North's trial due to start on Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oliver North's delayed criminal trial will begin next Tuesday, the judge ordered on Friday, and he gave North permission to use classified materials to try to prove he was acting under then-President Reagan's orders in some of his Iran-Contra dealings.

The ruling, by U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell, will allow government prosecutors to make a general "admission" to the jury, to the effect that the United States made deals with other countries to help the Nicaraguan Contras at a time when direct American aid was banned by Congress. North's lawyers will be allowed to present their own evidence and witnesses to add details.

North's lawyers had objected to an earlier version of the prosecutor's "admission," saying that it would not allow them to try to show that Reagan participated "personally and directly" in offering inducements to the other countries.

They also want to offer evidence they say indicates that Reagan and other officials had established a policy of secrecy about the arrangement.

Most of the 12 criminal charges against North, a former National Security Council aide, involve hiding from Congress and the attorney general what the administration was doing to help the Contras.

Lawyers for the government refused to embrace defense contentions about possible concealment, Gesell said, prompting him to order that North may present evidence, if it exists "to establish that any member of the National Security Council, the national security adviser, or the then-president or then-vice president" ordered North to cover up the arrangements.

North's lawyers have said they need to use secret documents to prove their case, somethinig they would not have been allowed to do under earlier versions of the "admission."

Under his rulings, Gesell said, "the defendant will not stand in a worse position, and...his rights to a fair trial have not been prejudiced."

The trial start was set for 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in the capital's federal courthouse, on the same floor where most of the Wate-gate trials were held in the 1970s.

Clearing away objections remaining before the start of trial, Gesell said in another written order that he accepts the role-sharing agreement reached Wednesday by independent counsel Lawrence Walsh, who is prosecuting the case, and Attorney General Dick Thornburgh. Gesell rejected North's contention that that deal is unfair.

Thornburgh and Walsh agreed that the independent counsel would notify the Justice Department anytime North tried to introduce a piece of evidence in nine broad categories of classified material.

Such notification could lead to affidavits being filed by the attorney general, in effect blocking disclosure of the material and perhaps leading to one or more charges being dropped. Gesell has said he doesn't want a "cuckoo clock trial," repeatedly interrupted with government objections over national security.

Jury selection was begun on Jan. 31 and finished on Feb. 9, but that same day the Justice Department began efforts to delay the trial because of concerns that Gesell's rules for national security materials were not tight enough.

The department lifted its objections Wednesday after receiving assurances from Walsh that undisclosable secrets will be protected.

Prosecutor John Keker and chief defense lawyer Brendan Sullivan will deliver their opening statements on Tuesday after the jury is sworn in. There had been six alternates but one, Tanya Mitchell, was excused Friday after she told the judge her co-workers had lobbied her about North, pro and con.

A scarlett umbrella shelters this pedestrian from the rain as she crosses the intersection of Big Spring Street and Wall Avenue. Forecasters predict a decrease in the chance of wet weather by this afternoon.

Weather not likely to be warmer

From Staff and Wire Reports

A high pressure system was expected to ease into the Permian Basin today, ushering in fair skies but offering little chance for significantly warmer temperatures.

Forecasters called for a high today in the upper 40s.

The low tonight will be in the upper 20s under mostly fair skies, with dense fog developing by daybreak.

According to the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport, the high pressure system moving in from the Central Rockies will keep temperatures rather cool for the remainder of the weekend.

Earlier in the week, Midlanders were treated to a round of fog, drizzle and chilly temperatures as one Pacific system after another moved through the area.

Feeling the brunt of the system were residents in the Alpine-Marfa-Fort Davis area near Big Bend National Park and the Davis Mountains southwest of Midland. On Thursday, Marfa instruments recorded .4 on an inch of rain.

However, forecasters expect to see a gradual decrease in the chance of wet weather through Sunday morning.

On Friday, Midland recorded a trace of precipitation, bringing the monthly total to 1.28 inches. The city's official rainfall total for the year is 1.53 inches.

While temperatures remained above normal for a five-day period ending Thursday, forecasters said the high pressure system should delete the chance for a sustained warming trend.

The weather phenomenon known as the jet stream — strong easterly winds high in the atmosphere — is presently situated over Oklahoma and the Southern Great Lakes, allowing West Texas to feel the cooler temperatures of a Canadian origin.

Friday's high of 44 was 38 degrees cooler than the record of 82, set on that date in 1977. The low Friday of 33 was 21 degrees warmer than the record of 12, set on that date in 1942.

Petroplex will host Texas Police Olympics

By JULIE HILLRICHS
Staff Writer

The Petroplex has been chosen to play host to the 1990 Texas Police Olympics, representatives of both the Midland and Odessa chambers of commerce announced Friday.

Organizers said the selection marks the first joint venture by the two cities to attract a state convention to the West Texas area.

"We got it in a runaway," said Odessa Police Cpl. Bob Rike, referring to the affair sponsored by the Texas Police Athletic Federation and organized in the late 1970s to boost morale and encourage sportsmanship among Texas police officers.

The 1990 games, slated for June 12-16, are expected to attract more than 2,000 athletes and their families to the Permian Basin and could inject more than $1 million into the economies of both communities.

Organizers plan to make use of athletic facilities in Midland and Odessa, including Ratliff Stadium, Odessa College, Hogan Park and the University of Texas of the Permian Basin.

Midland-Odessa, in being named host of the 1990 games, beat out Bryan-College Station and Corpus Christi — the two other finalists who sought to bring the statewide event to their communities.

Rike said the condition of the Petroplex's athletic facilities and hotel accommodations played a significant role in the ultimate selection of Midland and Odessa as host.

Mexico offers to cut oil exports

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico's energy minister on Friday offered to reduce oil exports by up to 6 percent if other independent producers limit their exports and OPEC producers stick to their production agreement.

"We are ready to reduce our export platform if it serves for something, if everyone does the same, if OPEC fulfills its objectives and if the other non-OPEC countries are ready to contribute," Fernando Hiriart told reporters Friday.

Asked how much Mexico was willing to cut exports, Hiriart said it "would not be more than 5 or 6 percent" of the country's current level.

Mexico, which is not a member of OPEC, exported around 1.35 million barrels of crude a day last year.

Hiriart said the offer would be taken up at a Feb. 21 meeting of independent producers and members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in London.

President Carlos Salinas de Gortari's 1989 budget, presented to the Congress in December, assumes target prices of $10 a barrel and an export reduction of about 5 percent, or to 1.3 million barrels a day.

As export prices for Mexican crude dropped below $10 a barrel in October, Hiriart blasted OPEC producers for overproduction and engaging in a price war that jeopardized Mexico's share in the United States.

Mexico, the world's sixth-largest oil producer, softened its stand after OPEC agreed to cut production by 4 million barrels a day to 18.5 million barrels a day.

Higgins' wife pleads for his release on first anniversary of abduction

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wife of Marine Lt. Col. William R. Higgins, speaking on the anniversary of the U.N. officer's abduction in Lebanon, joined U.N. Secretary General Perez de Cuellar on Friday in a plea for her husband's release.

"Today is a special day. It is an anniversary. A year is an awful long time for someone who is serving with the United Nations, serving for the cause of peace and freedom, to be deprived of his," Robin Higgins said.

Mrs. Higgins, who has rarely commented publicly since her husband's abuction, spoke briefly with reporters after a speech by the secretary general. She said she chose to speak out because of the length of his captivity.

Higgins, who commanded a 76-man U.N. observer group monitoring the Lebanon-Israel border, was taken hostage one year ago Friday.

In contrast to some other hostage families, Mrs. Higgins said she would refrain from traveling to the region in an attempt to gain her husband's release.

"I have often thought it would be nice to be in the same time zone with him, be in the same climate with him," she said, offering a slight smile.

"My only aim is to bring him home, and I don't think that (by) my going there it could be accomplished," she added.

Mrs. Higgins, who is a Marine Corps major and a public affairs officer at the Pentagon, was asked if she believed the government was doing everything it could to bring her husband home. She replied that she was not at liberty to talk about "those things."

"But I do believe, like the rest of the families, that I really will never fully be satisfied until he's home," she said.

"I have to put my faith and my confidence in people who have the power, who have the ability, who know people, and who can accomplish something, because I can't," Mrs. Higgins added.

Despite the uncertainty of her husband's fate, Mrs. Higgins said she tries to keep her spirits up, as well as those of their 18-year old daughter.

Pliska plane renovation making final approach

By CHRIS VAN WAGENEN
Staff Writer

Travelers coming and going from Midland International Airport will have something more to look at then just other weary faces when the refurbished Pliska airplane is unveiled later this summer.

On Tuesday, the airport's advisory board is expected to approve a final resting place for the 77-year-old aircraft in the main foyer leading to the boarding gates.

The $12,000 restoration project — which is being handled through the West Texas Aerobatic Club Inc. — has been going on since last June when the plane was removed from an isolated museum area inside the main concourse.

"They're probably about 60 percent there," said Marcy Blauvelt, supervisor for administrative services. "I imagine they'll be finished by late May or early June."

Club members have been working in conjunction with the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C., which has been counseling the group in conference calls ever since the project first began.

When the plane is completed, the craft will be elevated to a crow's-nest position on a pole that will be erected inside the main entrance with the wingspan supported by ceiling cables.

'Satanic Verses' removed from B. Dalton shelves

NEW YORK (AP) — The B. Dalton bookstore chain on Friday ordered its 1,250 stores to pull Salman Rushdie's novel "The Satanic Verses" from display shelves.

"We have never before pulled a book off our shelves," Leonard Riggio, chief executive officer, said in a statement. "It is regrettable that a foreign government has been able to hold hostage our most sacred First Amendment principle."

The announcement came a day after Waldenbooks, another huge chain, ordered copies of the the book off store shelves because of the threat of violence from Moslems outraged because they say the book blasphemes the prophet Mohammed.

Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini has called for the death of Rushdie, a 41-year-old British author who was born into a Moslem family in India. Iranian religious leaders have offered a $5.2 million bounty. But on Friday Iran's president said Rushdie might save his life with an apology.

The B. Dalton statement said, "Under these extraordinary circumstances, the safety of our employees and patrons must take precedence." A publicist for the chain, Richard Mulieri, would not say whether the chain had received any specific threats.

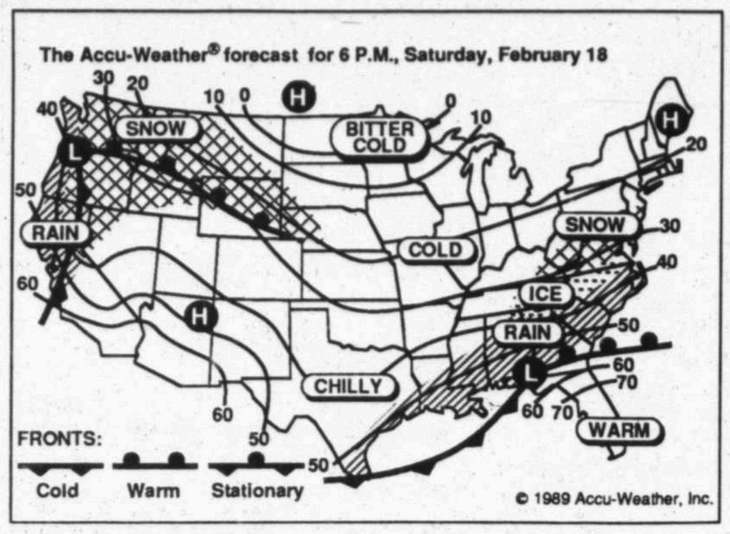
WEATHER SUMMARY



WARMER

STATE

A nearly stationary front located off the gulf coast along with warm moist gulf air flowing over it was causing drizzle and scattered rain over much of Texas Friday, while an upper level storm moving over the state was producing some heavier rain over northeast Texas.

Some areas of Central and Northeast Texas have received between 2 and 2.5 inches of rain. Also areas in North Texas have received over four inches of rain in the last three days.

The forecast calls for mostly cloudy skies with drizzle and scattered rain and possibly isolated thunderstorms. A chance of light snow exists in the Panhandle.

NATION

Heavy snow fell Friday over parts of the Northwest, while freezing rain and snow glazed highways in parts of the East.

Snow fell heavily during during the day across parts of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana.

McCall, Idaho, got 7 inches of snow overnight and 9 inches blanketed Spokane, Wash.

Winter storm warnings were posted through the night for the central mountains and northern sections of Idaho, much of eastern Washington state and for the Cascade Mountains of Oregon.

Snow advisories were posted through the night for the far west mountains of Wyoming, and the Cascade Mountains and northwest interior sections of Washington state.

An upper-level weather disturbance produced a mixture of freezing rain, sleet and snow over parts of North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia. Up to a foot of snow was possible by late Saturday over the southern mountains of West Virginia and the southern highlands of Virginia, the National Weather Service said.

Light rain and drizzle prevailed from the Tennessee Valley and the southern Appalachians to the southern high Plains, and north-central Texas had showers.

Elsewhere, snow also extended across much of the north-central states and snow advisories were issued for southeastern South Dakota and southwestern Minnesota.

Afternoon temperatures remained below freezing from the northern and central high Plains to the northern half of the Atlantic Coast region, with subzero readings across Montana, North Dakota, northern South Dakota and northern Minnesota.

For today, rain was forecast across the northern and central Pacific Coast region and the northern Great Basin of Nevada and western Utah. Snow was forecast from the Rockkies to the middle and upper Mississippi Valley, and from eastern South Dakota to southern Wisconsin. Rain was forecast from south-central Texas through the lower Mississippi Valley to the southern Atlantic Coast. Snow was forecast across the mid Atlantic Coast region, with snow showers from the lower Great Lakes to southern New England.

PLANE

"All we have to do now is put the mounting (of the plane) out for bid...I plan to recommend that at our next meeting," said Airport Chairman Ed Vogler. "We (the club) haven't run into any problems...we just wanted to make sure everything was authenticated."

Blauvelt said space located directly beneath the plane's perch will serve as a visitor's information center to be staffed by volunteers from both Midland and Odessa.

Airport officials already have set aside a temporary location for the center, which is scheduled to open in March.

Blauvelt said airport visitors will have access to historical information about the airport and the plane as well as other brochures being supplied through the Convention and Visitors Bureau of Midland as well as other West Texas area chambers of commerce.

The Pliska plane — which is scheduled to be unveiled at the annual West Texas Air Show — was originally presented to the city by Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas Abell and the Abell-Hanger Foundation in 1962.

However, over the years the plane's delicate canvas-covered wings and outer body succumbed to years of age, humidity and neglect.

Club members, according to Blauvelt, had wanted to remove the canvas from the wings, but the Smithsonian recommended leaving it in place. She said work is now centered on bringing the cloth back to its original form and color.

The Pliska aircraft — the first to fly in Texas — was built by John V. Pliska, a blacksmith, and Gray Coggin, a chauffeur and auto mechanic.

The plane's design was based on a Wright Flyer II biplane, which the two men copied using a 50 horsepower engine, wood, piano wire and shallacked canvas.

Vogler said he will ask the Midland City Council to approve placing the project's final phase out to bid. "The city has a responsibility to the Abells to make the plane visible and accessible to the public," he said.

GAMES

"Our athletic facilities were surpassed by none and our hotels were matched by no one," he said.

Planning for the athletic competition will get underway next week, Rike said, adding that a delegation from Midland and Odessa also will attend the 1989 games this summer in Laredo.

In doing so, the police officer asserted that organizers should be able to get a jump on scheduling and iron out any wrinkles that might develop during the planning stages.

"If we can find a way to smooth out all of the problems, that's what we want to do," he said.

Norma Funderburk of the Midland Chamber of Commerce said a single housing bureau will be established to handle entries for the athletic competition, thus eliminating the confusion associated with the games being held in two cities.

Organizers expect at least 30 athletic events to run continuously throughout the five-day affair. Included are archery, darts, bowling, golf, horseshoes, motorcycle rodeo, volleyball, track and field, swimming, softball and soccer.

Midland Mayor Carroll Thomas reacted to the announcement Friday, praising both Midland and Odessa Convention and Visitors Bureaus for their efforts in bringing the games to the area.

"We definitely wouldn't have stood a chance at getting the games had we not worked together," he said.

NORTH

North's lawyers argued Friday that the jury must hear evidence during the trial that he was under White House orders not to disclose U.S. offers of favors to countries that helped arm the Nicaraguan Contras.

North's defense includes a contention that he was authorized to do everything he did in diverting profits from Iranian arms sales to help the Contras fighting the leftist government of Nicaragua.

Limiting the defense to a general "admission forces the defense to forgo the presentation of powerful evidence to the jury," North attorney Barry Simon said in a court filing. "In return the defense is entitled to a full and candid concession of the basic facts that that evidence would prove, together with the inference to be drawn from those basic facts."

The prosecution fails to acknowledge "for the fourth time" that former president Reagan and other officials established a policy that "the quid pro quo and other third-country arrangements would not be disclosed," Simon said. Quid pro quo means something-for-something, or an exchange of favors.

In its proposed admission, the government on Tuesday suggested that in one instance "North alone was responsible for devising a means of concealing a quid pro quo arrangement from Congress," according to Simon.

"If the defense must be satisfied with a cold admission on the quid pro quo issue — and must give up its right to present the many documents and the extensive live testimony that would bring the issue to life for the jury — then it must also have an admission on the non-disclosure policy," said North's lawyers.

Simon proposed that the prosecutor tell the jury in the first paragraph "that President Reagan and other top administration officials" established a don't-talk policy.

He said also that the names of the Central American countries involved in the arrangements must be disclosed at trial. During the congressional Iran-Contra hearings two years ago, those countries were not publicly identified.

BOOK

He also would not say if the book would not be sold or simply would not be displayed. "We don't want to go beyond the statement," he said.

The statement said the order applied to 800 B. Dalton stores, 250 Barnes & Noble stores and 200 licensed stores in supermarkets. The Waldenbooks order applied to 1,200 stores.

Meanwhile, the U.S. publisher of the novel closed its offices and gave employees the day off Friday after receiving several bomb threats, authorities said.

Siri Huntoon, who said she worked in Viking Penguin Inc.'s production department, said company officials made their 100 employees leave the building in Manhattan on Thursday afternoon after a bomb threat was made.

"Everyone up there is working under a lot of stress, whether you really believe something will happen or not, just the stress of having bomb scares is enough," said Miss Huntoon.

The doors of the six-story building were locked, and 14 city police stood outside Friday, when a demonstration by the Islamic People's Movement was planned. Only a handful of demonstrators showed up.

Security guards opened the door to people working on other floors but refused to let anyone on the fifth floor, which is occupied by Viking.

Officer Joe Gallagher, a police spokesman, said two telephone bomb threats were made to company officials this week. He said seven have been made since December, when copies of Rushdie's book began trickling into U.S. bookstores.

"Waldenbooks has fought long and hard against censorship, but when it comes to the safety of Waldenbooks employees and our customers, we must act responsibly in their interests," the company said in a statement. The book remains available in Waldenbooks stores but is not being prominently displayed.

The Authors Guild, a national organization of 6,500 book authors, sent telegrams to Waldenbooks and B. Dalton urging them to rescind the order, executive director Helen Stephenson said Friday.

"At a time when freedom of expression is under threat, it is imperative that all publishers, authors and booksellers stand together against this despicable form of intimidation and censorship," the telegram to Waldenbooks said.

Suzanne Mead of Encore Books, a Harrisburg, Pa.-based chain of 47 stores in the mid-Atlantic region, said the chain is considering whether to follow Waldenbooks. She said its not an immediate concern since they have practically sold out of the couple of hundred copies of "The Satanic Verses" thev had.

HOSTAGE

"We try to pull together. We try to be as normal as posible. We try to maintain our privacy, and I think through that, it helps us to cope and it keeps our strength up," she said.

Perez de Cuellar opened his appearance before the National Press Club by calling the year of Higgins' capitivity one of "anguish and frustration."

The secretary general said he was disappointed that U.N. attempts, including his own, to gain Higgins' release have come to naught.

"I shall continue to spare no effort for the return of Col. Higgins," he said.

Turning to the plight of all hostages held in the war-torn country, the secretary general added, "I appeal to the captors to release unharmed these innocent persons. No aim can be served by depriving others of their basic human rights."

Higgins was kidnapped by gunmen who stopped his car on the highway south of the city of Tyre 20 minutes after he had met with a Shiite Moslem leader.

On Thursday, that same man, Abdul Majid Saleh, said Higgins is alive despite his captors' statement that he was sentenced to death as a spy. Saleh said he would be "released eventually" by pro-Iranian Shiite extremists who seized him.

Nine of the foreign captives in Lebanon are Americans, including Terry A. Anderson, 41, who has been held the longest. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, was kidnapped March 16, 1985.

Soviet instructor jumps from window

GUTTENBERG, N.J. (AP) — A Soviet ballet instructor smashed his head through a glass window and jumped to his death from an apartment building one day after his arrival in the United States, police said Friday.

Boris Sinitsyn, 55, apparently committed suicide Thursday morning by jumping from the 35th story of the Galaxy Towers complex, said Capt. Victor Conversano.

Paul M. DePascale, the Hudson County prosecutor, said the death was "clearly a suicide," but that it was not known why Sinitsyn wanted to take his life.

DEATHS

Roy L. Richard

Services for Roy L. Richard of Midland have been set for 3 p.m. today at the Ellis Funeral Home chapel with Alfred Johnson officiating. Burial will follow at Resthaven Memorial Park.

Mrs. Eckert died Friday.

WEST TEXAS in brief

Art association to meet

From Staff Reports

ODESSA — The Odessa Art Association will have a meeting and demonstration at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Art Institute for the Permian Basin, 4909 E. University.

Artist Fyrne W. Estes will be demonstrating "Scratch Board Drawing."

Ms. Estes is a Monahans artist who works in all media — she uses experimental techniques with a realistic approach with a classical background. She has studied art in Boston and graduated from Bridgewater State University with majors in both English and art.

Her master's degree, also in English and art, was earned from Sul Ross while she taught at Monahans High School. There is a $1 donation for non-members of the Odessa Art Association.

Williams names treasurer

AUSTIN — Texas businessman Clayton Williams, Jr., has named Greg DuBois, an Austin political consultant, treasurer for his perspective Texas Republican gubernatorial campaign.

"I'm continuing to move forward in considering running for Republican governor. This was the logical next step," said Williams.

Creation of a campaign committee and appointment of a treasurer allows Williams to begin accepting donaptions.

Williams said he is continuing to meet with Republican leaders in Texas and would expect to make a final decision on running in the next two months.

Appointment confirmed

AUSTIN — The Texas Senate has confirmed the nomination of Eileen Marie Piwetz of Midland to the State Board of Nurse Examiners.

Gov. Bill Clements on Dec. 10, 1987, appointed Ms. Piwetz to the board and pending Senate confirmation to the term that expires Jan. 31, 1993.

Mrs. Bush surprises students by attending school assembly

WASHINGTON (AP) — First lady Barbara Bush swayed, sang and won legions of young fans Friday as she participated in an elementary school assembly celebrating Black History Month.

"When I get home I'm going to scream and tell my mommy," said Bernice Graham, 8, a glee club member at Scott Montgomery Elementary School.

"We liked her very much. We want her to come back," said Monica Osgood, 10. "We hope she'll come back again with President Bush."

Montgomery, serving a low-income neighborhood dotted with dilapidated houses, empty lots and convenience stores, is part of a matching grant enrichment program for needy schools sponsored by the private Washington Parent Group Fund. Mrs. Bush has belonged to the group for six years.

"We know you are our friend," school principal Harriette Freeman told Mrs. Bush, citing her service in the parent group "long before you became Mrs. President. We are honored and we hope you will return to our school many times."

Added the principal: "For 11 years I have told the boys and girls that what they do will someday be seen and heard around the world. This is the beginning."

Mrs. Bush's visit to the school was kept secret until right before the assembly. Students were not told in advance in order to keep scores of parents and neighbors from cramming the small auditorium and also "to cut down on the tension," said glee club director Frances Ball.

The first lady, dressed in her trademark royal blue and triple strand of pearls, drew cheers and a standing ovation from the 500 students as she entered the auditorium.

From a third-row seat between two little girls, she watched attentively as students using a white wig, a cane, a stethoscope, a lab coat and a cleric's robe discuss the contributions of black Americans ranging from Harriet Tubman and Frederick Douglass to George Washington Carver and Jesse Jackson.

Milton Law brought down the house with a ringing excerpt from Martin Luther King Jr.'s "I Have a Dream" speech. Other parts of the program featured poetry, an autoharp rendition of Scott Joplin's "Entertainer" rag, a dance to the song "A Change is Going To Come," and two spirituals performed by the school glee club.

Kindergarten student Kevin McGriff, speaking in a nervous monotone, asked Mrs. Bush to come up to the stage and presented her with gifts — a book by children involved in the "Writing to Read" program and a bright green T-shirt, bookbag and pencils with the school's name.

Mrs. Bush held the T-shirt up to her chest and complimented all of the performers, then gave Kevin a book for the school library — "People Could Fly, An American Black Folk Tale."

"If you work hard, if you try very hard, all of us can fly," said the first lady, a longtime advocate of literacy programs such as "Writing to Read."

At the end of the assembly, Mrs. Bush remained onstage and sang six verses of "We Shall Overcome," holding hands and swaying with members of the glee club beneath a sign that said "Believe It...Achieve It." As she left she shook some outstretched hands and waved to others.

Prince has dinner with Bush

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles shunned the spotlight Friday as he met with American achievers over lunch, accepted an invitation for tea with Vice President Dan Quayle and headed for Camp David, Md., for dinner with President Bush.

On his eighth visit to the United States, Charles arrived alone aboard a Royal Air Force jet from New York for a low-key, 24-hour visit to the nation's capital that contrasted sharply with his wife Diana's highly publicized tour of New York earlier this month.

The 40-year-old prince rarely ventured from the British Embassy except for a scheduled evening helicopter ride to Camp David for a small, informal dinner with thr president and his wife.

Also invited were Henry Catto, the U.S. ambassador-designate to Britain; Brent Scowcroft, the president's national security adviser, and British ambassador Sir Antony Acland and his wife.

In advance of the two-hour visit to Camp David, British officials said Charles' campaign to protect the environment and endangered wildlife probably would figure in the dinner conversation.

Bush last week promised to heed public demands for curbing pollution, with solutions that don't stifle the economy.

During the day, Charles spoke informally over lunch at the embassy with 16 leading American figures.

Among the guests were Sen. Albert Gore Jr., D-Tenn.; Michael J. Boskin, nominated to head the president's Council of Economic Advisers; Donald Graham, publisher of The Washington Post; Arthur Ochs Sulzberger Jr., deputy publisher of The New York Times; Dr. Robert Watson, an expert on the ozone layer with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration; Discovery space shuttle astronaut Rhea Seddon; and Bryant Gumbel, anchorman for NBC-TV's "Today" show.

After lunch, Charles went to afternoon tea at the Quayles' home on the grounds of the Naval Observatory, followed by an embassy reception marking the creation of an alumni association for Marshall Scholars.

Under this British government scholarship program, established in 1953 in gratitude for the Marshall Plan of U.S. postwar assistance, about 30 exceptional American students are selected annually to study at British universities.

Jury awards Rock Hudson's lover additional $7.25 million in damages

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A jury gave Rock Hudson's lover an additional $7.25 million in damages Friday, boosting his total award to $21.75 million because the late movie star kept his AIDS diagnosis a secret.

The latest award was against Hudson's secretary and confidant, Mark Miller, who admitted he agreed not to reveal Hudson's illness to Marc Christian. Jurors found that Miller acted maliciously and intended to injure Christian by keeping Hudson's secret.

Christian shook hands with each juror and thanked them as they left the courtroom. Several of them told him, "Good luck."

The jurors refused to comment on their verdicts.

"If Rock Hudson had told me he had AIDS, none of us would be here today," Christian said.

Hudson was diagnosed as having AIDS in June 1984, but Christian said he was kept in the dark about it until Hudson collapsed in Paris and his diagnosis was announced in July 1985. Hudson died in October 1985 at age 58.

Christian, 35, lived with Hudson during the last two years of the actor's life and has said they engaged in sex three to five times a week. Christian was apparently not infected with the AIDS virus.

Hudson kept his homosexuality a closely guarded secret until his battle with AIDS became public.

Miller's attorney, Andrew Banks, said the size of the damage awards was "outrageous" and that he would file a motion to have them thrown out or reduced.

Miller was not in court Friday when the verdict was announced. Banks said Miller was ill.

Christian's attorney, Harold Rhoden, said if the award stands, it will most likely be paid by insurance companies since Hudson's estate and Miller were represented by lawyers retained by their respective insurance companies.

Miller and Hudson's estate were co-defendants in the lawsuit filed by Christian in Los Angeles Superior Court. Only Miller was named in the second phase, for punitive and exemplary damages, because state law prohibits such damages being awarded from an estate.

Compensatory damages are intended to compensate a wronged victim for loss of income, pain and suffering and other actual damages. Punitive damages are intended to punish, while exemplary damages would set an example for others.

Rhoden said he had offered to settle the case for $750,000, then $900,000, but both were rejected. Before the trial, he said attorneys for the estate and Miller offered to pay $500,000, but he turned it down. After jury selection, Rhoden said he offered to settle for $1.5 million but that also was rejected.

Attorney Robert Mills, who represented the estate at the trial, said the case had not been settled, "Because they wanted to make a point," he said of Rhoden and Christian.

Since Christian has not developed AIDS, he said the jury's award was excessive.

He said he would recommend that the estate appeal.

On Wednesday, the jury decided that Hudson and Miller were guilty of "outrageous conduct" by deliberately hiding Hudson's AIDS diagnosis from Christian while the lovers continued to have unprotected sex. The jury awarded Christian $14.5 million.

Christian sued the Hudson estate and Miller for $11 million, claiming intentional infliction of emotional distress and an "enhanced fear" that he too will die of acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

Rhoden, who had stressed Hudson's duty to warn and Christian's emotional distress, said the case was an important landmark and he expected appeals.

"There's no case like it on the records," he said.

After Friday's verdict, Christian said he believes that times have changed and gay men no longer keep those kind of secrets.

"This is 1989 and everybody has to take precautions for themselves," he said. "I hope that no one will be as naive as I was in 1983."

Bush: 'I'm not worried' about Tower

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House on Friday expressed confidence in Defense Secretary-designate John Tower, despite increasing public criticism and new reports that Tower kept mistresses in Geneva during arms talks.

"I'm not worried," President Bush told reporters on a visit to St. Louis.

A White House spokesman, B.J. Cooper, said there was "no discussion whatsoever about any change in confidence in Senator Tower's nomination or that he will be confirmed."

But the ranking Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee, John Warner of Virginia, refused to assess Tower's chances.

Tower has been dogged by allegations of drinking and philandering. Many senators have said they are also concerned whether Tower could avoid conflicts of interest after receiving more than $1 million as a consultant for major defense contractors.

Warner told an impromptu news conference that the panel has received additional material on Tower which it has forwarded to the White House. He described the material as "several letters" but refused to elaborate or discuss their contents.

The senator said he and Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., chairman of the panel, are sharing with the White House any material that "certain members might take...into consideration as they make their judgment."

Assistant FBI Director Milt Ahlerich said the agency is preparing to finish the check into allegations about Towers personal and business affairs.

White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said, they won't see the report until Monday and indicated he was not familiar with its contents.

The Senate Armed Services Committee is expected to meet early next week to consider the nomination amid increasing public criticism of Tower's nomination.

On Thursday, Sen. Dave Durenberger, R-Minn., said he doubted Tower could be confirmed by the full Senate.

And one Republican congressman, suggesting that Tower has become a political liability for the new Bush administration, urged the former senator to withdraw his nomination.

"I wish out of his respect for George Bush, and his very strong feelings throughout the years for the defense system, he would withdraw his name from nomination," said Rep. Sid Morrison, R-Wash.

Of particular concern is Tower's 16-month stint in Geneva as head of the American delegation that met with the Soviets to discuss mutual cuts in long-range nuclear missiles.

Congressional sources who requested anonymity said an Office of Personnel Management review of retired Air Force Lt. Col. Robert Moser's request for a Department of Energy security clearance included allegations that Tower kept both his secretaries in Geneva as mistresses.

The allegations were reported earlier in the week by Knight-Ridder News Service. They were said to have been made in 1987 to Berne Indahl, a U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency security official, by John Grassle a Geneva security official. But Grassle also was quoted by Knight Ridder as saying he did not make such allegations, and efforts to reach him were unsuccessful.

The documents came to the attention of the House Energy and Commerce oversight and investigations subcommittee, which has been conducting an inquiry into the DOE matter since last summer.

Are concertgoers who rattle wrappers flirting with death?

CHICAGO (AP) — Concertgoers, it turns out, tend to be a violent bunch. At least when it comes to whispering, coughing and rustling candy wrappers during the Schumann or Rachmaninoff.

When asked the best means of eliminating such noise pollution, Los Angeles concertgoers suggested throwing offenders off the balcony or cutting their ears off. Their St. Louis counterparts leaned toward decapitation or banishment to Siberia, or better yet, to a rock concert.

Whispering, coughing and sniffling — in that order — were listed as the most distracting noises in a recent study commissioned by a cough medicine company of 2,500 concertgoers at the Los Angeles Philharmonic and the St. Louis and Atlanta symphonies.

Some other less drastic suggestions of dealing with noisemakers included equipping each seat with a red bulb that would light up each time an individual made excessive noise or having ushers hand offenders a note stating that they are annoying those around them.

What about the doctor down front whose beeper goes off during the Brahms, or the concertgoer who rustles his program during Copland? Are they as much of an annoyance as the boor who applauds after the slow movement of the quartet, instead of waiting for the end?

Man working on ship renovation suffocates

GALVESTON (AP) — A shipyard laborer working on the renovation of the Battleship Texas appears to have died of suffocation while testing the air quality inside a 30-foot tank aboard the old vessel, authorities said.

Henry Gongora, 36, of Galveston, died Thursday while working on the ship at the Todd Shipyard, where renovations have been going on since December.

"There was only 12 percent oxygen in the tank," Capt. Ed Atkins of the Galveston Fire Department said. "We all need about 21 percent to survive."

Atkins said Gongora was not wearing an air device or any protective gear. Atkins noted that recently unsealed tanks like the large one on the ship are notorious for lacking sufficient oxygen.

A co-worker, Gilbert Tobar, 28, of Texas City, unsuccessfully attempted to rescue his partner and had to be hospitalized briefly for treatment of nausea and lightheadedness.

Shipyard personnel director Dan Whichard said Gongora went inside the tank, reported only water inside, then collapsed while climbing up the ladder as he was leaving the tank.

Chinese to eat barbecue

HOUSTON (AP) — Chinese dignitaries are being treated to a real Texas barbecue next weekend, compliments of President Bush.

The 400 pounds of brisket, sausage and chicken, 70 pounds of potato salad, 70 pounds of cole slaw and 70 pounds of baked beans, along with 50 pecan pies, 75 pounds of peach cobbler and enough vanilla ice cream to feed 500 people will be vacuum-packed and shipped Monday to Andrews Air Force Base in Washington. The feast then will be taken to the Great Wall Sheraton in Beijing.

Peter Lehr, president of the Texas Chefs Association and managing director of Premier Foods Inc., will supervise the preparations in China, where Bush is heading during a Far East trip that includes attendance at the funeral of Japanese Emperor Hirohito.

"My recommendation was to prepare everything here in Houston and take it over there," he said Thursday. "I wouldn't go over to China and try to prepare a Texas barbecue there."

Lehr is doing the cooking with 15 of his employees next Friday and Saturday.

Men walk away from crash

CONROE (AP) — Four men escaped serious injury Friday when their single-engine plane crashed in a heavily wooded area of Montgomery County north of Houston, authorities said.

The pilot and a companion suffered minor injuries but two passengers on a business trip to Mississippi were not hurt, according to Montgomery County Sheriff's Department spokesman Bob Morrison.

The injured were identified as pilot Skip Gatlin, 23, of Waller, and Mark L. Koehn, 27, of Katy.

Unhurt were passengers Maurice Shaw, 33, of Houston, and Donald W. Sowell, 50, of Prairie View. Both are employees of DWNS Construction Co. and were heading to Granada, Miss., for a meeting.

All four were able to walk about a half-mile through the woods to a house where they called authorities for help.

Gatlin, who operates Waller-Skylake Aviation, told deputies his six-passenger single-engine Piper aircraft developed engine trouble after leaving the Waller airport about 5:40 a.m. and he was trying to make it to the Montgomery County Airport.

The crash occurred about 6:20 a.m. about a half-mile northwest of the airport.

"When he broke through the low clouds, he was too close to the trees and could not take the aircraft back up and crashed," Morrison said.

Most newsprint imported

In 1987, U.S. newspaper publishers used 12 million metric tons of newsprint. Two-thirds of it was imported at a cost of nearly $4 billion. Industry analysts expect the demand to reach 14.5 million tons a year by 1996. (CNS)

Undertaker buries bodies of babies left at mortuary for months

FORT WORTH (AP) — An undertaker prepared Friday to bury the bodies of two newborn babies left in a mortuary refrigerator for months because the families never showed up to arrange funerals.

"I've had a crying spell the last couple of days over the heartlessness, this complete abandoment," said mortician Gregory Spencer of Spencer's Funeral Service, who said he was unable to locate the parents of the infants.

One of the infants had been kept in the refrigerator for 13 months and the other for five months, Spencer said.

A Fort Worth Star-Telegram reporter was able Thursday to contact the father of one of the infants.

The father, who asked not to be identified, said he was shocked that his baby had remained unburied since it died in September of natural causes.

He said he and his wife never went to the funeral home to sign authorization papers, but he assumed that the baby girl, who died a few hours after birth at John Peter Smith Hospital, had been buried.

The man told the newspaper he and his wife never went to the funeral home to arrange a service at the time because they were too upset about the death of a second child within a year.

Spencer planned to bury the infants at Skyview Memorial Gardens in suburban Rendon Friday. The father told the newspaper he was not sure if he would attend.

The mortician said he will ask Tarrant County to pay $200 for the burials from an indigent burial fund the county maintains.

"He's not violating any (state) law, nothing other than maybe poor judgment in waiting so long," Larry Farrow, director of the Texas Funeral Service Commission, said. "Something should have been done six months ago or more."

Farrow said Spencer had been placed on probation last year for illegally soliciting business.

Spencer said he did not try to bury the infants earlier becuase he feared that without authorization from the parents he might face a future civil lawsuit.

The body kept since last January was that of a full-term boy who was drowned in a commode at birth by an unwed 14-year-old Arlington girl.

The Tarrant County medical examiner's office ruled that the infant's death was a homicide and the case against the mother was handled by juvenile court, where proceedings are not made public.

Spencer said he contacted the young mother, who said her father would take care of the burial. But he did not, the mortician said.

In the other case, Spencer said, the infant's parents called and asked him to pick up the corpse at the hospital. He said they told him they would come by the next day and take care of the arrangements.

The unemployed couple later called to say they couldn't afford to pay for the burial.

"I told them, 'No problem.' I'd bury the baby and we'd take care of that later," Spencer said. He said he never heard from the couple and had not been able to locate them.

Secret Service cracks scam of calls to Mideast

HOUSTON (AP) — A telephone scam that allegedly bilked more than $500,000 worth of long distance service involving calls to the Middle East was broken by federal authorities to cap an 18-month investigation.

Charges were pending against an undetermined number of people. Agents were working on translations of instructional videotapes that were in Arabic and discussed the long-distance scheme, U.S. Secret Service spokesman Neil Findley said.

The Secret Service became involved because it has jurisdiction over some credit card theft cases.

Computerized telephone records, documents and tapes were seized in raids in Houston and Sugar Land, a western suburb.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. spokesman Ken Brasel said the service was advertised in letters distributed to Palestinians in Israeli-held territories. People accepting the offer opened accounts with $2,000 deposits with "relay fees" deducted from those deposits.

Brasel said the Houston ring received calls from residents of Israeli-occupied territories and then — for a fee — relayed the calls to telephone numbers in other Middle East countries which do not have direct service.

Bulldogs head for playoff

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

When is Odessa Permian truly loved when you travel East crossing the Ector-Midland County line?

Well, Midland High found the answer Friday night at Chaparral Center after suffering an 80-72 basketball loss to District 4-5A champion Abilene High, only to turn around and find out that Permian had beaten the San Angelo Bobcats, 72-61, in Odessa to keep MHS and San Angelo locked in a two-way tie for second place with both owning 7-5 loop marks.

Since the district's second place team gets to join Abilene High in the state playoffs, San Angelo and Midland will have a one-game second place playoff battle at the Big Spring High School gym Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. to decide which of these teams go to the playoffs.

Midland High loves Permian and about every MHS fan loves the thought of not having to go through another coin flip that the football Bulldogs would just as soon forget.

The Bulldogs could have been the outright representative with an upset of the War Birds Friday, and they darn near did it behind the high scoring senior duo of Dexture Young and Greg Lewis. Young led all scorers with 28 points while Lewis had 25 points to nail down the 4-5A scoring title for the second year in a row.

But Abilene High, which trailed for much of the game, got hot from three-point range in the fourth quarter to stake an eight-point victory that didn't seem like that much.

Tied at 70-70 with 4:05 left in the game, Abilene High's Greg Denman, who had 18 points, hit a basket and Trey Forkerway, who had 14 points, followed with a three-pointer for a 75-70 margin with just 2:17 left to play. MHS could never close that gap as a tired Lewis missed a couple of easy layup shots and Young faltered from three-point dream land.

"I think we got tired. I know I did," said Lewis. "I just lost my concentration late in the game. It got away from us."

Lewis can be forgiven if he did get tired. He had the chore of covering 6-8 Cory Lockridge, who scored 18 points for the Eagles. Lockridge is recognized as one of the best players in 4-5A and will be headed for the University of Texas next fall.

MHS' woes were compounded late in the first half when AHS all but erased a nine-point lead in the last minute of the half. MHS owned a 38-29 lead, but got caught up in a deadly transition game with the Eagles and led at the half by a meager 38-35 margin.

"It was stupid to get caught up in that kind of game with a nine-point lead," said MHS coach Jack Stephenson. "I really wanted to pull that ball back outside, but we made some dumb mistakes."

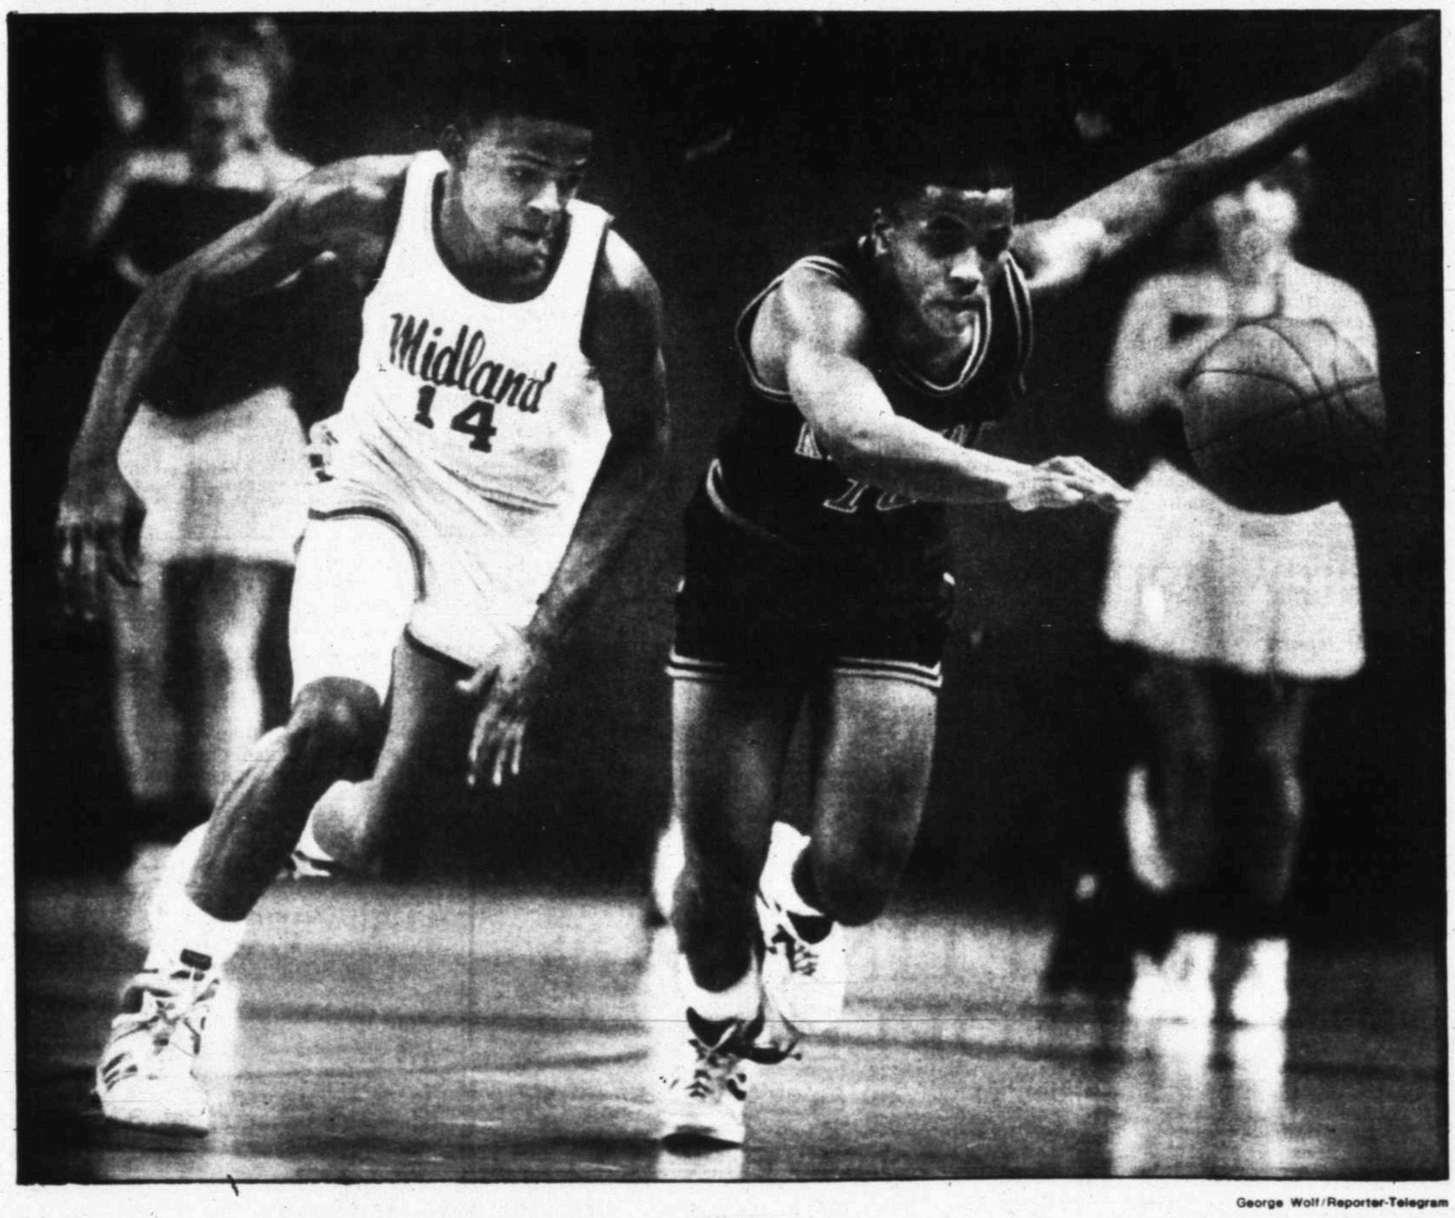
But everything worked out since San Angelo couldn't handle the Panthers in Odessa. Permian's victory didn't surprise Stephenson.

"I really thought we would be the district representative if we beat Abilene High," said Stephenson. "I'm telling you that Permian can beat anyone in the district the way they are playing now. I expected them to beat San Angelo.

"I'm just glad they did and happy to have the opportunity to play San Angelo again."

Young, who had a career night against the Eagles, wasn't disappointed in the loss.

Please see MHS, Page 2B.



George Wolf/Reporter-Telegram

Midland's Tracy Bascus and Abilene's Greg Denman are in hot pursuit of loose ball in 4-5A game at Chap Center Friday night.

Chaps facing must win game

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

ROSWELL, N.M.- Midland College is the midst of a battle for third place with Howard College in the WJCAC and they didn't need this trip, at this time.

New Mexico Military Institute is tough enough in the stockade when it is simply awful.

This year, not only are the Cadets coming off a 20-point victory over Frank Phillips College Thursday night, but back in early Feb. they threw a scare into the Chaps at Midland, losing by 10, but tying the game late before fading.

What's more this is the third game of a taxing week for the Chaps, all on the road.

First, there was the 77-74 loss to Odessa College Monday. Second, the breather at Clarendon had Chaps puffing hard before winning 83-79. Now, NMMI with a decade of grudges it would like to atone for.

Going into tonight's game, MC and Howard College are tied for third place with 9-5 records. The Chaps can take a half game lead by winning, but Howard plays host to Western Texas College Monday in Big Spring and the Chaps are off.

Thursday the regular Western Junior College Athletic Conference season ends with MC enjoying the edge and the opportunity to beat out the Hawks for third. While MC is hosting Frank Phillips, Howard travels to Levelland to place South Plains College.

That's a particularly thorny assignment after the Plainsmen stunned Odessa College, 74-70, to not only move into a tie for first place, but deal the No. 1- nationally-ranked Wranglers their first loss of the season.

Coach Reggie Franklin's fear is that MC might blow that final-game advantage by losing here tonight.

MC had its hands full at Clarendon, coming from six back in the final three minutes to win.

"Joe (Coach Joe Mondragon) had a good game plan," Franklin observed. "He felt if they were patient enough, they'd be able to lure our big men into foul trouble. They were, he did and it almost worked."

Point guard Charles "Smokey" McCovery went on a 33-point spree and big man, Fred Campbell, the freshman from Salisbury, N.C., produced 14 inside points as MC won its 18th game.

Elsewhere Thursday, Western Texas College beat NMJC, 105-100, and NMMI buried FPC, 78-58.

Cager charged in murder attempt

DELAND, Fla. (AP) — A Texas-San Antonio player was charged with attempted murder Friday after being arrested for allegedly beating and trying to strangle a woman hotel employee, police said.

Keith Horne, 19, was taken into custody in the bathroom of a hotel where the team was staying and booked into the Volusia County Jail under $10,000 bond, Lt. Steve Edwards said.

Greenwood girls advance, 53-38

By BILL GRIMES
Sports Writer

SAN ANGELO — Something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue ...

The Greenwood Rangerettes took three-quarters of a page from that traditional wedding idiom in their 53-38 win over Llano in bidistrict girls' basketball action Friday.

The "something old" was senior Denisa McMullan, who scored 11 of her game-high 21 points in the fourth quarter to give the blue-clad Rangerettes a cushion they sorely needed.

While McMullan scored the first seven-points of the fourth quarter to break open a close game, Greenwood coach Terry Crocker was even more excited about "something new," Kendra Underwood, who was 6-of-6 from the floor in the second half after a scoreless first half.

"Kendra really did a great job inside," Crocker said. "She was really the difference tonight."

Despite Underwood's heroics, it was McMullan who provided the decisive offensive spark in her 10th playoff game.

After Llano cut the Rangerette lead to 29-27 on a last-second shot in the third quarter, McMullan started driving the lane and — Boom! — Greenwood led, 36-30, with 5:52 left.

The Rangerettes ultimately built their lead to 17 points in the final minutes.

McMullan just wanted to get past the bidistrict round this year, after Greenwood had lost to eventual state champion Brownfield in the bidistrict round last season.

"I was just anxious to get out there and improve. We wanted to do better than we had done," McMullan said.

Underwood was understandably tight going into her first playoff game.

"I just wanted to play tough and do what I was taught to do," Underwood said. "This is my first year of this and I didn't know what to expect."

Greenwood had a chance to build a sizeable first half lead, but the Rangerettes missed all nine of their free throw attempts in the first sixteen minutes — including five bonus opportunities.

The Rangerettes finished at 33 percent from the line on the strength of 6-for-9 shooting in the fourth period.

Despite a commanding height advantage, Llano couldn't capitalize on Greenwood's ineptitude from the line.

In fact, the Yellowjackets did well to get the ball past midcourt in the first half. Greenwood forced 20 first half Yellowjacket turnovers with its full court press. Llano didn't even take a shot until almost three minutes were gone in the first quarter.

But the Yellowjackets solved Greenwood's press in the third period and were able to get the ball inside, primarily to 5-11 post Mindy Davis.

TED BATTLES

Midland put Lefty in his place in a hurry

Battles

Midland didn't waste any time putting the Hall of Fame lefthander in his place.

When he spoke at the Midland Sports Banquet back in 1979, he was introduced as "Lefty" Grove. That really hurt.

"I thought I looked better than that," Vernon "Lefty" Gomez observed, "After all, Grove has been dead five years."

The Yankee great was the first speaker at a Midland Sports banquet. During the ensuing years, there were some dandies, but none matched El Goofy. He was a hard guy to follow, whether on the mound or the speaker's dias.

Still, you'd never know it to listen to the guy known as the Gay Castellian.

Jimmy Durante, the famed Schnozz of yore, "had a million of 'em," so did Gomez.

IN GOMEZ' case, you could never be sure whether tales of pitching days were the-truth-and-nothing-but or maybe a little tainted or embellished.

Gomez said it was tough to pitch when a comedian like second baseman Tony Lazzeri was playing behind you.

"Just as I would reach the top of my motion, Tony would come up with something like 'Boy, would I like to be hitting against the kind of stuff you're throwing today.'"

Gomez claimed he was at least partly responsible for the American League adopting the DH, although his last season in the majors was 1942.

"I had just two doubles in my career." After the one late in his career, he ventured an "inch" off second and was immediately picked off base.

In the Yankee dugout, Joe McCarthy, a no nonsense, play it by the button manager, asked incredulously, "What happened?"

"How the hell do I know. I've never been out there before."

IN ONE stormy game when liners were whistling by him in all directions, Lazzeri dashed in from second, hurrying to the dugout.

Lefty demanded to know where Tony was headed, "'I'm going in and get permission to get the married men off the field."

Gomez' prowess as a hitter was legendary. He once bet Babe Ruth he'd get five hits one year. "I went four-for-five opening day and didn't get another hit the rest of the year."

He was right there with Foxx, Gehrig, Ruth, Simmons, Cronin etc in the first All-Star game. Carl Hubbell struck him out, too.

Gomez, a 189-game winner in 14 major league seasons, felt fortunate to pitch for the Ruth-Gehrig era Yankees.

"It gave you confidence when the Babe would tell you before the game, "'Hold 'em to five runs, kid, and we'll beat them.'"

HE DISCOVERED just how lucky he had been when traded to the Boston Braves at the tag end of his career.

"With the Yankees, we played for the big inning. At Boston, they played for the big week. It was a rally if they got a base-on-balls and a hit batsman in the same inning."

That World Series game in Wrigley Field in 1932...did the Babe call his shot? "Absolutely," was Lefty's response, although to the same question Chicago Cubs manager Charlie Grimm said "No way."

When a sportswriter informed Lefty he had been in the third deck at Yankee Stadium that day against the Red Sox when Joe DiMaggio tied Wee Willie Keeler's consecutive game hitting streak on the way to 56 back in 1941, Lefty remembered it too.

"Grove beat me 1-0 that day."

The Mrs. pinpointed the trouble with Gomez' after-dinner talks. "Why did he stop? And he never told us the chicken story that he promised."

Now we'll never hear the chicken story...

Aundria Shaw of Midland High launches a two pointer as Bulldogs faced district champion Abilene High at Chap Center Friday night.

MHS

"We played them a lot better than the last time," said Young. "We just made a few minor mistakes and it cost us. Still, I'm happy to be still playing. This is my last time around and we want to make the most of it."

San Angelo and Midland High split two games this year, both winning at home and now the Big Spring neutral site playoff will decide the playoff team.

The loss to Abilene High ended a three-game winning streak by Midland High, its longest of the season. However, MHS is playing well right now. San Angelo, despite a victory Tuesday over Abilene High, has struggled down the 4-5A stretch, losing three of its last six.

Gil Bartosh, Midland athletic director, said tickets for the district playoff game will be $2 for adults and $1 for students and can be purchased at the Big Spring gym.

The MHS junior varsity ended its season Friday with a 28-6 record after an 86-70 win over Abilene High. Micheal Ray led all scorers with 23 points while Keith Gilbreath had 17, Albert Ray 13 and Skeet Bowers 10.

Two share Hawaiian lead

HONOLULU (AP) — Alice Ritzman and Sara Ann McGetrick were tied for the lead at 6-under-par 138 following Friday's second round of the $300,000 Hawaiian Ladies Open golf tournament.

Ritzman and McGetrick both shot 69s and shared a one-stroke lead going into Saturday's final round of the 54-hole tournament.

Amy Benz, who led throughout much of the day, finished tied with Sherri Turner at 139. Benz shot a 70 and Turner 69.

Terry-Jo Myers, who led after shooting a tournament-record 66 Thursday, shot 75 and fell into a tie for fifth at 141 with Shelley Hamlin, Muffin Spencer-Devlin, Colleen Walker and Penny Hammel.

Many golfers struggled as gusty winds returned to the 6,267-yard Turtle Bay Country Club Course on Oahu Island's north shore. Of the 44 who made par-72 or better in the first round, about half made par in the second.

Ritzman shot five birdies against two bogeys.

McGetrick, who missed much of last season due to surgery to correct tendinitis in her left wrist, shot a bogey-free round. Her birdies included a 60-foot putt on the sixth hole.

Big Spring whips Stockton

From Staff Reports

BIG SPRING— Big Spring defeated Fort Stockton, 97-59, to clinch the District 4-4A basketball title and now will await the identity of its bidistrict opponent.

Borger and Lubbock Dunbar are in the process of settling the issue.

Big Spring finished the regular season 20-11 and 13-1 in district.

Louis Soldan scored 24 points, Abner Shellman 21 and Doug Young 20 to lead the Steers. For the Panthers, Alex Trevino had 25 and Art Carillo 14.

MHS divers create big splash in 4-5A

"We were intimidated by their pressure," Llano coach Charlotte Dehnel said. "Once we got the ball in our end of the court, we were able to do something with it."

Nevertheless, Llano's 1-2 punch of Wynona Beesley and 5-11 post Lori Kolb was hardly a factor. Beesley was shut out after having suffered from strep throat throughout the week, while Kolb managed only one free throw.

Both players had averaged well into double figures this season.

Robbie McCollum added 10 points for Greenwood, now 22-9.

The Rangerettes will now face No. 5 Decatur, Friday night bidistrict winners, 38-33, over Merkel. Site and location of the game to be announced.

In the first half of Friday's doubleheader in San Angelo, District 8-3A champion Sonora trounced District 7-3A runner-up Coahoma, 66-52.

Dallas Green plays psychologist

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Dallas Green finds himself playing amateur psychologist as well as manager as he begins his first spring training with the New York Yankees.

"We've got the arms and the bodies. If we can screw some heads on, we'll be all right," Green said Friday after guiding the pitchers and catchers through their first official workout at Fort Lauderdale Stadium.

In an attempt to "screw some heads on," Green said he had offseason conversations with both John Candelaria and Dave Righetti, two left-handers who were troubled last season.

It is known that Candelaria didn't see eye-to-eye with manager Lou Piniella. Righetti had his greatest problems under Billy Martin before Piniella succeeded Martin on June 23.

Midland Lee closes out with cage win

From Staff Reports

ABILENE — Midland Lee found the land of .500 again with a basketball season ending 85-68 victory over Abilene Cooper here Friday night as the Rebels finish the season with a 15-15 record.

Darren Dortch led the high scoring Rebel parade with 24 points while Ed Brown had 17, Torval Crisp 14 and Jared Edwards 13.

Cooper's Mitch Royals had 20 points, but only Girardeau Murray could gain another double figure status for the Cougars with 11 points.

The victory also leaves both Lee and Cooper with 3-9 records in District 4-5A play, tied for last place. A loss by Lee would have left the Rebels with sole possession of last place, and evidently, that was something the Rebels didn't want as they waltzed to thier easiest district win of the year.

Lee had a big first half, outscoring Cooper by a 47-32 margin.

Midland High owes Odessa Permian a big "Thank You" after the Panthers ripped San Angelo 72-61 in the other district game. San Angelo and MHS tied for second place with 7-5 marks and will have a one-game district playoff Tuesday in Big Spring.

Shawn Almond had 21 points for Permian while Sean Butler had 16 as did Kirby King. San Angelo tried to play the game from three-point land, hitting 12 of 32 three-point shots. The Bobcats took more three-points shots than two-point shots. Tracey Anthony scored 20 points for the Bobcats, hitting six three-pointers.

OU ripe for a grid movie

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A California movie production company is considering making a film about the problems plaguing the University of Oklahoma football program, according to a published report.

The Daily Oklahoman in today's editions quotes Elsie Walton of John Conboy Productions in Los Angeles as saying the football saga has all the earmarks of a good movie.

Ms. Walton said what makes the football problems particularly interesting is the fact all this is happening in a state where football is such an important part of everyday life for many people.

BUSS EYES COWBOYS— Los Angeles Lakers owner Jerry Buss intends to make a formal bid to purchase the Cowboys in the near future, but his top aide says it would be premature to consider Buss the leading candidate to buy the franchise and stadium from majority owner Bum Bright. Another offer is being proposed by Jerry Jones, a businessman based in Little Rock, Ark.

FINLEY WINS 200— Gary Finley took the lead with 13 laps remaining and held off Mickey York over the final mile in winning the Florida 200 stock car race Friday at Daytona International Speedway. Finley , drove his Pontiac to victory in his debut at the 2.5-mile track. He earned $10,475 from a purse of $95,910 in the season-opener of NASCAR's Charlotte-Daytona Dash division for production sedans.

WILDCATS WANTS SILENCE— The University of Kentucky filed an affidavit asking that its written response to 18 NCAA allegations against its basketball program not be released to the news media in order to protect the privacy of sources. The Lexington Herald-Leader and (Louisville) Courier-Journal have asked a Fayette circuit judge to force the university to release the response under the state's Open Records law.

WORLD CUP— Switzerland's Karl Alpiger raced to his fifth career World Cup downhill victory in 1 minute, 44.02 seconds Friday, while Marc Girardelli won the downhill title at Aspen, Colo., finishing second in 1:44.12. With one downhill remaining, Girardelli had a 34-point lead over runner-up Helmut Hoeflehner of Austria.

SAYS IT ISN'T SO— Purdue basketball coach Gene Keady denies he is seeking the Arizona State job, but hasn't ruled out the possibility of leaving the Boilermakers. Keady, in his ninth season at Purdue, was a leading candidate for the Arizona State job in 1985....

TAKE THAT!— SEC commissioner Harvey Schiller and Georgia AD Vince Dooley publicly reprimanded Georgia basketball coach Hugh Durham for his outbursts that drew three technical fouls and expulsion in a game against Vanderbilt Wednesday. SEC AD's approved giving an indefinite suspension of a coach in any sport who is found in violation of the SEC commissioner's regulations and Code of Ethics.

ETC....Montreal pitcher Pascual Perez of the Montreal Expos, who has had previous problems with substance abuse, has been in a drug rehabilitation center for past two weeks, the National League team reveals....The SWC issued a public reprimand to TCU basketball coach Moe Iba in connection with comments he made after a loss to Arkansas last week...

BOWLING BEAT

Ladies City tourney moves into 2nd week

By RANDY ISENBERG

Isenberg

Super Bowl Center leads the team event with 3,003 pins after the first weekend of Ladies City Tournament play. In second place with 2,985 are the Pinheads while Mixed Five, 2929, and The Untouchables, 2910, follow.

Patsy Wallin's 674 leads the women's singles with Melody O'Brien 667 and Pat Shores 664.

In doubles, heading into this week's round, Betty Franks and Irma Villareal are the leaders at 1368. Rona Rodriguez and Cynthia Standard are second at 1266 with Vida Teel-Gloria Truesdell, 1261, and Joe Ann Jackson-Melody O'Brien 1256....

LEO Rodriquez rattled the pins with 245-900 in the Mixed Scratch League while John Denton just missed perfection with an ill-timed four pin midway through a 279 game that bulwarked a 690 series in the Civic Conmercial.

Gloria Truesdell paced the ladies with 210-600 in the WOW Ladies League at Dellwood Lanes....

Glenn McKenzie was a spare short of Denton with a 244-891 four-game set....Darren Tryon rolled a 268-661 in the Dellwood Men's League...Dick Coats, same league, rolled 223-632 in raising his average from 159 to 161. Dick just missed the 150 over average award for a series by five pins...

Robert Clack, Alley Cats, rolled his best set, 236-659, while Roy McGuffen is a testimony to hard practice after back-to-back 600 series in the Alley Cats Mixed....

L.D. Cook, Teacher's League, rolled 95 pins over his 138 average with a 233.

KEITH Leoffler, Midweek Break Mixed, had 219-601. Rounding out the 600 parade...Tom Wesling 236-624; Shorty Shaw 232-619; Paul Cox, 227-641; George Overton 269-627; Donnie Rains 619; and Junior Tipton, 600....

Over 800 bowlers....Mike Reid 234-842; Sergio Gonzales 246-840; Larry Ausmus 236-818 and J.J. Jaeger 805....

Top women's scores...Brenda Weeks, 202-576; Tina Hight, 212-566; Sandy Black, 221-562; Dana Sue Gibbs, 205-562; Linda Hill, 312-562; Sharon Carter, 200-562; Melody O'Brien, 192-561....

The senior set rolled well last week with Clarence Grant showing a 584 series and Hi Burney a 313-584....

Leah and Matthew Gerhard won the Bantam division of the Dellwood Adult-Youth Valentines tournament. Darrell and Tom Deubel took second and Danita Harmon and mother finished third....

Darrell and Mike Bolton won the Jr and Sr division with Jayme Farmer-Glen McKenzie second and Dennis-Krissy Sprague third.

Switzer apologizes to "biggest drug center in state"

By BILL JOHNSON

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer, after being ordered by the university president to apologize, admitted Friday that he made a "stupid mistake" when he called Lawton "the biggest drug center in the state."

"I'm very sorry, I really am," Switzer said in a telephone interview with Lawton television station KSWO. "It was a stupid mistake on my part but I hope that you understand that it's very difficult because of all the questions."

Switzer has been criticized and questioned for the past week following the arrest of starting quarterback Charles Thompson on charges of selling cocaine to an undercover FBI agent. Switzer had made his comment about Lawton Wednesday night in a telephone interview with Associated Press.

David Swank, Oklahoma's interim president, earlier had apologized to Lawton for Switzer's remarks and told the coach to do so "by phone or however he wants to do it."

Switzer read the station a letter of apology that he said he had sent to Lawton Mayor Wayne Gilley.

"Well, I think it's a fact that you have a lot of microphones and a lot of cameras stuck in your face and you're asked so many questions in so many interviews about what happened to Charles Thompson, and in my conversation I should have been more sensitive to stating something that had been stated to me by an investigative agent about what was going on," Switzer said.

In the interview with KSWO, Switzer also repeated that he would not quit and said he to "change things to give a more positive image to the team."

Switzer had said in the AP interview, "Obviously, I didn't know when I recruited Charles Thompson that two, three years later he'd do what he did. How do you know? He's from Lawton, where Fort Sill is, the biggest drug center in the state, and he got entrapped."

"I don't think we should be out trying to judge other cities in the state," Swank said. "We don't have the facts or anything else on what's occurring, so we should not make any statements.

"From the best I've been able to tell, Lawton and Fort Sill are doing a lot of work, as are many other communities, to have a good (drug) program in place. For us to be critical of their program is inappropriate."

Lawton and Fort Sill officials were outraged by Switzer's comment and The Lawton Constitution said in an editorial that Switzer should apologize or resign.

"Barry, you owe the Lawton-Fort Sill community an apology, and if you're not man enough to do it, you should be gone," it said.

The editorial also suggested that if Switzer does not apologize immediately, "alumni should withhold checks and other contributions."

"We have a drug problem, just like any other community of 25,000 people. But that problem is no worse nor no better than anywhere else," said Lt. Col. John Dobbs, public affairs officer at Fort Sill. "His statement is unfair and unfounded."

State Rep. Sid Hudson of Lawton said he was upset over the "off-handed accusations."

"I don't know where he gets his information. I think it's a real disrespect to the citizens of Lawton. I don't know how much he knows about Lawton. The only time I see him here is when he's recruiting some of the many top athletes we have coming out of Lawton," Hudson said.

"That is a ridiculous statement to make," Lawton police chief Robert Gillian said. "Lawton has drugs like any other place, but you can't characterize it as the drug capital of the state."

Robert Schulte, the Comanche County district attorney, said local officials have vigorously prosecuted drug dealers.

"I don't know what Switzer is basing his comments on, but I think I am in a little better position to judge," he said.

Meanwhile, authorities said Friday that Switzer was left in the dark about a cocaine investigation of Thompson because authorities wanted to limit the number of people who knew about it.

Elkington, Wiebe tie at San Diego

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — Steve Elkington and Mark Wiebe tied for the lead at 11-under-par 133 Friday after the second round of the $700,000 San Diego Open.

Elkington, a native of Australia, shot a 9-under-par 63 in the second round and Wiebe shot 7-under 65.

Dave Barr and Dave Rummels were both one stroke behind the leaders at 134. Barr shot 68 and Rummels shot 66 on Friday.

Mark Lye, who was in a three-way tie for the lead the first round, was tied with Mark O'Meara and Bill Sander at 135. Lye shot 70 Friday, O'Meara 67 and Sander 65.

Mark Calcavecchia, winner of the Phoenix and Los Angeles Opens, missed the cut by three strokes. He shot even-par in each of the first two rounds.

The co-leaders each played the north course in the second round at Torrey Pines Golf Course, considered the easier of the two par-72 layouts. They played south course Thursday.

The final two rounds of the tournament, will be played exclusively on the south course Saturday and Sunday.

Elkington, who started on the back nine, had four birdies and one bogey through his first seven holes. He had six birdies on the front nine, making par on the third, fourth and seventh holes.

Elkington's best finish in his first two years on the PGA Tour was fifth place at last year's Westchester Classic. He takes two tablets a day and one shot a week for a grass allergy he developed two years ago, and he was sidelined for three weeks in December with spinal meningitis.

His 65 was the low round of the day, earning him a bonus of zero coupon treasury certificates that mature to $100,000 in 20 years.

First place Hogs face Aggies

Associated Press

After taking sole possession of first place in the Southwest Conference in their last game, the Arkansas Razorbacks travel to College Station Saturday afternoon to battle Texas A&M.

SWC

In other conference action, Houston faces Texas Christian, Texas plays Texas Tech and Southern Methodist travels to play Rice.

The Razorbacks were helped to the top spot Wednesday night by Lenzie Howell, who scored 24 points to lead the Razorbacks to an 81-68 victory over Southern Methodist.

Meanwhile, the Houston Cougars' defeat Wednesday of Texas also helped boost Arkansas to first place, allowing the Razorbacks to break the tie and take a one-game lead over the Longhorns.

Arkansas improved to 17-5 overall and stayed atop the SWC with a 10-2 record. SMU dropped to 10-12 and 5-6.

The hard-luck Cougars, losers of five Southwest Conference games by a total of seven points, scored a 105-96 victory over the Longhorns.

Texas moved to 9-3 in league play and 18-6 for the season. Houston improved to 15-9 and 6-5.

It was only the Longhorns' second home loss of the season and marked the first time the Cougars have won in Austin since 1984.

The Rice Owls beat TCU 70-67 Wednesday.

The Owls improved to 10-13 overall and 4-8 in conference play, while Texas Christian fell to 14-10 overall and 7-5 in conference play.

After coming out strong in the conference by winning their first six games, the Horned Frogs have now lost five of their last six.

Texas A&M scored a 76-65 victory over Baylor Wednesday. That loss all but ended the Bears' hopes for a spot in the Southwest Conference postseason tournament.

The league's last-place team doesn't play in the tournament, and the loss dropped Baylor to 1-11 in league and 5-18 for the season.

The Aggies boosted their conference record to 4-7 in league play and 11-12 overall.

Angels Abbott feels he belongs

Associated Press

After one day in spring training, Jim Abbott feels like he belongs. Well, sort of.

"While I'm here, I'd like to keep kind of a low profile. I'm just a rookie and I don't want to step on anyone's toes," Abbott said Friday after his first workout at California's camp in Mesa, Ariz.

Abbott, born with a right hand, spent most of the day on fielding drills with the other Angels' pitchers. He uses his left hand to pitch and catch, switching his glove on and off.

"I don't think we were even realizing he was doing it," pitcher Jack Lazorko said. "It's so smooth, you don't even notice. It's awesome."

Doug Rader, one of six new managers this season, likes what he's seen in Abbott.

"He's a special individual. He's blessed both physically and emotionally," Rader said. "The novelty will wear off eventually."

In Vero Beach, Fla., Fernando Valenzuela began workouts with the Los Angeles Dodgers. He pitched for just the fifth time since the end of the season and reported no problems from the arm trouble that cut shor his year.

Spring Training

"Everything is fine," he said. "The arm feels strong. Mechanics will be very important to me this spring. I'm not going to rush things, but I will be ready by the end of spring training."

John Tudor, who underwent surgery shortly after the World Series, also worked out. He isn't expected to be able to pitch until well into the season.

The Cleveland Indians, who brought 47 pitchers to camp last year, have just 27 this spring in Tucson, Ariz.

Manager Doc Edwards thinks nine of the 10 opening-day spots are already set. Greg Swindell, Tom Candiotti, John Farrell, Rich Yett and Bud Black are the starters and Doug Jones, Jesse Orosco, Scott Bailes and Neil Allen are in the bullpen.

"It allows us to give more personalized attention to players than we did last year," Edwards said. "With not as many bodies here we can give people more individual work. Last year, because of the numbers, we had to do more group work."

In Haines City, Fla., Mark Gubicza led 29 pitchers and catchers at the Kansas City Royals' first workout. Gubicza, a 20-game winner, took part in the three-hour, 15-minute practice.

Minnesota's pitchers and catchers reported for work, but Charlie Lea will be sidelined for at least two weeks with a sore rib cage.

Lea, who had missed two seasons because of a shoulder injury before returning to the majors in 1988, was throwing batting practice at Memphis State in late January when a line drive ricocheted off his body.

"I'll do what I can," Lea said. "I can ride the bike and I'll play some catch, but I'm not ready to get back on the mound yet. We'll just have to wait and see what happens. Either I'll be pitching or fishing."

Lea, 7-7 with a 4.85 earned-run average last season, is expected to battle Les Straker, Roy Smith and Balvino Galvez for the fifth starting spot.

"I would say (recovery would take) two weeks at the very least," Twins general manager Andy MacPhail said. "It's not a death knell and it doesn't absolutely eliminate him.

Massengale's 66 sets Seniors pace

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Don Massengale shot a 6-under-par 66 Friday to take a two-stroke lead after the first round of the $300,000 Suncoast Classic golf tournament at Tampa Palms Golf and Country Club.

Dave Hill, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Bob Charles and Doug Sanders were tied for second at 68, while Bruce Crampton, George Lanning, Quinton Gray, Arnold Palmer and Al Geiberger were four shots back at 70.

Massengale, 51, a third-year Senior Tour player from Conroe, Texas, shot six birdies, no bogeys. He shot a 32 on the back nine.

"I started shaky, but after the first few holes I smoothed it out," Massengale said. "I played consistently the rest of the way around and made some nice putts."

Hill had two bogeys, but eagled the par-5 ninth hole by holing a 125-yard 9-iron shot. He also had four birdies.

Sanders had a chance to take sole possession of second at the 18th hole, but his tee shot went into a bunker and he missed a 15-foot putt for par.

"I bogeyed the first hole and the last hole, and I deserved both of them," Sanders said.

Massengale, recovering from minor neck surgery during the offseason, finished 19th in last week's PGA Seniors Championship at Palm Beach Gardens.

"Some guys can take time off and come out here and play well, but I'm not one of them," Massengale said. But the work paid off for Massengale on Friday, especially on the greens. Four of his birdie putts were from 15 feet or longer. He had a chance to stretch his lead by another stroke at the 18th, but his 12-foot downhill putt on the re-designed hole stopped inches short.

Rodriguez also missed a birdie opportunity at No. 18.

"You have to be Moses to play that hole," Rodriguez said. "You keep looking for a way to part the water."

Like Massengale, Rodriguez is off to a strong start in 1989 after a mediocre season in 1988. He birdied three of the first five holes on Friday.

JIM MURRAY

The point is, Isiah Thomas takes charge

Murray

Quick now, who are the great quarterbacks in the game today? Joe Montana, you say? Dan Marino? Boomer Esiason? Bernie Kosar? Randall Cunningham?

Well, I've got a quarterback who can make those look scatter-armed. He never throws an interception. He's got a completion record that could make Terry Bradshaw sit down and have a good cry. He's got the peripheral vision of a shark. If you think Fran Tarkenton was hard to contain, you should see this guy. He not only makes the ball disappear, he does, too.

Who is this remarkable phenom, you ask, and why isn't he in the shotgun for Dallas?

Well, how about Isiah Thomas?

Wait just a minute, you say. Isiah Thomas isn't a quarterback, he's a point guard.

Oh, yeah? Well, watch him now as he comes up the floor of the Forum against the Lakers.

FIRST OF all, he's got the ball. A good quarterback has to have the ball and Isiah Thomas always has the ball. He seems to come with it attached.

He brings it up with this kind of bemused look on his face. He kind of glides, slips, wheels from side to side. He dribbles it right into the feet of guys a foot taller than he is. If they over-play him, he's gone. Fran Tarkenton never spurted past Deacon Jones any niftier.

He gets the beginning of this little grin around his mouth. He's wary, crafty, probing for an opening. He's looking for the open man. Every good quarterback does that.

When he finds one, he whistles this deadly accurate pass to him, usually right under the basket. A good quarterback in the NFL completes 55 percent of his passes. Thomas' percentage is more like 100.

If no one's open, he bounces the ball once, twice, pumps, fakes — and then soars in the air to pop in a basket himself. He does this only as a last resort. But he leads the team in scoring all the same.

"You don't dare leave him alone," sighs opponent Magic Johnson. "Give him room, he shoots. No matter where he is."

LAST YEAR, he popped in 38 three-point baskets, most on the team and well over a third of those he tried. He is as dangerous as Wyatt Earp. He shoots off balance, on balance, at mid-court, under the basket. Last year, he threw in 25 points in a single quarter against the Lakers in the sixth game of the finals. He once scored 16 points in a minute and a half when the Knicks sagged off him.

He is ubiquitous. Find the ball and you find Isiah. It is the opinion of some coaches around the league that there are two of him. They swear that, some night, he's going to get an assist and a basket on the same play.

He led the world in assists one season with 1,123, a record since broken by Utah's John Stockton. He still had a 21.2-point scoring average for that year. He is unselfish. A quarterback's job is to win games, not trophies.

It is a rule of thumb in football that you can't get to the Super Bowl without a Grade A quarterback. It is a rule of thumb in basketball that you don't get to the playoff finals without a dominating center.

The Detroit Pistons get there because they have Isiah Thomas. The league is lucky he's not paired up with Patrick Ewing or the season might be a foregone conclusion.

THE PISTONS are not a blow-you-out-of-there team. They rely on trapping (double-team) defenses, quickness and resourcefulness. They jab you to death, beat you on points, win on a split decision. They give a party when they score more than 100 points. But so does the team they play. You think something is wrong with the scoreboard when the Pistons play.

I always thought Oscar Robertson was the best quarterback, or floor general, I ever saw on a basketball court. Oscar was like a traffic cop out there. But Isiah Thomas can do most of the things Oscar could do. And remain less visible.

But the point is, Isiah Thomas not only can do things Oscar Robertson could do but the things John Elway could, too — take your team to the championship finals on the strength of your arm and the elusiveness of your feet. The Raiders should be so lucky.

Lake Speed's Oldsmobile slides backward after hitting Rick Wilson in his Kodak Olds at Daytona Beach.

Schrader on pole, but still looking

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Some people are conceding Sunday's Daytona 500 to Ken Schrader, but the driver who will start the $1.7 million from the pole for the second straight year isn't among them.

Schrader, who has only one Winston Cup victory in four full seasons of stock car racing, has been the guy to beat since practice opened at Daytona International Speedway on Feb. 10.

First, he won the pole position for Sunday with a lap of 196.996 mph on the 2.5-mile oval, then he took the 20-lap Busch Clash for last year's pole winners, and, finally, he drove his Chevrolet Monte Carlo to an easy victory Thursday in one of the 125-mile qualifying races.

"In the run for the pole, I was out there all by myself," Schrader said Friday between practice sessions for Sunday's race, as well as Saturday's 300 Busch Grand National event, in which he will start 30th in the 40-car field.

"In the Busch Clash, I started by myself (from the pole)," he added. "I also started up front in the 125-miler, but that was against only half the cars, and half of those got destroyed (in an 18-car accident).

"It's not like we've gone out there and whipped everybody. We're talking 200 laps and 42 cars (Sunday). Starting position isn't going to make your or break you.

"It sure isn't going to make you win the race."

Dale Earnhardt, a three-time Winston Cup champion, will start another Monte Carlo eighth in the 500-miler.

"I know it will be tough," said Earnhardt, who never has won NASCAR's richest and most prestigious event. "I'm keeping my strategy to myself. I've got to — Schrader's got a little something I'm not ready for. He looks awful strong."

Terry Labonte, who won the other qualifying race in a Ford Thunderbird and will start third Sunday, said, "If we're going to win, the No. 25, 5 and 3 cars (Schrader, Geoff Bodine and Earnhardt) are the guys we've got to beat. And Darrell (Waltrip) probably wil be tough, too. I haven't run with him yet, but he qualified well."

McEnroe, Becker win at Milan

MILAN, Italy (AP) — John McEnroe beat Andrei Cherkasov 6-2, 6-2 Friday night, advancing to a semifinal match against Boris Becker in the $492,500 Stella Artois indoor tennis tournament.

Becker, ranked fourth in the world, struggled 1 hour, 59 minutes before beating Christian Bergstrom of Sweden 7-6, 7-5. In Saturday's other semifinal, Eric Jelen of West Germany meets Alexander Volkov of the Soviet Union.

McEnroe, who is seeking his fifth victory in Milan, took 57 minutes to defeat Cherkasov, who had upset fifth-seeded Henri Leconte of France and Wally Masur of Australia in the two previous rounds.

McEnroe, combining winning volleys with powerful serves and well placed returns, overwhelmed Cherkasov, a 18-year-old Soviet. McEnroe has lost only 14 games in the tournament so far.

Becker certainly had problems in his quarterfinal match. The 21-year-old Bergstrom played consistently and made fine backhand shots from the baseline.

The Swede led 8-7 in the first set tiebreaker before Becker rebounded with two winning volleys and an ace to take the set.

Vernon "Lefty" Gomez
....he had a million of 'em

LARKSPUR, Calif. (AP) — Hall of Fame pitcher Vernon "Lefty" Gomez, who starred with the great New York Yankees during the 1930s, won the first All-Star Game and was known for his zany sense of humor, died Friday. He was 80.

Gomez died at Marin General Hospital of congestive heart failure.

Born in the small town of Rodeo, about 30 miles northeast of San Francisco, he was signed for $35,000 by the Yankees but was only 2-5 in 1930, his first season in the major leagues.

However, he quickly justified New York's confidence, going 21-9 in 1931 and 24-7 in 1932, two of the four seasons in which he won more than 20 games.

GOMEZ HAD his best year in 1934, when he went 26-5 with a 2.33 earned run average and led the American League with 25 complete games. He was inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1972.

His overall record, including an 0-1 mark with Washington in 1943, his final year in the major leagues, was 189-102. He had a 6-0 record in seven starts in five World Series.

Gomez, known as "Goofy" because of his wacky personality, led the American League in strikeouts three times and twice led the league in victories and ERA.

HE EARNED the "Goofy" tag on a train ride to Washington, D.C., when scientist Albert Einstein walked through his car.

"A sportswriter named Frank O'Neill saw Einstein and asked me if I had ever invented anything," Gomez said. "I said, 'Yeah, a revolving goldfish bowl.

" 'You know, for expensive tropical fish. The bowl goes around, the fish don't have to exert themselves and they live 10 years longer.' "

Another example of his sense of humor came at a gathering of former Yankees' greats honoring pitcher Catfish Hunter in 1987.

"Look at Joe Sewell," he said, pointing to the Hall of Fame shortstop. "A great hitter. One year he struck out three times in over 600 at bats.

"Well, I'll tell you what. I did better than that. I struck out five times in one game. Took him more than 600 swings and I did it in one day."

And there's the story he told about the time he and his wife were watching man's first walk on the moon in 1969.

"They were talking back and forth," Gomez recalled, "picking up pieces of the moon's surface. Then they saw a strange white rock, something they couldn't identify.

"I said to my wife, 'I know what that is. It's a ball Jimmy Foxx hit off me.' "

AFTER HIS career, Gomez managed in the minors, at Binghamton, N.Y.

"We lost 12 straight one year," he said. "I decided if we got rained out, we'd have a victory dinner."

Gomez won four of the five All-Star Games he started, including the first ever played, in 1933. Although that AL team included such greats as Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Al Simmons and Joe Cronin, it was Gomez who drove in he first run.

"Nothing I did in baseball game me more satisfaction that getting that base hit," Gomez said a few years ago. "I only hit .113 that year. I think 300 fans fainted in the stands when the ball fell in."

Gomez resisted the temptation to become too impressed with his performance. He once recalled returning to his tiny home town in 1931, after winning 21 games, "feeling pretty good about myself."

"Well, the first fella I met coming down the street slowed me up and said, 'Vernon, I can't recall seeing you around here very much lately. You been away for the summer?' "

Gomez is survived by his wife, June, daughters Gery, Vernona and Sharon, and seven granchildren.

Terazawa winner

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Japan's Norimi Terazawa scored her first international victory, taking the Malaysian Women's Open at the Saujana Golf and Country Club course Friday.

Terazawa, who turned pro three years ago, shot a final-round, par 72 to win by five strokes with a 54-hole total of three-under-213. She eanred $6,000.

Wallace starts last, but finishes in first

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Rusty Wallace took the lead with four laps to go Friday at Daytona International Speedway and went on to become the first driver in the history of the International Race of Champion series to win a race after starting last.

Wallace, who started 12th, beat fellow NASCAR stock car star Terry Labonte by less than a car length in the 40-lap, 100-mile opening event in the four-race series.

"I won the race, but it could have been anybody's race at the end," Wallace said. "With 10 laps to go, I knew nobody was going to work together out there. We were on our own."

The spectacular race saw nine lead changes among six of the 12 drivers who started the race in identically prepared IROC-Z Chevrolet Camaros.

Wallace dashed from 12th to fourth in two laps on the 2.5-mile, high-banked oval and trailed only Dale Earnhardt, another NASCAR star, by lap five. He led for the first time on lap 27, but immediately fell out of the top spot as Labonte and Earnhardt took turns in front.

At the end, Earnhardt was third in the lead pack, with two-time and defending series champion Al Unser Jr. fourth. Unser drives in the CART-PPG Indy-car series.

Wallace averaged 183.955 mph, as he took the series points lead with 23.

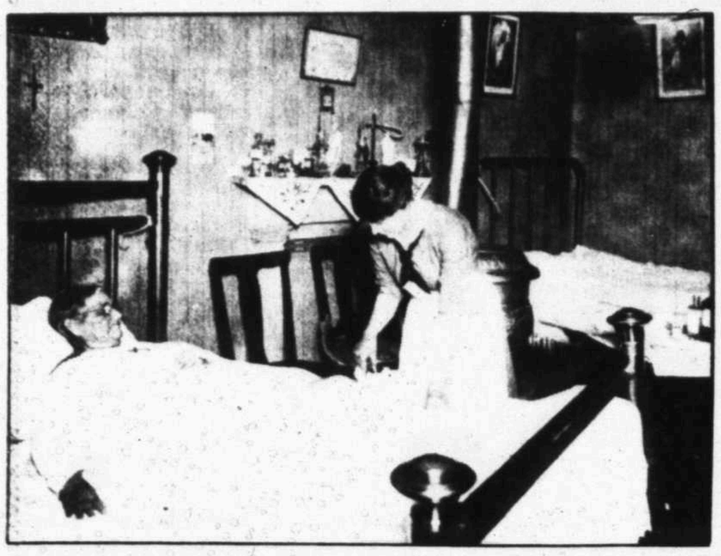
National Visiting Nurse Associations week set



The week of February 19-25 has been designated as National Visiting Nurse Associations Week. This photograph, taken around 1900, shows a visiting nurse providing home care to a surgical patient.

The U.S. Congress and President George Bush have proclaimed the week of February 19-25, 1989 as National Visiting Nurse Associations Week. This is a commemorative week designated to pay tribute to the pioneers who instituted home health care more than 100 years ago.

Additionally, the week will honor current professionals who tirelessly carry out the VNA mission of providing home health care services to everyone who needs it, regardless of ability to pay. This will mark the second consecutive year that Congress and the President have declared Visiting Nurse Associations Week.

In 1885, Elizabeth Coe Marshall collected money from her Sunday school class in Buffalo, New York, to support a Visiting Nurse Association in her community. The objective was to "provide free nursing among the sick poor."

Today, Visiting Nurse Associations employ skilled nurses, therapists, home health aides and other health care professionals who provide patients with medical care, homemaking and domestic necessities and physical and speech therapy in their own homes.

VNA beneficiaries, infants, children and adults, number nearly one million every year. VNAs serve more than 500 urban and rural communities in 47 states. Their professionals nurse the sick back to health and help comfort the dying.

Because the quality of professional staff and service are very high, VNAs satisfy those who seek and can afford the best care possible. Because the community supports the VNA, it can also reach out to those who need such care, but have no way to pay for it. Generous community contributions make that possible. No patient is turned away because of a lack of financial resources.

The Visiting Nurse Associations are noteworthy not only because of their long history of public service, but also because of their unique organization. VNAs rely on contributions from local private citizens, United Way, foundations, and corporations to help fund their medical services.

VNAs are also Medicare/Medicaid and insurance certified. In fact, VNAs provide home health care services to 43 percent of all Medicare eligible patients in the United States.

Care is the primary responsibility of the VNAs, and the quality of that care is one of the hallmarks of the VNAs.

Visiting Nurse Associations maintain their quality of service by carefully screening and training all professional staff, volunteers and aides. When people entrust the care of a parent, child or some other loved one to an "outsider", they want assurance that their relative is in the best of hands. Time and again, for more than a century, it is the VNA to whom they turn.

The therapeutic as well as the economic benefits of treatment at home are well documented. The need for home health care can be expected to increase as our population continues to age, as hospitals steadily release patients earlier and as more and more of the people who traditionally have cared for family members enter the work place.

Throughout these changes, as they have for more than a century, the VNAs will maintain a vital role in our nation's delivery of health care.

The Visiting Nurse Service of the Permian Basin, a program of the Midland United Way agency, Community and Senior Services, is the West Texas affiliate of the Visiting Nurse Associations of America. It is located in Midland at 3301 Sinclair and in Odessa at 128 E. Second.

This article was submitted by the Visiting Nurse Service of the Permian Basin.

Individual Retirement Account distributions required at age 70½

Though most West Texans are aware that the tax laws governing IRAs were changed by the Tax Reform Act of 1986, most folks still have questions about the requirements for taking distributions from an IRA. The laws are complex, so it's advisable to consult a tax professional before you act. For simple answers to the most commonly asked questions, however, refer to the guide below:

Q. When must I begin taking distributions from my IRA?

A. Distributions must begin when you reach age 70½. The first year's distribution can be deferred until April 1 of the year after you reach age 70½. However, the second distribution must be taken by December 31 following that April. If you elect to defer the first distribution, you will be required to take two in one calendar year. Subsequent distributions must be removed by December 31 of each year.

Q. I have several IRAs. Must I take a distribution from each of them?

A. Though you must calculate the required minimum from each of your IRAs, you must choose whether to remove the entire amount of the distribution from one or more of your IRAs.

Q. What information do I need to calculate my required distribution?

A. The only information you'll need is your year-end IRA account balance from the previous year, your birth date and your beneficiary's birth date.

Q. How do I calculate my required minimum distribution?

A. The distribution is calculated by dividing the previous year-end account balance by your "life expectancy multiple".

Q. How do I determine my life expectancy multiple?

A. Life expectancy multiples can be found in the Distribution Tables (Unisex Tables) available from our local IRS office or by calling 1-800-424-FORMS.

You may elect single life expectancy based on your age or you may elect joint life expectancy based on your age and that of your beneficiary. If no beneficiary is named or you've designated your estate or will as beneficiary, use single life expectancy.

Q. Can you give me an example of how the required minimum is calculated?

A. Let's take a look at "Tex" Smith. Tex was born on October 3, 1917. He turned 70½ in 1988, and will be 71 in October of that year. (Always use your age on your birthday in the year of the distribution.) Tex has elected to calculate his distribution based on joint life expectancy. His beneficiary is Donna, his wife. Since Donna was born on January 15, 1919, he uses age 71 for himself and 69 for Donna.

To determine the life expectancy multiple, Tex consults the Distribution Tables. (Again, these tables are available from the local IRS office or by calling 1-800-424-FORMS.) Since he has elected joint life expectancy with his wife, the multiple is 20.7.

Tex's IRA account balance as of December 31, 1987 (the previous year) was $25,612. He simply divides the account balance by his life expectancy multiple:

$$\frac{$25,612}{20.7} = $1,237.29$$

Tex is required to remove $1,237.29 for 1988.

What if Tex had elected single life expectancy? Tex would refer to the Distribution Table for a single life. Since Tex is 71 in 1988, his life expectancy multiple is 15.3. The December 31, 1987 account balance is divided by 15.3.:

$$\frac{$25,612}{15.3} = $1,673.99$$

If Tex had elected single life expectancy, he would be required to remove $1,673.99 for 1988. (Note: Once single or joint life expectancy has been elected, that same method must be used in each year's calculation.)

The preceding example is for informational purposes only. In the second and subsequent years, the calculation is performed differently. Special rules may apply in your case. I recommend you contact a tax professional for further information.

MIDLAND COLLEGE

More than 120 people are enrolled in the first session of Midland College's new College Classics, exclusively for those at least 55, which began Monday. Registrations are being accepted now for College Classics courses that will be offered during Session II, March 13-April 7, and Session III, April 10-May 5.

For just $25 you can take as many classes as you wish during both sessions.

Session II course offerings include Aerobics, Art Appreciation (Western Europe), Caregivers, Computers, Crochet, Defensive Driving, Drawing, Emergency Care, Finding Talents, Golf, Guitar, Image Clinic. Managing the Cost of Health Care, New York Times Best Sellers, Piano, Self Hypnosis for Insomnia and Anxiety, Shared Advertures, Silk Wreaths, Tennis, Theatre, Texas History, and Word Processing.

You register for College Classics by visiting the Continuing Education Office in the Administration Building.

The last regular-season basketball game for the MC Chaparrals is set for 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Chaparral Center. Midland College is hosting Frank Phillips College for that game. If you just can't get enough basketball, Chap Center is the site for the Region One high school girls basketball tournament. Games are slated for 6 and 8 p.m. Friday with the finals at 11 a.m. Saturday.

And the powerful MC tennis teams are playing West Texas State University on the MC courts at 2 p.m. Saturday. The MC men's team is ranked number one among the nation's junior college teams while the women's team is the defending national champion.

The Continuing Education Department offers five classes which start this week. They include Basketweaving: Easter Basket, Financial Planning Seminar, Beginning Lotus 1-2-3 (daytime or evening sessions), Pastels, Real Estate Exam Review, and Certified Professional Secretary Exam-Module 2. Registration is in the Continuing Education Office. Call 685-4518 for more information.

The new art show at McCormick Gallery is very nice, with displays of paintings, drawings, etchings, and mixed media. The show features works by Connie Hudson of Lubbock and Terese Buckley of Midland. Monday Matthew 5:21-48	Thursday Mark 12:28-44
Tuesday Matthew 25:31-46	Friday Luke 10:25-37
	Saturday John 13:31-38

When Abraham Lincoln sat quietly reading a book, it's doubtful that he ever imagined that one day his giant, brooding statue would be a national landmark, and that he would be known throughout the world.

Basically, Lincoln was a simple man, his nature was essentially rugged and rustic as the log cabin in which he was born. His life, from beginning to end, was a hard one, physically, mentally, and spiritually. Yet, throughout the terrible trial, he never lost his faith in God.

Lincoln wasn't "born religious." Faith came to him the hard way, just as everything else did. But once he had found it, his devotion knew no limit. Most of the great men in our country's history have been devoted. Why? Because experience has shown them that no man can go it alone. That we, all of us, need God's guidance.

The place to seek that guidance is in the church or synagogue of your choice.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Charlesworth gives second talk in series

LUBBOCK — James H. Charlesworth, New Testament language and literature professor, will present a lecture at 8 p.m. Thursday at St. John's United Methodist Church, 1501 University Ave.

Charlesworth

Charlesworth is the second program in the 1988-89 "Three Thursday evenings at St. John's" lecture and performance series, offered free of charge.

Charlesworth, an ordained UM minister and scholar, is the author of eight books and over 200 reviews, articles and pamphlets. He earned his doctor of philosophy degree from Duke University and serves as the George L. Collard Professor of New Testament Language and Literature at Princeton Theological Seminary.

His academic appointments include fellowships to Ohio Wesleyan, Duke Divinity School, Edinburgh University and the University at Tubingen. Also, he was the 1988 Lady Davis Visiting Professor at The Hebrew University, Jerusalem.

He is a member of the American Academy of Religion, the Society of Biblical Literature, Leeds University Oriental Society and the International Organization for Septuagint and Cognate Studies.

Charlesworth serves as president of the Foundation on Christian Origins and editorial consultant for the Anchor Bible Dictionary.

In 1981, he was the biblical consultant for the CBS movie, "The Lives of Peter and Paul," and, in 1975, was selected as an Outstanding Educator of America.

The church's series began in 1986. This year's series already has featured church historian Martin Marty and will conclude March 9 with a concert by The Thouvenel String Quartet, resident string quartet of the Midland-Odessa Symphony & Chorale, Inc.

For more information call the church, 1-806-762-0123.

LaHaye to speak at Kelview

The Rev. Tim LaHaye is speaking at Kelview Heights Baptist Church Sunday at 5:45 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.

LaHaye is an author, minister, TV and radio commentator and family life speaker. He and his wife, Beverly, have been married over 40 years; they have four children and seven grandchildren. He earned his doctorate of ministries degree at Western Baptist Seminary, Portland, Ore.

Presently, there are over seven million copies of his 23 books in print which deal with such topics as family life, temperament, sexual adjustment, prophecy and secular humanism.

In 1985, he and his wife, Beverly, who is president of the largest women's organization in America — Concerned Women for America — moved to the nation's capital.

There he produces the daily TV and radio version of "The Capital Report," a Christian conservative commentary on news events that impact on the family, traditional moral values and religious liberty. This report is carried by satellite to over 100 Christian television and 200 radio stations throughout the country.

The Rev. Frank Johnson, pastor of Kelview Heights Baptist Church, located off N. Big Spring at Scharbauer Drive, invites the public to attend.

Video series continues

A five-part video presentation exploring the family and its many aspects is being shown Wednesdays at St. Nicholas Episcopal Church, 2900 Princeton Ave.

Each 50-minute segment starts at 6:30 p.m. The presentation is being preceded by a soup supper prepared by parish members. Cost for the supper is $1 per person. There is no charge for the video presentation.

The series features author, lecturer and family therapist Clayton Barbeau. He speaks of the family in a non-exclusive manner so that singles, seniors and single parents can find value in what he says.

Remaining topics of the "Creating Family" series and the dates they will be shown are Feb. 22, "Creating Family," March 1, "The Male/Female Crisis," March 8 "Teens, Singles and Love vs. Sex," and March 15, "Parents as Role Models."

Barbeau weaves theological and psychological insights with humor to allow his audience to relax and accept the challenges of living a full, human life, according to Fr. Jon Stasney, rector.

Barbeau is the father of eight children and had been married 26 years when his wife, Myra, died suddenly in 1979. He was left to rear four children as a single parent.

He is a licensed Marriage, Family and Child Counselor and does individual and couple counseling in the San Francisco area. He has lectured and held seminars throughout the United States and Canada.

His books include "The Head of the Family," "Delivering the Male," and "Creative Marriage: The Middle Years" which now is in paperback as "Joy of Marriage."

The sessions are open to the public. A nursery and homework room will be provided.

Christian ethics discussed

The Rev. Philip Turner, an Episcopalian priest and a professor of Christian ethics, will speak today at The Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity on sex, money and power.

The address, which will detail the relationship between Christian ethics and those three topics, is free and open to the public.

From 1961 to 1971, Turner served as a missionary in Uganda where he was a tutor at Tucker College and a lecturer at Makere University at Kampala.

Currently, he teaches Christian ethics at the General Theological Seminary in New York City.

The speech will be from 9:30 a.m. until noon today, during the 9 and 11:05 a.m. service Sunday and during the 10 a.m. adult education class at the at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, 1412 W. Illinois Ave.

A nursery is available on both days.

His recent publications include "Divorce: A Christian Perspective," "Sex, Money and Power," "Sexual Ethics and the Attack on Traditional Morality," "Cross Roads are for Meeting" and "Men and Women: Sexual Ethics in a Tumultuous Time."

Lent programs continue

"Lunch Hour Music for Lent" concerts continue Wednesday at 12:05 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church with the Lone Star Brass Quintet presenting a program of music for brass choir.

The performance will last for 30 minutes. Lunch is available for a nominal cost before and after each performance in the church's fellowship hall.

The Lone Star Brass Quintet will be assisted by organist Lester Ackerman. The quintet is the resident brass quintet of the Midland-Odessa Symphony orchestra. Members of the group include David Urschel, French horn; Alan Harvey, tuba; Robb Belcher, trombone; Michael Santorelli, trumpet; and Patrick Tillery, trumpet.

The church is located in downtown Midland at "A" Street and Texas Avenue. Ample parking is provided and childcare in available. All concerts are free and and open to the public.

Pre-marriage workshop set

The Samaritan Counseling Center of West Texas will conduct a premarriage workshop to be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 25.

This is a workshop for couples contemplating or planning to be married.

"It will aid couples in looking at the stages of marrige as well as the common threads that keep marriages together," says a release from the center.

Emphasis will be placed on commitment, communication, concomitant growth, role development and a spiritual value system.

The workshop will be led by the Rev. Norman D. Godfrey, executive director of the center. He is a Presbyterian minister and has specialized in marriage and family therapy for the past twelve years.

Fee for this workshop is $40 per couple. For additional registration information, call 563-4144.

Noon devotions continue

St. Luke's United Methodist Church, 3011 W. Kansas Ave., continues its series of noontime devotional services Wednesday.

Theme for the devotionals is "Rediscovering the Passion of Christ."

The speaker this week will be the Rev. Earl Ball, from St. Mark's United Methodist Church. The text for the service will be Mark 14:32-42.

The worship service is scheduled for 12:20 to 12:50 p.m. in the fellowship lounge with a light lunch available before or after the service.

The west entrance affords easy access to the lounge. The public is invited to attend.

Study group begins

ODESSA — Unity of West Texas is now meeting every Sunday at 810 N. Dixie, Suite 203, from 9:30-10:30 a.m. for a study group session, with a formal service to be held from 10:45-11:45 a.m.

The worship service is being conducted by Sue Miller, a licensed Unity teacher.

"While Unity teachings are based on the Bible, it has no dogmatic statement of faith to which it asks its followers to agree; rather, Unity invites each person to accept what he or she finds helpful in their efforts to lift their consciousness to a higher level," says a release from Unity.

"Unity is the practical application in everyday life of the principles of truth taught and exemplified by Jesus Christ as interpreted in the light of modern-day experience by Unity School of Christianity," the release stated.

Black history observed

St. Paul CME Church, 411 South Lee Street, is observing Black History Month through Feb. 28.

The theme for this year is "The Roll of Afro-American Churches in Economic, Political and Social Development at Home and Abroad." A phase of the theme will be featured at each Sunday morning worship hour. Worship service begins at 10:45 a.m. The public is invited to attend each of these services.

At 3 p.m. Sunday, there will be a Panel Discussion on the theme followed by a tea at the Kerr Center, 410 South Tyler Street.

The church's pastor, the Rev. Clara Reed, invites the public to attend.

Potluck supper planned

Grace Presbyterian Church, 2801 N. Garfield St., is hosting a potluck supper at 6 p.m. March 1.

Following supper, Frank Musick, a missionary working with the Bible Institute of the North, will speak. He is stationed at Garahuns, Brazil.

Visitors are welcome. On Sundays, church school is at 9:30 a.m. and services at 11 a.m.

Revival services today

Revival services will be held at Calvary Assembly of God Church, 908 S. Johnston St., today and Sunday.

Special speakers are The Alley's from Tulsa, Okla.

Service times are 7 p.m. today and Sunday and 10:45 a.m. Sunday.

The church's pastor, Gayle Reeves, invites the public to attend.

New early service begins

First United Methodist Church, Main St. and Ohio, has added an 8:30 a.m. service of worship to its Sunday services.

The service in the chapel will be in addition to the 10:35 a.m. service of worship in the sanctuary each Sunday morning. The early service will be brief, ending at 9:15 a.m., and less formal. The pastor will preach at both services.

The early service will have a special appeal to families with children and youth. Each Sunday there will be a children's time in the chancel with the pastor. Special music will be provided by the youth choir. The Celebration Singers will sing the second and fourth Sunday of each month, with other choirs and groups on the alternate Sundays.

The purpose of the early service is to provide more seating in the 10:35 a.m. service of worship, and to give people a choice of times for worship to better fit their schedules. Sunday school will continue at 9:20 to 10:20 a.m. each Sunday morning in between the two worship services.

The community is invited to attend all services.

Suffrage granted in 1870

All women in the Territory of Utah were granted full suffrage on Feb. 12, 1870.

SMU Choir to present spring concert tour

The Southern Methodist University Choir of Dallas is on its annual spring concert tour and will present a concert at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 25 in the sanctuary of First United Methodist Church, Main Street at Ohio Avenue, downtown.

Pfautsch

Dr. Lloyd Pfautsch, conductor of the SMU Choir, has been director of choral activities at SMU since 1958. He is knownl throughout the country for his manu choral compositions and arrangements as well as for his frequent appearances as a choral clinician and guest conductor.

In 1985, Pfautsch composed an anthem entitled "God is Here" in honor of the centennial celebration of First UMC. In October of 1988, Pfautsch conducted the First UM Chancel Choir in a concert of his music.

The upcoming concert will includel a variety of choral literature.

It will begin with Sir William Walton's "Missa Brevis," a short mass using both Latin and English for the text. A setting of Psalm 51 by Johannes Brahms will follow as an example of this composer's motets.

Concluding the first half of the concert will be a setting of the creation story as found in Genesis. American composer Aaron Copland completed this work for solo voice and chorus in 1947.

The second half of the concert will begin with two settings of poems by William Shakespeare. The first, "Orpheus with his Lute," is by Pfautsch and the next, "Tell Me Where is Fancy Bred" is by Burrill Phillips, another American composer.

Other works on the second half include settings of Walt Whitman's poems by composers Roberts Sanders and Frank Bohnhorst, two unusual works by the Czech composer, Vaclav Nelhybel, and a setting of the text, "Omnis Spiritus Laudet Dominum" by Pfautsch, which was commissioned by the Texas Music Educators Association.

The SMU Choir has made numerous appearances before national and regional music conventions and national Methodist meetings. The group's tour itinerary includes performances in New Mexico and Arizona as well as other appearances in West Texas.

No admission is charged. The public is invited to attend.

Child care will be provided for infants and toddlers.

For more information call the church's music department, 682-3701.

Christian rock group sets Odessa show

ODESSA — David and the Giants, a Christian rock group, will be appearing in concert at Bonham Junior High at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 2.

Members are David Huff, his twin brothers, Rayborn and Clayborn, and Keith Thibodeaux. Thibodeaux, at age 5, played "little" Ricky Ricardo on the "I Love Lucy Show" and then went on to play Opie's best friend Johnny Paul on "The Andy Griffith Show." His stage name was Richard Keith.

The group will be performing songs from its new album, "Strangers to the Night," as well as old favorites such as "I'm a Fanatic," "Highway to Heaven" and "Jesus is the Only Superstar."

Admission is a $3 donation at the door. In addition, a love offering will be taken.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: You will be strongly drawn to people in the arts. Music and the theater hold special allure. A major change in lifestyle is possible. A period of great spiritual enrichment begins in July or August. Do your best to go with the flow this autumn and you should be sitting pretty by your next birthday. Promising career and financial opportunities abound!

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: astronomer Copernicus, Prince Andrew, actor Jeff Daniels, director John Frankenheimer, jazz great Stan Kenton, actors Lee Marvin and Sir Cedric Hardwicke, jockey Eddie Arcaro, actresses Merle Oberon and Justine Bateman, singer Smokey Robinson, author Carson McCullers.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): The time is ripe for changing careers or negotiating a profitable business deal. Your hard work and careful monitoring of routine matters pays off. Romance is disconcerting. Take a wait-and-see approach.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Enjoy this slow-paced Sunday to the fullest. Do things you find relaxing. You have a wonderful opportunity to develop a satisfying romantic relationship. You feel much more content than in the past.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Short trips suit you fine today. You will appreciate a change of scenery, even if it is only for a few hours. Relationships begun this weekend have an excellent chance of lasting.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your popularity could zoom today. Although you may have mixed feelings about a relationship, it will probably exceed your expectations. Take a child along on a special outing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Think before blurting out how you feel. You never know who may be listening. You want a romantic day and you get your wish. A museum visit brings special pleasure. Indulge your sweet tooth.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): It is not words but deeds that impress a young person. Look forward to some happy, romantic experiences. An unusual offer comes your way. You could find that you have a guardian angel!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You will have to cooperate in order to get your way today. Find recreational activities that appeal to children as well as adults. Subject your strong intuition to a test. Keep a promise!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A loved one could undermine your efforts today. Cool off before voicing your frustration. Do not sulk. An outdoorsy organization plays a role in your plans. You seek a more healthful lifestyle.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Anything you do in public today will be observed by many people. Replace bad habits with good ones. Your family life will go through a beneficial transition. Check the state of your finances.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Weigh the facts carefully but also rely on the advice of someone who has helped you make good choices before. A sibling's performance irritates you. Stay silent and you may benefit.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Plan your day so you will have more fun. Imaginative ideas get a warm welcome from other family members. Discover the joys of taking a child to the zoo or park.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You may be too sensitive for your own good. Seek solitude and think about what you want to accomplish this year. Set aside more time to read good books or pursue a hobby.

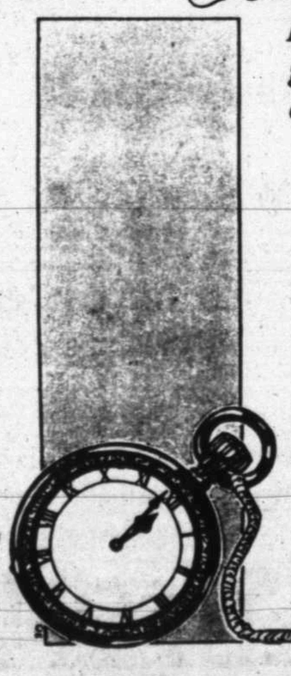
WATCHES



Mr. Sears and Mr. Roebuck got together because of a classified ad!

In the late 1800's, Richard W. Sears had a pretty good business going selling watches and needed someone to handle his watch repairs. He placed a classified ad in the newspaper and Alvah C. Roebuck got the job. That's how the nation's biggest retailer got started... through a classified ad!

O'Toole doesn't think he's changed since he made 'Lawrence of Arabia'

O'Toole

NEW YORK (AP) — Peter O'Toole says he doesn't think he has changed much since "Lawrence of Arabia" made him an overnight star in 1962.

"My hair is a slightly different color," the 56-year-old actor says in an interview in the March 6 issue of Us magazine. "People who haven't seen me for a long time tell me I haven't changed physically.

"And inside I don't feel any different from when I was quite a young fellow."

O'Toole said he has no regrets about the ups and downs in his life, not even his drinking days.

"I wouldn't have missed one drop of alcohol that I drank," he said, noting that most of his drinking buddies — Richard Burton, Peter Finch and Robert Shaw — are dead.

"The risks we took, the life we led. Sadly that's all over," he said. "My health was affected, and there came a point when it was actually more difficult to go on drinking than to give it up."

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — DiMaggio Velasquez had the dream of his young life come true Friday when his hero and namesake Joe DiMaggio walked into his hospital room for a surprise visit.

Velasquez, an 18-year-old cancer patient, had two baseballs at his side at San Francisco General Hospital in hopes the baseball great would sign them.

"He was speechless. His dream had come true," hospital spokeswoman Gloria Rodriguez said of the teen-ager.

"At one point, I asked him how he felt, and he said 'I was mute' and one tear came out of his eye."

A hospital social worker called DiMaggio earlier this week, asking him to visit Velasquez. Rodriquez said hospital officials were certain DiMaggio would make good on his promise to visit but they didn't know when.

"It was mainly Joe bent over signing about three baseballs and many color snapshots of Joe DiMaggio," Rodriquez said of the 20-minute visit.

"All my life people have asked me where I got my first name, and I've always been very proud to tell them, 'From a great man, a wonderful baseball player with the Yankees,'" Velasquez said earlier this week.

The high school senior played baseball and football before his right leg was amputated. He always wore "5" on his jersey, the number worn by the famed New York Yankees outfielder and Hall of Famer.

"To meet him — it is my forever dream," said Velasquez, whose cancer has spread to his lungs and who faces an uncertain future.

Besides the baseballs, Velasquez had baseball cards of the Yankee Clipper, the American League Most Valuable Player in 1939, 1941 and 1947, who played in 10 World Series and hit safely in 56 consecutive games in 1941.

When the hospital social worker called DiMaggio, he was at first worried about how she located his unpublished San Francisco number.

But he softened when the social worker told him Velasquez always wore his number and that the amputation prevented him from playing ball.

Velasquez, a native of Nicaragua, learned he had bone cancer after he broke a hip during football practice at Mission High School in San Francisco. Chemotherapy caused his hair to fall out, and he keeps a wig to wear when any of his female friends come to visit.

His mother, Ernestina Velasquez gave her son the baseball player's name at the urging of his uncle, who once traveled from Nicaragua to see DiMaggio play ball for the Yankees.

Velasquez's 20-year-old brother, Bismarck, said his mother named him fo: the World War II battleship because she liked the expression "Sink the Bismarck" when she heard it in a movie.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Grand Ole Opry star Porter Wagoner donned a cap and gown instead of his trademark rhinestone outfits for an appearance this week.

Wagoner, Dolly Parton's former duet partner, was guest speaker Wednesday at a ceremony for 21 graduates of the McGavock High School general education development degree program for people who have dropped out of school.

"I told them that it was such a great compliment to themselves that they had the internal discipline to go back and get their diploma after they were already in the workplace," Wagoner said Thursday.

"I wore a cap and gown and it was a really exciting thing for me to do," he said.

Koch

NEW YORK (AP) — The Big Apple's Mayor Ed Koch loves to talk and his voice is rarely drowned out, but in some cases he just isn't loud enough.

The city Sanitation Department has been using a recording of the mayor on its trucks to get motorists to move illegally parked cars, but says the tape just didn't have enough volume.

So it was adjusted in a sound studio and now booms loudly enough to summon even drivers who are in a store.

"This is Ed Koch, your mayor," the recording bellows. "You know the Sanitation Department can't sweep the street if you don't move your illegally parked car. "Puh-leeze! Get it out of here!"

NEW YORK (AP) — Cab Calloway, just out of the hospital after treatment for complications from abdominal surgery, has developed a new course of therapy: the race course.

Calloway, the 81-year-old big-band leader who popularized the song "Minnie the Moocher," stayed home a few days upon his release from White Plains Hospital, but his long-time love — the racetrack — beckoned.

"He got up early this morning, put a copy of the Racing Form under his arm, took his little bag of medicine, grabbed his binoculars, got in his car and drove to Aqueduct," his wife, Nuffie, told the Daily News.

"It's like the mail going through. Nothing keeps Cab away from the horses. He may be pushing it a bit but I think it's good for him. Anyway, how are the horses going to run without him?"

DALLAS (AP) — Westward Communications announced Friday the acquisition of two more Colorado newspapers, bringing the number of its newspapers in Colorado to five and its total newspaper purchases in the past 2½ years to 23.

Westward, a Dallas-based company that already owns the Douglas County News-Press and two smaller papers in Douglas and Elbert counties, bought the Ute Pass Courier and the Cripple Creek Gold Rush, both in Teller County.

"This gives us a dominant presence in three Colorado counties," said Will Jarrett, president of Westward and a former editor of The Denver Post and the Dallas Times Herald.

Defendant given probation in gang rape trial

EDINBURG (AP) — A 26-year-old man is guilty of sexual assault in the gang rape of a San Diego woman, but will serve no prison time, a jury decided Friday night.

Roberto Perez smiled and embraced emotional family members after receiving a two-year suspended sentence and five years' probation with no fine shortly after 10 p.m.

Perez could have received a two- to 20-year sentence sentence and a fine up to $10,000.

Defense attorney Homero Canales said, "I am happy with the sentence, and I think the jury gave us a trial like they told us they would."

The case was moved to Hidalgo County after the defense complained of excessive publicity in Duvall County, where the incident occurred.

Prosecutors, who sought prison time for Perez, said they did not know what message the probation would send to the remaining defendants.

The jury deliberated about 3½ hours before returning the verdict shortly before 9 p.m. Judge Ricardo Garcia of the 229th Judicial District gave the jury the option of returning today to assess punishment, but the jurors chose to remain Friday night.

Attorneys for both sides made closing arguments Friday afternoon.

"Are we supposed to believe that the girl enjoyed it and gave him a token of her appreciation?" asked district attorney Heriberto Silva, during his closing argument to the jury.

But Canales argued, "She had sex with those men and the only thing she could do was holler 'rape'...and that's what she did."

Perez testified Friday he arrived at a ranch near San Diego with five others including three juveniles about 1 a.m. the March night the alleged attack took place. He said he saw the female victim sitting on the hood of a car.

Shortly thereafter, Perez said, he and the 20-year-old woman began making advances at each other.

"We started talking and getting to know each other," he said, adding that they began kissing and had oral sex.

He said he later asked girl to leave with him, and she agreed. They left with a carload of five other people, Perez testified.

After dropping off three of them, Perez said the group went toward dirt road outside of town, where Perez, Alejandro Bear and Roberto Garcia had sex with the woman on the trunk of the car.

Perez said he later dropped off Bear and Garcia, and he and the woman went to another spot, where they had sex two more times. The defendant said the woman consented to all of the sexual acts.

As they drove around later, Perez said, he noticed a car following them and the woman told him it was her husband.

"She ducked down on the floor," Perez said. "I didn't know what to do, so I started going fast to try and lose the car, and I did."

The woman testified last week that Perez sexually assaulted her at the ranch and then at two other locations.

She has told authorities she was abducted while walking home and taken to a ranch north of town and was raped and sodomized repeatedly there and at two other locations by as many as 20 men.

Perez is one of 10 men and a 14-year-old boy who were indicted last April on charges ranging from kidnapping to aggravated kidnapping to sexual assault.

Chemical plant may soon become fertlizer company

ODESSA (AP) — Permian Chemical Co. Inc., in bankruptcy court proceedings for a year and plagued with air and water pollution citations, will get a new lease on life as a fertilizer company.

A San Antonio bankruptcy judge Thursday granted permission for the prinicipal lender of Permian Chemical Co. Inc., Chrysler Capital Corp., to foreclose its security interest on the property.

Fresno, Calif.-based Moyer Products Inc. then is expected to take over operations of the plant, which could put up to 50 people to work, possibly by summer, Jim Lindley, president of Moyer, said Friday.

Moyer will move in after a foreclosure sale March 7 at the Ector County Courthouse.

Lindley said he hopes the now-vacant Permian Chemical will become a fertilizer company.

Lindley said the rusting plant, which closed in August 1987, is "a mess" that probably would cost more than $2 million to bring into compliance with environmental standards. Moyer has agreed to bring the plant into compliance.

State officials have claimed more than 2,500 air standards violations against the company, which opened in 1979 and filed in 1987 for reorganization under Chapter 14 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code.

The Texas Water Commission cited Permian Chemical in February 1987 and fined the company $19,200 for groundwater contamination. A TWC official said groundwater chloride contamination remains near the plant.

Earlier TWC tests on Permian Chemical's wastewater also showed toxic levels of chromium and lead and elevated levels of cadmium, barium, mercury and silver, according to TWC reports.

Lindley said Moyer will provide money to operate the plant after renovations are undertaken by Chrysler Capital Corp.

"I feel good about it because I think it will be good for all of us," he said.

BEE SMART

The Reporter-Telegram will sponsor the 1989 Regional Spelling Bee April 15 at Midland College.

School spelling champions from Midland, Martin, Glasscock and Upton counties will compete for the top prize of an all-expenses-paid trip to the National Spelling Bee in Washington, D.C.

This daily column on words, their spellings, meanings and origins will be published through April 14. These words are typical of those used in bees but may not necessarily be used in competition.

kou'ard-le

cowardly — (adj.) Being "cowardly" is acting in a manner that shows ignoble fear. We've all heard of the expression, "he ran away with his tail between his legs." Although humans do not have tails, it is an expression depicting someone acting "cowardly" or afraid. "Coward" can be traced to the Latin word "cauda," meaning "tail." Eventually, the French adopted the word and called it "coue" or "coe," from which evolved their word for "coward." Looking at the history of the word , it is clear one "who turns tail and runs away" is "cowardly."

Iran president says apology could save author's life

Associated Press

Iran's president said Friday that Salman Rushdie, author of "The Satanic Verses," might save his life with an apology. An Iranian envoy said Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's call for the writer's death was "purely a religious statement."

"This wretched man (Rushdie) has no choice but to die because he has confronted a billion Moslems and the imam (Khomeini)," Iranian president Ali Khamenei said at prayers in Tehran.

"Of course, he may repent and say, 'I made a blunder' and apologize to Moslems and the imam. Then it is possible that the people may pardon him," Khamenei said.

Akhoond Zadeh Basti, Iran's charge d'affaires in London, said: "If the purely religious-based opinion of a religious head is going to be interpreted politically, it is very unfortunate.

"We think we have to make a line between the religious beliefs of the people and their political activities," Basti said in an interview with British Broadcasting Corp. television.

Khomeini, Iran's spiritual leader, said Tuesday that Rushdie's novel slanders Islam and ordered Moslems to track down and kill the author, an Indian-born British citizen.

Some diplomats in the Middle East have speculated that the Rushdie issue was promoted by factions in Iran opposed to recent moves by more pragmatic figures to improve relations with the West.

Reports on official Tehran Radio suggested an attempt to set apart the furor over Rushdie from Iran's recently improved relations with Britain.

The radio quoted Nicholas Browne, Britain's charge d'affaires in Tehran, as telling Javad Larijani, Iran's deputy foreign minister for European and American affairs, that the British government had no role in writing, publishing or distributing the book.

"The British government has complete respect for all the religions of the world and Moslems, and has no intention of supporting an insult to Islam," Tehran Radio quoted him as saying.

Outcry over Khomeini's statement continued Friday as the governments of West Germany and Spain condemned the Iranian campaign, and Italy's Foreign Ministry said the death threats had aroused concern and worry.

Publishers in France, West Germany, Greece and Turkey, however, said they decided not to publish the book, and the Greek publishers said they would postpone its release out of fear for their lives. Others in Finland, Norway and Italy were unswayed.

Six people were killed this week in an anti-Rushdie demonstration in Islamabad. At a demonstration in the northern Indian city of Srinagar, where one person was killed in a similar protest this week, 75 people were injured Friday in a clash between police and anti-Rushdie protesters, officials said.

Basti said in an interview with Britain's Channel Four Independent Television News:

"I said to the Foreign Office yesterday that this opinion does not imply any political gesture by Iran, nor does it imply any interference in internal affairs of your country, which we have diplomacy with. It is purely a religious statement."

The book's publishers, Viking, said this week that it and the author "very much regret the distress the book has caused." Viking did not apologize for publishing the book.

British officials said Friday that threats against airliners, made in India by callers claiming to represent the Iranian Guards, were being taken "very seriously indeed." British Airways ordered searches of every bag put aboard its flights to India and the Far East.

On Friday, an Iranian news agency report, monitored in Nicosia, said tens of thousands of high school students marched through the center of Tehran shouting anti-British slogans.

People demonstrated throughout Pakistan, and in Dhaka, Bangladesh, 1,000 protesters marched through the city chanting "Set fire to the U.S. Mission!" and "Hang Salman Rushdie!"

West Germany, which is Iran's biggest trading partner, expressed consternation with the campaign against Rushdie and recalled its charge d'affaires from Tehran.

The Spanish Foreign Ministry said it "considers unacceptable the incitement to violence on the part of Iranian authorities against the British citizen Salman Rushdie."

Kuwait's foreign undersecretary, Suleiman Majed Shaheen, rejected Iran's call for an emergency session of the Islamic Conference organization, saying the book "did not deserve all this fuss."

Finland's foreign trade minister, Pertti Salolainen, said he might call off a trip to Iran that he had planned for next month.

In Canada, the government halted imports of the book until it could review a complaint by a Moslem group that "The Satanic Verses" violated the nation's law against "hate propaganda."

Moslems condemned the book when it was published late last year to critical acclaim in the West. The more recent protests began Sunday with demonstrations in Pakistan.

After Khomeini ordered Rushdie's death, Iranian religious leaders offered a bounty of $5.2 million.

Rushdie and his family were hiding Friday under the protection of Scotland Yard. His book, meanwhile, has been enjoying booming sales in Britain and the United States.

Moslems say "The Satanic Verses" blasphemes their religion by, among other things, portraying the prophet Mohammed's wives as prostitutes and suggesting that he wrote the Koran, the holy book of Islam, rather than receiving it from God.

Rushdie has said the novel is fictional and not blasphemous.

Ex-official arrested in stock scandal

TOKYO (AP) — Prosecutors arrested a former Labor Ministry official and searched ministry offices Friday in an insider stock-trading scandal that has embarrassed the highest levels of government and business.

Opposition parties increased their demands that former Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone appear for questioning in Parliament about his role in the scandal involving the Recruit Co. conglomerate, which began last summer.

Shigeru Kano, 55, former head of the Labor Ministry's employment service division, became the eighth scandal suspect, and first public official, taken into custody.

Prosecutors and Justice Ministry officials accused Kano of influencing the Labor Ministry decision to ease restrictions on publication of employment information, which benefitted Recruit.

The company gets more than 60 percent of its income from publishing employment-related information.

Recruit officials spent $10,000 to entertain Kano in return for his help in easing the restrictions, the Justice Ministry said. Kano resigned from the Labor Ministry in January and has been questioned several times.

Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita's reputation has been seriously damaged by the scandal, in which unlisted shares of the Recruit-Cosmos real estate company were offered to more than 150 prominent politicians, bureaucrats and businessmen.

They sold at a much higher price when the stock went on the market in October 1986, raising questions of bribery and favoritism.

After Kano's arrest, 15 investigators from the prosecutor's office raided the main building of the Labor Ministry and nine other facilities in a search for evidence.

Prosecutors also searched the home of Naotaka Ida, president of Recruit, who apparently is suspected of bribing Kano, but lawyers said the statute of limitations may have expired for those who offered bribes.

Hiroshi Itakura, a law professor at Nihon University, said the limit is five years for those who take bribes and three years for those who give them. Prosecutors have not indicated when Kano allegedly was bribed.

Takeshita said in Parliament the Labor Ministry raid was "a very serious matter."

He has lost three members of his Cabinet to the scandal, including Finance Minister Kiichi Miyazawa, and his governing Liberal Democrats lost a by-election last Sunday to the main opposition, the Japan Socialist Party.

Minister orders release of 8 detainees

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The minister of law and order signed release orders Friday for eight people detained without charge, and most detainees who had been on a hunger strike resumed eating after promises of more releases.

More than 100 detainees were still fasting, attorneys said.

The minister, Adriaan Vlok, said at least 884 people were in detention without charge as of Jan. 9. He did not say how many are still being held.

Monitoring groups have said more than 30,000 people have been held for varying periods without being charged since a national state of emergency began June 12, 1986.

In response to a hunger strike by about detainees throughout the country, Vlok freed about 30 people this week and promised a substantial number will be freed in the next two weeks.

In response, 105 detainees at St. Albans prison in Port Elizabeth said Friday they were suspending their hunger strike. On Thursday, 170 people at the Diepkloof prison in Johannesburg, where the hunger strike began Jan. 23, resumed eating.

More than 20 strikers have been hospitalized from the effects of fasting.

Spokesmen for the Detainees Aid Center in Johannesburg said four people were still on strike at Modderbee Prison near Pretoria. Police in East London said some of the estimated 33 detainees at the Fort Glamorgan prison were on strike. Attorneys for those detainees have not met with Vlok.

Attorneys in Durban said 112 detainees had gone on a hunger strike Sunday at Westville Prison and had not resumed eating.

Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu, one of a group of clergymen who met with Vlok on Thursday, said in a newspaper interview Vlok deserved credit for "genuinely trying," but that the church delegation had not "minced words" in telling him detention without trial must be scrapped.

Prominent anti-apartheid detainees, including some who have been hospitalized from the effects of the hunger strike, were among those freed Friday while attorneys continued discussions with Vlok.

Trevor Manuel, 32, the regional director of the United Democratic Front in the Cape Town area, was freed from Pollsmoor Prison. Manuel had not been on strike.

He had been detained since October, and before that had been detained from August 1986 through July 1988. When Manuel was freed in July he was banned from participating in any activities of the now-banned UDF and was barred from talking to journalists or criticizing the government.

His attorneys said they did not know if restrictions were placed on Manuel when he was freed Friday.

Vlok had said some of the detainees being released would be restricted, although none has been charged with a crime.

Also Friday, police said five hand grenades were tossed at a group of black police officers, killing one and injuring nine. Police said the attack occurred Thursday night in Kathlehong, a black township east of Johannesburg.

No one claimed responsibility, but police have blamed the African National Congress guerrilla movement for virtually all attacks on black officers, who are viewed by many black activists as collaborators with the white government.

The government banned two anti-apartheid publications for three months after accusing them of repeatedly publishing subversive material.

The publications, based in Cape Town and affiliated with each other, are Grassroots, a monthly tabloid newspaper, and New Era, a quarterly magazine.

Gorbachev personally asks Bush to help bring peace to Afghanistan

MOSCOW (AP) — President Mikhail S. Gorbachev has appealed personally to President Bush to help bring peace to Afghanistan now that the Red Army has withdrawn, a top Kremlin diplomat said Friday.

Both the diplomat and a Soviet general acknowleged at a news conference that the Soviets are worried about continued bloodshed in Afghanistan, but rejected parallels between their pullout and the 1973 withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam.

"The Americans simply fled and abandoned everything when they left Vietnam," said Gen. Valentin I. Varennikov, deputy defense minister and chief of Soviet ground forces. "We did not abandon anything. We were not in a rush."

Alexander A. Bessmertnykh, Soviet first deputy foreign minister, said an "individual message" from Gorbachev to Bush seeks U.S. backing for Kremlin suggestions on how to achieve a political settlement in Afghanistan, including a halt in arms supplies to the U.S.-backed insurgents and the establishment of a broader-based government.

"We are proposing that we assist in a cease-fire," said Bessmertnykh, referring to the joint superpower action sought by Gorbachev. "We consider that the United States and the Soviet Union can always play a positive role."

In what appeared to be a wide-ranging Kremlin effort to prevent the violent overthrow of the pro-Moscow government of President Najib, the Soviets also sent messages to France, Britain, West Germany and Italy asking them to give humanitarian and economic assistance to Afghanistan, Bessmertnykh said.

Messages also were sent to China, Iran and Pakistan, which have given weapons and other support to the guerrillas.

Western diplomats and the insurgents have predicted Najib's government will fall soon now that the Soviets are gone. The last of the Red Army's 115,000 soldiers that had been stationed there returned home Wednesday.

Bessmertnykh said the withdrawal had created an "extraordinary opportunity" to end Afghanistan's nearly 11-year-old civil war, sparked by the April 1978 coup in which the Marxist People's Democratic Party of Afghanistan seized power. The Soviets sent tanks and troops in the following year.

"We believe all countries should respond to the emerging opportunity to put an end to the drawn-out conflict by promoting the complete and fast settlement of the situation and the reinstatement of Afghanistan as a prosperous, strong, independent, neutral and non-aligned nation," Bessmertnykh said.

The message to Bush from Gorbachev was delivered to the White House on Friday by Soviet Ambassador Yuri Dubinin, said Bush press secretary Marlin Fitzwater. Bush, who was in St. Louis at the time, did not have a chance to read the full letter, Fitzwater said.

Fitzwater said the message from Gorbachev "generally repeats their public position."

Fitzwater said he did not want to be more specific about the contents, although he noted the Soviet message did reiterate "their public positions about ending support for the rebels."

"We don't have a detailed response. We just received the letter. But our concerns remain the same," Fitzwater said.

"We'll continue to supply the (guerrillas) so long as (the Soviets) supply the Kabul government, and if you have stockpiling there that in effect amounts to continuous supply, our policy is to provide the same."

But a senior official on Secretary of State James A. Baker's plane said U.S. weapons shipments to the guerrillas will continue even if the Soviet Union ceased its support for the Kabul government.

"As long as the mujahedeen are fighting for the right of self-determination, we should assist that effort," the official said.

Bush said Thursday he hoped the pullout would ensure "no more bloodbaths" in Afghanistan, but rejected a Kremlin call for an immediate cease-fire and an arms embargo.

He said he could not endorse those measures because he was concerned that the retreating Soviets might have left behind a "tremendous amount" of weapons and ammunition for their Afghan allies.

Steps To Using Green Light Betasan

Green Light Betasan provides pre-emergence weed control of crabgrass, annual bluegrass, poa annua and other listed annual plants in established lawns. It kills seeds as they germinate so the lawn will be weed free. Do not use if the lawn has been or is being seeded.

Green Light Betasan is recommended for use on home lawns, ornamental plants and ground covers.

1. Pour Green Light Betasan into a fertilizer spreader and apply at the rate of 5 to 8 lbs. per 800 sq. ft.

2. Apply in Spring and Fall for year round weed control. A 20 lb. bag will cover up to 4,100 sq. ft.

Check with our Texas Certified Nursery Persons for all your questions and needs regarding weed control.
