WILL OUTLINE PROGRAM FOR YEAR'S WORK IN SESSION HERE

Livestock Better. Rains over the major portion of the districts range territory has brought about a further improvement in the condition of livestock, according to the report. There is now ample pasturage on most of the ranges and many classes of cattle are fat and moving to market. Prices are being sustained at near the level reached in July.

The daily average production of crude oil in Texas declined from 42,112 barrels since June to 40,750 barrels in July, all fields except central west Texas reporting declines. A substantial increase in total output was noted in Cranwell and Union counties.

county schools will be represented will be discussed tomorrow.

Instead of having separate graduating exercises in rural schools, it is the purpose of Mr. Pevhouse to assemble all the rural school classes in Lubbock in a combined body for the spring graduation exercises. The classes will work as one unit under a cooperative system.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (AP)—A guarantee on Thursday of a country-wide system of air express mail, the passage of aviation from present era of "stunt stuff" with inevitable high cost of human injury to the comparatively safe and sound basis of every day commercial use, in the opinion of R. E. McCowle, president of the American Railway Express company. Mr. McCowle sees a perfect analogy between present conditions in the airplane industry and the development of the automobile from the early stunt stunts to its present position as a sturdy and safe ally of commerce.

CUBS LOSE DOUBLE BILL TO GIANTS BUT HOLD NARROW MARGIN

VENTFUL DAY CUBS DETHRONE GIANTS IN FIRST

GIANTS BREAK EVEN AT BROOKLYN BUT REDS WIN DOUBLE BILL

(By Associated Press)

One of the most eventful days in the history of the National League has experienced a possible detourment of the game, but today was only one and a half games ahead of closest competitors.

The Cubs were balked twice yesterday by the Giants, New York's Hal Carlson, out of the box in the first game during a furious fight that brought McGraw's team to a win, and taking the nightcap 1, with a seventh inning at the expense of Charlie Young.

Wins 21 Out of 27

For seven successive days of late the Giants snapped right into their winning gait, which extended to six consecutive victories. The team also has won 21 of its last 27 games for the best season showing in the oldest league.

The world's champion Cardinals got nothing better than an break in their twin bill with Brooklyn. Jess Petty stopped them opener, 2 to 1, but Jess led the Mound City entry to victory in the same score in the second contest. The result put the Cubs team in a tie for second with Pittsburgh as the Pirates played a 2 to 2 tie with Philadelphia, the game being called by rain.

By three and one half games ahead the Cubs from the first division teams with much parity in recent games, bowed to the Cincinnati Reds 4 to 2 and 3. The Reds made 26 hits. Neph, who received credit for Neph's victory in the second game, received notice of his unconditional release.

The game was less exciting yesterday in the American league. The St. Louis Browns again at St. Louis, this time 8 to 3. New York won all its 18 games with the outfit this season. Lou Gehrig belted his first homer of year and Ernie Roth by one, Barnabe, failing to hit safely.

In 15 game losing slump, Manager Bucky Harris had his players draw for places in the game with Chicago, the result being that Harris, Speaker, Ruel and Bluge sat on the bench. Rain then halted the game in the last half of the second inning with the Senators leading the Sox 2 to 1.

Philadelphia won 5 to 0 over Detroit with Jack Quinn allowing only three safe hits. It was the sixth successive defeat for the Tigers.

Slim Harris let the Indians down with two hits and the Boston Red Sox won by a 10 to 2 count. Fixstead's error prevented Harris from getting a shutout.

Billy Evans Says:

Second Guess Fails

The second guess can very often raise havoc with managerial strategy, since so-called inside baseball is good or bad according to the results attained.

Injecting a pinch hitter into the game, thereby causing the removal of some pitcher who is going along well, is one of the tough spots for a manager, particularly if the succeeding pitcher or pitchers fail to deliver.

Recently in looking over the major league box scores, I noticed two such happenings on the same day, one in the American league, the other in the National. In each instance, the manager played proper baseball but the breaks went against him, making his strategy look bad.

It is a baseball axiom that a team cannot win a ball game no matter how good the pitching unless there is batting assistance. That is why a manager often is forced, late in the game, to remove a very effective pitcher in an effort to start a batting rally.

When a manager derrieks a

PIRATES LOSE FIRST

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30 (AP)—The Philadelphia Nationals defeated the pennant chasing Pittsburgh Pirates, 3 to 2, ten innings, in the first game of a double header today.

What Often Happens

In a certain American League game of a recent date, the home pitcher, despite a wild streak, was getting away in good style, due to his ability to pitch himself out of the holes.

In the eighth inning of the game with one down, the home pitcher walked the next two men. He had done the same thing twice earlier in the game, but manager to keep the opposition from scoring.

The score at the time was 1-2 so the manager of the home team decided this was the spot to yank the starting pitcher, a youngster. He sent his best bet, a veteran star, to the rescue. A hit followed, scoring a run.

In the ninth inning, the visitors staged a rally that netted three runs off the ace of the staff. This made the score 6-2. In the last of the ninth, the home team scored a run, making the final score 6-4.

That evening, no doubt, the manager, was soundly toasted for the shift, it being argued that the worst the home club would have gotten otherwise would have been a 3-3 tie.

Results Tell Tale

In the other game, a National League contest, two of the pennant contenders were in action. The home team started the game with the star of the staff doing the hurling.

Two Give Up Effort To Swim Channel

CAPE GRIS NEZ, France, Aug. 29 (AP)—Three aspirants for channel swimming honors plunged into the sea here last night with the English coast as the objective, but before dawn this morning two of them had given up the struggle.

Miss Mona MacLellan, English physician, was still in the water shortly before 5 o'clock this morning. She started at 10:10 p. m.

Miss Edith Jensen of Denmark quit after swimming for four and a half hours, and Miss Hilda Harding, British swimmer, gave up at 4:30 this morning.

Miss Ivy Hawke, English swimmer, and Rene Dorla of Switzerland entered the water at 5:30 o'clock this morning, followed 25 minutes later by the German veteran, Dr. Schiff.

The weather was fair and the sea moderate, and all three made good time for the first hour and a half.

Dorla left the water after a few hours as did Dr. Schiff and Miss Hawke later.

Statistics

When the bureau of railway economics at Washington reports on the watermelon crop for 1926, as it just has, it writes poetry, and its cubistic looking charts of price changes from June to September are almost masterpieces of art.

From the pages of this juicy statistical report, you may read that the state of Georgia shipped out 19,391 box cars of watermelons last year, which amounted to some 30 per cent of the total crop for the whole country. Georgia's closest rival was Florida, which produced only about half as many of the red, white and green delights as her neighbor on the north.

This makes Georgia the pre-eminent watermelon state of the Union, and in the same breath it becomes the symbol of the country who ever gashed that watermelon seeds could roll out of his ears while he "wallered."

If the Chambers of Commerce and the Rotary and Kiwanis and Lions clubs of Georgia do not publicize their commonwealth as the state of a good watermelon, they are overlooking a bet. A modern Horace Greeley, reading those romantic watermelon statistics, might chance to say in his famous line and make it, "Go south, young man, go south!"

Pity For Pessimists

"Pity the foolish, blind pessimist." That was one of the life rules of Gilbert H. Gary, head of one of America's greatest corporations, United States Steel.

He was a life of optimism, the life of a builder. And at the hour of his death the other day, Wall Street carried out the principle that guided all Judge Gary's affairs.

There was a feared moment when it was announced in the New York Stock Exchange that the great leader was dead. It was the hour for years to strike. Here was an opportunity for the professional pessimists to clean up on an ordinary off-street, United States Steel, ending the depression of the instant and converting it into profits.

But Judge Gary's associates had prepared for that moment and mobilized their millions to fight it. Stocks of United States Steel were offered and snapped up by the general Motors met the same ready response. Bankers and their agents on the floor stood with a mighty array of martial money, ready to wait back a wave of selling that would depress the market.

No more dramatic conclusion could have been written to the life of the man who lived optimism and who imparted to countless others with in the future of American industry.

The Mayor's Job

Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick of Philadelphia has found by actual count that in the two and a half years he has been at the head of the City government he has attended an average of 840 banquets.

Getting this down to more appreciable figures, it can be calculated that Henderson in Philadelphia must spend from two to three hours very single day attending banquets.

Mayor Kendrick has saved his digestive apparatus by refusing to eat at any and all banquets. He merely reads and extends the official "big hand" and welcome, then he retires to attend another banquet.

Congressman Marvin Jones was in Lubbock Saturday night, Sunday and part of yesterday, and, as usual, our affable representative had considerable of interest to talk about. Conditions at Washington, the political status of both parties, hopes of the Democrats in the coming campaign and a number of other subjects were under discussion when The Plainsman held his power with Mr. Jones—as its usual case when that dignitary is in the city. His visits are always welcome and instructive yet this time he left a very constructive thought—one in which we're all more or less interested. To make a short story shorter Congressman Jones has answered the riddle "Where did the term 'cake-eater' originate?" This is what he has to say about it: "Years back, when everybody worked, young fellows rarely went to see their girls except on Sunday night. As was the custom of the times a big dinner, with fine fixin's was cooked for the noon meal, including a big cake or two. There was always some cake left so at night, when the beau arrived the young lady of his choice would pursue that age-old custom of winning the heart through his stomach. Delicious cake—like everyone used to make in those days—was pressed upon the suitor until he had eaten his fill. As a reward for the cake the young lady expected to be escorted to the spelling bee, the church social and, on state occasions, to the circus. The boys who forgot their obligations when the time for repaying rolled around were called 'cake-eaters' because all they ever did for the girls was to eat their cake."

Sounds logical, doesn't it? However, The Plainsman doubts whether the analogy would fit in these days. Most of the cake-eaters of the modern type are too lazy to lift the dainty morsel to their mouths, much less to be expected to chew and swallow it.

It's all right to demand half the loaf but don't make it the middle loaf.

That Girl on Broadway says that the principal difference between "rough" and "ruse" is the spelling.

Too many men who persist in referring to the "good old DAYS" really mean the "good old DAZE."

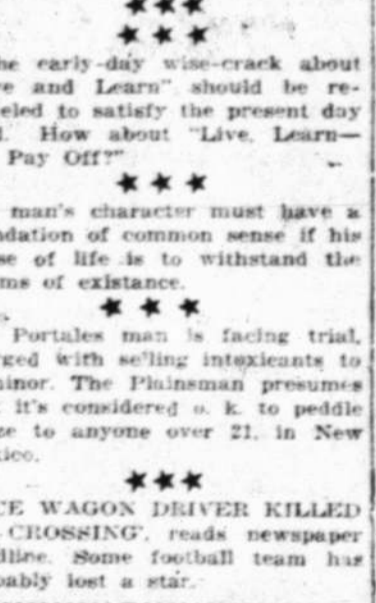

The early-day wise-crack about "Live and Learn" should be reworded to satisfy the present day mood. How about "Live, Learn—and Pay Off?"

A man's character must have a foundation of common sense if his house of life is to withstand the storms of existence.

A Portales man is facing trial, charged with selling intoxicants to a minor. The Plainsman presumes that it's considered a. k. to peddle booze to anyone over 21, in New Mexico.

A Good Airplane Is Safer Than The Old Family Flivver But The Ground Bus Has Its Advantages, Dutcher Writes

IN NEW YORK SEE-SAWING and down BROADWAY BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—They do say that aviation is safer than motoring, but some of us always will prefer the family flivver.

Despite progress, no one will be able to take the thrills out of flying immediately and meanwhile come such hair-raising tales as that of the Army's twin-motored Martin Bomber which crashed in the water of Pearl Harbor, Hawaii June 23. A full account of the accident, with none of the thrills left us, has just reached the Army Air Corps.

The plane was a member of a five-ship formation which took off early in the morning, piloted by Lieut. George W. Polk, Jr., and manned by Staff Sergeant Monroy and Privates Cyr and Valentine. Army maneuvers were in progress and the formation was to simulate a bomb attack in northern Oahu.

Hardly was he well in the air before Lieut. Polk discovered that his landing gear was damaged—four bolts connecting a strut to a wheel had sheered off.

Polk dropped a message asking for four new bolts. Lieuts. J. D. Givens and Phillip Schneberger took off in a De Havilland with the supplies and picked up the bomb formation.

They dropped the supplies on the end of a rope to one of the planes and then learned it was the wrong one. The rope was lowered again and the package attached, but the fastening broke under the strain and the bolts and rope were lost.

Givens landed at Luke Field for more supplies and a better identification of the disabled plane. Polk meanwhile, had completed his tactical mission. Givens located him and lowered the rope but it developed that the men in forward and rear cockpits couldn't get the package as they were recruits taking a first ride and unfamiliar with air work.

Schneberger climbed out on a wing, despite his slippery soled shoes and Sgt. Monroy of the bomber walked out on the adjacent wing of Polk's plane.

The two pilots finally maneuvered their planes within arm's length and the supplies were transferred.

As he returned to his seat Schneberger's parachute opened and he narrowly escaped being pulled off the plane and fouling the tail surfaces.

At 8000 or 10,000 feet in the air climbed down to the bomber's landing gear and in an almost impossible position amid a windstream of 20 miles an hour endeavored, with Private Cyr, to repair the gear. They had to discard their parachutes and a slip meant certain death.

At noon they had to give up the repairing attempt. Polk decided to land in the water. As he flew over the field to drop the parachutes in order to prevent them from being spoiled by salt water, one of the chutes caught in the water.

This fellow usually puts out some awful roads. There is going to be more road building in Texas within the next few years than in the same time in the history of the state. Texas is waking up to the realization of the fact that there must be something done to keep the highways in Texas on a par with other states.

HOGG LECTURE PLANS LAID BY WAR VETS HERE

SALES CAMPAIGN OPENS MONDAY NIGHT ON TICKETS

Detailed plans for the lecture of Dr. Will Hogg here September 26 on his experiences with the United States army in France during the war, were laid Monday night at a meeting of the executive committee of the Allen Bros. Post of the American Legion, and present indications point to one of the largest crowds for a smaller occasion in the history of the city.

Through co-operation of the Retail Merchants Association, the ticket sales campaign will be launched here next Monday night when the outlined plans will be given at the regular meeting of the Legion post. All merchants in the association have heartily endorsed the lecture, and will through their sale people join in an intensive campaign. It is planned to have the entire list of 2,500 seats in the Tech assembly hall sold before the lecture.

Town Districted Tickets will be on sale at practically every business house in the city, and a unique competitive sales campaign will be carried on. The city is to be districted, with a headquarters house in each district, and sale of each ticket will advance this district a certain number of kilometers toward the objective, similar to the military tactics during the war.

In addition to this, the Legion will have salesmen in the campaign, aiding in every way possible. It is expected that several hundred of the tickets will be disposed of at the Legion meeting Monday night when the campaign will be formally opened, and in this connection, a call has gone out for attendance of every ex-service man at the meeting.

Pathologist Gets "Cure All" Remedy

AUSTIN, Aug. 30 (AP)—Human nature's abiding faith in advertised medicine has been demonstrated to J. M. Del Curto, state plant pathologist, who temporarily is 346 higher for it.
Recently, Del Curto gave out an interview concerning the use of certain herbs found in south Texas and accredited Mexicans with having discovered plants which are herbs for several medicines.
He received dozens of letters from alling people over the country and the money they enclosed totaled $46—all of which he will return since he has no herbs for sale.
One correspondent said he "seen your place in the paper" that he for years has "suffered with stomach trouble," and sent for an immediate shipment of the root or plant best calculated to give him relief.

BRAZIL SEEKS LOST BIRDMAN

NO DEFINITE WORD IS HEARD FROM REDFERN SINCE THURSDAY

(By Associated Press)
RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 30.—Every effort is being made by the Brazilian government to locate Paul Redfern, the American aviator, who started from Brunswick, Ga., last Thursday on a non-stop flight to Brazil, and of whom no definite word has been heard since.
The efforts have been doubled since the rumor was reported that he had been seen at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon plowing through the sky above the northern rim of the South American continent at the mouth of the Orinoco river.

Hope Is Renewed By Ship Reports

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 30 (AP)—A solitary fragment of news—the report that an unidentified plane had been sighted over the delta of the Orinoco river in Venezuela—renewed hope in two continents today that Paul Redfern, missing Georgia aviator, may be found alive somewhere in South America.
Advices yesterday from Caracas, Venezuela, stating that a mailman Saturday afternoon saw a plane flying southward at an unnamed point along the Orinoco, caused widespread speculation that the craft may have been Redfern's "post of Brunswick."
Flight officials here expressed hope that if the plane, sighted Saturday, was Redfern's, the aviator probably had been blown off his course or he had followed the shortest line to see his landing place when

Japan To Withdraw Troops At Tsingtao

TOKYO, Aug. 30 (AP)—The war office announced today that owing to stabilization of the situation in Shantung province, China, all Japanese troops will be withdrawn from the port of Ehingtao on September 7 and 8.

Aviator Brings Ship Down Minus Landing Gears

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 30 (AP)—One of the strangest accidents that has ever occurred at a local flying field took place today when Lieutenant L. E. Hunting skillfully landed his plane without landing gear.
Hunting was flying over the field at Fort Sam Houston when his companions were horrified to see him go into a tall spin at a low altitude. They ran to the spot, but the plane struck the ground bounced into the air and continued to fly.
Realizing that his landing gear had been crushed, Lieutenant Hunting headed for Kelly field, on the edge of town, where there is a grassy area for delicate landings. He stalled his plane and skidded along the ground, handling the controls so skillfully that the plane did not overturn or suffer further damage.
Usually, aviators would have used their parachutes under the circumstances, but Lieutenant Hunting did not wish to further damage the plane, an AT-4 pursuit training ship.

Cecil Resignation Is Blow To League

GENEVA, Aug. 30 (AP)—Viscount Cecil's resignation as British envoy to the League of Nations created a veritable sensation in League circles. The opinion was generally expressed today that his withdrawal will be an irreparable loss unless he launches into a campaign for the submission of more political problems to the league and in general fights for recognition and development of the league as a clearing house for international affairs.

Seminole Shows Reduction Under Operators' Plan

(By Associated Press)
TULSA, Okla., Aug. 30—Crude oil production in the Greater Seminole area for the week ending August 27 was brought below the daily average of 450,000 barrels agreed upon by its operators, the Oil and Gas Journal says today. With a daily average production of 436,115 barrels, the field showed a decrease of 25,780 barrels from the preceding week's average.

Daily average production for the entire United States, however, showed a decrease of only 12,819 barrels for the week. An increase of 7,828 barrels in the West Texas fields and slight gains in the Texas Panhandle and Kansas held the mid-continent decrease to an average of 10,624 barrels daily.

Other fields in Oklahoma declined to bring this state's daily average production 13,665 barrels lower than the preceding week.

Daily average production in the United States for the last week was given as 2,567,115 barrels, as compared with 2,519,974 barrels for the preceding week.

SAN ANGELO REFINING PLANT RENEWS OPERATIONS
San Angelo Refining company's 2,000 barrel skimming plant at San Angelo, which was badly damaged by fire July 22, has resumed operations and is operating at about 50 per cent capacity at present. The entire construction work is expected to be completed by September 25, and the plant will be operated at full capacity at that time.

At the time of the fire the company's stocks were such that it could take care of all of its retail trade and most of its wholesale trade. A new pipe still being built at the time of the first was not greatly damaged and was placed in operation a few days after the fire. Most of the fire loss was covered by insurance.

Shell stills, bubble towers and special bubble towers are being built at this time. The San Angelo Refining company manufactures "Rainbow" products.

The location of the Dan Freel No. 1 Ellwood is the center of section 18, Block T. T. Thompson survey, Lamb county. Also, George McCamey of Fort Worth is to drill a test south of the Freel test but the location has not been given out at this time.
