Searching for clues in death

Hereford police officers and detectives search for clues in the back of a pickup in the shooting death of Doris Traylor, 49, on Monday in Hereford. An autopsy has been ordered by Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turrentine in the case.

Autopsy ordered in shooting death of woman Monday

Hereford police are awaiting results from an autopsy ordered in the death of Doris Traylor, 49, in Hereford on Monday.

Her body was found in a bedroom in the home of her husband, Ronnie Traylor, about 8 a.m. Monday. Police said Traylor called 911 at 8:03 a.m. to report that his wife had been shot.

Mrs. Traylor was taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital, where she was pronounced dead on arrival. Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turrentine has ordered an autopsy.

Police said they found a Colt .357 pistol at the scene. The handgun had been loaded with .38-caliber shells, and one round had been fired.

Hereford police were at the house most of the day Monday, and questioned several persons about the incident during the day. Mrs. Traylor had recently moved to Lubbock.

Funeral arrangements are pending with Rix Funeral Directors in Hereford.

Hard-headed is being certain of something you know nothing about.

State Sen. Teel Bivins will hold a public meeting here Wednesday morning. The 8 a.m. session may not be a good time for some residents, but everyone is urged to attend. Bivins will discuss the upcoming legislative session, bills he has introduced, and respond to questions from constituents.

Bivins will review bills Wednesday

State Sen. Teel Bivins will review 10 bills he has prefiled for the upcoming session of the Texas Legislature at a public meeting at 8 a.m. Wednesday at the Hereford Community Center.

Bivins will also open the floor for questioning from all interested persons, and ask for views on regional and state issues.

Bivins said he feels the most important of the 10 bills is a measure that would not let legislators who are lawyers represent their clients at state agency hearings.

"It's common for legislators who are lawyers to represent clients before state agencies," Bivins said. "I have ethical problems with this practice. Employees of state agencies complain that allowing legislators to argue contested cases can be intimidating and can sway a case in the legislator's favor. That's not fair to the opposing parties who might not have a senator or House member as their lawyer. Senate Bill 64 would correct this."

Bivins also introduced bills to: -Allow courts to consider out-of-state DWI convictions in the punishment phase for multiple offenders. Currently, courts are prohibited from considering a defendant's previous DWI convictions outside Texas. Bivins says a defendant's entire DWI history should be subject to review by courts. This is contained in Senate Bill 65.

-Remove promiscuity defense in sexual assault cases involving minors. Defendants now may offer in court an assault victim's sexual history as part of the defense. Senate Bill 66 would make such sexual histories inadmissible in court. "Promiscuity is a defense only in cases involving minors," he said. "Because of this inequity, sexual assault of a minor is more difficult to prosecute. This bill will fix that."

-Exempt small school districts from state nepotism laws. Since small districts have a limited hiring pool from which to draw, Bivins asserts small districts should be allowed to hire related employees. This issue is address in Senate Bill 67.

-Guarantee that certain college courses are transferable to other state schools. Senate Bill 68 requires all state universities and colleges to identify 45 hours of lower diversion courses that can be transferred within the state to other schools. The senator says students planning to transfer from junior colleges or universities should be ensured their course work will be accepted by other state schools. "If not, then we're wasting taxpayer money," Bivins said.

-Set a goal for the state to begin distributing food stamps. Aid to Families with Dependent Children and Medicaid electronically by 1995. Bivins said recipients would use cards, similar to automatic teller machine cards, to access benefits. Use of this system, called Electronic Benefits Transfer, would reduce waste, fraud and administrative costs. Senate Concurrent Resolution 4 would establish this goal.

DOE says plutonium poses no area threat

AMARILLO (AP) - Storage of 20,000 plutonium weapon cores at the Pantex Plant for the next six to 10 years poses no "significant" environmental threat, according to an Energy Department environmental assessment released Monday.

Pantex, located about 17 miles northeast of Amarillo in Carson County, is the nation's primary assembly and disassembly plant for nuclear weapons.

The assessment, performed by Los Alamos, N.M., National Laboratory, found no significant impact on the Ogallala Aquifer.

Troops move to new Somalia fronts

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP) - With their primary military objectives secured, American and allied troops today began doing in earnest what they came to Somalia for - feeding the hungry and extending their authority.

U.S. Marine foot patrols were crossing the so-called Green Line that divides the fiefdoms of rival warlords in the capital and moving for the first time into northern Mogadishu, a haven for the lawless.

And Marine helicopters were being used to hopscotch across minefields and deliver food to the starving in five villages within a 50-mile radius of Bardera, one of six vital inland aid distribution centers.

Marine Col. Fred Peck, a spokesman for the U.S.-led military coalition, said the Marines had begun twice-daily patrols into northern Mogadishu and would gradually strengthen their presence in the area.

"Our aim is to provide security in Mogadishu, and that means the whole city," Peck said.

The new emphasis on extending the military's authority and reach came as the last of eight supply distribution centers, the town of Belet Huen near the Ethiopian border in western Somalia, was secured Monday.

It was seized in an airborne operation mounted by 200 members of the 2nd Battalion of the U.S. Army's 87th Infantry Regiment and 40 Canadian troops.

The Canadians eventually will put 800 soldiers in Belet Huen and the Americans will be withdrawn for other tasks.

But even as that last objective was being taken, new violence erupted in Mogadishu and reports surfaced of clan atrocities elsewhere in the devastated, famine-plagued East African nation.

More than 100 prominent members of a rival clan were slain in door-to-door searches in the southern port of Kismayu in the days before the Marines landed in Mogadishu on Dec. 9. The New York Times reported today.

The killing was done by militiamen under the control of Col. Omar Jess, a warlord allied with Gen. Mohamed Farrah Aidid, the strongman who holds the southern half of Mogadishu.

The Times quoted U.S. envoy Robert Oakley as saying he told Jess that "we knew exactly what went on and we won't forget it." Oakley and Jess met on Dec. 19, the day before American and Belgian troops entered Kismayu.

Jess and most of his followers are members of the Ogadeni clan, which has its roots in western Somalia and the neighboring desert region of Ethiopia known as the Ogaden.

The victims were all from the Harti clan, native to the Kismayu region.

The newspaper said all the killings occurred in three nights of searches before the allied military takeover and were an attempt to eliminate educated Somalis who might support the American-led forces. It said the victims included religious and business leaders and a prominent doctor.

Aidid and his chief rival, Ali Mahdi Mohamed, appeared publicly in Mogadishu for the first time in more than a year on Monday and affirmed a joint pledge to end the lawlessness and divisions in the capital.

It was a pledge they first made on Dec. 11 and, like the original vow, appeared to have little effect.

Despite the new pledges and embraces of the warlords, a coalition military spokesman said a firefight broke out between rival factions.

Bush's pardons may dog him for life

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush said his Iran-Contra pardons were a simple act of Christmas compassion, but it is now clear his action will dog his remaining days in office and vex him in retirement.

The pardons changed the atmosphere in a capital that had been getting ready to celebrate a new president's installation.

The drama has not yet played out.

Bush may be called before grand juries and congressional committees, probably after he leaves office in three weeks. No chief executive, having lost his presidential mantle, could relish that prospect.

At the same time, Bush is being pushed by Senate Republican leader

Bob Dole to remove Lawrence Walsh, the Iran-Contra prosecutor who tongue-lashed the president for issuing the pardons.

Removing Walsh likely would touch off an uproar akin to the one after Richard Nixon fired Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, Nixon's most painful self-inflicted wound short of taping his conversations.

If Bush is called to testify, he likely would be asked to justify his decision to pardon former Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and five other former government officials. And he probably would be asked to give a public accounting of his own role in the Reagan administration's arms-for-hostages deal with Iran, about which he has said only that he knew little.

Weinberger, who opposed the sale, was to have gone on trial Jan. 5 on charges of lying to Congress and prosecutors about the matter.

The president, quail hunting in Texas this week, has been quiet about all this, but Walsh hasn't. Usually inaccessible, the prosecutor opened a television campaign to denounce the pardon as an interference with his own duties. He accused Bush of "misconduct" and of completing a "cover-up."

Walsh also said he now would turn his attention to Bush's own role in the affair and into why he kept quiet until a few weeks ago about the existence of his own typewritten notes, dictated at the time, while he was vice president. The White House calls the notes unimportant and says it is willing to make them public.

Walsh's deputy, San Francisco attorney James Brosnahan, who was to have prosecuted Weinberger, suggested that Bush, by issuing the pardons, may have acted to protect himself from having to testify at a Weinberger trial.

Bush has maintained throughout the investigations that he was "out of the loop" when the Iran deal was under discussion.

Beyond shadowing the president's last days in office, fallout from the pardons is likely to dominate events in Washington until Inauguration Day. Political repercussions already are evident.

The Democrats are split. Responding to lobbying from Weinberger's lawyer, House Speaker

Thomas Foley of Washington and Rep. Les Aspin of Wisconsin, defense secretary-designate in Bill Clinton's Cabinet, quietly let Bush know that they would not criticize a pardon. When the pardons were issued, Foley's chief deputy, House Democratic Leader Richard Gephardt of Missouri, denounced them.

The battle over renewing the independent counsel law will become even more divisive.

The law, a Watergate-spawned reform, expired Dec. 15, but Walsh remained free to continue business. A filibuster by Republican senators killed a bill to extend the law.

Clinton will find it hard to keep from being drawn into the furor. The president-elect has said the pardons might send a signal "that if you work for the government you're beyond the law."

Congressional Democrats will be waiting for a signal from Clinton on how vigorously to pursue the pardons issue. Clinton will want attention focused on his economic proposals, not the death throes of a little-understood 6-year-old scandal.

Packwood recall may be illegal

SALEM, Ore. (AP) - Sen. Bob Packwood won't resign despite the sex scandal swirling around him, so opponents are looking at various ways to force him out, including one constitutionally dubious possibility - a recall election.

Most experts say the state and U.S. constitutions do not allow the public to remove members of Congress except by voting them out when they're up for re-election.

For now, the group that's leading the charge against Packwood says it's concentrating on pressuring the Republican to resign and trying to persuade the Senate not to seat him when Congress convenes next month.

But if those tactics don't work, a legal challenge could follow in an effort to force a recall, the group said.

"We voted him in, and we should be able to remove him," said Tia Plympton, spokeswoman for Oregonians for Ethical Representation and state coordinator for the Oregon chapter of the National Organization for Women.

Oregon's junior senator has been at the center of a political storm since The Washington Post reported Nov. 22 that 10 women have accused Packwood of making uninvited sexual advances.

Packwood, who was elected to a fifth term in November, has since apologized and promised to cooperate with a Senate Ethics Committee investigation.

But that hasn't quieted his critics, who say he worked to prevent the allegations from becoming public before the election. They say voters ought to be given another chance to decide whether they want him in the Senate.

"He basically stole the election," Plympton said.

Oregon law allows for the recall of state and local officials. But the state attorney general's office in 1935 issued an opinion saying that Oregonians are precluded from recalling members of Congress because there is no authority to do so under the state constitution.

"This office, within the past month, has reaffirmed the conclusions in that opinion," said Marla Rae, spokeswoman for Attorney General Charles Crookham.

Rae said that even if the Oregon Constitution allowed for the recall of members of Congress, it would be prohibited by the U.S. Constitution. She cited the section that reads: "Each house shall be the judge of the election, returns and qualification of its own members."

Even if Packwood's foes could legally seek his recall, they would have to collect at least 167,000 signatures to force an election.

Twice in the past year, opponents of Gov. Barbara Roberts have attempted to recall her. Despite heavy financial support from the timber industry, both efforts fell far short of the number of signatures needed.

years of their lives as far as learning is concerned.

"The program hopes to teach the parents how to take care of their child in such a way that they will feel good about themselves and be able to function in the public schools. This understanding will create a climate for better learning in the schools," Wood wrote.

Parental involvement in the education process has long been the key to good schools. When we overcome the lack of concern of parents in the home, maybe we can solve the state's educational problems--funding and all.

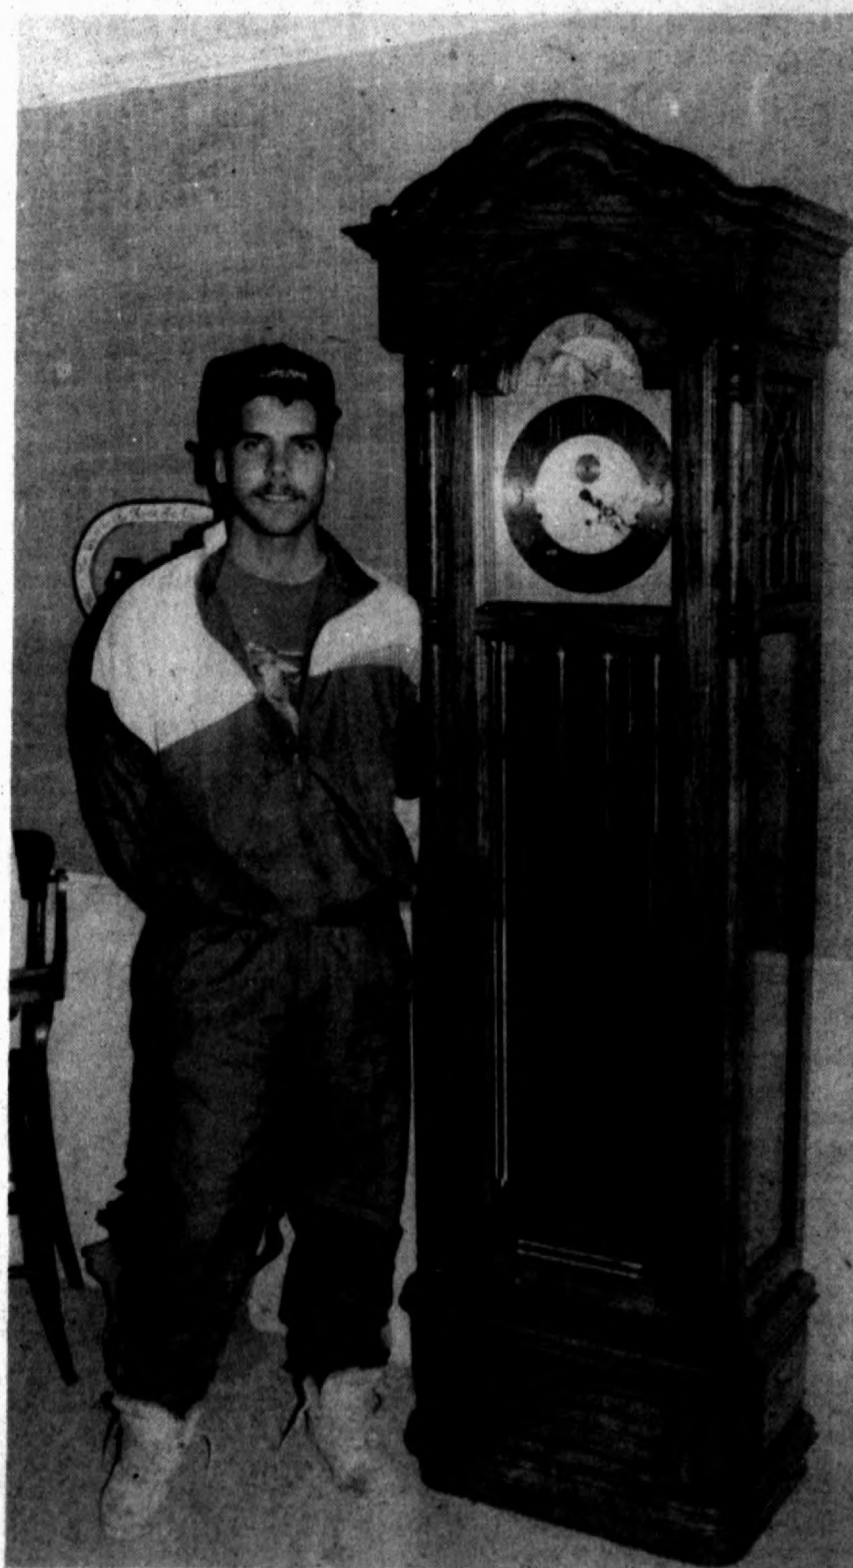

BIVINS

-Require the Higher Education Coordinating Board to provide the legislature with estimated costs of expanding or merging colleges and universities. Bivins said the legislature often doesn't realize the long-term costs to taxpayers when it approves the expansions and mergers of colleges. This is Senate Bill 69.

-Revise amusement ride insurance fees. Bivins said amusement parks with such rides as go-carts are required to pay a fee for each individual car, rather than one fee for the entire attraction. Senate Bill 70 would allow amusement parks to pay one fee for go-cart tracks and other similar rides.

-Allow insurance companies to impose a surcharge on policies when clients receive a traffic ticket. Bivins said many insurance companies now refuse to renew policies when clients receive a ticket because carriers are prohibited from raising premiums for traffic violations. Senate Bill 71 would discourage insurance companies from dropping policy holders by allowing carriers to adjust charges for traffic violations.

-Eliminate per diem for service on state boards and commissions. However, Senate Bill 72 would allow members to be compensated for actual and necessary expenses related to their service. Bivins said such a change would allow members of state boards and commissions to seek elective office without first being forced to resign.

Chad's clock cops contest

Chad Kriegshauser's floor clock, built in 1986 when he was a senior at Hereford High School, has won him first place among about 1,200 entries in Klockit's Create-A-Clock Contest. The Wisconsin company awarded him a plaque, gift certificate and will picture his clock in the company's spring catalog. Chad's parents, Gary and Betty Kriegshauser, have the clock prominently displayed in their home, 226 Centre.

Countdown to 1993

Before the holiday vacation comes to a halt and old routines are back in full swing, here are some activities to enjoy with your family to round out the season.

-Get out some construction paper, markers and pens and set aside an afternoon or evening to help your kids draw and write "thank you" cards. Your kids will develop a good habit that can last a lifetime.

Younger children will be challenged to make one or two, while older kids can make a list of their gifts and then acknowledge each of them in a short note. For a special touch, take a picture of your child playing with and using the gift. Affix the picture to the card or letter. The relative or friend who gave your child the gift will appreciate the thoughtfulness.

-"De" trimming the tree and "un" decorating the house, as my kids say, is boring and anticlimactic. Many other cultures celebrate the event with music and special treats. Your family may wish to do the same. So, liven up the task and make it a party as you share memories of the holidays and get a job done. If some of your decorations were garlands of popcorn, cranberries, etc., hang them on bushes or trees outside for your feathered friends to enjoy. You may also find dried-out dinner rolls or bread crusts in the corner of a cupboard to add to the feast. If you have a few pinecones form an arrangement, roll the pinecones in peanut butter and birdseed. Tie a piece of string at the top of each cone and hang the classic treats from a tree or bird feeder.

-Take a quiet moment to reflect on your responsibilities as a parent of a young child or children and set priorities for family life in 1993. Jot your resolutions on a card as a reminder of your commitment to young lives.

Senior 4-H'ers to compete

Deaf Smith County 4-H'ers will participate in the District 4-H Food Show Jan. 9, 1993, at Randall High School. Senior competitors are, from left, Amanda Sims, Cady Auckerman, Karon Harder and Kinann Campbell.

Help "strike out epilepsy"

The High Plains Epilepsy Association will hold its 9th Annual Bowl-a-Thon on Saturday, Jan. 23, 1993, at Western Bowl in Amarillo.

The event is designed to raise funds to help support medical services for persons with epilepsy in the 26 counties of the Texas Panhandle.

Teams comprised of five bowlers will compete for fabulous prizes and have chances to win door prizes. Each bowler will bowl three games. The grand prize of 2 airline tickets from Southwest airlines will go to the bowler with the most donations. There will be a drawing for the second grand prize, free use of a car phone for one year courtesy of cellular one of Amarillo.

If you would like to bowl in this special event please call The Association at 372-3891.

Draper recognized by Wyche members

Argen Draper was given special recognition for programs she obtained and presented this past year when members of Wyche Extension Homemakers Club met recently in the home of Mary Stubblefield.

Pet Ott presented Draper with a special plaque engraved with the honoree's name.

Also, during the club's annual Christmas party, Marcie Ginn gave a unique rendition of "The Lord's Prayer." Games were played, gifts exchanged and refreshments were served.

Maudette Smith installed 1993 officers. Serving as president will be Jo Lee; vice president, Marcie Ginn; secretary, Coreen Odom; treasurer, Mary Stubblefield; council delegate, Carol Odom; and reporter, Clara Trowbridge.

Members present were Mary Lou Aven, Louise Axe, Shirley Brown, Argen Draper, Virgie Duncan, Marcie Ginn, Camelia Jones, Jo Lee, Carol Odom, Coreen Odom, Pet Ott, Mary Stubblefield, Barbara Sterne, Clara Trowbridge and Maudette Smith.

Wyche club members meet the first and third Thursdays of each month except in the summer. Visitors are invited to attend and are welcome to join the club.

Hints from Heloise

HUNT AND SEEK

Dear Heloise: This is in regard to managing refrigerated leftovers.

I bought a grease pencil and write the name of the leftover on the lid of the plastic container I store it in. It is easily removed with warm water and a little kitchen cleaner.

I also keep a roll of masking tape handy, and if there is no place on the lid to write, I put the name on a small piece of tape.

Either method marks each container individually and works much better than a list hanging on the refrigerator or freezer door. — Harriet Ficker, Cherry Valley, Calif.

Herd cagers start tourneys with wins

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Santa Claus brought wins to Hereford High School's basketball teams.

In the Kerrville tournament, the girls' team broke out in a big way by beating Class 5A Denton 66-36, while, closer to home, the boys' team opened the Canyon Rotary Holiday Boys' Basketball Tournament with a 64-46 pasting of Floydada.

In Kerrville, the Lady Whitefaces got 23 points from Stephanie Wilcox and 17 from Misty Dudley, and two girls had school record-breaking performances: Jamie Simpson with 13 assists and Claudia Ramirez with 10 steals.

Despite the great individual efforts, coach Loy Triana said the game was won with team defense and patient offense.

"It was just a complete team effort," he said. "They finally came together. They showed patience on offense; they didn't rush. We scored 66 points, and not as a running team. It was complete defensive domination. We stopped them defensively, and that sparked us offensively."

Denton had a girl who stood 6-foot-3, but she wasn't much of a factor (eight points) due to Jill Robinson's defense, Triana said.

Hereford controlled the second quarter 19-9 because of numerous layups, Triana said, and when Denton packed the defense tighter Hereford hit its outside shots. Wilcox was 6-of-6 from three-point distance.

Hereford outscored Denton 16-8 in the third quarter and 20-7 in the fourth.

It was Hereford's second win against 11 losses.

The Lady Whitefaces play this afternoon against the winner of the late Plainview-Fredericksburg game. Both are ranked in the top ten in the state.

"We have a battle ahead, but I think this win is going to help us," Triana said. "They finally understand what kind of basketball I'm talking about."

Hereford's boys got a game-high 18 points from Richard Sanderson, and Kyle Hansen added 12 points in beating Floydada. Hereford took a 15-9 lead after one quarter and led 29-22 at halftime. The Herd poured it on in the fourth quarter, turning a 41-36 third quarter lead into a 64-46 final score.

The Herd is now 6-7, and will go for the elusive .500 mark at 7:30 tonight against Canyon, a 59-44 winner over Littlefield. Canyon edged Hereford 52-48 on Dec. 15 in Hereford.

Canyon's record is 8-7. The other semifinal in the Canyon tournament is between Highland Park (9-2) and Snyder (10-3). They meet at 6 today.

Sims makes Super Team

Hereford senior linebacker Eric Sims was named to the Amarillo Globe News Super Team announced in the Amarillo Sunday News-Globe.

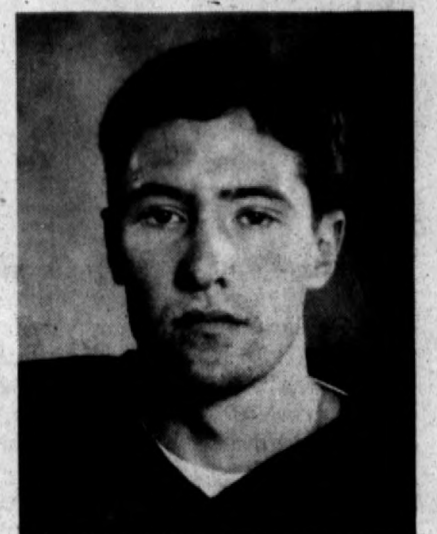

Sims was the only Hereford player named to the team, which considers players of all classifications.

Sims was honored for his season, which included 118 tackles (eight for losses), five sacks, two forced fumbles and two pass knock downs.

Sims played the weak-side positions, where his speed was critical. Hereford's defense corals the other team's blockers; that freed Sims to roam the field to make plays.

"What Eric did best was cover up on the back side," the Amarillo paper quoted Hancy. "He made a lot of plays that saved touchdowns for us."

Players from teams that faced Hereford during the season that made the team included quarterback Brandon Barker of Randall; running back Damien Nails, guard Stacy Ward and defensive back Steven Riddle of Plainview; center Derek

SIMS

Leinen, defensive lineman Brandon Slay and defensive back Stephen Scott of Tascosa; defensive lineman Sheldon Mallory and defensive back Ronald Kemp of Palo Duro; running back James Smith of Dumas; and offensive tackle Chris Whitney of Pampa.

Montana returns, leads 49ers to win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Joe Montana answered the most important questions.

He can still pass. He can still play. He can still take a hit, pick himself up and throw some more.

And he can still win.

Montana returned from a nearly two-year, injury-caused absence to throw two fourth-quarter touchdown passes and the San Francisco 49ers pulled away for a 24-6 win over the Detroit Lions in Monday night's final regular season game.

The 49ers (14-2), who closed with eight straight wins, have a first-round bye in the playoffs and will play host to a divisional playoff on Jan. 9.

Detroit, which reached the NFC championship last year, finished 5-11 to conclude a disappointing, injury-racked season.

"I'm glad it's over. It's been a long year for us," Detroit coach Wayne Fontes said. "We may have a poor record, but we're not that bad a football team. We gave them all they could handle for one half. The second half, we had nothing offensively. But they deserve all the credit."

Montana, 36, the oldest player on the 49ers' roster, was greeted by a standing ovation and numerous "welcome back" signs when he opened the second half in relief of starter Steve Young.

He outscored Young 17-7, directing three scoring drives in the rainy, windy weather, beginning with a Mike Cofer field goal that gave San Francisco a 10-6 lead with 13:18 remaining.

Cornerback Don Griffin intercepted an Andre Ware pass to give San Francisco possession at the Detroit 26. Montana scrambled 16 yards to the 10, Amp Lee gained a yard on a run, and after an incompleton, Montana hit Brent Jones with a 9-yard scoring pass.

Montana brought the crowd to its feet again when he threw an 8-yard touchdown pass to Lee with 1:15 remaining. The score capped a beautifully executed 76-yard march in which Montana completed all five of his passes.

"That was vintage Montana - drop back, boom; drop back, boom," 49ers center Jesse Sapolu said. "Everybody wanted to know the answers to a lot of questions. They wanted to know if he could pass, if he could scramble. Well, Joe answered a lot of those questions."

There was one question Montana couldn't answer, and the one who could said he wasn't ready. San Francisco coach George Seifert said he needed more time before deciding whether Montana would displace Steve Bono as the team's No. 2 quarterback for the playoffs.

Known for his cool demeanor, Montana said he was surprised he was so nervous when he entered the game.

"In terms of butterflies, this one's near the top," he said.

Montana finished with 126 yards, completing 15 of 21 throws. His first completion, a four-yarder to Marc Logan, put him over 35,000 passing yards for his career.

"It's been a while, so I figured I'd be rusty," Montana said. "I just tried to tell myself not to be over-cautious. I just didn't want to make a big mistake."

He didn't.

He has said repeatedly that he would be unwilling to remain with San Francisco as a backup to Young.

The 49ers, down 6-0 after a pair of field goals by Jason Hanson, took a 7-6 halftime lead on Logan's 1-yard touchdown run with 3:14 left in the second quarter.

Young shook off a sack by Tracy Scroggins to complete a 23-yard pass to Jones for a first down at the 5. He threw to Rice for 3 yards and Detroit was called twice for encroachment before Logan went over left tackle for the score.

Ware took Detroit on two long drives, but both ended in field goals as Hanson kicked a 44-yarder in the first period and a 50-yarder in the second.

Ware was sacked six times, including three by Tim Harris. Harris had 17 sacks on the year to finish one behind NFL leader Clyde Simmons.

Differences with owner doom Reeves

DENVER (AP) - "Life goes on," Denver Broncos coach Dan Reeves told a news conference. And the Broncos will go on without Reeves at the helm.

Reeves was fired Monday, ending a 12-year career in Denver that included three Super Bowl appearances and five AFC West Division titles. Reeves, 48, announced his own firing at a news conference at Broncos headquarters.

Reeves admitted that he and owner Pat Bowlen differed over how the team should be run, with Reeves preferring to retain control and Bowlen wanting it to be shared.

In addition to serving as head coach, Reeves was offensive coordinator and team vice president, with power over virtually all player personnel decisions. Bowlen wanted responsibilities spread around.

"When you own a football team, you should be able to run the ballclub the way you would like to," Reeves said.

Bowlen said Reeves made some allowances, but said he did not think a new arrangement would work.

Bowlen said he will go to New York to attend to NFL matters before he begins the task of hiring a new coach next week. He said a new coach will be hired within a month.

Reeves said defensive coordinator Wade Phillips would be a good candidate. Former offensive coordinator Mike Shanahan's name also has surfaced.

The Broncos, who reached the AFC title game last season before losing 10-7 in Buffalo, ended their season 8-8 after a 42-20 loss at Kansas City that knocked them from the playoffs. They started 7-3 but lost four straight games after quarterback John Elway was injured.

Reeves led Denver to five first-place finishes and three second-place finishes in the AFC West Division. His Bronco teams also appeared in four AFC championship games and three Super Bowls, losing all three times.

Reeves had said he wanted to negotiate one more contract with Denver and then retire at age 55. Reeves earned about $950,000 during the last year of his present contract, and with a 110-73-1 regular season record was the fourth-winningest active coach.

Swilling, Marshall head NFL's All-Pro roster

NEW YORK (AP) - What's the deepest position in the NFL? Try outside linebacker, where the best athletes play - and where just about every team has one.

The two best in 1992, as selected by a nationwide panel of media members, were Pat Swilling of the New Orleans Saints and Wilber Marshall of the Washington Redskins.

"It's something you look forward to on a personal level," said Swilling, the NFL Defensive Player of the Year last season who had another terrific year in '92. "It's very satisfying."

Marshall wasn't getting his hopes up for post-season honors after failing to make All-Pro or even the Pro Bowl in 1991.

"This year, I really didn't think about it; all the guys want to make it, but as well as I played last year, it was disappointing, so I thought, why put yourself in that position to go through it again?" Marshall said.

"I've proved that just playing well, no-matter what I say or do on the field, is part of the game."

Swilling and Marshall each drew 34 out of 80 votes. They beat out such stars as Seth Joyner, Rickey Jackson, Derrick Thomas, Tim Harris, Bryan Cox and Simon Fletcher.

"There are so many great players in this league and a lot of them are at linebacker," Swilling said. "So being selected is something to be proud of."

The inside linebackers are Junior Seau of San Diego and Al Smith of Houston.

Leading all defensive vote-getters was Seattle tackle Cortez Kennedy with 71 votes. That far outdistanced Seau, the runner-up in total votes with 58.

Also making the All-Pro team on defense were Eagles end Clyde Simmons; Vikings end Chris Doleman; Oilers tackle Ray Childress; Steelers cornerback Rod Woodson; Vikings cornerback Audray McMillian; Bills safety Henry Jones; Broncos safety Steve Atwater; and Cardinals punter Rich Camarillo.

Steve Young and Sterling Sharpe got the most votes for the team, announced Monday. Young, who replaced perennial All-Pro Joe Montana as quarterback for the San Francisco 49ers, received 78 votes. Sharpe, the ace receiver of the Green Bay Packers who set an NFL mark with 108 receptions this year.

Joining Sharpe at receiver was Jerry Rice, Young's pass-catch partner in San Francisco who made the team for the sixth time.

One other 49er, tackle Harris Barton, made the All-Pro squad.

Also on offense were Cowboys running back Emmitt Smith; Steelers running back Barry Foster; Cowboys tight end Jay Novacek; Oilers center Bruce Matthews; Vikings guard Randall McDaniel; Dolphins tackle Richmond Webb; Raiders guard Steve Wisniewski; Dolphins placekicker Pete Stoyanovich; and Falcons kick returner Deion Sanders.

Fourteen players from the NFC and 12 from the AFC made the squad. Only Wisniewski repeated from the 1991 offensive team. Defensive repeaters were Swilling, Simmons and Atwater.

Joining the 49ers with three players on the All-Pro team were Houston and Minnesota.

The second team offense featured a tie at quarterback between Buffalo's Jim Kelly and Philadelphia's Randall Cunningham, each with one vote. Joining them were running backs Thurman Thomas, Buffalo, and Barry Sanders, Detroit; receivers Michael Irvin, Dallas, and Andre Rison, Atlanta; tight end Keith Jackson, Miami; tackles Steve Wallace, San Francisco, and Paul Gruber, Tampa Bay; guards Guy McIntyre, San Francisco, and Mike Munchak, Houston; center Mark Stepnoski, Dallas; placekicker Morten Andersen, New Orleans; and kick returner Mel Gray, Detroit.

On defense, it was ends Reggie White, Philadelphia, and Bruce Smith, Buffalo; tackle Pierce Holt, San Francisco; nose tackle Greg Kragen, Denver; outside linebackers Rickey Jackson, New Orleans, and Seth Joyner, Philadelphia; inside linebackers Sam Mills, New Orleans, and Chris Spielman, Detroit; cornerbacks Gill Byrd, San Diego, and Deion Sanders, Atlanta; safeties Tim McDonald, Phoenix, and Louis Oliver, Miami; and punter - Rohn Stark, Indianapolis.

Arizona doesn't respect Baylor, SWC

EL PASO (AP) - Baylor is quickly learning that the Southwest Conference doesn't command a lot of respect with the Pac-10's Arizona.

"They will get some respect for the Southwest Conference," said linebacker Le'Shai Matson. "If they don't get some now, they're going to get some after the game."

Baylor takes on an Arizona team that has the No. 2 defense in the nation and an offense that helped defeat four teams with winning records when the two meet in Thursday's John Hancock Bowl.

Running backs Ontwaun Carter,

Chuck Levy and Billy Johnson proudly boast rushing for about 200 yards against the top rushing defenses of Miami, Washington and Stanford.

Although Baylor's rushing defense held opponents to 3.7 yards per run, the backs said they're not worried because Baylor is a SWC team.

"As far as intimidation from the defense, they can give that up," said Carter. "We've run across Washington, Miami... We've been against the best and they're just one of many."

"From what we understand they've billed this as a conference against conference thing, Pac-10 against the Southwest Conference. I think we do have the better conference," Levy said.

But Arizona has not fared well against Southwest conference teams and has a 6-34-2 record against them. The Wildcats have never played Baylor.

"Nobody runs against us, because we're smash-mouth football types," Maston said. "What they don't understand is the Southwest Conference is very very, very COM-petitive, it's cut-throat football. When conference play starts, everybody's equal."

Baylor held Georgia Tech to 58 rushing yards in a 31-27 victory.

Most of Arizona's points came on the ground this season. Carter led the team with 739 yards rushing, but the scoring was spread among the three backs who say they each have their own styles.

"I'm more finesse, get out in a flash, catch a pass here and there. Billy is more power than the three of us and Tiwaun is the scatback. With that, that makes a good mix," Levy said. "Myself, I think we got the best backs in the nation, we all can block."

That mix of styles should keep Baylor guessing, Johnson said.

"You have a team with one great back, then you just gear to stop him but you can't stop three backs, that's nearly impossible."

The three say they try to top one another.

"It's, 'I got's to get mine,'" Levy said.

Sweeney knows Southern Cal

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - Jim Sweeney's Fresno State Bulldogs are underdogs in tonight's Freedom Bowl match against Southern Cal, a role that the coach knows well.

While he was the coach at Washington State, Sweeney was 0-7 against USC.

"I've been beaten by the Trojans all my life, so they're not going to get a guy who's not been there before," Sweeney said Monday.

This time, Sweeney goes in with the nation's highest-scoring team, averaging 40.5 points a game.

The Bulldogs' coach doesn't, however, expect an extremely high-scoring game at Anaheim Stadium.

"We've averaged 40 points a game, but we were not playing against the University of Washington and we were not playing against Notre Dame," he said. "I think it will be a low-scoring game."

Larry Smith, coach of the 23rd-ranked Trojans, thinks the scoreboard may get a workout.

"I know Jim Sweeney and he will pull out all the stops," Smith said. "We are prepared for that because we will do the same."

Cowboys cut Richards loose

IRVING (AP) - Jimmy Johnson sent a message to his NFC East champion Dallas Cowboys: If you fumble, your job is likely to tumble.

Ask Curvin Richards about Johnson's distaste for miscues.

Richards, a 5-9, 195-pound 1991 fourth-round draft pick, got the axe Monday a day after he scored a touchdown and made a fumble that cost the Cowboys a touchdown in a 27-14 victory over Chicago.

"It hit the point where I had enough," said Johnson. "Curvin has a lot of talent but he hasn't shown he can be depended upon."

Tommie Agee will backup Emmitt Smith for the Cowboys playoff game on Jan. 10 in Texas Stadium.

Copper matches similar teams

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) - Tonight's Copper Bowl matching Utah and 18th-ranked Washington State brings together teams with a lot in common.

Washington State and Utah both have prolific passers directing wide-open offenses and throwing to a raft of talented receivers, backed up by strong runners.

Both have hard-hitting, opportunistic, swarming defenses particularly strong against the pass, though Washington State has been more stingy against the run.

And both play with an enthusiasm reflecting the outgoing personalities of their coaches: Washington State's Mike Price and Utah's Ron McBride.

"Our teams'll look alike," Price said. "Their colors are red and white, ours our crimson and gray."

"When they make a good play they jump around, they get high-fives and have fun, and that's what our guys do too."

The Cougars averaged 406 yards on offense, Utah 416 this season.

Utah (6-5, 4-4 in the Western Athletic Conference) gave up 164.7 passing yards a game, Washington State 173.2. The Utes allowed 101.5 more rushing yards per game (228 to 126.5) and 93 more total yards a game (392.7 to 299.7).

But Utah blocked 10 punts and place kicks.

McBride said Washington State (8-3, 5-3 in the Pacific 10 Conference) has "a storming type" defense that runs well to the ball, hits hard and is "extremely quick."

McBride singled out middle linebacker Pita Tonga, whose nine-tackle average per game led the Utes.

ACS warns public of deceptive fundraisers

Triple bypass heart surgery and a stroke left Emilio Blouin disabled and with substantial medical bills. When he got a letter a few months ago telling him he had won $5,000 in a sweepstakes, he thought at least some of his problems were over.

"I was completely surprised. I was so elated," said Blouin, 77, of Phoenix.

He and his wife, Mary, followed the instructions on the prize notification letter, which asked them to send in money which would be donated to a charitable cause. They sent a $25 check to the Cancer Fund of America and waited. But their $5,000 prize never came.

The Blouins are among thousands of consumers around the country who have complained to charity regulators that they were tricked into making contributions.

Attorneys general in Iowa, Missouri, Minnesota, Massachusetts, and Illinois have filed suit against the Watson and Hughey Co., a direct-mail fund-raiser which represents a number of charities. They allege that the Alexandria, Va., company engages in fraudulent fund raising with its sweepstakes prize announcement letters.

Many consumers have complained to charity regulators that they were sent letters telling them they had won $5,000 or some other amount in a Cash Bonanza or Irish Sweepstakes. To claim their prize, they were asked to make a voluntary contribution which would go toward a charity.

After sending in donations and a form to claim their prize, most received checks for only 10 cents.

The Iowa suit alleges that Watson and Hughey's solicitations are "targeted toward susceptible populations, including elderly people who may be unable to read deceptively worded disclosures buried in fine print."

The award notices are signed by Washington attorney Robert R. Stone, who defended the fund-raising tactics. "I don't believe they're misleading if they read the facts. But some people don't read everything."

Watson and Hughey Co., is headed by Jerry C. Watson and Byron C. Hughey, both of Virginia. Most of their clients are small charities with no large-scale fund-raising experience, according to the Chronicle of Philanthropy, a trade publication.

Watson and Hughey clients have included the Leukemia Research Foundation; the Cancer Fund of America of Knoxville, Tenn.; Pacific West Cancer Fund of Seattle, Wash.; Walker Cancer Research Institute of Edgewood, Md.; Social Security Protection Agency of Washington; American Heart Disease Prevention Foundation, Inc., of Monclair, N.J.; and Project Cure/Center for Alternative Cancer Research, of Washington.

Some state attorneys general allege that little of the money raised through Watson and Hughey actually goes toward research.

"Normally, less than 5% of the contributions are used for research or some kind of service for the people they say they're going to help," Ms. Burt said.

The Minnesota suit alleges that one of the charities, Project Cure/Center for Alternative Cancer Research of Washington.

Some state attorneys general allege that little of the money raised through Watson and Hughey actually goes toward research.

"Normally, less than 5% of the contributions are used for research or some kind of service for the people they say they're going to help," Ms. Burt said.

The Minnesota suit alleges that one of the charities, Project Cure/Center for Alternative Cancer Research, reported $3.6 million in revenue for 1987, but allocated nothing for research. The majority of the $3.6 million went to management and fund raising expenses, according to the suit.

James T. Reynolds, President of the Cancer Fund of America, denied that his organization tries to trick people with Watson and Hughey's fund raising letters.

"They (consumers) are familiar with the rules," Reynolds said. "How in the world do you write everything so that everybody understands it?"

Also named in several suits is a for-profit organization called the Social Security Protection Bureau. It sells consumers statements of their Social Security record, Social Security cards, and information on Social Security rule changes, according to one of its fund-raising letters.

A call to the organization was referred to the Social Security Administration which is not affiliated with the company.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am retired and living on a limited income. I enjoy going to auctions and garage sales where I pick up items my wife and I can use around our home. Over the years, I've discovered that one person's trash may be another person's treasure and I have bought some rather extraordinary pieces at fantastically low prices.

Not long ago, I purchased several items from a dealer who told me he had bought a whole houseful of furniture, clothing and household goods from a man whose wife had died recently. The man had sold his home and wanted to sell everything in it and move to a retirement center.

When I came home with my purchases, I went throughout everything to sort out the items that needed mending, cleaning and so on. I was stunned when I found a rather large sum of money in the pocket of a bathrobe. My wife thinks I am morally obligated to return the money "because it wasn't intended to be part of your purchase." I believe it is rightfully mine. Had I bought the items from the original seller, I would certainly return the money to him, but if I take the money back to the dealer, I doubt very much that he will return it to the man.

May we have your opinion, please? -- Finders Keepers, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Dear O. City: You paid for the garment, and it belongs to you -- all of it, including what's in the pocket. There is, however, a moral question. If I were you, I'd try to contact the original owner and return the money. If he has any decency, he should give you a generous reward. "I'm sure many readers will disagree with this advice. Will you please let me know if you took it and what happened?"

Dear Ann Landers: I am an attractive professional woman in my late 20s, unmarried, financially secure and proud of what I've done with my life.

I'm in love with "Rick," who is quite wonderful and treats me great. We've been seeing each other for more than a year and have a terrific time together. The only thing that worries me is that he throws money around like crazy and hasn't saved a dime in all the years he's been working. He makes a very good salary but spends it faster than he can earn it.

Rick never asks me for money, and we often split the dinner checks. We've talked about ways to solve his problem of living from hand to mouth and he says he's trying to control his spending, but he still can't get a dollar ahead. I've tried to help Rick save money by taking a little from each of his paychecks and putting it away, but he always needs it to pay another bill. If I marry this man, will I wind up supporting both of us?

Love means more to me than money ever will. Should I be worried? Am I butting in where I shouldn't be? I really need your advice, Ann. What should I do? -- Liquid Assets in Michigan

Dear Liquid: If you are in love with Rick, he treats you "great" and the only negative is his crazy spending, there is a simple solution. Insist that he hand over his paycheck and live on an allowance once you are married.

The man must not have any credit cards or charge accounts. If he will agree to all of the above and not feel that you are emasculating him, I see no reason why you two can't have a good marriage.

Surgical procedure offers new hope

A new procedure called thoracoscopic radical thymectomy offers hope to people with myasthenia gravis, a debilitating nerve disorder, say surgeons at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Until now, traditional myasthenia gravis surgery has involved opening the chest to remove the thymus, a gland that plays a key role in immunity. It develops a growth that turns the usually protective immune system against the sufferer.

Thoracoscopic radical thymectomy is safer and less traumatic than the standard surgery, says Dr. Jim Garza, a clinical instructor of medicine at Baylor.

With thoracoscopic radical thymectomy, a thoracoscope, a viewing instrument, is inserted in a small opening in the chest, allowing the surgeon to locate and remove the thymus gland.

"By making tiny incisions in the patient loses less blood, experiences less pain and is less likely to be put on a ventilator after surgery," Garza said.

Myasthenia gravis causes the immune system to block nerve messages to the facial, throat, lung and limb muscles. The disease makes tasks such as talking, smiling, and swallowing difficult, and can lead to respiratory failure and death.

Although rare, myasthenia gravis primarily affects women in their 20s and 30s, but can also strike men in their 50s and 60s.

"Plenty of rest and medication is usually the first line of treatment," Garza said. "But for many patients, removal of the thymus gland can diminish debilitating symptoms, reduce medication, and is a potentially life-saving surgery."

He recommends people with myasthenia gravis symptoms of muscle weakness and extreme fatigue consult a neurologist.

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

- All 172 pages in full color
- Each page measures a large 15 x 11 inches
- Presents the entire state in stunning detail
- Appendices and specialty maps of many different features

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

What they're saying about "The Roads of Texas"

"When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS... you'll wonder how you ever travelled the state without it."
Texas Highways Magazine
October, 1988

"For details of Texas terrain, oil company maps and the State's Official Highway Map can't match THE ROADS OF TEXAS."

Miner helps Heat gain initial win over Lakers

By The Associated Press

Harold Miner was a high school senior living a short distance away from the Great Western Forum in Inglewood, Calif., when the Miami Heat joined the NBA in 1988.

Four years later, the Heat were still waiting for their first victory over the Lakers when Miner stepped forward. Miner scored 12 of his 18 points in the fourth quarter, and Miami overcame an early 18-point deficit to earn its first win in 11 games over the Lakers, 107-96 Monday night.

"Growing up, I celebrated when the Lakers won and I cried when they lost," said Miner, who played at Inglewood High School and Southern Cal. "I knew the game was being televised back in L.A., so I was glad I was able to play well."

An added incentive for Miner was the fact that the Southern Cal basketball team and Miner's former coach, George Raveling, attended the game.

"With all the guys and Coach Rav in the stands, it was extra special," Miner said.

The Heat took their first lead of the game, 86-84, with 6:11 left on a layup by Grant Long, who finished with 21 points.

After two free throws by the Lakers' Sam Perkins, a three-point play by Kevin Edwards, who scored 23 points, and another layup by Long gave Miami a 91-86 advantage at the 5:16 mark.

Long's third layup in less than three minutes extended the margin to 93-87 with 3:44 to go before James Worthy, who led the Lakers with 26 points, closed Los Angeles within two with a basket and two free throws. But two layups by Miner made it 97-91 with 2:11 left.

The Heat then scored their last 10 points from the free-throw line to seal the outcome.

Jazz 114, Timberwolves 95

Utah won its seventh straight game at home following a 1-4 start, beating Minnesota with 15-0 and 13-0 spurts.

Karl Malone scored 21 points and John Stockton had 13 points, 20 assists and seven steals for the Jazz, who handed the Timberwolves their seventh consecutive loss.

Bullets 97, Hawks 96

Visiting Atlanta tied the score with 25 seconds left on a four-point play by Paul Graham, but Washington snapped a nine-game losing streak when Pervis Ellison connected on 1 of 2 free throws with 5.7 seconds remaining.

Harvey Grant led the Bullets with 25 points, while Ellison scored 21 points and Tom Gugliotta had 18 points and 13 rebounds. Graham paced the Hawks with 29 points.

Warriors 106, Spurs 105

Golden State won at San Antonio, handing coach John Lucas his first loss in four games as Chris Mullin scored 42 points, including a go-ahead jumper with 8.2 seconds remaining.

Mullin hit a career-high 19 field goals in 31 attempts for the Warriors, who snapped the Spurs' four-game winning streak since Jerry Tarkanian was fired on Dec. 18, including three wins with Lucas as coach.

Cavaliers 98, Pistons 89

Mark Price had six points and three assists during a 12-0 run at the start of the fourth quarter, lifting Cleveland over Detroit.

Price had 28 points and 12 assists and Larry Nance 27 points and 11 rebounds for Cleveland. Terry Mills and Joe Dumars each scored 23 points and Dennis Rodman grabbed 18 rebounds for Detroit, playing without Isiah Thomas because of a death in the family.

Magic 110, Bucks 94

At Orlando, Shaquille O'Neal had 21 points, 14 rebounds and five blocked shots as the Magic outmuscled Milwaukee inside.

Orlando, winners of five of six games, outrebounded the Bucks 61-30 and blocked 11 of their shots while holding them to 37.6 percent shooting.

Dennis Scott scored 25 points, including five 3-pointers, to boost his league-leading total to 60.

Nets 104, Hornets 103

Chris Morris scored 26 points and Kenny Anderson had 13 points, 11 rebounds and 11 assists in New Jersey's victory at home over Charlotte.

New Jersey led 102-93 with 2:18 remaining, but Charlotte scored 10 of the next 12 points to make it 104-103 with 28 seconds to play.

Pitt's whipping of UCLA helps Big East's image

By The Associated Press

The Big East isn't supposed to be so big this season. Don't send that theory UCLA's way.

The 11th-ranked Bruins dropped to 7-2 Monday night when they lost to Pittsburgh 91-79. Both of UCLA's defeats have been to Big East teams - Seton Hall downed the Bruins in the semifinals of the preseason NIT.

"Beating a team of UCLA's caliber really helps us going into Big East," said Chris McNeal, the Panthers' top returning scorer who broke out of a shooting slump with 26 points. Pitt is 7-1, with the only loss to conference foe Georgetown.

Facing a Big East team is something UCLA probably ought to avoid for a while.

"We've already been cross-country three times this month and maybe it took too much out of us. ... They played a high-energy game and we didn't," UCLA coach Jim Harrick said.

Jerry McCullough added 19 points for Pitt, while Tyus Edney had 20 points for UCLA.

It was a busy night among the Top 25, including a matchup of No. 6 Michigan and No. 20 Nebraska at the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu. The Wolverines won 88-73.

Also at the Rainbow Classic, No. 5 North Carolina ripped Southwestern Louisiana 80-59.

No. 3 Kentucky beat Rutgers 89-67 in the first round of the Holiday Festival in New York. Fourth-ranked Indiana won the Hoosier Classic 85-65 over Colorado at Indianapolis. No. 8 Iowa downed Texas Southern 91-70. Arkansas, ranked ninth, defeated Coastal Carolina 93-74, and No. 10 Georgetown slipped past Hawaii Pacific 78-65 in the opening round of the Freedom Bowl Classic at Irvine, Calif.

In other games, it was No. 13 Purdue over Florida 67-63; No. 18 Florida State over Maryland-Baltimore County 109-80; No. 22 Arizona over Delaware State 92-52 at the Fiesta Bowl Classic; No. 23 Connecticut over Hartford 91-66; No. 24 Vanderbilt over Air Force 95-50 in the Music City Invitational; and Oregon upending No. 25 Brigham Young 76-70 in the Far West Classic in Portland.

No. 6 Michigan 88, Nebraska 73

Eric Riley, who lost his starting job when the Fab Five arrived last year, came up with his biggest game of the season. The 7-foot senior helped the Wolverines dominate the boards and finished with 13 points and 10 rebounds.

No. 5 North Carolina 80, SW Louisiana 59

The Tar Heels led just 50-46 with 10:36 to play. Then 7-foot Eric Montross returned from the bench and sparked North Carolina. Montross and George Lynch each had 17 points.

No. 3 Kentucky 89, Rutgers 67

Jamal Mashburn, who grew up in Harlem and played high school ball in the Bronx, had 22 points, five rebounds and five steals in his first college game in Madison Square Garden.

No. 4 Indiana 85, Colorado 65

In winning the Hoosier Classic, Indiana got 20 points from Calbert Cheaney, 19 by Alan Henderson and 17 from tournament MVP Damon Bailey. Henderson also had 12 rebounds and blocked three shots.

No. 8 Iowa 91, Texas Southern 70

Acie Earl set an Iowa record with nine steals and scored 15 points. The Hawkeyes (9-0) also had Val Barnes score 15 points and James Winters and Chris Street add 13 apiece, with Street getting 16 rebounds.

No. 9 Arkansas 93, Coastal Carolina 74

The Razorbacks improved to 8-0 by forcing 32 turnovers. Robert Shepherd had 15 points and seven steals, while Tony Dunkin led the Chanticleers with 23 points.

No. 10 Georgetown 78, Hawaii Pacific 65

Freshman Othella Harrington scored 26 points and grabbed 11 rebounds. Joey Brown and Robert Churchwell added 16 points each for the Hoyas.

No. 13 Purdue 67, Florida 63

Glen Robinson had 18 points, making five of seven free throws in the final 2:21.

No. 18 Florida State 109, Maryland-Baltimore County 80

Sam Cassell scored 31 points in coach Pat Kennedy's 250th career win. The Seminoles played without their second-leading scorer, Doug Edwards, who dislocated a finger blocking a shot in pre-game warmups.

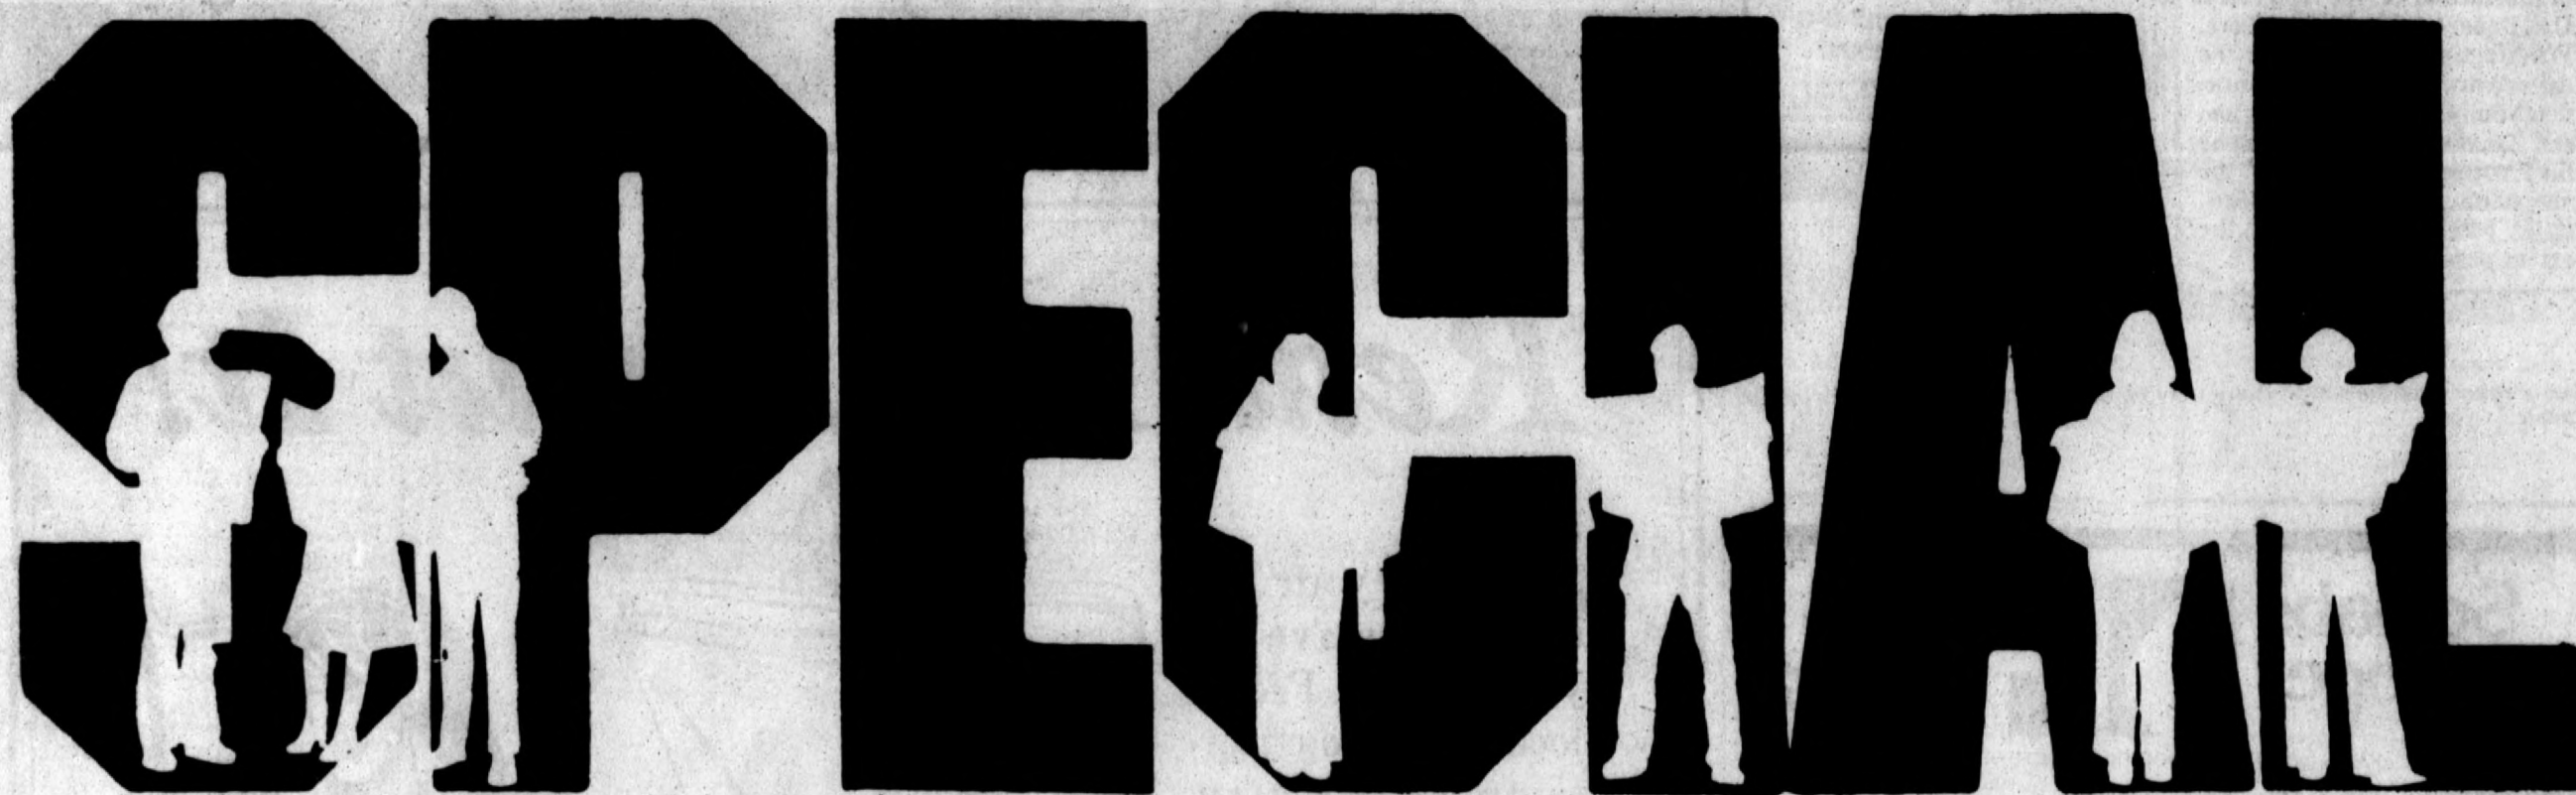

No. 22 Arizona 92, Delaware State 52

Chris Mills hit six 3-pointers before halftime. Arizona held Delaware State scoreless for more than six minutes of a second-half, 20-9 charge.

No. 23 Connecticut 91, Hartford 66

Scott Burrell scored 28 points, matching his career high, before 18 NBA scouts representing 16 teams. They also came to see Hartford's Vin Baker, who scored 19 points.
