Dr. Koo Makes Plea Today As Session Opens

Two Resolutions Of Assembly Are Cited; British Explain Anglo-Italian Agreement

(By The Associated Press)

GENEVA, May 10—Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese delegate to the League of Nations, today asked the league council to apply provisions of the covenant in giving China aid against Japan.

He cited two resolutions, one by the league assembly last October and another by the council in February, which recommended that league members consider individual aid to China.

"With one exception," he said, none of the league members had come to China's aid. It was believed he referred to Soviet Russia.

Expects To Receive Aid

"China expects to receive from other members of the league material aid and effective cooperation in restraining the forces of aggression," he declared.

Earlier British Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax told the league of Nations council that the recent Anglo-Italian agreement was a contribution to world peace.

France Explains Also

The tall Briton was followed by France's foreign minister, Georges Bonnet, who echoed his words in defending the French-Italian agreement which still is under negotiation.

Lord Halifax said the fact that Britain and Italy were able to reach an agreement entitled both to claim a contribution "to the cause of international peace, thereby strengthening the cause which this great society exists to serve."

Roosevelt Statement Cited

Among the facts Halifax cited in defense of the agreement was President Roosevelt's statement on the subject which the British foreign secretary said was "peculiarly gratifying to his majesty's government."

(President Roosevelt said April 19 that the United States government viewed conclusion of the agreement

Clovis Added In Mail Test

Announcement that Clovis, N. M., will be added to the list of more than 30 towns and cities on the South Plains and in eastern New Mexico included in airmail pickup tests out of Lubbock May 19 was made at the chamber of commerce this morning.

The announcement was one among several as preparations for the test went ahead in spite of the fact that the definite schedule of the plane through Lubbock had not been announced.

Authorization Is Sought

The plane through here will be operated from Amarillo to San Antonio along the route of a permanent airline for which authorization is being sought. Four feeder planes will be operated on loop routes out of Lubbock, returning in time to put their loads aboard the Amarillo-San Antonio ship.

Plans, as announced at the chamber of commerce, are to visit each town on the loops from Lubbock as soon as the schedule of the through plane is received. Explanation will be made that each town

Lions Close Out Session Today Noon

El Paso Only Aspirant For 1939 Convention; Anson Man For District Governor

Closing assembly of Lions of district 2-T began at a luncheon in the Hilton hotel shortly after noon and it was expected that a new district governor would be named as soon as the meeting got under way, following the luncheon proper.

Omar Burleson, Anson, was the only candidate to announce. Likewise, El Paso is the only aspirant for the 1939 meeting place.

District Governor Joe Pond called the meeting together and W. H. Evans, Lubbock club president, led in singing. All past district governors were on the platform at the Methodist church.

Braswell Is Favored

Judge E. L. Pitts, past governor, introduced Elmer D. Elliott, Dalhart and Ralph Randel, Panhandle, both past governors, who reported District 2-E at Wichita Falls, Monday voted unanimously for Sam Braswell, Clarendon, for third international vice president.

Brownfield had the only quartet entered in the contest and after singing two numbers it was awarded the first honors. The club also presented a novelty number, Jack Holt giving an "interpretation" of Judge Pitts, much to the amusement of the crowd. A trio of girls sang two numbers.

Crosbyton Girls Sing

The Crosbyton club likewise had a girl's trio to sing. The McLean club's stunt was an orchestra, "The Lucky Seven," a German band.

John B. Hontz, Dalhart, reported briefly on work of the Lions Blind foundation and urged all clubs to participate. Other reports were made.

More than 400 persons, it was estimated, attended the dinner-dance and floor show at the Lubbock hotel last night. Ned Bradley's orchestra furnished the music.

Up to last night no opposition to

Housing Session To Be Here Thursday

Recent amendments to the national housing act, recently approved by congress, will be discussed at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night in a special meeting of all lumber dealers, realtors, architects, contractors and representatives of financial institutions, newspapers and utilities gather in Chimayo room of Hilton hotel.

R. E. Sikes, mortgage conference representative of Federal Housing administration; W. W. Ryan, chief underwriter, and P. S. Luttrell, state production manager, will attend.

Discussions will be made in detail and FHA representatives also will outline sales possibilities and the new state-wide program, deemed especially important to lumber dealers.

Paul Layes Dies In Chair Last Night; 'Didn't Want To Go'

HUNTSVILLE, May 10 (AP)—Paul Layes, 34, convicted of murder in a robbery, died in the electric chair at state prison here early today.

He said he "was a poor boy and didn't have any way to defend my case" and "I don't want to go this way."

Layes was given the death penalty in the slaying of Martin Salazar, Rio Grande valley vegetable grower, who was shot to death in the cab of his truck on the highway near Buda, Hayes county, Jan. 21, 1937.

Layes and two other men were riding with Salazar, who was en route home after disposing of a load of vegetables in Fort Worth. Salazar was robbed. Layes was arrested with the money.

New Jersey Solons Pass Law To Outlaw 'Blue Mondays'; Holidays Would Open Week

(By The Associated Press)

TRENTON, N. J., May 10—At least half a dozen "Blue Mondays" a year were started on the road to extinction today.

The assembly last night approved a measure to have the birthdays of Lincoln and Washington, Memorial day, Independence day, Columbus day and Armistice day celebrated on Monday regardless of the calendar day on which they might fall.

Even if passed by the senate and approved by the governor the measure would not become effective until similar laws had been enacted in New York and Pennsylvania.

Assemblyman Frank S. Farley who introduced the bill, said it was "favored by industry," and "would give the poor man a break."

American Shipments Of War Materials To Japan, China Are Increasing Steadily

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 10.—American shipments of war materials to China and Japan exceeded $10,000,000 in the five months ended April 30, state department records showed today. The rate was far in excess of last year.

The new figures began with December 1, the start of the fiscal year adopted by the national munitions control board, which licenses munitions shipments.

China Buys More

During the five months shipments to China totaled $5,296,442 and to Japan $4,756,483. In the last fiscal year shipments to China were $8,338,210 and to Japan $1,773,942.

Airplanes and airplane motors were in greatest demand. A large item of Chinese purchases also embraced grenades, bombs and ammunition. Japan's purchases were almost entirely air equipment.

Destined For Hongkong

Most of the shipments destined for China were made to the British settlement of Hongkong, whence they penetrated into China proper.

There is no prohibition on the shipment of arms and war equipment to China and Japan provided the proper licenses are obtained. They must not, however, be carried in ships belonging to the United States government.

The largest total of exporters' licenses last year went to the Glenn L. Martin Airplane company, in the amount of $7,082,249.

Health Leaders Speak Today

Addresses by state and national health officials are included on today's program of the milk sanitarian short course being conducted at Texas Technological college. Approximately 35 city, county, and district health officers, milk inspectors, and dairy plant operators had registered this morning.

F. A. Clark, associate milk specialist of the United States Public Health service, spoke this morning on the national milk control code, as pertaining to raw milk requirements, and was to speak at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon on the code as pertaining to the pasteurization plant.

Discussion Is Scheduled

G. W. Parkhill, assistant professor of civil engineering, also spoke this morning.

A roundtable discussion was scheduled after Clark's address this afternoon, and W. E. Roberts, milk sanitarian of the state health department, was to speak on "Some Chart Diagrams on Milk Sanitation."

The three-day short course will end Wednesday afternoon with examinations for inspectors making applications for registered milk sanitarian licenses.

The course is sponsored by Tech, Texas A. & M. college, the committee on milk of the Texas Public Health association, and the state department of hjealth.

New Star Is Found But It's Far Away

WILLIAMS BAY, Wis., May 10 (AP)—A star new to the astronomical charts claimed attention today because it may be the nearest one to the earth.

The star's existence was disclosed by spectra obtained by Prof. G. P. Kuiper of the University of Chicago's Yerkes observatory here.

It has been designated wolf 424 and is of the 12th visual magnitude.

Dr. Otto Struve, observatory director, said last night it was found to have "a very late M-type spectrum" duplicated only by the star, Wolf 359, the intrinsically faintest star known.

Alpha Centauri heretofore has been the nearest star known it is about 4 1-3 light years, or more than 25 trillion miles, away.

The probable distance of wolf 424 was computed at 3.7 light years less than that of Alpha Centauri. Thus, according to the layman's calculations, the new star would be about 3,780,000,000,000 miles away.

Dr. Struve said the star "probably is either the nearest or the second nearest star in space."

Ward County Is Voting Again On Determining County Seat

BARSTOW, May 10 (AP)(AP) — Ward county voters went to the polls today for the second time in six months to determine if the county seat will remain in Barstow or be removed to Monahans.

The former election resulted in a victory for Monahans, but a district court threw the election out. The heaviest voting in history was expected at all precincts in the county.

Discussed In Commons

Through grim coincidence, the question of danger from explosions in mines was up before commons as a result of Ellis Smith, laborite, asking what was being done to prevent repetition of such blasts as the one last July at the Brympo coal mine at Stoke-on-Trent when 27 miners lost their lives.

Sales Tax Ban Is Proposed

(By The Associated Press)

BATON ROUGE, La., May 10—State Senator James A. Noe introduced proposals in the legislature today to prohibit "political shakedowns" and make it violative of the constitution to enact a sales tax.

Noe said he would introduce 18 bills in the senate which would:

Repeal the five-cent per quart tax on lubricating oil;

Would Authorize Machines

Propose a constitutional amendment authorizing use of voting machines in all elections which Noe said "will prevent fraud and the stealing of elections;"

Prohibit any senator or representative from holding any state or city job except that of senator or representative which now said would make "your senator and representative represent the people which elect him, and not the governor who gives him the job;"

Make books and records of all tax collecting officials and agencies of the state public documents;

Prohibit any city or parish from passing an ordinance interfering with the rights of citizens to pass circulars, handbills or pamphlets among the people;

Propose constitutional amendment prohibiting any legislator from holding any other state office and making an offense of the law a felony;

Prohibit sale of prison-made articles in competition with articles not so manufactured;

Chicago Baby's Left Eyeball Is Removed; May Save Other Eye

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 10 — Baby Helaine Colan's left eyeball, removed in an effort to save her life, went under the microscope today for examinations that might help physicians to preserve the vision in her other eye.

The 5 1-2-week-old infant spent a comfortable night after the surgical operation which a council of 10 medical experts decreed as the only recourse against death from glioma of the retina.

They were asked to make a decision when Helaine's parents were unable to decide whether she should undergo an operation and risk total blindnss or to be allowed to die.

The cancerous growth had destroyed the vision in the left eye and has impaired that in the right.

Dr. Robert H. Good, who performed the operation, said the baby reacted favorably and experienced no pain.

He said a laboratory study might suggest treatment that would check the malignant tu-

The youth, a high school senior, is reported to have found a method of producing "artificial radium" and other radioactive minerals from ores obtainable in northern New Jersey and adjacent states at a cost of $250 per gram as contrasted with the current cost of $25,000 per gram of real radium.

"Is Yours The 15th Home!"

One Out Of Every 15 Homes In City Said In Need Of Repair, Cleaning Up And Paint Work

BY H. I. KIEFER
Journal Staff Writer

"Is yours the 15th home?" apparently might become an appropriate slogan during the remainder of the city-wide cleanup-paintup campaign which comes to a close May 17.

If yours is the "15th home," it is in need of cleanup-paintup attention. The remaining 14 are neat in appearance and neatly kept.

Conclusions From Inspections

These, at least, were the conclusions this morning of W. B. Irvin, general chairman of the cleanup committee, following first reports from the women's committees following their inspections Monday.

Twelve committees representing as many women's study clubs participated in the inspections which were designed to include every piece of property in the white residential section of the city. Only three of the group had reported this morning, but from them, Irvin said, it appears that vacant lots and not the homes are the big problem of the campaign.

Total of 1,061 Inspected

The reports showed that a total of 1,061 homes was inspected. Of that number, 990 met the exacting requirements of the cleanup campaign, Irvin said. Letters suggesting improvements will be sent to the remaining 71.

The situation as to vacant lots, however, is entirely different, according to the reports. Of the 124 inspected, only 95 were found in satisfactory condition. The remaining 29 are weed grown and littered with trash, the general chairman was advised. Efforts will be made to have them cleaned, Irvin said.

Crowley Would Keep Chain Stores Out

DALLAS, May 10 (AP) — Karl A. Crowley, candidate for governor of Texas, recommended a constitutional amendment today to keep chain stores out of the state.

Crowley, in an address prepared for delivery before the United States Wholesaler Grocers association, in convention here, said such an amendment should prohibit foreign corporations or owners from operating chain stores in Texas selling food, drugs or clothing at retail prices.

Present managers of these stores should buy the establishments, Crowley suggested, thus destroying the highly-centralized buying power of the chain groups.

"We must end the concentration of buying power in the hands of the few who, in turn, allow these few to control prices on many commodities rather than the economic law of supply and demand" Crowley said.

Probe Of Nazis Is Proposed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 10. — The house rules committee approved a resolution by Representative Dies (D-Tex) today for a congressional investigation of "un-American propaganda activities in the United States."

Chairman Dickstein ((D-NY) of the immigration committee said the inquiry, which would be conducted by seven house members, was necessary to prevent "riots and bloodshed."

County's Tax Valuations "Just Short Of $23,000,000" Total

Lubbock county's valuation for tax purposes this morning was boosted to "just short of $23,000,000," when a supplemental tax sheet went into the ledger signifying compromise had been effected in the case of Fort Worth & Denver City railway, which had protested assessment on $146,750 intangible value.

Notice of the road's agreement after protest before the state tax board of increase in intangible property valuation, was received in a letter from H. H. Durston of Fort Worth, executive representative and tax agent of the Denver.

Valuation affects 1937 rolls alone, said H. B. Bryan, county tax assessor-collector.

Assessment on tangible assets had been accepted. The county tax rate is 50 cents, the state 49.

Debate To Begin Some Time This Afternoon; Republican Caucus Is Scheduled

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 10—House passage by Thursday of a $3,000,000,000 relief and public works bill became the immediate goal today of administration leaders, intent on adjourning congress by mid-June.

They decided to begin debate some time during the afternoon, and predicted little opposition outside the Republican ranks.

Would End Practice

The legislation, key item in the $4,500,000,000 pump-priming program, would end the practice of giving lump-sum relief appropriations to the president. It would retain for him, however, the right to pass on all work relief and public works projects.

WOULD PROVIDE JOBS

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP) — The administration's $3,854,425,000 spending-lending bill will provide jobs for 4,135,000 persons, the house appropriations committee estimated today.

The committee included that figure in a report recommending enactment of the bill, submitted shortly before the house began debate on the measure.

The primary purpose of the legislation, the report said, is to furnish speedily "direct employment on the site and indirect employment away from the site of work, for some of the many millions who are unemployed and destitute or harassed by the specters that haunt the doorstep of that too large unfortunate group."

Outright appropriations of $2,819,425,000 are included. The Works Progress administration would receive the largest share—$1,250,000,000—to provide 2,800,000 jobs from July 1 to next February 1.

PWA Would Get Sum

The Public Works administration, which would be extended to June 30, 1940, would be given $965,000,000 for construction projects.

Directing their activities toward an early end to the session, house chieftains arranged to interrupt the relief debate, probably tomorrow, to accept a compromise on the tax revision bill and send it to the White House. The senate approved the tax legislation yesterday.

A movement to speed up action on the wage-hour bill also picked up

Burke Seeking Ideas On Act

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Senator Burke (D-Neb) said today he was canvassing numerous suggestions for changes in the Wagner Labor Relations act, which he wants overhauled at the 1939 session of congress.

Burke, a frequent critic of the labor relations board, explained it was too late to seek revision at this session.

Sent Out 40,000 Letters

He recently sent about 40,000 letters to employers and employes requesting proposals for changing the law. He said today he has received several thousand replies, principally from business men, industrialists and representatives of independent unions.

Burke said many of the replies urged that some provision be made to fix employe responsibility under

Wells May Be Shut Down On Saturdays

AUSTIN, May 10 (AP) — A possibility that Texas' 80,000 oil wells might be shut down on Saturdays as well as Sundays to bring supply into line with demand appeared today.

C. V. Terrell, chairman of the Railroad commission which regulates production of crude oil, said the body was "seriously" considering extending the closing of wells on Saturdays.

Terrell said an "extremely acute" situation faced operators because gasoline stocks were excessive and storage of crude oil stocks jumped 880,000 barrels in one week.

The additional closing of wells probably will be discussed May 17 at a statewide hearing for taking testimony on which to base a new proration order.

Little Jack Little Is To Play Tonight At High School

Little Jack Little' orchestra, noted for its scintillating "song-and-patter" programs, will entertain an audience in Senior High school auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight under auspices of the Texas Technological college artist course.

The conductor-composer-pianist-singer, Little Jack Little, and his 14 musicians will appear in the program.

The keyboard acrobatics and baritone vocals of the orchestra leader, with rhythm by his orchestra as a background, have entertained audiences from coast to coast.

He composed "Shanty in Old Shanty Town", "I Promise You", "Baby Parade", "My Missouri Home", "Hold Me", and other songs.

Program for tonight has not been made known to the artist course committee, but will be comprised of current hits and past favorites.

The conductor, once a vaudeville entertainer, was one of the first radio entertainers. He and his orchestra have appeared on national radio network programs and in movie shorts, in addition to filling dance engagements in many cities and presenting artist course programs.

Sixty Years In China Is Subject Of WMS Lesson

Twenty members of the Asbury Methodist Women's Missionary society met at the church Monday afternoon for a World Outlook program on "Sixty Years in China", led by Mrs. W. E. Peterson. It's No Surprise That You're Constipated!
If constipation has you bogged down so you feel tired, sunk, all played out—it's time you asked yourself some questions!
What have you had to eat lately? Just meat, bread, eggs, potatoes? It's no surprise you're constipated! The chances are you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.
If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B1.
Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and take a new lease on life! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Cement School Opens Tonight

First of two sessions of a cement school sponsored by Portland Cement association and the West Texas- New Mexico association of Architects is scheduled at 7:30 o'clock tonight in room 208 of the Engineering building at Texas Technological college. The second will be at the same time Wednesday night.

C. F. Boulden, of the association's Austin headquarters, will preside. Participating will be Chas. A. Clark, district engineer of the association, and A. G. Roy ther, formerly a construction superintendent in California.

Purpose of the school was described as being to explain modern methods of producing inspiring and attractive design effects in architectural concrete. Expected to attend are architects, engineers and contractors.

Tech's Journalists Are 'Cashing In'

Articles of several Texas Technological college students have recently been published or accepted for publication by magazines.

John W. (Buddy) Wilson, junior journalism major from Wink, was notified Monday the Commercial Car Journal of Philadelphia had accepted a 2,500-word article he wrote on the controversy over Texas weight and speed limits for trucks. He will receive $25 for the article, his first published.

Progress Is Described

Travis Foster, senior journalism major from Rising Star, wrote the lead story in the April issue of the Texas Press Messenger, published in Richardson. His subject was "Journalism Takes First Rank in West Texas" and described progress in Tech journalism instruction.

Paul White, president of the senior class and a journalism major, has received a check for $10 for an article to be published in Farm and Ranch, of Dallas. He wrote on work of the Tech agricultural division and how ranching and farming in this area have been aided through the division. White wrote an article concerning the Scurry County Times at Snyder that was published last year in the Texas Press Messenger.

A creck for $85 from the Forum is exhibited by Ruby Ellison, senior student, of Lubbock. The check was in payment for an article on "Fair Weather Friends," Miss Ellison said.

Only Japanese capital will be used in the huge new development corporation which is being formed by Japanese to exploit the natural resources of North China, a Japanese news agency announces.

Engineering Society At Tech Elects McCreary President

The Engineering society of Texas Technological college elected Dosh T. McCreary of Santa Anna as president for next year at a meeting at the college Monday night.

Retiring president is Clarence Rannefeld, Roscoe. Other officers elected between semesters and who will continue to serve next fall are: Jim Kelly of Hobbs, N. M., vice-president; Wayne Vaughn of Perryton, secretary; and Harry Patterson of Athens, treasurer.

Carl Svensen, Lubbock engineer, discussed the engineer's license law of Texas. Plans were made for a picnic to be held in the City park at 5 o'clock Wednesday.

Two Tech Engineering Grads Awarded Graduate Positions

Two senior civil engineering students of Texas Technological college have been awarded graduate assignments for next year.

Wayland Merriman from Wheeler will serve as graduate assistant in the civil engineering department at Armour Institute of Technology in Chicago and will work on his master's degree next scholastic year. Merriman is former president of the Tech student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers, member of Tau Beta Pi, and Alpha Chi, honorary scholastic organization.

Fred Langdale from Galveston has been awarded a similar position at Texas A. & M. college at College Station. Details of his appointment were not learned.

Both are candidates for graduation in June.

Legion Committees To Meet Today To Plan For Session

Special meeting of committees to arrange plans for the district convention of the American Legion here May 21-22 is scheduled this afternoon in the office of A. C. Jackson, commander of Allen Bros. post of the Legion, 1007 Texas avenue.

Routine matters were discussed by the Legion at its regular meeting held Monday night. The program was in charge of the junior auxiliary, under direction of Fred C. Wendt. Elbert Overton and his quartet entertaineed.

The term jingoism, denoting aggressive military policy, was originally applied to a group of British politicians who in 1877-78 wanted the government to take sides in the Russo-Turkish war. The chorus of a popular song of that time included the words, "We don't want to fight, but, by jingo, if we do we've got the ships, etc."

Lewis H. Earl, Peacock, Heads International Relations Club

President of the International Relations club of Texas Technological college for next year will be Lewis H. Earl of Peacock, who was elected Monday night.

Joan Ladd Johnson of Eastland was elected vice preisdent and Elsie Feigenspan of Roxana, secretary-treasurer.

Retiring officers are: Arthur Dale Jackson of Lubbock, president; James Forbis of Whitesboro, vice-president, and Rose Hubbard of Dexter, N. M., secretary-treasurer.

M. E. Ogdon, associate professor of government, read a paper "Problems and Methods of Teaching International Law and Relation Subjects in Smaller Institutions." Ogdon also read the paper before the sixth conference of Teachers of International Law and Related Subjects in Washington, D. C., in April.

Introducing The Hubbers

MANAGER HACK MILLER . . . nee James Eldridge Miller on Feb. 13, 1913 attended high school in McKinney (which is in Collin county and the onion growing section of the state) . . . played football and baseball there and at Southwestern university . . . his .286 batting average in three years of professional ball with Dallas and Longview look meager beside the way he is pounding the apple nowadays for the Hubbers . . . played outfield more with those two clubs than he caught . . . Mrs. J. E. Miller is his staunchest supporter in Lubbock or anywhere . . . bats from the right side . . . supports 205 pounds on his six-foot frame . . . in 12 games thus far he has 9 doubles, three triples, and three home runs in West Texas-New Mexico league for 21 hits and a .396 slugging average . . . not bad . . . hustles aplenty and takes his temper into the game sometimes . . . likes the White Sox in the major leagues . . . has corking good arm, but aims high once in a while . . . Hubber supporters have taken him to heart.

His Stroke Not So Smooth

Samuel Jackson Snead, brilliant young professional and runner-up in last year's United States Open, is called the perfect model in golf. His strokes are not so smooth in tennis, however. But the famous shotmaker of the fairways put everything into his play in the United States Open tennis tournament at White Sulphur Springs in bowing, 6-1, 6-1, 6-1, to his first opponent, who just happened to be the defending champion, Karel Koseluh, former world professional title-holder.

Cooper High Takes Baseball Tourney

Cooper High school Monday defeated Southland, 11 to 3, in the finals of the district five tournament played on the Cooper diamond.

In addition to holding Southland in check, Huckabee shared with Max Hilton and Doyce Barrett hitting honors for the winners. Each collected two safeties. Richardson banged out a home run for Cooper.

Marscie Donahoo, righthander who has worked most of three games played by Southland in the tourney, gave up six bases on balls although he allowed Cooper only eight hits. Huckabee walked three.

Cooper, coached by Fred Rich, director for the district, leaves Wednesday morning for Dallas where the state tournament will be played Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Prospective Papa Should Eat Like His Wife And Like It

NEW YORK, May 10. (AP)—A prospective father, said Dr. James Knight Quigley of Rochester, N. Y., tonight, should eat what his wife eats—"even if it is stale bread and applesauce instead of beer and pretzels"—and eat it with a smile.

A man whose wife is to have a baby, he said, should hold her hand—"fill the same functions for his wife that a manager fills for a singer or a lecturer and itinerary."

"Pa'ternity carries with it responsibility as well as 'ma'ternity," Dr. Quigley said.

A Dresden, Germany, musician recently invented a music writing typewriter.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

DUCKY MEDWICK, Cardinals — His triple drove in winning runs in 9-7 defeat of Dodgers; also clouted double and two singles.

DUTCH LEONARD, Senators — Held St. Louis to seven hits, all singles, and batted in three runs with triple and single in beating Browns, 7-1.

DEB GARMS, Bees — His tenth-inning pinch-hit single with three on and two out whipped Pirates, 9-7.

JIMMY FOXX, Red Sox — Belted two home runs to drive in five runs and lead 15-3 slaughter of Indians.

PEACHES DAVIS, Reds — Shut out Phils for seven of nine innings and gave up only seven hits as mates pounded out 9-4 decision.

Unofficial Championship In Tennis Clinched By Texas

HOUSTON, May 10 (AP)—With the unofficial Southwest conference tennis team championship clinched by the University of Texas netters, the tournament to determine singles and doubles winners will be held in Austin beginning Thursday.

The University team defeated Rice institute here yesterday, four matches to two.

Gramly Is To Toil On Hill For Locals

A pair of righthanders are slated to take the mound at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in the opening game of a three-day series between Lubbock and Midland.

Manager Hack Miller of the Hubbers said Marvin Gramly, youthful curveball artist, would face Hank Froschauer, Manager Tat Withers' choice for Midland. Gramly has been used chiefly for relief twirling duty so far, although he started against Big Spring Friday and was yanked after going seven innings.

Beat Cards Twice

Lubbock grabbed a pair from the Cardinals at Midland last week but the latter club appears to be improved by experience and conditioning of the past few days. After riding the bottom rung from the first the Cards elevated their position with a Sabbath double win over Clovis.

The Midland squad came here from Clovis last night.

Rain and cold weather caused postponement of the final joust between the league leading Hubbers and Wink Spudders after they had split Sunday's twin bill.

Jerry Blanchard, Lubbock forkhander, turned a no-hit, no-run performance in the nightcap Sunday.

New Hurler Acquired

Business Manager Harry Faulkner of the Lubbock club announced last night that the parent Dallas club was sending Ernest (Bill) Terry, 6-foot 3-inch righthander, here for further seasoning.

Terry last year won 18 games for Faulkner's Longview team in the East Texas league. He was with St. Paul this spring and is the property of the Chicago White Sox. He packs more than 200 pounds on his large frame and has hamlike hands.

The game between Clovis and Midland was rained out Monday afternoon.

One More Victory Needed For Title

(By The Associated Press)

One more victory, to make it a round dozen, will give the University of Texas Longhorns the Southwest conference baseball championship. They play the third-place Baylor Bears in Austin Friday while the second-place Texas A. & M. Aggies engaged Rice, the cellarites, in Houston.

Uncle Billy Disch's aggregation, heading for the twentieth title since Disch started coaching the Longhorns, triumphed over the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs, 3-0, for their 11th consecutive win yesterday. The game cinched at least a tie for the title.

Durwood Horner, Frog righthander, held the visitors to six singles, but he let one run in himself with a wild heave in the sixth. Ned McDonald, an infielder pitching his first game, set the Frogs down with four hits.

As against Texas' 11 victories and no defeats, the Aggies have eight wins and four losses, Baylor six wins and four defeats.

Bishop Of Galveston To Give Texas Baccalaureate Sermon

AUSTIN, May 10. — The Right Reverend C. E. Byrone, D. D., Bishop of Galveston, has accepted the invitation of the commencement committee at the University of Texas to deliver the baccalaureate sermon for the 1938 graduating exercises of that institution June 5. The services will be held in the open air on the terrace in front of the main building, at 7:45 Sunday evening.

DROUTH STOPS PLAY

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 10 (AP)—Drouth conditions prevailing throughout the British Isles have stopped play on the world's most famous golf course.

The town council today approved the greens committee's plan to close the 184-year-old St. Andrews course for an indefinite period.

ALLRED PROCLAIMS DAY

AUSTIN, May 10. (AP)—Governor James V. Allred today proclaimed May 12 Hospital day in Texas and asked citizens to honor those "who have dedicated themselves to caring for the sick."

The annual cost of rust in the United States is figured at $1,000,000,000.

Bunch Of Fellows Expected To Give Glenn Trouble In Mile

BY DREW MIDDLETON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP) — Before you know it, a bunch of fellows who were running errands when Glenn Cunningham was winning his first race will be clambering all over the champion in the big mile runs.

John Woodruff, Chuck Fenske, Blaine Rideout, Lou Zamperini, Leslie MacMitchell and Eddie Morgan are a half dozen already hard on the trail blazed by the master miler.

Believe Woodruff Capable

They have been talking about Long John Woodruff, the Olympic 800-meter king, as a miler for two years. His terrific pace in the Penn relays reawakened speculation and a few canny trackmen believe he, and he alone, is capable of that four-minute mile.

Fenske has stepped to the fore in the last six months. The Wisconsin boy ran 4:08.9 indoors and then chased Cunningham to 4:09.9 at Chicago.

Rideout Clocked Fast

Rideout, running for North Texas State Teachers, has whittled his time from around 4:15 to 4:10.6 (some watches caught him a second faster) in the Penn relays. A fine competitor, Rideout should be down around 4:08 with a year of concentration on the mile.

Zamperini, the Southern California U. ace, has run the distance in 4:13.7 and is credited with even faster times in practice.

MacMitchell, of New York, and Morgan, of Philadelphia, head a fast high school crop.

Women's Southern Play Opens; Miss Marion Miley Favorite

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 10 (AP) —Golf's feminine stars of the Southland began today the "sudden death" eliminations in the 27th annual Southern championship with Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., in a favored position.

Miss Miley won the medal trophy yesterday with a record breaking 75, five under par. Her score broke the course record in competition by two strokes.

Her opponent today was Mrs. E. C. Beall of Birmingham, who survived a playoff of 97 scorers.

Miss Miley's score barely withstood a challenge from the advance favorite, Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, the runnerup with a 77. Her opponent in the first round was Mrs. E. C. Hollins of New Orleans, who scored 96.

The defending champion, Miss Dorothy Kirby, 18-year-old Atlantan, qualified with an 81, trailing Mrs. Dan Chandler of Dallas, Texas, Miss Kathryn Hemphill of Columbia, S. C., and Betty Jameson of San Antonio, all of whom had 79's.

Tulsa's Streak Of Wins Is Snapped

(By The Associated Press)

Although Houston's Paul Dean was blasted for 14 hits, the Houston Buffs today had the satisfaction of having snapped the Tulsa winning streak at nine games last night.

Defeated twice Sunday, the Buffs came back for a 10-8 victory over the league-leaders.

Among the Oilers' 14 safeties during the seven and a half innings Dean worked was a home by Stan Schino with the bases empty in the second inning.

Beaumont-Exporters dropped to third place in the standing, defeated by the Fort Worth Cats 4-3 when Manager Homer Peel drove in the winning point in the ninth.

The San Antonio Missions, victorious over the Dallas Steers 5-3 last night, moved into second place, having made a clean sweep of the three-game series in Dallas.

The old squeeze play brought in the winning run as the Oklahoma City Indians defeated the Shreveport Sports. Hugh Shelley beat out a bunt, squeezing Clary Hack across the home plate from third.

Borger, which 12 years ago was a spot on an open prairie, is the carbon black center of the world.

TWO TO SHOW SPEED

BALTIMORE, May 10 (AP)—Two candidates for Saturday's Preakness, richest race of the year for three-year-old thoroughbreds, got a chance today to show their speed in a Pimlico stake with the eyes of the fans upon them alone.

The two-horse duel, featured in the fifth spot on the program, was between Ral Parr's Hypocrite and Brandywine Stable's Bull Whip. They were the only two entered in the $2,500 survivor stakes over a mile and a sixteenth.

PASTOR RATED FAVORITE

LOS ANGELES, May 10 (AP)—Bob Pastor, New York heavyweight, is rated a 2-to-1 favorite over Lee Ramage, veteran San Diego boxer, when the two swap punches tonight in the scheduled 10-round main event at the Olympic auditorium.

Senators And Red Sox May Mix It Up

AND FIRST IN BASEBALL

WASHINGTON, May 10. (AP) —Washington — first in war, first in peace, and first in the American league.

It has been long weary years since capital baseball fans had an opportunity to chorus that three-way chant. But today the populace saw its surprising Senators leading the league.

Picked by the experts to finish sixth, the charges of Bucky Harris have surprised just about everybody.

Associated Press Sports Writer

One of the most interesting angles in the American league scramble this season is likely to be the race between the teams owned by the man who tried to buy a pennant and failed and that owned by the "Old Fox" who wouldn't spend much cash but gets some good ball players by trading.

Tom Yawkey's gold-plated Boston Red Sox appear all set to produce a real return on the club owner's big investment. But to reach the top they not only must dispose of the World champion New York Yankees and the highly-rated Cleveland Indians, but also Clark Griffith's inexpensive Washington Senators, current leaders of the pennant parade.

Takes Over Lead

Washington took over the lead yesterday by trimming the hapless St. Louis Browns, 7 to 1, while Boston gave a convincing demonstration of strength by bowling over Cleveland 15 to 3 and knocking the Indians off the top. As the other American league clubs were rained out, Cleveland and the Yankees wound up in a second-place tie a half game behind the Senators with the Red Sockers another game back.

It was a "bargain counter" pitcher, Emil (Dutch) Lonard, who sent the Senators to the top. Picked up from Atlanta this season after one major league failure, the 30-year-old knuckle ball expert allowed only seven singles yesterday and drove in three tallies himself with a triple and single.

Young Jim Wins Again

The Red Sox really went to town for Young Jim Bagby yesterday when the rookie faced his dad's old club for the first time. Young Jim pitched six-hit ball to gain his second victory. Behind him the Sox added eleven blows to a dozen walks off three Cleveland flingers.

The "comeback" of the St. Louis Cardinals again featured the National league's program as rain eliminated the second Giants-Cubs clash. The Cards, who have won five and tied one of their last seven games while climbing from seventh place to fifth, belted over the Brooklyn Dodgers, 9 to 7.

Reds Keep Pace

The fourth-place Cincinnati Reds kept pace with the Cards by pounding out a 9-4 decision over the Phillies.

The Boston Bees, who had lost two straight extra-inning games, came back to win one in the tenth. They beat Pittsburgh's Pirates 7-5 when Debs Garms connected for a pinch single with two out and the bases full.

Max Has No Doubt Of His Winning

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 10. — There isn't a doubt in Max Schmeling's mind that he will be able to swat Champion Joe Louis on the jaw with his right hand on the night of June 22, no matter how much the young negro has earned in the two years since Max last clipped him.

"Yah, I know what some people think," said Max. "They say Joe will be careful this time and do nothing but jab me with his left and not let me hit him with a right.

"That's very foolish, I think. I hit him the other time when he tried to jab, and I knocked him out. No, no, he was not always hooking with his left when I hit him. Sometimes it was a jab, too."

There is a widespread belief that Max hopes in one last desperate fight to win back the title that Jack Sharkey took from him on a close decision in 1932, and then to retire amid the wild acclaim of the German nation.

"Why should I think of retiring when I know I'm getting better all the time?" he asked.

Louis was due from the west today, and the two antagonists will appear at the boxing commission tomorrow to sign the final agreement.

Negro Has To Give Up Loafing And Fried Chicken For While

STEVENSVILLE, Mich., May 10. (AP)—This Village, on the shores of Lake Michigan, has seen the last of Joe Louis, its most famous visitor, until after his battle with Max Schmeling in defense of the world's heavyweight championship in New York June 22.

The negro champion packed today to leave for LaFayetteville, N. Y., up in the Catskill mountains, to begin his six-week training siege.

Happy Over Opportunity

Louis was happy over the opportunity of returning to action, although he doesn't hate loafing or eating plenty of fried chicken. That's what he has been doing mostly since he flattened Harry Thomas in Chicago on the night of April Fools day.

Getting even with Schmeling is the paramount thought in Louis' mind. He is positive he will knock him out.

"Smellin' is in for a good slammin' himself, if you are asking me," Louis said. "He'll meet a different Joe Louis when he turns around to face me this time. I'm hitting harder. I think I am punching faster, and I aim to beat him to the punch."

Louis, who weighed 202½ pounds for his engagement with Thomas, tips the beam at 212 and expects to melt off about ten pounds for the title defense.

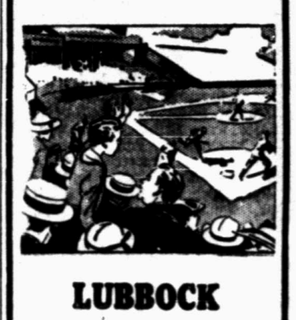

BELIEVED STRONGEST TEAM

BOSTON, May 10 (AP) — Mrs. George W. Wightman paused in the midst of her packing today to predict that the U. S. women's tennis team she will lead across the Atlantic tomorrow will be the "strongest we ever have put together."

Mrs. Wightman is the second Bostonian in three days to lead an American team into international competition with the British.

Francis Ouimet left yesterday to pilot the U. S. Walker cup golf team abroad.

Army Air Games Will Show Civilians What It May Be Like In War

Realistic War Tests Slated

By Associated Press Feature Service.

War exists between a coalition of Asiatic and European countries and the United States. . . . Main fleet, based on Hawaii, is engaged in defensive operations in the Pacific. . . . Naval forces in the Atlantic sufficient for coast patrol. . . . General headquarters air force ordered to concentrate in the New England area. . . . Fleet of a European power, a member of the (enemy) coalition, is escorting troop transports. . . . Information indicates this force intends to attack in the New England area.

That is the design for fighting announced for the most realistic war game ever played by the U. S. army air corps.

For nearly a month war planes—operating in three wings from maneuver bases in six states—will roar over the industrial northeast in mock defense of the nation's potential munitions-producing area.

(The map at right shows the three maneuver areas and the airports from which the planes operate. The inset map of the United States shows the home bases, as far away as California and Louisiana, from which the planes are being flown to maneuver stations in the northeast.)

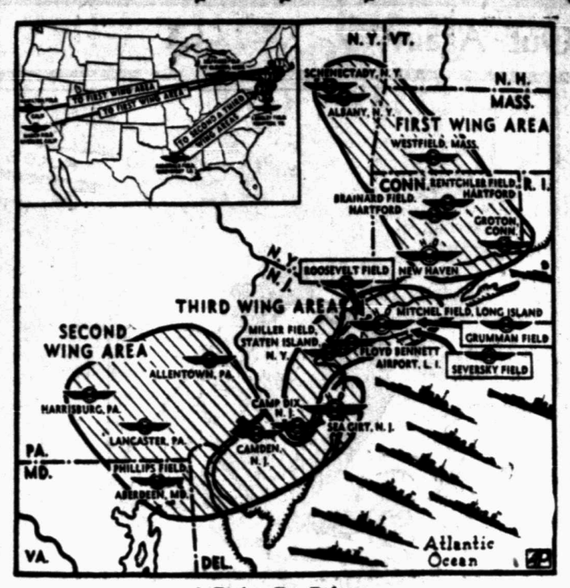

The army says the G.H.Q. air force, its fast-striking fighting unit, could be sent into action in 36 to 48 hours. For the current maneuvers, however, a week (May 1-8) was allowed for the concentration of 200 planes and 3,150 men.

On May 17 more than 200 fighting planes will concentrate at Mitchel Field, Long Island, for the largest mass maneuver of the war games. Mock battles will continue to May 20, with return flights to home bases to be completed by May 30.

Plans for the games call for air raid warnings to civilians and nightly blackouts of lights in smaller towns.

Equipment to be tested includes a portable photographic laboratory, new full-feathering propellers, photoflash bombs for night photography, portable runway lighting equipment, portable engine servicing equipment. Several types of experimental planes will be flown. For the first time in the United States camouflaged airplanes will be used on a large scale. Listening posts will report the approach of "enemy planes."

Footnote: Planes in the exercises will burn 300,000 gallons of gasoline in flying more than 1,200,000 miles.

A Design For Defense

Brief Bits Of News . . . .

Soph Picnic Thursday — Sophomores of Senior High school will hold their annual picnic Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Mackenzie park. Plans for food and entertainment were completed Monday by Joyce Halsey, president, and sophomore sponsors. Each student will pay 25 cents for a ticket to the picnic. Sponsors in charge are: Linicel Hilliard, Amelia Hargis, Alice M. Beckett, Eufaula Wise; Mrs. Ross Ayers, and Sam Leifeste.

Trophies On Display — Trophies won by W. C. Estes, junior High school, in extemporaneous speaking tournaments are on display in the school trophy case this week. The largest trophy is the championship trophy for all-state first place winner at the Interscholastic League meet in Austin. Other trophies are from tournaments in Amarillo and Waco. Estes has won seven first places out of eight tournaments entered this year. D. M. Howell, English instructor is extemporaneous speaking coach.

To Speak In Perryton—W. B. Irvin, superintendent of Lubbock schools, will address the junior-senior banquet in Perryton Thursday evening. Irvin was superintendent of Perryton schools 12 years, and therefore was in charge all the time this graduating class was in school until this year. He had been invited to make the commencement sermon, but will be unable to be away from his duties in Lubbock at that time.

Examination Announced — An open competitive examination for the position of student nurse at the training school for nurses at St. Elizabeth's hospital in Washington, D. C., has been announced by the United States Civil Service commission. Applicants must be between 18 and 30 years of age. Further information may be obtained at the Lubbock postoffice.

Funeral Is Held Monday — Funeral services for Mrs. J. T. Mott of Bridgeport, mother of Mrs. H. D. Phillips, 1626 Sixteenth street, were read at 11 o'clock Monday morning. Mrs. Mott died early Sunday morning after a week of illness. Mrs. Phillips was called to the bedside Tuesday. Mr. Phillips and children, Pauline, H. D. jr., and Howard returned to Lubbock Monday after attending the funeral. Mrs. Phillips remained with her sister in Bridgeport.

Undergoes Surgery — Mrs. A. L. Rose from Ropesville underwent major surgery early this morning at Plains hospital. Her condition was considered satisfactory at noon. Mrs. Rose entered the hospital Friday. Rose is a farmer.

Operation Reported — A major operation was undergone by Mrs. J. E. Thomas of Shallowater late this morning at Plains hospital. Mrs. Thomas is the wife of a grain dealer.

None Hurt In Wreck — Police said a heavy car driven by Bruce Gentry of 1918 Fifteenth street and a light pickup driven by John Payne of an ice company were in collision late Monday at Fifteenth street and Avenue X, but that none was injured.

Reward Offered — Reward of $5 was offered by a Lubbock property owner, police said, after a paint gun regular, 50 feet of heavy-duty air hose and personal belongings had been stolen.

Visits Cousin Here — Mrs. Alice Strickland of Atlanta, Ga., is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Mary E. Parks, 1520 Avenue K, enroute home from a trip to California.

Morton Physician Here—Dr. D. T. Jordan of Morton is spending several days in Lubbock handling the professional duties of Dr. G. A. Foote, who was called to Oklahoma City because of the illness of his mother. Dr. and Mrs. Jordan are making their home temporarily at 1408 Avenue M. It is their plan, Dr. Jordan said, to move to Lubbock in the near future.

First Victory Here — Winning by W. C. Estes, jr., of the state extemporaneous speaking contest marks the first time that honor has been accorded Lubbock, the third time West Texas has been so designated. Young Estes had won seven of eight tourneys in which he had participated before going to the state Interscholastic league meet, placing first 13 of the 15 times he had spoken. Amarillo won the honor in 1929, Littlefield in 1930. Forty-nine subjects had to be chosen from in contests.

Mishap Reported — J. L. Puckett of Hobbs, N. M., reported to members of the state highway patrol this morning an automobile he was driving five miles southwest of Wolfforth had been in collision at 3 o'clock with a truck driven by Jim King of Pampa. Mrs. Puckett was slightly injured, he said, and his car damager approximately $100. Puckett said an overhanging load on the truck was hit by his car.

One-Way Bus Due—"Uncle" Bud Russell and his prison transfer bus were due late this morning from several South Plains cities. Jas. P. Posey, chief deputy sheriff of the Lubbock department, said none was to be transferred from county jail here. John C. Russell, Matador deputy sheriff and a nephew of "Uncle" Bud, delivered a prisoner to Lubbock this morning for transfer to the prison transfer agent. He said the prison bus had only three men in it earlier in the morning.

Two Held — Police and the sheriff's department this morning said a 19-year-old Lubbock youth had been taken into custody for investigation into asserted forgery of a $42.50 customer's draft. Name of McDonald Packing company of Lubbock had been affixed. Grady Harrist, deputy sheriff, and Bill Mabray, police identifications officer, arrested a man, about 30, for Gaines county officials who reputedly wanted him on a swindling charge.

Jury To Report — A 99th district petit jury will report to Judge E. L. Pitts at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, when the cases of J. A. Bell and Herbert Auddell, charged with drunk driving, and E. R. Phegley, with swindling over $50, are slated to be called.

Chill Continued — Early morning chill, felt on the South Plains several days, continued this morning with 46 degree temperature riding a lazy southeast wind at 6:30 o'clock. The sky, eight-tenths overcast, was clearing two hours later, however, and the temperature was climbing to above 55 degrees. The night's minimum was 44.9.

Singing Is Scheduled—There will be a singing meet at Meadow May 22, R. M. Hinson, announced today. All South Plains singers are invited to attend, he added.

City Pool Is To Open About June 1; New Bathhouse Is Built

Announcement that city swimming pool in Mackenzie park will be opened as soon as the bathhouse now under construction is completed, probably about June 1, was made at the city hall this morning.

The announcement was in response to numerous inquiries received recently as to the probable opening date.

Usual opening time in the past, it was explained, has been the last week in May. The date this year, city officials assured, will not be long beyond that time.

Most of the work on the building has been completed, including the roofing which will be finished Wednesday, officials were advised. Work is being done by CCC inrollees.

The bathhouse, they added, will be the most modern and one of the most sanitary on the South Plains. It is of tile and buff-finish stucco contruction, with concrete floors and with dressing rooms only partially roofed. The roofing arrangement, it was explained, insures adequate ventilation and is so designed that sunshine will reach every portion of the rooms at some time during clear days.

Consideration Of Ordinance Is Deferred Until Next Session

Consideration of the livestock zoning ordinance discussed at a meeting of the city commission April 28 will be deferred until the semi-monthly session Thursday, city officials said this morning.

Original plans were to call a special meeting of the commission to act on the proposed ordinance, but several occurrences have interfered. A meeting tentatively scheduled Monday was postponed when City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley was called to Banks, Ark., because of the illness of his mother, who died Sunday. Bradley is preparing the proposed ordinance.

The tentative draft of the regulation proposes that the city be divided into four zones, residents of each deciding by election whether they are willing that such livestock as cows, horses, mules, goats and sheep shall be kept in their zone.

Lakes cover 11.5 percent of the total area of Finland.

Spending Bill Is Advanced

momentum. Two Republican members of the rules committee, representative Mapes (R-Mich) and McLean (R-NJ) announced they would support a resolution by Chairman O'Connor (D-NY) to permit the house to consider it even before the petition becomes effective May 23.

Enough For Approval

Their votes apparently were enough to assure the committee's approval of the resolution.

All regular appropriations bills have passed the house, and another one, a $1,104,000,000 measure for the agriculture department — went through the senate yesterday.

A committe compromise on the house and senate versions of the billion-dollar naval expansion bill put that legislation in line for a trip to the White House as soon as both chambers give routine approval.

Republicans Call Session

The 90 house Republicans called their first party conference of the session late in the day to discuss their strategy against the spending-lending bill.

Instead of giving money to the president who in turn could allocate it as he chose, the measure would appropriate the funds directly to the spending agencies.

The provisions which give the president specific authority to approve or turn down individual projects were pencilled into the bill just before it was introduced late yesterday. That action followed a White House conference among the president and legislators who handle appropriations.

Assurances Obtained

Then, in what some senators called an attempt to obtain assurances that the senate would not tamper with those provisions, Secretary Morgenthau, WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, and Acting Budget Director Daniel W. Bell held another conference with Senator Byrnes (D-SC), who will pilot the legislation through that chamber.

Of the WPA appropriation, a maximum of $425,000,000 could be used for highways and streets, $250,000,000 for educational and "white collar" projects, and $575,000,000 for miscellaneous developments, such as conservation, power and water plants, and parks.

NYA Gets $75,000,000

The National Youth administration, a branch of WPA, is listed for $75,000,000, while the Farm Security administration would receive $175,000,000 for rehabilitation of needy farmers. The Puerto Rican Reconstruction administration would be given $6,000,000, and about $20,000,000 is included for administrative expenses of various agencies which cooperate with WPA.

Restrictions on the PWA fund limit outright grants to $750,000,000, construction of federal projects to $100,000,000, and administrative expensies to $11,000,000. Money could not be allotted for any projects which could not be commenced before Jan. 1, 1939, or substantially completed before June 30, 1940.

The bill sets a deadline of Aug. 31 for the filing of new applications for projects.

Junior Day Being Observed By Class

A black and gold flag upon which were the numerals "'39" fluttered from the flag pole at Senior High school today as junior students observed junior day, which is being celebrated this afternoon with an annual picnic at Buffalo Springs.

Plans for the picnic were furthered at a class meeting this morning. Approximately 210 juniors were to leave from the high school at 1 o'clock, accompanied by six sponsors.

Coronation of the junior queen, a picnic supper, and games were on the program.

Pete Cawthon, jr., class president, was to crown the queen, Betty Jean Jones, at 2 o'clock. In her court were four other girls and their escorts.

The queen was to be escorted by John Robert Moxley, Jacqueline Davies by Joe McCraw, Jane Ann Floyd by Ben Alexander, Mary Jane Walters by Billy Price, and Willouise Humphries by Albert Fortenberry.

Students on the program included: W. S. Estes, herald; Harry Born, bugler; Howard Green, accordion player; Lloyd Sanders, Harold Parsons, Wayne Johnson, Jimmie Williams, Almon Samson, Billy Phillips, Jack McElroy, and Mary McLarty, pages; Patricia June Lindsey, crown bearer; Ann and Miles Bondurant, twins, train bearers.

Mrs. Adah Wolfe was chairman of the entertainment committee, assisted by Shirley Ann Parsons. Class sponsors are Carl Willingham, Mrs. Waldo Trotter, E. M. Barnett, J. W. Day, Mrs. Wolfe, and Mrs. Lellesse Kirby.

Building Out Of Lef-Down

Building permit activities snapped out of their comparative lethargy of the previous few days with the authorization of new construction to coast a total of $17,750 during the 24-dour period to noon today, according to records at the city building inspector's office.

The permit shoved the total for the year beyond the $800,000 mark to $811,326 and increased the amount for May to $50,071.

New permits included: J. H. Plemons, two-story residence at 3010 Twentieth street, $6,000; H. F. McCarty, owner, and G. A. Browne, contractor, rock veneer residence at 2204 Twentieth street, $4,750; L. H. Hobbs, owner, and W. S. Moss, contractor, residence at 2409 Twenty-second street, $4,500; and Lubbock Cotton Oil company, warehouse at east end of Seventeenth street, $2,000.

The 1938 total to date still is more than $300,000 ahead of the $507,807 which had been authorized to June 1 last year. However, the pace for May has been somewhat slower than May last year when a total of $159,807 in new construction was authorized.

Boy Is Injured When Struck From Bicycle By Automobile

Nine-year-old M. C. Butler, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Butler of 2405 Broadway, was resting well in West Texas hospital late this morning after he was rushed there for treatment of injuries suffered when his bicycle collided with an automobile about 8:30 o'clock this morning.

Bruises on the right side of the head, right shoulder, right hip and lacerations of the right leg below the knee were suffered by the boy when he was knocked from his bicycle, which struck the rear fender of an automobile driven by Mrs. Clay Anderson of 1922 Twenty-second street, Lewis Kittrell of the police department reported. Two stitches were taken in his leg.

The accident happened in 1900-block Avenue U, a street adjoining Dupre school. The boy had driven his bicycle from the sidewalk into the street and apparently intended to go behind the automobile.

A Sanders ambulance was called, but Mrs. Anderson had taken him to the hospital.

Suit For $15,000 Damages Is Filed; Injuries Are Claimed

Judgment of $15,000 damages was asked this morning in a civil action filed in 72nd district court for W. D. Pierce against W. T. McKinley.

Background was set out to have been last May 13, when Pierce set out he suffered permanent injuries in an automotive mishap. He said a pickup driven by an employe of McKinley overturned, injuring Pierce, who asserted he, too, was employed by McKinley.

The pleadings were filed by John Vickers of the law firm of Vickers & Campbell.

That Girl on Broadway says few people are afraid to drink coffee at night anymore. They know there will be something on the radio which will put them to sleep!

One of the young ladies here in the office got a letter from a friend in Florida, telling herthat greyhound racing is very popular there. She doesn't believe her friend, however. She says anybody with any sense knows you couldn't get more than one of those big buses on a track!

BEFORE she left for the Middle West, Mrs. Charles J. Wagner sent in this clipping which she had picked up somewhere.

It reads:

"Women's skirts are to become shorter, says Vogue. This news of the skyward trend reminds us of a little ditty which we ran up against some few years ago. It dates from the late twenties, when skirts were as high as the stock market. We print it here principally to fill up space.

"When every pool in Eden was a mirror
Which unto Eve her dainty charms proclaimed,
She went undraped without a single fear
Or thought that she had need to be ashamed.
'Twas not 'til she had eaten of the apple
That she became inclined to be a prude,
And knew forevermore she'd have to grapple
With that much debated problem of the nude.
Thereafter she devoted her attentions,
Her time and all her money to her clothes,
That was the beginning of conventions
And modesty, as well, I do suppose.
Reactions come about in fashions recent;
Now girls conceal so little from the men
That it would seem in name of all that's decent
Someone should pass the apples 'round again!"

The Plainsman remembers full well the first time that jingle was popular and wonders how many readers do, likewise. It was earlier than the twenties.

It must have been around 1910, because we were living in Lawrenceville, Ill., at the time and the verse, set to music, was a big hit of the home town minstrel put on by the Indian club—an organization of employes of the Indian Refining company.

All the natives—we temporarily tarrying oil people called them "Scissorbills" because we were blind to the fine, honest characteristics of the folks who preceded us there—thought it was quite risque.

ODE TO SPRING

For beauty I'm not such a star,
There's others more handsome by far;
But my face, I don't mind it
For I am behind it;
It's the people in front that I jar!

THE Little Woman was busy with her social affairs. The Plainsman worked until well after 7 p. m., and after grabbing a bite down town decided to walk part of the way home. It was just the other evening—a quiet, peaceful evening, with no wind. Early summer was in the air.

We picked a route over which we never pass if in a car. Down quiet, homey streets, where the mingled smells of vegetation and evening meals hung on the air.

Doors of homes were open and many families sat on front porches.

Children of varying ages played along the sidewalks or in the yards. Balls were tossed about. Dogs barked in tune with cries in childish treble.

Radios could be heard through the twilight. In a boarding house, a group of young people were gathered about a piano, their voices blending in "The Song of Songs."

It was American family life on parade, in those few evening hours of happy relaxation. Despite the hum of noises, it was serenity personified.

SOMEHOW the whole picture was heartwarming, reassuring, comforting.

As he walked along, The Plainsman found himself thinking that the scenes and the cries and the music and the odors of evening meals were typical of the scenes and cries and music and odors in a thousand and one American communities.

These same things were going on everywhere in this great land of ours. What we saw and heard and smelled were the same as in Orono, Maine, and in San Diego, California.

And we were impressed with the very evident feeling of the people.

They were enjoying life—quietly and humbly, perhaps, yet they were enjoying it to the fullest.

Then we fell to wondering if other peoples in other lands were likewise enjoying their brief stay in this world. If the picture here were the same as that in other countries.

We doubt it.

We believe this country of ours, with all its trials and petty quarrels, is favored.

We believe that in few countries can life be as carefree, as secure and—if you will—quite as sweet as it is in our own country. Nowhere can it be so full.

OUR route turned us into busy 19th street. It was nearly dark and the hodge-podge thoroughfare was alive with traffic.

In steady streams cars scurried east and west—most of them going more rapidly than necessary, of course, as they writhed their way along.

And it occurred to us that most of our people have plenty of money to provide themselves and their families with more than necessities. We remembered that an almost unbelievable percentage of Americans have money enough to own and to operate automobiles—a situation unparalleled anywhere on this globe.

But what is even more important, those people whom we saw about their homes, and in their cars, were doing as they pleased—and knew they could continue to do so as long as they did not violate a law or disport themselves in a manner detrimental to others.

Then we thought of the oppressed in the world.

The brow-beaten Germans; the regimented Russians and Italians; the hordes of India and of China and of Japan, who live and are herded more like cattle than like men.

And we said to ourselves:

"We dont' know how lucky we are, here in this country. The troubles which we have as a nation are so trivial that they are nothing. Surely we must be—although heaven alone knows why—God's chosen people. If we are not, why is it that we are so favored?"

* * *

If you want to remember something, tie a string around your finger.

If you want to forget everything, tie a rope around your neck!

That Man on Avenue Q says the average person believes only half of what he hears, but too often it's the wrong half.

"A nice sort of a welcome you're giving me," said the father of a Tech student on the Santa Fe platform the other day. "Here I'm hardly off the train and you ask me for money."

"I'm not rushing you, pop," said the Tech kid. "Your train, you know, was 20 minutes late!"

IT is heartening, once in awhile, to read about a fellow like Rudolph Forster.

Mr. Forster, as you may already have noticed from Rodney Dutcher's article on this page, is the White House executive clerk who has been working in that or a similar capacity in the nation's No. 1 residence since 1897. He's on the public payroll. He has been for more than 40 years. But judging from Mr. Dutcher's description he is a queer kind of a guy who feels like he owes the taxpayer a full return for the latter's money.

Private business, as well as public office, needs more men like Rodney Dutcher says Mr. Forster is.

The world, in fact, always has need of quiet, efficient, loyal, honest workmen in every one of its many fields of endeavor.

The Forsters usually don't get the credit they deserve for making the wheels go 'round and they are too frequently backgrounded by their flashier, yet less admirable and dependable fellows.

But lucky is the employer—or the taxpayer—who has a Forster working for him.

His investment there is sound.

Love Laughs at the Doctor

CHAPTER XXIV

Miss Wilcox's cheerful voice said, "Oh, here you are, Doctor. Just a minute, please."

Without a backward look he turned and followed the nurse into the sickroom. Constance went slowly to her own room. . . . Yet for a moment he had seemed as close to her as if he had held her in his arms.

She had promised to ride with Hilda that afternoon. As she got into her riding clothes, she wondered what she could say to the other girl to help Derek. For after all, Derek was only what circumstances had made him. He had so little security within himself that you could not blame him for grasping at what seemed to him to be security from without. And to Derek, security meant what Hildegrade Thorvald represented.

Constance went to find Hilda—along the upper gallery and down the outside stairway that descended to the first floor. The stairs made the descent in three turns, with a moss-grown landing at each turn. On the lower landing Constance halted abruptly with one foot poised, clinging to the iron railing to steady herself.

Two people were standing on the gallery below her.

In that suspended moment Constance realized, with a tearing sense of bereavement, how much she had really been hoping that some time, in another brief interval when he was not too hurried or too shy, Mark Rogers was going to tell her what she so much wanted to hear from him.

Clinging to the lapels of Dr. Rogers' coat, her eyes bright with tears, but laughing up into his face as only a very happy girl can laugh, stood Hildegrade Thorvald. As Constance poised there, unable for a moment to stir, Mark put his arms about the tall glowing girl and kissed her gently; and Hilda said with a pulse in her lazy voice that Constance had never heard there before:

"I'm not good at waiting, Mark, and I'm not going to wait any longer. Now that it's sure, I'm going to have Dad announce it tomorrow."

"And what about Derek?" he asked.

"Derek?" Hildegrade laughed in soft amusement. "No one need worry about Derek. He will always know how to get what he wants out of life. What he really wants now—"

But I can't stand here listening, Constance remembered.

Perhaps she moved; for they both glanced up and saw her rooted there, white and stricken.

Hilda drew herself quickly from Mark's arms and called, "Connie, come down. There's something I can't wait to tell you."

Please God, not now! Constance prayed. Not with both of them to see me. . . . Oh, what a fool I've been!

She turned to run back up the stairway. Perhaps her eyes blurred with the tears she could not check; or perhaps the clumsy riding boots tricked her—

The next thing she knew, she was huddled on something hard and cold — numb, and blindingly, sickeningly giddy.

Somewhere near her Hilda's voice was saying, "Well, Mark Rogers, you complete fool—do you believe me now? Think how we must have looked to her, as if—oh, Mark, you don't suppose she's—"

Then flouting in space above her, Mark's voice, "For God's sake, Hilda, don't you go hysterical on me. . . . Help me cut this fool shirt of hers off. . . . Thank heaven it isn't her collarbone, anyhow. . . . Wait a minute—here it is! Now, we'll just get this over with before she—"

Wrenching pain in her shoulder — someone screaming sharply — brief oblivion. Then she was sitting up, her cheek resting against a rough, warm surface that smelled faintly of tobacco.

For an instant Mark's face swam in a cloud above her, white and absurdly distorted as it said, "Give me the wide tape from my bag, Hilda."

Constance giggled, and made to her what at that moment was the most reasonable and interesting observation in the world: "Darling, you look so funny upsidedown. . . . Ouch!" and shut her eyes, feeling faint, because someone was doing something to her shoulder again, and it hurt.

Mark's voice said with a laugh that was not quite steady, "She's reacting quite normally. At least she can still see how funny my face is."

"You've no idea how funny he is any way you take him, Connie dear," Hilda's voice said again. "But he's a lamb; and if I weren't going to marry a flying fool of a scientist next week before he tears off again and loses himself in Tibet or other parts unknown, you'd never get a chance at him. . . . That's what I was telling Mark about when you dropped in. . . . You'd better thank God Mark just cuts people up for a living instead of hunting cosmic rays. At least, you may see him at breakfast once in a while."

The agony in her wrenched shoulder had subsided into a dull ache, and Hilda's face swam into focus out of the cloud above where Mark's face had been. . . . There seemed now to be just she and Hilda. . . . So that was why Hilda was always reading books about Tibet. . . . Hilda was going to marry a flying fool in Tibet who cut up cosmic rays for a living, or was it—? Her thoughts refused to arrange themselves; but there was one thing Hilda had just said—

"I wish you'd tell me," she asked giddily, closing her eyes, "how anyone has a chance at a man she —can't catch alone for—five minutes at a time."

Hilda giggled; and Constance found the giggle annoying. All the grievance of the past days—combined with the pain in her shoulder — swam in upon her, demanding immediate expression.

"Oh, it's easy enough for you to laugh," she said peevishly. "You don't want him. . . . And anyhow, he talks to you. But he never even looks at me. . . . Or if he does, only as if I were something little and awfully funny on a slide."

"But, Connie dear," Hilda said, "you are little — and just now you are awfully funny. Don't you recognize defense mechanism when you see it? . . . Oh you two! I don't know which of you is the most unutterable idiot."

Then, after a moment, Hilda didn't seem to be there any more. But there was still, Constance found, that warm, rough surface under her cheek; and there were arms about her — warm and close and comfortable.

Mark's voice said, very close to her ear, "Connie darling, this ought not to be necessary —you must have known from the beginning that I wanted to — but it's customary, I believe. . . . Will you marry me, and give yourself something to laugh at for the rest of your life?"

Her head was clearing now. . . . Of course this might all be really

WOULD BE POOR JUDGMENT

If Uncle Sam should fall in with the suggestion to enter into a non-aggression treaty with the Japanese, he would be displaying even less than his notoriously poor judgment in the handling of his international affairs.

It probably would be entirely in accord with the will of his people should he reiterate his many previous declarations that he does not plan aggressions against any nation. But why should he enter into an agreement with the Japanese who have demonstrated that such agreements mean nothing to them; who even now are waging aggressive war in direct violation of an existing treaty? Can anyone believe that the Japs would abide by any pact with us longer than suits their necessity and convenience?

The Japanese proposals probably are intended primarily for home consumption. If the United States should enter into a pact, the leaders there can say to their people something along this line: "See! The United States is afraid of us. Here's the treaty to prove it."

But suppose we should not fall victims to their game. Bearing in mind that Uncle Sam is the "booger" used by mothers to frighten Japanese children, we can visualize the leaders as saying to the people: "What did we tell you? The United States is preparing to invade us. You'll have to pay more taxes for warships and armies."

There is absolutely nothing to justify the proposed treaty. An agreement on our part not to invade Japan is unnecessary, as our people and the Japanese leaders know. And a promise by them isn't worth the paper on which it might be written. So why clutter up the files with a worthless document?

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, May 10 — Mr. Fritz Lang, the director and producer, is having censorship trouble. Whenever he selects or suggests a subject for a picture, somebody comes along and says, "No, no — mustn't touch!"

This is not to imply that Mr. Lang has any schemes for filming torrid farces or any other subjects generally considered morally indigestible for the very young or the very pure-in-heart. He merely wants to make pictures with some guts in them; piceures with topical, economic and social significance. He has no more patience than any showman for propaganda films, and he has no wish to gild any of the political isms. But he does believe that there should be fewer silly Cinderella stories and more about everyday people and everyday problems.

Lang has made three pictures in this country. "Fury," which won a lot of critical huzzas, showed something of the madness of mob violence. "You Only Live Once," told the tragic failure of an ex-convict to make a new life. "You and Me," just now completed, is a story of convicts on parole. Neither of these latter two pictures preaches anything. They merely bear on certain social questions, but they do suggest things for moviegoers to think about.

Senses A New Audience

And thinking-pictures, Lang is convinced, are needed by theater box offices.

"Too often, too many people come out of movies saying to themselves, 'Well, I have killed a couple of hours'," he said to me "It is better if a person goes home with something to think about, something to talk over with his family.

"Too much is going on today for the movies always to deal with a dream-world only. People read the newspapers; they see the candid pictures also in the newspapers and magazines, and they are interested. In a few years now we have had a generation of thinkers and readers, and I believe they are a new audience which the movies have not yet discovered.

"Understand — I am not talking against entertainment. No picture can be good if it is not entertaining. Also, we must still have musicals and comedies, and especially now we are getting good action pictures with dramatic stories. But I cannot believe in the theory that people who are worried about something — their jobs or their businesses or whatever it is — want only complete relaxation and forgetfulness in the theater."

Hands Off

However, he explained, producers just can't make pictures dealing with topics such as the organization struggles of the two big unions, or the plight of people on relief, or almost any of the other subjects and issues which fill the newspapers. Lang once wanted to do a kidnaping picture, and the story was planned to present common-sense information on how citizens should act against such emergencies. But the Hays Office said no; kidnaping, however treated, was a subject barred from the screen.

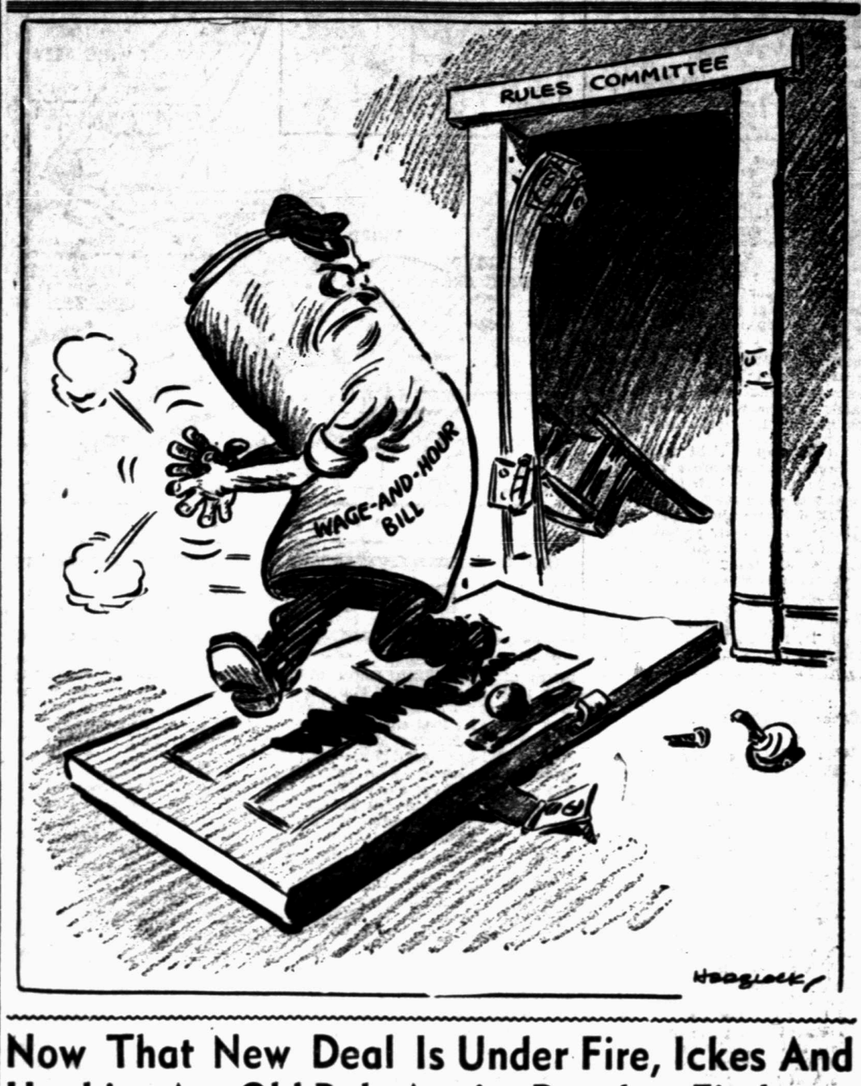

Another of his stories was to have dealt, only incidentally, with crooked lawyers. "I imagined," he said, "that everybody knew there were crooked lawyers. Even the so-called comic strips that tell detective stories are full of them. But on the screen—no. All lawyers in the movies are honest."

Even the faintest reference to foreign politics, Communism or Fascism, is taboo in the cinema. Metro paid a fortune for the Broadway stage hit, "It Can't Happen Here," which talked about dictatorship. It paid Sidney Howard a lot of money for an adaptation. Lang was eager to direct it. But the story has been shelved.

"Young people starting out in life — getting jobs, getting married, wondering about their security—talk and think about all such problems," Lang said. "Some of them, I know, must laugh at the movies as we in Hollywood have to make them. And I'm afraid some of them are laughing bitterly."

Too-strict censorship, he believes, is actually dangerous to democratic ideas and institutions. Maybe millions of moviegoers are beginning to resent Hollywood's smug representations of a never-never land that is always rich and happy and beautiful. Life just isn't like that.

Now That New Deal Is Under Fire, Ickes And Hopkins Are Old Pals Again, Dutcher Finds

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 10.—If and when the administration's spending-lending program aimed at recovery gets going, it won't be handicapped by the old feud between WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins and PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes.

Rodney Dutcher

These two New Dealers are buddies again, drawn together at a time when the prestige of the administration in which they have played such important roles has reached its lowest ebb.

Hopkins was in for a long siege at a Minnesota hospital at the time Ickes was out in front defending administration policies and tilting lances at Fascism, "tories" and monopoly last winter. But after the WPA administrator's recent return to Washington, the realization of a series of administration reverses, the seeming need for the small group of simon-pure-higher-up New Dealers to stand together while others deserted and the efforts of mutual friends soon brought the two men together in an alliance which seems likely to stick at least for duration of the depression.

They Get Paid For This

Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri, during Navy bill debate: "Does the senator understand that when American sailors and marines landed at Vera Cruz they were defending the United States?"

Senator Tom Connally of Texas: "No, I did not say anything about that."

Senator Clark: "Does the senator agree that—"

Senator Connally: "No, I do not agree. I do not know what it is, but I do not agree."

Forty Years In White House

Rudolph Forster, White House executive clerk who was invited along by President Roosevelt on his deep sea fishing cruise, has been enjoying one of his few vacations in more than 40 years of service under eight presidents.

"I know of no public servant of whom there is so universal admiration," Herbert Hoover once wrote. And Reed college at Portland, Ore., awarded Forster an honorary degree with the comment, "The value of a man's service to his country is not always measured by popular acclaim nor by repeated mention in the press."

A quiet, slender, bespectacled widower in his middle sixties, Forster has charge of the President's files, the room through which the chief executive's correspondence clears and the White House messenger service, disbursing department, telegraph and telephone systems. While the President is in his office on the executive wing, Forster never leaves his own adjoining office. He is there nearly all the time, usually, even when the President is out of town. All sorts of people consult him about an endless variety of problems related to White House procedure.

Each day Forster walks to his job from the Wardman Park hotel more than two miles away. His longest vacation was on the trip he took with Roosevelt to the Hawaiian Islands in 1934. He entered White House service as a stenographer in 1897 after McKinley's election. Then the White House executive staff numbered a dozen persons, including messengers. Today it includes 107.

Off The Record

No lese majeste is permitted to appear in the Congressional Record. The other day when Senator J. Ham Lewis was making a speech on the Navy bill and observed Vice-President Garner in the rear of the chamber talking with Senator Lundeen of Minnesota, those in the galleries distinctly heard Lewis say:

"If the vice president will please come to order . . ."

Garner heard it and slipped into a cloakroom. But the Senate reporter, taking stenographic notes for the Record on everything else, decided to skip it.

Spent Hundreds Of Dollars Without Any Relief

Then Gly-Cas Restores Health With Ease; Stomach And Bowels Regulated, Neuritis Pains Entirely Gone.

"I was never so enthusiastic about anything as I am Gly-Cas, for what is has done for me," said Mrs. W. T. Mathews, Exall Heights Addition, Corsicana, Texas. "For ten years I had suffered with constipation. Nothing but the strongest of laxatives would produce proper elimination. My head ached continually, had such dizzy spells, couldn't sleep at night and would lay awake by the hour. Then to make me more miserable, neuritis settled in my back, hands and arms and the pain I endured was unbearable. I tried seemingly everything, spent hundreds of dollars, but with no relief—until I was finally persuaded to try this new Gly-Cas.

"This new Gly-Cas showed me improvement from the very first dose," said Mrs. Mathews. "My bowels are now regular, appetite restored, nerves quieted, and I sleep the whole night through like a child. Headaches and dizziness have vanished, seldom a pain of any kind. Just think of it, after being barely able to get about and do my work, this new Gly-Cas completely restored my health and again I am enjoying life like others. I have only half the course of treatment as yet—and the results I have received are almost magical."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns.—Adv.

19—Livestock For Sale

Auction Sale
TUESDAY AND FRIDAY

BUYERS made no effort to conceal their intentions of establishing 25 to 50c lower prices, but there were few cattle sold at our sales that figured more than 25c off, although all other markets are at least 50c lower. We have lined up many packers and buyers for packers who are making our Tuesday and Friday sales regularly, so we need more good, choice grade killing cattle to supply the market that we have built up. We are going to depend on you to bring us in the cattle to supply this market. Both the Tuesday and Friday sales begins promptly at 10:00 a. m., so get your stock in as early as you can so you will have a good place in the auction.

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, May 10 (AP) — Cotton futures opened steady net 3 to 5 points higher today in response to favorable cables, trade buying and covering by shorts.

May opened at 8.77 bid, July 8.85, Oct. 8.85, Dec. 8.88, Jan. 8.90, and March at 8.95.

Towards mid-session recent buyers took profits and active positions eased slightly from the top with July at 8.85, Oct. 8.87, and Dec. at 8.90, four to five points net higher.

The undertone was supported by reports of unfavorable crop progress because of low temperatures and recent rains in the western belt.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP) — Cotton futures opened 4 to 6 advanced on higher Liverpool cables and in absence of pressure from abroad. May 8.66; July 8.71; Oct. 8.74; Dec. 8.76; Jan. 8.77; March 8.2.8

July sold up from 8.71 to 8.76 and shortly after the first half hour was quoted at 8.74, with the list 6 to 9 points net higher.

By midday the market was 2 to 6 points net higher with July selling at 8.73.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, May 10 (AP) — Wheat prices tended downward early today, many traders expecting the United States government crop report this afternoon would materially raise average unofficial bumper crop estimates.

Opening unchanged to ⅛ lower, May 80⅝, July 78¼-⅜, Chicago wheat futures then declined further. Corn started unchanged to ¼ off, May 57⅝-¾, July 58⅜-½.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were ¼-⅜ under yesterday's finish, May 79⅝, July 77¾-⅞, corn unchanged to ¼ lower; May 57⅞, July 58⅜-¾, and oats off to ⅛ up.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP) — The stock market ran out of rallying steam today and leading issues generally turned in minor gains or fell to moderately lower levels.

An attempt was made at the opening to extend yesterday's advance but profit selling appeared in sufficient quantity to quickly halt the climb. There was a fast-run-up near the start of the second hour when the ticker tape, for a brief period, was a trifle late. The pace soon slowed and most of Monday's favorites drifted to the downside. Transfers were around 1,100,000 shares.

Sentiment, on the whole, brokers said, still leaned to the buying end, but many traders were inclined to cash in on the recent comeback and await fresh stimulation from Washington. Business news continued cloudy and observers saw few signs of any nearby pickup.

Up the greater part of the day—some stepped down at the finish — were U. S. Rubber common and preferred, Goodrich, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Monsanto Chemical, North American Aviation, Pennsylvania, Air Reduction, Continental Baking "A" and Newport Industries.

Aircrafts were given a run for a while. A widespread drop in crude petroleum prices put most oils in arrears.

Behind minus signs were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Consolidated Edison, Santa Fe, Dupont, Westinghouse, Anaconda and American Smelting.

the law and to prevent the labor relations board from acting "both as prosecutor and judge" in collective bargaining cases.

Would Ban Sit-downs

The senator said he was seeking some way to define "employe responsibility" and "unfair" labor practices. Sitdown strikes should be strictly prohibited, he asserted.

Discussing possible methods of separating the board's present functions, Burke said he was considering a plan to make the board simply a prosecutor.

ADD SIX NEW MEMBERS

Six new members were enrolled at a meeting of Shallowater 4-H club at the high school there Monday afternoon.

Homer Thompson, assistant agricultural agent for Lubbock county, spoke. He discussed varieties of cotton and also made announcements relative to selection of judges from 4-H organizations to attend contests at Texas A. and M. this summer. He stressed the value of keeping records of projects.

Lions Session

Omar Burleson, Anson, who for the third time seeks the district governorship, had appeared. There had been talk of an opponent during the day. El Paso, likewise, appears unopposed for the 1939 convention city.

Walter Dexter Speaks

Outstanding event of the afternoon program was the address of Walter F. Dexter, Sacramento, Calif., first vice president of Lions International, who is due to be elevated to the presidency at the coming convention in Oakland in mid-July. A former college president, once secretary to the governor of California and now state superintendent of public instruction for the state, he was a master in presenting a lucid definition of service club membership.

Two questions, as old as the foundation of society, he said, are: "How can society succeed without stifling the individual," and "How can an individual succeed without disrupting society?" He discussed each briefly, pointing out the relationship between the individual and society.

Value Measured By Service

"We need to re-evaluate the individual," he declared, adding that the value of a man to his community is not measured by material worth but by his service to his fellowman. Some of the finest ideals in the more than 300 years of history of this nation, were given as liberty, justice, equality of opportunity, intellectual welfare and reasonable amount of service.

At the close of his talk M. E. Heard, head of the department of textile engineering of Texas Technological college, on behalf of Lubbock Lions, presented him with enough cloth for a suit of clothes made from wool bred, grown, clipped, scoured, spun and woven on the campus.

Bearden Conducts Service

A. G. Bearden, Lamesa, conducted the necrology service, listing 12 Lions of the district who have died the past year. One of them was Hal B. Grady, of the Lubbock club. Darrell Meadow, Clarendon bugler, blew "taps." Mrs. James Payne, Colorado, substituted for an entertainment number by the Floydada club, when the latter was unable to have its number here in time.

After the program, delegates were taken to the college campus in South Plains coaches buses to see the textile department. Ladies were entertained at theater parties.

At the model luncheon in the Hilton hotel conducted by the Amarillo club, President T. W. Montgomery presided. W. F. Freeman, tail twister, was chairman of the program. H. A. Shaw sang a solo, with Mrs. L. H. Bussey as accompanist. She also played two accordion numbers. Jack Pitman gave a Chic Sale number and solo.

Keys Are Presented

Four Lubbock Lions who had earned keys, were presented them by the international vice president. They were: Wallace Bogart, L. C. Edwards, J. W. Henly and D. Noel Stalnaker. Judge E. L. Pitts introduced the international official. V. L. Ford, on behalf of the club, gave to President Montgomery an award for his work.

will receive full credit for its air mail.

Another proposal being studied by the chamber's aviation committee which probably will be adopted, it was disclosed, is that the active cooperation of every school pupil be sought. The proposal, as outlined to C. E. Maedgen, chairman of the committee, is that each pupil address a letter to the teacher of his grade in some other city with the request that it be delivered to some pupil in that grade. The letter would tell of Lubbock and the South Plains.

The same plan also likely will be adopted in numerous of the towns on loops out of Lubbock.

Business institutions also will be asked to cooperate by putting such mail as they conveniently can on the plane, members of the committee said.

League Asked To Aid China

"with sympathetic interest because it is proof of the value of peaceful negotiations.")

Spanish Delegate Seated

The Spanish government delegate, Julio Alvarez del Vayo, bitter over the recent Anglo-Italian agreement and French-Italian negotiations, talked of Italian and German aid to the insurgents in Spain's civil war.

Alvarez del Vayo, although not on the council, was given a seat at today's public session because the outline of Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, of the Anglo-Italian agreement vitally concerned Spain.

For the same reason Ethiopia's two representatives were among the spectators. One of them will sit with the council when the question of recognizing the death of their empire comes up for official action.

Nations Win Assurance

At yesterday's secret session, Great Britain and France won assurances they would be freed of the league obligation not to recognize Italy's conquest of the African empire. League members were pledged against recognizing the fruits of aggression but France and Britain, as a part of their wooing of Italian friendship, have undertaken to have the ban lifted.

Delegates from Soviet Russia, China, New Zealand and Bolivia refused to back the proposal but other members agreed. That meant that a series of declarations before the council—probably Thursday — would give league members freedom to recognize Italy's conquest without taking a vote.

Cleanup Campaign

tee are to make their final inspections Monday to ascertain what improvements have been made. Mrs. Clark Mullican is chairman and Mrs. Frank L. Winn vice chairman of the committee.

Meanwhile, programs to be broadcast over KFYO during the remainder of the campaign were completed. Negro pupils who were scheduled to have presented the program Monday night failed to appear, members of the committee said. Bernie Howell, organist, and Miss Eva Wilkins, vocalist, substituted for them.

Lecture On Program

On tonight's program, to be broadcast at 8:30 o'clock, will be a lecture by J. E. Maisen. He will speak on "Relation of Cleanup Measures to Fire Prevention."

Other programs for this week and next will be: Wednesday night, Sanders school under direction of Mrs. J. T. Trigg, principal; Thursday night, T. C. Root will speak; Friday night, Lubbock Music club with Mrs. Raymond Marshall directing; Saturday night, Miss Ruth Mildred Rylander in charge with an organ solo by Miss Imogene Webster; next Monday, a play, directed by Miss Alice Beckett; and May 17, address by Mayor Carl Slaton.

Will Close Drive

The mayor's address will close officially the drive. All the night programs, each lasting 15 minutes, will be broadcast at 8:30 except Saturday night's which will be 15 minutes earlier, it was announced at chamber of commerce headquarters.

Radio programs are being broadcast daily at 10:15 o'clock each morning and at 3:15 o'clock each afternoon under direction of Dick Flowers, teacher of radio announcing at Texas Technological college.

National Lottery Plan To Be Used In War Draft Is Made

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10 (AP)—Details of a national lottery plan for conscripting citizens into the armed forces of the United States in wartime, were worked out here today by U. S. war department officials and army officers.

Thirteen million men between 21 and 31 years of age would be summoned in the first draft, military officials disclosed.

Colonel V. J. O'Kelliher and Major Lewis B. Hershey, both of the army general staff in Washington, headed a group of army authorities who met here yesterday for a four-day conference. Their visit was to perfect in the seven western states the far-flung mechanism of the selective service plan for the next war.

Major Hershey said the draft would be conducted by an independent government agency, permitting the armed forces to concern themselves entirely with the enemy.

Terry Girl Is Cotton Queen

In balloting at Texas Technological college Monday, Elray Lewis, sophomore from Brownfield, was elected Queen Cotton despite the fact that a "dark horse" made his appearance.

Haskell Taylor, instructor in business administration, received ten votes in the election. His name was not on the ballot, however.

Largest Ever Cast

The total of 479 votes was the largest number ever cast in a queen election at Tech, said Mary Howell, secretary of the student council.

Miss Lewis will reign at the annual Cotton carnival to be sponsored by the Tech chapter of Phi Psi, national textile fraternity, May 20 in Senior High school auditorium. Harold Cocanougher, president of the chapter, will be King Cotton.

Other candidates, in the order they placed, were: Mary Florence Van Horne, Colorado; Kay McCoy, Baird; Frances Tarlton, Lubbock; and Dorothy Ann York, Plainview. They will be members of the queen's court.

Art Exhibit To Be On Display Friday At Junior High

An exhibit of the art work done in Junior High school during the year will be given Friday afternoon from 3 until 6:30 o'clock in the library. The exhibit is free and is being sponsored by the art classes and teachers of art, Misses Leona Bowlin, Mary Lou Roberson, and Mrs. T. A. Turner, and Mrs. Bruce Bryan.

This is the second exhibit to be given this year by this department. The first showed pottery made by students of Mrs. Bruce Bryan.

All the work to be on exhibit will be creative work. A special part of the exhibit will show the favors which have been mimeographed by The Cowboy World staff during the year. Students will be on duty to show the visitors the work.

Types of work include wood carving, pottery, book binding, illustration, chip carving, painted boxes, painted plates, basketry, and designs.

Blind Teacher Happy That She Underwent Operation

PHILADELPHIA, May 10 (AP)—Augusta Horner, a blind teacher, was happy today that as a baby she underwent an operation she said was similar to that of the Colan infant in Chicago.

Miss Horner, an instructor at the Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind, said her parents decided whether to let her live, forever blind, or die for lack of an overation.

"I have always been grateful to my mother for deciding in favor of my life," she said.

Thirteen-Year-Old Girl Prays For Child's Sight

WORCESTER, Mass., May 10 (AP)—Thirteen-year-old Ruth Clarke, who lost one eye 10 years ago in a glioma operation similar to that undergone by 5-weeks-old Helaine Colan in Chicago, prayed today for the Chicago infant.

"Oh, I pray God they will be able to save the baby's other eye," said Ruth. "I hope her right eye will be as good as mine."

Looking For A Preacher, Mebbe?

Friends predict that Walter Wanger, well-known film producer, and Joan Bennett, beauteous movie star, are about to be married. In any event, they're all dressed up in the picture above, and appear as though they might be looking for a minister. Wagner and his wife, the former Justine Johnstone, were divorced recently.

Cheating At Examinations Still Practiced But There's Not Much Going On At Tech

BY GLENDA FAE SADLER

Do collegians "out on the hill" cheat at examinations?

They don't say so, but they grin knowingly when asked if they see others at it.

Historical epochs of the past are invoked, the better to perfect the are of, "remembering that German conjugation" or "balancing an equation." Armed with a narrow strip of paper, the ends of which are rolled on match stems like the Roman scrolls, a student deftly unwinds amassed information held together by a rubber band and presto!

Examinations are easy.

Banning It Impossible

Admittedly, there is not so much of that sort of thing going on at the college. Keeping it out of any institution is impossible, however — from the academies to the universities.

There may even be found a defense of a fashion for cheating. Or, better said, an explanation that seems to salve consciences. "A counter jab at an instructor for too stiff an examination," finds one bloc. Then there is another that presumbly doesn't "want to see honesty sacrificed to those who take the easy way."

From the most elementary to the most resourceful ways of cheating are used by the few who resort to cheating, say those who insist their knowledge of the practice merely is as an "audience."

Dark glasses prevent an instructor's noticing some fellow back there toward the back is looking over the shoulder of someone ahead.

Girls wear lockets and locket rings with sliding covers. Plenty of tissue paper on which hieroglyphics are scrawled can be packed in them.

Notes fastened inside jackets and underskirts, behind ties and under the tops of stockings. Notes written on a boy's leg just above his socks. Notes written in inconspicuous spots on blackboards. Notes hidden against protective corners of radiators. In fact—

One guy even sent an apple in to a friend. The core had been removed and a scroll implanted!

When they want to, they crib. Or say those who say they have seen.

FLASHES OF LIFE

Teacher's Pet

BAY CITY, Mich.—Mrs. J. H. George, who was unable to attend college after graduating from high school in 1910, is a 50-year-old student at Bay City junior college.

Although she flunked in geology and astronomy, she says she isn't angry at her teacher. He is Prof. J. H. George, head of the geology and astronomy department—and her husband.

Zoomer

MARCH FIELD, Calif.—A belligerent blackbird is showing soldiers at this army air base something new in dive-bombing.

From a perch on a tree near the parade grounds he zooms down on anyone venturing near. One soldier has a split ear lobe as a souvenir.

Can't Miss

MILWAUKEE — As a golfer, C. W. Evans had squirmed under the nickname of "Slicer." But the boys at the North Shore Country club are giving him a respectful look now.

"Slicer" teed up his ball for a shot at the ninth hole, and swung mightily.

The ball went out on a pretty arc, hit the green, and rolled into the cup—for the tenth hole.

Germany shipped over 1,700 tons of artificial flowers to other countries last year.

TO USE DIESELS

LAREDO, May 10 (AP) — Diesel electric locomotives will be used for passenger and freight over the 167-mile line of the Texas-Mexican railway from Laredo to Corpus Christi.

R. W. Morrison of San Antonio, president, yesterday was authorized by the board of directors to purchase the new equipment.

One of the largest collections of western frontier relics is housed in a modernistic building on the campus of West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon.

Dr. Bradford Knapp Plans To Return From Corpus, May 22

Condition of Dr. Bradford Knapp, Texas Technological college president, is improved and he plans to return here from Corpus Christi May 22, a member of the family said Monday.

He will attend a meeting of the Tech board of directors early in June. It was not known whether he will remain here.

Dr. Knapp became ill more than two months ago and has been absent from Lubbock about a month. He and Mrs. Knapp are staying near Corpus Christi. He left Lubbock upon advice of his physician that he go to a lower climate, consult other specialists, and rest.
