Political Focus On Judge Race

With Carter Against Martin

With only one more day remaining, candidates for the judge race in Mitchell County politics has focused on the county judgeship.

Attention turned to the judge's post when Bill E. Carter, 46, prominent business man and former Colorado Independent School District board president, announced he would oppose County Judge Luther Martin.

Martin, 50, is a Republican and has been in office since 1964.

With both men in the race, the judge's post is the most interesting and argued for the judgeship in the county.

Carter's statement to the public came only a few days after initial reports that he was considering the race.

I had not planned on this, but I have been approached by a number of friends and acquaintances who asked me to run.

And I made the decision.

Carter, a partner in a law firm, has been in the county for six years in the county's two-year term, as secretary and two years as president.

He has been in the county for six years in the county's two-year term, as secretary and two years as president.

Currently, he is appointed to the leadership group of the county's two-year term, as secretary and two years as president.

He emphasized that his campaign for county judge would be based on ideas for cooperation between all governmental agencies, county, city, and state, a qualified juvenile officer for the county, improved relations with minority groups, improved planning and scheduling of county road paving, to work for new industry, and to work for new industry.

I am concerned about some of our youth problems, but we have a real problem or we do not.

For the future, then, let's get the people to know if we have a real problem or if we have a real problem.

Walter, who came to Colorado City after service in the Air Force during World War II, said he was a need for the county to plan its paving projects several years at a time on a planned basis, and they should be in with school bus routes.

He believes that a qualified juvenile officer is needed for the entire county to assist youths in trouble, to help curb any move toward lawlessness and to aid in keeping children and youths in school.

A juvenile officer might be able to work also with the sheriff's department, which sometimes is understaffed, he said.

He pointed to County Court in particular when he declared that "I am firm believer in what laws are made to be upheld."

I pledge to conduct County Court of law in fair and courteous, but firm manner.

At the same time he spoke for support of law enforcement officers.

Carter said he believed there was room for improving relations with and between minority groups, both by effort toward understanding, and by a firm policy of fairness and impartiality to all in enforcing the law.

We are all concerned about the future of Mitchell County.

Carter spoke, and what really happens to our community depends on what we do in the early 1970's.

If we will do what we can with what we have, we can accomplish a lot and I will look forward to working any way possible to that end.

Cotton Sign Up Delayed

Cotton notices, originally scheduled for mailing Friday, and Monday's sign-up are being delayed.

The hold-up may be for 10 days or two weeks.

State Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation Service office ordered the delay this week.

Yield computations in several Texas counties, including Mitchell, are causing delay to stall the cotton program procedure.

Mitchell County ASCS was ready to mail cotton notices before the Friday deadline and to begin sign-up for the 1970 program Monday.

But they tell us to hold.

W.C. Davis Rites Pend

W. C. Davis of 944 Hickory Street died Saturday morning in the local hospital.

Funeral rites are pending at Kiker and Son Funeral Home.

Survivors include a brother, Jack Davis, of Colorado City and a sister of Fort Worth.

Emergency Ag Allocation

$38,111 Flood Funds

Mitchell County will have $38,111 emergency Agricultural Practices Program funds to repair 1969 flood damage.

With emergency funds comes an extension of the authorized period for carrying out the emergency practices.

Notification of the emergency allocation and the extension came Friday to Mitchell County Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation Service Committee.

It was the committee Chairman Curtis Latimer, Jr.

win Roach and Warren Anderson and ASCS Executive Director Eddie Braswell initiated the effort to secure the special funding and severe damage to agricultural lands in May and June rains.

An inspection by specialists from the State ASCS Office here in July and their on-site inspection of flood damage supported the county request. Severe farm damage was spotted in all areas of the county, along with heavy road damage.

The $38,111 is for sharing the cost of repairing damaged structures, such as terraces, caused by the flooding.

Extension of authorized period for carrying out F-4 practices was approved by the Secretary of Agriculture in conjunction with the allocation. This extends the period.

The emergency funds are for that amount which may be provided for technical service performed by Soil Conservation Service, the ASCS office was informed.

Mitchell County producers previously approved for flood repair work, if they did not start their repairs by last Dec. 31, should make new application at the ASCS. Braswell emphasized.

Producers who already have started their work should advise us so that we can reissue a 1970 approval, he added.

Braswell said the county office has the requests originally for flood repairing. Approximately 100 repair projects are yet to be started, he estimated.

Two community leaders were honored this week when Jaycees had their meeting. At left, Dr. Billy B. Bridgford receives the Distinguished Service Award as the community's outstanding young man for 1969 from Patriman and Jaycee President George Lee. Bridgford was out of town when he was named for the award at annual Chamber of Commerce banquet. At right, Billy Cornutt, receives the Jaycees' Outstanding Young Farmer Award from Dink Rees. Cornutt, son of a Mitchell County farmer, now operates farms south of Lorraine, is married and father of a son.

Like any young lovers they huddled close together and flaked — mostly about the future.

Sometimes with an arm around the other.

policy, Mitchell County's maize base was cut 7,000 acres for '70. This resulted in an across-the-board cut of 9 per cent for every producer.

Skip-row feed grain will be computed the same as cotton for '70. That means 2-and-2 will count 50 per cent grain and 2-and-1 will count 66 2/3 per cent.

Also new for '70 is the fact that sweet sorghum is not approved for planting on diverted acres.

Like the cotton program, there will be no advance payments earlier than in previous years.

Payment rates for crop land diverted above the qualifying 20 per cent, Braswell said, will be based on 40 per cent of the county price support multiplied by the farm yield.

This compares to 45 per cent in 1969, he added, "but the increase in individual yields should more than offset this reduction."

CONVERSATION CORNER

HERE comes little old February, smallest month of the twelve, with its 28 short sweet days—thanks to the ego of the Caesars.

February-lovers don't mind too much—because February has charms of its own.

It brings in Ground Hog day which according to legend is supposed to predict the length of winter, and hardly ever does. If the ground hog sees his shadow, says the legend, he goes back to bed for another six weeks of cold weather.

If that ground hog creeps out to a cloudy day tomorrow and does not see his shadow people are supposed to rejoice and get ready for an earlier spring.

The ground hog does not always cooperate. Most years he sleeps right through the whole deal or decides to take another nap, anyhow. And we still get six weeks more of winter weather.

FEBRUARY brings in one day dear to all children and to all romanticists of whatever age. It's called Valentine Day, the day of "hearts and flowers," when it's all right to express love and admiration all around.

February marks celebrations for the birthdays of Abraham Lincoln, George Washington, and numerous far less famous people.

People born in February are born under the Pisces sign of the fish. Horoscopes explain how sensitive and loving and talented people born under the sign are.

A person born under the sign of Pisces is never supposed to marry another person born under the same sign, it says here. A fine time to be telling some of us!

ONCE every fourth year, which date has to be divisible by four, February brings in Leap Year which used to be such a joy to all young maidens everywhere.

Leap Year, coming up in 1972 next time, was long ago adopted as the time when girls could propose matrimony to boys and women could court the men.

Leap Year, used to be just an earlier version of Sadie Hawkins Day, only it lasted a whole blessed year for the convenience of females cursed with reluctant swains.

Have the feeling that Leap Year, that 29th day of February we see every four years, is no longer strictly necessary.

WHEN they get around to it, members of NOW (National Organization for Women) will try to abolish Leap Year—along with Valentine Day.

They've already gone on record as opposing Mother's Day, you know, because it stresses inequality between the sexes.

NOW president, the feminist author Betty Friedan, has called Judge Harold G. Carswell "a sexist judge" right out loud in public.

The word "sexist" is not in the newest dictionary in this house so Miss Friedan probably coined it. It wasn't meant, she feels, for a compliment as it is in the word "sexy."

Beautiful Representative Patsy T. Mink of Hawaii, and of Japanese heritage, added "Male supremacy, like white supremacy, is repugnant to those who really believe in equality."

A group of younger feminists broke up the hearings on "the pill" the other day, too. NOW members mean business.

LIKE the old word "sexy" and the new-comer "sexist," the words "feminist" and "feminine" have a meaning gap.

It is perfectly all right with the average "feminine" woman to be made equal to the men. But any time the "feminist" women arrange it so that men are equal to women there's going to be real trouble.

Women who insist on "wearing the pants" look divine so long as they stick to stylish slacks. But can you bear the thought of expectant young fathers wearing maternity jackets?

SEEN LATELY this time include the Wright Hocks in town from the ranch with two-year-old grandson Cody Scott wearing a black cowboy hat almost as big as he is. They were joined by Cody's mother Susan (Mrs. David) Scott, teacher's aide who helps with the Physical Education program for elementary school children.

Saw Jo Tiller, wife of Johnny, getting beautified. Faye Marcom, Sunday Chalmers, Ray Anne Carlock with newly frosted hair.

Frank Derogibus was at the refreshment counter at the Corner. So were John Morgan and Buck May.

Philip and Minna Berman were coffee-breaking. They are in Dallas this weekend to see Max Berman and his wife, Sydel before Max leaves for Rochester, Minnesota, for surgery. Mrs. Max will go with him.

TWOSOME in the bank lobby and talking C-City Playhouse was made up of Bob Reilly and George Womack.

Otto Jones, who moved with his wife Myrtle, to a home on Hickory St. after more than 50 years spent at Randerbrook Ranch, was visiting at the Colorado refreshment counter with Frances and Wallace Stockton.

The Stocktons, longtime ranchers in the Hyman area, have moved to a new home at Sand Springs. "Stock" kept his land but sold his cattle to retire from active ranching chores.

Same time, same place, saw Bonnie Burt, Mrs. J. D. Gibson, Joe Earnest, Annie (Mrs. Ross Sr.) Dixon, Mozelle (Mrs. George) Callendar.

FAMILIAR FACES here and there places belonged to Paul Boyd Hunter, Gus Chesney, senior VP at City National. Faye (Mrs. Albert) Spivey.

Edith Wilkerson, principal at Loraine, was here for a short visit. Eddie Braswell was an office drop-in.

Mrs. Homer Jameson, hospitalized recently in Big Spring, was on Walnut St. looking her prettiest.

TELEPHONE visits brought one with Mrs. Pete Pickens, an interesting caller who had pertinent things to say about those "snazzy" new uniforms for White House police force members.

In my opinion, Mrs. Pickens said humorously, "all we need now is a purple robe for the President."

Mary Lee Moore called to relay bits of news—and to pass on a recipe for the most delicious fruit salad in the process.

Mary Lee was saying that our Dr. Dave Bridgford fell from a ladder at his home while pruning trees. He has a fractured heel and had to be hospitalized at Shannon Memorial in San Angelo for bone surgery. Seems he landed smack on his patio, another casualty of that ice storm which left people with broken limbs—and heels.

MAIL CALL brought a note from Mrs. Durwood Edwards, the former Juanita Barton, who lost her mother recently. Juanita and her family live in Dallas but she writes "Though we have been away from Colorado City for many years, part of our hearts are still there."

Letter from Elma Womack Stell came from Hobbs, New Mexico, where she and her husband Robert Stell moved recently from Kingman, Arizona. Elma, daughter of Mrs. B. W. Womack and sister of Jack Womack of Odessa, grew up here and was receptionist for Kiker before her marriage, Feb. 3, 1945.

The Stells have an eight-month-old granddaughter named Lisa, baby of their first daughter Linda and her husband George Watson of Bellflower, California.

Their second daughter Marsha was married Jan. 3 here in C-City to Airman David Gene Gill of Kinman, now stationed at Chanute Field, Illinois.

Federation Tea Compliments Mesquite District President

Mrs. W. V. Wheeler of Albany, president of Mesquite District Federation of Women's Clubs, was honored at a tea Tuesday afternoon in Hesperian Room of Mitchell County Public Library.

Mrs. Wheeler, a former member of Zetaphathian Study Club when she was a Colorado City resident, was guest speaker for the affair.

She reviewed history and achievements of General Federation of Women's Clubs which now has over 11,000,000 members - and comprises 400 districts with 15,000 clubs.

Through the millions of women everywhere who are already a part of its far-flung membership, Mrs. Wheeler said, the General Federation looks confidently into a future which will offer new challenges and even greater opportunities for service and achievement.

Among achievements she discussed were the enactment of an 8-hour day, the Workmen's Compensation Act, the first Federal Child Labor Law, the Pure Food and Drug Act.

Clubwomen continue to work to improve the political and social status of women, to provide better schools, raise educational standards and secure greater recognition of teachers.

Women have graduated from the position of just going along for a ride in world affairs.

Now, in addition to practicing the arts of homemaking, they are contributing partners in nearly every phase of modern living. Women not only have the desire to make a better work, they have the power. They cast 52 per cent of the vote and control the nation's pocket-book," the honored guest continued.
