HAMON SHOOTING LAID TO GIRL

CISCO DEPOT MAN ACCIDENTALLY SHOT AS AN INDIRECT RESULT OF ACTIVITIES OF PICKPOCKETS

Bullet Enters Eye of Steve Scarlett—Passengers Line Up Since Friday Night, When Thieves Lited More Than $900.

Steve Scarlett, aged 35 years, a Cisco baggage helper for the Texas & Pacific railway, was shot and seriously wounded about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon in the company's baggage room in that city by the accidental discharge of a 25-caliber automatic pistol.

According to information obtained here, Scarlett, W. H. Turner, who is a Cisco police officer, and another baggage helper named Martin, were examining the magazine out of the pistol, it is said, and handed it to Martin, who was working with the magazine when the gun was accidentally discharged.

The bullet passed through Turner's left thumb and struck Scarlett in the right eye, lodging in the brain, it is said. He was rushed to a Fort Worth hospital on the Texas & Pacific passenger train which passed through this city at 11:35 o'clock last night.

Word received from Fort Worth is to the effect that Scarlett is resting well at St. Joseph's hospital, where some hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Previous to ascertaining the actual facts of the case, a rumor had reached Ranger that the Oil Field Special, which took the wounded man to Fort Worth, had been held up by armed bandits near Paild, forty miles west of here, and the express messenger killed.

Pickpockets made away with $900 in cash, taken from the passengers at the Cisco depot last Friday night, it is said, and it is for that reason that the policeman was on the job. At the same time the robbery was committed, the people were crowded thickly around the ticket window. Since then the officers have forced them to line up, it is understood.

The conductor of the train on which Scarlett was taken to Fort Worth stated last night that he had taken up a collection on the train Friday night for those who had all their money taken by the pickpockets.

SHERIFF AIDS IN DEFENSE OF ACCUSED NEGRO

Testifies Investigations Show Him Innocent of Arlington Assault.

Special Lenses Wire.

Fort Worth, Nov. 23.—Sterling P. Clark of Tarrant county testified for the defense today in the trial of Robert Lowe, negro, who is charged with criminally assaulting Althea Shipper in Arlington on Nov. 1. He stated that, in his opinion, Lowe was not the negro that committed the assault.

He maintained that he had made a thorough investigation of the case from the time that the negro was placed under custody. The case will go to the jury tonight.

The largest crowd in the history of the criminal court in this county is attending the trial. Public feeling is running pretty high and several attempts have been made to lynch the negro. Five men recently entered the jail in an effort to find him. Lowe is under a heavy guard in the court room.

Christmas Cheer Fund Begins Its Piling Up

Received heretofore . . . $25
Mrs. F. D. Hostaph . . . 10

Total . . . $35

The first public donations to the Times' Christmas Cheer Fund was received this morning, when Mrs. F. D. Hostaph mailed the department a $10 check.

"I wish you good luck in your undertaking," she said.

Just a little spirit of Christmas cheer and "peace on earth—good will toward men" for the needy little folk of the city of Ranger is what the fund is striving to secure with its Christmas Cheer Fund.

A sure "huff" Christmas tree will be put over by the Salvation Army, which has consented to handle the matter for the Times, and a sure "huff" Santa Claus, just as merry, jolly and fat as he ever was, will distribute the gifts to the poor children and people who attend. Even though their names may not be called by reason of the lateness of the hour in which Santa Claus heard of them, still he will bring with him sufficient presents and toys, so that no "kiddie" need go home without some of Santa Claus' own home-manufactured candy.

In order that the children may have the best possible time, it is necessary that all those interested send in their donations at the earliest possible moment, so that there will be sufficient money on hand with which to finance the undertaking.

There is still another point which the Times wishes to impress very much upon the minds of its readers and that is: We want the names of needy folk as well as money.

STRANGE INFANT LEFT WITH MOTHER WHEN SHE HOLDS ANOTHER'S BABY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 22.—The police are aiding Mrs. Ella York, Detroit, in her search for her babe, Paul, 1 month old.

Mrs. York has in her possession a baby boy of the same age, but does not know to whom it belongs. Mrs. York was passing through Indianapolis on her way to Palestine, Ill., to visit her parents, when she decided to stop in Indianapolis to visit her uncle, Henry Loughery.

Mrs. York wrapped her baby in its blanket and left it on a bench in the Union station while she went into a telephone booth. As she stepped from the booth a woman approached her and asked Mrs. York to hold the strange baby a moment. Mrs. York took the child. The woman did not return. When Mrs. York went to the bench to look after her own babe, the infant was gone.

"SHIMMY SHAKERS" WILL COME UNDER EYES OF THE POLICE

International News Service.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 23.—Local "Shimmy" shakers are shaking due to fear. They are fearful lest Mrs. Evelyn Scatterday, city dance hall inspector, becomes a municipal policeman.

Whether she will carry a gun is up to the city council.

A pending ordinance seeks to increase the city police force by adding 45 patrolmen and five policemen. Provision is made that one use of the police women shall be city dance hall inspectors.

Mayor Thomas has announced that if the ordinance passes, Mrs. Scatterday will be transferred to the police department with full police power.

T. & P. OFFICIALS HERE TO ADJUST TITLE TANGLE

Will Take Up Transfer of Commerce Street Strip With City Commission.

Officials of the Texas & Pacific railroad company will meet with the city commission this afternoon to consider the legal phases of the city donating fifteen feet of Commerce street upon which to build a station. Chief Engineer Mitchell, Frank E. Burke, land and industrial agent and R. S. Sheppard of the legal department of the company are here today for that purpose. The commission has expressed a willingness to follow any legal procedure suggested by the railroad company in dealing a section of Commerce street to it in its new station.

Last year an ordinance was passed giving this section of the street to the railroad, but because the plans under way for building a new station did not materialize the ordinance was rescinded.

Straighten Legal Tangle.

An objection has been raised by the attorneys for the road to a section of the city charter which allows the city control of building on streets. At the meeting this afternoon it is hoped to meet the legal phases of the section.

The action of the railroad company in sending its officials here to thresh out the legal tangles is considered as evidence that the new station will go forward at once. To this end it is said that bids for the structure will be received Nov. 30.

Aside from this James Lancaster, general manager of the Texas & Pacific, has promised that the station will be built as quickly as possible. This promise was made before a gathering of the Chamber of Commerce.

HEAVY WINDS DO DAMAGE IN NEW ENGLAND

International News Service.

BOSTON, Nov. 23.—Northwestern gales, accompanied by a cold drizzling rain, hit the New England coast last night and carried havoc in its wake. The seas were higher than at any time during the past two or three months and several of the streets in coast towns were inundated.

At Winthrop the waves broke over the sea wall, flooded the streets and marooned many people in their homes. At Nantucket the tide dashed over the new breakwater and small boats were thrown upon the beach. Heavy winds, which reached as high as sixty miles an hour at times, interfered with the telegraph and telephone lines of the city.

Vessels, which have put into this port, announced that the weather is severe outside.

HARDING AT COLON.

By Associated Press.

COLON, Panama, Nov. 23.—President-elect Harding of the United States arrived at Cristobal at 9 o'clock this morning aboard the steamer Panamanian. The craft in the harbor gave him a noisy welcome. He went directly to his hotel.

As Harding approached Panama on his vacation voyage he was flooded with wireless messages inviting him to be the guest of honor at a long list of public functions during his five days' visit to the Panama canal. His vacation plans compelled the decline of most of the invitations.

WACO BOY DIES FROM GASOLINE EXPLOSION

WACO, Nov. 23.—Sam Payne, 21, died in a sanitarium here this morning as a result of burns received in a gasoline explosion last night.

If all the merchants will subscribe their share of the proposed "White Way" and it is installed, its cost will be returned in added business in less than sixty days.

This assertion was made today by one of the leaders of the movement and in support of it he brought up the fact that people like to congregate where lights are bright. He also pointed out that a carnival depended upon lights to draw patronage.

Today the committee appointed by the Retail Merchants association, composed of M. O. Hurt, Edward Maher and Ray Newman, are working out a concrete proposition, which will be placed before the merchants and the city commission this afternoon.

Assessment Ample.

On rough estimates it is thought that the merchants and business people will be asked to donate $2.50 a front foot to the project. This price is considered as being large enough to amply pay the cost of installing fifteen blocks of "white way" and probably leave a surplus, which would be returned.

The price that has been fixed does not take into consideration the offer of the Electric company to pay half the cost of installing the system. This offer was

MRS. McNARY AWARDED RETAIL MERCHANTS' GIFT

Mrs. W. O. McNary of the DeGroff hotel was awarded the prize for the second week of the Ranger Trade Carnival, a kitchen cabinet, with the first ticket, No. 742905. Mrs. McNary, who had about 400 tickets, is in the hotel business here and when she appeared at the offices of the Retail Merchants' association to claim the gift, related a number of instances of visitors attracted here by the carnival, and of the effectiveness of the merchants' plan in stimulating trade.

EASTLAND BURGLARS NOW IN JAIL

Special to the Times.

EASTLAND, Texas, Nov. 23.—The sheriff reports the arrest of two men at Fort Worth last night charged with burglarizing the Eastland hardware store last Saturday night. A lot of the stolen goods were recovered. Seven Mexicans charged with burglarizing Allen Bros. store last Saturday night are in Eastland jail. Some of them have confessed to the crime. Other arrests are expected to be made. A lot of the stolen goods has been recovered.

Sammies Oil Co. Will Match Others in Red Cross Drive

Who will match the Sammies Oil corporation in behalf of the Red Cross membership roll call? J. B. Owens, manager of the company, offers to donate $20 to the roll call fund if ten other firms will give $10 each. In addition to this offer the gas company took out a 100 per cent membership for its employees. The Model Market also took out a membership for its entire personnel.

Many firms over the city now hold 100 per cent membership cards, through the loyalty of their managers and employees. The companies and firms are: The Times, Western Supply company, Cokes, Cafeteria, Reavis CCoChCChCChC Cokes cafeteria, Hotel De Groff, Reavis CCoChCChCChC Cokes cafeteria, West Texas Electric company, Monaca Brewery, Guaranty State Bank, First National Bank, Texas Bank & Trust company, Hatton's jewelry store, Burton-Lingo Lumber company, Hill Printing company, Commercial Printing company, Palace Cigar store, Juliana Shop, Simpson-Alexander, Oil Cities Electric company, Hall Furniture company, Ranger Cafe, Jameson's meat market, Thompson's variety store, Ranger company, Basket grocery, Texas Drug company, Valiant book store, K. B. Looney, Jewellery, Cawley Bros., National Supply company, Lamb theatre, Boston store, Reuben-Brown, Leader store, Mariello beauty shop, the Popular store, Bernstein & Weinberg, Strawbridge electric company, New York Hat works, Republic supply company, Dr. Stafford's drug store, Corner Drug store, Feather Weight Doughnut & Waffle company, Jones, Cox & company, Castellanos, Norville hardware, Farmers & Merchants bank, Sanitary market, Vogue hat shop.

'White Way' Will Pay for Self In 60 Days, Says Merchant

made on the contingency of the city making a 5-year contract of a flat rate of $34 per each 250-candlepower light. Under this contract, with 120 lights on the fifteen blocks the lighting bills would run nearly $7,000 a year. This, it is thought, will be considered excessive by the city commission when it comes to pass upon the proposition.

Might Cut Bill.

However, Manager Clegg of the light company, while declaring that he was in position to say definitely, thought that if the merchants would install the entire system, this cost would be cut in half.

On the rough estimates given, $2.50 a front foot will pay the entire cost of installing the entire system. However, it is the intention of the committee to have a contract to this effect before any action is taken.

An effort will be made to clear all details today and begin securing the consent of merchants and business people to the move this afternoon or tomorrow.

While no contracts have been offered, several business people have been approached on the matter and everywhere a willingness has been expressed by everyone.

MACHINE GUNS USED AGAINST IRISH CROWDS

Forty Dead and More Than 100 Wounded in Irish Night-mare of Terror.

International News Service.

DUBLIN, Nov. 23.—Forty people have been shot to death in Ireland since Saturday and more than 100 wounded. Ireland has lived through a nightmare of violence. Three prominent Sinn Feiners, Clancy, McKee and Chieff, were shot to death in prison here. It is alleged that their friends smuggled bombs into their cells.

The prisoners threw the bombs, it is said, at their guards, but they failed to explode, after which they tried to escape by the soldiers, who fired upon all three and killed them.

The body of a Sinn Feiner was found today in the Liffey river and a student who was wounded Sunday died this afternoon.

A battle was fought here this morning between the Black and Tan police and civilians in which the former used machine guns. Order has been restored.

Cordon Around City.

By Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Nov. 23.—Strong military patrols guarded every bridge and road running out of Dublin last night. All avenues of egress and ingress were closed and even persons having permits were not allowed to pass through the lines drawn through the outskirts of the city. Reports reaching the center of Dublin during the evening indicated that virtually the whole military establishment in this district of Ireland is employed in maintaining the cordon.

Work Is Begun on Sidewalks to Hamon Line Depot

Work began this morning of building curbing and sidewalks to the Hamon road depot on Lamar street. The walks, however, will only be constructed on the south side of the street. Forms are being built today and it is thought that construction will start soon.

The walks, it is said, will be nine feet wide, which is considered ample for the traffic that passes over them. On street intersections the city will place lights. This improvement has been agitated for some time, and property owners have shown a willingness to co-operate in the matter. However they desired to wait until the construction company made the grade for the curbing. With the forms for the gutter set, it is thought that the sidewalks will go forward rapidly.

DRILLING CONTRACTOR WELL KNOWN IN RANGER DIES IN CALIFORNIA

MAGNATE'S WOUND NOT DANGEROUS

Shot Sunday Night in Ardmore Hotel; First Report Was That Affair Was Accidental

By Associated Press.

ARDMORE, Nov. 23.—Information charging Clara Smith of Ringling, Okla., with assault with intent to kill in connection with the wounding here Sunday night of Jake L. Hamon, Republican national committeeman of Oklahoma, was filed early last night with Justice of the Peace Hal Cannon, by Russell Brown, county attorney of Carter county.

A second information charging Clara Smith and Jake L. Hamon jointly with a statutory offense was filed by Mr. Brown with Judge Cannon.

He declares Clara Smith had left Ardmore yesterday afternoon on a train for California, and an attempt was being made to have officers in the northern part of the state to intercept her before she gets outside the boundaries of Oklahoma.

Hamon was wounded Sunday night while in a room in a local hotel where he makes his home. A statement issued today by Frank L. Ketch, his business manager, said the shooting was "accidental," that a 25-caliber automatic pistol was "accidentally discharged" while Hamon was cleaning it preparatory to a trip to Texas, and Montana. When requested for a further statement last night, Ketch declined, saying his statement of yesterday stood.

Following the alleged accident at the hotel, Hamon said to have walked two blocks to a hospital where he underwent an operation for removal of the bullet. His business manager stated today the pistol and bullet were in his possession.

A statement issued last night by attending physicians said Mr. Hamon's condition was improved. It was not considered serious unless complications should develop.

RAILWAY MEN'S BANK HAS SEVEN HUNDRED DEPOSITORS IN WEEK

By Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 23.—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Co-operative National bank, which opened here recently, closed its first week's business with 700 savings and checking accounts and deposits of more than $200,000, according to Warren S. Stone, president of the bank and grand chief of the brotherhood.

"So far as I know," Mr. Stone said, "this is the first co-operative commercial bank in the United States, although there are 55,000 co-operative banks in Europe. It is the first labor bank in this country."

Capital of the new institution is $1,000,000, with a paid-in surplus of $100,000. Stock is owned exclusively by the brotherhood and its members and was largely oversubscribed. Officials and directors of the bank are the officers of the brotherhood.

BRITISHERS ASKED TO TELL U. S. OF IRISH

French, Carson and Greenwood Invited to Testify in America.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Sir Hamar Greenwood, British chief-secretary for Ireland; Sir John French, commander of the British forces in Ireland, and Sir Edward Carson, Ulster leader in the house of commons, have been invited by the committee of 100 investigating the Irish question to come to the United States and testify at hearings being held by the committee's commission of seven, according to the commission announcement today.

The commission said it had invited the British officials to send a representative in the event of their inability to come to the United States. The announcement said Carson is invited to "voice the view of the Ulster minority" while French and Greenwood are asked to present facts as seen through the eyes of the military administration.

I. W. W. Stirs Up Dust in Leaving City Work Force

Barney Mitchell, self-confessed I. W. W., escaped yesterday from the street force. Mitchell was working out a fine for vagrancy. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon when the guard was taking the men out to work, Mitchell made a dash for freedom. An effort was made to stop him but without avail.

When arrested several days ago the man had a membership card in the I. W. W. in his possession and also a book of stamps used by members of the organization to keep in good standing. This fact led the police to believe he was an organizer for the order, since only organizers are allowed to have stamps.

Mitchell denied this. He declared that a rooming housekeeper had given them to him after learning that he was a member. A delegate had left them at the rooming house, he said.

However he admitted being a member of the order. In defense of this, he declared that in Nebraska and other northwestern states, it was nearly impossible to get a job without an I. W. W. card. The police believe that Mitchell will never return to Ranger or this vicinity again.

'FRISCO GRAND JURY WILL INVESTIGATE 'FRAMING' OF MOONEY

International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—The county grand jury will open a probe of the alleged frame up in the Mooney bombing case, District Attorney Brady stated today. HAGAMAN LAKE STOCKED WITH FISH BY STATE

The state fish hatchery of Dallas yesterday delivered to R. R. Nelms 3,000 baby fish for Hagaman Lake. They were shipped in fifteen milk cans and placed in the lake immediately upon arrival.

The species are black bass, channel catfish, white perch and goggle eye perch. The latter is sometimes known as rock bass.

It is said that all classes increase in great numbers.

It is required by the state that no fishing be allowed in waters thus stocked under two years. This ruling will be enforced by the water company.

At present the lake is in fine condition for stocking with fish, it is said, and if it remains full of water, in two years it will be alive with all the varieties that were placed there yesterday.

The lake now is more than one mile long and its surface is free from oil.

BANKERS FORCED BOOZE RELEASE TO SAVE LOANS?

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Despite emphatic denials from all officials charged with enforcement of the prohibition act, a report has gained wide circulation in this city that the law is being enforced with a studied laxity because of a "deal" made by treasury officials and certain bankers in January. The only thing that indicates the truth of the story is the acknowledged laxity of enforcement.

In detail, the story is that certain bankers whose institutions held millions of dollars in bonded warehouse certificates upon which they had loaned money, saw themselves facing staggering losses when the prohibition law was passed over the veto of President Wilson, and set about trying to find a way out. They are said to have visited Washington and met with nothing but rebuff when they sought solace at the treasury department and the office of the prohibition enforcement commissioner.

Then they are said to have determined to throw on the market all the liberty bonds held by their institutions, and to have informed certain government officials of this determination. To have permitted them to do so would have caused liberty bonds to drop to such a low level that there would have been a possible decline all along the line, with a panic as not too remote possibility. This is said to have led to an agreement by some powerful but unnamed public official to permit the banks to clear their bonded liquor and save the money they had loaned on it.

Every official interviewed about the report called it ridiculous. They declared it was "about as wild as anything we have heard in connection with prohibition," but the story persists. Bankers likewise ridicule the story.

AMERICAN MINISTER DESCRIBES INTERVIEW WITH SIAMESE RULER

By Associated Press.
PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 23.—A colorful pageant attends the presentation of a foreign diplomat to the king of Siam, according to a letter received here from G. W. P. Hunt, United States minister to Siam, who described his own presentation September 6, last. The American minister said he was one of forty-seven Americans in Bangkok, a city of 800,000. Of his presentation at the royal palace he wrote:

"We started across an immense paved court to the royal entrance. There was a fanfare of trumpets and two bodies of household troops stood at attention. The royal colors were displayed and with uncovered heads we passed on to the stone staircase which for the occasion was laid with a heavy red plush carpeting. Along each side were stationed guards with ancient looking halberds.

"We were ushered into a large rotunda. Our hats were left on a table. Then we turned to the right, mounted a few more stairs and came into another long room with lofty windows along one side. Between the windows were niches in which stood knights in armor (without the knights themselves, of course). Along the other side of this long room or passage there was a row of beautiful marble pillars and beyond them a large room. At the end of the corridor stood nine chamberlains, rather great nobles, resplendent in rich dress and ablaze with orders on their breasts.

"Suddenly, folding doors opened as if by unseen hands and I walked into the presence of the only despotic monarch left in this world. And as if befitting the reception of an envoy from the greatest republic on earth, he was dressed very simply in a long frock coat.

"The Prince D., who is at the foreign office, presented me and retired to the rear of the room while I read to the king, as etiquette requires, my brief speech and he replied in Siamese in like manner.

"When this ceremony was done, he smiled and we set down and had our little talk, for the king, you should know, speaks perfect English. He is short of stature, like all Siamese, is quite plump, and impresses one as being a real chap."

U. S. SUB-TREASURY STATIONS WILL BE DISCONTINUED SOON

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Pursuant to an act of congress, which provides for the abolition of the various sub-treasuries scattered throughout the country, the United States sub-treasury in this city will cease to exist at the end of the year and its functions and powers will be added to those already delegated to the local federal reserve bank.

Many of the employees of the sub-treasury, now numbering less than 100, will be taken over by the federal reserve bank, which will occupy the treasury building until its own new home in this city is completed and other employees may go into the customs service.

The local sub-treasury, for generations an integral part of the financial history of the government, occupies a commanding position in the heart of the financial district and is on the site of the seat of the federal congress where George Washington took the oath of office as first president of the United States.

Its Grecian facade and broad approach have been the scenes of some of the most important and interesting events in the annals of this city and country. From its steps, standing in the shadow of the bronze statue of the father of his country, have spoken some of the most distinguished statesmen of this and foreign lands.

Many political demonstrations of deep significance have taken place there, including those held during the Blaine and Cleveland campaigns, and Theodore Roosevelt made his first open-air speech from its steps when he ran for governor of New York.

During the world war the sub-treasury was the center of numerous Liberty bond rallies and other similar gatherings. Only recently its steps were thronged while speakers representing various patriotic organizations voiced their protest against the mysterious explosion of Sept. 16, which occurred within 50 feet of the Washington statue and caused serious damage to the New Assay office building next door.

In its many years of service the sub-treasury has been the repository of well nigh countless billions of dollars in gold and silver and paper money and its chiefs have included some of the most notable figures among the financiers of the city.

Martin Vogel, now assistant treasurer, will return to the practice of law as soon as he is relieved of his duties. This will not be possible, however, until an official count has been taken of the vast sums of money still reposing in the underground vaults of the building.

Cheer Leader is Important Gent Says 'Bugs' Baer

("Bugs" Baer in New York American)

Numbering football players is unfair to the boys in the cooler who earned their numbers in unfair competition. It is also unfair to the athletes themselves. Why do the spectators want to know what it's all about, when the players don't know themselves.

Nobody has asked that the cheer leaders be numbered because even the most habitual football bug knows there ain't fractions that small. A cheer leader belongs to the same branch of the Rotary club that admits squirrels in revolving cages to active membership.

No circus is complete without a battery of clowns and no big intercollegiate market day would be official without a cabinet of Bernum secretaries. Cheer leaders are sent to college because papa and mamma figure that a pet squirrel is easier to feed and takes up less room around the house. They send the boy off to Yale or Princeton to study modern mythology and the hieroglyphics on ancient African tablets.

African Sanskrit.

The hieroglyphics on ancient African tablets have never been deciphered with profit to the party of the first part. The African spoke and wrote a dotted language on square ivory stationery. There seemed to be only twelve dots in their alphabet. The Morse code has both dots and dashes. Science figures that Afro-Diceo was the Remorse code.

The ancient Africans used to shake their education well before taking and follow it up with a long roll for a finishing course. The dots seemed to have a very peculiar significance.

Two dots were known as crap and was a symbol of mourning. Possibly a corruption of crape, meaning something on the doorknob after a patient had just died. It was also called Snake Eyes or Chinamen's Eyes.

Three dots meant the same thing. Four dots was Little Joe, an orphan, who was the champion wrestler of his age. Nobody could throw him.

Five dots was Phoebe from the South, a young sister of Nine Dots, known as Nellie with the Long Green Stockings.

Six Dots was a point if you made it. If you didn't make it, it was only a number.

Seven Dots had two meanings. It was or it wasn't. If you didn't throw it first, it threw you.

Eight was the same as Six. Either a point or a number.

Ten was Big Dick from Boston and was the birthstone of Lucretia Borgia, the inventor of slow poison.

Eleven was a natural, named in honor of John Burroughs, the great naturalist.

Twelve was Box Cars or Packards, because it was made with twin sixes.

It was a very queer language and a guy could speak volumes without saying a word. After a cheer leader graduated in African tablets he would go home, frame an L. O. U., for a diploma and spend the rest of his life helping the town loafer to build up his business.

You may bawl out a cheer leader, but remember that he has more fun for less money than a pyromaniac in Hades.

LIBERTY.

America is horrified by the mysterious disappearance of twelve wealthy and beautiful brides from the very altar. All of the forces of the United States government are at work to ferret out the criminals who menace the womanhood of the country.

Ruth Storrow, daughter of Edmund Storrow, a millionaire, determines to proceed with her wedding to Bob Norton, despite the fact that her sister Eleanor has been seized by the abductors on her way to her own marriage and plunged into the bay in her limousine. When the cat is raised all that is found therein is a note demanding ransom.

Bob refuses to let Ruth risk herself at the altar until the danger is past and Ruth, vexed, accepts the offer of Stephen Winthrop, a society idler, to be married to him immediately.

As Ruth prepares for her wedding the twelve brides are languishing in a submarine manned by the pirate band. On the day of Ruth's nuptials, Ruth is locked in her room while a female detective takes her place to foil the villains.

The ruse displeases Ruth, who leaps from the window of the room to race to the church across the bay. Alone in a motorboat, she is seen by the pirates, who seize her and take her aboard the submarine.

Bob and his friend, Lieut. Morgan, a U. S. Navy aviator, take on the pursuit. The navy lands their aid, and battleships, cruisers, destroyers, submarines, sea planes and dirigibles set out.

There are thrilling struggles on land and sea, in the clouds, in the depths of a mine, in a pirate castle, and on the rocks of a lonely isle.

The navy participates in fierce struggles with the sinister band, officers and men by the thousands joining the fray. Each of the fifteen episodes is crowded with daring adventures and breath-taking stunts. Liberty, starting Wednesday, November 24th.

FARMERS BURNED FENCE POSTS.

LOCKNEY, Nov. 23.—The coal shortage that has threatened this locality and made necessary the burning of fence posts by farmers and maize for fuel is being partially relieved by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. An appeal resulted in the coal mines in Colorado promising to give preferential loading out to Lockney and the railroads notified the traffic bureau that they would see the care for Lockney were given all the expedition.

No Letters Today? Santa Claus Asks; Feelings Are Hurt

HE TRIES FAT REDUCER. BECAUSE FOLKS HAVE SMALL CHIMNEYS NOWADAYS

NORTH POLE, Nov. 23.—I. C. Seal, private secretary to Santa Claus, informed the Times by wireless dispatch this morning that his general old master was severely ill, having tried out a "new fat reducing" remedy last night.

"Old-fashioned as he may be," the secretary said, "Santa is really modern enough to conscientiously endeavor to meet all up-to-date requirements relative to his trade. He is a close reader and a correspondent of many papers. From news dispatches he has learned that the old-fashioned chimney is rapidly disappearing except for ornamental purposes. Many of them took as though they had been on a hunger strike.

"Realizing that he had picked up a considerable amount of flesh during the past year, the old gentleman conscientiously tried out all the most modern and up-to-date 'fat-reducing' formulas without avail. Last night he thought that he would try out a recipe handed him by his mischievous friend Kriss Kringle who recommended it very highly. It was an Eskimo remedy, very costly and considered effective in every way.

"The formula called for a mixture of whale-blubber, powdered fish scales, ground dog hair and Totem Pole dust. Having very little faith in any fat-reducing remedy, Santa took a double portion last night and was very much nauseated as a result.

"Calling me to his bedside this morning, Santa informed me that he was off the fat-reducing stunt for good, even though he got stuck in one of these new fashioned chimneys and stayed there until doomsday. If people just would continue to expect him to pull off all the old fashioned stunts for which he was reputed and didn't lend him a little more co-operation, well—they'd just be disappointed—that was all.

"It was a gold-dug foolishness, anyhow. For a 250 pound Santa Claus to try to squeeze himself through a 4x6 inch chimney or come down the chimney of folks that used gas. He was tired of the stove flue route, anyway. It was a dirty rough job, for which he received no compensation and very little thanks.

Looked For Letters.

"He was extremely surprised yesterday morning, when in your daily dispatch to us, you did not include any communications from the little folk of your town. He is greatly hurt that they should have neglected writing him for a single day.

He is continually asking if his memory is dying among the children and if they have ceased to love and reverence him, as heretofore.

"I would suggest that you impress upon your little folk the absolute necessity of corresponding with him. He is very sensitive and any laxity in correspondence seems to him a willful omission on the part of the little tots. They may always reach him through the medium of the Times.

"He especially urges that all those families, who have no chimneys of at least 8x12 dimensions to leave their back doors slightly open on Christmas Eve night.

Yours as ever,
I. C. SEAL,
Private Secretary for Santa Claus.

MAJESTIC.

Robert Warwick as "Jim" Gresham, and Barbara Tennant as Alice Chandler, do splendid work and win cordial praise from spectators of "The Dollar Mark." The action opens in Cobalt (these scenes were taken there) and closes in East Newport and New York City. It is markedly a picture of vigorous action, which rings true through nearly all of the picture, and surely every part of the picture holds the interest strongly. The best part of the story is the adventure of the two lovers in a flood. A terrible storm has driven the girl into the hut of the miner "Jim," owner of the Nellie Davis mine, a property worth millions and which the trust, of which Alice's father is one of the leading spirits, wants to get cheaply. The dam above the hut breaks, the water washes down the valley, and the hut goes with the rest of the primitive buildings. The hut's heavy door serves Jim and Alice as a raft. The stream washes them furiously along toward a terrible fall. Every inch of the film during this episode holds as tight as a blacksmith's vice, majestic, Wednesday and Thursday, November 24 and 25.

TEMPLE.

Many of the admirers of Wallace Reid, Paramount star, will perhaps be disappointed to learn that in his new picture, "Always Audacious," which will be shown at the Temple Theater today, the popular star wears a home-grown beard! Others will doubtless be just as happy to see r. Reid in a real character part—the first in many moons.

In this production, Mr. Reid plays two roles, wherein he interprets both a character and a straight part. In the one, he is Perry Danton, a young San Francisco millionaire, and in the other he is Slim Attucks, a gentleman crook and check forger. It so happens that the men were born on the same day, and both are as nearly alike as two blackbirds.

RANGER AUTO SALES EXCEED ALLOTMENTS

If the sale of automobiles can be taken as a guide, business in Ranger is enjoying an enormous patronage. An inquiring reporter, going on the assumption that if any slump in trade was in process it would hit the car agencies first, visited the Ford salesroom. It was found that during last month this firm delivered 83 cars, and during the current month had delivered 53 machines.

In discussing the matter, Edward Maher said that Ranger's quota was 42 cars monthly. This number is allotted it by the manufacturers. In other cities he had visited recently he declared that he knew the allotment was not being disposed of. It was for this reason that his firm could secure the excess number it has delivered.

Galbraith said that such a bill would do away with the unnecessary delay which now attends every request for compensation or other assistance.

A LITTLE WAR WOULD HELP.

A little war after a big war is not so bad, after all. Not a war, of course, large enough to demand that the full energies and resources of a nation shall be devoted to its prosecution. But a war small enough to be a sort of private hazard, so to speak, for those who have derived a love of conflict, and danger,
and violence.This condition obtained after the civil war. There were the Indians to fight.
There was the open and unconquered
West, in which danger and excitement abounded. A large part of the army's wild spirits drifted thither. Had it been otherwise, there would have been much more of the brigandage and banditry which reached its highest fulfillment in the careers of the James boys and their ilk.America today is going through the same stage as America did some fifty years ago. There is no adventure to draw the mass of men who have known the rule of brute force and violence, and there is inevitably an element which has learned to love these things for themselves. There is no little war with which they can be occupied. And so,
when circumstances make it easy or desirable, they turn to war upon their neighbors, following the command of the great gods, Force and Ruthlessness.Thus today violence is rampant throughout the country. Commissioner Davenport, in a few remarks made at a dinner which will long have a place in the minds of Ranger citizens, said that conditions are no worse here than in other places.In one respect that is true. There are sporadic robberies here. There probably will continue to be, just as in the larger cities of the country. To argue that a community will be freed of violence is to contend that all things of value which provoke violence have been carried away. But violence can be reduced by ridding a community of the vices in which those of violent inclinations spend their idle hours. It will not be entirely eliminated, but it will be reduced.For that reason alone, then, the recent campaign against gambling and loose living has been worth while. It is, of course, well worth while on its own account, because it makes living cleaner
and safer for those who now are here.
It makes it more attractive for the residents Ranger hopes to secure. Prohibition of sporadic violence is one thing;
prohibition of open enticement of men is another, and easier. If a town has a bad reputation it is not based on occasional holdups and burglaries, to which all communities are heir, but rather on the reports scattered far and wide by transients, of the ability to almost openly indulge in gambling and other forms of heinous conduct under the eyes of an indifferent public.Some vices and violence any town beyond the size of a hamlet will always have, despite the most rigorous police precautions. It is when it becomes so open that a stranger believes that it runs with the consent and approval of citizens in general that a town obtains a hard name.Reputations are easier lost than made.
Rangers cleanup will not immediately
begin to show effects in increasing the regard of dwellers in other towns. But a steadfast policy in holding to the reforms that have been made, will in time
draw away from the city the reputation
of a place which has acquired, whether justly
or not, the eyes of people elsewhere.Compiled by the Ranger, women of automo-

THE WOMAN WHO SAW

Clothes and the Man.
The Perfect Husband is of that tribe of harassed professionals who do their hardest work in July and August. "Art is long" beforehand, and the Christmas magazines are made during the hottest summer months. Having earned a respite, the P. H. arrayed himself in his beloved old clothes and started out to explore the delightful suburb where he and the wife are enjoying a belated vacation. Crossing through the center of the town in the middle of the morning, with a package of lunch and a keen anticipation of the banks of the Morris canal, he fell in with a workman who passed the time of day pleasantly and then asked,
"Are you sick?""No," replied the P. H. "Do I look sick?" Suddenly there came the realization of his very aged khaki shirt and corduroy pants, his well-worn tramping
boots and the disreputable corn-cob pipe
that the wife sniffs at, and from, "I'm on my vacation," he explained."Oh, excuse me," said the workman.
"We so seldom see a man around in the middle of the day." Which was tactful of him, the wife thinks. So would anybody who saw the P. H. in his "play suit."

Kitchen vs. Kitchenette.

The Woman called recently on an old friend on the west side of town who had lived some years in a house of five who-stories, where a family lived and roomed
at will through all that spaciousness.
But, alas, they have caught the contagion
of the day and are turning their delightful home into apartments.On the day of her call the plans for destruction had been partially carried out.
Some of the rooms were already altered
and baths were installed on every floor.
Jealously closed doors marked off each separate dweller's part in that formerly untrammeled abode. Her hostess led her to the few rooms kept for the family
and in order to provide a hospitable cup
of tea invited her to the "kitchenette,"
as to a spectacle worth seeing.It certainly was. The "kitchenette"
was a closet, long and narrow like Barbara Allen's grave, and was furnished with a little stove and some small cooking utensils. The Woman does not wish to imply that delicious coffee and a fragrant tea may not emanate therefrom, but memories of an old time kitchen came thronging into her mind—the kitchen of years gone by. One of these new "apartments" might comfortably be enclosed within its ample dimensions. Windows on two sides let air and light. A door opened on a side porch covered with a grape arbor that filled the room with the perfume of dark blue Concord and purple skinned Isabella's. Can one ever forget the aroma of good things cooking
on its generous range? Important, too, were the various monarchs that ruled that realm of rich providing. In that long line of queens, comparable for length to the sovereigns of England, stand out the Jouesque Arrêté who made such wonderful apple dumplings; the efficient Miriam, whose fried chicken and hot biscuit were equalled only in the southern states she hailed from; her equally efficient sister, Kate, who loved to make butter and pot cheese; Jane, from the Old Dominion, whose chief care was to keep the cookie jar full; Millie, who filled
the kitchen with marvelous white ruffies
and satin shining linens on Thursdays.
Then there were those exciting days when Mother invaded the premises to prepare fruit for preserving. Such luscious sights and tantalizing odors resulting in long rows of jars of peaches, pears or plums, of jellied currants, grapes and crabapples, of rich red quince.Shades of Home! A has the kitchenette.Speaking His Mind.
He was disgruntled and he didn't care
who knew it, and in the opinion of the bystanders whose comments had attracted the attention of the Woman to the anticipated of two girls on the curb he was justified. He was a great big brother, one whom you might easily imagine taking a keen joy in dumping over his head cream into the waste basket should he find cosmetics of any sort in his sister's dressing.The Bonus parade had been passing that spot for almost an hour, and little by little the giggling of the two girls had been growing louder as a smile or a nod
or a wink rewarded their efforts to flirt.
They were the flappers of the flappers,
rouged with the most outrageous lack of skill.
Then he came along, and to his six-feet-two they dared to wave boldly. He fixed them with a stern frown and soldered as he passed them. "Go home and wash your dirty little faces, you half-vamps."And they stood frightened, silent,
crushed.

PLENTITUDE OF SNAKES

FORECAST OPEN WINTER

unprecedented number of rattlesnakes
with which South Texas has been infested this fall is declared by early set-

"Tinker Bob"
Stories
by Carlyle H. Holcomb

LITTLE SAMMY'S OWN STORY.

Little Sammy Squirrel was a dandy
little fellow. He kept himself so clean that his fur coat glistened in the sunlight. He was proud of his long bushy tail because he knew that many other Forest Dwellers envied him, for there was no such tail as his in all the forest.But I can tell you when young Sammy came to the King of the Forest this times his tail was dragging behind him.
He had been so frightened that he could not even hold his tail straight. You see, Mr. Black Snake had cast a spell over him and he was helpless. Don't you know what that means? Well, young Sammy is going to tell the king about it.
"Oh, King of the Forest," began Sammy as he climbed upon the king's knee. "You saved my life again, for I could not move and that fellow was creeping toward me every moment, and if you had not come just then I would have been killed. Oh king, I will follow you forever." Then Sammy began to brighten up a bit, and again his tail stood straight up."Why did you let this fellow cast a spell over you?" asked Tinker Bob, as he stroked Sammy's back and tried to make him feel safe again.
"Oh king, no one knows why—I can never tell. I only know what happened.
It was just like this," Sammy set upon his hind feet. "I was going about my work finding food to store up for the winter. I had been gathering beechnuts and was sitting on the log listening to the last song of Mrs. Robin. When I turned around, who stood looking into my eyes but Mr. Black Snake, and when I looked into his eyes I could not look away again. It just seemed that I was held fast and could see nothing but the eyes of this terrible fellow. I tried, Oh king, to look away, and tried to move but I was held fast by the look
of that snake!""Why didn't you call for help?" asked Tinker Bob. "Surely some of the Forest
Dwellers would have come to your rescue, if you had cried out."I had been gathering beechnuts and was singing of Mrs. Robin's."Call for help!" repeated young Sammy. "Oh king, I could not make a sound of any kind. I could not move!
All that I could do was to look at that fellow and stand still. He never even showed his tongue, but every second he came closer to me and the minutes seemed like hours. The longer he waited the more anxious I was for him to come closer. Then the moment came when I was glad to think that he was going to eat me up, for that is a part of the spell he cast over me with his eyes. And oh king, when you arrived he was nearly ready to finish his work and pounce upon me! Then you cried out with a loud voice and it broke the spell."
Tinker Bob, King of the Forest, wants to tell all the little folks that
when they are in the forest and see a ter-

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE GREAT BLESSING.

I had a weary siege of sickness that called for pink and purple pills; my humble roll lost all its thickness when I had paid dth doctor's bills. And pharmacists and well trained nurses were chasing to me up the road, and undertakers with their hearse were hanging round my sad
abode. Now I am feeling vastly better,
the gont and mumps have left my frame,
likewise lumbago, crop and tetter, though rheumatiz still plays its game. No longer
do I wear a plaster, there is no poultice
on my form, and I'm not scared by bleak
disaster, or by the ills that round me
swarm. If one has health he is a craven to talk of grief and trouble sore, and croak, like Edgar Allan's raven, such baldersdash as "Nevermore." Health is the only thing that matters, beside it other boons are vain, and men are surely mad as hatters who kick when they are free from pain. Recovered from my indigestion, and convalescent from the itch,
I face my task without a question, and life seems full and sweet and rich. Yes, my problems crowd around me, and threats and things invade my den, but they can't daunt me or confound me, for I am feeling well again.Mrs. Pethick-Lawrence, well known as

CHINESE FUNERAL OR HOPI SNAKE DANCE MORE INTERESTING THAN
'GREENWICH VILLAGE' RESORTSBy Associated Press
NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Greenwich
Village has been reformed.
Richard E. Enright, police commissioner of New York City, is authority for this statement. Indeed, in his annual report to the mayor, which has just been made public, he devotes considerable space to New York's Bohemian quarter,
famous in play and novel the country
over.Long-haired men and short-haired women who take their temperament seriously received the report on their district with something akin to anger. Proprietors of coffee houses and gift shops,
in which "atmosphere" is the chief stock
in trade, displayed mixed feelings, however."Every knock's a boost and rattling publicity," was the way they greeted word that their village had been "purified."
This was the section of Commissioner Enright's report that stirred occupants of attics and basements with shrines to the gods of literature and painting:
Absurd Diversions."For a year or two prior to January 1, 1918, there had grown up in Greenwich Village a series of Bohemian restaurants which had attracted to it a host of sightseers and morbid minded persons with a jaded appetite for sensation.
Among those who came were many of the degenerate type of both sexes, who participated in the absurd diversions offered at these places at high prices and danced
to jazz music with all of the ridiculous
and sometimes suggestive and disgusting conduct which is characteristic of such resorts.""A Chinese funeral or a Hopi Indian snake dance would be far more interesting and entertaining, but a certain foolish and degenerate appetite for the unusual or sensational, mostly recruited from outside New York, promoted by sight-seeing car gratifiers and other parasites, kept these places alive and proved that Barnum was right regarding the mental capacity of some people."

MOVIE THRILLS CAN BE HAD FOR ASKING IN
THIS MISSOURI TOWNJEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 23.—
The thrills in ordinary William S. Hart movie scenario pale into insignificance
before the real thrills that have been reported to the police during the last few weeks. Early one Sunday morning
a young man reported a weird tale of crossing a lot near the Lincoln Institute
when a man to his left suddenly "riz"
up from the weeds and began shooting.
The young man dropped to the ground and played ostrich. The shots from the left were answered by shots from the right of him. The antagonists emptied their revolvers at one another and the young man heard them as they whistled overhead. He remained a little while after they got through with their miniature Verdun battle and then hastened home.Later in the week persons living on Clark avenue were aroused from their sleep by the roar of a shotgun. Two shots rang out into the clear night and then everything was quiet. To add to the general hubbub, a crazy woman was reported to be stalking the streets with an ugly-looking revolver in her hand, evidently in the quest of a victim. Even grown folks are afraid to go out in the dark.SHIPYARD MAN
GAINS 16 POUNDSMurphy Feared a Breakdown
But Says Health Was Restored by Taking Tanlac."Tanlac has done more for me than I thought any medicine could possibly do, for it has built me up sixteen pounds in weight and put me in fine shape again," said Tim Murphy, who is employed at Daniel's shipyards, and living at Seminole Heights, Tampa, Fla.
"For more than two years before I took Tanlac I was troubled with indigestion. If I ate anything except the very lightest of food I would have a heavy, depressed feeling in my stomach, my heart would palpitate terribly and I would have awful attacks of shortness of breath. My nerves were in such bad shape that the least little excitement would upset me and I thought I was going to have a complete breakdown.
"I started taking Tanlac on the advice of a friend, and the way the medicine fixed me up was nothing less than marvelous. I have taken five bottles now, have a splendid appetite and my stomach seems to be in perfect condition, for it never troubles me a bit. I'm no longer worried with palpitation or shortness of breath and my nerves are as steady
as steel. Why, I'm simply feeling fine, and don't hesitate to give Tanlac credit for what it's done for me."Tanlac is sold in Ranger by Phillips Bros. and in Eastland by Butler

LIMBURGER CHEESE

KNOCKED HIM OUT,
PUGILIST CLAIMS

International News Service.
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 22.—A new and startling method of a prize fighter to "jinx" his opponent has been revealed by Harry Kabakoff, of St. Louis lightweight. Kabakoff has offered the following explanation of the good showing "Kid" Bandy made against him in a fight a year ago:

"I was drugged," said Kabakoff. "Some South Siders did it and it wasn't anything they put in my tea either. I didn't realize what it was until several days after the fight, when one of the birds in on the lay told me. It wasn't any use kicking then and this is the first time I have spilled the beans."

"Before the fight one of the South Side friends of Bandy bought two pounds of limburger and hid Bandy's second, wearing gas masks, give Bandy a rub down with the cheese. Bandy didn't take his bath robe off until the bell rang, then he ran at me, got me in an awful clinch and held me until I lost my breath and my knees sagged. I didn't remember much after that, but they tell me I fought instinctively and lasted the eight rounds."

In A Kitchenette.

"John," exclaimed the nervous woman, "there's a burglar trying to get into the flat."

"I'll get up and give him the fight of his life."

"Aren't you afraid?"

"Not a bit. Any burglar who thinks this flat can hold three of us must be a little bit of a fellow."—Washington Star.

BREED OF ALL-PURPOSE FARM
HORSES PRESERVED BY GOVERNMENT

MONTREAL, QUE. — French-Canadian horses are coming back, thanks to efforts of the Canadian government to preserve the breed. These little giants are among the best all-purpose farm horses in existence.

Descendants of horses sent over by Louis XIV, French-Canadian horses were originally large, powerful animals. Poorly fed and cared for among the colonists, they degenerated in size but gained in ruggedness and endurance. They are a beautiful little draft animal, coal black being the predominating color with flowing mane and tail. They weigh around 1,200 pounds and have a reputation of being able to outpull any horses of their size and grow sleek on a steady grind of work that would kill ordinary horses.

Interbreeding had left only a few of the purebred race in existence. The Canadian government has rounded up the best specimens and at Cap Rouge farm and St. Joachim farm has founded herds which will insure the preservation of the breed.

Despite automobiles, trucks and farm tractors, the horse population of Canada is greater than ever before. Encouraged by the government pureblooded horses are being bred on a wide scale. What the farmer needs is an all-purpose horse and this is what the Dominion government proposes to give him in the French-Canadian.

MOTHER HELD AFTER
SECOND BABY DIES
WITHIN FOUR DAYS

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 23.—Mrs. Vida Sweat of Vincetown, N. J., is held today pending an investigation into the death of her 3 1/2 months old baby who died on a train between Pittsburgh and Columbus.

Mrs. Sweat said the baby died from inanition. She told the police the twin brother of the baby died Thursday from the same cause.

It is alleged Mrs. Sweat asked the porter "What do you do with such things?" pointing to the baby's body on the seat. Astonished, the porter notified the conductor.

Two bottles of poison were found in Mrs. Sweat's grip. Her husband, Albert Sweat, an ex-soldier, is in Mansfield, Ohio, reformatory, she said.

They were married in 1918, but her husband left her a year later, she said. The woman said she intended to get a divorce and marry John W. Anderson, sergeant at Camp Travis, Texas. Mrs. Sweat had a ticket to San Antonio.

for the consolidation of the war risk insurance bureau, bureau of public health and the bureau of vocational education.

Drinkers Afraid
of Bootleg Likker,
Keeling Believes

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Nov. 23.—Violations of the Texas prohibition law are less frequent than when the statute was first enacted, according to W. A. Keeling, assistant attorney general who said that the sale of intoxicants in the form of extracts and medicines has decreased considerably. He added that this may be due to the fact that most of those who drank patent medicines, hair tonics, etc., and survived, now realize the deadly effects of these mixtures when taken internally.

Shortly after the law went into effect there was also a large quantity of different kinds of elixirs, wines and cordials with an illegal per cent of alcohol put on the market and the state pure food and drug commissioner's laboratory was deluged with samples for analysis which were sent in by county attorneys and inspectors of the attorney general's department. Activity of these officials has evidently discouraged the manufacture and sale of these beverages, as little is heard of them now.

Wide publicity given to deaths arising from the drinking of wood alcohol also has had its effect. Mr. Keeling said, adding that "bootleg" whisky often is referred to as "underbaker's cocktail." Some whisky and tequila still come in over the Mexican border officers report but on the whole there is less drinking of intoxicants in the state than ever before.

NATIVE AMERICAN
COULDN'T SPEAK ENGLISH

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 23.—A conductor on a Great Northern train, which was speeding along between Deer River and Grand Rapids the other day, discovered that one of his passengers, a native-born American, could neither speak nor understand the American language.

He didn't know his name, his age, the name of the station where he had boarded the train or his destination. To each question of the conductor the passenger would answer with nothing but a noncommittal grunt.

Passengers finally identified the little fellow as Robert, 5-year-old Indian ward of Simon Le Quer and junior member of the Chippewa tribe.

The conductor turned the young chieftain over to the station agent at Grand Rapids, who promised to return him to his foster-father's home near Deer River.

Camel
CIGARETTES

Dallas, Texas, Sunday,

DEAR OLD BOY PETE!

This corner of the U. S. mainland is so wonderful in its bigness and bustle I guess I go mouth wide open and eyes staring! Why, Pete, Texans don't talk in miles—it doesn't mean anything! They'll tell you that this place, or that, is an all-day trip, or two days and a night distant, etc. And, old yardstick, you've got the feet, just let it sink in deep that Texas is not only over 800 miles wide but it is our fifth state in population!

Heard a bird in the Adolphus Hotel say that when he comes off the west border he figures he's close home to Baltimore when he's across the Lone Star State! Talk about "jumps"! Try a few, say the one between Texarkana and El Paso!

Pete, everything grows big down here—business as well as folks' hearts! I like the way they never forget! Here I was walking on Main Street yesterday when as fine a type of man as ever wore one of those broad Texas smiles came up to me. "How are you, lieutenant?" says he. "Maybe you'll call back that day at Camp Dick when I brought over that bunch of Camel Cigarettes for the boys," he continued. Right then a Camel conference opened!

Golly, Pete, this party coins Camel compliments faster than the mint makes money! "Lieutenant," says he, "I know when I'm 'set'! I've smoked cigarettes for five years! (NOW LISTEN, PETER!) I know Camels and I know their marvellous mild, mellow body and shining flavor and wonderful Turkish and Domestic blend! A million Camels wouldn't tire a smoker's taste!" Now, Pete, I'll say that's some testifying!

Sincerely

Shorty.

P. S.—Between you and me I'll be gazing at tall buildings and things around 43d and Broadway—N.E.W. Y.O.R.K.—about the hour this note hits Boston's Back Bay! Write me at the same old stand!

Housing Shortage in Paris Drives Divorced Couples Back Together

By Associated Press

PARIS, Nov. 23.—The great difficulty of finding lodging in Paris has been the cause of many unusual incidents recently.

Divorced persons seeking separate apartments are having such difficulty in finding them that, in one case at least, they composed their temperamental differences in order to keep their old apartment.

A painter and his wife who had been divorced by mutual agreement were both looking for apartments. Frequently their paths crossed in their search for quarters. The first time they met they bowed gravely but politely. Their mutual smile gradually broadened as the hunt for flats narrowed down to a few hovels in the slum section.

"Let's kiss and make up and go back to our flat," the wife finally said; and

President Millerand, who recently took possession of the Elysee Palace, received 41 applications for his apartment on the avenue de Villars.

Henry Landru, who has been in La Sante prison for the past 20 months they did.

Waiting trial on charges growing out of the disappearance of eleven women, recently was dispossessed from the flat that he had occupied on the Boulevard Rochechouart, a rather sordid section of Paris. Requests came from every quarter in Paris some even from aristocratic Autenil, asking that the flat be reserved.

A vagrant just finishing 30 days in La Sante prison told his cell-mate under sentence of five years for swindling, that he dreaded to return into cold, dreary Paris. He was homeless, prospects of spending the winter nights under Paris bridges did not appeal to him. The prisoners exchanged clothing and cards of identity and when the wanderer called for the vagrant to send him out into the cold world, the swindler responded. The fraud was discovered only when the swindler's lawyer called at the jail.

ELLIS ISLAND SERVES MEALS FOR 17 CENTS

By Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Delegates to the convention of the National Hotel association here couldn't believe that only 15 minutes from the tip of Manhattan tempting meals are served for exactly 17 cents each. So Frederick A. Wallis, immigration commissioner on Ellis Island, invited doubters on a tour of culinary inspection, just to show how they do it on Uncle Sam's doorstep.

A number of the hotel men, who say they are intent on bringing down the cost of tavern fare, accepted the commissioner's invitation, with the idea of infusing some of the Ellis Island method into the conduct of their own kitchens.

"For particulars," said the commissioner, "see MacGown."

The secret of reducing the costliness of provender as it appears, standing and succulent, on the dinner table, is a mystery, but MacGown, T. D. MacGown, caterer on the island, is on the inside. His explanation runs: "Purchases on a lowest bid basis, quantity production, and profits never more than 1.95 per cent on the monthly investment; result, 17 cent dinners."

And when someone interposed that MacGown "couldn't serve a regular meal for 17 cents," he exhibited, as a sample menu, the following:

Breakfast: Rice with milk, stewed prunes, bread and butter and coffee with two lumps of sugar to the cup.

Dinner: English beef soup with barley, Irish stew with vegetables, tapioca pudding and coffee.

Supper: Lamb hash, green peppers, bread and butter, blackberry jelly, coffee and tea.

NEW EQUIPMENT FOR THE TYPESETTING SCHOOLS

Teaching Force in the Publishers' School at Macon, Ga.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 22.—Within the past few weeks four Linotype machines have been added to the equipment of the Typesetting School at Macon, Ga., and notice has been given by the Margenthaler company that sixteen more machines will be delivered soon.

The Lanston Monotype company has also given notice of its readiness to ship at once three new machines and full equipment.

Two additions have been made to the teaching force, and this now insures an equipment that will accommodate students as fast as they wish to enter within the next three or four months. The Linotype company, the Monotype company and the Linotype company have shown a great desire to assist the Southern Newspaper Publishers and the American Newspaper Publishers, through this school, to relieve the shortage in the supply of operators throughout the nation.

The school was established last January in connection with the Georgia-Alabama Business college, whose president is an experienced newspaper man, having grown up in the printing office. Students who wish to learn of the unusual opportunities afforded by the school, may get the information by addressing the Georgia-Alabama Business College, Macon, Ga.

EASTLAND COUNTY SEVENTH IN NUMBER OF AUTOMOBILES

Only seven counties in the state has more automobiles registered than has Eastland county, according to a compilation just released by the state highway commission. Dallas county is first, with 14,000 second. The total given for Eastland county is in excess of 8,000, and shows a gain of more than 3,000 over last year.

Counties surpassing Eastland were Dallas, Tarrant, Wichita, Bexar, Harris, Travis and McLennan. The last named county only had a very small total over Eastland.

Just what per cent of the total number of these cars are owned in Ranger cannot be ascertained since no towns is kept. On the basis of population, nearly a third of the number would be owned by persons living in Ranger. On the government census this would give Ranger an automobile to every fifth person.

LATEST CREATION OF PARIS DESIGN

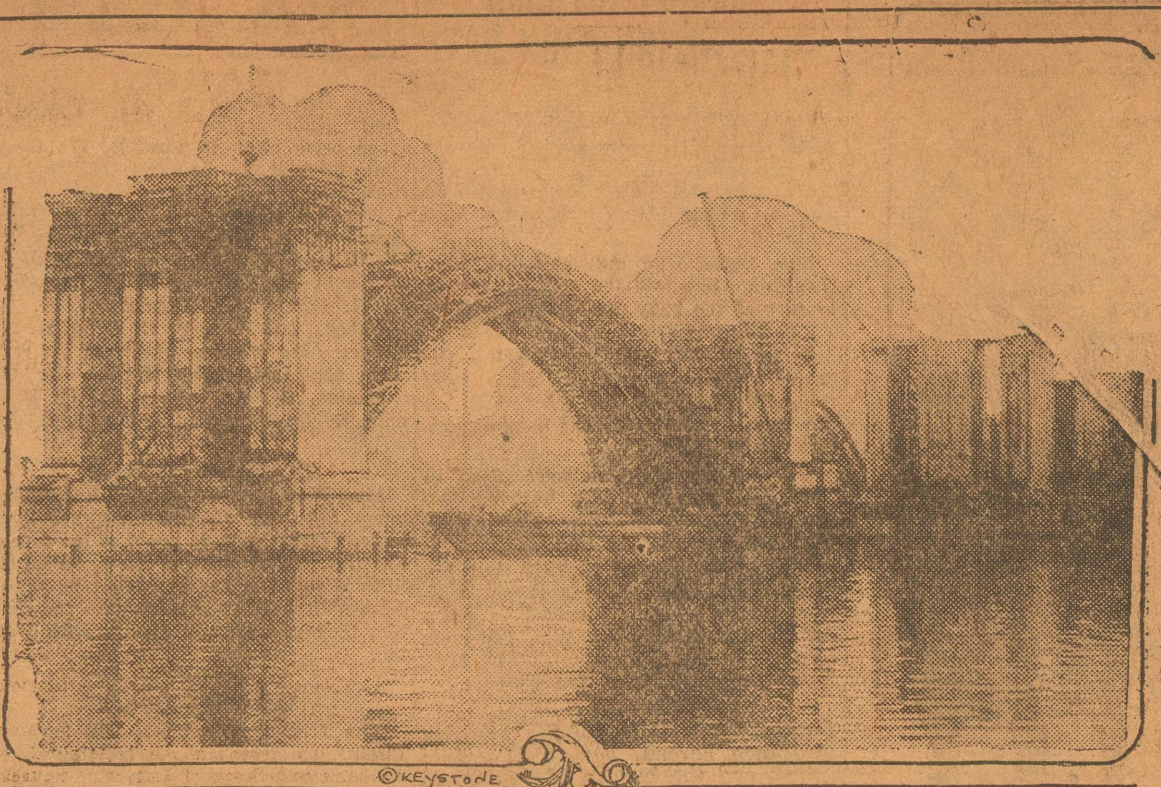

By ELOISE

Evening gowns for the present season are scintillating affairs. There is scarcely one which does not boast of sequins, beads, metal cloth, gold or silver embroidery or some other bright and glistening trimming. Paris gowns particularly are featuring sequins and often entire evening costumes, gown, wrap and hat, are made of materials which are covered with these iridescent scales.

Pictured is a gown which has Paris written all over it. It is a beautiful creation from Talbot, the well known Parisian designer. From the flimsy bodice to the flare tulle skirt the frock shows the French influence. A touch of barbaric splendor is added by the novel girdle and front panel, which are embroidered in brilliantly contrasting colored sequins. Brocade satin shows beneath the tulle of the skirt and the tulle of the bodice, which carries out the same colors as the sequins.

The bridge in the course of construction.

The bridge shown above is being erected in Washington, D. C., as a memorial to Francis Scott Key, who wrote the National

A Hard Seat.

A ducky chauffeur who recently brought the frame of a big truck from

Detroit to Youngstown rode part of the way sitting on the gas tank, but the seat was so hard he soon became tired of it. "Ah don't see how you could stan' it,"

Henry, a friend observed. "Stan' it," Henry replied. "Mah goodness, dat's jes what Ah couldn't do nothin' else but."

WATER POLO WORLD'S ROUGHEST GAME, SAYS PLAYER; WHAT UMPIRE CAN'T SEE DOESN'T HURT HIM

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—What is the toughest game in the world? You are not qualified to answer unless you have witnessed a game of water polo. It is the roughest and toughest game in the world of sport, according to Joe Ruddy, the game's greatest player.

The great Canadian game of lacrosse is one of the most strenuous sports known, and American football may get a few votes, while the good old Gaelic game is mighty warm at times, but there is nothing rougher than the water when they play water polo.

Joe Ruddy ought to know. He is one of the best all-round athletes in this country and has played all games for twenty-five years. He has something like 757 prizes and medals, won in all branches of athletics, to attest his ability, and today—at the age of forty-one—he says that he is better than ever. Ruddy is the captain of the New York Athletic Club water polo team, champion of America. As a matter of fact, the N. Y. A. C. hasn't lost a water polo game since the Chicago Athletic Club beat them in 1906. That is the only losing game that Ruddy has played in twenty years!

"Water polo requires more strength, gameness, and better physical condition than any other sport," says Ruddy. "The spectators little realize what goes on under the water. Just imagine yourself on the bottom of the tank, with some husky holding you down with a back strangle and body scissors. Such holds are bad enough on land, but in ten or fifteen feet of water they are terrible. There is only one escape from such a hold, and that is to outlast your opponent. The one who runs out of 'gas' first loses. If you can't stay under water at least two minutes you are lost. All sorts of wrestling holds are used and many jiu-jitsu twists—in fact, there is no limit to the rough stuff indulged in by the players under water. It is an under-water free-for-all. Everything goes, and no quarter is asked.

"I will never forget the games we played against the Chicago A. C. We were always about unconscious when the game ended. They had such great players as Fred McConnell and Frank Kehoe. Those men were devilish. Harry Le Moine and Walter Boyce of Boston were tough, too.

"One time we were playing the Boston A. A., and after the game we had gone to our dressing rooms when we missed one of our men. Rushing to the tank we found Harry Reeder and Tommy Baxter locked in vice-like grips, unconscious, at the bottom of the tank.

"Oh, it's a rough game—rougher than any other I ever played, and I have played them all."

STUPENDOUS LOSS THROUGH
FLOODING IS PREVENTABLE;
OPERATOR DETAILS METHODS

Special to the Times.

BRECKENRIDGE, Nov. 23.—Just as water has ever been the bugaboo in this field on top of the ground, so has it become the bugaboo of drillers when found beneath the ground—as it inevitably is found. In all wells the big problem next to finding the oil itself, is the casing out of water and the taking of precautions against flooding.

The better method, and one which is not always followed, unfortunately, has been detailed by L. C. Martyn, an operator in the west part of the pool. "Early in the work," according to Mr. Martyn, "the operator will undoubtedly reach conclusions as to the source of the water in wells and when any such evidence is gained the well should be remedied without further delay. The first step toward correcting water troubles in a well is to take immediate care where the source of water is definitely known. Especially is this necessary where the well drilling is surrounded by producing wells. When a well makes an appreciable amount of water the operator could repair it rather than lift a large quantity of water by compressed air of huge pumps. It has been shown time and again locally that as a general practice the operator should not try to exhaust the water from the sand but rather resort to repair work on the well."

Cement won't set in oil. Continuing, he said: "In using cement it is well to bear in mind that the hole should be free from oil, for while cement will set in most types of water, various oil cements will not set in oil. Operators have told me it does not set satisfactorily in the presence of oil."

BLACK BROS. WEIR WELL
CLEANED OUT AFTER SHOT

Black Bros. are cleaning out their Weir No. 1 at Deaconoma which was shot last week at 3,105. Indications are that the flow will be materially increased.

Murray Black returned this week to the new field being opened up near Colorado, where the well at Itan came in last week with a showing of large production before it bridged after a shot.

UNDERWRITERS TO DRILL
TWO WELLS AT COLORADO

Special to the Times.

COLORADO, Texas, Nov. 23.—C. L. Nabers, president of the Empire Oil and Development Co., of Fort Worth, has arrived in Colorado to proceed with the drilling of two new oil wells for the Underwriters Company.

The Smith No. 1, six miles west of town, and the Dorn, seven miles southwest, are the wells in question. The rig for the latter well has already arrived and a string of tools has been sent from Ranger.

Mr. Nabers declared that he was much encouraged over the prospects in the Colorado field. Two producing wells making about 500 barrels a day will shortly be augmented, according to local oil men's report to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

OIL BOOM CAUSES HOUSE
SHORTAGE AT COLORADO

COLORADO, Texas, Nov. 23.—A survey of housing conditions here conducted by the chamber of commerce reveals a shortage of more than 200 dwellings, according to a report to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The over-population is due to the magic influence caused by the bringing in of two producing oil wells in this territory. Several men are employed here while their families reside elsewhere because of the house shortage. Several new residences are slightly relieving the situation.

CISCO & NORTHEASTERN'S
LOADING RACKS IN USE

Special to the Times.

BRECKENRIDGE, Nov. 23.—The first shipment of crude oil from the loading racks on the Cisco & Northeastern road was sent out of Breckenridge Thursday when two tank cars carried a consignment of crude to a refinery at Dublin, via Cisco. The loading racks are not entirely completed but it is expected they will be in full working order within a week. When they are completed they will be able to load more than a dozen cars at a time and it is the promise of the railroad officials that this number of cars can be handled daily over the line.

BEING TRAINING CAMP
GIVES CISCO PUBLICITY

Special to the Times.

CISCO, Nov. 23.—The Cincinnati Times-Star recently carried two double-column cuts of Cisco's buildings, baseball park, oil scenes and other attractions in line with "introducing" the baseball fans of the world to the training grounds of the Cincinnati Reds. Cisco is obtaining some splendid publicity by reason of securing the Reds for this place, according to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Haunts of Licentiousness Stand Empty and Desolate; Slot Machines Are Mute, Punch Boards Dust-Laden

The "cooing doves" have left their houses on the side streets of the town. Like birds' nest of yesterday they stand vacant and desolate. Their "coo" echoes no more up and down the street and thru silent halls. Around them is the half-mysterious air of any house that stands without a tenant. They have flown—but not to greener fields.

Chief of Police George T. Cooper declares that they are hovering in the hotels and rooming houses of the better class and some are even hidden in the residence section; that many are being protected—carefully hidden from the law. The chief has also issued a warning that the open season is on and that his men have instructions to be ruthless hunters and take game where it can be found, regardless of the reputation of the building. He is determined, he declares, that Ranger shall no longer be the home of the "birds of the gilded plumage."

Slot Machines Face Wall.
The slot machines stand with their faces to the wall. Their alluring whirl no longer takes the coin from the unwary who believe that from their bosoms would come easy gain.

Besides them is the roulette wheel, which for the price of a nickel or a quarter sang a siren's song as the little ball whizzed around its glass cage. Its head is bowed as if in disgrace.

Beneath the counter lie the punch boards, stripped of their golden lure, collecting cobweb and dust.

Chief Cooper declared that this was as it should be and the strong arm of the law fell heavily upon those who tried to change the condition.

PARKED STILL OPPOSITE HOME OF POLICEMAN

Makers of illicit liquor should use care in locating their stills. It does not pay to put one opposite the house of a policeman. This type of bad judgment cost a pair of get-rich-quickers, a fifteen-gallon still and a barrel of mash last night, when a storehouse in the Page addition was raided. No one was around the place. The still had not been used.

The house was across the street from the home of patrolman J. C. Herd, and his suspicions had been aroused by the conduct of two men who told neighbors that they were "batching" at the place. Last night he, with Officers J. H. Daniels, Floyd Daniels and Ingram raided the place and added the booty to the relief display at the police station.

The German government has appealed to the imperial supreme court to pronounce unconstitutional a regulation of the Bavarian government forbidding the marriage of female teachers as a violation of the section of the constitution establishing sex equality, and has declared null and void all exceptional rules against female government employees. Marriage prohibition was formerly general throughout Germany, but Prussia and other states abolished it.

BUSINESS WOMEN TO ORGANIZE CLUB FRIDAY EVENING

The first meeting to be held in an effort to organize a business women's club has been set for 8:30 o'clock Friday evening, Nov. 26, in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

The organization committee, composed of Meses. Grace Herrington, Roger Penlaw, Charles Moore, Dunlap, Daisy Watkins and the Meses. Jeanne Nichols, Selma Goode and Elizabeth L. Kohnson, have sent many letters to business women over the city, asking them to be in attendance at the meeting. However, it is asked that if anyone has been overlooked by not knowing their names or street address that they also be present.

The aim of the proposed organization is to give to all the business women over the city a source of social contact which they do not now enjoy. It is also thought that many civic questions could be taken up and carried forward.
