The Scurry County Commissioners Court has embarked on an interesting project — one which should command the attention of those interested in economy and favor community improvement.

The project involves setting aside any money left in the various county funds at the end of the year for major improvements to county property, specifically, the courthouse and jail.

These two facilities have needed some attention for a long time, and they have not exactly been ignored by the commissioners. But, a project of reconditioning and-or rebuilding involves major financial outlays. In fact, over a period of several months, the commissioners court received at least two petitions requesting that the court look into the possibility of a major construction project to improve the courthouse and jail facilities here. An architect was consulted and several possible methods were studied, but there was no specific action taken.

Meanwhile, the commissioners turned their attention to the biggest element to be considered in such a project — finances. What they have come up with is a "pay-as-you-go" project that could provide vastly improved courthouse and jail facilities without a bond issue and without any big tax gouge.

Experience of recent years has indicated that from an over-all budget of over $3 million, they can normally expect year-end balances in the various accounts of over $200,000. They are putting the year-end blanaces into the permanent improvement fund, and at the rate the system is progressing, they could have in the neighborhood of $700,000 available for major improvements by the end of next year. Going one year farther, the aggregate could possibly approach the million dollar mark.

This would be sufficient to carry out a construction project that would truly be significant in improving the courthouse and jail facilities. And I have been informed that the commissioners are not thinking about any temporary, stop-gap, slipshod project, but rather improvements that would serve the county citizens well for at least 15 years and possibly longer.

The economic attraction is the fact that there would be no interest to be paid on bonds. The pay-as-you-go plan would keep the county on a cash basis and save money for the taxpayers.

County commissioners, along with other public officials, often hear pleas for sound business practices in their operations. The commissioners of Scurry County are going to find out now if the people really are serious about these things. And they are going to find out if people who have been urging courthouse and jail improvements are really serious in their pleadings.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 19, the 231st day of the year. There are 134 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1934, the German people voted for Adolph Hitler as a successor to President Paul Von Hindenberg.

On this date:

In 1692, five women convicted of witchcraft and a clergyman were executed in Salem, Mass.

In 1812, the U. S. frigate Constitution, known as "Old Ironsides," defeated a British frigate in a battle in the North Atlantic.

In 1890, the Daughters of the American Revolution was organized.

In 1940, in World War II, Italian forces conquered British Somaliland.

In 1942, in World War II, Canadian commandoes staged a costly raid on Nazi forces stationed in Dieppe, France.

In 1955, the worst flood in the history of the northeast United States took 200 lives in Connecticut and nine other states.

HIGHEST POINT IN 19 YEARS

Oil Allowable Set At 79.9%

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission raised the state's crude oil production ceiling to its highest point in 19 years today, setting the September allowable at 79.9 per cent of potential.

The high factor was ordered despite a staff report that it could cause pollution, the wasting of gas and pipeline bottlenecks.

But commission chairman Ben Ramsey said "work is being carried out to eliminate these shortcomings and to insure nonwasteful oil production to factors up to 100 per cent."

"This will take time," Ramsey said, "and require huge expenditures which must be evaluated in light of whether the current high demand will continue or whether it will terminate shortly as the result of lowering of tanker rates or other actions enabling resumption of increased imports of foreign oil."

A spokesman for Humble Oil and Refining Co., John Yaeger, said stocks on hand in the western part of the country indicate that there has been a "rapid decline in imported crude oil."

Ramsey said Texas' crude oil stocks as of Aug. 7 totaled 99.6 million barrels, or 2.3 million less than the previous week, 5.5 million less than the previous month and 4.5 million barrels less than a year ago.

The September factor, the highest since October 1951, will permit maximum production of 4,166,870 barrels daily, compared to 3,742,830 barrels under the 70 per cent allowable for August, adopted at an emergency meeting Aug. 10.

The nominations reportedly went up because of high tanker rates and the closing of a big pipeline from the Persian Gulf to the Mediterranean, which interrupted the flow of oil from overseas.

Seven of the 14 major oil buyers asked for more oil in September than this month, six wanted the same amount and only Texaco, which cut its nomination by 25,000 barrels a day, sought less oil next month than in August.

Total written nominations were for 3,428,395 barrels daily in September, an increase of 83,877 from the revised August nominations. Actual production next month is estimated at 3,409,000 barrels a day.

The U.S. Bureau of Mines forecast a September demand for Texas crude of 3,420,000 barrels a day, an increase of 20,000 from its August forecast.

The market, said Yaeger, is "very strong."

Nominations by major crude oil buyers, in barrels per day, for September with increases or decreases from August, if any, in parentheses:

Atlantic Richfield 200,000 (plus 10,000)
Chevron 70,800
Cities Service 91,000
Continental 42,000 (plus 5,000)
DiamondShamrock35,000)plus 1,000)
Gulf 235,000
Humble 540,000 (plus 60,000)
Mobil 335,000 (plus 25.000)
Pan American 420,000
Phillips 130,000 (plus 3,000)
Shell 165,000
Sun 165,000 (plus 5,000)
Texaco 200,000 (minus 25,000)
Union of California 69,300.

Ramsey Comments On Increase

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Here is railroad commission chairman Ben Ramsey's statement, in part, regarding the increased oil allowable for September:

"The increases in demand expressed by written nominations and those stated from the floor today, the commission, in order to properly discharge its statutory duties to prevent physical waste, has had surveys conducted by its field personnel of major prorated fields which are thought to have excess producing capacity and found that there is danger of the following events occurring at higher market demand factors:

1. Increases in salt water production which will tax or exceed existing disposal facilities.

2. Excess casinghead gas production beyond that which can be processed with existing equipment and plant facilities.

3. Pipe line bottleneck in certain areas resulting in nonratable take or pipe line proration.

Failure to recognize Item 1 may very well result in pollution. Failure to recognize Item 2 could result in flaring and wasting much needed gas.

Work is being carried out to eliminate these shortcomings and to insure nonwasteful oil production to factors up to 100 per cent.

This will take time and require huge expenditures which must be evaluated in light of whether the current high demand will continue or whether it will terminate shortly as the result of lowering of tanker rates or other actions enabling resumption of increased imports of foreign oil.

Notwithstanding these facts and statements made here today, the commission is responding by increasing the market demand factor for September to 79.9 per cent.

Unruly Weather Invades Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A tornado carved a destructive path through the village of Goodlett in Northwest Texas and thunderstorms boiled menacingly over a broad area Tuesday night and this morning.

Although the twister wrecked an auto repair garage and inflicted damage estimated at around $25,000 altogether, minor cuts suffered by an unidentified woman were the only injuries reported.

Thunderstorms and showers packing violent winds and occasional hail caused special warnings to go out from the Weather Bureaus at Abilene and Wichita Falls. One alert covered Nolan, Fisher, Jones, Taylor, Haskell and Stonewall counties, and the other affected Hardeman Knox, Wilbarger, Baylor, Wichita and Archer counties. Both expired without word of severed damage.

At Goodlett, a hamlet of about 200 people nine miles west of Quanah, the tornado swooped down about 5:30 p.m. It also unroofed a big feed barn, tore a wall and part of the roof off the small post office building, ripped away parts of several homes and vacant buildings, and overturned 10 big cotton trailers.

Hard downpours fell briefly in scattered areas over a section embracing Big Spring, San Angelo, Brownwood, Wichita Falls, Childress and Lubbock. None apparently lasted long enough, however, to offset appreciably a rapidly worsening drought situation.

Heavy rains fell in Dallas and some surrounding areas during the morning, the first rain in many weeks. Radar indicated the rains occurred over 80 per cent of area from 50 miles southeast of Fort Worth to McAlester, Okla.

Meanwhile, a storm warning and hurricane watch went up for the Leeward Islands, the usual gateway for hurricanes. Winds were 55 miles per hour and the storm was given the Weather Bureau name of Dorothy.

The unruly weather boiled up at the end of a day which saw the mercury soar to 105 degrees at Childress and Wichita Falls. Top marks elsewhere included Mineral Wells and San Angelo 104, Laredo, Waco and Wink 103, Abilene, Dallas, Fort Worth and Midland 102, Lubbock 101 and Amarillo, Lufkin and Texarkana 100.

3 Held In Hijacking

A trio from out of state is being held in the Scurry County jail on charges of theft over $50 following their arrest in Stephens County.

They were arrested following an alert issued by the Scurry County Sheriff's office during the investigation of an alleged hijacking some 12 miles west of Snyder last Friday night.

Bond of $5,000 each has been set for Ronnie Lee Fletcher, 21, of Los Angeles, Calif.; Charles William Harding, 21, of Nashville, Tenn.; and Debra Mae Larson, 19, of Michigan. They were charged after a soldier, Buddy Charles Young of Poway, Calif., said the trio tied him up at knife point, took his car and money. He said he had picked ip the three in Arizona.

Neither of the trio had made bond this morning.

Area Gets Showers

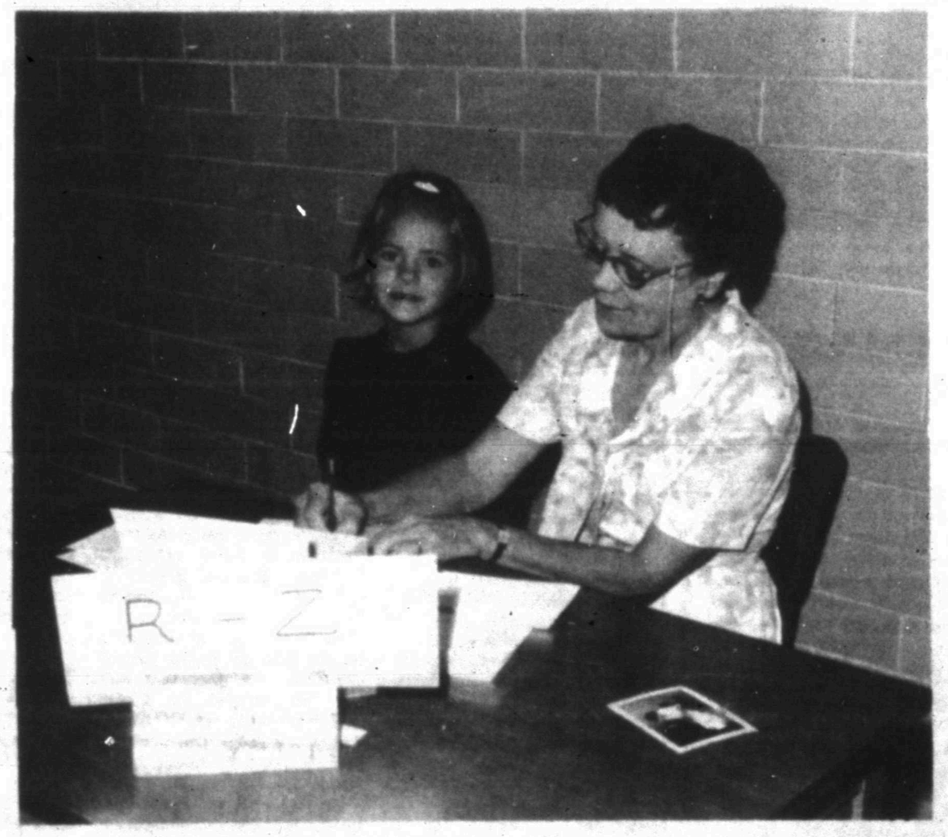

Lively thundershowers danced around the Snyder area Tuesday evening, but left significant moisture in only a few areas.

The official gauge in Snyder logged .18 inch from a light late afternoon shower and another around 9 p.m. The latter shower produced some high winds and small hail in the east part of town. Some television antennas were reported blown down, along with some other minor damage.

Rainfall was heavier east of town and there were reports of rains up to 1.50 on the Roby Highway. However, there was only a sprinkle at Hermleigh.

Some areas to the southwest and west of town got showers, with about an inch reported near the American Magnesium plant. However, there was only a light shower in areas north of there.

There were brilliant displays of lightning and crackling thunder accompanying the showers.

ELEMENTARY REGISTRATION — Registration began today for all elementary schools in the Snyder School District. Sheila Rawlings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rawlings, is getting ready for the first grade at North Elementary. Mrs. Margaret Pilcher, music teacher at North Elementary is registering Sheila.

Government Urged To Drop SST Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-Senate efficiency panel recommended today that the government get out of the program to develop a supersonic transport plane.

The plane eventually could cost federal taxpayers $3 billion, earn little or no return and prove of negligible public benefit, said a report by the joint subcommittee on economy in government.

The administration has proposed $290 million in SST development subsidies this year, which the group urged be stricken. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman, is sponsoring an amendment to do so.

Dissenting from the majority recommendation was Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, who declared that if the panel "had been advising Queen Isabella, we would all still be in Barcelona waiting to prove the world round before daring the Atlantic."

The subcommittee report now goes to the full Joint Economic Committee.

Brown said the report "blurred facts with suspicions and used tortured and frequently contradictory logic to come to conclusions about future U.S. transportation policy which will not bear close examination."

Proxmire released the report at a news conference today and said in prepared remarks he is hopeful the Senate will approve soon his amendment to the Department of Transportation's budget dill.

"If Congress succeeds in reordering priorities this year," he said, "there is no doubt in my mind that the SST will wind up right at the bottom of the list, where it belongs."

Despite the $290 million sought this year, the report said "no assurance can be given that there is any upper limit on the eventual total cost to the Government" and added prospects are "remote" the government will eventually recover its investment.

The Boeing Co., which won the government's SST contract, would have to sell 300 of the faster-than-sound planes before it would return the federal loan, the report said. Subsequent royalties cease under the contract when the government earns 6 per cent on its investment.

The report said 6 per cent is a poor rate of return in today's market and added "our private witnesses did not feel prospects for selling 300 SSTs were very bright."

The report was endorsed by Sens. Proxmire, Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., and Reps. Wright Patman, D-Tex., Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., William S. Moorehead, D-Pa., and Barber B. Conable Jr., R-N.Y. Brown alone dissented and Sens. John Sparkman, D-Ala., and Stuart Symington, D-Mo., neither endorsed nor dissented from the report.

Sophomores To Report Thursday

Sophomores and other new students in Snyder High School will report Thursday morning, instead of today as reported in Tuesday's issue of the Daily News.

Sophomore orientation is set for 10 a.m. tomorrow to be followed by registration. Juniors and seniors new to the Snyder system will register tomorrow, beginning at 1 p.m. The new upper classmen also are invited to attend the morning orientation.

US Refuses To Support Charges

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, pressing for a quick start on Middle East peace talks, has refused full support to Israel's charges of cease-fire violations against Egypt on the ground that available evidence is not conclusive.

The U.S. position has been made to the Israeli government by the American ambassador in Tel Aviv, Walworth Barbour. It was also discussed with Israeli Ambassador Yitzhak Rabin Tuesday. Rabin arrived in Israel today after an overnight flight from Washington.

The administration planned to issue a statement on the problem today. It was expected to emphasize that the issue of cease-fire violations remains open, pending further information. But, as Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said Sunday, some charges have been "impossible" to prove.

The statement also was expected to emphasize U.S. concern that nothing that has happened so far should be permitted to delay the start of the peace talks.

The United States is said to have reassured Israel that it stands firm on its promise not to let the balance of power be turned against Israel.

Rabin told newsmen on arrival in Tel Aviv that Israel's charges of cease fire violations are still under study.

Senate Overrides Education Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, spurning President Nixon's economy plea and overriding his veto, has voted into law a $4.4 billion appropriation for federal aid to education.

But it will take some political dexterity to fashion a Republican campaign issue of the 77-16 vote. Twenty-three Republicans voted to override the President.

Not one of the 16 Republicans who voted to sustain the veto is running for a new term this year.

The Senate roll call Tuesday was 15 votes over the two-thirds majority required to overturn a veto.

The House already had voted, 289-114, to override the veto, and 77 Republicans voted against the President there.

Thus Republican votes were crucial in supplying the margins by which Nixon's veto was overridden on both sides of the Capitol.

Administration officials already have said they anticipate congressional campaign benefits for Republicans on the issue of government spending, which Nixon repeatedly has raised against the Democratic-controlled Congress.

With such a spending complaint, Nixon vetoed the education bill because it is $453 million over his budget, and an $18 billion appropriation for housing, veterans benefits, space and other agencies. The latter veto was sustained in the House, and Congress will have to draft a new bill.

The Republican dilemma on education spending was typified by Senate Minority leader Hugh Scott, who said if his vote was crucial, he would cast it to sustain Nixon. Otherwise, he said, he would act as the senator from Pennsylvania, where he seeks re-election this year.

He chose the latter course, broke with the administration position and voted to override.

Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., senior GOP member on the committee that drafted the education spending bill, also voted to override the veto.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., arguing against the veto, pointed to the 88-0 margin by which the Senate originally had sent the bill to Nixon.

"Don't blame young people in school for inflation," Magnuson said. He said high interest rates are the real problem, and Nixon has done nothing about them.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said the Senate already has cut three times as much in military spending as the education bill means in over-budget outlays.

"It is so easy to vote millions for ABMs and SSTs and then to reject money for the ABCs," Mansfield said.

Get to know him a different way!

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I met a fellow rather accidentally on the telephone. We found out we had a lot in common [age and all] and he called me [on purpose] several times after that and we had many long, interesting conversations. Well, he asked if he could take me out for dinner on Sunday night, and I said yes.

He came over at 4 like we planned, and after about 40 minutes of talking he wanted to kiss me.

I said, "No, I want to get to know you better." [After all, Abby, he really was a stranger to me as I had never seen him before.]

He said, "Well, that is how you get to know a person better." I still said, "No, not yet." So he got mad and walked out the door.

Did I do the right thing in not letting him kiss me? I would still like to get to know him better. LOST HIM

DEAR LOST: From what you tell me about this young man, I'd say you didn't lose much. Yes, you did the right thing. And if he calls you again, and you still want to "know him better" don't forget the "method" he suggested for getting to know you better.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 years old and I am having trouble with my mother. She won't let me get my ears pierced. I think I am old enough to know my own mind, and I don't see anything wrong with piercing my ears. Lots of the kids do it nowadays. Can you help me? I am a boy.

IRA IN CLEARWATER, FLA.

DEAR IRA: You are still a minor, and as such, your mother is responsible for your actions. Think about it for a few more years. Do you really WANT two more holes in your head?

DEAR ABBY: My sister is intelligent, but she has one big fault. She continually corrects her poor husband every time he opens his mouth. And she doesn't care who is present.

If she could hear a tape recording of an evening of her nagging and correcting, maybe she would realize how terrible she sounds.

Needless to say, we don't see them as often as we could even tho we live only a few miles away. She often asks me why we don't spend more time with them and I simply cannot bring myself to tell her. She has always been a bossy and opinionated person. How do I get it across to her that nobody enjoys being in the company of a person who is always belittling and correcting her husband? I hate to hurt her feelings. HER SISTER

DEAR SISTER: If you honestly feel that by telling your sister the truth, she might accept it as constructive criticism and DO something about it—never mind her "feelings." You'd be doing her a kindness. But if I read your letter right, I think you're "afraid" of your sister [just as her husband is] and will continue to avoid her—and complain behind her back.

DEAR ABBY: Please pass this message on to your correspondent who so proudly signed herself "CALIFORNIA'S WORST HOUSEKEEPER":

Let's be honest, Baby. You are a dirty, happy, lovable pig—but a pig just the same.

Lt. Weaver Is In Exercise

HAMPTON, Va. — U.S. Air Force First Lieutenant William F. Weaver Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Weaver of 3008 Thirty-fourth Street., Snyder, recently participated in a U. S. Strike Command (USSTRICOM) joint air and ground training exercise conducted at Pope AFB and Ft. Bragg, N.C.

The exercise, involving over 2,000 U. S. Army and Air Force personnel and 60 military aircraft, tested the operational readiness and rapid reaction capability of select USSTRICOM ground and air forces.

Lieutenant Weaver is a C-130 Hercules cargo troop carrier pilot with the 4500th Air Base Wing at Langley AFB, Va. The unit is part of the Tactical Air Command which provides combat units for air support of U. S. ground forces.

The Lieutenant, who attended Snyder High School, received a B.S. degree from West Texas State University and is a member of Alpha Tau Omega. He was commissioned upon completion of Officer Training School at Lackland, AFB, Tex.

His wife, Sharon, is the daughter of Floyd Shackelford, Star Route, Hale Center.

Bonds Made In Liquor Cases

Three defendants in liquor cases have been released under $500 bond each.

They include Paul Guttierrez, who was arrested by officers of the Scurry County Sheriff's Dept. on Friday night, with 67 quarts of beer confiscated; Mozelle King, arrested Saturday in raids staged by officers of the Sheriff's Dept., Snyder Police Dept. and Texas Highway Patrolmen, with 213 quarts of beer and 47 four-fifths quart bottles of wine confiscated; and Pete Davis, arrested Saturday by officers of the Sheriff's Dept., Police Dept. and Highway Patrol, with 365 quarts of beer and 91 four-fifths quarts of wine confiscated.

Vandals Damage Community Center

The Scurry County Sheriff's Dept. is searching for suspects in vandalism at the Inadale Community Center.

Sheriff Keith Collier said the vandalism could have been committed by passerby and that clues were slim. Windows were broken out, dishes were destroyed and furnishings and equipment were damaged. Also, a flag and coffeemaker were stolen. The building is located on US 84 and there are no dwellings nearby.

Report Juveniles Had Marijuana

Two juveniles were arrested by city police and charged with possession of marijuana after a car was searched Tuesday evening.

Officers reported that marijuana seeds were found in the car, which was impounded.

The case, which involved two 16-year-old boys, was referred to juvenile authorities.

Frogs To Be Hurled Into Orbit

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. (AP) — Two American frogs, the first of their species to be hurled into orbit, were to embark on a one-way trip into space today aboard a Scout rocket launched from here.

The frogs, packed into a water-filled centrifuge, are participants in an experiment designed to tell scientists about man's disorientation on space voyages.

Frogs were chosen for the experiment because of the similarity of their inner ear structure with that of man. The inner ear is the principal seat of balance and orientation in humans.

Electronics devices attached to the inner ears of the amphibians are to produce electric signals that can be recorded on earth while the frogs are alternately weightless, then subjected by spinning to one half the force of earth gravity.

At the conclusion of the five day experiment, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said, the spacecraft life support system will be used to allow accumulation of carbon dioxide until the animals have been "gently" asphyxiated.

The 293 pound spacecraft, along with a 46-pound radiation meteriod RM satellite will orbit with its cargo of dead frogs for about nine months before burning up in the atmosphere.

NASA, in announcing the project, said the experiments would allow scientists for the first time to study electrical responses of the otolith, a sensitive portion of the inner ear system, during periods of weightlessness.

"A number of disorders have occurred in men and animals during short periods of weightlessness in aircraft and during longer priods in spacecraft, among the disorientation," NASA said.

Such disorders, the agency said, influence vision and balance.

Cholera Closes 3 Russia Cities

MOSCOW (AP) — Travel restrictions still are in effect and three cities remain quarantined in southern Russia because of cholera. Soviet health officials continue to stress household cleanliness.

Although Soviet authorities have declared only three cities closed, travelers returning from Black Sea resorts reported soldiers were preventing entry to the Crimean peninsula cities of Kerch and Yevpatoriya.

The three officially closed cities are the Caspian Sea port of Astrakhan where cholera was first reported by the Soviet press two weeks ago, the industrial city of Volgograd and the Black Sea port of Odessa.

Other than preventing access to the three closed cities, the cholera has had little effect on foreigners traveling under the supervision of the government agency Intourist.

But all travelers who do not have previously arranged accommodations are denied travel permits to most of southern Russia. Authorities said this was to prevent overcrowding and unsanitary conditions.

An uncooperative information policy at the Soviet Health Ministry has precented a reliable estimate of the seriousness of the outbreak. No figures have been published. But thousands are affected by the quarantine and travel restrictions.

In Moscow and other cities multicolored posters are abundant in markets and food stores warning shoppers to thoroughly clean all food and boil all drinking water.

Soviet television aired a 20-minute panel discussion Monday night on preventing the spread of cholera by strict sanitary measures in homes, restaurants, public facilities and stores.

According to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow: "No Americans have contracted the disease and as far as we know no American travelers are in the quarantined cities."

Irwin Named To New Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will name New York lawyer John N. Irwin II as under secretary of state, succeeding Elliot Richardson, the White House announced today.

Irwin, 56, a Republican, has been with the law firm of Patterson, Belknap, and Webb for the two past decades and has also held a number of foreign affairs assignments.

As the $42,500-a-year under secretary of state, he will be the State Department's top officer under Secretary William P. Rogers. Nixon appointed his predecessor Richardson, as secretary of health, education and welfare earlier this summer.

Man Is Charged In Shooting

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A 48-year-old Akron man who allegedly shot his wife to death and wounded his 17-year-old stepson was flushed from a building by police using teargas early today after he held the stepson hostage for six hours.

Vincent Amelia was charged with first-degree murder in the death of his estranged wife, Rita, 46, and two counts of shooting with intent to kill.

His stepson, Randy Smith, was reported in serious condition at Akron City Hospital.

Also wounded seriously was George Grisp, 44, of Akron. Grisp and Edward Jones, 24, of Canal Fulton, were wounded when Amelia opened fire in Louie's Bar on East Exchange Street, killing his wife, police reported.

Jones was treated at the hospital and released.

Detectives said Amelia took a .45-caliber automatic and a .38-caliber revolver ino the bar.

After the shootings, Amelia telephoned his brother and a lawyer and told them he was going to his home on Spicer Street. Amelia lives in an apartment above a store operated by his brother.

Police who went to the building were warned by Amelia tha he was holding Smith and would shoot the youth if police tried to take him.

Plane Hijacked

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A Trans Caribbean airliner with 154 passengers was hijacked from Newark Airport to Cuba today, an airline spokesman said.

The plane took off from Newark at 1 a.m. and landed in Havana at 5:19 a.m., Trans Caribbean said.

The aircraft, flight 401, bound for Puerto Rico radioed a message to San Juan at 3:22 saying it had been hijacked and was flying to Cuba.

No other message was received from the aircraft until it landed in Havana.

A spokesman for Trans Caribbean said they were awaiting word as to its estimated time of departure from Havana.

The spokesman said they were awaiting confirmation of the plane's take off from Cuba before releasing the passenger list.

According to the spokesman the plane changed course about half way to Puerto Rico, where it was to have arrived at 4:55 a.m.

He said it was the first time a Trans Caribbean plane had been hijacked. The pilot was identified as William Cunningham, of Long Island, New York.

Safeguard Victory Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon today dashed the last hopes of foes of the Safeguard antimissile system that President Nixon could accept a Senate compromise on barring the system's geographic expansion.

The move by Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird appeared to make likely a defeat for an amendment barring expansion to two new sites and using the $322 million saved to improve defenses at the two sites approved last year.

"The Department of Defense cannot support and is opposed" to the amendment sponsored by Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., Laird said in a letter read to the Senate by Chairman John Stennis of the Armed Servides Committee.

Laird said the amendment would cost an additional $500 million, fail to to protect sufficient numbers of strategic bombers, and cause "an unacceptable delay" in providing defenses for U.S. missiles.

Haute Coutre For Fall: Lean, Long And Full

By AP NEWSFEATURES

NEW YORK (AP) — Long and lean, long and full, long and dramatic ... the trend is long in haute couture ready-to-wear clothes. Pants are on the wane, except as a sometime partner to costume combos. The accent is on the midi (mid-calf) length. Minis are almost nonexistent as in the maxi.

The ensemble is king. Suits, coat costumes, skirts with matching blouses, even trouser suits predominate.

Couturiers say they have solved the proportion problem by using details such as buttons, bows, yokes, big collars, hats, cinched waists and pockets.

They have left the skirt simple and adorned the tops of ensembles.

Fabrics are sturdy wools, printed challis wools, double faced broadcloth, tweeds, caviars and wool gabardines.

Capes shelter pants, bloused at the mid-calf in gaucho fashion, frequently worn inside of boots. The wide bottomed trouser is finished.

Accessories are the key to the "look". Scarves, hats, dog collars, earrings, fantasy belts galore complete the costume.

Coats are cozy and big. They are often cinched at the waist and designed to be worn with matching dresses, pants or skirts.

Styling with large patch pockets, belted are popular with Ungaro, Dior and Vent. Full-skirted and bias cut coats tailor in pure wool tweeds, from Lanvin, Givenchy and Laroche. Maxi coats from Cardin are empire and some tubular with front zips.

Almost everyone is making capes ... Full, long and (midi) they lend drama to the garment worn beneath. From Saint Laurent they are high collared and full backed. From Lanvin they feature a soft pleated yoke all around, are fastened at the neck and open down the front.

Dresses are almost always midi in length. Cardin makes one mini dress in wool jersey ... and a maxi evening dress with a cut-out front.

The classic suit is back. Dior, Lanvin, Givenchy, Venet and others show us that the midiskirt can be kilted, flared, pleated or full. Jackets are mostly short and loaded with detail. Paints-suits, too, are in and often match the coats.

Mengwasser's Celebrate Their Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mengwasser of 3103 Hill Avenue, will observe their fiftieth wedding anniversary Sunday, August 22. A special Mass will be held at the St. Elizabeth Catholic Church at 1 p.m. and a reception will be held at the Snyder coliseum from 2 to 4.

The event will be hosted by children of Mr. and Mrs. Mengwasser. The children are: Robert Mengwasser of Odessa, Mrs. Leon Davidson of Lubbock, Mrs. Jim Cummins of Odessa, Mrs. John A. Bindel of Wichita Falls, and Mrs. Mildred Foster of Lawton, Oklahoma.

Miss Frances Reis and John J. Mengwasser were married August 24, 1920 at Electra, Texas. They lived in Electra for twenty-five years before moving to Lovington, N. M., where they lived for three years. In 1947 the Mengwasser's came to Snyder, where they have made their home for the past twenty-three years.

The church will be decorated with bronze and gold chrysanthemums. The serving table will be covered in a gold satin and white net tablecloth, and will be decorated with bronze and gold mums. A picture of the bride and groom's wedding day will be part of the centerpiece. Serving at the table will be Mrs. Herbert Delmer, sister of Mrs. Mengwasser, of Electra, Mrs. Henry Reis of Vernon, a sister-in-law, Mrs. Cecil Isbell of Electra, sister, and Mrs. Bill Mapes of Snyder.

Out of town guests will be from different parts of Texas. Approximately two hundred guests are expected.

Hoovers Term In The White House

THE SHATTERED DREAM. By Gene Smith. Morrow. $6.95.

This book's subtitle is "Herbert Hoover and the Great Depression." But that is not quite indicative. It is about Hoover's term in the White House, the stock market crash of 1929, the beginnings of the Depression and the election campaign of 1932.

It is Smith's thesis that Hoover was the last example of the long American dream that an ambitious boy from a poor family can rise to the heights of wealth and power, in Horatio Alger style. He postulates the idea that rugged individualism ended with Hoover, but offers no evidence on that point.

There is a good bit of material here on the personalities and the atmosphere of the late 1920s and early 1930s, giving the book an aura of historical reality.

The author depicts Hoover as the Great Engineer who made a fortune and then turned public administrator in the major food relief programs in Europe during and after World War I. He also depicts him as an aloof, humorless man whom the politicians of his own party disliked, and as an inept chief executive incapable of comprehending what was happening when the crash came.

Yet Smith's treatment of the Hoover story is basically sympathetic, a sort of explanation that Hoover was a well meaning man who became a tragic figure.

The Weeders Guide

By EARL ARONSON

The U.S. government ban on DDT has raised two questions among home gardeners (and probably many more). One is what to use as a substitute, and the second how to dispose of DDT left on hand.

There are substitutes for DDT that give effective plant protection. The ban should cause no great hardship. Gardeners have a wide choice of insecticides in the garden store, all approved by the U.S. Department of Health.

The American Rose Magazine notes that most of the newer biodegradable insecticides kill either by contact with the insect or as a stomach poison. Some also exert a fumigating or capor action under certain conditions.

Substitute multipurpose powders would be those containing Malathion, Diazinon or Meta-System R, plus Sevin or Methexychlor, plus Kelthane or Tedion, plus Folpet or Captan, the magazine suggests.

Malathion, Diazinon or Meta-Systox-R are primarily for sucking insects, including aphids, mealybugs, whiteflies and scales. Sevin or Methoxychlor controls many chewing insects, including beetles, caterpillars; Kelthane or Tedion checks spider mites, and Folpet or Captan control plant diseases, such as powdery mildew, blackspot and leafspot.

Some of the multipurpose mixtures eradicate insects and protect plants from diseases. "They're like the instant cake mixes—premixed, pre-packaged and ready for immediate use without having to mix and measure various components," American Rose adds.

Multipurpose systemics also are available. The systemic chemicals are absorbed into the plant sap so that sucking insects are killed after feeding on the plant juices. They are absorbed by growing plants. Some are added to the soil and taken up by the plant roots and moved throughout the plant tissue. Others are absorbed by foliage, stems or even injectioned.

While systemics control sucking insects well they do not satisfactorily check chewing insect pests.

The answer to the second question is more difficult.

Discarding partially-used bottles or boxes of DDT into the trash barrel or pouring it down a drain simply adds to the environmental pollution. If burned in public incinerators it will pollute the atmosphere. If added to the sewage system, it may wash one day into the ocean or streams. Burying it in the backyard isn't much help, but if you do, bury it at various depths and far from water sources.

The manufacturer of one spray recommends that gardeners use up their DDT in their own gardens with diluted solutions and proper spraying methods.

Some experts say sunlight and bacterial soil decomposition hasten the breakdown of DDT, and that there is no perfect way to get rid of surplus short of using them up properly. Don't over-use them. Spray directly on plants but not so much that they will drip.

Camera Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

A comprehensive review of basic photography is once again the main story in Popular Photography's "1970 Invitation to Photography," an annual published by Ziff-Davis ($1.50).

This year, it is writer-teacher Ralph Hattersley who guides camera beginners through the zig-zag field of black-and-white picture taking. He simplifies the paths along the way on how to select a camera and exposure meter, how to use them properly and how to make correct exposures. He also explains how films work, how to develop them and make enlargements.

Even experienced photographers can benefit from a review of fundamentals and often may find facts popping into place which help to clear up minor mysteries. Hattersley avoids the use of technical jargon where possible but explains terms when necessary.

Speaking of the focal length of lenses, for instance, he says a technical definition would not make much sense to a beginner, nor does he actually need to know it to take pictures. But he should know each lens has a focal length; that lenses come in different focal lengths; and that different focal lengths result in different pictures.

Some common focal lengths for 35mm cameras are: 21mm, 28mm, 35mm, 50mm, 90mm, 135mm and 200mm. It isn't surprising that the small numbers refer to short focal lengths, the middle number refers to medium focal length and the large numbers are long focal lengths.

The 50mm medium focal length lens (or in that area) is designated as the normal lens for 35mm cameras. To take in a greater picture area, a shorter focal length lens is substituted for the normal lens—like 21mm, 28mm or 35mm. They are popularly called wide-angle lenses.

To show a distant subject larger, you would reach out with a long focal length lens—or telephoto. Lenses longer than 90mm are in the telephoto class. They are useful for shy photographers wishing to get close-ups of people from a distance.

Another feature of this year's annual for beginning photographers is Jacob Deschin's survey of camera clubs. He lists the pros and cons of joining a group in "Do You Need a Camera Club?"

There are an estimated 12,000 adult and 8,000 high school clubs in the country. Memberships average from 25 to 50. They hold regular meetings, usually following a set pattern of programs. The club incentives for outstanding prints or slides range from points to stars to ribbons to trophies and other honors.

Club members have joined, Deschin says: to learn more about their hobby: to socialize with kindred spirits; to participate in friendly competition with equals; to receive recognition from colleagues and, eventually, from the public attending exhibits of their work.

They improve their photography by getting personal advice and help from more advanced members; by hearing lecturers at meetings; by experiences gained on group shooting trips and by attendance at regional and national conventions.

Through the years, camera clubs have been criticized for apparent backwardness, for lack of interest in the real world in favor of the sentimental and for its competitive and awards systems. The latter are just bait for the ego, say some.

"There are many amateurs who are perfectly fitted by temperament, ability, aims and potential for the camera club environment. But others may find the club's characteristic regimentation a restraint on their need for free expression," Deschin concludes. "They would be unhappy, frustrated members. For these, club membership would be a serious error."

Cross' Ideas Formed Opportunity Program

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Theodore Lamont Cross has had a rare and enviable experience. Called to Washington in December to devise a new program, he not only shaped it, but saw it accepted and funded, all in just six months.

Now the nonprofit Opportunity Funding Corp., having received an initial grant of $7.4 million, is embarked on studies aimed at attracting private capital to low-income areas.

It will seek to learn, for example, if existing institutions can be enticed, perhaps with government guarantees, to accept allegedly high risk investments in ghetto areas.

The story behind the corporation contains a lesson for all those people who casually dismiss the problems of minority groups as little more than an attitude of mind rather than formal discrimination.

Cross, 46, former editor of the Harvard Law Review and now editor and publisher of the Bankers Magazine, officer in a publishing company and treasurer of the Sheraton Corp. of America, has suffered a little discrimination.

He is, as can be suspected, a solid member of the establishment. He not only understands it but, so to speak, has always had his foot in the door. The [illegible] worked for him and his clients, chief of which was the Sheraton hotel chain.

For 15 years Cross had worked with Sheraton's developers, Ernest Henderson and Robert L. Moore. He had seen how they made money grow, how they had parlayed a $25,000 investment during the 1930s into a half-billion dollar empire.

"They did it all with other people's money," said Cross. "They were masters of leverage."

Cross already had been applying some of his time to problems of the Negro community. Although Negroes made up 11 per cent of the population, he learned, they controlled only one per cent of the nation's capital.

In the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, for example, there are only two small banking units, although the population exceeds that of the city of Cincinnati, Ohio. The establishment didn't lend to Negroes. They were unable to obtain bonds, insurance, loans. For them, leveraging was impossible.

The explanations sounded good enough. Casualty insurers said ghetto businesses were overly risky. Life insurers said Negro mortality was too high. Bankers thought of them as poor businessmen.

Too much talent was being frustrated by the establishment, Cross felt. "I just wonder," he said this week, "was there a black Edwin Land lost to us in this manner?" Land invented the Polaroid camera.

Cross' thoughts eventually became a highly praised book, "Black Capitalism," subtitled "Strategy for Business in the Ghetto."

It's thesis is this: "We need a national scheme to make it possible for insurers, bonders, leasing companies, life and fire insurers and banks to do business in the black community. It should be a national vehicle."

Cross dismissed the notion that new institutions were needed and that the solution should be through handouts. The existing system, however, should be changed so as to serve rather than oppress.

Last December, Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, called Cross to Washington and asked him to put his ideas into a program, and that's how Opportunity Funding Corp. was formed.

Drinking Water Neglect Charged

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has placed too great an emphasis on ridding streams and rivers of pollution and neglected public drinking water supplies, a water expert charged today.

"For every hundred dollars spent on making rivers safe for fish and wildlife, only one dollar is going to make that river safe for people to drink," Eric F. Johnson said in remarks prepared for the International Water Quality Symposium.

"Water for people has to be the No. 1 priority," he said.

Johnson, executive director of the American Water Works Association, warned "if administration leaders don't wake up to the fact that we aren't drinking polluted water, we soon may be."

"No matter how much you treat sewage, you still have to treat water, but few people in government realize that" he added.

"Interior Secretary Hickel assumes he is drinking Potomac River water as it flows down the stream," Johnson said. "He doesn't know there are waterworks people laboring day and night to convert raw water into a finished product that is pure, palatable and safe."

Johnson said four hundred times as much money is spent on preparing water for dumping as it is on preparing it for drinking. He said the Interior Department has taken the best people away from water supply and put them on pollution.

Government help is needed, Johnson said, in training personnel to handle the more sophisticated equipment needed to cope with increased pollution, setting aside sites for reservoirs, and providing money for research into the nature of new contaminants now going into the water sources.

"Congress, without being asked," Johnson said, "threw $350 million more into pollution programs and grants while water supply has had a time getting $3 million.

"What few in Washington realize, and this goes for President Nixon, is that money spent on pollution control doesn't benefit water supply on a dollar-to-dollar basis," he added.

Johnson said unless action is taken now a crash program will be needed in 5 to 10 years to maintain a water supply. He said the public water service needs three times its present budget of $2.3 million.

Junior Editors Quiz on FIRE

QUESTION: What is fire made of?

* * *

ANSWER: Trying to understand the world around them, the ancient Greeks decided there were four elements, or substances out of which everything else was made. They called these air, earth, water and fire. We now know they were wrong. Our knowledge tells us that a chemical element is a substance which can't be divided further by ordinary means. Air, earth, water, are combinations of things, not single elements. As to fire, it is not a substance at all, not a thing. It is a result, something which happens when some fuel is heated to a temperature called the kindling point. At this temperature, the oxygen of the air unites with the fuel in the process called combustion, burning or oxidation. As a result of this, heat and light are given off. Wood is being burned in our picture. It throws light on the campers' faces, and radiates comforting heat. Gradually, the wood is used up. Then, the process of combustion will have stopped. Where has the fire gone? Nowhere. Since it was a chemical process, and the conditions for this are no longer present, the fire simply isn't there anymore.

Guidelines Set For Vegetables

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department recommends growers of 10 major winter crop vegetables and potatoes plant the same total acreage for 1971 as they did last year.

The guidelines suggested by the government, designed to help growers plan production so that supplies will balance estimated demand, call for 235,800 planted acres, but with several variations from last year within the total.

The recommendations are unchanged for snap beans, carrots, celery, sweet corn, escarole and spinach, and for lettuce acreage in Florida and Texas.

A 5 per cent lettuce acreage reduction is suggested for Arizona and California. Recommended acreage increases include 5 per cent for cabbage, 15 per cent for green peppers and 5 per cent for tomatoes.

With normal yields from the suggested acreages for 1971, the government estimates a winter harvest for the 10 vegetables totaling 37.2 million hundredweight, or 5 per cent more than in 1970.

The total acreage suggested for 1971 winter potatoes is 19,500 acres, which with average yields would lift output moderately above that of last winter.

Fresh winter vegetable produce in 1970 was restricted by bad weather. Particularly hard hit by an early January freeze and excessive rainfall were Florida crops of sweet corn, green peppers and tomatoes. This shortage was offset partially by increased imports.

The government recommendations were based on expectations of a slight increase in total population and some rise in demand due to gains in disposable income of consumers. The suggested acreages also took into account the likelihood of sustained competition from imports of several fresh vegetables, including tomatoes and green peppers.

Memories Are Fun To Share

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — If you had a million memories and could sell them for a dollar each, you'd be a millionaire.

But who would part with a wonderful memory for a measly dollar bill? Good memories are priceless and, anyway, it is more fun to share them than try to put them on the auction block.

Perhaps you don't have a million memories yet. But you've got a pretty good stock if you can look back and remember when—

Bluebirds were so plentiful you could see one almost every day in summer.

A good cook would rather hear her pies or preserves praised than her character. After all, nobody would dare say a word against her character.

There was some perturbation throughout the country when word got around that one of President Woodrow Wilson's favorite sports was tennis. Tennis? Wasn't that a game played between sissies and young ladies?

The old-fashioned icebox had room for only about a fifth of the goodies a modern refrigerator or freezer holds.

Bedbugs were so common in poor neighborhoods that it wasn't so much a question of whether but when a household would be infested by them.

A girl didn't know whether to be pleased or insulted if you told her she looked like Theda Bara, the famous movie vamp.

We were all so young and innocent that a fellow could become the life of a cocktail party simply by putting a lampshade on his head.

Adolf Hitler was painting landscapes—before he learned the art of destroying them.

People were still so friendly that if you got an attack of hiccups on a street car at least 10 strangers among the passengers would volunteer a helpful suggestion on the best way to cure them.

Airplanes were so much of a novelty that lots of folks rode out to the airport every Sunday in hopes of seeing one fall.

Grandma laid down the law to grandpa by informing him that he could either keep his beard or go on chewing tobacco—but he couldn't do both.

You could keep a pet dog from birth until death and never spend more than $2 cash on it for a collar with a brass nameplate.

Every telegram had ten words, and the tenth word always was "love."

Those were the days-remember?

New Comet Introduced

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A new Mercury Comet, a small-car successor to the intermediate-size Comet discontinued a year ago, was introduced today as Mercury opened a push for a piece of the growing compact market.

The Comet headlined the 1971 Mercury line unveiled by the Lincoln-Mercury division of the Ford Motor Co. It will go on sale Sept. 11, while other cars in the line go into the showrooms Sept. 18.

The Mercury line also features an extensively redesigned Cougar and upgraded Mercury Monterey.

"Lincoln-Mercury was seriously penalized in 1970 by the decline of total sales and especially by the sharp trend away from intermediates and full size cars," said B.E. Bidwell, general manager of the Lincoln-Mercury divison. "We bought some insurance to see we won't suffer through another experience like that."

THERE HE IS! — The astonishment of passerby at right apparently knows no bounds as New York Jets quarterback Joe Namath, center, strides by with friend on New York's Madison Avenue. What's more, Namath who has been enjoying a self-declared hiatus from pre-season grid rigors, is scheduled to report to training camp. He had just passed physical, including check of his troubled knees. (AP Wirephoto)

Maravich Shows Off Passing

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP) — Pete Maravich strapped his pistols on once more—this time to play in a pro game—but Dave Cowens did most of the straight shooting.

Maravich, college basketball's all-time scoring king, said he was "thrilled" playing with the pros in the annual Maurice Stokes charity basketball game Tuesday night.

Maravich scored only 10 points, way below his college average, so Cowens took up the slack with 32 and led the Red Auerbachs over the Dolph Schayes 86-82 at Kutsher's Country Club.

The Pistol, however, wasn't to deny the crowd of 2,000 a look at his formidable passing talents. He drew "oohs" and "aahs" from the fans while firing the ball from illogical, off-balance positions.

Maravich wound up with 12 assists wearing an Atlanta Hawks uniform for the first time in a game.

While the former Louisiana State great was doing his passing thing, Cowens—Boston's first-round draft pick from Florida State—also pulled down 22 rebounds and blocked a half dozen shots.

The performance earned the 6-foot-9, 240-pound forward the game's Most Valuable Player trophy.

Although not shooting well—4-for-18—Maravich played a sturdy defensive game, not one of his fortes in college ball. And nine of his points were scored in a last-period spurt as he teamed with Cowens to bring the Auerbachs a last-minute victory.

More than a million dollars worth of National Basketball Association talent assembled at Kutsher's for the game to honor Stokes, a former player who died this year. Proceeds from the game will be used to aid NBA players who might require financial assistance for disability or illness.

Jo Jo White of Boston chipped in with 15 points and Jack Marin of Baltimore added 10 for the winners. Billy Cunningham of Philadelphia and Cazzie Russell of New York led the Schayes' team with 16 each.

Birds Winning During A Slump

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Minnesota Twins know what a slump is all about and now Earl Weaver of Baltimore claims his club is in one.

There's one big difference, though. While the Twins recently dropped nine straight games, the high-flying Orioles continue to win.

Tuesday night, the Twins came up with some ninth inning heroics, getting a clutch two-run single off the bat of pinch-hitter Jim Holt to nip the New York Yankees 8-7, giving Minnesota its second straight win after their near-disastrous skid.

And the Orioles, now leading the Yanks by 10 games in the American League East, downed Milwaukee 3-0 behind the five-hit pitching of Jim Hardin and the hitting and fielding of Merv Rettenmund.

"We're on a winning streak during a slump," said Weaver, the skipper of the Orioles. "We haven't been hitting the ball at all lately, but we've won our last four."

It was also Baltinore's seventh triumph in their last nine starts. However, what Weaver says might be true. The hard-hitting Birds only stroked three hits off Brewers' loser Marty Pattin. But one of them was Rettenmund's 15th homer of the season, a solo clout in the fourth inning. The center fielder also saved Hardin's shoutout with two catches in the fourth, grabbing a sinking drive by Mike Walton and going to the fence for Mike Hegan's belt.

In other games, California stayed on the Twins' heels, 4½ games behind the West leaders, with a 12-1 trouncing of Cleveland, Detroit whipped Oakland 3-1, Boston clubbed Chicago 8-4 and Kansas City ripped Washington 12-8.

In the National League, San Diego mauled Chicago 11-3, New York downed Houston 7-1, Pittsburgh tripped San Francisco 6-2, Atlanta edged Philadelphia 3-2, Montreal topped Cincinnati 7-4 and Los Angeles trimmed St. Louis 6-2.

Holt's soft liner to center off reliever Lindy McDaniel, snapped the Yankee's winning string at four games.

Rookie Danny Thompson opened the ninth with the Twins trailling 7-6 and dropped a bunt single. After a forceout, Tony Oliva doubled, putting two runners aboard. Then Holt, on a 2-2 pitch, batting for winning reliever Tom Hall, stroked his winning hit.

John Ellis had three hits, including a double and homer for the Yankees while Danny Cater had a two-run shot.

Clyde Wright, benefitting from a nine-run seventh inning, won his 17th game as the Angels unleashed a 16-hit attack. The Angels sent 14 men to the plate in the inning, ripping eight hits, with Jim Fregosi contributing two singles. Jim Spencer and Sandy Alomar had doubles.

Oakland fell six games behind Minnesota as Mickey Lolich of the Tigers hurled a five-hitter for Detroit's fourth straight triumph.

Dalton Jones had a seventh-inning homer.

The Red Sox scored six runs in the fifth inning to come from behind, then got one-hit relief pitching from Ken Brett over the last 4 1-3 innings against Chicago.

Mike Andrews and Reggie Smith led the Boston assault with three hits apiece.

Bob Oliver clouted a three-run homer, helping the Royals snap Washington's seven game winning string and ending Kansas City's skid at four games. Lee Maye had a three-run clout for the Senators.

Cecil Travis, 56, runnerup to Ted Williams for the 1941 American League batting title, has a 250-acre farm in Riverdale, Ga., where he was born. Travis formerly played shortstop and third base for the Washington Senators, the team Williams manages.

LOADED WITH PROBLEMS

Joe Not Sure He Can Go

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — The young boy jammed a yearbook and a felt pen into Joe Namath's hand, and over his autograph, the New York Jets' quarterback wrote one word:

"Peace".

Nothing may be more symbolic of Joe Namath's plight—for peace is something Joe Namath wishes he had.

Joe Namath has long hair, earthy good looks and a $100,000-a-year contract. Joe Namath has a brown Jaguar to bring him to practice. Joe Namath has the idolatry of countless fans of both sexes and all ages.

But Joe Namath does not have peace.

And Joe Namath said as much Tuesday as he rejoined the Jets, bringing with him not only his admitted talent for completing a pass but all the problems that have plaugued him during this summer of his greatest unhappiness.

Not Necessarily in order of importance, the problems are:

Trouble with his knees that apparently present, at least in his own mind, enough problems to make him say: "I don't think I can play."

—Mental problems, possibly stemming from his knees but compounded by other factors, that prevent him from eating a meal or drinking a cup of coffee before a game and make him "wonder if it's worth it."

—"A business problem," defined only in those terms and a problem about which he would not elaborate.

Namath talked about all those problems in an unusual scene that took place outside the back door of the Jets' training room on the Hofstra University campus where Namath spoke to radio and television people with newspapermen barred.

On his arrival at camp, wearing striped bell bottoms with a blue shirt open at the neck, Namath had refused to talk to newspaper people because "Everything that's been written about me is a lie."

He began by explaining his absence, pointing out: "I was not in the right frame of mind mentally."

Then he talked about the final game of the 1969 season, a 13-6 playoff loss to Kansas City that eliminated the Jets from contention in the American Football League.

"That was a horrible experience —being humiliated like I felt we were because we scored six points, "Namath explained. "It leaves a bad taste. I didn't know whether I wanted to do that again.

"I didn't know if I wanted to get up in the morning and be sick. Every time before a game, I can't even eat or drink a cup of coffee. I didn't like that feeling. You get chills in the morning and your stomach is upset. You wonder if it's worth it."

Have those kind of problems been getting worse in recent years?

"Physically and mentally it's gotten worse," he answered. "I used to look at the game differently. It used to be my whole life. It used to be everything I lived for. Logically and realistically, it's not now.

"It is when I'm on the football field with the team—but I've got a lot of things I have to do other than football."

And physically?

"I don't think I can play," he said. "I'm going to find out in the next couple or three weeks."

Then he talked about relations with linebacker Al Atkinson, who had criticized Namath's life style and pointed out:

"I respect Al's opinion. Maybe I should have done some things differently in the past. I don't know."

No Promises To Move Club

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A Chicago Cubs official says the National League club has made no promises to shift its San Antonio farm team to Colorado Springs.

Gene Lawing, director of player procurement and development for the Cubs, made his comments to the San Antonio Express after published reports said the Cubs had sent a representative to Colorado Springs to lay groundwork for moving the San Antonio Missions to that city.

"Nobody from our organization has been in Colorado Springs," Lawing told the Express from Chicago.

He said a Colorado Springs man contacted him while he was in Idaho.

"We did not contact them," Lawing said. "The Colorado Springs man said they were interested in getting into the Texas League. But at that time I did not know what our plans were and I couldn't encourage them. We said we would keep them in mind."

Heritage Surprise

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Valiant beat Intrepid, but the surprise yacht on the first day of the final trials to select the U.S. defender for the America's Cup yachting race next month was the Florida boat, Heritage.

A disappointment in the June and July trials, Heritage, skippered by Charley Morgan of St. Petersburg, Fla., impressed everyone Tuesday by a decisive victory over Weatherly. Her winning margin was six minutes, 9 seconds or more than one mile over the 24.3-mile course.

The gleeful Morgan, her designer and sailmaker, did a few dance steps on deck to the tune of Dixie when the Heritage docked.

"I had great difficulty steering the boat earlier in the season, but she steers beautifully now," Morgan commented. "She's docile and quite manageable. The worst thing was the unsatisfactory steering ratio in the primary rudder. Once we got that cured, it made a big difference."

Valiant capitalized on a substantial windshift to beat Intrepid by 42 seconds. Intrepid was caught in a becalmed area on the first leg and had to almost double back on the course reaching the breeze. By that time it was too late, although she gained on the remaining legs.

Today Valiant will oppose Heritage and Intrepid sails against Weatherly.

The selection committee has until Sept. 13 to name the U.S. defender to face either the Australian Gretel II or the French boat, France, for the America's Cup starting Sept. 15 off Newport.

Gretel and France start their own elimination series on Friday to determine the challenger.

Two Curtis Cup Members Meet

By KAROL STONGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DARIEN, Conn (AP) — Two members of the U.S Curtis Cup team, medalist Martha Wilkinson and 17-year-old Nancy Hager of Dallas, Tex., meet in the opening round of match play in the U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Championship today.

The 21-year-old Miss Wilkinson from Whittier, Calif., won medalist honors Tuesday with a two-over-par 150 for the 36 holes of the two-day qualifying competition. Miss Hager qualified with a 159.

Match play is an entirely different game, Miss Wilkinson said during her qualifying rounds. But she wouldn't say whether she preferred medal or match play.

British Curtis Cupper Mary Everand of Yorkshire, England, who meets another U.S. team member, Mrs. Paul Dye Jr., of Indianapolis, admits she likes medal play.

"The course is static," she said. "But your opponent isn't. If she has an eagle or a birdie, then you know you have to have one, too."

Miss Everand qualified with a 160 after shooting an 85 Tuesday. Mrs. Dye was one of two players to par the course to end up at 154.

Sudden-death play at dusk put two other members of the U.S. team and a college physical education instructor into today's play.

Shelley Hamlin, Fresno, Calif., runner-up in the 1969 event, Cynthia Hill 22, of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Doris Kostrinsky, the 25-year-old Ithaca College instructor from Armonk, N.Y., were among six players one stroke back of the 29 who qualified on the 6,240-yard, par-74 Wee Burn Country Club Course.

The trio eliminated three others—Delancey Smith of Snyder, N.Y., Judith Whalon of Providence, R.I., and Mrs. A sherdurne Hart of Short Hills, N.J.

Seven members of the U.S. Curtis Cup team qualified for match play. Only Jane Fassinger of New Wilmington Pa., at 163, failed to make the cut. All but one of seven British Curtis Cup members who entered also qualified. Ann Irvin, Lancashire, England, withdrew with a head cold.

Among those who failed to qualify was a former three-time winner, Mrs. Anne Quast Welts of Seattle who finished at 163, and Hollis Stacy, the 16-year-old U.S. Girls Junior champion from Savannah, Ga., who had a 172.

Todays 36-hole round will reduce the field to 16 for Thursday's quarter-finals.

Cowboys Short Of Tight Ends

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys will be hurting at tight end Saturday night when they play Green Bay in the Cotton Bowl in a National Football League pre-season game.

Pettis Norman is out with a strained groin muscle. Mike Ditka, who shared tight end duties with Norman last year, has a pulled hamstring muscle.

Coach Tom Landry said he will use either Ken Bailey or offensive tackle Rayfield Wright at the position if Ditka can't play. Wright has some experience at the post.

Phillips Named McMurry Manager

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — McMurry College President Thomas K. Kim announced the appointment today of a Brownwood man, Billy Pat Phillips, as new business manager for McMurry.

Phillips is head of the accounting department for the Herman Bennett Co. of Brownwood.

Phillips will succeed Richard Link, who resigned to take a position in Pennsylvania.

REDLEGS FACE MEXICO TEAM

A crack baseball team will come here from across the border Sunday for a doubleheader.

The Snyder Redlegs, local independent team, will host Los Choferos de Acuna of Mexico in a twinbill beginning at 1:30 p.m. on the Northeast Park Diamond.

This is the first time the Redlegs have scheduled a team from Mexico.

No Change In UIL Split Campus Rule

AUSTIN (AP) — There has been no official move to change a schoolboy rule which prevents a single high school with a split campus from combining the players into one team, an official of the Interscholastic League said today.

Athletic Director Bailey Marshall discussed the situation at Marshall, where the 9th and 10th grades will be on one campus and the 11th and 12th grades on another in meeting federal integration requirements.

Marshall said he knows of no other city which has the same setup.

He said the league has a "composite rule which states that a school cannot have a varsity squad with a combination of two campuses." He said the policy had been discussed but no recommendation had been made to change it because of "possible ills" resulting from eliminating the rule.

For example, he said, a school could have 2,000 pupils in each grade, freshman through senior, and the school "could draw on 8,000 pupils for the varsity squad."

The league official said he was "in sympathy" with Marshall "but all it means is that a sophomore that might be good enough to make the varsity squad cannot play."

The 9th and 10th grade campus still could field a football squad, such as a "B" team, and the high school varsity would have to come exclusively from the 11th and 12th grades. In most larger Texas cities, he noted, the varsity squads consist primarily of juniors and seniors anyway.

He said Jacksonville and Longview had inquired about the rule, but he had not heard from school officials there recently.

To change a league rule, he said, the league's legislative council would have to agree to put it on a ballot for the membership. The council consists of 20 school superintendents, one from each class in each region.

On the statewide ballot, each superintendent has one vote for each school in his district, which means vote counts usually total about 1,150, Marshall said.

Stockton In First As Champion

SUTTON, MASS. (AP) — Exhuberent Dave Stockton makes his first start as the new PGA champion Thursday as one of the favorites in the $16,000 Avco Golf Classic.

Stockton, who held off Arnold Palmer in last week's PGA Championship to move, from the "who's he" class to membership in golf's who's who, has a precedent for being named the favorite.

He won the Cleveland and Milwaukee titles in consecutive appearances in 1968, his last previous victories before the PGA triumph.

The new champ will be making one of his last appearances, before packing it in for the year.

Choctaw Indians Ready To Smoke Peace Pipe

By GODFREY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Choctaw Indians, after 11 years with a tomahawk hanging over their heads, prepared to smoke a peace pipe with Washington today.

The Senate was believed ready to approve a measure repealing a 1959 act that threatened the tribe with extinction. when President Nixon puts his signature to the legislation, their long cliffhanger will have ended.

But the repeal pushed perilously near the deadline that Congress had set. Repeated delays in bringing the termination act into effect were finally to expire next Tuesday.

From that day the Choctaws would no longer have been Indians so far as the federal government was concerned. They would have lost special educational opportunities, health, housing and other benefits with which the nation's 263 other Indian tribes and bands are favored.

It added up to a gloomy prospect and it didn't help much that, in a sense, the Choctaws had asked for it.

It was back in the 1950s that the Choctaws, who mostly live across the Red River from Texas in Southeast Oklahoma, started thinking about self-rule. They decided they would like to choose their own chiefs, handle tribal business and assets without supervision from what they considered to be the too paternalistic Bureau of Indian Affairs.

So they drew up a measure and sent it off to Washington.

The way the Choctaws tell it, they were then sold down the river. What they proposed got changed somewhere along the legislative way and the U.S. Congress passed the termination Act of 1959.

It gave the Choctaws what they asked, but it took away much besides.

Robert Beames, director of the Dallas Field Employment Assistance Office for the Bureau of Indian Affairs, who is half Choctaw himself, said that, as interpreted, the proposed legislation would have "terminated individual rights and benefits of all Choctaws as Indians. This was not the intent of the bill when it was passed."

Chief J.W. "Jimmy" Belvin, of Durant, Okla., who has headed the Choctaw Nation since then President Harry S. Truman appointed him after a tribal referendum in 1948, backed the original self-rule measure but switched round when he saw how it turned out.

"When they came back with their revised act and I saw it would harm the individual Choctaw, I refused to put it into operation," he said in a telephone interview Tuesday. "You can remove ne as chief before I'll do it, I told them. I didn't intend to let them kill the Choctaw Nation. No sir."

The Choctaw Tribe or Nation is one of the so-called Five Civilized Tribes of Oklahoma. The others are the Chicasaws (who used to be one tribe with the Choctaws some time before Christopher Columbus), the Cherokees, the Creeks and the Seminoles. They have been called the Five Civilized Tribes since about 1876.

Chief Belvin, a dynamic little man of 69, has served as: state senator and representative besides being a county superintendent of schools in Oklahoma. He estimates the present strength of the Choctaw Nation as "at least 85,000."

Justice Department Goes To Court

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The U.S. Justice Department is going to court to try to force North Carolina to comply with the Voting Rights Act of 1970 which lowers the voting age to 18 and outlaws the voter literacy test, State Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan says.

He said Tuesday his office had been told the suit would be filed in U.S. District Court at Raleigh.

The board of elections decided at its last meeting not to comply with the new law until its constitutionality had been determined.

The Justice Department has filed suits against Arizona and Idaho.

Plant Permission Denied Producer

FUKUYAMA, Japan (AP) — A major Japanese producer of aluminum metal has been refused permission to build a new refinery and a thermal power plant because they might make air pollution worse.

Showa Denko Co. wanted to build a plant to produce 300,000 tons of aluminum a year and a power station that would supply the plant with 300,000 kilowatts of electricity. The Hiroshima State government turned down the application, and the Fukuyaa City government concurred.

Marland's Nomination Protested By Labor

By G. C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The expected nomination of an outspoken, former big-city school superintendent as U.S. commissioner of education has met a White House roadblock after protests from organized labor.

The struggle within the Nixon administration over the nomination is proving the first major test of strength for Elliot L. Richardson, new secretary of health, education and welfare.

Administration sources confirmed that Richardson settled almost a month ago on Sidney P. Marland, former Pittsburgh school chief, for the sensivite No. 1 job in the office of education. Marland has a reputation as an innovative, strong administrator who speaks his mind freely.

The White House, however, has yet to approve Richardson's choice and send Marland's name to the Senate for confirmation.

Marland, already on the H.E.W. payroll as a consultant, is meeting almost daily with department officials and has used the undersecretary's office to interview candidates for top jobs in the education office.

Asked about the nomination to be education commissioner, he declined to comment.

Richardson's aides, while expressing confidence. Marland will receive presidential approval, are beginning to show worry over the delay. They freely mention the striking parallel to last year's Knowles affair.

Robert H. Finch, then H.E.W. secretary, met an early defeat when he failed to gain presidential assent for his selection of Dr. John H. Knowles as assistant secretary for health.

The main stumbling block for Knowles was the American Medical Association. Marland's appears to be the strong opposition of the A.F.L.-C.I.O.

The labor federation's executive council called Marland an avowed enemy of collective bargaining for teachers" on Aug. 5 and expressed alarm and concern over published reports of his impending nomination.

The council accused Marland of publicly leading "an attack on unions for teachers" while he was Pittsburgh superintendent.

Marland said in an interview he merely told unions that state law forbade him to bargain exclusively with any one teacher organization.

White House conservatives have also raised questions about Marland's liberal views on school desegregation and federal aid to education, H.E.W. sources said.

Marland supported busing in Pittsburgh and wants more federal school dollars for disadvantaged children. He calls himself a political independent.

President Nixon has condemned busing of school children to achieve racial balance and favors reform of education aid programs before additional outlays are committed.

Marland's views appear to parallel those of James E. Allen Jr., who was fired as education commissioner June 10. Terrell Bell is now acting commissioner.

Womanhood Day Promoted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A mother of eight is promoting Sept. 30 as a national "Celebration of Womanhood Day"—parly to counteract the women's liberation movement "Strike Day" Aug. 26.

Helen Andelin, 50, of Santa Barbara says each wife should wear her "most frilly, feminine dress" Sept. 30 and should "sing before breakfast—or turn on music."

Each wife also should serve her husband "a delicious breakfast with a smile—in bed, if possible" and should "tell him how great he is."

The date has no special significance, she said. Aug. 26 is the 50th anniversary of the day the 19th Amendment went into effect, guaranteeing women the right to vote.

She said women she had contacted in several other cities—including Dallas, Denver and Phoenix—were helping her promote the womanhood day.

She said she also is mailing material to 5,000 persons on a list used by a foundation she established to handle a book, "Fascinating Womanhood," that she wrote five years ago.

"I didn't start out opposing women's liberation movements," Mrs. Andelin said in an interview from Santa Barbara. "I really didn't know much about them five years ago.

"But when I realized that women's lib was destroying our feminity that men love so much, I started speaking out against the movement."

She said most of the women's lib people are "basically unhappy people."

Her husband is a retired dentist who published her book. Her eight children range in age from 8 to 23.

LONG, LONG WAIT — Thousands lined up for shots at San Antonio Tuesday as a diphtheria epidemic continued unabated. This line stretched entirely around Municipal Auditorium, an emergency headquarters opened Tuesday. (AP Wirephoto)

Law Professors Have Filed Brief

BOSTON (AP) — State Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn said Tuesday that more than 30 professors of constitutional law have filed a brief with the U.S. Supreme Court supporting the state in its anti-Vietnam war case.

Quinn recently went to Washington to file with the court the state's case based on a law which says no Massachusetts citizen shall be required to fight in undeclared foreign wars.

Arguments will be presented when the court reconvenes in October.

Quinn said the professors, who joined as "friends of the court," come from 24 schools in 15 states under the chairmanship of Lawrence Velvel of the University of Kansas Law School.

Thousands Get Diphtheria Shot

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Reinforced by Army medics, volunteer nurses and medical school doctors, health officials were geared today to immunize still more thousands in an unabated diphtheria epidemic.

More than 11,000 persons stood in long winding lines Tuesday to receive diphtheria shots while health officials were reporting two new confirmed cases of the disease and 10 suspected cases.

It brought the total to 22 diphtheria cases this month and 52 since Jan. 1—compared to 98 for the past 10 years.

The bout of the sometimes fatal throat infection, worst here since the early 1960s, has been labeled an epidemic. Two children have died.

Dr. William Ross, health district director, said a 1969 survey showed two-thirds of the school age population here is inadequately immunized. Total statistics were unavailable but the largest school district here has more than 75,000 pupils.

The local district of the Texas Nurses Association issued a plea for more volunteer nurses to help give shots to the endless crowds. "We have about 45 volunteers but we need at least three times that," president Hector Gonzalez said.

The Army's Ft. Sam Houston here responded to a health district request with 20 medics who manned immunization stations to administer shots.

A spokesman for the University of Texas Medical School-San Antonio said 21 faculty members also were giving inoculations, and county medical society officials said local doctors were organizing to further reinforce the immunization drive.

In addition to the more than 11,000 inoculated Tuesday, about 21,000 have received shots since the drive began in earnest Aug. 10, Ross said.

He said there is still a large number of susceptible persons here, providing a "fertile field for the diphatheria organism to keep spreading. We've got to wipe out this fertile field."

The main immunization headquarters was switched from the health district office to the basement of the much larger municipal auditorium. Hundreds stood in a line that wrapped around the building at times.

Ross said barricades had to be set up in the auditorium basement to keep the crowds in orderly lines.

'Clique Claque' And Job Gripes

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain

Dear Joyce: Oh boy! A chance at last to talk about the things that hurt but which you can't do much about in an office. My gripe is The Clique – where the witty rule and the dum dums don't have a chance. Whatever the group insiders say sparkles – yak-yak! But try thrusting in your own witticism and they grow pokerfaced and get that "that's funny?" look. Sarcastic Sues should be shot down. I've always felt that a personnel relations class should be given to instill kindness to others.–LOOKING FOR WAY IN SAN JOSE

No, unkindness is not one of the lost arts. And you may encounter this human relations problem in nearly any setting since members of a "clique claque" seek security in self-applause and provincial behavior. You can ignore it and read books at coffee breaks, or – by deliberate cultivation – try to expand the vision of the sneer-sighted club. How? Since strutters need an audience, you might begin by blinding them with a brilliant flash of silence in which you seem to appreciate their humor. I don't know of anybody who ever died of flattery.

* * *

Dear Joyce: I'm a radio station time salesman. I had hoped to stay in this job but if the sales manager doesn't stop chewing me out loud and clear before the whole sales force everytime something goes wrong, I may not be able to stand it much longer. He berates the other guys too but not as often. You said you wouldn't use names on these job gripes; please don't mention where I live either. – ADVERTISING PEDDLER

The sales manager is probably catching it from the station manager and passing it on. You might try reasoning with him over lunch or in a relaxed setting outside the office. With a grin on your face, tell him this job is turning into such a rat race you sometimes feel like going on strike for more cheese. Tell him that you believe your productiity will increase if he can give you his criticism in private so that you're not too embarrassed for his words to sink in. If this works, you too will have to – harder.

* * *

Dear Joyce: What bugs me is bosses who forget they have a secretary. Good morning and good night isn't enough. The money's fine, but we'd work twice as hard if a smile were cast our way more often. – SECRETARY IN HOUSTON

Employment specialists Snelling and Snelling polled some 7,500 secretaries and found that the most prized quality in the dream boss is a sense of humor. The perfect boss, secretaries said, is also frank, considerate, organized, and calm in an emergency.

The bad boss mumbles when he dictates, doesn't say where to reach him when he's out of the office, stalls decisions, always works at a break-neck pace, brings his black moods to the office, and starts dictating 15 minutes before it's time to go home. Bosses who want their secretaries to work twice as hard, take note – please.

* * *

Dear Joyce: I'm the manager of a 14-girl office where one is creating morale problems. Lillian (not her real name) comes in each morning at 9 (starting time) looking like an unmade bed. Then she disappears into the ladies room for 30 minutes before emerging in full warpaint ready for work. I've tried reason and threats. Except for this, she's a good worker and I'd hate to can her. – OFFICE MANAGER IN CLEVELAND

Three possibilities: (1) Without prior announcement, arrange for a photographer to shoot an office group picture at 9 sharp some morning. Place a print on her desk. (2) Occasionally, schedule appointments with male salesmen first thing in the morning. Meet them in the reception room. Lillian will either have to do her grooming at home or bring a paper bag for her head. (3) Meet her at the door with such greetings as "You look like a million this morning. Every year of it."

* * *

What bugs you about your job? I'd like to know. (If I print your letter, I won't use your name.) Send your job gripes to Joyce Lain in care of the Editor of this newspaper.

Schools Won't Recommend Any Plan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two East Texas school districts moved Tuesday to retain their freedom-of-choice integration plans in defiance of federal government efforts to achieve faster desegregation.

Beaumont South Park school trustees, backed unanimously by about 300 white and Negro residents, voted not to recommend any federal desegregation plan. The district is one of several in Texas named in federal desegregation suits.

Trustees of the Center school voted 4-3 to reject a previously adopted volunteer plan of desegregation.

The volunteer plan had been in effect since last year and had involved pairing with the formerly all-Negro C. H. Daniels school.

The Beaumont trustees defeated 4-2 a motion that urged the rejection of any U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare plan. But they accepted the motion not to recommend any plan.

Mrs. Marie Hubbard, a Negro, told the trustees, "We don't want to move our children any more than you do. Let's stop considering color in connection with our schools."

Board members unanimously accepted a motion by George Hudspeth, a Negro trustee, that the black schools in the district be kept open.

Former Beaumont city councilman Gene Fears, who sponsored the motion against any federal plan, said, "They can move federal troops into town but our children will attend the school of their choice."

Mrs. Crockett Sure Of Girl

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Despite there having been only one girl born to the Crockett family in 91 years, Mrs. Gene Crockett was so sure the next child would be a girl that she sewed 25 feminine baby outfits.

Genia was born May 5, proving Mrs. Crockett right, the 8-pound, 4-ounce granddaughter was born to Mrs. Ronald Holt, Mrs. Crockett's daughter, Karen.

Ford Expects Tougher Competition From Japan

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — American car makers will face tougher competition from Japanese imports than from the Volkswagen as they try to sell their new subcompacts, Henry Ford II says.

"The Japanese have good styling, good quality and that makes them good competition," Ford said Tuesday. "We feel they are going to be the more difficult contenders."

Ford, board chairman of Ford Motor Co., was in Las Vegas for the introduction of the 1971 Ford and Lincoln-Mercury automobiles.

He predicted that the subcompacts would reverse the upward trend in foreign car sales in this country and that Ford's subcompact Pinto, to be unveiled Thursday, will outsell Volkswagen.

Foreign car sales rose from 12 to 13 per cent of total U.S. auto sales in the past year.

Volkswagen accounted for about half those sales. Japanese cars, primarily Toyota and Datsun, accounted for about one-third of them.

American Motors was the first U.S. manufacturer into the subcompact field with its Gremlin, introduced in the spring. General Motors will introduce its subcompact Vega on Sept. 10, a day before Pinto arrives in showrooms.

The Japanese don't have the U.S. marketing experience and dealer outlets built up by Volkswagen, but Ford said he expects them to overcome those obstacles soon.

A Florida scientist said Tuesday that Datsun signed a multimillion-dollar contract with him for production rights to a freon-powered engine that he said is pollution-free.

Ford said he had never heard of the engine.

The price of the Pinto will not be made public until shortly before it goes into the showroom, but it will be "directly competitive" with the Volkswagen and other small inports, Ford said.

Dealers have been told that prices on other Ford and Lincoln-Mercury models will be up 5 per cent from 1970, Ford said.

"We have had some horrendous increases in the cost of materials and labor in the past years," said Ford, "as well as increased costs for emission control and safety equipment. Price increases in the past have not equaled our increased costs."

The success of American automotive makers in the subcompact market and other areas hinges on the settlement resulting from contract negotiations in progress with the United Auto Workers, Ford said, but he refused to comment on the negotiations.

HE SAW LIGHT AFTER HOUR AND HALF — Rescuers dig free David Scanlon, 21, who was buried with two fellow workmen in a Philadelphia construction cavein Tuesday. Scanlon was completely covered and it took other workmen 90 minutes to dig him free. He suffered a fracture of the right leg. The other two were trapped up to their waists. Construction was underway for off-street parking. (AP Wirephoto)

LBJ To Speak At Dinner

AUSTIN (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson will speak at a $100-a-plate dinner in Houston Sept. 10 launching Democrat Lloyd Bentsen's fall campaign drive for the U.S. Senator.

Bentsen attended a $100-a-plate dinner for Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes at which Johnson spoke last Friday.

Announcement of the Houston speech was made through Bentsen's headquarters by lawyer Fred Hofheinz, chairman for the dinner.

Hofheinz said the affair in Albert Thomas Hall not only will launch Bentsen's fall campaign drive but "it also will signal the start of something much bigger than that—a concerted drive by Texas Democrats to meet the challenge of the 1970s."

Hofheinz said the dinner will be a "fun affair...but it also will represent a big step forward, away from Republican high interest rates, tight money, inflation and unemployment... Unless we get to work and help Lloyd Bentsen raise the campaign funds he needs, Texas' chances for keeping a Democrat—and a native Texan—in the U.S. Senate could be buried under tons of Republican money."

Ford Originally Owned Forest

MANCHESTER, Ky. (AP) — A large part of the Daniel Boone National Forest in Southeastern Kentucky was originally purchased by the Ford Motor Co.

Ford bought the land in 1920 to use the timber for automobile bodies and still owns some of it.

Wood disappeared from automobile bodies and the government started buying the land in 1965.

The U.S. Forest Service now holds more than 100,000 acres of the forest land that includes parts of 12 counties.

Consumers Can Expect Utility Rate Increases

By JEAN HELLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — World-wide shortages and skyrocketing prices for fuel oil have hit American utility companies so hard that the result could be across-the-board utility rate hikes for the nation's consumers, a high Nixon administration official says.

The crisis involves residual fuel oil, used principally by heavy industry and utility companies. Since the first of the year, the price of foreign-produced residual fuel oil has doubled and American fuel oil prices have increased by about 40 per cent.

Nearly two-thirds of the residual oil used in this country is imported.

"Utility companies are being hit hard," George A. Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, said in an interview.

Asked if this meant a possible rise in electricity rates, Lincoln said, "It certainly does."

"In most places, there's a rate adjustment tied to the cost of fuel so that when a utility company's fuel costs go up, electricity rates go up, too," Lincoln said.

"Some states have provisions that limit such rate increases to industry users of power, but this is the exception. In most places increases are provided for right across the board."

Lincoln would not predict when and by how much utility rates might be affected, but he held out little hope that much could be done to alleviate the crisis any time soon.

He was interviewed Tuesday following a press briefing at which he discussed the administration's decision earlier this week to scrap a proposed revision in the nation's oil import control program.

The revision would have substituted a system of tariffs on foreign petroleum products for the 11-year-old quota system. In abandoning the tariff proposal, the administration decided to concentrate on improving the quota system.

Residual fuel oil, however, is not affected by the import controls. Because the nation's needs could never be met from domestic supplies, all limitations on importing foreign residual fuel oils were lifted in 1966.

But the crisis in fuel oil supply has continued to grow.

Since the first of the year, the cost of foreign residual oil has risen from about $2 a barrel to $4 a barrel and American residual oil has gone from $2.50 a barrel to $3.60.

Coupled with the dramatic price rise there has been a drastic increase in demand, Lincoln said.

The shortages in fuel oil are attributed to a number of factors, including the Mideast political situation and growing demand worldwide.

One major cause for the increased demand, Lincoln said, was that residual fuel oil can be refined to a low sulphur content, a major requirement in many air pollution control programs.

"Whatever cost we're paying," he said, "should be chalked up to the cost of cleaning up our environment. If you're for clean air, then this is one of the prices you're going to pay. Nobody ever said it would be cheap to clean up our world, and we're just now finding out how really expensive it can and is going to be."

Dumping Site Is Switched

EARLE, N.J. (AP) — The U.S. Navy has switched the site of a planned dumping of 5,000 tons of explosives from 150 miles off the New Jersey coast to 135 miles off the shore of Maryland.

A ship was to be sunk Thursday 150 miles east of Barnegat Light and less than a mile from where a ship of obsolete mustard gas and contaminated gas cannisters was sunk in May 1967.

The Navy said Tuesday the site was changed because of "public concern" and to ensure "absolute safety."

A Navy spokesman said, however, there would have been "no danger" that an accidental explosion at the original site might have ruptured containers of mustard gas and contaminated the water. He said this was because the mustard gas has solidified at the 6,500-foot depth.

The new site is about 135 miles west of Maryland and 111 miles southeast of Barnegat and 88 miles southwest of the ship containing mustard gas, the spokesman said.

The spokesman said the explosives are "conventional types" that came from Army installations across the nation.

No explosion is expected, a Navy spokesman said, but he added that some explosives might be detonated by increased water pressure as they near the ocean floor, about 7,200 feet deep.

The munitions, on what the Navy describes as a "hulk," are to be towed from Sandy Hook by the Coast Guard vessel Tamaroa today with the USS Cromwell standing by. The sinking will take place at dawn Thursday.

Judge Ordered To Speak Up Proceedings

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Texas federal judge was ordered Tuesday to speed up proceedings for six Texas school districts involved in desegregation suits.

Chief U.S. District Judge Joe Estes had rejected a demand by the U.S. Justice Department to settle the issue before the schools opened. Instead, he set pretrial conferences for Sept. 10—from 10 to 20 days after the schools were scheduled to begin classes.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here ruled that to wait until the September date for the preliminary conferences would, in effect, deny the original suit seeking school integration.

The independent school districts involved are Ferris, Garland, Lubbock, Richardson, San Angelo and Wichita Falls.

The court referred to earlier orders instructing that all school cases under its jurisdiction were to be settled to "accomplish a unitary system of pupil attendance with the start of the fall 1970 school term."

The Justice Department had appealed Judge Estes' decision in order to force him to act before the schools open.

The New Orleans court said it may be necessary in one or all instances to delay school openings, but "we deem it less disruptive to postpone the opening of the school for a very brief interval than to effect total desegregation after the schools are in operation."

"These matters are to receive top priority in calendaring and dispositions," the court said.

Zsa Zsa Robbed

NEW YORK (AP) — Two gunmen robbed Zsa Zsa Gabor of more than $600,000 worth of jewelry early today in an elevator of her Waldorf-Towers residence, police said.

Miss Gabor, currently starring in the Broadway comedy "Forty Carats," said the losses included a set of earrings and a ring valued at nearly half a million dollars.

"I am very upset," the actress told police. "I was afraid they would kill us. They threatened me and my housekeeper, Margaret, with guns."

Police said two well-dressed men entered the garage-level elevator of the hotel with the women shortly before 1 a.m.

As the elevator ascended, the men pulled guns and took the jewelry, police said. Then the men stopped the elevator, sent it to the basement, and before getting out, pressed the button that sent the women to the 34th floor.

Later, Miss Gabor, dressed in flowered, hostess-length culottes, arrived at police headquarters in a white-upholstered, black Rolls-Royce to look at police photos.

"I looked at hundreds of pictures and didn't see anyone who looked like them," she said.

CBW Treaty Ratification Requested

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon submitted today to the Senate for ratification a 45-year-old treaty outlawing gas warfare, contending it would not prohibit use of defoliants or tear gas.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, senior Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee, predicted clear sailing for the 1925 Geneva protocol because of Nixon's interpretations it will allow use of such chemicals as tear gas and herbicides.

"It probably won't have any serious difficulty in clearing the Foreign Relations Committee and the Senate," Aiken said. "It depends on what he says about tear gas."

Nixon previewed his message for congressional leaders Tuesday. His interpretation, they said, is that the agreement covers only gases harmful to man. Defoliants—such as are used in the Vietnam war—are exempted because they were not known when the treaty was drawn.

The issue of defoliating chemicals has been a major reason for delay in submission of the treaty to the Senate since Nixon announced his intention last December, sources say.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, who said he intends to support the treaty as a move in the right direction, said the U.S. statement would go "a long way toward knocking out the offensive aspects" of gas and biological warfare while limiting some defensive aspects of chemical and biological warfare (CBW).

The U.S. statement, Mansfield told reporters, indicates "we're willing to go a good deal further than the text itself."

When Nixon announced his administration agreed to limit CBW activities, the President said he would ask the Senate to ratify the treaty.
