Although they have waited for years to attain it, may Scurry Countians probably find it difficult to believe that their own community college will open its first term in just one month.

In contrast to the many years of work which were required to approve the college, things have moved rapidly in the two years since the petitions were circulated leading to the final vote. Once the election was held on Nov. 22, 1969, it sounded fine when the board of trustees reaffirmed intentions to have a college in operation by the fall of 1971, but many undoubtedly thought that it likely would be necessary to revise the schedule.

Now they are actually enrolling students out there at the temporary offices of the college, and despite the fact that the first building project on the campus will not be completed, classes definitely are going to begin on schedule.

College officials have been encouraged over the enrollment prospects after the first week of pre-enrollment activity. This is the first indication of actual interest of students and it provides the college administration with its first figures of any kind.

Interest outside of Scurry County has been surprising during the pre-registration, as well as during the public tours of the campus a week ago. It is definite now that a substantial number of students will be coming in, although student housing will be a problem at the outset.

The first class at the college, of course, will be privileged to make history in several areas. The selection of a nickname for school athletic teams and of school colors will be at the top of the docket, and plans already are underway for the students to vote on these items. The board several months ago expressed a desire that students themselves make these selections.

Clippings from the Austin American about Bill Greif's major league baseball debut last Monday night for the Houston Astros have been forwarded here by Dick Roberts, and they relate that the public address announcer in the Astrodome had decided by the fourth inning that Greif might have Hall of Fame possibilities. Greif was lifted in the seventh inning with the score tied at 2-2, and the Astros went on to win it, 3-2, in the 11th inning. Denny Lemaster was his relief, and the Austin writer immediately recalled that Lemaster had pitched for the Austin Senators in 1960 and speculated that a 10-year-old Bill Greif might have watched him. No so, however, since at the age of 10, Greif was beginning his Little League career right here in Snyder. — WACIL McNAIR.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Sunday, July 25, the 206th day of 1971. There are 159 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1963, the United States, the Soviet Union and Great Britain signed a treaty prohibiting nuclear testing in the atmosphere, in space and under water.

On this date:

In 1799, Napoleon Bonaparte defeated the Turks in a battle in Egypt.

In 1894, a war began between China and Japan. A treaty the next year gave Formosa to Japan.

In 1934, Austria's chancellor was assassinated by Nazis as Adolf Hitler staged an unsuccessful attempt to take over Austria.

In 1943, during World War II, Benito Mussolini was forced to resign as Italian premier.

In 1952, Puerto Rico became a self-governing commonwealth of the United States.

In 1956, the Italian liner Andrea Doria and the Swedish ship Stockholm collided and the Andrea Doria sank. Fifty lives were lost.

Ten years ago: President John F. Kennedy told the nation the Soviet Union posed a serious threat and called for a huge U.S. military buildup.

Five years ago: The British House of Commons voted in favor of a bill to nationalize Britain's steel industry.

One year ago: Israel and Arab states were studying a U.S. proposal for Middle East peace.

"Free" Astronauts Busy

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 15 astronauts streaked over south and central Florida in T38 jet planes today to sharpen their flying skills just two days before they are to blast off for the moon.

David R. Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred Worden drove their red, white and blue sports cars to nearby Patrick Air Force Base to board separate planes for the flying proficiency spins.

At the launch pad, the countdown was right on schedule for Monday's launching at 9:34 a.m. EDT.

"Everything is going real smooth, even the weather outlook is good," said James Harrington, Apollo 15 test supervisor.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the astronauts completed all training activities Friday and that they were free this weekend to do as they please. The only qualification was medical isolation that confines them to three areas at Cape Kennedy and the flight area at Patrick and restricts their contacts with other persons.

But Scott, Irwin and Worden are active men. And it was expected they would be busy.

Irwin was up early today for a fast set of tennis with one of the Apollo 15 backup astronauts, Harrison Schmitt.

NASA said the spaceship simulators were being kept on standby for any final practice runs the crew might want to take.

TV Schedule For Apollo 15

SPANCE CENTER, Houston, (AP) — Television viewers following the flight of Apollo 15 will see mountains, valleys and craters on the moon, with added attractions such as a space walk and the sight of a spacecraft rocketing off the lunar surface.

Two television cameras will be aboard the Apollo 15 spacecraft. One will remain on the command ship for interior views and for the space walk. The other be on the lunar surface and will be remotely operated by mission control.

Here is the television space schedule for Apollo 15—all times EDT:

Monday, July 26—12:50-1:15 p.m. Command module docking with lunar module.

Tuesday, July 27—7:20 to 8:05 p.m.—Astronauts transferring to lunar module.

Friday, July 30—10:22 to 10:36 a.m.-View of the Apollo 15 moon landing site.

Saturday, July 31—9:34 a.m. to about 3:14 p.m.—Lunar surface excursion. The camera will be turned off periodically as the astronauts drive the lunar rover car from one point to another.

Sunday, Aug. 1—7:09 a.m. to 1:34 p.m.—The second lunar surface excursion, again with the camera turned off from time to time.

Monday, Aug. 2—3:49 to 9:34 a.m.—The third lunar surface excursion. The camera will be left on the surface, focused on the lunar module.

Monday, Aug. 2—1:04 to 1:34 p.m.—Lunar module is launched off the moon's surface. This is the first time this type of launch has been witnessed.

Monday, Aug. 2—2:37 to 2:43 p.m.—Lunar module rendezvous with command ship by the camera on the command module.

Monday, Aug. 2—3 to 3:05 p.m.—Lunar module docks with command ship.

Thursday, Aug. 5—11:44 a.m. to 12:14 p.m.—Space walk by Astronaut Alfred M. Worden. His crewmates, David R. Scott and James B. Irwin, will operate the television camera while Worden goes outside the spacecraft to retrieve film from the science camera in the service module and take it back of the command module.

Friday, Aug. 6—4 to 4:30 p.m.—News conference from space. Astronauts will answer questions from newsmen and relayed by mission control.

Also possible on Aug. 6, is a televised solar eclipse using the camera left on the moon.

There will be more than 22 hours of television beamed to earth from space during the 12 day mission.

Week's Rains Benefit Area

Snyder got nearly an inch of rain during the past week, as virtually all parts of Scurry County received new moisture from thundershowers.

Areas to the northwest and to the southeast got heavy showers on Monday, with the rainfall ranging up to 2.50 inches to 3 inches in the Fluvanna and Hermleigh areas. On Thursday and Friday, heaviest rains were to the west of Snyder, although they formed an erratic pattern.

Snyder had an official total of .98 inch for the week, receiving .78 inch in the Thursday and Friday showers, following .20 inch on Monday.

Lake J. B. Thomas gained over half a foot from the Thursday and Friday rains. Some heavy showers in Borden County stimulated a light flow down the Colorado River. The river had increased the lake's elevation by .58 foot Saturday morning, and was still flowing a small stream into the lake.

Tolbert New Liberia Chief

LONDON (AP) — William Richard Tolbert, the new president of Liberia, is a 58-year-old career politician and a pillar of the Baptist church.

As vice president, Tolbert automatically succeeded to the presidency Friday on the death in London of President William V.S. Tubman.

Tolbert had been vice president since 1951 and was three times re-elected as Tubman's running mate. The elections were a formality, since they were the only candidates and Tubman's True Whig party is Liberia's only political group.

Throughout his career Tolbert was a loyal protege of the late president. At his inauguration Friday Tolbert said: "We are like lost sheep without a shepherd."

Two Iniured In Highway Mishap

Two people received injuries at 7:25 a. m. Saturday in a two-car accident about a mile east of Snyder on U. S. Highway 84.

Mrs. A. J. O'Neal of Route 2, Snyder, who was driving a 1969 Chevrolet, was taken to Root Memorial Hospital in Colorado City by Snyder Ambulance Service.

Charles Jackson Shepherd, Lubbock, a passenger in the other vehicle, a 1969 Cadillac, was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Snyder Ambulance service. He made arrangements to be transferred by private automobile to a Lubbock hospital.

2-Road Strike Ties Up Trains

By ROBERT CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A strike called today against two of the nation's largest railroads after night-long talks proved unsuccessful, slowed or stopped trains across the nation's midsection.

A spokesman for the Norfolk & Western Railroad said one of its trains was left sitting on the tracks about 20 miles outside of Toledo, Ohio, when members of the United Transportation Union walked off the job at 6 a.m.

The UTU also struck the Southern Pacific, where a company spokesman said supervisory personnel will man freight trains for about 24 hours.

Picketing was reported in California, Arizona, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, West Virginia, Ohio and Virginia.

While effects of the strike appeared negligible for the moment, the walkout could affect coal mines in Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky and steel plants in Indiana early next week.

More than 100 coal mines will have to close, idling about 16,000 miners, because of a shortage in coal cars if the strike continues through Tuesday.

The N&W also supplies much of the coal used by the steel industry in Indiana.

On Monday, about 11,500 rail commuters in the San Francisco Bay area would be affected.

Negotiators meeting in Washington recessed talks about 4:30 a.m. EDT today. A spokesman said it was possible that negotiations would be resumed this afternoon.

The predawn talks were described as a "gruelling session that didn't quite make it" by an aide to Assistant Secretary of Labor W.J. Usery.

Usery and George Ives, chairman of the National Mediation Board are attempting to mediate the dispute, stalemated over work-rule changes. The carriers say the changes are needed, while the union says they would eliminate jobs and cut earnings.

The union struck the Southern Railway and Union Pacific last Friday.

Agnew Visits In Morocco

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

SOTOGRANDE, Spain (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew left his Mediterranean vacation hideaway today and flew to Morocco in a U.S. display of support for King Hassan, who survived a coup against his regime two weeks ago.

Agnew's visit to Morocco, 10th stop on his 11-nation global diplomatic mission, was shortened to one day earlier this week, apparently for security reasons.

The vice president went by helicopter at midmorning from this exclusive golf resort near Gibraltar to Malaga, where he departed in Air Force Two for Rabat.

Agnew's schedule in Rabat included a luncheon and meeting with Hassan at his palace—scene of the aborted coup—and a dinner this evening in the King's honor at the U.S. Embassy. Hassan is considered a good friend of the United States.

The vice president returns here Sunday for a final day in the Mediterranean sun before he flies Monday to Lisbon, Portugal, for a two-day visit. Agnew goes back to Washington on Wednesday.

Rites Set For Mrs. Snelgrove

Mrs. Dolly Dimple Snelgrove, 53, who lived at 2811 Avenue N, died at 5:20 p. m. Friday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Funeral service has been set for 2 p. m. Sunday at Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel. The Rev. George Shoff, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church where Mrs. Snelgrove was a member, will officiate. Burial will be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale.

Mrs. Snelgrove is survived by her husband, Otis Snelgrove; four daughters, Mrs. Floyd Thomason, Mrs. Bettie Nix, Mrs. Peggy Kenner and Miss Carol Ann Snelgrove, all of Snyder; three sons, George and Johnny Wortham, both of Snyder, and Sammy Snelgrove of Snyder; two sisters, Mrs. Virgil Leatherwood and Mrs. John A. Morgan, both of Snyder; a brother, John D. Wortham of Snyder; 12 grandchildren.

IN VEE TESTING

Western Strain Is Discovered

HOUSTON (AP) — A fresh complication arose today as vaccination of horses against Venezuelan equine encephalomylitis (VEE) proceeded in Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

Although the disease apparently has been confined to South Texas, officials said Friday that 22 cases of Western equine encephalomyelitis also have been discovered.

"The confirmations were made during laboratory tests of blood from animals being checked for the VEE strain," said John Arnold of the emergency task force sent here by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

So far, Arnold said, 1,212 horses have died in Texas since the VEE strain crossed the Rio Grande from Mexico about June 29, but all of the confirmed VEE cases have been in nine South Texas counties.

He said 1,778 sick horses also have been reported.

The Texas Animal Health Commission in Austin made public slightly higher figures Friday, saying it had counted 1,269 dead horses and another 1,800 ailing.

Arnold said there was one suspected case in Oklahoma's Cimarron County but none has been confirmed in Louisiana and Arkansas. He said a suspect situation in New Mexico was pronounced negative after lab tests.

Vaccination programs began Friday in Arkansas, New Mexico and Louisiana, two days after the start in Oklahoma.

Arnold said 80 per cent of all horses in the Texas coastal area have been vaccinated.

Discovery of the Western strain of the disease should complicate the reporting of VEE outbreaks, government officials said, but the disease itself is not believed to be serious.

Both Eastern and Western strains of the disease have been present in the United States for nearly a quarter century and there are effective vaccines for them.

Dr. Fred Maurer of Texas A&M University's college of veterinary medicine said the VEE mortality rate is believed to be about 70 to 80 per cent while that for Eastern and Western varieties is "considerably lower."

"Also, many horse owners have their animals vaccinated against the Eastern and Western strains," he said.

Passage Urged On Rescue Bills

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today urged swift passage of legislation to rescue ailing businesses like the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. as the administration denied a rift among top officials over two identical bills before the House and Senate.

In a statement released at the White House and read on the Senate floor during an unusual Saturday session, Nixon urged Congress to act "with all deliberate speed" on measures to establish a three-man government loan guarantee board.

Although the legislation would give the proposed board authority to dole out $2 billion in federal loan guarantees to all big business in trouble, its chief aim is to save Lockheed from bankruptcy.

The President urged Congress to enact the legislation before it takes its month-long summer recess Aug. 6. Lockheed says it will go broke in August or September without government help in completing its L1011 TriStar airbus program.

At the same time Nixon's statement was released, the Pentagon put out a statement by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird branding "erroneous" reports that he and his deputy, David Packard do not support the rescue bills.

"The Department of Defense supports the legislation and believes it is the best interests of the country," Laird said.

"That should wipe out 20 pages of yesterday's Congressional Record," declared Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., who read both the President's and Laird's statements on the floor.

At a news conference Friday, Laird said he supported earlier statements by Packard who had been lukewarm toward aid for Lockheed and opposed to bailing out all big businesses.

In congressional testimony censored before he could deliver it last week, Packard said the bill would benefit big defense contractors who have huge cost overruns just at a time when the Pentagon is trying to crack down on them.

But Laird said news reports saying he and Packard are opposed to the bills were "unfair to Mr. Packard, to the Congress and to other interested parties."

Godmother prospect gets turned off

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: How can a person tell a friend that she doesn't want to be the godmother of a child who is due to be born in a few months?

At first I was flattered when asked, but over the months I have been told what I, as a godparent, am expected to give my godchild, materially. It has been suggested that I start a bank account when the child is born and to add to it constantly until the child is ready for college. Also, I've been told that the godparent remembers his godchild on all gift-giving occasions such as birthdays, Easter, Christmas, etc.

All of this I would have probably done on my own, but to be told I must do so, rubs me the wrong way.

I have already gone overboard with gifts and favors for the parents and would probably have done so for their child, but I don't want to be taken advantage of. So, how do I get out of being a godparent without causing hard feelings?

RELUCTANT GODMOTHER

DEAR RELUCTANT: I can't guarantee that there will be no "hard feelings," but if you want to "get out of it," don't offer any "excuses" to justify your change of heart. Simply state that you have decided against accepting the "honor." [P. S. You sound like a big-hearted "softie" to me.]

DEAR ABBY: Our son has confessed to us that last summer he went to a public health physician and was treated for venereal disease. The boy was only 15 at the time! The doctor who treated our son assured the boy that he would not tell his parents.

I think parents have a right to know what is going on with their minor children. Can we sue this doctor?

PARENTS OF A MINOR

DEAR PARENTS: Sue him? You should thank him!

DEAR ABBY: I belong to a group of women who help support a mentally handicapped children's clinic. We are presently confronted with a very sticky problem. It was long suspected, but not confirmed that one of our oldest and most faithful members, "Mrs. X," "takes" things. They range from cigarets to expensive jewelry. Since we meet in each other's homes, members are becoming increasingly reluctant to offer their homes for this purpose, and you can't blame them. It's too costly to meet in a hotel. Lately we have assigned a woman to be the "watchdog" for "Mrs. X."

Our bylaws provide that a member can be expelled if her conduct is embarrassing or detrimental to the group, but "Mrs. X" has not been well physically [she has suffered two serious strokes] and her mental condition is deteriorating as well. Can you suggest a solution.

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Assign two women to be "watchdogs" for "Mrs. X." And since you are all aware of her actions, it's highly unlikely that she will be able to "pick up" anything more. Because of her failing health, you surely wouldn't want to expel this unfortunate woman from the group. She is obviously very sick.

DEAR ABBY: The hassle about who should wash out the bathtub, reminds me of a sign we used to have over the bathtub in our college dorm. It read: "A pessimist washes the tub BEFORE she bathes. An optimist washes the tub AFTER she bathes. A lady washes the tub BEFORE and AFTER she bathes."

Respectfully,
MRS. B.: FINDLAY, O.

DEAR MRS. B.: And so does a gentleman.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Fluvanna Student In Tech Workshop

LUBBOCK — Mike Toombs of Fluvanna is among a group of more than 50 participants from across the state in this year's annual Texas Tech High School Theatre Workshop being conducted on the university campus through July 29.

Sponsored by Tech's Department of Speech and Theatre Arts, the two-week workshop in theatre activities for high school sophomores and juniors includes study and practice in voice, diction, stage movement, acting, makeup, costuming, stagecraft and lighting.

According to workshop director Mrs. Noyce Burleson of Meadow, participating students will produce four one-act plays on the final evening of the workshop and on July 30, beginning at 7 p.m. in Tech's University Theatre on campus. Price of admission is $1.

9 Wells Logged

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Nine Wildcat oil wells were drilled in the state during the past week, raising the total for the year to 156, or 45 fewer than at this time last year, the Texas Railroad Commission reported Saturday.

The new wildcat oil wells included two each in the Houston, Corpus Christi and Abilene districts and one each in the Midland, San Angelo and Wichita Falls districts. Wildcats are wells drilled in unproved territory.

The commission said five wildcat gas wells were drilled during the week, including three in the Kilgore No. 6 district and one each in the San Antonio No. 1 and Abilene districts that raised the total for the year to 245, or 83 fewer than a year ago.

A total of 102 oil wells were completed during the week for a yearly total of 2,913 or 32 fewer than a year ago. Fifty-three gas wells were completed for a yearly total of 1,061 or 63 fewer than at this time last year.

The commission said 197 wells were plugged, including 30 dry holes.

Martin Wants Sharp To Testify

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin will personally argue Monday that Houston financier Frank W. Sharp should be required to testify before a grand jury.

Martin and Dist. Atty. Robert O. Smith of Travis County hope to persuade U.S. Dist. Judge John V. Singleton Jr. to allow Sharp to appear Wednesday before a grand jury investigating alleged bribery of state officials.

Sharp pleaded guilty here earlier this year to violations of banking and securities laws growing out of the National Bankers Life stock manipulation scandal which has rocked the state.

He received a five-year probated sentence and a grant of immunity from further prosecution in return for his testimony before a federal grand jury.

Under the grant of immunity, Sharp could not be required to appear before any other state or federal court while the grand jury here is investigating the case.

Sharp was due to testify before a federal grand jury here Monday but the appeaance was postponed to Tuesday because of the hearing.

Smith said an Austin grand jury is looking into possible bribery charges in connection with passage by the legislature of two bills favored by Sharp.

U.S. Atty. Anthony J. P. Farris said the government will oppose the state motion to have Sharp appear in Austin.

Good Fishing

DEL RIO, Tex. (AP) — Amistad Reservoir on the Texas-Mexico border has at least 23 species of freshwater fish, reports George Henderson, a project leader for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Of this number, at least half are of some interest to anglers, and the fish population has been bolstered by periodic large releases of fingerlings and fry from Texas fish hatcheries.

Some of the more popular fish are drum, crappie, largemouth bass, white bass, channel, flathead and blue catfish and several types of sunfish. The Rio Grande perch is a species interesting to the fly fisherman.

Soup Recall Speeded Up

WASHINGTON (APz — The Food and Drug Administration has ordered a speeded up recall of Bon Vivant canned foods after finding undercooking in five more batches of the company's vichyssoise soup and one lot of black bean soup.

"I want to make it clear that we are concerned by further findings of underprocessed foods," Dr. Charles C. Edwards, commissioner of food and drugs, said Friday.

"But it should be equally well understood," Edwards said, "that neither FDA nor the National Canners Association has found botulinum toxin to this time in any code on any product other than Bon Vivant vichyssoise code V-141-USA 71."

The government ordered a recall July 7 of all soups, sauces and stews manufactured by Bon Vivant, Inc., of Newark, N.J.

Two Mishaps Are Logged In City

Snyder Police investigated two automobile mishaps Friday afternoon. The first one occurred at 1:10 in the 2700 block of Avenue Q, in a parking lot. Involved was a 1962 Metropoliton driven by Marta Wilson, ot Route 2, and a parked 1964 Ford, owned by Joe Coronado, 1903 Scott. Minor damage was done to each vehicle.

At about 1:40 p.m. another mishap occurred in the 2400 block of Avenue K. Involved was a 1965 Oldsmobile driven by Franke W. Heard, 3204 Fortieth, and a 1970 Pontiac, driven by Lillian Jones, 1303 Twenty-third Street. Slight damage was done to each vehicle.

Satellite To Be Left In Orbit

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 15 will leave behind in lunar orbit a 78-pound satellite which will probe the moon with electric sensors for more than a year.

Man's fourth moon landing mission is scheduled for launch from Cape Kennedy on Monday. If all goes well, astronauts David R. Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden will dump the unnamed satellite on Aug. 4, just before they fire the command ship rockets to start back to earth.

The satellite, which looks something like a rural mailbox, will carry on three experiments powered by solar cells and will communicate with earth through a complex transmission system.

Worden will push a button at a predetermined time to spring-eject the minispacecraft into a roughly circular orbit of 69 miles.

There are no rockets or jets on the small satellite, but a spin will be imparted to it when it is ejected from a bay of the Apollo spacecraft. This spin will stabilize the craft and keep it from tumbling.

The satellite carries three experiments: a particle detector, a mangetometer and an S-band transponder.

The particle detector will measure the flow of electrons and protons from the sun as they sweep through the Earth's magnetic field. By studying the movement of these particles, scientists can learn the shape and character of the magnetic field.

Scientists know that as the Earth moves through space its magnetic field is warped by the huge flow of charged particles from the sun. This invisible stream—called solar wind—shapes a magnetic tail which the earth drags behind it during its journey around the sun.

The subsatellite, which is orbiting the moon as the moon orbits the earth, will give data on this magnetic tail and on all layers of the magnetic field because the moon passes through each of these layers once a month.

The magnetometer experiment will measure the magnetic fields of the moon. From this data scientists can tell much about the history of the moon.

The third satellite experiment is essentially a radio which sends a beeping signal to Earth. This signal is tracked by antennaes on Earth. From this scientists can tell the effects of the moon's gravity on the satellite.

Scientists are interested in the moon's gravity field because it is not uniform.

Thieu To Seek Second Term

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu formally announced today he will seek re-election to a second four-year term, saying he had realized "I still have the responsibility toward the fatherland and the people."

The 48-year-old former general made his announcement in a one-paragraph statement. He named former Prime Minister Tran Van Huong, 67, as his running mate in a move which political observers believed would strengthen Thieu's campaign. Huong now is a senator.

The statement was read at a news conference by Thieu's press secretary, Hoang Duc Nha, who said the president has been ill with flu for the past three days.

The announcement came as war action tapered off again into small contacts.

Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and retired Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh are expected to oppose Thieu in the presidential election Oct. 3. Ky has announced his candidacy and Munh has indicated he will run.

Huong, a popular politician from the south, retired in 1969 ostensibly for health reasons after serving as prime minister in the first two years of Thieu's term.

Political observers said Huong, who has a Buddhist background and a reputation for honesty, would give geographical and religious balance to Thieu's ticket.

In war action, the South Vietnamese military command disclosed a second new drive in southeastern Cambodia, south of Highway 1 and opposite the Mekong Delta.

Another 10,000-man South Vietnamese campaign in eastern Cambodia began Wednesday more than 100 miles to the northeast. It reported no significant contact today and has been involved in only one fight so far, in which 37 North Vietnamese troops were reported killed.

The two drives are aimed at keeping North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops from infiltrating the southern half of South Vietnam to disrupt the country's National Assembly elections Aug. 29 and the presidential elections Oct. 3.

Suffolk, Long Island's easternmost county, has an $18.9 million deficit in its annual welfare budget.

Japanese Make Success Of San Angelo Plant

Editor's Note: The Japanese must know something Americans do not. Else why would they buck a business trend and plant a major aircraft plant in West Texas in the heart of the wool and mohair country? A paradox of business success.

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Numerous American manufacturers have said that they can't make a profit in the United States because of high labor costs and other factors. So they set up plants in Mexico, Hong Kong, Japan and other places.

So what do the Japanese do?

They build a plant in America.

There is nothing freakish about it. The parent Japanese company is a huge one and has proven it knows what it is doing.

The American subsidiary is doing very well, too.

The plant is Mitsubishi Aircraft International (MAI).

Mitsubishi, pronounced mit-subish-e, is competing for the dollars spent for executive aircraft. And competing successfully.

The Japanese corporation's twin prop-jet MU2s climbed last year to second spot in the aviation business' turboprop market, second only to Beechcraft.

Company officials, not unlike football coaches and a certain car rental agency, feel second place is less than desirable.

"We are expanding with an eye on the No. 1 position," said MAI President Makoto "Mike" Kuroiwa. He says they may make it no later than next year.

The company, a U. S. subsidiary of the Japanese industrial giant, Mitsubishi Heavy Industries Ltd., broadned its marketing base in June to now includes Europe, Africa, North America and South America.

Kuroiwa said its Japanese-built airframe is the only such structure designed specifically for turboprop aircraft, which he said gives the MU2 an edge over competitors.

Kuroiwa does not consider the pure executive jet, such as Lear, a competitor. He said such jets are more expensive, cost more to operate and are not as practical as prop-jets for flights of 500 miles or less.

"Some big companies use both," he said.

The MU2s are something of an international aircraft, a "50-50" blend of Japanese and American manufacturing and technology.

"We bring in the airframe from Japan, and then install American engines, American equipment and American avionics," he said.

The aircraft is designed as an "all-weather, high-performance, high-speed corporate plane" capable of speeds of 350 miles an hour with a range of 1,500 miles.

MU2 owners have a choice of seating configurations ranging up to 14 places, including crew, but the standard seating arrangement is seven.

The fashionably decorated planes are assembled at Mitsubishi facilities at Mathis Field on the outskirts of San Angelo. The firm employs about 120 persons, including a dozen Japanese.

Depending on the model and accessories, the aircraft carries a price tag fluctuating between $380,000 and $500,000.

"Corporate and personal aircraft sales...went to hell last year," a spokesman said. "Few companies, if any at all, suffered so greatly as did those two dozen or so American firms involved in the manufacture and sale of jet, turboprop and piston-powered aircraft."

In San Angelo, he said, "things were somewhat different."

Mitsubishi sold 41 of its aircraft, recording sales of nearly $20 million and increasing its share of the twin-engine turboprop market by 6 per cent.

The company is a significant contributor to the San Angelo economy. Its annual payroll is $1.2 million and the economic impact is padded by local purchases such as jet fuel.

While a Texas prairie may seem an unlikely site to assemble a Japanese aircraft, Kuroiwa explained that San Angelo was selected in part because it was near the Kerrville, Tex., operations of Mooney Aircraft.

"Seven years ago, when we contacted Mooney to act as our American sales agent, we moved into this market with the intention of staying put," he said.

"We've since dissolved our agreement with Mooney, plus American Electronics Laboratories and Butler Aviation with whom we were associated for short periods of time, and have been a Texas corporation now for the past two years.

"It is our fondest hope to become a contributing member of the Texas and American domestic community, as well as to become an integral part of the business aviation industry."

While certainly big business, MAI represents only a fraction of the parent company's international holdings.

Alligator Evicted From Club Lake

MARCO ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — Albert the alligator has been ordered evicted from his golf course lake for allegedly eating a pedigreed poodle.

But the state has filed a countersuit in Albert's behalf, charging that he's the victim of a prejudiced judge and a gator-baiting golfer.

Albert ran afoul of the law in June when he slithered out of a lake on the Marco Island Golf and Country Club and reportedly gulped down Se Si, E.E. Bogue Bailey's pet poodle.

Bailey filed suit in Collier County Circuit Court asking that Albert be declared a hazard and he removed or eliminated.

On July 12, Judge Harold Smith ordered the 10-foot Albert ousted because the judge said there was a danger he might graduate from dogs to "little children who might wander near the lake shore."

But the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission delayed the eviction by filing an appeal Friday in the 2nd District Court of Appeals in Lakeland. No hearing date has been set.

In the cross-complaint, the state charged Bailey with damaging state property—to wit, one alligator named Albert.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Ken Hoffman said in his appeal that Bailey "has attempted and continues to attempt to entice an alligator" from the lake for the purpose of clobbering said alligator "with golf clubs and other instruments."

"These alligators, as wild animals, are property of the state and cannot be killed or injured except as provided by state statutes, rules and regulations," Hoffman's suit says.

Florida has stringent laws protecting alligators.

The suit charges Judge Smith with prejudice because on June 25, before Albert's first court hearing, the judge allegedly wrote a letter to the game commission ordering that the alligator be moved or "I'll have the sheriff's department shoot it."

The game commission said the letter was evidence of prejudice.

Since the July hearing, a petition in the court clerk's office has been signed by 200 people who have asked the state to "Save Our Alligator."

Welfare frauds for the first five months in New York's Suffolk County amounted to $268,000 this year.

Cytotechnologists Have Doubled

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

Dear Joyce: Would you discuss cytotechnologists? — L.F., Cleveland

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Cytotechnologists — medical laboratory specialists trained to search for abnormalities in human cells — are among the fastest-growing groups of hospital paramedical workers. According to a recent Federal survey, the number of cytotechnologic technicians has nearly doubled from 1,600 (1966) to 3,100 in recent years, and possibly as many as 1,000 new cytotechnologists (ASCP)'s a year will be needed to meet the growing need.

MICRO CLOSE-UP. Working under a pathologic (physician), the cytotechnologist screens slides on which there are human cells, magnified a thousand times under a microscope. She (most cytotechnologists are women, although it's a good field for men too) is looking for abnormalities that are warning signs of cancer.

The expert eyes of the cytotechnologist trace clues to disease in the delicate patterns of cytoplasm and nucleus (parts of cells), stained with special dyes to make them stand out brightly. For example, cytologic examinations, such as the Papanicolaou ("Pap") smear test can unmask cancer in its early stages, thus helping to save thousands of lives each year in the battle to control cancer through prompt, effective treatment. The cytotechnologist works in hospitals, clinics and medical laboratories. There are opportunities for advancement to supervisory and teaching positions, as well as into research.

MONEY AND YOU. According to a questionnaire forwarded to full-time cytotechnologists known to the Registry of Medical Technologists, replies concerning salaries gave a median salary of $8,000; the highest salary was $20,500 with the lowest $3,300. Personal qualifications include: a strong sense of responsibility, an inquiring mind, and good visual memory.

PREPARATORY REQUIREMENTS. To enter an American Medical Association (AMA)-approved school, you must complete 2 years of college, with 12 semester hours in science, 8 of these in biology. Science requirements are less rigid for 4-year college graduates, and for registered medical technologists.

CYTOTECH SCHOOLS. Many of the 117 AMA-approved schools of cytotechnology charge no tuition and/or offer scholarships and stipends. The training period is a minimum of 12 months, the last 6 months of which may be spent working under superision in a cytology laboratory acceptable to the director of the school.

Upon graduation, you receive either a certificate (2 years of college and 1-year program in cytotechnology), or a bachelor of science degree (3 years of college and 1-year program in cytotechnology). You are then eligible to take the certifying examination given by the Board of Registry of Medical Technologists, and upon passing may place the professional designation of "CT(ASCP)" after your name.

MORE INFORMATION. The Board of Registry of Medical Technologists will send you free career literature and a list of schools. If you would like a copy, send a postcard asking for "Cytotechnologist" to me at this newspaper.

THE DEMAND for health specialists of all types is likely to remain strong during the 1970s, but the acute shortage of recent years is expected to ease somewhat. This is attributed to 2 factors: recent growth in the number of programs for training health workers, and the more effective use of existing personnel.

Caterpillars Damaging New England Forests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gypsy moth caterpillars have devoured hundreds of thousands of woodland acres in New England, including nearly one-third of Connecticut's forest area.

Aerial surveys show Connecticut has been hit hardest, but none of the New England states has escaped damage.

Dr. John Anderson, Connecticut state entomologist, said some 640,000 acres have been blighted by the caterpillars in the state. That figure represents close to one-third of the state's entire forest area.

Charles S. Hood, head of the Pest Control Division of the Massachusetts Department of Natural Resources, estimated that more than 18,000 acres have been ravaged, much of it in the Cape Code area.

The caterpillars have eaten nearly 3,000 acres in Rhode Island, said Rudolph D'Andrea, head of the Agriculture Division of the State Department of Natural Resources.

An entomologist explained that the caterpillars simply eat the foliage from a tree until it denuded. They will even eat ground cover—bushes, grass. The insects do their damage in the caterpillar stage, rather than as moths.

Officials said they cannot adequately explain why one area is hit harder than another, but they agreed the gypsy moth blight is still getting worse in southern New England.

Anderson said the caterpillars stripped about 360,000 Connecticut acres last year. The year before that, "defoliation in Connecticut was minimal."

"Defoliation in Massachusetts more than doubled this year over last," Hood said. And prospects for the future are not encouraging.

William Stagner, of the Plant Protection Division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, says that all indications point to "another bumper crop of gypsy moth caterpillars for southern New England next year."

Nearly all the officials pointed out that while trees can die if they are defoliated for three or four years in a row, the gypsy moth blight problem is primarily an aesthetic one.

"Hardwood trees, which the caterpillars prefer, are best able to withstand the stripping," Stagner said. "However, a stripped area is an aesthetic disaster. It can look like a barren wasteland. And when that occurs around a motel or tourist area, the disaster can be a financial one as well."

Lone Wolf Electric Co-Op Sets Session

COLORADO CITY — Regan V. Brown, one of Texas' most popular speakers, will be the main speaker at the annual meeting of members of Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative, Inc., at 7 p.m. Aug. 3.

The meeting will be held in the cooperative's "Co-operatorium" in Colorado City.

Brown is the extension sociologist at Texas A&M University. He is responsible for the Texas Community Improvement Program sponsored by the electric utility companies and conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Dr. and Mrs. John H. Hamblen and James Hamblen of Snyder will provide the entertainment. Dr. Hamblen, a dentist, and his son who is in the musical field, have, with Mrs. Hamblen, entertained throughout the country, offering all types of music including western, modern and others to please such a meeting.

Colorado City Future Farmers of America will be in charge of serving refreshments. There will be plenty of dougnuts, cookies, coffee and Cokes for all. Also, many electrical prizes will be awarded and there will be kiddie rides for the children.

Bill Carter, Mitchell County Judge, will welcome visitors and the delegates from the six-county area served by Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative, including Mitchell, Nolan, Howard, Scurry, Borden and Fisher Counties. Martin Murphy, president of the board of directors will preside over the meeting. Nominated for directors posts are G.C. Strange and Preston Morris of Area IV; Martin Murphy and D. L. Cotton, Area; Linden Solomon and H. L. Hester, VII.

Over 1,500 members, their familes and friends are expected to attend the meeting.

Farm operators and unpaid family farm workers in the United States declined six per cent from the previous year in 1970.

Harriman: Paris Place To End War

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — W. Averell Harriman says the place to end the war in Vietnam is at the Paris negotiating table, "not in Peking."

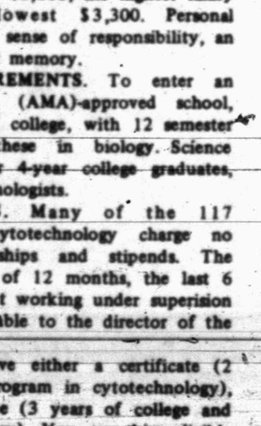

Harriman, 79-year-old former ambassador to the Soviet Union and chief U.S. delegate to the Paris peace talks under two presidents, expressed that opinion Friday in a speech before the Commonwealth Club.

He said President Nixon's planned trip to Peking is important, but he felt Secretary of State William P. Rogers should make the trip instead to determine "what could be accomplished for the United States by such a visit."

Commercial Sex Explodes In Texas

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Texas is so straight-laced that the issue of whether to sell liquor arouses torrid, statewide debates. Police once considered possession of dirty postcards cause for an arrest.

Yet now, hard-core pornography—in films, magazines, books—is shown and sold openly and police make little or no effort to stop or seize the raw contents. Officers say the courts will not let them act.

Explicit, commercial sex has exploded on the marketplace in Texas and businessmen are scrambling for the money to be made. The Lone Star State, long a stronghold of conservative and traditional morality, now ranks with California and New York in the sexual entertainment fare available.

With Houston leading the trend, theaters and newsstands dealing in the rawest of sexual material have sprung into business in all of the major Texas cities.

Most of the theaters are hole-in-the-wall operations, out for a quick profit from a small investment.

There are 16 such small theaters in Houston.

There are also three in Austin, 20 or so in Dallas-Fort Worth, and a few in San Antonio and Galveston.

The reading materials sold are just like the movies—pure, undiluted, fully illustrated sex. They sell for $2 to $20.

One University of Texas professor, John J. Sampson, testified before a legislative committee that Texas has more "skin flick" movie houses than any other state.

Sampson, a member of the President's Commission on Obscenity and Pornography, said recently, however, that his statement was based on a 1970 study and referred only to 35mm "X-rated" films distributed nationally.

The market has changed rapidly since then, he said, and the X-rated films, such as "I Am Curious (Yellow)," are mild compared to the 16mm movies now being shown.

Productions of the films is cheap. One expert estimated the production cost for even the most ambitious sex film would be only a few hundred dollars.

Some of the films are made in Texas, particularly in Houston, but most come from California or New York.

Just a few years ago such businesses would have been closed within a day or two. Strong church and morality forces in the past have always before pushed state and local police into action if necessary, and open, commercial sex was quickly crushed.

But in this eighth decade of the 20th century, a loosening of traditional standards, changes in legal rulings, and the lack of public outrage have all contributed to the growing sex merchandise business.

One problem is the legal definition of obscenity.

Mel Friedman of Houston, a 29-year-old lawyer who adds handsomely to his $200,000-a-year income by defending owners of sex magazine stands and movie houses, says the Supreme Court has never found any publication or film to be obscene. The court has also failed to come up with a definition of obscenity which will stand up under battering in lower courts.

"How can a jury convict someone of selling something that can't even be defined?" asks Friedman. "I've asked hundreds of district attorneys, policeman and vice squad officers and nobody has been able to define obscenity for me yet."

Officialdom is quick to admit the difficulty, has tied its hands.

"The biggest problem is a lack of guidelines on just what is pornography," says Joe Moss, an assistant district attorney in Houston.

The Texas Legislature is wrestling with ways of control. State Sen. Ralph Hall of Rockwall conducted hearings and then wrote two bills. One would amend state laws to spell out procedures for warrants to seize obscene material. It would also control exposure of obscene material to minors.

A second bill proposed by Hall would empower cities to set up movie licensing and review boards.

Neither of the bills has been adopted yet, and, according to some attorneys, probably will face court tests.

Slowdown In Wet Weather

AUSTIN (AP) — Wet weather driving "is different," the State Highway Department says, but the increase in accidents with each rainstorm need not occur.

A department study points toward several actions the motorist can take for his own safety when driving in the rain:

—Slow down.

—Avoid sudden stops and driving maneuvers.

—Make sure tires are in good condition.

Department researchers found that high speeds loom large among the factors involved in wet weather accidents.

Checks made by research engineers indicate that the average motorist diminishes his normal dry pavement speed by only a few miles per hour in the rain.

But a slight decrease in speed will not provide a good margin of safety in rainy day driving. For one thing, it can take as much as four times more distance to stop on wet pavement than on dry, the department said.

The department studies, based on analysis of 500 wet weather accidents which occurred in a 10-county area of Central Texas, show that slick tires can be murder.

Researchers say tread depth of all four tires should be at least 1-16 of an inch. Any less, and there is real danger of skidding or hydroplaning.

Hydroplaning occurs when a thin film of water builds up between the pavement and the tire. When the tires do not have good contact with the traveling surface, of course, the driver has no control over his car.

Per capita beef and veal consumption, which reached 116 pounds last year, is expected to reach 130 poonds by the end of the decade. To meet this growing consumption figure, production must rise one third during the same period.

Junior Editors Quiz on PLANTS

QUESTION: Why do plants grow up and the roots grow down?

ANSWER: Plants are living things. They eat, drink and breathe, and without plenty of good nourishment, they die.

The plants grow up since they are seeking the sun. Roots elongate and grow deep in the soil, so they can come in contact with water and minerals the plant needs to perform its functions. The roots have thousands of root hairs projecting into the soil to absorb food for the plant.

A substance called chlorophyll — in the leaves and stem and flowers — helps the plant to absorb the energy from the sunlight. This substance, which is vital to plants, is a green pigment. The plant takes carbon dioxide from the air. Then it absorbs water and minerals through its roots. From the water the plant takes hydrogen. The minerals coming up from the roots are compounds of nitrogen, sulphur, calcium and iron. The green leaves of plants, in the presence and with the aid of sunlight, manufacture sugars and starches from the carbon dioxide absorbed from the air and the water and raw food taken in from the soil by the roots.

Views Differ On No-Fault Insurance

DALLAS (AP) — While agreeing that this country needs no-fault auto insurance, several speakers at a national conference differed Friday over whether state or federal legislation should set it up.

Their views were aired in the closing stages of the two-day forum.

Virginia H. Knauer, President Nixon's special assistant for consumer affairs, said the administration considers a loss of faith in the insurance industry a national problem but feels the solution should be left to the states.

Lynn Sutcliffe, Senate Commerce Committee counsel, said a no-fault auto insurance bill probably will be pushed through Congress by late 1972 and would take effect for U.S. auto owners by the middle of 1974.

Roy Evans, secretary-treasurer of the Texas AFL-CIO, told about 300 persons at the Texas Association of Insurance Agents conference that a state approach to the problem simply would not do the job.

Most state legislatures are dominated by lawyers and most legislative committees that would consider no-fault insurance proposals have lawyers as chairmen, Evans said.

With lawyers drawing about 25 per cent of their income nationally from accident claims cases, he said, the climate would not be very favorable for passing no-fault insurance in several states. Evans predicted it might take 50 years for Texas to adopt no-fault insurance.

Under a no-fault bill sponsored by Sens. Philip Hart of Michigan and Warren Magnuson of Washington, a vehicle owner would carry a basic insurance policy covering his losses when operating his vehicle, losses of any other driver or passenger in the vehicle, and losses of any pedestrain injured in an accident involving his vehicle, Sutcliffe said.

Speakers at the conference pointed out that under the current system, less than half the premium dollars paid are returned in claims and much of the money goes to lawyers.

Mrs. Knauer warned that if the states do not act promptly and follow the lead of Massachusetts, Florida, Illinois, Delaware, Oregon and Puerto Rico in coming up with no-fault plans, "we will surely have to reassess our position" on advocating state no-fault insurance.

The same system, Mrs. Knauer said, "should produce experimentation new approaches, close adaptation to local situations. But there is one we are convinced, which will not be acceptable. That is inaction."

Two-Thirds Approve Of Peking Trip

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — President Nixon's planned journey to Communist China has the approval of 67 per cent of the American people, according to a public opinion survey released today by an administration source at a meeting of the Republican National Committee.

The poll, conducted by Opinion Research Corp. of Princeton, N.J., showed 20 per cent of the 1,002 people surveyed July 20-21 do not consider the Nixon trip a good thing. The other had no opinion.

The survey showed 68 per cent of those questioned believed that "more normal relations between the United States and Communist China" will be likely to lead the world to peace. Thirteen per cent said it would make peace less likely, and 8 per cent said it wouldn't make any difference.

Ag Teacher To Receive Award

William R. McMullan, vocational agriculture teacher at Snyder High School, will be honored by the Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association of Texas on Aug. 4 in Dallas, according to Ray Seale, Shiner, president of the organization.

McMullan will be recognized for his 20 years of service to the vocational agriculture program of Texas.

The award will be presented at the Annual Awards Breakfast of the Association. The breakfast is held during the statewide conference of Vocational Agriculture Teachers and the 1971 conference will emphasize the impremention of new approaches to Vocational Agriculture Education. Leaders in agriculture and education from throughout the state and nation will participate in the four day in-service meeting. Education features of the meeting will be under the direction of J. A. Marshall, Director of Agriculture Education, Texas Education Agency. He will be assisted by G. G. Scroggins, Assistant Director, Agriculture Education, Texas Education Agency; Billy Conner, Executive Secretary, Texas Future Farmers of America, Texas Education Agency; Raymond Holt, Consultant, Vocational Agriculture Education, Texas Education Agency and Dan Gattis, Executive Secretary, Texas Young Farmer Association, Texas Education Agency. Also assisting will be eleven area supervisors including Hulan A. Harris, Big Spring.

McMullan graduated from Snyder High School and received his B. S. and M. E. degrees from Texas Tech in Lubbock.

Approximately 1500 Vocational Agriculture Teachers and friends are expected to attend the Dallas Conference.

New Pill Aids Sheep Shearing

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Prof. Phil Loggins gave 40 sheep a new pill and 11 days later he sheared the block with his bare hands.

The key to the no-shears defleecing method is an experimental drug, said the University of Florida animal husbandry professor.

"The drug cyclophosphamide, temporarily stops cell growth in the bulk of each wool fiber, causing it to break easily at the sklinline," Loggins said. "Any one grabs a handful of wool and rools their wrist along the skin 10 to 12 days after the sheep has taken the drug can strip it as naked as the human body."

Loggins said the synthetic drug was discovered several years ago by German scientists involved in cancer research.

Loggins said it will be marketed by Bristol Laboratories as soon as the U.S. Food and Drug Administration certifies it safe.

"The drug won't be expensive and using it will be cheaper than hiring a professional shearer," he said.

Shearing with clippers may cost as much as $1.25 per head.

Teachers Learn New Techniques

Attending school while out of school - that is what a number of local teachers are doing, right here at home. Some 15 teachers are taking part in a Media Workshop being held in the Snyder High School cafeteria.

Dan Martin, Educational Media Director for the Snyder Public Schools, is teaching the course. It is being co-sponsored by the Snyder Public Schools and Regional Fourteen Educational Service Center in Abilene. Two hours of graduate credit from Hardin Simmons University may be received by taking the course.

A primary aim of the workshop is to provide the teachers an opportunity to learn the use of multi-media in the classroom. Those who participate will receive experience in five general areas of media instruction.

The first overall area studied is that of flat pictures. The teachers learn how to dry-mount and laminate, and how and when to utilize flat pictures in order to obtain maximum results in the teaching learning process.

The second area consists of lettering techniques, such as the use of the Wrico lettering device, the Leroy mechanical lettering device, spray lettering, dry-transfer letters, 3-dimensional letters, and hard cutout letters.

From there the teachers advance to the area of projectural slides. They not only learn the construction of the different types of slides, but also how to best use them in helping students to learn. The types of slides include the heat thermo process, color slides by the Diazo process, and hand-made slides, such as acitate rolls, acitate sheets, etc.

The next area of study deals with the use of the bulletin board as a teaching device. The purposes of a bulletin board, as well as the techniques in the construction of a well-designed bulleton board are covered.

The last general area covered is that of the tape recorder's use in the classroom. The teachers learn how to use the tape recorder in programming a slide presentation. Not only do they learn how to operate it, but also the value of a tape recorder, and how it can be used effectively in the teaching-learning process.

During the first week of the workshop each one of the five major areas of study is taken on a different day. During the second week the teachers will be given ann opportunity to delve deeper into each area, and also different teachers will give presentations in the various areas of study.

The teachers enrolled in the course attend class from 7 a.m. to 12:30, Monday through Friday. A minimum of 54 hours of instruction is required. However, most of those enrolled are spending much more time than that. The cafeteria is opened most of the afternoon for the teachers to persue the study a little more and put into practice some of the things they have learned by making various materials.

The teachers taking part in this workshop are enthusiastic about it, and feel that it will help them to be better teachers in the future. Several commented that all teachers in the public schools would benefit from taking part in the course.

Four Food Distributors Combine Buying Power

DALLAS — Four of the largest food distribution centers in the Southwest have announced that they are combining their buying power in order to lower their prices to their customers. Their new total sales will elevate them to a position of one of the leading retail food distributors in the world.

The four distribution centers are Affiliated Food Stores, Inc. of Dallas, Affiliated Food Stores, Inc. of Tulsa, Affiliated Food Stores, Inc. of Amarillo, and Affiliated Food Stores, Inc. of Little Rock. The Arkansas center was formerly known as Associated Grocers.

The combined retail marketing area served by the four distribution centers covers portions of seven states: Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Tennessee, and Texas.

"There is no merger of the four distribution centers," said Charles McBeath General Manager of Affiliated, Amarillo. "What we are doing is combining our buying power to increase savings power for our customers," he said.

In a simultaneous announcement made by the heads of the four distribution centers in their respective cities, it was revealed that their combined retail sales of groceries annually reaches the one-billionn dollar mark. Nearly 20 million people reside in the area served by the four centers.

Over 2,000 member stores, independently owned by leaders in their respective communities, will be affected by the new policy.

The independent grocer will thus be enabled to contribute even further to the nation's economy. Even now, he and thousands of others like him who own Affiliated Food stores, are one of the largest employers in the seven state area. They give jobs to many more thousands of people in many job classifications from store managers to clerks, from checkers to produce department workers.

Many a young executive has started his career as a stock clerk or a grocery boy after school hours working at his neighborhood Affiliated Food Store.

Also announced was a new advertising and promotion campaign based on the slogan, "United States of Affiliated - A Country Within a Country," to start in all stores July 26.

Speaking in Amarillo, McBeath explained that when the four centers decided to combine certain functions, it was discovered that their new total service area roughly approximated an outline similar to the continental United States. "From this came the idea for the United States of Affiliated," "McBeath explained.

"A new logo with the words Affiliated Food Stores printed in red on a white field in a blue outline of the United States will be seen in all future advertising by the four distribution centers," McBeath said.

Introduction of the new Affiliated combined buying program will result in a greatly expanded advertising program to kick off the United States of Affiliated promotion.

Vessel Equipped For Arctic

SELBY, England (AP) — The 699-ton Polar Shore, a supply vessel built to Lloyds Class 1 standards, is equipped for Arctic conditions and is capable of generating 7,260 hp.

One of the most powerful tug supply boats afloat, the Polar Shore's specifications include variable pitch propellors to facilitate towing operations. She is also equipped with a powerful bow thruster for maximum maneuverability while operating close to oil drilling rigs.

The new vessel is part of the fleet of 42 ships operated by the Offshore Supply Association.

All-Stars Prepare For Pros

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP — The mammoth Soldier Field setting has been altered considerably, but one thing unchanged about the 38th All-Star football game Friday night will be the favoritism of the pros over the cream of the 1970 crop of collegiate seniors.

However, the champion Baltimore Colts of the National Football League are pegged a compartively modest 10 points—instead of the two-touchdown or better customary pro betting advantage—over Blanton Collier's impressive, 52-man All-Star squad.

A trio of fine quarterbacks, headed by No. 1 pro draftee, Jim Plunkett of Stanford, a bevy of fine receivers, and swift running backs could spell an upset of the Colts and snap a seven-game pro winning skein in the Chicago Tribune's classic charity series.

The contest will be telecast nationally by ABC, at 9:30 p.m., EDT, and will draw an expected capacity 52,000 in Soldier Field now streamlined as the new home of the Chicago Bears.

For the first time the All-Star competition, in which the pros hold a one-sided 26-9-2 margin, will be played on artificial turf installed for the Bears switch from Wrigley Field this season.

The playing field in the ancient stadium fronting Lake Michigan has been moved 90 feet south and the open end of the horseshoe shaped stands has been filled in with the steel temporary stands used by the Gears at Wrigley Field.

The All-Star coaching was taken over this year by Collier, who retired as coach of the Cleveland Browns last season.

He succeeded Otto Graham, who now is Coast Guard Academy athletic director and who directed the All-Stars to their last victory, a 20-17 conquest of the Green Bay Packers in 1963.

Collier's squad appears much more talented than Paul Brown's 1970 club which was whipped by the Kansas City Chiefs 24-3 shortly after settlement of the NFL players strike which nearly cancelled the game.

Pro scouts watching the All-Stars drill at Northwestern University in nearby Evanston, Ill., have tabbed Plunkett, Dan Pastroni of Santa Clara and Southern Methodist's Chuck Hixon the best quarterbacks they have seen in the collegiate camp.

Fighters Hopeful As Battle Nears

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Muhammad Ali and Jimmy Ellis, opponents twice as amateurs and in hundreds of rounds of sparring, will fight Monday night for big money and their boxing futures.

For the two former heavyweight champions, the scheduled 12-round fight in the Astrodome is a step toward a hoped-for rematch with Joe Frazier and a chance at the title—the one Ali held outright and the one Ellis had a piece of.

The fight is scheduled for 10:45 p.m. EDT and will be shown on closed circuit television in more than 200 locations in the United States. It also will be seen in 34 foreign countries via satellite.

A spokesman for Top Rank, Inc., which is co-promoting the fight with Astrodome Championship Enterprises Inc., and has all ancillary rights, estimated a live gate of 30,000 persons and $300,000. The dome is scaled from 75 down to 10,000 $5 special seats which were requested by Ali. Ali, who was guaranteed $2.5 million for his losing effort in 15 rounds against the champion Frazier, will get $450,000 or 45 per cent of all income. Ellis will receive 20 per cent of all income.

"I need the work; I got to get ready for Frazier" is Ali's reason for fighting Ellis.

"I'm fighting for my future," says Ellis of his match with the man he came within one fight of replacing as the universally-recognized heavyweight champ.

Although there is no title at stake, the fight is one that has long been talked of in boxing circles and is being billed as the "Inevitable Fight."

The controversial 29-year-old Ali and the quiet 31-year-old Ellis go back a long way together.

They're both from Louisville, Ky.; they split two fights as amateurs; Ellis was a sparring partner for Ali when Ali was on his way to and held the championship; Ali was a sparring partner for Ellis while he was banned from boxing and Ellis was the World Boxing Association champion, and both lost to Frazier.

Ali went 15 rounds with Frazier, while Ellis was stopped in five. Ali is a big favorite to beat Ellis for his 32nd victory against just one loss as a pro.

It will be the first fight for Ali since the loss to Frazier last March 8, and his first as a free man since he successfully defended his title against Zora Folley March 22, 1967. The U.S. Supreme Court recently overruled the draft evasion conviction that caused Ali to be stripped of his championship.

It was in Houston that Ali refused the traditional step forward signifying induction into the army and it was here that he was convicted.

For Ellis, who had a layoff of 17 months before fighting Frazier for universal recognition as champion, this will be the third fight of the year. He knocked out Tony Doyle March 2 and won a 10-round decision over George Chuvalo May 10.

The victories gave Ellis a 30-6 record that includes triumphs over such Ali victims as Chuvalo, Jerry Quarry, Floyd Patterson and Oscar Bonavena. His loss to Frazier was his only one in his last 16 fights, dating back to 1964.

"I've been ready for this fight ever since I signed for it," says Ellis, who has never been able to get out of the shadows of Ali and Frazier, even when he was WBA champ.

"I'll be the aggressor," says Ellis, who will be giving away four inches in reach and around 25 pounds and who has 14 knockouts to 25 for Ali.

Ellis expects to weigh 191 pounds, the same he weighed for the Chuvalo fight but 10 less than he carried into the ring against Frazier. Ali says he will weigh 213, but some observers think he might enter the ring as high as 218. He weighed 215 for Frazier.

Ali, who has said Ellis is a tough fighter, has not made a prediction in his usual flamboyant style but, his confidence in beating Ellis was revealed after a recent workout by two statements:

"I'll have another fight in seven weeks (against an unnamed opponent).

"I know what to expect from Frazier the next time."

The Nova Scotia Voyageurs, Springfield Kings, Providence Reds, Boston Braves and Rochester Americans will operate in the American Hockey League East next season.

Pirates Scheduled

The Snyder Pirates are scheduled to play a double header today against San Angelo. The first game will be at 1:30 in the North Park. The contest that had been scheduled with Post Friday night was rained out.

San Diego State has a night football schedule, playing all H games under lights.

Forgotten Volunteers Are Real Golf Heroes

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

HARRISON N.Y. (AP) — A $100,000-a-year bank president gets up at 6 a.m., rushes to the golf course and spends the next 12 hours serving as a parking lot attendant.

He doesn't get a penny. In fact, he has to pay his way onto the premises.

A young society matron takes off from her job as a model for television commercials and spends 100 hours feeding cold turkey sandwiches and bits of information to the news media in the press room.

Industrial tycoons and prosperous professional men do silly-looking uniforms and spend most of the week as unpaid marshals, shepherding fans over the fairways—the richest security force in the world. Their wives hire babysitters and serve as official scorers.

They are part of golf's forgotten and little appreciated volunteer army, which makes it possible for Lee Trevino, Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Co. to play for a $50,000 first prize as they're doing this weekend in the rich Westchester Classic.

"It would be impossible for the tour to endure on its present scale without them," said Joseph C. Dey Jr., commissioner of the PGA Tournament Players Division. "Golf is the only sport that depends on free labor and we wonder where the big purses would be without these wonderful volunteers.

"It's true to say that the pros—the commercially sponsored tournaments—depend on the bount of the amateurs."

William M. Jennings, the Yale-educated lawyer who serves as general chairman of the $250,000 Classic, the world's richest, said that 1,100 men and women make up the 37 committees and work force which provides the sweat and organizational know-how of the tournament.

"It would be impossible to pay for this talent," Jennings, who is also president of the New York Knicks basketball team, added. "We have some of the best organizational brains in the country.

"We begin organizing three months in advance. During the tournament week, committee members take off from their jobs and work 12 to 15 hours a day."

No other big time sport has it so easy. In baseball, football and basketball, all help, from the president and general manager down to the ushers and charwomen, is paid.

Every person who works on the Westchester Classic—exclusive of the tournament director, Fred Corcoran, and the private security force of 150—is unpaid. Each must buy a $25 or $40 season ticket and pay for his or her uniform.

About 75 per cent of the workers are women and most of these are members of the so-called Twigs, a women's organization dedicated to raising funds for Westchester hospitals.

Proceeds of the tournament—above expenses—go to six Westchester hospitals, which have received $1,210,914 in the last four years. The current tournament is expected to add $380,000.

Where does the money come from?

The biggest source is from the pro-am, held on Wednesday preceding the 72-hole tournament proper. Amateurs pay for the privilege of playing with the pros, three amateurs and one pro in each foursome.

A grand patron pays $5,000 for four of the amateur spots, a patron $1,500 for a single spot. Patrons are also entitled to ground and clubhouse privileges during the tournament. With a list of 180 patrons and grand patrons, the gross from this source amounts to around $300,000.

As a sponsor, Eastern Airlines, which also co-sponsors the Doral and Citrus Opens in Florida, donates $50,000 and contributes some of the printed material. The air line also buys commercial time on the national television showing of the tournament, which brings in an additional $200,000, only a portion of which the tournament shares.

"We like to align ourselves with tournaments which have a local community spirit and enlightened sponsors," said Maurice L. Kelley, Jr., vice president in charge of planning and advertising for Eastern, said. "Westchester fits this bill."

Eastern also has a $250,000 contract with Jack Nicklaus as its professional representative.

Revenue is picked up from gate receipts, $7 per ticket the first two days and $8 per ticket Saturday and Sunday. Parking is $2 a car. A big expense item is rent of the Westchester Club and its facilities.

The financial structure of tournaments on the tour vary from city to city. Dow-jones and National Airlines sought to undertake full sponsorship of rich tournaments, $300,000 and $200,000, respectively, and found the cost too prohibitive.

Principal sponsors are civic organizations and entertainment personalities such as Bob Hope, Big Crosby, Glen Campbell, Jackie Gleason and Danny Thomas, who are entering the field in a large way.

But all of them depend on volunteers to run the show.

Rosburg Hits Golf Hypocrisy

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) "This game has come so full of hypocrisy that it makes me sick," the veteran Bob Rosburg said today, urging a rewrite of tournament golf rules to make them more specific.

"It's ridiculous that a man has to lie, fake a scorecard or feign an injury just because he's playing badly and doesn't want to continue. Yet it's happening every day."

Rosburg's comments were triggered by the mystery surrounding the triple bogey eight on the final hole that knocked sensational Lee Trevino out of the final two days of competition in the $250,000 Westchester Classic.

The new U.S., Canadian and British Open champion shot a second round 75 for 146, missing the cut by a stroke, and then disappeared, refusing to discuss the calamity. "I don't know what was in Lee's mind and I won't pretend to try to guess," Rosburg said, "but I will say that our rules are so stupid that players often will try anything to get out of a tournament legitimately."

Joseph C. Dey, Jr., commissioner of the PGA Tournament Players Division, said he had checked Trevino's eight thoroughly and found it legitimate.

Dey said under tournament rules a player can withdraw from a tournament only with the sponsor's permission by presenting a doctor's certificate showing an ailment.

"Players laugh about these rules," Rosburg said. "Some of them say they carry a dozen doctor's certificates in their bags just in case of emergency. I've even heard Trevino say it.

"I've faked an injury or signed the wrong scorecard many times just because I didn't want to play any more. It's hypocrisy. But it's the only out under these silly rules."

Rosburg, 44, was winner of the Vardon Trophy in 1958, PGA champion in 1959 and PGA Club champion in 1969. He was a member of the Players Policy Committee from 1958 through 1961 and served as chairman for three years. Rosburg shot a three under par 69 Friday for a 140 total.

Trevino has been under tremendous strain, playing in 15 consecutive tournaments and winning the U.S., Canadian and British Opens in the space of four weeks.

"I can appreciate Lee's being tired," Rosburg said. "I just don't understand why he keeps insisting he's going to play in every tournament and then finding it necessary to pull out."

Hofheinz Will Be Questioned

HOUSTON (AP) — Roy Hofheinz, owner of the Houston Astros, and William McDonald, one of his business aides, agreed Friday to voluntarily testify before a Buffalo, N.Y., grand jury.

The grand jury is looking into actions surrounding the proposed building of a domed sports stadium in Buffalo. Two Erie County legislators were convicted earlier this year after a federal grand jury indicted them for taking money to influence their votes on the proposed stadium, which was never built.

Hofheinz is a principal in a firm which attempted to lease the proposed stadium. The project was scrapped after county officials and the firm were unable to reach an agreement on the lease.

W. Erwin James, who represented Hofheinz and McDonald, said the two men have always been willing to testify before the grand jury but no one asked them to, but instead issued a subpoena.

The agreement to testify came in an agreement filed in a state court here in answer to a request by Buffalo officials to take [illegible]

Colts Pay Higher Salaries

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A secret survey of player salaries in the National Football League reveals that of 26 NFL teams, the Baltimore colts paid their players highest salaries last year, while the Cincinnati Bengals paid the lowest.

The Philadelphia Inquirer, in its Saturday editions, reported receiving the findings of the survey from Philadelphia Eagles defensive back Rom Medved, the team's player representative.

The survey of last year's salaries was taken by the National Football League Players Association, the Inquirer said.

The survey, the paper said, showed that the mean salary of Baltimore players who responded to poll was $51,300 while Cincinnati paid a mean salary of $18,600.

The survey also listed mean salaries by position. They were: quarterbacks $39,800; receivers, $26,000; running backs, $27,400; defensive linemen, $25,000; offensive linemen, $23,000; defensive backs, $23,300; linebackers, $24,500, and specialists, $19,600.

Medved said the salary negotiations in the NFL had become drawn-out struggles with management ever since it merged with AFL.

State Traffic Accidents Up

AUSTIN (AP) — State police reported Saturday that 1,829 persons have died in traffic accidents in Texas this year, 73 more than at this time last year.

The 4 per cent increase in traffic deaths was matched by a 4 per cent increase in fatal accidents, which rose to 1,515, or 55 more than a year ago.

12 Month School Plans Are Studied

By THOMAS F. DRISCOLL
Peoria Journal Star
For The Associated Press

Once upon a time, when 90 per cent of the U.S. population was rural, it made sense to close schools in summer so the children could work on farms.

Now that 90 per cent live in urban areas—and air-conditioning can keep buildings cool—why should communities continue to close their schools from June to September?

People all over the country have begun to ask this question, and the result is a cautious but discernible movement toward year-round schools.

This fall there will be something like 130,000 pupils in 10 states enrolled in schools which operate around the calendar. The number will double next year, and more than 15 states will be involved.

For the past three years a National Year-Round School Seminar has been held in the United States, so school officials everywhere can exchange ideas and information with one another.

Dr. Cyril B. Busbee, superintendent of education in South Carolina, estimates that some 600 school districts throughout the nation are currently studying various 12-month plans.

Year-round schooling goes by a number of names: Extended School Year, Continuous Learning Year, Four-Term Secondary School Plan, Elective Quarter Plan, and so on. But basically there are two types now in operation:

1. The 45-15 rotation school in which only three-fourths of the pupils attend class at the same time and the other one-fourth are on vacation. Every student goes to class for 45 days (nine weeks) and then takes a 15-day vacation (three weeks). The rotation keeps going all year, even in summer.

(2.) The quarter-system school in which a student can satisfy the requirements for a year's academic credit by attending class during any three of the four quarters in a year.

This summer there are 45-15 schools operating in California, Illinois, Missouri, Vermont, and Virginia. By fall there will be quarter-system schools in Georgia, Maryland, and Pennsylvania.

Both the 45-15 and the quarter-system schools offer the advantage of 12-month utilization of school facilities.

They both can also reduce the need for additional school construction because some children are always on vacation, thus keeping schools from becoming overcrowded.

The 45-15 plan eliminates the three-month vacations, when the long days soon begin to drag for the children (and their mothers) and the youngsters forget so much of what they learned in the previous school year.

The principal criticism of quarter-system schools, which have been tried before in this country, is that they retain the three-month break. If pupils are required to attend school only during three of the four quarters, thus restricting enrollment to three-fourths at any one time, some children inevitably must take three-month vacations in winter. This has always met with opposition from parents.

As a result, most quarter-system schools in operation today are optional, not mandatory.

There appears to be more widespread interest across the country in 45-15 than in the quarter system. This unquestionably is due to taxpayer resistance everywhere to higher school costs, and the promise of 45-15 to help keep these costs down.

Valley View Elementary District, near Chicago, which has the most widely known 45-15 operation, has entertained more than 500 visitors from all parts of the nation since it inaugurated the plan last year.

Valley View, with about 7,500 pupils in six schools, was not the first to launch a 45-15 rotation; that distinction belongs to a school near St. Louis, which started it in 1969. But Valley View was the first district to put all of its schools on the plan and to make it mandatory for all pupils.

Taxpayer resistance was not a problem at Valley View. On the contrary, residents had approved 15 consecutive bond issues. But the problem was the same: lack of funds. The district kept growing faster than its ability to build more classrooms, and it is still having that problem.

This is the same kind of problem which has made 451-5 attractive to fast-growing residential areas all over the country. California, in particular, has shown great interest in the plan.

Valley View, now with a year's experience, has run into no serious objections from parents, teachers, or anyone else.

"The 45-15 system keeps the kids off the streets," said Harriet Peters, who has two school-age boys. "Three months off is ven't heard of any parents who don't like the plan."

Twin-Plant Concept May Set New Trend

AUSTIN (AP) — A University of Texas management professor says a six-year-old Mexican border business setup might be a "new phase in world business and world economic development."

Dr. Henry Steiner wrote about the "twin-plant" operation on the United States-Mexico border in "Texas Business Review," published by the university's Bureau of Business Research.

The industry is called "twin-plant" because a plant on the United States side of the border sends uncompleted products to a sister plant on the Mexican side which completes the production.

Steiner said more than 160 twin-plant business were along the border as of January 1970, employing 17,000 Mexican nationals. A list through December 1969 showed 156 businesses, with 54 on the Texas-Mexico border.

The American Chamber of Commerce studied 63 of the U.S. companies operating in the border area, and 48 said they planned to expand during the next year.

The industrialization program was established, Steiner said, to improve the border cities by bringing in industry to provide jobs for thousands of Mexicans migrating from the interior to the border.

"The new industry was calculated also to change the impression of the border held by most visitors," he added. "The tourist-for-a-day saw it as an area totally devoted to liquor stores, souvenir shops, and vice of one kind or another. The visitor retained the memory ... as a dominant feature not only of the border but of the whole of Mexico."

Steiner said a major attraction for U.S. industries is cheaper Mexican labor. As a rule of thumb, he said, it is claimed that labor costs can be cut from the level in this country by $3,000 to $6,000 per year per employe.

Also, he said, "It is claimed that Mexicans account for between 40 and 60 per cent of the retail sales in many of the U.S. towns along the border in spite of Mexican efforts to supply this demand on their own side. Thus, increased employment is said to stimulate business, and both the United States and Mexico stand to benefit by the border plan."

Two "serious problems" may cause difficulty for the twin-plant concept, Steiner said. The first is the opposition of the AFL—CIO. The Texas AFL—CIO described the program in 1968 as "another monster in the unemployment field," Steiner said. He added that the National Executive Council also said the program's only beneficiaries are "profit-hungry companies."

The second problem, Steiner said, is the rising wage level of Mexican workers. He said from 1962 to 1970 the minimum daily salary set by the Mexican National Salary Commission, rose from 12.08 to 33.75 pesos in Tamaulipas, a state facing Laredo, Brownsville and McAllen. This is an increase of almost 300 per cent, and the narrowing gap between Mexican and U.S. wages "will remain crucial for many businessmen contemplating a twin-plant operation."

Nevertheless, Steiner said, "apart from improving the competitive position of U.S. products in and out of the U.S. market, an opportunity exists to get a much deeper penetration in markets in developing nations." the products, fashioned by Mexican hand labor, would be cheaper for the developing countries and would improve the purchasing power of their exchange reserves.

"It may not be overoptimistic," Steiner said, "to see in the Mexican border plants a new phase in world business and world economic development."

Snyderites In NTSU Play

DENTON — Two Snyder students have roles in North Texas State University's Children's Theater offering this summer.

The play, "Witching Time," by Guy Allen Smith, is a musical comedy appropriate for children, yet sophisticated enough for adults.

Susie Hendrix, Snyder senior, is cast as Mrs. Mandibel, and Pam Black, Snyder sophomore, has the role of Lily.

The show will be staged Aug. 6-9 in the University Theater with three evening performances and two matinees. Carl Marder of the NTSU speech and drama faculty is supervising the direction of the play produced by the children's theater class.

Miss Hendrix is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Hendrix, Route 3, Snyder, and Miss Black is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vonnie L. Black, 2106 Forty-second Street.

Dermott Sailor Is On Carrier

Navy Seaman Morris G. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Smith of Dermott is now serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Saratoga with the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

The 15-year-old carrier, now on her eleventh deployment to the Mediterranean, spent two days in Greenock, Scotland, and is scheduled to visit Spain, Italy, Greece, France and Malta.

His ship is homeported in Mayport, Fla.

Hydroplanes Set For Second Half

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer

Battered and bruised from five Eastern regattas, the big and speedy unlimited hydroplanes are limping into Pasco, Wash., to start the second half of the 1971 circuit in pursuit of the Atomic Cup on the Columbia River.

Defending national high point champion Miss Budweiser of Tampa, Fla. has a slim 527-point lead over her nearest rival, the community-owned Miss Madison of Madison, Ind., as the fleet begins a western swing that will include races at Seattle, Eugene, Ore., and Dallas between now and late September. A previously scheduled race in San Diego was canceled.

Interviews with a half-dozen top unlimited officials and drivers showed the red-and-gold Miss Budweiser piloted by Dean Chenoweth of Xenia, Ohio, is the boat to beat. Chenoweth is shooting for the craft's third consecutive national championship.

Missing at Pasco and a questionable starter at the Seattle Seafair Regatta two weeks later will be the Hallmark Homes, the former Miss Bardahl that dominated unlimited racing in 1967 and 1968. The Hallmark suffered irreparable damage in the first turn of the first heat at the Gold Cup Regatta in Madison, Ind., three weeks ago.

Builder Ed Karassen and the Hallmark Homes crew are struggling to put a brand new boat together in time for the Seattle race Aug. 8.

Driver Leif Borgersen and the Hallmark were second nationally, just 450 points behind the Budweiser, going into the Madison race but are now fourth.

Another casualty at Madison but due in Pasco after repairs is the Atlas Van Lines I. Driver Bill Muncey has been the Budweiser's primary competition for the past two years but has had difficulty getting the proper balance in his new boat this year.

The Cinderella boat of 1971 is the Miss Madison. The boat has a shoestring budget and driver Jim McCormick and the crew members volunteer their services. The boat's $23,585 in winnings this year—best of the fleet despite her second place in national points behind the Miss Budweiser—go back into its operation.

Disappointments of the year have been the Pride of Pay'n Pak, a Seattle-based boat piloted by Billy Schumacher, and the Notre Dame of Detroit.

Here are the standings of the top four boats as the unlimiteds open the western half of the 1971 season:

Miss Budweiser, Tampa, 4,771 points; Miss Madison, Madison, Ind., 4,244; Atlas Van Lines I, Detroit, 3,504; Hallmark Homes, Augusta, Ga., 3,304.

Search Continues For Boy

CASPER, Wyo. (AP) — National Guardsmen have been called to join volunteers today in the search for a 9-year-old mentally retarded boy who has eluded would-be rescuers for seven days on the timber and brush-covered slopes of Casper Mountain.

Kevin Dye, also an epileptic and described by his doctor as hyperactive, walked away from his family's cabin on the mountain Sunday afternoon. Apparently he doesn't want to be found.

An estimated 2,000 persons—often 700 at one time—combed the peak until Thursday evening when Sheriff Bill Estes and the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Dye, decided the youth should be given a chance to calm down.

While Kevin seems to be in good health—he was spotted several times running through the heavy underbrush but always managed to elude the search teams—that situation could change at any moment.

"Kevin's doctor warns the medication is due to wear off soon, and this could mean convulsions," Estes said Friday night.

"We have to find him and hold him. At this point in the game, it's either that or lose him entirely."

Instead of another huge search party, some 200-300 persons, including 80 guardsmen, a mountain climbing team and a troop of Boy Scouts were to go up the mountain today.

"A lot of times a smaller number of well-trained men is better than a lot of people running around in confusion," Estes said.

Brief Filed

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Daniel Ellsberg's lawyer, Leonard B. Boudin, filed a brief in federal court Friday opposing Ellsburg's return to California to face a charge of illegal possession of the Pentagon papers. Ellsberg has admitted leaking the papers to the new media.

Boudin's brief said, "The sole question the defendant has raised before this court is whether an arrest warrant issued in California can ... be enforced by issuance of a removal warrant in this district despite the fact the arrest warrant is the product of illegal conduct by the government."

Boudin asked at a hearing July 15 that the government be required to disclose whether the warrant was based on any evidence obtained by wiretaps.

The brief sought "suppression of the arrest warrant and not the dismissal of the indictment."

Ellsberg was indicted in Los Angeles for unauthorized possession of defense information and for converting government property to his own use. The government said he had access to the papers while employed by the Rand Corp.

MRS. DONALD HOWARD SMITH

Couple Wed At C-City July 9

Peggy LaJuana Solomon and Donald Howard Smith were united in marriage July 9 at 8 p.m. at Calvary Baptist Church at Colorado City. Rev. Charles Jones, pastor of the church, officiated in the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Linden Solomon of the Cuthbert Community and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Smith of the Buford Community.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white silk organza over white bridal satin. The skirt, appliqued with French imported lace, was attached to a smocked waist band and extended into a chapel length train. The bodice featured a stand up collar, edged in white daisies and long sheer sleeves attached to a smocked cap sleeve and smocked band extending into a wide ruffle. Tiny satin covered buttons accentuated the back of the gown. The elbow length veil was attached to a band of fresh white flowers.

The bride used streamers tied in love knots in her bridal bouquet that were from her mother's bridal bouquet, as something old. She wore a ring borrowed from her maternal grandmother, wore a blue garter and carried a new Bible.

The bride carried a bouquet of yellow roses, stephanotis and ivy surrounding a white Japette orchid atop a white Bible.

Phyllis Soloman, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a buttercup of yellow gown overlaid with candlelight organza. The gown featured a jeweled neckline and long sheer sleeves with a cuff and ruffles and a smocked waist. She carried a white wicker basket filled with mixed summer flowers and wore fresh flowers in her hair.

Karabie McMillan, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a buttercup yellow dress fashioned with an empire waist. She carried a white wicker basket filled with yellow mum petals and wore fresh flowers in her hair.

Annette Erwin of Ira, Jan Kruse of Ira and Susan Rudd of Hereford were bridesmaids. They wore costumes fashioned after that of the maid of honor.

Johnny Trulock of Colorado City served as best man. Darrell Carpenter and Eddie Strain of Colorado City and Dewayne Stubblefield of Lubbock were groomsmen.

Wayne Banks and Richard Cox of Colorado City ushered guests. Shelia Kruse of Ira and James Cook, nephew of the groom of Muleshoe lighted candles. Miss Kruse wore a gown fashioned like that of the flower girl.

The altar of the church was centered with a white prayer bench and held an arch covered with lemon leaves and yellow tapers. It was flanked on either side by wrought iron candle trees with crystal prisms and yellow tapers. The aisle and family pews were marked with arrangment of emeralds, baby's breath and pom poms with yellow satin bows on white poles topped with yellow tapers.

Gale White, organist, furnished traditional wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Marshall Parham as she sang "Somewhere My Love," "Secret Love," and "Love Theme From Romeo and Juliet."

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church following the ceremony. The bride's table, covered with a white lace edged cloth was centered with an ornate 5 branch brass candelabra holding a mixed summer arrangement of carnations, daisies, baby's breath and seafoam statice and held appointments of silver and crystal. The three tiered wedding cake was decorated with bells and love birds and multi-colored flowers. A miniature bride and groom stood atop the first tier, which was supported by four pillars. Gale White and Jamie Roddey of Ira presided.

The groom's table was covered with a natural burlap cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow, bronze and white chrysanthemums entwined around a ceramic white face Hereford bull, a gift from the bride. Linda Autry served the chocolate cake. Debbie Sterling of Ira registered wedding guests. The table was covered with a floor length white organza cloth and held an antique lamp with a candle ring of fresh mixed flowers around the globe.

Beverly Autry played piano selections during the reception. Kristie McMillan, cousin of the bride, handed out yellow net rice bags.

For the short wedding trip the bride chose a blue crepe dress with long sleeves trimmed in beige. An orchid corsage completed her out-fit.

The bride is a 1971 graduate of Ira High School, where she was a twirler.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Colorado City High School and is a senior at Sul Ross at Alpine. He attends school at Alpine and is engaged in farming.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were from Snyder, Ira, Loraine, Roscoe, Muleshoe, Westbrook, Vincent, Hereford, Crane, Stanton, Lubbock, Hermleigh, Lamesa and Slaton.

QUOTABLE WOMEN

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"If a guy has a lousy record on women's issues, like child-care appropriations and the equal rights amendment, and if he won in his congressional district by a narrow margin, then we're going to put a woman up as a candidate there. We're out to get those men."—Karen DeCrow, organizer of a conference for women political candidates.

"We were all just really overwhelmed. We appreciated it so much. We know now we still have a lot of friends."—Patsy Estes, at a party celebrating the release of her husband, Billie Sol, from prison, and also their 25th wedding anniversary.

"Girls don't shoot guns and fight. I'm a secretary to officers. I was drafted four months ago and will get two stripes on my sleeve after returning."—Esther Orgad, a soldier in the Israeli army, and a contestant in the Miss Universe beauty pageant.

"Nothing surprises me anymore. I have lived in Washington the last 12 years ... with world changes so rapid we have to learn to live with them. I hope whatever steps we take we remember America must remain strong to negotiate."—Anna Chennault, Chinese-born widow of World War II Flying Tiger ace Lt. Gen. Claire Chennault, commenting on President Nixon's announced plans to visit Peking.

"If I find that something is wrong, I fight ... If there is a need, I take the case, sometimes when no one else will."—Phaik Gan Lim, internationally known trial lawyer, now the new Malaysian ambassador to the United Nations.

"Everyone has his own sex symbol today. But if there is a need for a sex symbol, I don't mind being it."—Actress Julie Ege, in an interview.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED — Mr. and Mrs. L.T. Carpenter, 2204 Forty-first St., Snyder, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Karen Sue, to Jerry Wayne Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor of Anson. The couple will exchange wedding vows August 7.

DISPLAYING SWAPS — Diane Chastain (left) and Fay Wistrand are displaying the SWAPS they have made to take to the Community Relations Workshop near Bloomington, Ill.

Girl Scout News

"How About This For a SWAP?" Diana Chastain and Fay Wistrand hope the 240 girls at the Community Relations Workshop near Bloomington, Illinois will like their SWAPS. They are outlines of Texas cut from leather samples furnished by Snyder Drug. SWAPS are not worn on uniforms but are fastened to hats or windbreakers. They are made of products characteristic of the state they represent. These maps of Texas will also have Fay's and Diane's names and addresses on their backs.

Fay has been a Program Aide at Camp Boothe Oaks this summer and Diane has taken her Program Aide training there. Both girls have been busy during the winter and spring gathering information and completing assignments for this Workshop. The highlight of this Conference will be the production of a live TV program on Scouting. Aside from serious learning, there will be the usual fun and fellowship of a gathering of Girl Scouts.

Diane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Chastain of Snyder, and Fay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Wistrand of Colorado City, will leave August 9th from Love Field, for the East Bay Camp-Conference Center near Bloomington.

Poverty Blamed On Individuals

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A University of Texas sociologist reports that a majority of Americans believe the blame for poverty lies within the individual, not with society.

Associate Professor Joe Feagin recently completed a nationwide survey on "American Attitudes Toward Poverty and Anti-Poverty Programs," under a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health.

LEMON CHIFFON PIE

Buttermilk goes into the filling and it's made without whipped cream.

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup plus 1-3rd cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
3 large eggs, separated
1 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
¼ cup lemon juice
9-inch crumb pie shell

In top of double boiler thoroughly stir together the gelatin, ½ cup sugar and salt. In a small mixing bowl beat together the egg yolks and buttermilk until combined; add to gelatin mixture. Cook over (not in) boiling water, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved and mixture thickens—about 8 minutes. Remove from heat; cool. Stir in lemon rind and juice. Chill until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Beat egg whites until stiff; gradually beat in 1-3rd cup sugar until very stiff. Fold into gelatin mixture. Turn into pie shell; chill until set.

Worthwhile Bonus

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q.—A neighbor of mine recently paid off the balance of the mortgage on his home. When my wife and I went to the bank to make plans to do the same thing, we were told that we would have to pay an extra fee if we wanted to prepay the mortgage ahead of time. Is this legal?

A.—Yes. When you obtain a mortgage from a lender, there is a clause in the contract specifying the conditions under which the loan can be paid off before maturity. In most cases, it calls for a prepayment fee. In others, it states that there is no fee. When it does not go into details, the borrower and the lender can negotiate terms when the situation arises. Presumably, your neighbor's agreement permitted prepayment without penalty. Have you read your mortgage contract to see what it says about prepayment?

Q.—I put a pane of glass in my kitchen window a few weeks ago. A crack has developed in the glass for no reason. Could this have been caused by a piece of glass with a flaw in it?

A.—It's possible but not likely. There are a dozen ways in which a window pane can be cracked without your knowledge, including such things as being hit by a ball or having a bird crash into it. Here's another probability: the pane may have been fitted too tightly. When purchasing the glass, it should be 1-16th of an inch smaller on each side than the dimensions of the window opening. This allows room for movement of the wood around the glass.

Q.—The veneer of a table top in our dining room has come loose at two of the four corners. I intend to refinish the entire top, taking off the old finish and putting on new, as well as regluing the veneer in place. Should I do the refinishing first and then reglue the veneer or should the veneer be done first?

A.—It is best to remove the old finish first, then reglue the veneer, then do the refinishing. But it is important that there be a long interval—at least a week, preferably more—between the regluing and the refinishing. This is to minimize the chance that the refinishing, especially if there is to be any rubbing, might disturb the new bond between the veneer and its base.

(For Andy Lang's helpful booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," send 30 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743. Also available, at the same price, is "Install-Resilient Floor Tiles." Be sure to specify which booklet you want.)

Multiracial Hotel Opened

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — This country's first fully multiracial hotel has been opened at Jan Smuts International Airport near here.

A spokesman said "we are not a political hotel. We obey the laws of the land. But every guest in the hotel will be treated with complete equality. We were asked by the government to build a multiracial hotel and this is what we have."

MR. AND MRS. BOBBY JOE HUTCHEISON

(PHOTO BY CRAFT)

Farrar, Hutcheison Wed At Bell-Seale Chapel July 7

Audrey Jean Farrar and Bobby Joe Hutcheison exchanged wedding vows in a single ring ceremony July 17 at 7 p.m. at Bell Seale Chapel. Rev. Buck Hatfield, pastor of Faith Baptist Church, officiated in the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Farrar, Rt. 3, Snyder and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Hutcheison, Gail Rt., Big Spring.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of slipper satin with a lace bodice and sleeves. The bodice and sleeves were accentuated with seed pearls. She wore a chapel length veil that extended into a train. For something borrowed she wore a pearl necklace belonging to Faye Eubank of Ira. She wore a blue garter and carried a handkerchief that her mother used when she was married.

The bride carried a bouquet of white carnations atop a white Bible, a gift of her parents.

The bride presented her mother a red rose as she came down the aisle and groom's mother a red rose after the ceremony.

All gowns for the wedding were fashioned by the bride's mother and Marie Calvert.

Susan Farrar, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a rose colored embroidered chiffon gown featuring an empire bodice and carried a colonial nosegay of multi-colors.

Tracy Wise, niece of the groom of Big Spring and Glenda Sue Wortham, niece of the bride were flower girls. They wore floor length gowns in colors of apricot and rose and carried baskets filled with white rose petals.

Revin Stoker and Sarah Morris, both of Snyder, were bridesmaids. They wore floor length empire style satin gowns in colors of lilac and lime green.

Alton Thomas Jr. of Waco was ring bearer. He carried a heart shaped pillow of satin and lace. Keith Ward lighted candles.

Billie Hutchieson of Kingsville, served as his brother's bestman. Lynn Smith of Lubbock and Lannie Proctor of Big Spring were groomsmen. Steve Farrar and George Wortham of Snyder and Mickey Smith of Sweetwater ushered guests.

The chapel was decorated with a 15 branch candelabra with baskets of flowers on either side. White ribbons marked the family pews.

Ralph Wesson, organist, played traditional wedding music and "We've Only Just Begun," "More," and "Theme From Love Story."

A reception was held in the community room of Snyder Savings and Loan. The bride's table was covered with a sheer cloth trimmed in lace and centered with an arrangement of orchid and white flowers. The four tiered wedding cake, made by Mrs. Wm. Raborn, was served by Jenny Ward and Marie Calvert. Also in the house party were Donna Chambers, Belinda Badger, Mary Webb and Sheila Sims.

Sheila Smith of Sweetwater presided over the bride's book.

For the four day wedding trip to Fort Worth the bride chose a two piece beige pant suit with embroidered stitching of her chosen colors.

The couple will make their home at Big Spring.

The bride attended Snyder High School.

The bride groom is a graduate of Big Spring High School and is employed by the Railroad at Big Spring.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were from Big Spring, Waco, Lubbock, Dallas, Fort Worth, Kingsville, Trent and Vealmore.

LAS ANIMAS, Colo. (AP) — A seven-mile irrigation canal, known as the Tarbox Ditch, irrigated 1,000 acres on three nearby farms in 1867 in the first successful irrigation experiment in southeast Colorado.

Spencer, Rounsaville Wed In Ceremony

Ruth Spencer of Snyder and Earl Rounsaville of Seagraves were wed in a double ring ceremony July 10 at 8:30 p.m. in the home of the bride. Rev. Jack Vineyard of Lubbock officiated in the ceremony.

The bride wore a street length gown of sparkling silver, flecked with orchid, designed and created by Mrs. Alma Harral of Snyder. She carried a white and orchid bouquet on a white Bible. Her shoes were white and silver.

Mrs. Ernest Holman of Jacksboro served as her sister's matron of honor. Her light orchid dress was complimented with white accessories and an orchid and white corsage.

Ruthie Lyon of Snyder, great niece of the bride and Michael Tucker of Lubbock, grandson of the groom, lighted candles. Miss Lyon wore a dress fashioned from the same material as that of the brides.

The couple stood before a brick fireplace which held a seven branched candelabra and greenery for the wedding ceremony.

A reception was held in the bride's home following the ceremony. The table held an arrangement of orchid flowers and greenery and the white and orchid wedding cake. Mrs. J. L. Lyon, niece of the bride and Mrs. Earlene Tucker of Lubbock, daughter of the groom presided over the table.

Following the ten day wedding trip to Colorado the couple will be at home at 1203 Twenty-sixth St., Snyder.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mrs. Bob Powell of Jacksboro, Clyde Holmes of Bell Gardens, Calif., Mitchell Stevens and son of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Mason Rhoades of Graham and Mrs. Earlene Tucker and children of Lubbock.

Engagement Is Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tiner, 2906 Ave. Y, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Deborah Jean, to William Allen (Billy) Knight, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Knight.

The couple will be married August 7 at the home of the bridegroom.

New Yorker Wins 'Stay'

NEW YORK (AP) — Daniel Patrick Nicoletti, 27, wishes he had been back home in Niagara Falls, Ont., when he recently won a one-week, all-expense "stay" in New York.

A student at the Traphagen School of Fashion, he won his "stay" for being chosen the runnerup in a nationwide student competition in mink design. Nicoletti designed a midi coat of vertically worked mink with a hooded cape. His design can be worn as a stole since the hood is detachable.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES ROY WOLF

Warren, Wolf Wed In Ceremony

Joyce Ann Warren and James Roy Wolf were united in marriage July 19 at 5:30 p.m. in the home of the groom's parents. Rev. James Zedlitz, pastor of the United Pentecostal Church, officiated in the single ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Mack Warren, Rt. 2 Hermleigh and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wolf, 3012 Ave. V, Snyder.

Given in marriage by her brother, Robert Warren, the bride wore a floor length white gown of brocaded satin. The elbow length veil was attached to a crown headpiece. She carried a red lace silk handkerchief belonging to the groom's grandmother. The bride carried a bouquet of red and white carnations.

Ann Campbell, maid of honor, was attired in a red dotted swiss gown fashioned with an empire style bodice. She carried a single white carnation. Connie Warren, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaid. She wore a gown fashioned after that of the maid of honor.

Stan Warren, brother of the bride, was ring bearer. He carried a red pillow with white tassels, made by the bride's mother.

Ray Wolf served as his twin brother's best man.

Mrs. James Zedlitz accompanied herself at the organ as she sang "Always." She accompanied Cleo Wolf as she sang "Wither Thou Goest."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Hermleigh Community Center. The bride's chosen colors of red and white were carried out in the table decor. Punch and cake were served by Deborah Souls and Joyce Garrett.

The couple will make their home at Fort Lewis, Washington where the bridegroom is stationed with the U. S. Army.

The bride is a 1971 graduate of Hermleigh High School.

The bridegroom attended Snyder High School.

Out-of-town guest for the wedding was Mrs. Cleo Johnson of Amarillo.

Stock Up On Season Bargains

COLLEGE STATION — Make the most of summer bargains — follow these marketing tips when shopping this week, suggests Gwendolyne Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

In the market fruit section, nectarine supplies are heavy and quality is very good. Supplies of seedless grapes are increasing and banana imports remain heavy, making for attractive prices.

July is the peak month for plum supplies, she says. Prices on plums are nearing a low point with a great variety available. Watermelons are also in good supply with lower prices. Cantaloupe shipment is at a temporary lull. The specialist reports peach supplies are slowly increasing as a short crop is harvested.

Cherries, apricots and honey dew melons also await your selection, she continues.

Vegetables in good supply at economical prices are okra, corn, blackeye peas, cabbage, eggplant, mustard, turnip greens, celery, potatoes and yellow onions.

Only vegetables fresh in appearance should be purchased, Mrs. Clyatt points out. Then handle them gently, she adds.

Best beef values include chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks and roasts, ground beef and short ribs, Sirloin and rib steaks also may be more reasonably priced. In addition, good values may be found on corned beef.

At the beef counter, look for features on the less tender cuts generally in less demand during hot weather, Mrs. Clyatt says.

Pork values include picnics, hams, shoulder roasts and steaks, end-cut loin roasts and pork liver. Canned hams and bacon features may also be found this week.

Egg prices are about the same as last week, with the Grade A large size continuing to offer the best combination of quality and economy.

True to the seasonal pattern fryers are featured for summer cook outs again this week. Look for special prices on whole birds and fryer parts. Roasting chickens are also a good value in some markets.

The average family of four in the United States eats about 1,000 pounds of fruits and vegetables each year.
