IT'S FLAG DAY IN THE U.S.A.!

'Reluctant' Congressmen To Boost Ceiling Of Debt

WASHINGTON (UPI)— House members today were ready to reluctantly raise the national debt ceiling to a record $308 billion.

Administration forces figured they had the votes to push the $8 billion increase through. It would keep the government ahead of its bills through the slow tax-collecting season.

Republicans offered $306 billion as a substitute ceiling. They charged the Pentagon was trying to blackmail them by threatening to cut defense contracts unless Congress makes the limit $308 billion.

Democrats, however, said the Pentagon did nothing wrong in simply saying that if the money was not available, it would not be spent.

The bill's manager, Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., of the ways & means committee, said Congress had authorized all the spending and not enough money was available to cover it all.

Other congressional news:

Television: The Senate was expected to pass legislation requiring manufacturers to make 82-channel television sets to give the 55 million Americans viewers a wider choice of stations and programs. Under the bill, all sets sold in interstate commerce would have to carry the 12 popular VHF (very high frequency) channels, plus the 70 UHF (ultra high frequency) channels now largely used by educational TV stations. Republicans opposed the bill as an unwarranted extension of government controls.

Hospital: Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Abraham Ribicoff told Congress his department supports a bill to strike the "separate but equal" clause from the Hospital and Medical Facilities Construction Act.

Oil Operator Says Charges Against Him Unbelievable

LONGVIEW (UPI)— W. O. Davis Jr., Longview oil operator accused of a $6 million criminal swindle in the East Texas slant-hole drilling scandal, was free on $15,000 bond today.

He surrendered to Gregg County Sheriff Noble Crawford Wednesday night and was released immediately on the bond agreed to by Dallas authorities.

"I solemnly challenge my accusers to come forth and soberly prove their charges or bear the legal consequences of their reckless conduct," David said in a prepared statement.

He said accusations against him are "completely unbelievable."

Davis said his attorneys had demanded an examining trial on the charge at Dallas and that a preliminary hearing was set for June 27 by Justice of the Peace Glenn Byrd.

Charges against Davis were filed Saturday by Dallas Dist. Atty. Henry Wade on the complaint of Nortex Oil and Gas Corp. Davis filed a $250,000 slander suit Monday against Nortex.

Fred Erisman of Longview, an attorney for Davis, said his client had been out of the state but would not reveal where.

Nortex charged that on Feb. 10, 1961 Davis "did unlawfully and fraudulently take $6 million in stocks and debentures of the Nortex Oil and Gas Corp. in the sale of eight oil leases in Gregg and Rusk counties."

Davis said at the Gregg County jail, "to be charged with theft is sickening, to be arrested is humiliating, but to be accused of having stolen $6 million is completely unbelievable."

"I willingly returned to Texas at this time to clear my name," he said. "I plead not guilty to any wrongdoing. I have never drilled a directional oil well in my life, nor have I knowingly or intentionally taken as much as five cents that belonged to another person."

Davis' bond was signed by Erisman and Gordon Wellborn of Henderson, both prominent and wealthy attorneys.

Collusion Charged In Grain Storage Deal

Stock Market Prices In Rally On Brisk Trading

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices on the New York Stock Exchange, which closed Wednesday near the year's low levels, started out lower today and then rallied in brisk trading.

The ticker tape ran up to six minutes late within about 40 minutes of the opening. Some leaders remained down from Wednesday's close but others showed fractional gains.

Traders looking at both the short and long-range prospects were inclined to wait for the effect of an address by Archibald Cox, solicitor general, in which Cox called for earlier entry of government views into wage-price controversies on behalf of the public.

Some believed that this would slow down investment.

But former broker Douglas Dillon, now secretary of the Treasury, said he believes the market is "pretty sound" and has fallen about as far as it will go.

Dillon, at a Senate Finance Committee hearing in Washington, said he thought the market's decline came because "the investing public just decided that the prices were too high."

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday was 5,850,000 shares. So-called "blue-chip" issues declined for the third straight session and both the Dow-Jones industrial average and Standard & Poor's index of 500 top stocks closed near levels where they stood 17 days ago.

All of the 10 most active stocks on the exchange showed losses.

'Boy Wonder Of Wall Street' Flees To Brazil After Taking $2 Million

NEW YORK (UPI)—The flight to Brazil of Edward Gilbert, a "boy wonder of Wall Street," today had a district attorney investigating his withdrawal of almost $2 million from the funds of the E. L. Bruce Co., Inc.

The millionaire financier caught a Varig Airlines flight to Rio de Janeiro Tuesday night only hours after he excused himself from a Bruce board of directors meeting in which he resigned the company presidency.

Varig officials confirmed that Gilbert had arrived in Rio. He entered on a 30-day tourist card. To remain, he must obtain a permanent visa, which Lowell Birrell, a self-exiled financier in Rio, said was "awful hard to do."

In a statement issued before his departure, the 38-year-old Gilbert disclosed his withdrawal of $1,953,000 in funds and said it went to "protection of an acquisition program on behalf of the corporation."

However, E. L. Bruce Jr., Gilbert's close friend and successor to the company presidency, said "The money was withdrawn for reasons known only to Mr. Gilbert." The Bruce firm, makers of wax and flooring products, has annual sales of $42 million.

The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) suspended trading of the company's common stock for 10 days on the American Stock Exchange and the over-the-counter market. Both the SEC and the exchange initiated investigations of the matter.

Dis. Atty. Frank S. Hogan confirmed that his office was looking into the withdrawal. Should charges be filed, it would be difficult to bring the free-spending Gilbert back. An extradition treaty signed by the U.S. and Brazil in Jan., 1961 has not yet been ratified by Brazil.

The Brazilian justice minister has ruled that the treaty will not be retroactive when it is completed.

Reliable sources said Gilbert's resignation from the Bruce presidency Tuesday was forced by a faction on the board of directors opposing the young president. It was reported that it was demanded he make restitution of the missing funds or face possible legal retaliation.

At this point Gilbert excused himself from the meeting. He went to his $500,000 Manhattan town house, packed a single suitcase, and departed for Idlewild Airport, where he bought the last first class one-way ticket on the 7:30 p.m. Varig Flight to Rio.

Loan Agreement Hit By Prober

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Ross Bass, D-Tenn., charged today there was collusion between Commercial Solvents Corp., Billie Sol Estes and the Agriculture Department.

The charge was emphatically denied by officials of Commercial which produces a liquid fertilizer sold by Estes in West Texas.

Bass, a member of a House subcommittee investigating Estes' grain storage operations, drew information from W. Ward Jackson of Commercial that the firm agreed to finance Estes in the grain storage business before the Texan had a license from the department to store grain.

William S. Leonhardt, financial vice - president of the company, testified that Commercial executed a $900,000 loan to Estes on Dec. 1, 1958.

Prior to that, in October, Jackson visited the department to find out about grain storage prospects in West Texas.

Leonhardt said a contract for the loan carried a stipulation making it contingent on Estes' being able to go in the grain storage business.

The witnesses, in answer to questions from Bass, acknowledged they took an assignment of government grain storage revenues from Estes before the department had signed an agreement with the Texan enabling him to store grain.

Bass, reading from records, noted that the assignment of revenues was signed March 4, 1959, and that the storage agreement between the department and Es-

$40,000 Is Awarded In Damage Suit

District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich awarded $40,000 yesterday to a Midland, S.D., family following a hearing on a $70,050 damage suit against a Miami man resulting from an automobile accident near Miami in February of this year.

The suit was filed by Olin Hand for himself, his wife, Roberta, and his three minor children, Johnny, Daphne and Beth, against Miles O'Loughlin III of Miami.

In the accident, which happened on U.S. Highway 60, four miles east of Miami, Hand alleged that O'Loughlin was negligent in keeping a proper lookout, driving on the wrong side of the road and failure to keep his car under proper control.

In the accident, Hand said his wife received a broken back and body injuries, his children suffered bodily damages and possible permanent injuries to one son, Johnny.

The $40,000 was awarded by Goodrich in the amount of $225 for each child, $23,000 for personal damage to Hand, and the rest for his wife, children and doctor and hospital bills.

Senate Rackets Investigators Are Continuing Vice Syndicate Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate rackets investigators sought today to follow up testimony about a $10 million a year vice syndicate that lures unwed mothers into white slave rings.

Called to testify before the rackets subcommittee were reputed syndicate leaders in the Chicago area. The scheduled witnesses included Joey Aiuppa and Jimmy "The Monk" Allegretti.

Joan Gainsley, a college-graduate dancer and one-time bar-girl, also was expected to testify at the inquiry into the activities of the AFL-CIO American Guild of Variety Artists (AGVA).

The subcommittee was told Wednesday that the white slavers specialized in recruiting unwed mothers to work as bar-girls and prostitutes in mobster-dominated gambling casinos and night spots.

William J. Scott, a former special U.S. prosecutor, said the slavers shunted the girls from clubs in Cicero and Calumet City Ill., to places such as Miami, Evansville, Ind., towns in Kentucky and even to a Wisconsin "summer resort" when the "heat" was on.

Scott said the syndicate bosses seemed better organized at times than the splintered, sporadic law enforcement efforts of federal, state and local officials.

Subcommitee investigators still were unable to locate Frank La Forte, an underworld figure who Scott said was a southside Chicago lieutenant of Tony Accardo.

La Porte's associates in one gambling establishment from which Accardo alone drew $298,000 included Leslie "Killer Kane" Kruse and Ralph Pierce, Scott said.

Scott charged that certain officials of the AGVA connived with hoodlum - controlled clubs to thwart federal prosecutions.

Court Rules In Favor Of Area School

McLEAN (Spl) — The Texas Supreme Court yesterday refused a writ of error in a Gray County school district law suit which has been pending since 1960.

The ruling favors the McLean School District in a suit instigated by the Alanreed School District in 1960.

In May of that year, the Gray County School Board annexed 19 sections of the Alanreed district upon petition of property owners of the land involved. Alanreed high school students have been attending McLean High School for a number of years.

Upon the annexation action, the Alanreed School District filed suit in 31st District Court, Pampa, to have the annexation nullified. When the case went to trial, it resulted in a hung jury but 31st District Judge Lewis Goodrich made the ruling, in favor of the McLean School District.

The ruling was appealed to the School Board Hears Report On Summer School Activity

Jack Edmondson, school superintendent, reported at today's meeting of the school board that 442 students are enrolled in some phase of summer school activity in Pampa this summer.

Biggest increase in enrollment, Edmondson stated, is shown in driver education classes where 118 students are learning all about automobiles and how to drive them.

The board today authorized the borrowing on a short term loan of $85,000 from the Citizens Bank & Trust Co. to meet the July payroll of the school system.

School officials explained this is a routine piece of business each year to tide the schools over until tax money is available for repayment of the loan.

May bills totaling $15,132.78 were approved for payment. Contract for furnishing approximately 30,000 gallons of gasoline for school buses and other vehicles was awarded to Gulf Oil Corp. for .1139 cents per gallon plus tax. Gulf was low among four bidders.

The firm of Nenstiel and Doggett was rehired as school auditors for another year.

The regular session of the board lasted for one hour and a half and was adjourned to go into executive session at 8:30 p. m. Friday.

Members said the executive session was to be a "mop up" of unfinished business dealing with personnel problems left over from a previous executive session.

Sergeant Killed In Viet Nam

Names of the soldiers were withheld pending notification of their families.

New City Judge Is Being Sought By City Officials

WANTED—Judge for Pampa's Corporation Court. Good opportunity for retired lawyer. Apply City Manager's office, Pampa City Hall.

That's the way the classified advertising manager probably would word the appeal issued today by City Manager Harold Schmitzer who said the City of Pampa is in the market for a good man to serve as Corporation Court judge.

Right now the job, a part-time post, is being held by Homer Hollars, manager of the City Water Department.

The vacancy on the Corporation Judge's bench occurred several weeks ago when the City Commission dismissed A. J. Carubbi, local attorney, who had held the job for about a year and a half.

Carubbi was one of the leaders of a recall movement to have Mayor E. C. Sidwell and four city commissioners ousted from office. Sidwell, on April 17, was given a vote of confidence by the people. A court appeal to have a recall election on City Commissioners Leon Holmes, Lloyd Simpson and L. P. Fort still is pending in the Seventh Court of Civil Appeals at Amarillo.

Shortly after the failure at the polls to have the mayor turned out of office, the City Commission voted to take Carubbi off the Corporation Court bench.

The vacancy never has been permanently filled. William Waggoner, deputy city tax collector, held the post for a couple of weeks and was succeeded by Hollars when duties of the combined jobs became too heavy for Waggoner.

"We will be glad to take applications of anyone interested in this responsible post," the city manager said. "Naturally if there is a retired lawyer available, we would prefer someone with legal experience."

The job is on the books at a salary of $265 a month, although Judge Hollars is serving at no additional pay over his salary as head of the water department.

15-Year-Old Barred From Own Movie

NEW YORK (UPI) — A curvaceous 15-year-old blonde tried unsuccessfully Wednesday night to see the premiere of the "For adults only" film version of the controversial novel "Lolita."

The pretty girl was Suellyn (Sue) Lyon who plays the title role of a teen-age temptress in the movie.

For Sue, the premiere was a short one. The movie makers put a "For adults only" tag on the film and in a novel bit of press agentry banned the star from her own premiere.

The young actress got as far as the lobby of Loew's State Theater, was ushered into an office and then left the theater with her mother and a tutor.

Sue's mother and tutor described the star as a tomboy who goes up stairs three at a time, wears blue jeans, like mathematics, and teaches tricks to a pet chihuahua.

Sue was anxious about the reviews when they came out although she protested that she never worried and was "completely satisfied" with her own performance.

She went through the papers speedily and listened intently as the reviews were read. Most of them were good, but the New York Times made a few disparaging remarks.

"That review made me feel like a six year old that just had a lollipop snatched from its mouth," said Sue. "But I guess you have to take the good with the bad."

'Attorney General's List' Is Now A Museum Piece

(Third of four related columns.)

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — When an applicant for a United States Government job is given a security check, he must sign a statement that he does not belong and never has belonged to 283 organizations on what is known as "The Attorney General's List."

Preparation of this list goes back to President Harry Truman's famous Executive Order 3835 of 1945. The security program established under this order was revised by President Eisenhower in 1953.

Memoranda in department of justice files on suspected subversive organizations between April 29, 1953, and Oct. 25, 1955, were consolidated into one list issued on Nov. 1, 1955. It is a single sheet of paper of business letter size, printed on both sides in four columns of names.

The list orignially contained 228 names, but five have been crossed off. They were removed by publication of notice in the official Federal Register after evidence was given that these organizations were not subversive.

Otherwise, the list has not been revised since 1955. So it is now an official document over six years old. It is obsolete and almost meaningless, except as a historical check list for government and business personnel officers.

A few non-Communist organizations are listed - such as the Ku-Klux Klan, which is still considered active. The German-American Bund, the Sokoku Kai (Fatherland Society) of Japan and a few other organizations which disappeared at the end of World War II are also listed.

But George Lincoln Rockwell's American Nazi Party, which has its headquarters in Arlington, Va across the Potomac from Washington, is not listed. Neither are a number of admittedly Communist fronts of recent origin.

"The A. G.'s list" is overwhelmingly of Communist organizations whose names have been publicly bandied about locally and nationally up to 1955. A check by the most authoritative sources available reveals that only 11 of the Communist front organizations listed are active today:

American Committee for Protection of the Foreign Born.

American-Russian Institute of Southern California.

American-Russian Institute of San Francisco.

Jefferson School of Social Science.

Jewish Culture Society.

Labor Research Assn., Inc.

National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

United May Day Committee.

Veterans of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade.

Washington Pension Union.

Yiddisher Kultur Farband.

There are of course other active organizations not on the list under investigation. Their names have not been disclosed by federal officials. Questions of Constitutional law prevent the attorney general from bringing the list up to date.

There were no formal proceedings to place the name of any organization on the list. Organizations listed after 1947 were given the opportunity to contest their redesignation for the 1953 list. When they failed to contest relisting their names were placed on the revised list Nov. 1, 1955.

But the United States Supreme Court has never decided the government could so list them. And under the American system of fair play, every organization and its members are entitled to a hearing before they may be stigmatized in any way.

There is a big difference between saying that an organization is Communist - infiltrated and saying that it is Communist dominated. To say that an organization is Communist controlled may be considered libelous.

Evidence on the degree of control can come only from witnesses whose testimony, if made public, might destroy a government source of information.

The government is, in effect, hamstrung. So summary decision was made during the Eisenhower administration that up dating the list might do injury to some organizations and their members if falsely accused. Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers ruled against revision.

Since the Kennedy administration has come to Washington, some consideration has been given to making a test case on listing the American Nazi party. But the conclusion was made that it would be best not to risk it.

This is not a permanent decision, however, and it may be reconsidered. This is where the matter stands today. The attorney general's list is seven years out of date.

Farm Bureau's President Hits JFK's Farm Bill

WACO — Enactment of the Administration's proposed farm bill, now awaiting House vote, would remove most remaining traces of individual freedom in farming operations, the president of the Texas Farm Bureau declared today.

J. H. West of Bishop said farmers would be faced with an "impossible predicament" if the proposed legislation is passed.

"We would have the choice of submitting to economic imprisonment or committing economic suicide," the farm leader stated. "Obviousy, there is no choice involved and farmers would be forced to accept the strictist form of regimentation ever proposed in ths country."

In explanation, West said the alternatives which would be submitted to producers of wheat and feed grains in referenda — if the bill passes — are so "loaded" as to make a mockery of democratic processes.

"Producers would be forced to choose between (1) complete government regimentation and (1) the withdrawal of all price supports in conjunction with a program of dumping government surpluses to destroy the market for current production," the farm leader stated.

West, who is a member of the American Farm Bureau Federation board of directors, said Farm Bureau is for a positive, not punitive, program for agriculture which permits a maximum of freedom with a minimum of cost to taxpayers.

Estes Took Big Loss In Venture Into Journalism

PECOS, Tex. UPI— Financial wizard Billie Sol Estes took a $190,000 loss in his venture into the journalistic field.

Estes' share of the Pecos Daily News solf for $9,250. Harry Moore of El Paso, receiver for Estes' crumbled fortune, said the West Texas farm tycoon had invested $199,415 in the newspaper that must be written off as a loss.

Twelve Pecos businessmen headed by two Pecos certified public accountants bought Estes' share in the newspaper. Attorney Jim Tomlin represented the group, which also agreed to pay off a $2,700 loan to the paper by Moore.

Another Estes enterprise, the Fort Stockton Implement Co., drew three bids which will be evaluated for several days, Moore said.

Tomlin said the daily newspaper will continue publication. The $2,700 loan had permitted the paper to keep going since the collapse of the Estes farm empire.

"The people are interested in keeping it (The News) alive as a daily newspaper," Tomlin said. "There was no other reason (to buy it) except for the purpose of keeping it going."

The purchase price represented $100 per share for each of the 92½ shares owned by Estes in the newspaper, which began publishing less than a year ago.

Judge Thomason had ordered sale of the newspaper and farm implement company, the first of Estes' many enterprises to be sold since he underwent voluntary receivership.

J. F. Pattee and J. Robert Scott were the two certified public accountants who headed the group of Pecos businessmen that bought the newspaper. The other buyers wished to remain anonymous.

● Collusion

tes was not signed until March 9.

"It appears to me this is a triangle," Bass said, "there is collusion involved."

Bass demanded to know who in the department approved the assignment. Jackson said the approval came from the Dallas office of the department but he described it as routine.

"Conclusions are being drawn here that are completely unwarranted," Jackson said.

Earlier Maynard C. Wheeler, president of Commercial, said his firm did not know as late as last March 18 that Estes was being investigated on suspicion of fraud.

The Texan was arrested 10 days later.

Wheeler told a reporter he was unaware Estes' financial empire was collapsing when he visited the Texan's Pecos home in March. The state has brought an antitrust suit against Estes and Commercial, charging them with an attempt to corner the West Texas fertilizer market.

Wheeler made the comment shortly before resuming his testimony before a House subcommit- dealings with Estes.

He told the subcommittee Wednesday about a $400,000 loan the company made to Estes on Feb. 28 this year. He also submitted documents showing various mortgages the company took from Estes as late as March 21.

The witness started his testimony today with an account of the firm's dealings with the department, which had been requested by the subcomittee.

He said Commercial had received $5,832 in grain storage fees from an elevator it owns at Clinton, Iowa, and had bought more than two million bushels of surplus grain from the Commodity Credit Corp., for use at its Peoria, Ill., plant.

Strike Talks In Collapse

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Negotiations aimed at preventing a strike that would cripple three major airlines collapsed today after the flight engineers union rejected President Kennedy's appeal to submit its dispute to binding arbitration.

Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg told newsmen he would report the deadlock to the President immediately.

The union has warned that its 1,700 members employed by Pan American, Eastern and Trans World airlines would strike unless the current contract talks produced a settlement.

Goldberg did not answer a reporter's question as to when or whether the flight engineers would strike, however.

"The talks are over, the union is free to strike, a deadlock ensued and we have no agreement," he told reporters glumly.

The Labor Department made public a statement by Kennedy declaring that there was "no excuse" for a walkout in view of the government-aided steps to achieve a settlement of the two-year dispute.

The talks appeared to be deadlocked when the negotiators returned from breakfast. They had met throughout the night, taking time out only to munch hamburgers and sip coffee.

A source close to the talks said the companies had presented a package proposal that was rejected by the union and a counter-proposal by the FEIA was turned down by the companies.

Goldberg and his aides had been working since 9 a.m. Wednesday with officials of FEIA and the companies.

Wednesday night the union said there seemed to be no alternative but to strike against the three carriers.

'New Light' May Have Been Shed In Death Probe

FRANKLIN, Tex. (UPI)—Billie Sol Estes' testimony before a state grand jury may have shed new light on the mysterious death of federal agriculture official Henry H. Marshall.

Estes, who appeared about two hours Wednesday before the grand jury investigating Marshall's death, invoked the Texas version of the Fifth Amendment a total of between 50 and 100 times, a source said. However, Dist. Atty. Bryan Russ said his testimony opened "new areas" into the investigation.

He would not elaborate on the statement except to say that Estes had been "helpful." Russ said Estes refused to answer "many questions at a 40-minute morning appearance but cooperated at a 75-minute afternoon session.

Dist. Judge John Barron worked out a compromise for the afternoon session after the grand jury brought legal pressure seeking to force Estes to answer all the questions on which he pleaded possible self-incrimination in the morning.

Russ said that as far as he knows the grand jury, which recessed until 9 a.m. next Monday, will not need any further testimony from Estes. Three or four witnesses will be called next Monday, and Russ indicated some of them might be agriculture officials.

The grand jury, in its fourth week of deliberation after the determine whether Marshall was murdered or committed suicide. Marshall was supposed to have been the first agriculture official to investigate Estes.

Marshall was found dead on his farm near Franklin June 3, 1951. A justice of the peace rule suicide at the time.

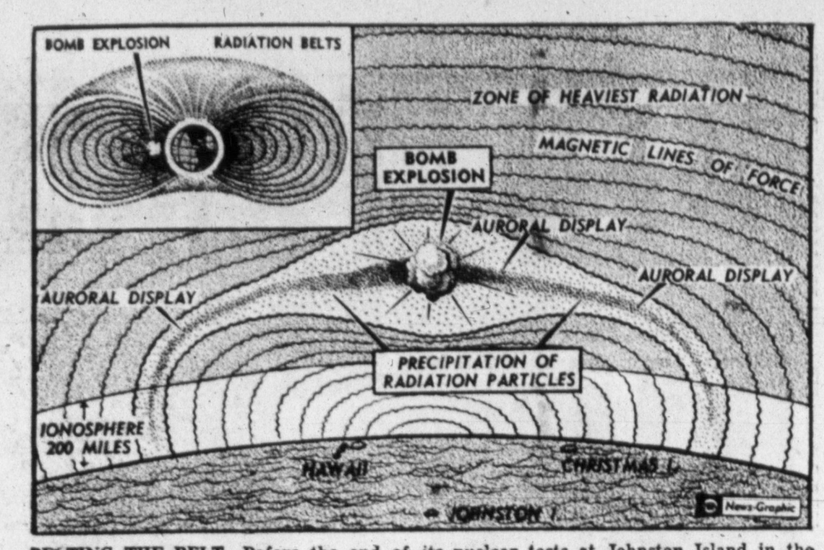

However, an autopsy on his exhumed body showed that he had been shot five times with a 22-caliber bolt-action rifle, suffered a stunning blow on the head, and tests indicated a near-fatal dose of carbon monoxide in his bloodstream.

Rock Throwers Renew Activity

Rock throwers returned to action in Pampa last night.

After a respite of several weeks from complaints of rocks being tossed through plate glass windows in business places, a new angle has developed, according to police.

Carrol Goad, 1804 N. Wells, reported that shortly after 9:30 p.m. yesterday someone threw a stone through a bedroom window at the Goad home. No one was injured.

BELTING THE BELT—Before the end of its nuclear tests at Johnston Island in the Pacific, the U.S. plans to explode two relatively small hydrogen bombs about 200 to 500 miles up to see what effect they will have on the Van Allen radiation belts surrounding the earth. Predictions range from complete erasure of the belts to merely temporary disruption. Large diagram above shows how the belt of heaviest radiation, just above the ionosphere, may be partly eliminated. The charged particles are held in place by the lines of force of the earth's magnetic field (small diagram). The explosions would distort these lines, allowing the radiation particles to filter down at either end, where most of them would be absorbed by the atmosphere. Whether the belt will reconstitute itself, and how quickly it would do it, is a matter of current international scientific dispute.

Stocks priced at about 15 times earnings are "on a pretty sound basis," Dillon told committee chairman Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., and prices two or three times this level were "unjustified."

Most Wall Street experts were not surprised by the market's performance. They said there was nothing in recent news events to make prices rise and noted predictions made last month in which they said the market might continue its slump for a while.

'Samson' Won't Be Main Course

BOSTON (UPI)— "Samson" won't be the main dish at a July Fourth "reverse freedom riders" barbeque.

"Samson" is a 140-pound goat shipped by segregationists in Little Rock, Ark. to Negroes given one - way bus tickets to Hyannis. The segregationists said the goat could be served up to make for a memorable July Fourth.

The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said Wednesday night it would meet "Samson" when he arived at Hyannis Friday and escort it to the society's farm at Methuen.

Jordanians, Israelis In Gunbattle

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — An Israeli policeman was killed and three others wounded today in the first gunbattle with Jordanians along the Israeli-Jordanian border in four years.

The clash erupted near the Musrara quarter of Jerusalem. Israel lodged an immediate protest with the U. N. truce commission and U. N. observers moved in to investigate the incident.

Israeli officials said Jordanians opened fire on an Israeli border patrol. They said one policeman was killed instantly and three others wounded, one of them seriously.

Jordan holds what is known as the "old city" of Jerusalem. The new city is in Israeli territory.

The sources said Israeli troops rushed to the scene, removed the dead and wounded and "restored calm." No mention was made of any Jordanian casualties.

Although Israel has had several border clashes with Syria and Egypt in recent years, its last clash with Jordan was in November 1957, when military detachments exchanged fire across the armistice line.

Inmates In Women's Prison In Escape Try; Jailer Shot

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Women prisoners in the Pulaski County jail here shot a jailer in the back with a smuggled pistol, threatened to kill three fellow inmates and held 30 policemen, deputy sheriffs and state policemen at bay for five hours early today.

The escape plot failed. Carol Pickett, 15, wound up with the smuggled pistol. The leader of the attempted escape was Dianne Lambert, 23. Jail Capt. Joe Borthetti and Eddie Massingale, a prisoner and friend of Miss Lambert, talked the Pickett girl into surrendering the gun.

Johnny Fields, a Negro trusty, foiled the break. He pulled the wounded jailer, Jess Anderson, from the cell - block and sent out an alarm on Anderson's radio.

The sheriff's patrol, police and state police surrounded the jail.

Chief Deputy J. W. Cox said a friend of Miss Lambert started the escape attempt by throwing a 22-caliber revolver through a window into a passageway next to a cell which held Miss Lambert and five other women.

Miss Lambert, awaiting trial on grand larceny charges, grabbed the weapon. She shouted to Anderson that she was sick.

"She pulled a gun on him," Cox said, "and ordered him to back up to the cell. But he started running and she cut down on him, hitting him in the back."

Anderson was reported in satisfactory condition in Arkansas Baptist Hospital.

"They did a lot of hollering and demanding," Cox said. "They demanded everything. What they wanted was for us to open the door and let them out here with us."

"We never promised them anything," he said, "except that we wouldn't put them in the hole."

The hole is solitary confinement.

Thunderstorms Are Forecast For Texas

Showers and thunderstorms moved across the Northwestern Panhandle and the middle Texas Gulf Coast today, the remnants of heavy rains that soaked West Texas Wednesday.

Two tornado funnels were sighted in South Texas Wednesday along with the good rains. Even so, it was the calmest day in the state in almost two weeks.

The U.S. Weather Bureau did not issue any alerts for severe thunderstorms or tornadoes for the first time in 10 days. Scattered thundershowers were forecast for all portions of Texas today.

One twister was sighted in the air near Kemah, Tex., 20 miles northeast of Galveston, the Weather Bureau said. Another one was reported at Manchaca, 15 miles south of Austin. Neither touched ground.

Two and a half inches of rain fell in Nolan County southeast of Sweetwater. The rain hampered rescue operations for two men killed in a plane crash.

Lightning flicked from a squall line raking the Llano area and set fire to a movie theater. Only minor damage was reported.

Winds of 47 miles an hour were reported at Austin's Municipal Airport. Some tree limbs were blown down in the city.

Presidio recorded the state's high temperature of 100 degrees. The overnight low was 55 at Dalhart.

Official U. S. Weather Bureau rainfall recordings for the 24 hours ended at 6 a. m. showed Dalhart 1.51 inches, Lubbock .08, Victoria .47, Houston 1.32, Galveston .09; Beaumont, 30; Austin .60, Waco .02, Brownwood .10.

Russian Warns Of Deadly 'Sun Bullets'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Soviet scientist warns that the sun may be firing deadly nuclear bullets broadside at any astronauts who try to visit the moon from 1966 through 1970.

This is precisely the period in which the United States hopes to land three-man Apollo crews on the moon and bring them safely home again.

A spokesman said the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) was well aware of the solar menace to space travel mentioned by the Russian scientist, Prof. G. Pokrovskiy of Moscow.

NASA, the spokesman said, hopes means of forecasting solar bombardments, and thus avoiding them, may be found before the first Apollo crews are sent into orbit around the moon in 1966.

From time to time gigantic eruptions, or flares, occur on the face of the sun. They are associated with sunspots. Some of the larger eruptions, known as cosmic ray flares, spew myriads of high energy particles into space.

These particles are protons, the core of hydrogen atoms. Traveling at many thousands of miles a second, they constitute one of the most serious obstacles to manned space flight.

Material shields dense enough to protect astronauts from them will be prohibitively heavy until considerably more powerful rockets are developed than any now in the cards for 1966-70.

Writing on "flights to the moon, Mars, and Venus" in a Moscow publication, Pokrovskiy said manned trips to the moon "should be made during the period of the quiet sun."

He said parenthetically that "this would appear to exclude the years of high solar activity 1966-70."

The Lighter Side

On Congressional Investigation

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — How many of you can tell the difference between a comic strip and a congressional investigation?

Sometimes it isn't easy. I have a wide acquaintance with both, but I almost got fooled Tuesday.

I dropped in at a hearing on labor-management relations and there was "Blondie" explaining "B-girls" to a couple of senators.

A cartoonist would have a hard time topping that.

Senators, as you know, lead sheltered lives. It was only natural that they would have some trouble understanding [illegible] B-girls operate.

Fortunately, they were able to obtain a clear picture from Penny Singleton, as pretty witness as ever entered the cloistered precincts of the Senate Investigation subcommittee.

Miss Singleton, I should add at once, is no B-girl herself. She is a veteran actress who portrayed the role of "Blondie" in television and the movies.

She became acquainted with the B-girl situation as a former president of the American Guild of Variety Artists (AGVA), one of the entertainment unions.

Miss Singleton told the subcommittee that AGVA is loaded with members who acquire union cards as stripteasers and then function as B-girls. She contended this was the fault of the union leadership.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D. professed to be bipartisanly in the dark as to what Miss Sngleton was talking about.

"Being a B-girl is an extracurricular activity?" asked Mundt.

Miss Singleton, said it consisted of doing an act and then mingling with the male customers for the purpose of inducing them to buy drinks.

It's getting so that a genuine stripper can hardly make a living any more, she said.

This drew from Mundt a suggestion that the legitimate performers in "AGVA" organize another union and "let the B-girls be B-girls by th[illegible]selves."

The two senators were further enlightened by Pat Lynn, a Philadelphia singer who told of working in a "sup[illegible]club" that didn't so much as have a potato chip on the premises.

The dancers, she said, did little except parade around in scanty costumes and toss off a few bumps and grinds. Some of them, she added scornfully, couldn't even keep time with the music.

I know not how the senators feel about this, but to me the testimony was shocking. Offhand, I can't think more unsettling to a night club patron than an off-tempo bump.

Local Red Cross Chapter Makes Vast Use Of Volunteer Service

By WANDA HUFF
Daily News Staff Writer

To the 400 Red Cross volunteers of the Pampa chapter, the words Red Cross mean to give year-round service, aid, water safety and first aid instruction and to help Pampa survive any disaster, natural or man-made.

"Currently, the volunteers are in charge of the Red Cross' water safety program," Mrs. Frank Shotwell, executive secretary of Pampa's Red Cross chapter, said. "Beginning June 18, four water safety instructors, assisted by volunteers, will teach water safety in the city pool."

Each group of classes will last two weeks from 9-12 each morning. Fee for admittance to the pool and water safety instruction is one dollar. The second two weeks begins July 2. The third, beginning July 16, will end July 27. About 610 children have registered for the first two weeks.

Mrs. Marion Osborn will instruct the intermediate and swimmer classes; Jay Leith, the adult beginners; Mrs. Jim Jackson, advanced beginners; and Mrs. Wayne Jones, beginners. Mrs. Howard Holt, Mrs. A. E. McLenan, Scott George, and Misses Beverly Langley, Linda Abbott and Beverly Moore have volunteered to assist the instructors.

"The second and third two-week programs will be run similar to the first, with about 50 aids and instructors working on a volunteer basis. Each has volunteered 30 hours of his time," Mrs. Shotwell said.

These two-week programs are in the city pool alone. Classes will be taught all summer at the Youth Center, Lefors Pool, Marcus Sanders Pool and the Country Club.

"High school boys and girls, Gray Ladies and friends of Red Cross will be answering the telephone at the Red Cross office each morning from 9-11 while I am at the city pool for the water safety program," Mrs. Shotwell said.

VOLUNTEENS — Mrs. Vernell Meador, second from right, director of nurses, Highland General Hospital, instructs three Volunteens as they prepare to serve coffee to a patient. These Volunteens, Mary Nail, left, Carol Peeples and Marilyn Davenport, right, are part of the six teenage Red Cross volunteers who serve and manage a hospital juice and coffee cart for patients.

"These 400 volunteers served 8,140 hours last year. Other volunteers who work on a year-round basis are the Red Cross board members, Gray Ladies, Volunteens, Red Cross Home Nurses, first aid instructors and staff aid workers.

"The Red Cross board meets at 7 a.m. on the second Tuesday of every month and served 540 hours last year. It is the custom of the board to disband during July and August, but the executive committee, made up of nine directors, takes care of any emergencies."

Board members are E. B. Pemberton, chapter chairman; A. J. Carubbi, Jr., Mrs. Carlton Nance, Robert Imel, Dr. Raymond Laycock, Bob C. Williams, Malcolm Douglas, Mrs. Mark Heath, Richard W. Stowers, Sgt. Wesley Langham, Mrs. A. D. Hills, Bill Atchison and Sgt. Dale Kreimeyer.

Mrs. Shotwell said, "We have a well-planned disaster program with John Gikas as coordinator with Civil Defense and Red Cross in case of atomic disaster. V. E. Wagner is natural disaster chairman.

"Chairmen have been named for all disaster subcommittees, such as survey of losses, dead and injured, medical aid, food and clothing, transportation, shelter, family service, communications, public information and ham radio and mobile radio telephones.

"We have 37 active Gray Ladies who work at the local hospitals on assigned days, visit at the Twilight Acres, Pampa's new rest home, furnish transportation to the Senior Center each Thursday afternoon and visit shut-ins in the home.

"Twice each year, they take a party to the training center at Amarillo AFB. This month, they will be hosts to the Senior Citizen's birthday party in the Senior Center, June 21."

Mrs. Lynn Boyd is the Gray Ladies chairman for Pampa. Last year, they reported 4,300 hours of volunteer service. Mrs. Shotwell also supervises the Gray Ladies in Higgins, Texas, and Canadian.

The Red Cross' newest volunteer organization, the Volunteens, is a group of six junior Gray Ladies, who work twice a week at Highland General Hospital by serving juice, coffee and tea to patients. Mrs. O. F. Kreimeyer Gray Lady, is sponsor of the Volunteens, Jenny Goff, Marilyn Davenport, Gail Fuller, Mary Nail, Carol Peoples and Sharon Smith. These teenagers average 200 hours' service a year.

Twenty - four volunteer first-aid instructors serve 500 hours to teach junior first aid (up to 14 years) standard (over 14), an advance. Clifford Hill is first aid chairman and has two new instructors, Tom Chisholm and Deward Williams.

"All Pampa school bus drivers carry a standard first aid card," Mrs. Shotwell said. "We are planning another summer first aid course. One hundred people attended last year's classes."

"The Pampa chapter has 18 registered Red Cross nurses who are ready to give volunteer service to the chapter in time of disaster or need. Miss Margaret Dial is the Red Cross chairman for their home service work.

"These nurses average 100 hours and teach courses in mother and baby care and care of the sick and aged. Mrs. K. A. Sorenson is the home service chairman. Mrs. Sam B. Cooke, a registered nurse, has served 10 years on the home service committee and is responsible for emergencies that occur during my absence," Mrs. Shotwell added.

"We have a great need for staff aid workers to type and do other office work. Miss Ruth Helm and Miss Helen Myers are chairmen of home services in the office."

Teacher sponsors devoted 500 hours to supervising projects for elementary, junior high and high school Junior Red Cross programs. Next year, Eddie Edwards will be the JRC president and Howard Graham will be teacher sponsor.

"This past year, Pampa High School JRS officers were invited to the national JRC convention to explain how they were able to get 97 per cent enrollment and raise $830 for the Red Cross fund drive. For three years Pampa High has had the highest JRC enrollment of any school its size in the state.

"Pampa High School and Robert E. Lee Junior High School each packed a chest amounting to $100 and sent it to the national headquarters to send to the school children in a disaster area."

"Since Pampa chapter is in the United Fund, all workers who give their time to collect funds are considered as volunteers to Red Cross and served for an average of 500 hours last year. Melvin Jayroe is fund chairman for 1962-'63.

"The United Fund board has approved our chapter's total budget of $74,467 for 1962-63. This will take care of our local, national and international needs," Mrs. Shotwell said.

The Ohio-Indiana line passes through Harrison, Ohio, which was named for William Henry Harrison.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Standard & Poor's Outlook says the stock market is regaining a more normal appearance following recent hectic trading, and prospects for a technical rebound are sufficiently encouraging to suggest opportunities for the more nimble trader.

Nevertheless, as a rule, it says long - term investors should proceed cautiously with new buying until there are more conclusive signs that the market has established a solid base.

James Dines of A. M. Kidder & Co. says since a big stock market move at present is unlikely and the major trend remains down, it still seems wise to remain on the sidelines, holding short term bonds and gold stocks.

Joseph E. Granville of E. F. Hutton & Co., says no miracles on the upside are expected in the market but he looks for selected issues to demonstrate good recoveries while the bulk of the general list remains impeded by the fresh memories of the sharp May—declines.

Crisp Cucumber Calorie Count Is Unbelievably Low Per Slice

Crisp, succulent cucumbers are a perfect hot weather vegetable. Their calorie count is unbelievably low — just one calorie to a slice.

FRESH CUCUMBER COCKTAIL
(Yield: 4 servings)

1½ cup finely diced peeled cucumbers
1½ teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1-16 teaspoon ground black pepper
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
2-3 cup sour cream
Radish slices for garnish
Fresh parsley for garnish

Combine first 5 ingredients and fold in sour cream. Chill. Serve as appetizer in sherbet glasses or on salad plates garnished with radish slices and fresh parsley.

CHILLED CUCUMBER SOUP

1 cup chopped scallions or onions
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 cups unpeeled diced cucumbers
4 cups chicken stock
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon crumbled chervil
½ teaspoon crumbled savory
¼ teaspoon ground white pepper
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
3 tablespoons flour
¼ cup cold water
1 cup heavy cream
Thin slices cucumber for garnish

Saute scallions or onions in butter or margarine. Add cucumbers and chicken stock. Cover and cook until cucumbers are very soft, about 10 minutes. Put through a coarse sieve. Add seasonings and lemon juice. Cook until slightly thick. Cool and chill. Stir in cream just before serving. Serve cold, garnished with cucumber slices.

Teen Boys Cost More To Feed

Q—Does it cost more to feed a teen - age boy than other members of the family?

A—Yes. According to the United States Department of Agriculture, teen - age boys gobble up more of the weekly food money than any other member of the family. To feed one growing male, age 16 to 19, a week's food supply cost $8.20 on a low-cost plan, $11.20 on a moderate plan and $12.60 on a liberal plan.

Q—Can I use cheese and other foods to replace some of the milk in my meals?

A —Yes. Nutritionsists advise that cheese and ice cream can replace some of the milk. You can substitute a 1 - inch cube of cheddar cheese for 2-3 cup milk; ½ cup cottage cheese for 1-3 cup milk and ½ cup ice cream for ¼ cup milk.

Recall the stories about Nebuchadnezzar and his famous lesions? It seems that this Biblical and historical character who ruled Babylon from 605 to 562 B.C. and once captured Jerusalem, had a fondness for "salad plants." Of course, most history books and his gossipy neighbors say that he ate grass, but actually, or so the story goes, he was eating lettuce!

Back in the days of the French Revolution, one expert, Chevalier Goudet, realized a handsome fortune from his salad dressing making skill alone. He always approached the salad bowl in full, gala costume, with his sword at his side, and the nobility sought his services in order that they might be regaled with one of his creations — to say nothing of a fine dramatic performance.

Superstitious? The early physicians discovered that salads had medicinal value, and they prescribed a "spring salad" for the sick. Many people praised it, and claimed salads to be better purifiers and tonics than druggists' compounds. There is an old proverb that reads, "Eat onions in May and all the year after physicians may play."

All At Once—All-Fresh Fruit Salads!

Spring is here and Summer almost . . . in the air and on our tables. All at once we find several delicious juicy fruits and vegetables in the market, with others soon to come. Fresh fruit salads in particular are such a boon to winter-weary appetites. Even though the first shipment of some fruit may be expensive, use just a little of it to highlight your salad. Next week this fruit will be less dear, as still another comes in to enlarge the fresh-fruit picture.

Dress your wonderful fruits with a light, fresh dressing. A good one is made with a real mayonnaise base thinned with honey and lemon juice and flavored with celery seed. Here's a starter suggestion for a picture-pretty salad. Each day you can create your own pattern as new fresh fruits become available.

All-Fresh Fruit Salad

½ pint strawberries
3-4 oranges
½ cantaloup or honeydew melon
3 pears
2 bananas
Lemon juice
Salad greens
1 cup real mayonnaise
⅓ cup honey
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons celery seed

Wash and hull strawberries. Peel and slice oranges. From half melon scoop out balls with fruit ball cutter or a teaspoon. Peel pears and bananas. Cut pears in halves and scoop out center seedy portions. Slice bananas lengthwise, into halves or quarters, then into half lengths. Squeeze juice from 1 large or 2 small lemons and reserve 1 tablespoon of juice for Dressing. Brush pears and bananas with rest of lemon juice to prevent darkening. Place a bed of washed, drained and chilled chicory or other salad greens on large salad platter. Arrange fresh fruit on greens in an attractive pattern. Make HONEY MAYONNAISE DRESSING by adding honey gradually to real mayonnaise, then adding lemon juice and, lastly, the celery seed. Blend thoroughly.

Yield: 6 servings each of salad and dressing.

Cantaloupe With Fruit Refreshing Low-Calorie Hot Weather Dessert

The combination of cantaloupe and seasonal berries or other fruits produces refreshing, low-calorie desserts perfect for hot weather meal. With plenty of raspberries, blueberries and cherries in the markets, many delectable combinations are possible.

CANTALOUPE AND FRESH BERRIES ON THE HALF SHELL
(Yield: 6 servings)

3 fresh cantaloupes
About 3 cups fresh blueberries
About 3 cups fresh raspberries
About 1-3 cup fresh orange juice
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
¼ cup sugar
Fresh mint

Cut chilled cantaloupe in half crosswise, remove seeds and stringy portion. Drain. Combine blueberries, raspberries, orange juice, lemon juice and sugar (the amount of berries will vary with size of the melons). Spoon into melon cavities. Serve on cracked ice. Garnish with fresh mint.

MINTED FRESH CANTALOUPE AND CHERRIES
(Yield: 6 servings)

Combine 1 cup water, ½ cup sugar and 1 tablespoon chopped fresh mint and boil for 3 minutes. Strain. Chill. Add 1 cup pitted fresh cherries and 2 cups fresh cantaloupe balls. Serve in sherbet glasses. Top each with a sprig of fresh mint.

Special 'Burger For Special Day

Hamburger, of course, is as American as the Fourth of July. But we know some teenagers who have invented "Firecracker" burgers as something special for Independence Day.

They are cylindrically-shaped. The less you handle the meat, the better. Cook first in a skillet for crisp outer crust. Then a barbeque sauce is added.

"FIRECRACKER" BURGERS
(Yield: 8 servings)

2 pounds ground beef
2 teaspoons monosodium glutamate
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup prepared mustard
¼ cup unsulphured molasses
¼ cup vinegar
1 can (8-ounces) tomato sauce
1 tablespoons instant minced onion
2 teaspoons celery seed (optional)

Sprinkle beef with monosodium glutamate, salt and pepper; toss lightly to distribute ingredients. Divide meat into 8 portions. Form into cylindrical shape to fit frankfurter rolls. Brown quickly on all sides in skillet. Blend together prepared mustard and molasses. Stir in remaining ingredients. Add to skillet. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 5 to 10 minutes. If desired, serve with scallions.

CANNED VEGETABLE VINAIGRETTE
(Yield: 8 servings)

1 can (20 - ounces) chick peas
1 can (6-ounces) whole mushrooms
1 can (1-pound) artichoke hearts
2-3 cup French dressing
2 tablespoons very finely chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
2 tablespoons finely chopped chives
1 tablespoon finely chopped fresh dill
½ teaspoon salt

Drain vegetables. Reserve liquids to use in sauces, gravies, and soups. Combine remaining ingredients. Pour over vegetables in cans; let stand several hours or overnight. To serve, arrange vegetables on mixed greens in salad bowl. Pour marinade over vegetables and greens.

Ham Highlights Fine Polish Meal

Dinner at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Mantel in New York was an experience in Polish art, Polish hospitality and fine Polish food. Both the doctor and his gracious wife, Halina, a sculptress, were born and reared in Poland but have lived in the United States for the past 19 years.

Mrs. Mantel served what she termed "a classic Polish meal." First, clear beet soup with little mushroom - filled dumplings; next, hot appetizers filled with chopped meat combined with sour cream; then a baked imported canned Polish ham glazed with pineapple, ginger, butter and brown sugar; also, dill potatoes and cabbage cooked with apple slices. There were two desserts to choose from: Chocolate Mazurka and Sour Cream - Wild Cherry pote. Then black coffee.

BAKED IMPORTED CANNED POLISH HAM

Remove ham from can. Bake according to directions on can. Fifteen minutes before baking time is up, remove from oven and score in large squares. Insert a clove in each square. Spoon glaze over surface. Turn up oven to 400 degrees F. Return ham to oven and bake for about 15 minutes more, until glaze is golden brown.

CLASSIC Polish dinner includes baked imported canned Polish ham, potatoes and sour cream-wild cherry compote.

SOUR CREAM — WILD CHERRY COMPOTE
(4 servings)

2 cups sour cream, whipped
½ cup confectioners sugar
1 teaspoon almond extract
Wild cherry preserves

For her American friends, Mrs. Mantel uses either heavy whipping cream, or half cream and half sour cream, whipped separately and then folded together. To the whipped cream, sour or sweet, gently fold in confectioners' sugar and almond extract. Pile high in compote dishes. Top with heaping tablespoon of wild cherry preserves.

Wild cherries, grow profusely in the Polish countryside and are picked by women when ripe.

The ancient Greeks served well-seasoned salads at the end of the meal!

See Heavy Appliance 'Compacts' For Kitchen

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

For the homemaker who has decided to "do something" about the kitchen equipment this summer, heartening news in appliances is the compact design of units capable of big-family performance.

I confess that I view the new appliances with an envious "sour-grapes" attitude because I had to buy a range and dishwasher a few years before these innovations were available.

Unless you are going to remodel, most existing kitchens have space restrictions on appliance size if you wish to fit the new unit into the old slot. In this circumsance, I had to be content with a 30-inch single oven range, although I yearned for a double oven. Impossible, said the dealer, unless we revamped the area and built equipment in.

Today, a double-oven, 30 - inch free-standing range is easy to find. One electric range combines a glass door oven at eye levl with a second oven in the base and four surface elements between. Heat controls are placed convenient to each element, and each oven and the top is recessed to reduce food spillovers. The top oven may carry a rotisserie if one chooses.

Another innovation which should find favor is designed to make automatic cooking even simpler and is described as "programmed cooking." This makes use of the low temperature or "keep warm" (140-170 degrees F.) settings found on many ranges.

In programmed cooking, you set the cooking heat and the total cooking time. Don't forget to put the food in the oven. Cooking starts at once (before you leave for the bridge party), and when time is up an automatic control switches oven temperature to the keep-warm setting. Food stays hot and is not supposed to dry out or overcook.

In fancier ranges, a meat probe to measure internal temperatures of meat may also be hooked up automatically so that a beef roast might be cooked rare and held at that point for hours.

Increased capacity of the convention undercounter built-in dishwasher will handle a larger load in the same 24-inch opening. In our old dishwasher, the rated capacity is 10 place settings. In a new dishwasher, the rated capacity may be as high as 16 place settings. The change seems effected primarily by the arrangement of supports on the loading racks.

In our home, the place setting rating doesn't bear much resemblance to the reality of an ordinary dishwasher load. But a shift in loading pattern would make it easier to fit in more dishes.

If you are really strapped for space near the kitchen sink and have had to forego the convenience of a built-in dishwasher, take heart. Brand new this summer is one which fits into a 24-inch space under a kitchen sink bowl that is six inches or less in depth. In order to meet the requirements of sink size and drainpipe placement, you might have to budget for a new sink, too.

When an elderly refrigerator needs replacing, a decision on size must be made. So much bulk and bulge have been eliminated by new insulating techniques that a new refrigerator of the same cubic foot capacity as the old one will occupy inches less floor space.

If you would welcome a larger refrigerator (oh, boy would I!) for storage of all the foods needed to keep hungry children filled up, you can perhaps fit one in the floor space occupied by the former one.

In this cheery Americana kitchen, new appliances add modern convenience to old-fashioned warmth. At left, double-oven range fits in a tight 30 inches of space. At right, although under-counter dishwasher fits into a 24-inch slot, loading racks have been changed to accommodate more dishes, permit more flexible loading.

Pulitzer Prize-Winner Will Write Drama About Panhandle History

"I want to do one more of these statements. This one in your Palo Duro Canyon where God and nature have given us a beautiful setting."

This statement of intent by North Carolinian Paul Green has not deviated since the day he made it in November, 1961, in Amarillo.

What the Pulitzer Prize - winner was making explicit reference to in using the word "statement", dealt with his own creation, the symphonic drama. Since 1937 when the first such production opened on Manteo Island, N.C., Green has been writing symphonic dramas. His most outstanding protegee, Kermit Hunter, has also written several.

But it is the master himself who has agreed to write the drama about the history and heritage of the Texas Panhandle.

The Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation is currently working on its fund raising campaign to raise the money to build an amphitheater in Palo Duro State Park for the production of the Green drama.

At this point well over one-third of the monies have been raised. With a total goal of $350,900 set, the fund will build the amphitheater, pay for the writing of the play itself, costs of campaign, provide for an intricate lighting system - the whole of the first year's production.

Without having seen one of the outdoor productions, a symphonic drama is perhaps difficult to visualize. The term itself, coined by author Green, is in his words — "perhaps a bit high falutin'," yet is the most apt appraisal.

The drama will encompass and utilize a number of the art forms. It will tell the story of the pioneers who fought to overcome the difficulties of this area. The story will not be told in play form only — it will be told with music, dancing, acting.

In discussing his first symphonic drama, "The Lost Colony," Green admitted that he was fascinated with the story of the first English sttlers in the new world.

"Roanoke was the first beachead of English civilization on this continent," Green stated, "and like so many first landings, it failed. My play, 'The Lost Colony,' honors the voices, the philosophies and the stories of those perished heroes.

"Here in your Panhandle of Texas there was another great struggle before the land was won. This should be memorialized.

"In all men there is something to outlast both time and change—the glory of the human soul."

Continuing the exposition of one of his major beliefs, Green stated: "We must have the faith and determination to honor those who went before us, just as we can only hope that future generations will keep the same faith with us."

While basically an author, Green is fully aware of the economics of producing one of his symphonic dramas.

"It takes money to put on one of these dramas," Green admitted, "but in the long run they have been great boosters of the economics where they have been presented."

"Back in 1937 Manteo Island was broke. It is now a thriving community."

Perhaps one of the most interesting facets of the symphonic drama is a good answer to persons who feel that a production in Palo Duro State Park is out of the way. Each of the dramas in current production, with the exception in Louisville, Ky., runs in what would be termed "an out of the way," site.

Maurice E. Turner, chairman of the Texas State Parks Board, on a recent visit to Palo Duro State Park pointed out that while state tourist trade has declined 16 per cent since 1957, attendance at the Panhandle park has risen from 95,000 to 150,000 persons.

Success of the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation project can be expected to draw heavily on tourist trade, Turner stated.

Scheduled to run for 60 nights during the summer season, the amphitheater will have a seating capacity for 1,000 persons.

Artesia School Features Nuclear Fallout Shelter

ARTESIA, N. M. (UPI)— One out of every six residents of this southeastern New Mexico town of 12,000 now has an excellent chance to survive a nuclear war.

A $470,000 underground elementary school that can serve as a fallout shelter for 2,100 persons for as long as two weeks was dedicated in Artesia Tuesday.

The school board, which raised $338,000 of the cost with a bond issue, was careful to see that a first-rate school, for 540 pupils, was built in the big hole covered by 21 inches of reinforced, blast-proof concrete.

The school is modern in every respect, from the air conditioning and lighting to cafeteria tables that fold into the walls and classrooms seats that swivel in any direction so teachers can use all four walls for displays.

Federal civil defense funds provided the $132,000 that was needed, over and above conventional construction costs, to make the school a first-rate fallout and blast shelter.

"We hope that it will never be used as a shelter," school Supt. Vernon Mills told the dedication audience of 1,500 persons.

But if there is a nuclear attack —and Artesia is uncomfortably close to such military targets as Atlas missile sites and the White Sands missile range—a few minutes' warning will be enough to rush 2,100 persons to the school.

Sleeping in shifts on stored cots, eating wholesome food and even getting a four-minute shower every day, the lucky one-sixth of Artesia's population will have a reasonable expectation of surviving a nuclear near-miss. And those in the shelter will be all but immune to fallout radiation for as long as two weeks.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Since NBC-TV's new "Mystery Theatre" is a summer show, it is possible that its creators do not keep up on winter happenings, such as protests against unnecessary violence and congressional hearigs.

For example, in its premiere program Wednesday night, we were witness to a heart-warming scene in which a jealous wife (Jan Sterling) ventillates her drunk husband with a bread knife.

This was carried off with outrageous crudeness, but apparently it was not enough for the producers. A little later, we were offered the equally charming vignette of Miss Sterling washing the blood from the knife under a kitchen faucet, which I was not fortunate enough to see in color.

As an added fillip, we were also shown Miss Sterling viewing the stiff at the morgue. In sum, the story — the usual one about the romantic triangle — was brutal yet dull, vulgar, witless and unimaginative, but was otherwise perfect.

The reason Miss Sterling was jealous was that, after reforming her alcoholic spouse and making him a successful writer, he took up with a tramp waitress, who also tipples when she's not toppling.

The writer (Robert Fortier) is irresponsible, inconsiderate and ungrateful; in other words, if he had failed as a writer, he might have been a successful actor.

Unlike entertaining mystery thrillers, such as those by Agatha Christie, Wednesday night's show lacked the glamor, humor and crackling dialogue necessary in such works. In addition, there was no mystery.

We knew who did it, how she did it, and why. It was only a matter of time until she was caught. The waitress (Beverly Garland) was suspected by police, but there was no question that Miss Sterling would be trapped by an eyeglass case she dropped at the scene.

None of the characters was appealing. Miss Sterling played a dowdy matron, Miss Garland a screaming simpleton. And there were drunks all over the place. Not only the husband and Miss Garland, but her court-appointed lawyer too; he came in under the wire as a former drunk. The only justified drinking was by viewers.

I think the writer of the teleplay made his basic error by not knocking off the wife. She was the kind of mate who said, "Where are you going, dear?" and "Don't you want me to come with you?" There was a sort of logic to disposing of her.

Instead, we got the usual cat meowing in a darkened hallway. And, though it embarrasses me to tell you, there was actually a twist of plot in which the wife helps the defense lawyer because, according to the story line, she feels pity for an underdog.

Miss Garland, television's top screamer, was right on key again as she added another role to her portrayals of drunks and basket cases. My fondest dream is to see her and Lee Marvin in a revival of "Maytime."

The Channel Swim: NBC-TV's "Today" show broadcasts from Texas the week of June 25... Robert Goulet, the Dave Brubeck Quartet and former baseball star Ted Williams appear on Ed Sullivan's CBS-TV program Sunday.

NBC-TV, which cancelled Bob Newhart's show, is signing him to an exclusive contract for eight or 10 specials next season and a weekly comedy series the year after... Peace Corps Director R. Sargent Shriver guests on NBC-TV's "Tonight" program Friday.

James Arness, star of CBS-TV's "Gunsmoke," will be grand marshal of the annual rodeo at the El Toro, Calif., Marine base Saturday.

Foreign Trade Prospects Seen As 'Favorable'

By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—The future of the foreign trade of the United States is a much-debated topic in and out of Congress today, and a New York bank has issued a special report indicating there are some favorable prospects ahead.

The report, issued by the economic research department of the chase Manhattan Bank, said that judged from performance in the world market place, the U.S. competitive position is "very strong," and also that it has weakened since the early postwar years.

"European exports have taken a growing share of world markets since the early postwar period, while U.S. (and British) exports have been left with a smaller share," the study found. But it continued:

"How long will our own share of exports continue to slip? An encouraging sign is that most of our European competitors have now regained their prewar share of world markets, while our own position has fallen more closely in line with that of 1937 — before the destruction of World War II distorted world trade patterns. Still, the continued decline in Britain's share shows that there is nothing magical about the 1937 distribution of world export markets.

"Any speculation on future trends calls for a look at some of the components of competitiveness."

The study went on to look into the components; the most important factor often is price, it reported, and one of the things that determines prices in the competitive market is operating cost.

AROUND THE WORLD

MISS FIVE-BY-FIVE—A dwarf Hereford heifer called "Half-Pint," has her measurements taken by Roger Welsh in Rockford, Mich. She looks disgruntled because she is bigger around than she is long. The two-year-old heifer is 31 inches high at the shoulder, 47 inches from head to tail setting and has a girth of 62 inches. Time for a diet?

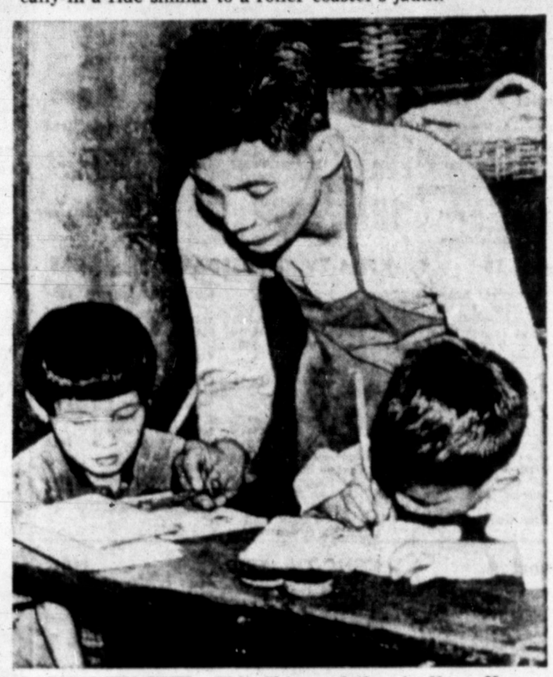

'MAN, WHAT A RIDE'—Bobby Snyder, 3, describes his imaginary trip in orbit around the earth with gusto after a tour of the School Science Fair in Pittsburgh, Pa.

STARLIGHT AND ROSES—Actress Sally Ann Howes wears a headpiece of Royal Highness and Tropicana roses as queen of the amateur rose growers. Miss Howes was named outstanding celebrity rose grower of the year by All-America Rose Selections.

TROLLEY HIGH—Reaching the top of a steep hill in San Francisco, a trolley prepares for the equally steep trip down. The trolley hikes up the steep road almost vertically in a ride similar to a roller coaster's jaunt.

PARENT-TEACHER—This Chinese father in Hong Kong, the British colony of 2,800,000 people, is teaching his young son and daughter to write Chinese characters. Many parents cannot afford to send their children to school, so those parents who can read and write become family teachers.

SLIP SHAPE — A Paris gown which fits sleek to the body contour is reminiscent of the "Thirties" lounging costumes. Narrow shoulder straps and a blousy bodice give the violet wool knit ensemble a chemise look. The ankle length at-home costume is finished with a satin tie belt.

SCALPING—Actor Tony Curtis turned barber behind the scenes of "Taras Bulba," in Salta, Argentina. Everyone had to pitch in and shave the heads of the 10,000 Argentine gauchos (cowboys) who portray Cossack soldiers in the film.

HOOP-DE-LOOP—Brimming over with loops everywhere, this London bonnet features black chenille loops. The wide brim coolie hat is covered with yellow and black tulle.

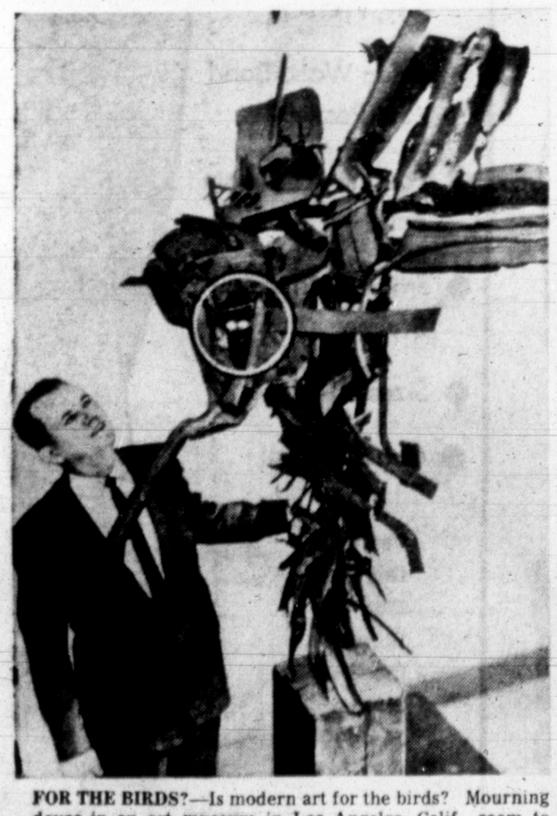

PATCH WORK—This little miss in Columbia, Ill., is not filling her strawberry baskets as fast as Mommy does. Somehow, the berries accidentally fall into her mouth every other time she picks one. This poses a problem of how much to charge for each basket.

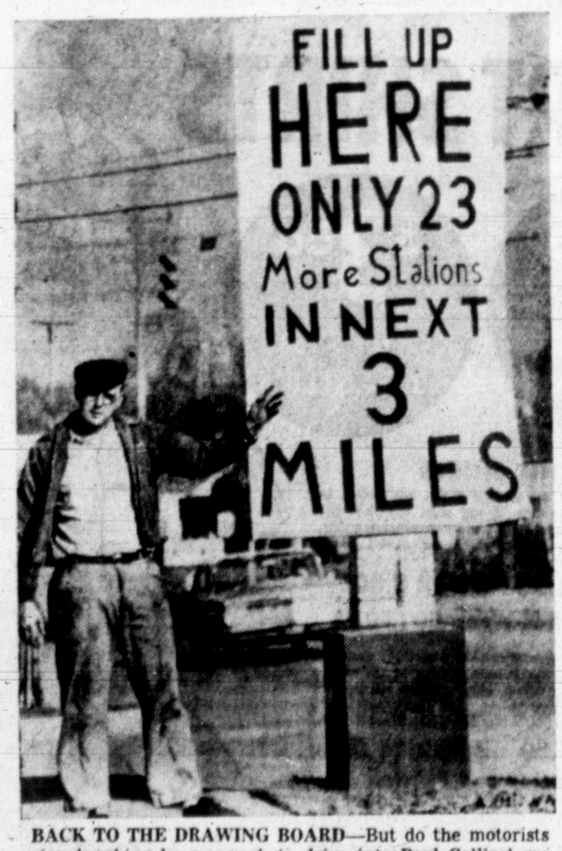

PACKING A TRUNK—The residents of Chessington Zoo in Surrey, England, don't stand on ceremony. The thirsty calf got his head into the pail first and left little room for Candy, the 18-month-old elephant from India. Fortunately, Candy's trunk did the job.

SALAD DAYS—A direct hit is scored on a San Diego State College coed during a water fight on the campus. Working out their pre-final exam aggressions in a school-sanctioned war, 150 students of both sexes joined the dousing fun.

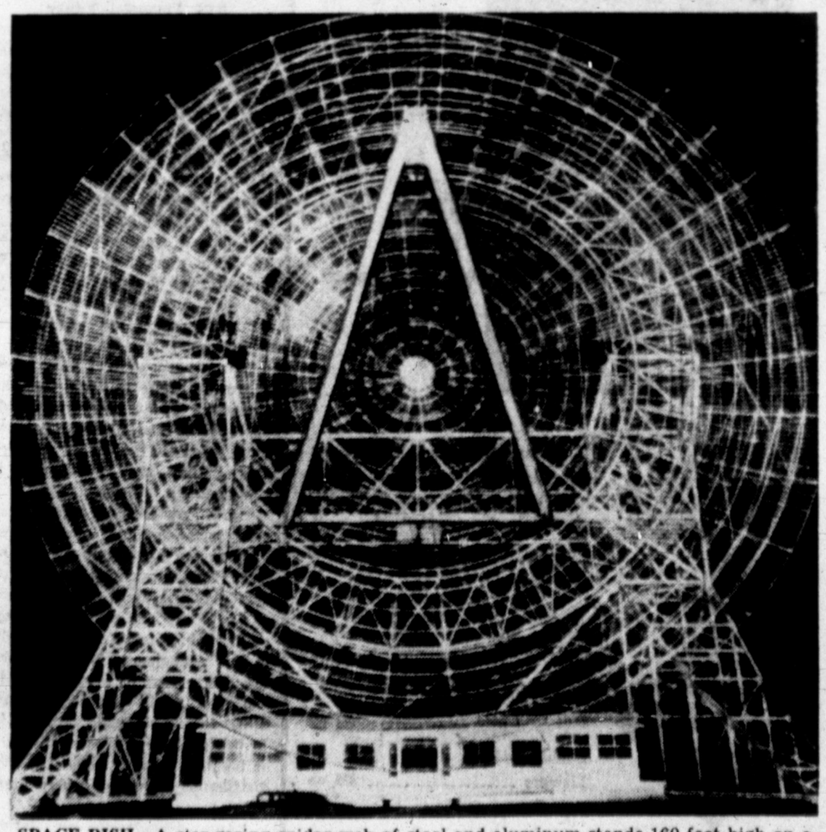

FOR THE BIRDS?—Is modern art for the birds? Mourning doves in an art museum in Los Angeles, Calif., seem to think so. They built a nest and laid eggs (circle) in a scrap metal sculpture called "The Reaper" and abandoned the nest. Kenneth Staeger keeps watch on the eggs.

BACK TO THE DRAWING BOARD—But do the motorists stop laughing long enough to drive into Paul Collins' gas station? The gas station operator in Ravenna, Ohio, with a sense of humor, points up the stiff competition.

SECOND GENERATION — Film fans of the "Forties" will have to take a second look at this young man. He is Robert Walker Jr., the son of Jennifer Jones and the late star Robert Walker Sr. The 22-year-old actor is beginning his movie career.

SPACE DISH—A star-gazing spider web of steel and aluminum stands 160 feet high on a hilltop in Stanford, Calif., ready for radar astronomy research. The radio telescope dish will explore the sun, moon, planets and interplanetary gases with a 400-KW radar probe. The building at the bottom contains controls, workshops and offices.

Dear Abby....

Teenage Girl Is 'Slightly' Mis-Guided

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am not the type to start trouble, but a girl (about 14) should be talked to, and I don't know how to go about it.

I got a telephone call one afternoon from a girl who asked, "Is your husband home?" (I've been a widow for three years.) I replied, "No, he isn't."

Then she said, "Tell him Sylvia called to thank him for the flowers." Then she hung up.

A friend of mine told me that she had a similar call, only the girl said, "Tell him Ruth called to thank him for the candy." (My friend's husband is living.) A neighbor of mine told me there is a teenaged girl in the neighborhood who has been known to pick any name out of the telephone book and make calls like this just to start trouble. What should I do if anything?

ANNOYED

DEAR ANNOYED: Report your experience and that of your friend to the telephone company, giving all details. They will keep the information confidential while putting a stop to the misuse of the telephones.

DEAR ABBY: How do you get people to go home? I have to get up at 6 in the morning to go to work six days a week and some of the people who visit us in the evening do not have enough sense to leave at a reasonable hour—say around 12 o'clock. Should I start throwing hints about how early morning comes? My wife says this is rude. Please give me some ideas on this.

EARLY RISER

DEAR EARLY: People who NEED hints wouldn't know a hint if it came up and hit them in the eye. When you feel that the evening should end (say about 12 o'clock) tell your guests quite frankly that you are an early riser and need your rest. Then go to bed.

DEAR ABBY: Can a man who has a legal separation in one state get married legally in another state? I don't think he can, but he says yes.

ABBY FAN

DEAR FAN: A legal separation is only a separation, not a divorce. One who is only thus separated CANNOT marry anywhere!

How's the world treating you? For a personal unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Miss Judi Johnson Presides For 4-H Club Meeting

The Top O' Texas Community 4-H Club met recently at the Court House Annex. Miss Judi Johnson presided over the meeting in the absence of the officers. The pledge to the flag was led by Bill Skaggs. Miss Cynthia Hogsett reported on the recently completed course in money management that some of the girls had taken. She said that the girls kept daily records of money received and spent. They made a plan to buy something special and saved their money for it. They took a field trip to a local department store where one of the personel explained how to purchase gloves, hose and purses. Miss Hogsett and Miss Sandra Searl were awarded a 4-H Club pin for completing the course, by their leader Mrs. Derrel Hogsett.

Mr. Robert McCann reported that the 4-H Rifle Team placed fourth in the State 4-H Club competition. Keith McCann placed second in the individual shooting with a score of 368 out of a possible 400. Members of the rifle team were: Keith McCann, Richard Wilker, Robert Brodgen and Monty Brodgen. He presented Miss Judi Johnson and Miss Cynthia Hogsett, Jim Reeves and Lenord Taylor with a certificate and badge for completing their promarksman requirements in rifle shooting.

Mr. Regier anounced that the Farm Management team placed sixth in the state competition.

Mr. Melvin Jaroe showed a film entitled "Man Enough For the Job" that showed how a boy became an active 4-H Club member.

The next meeting will be June 9.

TO BE JUNE BRIDE — Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Bennett, 1152 Huff Road, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Barbara, to Rex Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Taylor, Groom, Tex. The wedding is planned for the last of June in the First Baptist Church.

Lefors Senior Citizens Are Honored With Hillbilly Party

LEFORS (Spl) — The Senior Citizens of Lefors were honored with a hillbilly theme party in the Civic Center, June 7.

Doyle Harris and Andy Stewart provided entertainment of piano, guitar and fiddle selections.

Mr. Harris was the preacher for a hillbilly wedding. Dressed in a black suit, he wore a yellow tie and an old, turned-down brim hat with a green belt tied around it.

The bride, Mrs. Jeff Stubblefield, wore a summer green frock and an ankle length veil made from a white curtain. Mrs. Charles Roberts, the bridegroom, dressed in an old pair of baggy pants and shirt. She tied a black scarf around her head under her hillbilly hat.

Mrs. H. L. Tell, father of the bride, carried a shotgun and dressed in a hat, baggy pants and western coat. Mrs. O. O. Bishop, mother of the bride, was attired in a white shawl and bonnett.

Mr. Stewart played the traditional wedding march. Mrs. H. L. Teel, Mr. Stewart and Mr. Harris sang "Mountain Dew."

Mrs. Abby Izard, ring bearer, carried fruit jar rings. Mrs. Mary Johnston carried the jug for the preacher.

Senior Citizens played dominoes and checkers. Mrs. D. M. Jones and Mrs. Izard won the two door prizes, donated by Mrs. Jeff Davis.

Mrs. Harris registered the guests. The Opti-Mrs. Mmes. Jimmy Pennington, Francis Cox, and Dewey Robbins, served refreshments. Baptist Church Junior Girls' Auxiliary were the clean-up committee.

Attending the party were Mmes. Grace Darnell, Sally Hughes, Minnie Guthrie, Stella Alderson, Mildred Kensey, Mary Johnston, Fannie Merideth, Weese, Leniger, Mary Porterfield, B. J. Diehl, Izard, Cora Harding, Mr. and Mrs. Burl Davis, Mr. McAnich, Stracner, Ed Crutcher, Bishop, Jones and C. R. Barnett.

Another sign of growing old is when the future gets here quicker than it used to.

Better Keep Husband's Faults To Yourself!

Before you start letting down your hair because the other women in the group are letting down theirs just remember—

That if you refuse to discuss your husband's faults your friends aren't going to be sure he has any.

That your children wouldn't confide in you if they had any idea you might repeat their confidences to your women friends.

That anything you say against your in-laws is showing disloyalty to your husband.

That anything you say against a woman who isn't present has a very good chance of getting back to her.

That any gossip you pass along will keep right on travelling — and will probably grow like a snowball as it rolls along.

That you can violate a confidence even if the person who told you what you are about to repeat didn't swear you to secrecy. (The person could have assumed you would know enough to keep the information to yourself.)

That the less said about your husband's business affairs the better.

That discussing your children's faults and shortcomings isn't fair to them.

That you had better keep to yourself anything you have to preface with, "There may not be any truth in this at all but. . ." or "I wouldn't want this to go any further but. . ."

If you remember all these things you may not add much spice to the conversation. But at least you won't have anything to regret later. For whenever a woman lets her hair down in a group of women—she usually wishes she hadn't.

In the 1920's, the commercial manufacturing of mayonaise and salad dressings began in volume — from a modest beginning of twelve jars in 1907 placed on a grocery counter, the industry has become a giant. The U.S Department of Commerce estimated that in 1960 the volume was 137,000,000 gallons, with a total value of $244,100,000.

★ Polly's Quiz ★

By Polly Cramer

New curtains should look new. The woman who has to watch her pennies and can't sew a straight seam may think she can't win this new curtain game. Some of her friends either can have their curtains custom-made or stitch up smart things themselves.

Ready-mades, used with imagination, can make her the winner. The living room picture window may require three pairs of pleated-at-the-top draperies. Suppose they are to be gold. Then buy three blending shades of gold, one pair of each. Hang the two palest curtains in the center. Then comes the next deeper shade, one at either side of the center pale ones. The two outer panels will be the deepest color and the whole a delightful ombre striped effect. Contrasting colors could be combined for more striking striped effects.

Anyone who can thread a needle can sew braid or tasseled fringe to ready-mades, either across the bottom of each, at the top of the hem and then beneath the top heading or down each inside edge of a pair of curtains. Rather than always having ready-mades hanging straight to the floor, catch them back at either side with unusual tiebacks. Readymades can look like custommades.

Dear Polly: I have painted my bedroom furniture black and added big gold knobs. The new carpet is aqua. Where do I go from here? Want to change walls, bedspread and curtains. I thought I could use two big pads on a nice cedar chest but what color for these?—Mrs. R. D.

Dear Mrs. R. D.: I would paint the cedar chest black like the rest of the furniture. Gold and aqua (one of each) pads would look smart on the top. Walls could be off-white and the ceiling aqua to repeat carpet color. Curtains and tailered bedspread could be made of gold and white striped polished cotton.

Dear Polly: Please help me with a color problem. We are retired so you will need to know that fact in choosing colors. Walls, ceiling, curtains and rugs are all in shades of beige and tan. Couch is gray, one chair plain bright green, another deep red and another is green with white background fabric. Natural woodwork too good a quality to paint. Room has no charm and is so cut and dried it haunts me.—Mrs. H. R. P.

Dear Mrs. H. R. P.: Being retired should have nothing to do with your choice of colors other than perhaps the need for some gaiety because you are probably spending more time at home in your own living room. Do paint the walls off-white including that good woodwork. Slip cover the sofa and the green and white print chair with a gay flowered print. This print could have red, blue, yellow and perhaps some turquoise flowers and green leaves on an off-white ground. Add some growing plants, books, magazines and nice picture groupings on the wall. It surely should be a more pleasant place to spend your newly found leisure.

Dear Reader: A heavy volume of mail doesn't permit Mrs. Cramer to answer her letters and post cards individually. But she will comment in her column on decorating problems of general interest. She cannot undertake to return floor plans or fabric swatches which are enclosed with letters.

YOUR FRIENDS will forget about the warm weather when you serve refreshing iced tea with prune pineapple tart.

Beat The Heat With Tea 'N Tarts

On warm afternoons when friends gather, try this combination of iced tea with prune - pineapple tarts. Your friends will forget to talk about the weather.

Make the tea for iced tea extra strong to allow for melting ice. Use 50 per cent more tea than you would for hot tea. To prepare a big pitcherful, use this simple open saucepan method. It makes 2 quarts.

1. Bring 1 quart of freshly drawn cold water to a full rolling boil in a saucepan.
2. Remove from the heat and immediately add 1-3 cup of loose tea or 15 tea bags.
3. Brew for 5 minutes.
4. Then stir and strain into a pitcher holding an additional quart of cold water.

Keep the tea at room temperature until you are ready to serve, then pour it over ice in tall glasses. Don't put the iced tea in the refrigerator.

PRUNE-PINEAPPLE TARTS
(Makes 6 to 7 tarts)

- 1½ cups plumped, chopped prunes
- ¾ cup (8¾-ounce can, drained) pineapple tidbits
- ½ cup brown sugar
- ¼ cup prune juice (from plumped prunes)
- ¼ cup pineapple syrup
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- ¼ teaspoon cloves
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 6 or 7 3¾ inch individual baked tart shells

Combine prunes, pineapple, sugar, prune juice, pineapple syrup, cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves. Blend cornstarch in a little cold water; add. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Spoon into tart shells. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) for 10 to 12 minutes, or until brown. Garnish with mandarin orange sections, if desired.

HOYLAKE, England (UPI) — Richard Davies of Pasadena, Calif., became the only American to advance to the fifth round of the British Amateur golf championship today when he beat Peter Flaherty of Ireland, 6 and 4, as fellow Yanks Robert Sweeny and Pat Brady were eliminated.

Sweeny, former champion from New York, rated America's best hope for the title, took a 6 and 4 drubbing from David Palmer of England, Brady, of Reidsville, N. C., bowed to Jackie Taylor of England, 2 and 1.

The fifth round was scheduled this afternoon with winners advancing to the quarter-finals Friday.

Palmer Favored To Win Open Starting Today

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI) — Favored Arnold Palmer, feeling "100 per cent" mentally and physically, went out after the second leg of a new golfing grand slam today as a field of 150 teed off in the first round of the U.S. Open championship.

If he adds the Open title to his Masters crown — and he's the 5-1 betting choice to do it—it will leave him needing the British Open and PGA championships to round out the greatest golfing feat since Bobby Jones' slam in 1931.

Jones won the only four major titles available to an amateur—the U.S. and British opens and the U.S. and British amateurs. No professional ever has won the four big ones they are eligible for, but Palmer promises that he will try for them "so long as I play the game."

Winning this second leg isn't going to be easy, although Palmer got a big assist Wednesday when rain washed out the final practice rounds scheduled for the tournament at Oakmont Country Club course. It kept some of the leading contenders, including defending champion Gene Littler, from getting in a much needed test run.

Most of the others in the field spent an hour or so on the practice tee before officials decided to close the course because of the rain to guard against damage to the greens and fairways.

"Losing that practice round will hurt quite a few of us," Littler complained. "I only played 27 holes here on Tuesday and that isn't nearly enough to learn what you need to know about this exacting course."

Palmer wasn't at all downcast.

"I'm in a wonderful mental attitude and feel perfect after the cold and other ailments I suffered the past two weeks," Palmer said.

He pulled out the last of three stitches which were needed to close a slight cut on the third finger of his left hand and pronounced it "fine and dandy."

"It shouldn't give me any trouble," he added. "I'll use a Band Aid on it and I shouldn't even know it's there."

While most of the golfers figured Littler would be hurt because he did not get in enough practice here after winning the $25,000 first place money in the Thunderbird Open last Sunday, there were others who differed.

"Sometimes what you don't know, don't hurt you," observed Ed Furgol, one of six former Open champions in the field. He pointed to little Gary Player, the chief foreign threat in the field, as an example.

"He was talking in the locker room with Gardner Dickinson," Furgol said, "when Gardner asked him how he felt about the out of bounds on the right of the 18th fairway. It's the first that Gary, who has played this course several times, knew there was an out of bounds on that hole."

Furgol also predicted that the lack of knowledge on the difficult Oakmont greens would not hurt Littler.

"Any one who could putt on those rough Thunderbird greens won't have any trouble here," he insisted.

Although the rain let up late Wednesday afternoon, scattered thunder showers were forecast for today's first round.

President John Winters of the United States Golf Association said he expected a lot of delay and trouble unless the course dries up.

"We are going to have to make a lot of rules on embedded balls unless the course dries up," Winters pointed out. "There are a lot of soft spots on the fairways that will call for rulings and it will slow up play."

The field of 129 professionals and 21 amateurs, is scheduled to start teeing off at 8 a.m. EDT, playing in towsomes at six minute intervals.

First off the tee will be Dick Whetzle of Pikesville, Md., and Leo Biagetti of Ashland, Ohio.

Furol will play with former Masters champion Claude Harmon at 3:30 p.m.

Littler and Mike Souchak are scheduled to start at 10 a.m. while Palmer, who won the Open in 1960, goes off with one of the leading contenders, Jack Nicklaus, at 1 p.m.

The other three former Open champions in the field are Cary Middlecoff, a two-time winner; Tommy Bolt and Billy Casper.

Middlecoff plays with Art Wall at 11 a.m. and Casper with Jay Hebert at 2 p.m. Bolt was scheduled to play with Dow Finsterwald at 9 a.m., but Finsterwald withdrew Wednesday night because of the death of his father.

Sammy Snead, who has just turned 50 and is trying for the 22nd time to win the only big golfing title that has eluded him, will play with Lionel Hebert at 9:30 a.m.

Another 18 hole round will be played Friday with the low 50 and ties qualifying for the final two rounds of play on Saturday.

Belinsky Is Real Romeo Off Mound

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Bo (No Hit) Belinsky, the Los Angeles Angels' merry-making moundsman who cruises the streets of Hollywood in his red Cadillac convertible, is gaining himself as big a reputation for his pre-dawn dallying as for his pitching prowess.

The 25-year-old rookie hurler wowed the sports world earlier in the season with a no-hit game against the Baltimore Orioles, and since then has made quite a name for himself with his extra-curricular escapades that include dating movieland starlets Ann-Margret and Connie Stevens.

His latest ante-meridian antic exploded Wednesday when he and fellow Angel rookie, Dean Chance, got involved in a yelling feud with their two female companions as they returned from a farewell party for Eddie Fisher.

The caper, which cost both an estimated $250 fine by the Angel bigwigs, was reported by a Beverly Hills police officer who said he came upon Belinsky pulling a woman into the seat of the flashy convertible at 5:15 a.m.

Officer B. E. Gruenzel said he approached the car and the woman, later identified as Gloria Eves, 33, yelled, "He beat me up." She pointed to a cut on her head that later required stitches to close.

When tempers subsided it was explained that Belinsky and Chance were returning with the women, the other identified as Brigett Whitaker, also 33, to the Ambassador Hotel, where the party started after Fisher's Cocoanut Grove appearance.

Belinsky explained that they got into an argument and he stopped his car and told Miss Eves to get out and take a cab.

He said, and she later concurred, that she was cut accidentally when a minor scuffle ensued in the car.

There was no legal consequence of the incident as no arrests were made and no complaints filed, but both Belinsky and Chance drew more than raised eyebrows from the Angel management who slapped them with fines, but declined to make public the amount.

Informed of the southpaw's post-party entanglements, Fisher said, "I'm shocked to hear what happened. I think someone should talk to Bo and give him some good advice."

Former Grid Mentor Dies

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Art (Pappy) Lewis, who led West Virginia University into its so-called "golden years" of football and then resigned under the pressure of two consecutive losing seasons, died here Wednesday night.

Lewis, head scout for the National Football League's Pittsburgh Steelers at the time of his death, suffered a heart attack on June 4 and was in critical condition most of the time thereafter.

Lewis, a native of Carrollton, Ohio, went to WVU in 1950 to succeed Dudley DeGroot as head grid mentor. Under Lewis' tutelage, Mountaineer footballers won 58 games, lost 32 and tied two.

His teams of the early and mid-50's gained national ranking and the 1953 squad went to the Sugar Bowl where it was defeated by Georgia Tech. The bowl squad produced some of the all time greats in WVU grid history, among them Sam Huff, Bruce Bosley and Joe Marconi, still active in the NFL.

Lewis, a graduate of Ohio University where he gained Little All-American honors as a tackle went on to play pro ball with the New York Giants and the Cleveland Rams, where he was head coach in 1938. He later coached at Washington & Lee and was line tutor at Mississippi State when he was tapped for the head spot at WVU.

Gene Corum, a long time assistant who succeeded Lewis when Art resigned at West Virginia in 1960, said of his former boss:

"He had a multitude of friends . . . he did an awful lot for football here at WVU. There never will be anybody just like him . . ."

Purkey, Koufax, Gibson Turn In Pitching Gems

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

Who says pitching is a lost art in this era of the rabbit baseball and the long tapered bat?

Not National League sluggers, who have been flailing away at the breeze attempting to hit Cincinati's Bob Purkey, Los Angeles' Sandy Koufax and St. Louis' Bob Gibson this year.

All three seem headed for their best seasons and all three took impressive steps toward their common goal Wednesday night when the hitters acted as if Commissioner Ford Frick had secretly approved a return of 1910-vintage baseballs to the NL.

Purkey, a hero in Cincinnati's losing 1961 World Series effort, pitched a no-hitter for 6 2-3 innings and wound up with a three-hit, 5-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants; Koufax, who set a league record of 269 strikeouts last season, fired a three-hitter to give the Dodgers a 2-1 win over the Milwaukee Braves, and Gibson, 13-12 in 1961, fanned 12 in the Cardinals' 6-1 win over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Purkey raised his record to a glittering 11-1, Koufax now has a 9-2 mark and Gibson sports an 8-4 slate. NL Manager Fred Hutchinson could do a lot worse than simply naming those three to face the American League in the July 10 All-Star game in Washington, D.C.

Gordie Coleman drove in two runs with his 10th home run and a single to lead the Reds' nine-hit attack that knocked the Giants two full games behind the first-place Dodgers. Koufax, rated one of the worst hitters in baseball history, hit the first homer of his career to beat Warren Spahn and the Braves. And red-hot rookie first-baseman Fred Whitfield drove in two runs with a single and double to lead the Cardinals to their ninth win in their last 10 games.

The Pittsburgh Pirates shaded the Chicago Cubs, 6-4, in the only other NL game. In the American League, the Cleveland Indians won, 4-1, after losing to the Washington Senators, 4-2, the Kansas City Athletics defeated the Chicago White Sox, 4-3, the Boston Red Sox beat the Baltimore Orioles, 2-0, and the Minnesota Twins topped the Los Angeles Angels, 4-2.

Elroy Face pitched the last 1 1-3 innings for the Pirates to protect Al McBean's sixth win. Bill Virdon hit a three-run homer off Cal Koonce to give the Pirates a 5-3 lead in the sixth inning while Billy Williams homered for the Cubs.

Homers by Ken Retzer and Joe Hicks featured the Senators' fifth straight win in the opener of their twi-nighter but Dick Donovan gained his ninth triumph for Cleveland in the nightcap on the wings of Johny Romano's three-run homer.

Run-scorings singles by Jose Tartabull and Gino. Cimoli and Dick Howser's 17th and 18th steals of the season enabled the Athletics to beat the White Sox for the seventh time in 10 tries. Ed Rakow received credit for his fifth win with the relief aid of Gordon Jones.

Don Schwall, 1961 rookie of the year in the AL, who started Wednesday night with a 1-7 mark, pitched a two-hitter for the Red Sox against the Orioles. The Red Sox scored single runs in the second through the fifth innings on sacrifice flys by Bob Tillman and Carl Yastrzemski and run-producing hits by Eddie Bressoud and Frank Malzone.

Havlicek Forsakes Cage Career For Grid Venture

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — John Havlicek, an All-America basketball player at Ohio State, left the sports world buzzing by deciding Wednesday to make his professional career with the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League.

The muscular athlete had received offers from four major league baseball teams and from the champions of two professional basketball leagues — the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association and the Cleveland Pipers of the American Basketball League.

He was the first draft choice of both teams. "Hondo" was the seventh draft choice of the Browns in a move that caught the league by surprise. He played no football in college.

His explanation of the jump from basketball to football:

"I wanted to know if I can do it. I've always been optimistic and I think I can. It has been a challenge to me ever since the Browns drafted me."

Contract terms were withheld, but Havlicek's attorney, Robert Edwards, said it was a standard NFL agreement. It does not contain a no-cut provision. Browns officials said he will have to make it as all other rookies do.

Turkey Marketing Order Another 'Foot-In-Door?'

Turkey producers who are eligible to vote in the June 18-22 referendum on the proposed national marketing order for turkeys should study the issues involved before casting their vote. Their vote could have repercussions which would affect not only the turkey industry, but eventually all other agriculture commodities.

Marketing orders are authorized by the Agricultural Marketing Agreements Act of 1937. Heretofore, only regional marketing orders, principally involving milk, fruits and vegetables have been in effect. Many believe that the proposed turkey order, if approved by two-thirds of the eligible producers or two-thirds of the volume represented by those voting, would be a "foot-in the-door" action which would open the way for government control of all agricultural commodities.

A marketing order is, in effect, a government-sponsored monopoly. As such, the Secretary of Agriculture has unlimited powers in administering or changing the order. For example, if producers desire to terminate an order, they must first obtain the permission of the Secretary to call a referendum. Then, a majority (over 50 per cent) of all producers of a given commodity representing over 50 per cent of all production must vote in favor of termination before they can get rid of it.

There are many more pitfalls growers should know about before casting their vote. Penalties for violation of the order are sometimes very severe. An order can be amended by the Secretary of Agriculture with or without the consent of producers. Regulations are, in effect, written by the Secretary. Associations can be permitted to bloc vote their membership with or without the consent of their members. All costs, except for USDA supervision, are collected from handlers who pass this on to producers. All producers of a commodity under an order, regardless of whether or not they are exempted because of size, would have to keep records.

Exemption for small producers actually means that all producers are eventually leveled to approximately the same level. Black market operations would be encouraged. As production is reduced producers would shift to production of other agricultural commodities, thus affecting them, too. Consumers would pay more, but producers would not necessarily gain since production rights would be rationed.

These are some of the things producers should keep in mind before voting in the turkey referendum June 18-22.

Strange Interpretation

When Khrushchev denounces profit and excercises control over all business in Russia, we moan and commiserate with the Russian people. When Kennedy denounces profit and excercises control over American businessmen, we say this is a demonstration of the glories of Democracy.

Year For Republicans?

Is the climate of opinion in the United States shifting against President Kennedy and the Democratic party?

Some reasonably cautious Republican leaders about the country think it is. They say voters in many places are unhappy over the jolts to the stock market, the President's handling of the steel price dispute, the Billie Sol Estes scandal, and the Communist advances in Laos.

These observations nevertheless have to be tempered somewhat. Some contrary reports exist, of course. And we do not yet have too much evidence on these issues from the pollsters' scientific samples.

Primary election results up to now do not offer a great deal of help. Republicans running for governorship nominations in Pennsylvania and Ohio piled up good scores as compared with rival Democratic bidders. But these were not in fact interparty races, and such comparisons are frequently misleading.

Those GOP leaders who argue that they are "getting a break in the climate" do not, however, proceed from this to extravagant claims in the 1962 general elections.

Party officials today are making just about the same forecasts they made six months ago. They predict a November pickup of five or six governors, a similar number of U.S. senators, perhaps 20 to 25 U.S. House seats.

The difference seems to be that, with headlines dominated by issues they think going favorably for them, Republicans are offering their 1962 predictions with much more conviction than before.

Observers outside politics are perhaps no better equipped than insiders to gauge how fully such new conviction is justified. Issues often shift rapidly, and local factors bulk large in elections for governor and Congress.

History appears to provide no consistent comfort to the party which sees itself winning a flock of special off-year elections, as Republicans have been doing since 1960 in contests for mayor, state legislatures and the like.

Sometimes this is a sign of things to come, sometimes it is not.

More than two decades ago, Republicans won a series of special congressional battles, only to bow to Franklin D. Roosvelt for the third straight time in 1940 — with a loss of congressonal seats.

Between 1954 and 1956, Democrats broke into many GOP local and county strongholds, but in the latter year Dwight Eisenhower swept the boards bigger than in 1952. Yet Democratic gains in 1953 foretold even larger advances the following year.

Any party worth its salt hopes to capitalize on the mistakes and the distress of its opposition. But short of the actual November results, it can have no assurance this will happen.

By Neal O'Hara

Hey, girls: Some of the better beauty salons now take photographs on the spot of front and back views of a customer's just-finished hair styling, with the pictures indexed and filed. That's so, the next time the customer comes, she can specify she wishes the same styling again, or perhaps with specific modifications . . . Bargain: The nation's oldest and richest college is named Harvard because a young English-born minister, John Harvard, who died in a Boston suburb in 1638 left to a fledgling institution 320 books of his library and 779 pounds, 17 shillings and twopence the equivalent of about $2,183 today.

Headline in the Vancouver Sun: "Fish Not Licked On Stamp Front." . . . Canada may presently be taking its fiscal setbacks, but it still ranks first in the world in the production of newsprint, nickel, asbestos and platinum; second in the world's output of gold, aluminum, uranium, zinc, and hydro-electric power.

Today's favorite gag: A widow attached the following note to one of the many forms she had filled out for the insurance company: "You have asked me to fill out so many proofs of claim, and I've had so much trouble getting my money, I sometimes wish my husband hadn't died." . . . A panel of architects on home building points out that a common planning mistake of home owners is spacing windows without regard for placement of beds. Seven feet of unbroken wall space is required for a double bed. And also to be borne in mind is the proper circulation of air, and prevention of sleeping in drafts.

The ordinary cash register is gradually being replaced by a mechinical system which does all the calculations for the sales person, produces a printed sales slip, and electronically checks the buyer's credit record. The system is so developed that if a customer is delinquent in his store payments, a light is flashed.

Thoughts while shaving: 1. President Kennedy is the first chief executive whom the television audience has ever seen deliver an important speech without first putting on eyeglasses. Eisenhower, Truman and Franklin Roosevelt all had to take out their specs to read the manuscript before them. (There was no TV before FDR.) . . . 2. While we're on the subject: It's an axiom of television that if a show has run successfully on a network for at least three years it can go and on, so far as reruns are concerned. The long original run has these two factors in its favor: There is a sufficient backlog of episodes, and the show's appeal has definitely been tested. . . . 3. Igor Stravinsky, who has not been in Russia since the days of Czar Nicholas and has lived in the U.S. since 1939, has been cordially invited there for a cultural exchange, and the great composer has accepted. This is another item of de-Stalinization, for good old Joe had always denounced Stravinsky's music as "bourgeois and corrupt." . . . 4. Many of the betetr quality of men's felt and straw hats still have a thin cord attached around the rim, one end of which can be inserted in the coat lapel to prevent the hat from blowing away. Yet how long has it been since you've seen a man take such a precaution?

The American Way

TWO SYSTEMS

By Rosalie M. Gordon

One of the strangest phenomena to close observers of the world scene today is the policy in official United States quarters of constantly negotiating with and even making concessions to the Soviet Union. These observers think this very strange because we thus play the game of an adversary who is actually our inferior, despite all his propaganda to the contrary. They believe that the one thing the Soviet slave empire cannot risk is open warfare, that it must continue to win as it has in the past —by inducing the West to give it its victories. But the "either-or" complex prevalent in many American minds — either negotiate or face nuclear war — comes in very handy for the Reds as a way to build in the minds of the West a picture of a strong, progressive and rapidly growing communist system. The facts, which unfortunately are not dramatic enough to make the front pages, show this to be a highly distorted picture.

For example, Dr. G. Warren Nutter of the University of Virginia, an expert on Soviet economics, recently completed a study for the National Bureau of Economic Research. His general conclusion was this: If Soviet Russia maintains its present rate of growth, it could not overtake American industrial output for another 23 years. But — and it is a big but — it can do this only if it can maintain its present rate of growth, and Dr. Nutter found there are already many signs of a slackening in this growth. In actual value of production, Communist Russia has been falling behind the U.S.

It is the firm conviction of many other experts in this field that by its very nature it is impossible for a communist system to out-produce a free captalist system. In the single area of food, for instance, Russia is one of the greatest agricultural countries in the world. Yet after 45 years of communism it still cannot feed its people adequately and the Kremlin leaders must constantly —as they did again only recently — berate their agricultural commissars to produce more.

The fact that the free capitalist system can always provide the abundance and security which a socialist system like communism promises but can never produce is dawning on a great many average Americans. This may explain the somewhat delayed but nonetheless deep shock displayed in many quarters about the administration's war on our free enterprise system which was spearheaded by the President's famous attack on the steel industry. Certainly there is something ironic in building tremendous and necessary military esablishments to resist communist aggression and at the same time making war on the system which not only provides the taxes for the sinews of defense, but is the greatest possible protection aganst the bare subsistence of socialist communism.

It was interesting to note, too, a somewhat ambivalent attitude on this subject by young Attorney-General Bobby Kennedy. He old a meeting of newspaper publishers last month that he was concerned about the image of American capitalism abroad — that other peoples often thought of us as "a selfsh system of government, that we are interested only in ourselves." He thought this could be corrected—while he himself was using the Justice Department to implement his brother's war on American business — by sending cabinet officers, professors, musicians and others around the world. Naturally, this raised the question of what kind of cabinet officers, professors and musicians? The Harvard brand of professor, perhaps, who is so busy in Wahington with leftist theories to weaken capitalism? The Orville Freemen brand of cabinet officer who is busy winding more government redtape around American agriculture? The type of left-wing musician who is invited to entertain at the White House?

But seriously, is it not time — after pouring out nearly a hundred billion dollars of our substance to the world at large — that we realized that we will never make all the peoples of the earth love our system of economic life? All we can ask is that they respect it, as they did for nearly 150 years when we were "interested only in ourselves" to the extent that we were building here the freest and the most abundant system on earth and, incidentally, the one to which other nations always turned when they were in trouble.

Farm Dept. Tightens Reins In Wake Of The Estes Case

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA)—A new inspector general's bureau is going to be set up in the Department of Agriculture to prevent repetitions of Billie Sol Estes case operations.

This may sound like locking the werehouse after the wheat, cotton and or liquid fertilizer have been removed. But so far, department spokesmen are sticking to the story that the government itself has lost no money in dealing with the Texas high financier and has even slapped fines on him.

The same thing cannot be said for Texas investors in Estes' get-rich - quick schemes, and that's the rub.

Department of Agriculture attorneys, confident that they had a tight case, did not move in as fast as they could have. The fact that 3,000 acres of cotton allotments were being transferred in one area should have run up a red flag of warning, it is now admitted in hindsight.

If an investigative crew had been sent into Texas earlier, the Texas farmers who also are clients of the Department of Agriculture might have been saved from some of the losses they sustained after dealing with the Estes high pressure sales force and smart lawyers.

One corrective action that has already been taken is an order that hereafter no allotments can be transferred without national, rather than state office approval.

One old saw around Department of Agriculture is that, "the last secretary who was able to run the department was Henry Wallace the First." That was back in Harding's administration, 40 years ago. Since that time the department has become so big and complex that "it runs the secretary."

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, determined to change this situation, says, "I'm going to run this show and it's not going to run me."

In the past year he has concentrated on getting a new farm program put together for the Kennedy administration and getting a new farm bill through Congress.

He has traveled all over the United States, talked at hundreds of meetings to sell this legislation to farmers. It has gone farther than many people thought possible.

The Senate has approved main provisions of the bill with only minor amendments — killing only the dairy program. Comparable House action is anticipated.

In this time - consuming effort to accomplish this much, the secretary feels that he has not been able to dig into denartmental administration as much as he should have.

That is to be his next major project. And the setting up of an investigative staff, reporting directly to the secretary, is to be the first step.

This may be the first good to come from the Estes case.

Having received a rough political hazing while governor of Minnesota, Freeman boasts, "I've always been tough. Any question of discipline will be reviewed here."

He insists that so far he has found no evidence of favoritism being shown anyone. He has talked personally with Texas Attorney General Will Wilson and received assurances he has no evidence of other federal employes being involved than the three already dismissed. But there are rumors all over Washington that higher - ups will soon be implicated.

The political overtones are obvious. Republican National Committee chairman William E. Miller says the Estes affair is an issue with which the GOP can pound the Democrats.

"Bobby Kennedy controls the FBI and holds the keys to the jail," he says. "Democrats control both congressional investigating committees in a monopoly. We may never be able to get full disclosure."

The Democratic pitch is to turn the story around by taking credit for bringing to light every detail of the Estes operations and then trying to put the blame on Eisenhower administration officials. That's politics.

Mrs. Kennedy Again Expecting? — Several Clues Give Weight to Belief

ROBERT ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Intimates of President and Mrs. Kennedy are convinced they are on the track of an exciting White House secret — that the First Lady is expecting again.

The close friends admit their belief is predicated on an assortment of assumptions. But they consider them well-founded. Significantly, while members of the presidential staff are professing ignorance, they don't deny this joyous possibility. They merely claim to know nothing about it.

Bases of the White House intimates' theory that Mrs. Kennedy is having another baby are:

—Inside word that she consults a leading gynecologist on her frequent trips to New York for the announced purpose of visiting her ailing father-in-law, former Ambassador Joseph Kennedy, who is undergoing rehabilitation for a severe stroke. According to some of the close friends, these hospital visits are also being used to divert attention from her own medical consultations.

—A report reputedly originating from a family source, but not wholly verified, that the First Lady has already ordered her pregnancy wardrobe.

—Certain personal indications claimed to have been noted by women who have seen Mrs. Kennedy with some frequency in recent weeks.

—Halt of all talk about the First Lady's taking an active part in this year's crucial congressional elections. Some months ago, the Democratic National Committee spread a report that she contemplated joining in her husband's fall campaigning. But now, no one around the Committee professes to know anything about that.

—The President's cryptic reply to a foreign visitor who inquired about his family, "They're fine. Growing and expanding — we hope."

Mrs. Kennedy, 32, has always stressed that her official role is second to being a wife and mother.

John, Jr., brother of Caroline, was born on Thanksgiving Day 1960, by Caesarian section. According to a relative, the President and First Lady not long ago indicated they would like to have another son.

FROM THE HORSE'S MOUTH — Yugoslav Foreign Minister Koca Popovic's visit to Washington had a lot to do with the Senate's surprise enactment of restrictions on more economic and military aid to his Communist regime.

Popovic himself triggered this crackdown at an unpublicized meeting with members of the Senate and House foreign affairs committees.

This session was arranged at the suggestion of the State Department, when Popovic came to the Capital for talks with Secretary Dean Rusk after a tour of Brazil, Peru and Chile. In the discussion with the lawmakers, Popovic was bluntly asked about his country's relations with Russia and the continuance of Communism in Yugoslavia.

Graphically illustrative of this significant questioning and its subsequent effect on the Senate's voting on the foreign aid bill is the following:

"Is it the policy of your government to improve relations with the Soviet?" asked Senator Bourke Hickenlooper, Iowa, ranking GOP member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

"Yes," replied Popovic. "Our people have much in common with Russian people, and it is to the mutual advantage of both to improve relations. We are endeavoring to increase our trade and other ties. We consider that proper and for the benefit of both countries."

"Can you tell us whether there is any extensive desire among your people to change their form of government?" continued Hickenlooper.

"There is not," asserted Popovic. "Our socialist form of government is widely popular and is going to continue for a long time. There will be no change during the lifetime of this or the next generation, I would say."

The Yugoslav leader also was questioned about a plan to establish a trading bloc of neutral African and Latin American countries as a counter to the European Common Market. He stated this is under discussion but no decisions have been reached.

"Are you trying to develop trade with Latin American countries?" asked Representative Thomas Morgan, D-Pa., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Commitee.

"We are seeking markets wherever we can find them," explained Popovic. "We are most eager to increase trade with Brazil, Peru, Chile and possibly other Latin American countries in the near future. Like every country, we are trying to expand our foreign trade."

"Is Yugoslavia planning to join the Warsaw (Soviet bloc) Pact?" continued Morgan.

"We are not," replied Popovic. "We see no need for that. Our relations with the members of this alliance are improving. Marshal Tito is determined to be friendly with both the East and West. He feels strongly that is the soundest course to pursue."

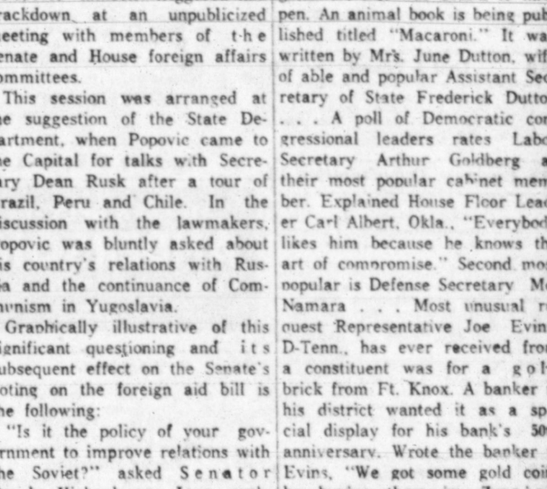

"But you are increasing your ties and relations with Russia," declared Morgan.

"We are expanding our trade," declared Popovic. "We also want to increase our trade with the United States. We are very eager to do that and earnestly hope nothing will prevent it."

"That may depend largely on you," dryly remarked another committeeman.

COLD SHOULDER — The malodorous Billie So. Estes scandal is putting a political hex on another member of Congress. Like Representative H. Carl Andersen, R-Minn., who publicly complained party colleagues are cold-shouldering him because he had been linked with the Texas operator, Senator Ralp Yarborough, D-Tex., is saying privately he is getting the same treatment since it became known he accepted funds from Estes for a radio program . . . It was bound to happen. An animal book is being published titled "Macaroni." It was written by Mrs. June Dutton, wife of able and popular Assistant Secretary of State Frederick Dutton . . . A poll of Democratic congressional leaders rates Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg as their most popular cabinet member. Explained House Floor Leader Carl Albert, Okla., "Everybody likes him because he knows the art of compromise." Second most popular is Defense Secretary McNamara . . . Most unusual request Representative Joe Evins, D-Tenn., has ever received from a constituent was for a gold brick from Ft. Knox. A banker in his district wanted it as a special display for his bank's 50th anniversary. Wrote the banker to Evins, "We got some gold coins by buying them in Zurich, Switzerland. I think it's ridiculous having to buy gold with American money from a foreign bank. Why can't we borrow a gold brick from Ft. Knox? We don't care how you manage it so long as it is legal, even if it takes an Act of Congress."

We wish to express our sincere appreciation and deep gratitude to our many Pampa friends especially the Rev. Jack Riley and membership of the St. Paul Methodist Church for their words of comfort and deeds of kindness at the loss of our darling wife and mother. May God's richest blessings rest upon you.
She would not want the ones she loves to grieve for her today
We must not say that she is dead
For she is just away
Away upon a journey
To a land that's bright and fair
And though we all will miss her here
We know she's happy there
And memorials of her will bring
New comfort every day
As we recall she is not dead
For she is just away

DINING OUT REACHES NEW HEIGHTS

In Seattle . . . | . . . for London . . . | . . . in Cairo . . . | . . . in Frankfurt.

Seattle's Century 21 Exposition will revolve around—or, more properly, visitors will revolve within—a restaurant at the 500-foot level of its 600-foot "Space Needle," focal point for exposition, opening in April. High-style dining while the restaurant revolves for a 360-degree view of the surroundings is now available in four cities world-wide, with London and Seattle soon to join the list. From left: • Seattle's "Space Needle," which will have an observation gallery and beacon above the restaurant. • London's soon-to-be tallest building, with a revolving restaurant near its 500-foot apex. • Cairo boasts a 600-foot tower. Revolving restaurant at the top offers a view of the Pyramids and other landmarks. • Frankfurt, West Germany, has its Henninger Tower atop a brewer's silo, featuring a revolving restaurant. Not shown: Honolulu's "La Ronde," 23 stories up and the first of the high-up dining spots in the United States; Florian Tower's 450-foot-high restaurant in Westfalen Park, Dortmund, Germany.

Foreign News Commentary

UPI Foreign News Analyst

SAIGON, South Viet Nam — When Communist forces captured southeastern Laos, they acquired a "privileged sanctuary' over which to pour men and supplies into embatled South Viet Nam.

And so, whether Laos can be made truly neutral will have much to do in determining the length of the struggle to which the United States is committed in this part of the world.

American military advisers in Laos say that at least a dozen Russian transport planes drone southward each day along the mountainous eastern rim of Laos, ferrying supplies to Communist-held Tchepone.

Then the supplies are borne on foot along jungle trails until finally they reach South Viet Nam near the Cambodian border, approximately 160 miles away.

Other supplies start by truck from the North Vietnamese town of Vinh, cross the mountains into Laos and also eventually find their way into South Viet Nam.

This is the "Ho Chi Minh trail" and unless Laos can be truly neutralized nothing short of drastic military action can prevent its use by the Comunists to prolong the war.

One of those taking a slightly more optimistic view of the future than others is a veteran Indian diplomat who heads the international control commission. It will be the commission's job to act as watchdog over Laotian neutrality if or when it comes.

He is Avtar Singh and he has been waiting in the Laotian administrative capital of Vientiane for nearly a year to take over his duties.

This correspondent talked to him in Vientiane in early June.

Singh believes that international agreement on a neutral Laos will mean at least a partial reduction of Communist Viet Minh forces now providing the backbone of the Communist effort there.

He also believes that the Laotians, neutral by nature, will not voluntarily go Communist.

And he professes, at least, to believe the commission can sufficiently police the Ho Chi Minh trail to prevent its use in violation of Laotian neutrality.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The slap-happy waste of the taxpayers' money by the administrative sprawl commonly known as the Department of National Defense is a scandal about which no one seems ever to become excited.

The department has outgrown its management. The department fought a good war, 1941-45, when the taxpayer and his money did not count for much. The taxpayer and his money still do not count for much now with the generals, admirals and civilians who operate the Department of National Defense.

This scandalous situation is revealed in the reports issuing here from time to time from the office of Joseph Campbell, comptroller general of the United States. Campbell's job is to audit government expenditures for Congress. He does a good job. Neither the President nor responsible members of Congress do anything, however, about Campbell's shocking reports.

Here is a recap of what Campbell turned up and reported to Congress in the last fortnight of May of this year involving National Defense Department operations:

Item, May 16: The Air Force and Navy were planning to spend $14 million in 1963 for separately developed crash fire trucks although the Army possessed about $9.4 million worth of these vehicles, Class 1500, in excess of its needs. The Army bought these Class 1500 vehicles without pretests which would have disclosed their unsuitability for the intended use. Late discovery of this situation caused the Army to spend $500,000 for design changes during volume production and further changes costing $360,000.

Item May 16: The Army, Navy and Air Force spent unnecessarily about $4.1 million through purchase or conversion of aircraft engines by one service when similar excess engines were on hand in another service.

Item May 23: The Air Force developed and procured the H43B helicopter when an Army helicopter, the HU1A, then in an advanced stage of development, could fulfill Air Force requirements. The Air Force estimated that the H43B program would cost $45 million and as of Sept. 30, 1961 had obligated $61 million to the project. The department was aware of all the facts and requested the Air Force to withdraw the contract. Nothing happened.

Item May 31: The Army is having constructed a two-mile pipeline at Ft. Belvoir, Va., on the installment basis whereby the Army is paying interest at the rate of about 15 per cent per year for private financing of the construction project.

Item May 31: A spot check turned up the widespread practice by temporary duty members of the Navy's shore patrol of submitting fraudulent claims for lodging allowances and the payment of subsistence allowances without proper authorization.

Not much money, relatively, is involved in all of the foregoing, even put together. But it represents the income tax payment of literally thousands of low bracket citizens. All of this is typical of what happens when bureaucrats are spending other people's money.

There were seven reports from Comptroller General Campbell in this last fortnight of May, five of them tagging the Defense Department.

First recorded sale of an automobile was made in 1898.

Lefors School Board Meets

LEFORS (Spl) — A school board meeting was held recently and W. A. Kesse from Canadian was hired as high school science teacher for the coming year. Mr. Kesse taught science in the junior high department this year. He is a graduate of West Texas State College in Canyon.

It was also decided at the meeting to send all the coaches to coaching school in Lubbock at the first week in August. Also decided at the meeting was to replace the heating system in the old gym before school begins. The board decided to adopt the same student accident program as they had used the past year. They are getting ready to take bids to build a new front sidewalk.
