Oops, There Went Another Bridge

Heavy rains during the weekend caused collapse of a 50-ft. bridge on SH 76 (Andrews highway) sometime Saturday night. What was formerly a minor ravine now is a "miniature grand canyon," said highway workers who are building a detour road at the spot two miles west of Big Spring. The ditch was washed out to 20 feet deep and 20 to 50 feet wide, and the concrete floor of the bridge is now resting on the bottom of the gap in the highway, and the understructure probably is embedded in the sand. Fortunately, the washout was discovered soon after it occurred and barriers were erected. Currently traffic is being routed around via IS 20 and FM 2399, the Hartwells Road. (Photo by Sam Blackburn)

Tax Bill Readied For Teacher Pay

Dominican Junta Spurns Peace Plan

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican junta today posed the threat of an all-out drive against the rebels after rejecting a new peace plan offered by Washington.

As the junta sent tanks and fresh troops with mortars and artillery against rebel holdouts in northern Santo Domingo, Foreign Minister Horacio Vicioso warned that all resistance would be crushed unless the insurgents drop their "absurd and unacceptable pretensions."

SPURNS COALITION

The junta president, Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera, rejected a U.S. proposal reportedly calling for a coalition, saying it would open the way to a Communist takeover.

The plan offered by presidential assistant McGeorge Bundy and three other officials from Washington reportedly called for a government headed by Antonio Guzman, agriculture minister under exiled President Juan Bosch.

Guzman was known to be acceptable to the rebel regime headed by Col. Francisco Caamaño Deno. The rebels originally sought the return of Bosch and of the constitution which was junked when the military overthrew him.

CALLS "PUPPET"

Imbert called Guzman a "Bosch puppet." He said he reminded the U.S. envoys that a prime U.S. aim was to prevent the Dominican Republic from falling under Red domination. U.S. spokesmen have begun retreating from Washington's original contention that Communists were dominating the rebel movement.

Second Polish Defection Told

BERLIN (AP) — Another defection from Poland's diplomatic colony in Berlin was reported today by U.S. authorities. The 19-year-old son of East Berlin escaped to West Berlin two weeks ago and asked for political asylum.

The chief of the Polish military mission in West Berlin, Wladyslaw Tykocinski, defected Sunday and was flown to West Germany. U.S. officials said his request for political asylum in the United States was under consideration.

The economic attaché's son was Marek Radomski, who presented a diplomatic passport to the East German border guards at checkpoint Charlie on May 5 and crossed through the Berlin wall.

On the West Berlin side, Radomski told U.S. military police at the checkpoint that he wanted political asylum.

U.S. officials contacted Tykocinski's Polish mission in West Berlin and arranged for Polish diplomats to talk to the boy to satisfy them that his decision was entirely voluntary.

A telephone conversation between the youth and his mother also was arranged, but Marek did not change his decision to stay in the West, a U.S. spokesman said.

RODEO TIME COMING UP

Big Spring is all geared for the opening of its 32nd annual rodeo on Wednesday, and activities will kick off with a big downtown parade at 4 p.m.

In addition to scores of riders, there will be half a dozen floats competing for prizes. Hard on the heels of the parade there will be a barbecue for the public and one for visiting riding groups and queens.

The weather outlook for Wednesday is partly cloudy with no showers predicted. For more details on the show, turn to page one of Section B.

School Plaque Bill Approved

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts Senate has passed a bill providing that a plaque reading, "For God and country," may be placed in public schools.

SAME SONG, SECOND VERSE—AUTO SHOW TO TRY IT AGAIN

Second verse, same song on the Auto Show. Well rained out last Saturday, the spring demonstration of 1965 model cars will be staged again this Saturday. Franchised automobile dealers of the city met Monday and agreed to a cooperative showing again. The place will be on the First National Bank's parking lot, Fifth and Main, as before, and hours will be 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., as before. And the panorama of sleek new automobiles will be offered again. Registration will be continued again this week for a free color TV set, to be given away. There is no obligation, and no requirement to be present at the drawing. Registration can be done at the Auto Show.

The new car display attracted large crowds Saturday morning, but the storms from noon on forced a quick close-out, and a delay on the TV drawing. This week, everything takes up right where it left off.

Delivers Goods

Lt. Col. Harry G. Howton, commander of the 311th Air commando squadron operating in South Viet Nam, has the nickname "Harry the Horse" and the reputation of "delivering the goods." This is the third war for the 47-year-old father of three from Birmingham, Ala. He got his sobriquet from the fact that his unit of lumbering C123s are the workhorses of the war. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Cong Training Camp Attacked

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese ground forces and U.S. helicopters killed 128 Viet Cong fighters and captured 31 in three operations today and Monday. But 11 government troops were killed and 58 were missing in a Viet Cong attack on a hamlet 100 miles east of Saigon.

More than a battalion of South Vietnamese troops hit a Viet Cong training camp 30 miles south of the Da Nang Air Base early today. During seven hours of fighting they killed at least 40 guerrillas and captured six, U.S. officials reported after a body count of the dead.

There was no immediate report of government casualties in this operation.

CONG ATTACK
In Binh Tuy Province, two companies of Viet Cong attacked a village 65 miles east of Saigon Monday. Four U.S. helicopters battered the Communists while ground troops reinforced a regional-forces company defending the village. A U.S. spokesman said 50 Viet Cong were killed—30 of them by fire from the helicopters—while five of the defenders were killed and four were wounded.

SERIES OF RAIDS
Vietnamese marines made a series of sweep operations Monday in Kon Tum Province, 60 miles north of Saigon, and killed 38 Viet Cong, a U.S. spokesman said.

The government setback came in Binh Thuan Province, where a Viet Cong company infiltrated a hamlet.

In the air, U.S. Navy and Air Force jets flew 153 sorties against suspected Communist positions in South Viet Nam. For the sixth consecutive day no attacks on North Viet Nam were reported.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson urged Congress today to repeal Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act and thus wipe out right-to-work laws in 19 states.

Johnson also asked Congress to extend minimum wage coverage to an additional 4.5 million workers. He did not recommend an increase in the present federal minimum of $1.25 an hour, a major goal of labor leaders.

"The question is not whether the minimum wage should be increased but when and by how much," Johnson said in his labor message to Congress.

"The Congress should consider carefully the effects of higher minimum wage rates on the incomes of those employed, and also on costs and prices, and on job opportunities—particularly for the flood of teenagers now entering our labor force."

Johnson also recommended legislation to discourage overtime work in order to spread employment by boosting the overtime pay requirements from time and one-half to double time.

NOT SPECIFIC
The message was not specific on the point, but administration sources had indicated in advance they expected a proposal to apply the double pay formula only after 48 hours of work, leaving time and one-half in effect between 40 and 48 hours.

In another recommendation, Johnson asked Congress to over-

Lawmakers Relieved By Compromise

AUSTIN (AP) — With all the mystery and secrecy of a James Bond movie, Texas teachers and Gov. John Connally shook hands Monday over a compromise $101 million pay raise plan.

Before the sigh of relief stopped echoing through Capitol corridors the Senate approved the negotiated pact and sent it to the House, where a blank form tax bill is being prepared to pay the state's $70 million share of the cost.

Sen. Jack Strong of Longview estimated local school boards might have to hike taxes about 3 per cent to meet their estimated $31 million added costs.

PAY SCHEDULE

To the 105,000 school teachers, including 95,000 members of the powerful Texas State Teachers Association, final passage of the pay raise will mean:

A beginning salary for those with bachelor of arts degrees of $4,104 instead of the current $4,014.

(Related story on Page 10-B)

Then a graduated salary increase reaching $6,516 for a teacher with a master's degree and 18 years experience, compared to the present $5,427.

Additional raises up to $500 a year if a local school board wants to put up 20 cents for 80 cents the state offers.

HIKED REWARDS

Plus increased financial rewards for teachers with advanced education and longer experience. The handshaking, picture-taking compromise session in the governor's reception room ended four months of toe-to-toe battling between Connally and the TSTA that threatened to block other pending legislation before this session ends May 31.

Throughout the day Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, Speaker Ben Barnes, and other legislative leaders slipped in and out the governor's back office door. Each appearance started new rumors.

NO COMMENT

Strong and Sen. A. M. Alkin, author of the TSTA bill in the Senate, reappeared after one session with broad grins but no comment.

The 95 House members who signed the TSTA bill held a closed session and ejected reporters who tried to attend. The 35 House supporters of the governor's original plan held another secret session.

"There was no acceptance or rejection," reported Rep. George Hinson of Mineola, author of the TSTA House bill. "They just want to know more about it. . . . As far as I am personally concerned I think this (compromise) is a pretty good bill. I will sponsor it in the House."

"GOOD BILL"
"This is a good bill, an excellent bill, on which both sides have given and taken," Connally said.

"This bill is not for the teachers of Texas—this bill is for the children of the state and I think this will be good for the state," Alkin told the Senate.

Connally won acceptance of basic argument that teachers with more experience and education should get higher salaries.

He also won a bookkeeping provision in the bill that will maintain an 80-20 ratio of state-local support of schools as near as possible. However, he had to drop attempts to make local districts pay 20 per cent of the state's share of teacher retirement and textbooks.

ABANDON STAND

TSTA backers were forced to abandon a no-compromise stand that until last week saw them insisting they could put through the "45 in '65" or $405 annual across the board increase whether Connally liked it or not.

There was no formal announcement but the word got around that Connally would veto a straight TSTA bill plus any tax bill to finance it.

The $101 million compromise package, including $31 million from local funds, compares to the TSTA original $93 million package including $17 million in local funds and Connally's original $58 million plan with $27 million in local funds.

Special 78th Legislative Election Called June 26

A special election to name a new member of the Texas House of Representatives from the 78th legislative district will be held on Saturday, June 26.

The date was set in a special order of Gov. John Connally issued in Austin today.

The election will be to select a man to fill the unexpired term of the late Ed Carpenter, who died of a heart attack in Austin on May 11.

On the special election ballot, there will be no party affiliation, nor is there provision for a runoff. The "top man" wins. Filing of candidacies must be in the hands of the Secretary of State in Austin by midnight May 27. There is a $5 filing fee.

A number of possible candidates have been discussed, but as of this morning only two had definitely advised The Herald they will file in the race.

These are Frank Hardesty, Howard County Democratic chairman and long-time leader in party affairs, and Roger Dale Brown, attorney in Big Spring.

Brown in 1962 was county manager of Gov. John Connally's campaign, while Hardesty has handled several Democratic campaigns, including those of U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough. Hardesty said he had no legal ruling on his status as Democratic chairman, but that he would resign that post if elected in the special legislative referendum.

The 78th district is made up of seven counties: Howard, Martin, Glasscock, Sterling, Reagan, Irion and Coke.

Roadway Bond Election Set June 22 By Court

Property-owning voters of Howard County will be asked to vote on June 22 on the issuance of $600,000 in bonds to finance right-of-way purchases to open the way for a new series of highway development projects.

The election date formally was fixed by the County Commissioners Court Monday, in response to petitions for the election which bore 345 names.

The program has been in the making for some time, as efforts were made to keep Howard County active in needed road improvement.

FM 700 JOBS

Top priority will be given to the purchase of needed land for extending FM 700 from its present terminus at IS 20 on the east side of the city, northward to tie in to SH 350 (the Snyder Highway); and to similar land purchase for the straightening, widening and general modernizing of FM 700 westward, from its intersection with Goliad, across US 87, and on to a new connection with US 80 west.

The latter segment carries some of the heaviest traffic movement in the county. Future planning on this project envisions a grade separation at FM 700 and US 87, one of the busiest intersections in the area.

STATE READY

The FM 700 jobs would serve to help bring about a "loop" around the city. The State Highway Department has expressed an interest in developing the work as fast as possible, as soon as the county provides right of way, as required under the state highway building program.

The north segment of FM 700, as a matter of fact, has been in readiness by the state for some time, with construction money allotted, and Highway Department officials have pressed for local action.

Howard County has had no major state construction since the IS 20 jobs were completed, and advocates of the new projects have stressed the need for continuity in road development, to meet needs, to make an addition to the economy, and to safeguard the present employment level of the Highway Department's district offices in Big Spring.

TOP OF 7 CENTS

County commissioners conferred at length Monday with their fiscal counsel, Carter Johnston of Rauscher, Pierce & Co. They determined to have the bonds mature in a 10-year period, and in studying such schedule, said the required tax for the $600,000 bonds would be no more than 7 cents. It could possibly be less, owing to interest rate at which the bonds sell, and the timetable for issuing them.

The county had a tax rate of $1.07 for the years 1961 and 1962. It was reduced to $1.05 in 1963, and again was cut to $1 for the current year, as old bond issues were paid off.

The county has a bonded indebtedness of $1,025,000, against total current valuations of $60,334,188. It is among the strongest counties in the state financially, Johnston said.

Tax collections for the past five years have run better than 97 per cent, and Johnston's fiscal schedule was based on a 95 per cent returns. His schedule also anticipated an interest rate on the proposed bonds of 3 1/4 per cent, and at the current market, he felt this was a high figure.

The county assesses on 20 per cent of valuation.

Monday's election order included the standard provisions for setting up the usual polling places, naming of judges, fixing polling hours from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. and providing for absentee voting at the county clerk's office.

Commissioners were unanimous in their decision on the program, voting on a motion by Joe Hayden and seconded by L. J. Davidson. All of them said they would give full support to the project, which also has the endorsement of the Chamber of Commerce and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Texas Oil, Gas Association Elects

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Independent operator L. W. Brooks Jr. of Breckenridge is the new president of the West Central Texas Oil and Gas Association.

He was elected at the annual meeting Monday. About 250 attended.

Other new officers are A. V. Jones Jr. of Albany and Scott Taliaferro of Abilene, vice presidents. Re-elected were vice presidents Harry Elliott and J. D. Tompkins, both of Abilene, and treasurer Bailey Lewis of Abilene.

Much of the excess has been "created artificially by unrealistic levels of oil imports," True said.

Bill Vetoes By Connally

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Connally has vetoed a bill which would have laid the groundwork for junior colleges in sparsely populated counties.

In his veto of the bill by Rep. Jesse George of Brownfield, the governor said Monday that any alteration of standards for establishing junior colleges should come only after study by the State Board of Education and should apply statewide.

George's bill was worded to apply only to Yoakum County, in the South Plains. But Connally implied other small counties would have followed suit.

Knott 4-H Club Shows Emergency Water Plan

Knott — Two members of the Knott 4-H Club, Linda Shaw and Mike McClain, put on a demonstration of how to prepare an emergency water supply, for directors of the Howard County Farm Bureau at its meeting May 11 at the office. The emergency supply is prepared for use in the event of any catastrophe which might cut off or contaminate the regular supply for homes.

ACC Psychology Students On Field Trip To Hospital

Thirty students from the psychology department of Abilene Christian College toured the Big Spring State Hospital today. Bob Whitaker, class instructor, said he tried to bring his classes to the local hospital at least once each semester to show the students the function of a mental hospital and first hand knowledge of the mentally ill.

"A student can read a half-dozen books and still get more out of one trip to the hospital," he said.

The students were welcomed to the hospital by Mrs. Mary Cochran, assistant volunteer coordinator. A series of three lectures preceded the tour of the hospital.

Floyd Reibold, of the hospital's psychology department, spoke to the students on the role of the psychology department in a mental hospital. He left most of his talk to a question and answer period.

Dr. Joan Wood, staff psychiatrist, spoke on the adolescent special project program.

The last lecture was delivered by Walter Widger, head of the hospital's social services.

After the lunch break, Mrs. Ollie Jolley, director of nursing, conducted the students on the tour of the hospital. Included in the tour was a stop at the occupational therapy ward, the medical and surgical building and four patient wards.

Dr. Preston Harrison, superintendent of the hospital, ended the day's activities with his lecture, the philosophy of treatment.

Computer Is Used For Reservations

An IBM computer system linking Big Spring's Holiday Inn to all other Holiday Inn units, via a central computer at the Memphis, Tenn., headquarters, is being installed at the Inn here this week.

The system will provide information for all Inns on the status of all others regarding rooms for reservations. In most cases, reservations at any other Holiday Inn can be made and confirmed in a period of about 15 seconds, said John Anderson, IBM representative.

The system will send and receive information on the date of arrival, number of rooms wanted, type of room, number of beds, number of nights wanted and whether the reservations can be made or not. Each Inn has been given a code number for the system. In addition three alternate Inns are listed for each area and if the first reservations check proves no rooms are available there, the alternates can be checked.

HCJC Faculty Gets Substantial Raise

Contingent upon the governor signing the appropriations bill, Howard County Junior College faculty members will come in for healthy salary increases next year.

Trustees Monday approved a new salary schedule which basically raises pay $900 across the board, accounting for percentage increases of 14.3 for those with doctor's degrees and 16.6 per cent with masters who are beginning tenure. This would reduce to about three per cent at the end of 10 years, but over a 20 year tenure the percentage would rise again. This is because the new schedule grants a $100 annual increment spread over 20 years rather than $200 per annum spread over 10 years as under the current scale.

NEW SCALE

The new schedule calls for $6,200 per annum for a beginning instructor with a masters degree, goes to $6,500 if as many as 30 hours additional study in major field have been completed (this currently is $250). If all work toward a doctorate has been completed except the dissertation, the scale increases by another $300 (now $250). The beginning instructor with a Ph.D. degree will get $7,200 per annum.

An instructor with 10 years experience will get $7,200 with a master's degree and $8,200 with a doctor's degree; with 20 years experience a master's degree instructor will get $8,200 and a Ph.D. will get $9,200.

Experience is accounted on the basis of actual college-level teaching or two years of acceptable high school teaching to equal one year of college-level teaching. The scale also fixed substitute teacher scales at $6 per hour for bachelor degree instructors, $8 for master degree.

HCJC is down for $247,700 per annum under the new appropriations bill as compared to the present $163,740. Moreover, and $10 for Ph.D. instructors may not be assigned class loads of more than 18 semester hours. Summer instructors will be paid at the rate of $150 per semester hour taught or a maximum of $600 for a four-hour course.

OTHER RAISES

In addition, the board approved the addition of $900 per annum to the academic dean, dean of women, registrar, business manager, librarian, $1,000 for the librarian, $500 for dormitory supervisors, and $200 for the night school assistant.

Dr. W. A. Hunt, president, said that the salary increase was made possible by the substantially greater state support, which is earmarked for instruction cost, and was made necessary by generally higher scales which make faculty recruitment most difficult unless adjusted. He said the adopted scale would put HCJC at about the two-thirds mark between high and low among Texas junior colleges.

MORE STATE FUNDS

HCJC is down for $247,700 per annum under the new appropriations bill as compared to the present $163,740. Moreover, most administrative personnel may now be considered under the state assistant, whereas these now are purely local responsibility. Even after raising the pay of about 30 instructors and administrators, the college will still be in stronger financial position, Dr. Hunt said.

The board accepted the resignation of Jack Hendrix, head of the music department, to accept a similar post at Odessa College; Dr. Melvin Crawford, assistant to the president, to become an associate professor of physical education and health at Northeastern Oklahoma State College; and John Harley, chairman of the social studies department, to pursue doctoral studies at Texas Christian University.

NEW INSTRUCTORS

Dal Herring, who is completing his master's work at Sul Ross and teaching in Alpine High School, was elected as an instructor in English and journalism at a salary of $6,300.

Wayne Bonner, currently with Big Spring High School, was elected director of guidance at $8,000; Mrs. Harlan Hulbert, also with BSHS, was elected business instructor at $6,500.

Dr. P. W. Malone reported on a conference with Big Spring school officials on the fieldhouse plans at Memorial Stadium and said they were progressing satisfactorily. Dr. Hunt said that the college's application for $304,000 under the college facilities bill looks like it will bear fruit in July.

Four City Crews Begin Collecting Cleanup Trash

Four special sanitation department crews are working in the city this week as part of the annual cleanup week effort here. The crews began Monday in the area from Lancaster to Goliad, south of Second Street.

Today the crews are working from Goliad Street east, Public Works Director Ernest Lillard said.

Items not normally collected in the regular sanitation department collections are being picked up by the special crews.

The special pickups will continue until the city is fully covered, Lillard said, or about two weeks. Wet alleys are providing some problem in the collections, slowing the trucks in their coverage.

Street department crews are continuing work cleaning and repairing city streets after the weekend's heavy rains. Workers were also cleaning inlets to various drainage areas in the city today.

Burchett Service Is Set For Today

Services for Robert Lee Burchett, 47, were held at 2 p.m. today in River-Welch Funeral Chapel with Rev. Darrell Robinson officiating and assisted by Rev. Jack Thompson. Burial followed in Trinity Memorial Park.

Mr. Burchett died Sunday of an apparent heart attack while on a fishing trip at Devils River near Del Rio. He was born in Waxahachie Aug. 25, 1917, and had been a Howard County resident since the early 1920's.

Survivors include his mother, three brothers, and two sisters.

Funeral services were Harold Smith, Ned Smith, Glenn Smith, Boyd Smith, Donald Hale, and Delbert Burchett.

Bridges Infant Dies Here Monday

Services will be held at Iowa Park, Texas, for Robert Larry Bridges, infant son of Airman 2.C. and Mrs. Ronald D. Bridges, Ellis Homes. The child died at 9:25 a.m. Monday in a local hospital. Time of services has not been fixed.

Local arrangements are being handled by Nalley-Pickles Funeral Home. Survivors include the parents, Airman 2.C. and Mrs. Ronald D. Bridges; the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Bridges, Lubbock; and the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Dee Allen, Iowa Park.

Rites Set For Mrs. Andrews

Services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Church of God in Christ No. 1 for Mrs. Lee Andrews, 52, of 1103 NW 8th, who died Monday in a local hospital after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Andrews had been a resident of Howard County for the past 26 years. She was preceded in death by her husband, Hamlet G. Andrews, about six weeks ago.

She was born Sept. 1, 1912 at Ben Franklin.

The Rev. T. O. McGee, pastor of the Church of God in Christ No. 1, will officiate at services. Mrs. Andrews was a member of that church. Burial will be in City Cemetery beside her husband, under direction of Nalley-Pickles Funeral Home.

Survivors include three sisters, Mrs. Della Wright, Odessa, Mrs. Willie Davis and Mrs. Anna Baker, both of Big Spring; four grandchildren, several nieces and nephews.

Transfer Deadline Is Set For June 1

Walker Bailey, county superintendent, has warned that June 1 is deadline for the parents of children who need transfer to file applications with his office.

He stressed transfers will be needed only by children who transfer from one school district to another school district within the county. Pupils who are changing schools within a district — as from Goliad to Rannels, for example — need not apply with Bailey. His office has nothing to do with these purely local district cases.

Justice Balks At The Magic Words

Walter Grice, justice of the peace, had a golden opportunity to make some very easy money last night.

All he would have had to do was say six little words and he would have been paid $25. He refused the tempting offer, however.

He said that his door bell rang about 2 a.m. At the door was a highly distraught young man.

This man, the justice said, was in urgent need of an instant marriage ceremony—one without fanfare, license or other folderol.

"Look," pleaded the caller, "just let me get the girl. Then you say 'I pronounce you man and wife.' That's all. I'll pay you $25."

Grice declined and the worried stranger vanished into the night.

DEAR ABBY

She Likes Her Life

DEAR ABBY: I wish people would quit feeling sorry for a woman just because she's not married. I am 36, unmarried and intend to stay this way. I have been married (twice) so it isn't like I don't know what I'm missing.

I earn my own living, pay my own bills and don't have to nag a man to give me a dollar every time I need one. I come and go as I please and don't have to worry about a two-timing, lying husband who thinks he's doing me a favor by living with me. Don't think I'm lonesome because I'm far from it. I have four steady boy friends and I see them as much as I want to. And, believe me, I like it better this way.

INDEPENDENT

DEAR INDEPENDENT: I'm sure your "boy friends" like it better this way, too. So what's the problem?

DEAR ABBY: I first became acquainted with the woman across the hall when I heard a child screaming so loud I thought someone was killing her. I later learned it was the usual mealtime battle. Penny is four years old and the way her mother explained it, she's always been a very poor eater. The mother said she took the child to the doctor and he said there was nothing wrong with her — they should put the food in front of her and if she didn't eat it, take it away. And when Penny got hungry enough, she'd eat. The mother said she tried it once but it didn't work, and she couldn't stand to see the child "starve," so now she holds the kid's nose and forces the food down her. The child gets nervous and upset and gives the food back afterwards, so I can't see where this method is any good. Have you or any of your readers any suggestions for making a child eat?

FRIENDLY NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: The doctor offered the best suggestion. Urge your neighbor to follow his orders before she has to take the child back to him with a more serious problem.

DEAR ABBY: My father-in-law is a lonesome widower. He constantly presses expensive gifts on my husband and me, saying, "You'll get everything I have after I die, anyway," and, "What does an old man like me need money for?" We really don't need the gifts, but it's hard to turn down new cars, good furniture, trips, etc. The problem is that he's trying to build up an obligation on our part to invite him to live with us, which would be disaster. Generosity is his only virtue. He drinks too much, is a hypochondriac, talks endlessly about himself, and has a dull personality. My husband (who loves him) and I (who tolerate him) agree that it would never work out to have him live with us. We don't want to hurt him unnecessarily. How should we react to his gifts and offers?

NAMELESS, NATURALLY

DEAR NAMELESS: Simply refuse his gifts — and offers — and you'll have no problem.

Problems? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bear Won't Carry Radio

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — For at least one black bear, transistor radios are strictly for teenagers.

The State Department of Natural Resources trapped the 200-pound bear, fitted him with a collar carrying a small radio transmitter, then released him Monday in the wilderness of the Olympic Peninsula.

The idea, forest scientists said, was to trace his movements as part of research into animal-caused damage to forests.

Later in the day, officials reported the bear had lost the collar.

"We have a radio, but no bear," said Donald Hopkins, forest management supervisor. Hopkins said the project would continue with tighter collars.

Marijuana Seized, Two Men Arrested

HOUSTON (AP)—Police seized marijuana they valued at $15,000 Monday night and charged two men with illegal possession of narcotics.

Red River Basin Funds Requested

WASHINGTON (AP) — A four-state delegation urged Monday an appropriation of $29,962,000 this year for the Red River development program in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Headed by C. A. Fairbanks of Pineville, La., president, and L. R. Matthias of Shreveport, executive vice president, of the Red River Valley Association, the group testified before a House Appropriations subcommittee considering funds for various water projects.

The appropriation sought by the association is $4,028,000 above President Johnson's budgeted recommendations for the Red River Valley.

ARKANSAS LAKE

To start the De Queen Reservoir in Arkansas, $1,000,000; to resume work on the Cooper Dam, $750,000; a total of $1,234,000 for the Campti-Clarence Levee in Louisiana; $479,000 to start a levee project at East Point, La.; $750,000 for the Sulphur River and channel in Texas; $40,000 to begin planning of the Big Pine Reservoir in Texas; and $100,000 to start planning on the Caddo Lake Dam replacement in Louisiana and Texas. "We consider our requests for these additions to the president's budget to be modest, fully justified and necessary for continued orderly progress of the program," Fairbanks said.

"We urge this committee to give our requests its most serious consideration and approval."

DELEGATION OF 20

The delegation of about 20 from the four states was reinforced by members of Congress from the four states.

In asking $1,500,000 for Cooper Dam and the Sulphur River, Fairbanks said work had been halted several years ago because of the failure of local interests to contribute toward the cost of water supply and downstream rights of way and easements.

"We have now been assured, not only by the local interests, but by the State of Texas that local requirements for water purchases will be met as well as assurance that rights-of-ways and easements for the downstream levees and channels are in the hands of the Corps of Engineers," he said.

18 YEAR HEADACHE

By HALVARD T. HANSEN, D.C.

Headaches occur with most all organic disorders. The eyes are often blamed and found innocent. Migraine is rare, though frequently mislabeled because of the nausea. . . . Almost any violent headache can cause that sickish feeling about the stomach.

Nervous headaches caused by female disturbances, tension and the inability to relax is perhaps the most common. If you neglect these or stop them with a pain killer or tranquilizer, you are inviting trouble.

Consider the following case from our files as an example. . . . This woman came to our office about 4 years ago at the constant urging of her sister who had been cured of nervousness and headaches. She suffered headaches daily for over 13 years, extreme nervousness, constipation with stomach distress. There was a constant heart "flutter" and another distressing symptom was a "Prickly" feeling in her legs all night which affected her sleeping.

Our spinal and nerve analysis located what previous doctors had overlooked — several misaligned vertebrae interfering with correct nerve energy flow. This of course was responsible for her trouble and the underlying cause of her headaches. In due time, the trouble was corrected and her symptoms and troubles disappeared. She is still doing well. No. 1349.

If other doctors have made you well, you don't need us — but if other efforts have failed, do as this woman did. Investigate! We made her well, and perhaps we can do the same for you. Hansen Chiropractic Clinic — across from Piggly Wiggly. AM 3-3324.

Paratrooper Brigade Near Blast Scene

BIEN HOA, South Viet Nam (AP) — "We thought our number was up when the planes began blowing up," a paratrooper of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade said today.

"They told us it was an accidental explosion, but we thought the Viet Cong was shelling the base."

He referred to Sunday's disastrous explosions at Bien Hoa base.

The 3,500-man brigade, moved in recently from Okinawa, is handling security duties at both Bien Hoa, north of Saigon, and at Vung Tau, 40 miles southeast of the capital.

FLAT STRETCH

The paratroopers here are camped on a flat, scrub-covered stretch of wasteland with a perfect view of the sprawling base where a series of explosions Sunday destroyed or damaged 40 planes and left 27 Americans dead or missing.

"We'll be here until doomsday if we have to," said Sgt. Andrew Sanford of Indianapolis, Ind.

Assigned to guard the outer perimeter of the U.S. installation, the unit has had only minimal contact with the Viet Cong since its first elements landed two weeks ago.

Only a few of the men have ever seen a Viet Cong or "Vic," for Charlie, as the Americans call the enemy. But they have been told he may strike at any time from any direction in this frontless war — so they wait and watch.

POURING IN

Ammunition and rations are still pouring into the camp along a dusty, dirt road that winds through an old Vietnamese cemetery with rust-colored headstones.

Every soldier already has a foxhole of his own or one he can share. While the troops are well dug in, no major operation has yet involved the brigade.

Waiting can be boring. The men complain most about the heat and the lizards. The mercury hits 90 degrees every day and the humidity is almost as high.

Texas Crop Losses Noted

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Farm field work stopped over much of Texas because of widespread rains.

John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said rain fell in all districts. Damage to crops from excessive rains, hail and high winds was noted.

He said the rains by mid week didn't relieve the dry conditions in Northwest and West Texas and other spots on the upper gulf coast and South Texas.

District agents reported: The Panhandle got widespread rain after being very short. Some dryland wheat was being grazed out, but irrigated wheat made good growth. Ranges were fair to poor.

Showers fell over the entire South Plains with up to an inch in parts of Floyd, Garza, Lubbock, Lynn and Terry counties. Rain still is needed, especially in dryland counties. Up to 75 per cent of the cotton and grain sorghum have been planted in some counties north of Lubbock. Planting has been light to the south. Hail damage was reported in Floyd and Crosby counties. Stock water was low in some counties. Ranges needed rain. Sugar beets, potatoes and irrigated wheat did well.

A Devotional For The Day

Unto one he gave five talents, to another two, and to another one; to every man according to his several ability. (Matthew 25:15)

PRAYER: Our Father, help us this day to have faith in Thee and confidence in ourselves. So may we better serve Thee by using the talents Thou hast given us; through Christ Jesus our Lord. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Age At The Wheel

The other day, a Midwestern newspaper carried a story about a man in his 10th decade of life who annually drives a considerable distance to attend his Alma Mater's commencement exercises.

It is remarkable, all right, that a man of that age still has enough command of his faculties to drive a car at highway speeds. One may also be tempted to echo, if somewhat nervously, the admiration for such a man's refusal to yield to infirmity.

But the truly remarkable thing about this little vignette is the fact that a tottering old man should still be permitted to drive an automobile, especially on the highways. Auto traffic is hazardous enough under the best of circumstances. It is tempting fate to allow the dim eyesight and slow reflexes of old age at the wheel.

The case cited is extreme. There are more than a few drivers in their 80s, however, and large numbers in their late 70s. The traffic safety problem they pose should be given more attention. Physical capability at an advanced age varies greatly among individuals; perhaps an old-age cut-off point for driving privileges would not be the best way to handle the matter. But we do need an effective way of assuring that those of extreme age cannot endanger themselves and others on the highways.

Things Are Looking Up

West Texas has its share of weather clichés, among them that the benefits of any rain outweigh the damages, and that any sizeable downpour can be described as a "million dollar rain."

The difficulty with these is that they are too modest in the present circumstance. Damages from the weather — particularly the hail — will run into the multiplied thousands of dollars. It's too early to fully assess the damage, but several hundred homes in Big Spring have suffered roof loss. Several business houses sustained sharp flood damage, for which they have no recourse. Some places had shattered glass.

But when this is weighed against the prospect of getting a crop off to a good start, then the losses pale by comparison. If this were to mean that we will have a chance for a normal cotton crop, then this rain will mean at least $3,000,000 to the agricultural economy of the county.

Although the larger lakes did not come in for the bonanza of water, they did catch enough to make this an important factor.

Above all, the rains have had a wonderful influence on the general psychology. We are not so dependent upon agriculture as many counties, but we have a substantial investment there and we have a heritage in it that affects our whole business outlook.

Things are looking up.

The Children Are Restless

WASHINGTON — The real problem with all the sit-ins, stand-ins, teach-ins, etc., is that college students are not the only ones involved. They're now trickling down to high school and even grammar school students.

At the Alice Deal Junior High School in Washington eighth graders have not only protested the quality of the food in the cafeteria, but have also demanded the right to chew gum in school as well as to have television and music at noon.

IT'S NO SECRET that American youth is in revolt. Even in my own family I've seen the effects of all the newspaper coverage of the various protest movements on my three children.

In the morning, for example, we have a lie-in, with all three children refusing to get out of bed to get ready for school.

Using an umbrella, which is the nearest thing to a cattle prod that we've got, I usually manage to make them move.

WHEN THEY'RE finally dressed,

Billy Graham

Is it true that even if we live a good life and believe in God that we will be lost anyway for not accepting Christ as Savior? Mrs. R. T.

Logic tells us (as well as the Word of God) that if there had been any other way to be saved, God would not have allowed His only begotten Son to die on the cross for our sins.

The Bible indicates that what good we are able to muster is inadequate to save us. "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost." (Titus 3:5)

"By his mercy he saved us." These words bring to mind the plight of a prisoner serving a life term for some vicious crime. But the governor has the power of pardon, and if he so desires he can pardon the most hopeless criminal. Legally, the man is condemned. He has been found guilty by a court of law, and he is behind prison bars. But if the governor exercises mercy, he can pardon any man he chooses.

Jesus said, "I came to bring deliverance to the captives." We had no legal claim upon liberty or life. It was nothing we had done. But, "By his mercy he saved us."

If we would be free spiritually, we must appeal to the only one who can set us free!

Johnson On Hook In Dominican Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson not only ran up against history. He got hung on a hook.

He got on the hook when he sent Marines into the Dominican Republic. This was intervention in the internal affairs of a Latin American country, something the United States had promised not to do.

The promise is in writing even though Johnson gave two reasons for his action: first, to save American lives in the Dominican revolution, next, to prevent a Communist takeover.

He hasn't changed that second position even though the leader of the rebels, Col. Francisco Caamaño Domo, on Sunday pictured himself on national television in this country as anti-Communist.

foreign ministers of the OAS, including the American, also agreed that "the principles of communism are incompatible with the principles of the Inter-American system."

Johnson has cited that second agreement in defense of his use of Marines, but that agreement didn't give any American country the right to intervene on its own against communism or for any other reason in any other country.

But, if Communists are as much of a threat in the Dominican Republic as Johnson seems to think, then if he took no action he might face the same kind of dilemma and embarrassment that hit President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

'LBJ Ranch' Set Up In Viet

GIA VUC, South Viet Nam (AP) — As you land on the small runway in a plane that contains native soldiers, some chickens and ducks, five squealing pigs and three small steers, the first thing you see is a sign saying, "The LBJ Ranch."

That sign is the way a U.S. Army Special Forces team has chosen to say that America is here to stay for the duration.

"The LBJ Ranch" is engaged in a bitter fight against enemy rustlers.

It is typical of many Special Forces bastions throughout South Viet Nam which seek to protect villagers from the Viet Cong.

Gia Vuc lies in a valley bordered by rugged and lovely hills 83 miles south southwest of Da Nang, the country's second largest city. It is astride the famous Ho Chi Minh trail, the chief north and south pathway for infiltrators.

IT CENTERS around old French-built fortifications and resembles in some ways an American 19th century fort against the Indians on the Wyoming or Montana frontier.

The "ranch" covers some 50 square miles in which 3,000 Montagnards, or mountain tribespeople, till their farms and dwell in a dozen closely grouped hamlets of thatched huts. The group of a dozen Americans is led by Capt. William A. Hicks of Linden, N.C.

Worse still for American popularity and influence, this government repeatedly backed dictators. President Franklin D. Roosevelt tried to wipe out these memories with his good-neighbor policy.

He stopped interventions, promising there would be no more. After the war the United States made several agreements with its Latin neighbors on this subject, saying so.

Particularly, the United States agreed to the charter of the Organization of American States which says: "No state or group of states has the right to intervene directly or indirectly for any reason whatever in the internal or external affairs of any other state."

THREE YEARS ago the French built fortifications and resembles in some ways an American 19th century fort against the Indians on the Wyoming or Montana frontier.

The "ranch" covers some 50 square miles in which 3,000 Montagnards, or mountain tribespeople, till their farms and dwell in a dozen closely grouped hamlets of thatched huts. The group of a dozen Americans is led by Capt. William A. Hicks of Linden, N.C.

Under Hicks, no American here has been killed, but a number of Viet Cong have. "We run continuous local patrols. Air strikes have been a real help to us in these hills," Hicks said.

"We estimate that there are two companies of enemy in the area, and we feel that our presence here has forced them to detour a lot of the infiltrators using the Ho Chi Minh trail."

These U.S. Army Special Forces teams work almost as hard helping the villagers as in fighting the enemy. Sgt. Chuck Bartley of Fayetteville, N.C., senior medical adviser, has set up a clinic.

If the body gets more B 12 than is necessary, it gets rid of the surplus quite readily. The intervals you mention would not be excessive.

B 12 is of value in certain types of neuritis, but it is not a sedative to combat nervousness. Its most important use probably is in counteracting pernicious anemia.

Around The Rim

The Night The Camp Got Wet

A long time ago, when I was a great deal younger, we were on one of our family migrations west. As usual, we were travelling in a covered wagon.

My Dad had a distinct aversion to those handy gadgets sometimes found in those days on covered wagons called "overjets." These devices permitted the camped to be permanently made and ready for sleeping inside the wagon.

Dad's preference was bedrolls, each wrapped in a tarpaulin. That was our type of bedding on this junket.

WHAT REMINDED me of this little episode of so long ago was the slight dampness which developed over the weekend.

We had driven hard that long-ago day in order to reach a very important camping ground we had often used before. It was important because there was a windmill there and plenty of good water. The particular part of New Mexico we were traversing at the time had very little water at anytime and those oases where water was to be found were well known and respected by the travelers of the time.

IT WAS DARK when we reached the windmill. It was in a valley at the foot of a tolerably high, steep and completely barren hill.

The darkness on that night was augmented by heavy clouds which had begun to develop about sunset. By the time we had finished supper, staked out the horses, gotten enough fuel for the breakfast camp fire and unrolled our beds, it was threatening to rain.

Lightning was flashing and the rumble of thunder was constant. We crawled into bed.

SOME HOURS later — I imagine about midnight — I was aroused by my parents who were up and rattling the camp gear. I opened my eyes to find myself in a sort of tarpaulin canoe. It was raining a torrent. Water was pouring down that barren hill like a cataract. Already in the low area around the windmill, the water was a foot or more deep. Around our camp, it was four inches high and rising.

Dad harnessed the team. I helped load in the water-soaked camping stuff. We rolled our beds in bulky bundles and somehow jammed them under the wagon sheet.

BY THAT TIME, the water was hub deep on the wagon. It was still raining. The electric storm was building up in intensity.

Hurry as we might, it takes time to break camp.

When all had been loaded and we were in the wagon, the water was just under the bottom of the wagon bed. It was too dark to know exactly how to reach the road (the windmill was a half a mile or so off the main travelled route.)

THE BEST we could do was hope we could get to higher ground. One thing was sure, we had to leave that valley quickly.

To the east we could see ridge of a rise when the lightning flashed. We headed for that. The ground around the windmill was rocky and hard and we didn't bog.

Gradually we watched the water drop on the legs of the horses. Finally we reached the higher land. And there, soaked through and through and chilled to the bone, we sat waiting for the rain to stop and the day to dawn. It was a long night.

The Johnson Leadership

WASHINGTON — Two of the most articulate and yet moderate Senate critics of Viet Nam policy had a conference with President Johnson the other day. The session was in the powerful and long-remembered tradition of the days when Johnson ruled the Senate as majority leader.

HE HAD called them to the White House because he said he wanted to get their views on Viet Nam. Yet as they compared notes on their way back to Capitol Hill they estimated that out of the hour and 10 minutes in the President's office they had not between them spoke for more than a total of five minutes. The President was a dynamic and remorseless talker just as in the era when wavering members of the majority were summoned to one of his Capitol hideouts for the full Johnson treatment.

Today he is running foreign policy as he ran the Senate. The conditioning of his entire political life strongly colors his basic goal. That goal, as in the Johnson era in the Senate, is to get virtually unanimous accord for a decision once the leader has made the decision.

THE DECISION was taken in the momentous session of the National Security Council on the night of Feb. 6 following the successful Communist attack on the American air base at Pleiku. The President had been under pressure for several months to bomb in the north. The defeat of the South Vietnamese forces and another coup installing a neutralist government were an immediate threat. Having followed a "more of the same" policy on Viet Nam for 14 months, the President concluded he had no choice but to extend the war.

Should Johnson Travel Abroad?

WASHINGTON — It may be time for President Johnson to review his decision against leaving the country on official trips abroad.

The trips of Wilson, Roosevelt, Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy have afforded LBJ with ample warning against trying to carry out personal diplomacy in foreign lands. His 18 months of stay-home policy can't be faulted. Wilson's personal vanity came a historic cropper at the Paris conference after World War I. Roosevelt was mousetrapped at Yalta, Truman met Stalin at Potsdam and "liked Old Joe," Eisenhower engaged at useless summitry with Khrushchev and Bulganin at Geneva, and Kennedy was overmatched when he faced Khrushchev in Vienna.

BUT PRECEDENT is not as binding as it seems. These are different times and Johnson is a different man. Johnson would not be seeking peace from friend or foe. What we are desperately in need of now is fighting allies to supplement our over-extended military forces. We are shooting it out with communism on opposite sides of the earth, in the Dominican Republic and in South Viet Nam. One more such call-to-duty — perhaps in the Mediterranean or Korea or Africa or even Europe — and we are undone so far as responding by "conventional" warfare. The next unilateral intervention by the U.S.A. will almost certainly force us into a decision between the tactical use of nuclear weapons — or the confession that we can no longer fight the battles of the Free World.

ALLY-HUNTING, then, is the game. The President has already sent his beaters into the bush: Lodge to Asia, Bunker to the Latin Americans, George Ball to Europe. A committee headed by Senator Jackson, a top congressional hand in military and nuclear decisions, is sorrowfully examining the dried parchments of old hunting licenses which were supposed to entitle us to help and be helped.

WE ARE MEMBERS of four regional defense pacts, and an active participant in a fifth. We have mutual defense treaties with 42 nations. We belong to 53 international organizations, contribute a third-of-a-billion dollars a year to peace-keeping programs, participate annually in 600 conferences with other nations and belong to 4,300 international agreements. Yet with all this organization and intercourse, carried on by hundreds of diplomats, administrators, military officers, senators and presidential aides, we have found almost no non-American to pull a trigger in the common defense.

Perhaps it is not too much to say that everybody on our side has failed to recruit allies — except the man who hasn't actively tried — the President himself.

IT WOULD be a spectacular reversal of remembered history to find an American head of state recruiting men and arms, as Churchill, Madame Chiang Kai-shek and many others, recruited them in Washington. But every Atlantic coast nation south of the Rio Grande has a stake in the Caribbean, and has standing armies that should be engaged in our fight for the hemisphere. All the anti-Communist nations of Asia, and all countries in West Europe, have the oceans and the obligations to help us in Viet Nam.

NO MAN in the Free World has a better right and stronger voice than Lyndon Johnson to call for the help we need. None is in a better position to say in direct conversations what the alternatives are. They are, and the Free World should be told — conventional warriors or nuclear weapons.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Plan Perfect Gift For Practical Newlyweds

Dear Heloise:

Here is a wedding gift idea that will eliminate the possibility of duplicating any other gift the bride and groom might receive.

Buy a colorful plastic bucket and fill it with the following 20 items:

A card or box of thumbtacks . . . An extension cord . . . Some cup hooks . . . Card or box of carpet tacks . . . Kitchen tongs . . . Small can opener . . . Dishcloth and nylon net . . . Three-way plug . . . A roll of tape . . . Memo-pad and pencil . . . Hammer, screwdriver, pliers (small size) . . . Ball of string . . . Adhesive bandages . . . Rubberbands . . . Sponge . . . Cupcake papers . . . Potholders . . . Vegetable peeler . . . Scrub brush and vegetable brush.

Wrap the bucket in colored cellophane, add a bow, and you will have a novel gift.

I think you'll agree, these are common items that all young newlyweds need . . . Mrs. D. L. P.

Dear Gals: This is a wonderful and unique idea!

There isn't one item on the list that won't be needed as soon as the young couple set up housekeeping. . . Heloise

Dear Heloise:

With Memorial Day approaching, here is a nice way to arrange flowers for decoration of graves:

Save a few large juice cans and with the sharp end of a bottle opener, make holes about 1/4 inch apart, all around the top of the cans.

Place flower stems in each hole. Set each can on a large square of aluminum foil, fold it up around the can, and secure it with a ribbon or bow, then fill the container with water.

You will have a lovely decoration and no more tying of stems to hold flowers in place. . . Verda

Dear Heloise:

Pinch off the top bud on your stalks of gladioli buds before you put them in your vase of water, and every bud will bloom, just the same as if left in the garden. You will get more enjoyment out of your glads this way. . . Fred Alkire

Dear Heloise:

To prevent cakes from sticking to the cake plate . . . Sprinkle the plate with shredded coconut before putting the cake on it. . . Helps keep the cake moist, too. . . Laura Gilbert

Sheriff Aubrey Standard has been notified that McRae is now in the Oklahoma State Penitentiary in McAlester serving a five year burglary sentence imposed on him in Stephens County, Okla.

McRae has been at liberty on bond in connection with the Big Spring case. He is accused of breaking into the offices and hangar at the Howard County Airport on two occasions and burglarizing the safe on both visits.

Sheriff Standard said that it had not been decided what action to take on McRae's case.

Subversive Group Listing Dwindles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Of the 274 organizations listed as subversive by the attorney general's office in 1955, only 21 are still believed active.

Among those still listed are the Communist party and the Ku Klux Klan.

Rembrandt Art Arrives

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rembrandt's painting of his son Titus, bought recently at a disputed London auction for $2,234,000, arrived Monday night after a first-class flight from London and was placed in the vault of the National Gallery of Art.

The painting, bought by Norton Simon of Los Angeles at Christie's March 19, will go on exhibit in Washington in about two weeks. Gallery Director John Walker said it will remain here for three months before it is taken to Los Angeles for a showing.

Voting-Right Unity Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders tried today to unite backers of the voting-rights bill. Success, they felt, could lead to an end of debate and passage of the measure late next week.

The apparent key: a vote today on an amendment to heal the wounds suffered by some of the bill's backers when their attempt to ban the poll tax in state and local elections was beaten by a 49-45 vote last week.

The administration opposed including a flat ban in the bill, claiming it would be doubtful constitutionality. This split the bill's backers.

POLL TAX
Today's amendment would insert in the measure a congressional declaration that the right to vote in certain states is denied or abridged by making poll taxes a prerequisite to voting.

Losers in last week's battle have urged such a statement. They say it would strengthen the attorney general's hand under another section which directs him to test the poll taxes in court.

The amendment was introduced by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

Mansfield later told newsmen he probably would file a petition to shut off debate later this week.

NEED SIGNATURES
He would need signatures from two-thirds of the senators to do so. He hoped the poll-tax amendment would make this task easier.

Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia require voters in state and local elections to pay poll taxes. A constitutional amendment has banned the poll tax as a requirement for voting in federal elections.

The Mansfield-Dirksen amendment reportedly has administration backing and, if accepted by the bipartisan anti-poll-tax forces, could clear away a major stumbling block to passage of the bill.

Changes Due In East Texas Canal Bill

AUSTIN (AP)—Rep. Charles Wilson of Lufkin began work today on changes requested by a House committee in his bill to create the Deep East Texas Navigation District.

The bill would allow construction of an 18-mile canal to connect Sam Rayburn and Toledo Bend reservoirs in part of a network to allow barge traffic from deep East Texas to the Gulf.

"Both lakes are attractive for recreational purposes and industrial development around Sam Rayburn Reservoir surely will want to make use of the canal," Wilson told the House Committee on Reclamation and Conservation Districts Monday night.

Wilson assured the committee the canal will not interfere with water flow in either reservoir.

Nameless Man Now Has One

EASTMANVILLE, Mich. (AP)—After spending 58 years without an identity a 102-year-old man in this small community about 15 miles west of Grand Rapids has been identified.

On Feb. 25, 1907, the man, who has been known as "Joe Steel" was found wandering in subzero weather near Grand Rapids. He had no memory and was considered feeble-minded. He was taken to the Ottawa County infirmary here.

The Holland (Mich.) Sentinel published a story recently on the "man without an identity."

Two Michigan relatives who saw the paper now have identified "Joe Steel" as Monroe Rutty. The relatives, Monroe Eaton of Ganges and Blanch Wilkinson of Glenn, said they would leave Rutty in the infirmary where he seems to be happy.

Downpours Flood Alamo City Areas

By The Associated Press

An overnight rain of 6.20 inches set off widespread flash floods in west and south San Antonio Tuesday.

Runoff from the rain and flooding creeks closed virtually all main thoroughfares leading downtown.

Calls for help came so fast that it took hours to check them. Firemen and ladder trucks rolled on one rescue mission after the other, mainly in low sections on the city's west side.

RESCUE WORK
Civil Defense teams assembled boats for rescue work. A police helicopter rescued a mother and her baby from the roof of their home.

Dozens of cars were reported overturned in Alazan Creek on the north side.

An undetermined number of persons were stranded on a roof of a home.

A house was reported washed away on the west side.

Berg's Mill, on the south side, was cut off by flood water and calls for help came from many homes in the area.

Weather Bureau radar tracked lines of showers and thunderstorms moving northward after midnight from the Lower Rio Grande Valley northward through San Antonio and Austin.

SHOWER BAND
Bands of lighter showers marched toward the northeast along a line linking Abilene, Stephenville and Waco in the state's sudden midsection.

It was the 10th straight day of violent spring weather and often torrential rain over vast areas of Texas.

Only the night before tornadoes menaced widely separated areas, hail coated one section like snow and continuing downpours made protracted flooding almost certain in the lowlands along numerous streams, mostly in Central and South Texas.

Twisters dived to earth in ominous funnels at three points—20 miles southwest of Marfa and 7 miles southwest of Pecos in far West Texas, and miles across the state at a point south of College Station in South Central Texas. There was no word any struck an inhabited spot.

FIERCE HAILSTORM
Hailstones accumulated four inches deep southwest of Pecos at Balmorhea and 3 inches of rain poured down in an hour.

Flooding grew more severe in the general vicinity of Corpus Christi as rains measuring up to 1.5 inches sent more runoff gushing into the Nueces and Lower Rio rivers, sending both out of banks.

At Callahan the Frio River climbed above flood stage and was expected to exceed that level by 8 1/2 feet before cresting Wednesday. Ranch families near Three Rivers were warned by the Weather Bureau of flood danger through tonight.

Giant crests rolled down a number of other streams.

TRINITY FLOOD
The Trinity River climbed above its 40-foot flood stage at Long Lake, where 4.35 inches of rain fell Monday, and was at or above flood stage from that point all the way upstream to Fort Worth.

Cameron on the Little River was promised a 37.5-foot crest today—7.5 feet over flood stage.

Lake Travis in Central Texas rose 12 feet as water poured in from the Colorado, Llano, Pedernales and San Saba rivers.

The level of other lakes on the Colorado River also climbed, including Buchanan, Inks, Lyndon B. Johnson and Marble Falls, but their floodgates kept the rushing torrents moving downstream under control.

Hearings Start On Wellhead Gas

AUSTIN (AP)—The Federal Power Commission has received testimony from a college president and a business research director describing how a depressed gas market could adversely affect Texas' economy.

Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr said he filed the testimony as the commission began hearings in 54 Gulf Coast and 26 Panhandle counties on area-wide prices for wellhead gas.

Dr. John Stockton, director of the University of Texas branch of business research, and Dr. James McCrocklin, president of Southwest Texas State College, made the statements.

Some State Pay Raises Said 'Slipped Into Bill'

AUSTIN (AP)—Rep. Bill Hollowell of Grand Saline accused the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee today of slipping pay raises for several officials into a resolution making so-called "corrections" in the $3.64 billion general appropriations bill.

The resolution cleared the House on voice vote last week and went to the Senate.

Rep. W. S. Healy said the resolution corrected several mathematical errors in the compromise bill and took out controversial riders phasing out Texas Southern University's Law School and blocking construction of a freeway over San Antonio's Brackenridge Park.

"We were deceived. We were not given the full story. Some of the so-called corrections were not corrections but additions," Hollowell said in a personal privilege speech.

He said the corrections included a $1,000 addition to the salaries provided in the bill for

Kiwanians Eye Weather, Meat

If you see a number of Big Spring men with distressed looks, fretting about the weather and crossing their fingers, they likely are Kiwanians.

Right now, the Kiwanians have 1,550 pounds of choice beef on their hands and a deadline to start barbecuing that meat by 11 p.m. today. Serving time is 5 p.m. Wednesday when the Kiwanis Club stages its Fifth Annual Rodeo Barbecue to all who have a dollar.

Gray skies, threat of rain and soggy weather in general do not make the task of preparing a king-sized barbecue easy. Don Lovelady, general chairman for the club, said that the committee will fire up the City Park barbecue pits at 6 p.m. today. By 11 p.m. the fires should have burned down to cooking level. Relays of Kiwanians will report at that time to serve as chefs. Dave Dorchester will head up the cooking committee.

Lovelady bought the 1,550 pounds of beef earlier this week and it will be cut up into cooking size this afternoon. Another chore for the cooks will be the preparation of the 400 pounds of beans which have been carefully screened.

The club has a working agreement with the Rodeo Association to serve the association's special guests each opening night of the annual Howard County Rodeo. These guests will be served at the Fair Barns.

At the same time, barbecue dinners will be served to the general public at the City Park. Tickets have been on sale for several weeks at $1 per serving.

All net returns go to the Kiwanis Club underprivileged children's fund.

Tickets may be brought at the park on Wednesday afternoon. First serving starts at the park and at the fair grounds at 5 p.m. The dinner will end before 8 p.m. to insure everyone time to attend the opening night of the rodeo.

The menu, Lovelady said, comprises of barbecue, beans, potato chips, onions and iced tea.

Altogether it is usually advisable to provide partner with assistance in discarding when the declarer is running a long suit at no trump, an exception should be made when the information is more apt to benefit the declarer. Today's hand is a good example, for East's blatant signal in hearts provided South with essential data that led to the fulfillment of the latter's six no trump contract.

West opened the queen of diamonds and the ace was played from dummy. Declarer counted 10 top tricks in spades, diamonds, and clubs. It was obvious that the other two would have to come from the heart suit. The usual procedure is to lead a small heart to the king and then, on the return, to put in dummy's ten—finessing West for the jack.

South decided to run the clubs first inasmuch as the heart play could be conveniently postponed till later. East showed out on the second club and, in an attempt to reassure his partner about the heart situation, he discarded the nine of hearts. The message did not fall on deaf ears, for everyone at the table was now aware that East was well heeled in that suit.

Declarer continued to lead clubs and East completed the echo in hearts and then discarded his remaining diamonds. South was quite convinced from his opponent's actions that the normal play in hearts was destined to fail, and that his only hope was to execute an end play on East. But first, all safe avenues of exit must be removed.

A spade was led to the king and the king of diamonds was cashed on which East discarded a spade. A spade to declarer's ace completed the stripping operation. East was down to the A-J-8 of hearts, while North was left with the Q-10-5 and South, the K-6-4.

A small heart was led from the closed hand and, when West showed out, the queen was played from dummy. East was in with the ace; however, on the forced return, declarer took the last two tricks with the ten and the king.

Yankees Fall 10 Games Back Of White Sox

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

A year ago today, the New York Yankees were 10 percentage points behind the Chicago White Sox. Today, the Yankees are 10 games behind.

The White Sox were in the same position they were in 1964 — first place in the American League. But the Yankees are nowhere near the second spot they held down at that time. They are in eighth place.

Chicago continued its torrid play by clobbering Kansas City 13-2 Monday night for its eighth consecutive victory. The Yankees, on the other hand, continued along their floundering way, dropping a 9-2 decision to Baltimore.

The pitchers for the Yankees and White Sox more or less typified the teams' 1965 fortunes. New York's Whitey Ford lasted only four innings against the Orioles en route to his fourth straight defeat. At this time in 1964, the 36-year-old left-hander had started eight games, completing five for a 4-1 record and a 1.66 earned-run average.

Ford currently has completed only one of eight starts and owns a 2-5 mark with a 6.07 ERA.

Gary Peters, however, is slightly ahead of his pace of a year ago after going the distance for the first time in seven starts. The victory against the Athletics brought his record to 4-2 and 3.00.

In 1964, the 28-year-old southpaw had not completed a game in seven starts while posting a 3-2 mark and a 3.73 ERA.

The Yankees wound up winning their fifth straight pennant last season, and it certainly is too early to say they won't make it a sixth this year. Ten percentage points, though, can be wiped out in one night. It takes a little longer to erase 10 games.

In the only other AL game Monday night, Los Angeles edged Minnesota 5-4 in 10 innings.

Peters scattered eight hits in handling the Athletics their first loss after two triumphs under their new manager, Haywood Sullivan.

Floyd Robinson, Pete Ward and Ken Berry led the White Sox 16-hit attack, each slugging a home run. Robinson and Berry also singled in a run apiece in the six-run seventh inning while Bill Skowron knocked in a pair with a single.

Bill Pappas limited the Yankees to five hits, one of them Joe Pepitone's two-run single in the first inning.

Bob Johnson rapped four Baltimore hits, driving in two runs, while John Orsino and Jack Brandt each collected three hits. Orsino batted in three runs, his two-run single in the fifth knocking Ford out of the game.

The Angels edged Minnesota in the 10th inning when Albie Pearson led off with a double against Johnny Klippstein, advanced to third on a sacrifice and scooted home as Bob Rogers blooped a single to center field off Mel Nelson.

Los Angeles had taken a 4-3 lead in the eighth on Vic Power's two-run single, but pinch-hitter Don Mincher of the Twins started the ninth with a home run off Bob Lee.

Belinsky Notches Initial Victory

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tony Taylor will never win the Fireman of the Year Award but the Philadelphia second baseman today the Side Pocket Plaque rates for saving Bo Belinsky's first National League victory.

Belinsky, the Phillies' pool-playing southpaw pitcher, topped the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 Monday night with a full-route five-hitter and a couple of vital eighth-inning assists from Taylor.

The little Cuban homered off Philadelphia nemesis Curt Simmons in the top of the eighth, giving Belinsky a 2-0 margin. Then, with one St. Louis run in and Bo on the ropes in the bottom of the inning, Taylor's perfect relay throw cut down the tying run at the plate.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

SPORTS dialogue:

TONTO COLEMAN, former West Texan, now assistant athletic director at Georgia Tech, addressing delegates to the first National Conference for State High School Coaches Associations at the National Education Association in Washington, D. C., recently:

"High school athletics is the only laboratory for democracy. It is the only laboratory where there are no political, social or economic barriers. It's America at best — all kids coming from the huddle with the same signals. To live by the rules — that's the basis of democracy. And the high school coach can be characterized as the guy who fights on one more day after the rest surrender."

LEON WAGNER, Cleveland outfielder, describing Ryne Duren's fast ball:

"When he hits you in the side, the ball doesn't come out."

HANK FOLDBERG, athletic director at Texas A&M:

"I've seen great running backs, but I've never seen one with Warren McVea's fan appeal. The noise swelled every time he got his hands on the ball in Houston's spring game. When he slipped through for a yard or two, the fans went wild. When he made a good gain — well, I've never heard anything like it."

Ex-boxer ART ARAGON of California, who was forever tugging at his trunks when he was fighting and was asked by a sports writer if his trunks ever fell down:

"Only when I went with them."

FURMAN BISHOP, Atlanta writer:

"TV Guide contends that TV money is what lured the Braves to Atlanta from Milwaukee. TV will never learn that TV doesn't make all the wheels go round. Radio income will exceed TV income, but that's not the point. The Braves wouldn't be on the way if this didn't look like the best 'live' market yet untouched."

HOOTIE INGRAM, coaching aide at the University of Georgia, after watching Alabama University's annual spring football game:

"Without a question, Alabama has the finest set of backs since Bear Bryant has been there as coach. There is no Joe Namath at quarterback but, overall, there is more talent in the backfield than Bryant has ever had before."

Lawyer EDWARD BENNETT WILLIAMS, new director of operations for the Washington Redskins of the NFL:

"I am trying to telescope time in studying everything I can about the Redskins and pro football. I do not think that expertise will be expected of me, such as you would get from a coach-owner like George Halas, or a fellow like William Mara of the Giants, who has been a student of the game for years. Art Modell of the Cleveland Browns has learned a lot fast and I am doing my homework. But coach Bill McPeak is our expert."

WILLIE ZAPALAC, coaching aide at Texas, discussing the one-time Christoval six-man grid star, Jack Pardee, who made good at Texas A&M:

"I never saw Pardee play football before I offered him an A&M scholarship. But when I saw him stringing brand-new three-strand barbed wire and he pulled the block and tackle so hard he broke the wire, I took him."

Wolves To Host Alpine Saturday

COLORADO CITY — Colorado City and Alpine will clash here at 2 p.m. Saturday in a "sudden-death" baseball playoff that will determine the Regional Class AA baseball championship. The game will end the season for both teams, since AA teams do not advance to the State tournament.

Colorado City, which uncovered the key to victory after losing its first six starts, beat Seymour Saturday in Abilene, 5-0, behind the two-hit pitching of Skipper Warren in bi-district play.

The Wolves, coached by Truman Nix, won the 5-AA championship without a struggle, since no other school in the league fields a team.

McKay collected two hits for the Wolves against Seymour

Liston Spars With Champ--- On The Phone

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Heavyweight boxing champion Cassius (Muhammad Ali) Clay and challenger Sonny Liston sparred verbally at a telephone hook-up news conference Monday night, both predicting they would win next week's championship bout at Lewiston, Maine, by a knockout.

The pair spoke from their respective training camps to an audience which included three former heavyweight champs — Joe Louis, Jersey Joe Walcott and Jim Braddock — and the Olympic title-holder, Joe Frazier.

The former boxing greats and fans jammed a downtown restaurant for the piped-in news conference.

Clay, his usual ebullient self, told newsmen:

"I'm going to win by a knockout, but I'm not picking the round, because then no one would come to see the fight."

Liston's usual taciturn self, also saw a knockout in his future, but disagreed with Clay as to who would be the one standing up.

"I'm in better shape than I was for the last fight and I'm hitting harder," Sonny said.

He said he was fully recovered from his injured left shoulder that caused him to throw in the towel after the sixth round in the first match in Feb. 1964. He plans to enter this fight weighing about 216 pounds, he said.

Clay kidded Liston for having picked Liston to win the first bout.

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — You can take the Cassius Clay. Sonny Liston fight out of Massachusetts but you can't take Massachusetts out of the heavy-weight title rematch.

Champion Clay, who intends to train right up to the 11th hour at his western Massachusetts camp, has the Maine Boxing Commission coming to Muhammad — All that is — for a pre-fight physical today at Chicopee, Mass.

The referee for the transferred May 25 bout may come from Massachusetts. The gloves definitely will. The 10 - point must scoring system is the same that Massachusetts uses. And the promoters are gloating they will make an additional $150,000 in closed-circuit television revenue because of Massachusetts.

Steers Seek Fifth 2-4A Victory Against Flock

Hank Pope or Freddy Mearns will go to the mound for Big Spring today as the Steers visit Abilene for a District 2-AAAA baseball game with the Abilene High Eagles.

The Longhorns, 4-7 in conference play, will be playing their final road game of the season. They close out Saturday here against San Angelo in a 2 p.m. contest.

Lefty Lee Fisher likely will toe the slab for the Abilene club, which defeated the Longhorns in their previous game here, 4-3.

The Big Springers will learn today if they are to make up their game with Midland High. The contest will be unreeled off if Midland remains in the conference race.

Other starters for Abilene today will probably be Bobby Wise, first base; Jimmy Lawson, second base; Phil Robinson, third; Pete Lodde, shortstop; Larry Dobbins, catcher; Tex Stewart, left field; Eddie Creel, center field; and Forrest Lane, right field.

The two teams take the field at 4 p.m.

Skateland jumped to an early 8-0 lead in the third inning and then coasted to victory. Jimmy Shouits tallied the lone run for Forsan in the seventh game. Charles Williams was the winning hurler and T. J. Walls the loser.

Colts Retain Winning Ways

In a battle of the top two clubs in the American Little League Monday night, the undefeated Colts crushed the Pirates, 8-3.

David Malarchuk pitched the win and helped his own cause with a double and a single. Pink Dickens also had two hits for the winners.

Eddie Teichman collected two of the Pirates' three hits while Ronnie Steen had a double.

The Colts now have won seven games without a defeat.

Star Who Doesn't Age On Film Jury

CANNES, France (AP) — Some 26 years after she played the memorable role of Melanie in the film classic "Gone With the Wind," Olivia de Havilland seems to have a personal claim on the fountain of youth and charm.

LOOKS 28

Now 48 — but looking 20 years younger — the brown-eyed actress is serving as president of the 10-member jury that will choose the best film shown at this year's Cannes International Film Festival. Miss de Havilland also is the official U.S. representative on the jury, which includes Britain's Rex Harrison.

"It's difficult for a performer to formally judge the presentation of other performers," the actress said. "But I think any artist has to be critical. I am thinking here only of the festival and the works we are seeing. I am blotting out any notions I may have as a performer."

As a performer, she is one of the few actresses with two Hollywood Oscars — in 1946 and 1949.

Miss de Havilland is completely fluent in French. She lives in Paris with her husband, a magazine executive, and her teenage son.

FONDA FAVORITE

Reviewing her screen career, Miss de Havilland says her favorite costar was Henry Fonda. "He appeared to be the most remarkable to me, not in a film, but in the Broadway production of 'A Gift of Time', in which we played opposite each other."

With her partners on the jury, Miss de Havilland will judge 52 feature length films and short subjects before the Cannes festival ends May 28.

Group Balks At Integration Requirements

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — The president of an Alabama Pensions and Senior Citizens League chapter says, "We'd rather starve" than submit to federal nondiscrimination requirements.

Rubin Hanan, head of the league's north-central chapter, said Monday that enforcement of the compliance certificate "would force virtual starvation upon thousands of needy, poor and sick people of both races in Alabama."

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has warned state welfare agencies that they face loss of federal funds if they persist in discriminating against Negroes after July 1.

Pleads Guilty

T. L. Rupard, charged with writing worthless checks, two counts, pleaded guilty in Howard County Court Monday afternoon. Lee Porter, county judge, sentenced the prisoner to serve a day in jail and pay a fine of $100 in each case, plus court costs.

Beer Hall Hymns Bring On Firing

PHARR, Tex. (AP) — The congregation fired the Rev. L. L. Nash, who also operates a McAllen used car lot, from the church he founded here because his family sings hymns in a beer hall.

The Rev. Mr. Nash organized the interdenominational People's Chapel in this Rio Grande Valley town eight years ago.

Apparently, he said, some of the 200 worshippers have forgotten they formerly were alcoholics.

"They were our own converts,"

We reached them in a similar way," he said.

AT LOUNGE Mrs. Nash and the couple's son Billy, 20, have been singing and playing the piano and guitar at the Melody Lounge, owned by the preacher's sister, Mrs. Audrey Cast, and her son, C. B. Ferrell.

"We seek the friendship of the winner. We want to go where the action is," said the Rev. Mr. Nash.

"I know this is a new trend in religion, because I know Billy Graham has gone into all the night spots in Las Vegas and the Salvation Army is going into dives in California."

"This is no reflection on them whatsoever, but they think it's wrong for us to go into these places," he said of the decision by the board of trustees Monday.

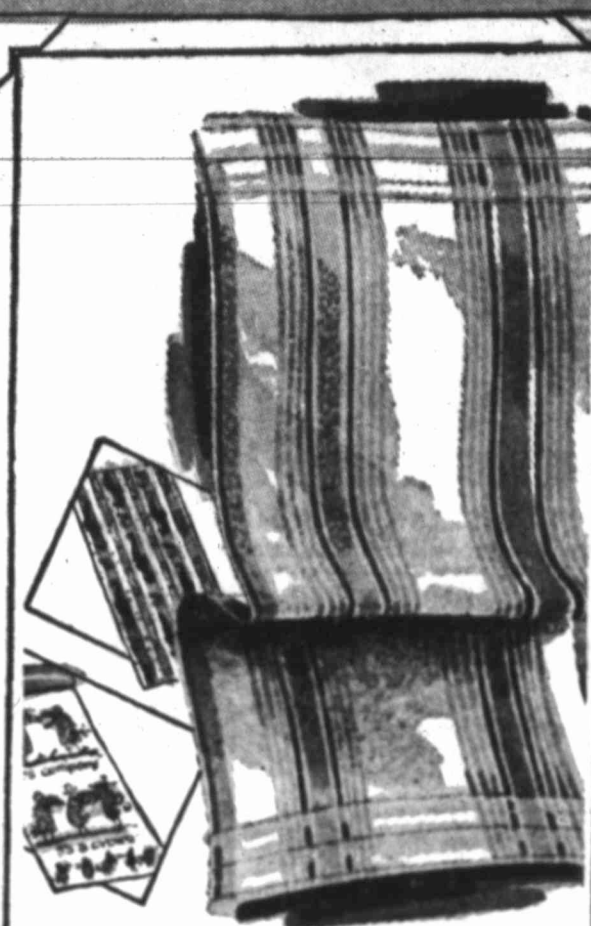

Board member Raymond Reeves had no comment on the firing and board chairman Bob Vacca could not be reached.

"We have orderly crowds and they bring their families along," Mrs. Nash said. "They serve soft drinks as well as beer."

"BRANCHING OUT" "Bill is branching out into the country and Western field, in addition to singing spirituals, and is only singing Gospel songs (in the lounge) on request but he has more requests for them than any other type of song."

Rodeo All Set To Open First Show Wednesday

The 32nd annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo gets underway at 8 p.m. Wednesday with four dazzling performances before it buttons up Saturday night.

Six main events will be featured daily along with three specialty acts including sheep dogs with "cowboy monkeys" in action, a Roman horse routine and an "educated" buffalo.

President Charlie Creighton and secretary E. P. Driver, of the Rodeo Association, said a total purse of $3,300 plus entry fees will be split among winners in the National Rodeo Association-sanctioned rodeo here this week.

Entry fees will be $40 per contestant for the calf roping and bulldogging, and $25 each for bull riding, bareback bronc riding, saddle bronc riding, and barrel racing.

"We have no way of knowing, at this time, just how many entries will be in each event," Creighton said, "but are assured of some of the nation's top performers."

Two go-rounds will be allowed for each entry. Points for calf roping, bull dogging and barrel racing will be awarded on a time basis, while points alone will be awarded for the riding events. All will count toward the national championship.

The first attraction, preceding the rodeo, will be the annual street dance Tuesday night on Main Street, between Third and Fourth Streets, when square

Old Guard Still Active

When the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo had its first show in 1933, three of the directors were R. V. Middleton, left, Charlie Creighton and Harry Lees, right. Today these three men are still active, and Creighton, a vice president from the outset, is now president. Until he took this post last year, the late Tom Good had held that office. Ira Driver, who no longer is active, and Jess Slaughter, are the only other surviving directors. Middleton has been treasurer since the beginning, and Lees has specialized on maintenance of the properties.

dancing will be featured, along with waltz and other dance music. The dance will begin at 7 p.m. and the public is invited.

PARADE

The parade, always a feature attraction, will be held at 4 p.m. Wednesday through the downtown area. Beginning on Main Street, at Tenth, the parade will go north to Second Street, turn west on Second to Scurry, and then south to Tenth where it will disband. Participants must be on hand to start at 3:30 p.m. Riding in the parade will be sheriff's posses and riding clubs from several counties and cities; three Big Spring bands, Coahoma High School Band, and any other area band wishing to enter; floats, and other entries along with candidates for rodeo queen.

Floats had been entered, at noon Monday, from Webb Air Force Base, Women in Construction, Big Spring Kennel Club, Spaders Garden Club, District 24 Texas Nurses Association, a Knott 4-H Club. First place will get $50; second $30, and third $20.

Riding Clubs and Sheriff's Posses entered are from Andrews, Scurry, Martin, Terry, Ector, Lynn, Fisher, Martin and Howard counties, and from Lubbock, Winters, and Abertathy. Trophies will be awarded to first, second and third place winners of the riding clubs.

BARBECUE EVENT

A barbecue, honoring riders of the sheriff's posses and their families, queen candidates and escorts or chaperones, and band members, will be held at 6 p.m. in the show barn at the fair grounds. A Kiwanis-sponsored barbecue will be held at the same time in the City Park for the public at $1 per person for "all you can eat."

The nation's top announcer will be on hand this year. He is Pete Logan of Medford, Ore. He has announced all the national finals in rodeo.

LaRue Olson of Whitewood, S. D., will appear before the crowds each night with his 13-year-old trained buffalo in several acts. Earl Wharton from San Saba will feature his trained sheep dogs, assisted by his pet monkey, "Wetback." The little monkey will be dressed in western-style garb and will be riding the sheep dogs, in a tiny, regular western saddle.

Jerry Olson, son of LaRue Olson, rodeo clown, rodeo contestant and performer, will also put on his daring Roman jumping act. This will feature riding two horses, not leashed together, around the arena ending with a jump into the rear of a truck with him standing on their backs.

Instead of record players providing the music for the rodeo this year, an organ, with Mrs. Champ Rainwater at the console, will provide regular and fanfare strains for contestants and special attractions. For instance, if a rider gets a hard spill, the bump may be registered on the organ.

Rodeo box reservations may be made, up to shortly before rodeo time, through the chamber of commerce office. Several are still available at $15 for the four nights. Each box contains six chairs. These reserved boxes do not include regular admission tickets.

Rugged Rodeo Stock Rested And Ready To Test Cowboys

Rugged stock that will send cowboys sprawling and bring spectators to the edges of their seats in rodeo arenas of eight states this year arrived in Big Spring this week for the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo.

The stock is gathered by Elira and Jiggs Beutler of Elk City, Okla., from such varied locales as Mexico, Florida and the northern states.

This year the Beutlers will produce 22 shows, ending their season in November with a rodeo at Honolulu, Hawaii.

About 20 men are involved in handling stock for the rodeo here, including preparations for each event and feeding and care of the animals. Three transport trucks were used to bring the stock to Big Spring.

"It takes about 190 head to produce a rodeo of this size," Jiggs Beutler said. The stock brought here this week includes 75 head of horses, 40 bulls, 40 calves and 35 steers.

Stock is varied and exchanged as the rodeo season moves along.

to keep fresh animals for each rodeo. Feeding costs amount to about $80 per day.

The Beutlers arrived here from a rodeo at Mangum, Okla., and will produce their next show at Carlsbad, N. M.

Their rodeo productions involve 60,000 to 75,000 miles of travel each year. They begin contacting rodeo committees in various states in the fall or early spring each year to confirm dates for the coming rodeo season. The season began for the Beutlers this year in March.

Elira Beutler has been in the rodeo business since 1928, and with his son, Jiggs, has been producing rodeos for the past 10 years.

Most of their employees have been with them several years now. For the past seven years the Beutlers have been providing the stock for the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo.

"We wintered about 155 head of horses this year," Jiggs Beutler said. The family has a 4,000-acre ranch at Elk City, Okla., but buy all their stock.

"We buy our horses from the northern states, bulls from southern states, calves from Florida and steers from Mexico," he said.

To buy good rodeo stock, he added, the rodeo producer has to follow the principles of a good baseball scout, paying a premium price.

Businessmen On Board

Directors of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo have multiple interests. Jimmy Taylor, left, vice president of the First National Bank, and Malcolm Patterson operates his own insurance agency. Both have been on the board for several years. Patterson annually takes charge of the parade.

Queen Aspirants Have Busy Slate

Candidates for 1965 Rodeo Queen for the 32nd annual Big Spring World Championship Rodeo will be busy during the four days of rodeo performances beginning Wednesday afternoon. A series of entertainment features, scheduled for candidates and their escorts or chaperones, will find them meeting the public up until the judging Saturday night.

Headquarters for the young ladies will be at the chamber of commerce office, where they will receive their banners, get transportation as needed, and receive a schedule of daily events. There they will also be met by the hostess, Sharon Harrison, Sweetheart of the Howard County Mounted Patrol, and her mother, Mrs. R. W. Harrison.

They will begin their appearances in the 4 p.m. parade Wednesday, go to the barbecue at the rodeo grounds at 6 p.m. and take part in the grand entry at 8 p.m. when the rodeo opens on Wednesday.

Thursday morning and afternoon will be free for them to bowl or attend a show (unless they have to return to school during the day), and then appear for the regular grand entry at 8 p.m.

Friday morning will also be free, but a swimming party and picnic at Moss Creek Lake will be given at noon. Casuals, shorts, or jeans may be worn, but swim suits will be in order at the lake. Then comes another grand entry at 8 p.m.

Saturday, the long day for contestants, will find them all free during the morning and afternoon. A dinner for the candidates, their escorts and chaperones or parents will be given at the Cosden Country Club at 6 p.m., leaving time for the final grand entry at 8 p.m.

Judging of the candidates will

Titles Based On Winnings

Rodeo is a contest of cowboys competing for prize money. So the simplest, fairest way to name the world champions of professional rodeo is by counting the money they win each season.

From official results of every rodeo approved by the Rodeo Cowboys Association each season, a careful, cumulative record of dollars won through the year by every cowboy member is kept at the association's Denver, Colo., headquarters.

At the end of the regular season, a certified public accountant audits the financial chart winners in each event. These men become eligible to compete in the title playoffs, the National Finals Rodeo.

The NFR does not change the system of naming champions, but is simply fitted into it. Money won at the Finals, along with seasonal earnings, all are dollars toward the titles. So the titlists still are the men who won the most money for the year.

A total of $24,000 in added financial dividends is guaranteed the new crownwearers by the R.C.A. This is apportioned $3,000 per title, with the champion getting 40 per cent, runner-up 30 per cent, third place winner 20 per cent, and fourth place holder 10 per cent, and is aside from contributions from other donors.

Contest Draws Area Entries

Six area candidates have been entered in the contest for 1965 Rodeo Queen at the annual Big Spring World Championship Rodeo. The young ladies are from Odessa, Brownfield, Midland, Andrews, and Stanton.

The Odessa Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring Dee Ann Donham, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jennings of Odessa. She is a member of the Odessa High School girls' capella choir, has entered professional barrel races, and enjoys all kinds of sports and automobile mechanics. She is a candy stripper at the Medical Center Hospital in Odessa with the teenage female volunteers.

The Terry County Sheriff's Posse of Brownfield is sponsoring Kay Phillips of that city as a candidate.

Shirley Moore, 16-year-old sophomore at Midland High School, is being sponsored by the Appaloosa Club of Midland. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Moore. She is queen of the West Texas Appaloosa Horse Club, a member of the 4-H rifle team, and is a member of several horse clubs.

Virginia Ann Estes, 16, is another Midland girl, entered by the Midland Chamber of Commerce. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Button Estes Jr., and is a junior in high school.

The Stanton Rangers, a girl's riding club of Stanton, has entered Becky Saunders, 17, daughter of Sheriff and Mrs. Dan Saunders. She is a junior in Stanton High School.

Alice Mae Zant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe P. Zant of Andrews will be sponsored by the Andrews County Sheriff's Posse. She is a member of the Andrews 4-H Club, and treasurer of the horse division. The young lady will be a freshman in Andrews High School in September.

RCA Has Most Battered Board

They have been called, with more truth than they like to admit, the world's most battered board of directors. The combined salaries of the voting members won't add up to enough for a hamburger dinner. Yet the decisions they make at their meetings affect a sport which has, in the last four seasons, paid out over twelve million dollars in prize money.

They are the 12 men who sit on the board of the Rodeo Cowboys Association, the non-profit service organization which is both the conscience and moving spirit of professional rodeo.

Like the P.G.A. in golf or the N.C.A.A. in inter-collegiate sports, the R.C.A. sets the rules in pro rodeo, names the champions and speaks for the sport on national issues.

The organization began some 27 years ago as a contestant's brotherhood dedicated to protecting the cowboy's economic rights in the hardship years of the depression Thirties. They were called the Cowboys Turtle Association and their demands were limited to standard rules, fair and experienced judges, and an adequate amount of prize money.

But their sport was the world's most disorganized, a series of unrelated contests which, like Topsy, "just grew" from the informal cowboy sessions on the open plains of the early west.

The rodeos were — and still are — organized and underwritten by volunteer committees of businessmen who contributed their time and energy as a service to the community.

These men recognized the need for a closer cohesion among rodeos. But as volunteers with their own livelihood to earn in other fields, they had little time to devote to organization beyond their own contest.

So the cowboys, the full-time professionals in the sport, were encouraged to take over the responsibility. Now superimposed over the associations traditional concern with conditions of the contest is a dedication to the future of rodeo as a whole.

There is, for example, the problem of network TV exposure. Some advocates of television insist there can't be too much exposure, that such will create millions of new fans. But the R.C.A. dissents, having noted the box office problems of smaller prize fight arenas and minor league baseball teams, limits the number of network telecasts to no more than six a season.

The executive body of the R.C.A. is made up of eight directors and four officers. There is a director of each of the championship events, saddle bronc riding, bareback bronc riding, calf roping, steer wrestling, bull riding, team roping and single steer roping, plus a director who represents contract members.

The president is elected at large by the membership, two vice presidents and the secretary-treasurer, are appointed by the board.

President, vice presidents and event directors, all must be active contestants. Each brings to the meetings, beside a wealth of competitive experience, a medical history of broken legs and fractured vertebra.

As it so happens, the current secretary-treasurer, Bill Linderman, is rodeo's biggest money winner yet, whose arena injuries include a broken back, neck, skull, arms, legs and collarbones. He is the only man on the board to draw a salary.

Others on the board are not paid a penny in wages, are reimbursed for only part of their expenses to and from the half-dozen association meetings each year.

Kosygin Showing Shastri Around

LENINGRAD, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India, whose visit to the United States was postponed by President Johnson, is being shown around Leningrad by Premier Alexei N. Kosygin personally.

Indian sources said the two leaders are very pleased with their personal contacts.

Shastri was scheduled to pay a spring visit to Washington for talks with Johnson but Johnson postponed the visit until the fall because of what he called a heavy work load and a heavy schedule of other visitors.

Rail-Riders Ride Herd

These three rail-riders are a lot more than that, for they help ride herd on the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo as directors. They have been boosting the show here since they were kids. Left to right are Leland Wallace, W. L. Wilson and Kenny Thompson.

Rodeo Is Open To All

For generations rodeo has been open to any ambitious kid with nerve enough to give it a try; and the tradition still stands.

Any youngster—or for that matter any restless adult discontent with his job in the bank—can test his skill in taking jumps at rodeos approved by the professional Rodeo Cowboys Association.

For $10 a season he can get a permit card from R.C.A. headquarters in Denver allowing him to enter in the association's sanctioned rodeos until he wins a total $1,000 in prize money.

A few of the larger rodeos with purses that draw several hundred top ranking contestants do not accept the entry of permit holders—an option which allows the rodeo to hold down expenses incurred by providing an extraordinary amount of stock.

Well Known Personalities Keep The Rodeo Moving

Big Spring rodeo-goers this week will see two personalities widely-known in the arena in action, rodeo clown Jerry Olson of Sturgis, S. D., and announcer Pete Logan of Medford, Ore.

All six national finals rodeos have been handled by Logan, whose full-time job is rodeo announcing. Logan travels in his own plane and has appeared at many of the bigger rodeo shows in the nation.

In addition to his rodeo announcing, he has a ranch near Medford, Ore.

Olson is a 225-pound, six-foot-three-inch ex-football player who is at home either dodging stock as a clown or trying to stay on top bucking broncs as a contestant.

He performs a Roman jumping act as his major attraction for rodeo crowds, mixing humor with danger in his performance.

His schedule takes him to shows from Calgary, Canada, to Kissimmee, Fla., from April to October each year. A native of the cow country of northwestern South Dakota, Olson was reared in a natural environment of cowboys and cattle. His grandfather was horse trader, buyer and trainer and his father has been in rodeo work most of his life.

While in high school at Scooper, S. D., he was ranked an honorable mention left tackle for the all-state football team. He went to the National High School Rodeo Championship in 1955, competing in bulldogging, and has been in rodeo work ever since.

The jumping act which has become his specialty as a rodeo clown involves standing upright on the backs of two charging horses as they jump into the back of a moving truck. He now performs the act with one of his children on his shoulders.

Olson's father has worked the rodeos with an act involving a trained buffalo stunt.

Olson travels with a house trailer, with his black jumping horses transported in a special truck. He is scheduled to entertain at 30 rodeos this year.

Last year his schedule included the Denver Stock Show. He has worked in many of the nation's Rodeo Cowboy Association-approved rodeos.

Every Seat A Good One In Cowboy Rodeo Bowl

The Big Spring rodeo arena, a U-shaped bowl, puts every spectator in the 7,500 facility close to action. There's not a bad seat in the house.

The arena itself is more than 300 feet long and almost as wide as a football field. Freshly turned sand makes it soft enough to help falling contestants but firm enough for animal footing.

An elevated announcer's stand, with room for score keepers and judges, in the same building, is located above the gates for bull and bronc riders' chutes, and gives the announcer a clear view of all activity in the arena.

On the south end is the time-keeper's box for calf roping events, surrounded by pens and ropers' gates.

Ample lighting is provided around the entire arena, with almost daylight intensity, and amplifier systems are connected to conduits in the announcer's stand.

The arena will seat 7,500 persons, with 96 boxes seating six persons each, or 576 persons, and all are able to see action in the bowl. The boxes are about four and a half feet above the arena itself, and are protected with pipe railings, and concrete footings bordering the action area. So far, rodeo officials say, no cowboy has been thrown into any of the boxes.

Pens for rodeo livestock are located behind the chutes and are so arranged as to keep fresh stock from that already used each night. Feeding pens are located behind these. Riders in the grand entry enter the arena from the east side through a gate from the fair grounds. Trucks, arena equipment, and specialty act equipment are also taken inside through this gate.

Several acres of parking space are provided outside the arena area proper. Only official and contestants' vehicles are allowed inside the fence around the arena and fair grounds. Spectators may reach any part of the seating area from the ticket gates on the west side.

Concessions stands are available to spectators on each side of the arena, with sandwiches and drinks available at each performance.

Local Men Run Show

Fifteen men make up the board of directors for the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo. None receives any compensation for serving on the board or as an officer.

Heading the group is Charlie Creighton, president, and one of the founders. Harry Lees, another founder, is vice president. R. V. Middleton, a founder, treasurer; and E. P. Driver, son of one of the founders, secretary.

Other directors are Toots Mansfield, seven times world champion calf roper; Ed Fisher, Malcolm Patterson, Leland Wallace, Jay Dement, H. Noble Read Jr., Rich Anderson, Jimmy Taylor, Kenny Thompson, W. L. Wilson Jr. and Lorin McDowell III. The latter three are new to the board this year.

Details of arranging the show are handled by the board, and assistance in promotion, ticket sales and other details is given by the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

Oil Output Shows Climb

TULSA (AP) — U. S. Oil production increased 6,250 barrels a day last week to a daily average of 7,669,700, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Oklahoma production was 579,000 barrels a day, up 12,550. Arkansas produced 72,500 barrels, Louisiana 1,601,000, New Mexico 334,800 and Texas 2,591,300.

Making The Show Go

Three of the directors of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo pitch in to make the exciting show go. From left are Jay Dement, a director for several years, H. Hobie Read Jr. who came on last year, and Loris McDowell III, who is a third generation rancher coming on the board this year.

Rodeo Purely Non-Profit Community Enterprise

The Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo functions purely as a non-profit community enterprise.

Since its beginning, the rodeo has had in its charter a provision that no stockholder could ever receive any dividend or return. On the contrary, profits are plowed back into the plant and show improvements or may be applied to helping such things as 4-H projects.

Of course, there have been years like last year — when weather has dealt the show a low blow but no one passes the hat to make up these losses. Directors and officers all volunteer their services to provide a fine community entertainment and to keep alive the traditions and skills of the Old West.

Rider, Horse Work Together

If cowboy intends to use two loops, two ropes must be carried. Cowboy must throw calf by hand, cross and tie only three feet. If calf is down when the rope reaches it, he must allow calf to get up and then throw calf. The must hold for all seconds after rope cuts time.—Synopsis RCA rules.

Calf roping is a race against time with seconds counted in decimal points and the money going to the swift—there is not time to be lost in waste motion, even less to be spent signalling the horse.

To win, horse and rider must work together at peak efficiency with automatic teamwork polished to precision. And that requires constant practice.

The contest begins behind the barrier, a rope stretched across the box-like space where the roper and his mount wait for the quarry to be released. The barrier is automatic, triggered by a measured length of twine around the calf's neck.

When the calf, released from the chute, reaches a predetermined head start he hits the end of the twine which falls away as it trips the barrier.

Because a tenth of a second often will win a roping, the roper and his horse try to hit the barrier at the exact moment it is released. If the cowboy rides through the barrier before it trips a penalty of 10 seconds is added to his time, usually enough to keep him from finishing in the money.

So teamwork starts at the roping box. The horse should break instantly on signal from the roper. A slow start will cost precious seconds after the fast breaking calf; a fraction too soon will cost the 10-second penalty.

Out of the box, a good horse will rate the calf, closing on him quickly and holding a steady interval, regardless of how the calf bobs or weaves. Most ropers like their horses to stay a length behind and a fraction to one side to allow a clean throw.

If the thrown loop misses, the cowboy gets another try, provided he carries another rope ready tied to the saddle. Calf roping is catch as catch can as long as the loop holds until the roper gets his hands on the calf.

HALFWAY HOME
Roper now must tie

The horse's quick stop is used by the cowboy to propel him down the rope to the calf. He comes off the horse running. If stop and dismount are not timed perfectly the roper is left flat-footed beside his horse.

On the ground, the roper must throw the calf by hand, a task made easier if the horse keeps backed against a tight rope. The calf may be downed either by "legging"—using a foreleg as a pry to tip him over—or by "flanking"—picking the animal up bodily and laying him on his side.

Once the calf is downed, the cowboy gathers three legs, wraps and ties them with a short length of light rope, called a pigging string, carried either in his mouth, or tucked in his belt. He signals completion of his run by raising both hands high. Smoothness, in calf roping, is all important. The cowboy who never gets "in a storm" with a calf has not always drawn the easiest stock. Often this instinctive knowledge of when to move in, just when to flank or leg his catch, makes the whole run seconds faster than if he had rushed in to try and overpower the calf.

Specialty Acts Add Show Spice

There will be three specialty acts on hand for the annual Howard County Rodeo Wednesday through Saturday.

They include Jerry Olson and his Jumping Jets, LaRue Olson and his trained buffalo, Pat, and Earl Wharton of San Saba, with his trained sheep dogs.

The Jumping Jets act of Olson's includes two jet black horses and his young son, Lanny. His is the only successful Roman jumping act in the rodeo business today. It is an extremely dangerous stunt, standing upright on the backs of two charging horses as they jump into the back of a moving truck.

Add to this his son riding on his shoulders while he does it all. The truck is moving as fast as 15 miles per hour at times. The exciting horse jumping act is his professional trademark as he has mastered the trick which others have tried and failed.

His reputation in the rodeo world does not stem from his unusual jumping act alone, however, as he is also in demand as an entertaining clown. His arena antics have delighted millions of rodeo fans and many contestants have been thankful that Jerry's strength, speed and savvy have been nearby when the unpredictable bulls have put them in danger of their lives. Olson will also double as the rodeo clown for this year's Howard County show.

It was this man who raced after the bull that jumped the arena fence at the Bonifay, Fla., rodeo and headed into a grandstand of terrified spectators. He grabbed the rampaging bull by the tail and with sheer brute force maneuvered him back into the arena.

His father, LaRue Olson, will also be in the act with his trained buffalo, the only one of its kind in the world. Responding to oral commands, the buffalo, Pat, does many amazing tricks, among them jumping in the back of a moving truck.

The bison is 13 years old and weighs 1,200 pounds. Olson started the training when the animal was about a year old. A former horse trainer, Olson knows many ways to get an animal to do a stunt.

Wharton and his sheep dogs have delighted untold numbers of rodeo fans each year. Using his pet monkey, Wetback,

Apply The Brakes

Next step for the steer wrestler shown here is to apply the brakes, using his outthrust legs as leverage. This latter move accounts for the most common injury in the event, torn knee ligaments. Rules of the professional Rodeo Cowboys Association call for the steer "to be brought to a halt, then twisted to the ground, all four legs outstretched."

Perfect Coordination Needed In Bringing Down A Steer

Steer must be caught from horse. If steer gets loose, danger may take no more than one step to catch him. Steer will be considered down only when it is lying flat on its side, all four feet and head straight. —Synopsis, R.C.A. rules.

Steer wrestling has a surprising number of spectators votes for the most exciting event in the rodeo arena. When a man drops from a galloping horse onto the horns of a steer who is going full tilt, stops the steer and throws it to the ground, they have seen skill overcome heavily weighted odds.

The first time people see this they are sure the strongest man, who is lucky enough to draw the slowest and most cooperative steer, should be the winner. The truth is, the man who quickly and consistently can get a steer off balance while he himself stays in control is on the way to the winner's circle.

Briefly, the secret is this. As the cowboy catches up to the steer he reaches with his right hand, scooping up the right horn, and as his horse speeds by the steer the cowboy gets this horn snugly in the crook of his right elbow. At the same time, his left hand pushes down on the other horn while his horse veers off to the left. The cowboy's heels are dropped ahead, and at a 45 degree angle, to the path the steer is taking.

Digging in his heels, the cowboy is tipping the steer's head as much as he can and pulling it toward the center of a left-hand turn. As the steer stops—his hindquarters having swung around—the cowboy's left hand reaches for the animal's up-turned nose and with this hold he is able to throw the steer on its side.

The winning run takes perfect coordination. Besides the steer wrestler and his horse there is a second man who starts from the opposite side of the steer and his job is to keep the animal running straight.

The steer actually trips the barrier, in front of the contestant's horse, when he reaches the end of a premeasured light rope. This rope is looped around his horns—in it there is a breakable string link which allows it to fall free. Another such link in the barrier breaks should the steer wrestler hit it before the steer crosses the scoreline.

During the year thousands of dollars are divided by split seconds so the art of brushing the barrier becomes important.

The hazer appears to be merely galloping alongside the steer and to the uninitiated onlooker all he clearly does is retrieve his partner's horse after the jump is made. In reality, from the moment the steer leaves the chute the hazer plays an important part. Possible mishaps might include the steer slamming on the brakes or veering away from the oncoming steer wrestler, so the hazer has to foresee these possibilities—and do something about them—in a matter of split seconds.

Rodeo Has Its Own Finals For World Championship

Since 1950, the sport of rodeo has had its own world series, the National Finals Rodeo, held late in the year.

The top 15 money winners in each event are eligible to compete, and they tangle with stock—carefully selected for their proven ability to hurl cowboys aloft—from bucking strings throughout North America.

Going to its sixth year, the finals is a well established classic. The term "he made the finals" already denotes respect.

From the current site, the Los Angeles Sports Arena, to the shadows back of the chutes where the finals were first thought of, this ambitious project has achieved its many goals.

These goals were to focus national attention on a date and place where the championships would be decided, give bucking stock their rightful acclaim while they were still in action—not having their reputation built entirely on legend—and to create a well-lit classroom in which the public could learn more about rodeo.

This last goal, perhaps the most important, was set because those behind the sport are convinced the gate will increase with the public's knowledge.

Specifically, rodeo's increasing space and time—in newspapers, television and radio—has brought these goals much nearer. And, if the surge in current attendance figures can be traced to the finals door, then rodeo's world series is approaching its ultimate purpose of helping all rodeos.

The finals spent the first three years in Dallas, Texas, moved to Los Angeles in '62 and according to policy, will move again.

The theory behind these moves is the Finals should stimulate interest in rodeo locally as well as nationally. The ideal situation would be to hold the Finals in a city which had never had a rodeo. Then when the world series left that city its departure would create a demand for a high caliber rodeo to take its place.

Young Slayer Ruled Insane

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Charles Roy Hefley II, 17, who admitted raping and stabbing a young mother and drowning her two children, will be sent to a state hospital for the criminally insane.

A jury deliberated 45 minutes Monday and found Hefley insane at the time and now, as two psychiatrists had testified. The state recommended the verdict.

His victim, the former Carolyn Adams, was among witnesses at the sanity hearing. She wore a black patch over an eye blinded by one of her 14 stab wounds. The young woman has since remarried.

Thunderstorms Hit In Midwest

By The Associated Press

Stormy weather hit areas in the north central region today and more rain doused sections of Texas.

Severe thunderstorms rumbled across areas in Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska and in east central Texas. Tornadoes also hit Texas Monday night and a twister was reported in a rural area near Mankato, in southern Minnesota.

FUNNEL CLOUDS

The twisters in Texas struck south of College Station and in rangelands southwest of Marfa and near Pecos in west Texas. In Nebraska, funnel clouds were reported in thunderstorms in Grand Island in the York area.

Hail measured four inches deep at Balmorhea, Tex., and three inches of rain fell during an hour. Many rivers in central and southern sections of Texas rose after several days of heavy rain and flash flooding caused the closing of scores of roads. Farmers in south central Texas said the heavy rains would benefit crops.

NORTHERN PLAINS

Strong winds fanned cold air across the northern Plains. Winds up to 60 m.p.h. lashed western North Dakota Monday and were up to 40 m.p.h. today. Temperatures dropped to the 40s in the Dakotas and to the 30s and upper 20s in parts of Montana.

Fairly pleasant weather was reported in most other parts of the nation. The mercury climbed to 106 Monday at Imperial, Calif. Early morning temperatures ranged from 29 at Butte, Mont., to 85 at Needles, Calif.

Fund To Aid Victim's Kin

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A check for $4,000 has been sent to the Reeb Family Trust, which is handling donations for the family of slain Unitarian minister James T. Reeb of Boston.

The money was collected by the Birmingham Post-Herald and other Scripps-Howard papers to be used for Reeb's family. It brings to $45,000 the total raised by the campaign so far.

Reeb died in a Birmingham hospital March 11, two days after he was clubbed by a group of white men in Selma where he had participated in a civil-rights demonstration.

FBI Warns Soviet Agents Pose Menace

WASHINGTON (AP) — J. Edgar Hoover has told Congress Soviet secret agents in the United States pose a growing menace.

Unless they are exposed, the FBI chief of 41 years said in a report, they eventually will serve as the nucleus of an extensive, clandestine espionage network.

ENTER U.S. Hoover said spying is heavily augmented by Soviet intelligence agents in virtually every Soviet group that enters the United States — newsmen, diplomats, businessmen, scientists, students and cultural exchange missions.

What's more, Hoover predicted, "there is every likelihood that Chinese Communist intelligence activities in this country will increase in the next few years — particularly if Communist China is recognized by the United Nations and is thereby able to establish a diplomatic mission in this country."

LATEST REPORT Hoover delivered his latest report on the espionage threat in testimony before a House Appropriations subcommittee March 4. It was made public Monday night.

"In regard to the Communist bloc espionage attack against this country, there has been no letup whatsoever," he said. "Our government is about to allow them to establish consulates in many parts of the country which, of course, will make our work more difficult."

A growing problem, he said, "is the extent to which the Soviet intelligence services are dispatching undercover spies into the United States. They are well-trained, professional intelligence officers and usually bear assumed identities and are supplied with expertly fabricated documents and unlimited funds."

"Their detection among the more than 190 million people in this country is a counterintelligence problem of great magnitude."

Check Suspect Is Sent To Abilene

James W. Hanner, 28, arrested here in connection with the writing of worthless checks, was turned over to Abilene officers Monday. Abilene has a forged charge pending against the man, Sheriff Aubrey Standard said. The Howard County cases are misdemeanor complaints.

Standard said that apprehension of Hanner was due to the alertness of a Big Spring merchant and the cooperative help of his worthless check department. The merchant spotted the suspect who had written and cashed several worthless checks here, and the check department cooperated in his arrest.

Did Your Property Suffer HAIL DAMAGE?

If it did... and if you carry Windstorm or Extended Coverage Insurance, the following friendly suggestions are offered to acquaint you with the proper procedure in handling your claim in the speediest possible manner.

1 Look for Amount of the Deductible Clause In Your Own Policy

Most Windstorm and Extended Coverage Policies now contain a deductible clause. Examine your policy and if it contains this clause, check to see if repairs to your property are less than the amount of the deductible clause. If they are less, you will have no claim under your policy.

3 If Possible, Obtain An Accurate Estimate of Your Storm Damage.

If possible obtain an estimate of the cost to repair the damage caused to your property. Such repair estimates must be itemized to include only those damages actually caused by the storm.

2 If Your Loss Is More Than Amount of the Deductible Clause...

Or if Your Policy Does Not Have a Deductible Clause...

Notify your agent and he will report the loss to your insurance company and arrange for an Adjuster to call upon you.

4 Protect Property From Further Damage While Waiting for Adjuster...

Your Local Agent, the Claim Adjuster, and Insurance Companies are all anxious to give you prompt service and settlement. They are working under emergency conditions and will get to you just as soon as possible.

Bill On Odessa College Wins Panel's Okay

AUSTIN (AP)—Bills to create new state senior colleges at Odessa and Texarkana were approved for House debate Monday night by the House State Affairs Committee.

Both bills carry a provision that the central coordinating board for higher education must approve the schools before they can ask a legislative appropriation.

One would make Odessa Junior College into Permian State College. The other would make Texarkana State College from Texarkana Junior College.

The Senate passed on voice vote earlier Monday similar bills to elevate junior colleges at Odessa and Texarkana to the state's 23rd and 24th state-supported senior institutions.

The measures go to the House. Nine senators asked to be recorded against the bill by Sen. Pete Snelson of Midland to create a four-year school at Odessa.

Eight senators were recorded against the bill by Sen. A. M. Aikin of Paris to create a senior college at Texarkana.

Hope Seen For 'Little' Oil Jobber

HOUSTON (AP)—The president of the National Oil Jobbers Council says his industry must expand if it is to meet increasing competition from large integrated oil companies.

W. Tom Jones of Montgomery, Ala., said lagging profits and price wars still are major problems of the independent bulk distributors of petroleum products.

Jones and Otis Ellis, general counsel from Washington, D.C., spoke as the council opened its annual meeting Monday. The session was a preliminary to today's start of the three-day mid-year meeting of the marketing division of the American Petroleum Institute.

VIEW WITH GIANTS

"The territorial expansion of some of the large integrated companies over the past few years has thrown many of us into direct competition with these corporate giants the first time," Jones said.

"Blinded by a desire for volume and blessed with a seemingly limitless treasury, they are formidable competitors."

"They are bidding for, and getting, long term supply contracts with commercial accounts for prices no jobber can match. They are driving real estate values up out of sight."

Jones said he did not see how the large companies can expect a profit on such excessively expensive commitments.

"I think in the long run the drain on their pocketbooks will be sufficient to make them understand their foolishness," he said. "Then they will somehow have to find a way to sanity in markets where they've overextended themselves — or get out of them."

GOOD ACCOUNT

"Meanwhile, jobbers can give a good account of themselves in direct competition with major companies by exploiting the new comers' weakness — limited knowledge of the local market, inflexibility and absentee management."

"Every indicator points toward a future that will be marked by high volume operations, with low per unit profit. Jobbers must do more than hold on to gallonage — they must hold on to market share. This means expansion."

Ellis said he is convinced jobbers will be forced to seek some form of government aid or assistance if such problems as gasoline price wars are to be overcome.

"I do not believe the question is whether you should go to government for relief, but the question now posed is when will you go and for what form of relief," Ellis said.

Humphrey Visits Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The public was afforded only a fleeting glimpse of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey as police imposed strict security for his Dallas visit Monday.

Humphrey came to speak at a luncheon meeting of financial supporters of the Democratic party. He briefed contributors on a wide range of subjects, including Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

Police met Humphrey's commercial airline flight and quickly transferred him to a limousine.

The vice president was driven to a downtown hotel for the luncheon, from which the public and press were barred. Police were stationed on nearby rooftops and in office building windows. Some officers in the motorcade carried shotguns.

OK Fast On Teacher Pay Compromise

AUSTIN (AP)—Senators quickly passed a compromise teacher pay raise bill Monday and again may stave off today the anguish of redistricting themselves.

Part of the compromise by Gov. Connally and backers of the Texas State Teachers Association reportedly included Connally's promise to "twist the heads of some House members" as one senator put it, over Senate enlargement.

A plea for more delay to solve the enlargement matter was expected today, but it may be contested.

Oil Purchaser Bill Gets OK

AUSTIN (AP)—The Senate approved on voice vote Monday a bill bringing independent oil purchasers under the same Railroad Commission authority as major oil purchasers.

The measure goes to the House.

The bill was supported in committee hearings by the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association whose spokesmen said recent instances of discrimination in pipeline prorations emphasized the need for the bill.

Hard feelings came over redistricting when Sen. Louis Crump of San Saba laid out last week recommendations of his redistricting subcommittee. Unhappiness with Crump's plan brought together a majority of senators to back a revival plan by Sen. Ralph Hall of Rockwall, which placed in one district about equal amounts of their old districts.

House committee action was expected on the compromise Teachers Pay Raise bill, which the Senate unanimously approved only minutes after Connally disclosed the agreement.

WIN ARGUMENT

TSTA backers won their argument that Connally's original plan didn't provide enough money for teachers, but he won the vital argument over how it is to be spent.

Leaving little doubt that he would veto both the TSTA bill and a tax bill needed to finance the $405 annual across-the-board raise, Connally won TSTA acceptance of his demands that experienced teachers gain the most from a pay hike.

Wins Honor

Cadet (S. Sgt.) Chester Plummer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cheney L. Plummer, 1900 W. 4th, will receive his junior college diploma in commencement exercises May 21 at Oklahoma Military Academy in Claremore, Okla. He has been named the outstanding English student, and he is listed in the top 10 per cent in military classes.
