WALTER BOSWELL & WILBUR MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writers

DALLAS, Dec. 3. — Frank Leahy said the Notre Dame team that won a hair-raising 27-20 victory from Southern Methodist was the greatest he ever coached.

"It's got guts, it's got character. "It's the greatest team I've ever coached."

The guts and character of which Leahy spoke were evident in the waning minutes of the game.

Southern Methodist had roared from behind to tie the score at 20-20. But the Irish — the Fighting Irish — came back after that second Mustang touchdown in the final quarter to score the one that gave them a four-year undefeated string.

Bell Congratulates Leahy

"It was one of the greatest games I ever saw," SMU Coach Matty Bell told Leahy, as the Irish players stripped off their uniforms in the dressing room.

"It was a great ball game, coach," said Southern Methodist's All-America Doak Walker. Walker watched this one from the bench, in street clothes. His injured leg kept him on the sidelines in the final game of his collegiate career.

"I'm glad you weren't in there," Leahy told Walker.

Earlier in the Southern Methodist dressing room Bell stood at the door as players came in. They weren't happy about their loss.

"Fine game," Bell said. "Fine game," as each man entered.

"I think they knew they were in a ball game," Walker said.

The Irish sure did.

Best Irish Have Met

"The best team we've met this season," is what Leahy said.

And he echoed the sentiments of his star players — Leon Hart, Emil Sitko and Bob Williams — when he said "Kyle Rote is the most underrated back in America."

"He just doesn't go down," said All-America Hart. "He's a hard runner. He and Lynn Chandnois of Michigan State are the best backs we've met all year."

"I think our line deserves great credit," said Rote, who scored all of the Mustang touchdowns. "They were great—I had a bunch of All-Americas in front of me."

"That Hart is great. He's all they say he is," Rote said.

Walker came into the Notre Dame dressing room to congratulate Leahy and his players. Half-naked giants stopped and stared in open wonder at the golden boy of Southwest football.

Walker Talks To Irish

"Shut up, you guys," a half-dozen yelled when Walker tried to speak. The room became quiet except for the hissing of the showers.

"I wish I could have played," he said. "But it was an even greater game to watch."

Walker looked almost tiny standing besides the giants of Notre Dame.

"Gee, I wish he could have played," murmered a huge Irish player.

It was Rote the Notre Dame team raved about, but Hart said little Johnny Champion was the "fastest guy" he's seen.

"That passing" was what bothered Hart and his teammates.

"That passing" was the work of Rote and Fred Benners from a brand new, wide spread formation. The Mustangs used it almost exclusively, gambling for a touchdown on nearly every play.

"It was a wonderfully coached team," Leahy said of Southern Methodist. "Matty Bell deserves a lot of credit for raising it to the heights."

Littlefield Plays Ballinger Friday

ODESSA, Dec. 3 (Special) — Ballinger and Littlefield High schools will play their state Class A quarter-final football game here next Friday afternoon at 2 p.m.

Officials of both schools met here tonight following Ballinger's 33-7 defeat of Wink in their Bi-District game this afternoon.

There was no coin flip for the site. Both school superintendents and coaches agreed on this neutral field because of its location in regards to mileage from each school.

Odessa is approximately 159 miles from Littlefield and approximately 163 miles from Ballinger.

Tickets for the game will go on sale Tuesday or Wednesday. Any persons on the South Plains interested in watching this clash may obtain tickets by writing or calling Coach Jay Fikes at Littlefield High school.

Admission prices will be $1.50 for adults and 60 cents for students.

Tonight's meeting brought together Superintendent Cassidy of Ballinger, Superintendent Joe Hutchinson of Littlefield, Coach Wyman Williams of Ballinger and Coach Fikes.

The game, expected to be a standout, will feature two rough, hard-running elevens with almost identical records. Littlefield has overpowered every team except Dalhart, which beat the Wildcats in the first game of the season in an upset.

East Texas State Students To Play Santa To Orphans' Homes

COMMERCE, Dec. 3. (AP)—Students at East Texas State college will play Santa Tuesday to about 250 children from Texas orphan homes.

Children from five to nine years are expected from State Orphan's home, Corsicana; Boles home, Quinlan; Masonic home, Waco, and Buckner's home, Dallas.

James Saunders of Greenville is president of the student association staging the entertainment. Included will be music, a movie, banquet, and a Christmas tree with gifts.

Lillard Leads In Bowling Tourney

CHICAGO, Dec. 3. (AP).— William Lillard, 22 year old Dallas, Texas, clerk, today took the lead in the opening six game block of the ninth annual National All-Star Bowling Championship tournament.

He shot a 1,306 series on games of 208, 231, 244, 205, 214 and 204.

Lillard's total headed the field after four of the seven 24-man squads had competed in the meet. The 168 bowlers will roll a 24 game preliminary round, six games each day through Tuesday. The 46 high scorers will advance to the 12 game semi-finals Wednesday.

The 14 survivors of this competition then will join Connie Schwoegler, Madison, Wis., defending champion, and Andy Varipapa, Hempstead, N.Y., 1948 runner-up, in the round robin final matches starting next Thursday and continuing until Sunday, Dec. 11. Schwoegler and Varipapa were seeded in the finals.

Laverne Haverley, 24 year old blonde cashier, from Los Angeles led in the women's National All-star, an added feature to the tenpin show this year. Mrs. Haverley won five out of six games from Elvira Toepfer, Detroit shooting a 1,244 for 29.44 Petersen points.

New Mexico Aggies Lead College Rodeo

COLLEGE STATION, Dec. 3. — (AP)—New Mexico A. and M. college led the National Intercollegiate Rodeo here today with 105 points.

Oklahoma A. and M. was second with 90; Texas Tech, 70; Sul Ross, 60; Hardin-Simmons, 50; Texas A. and I., 40; West Texas State college at Canyon, 40; Baylor, 35; and Colorado A. and M. and Texas A. and M. 20 points each.

Last night only five of 19 riders stayed on the Brahman bulls to qualify for the finals tonight.

The best time for any event was that of Kit Pettigrew of Texas Tech, who bulldogged his steer in 9.9.

Jo Gregory of Sul Ross was first in the girls cow milking contest with a point average of 13.2 seconds.

Regis College Of Denver Named To Play In NAIB Holiday Event

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 3. (AP)—Regis college of Denver, today was named to play in the pre-Christmas basketball double header of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball.

The doubleheaders, which will be played in municipal auditorium Dec. 10 and 17, also will show West Texas State, of Canyon; Eastern Illinois State, of Charleston, and Baldwin Wallace, of Berea, Ohio.

Port Arthur Tops Ball High, 26-7

PORT ARTHUR, Dec. 3. (AP)— The Port Arthur Yellow Jackets came from behind in a driving rain here today to dump the Ball High Golden Tornadoes of Galveston, 26-7, and move into the Class AA schoolboy football quarter-finals.

Galveston struck quickly to put Port Arthur in the hole with Tome Ward, great 202-pound fullback, romping 46 yards off tackle late in the first period. Art Alderson converted.

Freddie Lucas' placement tied it at 7-7.

Ward fumbled four plays later and Guard Darrell Lafitte recovered for Port Arthur on the Tornadoes' 17. Frank Eidom hammered the Galveston line three times to score, but Lucas missed the extra point.

The Jackets scored early in the third quarter as Eidom cracked right guard from the two to climax a 55-yard drive.

Port Arthur used another 80-yard march to finish their offense show in the same period, with Mills going the last 10 off right tackle. Lucas converted.

Bonus, Television On Agenda

Minor Leagues Open Meetings Monday

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 3. (INS). Baltimore plays host from Monday through Friday to the annual winter meetings of baseball's minor leagues and, inevitably, to the machinations of the major league David Harums.

For the first time, the minors' player draft will be held in conjunction with the meetings on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Some 45 amendments to major-minor league rules and the National Association (minor leagues) agreement are on the agenda, but among the subjects uppermost in the minds of the executives are the questions of bonus players and television.

Actually, the minors can do little on either subject save to go "on record" for the possible guidance of the major league moguls, who meet in New York a week later.

There also is on tap the annual request of the Pacific Coast League for the special status. League president Clarence (Pants) Rowlands apparently has tired of attempting to kick in the major league door. Now, like a house-to-house salesman, he only hopes to get a foot inside the portal.

Rowland's current proposal — but not a brand new one — is that his league be exempted from having its players drafted by the majors. In return, the PCL is willing to forego drafting the chattels of lower classification leagues.

This petition, like others the PCL has advanced, probably will get nowhere.

LUBBOCK HUBBER OWNER AND MANAGERS ATTEND

Three members of the Lubbock Baseball club, Owner M. L. Wilkison, General Manager Harry F. Faulkner and Manager Jackie Sullivan, are in Baltimore for the Minor League meeting.

The three Lubbock men left here Thursday for Baltimore to attend discussions and resumption of the West Texas-New Mexico League's winter meeting, which was adjourned until reconvention in Baltimore.

Faulkner said that Lubbock also would be interested in the draft, at which time they will attempt to select several new players to inject new blood in the Hubber lineup.

The trio is expected to return here sometime within the next two weeks.

JOHNSON, PAPPENHEIM TANGLE

Arena Will Feature Australian Tag Team Match This Wednesday

Double trouble comes to Sled Allen's arena next Wednesday night when an Australian Tag Team match is the featured main event, with a straight two out of three falls grapple in the first event.

Herb Parks of North Bay, Ont., and Andy Tremain of El Paso take on a pair of the roughest two wrestlers to be seen in the local ring in a long time. Opposing the two exponents of clean wrestling will be Alex Kasaboski of Russia, via Brooklyn, N. Y., and The Gray Mask, who claims the West Coast as home.

Johnson, Pappenheim Meet

The first event will be Gust Johnson of Seattle, Wash., against Jack Pappenheim of Troutdale, Ore. Both are of the cleaner type in the ring, although they like it rough.

Tickets for the matches go on sale Wednesday morning at 9 in the arena and remain on sale until 5 p. m. The matches will start at 8 p. m.

Allen said that his drug store bill for the month of December would be well out of reason because of his demand for aspirin tables. Seems the promoter has had his troubles in lining up a card, what with all the wrestlers claiming shots at each other in the main event.

The Mask wanted another crack at Tremain, who beat him in two straight falls a couple of weeks ago. Parks claimed priority for a second slant at Kasaboski. George Overhuls didn't want anyone but Kasaboski. Tremain didn't care who was his opponent.

Top Show Slated

So Allen juggled them all up, drew names from the hat and came up with a tag team event that should go down in the memory of the local grapple fans.

The first event will feature two men who have been on and off the the local mat scene for a long time. Both are West Coasters and both are rough and rugged. Both are in good shape and ready for a gruelling match.

The two events will be one hour each with two out of three falls deciding.

OKLAHOMA AGGIES WIN

STILLWATER, Okla. Dec. 3. (AP) —A field goal from far out by Gale McArthur with nine seconds to play gave the Oklahoma Aggies a 43-41 basketball victory over the University of Arkansas Razorbacks here tonight.

New Mexico Western Quint Beats Wayland

SILVER CITY, N.M., Dec. 3. (Spl.)— New Mexico Western college scored the winning points that gave the Mustangs a 43-36 double overtime basketball victory over the Wayland college Pioneers after the hosts had trailed with all but 10 seconds left in the game.

Wayland went out in front early and held the lead throughout the game. They had an 11-8 margin at the half and did not seem to be in danger, even in the late stages of the game.

But Eastern New Mexico knotted the count with 10 seconds left, with the game ending 27-27. The first overtime ended in a 31-31 tie and the home team pulled away in the last overtime.

The home team's zone defense stymied the Pioneers much of the time, but loss of Runt Burch by fouls midway through the second half and the absence of Don Dally, left behind with a sprained ankle, also hurt.

Forward Ed Billings topped Pioneer scoring with 14 points. High scorer was Center Dick King of New Mexico with 20.

Statewide Girls Basketball Meet Set At Roosevelt School Thursday

Eight Teams Are Invited To Play

Roosevelt High school in Lubbock will be the scene of a statewide girls basketball tournament Thursday through Saturday, with eight teams invited to attend.

Marvin Williams, girls coach at Roosevelt, announced Saturday that the invitational tournament would start Thursday at 6 p.m. with Idalou playing either Post or Odell. The tournament will continue with three other games that night.

Consolation and championship round games will be played Friday night and both championship consolation and championship games will be run off Saturday night.

Open To Public

The tournament is open to the public with admission at 25 and 50 cents for each four-game session. There will be no day games. Roosevelt's gym can accommodate 600 comfortably, but up to 800 persons will be able to witness the games.

Saturday night, since there will be only two girls games, the Shallowater High school varsity will play an exhibition with the Roosevelt varsity.

Trophies will be awarded winners in the meet for first, second and third place, as well as consolation winners. The playing bracket was drawn up by Nathan Tubbs, director of girls basketball for District 18.

Seven Already Entered

Teams definitely taking part in the tournament are East Chambers, Bynum, Aledo, Meadow, Abernathy, Idalou and Roosevelt. Either Post or Odell will come into the tournament to fill out the eight-team bracket.

East Chambers, coached by J. D. Hutson, was the runner-up in the state championship of 1949, third place winners in 1948 and state champions in 1947.

Bynum, coached by O. G. McKown, has one of the tallest teams in the state and experts say that it is one of the strongest.

Aledo, coached by Willis Apple, won the Weatherford tournament in 1949, suffered heavy losses by graduation, but is said to have a strong team this year.

Abernathy Newcomer

Meadow, coached by Lloyd Hunt, was nosed out by New Home in the district tournament last year, but is stronger than last season. Meadow always has a strong girls team.

Abernathy is a relative newcomer to girls basketball, but has held its own pretty well.

Idalou, coached by W. L. Johnson, has a strong team coming up this year.

Roosevelt, coached by Williams, tournament director, won the state consolation championship last year, after being upset in the opening game. Four members of last year's team are back this season.

KANSAS CAGERS WIN

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 3 (INS)—The University of Kansas opened its basketball season tonight with a victory over Rockhurst college, 55 to 34 in Kansas City. Kansas led 33 to 9 at the half.

CITY CONFERENCE IN FINALS

Class AA Gridiron Race Reaches Quarter-Finals; Abilene Wins

(By The Associated Press)

Austin (El Paso), Abilene, Port Arthur and Thomas Jefferson (San Antonio) won first round games in the Texas schoolboy football play-off Saturday to complete two brackets—finals in the City Conference and quarter-finals of Class AA.

In the City Conference, Thomas Jefferson of San Antonio eked out 7-6 over San Jacinto of Houston and will meet Sunset of Dallas in the finals next week-end. Sunset Friday night beat Paschal (Fort Worth) 26-25.

Maud Moore Dies In California

FORT WORTH, Dec. 3. (AP)—George Fleming Moore was found dead at Burlingham, Cal., today. He was born at Austin July 31, 1887 and was graduated from Texas A and M college where he was a football tackle in 1908.

He was known to thousands of Aggies as "Maud" because he once kicked a football over Ross Hall at the college.

Moore enrolled in A and M from Edna, but his home was in Fort Worth before he graduated and he worked in the Fort Worth city engineer's office a year after completing his college work. He entered the Army in 1909.

He returned to A and M as a colonel and commandant in 1937, serving there until 1940, when he was ordered to Hawaii. Enroute to Honolulu his orders were changed and he went direct to the Philippines. He became a prisoner of the Japanese with the fall of Corregidor May 6, 1942 and was liberated in Manchuria with Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright in August 1945.

Moore was in command of Manila harbor defenses and was awarded the distinguished service cross for great gallantry in continually visiting the most exposed elements of his command.

Thomas Jefferson Will Meet Sunset Of Dallas For Title

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 3. (AP)—Thomas Jefferson's Mustangs of San Antonio will meet the Sunset Bisons of Dallas in Dallas Saturday for the state City Conference football title.

Representatives of Sunset won the toss immediately following Jefferson's 7-6 win over San Jacinto of Houston and elected to play the game in Dal-Hi stadium. The time wil be set Sunday morning, it was announced.

South Carolina Defeats Citadel

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 3. (INS)—The South Carolina Gamecocks wrecked a Citadel homecoming today in Charleston, winning a 42-to-0 rout over the completely outclassed Bulldog gridmen.

Ringing up its first score late in the first period, the Carolina eleven bowled through for two touchdowns in the second quarter, another in the third and two more for added measure in the final frame.

Halfback Steve Wadiak, displaying his wares for some 12,000 fans, took the scoring honors of the day with three of the six Gamecock touchdowns.

Carolina's first touchdown came on a two-yard run by Bishop Strickland to cap off a 56-yard drive.

Rolling again in the second period, Chuck Precioso tallied from the one, and Wadiak hurtled over from the three a few minutes later.

Eight minutes after the half, Wadiak shook through the Bulldog line into paydirt from the nine, and accounted for number three in the final quarter on a 12-yard off-tackle slant.

Thomas Jefferson Gains 7-6 Victory Over San Jacinto

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 3. (AP).—S. M. Meeks raced 45 yards in the opening quarter to score Jefferson's winning touchdown Saturday as the San Antonio champions defeated San Jacinto of Houston, 7-6.

The victory, insured by Don Raybourn's placement, gave Jefferson a berth in the City Conference state finals against Sunset of Dallas.

Barely 7,000 fans saw Jefferson march 80 yards through ankle-deep mud for its first quarter touchdown. Then, midway the second quarter, San Jacinto's Carl Johnson scored on a 16-yard touchdown run. But Jerry Johnson's placement was low.

Pro Rams Favored To Drop Cardinal Team

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3. (INS)—The Los Angeles Rams tonight were tabbed seven-point favorites over the Chicago Cardinals in their crucial National Football League contest at Memorial Coliseum tomorrow.

A crowd of 75,000 is expected to watch the two clubs battle for a chance to remain in the running for the western championship of the pro pigskin loop.

Jim Hardy, former Ram understudy to Bob Waterfield, was pronounced in fit-fiddle shape and is expected to lead the Cards in a passing attack against the host outfit.

The Rams need a win or tie to clinch the western division crown. The Cards must win to keep the Chicago Bears' slim title chance alive. The Cards already are out of the championship contention.

Ballinger Bearcats Cop 33-7 Win Over Wink In Class A Tilt

WINK, Dec. 3. (AP)—Turning loose a four-touchdown avalanche in the second half, the Ballinger Bearcats rolled to a 33-7 victory over Wink here today to gain the regional Class A high school crown.

The teams fought on even terms through the first half, but Ballinger stunned the overflow crowd of 5,000 with its performance in the final two periods.

Walker Cited By Sporting News

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 3. (INS)—Doak Walker, Southern Methodist backfield star who sat by and watched the Mustangs edged by Notre Dame, 27-20, today has been chosen for the third straight year as a member of the Sporting News 1949 All-American football team.

The selections, made by 352 sportswriters and broadcasters, were announced tonight by the St. Louis publication.

In sixteen years of Sporting News selections, only Army's Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard have previously been three-time repeaters.

Four other grid stars were named for the second time this year. They are Leon Hart, Notre Dame end, Emil Sifko, Notre Dame back; Leo Nomellini, Minnesota tackle, and Al Wistert, Michigan's captain and tackle.

The fighting Irish claim three of the seven midwest spots on the team. The southwest is represented by two and the east and far west by one each.

Members of the first team are: ends—Hart and Art Weiner of North Carolina; tackles—Nomellini and Wistert; guards — Rod Franz of California and Ed Bagdon of Michigan State; center—Clayton Tonnemaker of Minnesota; backs—Sitko, Walker, Arnold Galiffa of Army and Bob Williams of Notre Dame.

time they got the ball — this time on a pass interception by Bill Gay on the Methodist 34 — they scored from the Southern Methodist 35, Williams passed over the goal line. Milam, Bob Folsom and Bill Richards batted at the ball — and batted it squarely into the hands of Ernie Zalejski for a Notre Dame touchdown. Oracko missed the conversion.

The half ended 13-0.

Barrett Crunches Over

Midway of the third period the mighty Rote led a paralyzing 61-yard touchdown drive. Sticking to the ground, the Methodists rolled easily to the score with Rote making 44 of the yards. He tallied from the Notre Dame three. Bill Sullivan converted.

But Notre Dame thundered back to draw 13 points away again. Jim Mutscheller intercepted a Rote pass on the SMU 22 and a pass from Williams to Hart who lateralled to Spaniel carried to the 12. Barrett, John Landry and Hart powered to the four and Barrett crunched over. Oracko kicked the point.

Southern Methodist then got two quick touchdowns to tie it up. The first was on a 61-yard drive. Rote passed to Champion who ran to the Notre Dame one and Rote plowed center for the score. Again Sullivan converted. The final Methodist touchdown came after a clipping penalty set Notre Dame back to the one and on the kickout Richards ran to the Notre Dame 14. In three blasts Rote got the score. Groom bounced through to block Sullivan's try for point and the count was tied.

Then came the Notre Dame drive for the winning touchdown.

Fired-Up Austin Outplays Lubbock

the count, using its power to drive down the field. A holding penalty against Lubbock also helped on this drive. Brown, who played his top defensive game of the year, almost broke up the march when he tackled Feidner on the two-yard stripe, but Agee passed to Ronald Maroe on the next play for the score. The drive, which started on the Lubbock 45, covered the distance in four plays.

Fumble Halts Drive

The Panthers then drove to the Lubbock 13 after a pass interception, but the teams exchanged interceptions and El Paso was held when Tackle Doug Ross recovered a fumble on the nine.

Soon after the second half kick-off, the Westerners made their most determined bid of the second half. Young, who injured an ankle, Stroud and Brown took turns carrying the ball to the Austin 26. Mixed up signals cost the Westerners a five-yard penalty on fourth down and that was the turning point.

Austin took the ball and grimly paraded 87 yards to break the tie, 13 plays eating up the yardage. The score was made on the second play of the fourth quarter. Kriss' kick was wide.

Roof Then Fell In

Then the bottom really fell out. Brown's pass was tipped into the hands of Clark on the first play after the kickoff and he raced 45 yards behind perfect blocking for the score, the second in less than 30 seconds for Austin.

Lubbock was again halted and punted out on the 46. Austin powered downfield again, with McCormick crashing 16 yards over right tackle for the tally. This time Virgil Mahoney kicked the extra point to give Austin a 31-12 lead.

Another pass interception brought the game virtually to a close, Clark grabbing a pass from Mack Turner and scampering another 45 yards to score. The kick was blocked. This score came with substitutes at every position in the Lubbock lineup.

El Paso Line Holds

The middle of the Austin line was like a rock, with Center Bobby Dirmeyer playing a topnotch game and Guards Billy Reese and Al Woods constantly stacking up the Lubbock line. The entire El Paso team was keyed high for the game and played hard.

Lubbock end play on the defense was sparked by Wright and Reeves, but they could not cope with the interference being received by Austin backs, Wienke, Ross and Williams were in on many plays, and Brown's work was excellent.

But the Austin line gave the backs a hole to squeeze through and their speed carried them for valuable yardage before the secondary could come in to stop the motion.

Lubbock tackling at times was ragged, but the squad as a whole played well and were overpowered by the Austin team, which played a better ball game.

ONE OF LUBBOCK'S SUCCESSFUL PASSES—Quarterback Bobby Brown, shown off balance at the left, gets off a pass early in the first quarter in Lubbock's 37-12 defeat by Austin (El Paso) yesterday afternoon. The Westerners' famed aerial game failed to materialize, only two other passes besides this one being completed. Fullback Malcolm Young snared this pass and drove down to the Panther seven-yard line. Two plays later Young bulled his way three yards over right guard for the first score of the game. Other Lubbock players in the picture are Halfback Charley Williams (44) at left and Tackle Doug Ross (42). Rushing Brown are End Ronald Maroe (82) and Tackle Ronald Gubis (71). To their left is Center Bobby Dirmeyer (51). Photo by Choc Hutcheson, flown to Lubbock through courtesy of Pioneer Airlines.)

Rounding out the backfield are Wayne Stroud, Lubbock's 71-point left halfback, and Malcolm Young, who scored 60 points and averages 41 yards on punts.

The all-district line averages nearly 185 pounds per man, and the backfield weighs 159 on the average.

STORM HALTS SEARCH

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 3. (INS)— A blizzard today halted a 31-man ground party just short of the 6500-foot level on snow-covered Mount St. Helens where a C-54 transport plane with six men aboard crashed 11 days ago. Two men continued up the northeastern slope in an effort to reach the crash scene and reconnoitre.

Earth Shocks Felt In Sicily As Danger Of Disaster Eases

CATANIA Sicily, Dec. 3. (AP)— Earth shocks jolted the Mt. Etna area at intervals today and flames belched from the main crater high above farm lands newly seared by its molten lava, but the threat of a major disaster appeared diminishing.

Cracks from which the lava spewed—about 6,000 feet up on the 10,758-foot peak—acted as neutral safety valves. However, damage to farm homes, orchards, vineyards and forests already ran into millions of lire.

Reports tonight to Catania, an eastern Sicilian port 18 miles southeast of the crest, indicated flow of lava from the cracks was slowing down. Nine or 10 of these cracks opened under pressure yesterday, particularly on the northwest slope.

The largest stream, which early today was moving down the northwest slope at two miles an hour toward the town of Maletto, split into two columns at noon. One moved on at a reduced rate toward Maletto. The other forked off toward Bronte, five miles to the southwest.

NOTED PLAYWRIGHT DIES

NEW YORK, Dec. 3. (AP)—Philip Barry, 53, noted playwright, died today of a heart attack at his Park Avenue home. The dramatist's physician, Dr. Dana Atchley, said Barry had not been in ill health. The doctor said he was called to the Barry home about 2 p. m. (EST) and that death occurred "about 4 p. m."

Brash Young Bandits Sought In Robbery Of Borger Car Dealer

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 3 (U.P.) — Police searched today for two brash young bandits who abducted and robbed C. O. Brady, Borger, automobile dealer, of $4,950.

Brady, a partner in the Brady Brothers Motor Co. at Borger, told police the masked gunmen overlooked another $15,000 he had hidden on his person.

The victim said the bandits accosted him shortly after he purchased two automobiles for $3,700 from the Marcus Motor Co. yesterday. He said they forced him to lie on the floor of his car while they drove him to a more secluded place where he was ordered to "hand over the money."

MAN IS CONVICTED

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 3. (AP) — An all-male jury here convicted Louis Eugene Hoover today of the murder of millionaire James A. Mahoney of Bristol, Va.-Tenn., in a French quarter hotel (The Monteleone) during mardi gras season last February. The conviction makes a death sentence mandatory but no date of pronouncement was set before the court adjourned.

Abilene Swamps Breckenridge

ABILENE, Dec. 3. (AP)—The Abilene Eagles swamped Breckenridge, 35-0, today to gain a quarterfinals berth in the Class AA schoolboy football playoff for the first time since 1936.

The Buckies didn't make a single first down through the stalwart Abilene line. They ended up with a minus 17 yards net rushing.

Abilene whammed to 27 first downs, made 253 yards rushing and 94 passing.

The Eagles' foe in the next round will be Highland Park. Game site will be decided by officials of the two schools at Mineral Wells tomorrow afternoon.

Fullback Bill Galusha tallied the Eagles' first two touchdowns, one in the first and one in the second quarter. He kicked four extra points.

Quarterback Hub Ingram burst over from the nine for the third score in the third quarter. Joe Youngblood and Robert Austin counted for the Eagles in the final period. Guard Jack Lester kicked the final extra point.

Crowd Attends Funeral For Dallas Plane Crash Victim

CARLSBAD, Dec. 3. (INS) — Crowds filled the Carlsbad First Baptist church yesterday for the funeral of Joe Stanley Smith, Albuquerque and Carlsbad war veteran.

Smith was killed Tuesday in the crash of an airliner at Dallas.

He was an examiner for the U. S. War Claims commission. He is survived by a widow and three children, including a week-old son he had never seen.

Smith lived in Lubbock as a youth.

TO SEEK RE-ELECTION

MIDLAND, Dec. 3. (AP)— Congressman Ken Regan said today he definitely will be a candidate for re-election in 1950. Regan was elected U. S. representative of the 16th congressional district in the summer of 1947 to fill the unexpired term of R. Ewing Thomason of El Paso, who resigned to accept a federal judgeship. The Midland man was elected to his first full term in 1948.

Lubbock Players Sob Openly After Tussle

boarded their chartered bus for the ride back to Del Camino tourist court, their headquarters here. And it was on the bust that they really "broke down" and let the tears of disappointment roll.

When Pattison, who had been besieged by sympathetic consolers outside the bus, finally climbed aboard, he walked slowly down the aisles, chatting briefly with each boy, and uttering such remarks as "chin up, there, fella" and "c'mon, now, boy, let's not take it that way."

But try as they would, the Westerners just couldn't hide their emotions.

Cinch, No Cinch

One husky senior lineman, who had just played his last game in the black and gold, sobbingly said, 'We had our fun before the game thinking we had a cinch. They had their fun out there on the field today. I hope you guys who'll be back next year remember this."

Another senior, staring at the mountains on the outskirts of the city, murmured, "If I never see this place again it will be too soon for me."

To which a junior, sitting next to him, replied in a determined tone, "Not me, I hope I see it again next year."

After a few blocks, the players grew silent, whereupon someone toward the front of the bus softly began singing the Westerner school song. One by one the others joined in to sing it in its entirety. Then more silence, until at last the bus reached the tourist court.

There the players promptly dressed for a fried chicken dinner, which was preceded by a brief, friendly talk by Pattison to the complete squad.

Gradually the boys' disappointment lessened and by the close of the meal most of them had gotten around to their usual discussion of the game itself.

Dirmeyer Praised

While unanimous in agreement that they had played far below their customary standard, the Westerners were not taking anything away from the inspired Austin club. They were particularly high on Austin Center Bobby Dirmeyer, whom many rated as the best defensive man they had faced all season. And of course they had ample respect for the hard-running Panther backs, who had shredded Lubbock's line through the game.

Pattison, reviewing the game, offered no alibis. He pointed out that the inspired Austin team simply had been the better eleven on this sunny Saturday afternoon.

"We were flat," he added. "You know, this 'flat' business works two ways. Sometimes you get off to a bad start, then come out of it. Sometimes you don't come out of it. We didn't today, and that was the ball game. Austin was ready and we weren't."

After supper, most of the Westerners boarded the bus for a group excursion to Juarez, across the Rio Grande. By this time the boys' spirits were again nearing normalcy, and conversation turned to such impersonal topics as the outcome of other ball games.

"Say," someone shouted, "how did Notre Dame and SMU come out today?"

"Notre Dame beat 'em 27-20" came the answer from the back of the bus.

"Whew! Pretty close, wasn't it?" returned the first Westerner. "Who does Notre Dame play next week?"

"No one—they're through for the season," was the reply.

To which a third player dejectedly quipped: "Yeah, just like us."

That remark brought a half-hearted laugh from these lads who had painfully learned today that you can't win 'em all. At least, not until next year.

NCAA Committee Moves To Oust Seven Schools From Membership

By KEN OPSTEIN
INS Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 — The National Collegiate Athletic Association's constitutional compliance committee announced in Chicago today a recommendation to oust seven member institutions for professionalism in college athletics.

The names of the universities or colleges which allegedly violated the NCAA regulations will not be revealed until the 44th annual convention in New York, Jan. 13-14. A vote is expected to be taken on the second day of that session to determine whether the seven schools involved will be given the heave-ho.

Virginia is believed to be one of the institutions accused of granting financial aid to athletes. Kentucky is said to be a second and at least two other southern institutions are reported to be implicated.

To expel a member it is necessary to secure a two-thirds majority of the delegates present. The voting membership totals 305.

The effect of such action by the NCAA would prevent any member of the group from engaging in athletic competition with the seven violators.

Western Conference athletic Commissioner Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson told International News Service recently that Big Ten schools had been complaining against each other for breaking NCAA rules. No Western Conference schools, however, are said to be among the seven alleged violators.

The NCAA reported last Aug. 15 that nine institutions were in jeopardy of losing their membership. These universities and colleges were warned and apparently two of them altered their practices since only seven are presently in danger.

In addition to the vote on the violators, an NCAA verbal war between the north and the south is expected to be waged over two amendments that would permit a training table.

The Southeastern, Southern and Southwestern Conferences have joined to present a proposal that would permit a year around training table.

GOP Answers Barkley Charge With Renewed Attack On HST

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—Accused by Vice President Barkley of using "scare" tactics in the attacks on President Truman's program.

Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) said that if he had his way the GOP would wipe out every vestige of "me-tooism" and "fight the Truman welfare state down the line."

"We've got to give the voters something to choose from between the Republicans and the Democrats," he told a reporter before leaving for Ohio.

GOP Challenged

"We're never going to win until we come out squarely against the kind of socialism the administration is trying to put over."

Barkley told a campaign-launching Democratic rally in New York City last night that the Republicans are trying by talking about "statism" to "scare the people away from the continuance of a constructive program which has made them more prosperous, more content and more universally employed than at any other period in history."

"We are now being told by those who regard every tree frog as a roaring lion and every innocent angleworm as a spreading adder that we are on the verge of entering the 'welfare state' and that it and so-called 'statism' are lurking around the corner to absorb the liberties and devour the substance of the people," he declared.

He added that those who want to wreck the Truman program "so far lack the courage to specify the extent of their prospective devastation, if they secure control of the government."

Some Ideas Acceptable

He called on Truman opponents to "give the American people a bill of particulars as to their program."

Senator Flanders (R-Vt) told a reporter he doesn't agree with party member who would oppose all of the President's welfare proposals.

"We ought to explain this so-called welfare state in terms of its costs and its effect on the people," he said. "We Republicans can support some of the proposals, but I don't think we should try to out-promise the Democrats.

"In fact, I'd rather lose the election next year than to try to outpromise the Democrats. I think we would be in better shape to win the presidency in 1952 by keeping an even keel now."

Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) accused Barkley of resorting to an old political trick.

"It's an old dodge to promise the people everything and then dare your opponent to say what he would take away from them and that's what Barkley is doing," McCarthy said.

"Everybody agrees that we should expand and improve social welfare legislation. It's a question of what is most urgent and what we can afford to pay for now."

Canadian Newsprint Mills Trying To Set All-Time Record For Production In 1949

By JAMES R. NELSON
United Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, Dec. 3 — Canadian newsprint mills have set themselves a traget of shattering all records in production this year.

They hope, if world-wide currency devaluations do not upset their plans, to continue the trend throught 1950.

Two months before the end of the year, Canadian mills had piled up output totaling 4,324,698 tons, a 4.7 per cent increase over production in the same period last year.

The target for the year was at least 5,000,000 tons, and it appeared certain on the basis of previous production trends that the figure would be reached.

If so, it would be the first year in the history of the newsprint industry that Canadian mills reached or surpassed the 5,000,000-ton mark.

Prices Doubled

The dominion's most valuable export product, newsprint, was moreover bringing a higher price on world markets than ever before. It was more than double the prewar price on the United States market.

According to forecasts prepared by the Newsprint Association of Canada, total Canadian production this year would reach 5,150,000 tons. Next year, the association hoped, the overall total of newsprint produced in this country would reach 5,110,000 tons.

Those figures, the association said, included forecasts of production by Newfoundland mills, whose figures were not included in past records, before union of the two countries. Production in Canada last year totalled 4,982,834 tons, and the pre-war four-year average (1935-39) was 3,336,500 tons.

The association said, however, that the most significant figure of the growth of newsprint production was output per working day. In October this year, it amounted to 16,756 tons, an increase of one-tenth of one per cent over the daily average one year ago.

During the year to date (ten months ending October), output per working days was over five per cent higher, on the average, than for the same period of 1948. Canadian mills in October this year were working at just a shade more than rated capacity, though one year ago they were turning out newsprint at 106 per cent of rated capacity.

While production statistics for the year looked bright, storm clouds appeared on the horizon for the Canadian newsprint industry, according to the association. It said in a report on the world-wide industry situation that all countries in the western world, outside those in North America, were looking to the Scandinavian countries

But there, the outlook was not [illegible] ther, the association said, Scandinavian forests, the association said, could not hope to supply all the raw materials for the newsprint mills of all Europe, Australia and Argentina.

[illegible] the world-wide shortage of dollars, which hit hard at Canadian exports of both pulp and paper, the Scandinavian forests were the only hope, and that hope was small.

Out of this squeeze, the association foresaw a situation which would work eventually to the good of Canada. Newsprint consumers [illegible] rld, outside the [illegible] ally would be forced to buy newsprint in Canada.

Balconies Sprayed To Help Official

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3 (AP)—When city health director Dr. J. C. Geiger ordered the janitor at the city health center to spray the balconies every month with DDT, he posted this explanation:

"We have pigeons. The pigeons sometimes psittacosis. They also carry mites, and, I regret to say, lice. Once in a while I have an itch. Then I have to scratch. The spray, therefore, is for everybody's protection around here, but mostly for my own."

CANAL WORK SLATED

FREEPORT, Dec. 3. (AP)—Contracts for straightening two bends in the Freeport harbor channel will be let Jan. 15. Chairman E. S. Stone, jr., of the Brazos River harbor navigation district said the channel will be widened at Quintana point near the intracoastal canal crossing, and at Brazosport turning basin west of the Freeport Sulphur company's docks.

SUPREME COURT DECISION FOLLOWED

U. S. Starts New Policy To Cut Down Housing Discrimination

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 — The government has announced a new policy to try to cut down — it cannot wipe out — racial discrimination in housing.

This is the background, with an explanation from government officials on what the new policy means.

It has been a widespread practice in this country for property owners in a community to discriminate against whole groups of people because of their race, religion or color, particularly negroes and Jews.

They may agree among themselves that none of them will ever rent or sell his house to a negro, for example. This is a so-called "gentlemen's agreement." Sometimes it is called a "restrictive covenant."

Suppose one of the people making the agreement broke it and sold to a negro. What could the other's do to stop him? Nothing. It was only a verbal agreement anyway.

Agreements Recorded

But there is another kind of agreement — it's still a restrictive covenant — which is called a "recorded" agreement. Meaning, it has been filed in writing in a court as part of the cour record. For example:

Say you buy a house today. In the deeds to the house it is plainly stated that the owner, in this case you, cannot sell to a negro.

This may happen in a new house you buy today or in an old house that's changed hands 10 times in 20 years.

That restrictive covenant was in the deeds when the house was first bought. It was recorded 20 years ago. When you, the 11th owner, buy it today, the deeds with their restrictive covenant are still part of the court record and have been for 20 years.

But suppose you decide to sell to a negro and your neighbors want to go to court to prevent the sale, arguing that under the agreement you can't sell to a negro.

No Standing In Court

Can they go to court to stop you? No. That was tried a couple of years ago. But the Supreme Court ruled such "recorded" agreements have no standing in a court. In other words, the agreement is not worth the paper it's written on if someone wants to break it.

Now we come to the new policy, which involves the federal housing administration (FHA).

FHA is a government agency which insures loans for people who want to build private homes or even whole private housing projects. In the past year it has insured one-third of all the private housing built.

Some time in the future — maybe 60 or 90 days — FHA will set up a rule which says:

No one can get an FHA loan if he is a party to one of those restrictive covenants "recorded" after the rule went into effect.

Suppose, after the rule goes into effect, you want to buy a house whose deed, recorded in a court years ago, carries the restrictive covenant. Can you get an FHA loan to by that house?

Decision Followed

Yes, says Franklin D. Richards, head of FHA. Why? Because the covenant was "recorded [illegible] the new FHA rule. The rule will bar loans only to those putting [illegible] to a court record after the rule becomesc effective.

But what of verbal agreements among house-owners in a community to discriminate, say, against negro home-buyers? That will have no meaning, an FHA lawyer said.

But, in order to get an FHA loan, will you have to agree not to discriminate against negroes or any other group if you ever want to sell your place?

No, say FHA officials. Why? Because the government can't tell anyone what to do about selling his house. It is only ruling it will not give loans to people taking part in recorded agreements in the future, or, rather, after the rule goes into effect.

Why is the FHA adopting this new policy? Merely, the officials say, to keep the FHA in line with that Supreme Court decision which held that recorded agreements have no standing in court.

In short, the government plan, as officials explained it, is not going to touch restrictive covenants already in effect but will try to prevent new ones from being made, or as many as it can.

The government can't prevent restrictive covenants, even newly recorded ones, being made by people who get loans from banks or other private agencies. It can act only where FHA loans are concerned.

New 'Electronic Brain' Expected To Speed Up Atom Energy Study

By JAMES LEE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. —The Atomic Energy commission and the Agriculture department came up today with an "electronic brain" which on certain jobs can do work equivalent to that performed by 10,000 research experts.

The "brain"— known officially as the rapid selector — will sift through the mass of scientific knowledge pouring from laboratories and select facts needed for specific research jobs. Said the AEC:

"The machine promises to help solve a crucial scientific problem of keeping the individual scientist abreast of the tremendous surge of new ideas and developments in his own and related fields."

Working Model Built

A working model of the rapid selector was built at the suggestion of Dr. Vannevar Bush, wartime chief of the Office of Scientific Research and Development.

It operates like a research worker looking through the cards in a library catalogue, but at a much greater speed.

With properly coded entries, the machine will scan up to 120,000 subject entries per minute, compared to the dozen or so which a fast researcher could examine in the same time.

Moreover, it will reproduce on the spot an abstract or the original of a given document, saving the time now spent in searching library shelves or waiting for information from distant places.

Coded Cads Filed

A 2,000-foot real of film provides space for text and code for 60,000 abstacts or an equal number of text pages. A total of 420,000 entries maye be made on the entire reel.

Scanning is done by banks of photo-electric cells which read the code.

When the desired information pops up the cells trigger a camera equipped with a stroboscopic light source lasting two-millionths of a second.

The short duration of the light source effectively stops the moving film, producing a sharp image which can be enlarged for convenient reading.

The AEC will make first use of the selector in maintaining records of new research with radioisotopes, which will be catalogued by physical characteristics, application, production method, and other factors.

Retired General Kills Himself In California

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif., Dec. 3. (U.P.)—Maj. Gen. George F. Moore, USA retired, wartime commander of the Corregidor, Manila and Subic bay defenses in 1942 when they fell to the Japanese, shot and killed himself in a field here last night, it was disclosed today.

He was reportedly concerned over his health which had suffered during his years as a Japanese prisoner of war.

His body, dressed in civilian clothes, was discovered lying in a field on the exclusive Carolands estate here. He apparently drove his car into the isolated area, got out and walked about 25 feet, then shot himself through the right temple with a .380 army automatic.

Police Chief Walter Wisnom estimated the suicide occurred some time between 9:30 and 10:30 p. m. Friday. No note was found with the body, but Wisnom added that he understood the 62-year-old army officer had left a note at his home in nearby Burlingame Hills.

He is survived by his widow, Lucille Moore, Wisnom said.

Hearing Set For Man Indicted In Poison Death Of His Wife

HAMILTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—A sanity hearing has been set for Dec. 12 for J. M. Horsley, 63, indicted in the poison death of his wife.

The petition for the jury hearing was filed by H. W. Allen, Horsley's attorney. Allen said the case is based on the non-existence of court records showing restoration of Horsley's sanity. Horsley was in a state asylum for the insane in 1934.

Lelah Horsley, 45, died Nov. 14. A grand jury indicted her husband for murder Nov. 25, for allegedly poisoning the woman with disinfectant tablets in coffee.

Horsley remained in jail at Junction.

Street Cars Almost Forgotten In America, But Gain Popularity In Overseas Nations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (U.P.)—The discordant clang of the street car bell has faded to a steady but muted tone in this country. But overseas it seems to be rising.

In most American cities the strident theme song of the trolley car has become almost a forgotten note of the past, lost beneath the dull roar of the modern diesel bus. In the changing transportation system in the nation of the past 30 years, the rumbling, tuneless old trolley has been fighting a losing battle until today the total number is less than one-third the one-time peak of 30 years ago.

Their displacement comes after dominating the thoroughfares of American cities for almost a century.

Heydey Long Ago

The real heyday of the one-eyed dragon of the highway came from 1902 to 1917, before the motor vehicle was advanced enough to compete for the right of way. Trolley excursions were popular and traction companies had plain and fancy cars that could be chartered for excursion runs.

But with the sidetracking of trolley cars in this country, they have clanked their way into popularity in other parts of the world.

Instead of being consigned to the junk heap, many displaced American street cars now find themselves being shuttled off for foreign runs, where they are in great demand to replace over-age or overworked cars.

Forty-two 10-year-old street cars retired a year ago in New York's Bronx now are among the finest in Vienna, where the war took a heavy toll of the Austrian city's pre-war fleet of 3,600 trolleys. Another 25 comparatively new Bronx cars were shipped last March to Bombay.

South of the border, American trolleys have been the vogue for years, with most South American street cars of U. S. construction. Since the end of the war, 100 New York City vererans have been bought by Lima, Peru, and Sao Paulo, Brazil.

More than a score of cities in this country still have resisted the national trend to rip up the tracks and give the road to the bus and car. However, the modern counterpart of the old Toonerville is comparatively fast, quiet, and comfortable, and the estimated 5,000 now in service almost certainly will hold out for some time in their last strongholds in this country.

Failure Of Red Strikes Hailed

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

The failure of the Communist instigated general strike in Italy is another forceful indication that the western democracies have contained the red offensive and are gaining in Europe's cold war.

This was the second serious defeat of its kind the Bolshevists had suffered in a week, the other being the flop of a Communist-supported general strike in France. The two setbacks are particularly significant in that Italy and France have been the chief Communist strongholds in western Europe. Moscow has leaned heavily on the red organizations of these two important countries.

Reds Call Strike

The Italian strike was called by Communist leaders ostensibly to protest the death of two peasants in fights with police growing out of invasions of farmlands by squatters. However, the proclaimed purpose of the move was of small moment.

The real importance rested in the demonstration that the Italian public no longer runs for cover when the reds crack the whip. This transformation has taken place under Premier De Gasperi since his Christian Democrats defeated the Communists in the 1948 election.

Coincident with this of course has been the development of the grave conflict between the Kremlin and Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia.

Discontent Is Seen

So we find the Communist offensive held along a line from north to south through central Europe. But that isn't the whole story by a long shot, for there is bitter discontent among the Russian satellite states. Wholesale purges and liquidations are being carried out in most of these eastern European countries. The situation is particularly tense in Poland and Czechoslovakia, but Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria also are having their troubles with disaffection.

Definitely the tide has turned in the European cold war. However, while that is a matter of extreme gratification it needn't encourage complacence. One of Moscow's chief aims has been to produce economic chaos among the democratic nations, and she has succeeded to an extent which likely far exceeds her expectations.

WASHINGTON MISSIVES IN GROUP

$100,000 Collection Of Letters Placed On Display In Chicago

By SEYMOUR R. APPLEBLOOD
INS Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Highly valuable letters written by hands that helped shape the world's destiny are on display today in a Chicago bookshop.

Valued At $100,000

Newman, a noted authority on Lincolnalia and authenticity of old letters, places a total value of $100,000 on his newly-acquired set of messages from great men of the past.

The most prized letter—valued at $5,000—is one written by the first president of the United States shortly before his death in December, 1799. Dated Oct. 26, 1799, it is addressed to Mrs. Annie Stockton, widow of Richard Stockton, a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Another letter by Washington, dated June 20, 1799, and addressed to a book agent, Lt. Col. Smith, reveals a Yankee thrift. Washington wrote:

". . . As it will be a considerable purchase I may therefore hope to get them on better terms than the common retail price of a single book or two."

Lincoln Letter Revealed

A letter written by Abraham Lincoln on Dec. 16, 1863, to an obscure politician who sought a promotion to captain for one of his constituents, gave a reply characteristic of the fairness of the "great emancipator."

Telling the politician, a W. C. Snethen, to put himself and his constituent in the place of a first lieutenant deserving the promotion, Lindoln wrote:

"If I should say, 'stand back sir; I want that place for an outsider,' what would you and he think of it? And yet that is precisely the way you now ask me to treat some other lieutenant. I suppose you have not thought of this."

The letter was written three weeks after the Gettysburg address.

On Aug. 29, 1862, the day before the bloody second battle of Bull Run—a defeat for the north—President Lincoln anxiously wired Maj. Gen. McClellan, commander of the union forces who was notoriously lax in communicating.

Written on a War department telegraph blank, the note read:

"What news from direction of Mannassas Junction: What generally?"

One of the few letters written by Lincoln in Chicago was dated Sept. 13, 1857, and addressed to a Chicago banker, Jesse K. Du Bois.

Obviously displeased about Du Bois' manipulation of banking laws, Lincoln took no pains to hide his annoyance. The letter read in part:

"Write me plainly enough to make me understand; and write me soon too, for I am annoyed about it a great deal."

A short note from India's ascetic leader, Gandhi, expressed hpe for the speedy recovery from illness of an old friend from illness.

Another from the inventor, Thomas Edison, introduced an emissary to a South American county who was to purchase material for Edison's then newly-developed incandescent lamp.

Alice Jurist To Take Oath As New Justice On Appeals Court

HOUSTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—Judge L. Broeter of Alice says he expects to take the oath of office early next week as associate justice of the fourth Court of Criminal appeals.

For 15 years, Broeter has been judge of the 79th District court. Governor Allan Shivers appointed him to the appeals court at San Antonio yesterday.

Broeter goes to the court as an associate justice succeeding W. O. Murray of San Antonio, appointed chief justice in the place of Edward W. Smith, retired.

To succeed Broeter on the 79th district bench Shivers appointed Sam G. Reams of Falfurrias. To succeed Reams he named Homer F. Dean, jr., of Alice, now county attorney of Jim Wells county.

Broeter has been under care of a Houston physician since Aug. 29. He said he would take the oath of office here "if it is legally possible." He said he is recovering from his illness "very nicely."

Calling Soviet Hand Is Urged

SEOUL, Korea, Dec. 3 (U.P.) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D., La.) said today that the United States should "call Russia's hand now" instead of pouring more and still more money into economic aid for Communist-threatened countries.

Ellender told the United Press he believes in giving such countries immediate aid and telling them they must get rid of the threat of Communism with such help as they get.

One of the ranking Democrats on the powerful appropriations committee, Ellender made it plain he does not want to cut off aid to these countries. But he deplored what he implied was their use of "the threat of Communism as propaganda" for more U. S. help.

Concerned Over Debt

He did not elaborate on his plea for calling the Soviets' hand but expressed grave concern over the mounting U. S. national debt.

"We have a two-to-six billion dollar debt right now," he said. "With tax losses caused by recent strikes our government's 1949 deficit will be $10,000,000,000.

"Russia is bleeding us white."

Ellender made his remarks shortly after arriving at this South Korean capital following a two-month world tour which carried him and three other members of his party through Europe and most Asiatic countries except China.

While he believes aid must be continued, Ellender made it plain he feared the United States "will be broke before long" if it continues its present spending program to aid countries fighting Communism.

"It's the same story in Siam and in Saigon—it's even true in France and England," Ellender said. "They use the threat of Communism as propaganda to get us to give more aid."

"Some of these countries," he said, "are better off than we are."

Man, Changed From Black To White, Puzzle To Doctors

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3. (INS)—Doctors and attahes at Los Angeles county jail hospital were engrossed today by the strange case of a "man who changed from black to white."

The patient is Charles Howard, 29, who yesterday was sentenced to serve three months in jail for allegedly stealing $64 from a U. S. Marine.

Howard, disclosing details of his amazing transformation—a rarity in medical annals—told newsmen:

Past Color Desired

"My heritage is negro and I wish I had remained a negro."

He said that almost a year ago, a week before last Christmas, he first noticed that his color was changing.

"I felt sick," he said. "Then I noticed that cracks appeared in my skin. They gradually increased in size and became large blisters."

Howard has been in General hospital for the past nine months. Doctors have aided him in his effort to keep from becoming white, but all in vain.

Howard now is almost completely white-skinned, except for smaller darker spots in a few places on his body. His hair, eyebrows and lashes are snow-colored.

The governors are John Bonner (Montana), Frank Carlson (Kansas) who is commission chairman, Earl Long (Louisiana), Allan Shivers (Texas) and Fielding L. Wright (Mississippi). Roy J. Turner, governor of Oklahoma, also may attend.

Trend In Lower Car Costs Seen

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

DETROIT, Dec. 3—Some 1950 model automobiles are going to cost a little less than the current models.

The lower price will result from the reductions being made for some automatic transmissions. The cuts aren't very great—from $25 to $40—but many industry observers see in them evidence of a trend toward lower car prices.

So far automatic transmissions have been confined to cars in the middle and higher price fields. In the last year or two they have become increasingly popular. The demand for them has grown so steadily that Chevrolet and Ford will have them next year.

Demand Great

Chevrolet will announce its device soon after Jan. 1 with presentation of its 1950 models. Ford has disclosed its transmission, developed in cooperation with Borg-Warner, will be ready next summer.

With but one or two exceptions all makes of cars above the low price group now have some form of automatic transmission.

Where they are optional public demand has been so great that relatively few cars have been turned out without them. So the transmission price cuts currently being made amount, in effect, to a reduction in the price of the cars affected.

NATIONAL RECOGNITION GAINED

Woman Faces Busy Schedule In Bringing Christmas To Convicts

BY MARGUERITE HERCULES
Tyler Courier Times Staff
(Written for the Associated Press)

The next few weeks will be busy ones for Mrs. Mittie Watters of San Antonio, who has begun work on her project of bringing Christmas to 6,000 inmates in the Texas state prisons.

Mrs. Watters, a full-time religious worker with the Texas prison system and a member of the National Chaplain's association, has gained national recognition for her efforts to rehabilitate prisoners—especially those who have been classified as incorrigibles.

Yet, she finds extra time for a Christmas party for her "boys and girls."

Parties Are Staged

Last year, she worked for days with trusties at Darrington, Ramsey and Retrieve prisons to decorate for yule-tide parties. There were Christmas trees at each place, gay decorations and more than a thousand gaily wrapped gifts. At Darrington, with materials which she supplied, inmates erected a manger scene 30 feet long and 10 feet wide.

This year, she has already ordered 6,000 cards so each inmate will have a Christmas card to send to someone. She is also assembling decorations and gifts, and she hopes by the time the holidays arrive there will be a gift for everyone.

Prisoners have expressed their gratitude in many ways. One inmate stated that it was the first time in 13 years that he had forgotten who or where he was; a second said that the Yule-tide party had convinced him that there really was a "Jesus of Nazareth;" another was so impressed by a variety-store manger scene that he asked for the three tiny images in it to send to his children in an orphanage.

At Retrieve, where incorrigibles are sent, not a single one was in solitary confinement during Christmas week last year.

Mrs. Waters is a member of the Woodlawn Methodist church in San Antonio, but her efforts are inter-denominational and devoted to both sexes and all ages, races and creeds. She is not employed by the state, nor maintained solely by her church, but is aided by free-will offerings. She has been working with prisoners since 1942.

Prison Manager O. B. Ellis has granted Mrs. Watters the privilege of entering any unit in the Texas prison system and has extended her permission to visit those in solitary confinement and in hospital units. She drives an average of 650 miles a week giving personal counsel and holding group services. She handles approximately 400 pieces of mail each month without secretarial help.

Prior to entering her present work, she was a church organist.

She sent song books, Bibles and stationery to prisoners and made occasional visits to penal institutions for three years before adopting counseling as her lifetime vocation.

The social worker carries a portable organ which she carries with her on her visits. She finds that prisoners love to sing and through spiritual music she finds her way to their inner selves. When a chapel is not available, as is often the case, she sets her organ up in any available space. On the "lower farms," south of Houston, the organ has been set in the prison yard and the inmates have sung through the windows.

When prisoners need help at the time they are paroled, she tries to find them lodging in the Salvation Army, Y.M.C.A., or in cheap rooms until they are able to find employment.

In addition to bringing comfort to the prisoners, she often aids their families through job placement, clothing, food and counseling advice.

Federal Official Says Pensions For Everybody Seem 'Sure Bet'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP).—The government's labor statistics chief said today that pensions for everybody seem a sure bet with "the old and the near-old" making up half the nation's voting population.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of Labor statistics, said many workers between 40 and 60 are "very properly concerned about their bleak economic future once they become branded as 'too old to work.'

"And these two groups — the old and the near-old — are a very potent force in our society today," Clague said in a speech prepared for the Machinery and Allied Products institute.

Hybrid Hen Developed By Henry Wallace Gains Acclaim

PUEBLO, Colo., Dec. 3. (INS) — A hybrid hen developed by Henry A. Wallace, former government bigwig, was given wide acclaim at the Colorado state hospital in Pueblo today.

Manager A. T. Stichweh of the hospital poultry farm, said Henry's hen has been undergoing experimentation for three years at the hospital farm, and has found the Wallace hen lays an average of 239 eggs a year compared with the leghorn's 201 eggs.

He said the hybrid is a sturdier bird and will replace all leghorns at the farm by next year.

Dog Obeys Its Master's Call, Jumping To Death From Roof

The dog leaped and was killed instantly.

Liquor Bootlegging Continues To Be Major Problem For Nation Despite Repeal Of Law

BY WILLIAM KERWIN
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — Sixteen years ago Monday prohibition officially ended and the American public was given a chance to buy legally all the whiskey it wanted, but the one big aim of repeal has not yet been achieved.

Although liquor bootlegging has been toned down considerably, it is still a feature of the American scene.

Operating largely in a 300-mile-wide strip from Georgia to Florida, bootleggers today are raking in an estimated annual "take" of from 50 to 350 million dollars.

Racket Claimed Bad

Although the problem is not as serious as it was during prohibition, the racket is worse now than it ever has been during the postwar period.

It almost has reached the levels of the years just before the war. During the 12 months ended last June 30, moonshining increased 30 per cent over the previous year and the upward trend is continuing.

Officials say that bootleg liquor is "pretty bad" when compared with any other spirits, whether illicit or legitimate, but the main stimulus to the traffic arises from the $9 per gallon tax on alcohol. They point out that profits are tremendous since costs range from 50 cents a gallon.

Government agents in fiscal 1949 seized stills having a daily producing capacity of 224,888 proof gallons as compared with seized still capacity of 173,087 gallons the previous year.

Agents To Continue Active

On the eve of the 16th anniversary of adoption of the 21st amendment, Treasury officials expressed concern over the rise and declared they have ordered a "continuing crackdown" on bootleggers.

No extraordinary measures have been taken but agents of the Treasury's Internal Revenue bureau are running the racketeers in as fast as they catch them.

The war had a lot to do with the recent upswing in the illegal liquor traffic.

Whiskey ingredients had been rationed carefully by the government, making it almost impossible to obtain sizeable quantities of the stuff, and manpower simply was not available to operate the stills.

The end of the emergency changed all this and moonshiners, given practically a free hand to buy materials, went back to work.

Bootlegging has lost most of the ruthless, brute-force techniques it symbolized during the roaring twenties but the aggressiveness has remained.

Use Modern Equipment

Operators of illegal stills are using the most up-to-date equipment and machinery in manufacturing and transporting their product. In some cases, they have worked out ingenious signal devices to get the goods through.

Blow-out proof tires, "sooped-up" vehicles and other mechanisms characterize the operations of the modern moonshiner.

But the battle between the revenuers and the moonshiners is only part of the present-day whisky controversy. There are also the never-ending arguments between the "wets and the drys."

Mississippi and Oklahoma are the only two states in the union which prohibit liquor sales although numerous counties throughout the country have their own prohibition ordnances.

In any case, the "drys", led by the Women's Christian Temperance union, continually have been trying to extend prohibition just as hard as the "wets" have been trying to abolish the laws.

The distilled spirits institute, a whiskey industry group, claims some sort of victory in recent battles with the drys.

It points out that from last January until Nov. 15, seventy-six local areas voted for legal sales while 49 others went into the dry column.

Both sides have used and are using the most skilled methods to get their messages across in areas where whiskey battles are under way.

Their latest clash has been over proposed legislation to control liquor advertising although this controversy has subsided somewhat during the congressional adjournment.

One curious situation involving prohibition has cropped up in Mississippi. In that state, whiskey selling is banned completely but Mississippi still collects on liquor sales.

India will conscript university-trained men and women for its compulsory education project, New Delhi announced.

Kinsey Accused Of Statistical Errors In Widely-Read Report

By ROBERT N. SCHWARTZ
INS Staff Writer

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—A noted statistician charged today that Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey made such serious errors in collecting and evaluating statistics that his famed and controversial report on the sex habits of the American male has little value.

The charge was made by W. Allen Wallis, chairman of the University of Chicago committee on Statistics, in an article published in the current issue of the Journal of the American Statistical association.

Wallis, who during the war was director of the statistical research group in the office of scientific research and development, said of the Kinsey report:

Criticisms Are Listed:

". . . The inadequacies in statistics are such that it is impossible to say that the book has much value beyond its role in opening a broad and important field."

Wallis blasted some of the most startling of Dr. Kinsey's conclusions—such as those describing differences in sex habits in different social classes—as having no statistical basis.

These, he noted, were based on what Dr. Kinsey called "supplementary data"—and there are no facts or figures to back this data.

Another sensational Kinsey charge—that 95 per cent of the American men have indulged in illicit or illegal sex practices—is based on a misapplication of statistical method, said Wallis.

Kinsey Given Credit

He gave the Indiana university botanist credit for a pioneering effort and asserted:

"As a result of Dr. Kinsey's labors it will no doubt be possible at some future date to describe with some assurance the statistical pattern of human behavior."

In getting down to cases, Wallis explained that there are six major aspects to any work of statistical research. Of these, he declared, Dr. Kinsey failed on four.

The first step, Wallis said, is to formulate the problem to be solved with the aid of statistics. He agreed that Dr. Kinsey was on solid ground here and that the whole problem of human sex behavior is worts study.

Dr. Kinsey was on the right track, also, Wallas said, in going to statistics for help. He declared:

"Statistics, properly applied, could present important facts about sex behavior."

Wallis listed these four shortcomings of Dr. Kinsey's monumental study:

1—There is no evidence to show that Dr. Kinsey asked the right questions in the right way; as a matter of fact, the Kinsey method of asking questions is opposed to the accepted techniques advocated by experts in the field.

2—There is no evidence to show that persons questioned are genuinely representative of the American population and without such assurance it is impossible to predict anything about sex behavior of people in general.

3—Dr. Kinsey's sample was geographically limited, since a map in the report showed that nearly half of those interviewed lived in Indiana or four adjoining states. Also, of thos questioned, a far larger proportion are Protestant than is true of the population as a whole.

4—There are numerous errors in the way the figures and results are interpreted. The figures and arithmetic in tables are inconsistent with each other and often so contradictory that no valid conclusions can be drawn from them. There are also errors in analyzing and interpreting the findings as well as in collecting and presenting them.

Drinking And Ulcers Reasons For Stealing Cow, Man Says

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—Harry C. Barton, of Sandy Spring, noticed the cow he just bought seemed homesick. He noticed also that its horns drooped. And he read that a cow with droopy horns had been stolen.

Checking up, sure enough he found that he had bought a stolen cow. He got his money back. The rustler was traced, confessed, and blamed it all on the fact that he had ulcers, seven children and a house that burned down.

"But if it wasn't for drinking, I wouldn't have taken a single cow," he said.

X-Ray Microscope Can Look Into Bar Of Steel Or Candy

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3 (AP) — General Electric company today disclosed production of an x-ray microscope that can show the inside of things through which light cannot pass.

In other words: it can look into a bar of steel or a bar of candy.

The new instrument was shown for the first time at a meeting of the American society for X-ray and Electron diffraction.

Charlys M. Lucht of the G-E research laboratory told the group the x-ray microscope is still in the laboratory stage of development.

But Miss Lucht pointed out it "may result in much sharper images and higher magnifications than are possible using visible light.

The instrument may compete with electron microscopes in the future."

Right now, electron microscopes are the most powerful magnifying instrument in use. These use a beam of electrons rather than light to form an image of materials under study.

Images Magnified

Miss Lucht said the x-ray microscope does not need to be used in a vacuum like the electron microscope.

"Because of this advantage," she said, "it may be possible to examine living materials at much higher magnifications than ever before."

She reported that "clear, sharp x-ray images, magnified 10 times have been produced in the laboratory, and these images have been magnified 10 times further by further by photographic enlargement without serious loss of detail.

So far the x-ray microscope has been used only to study the insides of fine mesh screens. And Miss Lucht says the instruments' ability to reveal tiny details has been excellent.

The instrument consists of an x-ray tube and a pair of curved mirrors. The x-rays strike the mirrors at an angle of less than one-half degree. The mirrors bend the beams in such a way as to cast a magnified x-ray image of the sample on a photographic film.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

DO YOU like fried eggs? If so, you are normal. If not, you are likely to be either neurotic or illiterate. So says science, or specifically, Prof. Richard Wallen of Western Reserve university. Prof. Wallen, who has gone into the matter, reports that while almost every healthy person likes fried eggs, one out of five neurotics and one out of ten illiterates refuse to eat them.

We don't know what this proves—outside of the fact that it must have been an extremely dull year at Western Reserve.

GIVE-AWAY SEATS

SOMETHING NEW has been added to the symphony concerts in Minneapolis, Minn., this year; it's a new kind of give-away. A very complicated service has been set up involving issuance of duplicate tickets for the symphony concerts. Those unable to attend the concerts, because of last minute illness, baby sitter trouble or a change in plans may call a certain telephone number from 7 until 8 o'clock the evening of a concert and know their seats will be turned over to some worthy music student, nurse or G. I. who will be given a chance to hear the symphony free.

This is a project sponsored by the Woman's association of the symphony. Stopping cultural waste of hundreds of seats seemed a good idea.

William A. Harrod will conduct.

The program is as follows:

Overture from "Italians in Algeria" (Rossini); Symphony No. 3 in E Flat, first movement, Allegro Con Brio (Beethoven); "The Enchanted Lake-Ballet Suite," Scene, Dance of the Swans and Hungarian Dance (Tschaikowsky).

Music for Brass Choir and Tympani, Chorale and Fanfare (George Morey), a guest conductor, Dr. George Morey, conductor of North Texas State orchestra; "Introduction and Rondo Capricciosi for Violin and Orchestra" (Saint-Saens), Mr. Pipkin; "Concerto No. 2 in C Minor for Piano and Orchestra," first movement moderato (Rachmaninoff); Miss Colvin; "Orientale" (Cui); "Ave Marie" (Schubert); "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" (Jessel); "Sleigh Ride" (Leroy Anderson).

Miss Colvin, whose home is in Tulsa, has been a scholarship student at NTSC for four years. Mr. Pipkin is concert master for the symphony.

The composition to be directed by Dr. Morey was completed in April 1948 and dedicated to Dr. A. A. Harding, conductor of the University of Illinois Concert band, who was the composer's major professor at that institution. Dr. Harding has been guest conductor with the Texas Tech Summer Band school for the last several years. Both movements are in sonata form, using the fanfare theme as material for their development section.

Tickets are on sale at Adair's Music store and the Varsity Book store at $2.40 for reserved seats and $1.80 for general admission.

Through The Coral Doors

Howdy folks,

We may not have the nippy Christmas weather here, but we've certainly got the Christmas spirit; just look behind that Coral Door at 1202 Ave. N.

The first wonderful gift idea to catch your eye will be a man-size game table with eight chairs of limed oak. This octagon table has sunken trays for each player's chips, ash tray, and refreshments. Don't you know some man of the house is going to enjoy finding this handsome piece under the Christmas tree?

During my visit this week, I found Rosie head-first in a mammoth box of pottery. New patterns and additions to others arrived, including the smart design with the delightful name—Weed! Pottery and china selections seem to head the lists of most hostesses this year. Several of the ladies have already made their choices and Santa's problem is thus solved, knowing the gift is just what they wanted.

Decorators Studio was just as excited as the rest of Lubbock by the all-too-brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. Roland Lee of Washington, D. C. "Pirt" and Roland took a great fancy to the selection of bone china Spode birds at the Studio. A pair of Cardinals in striking colors will certainly make interesting conversation for end tables or with a table center piece.

Bee and Josie have a smart holiday table setting this week. The individual cover consists of a red glass service plate with a hand-painted Greek key in white. In the center of each plate is a smaller plate of silver for the first course. With green goblets and wine glasses plus a tiered arrangement of red, green, and gold balls and magnolia leaves in the center, you have a beautiful table for formal entertaining during the gala season. The girls say they will have a new Christmas setting each week from now until the Big Day. I know you'll want to see each of them.

Decorators Studio is certainly playing Santa Claus to lots of beautiful homes this year. You, like many others, will find the perfect gift for your friends' homes, Aunt Sally's or your own home. We caught a glimse of Dr. John Chalk nosing around for gifts amid gales of laughter as he, Anne, and James compared notes on Paris, London, Venice and all points to the east. Which reminds me, the Studio has received word that Anne and James' French purchases should arrive very shortly!

Must finish my own shopping so until next week . . .

the famed British director, that Western culture has reached its absolute pinnacle in Texas. He shrieks, "Not in any one country—not even on one particular continent—but in Texas!"

He continues: "We're a little sorry Sir Thomas had to go and say that, not that we hold any grudge against the Lone Star State, which we understand is in the union. But those 'Taixuns' already have so much to brag about, and are so completely dedicated to doing it, that Sir Thomas had probably turned their heads for good. Nothing will hold 'em now.

"Next thing you know, Texas will want to adopt England."

Be that as it may, Lubbock will reach its pinnacle of culture here this week with the next four nights dedicated to a musical orgy which covers a Lubbock Symphony orchestra program, appearance of Licia Albanese on the Texas Artists course and presentation of the Boston Grand Opera traveling group.

SCATTERINGS

LICIA ALBANESE (pronounced Lee-chee-ah Alba-nay-say, according to Milton Cross, the music man), who sings in Lubbock Tuesday night, holds a record among opera stars for the longest time on the air, having celebrated her sixth anniversary with the weekly Treasure Hour of Song. . . From what we can learn from the fashion grapevine—and unless over some long weekend the world's leading fashion creators get together and decide upon a change—there will be little or no difference in the fashions of 1950. The slim, yet soft, flattering lines of the past year will be worn, with large pockets, soft shoulders and other lady like details dominating the coats, suits and dresses. . . Long "chandelier" earrings are the newest thing in jewelry and just right for holiday parties.

Girl Scout Troop Has Anniversary Celebration

The fourth birthday of Girl Scout Troop 43 of Roscoe Wilson school was celebrated at a party given Friday in the Raymond Painter home, 3003 Twenty-fourth, by troop committee mothers, Mesdames H. C. Leon, Robert Foster, Holman Hendrix, Lester Jones and Painter.

Troops colors of yellow and green were used in decorating the refreshment table which was laid with a green cloth and arranged with yellow mums, a yellow birthday cake and green punch. Mrs. W. C. Warren, leader, and Mrs. Jack McLaughlin presided at the table. Plate favors were yellow corsages.

Another special guest was Miss Peggy Hess, and other troop members attending were, Sandra Hendrix, Sally Mahon, Linda Leon, Ann Skidmore, Jan McElroy, Donna Rae McLaughlin and Gail Carner.

Members of the 1928 luncheon club met Thursday at the Hilton hotel. Following a turkey dinner, bridge was played. Mrs. James H. Milam, a guest, won the prize for high score.

Vows Read In Spur

SPUR, Dec. 3 (Special) — Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Francis Johns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johns, and Billy J. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Anglin, in the Johns' home recently. Rev. C. V Allen performed a double ring ceremony before an improvised altar of carnations and greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a sapphire blue lace dress over taffeta, with pearl gray accessories and a white rosebud corsage. For something old, she wore a pearly necklace belonging to her mother, and for something borrowed, she wore pearl earrings belonging to the bridegroom's mother.

At the reception, the bride's table was laid with a white cutwork cloth and centered with a three tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Arrangements of carnations and white tapers completed the decorations.

For a brief wedding trip, the bride wore a three piece suit of navy blue gabardine with gray accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

Yule Joker Will Have Field Day In The Stores

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Those screamingly funny types who delight in such things as sneeze powder and exploding cigars no doubt will be pleased by the assortment of gag bar accessories available for Christmas gifts this year.

Biggest news in the field is a little dilly called a "hangover hat" ($2.95 or thereabouts). This is a canvas brim with pockets in it, marked "cvanide," "plasma," "aspirin," "ether" and other funny remedies. It carries ear flaps, laughingly designed to shut out noise and labled "no lectures please," blinders for the eyes, and—this is the kicker—a snap-on rubberized ice bag to nestle on the top of the head.

Then there's a bottle-opener, fashioned in metal as a set of false teeth (around two bucks). You screw it on the wall and just watch the folks line up to experiment with it. One catalogue says it will make Grandpa snap his teeth to make sure he's still got them in.

Pranksters probably will like the idea of "bottoms up" glasses, with rounded bottoms so that unhappy guests must toss off all the contents before they can get rid of the things. Quite naturally, someone has painted a nude female form over the nether end of the glassware.

On the other hand, there are cute (?) glasses which light up from concealed batteries when you pick them up. The gag is that you can get "lit up," as they say, so easily, and they are also handy on dark porches and terraces when you can't find your mouth.

There are bottle stoppers which play "How Dry I Am" as they pour a jigger automatically; there are highball glasses fashioned in the female form divine. There are plastic drink stirrers in the shapes of diving maidens.

For party show-offs there is a wide selection of "amusing" aprons, designed for male and female bartenders. The boys' aprons bear such funny legends as "It's on the house, folks," and "Don't stand up while the room is in motion."

Ladies (and men who think they are a scream in women's hats) will adore an apron which gives the wearer an 1890 hourglass figure, and is decorated with such legends as "Let's get tight" around the corselet waist.

There is also (this is from last year) a statuette named Elmer, on one side a smiling moron, and turned around, a two-eyed double-browed monster which might make even a teetotlar feel giddy. In this connection, there are items called "tired highball glasses, which droop and list in all sorts of odd positions, designed to make the drinker believe he's lifted one too many.

Thought of buying some funny bar signs? Well, these are available: "No Opium Smoking in the Living Room." "Watch your hat, coat and wife." and "Guests will kindly bury their own dead."

Harp-Dobyns Marriage Read In Church Saturday Night

Miss Dora Fay Dobyns, 1412-A Tenth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Dobyns of Comanche, Tex., became the bride of Ernest J. Harp of Levelland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Harp of Farmington, N. M., in a double ring ceremony performed at the Central Assembly of God church Saturday night at 8 o'clock. Rev. Scott F. Mitchell and Rev. Earl Walden officiated before a candlelighted altar decorated with white mums and greenery. Candles marked the bridal aisle.

Troy Marshall, pianist, accompanied Miss Evelyn Kelly as she sang "Because" and "Always." At the conclusion of the ceremony, a consecration song was offered.

Given in marriage by her oldest brother, Robert Dobyns of Santa Fe, N. M., the bride wore a white satin dress trimmed in lace. Her veil of imported bridal illusion was adorned with rhinestones and her bouquet was of gardenias and vanda orchids.

Attendants To Bride

Miss Myrtle Church of Waxahachie, maid of honor, wore an orchid taffeta dress fashioned after the bride's. She carried a white gladioli bouquet surrounded by orchid net. The bridesmaids, Miss Gloria Gray of Santa Fe and Miss Dorothy Massey of Dallas, wore blue taffeta and carried pink gladioli. Miss Georgia Caldwell and Velma Sheats lighted candles and Linda Gale Dobyns, sister of the bride, dressed in orchid taffeta, was flower girl.

Cecil Holly served as best man and Bob Goodwin of Gladewater and Billy Laverne Sheats were ushers. The ring bearer was Ronnie Clinton Dobyns of Santa Fe, nephew of the bride.

Wedding guests attended a reception in Navajo room of Hilton hotel after the ceremony. A three tiered cake, topped with pink confection rosebuds, and white candles decorated the bride's table. Parents of the bride and bridegroom, members of the wedding party and Misses Mable Burns and Ruth James assisted with hospitalities.

Out-of-town guests were from Farmington, N. M., Levelland and Littlefield.

Go To Old Mexico

After a wedding trip to El Paso and Old Mexico, the couple will be at home at 1412-A Tenth. For travel, the bride wore a brown suit with blue accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Harp is a graduate of Southwestern Junior college at Waxahachie and works in the commercial department of Southwestern Bell Telephone company. Mr. Harp, a graduate of the University of Colorado, Boulder, is an engineer with Stanolind Oil and Gas company.

Try Fruit And Nut Sauces To Glorify Fruit Cakes

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

This year try a new holiday dessert. Serve your Christmas fruit cake with a wonderwul array of sauces. You can make both the cake and the sauces well in advance—they'll keep beautifully for several weeks.

Both the cake and the sauces are perfect for gifts. The cake may be baked in aluminum foil containers and then simply wrapped with ribbon. The sauces can be packed in covered containers—the latter to double for refrigerator jars later on.

CHRISTMAS FRUIT CAKE

Ingredients: 1 cup mincemeat, 3 medium-sized apples (peeled and cored), 1 cup raisins, ¾ cup candied cherries, 2 ounces citron, 1 cup orange juice, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon ginger, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs (well beaten) ½ cup molases, 1-3 cup butter or vitaminized margarine (melted), 2 teaspoons sherry flavoring, 2 teaspoons brandy flavoring.

Method: Put mincemeat, apples, raisins, cherries, and citron through a coarse grinder and stir in ½ cup of the orange juice. Mix and sift the flour, baking powder, salt, cinnamon, ginger, nutmeg and sugar. Mix the eggs and molases together; heat the remaining ½ cup orange juice and add; gradually beat in the melted butter or margarine. Add sifted dry ingredients and stir until smooth. Fold in fruit and flavorings. Pour into 2 well-greased glass or metal 1-quart size loaf or round pans. Bake in a moderate (350 F.) oven for 1½ to 2 hours.

ORANGE CITRON SAUCE

Ingredients: 2 tablespoons butter or vitaminized margarine, 1 cup confectioners' sugar, 2 tablespoons finely chopped citron, 1 tablespoon orange juice, ¼ teaspoon orange flavoring, dash of salt.

Method: Cream the butter or margarine; gradually blend in the sugar add the citron, orange juice, flavoring and salt and mix well.

A bright felt hat that's gone out of style offers fine raw material to use in making bedroom slippers, children's headwear, colorful change purses, belts, mittens of other Christmas gifts.

This season's Christmas cards unfold a flock of surprises: greetings cord-strung spell out "Merry Christmas," open to make a Santa Claus mask or a man-sized Christmas sock to hang from a mantel. Barney Tobey's humorous Santa (lower right) and full-color reproductions of great paintings, such as Tiepolo's "Madonna of the Goldfinch," typify artists' contributions. New folding album, as shown (center) is designed to serve as home portfolio for cherished cards and show-case for greetings.

A MAGICIAN'S cuff won't yield more mystifying tricks than Christmas greeting cards do this year.

Strung on cords like necklaces, cards spell "Merry Christmas" across a window or tree one week, "Happy New Year" the next. Some cards open up to make Santa Claus masks and fun-making hats that will come in handy on New Year's Eve. Other cards unfold to make man-sized Christmas socks to hang from a mantel.

More tricks in the cards are Santas, sleighs and gleeful cherubs that oscillate or leap out from coiled springs or buttons of bouncy sponge rubber.

Humor that calls for more discernment comes from cards that show Santa Claus dictating his replies to Christmas letters by dictaphone, or Santa stretched out on a couch, getting the works from a psychoanalyst.

This last example of fine humor is a contribution made by famed Barney Tobey, one of the designers and illustrators group which this year is extending the scope of good taste in Christmas cards. Full-color reproductions from the famous American artist group also enrich the art of Christmas cards. Reflecting the Christmas spirit as it was portrayed by the masters are reproductions of paintings from the National Gallery of Art. These reproductions put such classic signatures on cards as Giotto's, Raphael's, El Greco's, Corot's, and Teipolo's.

So that cherished cards may be preserved, card-holder albums make their debut this Christmas. Covered with simulated red leather, one holder telescope to make an album, opens up to provide folders and pockets for displaying as many as 75 cards.

Baptist Departments Plan For Christmas

Mr. Lewis, who is an engineer for Stanolind Oil company, is in Levelland on business, where the family is at home temporarily. Mrs. Lewis is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Norman of Forty-eighth and the sister of Mrs. Elton E. Rodgers, jr., 1611 College Avenue.

Gilbreth Book To Be Reviewed For P-TA

George C. Wolffarth Parent-Teacher association will meet Thursday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock at the school for a review of the book, "Cheaper by the Dozen," (Gilbreth). Mrs. R. P. Miller is to be reviewer.

CHRISTMAS CARD ETIQUETTE

If your Christmas card is engraved or printed never use a nickname. If the card is printed formally and the name is to be at the head of the greeting it should read "Mr. and Mrs. John Richards" wish you Christmas greetings, etc. If the name is to be signed or printed at the end of the greeting it can be less formal. If the husband signs the card, out of courtesy he signs his wife's name first. If cards are printed the wife's name comes first as for instance "Mary and John Richards" unless children are to be listed then father's name comes first and would be signed "John and Mary Richards and Jean and Johnny."

PLAN BANQUET

Color Rinse Highlights Dull Hair

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Women no longer need to deplete their budget or spend endless hours lightening or brightening their hair.

Thanks to a simple powder rinse sealed in a tiny capsule which is poured into the last rinsing water of a shampoo, hair can literally be bathed in color. New tints to choose from include dark amber, tawny brown, copper leaf, ginger, golden, ash and grays that range from silver to "pink fire." When the hair has been thoroughly washed and the color-tint has been applied, a vigorous brushing while still damp will help to bring out even more brilliant highlights.

A personalized kit containing five of the main color tones for blondes, brunettes, brownettes and redheads offer a woman an opportunity to play around with hair-tints until she finds her best shade.

In the kit she'll find the shade that will darken or intensify her natural hair color, or lighten or brighten tresses that have gone drab. By using the rinses available to her in this kit, a woman can banish gray streaks from her hair, or tone down the brassy or "rusty" look of dyed or bleached hair.

There are now 2,337 privately owned corporations in Argentina.

This girl has applied a new color rinse to her hair. A vigorous brushing, while hair is still damp, will bring up brilliant highlights.

Creator Of Comic Strip Dies In Hospital At Daytona Beach

DAYTONA BEACH, Dec. 3 (AP)—Frank Miller, 51, creator of the syndicated comic strip "Barney Baxter," died in a hospital here last night.

Born in Sheldon, Iowa, he worked for the Denver Post and Denver Rocky Mountain News until he began drawing his strip 13 years ago.

Therapist Will Arrive Monday

Representing the culmination of a long search, an occupational therapist will report Monday to the Lubbock Cerebral Palsy Treatment center.

She is Miss Alice M. Billings, who received a bachelor of science degree in occupational therapy in 1946 from Western Michigan college at Kalamazoo, Mich., and since has worked as occupational therapist in the physical medical department at the University of Colorado and at Fitzsimons hospital in Denver.

She is a member of the American Occupational Therapy association and is a nationally registered occupational therapist.

Will Arrive Monday

She will come to Lubbock from Denver, arriving Monday, said Dr. Esther Snell, director of the treatment center and a physical therapist.

Difficulty in locating an occupational therapist to join the staff has arisen from fact there are only about 4,000 trained occupational therapists in the country and an estimated 15,000 are needed.

Miss Billings will work in the functional training room at the treatment center, teaching children practical application of hand skills beginning with such skills as teaching them to dress themselves and feed themselves.

Building Almost Ready

Robert Maxey, chairman of the building committee of the treatment center, has stated the new building being constructed at Thirty-fifth and Ave. N is to be ready by Christmas. The groundbreaking ceremony was conducted Sept. 21.

The treatment center now is operated at 1317 Tenth.

Officials of the center are seeking to locate a speech therapist to join the staff.

Patients are taken to the center from numerous towns in West Texas and several in New Mexico. The last monthly report covering the period from Oct. 23 through Nov. 22 showed a total of 227 cases registered.

Stray Bee In House Causes Trouble For Flower-Grower

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Mrs. W. Wayne LaMar thinks bees in the bonnet might be all right if they would stay there and not go messing around her African violet plants. She told members of the Metropolitan African Violet club she came home the other evening to find a bee "running wild with my 600 African violet plants that are strewn from the basement to the attic."

What happens, of course, is that bees cross-polinate the plants and you don't know what you'll have for the next flower show.

"I had to visit each of my plants and pull off the bloom stems, the feminine part of the flower," Mrs. LaMar said. "And even now I'm not sure I won't come up with some new variety."

Denver Medical Center Helps Texan Secure Doctor In Hurry

DENVER, Dec. 3 (AP)—"My wife is running a fever and I want a doctor. Can you help me?" The caller was a man from Texas. Mrs. Lorene Davoren thumbed through the files at the Denver Medical Society's referral center and gave him the name of a doctor.

The doctor went to the house and found the woman had polio. She was rushed to a hospital. Another day or two and she might have died.

The incident is typical of the 40 calls the center averages each day. Set up by the doctors a year ago, the center received 300 calls the first month. Now about 1,200 persons call each month.

Chemists "Read" Orange Leaves To Analyze Food Needs Of Tree

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Dec. 3 (AP)—They are "reading" orange leaves here, but not the way a fortune teller scans tea leaves. University of California chemists grind up orange leaves and analyze them to see what the plant needs in the way of food.

"You are about to meet a tall, handsome bag of fertilizer," is the forecast for an orange tree that shows it's hungry by what is lacking in its leaves.

Seminole Oilfield Worker And Wife Make Song-Writing Hobby Profitable Business

SEMINOLE, Dec. 3 (Special)—Offhand you wouldn't expect a hardened oilfield worker to be very successful at such things as song writing.

However, Jim L. Jones, a tool pusher with the Parker Drilling company of Seminole, has joined forces with his pretty wife, an accomplished musician, to do just that.

Jones has always liked poetry writing. About a year ago he and Mrs. Jones decided that combining their talents could prove to be an interesting hobby. So they set to and turned out a series of songs with a decided professional touch. Using her musical training, Mrs. Jones dreamed up the tunes while her husband fitted in original lyrics.

To Publish Song

They were so successful that they surprised themselves. Their friends also like the results of their efforts. However, they didn't have too high hopes when they submitted five songs to Matric Music publishers, a Santa Anna, Calif., firm which also operates a recording company.

Sooner than they had hoped, a letter came from Wes McWain, president of the firm. He not only liked their music, he wanted to publish it. And he also sent along publication and recording contracts for one number. The other four are still in the mill in California undergoing the arranging which must come before the finished product is ready for the market.

Recording Made

McWain particularly liked a blues number set to waltz time and entitled, "Dusty Blues." He went so far as to term it one of the most unusual songs ever submitted to our firm." He sent along a copy of a recording of the song which his company had made as a test, using a guitar background with vocalist to give the piece a folk song appeal.

The Joness have accepted a contract for publication royalty and are considering a contract offered by McWain for recording royalty. Another record firm has also expressed an interest in "Dusty Blues" so it shouldn't be too long before it hits the nation's juke boxes, turning a hobby into a profitable undertaking for the Jones family.

Four Other Songs

The other four songs which are being whipped into shape for presentation are "You Must Be Heaven," "Hand Over Hand," "Caldo," and "Gypsy Lou."

Mr. and Mrs. Jones have lived in Seminole for eight years. They share their spare time between their song writing hobby and their two children, Jeannette, 9, and Johnny Jay, 4.

Farm Meetings To Explain 1950 Farm Program To Begin Monday

A series of joint meetings sponsored by the Lubbock County Agricultural Conservation association and the Texas Extension Service will be held in eight Lubbock county communities between now and Dec. 15 to acquaint farmers with the 1950 farm program, County Agent D. W. Sherrill announced Saturday.

Sherrill and Walter Y. Wells, administrative officer of the Lubbock County Production and marketing administration, will be joint hosts in the meetings.

First Monday At Shallowater

First of the meetings will be held Monday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Shallowater clubhouse. Other meetings will be: Tuesday, Dec. 6, Idalou clubhouse; Wed., Dec. 7, Cooper school; Thursday, Dec. 8, Lubbock, Tech stock judging pavilion; Sat., Dec. 10, New Deal school; Monday, Dec. 12, Wolfforth, Frenship school; Tuesday, Dec. 13, Slaton school; and Wednesday, Dec. 14, Roosevelt school.

All the meetings will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Program To Be Explained

A thorough explanation of the cotton allotments and marketing quotas for 1950 will be given at each of the meetings. In addition, an hour of movies on livestock and farming will be shown, Sherrill said.

Refreshments will be served by the Lubbock County Farm Bureau, Glen Hackney, president, has announced.

All farmers and their families, who reside in Lubbock county, are urged to attend the meetings, Sherrill said Saturday.

Veterans Administration Eases Ban Against Guaranty Of Loans

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—The Veterans administration eased its ban against the guaranty of loans for unfinished homes for veterans today.

The agency said a war veteran may occupy the home of his choice even though some outside work, necessarily delayed because of inclement weather, remains to be completed.

At the request of the veteran-buyer, an amount equal to one and one-half times the estimated cost of the unfinished work will be placed in escrow—to guarantee completion—and VA will issue its regular guaranty on the loan.

Heretofore, VA has required a certification that the home was completed before issuing a loan guarantee to the lender.

Glamorize Leftover Dishes And They'll Be Welcomed

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

You may have to do a bit of fussing but you can make leftovers taste really good and not seem like leftovers at all. What could be more attractive than the dish pictured here? And it utilizes a cup of leftover chicken to make a delicious main course for potatoes that form the border of the dish have the chicken added to them and are browned first, then the peas added. The peas are flavored with boiled onion and onion rings used for the garnish. Here's the recipe:

POTATO, CHICKEN AND PEAS

Ingredients: 6 medium-size potatoe's (about 2 pound, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 cup leftover chopped chicken, 1 No. 2 can peas, 1 small onion, (one-half cut in rings, one-half diced).

Method: Cook potatoes and mash, season with salt, milk, butter or margarine; beat until fluffy. Mix in chicken. Make border with potatoes and chicken around shallow casserole or baking dish leaving center to hold peas. Bake in a moderately hot (400 F.) oven for about 20 minutes or until top is flecked with brown. While potatoes are browning, drain liquid from peas into saucepan, add sliced onion and boil rapidly until liquid is reduced to one-half. Add peas, season with extra salt and freshly ground pepper and heat to serving temperature. Remove onion rings; put peas in center of casserole, top with rings. Make 6 servings.

Other good suggestions for leftover meats come from a recently published cookbook called "A Recipe Primer," by Henrietta Fleck (D. C. Heath and Company, Boston, $2.00). The author is chairman of the department of home economics of New York University, so she knows where of she speaks. You will find her book a most reliable and well-organized one—so much so that to use it for everyday meals is like taking a course in basic cookery at home in your own kitchen.

SUGGESTIONS FOR LEFTOVER MEATS

1. Grind meat, shape it into croquettes, fry the croquettes in deep fat, and serve them with a sauce.
2. Chop meat finely, and add diced cold potatoes, chopped onion, and pimiento. Pan-fry for hash, or baked in oven.
3. Cut meat into small pieces. Braise with onion and celery. Add 1 teaspoon curry to every 2 cups of meat.
4. Grind meat. Add seasonings. Roll in catsup and prepared cereal and pan-fry.

The croquettes mention in the first suggestion must, of course, be held together with a very thick white auce; use half as much sauce as meat mixture.

Long-Sought Fugitive Raccoon Caught By Police In Virginia

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Dec. 3 (AP)—Police finally got their mits on a long-sought fugitive who escaped with 12 others last summer.

His mates had all been recaptured shortly after their break for freedom from a railway express car on their way from Florida.

Six cops, four cruisers, and a passerby converged on Number 13, after he was spotted in a tree five blocks from the downtown business district. Now Number 13, too, faces a gloomy future. The raccoon resumed his interrupted journey to a coon hunters' club at St. Alban's W. Va.

Statue Presented To Town By Truman Unveiled Prematurely

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Dec. 3 (U.P.)—A statue of Andrew Jackson, presented to Jackson county, Missouri by President Truman, received an impromptu unveiling.

Police said the muslin cover on the statue was burned sometime during the night. The unveiling was to have been later this month.

Police speculated that the results of a high school basketball game here, President Truman's home town, may have led to the fire. The statue was not damaged.

MAN IN THE STREET FEELS HELPLESS AND HOPELESS

Mr. Average Jap Is Not Very Aggressive These Days; Fears His Land To Suffer If War Comes

BY EARNEST HOBERECHT
United Press Staff Writer

TOKYO, Dec. 3—On this coming anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor, Susuki-san will not be feeling very aggressive. Actually, Mr. Average Japanese Citizen today is on the defensive against the possibility of World War III.

Fear of a new world conflict hangs heavily over the man in the street. Rightly or wrongly, he feels his country would be a battleground once more, and Susuki-san doesn't care for additional atomic bombs.

He feels helpless and sometimes he feels hopeless, having decided that the question of war or peace is out of his hands and that he and his country will have to wait a long time before they will have anything to say about world affairs.

Susuki-san's only hopes of any nature on things beyond the shores of Japan run something like this:

He hopes that he and his countrymen will be permitted to travel abroad in greater numbers, because he thinks that will increase Japan's foreign trade.

Population Growing

He hopes that some Japanese will be permitted to emigrate, because unless foreign trade is expanded far beyond the present level, Japan will not be able to feed her expanding population. It already totals 82,000,000 and is building up at the rate of 1,500,000 more each year.

Deep down inside, Susuki-san feels that he could come closer to licking both the trade and the population problem if left alone to work it out. In other words, he would like to see the occupation ended.

When he has had a couple of drinks and when he is talking to foreign business men or other visitors not connected with the occupation, he will admit that the occupation's "welcome" is beginning to wear thin.

He is ready to admit that the occupation has turned out to be a lot more pleasant than he expected. However, he will suggest that the United States, if it wants Japan's friendship in the future, might be smart in calling the whole thing off as soon as possible.

MacArthur Respected

Susuki-san has great respect for Gen. Douglas MacArthur and regrets that the Russians are holding up the peace treaty that MacArthur has advocated time and again.

He wants Japan to be independent but when he thinks about the American forces leaving, he asks who is going to protect Japan now that her new constituton renounces war and Japan has no army or navy to ward off aggressors.

Right after the war the Emperor let it be known that he wasn't divine and that shook Susuki-san to his roots. Now Susuki-san is taking more and more to the popular- "democratized" Hirohito who now moves around among his people with no governing powers but with increasing appeal as the "symbol of the nation."

Immediately after the war, anything that was American was wonderful. America was the victor and Japan really is the place where nothing succeeds like success.

Today, Susuki-san, like most fad-crazy Japanese, is a little more critical.

He still likes American movies and finds western dancing much to his liking.

Most of the time he tries to treat occupation personnel as tourist. His newspaper never has used the specific Japanese word for "occupation" but always has used a term meaning "temporary advance forces."

The bowing, hissing Japanese so familiar to the first occupation troops is gone. Susuki-san is learning that there are times and places when he can stand up to the foreigners, even to occupation officials.

He works a long day, but actually doesn't do a half day's work by American standards. And by American standards he is underpaid.

Susuki-san is interested in all the talk about democracy, but according to a survey conducted by his newspaper, he doesn't know exactly what it is. So, in most of his daily activities, he continues along his old way of doing.

Girl's Pajama-Clad Body Disappears On Ship Near Australia

LONDON, Dec. 3 (AP)—A withered red rose and a trayful of cigarette stubs were the only clues British authorities had today to the mysterious disappearance of a pretty pajama-clad girl from a south-seas liner.

The girl was 20-year-old Gwenda McCallum of Sydney, Australia, who was last seen in her cabin late on the night of Oct. 30 as the orient liner Orcades steamed from Sydney to Melbourne on its way to London.

When the ship docked here last Wednesday, ministry of transport officials were called to investigate the shipping company's report that Gwenda met "death by disappearance."

Alister Cameron, 30-year-old British civil servant in Fiji, said Miss McCallum came aboard at Sydney without money and stayed "either accidentally or deliberately" until after it sailed. He had met her at a Sydney hotel. He said he paid her fare as far as Melbourne.

Cameron told investigators he stayed with the girl until 1:30 a. m. after accompanying her to her cabin and lending her a pair of pajamas. She was missing the next morning.

Withered Rose Found

Cameron said when he looked into her cabin the next morning, he saw a withered red rose on a long stalk. It had not been there when he was with her the night before and he wondered where anyone had managed to find a red rose.

He said he also noticed an ashtray full of cigarette stubs, "though I do not smoke and while I was with her, neither did Miss McCallum."

The only article missing from the cabin, Cameron said, was the pair of pajamas he had lent the girl.

Jury Gives Amarillo Sheriff Clean Bill

AMARILLO, Dec. 3 (U.P.)—A grand jury report today termed a recent potter county jail break "a result of a mistake in judgment."

The jury released its report last night on the short-lived escape of four prisoners and said, "as in many jailbreak cases, this one occurred as a result of a mistake in judgment."

The reference apparently was to the appointment of Dwight Hoskins, charged with murder, to a trusty's post. Hoskins, officers said, was the leader of the break.

However, the jurymen gave Sheriff Paul Gaither and his department a clean bill of health. They praised the cooperation between Gaither's department and the Amarillo police.

The jury stated it was its belief "that law enforcement has been hampered by the injudicious publication of information dealing with local crimes."

Cactus Plant Survives Bombing, But Loses Bout To Customs Men

SYDNEY, Dec. 3 (AP)—Mrs. Mabel Whitney kept a cactus growing at her Wembley, London, house all through World War II Bombs blew tiles off the roof, and made a mess of the garden. But the cactus survived.

Mrs. Whitney, her husband N. J. Whitney, and their daughter Joyce decided to move to Palmerston North, New Zealand. They left London by plane and took a cutting of their pet cactus with them. But they had to say goodbye to their cactus in Sydney. Customs men destroyed the cutting as a noxious plant.

Cactus — prickly pear here — caused big damage to Australian farming and grazing land by its rapid spread.

Judge Agrees With Policeman's Refusal To "Identify" Whiskey

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP) — Policeman Bernard W. Best was testifying in a bootlegging case. Defense counsel challenged his ability to recognize whisky. He asked Best to take a drink out of a bottle of evidence and tell him whether it was bourbon or rye.

"I can't," replied Best. "I'm on duty and regulations prohibit a policeman from drinking on duty."

"That's right," chimed in Judge Nadine Gallagher, "and besides, I don't want anyone drinking in my court."

Former Conductor's Requests Are Not Honored After Death

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Dr. Hans Kindler, former conductor of the Washington Symphony Orchestra, requested in his will that he be buried "preferably on a hilltop."

"I definitely do not want my body to be handled by undertakers, nor to have it exposed after the second day. Just a few bandages will be sufficient," he wrote. For music at his funeral he wanted the slow movement of the Hayden Quartet in C major (the Gypsy), and "any of the better chorales of Bach."

When he died, his funeral was arranged by undertakers, and the music requested was not played. The Musical Art String Quartet, which he wanted to play, is no longer in existence.

Motorist Might As Well Have Walked

HASTINGS, Neb., Dec. 3. (U.P.)—C. H. Dreher might as well have stayed at home.

He was cruising around in his new car when he noticed he was about out of gas. Optimistically, he thought he could coax the car to a service station.

He couldn't. It conked out about 10 feet short.

When he tried to start the car again, Dreher found his battery was dead.

Still determined, Dreher summoned some men to push his car up the incline.

Crude Oil Production Figures To Be Hit By Additional Cuts

MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, Dec. 3.—Crude production figures can be expected to tumble sharply next week.

Production allowable cutbacks approximately 243,000 barrels daily became effective Thursday in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

It is a sharp contrast to the optimism in September when industry spokesmen said no more cutbacks would be needed to balance supply and demand.

The optimism had brief life and domestic production last week declined 18,650 barrels daily after several consecutive weekly increases.

Gasoline Jumps

Last week's small drop in crude, however, was offset by encouraging declines in refined products stocks.

Gasoline, as is customary at this time of the year, took a jump, but kerosene and light and heavy fuel stocks had their sharpest drop in weeks, despite less crude flowing to refineries.

Bureau of Mines figures report that refined products demand the five weeks ending November 19 was 1.6 per cent below the same 1948 period.

Problems arising from the mild winter last season and its slowness in arriving this year are reflected in the bureau's products demand statistics for the first nine months of the year.

Demand Is Down

Principal products demand was off only 0.9 per cent from 1948, but light fuel was down 8.5 per cent, heavy fuel 2.1, gasoline was up 3.7 per cent.

Another bureau report added fuel to the independent oilman's fight for limitation of foreign crude oil imports.

Foreign oil brought into the United States the first nine months of the year was said tototal 163,039,000 barrels, compared to 133,786,000 last year.

Crude accounted for 111,603,000 barrels of this year's total, against 89,051,000 in 1948.

Import Question Arises

The head of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, the leader in the anti-imports fight, this week left little doubt that the problem will be tossed into Congress' lap again next year.

J. Ed Warren, Midland, Tex., said there is only one hope if the National Petroleum council fails to realize how harmful imports have become to the domestic industry.

He wants the council to find the solution, if possible.

If not, he said, the only hope is to go to Congress.

The Texas company this week opened its $60,000,000 refinery at Eagle Point, N. J.

The plant immediately entered the imports situation in that Texaco officials indicated it will operate on foreign crude.

Solon Visits Venezuela

A Texas congressman is worrying about imports from two points of view.

Back from a visit to Central and South American countries, Rep. Omar Burleson (D-Tex) said:

"The economy of Venezuela is tied up with imports. If there is a drastic reduction in their foreign shipments they will suffer."

Then he added that imports are affecting the United States adversely.

Venezuela supplies a large percentage of foreign oil the independent operators are worrying about.

Another geologist has given his predictions on the future of Texas' Scurry county, the nation's biggest oil strike in nearly 20 years.

J. R. Day, Pan-American Production company, told the West-Central Texas Oil & Gas association:

Scurry Wells Completed

Scurry's current proven reserves approximately 1,000,000,000 barrels.

The county's new oil fields eventually will be linked, forming a producing area about 20 to 25 miles long and five miles wide.

The current 200 producers eventually will total 1250, possibly next year. (Two big producers were completed this week, one at over 2,000 barrels daily, the other 1,000 daily.)

Blood Tests To Find Disease Favored By Texans, Study Shows

By JOE BELDEN
Director, The Texas Poll

AUSTIN, Dec. 3.—Eight out of every ten adults think it is a good idea to give everybody in Texas a blood test for venereal disease.

This is the finding of The Texas Poll in a statewide survey measuring public interest in the campaign against syphilis and gonorrhea. The survey indicates widespread interest among all classes in the population, but especially among women and persons in the higher educational levels.

The fight against syphilis and gonorrhea, which are among the leading communicable diseases in this state, has just been given a boost by Governor Allan Shivers in his proclamation of Dec. 4-11 as "Better Health for Texans Week."

Methods Now Available

"Methods of diagnosis and treatment are at hand to prevent the unnecessary suffering caused by these diseases," the governor pointed out. "All that remains now is to induce the citizens to take advantage of present day knowledge."

Recognizing public education as the key to wiping out venereal disease, the State Health Department has been engaged in a far-flung information campaign during the past two years. With the U. S. Health Service, the department operates free treatment centers for persons who don't have enough to pay private doctors. And it keeps tab on the disease in rural areas with mobile survey units, offering blood tests to volunteer citizens.

Seventy interviewers for The Texas Poll put these two questions to a representative cross section of adults in all parts of the state:

1. "Have you heard or read anything recently about the amount of venereal disease in Texas?"

	% Answering "Yes"
All adults	36
By sex:
Men	32
Women	41
By education:
Adults who finished high school	42
Adults who attended but didn't finish high school	37
Adults who never attended high school	27

2. "Would you favor a program by the State Health Department to give everybody in Texas, including yourself, a blood test for venereal disease?"

	% Answering "Yes"
All adults	82
By sex:
Men	81
Women	83
By education:
Adults who finished high school	87
Adults who attended but didn't finish high school	85
Adults who never attended high school	73

Last year in Texas more than 47,000 cases of syphilis and gonorrhea were reported to the State Health Department. The total was higher than any other communicable disease, excepting influenza and measles.

Two new laws to help stamp out venereal disease were enacted by the Texas Legislature this year. One requires both man woman to have a blood test before being issued a marriage license. The other directs doctors who examine pregnant women to test them for venereal disease.

Communism's Star Wanes As Italy Follows Middle Road

By PHILLIP CLARKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

ROME, Dec. 3.—Local elections indicate Communism's star is growing dimmer in Democratic Italy.

The trend is toward the middle of the road. It follows only three years after Communism's high tide threatened to engulf the struggling new republic and invade all of western Europe.

A government compilation of returns from city and town council elections in the first nine months of 1949 as compared to a similar period in 1946 shows:

Communists and their leftist allies who won 47 per cent of the council seats in 1946, took only 27 per cent in 1949.

Pro-government political forces of the center jumped from nine per cent of the seats in 1946 to 24 per cent in 1949.

Next Election In 1953

The elections fille some 2,400 seats vacated by council resignations or the formation of new local governments. They occurred in all parts of the country, regular council elections are scheduled next year. The next national parliamentary election is in 1953.

A monthly breakdown of the council returns indicated Communist strength began to slip sharply in the spring. This was followed by an admission by Communist party Secretary Pietro Secchia that the party had lost 90,000 members in the previous six months.

Defense Minister Randolfo Pacciardio put Communist party losses at 700,000 during 1948.

Communist boss Palmiro Togliatti, and other leaders sought to prove that any loss in membership was due to a purge of the wavering and more than made up a "tightening of ranks."

Communist leaders are still proud of the 8,025,990 votes—30 per cent of the total—received by the popular front coalition of extreme leftists in the April 1948 general acention. The party's strength then was estimated at 2,250,000—reputedly the biggest Communist party outside Russia.

Reason For Change

Western diplomatic observers believe Communism still is potentially powerful in Italy. But they concede the trend today is away from "ism's".

They attribute Communism's stumble in Italy to:

1. Slow but sure economic recovery under the impetus of nearly a half billion dollars in Marshall plan aid. Italians today are eating better, working more and living better generally.

2. Mounting church opposition highlighted by the Pope's historic excommunication decree last July against Catholics who militantly support Communism. Nearly all Italians are Catholics.

3. Browing appreciation of democratic ways by millions of Italians previously accustomed only to dictatorship.

Many Italians still openly express disappointment at the Lack lustre appearance of their new democracy. They remember the proud days of Mussolini's blackshirts and the fancy trappings of his dictatorship.

But Italy's advance toward recovery appears to be eliminating many of these malcontents. They are becoming convinced democracy is in business to stay.

Meanwhile Italy is ready to crack down even harder in its "get tough" policy with Communists.

Italy's government is made up of men determined to see that democracy gets a square chance. They are tough-fisted when it comes to Communism.

Up to now, only Communist small fry have felt the government's big stick. Many have landed in jail for stirring up riots. Others have been brought to trial for abusing the right of free speech and assembly.

Premier Alcide De Gasperi is moving slowly and cautiously to avoid open strife engineered by Communist hot-heads. In the meantime, Communist sympathizers are being weeded out of police and other armed forces.

Will Italy go so far as to outlaw the Communist party? Most observers think not, at least in the foreseeable future. Politically wise government sources feel such a ban would only drive underground the Communist hard core, which they estimate at perhaps 200,000 strong.

Labor Strikes Possible

So what's left for the Communists? General party strategy, of course, is dictated by Moscow. Observers believe the Communists may try soon to wield their one big legal weapon—labor strikes—in an attempt to cripple transportation and industry.

Such strikes would seek to halt the flow of American armaments for Italy's defense and to cripple industrial recovery.

Communists still control Italy's biggest labor union—the 5,000,000—member General Confederation of Labor (CGIL). But even here, anti-Communists have made inroads through the formation last year of a Free labor Confederation (LCGIL) which opposes political strikes. LCGIL now claims 1,200,000 members.

Communist-led strikes have nearly all failed since the ill-fated 36-hour general nation-wide strike following the attempted assassination of Communist boss Palmiro Togliatti by a Sicilian student on July 14, 1948.

If the strike attack comes, the government appears ready to meet it with stern counter-measures.

Legion Of Honor Awards Given To French Boxer And Violinist

PARIS, Dec. 3. (AP)—France's official journal today announced the posthumous award of chevalier in the Legion of Honor to two famous victims of the French airliner crash in the Azores Oct. 28.

FEAST OF CAROLS SLATED

Schools' Annual Music Program For Holidays Set Three Nights

The Feast of Carols, Christmas musical festivals presented annually by choral groups from the Lubbock Public schools, will be presented on three nights this year, according to Ishmael Hill, assistant superintendent. Mrs. Elois Elliott, coordinator of vocal music in elementary and junior high schools, will be in charge of the three festivals to be presented on December 14, 15 and 16.

Ten schools are scheduled to participate in the first Feast of Carols on Wednesday, December 14, at Senior High school.

Choirs from the following schools will take part: Senior High, Carroll Thompson Junior High, Central Ward, Cottage, McWhorter, Dupre, K. Carter, Sanders, Guadalupe, and Arnett. Mrs. Reuby Rhodes, principal of McWhorter school, and Carl Bailey, principal of Thompson Junior High, will be hosts for the evening.

Hosts for the second program on Thursday, December 15, in the O. L. Slaton Junior High auditorium will be G. E. Dawson, Slaton principal, and Leo J. Warren, principal at Posey elementary school. Other than Slaton and Posey, schools who will participate with choral groups are: Chris Harwell, George R. Bean, George M. Hunt, and the Special School.

The third program on Friday, December 16, is to be presented in the auditorium at J. T. Hutchinson Junior High. Jay Gordon, Hutchinson principal, and Mrs. Ruth Carter, principal at P. F. Brown school, will be hosts. Other schools to participate are: Overton, Roscoe Wilson, and Wolfforth.

Parents and friends are being invited to attend any or all of the programs, Hill said.

Miner Knifed As He Argues About Lewis

PLAINS, Pa., Dec. 3 (AP)—An argument between a miner and his wife as to whether "John L. Lewis is a good man" ended with the husband in the hospital suffering from a knife wound in the abdomen.

Plains police gave this account of the argument between Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans at their home last night:

While the pair discussed the United Mine workers leader, Mrs. Evans was slicing a bun. Mrs. Evans questioned Lewis' wisdom in placing the anthracite miners on three days a week.

Somehow, in the discussion, Evans hit the knife and the blade entered the stomach.

No charges were preferred against Mrs. Evans after policemen Joseph Sherin and James Gavin reported it as an accident.

New Zealand's Prime Minister Peter Fraser To Give Up Post

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Dec. 3. (AP)—Official sources reported today that Prime Minister Peter Fraser will resign his post Wednesday. Fraser's Labor party lost its parliamentary majority in Wednesday's general elections after 14 years in office.

Fraser is scheduled to be succeeded by 56-year-old Sidney George Holland, leader of the victorious Nantionalist party, which won 46 of the 80 seats in the lower parliamentary house. The Nationalists promised to lighten government controls and taxes.

HIGH OLD TIME—Towering refreshments were in order when the Tall Girl Club of Chicago met to celebrate its ninth anniversary. Members June Ruopp and Helen Lukacs had to stretch a bit to cut the six-foot cake baked for the occasion.

Emir Abdel Krim, Old Lion Of Morocco, Plotting Return From 20 Years In Exile

By SAM SOUKI
United Press Staff Writer

CAIRO, Dec. 3. (U.P.)—The old Lion of Morocco is rumbling and pawing the earth again as he lopes through the narrow confine of his gilded cage.

Emir Abdel Krim, that almost legendary figure of Morocco, who fought French and Spanish armies with his Riff warriors in 1925, is living in exile in Egypt, and not liking it.

He came to Egypt in 1947 when he abandoned his ship at Port Said while the French were escorting him from his exile in Reunion Island to France, there to spend his remaining days. But North African nationalists persuaded him to jump ship, and once again take up the cudgels for North African freedom.

Ignored By Arabs

he "old lion," aged by more than 20 years in exile, shuffled through the halls of the Arab League and the Egyptian government, hoping that he would get at least the moral support of his Arab brethren.

But they were all busy with Palestine, and when Palestine ended in defeat, the Emir snorted in disgust at the poor fight and sank into a frustrated silence.

The veteran Riff leader realized that the time was not propitious for any North African campaign, military or political.

Now, two years after the Palestine affair and with the Arabs trying to stage a comeback on the international scene by constructive social and political plans, the old lion is stirring.

He has been meeting people, and preparing a new drive to get better conditions for the North Africans.

Recently Emir Abdel Krim visited Egyptian Premier Hussein Sirry Pasha to thank him for Egypt's support of North Africa at the United Nations. The Emir wants a United Nations inquiry commission to investigate conditions in North Africa.

All indications point to the Emir being determined to carry out some decisive moves in favor of North Africa.

OLDER VOTING GROUPS POWERFUL

Increasing Pension Demands Predicted By Labor Official

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—The government's labor statistics chief said today that pensions for everybody seem a sure bet with "the old and the near-old" making up half the nation's voting population.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, said many workers between 40 and 60 are "very properly concerned about their bleak economic future once they become branded as 'too old to work.'

"And these two groups—the old and the near-old—are a very potent force in our society today," Clague said in a speech prepared for the Machinery and Allied Products Institute.

Influence Is Exerted

"Between them they now account for half the population of voting age and their relative strength is growing each year.

"Because of their mature years and experience they exert moreover a greater than proportionate influence in community affairs and in the councils of labor.

"In a democratic society, responsible to the needs of its citizens, it is almost a truism to state that their voice will be heard, and that their just demands will be met. So much is self evident."

Clague said medical science has boosted the life expectancy of a white male from 48 years in 1900 to about 66 today.

Problem Is Increasing

There are now about 11,000,000 men and women aged 65 or over, or one out of every 13 persons, Clague said. He calculated that 50 years from now, in the year 2000, the number will have increased to 21,500,000, or more than one out of every eight persons.

The problem, he said, has become acute with the rise of the mass production—when we had a largely rural economy, older people simply tapered off activities on the farm; now "much more exacting" job requirements seem to require a complete break from regular vocations.

Clague said the steady growth in number of aging persons seems to leave no question of the need for a pension system. Rather, he said, the question is "how best to meet this need."

His personal choice: Expanding the present social security program, which is financed on an insurance basis by employers and workers. He said industry pension plans can not do the job alone, but can properly supplement social security.

American Red Cross To Teach First Aid Courses In Lubbock

A first aid instructor course will be conducted at 7 o'clock each night from Monday through Friday at Rix Funeral home by Robert H. Lucey, special field representative of the American Red Cross first aid, accident prevention and water safety services from the midwestern area office at St. Louis.

Lucey visits chapters in the Panhandle and South Plains in an advisory capacity and as an instructor. Lubbock county chapter arranged for the course to be conducted this week.

The course for those preparing themselves to teach first aid will be open to persons who have completed Red Cross standard and advanced first aid courses.

Served During War

A class of senior physical education students at Texas Technological college is to take the course.

Lucey, who was a first lieutenant in World war II and served in the Philippines and Japan, joined the Red Cross staff after four years' military service. Prior to military service, he was a salesman for Sears Roebuck & Co. in Bloomington, Ill., where he served as a volunteer first aid and water tended Illinois Wesleyan university at Bloomington and as an safety instructor for the McLean county Red Cross chapter. He atundergraduate was swimming coach and head trainer, with tasks of giving first aid, in case of injuries, and conditioning athletes in swimming, football, basketball, golf, tennis, baseball and track.

Al Kircher, Michigan State's new head basketball coach, was a football, basketball and baseball standout for the Spartans as an undergraduate.

Professional Men May Have Less Time For Themselves

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Doctors, and members of other professions who have very little time to themselves, are going to be mad at Sherman C. Amsden.

Because Amsden is seeing to it that they're going to have less time to themselves. He's president of a new company called Telanserphone, Inc., which is pioneering "a new system of communication" known as Radiopaging.

Radio Receiver Used

It's designed to make certain classes of people, like doctors, available for phone calls even when they're nowhere near a phone. They'll be no more sneaking off to movies or pool halls or out-of-the-way poker games if Amsden has his way.

Each subscriber to the service gets a tiny radio receiver, about the size of a husky cigaret case. It's small enough to be slipped into a man's breast pocket. It weighs only six ounces.

The unit is tuned to Telanserphone's transmitter, KEA627, operating on a high frequency, 43.58 megacycles.

Each subscriber is also given a code number. If the subscriber's office wants to reach him, and can't by telephone, they contact Telanserphone. Out over KEA627 goes an urgent call for the code number.

Of course, the subscriber must flip on his speaker every once in a while to see if he's being paged. If he hears his number, he's supposed to call Telanserphone, and get the message.

The instrument is effective within a 25-mile area, but there are dead spots in subways and tunnels. So there's still an out for the poker playing doctor who wants to get away from it all, even though he's got his receiver in his pocket.

He can always say he's been riding around in tunnels and didn't get the message.

Compensation During Illness Is Planned

CHICAGO, Dec. 3. (U.P.)—State legislatures are giving more attention to wage losses caused by non-occupational illness.

The Research Council for Economic Security reports that although only four states now have compulsory programs for cash payments for sickness, 71 such bills were introduced in 16 state legislatures this year.

Rhode Island, California, New Jersey and New York now have such programs.

The programs in effect porvide for payments ranging from $10 to

The programs in effect provide for payments ranging from $10 to $25 weekly, depending upon past earnings. Exceptions are New Jersay, where the range is from $9 to $22, and New York, which has a $26 maximun Rhode Island grants benefits for all sicknesses including pregnancy and duplication under workmen's compensation up to a combined benefit of 85 per cent of the average weekly wage.

California, New Jersey and New York pay benefits for everything except pregnancy and those illnesses compensable under workmen's compensation.

In all four programs, the employe contributes from ½ to 1 per cent, varying with the states, and the employer makes some contribution.

FINDS THERE'S A LIMIT

FALLS CITY, Neb. (U.P.)—Everyone cheered when Mayor Paul D. Zimmer said during a question and answer club meeting that there won't be any more city tax increases next year. "Because," said the mayor, "we're levying all the law allows now."

Japanese Government Indicates Silk Business May Be Reviving

TOKYO, Dec. 3. (AP)—The Japanese government Foreign Trade corporation for textiles sees signs that the badly-slumped silk business may be reviving. Export contracts for more than 8,500 bales of raw silk were signed in October, a gain of more than 1,000 bales.

Silk men hope exports will reach 10,000 bales a month by the end of the year—but that will still be only one-fifth the pre-war level.

SLY FOX OUTWITTED

DOTHAN, Ala. (U.P.)—The zoo department reported the case of the "sly old" fox outwitted by two St. Bernards. The big dogs chased Reynaud around the pen in relays until he was exhausted, then bottled him up with attacks from opposite quarters. Satisfied at having beaten the fabled smartie, they trotted off.

Formula Worked Out To Handle Church Bazaar Requests

First Lady And Margaret Find Time To Read All Their Mail, Have It Answered

By MARTHA KEARNEY
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — The first lady and Margaret Truman, two of the busiest women in the United States, nevertheless find time to read every letter addressed to them and see that it is answered.

Mrs. Truman not only reads her mail very carefully, but often answers personal letters in longhand. Most of her mail comes from people who want her to know how they feel about various matters.

Most of Margaret's letters come from people who have heard her sing in concerts. They usually just want to say they have enjoyed listening to her.

All mail addressed to the first lady or to Margaret ends up at the White House. There it is sorted out and divided into two groups.

One group goes to Mrs. James M Helm, social secretary of the White House. Mrs. Truman indicates to Mrs. Helm whether she will be able to accept invitations or not. The letters are quickly and graciously answered.

Gets Mail Daily

The second type of letter is forwarded from the White House to Reathel Odum, the diminutive, young secretary to Mrs. Truman. Reathel has been staying with Margaret Truman for about a year-and-a-half now.

But wherever the dark-eyed, dark-haired girl from Benton, Ill., happens to be she gets the mail each day in a White House pouch. She may be with Margaret in their New York City hotel apartment or on tour.

Often the first lady sends instructions with the letters; often Raethel returns them to the White House with a request for guidance in answering them.

All mail, of course, is signed by Mrs. Truman or Margaret as the case may be. The number of letters varies from day to day and week to week. The White House refuses even to estimate how many arrive daily or weekly.

Formula Worked Out

The White House worked out a formula many years ago for answering letters to the first lady asking for articles to be sold for charity at church bazaars. Mrs. Truman observes this formula.

It seems that during the Woodrow Wilson administration Mrs. Helm, who was White House social secretary then as now, found an enormous supply of small etchings of the executive mansion.

She decided they would be a nice substitute for the pocket handkerchiefs which were traditionally sent by the first lady in response to such requests.

The etchings have been mailed to churches requesting such articles ever since—and the supply was so large that it is still holding out. The White House has never needed to order any new ones.

No one now knows who did the etchings or what their original purpose was.

Two Weddings Planned

Mrs. Truman is expected to attend the weddings of two White House aides in the near future.

The first lady plans to return to Washington from Key West, Fla., to be present when Cmdr. Jesse Gay, and aide attached to the presidential yacht Williamsburg, marries Barbara Slingluff at the National Cathedral on Dec. 8.

She then plans to go on to Independence, Mo., with her mother, Mrs. D. W. Wallace, to prepare for the presidential family Christmas there.

The first lady also will almost certainly attend the wedding of Drucie Snyder, daughter of the secretary of the treasury, and White House aide Maj. John E. Horton.

This wedding is scheduled for shortly after Christmas and it has been widely reported that Margaret Truman will act as bridesmaid or maid of honor for her long-time friend and schoolmate.

It is almost certain that the President, too, will go to Drucie's wedding.

Both Cmdr. Gay and Maj. Horton with progress from junior White House aides to senior White House aides after their marriages. The only difference between the two groups is that the junior aides are unmarried.

SPIDERS STUMP SCIENCE

SYDNEY Australia (AP) — The Jenolan Caves in New South Wales, Australia, for long visited by tourists, now promise to yield something new to science — tiny blind spiders, which seem to live on nothing. Other insect life is very rare amidst the stalactites and stalagmites of these mile-ling and 200-feet-deep caves. The spiders build tiny webs, perfectly formed. What for? Science has yet to supply the answer.

Lucky Porker Given Short Term Contract Aiding Circus Clown

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 3 (U.P.) — From the obscurity of a pigsty to the bright lights and spangled tights of Ringling Bros. Circus is the success story of a Memphis porker.

This bundle of talent might have become just another baked ham but the clown, Felix Adler, spotted her wasting her talents on the mid-south mud. She was just a little snow-white, pedigreed Chester White shoat, but to Adler she had personality plus.

Now, instead of being a literal ham, "Miss Memphis," which is the name of this lucky pig, is learning to be Adler's sidekick in his comic routines with the circus and on his winter nightclub circuit.

This "perfect little lady with a marvelous figure" is gaining a repertoire of tricks. She'll dress in spangles and satins, will get a daily olive oil bath, and will have her lips painted in cupid's bows, just like any actress. There'll be simple tricks like squealing at the right times and doing simple acrobatic tricks. But the climax will be when she jumps upon a pedestal and hits some hot musical licks on a cornet.

(The cornet really will be filled with milk. And a midget under the pedestal will give out with the music).

However, the career will be short. In about six months, Miss Memphis will have grown too old to be of further use. Her figure will be gone and she'll wind up retired in the pigsty again.

Center photograph shows a scene from "La Traviata", in which Elvira Helal, soprano is to have the leading role of Violetta. At right is pictured John De Merchant, baritone, in his costume of the bull fighter. He will appear as Escamillo, toreador, a role he has filled many times in this country and Europe.

Background Of Director

Francesco Foti, musical director of the opera company, will be conductor of the orchestra. In "La Traviata," Lousi Raul and Noah Rod will be stage directors, Mario Philippe will be assistant conductor, and Gloria Morgan will be danseuse. In "Carmen", Salvadore Diaz will be stage director, Frank Ramondi will be assistant conductor and Gloria Morgan again will be the ballet dancer.

The conductor was born in Sicily and came to America when a young man. He was a violinist. He soon began conducting and received guidance from the assistant conductor to Toscanini.

Foti founded the Bridgeport Symphony orchestra. He has appeared as conductor in many cities of North and South America and Europe.

Elvira Helal, soprano who will star in "La Traviata" and who originally had been expected to fill the leading role in both operas here, appeared with the Chicago Opera company in 1946 and since has made numerous appearances in this country and Europe. Following the present tour of the company, she will go to Europe to fill engagements. She returned to the United States this fall after filling European engagements.

Toreador Role Studied

John De Merchant, baritone who will sing the role of Escamillo, toreador, in "Carmen", has sung that role many times in this country and Europe. He has made considerable study of the life of the toreador. He spent five years in Spain and received information from Jose Estabe Tores, toreador, which he uses on the stage. The famous Toreador song and many other arias will be sunk in "Carmen".

"La Traviata" was written by Guiseppe Verdi in 1853. Violetta, gravely ill, ignores the precarious state of her health in a ceaseless round of enjoyment. Among her admirers is Alfredo Germont, whose father is annoyed at his son's infatuation and demands that Violetta renounce Alfredo. She promises to do so and writes a farewell letter to him then leaves for festivities at a friend's house. Alfredo, believing she has deserted him for a rival, goes to the house where the ball is being staged, insults Violetta and challenges the baron he believes to be his revival. In the last act, Violetta is in the last stages of illness. Alfredo, told by his father of her sacrifice, enters to ask her pardon, before the tragic ending.

In "Carmen", by Bizet, act one has its setting in a public square in Seveille, as soldiers sing about the passing throng. Don Jose is a corporal of dragoons. The factory bells ring and girls hasten to work. Among them is Carmen, a gypsy who flings a flower at Don Jose.

In the factory, a girl is wounded in a quarrel and her assailant is Carmen. Jose is ordered to take her into custody, which he does. He subsequently unfastens the cords that bind her hands. Carmen escapes. Act two has its setting in a tavern, where Don Jose and Carmen meet after he has served a jail sentence. Act three takes place in a smugglers' rendezvous, where the bull fighter Escamillo arouses jealousy of Don Jose. A bullfight arena is the setting of act four.

Spry Grandmother In California Takes Up Painting Hobby At 90

SANA MONICA, Calif., Dec. 3 (AP)—Move over Grandma Moses. This seashore city has a painting Granny, too. Mrs. Alice Robbins, 90, who "never even thought of going in for art until a few weeks ago," has finished two canvases. And they aren't bad, say admiring local art fanciers.

The nonagenarian's first effort was a landscape copied from a post card; her second a hunting dog.

"I remember so well," she says, "how the dogs used to stand just like that when they pointed to prairie chickens in Minnesota."

Smog, Traffic Fail To Dampen Tourists' Joy In California

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3 (AP) — Despite smog, tangled traffic and Mickey Cohen, the tourists who spend some $4,000,000 annually in Southern California are going home happy, says Don Thomas, director of the All-Year Club.

He learned this by mailing tourist questionnaires after they returned home. The replies showed, hes aid, that the atractions offset any minor irritations.

"Southern California has drawn an average of 3,000,000 visitors a year since the war," Thomas said. "This is nearly twice the prewar figure."

Shoe Company's Board Chairman Is Death Victim In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 3 (UP)—Frank C. Rand, 72, chairman of the board of directors of International Shoe company, died at Barnes hospital here last night.

Rand entered the hospital Nov. 27 and underwent a lung operation two days later.

He was chairman of the trustees of the hospital in which he died and was recognized as one of the great American benefactors of health and hospitals. He recently was honored for his work in that field by the American Hospital association.

Rand started as a shoe salesman more than 50 years ago and rose to president of International Shoe in 1916. He held that position until 1930 when he became chairman of the board.

His wife died in 1942. He is survived by four sons and two daughters.

STUDY OF ATOMIC ENERGY LEGISLATION BACKED

Texas Solon Opposes Giving More Information On Atomic Program Until Regulations Are Changed

By SARAH McCLENDON
Avalanche-Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 — The most debated question in Washington now is whether or not more information about atomic energy should be given to the public.

Rep. Paul J. Kilday, San Antonio, member of the Joint Senate-House committee on Atomic Energy, says absolutely not—at least not until the law has been changed.

Kilday says the present law forbids giving out information and that members of the Joint Committee are bound by it just as much as any official of the Atomic Energy Commission or private citizen.

"Usually congressmen are not bound to keep quiet and speak out freely on their own responsibility," says Kilday, "but the Atomic Energy Act makes no exception, and until the act should be changed, members of the joint committee and any other persons should keep quiet."

New Study Is Favored

Kilday, however, is highly in favor of the Congress taking a new look at the whole question of atomic energy during the next session.

"It might be well for us to restudy and re-evaluate the Atomic Energy act in the light of new concepts and additional information about foreign governments."

Kilday points out that the Atomic Energy act states that no information as to industry or medicine shall be delivered to any foreign country until congress has established that military security has been sufficiently provided for. Other provisions of the Act strictly forbid disclosing information about the atomic energy program.

It is of course up to the Atomic Energy Commission to classify their own information, that is, to decide what is secret and what may be discussed or what may be given out for publication.

Release of information about medicine does not apply to radioisotopes, called the most useful research tool for biology and medicine since discovery of the microscope, Kilday said. Radioisotopes are now being distributed by the AEC to laboratories in the U. S. and 22 foreign countries.

Some Changes Indicated

Kilday was asked if he favored retaining information which might be of value to industry and medicine. He replied: "I think that is one of the questions which should be considered in re-studying the whole law and the subject of atomic energy."

Asked if he would favor such amendments if they come up, he said: "I know now of no specific plan to amend the act. I don't know whether I'd be willing or not. I'd have to examine the proposal.

"I have been in favor of more or less secrecy. Our concept up to now has been to maintain all of our secrets for ourselves. In view of the fact Russia has the bomb, we might do well to restudy the whole question of atomic energy.

"But so long as we have any advantage by maintaining secrecy, we ought to maintain that advantage.

"And so long as we have the policy of secrecy, it should be observed faithfully."

Committee Has Own Power

Whatever is attempted in the way of revision of present laws will depend upon action of the Joint Atomic Energy committee. This committee is really unique. Other joint committees cannot recommend. They can only make reports but these reports are then referred to the standing committee in either house pertaining to that subject. The committee on Atomic Energy is a standing joint committee.

As regards secrecy, Kilday is one who practices what he preaches. Ever since he has been on the committee, he has consistently declined to give out information either on or off the record.

In fact, Kilday has a reputation for taking his public service seriously. He does not speak out often and is careful to say something only when he feels that he has some worthwhile comment to make. As a member of the House Armed Services committee he virtually wrote the draft act, but not until after he and his wife had spent the night talking over what effect its provisions would have on American homes and how it would interrupt education of youth in this country. He also wrote the military pay raise bill.

Frequently invited to conferences with military top brass, as well as to their cocktail parties, Kilday comes back to his desk in the House Office building and keeps mum, often to the despair of inquiring reporters, who are seeking to find "leaks." He has one invariable rule—he never repeats what he hears at a cocktail party. Most Washington does.

Texans Visit UN Meeting

Ever had a hankering to drop in on the United Nations meetings when visiting in New York City? Some Texans have done so. One from East Texas, Mrs. Sam R. Greer of Tyler, did a particularly thorough job of it one time and is now lecturing to her home town womenfolk about what she learned. Another very capable woman observer, Mrs. Kate George, secretary to Rep. Ken Regan of the 16th district, attended sessions recently. For the benefit of those who might like to go, Mrs. George tells just how to go about getting in.

At 44th and Fifth avenue, a voluteer group of women are ready to help give out information and directions to any one who wants them. "They were some of the nicest women I've ever met," said Mrs. George. Then there is a U. S. office at No. 2 Park avenue where a limousine is ready to take out federal employes and officials to Lake Success. Plenary sessions of the NUN are held some 10 miles away at Flushing. This is another reason why officials there are waiting so eagerly for their new headquarters to be completed in downtown New York.

"It is an inspiring thing to visit and see the earnestness with which every one is at work, also to see the eagerness with which news from the meeting is awaited by the world," said Mrs. George. "It inspires and arouses hope for the future for a world of peace."

Meetings Are Costly

Gleanings from the Food and Agriculture Conference, currently meeting here . . . European nations did not want to have the FAO headquarters in this country because they cannot afford the dollas that it takes for visiting delegates to live on. The Holy See had five observers. Said Rev. Jean Serve, S. J., Paris, who is now a professor at Catholic University, "The Holy Father takes great interest in the problems of the Food and Agriculture Organization." . . . John D. Hourihane, medical inspector, Department of Health, Ireland: "My country is turning out a lot of well-trained doctors and about seve nout of 10 of them are going abroad to work. We furnish many for Great Britain . . . We have dispensaries to serve the 'poor', and the word 'poor' is never specifically defined, so that we give the people the benefit of the doubt" . . . "Devaluing the pound and the mark has helped Finland somewhat," said Professor Eino Saari, head of Finland's College of Forestry.

Seeks Latin Post

A Texan, William E. Dunn, retired on Dec. 1 from U. S. foreign service after many years in Latin America, after the State Department refused requests from Senator Tom Connally, Speaker Rayburn and others to name him as an ambassador to a Latin American country. Dunn aspired to the Guatemala post. "What, is Tom Connally going to keep on naming Texans to that post?" demanded State Department officials. Dean E. V. Kyle of College Station was the last Texan named there.

Dunn has now set himself up as a consultant for Latin American problems with offices in Washington. From this vantage point, he still intends to press for that Latin American ambassadorial post.

Rep. John Lyle, Corpus Christi, is highly pleased with the reception which he cooked up in his home town recenty for Speaker Sam Rayburn of Bonham. Lyle counted two U. S. senators from Texas, seven congressmen and Air Force Secretary Stuart Symington as well as thousands of just plain folks who brought their children to get a piece of cake and cup of coffee.

Don Otten and Mac Otten of the Tri-City Blackhawks are the only brother teammates in the National Basketball Association.

Waste Of Sugar Cane Deplored

HONOLULU, Dec. 3. (AP)—An island scientist says waste sugar cane could cure many of Hawaii's economic ills.

Dr. Leonard D. Baver, director of the Hawaiian sugar planters association experiment station, said the sugar industry could develop within itself Hawaii's third-largest source of income by using the cane it now throws away.

He said can by-products could be used to manufacture such items as a plastic lighter than aluminum with three-fourths the strength of steel.

Job Shortage Considered

He said with "courage and foresight" Hawaii's sugar industry could develop the new industry which would take care of much of Hawaii's severe job shortage.

Baver said Hawaii could extract from the cane enough potash to fill its own needs. Twenty per cent more cattle could be raised on its ranges by using feed made from cane products, he estimated.

Other products he listed are acids used in production of sulfa drugs, some vitamins, paper, fuel, table top finish and an ingredient for nylon and rayon.

"We have heard much about diversification of Hawaii's industry," he said. "Here we have a chance for the diversification within the sugar industry itself."

Africa Zoo Displays Albino Rhinoceroses

KHARTOUM, Sudan, Dec. 3. (AP)—Paul and Cloe, two rare white rhinecoses, are now on view at the Khartoum Zoo.

The one-horned couple belong to the rarest species of big game in the world. Profesisonal game hunters estimate there are not more than 1,000 rhinoceroses alive in the world today.

It is a near impossibility to capture ar white rhino alive. The roping of Paul and Clos was due to the skill of a 33-year-old professional trapper, Carr Hartley, of Kenya.

Hartley got the rhinos after a hand-fight with one of them which lasted for five minutes.

The pair finally were lassoed and brought in with a motor winch.

Under the softening influence of an expensive diet of maize-meal porridge and sweetened condensed milk th two rhinos became quite sociable. Paul and Cloe got to know many of their regular visitors extremely well, and delighted squeaks would emerge from their huge throats at the approach of a special friend.

Their present value is somewhat above 10,000 pounds sterling (approximately $28,000).

Should any foreign zoo put up an attractive offer for the precious pair, the Sudan government may part with them. The money would go towards the cost of substantial improvements in the Khartoum Zoo.

Breeders Of Turkeys Develop Birds With More White Meat

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP) — That old holiday dinner squabble about the division of the white meat is nearing a peaceable solution, thanks to a "new look" in turkeys.

The turkey, symbol of plenty on the festive board, is definitely changing form. On this year's holiday table will appear a broader-breasted, smaller boned, and finer flavored turkey than any served up since the days of the Pilgrims.

The broader silhouette of the 1949 model of the gobbler is a result of advances in turkey breeding. Turkey farmers, as a result of successfully applying Department of Agriculture discoveries, have been able to produce a plumper bird and to have it ready for the roasting pan in less time.

In the long run, this process of maturing a turkey faster will mean more turkeys at a cheaper price, as the amount of feed needed to raise a full-grown bird is reduced.

Young GOPs Hit Party Policies

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 3 (AP)—A young Republican leader sharply criticized his party's "lethargic" policies today and suggested an infusion of "new methods, new leadership and new spirit."

That proposal was made by John Tope, chairman of the Young Republican national federation, in an address prepared for the Indana Young Republican convention.

Young people, said Tope, "are becoming increasingly dissatisfied over the position which our party and certain of our Republican officeholders are taking in combatting the Democrat drive toward Socialism."

Persons Are Blamed

He said it is too much to expect "that the most conservative of us should sit idly by and see elections lost by default as the result of party machinery being controlled by individuals interested solely in personal benefits, or by individuals incapable of effective leadership.

"Nor should youth be expected to condone party support to the reappearance of leaders out of the past as candidates for local, state or national offices."

Tope mentioned no names in his criticism.

To Energize Party

The young GOP leader said his federation has no intention of becoming a splinter group within the party. Nor does it want to seize control of the party organization.

"Our organization," he said, "is a meeting place for those interested young people who want to help energize the party and to do something about the lethargy which is prevalent within its structure today." He added:

"The time has come when we must assert ourselves in all phases of party activity, which includes not only getting out the vote, but participation in the policy-marking and fund-raising operations of the party . . .

"Our only hope for success lies in a revitalized Republican party. It is up to us to furnish this revialtization through the introduction of new methods, new leadership and new spirit."

Man's List To Starboard Helps Police In Florida Catch Thief

ORLANDO, Fla., Dec. 3. (AP)—One James found out he had better watch his step after this. Picked up by police Lieut. Joe Beach on suspicion in the theft of a $20 bill, James told a convincing story and was released.

As he left headquarters, police noticed he had a slight list to starboard. Closer examination showed the sole of James' left shoe was a bit thicker than the right. The $20 bill was folded under the sole. In jail, James said, "I'd have gotten away if I'd just squatted a little."

Complicated Checking To Be Used In Figuring GI Dividend

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — In business terminology a "card pass" is one computation or one sorting performed on one card by one business machine. It will take 9,526,000,000 such card passes to figure out the dividends which veterans get next January on their GI insurance.

The paymand of $2.8 billion worth of dividends to 16,000,000 eligible veterans is the biggest and most staggering single bookkeeping job of its kind in history. More than 3200 specially-trained business machine operators and clerks are working night and day on the job in a group of temporary buildings in the shadow of the Lincoln Memorial.

To the great relief of the officials who have been planning this gigantic task for more than three years, the actual work is running smoothly and slightly ahead of schedule.

Job Tremendous

The very size of the job creates some complicated problems which have never before been tackled by business experts. Edward G. Joseph, a government insurance expert from St. Louis who is in charge of the job, admits that even he has difficulty grasping all the details of all the computations performed by the machines.

Here are some facts and figures which give an inkling of the size of the operation:

The master alphabetical file of just one set of cards is a double row of standard filing cabinets more than 3000 yards long. When the job is finished there will be several rows of the same length with cards arranged according to such things as serial number order.

Approximately 621,000 vets named Smith will get refunds. There are 534,000 "Browns." The first four cards in the file are for veterans with the last name of "Aab." The last name in the file is "Zzoellar," of which there is only one. However, these figures apply only to the initial batch of 13,000,000 applicants which have been received. Dividends for 5,000,000 to 10,000,00 policies have not been sought yet.

Changes Numerous

Since the job started a few weeks ago 75,000 basic changes have had to be made on the application cards because of such things as death and change of address. A "basic" change is one that affects the size of the final dividend and to whom and where it is to be sent.

Never before has there been collected together as many individual machine units to do a single job—more than 1500. They are being rented from the International Business Machines Corp. IBM has to keep 50 repairmen on the job day and night to keep the machines working.

Operation Checker

Hundreds of different major machine operations are required on each dividend application card: Seven huge machines, each capable of 2500 computations per minute are kept going constantly just checking each operation to make sure that no cards are lost after each step.

When the time comes for the actual printing of the dividend checks the process will be so fast it will be impossible to select the "first" one printed. Actually about 7000 "firsts" will be printed almost simultaneously.

Here are some of the special headaches on the job:

Because of the size of the machine card, persons who have a first name of more than 10 letters or a last name of more than 15 letters have to have special cards made out for their application on the typewriter. An estimated 800,000 cards will have to be handled in this way.

Several hundred thousand applications list an address "in care of" somebody, which also require special handling.

More than one million checks will have to be accomanied by a detailed statement showing why a certain deduction was made from the dividend for such things as overpayment on other GI benefits.

Three carbon copies of the vouchers for the checks have to be printed as part of the operation for government accounting purposes.

Joseph estimates that the job will have to be kept going at its present rate until about next June before the work-load eases off. The percentage of error will be so small he won't even hazard a guess at it.

Average check will be $175. Biggest will be $528. Smallest possible is 90 cents.

Total cost of the whole job is expected to average out at slightly more than one dollar per check.

Nomadic Movement Reported In Asia

KABUL, Aghanistan, Dec. 3. (AP)—One of the world's few remaining nomadic movements is taking place in Afghanistan, where long camel caravans are leaving the cold grasslands of central Asia for the warm plains of Pakistan. The migrants are the Kuchis, who travel thousands of miles each year accompanied by ill-tempered bactrian camels and patient donkeys.

At the head of each caravan strides the patriarch, with lengthy beard, loose turban, and flowing robes. Only a modern rifle shows the influence of a newer world. At his back follow camels, fastened nose to tail and piled high with goods, chickens, and children. In the rear come the women, tall, hawk-faced, with flashing eyes and ready tongues. Around the caravan, the youngsters play, accompanied by ferocious crop-eared dogs.

At night, the caravans cluster in tiny camps under the peaks of the Hindu Kush. Black felt tents arise. The smoke of camel thorn fires mingles with the smell of roasting mutton. From the nearby highway may come the hum of a passing car but to the Kuchis life goes on in its placid and ancient way.

TOO OLD-FASHIONED

WHEELING, W. Va., (U.P.)—The county jail had to get a new soup kettle because prisoners complained of getting splinters in their stew. The previous kettle was a 74-year-old wooden one installed when the jail was built.

LEADER WHO "CAN DO NO WRONG" OUT-CZARING THE CZARS

Stalin At Age Of 70 Reigning Supreme In Worship Of World's Communists

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Joseph Stalin, most powerful dictator in modern history, reaches on December 21 the three-score years and ten allotted to mortal men by the Bible he rejects.

STALIN

At 70 he has become the symbol of a cult, fanatically worshipped by the world's Communists as a leader who can do no wrong. By these Communists, in lands they control through his power, Stalin will be hailed as "wise leader and greatest master of the working millions," the "shining star" of the world, the "glorious leader of the Soviet people and the world peace camp."

A niagara of gifts and tributes will descend upon the Kremlin from the satellite countries and from Communists of the non-satellite world. Russia itself, hermetically sealed from the outside world for a quarter of a century, has generations who will hail him as savior, protector and the only ruler they ever knew.

Generalissimo Joseph Stalin, premier of the U.S.S.R. and secretary-general of the all-union Communist party (Bolshevik) was a descendant of serfs. He plodded, schemed and clawed his way to a reign beside which the power of storied autocrats paled into insignificance.

Led Life Of Intrigue

His greatest assets were a charmed life and a superhuman capacity for work. His was a life of never-ending intrigue and fantastic paradoxes, and it has had as much effect upon world history as any life in modern civilization. Besides him, Adolf Hitler was an amateur at territorial expansion.

Stalin was born Joseph Vissarionovitch Djugashvili at Gori, Georgia, Dec. 21, 1879. His father, Vissarion Ivanovitch Djugashvili, was an unsuccessful shoemaker. His mother, Ekaterina Georgievna, was the daughter of a serf. When Joseph—whom she tenderly called "Little Soso"—came into the world, his mother dedicated him to God. When his father died, she slaved to send him to a seminary which he fled as a youth because of what he called its "Jusuitical discipline."

In and out of jail and exile many times, frequently in hiding from the Okhrana, the Czar's dreaded secret police, Stalin used many names. Among them were Ivanovitch, his father's middle name, Nirharadze and Koba. He first used the party name Stalin—man of steel—in 1913.

Today his portrait hangs in almost every home and building in Russia. His statue stands in thousands of squares in communities throughout the land. His speeches and published works are hailed as the authoritative revelation of Marxist-Leninist truth, and thus the prime guides to Soviet living. His writings have been published in tens of millions of copies. The authoritative edition of his collected works has gone through 11 volumes, with more to come.

In Russia, the decade birthdays of leading citizens are occasions for special honors. What honors are due now it is hard to guess, since Stalin has them all. Unquestionably, however, more will be devised for him.

On his 60th birthday in 1939 Stalin was awarded the title of Hero of Socialist Labor, the highest and rarest honor in the U. S. S. R. This was in recognition of "services in the organization of the Bolshevik party, the creation of the Soviet state, the building of socialist society in the U. S. S. R., and the strengthening of friendship between the peoples of the U. S. S. R." at the same time he was elected honorary member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

Great Fetes Planned

On his 70th birthday there will be great celebrating, whipped to enthusiasm by the ever-alert Communist party. But whether Stalin will make a public appearance is conjectural. He is more and more the man of mystery. His public appearances are rare, and this has led to rumors that his health is none too good, despite his Georgian durability.

Stalin's satellite empire is ready to greet him in a variety of ways.

Czechoslovakia's Communists, ruling one of the most recent of the satellite acquisitians, appear eager to show themselves worthy of the master's favor.

This month Czechoslovakia will be treated to a series of "glorious days of thanksgiving." The Prague action committee has arranged "days of Czechoslovak-Soviet friendship" to "make a great manifestation of loyalty and love of the working people to the liberator of our republic and the greatest defender of world peace." Each member of the Soviet-Czech friendship society is assigned to get five new members, as a birthday gift to Stalin.

May Outdo Russians

In some respects the Czechs will outdo even the Russians. Millions of them, from children to ancients, are learning to wirte in Russian as a tribute to Stalin. Some 9,000,000 of them, says the government, signed a gigantic birthday greeting to the man the scroll will call "our shining star."

Czechoslovakia's Communists have collected a mountain of gifts—all the way from vodka glasses to a locomotive and an airplane—to be sent to Stalin. Thousands of workers are giving voluntary extra stakhanovite (shock worker) time to piling up the gifts. So much labor has gone into these "Stalin shifts" that one non-Communist in Prague wryly remarked: "This business is probably going to wreck our five-year plan."

Communists of the Soviet-sponsored east German state, the newest of the satellites, arranged for a birthday train of 70 new cars—one for each of Stalin's years—to tour the countryside for two weeks in quest of birthday gifts. East German workers were ordered to donate an extra hour of toil for the purpose of supplying gifts. Stalin gets all the gifts and the train itself.

Others Join Parade

Hungary's Communists will greet Stalin as "the wise leader and greatest master of the working millions." The government has issued a general appeal to all to celebrate the day. Workers are told to give extra hours in honor of Stalin.

The Hungarian guild of journalists announced cash prizes for the best newspaper pieces about Stalin. Actors were giving extra performances aimed at piling up gifts for Stalin.

Hungarian newspapers reported that many factories and workshops were striving to complete the three-year plan in two in honor of the day.

Romania's Communist central committee and the government announced jointly that the 70th birthday of Stalin would be fittingly celebrated with an elaborate program, not unlike that of Hungary.

Since September in Bulgaria, an unprecedented labor competition has been underway in Stalin's honor and newspapers daily report 1949 goals have been exceeded. Dozens of poets, writers, composers and artists are dedicating their best works to him, including a "Heroic Overture," to be performed for the first time December 21 in symphonic concerts over the country. A statue bearing the inscription "glory to Stalin" is being erected in Sofia's "Park of Liberty."

Millions of Bulgarians have signed an "address of gratitude" and newspapers reported 100,000 young men and women participated in a gigantic athletic festival in Stalin's honor.

Tito Haunts Neighbors

The Bulgarian Soviet societies, with a membership of over a million, announced over 4,000 lectures, 400 exhibits and 250 movie performances on the life and works of Stalin, in addition to pictures, booklets and a campaign for gathering subscribers to Russian newspapers and magazines and Russian language courses.

Poland's workers (Communist) party likewise will celebrate, and so will the Albanian party, though not without nervous looks over their shoulders at the specter of Titoism which is haunting both countries now.

Premier-Marshal Tito's continued existence as the head of Yugoslavia mars the otherwise joyous birthday occasion. However Tito may send greetings to his one-time friend and present foe as he did last year.

In this, his 70th year, Stalin's position is akin to the prophet of a new religion. He is dinned constantly into the ears of the people in Russia and the lands she now controls. Factory workers and farmers are encouraged to write to him—as if in prayer—pledging themselves to work long hours, recounting their successes, their hopes, their complaints, believing that the man in the Kremlin gives personal attention.

Under Stalin's direction, history for the Soviet Union has been rewritten to suit the needs of this new religion, which is neither Marxism, Leninism nor Communism, but Stalinism. He has regimented artists, musicians, writers and scientists into narrow channels he deems safe for home consumption. He has glorified the Russian past in an expression of nationalism violating the principles of internationalism laid down by Karl Marx. He has deemed it necessary to tell the people their forebears invented verything worth inventing, led the world in the arts, performed prodigious feats in battle.

He has demanded unswerving, unquestioning loyalty from Communists in the democratic countries. He has taken an iron grip on the governments of the nations in his sphere.

He has out-czarred the czars he succeeded in the Kremlin.

Absent-Minded Landlord Plants Turnip Greens In Front Yard

JACKSON, Tenn., Dec. 3 (U.P.) — Mrs. Carl J. Mohr an absent-minded landlord who rivals the fabled absent-minded professor.

Mrs. Mohr returned from a vacation to find her front yard covered with sprouting turnip greens. She called her landlord and asked what had been going on in her absence.

The landlord took and turned red with embarrassment.

He had made a little mistake. He had bought turnip seed to plant in his own backyard, and wintergrass seed to plant in the Mohr yard.

"I guess I got 'em mixed," he confessed.

Breakdown Of Blood Vessels Major Health Problem In U. S.

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Staff Writer

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—Blood vessel breakdown is cutting life short for millions because of man's indifference and ignorance.

A prominent Philadelphia heart specialist says the average person doesn't take care of himself. He takes too few baths, eats too much of the wrong foods and generally overstuffs, passes up exercise and doesn't bother to relax.

"That's what really kills people," explains Dr. Edward L. Bortz, past president of the American Medical association. "They wear out their bodies 30 years too soon."

Dangers Are Cited

Dr. Bortz says blood vessel breakdown causes four times as many deaths as cancer. It means that people are just worn out, run down by neglect.

Heart failure, strokes, high blood pressure, varicose veins, coronary thrombosis—all are variations of blood vessel breakdown. Dr. Bortz, 53, bespectacled and partially-bald, thinks he's got the answer—"maybe." He calls it "health conservation."

Preventive medicine, really, is the key to Dr. Bortz's health conservation theory.

"The whole philosophy must be changed from curing people after they get sick to one of keeping people from getting sick at all," he told a reporter.

Where to start? Right in school—in the kindegartens, if possible.

Longer Life Possible

Dr. Bortz—who practices what he preaches—says "the life span of an individual could be lengthened by 30 per cent. He could live to be 100 easily by correct living. Actually the life span today is no longer than in the days of Christ."

Even so, statistics show that the United States is the healthiest nation in the world.

Dr. Bortz points out that in China, Africa and India—where the world's population is the greatest—three out of four infants die within a year after birth.

"That's because the people in those countries do not have the benefit of medical science," explains Dr. Bortz. "They need public health measures."

"In the U. S., Dr. Bortz went on, "people are overfed. If Americans would cut down on eating 50 per cent they'd live longer and be healthier.

"But the average person thinks plenty of food gives him health. That's the mistake, mainly because so much of today's food is fatty. Fats cause most blood vessel breakdown."

Dr. Bortz, chief of medical service at Lankenau hospital, says the diet of an older person generally is deficient in iron, calcium, proteins and vitamin B. This deficiency produces weakness.

In fact, Dr. Rortz reports, "fatigue" is one of the major factors causing accidents, disease and blood vessel breakdown.

"People, even at work, need rest periods every two hours," he says. "Ten minutes of relaxation will work wonders."

Health conservation, he says, should be one of the major projects of every community.

Health means the absence of disease. "There's actually no such thing as good health or bad health. You're either well or sick."

Dr. Bortz adds:

"Eat well and not too much. Rest well. Eliminate well. And get sufficient exercise."

Ocean Floor Slime May Tell Story Of Sedimentary Rocks

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3. (AP) —Green slime from the ocean floor is being sampled to see what went into the rocks on dry land. A scientific survey of the Pacific continental shelf is being carried out by the California Academy of Science in cooperation with the Navy.

The green mud will be analyzed by experts trying to see how sedimentary rocks like limestone were formed ages ago. Samples from 420 feet down to 12,000 were taken.

Town's Council Votes Against Enforcing Gambling Ordinance

WOODSTOCK, Ill., Dec. 3. (AP) —The city council last night voted not to enforce its anti-gambling ordinance.

The vote was four against enforcement, three for.

Action was prepicptated—and accompanied by angry debate—by Dr. W. H. DeWolf, an alderman. He told the council punchboards and fishbowls were reappearing in the city's taverns.

"Either change your ordinance or enforce it," he said.

Mayor Raymond A. Johnson said, "If you enforce it you've got to go all the way and enforce it against bingo games and all the rest."

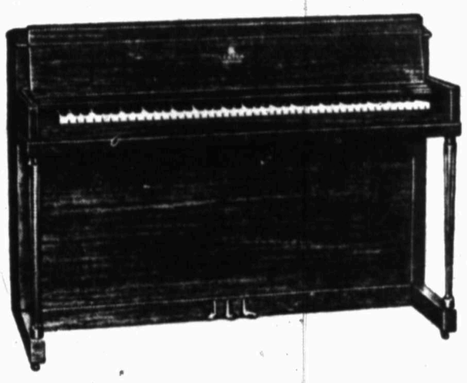

Woodstock is 50 miles northwest of Chicago.

Gaines Well Holds Area Oil Spotlight

Much interest is being focused on a deep wildcat in Southeast Gaines county as it drills ahead in the Mississippian lime, after having already shown for the likely discovery of commercial production from that formation.

The "hot" prospector is Forest Oil corporation and Anderson-Prichard Oil corporation No. 1-A Parmer county school land fee. It is located 15 miles southeast of Seminole and 860 feet from west and 660 feet from south lines of labor 12, league 317, Parmer county school land survey.

The first show for production came in a drillstem test at 12,045-156 feet. That investigation showed for a possible yield of about 14.50 barrels of oil per hour, natural. None of the fluid flowed out of the drill pipe while the tester was in the hole.

Good Gas Show

However, there was a good show of gas and the pressures were encouraging.

The venture then drilled on down to 12,206 feet and circulation of drilling fluid was lost in the soft lime formation.

Drilling was delayed several days while the cavities which were absorbing the fluid were cemented off.

The exploration was drilling ahead at the time this report was prepared and had reached 12,280 feet. The samples from the zone now being penetrated were showing good indications of oil and gas.

The drilling mud is cut with petroleum, and unless the fluid is kept at a rather heavy weight, the project might blow out.

Operators probably will attempt another drillstem test in the near future. Interested observers think that it has already shown sufficient oil and gas to where it could be completed as a producer and discovery.

It was originally started under a permit from the Railroad commission of Texas to drill to 15,000 feet to explore the Ellenburger.

Operator representatives have not revealed what will be done about going on to the original objective if the venture should continue to show good possibilities of making a well from the Mississippian.

Samedan Oil corporation of Tulsa No. 1-E-A Andrews, Ellenburger prospect in the Robertson field of central-south Gaines county, had killed the flow from that horizon, and was preparing to plug back and test in the Devonian.

Should that zone show for commercial production, the well might be completed as a dual producer from the Devonian and from the Ellenburger. A drillstem test in the Devonian showed an oil fill up of 40 barrels of oil per hour. That section tested was from 10,062-10,090 feet.

The development is 15 miles southwest of Seminole and 660 feet from north and west lines of the northeast quarter of section 19, block A-24, psl survey.

New Producer Completed

A new producer for the Flanagan Clear Fork field has been completed by Shell Oil company.

The project, No. 4 Hawkins, located 660 feet from north and east lines of section 8, block A-23, psl survey, reported a 24 hour potential of 517.95 barrels of 38.5 gravity oil. There was no formation water. Gas-oil ratio was 579-1.

Completion was from pay between 7,149 feet and total depth at 7,227 feet. The 5½ inch casing is cemented at 7,115 feet.

The same company staked location for its No. 1 G. H. Coates and C. W. Lee as a stepout on the north side of the Flanagan Clear Fork field.

The new project is to be located 660 feet from south and east lines of section 3, block A-23, psl survey. That makes it 18 miles southwest of Seminole.

Test Is Slated

Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation No. 1 L. R. Nichols, central-west Gaines county prospect, was preparing to re-perforate and test after swabbing water from perforations at 6,390-6,435 feet. Operator squeezed off those perforations to eliminate the water.

On a previous drillstem test that zone showed for oil and no water.

The exploration is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 7, block A-10, psl survey.

Amerada Petroleum corporation No. 1 Breckon, southwest Gaines county wildcat to 6,500 feet, was drilling deeper past 4,100 feet in anhydrite.

The prospector is five miles east of Jal, N. M., and 467 feet from south and 1,113 feet from east lines of section 25, block A-9, psl survey.

Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Wolfe, outpost of the Flanagan field, was swabbing perforations at 7,285-305 feet. In the last 24 hours of swabbing, at the time this report was prepared, operator was swabbing 3 barrels of oil, 2 barrels of basic sediment and 25 barrels of water.

Operator is continuing to swab to test.

The development is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 7, block A-23, psl survey.

Another outpost to the Flanagan field, Magnolia No. 1 Williamson, was bottomed at 7,179 feet and was trying to set a packer to test. The first attempt to set the packer failed. Section to be tested is from 7,130 feet to 7,179 feet.

On a previous swabbing test the well swabbed 44 barrels of oil and five and one-half barrels of water during a 19-hour test.

This operation is 660 feet from north and west lines of the south 480 acres in section 12, block A-23, psl survey.

Another Gaines county prospector, The Los Nietos company and Honolulu Oil corporation No. 2-B Doss, has perforated section at 7,050-7,150 feet and had acidized with 2,500 gallons.

Following the acid treatment, the well swabbed 64 barrels of oil in seven hours, cut with a small amount of acid residue. No water was encountered.

Operator then set a retainer and perforated section at 6,770-940 feet and that section was treated with 1,500 gallons of acid. That zone swabbed an average of ten and one-half barrels of oil per hour, with a shakeout of seven per cent acid residue. No formation water was reported.

Operator is to continue testing perforations in the Clear Fork from 6,770-940 feet.

The well will be completed from both zones within a few days.

No. 2-B Doss, located in the North Riley field, was drilled to the Devonian, but that horizon made only water. It was then plugged back to the Clear Fork.

The prospect is 660 feet from west and 760 feet from south lines of the southeast quarter of section 360, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey.

More Hole Made At Wildcat In Southwest Kent County

Drilling & Exploration company, Inc., of Dallas No. 1 Wilson Connell, Southwest Kent county wildcat to 7,200 feet to test the Pennsylvanian, had reached 5,000 feet and was making more hole.

The venture is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 19, block 5, H&GN survey. That makes it two miles southeast of Polar and three miles southeast of the Polar field where there is some production from the Ellenburger.

In extreme Northeast Kent county, and ten miles southwest of Spur, Ryan, Hays & Burke of San Antonio No. 1 Faustina Kenrly, slated 7,500-foot wildcat, was drilling past 2,200 feet in lime and anhydrite.

The prospector is 660 feet from south and west lines of the southeast quarter of section 57, block 2, H&GN survey.

Indicated Discovery In East Yoakum County Is Deepened

An indicated discovery from the Glorietta-Permian in East Yoakum county, Honolulu No. 1 Paul Cobb, was being deepened further. It was drilling below 7,393 feet in hard dolomite.

This indicated new field opener is to drill to at least 8,000 feet.

It is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 381, block D, John H. Gibson survey. It is 12 miles east of Plains.

Producer Shown In Dawson Area

On the north end of the Spraberry field of Southeast Dawson county, Seaboard Oil company of Delaware No. 8-D-A Robinson, has shown as a new producer.

A two-hour drillstem test in the Spraberry sand from 6,640-6,700 feet showed 2,615 feet of pipe line oil and 85 feet of gas and oil cut drilling fluid.

The prospect was drilled to its present depth of 6,780 feet where two attempts for a drillstem test have failed. It was running surveys at the time this report was prepared.

N. 8-D-A Robinson is 660 feet from north and 1,747.5 feet from west lines of section 37, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey.

The same company's No. 3-D Lee, on the south side of the field, was preparing to shoot pay section from 6,500-6,715 feet and then make production tests.

A drillstem test from 6,712-65 feet showed only 30 feet of drilling mud with no shows.

No. 3-D Lee is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 47, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey.

Deepening In Progress

Seaboard No. 9-D-A Robinson, located 1,980 feet from south and 1,748.2 feet from west lines of section 37, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey, had reached 4,036 feet in lime and shale and was drilling ahead.

It is to try for production from the Spraberry sand, the pay in the Spraberry Deep field.

Deepening was in progress at Seaboard No. 3-D Shafer, another Spraberry project. It was drilling past 5,605 feet in lime.

No. 3-D Shafer is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 48, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey.

Stepout Is Planned

A stepout to production in the Spraberry field has been planned by Seaboard as its No. 1 Stanfield, to be located 660 feet from north and 1,747.5 feet from east lines of section 37, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey.

It is contracted to 7,000 feet. The drillsite is 13¾ miles southeast of Lamesa.

Seaboard has plugged and abandoned its No. 1 Mart Barrow, wildcat three and one-half miles northeast of Lamesa as a failure on a total plugged back depth of about 4,500 feet in the San Andres.

No. 1 Barrow was drilled to the Ellenburger but failed to develop commercial production in any horizon it drilled throught.

No Oil Is Shown In Borden County Test

Amerada Petroleum corporation No. 1 N. C. Von Roeder, southeast Borden county wildcat four miles southwest of production from the Canyon lime reef in the Sharon Ridge field of southwest Scurry county was drilling deeper after getting no shows of oil or gas in the latest drillstem test.

This prospectice discovery, has shown for production from the Canyon reef in a drillstem test from 6,834-75 feet. That interval showed 91 feet of gas cut mud, 92 feet of oil and gas cut mud, 243 feet of heavily oil and gas-cut mud and 30 feet of free oil.

Operator Drills Deeper

Operator then drilled deeper and took a drillstem test from 6,875-910 feet and that interval, a hard streak, showed no signs of oil, gas or water.

Operator is scheduled to drill the prospector a little deeper and test again.

This prospect is 228 feet high the Amerada's No. 1 Canning, a dry hole two miles to the northwest.

No. 1 Von Roeder is at the center of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 103, block 25, H&TC survey.

Don Ameche No. 1 Clayton & Johnson, 10,500-foot wildcat in west central Borden county, four and three-quarter miles northwest of Gail, had reached 8,300 feet in lime and was drilling deeper.

The venture is 660 feet from south and west lines of the northeast quarter of section 30, block 31, T-5-N, TP survey.

Drilling In Lime

Nelson Bunker Hunt, of Dallas, No. 1 Jerry B. Clayton, contracted 8,500-foot prospector ten miles southwest of Gail, and 660 feet from west and 1,980 feet from north lines of the east half of section 42, block 32, TP survey, was drilling more hole below 8,456 feet in lime and shale.

Six miles northeast of the Good field, Seaboard Oil company of Delaware and others No. 1-A Jerry Clayton, had progressed past 3,025 feet in a lime and was making further hole.

It is to drill to at least 8,000 feet to test the Canyon lime, the pay in the Good field.

The operation is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 14, block 32, T-4-N, TP survey.

Ten miles southeast of the Williams Ellenburger field in central Borden county, Bay Petroleum corporation No. 1-A L. A. Pearce was making new hole below 2,222 feet in lime and shale toward its projected depth of 8,200 feet. No. 1-A Pearce is one mile west of Gail, and 660 feet from south and west lines of section 35, block 31, T-5-N, TP survey.

George P. Livermore, and others No. 1 Matthew Baird estate, 8,750-foot Ellenburger wildcat seven miles northeast of Gail, was making new hole after reaching 6,300 feet.

To Test Ellenburger

The drillsite of this wildcat is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 37, block 30, J. H. Gibson survey.

R. S. Brennand, jr., of Midland No. 1 W. D. Everett, wildcat seven miles southwest of Gail and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 7, block 31, T-4-N, TP survey, was continuing to drill deeper past 6,700 feet in lime and chert.

It is contracted to find and test the Ellenburger, expected at around 9,500 feet.

Honolulu Oil corporation No. 1 T. J. Good, wildcat to 8,500 feet in southwest Borden county, 12 miles southwest of Gail, was making new hole past 2,582 feet in lime and chert.

Location of this venture is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 2, block 32, T-3-N, TP survey.

A central-south Borden county wildcat, L. H. Armer of Fort Worth No. 1 L. D. Rodgers, had set 13⅜ inch surface casing at 1,300 feet and was to have begun drilling deeper past 2,320 feet toward its projected depth of 8,500 feet.

No. 1 Rodgers is five miles east of the Vealmoor field of Howard county and 466.6 feet from south and west lines of the north half of section 25, block 32, T-3-N, TP survey.

THIEF IS CONSIDERATE

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 3 (U.P.) — Augusta police have run into an auto thief with manners. They found an abandoned car in downtown Augusta with this note: "This car belongs to Mrs. J. W. Scarvorough, care of Southern Bell Telephone Co., Eastman, Ga. Please let her know."

Cochran County Discovery Seen

A possible discovery from the Mississippian in Central-South Cochran county is continuing to drill deeper toward the Devonian.

The possible new pay opener, Texas Pacific Coal & Oil company No. 5-D Edwards, located 1,650 feet from north and 1,579 feet from west lines of section 13, block L, psl survey, was making new hole below 10,630 feet in Mississippian lime. It has had no further shows from that formation and will drill on to test the Devonian, the pay in the Landon field.

The prospect had a recovery of 6,840 feet o ffluid, 60 per cent oil and 40 per cent drilling mud, in a drillstem test from 10,518-581 feet.

Fluid Is Unloaded

No fluid came to the surface while the tester was open, but when operator started pulling the drill pipe, it began to unload fluid.

No. 5-D Edwards has had more shows from the Mississippian than the three other projects in the Landon area that have drilled through that formation.

If the Devonian fails to produce commercially, the well may be completed from the Mississippian, or there is a possibility that it might be dually completed from the Devonian and from the Mississippian.

Red Cars Should Be Avoided By Peace-Loving Motorists

NEW YORK, Dec. 3. (AP)—Do you dislike having other motorists jockey past you while trying to drive at a safe and steady pace?

If so, don't buy a red car, advises Howard Ketcham, color and design engineer. A test of motorists' reactions showed that drivers are more impatient when trailing a red car because red is the mist stimulating color—hence the greater urge to pass. Cream and yellow colors are also stimulating, while black, blues and greens without yellow undertones are the colors less inciting to the driver in the following car, Mr. Ketcham reports.

Condors learn to fly approximately six months after hatching.

Large Lease Taken By Skelly Company

Skelly Oil company has taken an oil and gas lease on a solid block of 31,000 acres which centers on the common corner of Kent, Dickens, King, and Stonewall counties.

The property is owned by George Beggs Trust Estate of Fort Worth.

No information has been released regarding the consideration. It was learned that no drilling obligation was included in the deal. The lease is to run for ten years.

No Shows Reported By Lynn Area Test

In Southwest Lynn county, H. E. Chiles, jr., and associates of Midland, No. 1 McPherson was drilling below 4,935 feet in lime and shale and has reported no shows up to this time.

It is contracted to 5,200 feet to test the San Andres.

Location is 520 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of the northwest quarter of section 14, block O, H&OB survey. It is three miles north of New Moore.

R. W. and R. S. Anderson of Midland No. 1 R. Clyde Miller, slated 2,600-foot wildcat two and one-half miles southwest of Justiceburg, had reached 1,290 feet and was installing a whipstock so operator can drill around junk in the hole which could not be recovered.

As soon as the operation can be accomplished, operator will continue to deepen the prospector.

No. 1 Miller is 330 feet from south and 1,650 feet from east lines of the north half of section 29, block 6, H&GN survey.

Drilling Continued At Terry Wildcat

In Southeast Terry county, Tide Water Associated Oil company No. 1 J. P. Nystel and others, slated 12,000-foot wildcat to test the Ellenburger, had reached 11,424 feet in lime and chert and was boring deeper.

This prospect has indicated for production from the Pennsylvanian when it recovered 970 feet of clean oil and 270 feet of oil and gas-cut drilling mud in a drillstem test.

No. 1 Nystel is 14 miles south of Brownfield and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 9, block C-38, psl survey. It is four miles east of the Shallow Adair field.

Another Terry county prospector, Amerada Petroleum corporation No. 1 Brownfield, projected to 10,000 feet to test the Pennsylvanian, was drilling below 8,552 feet in lime.

The drillsite is 10 miles southeast of Brownfield and 660 feet from south and east lines of section 26, block 1-A, EL&RR survey.

Truck Numbers Zoom As Officials Study Solution For Jammed Roads

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 — If you're driving your car much these days, you probably think there are more and bigger trucks on the roads than ever before. And the figures amassed by the government and the trucking industry back up your general impression.

In 1941, last-pre-war year, trucks registered in the United States totaled 5,110,000; in 1948 the number had zoomed to 7,555,000. What's more, total truck mileage was up 20 per cent in the same span, while passenger car mileage climbed a bit less than 10 per cent. And in 1948 trucks represented 18.4 per cent of all motor vehicles, an advance over 1941 when they were but 14.7 per cent of the total.

Heavier Trucks Gaining

Then, too, the heavy tractor-trailer combinations are gaining on single-unit trucks in mileage traveled, although they still are outdistanced two to one. In the matter of tonnage, however, truck combinations in 1947 hauled double the volume handled by single-unit carriers, which had the upper hand in the mid-30s.

Together with an increase of some 4,000,000 in passenger cars from 1941 to 1948, this big boost in trucks is clogging the open roads and the key traffic arteries feeding our cities. About every fifth vehicle on the highway is a truck. If it's a heavy, on a straight, flat road it is equal to two passenger cars; in rolling terrain, to four cars; in hilly or mountainous country, to 15.

Food Comes By Truck

Perhaps you'd like to see trucks ruled right off the road. But some 75 large cities get all their milk by truck. Trucks haul 90 per cent of marketed farm products to initial markets, 70 per cent of the livestock received at stockyards, nearly a fourth of U.S. coal output from the mines. They carry 82 per cent of all freight hauled 25 to 100 miles.

Public Roads Administration officials say the only solution to highway congestion is more and wider roads. Experts say a four-lane highway, for example, has a vehicle capacity four to five times greater than a two-lane road in open country. In city areas, an expressway can handle as much traffic as five ordinary streets each 40 feet wide (with parking banned).

Means More Taxes

But better highways cost huge sums and that usually means heavier motor fuel taxes or other charges. And wherever a state has come up with a big highway program involving higher gasoline taxes, the truckers invariably have opposed it.

They admit gas tax costs bear heavily on them. Yet they insist also that most plans being advanced are starry-eyed; they question the wisdom of elaborate engineering studies made in California, Michigan, Ohio and other states. The truckers complain they aren't consulted in the drafting of plans, and say they want planning commissions on which all highway users are well represented.

Bearing Their Share?

Government officials view the truckers' attitude as a reluctance to pay added burdens. PRA experts say truckers thus far are bearing their share of highway costs, if damage caused to roads by overloading is ignored; but they believe truckers should stop fighting new highway taxes tooth and nail.

The issue of overloading is ticklish. Highway engineers say an axle load of 18,000 pounds is the maximum that most present roads can bear. They say long experience and tests prove that greater loads break up highway pavements. Public Roads Commissioner Thomas MacDonald points out, however, that 13 states permit axle loads in excess of 18,000 pounds, and that in 1947, some 35 trucks in every 1,000 carried loads heavier than that.

Deny Roads Being Ruined

Speaking for the truckers, the American Trucking Associations deny trucks are ruining the roads. They say tests up to now have been inconclusive, and cite cases where highways barred to trucks have cracked up badly in spots.

Maybe this controversy will be settled for good by new engineering studies to be conducted under government sponsorship. An answer can't come too soon. For this year road repairs will cost the nation $1,100,000,000 and a large share of the $1,531,000,000 for new roads will actually go for rebuilding of highways battered beyond repair.

Aussie Drys Battle Television In Bars

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 3 (U.P.) —When television comes to Australia, temperance leaders say they will try to stop hotel keepers from installing sets in bars.

They claim television in bars would only attract more people to drink, and are "wholeheartedly" against Australian saloon keepers copying the current American barroom vogue.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union president, Mrs. C. B. Segetin, said members "would do everything they could to stop television in hotels."

The New South Wales Temperance Alliance secretary, O. A. Piggott, said the alliance would investigate the possibility of legal action to stop hotel keepers giving their customers television.

"Television in bars would not only add to drinking, but would attract young people," Piggott said.

QUICK DECREE EXPECTED MONDAY

Shirley Temple's Marriage To Agar To End In Divorce Court

By JAMES PADGITT
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 3.—Shirley Temple, the perennial favorite of millions of film fans who have watched her grow from a dimpled, tousled moppet to a beautiful actress and mother, goes to court Monday to end her "ideal marriage" to handsome John Agar.

The divorce action will not be contested as Agar is on a personal appearance tour in the east and the couple weeks ago ironed out any difficulties attendant to preventing a speedy divorce decree.

SHIRLEY — cruelty — is the basis for the divorce action.

The old Hollywood standby — cruelty — is the basis for the divorce action.

Hollywood Not Surprised

Shirley's announcement two months ago that her marriage to the goodlooking Agar, her leading man in two pictures, was destined to end in the divorce courts struck her millions of movie fans like a thunderbolt.

They always reckoned that Shirley's marriage was "made in Heaven" and that the child actress of yesteryear would never join Hollywood's growing divorcee ranks.

While the divorce action surprised her admirers, the announcement came as little surrise to the film colony.

It was known that things hadn't been going smoothly for the young couple for many months.

It was only since the irst of the year that the two began making the after-dark spots and the big dusk-to-dawn parties in the Beverly Hills mansions of the stars.

In-Law Trouble Hinted

At these occasions, intimates of the couple were quick to notice that Agar frequently spent more time table hopping than being the dutiful mate at his beautiful wife's side.

Then, too, he was a golf expert and his enthusiasm for the game and other sports kept him away from his wife and their baby, Linda Susan, now 22 months old.

Shirley once told International News Service that sometimes "John failed to come home—and that's heartbreaking."

Friends speculated that perhaps in-law trouble had something to do with the breakup of the marriage. Shirley's parents have managed their daughter's career and finances ever since she was knee-high and a box office sensation. The Temples bought a house next door to Shirley's home when she married Agar.

Money Not Responsible

Shirley's success in films, compared to Agar's struggles to get a foothold in the land of make believe, was another angle rumored around the sunset strip and the film factories as still another possible reason for the divorce.

Some gossips reckoned that the 28-year-old war veteran was just plain tired of being labeled "Mr. Shirley Temple."

Money wasn't the root of the trouble. Shirley is worth millions, from shrewd investments of her early film earnings. She also commands a four-figure paycheck week-in and week-out.

Shirley and John Agar were married on Sept. 16, 1945. The star was 17 at the time and Agar was an athletic instructor at a nearby army camp.

Co-Starred In Films

Their marriage stirred fans, for it seemed as if it were only yesterday that Shirley was singing "Baby, Take A Bow," dancing with Bill Robinson in "The Little Colonel," and otherwise portraying the dimpled, smiling moppet.

When Linda Susan was born the star's admirers knew that they were getting old.

Agar made his debut in the movies as a dashing frontier soldier in "Fort Apache." His screen kisses again went to his wife in "Escapade In Baltimore." He was on his own in "I Married A Communist" with Janet Leigh as the object of his affections.

When the divorce was announced, both said that they hoped it would be a quiet and dignified proceeding.

Then the circus began. Next day Singing Actress Kathryn Grayson was kept busy denying reports that her mate, Singer Johnny Johnston, was romantically interested in Shirley.

Rumor Branded False

Johnston announced in New York that the report was "ridiculous" and that when he returned to Hollywood he would "punch a certain actor in the nose."

In her complaint, Shirley asked for custody of her baby. She asked no alimony and no support. It was announced that there was no community property, indicating that the couple kept their earnings separate.

Since the divorce announcement, both Shirley and Agar have kept a discreet silence. Friends hoped that the two might patch up their differences and cancel out the action Monday.

But lawyers for the two indicated today that the suit will be heard on schedule.

Northern Ireland now has 750 farms using electric powder—380 added this year.

Use Of Television In Plants Proposed

AKRON, O., Dec. 3 (U.P.)—Better relations between big bosses and company employes could be cultivated through the use of intra-plant television systems, in the opinion of J. Ward Keener, vice president of B. F. Goodrich.

It employes and plant officials could know each other better, Keener said, an increase in mutual understanding and co-operation would result.

An intra-plant television installation with large screens on which the bosses could be seen and heard by workers in each production department and office area, could help to re-establish "acquaintanceship," he said.

Many employe relations questions might be solved immediately "by televising truths to clarify problems that develop from misinformation, misunderstanding and distrust," Keener added.

California Girl Seeks Marker For Grave

Happiness, Sorrow Shown In Pleas To Santa Claus

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Writer

SANTA HEIM, Md., Dec. 3 — Santa Claus gets more mail than anybody—President Truman, even.

I've been peeking into the jolly old fellow's mail sack at this Washington suburb where Harry Harrison (Santa) Heim is busy making the shiny pretties that go on Christmas trees.

The thousands of letters that come in here are the juvenile literary productions that your kid of mine writes.

Samples Are Revealed

Here are some samples:

"Dear Santa: I think you are a nice man. Will you please come and see me soon and bring me a bride doll with a husband, and anything else you can spare? Thank you. (Signed) Judy."

One little boy named Joe said that his daddy had a stable with nothing in it. Did he want a pony? No. He wanted "a two-wheeler — also a bale or hay.'

The kid didn't explain what he would do with the bale of hay.

One little girl who signed simply "Aletha" said that all she wanted Santa to do for her for Christmas was to drop his bag of toys "this minute" and come running to help her with her homework.

"I don't want anything else," said she.

A little boy who signed himself "Richard Dixon — your old pal" from Reading, Mich., said he had read about Santa at Santa Heim and wished he could be there "to see the tree and things."

Dad Is Sick

"My dad is sick and my mother can't leave to get my presidents. All I will get is from the school and the Scouts and the neibors. Wish I could get more, but know you are busy," the boy wrote.

Some of the letters are a little sassy.

One came from a little girl in Maryland.

She wrote:

"This is the last letter you will resive from me if you do not leave me a doll carpet sweeper. This is final. I love you and why don't you love me?"

One little boy in Texas, who apparently had some prompting from his mother asked, please, for a "pair of pants and a washing machine — and maybe an electric iron."

Wants Grave Marker

One little girl in Arizona didn't ask for anything. All she said was that she was happy that Santa was on his way and coming soon. "I hope you have a nice trip in the snow," she said.

Little Shirley Miller of Monrovia, Cal., wrote hopefully that Santa might get her letter. She said her daddy was sick with a heart attack and there was no money for Christmas. Shirley's been good, she said, and her Mommy is lame. All she wants is a bike for herself and something for her three sisters and five brothers.

Another letter came from a nine-year-old in Toledo, O. It was signed "Sunny" Lupton. The note said:

"I am 9 years old. My sister is 5½. We held a meeting and decided we don't want any presents for Xmas. Sister did want a potty doll, but she will do without it. We want a marker for our daddy's grave. He went too heaven a few months ago and it won't be Xmas without him. He was the best daddy in the world. So please bring us a marker for him. Merry Christmas, Santa!"

Italians Reimbursed On Freighter's Loss

MOBILE, Ala., Dec. 3 (U.P.)—The final chapter in the action-packed career of an Italian freighter, whose hulk now lies somewhere on the bottom of the Atlantic, has been written in federal court here.

The freighter, the Ida Z O, plied the seas on routine trade voyages up until some eight years ago, when it was sabotaged in Mobile Bay just before the United States' entry into World War II.

The Italian crew wrecked the ship's gear and machinery in an effort to prevent its use by the Allied forces.

Later, the government seized and repaired the Ida Z O and put it into service convoying supplies to Allied armies in Europe.

A German torpedo sent the freighter to the bottom during an Atlantic crossing.

The former Italian owners of the ship came into federal court in Mobile after the war and asked that they be compensated for the loss of the freighter.

The United States district attorney filed notice that an American liberty ship had been given to the Italian owners of the Ida Z O, and asked the case be dismissed. The judge granted the request.

Did You Ever Dig 198 Miles Of Ditch?

We Have... This Year

... and put steel pipe in the ditches to carry natural gas to our customers. This is an average of more than one-half mile of pipe line laid a day since the first of the year. Of course, we haven't had to dig all of the ditches by hand—in fact, large ditching machines have been used to do most of the work.

Yet, West Texas Gas Company cannot call it a year's work, because there is still more work to be done . . . this year . . . next year . . . and in years to come.

The 198 miles of new pipe lines represent transmission, distribution and service lines installed the first 10 months of 1949 . . . all of which are designed to make more natural gas available for present customers and provide service for new businesses and home builders.

England Teaching Personnel On Tactics For Atom Bomb Defense

By GERALDINE HILL
United Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 3 (U.P.) — If an atom bomb were dropped on Britain today, few Britons would know how to protect themselves against the devastating effects of the explosion.

Within a few months, however, Britain's home office hopes that several thousand people throughout the country will have been trained in all methods of civil defense, including atomic warfare.

Already war-time civil defense schools have been re-opened at Easingwold, in Yorkshire, and Falfield, near Bristol. Next year a new school will be launched at Taymouth Castle in Scotland.

At these schools instructors are currently training students who in turn will become instructors in civil defense precautions against atomic warfare, ordinary bombing and gas.

Recruiting Started

Recruitment for Britain's new civil defense force started provisionally on Nov. 1. Throughout the country thousands of men and women are expected to volunteer for training for the four defense corps—civil defense corps, auxiliary fire service, national hospital service reserve and special constabulary.

It will be war-time all over again for many of those volunteers, who, using the same stirrup pumps and air raid equipment they used against the German bombs, will be undergoing refresher courses to prepare them for a possible third World War.

New to all of them are the special anti-atom bomb precautions the home office, under the direction of James Chuter Ede, the home secretary, have drawn up for the benefit of every man, woman and child in Britain.

Thousands of printed leaflets giving detailed instructions of the precautions will be distributed to civil defense headquarters throughout Britain.

Instruments Provided

Britons will be instructed in the use of instruments which can detect and measure harmful radiations. They will be taught how to discover and decontaminate areas in which atom bombs have fallen.

They will be shown personnel contamination meters and an instrument shaped like a fountain pen which is the gamma dose indicator.

The "fountain pen" instrument probably will be issued to civil defense leaders but it is not known yet whether they will become a civilian issue.

First aid, basic fire fighting and basic protection against high explosives and chemical warfare are also included in the course of instruction, which is likely to last several months.

The spokesman said that he thought the majority of Britons would undertake instruction from two to three evenings weekly.'

Tobacco Plants Have Twins And Triplets, Expert Says

BERKELEY, Calif., Dec. 3. (AP) —Tobacco plants have twins and triplets, and at about the same rate as people. A seed that will produce two or three seedlings usually happens about once in every thousand, says Dr. D. R. Cameron, University of California geneticist.

Checking some 100,000 seedlings since 1938, Cameron has found 120 twins and 16 triplets.

Civil War Munitions Are Still Dangerous

ATLANTA, Dec. 3 (U.P.) — "The "shooting" phase of the Civil War hasn't ended yet, federal agents warn in a current pamphlet.

As recently as two years ago, two 1865 Minie balls exploded on the site of the destroyed Georgia town of Manassas when a housewife propped her washpot on them and lit a fire.

The shells tore the pot to fragmenuts and damaged the house.

Federal agents also reported that a Pennsylvania farmer was killed near historic Gettysburg when his horse kicked up a shell which had lain just under the soil since Pickett's charge.

The pamphlet warns that Civil War souvenirs, like those of the two world wars, still are as "dangerous as a rattlesnake."

Warnings posted on rusty cannon balls at various Confereate state and national parks say: "Hands off—live ammunition."

The Art Of Living

A BLUEPRINT FOR CONFIDENT LIVING

ONE day not long ago, a shabbily dressed elderly woman appeared at the offices of a great utility company. Shyly, she asked to see the treasurer of the company. His secretary was used to dealing with crackpots; someone was always calling to sell the company some idea or other. She asked the old woman what she wanted.

The old woman haltingly explained that she had been rummaging in her attic, and, exploring some old drawers long unused, she had come across some old papers which looked like stock certificates and she "just wondered" if they were of any value. She was having a hard time getting along on her widow's pension, she explained to the secretary, as she held out a grimy manila envelope stuffed with yellow engraved papers.

It's A Romantic Story

The secretary looked only once at the contents of the envelope and hurried into her boss' office. In a few moments, the treasurer himself appeared and ushered the old woman into his private sanctum. Her "old papers," he explained, were valid stock certificates and worth sixty-five thousand dollars.

It's a romantic story, isn't it? This woman had wealth she didn't know she possessed. She had a hidden fortune.

Would you be surprised if someone told you that you have a hidden fortune? Yet, the truth is that you do have unsuspected values. For, deeply buried in your mind, you have all the wealth and power you need to live a victorious, successful, happy and useful life. All you have to do is to believe and put into operation a simple blueprint of confident living.

ONE of the most successful men I know found his blueprint in a short sentence. He told me that story of how he found it when I visited him in his office at his plant. The office was decorated in the most modern fashion. Gay colors were blended with exotic woods to produce a striking effect. Everything looked new and polished. Yet, on his beautiful desk, the most conspicuous object was a battered old Bible. I commented on this seeming inconsistency.

"That's no inconsistency," he said. "That book is the most up-to-date thing in this plant. Our equipment will wear out and styles in office furniture will change, but that book is so far ahead of us that we can never catch up with it."

Things Didn't Go Well

He went on to tell me that his mother had given him that Bible when he went away to college. Like many youngsters, he took it along to please his mother but hardly ever turned its pages. After he finished college, thing didn't go well for him. He felt he was unpopular and disliked. He roused resentment because he was negative in his thinking, too cocky and opionated.

Then one day he picked up that old Bible and leafed through it. And one sentence seemed to leap up at him from a page and, from then on, he felt his life had been changed. That sentence was, "The Lord is the strength of my life, in this will I be confident."

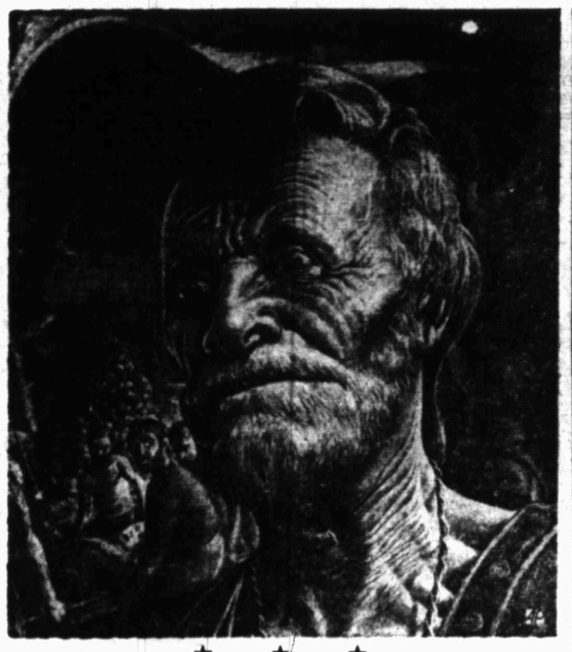

He decided then to put his faith in God and a new confidence began to fill his mind: condifence in himself, confidence in his own abilities, confidence in the future. He began to read the Bible when he needed guidance. He made it his blueprint for confident living.

YOU can release this same power within yourself to find fresh confidence and new determination to get what you want out of life. Marcus Aurelius, the Roman emperor who was also a philosopher, wrote, "Your life is what your thoughts make of it". Think negatively and you will get negative results. Think positively and you will get positive results. Your thoughts create an atmosphere that, like a magnet, attracts either positive or negative things. Attract positive things and live positively. Fill your heart with trust in the Lord's guidance.

The use of the Bible and prayer are practical techniques which can enable you to find hidden treasures within yourself. Study them and use them and you will truly realize yourself. That is the secret of how to master life rather than allowing life to master you.

BIBLE STORY FROM "IN OUR IMAGE"

Joshua And Jericho

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the ninth of a series of studies from the Old Testament. The text is condensed from selections by Houston Harte for the new book, "In Our Image." Illustration by Guy Rowe, also from the book.)

AFTER THE DEATH of Moses the Lord spake unto Joshua, saying, Go over this Jordan, thou and all this people, unto the land which I do give them. There shall not any man be able to stand before thee. Be strong and of a good courage.

And Joshua sent out two men to spy secretly, saying, Go view the land, even Jericho. And they went, and came into a harlot's house, named Rahab, and lodged there. And it was told the king of Jericho, and the King sent unto Rahab, saying, Bring forth the men, for they be come to search out the country. And the woman took the two men, and hid them. And as soon as they which pursued after them were gone, she said unto the men, I know that the Lord hath given you the land, and that your terror is fallen upon us. Now therefore, I pray you, swear by the Lord since I have shewed you kindness, that ye will save alive my father, and my mother, and my brethren, and my sisters, and deliver our lives from death. And the men said, We will deal kindly and truly with thee. Then she let them down by a cord through the window, for her house was upon the town wall.

So the two men returned to Joshua, and told him, Truly the Lord hath delivered into our hands all the land; for all the inhabitants do faint because of us.

AND JERICHO was straitly shut up because of the children of Israel: none went out, and none came in. And the Lord said unto Joshua, Ye shall compass the city, all ye men of war, once. Thus shalt thou do six days. And seven priests shall bear before the ark seven trumpets of rams' horns; and the seventh day ye shall compass the city seven times, and the priests shall blow with the trumpets. And when they make a long blast, all the people shall shout with a great shout; and the wall of the city shall fall down flat.

So the ark of the Lord compassed the city once. So they did six days. And on the seventh day they compassed the city seven times. And at the seventh time, Joshua said unto the people, The city shall be accursed unto the Lord. And ye, keep yourselves from the accursed thing, lest ye make the camp of Israel a curse, and trouble it. And the people shouted when the priests blew with the trumpets, and the wall fell down flat, so that the people went up into the city, and took the city. And they utterly destroyed all that was in the city, and burnt the city with fire. But Joshua saved Rahab the harlot alive, and her father's household, because she hid the messengers which Joshua sent to spy out Jericho.

But Achan, the son of Carmi, took of the accursed thing: and the anger of the Lord was kindled against Israel. And Joshua sent men from Jericho to Ai, saying, Go, view the country. And the men returned unto Joshua, and said, Let about three thousand men go up and smite Ai; for they are but few. So there went up about three thousand men. And the men of Ai smote them: wherefore the hearts of the people melted, and became as water.

AND JOSHUA rent his clothes, and fell to the earth on his face, and said, O Lord, wherefore hast thou brought this people over Jordan, to destroy us? And the Lord said unto Joshua, Israel hath sinned: for they have taken of the accursed thing. Therefore the children of Israel could not stand before their enemies because they are accursed: neither will I be with you, except ye destroy the accursed thing from among you.

So Joshua rose up, and brought Israel by their tribes and Achan was taken. And Joshua said unto Achan, My son, tell me what thou hast done. And Achan answered, and said, When I saw among the spoils a goodly garment, and silver, and gold, I took them; behold, they are hid in my tent, and Joshua sent messengers, and they brought them, and laid them out before the Lord. And Joshua took Achan unto the valley of Achor, and said, Why hast thou troubled us? the Lord will trouble thee this day. And all Israel stoned him with stones. And they raised over him a great heap of stones unto this day. So the Lord turned from the fierceness of his anger.

Dr. N. A. Woychuk To Speak At Services

Dr. N. A. Woychuk, superintendent of the Bible Memory association of Shreveport, La., and an ordained minister of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, will preach at this morning's worship service at First Cumberland Presbyterian church, Tenth and Ave. O.

Tonight, Dr. Woychuk will begin a series of studies on the book of Romans. His theme for the service will be "Resources for Spiritual Work."

The study series will continue through Friday. Sessions begin at 7:30 p. m. each day.

Church officials announced that while the study course is primarily for Sunday school teachers, it is open to the public and will be of interest to others besides teachers.

Dr. Woychuk, who was born and reared in Manitoba, Canada, is a former pastor of Cumberland Presbyterian churches in Corsicana and Dawson. He is at present pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church of Shreveport.

He has authored several books and similar publications.

Dr. Woychuk founded the Bible Memory association in 1944, and has served as its superintendent all that time.

The Bible Memory association is a non-sectarian, interdenominational institution, and is guided by a board of directors who represent six denominations. During the years since its organization, some 17,175 youths have participated in the association's three fold program of 1) Scripture memorization, 2) study of sound Christian books, and 3) summer camps.

Fort Worth Woman To Speak At Church

Mrs. Ben F. Hearn of Fort Worth, state president of the Texas Society of Missions and Education of the Disciples of Christ, will be guest speaker at 7:30 p. m. today at the evening worship service at First Christian church, Broadway and Ave. X.

The service will be held jointly with the congregation of Lubbock View Christian church.

Mrs. Grady West, president of the Woman's council of First Christian church, and other church women, are to assist in the service.

Mrs. Hearn's visit to Lubbock is in conjunction with the observance of Woman's Day today throughout the Brotherhood of the Disciples of Christ, church officials said.

Immediately following the church service, an informal reception will be held in Fellowship hall of the church honoring Mrs. Hearn.

At the Monday luncheon meeting of women of the church, Mrs. Hearn again will be principal speaker. Her theme will be "Christian World Fellowship—Beginning in Me."

Abandoned Railroad Bed Gives Pair Longest Backyard In U. S.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 3. (U.P.)—Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bondurant have what is probably the longest backyard in the nation. It is 12 feet wide and 400 feet long, with a 15-foot drop on each side.

The reason is that the Bondurants live just across the Mississippi River at "Briark," the name for the Arkansas & Memphis Railway Bridge & Terminal Co., where they both work and live as railroad telegraphers.

The Bondurants got tired of commuting back and forth to Memphis during World War II, so they leased the abandoned Rock Island roadbed through the bottomlands and built a cottage with the long backyard.

Germans Escaping British In 1941 Form Colony In Yemen

CAIRO, Dec. 3. (AP)—Fifteen Germans who escaped from Ethiopia by boat in 1941 when it was liberated by British troops reached the little known Kingdom of Yemen and today form the nucleus of its tiny foreign community, an Arab well acquainted with the country said here.

He said some went back to Germany but others have become Moslems and settled down there. A few Swedes and Italians are the only other foreigners in the "Shangri-La" kingdom, he said.

Yemen is situated in southwest Arabia. It is almost totally isolated from the outside world.

Campaign Against War-Like Toys Is Opened In Germany

By WERNER STANGENBERG
United Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, Dec. 3—Santa Claus may get a pleasant surprise when he visits some Berlin homes on Christmas Eve. German children are becoming particular, and don't want to "play war" any more.

More than 400 children, representing approximately 200 west Berlin schools at the "School Parliament," have agreed to ban militaristic toys. The assembly, sponsored by American-controlled RIAS radio, deals exclusively with questions concerning youth.

Boys and girls, ranging in age from 10 to 18, decided to canvass west Berlin toy shops urging shop keepers to demilitarize their stock and display posters saying "We do not sell any militaristic toys."

The shop-haunting was the brain-child of Wolfgang Hanel, a 19-year-old university student, who commented:

Useful To Hitler

"Simply condemning militaristic toys does not take us anywhere. Yet we have to do something. I know personally how much toy manufacturers helped Hitler to raise love for the German Wehrmacht even in very small children. I was myself once very fond of tanks and battleships, and wanted with all my heart to become a soldier."

After five days of crusading, 34 sore-footed teenagers gathered at the RIAS building to exchange experiences and make their reports.

They had visited 95 shops, found 66 owners willing to co-operate, received 15 doubtful promises, and faced 14 blunt rejections.

The young crusaders explained that the doubtful promises consister mostly of the pledge to deal no longer with military-styled toys—after the existing stock was sold.

Some Resistance

The youthful committee considered two refusals particularly noteworthy. A shopkeeper in the U. S. sector, Tempelhof borough, said:

"The German children should be granted the right to play with the same toys given to children of other nations. Of course, I do not sell any foreign-dressed tin soldiers but I will certainly sell true German toy soldiers, if I can get any."

A store owner in the Schoeneberg borough observed: "First take care that the foreign troops withdraw, then go ahead and start a drive like this."

The young delegates put their stamp of approval on one of Berlin's popular toys, the jeep, provided it does not bear military insignia or carry uniformed soldiers.

Unarmed airplanes also were approved. The excited crusaders remembered the airlift planes that kept them and their parents from starving for almost a year during the Berlin blockade.

WARMEST LATITUDE

The warmest latitude for the year is not the equator, as might be expected, but latitude 10 degrees north, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Minister Mixes Magic With Religion To Emphasize Biblical Points In His Sermons

By NEA Service

CARNEGIE, Pa., Dec. 3 — If a skeptic tells Rev. Ted V. Voorhees, pastor of the Carnegie Methodist church, that he does not believe in the Biblical miracles, because he doesn't understand them, Voorhees has a comeback.

Standing in the pulpit, Voorhees takes an empty cylinder and magically produces yard after yard of cloth. A competent semi-professional magician, he completely mystfies the congregation.

"If I can do this," he tells the skeptic, "and you do not understand, what must God be able to do with his ominous powers?"

Thirty years ago, Voorhees saw Houdini perform. He was so enchanted by the master magician, that he talked about doing the tricks himself. When his wife questioned his ability in magical directions, Voorhees became even more determined and taught himself a few basic tricks.

For the last 27 years, he has been practicing magic from the pulpit. He has recruited several hundred young ministers of all denominations to this theory of teaching faith in God through magic.

Voorhees believes that "one way to religious thinking is through magic. I tell the story of Jesus providing the multitude by the sea shore with a single loaf and a single fish."

And, with a mysterious stunt, he takes a piece of paper money and proceeds to multiply it. The "multiplying bill trick" serves to illustrate the point to the congregation, particularly the children who love his magical sermons.

Performs For Clubs

Voorhees performs for many local clubs and organizations and has written books on the use of magic in churches. He has known famous magicians personally and served as president of the local chapter of the International Brotherhood of Magicians.

Despite the fact that the Methodist church no longer requires it, Voorhees continues to wear the clerical collar. He believes a minister should be easily recognized as such.

Besides his interest in magic, Voorhees is also a student of psychology. He's a certified psychological examiner for Pennsylvania public schools, and is working for his doctor's degree in the subject.

Egypt now is producing patent leather for the first time.

INTRODUCING LUBBOCK'S MINISTERS

Rev. Cecil A. Ray Serves As First Pastor Of Church Here

Rev. Cecil A. Ray came to Lubbock in January, 1946, to organize a church in the Arnett-Benson in northwest Lubbock. That church, which was officially organized on Feb. 16, 1946, was named, aptly enough, the Arnett-Benson Baptist church, and Rev. Ray is serving as its first pastor.

At the time of the church's organization, 110 charter members were listed on the church rolls. Membership now numbers approximately 600.

Father Also Minister

Rev. Ray, whose father is a retired Baptist minister, was born in Fort Worth and grew up in the San Angelo area. He attended Howard Payne college in Brownwood, and after graduation from that institution enrolled in the Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary in Fort Worth. He came to Lubbock shortly after receiving his Th. M. degrees there.

The local church, which is located at Adams Ave. and North Second, was started as a mission of the Calvary Baptist church. The church structure itself was built by stages, the auditorium having been completed about two years ago.

Rev. Ray is now serving his second term as associational moderator of the Lubbock Baptist association. He is a member of the board of trustees of the Plains Baptist assembly, and is business manager of the Plains Baptist assembly camp near Floydada. He also holds membership in the Baptist Ministers conference and Lubbock Ministers association.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray and their small daughter reside at 2704 Second.

A HOLLYWOOD Column

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 3 — Bing Crosby can take three free lessons at one of Fred Astaire's dance studios — his reward for placing sixth in a dance contest at the Mark Hopkins hotel in San Francisco.

Johnson

It happened while Bing was in S. F. recording his radio show before starting work in "Mr. Music." He was dining with a crowd at the Mark's supper room. The M. C. announced a dance contest.

As Bing tells it:

"I grabbed a girl—I never did find out her name—and pretty soon a guy taps me on the shoulder and says, 'Stand over there.' Then they announced the winners. There were six finalists. We got sixth place. The prize was three lessons at an Astaire studio."

The film version of "Cheaper by the Dozen" gets more confusing every time I think about it. Clifton Webb and Myrna Loy play the parents of 12 children. Webb is a confirmed bachelor and Myrna is childless. One of the 12 children is Jeanne Crain, who plays a 15-year-old. And everyone knows, of course, that Jeanne is the mother of two children!

A child star grown up was rehearsing a scene from a picture in which she had to play jacks. She made such a terrible mess of the kiddie game that the director flatly said:

"Oh, come on now, you remember when you played jacks as a child."

"I'm sorry," said the former kid star, wistfully, "but I never was a child."

I'm wondering whether "She Wore a Yellow Ribbon" will set a trend toward westerns with feminine titles. Any day now, I guess, we can expect Don "Red" Barry in "The Trail of the Plunging Neckline," Roy Rogers in "High Fashion in the Saddle" and Gene Autry in "He Wore a Powder Blue Shirt."

Bob Williams, formerly of the Kay Thompson-Williams Bros. act, is now selling insurance. . . . Eastern theaters are reviving the oldie, "Imitation of Life," with an ad compaign lifted from "Pinky." . . . The Bob Cummings-Arlene Dahl starrer, "Reign of Terror," has a new title — "The Black Book."

Wonderful story about Kay Kyser. He and his agent were in his New York hotel suite looking at his new TV contract with Ford when the telephone rang. It was the hotel manager asking if he could bring up a prospective tenant, since Kay was only staying temporarily.

Kay said okay and a few minutes later the manager arrived with a woman. "Mr. Kyser," he said, "This is Mrs. Henry Ford II."

"Just the lady I want to see," kidded Kay to the puzzled Mrs. Ford. "Now about this contract. There are a few clauses I think should be changed."

Of all the Hollywood publicity gags that backfired, the funniest, I guess, happened to John Wayne when he was making personal appearances after his film debut in "The Big Trail."

The publicity man on the picture released hundreds of stories about Wayne's proficiency at knife throwing. At one stop on the tour, a curious newspaper reported led the unsuspecting Wayne to the local park, handed him a set of knives, pointed to a tree and said:

"Okay, John, let's see you hit it."

John was game even if his publicity man had been overenthusiastic. He started throwing the knives. But he never did hit the tree. After all, a double did the knife throwing for him in the picture.

A Los Angeles group just paid $50,000 for the film rights to the life story of Harry Houdini, the escape artist and magician. When the film goes into production, they'll see how fast money can disappear.

Bing Crosby Top Movie Favorite

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 3 (INS) — Bing Crosby today was acclaimed the nation's No. 1 favorite of 1949 at the movie theater boxoffice in a country-wide poll of press and radio film critics, independent theater owners and representatives of better film councils, educational and other civic organizations.

BING

Runner-up to Crosby was dimpled June Allyson on the combined list of twelve male and female screen stars.

Leads Sixth Year

The song crooner captured the No. 1 spot for the second consecutive year. It is the sixth straight year, a record unequalled by any other masculine star, that he has been first among the men.

Miss Allyson rose from seventh place on the 1948 list of feminine stars to first place. This was considered notable inasmuch as usually long established favorites dominate the list.

Familiar names on the list of favorites in the order of votes received include: Crosby, Miss Allyson, Loretta Young, Olivia De Havilland, Clark Gable, Cary Grant, Gary Cooper, Bob Hope, Jane Wyman, Ingrid Bergman, Claudette Colbert and James Stewart.

The dozen leading feminine stars of 1949, in order of votes received, are the following: Miss Allyson, Loretta Young, Olivia De Havilland, Jane Wyman, Ingrid Bergman, Claudette Colbert, Betty Grable, Esther Williams, Barbara Stanwyck, Irene Dunne, Jennifer Jones and Elizabeth Taylor.

Gable Is Second

Top male stars in order of rating are: Crosby, Clark Gable, Cary Grant, Gary Cooper, Bob Hope, James Stewart, Humphrey Bogart, Alan Ladd, Gregory Peck, Montgomery Clift, Dan Dailey and John Wayne.

Tabulation of votes received by western stars in the poll found Roy Rogers and Gene Autry in first and second place respectively. Other western favorites are George "Gabby" Hayes, Bill Elliott, William Boyd, Andy Devine, Tim Holt, Smiley Burnette, Johnny Mack Brown and Leo Carillo.

Half Million Young Men Needed, He Says

San Francisco Chef Claims Craft Wide Open For Others

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3—The place for around half a million young American men is in the kitchen, says Bill Harmon.

Harmon, 34 himself, is chef at the Mark Hopkins hotel here.

He says the craft is wide open for young talent.

"The old imported chefs are dying off," says Harmon. "Someone has to step into their shoes. More than ever before, Americans want good food. There is better food than ever to sell them. What we lack is trained manpower."

If the manpower appears, Harmon suggests, America can easily lead the world in the quality of its food.

Steady Employment

"The tip on this is in the sauces we make these days. In Europe they rarely had the prize beef and other raw materials that we have to work with. They got their flavor from strong sauces. Today we get the flavor from the food itself, rather than from the sauce, because we have better food to work with."

Harmon thinks all that's needed is to make boys aware of the opportunities that await them in the big kitchens back of the nation's better dining halls.

"Cooking as a career offers 100 per cent employment," he asserts. "I could work around the clock seven days a week if I could take it." No good chef is ever out of a job.

Wages Are Good

"In the second place, wages are better. We start untrained apprentices at $5.83 per day, and remember that includes free meals and laundry. An apprentice serves two years, learning the various stations around the kitchen—salads, butcher shop, cold meats, vegetables, bakery, fry station, roasts and broils, and desserts.

"After two years he is an assistant cook, starting at $10.83 per day with meals and laundry. He can go up as fast after that as he is good at his work. I think it takes five years to make a really good chef."

Harmon prefers boys fresh from high school. "I'd much rather have a completely green apprentice than one somebody else has trained."

Started From Scratch

Harmon started green himself. He grew up on a chicken ranch near Wilmington, Del. He says he still doesn't know exactly why he decided, in 1934, to become a cook. "I had no special interest in cooking—except in eating it."

He began in a Wilmington hotel, and went on the next year to a job with the Matson line. "There were no apprenticeships in those days," he explains. "We moved along fast."

"The galley in a big ship is fine training," he thinks.

He worked in the Royal Hawaiian hotel in Honolulu from 1937 to the outbreak of war, when he went back to sea as chef on a troop transport. Since the war ended he has worked in several big San Francisco hotels.

Likes Moving Around

"California is the best place to work, but I try to get away now and then. It's only by moving around that you get new ideas. There is no finishing school in this business except experience."

Harmon bosses about 75 people in his kitchen, 42 of which are cooks.

California regulations permit one apprentice to every ten cooks.

"I could use at least six, and if every big hotel and restaurant could get as many men as they really need, there would be at least half a million jobs open for young fellows," he says.

"Every order is a dare—to do your best. I think that's what everyone would really like to do."

Second Generation Talent Shortage For Films

Shoes Of Movies' Famous Seem Too Big For Juniors

By JACK QUIGG
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 3.—Hollywood's famous of years past have left few offspring to fill their glamorous shoes. And the shoes have been too big for most of the youngsters who followed their parents to the screen.

Some, like Douglas Fairbank, jr., Keenan Wynn, director John Huston, Lon Chaney, jr., Gloria De Haven, Broadway producer Irene Mayer Selznick and Tim Holt are famous in their own right. But do their names spell the magic of Douglas Fairbanks, Ed Wynn, Walter Huston, Lon Caney, the Carter De Havens, Louis B. Mayer and Jack Holt?

Could be that it's still much too early to say that second generationers won't outshine their sires. Most of today's top boxoffice draws are pushing 50. It takes time to build a name.

Some Show Promise

Given a chance in fiercely competitive pictures some youngsters show real promise. Harry Carey, jr. and Alan Hale, jr., no longer apprentices, are reflecting the parental fire. Another pair of juniors, John Barrymore and Harold Lloyd, reportedly showed enough in their first films, as yet unreleased, to ensure future activity.

Jesse Lasky, jr., son of the pioneer producer, has written several "a" movies. Samuel Goldwyn, jr., has several stage and screen productions to his credit.

One cause of the second generation talent shortage is that families weren't as welcome two or three decades ago as they are to today's Betty Grable, Olivia De Havillands and Hedy Lamarrs. A siren lost her allure with motherhood in those days. Stars' children, if they had them, were kept in the background.

Went Into Other Fields

Such luminaries as Mary Pickford, Mabel Normand, Pearl White, Ruth Roland, Theda Bara, Rudolph Valentino, Pola Negri, Norma Talmadge and Mack Sennett produced no offspring.

Of those who raised families, many saw their heirs go into other fields, or take a crack at films and fail.

Charles Chaplin has two sons, Sidney emotes in local stage productions. Charles, jr.'s most publicized appearances have been in traffic court. Francis X. Bushman fathered a large brood but only one son, Ralph, made a brief effort at acting.

Diana Barrymore, John's daughter, left Hollywood after a few uninspiring roles. Will Rogers, jr., and Noah Beery, jr., tried featured roles but now have other interests. The sons of William S. Hart, Buster Keaton and Creighton Hale haven't knocked on Hollywood's door. The daughters of Tom Mix, Agnes Ayres and John Gilbert bypassed the movies.

Rooney Eclipses Parent

The children of character actors appear have fared better at keeping the family name in lights. Mickey Rooney, son of the stage and screen comic Joe Yule, has eclipsed his parent. Angela Lansbury's name is a familiar as that of her mother, Moyna MacGill. June Lockhart, daughter of Gene Lockhart, after a brief period in Hollywood found fame of the Broadway stage. Helen Broderick's son, Broderick Crawford, with a succession of good roles since the war is a good bet for stardom. And Doris Dudley's little boy, Butch Jenkins, made mama take a back seat.

But Hollywood's top performers today are from non-movie families. Big guns like Bette Davis, Greer Garson, Ingrid Bergman, Clarke Gable, Cary Cooper, Cary Grant, Bing Crosby, Olivia De Havilland, Claudette Colbert, James Stewart, Bob Hope, Barbara Stanwyck, Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell can thank themselves, not their parents, for their jobs.

Maybe tomorrow's stars, however, will have something to think the old folks for. Bing Crosby, Jack Carson, John Wayne, Glenda Farrell, Judy Garland, Dan Dailey and others have launched their kids in the trade by giving them bit parts in their own pictures. Perhaps the third screen generation will have a greater heritage.

Demonstrations Set For Teacher Meetings

Demonstrations of teaching methods in art, arithmetic, handwriting and reading will be presented at the four meetings scheduled for Monday and Tuesday for elementary teachers of the Lubbock Public schools, according to Ishmael Hill, assistant superintendent in charge of elementary education.

These demonstrations are a part of the in-service training which elementary teachers have planned for the year.

Monday afternoon at 3:15 teachers for grade one will meet at McWhorter school to observe a demonstration on art given by Mrs. J. Floyd Dunn. Third grade teachers will also meet on Monday at 3:15 at Roscoe Wilson school where Miss Murl Ratliff has prepared a demonstration on the method of teaching handwriting.

Tuesday afternoon at 3:15 second grade teachers will meet at Central Ward to observe a teaching demonstration on arithmetic by Miss Martha Mathis.

Intermediate teachers, those in grades four, five, and six, will hold a joint meeting in the cafeteria of Brown Elementary school where a panel discussion on the teaching of reading has been arranged with Mrs. Ruth Carter, acting as chairman, and Miss Ouida Buzbee and Miss Irene Malone taking part.

SERVICE FOR ROBBERS

CHICAGO (AP) — Mrs. Bertie Kaplan made sure that burglars wouldn't get away with her cash and jewelry—and they didn't. Just before she left the house, she put $120 and three rings in her purse. She had walked about a block when two robbers snatched the purse.

Chinese Sense Of Humor Still Persists Despite Red Regime

HONG KONG, Dec. 3 (U.P.)—One thing the new Chinese regime has not yet been able to change is the famed Chinese sense of humor, deadpan variety.

Describing the first student congress held in Shanghai since that city's "liberation," the Peking radio said one of the principal speakers was Jao Shu-shih, secretary of the Chinese-Communist Party's Shanghai committee. Jao told the delegates their main task would be to "strengthen unity among the students."

Then, the radio continued with a straight face, the congress was presented by the Communist International Union of Students with a "new model mimeographing machine"—a subtle hint fo rthe students to begin thinking alike.

LONG DISTANCE SHOPPING

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mail order houses seem to do a big business in the Pribilof Islands, Alaska. The U. S. Fish and Wildlife service says 850 pounds of mail were received there one day and that 400 pounds were in catalogs.

Only four days remain to see Alano Dass, master mentalist and psychologist who is appearing in person on the stage of the Lindsey theatre and who has all Lubbock talking. Mr. Dass' performances are mystifying and highly entertaining and he gives proof that he can solve difficult human problems. On Wednesday afternoon he will present his outstanding matinee for ladies only. All women of Lubbock and the surrounding towns are urged to be present for this special show presented especially for them. Below are some of the many questions submitted to Alano Dass at the Lindsey theatre and the answers as given by him:

K. M.—Should my husband accept the position that was offered to him about a week ago?

A.—It is my opinion that he should accept the offer made by Mr. R. I think he is sincere and is trying to help your husband. This new position offers a number of advantages that he doesn't have at present.

H. R.—Will I have my children with me in the future?

A.—I realize this is quite a serious question and you are very much concerned about it, but I think that you will get to keep the two children. As I see it, the decision will be made in your favor and neither P. nor B. will cause you trouble in the future.

V.M.—Can you tell me when I will get a position and where?

A.—It is my impression that you will get a position within the next twelve days and it will be with the construction company here. You've had this in mind for the past ten days.

D.A.—Where will I spend the holidays?

A.—You will spend Christmas in Dallas with your daughter, Betty.

S.C.—Mr. Dass, please tell us if there is anything we can do to help G.

A.—This question is too personal and too complicated to be answered at this time. I suggest that you attend my special matinee for ladies only Wednesday afternoon at the Lindsey Theatre and discuss this problem with me privately. I believe I can give you some helpful suggestions.

M. C.—Do you think there will be another marriage for me?

A.—Yes, and before the end of five months. It is my impression that it will be to the man in Ft. Worth with whom you have been keeping company for the past year.

T. B.—Will my husband and I go back together? If so, when?

A.—A reconciliation will be forthcoming about the 15th of this month. This will bring about more happiness for all concerned.

E. C.—What vocation should I follow to be most successful?

A.—After studying the birthdate that you have given, it is my opinion that your success lies in journalism. I think you have this in mind and I suggest that you go ahead with present plans to major in it.

Mrs. W. L.—Will there be any change in my husband's present position?

Remember you have only four days to see Alano Dass, America's foremost mentalist and leading consultant to Hollywood's stars. Plan now to attend one of his performances at the Lindsey Theatre and be convinced of his amazing talent.

JEFFERSON DAY DINNER IS HELD

Vice President Sounds Battle Cry For Democratic Campaign

NEW YORK, Dec. 3. (AP)—Vice President Alben W. Barkley started the Democratic party down the road to the 1950 elections last night at a Jefferson Day dinner that raised $400,000 for the party war chest.

Speaking to 2,600 party leaders in the Grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria, Barkley extolled the Democrats' program and taunted the Republicans.

"We are now told by those who occupy the position of tree-sitters and hitching-post devotees, that this program is leading us down the road to the so-called welfare state," he said. "We are being told that we are now on the last mile toward collectivism in America.

Alternative Not Given

"These prophets of pessimism have not told the American people what part of the Democratic program is to be repealed.

"They have not told us how far back we must go in order to recognize Uncle Sam as a complacent old gentleman sitting astride the dome of the capitol, drawing his salary and doing nothings."

The 72-year-old bridegroom interrupted his Georgia honeymoon to deliver the major party policy speech. His bride of two weeks sat beside him throughout and shared in the ovation from the crowd as they entered. She is former Mrs. Carlton S. Hadley of St. Louis.

The vice president said that because of the growing complexity of our industrial and social conditions, the federal goevrnment has had to extend its efforts to protect the people from selfish groups.

Measures Not Imposed

He said Congress has been compelled by the people to "extend its activities in the field of regulations, direction and control" to keep the channels of trade free.

He said these measures were not imposed upon an unwilling people, but were "an orderly advancement in the efficiency and efficacy of government in fields which government alone can occupy."

Barkley named in this connection farm and industrial legislation, anti-trust and fair trade laws, the federal reserve system, social security, flood control, unemployment insurance and public health.

He started with Andrew Jackson's administration and described a list of federal reforms that, he said, have reached a climax in the Roosevelt and Truman administrations.

"We are now being told by those who regard every tree frog as a roaring lion and every innocent angleworm as a spreading adder, that we are on the verge of entering a 'welfare state' and that it and 'statism' are lurking around the corner to absorb the liberties and devour the substance of the people," he said.

After he finished his prepared speech, Barkley put down his notes and predicted "in 1952 we will again elect a Democrat president of the United States."

Those attending paid $100 a plate for their meal, and many who could not attend bought tickets to help the party.

Santa Snow-Balled Out Of Big Parade

FITCHBURG, Mass., Dec. 3 (AP)—The kids of this central Massachusetts city certainly gave Santa Claus a bad time with snowballs.

Santa Claus was the central figure in the annual Santa parade last night. Thousands of youngsters lined the snow-covered streets to see their favorite person go by on a float.

Ex-Dartmouth Grid Star Dies After Heart Attack In Dallas

DALLAS, Dec. 3. (AP)—Eugene G. (Gene) Neely, 200-pound Texan who won All-America mention by Walter Camp despite the handicap of having only one arm, died here yesterday.

He was 53. For about 14 years he had been chief underwriter of the Federal Housing administration here. He suffered a heart attack in his office.

Neely was a native of Comanche, Tex. He went to Dartmouth college, Hanover, N. H., in 1914. He was given All-American mention as a guard by Camp in 1916.

After Dartmouth Neely coached football at Terrell prep, at Austin college in Sherman, and at the University of Texas where he was freshman coach under Clyde Littlefield.

Survivors include his wife, a son, Stanley E. Neely; a daughter, Mrs. Eugene Locke, and a grandchild, all of Dallas.

Ex-Opera Soprano Organizes Concerts For Vets Hospitals; Stars Donating Services

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK. — Jean Tennyson runs one of the world's biggest concert bureaus—and is quite happy because it is losing money.

Some 300 top singers and musicians work for nothing on her programs, arranged to entertain disabled ex-servicemen in 130 veterans hospitals across the country.

Her list of artists include Lily Pons, Margaret Truman, Enzio Pinza, Arthur Rubenstein, and Gladys Swarthout.

"We started out with strictly long-haired performers," she said, "but now we have Benny Goodman, choral groups—even a magician."

Like many another American woman at war's end, Miss Tennyson, an ex-vanities star and operatic soprano, was grateful to the men who had fought. She wanted to do something to show her gratitude—but what?

Schedules Concerts

"I was told that musical therapy was helpful to the 1,000,000 veterans in hospitals," she recalled, "so I decided that was the field I could help in best."

With Symphony conductor Leo Stowkowski and a few other friends she organized the Artists Veterans Hospital programs in 1947. By the end of this season this organization will have arranged for more than 350 concerts in some 90 veterans hospitals.

Miss Tennyson, helped only by a secretary, scheduled the concerts herself and pays all expenses of the operation. Whenever the seasonal tour of one of the artists on her list brings him near a veteran's hospital, she arranges in advance for him to appear there, too.

Program Praised

"Most of the artists have been very cooperative," she said, "Only two out of more than 300 have turned us down—and I'd rather not talk about them. Once an artist sees the effect he has on these shut-in vets he usually wants to come back and entertain them again."

Her office files are full of letters from doctors praising the programs for their therapeutic value to patients, some of whom are mentally as well as physically sick.

A letter from a Dallas, Tex., hospital said:

"Today Jarmila Novotna came to our ward and sang for us. I can't tell you how important that hour was to us."

The letter was signed by a blind veteran.

Western Fiction Writer Keeps Graveyard For His Characters

OCEANSIDE, Cal., Dec. 3. (U.P.)—A western fiction author, Chuck Martin, has been writing blood and thunder wild west yarns for 40 years.

He keeps his own "boot hill" for every one of the 88 characters he has killed off in his stories.

One reads: "Butch Cawdy didn't smile. He called Texas Joe a dirty name."

Nearby lie Poker Jim, who held five aces against the wrong man one night, and "One Shot" Brady. Brady fell when his one shot missed.

Since Martin took up writing books, especially his newest, called "Once a Cowboy," for juveniles, the grave yard gets fewer and fewer customers.

Crop Is A Memorial

MANY years ago, the late Col. Izaac L. Ellwood often predicted that the time would come when the South Plains would produce more than 1,000,000 bales of cotton a year.

The residents of the then little town of Lubbock—population about 1,000 to 1,500—firmly believed in the future of this country. Otherwise, they would not have been here. But the majority apparently shared the view that Colonel Ellwood was more than slightly optimistic. The area then produced fewer than 5,000 bales per annum.

Many years have gone by since Colonel Ellwood first voiced his vision. He himself passed from the scene 33 years ago.

But his foresight has been vindicated at last. More than 1,000,000 bales of cotton have been ginned on the South Plains this year, with 500,000 to 600,000 bales still remaining on the stalk.

DURING at least two past years, the prospects appeared favorable to the achievement of the million-mark. In 1937, ginnings climbed to 959,000 bales. In 1947, they hit 944,000. They were close, but still short, of that "magic million"—the seven-figure total which probably is significant only because it is seven figures. It is far more satisfactory to area-minded people—which most of us are—to be over than just under 1,000,000.

However, we are over the big hurdle at last. And that seems to make the occasion appropriate for reminders of certain "cotton facts" of which many of the residents doubtless already are aware. But those possessed of area-pride—and we never have seen as much area pride of such intensity concentrated in one place as right here on the South Plains—probably like to mull over those facts time and again.

More cotton is produced on the South Plains than in any comparable area upon earth.

It will produce this year approximately 10 per cent of the cotton grown in the United States; about 30 per cent of the Texas crop. Thirty years ago we produced less than 1 per cent of the national and less than 5 per cent of the Texas ginnings.

This year's crop has a cash value conservatively estimated at $225,000,000 to $250,000,000.

Our cotton is the basis for a huge industry: approximately 300 gins valued, conservatively at more than $30,000,000; 11 compresses and seven cotton oil mills, worth many millions more. As an average, these plants are among the most modern of any large area in the cotton belt and, at peak, they employ more than 10,000 persons.

Because of our position, Texas Technological college rapidly is attaining recognition and ranking as one of the world's foremost schools in its researches and studies which pertain to cotton.

Inevitably, the seemingly assured restoration of cotton acreage controls next year will reduce South Plains production sharply below that of this year. But, with normal weather, the South Plains crop is likely to continue huge—larger, perhaps, in ration to the total U. S. crop than this year—as far in the future as anyone can see.

But the fact to shout about right now is that the 1,000,000-bale mark has been exceeded.

No one can pretend to designate any particular bale as No. 1,000,000 of the 1949 crop.

But, wherever it may be, it is a memorial appropriate for dedication to the vision of pioneers like Col. Izaac L. Ellwood.

We hope and believe the scientist is mistaken who states that the earth is hollow. We just went outdoors and thumped it, and it sounded plumb solid to us.

There's always a bright side. The Mexican with the upsidedown stomach gets a proper world perspective while standing on his head to digest his meals.

Today's couplet: She always plays she's hard to get; she's 38 and single yet.

"FOLK LAUGHTER OF THE AMERICAN FRONTIER"

Mody Boatright Makes Study Of Frontier Folklore

"FOLK LAUGHTER OF THE AMERICAN FRONTIER," by Mody C. Boatright; (Macmillan).

A country girl "so thin that she could sit on a dollar and give you back ninety cents in change" . . . The minister who, turning two pages of the Bible instead of one, read to his congregation: "And Noah took unto himself a wife. And the length thereof was three hundred cubits, and the breadth of it fifty cubits and the height of it thirty cubits." . . . "If I had to marry so and so or nobody, I'd draw straws and then marry the straw." . . . "So stingy that he sat in the shade of the hackberry tree to save the shade of the porch."

BOATRIGHT

This is a selected sample of what the frontiersman has found laughable, from Boatright's book, and we too find this much is laughable. The cowhand, the Indian fighter, the men and women and their children who cut farms out of forests and made a go of it were a hard-working lot with a robust, native humor. Such people, declares this author, who think they have not been treated with proper respect by some high-brow observers and fly-by-night travelers, are not to be laughed at.

Attended West Texas State

Mody C. Boatright, associate professor of English at the University of Texas in Austin, was born in Mitchell county. He took his bachelor of arts degree at West Texas State College in 1922 and his M. A. degree at the University of Texas, 1923.

In 1932 he received a Ph.D. degree from the latter. Professor Boatright has become known as the author of several textbooks and as author and editor of various publications of the Texas Folklore Society, for which organization he is at present secretary and editor.

His first book on the Southwest was "Tall Tales from Texas," published in Dallas by The Southwest Press. Also published in Dallas and in Austin were "From Hell to Breakfast" and "The Sky is My Tipi." "Mexican Border Ballads and Other Lore," edited by Professor Boatright, was published in 1946.

Anthological And Analytical

Professor Boatright's approach to the study of frontier life and humor springs from an intimate knowledge (he says he grew up on a cattle ranch and the recreation he still enjoys most is camping out and cooking on a camp fire); it embodies a vigorous social philosophy and consistently interprets western folklore as an outgrowth of social frontier conditions. Of "Folk Laughter on the American Frontier" the author writes that it is both anthological and analytical.

Drawing upon a wide variety of sources both oral and written, it shows how the tall tale, tall talk, the popular anecdote and the comic speech forms were functions of geographical and social conditions on the frontier. . .

Grotesque accounts of lawlessness, the boasts of men desiring to impress the outsider with their toughness, incidents involving rustic manners, misrepresentations of natural phenomena constituted the substance of this lore. . . Politics, law, and religion were agencies through which frontier humor was disseminated. . . The mood of the humor was one of restrained, realistic optimism.

One of the yarns growing out of the successive grasshopper plagues concerns a farmer who left his team standing in the field while he went for a drink. The grasshoppers arrived. He rushed back to the field, but when he got there, the grasshoppers had already eaten his team and his harness and were pitching the horses' shoes to see which should have the farmer.

RUSSELL Janney, author of "The Miracle of the Bells," has another book coming out, (Coward-McCann). "The Vision of Red O'Shea" is "a melodrama in rhyme" into which Janney has poured his feeling for people and religion.

"GENTIAN HILL" is the third book by Elizabeth Goudge to be chosen by the Literary Guild. The previous two are "Green Dolphin Street" and "Pilgrim's Inn." "Gentian Hill" tells about a long-lost daughter, an orphaned boy, a kindly farmer and his wife, a mellow old doctor, and a mysterious abbe who live on the Devon coast in the days of Napoleon and Nelson. Coward-McCann publishes the book Jan. 9.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

A FEW days ago I went over to Lake Success to listen to Mr. Vishinsky deliver another one of his very comical pleas for universal peace, and as usual, he did so much double-talking that one really couldn't tell whether he was declaring war on the United States and Great Britain, or holding out an olive branch.

Somehow, his talk reminded me of "Alice in Wonderland," and when I got home I looked up the one about "Alice and the Queen of Hearts With the Mock Turtle's Story and the Lobster Quadrille."

BRANDEIS

In case you don't remember it, may I just quote a few passages?

Doesn't it sound just like one of Mr. Vishinsky's speeches?

"The Mock Turtle went on: 'We had the best of educations—in fact, we went to school every day—'

'I've been to a day-school, too,' said Alice. 'You needn't be so proud as all that'

"'With extras?' asked the Mock Turtle a little anxiously.

"'Yes,' said Alice; 'we learned French and music'."

Then Mock Turtle proudly gave Alice on outline of the different subjects he had studied in his school.

"'Reeling and Writhing, of course, to begin with,' the Mock Turtle said, 'and then the different branches of Arithmetic — Ambition, Distraction, Uglification, and Derision'."

Alice didn't seem very much impressed. So the Mock Turtle continued.

"'Then there was Mystery,' said the Mock Turtle, counting off the subjects on his flappers—'Mystery, ancient and modern, with Seaography; then Drawling—the Drawling-master was an old conger-eel, that used to come once a week; he taught us Drawling, Stretching, and Fainting in Coils'."

AND then, in that same story there is a little poem, which also seems so very apt at this writing. This is how it goes in part:

"You can really have no notion

THOUSANDS LOSE OUT

Blocked By Senator

By DREW PEARSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — Christmas in America will have a special significance this year for a little more than 116,000 people who will be celebrating it here for the first time.

They are the displaced persons who have come to the United States since January 1, plus several other happy thousands who will arrive here in time to observe the Yuletide feast.

PEARSON

Unfortunately, many more will "miss the boat" because of Sen. Pat McCarran's one-man blockade of legislation raising our quota of D. P.'s to 339,000. However, the beefy Nevadan, whose resemblance to Santa Claus ends with his girth, won't be able to deny those greatest of American gifts, freedom of opportunity and worship, to the thousands who have come in despite his personal blockade.

These homeless fugitives from totalitarianism are of all faiths—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish. They even include a sprinkling of Mohammedans fleeing from Communist regimes in Albania, Romania and Bulgaria. The great majority, of course, are family remnants of Nazi persecution.

The most striking effect of the displaced-persons program has been the way America has taken them to its heart. Typical, perhaps, is the case of Dr. Archie Skemp of La Crosse, Wis., who turned over several run-down farms to 40 D. P.'s and found that his neglected lands blossomed into model farms.

Both American labor and American capital have helped to welcome these new visitors. In New Jersey the manufacturers association has been sponsoring a "get-acquainted" program for D. P. residents, feathering a weekly broadcast on which the newcomers are invited to tell why they like America, as compared with their nightmarish existence aboard during and since the war. And in Portland, Ore., local 99 of the musicians' union invited all D. P.'s in that area to attend the first concert of the Portland symphony orchestra.

Congressman Interviews Tito

It isn't often that a U. S. congressman can interview one of the world's foremost dictators in his own language. But that was what Minnesota's young Congressman John Blantnik did the other day when he paid a call on Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia.

During the war, Major Blantnik, whose family came from Slovenia, three times parachuted behind the Nazi lines in Yugoslavia, and led other American troops in cooperation with Tito's partisans. So, visiting in Yugoslavia recently, Blatnik called on Tito, asked him questions about his feud with Stalin and his friendship for the United States.

"We have had our differences with your country and England and other western power," Tito told the Minnesota congressman. "But never have your people deprecated what little effort and sacrifice we made to help win the war—as have the Russians, who should know better!"

During the interview Tito himself started asking questions, seemed especially anxious to know what the American people thought of his country. Blatnik explained that Americans had a high regard for Yugoslavia's fighting spirit, but that this warm feeling had dropped to zero when the Yugoslavs shot down an American transport.

Tito offered no apology, though he admitted the Yugoslav pilot had been "hasty," and could have forced the transport down without shooting it. Otherwise, he explained, the pilot had simply been following orders the same as border guards who are ordered to shoot to kill any trespasser who won't halt.

Tito claimed he had sent several notes of protest to the State department, warning the United States not to fly military transports over his country. No hostility was intended toward America, he explained, but Yugoslavia was "jealously guarding her sovereignty and independence."

BLANTNIK also asked about the threat of a Russian invasion. Tito replied: "We are not expecting it, but we are not discounting it."

However, this was not the attitude of the Yugoslav on the street, who believes war with Russia is inevitable.

The interview lasted one hour. As the congressman from Minnesota left, he invited: "I hope to have the pleasure of seeing you in Washington sometime."

Tito smiled and replied: "Who knows?" These days maybe anything will happen."

Combating Paul Robeson

It isn't often that an ambassador takes time out from his diplomatic duties to write a warm, personal tribute to a group of Americans traveling abroad. To most ambassadors traveling Americans are a pain in the neck who have to be wined and dined, then kissed goodbye as quickly as possible.

However, Charles Bay, U. S. ambassador to Norway, recently wrote this columnist, praising the Howard university students who brought a taste of American negro culture to Europe.

On their own, these young negroes toured the same countries that Paul Robeson had barnstormed, counteracting Robeson's brand of Communist propaganda. No other good-will mission has done so much to explode the Kremlin's favorite propaganda about the treatment of the American negro.

That's what led this columnist to suggest that the people of Washington, D. C., attend a final performance of the Howard university players, upon their return home.

In response to this suggestion, Ambassador Bay wrote: "We were touched and pleased to hear your reference to the Howard players. Mrs. Bay and I had a part in that group's visit, and the honor of welcoming them in Oslo with a reception at our embassy residence. It was also our honor to invite to that affair their royal highnesses, Crown Prince Olav and Crown Princess Martha, who accepted with enthusiasm.

"Their royal highness," continued the ambassador, "showed deep interest as manifested in their two hour long visit with these valid representatives of American culture and education.

"On the following evening the Norwegian foreign office arranged the gala performance where the Howard students presented Ibsen's "The Wild Duck. Here, again, as you pointed out in your broadcast, their royal highnesses graciously attended. Representative citizens packed the theater.

Jungle Trial

Dear Friends
and Gentle Hearts:

SOME OF the most surprising stories I know have been told me by missionaries who are, as I know from long acquaintance, bold and resourceful men and women, real workers to make this a happier and more decent world.

OURSLER

There is, for instance, the Rev. Don McClure, a Presbyterian from Pennsylvania, who has an outpost at Akolo, in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. One hot day, not so long ago, the Reverend Mr. McClure had to fight a duel in magic and sorcery, a contest unique in the struggle between the darkness of superstition and the light of truth.

On that blistering jungle day, the door of McClure's house was shut and from within came no sign of life. Around the front clearing, in a great half moon, squatted dark, watchful tribesmen. To the thump of jungle drums, the giant figure of Memba, witch doctor, swayed and pranced. Lord of forest wonder-workers, gorgeous in feathers and painted skin, Memba shook his rattles as he called defiance:

"Come out, you holy fellow, McClure! Memba show you black man magic; but what can you show Memba?"

ALL THE tribesmen screamed in approval and pointed their fingers at the solitary mission house. At the height of the din, the door began slowly to open. From the threshold, in the midst of instant silence, McClure looked straight at the witch doctor who was his implacable foe; this was the show-down.

"Memba," he said, "you go right ahead and show me now. Let's see what you can do."

From a basket of woven twigs, the medicine man lifted a deadly thing, purple, hairy, squirming—a giant jungle spider. One sting could mean death. Grinning scornfully, Memba dropped the spider on the back of his own massive hand and grinned as it scurried up his naked arm and shoulder. Bending far back, he let it crawl across his nose, eyes and mouth. At last, with a terrifying screech, he seized the creature and dangled it aloft.

"Now you take it," he challenged.

DON McCLURE is a pious man and believes in the help of God in all emergencies. He had not known what the witch doctor was going to do and now that he had seen the performance (made safe by an hypnotic salve rubbed on the medicine man's skin, so he suspected) he did not know how he was going to meet the situation by doing something even more wonderful. Yet he knew he must do exactly that. He had been teaching these jungle people about the love and truth of the Christian faith. He had told them that all power came from Heaven and that the witch doctor was a fraud. No wonder Memba was furious. In his ire, he had made a magnificent show of his power as a wonder worker and now he was daring the outsider to do as well.

"What," I asked McClure months later, "could you possibly do?"

"I did," he answered, "what any man can do at any time and under any difficulties. I prayed. Turning to that crowd of primitive tribesmen, I told them I was going inside my house and ask God for help—and then we would see. That's just what I did, and I was absolutely sure the answer would come. As I rose from my knees, I noticed an object lying on my desk and in one flash of inspiration, I knew what to do. I thrust it into my blouse and went

Twenty Foreign Nations To Help Haiti Celebrate 200th Birthday

By GESFORD F. FINE
United Press Staff Writer

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Dec. 3 — This city will celebrate its 200th anniversary this year with an exposition covering 30 acres in which 20 foreign nations will participate.

Built along Port-au-Prince's beautiful water front on a reclaimed area, all buildings of the exposition will be permanent and will be used later as trades centers, legations, consulates or chambers of commerce.

August Schmiedigen, a French-speaking citizen of the United States, is in charge of the building. He helped construct the Paris exposition in the 1930's and the World's Fair in New York in 1939. Fifteen hundred to 1,800 workmen are on the grounds to complete the job in time for the formal opening Dec. 8. The fair will run for six months. Yearly thereafter Haiti hopes to hold a West Indian trade fair to foster commerce with its nearest neighbors and the United States.

Another World

North American and other visitors will step directly from their cruise ships on to the exposition and will find themselves in a world that is unique, one that has touches of the West Indies, Latin America, France and Africa.

Back of the white cobalt harbor they will see verdant mountains which extend almost to the water's edge and provide a perfect backdrop.

This area ten months ago was filled with 15,000 Haitians living in poverty. They were transplanted and the entire section made into a different world with miles of flowers, a drainage system and other modern facilities.

Haiti would like to have the money for other such steps in progress. The present exposition will cost $10,000,000, of which the Haitian share will be about $6,000,000. President Estime told a group of visiting newsmen that a housing expert from the United States had estimated it would cost $11,000,000 to clear the slums in Port-au-Prince alone.

More Money Needed

Since Haiti is heavily overpopulated, the problem, the president said, exists on a nation-wide scale. It would take many more millions to eliminate all slums and raise the standard of living.

Meantime Haiti will go after the tourist dollar and hope that once the visitors start coming, they will continue to come. From Miami, Port-au-Prince is only 752 miles, a four-hour ride flight over Pan American Airways.

Going from New York, Miami or any North American city, the change of world in those few hours is unbelievable. From one's hotel room in the hills one can hear the sound of voodoo drums in the distance.

The drums, say the Haitians, beat the rhythm of liberty and remind one that a country of oppressed slaves fought for indepndence and won it in 1804.

And, by the way, while we are on "Alice in Wonderland," there is another charming little verse in one of those stories, which reminds me a bit of that Vishinsky speech at Lake Success:

"How doth the little crocodile

"And pour the waters of the Nile

And what happened!

UNDER THE broiling equatorial sun, the missionary stepped forward where all could see him. On the outstretched white palm Memba deposited the venemous insect. At the same instant, McClure snatched from his blouse his hidden weapon which none of these people had ever seen before. Only a few inches above the wary creature on his hand, he held the shimmering talisman. All at once there was a crackling frying sound and the spider burst into flame.

As McClure tossed it to the ground, the tribes-people screamed again but now with wonder. The humiliated witch doctor stalked off among the tall mahogany trees while Don McClure thanked God that his faith had been justified.

Then he thrust back into his blouse his fifty cent magnifying glass.

Weather Experts Forecast Odds For Cold Or Mild Winter In Various Areas Of U.S.

East, West May Reverse Roles

By FRANK E. CAREY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Easterners who had it mild last winter and westerners who had it tough may get different treatment this winter.

The weather man, sizing up the probabilities, put them this way:

Chances are nine out of ten that the east will have a colder winter than last year when it saved up to 20 per cent on heating costs.

Chances are three out of four that the west will have a warmer winter than last year when it burned up to 20 per cent more fuel than normal.

As for the midwest, which had a fairly normal winter last year, the weather bureau says it's just an even money bet—one way or the other—on whether the winter will be balmier or blastier.

Dry Winter Feared

A colder winter than last conceivably could compound the troubles of drouth-hit areas of New York and northern New Jersey, provided it were a "dry cold" winter with little snow and rain. But the weather men say a cold winter with little snow and rain. But the weather men say a cold winter is just as likely to be wet as dry.

New England is also affected—but to a much lesser extent—by the drouth.

WEATHER IS PREDICTED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP) — Dr. Charles G. Abbot, the Smithsonian scientist who goes in for long-range forecasting of Washington weather, says he's been 90 per cent right in predicting weather for prospective brides.

This year, he told a reporter, ten altar-bound girls called him up, well in advance of their wedding days, and asked him if they would fall in the class of happy-is-the-bride-that-the-sun-shines-on.

Abbot, who lists a year in advance particular dates that are more likely to have rain than the other dates, said he told nine of the girls that might expect fair weather.

"I told the tenth girl," he smiled, "that her wedding day was on my list for likelihood of rain. But it turned out fair, so I guess she was happy."

P. S.—Christmas Day in Washington is on Abbot's list for likely "precipitation," which of course could mean a white Christmas in the capital.

Weather men will not venture a prediction about what to expect in winter precipitation for the northeast, beyond a guarded forecast just for December.

Says Jerome Namias, chief of the weather bureau's extended forecast section:

"Although extended forecasts for as much as 30 days in advance are still in the highly experimental stage, what indications there are for the month of December point to precipitation in the northeast part of the country being slightly greater than normal for the month."

But W. B. Langbein, a hydraulic engineer of the U. S. geological survey, says the drouth-affected areas of New York and Jersey will need more than 50 per cent above normal precipitation (snow or rain) for the next three months just to keep their present tight water supply situations from getting worse.

As for replenishing reservoirs, he said, there is no possibility of

Church Group Turns Investment Of $100 Into $775 Fund

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

"Investments for God" bore fruit Saturday when members of Seventh Day Adventist church gathered to contribute at a special service the returns from money they invested in behalf of the church last spring.

A total of $775 was received or pledged Saturday morning to bring to $3,725 the total offerings made for the church's world medical, educational and evangelistic program carried on in 228 of the 282 countries of the world.

The total of $775 was raised from $100 which was passed out to the congregation last spring.

That money was raised in a myrid of ways: proceeds from eggs laid on the Sabbath by hens, five per cent of a total cotton crop, baking and selling cookies, cakes, crochet and needle work, sale of brooms and mops, Christmas cards,, baby-sitting, and numerous other ways.

Cucumber Money Given

One child gave the proceeds from 20 hills of cucumbers, others gave proceeds from cantaloupe, okra, sweet potato gardens, raising chickens and golden Syrian hamsters for laboratory purposes.

It was the children's day as well as the adults'. At regular Sabbath school services— the Adventists observe the Sabbath on Saturday —children of all ages used various means to illustrate the money they had collected.

The nursery group, for example —children up to four years old— placed a paper doll in an exhibit for each dollar collected. The next age group, primary children four to six, used a paper dog for each boy's contribution, a cat for each girl's.

At the beginning of the year $100 was distributed among the 130 members of the Sabbath school. This money was invested, after the fashion of the Bible par-

RAFB Airman Is Injured In Crash

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 3. (U.P.)—Lt. Delbert D. Hoffman of Lubbock, Texas, suffered a broken leg last night when the B-25 Air Force plane in which he was a passenger crashed in attempting to land at Mather Air Force base in a dense fog.

Three other occupants of the plane escaped injury. Base officers said the plane missed the runway by about 100 feet in the landing attempt, and broke into flames. Virtually the entire right side of the plane was demolished.

The plane was from Reese Air Force base at Lubbock and was completing a routine flight to Mather. Others aboard were Lt. Col. Galin Price, the pilot; Lt. G. M. Jensen, co-pilot, and Master Sgt. George Newland, all of the Texas base.

MISHAP FIRST FOR LUBBOCK AIR BASE

Lt. Delbert D. Hoffman, unmarried airman whose home state is listed as Oregon, probably will be air-evacuated after Mather field physicians determine if his injured leg will permit the flight, it was said at Reese Air Force base here.

The crew of the B-25, under expected routine, would remain at Mather field two or three days until an investigation is completed. Sacramento is well within flight range of a B-25, but visibility was zero-zero at the time of the crash, it had been learned by officials at RAFB.

The injury was the first since the advance cadre flew in to open RAFB five months ago, it was learned.

Austin Painter Found Burned To Death On Hotel Room Floor

AUSTIN, Dec. 3. (AP).— A 39-year-old painter was burned to death here last night in his room in the Brown hotel.

Fire Chief R. H. Dickerson and Captain Hugh Brinkley told police that firemen found the man lying on the floor, his clothes and the mattress on the bed still burning.

The man was identified as Gene Jerry Collier. Papers indicated he was born in Corning, Ark., police said.

Student Who Escaped Burning Dormitory Tells Of 'Heat Like Furnace' In Fire

By LOGAN L. RIGGS
As Told To United Press

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Logan L. Riggs, 24-year-old University of Oklahoma journalism junior, had his breakfast in bed this morning for the first time since he came home from the war. The Monroe, Okla., youth was among the students injured in the dormitory fire this morning. Following is his own account of the fire.)

NORMAN, Okla., Dec. 3.—The first thing I knew about it was my suite mate hollering, "Fire! Fire! Let's get the hell out."

By the time I sat up in bed he had the window open and was getting ready to jump. For some reason I decided to try to go through the hallway instead of using the window.

My room on the second floor of the BOQ had two doors. I tried to open one of them. I don't know whether it was the bathroom door or the door into the hall. I had grabbed my pants off the door handle and since I had left them hanging on the bathroom door knob I guess I was trying to get through the bathroom.

Terrific Heat Felt

Anyway it was just like opening a furnace door. The heat was terrific. I didn't know it at the time but I guess that's when I got burned. I dropped my pants and ran back to the window. There was a ledge running alongside the window and my idea was that this could be used as a fire escape.

I didn't think about it at the time. I just jumped to the ground. Where I hit was just a couple of rooms out from the central wing of the building and the two wings extending out from either side of it were both on fire.

I could see the flames coming out of some of the windows and I could see them brightly in all the others. That fire was spreading like it was gasolined. In all my time overseas with the signal corps I didn't see anything like it.

Crowd Seems Calm

I ran on down between the wings into the open. That's where the other guys were standing around. They all seemed pretty calm. They kept talking about how much they'd lost in the fire. I guess it was 15 minutes after that before the firemen got there.

I found my roommate, Cy Kees of Spokane, Wash. The boys down in the fifth wing—that's the west end of the building—had more time to get out. I found a blanket in a pile of clothes and stuff which one of them had laid on the ground. When I put that raw blanket over my neck and back I realized I'd been burned but the doctors say it isn't too serious.

Considering how horrible it all was I feel pretty good.

I lost erything but one slightly used pair of underwear shorts. I don't believe I saw more than two of the boys in pajamas. I guess we put on quite an underwear show.

Wortham Is Re-elected Head Of Texas Forestry Group

LUFKIN, Dec. 3 (AP) — R. W. Wortham, jr., will again head the Texas Forestry association.

Wortham was re-elected president yesterday at the 35th annual meeting of the association. He is executive pice president of Southland Paper Mills, Inc.

Other officers include Paul Hursey, Jasper, first vice president; W. Goodrich Jones, Waco, president emeritus, and Loren L. Bishop, Lufkin, executive secretary-treasurer.

U. S. Senator Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) was among the speakers at the one-day convention.

He criticized those who would substitute the promise of security for freedom.

TB Seal Sale Short Of Goal

A total of $5,938.20 had been received Saturday in the Christmas seal sale and through personal solicitations of Lubbock County Tuberculosis association.

Saturday was the 12th weekday since the opening of the annual seal sale.

Results are encouraging, said Miss Virginia Greenwaldt, executive secretary of the association, who said the association hopes to reach a goal of $15,000 by Christmas day. The funds will be used to finance work of the association in prevention and cure of tuberculosis next year.

Bangle Day Set

Bangle day will be observed Dec. 13 in Lubbock public schools and on Dec. 15 or 16 in Lubbock county schools. Bangles, in shape of the double-bar cross, emblem of the National Tuberculosis association, will be sold for 10 cents each.

Seven booths will be operated from Wednesday through Saturday at downtown locations by members of the Junior Welfare league, under direction of Mrs. Bill Coker, member of the league and also of the tuberculosis association board. A booth will be operated Saturday at Sears Roebuck & Co. Christmas seals will be sold in booths to persons who did not receive them in the mail.

WOULD YOU BE INTERESTED?
In buying a suburban tract of around 3 acres at a price of from $1,000 to $2,000 per tract with 10% down and balance in monthly payments?
Location of 160 acres two miles from City Limits just off Levelland Highway, would like to have suggestions from interested persons in making plans to sell.
Highly productive land with worlds of water. Price of each tract to be governed by location. Electricity on the ground. Gas possible. What kind of restrictions would you want? How much monthly payment would you wish to make? Would you want larger or smaller tracts?
Any ideas and suggestions welcome and no one will try to sell you anything. All replies confidential.

Big Silver Dollars, Pride Of Old West, Still Are In Demand

DENVER, Dec. 3. (U.P.)—The average purse-hugger wouldn't know it, but there still is a demand for the old-fashioned silver dollar.

In this day of folding money, folks still are asking for the favorite mazuma of the Colorado mining barons.

The big cartwheel, which once could buy more than a stack of the present-day green stuff, seldom is seen now in ordinary day-to-day exchange.

Bankers believe the biggest group of present-day silver dollar users are people who frequent gambling places and slot machine players. The heavy dollar is too bulky now to serve the financial needs of the housewife or average consumer, especially with the drastic cheapening of money during the past decade.

Not Grocery Money

Even in western states like Colorado, where 15 years ago cashiers always returned silver dollars in change for folding money unless specifically requested not to, the silver dollar is dropping out of the money picture as far as the grocery-buyer is concerned.

They still are not as rare in the west, however, as in the east, where a silver dollar seldom is seen outside a bank vault.

Despite the silver dollar's disappearance from the bulk of trade, it still is popular with some people. Moses Smith, director of the U. S. mint in Denver, said the hard dollars are being distributed to federal reserve banks at a rate of about 4,000,000 a year.

The treasury has a stockpile in its mints of something like $13,000,000,000 in silver dollars, despite the fact that minting of that coin was stopped in 1935. The last big batch was turned out in 1921.

Mining Kings Liked Them

The silver dollar reached the height of its popularity as a medium of exchange in the 1880s and '90s during the heyday of such fabulous mining kings as Colorado's "Haw" Tabor and Meyer Guggenheim.

Tabor always carried a pocketful of the big clanking coins which he liked to throw onto the stage of the Leadville opera house when a trim figure drew his admiration. Some of the silver barons used the dollars for flooring as an obvious motif.

A part of the present demand for silver dollars, the Denver mint believes, may be attributable to the growing demand for soin in this country.

U. S. mints in the past decade have produced 50 per cent of all the coinage turned out in the United States in the past 150 years.

Until dollar parking meters and peanut machines come along, however, gambling probably will provide the chief demand for the old-fashioned cartwheel.

A good sauce for shrimp is made quickly by mixing together about three-quarters cup of chili sauce, a tablespoon of prepared horseradish, a teaspoon of prepared mustard, and a little scraped onion. A few drops of tobasco sauce may be added if you like your sauce "hot."

NEW PROGRESS MADE

NEW YORK, Dec. 3. (AP)—The stock market made new progress today but with a little less sparkle than displayed on Thursday and Friday.

Gains of fractions to around a point were spread through the entire list. The improvement followed yesterday's rise to a 13-month high in the fastest trading of the year.

Rapid business lifted sales to the highest figure for any Saturday this year. Turnover was at the rate of about 900,000 shares for the two-hour session.

The present move, a continuation of a rise that started back in mid-June, was sparked Thursday by doing that until next spring after the thaws.

East, West Expected To Exchange Roles In Coming Winter Weather

"If these areas don't get at least 50 per cent above normal precipitation for the three months, drains on reserves will have to continue, making replenishment all the more difficult," he said, adding:

"If these areas should have an adverse winter—adverse that is in the sense of having little precipitation—they would be in a bad way. New York has water to last about 100 days in storage. If that should reach a danger point through continued tapping, rationing of water would probably be necessary. If it should be exhausted, the city might have to turn to other available emergency means, such as pumping water out of the Hudson river. The latter step would require heavy chlorination of the water."

But Langbein said that while New Yorkers and New Jerseyites faced an "uncomfortable" situation, the drouth would surely pass eventually.

This is in contrast, he said, with "chronic" situations existing in parts of southern California, southern Arizona, the high plains of Texas and the grand prairie of Arkansas.

Those are examples, he said, of sizeable areas of the country where "ground water" supplies are overdeveloped — that is, more water is constantly being pumped out of wells than is coming into the area. This situation is true also, he said, in many individual localities throughout the country.

U. S. Potential High

Langbein and other engineers said, however, that the ground water resources of the nation as a whole are more than adequate for a long time to come. They point out that large undeveloped supplies of ground water remain in many areas. And they say the present total ground-water withdrawal in the nation represents only a fraction of the potential.

Herbert Thom, climatological specialist of the weather bureau, is the man who has worked out the probabilities of a colder winter in the east and a warmer one in the west than last year.

Thom also ventured a highly qualified forecast on what the precipitation situation might be in the northeast.

"Because the northeast is normally an area of adequate moisture," he said, "I would say that the chances are at least even that the drouth situation would be relieved to some extent in the northeast within the next few months."

He said he reached his conclusions about the temperature situation for the east and west from studies of weather records of the past 50 years.

If last winter had been a normal winter for the east and west, he declared, "it would be impossible to say anything more than that there was a 50-50 chance we'd have more of the same.

But since the winter was abnormal in both areas, he said, the probabilities increase against repetition.

Dr. Charles Abbot, former secretary o fthe Smithsonian institution, who has had a good batting average in long-range forecasting of Washington weather—including the weather on presidential inaugural dates—said he had no forecasts to offer concerning the coming winter.

But Abbot, who believes that there are 23-year cycles of weather related to cyclic periods of sunspots, contends that there is a "master cycle" of variations in the sun's radiation that covers a span of 273 months—three months less than 23 years.

So he says observers in the drouth areas might look to the weather pattern of March in 1927 and of June in 1904 to get a rough idea of what January 1950 might bring, and so on.

He maintains that there are a lot of "sub-multiple" cycles within the 23-year "master cycle" which can affect the probabilities, but he says a rough estimate might posibly be obtained by using just the master cycle.

Forecasting System Studied

Abbot said it would be necessary for the records of about ten different spots in the areas to be studied.

He said if observers took the records of "a lot of stations" in the area and applied the cyclic technique, they might "get some line" on what to expect.

He said that during the war, he made such a study for a man in the Tennessee valley area who wanted to get a line on expected rainfall for a given season.

Abbot said that on the basits of his computations, he forecast that the rainfall would be 87 per cent of normal. As things turned out, he added, the average rainfall for the ten stations involved was 85 per cent of normal.

Abbot says he's now engaged on a big project involving study of the weather records of Peoria, Ill., dating back to 1856.

Out of this study, in which he's applying his solar radiation concepts, he says he hopes to work out a national system for forecasting the weather, season by season, as much as 15 years in advance.

New Farm Crop Support Plan To Be Studied at Atlanta Meet

ATLANTA, Dec. 3. (AP)— A program to support farm crop prices without subsidies or acreage control will be discussed here Dec. 10 when the Southern Association of Commissioners of Agriculture meet.

The plan was worked out by Georgia's Commissioner Tom Linder, who is president of the Southern association. Fourteen southern states are members of the organization.

He proposes that Congress put a floor under farm crop prices just like it put a floor under wages. Linder hopes to have the proposal in shape to present to Congress in January.

The minimum floor price would apply only to the amount of a farm product which could be absorbed on the domestic market. Export production would not be covered.

Linder would make it against the law to buy or sell at below that floor price for domestic use.

able of the talents, by individuals in various projects for the benefit of the church program.

Not including tithes and offerings for other purpose, the local church has given so far this year the total of $3,725 for the world mission program at home and abroad.

The 130 members in Lubbock are part of the Seventh Day Adventist world membership of 670,000. In addition to churches, the denomination maintains schools, hospital, treatment rooms, publishing houses and food companies, a total of 551 such institutions.

Nursery Donates $103

The 15 boys and girls under four years of age gave a total of $103, it was reported Saturday.

Carl Jean Haney, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Cox of Lubbock, gave $58, the proceeds from 200 chickens. Carolyn Hewitt, 7, daughter of Elder and Mrs. F. H. Hewitt, sold Christmas cards to earn her contribution to the program.

Margaret Ann Reese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Reese, sold doilies made by grandmother, Shirley Ann Smith, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Smith of Lubbock, sold home-baked cookies and motto-cards.

Children Cultivated Garden

Margaret Gifford, 5, and Marilyn Gifford, 3, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Gifford, of east of Lubbock, each cultivated four rows of garden vegetables and gave the cash proceeds. Josephine Puckett, 10, sold crocheted goods also. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Puckett of Lubbock.

Barbara Sue Harkey, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Harkey, made and sold crocheted dolls. Dwain Glass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Glass, sold snowcones this summer and gave his profits to the cause. His brother, Don, and J. E. Hayes, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hayes, did the same thing.

Clifton Williams, 7½, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams of Slaton, sold candy to obtain his profits for contribution.

Jimmy Prindle, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Prindle of Lubbock, made and sold footstools. Charlie Guinn, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Guinn of Lubbock, sold brooms and mops.

Leon Cummins, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cummins, raised chickens. Gordon Sillivent, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Sillivent, raised and sold chickens.

Nona Gifford, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Gifford, contributed $35 obtained by growing and selling cantaloupes, squash, sweet potatoes. Many other similar projects were carried on.

Many Traditions Of Christmas Are Traced To Roman Festival

KENT, O., Dec. 3(U.P.)—Some of the nicest traditions of Christmas, including gift giving and greenery decoration, had their inception in the festival of the Roman Saturnalia, says Martin L. Davey, jr., the tree expert. Holy boughs were sent as tokens of good will and dwellings were decked with holly branches and laurel.

The people and the senate presented gifts to the emperor and enjoyed a general exchange, as well. When Christmas supplanted the Saturnalia, the customs survived and eventually became our own.

City Of Minneapolis Returns Check To Man After 10 Years

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 3 (U.P.) — The Rev. Timothy W. Crowley, pastor of the Church of the Holy Name, had his own check for $709.50 returned by the city after more than 10 years.

Dated May 20, 1939, the check was held in the city treasurer's office pending a proposed change in the alley arrangement in the rear of the church.

Another plan was worked out and the change never was made. City Treasurer Gladys Miller said all parties seem to be satisfied with the present arrangement and Father Crowley's check for construction work under the original plan didn't have to be cashed after all.

Communists In China Slowly Revising Educational System

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3. (AP)— The Chinese Reds have begun to remold their higher educational system, but obviously are going slow. In a broadcast heard here by the Associated Press, the Peking Radio said curricula for colleges and arts and sciences had been revised.

"This marks the beginning of the reformation of the old educational system in universities and colleges in China," declared the broadcast. Dialectical materialism, historical materialism and what the Reds call "new democracy" are required subjects. Russian is required as a foreign language course "whenever possible."

KKK Moral Rules Meet Legal Test

ROME, Ga., Dec. 3. (AP)—A mass civil rights trial here has raised the question of whether the Ku Klux Klan can set up and enforce moral standards without legal interference.

The question has become a major side issue in the trial of 10 Dade county men in the case of seven flogged negroes.

For seven days U. S. District Attorney J. Ellis Mundy sought to show that the 10 conspired to have the negroes arrested falsely, seized and flogged by klansmen.

Threats Are Told

By way of showing conspiracy, or "concert of action," Mundy placed three white witnesses on the stand in the district court to tell of threats made the night of April 2—the night the negroes were whipped.

Each told a tale of sharp raps on the door and the appearance of white robed and hooded men with stern warnings.

Mrs. John Lee Shaw was told that a man named Henry Gifford had been hanging around too much during the six months absence of her husband.

Sure, she said, Gifford came around often to feed her six foxhounds which she couldn't afford to feed herself and had tried to sell and couldn't.

Man Given Warning

William Kelly got a warning to sober up, stop fighting with his wife and stop "laying out" from work.

Kelly admitted freely that he drank; in fact, got drunk. He said too, that he fought with his wife, but he denied firmly that he neglected her.

Defense Attorney Frank Gleason cross-examined the witnesses so vigorously on their private lives on whether the klansmen threatened them directly with bodily harm that Federal Judge Frank A. Hooper intervened.

"Is it your intent to show justification?" the judge asked Gleason.

"Yes, sir," the attorney replied.

Gleason argued that there was no federal law, at least none that he knew about, that prohibited men, masked or unmasked, going peacefully to anybody's door, calling them into the yard and giving them a lecture.

Then Gleason observed that while he personally disapproved of such acts, he as an attorney, had "to take such circumstances as we find them."

Mundy held that these three visits and the flogging evidenced a conspiracy under a civil rights statute.

It is Gleason's contention that the government has failed to show conspiracy in the first place and, in the second, the wrong men are on trial.

Chicago Hotel Loses $22,000 In Cash, Checks To Robbers

CHICAGO, Dec. 3. (AP) — Two bold robbers who apparently were familiar with its internal operations late yesterday robbed the sprawling Stevens hotel of $22,000 in cash and checks.

They escaped after slugging General Cashier H. W. Kipper, 47.

The robbery occurred as Kipper stepped from a service elevator at the fourth floor, where the hotel's offices are located. The service elevators are inaccessible to any but hotel personnel, and Kipper was following his daily routine of collecting from the lobby cages and going back to his office.

Kipper told police he saw the two men as he left the elevator. One struck him on the back of the head with a gun, the other took from him the brief case containing the funds.

They pushed him toward the offices and fled down a backstair.

Audrey Lindgren, hotel advertising director, said $15,000 was in checks and that probably $7,000 was in cash. Receipts had been swelled by room payments of 4-H club members whose national convention has just ended.

The hotel is the world's largest.

BEANS GROW BIG

AXTELL, Kan. (U.P.)— Mrs. Gus Preaches's hobby is raising guinea beans. They grow to more than a yard in length and weigh up to 10 pounds. "They make delicious eating when rolled in a mixture of eggs and flour and fried," she said. "They taste like egg plant."
