Along The Waterfront

Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Stanfield and son Craig, of San Antonio enjoyed fishing on the "Dolphin" last week, making a nice catch of 37 trout and whiting.

The captain's wife also caught an octopus, which measured 37 inches from tentacle to tentacle.

Jesse Barrera, of The Pilot staff, has to be different. Other fishermen were catching reds, drum, flounder and trout, but "not me," said Jesse. "We were fishing on Shell Island, north of Port Aransas and I caught a 45-inch octopus."

That's not all. Just recently he thought he had a whale of a red, trout or drum, he wasn't quite sure which. He landed the fish, which turned out to be a four-foot aligator gar.

Turner's Bait Stand on Port Bay, five mile out Farm Road 881, report fishing is good.

"Catfish" Berry and J. Blomer of Corpus Christi, caught 11 trout, all weighing from 3 pounds up to 5 pounds.

J. A. Matthews of Sinton, brought his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bart Goode of Las Cruses, New Mexico over for a successful day of fishing. They brought in a big string of trout, five of them weighing at least 4 pounds each.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mach of Dallas, caught some nice trout and reds.

Mr. Heath of Rockport, one day got nine trout, some 3 and 4 pounds.

Buddy Guillaudew of San Antonio, caught some pretty nice reds and trout.

RAUL BENAVIDES SENTENCED FOR THEFT OF WATCHES

Raul Benavides, of Aransas Pass, pled guilty before Judge John D. Wendell Monday morning to theft of two wrist watches in Aransas Pass.

The theft occurred in Aransas County.

Judge Wendell sentenced Benavides to 60 days in county jail, a $500 fine, and to pay all costs of court.

According to Chief Deputy Joe Earl Hunt of the Sheriff's department, this is the second time Benavides has been charged with misdemeanor theft in this county. Hunt said it can be as late as June, 1965, before he is released, as if he does not pay the fine, he must remain in jail one day for each $3 of the fine assessed in addition to the 60 days to which he was sentenced.

BANK TO CLOSE ON THANKSGIVING

The First National Bank will close Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, Nov. 26.

Wreck Saturday Night Injures Two From Here

In a wreck Saturday night, at 11:50, two local residents were injured. George Lee Brundrett, 78, was taken to Spohn Hospital suffering from cuts on his head and possible broken ribs. Jody Rouquette, 16, suffered a concussion. He also was taken to Spohn Hospital but returned home Tuesday.

The two cars were in collision at the corner of Market and Church Street. The Brundrett vehicle, a '64 Chevrolet, smashed into a telephone pole on the filling station corner, after colliding with the one driven by Rouquette, a '63 Ford, which hit a highway sign after the collision.

Miss Sandra St. Clair, a passenger in the Rouquette car, was treated for minor injuries.

Investigating and assisting at the wreck were Chief of Police Bob Hewes, Highway Patrolmen Rayford Brown and Don Carr, and members of the Aransas County Sheriff's department.

Tourists Are Requested To Register at C of C

Tourists are requested to register at the Chamber of Commerce, Mrs. Mary Juergens, manager, said.

This serves two purposes, one of which could be very important to the tourist.

Frequently, Mrs. Juergens said, she has requests from someone in the tourist's home town to help in locating the visitor. "This happens just often enough to make it a matter that travelers and winter visitors should not neglect," she said. "It can be an emergency, and when the visitor has only told the home folks that they are going to Rockport or Fulton, without giving an address here, it can be exceedingly difficult to locate them."

Sheriff's department personnel joined Mrs. Juergens in this complaint. Often telephone calls come to Sheriff Virginia Shivers simply saying "can you locate so-and-so, who said they were going to Rockport, because there has been a death or accident or other emergency?"

When such requests come in the only manner in which the wanted person can be located is by canvass of every motel in the area.

"It would be so much easier if winter visitors particularly would just take the time to stop in and register here," said Mrs. Juergens. "Then, in case any emergency did arise, we would have some idea of where to locate them."

Another thing, the Chamber of Commerce manager said, is the fact that friends from elsewhere often check at her office, trying to locate the visitors.

"Then, too," she said, "it helps us find out how many come."

County Auditor Resigns Dec. 1

J. R. Millikin, county auditor for the past several years, has tendered his resignation to the Aransas County Commissioners' Court, effective Dec. 1.

13 More Whoopers Arrive at Refuge

Arrival of 13 more whooping cranes at the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge in Texas was reported Tuesday by the Interior Department, bringing the total there to 30.

The 13 birds included four young. It has now been established that at least nine whooper chicks survived this year.

Of the nine baby whoopers, eight are at Aransas and one is recovering at the Monte Vista National Wildlife Refuge in Colorado. It was taken there a few weeks ago after it was injured in Canada and rescued by helicopter.

Counting the injured whooper, the known wild flock now stands at 31.

In expressing optism over the possibility the whooper population may gain this year the Interior Department said the total number of the cranes which made the northward flight to Canadian nesting grounds last spring was fixed at 32.

If all 32 of these adult birds return and all of this year's young chicks survive, the wild crane population would grow to 41, said Robert Shields, manager of the Aransas refuge.

STORY HOUR IS WELL ATTENDED

The story hour held last Saturday morning was well attended. Mrs. H. H. Dick, the story teller, read "The Big Treasure Book of Clowns," "And to Think That I Saw It On Mulberry Lane," "Too Many Bozos," "Three Little Pigs," and "The Little Mailman of Mayberry Lane."

There will be a story hour next Saturday, Nov. 21, at which time Mrs. Carroll Gann will be the story teller.

The enrollment of the Aransas County Junior High School continues to show an increase. At the present time there are 243 students enrolled in Junior High as compared to an enrollment of 219 at this time last year.

We have 124 students in the seventh grade as compared to 127 last year at this time and 119 in the eighth grade at the present time compared to 92 last year.

Russell Wayne Kline, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Kline, killed a nine-point buck on the Winsor ranch in Aransas County Saturday morning.

Fire Destroys Caldwell Home

At 11:50 p.m. Saturday, fire broke out in the former Chester Johnson home, on South Church Street, which was recently purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Caldwell.

Mrs. Caldwell and their four children were at home, and she warned then in time for all to escape without injury. However, the house burned to the ground, along with the Caldwell car.

Local people aided Mrs. Caldwell and the children until Mr. Caldwell returned from a northern trip, and since then they have moved into the home formerly owned by Mrs. Paul Reese.

Fire departments from Rockport, Fulton and Aransas Pass helped extinguish the blaze and save the houses on either side of the Caldwell home.

Rockport News Gets Around

Rockport news continues to get around the country, and, within the last 30 days or so, has appeared in three national magazines and one newspaper in Mexico City.

Next month it will appear in three more national magazines at least, and possibly more.

Under the heading of marina in the making, the national magazine Marina Merchandising, in its November-December issue, carried a full page on Rockport and Key Allegro, using two aerial photographs as illustrations.

The Maritime Reporter and Engineering News, one of the top national magazines dealing with ships and the sea, carried about a third of a page on Rockport Yacht and Supply's contract to build some 15 shrimp boats for a Florida firm, and the National Fisherman carried a two column story with pictures of the 72-footers being built at the Yacht and Supply shipyard.

Last week, on the occasion of the triple launching of three of these big shrimpers, the Caller-Times carried a nice story on the event, with a picture showing Mrs. T. Noah Smith, wife of the shipyard's owner, christening one of the boats, the Cayenne Bananza. The San Antonio Light also carried the story, with a picture of one of the other boats, the June Baby I, launched the same day.

Next month there will be extensive stories in the National Fisherman, the Fishing Gazette and Fish Boat magazine on the same event, as all three magazines had representatives at the launching.

Surprise of the week came when Mrs. Volney Cavitt's brother, who is a legal attache at the American Embassy in Mexico City, sent her a clipping from "The News," published in that city on Oct. 2.

"Several who plan pre-holiday forays into Texas in the weeks to come ask what's new up the big T's Gulf Coast way. We would hope nothing in the wake of rambunctious Hilda which at this writing is off Isla Mujeres.

"The nearest port of entry to the U.S. is Brownsville, where on Oct. 12 there will be a special civic ceremony honoring Mexico's ex-president, Miguel Aleman. Its accommodations ranging from the smallest and tidiest hotel in Texas, the Cameron, which is a special favorite with many of our Mexican friends, to the larger and de luxe motels are well known. Known, too, are Corpus Christi and the attractions of Padre Island.

"An unreconstructed Polynesian village, an ante-bellum mansion, or Carmel-by-the-sea are the many faces of the rapidly growing resort—Rockport.

"That picturesque city, located on Live Oak Peninsula and just 30 miles from Corpus Christi, presents a mixture of many atmospheres in a few minutes' drive. Termed "The Toast of the Coast," Rockport has the most natural beauty

Police Matron Has Underpaid Job With City

Police matron Mrs. Robert Hewes has a little publicized but responsible job, for which she gets paid exactly nothing.

Realizing the need for a woman in some aspects of law enforcement, the City Council appointed her to the job, which carries no pay, acting under authority of City Ordinance 91, and since then the jobs she does are sanctioned by law, where before that time she carried them out without authority.

Her duties are many and important. She has a police radio in her home, and through it keeps in touch with her husband, Police Chief Bob Hewes, acting as a dispatcher to relay calls to him.

She takes calls for the police department over the telephone and in case of emergencies like automobile wrecks gets in touch with the chief to get him to the wreck as soon as possible.

When female prisoners have to be searched or transferred from jail to the penitentiary, Mrs. Hewes is called again, and she is present at all times when a female prisoner is questioned.

She accepts calls on dogs, lost children, and other things; keps the various forms and records that must be retained by the department for its information and for other law enforcement agencies, thus freeing the chief for more patrol work. Such records include radio log, where a notation must be made on every incoming and outgoing call, and card files on all persons arrested.

As a matter of fact, she is almost as much a part of the department as her husband. The only difference is that he gets paid and she doesn't.

All copy must be in by Tuesday noon.

Copano Bay Shell Hearing Recessed

The Copano shell hearings have been recessed by the Parks and Wildlife Commission, after a day and a half of hearings in Austin, until a transcript can be prepared of the mass of testimony given by proponents and opponents.

Commissioner A. W. Moursund said the commission would be ready to continue the hearings as soon as the thousands of words were digested and transcribed by the court reporter.

This will probably take about ten days or two weeks.

A number of Rockport people presented testimony at the hearings. Among them were Jerre Ledbetter, Bill Straley, Pat Greene, M. W. Cochran, Joe Evans, Leonard Casterline and others.

One thing that came out of the hearings that will be of considerable interest to local people was the health department's map showing that areas around Rockport, Fulton and in Copano Bay were unsanitary because of waste disposal.

Shrimp Landings Drop Considerably

Domestic landings in headless shrimp during October were 1,600,000 pounds less than last year during the same month, and the landings for the first ten months of 1964 are 1,500,000 pounds less than they were in 1963.

Landings of white shrimp in October, 1964 amounted to 2,500,000 pounds, practically unchanged in volume when compared to October, 1963, according to Orman H. Farley, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service statistician for Texas, and landings of white shrimp for the first ten months of the year amounted to 10,600,000 pounds or 1,700,000 pounds greater than any harvest of white shrimp recorded since collection of detailed catch statistics began in 1956.

The big drop was in brown shrimp landings, Farley said.

Comparison of all types for the various ports are as follows:

Port Arthur-Sabine, 238,100 pounds in October, 1964, with 1,318,000 pounds for the first ten months of this year, and 2,030,100 pounds for the first ten months of 1963.

In the same order catches for other ports were:

Galveston - Seabrook area, 982,400 pounds, 4,934,800 pounds, 4,185,000 pounds; Freepore area, 814,100 pounds, 6,708,200 pounds, 8,749,800 pounds; Matagorda - Palacios area, 187,300 pounds, 2,076,700 pounds, 777,900 pounds;

Port Lavaca-Port O'Connor-Seadrift area, 423,100 pounds, 1,777,200 pounds, 1,160,600 pounds; Aransas Pass-Rockport area, 1,078,800 pounds, 8,325,300 pounds, 9,105,200 pounds; Brownsville-Port Isabel area, 1,712,400 pounds, 11,337,100 pounds, and 11,974,100 pounds. Total, all areas, 5,436,200 pounds, 36,478,200 pounds, and 37,982,700 pounds.

Trawlers working waters off the Texas coast made catches of 230-300 pounds of brown shrimp per 12 hours' effort, with boats generally operating farther south than in previous months. The Brownsville-Port Isabel and Aransas Pass fleets started working the high seas as far south as Tampico, Mexico, and east to the Campeche Banks. Good catches of 600 pounds per 12 hours' effort were made but some boats from southeast of Aransas Pass to Port Isabel. The white shrimp fishery in the Gulf was largely confined to waters off the north Texas coast, with limited catches reported from small areas south of Aransas Pass.

The bay white shrimp fishery was considered fair to good from Aransas Pass to East Galveston Bay, Farley said. Bay systems produced over 1,500,000 pounds in October, but movement of white shrimp from bays to Gulf started about the middle of the month.

Blue crab landings amounted to about 115,000 pounds in October, 1964, compared with 187,000 during the same month a year ago.

Landings of edible finfish were less than 300,000 pounds in October, Farley said. This was somewhat below expectations for the season, and far below the 700,000 pounds landed in October, 1963. Landings of industrial fish at Sabine were light, the statistician said, and the one menhaden firm still operating terminated fishing for the 1964 season.

Oyster dealers and fishermen were making preparations for limited harvesting, as the season opened Nov. 1. Preseason sampling indicated oysters in good condition, but Farley said it was too early to predict size of the harvest.

Agriculture Census Being Conducted

The 1964 Census of Agriculture, now being conducted by the Bureau of the Census, U. S. Department of Commerce, in Aransas County will bring up to date the farm and ranch statistics last collected in 1959.

Here are a few of the many facts recorded in the 1959 agriculture census for this county:

There were 80 farms and ranches in 1959, compared with 99 in 1954. The average size of farm and ranch was 775.8 acres in 1959, compared with 687.4 acres in 1954.

The value of products sold by the county's farmers and ranchers in 1959 was $364,342. The value of all crops sold was $52,873. The value of all livestock and livestock products sold was $311,469.

The 1964 national Census of Agriculture is the 18th in a series which began in 1840. Because of the rapid changes American agriculture has been undergoing in recent years, Census Bureau officials regard the current census as one of the most significant ever taken. They ask every farmer and rancher to cooperate in the compiling an accurate record of these changes by filling out the census form he receives in the mail and holding the completed questionnaire until a census taker calles for it.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Makes Talk at School

On Tuesday afternoon Sheriff-elect Joe Earl Hunt spoke to Mr. Dan Synder's advanced first grade on "Safety." He stressed the three main causes of childrens' accidents: cars, drowning, and fires. His talk was followed by questions from the students.

The children enjoyed the talk very much.

LIBRARIAN ATTENDS MENDING CLASS IN CORPUS CHRISTI

Mrs. O. W. Brymer, librarian, and Mrs. Clifton Tidd, of the Library Auxiliary, attended a book mending class in Corpus Christi last Thursday, along with Mrs. R. E. House, of Lamar.

Miss Mae Merriman, Demco Library Supplies representative, was the teacher of the group, which met at Parkdale Branch of the Corpus Christi Public Library.

Mrs. Brymer, in commenting afterwards, said that the library here has ample supplies on hand, and numerous books to be mended.

"All we need now," she said, "is some interested volunteers to help with this project. We have a number who are extremely helpful in processing and issuing books, and we are most grateful to them. However, we're always short-handed for things like this mending."

B&PW MEETS AT BERGEL HOME

The Rockport Business and Professional Women's Club met Monday, Nov. 16, for supper at the home of Mrs. Kay Bergel. The evening was used to prepare for the third annual Christmas Bazaar. With the holiday season fast approaching, the members are busy planning gifts for sale Dec. 5.

The Christmas Bazaar has become an annual affair for the club, raising funds to enable them to present a scholarship to a senior girl, state legislative projects, and national funds, used to promote the business and professional woman.

The club will have baked goods, decorated gift boxes, doll clothes, toys, unique gifts for the friend and relative who likes a selective gift. Christmas decorations have become a feature at the Bazaar, and the club encourages you to come early while the selections are many.

The doors will be open at 9 a.m. and will remain open until 5 p.m. (or sold out). You will find the club bazaar in the "old" shoe shop on the main street—two doors north of Townsend's Dress Shoppe.

Remember the date, Dec. 5, 9 a.m. till 5 p.m. It will be worth the trip.

Rockport Indians Once Lived On Live Oak Point

Not many people around here know it, but Rockport once possessed its own particular tribe of Indians—one of two groups inhabiting Aransas County and the surrounding area.

The earliest of these groups is known by archeologists as the Aransas Focus, and the Indians of that group used flint spear or dart points, and made their tools and ornaments mainly of shell and bone, as well as basketry containers.

Probably a couple of hundred mounds belonging to this group have been discovered in this area from time to time, as well as other sites that belong to those Indians dignified with the name of the Rockport Focus.

An exploration of what is known as the Live Oak Site made by trained archeologists some years ago show that this ancient campground belonged to an entirely different group of Indians than did those of the Aransas Focus.

The site is on the extreme northern end of Live Oak Peninsula, about 1200 feet or so west of the south end of the Copano Causeway. Flint weapons, arrow points, and pieces of pots have been collected there for more than 75 years. Some have even been discovered beneath the surface of Copano Bay, where they have fallen as the cutbank above eroded.

A number of years ago, University of Texas scientists excavated a portion of the site and found Aransas Focus artifacts on the lowest level, overlain by those belonging to the Rockport group.

The Rockport Indians lived on shell fish, fish, and the wildlife of the area. Among the shellfish were snails, moon shells, scallops, oysters, and two kinds of clams.

Bones of triggerfish were found, as well as those of drum, three kinds of fresh water turtles and one very large marine turtle, as well as those of pocket gophers, racoons, coyotes, javelinas, deer and buffalo.

Evidently nothing was too big or too small if it was edible.

From the same layer of excavation, scientists recovered over 5,000 objects of bone, shell, stone, lumps of asphaltum, pieces of pots, and various articles of European manufacture, showing this particular tribe still inhabited the site after white men came.

Arrow points were of flint and of green glass. Other articles of European manufacture were of brass, flint, iron, lead, copper, glass, stoneware and china.

University of Texas Professor T. N. Campbell identified a hand-forged nail, three fragments of knife blades, and a two-tined fork. Bone handles for a knife were uncovered; copper plate sheathing for a powder horn was made in Paris. Other copper brass objects include the nail already mentioned and a plate from a gunstock; seven musket balls were of lead; there were a number of fragments of clay pipes; six small glass beads; 11 bottle necks; bits of china; coarse stoneware and other items.

The china was identified as being made in England in 1784.

AVOID STRAY SHOTS WHILE HUNTING

Austin.—To avoid being hit by stray shots while hunting, the Texas Safety Association advises hunters to keep out of the brush in heavily hunted country. A hilltop also can be especially dangerous. On high ground, stand in front of a tree or rock so that your silhouette won't invite another hunter's bullet.

BE SURE OF TARGET

Austin.—The Texas Safety Association reminds hunters to be sure of the target before firing. Never shoot at objects seen only indistinctly among trees or bushes. Make sure no barn or other building is in the line of fire.

DEER DERBY GEARED FOR FAST START

Austin. — Texas "greatest wildlife show on earth"—the annual big game harvest swung into full scale motion Saturday, Nov. 14 and got a quick extra thrust Monday, Nov. 16, according to J. Weldon Watson, executive lirector of the Parks and Wildlife Department.

It's another Number One for the Lone Star State since both the deer herd and wild turkey flocks are the largest in the nation.

The Saturday opener involved most of the remaining counties where wildlife is regulated under state law. A few counties previously began deer hunting.

Watson said the actual number of persons invading the big game habitat "is hard to estimate" but calculated that upwards of 600,000 persons will be qualified to participate. Hunter success ratio, in the last fall recorded, was 1960 when it was set at approximately 50 per cent.

The nimrods, in both the regulatory authority counties and in the others, will have through Dec. 31 to bag their limits in most counties. This means, said Watson, that the combined kill may reach a quarter of a million deer.

Watson cautioned hunters that anterless deer are taken only under a special permit system whereby the landowners issue the permits direct to the hunters. The third or bonus deer tag on the hunting license may be used only on anterless deer and must be accompanied by an antlerless deer permit.

In any event, Watson said, a successful harvest is hoped for by the Department's technicians because the ranges in many areas are actually overpopulated with deer. That, he added, means short rations and a potentially dangerous winter die off situation.

Shooting hours are from one half hour before sunrise to one half hour after sunset.

The season's limit is two buck deer, unless otherwise specified. Watson invited hunters to contact local game wardens about local bag and possession limits.

Turkeys reportedly are plentiful in most areas. And this fall, in the regulatory counties, bearded hens are legal game for the first time. Hens are fully protected under general law. The season's limit ranges upward to three gobblers under the general law.

There are so many variations that Watson urged hunters to either check the hunting guides issued by the Department or to contact game wardens.

Editorial

(Editor's Note: Air Force Lt. Clifton (Cliff) Cushman is a former Kansas University and Olympic track star who calls Grand Forks, N.D., his home. He won second in the 400-meter hurdles in the 1960 Olympic Games at Rome but recently failed to qualify for the 1964 Tokyo Games when he stumbled on a hurdle in the trials in Los Angeles. Cushman, though disappointed, refused to feel sorry for himself and recently wrote the following open letter to a Grand Forks newspaper, challenging the youngsters of that community to strive to do their best and become better citizens. The letter, carrying a message to all youths, follows.)

AN OPEN LETTER TO YOUTH:

Don't feel sorry for me. I feel sorry for some of you! You may have seen the U.S. Olympic Trials on television Sept. 13. If so, you watched me hit the fifth hurdle, fall and lie on the track in an inglorious heap of skinned elbows, bruised hips, torn knees, and injured pride, unsuccessful in my attempt to make the Olympic team for the second time. In a split second all of the many years of training, pain, sweat, blisters and agony of running were simply and irrevocably wiped out. But I tried! I would much rather fail knowing I had put forth an honest effort than never to have tried at all.

This is not to say that everyone is capable of making the Olympic Team. However, each of you is capable of trying to make your own personal "Olympic Team," whether it be the high school football team, glee club, the honor roll, or whatever your goal may be. Unless your reach exceeds your grasp, how can you be sure what you can attain? And don't you think there are things better than cigarettes, hot-rod cars, school dropouts, excessive make-up and duck-tail grease-cuts?

Over 15 years ago I saw a star—first place in the Olympic Games. I literally started to run after it. In 1960 I came within three yards of grabbing it; this year I stumbled, fell and watched it recede four more years away. Certainly, I was very disappointed in falling flat on my face. However, there is nothing I can do about it now but get up, pick the cinders from my wounds, and take one more step followed by one more and one more, until the steps turn into miles and the miles into success.

I know I may never make it. The odds are against me but I have something in my favor—desire and faith. Romans 5:3-5 has always had an inspirational meaning to me in this regard. ". . . we rejoice in our sufferings, knowing that suffering produces endurance, and endurance produces hope, and hope does not disappoint us . . ." At least I am going to try.

How about you? Would a little extra effort on your part bring up your grade average? Would you have a better chance to make the football team if you stayed an extra 15 minutes after practice and worked on your blocking?

Let me tell you something about yourselves. You are taller and heavier than any past generation in this countrty. You are spending more money, enjoying more freedom, and driving more cars than ever before, yet many of you are very unhappy. Some of you have never known the satisfaction of doing your best in sports, the joy of excelling in class, the wonderful feeling of completing a job, any job, and looking back on it knowing that you have done your best.

I dare you to have your hair cut and not wilt under the comments of your so-called friends. I dare you to clean up your language. I dare you to honor your mother and father. I dare you to go to church without having to be compelled to go by your parents. I dare you to unselfishly help someone less fortunate than yourself and enjoy the wonderful feeling that goes with it. I dare you to become physically fit. I dare you to read a book that is not required in school. I dare you to look up at the stars, not down at the mud, and set your sights on one of them that, up to now, you thought was unattainable. There is plenty of room at the top, but no room for anyone to sit down.

Who knows? You may be surprised at what you can achieve with sincere effort. So get up, pick the cinders out of your wounds and take one more step.

I dare you!

Sincerely,
Clifton E. Cushman.

Barbed-wire Gadget

Best way to keep clothes and flesh from being torn as you crawl through a barbed-wire fence is to carry with you several metal "S" shaped picture hangers.

When you come to a barbed-wire fence, hook one end of "S" hanger to second wire and pull up to top wire and secure with other end of "S". Push down third wire and pass through.

First Survey Hits Million Ducks, Geese

Austin.—C. D. Stutzenbaker wildlife biologist for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, reported that slightly under one million waterfowl were counted during the first fall aerial census which covered 2,300 air miles.

Three more monthly counts will be made during the winter.

Most of the geese were concentrated in the marsh-rice transition areas of Jefferson Chambers Counties in southwestern Texas. Large numbers of blue-wing and green teal were also found there.

Heavy concentrations of Lesser Scaup were found in the bays southwest of Port Lavaca and most of the Pintails were in the Laguna Madre south of Corpus Christi.

Waterfowl habitat conditions were graded as excellent along the upper and lower parts of the coast and slightly less favorable in the middle coast

Approaching cold weather is expected to push many of the ducks of the upper coast further south.

Likewise, many ducks and geese now lingering north of Texas, or in north Texas, before long will seek the warmer coastal areas.

ELEMENTARY HAS TELETRAINING PROGRAM

Today's living requires greater skill in the art of communicating than ever before. Like the 3-r's, the writing, talking and listening phases of this skill are best developed in the early classroom years. Talking effectively is not always easy. Listening attentively can be even more difficult.

The Rockport Elementary School teachers of the first, second, and third grades, desirous of broadening each child's knowledge of communication, presented to their classes the Teletraining Program, a very instructive teaching tool.

The Teletraining Program consists of a complete "Practice Telephone Equipment, enabling the teacher to teach the child how to develop various skills correctly, such as usage of telephone, use of the directory, making telephone calls, telephone manners, and voice projection. The child learned that "a gracious manner in answering the telephone helps to make the calling person feel "welcome." A film, "Adventure in Telezonia" was shown. It was very instructive, as well as entertaining.

Teachers participating in the Teletraining Program certainly wish to express their deepest appreciation to the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. for making the material available for their use, and to Mrs. Daisy L. Kelly, district representative, San Antonio, delivering the material and giving instruction in its proper use.

Follow Simple Rules In Automobile Accident

Vacation time is here. Soon millions of people will be driving about the country, and automobile accidents will occur with increasing frequency. What should a person do when involved in an accident?

At such times it is hard to keep your wits about you and know just what to do. It is therefore a good idea to plan in advance just what you would do in event of a smash-up. Here are a few simple rules that every driver should commit to memory:

1. Stop. Failure to stop can result in serious criminal consequences.

2. Render Aid. If anyone is injured: (1) Render first aid. (2) Stop bleeding. (3) Call a doctor or an ambulance or both. (4) Do not move an injured person in any way that could possibly add to his injury.

3. Protect the Scene from Further Damage. You may be liable for damages to approaching drivers, unless they are properly warned. If the highway is obstructed at night, have someone turn his headlight beams on the wrecked vehicles.

4. Call an Officer. Policemen, Highway Patrolmen, Sheriffs and their deputies are trained accident investigators whose testimony may be invaluable in establishing your civil claim for damages.

5. Gather Information . . . Write Down. Don't trust your memory, Don't guess—be specific. Measure skid marks. Step off distances. Be sure to obtain names and addresses of witnesses. You are required by law to exhibit your driver's license to the other driver—and he must do the same.

6. Be Careful What You Say. Even if you feel you probably are to blame, it is best to make no admission. You may learn later that the other driver was equally at fault, or more so. Emotional comments can be misconstrued by others, or may be misquoted. Whatever you say, make it factual.

7. See Your Doctor if there is the slightest chance you may be injured. Serious injuries do not always result in immediate pain or bloodshed.

8. Consult Your Lawyer Immediately. The sooner your lawyer is brought into the matter, the better he can advise you and protect your rights. He can obtain statements from the witnesses while their memories are fresh, and do many other things to insure that the true facts are preserved. Get your lawyer's advice before giving any interviews of statements to investigators or adjusters for the other side.

9. Inform Your Insurance Company Promptly. Failure to do so may void your policy.

10. Report the Accident to the Department of Public Safety. This is required by law if there is any injury or death, or if total damages exceed 25.00.

An official accident report form may be procured from the Police, Sheriff's Dept., Highway Patrol, or State Department of Public Safety.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Marineland Partner Explores Old Ghost Town of Copano

"Chuck" Maslonka of Marineland, when he has any spare time, likes to explore the bay areas around Rockport, seeking new fishing and hunting grounds, and the sites of the ancient settlements that once rimmed Copano and Aransas bays.

His most recent expedition was to the site of the ghost town of Copano, one of the important ports of Texas when the state was under Mexican dominion. Long ago forgotten, today, unless you know where to look, the ruins are so thoroughly overgrown with brush it is possible to pass within 20 feet of one of the largest houses in the group without being aware it exists.

The trip grew out of an aerial survey of real estate developments and new harbors in Aransas County, made recently by Chairman Owens of Aransas County Navigation District, Miss Lola L. Bonner, president of the Rockport Chamber of Commerce, Thos. D. Picton, local lumberman, Buster Coward, pilot of the plane furnished by the Toddie Lee Wynne interests, and a local newsman.

On the final leg of the trip, ruins were seen in the brush along the western shore of Copano Bay, and it was these ruins that were explored by Maslonka after a trip in one of the Marineland boats which he launched at the State Highway ramp at the south end of Copano Causeway, to cross the bay to the general area of the old town.

Nothing could be seen of the ancient port from the water. Only a monument erected in 1936 by the Texas Centennial Commission, gave the slightest clue as to the locations of the ruins, and even this was some distance from where most of the houses stood, Maslonka said.

Landing proved easy, and he beached his boat at the bottom of the cutbank on which the old town once stood, looking over the water of Copano Bay. Luckily, the aerial reconnaissance had shown houses only a short distance inland, and with this to guide him he climbed the bank and entered the brush. Almost immediately the remains of an old wall was seen, and after crawling through every variety of thorny shrub that grows in South Texas, he and his companion newsman reached what had apparently been a two-story house; although only part of one corner was standing.

This was made of shell concrete, originally manufactured from oyster shells taken from the bay in front of town. The shells were burned, to make lime, then this lime was mixed into mortar with other shells and the whole mass poured into forms which were raised higher and higher as the house took shape. The shape of the forms and the thickness of the various courses could be seen on what was left of the walls.

Behind this first house, which was completely overgrown with brush, with yupon and mesquite blocking the one window that was left, there was a square hole, apparently all that was left of a cistern in which colonists stored rain water. To the north of the walls, the highest point of which was about even with tops of the brush, other ruins could be seen in the green gloom of the underbrush.

Maslonka, who climbed the wall, said he could trace the outline of several buildings from that vantage point, and ground exploration disclosed walls of at least six more, another of which was apparently rather larger. Back of these buildings, which were built on a line along the waterfront, were other cisterns, one of them still intact and holding water.

In Spanish times, Gen. Juan N. Almonte toured Texas as a representative of President Santa Anna, and Edward Gritton, afterwards collector of the Port of Copano in 1835-36 accompanied him. In Almonte's report, he said:

"Copano seems to be the deepest port in Texas, accordto the information I have been able to gather in Bexar (San Antonio)", Almonte reported to Santa Anna. "It has about 15 to 18 feet of water at the bar (off present Port Aransas), and 10 or 12 throughout the Bay of Aransas. Ships of small draught can anchor within a few yards of land. Although there is no running water at Copano, there is abundant rainfall and cisterns could easily be built. The Port of Copano is admirably situated for a maritime custom house. The land is high and there is a good deal of timber in the neighborhood. The Aransas River is less than three leagues distance, and Refugio River (present-day Mission River) is almost the same distance away. There are two roads from this port to Goliad, one over which vehicles may travel, and another suitable only for horse travel. The distance to Goliad is about 10 or 12 leagues. The bay is excellent and it can accommodate more than 100 ships. The distance to the bay, which may be ascertained from a map of Texas, is about eight leagues. The entrance to the bay can be easily guarded by a small fort at the bar."

Thirty years ago Hobart Huson, Refugio attorney published a history of El Copano in which he includes a map prepared by a Refugio man whose hobby was exploration of the area, on which the 15 buildings that held Copano's 50 inhabitants were shown.

Southmost was the one-story shell concrete house built by Joseph E. Plummer, one of the area's early settlers. In front of it was the house built by Empresario James E. Power, part one-story, the rest two-storied; then came the William Wilson Box House; the two story store of Walter Lambert and the one-story home.

It was at about this spot, Maslonka thinks, that his explorations began, and he went northward from there. Just to the north of the Walter Lambert home was another, belonging to another Lambert; then there were two more one-story homes before Charles G. Morton's one-story home. This was followed by Morton's store, in which was the Copano Post Office and then Morton's warehouse, which got its start as the customs house the Mexican government had built in the early days of the port.

Then came the school house, the Adams house, the one-an-a-half story home of Moses Simpson, and the second Joseph E. Plummer home, built when the family had moved out of the first to a spot farther north on the bay shore. Wharves in front of this last house, which was isolated from the others, and in front of the Simpson and Norton menages gave inhabitants of the town access to the ships which came into the bay.

Little trace of these inhabitants is left, Maslonka said, probably because brush covers the remains of the homes and the remnants of their personal possessions. He did find some bits of glass, he said, parts of bottles that had turned violet and amber under the South Texas sun, and thinks there may be more that could be found by careful search.

However, thorns, mosquitoes and the comparative inaccessibility of the location make this difficult, he said.

ports:

In spite of wind, fishing has been fair off the lighted pier. As long as we have southernly winds, they are off shore winds and do not stir up the water as an on-shore wind does. Copano Cove waters are relatively protected waters.

J. D. Blundell and Jack Jr., Corpus Christi, landed some nice trout—several of them weighing in at three pounds each. They fished adjacent waters during the day time and fished off the pier at night. Reese Homeyer, Lytle, joined the Blundells over the weekend and then, fishing alone on Monday, landed four trout, Their combined weight was a little over ten pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Hearn, San Antonio, on a four-day camping trip caught enough trout, drum and redfish to fill two coolers.

Sonny Kellum and Ruby Mollard, San Antonio, landed trout and drum on the pier.

Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Botkin and Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hargett, Tahoka, fishing adjacent waters and the pier, landed trout, drum, and redfish.

Miss Shige Nagai, Houston, and Luke Rogers, Sandra Courts, caught five redfish, weighing 3 to 4 pounds each. They landed about 20 trout, of which weighed in at approximately 4 pounds each.

The "Backyard Fishermen" of Copano Cove Subdivision continue to catch fish. Mrs. H. C. Wood landed several drum and a nice redfish. Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Wilson have taken 14 drum and several reds, one of which weighed six pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rupe and daughter, Debbie, caught trout and drum. Capt. and Mrs. G. R. Dwyer, fishing out of their Thunderbird, caught several trout and drum.

Col. and Mrs. Tom Morgan are about settled in their new home overlooking Salt Lake. We're looking forward to fishing reports from them in the near future.

Fishing tip: This is the time of the year when the fish are bigger and more scrappy. If you use a reel with a drag, check it before you cast out. Many of the "big ones" get away simply because the drag was too tight.

"While Rockport's static population slightly exceeds 7,000, the vacationers in both summer and winter swell this number of permanents will expand soon. During the past year, more than 2600 lots have been filed as of record, with 385 of them waterfront property."

The article continues for approximately another column, detailing the attractions of this area, including the hunting, fishing and fine motels.

Plants That Never Bloom

MODERN ABSTRACT AND TITLE COMPANY, as the name implies, issues both Abstracts of Title and Policies of Title insurance. An Abstract of Title is a history of the title of a tract of land as reflected by the instruments filed for record in the Office of the County Clerk. Current abstracts furnish the instruments in full, while early abstracts condensed such instruments. Policies of Title Insurance are very similar to Policies of Fire Insurance. In the first instance the owner is insured against a loss in case of failure of title and in the second instance the owner is insured against a loss in case of fire.

In order to have a complete abstract of title plant, it is necessary to go back to the beginning of the recording of instruments, which in this County for the most part goes back to about 1836. In order to set up a company of title insurance it is necessary to go back only 25 years or about the year 1938. So when a competitive business comes into Aransas County it is reasonably safe to assume that it will be a company of title insurance and not an abstract company. It would take too much money and too much time to set up an abstract of title plant.

This plant was originally set up before the turn of the century by W. H. Baldwin and his son, Henry Baldwin, who established Guaranty Title and Abstract Company of Corpus Christi, Texas and other places. This abstract plant, while it has been operated under numerous names during the time, has been operating in Aransas County for more than 75 years. Neither an abstract company nor a company of title insurance make any appreciable profits unless there is much trading in properties. At this time there are many transactions in the real estate business which are handled for the most part by Policies of Title Insurance.

QUAIL SHOOT SHARES STAGE

Austin. — While big game hunters are stalking deer and turkey, the bird hunters also will be having their day in Texas, according to A. J. Springs, wildlife coordinator for the Parks and Wildlife Department.

The quail season opened Nov. 14 in regulatory authority counties east of the Pecos with the exception of the Possum Kingdom region. The mourning dove season in the South Zone continues through Nov. 24, except in counties which had a whitewing season. The closing date is those counties is Nov. 20.

Quail shooting opens in most counties covered by state law on Dec. 1.

Springs said sportsmen could well study the departmental hunting season guide or check with their local game warden or both, because of the many local variations in regulations.

First areas in Texas to have quail hunting were in La Salle and McMullen Counties where the season opened Nov. 1.

Meanwhile, said Springs, the goose season which opened Oct. 31 continues state-wide but the duck season does not open until Nov. 25.

when you call Grandmother

...YOU DON'T EXPECT TO REACH TIMBUKTU

Naturally, when you call Grandmother's phone, that's the one you expect to get, and you do. But that's not as easy as it sounds.

Your call must work its way through all sorts of interconnections, wires, cables, switches and so forth until, finally, it picks the right phone out of some 83 million in the U.S.

Yet, out of all the possible chances for mistakes, your call goes where you send it . . . in town or out-of-town, to Grandmother, wherever she is. This sort of reliability is the result of service improvements that keep increasing the convenience and personal value of your telephone.
