Lavish Presentation Of Ballet Slated Here Tuesday Evening

Big Spring will get its most lavish taste of the ballet Tuesday at 8 p.m. when the curtain goes up for two presentations by the Chicago Civic Opera Ballet.

This is one of the programs in the current Concert Association series, and only members may attend.

Under the guiding hand of Ruty Page, the ballet stars Marjorie Tallchief and Oleg Briansky and includes such artists as Sonia Arova, Job Sanders, Kenneth Johnson, Barbara Steele and Benele Stone as well as the corps de ballet.

Two original ballets arranged by Miss Page will be presented. The first will be "Revenge," based on Verdi's opera "Il Trovatore." The second is the "Merry Widow," based on the famous operetta music by Franz Lehár. The orchestra is under the direction of Leo Kopp with Neal Kayan as assistant conductor.

The ballet will be carrying perhaps the largest stock of scenery and lavish costumes of any production ever given here. There are 48 in the company including the orchestra.

This tour marks the first appearance of Miss Tallchief in America in six seasons. She and George Skibine have been enjoying much success as leading lights of the famed grand ballet of the Marquis de Cuevas. Following the current tour, they are due to become the first dancers and choreographers of the Paris Grand Opera, the first Americans to be so honored in the 200 years of this institution.

"Revenge," an exciting ballet retelling of the opera "Il Trovatore," against Verdi's score has striking Picasso-like settings and costumes designed by the Parisian artist, Antonio Cave.

"The Merry Widow" puts romantic and witty characters on their toes and spinning to the heady and beloved Lehár melodies. The decors were created for Miss Page's work in this presentation.

TAKES MALE LEAD IN OPERA BALLET
Oleg Briansky to appear here Tuesday

by the New York designer, Karinska. The Chicago Opera Ballet is in its third season of tour, thanks to Miss Page, who was taken under the wing of the great Ann Pavlova and became a great dancer in her own right. She became guest premiere danseuse of the Metropolitan Opera and scored heavily on European and Far East tours. In Chicago she became a part of every major opera and ballet organization of recent date.

Miss Tallchief, an Oklahoma girl who rose to heights as a dancer, has been for nearly 10 years the star of De Cuevas ballet. She has danced the leads in all the great ballets of the classical repertoire, including "Swan Lake," "Les Sylphides," "Giselle" and others. All of this has made her an internationally famed star, an exhilarating achievement for the daughter of an Osage chief and Scotch-Irish mother.

Oleg Briansky, premier danseur and choreographer of the De Cuevas Ballet Company, is stepping into the lead opposite Miss Tallchief, replacing George Skibine, who injured a leg at the outset of the tour. Briansky has starred with such troupes as the Ballet de Paris, Des Champs Elysees, Festival Ballet in London and others. He made his American debut in 1954 with Lyric Opera in Chicago. Interestingly, Miss Page created the "Merry Widow" ballet with Briansky in mind for the lead.

Big Springer Takes Place On Lamesa Police Force

LAMESA, Feb. 16 — Acting Police Chief Emmett Crecelius Friday named Bruce Poe, 43, to the police force here.

A veteran police officer, Poe was on the Big Spring police force for 10 years. More recently he has been employed as a meter reader in the water department at Big Spring. Poe assumed duties here Saturday night. He and his wife have a son living in Freepert, will move here as soon as they can find a suitable home.

The naming of the Big Spring man to the Police Department brought the number of men in the department back to six, still only about one-half of the number actually needed to adequately police a city the size of Lamesa.

Captain Lloyd Martin resigned from the force this week, leaving only one captain, Crecelius, two sergeants, L. D. Martin and J. V. Schaeffer, and two patrolmen, Howard Miller and Robert Brown. Crecelius said that Martin resigned for personal reasons. Martin joined the force here about

Little On Agenda For Commissioners

County Commissioners Court will meet at 10 a.m. Monday but there was no definite outline of any special work the court may find to do.

R. H. Weaver, county judge, has been in Washington attending an Air Force conference and did not return to Big Spring until late Saturday.

Earl Hull, who was the only other commissioner at the courthouse Saturday morning, said he knew of nothing special to be brought before the court. Lee Porter, county auditor, said he had no business of importance to submit.

Dog Catcher Collects $9.50 In Pound Fees

The city started assessing pound fees last Monday, and the week's collections amounted to $9.50.

The city is now authorized to charge a fee when a dog is impounded. Authorization came with the new dog ordinance passed in January.

Since the pens were put in use at the city warehouse last Monday, the pound fees have been collected. The charge is $1.50, plus 50 cents for every day or part of day that the dog is held in the pound.

Although the ordinance went into effect in January, the city did not assess the pound fees while Dr. H. F. Schwarzenbach was handling the dogs at his veterinary hospital.

Pound fees are paid at the city warehouse, plus the vaccination and registration charges if needed, before the dog can be released to its owner.

Any dog held over 72 hours without being claimed is exterminated. Two of the pound fees paid last week were by out-of-town residents who found dogs they wanted at the pound. Any dog not having an owner can be claimed at the end of the 72-hour period by paying the necessary charges.

Through Saturday noon, the city had issued 288 dog tags since Jan. 1. This upsurge in registrations is due to passage of the new ordinance, since only 170 tags were issued throughout 1956.

Prompt Action On Road Rights Urged

Earl Hull, county commissioner, said Sunday that 10 of the 17 right-of-way easements needed for a proposed improvement project on the old Colorado road have been signed.

Hull urged that the remaining seven landowners agree to the easements as quickly as possible. He said that he had contacted all of the landowners and that he believed they would be willing, for the most part, to grant the additional land needed for the program. However, the commissioner stated, the matter needs settlement quickly.

He explained that the county is scheduled to move onto the project as soon as the present job on the Gay Hill road is completed. Work is nearly finished on this latter project.

Hull pointed out that if the right-of-way is cleared and all details worked out, the Colorado road will be the next on the county highway building agenda. If the easements are not completed, there is a possibility that some other county road will be substituted for the Colorado project.

The Colorado road job calls for five miles of paving beginning at the Snyder Highway intersection and extending eastward to Salem Church. The county wants an additional 12.5 feet of right-of-way on each side to make the width of the road 80 feet. It is now a 56-foot road. The county is to build a 20-foot paving slab with two-foot shoulders on the road which is not now paved.

Under plans now being pursued by the Howard County Commissioners Court, the Colorado road is slated as the first 1957 road job to be initiated. The county proposes to pave approximately 20 miles of county highway this year.

Hull said that by terms of the present plan, when the five miles he proposes on the Colorado road are completed that approximately three more miles of the same road extending south from Salem Church would be surfaced. This is in the district served by Commissioner G. E. Gilliam.

Hull asked that the seven property owners who have not signed easements contact him at once. He would like, he explained, to complete all details on the right-of-way this week. Then, he said, task of removing telephone and power lines and resetting fences could be started. These things, he said, have to be out of the way before the road building can begin.

Barton Grooms Is Commended

Barton Grooms, a senior in Big Spring High School, has been commended by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation for distinguished performance in its nationwide search for students of unusual ability, according to Roy D. Worley, high school principal.

He has been named among the Texas state runners-up in the 1957 merit scholarship competition. Seniors so honored are among the top two per cent in ability in the state, said John M. Stalnaker, president of NMSC. While they did not quite reach the finals of the 1957 merit scholarship competition their records deserved special recognition.

This year some 162,000 outstanding seniors from 12,500 high schools entered with 750 four-year college scholarships estimated at $3.75 million at stake. The NMSC was established in 1955 through grants of $20.5 million from the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation of New York. More than 40 businesses and industrial firms offer scholarships through it.

YMCA Celebrates Campaign Victory

The Big Spring YMCA celebrated its most successful membership campaign to date with a "Victory Dinner" Friday at the First Methodist Fellowship Hall.

The total stood at 485 members, Bobo Hardy, general secretary, told more than two score people at the dinner. These paid in $7,151 in membership fees to assure the Y of its budget for the year. About 15 per cent of the Y budget comes from memberships.

Bob Bender, Dallas, member of the Southwest area staff, congratulated workers on their achievement and said this was one of the ways in which a community turned "intangibles into something tangible for youth."

"If youth is going to the dogs," he declared, "I say the dogs have a mighty long time to wait."

What youth really needs is fewer critics and more models, Bender said.

Hardy announced Grover Good, former Y secretary, as the leading membership campaigner with 37 persons enlisted. Mrs. J. D. Cabbie, a leading volunteer worker, signed up 19. Arnold Marshall headed the top team with 62 members, but George Oldham's division with 164 members accounted for most money, $1,640. Mrs. Bill Neal's team met its quota within four hours of working. K. H. McGibbon was top worker in the sustaining division.

Team captains whose groups broke quotas were Arnold Marshall 62, Mrs. Bill Neal 42, Mrs. Lee Rogers 38, Tom McAdams 36, Tom Guin and Mrs. H. W. Smith, 35 each.

Individuals breaking quotas were Grover Good, Mrs. J. D. Cabbie, J. B. Apple, Dr. J. E. Hogan, Dan Krause, Tom South, Clyde McMahon, Mrs. Bill Neal, Joe Pickle, R. H. Weaver, Tom Guin, R. V. THE MARK OF A REALLY SMART PERSON

The mark of a really smart person is not necessarily a college diploma or a Phi Beta Kappa key. It might be simply a record of carefully-considered actions.

To "know it all" would be wonderful — if he humans could absorb that much knowledge in a lifetime. Next best is to seek and accept the advice of experts, particularly your Doctor.

Visit him frequently. Follow his directions carefully. Bring your prescriptions to us to be filled, and take the medicine he prescribes regularly.

Such cooperation is the best course possible for preservation of your health, and it marks you as a really smart person.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church Slates Groundbreaking Today

Ground will be broken this morning for a new church plant to house the St. Paul's Lutheran Church which has been blessed with phenomenal growth within the past year.

Flanking the pastor, the Rev. Wayne Dittloff, who will turn the first shovel of dirt, will be representatives of those who have had and will have leading parts in the construction of the modern worship center.

Two special speakers will be at the regular worship services, and the occasion will be the signal for other special activities including a meeting of all church societies at 4:30 p.m. A pot luck supper is scheduled for 5:30 p.m.

The groundbreaking will be at 11:30 a.m. on the site of the historic old church which was razed to make way for the new, and will follow a message at 10:30 a.m. worship by Chaplain Henry Wolk.

The congregation and other friends will assemble around the Rev. Dittloff as he is handed the shovel by the building committee. After he has turned the symbolic first shovel, others who will turn a spadeful of earth are Maj. Henry Wolk, Webb AFB chaplain; Olen Puckett, architect; G. S. Witt, Amarillo contractor; Albert Hohertz, congregation chairman; Jack Watkins, chairman of the building committee; and members of his committee including Gilbert

Pachall, Moran Oppegard and Ray Cantrell.

Three charter members of St. Paul's also will have a hand in the ceremonies. They are W. C. Heckler, Walter Pachall and Reinhold Weinkauf.

At the evening worship, Maj. Malcolm Nurnberg of Webb AFB will be guest speaker, and at this, as in all other instances, the public is invited to participate.

During the past year the membership of St. Paul's Lutheran Church has almost doubled to its present total of 250. The Sunday School has increased to around 125.

When the new sanctuary is complete, the present educational wing will be utilized as a fellowship hall and for educational purposes. Part of this building, together with an educational wing, will provide the congregation with 20 classrooms along with necessary offices, kitchen facilities, etc. Construction will be frame with brick veneer and will be of contemporary design. The new education wing will be off of the sanctuary and form a court yard which will be set off by a stone planter. Construction will begin Monday.

The Rev. Dittloff was installed as pastor of St. Paul's on Jan. 20, 1956, coming here from Westington Springs, S. D. where he had been pastor for two years. Prior to that he had held a pastorate at Springfield, Ill., during his senior year in Concordia Seminary.

Industrial Tract Option Extended

With less than half of the funds necessary for purchase of an industrial site, Industrial Foundation officials Saturday announced they have secured an extension of the option the organization holds on 193 acres of land east of Big Spring.

The new option deadline is March 29. Option was to have expired next Tuesday.

Money raised and pledged in the drive for $38,000 for purchase of the land amounted to only $17,600 Saturday. This included $9,555 in cash and another $8,045 in unpaid pledges.

Actually, goal of the funds campaign is $50,000. This would provide enough to initiate improvements after purchase of the land.

J. H. Green, campaign director, announced Saturday that a meeting of all persons interested in the Industrial Foundation has been called for 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

"We're going to reorganize and go after the money," he said.

Meanwhile, local organizations and private citizens started coming to the rescue of the funds campaign without waiting for solicitors.

The Altrusa Club sent in its check for $35, representing $1 per member.

The local Carpenters Union pledged another $100 to the fund.

1,900 Auto Tags Issued

Nineteen hundred 1957 car tags have been distributed in Howard County since Feb. 1. Mrs. Viola Robinson, county tax assessor, said Saturday.

These are tags for passenger cars only. No estimate on the number of truck trailer, motorcycle and other special tags was available.

The 1,900 tags sold so far is well ahead of the average number of plates sold this early in the season, Mrs. Robinson stated.

Six weeks remain in which motorists of the county may acquire their 1957 plates. Deadline is April 1. Mrs. Robinson estimated that the grand rush will probably develop the last two weeks in March. She is hopeful that enough interest in the matter can be generated that the usual confusion at the end of the period may be averted.

A shipment of some 20,000 tags of all sorts has been sent to the county. Mrs. Robinson said that all of these would not be sold — but that she anticipated well over 15,000 of the total would be out of the office by April 1.

REV. ELMER DUNHAM Ex-Pastor Here Named To Baptist Post At El Paso

The Rev. R. Elmer Dunham, former pastor of the East Fourth Baptist Church at Big Spring, Saturday was named superintendent of missions for the El Paso Baptist Association.

Dunham left Big Spring in 1943, has served in the chaplaincy and as a superintendent of missions in the Fort Worth area, and has been superintendent of city and rural missions for the Baptist General Convention of Texas since 1950.

He will take over his new duties April 1. His offices will be at the First Baptist Church in El Paso.

The 54-year-old minister, who served as a chaplain with the 20th Armored Division of the U. S. Army during World War II, has helped Texas Baptists establish more than 500 new churches since he was elected state superintendent in 1949.

He was graduated from the Southwest Texas State Teacher's College at San Marcos and attended the Southwestern Theological Seminary in Fort Worth. His wife is the former Merle Lee Smith and the couple's three children are Dixie Lee Dunham, Harley Kendall Dunham and Tommie Kendrick Dunham.

LETTER

Another Writer In Debate On City

To the Editor:

In the recent letters from Mrs. Cockrell of Knott where she disagrees with Mr. Monroe, I would like to say a few things also. Mrs. Cockrell states that Mr. Monroe should be ashamed to sign his name to his letter. Since when, Mrs. Cockrell, is it shameful for a person not to have freedom of speech in this United States of ours? The only thing shameful about Mr. Monroe's letter is that it was not written about fifteen years ago, by one of our own citizens who have not had the gumption to write it, and that it had to be an outsider to point out the faults of our city. There are quite a few people who live inside the city limits (and not out of town who get their information out of the papers) that would like to put Mr. Monroe on the back. While I don't agree with all that he says, I certainly disagree with everything that Mrs. Cockrell writes.

I have lived in Big Spring longer than ten years, and I have watched this growing city also, and the only thing that has really grown has been the taxes. While the farmers may not need the Air Base to help make their living, the businesses depend on it quite a bit. While the Chamber of Commerce has quietly snoozed our neighboring cities namely Midland and Odessa have been the ones to grow in industry and population. It is a crying shame that a town the size of Big Spring has no more schools than it does, and in the few we have, only a very few have cafeterias. In the last eleven years three schools have been built and two of the old ones closed. We vote school bonds, and instead of more schools, they build additions to the ones we have and build a huge stadium in a place where a grade school would be ideal. When Washington Place School was built the district was very small, now it takes in the entire southeast part of town. Big Spring is fortunate to have Mr. Parsons, but he cannot do anything without cooperation and that is something that has never been plentiful. Several business men have tried to improve Big Spring, but to no avail.

As far as the sidewalks and pavement the looks speak for themselves. City ordinances are passed but never enforced. Recently there was so much talk about dog tags, that if the dogs weren't licensed they would be picked up. I haven't missed any of them yet, and I don't think any of them have missed our neighborhoods or lawns yet.

No, Mrs. Cockrell, I'm not trying to make anyone mad or hurt anyone's feelings, but I think we have stayed quiet too long and let things slide by us, that when an outsider speaks his piece we really get our "dander" up. If it looks bad to people who have lived here all their lives, think what it must look like to the people who move in here from Webb that have really lived in all kinds of cities. If we are not going to express ourselves and do anything about it, then we will just have to accept the criticism and lick our wounds. After all is said and done it is the truth that hurts.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Maxine Ryan

Longshoremen Get Together For New Talks With Shippers

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (AP)—Disgruntled longshore union leaders patched up their differences somewhat today and went into a huddle on whether to accept employer proposals for ending the Maine-to-Virginia dock strike.

The strike began Tuesday and has halted work by 45,000 union members who load and unload ships. The tieup has cost shippers an estimated three million dollars a day, and brought layoffs in other industries.

Leaders of three big Manhattan locals of the International Longshoremen's Assn., stamped out in anger yesterday as the union was considering a "final" offer from employers.

Negotiators for the New York

Shipping Assn., representing 170 employers, remained in readiness to resume joint contract talks upon call of federal mediators.

Most railway freight shipments to the struck ports have been halted to keep goods from piling up on piers. As a result, several railroads have laid off workers.

The strike also caused the Willys Motor Co. to announce in Toledo, Ohio, yesterday that it will suspend production Monday until the end of the walkout. Four thousand production employees will be temporarily put out of work.

Ship traffic in New York Harbor—also hit by tugboat strike which began Feb. 1—has been less than one-third of normal.

The giant liner Queen Elizabeth docked yesterday at Halifax, N. S., and passengers arrived here by train today.

Fringe issues have been the stumbling block to agreement on a new contract for the longshoremen. These include paid holidays, vacations and working-hour guarantees.

Even before the strike started, the parties had generally agreed to a wage increase of 32 cents hourly over the present basic pay of $2.48.

The sale was for $5,618.52. This is for four secretarial desks, three executive-type desks, four swivel chairs, four secretarial - posture chairs, 12 plain chairs, five tables, two book cases, 26 filing cabinets in various sizes, and 13 individual counter tops.

Purchased from Thomas Typewriter were 40 folding chairs six coat racks, six sand urns, and a key cabinet.

The $6,100 price was less than commissioners expected to pay for the equipment. They were expecting bids between $6,500 and $7,000.

Spotlight On Shortage Of Engineers

This week, which encompasses the birthday of one of the country's earliest and most distinguished engineers, —George Washington—will be observed as Engineer's Week.

It has been so proclaimed by G. W. Dabney, mayor.

"The profession of engineering is devoted to the improvement and comfort, health, safety and general living standard of mankind," he said. In pursuance of its objectives the profession is governed by a high standard of ethics and ideals of performance rather than financial reward. This has brought lasting benefits to the public through the application of a high degree of knowledge, skill and judgment on the part of individual engineers, and I therefore proclaim Feb. 17-23 as Engineer's Week.

The proclamation, of course, focuses attention upon the problem uppermost in engineers' minds—that of an acute and almost desperate shortage of engineers.

At the present time the United States is creating an annual demand for around 40,000 engineers, yet only 10,000 are emerging from the colleges and universities.

"We hope that the week will be a means of bringing to the attention of young people the possibilities and the satisfaction from a career in engineering," said Louis Jean Thompson, one of those leading in the observance.

While it would be tragic for any recruitment program to induce young people who are not cut out for engineering to enter the field, he said there was a pressing need to encourage more who show aptitude to enter upon engineering.

There are a number of reasons for the great increase in demand for engineers. One is that the country is growing and with production and construction which call for more and more engineers. Another is that the nation's economy is becoming more and more technical and is turning rapidly toward automation.

In the aircraft field, for instance, the ratio of engineers to other workers in the industry was one to 100 a few years ago. Today the industry needs one engineer for every other 10 workers.

While the United States is producing 10,000 engineers each spring, Russia is turning out from an estimated 50,000 to 80,000 a year. They are not half-baked, unimagined engineers, either, according to Thompson; on the contrary they are well grounded and often times brilliant. They account for Russia's tremendous technical advance within the last generation.

There are in Howard County only 21 registered engineers, and possibly that many more who are qualified by training but who are not registered. A number of others who trained as engineers have gravitated to supervisory, managerial and other jobs.

PLATTER PALAVER

By Mary Sue Hale

Lovers of the Mr. Magoo comedy series will be delighted with the first LP of this type "Magoo in Hi-Fi" for RCA Victor. Following the mode set by the films, the voice of Jim Backus and orchestration and conduction by Dennis Farnon highlight the piece.

Also following the trend developed in the comedies, an unlikely plot develops to almost fantastic proportions. Magoo, in trying to build a do it yourself hi-fi amplifier, evokes humor while pointing out practical aspects of hi-fi. Tunes include the "Magoo Opening," "Le Jazz Warm," a sure nuff jazz though recorded through a series of filters, as to give a "squeezed" effect. Then as Mr. Magoo twists a series of knobs, the full jazz orchestra demonstrates the capacity of hi-fi. Another number is "Portrait of Mr. Magoo."

Featured on side two is "Moth or Magoo Suite." Void entirely of Magoo antics, Dennis Farnon has done up familiar nursery rhymes in wry satiric tones. Examples are "Little Boy Blue" and "Hail the King's Men."

"Bethlehem's Girl Friends" is a Bethlehem release featuring three of the top female vocalists, Chris Connor, Julie London, and Carmen McRae. An outstanding submit by Julie is "A Foggy Day," sensitive, moody and interpretable. In a slow, quiet mood, Carmen sings "Misery." Contributed by Chris, "The Thrill is Gone" is one of her very best numbers. These numbers are all jazz-based, though leaning heavily in make-up on pop music.

Longhair music has been placed in the grasp of the average man much through the efforts of Jack Fina, popularizer of many classical masterpieces. In a current album, "Concerto for Dreams" Fina and orchestra do in perfection "I Look at Heaven," "Intermezzo," "Meditation" and "Dream Sonata."

A Little on the Lonely Side, an RCA LP record, shows Eddy Arnold singing numbers varying from his usual style. Recognized universally as a hillbilly artist, he changes over to pop for this medley of love songs including "I Don't Know Why," "September Song," "I Only Have Eyes for You," and "Don't Take Your Love From Me."

The orchestra directed by Les Elgart is a working example of a sought-after group of musicians. The only major distinction between this clan and other orchestras is their style, and the fact that they are the only "Big name" orchestra without a piano. This deficiency hasn't hurt the building popularity of one of their latest bids for Columbia, "It Must Be True," "Lucky Lips" currently being

Daniel Keeps Silent On Plans If Run-Off Measure Fails

AUSTIN, Feb. 16 (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel refused today to be pinned down to a definite answer on what he would do if the administration-blessed Pool Bill fails to clear the Senate hurdle Monday.

Since the measure to require a majority or a runoff in the April 2 special election passed the House 103-46 on Feb. 5 its sponsors in the Senate have claimed enough votes to send it to the governor for his signature making it law.

However, there have been recurring reports the past week that Senate strength was building up behind the Herring Bill which would do away with the April 2 election and leave interim Sen. William Blakley in office until the 1958 general election.

There also have been predictions, today particularly, that the Legislature would be unable to agree on either bill.

"I'll tell you this," said Rep. Joe Pool of Dallas, "If the Senate kills my bill and passes the Herring bill, I'm sure I've got enough votes to kill it in the House."

Both the Pool and Herring bills were approved by the Senate committee and are ready for debate, Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo said he would try to get the 21 votes necessary for immediate action Monday on the Pool Bill. Sen. Charles Herring of Austin said he would wait and see what reaction the Pool Bill got before he made a move.

Herring said yesterday he believed Daniel would sign his bill. The governor refused to back up that prediction.

Both yesterday and today reporters asked Daniel to say what he would do if the Herring Bill should be passed instead of the Pool measure.

"I repeat my long-standing position that the people should select their senator for the remainder of the present term, at the ballot box," Daniel said.

The governor said he would continue "to uphold and support the right of the people to make their own choice at the election on April 2 and at any runoff election."

"As I have said before Sen. William A. Blakley is as capable as any person who will be elected to fill out the remainder of the term, and I am sure Sen. Herring offered his bill in utmost good faith. Therefore, my long-standing position contrary to this type of legislation should never be considered as a reflection against either Sen. Blakley or Sen. Herring."

"Neither should this statement be interpreted, implied or otherwise, as a decision that I would veto the Herring Bill if the Legislature should disagree with my position," Daniel said. "I think it unwise for a governor to make and announce any such decision while a bill is being considered by the Legislature. That is a question to be answered if and when the Legislature makes its decision and submits it to the governor."

Ranger-Ft. Worth Segment Into Super Highway Route

AUSTIN (AP)—Agreements have been reached between the Texas Highway Department and the federal government on the route for a 75-mile stretch on the interstate highway system between Ranger and Fort Worth.

D. C. Greer, state highway engineer, said the route generally will follow the existing highway through the Alamo area in a direct manner to an intersection with the existing consolidated access expressway into Fort Worth.

Target date for acquiring right-of-way for a portion of the route around Weatherford will not be before 1960. Opening will be scheduled in localities involved in the project. The final decision of the project's development will be passed on the hearings, said Greer.

Peron's Ex-Girl Friend Says She's Paid Dearly

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 16 (AP)—Nelly Rivas said today she has paid dearly in heartbreak and humiliation for her past relationship with ex-dictator Juan D. Peron.

Part of the price is that she has no boy friend, no girl friend.

"For me it is all over," she said in an interview her attorney Juan Ovidio Zavala, arranged with four newsmen. "All I want is to be a girl just like any other girl and live an ordinary life."

Nelly is 17 now. She was left behind to face her countrymen when Peron fled Argentina 17 months ago. Peron, 61, is in exile in Venezuela.

A pretty girl with brown eyes, nicely molded features and coal black hair, Nelly had been a virtual princess two years. She was 14 when Peron met her at a Peronista youth club, took her to live at the presidential palace and showered her with jewels and money.

The revolutionary government accuses Peron of statutory rape and juvenile Judge Ernesto Gonzalez Bonorino is compiling documents to seek his extradition for trial. Nelly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jose Maria Rivas, have been charged as accomplices, but remain at liberty. She is living with them.

"I do not feel I have been victimized," Nelly said. "What has happened is as much my fault as any other person's. . . . My parents have been accused of negligence. Maybe I had too much freedom because they trusted me."

She said all she had left were her memories and two white poodles. Peron gave her. She blushed when the newsmen told her an appeals court has decided to turn back to her about $37,500 in jewels and cash left to her by Peron.

"If they do it is because they think they are mine," she said.

Is There a Cure for Diabetes?

There is no cure for diabetes.

Ever since diabetes was discovered about 1552 B.C., some 200 years before the birth of King Tut, charlatans have claimed they had a "cure." Beware of all such claims. In 1921, however, a dependable treatment, although not a cure, was developed for diabetes. This preparation is Insulin.

Your physician is thoroughly familiar with this product and how it is employed to control diabetes. If he finds insulin necessary in your case, we can supply it in exactly the right strength.

Lack Of Unification Costing Billions, Symington Charges

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) said today that a lack of efficient unification of our armed forces has cost the American taxpayers between 25 and 50 billion dollars the last 10 years.

"Instead of a unified Defense Department that Congress approved in 1947, we now have four or perhaps even five competing military departments," he told a newsman.

"And there are suggestions for setting up a new overall procurement department," he continued. "That would be a sixth."

"Some members of Congress have been suggesting a single new ballistic missile unit. That would be the seventh. Where in the name of heaven are we going to stop?"

Symington, who was first secretary of the Air Force when Congress gave that department equal standing with the Army and Navy, recently was named chairman of a new task force of the Senate preparedness subcommittee.

"I hope we can find some ways of slashing through the needless duplication and triplication that now characterizes much of the present Pentagon operation," he said.

When Congress approved the 1947 act that ordered a single defense establishment with the Army, Navy and Air Force as subordinate departments, Symington said the public was promised that the Defense Department would be a small, top level policy organization.

"But Secretary Forrestal predicted then it would become a fourth military department with a large organization," he said. "Now we have so many secretaries or assistant secretaries in the Pentagon that the whole thing remains misty and fuzzy to me." Symington said that the Marine Corps, by law a part of the Navy Department, now is represented on the Joint Chiefs of Staff and has become "a fifth department."

He said billions of dollars in defense costs could have been saved since World War II by "just accepting some of the recommendations of the Hoover commission."

Australia Girl Is Pleasing Speaker

By SAM BLACKBURN
Shirley Duncan, a personable young Australian, Friday night used a 11,000-mile bicycle trip that she and a girl companion made around Australia as a vehicle to tell the Big Spring Knife and Fork Club about her homeland, its people, its geography and its animal life.

Miss Duncan, who does not look anything at all like the typical platform lecturer usually presented on such programs, pleased the 140 persons present at the Hotel Settles Dining Room with her casual — almost naive recital.

She made no effort to "teach," nor any attempt to bring any sort of "message" — other than perhaps the word that Australians are friendly folk and that they like Americans.

Her talk was a simple little travelogue with no major adventures nor exciting nor suspenseful episodes. In her words, she and her companion and a dog named Peter made the 11,000-mile journey in two years, had an enjoyable trip, suffered no misadventures and liked every moment of the experience.

She frankly admitted that not even financial difficulties were faced — though at the outset the two girls planned to pay their own way by working in the towns through which they passed.

They found a sponsor firm who footed the bills.

The hospitality of the people they met and the kindly aid of motorists and others did much to lessen the difficulties the journey might have imposed.

Miss Duncan was fourth speaker of the 1956-57 series.

She will be followed on March 21 by Dr. Stanley Jaks, whose subject is listed as "More Curiosities." Final speaker of the current year schedule is slated for April 4. He will be Robert Christopher and his subject is "Around the World on 800."

Elmer Tarbox, newly elected president, was toastmaster for the dinner meeting on Friday night.

Ike's Ability As Strategist Is Belittled

LONDON, Feb. 16 (AP)—Britain's top strategist of World War II says Dwight D. Eisenhower's strong point as commander was his charm rather than military ability.

Field Marshal Viscount Alanbrooke, wartime chief of the Imperial General Staff 1941-46 made his observation in a war diary forming the basis of a new book released tomorrow "The Turn of the Tide."

Alanbrooke did not have a very high opinion of most U.S. military leaders as strategists, including Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff. But he praised Gen. Douglas MacArthur as "the greatest general of the last war" and spoke well of Gen. Walter Bedell Smith.

Sir Arthur Bryant, noted British historian, who wrote the book credits Alanbrooke with being the mastermind of the grand strategy that brought the Allies victory.

Alanbrooke, in a footnote to his diary referring to Eisenhower, said: "He learned a lot during the war, but tactics, strategy and command were never his strong points."

"Where he shone was his ability to handle Allied forces, to treat them all with strict impartiality, and to get the very best out of an inter-Allied force."

"In all the early times he was uncommonly well served by his chief of staff, Bedell Smith, who had far more flair for military matters than his master."

Airman Wears A Placard For Missing Salute

FORT WORTH, Feb. 16 (AP)—An airman stood yesterday in front of his squadron hangar at Carswell Air Force Base wearing a sign around his neck reading: "I failed to salute a general."

Brig. Gen. Nils Ohman, commanding the 19th Air Division, explained today the airman was wearing the sign as part of the Strategic Air Command's training program.

"It was not punishment," the general asserted. "The general said the airman was required to wear the sign from one and a half to two hours."

"The airman looked straight at me and failed to salute," the general said.

The incident came to light today when an anonymous airman wrote letters to Rep. Jim Wright in Washington and to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

The letter said the airman was required to wear the sign for seven eight-hour days.

"Not only is this degrading the airman, but it is an insult to the uniform he wears," the letter stated.

The writer said such incidents—described as "military justice or lack of same" was one reason young men are leaving the service and not re-enlisting.

Slusser Cancels Petition For Writ Against Judge

An application for permission to withdraw a petition filed by Phillip Slusser asking a writ of mandamus against Judge Charles Sullivan, 118th District Court, has been granted by the Texas Court of Civil Appeals at Eastland.

Slusser, a convict in the Texas State Penitentiary, is serving 15 years for sodomy. He was convicted in Big Spring.

Several months ago he filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in 118th District Court here seeking release from the prison on grounds that certain irregularities in connection with the formalities of sentencing him had occurred.

Later he sought to mandamus Judge Sullivan into hearing his case. These motions were discarded by the higher courts.

This latest action of the court of civil appeals strikes out the remaining detail of his attempted litigation.

Slusser acted as his own attorney in preparing and filing his several petitions and applications in the local court and in the higher courts.

He contended originally that he had been convicted by the old 90th District Court which included, at the time, Howard County, but that he was not sentenced until the 118th District Court, which now has jurisdiction, was established.

His contention was that he should have been sentenced by the court and judge in which he was convicted.

'Trim And Fit' Course To Resume

"Trim and fit" classes for Big Spring housewives will be resumed Monday morning at the YMCA.

The instruction will be given daily from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. for four weeks. A nursery for small children will be provided at the YMCA.

The mild winter hasn't had much effect on the jack rabbits except to make them hungry. They are building up again in the area southwest of Lomax, and as irrigated grain fields green up, the rabbits are out in full force from the grassless rangeland.

The first big rabbit drive of the season will be held at the Bernard Houston place next Saturday, February 23. A barbecue will be served at noon, and ammunition will be on sale. Only shotguns will be allowed, but any hunter with a scatter gun who wants to get in a little shooting is invited to attend.

The drive will start at the Houston Ranch, but will progress to the Grady Cross and Tom Brothers ranches. All hunters will receive transportation to the various hunting sites.

Not many people waste nice words in talking about the railroads, yet they saved farmers and ranchers 25 million dollars by reducing freight rates on drought feed.

Down at Dublin a few weeks ago the people showed their appreciation by giving a big banquet for the railroad employees. This was the finest tribute a railroad ever received and about the only one, according to R. A. Malone of the public relations department of the T&P.

Martin County club members received two additional honors recently. Bobby Sale racked up first and third place in the lightweight Hereford calf division at the El Paso show, and got first place in the middleweight class.

He sold the 575-pound reserve champion for $120 per pound. A second calf weighing 535 pounds sold for 80 cents a pound.

The other club member receiving state-wide honors was Craig Beckmeyer who was selected as outstanding club boy from District Six at the San Antonio Rodeo and Livestock Show. He was a special guest of the livestock show and rodeo and attended a banquet last Friday night at the Gunter Hotel.

Several farmers in the St. Lawrence community are replacing open irrigation ditches with aluminum pipe. E. J. Helwig and son recently bought 2,000 feet of five-inch pipe and 1,000 of four-inch size.

Most of the wells are small, and open ditches take up too much water. One farmer reported that the ground was wet eight feet on either side the earthen ditch and estimated a good part of the water never reached the cotton rows.

Doc Wilkinson, salesman with a Big Spring implement firm, has sold much of the pipe, and says practically everyone is interested in abandoning the open ditches.

A. J. Cunningham of Garden City is one out-of-county resident interested in the broiler egg project. He said Glascock County didn't get enough rain to help much, although the bitterweed is coming out fast.

Most sheepmen are watching the animals carefully, and at the first sign of illness from the weeds, they are putting the flocks into pens.

Cunningham said not much livestock is being sold now. If ranchers sell off any more stock they will be out of business entirely. Yet in spite of the drought and high feed prices, there is not any land for lease. Everyone intends to hold onto the land as long as he possibly can.

Martin County has caught up with Howard in the number of caged layers. C. J. Chapman, Stanton feed dealer, says there will be 14,000 hens, just as soon as the cages are all filled.

Tom Houston has 4,000, and Elma Nichols will have 4,200 when the replacements are large enough to put into cages. Nichols has built a 1,000-capacity brooder house and buys the chicks at one day old.

Most of the eggs are being sold to a firm in San Angelo.

The 4-H Club members of Martin County will carry three calves and two capons to the Houston livestock show, which starts Feb. 25. Bobby Sale will take two calves and Phillip Bryant one.

Bryant will also compete in the calf scramble. If he is unable to take part in the contest, Bobby Kelly will take his place.

Jess Slaughter, former county sheriff, and now a feed salesman, says the country south of here missed out on the rain. There is hardly any movement of livestock in the Sterling City area.

Slaughter said most ranches down that way had fillies and other weeds coming out, but they won't furnish any grazing without more moisture.

ROAD DUST: Joe Carter who lives south of Lee's Store was an interested spectator at the recent poultry meeting in Big Spring, but doesn't plan to grow any. He says there are so many chicken-loving foxes and ringtails in that area that poultry would be a losing proposition.

Despite recent moisture, the national weather experts are not expecting the wet cycle to return for another two or three years.

Dawson County has more good farming land than any county on the South Plains, but driving across it becomes monotonous. Flat as a table and almost as bare, the long, listed rows stretch from one side of the county to the other. South of Lamesa over 95 per cent of the land is in cultivation.

An Arizona farm manager speaking at the recent chemical conference in Lubbock told the group that his farm grew three bales of cotton per acre. He said that farmers using the same methods in this area could do the same.

A farm boy speaking: "I wanted to stay on the farm, but mother and dad say I should go to college. They told me I might lose the farm, the way things look now, but nobody could ever take an education away from me."

Irrigation farmer: "Just as soon as the rains come back, we'll stop pumping these little wells. So far we have just made wages with them."

Several farmers plan to get in on the eggs-for-broilers project. A few are skeptical because of two things: How big must an egg be before it is taken by the hatchery? The ones not hatchable won't bring much on the market because of small size and fertility.

The other question is how often will the hatchery use the option whereby it can pay less than the guaranteed price?

Communism Has Crisis, Says Dulles

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 (AP)—Allen W. Dulles said tonight there are "some real signs of hope" that the Communist way of life is facing a greater crisis than is capitalism.

Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, said the Communists are facing "undoubtedly" internal pressures for change and greater freedom that seem likely to diminish with the passage of time.

He said these pressures, "artificially suppressed during the Stalin era," are coming from industrial managers, professional classes, workers and students.

But he said it "would be folly to assume that international communism is on the verge of collapse."

The free world, he said, faces the "very real danger" that communism may bolster its position in the Middle East by "stirring up troubled waters" and in the Far East where Red China is "posing an ever increasing threat to many nations in that area."

Dulles, brother of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, said the downgrading of Stalin by Nikita Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist party, has loosened a "flood of self-questioning" but "plumbed the depths of doubt about the integrity of the Communist political structure."

When history is written, he said in an address prepared for the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Mid-America Conference, Khrushchev's action "may well be described as the Kremlin's admission of the general crisis of communism."

He said "some very compelling domestic reason" must have made the Kremlin leaders take the "calculated risk" of downgrading Stalin. He said it might have been an effort to restore initiative and enterprise to a people numbed by long years of discipline or fear and to brighten the image of the USSR abroad.

But since the uprisings in Hungary and Poland, he went on, Khrushchev has been forced into the "increasingly untenable" position of trying to take bits and pieces of both a Stalinist and non-Stalinist policy.

Sheriff loses His Spectacles

If you see Miller Harris, sheriff, wearing dark glasses, he advised he is not trying to make like a movie star.

It's because he lost his regular glasses.

Harris said he was crossing Fourth Street to the courthouse Friday evening. The light changed and the sheriff took off at a lope to evade being run down. His spectacles were in a leather case in his coat pocket. They bounced out.

Harris missed the specs when he got to the office and immediately retrieved his steps. Nary a trace did he find.

The dark glasses were some he used when working in the sun on a ranch. They aren't good for anything but looking off, he complains. Finder of the missing glasses will confer a favor on the sheriff by returning them to him.

Suit Against ICT Held 'Preposterous'

FORT WORTH, Feb. 16 (AP)—Nile E. Ball, executive vice president of the ICT Corp., today described as "preposterous" a $2,029,160 damage suit filed against the corporation by seven stockholders.

Attorney Leslie Hackler filed the suit in Dallas yesterday. It alleges misrepresentation in the sale of the corporation's stock.

Ball, named as a co-defendant, declared "this whole suit is preposterous."

"I discussed the suit with Leslie Hackler before he filed the suit and he understood that he was suing to recover $5,000 to $10,000 which was paid for stock."

"We notice that he has added the sum of $2,000,000 to his claim. We understand that most of the plaintiffs in this suit bought their stock from Mr. Hardesty (A.R. Hardesty, who has been an agent of the company as well as a stockholder), another of the plaintiffs. "Certainly no misrepresentation was made by ICT Corp., which is wholly solvent and not to be confused with other companies of similar names," Ball said.

He added: "It would appear that someone is seeking a great deal of publicity at the expense of our company."

Safety Officials Meet At Webb

Safety officials from all over West Texas converged on Webb Thursday when the Officer of Ground Safety played host to the Permian Basin Safety Society.

Capt. Cecil D. Peters, wing ground safety officer, took the group on a two and one half hour tour of the base. Amos D. Jones, safety engineer, ground safety officer, is a member of the society and accompanied the group on tour.

Maj. Clifford Galliot, ground safety officer, Flying Training Air Force, Waco, gave a talk aimed at cementing the cooperation of civilian and military personnel regarding safety problems. He charged that safety is the responsibility of everyone.

He said the No. 1 problem in the Air Force is the private vehicle accident.

Maj. Galliot told the group that the Webb AFB Ground Safety Program is always rated a leader in the Flying Training Air Force. He attributed Webb's success to the cooperation attained between base and community leaders.

Men's Watches Getting Fancier

Men's watches are getting fancier, while women's watches are getting plainer.

This startling trend was reported Saturday by Don Richardson, manager of Zale's Jewelry Store in Big Spring, upon his return from his company's semi-annual merchandising conference in Dallas.

Richardson was one of 73 Zale store managers from 16 states who spent four days studying the latest trends in jewelry design.

"Men are demanding watches that do more than keep accurate time," Richardson said. "Increasing sales of diamond watches and other elaborate models indicate they are definitely becoming more style-conscious."

Sales of men's diamond watches by the Zale company have zoomed 75 per cent within the past five years, Richardson said. Eleven new models in this line, set with three to a dozen diamonds, were introduced at the Dallas meeting.

Diamond watches still rate high with the ladies, too, but the trend here is toward simple elegance in design.

A total of 101 new styles in men's and women's diamond watches—most of them designed and manufactured in Zale's New York workrooms—were introduced at the conference.

Sinatra Called To Tell About Monroe-DiMaggio Divorce Raid

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16 (AP)—Frank Sinatra today was ordered to appear before a state Senate committee investigating private detective methods purportedly used in the marital rift between Joe DiMaggio and Marilyn Monroe.

The singer was served with a subpoena at his home in the nearby resort community of Palm Springs.

Lloyd Harris, chief investigator of the Senate Interim Committee on Collection Agencies, said he has evidence that Sinatra and DiMaggio were with four private investigators who staged a raid on an apartment where they thought Miss Monroe was staying in 1954.

Harris said the purpose of the raid was to collect evidence for DiMaggio in his marital split-up with Miss Monroe. The actress won a divorce from the former New York Yankee baseball star on Oct. 31, 1955.

Warren Cowan, a press agent for Sinatra, said the singer was asleep this morning when three men and a woman walked through an open door into his home, shined a flashlight in his eyes and served him with the subpoena.

Cowan said Sinatra reported that the woman with the process servers was inebriated and "caused a ruckus." The press agent said Sinatra had no idea why he was being subpoenaed and was disturbed by the way the subpoena was served.

The Senate investigator said the purported 1954 raid went awry when the raiders got into the wrong house. Harris said police investigators "didn't know what it was at the time and assumed it was a burglary."

Later, Harris said, police learned that the investigators had planned to go to an apartment where they believed Miss Monroe was staying.

Police said the house supposedly raided by mistake was occupied by a Miss Florence Kotz.

Miss Kotz told police four or five men broke into her apartment Nov. 5, 1954, and that one of them shined a flashlight in her face. She said they all ran out when she screamed.

The Los Angeles Mirror-News, which broke the story of the Sinatra subpoena today in a copyrighted article, said Sinatra's business manager, Henry Sanicola, and a Hollywood restaurant owner, Patsy D'Amore, were questioned by police after Confidential magazine published a story titled "The Real Reason for Marilyn Monroe's Divorce."

The newspaper said Sinatra and DiMaggio were frequent patrons of D'Amore's restaurant.

The purported raid is part of an investigation his committee is conducting on practices employed by collection agencies, debt liquidators and private investigators.

Harris said the investigation results from complaints about the way some of these agencies are operating in Southern California.

Pair Injured Slightly In Auto Mishaps

Texas Highway Patrol officers investigated two accidents Friday night and Saturday. Two men were taken to the hospital as result of the accidents but the patrol said neither was seriously injured.

First of the mishaps occurred at 10 p.m. Friday 14.6 miles from Big Spring on the Gail road.

Lyle Edward Meadows, 36, Odessa, was traveling south in a big truck owned by Hall-Stewart Company of New Mexico. He failed to negotiate a curve and the truck turned over. The truck was badly damaged.

Bill Meadows, a brother of the driver, was following in an automobile. He took his brother to a hospital here but it was said he was released after examination.

Second accident was at 7:05 a.m. Saturday and involved a car and truck on the service road west of Big Spring on U. S. 80.

Patrol officers reported that James B. Bailey, 41, Big Spring, a porter at the Halliburton Company, was en route to work. He sideswiped a truck also owned by the Halliburton Company and driven by James Beams.

The car caught the top box on the truck and rolled. Bailey was removed to Malone-Hogan hospital in a River ambulance. Beams was not injured.

30 Register For Sales Instruction

Approximately 30 Big Spring sales workers had registered Saturday for the retail sales short course to be conducted this week at the Chamber of Commerce.

Classes will start at 7 p.m. daily, Monday through Friday. Instructor will be Arthur H. Brown, retail training specialist with the Texas University extension service.

The classes will be held in the conference room at the Chamber of Commerce. Enrollment fee is $2 per person.

THE WEEK

the state to put some farm-to-market mileage on such a loop and offered to procure 300-foot right-of-way. In all probability, that means the state will soon give the green light on this project.

Our oil news has not been particularly newsworthy — that is outside of a routine sense. However, the Big Spring Fuselman field was extended to the southeast by the 336-barrel Williamson, et al No. 1 Davis. A Spraberry wildcat was spotted just east of Luther.

Building, which was pretty sick during January, revived during the past week with permits in a single day totalling $100,000. This was for new residential construction. By the way, signs are favorable for an early start on the big housing project just south of Webb AFB.

Less than sensational would describe initial results on the Big Spring Industrial Foundation campaign. Something like $20,000 is in sight, but $50,000 is needed. Somehow to this point the importance of this deal hasn't penetrated into the public consciousness. Most everyone seems to think it is a fine investment — for someone else.

The proposal of County Commissioner G. E. Gilliam to invite in valuation engineers for proposals on revaluing all county property for taxes got another "deep freeze" treatment last week. For the second time the motion failed to get a second. It's probably dead.

The Lions Club 10th annual minstrel comes on Thursday and Friday evenings. Besides the chorus, specialty acts, endmen, etc., there will be the traditional pop-corn sale. Over the years this event has netted something like $7,000 or more which has been plowed back into community welfare, projects and blind work.

Fair Association officials requested Howard County to take over association properties last week. The association is without financial means to maintain the plant and meet some $10,000 still owing on facilities valued at $50,000 to $60,000. The county commissioners court listened but said there might be serious legal problems.

Adlai Would Risk War In Middle East

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson, speaking out against what he called "rock-and-roll diplomacy," advocated tonight a course of action—"even at the risk of war"—to bring peace to the Middle East.

The twice-defeated Democratic presidential nominee, in his first speech since shortly after the 1956 election, said the objectives are "clear and simple."

"To open the (Suez) canal to the traffic of all nations, to establish peace between Israel and her Arab neighbors, and, while we don't propose to dominate anyone ourselves, we don't propose that Russia dominate anyone either."

"I would make it perfectly clear that we propose to pursue these objectives even at the risk of war, and call on all like-minded nations who want peace, national independence and economic progress in the Middle East to join us."

Stevenson, in phrases reminiscent of his campaign tours, accused the administration of serious blunders in world relations. Conditions provide evidence enough, he said, that we have come perilously close to disaster in the Eisenhower years."

TOO LITTLE, TOO LATE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 16 (AP)—Harry S. Truman said tonight the Eisenhower administration's plan for settling the Middle East crisis is "too little and too late."

The former Democratic president said if this country had acted "boldly and firmly" in 1955 when it learned the Soviet Union was shipping arms to Egypt, "I believe this whole disastrous scheme might have been nipped in the bud."

Termining the situation "dark and full of peril," Truman said "drift and procrastination" permitted the tension to build up between Israel and the Arab states.

"Although the Eisenhower Middle East plan at long last is a beginning, it is too little and too late," he said in a speech prepared for delivery at an Israel bond drive dinner.

Car Accessories

Stolen Friday

Sets of fender skirts and hubcaps were taken from cars on the northside Friday night.

James Campbell, 600 NW 8th, told police that the fender skirts were taken from his 1951 Plymouth while it was parked at the Gomez Ballroom Friday night.

The hubcaps were taken from a 1956 Oldsmobile owned by Robert Blackwell of Webb AFB.

The car was parked at Carlos Restaurant, 308 NW 3rd, at the time of the theft. Blackwell said that a side mirror also was stolen.

C. L. Lawson, 1800 Nolan, reported two windows broken out of the Lawson Grocery, 306 E. 18th, Friday night. He said the damage would amount to $30.

Fight Over Anita's Honor Stirs Palm Beach Gossip

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 16 (AP)—The echoes of Anthony Steel's battle to uphold the honor of his wife, Anita Ekberg, still bounced today through this gossip-loving playground of millionaires.

There were so few spectators that the fight, although one of the most widely publicized brawls of the current season, might as well have been held in a phone booth.

As the story goes, Steel disrupted a charity ball Thursday night by attacking Joseph Dubrony, a Cuban sculptor who has fashioned a nude golden statue of Anita, the bosomy Swedish actress.

Last night, the tale continues, Steel engaged in a combat with a man who had made advances toward Anita at a party in the home of Horace Dodge II, where the Steels are living.

Steel, a British actor and former paratrooper, confirmed the first altercation. He said he knocked Dubrony down twice and intended to wallop him some more "because he took advantage of my wife."

Steel said Dubrony, whose statue of Anita was published in a magazine, "ran so fast I couldn't catch him." Dubrony, apparently not badly damaged, went boating today and was not available for comment.

Some other versions of the alleged fight:

Horace Dodge II: "It's all a lie! There was no fight! I'll sue if the story isn't killed!"

Mrs. Dodge (Gregg Sherwood): "I didn't see any fight but some others told me it was a minor skirmish, not a fracas."

B47 Makes Mark On Run To Britain

SHREVEPORT, Feb. 16 (AP)—A B47 stratojet, piloted by Maj. Gen. George Mundy, sped 5,060 miles from here to England yesterday in 1½ hours under the world record.

Mundy, commander of the 2nd Air Force's Strategic Air Command, made the trip in 8 hours, 44 minutes, for an unofficial ground speed record of 581.61 m.p.h.

O'Mahoney And Hutcheson Jab On Oil Issues

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—Thad Hutcheson, GOP candidate for the Senate in Texas, accused Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) today of an "unwarranted attack" on the oil industry.

O'Mahoney, chairman of a committee looking into the oil life to Europe, replied that Hutcheson was indicting Senate Republicans and President Eisenhower himself if he opposes the committee's attack on "inflationary prices" for gasoline and oil.

Hutcheson telegraphed O'Mahoney that recent oil price increases came as a "logical result of economical factors long at work in the petroleum industry."

He said oil prices had advanced only 33 per cent above a 1947-49 average while iron ore had gone up 73 per cent, finished steel 69 per cent, aluminum ingot 71 per cent, construction machinery 65 per cent, metal working machinery 63 per cent and anthracite coal 42 per cent.

"Biased criticism of the industry by you, Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) and others and the irresponsible harassments attending on committee investigations pending will be viewed by many here as political tampering with an essential industry vital to the economic welfare of Texas and the nation," Hutcheson said.

O'Mahoney said the investigation was authorized unanimously by the Senate Judiciary Committee, an appropriation to finance it unanimously approved by the Senate and "no Republican voice was raised" against the inquiry.

"The charge of political tampering obviously lies with you," O'Mahoney told Hutcheson, adding:

"If you object to my warning to the major oil companies that they should avoid excessive price increases in oil products, please explain whether you also oppose President Eisenhower's press conference declaration to the same general effect."

Floor Furnace

A fire started when a group of boxes was placed over a floor furnace here Saturday, but the fire department was not called until the blaze was out.

The blaze developed at the 1313 old Davis. The boxes and carpet Eleventh Place residence of Don were damaged as was the living room wall. Smoke damaged the room, also.

After the blaze was extinguished, firemen from the Elk-cath and Birdwell substations were called to inspect to be sure the blaze was out.

Truman May Visit Foreign Nations With Ike's Blessing

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 16 (AP)—Some of the four-year chill in President Eisenhower's relations with former President Harry S. Truman appears to be lifting.

This was indicated today as White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen

Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles "would look with a great deal of favor" on a visit by Truman to Greece and Turkey.

And Hagerty said that view has been relayed to Truman by Dulles. Truman is considering acceptance of an invitation from Greece and Turkey to visit those countries in connection with the 10th anniversary of the Truman Doctrine—a program of military and economic aid which helped bolster the two nations against communism.

There has been no secret about Eisenhower's deep resentment of criticism Truman hurled at him during the 1952 election campaign.

Eisenhower, new to politics at that time, reportedly never has been able to understand the Truman attacks, particularly in the light of their friendship prior to Eisenhower's bid for the presidency.

In his book "Crusade for Freedom," written after World War II Eisenhower quotes Truman as having once promised to help him get anything he wanted, including the presidency.

Asked today about reports that Truman will go to Greece and Turkey with Eisenhower's blessing, Hagerty said he had checked and found that both the President and Dulles "would look with a great deal of favor" on such a visit.

In reply to a question, Hagerty said he did not know whether Truman would go as an official representative of this government. He also said he had no information on whether Truman would call on the President in advance of the trip, if it develops, or report to Eisenhower on return.

The two men have not met since Jan. 20, 1953, when they rode together from the White House to the Capitol for Eisenhower's first term inauguration.

Civil Cases Set Monday

Judge Charlie Sullivan, 118th District Court, has scheduled a week of civil jury cases starting Monday, but it was said Saturday that there was a possibility none of the matters set for trial will be ready.

Sixty jurors have been notified to be in the 118th District Court room at 10 a.m. Monday. Whether there will be any work for them to do remained uncertain.

Wade Choate, district court clerk, said that 13 cases were originally on the docket set for this week. Nine of these have already been removed. Some of the nine have been settled. Others are not ready for trial and only two have been dismissed. This leaves but four cases in which no disposition has been made.

Judge Sullivan said that it was quite possible none of the cases would be ready and that no court would be held.

C-C Members To Seek More Funds

Membership Committee of the Chamber of Commerce will meet soon to determine steps to provide more funds for Chamber operations.

The panel had hoped to raise up to $4,000 additional for the C-C budget through the dues revaluation program it conducted recently. However, the project didn't meet expectations, with only 32 members raising their dues for a total of $1,068 in new money.

George Zachariah, committee chairman, said available funds will not sustain an intensive Chamber program.

Montgomery May Go To Ike On Full Time

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (AP)—Television circles buzzed today with a report that the National Broadcasting Co., intended to drop the Robert Montgomery weekly television show next season.

There was a rumor, too, that Montgomery was headed for a permanent job with President Eisenhower. The television producer and actor has been Eisenhower's television adviser since Eisenhower became president.

NBC said it had no plans to announce immediately a replacement for the Montgomery show.

Montgomery could not be reached at once for comment.

It was understood that the Montgomery show would be replaced next fall with 10 new 30-minute productions which Alfred Hitchcock will produce and direct personally; by 10 other shows drawn up by a firm in which Hitchcock is interested; and by 20 other shows. Such a combination would complete the 1957-58 season.

C-C Directors To Hear Recommendations Monday

Recommendations from at least two Chamber of Commerce committees will be submitted to directors of the organization at their luncheon meeting Monday.

One additional director, to fill a vacancy on the board, will be named. Several reports also are on the agenda.

The C-C Education Committee will recommend that directors endorse its proposal for a school bond issue sufficient to assure construction of a second junior high school in the city and to provide for enlargement of the high school. The Merchants Committee will recommend that employers be asked to advance payroll days to mid-week instead of Saturday and that semi-annual "Better-Buy Days" be established. The mid-week paydays are proposed as a result of the banks' closing on Saturdays. "Better-Buy Days" are suggested as a gesture of appreciation to shoppers in this area.

Reports will be heard from Jack Cook, on the Jet Age Conference he and R. H. Weaver attended in Washington last week; R. L. Cook, on the visit of Marshall Formby, state highway commissioner; Wayne Smith, on the four-county Agricultural Workers Council the Chamber is sponsoring; and others.

Farm Council Meeting Set

Professional agricultural workers from Howard, Martin, Glasscock and Midland counties will meet here at 7 a.m. Monday to determine whether they want to set up an Agricultural Workers Council to coordinate their activities.

County agents and representatives of federal and state farm agencies are to be on hand. The session is scheduled for the Settles Hotel.

The local Chamber of Commerce, which already has sponsored formation of a Howard County Agricultural Workers Council, said purpose of the organization is discussion of problems common to all agricultural workers and coordination of overlapping programs.

Freedom Of Press May Gain In Pending Legislative Bills

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN, Feb. 16 (AP)—There are some who hold up the Texas Constitution as a horrible example of what happens when a Declaration of Rights and Privileges gets changed too much and too often. But one thing has remained unchanged since 1876.

The small print under Section 8 of the Bill of Rights article reads: "Every person shall be at liberty to speak, write or publish his opinions on any subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that privilege; and no law shall ever be passed curtailing the liberty of speech or of the press."

The section goes on to say that the truth shall be offered as evidence when wrongly accused of libel in publishing matter that "is proper for public information."

Today, 81 years after the Constitution was signed, efforts are still being made to strengthen that constitutionally given right to know what goes on in the State of Texas.

Some call it freedom of information. Members of the Legislature call it "anti-secrecy legislation," or "better government bills."

One of the most important anti-secrecy measures will be laid out at a public hearing before the Senate State Affairs Committee Wednesday.

The proposal would prohibit closed and secret sessions of the governmental bodies, boards and agencies from the level of the state Capitol to the precinct justice of peace. Present laws do not prohibit secret meetings.

Any public officials violating the new bill, presented by Sen. Henry Gonzalez of San Antonio and Rep. Don Kennard of Corpus Christi, will be subject to a fine of from $100 to $1,000. He also would be guilty of official misconduct and could be removed from office.

Another anti-secrecy bill (SB94) by Sen. Otis Lock of Lufkin was favorably recommended by the Senate State Affairs Committee last Monday. The measure would amend the Texas Election Code to provide that representatives of newspapers may attend precinct, county and state political conventions for the purpose of reporting the proceedings. The present law provides only that qualified voters may take part in the business of a convention and many times reporters have been denied admittance under the provision.

A similar bill (HB108) has been introduced in the House by Rep. Howard Green of Fort Worth.

Both proposals have received the endorsement of the Texas Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. Both measures were in the group of "better government" bills presented and sponsored by the Texas Press Assn.

A third bill sponsored by the TPA and endorsed by the managing editors of Texas AP member newspapers has not yet been set for public hearing in the Legislature. It is HB164, introduced by Kennard, and would provide that any public official who refused to permit examination of public records would be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Four more of the TPA's "better government" bills have been acted upon by legislative committees.

A bill (SB35) by Sen. Preston Smith of Lubbock which would prescribe the type of notices and financial statements to be published by public officials was sent to a Senate State Affairs subcommittee and will be reported on Monday. Rep. John Lee of Kermit introduced a similar legislation (HB38) in the House.

An act (SB31) providing for the removal of any public official who shall refuse to testify on the grounds of self incrimination before any court or authorized governmental agency was sent to the attorney general to determine its constitutionality. It was introduced by Sen. Doyle Willis of Fort Worth and in the House (HB86) by Green.

At a Feb. 6 House Jurisprudence Committee meeting a bill (HB199) requiring school district treasurers to keep full and adequate accounts of all school funds and make regular reports to the state commissioner of education was sent to a subcommittee. The bill was introduced by Rep. Dewitt Hale of Corpus Christi.

Last Monday the House Veterans Affairs Committee sent to a subgroup a bill (HB104) by Rep. Louis Anderson of Midland which would require every applicant for land under the state veterans' land program to publish notice of his application. A similar bill (SB67) by Sen. Charles Herring of Austin comes up before a Senate committee Monday afternoon.

A public hearing is set Feb. 27 at 2 p.m. before the Senate State Affairs Committee for a bill (SB131) requiring publication of an annual financial statement for each school district, junior college district, soil conservation district and other districts not covered by present law. The bill was introduced by Sen. Crawford Martin of Hillsboro, Miss Virginia Duff, representative from Ferris, has a similar measure (HB159) in the House.

Other "better government" measures that have been introduced but not set for public hearing include:

A bill (HB156) by Rep. Jack Welch of Marlin requiring all insurance companies in Texas to publish a financial statement at least twice a year—similar to present laws governing bank calls.

A bill (HB157) by Welch making it a penal offense for the office of any insurance company to file false information with the Insurance Commission.

A bill (SB223) by Sen. Andy Rogers of Childress to set venue for trial of any persons accused of misusing or embezzling public funds either in the county where the violation occurs or in Austin.

A bill (SB224, HB167) requiring prosecutors to file recovery suits for any money misappropriated or stolen from a school district or other political subdivision.

C-City Benefit Show Nets $30 For Cagers

COLORADO CITY—Feb. 16—A pre-Easter style show, held for the benefit of the basketball teams of Wallace Negro School, netted over $30, according to Mrs. W. D. Harris, teacher at Wallace School.

About twelve white and 16 Negro children participated in the show, said Mrs. Harris, with Mrs. James E. Payne supplying a musical accompaniment. Mrs. Susie Johnson, former Wallace P-TA president, was chairman of arrangements. A bake sale, which followed the style show, added to the benefit fund.

Lamesa Leases Water Rights On Walls Farm

LAMESA, Feb. 16 — The City of Lamesa Friday exercised its option to lease a 160-acre farm's water rights.

The farm, four miles north of Lamesa, is owned by Wisely Walls. The city may have in production five wells at one time, but may drill as many as necessary, at $100 per well, to secure the maximum amount of water. The city will pay Walls $10,000 per year for rights.

Thursday the city closed a deal with W. E. Bartlett for the purchase of his farm, which adjoins the property leased today.

Mayor Bob Crawley said engineering reports show sufficient water from the half section to furnish between six and seven million gallons of water daily. However, before citizens may use water from the two tracts, voters must approve, by election set for Feb. 26, a $300,000 bond issue.

Money from the bonds will allow the city to develop the fields, build a pipe line from the fields to town, and construct a new fire station and purchase two new fire trucks.

LONGVIEW, Feb. 16 (AP)—Hugh Garrett, East Texas oil man, pledged $100,000 last night as a drive for one million dollars for a new Longview YMCA building was launched at a meeting of 100 city leaders.

Martin To Start Vegetable Crops

STANTON—The vegetable growing project for Martin County will soon get under way, as farmers prepare land and purchase seed. Only two vegetables, cantaloupes and carrots, will be grown this year, according to County Agent Gerald Hanson. He said that in starting out the growers would concentrate on these two crops, then add others in succeeding years.

There is sufficient acreage pledged for the Wallace Fruit and Vegetable Company to set up its packing sheds, but the promoters are hoping other farmers will decide to devote some of their land to vegetables. Anyone who is interested in growing these two crops should contact Hanson or Jack Arrington of the Chamber of Commerce.

Several men will leave for South Texas Tuesday or Wednesday to inspect vegetable crops already being planted. They will visit the Wallace Fruit and Vegetable Company, try to learn the different varieties suitable for this area and make arrangements for buying seed.

Those to make the trip are Hanson, Bernard Houston, Jake Hodgson, Houston Woody, Stanley Wheeler, and possibly others.

Early planting is desired, said Hanson, and both the cantaloupes and carrots should be put into the ground between Feb. 25 and early March.

Eldorado To Honor Famous Native Son

ELDORADO, Tex., Feb. 16 (AP)—Eldorado on July 4 will honor a famous native son, Maj. Gen. Alvin Luedecke, who at 33 became the youngest Air Force general.

The event has been planned since the end of the war, but duties kept the general from attending. He commands the Armed Forces Special Project which coordinates Army, Air Force and Navy operations in the field of atomic and other special weapons.

Luedecke will take command next summer of Joint Task Force 7 which conducted atomic and hydrogen tests in the Pacific.

Luedecke graduated from Texas A&M in 1932, spent a year working on his father's ranch and for a San Angelo utility and joined the Air Corps at 22.

Dallas Lad Smashes Way To GG Light-Heavy Title

FORT WORTH, Feb. 16 (U)—J. A. Hamilton of Dallas pounded a game and rushing Arthur Sears of Greenville into a bloody bulk tonight for the light-heavyweight Golden Gloves championship of Texas.

Hamilton was awarded a TKO in 1:50 of the third round and the victory gave the Dallas club the team trophy with 10 points. Jake Martinez, three-time state lightweight Golden Gloves chamion, survived a third round knockdown to take an unpopular decision from Gary Wilhelm of Amarillo. Martinez tagged Wilhelm with a hard right in the first round and the younger boxer dropped to one knee, but no knockdown was called.

Martinez took the compulsory eight-count after a flurry drove him to his knees.

Patricia Gin Company of Klondike won the consolation title, defeating Garden City, 57-52.

The Big Spring Steers averaged 64.3 points per game to 51.7 for the opposition in winning 18 of 24 games the past season, according to figures prepared by Coach Johnny Johnson.

The Steers scored a total of 1,545 points to 1,240 for the foe. The average score was an all-time record for a Big Spring team.

Jan Loudernilk's 530 points and 23.8 average topped the local scorers. All five of the starters scored 100 or more points and one other player, Mike Musgrove, went over the 300 mark.

Loudernilk hit a percentage of .559 on his field goal attempts. Closest to him was Jimmy Evans, who hit for an even .500 per cent.

Jesse McElreath had far and away the best percentage on free shots, connecting with 74 of 83 for .891.

As a team, the Steers hit on .654 per cent of the gratis pitch tries and .416 on field goal attempts.

Demaret's 67 Cops Lead In Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 16 (U)—Jimmie Demaret, golf's laughing man of the gaudy clothes, whipped through biting cold and 25-miles-per-hour winds to a 4-under-par 67 today to take over the lead at 54 holes in the $30,000 Texas Open.

The colorful Texan, who has won some 30 major tournaments over a 32-year career but let this storied tournament escape him, brought his total to 202 with a glittering stretch run.

Most of the field of 102 found Brackenridge Park's 6,400 yards tough to traverse under the conditions but not jaunty Jimmie who made it around with a wisecrack and a smoking putter.

Henry Williams Jr. of Reading, Pa., who started today's third round leading the field by a stroke with 134, climbed to a 73 and wound up with 207 for 54 holes.

Demaret will start the final round tomorrow with a 2-stroke lead over Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla., and Ed Furgol, the man with the withered arm from St. Andrews, Ill. Hebert had a 67 today while Furgol had a 68, both winding up with 204 for the 54 holes.

In the next spot is Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C., who had a 68 today for a total of 205.

Demaret, who three times has been third in the Texas Open over a quarter of a century of competing here, is noted as a great player in the wind and this knack came in well today.

Beau James didn't have it all easy in the round, however, taking a bogey on the fifteenth hole where he hit his second shot into the crowd. He three-putted there but otherwise he was sinking them up to 20 feet.

birds, but he also had two bogeys. His eagles were on the third hole where he 2-ironed within 8 feet of the pin and on 9 where his 4-iron shot was also just eight feet away. He had a fine 66—the low round of the day—and it gave him 210 and a tie for twelfth place—3 strokes off the pace.

Demaret showed up with ear muffs on but it was strictly a gag. He was playing with Maxwell, the golfer who drew a fine of $100 yesterday for swearing at the gallery. "I don't like profanity," quipped Jimmie. He didn't play with the ear muffs on.

Demaret has played 15 rounds on the winter tour and only twice has been above the 60's. He won the Palm Springs Thunderbird Open in his first appearance.

Juan Estrada of Torreon, Mexico, a golfer at North Texas State College, and Rex Baxter of Amarillo, who golfs at University of Houston, tied for low amateur. Estrada shot a 73 today while Baxter had a 74. Each has 214 for 54 holes.

Big Spring High School Steerettes won the annual Imperial volleyball tournament here tonight, defeating Monahans in the finals, 39-14.

The Big Springers had been defeated by Monahans in two previous games this season.

Big Spring moved into the finals by defeating Andrews, 42-22, earlier in the day. Monahans' semi-final foe was Imperial and the score in that game was 23-17.

Imperial defeated Andrews, 24-11, for the third place trophy. In the consolation finals, McCamey bested Lamesa, 38-16.

Two Big Spring players were named to the all-tournament team. Chosen were Barbara Hale, a spiker, and Linda Glenn, a set-up.

Other spikers on the all-star squad were Tompkins of Andrews, King of Imperial, Paxton of Monahans, Wade of McCamey and Howard of Lamesa. All-tournament set-ups were Alsbrook of Andrews, Rutledge and Zeitler of Imperial. Ragsdale of Monahans and Torbett of McCamey.

Big Spring girls defeated Lamesa, 40-12, in their first game, advancing to the semi-finals where they downed Andrews. Monahans scored a first-round win over Ozona, 50-10, to move into the semi-final bracket.

Other game scores were McCamey 12, Imperial 22; Iraan 25, Big Lake 14; Kermit 24, Pecos 9; Andrews 29, Kermit 24; and Imperial 36, Iraan 13.

In the consolation playoffs, Lamesa defeated Pecos 30-26, McCamey defeated Big Lake 36-16, McCamey eliminated Ozona 24-18, and then McCamey defeated Lamesa 38-16 in the finals.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 16 (U)—Tim Flock of Atlanta, one of stock car racing's most consistent winners, today became the first driver in history to average more than 100 miles an hour over the 160-mile grind for late model convertibles in scoring a decisive victory.

After a furious battle with three rivals, Flock had things all to himself on the final laps and was taking it easy wheeling his 335-horsepower 1957 Mercury around the curves on the 4.1-mile beach and road course.

His record average of 101.32 miles an hour—which is unofficial until lap records are checked—was more than 5 miles an hour better than the record set last year by Curtis Turner of Roanoke, Va.

Turner dropped out after 36 laps. Until then he challenged for the lead and held it for three laps. Joe Weatherly of Norfolk, Va., was second in a 300-horsepower 1957 Ford.

Billy Myers of Germantown, N.C., finished third in a Mercury similar to Flock's.

Big Spring Tennis Girls Drub San Angelo Players

SAN ANGELO, Feb. 16—Big Spring girls tennis won four doubles and eight singles matches from San Angelo girls here in contests that were forced indoors by rain.

Play was held in the San Angelo Junior College gym, and only one set was played in each match. The Big Springers won them all.

Glenda Wilson and Janice Downing defeated Ardore Eckers and Inez Dominguez, 7-5; Betty Ellison and Layla Glaser beat Susan Stephens and Carol Chance, 6-1. Joan Branch and Shirley Kilgough bested Carol Roehl and Freda Gray.

6-2; Lynn Porter and Virginia Johnson whipped Lena Harper and Linda Henson, 6-3.

In the singles, Ellison won over Dominguez, 6-2; Wilson over Roehl, 7-5; Brenda Patton over Eckers, 6-3; Johnson over Stephens, 6-2; Kilgough over Chaney, 6-1; Glaser over Harper, 6-1; Bratcher over Gray, 6-1; and Patsy Potter won over Henson, 6-1.

Coach Billie Clyburn's girls will play next in the Midland tournament March 1-2.

WACO, Feb. 16 (U)—Baylor cancelled its scheduled spring football scrimmage game today because of rain. The Bears will conclude spring drills next Saturday with their annual Green and Gold squad game.

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 16 (U)—Texas A&M, playing their third consecutive close one at home, edged Baylor, 64-61 in a Southwest Conference basketball game tonight.

It was the second loop win and 6th of the season for the Aggies and was the final home performance for the two cadet seniors—Capt. George Mehaffey and Ted Harrod.

Neil Swisher, sophomore guard, calmly dropped two free throws in with five seconds remaining to ice the game after it appeared that a third straight overtime might be in the making here. Two weeks ago A&M defeated Texas, then early this week lost to TCU in two overtime thrillers.

Baylor had closed the gap in the late stages from a 4-point deficit to one point when A&M committed three quick fouls with less than a minute to go.

Swisher led scoring with 17 points while Baylor's Tom Kelly and Gene McCarley, each with 17, led the Bears.

8 Of 30 Out For Drills Vets

Eight lettermen are among the 30 candidates who are taking regular drills under Coach Roy Baird at Big Spring High School. The hold-over veterans are Rickey Terry and Salvador Sarmiento, catchers; Bobby Suggs and Billy Blum, pitchers; George Peacock, first baseman; Preston Daniels, second baseman; and Jerry McMahan and Glenn Whittington, outfielders.

Present plans call for the Steers to launch their practice schedule March 19, at which time they invade Andrews.

Coach Baird has booked six practice tilts and indicated he would arrange at least four more, if possible.

Among the promising candidates for the team are Chubby Moser, a pitcher up from the Teen-Age ranks; Robert Del Gado, who looks to have advantage as a third-sacker; Bernard McMahan, shortstop also up from Teen-Age ball; and Wilson Bell, one of the brightest Little League and Teen-Age stars here in other years.

Vying for the catching job will be Jerry White and Kelton Kupper. White was out part of last season.

Danny Birdwell, ineligible last year; Billy Rogers and Kenny Johnson will try for pitching berths. Ed Hollis is contending with Peacock for the first base job.

Outfield candidates include Billy Bob Lewallen, Jackie Tucker, Jackie Thomas and Preston Hollis.

Two other lettermen, outfielder Jan Loudermilk and infielder Billy Johnson, are passing up baseball this year to concentrate on track.

A pitching machine, which delivers about eight balls a minute to the plate with unerring accuracy, has been ordered for the Steers and is due in shortly. The machine costs $816. In addition, about $40 worth of electric cord was purchased.

The non-conference schedule: March 19—At Andrews. March 23—Snyder here (2). March 26—Andrews here. March 30—At Snyder (2).

Turley, Spahn, Puddinhead Sign Contracts

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (AP)—Bullet Bob Turley, who followed a disappointing season with a brilliant pitching effort in the world series last year, signed his New York Yankee contract today and brought the number of world champions in the fold to 27.

Figures, as usual, were not divulged. But it was believed the husky righthander will receive about $15,000, the same as last season.

Turley had an 8-4 won-lost record in 1956, but had an earned run average of 5.05. In his only world series start, he dropped a 1-0 10-inning decision to Brooklyn's Clem Labine in the sixth game.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 16 (AP)—Left-hander Warren Spahn today accepted a contract from the Milwaukee Braves calling for about $20,000, but 10 other players, including five regulars, remained unsigned.

General manager John Quinn said the dean of the Braves' pitching corps agreed to terms by phone from his home in Hartsboro, Okla. Spahn, who won 20 games last season, said he would leave for Florida shortly.

Three other starting pitchers, Lew Burdette (10-10), Bob Buhl (18-9) and Gene Conley (8-9) are unsigned along with shortstop Johnny Logan and outfielder Billy Bruton, among the regulars. Others still out of the fold are Ernie Jones, Felix Mantilla, Frank Torre, Wes Covington and Don PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 16 (AP)—Willie Jones, the National League's top fielding third baseman for the fourth straight year, has signed his 1957 contract with the Philadelphia Phillies for an undisclosed increase in salary, the club announced today.

Jones, who handled 479 chances, most by a National League third baseman, compiled a fielding percentage of .973 last year.

The 31-year-old native of Dillon, S. C., also had a good year at the bat, hitting .277, including 17 home runs and 78 runs batted in in 149 games.

Ackerly Kayoed In 8-B Tourney
LOOP, Feb. 16 (SC)—Loop knocked Ackerly out of the District 8-B girls' basketball tournament here Friday night, winning, 76-70.

Ackerly led at the end of the second quarter, 35-33, but Loop outscored the Eagles, 25-20, in the third period.

Flower Grove also advanced by turning back Dawson, 44-29. Wanda Williams scored 29 points for Ackerly, Dorothy Williams 30 and Adeline Bearden 12.

For Loop, June Freeman had 36 and Leatrice Corbett and Martha Freeman 20 each.

Loop led by only two points, 72-70, going into the last 30 seconds but the Longhorns hit another field goal and two free pitches to ice away the verdict.

Ackerly thus ended its season with a record of 18 wins and nine defeats. In conference play, Ackerly was 3-2.

Bloomer Girls Win MOD Cage Battle
GAY HILL, Feb. 16 (SC)—The Bloomer Girls slipped by the Glamour Girls, 89-82, in a March of Dimes benefit basketball—football—game here Friday night.

HCJC PLAYERS HONORED
TSCW Wins Meet At Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Feb. 16 (SC)—Texas State College for Women of Denton, Tex., won the finals of the Texas Wesleyan College girls' volleyball tournament here Friday.

TSCW defeated HCJC of Big Spring, 9-7, in the semi-finals while North Texas skinned by Baylor, 17-12.

In first round play, HCJC won over SMU, 26-6; TSCW turned back TWC, 22-13; North Texas trounced PE Teachers of Fort Worth, 20-14; and Baylor outlasted TCU, 14-10.

TWC later won consolation honors by defeating TCU, 22-7. In consolation semi-final games, TWC edged SMU, 24-9; and TCU kayoed PE Teachers, 28-8.

HCJC was the only school to place three players on the all-tournament team.

They were Ann Green and Ester Bueno, spikers; and Marilou Starks, setter.

Other members of the elite group were Bobbie Alford and Bobbie Wiggins, both of TSCW; Lillian Novisad and Joyce Glover, both of TWC; Cecilia Martin and Shirley Creswell, both of North Texas; Babs Tyler and Barbara Cox, both of TCU; and Patty Paul, Baylor.

HCJC's defeat was attributed in part to the fact that the Jayhawk Queens were playing NSWA rules for the first time. The regulations permit eight players on the court at one time. The teams rotate differently than they do under TIL rules, which the HCJC team has been playing. In addition, each person can hit the ball twice in succession and one team six times in all before it is returned.

The Jayhawk Queens will meet HSU in an exhibition game during the Big Spring girls' tournament Friday night.

Pro Tennists Open US Tour

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (AP)—Professional tennis' David and Goethals act, with a possible reverse twist, moves into Madison Square Garden tomorrow afternoon when Australia's wee Ken Rosewall makes his American pro debut against towering Pancho Gonzales.

The battle of contrasts—in men and styles—will start at 1:30 p.m. (EST) to make sure the racket-swingers are out of the big arena before the New York Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs take over for their evening ice hockey brawl.

The heavy canvas court, a surface new to Rosewall, will be stretched over an ice floor, producing perhaps the only deep-freeze tennis match in all history. Gonzales, recognized as the world's greatest player, will be endeavoring to maintain his edge over the Australian newcomer, a margin which now is 7-3 in the regular 100-match series and 7-4 if you count a recent tournament match in Sydney.

Pancho is 29, a player who seems to grow better with age. He stands 6-3½ and weighs 185 pounds. He hits a service like a cannon shot. His game is built on the big service and volley, either shot hard enough to twist a racket in an opponent's hand.

Rosewall is 22, nearly a foot shorter than Pancho at 5-6½, and only 142 pounds. From a balcony seat, he looks like a boy playing hockey from grammar school.

Ken's main attributes are two—a grim determination which makes him a tougher threat when behind than ahead and a rare racket control which enables him to thread the chalk lines with passing shots. His backhand is rated the best in all tennis.

The supporting cast consists of Pancho Segura winner of the recent pro tournament at Sydney, and Dinny Pails, veteran Australian pro who once toured with Bobby Riggs. After the best-of-five singles, the Australians play the two Panchos in doubles.

STANTON, Feb. 16 (SC)—Loie Badgett paced the Stanton Bulldogs past the Roscoe Plowboys in a District 6-A basketball game here Friday night, scoring 16 points as the Bisons won, 61-43.

The Stanton girls also prevailed, finishing on the long end of an 83-33 score.

Linda Glaze went on a scoring rampage for Stanton, bucketing 47 points. Betty Gray had 19 as the Roscoe leader.

The victory by the boys enabled the Bulldogs to escape the conference cellar, leaving it to Roscoe.

The Stanton girls wound up third, back of Roby and Coahoma.

BORGER, Feb. 16 (SC)—Frank Phillips College of Borger defeated Amarillo College, 73-51, here Friday night to take the lead in West Zone basketball standings.

The Plainsmen now have a 4-2 conference record. The loss was Amarillo's third.

Webb Wins Convincingly
NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (AP)—For a guy who has had less than two years of pro boxing under his belt, Spider Webb, 23, looked mighty deceiving Friday night at Madison Square Garden. He was that good.

Slick and sensational are the words to describe the middleweight contender from Chicago who racked up his 18th straight victory with a lopsided decision over rugged Neal Rivers of Las Vegas.

A graduate of street fighting, college boxing in California and at Idaho State and the Olympics, Webb's impressive performance indicated he was ready for anyone in the division including champion Gene Fullmer.

The Spider had no set up for his Garden debut, which was telecast nationally. Rivers, 22, is the eighth-ranking contender. He had won 16 of his last 17 and knows his way around the ring. But the brawny-armed transplanted Westerner was simply outclassed in the 10-rounder by a boxer-puncher who showed everything.

Webb, rated No. 4 by Ring and No. 5 by the NBA, was a 3-1 favorite and won like a 100-1 shot. Referee Harry Kessler and Judge Frank Forbes each had him ahead 9-1 in rounds. Judge Artie Schwartz had it 8-1-1. The AP card made it 9-1.

Return From Fort Worth

TSCW Wins Meet At Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Feb. 16 (SC)—Texas State College for Women of Denton, Tex., won the finals of the Texas Wesleyan College girls' volleyball tournament here Friday.

TSCW defeated HCJC of Big Spring, 9-7, in the semi-finals while North Texas skinned by Baylor, 17-12.

In first round play, HCJC won over SMU, 26-6; TSCW turned back TWC, 22-13; North Texas trounced PE Teachers of Fort Worth, 20-14; and Baylor outlasted TCU, 14-10.

TWC later won consolation honors by defeating TCU, 22-7. In consolation semi-final games, TWC edged SMU, 24-9; and TCU kayoed PE Teachers, 28-8.

HCJC was the only school to place three players on the all-tournament team.

They were Ann Green and Ester Bueno, spikers; and Marilou Starks, setter.

Other members of the elite group were Bobbie Alford and Bobbie Wiggins, both of TSCW; Lillian Novisad and Joyce Glover, both of TWC; Cecilia Martin and Shirley Creswell, both of North Texas; Babs Tyler and Barbara Cox, both of TCU; and Patty Paul, Baylor.

HCJC's defeat was attributed in part to the fact that the Jayhawk Queens were playing NSWA rules for the first time. The regulations permit eight players on the court at one time. The teams rotate differently than they do under TIL rules, which the HCJC team has been playing. In addition, each person can hit the ball twice in succession and one team six times in all before it is returned.

The Jayhawk Queens will meet HSU in an exhibition game during the Big Spring girls' tournament Friday night.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Wayne Talley, the former Coahoma coaching aide (under Fred Salling), is now an assistant at Colorado City. Very happy with his job, too. Talley says the Wolves should be tougher in 1957. Most of last fall's Wolfpack team were juniors. Teen-age girls, those in the 12-to-15 age bracket, are pestered Mrs. Sam Mesker here to help them organize a Fem baseball or softball team.

The name of the HCJC girls' volleyball team was quietly changed from the Hawkettes to the Jayhawk Queens in order to make them appear more feminine and give them added dignity. One of the officials at last week's basketball game between Big Spring and San Angelo in Angelo was Tom Hamilton, the former University of Texas basketball-baseball great who is still in professional baseball. Hamilton didn't hit quite well enough to remain in the big leagues. Hamilton said he couldn't afford to venture this far away from his home base, Austin, to officiate anymore due to small fees. Officials who work 2-AAAA basketball games get a share of the gate and a slim crowd saw the Steer-Bobcat game. Jim Gentile, the former Fort Worth first sacker who will get a chance with Brooklyn in the spring, has been playing winter baseball around San Francisco. Jim Stehley, the coaching aide at Snyder High School, played basketball at Santa Rosa Air Base in California around 1944. In event you're a figure filbert and like to make a record of such things, there were 2,802 holes-in-one sank by golfers in the U.S. last year, ranging from 80 to 360 yards. So says Golf Digest. Pennsylvania continues to be a happy hunting grounds for scouts hunting collegiate football material. Michigan State recently signed the second highest scoring back in the Quaker State. He is Herb Aderly, who made 133 points for North-east High in Philadelphia. Texas Tech is getting a reputation for sub-par officiating at its home games against 'name' opponents it may find hard to live down once it becomes a full-fledged member of the Southwest Conference. Some of the decisions in its game with SMU the other night were supposed to have been very raw, although Curly Hays did a better than adequate job.

Pascual Has An Envidable Record

Camillo (Little Potato) Pascual, the former Big Spring hurler, has won more pitching decisions than anyone in 20 years in the Cuban Winter League. He notched 15 wins for Cienfuegos. Pascual also led the league in earned-run averages with 2.04. Bert Baez, another ex-Big Spring hurler, is supposed to be working in New Jersey. In a press conference he gave at Colorado City the other night, Oklahoma University's Bud Wilkinson said Ivy League athletic scholarships actually are better than those at most other schools but the academic requirements of member colleges are correspondingly higher. At the banquet which followed, Wilkinson gave a lavish introduction to "perhaps the greatest linebacker we've ever had". I thought it was going to be Jerry Tubbs. It turned out to be Amarillo's Merle Greathouse, however. Lou Thesz, the wrestling champion, made $150,000 plying his trade in 1956. Argentine Rocca, another in-line ear, reported his wage at $115,000. A crowd of 19,300 — 15,000 of which were paid —

Bears Get Excited At New Orleans

Fagan (Moon) Mullins, who was making inquiries about the local assistant coach's job recently, was at the helm of perhaps Anson High School's greatest football team in history. One of Mullins' prize pupils was Kenneth Helms, now a quarterback at Baylor. Every-one named Mullins is called Moon, it seems. At the recent Big Spring-San Angelo basketball game, he was one of three men present who went by that name. The Baylor Bears got so excited about their Sugar Bowl victory, they went home without their trophy. Seems they left it in the banquet hall and had to telephone for it the following day. March 15-16-17 will perhaps be the biggest weekend in sports history here. The ABC Relays take place on the first two days while the Harlem Globetrotters move in the following afternoon. George McAlister of the Relays committee predicts a 3:15 mile relay will be run here. Though the West Texas Relays in Odessa will have more university teams than will the ABC show, there will be more athletes in that division competing here. The Odessa carnival will be run as a true relay, whereas this will be a regular track and field meet. McAlister, incidentally, had hopes of getting Dave Sims of Duke to run here after it was learned ACC's Bobby Morrow would go to Fort Worth but Sims had already been lined up for another appearance that weekend. Why sports polls such as the AP's basketball vote means nothing: Ten pollsters in one area naming their favorite team and ignoring powerhouses in other areas can cause a major switch in the ratings from week to week. The Abilene Eagles have a good chance to beat the El Paso winner in bi-district basketball race. El Paso Jefferson, the leader out that way at the present time, lost Johnny Rodriguez, a regular, at mid-term. Rodriguez scored ten points when the Silver Foxes toppled the Big Spring Steers, 68-65, in the semi-finals of the Andrews tournament back in December. Satchel Paige, the ancient pitcher, wants to go back to semi-pro ranks. At least three members of the 1956-57 Big Spring High School basketball team, all of whom will be eligible again next season, need weekend jobs. Those who have work can contact Coach Johnny Johnson at the High School.

Baseball Season Nearing, Red Book Is Published

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 (AP) — Spring must be just around the corner — the American League Red Book is out. The publication is privately distributed to press, radio and television men who cover baseball and is in its 21st edition. Edited this year by Earl Hilligan, manager of the American League Service Bureau, the Red Book is packed with facts and such interesting items as: American League clubs will have 126 rookies in camp when their full squads report to Florida and Arizona spring bases Feb. 28. The Chicago White Sox and Detroit Tigers will have the largest contingent of fledglings, each 18. The Kansas City Athletics list 17, with the world champion New York Yankees having 16, Baltimore Orioles and Cleveland Indians each 15, and the Boston Red Sox and Washington Senators each 14. Standout prospects include: Boston — Heywood Sullivan, catcher from San Francisco, and outfielder Marty Keough, .315 hitter with San Francisco. Baltimore — Al Pilarcik, .325 hitting outfielder from Columbus, Ohio. Detroit — Pitcher Jim Bunning

Net Chiefs May Call On Savitt

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (AP) — Is Dick Savitt being groomed for a tennis comeback and a possible spot on the Davis Cup team? Tennis circles are buzzing over the possibility since Savitt, 1951 Australian and Wimbledon champion, has entered the National Indoor Tournament next week and drawn the top-seeded position. The big, dark-haired powerhouse from Orange, N. J., who retired five years ago to enter the oil business, will play Lloyd Mogien of New York in the first round Wednesday night at the 7th Regiment Armory. The tournament runs through Sunday, Feb. 24. Savitt heads an international field which includes Ulf Schmidt of Sweden, who won the event last year; Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., member of the last U.S. Davis Cup team, and Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, twice runner-up at Wimbledon and a beaten finalist in this tournament three years ago. Schmidt, Flam and Nielsen are seeded behind Savitt in that order.

Chapman Hits 55 As Tyler Wins

TYLER, Feb. 16 (AP) — Kelly Chapman, sophomore forward, rang up 55 points Friday night in leading Tyler Junior College to a 113-87 win over Victoria College. Chapman hit 17 field goals and 21 free throws to break the individual scoring record for the Apaches and set a new mark for points scored in the Tyler gymnasium.

Football Revenue Keeping Athletic Fund In Black

Football season revenues amounting to more than $22,000 last fall have kept the Big Spring Independent School District's athletic fund in the black this year. In fact, the fund still has $1,111.04 in the bank. Football game receipts accounted for $22,301.04 of the $35,548.85 in revenues to the fund this year. Disbursements on the football program amounted to $10,453.79, not including money spent on equipment. Basketball program has cost $2,399.86, also not including equipment, while it has brought in but $1,489.10 thus far. Equipment expenditures from the athletic fund are lumped together for all sports and include $13,869.53 for new gear and $249.93 for repairs. Home game receipts during the football season last fall amounted

Olympics' Expense Totals $840,000

MELBOURNE, Feb. 16 (AP) — Olympic game losses already total $840,000 and are inching toward the million-dollar mark, Sir William Bridgeford said today. He was the Executive Director of the Games held last Nov. 22-Dec. 8. This figure is greatly worrying Commonwealth and State government circles as well as the Melbourne City Council who are joint guarantors. Least worried, however, is Bridgeford. "Never did a city or nation get more favorable world publicity for such a small outlay," he said.

Pro Football Controversy Has Bert Bell In Spotlight

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 16 (AP) — The recent ruckus among National Football League owners and their players over a players' association has once again thrust into the spotlight the explosive man from Philadelphia, Bert Bell. As commissioner of the pro league, it is Bell, the short, energetic, outspoken little man with the deep throated voice, who must carry the ball between owner and player. And strangely enough, both sides accuse him of favoring the other. Certain players have accused him of being a company man. Certain owners have asked him whether he works for "the players or us."

SMU-Ex Is Named Coach At Kermit

KERMIT (SC) — Joe Ethridge has been elevated to the head job at Kermit High School, succeeding Max Jones. Jones recently took a coaching position at Conroe. Ethridge is a former tackle for Southern Methodist University. He played professional ball one season with the Green Bay Packers and more recently has served as an assistant to Jones here. Jones compiled a 28-11-1 won-lost-tied record with Kermit. One of his triumphs was a 21-20 score over Big Spring last season. The Yellow Jackets are members of District 2-AAA, which has Monahans, Pecos, Andrews and Brownfield as other teams.

Yale Lary Signs

DETROIT, Feb. 16 (AP) — The Detroit Lions of the National Football League today said Yale Lary, an all-pro defensive back in 1956, and Gerald Leahy, a rookie end from Colorado, have agreed to terms for the 1957 season. A shell-shocked HCJC Jayhawk basketball team picked itself off the floor here Friday night after blowing a 65-61 West Zone decision to Clarendon's Bulldogs. The defeat all but removed the Big Spring Jayhawks from title consideration in the conference race. Fact is, the locals will have to hand-fight it all the way to escape the cellar. The Jayhawks have now dropped four decisions in a row, all of which count in Zone standings. Against Clarendon, they appeared dispirited and often bewildered by the defensive tactics employed by the Bulldogs. The Hawks, who now have a 17-7 won-lost record, never led but once during the game. That was 2-0 in the first minute. Clarendon scrapped back and within six minutes had doubled the Hawks' point margin, at 16-8. The Big Springers cut that to four points at half time and twice in the third period crept to within one point of the invaders, only to fall back. HCJC hit two baskets in the last 30 seconds of play to make it as close as it was. Boyd White and Steve Jarnigan each hit 13 points for Clarendon.

FIRST STYRENE ISSUES FROM NEW COSDEN FACILITY
Operations prove produce possible by new commercial process

Styrene Being Made At Cosden's Plant

The thing that some leaders in the industry said couldn't be done and which some others perhaps hoped couldn't — is actually taking place at Cosden Petroleum Corporation's plant here.

Styrene, produced through a new process, is being manufactured in rubber grade and soon will be touching plastic grade.

Thus, what R. L. Tollett, president, described as Cosden's boldest venture when ground was broken for the $3 million styrene facility a year ago, has succeeded.

There will be a period of several weeks before the plant is on regular commercial stream, but with recovery of samples of 99.2 per cent purity at the very outset there can be no doubt now that Cosden will be able to fill its commitments of 21,000,000 pounds per year. Bulk of the styrene will go to Phillips Chemical Company for use in its Borger rubber plant. Something a little less than a third will go to the Seamless Rubber Company for plastic production.

CHARGED MONDAY

Feed stock was cut in at 11:35 a.m. on Monday (Feb. 11) and the first styrene issued at 11 a.m. Tuesday and tested 99.9 per cent pure. By that evening the purity had been upped to 99.2, which is 2 of a per cent above requirements for rubber grade and only 3 of a per cent under plastic requirements.

"To say that we were just please would be a gross understatement," said Tollett. What we are now doing has never been done before so far as we know."

Dan M. Krause, vice president in charge of manufacturing and who has been closely identified with the development of the project, explained how Cosden has again cut across conventional lines for some industrial pioneering. Heretofore, styrene has been obtained by dehydrogenating ethylbenzene. The supply of ethylbenzene has come from alkylation of benzene and ethylene under exacting conditions and involving purification.

NEW PROCESS

Cosden has taken the mixed xylene stream from its BTX plant and has separated the ethylbenzene through ultra-fractionation. The hydrogen atom has then been knocked off ethylbenzene through much the conventional process except that Cosden is making the styrene recovery in on tower instead of through two.

The plant will be going through a "shakedown" phase for several weeks while electronic gauges, automatic control valves, pumps, etc., are adjusted to the productive pattern. However, initial results have given rise to hopes that adjustments may be the least of any of the recent major facilities added at Cosden.

For this Tollett had words of praise to Badger Manufacturing Company, which constructed the ethylbenzene purification and styrene manufacturing facilities.

"Badger did a fine engineering job and their construction work was altogether satisfactory," he observed. When Tollett reports at the board of directors meeting in New York on Monday morning, he will have two small bottles of clear liquid in his pocket. He will probably have more than passing pride in showing off samples of ethylbenzene and styrene monomer to his directors, for, in his own words: "No greater satisfaction in business has ever been mine than to have the styrene production unit completed and going on stream."

Oil Probes May Sidetrack Other Industry Legislation

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—Current Washington investigations of the oil industry, regardless of their outcome, may affect several oil issues before Congress.

Some oilmen say congressional reaction to the price hike and oil-for-Europe hearings may sidetrack some legislation and lead to unexpected emphasis on other proposals.

The hearings strengthened a belief within the industry that 1957 would not be the proper time for a vigorous fight to seek a replacement for the controversial Harris Natural Gas Bill President Eisenhower vetoed last year.

On the other hand, Congress this week was asked to reduce the oil industry's tax depletion allowance from 27 1/2 per cent to 15. The timing may have been coincidental but Rep. John Hesselton (R-Mass.) filed his bill in the House as the Senate's oil investigations gained momentum.

The oilman considers the depletion allowance as essential if the industry is to continue sufficient explorations and development of new crude reserves. The allowance permits an oilman to deduct for income tax purposes 27 1/2 per cent of the gross income from a well because production from the well during the year has reduced the owner's capital assets.

Numerous attempts have been made to cut the oil industry's allowance, the highest permitted under depletion statutes, since it was enacted over a quarter of a century ago. Hesselton does not oppose the oil depletion allowance but believes the percentage should be lowered in line with other industries.

The Harris bill would have removed production and gathering of natural gas from federal control.

Allowables Are Increased Again

AUSTIN, Feb. 16 (AP)—An increase of 25,032 barrels daily has been indicated by nominations of major oil companies for crude in March compared with February.

Nominations submitted yesterday totaled 3,889,673 barrels a day compared with February nominations of 3,844,643. Demands for most fields were described but were offset by an increase of 31,174 barrels in District Eight, West Texas.

The nominations and the March forecast of demand by the Bureau of Mines will be factors considered in the setting of March permissive flow by the Railroad Commission Tuesday at its prorated hearing.

The Bureau of Mines forecast was 3,300,000 barrels, a drop of 350,000 barrels from the forecast issued for the previous two months.

Miller To Begin Advance Executive Training Course

Marvin M. Miller, senior vice president of Cosden Petroleum Corporation, left Friday for Boston, Mass., and a 13-week post-graduate level course at Harvard.

He will be in New York on Monday for the regular monthly board meeting of Cosden directors and will go on to Boston to begin the sessions on Wednesday morning. He is nominated for the 31st session of the Advanced Management Program at the Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration by R. L. Tollett, president of Cosden. Only 150 of 275 executives nominated were accepted for the course which continues until May 20.

Chief topics for discussion during the period will be business policy, administrative practices, business and American society, costs and financial administration, general problems and labor relations.

During his absence, Earnest Dodson, head of the Cosden land office at Midland, will be in Miller's office at the headquarters building here.

History Topics Set

Judea, Greece and India will be discussed Sunday when the World History study group takes up Book IV of H. G. Wells' "An Outline of History."

Under the plan adopted at the December meeting, various members will prepare arguments based on their readings in works of other historians and philosophers of history who amplify, corroborate or contradict Wells. Each meeting will be conducted by a different member, who will use a "pony" prepared by Charles Cain, leader of the group.

The Wells study will be followed, in the summer or fall, by a similar series of informal debates on the works of Toynbee, Spengler, Durant and others. All the meetings are open to any person interested in history.

Sunday's meeting will open at 2 p.m. in the library at Howard County Junior College.

The next meeting of the Great Books Group has been postponed until March 5. The Great Books Group functions on the order of the history discussion unit and any interested person is invited.

Gas Interests Work On A New Federal Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—Natural gas interests were reported seeking agreement today on a new legislative proposal to exempt natural gas producers from direct federal regulation.

Rep. Harris (D-Ark), co-author of the gas bill which president Eisenhower vetoed last year, said he had not been advised of any formal agreement on provisions of a new bill.

"All sorts of things are going around," Harris said.

Harris has not said whether he will introduce another bill. Eisenhower vetoed last year's version on grounds that some questionable lobbying tactics had been used in its behalf.

Natural gas producers and distributors and pipeline company officials were said to have been trying to reach agreement on a new proposal.

One preliminary draft for legislation was reported prepared. In his budget message this year, Eisenhower said he still thought legislation conforming to the basic objectives of the vetoed bill was needed.

Speaker Rayburn of Texas has said the President would have to come out "very strongly" to get the bill passed this year.

Oil Information Posts Are Filled

Three key posts on the Texas Oil Information Committee were filled this week by newly-appointed state chairman James L. Sewell of Dallas.

The appointment of two Dallas oilmen and one from Houston as functional vice chairmen will bring the new 1957 American Petroleum Institute-sponsored program to inform residents about the day-to-day operations of the petroleum industry up to full strength.

Harold Ward, Humble Oil & Refining Co., Houston, is the new state school chairman. This program provides teachers and students in junior and senior high schools educational materials at no charge. Currently this program serves 1,238 of the 2,231 schools in Texas.

The two Dallas appointees are O. J. Fister, Oil Well Supply Co., and A. B. Macaulay, Atlantic Refining Co.

Fister will be community programs chairman. He will offer clubs, organizations, conventions and other public audience speakers, films and demonstrations to explain the oil industry.

Macaulay will head up the OIC Know Your Industry program. It is designed to keep all oil industry employees versed about different phases of the industry.

LOOKS AT BOOKS

By Sam Blackburn

Don Whitehead's documentary report on the achievements of the FBI is making the tremendous hit that every reviewer I happened to read anticipated it would.

It now occupies top spot in the week's list of best sellers in the non-fiction field. It is now leading "The Nun's Story," by Kathryn Hulme, which headed the list last week.

The fascination of clashes between criminals and law enforcement officers on the reading public is amazing to consider.

That's the appeal, I think, found in the widespread popularity of "whodunits" in the fiction form as well as the mountainous demand for fact crime stories and magazines.

The FBI, too, has become a fabulous agency in the public mind. Under the guidance of J. Edgar Hoover, this relatively small organization of investigators has grown into a legend in this nation. Perhaps much of the glamour and appeal that the FBI has stems largely from its general policy of saying nothing or very little about what it does and how the jobs were done.

This has enveloped the bureau in a cloud of exciting mystery. Whitehead, as a veteran reporter and for years in intimate touch with the FBI in its work, is probably the most competent craftsman to tell the story of the bureau.

From the wide demand for the book, it seems rather obvious that Whitehead has done a swell job of the assignment.

In case you keep up with such things, the other non-fiction titles in the best seller list this week are "The Nun's Story" by Kathryn Hulme; "This Hallowed Ground" by Bruce Catton; "Much Ado About Me" by Fred Allen; "Men to Match My Mountains" by Irving Stone.

Those in the fiction group include "Peyton Place" by Grace Metalious, in top place; "The Fountain Overflows" by Rebecca West; "Compulsion" by Meyer

Levin; "Don't Go Near the Water" by William Brinkley and "The Tribe That Lost Its Head," by Nichola Monsarrat.

A TICKET FOR SEAMSTITCH, by Mark Harris.

According to the title page, this is by "Henry W. Wiggen but polished for the printer by Mark Harris." Wiggen was born, raised, made a champion pitcher, and married in Harris' first novel of this series, "The Southpaw," and his story was continued in "Bang The Drum Slowly."

Here now are the Mammoths, whom Wiggen pitched to fame—to hear him tell it—heading for a July 4 doubleheader, and a supposedly pretty little seamstress heading east from California for a rendezvous with Henry and his catcher friend Piney. She wrote a fan letter to Henry but he's not stung and Piney reads it first; anyway, if the seamstress—seamstress to you—can't get either of these boys, she'd probably settle for the rest of the team.

We follow the Mammoths' fortunes, and also the seamstress' success in hitchhiking without paying the price to truckers and other wolves.

The first of the three novels was by far the best. The second almost never "sunk," as Wiggen complains of a pitch that doesn't break. This one climbs back toward the original high level. Harris is a natural-born novelist with an unerring observant eye—notice how Piney picks up blowing sheets of the letter, or ties Henry's tie. But the best of this is the pigeon English, the Wiggen English, the articulateness of inarticulate ballplayers. Baseball idol of the literary world, Wiggen can drive you to thumping belly laughs—even though once in a while you catch Harris straining.

Aldo Ray Stars In Suspense Drama

Aldo Ray has a hard time of it in "Nightfall," playing Wednesday and Thursday at the Ritz Theatre. He is pursued by killers who want their money and his silence; and is chased by the law for murder.

Ray appears as a commercial artist who meets up with fleeing bandits during a camping trip. The bandits kill Ray's friend and leave him for dead, but in their haste to depart, leave behind a bag containing a big chunk of loot.

Daytime Programs Add Features On Channel 4

Forty-one new shows on KBST-TV are currently enhancing Channel Four's revised program schedule, made possible this past week through an early sign-on at 6:55 a.m. week-days with air time extended to midnight or later each day.

Will Rogers Jr., sets a sprightly pace early each week day with his "Good Morning" show from seven to eight a.m.

GARRY MOORE

Tomorrow, the Garry Moore cast returns from a week's visit to Winter Haven, Fla., and guests throughout the week on the 9 a.m. show will include Inventor Russell Oakes, comedian Danny Dillon and the Linda Lynch Dancers. Denise Lor will also be on hand after taking time out to prepare for her appearance at New York's elegant Persian Room of the Plaza hotel.

"SLURVIAN"

Today at 1:30 p.m. "The Last Word" explores "slurvian" practices, a modern-day tendency to neglect diction and slur words in speech. Host Dr. Bergen Evans will be joined by actress June Lockhart, author-essayist-critic Clifton Fadiman and regular panel member John Mason Brown.

WESTERN DRAMA

Wendell Corey, Marsha Hunt, Ron Randell and Johnny Washbrook co-star in "Man of the Law," western drama on "20th Century Fox Hour," to be seen on Channel Four Wednesday at 9 p.m. Corey portrays a sheriff who arrests an outlaw, enacted by Randell, after the brutal shooting of a Wells Fargo agent in a small frontier town.

Losing Identity

TV's Kit Carson is about to lose his identity. Bill Williams, who portrays the frontiersman on video, says kids who follow his exploits readily recognize him on the street, saying "Hi, Kit." But ask them who is Bill Williams, and the kids are nonplussed.

RESPIRE FROM PRACTICE is enjoyed by members of Howard County Junior College choir (above) as they listen to Frances Booker practice her solos for several numbers which the group will sing in the Lions Club Minstrel Thursday and Friday evenings. Orland Johnson, director of the minstrel, accompanies the singer.

Minstrel Time

Traditional among the annual "big" fun events in Big Spring is the Lions Club minstrel, which goes on the boards at the city auditorium Thursday and Friday nights of this week. It will be the 10th annual presentation of the extravaganza of comedy and music, and sponsors are promising a "bigger show than ever." This project, which engages the services of every member of the Downtown Lions Club, as well as the talents of many other people throughout the community, is staged for the club's fund to aid underprivileged children.

NO BANJO, NO MINSTREL — and T-Sgt. Robert Martinez is right on hand to supply the music so typical of a minstrel for the Lions Club "production" at the auditorium Thursday and Friday evenings. Selections by the sergeant will make just one of the many specialties planned for the entertainment of the crowd which gathers for fun as well as helping with the Lions Crippled Children's Fund.

BUY SOME CRACKERJACKS and win a prize — maybe! Between acts at the Lions Club Minstrel is the time to get your crackerjacks, and, if you're lucky, there'll be a number in the box. John Dibrell, at left, and Sam Burns hold just a few of the various prizes which will be handed out from the stage Thursday and Friday evenings at the auditorium. The minstrel is a yearly event given by the club as a benefit for their Crippled Children's Fund.

Dad Plays The Mandolin

A jolly tune played on the mandolin by Dad is always enjoyed by the Gene Mikesell family. Although his playing is strictly for the family, Lt. Mikesell has played with hands and on an Indiana radio station. The Mikesells are newcomers to Big Spring and

Family Pet Won't Be Left Behind Gene Mikesell Family Discovers

Stories have often been told of animals that have found their way back to their owners from many miles beyond their home.

The Lt. Gene Mikesell family has had such an experience. When the family was stationed at Lowry AFB in Denver, Colo., (their station before a January move to Webb AFB) they were confronted with what to do with Tinker Bell when moving time came. About 30 miles outside of Denver is a guided missile station, and they thought the men out there would like a nice cat for a pet.

The men were very pleased to receive such a nice pet. Days later, when the Mikesells were about to leave Denver they awoke one morning to find Tinker Bell sitting on the window sill. "After such determination, we just couldn't leave her behind," they all laughed.

This very congenial and happy

Mikesell family includes the lieutenant and his Mrs. and their three children, Judith Anne, 14, Deanna Kay, 10, and Bobby, 9.

Enjoying life as a family group is very important, the Mikesells believe, and proof of their enjoyment is the pleasure they all get from going on camp-outs, hikes, picnics, traveling and fishing. Hundreds of colored slides bear proof of the wonderful places and things they've seen and done.

Young Bobby's main interest at the time is Cub Scout work and shooting his new BB gun, while his youngest sister, Deanna, likes to ride horses. Playing the piano and enjoying all the pleasures of any high school girl is the interest of Judith Anne.

Boy Scout and Air Explorer work at Webb keep Lt. Mikesell busy in his spare moments from duties as a chaplain.

Lt. Mikesell is a graduate of Indiana Central College in Indianapolis, Ind., and he was also graduated from the United Theology Seminary in Dayton, Ohio.

He has been in the Air Force two years, but prior to that, served eight years in the Navy.

She was assisted by Mrs. Hazel Lindsey, Mrs. C. W. Shafer, Mrs. Vernon Waldrop, Mrs. Peris Vandiver, Mrs. Horace Burger, Mrs. Harlan Stone and Mrs. D. L. Adcock.

Juanell McPherson-Robert Roeber Married In Saturday Ceremony

A double ring wedding ceremony read Saturday evening at the Trinity Baptist Church united in marriage Anna Juanell McPherson and Robert H. Roeber.

Parents of the couple are H. H. McPherson, Mrs. Gertrude McPherson and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roeber of North Freedom, Wis. The Rev. Jack Powers, pastor, read the ceremony before an altar decked with baskets of white flowers, palms and seven-branch candelabra with burning tapers.

Mrs. Doyle Turney presented music at the piano and accompanied E. A. Nance Jr. who sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly." The traditional wedding march was played as the bride entered with "Whither Thou Goest" played as the recessional.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace and bridal satin. The gown was princess style with a low V neckline. The bouffant skirt was waltz length. The shoulder length veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of pearls and iridescent sequins.

Something old was a wedding band, which had belonged to the late Mrs. Etta Reed, grandmother of the bride; she had borrowed a strand of pearls from Mrs. Lorena Lynch; her dress was new, and a penny was in her shoe; she wore a blue garter.

The bridal bouquet was of red roses with showers of picotet ribbon. The bouquet was carried atop a white Bible.

Elaine Roeber, from Madison, Wis., sister of bridegroom, served as maid of honor. She wore a princess style dress of red taffeta. Her bouquet was of white flowers.

Serving as best man was Herbert C. McPherson, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Gary Boggs and Stanley Noll.

The reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Carroll, 1507 Sunset. Receiving guests were each of the parents, the bride couple and members of the wedding party.

The refreshment table was laid with a white linen cloth with red ribbons looped and caught at the cloth's edges. The centerpiece featured red flowers. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride couple.

Serving was done by Mrs. Blaine Larson, Mrs. H. V. Alley, Mrs. J. D. Felt, Mrs. J. Q. Carroll, Tina Carroll and Sandra O'Dell.

At the register was Mrs. F. D. Dodd, cousin of the bride.

For a wedding trip to South Texas the bride wore a brown and beige suit with matching accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

The couple will make a home at 1207 1/2 Young. Mrs. Roeber attended Big Spring High School and is presently employed at Montgomery Ward.

Mr. Roeber was graduated from Reedsburg High School in Wisconsin and is employed by Shell and Barton Service Station.

Out-of-town wedding guests included Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roeber, North Freedom, Wis., Elaine

Friday Coffee At Coahoma Honors Mrs. E. O'Daniel

COAHOMA—Mrs. E. T. O'Daniel was honored Friday morning in the home of Mrs. Fred Adams with a gift coffee. Mr. and Mrs. O'Daniel will move soon into their new home just completed in Big Spring. Mrs. D. S. Phillip was cohostess. The coffee table was laid with a white linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of orchid carnations and greenery. Silver service was used by Mrs. Ray Echols and Mrs. Clovis Phinney Jr., who alternated at the service. Thirty-eight called, with out-of-town guests, Mrs. John Davis, Mrs. Fred Beckam, Mrs. R. F. Dorsey, Mrs. Norman H. Read and Mrs. Leslie Adams all of Big Spring.

Mrs. Don McKinney entertained the Mary Jane Club Thursday afternoon with a Valentine party celebrating the seventh anniversary of the club. Thirty-five members and guests attended.

Brownie Tea Given

LAMESA — Members of Brownie Scout Troop 18 entertained their mothers with a Valentine tea at the home of their leader, Mrs. Homer Simpson, Thursday afternoon. A musical program was presented for thirteen Brownies and their mothers.

Aztec Look

MEXICO CITY, — Will the next New Look be the Aztec Look? It will if Mexican designers have anything to say about it. They're going back to Aztec days 10 centuries ago for "new" designs in dresses, textiles and colors. A dress fair late this year will feature the Aztec Look.

Rolling Your Own

When applying paint with a roller, always begin on an unfinished area and work toward a finished space. It makes a smoother job.

Bridal Slipper Theme Marks Wedding Shower

A white satin slipper centered the tea table at the shower given Saturday evening for Marie Petty at the Elbow School.

Hostesses for the miscellaneous shower were Mrs. Pearl Cauble, Mrs. Jack McKinnon, Mrs. Buster Cauble, Mrs. W. E. Ford, Mrs. Ray Shortes, Mrs. Rexie Cauble, Mrs. Ross Hill and Mrs. Donald Cauble.

Miss Petty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Petty, and Robert W. Etheridge will be married March 9. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Etheridge of Iraan.

Guests were presented to the honoree and her mother and the mother of the prospective bridegroom. In addition, the two grandmothers were assisting in the receiving line. Mrs. I. S. Kennedy of Abbott is the grandmother of the bridegroom; Mrs. J. P. Cauble, grandmother of the bride-elect.

Music during the evening was played by Mrs. Noble Kennemur and Sue Dunagan.

Jeanine Cauble was at the registration table, which was decorated with a heart standing in a bed of pink and silver net. The heart was centered with two wedding rings.

Assisting with the hospitality were Mrs. James Cauble and Mrs. Larry Shortes.

Madeira linen-covered tea table where an old-fashioned fan formed a background for the satin slipper. This stood on a base of styrofoam and was surrounded by net ruffles of pink and silver.

Pink satin ribbon streamers radiating from the fan bore the names of the engaged couple in silver, and pink candles burned in crystal holders.

Turquoise polished cotton made the frock worn by Miss Petty for the party. Fashioned on princess lines, it had a scoop neckline and she wore patent accessories.

The guest list included about 150 guests.

VERSATILE WRAP

Various Lengths, Fabrics Make Many Ensembles

The cape, one of the most talked-about fashions in many a season, is undoubtedly the most likely covering for spring, and this versatile one by Philip Mangone with its controlled lines has a versatility that will give it plenty of wear.

Shaped over the shoulders with a simple roll collar and arm slits, it can be worn on either side so that you can convert many dresses into ensembles.

Choose a wool, line it and face the collar with a print or a polka dot and make a dress in the same fabric.

For dressier times, ottoman or taffeta is a good suggestion. Velvet or lining in a contrasting color, or if not in print, is another idea.

Any one of these in any one of the three lengths will be simple to do; in fact, you may want to make it in several versions, as the easy-to-follow pattern with its hand cut custom fit, accurate perforations and retail-size cuts sewing time in half.

From this chart select the one size for you:

Sizes, small bust, 34-35, hips 35-36 inches; sizes medium bust, 36 1/2-38, hips 37 1/2-39 inches; sizes large bust 40-42, hips 41-43 inches.

The small size (10-12) requires 6 1/2 yards of 54-inch material for long cape. To order Pattern No. 1301, state size, enclose $1.00. Address American Designer Patterns, Box 535, G.P.O. Dept. B-5, New York 1, N. Y.

Classic Pattern Booklet No. 12 and all new Pattern Booklet No. 13-X available for 50 cents each. Philip Mangone label available for 25 cents extra with pattern order. If paid by check add 4 cents. (Next week look for Spade's American Designer Pattern by Mollie Parris)

CHAUFFERS NEEDED FOR POLITICAL AFFAIRS
According to etiquette experts, it is not good form to drive your own car to white-tie shindigs at the White House. Thus the limousine rental services are expected to do a rush business from now until March totalling the VIPs and their wives from their homes to 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. for dinners and receptions.

Of course, some of the bigger wigs have chauffeurs to drive their own sleek-air-conditioned, heated limousines, and some folks just take a taxi.

Mrs. Knight Has Unusual Wardrobe

People were wondering why the handsome blonde wife of California's "Goody" Knight chose a Chinese-style costume for her receiving-line stint at an important inaugural shindig. While the fabric was exquisite, the straight, high collared sheath was not very flattering.

The governor's lady explained it was one of the costumes in the wardrobe she brought to Washington to represent the various community cultures that make up her state. The costumes were worked out in California state colors, gold and blue.

MRS. FREDERICK ZIMMAT JR.

Carol Markham, Lt. Zimmat Wed In Military Rites At Webb AFB

Carol Sue Markham and Lt. Frederick August Zimmat Jr. were married in a military wedding Saturday afternoon at the chapel of Webb Air Force Base.

Double ring wedding vows were read by Chaplain Henry C. Wolk Jr. before an altar decked with baskets of white carnations and gladioli.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Proctor, Newport News, and Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Zimmat, Sioux City, Iowa.

Organist was Mrs. Omar Pitman who played "I Love You Truly" and accompanied Mrs. Edward M. Schelietter who sang "Because."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Lt. Donald Ray Davis. She wore a gown of white nylon chiffon, fashioned with a scooped neckline in front and a low V in back. The waistline was accented with a wide sash of the same material. A Juliet hat of net and pearls held a shoulder length veil of illusion. Carnations and stephanotis made the bridal bouquet.

Serving as maid of honor was Etta Lou Jewel. She wore an ice blue princess styled gown of antique taffeta. Her bouquet was of pink carnations.

Lt. Robert C. Tuck of Homer, Mich. served as best man. Ushers were Lt. Neil Brunick, Vermillion, S. D. and Lt. Jackson K. Scott Jr., San Angelo.

The reception was held in the home of Lt. and Mrs. Davis. Greeting guests in the receiving line were members of the wedding party, the bride couple and each of their mothers.

Gladioli and carnations decorated the serving table. The two-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride couple.

Frances Jones and Carol Turner assisted in serving. Mrs. Jackson Scott Jr. was in charge of the register. Assisting with hospitality were Lt. and Mrs. Neil Brunick.

Mrs. Zimmat will continue her studies at Big Spring High School where she was chosen sweetheart of the Distributive Education class.

Lt. Zimmat attended Morningside College in Sioux City where he was a member of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia Fraternity and a member of the Sioux City Symphony Orchestra. At present he is in pilot training at Webb.

Founders' Day Tea Personalities

Among those having parts on the Founders' Day Tea of the Parent-Teachers Association on Friday were Mrs. J. W. Forrester and Mrs. W. L. Vaughn, wearing costumes appropriate to the day when Mrs. Theodore Bireney and Mrs. Phoebe Apperson Hearst founded the first P-TA group. Others are Mrs. Buford Hull and Mrs. E. L. Whitley, hospitality chairmen for the tea, which was held in the high school cafeteria Friday afternoon. Highlights of the program included a pageant and presentation of a life membership to Mrs. A. C. LaCroix, council president.

HI--TALK

By CAROL ROGERS

HELEN GRAY

on their eighteenth birthdays were Nancy King, Jacqueline Smith, Barbara Shields, Carol Rogers, Linda Coker, Annette Boykin, Pudgie Gray, Sue Boykin, Lou Ann White, Janet Hogan, Sue Barnes, Kathy McRee, and Charlene. Sue Boykin assisted Charlene with the party.

Helen Gray, or Pudgie as she is known around BSHS, has received several honors and attained many goals in the Girl Scout organization. The highest of these was awarded when Pudgie was chosen to attend the Senior Girl Scout National Round-Up in Michigan last summer. Having been president of her troop for the past two years, Pudgie is a member of the Area Senior Planning Board and was a representative to the regional meeting.

After serving as vice president of the FHA Club, Chapter I last year, Pudgie was elected president this year. Pudgie earned her junior degree last year and is now working on her chapter degree. Named as outstanding student in homemaking this year, she attended the state meeting in Ft. Worth last April.

A new member in the Majors Club, Pudgie is a four-year member of Tri-Hi-Y and a senior delegate to the inner-council. Pudgie has been a member of the Spanish Club and a cappella choir two years.

Eager Beaver Club

Six dozen cancer bandages were made Friday afternoon by the Eager Beaver Sewing Club, meeting in the home of Mrs. R. I. Findley. Plans for the next meeting, to be in the home of Mrs. A. B. Jernigan, 707 East 16th, include the making of a quilt top. Refreshments were served to six members and a guest, Mrs. Sam Baker.

Founders' Day Tea Is Given By Local P-TA

"Our Objects Then and Now" was a skit presented Friday at the tea given by the local Parent-Teachers Association commemorating the 60th anniversary of the founding of the P-TA movement. Narrator was Louise Williams.

Taking parts on the skit were Mrs. E. P. Driver, Mrs. Bill McRee, Mrs. Elvis McCrary, Mrs. W. N. Norred, Mrs. James C. Jones, Mrs. W. L. Vaughn, Mrs. J. W. Forrester, Joe Pickle, the Rev. Richard Deats and John B. Hardy. Music during the skit was furnished by the Melody Makers under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Burnam and accompanied by Joyce Howard.

Adorning the tea table was a large arrangement of blue carnations and gold leaves flanked by silver candelabra bearing blue tapers. Silver appointments were used. The three-tiered cake was decorated with blue and gold, the P-TA colors.

A display table featured material, information, magazines and charts dealing with P-TA work. Climaxing the tea was the presentation by Mrs. Della Kay Agnell of a Texas life membership in the P-TA to Mrs. A. C. LaCroix.

Approximately 100 attended the tea.

Woman's Forum Discusses Social Security, Life Insurance, Wills

Members of The Woman's Forum were brought up to date on matters of social security, life insurance, wills and inheritance taxes when the group met in the home of Mrs. C. M. Boles.

Mrs. D. D. Dyer conducted a question and answer session on social security benefits which dealt with 20 pertinent questions that every working man and woman should know how to answer. It was pointed out that many did not receive their benefits because of this lack of knowledge.

A quiz on life insurance was led by Mrs. Cecil McDonald, who offered 16 questions to test the knowledge of the club membership concerning the life insurance policies held by their husbands.

Donald said that last year $30,000,000 in insurance was not claimed by beneficiaries probably through ignorance of the policy by the beneficiary.

Speaking on wills and estate planning, Mrs. Guilford Jones pointed out that making a will is the only way of achieving certainty of disposition. She cautioned those who had made wills to keep them up-to-date, particularly in the instance of couples who have children and also in naming the executor.

She also said it was important, when giving the attorney the information, to give complete names and addresses of those concerned in the will; to name primary and alternate beneficiaries; name executor and alternate; name guardian and alternate for children in case of death of both parents.

Mrs. Lucian Jones gave figures on inheritance and gift taxes. During the business session, the group planned to name an outstanding high school senior to be submitted to the district on contest.

Named to a nominating committee were Mrs. Charles Tompkins, Mrs. J. D. Jones, Mrs. Cecil McDonald and Mrs. Joe Pickle.

Mrs. Guilford Jones will represent the Forum at the City Federation meeting Monday as a substitute for Mrs. W. N. Norred.

Mrs. Norred was cohostess with Mrs. Boles. The two used a Washington birthday theme when they served refreshments to 18 members.

Mrs. L. B. Maulden will be hostess at her home, 1517 Tucson on March 15.

As all of you know by now, the Steers tied for second place in our district basketball Monday night by beating the San Angelo Bobcats. The Steers played some swell basketball all season and the school was behind them all the way. We're especially proud of Jan Loudermilk, as he led the in individual race of point making. Several acts of the 1957 Follies will be presented at the State Hospital Monday night. Some of these include "Blues in the Night," "Gonna Get Along Without You Now," "The Last Time I Saw Paris," and "Man With the Golden Arm."

These same acts will journey to Abilene early Tuesday morning as the BSHS exchange assembly. The group, to be accompanied by Mack Godwin and Mrs. Betty Lou Ratliff, will return later in the day.

The high school faculty team, won over the junior high team Friday afternoon. Standouts in the game were "40 Point" Johnson, "Jim Dandy" Yates, "Pot Shot" Pierson, and "Tiny" Bell.

James Forrester, or "Frosty," as he prefers to be called, was announced as FHA Dreamboy Monday. Sponsored by Mrs. McGregor's fifth period class, Frosty was selected over three other candidates.

The Drama Workshop met Wednesday afternoon in the speech room. The group discussed its present production, "Harvey," to be presented March 1 and 2. They also witnessed the first performance of "Suppressed Desires." The one-act play was directed by Doyle Phillips and featured Dianne Green, Nita Jones, and Doyle.

The members of the El Rodeo staff breathed a big sigh of relief Friday as another annual deadline was made. Only one more shipment and the annual staff's work will be completed.

Have you noticed students busily doing research on traffic accidents? The Citizens Traffic Commission is sponsoring an essay contest. These themes, to be between 200-500 words, can be written on any phase of traffic safety. State National Bank will award trophies to the winning students.

Are any of you Seniors interested in learning to play bridge? If so, come to the regular meeting of the Feta Tri-Hi-Y Monday night and learn the fundamentals of the game. Barbara Shields is in charge of the program and will give the weekly lecture.

Congratulations to Tommy Buckner, John Puckett, Charles Engle, Bruce Moore, and Leslie White on their showings in the Southwestern Livestock Show in El Paso. MRS. JAMES ALLEN DAVIS

Former Resident Weds Mineral Wells Girl

Mineral Wells was the scene Saturday evening of the wedding of Joan Sue Zappe and Ensign James Allen Davis, who were married at the First Methodist Church.

Davis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Davis, former Big Spring residents, now living in Fort Worth. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. Arthur Zappe of Mineral Wells.

The bridegroom, of star white Chantilly lace, was fashioned on empire lines with a band of peau de soie emphasizing the bodice. A large bow and streamers, at the back of the frock, floated over the bell-shaped skirt, which ended in an aisle wide chapel train.

A queen's crown held a triple veil of bridal illusion and the bride carried a bouquet of white orchids and lily of the valley, in cascade arrangement with stephanotis and leaves accented with pearls and iridescent pearl dust.

The maid of honor and six bridesmaids wore identical frocks of peacock taffeta with soft folds of turquoise to accent the empire bust lines, ending in flowing back streamers. The strapless frocks were worn with shrug jackets with bracelet length sleeves. The bell shaped, carpet length skirts had the windward back fullness. Head dresses were plateaus of matching peacock taffeta with circular veils. Composite bouquets were of white carnations with loops of velvet tubing, framing the flowers and sprinkled with rhinestones.

John Newell Little of Big Spring was one of the six groomsmen.

The bride attended College in Missouri, the University of Texas and the University of Hawaii, majoring in speech education. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta and an honorary member of Pi Lambda Theta. She was a 1955 debutante, presented at the Steeplechase Ball in Fort Worth.

Ensign Davis attended the University of Oklahoma and was graduated from the University of Texas last June with a degree in petroleum engineering. He is a member of Kappa Sig and an honorary member of Kappa Tau Beta Pi and Sigma Gamma Epsilon. He is now stationed with the United States Navy in Honolulu, Hawaii.

The couple will visit in San Francisco before leaving for Honolulu where they will make their home.

Bride-Elect

Dr. and Mrs. Fred L. Fisher, Abilene, Calif., announce the engagement of their daughter, Maridell, to Jackie Fryar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fryar of Big Spring. Fryar, a graduate of Big Spring High School, Howard County Junior College and Hardin-Simmons University, is currently attending the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth. The couple will be married in Abilene, June 3, and will be at home in Fort Worth.

Wives In Capital Lucky Hostesses

Officials wives in the capital are luckier in many ways than hostesses back home.

They can get flowers for their party decorations from the Botanical Gardens, pots of them, and bouquets of cut flowers of the prize-winning variety.

Sometimes they draw upon the Smithsonian Institution for interesting objets d'art for their dinner and buffet tables, like the 2 1/2-foot bronze elephant which centered the 40-foot tea table at a huge shindig given by Republican women at the Pan American Union.

On many occasions they get super-special music from one of the famous service bands, orchestras or choruses. The busiest among these is the zingy red-coated Marine band, which also plays for most of the windings at the White House.

Mrs. Hubert Clawson was hostess for the Fire Ma'ams Friday afternoon, with the devotion given by Mrs. John Waddell. Mrs. Alvie Harrison was appointed chairman of the membership committee; a report from the March of Dimes donation was given to the club. Refreshments were served to 12.

CAMPUS CHATTER

An Honor's Day program is on tap for Thursday's assembly on HCJC campus. Dr. G. E. Giesecke, vice president of Texas Tech, will be principal speaker. Special seating will be given honor students, for those in Who's Who and on the dean's honor list for the occasion.

The 12 students constituting Who's Who as chosen by college faculty are Mike Powell, John Richardson, Frank Dunlap, Laverne Cooper, David Dibrell, Billy McIlvain, Julie Rainwater, Marlene Mann, Betty Earley, Patsy Grant, Patsy Reeves, and Rodney Sheppard.

Other honor students are those on the dean's honor list, having achieved a B or making better average for the first term of the 1956-57 year.

Forty-three persons make up the five sections: summa cum laude; cum laude amplius; magna cum laude; cum laude; and cum laude. Alvin Coburn was announced as Lass-O Beau last night at the twirp week dance, sponsored by the Lass-O's in the SUB. Special entertainment was provided by Frances Booker, vocalist and the Sportsmen.

Too Many Keys To Suit Modern Steno

Sue DeVaney, typist with the Farm Bureau office, tried out a 1900-model Smith-Premier typewriter but voted against her boss replacing more modern machines in her office with the veteran typewriter. The keyboard with its eight rows of keys and no "shift" baffled Mrs. DeVaney's touch system. The old typewriter, which still writes, was bought 57 years ago.

7,262 Howard Co. Acres In Soil Bank

Two hundred and thirteen Howard County farms are now signed in the Federal Soil Bank. These 213 farms comprise 24,655 acres of land. Of this total, 7,262.1 acres are designated in the Soil Bank.

Landowners who have signed their land stand to receive a minimum of $210,763.20 for the acreage now enrolled. There is a possibility, if more money is allocated for the program and the owners desire to add to their soil bank listings, additional payments may be available to them.

Gabe Hammack, ASC office manager, said that the additional funds have not been provided but the records are being posted in such a way as to expedite the broadening of the program in the event funds are made available. Only three or four of the farmers who have applied for participation in the Soil Bank have decided to cancel, Hammack said. The totals reported are those to noon Friday.

Farmers have less than two weeks remaining before the deadline for signing in the Soil Bank. Deadline is Mar. 1.

The 213 farms now enrolled in the Soil Bank represents about 25 per cent of all of the farms in Howard County.

Relatively few landowners reported to the ASC office on either Thursday or Friday to make application for Soil Bank participation. The office is closed on Saturdays.

Ancient Typewriter Still Workable, Due Overhaul

By SAM BLACKBURN

History says that the first "writing machine"—i.e., typewriter—was designed by a Britisher in 1714. This inventor, Henry Mill by name, submitted his application to the British patent office and the record still endures. If Mill ever made his machine or even a working model of it, no trace of it remains.

There is no sample of Mr. Mill's handicraft in Big Spring so far as is known. However, there is a typewriter in Big Spring which was first bought and put in service way back in 1900. Today, after 57 years, this typewriter still "writes" and in a few days, it plans go through, it is to be completely overhauled and made good for another half century of service.

The machine is a Smith-Premier "invisible" and represented, at the time it was put on the market, the very last word in writing machines. It had a feature which no other typewriter of the 1900s—and there were a dozen makes on the market even then—could boast.

The Smith-Premier had a tri-color ribbon! You could write one word in red, another in black, and the third in green. There was no need for colorless letters in those days if you had a Smith-Premier.

CAMPBELL HAS IT

This relic of the early days is the property of Carl E. Campbell, with the Cactus Paint Company. Or, more correctly, speak Henningson, chief boatswain, it is the property of Marvin mate, USN. Campbell is custodian of the machine while Henningson is in service. Ultimately, Campbell says, he wants to surrender the ancient machine to Henningson.

"The typewriter," Campbell explains, "was originally bought and owned by Marvin's father. We were neighbors years ago, when we lived in St. Louis. After the elder Henningson died, Marvin made his home with us. Among other personal possessions of his father which he brought with him was this Smith-Premier."

EIGHT ROWS OF KEYS

The Smith-Premier is vastly different machine from the modern typewriter. One outstanding eye-catching difference is that it has eight rows of keys instead of the customary four found on modern machines. This means that for each "little letter" there was a separate key and for each "capital letter" another key. Likewise for each of the figures to ten, for all of the punctuation marks and other special symbols. The machine has no "shift" key—you just hunt around if you need a "little e" until you find it and there you are.

The paper inserts in the platen in such a way that the surface along which a line is being typed is underneath and out of sight. The typebars swing upward and strike the bottom of the platen. If you want to see what you have written, you pull on a lever, the platen tips backward and there you are.

COLORFUL RIBBON

History says the first Smith-Premier appeared in 1889. It had quite a flare of public favor for a while—largely because it boasted the tri-color ribbon where other machines offered only one color or, at the most, two. The ribbon used is nearly two inches wide and lies flat beneath the platen.

The ancient machine is in pretty good shape considering its years and its long usage. Campbell says that when its young owner and Campbell's sons were boys, they made great use of the old typewriter in Boy Scout work. The elder Henningson had used it for many years in his business operations in St. Louis.

Marvin enlisted in the U. S. Navy in 1936. He has made a career of the service and is now in his 21st year as a navyman. In the interval from 1936 to the present, the machine has been more or less idle.

Visitors shown it have rolled sheets of paper into the platen and tried out its eight-row key board but no real work has been done on the machine for two decades.

ON DISPLAY

A few days ago, Tom Hammond and Don McKee of the Big Spring Office Equipment Company in the Settles Hotel saw the Smith-Premier and asked Campbell if they could "borrow" it.

The two typewriter men propose to give the old veteran an overhaul job and use it for a display in their shop.

"We have one problem to work out," Hammond thoughtfully observed as he looked at the ponderous old typewriter. "Getting a ribbon for that baby isn't going to be easy."

He pointed to the two inch strip on the reels is faded, full of holes and ready for retirement. "Maybe," the repairman mused,

"we can make one out of a wide cash register ribbon."

Probably he can—but it won't be in three colors. And that was the selling point the Smith-Premier pressed back in 1900.

Campbell may not have the oldest typewriter in Howard County but a check of such things indicates that if he does not—at least he has one of the oldest. And probably the most ancient typewriter which will still type.

Hammond says that the relic has caught the eye of many visitors at his establishment since it has been in the shop.

A Bible Thought For Today

And he took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave unto them, saying, This is my body which is given for you: this do in remembrance of me. Likewise also the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood, which is shed for you. (St. Luke 22:19-20.)

A Time For Making Haste Slowly

We long have advocated investments in school facilities as one means of providing adequate educational opportunities for our children. Our community delayed too long in following this course and has been obliged to pay a penalty in catching up.

The time has come, however, for some very deliberate and cautious looks at the entire program in light of agitation for petitions to vote additional bonds for an expanded junior high construction program and possibly an addition to the senior high school.

We do not say that bonds are not needed, for our needs probably outstrip our ability to finance. We do not even say that a reasonable amount of bonds would be unwise. But we do say that undue haste and lack of deliberation at this time could borrow trouble for us later on.

Trustees recognize that our bonded indebtedness—now $2,500,000—is nearing the practical limit. This is the point when more bonds will mean that a greater proportion of the tax dollar will have to be put to debt service and thus risk cutting into operational revenues. This means also that bonds would run the risk of a penalty through a low rating on the bond market, and that would be costly.

The current move toward a petition for more school bonds arose when plans submitted for the system's second junior high school plant ran to about $900,000 instead of the $500,000 available. This strikes us as being considerably off base in planning within the money. There can be no doubt that the proposed plan would be much better and more nearly approach the ideal than one restricted to the money available. It may be that some additional funds would increase the utility of the plant in an unusually high ratio to dollars involved. However, there is a serious question that we can afford to pump $900,000 into a new junior high plant simply for the sake of going first class.

We say this because we have to consider the advisability of investing something in the existing junior high to maintain some degree of parity in opportunity for our children. We say it because the war baby crop will be reaching high school levels in full blast within a short span of time, and high school facilities most certainly will have to be enlarged. We say it because there likely will be demands for more elementary school construction if our rate of population increase is maintained and particularly if there are major shifts in population as likely will be the case. We say it because there are civic projects other than schools to be considered.

Hence, we may need to maintain some margin between our debt total and debt limit against the contingency of pressing demands down the line.

These are some of the reasons we think there should be much sober thought given to the matter before deciding how many of our eggs we should put in one basket.

No Place To Go But Downhill

E-Bond Move Puts Interest On Higher Plateau

WASHINGTON — The Treasury has made it official. Interest rates are definitely on a higher plateau. It's not going to cost less in the near future to borrow money to buy a home, to finance the construction of a new utility or industrial plant, to get a bank loan.

Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey has decided to sugar up E-bonds. The long-term rate goes from 3 per cent to 3 1/4 per cent. The short-term rate, for persons who hold for as few as three years, will be 3 per cent. Now it's up to Congress to say okay. In some cities and areas, the proposed rate will be higher than that paid by savings banks and up to rates paid by savings and loan associations.

The decision was impelled by reports of skidding bond sales in January. But it was, also, a long-term assessment of the money market.

However, Mr. and Mrs. Saver, look before you rush to trade old E-bonds for the new ones. You could lose money by so doing.

If, for example, you hold some of the extended 2.9 per cent bonds issued in 1941 and 1942, your money's now earning 3 1/4 per cent to 3 3/4 per cent maturity.

And if you hold an unmatured 3 per cent E-bond, you'd still have to figure out what's best. Suppose you'd bought a bond a year ago. It has still eight years and eight months to run. The interest accruing over the remaining term of the bond would be at a rate of 3.16 per cent. Not much below 3.25 per cent on the new bonds.

If you'd bought the bond two years ago, the interest rate over the remaining term would be 3.23 per cent. And if you'd bought it 2 1/2 years ago it would be 3.28 per cent.

After you've held a 3 per cent E-bond 2 1/2 years, it's definitely better than the new one. This is because of the "lock-in." In the early years, the interest rate is extremely low. The rate rises rapidly later on. This, as an inducement to hold to maturity.

This lock-in would be reduced in the new bond. The interest rate hits 3 per cent in three years. Another five years and 11 months of holding lifts that to 3 1/4 per cent. At the end of three years, the old bond hit only 2 1/4 per cent.

Nor does it necessarily pay to swap matured bonds paying a stable 3 per cent rate. When you cash in bonds, you collect interest. That interest is taxable. (Unless you've been paying taxes on accrued interest each year. This, few persons have done.) After tax-ter off sticking with the matured bonds.

The E-bond decision might have a minor effect on business. If the Treasury succeeds in cutting down redemptions and boosting sales, less money, less savings, will flow into savings institutions. And less money, thereby, will be available for mortgages. It could hurt the already-buried home-building market.

As for business generally, the January jitters persisted into February. Stocks have been weak. General Electric has announced a seven-day layoff of 2,500 TV workers. And employment statistics suggest a lessening demand for workers.

To be sure, total employment in January was the highest ever for the month (see chart). Yet, average hours worked per week were down to 40.2 from 41 in December and 40.7 in January, 1956. Not only that, but fewer nonagricultural workers put in overtime and more put in short time, as the following table shows:

Number of Work:
41 hours or more	40 hours or more	39 hours or more	38 hours or more
17,478,000	16,786,000	28,801,000	27,789,000
2,581,000	2,520,000	8,320,000	8,365,000
Total Employed
19,059,000	19,306,000	37,121,000	36,154,000

We now must wait and see whether this letdown becomes cumulative; whether shorter work weeks result in lower payrolls, lower retail sales, and further cuts in employment. It's too soon to make any rash judgments. My own hunch is that we're now in a minor readjustment, that, later on, increased government expenditures will check downward tendencies.

My brother's son had called my son, with whom I live, and told him Dade (J. E.) was alive and trying to get in contact with me. It was like hearing a voice from the grave.

Dade and his wife son arrived for a week's visit. Lawrence Allen had one explanation of the separation:

"I guess I lived the life of a gypsy. I've resided all over this country and spent a lot of time in Mexico and Canada. Usually, I wouldn't stay in a place over three months—not even long enough to get acquainted."

They are Lawrence Allen, 61, of Tyler and J. E. Allen, 65, of Huron, S.D.

During the 43 years, both had sought to make contact. In 1926, Lawrence gave up hope when he was told by the War Department a J. E. Allen of Luling, Tex., their birthplace, had been killed in France in World War I.

He returned home recently from the drug store where he works part time and found a message.

Around The Rim

Times When No One Can Be Courteous

Just like we old-timers are always telling the newcomers, "It isn't the climate, it's the people." This, in defense of West Texas as the best place to live.

There just could be something to this, if the ballots that are rolling in for this "friendliest, most courteous" employee event furnish any indication.

You know The Herald, in line with a "Let's Get Acquainted" program coming up next month, has been inviting nominations for the most helpful employees—man and woman—in various places of business.

The list of nominations is beginning to look like a census report. Unless there is some skulduggery going on in the submitting of these names, we are going to turn up with the biggest bunch of the friendliest people ever heard of.

Clerks in stores, elevator operators, bank tellers; men who pick up your laundry and dry cleaning; young fellows who service your car at the station; the gals who set your hair, and the barbers who trim it; the grocery checkers and the kids who carry the sacks; nightwatchmen and postal clerks; people who work for drilling companies and announce on radio stations—the list is amazingly diversified.

Humans being what they are, it is inevitable that in almost any place of business there will be some of those happy, sparkling personalities who give off a warmth and who make you feel good, even if you make a nuisance of yourself in the place. But honestly, there are others who "put out" no more than is necessary, and leave the impression that the sooner you get out, the better. It is always hoped that these are in the small minority.

Nearly everybody has a favorite in the places where business is done. "She's always so nice," we'll say. Or "he always knows just what I want." That's the part of helpfulness and courtesy.

These are the people for whom, spontaneously, you would want to cast a ballot. Chances are, the first time you saw the "courtesy" ballot, you immediately thought of a particular person who always has been your favorite. That's the kind of votes the newspaper would like to see.

Well, now. Is it entirely fair that the employees, the clerks, the stenographers, the receptionists, the delivery men, are the ones that have to maintain courtesy against all odds? The thought has struck me that perhaps we ought to be holding a referendum on who's the "friendliest, most courteous" patron. There are some of us who go into stores or drive into service establishments and get so persnickety, so ornery or so downright mean that even angels with halos couldn't maintain a sense of courtesy in the face of such overwhelming odds.

Ask the shoe clerk who doesn't make him open every box on the shelves; ask the attendant at the station who doesn't require everything but a new engine, to go with his five gallons of gas; ask the telephone operator who blows his top when the lines are busy; ask the person at the cleaner's counter who is courteous when that spot didn't come out of the suit.

Yes, sir, we ought to keep this friendly, courteous proposition fair to both sides, and if the employees will keep smiling for awhile until we get their awards made, who knows? We may be giving them an opportunity to vote on customers.

But, back to the employees. This "friendly, courteous" nomination really brings out some big-hearted demonstrations. You tell me where you would expect to find an Internal Revenue agent, or a personal loan company collector getting a vote for helpfulness. If these guys can keep you happy while they're taking the shirt off your back, then they are bright and charming characters indeed. And let THEM have a chance to vote for the patron who smiles the broadest while coughing up the past-due payment or giving his blood to Uncle Sam. There are times courtesy can be carried too far.

A Formula For Happiness

I once knew a man who did an unusual thing in building a new home. He included what he called "a silence room." It was just a cubbyhole, not much bigger than six by six, but it was beautifully decorated.

On the walls he had soft shades of color. Harmonizing with these were handsome curtains at the windows. A thick carpet covered the floor. But the only furnishings were a table, a chair, a picture, and a book.

From my description of this room you might think that the chair was an overstuffed lounge chair. But it wasn't; it was a straight chair. He called it a "disciplinary chair." For my friend didn't go into that room to sleep. He went there to be alone, happily and quietly alone.

How did he go about it? He would enter that room at the end of a busy day. That one book in it was the Bible, which rested on the table. He would pull up his straight chair, open the Book, and proceed to saturate his mind with its great words of quietness and peace.

The one picture he had placed on the wall was of the Matterhorn, that great projection of rock climbing into the skies, covered always with its eternal snows, brooding over the quaint little town which lies at its feet. After reading a while, he would lift his eyes from the Book and contemplate the picture; then he would say, "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help."

Thus would this man induce quietness into mind and heart. And, as he did so, he would feel a resurgence of strength, power and vitality. This ultimately gave him a sense of real happiness, more than he had ever known.

His idea has now taken hold in other places. How many homes have "silence rooms"? I do not know, but many public places have rooms set aside, decorated and equipped for such private meditation. In many places they are called "meditation rooms." There is one such room at the United Nations in New York, and Conrad Hilton has taken a personal interest in making such rooms a service to guests of some of the Hilton hotels. Some business offices and industrial plants have meditation rooms where people may pray and find peace and strength.

People find such rooms very helpful because, in a confused, noisy, crowded, mechanistic civilization we realize that what is eternal expresses itself in silence. And we must learn to know this creative silence and to bring it into our lives. For the greater the amount of spiritually charged silence we can get into our lives, the greater the sense of renewed vigor and joy.

Real happiness is a great but difficult thing to find. Many people spend all their lives seeking it, yet never find it. The quest is a restless one; it goes on and on. Saint Augustine once wrote, "Our hearts are restless till they rest in Thee." And one of the great thinkers of all time, Pascal, said, "Happiness is not inside us. Happiness is not outside us. Happiness consists in the union of ourselves with God."

This, then, is a formula for living a happy life. Take some time every day for quiet meditation, for reading and meditating upon the great truths of the greatest of all books. This will bring you close to God. And in those deep spiritual moments you will find the secret of happiness.

The Demand For Higher Diplomacy

WASHINGTON — Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, returning to Washington for consultations at the State Department, is expected to say that having oversteered his tour of duty in Moscow by a year he now feels it is time for a change.

Bohlen has done an outstanding job in the irksome, narrowly confining post of ambassador to the Soviet Union. With his facility in the Russian language, his broad experience and knowledge he has kept his gaze steadily on the underlying objectives of Communism through the upheavals of the past four years during which the masters of the Kremlin seemed to shift their ground and then shift it back again.

It was at Geneva that Bohlen expressed to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles his belief that a fourth year in the Moscow post would put a period to the usefulness of an ambassador. After the nature of the prison that Russia is, with its drabness, its grayness, the atmosphere of suspicion and fear, tends to warp his judgment. Bohlen was named ambassador four years ago and confirmed only after a savage attack by Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and other McCarthyist Senators.

The blighting effect of McCarthyism on the foreign service has, in the view of experienced observers, been more than borne out. At the height of the attack when McCarthy agents were roaming Europe harassing embassies and information offices with wild West tactics, four of America's retired diplomats, all with distinguished reputations and beyond reproach, uttered a solemn warning of what this would mean in lowered morale with the premium on cautious mediocrity.

While the blight cannot be measured in statistics, it is evident today in timidity, uncertainty and insecurity as America tries to steer a difficult course through not one but a dozen crises.

An additional burden is now being put on the career foreign service. Senior officers have been named to virtually all of the assistant secretaries, although when the State Department was reorganized it was contemplated that brains and ability from the outside would be brought in to fill these positions.

This would contribute to the creation and execution of foreign policy, since men of stature and independence as well as some background would participate with the Secretary of State in defining America's course.

One of the last of the outsiders, Assistant Secretary Carl McCordle in charge of public affairs, is reported ready to leave, having received an offer from business that he feels he cannot refuse. McCordle has given Dulles dedicated loyalty, and during the first Eisenhower term Dulles held far more press conferences than any other Cabinet officer and made himself available for more background discussions.

It has long been contemplated that Bohlen would be replaced by another able career diplomat, Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr., now ambassador to Austria. Presumably Bohlen would take the post in Vienna, where he would still be close to the Communist empire and where therefore his long experience could be put to the most effective use.

If anything had been done during the past four years to correct an intolerable situation, Bohlen would, as one of America's three or four senior and seasoned diplomats, go as ambassador to Paris or London.

That situation is, of course, the nigardliness of Congress—its failure of the Administration to press the point—in refusing to appropriate adequate allowances for the top ambassadorial posts. This means that they go to the bidder who gives the most to the party in power, and the recent report of the Senate Elections Committee showed how high some of these bids were.

Occasionally there is justification for a non-career ambassador. And occasionally the political bidder who goes to Paris or London or Rome is able and equipped for the job. This is a piece of luck for the United States. But it is not the answer to the urgent need for brains and capacity, imagination and courage in the supreme task of diplomacy in a divided world.

Bible Words for Today

JOHN 20:29b—"Blessed are those who have not seen and yet believe." (RSV)

Jesus is speaking to Thomas, who demanded to place his fingers in the wounds of his Risen Lord and, upon doing so, uttered a declaration of his belief. The disciple was very human in his inability to credit something so marvelous without satisfying his own understanding through the physical senses. "Seeing is believing" is the basis many folks go on. But what vast worlds are closed to us when we can go no further than that! "Blessed are those who have seen not, yet believe!"

I do not understand electricity or television or a gas combustion engine or the law of gravity or the intricacies of body chemistry, but I turn on the buttons and drive the car and walk confidently down the street and eat three meals a day. We all live constantly in terms of the intimate use of things we cannot understand, or see. I believe in these things as instruments of my personal well-being. Would it not be strangely stupid of me to refuse to believe in, and apply to my life, the power of the Living Saviour and of prayer and of a certainty of the daily presence of God's Holy Spirit? "Blessed are those who have not seen, yet believe!"

Jesus is nineteen centuries away from us in terms of "seeing." Thanks be to God for all who have never seen Him, yet believe in Him! Let me be a humble member of that vast company of the blest whose faith far transcends the limits of the physical senses!

Federal Error Separates Kin For 43 Years

TYLER (AP)—Brothers separated by a War Department mistake for 43 years were united here early this year.

They are Lawrence Allen, 61, of Tyler and J. E. Allen, 65, of Huron, S.D.

During the 43 years, both had sought to make contact. In 1926, Lawrence gave up hope when he was told by the War Department a J. E. Allen of Luling, Tex., their birthplace, had been killed in France in World War I.

He returned home recently from the drug store where he works part time and found a message.

"My brother's son had called my son, with whom I live, and told him Dade (J. E.) was alive and trying to get in contact with me. It was like hearing a voice from the grave."

Dade and his wife son arrived for a week's visit. Lawrence Allen had one explanation of the separation:

"I guess I lived the life of a gypsy. I've resided all over this country and spent a lot of time in Mexico and Canada. Usually, I wouldn't stay in a place over three months—not even long enough to get acquainted."

Collective Guidance

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The men whose business it is to collect delinquent accounts don't want to be known as bill collectors. They would rather be thought of as "guidance workers" helping people who have mismanaged their budgets.

That was the opinion expressed by collection agents attending a central states conference of the American Collectors' Assn.

"People need assistance to get out of debt and modern collectors try to help those people," said Paul A. Root, operator of a collection bureau at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Prison Authors

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Behind the bleak walls of Southern Michigan Prison, a convicted slayer and a forger are writing tales of the outdoors and children's stories.

They're getting about 40 per cent of their stories accepted for publication. Right now the team is working on an illustrated book for children, "Timothy, the Timid Tiger."

The inmate authors are William Morey, 22, serving life for murder, and Robert Dale, serving 5 to 14 years for forgery. They write under the pen name of Dale Morey.

The two said most of their earnings go into art supplies to illustrate the new book.

To The Victor

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—When Gov. Cecil H. Underwood called for the resignations of all state appointive officials, Ray Lee Harmon took him literally.

West Virginia's first Republican governor in 24 years, Underwood asked the resignations to give him a free hand in reorganizing.

Harmon, a Democrat, gave up a title he had held 17 years. He resigned as the state's unpaid poet laureate.

They Have A Secret

Susan Hayward and Kirk Douglas indulge in a top secret and rather hilarious romantic affair in the film, "Top Secret Affair." This war-of-the-sexes comedy shows at the Ritz Theatre this week.

'Top Secret Affair' Scheduled At Ritz

"Top Secret Affair," a war-of-the-sexes comedy starring Kirk Douglas and Susan Hayward, shows Sunday through Tuesday at the Ritz Theatre. Also starring are Jim Backus and Paul Stewart. The story is about a tough-guy general who is put through a kind of very basic training by an even tougher woman publisher. The general has a lively old time. Miss Hayward makes her debut as a comedienne in the role of the woman publisher. It is also Douglas' first all-out attempt at comedy. The plot has the general being given a diplomatic assignment. But Miss Hayward had her cap set on a civilian for the same post, so she tries to assassinate the general's character through an "expose" article in her magazine. To accomplish this, she invites the general to her estate for a week-end interview.

Douglas, who usually stars in strenuous action films, thought a comedy role would be restful. But as it turned out, he has to participate in physical training, balance himself on a bongo board several hours at a time, rescue Miss Hayward from a swimming pool, go through Latin dance routines and fall backwards over a night club table.

Douglas says his next several roles will be in action films, "just for a rest."

'Broken Star' Western Fare

An unusual angle is presented in the plot of "The Broken Star," playing Sunday through Tuesday at the State Theatre. It is the story of a lawman who goes bad and partakes of murder and robbery. Centered in old Tucson in the 1880's, when the city was a collection of frame buildings and adobe houses, the story portrays Howard Duff as a U. S. deputy marshal who murders a rancher for his money. Duff runs for the hills, and Bill Williams, another deputy marshal, pursues him to an abandoned mine in which they shoot it out to a climax. Lita Baron provides the feminine interest.

Rosalind Russell Writes Film Story

After first using the pseudonym of "C. A. McKnight," Rosalind Russell finally gave permission to the studio to use her right name as co-author with Larry Marcus of the story on which "The Unguarded Moment" was based. Miss Russell, a top actress for many years, is also doing well as a writer, having already sold three stories to Reader's Digest. The "C. A. McKnight" she used as a pen name actually was the name of a grandmother.

Historical Film

Husband-wife acting team Mel Ferrer and Audrey Hepburn (above) are teamed with Henry Fonda in the film version of Tolstoy's monumental story of Napoleon's invasion of Russia, "War and Peace."

Pretty Teacher Youth's Victim In Jet Movie

"The Unguarded Moment," playing Sunday through Tuesday at the Jet Drive-In Theatre, is a drama about a pretty school teacher who finds herself getting ever deeper into trouble because of the secret desires of a local high school football hero.

Esther Williams, in her first non-swimming role, portrays the teacher who begins her nerve-racking experience upon receipt of a note, is dragged through the wringer during an attempted rape, and faces death and dishonor at the climax.

John Saxon, newcomer, whose performance was good enough to rate top billing, plays the scheming youth, a would-be wolf in sheep's clothing who, upon being rebuffed by his beautiful teacher, attempts an assault and then a frame-up.

George Nader is the detective who begins an investigation of the weird affair as part of his probe into an assault-murder. Les Tremayne is seen as the unhelpful principal and Edward Andrews as the youth's vengeful father.

CINEMA COMMENT

By BOB SMITH

Kirk Douglas scores twice this week. His best is in "Lust For Life," the film story of the famed Dutch painter Vincent Van Gogh. The artist's life was violent, emotional, questioning; he was an idealist seeking an art medium that would reach the common man, and nearly found it in his later masterpieces. These were brilliant colorings that captured the beauty of wheat fields and flowering tree blossoms, the one technique that is hardest for any painter to develop. "Lust for Life" is worth seeing several times—once for the story and the other half dozen for the color photography from Van Gogh originals that make up an important part of the movie.

Douglas also appears in "Top Secret Affair," a fairly amusing war-of-the-sexes comedy, which is his and co-star Susan Hayward's first attempt into the field of humor.

"The Bad Seed" is a shocker about a little girl born without conscience, who turns out to be a homicidal killer. Film is perfect except for the ridiculous ending.

"Zanzabuka" is a documentary African film, guaranteed to please those who like that sort of thing.

"War and Peace," all four hours of it, is back this week. The story is interesting, the battle sequences, general scenery and photography are great, and most patrons are slightly fatigued by the time it ends. The film version of the classic novel proves one thing: that not even in a film of such fantastic length can the movies successfully translate a story whose main strength lies more in the writing than in the plot.

"Unguarded Moment" is Esther Williams' first movie in which she is able to remain bone dry. It's the story of a school teacher whose beauty attracts the not-so-honorable attentions of one of her students, a football hero and an arrogant delinquent.

Those who remember Miss Williams' roles in which dialogue was merely a vehicle to lead into another swimming production number, will take note that, when out of the bathing suit and rid of the girl-next-door look, the actress has a mature attractiveness that would look out of place in anything but conservative attire.

United Artists publicity man goofed. A short item in the publicity mat for "Broken Star" describes the Western movie as taking place near old Tucson in the 1880's. In the last sentence, the writer says the story was filmed near Tucson, "a territory which resembles the locale of the story."

And speaking of old Tucson, I'm wondering if the scenes were shot at the reconstructed village of "Old Tucson" so well known to tourists. The village was built from old towns plans and descriptions of old-timers by a Hollywood studio in 1941 for production of the movie "Arizona." The place has been used as location site several times since then. "The Broken Star" might be worth attending if only to see if film crews remembered to take down the tourist signs and move out the Coke machine.

Mining Grandsons Re-Enact Tragedy

Unemployed miners in the Belgian coal district had a windfall when crews arrived to film scenes for "Lust For Life," screen story of famed Dutch painter Van Gogh. The miners re-enacted a cave-in their grandfathers had experienced during the time Van Gogh was a minister and evangelist in their midst.

Wardrobe Record

Kirk Douglas chalked up the shortest wardrobe fitting in MGM history when he was outfitted for his role of Vincent Van Gogh in "Lust For Life." It took less than 15 minutes to select the shabby clothes he wears in the role of famed Dutch painter who carried nothing for personal appearance or possessions.

Kirk Douglas Stars As Noted Painter

The anguish, passion and struggle toward a dedicated goal in the career of Vincent Van Gogh are brought to life in "Lust for Life," showing Sunday through Tuesday at the Sahara Drive-In Theatre. It is the story of the tormented Dutchman who was to become, after his death, one of the world's most celebrated painters.

The unkempt and lonely idealist, portrayed by Kirk Douglas, set himself the hard task of creating art that would reach the common man, but in the beginning everything Van Gogh touched turned sour. He failed as an evangelist in a Belgian coal mining region, where he made his first crude drawings. He failed in love, first with Kay, a widowed cousin, who found his ardent advances "disturbing," then with Christine, the slatternly landlady who wanted material advantages.

He quarreled with his parents, his friends, even with the devoted Theo, the brother who sustained him through his periods of depression and encouraged his progress from shadow to the brilliant color which eventually was to make him famous.

His greatest emotional conflict was with Paul Gauguin, played by Anthony Quinn. Gauguin, the impressionist, was egotistic, self-centered, assured, patronizing, but with a flair for making the best of life.

Van Gogh was a tormented genius; he was joyous, melancholy, ardent, pessimistic, jovial, belligerent, compassionate, violent, inspired and hopeless.

Van Gogh shared with Gauguin for a time a house in Arles, France. Van Gogh had hoped there to find companionship and understanding but instead found emotional catastrophe.

But in the end, despite frustrations and spiritual conflicts, self-commitment to an asylum, and an attempt at suicide, Van Gogh's life proved to be one not of disappointment and defeat but of triumphal fulfillment.

The film's producers were not content merely to unfold the events and influences that molded Van Gogh's genius. In some of the most beautiful shots ever shown on a movie screen, are seen the brilliant Van Gogh paintings, often counterimposed against the actual backgrounds in which Van Gogh painted them: the flat countryside of Holland, the spring fields and blossoms of Provence, the scenes at St. Remy, where he painted the famous cornfields.

These scenes cover the full range of Van Gogh's work, of his movement out of darkness in his painting technique into brilliant light, from the first fumbling sketches to the final masterpieces of his creative life.

Fabulous Museum Paintings Shown

"Lust For Life" gives moviegoers a close-up view of some 200 original Van Gogh paintings in full color.

The art treasures are the property of 94 public and private collections in the U. S., England, Scotland, France, The Netherlands, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Italy, Sweden and Brazil.

Through courtesy of the collectors and museums, the studio was able to photograph the originals instead of having to depend on reproductions and, through a new photographic technique, still transparencies of the paintings were transferred to the film in all the brilliance of their original hues.

Esther Drops Bathing Suit

"If I had known of the great satisfactions of this new life, I'm leading, I'd have tried to accomplish it years ago."

That was Esther Williams speaking, the bathing suit lovely whose entire career up to now has been in water carnival roles. In her latest film, she doesn't even go near the water. She left MGM after 14 years, becoming a free lance actress and landed the top role in "The Unguarded Moment." "Switching to a bone-dry role," Esther said, "is a change I'm enjoying to the utmost. I guess nobody, with the possible exception of Sonja Henie, ever was typed as firmly as I have been."

She added that her role in "The Unguarded Moment," besides not requiring her to wear a bathing suit, is "real meaty stuff."

Junior College Enrollment Up In Spring Term

Howard County Junior College enrollment has increased for the spring semester over that of the autumn semester.

Final figures show 646 persons enrolled in college and non-credit courses at HCCJ. In September the figure was 600.

A breakdown on the spring registration showed 216 fulltime students with an aggregate load of 3,452 semester hours. There were 345 part-time students taking a total of 1,660 semester hours. The total of those taking courses for college credit is 561 and the semester hour total 5,112.

In addition to these there are 42 in two divisions of an electronics short course; 15 in conversational Spanish; and 28 in a Webb AFB clerical typing course, or a total of 85. This runs the aggregate head count to 646.

Included in enrollment totals are 87 young men from Webb AFB. Of these 85 are part-time students with 413 semester hours and two are fulltime students with 27 semester hours, or a total of 440 semester hours. The representation from Webb currently is the best in many semesters, college officials said.

Dining Cars Build Tradition, Still Railroad Money-Losers

(The following items about rail eating are from a column written by Jack Maguire, former T&P Topics staff member and now with the Rail Federation, for the current issue of Rail Progress—Ed.)

Ninety-five years ago, the dining car was born. In 1862, the old P&W Railroad, now a part of the Pennsylvania, fitted a baggage car with high stools and a counter and began offering hungry travelers oyster stew, crullers and coffee. Five years later, George M. Pullman equipped a sleeping car with a kitchen to provide berth passengers with snacks. A year later, in 1868, Pullman built the "Delmonico," the nation's first real dining car and placed it in service between Chicago and St. Louis on the old Chicago and Alton.

A traveling freight agent's queasy stomach deserves credit for today's high standard of dining along the high iron. Fred Harvey, western freight agent for the Burlington, developed an ulcer from eating in flyblown depot beaneries. Disgusted with such fare, he asked the Santa Fe division superintendent at Topeka, Kan., for permission to open a restaurant of his own in the local station. This was the first of the famous Harvey Houses and was the forerunner of the Harvey hotels, restaurrants and diners still operated on the Santa Fe.

Before the turn of the century, when Americans still considered eating an adventure, railroads often used the specialty of their dining cars as the basis for advertising slogans. Thus, the Northern Pacific proclaimed that it was the "Road of the Great Big Baked Potato." The Boston and Maine bragged of its Boston baked beans and the Denver and Rio Grande Western urged travelers to sample its Colorado rainbow trout. The Missouri-Kansas-Texas still frequently advertises its "Katy Kornettes," a southern corn bread that long has been a favorite on its dining cars.

In no other eatery in the world can so many be fed so well by so few. The crew may consist of a steward, an assistant, a chef, as many as three assistant cooks and up to ten waiters. In the diminutive pantry may be stored 240 table cloths, 200 towels, 540 pieces of china, 703 pieces of silverware, 218 items of glassware, 240 kitchen utensils, 20 aprons and 50 waiters' coats. In an area seating a maximum of 60 people, the crew and cook can serve enough food for as many as 400 passengers at a single meal.

Hot cakes on dining car breakfast menus have been known to create problems in railroad public relations. Chefs usually are individualists when it comes to deciding the size of flapjacks they serve, which means that the pancakes on one line may be the size of a saucer while those on another railroad may approximate the circumference of a silver-dollar. On one occasion, a group of travelers asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to standardize the size of dining car flapjacks, demanding that they conform to the exact measurements of those served by the White House.

One little-known dining car service concerns the preparation of special menus for passengers who are on a diet. On most of the larger railroads, the dining car steward and his crew are always ready to help the traveler carry out the doctor's orders. If requirements are mentioned at the time the ticket is purchased, the dinery will stock foods to conform.

Contrary to accepted etiquette, it's not only proper but also good sense to leave the spoon in your coffee cup — If you're aboard a moving train. Even aboard today's diesel-powered streamliners, coffee is inclined to slosh a bit. Dining car experts swear that it won't, however, if the spoon is left in the cup. What's more, they say that it works even better if the spoon is turned backwards.

In a more leisurely era, a meal on the diner included at least six courses often nine. Today's more hurried traveler is accommodated by the Pennsylvania with a "slot machine diner" where automatic vendors deliver sandwiches, coffee, ice cream and other self-service items.

Diners are big money-losers for the railroads. The biggest loser in 1953 was the Union Pacific, which had to spend $1.83 for every diner dollar it took in. Far from grumpy about it, the U.P. recognizes the public relations value of the dining car, is now experimenting with free meals on its "City of Las Vegas," which runs between Los Angeles and Nevada's gambling capital.

Taxpayer Is Responsible

Suppose you, as a taxpayer, succeed in getting one of the Internal Revenue Service agents at the local office to give you a hand in filling out your 1956 income tax report?

You send the report to the proper destination. In the course of time, sharp-eyed auditors go over that report. They find some discrepancy.

Will the fact that the report was filled out by an agent of the Internal Revenue Service make the taxpayer immune from being called on the carpet for the errors the auditor located?

It will not, according to Ben Hawkins, administrative officer for the office here.

A taxpayer in that position is just as quick to get a form letter telling him to show up and tell how it all happened as though he had filled out all of the information on the report all by himself.

"Some folk," Hawkins sadly commented, "seem to believe that if their returns are prepared by the Internal Revenue office agents, that such reports won't be audited."

"They will be audited and given just as sharp a going over as any other report. And if there is a bungle, it's the taxpayer who signed it who has to do the explaining."
