Third Breaks Out In Force

Heavy Bombers Soften Enemy Lines As 55-Mile Front Goes Into Action

By HOWARD COWAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The U. S. Third Army hurled four more divisions today into a major offensive along a 55-mile front in northern France. The assault by three infantry divisions broke across the Moselle 18 miles north of the mighty fortress of Metz as a crack tank division roared into battle from the south.

Enemy lines were ripped by more than 1,300 U. S. heavy bombers, thundering over in the first close support on such a big scale since the St. Lo breakthrough that won the battle of France. By sundown the Germans had yet to send a tank into the struggle.

Dozen Towns Overrun

A dozen towns were overrun as Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, jr., sent the infantry divisions and the Fourth Armored division—one of the architects of the St. Lo victory—into the spreading battle to join the three infantry outfits that seized 16 towns and 1,000 prisoners in the opening assault yesterday.

After the bombers loosed 4,000 tons of anti-personnel bombs on the sleet-covered German positions, the veteran 90th division struck for the first time north of Metz.

Commanded by Brig. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, the infantry crossed the rain-swollen Moselle river at two points and seized Koenigsmacher and Haute-Ham, 19 and 18 miles north of Metz and 11 miles from the Saar—70 square miles of coal fields, iron works and German war plants.

Fourth Armored Storms In

Meanwhile the Fourth Armored, which also had been held in check yesterday, stormed into the fighting, driving four miles northward to near Delme and Viviers in a dangerous salient 18 miles southwest of Metz and 25 miles south of the Saar frontier.

Berlin propagandists called the attacks the opening phase of an Allied winter offensive. Patton, they said, was bent on outflanking fort-girt Metz and crushing the Saar basin. The northern anchor was at Berg, on the west bank of the Moselle nine miles from the Saar border.

Allied sources said nothing, but slogging through the sleet and rain the Third Army was shaping up an arching line some 35 miles from Saarbrucken, heart of the basin.

The Fourth Armored division swept through the towns of Lemoncourt and Oriocourt and broke across the main highway from Metz to Chateau Salins, a road center 25 miles southeast of Metz.

The 35th Infantry division, one of the three in the initial attacks, stepped aside to let the tanks through, then moved on and seized both towns.

An unidentified division also

Eighth Advances On Italian Front

ROME, Nov. 9. (AP) — British Eighth Army troops, overcoming bitter German resistance, fought across a wide canal forming the eastern boundary of Forli airfield and advanced to within 500 yards of the village of Bussecchio, a mile southeast of Forli, it was announced today.

(A German news broadcast declared two British divisions attacked on a narrow front east and southeast of Forli after a heavy artillery barrage, but said there had been no breakthrough.)

Heavy Fighting Reported

Heavy fighting was reported in progress for the extreme northern end of the airfield, with British infantry and tanks meeting Nazi infantry supported by 60-ton Tiger tanks. One enemy strongpoint nearly a mile southwest of the field was overrun.

While the attack around the airfield gained momentum, other Allied troops advanced up a secondary road leading into Forli from the south. Especially heavy fighting took place between Grisignano and San Martino before San Martino was captured and Allied infantry pushed on within two miles of Forli's southern outskirts.

Polish troops, driving in on Forli from the north, captured Dovodola after stiff street fighting and tonight were moving into hills northwest of the town against heavy opposition.

On the American Fifth Army front south of Bologna action remained limited to patrolling and artillery exchanges. American positions in the Monte Grande and Monte Cerere areas came under heavy enemy mortar fire. Rain which has bogged the American front for several weeks continued to fall occasionally in the hills.

Demos' Total Reaches 432, Dewey Has 99

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—President Roosevelt returns triumphantly to Washington tomorrow, to a tremendous reception and to tremendous tasks.

Waiting for him at the end of a parade from union station to the White House is a hefty array of problems that will cram his schedule from now until his fourth term starts.

They centered around:

Another Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conference on war and world security, vacancies in the administration, possible cabinet changes, demands for remodelling the Little Steel wage formula, whipping together annual and budget messages for Congress And those weren't all.

But, for the time being, Washington itself wasn't interested in them. The national capital hatched spur-of-the-moment plans to turn out the town—with bands, bunting and ballyhoo. Vice President-elect Harry S. Truman flew eastward from Missouri to join the procession.

Just for the record, still in-

And More To Come—

Japs Call Up Women, Kids To War Work

(By The Associated Press)

Japan moved today to increase the conscription of women and high school students for war work. Announcement of the tightened regulations blamed a "new stage of the war."

The new regulations, announced in a domestic broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications commission at San Francisco, included:

Extending the service of the women's "volunteer" labor corps from one year to two.

Mobilization of women 12 to 40 year sold on the same basis as men for work in "community plants";

Application of the student's mobilization law to night school enrollees, shifting many to war jobs from their classrooms and using others in out-of-schools hours.

Exact meaning of the new regulations applying to women was not clear from the broadcast. The existing mobilization law applies to all unmarried women in the 12-40 age group; but the new regulations specified that women would be conscripted on the same basis as men. Whether this meant that married women would be included or wether it indicated the end of preference previously shown to women as unstated.

Methodists Plan $250,000 Building

Expansion plans for the First Methodist church by the construction of a $250,000 auditorium at the corner of Broadway and Ave. N were revealed in City commission meeting Thursday afternoon when two members of the church board of stewards requested action of the commission in closing of an alley involved in the building project.

The church auditorium, according to tentative plans drawn, would be located on the west portion of the block, present side of the church parsonage, and would extend across the alley onto adjoining property committed to sale to the church, W. G. McMillan, one of the spokesman, outlined to the commission. Extension of the building back across the alley would be necessary in order to provide a large enough building to care for needs of the congregation. The proposed auditorium would have a seating capacity of 2,500 persons.

Other Buildings "Re-Done"

Construction of the auditorium would also involve a "face-lifting" for the present church structure and education building into a unified Gothic type of architecture to make the buildings appear as one from the front facing Broadway, McMillan revealed. The city's approval for closing of half of the alley on the west side of the block would pave the way for purchase of additional property abutting Ave. N owned by W. B. Powell and property immediately behind the present education building owned by John Spikes, McMillan said.

The church parsonage would be moved from its present site to the corner of thirteenth and Ave. N, immediately behind the auditorium.

McMillan, who with J. H. Felton, represented the board of stewards before the commission, said should closing of the alley be approved, sufficient dedication of property to the rear of the church would be made to allow for the turning of garbage trucks into the alley running north and south of the church. Provision would also be made for by-passing of utility connections.

Action of the commission on closing of the alleyway was deferred until further consideration could be made of the project.

McMillan revealed that the church now has a total membership of 3,126, of whom 600 are in service in the armed forces, but declared that church officials believed an auditorium seating 2,500 would be sufficient for the church for many years.

"It would not only care for our congregation but would also provide a badly-needed downtown meeting place for conventions, conferences and other meetings of organizations where seating is required for several hundred people," McMillan said. The auditorium ground floor, which would be only about 4 steps high off the street, would have a seating capacity of 2,020 and a balcony would seat 480 more, McMillan said. Sunday school rooms would also be provided for in the new structure.

No Extensive Remodeling

The church expansion program, tentatively approved at a recent meeting of the board, would only call for the remodeling of the outside of the present church. The present buildings and the old church auditorium would be used for smaller meetings and Sunday school, McMillan explained.

The church proposal highlighted an otherwise routine meeting of the commission, presided over by Commissioner W. B. Price, in the absence of Mayor O. W. Ribble.

The commission also considered briefly a petition presented by property owners on Fourteenth street for the opening of that street between Avenue O and Ave. Q running through the present site of Central Ward school. Action on this proposal was deferred but commissioners expressed willingness to cooperate in any way in the plan should the property be used for purposes other than a school site.

Addition Asks Entry

A petition requesting that blocks 55, 56 and 57 of the F. E. Wheelock Second addition in southeast Lubbock be brought into the city limits was deferred also with commissioners expressing a desire that more area be included in the transfer should it be acted upon. The area lies adjacent to a section of Carver Heights, negro residence area.

Minor delinquent tax revisions were approved and it was revealed that collection of delinquent personal property taxes had totaled $4,112.99 since April.

Approval for the purchase of a 20-inch Queen City super crank shaper for the city light plant's shop at a cost of $2,500 from the Queen City Machine Tool company, Cincinnati, Ohio, was approved.

Lions Plan Rejected

Request from the Lions club for posting of advertising of the forthcoming Passion Play on downtown light standards was rejected "because it would set a precedent."

Attending the session besides Commissioner Price were Hub Jones, J. Ray Dickey and Fred Childress, commissioners; City Attorney Durwood Bradley and City Secretary Lavenia Williams.

Seay Puts Out Olive Branch To Regulars

DALLAS, Nov. 9. (AP)—"We'll be glad to welcome Texas Regulars back to the Democratic fold," state Democratic Chairman Harry L. Seay said here.

But he added a note of warning.

He said the Democratic party will maintain a permanent office in Dallas for the next two years to combat any attempt of anti-New Dealers to gain control of the party machinery.

"We'll be glad to welcome back any who confess faith," he told the Dallas News. But he added there would be no slaughtering of the fatted calf.

In announcing plans to maintain a state office here, he said:

"If they (the Regulars) have an idea they're going to run Texas two years from now, they're going to be worse fooled than they were Tuesday."

Iran Cabinet Quits Under Soviet Attack

(By The Associated Press)

Premier Mohamed Saed, whose Iranian government has been under attack from Russia for refusing to grant oil concessions to the Soviet Union, resigned Thursday, the Turkish home radio reported.

The radio, quoting a broadcast from Tehran, said the resignation was accepted by Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, 25-year-old ruler of Iran. The broadcast was recorded by the FCC.

Reds Launch New Menace For Budapest

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Friday, Nov. 10 — Russian troops in a new encircling move on besieged Budapest yesterday swept across the Middle Tisza river on a 40-mile front northeast of the Hungarian capital, advancing 17 miles to a point less than a mile from the key Budapest-East Slovakian railway, Moscow announced last night.

A late Budapest broadcast recorded in Bern, Switzerland, said other Soviet units had renewed their onslaught in the capital's southern suburbs, where fierce house-to-house fighting raged.

Severe Toll Of Nazis

A special Soviet information bureau announcement said Marshall Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukraine Army had killed more than 100,000 Germans and Hungarians and captured 42,160 since Oct. 6, when the invasion of the last big Axis satellite nation began.

This total of 142,160 made a grand total of 1,400,891 enemy troops killed or captured since June 23, on the basis of official Moscow statements.

The Russians smashed through the enemy's Tisza river line at a time when it apparently had been weakened in order to try to reinforce and save Budapest itself, and their nearest units were 60 miles northeast of the capital.

Division Loses Heavily

A midnight Moscow communique said that one enemy unit, the 27th Hungarian Infantry regiment, was routed after losing three-quarters of its personnel, as the Russians swept to within easy artillery range of the Budapest-East Slovakian railway connecting the Hungarian and Czechoslovakian fronts.

Berlin implied that the Russians already had cut the Budapest-East Slovakian railway, a development which might force the Germans to begin a slow withdrawal into central Czechoslovakia and hasten the expected fall of Budapest.

In a wide encircling move on Budapest other Soviet troops were reported by Berlin to have crossed the Danube river at Dunafoldvar, 43 miles south of the bomb-battered capital whose reinforced defenders still are holding the Russians on the southern rim of the city.

Penetration Unconfirmed

French radio reports said Russian units attacking in Budapest's outskirts had crossed the Danube and penetrated into the Buda district, but neither Moscow nor Berlin told of any Soviet entry into the prize city on the road to Austria and Germany.

In Yugoslavia another Red Army once more was on the move.

Allied Mediterranean Air force headquarters estimated that 100,000 Germans were in danger of being trapped in southern Yugoslavia and Albania, and that 250,000 other enemy troops were clinging to the northern part of Yugoslavia.

New High Mark Set In Texas Balloting

DALLAS, Nov. 9 (AP)— Texas' presidential vote in Tuesday's general election apparently set an all-time high for general elections in Texas, the Texas Election Bureau reported, after 1,054,568 ballots had been tabulated at 6 p. m. today.

Election bureau officials estimated there still were approximately 70,000 ballots which had not been tabulated, which would bring the total vote to about 1,124,568.

Already more votes had been tabulated than the total vote polled by Roosevelt and Willkie in Texas in the 1940 general election—1,039,303.

In the first primary of 1940, however, the total Texas vote was 1,189,290.

Desperate Japs Pour More Men On Leyte

JAPS COMPRESSED AROUND ORMOC — Bitter fighting is raging on Leyte in the Philippines as reinforced Jap forces are being steadily compressed into the Ormoc pocket.

Yamashita Sets Stiff Terms For Yanks' Surrender

By RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

THE Japanese high command, trying desperately to hold Leyte island and upset the American threat to the Nippon position in the Phillipines, has thrown some 35,000 new troops into the battle of Leyte, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today.

As Yank doughboys of the 24th division made substantial gains on a wide front south of Leyte's Carigara bay, the general said in a communique that Japan's original garrison on the island has been "practically destroyed" with losses estimated at 35,000. He added, however, that reinforcements already landed have about replaced the original force.

From Mindanao And Cebu

The Japanese continue to rush in reinforcements from Mindanao, Cebu and other nearby islands.

Yank troops registered their gains around Hill No. 1525 and in the Mt. Minoro sector, almost six miles east by south of the horseshoe bend area on Ormoc road where furious battling was reported Thursday despite a heavy typhoon.

American fighter pilots made low level attacks on Japanese shipping, destroying two barges and a coaster and damaging other small craft. They also attacked the port of Ormoc which was under heavy artillery shelling. Major fires roared in Ormoc.

Torrential Rains

Friday's communique made no mention of the horseshoe bend battle, where torrential tropical rains transformed battlegrounds into seas of mud that bogged down supplies. The fighting was stalemated near the town of Limon, on the inner rim of a horseshoe curve less than two airline miles from Carigara bay where the Yanks started their southward drive four days ago. Only a trickle of supplies filtered to the American front lines over the rain and wind lashed road that leads to Ormoc, the port through which the Japanese rushed in reinforcements.

The hard - fighting Nipponese were using heavy artillery for the first time, matching the fire from Yank big toms that were hurling heavy shells into Japanese ridge positions and targets to the rear of the enemy.

Yanks Cold And Hungry

The doughboys of the 24th division, wet, cold and hungry and forced to conserve their ammunition, were fighting doggedly to break up the strong Japanese for-

Heavies Pour Fire On German Troops

By ROBERT EUNSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 9—More than 1,300 American heavy bombers poured 4,000 tons of explosives and thousands of fragmentation bombs onto German troops near Metz today in close support of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army offensive.

More than 2,000 planes, including escorts, patrols and others, joined in the operation, an Eighth Air force communique announced, and 14 bombers and 19 fighters failed to return.

While Patton's tank riding veterans crouched on the icy west banks of the Moselle, wave after wave of Liberators and Flying Fortresses of Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle's Eighth Airforce roamed the skies ahead, their bombs paving the way of the ground troops.

The bomber fleet was covered by 500 long range Mustangs.

Opposition from the air was lacking again. The luftwaffe has not attacked the Eighth Airforce since the Germans lost 208 planes last week.

RAF Batters Ruhr

RAF Lancasters attacked targets in the Ruhr and two bombers were downed. Spitfires and Mustangs escorting the big British bombers all returned. RAF fighter pilots said their eyelashes froze and ice formed outside their cockpits.

It was the second time since the famous July blitz at Saint Lo that Eighth Airforce bombers had handled the task of pin-pointing their bomb loads into the backs of enemy troops facing Yank infantrymen coiled for a big blow. The same bombardiers smashed a hole in the Siegfried line near Aachen about a month ago.

Bombardiers wrecked roads and bridges with 2,000-pounders, showering buildings and supply depots with incendiaries and ripping troops areas with thousands of hundred-pound anti-personnel bombs.

Medical Branch Removal Sought

AUSTIN, Nov. 9. (AP)—The University of Texas news service today made public a resolution which the news service said was adopted by medical branch students in Galveston asking that the medical school be moved to "a more advantageous location" and listing 10 conditions which "doom our school to mediocrity."

The news service said the resolution was adopted by a vote of 319 to 41 with nine students expressing no opinion and 15 not contacted for a vote.

Moral Obligation

The medical students' resolution as released by the news service declared they felt it their moral obligation to express their views to the governor, board of regents and president of the university, dean and faculty of the medical branch and the people of Texas.

It added that because the future of the medical branch "is endangered" the following conditions which doom our school to mediocrity should be pointed out:

A gross lack of clinical material of a type encountered in general practice.

Inadequate number of patients for outpatient study, a situation which no amount of building expansion can remedy.

Local Domination

A peculiar institutional setup which though nominally state controlled is frequently locally dominated.

A lack of pride and a feeling of indifference on the part of the people of Texas toward the development and maintenance of a school of the highest rank.

A school which because of its geographical location is out of touch with the medical needs and problems of the state of Texas.

A quantitative lack of clinicians for adequate supervision and per-

Dewey Near Top In Popular Vote Appeal

(By The Associated Press)

Governor Thomas E. Dewey came nearer to winning the presidential election, from a standpoint of popular votes, than any other defeated candidate since 1916, near final returns indicated today.

The late Wendell Willkie lost to Mr. Roosevelt in 1940 by a margin of 4,938,711, with a total popular vote of 49,815,312.

In 1916, Woodrow Wilson defeated Charles E. Hughes by only 591,385 votes.

Other intervening popular vote margins:

1920—Warren G. Harding over James Cox, 7,000,000 plus.

1924 — Calvin Coolidge over John W. Davis, 7,000,000 plus.

1928—Herbert Hoover over Al Smith, 6,000,000 plus.

1932—Roosevelt over Hoover, 7,000,000 plus.

1936—Roosevelt over Alf M. Landon, 10,000,000 plus.

Tire Business Good Until Cops Step In

DURANT, Okla., Nov. 9. (AP)— Two men started a tire sale on the public square here today and the merchandise was going good—until police put them out of business.

The officers said the stock of 178 tires, along with a truck in which they brought them to town, were stolen at Tulsa early today.

DUTCH CITIZENS SLAIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)— The Dutch news agency Aneta reported today that the Germans killed from 125 to 150 Dutch citizens of Heusden Saturday night by blowing up the town hall where they had taken refuge in cellars from Allied shellfire.

U. S. Casualties Pass 500,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP) — Almost three years of war have cost more than a half million American battle casualties—dead, wounded, missing or prisoners.

The Army said today that its casualties, from Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, through last October 28 totalled 437,356. The latest report for Navy, Marine and Coast Guard personnel accounts for 71,839.

The Army total represents an increase of 20,235 since the report a week ago which covered the period through October 21. Secretary of War Stimson said part of this increase was due to a revision now being made in the casualty information system so as to bring the figures up to date. It was explained later that about 25 per cent of the increase resulted from the bookkeeping change over.

Week's Casualties 15,000

This would mean that new casualties occurring in the period of about one week and ending around mid-October were approximately 15,000. (The reporting of casualty figures to the War department usually is about two weeks after the casualties occur.) Heavy fighting was taking place in the Aachen sector in Germany, as well as elsewhere on the Western front, at that time, with a comparative lull on the Italian front.

Of the total Army casualties reported today, 84,811 were killed and 243,054 wounded, an increase for the week of 4,145 killed and 13,742 wounded.

The overall casualty total of 437,356 does not represent a loss of strength equal to that amount because 112,814 of the wounded have been returned to duty. This is a far higher percentage than in any previous war.

Wacker Buys Wheelock Homestead Site For $100,000, To Erect Store Building

TOPPING any previous single real estate deal in the city of Lubbock, the old Wheelock homestead at the corner of Broadway and Ave. L has been sold to George F. Wacker of Pauls Valley, Okla., for $100,000.

Contract for the purchase of the building was signed Thursday afternoon by Wacker and heirs of the Wheelock estate and shortly afterwards Wacker, operator of a chain of 39 variety stores in Oklahoma, New Mexico, Texas and Louisiana, announced he would erect a two-story building on the 75 by 120 foot property to house one of the stores here.

Construction of the building will start as soon as priorities and materials can be obtained, Wacker said, he expected this would be sometime after the termination of the European phase of the war. Tentative plans for the building call for an extremely modern structure with a full basement and ground floor for the store and a second story for warehouse.

Sale of the property and subsequent razing of present structures on it marks the passing of another familiar landmark in downtown Lubbock. The Wheelock home, now being operated as a rooming-house, was constructed approximately 39 years ago and was purchased by the late F. E. Wheelock in 1909. Mr. Wheelock, first mayor of Lubbock, and his family resided there until the children grew up and married during the next two decades. Mr. Wheelock died in 1932 and his wife continued residence there until her death in April of this year. The property at one time included the entire block of land between Broadway and Main and Aves. K and L.

Wacker, who heads the variety store organization, has headquarters in Pauls Valley, where they will remain, but said Thursday a warehouse for the company would probably be maintained either here or at Big Spring, where it formerly was operated but had to be closed due to wartime lack of help. The Lubbock store will be the 40th in the company chain and Wacker plans other stores in Morton and Seminole in this area and perhaps other points near

President's Election Opens Broad Possibilities; Swing To Left Due

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—President Roosevelt's fourth term problem No. 1 today lies in Congress where despite Democratic gains, he must maneuver to overcome and to bypass the Senate isolationist minority which may wreck his post-war foreign plans.

He will return to Washington tomorrow from Hyde Park, but not for long. Mr. Roosevelt doubtless soon will be on his way to Paris to accept the De Gaulle government's invitation to visit the newly liberated country and thence to the place where he, Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Premier Stalin are to meet. Their pressing job is to pick up the tough questions the Dumbarton Oaks conferees put aside.

The fourth term mandate is expected to revive the New Deal at home—a phase of activity which was lapsing as the war developed—and to encourage Mr. Roosevelt to seek a way around the obstacle of the Senate's treaty-making powers if it appeared an isolationist minority could prevent the use of armed American military power against aggressors without prior congressional consent.

To Extend Social Security

On the home front the New Deal social security program apparently is to be extended on a cradle-to-grave scope which would bring into its framework millions of agricultural, domestic and other workers not now covered. The administration will drive to obtain the heretofore postponed scale-up of social security taxes. Spending for jobs is here to stay—at least for another four years—along with high taxes, although a determined Congress may force some corporation relief. The Tennessee valley development is expected to become a pattern for other watersheds; a study of the Missouri river already is well advanced

A new political star has arisen within the fourth term in Sidney Hillman, the CIO leader who conceived the explosively successful doorbell ringing campaign by which 100,000 volunteer workers got out the New Deal-Democratic vote. Hillman is talking of a permanent PAC organization, an idea which will give the opposition the shivers and cause all politicians to ponder.

Hillman Up, Lewis Down

As Hillman went up, President John L. Lewis of the United Mine workers went down. He backed the wrong horse again this time and his miners seem to have repudiated his leadership if Roosevelt returns from the great coal producing areas are any measure of what happened.

Linked with Hillman's rise was the demonstration in New York that the Democrats and Mr. Roosevelt must play ball with the left wing, including the Communists, to maintain their ballot position in the nation's most populous state. The American Labor party, substantially infiltrated by Communists, polled 457,000 votes for the President in New York Tuesday. The Liberal party, an anti-Communist offshoot of the ALP which set up in protest against commy domination of the older group, roiled up 312,000 Roosevelt votes. Those two left wing organizations are the balance of power in this state—a fact which may materially influence Mr. Roosevelt in the next four years, urgently pressing him to the left.

Cabinet May Change

There is a whirlwind of cabinet speculation, including reports—still unsubstantiated—that Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins will give way, presumably to some CIO leader, and that Secretary of State Hull wants out on grounds of ill health. Edward R. Stettinius, jr., now undersecretary of state, has been mentioned as a possible successor to Hull. So has Henry A. Wallace, who walked the plank at last summer's democratic national convention. Wallace is expected to get a good spot if he wants it, but the ambassadorship to China or some such is considered more in his line. The job is open.

The future relationship between Mr. Roosevelt and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, his defeated opponent, already invites interesting speculation. Dewey told questioners yesterday he had "no illusions about 1948." On the other hand, no one bitten by the presidential bug ever has been known to recover. White House aides rather emphasized the fact that Dewey had sent no telegram or congratulations to the President.

After all, the two men were telling the public only a few days ago each that the other was a liar and there were other hard words. It is believed that Dewey will not be drawn into the White House circle even to the extent the late Wendell L. Willkie was after 1940. Instead, the well entrenched governor of New York is likely to undertake some big gun anti-administration cannonading. But the two men have come closer together on foreign policy, and that may further strengthen Mr. Roosevelt's position at the forthcoming meeting with Churchill and Stalin.

FDR To Be Big Factor

The President will be a big figure at that conference, bigger than at Teheran almost a year ago. He will represent the richest and most productive of the big three nations and he will be secure in office and power—not so secure as Marshal Stalin, perhaps, but more firmly seated than Prime Minister Churchill who will be up for re-election the moment the war in Germany is ended. These three will cut the pattern of the postwar world and arrange for the imminent full dress United Nations conference which is expected to be held somewhere in the western hemisphere.

The President's mandate for all this activity and the accelerated New Deal program he is expected to innaugurate at home was Tuesday's general election. He was re-elected to a fourth term by a margin of 432 electoral votes to 99, on the basis of incomplete figures. He is leading or definitely has won in 36 states. Dewey is leading or has won in 13.

"The Champ" carried the House with him and the Democrats will remain in control of the Senate, the party's majority there not having been actually at stake this year.

Despite defeat of such isolationists as Sens, Gerald P. Nye, (R.,N. D.) and John Danaher, (R., Conn.), a sturdy minority Senate bloc remains. And it may be able, under constitutional provisions, to prevent a two-thirds affirmative vote in support of the mainspring of Mr. Roosevelt's peace-guarantee machinery.

That is the plan boldly outlined in the campaign and substantially endorsed by Dewey that the United States representative on the post-war league—or whatever shall have authority to commit certain United States armed forces to help smack down an aggressor—all this without specific prior consent by Congress to which the Constitution entrusted the war-making powers.

Mr. Roosevelt is expected to seek a way to by-pass a Senate veto if he is convinced that his plan could not win two-thirds majority approval. He or his associates may propose in trial balloon form that the whole Congress, especially the House, should share in committing the United States to postwar peace machinery.

Could Be Double Barrelled

The idea would be double barrelled, depending upon where your sympathies lay. Its advocates could argue that the House is closer to the people than the Senate and that its whole membership has just been before the electorate, whereas only 35 senators were up this year.

Opponents of what inevitably will be called "tinkering with the Constitution" or worse could argue that the President was seeking to cut a constitutional corner. The advantage to the administration in seeking approval of postwar peace machinery by resolution of both houses of Congress instead of in the form of a treaty merely submitted to the Senate, would be that both House and Senate can pass resolutions by simple majorities and the chance of getting one ple majorities might be better than the chance of getting one two-thirds majority in the Senate where filibuster and the well remembered strategy of the old League of Nations fight are both legend and instruments ready at hand.

Shaves Stepped Up To 50 Cents Here By Several Shops

"Shaves 50 cents."

That price has been posted in at least seven barbershops in Lubbock in Lubbock, it was revealed Thursday. Six of them are union shops.

The price increase also included the price of a plain shampoo which was also increased to 50 cents. No change was made in the price of haircuts which remains at 65 cents.

The increase in the price was occasioned by increased costs of supplies, laundry and labor, barbers in union shops said.

Mexicans Offered Lands In Jalisco

GUADALAJARA, Mexico, Nov. 9. (AP)—Gen. Marcelino Garcia Barragan, governor of the state of Jalisco, has invited Mexican migratory workers returning from the U. S. to colonize lands in his state.

Governor Garcia Barragan said the returning workers could obtain excellent lands for cultivation with guaranties on the part of the authorities.

Community lands (ejidos) also were offered, he said.

Workers acquiring lands would be given credit, exemption from certain taxes, use of agricultural machinery and other facilities, the governor announced.

Louisiana Man Held For Threatening FDR

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 9. (AP)—Frank J. Daulong, 57, employed by the Illinois Central railroad in Ruston as a telegraph operator, is being held in the Ouachita parish jail at Monroe on a charge of having threatened the life of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, federal authorities disclosed today.

A complaint against Daulong was filed before U. S. commissioner Randell Whitmeyer at Shreveport and Daulong was arrested by secret service agents on Monday and taken to Monroe for arraignment. He entered a plea of not guilty to the charge, according to assistant U. S. attorney Albert E. Bryson, and his bond was set at $5,000.

'Papa' Comes Through For Worried Gunner

HOUSTON, Nov. 9. (AP)—"Don't worry, son, papa will get you home" a Texas pilot told a worried gunner on his crippled bomber and the phrase has become common in Europe.

Capt. William F. Cely, who coined it, is claimed by Palestine, Beaumont and Houston.

He was piloting the Frenesie Jan. 11 over Brunswick when it was damaged by flak. German pilots, seeing the bomber was crippled, concentrated on it as it limped back to England.

Six of the crew of 11 bailed out over Germany, but one of the gunners found his parachute had been ripped. That was when Capt. Cely told the worried crewman "don't worry, son, papa will get you home."

He did.

Have a "Coke" = Ahoy, mates

. . . or keeping up the good work
Faster and faster the ships go down the ways in the wartime shipbuilding program. From sunny California to the coast of Maine, workers have learned that the pause that refreshes helps everybody do more work and better work. Have a "Coke" says a hard-working shipbuilder to his mates. It's a little minute long enough for a big rest. Whether in a shipyard or in your own living room, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become a symbol of friendly relaxation.

Governor Says Decision Near On Filling Three University Places

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 9—Appointment of three University of Texas regents to replace as many who resigned in the school's administrative row may be announced next week, Governor Coke R. Stevenson said today.

The governor said at a press conference that he had hoped to make the announcement sooner but hesitancy of one prospective appointee caused him to delay.

Three members, Chairman John H. Bickett, jr., of Dallas, H. H. Weinert of Seguin and Dan J. Harrison of Houston, resigned after a majority of the board discharged University President Homer P. Rainey last week. Reports that three other members would resign were circulated after the hectic meeting but none has as yet given a resignation to the governor.

Present Situation

The situation, caused by differences of opinion between Dr. Rainey and board members as to the scope of authority the administrative officer and the board should exercise, stood like this:

The council of the University of Texas Ex-Students association wants the governor to name a virtually brand-new board.

The university student body and faculty asks for the reappointment by the board of Dr. Rainey.

The governor is continuing conferences with interested groups concerning the future to be taken. He met today with Mac Wallace of Dallas, student body president, and other student representatives.

Expressions Differ

Pro and con expressions continue to pile up in the governor's mail.

He exhibited three stacks of letters. One, he said, represented expressions favoring Dr. Rainey. The other commended the regent's action, he added.

The governor noted that some of his mail included demands that he "fire" certain members of the board.

To this he observed: "I can't fire anybody, not even a constable. The statutes prohibit it."

Asked if he thought it possible the regents may name a university president before the legislature meets, Stevenson said he did think so.

Rainey Mentioned Again

When a follow-up question was propounded if that indicated that Rainey would be tendered return to the place, he said he preferred not to answer. Th equestion was predicated on the long time taken by regents in selecting a president after the death of the former president, the late Dr. Harry Y. Benedict.

The governor remarked that he noticed some of the student body devoted a considerable part of Sunday and Monday to sending out letters asking voters to scratch his name in Tuesday's election at the same time they were asking him to appoint regents in favor of retaining Dr. Rainey.

Negro Student Entry

Dr. Blake Smith, pastor of University Baptist church, in a radio broadcasted speech paid for by the student committee, said that Dr. Rainey had told him he never favored admitting negro students to the university.

Smith quoted Rainey for saying he was deeply interested in high standards of education for negroes but within their own institutions. Dr. Smith said also Rainey does not favor communistic ideas.

Services Warn That Disease On Increase

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9. (AP) — Surgeon Gen. Thomas Parran of the U. S. Public Health service said today available records indicate the nation is at least holding the line against venereal disease in war time, but a Navy doctor, describing an infection increase among all service men in the continental United States, declared this may foretell a general upward surge.

At the same time, Lt. Col. Thomas H. Sternberg, of the Army Medical corps, asserted that "it is increasingly evident that a general let down in the overall venereal disease program, both military and civilian, is in progress."

Parran told the national conference on postwar venereal disease control that despite 3 years of war and several years of preparation for war, reports made to the health service show "there are no signs pointing to any overall increase in the attack rate of syphilis or gonorrhea in the general population."

College Who's Who Recognizes 21 From Tech Student Body

A total of 21 Texas Tech students are being recognized in the 1944 edition of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities," it was announced Thursday by James G. Allen, dean of men.

Fulfilling qualifications of the national Who's Who organization, students were selected on basis of scholarship, character, leadership, and promise of future success. Selection committee was composed of one faculty member from each division and eight students, five of whom were recognized in the 1943 Who's Who edition and whose names will appear again in the 1944 edition.

A 1.70 grade point average was required, the same academic scale as was used last year.

Students selected are Anna Baker of Amarillo, senior in home economics; Josie Lee Barnett of Earth, senior in home economics; Troy Caldwell of Quitman, junior in commerce division; Maxine Craddock of Colorado City, senior in engineering; all listed in Who's Who in 1943; Nancy Everline of Amarillo, senior arts and sciences; Helen Mack Hume of Carlsbad, N. M., senior in commerce division; Margaret Leonard of Odessa, senior in home economics; Audrey Melton of Olton, junior in home economics; Lucille Melton of Olton, senior in home economics; Selma Mullins of Stratford, junior in arts and sciences; Reta Norman of Plainview, senior in arts and sciences; Paul Payne of Byers, senior in agriculture and listed in Who' Who in 1943; Betty Grace Pugh of Odessa, senior in engineering; Betty Davis Ricks of Ennis, senior in arts and sciences; Moreene Roberts of Fort Worth, senior in arts and sciences; Charles Senning of Spur, senior in arts and sciences, and Bob Slater of Cobleskill, N. Y., senior in engineering, both listed in Who's Who in 1943; Merrilyn Snider of Lubbock, junior in arts and sciences; Harold A. Soucy of Lubbock, senior in engineering; and Mary Jean Webb of Hart, junior in commerce.

Deserter Gangs Are Rounded Up

ROME, Nov. 9. (AP)—Two gangs, composed in part of deserters from the American and Candian armies and the French Foreign Legion, have been rounded up by military police after terrorizing Rome and Naples for several weeks, it was announced today.

Military authorities outlined their case thus:

One of the gangs, led by a 23-year-old American soldier from Pennsylvania, was made up entirely of soldiers—six Americans and two Canadians ,all AWOL.

Others Legion Deserters

The second, led by a Yugoslav and a Corsican, both deserters from the French Foreign Legion, included five other deserters from the Legion, one American deserter and five Italian and Spanish civilians.

The American and Canadian soldiers face court martial.

The all-soldier gang is accused of a number of hold-ups and other acts of violence, including the theft of the automobile of Lt. Gen. Wladyslaw Anders, commander of the Polish Army corps, and the kidnaping of several military policemen between Rome and Naples.

PROTEST MEETING SET

AUSTIN, Nov. 9. (AP)—A meeting of oil operators opposed to Senate ratification of the Anglo-American petroleum agreement was announced today by Glenn H. McCarthy, Houston oil operator and co-chairman of the statewide committee. It will be held here Nov. 20 after the state wide oil proration hearing.

Thieves Take Home Bacon, Sure Enough

HOUSTON, Nov. 9. (U.P.) — "Whole hog or none" thieves were abroad in the Houston area last night, and they took home the bacon, literally.

Alvin Mitchell reported to police that one or more audacious and doubtless ham-hungry thieves stole from his garage a prize, 300-pound hog which had been destined to offset meat rationing for the Mitchell family this winter.

They simply backed a truck up in Mitchell's driveway, hauled the hog aboard and sped away.

"They really carried home the bacon," lamented Mitchell.

Yank Takes Jerries With Empty Rifle

WITH THE U. S. FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY, Nov. 9. (AP) — Pfc. Charles L. Winkler, of Yale, Michigan, captured two German paratroopers in the mountains south of the Po valley and marched them nearly a mile to military police and then discovered his gun was not loaded.

Winkler, "armed" with a carbine, surprised the Nazis in a fog. One had a machine pistol and the other a revolver. They came calmly when they saw Winkler's rifle.

Winkler discovered his gun was empty as he began the march back to his company. He kept it secret.

Refiners Explain Oil Treaty Stand

HOUSTON, Nov. 9. (U.P.) — The Gulf Coast Refiners association today adopted a six-point resolution embracing its reasons for "vigorously" opposing Senate ratification of the Anglo-American petroleum agreement.

The resolution protested what it called invasion of states' rights; said its (the agreement's) powers "due to its vague wording" are far broader than treaties are meant to be; declared it favorable to British interests, and asserted it might subject the U. S. oil business to foreign control.

Amazing results shown in improving the Looks... boosting VITALITY!

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach

2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

Improper diet, overwork, undue worries, colds, the flu or other illness often impairs the stomach's digestive functions and reduces the red-blood strength.

A person who is operating on only a 70 to 75% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped.

At such times Nature needs extra help to restore its balance and function properly. Undigested food places a tax on the system...insufficient blood strength is a detriment to good health.

If you are subject to poor digestion or suspect deficient red-blood as the cause of your trouble, yet have no organic complication or focal infection, SSS Tonic may be just what you need!

SSS Tonic is especially designed (1) to promote the flow of VITAL DIGESTIVE JUICES in the stomach and (2) to build-up BLOOD STRENGTH when deficient.

These two important results enable you to enjoy the food you do eat . . . to make use of it as Nature intended. Thus you may get new vitality . . . pep . . . become animated . . . more attractive!

WOMEN POLITICOS

ALTHOUGH political leaders term this a "woman's year," with more than 60 per cent of the balloting coming from the distaff side, only 35 women sought election to Congress.

It was estimated that the potential voting strength of American women exceeded men's by 600,000 ballots. Although feminine spokesman of the major parties urged that women get behind women candidates 100 percent, Rep. Mary T. Norton of New Jersey, who has been in Congress since 1925 and is dean of women members, doubts we'll ever see a dozen women in Congress in our time. Do you know why?

"Because women won't vote for women," she says.

Rep. Norton

Although women are holding important positions, Rep Norton says few have sought elective offices. Of those who have been members of Congress, all in the Senate were appointed, and so were a number of representatives. Of five women who have won the senatorial toga, the only one to be elected for a full term was Mrs. Hattie Caraway of Arkansas. She was appointed to succeed her husband on Nov. 13, 1931, elected in 1932 and re-elected in 1938. In seeking renomination this year she was defeated by Rep. J. W. Fulbright.

As chairman of the committee on the District of Columbia, Rep. Norton was popularly known as the "Mayor of Washington." She is now chairman of the committee on labor. She was the first woman chairman of a state committee and introduced the first resolution in Congress to repeal the eighteenth amendment. At the Democratic convention this year she was co-chairman on platform and resolutions.

On the Republican side, Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers of Lowell, Mass., is the dean of women members. She was elected to Congress June 30, 1925, to fill the vacancy caused by her husband's death and has been re-elected to all succeeding congresses.

Rep. Rogers

She is known as the "mother of the WAC's," having introduced legislation for their organization. In the last war she sponsored much veterans' legislation.

She is a member of the Foreign Affairs committee and a ranking minority member on the Civil Service and World War Veterans' Legislation committee.

Mrs. Frances P. Bolton of Ohio, elected in February of 1940 to complete the unexpired term of her husband, was re-elected for the third time in this week's campaign. She is the mother of three sons, two of whom are in the service, was long active in public health nursing ing and education. She sponsored the bill which created the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps last June. She is a member of the Foreign Affairs committee and Ohio's first woman member of Congress.

Rep. Bolton

Republican women up for re-election but whose outcome at the polls we haven't learned were Jessie Sumner of Illinois, first elected in 1938 and Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, elected to complete her husband's unexpired term in June, 1940.

• • •

Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, Connecticut, first elected in Nov. 1942, has captured many headlines during her term. She defeated Margaret Eleanor Connors, 29-year-old lawyer, in the 4th district, despite the "blessing" of President Roosevelt for Miss Conner, in the only all-women congressional contest. Mrs. Luce, beautiful, acid-tongued author and playwright, is a member of the Military Affairs committee and introduced a bill in Oct. 1943 to create an Army and Navy Maintenance Corps.

Rep. Luce

H. G. Douglas

Helen Gahagan Douglas of Hollywood, stage and concert actress and wife of Capt. Melvyn Douglas, former screen actor, will represent her state as congresswoman. Called "glamour girl" because of the major speech she made at the Chicago convention, Mrs. Douglas was active in politics long before becoming national committeewoman in 1940.

Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas was elected representative - at - large from Illinois. Daughter of sculptor Lorado Taft, wife of Paul Douglas, former University of Chicago professor now in the south Pacific with the Marines, Mrs. Douglas is mother of one child.

We haven't seen figures on how other women candidates came out in elections over the country. Women turned out in great numbers at the polls but men still crowd the ballots.

Thanksgiving Theme Carried Out For Club

A Thanksgiving theme was carried out in the refreshments and program when the Energetic club met with Mrs. J. B. Walker, 2421 Twenty-first, Thursday afternoon.

During a business session a nominating committee was appointed to elect officers for 1944-45 and a Christmas luncheon was planned for the December meeting.

Mrs. Frances Tolbert read several Thanksgiving poems and contests were held.

Guests attending were Mesdames Tolbert, G. V. Pardue, John Parks and O'Neil.

Members present were Mesdames J. B. Walker, Tom Arnett, Jessie King, Exa Ewing, R. C. Hopping, Roxie Crausbay, Flora Nutt, Frances Van Dyke and Inez Knight.

Mrs. Wayne Thrush Elected President

Mrs. Wayne Thrush was elected president of the Homebuilders club when members met with Mrs. T. A. McIlroy, 1912 Texas Ave. Thursday afternoon. Other officers elected were Mrs. N. S. McBride, vice-president; Mrs. J. W. Hendryx, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. W. A. Lindsay, reporter.

Mrs. J. R. Hartsfield, outgoing president, was presented with a gift from the club. Guests present were Mesdames Ralph Guthrie, Elwana McGee, O. L. McIlroy and Dee Patterson of Lamesa.

Members will meet next with Mrs. Hendyx, 2212 Twenty-second, at 7:30 p. m. Dec. 14.

Lunch was served and other members present were Mesdames Jack Ray, Bates Witt, Callie Dean and Velma Morris.

Programs Presented For P-TA Groups

K. Carter, Sanders and Junior High Parent-Teacher associations met Thursday afternoon for programs and regular meetings.

Children of Miss Ruth Griffis' room presented the program for the K. Carter members and children of Mrs. L. C. Craven's room presented an original play called "How Americans Are Made." A panel discussion on "Linking the Schools with Life," under the direction of H. J. McCabe, dean of Senior High school boys, was given and high school students who had parts were Jacquelyn Reynolds, Betty Dennison, Oleta Stewart, Dwain and Myron Garner.

Approximately fifty persons were present.

Room count prizes were won by Mrs. Iris Bergholm's room in the primary level and Miss Ruth Griffis' room in the intermediate level.

A program on patriotic observance by Girl Scouts of Troop 2 was presented to members of the Junior High P-TA. Mrs. Grace Dye, superintendent of city recreation, spoke on "Constructed Leisure Time Activities."

Meetings of the group are held the second Thursday of each month at 3 p. m.

Miss Imogene Webster was in charge of the program given by students of the fifth and sixth gared for the Sanders P-TA at the school.

John Wilson spoke on "Preparation to Earn a Good Living."

Approximately 45 persons were present.

Roscoe Wilson Spanish Pupils Present Skit

A report of the luncheon and program meeting of the Lubbock Business and Professional Women's club which appeared in the Thursday Morning Avalanche and Evening Journal failed to mention the students of the Spanish Department of Roscoe Wilson School who presented a dramatization of "Red Riding Hood' in Spanish. Mrs. D. M. Howell directed the students including Sandra Shook, Ronnie McMillan, Shirley Smith, Linda Kay Yancy, and Robert Harbaugh. A Mexican hat dance was given by Wendell Hearne, Mary Ann Henderson, Wallace Wilson and Janet Yancy.

10,000-Vote Mistake Puts Gallagher In

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 9 (AP)—Discovery of a 10,000-vote tabulation error in Hennepin county (Minneapolis), largest of the district, today gave William Gallagher, Democratic-Farmer-Labor candidate, a 2,260-vote margin over Rep. Richard P. Gale, Republican congressman from Minnesota's Third district.

A re-check of the Hennepin county tabulation showed that a worker had entered 23,726 votes for Gallagher when the figure should have been 33,726.

Nobel Prize Given To Danish Author

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 9. (AP) — Four Nobel prizes, each worth approximately $29,000, were awarded today, two of them in physics going to scientists now in the United States, one in chemistry to a Hungarian now in Stockholm and one in literature to a 71-year-old Danish novelist and poet.

The prizes and winners were:

1944 literature—Johannes V. Jensen of Copenhagen.

1944 physics—Isidor Isaac Rabi of Columbia university, New York.

1943 physics—Otto Stern of Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh.

1943 chemistry—George Hevesy of Stockholm.

The committee reserved the 1944 prize in chemistry for possible award next year. The peace prize, which has not been awarded since 1938, previously had been abandoned for this year.

Rayburn Urges War Powers Act Extension

BONHAM, Nov. 9. (AP)—Speaker Sam Rayburn said today that one thing Congress had to do "between now and Christmas" was to extend the life of the second war powers act, which expires Dec. 31.

He made his statement when asked what he considered the number one specific problem before Congress.

"The all important thing is for parties to get together and win this war at the earliest possible moment," said Rayburn. "That calls for the provision by Congress of the sinews of war, clothing, food, and munitions, to the limit."

He said that in addition to the war powers act extension Congress was "going to pass a post-war roads building bill."

"We want to do that before the first of the year because 42 legislatures meet in January and there is state and federal cooperation provided in the bill," he added.

Since 1941 the U. S. road-building program has been confined almost entirely to work on roads serving war needs—military roads and roads leading to war plants.

Cuba And Mexico Present Air Plan

CHICAGO, Nov. 9. (AP)—Cuba and Mexico submitted to the international civil aviation conference today a proposal for temporary regulation of world air traffic, offering it as an amendment to the United States plan which was rejected en bloc by delegates from 19 Latin American republics.

Presentation of the plan by the two countries rather than by the recently organized bloc under the leadership of Col. Pedro A. Chapa of Mexico, aroused immediate speculation on the possibility of a split among the Latin Americans. A spokesman for the Cuban group said, however, that no significance whatsoever should be attached to the substitution of the names of the two countries for the original designation as "Latin American proposal," a change made after the plan was mimeographed for distribution.

Evangelism Stressed At Opening Of Annual Methodist Conference

SWEETWATER, Nov. 9. (AP)—Dr. Allen W. Moore, pastor of the First Methodist church of Dallas, appealed to Methodists to reemphasize evangelism in the opening address of the 35th annual Northwest Texas conference.

Bishop C. C. Selecman of Dallas, presiding at the session, joined Dr. Moore in urging a return to the early evangelistic fervor of the denomination.

In the first business session, Dr. Cal C. Wright of Abilene, conference secretary for 16 years, submitted his resignation, and Rev. M. B. Norwood of Shamrock was appointed. Howard Crawford, Chillicothe, and D. D. Denison, Merkel, were named assistant secretaries and Edgar Irving of Friona was named statistical secretary.

Memorial Services Set

Memorial services will be held at noon Saturday. Ordination services also will be held that day with Dr. Eugene B. Hawke, dean of the Southern Methodist university theology school, delivering the sermon.

Dr. Warren E. Johnston, pastor of the First Methodist church of Fort Worth, delivered the evangelistic sermon tonight and speaks again tomorrow night.

CRUSADE FOR CHRIST CAMPAIGN STRESSED

HOUSTON, Nov. 9. (AP)—Opening in the Texas Methodist conference of the $25,000,000 nationwide "Crusade for Christ" campaign marked the morning session of the annual meeting of the conference today in First Methodist church.

Bishop A. Frank Smith, bishop of the conference, who is presiding, explained to the nearly 1,000 ministers and laymen assembled that the money to be raised from Methodist churches in the nation in 1945, will be used for rehabilitation and postwar missionaries all over the world.

Conference Quota

Also addressing the conference were several members of national church boards.

Quota for the Texas conference in the crusade is $424,650, to be raised by the end of 1945. This is in addition to $150,000 a year being raised in the conference for foreign missions.

Bishop Smith explained to the group that the money would be used for five causes: missions and reconstruction, evangelism, church schools, stewardship and world order.

Dr. Dawson C. Bryan, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church, is area director for the crusade, and Rev. Kenneth Pope, of Austin, Rev. Warren Johnson of Fort Werth, and Dr. Paul Quillian, pastor, First Methodist church, are directors in the Southeast, Central and Texas conferences, respectively.

Speaking in behalf of the crusade was Dr. Albert Shikey of San Antonio, secretary of the national steering committee for the crusade. "We are putting Christ as the heart and center of Methodism," he said. "I care not for the money, but this crusade must be a spiritual one, listing the mind, the body and soul for Christ, and if all these are not touched, then it has failed, the minister declared.

The day and hour is upon us when every figure in the world must be taken out of view and the figure of Christ brought into the focus of the mind, he added.

Dr. Roy L. Smith, conference preacher, in speaking on the crusade at his noonday address, called upon the congregation to rise and repeat "the Methodists are now one."

School Failure Cited

Telling the story of the missionary who refused entrance to a small Indian girl into her school because she had no room or money, Dr. Smith said, that the missionary declared it wasn't she who said the words but the congregation who did not support it.

"Now it is our turn to tell the Filipinos, the Chinese, all the people of occupied countries 'we have no room, we have no money,' by falling down in the crusade for Christ," Dr. Smith declared. The entire assembly of over 1,000 gathered in First Methodist church was silent as Dr. Smith asked them to repeat the words.

In the morning session a resolution to aid Southwestern university in a campaign for $3,500,000 in funds during the next five years was adopted by the assembly. Bishop Smith, in endorsing the campaign said that "Texas Methodism has passed through the name-calling and side-taking in its educational institutions."

"You will never see another methodist college launched in Texas, and I hope you will never see another closed," he stated.

Bishop Smith announced that for the first time in the history of the Texas conference, the askings for world service and missions, $296,968, had been paid in full.

El Paso Colonel Killed At Midland

EL PASO, Nov. 9. (AP)—The airman killed in a plane crash at Midland yesterday was Lt. Col. Russel C. Larsen, it was disclosed today when the body was taken to Los Angeles.

Larsen, 47, who was commanding officer of the ferrying division of the Air Transport command unit at El Paso municipal airport, is survived by his widow and a daughter, of Los Angeles.

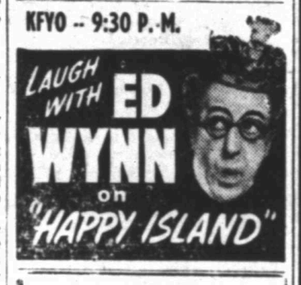

Gov. Stevenson Asks Unified War Front

AUSTIN, Nov. 9. (AP)—Governor Coke R. Stevenson asserted today it was the duty of Texans to get behind the national administration in support of the war effort and the governor himself pledged "a continuation of my support."

He added at a press conference that his statement did not preclude individual opinions as to what is needed to win the war and the peace.

He said he also reserved the right to follow the same course with reference to the administration's domestic policies, "to approve those which are an aid to the war effort and argue against those which are an impediment."

Bond Issues Receive Favor In Houston

HOUSTON, Nov. 9. (AP) — Returns from local elections Tuesday were being tabulated today by election officials, with Mayor Otis Massey and his slate of city manager candidates for council positions assured election and with all bond issues but two definitely approved.

One of the two bond issues requiring a two-thirds majority was carrying by a small margin on the basis of returns this morning. This issue, $6,000,000 county bonds for roads and tunnels under the ship channel, had slightly more than two thirds majority, but 13 boxes remain to be tabulated.

The other issue, $5,000,000 navigation bonds, had slightly less than a two thirds majority, with 10 boxes still out.

The other county bond issues, city and school bond issues, which required only a simple majority for approval, carried by big majorities.

The postwar bond program of the city, school district, county and navigation district submitted to the voters in the election amounted to $56,000,000.

In the mayor's race, Massey won a second term with a 4,000 vote lead over George D. Neal, attorney, with three boxes out of the 88 yet to be counted.

Crooner Bing Finds Some Consolation

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 9. (AP) — Actor - crooner Bing Crosby, returning today after a European camp tour, said ruefully that the French populace didn't seem to know who he was.

But he brightened up when he added:

"I asked some teen-age Paris girls if they knew Frank Sinatra and they said they'd never heard of him."

Woman Marries Six Soldiers Without Benefit Of Divorce

DALLAS, Nov. 9. (AP) — Mrs. Jessie Frances Mason, alias Mrs. Betty Lillian Wright, 24, in a signed statement has admitted to Federal Bureau of Investigation agents that she married six soldiers without benefit of divorce and that she had even forgotten the given name of one of them.

She entered a plea of guilty to a charge of illegally receiving government allotments from two of the men when arraigned before U S. Commissioner John Davis yesterday.

Dean R. Morley, special agent of the Dallas FBI office, said the young woman's statement disclosed that she had lived only a few days with each of the soldiers except one, and that she lived with him seven months.

It was for receiving allotments from husbands five and six, whom Morley said she married in 1943, that she was charged.

Commissioner Davis sent her to jail in default of bond.

Major Decisions Are Awaiting President

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP) — A decision on United States policy toward post-war control of Germany is one of a half-dozen top-drawer foreign questions awaiting President Roosevelt's return from the political wars.

Probably the most urgent decision on the President's desk, awaiting his arrival from Hyde Park tomorrow, is his choice of a time and place to meet with Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill. The final time and place, of course, will be by agreement among the three.

The greater part of the pending foreign problems are coupled with this meeting.

Westerners Prep For Pampa Tilt

The Lubbock Westerners held the shortest, and lightest, workout of the week Thursday afternoon and closed out all the hard work for their coming battle at Pampa Saturday afternoon with the defending champions of District 1-AA, the Pampa Harvesters.

At the close of a rough week's work, Coaches J. Mule Davis and Dixie White counted noses and checked injuries at the close of Thursday's drill, and found the team in better shape than at any other time this year.

Gamble Crippled

Johnny Gamble, second string wingback, was out of uniform Thursday after getting a hard lick in the ribs in a rough scrimmage session earlier in the week, and likely will miss much of the game Saturday.

Billy Bob Harris, letterman end, should be ready for action Saturday, but a final test of his injured knee will be made today to determine if he will be able to see action. He will not start the game, but may be able to see service.

O. C. Foster, letterman tackle, who has been out much of the time with a bad ankle, is back in good shape and ready to go. Foster will likely see a lot of action Saturday, but will not start the game.

Probable Starters

Davis said Thursday night that he planned to start the same lineup that started against Brownfield last week. This lineup would find Clinton Benefield and Gerald Davis at ends, Eldon Giles and R. W. Moyers at tackles, Johnny Pearson and Stoney Wall at guards, Charles Pressley at center, Johnny Cole at quarterback, George Brewer and Johnny Davis at halves, and Jim Lowrey at fullback.

The Westerners will hold a final workout this afternoon at Chapman field, limbering up, and running through their plays, then leave for the site of the game right after workout. The team will spend the night in Amarillo, and continue on to Pampa Saturday morning.

Thursday afternoon, the club worked out the kinks in their offense, and worked on defense, with a lengthy dummy scrimmage session that found them showing some snappy ball handling in running off the plays.

Coach Davis warned the boys that they would be in for a rough afternoon at Pampa Saturday, and likely to find the Harvesters shooting the works against the Westerners. The Pampa eleven will be seeking revenge for the defeat handed them last year in Lubbock, and will be on the rebound from their defeat last week at the hands of the Amarillo steamroller.

Sundown Cops Title In Six-Man League

Sundown six-man football team defeated hapless Southland by a score of 32-6, Thursday, to sew up the district 3-B championship.

Although held scoreless the first quarter, Sundown roared back in the second stanza to tally twice. Warren Holder caught a 25-yard pass for the first counter, and Ruel Nugent, Sundown center, snagged another aerial for the second. Nugent and Huff scored the extra points on passes.

The second half was only a few minutes old when Warren Holder went around his own left end for 40 yards and six more points, on the old hidden ball play. Before the spectators had sat down, again, Bill Sharp, substitute right halfback, went around left end for the fourth Sundown touchdown. In the last quarter Eugene Huff intercepted a Southland pass and ran 60 yards for another score.

Southland's lone touchdown was made in the last few minutes of play when two brothers, Mac and Bob Fields, teamed up on a pass to score from the two yard line.

Kerrville Takes State Spotlight

(By The Associated Press)

Little Kerrville, undefeated and untied but ranked in the second ten of Texas schoolboy football, gets a chance to show what it can do in a top game of a crowded conference schedule this weekend.

The Antlers run into Thomas Jefferson of San Antonio Friday night. Jefferson was beaten by Austin, also undefeated and untied, but still is considered the toughest trial horse of District 15. Kerrville's showing against the Mustangs will serve as an indication of what Austin is to expect when it battles Kerrville.

District 15 is one of only two districts in the state boasting more than a single unbeaten, untied eleven. The Fort Worth district is the other. Paschal and North Side both have perfect records there.

District 11 Feature

Another undefeated, untied eleven that may be in for a troublesome evening is Tyler, which plays Longview plays in an important District 11 game. Both are unbeaten in conference play as is Marshall, which takes on downtrodden Texarkana Friday night.

There are more than 40 conference games on the week-end schedule in the state with Amarillo playing Plainviw, Sunset (Dallas) meeting North Dallas and Breckenridge playing Brownwood in headliners. Each game will have a strong bearing on the district championship. In the case of Sunset it may decide the title. Sunset has only to tie or win to clinch honors in the Dallas district.

Two Day Schedule

Here is the week-end schedule in the state:

Friday — Seymour at Electra, Olney at Wichita Falls, Graham at Quanah, San Angelo at Big Spring, Austin (El Paso) at Albuquerque, N. M., Mesa, Ariz., at El Paso High, Ysleta at Deming, N. M., Denison at Gainesville, Paris at Bonham, Denton at Highland Park (Dallas), McKinney at Sulphur Springs, Amon Carter-Riverside (Fort Worth) vs North Side (Fort Worth), North Dallas vs Sunset (Dallas), Stephenville at Mineral Wells, Corsicana at Waxahachie, Bryan at Waco, Hillsboro at Temple, Arlington at Ennis, Longview at Tyler, New London at Kilgore, Marshall at Texarkana, Jacksonville at Livingston, St. Thomas (Houston) vs Lamar (Houston), Austin (Houston) vs Milby (Houston), Port Arthur at Beaumont, South Park (Beaumont) at Port Neches, Goose Creek at Galveston, Conroe at Orange, Corpus Christi at Laredo, Kerrville at Jefferson (San Antonio), Harlingen at San Benito, Brownsville at Edinburg, Athens at Palestine.

Saturday—Plainview at Amarillo, Lubbock at Pampa, Brownfield at Borger, Sweetwater at Odessa, Lamesa at Abilene, Poly (Fort Worth) vs Arlington Heights (Fort Worth), Forest (Dallas) vs Woodrow Wilson (Dallas), Brownwood at Breckenridge, Cisco at Ranger, Nacogdoches at Lufkin, Sam Houston (Houston) vs San Jacinto (Houston), Kingsville at Robstown.

Football Results

Paschal (Fort Worth) 19; Fort Worth Tech 0.
Crozier Tech (Dallas) 14; Adamson (Dallas) 0.
John Reagan (Houston) 18; Jeff Davis (Houston) 14.
Port Neches 26; Silsbee 0.
Austin 26; San Antonio Tech 0.
Harlandale (San Antonio) 38; Central Catholic (San Antonio) 7.

Denver City To Seek Grid Title

DENVER CITY, Nov. 9. — With the chances good that the first bi-district pairings will be named here Friday night, the Denver City Mustangs moved under the lights here tonight for a final tuneup of their attack for the game Friday with the Post Antelopes in the final conference game in District 6-A.

The Littlefield Wildcats have already tucked the 5-A title in their barracks bag, and are marking time to await the naming of their opponent for the bi-district play in Class A.

The Mustangs are in top condition for the game, and turned loose with a flashy display of ball handling under the lights tonight, but all the hard work for the week was over.

Elaborate plans are being made for the caring for a large crowd at the game, and between halves show. The 76 piece high school band of Denver City, under the direction of J. L. Patman and led by Margaret Dempsey, majorette, will feature the intermission show. The band is the largest in the history of the school, and has been highly popular over the district this season.

On the basis of season's records, the Mustangs are heavily favored to win the district crown Friday night, but Coach Wilson Head is taking no chances.

Mustangs Undefeated

The Mustangs, boasting of a light, but fast eleven, featuring five flashy running backs and a sturdy, but rather light, line, have roared through an eight game schedule undefeated, but were tied in the second game of the season by Lovington, New Mexico, 6-6.

Since that tie game, the Mustangs have rolled to six wins in a row, beating Plains 26-14, beat Seminole 26-0, beat Tahoka 12-0, beat Andrews 7-0, beat O'Donnell 34-0 and rolled over Seagraves last week, 40-6.

The record of the Post team is incomplete, and only four games for the season have been reported. In these games, Post lost to Tahoka, 13-0, lost to Seagraves 39-0, lost to O'Donnell 34-0 and lost to Slaton 20-6.

Tahoka-O'Donnell To Decide 6-A Runnerup

TAHOKA, Nov. 9.—The runner-up in District 6-A will be named here Friday night, pending the outcome of the grid battle that night between the Tahoka Bulldogs and the O'Donnell Eagles.

Neither team is holding much hope of the Denver City Mustangs being upset at Denver City Friday night by the Post Antelopes which would tie the winner of the Tahoka - O'Donnell game for the leadership in the district. But the absence of hope for a district title will take nothing from the battle for runnerup honors.

The lone conference loss for both teams came at the hands of Coach Wilson Head's red suited Mustangs.

Cotton Bowl Leaders Plan For Grid Show

DALLAS, Nov. 9 (AP)—A contest between the 1944 Southwest Conference football champion and a suitable outside opponent will be the attraction in the New Year's Cotton Bowl classic here, directors of the Cotton Bowl Athletic association decided today.

Among the teams being considered as possible guest opponents of the conference champion are Tennessee, Georgia Tech, Oklahoma A. and M., Mississippi State, the Norman Navy Zoomers, Wake Forest, Tulane and others. Confidence was voiced that an entirely satisfactory visiting team would be obtained but due to the fact that all on the list still have several games to play, it is still too early to make definite contacts.

Texas Tech Gridmen Leave Today For Fort Worth Tilt

The Texas Tech Red Raiders put a final shot of oil to their intricate scoring machine Thursday afternoon in a final workout on the home field, and will leave this morning for Fort Worth where they will tangle with the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs Saturday afternoon.

The Red Raiders will eat lunch in Seymour, and move on to Jacksboro for a final limbering up of their offensive thunder before reaching Fort Worth, and the site of the game.

Hold Final Workout

The squad held a lengthy dummy scrimmage session Thursday afternoon, polishing both offense and defense for the game,

FROGS ARE READY

FORT WORTH, Nov. 9 (AP)—TCU's Horned Frogs staged their final lengthy drill this afternoon in preparation for their Saturday afternoon tilt with the Red Raiders of Texas Tech.

All of the first string players are in fair shape and several of the new V-12 trainees who joined the squad this week have been showing to good advantage.

Halfback Bob Reedy, 150 pounder from Arizona State Teachers college at Flagstaff, looms as the best prospect among the newcomers.

and worked until it was too dark to see the ball. The team will be in peak condition for the game, and ready to shoot the works for another upset over vaunted Southwest Conference foes.

No TCU team coached by Dutch Meyer has ever beaten Texas Tech, and the Red Raiders hold wins over the razzle-dazzle Frogs in the last three meetings of the two schools.

The Red Raiders won 7-0 in 1936 to break a five game winning streak of the Frogs. The two teams did not meet again until the start of the present series in 1942 when Walter Schlinkman paced the Red Raiders to a 13-6 upset victory. The Red Raiders last season caught the Frogs unawares and plastered on a 40-20 defeat, that the Frogs will be out Saturday to avenge.

Frogs Add Strength

The TCU eleven was bolstered this week by the addition of 11 new men with grid experience, and showed plenty of sparkle last week in beating a star studded Chatham Field eleven to prove the team was not too greatly weakened by the losses of several starters through Navy transfers.

Coach Dell Morgan indicated Thursday night that the only change in the probable lineup for Saturday would be the inserting of Don Dudley, letterman end from Wichita Falls, into the end position in place of Jim Taylor of Sweetwater.

Taylor was sworn into the Navy earlier in the week, but is still with the Red Raiders, awaiting his call to report to the Naval base at Memphis, Tenn. Taylor will make the trip to Fort Worth with the team, and will likely see service in the Frog game.

With the exception of Dudley, Morgan plans to start the same lineup against the Frogs that was started the week before when the potent Raider attack knocked over the high flying Rice Owls.

The probable starters will be Dudley and Luke Thompson of Eldorado at ends, Billy Snodgrass of Brownfield and Clyde Black of Ben Franklin at tackles, Homer Lawson of Lubbock and John Birdwell of Shreveport, La., at guards, Otis Turner of Wink at center, Gene Hardey of Hugoton, Kans., at quarter, Arthur Shahan of Graham and Costin Bufkin of Hobbs, N. M., at halves and Walter Schlinkman of Dumas at fullback.

Class A Elevens Take Over Today

The Class A boys have the South Plains all to themselves this week in a heavy two-day schedule that will find some games of peak interest on the schedule over the area.

With the District 5-A race already won by Littlefield, the interest in Class A shifts to District 6-A this week where the final games on the conference schedule will determine the winner. Denver City is a heavy favorite to take the crown from the head of the Seminole Indians, regional winners last year.

The Spur Bulldogs, battling to repeat in District 4-A, and with a team showing rapid improvement, will contest for top honors for the day, being hosts to the Paducah eleven.

Spur has won its last four games, all by comfortable margins, and two of these have been conference scraps against Matador and Lockney. The only Paducah game reported was a 19-0 win over Lockney, a team Spur beat 34-0.

To keep grid interest alive in District 5-A, the Levelland Lobos will tangle Friday night with Coach Marlin "Shorty" Hayhurst's Lubbock Cowhands Gold team, with one of the year's best crowd expected to turn out for the game.

Sudan moves into Olton for a conference game. This battle should be a rugged battle.

Other games over the area will find Lockney at Slaton, Ropes playing at Meadow and Abernathy at Hale Center.

The Class AA slate for Saturday will find all teams playing far from the Lubbock area, with the three Southern teams in District 1-AA playing in the north, and Lamesa going to Abilene for a 3-AA conference battle with the powerful "Comeback Kids" of Abilene.

Norman-LAAF Battle Pairs Grid Powers

When the Army and Navy as represented by the LAAF Fliers and the Norman Navy Zoomers clash in Tech Stadium Saturday afternoon the fans who come out to see Eshmont, Sitko and company should also keep their eyes on a young naval cadet named Fred Enke who played a lot of football over Arizona way and who teams up with an old grade, high school and college pal by the name of Lincoln Richmond in a brilliant passing combination. Enke is also of the swivel hipped variety but he is particularly remarkable for his passing ability and he functions best when shooting passes to the glue fingered Richmond.

Emil Sitko, ex-Notre Dame and Great Lakes star is one of the most deadly broken field runners in the game today while Len Eshmont, the Fordham flash proved against the Amarillo Sky Giants that he has lost none of the wizardry that kept him among the nations top scorers for three years at Fordham and five years with the New York Giants. He crossed the Sky Giants goal line twice and passed for a third touchdown.

The Zoomer line with Clem Stralka, former Georgetown and Washington Redskin guard and Lt. Rex Williams, All-American center from Texas Tech and member of the New York Giants, Stuart of Tulsa, Toland of Southern California and a few others not so well known, has proven a powerhouse against the 2nd Air Force, Oklahoma U., Oklahoma A & M, and the Sky Giants, all of whom fell to the Zoomers.

To offset this power on the ground the LAAF Fliers are expected to take to the air to an extent never before attempted this season, with Bob Long and Ray Servante expected to being on the receiving end of most of the tosses. Servante, who snagged every pass that came his way in the SPAAF game has been under wraps ever since but will probably be turned loose to do his stuff Saturday.

Junior Race Thrown Into Three-Way Tie

Coach Roy Morris' favored Purples were forced to come from behind Thursday afternoon to gain a 7-7 tie with Coach Russell Wimberley's Whites in the torrid Junior High grid conference.

The tie game left the race in a three-way tie, and the playoff will start Monday with a flip of a coin sending the Whites against the Reds in the first game. The winners will play the Purples on Nov. 20 for the city championship.

The Whites struck early for a lead with Bill Bridge passing to Royce Ellison to set up the touchdown. Bridge smashed over from the one for the six-pointer, and Nelms Young plunged the line for the extra point.

The Purples started rolling with the kickoff to start the second half, and marched down field for the score. Jackie Davis passed to Jackie Martyn for the final 25 yards of the distance. Davis then ran over for the extra point that tied the game.

Hunt Pioneers Romp Over Wilson Eleven

The Hunt Pioneers continued to blaze an unbeaten trail through the grade school touch football ranks by winning a 20-0 decision over the Wilson Wranglers Thursday afternoon.

Wayne Stroud threw two touchdown passes, one to Dale Young and the other to Morris Moyers. Charles Hill tackled Richard Hitt back of the goal line for a safety, then Bo Sexton intercepted a pass to run 35 yards for a touchdown.

MANCUSO RELEASED

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. (AP) — Gus Mancuso, veteran catcher for the New York Giants, was given his unconditional release today.

Texas Faces A Big Problem

GORDON SHEARER, the veteran and able chief of United Press' Austin bureau, forecasts that the immediate postwar period will find Texans faced with an organized effort to force admission of negroes in the state's institutions of higher learning.

We believe Mr. Shearer is right. Further, we believe that while state-supported institutions will be the principal target of the campaign, denominational colleges, too, will have to face the problem to some extent.

As should be generally known, there already is in operation a system whereby returning service men may receive, at government expense, various forms of advanced education. After the war is won, many returned Texas negro service men will wish to take advantage of this opportunity. Then, in all likelihood, the federal government will say to Texas colleges, both privately and state-supported: "You'll admit negroes on an even basis with whites, or you cannot be a part of this educational rehabilitation program." In other words, "no negroes, no money from Uncle Sam." Directors of Texas colleges, therefore, will have to make a choice. Either they will forego all of the benefits which will be available under the federal program, or they will accept negroes as students.

As far as denominational schools are concerned, when they make that choice, they are through. As yet the federal bureaucrats have found no way to "take over" the privately operated institutions.

But not so the state-supported colleges, such as Texas Tech, A&M and the university, the teachers colleges and the rest. The federal government — meaning the vote-seeking politicians—holds still another axe over them, with the Supreme court to "make it stick." And under present laws—in fact, under any conceivable set of laws, past, present or future—Texas, or no other Southern state, likely could bar negro students if a test case were decided by the present Supreme court.

As Mr. Shearer points out, Texas currently has an act through which $25,000 per year is available to pay tuition and necessary traveling expenses for Texas negroes who seek more educational advantages than are offered them at Prairie View State college for negroes. Thus far, this act has kept at bay any organized effort to break down segregation laws as they apply to educational institutions. But few realistic persons believe the Supreme court would view the act as anything other than an attempt to "get around" the issue. Certainly, the present Supreme court would so stamp the act.

Mr. Shearer suggests there may be still another way to avoid indiscriminate mixing of the races in state-supported colleges and we trust Texans will take that route in fairness to persons of both races. The United Press man that says by spending several millions of dollars annually, the State of Texas can expand and improve Prairie View to the point where it can extend to the state's negroes the ultimate in their educational desires. We, for one, see no objection to that, whether or not it is done to prevent a breakdown of collegiate segregation. We think it should be done, anyway.

Educationally, as in many other ways, we in Texas have not been fair to the negro. Prairie View college, while a step in the right direction, is only a short step. Whether faced with a serious breakdown of segregation laws, or not, in honesty and justice the State of Texas should improve all educational facilities now available to negroes—including the highest of those facilities.

At any rate, Texas—along with the rest of the South—soon will face the very real problem of what to do about negroes and higher education. We hope, we believe, Texas will solve this problem in a way to serve the best interests of both white and colored citizens, which means in a way so there need be no indiscriminate mixing of the races from which serious trouble to both might spring at any time.

A French Salute To Texas

WHEN the French city of Die was liberated, the first outfit to enter in pursui of the fleeing Germans was the 36th Division. The grateful mayor wanted a victory parade and review, but time was too short. The 36th had to push on swiftly. Yet its members, in their speedy passing, seem to have paused long enough to impress the local citizenry with the virtues and importance of their majority's point of origin.

Today the main street of Die has been renamed Avenue de la Division du Texas. This certainly ought to aid and comfort all Texans. It shows that their soldiers' state pride is still functioning, even in the midst of war and on foreign soil. Not only that, but it has given at least one French city a constant reminder of the Lone Star axiom that, though all Texans are Americans, the vice versa proposition doesn't hold true—not by a darned sight.

This world will never be more than a passably fit place to live in unless and until mankind learns how to run governments without politicians.

Germany Will Try It Again

By Sigrid Schultz

(Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.)

As an American newspaper correspondent in Berlin from 1919 to 1941, Sigrid Schultz saw at first hand the events that led from World War I to World War II. And she saw the behind-the-scenes preparation for the coming "war-in-peace" that she warns may culminate in World War III. This is the story of Germany's plans to win the peace, plans that even now are being put into effect.

FIRST TROJAN HORSE: WE WANT A LEADER

THE exasperated business or professional man who says, "What we need is a leader," is calling for the death of his cherished democracy. It was precisely by wishing for a "leader" to command them that the German people let themselves be sucked into the maw of Nazism.

We enjoy as a republic the privilege of choosing our representatives freely every few years. If the men we select annoy or disappoint us, then it is not the representative system which is at fault, but our own judgment. It is the duty of our representatives to debate, to discuss, before reaching a decision. This makes for a certain slowness, a certain cumbersomeness. But with all its admitted faults, would we want to exchange our system for the public as opposed to the secret ballot, or for the single, Party candidate?

SECOND TROJAN HORSE: NAZISM PROTECTS PRIVATE ENTERPRISE

THE Nazis won capitalist support in Germany by claiming that they would protect private enterprise. Then they introduced a system more severely regimented than Communism.

For many years of the interwar period foreign businessmen on whom the Nazi wanted to make a good impression came to admire the Nazi version of German economy. They got, of course, a rosy-hued view. It is to Germany's advantage to have potential foreign investors believe that the Nazis reserve special privileges for capitalists. They do—but only for the capitalists who benefit the Nazi Party.

Vast amounts of money have been made in Germany by enterprising men and women. But these deals were at the expense either of the masses or of conquered populations. And they were invariably somewhat crooked, placing the businessman at the mercy of Nazi supervisors, for each transaction could be completed only with Nazi approval. And before giving its approval the Party must not only have gotten "its share," but the supervising Nazi official had to be rendered "cooperative."

THIRD TROJAN HORSE: SOVIET RUSSIAN DANGER

THEIR system of frightening the western powers with the specter of Bolshevism served the Nazis well during interwar days and during much of World War II. But no matter how serious our economic problems, there is no reason for panic.

The international craving of the masses for security is greater than it has ever been before, and they look for protection to their unions, to business organizations, or to their governments. I believe that we have enough initiative, intelligence, and ability to safeguard the security of those who want to work, and at the same time to preserve our freedom.

Both the German and the Russian systems of regimentation promise security to their workers, both include labor unions, and both utilize them for political purposes. Despite the absence of Nazi soap-box orators, like the soap-box Communists in Union Square, Germany's Labor Front propaganda has reached an astonishing number of Americans. Within the past two years I have met more workers in the United States who believed that German treatment of workers shamed the American treatment than men who claimed the Communist system superior for the workers.

These men haven't been to either country. They know only what they have heard, glowing reports of workers returned or writing from Germany, from German relatives of other workers, from Swedish, Danish, Irish and other renegades who were Nazi agents, bursting with tales of labor's happiness under the Nazi regime.

I never hear evidence of the Nazi germ among American workers without remembering an agent of the Gestapo in Berlin who made a bit of pocket money now and then by providing me with news.

My Gestapo tipster talked repeatedly about the tremendous organization the government had built up to collect data on American industry, to foment labor trouble in the United States in the event of war.

Such extensive preparation for sabotage was not intended for wartime use alone. In peacetime, while we are "co-operating" with Germany, to be Christian and kind (and also to regain our markets), German agents who are thoroughly familiar with our procedures will exert every effort to hamper our output, to weaken us internally and to cripple us as a competitor.

The propagandists who point only to the "Communist danger" are trying to make us look the other way while they stick a knife into our ribs. Remembering the great man who said that if we were all good Christians there would be no need for Marxism, I have no doubt that if we use to the full our democratic duties and privileges, we can make our democracy immune to any danger from Communism or Nazism.

Bidding On Surplus Wools Is Sluggish

BOSTON, Nov. 9. (AP)—The 17th auction of stockpile wools held by the Defense Supplies corporation was held today with the major part of the offerings being of "B" (burry) type.

Bidding on these wools was slow, and sales were mostly at upset prices. The balance of offerings was actively bid on. Four lots sold at ceilings. Three of these were of medium grade 56's to 58's, reflecting the lack of spot foreign wools of this grade.

Newly offered wools put up for sale totaled 13,787,038 pounds, of which 4,304,786 pounds were sold. In addition, 160,495 pounds of previously passed wools were sold.

Total wools sold privately between sales 16 and 17 is 13,088,523 pounds, bringing the grand total of stockpile wools sold through Nov. 9 to 172,412,374 pounds, 77 per cent of total offerings.

The next sales will be held on Nov. 29 and Dec. 13. Included in this sale to be held on Nov. 29 will be 4,000 bales of New Zealand wool, ranging in grade from 48's to 50/56's, and 12,000 bales of cape wools.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

I WAS very much impressed a few days ago by a newspaper cartoon.

A "timid soul" was sitting in his living room holding a paper with a big headline reading "U. S. Totally Unprepared for Peace."

On the floor were other papers with other headlines, such as "Staggering Problems of Peace," "Peace Forces Nation to Face Critical Decisions," "Neglect of Peace Plans a Disaster."

And, in the "balloon," the timid soul exclaims,

"My Gosh! They've got me more nervous over PEACE than I was over WAR!"

Isn't it so? What is all that talk about "winning the peace," "fighting for peace," "the dangers of peace"?

What is PEACE? Let's look at good old Webster:

"Peace, n., A state of quiet; freedom from disturbance; calm, specif a) Public quiet, order and security. b) Harmony Between Persons or Nations; Amicable Relations. c) Tranquility of mind or conscience. d) Freedom from war."

Simple as abc, isn't it? Particularly the c; Harmony between persons or nations; amicable relations.

That's where the trouble is, you see. Harmony between persons or nations. That is the foundation of peace. Without it the greatest statesmen in the world won't be able to give us permanent peace, without it peace is only an armistice between two wars.

It seems peculiar to me that something which old man Webster could express so completely and clearly in a few words should take hundreds of editorials and articles and books and days and weeks of secret conferences to put into effect.

Can't our leaders and diplomats read?

Haven't they ever heard of the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount?

Don't they know that peace between nations is no different than peace between mother and father, parents and children, friends and friend, neighbor and neighbor?

Why look for complicated formulas and why make intricate agreements and facts that are completely meaningless unless human beings are of peace with themselves with each other?

THE TRUE foundation of peace does not lie in Dumbarton Oaks or Teherarn or Quebec.

It lies in yourself. It lies in your village church. It lies in your school. It lies in your clubs and your family circle and it lies over your back-fence.

Peace can never be expressed in figures or export statements or in dollars or pounds or tons or in boundaries or armies or navies.

Peace lies in "harmony between persons or nations" and in good will among men of good will.

Don't be discouraged. The political campaign is over. Men will stop in a few days calling each other liars and crooks and talking about peace on earth at the same time.

Even political candidates are human beings.

Remember Longfellow's Hiawatha?

"Buried was the bloody hatchet;
Buried was the dreadful war club;
Buried were all war-like weapons,
And the war-cry was forgotten,
Then was peace among the nations."

So be it!

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE Presidential campaign has tended to produce a beneficial effect which has not been lost on students of public psychology. Despite the taut emotions the partisan slugging has aroused, it has provided a safety valve during an extremely critical period of the war.

To a certain extent it has taken the people's minds off that tragedy. The electioneering has likewise made folks forgot such vexations as rising prices, shortages and uncomfortable living conditions. Salesmen marvel at the good nature which customers show when confronted by empty shelves and the prospect of ever greater scarcities before the first of the year.

CLOSER: Although he did campaign "in the usual partisan sense" from fear of defeat President Roosevelt's active participation in the last few weeks is given credit for awakening the electorate to the importance of this wartime contest. Had he persisted in his original plan, there would have been a distinct loss of interest, excitement and color.

Save for a few understandable low blows, both candidates have waged the fight on a high plane. FDR and the New York governor have put the two major parties closer together on fundamental domestic and foreign issues than they have been since World War I.

That consideration will become more generally understood, and its full meaning appreciated, as the nation points back toward normalcy.

PUZZLED: The few plans for industrial demobilization already unveiled reveal the extent of control Washington will have over postwar business. The federal government will shape the direction, expansion and contraction in many key fields.

The Department of Justice, for instance, has already decided that three surplus aluminum plants in New York City, New Jersey and California cannot be retained by Alcoa on the ground that the firm is a "monopoly." The factories were blueprinted, built and operated by Alcoa, and cost approximately $62,000,000.

The Mellon interests are not particularly concerned about keeping them, but they are puzzled by the D of J's decision. In one of the longest and most complicated cases of its kind, the government recently lost on all counts when it assailed Alcoa as a "trust." The Supreme court refused to hear the appeal, and it has been referred to the Circuit court for a final ruling.

The international air conference in Chicago will, naturally, exert tremendous influence on the development of corporations in that domain. Likewise, Uncle Sam can determine the ownership and use of facilities for production of ships, planes, locomotives, trucks etc. It is a direct result of the war for which no one can be held responsible.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

WIPE the rust from your hammer and saw, Mr. Veteran of Mr. War Worker. The building industry will be one of the happiest hunting grounds for postwar job seekers.

New York executives see this as the greatest single source of payrolls outside agriculture. They make known that one-fourth of the nation must be rehoused in the first decade of peace.

Experts of the Chicago Building Construction Employers' association predict employment, both on-site and off-site, for 8,000,000 persons, pointing out that for every man on the scaffold, two other workers are necessary to produce and transport his materials.

Some authorities envisage more than 1,000,000 dwellings annually, not counting other types—aside from farmhouses. The National Association of Real Estate boards, after canvassing around 350 cities, listed 3,000,000 new homes in the 10-year span.

A Manhattan statistical organization, widely patronized by top firms in the industry, forecasts 820,000 houses a year. This means at least double the building volume of the 1930-39 period. No matter which figures are accepted, they add up to a bright future.

REPAIRS: Right now building contracts are at a low ebb owing to war conditions. A pickup is foreseen by the middle of next year. The WPB calculates that perhaps 400,000 new residences may be erected in 1945 as compared with 250,000 in 1943.

The boom cannot be realized until federal emergency regulations are relaxed and materials are again available. Lumber probably will be very scarce for a long time. Brass pipe, copper fittings, plumbing and lighting fixtures are still negligible. It may be six months after V-E day before all are released in volume.

Repairs on dwellings will absorb labor until the resumption of large-scale new private construction. Uncle Sam may continue his low-cost housing program. Even a new hen house yields profit to others besides the carpenter—the makers of chicken wire, tar paper, whitewash etc.

IMPROVEMENTS: The first postbellum houses will be similar to the 1940 model and constructed much in the same way. But for imaginative soldiers, who like to speculate on introducing something different after getting back into civvies, these tips about dream styles are authentic.

Modernistic homes will contain an extraordinary amount of window space; for privacy glass blocks will be employed. Simplicity in arrangement throughout the house will be stressed as this means less drudgerry.

The use of color will be increased to prevent barrenness. Various plastics and prefabricated wall and floor boards now come in beautiful hues.

Local tradition may hinder the acceptance of extreme novelty in design. A recent survey in Boston showed that prospective bridges preferred the conventional colonial type to bizarre streamlined "boxes."

However, practical improvements will be marketed as early as possible. Already building supply corporations are planning ways to utilize various substances developed during the war.

The plywood used in planes will occupy a large place in the homes raised by mustered-out aviators. Shingles and wainscoting will be made of light fireproof asbestos cement. Roofs, floors and walls will take in new asphalt products, perfected paints, glues and plastics.

Architects have not overlooked the new metals and shock-absorbing synthetic rubbers. Incidentally, there will be plenty of jobs selling these new materials and gadgets to contractors and hardware dealers.

BUILDERS: Working for an employer, joining labor unions and the prospects of various trades are subjects reserved for later articles in this series.

The following advice from a national authority in the architectural and construction world should help the young man who hopes to start on his own. He is Henry S. Holden of New York, president of the F W. Dodge corporation.

"Always in periods of increasing volume," he says, "there are new people coming into the field, mostly small-house builders and subcontractors. We expect a considerable expansion of opportunities of this sort and openings for qualified architects to set up for themselves.

"A word of caution, however. Many experienced men, who have dropped out of independent business for war jobs, will return to their old spheres as soon as the situation warrants. The chance for a young man to be his own boss depends very much on local conditions, for the building line is almost completely localized in character."

Contradictory adages: "Absence makes the heart grow fonder." "Out of sight, out of mind."

"If people learned to control their emotions, 50 per cent of the physicians would starve," says a psychologist. And so would 100 per cent of the politicians.

Here And There In Texas

Texas Cities Join Hands In Culture's Sweet Cause

By CHAROLLET PHELAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

THE Dallas concert season includes two appearances of the Houston symphony orchestra, and thereby hangs a story of heightened cultural cooperation in Texas.

The Houston symphony opened its 1944-45 season on October 23, with 85 concerts scheduled, on a budget of $192,134. The orchestra was organized in 1913 and had a budget of $1,500.

Houston has a symphony. Dallas has not. But Dallas has a wealth of concert goers. Fort Worth brought the two together.

The intermediary in the happy transaction is Mrs. John F. Lyons, who lives in Fort Worth and artists professionally, with a view to providing audiences in the Southwest, to as great an extent as possible, the same fine entertainment available to those who happen to live next door to the Metropolitan, Carnegie Hall—or Billy Rose.

Plenty Of Big Names

Artists, whose names have graced programs in Milan and London, Paris and New York, through Mrs. Lyons' sponsorship, have given Fort Worth and Dallas, Wichita Falls and New Orleans the same thrilling performances and fired them with the same genuine appreciation.

Look at the list, or part of it: Paderewski, Galli-Curci, who stepped over rocks at an unfinished Fort Worth church to sing for Texas listeners; Schuman-Heink, Farrar, Rachmanoff, Kreisler, Spalding, Pavlova, Will Rogers, Walter Hampden, Sir Harry Lauder, Caruso . . .

CARUSO found the largest audience of his career—8,000 persons—waiting to hear him in a barny building usually filled with less aesthetic creatures at the Fort Worth Fat Stock show.

Mrs. Lyons and her associates brought Ignace Paderewski to Texas three times, handling his last concert in Dallas in April, 1939. It was through these concerts that Mrs. Lyons first perceived the whimsies of ticket buyers. At Paderewski's first concert in Texas—in 1923 — the hall at Fort Worth was bulging with hundreds who wanted to hear him. Mrs. Lyons herself heard the concert from a wnidowsill, the rest of the space in the building having been filled with paying dilettantes and SRO signs.

"Naturally," said Mrs. Lyons in rueful reminiscence, "such a successful appearance led us to plan for an even greater audience the following season."

It wasn't that way at all.

The great Polish premier-pianist himself had the answer:

"I understand, my dear," he said gently to a disillusioned concert manager. "It's really very simple—they saw me last year."

Handles New Orleans, Too

Mrs. Lyons, a distinctive, white-haired lady who had rather talk about her two sons in the Army than art and artists, began concert work back in 1911 when she was president of a music club in Fort Worth, where she makes her home.

They contrived a plan, a seasonal concert series to which single tickets were sold, i nadvance. The plan, embryo of the Civil Music association program now very successful in Fort Worth, Dallas and other cities, worked. The cash-on-hand inducement, backed by sincere enthusiasm for artistic products, blazed a now-worn trail.

Going outside her customary Fort Worth-Dallas realm, Mrs. Lyons has collaborated with others in spreading the arts in Texas. She also sponsors concerts regularly in New Orleans.

MRS. LYONS worked with Mrs. Edna W. Saunders of Houston to put Texas cities on itineraries of the drama—the drama of Walter Hampden, Otis Skinner and Maude Adams stature. Exigencies went with the enterprise. In addition to managing the Skinner-Adams production of "The Merchant of Venice," in a Fort Worth school auditorium, she also fixed it with the light company so a cable could be run in from the street for special lighting. Horses, which were essential dramatis personae of Hampden's immortal "Cyrano de Begerac," also presented somewhat of a managerial problem.

Now and then, Mrs. Lyons has withdrawn from concert management for other activities — once during her tenure as president of the National Federation of Music clubs, and again in 1935 when she became regional director of Music for the Works Progress administration. Later she was state WPA supervisor, directing musical projects in Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio and El Paso.

Seabees Know Bombings

In the opinion of four Port Arthur Seabees, temporarily home from the wars, the first hundred bombings are the hardest.

"After that," they say, "well, you don't exactly become used to it, but by that time you begin to know what to do to take care of yourself."

They out to know, for BM-1c John E. Bos, MM-2c M. G. Lewellen, MM-2c R. B. McCullough and Chief MM O. A. Moore are members of the most bombed battalion in the war. In five weeks they went through 128 raids.

But that didn't stop them.

Working on the construction of an air strip, all of coral, at Munda, they found that a nearby mountain made it difficult for planes to land—so they shaved off the top of the mountain.

SELECTIVE STOCKS STRONG

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP) — Selective strength in aircrafts, rails, liquors and specialties brightened the stock market horizon today although many leaders lacked recovery stimulation.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .1 of a point at 58.5. Of 869 issues appearing, 439 were up against 430 down or unchanged. Transfers totalled 861,100 shares compared with 732,330 Wednesday.

Pepsi-Cola rose 1⅛ when share owners approved a 3-for-1 stock slitup proposal. Socony added ¾ in the wake of the first extra payment by this company since 1937. At 1944 peaks were Hiram Walker, up 4½; Boeing, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Grumman and Beech Aircraft.

Losers included Bethlehem, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Eastman Kodak, Standard Oil (NJ), International Nickel and Public Service of N. J.

Secondary railway bonds improved.

Among curb advances were International Products, Childs Co. preferred, Brewster Aero and Standard Cap. Turnover here was 233,545 shares versus 191,-720 yesterday.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—The cotton futures market today moved upward for the third consecutive session, influenced principally by expectations of rising price trends under government farm policy. Mill buying against textile supported near months with scattered commission house and New Orlean demand in the later positions.

December liquidation and switching into 1st remonths anticipating first notice day November 28 was a feature. After advancing as much as 50 cents a bale that list eased off partially on profit taking, and hedge selling to close 8 to 35 cents a bale higher.

Cub Scout Circus Is Gala Occasion Here

A circus, replete to a parade and simulated animals, was presented Thursday night by nine Cub Scout dens in the stock judging pavilion on Texas Technological college campus.

The dens represented Cub pack 1 of Roscoe Wilson school.

Three hundred and twenty-five parents and 125 Cubs were present.

Forty-five awards were made.

Dr. F. G. Harbaugh, cubmaster, was circus ringmaster. Music was furnished by a band directed by J. A. White, den chief and Junior High student.

Led by Dr. Harbaugh, the parade included improvised horses, chickens, zebras, monkeys, two real Shetland ponies, and Cubs costumed as clowns and Indians.

Simultaneously, in two rings, were presented boxing matches, an Indian dance in silhouette; an act of cranking a jalopy with a flat, a takeoff on newspaper reporters and the stunts of "trained animals."

The finale was conducted by G. M. Unger, South Plains Scout executive.

The Cubs approved a plan presented by Dr. Harbough for sending of Christmas packages to wounded soldiers in McCloskey General hospital at Temple. A letter from a Cub would accompany each package.

War In Pacific

ces on the ridge battle lines.

Gen. Tokoyuki Yamashita, confident new Japanese commander in the Philippines, said he would demand unconditional surrender from Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

In Washington, War Secretary Stimson said the Japanese on Leyte island were trying to "stage a partial comeback . . . after initial heavy reverses." The change of Japanese commanders in the Philippines, the secretary said, indicated Nippon is going to fight there to the bitter end. He added "a long trail of forceful action is ahead of us."

Last Base At Stake

The fate of the last major American air base in southeast China was at stake as Japanese forces closed in on the strategic city of Liuchow, Kwangsi province railway center. The Chinese high command indicated one Nippon spearhead was 15 miles from Liuchow. Five others also were closing in. But radio Tokyo claimed Rising Sun forces were hitting Chinese positions barely nine miles from the city.

As the Chinese charged the invaders with using "large quantities" of poison gas at bloody Kweilin, Kwangsi capital, the Japanese reported the city completely encircled and said they were using infantry, air power and tanks in a new general offensive there. The Chinese claimed five enemy assault at Kweilin were repulsed.

TO THE VOTERS . . . of the SOUTH PLAINS

The Texas Regulars extend congratulations and best wishes to the victorious Democrats.

We pledge our co-operation and assistance in an all out effort to win the war and the restoration of a United home front.

Remember the next Bond issue. Sales begin on November 20th. Let us forget our differences and work together as we have in the past.

Western Front

pushed across a tributary of the Moselle river at an undefined point north of Metz, to keep up the pressure on both sides of the city.

A third infantry division, the Fifth, under Major Gen. Leroy Irvin, plunged across the Seille river and occupied the town of Cheminot, 10 miles south of Metz.

Three miles east the village of St. Jure fell, as did Phlin and Craincourt, three and six miles farther southeast. Another force took Morville-Les-Vic, 1½ miles east of Chateau Salins.

Patrols probed into the forest of Chateau Salins where Germans were believed to be hold strong positions.

Moderate Resistance

While the Germans were offering only moderate resistance and conserving their tanks, several hundred Allied fighterbombers following the heavies knocked out four tanks not far to the rear. Medium bombers also joined the attack to bring the total sorties to 2,500.

Front dispatches identified the three infantry divisions which opened the attack yesterday as the 26th, 35th and 80th. Their southermost positions are at Moncourt, 33 miles southeast of Metz.

Advances also were scored at the northern end of the front at Berg, 22 miles northeast of Metz.

To the north inside Germany, the U. S. First Army lashed out in limited attacks southeast of Aachen.

Gains Near Vossenaek

The communique reported small gains in the face of heavy enemy pressure south of Vossenack, 13 miles southeast of Aachen, and said Germans still were being cleared from Hurtgen forest west of Schmidt, two miles farther south.

The Berlin Press front line dispatch said the battle for southwest Holland ended at dawn today in the winter's first snowfall as Allied troops wiped out the last German rearguards south of the Maas river at Moerdijk, seizing 350 prisoners and several self-propelled guns.

Two Walcheren Pockets

On flooded Walcheren island, only two pockets of from 100 to 150 Germans remained north of Middleburg, and these were marooned and signalled they wanted to surrender. Another force on the north shore gave up without even asking for terms.

On the southern end of the Western front, the U. S. Seventh Army, driving deeper into the Vosges mountains, captured the village of Les Baraques and fought to within three and a half miles of St. Die, guarding one of the main passes through the mountains to the Rhine.

In a push two miles northeast of Reherry, doughboys on the northern limits of the Seventh Army front seized Migneville, which is 15 miles southeast of where the Third Army is operating around Moncourt.

Japs Moving Planes Into Philippine Area

AT A LEYTE AIRBASE, Philippines, Nov. 8. (Delayed) (AP) (via army radio)—From all indications the Japanese are rushing considerable air strength into the Philippines from Chinese and Japanese bases in an attempt to break the American stranglehold on Leyte, say American pilots fighting them.

Many types of Japanese planes from radial-engined Oscar fighter-bombers to twin-engine heavy bombers have been encountered in the hectic days since American army fighters took over the job of air cover from the Navy.

News Briefs

The regular community singsong will be held Sunday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock at the Central Baptist church, 1311 Eighteenth, Rev. Jeff D. Welch, co-pastor of the church, has announced.

The man told police he awoke Thursday afternoon with his pocket minus $65, a cut over an eye and a "deep brown" taste in his mouth. He told of leaving his place of business about 1 o'clock Thursday morning with another man. He did not know the man's name but said they had been drinking together. He awoke in a tourist cabin.

Luther C. Stewart, national president of the National Federation of Federal Employees, will be here for a special meeting of the local NFFE chapter at 7:30 o'clock this evening in the ballroom of the Lubbock Hotel, H B. Williams announced.

James G. Allen, dean of men at Texas Tech, is to attend a conference of the Texas Commission on Coordination in Education which will be held Nov. 13-17 at the University of Texas. The workshop on guidance with special reference to problems on returning veterans will be discussed by representatives from the majority of Texas schools and colleges.

The importance of young people training for future careers as hotel managers and operators of public eating places was stressed by Tom Pendergrast, manager of Cocanougher's cafeteria and former manager of Lubbock hotel, when he spoke to 217 students of the commerce division at Texas Tech, Thursday afternoon.

Location in a decadent city with poor postwar outlook.

Inadequate housing facilities which make Galveston unattractive to new faculty members and students.

Deplorable local health conditions as exemplified by the fact that medical students over a period of years have had one of the highest tubercular rates among medical schools in the United States.

These conclusions, said the resolution, should not be construed as a condemnation of "those outstanding members of our faculty whose extraordinary abilities and untiring efforts have, despite numerous handicaps, continued to serve Texas medicine."

432 electoral votes to 99

The winners had 24,184,832 popular votes to 21,180,685 for Dewey and Bricker, with some 10,000 precincts to go.

Thus their magin in popular ballots was the narrowest since 1916. The electoral lead jumped

CONGRESS SECURE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP) — Late nationwide returns tonight gave the Democrats a strong working majority in the House and uninterrupted control of the Senate.

The vote that the new Congress will play in fashioning America's post-war programs for peace and war became the subject of major speculation.

The returns assured the Democrats: A House membership of 241 and a margin of at least 40, with four races in Missouri and one each in New Jersey and Washington in doubt.

A Senate membership of at least 56 and a plurality over the Republicans of 16, with races in Missouri and Pennsylvania in doubt.

when tabulation of some of the final Michigan precincts in the Detroit industrial area swung the state into the Democratic column.

Along with the Democratic win at the top of the ticket went retention of the party's comfortable majority in the Senate, a firm grasp on a House majority, and more Democratic governors. The few races still in doubt alter that picture.

Parley In Spotlight

As for the President's docket, some things can wait, but a decision must be made promptly on the date and spot for the parley with Britain's Prime Minister and Russia's Premier.

In his spare time, the chief executive can think about picking a new ambassador to China to succeed Clarence E. Gauss, who resigned, and a man to take over James F. Byrnes' place at the presidential elbow. The war mobilization director says he wants to practice law back home in South Carolina.

Washington harvested the usual crop of post-election rumors about cabinet shakeups, including the perennial that Secretary of Labor Perkins was quitting. Whether well founded or not, there also has been talk that 73-year-old Secretary of State Hull might resign because of his health.

Ickes Resigns As Usual

Secretary of Interior Ickes handed in his resignation, as he does every four years, just in case Mr. Roosevelt might want to make a change. But there was no indication the President had one in mind.

The most likely development would be the resignation of Postmaster General Frank Walker to make way for Robert E. Hannegan, the Democratic national chairman. The chairman customarily has gone into the cabinet to head up the postal department. Walker, himself a former chairman, did that. So did James A. Farley.

Congratulations To:

Nazi Cry Of "Wolf" Loses Force Despite Patton's Lunge At Metz

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Nazi broadcasters have shouted "wolf" so often in announcing "major" Russian or Allied offensives that they are not to be trusted. They are serving some home-front purpose of their own, possibly to keep public apprehension stirred up or possibly in hopes of claiming important victories if the operation so described proves an affair of limited objective.

SIMPSON

For that reason Berlin assertions that the American Third Army under General Patton has launched a full scale break-through effort against the Metz-guarded Lorraine gateway to the upper Rhine must be accepetd with caution. That it has some definite relationship to Allied preparations to turn or blast a way through the German Rhineland defense wall goes without saying.

To Fall In North

There is no good reason to doubt, however, that the next Allied main power blow in the west will fall on the Dutch extension of the Siegfried line. That has been implicit in every Allied move since the sweep through France and Belgium reached German frontiers too far ahead of its supply lines to push on immediately to the Rhine.

The mere fact that Army censors permitted disclosure that seven divisions had been thrown into the attack is significant. Resort to close support use of heavy bormers further indicates the importance of the Third Army drive in relation to overall Allied assault plans at this stage.

The capture or isolation of the Metz fortress would unquestionably put Patton's forces in a position to strike toward the German frontier and the Saar river just behind it.

With Metz behind him Patton would find easier terrain for a deep penetration than confronts his fellow American Army commanders either to the north or the south. It is also a terrain more suited to Patton's proven specialty, armored "blitz" plunges, than other sectors of the 500 mile west front disclose.

Cotton Production Hike In Texas Seen

AUSTIN, Nov 9. (AP)—An increase of 100,000 bales in the indicated cotton production for Texas this year was forecast today by the crop reporting board of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Based on Nov. 1 conditions, a crop of 2,600,000 bales was predicted, compared with 2,500,000 on Oct. 1, and with 2,823,000 bales produced last year. The average production in Texas during the 10-year period 1933-42 was 3,273,000 bales.

The estimated lint yield per acre at 175 pounds compares with 174 pounds in 1943, and a 10-year 1933-42 average yield of 162 pounds.

Ginnings in Texas to November 1, are reported by the bureau of census at 1,577,000 running bales, compared with 2,160,000 bales ginned to the same date last year, and 2,156,000 bales to November 1, 1942.

Ex-Governor Leche Pays Off Back Taxes

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 9. (AP)—The U. S. collector of internal revenue here received a check for $39,539.81 today in settlement of a judgment obtained by the government in a suit brought in 1942 against former Governor Richard W. Leche and W. C. Feazell of Monroe, in connection with income taxes allegedly due by Leche from royalty incomes from 1936 to 1939.

Leche now is serving a term in federal prison on a charge of defrauding through the mails.

Parent-Teacher Set Urges Peace Set-Up

FORT WORTH, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—The Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers unanimously resolved today at the closing session of their 36th annual convention to demand a permanent world peace organization.

A principle objective of the 163,000 members of the congress will be support of all measures to prevent wars, the congress resolved.

The congress also adopted a resolutions calling for higher qualification standards for teachers with proportionate salary increases and continued emphasis on a program of parent education.

All members of the congress were called upon to give every possible assistance to the young peoples serving in the war effort.

Mrs. E. H. Becker of Houston last night was elected to a three-year term as president, succeeding Mrs. Jack M. Little of Dallas.

Other officers elected included Mrs. L. G. Byerley, Midland, third vice-president and Mrs. Warren Freund, Austin, sixth vice-president.

The report on the elections was made by Mrs. H. F. Godeke, of Lubbock, chairman of the nominating committee.

President Turns From Election News To Major World Problems

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press Staff Writer

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 9.—President Roosevelt, assured that he will be President for the next four years, today put aside election returns for returns from the battlefronts and turned to the tangled affairs of running a nation at war and preparing for a complicated peace.

The President knew he was in for another four years, and that knowledge brought up automatically a series of problems:

1. Changes in his cabinet.
2. New strategy meetings with Prime Minister Winston Churchill, Soviet Premier Josef Stalin and possibly the Chinese leader, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.
3. Further efforts in construction of an international peace organization.
4. Preparation of new domestic programs to be submitted to Congress.

The President — heading toward the first fourth term in this country's history — will return to the White House tomorrow and there were indications that his return to Washington would be the occasion for a large demonstration by the voteless people of the District of Columbia.

Celebration Planned

The President's train will pull into Washington's union station at 9:30 a. m. (CWT) on Friday and he will leave his train about 30 minutes later. Judging by the performance of past years, the discommissioners will see to it that there is a local celebration and the Constitution avenue route from the station to the White House will be lined by cheering Roosevelt supporters, and civil service workers.

As the President neared the end of his Hyde Park election trip, there was vigorous speculation that he will shortly hold another conference with Churchill and Stalin —this time to map the last phase of the war in the Pacific, or at least the invasion of Japan.

Shadowing the prospects of such a meeting was the openly-admitted difficult situation in China and this particular problem might well produce a meeting wih Chiang as one of the participants.

There was no confirmation here whatever of these conference, rumors, but it was generally accepted that Mr. Roosevelt would shortly embark on a trip to rest after an arduous, fourth term reelection campaign which took him for major appearances into New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston.

At any rate the President will have an opportunity to clear up these questions Friday morning when he holds a press and radio conference at the White House shortly after 10:30 a. m.

Mr. Roosevelt felt that the election had again — and particularly during a tense war era — proved the benefits of the American democratic process of holding a free election even in war time.

"For the first time in eighty years," the President said late yesterday, "we have held a national election in the midst of war. What is really important is that after all of the changes and vicissitudes of four score years, we have again demonstrated to the world that democracy is a living, vital force; that our faith in American institutions is unshaken; that conscience and not force is the source of power in the government of man.

"In that faith let us unite to win the war and to achieve a lasting peace."

Message From Hull

There were hundreds of messages pouring into the temporary White House here. There was none from Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the defeated Republican candidate, but there was word from ailing Cordell Hull, secretary of state, who messaged the president:

"I extend my warmest felicitations on your reelection to the presidency. Under your wise leadership our country will rededicate itself, united and strong, to the attainment of complete and speedy victory over our enemies, and to the establishment of a just and lasting peace."

Food, Nutrition And Rationing News . . .

Include Variety Meats In Menus

Many dishes that make "good-eating" and are "good for you" may be prepared from variety or non-rationed meats, says Mrs. Jonnie McCrery Michie, professor of foods and nutrition at Texas Tech.

These variety meats, including liver, kidney, tongue, heart, sweetbreads, brains and others have long been regarded by many as delicacies, and in recent years they have been accorded outstanding recognition by nutritionists because of the nutrients they provide in extraordinary amounts.

Make Substantial Dishes

These cuts serve for substantial dishes around which meals may be planned. They are not rationed and are relatively low in cost. Patriotic housewives may, therefore, serve their country and at the same time bring taste satisfaction and health to their families by using variety meats.

Nearly everyone enjoys the flavor of meat. If the meal is planned around a well prepared meat dish it will almost always prove to be a satisfying one. These variety meats may be used in many ways to give the meat flavor which makes vegetables, bread and other foods of the meal more relished.

Variety meats are rich in many of the food constituents that are essentials to good nutrition. Most of them supply protein for building and maintaining body tissue. Phosphorus, which is essential for the structure of many parts of the body, and iron for the building of blood are furnished in generous amounts by these parts of the animal Vitamins, especially those of the B complex are supplied in unusual amounts, and some of these varieties, especially liver and kidney, contain much vitamin A.

Must Be Parboiled

These meats should be cooked so as to conserve their valuable food constituents and since many of them, such as sweetbreads and brains, are very tender, they may be parboiled in acidulated water for a short period of time, and then broiled, creamed or sauteed. The ones which contain much used muscles such as heart and tongue should be cooked with moist, slow heat. Liver, which is to be ground, should be scalded or cooked in boiling water for a short period of time. The water in which it is cooked may be used in the preparation of the recipe as it contains some of the nutrients. The department of foods and nutrition of Texas Tech college has been working out recipes for appetizing dishes made from variety meats. Below are some of these recipes which have been tested in the foods laboratories:

Liver Loaf

1 pound liver
2 slices bacon
1 medium onion
1 egg
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup cracker crumbs
1 cup liquid (in which liver has been cooked)

Cook liver slowly 5 minutes in water to cover. Reserve liquid. Put liver through food chopper with bacon and onion. Add all other ingredients. Mix thoroughly. Pack meat mixture in a well-greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 F.) for 1 hour. Catsup or tomato sauce may be served over loaf. Serves 8.

Braised Kidney And Vegetable Stew

1 lb. kidney
5 potatoes, cubed
4 carrots, cubed
1 large onion, diced
1 T. fat
1½ t. salt
½ t. chili powder
⅛ t. pepper

Split kidney through the center; remove fat and heavy veins. Cut in pieces, cover with cold water, and heat slowly to boiling point. Brown onion in fat with seasonings (use kettle in which stew is to be made). Add meat and cook until brown. Add 3 cups water and vegetables; cover and simmer until meat is tender (about 2 hours). (Stew may be thickened with 2 T. flour mixed with ½ c. cold water, if desired).

Deep Dish Pie—Cool Weather Winner!

There's Nothing Better For Taste Than Tart Apple Pie

FROM the minute a nip comes into the air, right on through the winter, there's no more heartening dessert than a deep dish pie. And apple is surely the greatest favorite. Just the smell of it while it's baking is a treat. And, oh man, when you cut into it—there just isn't anything better.

Old-Fashioned Deep Dish Apple Pie Crust

1½ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons sugar
⅛ teaspoon powdered cloves
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons fortified margarine
½ cup milk (about)

Sift together flour, baking powder, sugar, cloves and salt. Cut in the margarine. Now stir in milk sufficient to make a soft but not sticky dough. Roll or pat out to ¼ inch thickness. Cut long inch-wide strips from the side. With these strips line only the sides of a shallow baking dish. (It should be deeper than the usual pie pan, but not as deep as a regular sized casserole.)

Filling

6-8 tart cooking apples
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoop flour
4 tablespoons fortified margarine
⅛ cup water

Wash, pare, quarter, core and slice the apples. Mix together the flour, sugar and nutmeg. Arrange the sliced apples in the baking dish in layers, sprinkling some of the sugar mixture over each layer. Add a strip of two of the dough; dot with part of the margarine. Continue until all apples, seasoning and margarine are used. Add the water. Cover with the prepared crust. Crimp the edges of the crust. Prick a decorative design in the top to allow steam to escape. Bake at 400 degree about three-quarters of an hour, so that apples are cooked and crust is nicely brown. Serve hot or cold.

Any berries make good deep dish pies. Never mind that it isn't berry season. Use the quick-frozen variety, if they're available. Or use berries, or peaches, or pears that you've put up for the winter. Proceed in the same way you do for deep dish apple pie, using the juice from preserved fruit instead of water to pour over, and using a 425 degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes, to brown the crust and heat the fruit.

Here's another filling which gives variety and extra special flavor to the old apple favorite.

Apple-Cranberry Filling

6 tart cooking apples
2 cups cranberries, pitted and chopped
1 cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon flour
4 tablespoons fortified margarine
½ cup water

Wash, pare, quarter, core and slice the apples and mix them with the cranberries. Layer them alternately with the mixed dry ingredients in a deep pie dish which has been lined with crust as described above. Dot each layer with margarine. When all is done, pour in water and cover with top crust, pricking it to let the steam escape. Bake at 400 degree three-quarters of an hour.

For a delightful variation for mayonnaise add a bit of chili sauce and India relish and presto you have a good tasting home-made version of Russian dressing.

KITCHEN KORNER

Recent figures show milk to have 1.9 mg. of riboflavin per quart. This quantity more than meets the needs of a growing child up to 12 years of age. Riboflavin is markedly higher in cow's milk than in human milk.

If you are at all concerned with the amount of iron you consume, remember that dried apricots, peaches and prunes serve you unusually well in this respect. All of the fruits taste delicious, too.

An otherwise drab meal may be perked up to perfection if the salad ingredients are well chosen. Color is an important consideration when combining salad foods. To give lightness to the salad mixture, toss with a fork when adding the dressing.

Here is a way to give a meat platter verve, and lots of it. Drain canned cling peach halves and heat. Fill with fluffy boiled rice and use to decorate the meat platter. The peach combination provides color, flavor and certainly interest.

Almonds are rich in phosphorus, a mineral essential to our helath. Almonds contain more than fifty per cent more of this element than do any other nuts grown in the United States.

Ripe olives never go amiss as accompaniments to fruit, vegetable, fish or chicken salads. Roll them in a few drops of oil if you like to serve them glistening and shiny.

The dried fig season looks good. The supply is generous. Include pulled figs in lunch boxes occasionally; their chewy texture is just what is wanted to give zest to a cold meal.

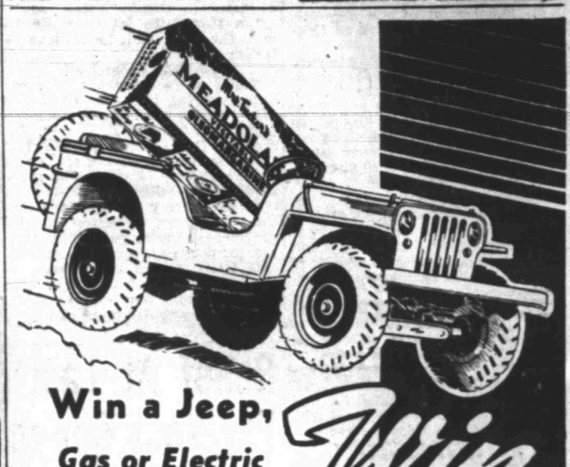

A dessert which never calls for apologies consists merely of canned cling peach halves or slices crowned with a soft custard. Of course, thorough chilling of both fruit and sauce before combining forces is a "must."

Nearly 100,000 of the 130,000 European refugees in America are Jews.

If you want to be able to recognize young, tender and sprightly chickens look for flexible cartilage on the apex of the breast bone, tender skin, soft meat, few hairs and soft smooth feet.

Solon Considers Probe Of Polls

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 9. (AP)—Rep. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM), chairman of a House campaign expenditures investigating committee, said today he is considering an investigation of public opinion polls as a result of their difference with election results.

He declared that public opinion polls before the election gave Thomas E. Dewey, Republican, an edge over President Roosevelt who won by a popular majority of 2,700,000.

"It is as improper to use public opinion polls," he said, "in an attempt to influence elections as it is to use money."

Poll Said "Weighted"

Anderson did not specify which polls he meant, but did say he thought the Gallup poll had been "weighted, according to the opinion of Mr. Gallup." And that it showed "public opinion 51 to 49 for Dewey."

(In New York, George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public opinion, which Monday gave President Roosevelt 51.5 per cent of the civilian vote, said that the Institute's third national forecast "indicates a progressive improvement in polling techniques.")

Corn is sold by the "hand," or in groups of five ears, in Vera Cruz, Mexico.

Airmail Service To Philippines Resumed

TACLOBAN, Leyte, Philippines, Nov. 8. (Delayed) (U.P.)—United States airmail service to the Philippines was reestablished here this afternoon at a ceremony that also marked the reopening of the Tacloban postoffice.

President Sergio Osmena of the Philippines sent the first letter by plane to his philatelist friend, President Roosevelt, the letter containing a set of the new commonwealth victory issue stamps.

District Farm Bureau Elects And Stresses Rural Advancement Need

W. R. Tilson of Meadow was re-elected state director from district 2 of the Texas Farm Bureau federation at a meeting of the district federation Monday in Lubbock hotel. Lewis Owen of Pep (Hockley county) was elected alternate director.

At the afternoon session State President J. Walter Hammond of Tye presented the challenge that the American farmer must be reckoned with in the distribution of wealth after the war. "Industry is already grooming public opinion for higher priced articles after the war so that they can pay higher wages to labor," he said. "But at the same time they tell the farmer that he must produce cotton and other commodities cheaper to meet foreign competition in a new import era after the war.

Farmer Must Prosper

"If the farmer does not get his share of the wealth, the entire economy of our country will be unbalanced. Industry will not be able to sell its products; there will be less employment and another depression will result," he warned.

Hammond also enumerated a list of achievements of the farm bureau, including its latest victory in obtaining parity prices for cotton and wheat. Cotton farmers will benefit to the extent of five dollars per bale as a result of this farm bureau accomplishment, he said.

"An improved farm credit system, fair cash prices instead of subsidies, continuation of the soil conservation program, rural electrification expansion and a large number of other activities are included in the farm bureau program after the war, but first we must concentrate on winning the war. The war is a long way from being over. The boys in the trenches, those who have been wounded know better than we that the war will not be over for many months. We can not afford to become too optimistic along that line," he added.

Afternoon Speakers

M. C. Jaynes, cooperative specialist of Texas A. and M. extension service; and N. C. Forrester of Austin, representing the Blue Cross plan of hospitalization, were other speakers on the afternoon program. An open forum discussion of current farm problems took up the balance of the time at the afternoon session.

Tilson presided at both the morning and afternoon meetings which were attended by approximately 75 farmers and members of various agricultural agencies.

Stressing the need for agricultural organizations, Congressman George H. Mahon addressed the group at the morning session.

As agriculture is making much progress it is necessary for farmers to band together in an organization so that they might solve their problems much easier, he said.

"In Washington, where I spend most of my time, I have no way of knowing what is going on down here in Texas unless I have someone to turn to and ask about the problems of the people here. An active farm bureau organization solves that problem. I must know what is going on if I am to work for farmers' legislation.

Agricultural Problems Vary

"Agricultural problems vary throughout the nation. No two sections will have the same problems so we cannot isolate one agricultural section from another. Organizations from all sections can get together and present their problems and solve them.

"I have great faith in the future," he said, "although there are some things which do not look so bright. There will be great progress in agriculture in the future, but many problems will present themselves with this progress. It will take the brains of all of us, working together, to meet these problems. There is no problem we can not solve if we work together."

Farmers' Needs Cited

The congressman was introduced by J. Walter Hammond of Tye, president of the state federation.

Preceding Mahon's address, R. G. Arnold of Auburn, Ala., representing the American federation, spoke of the two greatest needs of farmers today. These are: Materials and equipment to produce a good crop, and a fair price at the market place for farm products.

Reorganization Of League Is Urged

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. (AP)—Uruguay today urged that the League of Nations be reorganized to handle postwar world security.

The Uruguayan plan, voicing the first official criticism of Dumbarton Oaks by a small nation, projected the idea that "perhaps it would be advantageous" to keep the already established league, but urged, if a new security organization is established, that guarantees for small states be incorporated.

The Uruguayan views were presented by Ambassador Juan Carlos Blanco this afternoon at the third meeting of Latin American ambassadors with Acting Secretary of State Stettinius to discuss the Dumbarton Oaks peace plan.

Argentina and El Salvador were not represented at the session. Their governments are not recognized by Washington.

The Uruguayan plan said it would be enough "to introduce in the structure of the League of Nations reforms which may be deemed expedient, in order that it be able to apply and satisfactorily fulfill" the promotion of world security."

Five Fliers Killed In Bomber Crash

WESTOVER FIELD, Mas., Nov. 9. (U.P.)—The Army today released the names of five fliers killed and five injured when a heavy bomber on a night combat training flight from Westover field crashed last night one mile north of Tariffville, Conn. The other two members of the 12-man crew escaped injury.

The dead included: Cpl. Charles W. Powell, 24, Holdenville, Okla., gunner.

Unhurt was 2nd Lt. Douglas D. Dettle, 19, Stratford, Tex., navigator.

Meanwhile a board of officers began an inquiry. One crewman parachuted and suffered minor injuries. The others remained with the plane as the pilot tried to bring it down safely in a pasture.

Both mildew and black spot on roses may be controlled by dusting the flowers with sulphur or spraying with Bordeaux mixture.

IN FLANDERS FIELDS

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

John McCrae.

Churchill Urges Big Three Parley And Warns On Easy-Victory View

By ALEX N. SINGLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 9—Prime Minister Churchill said today "it is high time" that he, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin had another conference. He declared that "the prospects of such a meeting have been vastly improved by the results of the presidential election in the United States, for which we waited so breathlessly on Tuesday last."

A new tri-power conference "might easily bridge the sufferings of mankind and stop the fearful process of destruction which is now ravaging the earth," he said.

On German Threshold

The Prime Minister spoke at the annual luncheon for the Lord Mayor of London, this time for Sir Frank L. Alexander.

"Now we stand on the threshhold of Germany," Churchill cautioned, "it will take the full exertions of the three great powers, every scrap they can give, to crush down the desperate resistance which we must expect from this military antagonist at last beaten back to his own lair."

The Prime Minister held out no hope of swife victory. He said instead that "no one can be blamed, provided he does not slacken his efforts for a moment, for hoping that victory may come to the Allies and peace may come to Europe in 1945."

No Moment To Slacken

Urging upon Britain's men and women a new surge of strength, he said flatly "I cannot offer you an easy future on the continent of Europe. It is always in the last lap of the race that great efforts must be forthcoming. It is no moment now to slacken."

Churchill said that a pause in the Allied advance was "inevitable." He pointed out that in the last few months the supreme command had concentrated upon bringing up supplies and reinforcements and improving harbors, in additio nto directing the fighting in Holland and Italy.

Grimly he declared that the operations in Italy, Holland and Belgium had cost the British and Canadian forces "very heavy losses."

Democracy Praised

In discussing the American election, he paid tribute "to both the great parties for the manner in which the interests of the Allies and the prosecution of the war have been held high above the dust of partisanship" and to Dewey for his "sportsmanlike manner" in defeat.

"America," he said, "has given an example to the world of how democratic institutions can be worked with the utmost vigor and freedom without injury to the permanent interests of the state."

HOODLUMS ARRESTED

ROME, Nov. 9. (AP)—Military police have rounded up two gangs, made up in part of deserters from the U. S. and Canadian armies and the French Foreign Legion, believed responsible for a wave of holdups and slayings in Rome and Naples, officials announced today.

Tech Experiment Shows Cattle Can Fare Well On 'Waste' Feed

Results of a two-year experiment being conducted by the Texas Tech department of animal husbandry show that cattle can be fed profitably on feed which is unmarketable and usually wasted by South Plains farmers, according to W. L. Stangel, head of the department.

Growing stocker calves under South Plains farm conditions began in the fall of 1942 for the purpose of obtaining information valuable to cattle feeders. The department of animal husbandry, working in cooperation with the Range Animal Husbandry division of the Texas Agriculture Station at College Station, utilized unmarketable range feed on the college farm in this experiment.

Purchased Last Fall

Thirty calves with an average weight of 433 pounds and an initial cost of $12 per hundred weight were purchased by the department in the fall of 1943. Following the plan outlined in 1942, calves were divided into three lots of 10 head each. In dry lots one and two, calves were wintered 159 days on sumac sorghum silage and sumac sorghum fodder. They received a daily supplement feeding of one pound of cotton seed meal; one pound of alfalfa hay per head, and were given access to a mineral mixture composed of 50 per cent salt and 50 per cent limestone flour in addition to block salt.

In lot three, calves were wintered on native grass pasture and received a daily supplement feeding of one pound of cotton seed cake with one pound of alfalfa hay. May 1, 1944, the calves now yearlings, were given access to 160 acres of native grass pasture and kept there 71 days. They were moved to a 40 acre sudan grass plot July 11, and allowed to graze there 100 days.

Total Gains By Steers

Total gains made by steers for the above named periods were: lot one, 402 pounds; lot two, 413 pounds; and lot three, 414 pounds. Weight of steers Oct. 19, 1944 was lot one, 835 pounds; lot two, 846 pounds; and lot three, 847 pounds. Total feed costs per hundred weight gain for the three periods was: lot one, $6.44; lot two, $7.34; and lot three, $4.71.

At the end of the sudan grazing period steers would have been graded as choice fleshy feeders. If they had been placed in a dry lot for finishing, they were carrying sufficient flesh to have attained the goal in a relatively short period, Stangel said. He explained the department was faced with the same problem which confronts South Plains farmers: whether to sell the steers at this time or keep them for the finishing period.

If these steers had been sold at the end of the fall sudan grazing period, at the initial cost per hundred weight of $12, returns per head would have been: lot one, $24.87; lot two, $21.73; and lot three, $32.68.

On the college farm there was milo of the combine type and a great amount of this feed had fallen before the grain could be harvested. This unharvested grain, with an abundance of fodder which remained after harvesting, would have been wasted if means hadn't been provided for recovering it.

Consequently, these 30 fleshy feeder yearling steers were given access to 24 acres of combined milo, also to 20 acres of alfalfa from which there had been obtained four cuttings of hay. It is expected that considerable gain in these steers will be obtained from feed which otherwise would have been wasted. In addition to grazing these two pastures, steers are now being fed two pounds of cotton seed cake per head daily.

If after grazing the combined milo, steers aren't sufficiently finished to yield good to choice carcasses when slaughtered, they will be placed in a dry lot for the finishing period, Stangel said. Here they will be fed sumac sorghum, according to appetite, two pounds of cotton seed meal per steer daily, and enough milo chop to hasten the fattening period.

Last Year's Records

Steers handled similarly last year were marketed March 7, 1944 after having gone through a finishing period of 91 days. They yielded net profits per steer of $5.02 in lot one; $8.01 in lot two; and $10.45 in lot three.

Deferred fattening is advantageous to farmers and stockmen of this area, not only because of utilization of waste feed in wintertime, but also because stockmen have the choice of selling steers at five different periods. Steers can be marketed at the end of the winter stocking period if native grass pastures are not available, if so, the stocking period can be continued and very cheap gains obtained. This should be supplemented, if possible, with sudan grass until the fall, Stangel said.

When sudan grazing postures have reached the non-profitable stage, stalk fields are available for continued stocking. Following this, cattle can be placed in dry lots for the finishing period. Through this system of delayed fattening, one is assured of profit in feeding unless there has been a marked drop in cattle prices between the time of purchase and sale, Stangel claims.

Mahon Is To Speak At Sundown School

Congressman George H. Mahon will be principal speaker at an afternoon and evening open house today at Sundown High school in connection with National Education week.

P. O. Smith, superintendent of Sundown schools, the school board, faculty and students will act as hosts.

At 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon the congressman will make an informal talk to the student body of Sundown elementary and secondary schools. He will then be conducted by the superintendent and the board on a tour of the oil fields near Sundown and the town business district.

Major part of the program will begin at 7:30 o'clock in the auditorium after a barbecue supper for school patrons and hosts. On the evening's schedule is inspection of the school and a musical program at general assembly, presented by school students of all grades. A brief address by E. H. Boulter will precede the chief address of the evening by Congressman Mahon.

Concluding the day's events will be drills and physical education review in the gymnasium. W. L. Mooney, high school principal, and G. L. Detrixhe, of the science and physical education department, aided in program arrangements.

Flier's Body Found After Mid-Air Crash

HARLINGEN, Tex., Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Harlingen Army Air field authorities announced today that the body of 2nd Lt. Richard M. Goldberg of Los Angeles had been found six miles northeast of the Laguna Madre sub-base.

Goldberg was killed Wednesday after his plane crashed with another fighter aircraft while in flight. He jumped too late for his parachute to function properly.

The pilot of the other plane, 2nd Lt. James D. Moore of Union, Miss., parachuted and suffered only minor injuries.

Goldberg was the son of Louis Goldberg of Los Angeles.
