Spray Highways

New Grasshopper Control Program Includes This County

Changes in the grasshopper control program have resulted in Collingsworth, along with 18 other Panhandle counties, being included in the state's highway spraying project and provisions were announced in which blocks of less than 100,000 acres of grass in a single county can be sprayed under the state-federal program. Spraying details on the new program have not been worked out, but owners of grassland interested in participating can contact county agent Bob Lynch.

here, and only 30,000 acres of the necessary 100,000 was signed up. "A lot of this would not have been eligible, since it included cropland," Lynch said. Cropland is definitely eliminated from the new program, also, and this includes turn rows. Under this new program, the federal government will share one-third of the cost up to 25¢ per acre. A designated county official, usually the county judge, will take three bids from commercial spraying companies, and the low bid will be accepted. "This program is making it easier for the operator to get his grassland sprayed," Lynch pointed out, but at the same time he urged that farmers and ranchers act promptly, since grasshopper damage already is spreading to the crops. A grasshopper count during the last week showed 20 to 40 hoppers per square yard, as compared to more than 100 announced in a count recently by a representative of the Texas Department of Agriculture, which was taken in a single spot. Anything over 15 hoppers per square yard is considered damaging.

Bess Owen, 58, County Political Leader, Dies

S. B. (Bess) Owen, 58, active in the community and political life of the county for many years, died in St. Joseph's Hospital Sunday, June 22, at 1:25 p. m. He had been in failing health for several months, and in recent weeks his condition had grown weaker.

Mr. Owen had lived here 40 years, making his home in Wellington, although he farmed in the Dodson area.

Although he never held public office, he was one of the county's most active citizens in politics, and counted among his friends leaders on both the state and national level. Through the years, he had been influential in bringing a number of these to Wellington, to get acquainted with the local viewpoint and help make the Collingsworth county voice heard on the higher levels of law-making.

Silas Bester Owen was born December 28, 1898, at Lockhart, the son of S. B. and Abbie Jones Owen. He came here from that town.

Mr. Owen was active also in farm affairs and in those organizations working for improved farm conditions.

He also was active in the Gribble Sunday School Class of First Methodist Church.

He was married to Miss Daisy McDowell of Dodson on June 12, 1930, at Wellington.

Funeral services were held at the First Methodist Church Tuesday at 3 p. m., with the Rev. J. F. Michael, Methodist pastor, and Elder E. J. Norman of Childress, pastor of the Primitive Baptist Church, officiating. Pall bearers were Judge Luther Gribble, E. F. Bartlett, A. B. Clark, Bert Starkey, Rufe Jameson and Emory Hunter. Burial was in the Dodson cemetery under the direction of Kelson Funeral Home.

Mr. Owen is survived by his wife; three brothers and four sisters: Odus Owen of Lockhart; Claude Owen and Jess Owen of Mathis; Mrs. Grover Blondell of Corpus Christi; Mrs. Ray Handley of Lockney; Mrs. August Baetge of Doss and Mrs. D. H. Handley of Wellington.

County and City Fires Destroy Grass and Stubble

The Wellington Fire Department has been called out to duty several times during the past week. Several being in the county as well as in the city.

David Peter's wrecking yard on Highway 83 was the scene of a fire on June 13, which was tires burning. A passerby thought it was the gin and turned in a report. A wheat field of Lake Moody's at Rolla that had already been cleared of all wheat caught fire on June 14.

A grass fire was set at the George Murdock's place on June 15 by a trash fire.

On June 16, an outside electric wire got against a gas pipe at the building formerly occupied by Castleberry Motor Co., and burned the pipe in two. The building itself did not catch fire, according to Lawrence Warrick. Warrick Feed Store has barley stored there.

Before the storm on June 18,, a grass fire caught at Skeet Clark's home at 1600 Graham St., by a trash fire.

After the storm, a fire was caused by a short in electrical wires at the transformer north of the Co-op Gin. Two bales of cotton and several sacks were caught fire by the flying sparks of the short.

A wheat field that had already been cleared of wheat, at Mrs. Royce Daves' place caught fire on June 19.

A washing machine caught fire by a short in electricity wires, in the south part of town at the Alamo Apartment on June 20.

Still Tally Production

231 Cars of Wheat Shipped from County

Collingsworth county is still tallying up its record 1958 wheat crop, although the grain being received is down to a dribble, elevators report.

Final figures on county production will probably be known next week, as the elevators have an opportunity to check grain receipts.

Figures are available on the 231 cars of wheat shipped out of the county by rail, and E. Dowdy of the M-K-T reported Wednesday that 166 cars have been shipped from Wellington, while Ed Crowder of the Farmers Co-op, Dodson, reported an additional 65 cars from Dodson.

Wellington has handled a total of 1041 cars of wheat this season off the Wellington branch of the Katy, and all points east still have large quantities of wheat piled on the ground, Dowdy reported.

The Wellington branch includes besides Wellington and Dodson, Hollis, Gould, Duke, McQueen and Victory, Oklahoma.

One train of 120 loaded cars went out of Wellington Monday, and another 122 cars, pulled by four engines, left last week.

Harvesting the county's rye crop is under way when weather permits, but rain already has resulted in considerable damage. In some fields, it is estimated as much as 50 per cent of the rye has shattered out of the head, and rain is causing the grain to fall.

Greenbelt Board Approves Plans

The Board of Directors of Greenbelt Rural Electric Co-operative, Inc., approved plans and specifications for the new $125,000 office building in a meeting Saturday, June 21.

George Henry, Greenbelt manager, said the next steps will be advertising for bids and letting the contract. It is hoped that construction will begin by September 1.

All directors were present: Fred Bourlnad of Quail, president; A. J. Garland of Ashtola, vice president; W. S. Kromer of Vinson, secretary; Selba Rainey of Samnorwood; E. E. Henderson of Twitty; D. E. Leathers of Lelia Lake and Terrell Christian of Claude.

Social Security Head Visits City

Boys Outnumber Girls

Scholastic Census Up 74 in County

Seventy-four more school children were counted in this year's scholastic census than a year ago, figures from the office of B. W. Beard, county superintendent show.

This year, 1663 children were listed as compared to 1589 for the 1957 year.

Wellington school district gained scholastics, according to Mrs. Harold Scott, deputy superintendent. This year, 1,025 boys and girls were counted, compared to 954 last year.

Dodson also gained, rising from 143 to 164 scholastics.

Samnorwood added four to its scholastic total, reaching 236 this year.

Quail was the only district to lose children, dropping from 260 to 238.

Boys outnumber girls 876 to 787 in the county, and among the white students, the ratio is a little higher, 796 to 693.

Quail has 125 boys and 113 girls, with no colored students. Samnorwood school enrolls 115 boys and the same number of girls. The six Negro children, 2 boys and 4 girls, go to school in Shamrock.

Dodson has 84 boys and 84 girls, while the 10 Negro children and 8 Negro girls come to Wellington school.

White boys outnumber girls 472 to 403 in the county, although Negro boys outnumber girls 32 to 32.

The County 4-H Club Camp, first held here for both boys and girls, will be at Panfork Baptist Encampment northeast of Wellington Tuesday and Wednesday, July 1 and 2.

Final plans for the camp were made Monday, June 23, when a group of 4-H members met with Miss Kathryn Potter, home demonstration agent, and Bob Lynch, county agent.

Registration will begin at 9 a. m. Tuesday, and there will be a registration fee of 60 cents per member. Camp ends Wednesday at 4 p. m.

The program of instruction this year will include training in record book keeping; recreation leadership in which the boys and girls will be taught games, and group singing, which they in turn will lead in their own clubs.

There will be swimming sessions, and instruction in rifle safety is planned for boys, and study of personal grooming for the girls. Wildlife sessions are set up tentatively.

4-H members will be assigned duties about the camp, and they will receive a letter instructing them as to foods to bring. Home Demonstration Club women and adult 4-H leaders will prepare the meals.

Approximately 325 boys and girls are active in 4-H Clubs of the county but Lynch said this week that the agents had been unable to estimate how many would attend, since this is the first boys and girls combined camp to be held.

City State Bank is joining in sponsoring the camp by paying incidental expenses of the event.

The 4-H Committee, with Miss Potter and Lynch includes Joyce Alexander, Nancy Alexander, Jamie Ross, Donna Lowry, Kathryn Sanders, J. C. Saunders, Dean Johnson, Granville Killian, and Herbert Duncan Jr. Mrs. J. L. Alexander of Samnorwood is assisting.

Wellington Measures Up to Standard

Measures Up to Standard and Half Inches

Traces of rain during the week were no more than a few inches of rain.

County Commissioner Alfred Knoll said 5 1/2 inches was measured at his farm at Nicholson since Friday, June 20, and a similar amount fell throughout that area.

Blowing sand did some damage to cotton in that area, but most of the cotton will grow out of this. However, a considerable amount of feed will have to be replanted.

Dodson received three inches of moisture during the week-end, with two inches falling Friday night and an additional inch Monday.

Quail also received three inches during the period, two inches Friday night and an inch Monday. Loco reported 1.40 inches falling Friday night and Saturday, and several showers early this week.

Our Fancy Cars and Our Driving Habits Mean an Insurance Hike

The announcement from Austin Saturday of proposed increases in automobile insurance rates may have been a surprise to many car owners, but it is a warning of what Collingsworth motorists can get ready to pay.

To a driver who has never made a claim on his policy, a better than 20 per cent increase in the cost of comprehensive coverage seems a little steep.

There is a sound reason for the insurance companies asking these increases: they are considered inevitable largely because of fancy automobile styling that has resulted in much higher repair costs, plus a steady rise in the average number and size of claims.

The average motorist has become insurance-claim conscious, and a dent in the body of his car that he might have let go a few years ago, is now the subject of a prompt claim. It is just as promptly settled and repaired.

The increase in size of these claims is a decisive factor. Higher costs of repairs and replacements has taken many repair jobs out of the category formerly covered by the $50 deductible clause.

The recommendations of the state insurance board, on a state-wide average, would be increases of 22.1% for comprehensive coverage, 14.3% for bodily injury and property damage, and 12.3% for collision coverage.

Rising costs of medical and hospital care, enters in the insurance rate increase; so do the facts that we are driving more cars, and there are more two-car families, becoming more damage-suit conscious, and there is an increasingly higher number of these suits filed following wrecks—and an increasingly larger number of juries willing to award damages. That is apparent on the 100th District Court docket for Collingsworth county. Bodily injury claims settled in 1957 were 87.4% above the 1946 level, and property damage claims almost 100% higher.

In the last analysis, it is we who are the country's car and truck drivers who have set up our own insurance rate increases.

More Interest at the Base of Our Politics—the Precinct Conventions

Politics in Collingsworth County is picking up in one respect, the interest already shown in precinct and county conventions.

Precinct conventions will be held on the day of the first primary, and the places have been announced. It is now up to the voters—and the Democratic Precinct conventions can gather in most of the voters in a precinct—to be there and have a voice in electing the delegates to the county convention to be held later on.

It is encouraging to see that for the first time in years, we have a candidate for precinct chairman. It is little things such as these that American politics is made of.

While it is a fact that states having the two-party system generally have more interest in politics, it may be that the two factions in Texas' dominant party also are for more political thinking on the part of us at the party's grass roots.

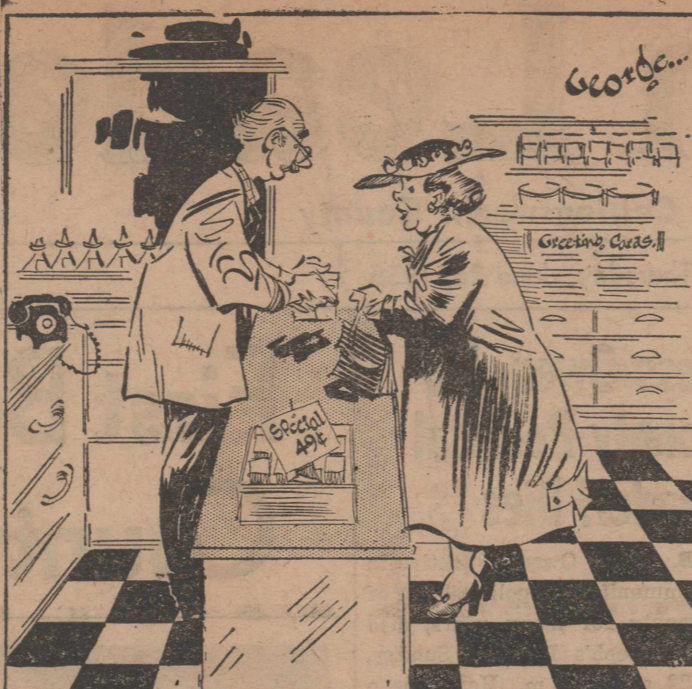

It is well and good, and it is most important that we get out and express our political opinions where they count and where they can be heard, in our precincts and county.

* In case you have been looking at the darker side of things lately—cheer up. The future looks bright. According to the Committee for Economic Development, the average income of American families after payment of all taxes should be at least $7,100 by 1975. That is quite a rise over today's levels.

According to the committee, these are the factors which will bring about such prosperity: Improvement in public education, continuous investment in enterprise, increased private savings, mobility of both labor and capital, efficient management of both business and government, and rising foreign trade.

Such continued growth is especially important because of the constantly growing competition of the Communist bloc. This competition can be successfully met if we foster the dynamic forces in our society.

Two big combines harvesting the Jones Singles wheat crop — a quarter of a block lying just east of their house on 15th street. If you heard what sounded like the U. S. Postal service being undermined, it was installation of a new drain pipe in the basement, Postmaster R. T. Savage explains. When the post office was built, the only drain was put on the opposite side of the basement from the boiler, and for 20 years, when it became necessary to drain the boiler, water was let out on the floor, then swept over to the drain. Last time a building inspector was down, he took one look and said: "My Lord, get a bid on this." Stingels did the work.

Later she explained: "My dad is always telling us a lot of malarkey about how he used to play ball, and I decided the next time I visited here, I'd just look and see." As she left, she added: "I didn't find just what I was hunting."

The Russell Pogues are planning next year's vacation already: a trip to Cuba to visit the Rev. Daniel Rodriguez and family at Consolation del Sur. Rev. Rodriguez was here two weeks ago to study work of First Baptist Church. A. S. J. Lockhart took the premium for individual exhibits.

The Boy's Agricultural Club, organized only 1 year, registered 214 members.

Utecht stressed the amazing feature of the fair was an art exhibit, all home talent. Ralph Stowell, 10, was the youngest exhibitor, showing some charcoal drawings. Altus May, 12, had an oil painting of a collier, and Plevna Stall, 15, showed two oils of an Indian girl and several crayons.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I note that White House mouth-pieces say Goldfine, the woolmonger, didn't get a thing for the money he put out to pay Presidential Assistant Adams' hotel bills.

My short-fused neighbor says it's nice to learn that some people can get rich by putting their money into unprofitable investments.

But he thinks maybe Mr. Goldfine got a little backhanded benefit. Like he has noticed around here, kids with school boarding daddies don't get special favors from the teachers, but don't get run over by them either.

I see where the Governor of Colorado got turned down flat here the other day when he applied for some extra federal money to help fight grasshoppers.

My cross-wired neighbor says maybe the Governor hadn't noticed that U. S. aid is bounteous only to communist-leaners, multi-wifed kings with unbalanced budgets, etc.

Says now if he was a dictator instead of a mere Governor, and had a fast-living son sparring the movie shapellies with mink and sports cars, Washington would likely have rolled him out a red carpet right up to the free money counter.

I see where the Army wants Congress to let them throw back more of the mental flyweights they often get from the draft boards.

My draft-free neighbor says it used to be, if a man couldn't make a living any other way, he could always take up soldering, or farming, or go to the legislature.

But nowadays these jobs take brains, too. Soldiers have to nursemaid school kids, farmers have to know which crop it pays best not to raise, and politicians need to know the difference between a hotel bill and a deep freeze.

I see where six congressmen from Minnesota had to get cleared with the security risk checkers before they could go to a World Health Organization meeting in their own home state.

Some say this is as silly as questioning the party loyalty of a postmaster, but my suspicious neighbor don't think it would hurt to check up on the motives of all congressmen.

Says it wouldn't make any difference, but it would be interesting to know, for instance, if they are bandrupting the country through carelessness or doing it on purpose.

I see where Mexico has a new law which says some wheat flour has got to be integrated with the corn meal when a citizen makes tortillas.

My figuring neighbor don't think as some do, that this edict is due to a drive by the Mexican Supreme Court to keep wheat from feeling inferior on account of being spurned by the tortilla makers.

In fact, he figures it is a move instigated by the same meddling characters who brain-washed many U. S. cooks into putting flour and sugar in corn bread.

I see where a self-ordained expert says the women-folks have took to bags in order to tantalize and make the men wonder what they are hiding.

Like back when a glimpse of a girl ankle was worth a trip to town on Saturday night and a long cold stake-out on a windy corner.

But my observing neighbor says it is going to be hard for the girls to keep it a secret how they are built, unless they change some other dress habits, or else somebody invents sack type halters and shorts.

I see where one of the big universities now has met a crying need and is offering a 3-hour credit course in fishing.

Which my progressive neighbor says is far ahead of the old days when you had to learn the art of fishing by trial and error, or from some undiplomaed Doctor of Worm Washing.

Says that maybe this trend will lead to the setting up of many other useful college courses, say, in TV Watching, Work Evasion, and Backyard Meat Burning.

I note that wavy-tressed rock-n-roller Jerry Lee Lewis don't feel bad about marrying his 13-year-old cousin when he already had one wife.

He explained to the squares over in England that this was all right because he had married double once before, but they went ahead and decided they could be entertained just as well by less-wedded singers.

My musician neighbor says he sort of envies the British, on account of when Mr. Lewis gets on their nerves they can send him home.

Legal Terminology Times Necessary

Many persons feel that other legal verbiage used by lawyers are intended only to confound and confuse the layman.

Nothing could be further from the truth. In drafting legal documents, the lawyer attempts to draft them in such a way as to exclude all ambiguities.

In the last analysis, a legal document means what some court at some future time shall declare that it means. As a consequence, it is the lawyer's duty to his client to attempt to draft the instrument in such a way that it can mean only one thing.

Most any paragraph of legal language contains numerous ambiguities. When a lawyer refers to the "deed aforesaid" he is attempting to make it clear beyond question that the deed he is referring to is the deed mentioned in a prior portion of the instrument. Likewise, when he places a legal document with a list of "whereases" he is reciting pertinent facts to the benefit of the court to show

The recommended controls of these bugs are 20% Sabadilla dust or 25% Lindane sprayed at the rate of 1 teaspoon to the gallon of water.

He also explained now is the time to spray your evergreens for bagworms. They are small now but will soon cover themselves with bags.

Lead arsenic, 1 tablespoon to the gallon of water and 60% toxaphene, 1 tablespoon to the gallon of water, both sprayed until the plant is thoroughly wet, are two controls for bagworms.

Von McDaniel Goes to North Carolina Club

Following his re-assignment Friday by the Houston Buffs, 19-year-old Von McDaniel headed for Arnett, Harmon county, Okla., to rest a week before reporting to the Winston-Salem N. C., club.

Harry Walker, Buff manager, declared "Von is a victim of pressure and needs a classification where he can regain confidence."

Early this season, the Arnett schoolboy star was released to the Buffs by the Cards, St. Louis, where he was paired last season with his brother, Lindy. He chalked up a 7-5 record for the Cards in 1957 and became the idol of St. Louis teenage fans.

The "booger" that all pitchers dread—lack of control—took hold of the blond six-footer early in spring training. Due to his wildness, he worked only a few games in pre-season exhibitions and played in only one National League match before being sent to Houston on 24-hour recall.

At Houston, Von won his first game against Tulsa, starting on the mound five times in all and doing one relief job. In 18 innings he allowed 20 runs, all earned on 23 hits; walked 30 and fanned five.

A hitch showed up in his curve and Manager Walker announced the transfer though Von is still subject to recall by the Cards.

"I'll have to work this thing out by myself," declared Von. And his shortgrass friends know that he will.

Dr. and Mrs. Ansel McDowell Jr., and daughters, Marian and Linda, of Friona, and Mr. and Mrs. Ansel McDowell of Hereford, were here Saturday night and Sunday at the bedside of S. B. Owen. Mr. McDowell is a brother of Mrs. Owen.

Apple Slices Are Fine With Mixed Cheese Dip

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

Never serve "applesnacks"? They are crisp slices of red Delicious apples for the nibbling served with an interesting three-cheese dip. Friends in the State of Washington gave us this idea.

Three-Cheese Dip
One cup cottage cheese, well drained, 1 cup grated cheddar cheese, 2 ounces bleu cheese, mashed, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon horseradish, 1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 3 green onions, finely chopped, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon celery salt, pepper.
Blend cheeses together. Add remaining ingredients. Pile in bowl. Serve with crisp, fresh apple slices.

Then from California came this salad recipe:

Belvedere Salad
(4-6 generous servings)
Three-quarters cup macaroni, 1 cup ripe olives, 1 (6 1/2-ounce or 7-ounce) can tuna, 2 hard-boiled eggs, 2 cups finely shredded cabbage, 1/2 cup mayonnaise, 2 teaspoons prepared mustard, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt.
Cook macaroni in boiling

Dunking apple slices in a dip made of three cheeses will please guests as a meal appetizer or snack idea.

salted water until tender. Drain, and rinse thoroughly with cold water. Cut olives into large pieces. Drain oil from tuna, and flake coarsely. Dice eggs. Combine macaroni, olives, tuna, eggs and cabbage. Blend mayonnaise, mustard, vinegar and salt, and toss lightly with salad mixture.

UNCLE LUKE IS A SKEPTIC

To be truthful about it, Uncle Luke is plumb "ornery" about a lot of things. He rants at the blasted "airplanes" that scare his chickens . . . he fusses about the way women dress nowadays . . . he's never been to a picture show . . . and one of his pet hates is those "h*x*? squawk boxes" somebody around the house is always turning on while he's trying to read his newspaper. Oh yes! Uncle Luke likes his newspaper . . . dotes on it, in fact. Says it's the only way a feller could tell what's really going on in this crazy world nowadays.

Thank goodness we don't have to put up with many folks like Uncle Luke . . . but if you have an advertising message and want to be sure Uncle Luke sees it, but if it's YOUR HOMETOWN NEWSPAPER.

TO THE SHERIFF OF COLLINGSWORTH COUNTY, TEXAS — GREETINGS:

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to cause to be posted for not less than 15 days prior to the hereinafter set forth date of hearing at the Courthouse door of Collingsworth County, Texas, a copy of the following notice and also to publish this notice in the Wellington Leader, a paper of general circulation in the County of Collingsworth, State of Texas, once a week for two consecutive weeks, the first publication thereof to be made at least twenty days prior to the date of hearing:

THE STATE OF TEXAS:
TO ALL PERSONS INTERESTED in the formation of COLLINGSWORTH COUNTY WATER CONTROL AND IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT, Number one:

Notice is hereby given that on the 18th day of July, 1958 at 10:00 A. M., in the County Commissioners Court room in Wellington, Texas, a hearing will be had on a petition filed with the County Clerk, which petition calls for the formation of Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District, Number One which will have boundaries contiguous with the County boundaries of Collingsworth County, Texas which petition reads as follows to wit —

PETITION FOR THE FORMATION OF COLLINGSWORTH COUNTY WATER CONTROL AND IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT, NUMBER ONE:

Now comes the undersigned and respectfully petition the Commissioners Court of Collingsworth County, Texas to form Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District, Number One in accordance with the laws of the State of Texas in accordance with Section 59 of Article 16 of the Constitution of the State of Texas. That the name shall be Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District, Number one. That the boundaries of this district shall be contiguous with the boundaries of Collingsworth County, Texas, as said County is organized and exists under the laws of the State of Texas and more particularly said boundaries are as follows to wit: "BEGINNING at a point being the South East corner of Collingsworth County, Texas and the South-East corner of Section number 34 A Block O. S. in Collingsworth County, Texas; THENCE West along the South boundary line of Collingsworth County, Texas to a point being the South-West corner of Section Number 30 in Block 19 of the H & G N Ry. Co. Surveys situated in Collingsworth County, Texas; THENCE North along the West Boundary line of Collingsworth County, Texas to the North-West corner of Collingsworth County, Texas and being the North-West corner of Section number 17 situated in Block 23 of the H & G N Ry Co. Surveys situated in Collingsworth County, Texas; THENCE East along the north boundary line of Collingsworth County, Texas, to the North-East corner of Collingsworth County, Texas and being the North East corner of Section number 84 in Block O. S. situated in Collingsworth County, Texas; THENCE South along the east boundary line of Collingsworth County, Texas to the place of beginning and containing 585,162.61 acres of land."

That this district is to be organized for the following purposes:

(1) For the conservation and development of the water of Salt-Fork of Red River as same is situated in Collingsworth County, Texas, including the control, storing, preservation and distribution of its storm and flood waters,

(2) For irrigation of land needing the same,

(3) For power and all other useful purposes,

(4) For the preservation and conservation of all water resources of Collingsworth County, Texas,

(5) Furnish water for industrial purposes,

(6) Recreation and wild life conservation,

The general nature of the work to be done is the construction of a dam upon Salt-Fork of Red River at a Dam site suitable according to engineering standards approximately 8 1/2 miles down the river from where Highway 83 crosses Salt Fork of Red River situated in Collingsworth County, Texas, or at such other location as the engineers representing the district shall deem advisable.

That said dam to be constructed shall be in an approximate length of 4500 feet and in an approximate height of 80 feet.

That the estimated cost of the construction of such a project will be one million dollars.

That there is a need for the construction of such a dam as the waters of Salt-Fork of Red River as it now passes through Collingsworth County is unharnessed and causes much flooding of land and there is sufficient water that the same may be conserved and used for irrigation and other purposes as heretofore set forth. That there are thousands of acre feet of water which flow through this County and serve no useful purpose and the same could be stored and used for industrial purposes.

That A. M. Woolverton, a registered engineer of the State of Texas will furnish evidence as to the feasibility of this project.

That the above set forth project is feasible and the undersigned respectfully request the County Judge of Collingsworth County, Texas, to issue an order setting the date for the hearing by the County Commissioners Court on this petition and that the County Clerk of Collingsworth County issue the necessary notice in compliance with the law and upon a hearing that the Commissioners Court enter an order creating the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District, Number One.

At this hearing evidence will be heard before the Commissioners Court of Collingsworth County, Texas to determine if said Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District Number One should be created in compliance with the Statutes of the State of Texas.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND AND THE SEAL OF SAID COUNTY CLERK OF COLLINGSWORTH COUNTY, TEXAS, on this the 23rd day of June, 1958.

Guardsmen Home After Rough Training Course

NORTH FORT HOOD, Tex. — The Wellington units of the Texas National Guard are due home Sunday, having just completed their annual two-week summer encampment at North Fort Hood. Most of the men will return by motor convoy and should arrive at the Armory about noon.

Our Citizen-Soldiers are somewhat tired and weary as they complete the final stage of their training. For most of the men it has been a trying two weeks, practically every man had to perform double duties. Even though the duties were doubled the men as a whole seemed to have enjoyed this camp more than any previous one. For the first time since reorganization, the men have had an opportunity to participate in live fire situations with their individual infantry weapons. Every man, excepting those with prior service, participated in the combat training courses. These courses included the close combat course, where in the men were required to cross barbed wire obstacles, fire live rounds at moving targets, cross logs over eight foot tranches, half filled with water, throw hand grenades and finally assault dummies with their bayonets. In other courses they were required to crawl on their bellies under live machine gun fire and on their backs under wire obstacles no more than six inches from the ground, all this plus live dynamite charges exploding within a few feet.

The recent rains, and the hot sun didn't assist the comforts of the men who for 50 weeks out of the year work in air conditioned offices, and many other less strenuous occupations. After a day or night in the field, long lines of troops took their turns to be hosed down, fully clothed, on the vehicle wash racks, because they were too dirty to go to their living quarters. Skinned knees and elbows were grossly pampered.

The schedule was ran at a rapid pace. The troops were rushed to the field to receive their combat training, and then rushed back to their respective jobs, as radio operators, clerks, medics, and many other duties. The morale and attitudes of the citizen-soldiers has been unsurpassed. Most of the men feel that in the event a combat situation arose, they are qualified to defend themselves and their country.

The tent city of North Fort Hood is quite a contrast from their homes. The whistling of artillery shells, the rattle of machine guns, the pops of rifles, the roars of heavy tanks, will have been memories within a few days, but instilled in the minds and hearts of every participant of this training is the thought and confidence that he is better qualified to defend his country and that Uncle Sam has spent his money wisely by sending him thru this rigorous training.

Hereford, Tex., Man Reports— 2 Bale Per Acre Cotton Using Phillips 66 Ammonia

J. F. Martin, who farms 1,720 acres near Hereford, Tex., says: "I put down Phillips 66 ammonia pre-plant on my irrigated cotton and made 2 bales to the acre. I also use Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia on my wheat and maize land with good results."

Other Southwestern farmers have discovered that 82% nitrogen from top quality Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia helps them get more profit per acre through higher yields. They get more cotton that classes higher at the gin . . . yields of sorghum grain and ensilage are increased . . . more marketable vegetables are harvested . . . and profits on wheat are increased through better forage and higher yields of grain.

SALT FORK SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

Cotton Burrs

Although cotton farmers are just now planting cotton, now is a good time to give consideration to the value of the cotton burrs as a fertilizer to your soil.

There is about 500 pounds of cotton burrs to every bale of cotton ginned. This is equal to 75 pounds of 5-10-15 commercial fertilizer. This amount of fertilizer would probably cost the farmer about $3.50 were he to buy it at a retail store.

A ton of cotton burrs put on your soil is equal to the nitrogen in 150 pounds of 10-20-10 Commercial fertilizer according to analysis.

Analysis of compost burrs showed 30 pounds of nitrogen per ton. Bacterial action on the compost causes an increase in nitrogen. It takes 6 months to make a good compost of cotton burrs.

Analysis show that a ton of cotton burrs has 14 pounds of nitrogen, 7.9 pounds of phosphoric acid and 101.5 pounds of potash.

Stubble Mulching

Tons and tons of small grain stubble is falling into the ground with our bountiful harvest this year. This also has a real value to the farmer if properly managed. Average stubble normally will put about 18 to 20 pounds of nitrogen into the soil.

When a farmer mulches his straw into the top of his soil he protects the land against wind and water erosion while crops are not growing, conserves moisture, reduces the import of the raindrops and break up the surface water film and permits surface decay of organic matter and reduces the runoff.

New Guar

There is a new type of guar on the market now. It branches out instead of the single stalk which cooperators have planted over the district the last several years. It is called Groehler Guar and is available at your local seed dealers.

Vaughan Side Oats Grama

W. O. Vaughn, supervisor of the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District, has planted a new variety of Side Oats Grama. It came from Vaughn, New Mexico, and is one of the most promising of some 50 varieties being tested. He has gotten it up to a good stand and has it where he can irrigate it.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Strong and children of Artesia, N. M., visited recently with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Miller and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Strong.

to Plants Possible Cancer Vaccine

University of Texas scientists have turned to plants in their search for a possible cancer vaccine.

Alfred Taylor, of the University of Texas Biochemical Institute, and his associates are testing more than 100 extracts of plants from the world in their attempt to find a plant juice that will either retard or destroy cancerous tissue.

Plant extracts are supplied by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

They hope to move by cancer fighters to a vaccine results from the findings of a decade ago. Findings indicated that cancer may be caused by a virus. If it is caused by a virus, then it follows logically that a vaccine would be the method to use in attacking the "cancer virus," Dr. Taylor said.

They know certain tumors are caused by virus, and a lot of data supports the belief that a virus causes cancer," he added. However, up to now only a small smattering of work has been done on developing an anti-cancer vaccine by scientists over the world.

All through history plants have supplied medicines for man. Antibiotics came from molds, and it is possible that some plant may supply an anti-cancer extract, Dr. Taylor observed.

In testing the anti-cancerous activity of plant extracts, Dr. Taylor is injecting the extracts into mouse tumors grown in incubator eggs. That method of growing cancerous tissue was originated at the University's Biological Institute.

Cancer research at the University is being attacked not only by scientists, but also by a general public. Clarence P. Oliver, and other biologists, Drs. Orville Jackson Foster.

SPOKEN WORDS HAVE A WAY OF BECOMING DISTORTED

If you've ever tried to track down a rumor, or unscramble a piece of gossip, you know how elusive is the spoken word! Or maybe you've noticed that you can't quite recall that funny quip by your favorite radio or TV comedian, yet you have no trouble quoting a joke you've read. It's a natural thing with all of us. That's why newspaper advertising gets such good results. It's there to read — in black and white (color too if you want it) and to refer back to, at your leisure.

It's catfishing time in Texas!
The real meat fishermen now are showing up to have their pictures made with fullgrown catfish. I've seen several of them taken from trot lines and throw lines, the past week, on Lake Travis.

Catfish can be taken any time of the year. However, July and August seem to be the months when most of the big ones are hooked.

Perhaps the principal reason is that other fish are less likely to be caught during the two hot summer months and fishermen just naturally turn to the catfish.

Some bass and crappie are caught, but generally they seem to have their tummies full and seek out some good cool spot to spend the day. I don't mean that many are not caught. However, the number decreases as the temperature rises. Whether it is the fault of the fish or the fishermen I would not say. But I do know that there are fishermen who catch them any time of the year, hot or cold.

Generally speaking catfishing isn't as much work as bass fishing. Catfish can be caught in most any manner. Frequently one will hit on a plug. They'll take minnows, cut bait, dough bait, even Ivory soap.

They'll come to a baited hole and will be enticed by almost any kind of scent bait. A sack of fermented shorts or corn chops, or a gunny sack filled with uncooked bones dropped into the water alongside an old tree usually is a good magnet to attract catfish.

Many pole fishermen come up with some dandies by baiting a hole and then sitting quietly in their boats and waiting for the catfish to move in.

However, the old time favorite way of taking catfish is by trot line. Usually such a line is extended between two points, perhaps a couple hundred feet apart, down a creek or across one, or across a channel where catfish are likely to be foraging.

The line can be anchored to a stump, tree, stump or weighted down with glass bottles for buoys.

Most often one end of the line is tied to something solid. The other end has a heavy weight, with a guy line from the weight to a tightly closed bottle which floats on top of the water to designate the end of the line or the location. They also help keep the line off the bottom.

Some catfishermen like for their lines to be on the bottom; others like to have their lines barely under the water. In any event when they are in the open they should be deep enough that they won't be cut apart by outboards moving over the area. It's a good way for you to lose a line, and also for an outboard to get its prop badly tangled.

Hooks can vary in size. Most fishermen usually use a 5/0 to 7/0 Eagle Claw. A great deal will depend on the area in which you are fishing. If the fish are small, then a smaller hook is best. Some fishermen use 3/0 but these are very light for large fish.

The hooks are attached to the trot line via a sturgeon with a short line of about 50 pound test. This sturgeon or drop should be from a foot to 18 inches long. It can be tied directly to the trot line, or there are fasteners available which make the operation a little easier.

Experienced trot line fishermen have a good reel for holding their lines. They can play these out from the boat very easily without getting tangled. Sometimes if the wind is a little high or the water swift, a line has to be put in to the water hurriedly before the boat loses position.

Although many trot lines are set out and run by one man, it really is a two-man job. A friend of ours boated a husky yellow cat (34 inches long) the other morning . . . single handed. And he almost lost it. Although the hook was caught well, the fight to land him was so hard and so long that when the cat was pulled over the side of the boat it fell off the hook. Fortunately for my friend the fish stayed in the boat.

When running a trot line it is PRETTY DOGGY, YES?

"Better bury it" seems to be the opinion of Timo the bulldog in London, England. Two-year-old Romany De Villiers submits the painting for Timo's critical appraisal at an annual outdoor art exhibit. The painting was done by the youngster's father and is called "Skiffle," a king of English washboard music.

best to have everything possible cleaned out of your boat. Everything except your life preservers and a tub in the center of the boat. The catfish can then be dumped into this tub. Some fishermen are now using plastic garbage containers for this purpose.

Best advice we can possibly give is that you be careful. There are two distinct hazards in catfishing. One is that in playing out your trot line and baiting it in a hurry you can easily get a hook caught in your hand. There is considerable tension on a trot line. If you are not careful when you release it after baiting or removing a fish, it will perk a hook into your thumb.

Brother, you've had it when this happens. If the hook goes over the barb, then cut the hook off the line immediately. If you can work the barb through the flesh with pliers, cutting off the shank, that's fine. The better plan, however, is to get to the family doc as quickly as you can. He can remove the hook and give you an anti-tet shot which is a safeguard. He'll also flatten out your wallet a little, which will teach you to be more careful next time.

The other danger is from the catfish itself. This gentleman has a sharp spine on its pectoral fin and another on its dorsal fin. These fins can do you more harm than a knife blade. A flopping catfish can stick you with this spine and cause very serious injury.

They are extremely dangerous. And if you are fished badly, we repeat — see your doctor as soon as you can. You may save an arm or a leg.

I watched a smart fisherman recently. When he caught a catfish he took hold of it with a pair of tongs. He also had a pair of cutting snips and before he put that catfish down he had cut off its spines. It took him an extra minute, but it was also a safeguard.

Catfish can be handled by a good pair of pliers or fish gripper in the mouth. A pair of tongs, similar to those used to handle hot bottles containing the baby formula, will do.

Texas has several varieties of good catfish. One of the best is the channel cat that attains a maximum weight of 25 pounds. This fish is produced by the Game and Fish Commission hatcheries and placed in lakes, streams, and stock tanks. It is a nocturnal feeder, which makes night time the best to fish for them.

Then there is the Blue Cat. Some of these have been checked in at 150 pounds. Generally a 25 pounder, however, is a good one.

Among others are the flatheads; the yellow bullhead, also known as the Pollywog; the black bullhead; the brown bullhead and the widemouth catfish. There are also several other varieties not too frequently found.

If you want accurate information on all these fish, so you can readily identify them, you should get a copy of the bulletin prepared by Will Brown, assistant director of inland fisheries of the Game & Fish Commission in Austin. A two-penny postal card addressed to the Game & Fish Commission, Walton Bldg., Austin, Texas, will bring it to you.

Mrs. Ray Uselton, who is attending San Jacinto Beauty School in Amarillo, was brought home Friday ill. She is now under treatment in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

Congressman Walter Rogers on Sherman Adams: The following poem appeared in one of the New York newspapers:

Here's to New England,
The land of the bean and the cod,
Where the Adamses speak only to the Goldfines,
Under circumstances exceedingly odd.

The author of this piece of poetry was listed as, "Unknown". No effort has been made to determine who originated it, but events and announcements that occurred subsequent to its appearance in the New York newspaper would indicate that it would be futile to look for the author at 1690 Pennsylvania Avenue.

All statements, press releases, etc., coming from the White House on this subject would indicate that structure is permeated with the same loyalty under the Eisenhower Administration as prevailed during the Administration of Mr. Truman.

Regardless of the view one takes of the situation, whether it be good, bad or indifferent, there is one inescapable fact about such an episode. It has news value. Until this news value has run its course or lost its effectiveness, the matter will not be dropped. Whether or not Mr. Adams leaves the employment of the government will depend upon how long this sordid episode contains appreciable news value. It will continue to contain appreciable news value so long as there are untold items that can be brought up one at a time. The question is, how long can Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Adams stand the heat.

Here are more peculiar doings down at Austin:

Defending the State Board of Health's closed door meetings, Comm. Henry H. Holle said:

"The Board is like a jury. You get the verdict, but you can't get in on their comments."

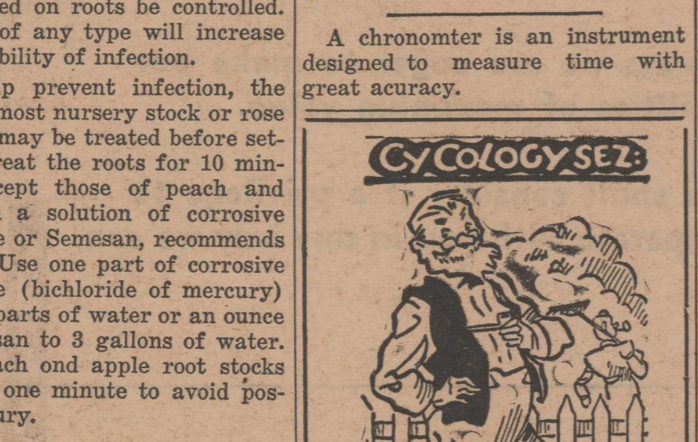

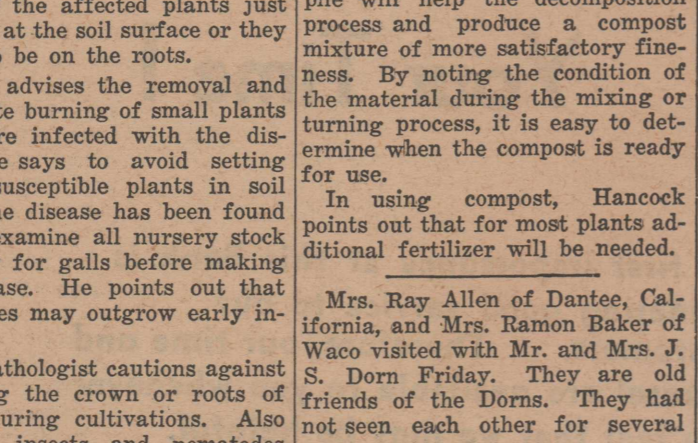

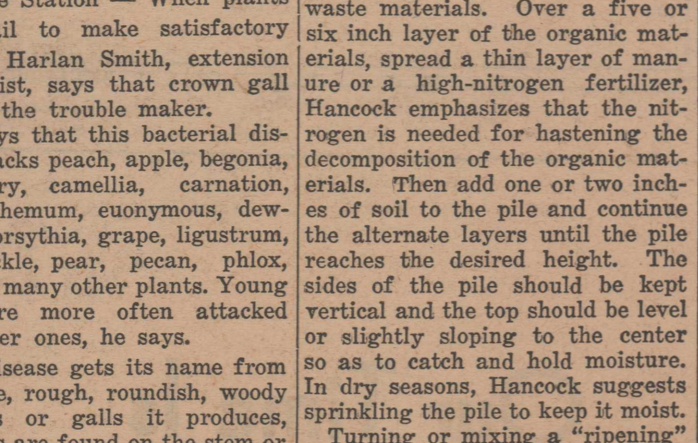

State Health Board has authority to allocate federal funds under the Hill-Burton Act to match local funds for hospital building. Its policy has been to name the hospitals approved to receive funds, but not to reject or why.

Newsman had been openly critical of the Board for barring the press from its meetings. Holle said minutes of Board meetings were available to the public after formal approval at the next meeting—three months later.

Lucian Bearden went home the other day to find his wife standing on the front porch with her glasses in her hand and her face white with rage. It seems Lucian keeps two pet monkeys. They have a habit of snatching a coke bottle and running into their little house and banging it on the wall and the floor. But this time one of the monkeys snatched Mrs. Bearden's glasses and ran into the house. She could see the creature in her imagination banging her only pair of specs to pieces. After much cajoling and some struggling she recovered them undamaged; but she was not happy with either the monkey or Lucian who had gone to work without feeding them.

Otto Russell, the medicine man, came over the other night to sit with me on the lawn. He told me that bullbats did not migrate like other birds. Neither do they survive by such means as quail, sparrows, and other birds that do not migrate. Instead they hibernates. Their metabolism, heart beat, body temperature slows down much like the hibernating mammals. I could hardly believe it, but he has an old copy of the National Geographic and he promised to hunt it up for me. I was also surprised to learn that he has the complete files of the National Geographic from 1924. And here I had been thinking that all Otto ever read was the sports page and Dr. I. D. Russell's catalog of livestock and poultry remedies.

Doug Bergvall, who is a conscientious and efficient workman, is doing some painting at our house. His two sons have been helping him with some of the work. He gives his instructions in a kindly voice, but it is firm, and I could not help but notice that there was no argument. The boys said "Yes, sir," and "OK". It is a splendid thing when a father and his sons can get together in such a friendly way. I am sure that the father is a good man.

Compost Will Improve Garden Soil Structure

College Station — "Look at that beautiful, rich soil," is a comment from visitors admiring the garden landscape exhibits at spring flower shows. "No wonder those plants grow better than ours," is likely to be the next remark.

And these people are right. Garden and landscape plants do thrive better in good soil containing plenty of organic matter to help it hold air, moisture and giving it a loose structure that permits roots to develop naturally.

With a little effort, it is possible to have such soil in your flower or vegetable gardens, says B. G. Hancock, extension horticulturist. A compost pile may be the answer. Grass clippings, leaves, weeds, plant residues and even vegetable parings and fruit peels from the kitchen will decompose into suitable compost material.

To make compost build up alternate layers of soil and organic waste materials. Over a five or six inch layer of the organic materials, spread a thin layer of manure or a high-nitrogen fertilizer, Hancock emphasizes that the nitrogen is needed for hastening the decomposition of the organic materials. Then add one or two inches of soil to the pile and continue the alternate layers until the pile reaches the desired height. The sides of the pile should be kept vertical and the top should be level or slightly sloping to the center so as to catch and hold moisture.

In dry seasons, Hancock suggests sprinkling the pile to keep it moist. "Turning or mixing a 'ripening' pile will help the decomposition process and produce a compost mixture of more satisfactory fineness. By noting the condition of the material during the mixing or turning process, it is easy to determine when the compost is ready for use.

In using compost, Hancock points out that for most plants additional fertilizer will be needed.

New Method of Farm Construction Now Developed

Concrete tilt-up construction is a new development that can be a big help to farmers in constructing farm service buildings that are durable yet low in cost.

Tilt-up construction is a method of building erection which involves the casting of concrete panels on a carefully prepared sand bed or on a vertical position to form the building walls and, by means of concrete pilasters, are connected together to give the rigid construction necessary for a permanent farm service building.

This construction requires no skilled labor. Two men can handle any phase of the work. Form materials can be reused for other purposes, after the completion of a tilt-up structure.

A recently released Texas Agricultural Experiment Station bulletin, "Concrete Tilt-up Construction on the Farm", gives much helpful information on this new development. It contains sections on panel sizes, strength of panels, weight of solid panels, equipment for handling, casting procedure, erecting procedure, stabilizing the wall panels and a discussion of the time, labor and materials required.

This bulletin may be obtained from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas. Ask for B-874.

The Tall Texan Vs. Squatty Car

"The tall Texan" versus the squatty modern automobile" has been taken into consideration by the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Statistical information compiled by the department shows that the average male Texan really is tall, while his female counterpart is short and not so heavy.

The figures released by the department's Statistical Services will be used by a leading manufacturer of automobiles to determine an important factor in driving safety — the vision and seating attitude of today's and tomorrow's automobile driver.

A breakdown of information showing the body measurements of persons licensed to operate motor vehicles in Texas points out that almost 24 per cent of the adult male Texans are six feet tall or taller and that ten per cent of the total male adult drivers in this state weigh 200 pounds.

According to the report, the average male adult driver is five-foot ten inches tall and weighs between 160 and 179 pounds. The average adult female driver in Texas is five-foot four-inches tall and weighs between 120 and 139 pounds.

In measurement extremes, only 1.5 per cent of adult male drivers are under five-foot four-inches tall, while 78.1 per cent are five-foot eight-inches or over. The female heights are a different situation in that 87.8 per cent are between five-foot two-inches and
